Girl Fliers Come Down After 122 Hours In Air

Three Men Crash To Death At Air Meet

Figures In "Phantom Death" Case

Stories Told About Limerick Murder Are Admitted Untrue

Coroner's Jury Investigates Strange Circumstances Of Slaying Of Pretty Theatre Usher At Washington

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—A coroner's jury investigating the strange circumstances surrounding the death of a pretty theater usher heard today that a member of her family had admitted stories he told about the case were false.

The girl is Beulah Limerick who was found dead in bed at the lonely house where she lived with her brother, Vernon, and another youth December 31.

Detective John Flaherty testified that Vernon first told him he accompanied his sister to and from a dance on the night of December 30, but later admitted his statement was false.

Vernon, Flaherty said, and William Paddy who corroborated the brother's first story, averred they told the untruths at the request of Beulah's mother. The detective added that Mrs. Limerick denied making any such request.

The girl's death at first was attributed to natural causes, but at an undertaking establishment a bullet wound was found in her head.

Robert F. Langdon, policeman, who has been detained as a suspect in the case, was at the hearing. He was apparently unconcerned.

The case is the second mystery involving the death of a woman in Washington within the past year. Mary Baker, navy department employe, was shot to death last spring and her slayer was never apprehended.

Fruits Of Pro Work Revealed

Seizure Of Four Million Gallons Of Beer and 711,000 Gallons Of Liquor In Six Months Made Known

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. —(AP)— The seizure of more than 4,000,000 gallons of beer and 711,000 of liquor was made known today by prohibition Director Woodcock as the fruit of federal enforcement during his six months regime as the nation's dry chief.

This announcement followed closely the departure from Washington of two more members of the Wickersham law enforcement commission, with both indicating their own prohibition problem had ended and the solutions to be offered by the commission were nearing the start of their journey to the White House.

Only six of the members remained in the capital and at least four were working on other phases of the commission's crime investigation. The forecast that the Wickersham report would be out of their hands early next week remained unchanged.

TO QUASH INDICTMENTS

One Defendant Held In Mob Lynching Released

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Jan. 9. (AP)— Impending action to quash federal indictments against over a score of men arrested in connection with the rioting at Chickasha last May, in which a negro was lynched, was indicated today by Acting District Attorney W. F. Rampendahl.

The district attorney ordered Frank R. McClain, one of the defendants, released from jail.

Federal charges were brought and indictments returned in connection with the burning of a national guard truck parked in front of the Grady county jail, in which Henry Argo, negro attack suspect, was confined.

The rioters virtually wrecked the jail and shot and stabbed the negro to death.

Fourth Badly Injured When Ship Crashes

Chicago Men Plunge To Death In Speeding Plane During All-American Air Meet At Miami, Florida, Friday

Little Excitement

Plane Not Entered In Competition; Bodies Lacerated and Scarred Beyond Recognition By Impact

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 9. (AP)—Three men were killed and a fourth was critically injured as a speeding airplane crashed to earth at the All-American air meet here today. The plane was not a race entrant.

The dead: James W. Riddle, 23, Chicago, pilot of the plane; Bob C. Smalley, Chicago; Dr. Harry A. Ware, 43, Chicago.

Dr. A. J. Smalley, 54, Chicago, suffered fractures of both arms, both legs, and his back, with possible internal injuries.

Plane Crashes Down

The fatality occurred early in the afternoon. A black cabin plane in which the quartet rode plunged to the earth 70 feet from number 2 pylon of the 15-mile race course.

They were starting to return to the north after attending the meet, but had been forbidden to leave the municipal airport field by Ray Washburn, operations manager, until after races were concluded.

The radio operator at No. 2 pylon flashed word of the crash to the judge's stand, at first reporting the accident was a collision. He helped extricate the dead and injured from the demolished plane. The engine was buried deep in the soft muck land, and the body of Smalley had to be dug out. The bodies were scarred and lacerated almost beyond identification.

Little excitement was occasioned as ambulances sped behind the gallery of 7,500 spectators. Judges ordered the next race run at once and no announcement of the tragedy was made at the field.

Man And Wife Die In Crash

Automobile Struck By Train Near Ranger; Wreckage Is Strewn Along Track For Quarter Of Mile Friday

(By The Associated Press)

RANGER, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Davenport were killed instantly today when their automobile was struck by a Texas and Pacific passenger train at a grade crossing near here. Parts of the automobile were strewn along the track for a quarter of a mile.

Davenport was fire and police commissioner of Ranger during the oil boom 10 years ago, when a village of 400 persons was transformed into a city of 40,000 almost overnight.

Lately he had been devoting his time to farming and his place, only a short distance from where he and his wife lost their lives, was one of the most modern in the county.

Says Jake Lingle Predicted Death

DENVER, Jan. 9. (AP)—Thomas H. Lingle of San Francisco, brother of Alfred E. (Jake) Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter who was slain last June 9, told Denver newspapermen today his brother unwittingly predicted his death a short time before he was shot down.

"Alfred had information Chicago was to be rocked by its biggest murder," one that would blast officialdom and be the case of a campaign to clean up the city at any cost," Thomas Lingle said. "Although he refused to disrespect confidences he said he knew the 'mob' that was to do the killing, the approximate date on which it would take place, and the reason—because the proposed victim knew too much.

"All he did not know was that his gangsters confidants had withheld the information that he was to be the victim."

Authorize Sub Committees In Job Campaign

Groups Will Be Assigned To Confer With Public Groups Here To Work Out Means Of Alleviating Unemployment

Sub-committees were authorized Friday morning at a meeting of Emergency Employment committee in chamber of commerce offices. Personnel of the sub-groups will be announced later.

The sub-committees will be assigned to confer with public groups to work out means of alleviating unemployment. Men's and women's teams this week canvassed residential and business sections of the city to obtain pledges of jobs for Lubbock residents without work. Complete reports from the teams are expected today.

To Be Of Assistance

Committeemen of the Emergency Employment corps pointed out that there was no intention of overstepping into the bounds of public groups, but that it was believed members of the committee could be of assistance to those organizations in designing programs which would contribute to unemployment relief.

The city, board of education, the county, Texas Technological college and others probably will be approached in connection with possible programs of improvements, repair, alterantion and construction, it was indicated.

"We do not know that any of the agencies mentioned can economically start any work now," the program-report of the Emergency Relief committee read.

BACHELOR IS ROBBED

Marshall Man Bound, Gagged And Tortured By Men

MARSHALL, Jan. 9. (AP) — Jodie A. Ward, 75, bachelor who lives alone west of here, was bound, gagged, tortured and robbed of about $300 at his home by two men and a boy last night.

Ward said he was confronted by the robbers when he answered a knock on his door about 8 a. m. He said they immediately demanded his money and when he refused to give it to them they bound him to a rocking chair, where they gagged and blind-folded him.

When he held out against divulging the hiding place of his money, hot irons were applied to the bottom of his feet, he told officers. After suffering intense pain he finally gave in and the men took the money, in currency, from between mattresses on Ward's bed.

Avalanche Of Bills Are To Be Submitted

Peace and Quiet Not Expected; Much Difficulty Seen With Proposal For State-Wide Highway Bond Issue

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—It appeared certain tonight that an avalanche of bills will descend as soon as opening formalities of the 42nd legislature are over.

Owing to uncertainty as to the rules that will govern under the 120-day session plan, most legislators planned to submit their bills early. The 120-day plan provided for introduction of bills the first 30 days, committee hearings the second 30 and the last 60 for debate and final action.

Opposition Likely

That the session would not be one of peace and quiet was almost a foregone conclusion, with much of the difficulty expected from the proposal, recommended by the state highway commission and advocated by Ross S. Sterling, governor-elect, to submit a statewide bond issue of not more than $200,000,000 to place the highway department on a stabilized income. Pre-session discussion indicated a clear-cut difference of opinion on the question.

Legislation centering around regulation of truck, bus and automobile traffic on the state highways is expected to play a prominent part. A meeting of the state division of the American Automobile association was scheduled to discuss several proposals, including a drivers' license law. Among bills was one draft-

Experimental Station Asked

Texas Legislature Will Be Requested To Establish New State Farm In Panhandle On Typical Wheat Land

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Jan. 9.—The Texas legislature will be asked at the nearing session to pass a bill authorizing the board of directors of the A. and M. college to establish a major regional state experiment station "to be located in the Panhandle region of Texas, and on typical wheat land soil and representative of the region it is established to serve," and appropriate the sum of $150,000 for the purchase of land and equipment.

This decision was reached today after a conference here between representatives of every portion of the area affected, and A. B. Conner, director of state experiment stations, College Station, who came here by special request to advise with proponents of the bill.

A permanent executive committee was named.

Money In Circulation During 1930 In This Country Increased $26,000,000

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Money in circulation in this country increased $26,000,000 during 1930.

The circulation statement of the treasury showed today that on December 31, $4,890,000,000 was going the rounds. A year previous it amounted to $4,864,000,000.

The holidays brought $230,000,000 additional into circulation. The amount on November 30 totaled $4,660,000,000. The season increased the per capita circulated from $37.59 to $39.41 on December 31.

Total money in the country on December 31 was $8,713,137,582 which compared with $8,732,677,064 a year before. Of the total on December 31, $4,592,871,268 was in gold coin or bullion. The treasury held $4,052,328,593, of which $3,517,997,329 was in gold coin or bullion.

Federal reserve banks and agents held $2,051,443,291, of which $706,385,471 was in gold coin or bullion.

Solons Demand Reconsidering Of Commission

President Hoover Requested To Return Nominations Of Members Of Power Group To Senate For Action

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The senate tonight voted to reconsider its confirmation of three members of the new power commission and requested President Hoover to return the nominations.

The nominations of Chairman George Otis Smith, of Maine, and Commissioners Claude L. Draper, of Wyoming, and Marcel Garsaud, of Louisiana, were brought up in the senate again on motion of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana. He contended they had dismissed Solicitor Charles A. Russell and Chief Accountant William V. King "for doing their duty."

Friends of President Hoover have indicated he will refuse to return the nominations. If he does, impeachment is the lone course then open to senate advocates of removal of the commissioners.

The senate's action is believed to be the first of its kind in history. Old records have failed to disclose a previous case in which the senate has voted to reconsider the nominations of officers who have already been sworn into office.

PROSPECT GLOOMY

Unemployment May Extend To 650,000 In Britain

LONDON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Today's developments in the labor disputes of two Great British industries, coal and cotton, developed the gloomy probability of extended unemployment for about 650,000 workers with resultant hardship for three or four times that number of women and children dependents.

Hope was bright this morning for a settlement of the South Wales coal stoppage affecting 140,000 men, but a "peace" meeting at Cardiff, Wales, finally broke up over different interpretations of a single phrase and the mines will remain closed at least until next week. Work was stopped in them New Year's day over disputes concerning wages and hours.

MARSHALL, Jan. 9. (AP)— A proposal to establish a branch of the federal intermediate credit bank in East Texas was endorsed by directors to the chamber of commerce here today.

Another Food Loan Proposal Is Submitted

No Signs Of Immediate Action Seen; Similar Measure On House Sidetrack; LaFollette Flays Administration

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — With one food loan fund waiting on a house sidetrack, another was loaded on a legislative conveyance today in the senate in the hope that the other branch of congress might be prevailed on to give it a clear signal.

No signs of this were immediately apparent in the house, however. Leaders there had made no attempt today to gain an agreement to send the general drouth loan measure to conference to smooth out the differences over the food provisions. Three previous attempts have failed.

Senator Caraway of Arkansas, the democrat who sponsored the amendment already in dispute, offered another to provide $15,000,000 for food loans. This one was proposed to the deficiency appropriation bill, already passed by the house, and would have to take the same course as his previous amendment to allow the same amount. Under the rules the proposal must lay over for a day.

Caraway's move was made after Senator LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, had assailed the administration for "failing" to provide adequately for drouth and unemployment relief. He read reports of unemployment distress in many cities which he said showed the greatest suffering was in small communities where there was insufficient wealth to care for the needs.

