"NO STRIKE" LIST GROWS

I. & G. N. Freight Service Resumed

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

"Most people think of Landergin Brothers of Amarillo, Texas, as cattle kings and they are," says the Kansas City Daily Grovers Telegram. "But Pat Landergin can be pictured in another role, that of a producer of well fitted swine, fattened on milo and kafir, and of as good a quality as can be put on the market off corn in the corn belt. Just at present California is draining the Panhandle dry of fat hogs," Mr. Landergin said at the stock yards today. "Somehow people seem to have overlooked the Panhandle of Texas as a great swine producing area, and it is a great one. Of course we have some corn there this year, but we do not have to rely on corn to fatten our hogs. I have had as good success fattening hogs on milo and kafir as I ever had with corn, and for cheapness of production nothing can beat these feeds." The Pecos Valley country in New Mexico is coming into its own as a swine producing area, according to Mr. Landergin. Here there is an abundance of alfalfa under irrigation from the artesian wells that water that valley, and the climatic conditions are as good as farrowing and maintenance as the alfalfa and feed supply is favorable to the swine breeder and feeder. Here, too, is another potential source of supply of stock hogs for the Kansas City market, the place where the stock hog buyers naturally congregate for their purchases, Mr. Landergin says. The movement of hogs from the Panhandle to California, very marked at this time, has made the Fort Worth and El Paso hog packers sit up and take notice and bid for Texas hogs, and Texas swine producers are sitting up and taking notice of the general situation. The swine show at Dallas last week was one of the biggest things on the state fair calendar and program. E. W. Houx, president of the Kansas City Live Stock Exchange looks on Texas, and the Panhandle and the Pecos Valley in particular, as two of the greatest potential producers of stock hogs for the Kansas City market. Panhandle and Pecos breeders are using good boars. Pig club work has gotten results in the Panhandle, according to county agent reports made at Dallas last week to a representative of the Telegram who was in attendance on the fair, and these county agents are awake to the possibilities of Kansas City as the great market for Panhandle and all other Texas stocker hogs. The California demand may slump, and probably will. Texas breeders are convinced, and they see in Kansas City a continual market for the well bred stocker hogs that can be produced so cheaply and easily in the Panhandle of Texas. The Panhandle always has its milo and kafir, and since farmers are convinced that these are as good if not better, feeds for hogs they have turned their attention directly to hogs and are making them pay big dividends. The Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College at Stillwater has demonstrated the advisability of fattening hogs on kafir and milo in preference to soybeans and peanuts, and has demonstrated beyond a doubt that the maizes can be used to excellent advantage in fattening hogs as well as maintaining them while getting them ready to be put on the Kansas City market as stocker hogs."

'New York business men and financiers look for a tremendously prosperous fall and winter trade," remarked Dr. Everett Jones to H. N. F. "New York hotels had a dull summer, theatrical producers reported the dullest summer they had ever known and in the business world there was very little buying or selling. All this had been changed before I started home from the big city. Hotels were filling up, playhouses were packed, clothing stores and all the other establishments of trade showed remarkable signs of activity, money was easier and those who are in position to speak or prophesy agree that conditions were vastly improved and that the fall and winter would be very brisk. There are disturbing spots on the sun but normalcy is returning and war time schedules are disappearing. The outlook in the East is certainly very encouraging"

John W. Philp is stated to be the Dallas postmaster to succeed Ballard M. Burgher. John W. Philp is a native Texan, a life long republican, prominent and active in the politics of the state and well qualified for the position. Ballard M. Burgher has held the fat office for eight years. Dallas is the home of Senator Charles A. Culberson. He is responsible for Postmaster Burgher. When the democrats won more than eight years ago the active workers in the city of Dallas, men who had been loyal to party and who had done the fighting and the paying, asked Senator Culberson to appoint an organization democrat or rather to recommend his appointment. Culberson did nothing of the sort. He forgot all about the fighting democrats, the working democrats, the men who always contributed to the campaign funds of the party. He named a man who had been scarcely known as a democrat, a very estima-

JAP DELEGATES ARE WELCOMED BY THOUSANDS

Impressive Ceremonies Mark Arrival of First Contingent to Disarmament Conference.

Spokesman of Delegation Expresses Wishes for Success of Movement Initiated by Harding.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The International conference for limitation of armaments and discussion of Pacific and Far Eastern questions, initiated by President Harding, entered today the final phase of construction with the arrival here of a contingent of Japanese official participants, the first delegation from the invited governments to reach the United States capital. The visitors were received by officials of this government and were cheered by thousands of spectators who lined the streets and extended a welcome as part of the nation's citizenship.

Major General K. Tanaka, heading the military advisory staff of his government, in a statement issued soon after his arrival formally expressed wishes for the "success of the noble task initiated by President Harding with the object of relieving all the nations from the miseries of war and from the heavy expenditure incidental to the rivalry of armaments among the various nations as well as from the desire that the millions who fell in the Armageddon have not died in vain." He declared there was not the "slightest hesitation" on the part of his companions "in tendering our respect and well wishes as to the success" of the conference.

The delegation's arrival was signalized by impressive ceremonies at the Union station. Officers representing the state department, the army and navy had scarcely been introduced to the visitors before the military band began the Japanese National Anthem, following a moment later with the Star Spangled Banner.

Army automobiles were in waiting and soon the delegates, preceded by a cavalry troop from Fort Meyer, Virginia, and accompanied by American officers, began the procession through the city to their hotel residence.

General Tanaka headed the six other Japanese army delegates while Vice Admiral Kanji Kato was the senior ranking naval officer. The delegation was met by Robert Woods Bliss, third assistant secretary of state, Admiral Robert E. Coontz, representing the navy, and by Brigadier General Andrew W. Brewster for the army, accompanied by other distinguished officials.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 23.—The passenger steamer Alameda of the Alaska Steamship Company is on the rocks southeast of Seward, Alaska, but all aboard are safe, according to a message received here today by officials of the company. SUICIDE VICTIM IS NOW IDENTIFIED AS BANKER SPURGIN

By Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 23.—The "Man of Mystery" who committed suicide last Thursday night in a local hotel was identified tonight as Warren C. Spurgin, missing president of the Michigan Avenue Trust Company of Chicago by W. F. Bennett of Miami, former Chicago broker and intimate friend of Spurgin.

The body identified at first as that of "C. Hayden of New York City," was found Friday morning when employes of the hotel forced an entrance to the room. A bullet wound in the forehead and a revolver, containing one spent cartridge, supported the theory of suicide.

Spurgin apparently had taken considerable precaution to obliterate every mark on his clothing which might have led to identification. Even parts of the lining of his shoes had been cut out and could not be found.

YOUNG COUNTY WELL REMAINS OIL SENSATION

Continues Flow Sunday at Rate of 300 Barrels With String of Tools Still in Hole.

Increase of Activity Promised Sunday as Result of Prospects Opened Up by New Deep Sand.

Continuing to flow, at the rate of 300 barrels per hour, with the gas pressure still better than 5,000,000 feet, the North American Oil and Refining Company's No. 1 B. F. Scott-Ruidoso Sunday was the center of interest for all the south end of the district and Graham and South Bend particularly, according to Sunday night reports from the field.

The well is continuing to flow, with an entire string of tools in the hole, and without agitation, and there is every indication that when the tools are removed, and the hole cleaned out the flow will be increased materially.

Activity Promised.

Sunday there were indications of a considerable increase in activity in South Bend fields as the result of the new strike, according to reports from Graham, although the new well had been in scarcely 24 hours

Throughout the entire field it was generally conceded that this new strike is of inestimable value, and everyone, whether oil operators, land owners, or merely citizens of any one of the several towns in the South Bend district, was unanimous in their enthusiasm for the future prospects for really deep operations.

Completions Promised.

Three more completions in the Bunger district are promised for this week, Sunday the Roseli Petroleum Company's No. 1 Grimshaw was waiting only on the completion of storage to drill in, on the 1900-foot sand, and the Hodges, Browning & Kerbow No. 1 Durham was also reported getting ready to drill into the sand on Monday or Tuesday. The third test is the No. 2 Owens of the Sims Oil company, which is due to drill in around Wednesday.

EXECUTIVES AND BOARD BLAMED FOR RAIL WAR

Union Chiefs Issue Statement Deploring Present State of Affairs and Defending Attitude.

Alleged Infringement on Rights of Employes Is Given as Reason for Strike Being Called.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—Responsibility for the nation-wide railroad strike scheduled to begin next Sunday morning was placed on the United States railroad labor board and the carriers in a statement issued here today. This and the announcement that all the general chairmen of the "big five" brotherhoods, numbering about 600 men, also have been cited to appear before the board in Chicago Wednesday, featured today's strike developments here.

The attitude of the union chiefs was explained following a conference of four or five of the big leaders today, in a statement by Warren S. Stone, president of the brotherhood of locomotive engineers, in which the chiefs reiterate their hope that a solution acceptable to the employes may yet be found. It was indicated that the statement may be regarded as an outline of the stand the labor leaders will take when they appear with the executives of the railroads before the labor board.

Chiefs' Statement.

The statement follows:

"With regard to the position of the employes of the railroads at this time, we can only say that their representatives are patiently awaiting for any development that would appear to offer a solution of the problem that now confronts them.

"We are not now nor have we ever been desirous of being a party to precipitating a strike, but when it is quite apparent that the railroads propose to not only reduce wages but to take from those employes practically all the conditions of service that have been maintained for many years, and the railroad labor board is unable, or fails to give us any assurance that the interests of the employes will be protected from such onslaughts by the interests that control the transportaion lines of our country, nothing is left for the employes but to stand on their constitutional rights to retire from the service of these carriers.

Sympathy Move.

"Notwithstanding the fact that wages of the railroad employes have been reduced 12 per cen since July 1, there was no talk about a reduction of freight rates until this crisis came. Now the railroads are attempting to gain the sympathy of the public in this crisis by this late reduction of rates.

"The public would never have received this reduction with the consent of the railroads, had the railroads not been confronted with this emergency."

Besides Mr. Stone, others attending today's conference were W. G. Lee, president of the brotherhood of railroad trainmen; L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors and W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. T. C. Cashen, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, the other member of the "big five" is expected to arrive here tomorrow and attend future conferences of the chiefs.

WORKERS TO REMAIN OUT SAYS FRAME

Strikers Peaceably Awaiting Instructions From Labor Officials as Their Future Course.

Chief of I. & G. N. Brotherhood Goes to Chicago in Response to Summons of Trainmen Chief.

By Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 23.—Freight began moving on the I. & G. N. lines tonight. Further resumption of movement is expected tomorrow, and officials express confidence that within the next few days congestion will be relieved.

The first freight train to run over the lines since the trainmen walked out Saturday at noon arrived in San Antonio from Taylor at 9 o'clock tonight. It was manned by non-union men.

Two switch engines at the local yards of the road were put back into service this afternoon, operating with non-union men. Others will start running today, officials say.

Contrary to reports circulated Sunday, R. D. Frame, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen on the I. & G. N. lines, denied that orders had been received from Chicago for the men to return to work. None of them went to work Sunday.

Frame to Chicago.

Mr. Frame received a telegram from W. G. Lee, chief of the trainmen, yesterday, directing him to come to Chicago immediately to attend the conference there. He left San Antonio at 9:30 o'clock Sunday night over the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad.

Before leaving, Mr. Frame said he had also had a telegram from Mr. Lee directing that the trainmen remain "in status quo" until further instructions. He said he interpreted the order to mean that the men should not walk out at present, but as it was received here after the strike had begun, no action is to be taken now. The men will remain out, he said.

Ruling from Attorney General Daugherty on the instructions of the United States railroad labor board that the roads remain in their present status until after the conference Wednesday is expected tomorrow, according to a statement of United States District Attorney John D. Hartman Sunday night.

Announcement was made today that the San Antonio, Uvalde and Gulf railway operating from the International & Great Northern station here is accepting freight from San Antonio to all points along its lines along the Rio Grande, including Brownsville, Mission and Kingsville. No effect of the strike of the train-

HARDING LEAVES STRIKE QUESTION TO LABOR BOARD

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—A waiting attitude toward the impending railroad strike still prevailed in official circles today and no modification of the indicated intention of the administration to leave all direct conduct of the dealings with it to the railroad labor board was observable.

The cut ordered by the interstate commerce commission in western grain rates remained the only salient move of the government in the railroad situation since the strike call.

Calculations upon this, prepared for the association of railway executives, indicated that the freight decrease given western shippers would make a difference of two cents a bushel on average shipment of wheat between producing districts and primary market centers.

What the future course of the interstate commerce commission toward freight rate reductions, which are considered directly involved in the labor situation, would be, official observers were not disposed to predict, notwithstanding there were indications that an early decision might be reached by the commission upon the second demand for extensive rate reductions before it, that carried in the petition filed in behalf of hardwood lumber producers and manufacturers.

