Senate confirms William Clark as interior secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed William P. Clark as secretary of the interior Friday, rejecting complaints by administration critics that the appointment signaled a continuation of the pro-development policies of his predecessor, James Watt.

The Senate approved President Reagan's nomination of his former national security adviser on a vote of 71-18. Several of those voting for Clark said their decision was based on a belief that the president was entitled to the secretary of his choice, not because of agreement with administration policies.

Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said he was concerned "with the unwise policies pursued by Secretary Watt during his tenure." But he voted for Clark, saying he believed the new secretary "will direct the department toward more tranquil waters."

William P. Clark

Clark also had many supporters in his own right. Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., urged support for Clark, arguing "he has gained the trust and confidence of the president of the United States."

Clark issued a statement saying he was grateful for the Senate's confidence.

"I accept the position of secretary of the interior mindful of the special trust that has been bestowed on me," he said. "As I continue my service to the administration, I am grateful to the president, as well, for his continued trust and support."

President Reagan, in a written statement, said Clark "shares with me an abiding respect for our natural resources and for the splendid beauty which is uniquely American. Throughout his stewardship at Interior, Bill will be looking for ways to meet the legitimate interests of all segments of our society.

"I welcome Bill Clark — a talented and conscientious man — to the Cabinet," Reagan said.

Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, said Clark was "not only qualified...he represents a unique opportunity for progress. Judge Clark represents an opportunity to still these troubled waters with his calming presence."

Merritt: City needs independent bank

By JULIE FAUBEL
Business-Energy Writer

Mid-Cities National Bank will open for business in downtown Midland Monday as United Bank National Association, the Tall City's only independent downtown bank. The bank is moving from its present location at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Being independent, said President Wayne Merritt, will be the difference between United Bank and its competitors.

"The business community needs an independent bank downtown that will be responsive. I think there is a large segment of the business community which prefers to bank with an independent bank," Merritt said.

United Bank will be located temporarily at 511 W. Missouri, formerly Energas Co. offices. The bank will move to its permanent offices in about one year, Merritt said, when the United Bank Building at 500 W. Illinois Ave. is completed.

The new 15½-story office building was originally named the Forum. But the building's owner, Jack Hightower, said with the addition of United Bank the name will be changed.

The bank's plans were made public in a joint announcement Friday from Merritt and Hightower.

Hightower said the building, scheduled for completion in August 1984, is 80 percent leased. Major tenants include Superior Oil Co., Enstar Exploration and Santa Fe Energy.

Merritt said the board of directors began actively considering a move about three months ago.

"We felt like the area where we are now (Air Terminal) has not developed like we originally thought it would. This move puts us in a first class facility and puts us closer to the business community. We will now be able to offer the best facility to the people we want to serve."

Before any changes could be made, however, the bank had to obtain approval, which came earlier this week, from the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, which regulates banking practices.

Mid-Cities first opened for business Aug. 1, following the failure of Metro Bank on July 29. As a result, Merritt said, Mid-Cities has spent its first 90 days completing transactions with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC), which was named receiver of Metro Bank.

"We are about 90 percent complete with the buying back of loans. We have completed all the commercial loans and we're almost complete with installment loans. We have a very clean loan portfolio. We bought back less than $1 million worth of loans out of a total of $25 million."

United Bank plans to have a "very discerning and discriminating loan policy."

Congressional leaders call 1983 session 'most' productive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress prepared to quit for the year Friday after brushing aside last-minute efforts to raise taxes and trim the government's soaring deficits. But leaders of both chambers pronounced the 1983 session one of the most productive in years.

The wrapup of the first session of the 98th Congress produced the usual late flurry of action on major bills:

— The House voted 214-186 to send to President Reagan a bill raising the nation's borrowing power by $101 billion, to $1.49 trillion. The Senate had already approved the move.

— By a 226-186 vote, the House sent to the White House a $302 million catch-all spending bill that includes an amendment providing for an $8.5 billion hike in U.S. contributions to the International Monetary Fund sought by Reagan.

— The Senate voted 71-18 to confirm Reagan's nomination of former national security adviser William P.

Two Odessans put on probation for kidnapping

Defense attorney hoped for mistrial

By LAWRENCE BUDD
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Two Odessa men were sentenced to 10 years probation late Friday night for the aggravated kidnapping of a Midland woman Feb. 10, ending more than a week of trial proceedings in District Judge Gene Ater's 70th District Court.

John "Booker" Powell, 36, and Carl Youngblood, 32, received the probated sentences for their roles in the abduction of Margaret Marie Hinkle, 20, after two hours of deliberation by the jury.

Friday's decision, pending an appeal by defense attorneys Thomas Hirsch and Warren Heagy, concludes a trial which included testimony on prostitution, violence and rape.

Persons entering the gallery during the final day's proceedings had to pass through metal detection equipment, a point Heagy and Hirsch emphasized out of the presence of the jury in hopes of obtaining a mistrial.

Heagy took the witness stand after the jury began their deliberations on sentencing and testified that he had seen two jurors observing the equipment, identical to the type found in airport terminals, and felt this might alter the jurors' judgment in the case.

Under questioning by Hirsch, Heagy recalled Ater had said during the past week's proceedings there was reason to believe that someone had carried a gun into the courtroom. The defense, in attempting to justify a mistrial, also stressed the number of sheriff's deputies and the presence of a police dog outside the courtroom Friday morning.

While no mistrial was granted, Powell, active in youth sports in Odessa, and Youngblood, a former Odessa police officer also active in civic organizations, each faced a maximum sentence of 20 years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

A third man, Odis Williams, was indicted along with Youngblood and Powell. Williams' trial is scheduled to begin the week of Nov. 28.

Ms. Hinkle testified the three men had entered her room at an Odessa hotel in the early morning hours of Feb. 10 without her consent and forced her to leave with them. After eating breakfast with the men and other women, the victim testified that Williams took her to another Odessa hotel and raped her.

Ms. Hinkle admitted she had been a prostitute, and other women testified during the trial to being prostitutes. Ms. Hinkle's statement, entered as evidence, said Youngblood had a baseball bat at the hotel and that Williams was carrying a gun.

The defense brought a series of character witnesses before the jury, including Odessa High School football coach Jerry Millsapps and an assistant football coach from the University of Oklahoma on behalf of Powell, whose four children sat in the front row of the gallery during the final arguments.

Prosecutor Jud Weatherly asked the jury to give Powell a 20-year sentence and suggested a slightly lesser one for Youngblood. Powell, who failed to appear Tuesday when the sentencing portion of the trial was to begin, wept as he asked the jury to grant him probation.

Referring to the two men's civic contributions and crime against the victim, prosecutor David Rosado called for jurors to punish "the Mr. Hyde in them."

Soviets deny concession to British, French rockets

By The Associated Press

The Soviet Union on Friday denied Western reports that it might drop its insistence on counting French and British rockets as NATO nuclear strength.

U.S. officials said that during the Sunday session of the Geneva arms talks, Soviet negotiator Yuli Kvitsinsky offered to drop the demand but that the United States would have to forgo planned deployment of all 572 cruise and Pershing 2 missilesplanned through 1988.

The Americans rejected the purported offer as a ploy to preserve an advantage in intermediate-range weapons.

West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl said in a television interview Thursday night that the Soviets had indicated a willingness to concede on the British and French rocket issue. Kohl, whose country is to receive all 108 Pershing missiles, is kept informed on the Geneva arms talks by the United States.

A British Foreign Office statement Friday indicated the same Soviet willingness to concede on the demand, which has been a major stumbling block in the negotiations.

But the official news agency Tass, referring directly to Kohl's statement, said there was no truth to the reports.

A Tass military commentator said: "On the eve of the debates in the Bundestag (West German Parliament) on the problem of deploying new rockets in West Germany, Chancellor Helmut Kohl in sensational form has announced about some mysterious 'signals' which allegedly demonstrate or show the preparedness of the Soviet Union to renounce its legal demand to take into account French and British rockets in the Geneva talks.

"It goes without saying that no signals like these are foreseen," said Tass, "because the NATO demand to put the British and French rockets beyond the frames of limitations is an integral part of the attempts to break the existing qualitative balance and to achieve at least double superiority of NATO on warheads."

Then, in an article Tass distributed Friday night, Soviet Defense Minister Dmitri F. Ustinov repeated Moscow's insistence that British and French missiles be considered NATO strength.

The U.S. officials said the informal Soviet proposal Sunday would halve Moscow's 243 SS-20 missiles aimed at Western Europe in return for the United States scrapping plans to deploy 572 rockets in Europe beginning next month.

U.S. presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said in Washington, "The suggestions do not indicate any change in the fundamental Soviet goal of maintaining a sizable monopoly of missiles."

President Reagan has proposed allowing the Soviet Union and the United States 420 warheads each.

Merritt: Downtown needs independent bank

"We want to grow like any other bank but we want to make sure our growth is controlled growth, and not let it get out of hand," said Merritt. "We want to get as much business as we can. I think any bank in the Permian Basin is going to have to concentrate on the oil and gas business if it plans to grow and we intend to do this. We will become as involved as we can in oil and gas lending and at the same time service all the good banking business that we can."

United Bank plans to add Midland residents to its board within the next 90 days. The current board of directors, in addition to Merritt, includes Edgar G. Blair, David M. Warren Jr. and Billy D. Riley, all of Borger; Jerry R. Powell, Lubbock; and Roy L. Ryan, Dumas.

Merritt said all the bank's 27 employees have been invited to move and he expects most will.

Merritt also plans to increase the size of the bank's lending staff. "We want to make sure we have plenty of loan officers to handle the loans we generate. We want to be able to respond quickly in this area."

Despite three recent bank failures in the area, Merritt is confident the new financial institution will be successful because they have assembled a knowledgeable staff and, he said, have established new policies and procedures. The bank is in good shape and has experienced "minimal deposit runoff," he said, noting all current customers had been notified of the change and he expected most to move with the bank.

"We don't expect our growth to me great and momentus. We expect a steady growth."

United Bank eventually will gain 17,500 square feet of space when it moves to its permanent location. The bank's customer service departments and executive offices will occupy about 6,000 square feet on the ground floor. The commercial lending offices will take up about 14,000 square feet on the second floor. And the bank's vault will occupy about 1,600 square feet in the building's lower level.

Clark confirmed as secretary of the interior

But much the debate over the nomination dealt with Watt, whose 2½ years as secretary transformed the job from a secondary Cabinet post into a focus of national controversy. Critics, some of whom voted to confirm Watt, said they didn't want the Senate to make the same mistake again.

"The issue before us has much less to do with the individual than with the destructive natural resource policies of this administration," said Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo.

"James Watt abused the public trust by abusing the public domain," said Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark. "The Senate has never before laid down on its job and its responsibility to advise the president as it did on James Watt."

Bumpers said Clark had no qualifications for the job and had steadfastly refused to signal any change in Watt's policies.

He said the Senate had a constitutional obligation to consider those factors. He argued that Alexander Hamilton, a Federalist and one of the framers of the Constitution, "would absolutely cringe if he heard senators on the floor say 'I'm going to vote for him because I think the president's entitled to his man.'"

"We couldn't make a dent in finding out where Judge Clark stands on the issues," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. "The fact remains that at this hour, we have no idea where Judge Clark stands.

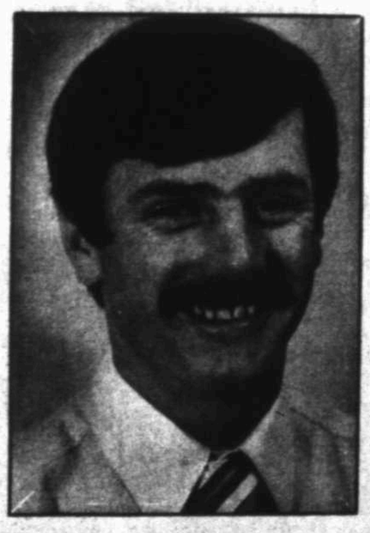

"If you don't know what a man thinks and you have no record of what he has done, how can you vote for him?" Metzenbaum asked.

But McClure charged opponents were trying to revive old, settled arguments. And Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., praised Watt's record, citing his efforts to improve the national parks and make the nation secure from cutoffs of energy supplies or strategic minerals.

Some senators who did not want to deny the president his choice but wanted to go on record opposing administration policies tried Thursday to get the Senate on record urging Clark to reverse many of Watt's policies.

Their resolution was defeated 48-42 on a procedural motion, however. The two principal sponsors of the measure, Sens. Bennett Johnston, D-La., and Bob Packwood, R-Ore., ended up voting to confirm Clark.

Watt, the administration's lightning rod because of his confrontational style and his pro-development views, resigned Oct. 9 in the uproar following his description of the members of a coal advisory commission as "a black ... a woman, two Jews and a cripple."

Midland fireman Gilbert C. Carter, 21, has been named 1983 Firefighter of the Year by the Downtown Lions Club. Carter was honored for rescuing a smoke inhalation victim overcome during a fire in an East Cuthbert Avenue residence March 19. Carter, who is assigned to the Central Fire Station at 1500 W. Wall Ave., also received an American Red Cross Certificate of Recognition for bravery displayed in the rescue.

Drought-aid provision clears House, Senate

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — A bill that would allow Agriculture Secretary John Block to release damaged corn for sale to drought-stricken ranchers has cleared the Senate and the House and is on its way to the White House for the president's signature.

The provision to sell damaged grain was attached to a dairy and tobacco price support bill, and supporters are hoping President Reagan doesn't veto the bill because he is opposed to some of the provisions.

Midland County is among the 27 counties declared disaster areas by the federal government in the wake of last summer's drought. The district of U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt, covers several of those counties, and he had been trying through the summer to get damaged corn released for use by ranchers. Block had balked until recently when he said if Congress instructed him through legislation, he would release the corn.

Much of the corn — determined to be grade 4, 5 or Sample — is stored in Plainview.

"With the passage of the conference report to the dairy bill, we have moved one step closer to achieving the hard-fought release of grain in the Panhandle," said Loeffler. "It has been a long, hard, tough battle which now awaits the signature of the president."

A spokesman in Loeffler's office said there has been some disagreement over how much damaged corn there is, with figures ranging from 75 million to 83 million bushels.

Under this legislation, the corn could be sold to ranchers for feeding their livestock at 75 percent of the county loan rate. This means the corn would be sold for $1.95 to $2 a bushel. "There's a substantial savings," said the spokesman. Ranchers would pay the cost of transporting the corn to their property.

If the president signs the bill, it will be implemented "in short order. The Agriculture Department will have people in Texas a day or two after it is signed."

The bill probably won't reach the president's desk before Monday, and Loeffler's spokesman felt it was "in the clear." If the president won't sign it and with both houses adjourning for the year, "then we're in trouble. I'd say, 'go to Mass on Sunday.'"

