Carter Rescues Rationing Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter has rescued his standby gas rationing plan from almost certain death in Congress by promising special help to states where motorists drive greater distances.

The Senate Energy Committee voted 9-8 Thursday to recommend that the full Senate adopt the proposal, which would go into effect only if the president declared an energy emergency.

A House committee previously voted to reject the proposal, but there are indications sentiment in the House also is shifting in its favor.

Under the rationing plan, gasoline coupons would be issued on the basis of how many cars are owned by each motorist. A person who commutes 50 miles to work in Texas could receive the same number of coupons as a resident of Connecticut who commutes 10 miles.

Late Wednesday, White House aides agreed to a compromise under which 10 percent of the nation's gasoline reserves during a serious shortage would be used to alleviate regional inequities.

Governors in states of high per capita gasoline usage, mainly in the West and South, would be allocated extra coupons which could be used to make the rationing system more fair.

The 10 percent allocation proposal was contained in letters from White House domestic adviser Stuart Eizenstat to key members of the Senate committee and the House Commerce Committee.

Until Carter promised to off-set the potential imbalance, key House and Senate members had said the rationing plan was dead.

Among them was Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., chairman of a Senate energy conservation subcommittee, who said the rationing plan would have been rejected in the committee without the president's new proposal.

"That tipped the balance," he said, "along with the realization that the energy situation is really serious."

Sen. Henry Jackson, D Wash., chairman of the full energy committee, said members of the House and Senate are becoming aware that there will be serious gasoline shortages this summer, and that there will be insufficient reserves of heating oil this fall and winter.

While the rationing plan would not be ready to use until fall, if then, Jackson said Congress should give Carter some standby authority even if the proposal is imperfect.

Under federal law, Carter's emergency energy conservation measures can be either approved or rejected by Congress, but not changed.

Friday update

Tax Bill Okayed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)-The Senate Finance Committee has approved a tax relief bill without even knowing how much it costs.

The committee bill would revise the House version by eliminating proposed homestead exemptions for elderly and disabled Texans who have incomes exceeding $10,000 a year. It was approved 9-2.

Both proposals implement the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment, which voters adopted overwhelmingly, with the elderly promoting its passage in hopes of getting tax breaks.

Sen. Carl Parker assailed the 1978 amendment, however, as a "flimflam."

"If you had a recipe for Mulligan's stew and called it the 'Tax Relief Amendment,' it would pass," said Parker. "We flim flammed the public by putting that name on it."

Oil Tax To Bite Less

WASHINGTON (AP)-President's Carter's proposed tax on oil profits would have far less bite than generally supposed on the additional billions of dollars oil price decontrol will give to producers.

Although described originally as a 50 percent tax, the levy actually will cost oil companies only about 13 percent of the first three years' worth of extra income from decontrol, according to figures made public by the administration for the first time Thursday

BudgetWork Complete

AUSTIN (AP)-The Senate Finance Committee completed work Thursday on a state budget for 1980-81 which exceeds a House proposal by $600 million.

Chairman Grant Jones estimated the Senate bill totals $20.9 billion. If adopted, the spending total would exceed the House's $20.3 billion proposal - a budget that Governor Bill Clements termed "totally unacceptable."

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

The Vernon Record reports that Odessa had more out-of-town visitors than it could accommodate last weekend. It seems that back in March, officials of Vernon High School made reservations at a Holiday Inn in Odessa for last Friday night for 21 high school students and their sponsors. The students were to compete in the Region I University Interscholastic League meet.

So, when the appointed day arrived, the Vernon school loaded its students and sponsors aboard a chartered bus, which transported them to Odessa. But when they arrived, they were told that they didn't have reservations, but that an organization was holding a convention there and had everything booked.

After protests failed to solve the situation, Princpal James Easley put the group back on their chartered bus and they went to Midland to get motel rooms. The Record reported that the Vernon principal was convinced that the management of the motel simply felt that the conventioners who could visit the motel club and run up bills for alcoholic beverages and entertainment would be more profitiable to their operation than a bunch of chaperoned high school students.

This could put some new fire in sentiment to change the site of the regional UIL meet.

Riders Have It Rough In College Rodeo Arena

Thrills and some rough spills marked the first night Thursday of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association event.

Scores of college cowboys and cowgirls have traveled to Snyder to participate in the rodeo that will go on nightly through Saturday at the rodeo grounds on West 30th St.

Last night, bareback riders had a rough go of it with only four of eight contestants scoring. The highest score was a 66 set by Terry Harter of Cisco Junior College.

Bull riders had a worse time of it. In that rough competition, only two out of 14 contestants scored. The best score was brought in by Danny Mason of Texas Tech University with a 66. Sene Smith, a Tarleton State University cowboy, came in with a 55.

Spots were also reserved for cowgirls. Crill Pearson of Sul Ross University scored an impressive 3.84 seconds in breakaway roping, and Gina Burnes of Texas Tech brought in a time of 12.21 seconds in goat tying.

Complete results of Thursday night's rodeo follow:

Hospital Room Rates Increased

Rooms at Cogdell Memorial Hospital will cost patients $10 a day more effective, May 1, the directors decided last night at their regular monthly board meeting. The price of a semi-private room will rise to $66 and a private room will cost $70.

The increase came on the recommendation of Cy Miller, hospital administrator. Miller said the increase is needed to help cover the spiraling costs of utilities, food, salaries and other day-to-day expenses.

"We are at a point that we must raise the room rates or become a dredge on the taxpayers," he said.

Miller said this is the first increase since December of 1977 and that rates will still be below those charged by area hospitals including those in Sweetwater, Colorado City and Big Spring. Board member Sam Cross made the motion and Roy Kidd seconded it. The decision was unanimous.

Also at last night's meeting the Cogdell Hospital medical scholarship committee was named. Serving on that committee will be Alvie Dolen, Ruby Anderson, Charles Thomas and Colleen Duke.

In other action, the board gave Miller permission to continue having sunscreen applied to hospital windows that receive the most sunlight. Miller said in a comparison test, a room with the screen was 20 degrees cooler than the one without it. Miller said the screen cost about 90 cents a square but that he could possibly get a better price by buying in volume.

The board also approved the administrative report for March.

More Study Devoted To Jail Building

There are not many options for putting Scurry County's old jail building into use---that is without a lot of expense.