The Weather

West Texas—Monday and Tuesday partly cloudy, colder Tuesday.

East Texas—Monday generally fair; Tuesday partly cloudy to cloudy, cooler in northwest portion.

Oklahoma—Monday increasing cloudy and unsettled, colder.

Sunday's Strike Developments

CHICAGO—Officials representing 350,000 members of the railway clerks organization voted not to authorize a strike at present, thus limiting the number of prospective strikers to about one-fourth of the total rail employes in the nation.

Following were Sunday's developments in the railroad strike situation:

HOUSTON.—Labor leaders claim strike of 600 trainmen on International and Great Northern, which started Saturday, is 100 per cent effective," but road says passenger service is unimpaired and that resumption of freight service, halted Saturday has been started. Unions announce no attempt will be made to interfere with the attempts to resume full service.

CLEVELAND. — Big Four brotherhood chiefs say that if strike materializes the blame for it should be placed on the United States railroad labor board and on the railroads.

CHICAGO. — Railroad heads say action of majority of eleven "standard" unions in refusing to join strike now has broken the backbone of the proposed walkout.

Strike ballot being taken among 14,000 organized signalmen. Result expected to be known Wednesday.

United States District Attorney Clyne summoned to Washington by Attorney General Daugherty, presumably to discuss the strike situation.

IRISH HONOR THE MEMORY OF M'SWINEY

LONDON, Oct. 23.—There was a large gathering at Trafalgar Square this afternoon to celebrate the anniversary of the death of Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork. MacSwiney died in Brixton prison while on a hunger strike.

None of the Irish delegates to the peace conference attended but William Roth, member of parliament for Cork, was among the speakers. Frequent reference was made by speakers to the telegram of Eamonn DeValera to Pope Benedict, which was endorsed by the gathering.

Branches of the Irish self-determination league organized processions, which carrying banners and headed by bands, marched from various districts in the city of Trafalgar Square. Notwithstanding the rain, it is estimated that nearly 20,000 persons took part in the demonstration.

The Sinn Fein delegates who are attending the conference with government officials in an attempt to bring about peace in Ireland, were in consultation today concerning tomorrow's meeting. Persons in close touch with the Irish delegation assert that none of the delegates will do anything which might be construed as a repudiation of Mr. DeValera. It was declared today by persons near the delegates that though they are plenipotentiaries, they recognize DeValera's authority as president and are convinced that his telegram to the Pope, possibly untimely, represents the sentiments of Dail Eireann which elected him.

While professing inability to understand why the telegram should have caused trouble, it was asserted that the delegates think a way out of the situation may be found by their admitting that, although allegiance to the king now is denied, association with the British commonwealth may be arranged in a conference on terms.

WALKOUT RANKS BUT ONE FOURTH RAIL EMPLOYES

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The prospective rail strike, scheduled for October 30, was limited to approximately one-fourth of the nation's railroad employes when officials of the brotherhood of railway and steamship clerks, freight handlers, express and station employes, representing 350,000 men, voted not to authorize a walkout by their members for the time being.

The action increased the number of major rail unions which have voted not to strike now to nine and the number of railroad employes bound by such action to about three-fourths of the country's total of approximately 2,000,000.

The vote was taken in a meeting tonight which lasted several hours and in which some of the officials at first favored a walkout October 30 in protest of recent wage cuts. These officials finally swung over to a "no strike now" policy, but the question of quitting work will be taken up again after the labor board renders decision on rules and working conditions questions now before it.

Tonight's action by the clerks left the signalmen and the telegraphers the only organizations in the eleven "standard" rail unions which may join the conductors, firemen, engineers, trainmen and switchmen in the strike they have called.

The telegraphers tentatively have aligned themselves with the big five, but officials of this union said tonight that the decision might be changed before the strike date arrives. The signalmen have not yet voted.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Having finally decided to keep their men on the job for the time being at least, despite the overwhelming vote cast, leaders of a majority of the eleven "standard" rail unions tonight were on the way home to communicate to their followers the decision not to join the "big five" in the walkout scheduled for October 30.

The last of the series of meetings of these unions which took up most of the week, was held tonight when the grand officers of the clerks organization rendered this decision. The signalmen, however, are expected to call a meeting of executives within a few days to take strike action, this organization being the only one which has not yet met to discuss the walkout question.

A strike ballot now is being taken among the 14,000 organized signalmen, the ballot being general in terms and simply asking that the officials be authorized to take what action they deem necessary to protect the interest of their men.

Result By Wednesday

This ballot probably will be finished by next Wednesday, D. W. Helt, president of the union, said tonight. All chairmen have been notified to be ready to come here on short notice, Mr. Helt said.

The action of eight of these unions, which are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, whereas the big four brotherhoods, are independent, in deciding not to walkout, and thus making it unlikely that a strike would be joined by more than one-fourth of the country's railroad employes, probably would affect any action to be taken by the signalmen, Mr. Helt said.

"We feel the same way as the shop crafts—that a strike now on a wage question alone may not be advisable and that one of the most important things to be considered is rules and working conditions. The labor board is expected to rule on that question shortly."

While no official announcement was made by the labor board, it was intimated by members that the decision on rules and working conditions will not be forthcoming until after October 30, the date set for the proposed strike by the "big five."

Members let it become known that all decisions on questions on which there might be a strike will be withheld until after that date, explaining that in that way it was hoped the walkout would be averted as the men have been ordered by board not to strike until after the hearing of rail and union chiefs which starts Wednesday.

The board announced tonight that it was summoning 1,100 general chairmen of the unions affected as well as the presidents. It also began arrangements for a suitable meeting chamber, the board rooms accommodating only 500 persons. The sessions will be open to the public, and a large attendance is expected.

FRENCH CITY PAYS TRIBUTE U. S. HEROES

Bodies of Four American War Dead Disinterred in Preparation for Arlington Ceremonies.

By Associated Press.

CHALONS-SUR-MARNE, France, Oct. 23.—Four bodies of unidentified American soldiers who fell in the world war from among whom will be chosen America's "unknown soldier" for burial in Arlington National cemetery, were brought today to the city hall in preparation for the simple ceremony. One body came from each of the four permanent American cemeteries in France—Romange, Triaucourt, Bony and Belleauwood.

Sergeant Edward S. Younger, headquarters company, second batallion of the fifteenth infantry, was selected tonight by Major R. P. Harbold, in charge of the field operations of the American graves registration service, to choose the body for interment. Sergeant Younger will be one of the six pall bearers accompanying the body to Harve and was selected for this honor on account of his superior service record.

He is to choose from among the four Americans the one who will forever symbolize the sacrifice of American sons in the war. These four bodies were picked from the lists of soldiers buried in the cemeteries who were beyond all possibility of identification.

An American army truck brought the bodies to Chalons where a French guard of honor, composed of poilus who saw action, took the coffins and carried them from the public square to a little room in the city hall while thousands of the residents looked on silently and uncovered. French

HUNGARIAN GOVERNMENT TROOPS CLASH WITH TROOPS OF EX-EMPEROR CHARLES

By Associated Press.

VIENNA, Oct. 23.—The exact situation in Hungary is now beyond the knowledge of the Austrian foreign office, which today lost communication with Budapest. There have been all kinds of rumors including one reporting the entry of Charles, former king, into Budapest and the defection of some of the government force to Charles' banner as well as the repulse of the monarchist forces, and other conflicting information. But it is known beyond a doubt that there has been brisk and possibly sanguinary fighting close to Budapest.

A telephone message from Prague said that Charles had succeeded in reaching Budapest while the Vienna Freie Presse announces that the Italian legation has received news from Budapest that some of the troops in that capital have declared in favor of Charles.

Early reports agreed that the Karlists had been checked at Budhor, which is about seventeen miles from Budapest, one of the dispatches saying that the train that preceded Charles had reached that place but was forced to back our hurriedly upon a shower of resistance by the government troops.

Oedenburg, Steinamanger and Stahlweissenburg troops, it is declared, are hastening to reinforce the ex-king and the fact that bloodshed has begun is believed, by those who know the Hungarian character, to foreshadow a final grapple between the reactionary and republican forces that probably will extend beyond the border.

Though possibly checked, the monarchists are evidently concentrating for further attacks, for latest, though meager, advices say that the battle between the monarchists and government troops continues and also that the behavior of the government forces is irreproachable. Government circles hope to be able to hold out until the arrival of reinforcements from the provinces which are expected tomorrow afternoon.

Insurgent bands from Burgenland are reported to be marching to the support of Charles. An Oedenburg dispatch to the Tageblatt gives the report of the resignation of the Bethlen cabinet. However, this is without confirmation.

MASTER MINDS OF CONGRESS SIT UPSTAIRS

Legislative Agents of Real Ability Have Taken the Place of "Lobbyists" at Washington.

By DAVID M. CHURCH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The most clever men about congress are those who have their seats in the galleries.

The galleryites are the regulars who are on hand to observe. Most of them are paid for their observations and are professionals at it.

The "lobbyist" has long since been deceased in Washington. In this day of advancement in things political we have "legislative agents." They are perfectly legitimate workers and can not be said to be the successors of the old-time lobbyists, but at least they are the outgrowth of the demised gentleman lobbyist.

Legislative agents work in the open. They appear before committees to plead the cause of their various interests, and they do "missionary" work with the various members, but they are very circumspect in their transactions and most careful not to cross the line of demarcation between propriety and impropriety in influencing legislation.

These legislative agents are "master minds." They are clever men, most of them conceded to be more clever than the men with whom they are working.

Wheeler Foremost

Foremost in the ranks of the legislative agents at the present time is Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League. So far as congress is concerned, Wheeler is the Anti-Saloon League.

Wheeler has come into the limelight recently because of denouements against him on the floor of the senate, after he was invited to sit with members of the house and senate on the conference report on the anti-beer bill.

Despite the cartoonists, Wheeler is an affable and likeable man personally, who never deals with the question of prohibition as a sin, but who attacks it as a scientific problem. Once a janitor of a Middle Western college, he has risen to the ranks of great attorneys and probably has had more influence upon vital legislation in the last two years than any other private citizen. It is generally admitted that Wheeler had much to do with the writing of the prohibition law and that the Volstead act is pretty nearly his own child.

When a question concerning prohibition pops up in congress Wheeler is on the job. He doesn't preach, but he gets down to cold, hard legal argument, and thus far he has succeeded in winning every fight he has entered upon in the cause of prohibition, although this anti-beer bill may come along to spoil his record.

Congress is just waking up to the fact that Wheeler wields a great power, and congress is striving to assert its independence. Wheeler's steel-blue eyes snap as he sits in the gallery and listens to bitter attacks made upon him.

Represents Railroads

Alfred P. Thom, a lawyer of note, represents the cause of the railroads before congress, as a rule. Thom is the Washington representative of the American Association of Railway Executives, and he turns up everywhere that matters affecting the railroads are being discussed.

ble gentleman it is true and one well qualified but the organization democrats were left out in the cold when the minor appointments were made. President Harding believes in putting on guard those who are active as well as deserving and he will make no mistake when he makes John W. Philp the successor of Ballard M. Burgher. "To the victors belong the spoils." When the democrats return to power they should take possession of all the offices. Now that the republicans are in the saddle there is no reason why G. O. P. stalwarts should not take possession of the clover patch.

Dr. Atticus Webb says the state of Texas is full of stills; that there are 2,000 stills operating in 200 counties. Then why in the deuce doesn't the venerable and voluminous doctor go before a federal grand jury and present his evidence. Dr. Webb says that Texas newspapers are encouraging the breaking of prohibition laws, upholding bootleggers and ridiculing prohibitionists. "Thou shalt no bear false witnesses," is a divine injunction and hence the Doctor should make his peace with God without delay and apologize to the newspapers. There isn't a newspaper that comes to the exchange table of the Record News that isn't an advocate of law enforcement and the suppression of moonshiners and whiskey runners. Dr. Webb has made the direct charge that there are 2,000 illicit stills in Texas. He is a resident of Dallas, there is a federal grand jury sitting in that city all the time and the grand jury is not composed of bootleggers or law violators.

soldiers rendered military honors. The coffins are of plain wood, draped with the American flag. The room in which they lie is a mass of red, white and blue flags and bunting.

The people of Chalons brought flowers and heaped them at the foot of the coffins.

There were sad scenes when the French war widows came to pay final tribute to the American dead.

The ceremony of selecting the body will take place tomorrow, it will be brief and simple. The room will be cleared at 10 o'clock in the morning and Sergeant Younger will be handed flowers by Major General Henry T. Allen, commander of the forces on the Rhine, and told to go into the room and place the flowers on one of the four coffins. The other three bodies will be re-interred in Romagne cemetery tomorrow afternoon.

