Free love. The sexual revolution. The pill.

The early 1960s brought a change in thinking and lifestyles — a profound change in young people in America and around the world.

Social scientists have become increasingly concerned with the peer pressures on teenagers today. New attention has been focused on the problems of teen-age sexuality and unwanted pregnancies.

The fact is, experts say, teen-agers are becoming more and more sexually active, and for the most part they are ignorant of the sexual facts of life.

Staff writer Lana Cunningham recently attended a three-day regional conference on teen-agers and family planning.

The conference, held in Kansas City, Mo., dealt with the problems of unwanted pregnancies, lack of sex education, venereal disease and "Our Responsibility to Youth." In Sunday's Lifestyle Section, Cunningham's six-part daily series on the problems associated with teen-age sexuality will begin.

The 1978 political season is in full swing as the Feb. 6 filing deadline for a spot on the primary ballots approaches.

There are a number of county offices to be filled this year, and there are some unusual dilemmas facing potential office seekers this year.

Staff writer Linda Hill Schaffrina spells out in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram how the political races are shaping up for the year.

Increasingly, Midlanders are learning the ABCs of CPR — Cardiac Pulmonary Resuscitation. Staff Writer Brooks Keller tells more about CPR in this Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Russian flu breaks out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confirmation of an outbreak of Russian flu in Wyoming raises the specter of a major new epidemic sweeping the country this spring with no vaccine available to protect the public.

"We didn't doubt it (Russian flu) would get here," said a spokesman for the government's Center for

Storm toll now 47; more snow feared

By JULIE DUNLAP
Associated Press Writer

As millions of Americans began to clean up today after vicious weather that killed at least 47 people, more snow threatened parts of the Upper Midwest where thousands of travelers still were stranded.

The Midwest awoke to extreme winds and freezing temperatures after the Thursday storm that Ohio Gov. James Rhodes called "a killer blizzard looking for victims."

The weather picture Thursday was generally bad. The Southeast was drenched by rain, sleet and snow. Tornadoes touched down in Virginia and North Carolina and temperatures dipped to the 20s.

Deaths blamed on the erratic weather were reported at follows: nine in Wisconsin, eight in Michigan, five in Indiana, four in both Ohio and Kentucky, two each in Illinois, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Alabama, Georgia, and North Dakota and one each in South Dakota, Nebraska, Maine, Virginia and Minnesota.

The weather was so bad in Ohio that President Carter declared a federal state of emergency today and ordered units of the 5th Army into the state to help exhausted National Guardsmen rescue stranded motorists and assist utility repairmen in restoring electrical power to thousands of homes.

Motorists were still searching for shelter in Michigan and the National Guard was at work. Gov. William Milliken declared a state of emergency so the state could apply for federal aid. The storm, which cut power to 160,000 homes, piled up 12-foot drifts and almost sank an ore freighter.

Truckers were sleeping in their rigs in Wisconsin — forced off the roads by the brutal blizzard and waiting it out until the roads were cleared.

Winds gusting to 65 mph sculpted snowdrifts 15 feet high.

Neighboring Indiana was virtually

Wallace position said key to Nixon resignation

By MALCOLM N. CARTER

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Nixon is quoted in a forthcoming book by David Frost as saying that he decided to resign the presidency only after Alabama Gov. George Wallace refused to use his influence to help rally congressional support for the beleaguered president.

Nixon said his decision to resign was made two weeks before he stepped down Aug. 9, 1974, and came after Wallace refused his request to intercede with Rep. Walter Flowers to vote against impeachment in the House Judiciary Committee.

The governor's office Thursday confirmed the Nixon telephone call on July 23, 1974, and said Wallace told the president it would be "improper" for him to approach the Alabama Democratic congressman. Flowers was with the majority when the committee voted for impeachment.

Nixon said his chief of staff, Gen. Alexander Haig, "had been in the room as I was talking (to Wallace). And I said, and he recalls this very vividly, I said, 'Well, Al, there goes the presidency.'"

The 320-page book, a copy of which The Associated Press obtained in advance of the scheduled Monday release by William Morrow & Co., describes the events leading up to and including the 29 hours of interviews Frost conducted for five TV programs.

A secretary at Nixon's San Clemente, Calif., estate said Thursday that it was not immediately known if the former president would comment on the book.

Among other things, "I Gave Them a Sword" discloses some of the details of Frost's negotiations, gives Nixon's explanation for preserving the Watergate tapes and explores his willingness to renew the Vietnam War if the North Vietnamese broke the peace accord.

Frost said he paid Nixon $600,000 plus 20 percent of unspecified profits for the exclusive interviews. That could easily have amounted to more than $1 million for the former president.

During the taping of the five television shows, Frost said, Nixon was plagued by facial perspiration and kept handy a white handkerchief saturated with a drying agent to wipe his face.

Although "the visual impact was enormous," Frost said, he decided it would be unfair to show the former

Debris believed radiation source

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Canadian and U.S. experts are making a ground search for debris from the downed Soviet spy satellite that is believed causing a patch of "extremely dangerous" radiation in north central Canada.

Defense Minister Barney Danson said part of the Cosmos satellite's nuclear power package is believed causing the high level of radiation detected on the ground by aerial searchers about 200 miles west of Baker Lake, a small outpost 100 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

"It's either a piece of debris or the greatest uranium mine in the world," said Danson.

He also reported that aerial teams detected lower levels of radiation at a point about 50 miles farther west. Fourteen Canadian specialists and six Americans were flown to Baker Lake. Using two Chinook helicopters, they were conducting a ground search to try to pinpoint the source of the major radiation and to determine if it came from the satellite that dropped into the earth's atmosphere early Tuesday and burned up over northwest Canada.

Bitter cold and winter daylight lasting only five hours hampered the hunt. Meanwhile, U.S. and Canadian planes continued to check for other unusual radioactivity over much of Canada and as far south as Fort Wayne, Ind.

External Affairs Minister Donald Jamieson said the Russians had offered to provide any technical assistance necessary to contain any radioactive debris found. But there was no indication the Canadian government would accept the offer. Jamieson said his government would seek international talks to develop safeguards for nuclear-powered satellites.

"There are other satellites in space which are similar in makeup," he said, "and some international regime that is obviously more complete than the one now in force will have to be established."

The Soviet satellite was designed to break apart and send the power pack containing about 100 pounds of uranium-235 into a safe high orbit, but the mechanism failed to work.

The United States has one satellite with a uranium reactor in orbit, but it is up 700 miles and won't come down for at least 4,000 years, after the atomic fuel has burned out. Eight other American nuclear satellites are in orbit, but they are powered by plutonium-238 which decays rapidly and is much less dangerous than uranium-235.

Clubhouse to be built

Plans for the construction of a new clubhouse featuring an atrium and glass elevators were announced today during the annual meeting of the Petroleum Club stockholders.

The new facility will be constructed on the southwest corner of West Wall Avenue and Marienfeld Street. No time schedule for completion of the facility has been developed, according to John Fain, general manager of the Petroleum Club.

Architects for the clubhouse are Geren and Associates of Fort Worth. The facility will be a three-level building constructed around the atrium with a stairway and two glass elevators.

The building will include approximately 40,000 square feet of useable floor space, eight private dining rooms seating a total of 144 persons, a large ballroom seating 250 and a formal dining room seating 100, Fain said.

Freeze cuts pecan tree availability

Due to the recent freeze at the nursery, which may have affected some of the pecan trees not already delivered to Midland for the pecan tree sale, no more trees will be available after the present shipment is exhausted.

The sale will be resumed today from 4 to 6 p.m. and from 9 a.m. Saturday until the limited supply now on hand has been sold.

The Midland Chamber of Commerce VIP Committee and The Reporter-Telegram do not wish to risk the possibility of allowing any tree to get into purchaser's hands unless it meets the high standards established for the stock in this sale.

Mistrial motion refused

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A judge refused to declare a mistrial in the Don Yarbrough perjury trial today after what a defense lawyer called the "absolutely gut error" of a prosecutor's question about Yarbrough's alleged forgery of a car title.

The prosecution agreed to withdraw the question.

The question came during cross-examination of the former Supreme Court justice in the punishment phase of the trial. Yarbrough was found guilty of perjury Thursday.

A tearful Yarbrough told the court God had forgiven him for his wrongdoing but when he told that to the world, "it was not well-received."

Yarbrough's face was red and contorted in a vain effort to stop from Water plan application discussed

By JIM STEINBERG

What does a county do when its water supply is so limited that residents must develop new sources outside the county or leave?

For Upton County, at least, the answer wasn't easy. In June 1977, the Board of Directors of the Upton County Water District retained a consulting engineering firm to perform a preliminary feasibility study of possible methods for providing an adequate water system.

The recommendation of that study? Build a 14-inch pipeline from Big Spring to Rankin and a 12-inch pipeline from Rankin to McCombs.

Members of the Permian Basin Regional Development Review Committee were told during a meeting Thursday that the 98.7-mile pipeline, water treatment plant and 50 million gallon water storage plant would cost an estimated $10,375,000.

According to the preapplication form for partial federal financing:

president's face when he dabbed at it or just before or afterward.

On the Watergate tapes, the former chief executive said he at first decided against destroying them in the belief that they would someday vindicate him.

He said he reasoned that to destroy them before they were subpoenaed "would have been an indication that I felt there were conversations on there that demonstrated that I was guilty."

And after the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled in October 1973 that special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox could demand nine of the tapes, to destroy the others would have "at least appeared to be an admission of 'I am trying to cover something up.'"

Nixon said.

Second autopsy performed

ODESSA — A coroner's inquest probably will be held next week in the death of Larry Lozano, 27, who died in the Ector County Jail Sunday night. Peace Justice Virgil Lumpee said today.

Lumpee said the results of an autopsy performed by Dr. Kris Challapalli have not been forwarded to him, pending the results of a second autopsy by a medical examiner in El Paso.