SEARCH FOR BANDITS

Creek Bottoms Are Combed for Texas Bank Robbers

CENTER, Jan. 9. (AP) — Shelby county officers, assisted by a state ranger, today continued to comb the bottoms of Flat Fork creek between Teneha and Center in search of three bandits who robbed the Cotton Belt State bank of Timpson of about $4,000 yesterday afternoon.

A posse which had searched virtually all night resumed its manhunt at day break today. It was believed the trio had another car awaiting them when they abandoned the stolen automobile used in the robbery.

Early tonight the county jail at Center had received no word from Sheriff Jim O'Banion who was leading the posse in person.

Proposed Educational Laws Are Supported By Teachers

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. (AP)—Reaffirmation of support of proposed educational legislation and the selection of Amarillo as the meeting place of the 1931 Texas State Teachers' association convention were made at the meeting of the executive committee here today.

Bills drafted to be presented at the 42nd legislature were acted on at the afternoon session. The legislation includes a continuance of a tax survey begun four years ago; the empowering of the state board of education to employ the state superintendent of public instruction and to control certification of teachers, and the taking of steps toward establishment of a teacher retirement fund.

Endurance Hop Is Brought To An Abrupt End

Flight Manager Says That He Ordered Bobbie Trout And Edna May Cooper To Land Because Of Low Flying

No Motor Trouble

Former Sustained Flight Record Almost Tripled By Two Girls In California; Citizens Make Protest

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—The endurance flight of Bobbie Trout and Edna May Cooper was brought to an abrupt end at 5:20 p. m. (PST) tonight after 122 hours 20 minutes of continuous flight. Joseph Martin, flight manager, said he ordered the girls to land.

Martin said his decision was based upon the belief the department of commerce would object to the girls flying as low as they found necessary. He said citizens of Inglewood, near the municipal airport, were circulating petitions of protest addressed to department officials.

Denies Motor Trouble

Martin denied motor trouble, evidence of which were present this afternoon, had caused the flight's unexpected end.

The girls lacked but three hours 58 minutes of tripling the former women's endurance record of 42 hours, 16 minutes set by Miss Trout and Elinor Smith of New York.

Miss Trout was at the controls when the ship glided to a good landing. Upon clamboring out of the cabin she said she was a little "ground shy" after having flown in circles too long.

Miss Cooper admitted in spite of Martin's statement, that motor trouble caused them to give up. The motor had been smoking all afternoon, as could be seen from the ground.

The girls had said as early as 7:10 this morning when they made the first refueling contact today, they saw the end was near. They said smoke began to fill the cabin of the plane and later noticed it was streaming behind the ship. The smoke was first noticed from the ground shortly after dawn.

Cox Is Freed In Mail Fraud Case

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. (AP)—Seymour E. J. Cox, who already had served three years of an eight-year sentence assessed in 1923 when he was convicted along with Dr. Frederick Cook, noted artic explorer, was acquitted of mail fraud by a jury in United States district court today.

After serving three years at Fort Leavenworth prison, Cox was paroled but was indicted again in connection with operation of an oil development enterprise the government charged was designed to swindle investors.

Roger D. Mooney, tried jointly with Cox on the charge, also was acquitted. Mooney testified that Cox was in no way connected with the enterprise and assumed full responsibility for conduct of the company.

Baby Held In Lieu Of Baggage For Room And Board Bill, Mother Charges

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 9.—Alleging her 16-months old baby was being held in lieu of baggage for a $46 room and board bill, Mrs. Marie Noel, 25, sought aid of the courts today in recovering the child.

She filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, accusing Mrs. Flora Hinze, rooming house operator, of keeping the baby, a girl, as security for payment of the debt.

Mrs. Hinze was ordered by Judge S. J. Clendinning to bring the child into common pleas court tomorrow for a hearing on the mother's petition.

The young mother, divorced from the child's father, said she had been without employment recently and had fallen behind in payment for room and board. Yesterday, she related, she started to take the baby with her in search of work but Mrs. Hinze refused to give up the child.

"When you get the money and pay me you can take the baby", the mother quoted Mrs. Hinze as saying.

Asked about the matter, Mrs. Hinze said: "the mother owes me $46. She left home supposedly to try to get the money and I kept the child. I was trying to bluff her into paying me. I'll explain everything in court."

First Year Of Baby's Life Foreshadows Later Life

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 — The first year of a baby's life, when scientifically recorded with a motion picture camera, foreshadows his later life. The picture method which hints the future was exhibited publicly for the first time tonight.

The films were developed at Yale university and were explained in a communication from Arnold Gesell director of the clinic of child development, at a lecture sponsored by the psychological corporation at the New York Academy of Medicine.

Beginning at about the age of two months, Mr. Gesell said, the babies are placed once a month in a hemispherical photigraphic dome where they can not see the observers or the motion picture cameras. Little red cubes, balls, strings and bells intrigue them into doing their human-development stuff for the movies.

"The studies at Yale show the individual differences in capacity, emotional characteristic, personality traits and body type declare themselves early .

"These differences are comparable in kind and degree to those observed later in life.

"Many of the differences are due to innate or constitutional factors and are not the direct result of experience or conditioning. The extreme views of behaviorism with regard to infant conidtioning are not borne out by careful experimental observations of individual infants and of identical twins.

Lubbock Audience Pleased With "Sob Sisters," Written And Produced Here

IT IS NOT often that Lubbock patrons of the drama are permitted to witness a production of strictly local inspiration, from manuscript to finale. Such, however, was the three-act play, "Sob Sisters," presented in the high school auditorium last night by the Community Players. Written by David Dallas and staged under the direction of the author and his wife, Nydia Dallas, the three act dramatic comedy held a good-sized audience in rapt attention with its tense situations, interesting dialogue and effervescing comedy.

In fact, Mr. Dallas as Bob Star, reporter, Texas ranger and secretly in the service of the Federal government, who wipes out a deeply entrenched dope ring in Hollywood, just about ran away with the show with his part, which ran the gamut of emotion, from blithesome clowning to sheer stark tragedy. Mr. Dallas is somewhat of a combination of George M. Cohan and Harold Lloyd, and the mixture is not at all an unhappy one.

Nydia Dallas, as Mamie Walker, had the other principal part, a difficult one to which her smooth professional talents were especially suit-

Concerning Jimmie Allred

IF IT IS NOT out of order at this time when he has yet to assume his first state office, The Morning Avalanche opines that James V. Allred, of Wichita Falls, will likely go far in Texas politics.

The youthful attorney-general, who swept from his path that veteran of public service, Robert E. Lee Bobbitt, during the campaigns of the past summer, has already reached Austin and has announced, in no mistakable tones, that he's all ready for business. Mr. Allred, who has told his assistants to call him "Jimmie" instead of the more formal "general," will make no speeches and will attend no social functions until his work is under way. He has made a hit with those who crave labor in public office and is off, if you please, to a flying start.

For the benefit of those who have already forgotten, The Morning Avalanche did not support Mr. Allred in his campaign for the attorney-generalship. As we said before the election, we thought Mr. Bobbitt was entitled to an elective term to top off the appointive tenure that he was filling, courtesy of Governor Moody. We said, frankly, that while we chose to support Mr. Bobbitt we expected to see Mr. Allred carry not only Lubbock county but the entire South Plains.

We hewed to the line, supported Mr. Bobbitt and the voters supported our contention. They marched to the polls and gave Mr. Allred a tidy, nay, an overwhelming majority as that personable youngster marched to Austin.

Regardless of our stand during election time—and if the primaries were to be held over we'd still support Mr. Bobbitt—The Morning Avalanche sees in Mr. Allred a young man who will write much political history in Texas. He has the ability to wage an aggressive campaign. He has many friends. He possesses the vitality of youth and the determination of promise. If he makes a good attorney-general the chances are he'll go far up the ladder in this lifetime of ours.

Don't be surprised if some day you see the name of James V. Allred on the ballot under the listing "For Governor", or "For United States Senator." And remember that this comes from a paper which was not nor yet is on the Allred bandwagon. Our opinions, unswayed by prejudice, are based upon what is most likely to happen.

STERILE GOLD

Just what effect concentration of gold reserves in the United States and France has on world economic conditions not even the economists know with certainty, but nations with depleted gold reserves think it has much to do with them and are most insistent in their pleas for wider distribution. From their viewpoint, it is the only thing that can save them from bankruptcy. Apparently, those who are holding the gold think differently.

The world supply of gold is $10,688,000,000, of which the United States, France and England hold $6,673,000,000 and the rest of the world $3,995,000,000. Together the United States and France have $5,905,000,000 of this supply.

Economists consider all gold reserves as "sterilized." Therefore, say the other nations, France and America are to blame for the world depression by producing a state of "excessive sterilization." England and Germany complain that they are forced to pay national and uprivate debts in goods at depreciated prices and on an inflated gold rate of exchange, which means that more goods are required to pay debts. The creditors reap the benefits.

Australia, with resources in gold in the raw, is more fortunate than some of the others. She will replenish her depleted supply of gold by encouraging increased outputs in her mines, offering a bonus of $5 per ounce for all gold produced in excess of last year's production. With more gold she will no longer be at a disadvantage in international trade.

Practical Health Problems

NOTED EXPERT SAYS NO ONE EVER IS IN PERFECT HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

A person in perfect health should be relatively unaware of his body.

As defined by W. R. P. Emerson, the word "health" is generally accepted to mean a condition of the body free from physical disease. It seems doubtful, however, that any human being is at any time absolutely free from pathologic changes in his body.

Careful records kept in thousands of post-mortem examinations, including people suddenly killed by accident, reveal abnormalities in every case. It would be a mistake, however, to consider a man sick merely because of minor degenerative changes going on in the tissues in his body.

Certain signs indicate physical fitness as contrasted with other signs which mark the absence of health. A man who is physically fit has a clear eye, good color, and a happy expression. He breathes through his nose and keeps his mouth shut. His teeth are free from pyorrhea and from cavities. His skin is clear, firm and elastic.

The muscles should respond readily to action, the posture should be erect with the chin and shoulders square, and the man should stand tall. His gait should be springy and alert. The arches of the feet should be sufficient to support the body without flatness. The weight should be the best weight for the height as determined by standard charts.

As everyone knows, the most common greeting is a question concerning one's health. In the same way, the most frequently paid compliment is one congratulating the person on the fact that he looks well.

In contrast to the picture of health is the appearance of illness. The eyes of the sick man lack luster and are dull. His face is drawn and underneath his eyes there are lines, puffiness and darkness. The mouth is held open, the teeth may be defective and the hair rough and dry. The skin of the sick man is without resilience and his muscles are flabby.

The sick man drags his feet when he walks, his shoulders droop and he presents the picture of sickness. So far as his weight is concerned, he may be far overweight or underweight. He shuns the outdoor air and he responds to every stimulation in either an exaggerated or subnormal manner. In contrast to the happy appearance of the man who is well, the sick man seems discontented and unhappy.

Democrats Define Party

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—As between Democrats and Republicans I have questioned lately the former are somewhat readier with their definitions of a Democrat, in contra-distinction to a Republican, than are the latter in defining a Republican, in contra-distinction to a Democrat.

This implies no cloudiness on the subject in G. O. P. minds; they recognize a difference but are not quite so pat at expressing it.

That they do recognize a difference is evident from the Illinois senator, Otis F. Glenn's recent admission that, while today he considers President Hoover a splendid Republican, he was not at all satisfied with his Republicanism a few years ago, nor even when he entered the White House. Obviously, then, the Prairie State stalwart not only can tell pronounced Republican and Democratic types apart; he senses intermediate gradations, and changes by degrees.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR ROBERT H. LUCAS of the Republican national committee has been panned a-plenty for confessing that he judges an individual's politics by the ticket he supports in campaign time and on election day.

Yet there are Democrats whose test seems identical with Bob Lucas'.

Illustratively, it will be recalled that, when Frank R. McNinch was named as one of the legally-required Democratic members of the new federal power commission, the Democratic senator-elect from his home state of North Carolina, Josiah W. Bailey, fought his confirmation on the ground that he was not a Democrat because he opposed Al Smith in 1928.