On the other hand, there appears to be no need for a rush decision. That was word conveyed by an architect to a Scurry County Historical Commission committee following an inspection tour Thursday afternoon. Bill Robinson, a Lubbock architect who had volunterred to look over the old building, said the structure appeared to be sound, but obviously it would require a big project to put any of it except the ground floor into use.

The ground floor, which was the jailer's quarters, could easily be converted into offices, or even rented as an apartment or used for a business, Robinson said. However, he said that if a permenant solution or suggestion is not forthcoming soon, he saw no reason why the old building could not stand unoccupied for a couple of years without serious deterioration.

Meanwhile, the committee has judges pondering entries in a contest for the best suggestion for using the old jail building. Winners are due to be announced soon. Then, the committee will resume its studies and hopefully come up with a recommendation.

Nuclear Plants Will Shut Down

WASHINGTON (AP)-Nuclear power plants designed by Babcock & Wilcox, the builder of the stricken Three Mile Island unit, will shut down voluntarily for safety improvements, a top Nuclear Regulatory Commission official announced today.

Harold Denton, who had recommended Wednesday that the NRC order temporary shutdowns, told the commission that utility companies operating the plants have promised to shut them down voluntarily to conduct new safety analyses, make safety modifications, prepare new emergency procedures, and improve the training of plant operators.

Denton, the NRC's director of nuclear reactor regulation, said three plants already shut down for refueling or maintenance will remain out of Operation until the improvements are accomplished; they are Arkansas Unit One in Arkansas, Crystal River Unit Three in Florida and David-Besse in Ohio.

He said the Rancho Seco plant in California promised to shut down Saturday.

Duke Power Co. promised to shut down one of the three Oconee units on Saturday, a second unit on May 12, and the third unit one week later.

Already shut down are the two remaining Babcock & Wilcox nuclear plants - the heavily damaged Three Mile Island Unit Two and its sister plant, Unit One, near Harrisburg, Pa.

Daylight Saving Time begins this weekend.

The change will take place officially at 2 a.m. Sunday when clocks will be advanced one hour.

To have the correct time Sunday morning you may set your clocks and watches before retiring Saturday night by moving them ahead one-hour--that is, if it is 10 p.m. when you make the change, move it up to 11 p.m. All of Texas will be on Daylight Saving Time, along with most of the remainder of the nation.

Runoff Vote Tomorrow

Voters in the Snyder Independent School District will go back to the polls tomorrow to fill Place 1 on the district's board of trustees.

Vera McSpadden, incumbent and Lillie Sullivan are candidates in the runoff election, which was called when no candidates in the April 7 election received a majority of the votes.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. in the city hall.

In the April 7 election, Mrs. McSpadden received 369 votes, while Mrs. Sullivan, who conducted a write-in campaign, received 300 votes. Vera Stansell, the only candidate listed on the ballot besides Mrs. McSpadden, received 58 votes, and Elton Beck, another write-in candidate, received 55 votes.

Write-in votes are not permitted in the runoff election.

One other position on the school board, Place 2, was filled in the April 7 voting as Bill Seale won over Don Stacy in a two-man race. Seale succeeded Max von Roeder on the board.

All qualified voters who live in the Snyder Independent School District are eligible to cast ballots in tomorrow's election.

Price Surges Will Probably Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter's advisers are offering little hope that consumers have seen the end to price surges such as the 1 percent interest in March.

"We can still expect months of bad news on the economy," especially on the inflation front, White House press secretary Jody Powell said Thursday after the Labor Department reported the latest rise.

The March increase - fueled by large price rises in food, fuel and housing - followed boosts of 1.2 percent in February and 0.9 percent in January. That translates to an annual inflation rate of 13 percent for the first quarter - the worst quarterly rise in 4½ years and far above the president's 7.4 percent target.

Despite continuing sharp increases in prices, Powell insisted the administration will stick to its anti-inflation policies that include voluntary wage and price guidelines.

drinking water clash

Two federal administration chiefs have moved to head off new rules and regulations which will cost tap water users untold increases in their bills as communities are forced to meet rigid requirements.

Most domestic water systems have been using chlorination for years to protect users from bacterial contamination. There are other methods of protection, but any so far devised would cost tremendous amounts of money to produce the same result without chlorination.

There are some that are far better than the usual cholorination and the resultant water is more pure and without the taste resulting from chlorine acting on other material. These systems could be less costly if a dual water supply were available wherein only the drinking and cooking water was treated. By far the greatest amount of domestic water is used for purposes which do not require a high degree of purity.

However, the cost of establishing a dual system would be tremendous for existing homes, business and institutions. So, for the foreseeable future, a dual water system is too expensive even to consider.

Never one to consider the cost-effective factor for any of its rules and regulations, EPA and its officials were alarmed and angered by a memorandum from Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers and Alfred E. Kahn, the president's chief advisor on inflation. These two had the temerity to ask for re-examination of the new rules, saying they could be "prohibitively expensive."

The EPA wants the new rules because several "studies" show that chlorinated water contains organic chemicals which may be cancer causing. These chemicals form when cholrine combines with organic materials which are present in more or less degree in much of the nation's drinking water.

The effect is noticeable in the taste of the water and varies different times of the year. But cholorination has been proven as an effective method of controlling bacterial disease which could be carried to households.

"It is scientifically impossible to prove that drinking water anywhere in America causes cancer," biochemist Robert Harris told an EPA hearing on the currently proposed new regulations. He said there was mounting circumstantial evidence. Harris made a study for EPA of the New Orleans water system. It was this study that caused the Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974 to be passed. This measure is supposed to set federal standards for 240,000 systems which service the nation.

There are vast differences in locality, time of year and even time of day in the amounts of material upon which the chlorination may react. The EPA therefore chose a broad - brush attack on the "problem." The agency planned to concentrate its controls on 390 communities of more than 75,000 population and to monitor those between 10,000 and 75,000 people. Smaller communities will not be affected, the agency avers.

If the danger is great enough to force enormous added costs on water consumers, why ignore the people in smaller communities? Are they less deserving than those living in larger cities? We don't think the danger is proven to the point where it is reasonable or feasible to demand drastic changes in water purification methods.

In stories concerning this latest crusade by the EPA, we have noted that alternate methods off purification have been conspicuous by their absence. Are they asking to risk bacterial contamination by lowering the chlorination? Or are they telling communities to invent methods as yet untried?

A magazine recently surveyed a group of teenage girls in which 80 percent of them said that a pleasing personality and a sense of humor were the prime consideration in accepting a first date.

Oh sure, and I'll bet the boys said the same thing. They always do.