ERIN WANTS PEACE, IS READY FOR WAR SAYS IRISH ENVOY

Harry Boland, photographed on recent arrival in New York.

That Ireland wants peace, but is quite ready to continue the war with England if she does not get what she wants from the Lloyd George government, is the message brought to this country by Harry Boland, De Valera's former secretary. Boland arrived in New York a few days ago bearing the title of special envoy of the Republic of Ireland to the United States.

GERMANS ARE FAST GETTING RID OF MARKS

Country Shakes Baby's Bank and Empties Stockings as Value Continues to Decline.

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—Germany is shaking the baby's bank and emptying the old stocking. Marks and groschen are being spent in a mad orgy of buying. Get rid of your marks; put them into some sort of tangible property is the advice one receives from every side.

The little people are buying clothes, shoes, supplies of food, furniture, rugs, anything to turn doubtful marks into real, permanent values. The department stores are selling out faster than they can get deliveries.

"The mark means to us what we can get for it," explains the man on the street. "It is rapidly depreciating. We know what that means, we have been through it before. In a few months we can get only one-half for it what we are getting now, because prices haven't yet caught up with the drop. The man who is holding marks stands to take a big loss. We will turn our marks into real value, which won't depreciate."

The man who has heavy holdings of marks needs no more clothes; he buys as many Oriental rugs, diamonds and paintings as he can usefully store in his apartment. Then he goes to the bourse and buys stocks. The mark is sure to depreciate, he argues; the stock may be good. The result has been a boom on the exchange which has skyrocketed securities high beyond their intrinsic values.

Germany is booming. Everybody is having a big turnover in his business. A large part of the business, however, is due to the underlying fear that marks are losing their purchasing power—so buy now. German business in many quarters may be likened to a game between boys where they pass something hot which no one wants to hold from one to another. It's passing the buck, and the buck is labeled "Marks."

The department store managers are perplexed about their big sales. "We are making a profit, according to the books," said the chief of one of the oldest Berlin firms; "but no business man today knows what he is actually earning or what he is worth. For he doesn't know where the mark actually stands."

To the superficial eye Germany is the most prosperous country in Europe. "This is all artificial," declared Gordon Selfridge, the London merchant, after a few days in Berlin. Mr. Selfridge repeated the same comments which have been made by Lord Beaverbrook and other investigators. "A crash is bound to come."

In the meantime the scramble to convert one's savings into nontaxable property continues. Fears of the new tax programme, which no one understands, but which threatens to take all but the barest necessities to meet the reparations, is to no small extent a factor in the game of flinging the mark.

STRIKE RANKS ONLY FOURTH OF RAIL MEN

ed the belief that the backbone of the proposed strike was broken when a majority of the standard unions, which control most of the railroad employes, decided not to strike October 30.

Although the strike, if it materialized, would affect all train service men, officials said that service would not be impaired for more than a day or two and that these men would be quickly replaced.

Possibility that the situation on the Tremont and Gulf Railway, a 67 mile line in Louisiana, which recently installed the open shop, would be brought to the attention of the labor board again by the unions caused considerable interest among board members when they were shown dispatches from Cleveland to that effect.

The board members said they considered that matter settled, for after recently ordering the open shop announcement annulled, they received word that the thirty employes were satisfied and that there was no dispute. The board then withdrew the jurisdiction it had assumed, explaining that it could not act unless there was a dispute.

Statements Conflict.

While the official statement announcing the clerks action, said that everything had been harmonious in the meeting, individual officials declared the decision had been made only after a vigorous debate. It was pointed out by these officials that the clerks are more closely related in their work to the members of the Big Four brotherhoods than are any of the other union men and that consequently many of them thought they should support the Big Four in its strike call.

The turning point in the debate, it was said, came when the officials announced that they, like the leaders of the other "standard" unions had not been able to persuade the brotherhoods and the switchmen to agree to support them throughout the proposed strike. When it was announced that the brotherhoods had informed the officials that their men would return to work when their personal grievances had been settled, regardless of the action of other striking unions, the sentiment swung to the no-strike plan, it was said by those at the meeting.

The statement announcing the clerks action was almost the same as the one yesterday from the federated shop crafts announcing that their men would not be authorized to strike. It pointed out that the present "is not the time to strike."

men on the I. & G. N. has been felt on this road, it was stated.

The freight is being accepted at the I. & G. N. station. With its own switch crew, it is handling all freight, loading and unloading as usual.

Employing Continues.

Employing of non-union men to take the place of the strikers on the I. & G. N. continued Sunday. Officials here were unable to state how many non-union men had been employed.

In connection with his trip to Chicago, Mr. Frame would not attempt to predict what action would be taken there. He was merely going at the direction of Mr. Lee, he said.

"I have no idea what will be done" Mr. Frame said.

"I don't even know why I should be called to Chicago."

Officials of the I. & G. N. do not expect any of the union men to return to work, as a result of the telegram received by Mr. Frame instructing that the situation remain in status quo, according to a statement last night from J. M. Landis, chief clerk to the division superintendent at the passenger depot. He is remaining at the office at all hours to keep in constant touch with developments.

Although armed guards are on all trains, there has been no violence of any kind. The strikers have refrained from making any demonstrations and are peaceably awaiting word from national representatives at the labor conference in Chicago as to whether or not to return to work. Few of them could be found in the vicinity of the property of the road.

Passenger trains are continuing to run on schedule time. No interruption is expected, it was stated.

Peculiar Position

When the trainmen on the I. & G. N. road went out Saturday, six men on the Galveston, Houston and Henderson Railroad were left in a peculiar position. The road is operated jointly by the I. & G. N. and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas for handling through freight between Houston and Galveston.

The local, which runs under the name of the Galveston, Houston and Henderson, handles cars for both railroads. It switches for both roads en route, delivering part of the train to each road at terminals.

Because of its short length, the road employs only six trainmen. They are members of the B. of R. T. but are not sure whether they belong to the I. & G. N. branch or to the branch of the M. K. & T. Up to the time the government took control of the railroads of the nation, the G. H. & H. operated its own trains and had a brotherhood lodge. When its trains were abolished and operation turned over to the other two connecting roads, the six trainmen were divided between the M. K. & T. and the I. & G. N. lodges, but the change never has been ratified by the national officers of the brotherhood.

National headquarters of the brotherhood has been appealed to for a ruling as to whether the three men that had been assigned to the I. & G. N. should strike. The other crew has instructions to operate its local and shove the cars for the I. & G. N. on the transfer track at Houston and at Galveston and to leave them there.

THUS FAR SUCCESSFUL, ASSERT UNION OFFICIALS

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 23. Three freight trains operated on the I. & G. N. system today, General Manager E. O. Goforth declared.

This follows a complete tie-up of freight service Saturday by the strike of approximately 600 union trainmen over the line.

Union officials declared that they had adopted a policy of "hands-off" and would not in any way interfere with any move the company might make to resume service over the line.

Mr. Goforth in discussing the partial resumption of freight service stated that the crews were made up of recruits from several hundred applications on file and from officials having previous experience in operation of trains. No distinction is being made between union and non-union men, he stated, declaring that several applications had been received from union men.

Armed guards patroled the properties of the company throughout the day, but not a single instance of violence marked the second day of the walkout.

So far as the operation of freight traffic in the yards of the company here is concerned operations were at a standstill Sunday.

"The strike so far has been entirely successful to our cause," union officials declared. "We did not expect to tie up passenger service. We took into account at the outset that with so few men called out working on passenger trains that they would be able to recruit enough men from among officials to fill out a crew. But we have demonstrated what a few men out means, and we are entirely satisfied."

Mr. Goforth in summing up the day's happenings stated that outside of the reports to him that a few freight trains were operating there had been no change in the general situation. "We are feeling our way cautiously" he said, "and expect soon to have service resumed."

LEGION PLANS MEET DESPITE RAIL PROBLEM

By Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 23.—Lemeuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion, Russell G. Creviston, assistant adjutant and Marquis James, New York, head of the legion news service, arrived here today and tomorrow will open temporary national headquarters of the legion here. Kansas City will be national headquarters of the legion from that time until the national convention adjourns the night of November 2.

Apparently the possibility of a railroad strike does not disturb the legionnaires in their convention plans. They are going ahead with scheduled plans for the convention and predict it will be attended by more guests and more delegates than have heretofore gathered for any national convention of the legion.

Mr. Bolles and Mr. James said they were satisfied that all ex-service men and their relatives who came to Kansas City would be comfortably housed and fed and well entertained.

Miss Pauline C. Curnick, national organizer of the women's auxiliary of the legion also arrived today. She will aid in nationally organizing the women's auxiliary, and expects a large number of legion women will be present to attend the convention of the auxiliary November 1 and 2. All the principal figures of the legion convention, Marshal Foch, Admiral Beatty, General Diaz, Lieutenant Gneral Baron Jaques of Belgium, General Pershing and Major John G. Emery, national commander of the legion, will address the women's convention.

GRENADE THROWN IN MARSEILLES POLICE GROUP IS ONLY 'DUD'

MARSEILLES, France, Oct. 23.—A grenade which failed to explode was thrown among the police here today while efforts were being made to organize a procession for a march on the American consulate to protest against the conviction for murder of Sacco and Van Zetti.

The grenade was thrown immediately after a Sacco-Van Zetti protest meeting. The police prevented the procession and arrested seventeen persons.

Six Days to Win!

Speedy Work Now Will Win One of the Five Automobiles to Be Awarded Saturday Night, October 29th

Only six days from today the most lavish distribution of valuable prizes ever announced in the State of Texas will take place; six more days and the Record News' great automobile campaign, that is making this possible, will pass into pleasant memories.

The splendid prizes have evoked the most earnest desires of womanhood in this part of the state, and spirited efforts are being made to capture the best of the list.

SURPRISES ARE PROMISED

The time when every hour counts, the test of courage, is at hand. Nothing, it seems, can now stop the ambitious candidates from realizing their desires. With the goal almost in sight, and such magnificent prizes at stake, many surprises are promised. There's a feeling in the air that things are going to happen in rapid succession from now on, and busy days are being spent by candidates in preparation for any emergencies.

THE MIGHTY FINISH

Picture the suspense that will follow the casting of the final ballots on the last vote-mad days, until the judges read off the list of names of those who have worked and won! An automobile for this candidate, another for that one—down to the last of the twenty-four prizes. Will your name be among the "lucky twenty-four," Or, better still, will you be one of the "HIGH FIVE?"

The next six days will tell. Victory is, at the present stage, as possible for one candidate as another. The present relative standing are subject to such revolutionary changes that the outcome is impossible to forecast.

THE FUTURE IN DOUBT

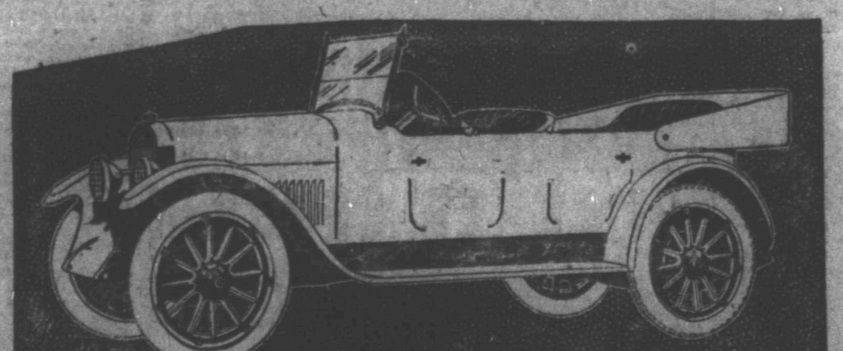

In political campaigns, and others of like nature, results can frequently be foretold, but in the Record News' campaign it is vastly different. Who knows what surprising advance this or that candidate will stage at the finish? Who knows what spectacular demonstration, now stored up ready to burst forth, may feature some candidate's quick rise to the top and victory?

WORKING BUSILY EVERYWHERE

It is these questions that are bothering the other candidates not a little and sending them broadcast in search of votes and subscriptions. Candidates who thus shown only a luke warm interest, are adding to the uncertainty by giving evidence of real hustling. The only way to safeguard yourself against future untoward happenings—that may leave you just outside the pale of those who win—is to make every day count and to hustle as never before.

SPEND YOUR TIME WISELY

Logically, the thing to do is to spend your time doing that which counts the most in votes. And that is done by securing subscriptions. The field is wide, unlimited. You can even cover the ground you have been over before, by securing extensions from short-term subscribers you have obtained earlier. Study the second payment scale and see just how valuable they are.

FOR THE COOKIE BOX.

War Cookies—One egg, one-quarter cup sugar, one-half cup buttermilk, one-half teaspoon soda, one and one- half cups rolled oats (ground in food grinder), three-quarters cup peanuts (ground), three-quarters cup raisins (ground), one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one cup rye flour, two teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons cooking oil.