Lumpee confirmed that the second autopsy was being done at the request of the Lozano family and that Lozano's body has been taken to El Paso.

The autopsy in El Paso is hoped to shed more light on the time period in which Lozano received numerous injuries concentrated about the face, arms and legs, Lumpee said.

He added that these new tests may push back the time of the inquest for more than a week.

Ector County Sheriff Elton Faught said Lozano went berserk in a padded jail cell and banged his head repeatedly into a one-inch thick window in the door of the cell.

That explanation is disputed by members of Lozano's family and leaders of the Brown Berets, a Mexican-American activist group here.

Johnny Smith picked as Andrew's citizen

By ED TODD
R-T Staff Writer

ANDREWS — Emcee James Roberts was generous in his praise of Andrews' outstanding citizen — Johnny Smith — of 1977.

And the 350 to 400 banquet-goers at the Andrews County Chamber of Commerce's annual fete rose to their feet and applauded and applauded and waited.

They were generous in their hand-clapping. They looked around. Roberts scanned the crowd in the Andrews County Civic Center. Smith wasn't there.

"He was indisposed earlier this evening," said newspaper publisher-editor Roberts, who knew how to handle the situation. He was the chamber's outstanding citizen in 1963.

Striding up to the stage in Smith's stead was his long-time friend, Charlie Carruth, who, in 1960, was the chamber's first outstanding citizen.

He hadn't much to say. Later that night, after the chamber's 24th anniversary celebration was sinking into the past, out-going chamber president George Harrell conceded that Smith's selection must have been "

Eilberg said to have urged Carter to fire Marston

By JAMES H. RUBIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., urged President Carter to speed up the firing of U.S. Attorney David Marston two days after Eilberg's name came to the attention of FBI agents who had just joined a Philadelphia corruption investigation, an FBI source says.

The source, who asked not to be identified, said investigators were told on Nov. 2 that Eilberg's law firm represented Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia to help obtain government financing for a $65 million expansion. That was the day the FBI began quizzing hospital officials about the financial arrangements for the expansion, the source said.

Two days later, on Nov. 4, the Pennsylvania Democrat called Carter to ask the president to expedite the removal of Marston, the U.S. attorney in Philadelphia, and Carter relayed the request to Attorney General Griffin Bell. Marston, a Republican, left office on Monday.

Meanwhile, the federal prosecutor heading the Hahnemann investigation in Philadelphia said Thursday that Eilberg technically was not "under investigation" when he called Carter.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Alan Lieberman said, however, that he told Assistant Attorney General Russell T. Baker Jr. last August that "sometime down the road" Eilberg "might possibly be involved in the investigation" of the hospital.

Since 1975, Eilberg's law firm reportedly has received $500,000 from Hahnemann, about five times what the hospital paid its previous law firm over a two-year period.

The Justice Department's criminal division is looking into whether Eilberg attempted to obstruct justice by pressing Carter for Marston's ouster. The key question is whether Eilberg knew of an investigation possibly involving him at the time he called Carter. Eilberg has denied having such knowledge.

The Justice Department earlier this week cleared Carter and Bell of any wrongdoing in the matter.

In another development, Justice Department sources confirmed Thursday that on Nov. 4, the day Eilberg called Carter, the department authorized Marston's office to seek immunity from prosecution for a key witness in the Hahnemann investigation.

The witness, Stephen Elko, is a former aide to another Pennsylvania Democrat, Rep. Daniel J. Flood, who is being investigated by federal prosecutors in Philadelphia, also about Hahnemann.

Elko was sentenced on Jan. 9 to three years in federal prison for accepting bribes, while working for Flood, to obtain government support for a chain of trade schools in California.

An aide to Eilberg said Thursday that the congressman did not know he might be under investigation in the Hahnemann matter until Dec. 16, when Marston's office subpoenaed financial records from his law firm.

The aide, who asked that his name not be used, said Eilberg "is still unaware of anything (in the investigation) that touches on him rather than the law firm."

Months before Eilberg called Carter and before anyone suggested that the congressman might be under investigation, according to the aide, Eilberg had asked Bell to remove Marston.

Edinburg youth charged with kidnapping

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — A 24-year-old self-professed homosexual and former star schoolboy football player was jailed late Thursday, charged with aggravated kidnapping after he allegedly held a college chemistry class hostage at gunpoint for three hours Wednesday.

Eddie Montalvo, a former Pan American University student, was being held in the Hidalgo County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond set Thursday by Justice of the Peace Matias Morin.

The gunman, clutching a teddy bear and wielding a pistol, fired no shots and there were no injuries in the incident on the Pan American campus, police reported.

There were 36 persons, including Prof. Jose Castrillon, in the chemistry class, police said.

"He said 'I'm taking over,'" said Castrillon, one of Montalvo's former professors. "He said 'I'm homosexual' and that he was not going to jail. He said the world is a jail for homosexuals."

The ordeal ended when Montalvo surrendered his .25-caliber pistol and walked into police custody.

He had talked with his father and a lawyer he asked to see — a former high school teacher.

Castrillon, who said Montalvo seemed relieved when the siege ended, called Montalvo a poor student who received a D in his chemistry class last year. But the professor said he had always been friendly with the man.

Hostages said Montalvo initially said he planned a three-day stay in the auditorium to protest the plight of homosexuals.

As Montalvo allegedly wielded the small black pistol in the class, about 40 law enforcement officials ringed the Science Building.

Edinburg Police Chief A.C. Gonzalez said he called Montalvo's family soon after the college president notified him of the problem.

Pollution clouding scenic view from peak

By BILL MARTIN

MOUNT DIABLO. Calif. (AP) — If mountains had memories, 3,849-foot Mount Diablo could be forgiven for waxing nostalgic over the good old days.

The peak east of San Francisco — which some say offers a panorama surpassed only by Africa's 19,000-foot Mount Kilimanjaro — has seen better times.

Once a prestigious mecca for 19th-century tourists, the mountain and its spectacular view are largely unknown outside Northern California.

But the view — a majestic tribute to nature's whim in plunking a tall mountain in the midst of rolling foothills — is often hampered by the leavings of civilization.

The peak has begun the long road to recovery after a devastating fire which blackened more than 6,000 acres over a three-day period last August. It will take decades for growth resembling that lost to the flames to return.

A trip to the summit can be awe-inspiring, but visitors aware of the environment can be saddened by thoughts of what used to be.

While landmarks such as the Golden Gate Bridge are easily visible, visitors must look down also on urban sprawl touching the foot of the mountain. The view is often obscured by a layer of smog. "There is some conjecture about whether we ever again will have the crystal clear days that have been written about historically," says Bert Bogardus, a ranger at Mt. Diablo State Park.

"There are days when you can see the thick, brown air below and the clear blue sky above. Some of the surrounding hills look like islands sticking up through the brown," he said.

But those who have been away from the peak for some time are most shocked by the bedroom communities spilling across Diablo Valley. Despite the blights of smog and tract homes, the Golden Gate Bridge and San Francisco, 31 miles away, are easily seen across a ridge of smaller mountains. On rare days the Farallon Islands, 30 miles off the coast, are visible to the naked eye.

Under perfect conditions, Half Dome, looming over Yosemite headquarters, Valley 135 miles away, can be picked out of the High Sierra with the binoculars.

In fact, some 40,000 weather, brisk, but not square miles in 35 of too brisk winds and a California's 58 counties little preceding rain."

The perpetual haze over the San Joaquin Valley, the Northward snake the tentacles of the Sacramento River. To the southwest, the peninsula below San Francisco is identifiable by thick brown fog hugged by a pair of small mountain ranges.

The most spectacular view is due west, where animals rustle through bushes and birds shake the shrubs. Far overhead, a jet appears to coast through the sharp blue sky, its intrusion softened by the beauty all around.

In the morning silence,

NEIL SOLOMON, M.D.

New group helps women alcoholics

Dear Dr. Solomon: My sister has had a drinking problem for a number of years—she is now in her mid-40s—and it has gotten much worse. I've urged her to try Alcoholics Anonymous, but she gets furious at the idea. Do you have any suggestions?—X.

Dear X: If your sister has a family doctor, the first thing I would do is talk to him and see what he advises. Doctors are usually so busy that unless the patient comes to them they simply don't have time to keep after a problem like your sister's—much as they would like to. I assume your sister has not done this.

You might also see if your sister would get in touch with a new organization called Women for Sobriety. It was set up last year by Dr. Jean Kirkpatrick, a sociologist from Quakertown, Pa., to deal with the special problem of women who are alcoholics or just heavy social drinkers.

Dr. Kirkpatrick fought a losing battle with the bottle for 25 years and finally hit on a sobriety system that worked for her and has also been successful with other women. It is based on the concept of emotional and spiritual growth as the goal of life. Lack of self-esteem is considered the main obstacle the drinking woman must overcome. This is done through supportive group therapy.

Dr. Kirkpatrick believes in meeting problems "a day at a time and a drink at a time." The key steps in her sobriety plan are: (1) Desire to break away from alcohol forever. (2) Join Women for Sobriety. (3) Learn your value as a person. (4) Let others see how terrific you are. (5) Enjoy life.

There is a monthly newsletter called "Sobering Thoughts," an acceptance program and a detailed work schedule to be followed until there are enough women in a neighborhood to form a group. Groups meet once a week to discuss drinking and other problems.

According to Dr. Kirkpatrick, there are 5 million women alcoholics in the United States, a number equal to the total population of Maine, Idaho, Nevada, Montana, New Mexico and Utah. Women alcoholics, she says, have problems special to them—above all being alone. Nine times out of 10 a husband will leave an alcoholic wife whereas, Dr. Kirkpatrick says, in nine cases out of 10 a wife will stay with an alcoholic husband. Thirty-eight million women live alone, her figures show, and many of them drink alone purely out of loneliness or boredom.

Despite all this, Dr. Kirkpatrick states, rehabilitation programs supported by the government or foundations are overwhelmingly directed to alcoholic men.