Being touted for a blind date by reassuring the blindee "she has a wonderful personality" is like being named Miss Congeniality in the Pillsbury Bake-off. It's a kiss-off. Who cares?

I'm no dummy. When I was in school I saw boys date girls with waists bigger than their IQs. I sat next to a girl once who had the personality of a leftover, but she was definitely assembled at the factory. She took the History of Russia course only because the class was at 9:30 a.m. and she got the morning sun on the right side of her body. (This worked out perfectly with The Wit and Humor of Ho Chi Minh, which she took because it had a window with a western exposure so that she could tan the left side of her body.)

She had a date when she had her teeth cleaned.

I pegged her as one of the few who would never diagram a sentence in her lifetime, but would somehow overcome this handicap.

Frankly, a pleasing personality and a good sense of humor bears too great a stigma to ever overcome. Mothers used to say that when they were trying to palm off a girl who breathed through her mouth and had a nice tooth.

Or when they were trying to set up a boy who raised earthworms and had a collection of Barbie dolls in his room.

In all the years I was in the dating marketplace, not once did I hear a boy or girl say, "Wow! Would you get a load of that pleasing personality and check out that sense of humor."

Worse, no one ever described a blind date as "really stacked and looks like a prom queen, but don't hang up – underneath it all she has a pleasing personality and a sense of humor."

I'm skeptical. I think surveys reflect what the participants want to believe is true. Face it. Guys don't go out with a pleasant personality and a sense of humor.

They marry it though.

Well, it has been once more into the breach for the First Amendment, and once more it emerges riddled with judicial buckshot.

In the latest encounter, to sketch in the background as briefly as possible, the Supreme Court has found that a journalist enjoys no constitutional protection from being questioned as to either his personal opinions while working on a news story or editorial decisions made during its preparation.

The "state of mind" case, as it is probably going to be known in the continuing skirmishing between courts and media, arose from a libel suit brought against Columbia Broadcasting System and others by a retired Army officer objecting to the skeptical treatment the program "60 Minutes" accorded his widely publicized allegations of Vietnam war atrocities. Questioned at length in pretrial proceedings, the program producer declined to comment on his own opinions, decisions and conclusions concerning material prepared for the program or his conversations with others involved in its presentation.

The court's six-justice majority held in effect that there is no constitutionally based privilege in these areas during pretrial proceedings. And it rejected the contention that to deny such journalistic privacy would put a "chill" on the news-gathering process.

That term echoes the reaction to a previous press-freedom case, last year's landmark Stanford Daily decision in which the Supreme Court upheld police searches of news premises without warning. In that instance, John Hughes, editor of the ultra-respected Christian Science Monitor and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, observed that the way had been opened to governmental intrusion that "could have a chilling effect on the operations of the press..."

Other cases have involved the confidentiality of reporters' notes and sources and the imprisonment of newsmen under circumstances that might appear to bring another constitutional protection into play - that against "cruel and unusual punishment."

The current case is a variation in that it directly involves broadcasting rather than newspapers. Also, it applies only to libel suits involving public figures and only to pretrial proceedings. But in opening the entire editorial process to judicial scrutiny it sets a far-reaching precedent and raises media-wide concern. To hear some of the more excitable reaction, the series of adverse decisions adds up to a witch hunt.

That's putting it a bit strong. The worst that can be said is that the courts, the Supreme Court in particular, have tended in the series of press freedom cases to be consistent in construing First Amendment guarantees in the narrowest sense and in showing little sympathy for the conception the press has of its constitution position. And that's is that while news-gathering organizations and individuals are publicly responsible for the consequences of their actions and decisions, those actions and decisions - the editorial process - are shielded from the intrusion of government working through any of its agencies.

This invocation of "absolute privilege" has been specifically rejected by the author of the "state of mind" majority opinion, Justice Byron White. It is neither "required" nor "authorized" in his view. And besides, scrutiny of the editorial process will discourage "only knowing or reckless error." Freedom of speech or of the press as such is not abridged.

Well, nice work if we can get it. But it's not always that easy to distinguish in advance the acceptable from the nonacceptable "state of mind", to separate the bad from the good guys. For example, and to return to a subject touched upon briefly above, something like this was the theory some years back when witches really were being hunted. The innocent had nothing to fear from the ultimate trial by fire, the all-knowing theologians assured. Their purity would protect them.

Only the certified witches had to worry about getting burned.

Exxon Profits Rise 37.4%

NEW YORK (AP)-Exxon Corp., the nation's largest oil company, said today that profits had risen 37.4 percent in the first quarter of 1979, the result of rising crude oil prices.

The company, the nation's second-largest industrial firm, said earnings for the first three months of the year were $955 million, or $2.16 per share, up from $695 million, or $1.55 per share, in the same period of 1978.

Revenues in the quarter were $18.7 billion, a 23 percent rise over the $15.2 billion sales Exxon reported in last year's first quarter.

The increase in Exxon profits exceeded the expectations of many Wall Street analysts, who had been predicting an increase of about 25 percent.

All oil companies are expected to report significantly higher profits for the first quarter because of the rise in crude oil prices brought on by the Iranian crisis and the accompanying jump in the prices of gasoline, heating oil and other petroleum products in the United States.

The weekend is finally here and its time to get out of the house and into the fresh air. For those of you who enjoy watching the thrills and spills of rodeoing, check out the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association rodeo being hosted by Western Texas College this weekend at the rodeo arena on west 30th Street. Action continues tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30. Top contender Lane Foltyn will be attempting to extend his winning bull riding streak. This rough and ready El Campo freshman went into this rodeo with a total of 285 points, first place in the region. He is also in second place for all around honors.

Another WTC star, Tammie Matthews, is barrel racing. This speedy sophomore from Odessa is now ranked first in the region. With 362 points, she is a galloping 100 points ahead of her nearest competitor and has already assured herself a trip to the national finals.

For a good excuse to put off mowing the lawn, try the Pump Jack Golf Tournament at the country club. Considered one of the top golf meets in West Texas this swinging event tees off tomorrow and continues through Sunday. A driving contest begins today at 6 p.m. Top prize in the two day tournament is a trip for two to Las Vegas.

And if you really want to get out of town, remember the Region 1 track meet Saturday in Odessa. While not expected to win the tourney, Tigers expected to do well include: 440 man Lloyd Benson, pole vaulter Dale Jenkins and sprinter Ronnie Collins. Also Brad Richardson is going into the meet with the best high jump mark, 6-8, and Thomas Selmon is a scant 3 inches behind the long jump leader with 23-5½ leap.