Former oil company executive indicted

A former Midland petroleum company executive has been indicted by a federal grand jury in Midland for interstate transportation of stolen goods.

Two others have been indicted for extortion and delivering a device, purported to be a bomb, to the home of the regional general manager of the Holiday Inns in Midland and Odessa.

Indicted were:

—Rodger Lynn Edge, 37, once vice president of PED Corp. in Midland. Edge, 2904 Northtown Place, was indicted for transporting stolen merchandise from Texas to Michigan on June 30, 1980. His bond was set at $25,000. If convicted, Edge could be sentenced up to 10 years in prison and fined $10,000.

Last month, Edge was indicted by a Midland County grand jury for allegedly stealing about 240,000 from PED and for the theft of $40,000 in oil field services.

—Charles Patrick Feezer, 21, and Ava Jessup Little, 38. Freezer and Ms. Little, now in Ector County Jail on state burglary charges, were indicted for conspiracy to extort money from the manager of the Holidome in Odessa last Dec. 18 and for making threatening telephone calls to Donald Gene Walt, regional manager of the Holiday Inns after delivering a purported bomb to Walt's Odessa home.

Penalty for conspiracy is a five-year imprisonment, and for the threats a 20-year prison sentence.

The cases were investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Congressional leaders call session productive

Clark to succeed James G. Watt as interior secretary.

— The House and Senate voted overwhelmingly for a record $249.8 billion military spending bill that includes funds for installation of the nation's first round of MX missiles but rejected the administration's request for nerve gas production.

— On a voice vote, the House endorsed and sent to the White House a dairy subsidy bill that for the first time would pay farmers not to produce milk.

But efforts to cut federal deficits — either by raising taxes or cutting spending — collapsed in both the House and the Senate.

The Senate Finance Committee abandoned on Friday its effort to produce a $150 billion, four-year package of tax increases and spending cuts, voting 16-1 instead to direct its staff to draft a new bill by Feb. 15. It came a day after the House rejected a move to even consider a far more modest tax bill.

Also caught in the rush by homeward-bound lawmakers to adjourn was a bill to deregulate natural gas prices. Senate sponsors gave up their effort to develop a last-minute compromise, saying the energy measure would have to wait until the 1984 session.

Congress will re-convene on Jan. 23. However, leaders made provisions to enable them to call both the House and Senate back into session in case of an emergency. Democratic leaders said they were worried about an expanded war in Lebanon or possibly new military operations in Central America while Congress is in its two-month recess.

"Speaking personally, I'm very much nervous at the actions of the president of the United States," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass. "I just hope nothing happens."

Both O'Neill and Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., said they felt the year's session was productive. "I think it's been very gratifying. We're very satisfied," O'Neill said.

O'Neill cited action early in the session to rejuvenate the nation's ailing Social Security system as "our most far-reaching accomplishment."

Baker told reporters: "We accomplished our agenda without any major exception." And, he added, "President Reagan has gotten virtually every important item he asked for."

While Reagan didn't get all the budget cuts he requested from Congress this year, he fared well on defense and foreign policy.

Panel says task force ineffective

WASHINGTON (AP) — A task force established by President Reagan to help provide economic assistance to Southwestern border communities "has functioned ineffectively and slowly with an overemphasis on public relations," a House committee said in a report released Friday.

The report, by the Government Operations Committee, said the task force "has not contributed much in the way of new federal solutions or assistance" to border communities whose economies were devastated by last year's peso devaluations, which sharply curtailed retail sales.

An administration spokeswoman responded that some members of the committee "apparently misunderstood the purpose" of the task force and that "real progress is being made" in providing federal assistance to the border.

Reagan announced establishment of the multi-agency task force in August after Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, urged him to assist the economically-troubled border region. Reagan appointed Vice President George Bush to chair the task force.

At a news conference Friday, Tower also said he was "not satisifed with what's been accomplished" by the task force. Tower declined to be more specific, but said that "really, I think there's a lot more that has to be done..."

The Government Operations Committee report said that of 34 federal grants announced by the task force for the border region, "a substantial number" were not really directed at border communities suffering from the peso devaluations.

Many of the grants were actually to states, with no indication whether the money would reach border areas, or to cities some distance from the border, the report said.

"In all probability, all or almost all of the announced grants would have been approved in any event...since most of the grant applications were in the processing chain before" the president created the task force, according to the report.

Shirley Green, a spokeswoman for Bush, said that the purpose of the task force was "to expedite federal assistance into the area to provide jobs and encourage long-term economic diversification.

"...From its inception it was not anticipated that additional federal funds would be appropriated," she said, adding that the federal effort "will provide substantial short and long term assistance to this area."

The committee report was adopted earlier this week by the Democrat-controlled committee, with Republicans voting in opposition. Rep. Judd Gregg, R-N.H., told Democratic members that the report was "fundamentally flawed" and said "it is weak, it is political."

The report was also sharply critical of the "peso pack" program announced in August by the Small Business Administration, under which direct and guaranteed loans and other assistance were to be made to border businesses.

The report said that as of August, 1983, the SBA had "provided loan assistance to only 373 small businesses in U.S. border cities, although it has received over 2,400 inquiries."

It also said the interest rate on the peso pack loans had run as high as 14 percent, "far higher than could be paid by small border businesses which had lost substantial sales."

The report said the president and the SBA should instead have declared the border communities "disaster areas," qualifying businesses for 8 percent loans.

However, in a written dissent to the report, Gregg said the law did not allow such declarations for disasters that were economic rather than the result of an act of nature. Judd said it was thus "inappropriate...to criticize the SBA for its failure to circumvent" the intent of the law.

But Rep. Ron Coleman, D-Texas, a member of the committee, said that the government had failed "to respond, in a timely way, to the needs of its citizens."

The report recommended a wide range of additional steps to assist the border communities. These included lower SBA interest rates on business loans, more liberal requirements for obtaining such loans, creation of a temporary office of border affairs to speed applications for federal assistance and negotiations with Mexico to improve border trade.

Employee: Mattox threatened law firm

AUSTIN (AP) — The bond chief of a pretigious Houston law firm testified Friday that Attorney General Jim Mattox threatened "war" if the firm did not stop trying to subpoena his sister and secretary.

Mattox was charged with cmmercial bribery after a partner in the firm accused him of threatening to use the power of the state to cripple the firm's municipal bond business.

Wiley Caldwell, who heads the bond division of the Fulbright and Jaworski law firm, said he did not record the June 15 conversation but did take notes.

Caldwell and Tom McDade, whose accusations led to the indictment against Mattox, were called to court by Mattox's attorneys Friday to give depositions.

A trial date in the state's case against Mattox has not been set. In the meantime, lawyers are allowed to take depositions from the witnesses.

"Mattox was obviously quite angry," Caldwell testified during the pre-trial hearing. "He was upset; he was mad. He said he was upset because McDade had said his testimony was ludicrous and had tried to subpoena Mattox's sister and secretary."

The law firm tried to question the women in connection with a lawsuit filed by South Texas rancher Clinton Manges against Mobil Oil Corp., which the firm represented. Mattox represented the state's mineral rights interests on Manges' side.

Mattox "said he was sick and tired of this treatment and it would either stop or he would threaten war or a complete breach," Caldwell testified. "He promised war if he didn't get it stopped...He told me that unless I could get the matter straightened out I could forget any relationship with his office. The context was sufficient to include the bond business."

Caldwell spent just over an hour on the witness stand Friday morning discussing his legal background and describing how the municipal bond business works. Government bond offerings, usually prepared by law firms, require approval of the attorney general's office before they go on the market.

Mattox is accused of threatening last June 15 to withhold approval of bond proposals prepared by Fulbright and Jaworski unless McDade stopped trying to interrogate Mattox's sister in the civil suit.

Mattox, indicted Sept. 13 on a charge of commercial bribery, has denied the accusation.

McDade gave his deposition on Thursday. He said Caldwell told him he received the alleged threat in a June 15 telephone call from Mattox.

Association sponsors petition drive for gasoline tax increase

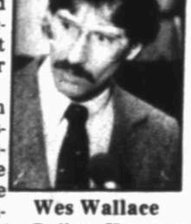

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Good Roads-Transportation Association said Friday it was sponsoring a petition drive for a 5 cent gasoline tax increase to benefit Texas highways.

Eugene Robbins, president, asks members to "have the petition signed in your office. Banks, restaurants, hotels-motels, chambers of commerce, city halls, county courthouses, retail stores and shopping centers are a few of the places where copies of the petition can be located. Take the petition to a civic or service club meeting."

He said members of the Legislature "must be convinced that the public is concerned about the deplorable condition of Texas roads and streets and that they are willing to pay increased user fees to have them improved."

Doctors warn against film

AUSTIN (AP) — A group of physicians opposed to nucelar warfare has warned that children under 12 years should not be allowed to watch a fictionalized television account Sunday night of a nuclear attack.

Wes Wallace

Dr. Wes Wallace, chairman of the Austin chapter of Physicians for Social Responsibility, told a news conference similar warnings were made across the nation by his organization, including chapters in Dallas, Houston and San Antonio.

Wallace, a specialist in emergency medicine at Brackenridge Hospital, said he had seen the film "The Day After," at the invitation of the local ABC affiliate, and considered it "emotionally violent."

Whitmire's salary being raised

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Kathy Whitmire is eligible to have her salary raised from $81,567 to $108,450, according to a 1977 city ordinance.

The law ties the salaries of the mayor, the 14 City Council members and the city controller to the salaries of state district judges, which are set by the state Legislature and the Harris County Commissioners Court.

The mayor's salary is to be 150 percent of a judge's salary, the ordinance says. On Oct. 31, the salary for a state district judge in Harris County was raised from $69,000 to $72,300 a year, said Dick Raycraft, commissioners court coordinator.

Panel to issue secret subpoenas

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Ethics Committee voted Friday to issue secret subpoenas in its investigation of Houston Rep. Ron Wilson's state expense account.

In a 6-1 vote, the committee approved San Antonio Rep. Frank Tejeda's motion to authorize its lawyer to "receive any evidence that may be necessary for the initial review" of the Wilson case.

At an October meeting committee members were told that Wilson, a Democrat, collected $16,820 in 1981 and 1982 as living expenses while supposedly overseeing activities of the House Health Services Committee of which he was chairman.

Man sentenced in bride's death

PEARSALL (AP) — Jurors sentenced a Pleasanton man to six months probation Friday in connection with a traffic accident that claimed the life of his new bride, who was still in her wedding dress.

Jurors had convicted Martin Popham, 20, of misdemeanor homicide after five hours of deliberation Thursday.

Popham's 21-year-old bride, the former Cindy Gibbon, died minutes after the couple left their Feb. 26 wedding reception at a Pleasanton church.

Prosecutor Alger Kendall told jurors that Popham had been drinking for more than seven hours when the couple's truck hit an oak tree, a utility pole, a parked car and a chain-link fence.

Perth: A friendly port for American sailors, Marines

PERTH, Australia (AP) — At a time when many American servicemen are feeling less and less welcome in many places, the sailors and Marines who visit Perth are deluged with hospitality by a city that lionizes "the Yanks."

U.S. officials say Perth, the capital of Western Australia, is one of the few places left where the American military is truly welcome. It remains an unfailingly friendly port while people in many Western countries express growing doubt about U.S. policy in Grenada and Central America and the deployment of new American nuclear missiles in Europe, said the officials who asked not to be identified.

"People here are great, wonderful," said Chief Petty Officer Dale Yanz of San Diego as he talked with some of the locals. "They really like us."

Every few weeks a U.S. Navy ship or fleet arrives to be greeted with thousands of invitations from local families eager to share their homes.

The captain of one American ship apologized to a local newspaper that he did "not have enough men in my command" to accept even a fraction of the invitations.

"We rarely see similar hospitality," he said.

A survey of 5,000 U.S. servicemen by the state government in 1981 reported that 73 percent put Perth as their favorite port of call over places like Honolulu and Hong Kong. Many of the men emphasized the absence of "the hatred which greets them in some other countries."

"We all look forward to coming to Perth. It's the highlight of an American sailor's cruise," said Yanz, a 16-year-veteran.

On a recent sunny afternoon, the center of the modern city was filled with American sailors and Marines in gleaming white uniforms and olive drab kit after the arrival of a fleet. Passing civilians nodded and smiled at the visitors.

In pairs and groups, the young Americans, sporting cameras and shopping bags, walked up and down. Some glanced in shop windows as others lined up at hamburger and other fast-food restaurants.

Others attended to the age old nautical tradition of meeting the local women.

"It's nice. Almost like being back in the States except they drive on the left," said John Steven, a sailor from Columbus, Ohio. "The people here are real friendly. They really welcome us."

American servicemen travel free on Perth's public transport and many clubs and churches offer their amenities. Some shops accept U.S. dollars.

At the heart of Perth's affection for the Americans is the "Dial a Sailor" program, which arranges for servicemen to spend time with local families.

Dorothy Sheridan, an organizer of the program, said it is not unusual for a visiting ship to get more than 3,000 invitations.

Tea trendy in Britain again with tea dances

LONDON (AP) — Britain's seesaw love affair with tea is blooming again with a revival of elegant tea dances, trendy tea shops and even business deals over a "cuppa" instead of a cocktail.

London's fashionable Ritz and Waldorf hotels are packing in tea-time dancers, who manage to mix several cups of the house brew and cream-covered scones with a whirl around the floor to Glenn Miller's arrangement of "In the Mood."

"It's so English," said London travel agent Michael Leach during an orchestra break at the Ritz's ornate 16th century-style dining room.

"We like to keep up the tradition. So many things go by the boards these days. You've really got to look to find style. It's better than we expected. In fact, we're wondering what we can do next Sunday afternoon to top it."

Specialty tea shops are also doing brisk business. Restaurant critic Egon Ronay said: "It can easily happen nowadays that a deal is closed over a dainty cucumber sandwich while sipping tea instead of over a tournedos rossini gulping chambertin."

Britain first got hooked on tea more than 300 years ago and since the middle of the 18th century, it has been the national drink. But the passion for tea started to wane in the late 1960s and 1970s when it faced stiff competition from coffee and soft drinks.

Now, tea consumption is on the upswing.

Jim Munday, executive director of the Tea Council, said it's because people have tried the alternatives and come back to the old "cuppa" — as tea is called here.

"Today, every man, woman and child over the age of 10 drinks over four cups per day and tea accounts for over half of everything we drink," said Munday.

"The old-fashioned image is rapidly disappearing and tea is becoming positively trendy... Tea consumption among the young is on the up and up, even in the trendy West End. And people are beginning to sample the delights of the more exotic teas, which although a little more expensive still cost less than a cup of instant coffee," he said.

For Britain, tea is big business.

This island nation of 54 million is the world's biggest market for tea, buying between 20 percent and 25 percent of world tea exports. Retail sales are worth more than $600 million annually and restaurants sell more than $4.5 million worth of cups of tea every day, according to the Tea Council.