An important point Dr. Kirkpatrick makes is that teen-age alcoholism is on the rise, and that much of this comes from family habits. Curing an alcoholic parent is the best way to reach the younger generation—education by example.

For further information, write Dr. Jean Kirkpatrick, Women for Sobriety, 344 Franklin St., Quakertown, Pa. 18951.

River yields many fossils

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — More than three tons of fossil remains have been removed from the bed of the Cooper River by paleontologists working the area ahead of a projected channel dredging.

Mastodon bones and those of prehistoric elephants, elk, tapir, horses and sharks have been found.

East wins the ace of trumps and returns a trump to the king. The average declarer leads a club at once, hoping to ruff the other club in dummy.

East wins and returns another trump. South must run the diamonds to get rid of his losing club. This leaves him in the dummy with only spades left, and he is now sure to lose two spades tricks. Down one.

HUMAN PLAY

A human player, looking ahead, doesn't lead a club at the third trick. Instead, he draws East's last trump and runs the diamonds to get rid of a club. Then he gives up the club trick.

East takes the ace of clubs and returns a club to make South ruff. South can now lead a spade from his hand and must guess whether to play the king or the jack.

This decision is easy since East has shown up with two aces and would have bid or doubled with a third ace. South plays West for the ace of spades and makes his contract.

One word of advice: Be sure to test your friends before they test you.

ANSWER: Bid three hearts. This forcing bid asks partner to raise hearts if he has three or more hearts; otherwise he bids 3 NT.

League launches drive

The Midland League of Women Voters is launching its annual campaign drive to expand community services to the voters of Midland.

"With increased financial support from individuals and businesses, the League hopes to offer extended services for the benefit of the community," says Junia Stoddard, League finance chairman.

Here are the projected services which the League would like to provide if money is available.

They would like to put a Voter's Guide into the hands of every registered voter in Midland County. Each such mailing would cost a minimum of $520 for postage. They are also planning "how to" brochures on ten common problems and how to solve them. Example: How to get a street paved.

An attempt will be made to hold candidate forums for every city, school board, college and hospital election. Candidate forums will also be held for the county and state primaries in May, as well as for the 19th District seat being vacated by Rep. George Mahon.

A publication, "Know Your County or Citizen's Handbook," is planned, and another, "Citizen's Guide to Elected Officials," is hopefully to be brought out.

Other plans include distributing larger amounts of voter education materials to schools and libraries, demonstration of voting machines in shopping centers, and a special project introducing 18-year-old voters to the registration process and to the use of voting machines.

All labor to provide these services is provided by volunteer League members. Nearly half the total amount of the League's budget represents in-kind contributions of time or service or actual cash outlay from members.

Contributions may be mailed to Box 7437, Midland, Texas 79701.

Family paid $41 more for food

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average family paid $41 more for domestically produced food last year than in 1976 with all but $2 of the jump going to processors and other middlemen, the Agriculture Department said today.

But the figures also show that the proportion going to the farmers held steady at 38 percent from 1976 which was down from a 42 percent share the year before.

The department said the preliminary statistics indicate that a 65-item marketbasket of food cost a record $1,936 in 1977. That was a 2.2 percent increase from its cost of $1,895 in 1976. The figure was $1,876 in 1975 when the farmer got a $784 (or 42 percent) share.

As used by USDA, the marketbasket theoretically is enough food for a statistically average household of 3.2 persons for a year.

But officials caution that the marketbasket value by no means tells how much money an average family actually spends on food during a year. For one thing, the list does not include seafood and imported products such as coffee, tea, cocoa and bananas.

Restaurant meals also are not included.

Henry T. Badger, a department food economist, said that in most recent years the marketbasket value has constituted about 90 percent of what families spend on food for home use.

But because of soaring prices for coffee and other non-farm food last year, Badger said the marketbasket component probably dropped to around 85 percent of the 1977 family food-at-home bill.

Badger said some authorities disagree, but that it appears meals eaten away from home are accounting for an increasing share of what families spend to eat. Last year, he said, restaurant meals made up about 25 percent of total food expense.

The department does not attempt to compute annual costs of all food on a per household basis, Badger said.

Food prices overall last year — including at-home groceries and restaurant meals — rose an average of about 6.5 percent against the 2.2 percent gain for marketbasket items.

This year's overall food price increase is forecast by USDA at 4 to 6 percent, with most of the gain resulting from still higher middleman charges while farm values of food products are expected to remain fairly stable.

Despite its limitations, the marketbasket is regarded as one of the government's best indicators of what happens to the food dollar spent for products which originate on U.S. farms.

The figures compiled by Badger's office showed that of the estimated $1,936 retail value of marketbasket food last year farmers received an equivalent of $750 as their share.

Groups oppose rules listed for abortion

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — New rules regulating government payments for poor women's abortions are so loosely written that they virtually endorse abortion on demand, opponents of the procedure contend.

The rules, announced by the Health, Education and Welfare Department on Thursday, are intended to implement the bitterly fought abortion law passed by Congress in December.

Pro-abortion groups described the rules as fair and humane. But their adversaries in the lengthy battle in Congress said they were disappointed and dismayed.

Thea Rossi Barron, legislative counsel for the National Right to Life Committee, said the regulations were an example of "a rather blatant carving out of a loophole to allow abortion on demand."

She complained that HEW in nearly every interpretation had adopted the more liberal positions taken by members of the Senate rather than the strict view expressed by those in the House.

"I certainly hope the members of the House will take this as an affront," she said. The issue of government-paid abortions comes up in Congress again this year.

The most controversial of the regulations permits abortion payments for victims of rape or incest if someone reports the incident to authorities within 60 days.

The report could be sent by mail, and the victim need not be the one to report it. Any pregnant woman under the age of consent would be presumed to be a rape victim because the law refers to "rape" rather than "forcible rape."

The law itself permits abortion payments "for such medical procedures necessary for the victims of rape or incest, when such rape or incest has been reported promptly to a law enforcement agency or public health service."

Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., who led the House fight to limit government payments for abortions, noted that Congress adopted the reporting requirement to limit fraud.

"I would have hoped for a seven-day limitation," he said.

Hyde said he would have to study the regulations thoroughly before offering any detailed comment. But he said he had "no problem" with the provision allowing anyone to make a report to authorities on behalf of a rape or incest victim who sought an abortion paid for by federal funds.

"A woman may be too distraught to report it herself," he said.

A spokesman for the HEW general counsel's office, who asked not to be identified, said the report of a rape or incest case must be signed by the person making it and must include the victim's name.

Rosalynn's previous image now unclear

By DONNIE RADCLIFF
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The dense crowds along Pennsylvania Avenue were as startled as the military coordinators had been earlier when the words had crackled over the radio: "The president is walking." He and Rosalynn had climbed out of their limousine in front of the Capitol, making history with their 16-block walk. "Isn't Rosalynn brave?" said a woman in the crowd, surveying Rosalynn's ruffling dark hair. "she hasn't even got a hat on."

There were those who thought she could do no wrong that blustery January day. She had some hard acts to follow, the most notable, Eleanor Roosevelt, activist First Lady who inspired two generations of American women and who would be a role model, some thought, for Rosalynn Carter. This soft-drawing First Lady from Georgia would be different still. Like her husband, she too had made campaign promises.

She would be in the vanguard of new social change, her authority derived from her husband and a constituency she had won for herself. With those mandates, she said she would: —Improve the nation's mental health services for its estimated 32 million mentally afflicted.

—Garner support for the Equal Rights Amendment and steer it through state legislatures to ultimate passage.

—Focus upon the needs of 22 million elderly citizens.

Expectations were high. "Every day I just see things I know I could help change if I were first lady," she said on one occasion. "I'm not doing all this just for Jimmy. I feel I'm doing it for the country."

Some admirers, touched by what they saw as a simple but effective directness, looked to her to bring national problems into a new perspective through human terms. She was, Jimmy Carter assured

Americans, "a perfect extension of me." They saw her testifying on Capitol Hill, if the cause

what you are, she suffers the interminable comparisons with some of her White House moving into the White House. If it is judged less than perfect by some. She learned one thing in the process: "There are frustrations. You want to do too much at one time."

Those early days had been hectic — organizing staff, setting up a routine and keeping a family going.

But the Equal Rights Amendment was pressing for attention, too, and the Carters were keeping track of it, where it stood in the critical states. She was calling behind the scenes and while successful in Indiana, found her efforts in vain in some other states.

LIFESTYLE

demanding it. Her admirers predicted a tenacity coupled with a Southern persuasiveness that even the most curmudgeonly in the Congress would be helpless to withstand.

She would focus on the stresses of families, the injustices to minorities, the anxieties of the underprivileged.

But a year into Jimmy Carter's first term, the image of Rosalynn Carter has become blurred. She seems hesitant at times to use the resources at her command. Unlike Eleanor Roosevelt, whose voice and pen were seldom still, Rosalynn Carter proceeds cautiously.

Her influence appears undiminished but she wields it so quietly that what it may accomplish for her at times goes unnoticed, sometimes unheralded.

Unlike Lady Bird Johnson, Lyndon's No. 1 graduate from that old Capitol Hill institution of lobbying, Rosalynn Carter appears uneasy, maybe even unaware of the rewards to be gained from that. And in a town where how you are perceived by others can be more important than predecessors, with Presidential advisors.

It is midway into Carter's first presidential year and in three days, he would be sending his wife off on a Caribbean and Latin American tour. At a news conference, he talked overtime. Finally Rosalynn moved quietly in and whispered: "Jimmy! Jimmy!" He continued to talk. "Jimmy!" she whispered again, louder. "Let's go." The President and Rosalynn went.

She has watched Jimmy Carter's first press conference of the new year from her East Wing office. She has critiqued him, as she always does in her upbeat way, talking to his image on the screen. "That's a good point." You would think he could hear her. Sitting behind her desk, she turns her attention to her interviewer. Her hands are folded in front of her, strong, unpampered hands with short, neat, pale pink nails and she clasps and unclasps them as she talks. She speaks rapidly, intensely, fully.