Today in Odessa, coach Bill Boles is testing his District 3-A tennis champions in regional competition. The two-day tourney concludes tomorrow. Competing for Snyder are the Wesson brothers doubles team, Jay and Jeff, and Neil Paige in the singles slot.

But if you're not into supporting the local sportsters, and find rodeoing too rough to even watch and if golf isn't your bag go ahead and lie around the house this weekend. And if the little lady in your life finds so many piddling jobs for you to do that you can't even watch Battle of the Sexes in peace, don't blame me. I tried to help. Why do you think they invented spectator sports in the first place?

Amtrak Bookings Up 40 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP)-Passenger bookings on Amtrak during the coming weeks are up 40 percent over the same period last year, but officials of the nation's federally-subsizided passenger rail system can't explain why.

Amtrak spokesman Joseph Vranich said some of the increase is due to a strike which grounded United Airlines planes March 31. But he said there have been advance bookings even where United does not fly. He added that the higher advance booking rate does not mean actual ridership will be up by 40 percent.

Vranich said Amtrak trains carried 6,494,000 passengers between October 1978 and the end of January this year, an increase of 6 percent over the same period a year earlier.

Also, the PTA received a certificate of appreciation from the district president, Mrs. Marilyn Shultz of Abilene.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Howard Schenken made one great contribution to bridge bidding. Together with the late Edward Hymes Jr., he developed the weak two bid in 1942 or 1943.

He did not invent it. It had been used in the old Vanderbilt Club system. It had been suggested by Thornton Richardson and used in various forms by many others, but Howard and Eddy produced a workable bid that is in general expert use, is part of advanced standard American and of Jacoby modern and is a bid we can recoomend to all bridge players today. In fact, we will devote next week's articles to this bid.

If no one is using weak two bids, East opens one club in fourth seat. South overcalls in spades. West bids hearts, North raises spades and probably West winds up making an easy five hearts.

When South opens with a weak two spades, West does not act. North jumps to four spades and that bid buys the contract.

If East and West cash two hearts and one club. South is held to 10 tricks; if they don't cash out, he makes more by setting up diamonds.

Consumer Food News

COLLEGE STATION--Best buys this week at Texas grocery markets include poultry products, canned features and frozen items on special.

Also, dairy products bask in the limelight this week, says Gwendolyne Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

POULTRY -- Whole fryers, fryer legs and mixed parts are economical.

Some stores offer turkey features, and eggs offer budget-stretching protein, although prices are slightly higher.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES--Features include canned fruits and vegetables, pink salmon, pasta and tomato products, along with pickles and peanut butter.

FROZEN FOOD-Specials include vegetables, pot pies, ice cream, french fries and hash browns.

DAIRY--Limelight items are milk, yogurt and a variety of cheeses.

PORK--Prices, although they are not low, offer more reasonable buys than beef, because pork supplies are more ample.

Features include whole loins, chops, loin roasts, rib-end roasts, shoulder steaks and pork liver. In cured meats, expect moderate prices on semi-boneless hams, sausage and frankfurters.

BEEF--Features are few. Most reasonable prices appear on ground beef with soy protein, sirloin, round and chuck steaks, chuck roasts and liver.

FRESH VEGETABLES--Prices are lower on asparagus, carrots, celery, corn and head lettuce. Fresh spinach has good quality and attractive prices.

Demonstration For Jayceettes

Self-defense for women was the subject of demonstrations given Monday night for Jayceetes by martial arts students from Western Texas College.

The demonstrations included aikido tactics, among the most effective self-defense skills. The students also demonstrated judo techniques. Dr. Shel Hillis is instructor for the martial arts at WTC and accompanied the students to the program.

Dance Slated At Armory

Annual Tournament Begins Saturday...

Pump Jack Meet Notes Strong Field

A strong field of golfers from throughout the state will converge here tomorrow for the annual Pump Jack Golf Tournament at Snyder Country Club.

While the actual tournament does not tee off until 8:30 a.m. Saturday, many of the players will compete in a driving contest at 6 p.m. today.

Golfers from as far away as San Antonio, Pampa, Richardson and Houston have entered the 60-team, two-day tournament, one of West Texas' top golfing events of the year.

"The tournament was filled over a week ago, and I've got people on a waiting list," smiled pro and club manager Don Bryant. "We should have a pretty strong field. A lot of very good golfers will be here."

Returning to the tournament - but not as a team - will be last year's Championship Flight winners Jay White and Mark Smith of Lamesa. White will play with Randy Addison, Lamesa, this year, while Smith will team with Jim Rosson, also of Lamesa.

Some top local duos include Larry Anderson, teamed with Don Copeland of the metroplex, and Dr. R.J. Kidd and Howard Crenshaw.

The tournament will stage six flights, and will begin with a shotgun start Saturday morning as the Championship, First and Second flights tee off. The Third, Fourth and Fifth flights will tee off at 1:30 p.m.

On Sunday, the Third through Fifth flights will take off at 9 a.m., followed by the Championship through Second Flights at 2.

In addition to the tournament, Snyder Country Club will host a Saturday dinner dance for the competitors and their mates.

Baseball Correction

The Snyder High School varsity baseball game with Lamesa was to be played today, 4 p.m., at Moffett Field.

Our apologies to anyone inconvienced by an article in Thursday's paper which called for the game to be held that day.

Region I Meets Underway Today

ODESSA—Snyder High School, which concluded its bid in the regional golf tournament here yesterday, buses two more groups of athletes and coaches this direction today and tomorrow.

The Region I tennis tournament was scheduled to get underway at 10:30 this morning - Snyder has three individuals in that - and the annual track and field meet holds prelims in the hurdle events this afternoon, in lieu of Saturday's finals.

District 3-3A singles champion Neil Paige was to open the regional tennis tournament for Snyder by taking on Griffith of Iowa Park at 10:30 a.m. Schoolmates Jay and Jeff Wesson - the 3-3A doubles champions - were to play a team from Pecos at 1:30. Winners of both matches advance to second-round action at 3:30. Finals and consolation will be held Saturday morning at 10:30.

Don Chandler, running for Snyder in the 330 intermediate hurdles at the regional track and field meet, is the only Tiger that will see action today. Chandler will run in the 330 prelims at 5:35 this afternoon. The 120 high hurdle prelims were to be run at 1:30.