TO ME IT would appear that a principle or two ought to be involved, if a party means anything.

Representative Willis C. Hawley of Oregon says I am right about it.

Than Representative Hawley there is no abler authority or stauncher Republican. After a quarter of a century in congress, he is chairman of the immensely powerful ways and means committee, which frames all revenue-raising legislation. The 1930 protective tariff law bears his name—the Hawley-Smoot act, with the highest import tax rates in the world's history.

"Well, what IS a Republican?" I asked him.

"THE REPUBLICAN party," replied the Oregonian, "as evolved in the last 70 years, is devoted to the development and upbuilding of our country; to the fostering, encouragement and protection of our industries and agriculuture; to the prosperity of our people.

"A Republican indorses this program.

"And I must say," added the congressman, "that I consider his support of his party's candidates about the most convincing proof of his loyalty."

WHEREAS THE house of representatives' ways and means committee attends to raising the government's money, its appropriations committee plans how to spend it. They are congress' two most important committees.

Just as Representative Hawley is senior Republican member and therefore chairman of the ways and means committee, Representative Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee is senior Democratic member and chairman-to-be of the appropriations committee, should his party muster sufficient strength at the next congressional session to control the almost evenly-balanced popular chamber.

"What's a Democrat?" I asked Representative Byrns.

"A REAL DEMOCRAT," said the Tennesseean, "exalts human rights. Property's rights are a secondary consideration with him.

"A Republican——"

(As previously intimated the Democratic interpretation of Democracy includes a contrasting Democratic interpretation of Republicanism.)

"A Republican exalts property's rights at the expense of humanity's.

"The Democratic aim is to govern for the people's benefit, without prejudice to the accumulation of wealth but with no advantage of especial privileges. The Republican aim is to goven for the benefit of the rich, trusting to their goodness of heart not to be greedy."

"Pooh!" quoth Representative Hawley, in rebuttal. "We have no permanently rich and poor in America. The Republicans govern for the benefit of everyone."

But all this had failed to solve the problem:

What is Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska?

Though perhaps Representative Hawley's comment had excluded the Nebraskan as a Republican, Representative Byrns' had not necessarily admitted him as a Democrat.

I had to fall back on a seven-word size-up of progressive-ism which I once had from the then Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, in response to a request I had made of him, as a Democratic presidential possibility, for a summary of Jeffersonian doctrines.

It much resembled Representative Bryns', Republican comparison and all.

"And how," I queried, "do you classify Republicans like Senator Norris?"

"As honest men on the wrong side," said the Missouri fire-eater.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A DONKEY DISCOVERED A MINE.—The two prospestors, O'Rourke and Kellogg, discovered the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine at Kellogg, Idaho, while searching for their lost donkey. The animal was found standing on a great outcropping of silver-lead ore, which became the location of what is claimed to be the greatest silver-lead mine in the United States. The status of the donkey as the official discoverer of the mine was legally adjudicated by Judge Norman Buck, of the District Court of Idaho in 1885. As the prospectors had only borrowed the donkey, the real owner of the animal obtained title to half interest in this most lucrative property, which has paid a total of more than $43,000,000 in dividends to date. "BIG BEN" IS NOT THE NAME OF THE HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT CLOCK.—The clock in the Tower of the House of Parliament in London derives its sobriquet "big Ben" from the bell which strikes the hour. That bell was christened "Saint Stephen." "Big Ben" was originally a humorous suggestion by a member of Parliament, who was impressed with the enormous size and girth of Sir Benjamin Hall, president of the board of public works, who carried out the plans of the architects in 1851. In time the association of Sir Benjamin's name with the bell and clock more and more obscured the fact that the true and canonical name of both objects was "Saint Stephen."

HENRY STEWART WALKED 100,000 MILES.—"Walking" Stewart, a Scotchman who was born in London in 1749 and died in 1821, was a man of ecentric habits. In his lifetime he walked 100,000 miles. He covered most of Asia on foot in his famous walk from London to India, besides Germany, Italy, France, Turkey and Scotland. At one time he held the post of Minister to the Nabob of Arcot, and upon the ruler's death was paid a legacy of $50,000.

Murder At Bridge

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The chief suspects in the murder of JUANITA SELIM, shot at a bridge party by a gun belonging to JUDGE MARSHALL, her landlord to whom she paid no rent, are: FLORA MILES, in Nita's closet at the time of the murder reading a note which she thinks is from her husband; DEXTER SPRAGUE, who wrote that note, and who knew Nita in New York and came to Hamilton at her suggestion; and LYDIA, the maid.

Lydia says she loved Nita, and is showing SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR DUNDEE presents Nita gave her when TRACEY MILES, one of the guests, returns to take Lydia to his home, if he may. Dundee tells her of this, and reads Nita's will, leaving everything to Lydia, which shows Nita's fear of death, and gives Lydia additional motive. Lydia knows nothing of the $10,000 Nita desposited since she came to Hamilton.

Dundee learns from Lydia that Nita went out with RALPH HAMMOND in love with her and missing from the party, Thursday night, and Friday night, the night she made her will, saw Sprague, who left her upset. Dundee asks Miles if he saw Ralph at Nita's house that morning, and what was his attitude. Miles says that Ralph seemed a little jealous of his calling on Nita too, but that he couldn't have killed her. Miles and Lydia leave, and Dundee finds that the kitchen door has been unlocked. In the atic, the only hiding place for an intruder, he finds in a bedroom traces of a man having slept there the night before.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

With the thrill of his discovery singing blithely along his nerves, Bonnie Dundee, special investigator for the district attorney, had at first hugged the intention of following the new trail alone. Hadn't Captain Strawn taunted him not too good-naturedly about his ability to get along without the younger man's help?

But he was glad, both selfishly and unselfishly, when, half an hour later, he threw open the front door of dead Nita's house to the chief of the homicide squad, Carraway, the fingerprint expert, and the two plainclothesmen who had seached the top floor for the missing weapon or the murderer himself soon after the murder had been committeed. For if Strawn needed his—Dundee's—help, he needed the expert machinery which Strawn captained. And it was good to feel the grip of gratitude in the old chief's handclasp and to see the almost shy twinkle of apology in his hard old gray eyes.

Dundee led the way up the front stairs to the upper floor, glad to hear the heavy tread of official feet behind him.

"I guess you've got it all doped out who the Selim woman's gentleman friend was," Strawn commented genially, as he followed Dundee into the pleasant, big bedroom.

"I believe I have, but I need Carraway to prove my hunch," Dundee acknowledged.

Eagerly, swiftly, he displayed his first tangible finds—the open windows, the drapes smelling of cigaret smoke, the evening paper of the day before, the faint odor and greasiness of barber's pomade upon the pillow case of the bed, which had clearly been slept in since the linen was changed.

"Now, Collins—Harmon—" Dundee whirled upon the two silent plainclothesmen, "I want to know what you saw in these rooms when you searched them early this evening that you don't see now. You looked into the closet and drawers, of course?"

"Yes, sir," Collins answered. "And they was all empty, Dundee. Me and Harmon didn't spend time smelling pillow cases, and I admit we didn't pay no attention to that there newspaper—"

"Empty!" Dundee echoed. "Are you sure? . . You, too, Harmon?"

"What are you driving at, boy?" Captain Strawn asked indulgently.

Briefly, with disappointment flattening his voice, Dundee told of his finding the kitchen door ajar, after he had made sure it was locked.

To Investigate Lubbock Fires

Investigator Of State Fire Insurance Commission Says Arson Complaints May Be Filed In Blazes Here

Describing the principal purpose of his visit to Lubbock as a thorough investigation of reecnt conflagrations of undetermined origin here, T. F. Justiss, investigator for the state fire insurance commission, of Austin, Friday indicated that complaints possibly will be filed here in connection with several fires.

"I realize that it is very hard to get evidence which might lead to filing of complaints against parties responsible," Mr. Justiss stated, "but, in cooperation with your local officials, I intend to make a thorough examination and investigation of several fires here. It is highly possible that some complaints may result."

To Hold Inquiry Court

City officials announced Friday that a court of inquiry will be held on every fire which occurs within the city limits. The court will investigate the amount of insurance carried, by whom it was written and the origin of the blaze. Personnel of the body will be made up of the city fire marshal, fire chief, chief of police, building inspector and city manager.

It is also understood that the city commission will act on a proposal in the near future to post a $1,000 arson reward.

Suggestion has been made and probably will be carried out, that every agent in Lubbock make a list of all insurance his company carries and file this information at a central point and from that a tabulation will be made on the total amount carried in the city.

HARD WORKING TIMBER MAN

Tells How He Was Relieved of Blinding Headaches by Taking Black-Draught.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—"I have been a user of Black-Draught for about twenty-four years, and it is about the only medicine I take at all," says Mr. Edgar Gamble, of 114 Fowler Avenue, this city.

"If I have the headache or feel the need of a purgative, I take Black-Draught. It is easy to take and quick to relieve.

"I used to have dull headaches. My eyes would burn and when I would stoop over I seemed to turn blind. This isn't much of a good feeling when one has to work, and I have had to work hard in my time, being a timber man. This work takes me from home a good deal and one never likes to get sick, especially away from home. I found the best way to avoid this was to take an occasional dose of Black-Draught, and keep the system cleansed.

"I tell all it is a splendid, reliable medicine."

Dance Is To Be Predominating Affair Among Social Events Toda

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

MY OPINION of an ideal office is one in which people know how to spell words in the English language. I wonder if others are like this one.

"How do you spell porridge?" the editor calls over the general uproar, and, deep in problems of my own, I answer "porrage" without thinking. There is an immediate protest from a half-dozen contemporaries and an argument over i's and e's which must be settled at the dictionary. By that time some one wants to know the spelling of Semitic and there is a general comparison of opinions again.

During the last few hours, I've been appealed to for the spelling of infectious and contagious, sergeant-at-arms and I canvassed the office for the spelling of beautification—it wasn't in the dictionary, or if it was, the spelling is different from any way that I can imagine it.

There is one thing I can't understand and that is why we ask each other the spelling of words in this office because a dispute usually arises and we go to the dictionary for proof in the end. But the same plan is followed daily by all in the editorial department. If I had known that I was going to have use for so many words when I was in the elementary grades, I think I should have taken my spelling more seriously.

That sounds as platitudinous as all of these other things that school children hear from the age of six. But, actually, there is a lot of truth in all of these axioms, however I suppose the average person must live to learn that schooling is in reality a preparatory thing and not some sort of drudgery invented by adults to keep children employed.

THE NEW SCARVES

PRINTED linen scraves in Ascot style add a note of chic to smart sports costumes, according to a current style notice. These scarves either emphasize the dominating color note of the suit, or are in contrast.

WHY THEY'RE SELFISH

THE reason many of the so-called younger generation are selfish and self-centered is that they do not have the benefits of the socializing influence of large families that their ancestors had, according to some psychologist.

Today's child knows the family as a small unit comprised of his father and mother and brothers and sisters. The child of long ago knew the family as this unit with the addition of grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins and various other relatives who, lacking a home of their own, came to live together. Since relatives are seldom entirely congenial, the child of yesterday learned to give consideration to older people without question and learned tolerance lessons which are lost to the child of today.

There is probably some truth in that and I do think that older people are due consideration, but there is probably a happy medium between selfishness and the unquestioned consideration that some older relatives are apt to demand.

It seems to me that a constant family reunion is not necessary in order to teach a child tolerance and respect.

IN WASHING DISHES

DID YOU know that gold decorated china is not supposed to be washed in strong soap suds because this will eat the gold off?

ON BEING FEMININE

PEOPLE are always wasting a lot of time in discussion of whether or not women should assume masculine qualities in order to succeed in business. The other day some one was writting on the subject, suggesting that women must discard all emotionalism, in order to succeed; that must pocket her finer sensibilities and cultivate, instead, shrewdness, sharpness, cool courage often amounting to boldness and exchange her passive role for an active one.

That all sounds very well, but I an not convinced that these things are necessary for success at all. Women can succeed and retain their "finer sensibilities"—if I know what finer sensibilities are. She must, certainly, assume some sort of an active role but I can't see that success is ever gained in any line if one is too passive.