She is putting her own campaign record up for inspection now, a few days shy of a year after

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shelburne of 917 Holly St. will be honored on their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception from 3 to 4 p.m. Saturday in the dining room of Terrace Gardens Nursing Home.

Mrs. Shelburne, the former Lela Oshields, and Mr. Shelburne were married Jan. 27, 1928, in Baird. They have one son, Delbert Shelburne of Laredo and five grandchildren, who will assist with the reception.

Drinking plain sin

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — In a day when alcoholism is regarded as a disease, there is a 30-year-old treatment center which operates on the premise that an alcoholic is a plain old sinner.

"We view alcoholism not as a disease but as a sin. We try to get these men to accept Jesus Christ as their savior," says Gary Hoyle, assistant director of the Hebron Colony.

"We feel safe in saying we have a 65 to 80 percent success rate," Hoyle said.

Sushi bar can be intriguing experience

By NANCY YOSHIMURA
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — When was the last time you walked into a quaint-looking Japanese restaurant, intrigued by the "sushi" sign — but shied away from the sushi bar, bewildered and confused, and settled for the usual hot bubbly sukiyaki or deep-fried tempura?

If you like lox, pickled mackerel, caviar or steak tartare, you'll probably love sushi — uncooked fish on mounds of vinegared rice.

Eating the centuries-old cuisine — one of the most authentic Japanese dining experiences this side of the Pacific — can be an exotic and enjoyable gourmet experience.

In a Japanese restaurant that has a steady stream of sushi bar (not all of them do), you can expect to be greeted with hearty "irashaimase," the traditional welcome of the Japanese.

Your hosts for the evening will be a gentleman or two — the itamae-san — who are usually dressed in light cotton garb, often with a hachimaki or cotton towel twisted around the head.

With the precision of an artist and the flair of a showman, the itamae-san will take your a la carte orders, hand-prepare them and serve you on the spot.

How do you decide what you want? There is no formal menu; you pick and choose from the refrigerated glass case before you — like a kid at a candy store.

Think fish, though, and mind your stomach, manners and pocketbook.

Of the Japanese culinary arts, sushi probably is the most refined in visual artistry and taste. Consequently there are not fish eyes staring at you from a plate. Instead, each serving of sushi is carefully assembled and — as with other Japanese foods — "irashaimase," the traditional welcome of the Japanese.

Although each itamae-san has his own style and specialties, sushi generally consists of nigiri — a small mound of vinegared rice, usually topped with a dab of wasabi (horseradish) — and a thin slice of the seafood you select from the variety of fish, shellfish and other delicacies.

Sushi selections are usually served in pairs, except for the temaki — a sheet of nori spread with the vinegared rice and rolled up with strips of fish or cucumber in the middle.

The Japanese like to order an o-tsu-mami, a plate of raw tuna, squid, clam or abalone. This is an especially good appetizer before the sushi.

First-time sushi eaters should try the maguro (tuna) nigiri. The saba (pickled mackerel) also is very tasty; so are the salmon and the sea eel (it's cooked). The avocado and crab roll is excellent and the cucumber roll — kappa maki — is very refreshing. The cooked egg or tamago is a good choice to finish with because it's somewhat sweet.

There are many things you should remember at a sushi bar.

The turnover of diners is usually slow. People generally linger, so most places do not take reservations. If you're in a big hurry, you're just out of luck.

One of the first things you will be served is a o-shibori — a moist towel to clean your hands with. This will be left for you to dab your hands on as you eat. At the classic sushi bars, the o-shibori is taken away and a small paper towel is left instead.

The towel is handy because sushi is eaten with the hands, like hors d'oeuvres. Place your thumb on top of the nigiri and flip your twist inward to dip the fish (never the rice) in the soy sauce — or murasaki, as it is called at sushi bars.

On a raised ledge before you is where the itamae-san will serve the sushi. Some places serve the food directly on the enameled counter tops; others use a plate, a wooden tray or a leaf.

The itamae-san will place a mound of gari (pickled ginger) at one corner of your serving area. The gari helps clear the palate between different sushi orders. No hands, please — use the chopsticks before you.

For extra pizzazz, you may ask for some wasabi or horseradish on the side. Dissolve this green paste in soy sauce for an added zip to sushi eating.

Wash the sushi down with the hot green tea or ocha, which is served in large, palm-filling cups. If you want a refill say, "Agari onegaishimasu."

Never hesitate to compliment and tip the itamae-san. These delightful hosts are as much entertainers as craftsmen.

When you want the check, it's nice to say, "Owai-so onegaishimasu."

Sushi usually is not cheap, because the seafood is of the highest and freshest quality.

Although there are some exceptions, most sushi bars do not post their prices, following a time-honored practice in Japan. Consequently, for the inexperienced, sushi eating can be expensive.

Sushi bars at the more elegant restaurants tend to be more expensive and staid than at smaller, more intimate places. Eateries frequented by Japanese businessmen also lean toward the expensive.

Five to eight pairs of sushi, usually adequate to fill one person, could cost $8-$20, not including drinks other than tea and water.

Also, keep in mind that the more exotic your selection, the higher the cost will be. The itamae-san keeps a running tab of your orders, but he normally does not itemize the check. If you have questions, ask.

Swim lessons to begin

The City of Midland Swim Team has a new learn-to-swim schedule, which begins its first session Monday.

According to Sherli Cochran, learn-to-swim coordinator, "This is an opportunity for children to learn to swim, improve their water skills and enjoy the water. Children will be grouped according to ability, with no more than four students per instructor."

Lessons will be held at the heated Mabee Memorial Swim Center at 3003 N. A St., with five sessions slated before summer. Each session lasts three weeks and consists of 12-30 minute lessons Monday through Thursday. Cost of the lessons is $36 per session. Additional information at 684-7755.

This wedding pure as snow

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Snowflakes drifted over the wedding party as Michael Pate and Suzanne Scott were wed.

"We didn't think there would be that many people coming, so we decided to have it in the snow," said Pate, explaining why the Friday afternoon ceremony was held outdoors.

Nearly two inches of snow fell on the area Thursday and most of it remained on the ground into the weekend.

After seeing the snow during the Thursday night rehearsal, Pate said, they started thinking about getting married in the white surroundings of the church garden. The young couple had planned a wedding inside Centcrest Baptist Church.

There was no music on Friday as Suzanne was escorted from the church into the snowy garden.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Woolsey

J. R. Woolseys mark golden wedding date

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Woolsey of Midland Saturday will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception given by their daughters and held in the home of Ursula Atkinson at 2504 Harvard St.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolsey were married Jan. 16, 1928 and have lived in Midland since 1951.

The daughters are Von Woolsey of 1600 N. Big Spring St. and Jan Woolsey of Lubbock.

DEAR ABBY

Daughter's friend a worry

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Something has come up that I don't know how to handle. My 11-year-old daughter has a best friend I'll call Becky. Becky is a sweet girl, but her mother is a tramp.

She ran her husband off when he objected to the way she carried on with other men. In the meantime, Becky's mother entertains men friends night and day. Apparently she has no shame before her children from the things Becky has told my daughter. Some of the goings-on in that house are unreal!

I've told my daughter the facts of life, but it's nothing compared to what Becky has told her. What do you suggest? Should I forbid my daughter to have anything more to do with her friend? It hardly seems fair, but, Abby, I am stumped.—NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: It is highly unlikely that your daughter will be corrupted by anything she hears from her girlfriend. It would be unfair to punish the child for her mother's attitudes and decency behavior. You could do Becky a tremendous favor by making her especially welcome in your home, where wholesome attitudes and decency prevail. She needs understanding and kindness—not punishment and rejection for a situation for which she is blameless.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGHTER (Sat., Jan. 28)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Although you are likely to make some poor judgments now, later you find the aspects change and become excellent in coordinating your efforts with others to advance and to progress in joint enterprises.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over joint projects with partners and come to a fine accord, make them more successful in the future. Make any necessary changes.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be more enthused about the work ahead of you and get it done efficiently. Come to a meeting of minds with co-workers early and all works out well. Don't overwork and undermine health.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get in touch with congenials and you can make this a happy time. Come to a better understanding with loved one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get home in fine condition and feel happier there. Study into a new project that can be very fine for you in the near future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Pay compliments to those with whom you want to be allied in the future and entertain them. Gather data you need that can help you to be more successful. Avoid one who has strange ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle any financial affairs in a most clever way and get ahead faster. Listen to what an expert has to suggest. Do some socializing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact good friends and work out mutual affairs intelligently. Make sure you pay bills, take care of pending business matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be with a loved one and have a good time. Gather information you will need for a future project. Shop early.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Enjoy yourself and see as many friends and relatives as you can. Make new acquaintances who can be of help to you in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Taking care of a civic problem now is wise since you have free time. Consider gadgets that will make daily work more efficient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look into new and fascinating outlets that will make your life better in the future. Deepen friendships with new acquaintances. Don't let others take advantage of your good nature.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use a better system for handling routines and get fine results. Take no chances with persons who are jealous of you.

Other survivors include a son, a daughter, a sister and five grandchildren.

Former aide accuses congressman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing sentencing for bribery, a former aide to Rep. Daniel Flood accused the Pennsylvania Democrat of bartering influence for payments of well over $100,000 which a federal prosecutor says may be illegal.

Those allegations by Stephen Elko are recorded in an affidavit filed in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles on Dec. 6 by Assistant U.S. Attorney David R. Hinden.

Elko made the statements under a grant of immunity from prosecution. He cooperated with the government in an effort to obtain a light sentence on his conviction for bribery and related charges.

Among the accusations reported in the affidavit are these:

—That contrary to Flood's own testimony at Elko's trial, the 75-year-old congressman was aware of the payoffs for which the ex-aide was convicted on Oct. 19, 1977, and that a portion of the money was used to pay rent and other expenses of Flood.