All other events of the 1979 Region I Track Meet will be considered as finals. Those begin at 1 p.m. Saturday - W.T. Barrett Stadium - with the sprint (440-yard) relay and the broad jump.

Snyder, which sends 10 athletes in 10 events to the meet, will enter an individual in every event except the discus, shot and 880 run. The Tigers are the District 3-3A champions.

Westerners Play For Charity

The nationally ranked Western Texas College Westerners will be back in action Saturday, this time for charity.

The Westerners will meet a group of All Stars at 10 a.m. in the WTC gymnasium for a benefit basketball game for the March of Dimes.

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children Concessions will be provided by Dr. Pepper.

The Stars will be captained by WTC coach Nolan Richardson, and will be staffed by Glenn Polk, Larry Genuchi, Frank Biggers, Earl Pearson, Albert Malone and Bob Johnson.

Dr. Jim Tully will officiate with help from the WTC athletic department in scoring and time keeping.

Entertainment will also be provided at halftime.

Astros Notch 14th Victory

CHICAGO (AP)-J.R. Richard picked up his fourth straight win on the mound this season and smacked a home run to boot as the Houston Astros ripped the Chicago Cubs 6-2 here Thursday.

The victory puts Houston 13-5 for the campaign and gives the Astros a four-game lead over the rest of the National League Western Division pack.

Richard homered in the third and Bob Watson and Alan Ashby contributed run-scoring singles in the fourth. Craig Reynolds doubled in a run in the fifth and singled home two runs in the sixth.

Joe Sambito, who entered the gave for Richard after the 6-8 pitcher had a slight back sprain, hurled the final four innings as picked up his third save.

Richardson Named WTC Athletic Director

Nolan Richardson, men's basketball coach at Western Texas College for the past two seasons, has been named Athletic Director for the college.

His appointment to the post is effective immediately.

"The board, administration and community could not be more pleased with Nolan Richardson as a coach and individual," commented WTC president Dr. Robert Clinton. "He has certainly set very high standards in the community and at the college, and we are extremely pleased to have him as our athletic director."

As coach of the Westerners Richardson took his team to conference and regional championships for the past two years, and finished fourth in the national tournament in 1979.

He has been named conference, region and Texas junior college Coach of the Year for the past two years.

As athletic director, Richardson will represent WTC at conference meetings and handle much of the dealings of the athletic department. Lee Burke will remain as director of the physical education program.

Richardson was in Roswell, N.M. at the annual Western JC Athletic Conference spring meeting, and unavailable for comment.

76ers Blast Spurs 120-97

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-76er Julius Erving slapped in 32 points, the Spurs countered with 26 percent first-half shooting and the result was predictable here last night. Philadelphia routed the San Antonio team 120-97 to trim the Spurs' margin to 3-2 in their best-of-seven, NBA Eastern Conference semifinal playoff series.

The series moves back to Philadelphia on Sunday for the sixth game.

The slang term "limey" - used for Englishmen - originated with the British Navy's inclusion of lime juice, to prevent scurvy, in ships' provisions for long voyages.

Tiger Golfers 6th; Coach Greene Adds Praise For Team

ODESSA—Coach Mackey Greene's Snyder golf team won't be going to state, but he's pleased with the effort expended in the 1979 Region I Golf Tournament which concluded here yesterday.

The Tigers shot a 308 Thursday to finish the tournament with a total of 618, in sixth place.

"That 308 is the lowest score shot by Snyder in the last five years in any high school competition," remarked the Tiger coach. "It might be longer than that (five years). I'm real proud of them."

Snyder carded a 318 the first day, Wednesday, to tie for sixth spot in the eight-team tournament. The 308 gave them sole possession of sixth place, and an eight-stroke finish over Lamesa, which had beaten them in the District 3-3A meet earlier.

Fort Stockton won the tournament here, held at Golden Acres, with a 599. The Panthers, and runner-up Andrews (600) will advance to the state tournament May 10-12 in Austin.

Other scores included Borger, 603; Canyon, 611; Mineral Wells, 618; Snyder; Lamesa, 626; and Burkburnett, 652.

Medalist was G. Ray of Borger with a 71-72-143. Others in the running were Tommy Fincher, Mineral Wells, 73-71-144; George Gonazles, Fort Stockton, 73-71-144; Richard White, Pecos, 72-74-146; Lance McMillan, Snyder, 74-74-148; and Bobby Knox, Brownfield, 75-74-149.

McMillan, an all-district selection, led the Tigers. Kip Wadleigh fired an 82-76-158, while Randy Wolf shot an 81-78-159. Randy Chambers, another all-district golfer, carded an 81-80-161, and Mike Wolf had an 83-83-167.

Region I does not select an all-region team.

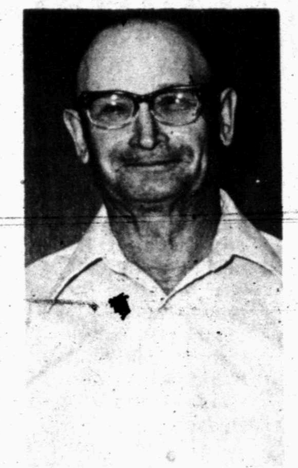
Sunday School Values Get Teacher's Praise

Editor's Note—This is another in a series of articles prepared by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance in connection with its Sunday School attendance campaign.



WELDON SUMRULD

"I think if we could get people involved in Sunday school that the churches would be in a different condition than they are today spiritually," asserts Weldon Sumruld, Sunday School teacher at Northside Baptist Church.

Sunday school reaches more people than most other church efforts and Sumruld says that he has seen many young people won to the Lord in the classroom.

He explains that Sunday school doesn't just teach about God and salvation; it teaches how to live each day. That's something that is harder to glean from a church service because there is no close teacher-pupil contact involved with a sermon.

Sumruld feels that he was called by God to teach just as ministers are called to preach and he just wouldn't be happy doing anything else. He says, "I could not ever be satisfied as long as I am physically able and not doing anything. I've been too involved in Sunday School teaching."

He says he was raised in Sunday school and has studied the Bible for over 60 years because God laid it on his heart to learn and teach. He has taught all ages in Sunday school these past 30 years and the last seven or eight years he has taught the adult auditorium Bible Class.

Sumruld, who says God has given him the ability to like almost everyone he meets instantaneously, points out that "if we love God, we are to love humanity."

He feels great responsibility in his teaching because he believes he will be called to account for what he has taught and what he hasn't. "I believe we're going to be just as responsible as the pastor."