Killer drought adds to Brazilian government woes

EDITOR'S NOTE — While the Brazilian government struggles to dig out from under a $90 billion foreign debt, it also faces a drought that has been searing its poverty-stricken Northeast for five years, taking an unprecedented number of lives and becoming a national calamity. An AP reporter traveled 1,200 miles through the drought area and filed this report.

By GLORIA HELENA REY

QUIXERAMOBIM, Brazil (AP) — Five years of drought have baked the earth hard and it lies in a cracked wasteland on both sides of the road. But it is the silence that is eerie. No birds sing; no crickets chirp.

The land is dead; so is all that it supports.

"There aren't any snakes, chameleons, rats or toads left," said Maria Lucivanda Fernandes, a state social worker. "They were wiped out by the drought and the people's hunger."

The road passes through here from Fortaleza on the coast and is called "Cotton Road" after the plantations that once burst with cotton along its sides.

But the plantations lie barren.

The drought in Brazil's Northeast is the worst to hit the area in more than a century.

Francisco Amado, one of the 24 million Northeasterners afflicted by it, trudged along Cotton Road one recent day in 122-degree heat, carrying a cloth sack with seven pounds of beans, rice and other food and some medicine.

He said he had walked more than 100 miles to the Ceara's state capital, Fortaleza, to get his little handout from a government relief program.

It was that or starve.

DOCTORS estimate that 250,000 people in the drought area will die this year of hunger, thirst or malnutrition.

The dry zone covers 575,000 square miles — an area more than twice the size of Texas — in the nine-state Northeast, where South America juts into the Atlantic Ocean.

The drought affects the lives of 24 million of Brazil's 131 million people.

Those who survive often are reduced to eating rats and lizards to stay alive. But even those food sources are disappearing.

"The drought is producing a race of sub-humans," said Dr. Gentil Porto, a physician in this area for 19 years. "Babies born during the drought undergo physical, mental and social degeneration. They regress to a pre-animal state. You could say the Northeasterner doesn't live, he hides."

Ceara is perhaps the worst hit. Of the state's 141 townships, 140 are in a state of emergency.

THE INFANT moratality rate has soared to 250 for each 1,000 live births — in contrast to fewer than nine per 1,000 in the United States.

Tuberculosis, anemia and malnutrition have reached epidemic proportions, especially among children under 5 years old.

A resident of Ceara, Brazil examines the cracked earth of an abandoned farm in the drought zone of Brazil's Northeast, the worst drought to hit the area in more than a century. The dry zone covers 575,000 square miles — an area more than twice the size of Texas — in the nine-state Northeast, where South America juts into the Atlantic Ocean.

The more prosperous rest of Brazil, often accused of neglecting the problems of the chronically poor Northeast, has begun to take notice.

Newspaper readers in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo were shocked recently by a front-page photo of a Northeast peasant holding a scrawny lizard — his meal that day.

PRIVATE citizens are contributing food and money to a campaign organizationed by TV Globo, the nation's largest commercial television network.

Ana Maria Costa Martins, the wife of the mayor in Quixeramobim, a town of 30,000 about 1,600 miles north of Rio de Janeiro, described how she saw a family with 15 children devour a pet cat "to keep from starving to death."

Hospitals in the area daily receive patients such as Cleyton Lacerda, 3 months old, from a village in the inner drought zone. Pediatrician Vania Maria Coelho Pacheco of the Albert Sabin Children's Hospital in Fortaleza said the child weighed only 5.9 pounds, "less than a normal newborn baby."

Throughout the drought region, bands of starving peasants have invaded villages and towns in search of food. Hundreds of thousands more are fleeing to the cities, where they swell the number of poor and unemployed.

"I FEEL LIKE I'm sitting on a powder keg that is about to explode," Gov. Luiz Gonzaga Mota of Ceara said in an interview.

Quixeramobim is typical of thousands of communities in the drought zone. It sits midway on Cotton Road, a 360-mile, two-lane blacktop that is the state's main north-south highway and connects Fortaleza with Juazeiro do Norte.

The drought has turned what once was farmland — producing cotton, corn and black beans — into a brown, seared wasteland.

Gov. Roberto Magalhaes of Pernambuco, another drought-plagued state east of Ceara, said, "Many people from the interior are buried along the roadsides or in backyards, and there never will be an official registry of their deaths."

Most of the victims are small farmers, who sharecrop in normal times on a piece of plantation land in exchange for rent or half their harvest. This system of farming in the Northeast is virtually unchanged from the time it began more than 400 years ago.

Between 1979 and 1982, the government spent $442 million on work-front projects to build or improve 67,000 water wells, 69 miles of water systems and 5,146 miles of roads. Official figures show 26.6 million people have been employed by the program.

FOR MANY government officials, however, the drought problem has become a political one, in that it props up an often-criticized feudal system in the area.

"The drought ... feeds and supports a feudal regime in which the landowner is master of the lives and thoughts of his subordinates," said Marcelo Meneses, head of water studies at the government's Superintendency for the Development of the Northeast, known as SUDENE.

Gov. Gonzaga Mota of Ceara said land reform is a solution but that must be decided in Brasilia, the national capital.

Big landowners, who oppose reform, have a heavy influence on the economy and politics of the Northeast.

Army playing video war games to measure stress

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Army is playing video war games, not to entertain the troops but to measure the effects of stress on performance.

The Army calls the test its "Star Wars game," which was designed and developed in Kansas City under a contract with the non-profit Midwest Research Institute, a top research facility.

"It's fun to give, fun to take and yields scientific information," said Dr. Frederick Hegge, a scientist at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research in suburban Washington.

"Using a game format keeps people interested and may help us get measurements that we haven't been able to get in the past," said Hegge, who, until recently, was chief of the Army's Department of Military Medical Psychophysiology, which monitored and funded the game.

As a person plays, researchers measure the effects of stress on efficiency and speed, memory, information processing, decision making, risk taking and psychomotor skills.

The game — called Strategic and Tactical Assessment Record or STAR by the institute — is played on a video display terminal. Each contest is considered a military mission in which the goal is to seek out enemy warships and destroy them in the most energy efficient way in the time alloted.

The "battlefield" is shown as a grid pattern, and a player must do battle in one quadrant before moving on. Information is provided on the screen about enemy location, ammunition and fuel supplies as players carry out a mission timed by a digital clock in the corner of the screen.

Players must keep track of battle positions and the other data while plotting strategy. Mathematical calculations are involved in determining the most direct way to travel between quadrants.

Researchers plan to incorporate their findings into Army teaching curriculums, training exercises and field manuals, Hegge said.

"What it becomes is basic information of use to people who must make military decisions," he said.

Each game can be varied. Charles Graham, MRI's principal investigator on the STAR project, said stress was introduced into a mission by cutting down on the time allowed for the mission or by reducing the amount of fuel and other resources available to the player.

The project's co-principal investigator, Harvey Cohen, said MRI did not vary physical conditions such as room temperature or study the effects of sleep loss, both of which have been found to cause added stress.

Unlike arcade video games which rely on random choices, each move in STAR is evaluated by researchers against predetermined optimal alternatives.

If a player is skillful, each game becomes more challenging — and more stressful. Hegge said a computer terminal was used for the game, because computers are now a mainstay in battle strategy and tactics.

In designing STAR, Graham said the MRI research team recognized that some people can perform well under the stress that accompanies complicated tasks, and some can't.

The need to respond quickly to a variety of tasks under stressful conditions is becoming more and more apparent during battles, Hegge said.

Hegge said the Army planned to administer STAR and other tests in a heat chamber so "they (the Army) will know how people can perform in a field setting where heat and humidity are present."

At other times, a soldier might be asked to play STAR continuously for a long period of time to evaluate the effects of sleep deprivation.

The game approach was suggested at the Midwest Research Institute by Mary Cook, head of its Biobehavioral Sciences Section, and was developed with the help of 22 college student volunteers — 13 women and nine men — who played over 800 games.

The Midwest Research Institute gave the Army its final report last summer. Modifications began this fall. Among other things, Hegge said, the Army wants to set up the game for group, rather than individual, play.

Jury recommends life in prison for Hillside Strangler

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Angelo Buono Jr., convicted of killing nine women in the Hillside Strangler case, escaped the death penalty Friday when the jury in California's longest criminal trial recommended he be sentenced to life in prison without parole.

The 50-year-old automobile upholsterer, clad in a blue prison jumpsuit, showed no reaction. But a defense lawyer expressed surprise at the verdict ending the 2-year-old trial.

"I've always had the feeling that if he was convicted, the natural punishment would be death because of the nature of the crimes," said attorney Gerald Chaleff. "(But) we are a civilized society and a civilized society should not be taking other people's lives."

The victims in the killings were as young as 12 and most had been sexually assaulted before they were murdered.

In each of Buono's convictions, jurors had found the special circumstance of multiple murder that would have permitted the death penalty.

PROSECUTORS SAID they believed jurors opted for life in prison instead of sending Buono to the gas chamber because that was the punishment given the chief witness, Buono's adoptive cousin, Kenneth Bianchi.

Superior Court Judge Ronald George set formal sentencing for Jan. 9. California juries can only recommend a sentence, and judges generally follow those recommendations. George can reduce the sentence, but he cannot impose the death penalty.

In a packed and hushed courtroom, George's clerk read the nine separate verdicts, each one a penalty for one of the killings that terrorized Los Angeles six years ago.

"We the jury...having found the defendant Angelo Buono guilty of murder in the first degree and having found special circumstances to be true hereby determine the penalty to be life imprisonment without possibility of parole," each verdict said.

Buono, of suburban Glendale, was charged with 10 counts of murder in the sex slayings of 10 girls and young women in late 1977 and early 1978. He was convicted of nine killings and acquitted of one in separate verdicts returned since Oct. 31.

The jurors just over an hour Friday before returning the recommended punishment.

BEFORE GEORGE officially dismissed jurors, he told them: "You have been the most conscientious jurors I have ever seen. Your service has been without parallel...I'm sure there has never been any time, any place, a jury that has devoted as much time and effort as you have."

"If there was ever a case where a prosecutor said he would call for a death penalty, it would seem this would be the case...(but) I think the jurors wanted Mr. Buono locked up, not put to death," said defense attorney Katherine Mader.

"Kenneth Bianchi, who is clearly a very terrible person, and terrible in his acts...certainly deserved the death penalty as well as Angelo Buono," Deputy Attorney General Michael Nash said. Bianchi agreed to testify in exchange for a life in prison.

"I'm sure the jury felt the only equal thing to do was to let Angelo Buono spend his life in prison," Nash said.

The murders were dubbed Hillside Strangler killings because in nearly all of the cases, the victims' nude bodies were dumped along Los Angeles-area hillsides. Most were raped or otherwise sexually assaulted before they were strangled.

The victims, whose ages ranged from 12 to 28, included some prostitutes solicited by telephone as well as an aspiring actress, students and others who were picked up hitchhiking or by men posing as police officers — a fact that made real officers suspect to women fearful because of the slayings.

BUONO WAS convicted of killing Judith Lynn Miller, 15, Elissa "Lisa" Teresa Kastin, 21, Jane Evelyn King, 28, Dolores Cepeda, 12, Sonja Johnson, 14, Kristina Weckler, 20, Lauren Rae Wagner, 18, Kimberly Diane Martin, 18, and Cindy Lee Hudspeth, 20. He was found innocent in the death of Yolanda Washington, 19.

The trial started Nov. 16, 1981, and jury selection alone lasted four months. An earlier preliminary hearing lasted 10 months.

Before the jury got the case on Oct. 20, 1983, the trial was in session 345 days. There were 392 witnesses, 1,807 exhibits introduced into evidence and a trial transcript of nearly 56,000 pages.

Much of the case against Buono came from Bianchi, 32, a part-time security guard who wanted to be a policeman. Bianchi was sentenced to life in prison after pleading guilty in October 1979 to five of the Los Angeles slayings and two others in Bellingham, Wash.

Alleged Nazi war criminal arrested on extradition request

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 63-year-old retired autoworker accused of being a Nazi death camp guard during World War II was arrested Friday on an extradition request from Israel, officials said.

John Demjanjuk

This was the first time U.S. authorities had ever arrested an alleged Nazi war criminal for extradition to Israel, said Justice Department spokesman John Russell in Washington.

John Demjanjuk, who allegedly was known as "Ivan the Terrible" as a guard at the Treblinka death camp in Poland, was arrested at his home in suburban Seven Hills, said Don Russell, local director of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

In a 15-minute hearing later Friday, U.S. Magistrate David S. Perlman said he would release Demjanjuk over the weekend on his own recognizance, but that Demjanjuk would have to meet a $50,000 bond on Monday by turning over the deed to his home, valued at $60,000. Perlman set a hearing date of Jan. 23, 1984.

Demjanjuk has maintained that he was a Soviet soldier captured by the German Army in 1942 and held prisoner until the end of the war.

Last week, the Israeli government had formally requested that the United States surrender Demjanjuk so that he could be extradited to stand trial in Israel. Israel has had a law on the books for prosecution of Nazi war crimes since 1950.

The Justice Department said the arrest was made in compliance with the extradition treaty between Israel and the United States.

Demjanjuk, a native of what is now the Soviet Ukraine, lost his U.S. citizenship in 1981 when U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti ruled that he lied on his immigration papers to conceal his past as a Nazi guard.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Battisti's decision to strip Demjanjuk of his citizenship and the Supreme Court refused to hear the case.

In December 1982, the Justice Department filed deportation proceedings against Demjanjuk in Cleveland.

Neal Sher, director of the Office of Special Investigations, said the deportation proceedings will be held in abeyance until the outcome of the hearing in U.S. District Court in Cleveland on whether Demjanjuk should be extradited to Israel. Sher said that if Demjanjuk is extradited the deportation proceeding would be moot.

Battisti said the government had established that Demjanjuk was responsible for herding Jewish prisoners into the gas chambers at Treblinka as part of a unit of captured Russian troops put to work as guards by the SS. According to testimony of other workers at the camp, Demjanjuk was involved in turning on the motors for the gas chambers and in beating and torturing prisoners, in one instance with a wood drill, at Treblinka in 1942 and 1943.

State attorney prohibits law enforcers from calling psychics

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Even though a psychic steered police to the body of a murder victim, Madison County's chief law enforcement official says "consorting with people who dabble in the occult and witchcraft is wrong."

"I have issued an order that they are not to be used under any circumstances," said Madison County State's Attorney Don W. Weber. "It may help in the short term, but in the long term no good can come of it."

Weber said Thursday that it became necessary to reiterate his policy prohibiting "psychics, clairvoyants or others who use witchcraft and the occult" when officers found the body of a murder victim last weekend after a housewife told them where to look.

Two of Weber's assistants, accompanied by Alton police, used clues supplied by Greta Alexander of Delavan in directing the search for Mary L. Cousett, 27.