Spread in a thin layer on a cooky pan and bake in hot oven. When done, cut in squares.

Ginger Snaps—Ginger snaps are as well liked as cookies. A tested recipe says to boil a cup of molasses, cool and add two teaspoonfuls of soda; mix a cup of sugar and two eggs, add the molasses, two tablespoonfuls of water and the same amount of ginger, cinnamon, cloves and allspice to taste and flour enough to make a stiff dough. Roll thin and bake in a hot oven.

Macaroons—Work together one- half pound almond paste and three- eighths pound powdered sugar on a smooth board. Add gradually the un- beaten whites of three eggs and work until mixture is perfectly smooth. Confectioners at first use the hands, afterwards a palette knife, which is not only of use for mixing, but for keeping board clean. Shape on a tin sheet, covered with buttered paper, by dropping from tip of spoon in small piles, one inch apart. Macaroon mixture is stiff enough to hold its shape, but spreads in baking. Bake fifteen to twenty minutes in a slow oven. After removing from oven, in- vert paper and wet with a cloth wrung out of cold water, when mac- aroons will slip off easily. Macaroons or almost paste may be bought in large or small tins of any first-class grocer.

GOOD COLD WEATHER DISHES

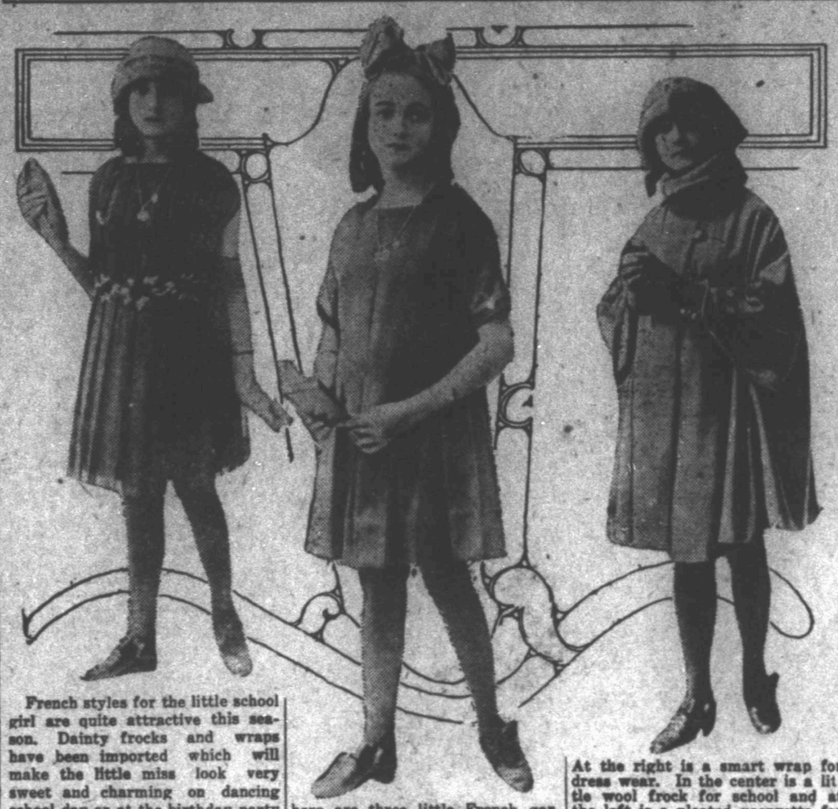

Vegetable Soup—Wash the bones and then place in a soup kettle and add sufficient water to cover; about three quarts will do. Now add one- half cup of well-washed rice, one bunch of soup herbs, one-half head of cabbage shredded fine, three onions two turnips diced, two-thirds can of tomatoes rubbed through a sieve. Bring to a boil and cook very slowly for three hours. Season and serve.

Spaghetti a la Palermitaine—Cook one pound of spaghetti in boiling water and then drain. Mince fine four ounces of salt pork and six on- ions. Brown the salt pork lightly and add the onions. Then add the spaghetti, and two cups of brown gravy, one and one-half cups of thick pulp of tomatoes, clove of garlic, one- eighth teaspoon of sweet basil, one- half cup of chopped parsley, one tea- spoon of salt, one teaspoon of pap- rika. Heat sowly until scalding hot and then turn into a deep dish and cover with finely grated cheese.

FRENCH FASHIONS FOR THE LITTLE MISS OF SCHOOL AGE

KEEP HOUSE FOR YOURSELF, URGES SCULPTOR-AUTHOR

"Keep house for yourself if you would live ideally," says Mrs. Claire Sheridan, noted as an author and a sculptor. A WIFE IN THE MAKING

CHERRY LEAVES NO TRACE BEHIND HER.

Three days later the Lawrences moved to Painesville, a quiet, little suburb about ten miles out of town. Here Mrs. Lawrence found that dreams sometimes come true.

There was a dear, old-fashioned garden, that ran right round the house, and wandered on up a hi. in the back as well. There were tall, stately trees and a hedge, in fact ev- erything she had ever wished for.

"This is home," she said with a grateful sigh as she sank back onto one of the pretty porch chairs which Cherry had bought a few days before. "Girls, I can't tell you how your foolish old mother feels. It just takes twenty years off my shoulders. Your Pa and I used to dream this sort of a home for us all, fifteen years ago." A tear stole down her cheek —another—and another.

"Now, Mammy love, don't you dare," said Cherry, kissing away the tears. "You'll have me weeping 'fore you know it, for Ned and I have planned a little house ever since we were married. Look where it's end- ed up. I'm a working girl again and he doesn't know where I am."

"Nor does he deserve to, either, Cherry. The way he's acted. I've left no address behind, so he'll not be able to follow you."

At her mother's words the girl's face paled. She knew only too well that Ned would have a hard time to locate them in case he did come on to Chicago with that idea in mind; but, better so, for all concerned. It was futile to open up old wounds. The past was past.

"Cherry," said Mrs. Lawrence, suddenly, "weren't you and Ned ever happy? It seems so queer that with your love for each other you should not have been able to weather the first few storms, dear."

"Yes, we were wonderfully happy once, before we went to Wellsburg. Everything went wrong after that. We seemed to misunderstand each other all the time, and when we weren't misunderstanding the family was. So you see there wasn't even a fighting chance for us, mother."

"The whole fault lay with Ned. He should have taken you to a place of your own from the start, even if it meant pinching and scraping to pay the rent. Most young couples are perfectly willing to economize a bit at first for the sake of the common good," said Mrs. Lawrence, reflective- ly.

"No good crying over spilt milk, mother. Ned's probably just as hap- py with things the way they are as he was before, far more so, I'm sure. It had gotten to be so sordid and be- sides I told you about Arline."

"Yes, and I'd just like to have just five minutes with that girl, that's about all. She'd hear a few truths about herself. I have no patience with home-breakers, and that's what she is. No luck will come to her, wait and see."

"She's had her bad hours, mother. In a way I feel sorry for her, for if she loves Ned as I did why it must have nearly killed her to have him marry someone else."

Mrs. Lawrence's mouth tightened to a fine line. She had her own thoughts on the subject.

THE NEW HOME BRINGS SAD- NESS.

As Cherry went through the new house at Painesville she involuntari- ly conjured up visions of that other house which might have been. She saw the bright cretonne curtains blowing in the windows, gay window boxes, and everything that had once been so joyfully planned by her.

It seemed to her as though the absent Ned was keeping step with her in spirit as she inspected the rooms. Once she almost felt his arms about her waist and for a mo- ment her courage left her.

"I feel tired, mother. Guess I'll sit down here for a moment," she said as she threw herself into a large easy chair. It's been hard work at the shop these past few days. I'm tuckered out."

Her mother went on examining each nook and corner with a happy smile on her lips. Cherry thought that she had never seen her look so radiant. It was a miracle. Years of hard labor dropped from the old- er woman's shoulders like a mist be- fore the sun. She was once more a young wife, eagerly peering into the future as she went from room to room humming to herself.

"Cherry, Cherry, there's an hon- est-to-goodness garret, like I always wanted!" she cried excitedly to her daughter. "And you just ought to see the view from up here, dear. It's fairly beautiful."

Cherry smiled at her mother's words and went on dreaming. She knew how she would have felt if it was her own house she was finding for the first time. Too well she knew.

"Your sisters won't know how to act with a room apiece," burst from Mrs. Lawrence as she bustled back again to where her daughter sat. "Why, they've always had to share one between 'em, bless their hearts."

"Those days are over forever, mother, and pretty soon they'll be having houses of their own, and you and I'll have this place to ourselves. Just wait and see."

Her mother's happy face clouded at her words, and for an instant the bottom seemed to have dropped out of her cup of joy. It was too bad that Cherry was so sad. It some- how took away the breathless per- fectness of the day. It should have been a happy one for all. What a pity that one of their little band was heart-sore.

"Come, darling, look at your own little room. It's too sweet and cosy for words. Even Jane would have been satisfied with it, and she is particular. 'Artistic,' she calls it."

Cherry smiled as she thought of the absent Jane. What was she doing now, and had she joined the enemy's forces, perhaps?"

"You won't need to do a lick of work any more, Mrs. Lawrence," she said cheerfully. "Just sit around and enjoy the fruit of your labors. No more sewing for strangers, noth- ing. Once in a while I suppose you'll put up preserves. I know you will, mother."

"Indeed, I will dear," answered Mrs. Lawrence, smiling. "I'd do that on Judgment day, I think if the sug- ar and fruit were handy."

"You and I'll put 'em up together next year mother."

WILL RECOGNIZE SABOLOSKY AND WALTER MORRIS

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 23.—The Texas League, in executive session today, voted unanimously to recognize Ike Sabolosky, of Mineral Wells, and Walter Morris, former president of the league, as holders of the Dallas franchise in the league. Favorable action on the request presented by Sabolosky and Morris was taken following arguments presented by the new holders and by Jess Hassell and Hamilton Patterson, former holders.

The dispute regarding the Dallas franchise arose over the alleged refusal of Hassell and Patterson to sell to Sabolosky and Morris after the latter are said to have met all the requirements of an alleged purchase contract. The purchase price was put by the former owners at $150,000. The case is now at issue in a suit filed in civil court.

All the officers were re-elected. They are: J. Doak Roberts, Dallas, president; William B. Ruggles, Dallas, secretary; Otto Sens, Houston, and Ed. Stedman, Beaumont, vice-presidents. The term of the president was increased to three years.

The rookie and the waiver rule was abolished by the league. Reversion of the 16-man playing limit, exclusive of bench manager, in operation at the start of the 1921 season, was also favorably voted.

CHICAGO PUG IN COLLEGE FOR "ATMOSPHERE"

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 23.—Quite a few of the "rah rah boys" wondered what brought Jimmy Kelly, the bantamweight Chicago pug, to Notre Dame as a student.

Now they know—the secret's out. Kelly came here for college "atmosphere" so that he can star in a three-reel movie thriller, "When a Fighter Goes to College."

The picture will be staged by Jim (Tex) Mullen, promoter and manager of boxers. The whole plot revolves around a fighter who is making hay while the sun shines going to college to improve himself mentally so that when he's through in the ring he will be adble to cope with the larger affairs of life.

Kelly, now that he is here, longs for an education and says he will regret when he has to leave. He likes college life a great deal better than he did peddling papers in Chicago so that he could support a large Italian family.

But then to be an actor—well, Kelly thinks that's something different.

JACK DEMPSEY IS SUED BY ACTOR FOR ALIENATING WIFE'S AFFECTIONS

Bee Palmer and Jack Dempsey.

Jack Dempsey has taken another role—that of defendant in a suit for alienation of the affections of Bee Palmer, pretty actress and noted exponent of the "shimmy." Her husband, Al Siegal, song writer and actor, has announced his determination to seek revenge and cash from the heavyweight champion by means of the courts. Miss Palmer is bringing suit for divorce in Chicago on the grounds of cruelty. Dempsey brands the charges against him as ridiculous.

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

It looks like the beginning of the end of the reign of Jess Hassell and Ham Patterson as dictators of the fortunes of the Dallas Marines. In a sense the action of the Texas league moguls in voting unanimously to recognize Ike Sabolosky of Mineral Wells and Walter Morris as holders of the Dallas franchise was somewhat of a surprise—it would seem to indicate one thing plainly: that Sabolosky and Morris must have "hooked" Patterson and Hassell with a powerful contract, else it is doubtful whether the vote would have been so solidly in favor of the strangers. Walter Morris, of course, is no stranger to the Texas league, but Sabolosky is an outsider and it would naturally be expected that Patterson and Hassell would have a stronger "pull" with the other directors, unless Jess and Ham came before the meeting with a mighty weak argument.

It is possible also that the sentiment of the fans of Dallas may have influenced the voting somewhat. Those who support baseball in Dallas have been lifting their voices loudly for many months in the cry for a new deal, and a change of ownership—and there are times when baseball magnates, ordinarily rather hard-boiled in such matters, are wise enough to listen to the voice of the pee-pul.