"Paul said if it caused his brother to stumble he wouldn't eat meat. So, we're our brother's keeper whether we want to admit it or not."

The most interesting time of his teaching career was when he taught primary, junior and senior groups. "Because they make you think," he explained. "They ask a lot more questions."

His personal belief is that "A lot of people say that the Bible contains God's Word. But that is not really true, the Bible is God's Word."

The importance of Sunday School cannot be stressed enough, says Sumruld. Some people never study and the only Bible they ever get is what someone else preaches or teaches them. "If a person gets involved in Sunday school, they will study. People who just attend church usually are not Bible scholars and are not really in a close church relationship."

Glenn Polk will play the role of Noah in the presentation of "The Rainbow Express," a musical drama, at First Baptist Church.

It will be presented by the Pre-Teen Choir of the church and will feature a cast of 56 children and two adults. The other adult actor is Bobby Wells, who plays the role of Noah's conscience.

"The Rainbow Express" has been labeled a "series-fun musical about God's promise to Noah...and is."

Performances are set for 7 p.m. Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Monday. There will be no admission charge, and the public is invited.

5% Bus Fare Hike Okayed

AUSTIN (AP)-The Texas Railroad Commission has granted increases of approximately 5 percent in passenger, express and charter coach charge for 25 bus lines in the state.

The increases will produce an extra $2,533,881 in revenue each year.

Even with the increases, the commission's staff said, Texas fares will be about 17 percent under interstate fares elsewhere in the country.

Carriers granted the increases were American Buslines, Inc.; Arrow Coach Lines; Central Texas Bus Lines; Continental Bus System; Continental Panhandle Lines; Continental Southern Lines; Continental Trailways; Greyhound Lines; Jordan Bus Co.; Kerrville Bus Co.; Midwest Buslines; New Mexico Transportation Co; Oklahoma Transportation Co.; Painter Bus Lines.

Union Baptist Sets Revival

The Rev. Joe Robert of Waco will be the evangelist for a revival meeting April 30-May 6 at Union Baptist Church, located five miles west of Snyder on the Lamesa Highway.

He will preach each night at 8 p.m., following meetings of prayer groups at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Wiedel of Faith Baptist Church in Snyder, will lead the music for the revival.

A native of Waco, Rev. Robert has been in the ministry for the past 15 years. He is pastor of Katy Heights Baptist Church in Waco and has held other pastorates in New Mexico, Oklahoma and Arkansas as well as Texas. He is a veteran of World War II. He is a graduate of Belmeade High School and attended Midwestern University at Wichita Falls.

A nursery will be provided for all revival services, and the public is invited to attend.

Seminars Set By Baptists

Statewide seminars for preschool and children's workers in churches will be sponsored by Texas Baptists May 21-24 in Big Spring.

Dorothy Clader, child psychologist and nurse from Midland, will be guest consultant. The Sunday School Division of the Baptist General Convention of Texas is the sponsor.

The seminars will meet at First Baptist Church in Big Spring. The schedule will be 6 p.m. Monday, May 21, until noon Thursday, May 24. Participants should register in advance by sending $25, for materials and three meals, to Karl Bozeman, seminars coordinator, 406 Baptist Building, Dallas 75201.

Cameras Coming

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)-Cameras are coming to Ohio's courtrooms, and judges should take full advantage of the situation, says one jurist. Among other things, he says, they can lay in a supply of theatrical makeup, practicing curling their upper lip and make sure they're in the center of the camera.

Hunter's Museum Locates At Pueblo

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—The Hunting Hall of Fame, a national museum dedicated to hunters and hunting conservation, will be located at Pueblo Memorial Airport.

K.W. Vaughn, president of the Hunting Hall of Fame Foundation, said foundation business headquarters, however, would remain at Rancho Sante Fe, Calif.

BISHOP RESIGNS--The Most Rev. Stephen A. Leven, Bishop of San Angelo, who has headed the 42,000 square-mile diocese of the Roman Catholic Church for nearly 10 years, has resigned. Pope John Paul II announced the resignation this week. Bishop Leven, who submitted his resignation because of ill health, has been recuperating from open heart surgery in which six by-passes were placed in his heart last December. He plans to serve as chaplain at Blackwell General Hospital in Blackwell, Okla., the town where he was born and later became pastor. A new Bishop of San Angelo has not been named. Normally, the new bishop of a diocese is not named immediately.

New Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP)-A church-state controversy was reported brewing this week over a proposed federal move to cut participation by church-related schools in a job-training program in which they have long participated.

Voicing "grave concern" about it, Bishop Thomas C. Kelly, general secretary of the U.S. Catholic Conference, sent detailed documentation about the move to all Catholic bishops in the country.

He cited preliminary steps by the labor department to draft new regulations against participation by church-related schools in the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, a job-training program in which they have participated since it began in the 1960s.

He said the proposed new labor department regulations were advised by the justice department in reaction to an American Civil Liberties Union lawsuit in Milwaukee against CETA participation by church schools.

Adminstrator Of Diocese Named

Very Rev. Benedict Zientek has been chosen by the Consultors of the Diocese of San Angelo to serve as administrator of the diocese until the naming of a new bishop to head this West Texas Diocese.

The election of Father Zientek as Administrator follows the resignation of the Most Reverend Stephen A. Leven as Bishop of San Angelo. Bishop Leven's resignation was accepted by Pope John Paul II April 24. Bishop Leven has been in ill health since he underwent surgery in December of last year.

Father Zientek is a native of Brenham. He attended St. John's Minor Seminary in San Antonio and completed his philosophy and theology studies at St. Mary's Seminary in Houston. He was ordained a priest in May 24, 1958 at St. Mary's Cathedral in Austin.

Previous assignments include assistant pastor at St. Mary Parish in Brownwood with appointment June 14, 1958. He was then pastor of St. Joseph Parish in Rotan from April 1962 until October 1965.

He served as Administrator at St. Mary's Parish in Odessa from Oct. 30, 1965 until his assignment as pastor of Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Angelo in November 1967.

He became pastor of St. Joseph Parish, Rowena on June 1, 1977. In addition to his new position as administrator of the Diocese of San Angelo, he will continue his pastorate at St. Joseph in Rowena.

Physicist-Priest Sees No Conflict

MARRIOTTSVILLE, Md. (AP)-An atomic physicist who also is an Episcopal priest, the Rev. William G. Pollard, says the two fields do not conflict but rather intermesh and reinforce each other.