The Alton woman's decomposed, decapitated corpse was found Saturday on the east bank of the Mackinaw River south of Peoria.

"I was skeptical to begin with, but I guess I'm going to have to be a believer now," said Alton Detective William Fitzgerald.

Weber maintains it's evil for anyone to consult psychics.

"The Bible specifically says there should be no conversation with people in witchcraft or the occult sciences," Weber said. "You've got to remember we're the good guys. And good guys don't need to resort to such practices.

"How many people, especially young people, have been led to dabble in the occult by this?" he asked. "There's very few things in my office I won't tolerate. But this is one thing that is not going to happen."

Police have charged Ms. Cousett's boyfriend, Stanley Holliday Jr., 29, of Alton, with murdering her in Tazewell County last spring. Police arrested him in New Jersey on April 27, three days after the mother of two was first reported missing.

Fitzgerald listed 22 similarities between the circumstances surrounding the discovery of the corpse and predictions made by Mrs. Alexander — including the body's location, its condition and the manner in which it would be found.

He said she even predicted that the body would be found by a man "with a bad hand," and that the initial "S" would be important in the discovery. Fitzgerald said the body was found by Steve Trew, an auxiliary Tazewell County policeman whose hand had been injured.

Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Keith Jensen said Mrs. Alexander has helped the county in other cases, which he declined to discuss. He said she was brought into the Cousett case about two weeks ago.

Mrs. Alexander, 50, said she gets three or fours calls a day from stymied police agencies across the country.

"We're here because we care," said Mrs. Alexander. "We've never asked for publicity. They come to us."

She said she first noticed her psychic powers after she was struck by lightning while pregnant with her fifth child in 1961.

"I began sensing and knowing things more than before," she said.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Distinguished British journalist and "Masterpiece Theater" host Alistair Cooke shares your birthday, and so do Bo Derek, comedienne Kaye Ballard, colorful Chicago Cubs outfielder Jay Johnstone and "Dick Tracy" creator Chester Gould. Also born on this date: the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy. Partnerships thrive in the months ahead. You and your loved ones enjoy greater financial security. A small family business scores impressive gains. Devote more time to romance lest that special someone slip away. A token payment helps you calm a creditor. You need to keep in closer touch with a parent or older relative.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Try to turn a hobby into a business venture. It will not interfere with your enjoyment and could solve a cash crisis. You find romance in unexpected places. Expand your social circle.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A special interest should be given top priority today. Consult mate before issuing invitations. A good book leads you to switch off the television. Think about forming a new business partnership.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Tackle a home-improvement project you have been postponing. A neighbor is in the mood to help. Your romantic expectations may be unrealistic. Put your ideas in writing for future reference.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A phone call from someone far away revives old memories. Set up a realistic budget for the whole family to follow. Postpone making a commitment until you are sure of your feelings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Keep good family records. They will be greatly appreciated by your children and grandchildren. You enjoy a social event more than most of the guests. Romance could be the cause of your pleasure.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): True strength comes from within. Others react to a change in your attitude. An air of mystery makes romance more exciting. Know your physical limits when it comes to entering athletic contests.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your ability to juggle several jobs at one time wins praise from the boss. Try to keep your professional and personal lives separate. An office romance could cause widespread resentment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Tackle a large project. You are up to it and enjoy the competition involved. New partnerships are under favorable influences. A family business enables you to work at your own speed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Writing, music and art bring good luck now. Do not let someone talk you out of what you want to do. Family ties brin, power. A negative situation will soon turn around.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Communication improves at place of employment. Productivity rises. Deal promptly with any financial problems. Something you do for fun could eventually pay you cash. Consult experts about marketing your ideas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Settling your debts gives you a fresh start. A romantic rival disappears. An ultimatum will not produce a commitment. A red-letter day for business, travel and family affairs.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Complicated tactics are not needed to achieve family unity. Do not make promises to loved ones unless certain you can keep them. The arts are more attractive than ever today.

Kennedy miniseries airs Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC revisits Camelot 20 years after the death of President John F. Kennedy, and it seems there really were kings, princesses, gallant men, damsels in distress and one ugly frog named J. Edgar Hoover.

"Kennedy," a $13 million, three-part homage to the man and the myth, begins with a three-hour segment Sunday night against ABC's much ballyhooed nuclear catastrophe film, "The Day After." After that, NBC should have more success in the ratings with two-hour installments Monday and Tuesday night.

As entertainment, "Kennedy" is a scintillating, thoroughly engrossing snoop at Kennedy the president handling crisis in office, the charmingly witty man behind the leader, and the compassionate but reserved father and husband. (When his son John is born, Kennedy walks rather formally into his wife's hospital room, says, "Congratulations," and gives her a quick peck on the cheek.)

During the Cuban missile crisis, Kennedy's most perilous diplomatic test and the film's most intense segment, he proves to be a forceful, composed and assured leader, ignoring the advice of his military advisers to attack Cuba.

AT ONE point, Vice President Lyndon Johnson (Nesbitt Blaisdell) mocks Kennedy's inaction. Kennedy challenges Johnson, demanding he offer his own ideas before submarining others. The scolded Johnson huffs out of the room.

"Kennedy" is a British production, cleverly written by Englishman Reg Gadney and brilliantly acted by all, particularly Martin Sheen as the president and John Shea as the subpresident, John Kennedy's indispensable brother, Bobby.

As history, however, "Kennedy" is part compelling docudrama and too much precarious soap opera. Gadney takes liberties with the script that are sometimes beyond anyone's factual reach, despite claims by NBC of an "extensively researched script."

Can Gadney prove that the president's father, Joe, played by E.G. Marshall, actually said to his son that J. Edgar Hoover, the director of the FBI and a Kennedy family foe for years, was a homosexual?

"I THINK," Gadney himself says, "it's entirely the sort of line that someone as ebullient and extroverted and energetic and very casual in terminology ... as Joe Kennedy would have said."

Hoover, played with remarkable physical resemblance by Vincent Gardenia, is depicted as an obsessive, vindictive, voyeuristic bully who blackmails the Kennedy administration with tapes that point to Kennedy indiscretions. And you thought Richard Nixon had tape troubles?

The president's often-rumored dalliances are presented through hush-hush phone calls with female friends, including a phone plea to Kennedy from one ardent admirer — a damsel in distress who purportedly had friends in the Mafia — asking to get FBI bloodhounds off her trail.

Bobby Kennedy tells his brother, at one point, "Those things have to change, Jack, especially now as a Catholic president." As a Christmas present to Bobby, Kennedy says they have.

IN SCENE after scene, Hoover casts a spooky gloom over "Kennedy." Too often, Hoover is seen plotting in his office, glaring at Kennedy on TV and demanding his agents — he calls them all "Boy" — find every speck of sexual dirt under the rug in the Oval Office.

When Hoover isn't intruding, Sheen can excel as the dynamic Kennedy, giving the young president, whose adminstration was likened to Camelot for its vision, idealism and energy, truly heroic treatment.

Sheen, who said he turned down the role five times because of his close friendship with Kennedy, has graduated successfully from the Bobby Kennedy role he played in the earlier TV movie, "Missiles of October."

Marines participate in Honduras exercise

PUERTO CASTILLA, Honduras (AP) — About 1,000 U.S. Marines and 500 Honduran infantrymen landed on the Caribbean beach east of Puerto Castilla Friday in maneuvers that neighboring Nicaragua considers a prelude to an invasion.

Nicaragua's leftist government has mobilized reserves and stepped up war preparations. But the U.S. ambassador in Nicaragua, Anthony Quainton, said Thursday that Nicaragua's fears were"exaggerated" and there will be no invasion.

"Honduras has no intention of invading Nicaragau and does not want to provoke Nicaragua," said Gen. Guastavo Alvarez Martinez, head of the Honduran armed forces. He beamed as he watched the troops land in amphibious vehicles and ride in Marine helicopters.

Among the high-ranking U.S. military officials observing the maneuvers were Gen. Maxwell Thurman, vice chief of the army, and P.X. Kelley, commandant of the Marines.

Col. James Strachan, a U.S. army spokesman, said the landing near Puerto Castilla was "similar to the amphibious operation carried out in Grenada recently."

The U.S. invasion of Grenada on Oct. 25 toppled a Marxist military junta. The Reagan administration said its prime mission was the rescue of hundreds of Americans on the Caribbean island, taken over by the junta a few days earlier in a coup.

The Nicaraguan government warned of an "imminent" U.S. invasion and summoned 40,000 reservists and militiamen to report for military training after the U.S. invasion of Grenada.

U.S. officials have repeatedly denied that the United States plans to invade Nicaragua.

The landing force for the simulated counter-guerrilla offensive here included almost 1,000 Marines from the 28th Marine Amphibious Unit and three companies from the 4th Honduran Infantry Battalion.

About 3,500 U.S. troops already were in Honduras in the Big Pine II exercises that started in August and could last until March. The operation includes training of Honduran troops and construction of airstrips and other facilities.

The landing force and its support came from six U.S. ships offshore since Monday. The troops went in against a make-believe rebel force of two U.S. companies and a Honduran company a few miles inland.

U.N. declares Turkish-Cypriot republic illegal

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. Security Council on Friday declared the self-proclaimed Turkish-Cypriot republic to be "legally invalid" and said its declaration of independence should be withdrawn.

The vote was 13-1 with one abstention. Pakistan, an Islamic member of the council, cast the only negative vote and Jordan abstained.

Turkish-Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash said before the vote that the council resolution had "no moral or legal value and cannot be implemented."

"The Security Council cannot take away the right of self-determination from a people who have expressed it," he told reporters.

There are some 120,000 Turkish Cypriots in the northern section of Cyprus and 500,000 Greek Cypriots in the south.

As the council met, an estimated 1,000 Greek Americans rallied near U.N. headquarters. They chanted "Turkish troops out of Cyprus!" and waved banners saying "Peace for Cyprus."

Cypriot President Spyros Kyprianou, who had met with U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, told the cheering crowd, "If the international community does not act...it means the international community accepts as a standard for regulating relations between states the rule of the jackal."

In its resolution, the Security Council deplored "the purported secession of part of the Republic of Cyprus" and said the independence proclamation declared on Tuesday was "legally invalid and calls for its withdrawal."

The council asked all states "not to recognize any Cypriot state other than the Republic of Cyprus," meaning Kyprianou's Greek-Cypriot government.

The resolution was sponsored by Britain, which ruled Cyprus from 1878 to 1960 when the Mediterranean island won its independence.

Cyprus has been effectively partitioned since Turkey invaded the northern zone in 1974 for the avowed purpose of protecting the Turkish-Cypriot minority following a short-lived coup by right-wing supporters of a union with Greece.

The latest resolution reaffirms a previous council call for the withdrawal of Turkish troops still occupying 37 percent of the island.

Kyprianou, fearing the island's permanent partition by the Turkish-Cypriot declaration, had rquested the urgent council meeting.

In Thursday's opening debate, Kyprianou's foreign minister, George Iacovou, said Turkey was "solely responsible," with the Turkish-Cypriot leadership "a puppet, wholly controlled by Turkey."

Denktash, in turn, challenged the legality of the Kyprianou government. He said Turkish Cypriots had been barred from participating in the central government and the House of Representatives since an outbreak of civil strife in 1963.

Judge sentences leftists to death

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) — A military judge on Friday condemned four leftist militants to death and sentenced 111 others to varying jail terms, an official announcement said.

The announcement said 68 others were acquitted in the trial of 183 alleged members of the Dev-Yol, an urban guerrilla gang active in big cities before the military takeover in 1980.

The group was accused of plotting and carrying out the slaying of 14 of their political foes in several Aegean cities.

East Germans jump ship in west

FLENSBURG, West Germany (AP) — An East German merchant marine captain and his family jumped ship in the West German port of Kiel on the Baltic Sea, federal border police reported Friday.

The 40-year-old skipper, his 38-year-old wife, their son, 17, and daughter, 12, left the M.S. Jena while it going through the locks of the Kiel canal.

In keeping with their usual custom, West German officials did not release names of the family. A statement said the East Germans came ashore Monday.

Kidnapped industrialist released

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP) — Kidnapped Basque industralist Jose Cruz Larranaga was released Friday, his family said, 11 days after he was kidnapped by Basque separatists. There were reports the family paid as much as $1.3 million in ransom.

An anonymous telephone call to the Red Cross headquarters in San Sebastian told where Larranaga had been released, and the Red Cross found him tied to a telephone pole.

The family said Larranaga, 42-year-old head of an electric equipment plant, was safely at home at Beasain, an industrial town near San Sebastian.

Industrial park head dies in crash

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — A director of the Juarez Industrial Park and several members of his family were killed Friday when the airplane he was riding in crashed near this border city, a park spokesman said.

The spokesman, who asked that his name not be used, said Enrique Elias Mueller was flying into Juarez from his hometown of Chihuahua City when the accident occurred.

Mexican federal police said it was not known how many other people were on the airplane when it crashed, but a spokesman said all aboard were killed.

Woman gives birth to sextuplets

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — A woman gave birth to sextuplets, all girls, Friday at Liverpool Maternity Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

The mother, Janet Walton, was reported in satisfactory condition after the delivery and all six babies were in the hospital's intensive care unit.

It was the third recorded incidence of sextuplets being born alive in Britain. The most recent was Dec. 15, 1969, when Rosemary Letts gave birth to one boy and five girls at University College Hospital in London. The boy and four girls survive.

Walesa wants to meet king

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Lech Walesa, leader of Poland's outlawed Solidarity labor union movement, says his main regret about not coming to Oslo to pick up his Nobel Peace Prize is that he won't meet Norway's king.

"You know, I've never set eyes on a king," Walesa told the Oslo newspaper Aftenposten in an interview in Gdansk. "A boyhood dream of mine was to see a living monarch. That was what I had been looking most forward to now."

Walesa earlier announced that he would send his wife Danuta and their 13-year-old son Bogdan to Oslo for the award ceremony on Dec. 10. The prize carries a diploma, a medal and a record stipend this year of $190,000.

Norway's King Olav V, 81, does not participate in the ceremony, but laureates generally have an audience with him.

NEW YORK (AP) — Underwater explorer Jacques Cousteau is having troubles atop the waves, but is claiming success with his storm-damaged experimental "sailboat without sails."

On Thursday the ship Moulin a Vent, French for "windmill," which Cousteau has been piloting in a test crossing of the Atlantic, lost its wind propulsion mast in a storm west of Bermuda.

Two weeks ago, it was damaged in another storm east of Bermuda.

"We have lost only the hardware," Cousteau said in a report to the Cousteau Society here. "The brains who conceived the system are already at work. Give me a little time and we will do it again."

The 65-foot catamaran's 44-foot wind propulsion mast, a computer-controlled cylinder that works like a vertical wing, was lost when a weld that held it to the ship failed under the pounding of 50-knot wind.