* * *

People with all sorts of characteristics have succeeded and, aside from certain elemental things such as interest and work and ability, I think that very few characteristics can be pointed out as milestones on the road to success.

Of course, beliefs like this may account for my lack of success!

Electrocution Plans Pushed

Would Send Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis Gangster, To The Electric Chair For Murder Of Alfred Lingle

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Plans to put Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gangster, in the electric chair as the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter, were pushed today while reports were circulated that Brothers had confessed the crime. There was no official confirmation of these reports, and State's Attorney John A. Swanson said he was not prepared either to confirm or deny them.

A definite announcement was made, however, by Charles F. Rathbun, special assistant state's attorney in charge of the Lingle investigation, and Patrick Roche, chief investigator for Swanson, that an immediate trail for Brothers will be asked by the state. Authorities said nine witnesses had identified Brothers as Lingle's slayer.

Seek "Higher Ups

The "higher-ups" in the case—the men who had the motive for causing Lingle to be shot to death last June 9 as he walked through a tunnel toward a suburban railroad station—were being sought. Rumors prevailed that their arrests were expected momentarily.

It was learned that at least four men were wanted. There were reports that these included James "Red" Forsythe and Simon Gordon, both reputed racketeers.

Forsythe once was named as Lingle's slayer. Both he and Gordon are also wanted as fugitives from justice under an affirmed sentence of one year for carrying concealed weapons.

Brothers was held in custody in a secret hiding place while the investigators worked for additional details which, Special Assistant Attorney Rathbun said, would have to be withheld from the public to prevent complications in the investigation. He indicated, however, that the authorities know the motive back of the assassination. meanwhile the old report that Lingle met death because he harrassed a north side gambling syndicate recurred.

Information that a St. Louis woman was a close associate of Brothers led to her arrest in St. Louis yesterday. Her name was given as Margaret Farmer, also known by the names of Welsh and Clark. She said she had not been brothers for about two years.

CHARM CHATS

by Nancy Earle

Noted Authority and Writer on Health, Charm and Beauty.

(Miss Earle will be in Lubbock January 26 to 29)

Aunt Hettie grouned. "It's a-going to rain before night and mark what I tell you.

She hobbled heavily over to her own comfortable chair, sank into its burlap recesses, and with a series of Oh's and Ah's that commingled agony and relief, tugged off her shoes.

"You can't fool me!" declared Aunt Hettie. "Them bunions don't make no mistakes, and they can feel a rain a-comin' up for days and days ahead. They been swole up now two days, and they're a-tellin' me there's rain!"

Who of us has not heard the same protestations? One of the chief prophets of weather has for time immemorial been Aunt Hettie's or Uncle Eph's or Ole Miz Munson's bunions. Out our way, that is.

The medical profession of course lends no ear to Aunt Het or Uncle Eph, and would relegate their lore regarding the elements to the vast region of superstition and colloquial mythology. Or perhaps the ponderous fallacy in logic called "post hoc ergo propter hoc" which merely translates into "after this, therefore because of this."

Or to be more specific, Ole Miz Munson's bunions got to hurting her one day something awful. That same evening it rained. A week later—maybe it was at preserving time and she had stood all day with the apple butter—that ole bunion started cutting up again, this time sure enough fierce. And, what do you think? It rained again that night! Who wouldn't have the common horse sense to see that there was a connection between hurting feet and a rain storm coming on?

Miz Munson tells the Tollivers, and Ma Tolliver's bunions hurt one day, too, and she noticed that it rained right afterward. And so on and on. All that began a long time ago, and multiplied ad infinitum is responsible for the connection between the two. According to medical science, that is.

It gets to be a case of Aunt Het versus Esculapius, you see. I have enough respect for that good Father of Medicine to cast my vote for him, but ssssh! Now, for goodness sake don't repeat this, but! Do you know it so often happens, really! Just before a rainstorm, would you believe it! My feet! Oh, terrible!.

A bunion is a disordered joint. It is caused by one thing, and by one thing only, and that is an ill-fitting shoe. A shoe that is too short presses against the end of the large toe, and literally forces it backward into the shoe. The point is the logical point to "give" and "give" it does.

It seeks to escape the pressure and is mechanically forced out of natural line. In the new position it protrudes from the normal contour, and rubs against the side of the shoe. Inflammation follows. The tissue of the foot endeavor to protect themselves from this abrasion and set up a defense of callouses. Inflammation multiplies.

And you have a bunion.

As the condition persists, the bone structure itself becomes altered. The joint becomes chronically enlarged. As a result the abrasion and inflammation become more and more pronounced, the bunion grows larger and more painful and poor Aunt Hettie has more and more cause to groan.

Once the bunion has definitely developed, and the bone has enlarged there is nothing short of surgery which will restore it to its natural size and shape. A small flap is made by incision, the disproportional protrusion of bone is pared away, and the flap restored.

But when simple relief is the chief concern, the removal of the cause—namely ill-fitting shoes—will be enough. Shoes which are vary wide, which are even unbeautifully wide at first, and which are made of very soft thin leather, should be worn. High heels should be discarded as well.

Some healing antiseptic ointment should be gently applied to the bunion, and the circulation stimulated by foot gymnastics.

Blue New Shade

Midnight blue, one of the new popular shades, is the color of this coat of woolen rep worn by Rita LaRoy, screen player.

It has diagonal lines with an interesting collar and cuffs of white ermine and bows of self material further decorating the cuffs. The coat is cut in one of the new lengths a seven-eighths, with the skirt in flaring styling.

Pumps and turban are of matching shade.

It is a revelation

a little at a time

COFFEE ROASTED IN BULK LACKS THAT RICH, FRAGRANT FLAVOR WHICH IS ALWAYS PRODUCED BY HILLS BROS' PATENTED, CONTINUOUS PROCESS...CONTROLLED ROASTING

OF ALL THE foods and delicacies that come to your table there are few that can inspire your taste like Hills Bros. Coffee. Every sip abounds in fragrant, savory, full-bodied goodness such as you will never find in any other brand.

It's the way Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted that makes it such a joy to drink. Instead of roasting their blend in bulk, Hills Bros. roast only a few pounds at a time. By exact control of heat, every berry is roasted evenly—to that degree where all of the flavor nature gave it is developed to perfection. How different from the bulk-roasting method in which exact flavor-control is impossible!

As fast as Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted and ground, it is packed in vacuum cans that keep it always fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out of the vacuum can. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 11, 1931.
General Topic:
The Childhood of Jesus.
Scripture Lesson:
Luke 2:40-52.

40. And the child grew, and waxed strong, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon him.

41. And his parents went every year to Jerusalem at the feast of the passover.

42. And when he was twelve years old, they went up after the custom of the feast.

43. And when they had fulfilled the days, as they were returning, the boy Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and his parents knew it not;

44. But supposing him to be in the company, they went a day's journey; and they sought for him among their kinsfolk and acquaintances:

45. And when they found him not, they returned to Jerusalem, seeking for him.

46. And it came to pass, after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers, both hearing them, and asking them questions:

47. And all that heard him were amazed at his understanding and his answers.

48. And when they saw him, they were astonished; and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealth with us? behold, thy father and I sought thee sorrowing.

49. And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? Know ye not that I must be in my Father's house?

50. And they understood not the saying which he spake unto them.

51. And he went down with them, Jesus and to which they returned and came to Nazareth; and he was subject unto them; and his mother kept all these sayings in her heart.

52. And Jesus advanced in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and men.

Golden Text: Jesus advanced in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and men. —Luke 2:52.

Time: Jesus was born in December, B. C. 6, the mistake in the calendar being in A. D. 526. The visit to Jerusalem at the age of 12, April, A. D. 8.

Places: Nazareth—a small town in Galilee in which Joseph and Mary lived before the birth of when they came out of Egypt.

Bethlehem—a village about six miles south of Jerusalem. The ancestral home of both Joseph and Mary. Rachel, the wife of Jacob, was buried there.

Here Jesus was born.

Introduction

"Not the least notable achievement of the masterly statesmanship of Augustus was his institution of an imperial census, recurring at regular intervals of fourteen years and comprehending all the subject provinces and tributary kingdom of his far-flung Empire." —Prof. David Smith. Because he was descended from David, Joseph the carpenter of Nazareth came down to David's town of Bethlehem to be enrolled, and he took with him his betrothed, the Virgin Mary. He found the little town so crowded with visitors on the same errand that there was no room for them in the inn, and they had to seek a stable, probably one of the limestone caves of the region, where the Saviour of the world was born, and was tenderly laid on the straw in a rock-hewn manger.

The Announcement To The Shepherds.

A further token of Christ's humility was the choice of workingmen to receive the announcement of his birth, rather than some of the great of the earth. To humble shepherds an angel came bringing them "good tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people," the birth on that very day of "a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord." Then suddenly the sky parted, and a multitude of the heavenly host was seen, their wings shining in the soft light, while on the air descended their birthday greeting to the Son of God:

"Glory to God in the highest degree,
Peace on earth to men of good will."

The shepherds left their sheep in the care of subordinates and hastened to Bethlehem, where they found the manger with the newborn Babe, told their marvelous story, and gave Mary still more to ponder in her heart.

Simeon's Prophecy

"On the fortieth day after the birth of a little boy, when he was nearly six weeks old, he was taken by his parents to the temple to present him to the Lord. The only peace-offering they can give is a pair of turtle-doves, for they are poor. Were they richer folk they would give a lamb."—E. Francis Boulting.

"Jerusalem was the center of Jewish worship and Messianic expectation. We find in the holy city two choice souls in whose rich soil the seed of Messianic hope had flowered into fruition—Simeon and Anna. Simeon lived in the very atmosphere of the Holy Spirit who revealed to him the fact that he would live to see the long-looked for Messiah, the world's Saviour." —Prof. Byron Hoover DeMent. Led by the Spirit to the temple at the hour when Jesus was brought there, he recognized the Babe at once as the Messiah, took the child in his arms, and blessed him with the fourth hymn recorded by Luke, the Nunc Dimittis Luke 2:29-32. He prophesied that Jesus should be "A light for revelation to the Gentiles,

And the glory of thy people Israel."

The Marvel Of The Incarnation.

The doctrine of the incarnation teaches that "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself" (2 Cor. 5:19); that Jesus was perfect God and perfect man, the complete entering of Deity into humanity, for the remission of sins and their atonement, the reunion of the divine and human natures. "We can never hope to comprehend how the infinite God and an infinite humanity can be united in a single person."—Prof. Benjamin B. Warfield. But neither can we hope to understand our own natures, and innumerable mysteries of the physical world, which we know to be true, and by the use of which we live.

"And the child grew, and waxed strong." Luke pictures the physical growth of our Lord. Like John the Baptist, he was an outdoor man. His body was made robust by work with his father in the carpenter's shop of Nazareth. He was able during his ministry to walk incessantly over the toilsome paths of Palestine, enduring many hardships, and working miracles which drew on his physical energies as well as his spiritual powers. The house of life must have three foundations, good health, knowledge, and religion. Jesus's life was undergirt in this triple fashion. "Filled with wisdom." This was the mental training which Jesus received, which consisted almost entirely of the study of the Bible and committing it to memory.

Christ's First Passover. V. 41.

"And his parents went every year to Jerusalem at the feast of the passover." The passover was the great annual commemoration of the Jew's escape from bondage in Egypt, when the death angel passed over the houses of the Israelites, marked with the blood of the passover lamb sprinkled on doorpost and lintel, and went on to destroy all the first-born sons of the Egyptians. The festival began in the evening of the fourteenth day of the month Abib or Nisan, corresponding roughly to our April, and lasted for a week.

"And when he was twelve years old." "At this age a Jew was required to keep the ordinances of his religion. He was now called 'son of the law.'"—New Century Bible. "They went up after the custom of the feast." "The pilgrims from Nazareth slowly wended their way toward Jerusalem, resting at night by the roadside under booths of mats or leafy branches, and starting forward again at sunrise. They joined themselves with other parties on the way, until there was a great concourse journeying on together afoot; while here and there accompanying the procession, were sun-browned shepherds with their flocks of lambs or goats destined for the sacrificial feast." —Clifford Howard.