Perhaps I'm a little behind the times, I don't know, but the mention of Walter Morris' name in connection with the deal was a surprise to me. I had supposed Sabolosky was trying to swing the sale alone, and I do not recall having seen mention of Morris' connection with the transaction before now. Both Morris and Sabolosky have plenty of money, sufficient to meet the terms of the purchase contract mentioned in connection with the original agreement to sell—and yesterday's action by the officials of the league seems to indicate pretty clearly that Patterson and Hassell have been ousted unless they can enforce, through the civil suit now pending, the rights they claim to possess.

The University club team, runnerup in the recent city semi-pro baseball championship series, defeated the Pond Laundry nine, one of the first division Twilight league clubs, at Spudders park yesterday 4 to 1. It was a fast, clean game throughout with Snipe Conley and Stanley Anderson putting up a pretty twirlers battle. But the fun came after the game when the gate receipts were counted. The game was not advertised until the eleventh hour, and only two-bits admission was charged—the gate receipts amounting to the clossal sum of $11. Don Faichney took the $11 and called me into consultation as to its disposal. First we paid Bert Blackburn $4 to reimburse him for the purchase of a couple of baseballs; then we slipped Snipe Conley $2 which represented what Snipe had to pay another fellow to work for him yesterday afternoon; next we gave the bat boy four-bits—and by this time all the University club players had left except Floyd Brooks, Chick Nolen, Don and the writer. So Chick got a dollar, Floyd got a dollar, Don and I pocketed $1.25 each—that disposed of the $11, and the question now arises how is the Wichita Falls Baseball association going to collect its customary 20 per cent of the gross gate receipts for the use of the park? Mr. Harvey, it can't be did!

If Judge Landis puts a stiff suspension on Babe Ruth, remarks the young lady on my left, there is a probability that the New York Yankees will have to wage "ruthless warfare." Hot dawg!

The California winter league of baseball clubs, which opened its season on October 8, has been insured against rain to the extent of $125,000. The policy cost $10,000 for the ten weeks' season.

Is Waite Hoyt, right-hand pitching hero of the New York Yankees in the world's series, making the same mistake that Al Mamaux made a year ago? After Brooklyn was defeated by Cleveland in the series last fall, Al Mamaux, one of the former team's pitchers, went on the stage and suffered a breakdown that put him out for practically the entire season of 1921. He is now recuperating from his illness and it is doubtful whether he will be able to regain the effectiveness he once enjoyed on the mound.

It was only a few days ago that young Hoyt was in the glare of the calcium light of popularity. Now he is about to appear before the illumination of the footlights; the strength of his success in the world's series he has been flooded with theatrical contracts.

In addition to his twirling prowess Hoyt has been identified with amateur theatricals and musicales for a numbers of years, possessing a pleasing tenor voice and an unusual personality, inherited from his father, Add Hoyt, a famous minstrel man.

Pity Your Uncle Sam if These Claims Amounting to Billions Dollars Are Finally Granted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The United States court of claims has reconvened with a calendar of large and important cases for the winter term. Upon the court docket there are actions involving approximately $300,000,000 arising out of the country's activities during the World war and the influx of these cases has only begun, the ultimate aggregate of such claims being estimated at between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000.

These actions are brought into the court by plaintiffs having claims against all departments of the government—the war department, in which claims involving approximately $3,000,000,000 have been filed; the bureau of internal revenue, which has before it claims for refunds and rebates amounting to many millions; the shipping board, where cancellations alone involve over $850,000,000; claims for patent infringement of which $200,000,000 have already been filed in the various courts; claims by the railroads amounting to approximately $2,250,000,000; claims proportionately large arising from the housing corporation, war risk bureau, food and fuel administrations and a large amount of claims of miscellaneous character.

The variety of claims pending in the court is almost unlimited, including actions for requisitioning of ships and railroads, transportation of troops, ammunition and supplies, infringement of patents for high explosives, submarine boats and torpedoes, wireless and radio apparatus, contracts for anti-craft engines and guns, military and naval supplies and ammunition, appropriation of camp sites and naval bases, together with contracts for manufacturing and acts of commandeering of almost endless diversity.

There are many novel and interesting questions raised, especially in suits for infringement of patent. One inventor claims $1,000,000 for the little pocket book of stamps that are sold to the public at every postoffice. Another claims that as early as 1905 he invented a gliding machine involving the principle upon which every airplane operated by the government is constructed and if successful may recover $10,000,000 and $905,000 is asked for infringement in the manufacture of torpedoes and about $30,000,000 for radio apparatus. Claims are made for injuries to person and property by mail trucks and reimbursement is claimed by farmers for destruction of lands and crops by alighting mail planes. The owner of intoxicating liquors whose supply has been illegally confiscated by zealous prohibition enforcement agents seeks indemnity in money damages.

In preparation for the disposition of this new business the court of claims has so cleared the dockets that not only pending suits but actions based upon war claims are receiving immediate attention, and all cases are disposed of as rapidly as they are prepared and presented for counsel.

Plan Casinos Of Mysterious English Craft

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Will the famous Shoreham "mystery tower," the strangest and most terrible amphibian engine of destruction that the World war produced, be turned to the peace-time uses of a gambling casino.

The "mystery tower," is as much a mystery today as when it was first constructed in 1917. Only a few men in the world, the English designers and constructors of the strange craft, know its secret.

There are two mystery towers. They are huge objects, tower shaped and built of concrete. Water-tight compartments permit them to float freely and after their secret construction and launching they were towed from time to time about the English channel and anchored, a short distance apart, outside ports whose commerce was menaced by German submarines.

Even when the war was over their secret was not told. But rumors current in naval circles have suggested their purpose and design. It is said that the two towers contained great electric dynamos which generated a powerful electric current. Steel nets slung between the towers below the surface of the sea carried this current. Should the iron hull of a German submarine come in contact with this net the men inside the U-boat would be instantly electrocuted. A moment's contact and each man of the crew would meet a swift, silent and terrible death.

With the coming of peace the use of the mystery towers ended. One of these, stripped of its machinery and secret inventions, was sunk on a shallow sandbar in the Solent and used as a lighthouse. It still projects 100 feet above the water, and its strange history has been told to thousands of this summer's American visitors who saw it when entering the nearby port of Southampton.

The other has been anchored at Shoreham. Shoreham, however, does not want the mystery tower. The local authorities claim that it blocks the harbor and is causing a deposit of silt and sand about its base that is menace to navigation.

The latest development in the situation comes from a group of London speculators who wish to buy the tower from the admiralty and turn it into a gambling casino. These casinos, which run full blast at Deauville and Boulogne across the channel, are not permitted to open in England.

The present plan is to buy the tower, fit it up as a hotel, tow it outside the three mile limit, anchor it here. Wines and spirits could be sold at all hours and could be imported cheaply from France. Gambling rooms could be fitted up and hotel accommodations provided. The plan is to run a regular boat service to the nearby resort of Brighton, bringing out visitors at all hours.

The promoters have yet to gain the consent of the British government. If this consent is granted the tower, 160 feet at the base and weighing 11,000tons, is fully large enough for their purpose.

THIRTY GUN PLANE READY FOR INSPECTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—An armored airplane, designed for attacking infantry either intrenched or in the open and equipped with thirty machine guns capable of firing 3,000 shots in four seconds, started Thursday from its home field at Hicksville, L. I., on a flight to Washington, there to be inspected by the chief aero officials of the army and navy.

The completion of this new engine of warfare has been eagerly awaited by military experts, a number of whom have already seen it in action. By many it is recognized as an almost unbelievable advance in offensive weapons, as a novelty in destructive mechanism comparable only with the tanks."

It is an all-metal monoplane carrying a crew of two or three, either a pilot and a gunner or a pilot, a gunner and a mechanician. All vulnerable parts and crew are protected with steel armor which can resist machine gun bullets at any range.

Its speed—more than 140 miles an hour—and its mobility, which has been compared with that of an attack single-seater, make it an almost impossible target from the ground. For defense one of its thirty machine guns is mounted on each side of the pilot's seat ready to greet an attacking plane.

The plane is known as a "J. L-12 attack plane" and is a type in advance of the latest foreign all-metal planes. It is thirty-two feet long, with a wing spread of forty-nine feet, and carries 130 gallons of gasoline. When manned by pilot and gunner and equipped with 3,000 rounds of ammunition and fuel for 500 miles of flight, it weighs 5,000 pounds. Its radius of action in battle is 400 miles from its supply base. The engine is a 400-horsepower Liberty motor.

The main battery of the plane consists of twenty-eight machine guns arranged in two sections. The first section is of twelve guns located directly behind the pilot's seat and the second of sixteen guns is mounted in the rear.

The firing is done by the manipulation of three levers, one firing half the battery, another, the other half, the third being a master lever which puts all twenty-eight guns into action with a single motion. The two remaining guns of the thirty are fired at will by the pilot or gunner from the cockpit.

STENOGS IN LONDON NOW CLICK IN TIME TO THE "ONE-STEP"

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Dozens of itinerant street bands, mostly brass, but occasionally of the string variety, are the latest additions to the attractions of London. The average number of performers is six, and, in addition, there are generally two collectors.

These bands spring out at one from every corner of the city. One may be tuning a supposedly peaceful corner when the blatant note of a furious cornet causes a war-worn veteran to jump in the air. And barely has he recovered before a jingling collecting box, pushed into his face, gives him still a further shock.

Most of these bandsmen claim to be ex-soldiers, and the playing, in general, suggests a military training. They also claim to be out of work, but the probabilities are they make far more by street-playing than by their ordinary occupations.

The bands, nevertheless, are having their effect on the life of London. The machines of a roomful of stenographers may be heard clicking in time to a one-step. It sometimes happens that a business man opens his checks to the strain of "The Hallelujah Chorus" and occasionally surveys his bills to the music of "The Dead March."

Cats seldom lie with their feet to the fire, and usually lie on the left side.

LIZ GREW STUBBORN AND HE FILES SUIT AGAINST HENNERY

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—What that new Henry did to George "as a result," reads the allegations in a $5,000 damage suit, against the Ford Motor company: "He became sick, sore, lame and disordered. Divers of his muscles, tendons and sinews became wrenched, bruised, injured and confused. He suffered great pain and mental anguish and became greatly and permanently crippled."

And yet George M. Brenner told Judge David Thursday the flivver was guaranteed to be sweet and gentle and mannerly at all times. The case was continued to give Ford's attorneys a chance to explain Henry's reprehensible behavior. It balked when George tried to crank it.

OLD DOBBIN STILL HAS CLAIM TO FAME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Despite the fact that automobiles are multiplying faster than horses are being bred, Old Dobbin bobs up occasionally with a performance that stamps him as being of iron construction.

Postmaster-General Hays has just been informed of the exploits of a gray horse owned by George Caldwell, a rural mail carrier in Pennsylvania. Making more than ten miles a day for the last twelve years, this horse has travelled 50,000 miles equivalent to two trips around the globe at the equator. He is now sixteen years old and still going strong.

"Old Dobbin has not yet gone into the discard," said Postmaster-General Hays when he was told of the faithful service of this old rural service equine.

METHODISTS CONCLUDING YEAR'S WORK

Sunday marked the last sermons to be preached by ministers in three of the Methodist Episcopal churches, south, before the conference meets at which selections will be made for the ensuing year.

These three are, the First Methodist church, south, Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, pastor; the Floral Heights Methodist church with Rev. W. L. Title, pastor and the North Side Methodist Mission church with Rev. W. L. Betts.

According to information from church officials it is understood that the Rev. Knickerbocker will again occupy the pulpit of the First Methodist church, this being the desire of the church and Dr. Knickerbocker having expressed a desire to stay.

Rev. W. L. Tittle it is understood however, despite the fact that the members and officials of the Floral Heights church have expressed a wish that he stay, is expected to be called to other work.

The assignment of Rev. Betts is reported as yet unknown as the year just closing is the first year of the mission services. It however is known, according to men who have been in close touch with the progress of the mission, that Mr. Betts is going to the conference with a report of much good work well done and it is believed that the work will be continued for a second year on the same basis of the past.

LEWIS-WORTH STOCK COMPANY HERE FOR RUN OF SIX WEEKS

Gene Lewis-Olga Worth and their company arrived over the "Katy" this morning from Beaumont, where they concluded a six weeks engagement last night. This is the fourth year for this company in Beaumont and Mr. Lewis reported a very successful season.

There are twenty people in the company and it requires three special cars to move them from town to town. This is the reason Mr. Lewis only plays from three to four cities each year. He requires two baggage cars and one special pullman to make each jump.