Accompanied by Calypso, Cousteau's research ship, the Moulin a Vent is using its auxiliary engines to head toward Norfolk, Va., for repair.

BOSTON (AP) — Comedian Bill Cosby has earned his fortune making jokes but he is deadly serious about what he and his wife consider a slight to black American artists by U.S. museums.

Cosby says he won't give the Boston Museum of Fine Arts a work he owns by 19th-century black painter Henry E. Tanner for use in a major exhibition of American art that drew protests because it contained no black artist.

The museum should include works by more than one black painter, Cosby said in a statement issued Thursday in New York by spokesman David Brokaw.

"Many black artists of great value have been ignored by the mainstream critics and curators," he said. "Black was not beautiful up until now."

Museum director Jan Fontein said in response: "The museum is committed to vigorously pursuing the possibility of adding a painting by Henry Tanner to the New World Exhibition."

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Diplomat and historian George F. Kennan says a 1933 incident on a train ride to Moscow showed him the Soviets are similar to Americans.

He accompanied U.S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt to the Soviet Union when the two nations opened diplomatic relations for the first time since the Revolution.

Speaking Thursday at Brown University on the 50th anniversary of resumption of diplomatic ties, Kennan said he and Bullitt were accompanied by Maxim Litvinov, Soviet commissar of foreign affairs.

He said that during a stop at an obscure Polish community, Litvinov confided that it was his hometown, that he had never wanted to be a diplomat and had always dreamed of being a librarian.

Kennan, 79, said that taught him that "these Soviet communists with whom we will now have to deal are flesh-and-blood people like ourrselves, misguided if you will, but no more guilty than we are of the circumstances into which they were born."

French authors hustle for awards for books

PARIS (AP) — France's annual scramble for book prizes climaxes Monday with the announcement of the Goncourt, the award guaranteed to bring prestige and profit to the winners.

In a country where books make front page news and writers are national heros, the mad hustle for the major literary prizes, traditionally awarded in November, follows a long season of wining, dining and arm-twisting.

One publisher, who did not want to be identified, said he spent more money trying to win a prize than he could possibly earn from the increased sales it would bring.

Yves Berger, chief executive at Grasset, one of France's top publishing houses and winner of five prizes in 1982, says the prizes constitute a "veritable sociological phenomenon that I cannot explain."

Indeed, with nearly 1,500 literary prizes awarded every year in France, there is one for every imaginable category.

The most important prizes include the Goncourt for the best novel, the Femina which crowns the best book by a woman, the Interallie for the best book by a journalist, the Medecis for the season's most innovative work and the Renaudot for the best first book by an author.

The Goncourt is the most prestigious of the prizes, awarded with pomp and ceremony at a lunch held for jury members only at Drouant, one of the city's fanciest dining establishments.

The prizes are funded by independent literary institutions, which nonetheless promote the book industry. The original juries were established along with the prizes over the course of a century. New jury members are elected for life by fellow jurors on the basis of their literary reputation, how much they've published and their dedication to their publishing houses.

Some of the award ceremonies have been anything but genteel. In 1975, a disgruntled observer barged into the restaurant and threw a pie at French author Michel Tournier. The same year, a writer was jailed for throwing a Molotov cocktail into the house of a jury member.

If the pressures are great, it's because the stakes are high. While the award means a cash prize of only 5,000 francs — the same amount as when the prize was founded in 1903 and now worth $625 — a Goncourt book usually sells about 400,000 additional copies, bringing the equivalent of up to $30 million in additional revenue to its publisher.

Some critics of the prize system contend that with such high financial stakes, the juries could not possibly be impartial, especially since they are made up of writers who are connected with one or more publishing houses, either as editors or authors, and often both.

Grasset, Gallimard and Seuil, the "Big Three" of French publishing, are frequently criticized for monopolizing the prizes.

Nonsense, says Herve Bazin, President of the Goncourt Academy.

"The three major houses that share the prizes publish 80 percent of the books produced in a given year. That's not their fault," he said.

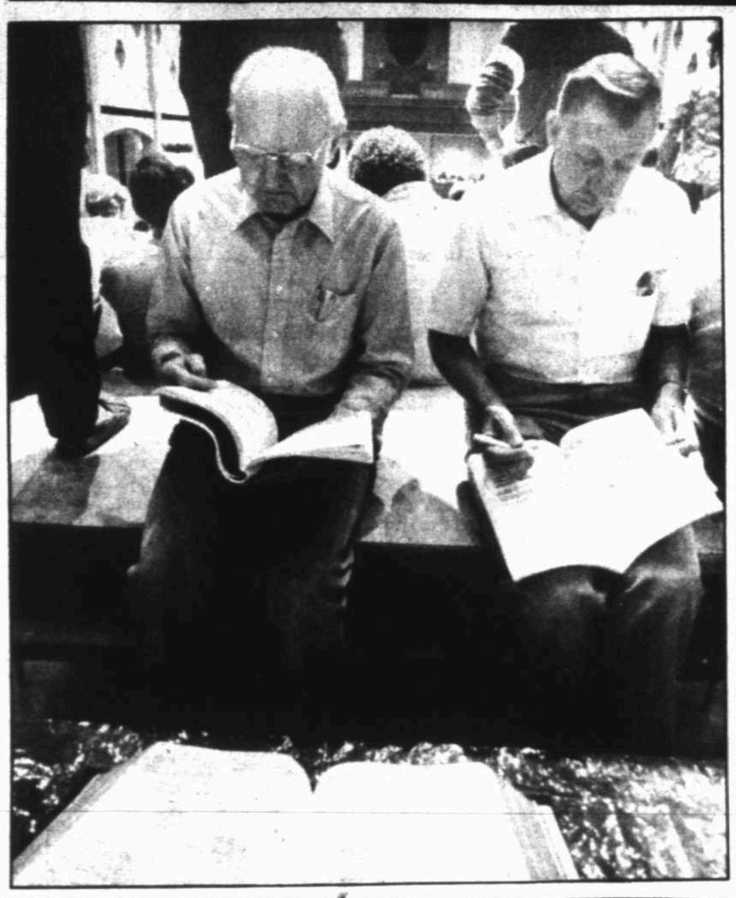

The real problem in French publishing today, says Grasset's Berger, is the fact that so few French novels ever reach foreign markets. In 1983, for example, Grasset sold translation rights to only three novels, despite what Berger called his company's "vigorous sales campaign."

He said that today's equivalent of novelists Jean-Paul Sartre and Albert Camus are not writing books of universal interest about morality or political commitment.

"They are making aesthetic statements about creativity — they are investigating writing itself. French novels today are reflective and introspective," he said. "They have less international appeal because their scope is not as broad as the committed literature of the post-war period.

"These works are not turned toward 'the real world,' which is what the American reader likes. Perhaps French literature of the last 10 or 15 years has lost its appeal because it lacks the violence, the sex and the blood baths that Americans love."

Project to bring inmates closer to their families

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Debbie Lyons, 22 years old and expecting her third child, sometimes borrows $5 for gas when her welfare check doesn't arrive in time, but she never misses the Saturday morning trips to the state prison.

Clinging to her one-hour visit with her husband, Mrs. Lyons makes the tedious 80-mile journey from Portland to the prison in Thomaston every week with her mother, Bev Barden, whose husband is also an inmate.

Mrs. Lyons and her mother are among a group of women with no cars and little money — they all receive some form of welfare — who depend on the Bus Project, a 6-year-old program sponsored by the Cumberland County Bail Project to bring inmates closer to their families.

"You've got to be strong and stick with it," said Mrs. Lyons, whose husband has been sentenced to 3½ years for breaking and entering. Along with the visits, "We've got our letters and our phone calls and our furloughs. That keeps us going."

"They count on us visiting. It means an awful lot to them," said Mary Ann Berube, who visits her boyfriend.

The bail project, which offers bail and pre-trial legal help to low-income people, provides money to help cover the $200 a month in transportation costs, but it's not enough.

"I usually end up putting in $200 or $300 out of my own pocket" each year, said Pierre Shevenell, who oversees the program.

Last year a regional transportation service stopped providing a comfortable, 12-passenger van after Mrs. Barden, the bus project's driver, had an accident in a parking lot and failed to report it.

"We're using cars until we can get something we can call our own," said state legislator Laurence Connolly, who helped start the program.

It is a struggle to borrow a vehicle each week, and families sometimes are turned away because the vehicles are filled.

Four women made one recent trip on a foggy, raw day under overcast skies. As the maroon and white van crept north along coastal Route 1, a two-lane rural road, chilly air blew in through windows left open to vent exhaust fumes that rose through cracks in the floor.

Debbie Lyons walks into Maine State Prison for a one-hour visit with her husband. Mrs. Lyons, who is expecting her third child, sometimes has to borrow $5 for gas to make the 80-mile trip from Portland to Thomaston.

The van had no heat, no radio, torn upholstery, and a missing door handle. Gray electricians' tape wrapped around the edge of the rear-view mirror held it in place.

"I think if we had a more dependable ride, we'd get more people going up," said Mrs. Barden.

There was little conversation during the trip; anyone wishing to speak had to compete with the drone of the engine, which strained to climb the slightest hill. The van never reached 50 mph.

Although she drives each week, Mrs. Barden rarely visits her husband because he despises the strip searches that inmates must submit to after visits, she said. He fears he will lose his temper at a guard and then lose his furloughs.

She and her four children wait for his four-day furloughs.

While all Saturday visits are an hour, weekday visits can be two hours if an inmate's good behavior has earned him the privilege of using the annex.

There, couples can embrace, hold hands, and sit close together. In the regular visiting room, they may embrace only when they arrive and leave, and they are separated by a table.

When David Lyons, 27, was sent to prison this time, he wondered what was ahead for his marriage. "We weren't getting along that great. I was worried about that," but the visits have helped, he said in a telephone interview.

"I don't talk much about this place. I just talk about the mistakes we made and the things we should do to make it better."

But the presents failed to alter the somber mood. "We hate to leave them afterward," said Ms. Berube. "It's a depressing ride home."

Not until the van's engine died 30 miles from Portland, and Mrs. Barden pulled over to the side of the highway was there a change.

"Ready to start thumbing?" joked Ms. Berube, as she and Debby Hansen hopped out to hitchhike.

Yet the women said they said would return next week.

"If you care about your man you'll go," said Ms. Berube.

Lee fullback Isaac Garnett goes down, but it took El Paso Irvin's Jeff Poindexter (27) and Billy Kubitz (25) to do the job. Garnett rushed 19 times for 72 yards and scored two touchdowns in Lee's 48-14 area championship waltz at Memorial Stadium Friday night.

135-pound Thurman provides Reb spark

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

"This was the best night I've ever had," said Midland Lee halfback Tyrone Thurman. "The blocking was great and all I had to do was find the hole."

And find it the 135-pound Rebel speedster did, again and again and again as the Rebels pounded El Paso Irvin into submission, 48-14, in the area playoff game Friday night at Memorial Stadium.

On Lee's second offensive play from scrimmage, Thurman found his first hole and it was one of the biggest he'd seen all year. Sweeping left, he outran the Rockets' pursuit and sprinted 49 yards to give the Rebels a first down on the Irvin 25-yard line. Four plays later he scored on a nine yard run.

On the night, Thurman set a career high rushing performance with 115 yards and two touchdowns on 11 carries.

One minute after the first score, Lee took advantage of Michael Wallace's fumble recovery on the 10-yard line when Isaac Garnett punched the ball across the goal line from one yard out for his 18th touchdown of the year. Craig Kamradt kicked both extra points and the rout was on.

Thurman scored his second TD with 4:45 remaining in the second quarter on a five-yard run and backfield mate Walter Jones scored with 59 seconds left. Kamradt's PAT's made it a 28-0 halftime score.

After Garnett scored No. 19 of the year on a one-yard run (the PAT failed) and Gordon Norris scored after Michael Johnson's fumble recovery on the six, El Paso Irvin finally broke the ice to cut a Lee 41-0 lead to 41-7 on Chuck Davis' two-yard run.

However, there were only 13 seconds remaining in the third quarter and most of Lee's starting defensive lineup was out of the game.

On their next possession, the Rockets scored for the final time when Billy Kubitz capped a 75-yard drive with a 20-yard touchdown pass in the corner of the end zone from Felix Valtierra.

"It was so dark I couldn't even see the ball," said Rebel defender Earl Davis.

Rebel halfback Billy Gibbs stumbled his way to the final Rebel touchdown. After picking up about 10 yards, Gibbs started falling, put his hand down to keep his balance and then outran Irvin to the goal line for a 51-yard score.

THE REBELS' victory was their third consecutive one-sided showing since dropping a 23-21 decision to Abilene Cooper last month. Since that game, Lee has won by counts of 35-0 over Midland High in the District 4-5A finale, 30-3 over Amarillo High in the bi-district game in Lubbock and by Friday's 48-14 margin.

"I don't know really why, but the last three weeks the kids have really answered the opening bell, including our last game against Midland High," said Rebel coach Spike Dykes. "I think they are really excited about what they are doing."

Their excitement showed in their overall performance. On the night, the Rebels rushed for 376 yards on 60 carries and added another 65 through the air for a 441 total.

Thurman led all ball carriers with his 115 yards while Garnett added 72 on 19 carries to give him a school record 1,536 yards for the year. Jones also picked up 72 yards on 10 carries.

Defensively, the Rebels allowed next to nothing when the first team was on the field. Irvin never did get a rushing game established, held to 12 yards on eight carries in the first half and 41 yards on 21 carries for the game. After completing three passes for only 25 yards in the first half, the Rockets came back with 12 more completions for 190. Lee intercepted three passes in the game with the last coming with no time left on the clock when junior varsity defensive back Craig Swearigan picked off Valtierra's pass in the end zone.

"I've never seen anything that physical and quick in my life," said Irvin coach Tony Shaw. "They gave us a good lesson in good ole country football. The more we play these kind of teams, the better we will be. We found out what football was all about tonight."

The loss was the Rockets' first of the season and left their record at 11-1. Lee improved to 10-2, making this Rebel team the most successful in the team's history. One other Lee team had a 10-2 mark but no team has won two playoff games in a row. The Rebels advance into the regional playoff game against Tremble Tech, a upset 33-29 winner over Euless Trinity Friday night in Arlington. Next week's playoff game with Trimble Tech will be 7:30 p.m. Friday at Amon Carter Stadium in Fort Worth. Pre-game tickets will be $2 for students and $5 for adults while tickets at the game will go for $7 each.

Rebels blow out candle

The Midland Lee Rebels blew out the area championship candle on El Paso Irvin so fast at Memorial Dump Friday night that most of the starters felt like they hadn't played in a game at all.

Well guys, Coach Spike Dykes would have had to quit the coaching fraternity if he had left in the meat. Oh, for the days of District 4-5A when things seemed much more complicated with each passing week. This playoff business is a piece of cake.