The Lost Boy. vs. 43-46.

"As they were returning, the boy Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and his parents knew it not." Jerusalem was crowded with about three million pilgrims, among whom it was impossible to keep track of an active lad who had reached an age when he was responsible for himself; and our Lord was a self-reliant person, evidently trusted by his parents to take care of himself. "Early maturity of children is characteristic of the East. A Syrian youth of twelve is more mature than one of that age in American or England. Boys of fifteen and younger marry in the East, while girls seldom wait beyond that age for marriage."—Rev. Edwin W. Rice, D. D.

"But supposing him to be in the company." People of nearby villages travelled together, strung out for a long distance along the narrow paths. "They went a day's journey." About twenty miles. "And they sought for him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance." They naturally assumed that the boy would be with some relative or friend, and the evening encampment gave them their first chance to look for him. "And when they found him not, they returned to Jerusalem, seeking for him." "There would be little sleep for Mary that night, and with the morning light she and Joseph would set off seeking as they went sadly over the yesterday's march."—Alexander Mclaren.

Jesus In The Temple. vs. 46-51.

"After it came to pass after three days." This probably does not mean three days of searching, but after one day spent in going toward Nazareth, one day in returning to Jerusalem, and one day or part of a day spent in hunting for the lost boy. "They found him in the temple." They would naturally look first at their lodging or camping place and in its neighborhood; but, knowing Jesus' delight in the temple, they would not be long in turning their search thither. "Sitting in the midst of the teachers, both hearing them, and asking them questions." Listening to the wise and asking questions of them, of books, and of nature—these are the two ways of becoming wise ourselves. "And all that heard him were amazed at his understanding and his answers." Wisdom is needed to ask a wise question, as those teachers well knew.

The Religious Training Of Children

1. The development of body and mind must accompany the development of the soul.

2. No one of these elements of the complete life must be allowed to withdraw from the others their proper share of attention. For instance, if health is neglected, both mind and soul suffer; and, on the other hand, if athletics and physical sports attract too much attention, as they often do with modern youth, the mind is neglected, and the things of the spirit are quite overlooked.

3. Obedience is the necessary basis of any education worth the name. If the Lord of heaven and earth gladly submitted to the will of two Palestine peasants, what folly is the rebellious attitude of many modern youths toward their father and mother."

Because of the sanitary and health measures now in use nearly every disease due to dirt has been stamped out in England.

As The Nation Wished Hoover A "Happy New Year"

Plainview C-C Holds Banquet

Annual Chamber Of Commerce Meeting Attended Thursday Night By About 500 Guests, Members of Organization

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 9. (Special)—Annual meeting of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce was attended here Thursday night by approximately 500 members and guests. R. Q. Silverthorne, retiring president, was toastmaster.

An interesting program was presented with Josh Lee, head of the public speaking department of the University of Oklahoma, as the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Lee, well known throughout this section of the country as a fine speaker and an exceptional humorist was at his best in presenting "$170 worth of effervescence."

Opened By Invocation

The meeting was opened with invocation by Dr. Donald B. Doak, pastor of the First Methodist church, followed by music furnished by the Plainview Municipal orchestra under the direction of J. L. Hathaway.

Introduction of visitors included five from Lubbock, R. J. Murray, retiring president of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college; B. Sherrod, A. B. Davis, manager, and Garnet Reeves, publicity director, of the Lubbock chamber.

A vocal solo by Mrs. J. L. Hathaway, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Guy A. Gibbs, preceded talks by Grady Shipp, new secretary of the local chamber; Maury Hopkins, retiring secretary; Mr. Silverthorne, retiring president, and Glenn A. Smith, incoming president.

EMBEZZLEMENT SHOWN

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (AP) — The books of the Lawrence Avenue National bank, federal investigator said today, showed an embezzlement of at least $100,000 the bank was recently closed after John E. Malloy, assistant cashier, said he had been kidnapped by bank robbers and taken to Milwaukee. He was charged with embezzlement and plans were made to give him a hearing before a United States commissioner tomorrow.

PLANS CHANGED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 9. (AP)—Western Air Service, Inc., has changed its plans to serve Ardmore and will touch Wichita Falls instead R. Kenneth Evans, an official of the line announced here last night. Evans said he was mapping a route to the Texas city.

FISH WILL BATTLE SOPHS

The "fish," who all season have been the underdogs on the campus, will meet the college sophs in a rough house battle which will climax the "fun night" program Tuesday night in the Tech gym.

The "fun night" programs have been planned to occur each month in the Tech gym and are the only programs on the campus from which co-eds are barred. The programs, for men only, are under the direction of the Tech coaches, P. W. Cawthon, Del Morgan, W. L. Golightly and "Dutch" Smith.

A battle royal also will be featured Tuesday night and several stunts are scheduled. The first all-men's gathering was held in December and it is planned to hold a similar one each month for the remainder of the year.

OLD STUDENT ENROLLS

Carl McQuenn, Athens, has returned to Tech after an absence of more than two years. McQuenn was one of the first students to register in the college when it opened. For the past two years he has been employed by an oil company.

He is a geology student in the college.

CONSIDER SELF GOVERNMENT

Consideration of student self government is being discussed by members of the student council of Tech and at the last meeting Mose Witherspoon, Bruce Parks and Thalia Parker were appointed to investigate the merits of student rule. The committee will communicate with officials in other colleges and universities where the student government is in effect and will report the outcome to the council.

The council also is considering revising the present constitution which was adopted approximately a year ago.

MANY TAKE PHYSICS

Approximately 200 freshmen engineers are enrolled in the college physics department, according to Dr. E. P. George, head of the department. Freshmen engineers are not allowed to take physics until their second term in the college which accounts for the large increase in the department this term.

MILK SALES INCREASE

Sales of the Texas Tech dairy have increased slightly since the taking off of the morning route, according to Prof. K. M. Renner, head of the Tech dairy manufacturing department. The Tech dairy formerly ran a morning and an evening route, but last month stopped the early route.

Thirteen Tech students are now employed by the department. Professor Renner stated all the larger milk companies only ran an evening route and that it was much more convenient for the customers.

COMPLIMENTS TECH

Particularly commending the Tech department of chemistry, Dean O. E. Bethel, of the state medical school at Galveston, has written a letter to Dr. Paul W. Horn, Tech president, complimenting the work of the college. Of the eight honor chemistry students in the medical school last fall, four were former students of Tech.

No student entering the medical college who completed his pre-med work here has ever failed in any of the courses, according to the Galveston dean.

A majority of the Tech pre-med students attend the Galveston school upon completition of their work here. Most of the students spend three or four years in Tech before entering a medical.

ASK FOR AMMUNITION

Requisition of ammunition for 1931 for the Texas Tech Rifle club has been made according to L. W. Chapman, president of the organization. Plans are to match rifle matches with several other colleges and universities for this winter and next spring, according to Chapman.

At the first meeting of the winter term last night in room 220 of the administration building, plans were discussed for this term. A few new members are yet to be initiated into the club.

GOVERNMENT DEPART. GROWS

More students are enrolled in the college government than ever before, according to members of the department. Probably one reason for the growth of the department is the ruling made in 1929 requiring all public school teachers to study a certain amount of government before they may obtain a certificate to teach.

Members of the government faculty include Dr. W. A. Jackson, head of the department; Prof. H. C. Pender and M. E. Ogdon and Instructor J. W. Jackson. The latter is a graduate of Tech, having received both his B. A. and M. A. degrees in government here in 1929.

SEND NAMES HOME

Names of all Tech students who made the fall term honor roll of the college will be mailed this week to the student's home town papers. Filing and mailing of these names is being done by Cecil Horne, publicity director and journalism professor in the college.

An American company is building a bridge to connect Canton, China, with its main suburb on the island of Honan.

Andrews Bond Issue Passed

Voters Indorse $200,000 In Road Bonds For Paving Of Highway No. 137 Through County In Election

A $200,000 road bond issue was indorsed by voters of Andrews county Thursday and the funds will be turned to the state highway department for paving of highway No. 137 through that county, according to a report received here from F. S. Wilson, secretary of the Andrews Chamber of Commerce.

The bond issue carried the entire county by a vote of more than two to one, the count being announced as 209 for and 89 against.

Although state highway No. 137 has not been designated by the state through Andrews county, a contract was made between Andrews county and the state highway department that if the county would vote an issue of $200,000 the state would take the money and build a hard-surfaced road through the section.

State To Match Funds

It is understood that the road will cost more than twice that amount and it is the policy of the state to only match dollar for dollar funds voted by counties for paving. However, due to the fact that at the time the contract was made there was so much university land in the county that could not be taxed the highway department agreed to make the special concession. The department also felt that need for such a road through that area was imperative because nature of the soil makes it almost impossible to maintain a second class route.

While the state highway department has made no assurance that the road will be designated, local officials state that it is naturally supposed this will be done if they lay the paving.

State highway No. 137 is only designated from Lubbock to Brownfield and from McCamey on the south to the Andrews county line. Efforts have been made by officials of towns along the route to get the remainder designated and recently state highway 137 association was re-organized with C. M. Armstrong, of Seagraves, as president. A booster meeting was held in Andrews last Tuesday which was attended by delegations from several counties interested and there plans for further making a fight for designation were laid. A ruling now in force states that the highway department cannot take over and designate any dirt roads. This ruling, however, was made after application for designation of the strip was entered and members of the association feel that consideration will be given.

The route already has [illegible] of paving and with the [illegible] of the 30-mile strip in [illegible] county and a 17-mile strip in [illegible] bock county more than half the road will be hardsurfaced.

Do MOTOR BUSSES promote SAFETY?

In numerous ways.

1. By reducing the number of private carriers who are poorly equipped and irresponsible in many cases, thereby freezing the highways of surplus traffic and placing the hauling of passengers in the hands of men trained for the work and provided with first-class, safe equipment.

2. By exercising great caution in driving, both in town and out. Certain regulations of the Railroad Commission, which regulates motor busses, pertaining to safety must be obeyed if the companies are to retain their permit; and many companies have additional and more stringent rules for their drivers to promote safety in every way possible.

Minute To Go And Tech Men Tie And Lead

Keer Ties Count And Harvey Dunn Tosses Winning Goal In Last Seconds; Teams Play Again Tonight At 8

BY COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

If you were not among the thousand or so lusty fans at the Texas Tech gymnasium last night you missed a great show, but probably saved a good voice. Even if you had slipped in at the half or just before the game ended you could have enjoyed telling your grandchildren how the Tech Matadors came from behind a narrow lead late in the game and how after knotting the count, falling behind three points, and rising again to tie the score, 31-31, with less than a minute to play, Harvey Dunn took a long pass from Leon Fisher and tossed a perfect goal from the edge of the court to defeat the Texas School of Mines from El Paso, 33 to 31.

And you might bring in Jimmie Kerr's name, and dont be too hasty in saying that a matrimonial venture delays a man in quest of an athletic career. Jimmie got married the other day, but he celebrated by enrolling at Tech, and with a good scholastic record as well as basketball record to back him up started immediately to train for the Matadors team. He did not start, but went in as a substitute forawrd, was replaced in the second half, but went back in again to tie the score, making Tech's win possible last night.

Tech's Three Horsemen

Before we go further let us pay tribute where tribute is due and allow a paragraph or two to the "Three Horsemen" of the Tech basketball team, They are Captain Clarence Hodges, who was honored most highly last night when the Tech athletic council and coaching staff presented him with a swell sweater with two stripes and a star between halves; J. H. (Tad) Tadlock and Leon Fisher. This trio was the potential power that paved the way to victory. It started the game and ended the game, and never was out of step. It flitted across the court, passing well, intercepting and knocking down passes, and never once let up in the mad chase.

Hodges earned his sweater last night. Had he never played before nor if he never plays again he earned the sweater. He was easily the high point man of the evening with four field goals and five free goals, for a total of 13 points. His nearest rival for scoring honors was one Friedkin, a Miner who dealt misery until four personal fouls recalled him to the bench. Friedy registered nine points, hitting the basket from the field four times. Harvey Dunn, who looped the winning basket, also scored four times from the floor.