After looking over the stage at the Wichita Theater Mr. Lewis, pronounced everything in readiness for the opening tonight for "Turn To The Right." He immediately jumped into his big Marmon car and started for a drive over the city. Mr. Lewis carries his own car and that is the first thing unloaded. Miss Worth is also very fond of motoring so the big car is kept busy most of the time.

Tonight the company will open in a big production of Winchell Smith's greatest of all comedies, "Turn To The Right." This is without doubt the biggest offering ever attempted by a stock organization, the peach orchard alone costing hundreds of dollars to produce. Mr. Lewis has several thousand peaches so when the curtain goes up tonight on the second act it will take you back to springtime.

Mr. Lewis has many well known stock people in his support which includes Miss Irene Daniel, Miss Pauline LeRoy, Miss Lee Smith, Miss Edevina Hart, Miss Margarett Dow, Miss Jesse Yates, Chas Lammers, Ted Brackett, Joseph Remington, Klock Ryder, Dave Heilman, Jack Doty, Robert Bell, Aaron Laskin, Edward Beach and Jack Emmerson. A party of friends also made the trip from Dallas with the company for the opening tonight.

COTTON PRICE RANGE LOWER IN WEEK PAST

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 23.—A lower range of prices accompanied the trading in cotton this week, the market at its highest still being 21 to 32 points under the close of the preceding week while at its lowest it was 141 to 155 points under. The net changes of the close were declines of 95 to 106 points. Fluctuations were within limits of 120 to 124 points.

Trading was as high as 18.51, as low as 17.28, and closed at 17.83. In the spot department prices lost 75 points on middling which closed at 18.25 against 19.75 this week last year.

Much of the selling of the early part of the week was done on the strength of the threatened railroad strike, although most selling was prompted by unfailing German political news and the drop to new low levels of the German mark after the middle of the week. Bearish rumors concerning ginning and a private bureau report of 5,700,000 bales ginned to October 18, accompanied by the estimate that this amount of cotton was but 74 per cent of the crop, were the main features back of the selling. At the end of the week there were 357,000 bals against 154,000 bales this week last year and 86,000 two years ago, bringing takings for the season up to 2,038,000 bales against 1,775,000 during the same period last year and 219,000 two years ago. Exports of the week were counted at 245,034 bales against 108,394 and 65,840, bringing the movement for the season up to 1,487,542 bales against 764,412 and 936,917.

According to the way the private ginning report of 5,700,000 bales was figured in this market it pointed to a total yield of 7,700,000 bales and this was the real reason for the selling, the reports of 5,700,000 bales in itself not being bearish, since it indicated but 2,770,000 bales ginned against talk of 3,000,000 bales during a good part of the week.

This coming week the main event will be the census bureau report on ginning, due at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, unless railroad labor troubles furnish important news. As the ginning question now stands cotton traders say it is almost impossible for clean cut opinions to be formed, for the census bureau will merely give the total ginned to October 18 and will not make any estimate of what percentage of the total crop. Figures from many points in the belt indicate that the crop is from 80 to 90 per cent ginned.

JOHN BULL IS UNSQUELCHED BY ADVERSITY

If the Roast Beef Holds Out England Will Probably Continue to "Wangle" Through Hard Times.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 23.—It's the roast beef of old England makes us do the things we do" runs a song, which has been made popular in London by a group of actors dubbing themselves "Co-Optimists," who have taken over a west end theater.

The roast beef of old England made this dozen, in other times, popular actors and actresses refuse to sit, jobless, during unprecedented theatrical slump. They co-opted themselves into a great little evening of music and fun. They "wangled" thru. And then they put the roast beef song on their program. It explains their makeshift to keep the wolf from the door, and it typifies England.

For England is "wangling" thru and John Bull, the private citizen, has needed some dictum similar to the above to pull him thru.

Since the war ended in England, making a living here, getting to work, buying food, getting work done has been "just one perishing thing after another."

The food shortage continued long after the armistice. Folk who wanted to forget war-time economics of diet could not. The necessities of normal times, the luxuries of wartime could not be had. Industry did not readjust itself. Prices were high, as elsewhere. But incomes didn't keep pace.

Germany didn't yield a pot of gold. Vast war organizations could not be demobilized. Expense piled upon expense. The taxpayer continued to pay six shillings in the pound, almost one-third of his income, to the government in income tax alone.

Indirect taxation continued. Local tax rates continued to jump and are still going forward.

Many Strikes

There were strikes—many of them. Some so big as to dislocate the whole food and transport system. Prices rose again. The American exchange rate continued to slump. It required constantly more pounds to buy the foodstuffs which were obtainable only from the west.

Labor on three separate occasions threatened the nationwide use of the strike weapon for political purposes. The nation was, in short, threatened with revolution.

A drought burned the crops, caused potatoes to jump $25 a ton overnight, wiped salad off the summer bill of fare, or left it there at a prohibitive price—as instanced by small heads of lettuce at 25 cents.

The same drought gravely threatened the water supply of London and many other towns. Over vast territories water was "rationed" by the simple process of permitting it to run into the mains only for a few hours each day.

Thru it all unemployment increased. The unemployed all but starved. The government's war depleted coffers were further strained by the necessity of averting hunger riots vented the public subscribing heavily ployment doles.

The government's start at relieving the housing shortage was wrecked by government bankruptcy, which did not permit continued contribution, and by the hard times which prevented the public subscribin heavily to the housing bonds campaign.

Out of Gear

Such a chronicle, like the famous brook, might run on forever. Old England is out of gear. Everybody has known it. Everybody has suffered from it.

On every hand there have been obstacles, handicaps. Constantly, the things that have been done before no longer can be done.

In the United States if so many impediments to comfort and progress had injected themselves into the life of the nation something would have cracked. A 30 per cent income tax alone might have caused an explosion. Or putting up with a leaky pipe for three weeks because there aren't enough plumbers to mend it, in a land of over two million unemployed. Or waiting nine weeks for a paper hanger, in a land where hundreds of thousands of workless have all but starved.

Or any one or all of a thousand other things.

But "it's the roast beef of Old England makes us do the things we do," and one of the most impressive things Old England does is to put up with things as they are however bad—until they get better.

Which may be one reason why the empire endures. Who knows?

SIGNING THE FIRST "MORALITY" MOVIE CONTRACT

Maryon Aye, film actress, signing the "morality" contract.

To guard against any recurrence of the huge financial losses which film producers have recently suffered because of scandals among their stars, the movie magnates have adopted a so-called morality contract, which contains the following clause: "Said party of the second part shall at all times conduct herself in public in such a manner as not to subject herself to any great amount of publicity or criticism because of said conduct." The first star to sign a "morality" contract was Miss Maryon Aye. The signing was considered a noteworthy event in filmdom.

"MULESHOE" MAKES BOW AND KICK AT IDENTICAL MOMENT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—An investigation by police officers has revealed the existence of a new drink in this vicinity—a drink with such a terrible "kick," and more terrible effects, that it has been given the name of "Muleshoe."

For several weeks men have been picked up in the old saloon district suffering with distress. At the Receiving hospital they were treated for alcoholic poisoning, swollen throats and in a few cases blindness. All of the men treated declared they had drunk nothing but what they believed was sweet cider.

The police investigators found certain sofe drink vendors have been buying in considerable quantities a heating substance containing wood alcohol, grease and an unknown chemical to keep it from burning too rapidly. The substance was designed to best chafing dishes, but the unscrupulous cider men have been mixing it, the police say, with the cider.

"I thought I had swallowed liquid fire," said one poor fellow after the doctors had worked with him several hours and brought him past the danger zone.

The police believe they have a line on all of the venders who used "Muleshoe" and expect to prevent its use in the future.

MOON'S WINTER CROPS THOUGHT DESTROYED BY RECENT ECLIPSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Because of the reported discovery of vegetation on the moon by Professor W. H. Pickering, noted Harvard astronomer, the recent eclipse aroused unusual interest.

The eclipse, occuring at 4:14 o'clock and lasting until 7:34 o'clock on the night of October 16, was only a partial one and escaped the notice of the average man in the street.

Assuming that Professor Pickering's observations that there is vegetation on that luminary are correct, astronomers speculated as to the effect of the earth's shadows on growing crops there. He has advanced the theory that two and one-half days of sunshine on the cloudless and atmosphereless moon gives it sufficient warmth to start vegetation, some of which reached maturity within two days.

On the theory that the eclipse produces a cold wave fatal to vegetable life, Pickering contends that it would come as a frost that would destroy much of the vegetation. He believes, however, that two crops grew on the moon during the fourteen-day span of sunshine in some parts.

Join Church Early Pleads Knickerocker

Reverend Hubert D. Knickerbocker completed his second year as pastor of the M. E. Church, South, of Wichita Falls Sunday evening with a sermon which in many respects contained the most earnest appeal to the unsaved to forsake their ways, which has been heard from his lips during his ministry here.

This sermon he said he has been in the habit of preaching annually on account of success which attended it during his service as pastor of a Dallas church.

Drawing upon biblical illustration from the examples of the Fall of Jerusalem, the Flood, the Fall of Sodom and Gomorrah and of the Five Foolish Virgins, all of which he declared were terrible monuments to man's tendency to let matters "slide". Dr. Knickerbocker said that the time comes when warnings come no more and when God's wrath fulfills all of the prophesies made concerning the continued sinfullness of mankind.

An appeal to those under 21 to be converted was made by the preacher, he declaring that the chances of any one being really saved after they had passed the age of 21 was about one in five thousand. He made the statement that the statistics on the subject show that 65 per cent of all church members joined the church before the age of 15 and that 85 per cent aligned themselves with the church before they became of age. There is much better chance of the conversion being real and lasting if it is made before the age of 21, Dr. Knickerbocker said.

"Too late," declared Dr. Knickerbocker with feeling, "is the saddest cry of despair that goes thundering down the corridors of a souls existence."

A number of men and women made public profession of faith after the sermon.

SMALL LOSS FROM SUNDAY NIGHT FIRE

The burning of two small garages in the rear of the 1900 block on Elizabeth caused some $400 damage, according to firemen's estimates, and caused a run of the department about 9:30 Sunday night. Damage to the garages and fences attached constituted the damage. The cause of the fire was undetermined.

All are invited to attend this meeting as the class which is to be organized will be inter-denominational and every one welcomed. Remember the time and place, 904 Broad street at 7:45 p. m., tonight.

OUTLAW STRIKERS OUT FOR REVENGE, ASSERTS LEADER

John Grunau.

The 60,000 railroad men who went on an "outlaw" strike in various sections of the country a year ago last April are now planning revenge on the big rail brotherhoods. Last year the brotherhoods would not help the outlaws. Now the outlaws, led by John Grunau of Chicago, say they will not help the brotherhoods. Thousands of men who lost their jobs eighteen months ago are expected to become strikebreakers if a strike comes.

NINETY-YEAR-OLD TWINS STILL GIVE OLD AGE THE LAUGH

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Oct. 23.—The oldest twin brothers in the United States, according to all available records, are James and Joel Cheatwood, of Fairmont Township, Leavenworth county. The twins recently celebrated their ninetieth birthday anniversary with a family reunion.

The twins still boast of being able to handle a plow and to cut as straight a furrow as any of the young "bucks" still in their teens. Neither of the brothers looks his age. Both have the agility of the average man of fifty and are examples of the rugged pioneers who settled in Kansas during the days of the Civil War.

"I am not old; I was just born a little sooner than the rest of you," drawingly remarked one of the brothers.

The two brothers for fifty years have lived within a mile of each other. When they desire to visit they never crank up the "flivver." They simply "hoof it."

In appearance, they can hardly be distinguished apart. Both can read without the use of spectacles.

Joe and "Jim" Cheatwood were born in Stokes County, North Carolina, October 11, 1831. Joel located in Kansas in 1857. He remembers many interesting incidents of pioneer days. Delaware Indians were on reservations here when Joel first came to Kan-

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Cheatwood celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary January 20, 1921. The couple have seven children, and among them are twin daughters, both of Kansas City, Mo. They are fifty-three years old.

Jim Cheatwood located in Kansas in 1856, a year before his brother.

EDITORIAL REVIEW OF EVENTS.

Reports from every gin in Wilbarger county indicate that they have handled 18,000 bales of cotton this season. Cotton continues to come in, but it is estimated that from 75 to 80 per cent of the crop has been gathered. The entire assessed valuation is $16,355, 809.88; poll taxes assessed 4,117, and the school tax this year will be $65,624.25, as compared with $55,014.18 in 1920. Women are paying poll taxes this year and this swells the school fund. If the road bonds carry on the last Saturday in October, there will be $600,000 ready money for road improvements in Wilbarger county. Wilbarger farmers are prosperous this year; merchants are prosperous. Cotton came back and the frozen assets held by banks and bankers were turned into liquid assets.