But try telling that to some of Lee's starters. Some of them only got a smell of action, according to them. Now they know what it's like to occupy a place on the bench.

"Carlos (Ortega) and I only got to play about two quarters and my whole family was here to see me. I guess they think I'm a sub now," said defensive tackle Pat Stevens.

It got so bad in the second half that fullback Isaac Garnett tried to sneak in the game on a rare Lee punt. Lee assistant David Browning collered him, however, saying, "Isaac you are out of the game." And he was.

Defensive end Nicky Tomlin said, "I got pulled in the third quarter and now I'm only in on the punt team. I guess we're too good to play in this one. We're rolling."

It seems the Rebels had much more trouble through the rugged 4-5A schedule. Are these playoff teams weaker. Lee linebacker Michael Johnson had an answer.

"I don't know if the playoffs are tougher are district play, but I do know that we are just fired up right now. Everyone knows what they have to do. We're on a roll," said Johnson.

There were a few starters who didn't complain. Complain is really a strong word. This was just so much fun that no one wanted to miss a second of it and even Lee's junior varsity players got a shot on the field. It looked like a spring training game at the end.

"I like it when I don't get to play. That means we're winning," said offensive guard Coy Stewart.

Defensive end Eddie Kittle said, "I didn't get to play all that much, but I tell you one thing...that scoreboard sure looks pretty. That's about the prettiest thing I've seen all week."

Irvin coach Tony Shaw, however, saw all he wanted of Lee's first unit.

"Lee's first string is intimidating. Our kids didn't give up, but we didn't do anything when Lee had the muscle on the field. The only way that Lee could be any better is if they could throw a little more. But I would hate to see them then. They gave us a whipping," said Shaw.

But now that Lee has advanced to the regional meeting against Trimble Tech, a surprise 33-29 winner over John Reddell's Euless Trinity Trojans in Arlington Friday night, the Rebels are now among the elite 16 in the state and one victory away from a possible rematch against Odessa Permian. Lee's starters are going to see plenty of action from here on out.

We were looking forward to seeing former Midland High coach Reddell making a return to Midland, but that prospect can now be forgotten.

Lee will face Trimble Tech at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Amon Carter Stadium in Fort Worth after losing a flip of the coin over a phone hookup Friday night after the victory.

"The main thing is that we are going to play another day. And that's what is important in the playoffs," said Dykes.

Camacho wins

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Undefeated Hector "Macho" Camacho retained his World Boxing Council super featherweight title by knocking out Rafael Solis of Puerto Rico in the fifth round here Friday night.

Camacho, the 21-year-old champion from New York, seemed to be having difficulty with the challenger during the first four rounds before he floored Solis with a lightning-quick right-handed punch in the fifth.

The blow decked Solis and caused blood to ooze from his mouth in the fight scheduled to go 12 rounds. After taking an eight-count, Solis got up and indicated he was not hurt. But the champion moved in again with another right hand that ended the fight at 2:02 of the fifth round.

Just before Camacho delivered the punishing blows, Solis had connected with a long left hand to the midsection, causing the champion to double up and hold on to the challenger.

Once referee Octavio Meyran of Mexico City pulled them apart, Camacho moved across the ring and delivered the first of two blows that ended the fight and boosted his record to 23-0.

From the start of the bout, both fighters seemed to be preoccupied by the Home Box Office television cameras and also by their families, who gathered in close to the ring. Both of them watched their cheering sections from time to time in the opening rounds.

WT drive to buy Cowboys begins

ODESSA — The morning hosts of a West Texas radio station is busy setting up a syndicate for the purchase of the Dallas Cowboys.

The announcement that the Cowboys were for sale also revealed that the price is $60 million. Still, John Roman and Ray Hennagir of KQIP-FM are confident the money can be raised.

Hennagir and Roman are looking for one million people to pledge to buy a $60 interest in the club. Over $20,000 was pledged by 10 a.m. Thursday after the proposal was made on the "AM Show" at 7:15 a.m. the same morning.

Roman and Hennagir are urging anyone interested in being part of the plan to purchase the Cowboys to send their pledges to "I want to own the Cowboys", KQIP Radio, Texas Commerce Bank, Odessa.

McCamey throttles Farwell

Badgers strike quick, then hold off Steers

Celtics' Robert Parish goes over the outstretched arms of a defender to score in NBA action.

ANDREWS—The McCamey Badgers struck twice in a one minute and two second span of the second period for two quick touchdowns, and withstood a fourth quarter rally to beat the Farwell Steers, 14-6, in a Area 2A playoff game.

Leading the way for McCamey with a sturdy ground game that netted 164 tough yards and a defense that stifled Farwell's talented quarterback Alan Eubank.

Eubank, who goes 6-3, 190 and has been the guiding force in the Steers' 9-2 record, was checked at every move.

On the night, Eubank gained only two yards on 13 rushes and suffered a horrendous 3-of-13 night through the air. McCamey also added to Eubank's misery by picking off three of his passes.l

The first set up McCamey's clinching touchdown and the other ended a late Farwell rally.

MCCAMEY GOT the game's first score early in the second quarter. Staying on the ground, McCamey moved 37 yards after a punt to a third and goal at the Farwell four.

Badger quarterback Ray Zarate then hit tight end David Stephens at the goal line marker for the TD. Zarate added the conversion to give McCamey a 7-0 lead.

Two plays later, sophomore quarterback Adam Arana made a spectacular one-handed off balance interception of Eubanks at the Farwell 42.

Big fullback Robert Day, a 6-2, 200-pound senior, blasted through a hole at left tackle and raced down the sideline on the next play for a touchdown. The 42-yard run came barely over a minute after the Badgers' first score.

The half ended 14-0.

IN THE second half, McCamey's option attack bogged down somewhat. The Farwell defensive effort was aided by seven Badger fumbles and five McCamey penalties. But McCamey did not make the big plays that keyed their first half surge.

McCamey's five second half possessions ended in a fumble, a punt, a fumble, a fumble and Zarate's downing the ball twice to end the game.

Farwell'a Wishbone offense mustered only a few yards in the half, but got enough to make it interesting.

The wind, which was gusting up to 30 mph, died completely in the second quarter when McCamey got its scores.

But when Farwell had to mount a fourth quarter rally, the wind was its fiercest and blew directly in the teeth of the Steer offense.

"Call it answered prayers, or something," said Badger Coach Buster Leaf.

Farwell mounted a drive that went 63 yards in 12 plays before McCamey's Lionel Biaza picked off Eubanks in the end zone with 4:05 to play in the game.

On fourth down, McCamey punter Tim Welling muffed the snap and was dropped for an 18-yard loss.

From the Badger nine, and helped along with a fourth-and-goal pass interference penalty, Eubank got the score on a one-yard keeper. Kicker Manuel Cantu missed the extra point wide right. Farwell attempted an onside kick, which the Badgers fumbled giving the Steers the ball at midfield with 55 seconds to play. But linebacker Hector Martinez intercepted Eubank to seal the victory.

"WE KEYED our defensive end to make sure Eubank couldn't get outside," said Leaf. "They did a good job, a super job. It's hard to stop Eubank."

Of Day's big TD, Leaf said, "They took a chance and we caught them just right. It's the longest he's ever run and it showed. He almost died out there."

McCamey now takes on the winner of the Haskell-Stratford game being played tonight in Plainview. The Badgers are 9-3 in Leaf's first year at McCamey and have won five straight.

King sparks Knicks' win

BOSTON (AP) — Bernard King hit a season-high 32 points and the New York Knicks outbattled Boston down the stretch for a 110-103 victory Friday night, handing the Celtics their first home loss of the NBA season.

The Knicks raced to a 24-16 first period lead, but Boston scored 10 points in 53 seconds for a 26-26 tie. The Celtics went on to reach the quarter ahead 32-31. King, who had 15 points in the first period, added eight more in the second in helping New York take a 57-53 halftime lead.

Bill Cartwright had 15 points, Ernie Grunfeld 12 and Truck Robinson and Darrell Walker 11 each.

The Celtics were led by Dennis Johnson with 18 points and Larry Bird with 17.

Denver 134, Houston 127

DENVER — Kiki Vandeweghe scored 16 of his game-high 32 points in the third quarter and Alex English added 29 more as the Denver Nuggets rolled to a 134-127 victory over the Houston Rockets.

Houston lost rookie center Ralph Sampson on fouls with 3:57 left to play in the third quarter. Sampson got 20 of his 22 points in the first half before fouling out for the third time in his 10-game pro career.

The Nuggets were sparked by guard Rob Williams, who came off the bench to score a career-high 19 points and played a key role in the second quarter when he scored a dozen points and helped Denver break away from a narrow 35-33 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Lews Lloyd led Houston with 23 points, James Bailey had 16, and Allen Leavell added 15, all in the second half.

Bucks 109, Suns 94

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Sidney Moncrief scored 20 of his 30 points in the first half Friday night as the Milwaukee Bucks rolled to an easy 109-94 victory over the Phoenix Suns.

Highland tops Witharral, 48-0

District 1A runnerup Witharral lost to District 2A champion Highland, 48-0, at Grady Friday in a Six-Man playoff game. The contest was called at halftime on the 45-point rule.

Harold Light scored on a 38-yard run and Duane Hyde kicked the PAT for an 8-0 lead with 7:26 left in the first period. Then, Royce Petty passed 40 yards to Ron Swaringin for a TD and Hyde again converted. Still in the first quarter, Light scored from the two to make it 22-0 going into the second period.

Petty passed 21 yards to Courtney Gothard for a TD and Light added 15 and six yard scoring runs before returning an interception 53 yards for the final score as time ran out in the half.

TED BATTLES

Fans marvel at skill

Congratulatory calls and notes continue to deluge the R-T sports desk after another triumph week.

One caller bubbled, "You did it again."

Another praised, "Uncanny."

Both quotes admittedly are taken out of context, since this is a home newspaper.

A reader worried, "...You accurately forecast that the sky was falling. I hope you had enough sense to get out of the way."

Another wondered, "The way you pick games...are you related to Kanda?"

"You won't have to rent skis. You can use the staves," someone consoled.

The praise resulted from last week's accurate forecast that, after going 38-14-4 against the point spread the three previous weeks, the "roof was due to cave in."

The prediction was on target....Won 6, Lost 15...

The SWC...

Baylor plus 13 over Texas—Longhorn offense hasn't been producing enough of late to give away 13 points.

Texas A&M minus 7 over TCU—Frogs capable, but coming off Texas game...

Texas Tech plus 7 over Houston—Loyalty, I guess...

Arkansas plus 7 over SMU—Mustangs so upset over bowl snub, they might not have the proper concentration...and it's at Little Rock.

The others...

South Carolina plus 7 at Clemson—Clemson should win by more than seven, but Tigers are coming off successive big wins over North Carolina and Maryland.

Stanford plus 5 over California—The Cardinals have been holding tackling drills for band members.

Ohio State plus 2½ over Michigan—Or it's Earl Bruce's butt.

Mississippi State plus 3 over Mississippi—Should be close, so will take the points.

Duke plus 14½ over North Carolina—Blue Devils can't win, but quarterback Ben Bennett, the coolest customer we've seen this year, will make it exciting.

Air Force plus 14 over Notre Dame—Score depends on how much Irish left at State College.

Pitt plus 5½ over Penn State—Two evenly matched teams, but Panthers exhibit more consistency.

Purdue minus 7 over Indiana—I may be sorry.

USC plus 3½ over UCLA—After blowing Rose Bowl last week, Bruins may not have that much incentive.

Washington minus 13½ over Washington State—Living recklessly.

The pros...

Kansas City plus nine over Dallas—Cowboys in mid season slump, play well enough to win, but nine points?....

Denver minus 1½ over Seattle—This time it's at Denver...

Steelers minus 7 over Minnesota—And it's at Pittsburgh, too.

49ers minus 3½ over Atlanta—Falcons played Monday and weren't too impressive.

Raiders minus 2½ over Buffalo—Whether Raiders win or lose, it's always close. I 've got a feeling I should have taken the points.

Washington minus 3 over Rams—Now that Redskins have pulled even with Cowboys, they aren't going to let up here.

Philadelphia minus 5½ over Giants—This one looks like such a cinch, it must be booby-trapped.

Green Bay minus 4 over Detroit—Doesn't this guy know that Lions won the first meeting, 38-14.

Cotton Bowl at stake as Baylor-Texas square off

AP Laserphoto

St. Louis Blues' Brian Sutter, left, and Chicago Black Hawks' Jack O'Callahan tangle in extra-curricular NHL action.

By The Associated Press

A Cotton Bowl berth and a share of the Southwest Conference football title will be on the line Saturday when the Texas Longhorns meet Baylor at Austin.

However, Southern Methodist still has an outside shot at earning the New Year's Day slot. The Mustangs need to beat Arkansas Saturday and then hope the undefeated Longhorns lose to Baylor and Texas A&M.

No. 2 ranked Texas is 6-0 in the SWC and 9-0 overall.

Sixth-ranked Southern Methodist, which plays Arkansas in Little Rock at 11:35 a.m. in a nationally (ABC) televised game, trails the 'Horns by a game.

Should SMU and Texas tie the 'Horns would get the bowl because they beat the Mustangs.

Meanwhile, SMU is expected to accept a Sun Bowl berth opposite Alabama after Saturday's game against the Razorbacks. It will be played on Christmas Eve.

Texas was a 13-point favorite over the Bluebonnet Bowl-bound Bears, who are expected to accept a bid for a New Year's Eve date against Oklahoma State following the game.

SMU rated a 7-point choice over the Razorbacks.

In other games, Texas A&M was a touchdown pick over Texas Christian in Fort Worth and Houston was also a touchdown choice over Texas Tech in a night game in the Astrodome.

Baylor brings the most potent offense in the SWC against the Longhorn defense, which is the best in the nation.

The Bears have not beaten Texas in Austin since 1951. There was a tie in 1957.

"Their defense is so good it shouldn't be called the Texas Longhorns," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "They should be called the Texas Scrooges. They are stingy."

Texas' defense has yielded just one touchdown in the last five games.

The 'Horns have allowed an average of only 188.3 yards pr game, best in the nation. Texas also leads the country in defending against the pass (87.2 yards) and against scoring (7.8).

Baylor has the SWC's top offense at 411.6 yards per game and quarterbacks Cody Carlson and Tom Muecke are 1-2 in passing.

"Our football team, although it's very young, is not intimidated by playing the No. 2 team in the nation in their own back yard," Teaff said. "But that's not to say we don't respect them. Like you have respect for any great person, team or champion of any kind, we have respect for the University of Texas football team.

"It should be a great matchup with our very productive offense and their stingy defense."

Texas Coach Fred Akers said of the Bears: "They are riding high. It should be a great test. It should be a great football game."