Tadlock and Fisher Consistent

Tadlock and Fisher played consistently throughout, their defense being hard to break through and their passing up to standard. They alternated at center position, but Captain Allen for the Miners succeeded in getting the tip the greatest number of times.

Both teams were weak with free throws with twenty chances, the Matadors took only nine chances. The visitors had 13 chances but scored only three times from the mark. Weir Washam called the game like an expert.

Andrews, a guard for the Miners, was one of the best defensive men on the floor. He rung the basket three times for five points, also. Cotton Pippen, a backfield terror, displayed good form. The visitors led the chase most of the way, but only by a scant margin. At the half the score was 12 to 11, favoring the El Pasoans.

Friedkin was the first scorer, looping one from the field early in the game and followed it up with a free one. Cecil Kelsey drew a pass, and Hodges flipped one in from a crip position. Later Tech took the lead when Hodges looped two from the field in rapid succession and tossed one free.Tadlock barely missed crip which would have given the locals the lead as the half ended.

The game was fast and furious in the second half. Dunn and Tadlock were good for field goals to take a short lead as the period opened, but Payne and Andrews tossed beautiful ones from mid-court to tie and take a lead. Thus it went until only 8 second were left, with the score tied. Dunn, after a time out, hovered under the goal, took a pass near the sidelines, and popped it in for the winning count.

The teams meet again tonight, at 8 o'clock, in the second and final of the series.

Wayne (Big) Munn Dies At Santone

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 9. (AP) — Wayne H. (Big) Munn, the mastodontic wrestler who crashed his way to a brief reign in 1925 as claimant of the world's heavyweight mat title died here today.

Bright's disease ended the career of the 35-year-old former University of Nebraska athlete. Six years ago in Convention Hall at Kansas City Munn tossed Ed (Strangler) Lewis, out of the ring, won the match before 15,000 spectators and was acclaimed the leading heavyweight grappler of the world.

It was Jan. 3, 1925, when Munn dethroned Lewis, then generally rated as the champion. A little more than three months later—April 15—Munn lost to the middle-aged Stanislaus Sbyszko in Philadelphia and never again reached the top.

Southwest Conference Expects Great Football Season To Make Up Deficit

Other Sports To Be Curtailed Rest Of Year

(NOTE: This is another of Associated Press series of stories on college athletic conditions.)

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

DALLAS, Jan. 9. — Sharp retrenchment in winter and spring sports such as basketball, track and baseball, followed by a fall boom in the more profitable sport of football, is prescribed by Southwest Conference athletic directors as the proper treatment of the college ills brought about by the current financial depression.

Although exact figures were not available, a survey of conferepce business offices reveal gridiron receipts were off something like 25 per cent for the recent season, some schools suffering worse than others. But, instead of letting the situation bother them, the financial directors simply plan to pile on bigger and better football attractions this year.

As Dr. R. M. Blackwell, business manager for Southern Methodist university, put it:

Need More Football.

"There's nothing to be gained in letting up now. Curtailed receipts during the past season and a corresponding decrease in scholastic tuitions left many of us, especially the denominational schools, in a wobbly condition. Our best bet is to arrange more football games next season and pull out of it. A football game is one thing that can be counted upon to make money."

That Southwest directors are in accord with Dr. Blackwell's idea is reflected in next season's conference schedules. Each of the seven members has arranged a complete program of conference games and then added a few practice and intersectional tilts for good measure.

Big Intersectional Games.

Among the intersectional contests will be: Texas vs. Harvard at Cambridge; Southern Methodist vs. Navy at Baltimore; Rice vs. Arizona at Tucson, and Arkansas vs. University of Chicago at Chicago. Southern Methodist received five invitations to play on the Pacific Coast, including one from Southern California, but did not have an open date.

Meantime, winter and spring activities are being held to a minimum. The Southwest Conference will play a full program of basketball, each team meeting its six rivals twice, but every effort has been made to cut expenses. At least one team has arranged to make all of its road trips in automobiles owned by members of the coaching staff and individuals.

Baseball Schedule Slashed.

On the plea of harried financial directors, the conference faculty committee slashed the baseball schedule in half, reducing it from 20 games to 10.

Southern Methodist, which has conducted the individual track meet the last two springs, asked to be relieved of the event in 1931. Rice Institute, an endowed school and consequently free of any outside demands on its athletic fund, agreed to take over the event for one year. The University of Texas, the one member of the conference that enjoyed bumper receipts during the recent football season, announced it would hold its invitational cinder meet as usual.

One of the world's first automobiles, a German car built in 1888 by Karl Benz, has been obtained by Henry Ford for his museum.

Swims Length Of Mississippi

One summer day about five months ago there was a big splash in the headwaters of the Mississippi near Minneapolis. The other day the cause of the splash emerged from the "Father of Waters" at New Orleans, successfully completing an attempt to swim the length of the river. Fred Newton of Ferriday, La., accomplished the feat. Here he is as he stepped up on a New Orleans wharf to receive the congratulations of admirers.

Roar Of Fastest Machines On Earth, May Not Be Heard At Daytona Beach; City Does Not Offer Enough Dinero

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Unless the spirit of speed decision is injected into present negotiations, the flash and the roar of the fastest machines on earth will be missing this winter from the famous natural speedway at Daytona Beach, Florida.

Speaking today for the contest board of the American Automobile Association, Secretary Ted Allen, in effect, served an ultimatum on the city of Daytona Beach by announcing that unless an application for the official sanction of speed trials is received by next Monday, January 12, he will advise Captain Malcolm Campbell not to leave England for the United States and a series of speed tests on the southern sands.

To Be Here Late In January

Campbell, continuing his quest of the world's record set in 1929 at Daytona Beach at 231 miles per hour by the late Sir Henry Segrave, has arranged to ship his new Napier-powered car, Bluebird II, to this country, January 14 and leave himself ten days later.

So far, however, Allen explained today completion of financial arrangement with the city of Daytona Beach has lagged. The city's proposed contribution of $4,000 toward the handling of the speed trials is not considered adequate.

Track Unsuitable At Times

Another factor making early action imperative is that the beach at Daytona develops desirable racing conidtion only for a short period in January and February.

Last winter unsatisfactory conditions contributed to the failure of record-breaking attempts by another Britisher, Kaye Don, in his Silver Bullet.

Capt. Campbell is the last survivor of a quartet that has exceeded 200 miles per hour offically at Daytona Beach. He set a record slightly in excess of 206.9 m. p. h. in 1928. Frank Lockhart was killed the same year while seeking the record. It was broken the following year by the late Ray Keech, who was clocked at 207 m. p. h. Segrave later shot the figure up to 231 m. p. h. in his Golden Arrow.

In South Africa last year Capt. Campbell reeled off five miles at an average of 216 m. p. h. and in one burst of speed covered a mile at the rate of 225 but his best official average going and coming over the measured mile, was 218.

Veteran Golfer To Direct Bobby

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 9. (AP)—It's a real golfer as well as a motion picture veteran who will have the job of directing Bobby Jones in his movie debut.

But George Edwin, Marshall Jones fans may rest assured, is not going to try to tell Bobby how to play golf. His principal concern, he says, will be with picture angles and methods to reveal Jones the champion and satisfy the average golfer's curiosity as to the details of the famous young Atlantan's technic.

Leaves On Monday.

He is leaving for Atlanta Monday to confer with Jones, who is to be in Hollywood before March 1, when making of the series of 12 one-reel pictures will be started.

Interpretation Of Rules Will Be Main Event

All West Texas Officials And Coaches, Players, Invited To Meeting; First Session At 10 O'Clock At Tech Gym

Lubbock and Texas Tech will be hosts today to basketball coaches, officials and players from points over the South Plains and West Texas in the first annual convention for basketball men and women of the area.

The meeting, called chiefly for the introduction of new and changed rules governing the game for 1931 and for the interpretation and explanation of all rules, will start promptly at 10 o'clock when the delegates gather at the Texas Tech gymnasium in general assembly. Both sexes have been inivted to attend the meeting here, which will be an all day affair.

After all visitors have convened in a short general session, headed by P. W. Cawthon, head coach at Tech and president of the Texas Board of Approved Basketball Officials, the men will repair to another hall, to be designated this morning, leaving the women at the gymnasium. Zella Riegal and Johnnye Gilkerson, instructors in the physical education department for women, will lead the girl's meeting and will illustrate their explanations of the rules with a short game on the Tech court.

Jackson To Welcome Visitors

W. A. Jackson, member of the Tech athletic council, will offer a welcome address at the opening session this morning, and at noon the visitors will be entertained with a luncheon given at a local hotel by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber of Commerce is cooperating with Coach Cawthon in bringing the meeting about. It is thought that a West Texas organization will be perfected at the noon hour.

Men and women will meet separately in the afternoon to continue discussion of the rules. Round table discussions, a question-and-answer hour, and details of the game will be held during the afternoon.

College Men Of South Say Grid Needs Reforming

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 9. (AP) — The Richmond News-Leader in the first of two copyrighted articles today says college and university presidents in the South agree by a majority of approximately two to one that football is greatly overemphasized and that reforms are needed.

"My judgment is that every possible phase of over-emphasis can be corrected by concerted action of college presidents and in no other way," Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama told the News-Leader.

President M. L. Brittain, of Georgia Tech, suggested limiting the number of games and playing against teams only with equal standards.

BASKETBALL PLAYS and PLAYERS

A Wisconsin out-of-bounds block play is diagramed in the top half of this chart. (F1) and (F2) run past each other in an effort to lose (F2)'s guard. The man out-of-bounds, the center in this play, bounce-passes to (F2) under the basket. On this play the guards should shift men to prevent being blocked off.

College teams employ out-of-bounds plays in the following ways: The quick pass-in for a quick shot, the block play, and the pass to the back men for possession. The quick pass-in play consists of speed and clever footwork and the purpose is to get the ball in play before the defense gets set. The block out-of-bounds play is used after the defense has become set. The play for possession is used any time.

A Purdue out-of-bounds play is diagramed in the lower part of the chart. The forwards line up side by side and spread, allowing the guard to drive through for a close-in shot. As a variation the forwards criss-cross and the guard remains stationary.

There should be a relation between out-of-bounds plays and the regular offense in order to get better execution. One play for the offensive end of the floor is sufficient. Players should know the play from different positions as it will be necessary to play them from time to time.

The defense against out-of-bounds plays must be very alert. Defensive men should stick to their men so closely that it will be hard to put the ball in play. Shifting is necessary on block out-of-bounds plays.

Heavyweight Muddle Takes On Air Of Mystery Thriller; Pa Arrives In New York, Disappears Quickly

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The heavyweight muddle took on all the elements of the first act of a mystery thriller today with harrassed sports writers in the roles of the detectives searching for the corpus delicti or at least a motive.

"Pa" Stribling, head of the family that boosts W. L. "Young" Stribling as its fighting member, arrived in New York, flashed across the stage, and immediately disappeared. A mysterious voice, identified as that of Nate Lewis, Chicago promotor who wants to stage a heavyweight title bout between Max Schmeling and Stribling, announced the elder Stribling was hidden away somewhere, absolutely in his power, and there were immediate fears for the worst.

Jacobs Also Missing

Joe Jacobs, manager of the German titleholder, who was dethroned by the New York State Athletic Commission last Tuesday, also vanished, though it was suspected he was merely sleeping somewhere.

The only other leading character in the situation, William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, alone was absolved of all suspicion. He was in Boston, discussing fights with Jack Sharkey, who can win the vacated heavyweight crown by fighting a leading contender in New York State if he can dig up the leading contender.

Will Stribling is the crux of the situation, being sought for a June match against Schmeling in Chicago as well as a bout here the same month against Sharkey.

ed on his first rounds of the house.