—That a former Elko attorney helped to arrange payment of $28,000 to Elko to ensure his silence about the Flood transactions.

—That Elko has information about two payments of $5,000 cash, in 1973 and 1974, to since-retired Rep. Otto Passman, D-La.

Through his spokesman, Flood declined comment, "in view of the ongoing investigation." Passman denied that he received the payments alleged by Elko.

Flood is one of two Democratic congressmen who reportedly was under investigation by U.S. Attorney David W. Marston of Philadelphia, the Republican prosecutor fired last week by Attorney General Griffin Bell.

The other, Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., pressed President Carter on Nov. 4 to speed the ouster of Marston, a call that eventually fed the controversy over his dismissal.

While it was presented in secret, a copy of Hinden's affidavit was obtained in public records of the court.

Elko, 49, formerly Flood's administrative assistant, and Patricia Brislin, Elko's girlfriend, were convicted of bribery, perjury, obstruction of justice and conspiracy for accepting bribes of between $4,000 and $15,000 in 1972 and 1973.

The bribery charges stemmed from payments from the operator of five trade schools seeking accreditation that would make the schools eligible for lucrative federal contracts. Elko used Flood's name to press the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the accreditation.

Hinden's affidavit was presented in support of a government motion to delay sentencing until the government could determine the extent of cooperation Elko and Ms. Brislin were willing to provide.

Two robberies not related

ODESSA — An armed robbery Wednesday night has no connection with an attempted robbery Thursday night, even though both occurred in the 3700 block of Andrews Highway, Odessa police said today.

According to Capt. Jack Fillyaw, a man in his early 20s entered the Mars Service Station at 3722 Andrews Highway about midnight Thursday, pointed a pistol at the clerk and demanded money.

Danna Darnhart, who was on duty at the station at the time of the attempted robbery, told the man that the money was locked in the safe and that she had none at the window. The man turned and fled on foot.

In the previously reported incident Wednesday night, a masked man escaped with an undetermined amount of money from the Thrifty Gas Station at 3700 Andrews Highway. The robbery occurred about 8:40 p.m.

Broncos slam, dunk Chaparrals

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

New Mexico Military Institute, the guys with the short hair who carry a national ranking of 18th, play junior college basketball like they were entered in an NBA slam-dunk contest.

The Broncos slammed home an 89-74 Western Junior College Conference victory at the Midland College gym Thursday night and dunked the slumping Chaparrals to a 3-7 conference standing and 12-11 on the year. The Broncos stayed in the battle for the championship with a 7-3 conference record and a 18-4 season mark.

Spencer Haywood's ankle needs rest

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks announced Thursday that starting forward Spencer Haywood would be out of action for two or three games because of a sprained right ankle.

Haywood incurred the injury in the Knicks' 99-97 National Basketball Association victory Tuesday night over the Golden State Warriors and was not in uniform for Thursday night's game between the Knicks and the Kansas City Kings.

SOMEONE SAID this was the same team the Chaps defeated on the road earlier this season, but after Jerome Mobley and Lewis Lloyd got through putting on their rim crashing display Thursday, one has to wonder what the Chaps put in their food the first time they played.

Lloyd stuffed in 30 points on the night, hitting 13 field goals, four of them by the dunk variety that had the Chaps looking on in complete awe. Mobley wasn't quite as good. He only hit for 28 points, and had only two dunks to his name. T. J. Parks, who had 12 points for the Broncos, got another dunk just for fun, and the Chaps were just all dunked out after 40 minutes of basketball.

THE BRONCOS just climbed on the ceiling and took the guess work out of shooting. It was like packing a suitcase for a long vacation. You just slam it shut, and then stand on it.

It wasn't so much that the Broncos penetrated the Chaps' defense as it was that they just went over it. The tactic allowed the guys with the short hair to shoot 56 per cent from the field with 33 field goals in 58 attempts. Pretty good no matter what method is used.

The Chaps, meanwhile, took a lot of notes but managed only 29 of 78 shots for a meager 37 per cent effort. And that's pretty bad no matter what method is used.

EARLY IN the first half, the Chaps looked like they might make a run at victory as they jumped to a 14-8 lead in the first 4:50 of the game as Mike Denny came out smoking like he was out behind the barn with six of the first 14 points. Denny scored 10 of his 14 points in the first half to keep the Chaps' hope alive, but the 14-8 lead proved to be the zenith of the Chaps' attack as the Broncos reeled off six unanswered points to knot the score at 14 with 13:20 left in the half.

The game knotted again at 16 and the lead swayed back and fourth until a Parks layup gave NMMI a 23-21 lead. Things would never be the same again for the Chaps.

Lloyd followed with a three-point play, Mobley hit three free throws and Lloyd took his turn again with the dunk to create a 31-22 lead with 4:40 before intermission.

BY HALFTIME the Broncos had a 16-point lead at 45-29. That was the biggest lead of the night, but the guys with the short hair kept it there most of the night.

The Chaps did narrow the margin to eight points at 72-64 with 5:40 left in the game when Rick Hudgins, who led the Chaps with 18 points, canned a three-point play, but Lloyd and Mobley got it back to 16 before the three-minute mark arrived.

Henry White helped the Chaps get back in the game by scoring all 15 of his points in the second half, but his last basket came at the 4:23 mark and there was nothing left for the Chaps after that.

The downfall of the Chaps came in the first half when they scored only nine points in the last 10-minute stretch. During the same stretch, NMMI scored 24 points.

The Chaps travel to Amarillo College Monday before returning home again Thursday for a date with Howard College. If the Chaps hope to earn a region playoff berth, they had better start putting a few wins together. The Chaps have lost five of their last six conference outings.

LPGA rookie sensation Nancy Lopez shows the form that allowed her to defeat Midland's Judy Rankin, the leading money winner of the LPGA the last two years, in a match play tournament Thursday in California. (AP Laserphoto)

Rookie Lopez defeats Rankin

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Young Nancy Lopez, who has been on the LPGA tour just six months, said she had been looking forward to playing Judy Rankin, figuring she'd learn something, win or lose.

Rankin undoubtedly wishes she hadn't taught Lopez the particular lesson she did in Thursday's first day of the $105,000 Triple Crown Match Play Championship.

Lopez, after downing Rankin 4 and 2, said, "I learned from her to keep playing no matter what kind of shots hit. I could tell Judy was really struggling, but she kept holding on."

Rankin, the top money-winner on the LPGA circuit the past two years and the favorite here, suffered a recurrence of the putting problems that have plagued her off and on for the past year. She was up by one going into the third hole, but missed a short par putt there to fall to even.

She went on to three-putt twice more, as Lopez moved ahead on the fourth hole then won the match with a birdie on the 16th.

"I saw how much trouble Judy was having with her putting," said Lopez, a 21-year-old from Roswell, N.M. "So I decided to try to hit everything close enough to the pin to twoputt. I'm putting pretty well right now."

Rankin, who had two second-place finishes and one third in the three previous Triple Crown tournaments, wasn't the only golfer having trouble on the first day of the 72-hole tournament at Mission Hills Country Club.

Jane Blalock, the winner of the Triple Crown for the past two years, lost her match as the field was trimmed from 16 to eight. Pat Bradley knocked Blalock out of the championship competition and into the consolation bracket with a 4 and 2 victory.

Kathy Whitworth, the 1975 Triple Crown champion and considered one of the players to beat in the 1978 edition, was also upset, losing 5 and 4 to Silvia Bertolaccini.

JoAnne Carner, an aggressive golfer whose style of play seems fitted for this match play event, was one of the eight survivors after the first round, posting a 4 and 3 opening victory over Debbie Austin.

Sandra Palmer, a late addition to the field when Carole Mann had to withdraw, began play with an impressive 3 and 2 victory over Donna Caponi Young.

Others advancing were Amy Alcott, Sally Little and Sandra Post. Alcott sank a birdie putt on the 18th hole to beat Mary Mills 1-up; Little defeated Kathy McMullen by the same score and Post downed Jan Stephenson, also 1-up.

Angry young men take golf lead

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A couple of angry young men have turned their displeasure into the top spots in the $200,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament.

"I think I just got tired of playing poorly on the tour," said Mark Pfeil. "I got mad."

And he turned that attitude into a 6-under-par 66 that staked him to the first-round lead Thursday.

Jack Spradlin, repentant and "very sorry" that he once sued the Professional Golfers Association to regain his playing rights, followed the advice of Commissioner Deane Beman on his way to a 67 and the No. 2 position.

Spradlin dropped his suit, which he said was ill-advised, before it went to court. He, like Pfeil, had lost his players' card due to poor performance but, like Pfeil, regained it with another appearance in the Players School.

"After I'd made it through the school again, I apologized to the commissioner," Spradlin said. "He shook my hand and said 'No hard feelings. Just go get 'em with your clubs.'"

And Spradlin did just that, firing the best round of his pro career.

One stroke back at 68 were Jerry McGee, Marty Fleckman, Bob Eastwood and Jack Renner. All played on the 6,667-yard North course at Torrey Pines, the shorter and easier of the two layouts used for the first two rounds.

Greer Stevens upsets Wade

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Unseeded Greer Stevens, who has eliminated two seeded players from the singles competition in a $100,000 women's tennis tournament at the Sports Arena, goes after another highly regarded foe Saturday night.

"I can't believe I won," said the South African after earning a berth in the semifinals with a 6-4, 7-5 victory over third-seeded Virginia Wade of Great Britain Thursday night. "These have been two great wins for me."

Stevens, who eliminated sixth-seeded Betty Stove of The Netherlands Wednesday, faces second-seeded Martina Navratilova in a semifinal match. Navratilova, formerly of Czechoslovakia now living in Dallas, defeated eighth-seeded Tracy Austin 6-3, 6-4 Thursday night.

"I just tried to keep the ball in the court and make her play the ball," said Stevens of her victory over

Wade. "I still can't believe I won."