A crowd between 70,000 and 75,000 fans are expected in the 73rd renewal of the series. Texas leads 53-15-4.

NCAA probes SMU on track violations

DALLAS (AP) — The NCAA is checking allegations made by Baylor track Coach Clyde Hart that Southern Methodist University Coach Ted McLaughlin improperly used his position as director of a meet to recruit athletes, the Dallas Times Herald reported Friday.

Hart's allegations, made through the Southwest Conference office, deal with McLaughlin's position as director of the Dallas Times Herald Invitational meet and concern two athletes — distance runner Gary Taylor and long sprinter Clinton Davis, the newspaper said.

Both competed in the Times Herald meet when they were being recruited by colleges.

Bowls holding breath

By Associated Press

The bowl committees will be officially issuing their invitations and unofficially holding their breath against the possibility of some upsets today as the college football season ends for many teams.

Six members of the AP Top Twenty are idle — No. 1 Nebraska, No. 3 Auburn, No. 5 Miami, No. 7 Georgia, No. 12 Florida and No. 16 Alabama. All but Miami still have at least one regular-season game remaining, but Nebraska and Miami are in the Orange Bowl, Auburn in the Sugar, Georgia in the Cotton, Florida in the Gator and Alabama in the Sun.

Fourth-ranked Illinois, which will represent the Pac-10 in the Rose Bowl, visits Northwestern.

No. 8 Michigan entertains No. 10 Ohio State, but this time, there is no Rose Bowl berth at stake; the winner goes to the Sugar Bowl and the loser goes to the Fiesta against Pitt. No. 9 Brigham Young, headed for the Holiday Bowl as the WAC champ, entertains Utah.

In the Second Ten, Gator Bowl-bound No. 11 Iowa entertains Minnesota; No. 13 Clemson visits South Carolina; No. 14 West Virginia, a Hall of Fame Bowl entry, is at Syracuse; Washington State at No. 15 Washington, the leader in the Pac-10 Rose Bowl race; Penn State, reportedly in the Aloha Bowl, at No. 17 Pitt; No. 18 Boston College, headed for the Liberty, against Holy Cross at Foxboro, Mass.; Holiday Bowl-bound No. 19 Missouri at Kansas, and No. 20 Maryland, which faces Tennessee in the Florida Citrus Bowl, at North Carolina State.

Tennessee visits Hall of Fame Bowl invitee Kentucky, Peach Bowl-bound North Carolina entertains Duke, Independence Bowl hopeful East Carolina is at Southern Mississippi for a night game; Virginia Tech, another Independence possibility, visits Virginia; Bluebonnet-bound Oklahoma State is at Iowa State; Independence hopeful Air Force visits possible Liberty Bowl participant Notre Dame, and UCLA, with a shot at the Rose Bowl but a better chance at the Aloha, visits crosstown rival Southern California.

California is at Stanford for a rerun of last year's remarkable five-lateral, last-second kickoff return that gave Cal a 25-20 victory and knocked Stanford out of a bowl bid. And Harvard visits Yale for the 100th edition of "The Game."

Many of this week's traditional rivalries can make or break a team's season regardless of its record. Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler typifies that feeling, saying of the Ohio State contest, "We always judge our season on this game."

Schembechler also calls Ohio State the Big Ten's best team, despite Illinois' Rose Bowl spot.

For the second year in a row, Washington State has a chance to knock Washington out of the Rose Bowl, provided UCLA also beats Southern Cal.

Washington State has been overlooked by the bowls despite a 6-4 record and a four-game winning streak.

"This is Washington State-Washington; I don't give a hoot about the bowls," said Cougars' Coach Jim Walden. "I'm glad they (Washington) are waiting. We're coming. We're not afraid. I'll let Washington worry about their bowl aspirations. The Washington game means a great deal to us. It would give us seven wins, and that means that our program is growing by leaps and bounds."

Magee leads Sun Bowl golf

EL PASO (AP) — University of Oklahoma senior Andrew Magee fired a 2-under-par 69 Friday to take a 2-stroke lead in the 10th annual Sun Bowl College All-America golf classic.

Magee parred all the holes on the front nine and had one bogey on No. 16 in winds that gusted up to 40 mph. Brandel Chamblee of Texas shot a 2-over-par 73 and was second at 1-under-par 141.

Tom Byrum of New Mexico State and John Slaughter of Houston matched 73s and were tied for third at 143.

All 27 participants were either first-team, second-team or third-team all-American golfers for 1983.

Keiichi Nagata, the Japanese national collegiate champion, also participated in the tournament. His 5-over-par 76 on Friday tied him for 10th at 146.

Rose Bowl hasn't seen it all, yet

Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

The Rose Bowl, which has seen the Four Horsemen, the Dream Backfield, the Wonder Team, the Vow Boys and the Point-a-Minute Michigans, to say nothing of O.J. Simpson, Buddy Young, Lone Star Dietz and Roy Riegels, is staging a football game on Nov. 25 between teams that have won, between them, only four games this year.

There isn't an All-American or a Heisman Trophy prospect in sight, but Pasadena couldn't be more thrilled if the Queen of England were coming to marshal the Rose Parade.

It's the social catch of the year, if not the decade. It makes those New Year's games between the ruffians of the Big Ten and the non-students of the Pac-10 look like a cockfight socially.

AN ARMY-NAVY game transcends football. It's an American celebration, an affirmation of a world you never see anymore, a world where heels click and epaulets and swords are worn and white gloves are the order of the day and manners are saluted along with generals and no gentleman ever plays a game too well.

It's 1890 again and Orange Grove Avenue in Pasadena is a hub of society and has more rich people than some countries and life is just a giant cotillion.

The Army-Navy game used to be a tribal rite of the first order. It has fallen on hard times of late but it's still an out-of-town tryout for a hit show that once lit up Broadway.

But Pasadena always invests in tradition, and Army-Navy has more tradition than the service brass has braid. Dwight Eisenhower once played in Army gray. So did Georgie Patton, Vinegar Joe Stillwell, Omar Bradley, even Douglas MacArthur himself. For the Navy, Admirals Bull Halsey, Ernest King, Jonas Ingram and Robert Ghormley played on what MacArthur called the "fields of friendly strife" that "sowed the seeds of (future) victory."

Buzz Borries, the great Middies halfback, went down with his ship, the aircraft carrier Lexington, in the Battle of the Coral Sea off the deck of which he flew a Navy fighter. He was later rescued.

Chris Cagle became a household word in this game. Roger Staubach won his Heisman at Navy after he beat Army three years in a row.

THE GAME has never been played west of the Mississippi. Army has never played in the Rose Bowl. Navy played in the 1924 New Year's game and tied Washington.

For Pasadena, for Southern California, it's not only an event, it's history. A week-long sequence of civic activities, including a Salute to Bob Hope banquet at the Century Plaza, will signal the arrivals of our service academies.

The cadences of "On Brave Old Army" will rock the venerable old precincts of the West's most-famous bowl, and when the Middies strike up "Anchors Aweigh" or "Navy Blue and Gold" or the all-baritone chorus of the Point strikes up "The Caissons Go Rolling Along," no one will really care that we are looking at one team that beat only Lehigh and Princeton (Navy) and another team that lost to Lehigh (Army) and won only from Dartmouth (by one point) and Rutgers (by eight points).

It's still the Army-Navy game, the greatest halftime show in the world. So, square that hat, Mister, and go. Sound off.

UIL punishes school

AUSTIN (AP) — The University Interscholastic League has placed the Austin Johnston football team on probation for one year because a player hit an official in the face after a game last month.

UIL athletic director Bill Farney said Eulalio Arevalo, a senior defensive lineman, struck referee Jon Bible after Johnston lost to Austin Lanier 17-14 on Oct. 21.

"According to our account, Bible went to get the ball after the game," said Farney. "He got the ball, turned around and the player drew back and hit him in the face."

He just turned around and swung," said Arevalo's father. "Right after that, he went to apologize to the official. He didn't mean to hit him."

Arevalo was dismissed from the team by coach Jim Craig and put on school probation until the end of the semester, according to the Austin American-Statesman.

The UIL executive committee voted unanimously Wednesday to put Johnston on probation beginning next football season. Johnston, 2-8 this year, will still be eligible for the district title and the playoffs.

"It is just a little cloud hanging over their heads telling them they don't have a second chance," said Farney.

Craig said, "It's just one of those things that happens. It's not something we condone. We're just glad it's the minimal penalty."

Answer man finds ultimate test for drugs

By SCOTT OSTLER
Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

Q: I'm concerned, Answer Man. Is the Olympic drug testing really sophisticated enough to detect drug usage by the athletes?

A: Current testing methods are too superficial to detect the presence of all drugs. However, as drug use escalates, as the drugs get stronger and more dangerous and athletes wolf down pills like champions once ate Wheaties, doctors will be able to administer a more comprehensive test. It's called an autopsy.

Q: First I read that USFL commissioner Chet Simmons announced at a press conference that the league will use instant replays to aid officials. Then I read that Simmons says he didn't really say that. Which is it?

A: We'll never know, because the USFL has not sanctioned use of instant replays at press conferences.

Q: WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT champion Larry Holmes, who earns about $10 million per fight, was angry at fight promoter Bob Arum because Arum refused to give Holmes 20 free tickets to the Hagler-Duran bout. Holmes threatened to boycott the fight. What finally happened?

A: Holmes did show up in ringside seats, apparently mollified. But later Larry stalked out of the stadium when a vendor refused to give him free popcorn.

Q: I see where a councilwoman in Tampa wants to create a special "primitive section" in the stadium for boisterous, wild-acting, half-naked people who just pump around, don't watch the game, and distract the fans. Do you think people like this should have their own section in the stands?

A: No, I think the NFL cheerleaders should stay right down there on the sidelines.

Q: I'm writing a book about the Kansas City Royals, a sensitive novel dealing with the temptations and heartbreaks of being big-league baseball stars. Can you suggest a suitably sensitive title for the book?

A: How about "High Five." Or, "The Boys of Slammer"?

Q: USC TOOK SOME heat a couple years ago when athletes received credit for attending classes they didn't really attend. Then other schools started getting busted for the same offense. Isn't there an honest school out there somewhere?

A: Yes. I hereby salute Ohio University at Chillicothe. Art Schlichter is playing baskeball for OUC, and the school has announced that Schlichter is not enrolled in any classes.

Q: Won't that make it difficult for Schlichter to earn a degree?

A: Yes, but it will save him a lot of money on textbooks.

Q: Now that Robert Duran has moved up in weight classes, his punch is no longer the devastating weapon it once was. Will he be allowed to continue using his nickname, Manos de Piedra (Hands of Stone)?

A: No, he will be officially stripped of the nickname, and it will be auctioned off to the highest eligible bidder. Sealed bids have already been submitted by Wendell Tyler, an anonymous clumsy pickpocket and the Los Angeles dodgers' infield.

Q: THIS ACTION IS likely to set a precedent. Will any other athletes be stripped of their nicknames?

A: A champion pacer named Hot Hitter recently failed a fertility test. Lloyds of London had to pay off to the tune of $1.3 million, and is demanding the horse change his name to Strikeout King.

Q: I'm new to this country and I just started watching NBA games. Wow, that lockout of officials has really thrown the league into chaos! There is pushing, shoving, bumping, tripping and slapping, and the coaches and players cry like babies after every foul call. What was the game like with the real officials?

A: There was hardly any tripping.

Q: I would like to participate in the 1984 Olympics, but I'm very old and can't run or jump. Can you suggest how I might become an Olympian?

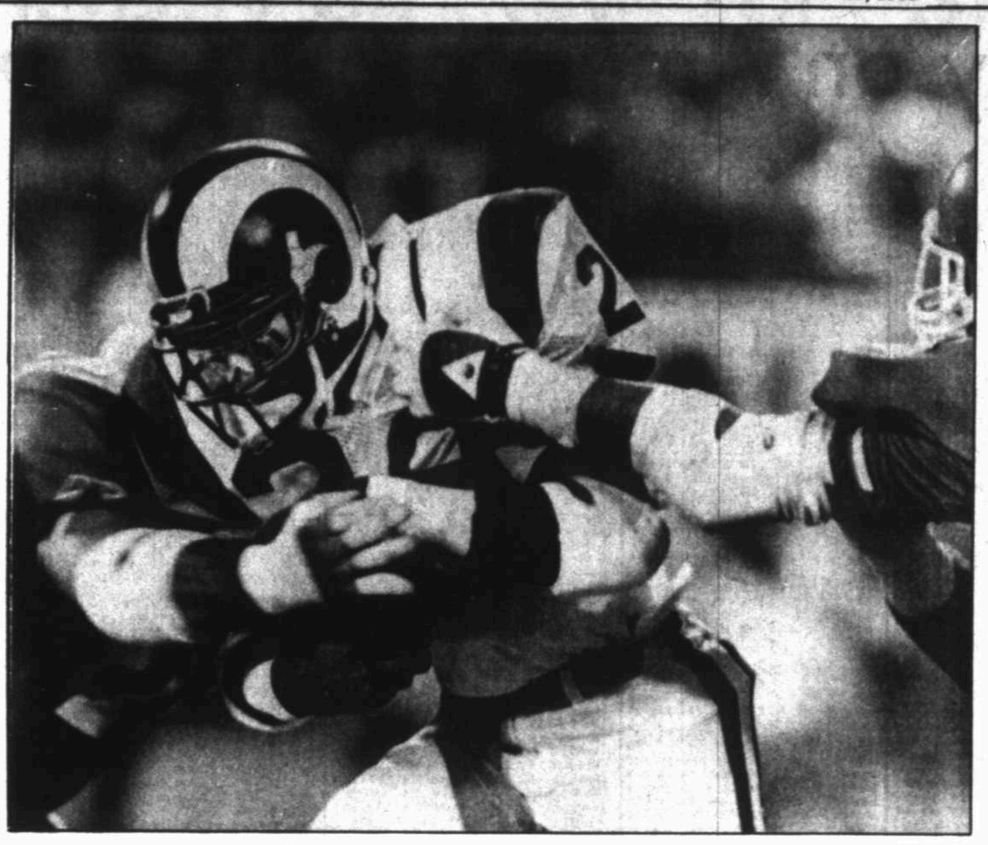

A: You bet. A nationwide chain of gambling casinos is holding its own '84 Games, a "blackjack-craps tournament series inspired by the Olympics."

ACCORDING TO A CASINO press release, players will compete in a Decathlon for extra prize money. The '84 Games, according to the release," will offer all the color, comradery (their spelling) and sense of personal achievement experienced in international athletics."

This is believed to be the first Olympic event where the athletes are encouraged to smoke and drink during their competition, and where the event organizers will award you gold and silver on credit. This is the one event where the participants will truly go for broke.

Q: Surely, Answer Man, you must salute this gambling tournament for its objectives, to wit (according to the same release): "The idea is to bring the intense, personal excitement of major sports to the casino floor."