"I worked it out this way," he continued, despite Strawn's grin. "Dexter Sprague was in the habit of spending the night here whenever Nita would give him an evening of her company. He was here last night, according to the maid, Lydia Carr. Nita sent her into Hamilton to a picture show. Nita and Sprague quarreled last night, but I am positive he spent the night here anyway. Certainly there was no actual rupture, since Sprague worded his note to her as he did. I have another strong reason for thinking his belongings were here at least until noon today, but that can wait for the moment. Furthermore, I am positive that Sprague descended by the backstairs and went around the house to join the cocktail party which was to follow the hen bridge party."

"How do you make that out, Bennie?" Strawn asked, his grin wiped away.

"Try to remember how Sprague looked when you first got here," Dundee suggested. "I saw him 20 minutes after you did, but—he was wearing an immaculate stiff collar, and there were still traces of talcum powder over a close new shave! And you will remember that he said he had made a halfhour's trip by bus, and had walked the quarter of a mile from the bus stop on Sheridan Road to this house. It was a mighty hot afternoon, chief!"

"Not conclusive," Strawn growled.

"Then here's another straw to add to the weight of my conclusion," Dundee went on, unshaken. "You remember that Janet Raymond was on the front porch watching for Sprague, while the 'death hand of bridge' was being played? . . . Oh, she tried to protect him. .. Wait, I'll read you the notes I made when I was questioning her. I looked them up while I was waiting for you. . . Here! I had said to Miss Raymond: 'You observed Mr. Sprague toiling down the rutty road, hot and weary, but romantic in the sunset?' And she answered, stammering, 'I—I wasn't looking that way.' . . .And I knew she was lying, knew that she had been taken completely by surprise when Sprague suddenly appeared from the rear of the house!

"What's more, she betrayed herself and him by admitting that she was surprised. Then—because she was surprised. Then—because the girl is undoubtedly in love with Sprague and was mortally afraid he had killed Nita Selim, she tried frantically to throw suspicion on Lydia Carr, by telling how Lydia had failed to answer Mrs. Dunlap's first ring— Good Lord! Wait a minute! I want to think!" he interrupted himself to exclaim.

After a full minute, while he had stood very still, with his fingers pressed against his closed eyes, Dundee began slowly:

"I believe that's it. . . Listen, boys!" He turned to the two plainclothesmen, urgent pleading in his voice. "Would you both take your oath that there was no bag—say a small Gladstone overnight bag—anywhere in these rooms when you searched them this evening?"

The two detectives glanced at each other, their faces reddening. It was Harmon, the older of the pair, who swallowed hard before answering.

"We'd been told to look for a man hiding, and for a gun—" Then he squared his shoulders as if to receive the blame like a man. "Yes, sir! There was a little black grip in the closet shelf. I went through it myself, but there wasn't no gun in it. Just a pair of pajamas and a couple of shirts, one of 'em dirty, some socks and collars and a shaving kit—"

Dundee drew a deep breath, and clapped the red-faced detective on the back in high good humor.

"There simply had to be a bag somewhere!" he laughed. "This is the way of it, Strawn. . . Nita and Sprague rowed last night. Sprague tried to make it up, but Nita must have been through with him. Probably told him last night to clear his things out and not come back. She thought he had done so; probably he did leave before she got up. At any rate, she was so sure he was gone and his things with him that she and Lydia went to town this morning and left Ralph Hammond here to go through the place as freely as he liked, making his estimates on the job of finishing up the other half of this floor. And Ralph—But let that wait for the moment."

"Got any real proof that it was Sprague who stayed here and not the Hammond boy?" Strawn interrupted shrewdly.

"I'm coming to the proof," Dundee assured him, "or rather, the rest of the proof that I haven't already given you. You're damned hard to convince, chief! But let me go on with my theory, which I think covers the facts. . . . At luncheon, when Nita received that note from Sprague, I imagine she got a hunch that he hadn't taken her seriously, that he had not removed his belongings. You remember Penny Crain said Nita had Lydia follow her into her bedroom, as soon as Nita got home from the luncheon?

"Well, it's my hunch that Nita asked Lydia if Sprague's things were gone when she cleaned these rooms this morning, and that Lydia said no. Nita then probably told Lydia to pack them herself, and I feel positive that Lydia did so, for she must have felt safe when she protested to me that Sprague was not Nita's lover. I also feel sure that Sprague arrived at least half an hour before he said he did, by some back path across the meadow; that he came up to these rooms that he considered his, found his things packed, but went about shaving and changing his shirt and collar, regardless. I also feel sure that Lydia followed him upstairs to explain and impress upon him that Nita had meant what she said. And it is quite likely that she was not through picking up after him when he descended by the back stairs and surprised Janet Raymond on the front porch. That accounts, of course, for Lydia's not hearing the kitchen bell the first time Mrs. Dunlap rang."

"Umm," Strawn grunted. "What about the proofs you're holding b—"

"Come along, chief—you, too, Caraway!" Dundee answered and led the way into the bathroom. "I felt sure these rooms would yield a very definite clue, even though Sprague, when he sneaked back tonight to get his tell-tale bag, apparently made every effort to wipe his fingerprints off the furniture and bathroom fixtures. . . Now, Carraway, if you'll step upon this little stool and look along the top of this medicine cabinet, you'll find what I found—and which I didn't touch."

The fingerprint expert did as he was holding, between the very tips of his fingers, a safety razor blade.

"No dust on it, you see," Dundee pointed out. "Now if you don't find Dexter Sprague's fingerprints on it, my whole theory topples."

"How am I going to know whose fingerprints they are till we get hold of Sprague?" Caraway asked reasonably.

"We don't need him—for that purpose, at least," Dundee assured him. "Downstairs in the living room, on a little table in the southeast corner of the room, you'll find a little red glass ash tray which no one but Dexter Sprague used all evening. It was clean and empty when I saw him use it first. I think you'll find on it all the prints you need."

"So you think Sprague killed her because she was through with him?" Strawn asked.

Dundee shook his head. "Since I don't like Dexter Sprague a little bit, chief, I'd like to think so, but—"

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9. (AP)—Trading was active in the cotton market here today and the price trend was mostly upward. An early decline carried prices 11 points below the previous close but the market rallied sharply and trading became active. Values advanced 28 points from the lows. A downward reaction in stocks and some realizing caused prices to ease off 17 to 18 points in the late trading and the close was steady net 1 point up to 9 points down, the late months showing most of the decline.

Liverpool came in 1 point higher to unchanged. Private cables, however, stated covered the demand being supplied by Manchester liquidation. Manchester cabled the market was nervous over the prospective stoppage of machinery. First trades here were 11 points down with March at 10.15 and May at 10.41. These prices proved to be the lows of the day.

Prices soon started to rally and the advance gathered momentum as the session progressed. Shorts covered on firmer stocks and bullish weekly statistics. Before the demand was satisfied March had traded up to 10.43 and May to 10.69 or 28 points up from the lows and 17 to 19 points above the previous close.

The market turned easier in the late trading owing to a downward turn in the stock market and because of considerable realizing and prices lost 17 to 19 points from the top. The late months showed the most weakness. March closed at 10.36 or not unchanged for the day and May at 10.61 up 1 point net.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—An early decline in cotton promoted by unfavorable labor reports from Lancashier and the easier showing of the late Liverpool cables, was followed by advances on some trade buying and covering during today's trading.

The demand was supplied on the advance which carried March contracts from 10.12 at the opening to 10.61 during the middle of the afternoon however, and prices later lost most of the gain under realizing with March closing at 10.32. "Sob Sisters" ed. Mrs. Dallas not only can act but also is soothing to the eye, with an interesting stage personality born of wide experience.

Davis Vaughn as the villian of the piece; Flora Mae Cook, in the role of ingenue; Harold Gore and Mrs. L. B. Hodges, all were happily cast.

The story is that of the stage-struck young girl, this time from Olathe, Kan., "Buddy Rogers' home town," who comes to Hollywood with eyes full of dreams and an enormous admiration for everything pertaining to the screen. She visits her father, who had deserted his family 10 years previously to elope with an actress. The villian, ostensibly a movie director, but actually a narcotic peddler, lures her with a promise of fame and riches and her father, unable to protect her because of the inroads which the use of narcotics has made in his character, is on the verge of suicide when the brisk young reporter steps in and saves the day, the "other woman," praying to be a "good loser," steps out of the picture and the curtain rings down with everybody happy, especially the audience. Rails Host At Stock Market Rally On Friday But Parts Ends In Confusion

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—Rails were hosts at another stock market rally today, but the party ended in some confusion when the bears insisted on taking charge.

Cheered by the generally favorable character of the news in the past week, the market was able to report progress during most of the session, only to run into late selling that chipped 1 to 2 points net from the active industrials, specialties and utilities and halved extreme advances of 2 to 7 points in the carrier issues. Trading increased sharply over yesterday, sales totaling 2,794,730 shares.

Early heavies in the steels and chemicals was accompanied by higher prices for the rails. Toward noon the motor stocks also rallied and other groups, with the exception of the chemicals, regained their small losses. By afternoon the rails were advancing rapidly, carrying many of the specialties with them. The trend was reversed, however, in the last half hour and gained momentum in the final dealings.

The statement by President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania that the prospective railroad consolidation would require several years for completion seemed to embolden Wall street's own conservative appraisal of the situation, since it is well realised that merger plan, however desirable, can not be immediately translated into such tangible as increased traffic and earnings.

Seek State Bureau

Creation of a state bureau of identification in Austin as an aid to apprehension of criminals was projected in a bill prepared by a committee of the chiefs of police and city marshals' association. The bill has been approved by the Texas Sheriffs' association and the East Texas Peace Officers' association.

The bill was drafted with the aid of W. R. Ellis, superintendent of the Houston bureau of identification, and was said to combine the best features of similar measures in other states. The bureau would be supervised by a board of managers, headed by the adjutant general. The bill carried an appropriation of $48,000 for establishment and operation of the office in 1931 and 1932.

A bill creating a public utilities commission of three men to supervise public service corporations was ready for submission by the league of Texas municipalities. The proposed commission would take over most of the duties of the railroad commission and have jurisdiction over any group or corporation operating or leasing any "pipe lines, wires, wells, pole lines, conduit lines, electric street railways, gas and electric distributing companies, telephone and telegraph companies, and water distributing concerns.

Salaries of the commissioners would be $10,000 per year. The bill provided for appointment of a general counsel at $10,000, a chief engineer at $7,500, chief auditor at $6,000, chief statistician at $6,000, a secretary at $6,000 and three examiners at $3,600.

The bill would give the commission the right to pass on the justice of any rate charged by a utility company and to require installation of a standardized system of accounting.

Receipts of cattle were estimated at 11,000. Short fed steers and yearlings were weak to 25 lower. Feeder buyers this week have been a support to the market on quality short fed steers of light weight with several loads of 800-1,000 lb. short fed Kansas City at 8.50@9.75 on country accounts.

Have Single Objectives

Each sub-committee probably will be composed of five or more persons. Each such group will confer with only one public body, limiting its work to a single objective, it was indicated in tentative plans.

An attempt will be made to expedite start of contemplated industrial and construction projects of companies and individuals, committeemen said. Erection of the federal building and highway work also were mentioned as possibilities.

Warnings that out-of-town persons were soliciting work, in some instances charging abnormal prices and misrepresenting facts, were sounded again Friday by the Emergency Employment committee.

Citizens were urged to make sure that those to whom they gave jobs had lived in Lubbock for a reasonable time and were deserving. The employment promotion corps is cooperating with United Charities in determining the status of those seeking employment, and residents wishing to hire some one can eliminate chance of hiring an outsider by communicating with the employment bureau at telephone No. 2083.

Blast Kills Negro Witness In Case

PUEBLO, Colo., Jan. 9. (AP) — A dynamite blast today ended the life of Lee Madison, negro, who was to be a witness against four Pueblo officers, charged with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

As Madison stepped on the starter of his automobile in the downtown section today the dynamite explosion threw him 25 feet and shattered his automobile. The man died a few hours later without regaining consciousness.

County, city and federal authorities immediately organized for a concerted drive against liquor interests which they said were behind the dynamiting and which they also believe were responsible for the attempt earlier this week on the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arrigo, who were shot by unknown assailants.