The other two quarter-final matches are scheduled tonight — fourth-seeded Sue Barker of Great Britain faces fifth-seeded Rosie Casals and a pair of unseeded South Africans, Marise Kruger and Yvonne Vermaak square off.

In second-round matches Thursday, Barker topped Zenda Liess 6-0, 7-5; Casals outlasted Mariana Simionescu of Romania 6-3, 3-6, 6-4; Vermaak won by default over seventh-seeded Dianne Fromholtz of Australia, who is suffering from the flu, and Kruger whipped unseeded Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia 6-2, 6-3.

Billie Jean King, who withdrew from the tourney with an injury, said she wouldn't play in the next two women's tournaments — at Chicago next week and Seattle the following week. She said she intended to return to the tour after that.

Lee hosts Bobcats; Bulldogs face Steers

The Robert E. Lee Rebels entertain the San Angelo Central Bobcats while Midland's Bulldogs hit the road to take on the Big Spring Steers in District 5-4A basketball action tonight.

Both the Rebels and Bulldogs are 1-0 in the second half of the race, sharing first place with Abilene and Abilene Cooper.

Lee gunned down Odessa High, 75-65, Tuesday and the Pack took care of Permian in Odessa, 70-64. Cooper, meanwhile, nipped San Angelo, 51-49, and Abilene romped past Big Spring, 69-35.

The Rebels take an 18-8 season record into tonight's game while the Bobcats are 12-10 on the season.

Midland is 16-10 and the Steers 8-21, but doubly tough on their home court. Starting for the Rebels tonight will be Dave Stueckler, Nate Goudreau, Mike Richard, Mike Oestmann and Joe Garner while Central will counter with Randy Drew, Lorenzo Payne, Leonard Lambert, Oliver Bell and Rene DeLeon.

Lee beat Central, 67-45, in its first meeting in the first half of the district race in an exciting game on the banks of the Concho River.

In other games tonight, Permian faces Abilene and Cooper meets OHS in Odessa. Permian is 13-12 and 0-1 while Abilene sports a sparkling 26-3 and 1-0 mark. Cooper stands 23-4 and 1-0.

Midland will start Walter Bryson, Tim Lucas, Kiffy Hickey, Milton Sanders and either Roy Lee Jefferson or Charles Johnson. Sophomore Archie Booth may also see some action.

Starters for the Steers will include Del Poas, Ken Coffey, Chippo Wright, Mark Poas and either Ysa Rubio or Ken Perry.

Namath ducks writers; heads for golf meet

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — When Joe Namath, confirming his retirement from professional football, asked, "what more is there to say?" he apparently meant it. He ducked a so-called official news conference Thursday in which he was to have talked about his retirement from pro football.

Broadway-Hollywood Joe, in an impromptu news conference after arriving at the Phoenix airport on Wednesday, said: "Football's been great to me, but it's time to move on. I'm all through. What more is there to say?"

Namath was here to play in a pro-amateur golf tournament at Mc-

Rams discuss possible move

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Officials of the Los Angeles Rams and Anaheim Stadium are scheduled to meet Friday to discuss a possible move of the National Football League team to Orange County.

The Rams have played their home games at the Los Angeles Coliseum since they moved west in 1946, but their contract with the coliseum expires after the 1979 season.

"The Rams are serious this time," said Jim Hardy, the coliseum's general manager.

Local swimmers to host B-C meet

The City of Midland Swim Team will host a winter short-course "B-C" swim meet this Saturday and Sunday at the Mabey Memorial Pool.

More than 220 swimmers from West Texas and New Mexico are expected to compete in the event, which will get underway at 10 a.m. Saturday morning. Teams from Midland, Odessa, Abilene, Pampa, Plains, Lubbock and Hobbs, N.M., are scheduled to participate in the two-day confab.

Warm-ups will start at 9 a.m. both days, and competition will begin immediately afterward. There will be a concessions stand at the pool, which will be equipped with food and refreshments, and the public is invited to attend.

Arkansas fends off Mustangs

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton said free throws made the difference as fourth-ranked Arkansas' Jim Counce, Ron Brewer and Sidney Moncrief helped to fend off a furious SMU rally and post a 72-65 victory over the Mustangs Thursday night.

"Jim Counce hit his shots as did Ron Brewer and Sidney Moncrief," Sutton said.

The Razorbacks are now 18-1, including 6-1 in the Southwest Conference.

SMU Coach Sonny Allen says Arkansas is still the best in the SWC.

"The rest of the conference is just really improving," he said. Allen predicted either Arkansas or Texas will win the conference race.

Marvin Delph kept the Porks in front most of the way against SMU Thursday with 12 of 18 field goal shootings for 24 points.

Brewer chipped in with 14 points while Moncrief had 12 and Counce had a season high 10 points.

Reggie Franklin led SMU with 14 points while T.J. Robinson had 13 and Jeff Swanson 12.

Borg survives intense battle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors scored an easy 6-1, 6-1 victory over England's Buster Mottram to reach the quarter-finals of the $225,000 U.S. Indoor Pro Tennis Championship.

But second-seeded Bjorn Borg, the Wimbledon titleholder from Sweden, had to wage an intense two-hour battle Thursday night before defeating his third-round opponent, 22-year-old Peter Fleming.

Borg narrowly escaped with a 3-6, 7-6, 6-3 victory after Fleming served a double fault in the third game of the third set.

"I don't want to play matches like this very often," said Borg. "But it's always good to have one close match in a tournament. If you have it too easy, you might not do so well."

Fleming, the runnerup for the 1976 NCAA championship while at UCLA, said while he was playing he never felt he could beat Borg.

"I never had him," Fleming explained. "I served very well for three sets, yet I have still to beat one of the great players. I think I should have been more aggressive and come in more but Borg was hitting to within five feet of the baseline and backing me up."

Fleming scored with wellplaced volleys and drives down the line to dominate the first set, which he won with a service ace.

The second set was decided by a tiebreaker in which Fleming was two points from winning at 5-5. Borg hit a strong drive from behind the baseline which struck the net and shot past the charging Fleming. That put Borg at 6-5.

Fleming tied at 6-all as Borg overshot the base line. A stronger serve by Borg drew a netted backhand for 7-6 and Fleming later hit Borg's shot over the baseline to lose the set.

Borg broke through Fleming's service in the third game of the third set and reached match point by hitting an overhead smash to Fleming's feet. Fleming's return hit the net before he double faulted.

In other third-round matches, John McEnroe upset No. 5-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain 7-6, 6-2; Sandy Mayer upset his doubles partner, fourth-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis, 6-2, 6-2; 75; Raul Ramirez of Mexico defeated Ken Rosewall of Australia 6-4, 6-2; Brian Gottfried defeated Wojtek Fibak of Poland, 6-3, 7-6; Eddie Dibbs beat Harold Solomon 6-3, 6-3, and Roscoe Tanner stopped Ilie Nastase of Romania 6-1, 6-7, 6-0.

Gilliam earns jail release

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Former professional football quarterback Joe Gilliam has been released from jail after prosecutors said "witness problems" forced them to drop an armed robbery charge against him.

The charge was dropped Thursday. Gilliam, 26, was then released from the city jail where he had been held since Tuesday when he was unable to post $3,000 bond on a charge of robbing a 16-year-old boy at gunpoint Jan. 12.

Assistant District Attorney Ron Miller said a judge was informed Thursday that the government would not prosecute on the charge. He said prosecutors were having "witness problems," but refused to elaborate.

Test concludes caffeine raises blood pressure

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The caffeine in just two or three cups of coffee makes the blood pressure shoot up. It slows down, then speeds up the heart. It speeds up breathing. It forces the important adrenal glands to pour out two hormones that make the nervous system work harder.

All these striking, potentially harmful effects have been detected by Vanderbilt University scientists in one of the most careful studies of caffeine effects ever done.

The researchers also concluded that medical science doesn't know yet whether habitual coffee-drinking increases the risk of developing heart disease or other illness, but investigation is needed.

As for advice to the average coffee user, "it's too early to make any recommendations," the study's principal author, Dr. David Robertson, said Wednesday.

Many other authorities agree. But not all.

Dr. William Lukash, President Carter's physician, said Wednesday "it's fairly well established" that caffeine is a potent drug, "and I'd use a common sense approach to limit coffee intake to no more than three or four cups a day."

Lukash and two Navy colleagues told the American Medical Association in 1975 that drinking 5 to 10 cups a day can lead to headaches, irritability and nervousness. They said 30 percent of coffee drinkers "have digestive distress directly attributable" to their coffee use.

All authorities agree that coffee should also be limited in certain medical patients — for example, persons "with any heart rhythm disturbance," said Robertson.

He and six Vanderbilt colleagues tell in the New England Journal of Medicine issued Thursday of their unprecedented study of caffeine effects in nine healthy young persons — six men and three women — aged 21 to 30.

REPRESENTING MIDLAND AND ODESSA in the 16th National Young Artist Competition here are pianist Joy Young, and vocalist Loretta Bybee, bottom left, both of Midland, and cellist Victoria Parr, right, of Odessa. The competition, sponsored by the Midland Symphony and Chorale, began this morning in First Presbyterian Church and will continue Saturday at Lee High School.

New Holmes adventure proves very entertaining

ODESSA — An old acquaintance in a new adventure is featured currently at Permian Playhouse, Odessa's community theater.

"Sherlock Holmes: A New Adventure" is the appropriate title of a play which continues PPH's 1977-78 season. Performances will be at 8 p.m. today and Saturday, with holdover performances announced for the evenings of Feb. 3 and 4. Seat reservations may be made in advance through the box office, 362-2329.

Holmes, that super-sleuth of Victorian England (and, probably, of all the detectives of fact or fiction, the one we remember best as a result of all the books and stories Sir Arthur Conan Doyle wrote about him), is presented big-as-life in a new play by Thomas Hinton. The play had a successful run on Broadway in a recent season.