He told a conference of college professors in literature, education, engineering, religion, biology, economics and other fields that faith is essential both in physics and religion.

As a physicist, he said it would be difficult for him to comprehend so orderly and predictable a universe unless there was reason behind its organization.

Bill Would Hike Auto Check

AUSTIN (AP)-Texans would pay $1 more for automobile inspections, with most of the money going to raise retirement benefits for state police, liquor agents, Capitol guards and game wardens under a bill passed by the House on Thursday.

Senators now must decide whether to accept House changes, including the one financing the pension increase with higher vehicle inspection fees.

The House version of the bill SB42 would raise the inspection fee from $4 to $5 and apply 85 cents of the increase to pensions.

The Senate would have financed the higher pensions with a special tax collected when vehicles are registered.

An officer with 20 years' service could retire at age 55 under the bill.

If an officer retired with 20 years' service, his benefits from both the regular state employee retirement plan and the supplemental benefits would total half his salary.

Pensions would run as high as 80 percent of an officer's final average salary for those with 40 or more years' service.

How To Wield A Diner's Club

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: STAN, who complained a lot in restaurants, may have gone overboard but he had the right idea. He had a habit of sending back food that was either overcooked, cold, smelled "funny" or wasn't what he ordered. And if the service was poor he left no tip and complained to the management.

Stan also carried a little battery operated fan to blow smoke back into the faces of people who smoked while he was eating.

With the prices one has to pay in restaurants today, we should demand top quality food and first-class service. It is our willingness to accept mediocrity that makes for sloppy service, bad food and shoddy merchandise in general.

As for Stan's little fan, he should be congratulated for having the courage to give those inconsiderated boors a taste of their own pollution.

You probably think I'm just another cheap, demanding, hard-to-please klutz like Stan, but I'm not. I'm one of the millions of weak, gutless wonders of the world who gets ignored, pushed around and walked over while continuing to overtip for second-rate service because I never had the guts not to.

NO GUTS IN FARMINGTON

DEAR NO GUTS: It takes a lot of guts to admit you've got no guts. So you may be a gutsier klutz than you think you are.

DEAR ABBY: Do you believe that only the good die young?

RUPERT IN TORONTO

DEAR RUPERT: Not necessarily. I'm more inclined to believe that only the YOUNG die GOOD!

DEAR ABBY: A friend recently invited us to her home for a salad dinner.

Every guest was asked to bring a salad as well as a going-away gift for a mutual friend who was moving.

When we arrived, there were no less than 75 people standing around. There was no place to sit. The guests were trying to juggle their plates in one hand and coffee cups in the other.

I am of the opinion that when you invite people to dinner you should provide them with a comfortable place to eat.

This was a building contractor's home. Maybe they just wanted to show it off to as many people as possible. Or perhaps they wanted to round up as many gifts as they could.

I've had it. The next time they invite us, I'll say, "Thanks, but no thanks."

Picric Acid Destroyed

By The Associated Press

Demolition experts in at least 16 states have destroyed aging supplies of picric acid, a potentially explosive substance that is being found on back shelves at schools, chemistry labs, hospitals and doctors' offices.

Federal officials in Washington said Wednesday they are preparing to issue a nationwide warning that the substance can be hazardous when it is allowed to crystalize.

Schools have been temporarily evacuated in some states and searches have been ordered for the chemical in some areas.

Crime Victim Bill Wins A Tentative OK

AUSTIN (AP)—Violent crime often inflicts not only pain but financial hardship - medical bills, funeral expenses and lost wages.

A bill setting up a state fund, taken from the pockets of criminals, to help ease those hardships won tentative House approval Thursday, 91-43.

Final passage would return the bill SB21 to the Senate for action on changes made by the House.

One amendment would see to it that a criminal's profits from writing about his experiences were available to compensate people he injured.

Victims of criminal violence or their survivors could receive up to $50,000 from the state for medical or funeral expenses, lost wages and rehabilitation expenses.

To qualify, a victim would have to report the crime within 72 hours.

Only victims whose economic losses resulted in financial hardship for themselves or their families could collect.

Hospital emergency rooms and policemen would have to inform victims of the availability of financial help from the state.

The Texas Industrial Accident Board, which decides workers' compensation claims, would administer the crime victim program.

Money for compensating victims would come from court costs of $10 paid by persons convicted of serious misdemeanors and $15 paid by convicted felons.

Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Salado, called it a "pay as you go provision. We are going to make the people who perpetrate crimes put up $10 or $15."

He said the requirement to report crimes within 72 hours "will help our people in law enforcement find out about these crimes being committed."

Rep. Bob Maloney, R-Dallas, asserted the bill might be an unconstitutional grant of public money to individuals and said he was "most concerned that this will begin a philosophy in this state of state-subsidized insurance."

"This is a switch from the Robin Hood theory of robbing the rich and giving to the poor. This is taking from the poor and giving to the poor," Maloney said of the court costs to build the compensation fund.

Rep. Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason, called the bill "a method of socialized law" that would penalize people who "had foresight enough" to buy insurance.

"It only helps those who will not help themselves," Geistweidt said.

Rare Crane Chick Hatched

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-A rare whooping crane chick was hatched Thursday at the San Antonio Zoo from one of three eggs being tended by bantam jungle fowl hens acting as foster mothers.

The chick is "doing fine," said David McKelvey, senior aviculturist at the zoo. It is not yet possible to determine the sex of the chick, he said.

Ektu, mate of the late Crip, produced eight eggs last month, five of which were fertile. Crip died last month after living three decades in captivity.

One chick died last week after poking its beak through its shell. Another egg was sent to the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Maryland for incubation.

There are only about 100 whooping cranes remaining. The species nearly became extinct in the 1940s.

City Firemen Called Twice

Two grass fires were extinguished Thursday by city firefighters.

The first occurred about 2 p.m. at the Musslewhite trucking yard on the Old Lubbock Highway.

The second was at 7:12 p.m. at 118 Browning St.

Swedish officials hope to make wood the nation's main source of fuel within 10 to 15 years.

Say State Mortgage Bankers...

No 10% FHA, VA Loans Until Usury Laws Clear

HOUSTON (AP)-Until the Texas usury law is clarified, there will be no FHA or VA loans made in the state at the new 10 percent interest rates, say state mortgage bankers.

The Federal National Mortgage Bankers Association, also called Fanny Mae, said Thursday it, too, planned to avoid such Texas mortgages if they exceed 9⅞ percent.