The two youths sustained bruises but were not seriously hurt. Their names were not obtained.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. (AP)—Fair demand continued on the cash grain market today. No. 2 hard wheat was probably worth 79@81c delivered Texas common points. Estimated receipts: Wheat, 13 cars; corn, 14; oats, 3, and sorghums, 2.

Quotations on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 77 1-2@78 1-2; No. 2 white or yellow 80 1-2@81.

Oats, No. 2 red 45@46c.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 1.30 @1.32; No. 2 kaffir 1.27@1.29. Dealers also quoted No. 3 white oats delivered Texas group one points at 43@44, to which add one cent for delivery group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Responsive to stock market reactions, all grain dropped today. Temporarily, corn rallied on reports that shipments from Omaha were about double arrivals, and that Nebraska feeders were paying elevators 3 cents a bushel premium for corn. Drouth advices from domestic wheat territory were also a transient stimulus, but afterward strength oozed out of the markets all around.

Corn closed unsteady, 3-8 to 1 1-8 cents lower than yesterday, wheat 1-8 to 1-4 off to 3-8 up, oats 1-4 to 3-8 down, and provisions, at 15 cents setback to 5 cents gain.

Handicapped by weather which permits grazing in many sections, especially in the Southwest, friends of higher prices for corn made no lasting headway. The fact Chicago arrivals, 87 cars, were somewhat enlarged acted as a weight on values, and did much to counterbalance curtailment of new supplies elsewhere. Primary receipts totaled 930,000 bushels against 1,424,000 a week ago, but were considerably in excess of the amount a year back, 650,000.

Human Embryo Case Puzzles

No Developments Reported In Investigation Of Finding Embryo In Lard Bucket Near Shallowater

No developments were reported Friday in an investigation being conducted by Lubbock county officers in connection with finding of a human embryo in a bar pit near Shallowater by a school boy Thursday morning.

The embryo, that of a boy, was in a 10-pound lard bucket, which also contained part of a gunny sack. The lid was found nearby, leading investigators to believe that the bucket had been thrown from a speeding automobile. Officers expressed an opinion that the case was one of abortion. The embryo, which was found about a mile southwest of Shallowater, was estimated to be about four months old.

The boy who discovered the bucket and its contents while en route to school, subsequently reported it to Shallowater officers.

The embryo was brought here and will be preserved at a funeral home until the investigation has been completed.

Electric Railway In Receivership

DALLAS, Jan. 9. (AP)—The Texas Electric railway, operating 230 miles of interurban lines between Dallas and leading centers of the north central Texas Cotton Belt, as well as the street railway system of Waco, Waxahachie, Corsicana, Sherman, and Denison, was placed in receivership here late today by District Judge Towne Young.

The receivership petition was filed by the T. J. Moss Tie company of St. Louis. The court named James P. Griffen, Dallas, president of the railway for the last two years, as receiver.

The Texas Electric railway is an entirely separate company from those owning and operating the interurban lines between Dallas, Fort Worth and Cleburne and the interurban lines from Dallas to Terrell and Dallas to Denton.

Admits Taking Infant Child

Young Wife Confesses Kidnaping Baby In Effort To Regain Husband's Affection; Charged With Abduction

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—Confessing a child of her own, Mrs. Agnes Schiron, 19 year old and a wife of a three years, kidnapped a five-weeks-old baby girl in an effort to regain her husband's affection.

So she told police yesterday when they traced the missing daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rotunda to her father's home and arrested her on a charge of abduction. Mrs. Schiron took the infant Tuesday by posing as a Salvation Army relief worker, and a city-wide search had been in progress since.

"Please don't arrest me," she said, "I didn't do the baby any harm. I love babies and can't have any of my own."

True enough, the baby was found sleeping soundly in a new outfit of clothes and a new crib, bought especially for her. She was returned unharmed to her parents but they lodged the charge against her abductress.

Mrs. Schiron and her husband Michael had been separated for some time, the wife said, because of her childlessness. Thinking to effect a reconciliation, she summoned him after the kidnaping and presented the child as her own. The coming of the police disrupted one reunion but created another.

Negroes Offer All Day Party

White Friends To Aid Mount Calvary Baptists With Big Function Sunday; Campaign To Follow Program

An all-day gathering, which has as its objective the raising of additional funds and a revival of spirit in the congregation, will be held at the Mt. Calvary Baptist church in the negro section of the city, Sunday.

In addition to the negro members, a number of white leaders of the community will be on hand and a program has been arranged for both morning and afternoon.

Starts In Morning

At 9:30 a. m. a model Sunday school will be held and representatives from every Sunday school in Lubbock are expected to be present. At 11:30 o'clock, G. H. W. Walker, negro bachelor of divinity from Pinceton university, Princeton, Ind., will deliver the sermon and space is being set aside for the seating of white friends of the church. Walker, who has traveled extensively in Europe, is recommended highly to local negroes who report that he is a leader among the preachers of his race. His subject will be "God's Call to Service."

At 1:30 o'clock a free dinner will be served in the church annex and on the lawn with "plenty to eat for all", the local negroes say. Separate and special tables have been arranged for the whites who will be on hand.

A mass meeting will be held at 2:30 o'clock at which time prominent church leaders from white churches will speak and an offering will be taken.

J. L. Walker, six year-old son of G. H. W. Walker, who is described as a child prodigy in theology, will speak at the church at 8:30 in the evening.

Following Sunday's program the elder Walker will conduct revival services nightly through January 18.

PLAN NEW S. S. CLASS

Young Men To Be Organized Here On Sunday

A young men's Sunday school class is to be organized Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock at the Hotel Lubbock under the sponsorship of the council of the Young People's division, First Methodist church.

G. A. Sanford, who has recently moved to Lubbock from Sherman, is to teach the class whose enrollment is to be made up of young men between the ages of 18 and 27 years.

Plans are underway for a class orchestra with John Louis Cook, Tech student, at the piano.

Glasgow, Scotland will lend Rembrandt's "Man in Armour" to the Picture Gallery at the Hague, Holland, for exhibition.

Fire Losses Here Low In December

Lubbock fire losses in December aggregated $12,060, according to a report by City Fire Marshal Wiley L. Metcalfe. The damage was caused by 10 fires within the city during the month.

Mr. Metcalfe's report showed a total of 206 inspections made and 90 re-inspections during the month.

City officials announced this morning that within the near future a letter will be mailed all fire insurance agents in the city asking for a record of premiums received and losses paid out in the city for the past three years. When these have been received authorities will be able to determine immediately how the city's fire record stands.

It was explained that Lubbock has received prior to this year a 15 per cent credit for a good fire record but that this credit probably will be lost and a penalty attached.

Gas Promised For Seagraves

General Manager Of West Texas Gas Company Issues A Statement After Filing Of $15,000 Damage Suit

Natural gas for fuel purposes probably will be supplied the city of Seagraves by January 18, R. F. Hinchey, vice-president and general manager of the West Texas Gas company, said Friday, following filing at Seminole of a $15,000 damage suit against the gas company.

Town trustees of Seagraves filed the suit alleging failure on the part of the utility company to carry out its contract for distribution of natural gas in the city. It was alleged that franchise was granted the company about a year ago and that at the time agreement was made that the system would be installed by Sept. 1, 1930, and natural gas turned into the mains on or before November 1.

Circumstances Not Controlled

"The delay has been caused from circumstances beyond the control of the company," Mr. Hinchey said this morning. "We have experienced a great deal of trouble in getting right-of-way for our lines but have been at work almost continuously. I understand that pipes have been laid to a point about five miles past Brownfield while ditches have been dug even farther. The company has no intention of not continuing the work."

Commenting upon the action taken by the city council of Seagraves in revoking the franchise granted, Mr. Hinchey explained that this could not be done legally. The company official expected to meet with officials of the city of Seagraves Friday afternoon and stated that little trouble was expected as a result of the suit.

Two Arrested After Slaying

Woman And Man Charged With Murder In Connection With Fatal Shooting Of Woman's Husband With Shotgun

DENHAM SPRINGS, La., Jan. 9. (AP)—Mrs. Eloy F. Page, 34, and Ransom Harris, 24, were arrested today on charges of murder in the fatal shooting of the woman's husband, Eloy F. Page, 67, who was killed early Wednesday when he answered the call of some one at the door.

The shooting took place at the Page home about nine miles south of here at about midnight.

Shot In Back.

Both Mrs. Page and Harris deny any complication in the shooting. The former told a coroner's jury yesterday that her husband heard some one outside the house and got up to see who it was and a moment later she heard a shot. She said she found her husband had been shot in the back and then saw two men leaving the place.

An autopsy revealed a wad from a 16-gauge shotgun shell lodged in Page's body. The coroner's jury found death was caused by a wound in the back from a 16-gauge shotgun. Investigators found a 16-gauge shotgun in the Page home and in a fireplace found the metal part of a 16-gauge shell, which they said they believed had recently been thrown in the fireplace.

On the night of the shooting, Ransom Harris was staying at the Page home in response to an invitation to spend the night there, officers said.

Mr. and Mrs. Page were the parents of four children, three girls and one boy, the oldest of whom was 14. None of them were disturbed by the shot.

He Was Just A Typewriter Repairman But He had To Answer Fraud Charges

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. (AP)—Andy Lacey, who by his own statement is a typewriter repairman and not an oil promoter, had never before been in a court of law when he appeared before Federal Judge Ritter today on a charge of mail fraud.

He had no attorney to straighten him out on the formalities of court procedure, but he was sure that with the help of the judge and the prosecuting attorney everything would be "explained all right."

Thought He Could Do It.

"I had seen men riding around in fine automobiles and with lots of money they had made out of oil, and I thought I could do it, too," was they way he explained the oil royalty promotion for which he was indicted.

He had driven all night, he said, to reach the courtroom in time for his trial, and had had neither time nor money to secure a lawyer. He asked merely to be allowed to "tell the facts about everything."

Confused by the deliberate routine of the court, he could not understand why the charge against him couldn't be threshed out in an informal conference of court, jury and prosecutors.

Judge Ritter explained the necessary procedure and offered him his choice of presenting his case to the court or pleading it before jury. Lacey hesitated.

"I want to do just anything you want me to, judge," he explained, "but why couldn't you and the jury both hear the facts and decide?"

Must Make Choice.

The court informed him that it was necessary for him to make a choice. After deciding to leave it to the judge, the defendant declined to sign a waiver of jury trial and determined to have the 12 men hear his story.

"I am a typewriter repairman and not an oil man or a promoter," he began. "I am a cotton picker. I picked 316 pounds a day and my mother picked 317—I never could beat her.

He described how he had come to Fort Worth from Eldorado, Ark., and had taken a job selling leases for a commission.

He explained a complicated transaction by which a doubtful lease to a large acreage had been transferred to him, with a contract which called for drilling a well to a specified depth within a certain time. With the lease he acquired the obligations of the precedessor company.

With no time to spare in drilling the well within contract time, he said he borrowed a truck to transport to the site a rig he had bought from a friend. The truck was too heavy and a bridge collapsed under its weight before the lease was reached.

He told how he and the friend, who worked without pay, constituted the crew which spudded in the well, only to be met later with the claim that he hadn't done it according to specifications.

"I did everything humanly possible to prove title to the leases," he declared. "I sold R. S. Sterling enough acreage about the well to bring in sufficient money to complete it. But when I found out there was a question as to my title to the land, I was afraid to risk my reputation with Mr. Sterling by delivering him the leases.

"The rentals then came due and I had absolutely no money. Some brokers who came here from New York offered to sell the royalties for me and I told them to go ahead. I think they sold some, but I didn't get any of the money.

"There has been many a day right here in Fort Worth that I didn't have coffee money while I was trying to put down the well. Part of the time I didn't eat. If I could have got money enough to drill the well as I wanted to, this thing never would have come up."

The government did not agree that Lacey's troubles were due entirely to "hard luck."

Judge Ritter told Lacey he would be allowed to address the jury again after the government had put on its proof.

Tokoyo and Yokohama will observe in December the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of their first telephone exchanges.