Hinton's script imparts the flavor and "feel" of turn-of-the-century London, and some of the low-life characters it spawned, without being archaic as to dialogue or plot. It's a period piece, but a highly entertaining one.

It is NOT a suspense play, especially: We all are aware from the start of the evil events afoot and are just as confidently aware the Sherlock will nail the culprits. It's how he goes about the task, and the perils and pitfalls he encounters, that provide the entertainment.

"Sherlock Holmes" has been staged by PPH managing director C. L. Holloway in his last directing stint before he returns to Shreveport next month to take over administration of that city's arts and humanities program.

Sid Williams makes an excellent Sherlock—soft-spoken, subtle of approach, sharp as a tack. Bryant White is good as Holmes' garrulous and sometimes not-tooobservant sidekick, Dr. Watson.

Perhaps the strongest player in the production is Ocie Robinson as "Napoleon of evil," whose mad scientist characterization is really first-rate. Moriarty's two Cockney assistants—evil, Mollykate and Bassick (Mary Skinner and Bob Gibson) also turn in excellent characterizations.

Professor Moriarty, a "Napoleon of evil," whose mad scientist characterization is really first-rate. Moriarty's two Cockney assistants—evil, Mollykate and Bassick (Mary Skinner and Bob Gibson) also turn in excellent characterizations.

Linda Graves and D. R. Skinner are good as a brother-and-sister team caught up in crime. Other players in the production include Tamara Beard, Scott Given, Gary Lipscomb, David Van Houten, Phyllis Van Houten and Sherree Dobbins.

Costumes for the production were designed by Garry Johnston and scenic design and lighting were by PPH technical and scenic director Cathleen McNulty.

Rookie testifies against Houston police officers

HOUSTON (AP) — A rookie Houston policeman has testified he saw five former police officers "verbally abuse" Joe Campos Torres last May and words were followed by the sounds of slaps against the handcuffed prisoner.

Carlson E. Elliott, 23, said he stepped away, "trying not to look."

Elliott testified Thursday in the civil rights trial of four former Houston officers. He said he was present along with the defendants and another patrolman when Torres was allegedly beaten and pushed into Buffalo Bayou May 6.

The body of Torres, 23, was later found floating in a muddy stream near downtown Houston. Torres had been arrested following a disturbance in a tavern.

Terry Wayne Denson, Stephen Orlando, Louis Glenn Kinney and Joseph James Janish are accused of violating Torres' civil rights.

Denson and Orlando were convicted of negligent homicide, a misdemeanor, and assessed one-year probation sentences in a state court in Huntsville last October. The federal charges alleging violation of Torres' civil rights were later filed against the four after a heated outcry from the Hispanic community in Houston.

Elliott repeated testimony he gave in state court last fall. He said the four defendants and officer, Glenn Lee Brinkmeyer, verbally abused Torres at the Commerce Street "hole" — jargon for a police hideout.

Brinkmeyer has pleaded guilty to a separate misdemeanor civil rights charge and is to testify for the government in this trial.

Elliott said that after Torres was first placed in a police car he cursed but ceased his struggling. He said the prisoner, in handcuffs, did not hit or kick at officers.

At the Commerce Street location, Elliott testified, "Someone — I think officer Denson" made the statement, "Let's see if the wetback can swim."

Elliott said a splash signaled Torres' fall into the bayou and the officers left without trying to help him out.

"He looked like he was treading water to stay afloat," Elliott said.

Second fiddlers' contest scheduled by local opree

ODESSA — The Odessa Brand New Opree will stage its second old-time fiddlers contest Saturday night.

The Opree will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Globe of the Great Southwest, located on the south edge of the Odessa College campus, two blocks west of North Grant street.

A panel of five judges will be on hand to judge the fiddlers contest. Members of the panel include Noble Canida of Andrews, Robert Fleming, Ted Melonakos, Dr. Leonard Neufeldt and Alma Fatout.

Contestants will be judged only for good fiddling, on a point basis from 0 to 5, with the lowest score for the best fiddling. Each contestant will play a warm-up number, on which he will not be judged, then will play a waltz and either a breakdown or a fast number. Prizes of $25, $15 and $10 will go to first, second and third place winners, along with trophies. Ribbons will be awarded to fourth and fifth place winners.

A $50 gift certificate will be awarded as grand prize.

Thus far, fiddlers registered for the contest are from Odessa, Lubbock, San Angelo and Kermit.

The fiddling contest offers several categories of participation, including "under 16," "16 through 29," "30 through 59," and "over 60." Fiddlers may register daily and up to 6 p.m. Saturday. Additional details on the contest may be obtained by telephoning the Globe office, 332-1586.

The Pierce Family of bluegrass singers from Stanton will furnish special entertainment between contests Saturday night. Also to be on hand to provide entertainment is Ricky Boen, grand champion fiddler in the first contest last year, who will not be a contestant this year.

Admission to the Brand New Opree will be $2 for adults, $1 for students and senior citizens and 50 cents for children under 12. Tickets will be for sale at the box office before show time Saturday.

GOMA acting director glad to lose job

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Don Adams said he was glad when he started feeling "like a fifth wheel" around the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs (GOMA).

Adams who steps down as acting director of GOMA and back into his usual job as Gov. Dolph Briscoe's general counsel on Feb. 1.

"We have essentially completed what I was sent over here to do," Adams said Thursday.

"Yesterday or the day before, I began feeling like a fifth wheel, which is a good sign to me," he said.

Rep. Ruben Torres, D-Brownsville, former Port Isabel school superintendent, will resign from the House and become acting director.

Briscoe suspended director Rogelio Perez in early January after he took the Fifth Amendment in a Brownsville court of inquiry into alleged misuse of manpower training funds.

Perez and GOMA program director Joaquin Rodriguez, also suspended, face witness tampering charges in Brownsville.

Adams said the freeze he ordered on payment of manpower grants under GOMA contracts should end Friday — good news for training programs that had operated without money for some three weeks.

"As of tomorrow, we should begin making payments under our contracts," Adams said.

He said he had reorganized GOMA and more than doubled its authorized strength to 17 persons.

The new organization "insures controls over and the integrity of public money sent over here," Adams said.

GOMA officially has seven or eight authorized jobs now, but it used 42 additional employees who received their pay in federal manpower funds channeled through Counterpoint Systems, Inc., a consulting firm.

New procedures require two out of three people — the acting director and the two deputy directors — to sign all vouchers for payment of federal manpower funds to GOMA subcontractors.

One deputy will oversee fiscal matters and the other will be responsible for assuring that subcontractors serve migrant farm workers in the way they promised.

Day-to-day liaison with subcontractors will rotate quarterly between the deputy directors so that neither becomes too close to an organization receiving funds from GOMA, Adams said.

Grants no longer will be made arbitrarily by the director, he said, but under a system that amounts to competitive bidding to perform various services.

Addition would put high school 'in good shape'

By MARLEEN RAY

With the addition of the proposed Midland High School vocational building and parking lot, Principal Audrey Gill said, the school is "in reasonably good shape for the next few years."

The school board approved plans and specifications for the new vocational building and will call for bids on Feb. 21. Gill said he hoped construction on the 15,000 square foot building will begin in March.

The proposed building will provide facilities for school programs in cosmetology, home economics occupations, Coordinated Vocational Academic Education, Industrial Cooperative Training, Distributive Education, Vocational Office Education and vocational special education. The two-story facility will be located between the tennis courts and the back wing of the school building.

Since 1969, Gill said cosmetology, home economics occupations, Industrial Cooperative Training and Coordinated Vocational Academic Education classes have met in the former North Elementary School building, located at 606 W. Ohio Ave., about one block away from the main building.

In addition, he said the cafeteria in the old elementary school is being used by Midland and Lee for training in gymnastics as neither school has space in its gymnasium to set up the equipment for long periods of time. Cosmetology, he said, also is a cooperative program for Midland High and Lee High students.

When the proposed vocational building at Midland High opens, Gill said three classrooms currently occupied by vocational education classes in the main building will become available for academic classes. He said the new building will help alleviate the crowding problem the school now is facing.

Currently, classroom space is "tight," Gill said. During the first four periods of the day, there are no empty classrooms in the building. However, in the afternoon, when some senior students leave for outside training, a few classrooms are open.

Normally, about 25 to 30 students are assigned to each major academic class, Gill said. Some classes, such as calculus and Latin, only have about 15 students.

Gill pointed out that five classrooms no longer can be used by teachers and students since they contain the air conditioning units for the school. He said the units were installed in 1956.

Although vocational education classes will be moved out of the old elementary school building, gymnastics will continue to be held there. Gill said in the future, he hoped the schools would get permission from Midland College to move the equipment there. However, nothing has been decided yet, he said.

Even with the addition of the new building, the Midland High campus still won't be entirely consolidated.

Gill said laboratory courses in auto mechanics, welding, machine technology and graphic arts for juniors and seniors are being conducted at Midland College.

He said students are bused to their classes there or drive their own cars over. He said he didn't think these classes would ever be brought back to the high school campus because of "the expense of duplicating the facilities."

Laboratory courses also are held at the school's agriculture barn on Tank Farm Road. Gill said most of the students work at the barn on their projects after school hours.

Classes for students with language learning disabilities and for girls who are pregnant and do not wish to attend regular classes are being taught in the Cowden House, located on the west side of the main building and across the street from it.

Physical education programs in track, baseball and football are held at the Midland Memorial Stadium on the 2000 block of West Cuthbert Avenue. Gill said Midland High used to have a stadium on campus before the girls' gymnasium and the swimming pool were put in back in 1959.

He said he would like to have an athletic workout area on the main campus. Right now, students have to ride the bus to the stadium or take their own cars. Since classes there are scheduled for the last period of the day, students who ride buses home must either get a ride back to campus to catch the bus or furnish their own ride home.

Not only is transportation a problem with a scattered campus, Gill said, but communications can be a problem, too. For example, he said, if a student out at the stadium has to be notified of an emergency, the school must reach the student by phone. If no one answers, the school has to send someone out there.