Women of Vernon held a mass meeting and adopted resolutions protesting against the manufacturing sale of home brew, the widespread sale of cigarettes to their boys and girls. The bootlegging, which they say is being carried on in their community and for four play grounds for Vernon and four supervisors for the same. Are there home brewers in the city of Vernon? Are there girls who smoke cigarettes in the city of Vernon? Are bootleggers permissable or recognizable in the city of Vernon? If so, how come it?

Contracts for approximately $163,000,000 worth of highway construction will be let as a result of joint road operations to be undertaken next year by the federal and state governments, according to estimates of officials here.

Road building in 1922 is expected to set new high records for mileage, number of men employed and contracts let. Contracts to be awarded by state and federal governments acting together stand for only a small part of the construction work being planned. States, acting without federal aid, are expected to spend millions additional.

In the Southern States the rush to lay highways is beginning already. Work can go on throughout the winter in many Southern States. South Carolina and North Carolina are leaders in the movement.

The aggregate of contracts will be largely increased if congress passes a measure now before it to grant an additional $75,000,000 worth of federal aid for highways. Although it is commonly said that the federal government and the states match dollars on the general road-building program,the proportion works out on the basis of 42 per cent for the federal government, instead of 50. The new road bill, therefore, means a total expenditure of $178,500,000.

Average cost of road-building this year is $21,000 a mile, according to the Federal Public Roads Bureau. Contracts let this year total about $100,000,000 when there is taken into consideration only the joint activities of the federal and state governments.

Of the joint road program planned in 1916, when the federal government appropriated $266,750,000 to be met by a larger contribution by the states, about $68,000,000 remains uncontracted for out of the federal allowance.

Counting the money to be assigned by the states, this program represented an expenditure of approximately $635,000,000, or the construction of 30,000 miles of highway, of which approximately 27,000 miles have been built or repaired.

A number of prominent oil men from West Virginia and Pennsylvania have secured acreage in the Bunger field, which they are planning to develop at once, and a number of locations have been made for immediate drilling outside the proven area. Development of this Young county field is said to be gaining headway rapidly as a result of the advances in crude. There promises to be remarkable activity in Eastland county, should the drought be broken and the water famine dissipated. Wildcatting on a large scale is reported in Stephens county, where many wildcats are under way. Pennsylvania advanced another 25 cents a barrel last week and everywhere throughout the section oil men are predicting that prospecting will take on new life. All the world will need oil or rather the refined products.

"It will be but a short time when this so-called Klan will be relegated to the ash heaps of history and when its antics will be regarded even by those who unthoughtly participated as entirely unworthy of the support of any patriotic citizen."—Colonel Henry D. Lindsley of Texas and New York. Colonel Lindsley is a native Texan. His father and all the Lindsleys in Tennessee were followers and friends of General Bedford Forrest, who organized the Ku Klux Klan in reconstruction days to rescue the southland from the clutch of southern renegades, carpetbaggers and the ignorant and deluded blacks who followed them. Colonel Lindsley has been mayor of Dallas. He served his country overseas. His only son served his country overseas. He has a viewpoint. The Record News prints it.

Texas has a white population of 3,918,165 and a negro population of 741,694. Sixty-one per cent of the entire population of Harrison county are negroes, but Harrison has a white man's government.

Philander Knox, of Pennsylvania, passed on to his eternal reward. His successor in the senate of the United States is William E. Crow. Knox was an organization republican; Crow is an organization republican. Knox represented the industries of Pennsylvania; Crow will represent the industries of Pennsylvania. Crow is 51 years of age. He has been a member of the state senate of Pennsylvania for 15 years. He is serving his fourth term as state chairman of the republican committee. He began active life a teacher and evoluted into the newspaper business. He was a reporter on a Pittsburgh daily for years. Then he became publisher and editor of a small daily in a small town. As he couldn't find enough to do as an editor and publisher, he became a lawyer and a successful office holder. Now he is a United States senator. His record should make him solid with President Harding. He comes from a printing office; he is an organization republican; he is the owner of a small daily; he is the resident of a small town and he has been a success all along the line. This reminds the Record News that Avery Hapwood as a playwright has shattered all New York records. He has four successes in four theaters at the same time in New York and seven companies out on the road producing "The Bat." His first success was "Clothes;" his last "The Demi-Vierge." Fifteen years ago when he was 22 Avery Hapwood was a reporter in the city of Cleveland. He lost his job, wandered to New York, began to write plays and "Clothes" went over big. He isn't 40 and he is the leading playwright in the country. Some of the sons of the Fourth Estate appear to be making good as they did in old Ben Franklin's age.

A year ago the merchant marine tonnage of Germany was 412,000; now the tonnage is 700,000 tons. Rapid strides were made in the reconstruction of the German merchant fleet during the summer. They are working in Germany; they are saving in Germany; they are coming back in Germany. It is in the Teutonic blood. They always come back. Germany has no standing army; Germany is without a navy. France has the largest standing army in the world; France has a costly navy to maintain. Really the victors of the war did a good term for the Germans when they forced the new Germany to disarm.

General Armando Diaz, of the Italian army, was granted the freedom of the city of New York. This was most appropriate. General Diaz is one of the heroes of the world war, and New York has an Italian population of 1,250,000. And Cristo Colombo discovered America.

Rippling Rhymes
By WALT MASON

PLEASANT READING.

Seated by my flaring candle, I digest the daily news, and it treats of crime and scandal, and of dope and smuggled booze. Foolishly I keep inquiring, "Is the whole world staring mad? Aren't people ever tiring of the grewsome and the bad? Oh, this era of abasement! All our bulwarks seem a wreck!" and some buckshot, through the casement, comes and hits me in the neck. All the boys are busy gunning, and they care not who they plug, and the cops are tired of running grisly slayers to the jug. With my humble rushlight burning I peruse the tales of crime, longing for the swift returning of the olden, peaceful time; when in safety one might travel up the highway, far and near, and no shotgun, charged with gravel, with his jaunt would interfere. Motor bandits were unheard of in those days serene and bright; it was seldom we had word of gunmen who would shoot at sight. In the streets, where men assemble, I'm the victim of a scare, and at home I sweat and tremble lest the gunmen find me there; on retiring I am fearful that they'll slay me while I snooze, and on walking I am tearful, lest I perish in my shoes. For the boys are busy slaying, and the bullets whiz and whine; oh, that all of us were maying, as in days of auld lang syne!—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

THE PANCAKE SEASON'S ON

The flapjacks are flapping, for winter is nigh,
The boys in the windows are tossing 'em high.
They're hot off the griddle,
They're dough in the middle,
But I am a fan for 'em so what care I?

So, grease up the griddle and let 'em come fast,
We're always afraid this stack will be the last,
And pour on the syrup,
Vermont maple syrup
Made out in Chicago for many years past.

I've pancaked around for full many a year,
And some have been tough as the hide of a steer,
Come on, indigestion,
I'll not ask a question—
You'll get me, I know, but I'll croak with a cheer.

NOTHING FOR THE MURPHY'S

In the Rutherford postoffice the following conversation took place:
"Anything for the Murphys"
"No, there is not."
"Anything for Jane Murphy?"
"Nothing."
"Anything for Ann Murphy?"
"No."
"Anything for Maggie Murphy?"
"No."
"Anything for Bob Murphy?"
"No, not a bit."
"Anything for Terry Murphy?"
"No, nor for Pat Murphy, nor Dennis Murphy, nor Pete Murphy, nor Paul Murphy, nor for any Murphy—dead, living, born or unborn, native or foreign, civilized or uncivilized, savage or barbarous, male or female, black or white, franchised or unfranchised, naturalized or otherwise. No, there is postivilev nothing for any of the Murphys, either individually, jointly, severally, now and forever, one and inseparable."
The girl looked at the postmaster in astonishment and said: "Please to look if there is anything for Clarence Murphy."

"And you were a good girl all the time?" asked mother.
"Yes, mother," was the joyful reply.
"And did you remember to say something nice to Mrs. Brown just before leaving?"
"Yes, indeed," Ruth answered, triumphantly. "I smiled and said, 'I enjoyed myself, Mrs. Brown; you had a lots better dinner than I thought you'd have'."

Little Brother Bob was being taught his prayers. After he had said them he climbed into bed and went to sleep. The next night as he climbed into bed he was heard to exclaim: "It's just the same prayer as it was last night, so good night, God!"

In the office of the prison warden at Canon City, Colo., a clever and notorious swindler was being divested of the contents of his pockets. As each article was removed it was carefully examined, listed and then placed temporarily on a nearby desk. Among the articles was a badly tarnished silver dollar, barely distinguishable as money, which the owner gave up with considerable show of reluctance.
At the conclusion of the search the prisoner pointed to the dull looking coin and in a suppliant tone, hesitatingly asked the warden:
"Would you mind letting me keep it?"
"Why?" asked the warden.
"Oh, just a little sentiment, suppose," the prisoner explained. "You know, it's the first dollar I ever stole."

TIMELY VIEWS NOT IN THE NEWS

Mayor of Tokio Doubts America's Sincerity in Calling Arms Conference.

"I cannot understand the motives of America in proposing a conference of nations to discuss limitation of armaments, especially when it is considered that it is America which spent more than any other country on armaments before the late war, and has since been continuing the same policy of replenishing its naval strength," declared Baron Goto, mayor of Tokio, in a recent interview. "If America were suffering from the effects of her policy of expanding her navy, she would reasonably call for reduction of armaments. As it is, America is in a position to strengthen her defense to any extent she pleases. It is natural that doubt is entertained in this country about the motive which prompted America to take the initiative in calling a conference on disarmament.

"The success of the conference depends upon the attitude of America, but if present indications are anything to go upon, I cannot bring myself to believe that the conference will achieve anything great.

"With reference to the Shantung question, the policy of the government ought to have been firmly fixed. Japan cannot delay negotiations with China without exposing herself to criticism. If the question is not settled before the coming conference although Japan has done all to settle it by that time, the blame for the failure of negotiations with China does not rest with her. There is reason to think that the government is doing all possible to dispose of that troublesome problem before the conference convenes.

"The Yap question appears to be annoying the authorities, but it is not so difficult of solution as generally supposed. There is no reason why Japan should refuse to withdraw from her original position. If I insist that Japan make any reasonable concessions, I may be taken to task for failure to take into consideration the question of national honor involved in yielding to the American position. But I cannot believe that the abandonment of the mandate over Yap will constitute a reflection on the reputation of the Japanese. If the retention of Yap is to be insisted upon, the authorities must show that they are able to fulfill all the functions devolving upon Japan from the possession of the mandate over the island. Not only is the navy not powerful enough to insure order and peace in the island, but the condition of finances does not allow of expenditure necessary for maintaining the mandate. In deluding themselves into belief that they are capable to exercising the mandate, the authorities are committing the same blunder in which they have fallen in believing that they can maintain the eight eight fleet when it is completed. Where are the naval authorities going to obtain the necessary supplies of fuel oil for the eight eight fleet?"

BRIG. GEN. JESSE McI. CARTER

Brig. Gen. Jesse McI. Carter, who directed the reorganization of the national guard, which was wiped out by the federalization of all military forces during the war, is one of many soldiers "of the old school" who played an important part in the world war despite the fact that he had seen over a quarter of a century of service when the conflict broke. General Carter has just retired from active service.

General Carter was appointed to West Point from Missouri in 1882, which means he has been in uniform thirty-nine years. When the world war broke out General Carter was made head of the militia bureau. He directed organization of the forces, which supplanted police in guarding utilities and industries, earning a distinguished service medal for his success. He served at this post until his recent retirement except for a brief time when he commanded the Eleventh division at Camp Meade, Maryland.

BOSTON BULL PUP DIES WITH GRIEF OVER CAT'S DEATH

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Topaz, a beautiful Persian cat belonging to Miss Inez Skinner, of 817 Green street, died suddenly of acute indigestion after about an hour's illness on September 27. This is the proem.

Bill, a Boston bulldog, had been brought up with Topaz during their joint lives, about three years and a half apiece. It had been his regular practice to rough-house Topaz, but always in a good-natured way, and they used to box with each other whenever anybody called at the house, just to show off.

Bill was the first to discover that Topaz was dead. While the human beings were still trying to restore the Persian cat to consciousness the Boston dog was running around in circles, perfect silent, entirely contrary to the habit of bulldogs. When the last breath passed from the cat, Bill curled up on the floor and would not move.

An hour or two later his owner's mother, repeating an old and familiar household phrase, said, "Bill, where's Topaz?" The bulldog ran silently to the place where the dead cat was lying and returned with the same gravity. A little later the same question was repeated. The dog lifted his snout and let go a short groan. Then he dropped his head on his paws and kept silence.

For two or three days the dog was intensely gloomy. The cat was buried in the garden and the dog was not bidden to the funeral. Nevertheless, the forst morning that Miss Skinner opened the back door Bill ran out, heading straight for Topaz's grave and stood there sniffing, his only and canine tribute.