In Austin, Gov. Bill Clements stood firm for the time being on his threat to veto a bill raising the Texas ceiling on mortgage rates, but said he would reconsider his position in light of the new development.

Usury law now limits Texas home loans to 10 percent, and the bankers are afraid the 1 percent origination fee charged purchasers at closing would be construed as interest on the loan.

Daniels said the only home FHA and VA mortgages being made now involve commitments made before the federal officials increased the authorized rates from 9½ percent to 10 percent on Monday.

"We want to know if this would be interpreted as a 10½ percent interest charge and put us in violation of the state usury law," Daniels said at the opening of the Texas mortgage bankers' annual meeting.

"If so," he continued, "it could be very costly and would apply to all such bans."

Claude E. Pope, president of the Mortgage Bankers of America, said the state usury law is outmoded and creates a "trade barrier" by curtailing the flow of mortgage money into the state at a time when the national rate ranges from 10¼ to 11 percent.

Oakley Hunter, president and chairman of the Fanny Mae agency that borrows money on the open market and purchases home mortgages, said Texas mortgages will be acquired only if the rate does not exceed 9⅞ percent.

"We want to help the housing industry where we can, but I don't want to go to jail," he said.

Clements said the announcement by mortgage bankers has forced him to take another look at Texas home mortgage interest rates.

"I have not relaxed my position, but this new stand by mortgage bankers is going to cause [illegible] consideration," said Clements, who last week repeated his threat to veto any measure to raise Texas' interest maximum from 10 percent to 12 percent. "I don't know what the effect will be."

The governor noted that the Legislature passed a bill exempting federal FHA and VA loans from Texas' interest ceiling, but the Texas attorney general has expressed doubts in the past as to the constitutionality of the exemption.

Red River Floodwaters Surging Towards Crest

By Michael Kuchwara
Associated Press Writer

Rising Red River floodwaters, surging toward an expected crest today, churned along a 150-mile front of prime prairie farmland from Grand Forks, N.D. to Winnipeg, Manitoba, threatening the area's important wheat crop.

National Guard helicopters swooped low Thursday over the upper Red River Valley, their crews scanning vast flooded areas in search of marooned farm families. "There was water as far as you could see going north into Canada," said one helicopter pilot.

"Our chopper pilots reported a couple of farm families who said they hadn't seen anybody in four days and appreciated the food brought in," Lt. Col. Adrian Beltrand said Thursday.

In East Grand Forks, Minn., and its sister community, Grand Forks, N.D., the Red River climbed to more than 43 feet late Thursday, 1½ feet under its expected crest. As estimated 2,000 persons remain away from their homes in the beleaguered communities, civil defense officials said.

A hot, steady sun baked South Florida Thursday as residents of the wealthy Gold Coast area north of Miami tried to dry out following Wednesday's record rainfall of more than 16 inches in a 24-hour period.

"It's like a big swimming pool here and it's impossible," said Mayor Lenny Kimmel of North Lauderdale, Fla. "The kids are out of school and they're swimming along with the fish and the snakes and the alligators."

In Broward County, hardest hit by the deluge, Low Watson of the Agricultural Extension Service said farm, nursery and livestock business may have been set back by as much as $20 million. Some 5,000 acres of vegetable crops, worth an estimated $5 million, were destroyed by the torrential rains in Palm Beach County.

President Carter declared 40 counties in North Dakota a federal disaster area Thursday and Minnesota Gov. Al Quie said he would request similar designation for Minnesota sections of the valley once the water has receded enough to assess damage.

The flat, fertile Red River Valley allows no real drainage. Flood waters spread over wide acres, threatening a score of towns, breaking through farm dikes and overflowing country roads and interstate highways alike.

Hundreds of farm families have chosen to stay at their sandbagged, waterlogged homes to protect livestock and property.

"You can get in a boat right here and go 10 miles either direction just across the fields," said Ed Jundt, chairman of the Pembina, N.D., Flood Committee. "Most of the grain bins are full of grain and some are sitting in four or five feet of water."

Canadian officials feared the flood waters could delay grain shipments, causing crop losses in the millions of dollars.

A $250 fine and a 30-day jail sentence was levied in the possession of marijuana case against Richard Hernandez.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Rare blood condition

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a multiple anemia. The bones don't make blood and my doct r has tried medicines but it doesn't work. The only way to build up my blood is to take transfusions. My blood is extremely low and I have difficulty in walking. My thighs and hips are sore and hurt. Is there any cure for this? I have a mild heart condition and take medicines for that. I'm 78 years old and live alone.

DEAR READER — The condition you have is reasonably uncommon. In adults the major source of our blood cells is from the bone marrow. Sometimes it quits functioning and doesn't replace the cells that our body destroys regularly. Each one of your red cells has an average life span of only 120 days.

There are so many red cells in the blood that to replace these as they are destroyed, your bone marrow has to manufacture three million new red cells each second. You have so many tiny red cells in your blood that if you measured the surface area it would represent an area of 40,000 square feet.

We tend to take all these things for granted and are only aware of what enormous changes are occurring in our body when some balance is disturbed. There are many reasons why the bone marrow may stop producing enough blood cells to maintain a proper balance.

The bone marrow can be replaced with tumor growth. It can stop functioning because of the toxic response to medicines. Many common medicines can cause this in a few susceptible individuals. There is a long list of chemicals which can induce it also. Finding out which medicine or chemical may have precipitated such a response literally requires a Sherlock Holmes.

Then, of course, your body has to have adequate nutrients to stimulate production. Pernicious anemia is caused by an inadequate amount of vitamin B-12 which is essential to the formation of the new red blood cell. In some people the chronic loss of small amounts of blood, for example, caused by bleeding from the digestive tract, may exhaust the bone marrow's ability to form cells. In its exhausted state, it's unable to respond adequately.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-3, Understanding The Anemias. It will explain to you the delicate balance between the formation of red blood cells and the destruction of the cells plus all the different things that can affect this balance. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As you see, the proper treatment of your blood cell balance mechanism depends entirely on what has caused it. In many instances medicines are very helpful in correcting the problem. In others, treatment is exceptionally difficult and blood transfusions may be the only immediate method of providing adequate support.

Because of many of the true miracles that are accomplished in medicine, I sometimes think that the general public believes that all medical problems can be cured and that the cure should be simple, immediate and cheap. Unfortunately, that's just not the fact of life.