In another example, Gill said if the schools superintendent dismisses school early due to inclement weather, he can reach everyone in the main building through the public address system, but he must make separate calls to those at the stadium and Cowden House.

Although the school is able to cope with these problems in communications and transportation, Gill said there is a "definite advantage" to having all activities on one campus.

In the future, he said, he hoped the school district would be able to buy more land west of the school and return all programs to one campus. He said the four-square block area the school now occupies is being filled up.

Plans already are being made to convert the recently acquired block of land west of the school and across the street into a parking lot for students and teachers. Gill said parking is a "tremendous problem now." He said students and teachers are parking in streets, alleys and the church parking lot nearby. "It's a fight," he said.

Part of this block of land will be used as a playground area to alleviate the crowding on the present field. Gill said physical education classes and the marching band often must compete for space on the field.

For the time being, Cowden House, located on this block of land, will remain standing. But Gill said he eventually would like to tear the house down and use the space for additional playground area. However, he said, no plans have been made on where to re-locate the classes now being conducted in the house.

Besides parking and classroom space, Gill said one of the school's greatest needs is expansion of the library. He said recommendations and suggestions already have been submitted to him on how to expand the library, located on the west side of the building.

One of the suggestions made involved closing the part of street running along the west side of the school and using this space for expanding the library, Gill said.

He said the school needs to modernize its restrooms and science department. The spectator stands in the boys' gymnasium also need to be improved. Parts of the school, he said, date back to 1928, when the building originally opened as Cowden Junior High School. Midland High then occupied the site where The Midland National Bank now stands.

In 1949, Midland High moved into the former junior high building. The building was remodeled and the auditorium, music rooms, band hall, gymnasium and front wing of classrooms were added. Major building programs then were carried out in 1952, 1956 and 1959, all due to increasing enrollment, Gill said.

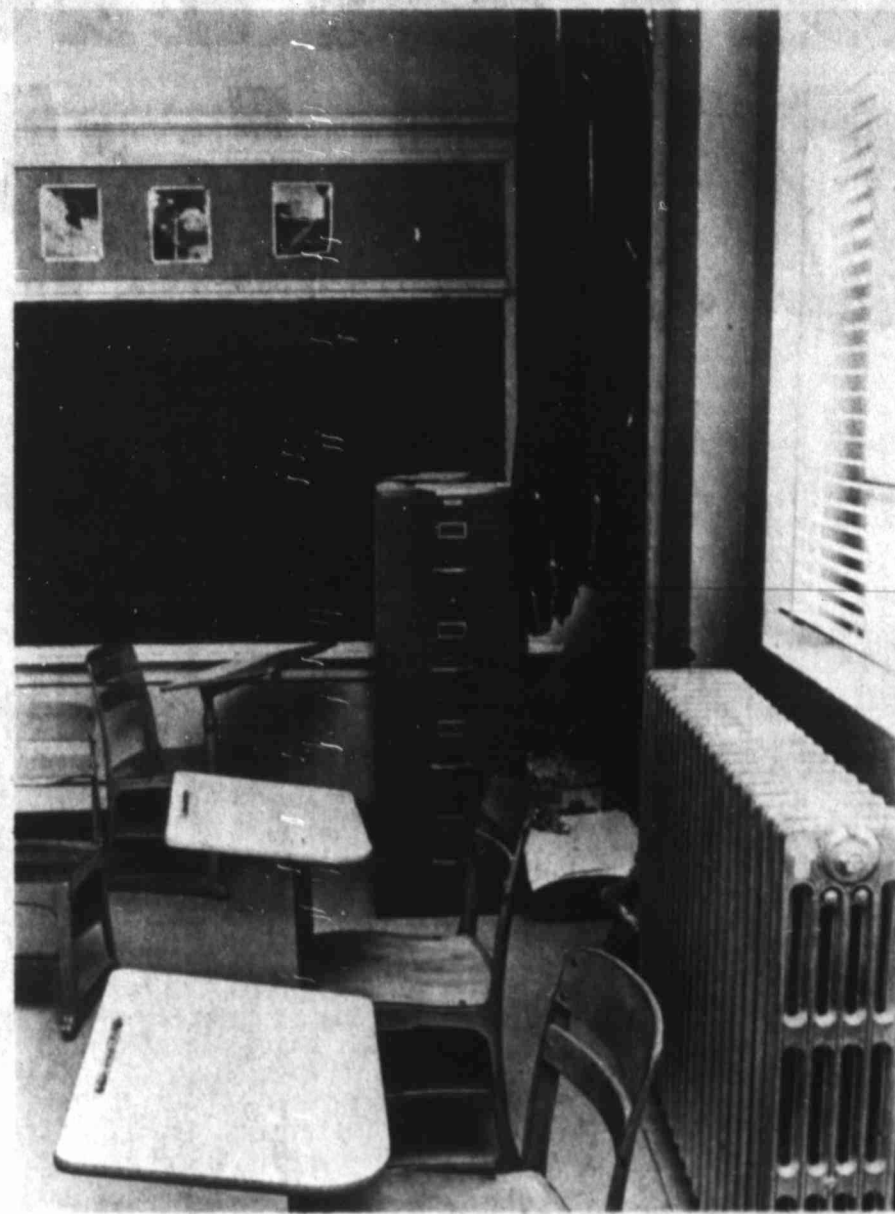

When the high school occupied the present site in 1949, about 500 students in grades 9 through 12 were enrolled there. In the 1977-78 school year, Gill said the enrollment has jumped to about 1,800 students, even with the addition of Lee High School. He said he expects enrollment to increase again next school year to 1,950 students.

Since 1959, Midland High has not had a building program and only "very minor remodeling" has been done, Gill said.

Because of the age of parts of the building, he said the school "is beginning to experience maintenance problems with its service facilities — plumbing and electricity" and having constant leaks.

Before the roof was replaced in 1976, Gill said he would say the building would flood in one of two ways — either through leaks in the roof or through leaks in the pipes. He said the plumbing and electricity wires gradually are being replaced as the maintenance budget allows.

A silent witness to almost 50 years of students parading in and out of classes, this room at Midland High School still contains the original blackboards and radiators dating back to 1928 when the building was called Cowden Junior High School. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

'Retreat' located

BARTONVILLE, Texas (AP) — When evangelist Ruth Carter Stapleton was looking for a place for her religious retreat, she said she prayed for a place near an airport, with some trees, water and a mountain.

Mrs. Stapleton, President Carter's sister, says she has found the spot near this North Central Texas town.

"We are just 25 minutes from the airport, and 2½ hours from both coasts," she said. "There are two ponds on the land and hundreds of trees. And this is probably the highest hill in North Texas, so I call it my small mountain."

The retreat will be named Holovita and will serve as Mrs. Stapleton's healing retreat as well as counseling and training center.

"I do not want to have a oneman ministry," she said. "I will train teams to go out and minister."

Mrs. Stapleton and her husband, Dr. Robert Stapleton, a Fayetteville, N.C. veterinarian, bought the land last year as world headquarters for her ministry, Behold, Inc.

Mrs. Stapleton said she had already started her ministry in Texas with many items already donated to her retreat.

Program gives children awareness of animals

By ROLLA WILLIAMS
Copley News Service

An alliance between game wardens and school teachers has brought an awareness of animals and birds to youngsters who never before had seen such creatures.

Perhaps more important, it has sent children deep into libraries for enrichment and knowledge and opened an unknown world to the eager, quick minds of children.

The program — if that's the word — began in Chula Vista (Calif.) City Elementary School District when H. William Weigand, coordinator of library services, perceived an appalling lack.

"Teachers could talk about golden eagles or badgers or coyotes till they were blue in the face, but it didn't really mean anything to city children who'd never seen any of these things," he says.

"Kids need to see those things up close." That's when he went to Capt. John Roumasset of the California Department of Fish and Game for assistance.

Together, on a limited school budget, they arranged to have dead animals and birds mounted, placed in glass cases, and made available for checkout and use by teachers in the Chula Vista system.

Lyons and O'Haver, the taxidermists, kept prices to a minimum, and the subjects came from wardens in the field and the several animal hospitals in the area which are constantly mending birds and beasts injured in the woods.

"The kids were upset at first," Weigand remembers. "They thought the animals had been shot just for display. That wasn't so; each died a natural death. So we put a tag on each animal's case and that satisfied the children."

The stipulation was that the creatures should be native to this country, if they were to have special meaning to the children.

"Somebody is always asking us for a monkey, but that's not what it's all about," Weigand says.

One charming story in children's literature perhaps kindled the whole project, now five years old and reaching 15,000 schoolchildren a year. "It's a true story," Weigand says. "Incident at Hawks Hill."

"In Canada in 1870 young Ben McDonald, a 6-year-old about the size of a 3-year-old, vanishes. He's shy and he mimics animals. Well, he goes into a badger's hole to get out of a storm and winds up adopted by the badger. He takes a nail from the badger's paw. And, in two months, when he's found again, he's a wild boy running with the badger and with only faint memories of his family."

"You tell that story in school and you could get a hundred books out to read!" Weigand now has a golden eagle, a snow and a Canada goose, several of the ducks, a hawk, an owl, a opossum, a beaver.

"It's a popular program," Weigand says.

He said students and teachers are parking in streets, alleys and the church parking lot nearby. "It's a fight," he said.

Rotary hears guitar program

The playing of steel guitar as a hobby was talked and demonstrated by R.D. "Bud" Harger at the Thursday noon meeting of the Downtown Rotary Club in the Midland Hilton. Harger is a member of the club.

Harger traced the history of the steel guitar and told of its advancements into the "fantastically complex" instrument of today.

He termed playing of the steel guitar "a super hobby."

Harger, who demonstrated several playing techniques, played three selections, "Steel Guitar Rag," "Blue Eyes Crying in the Rain," and "San Antonio Rose," on the pedal steel guitar.