That was about two weeks ago, and every morning since then, the moment the bars were liftpd, Bill has headed like a steam engine for Topaz's grave. Yesterday, for the first time, somebody in the house raised the old question: "Bill, where's Topaz?" and again there came the old answer, a short wail and the head dropped on the paws. Bill was dead.

THRONG HEARS SERMON UPON BIBLE HISTORY

With high interest displayed by a record crowd which completely filled the church, including the chairs placed in the aisles, Evangelist James F. McKissick preached a sermon on dealing with the historical side of the New Testament Church entitled "The Church," Sunday evening at the First Christian church. The sermon took up the historical development of the New Testament church and the growth of the various bodies. The demand for a restoration of the New Testament church in its doctrines and its life was also expressed.

Many declared it to be the greatest statement of religious historical facts ever head in this city. With intermingled wit and humor the audience was carried along to the great periods of development and the many urgent demands for a return to simplicity and scriptural foundations.

The subject for the morning sermon was, "Ascending the Hill of the Lord." In this the evangelist led his hearers step by step from grave to glory.

The announcements for Monday night promise a treat in music and a sermon on a theme that all are interested in, "The Unpardonable Sin." Mr. McKissick urged all to read up on this subject in the New Testament and come prepared to follow him. This sermon, he said, will be one of the vital sermons of the series.

The music Monday will be full of soul and power, according to the musical committee of the revival.

FRENCH CITY HONORS PRINCETON COLLEGE ARCHITECTURAL UNIT

SOISSONS, France, Oct. 23.—The work of the Princeton University Reconstruction Unit has been completed and the city of Soissons, where the work was done, has decorated the young American architects with medals, cast particularly to commemorate the spirit which moved these young men to volunteer their services to help France in the arduous task of reconstruction.

During the course of the summer they have co-operated with the French architects in re-surveying sections of the city and the neighboring villages as far north as Hill 108 and Berry-au-Bac where several American divisions came into action. They have measured up the ruins of some of the demolished buildings and made plans for restoration, but the major part of the work has consisted of designing new schools and town halls.

The greatest problem which confronts France today, in her reconstruction and rehabilitation program, is the proper provision for the generation which must grow up in the midst of the ruins. Thus, in the city of Soissons alone, four schools have been laid out providing for 500 to 600 pupils in each school. Through the influence of the American architects, each school has been provided with sufficient grounds to establish a playground with gymnastic apparatus and in some cases with a running track, football field, out-door basketball court and tennis courts.

The Mayor of the city has taken to the American idea of sports and has persuaded the council to provide grounds for establishing playground centers as well as a large athletic field. As a result, the architects had the problem of laying out a large playground on the site of the ruins of the old St. Leger Abbey which dated from the thirteenth century; and a quarter mile track with a football field within, on the site of the St. Crepin estate, the chateau of which was entirely destroyed by the German shell fire.

PARIS NEWS STANDS HAVE ADOPTED PLAN TO AID DAN CUPID

PARIS, Oct. 23.—For more than a year there has appeared in France a Journal de Marriages, which prints long lists of "marriageable men and women." This sheet has a big subscription list. It is to be thought, however, that its columns are not big enough to contain all the names and qualifications of "marriageable persons," for quite recently news stands along the principal boulevards have reserved notice boards for "matrimonial advertisements."

They contain such fascinating formulas as:

"Piquant brunette seeks husband."

"Affectionate blonde wants to marry." Alsatian and Lorraine widows and women divorced in their favor are legion. There is also the "demoiselle of fifty-eight years who only looks forty-five, of simple tastes, who would marry a widower or bachelor of about forty-five."

Then there is the man's side of the board where one may read: "Aged and faithful solicitor, serious, seeks pretty French woman between thirty-five and forty and serious." There is the "neutral who would give happiness to a young woman, or widow or divorcee, with dowry." There is the "blonde Dutchman who wants to build up a happy home with pretty French girl." There is the "only son of rich and aged parents who seeks demoiselle of good morals."

Crowds gather round such boards and cheer or jeer as the cards are displayed.

FIRST MACHINE GUN MADE REJECTED AS BARBAROUSLY CRUEL

PARIS, Oct. 23.—A controversy as to who first invented machine guns is one of the war's aftermaths in France.

Lvons put forth the claim of a Mr. de Perron, who, in 1775, is said to have submitted to the young King Louis XVI a military "organ" which worked on a crank system and could fire twenty-four bullets "almost simultaneously," and consequently could annihilate a whole regiment in a few minutes," according to a contemporary record.

The new weapon appeared to be so murderous that the king and his ministers rejected it and its inventor was held up as an enemy of humanity.

The powers hostile to France tried to secure the invention, but de Perron refused for patriotic motives and he died in poverty.

COMMUNIST PARIS "SHOW" IS FIASCO

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Ten thousand soldiers and policemen guarded the American embassy and neighboring streets today to prevent a threatened demonstration by French communists in protest against the conviction for murder in a Massachusetts court of Niccola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, but no communists appeared there.

Long before the hour set for the concentration of the communists at Porte Maillot, three thousand troops were on the scene while others manned machine guns on top of the city wall commanding a view of the entire square. A few communists emerged from the subway station at Porte Maillot, but they were hustled outside the city walls before they could organize and start a procession to the embassy.

Their rallying cry of "justice" "liberty" brought derisive laughter from the usual large Sunday crowds of sightseers. Much larger crowds remained near the Arc De Triomphe to watch the procession of war veterans deposit wreaths on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

SECRETARY HUGHES IS SNAPPED WITH HIS RIGHT HAND MEN

Secretary of State Hughes and his assistants, snapped outside the state department recently. Left to right in the group are: First Assistant Secretary Fred Morris Dearing, Under Secretary of State Henry P. Fletcher, Hughes, Second Assistant Secretary Alvey A. Adee and Third Assistant Secretary Robert Woods Bliss.

These men, Secretary of State Hughes and his four assistants, are responsible for the affairs of the state department. While much of the work handled by Hughes' assistants is routine, conditions at any time may make their work of vital importance. Under Secretary Fletcher's intimate knowledge of the Mexican situation, for instance, makes him of unusual value to the state department at all times. The group will be particularly busy during the arms conference.

BY MEANS OF INGENIOUS CONTRIVANCE SCIENTISTS HOPE TO SNAPSHOOT MARS

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Rocket, radio or camera—which will be the first to lay the secret of Mars?

Of course, it isn't at all certain that any one of the three will prove a successful Sherlock Holmes of the skies but scientists, lured on by an age-old curiosity concerning our neighboring planet, are pressing along all three paths.

The latest development to set the scientific world again agog over the old question of whether there was life on Mars was the announcement from Paris of B. McAfee, American scientist, and Prof. David Todd, American astronomer, that they proposed to snap-shot the planet by using an abandoned mine shaft in Chile as the barrel for a telescope.

Only a short time before Signor Marconi of wireless fame had put a kick of interest in the most fantastic of scientific inquiries by suggesting that a radio signal of 150,000 meters which he had picked up might have come from some Martian armed with a mammoth sending set.

But it was left to Prof. Robert H. Goddard of Clark college, in Worcester, Mass., to suggest making an investigation of the moon by means of a multiple-charge, high efficiency rocket, capable of carrying cameras of other recording appartus needed to explore the unknown regions of the upper air. As the claim was made that a rocket could be constructed of unlimited cruising power, it has been suggested that it might be shot up to Mars instead of the moon, which many scientists affirm is uninhabited. One or two daring individuals even have volunteered to be shot up in place of a camera.

The possibility that some folk might be wandering up and down the valleys of Mars has excited the curiosity of astronomers and laymen throughout all the ages for Mars is the nearest planet to the earth and the easiest to observe.

Imaginative writers took their readers on trips to the moon and laid the scenes of their stories in the surroundings of Mars, Saturn and other planets, but there was little scientific knowledge to furnish a basis for such fiction.

Highly Colored.

The perfecting of the high-powered telescope and the adaption of photography to the uses of the astronomers quickened their interest in the possibility of life on another world. Mars, which was seen to have large areas of a bluish green and other areas of an ochre red, with patches of white at the poles, was believed by many astronomers to be capable of supporting life in some form.

Schiaparelli, an Italian astronomer, announced in 1871 that he had found the surface of the planet scarred by many lines which were perfectly straight and seemed to have some system like vast engineering works. He called the lines canals, and said he believed they had been constructed and were not simply cracks in the surface of the planet.

Prof. Percival Lowell erected an observatory in Flagstaff, Arizona, many years ago, and commenced a systematic observation of Mars. More than ten years ago he startled the world by expressing his belief that Mars was inhabited by intelligent organisms living in a civilization much farther advanced than ours.

The canals, he said, were really big ditches bringing water from the pole to irrigate the rest of the planet. The ochre red areas on the surface of Mars, he asserted, were deserts or fallow fields, which became bluish green as the water flowed along the canals in the seasons.

Later, he said that he had watched the bluish green area, denoting land springing to life with the coming of the water, spread down the northern hemisphere along the borders of the canals to beyond the equator of the planet and then gradually turn reddish brown with the waning of the season. The water, he claimed, was from ice melting on the polar caps of the planet.

Scientists Disagree.

Other scientists took the opposite point of view. Some said the canals were only cracks in the surface of the planet filled with sand, impregnated with salts of various kinds, which became dark or light to the observer according to its moisture content. The temperature on Mars, they said, was too cold to support life of any kind.

Lowell retorted that his observations showed that the average temperature of Mars is 48 degrees Fahrenheit. The regularity of the canals; their even spacing; the accuracy with which they made a great circle such as navigators employ on a curved surface thousands of miles in extent; the manner in which some of the canals were paralleled at certain points and the regularity of the spots at the intersections of canals all testified, he asserted, to the artificial nature of the canals and justified a belief that they were made by sentient organisms of high intelligence.

More than 500 canals and oases, as Lowell claimed the spots to be, have been mapped out and their names are so well known that Harvard Observatory announced last April that snow had been observed falling at Isidis in the district of Syrtis Major, Mars. It was held by some that the canals had been developed to signal the earth which must appear to the Martians as of immense size being nine times bigger than Mars.

With the development of wireless telegraphy several attempts have been made to get into communication with Mars with highpowered apparatus. Signor Marconi gave encouragement to that field of research recently, when he announced that in the course of experimenting he had picked up a meters, about six times as long as any commercial apparatus in use today. Marconi said the letter V had been repeated several times in international code. He suggested that possibly the inhabitants of Mars were trying to get into communication with the earth.

Two engineers of Omaha devoted two weeks of their time recently to listening for signals from Mars. They kept their apparatus tuned to catch such a message as Marconi described but they heard nothing.

Controversy has run high over the bold proposal of Messrs. B. McAfee and Todd. A mine shaft in the Chilean Andes, which will point directly at Mars in 1924, will provide the barrel of their telescope, they announced, and a big pan of mercury revolving at high speed at the bottom will provide the mirror. The two Americans calculate that the surface of Mars will be magnified at least 25,000,000 times, bringing it within a few miles of their cameras.

The mine shaft will be widened to fifty feet in diameter and sheathed. The pool of mercury at the bottom will be revolved at such high speed that it will assume a concave shape and become a mirror. The depth of the fortunately placed shaft is so great that there will be sufficient luminosity, the two scientists said, to enable them to take snapshots instead of time exposures.

Will Use Cameras.

The Goddard proposal for aerial investigation also includes use of cameras. To summarize his principle, the determining factor of the efficiency of a rocket is the velocity of the ejection of gases due to the explosion of propelling material. By increasing this velocity, through increasing the proportion of the propelling material to weight of projectile and through a greatly improved nozzle-shaped passage for the escape of gases, Professor Goddard claims to have raised the efficiency of the rocket to nearly 64 per cent.

Many investigators are convinced that life exists on Mars and expect to prove it with the novel telescope. What they will find on their photographic plates is the object of speculation by scientific men the world over.

Lowell has said that Mars is level and uninteresting with no mountains and only a few dried-up beds of shallow seas to diversify its topography. More than one-half of it is desert land and the rest is only green when the canals are bringing water from the polar ice caps. Dust storms which blot out hundreds of square miles of the planet's surface from the view of scientific observers sweep over its equatorial section.

The physical conditions of Mars are entirely different from those we know on earth. The force of gravity exerted by Mars is only three-eighths that of the earth, while the atmospheric pressure that is about fifteen pounds to the square inch at sea level on our world, is less than four pounds on Mars. The air is very thin and no known animal could live on it. These conditions, however, make it possible for great weights to be lifted with little effort.

An elephant could leap like a gazelle in such an atmosphere, he said water would flow with a hesitating, lazy current and a stone thrown into the air would sink with graceful moderation to the ground. He made no attempt to describe how the Martians themselves might appear to worldlings but he said they would not resemble human beings.