A: The idea, mon ami, is to bring the intense, personally excited gambler to the casino floor.

Rams' Eric Dickerson is mobbed by opposition, but only after a sizeable gain.

Rams' Ferragamo will riddle Skins' defense

An AP Sports Analysis
By BRUCE LOWITT

The Washington Redskins and the Los Angeles Rams, each with a share of first place in their respective National Football Conference divisions, send strength against strength Sunday in Anaheim Stadium.

The Rams will throw Eric Dickerson, their extraordinary running back, against the Redskins' rushing defense, the best in the National Football League.

And the winner will be ... Vince Ferragamo. While the Washington rushing defense is the best, the pass defense is the worst, which means the Rams' quarterback should have a pleasant afternoon throwing as well as handing off. Take the L.A. RAMS plus 3 over Washington.

Like the Redskins, Denver will be facing a serious running threat. Curt Warner, Seattle's single-season rushing leader, is only 28 yards away from becoming the Seahawks' first 1,000-yard ground gainer and the first of the season in the American Football Conference.

Seattle's pass defense is one of the league's shakiest, which should bolster John Elway's confidence and stats — but not the Broncos' record. Take Seattle plus 1 over DENVER.

Pittsburgh and Minnesota are headed in opposite directions, the Steelers winners of seven in a row, the Vikings losers of three straight. Few teams are worse at stopping the run than the Vikes, and the Steelers' offense is wrapped around Franco Harris and his fellow backs. Also, few teams get to the quarterback as often as do the Steelers. Take PITTSBURGH minus 7 over Minnesota.

In other games (home teams capitalized), take:

MIAMI minus 9 over Baltimore
PHILADELPHIA minus 5 over N.Y. Giants
NEW ENGLAND minus 4½ over Cleveland
GREEN BAY minus 3½ over Detroit
San Francisco minus 3½ over ATLANTA
L.A. Raiders minus 2 over BUFFALO
San Diego minus 1 over ST. LOUIS
Chicago plus 1 over TAMPA BAY
N.Y. Jets plus 3 over NEW ORLEANS
Kansas City plus 9 over DAL-LAS
Houston plus 9½ over CIN-CINNATI

Last week's record against the spread: 6-8; for the season: 71-73-8.

Spud makes big time debut

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — North Carolina State and Houston open the college basketball season Saturday in the fifth Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic in a "rematch" of last season's NCAA finalists.

NBC will telecast the game, starting at 1:30 p.m.

"What rematch?" said N.C. State Coach Jim Valvano, whose team won the 1983 championship 54-52 on a last-second shot, ending Houston's 26-game winning streak. "We lost a lot of points, but they didn't lose Akeem (Olajuwon). Only the uniforms will be the same.

"We even lost our senior team manager. We have trouble getting our towels on the bus."

What the Wolfpack really lost from its 26-10 club were its three key players — backcourtmen Dereck Whittenburg and Sidney Lowe and 6-foot-11 Thurl Bailey.

N.C. State was unranked in the preseason poll, while Houston was ranked No. 3, mainly because of the 7-0 junior, Olajawon, who showed great improvement last season and was named the most valuable player of the Final Four.

Returning for Houston, nicknamed the Phi Slama Jama fraternity because of its dunking ability last season, is forward Michael Young, 6-7, a senior who was switched to guard last season; 6-5 swingman Benny Anders, and guards Alvin Franklin and Reid Gettys. Two 6-8 freshman forwards who will see action are Braxton Clark and Rickie Winslow.

N.C. State also has a dunker of some renown in Spud Webb, who's only 5-6. A transfer from Midland (Texas) College, Webb has a 42-inch standing, vertical leap, which enabled him to record 49 dunks and 37 blocked shots last season.

Webb has taken over as N.C. State's point guard position and will team with Ernie Myers, a sophomore who averaged 18 points while filling in for the injured Whittenburg midway through last season.

Cozell McQueen, 6-11, and 6-7 Lorenzo Charles, who scored the winning basket in the NCAA final, will be joined up front by 6-7 freshman Bennie Bolton as starters.

"I don't feel a lot of pressure," said Valvano. "We're not even picked in the top half of our own conference (Atlantic Coast). But we have good team players and a good foundation.

"Houston is one of the top 10 teams in the country. Akeem is awesome, a great offensive and defensive player. They lost a great player in (Clyde) Drexler and a good one in (Larry) Micheaux."

Hall makes All-Rookie team

NEW YORK (AP) — Shortstop Julio Franco of the Cleveland Indians was the leading vote-getter on the 1983 Topps Chewing Gum major league rookie all-star team and former Midland Cub Mel Hall was the centerfielder.

The team, selected by the players, also includes slugging outfielders Darryl Strawberry of the New York Mets and Ron Kittle of the Chicago White Sox, and right-handed pitcher Mike Boddicker of the Baltimore Orioles, winner of one game each in the World Series and playoffs.

The 10 players are divided equally between the National and American Leagues and include no more than one player from any team.

Here is the team, position by position:

Man swaps salty breeze for smoke-filled rooms

INGLESIDE, Texas (AP) — Jim Tucker is a rough-hewn man, more comfortable commanding his shrimp boat or toting a deer rifle in rugged South Texas woods than playing the politics game.

But Tucker now expects to become all too familiar with the confines of the state Capitol in Austin, swapping salty breezes for the cliched smoke-filled rooms that symbolize politics.

"I have to," he says, "to survive. I have to take care of my family."

Tucker and other bay shrimpers along the Texas coast have formed the United Shrimpers Association, a group aimed at protecting their industry from opposition they say could force them to hang up their nets.

"We felt it would be political suicide if we didn't get involved," Tucker said.

He points to the recent demise of the fin fisherman, virtually wiped out by a state law banning the catching of redfish or trout for commercial purposes.

The 230-some members of the bay shrimpers' group, which intially drummed up interest by ship-to-ship radio contact, fear a death blow from the well-financed, established Texas Shrimp Association, Tucker said.

THE TWO organizations make no bones about the long-simmering resentment between bay shrimpers and the Gulf shrimpers, those who trawl in deeper water.

There are, after all, only so many shrimp and too many boats.

The bay shrimpers want to scoop the smallish shrimp off the inland floor, while the deepwater shrimpers want the creatures to fatten up before migrating out into the Gulf.

"We want to live and let live," Tucker said. "They want it all."

Ralph Rayburn, executive director of the Texas Shrimp Association, concedes that Gulf shrimpers rake in more than 90 percent of the state's shrimping profits.

But the deepwater shrimpers currently are mired "in the worst season in the past 10 or 15 years," he said, and their capital outlay is larger.

"We're real disappointed that (the bay shrimpers) feel they have to flex their muscles and blame us for all their problems," Rayburn said. "We're not trying to run anyone out of business. If we intrude on someone's playground — well, I'm sorry."

RAYBURN, 36, lobbies for his group from an Austin office, where he has a "staff of 1½." The TSA also has a "part-time lobbyist" in Washington, he said.

Money willing, Tucker said he plans to put his own lobbyist on the payroll. Until then, he has to climb off his shrimp boat and drive about 220 miles to Austin from this Corpus Christi-area community.

Tucker, 42, and some 50 fellow shrimpers came to Austin near the end of the last legislative session after hearing of a TSA-sponsored bill that Rayburn said was aimed at strengthening the penalties for "habitual offenders" of shrimping laws.

The bill was snuffed out at the last minute when Tucker's cohorts convinced a state senator to threaten a filibuster against it.

"When we went to Austin, we were told, 'You people better get it together, because you may not win the next time,'" Tucker said. "We came back and started trying to form this group."

TUCKER SAID he fears the TSA's next move will be to push for full regulatory control for the bay shrimping industry, which would give the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department complete power to enact policy, set new guidelines and even shorten the bay shrimpers' season. Currently, the Legislature has that power.

Rayburn said his group is investigating a wide range of legislation, and that full regulatory control is on the list.

The TSA, which was formed in 1950, collects 30 cents for each 100-pound box of shrimp its 420 member boats pack. That adds up.

The United Shrimpers Association charges $200 in annual dues from its members, some of whom splintered off from PISCES, or Professional Involvement of Seafood Concerned Enterprises.

"We're definitely the larger, more established group," said past PISCES officer Bo Cunningham. "They left because they wanted a group that concentrated just on the shrimping industry.

"There have always been splinter groups," he said. "Some last. Some don't."

SHRIMPERS BY nature are staunch noncomformists, Tucker said, which presents a formidable obstacle for any membership drive.

"They're independent. They don't want to answer to anyone," he said. "We told them they couldn't afford not to join, that this wasn't the time to be hard-headed.

Tucker concedes that his group has only signed up a small percentage of bay shrimpers. The state has issued more than 4,400 licenses for bay shrimping.

"The handwriting is on the wall," Tucker said. "If this doesn't work, you're going to see a decline in the bay industry. This is the last hurrah for the bay shrimper."

Ironically, Tucker and Rayburn worked together years ago when Rayburn was a county marine extension agent.

"This competition is difficult," Rayburn acknowledged, "and down the line, we simply need to find a way to work it out."

Capt. Billy Walker, supervisor of coastal law enforcement for the parks and wildlife department, said the two groups have been at odds ever since he joined the state agency 17 years ago.

"It's been a squabble for a long time now," he said, "and it probably always will be."

Iowa station broadcasts out-of-this-world invitation

MUSCATINE, Iowa (AP) — Extraterrestrial beings who want to break the ice with earthlings have a standing invitation to come and chat at radio station KFMH.

Every Wednesday at midnight, the progressive rock station broadcasts a 10- to 15-minute message to any aliens who might be listening.

"It's a message of friendship, telling that there are those of us who believe in them," said Steve Bridges, 34, KFMH program director. "We play a message of friendship and then play tapes of people who believe in them. Then we give our location in latitude and longitude in English, Samoan, French, Italian, Japanese, Malaysian and other languages. Then we ask them to respond."

The radio station began airing the message in response to interest in the community, said Bridges. Muscatine, in southeastern Iowa, is considered a hotbed of UFO activity, with more than 250 sitings recorded by Abintra Inc., a UFO support group based in Davenport.

"I thought the audience would be interested in this, but I didn't realize how many people were really interested.

Make sure you are seeing life in the right perspective. Nothing ever looks right when viewed from the wrong vantage point.

Of course there are reasons men descend into manholes—good reasons that contribute to the health and happiness of the community. But viewing skyscrapers isn't very satisfactory from a manhole.

When you look at the many problems that beset mankind, seek first a Christian perspective. God meant each of us to contribute something to making this a better world.

So view the state of civilization as a challenge to constructive living, to sound religious principles, to frank awareness of the spiritual hungers that plague m[illegible].

The way to see Life clearly is to look with the eyes God has given you . . . standing at that point in time and place to which God has brought you . . . and knowing His Way makes the difference!

Western theology tends to ignore women

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Women are flocking to divinity schools in record numbers, but a Harvard Divinity School official says much of Western theology still ignores them.

"There is no other profession in which, until recently, women have been excluded by policy from positions of authority and in some cases still are," said Constance Buchanan, director of the school's Women's Studies in Religion Program. "You have to ask why."

Harvard's program, which Ms. Buchanan helped develop in 1980, is trying to reverse centuries of tradition by rethinking Western theology from a woman's perspective.

In the past decade, many churches and synagogues have opened their pulpits to women, and women have responded. But often the subjects they study and the texts they preach are male-dominated, says Ms. Buchanan.

"Even if you're not talking about explicitly religious beliefs, a story like Adam and Eve is pivotal in giving the message that women are a source of sin and temptation and that men are the first creation of God," she said in a recent interview. "You don't have to have set foot inside a church to have that story influence you.

"If you have God the Father, you understand maleness as somehow more authoritative and more real," she added.

This year, women outnumber men in the master's program at Harvard's Divinity School, and 44 percent of students overall are women. A decade ago, only one in nine students there was female.

The school's enrollment figures amplify a national trend. In 200 divinity schools in the United States and Canada, the number of women students has jumped from 3,358 in 1972 to 12,473 last year, according to Marvin Taylor, associate director of the Association of Theological Schools in Vandalia, Ohio.

The figures, which include some institutions that prohibit women students, boost the percentage of women at divinity schools from one tenth a decade ago to 23.7 percent now.

But many resist the changes. Critics sent an estimated 10,000 letters when the National Council of Churches issued a controversial collection of Bible readings this month calling Jesus the "Child of God" rather than "Son" and eliminating other references making women appear secondary.

And tradition still keeps women away from many altars. Archbishop Iakovos, spiritual leader of Greek Orthodox Christians in America, recently summed up his church's position on the priesthood, saying, "Jesus knew human nature very well and when he called people to follow him, he called no women, only men."

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod also refuses to ordain women, basing the policy on biblical passages, according to Joe Isenhower, a spokesman for the denomination of 2.7 million. Although the church doesn't take the Bible completely literally, he said, "We do regard the Bible to be inerrant, and...on this subject we find it to be very clear."

He cited 1 Corinthians as an example, quoting, "Women should remain silent in the churches. They are not allowed to speak but must be in submission as the Law says."

For Ms. Buchanan, however, the male perspective that dominates Western theology is there merely because men have had the power to interpret and record beliefs.

"When you have men describing God," she said, "they assume God will have the attributes of men" and the picture of God that emerges is of a father, all-powerful, mysterious and distant.

According to Ms. Buchanan, women envision God as closer to home.

"Women tend to see God within the human drama, as people relating to people and not out there, separate," she said. "And they see God as being absolutely primarily invested in the welfare of the oppressed, as a God that wants to move them out of the oppression,"

Storytelling worshop to be held Sunday

White

A storytelling workshop conducted by the Rev. William White will be held Sunday at 7 p.m. in the Parish Hall of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois Ave.

White, a Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Lutheran minister, will also lead the adult education class Sunday at 10 a.m.

Storytelling has a time-honored place in history and is making a comeback in the United States, White says. He has written a book on the subject and conducts workshops on a nationwide basis on the art of storytelling.

White has been pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church at Mt. Pleasant since 1976. He has degrees from the University of Wisconsin, Eau Claire, and Luther Seminary, St Paul. At one time he was Michigan District camping director and served from 1973 to 1976 as an assistant to Bishop Robert Wietelmann, former ALC Michigan District head.

He belongs to a 10-year-old organization called the National Association for the Preservation and Perpetuation of Storytelling.

The public is invited to attend.

Totem poles forest newspapers

British Columbia's Indian totem poles were not idols for worship, hexes against evil spirits, shamanism or gods for veneration, but tribal crests or billboards intended to impart news of events of local or regional import to passersby.

Bishops begin study of women

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's bishops, single males all, are beginning a major study of the plight and the prospects of American women — single or married, employed or not, Roman Catholic or not.

They had some second thoughts about the whole idea, but then decided to go ahead.

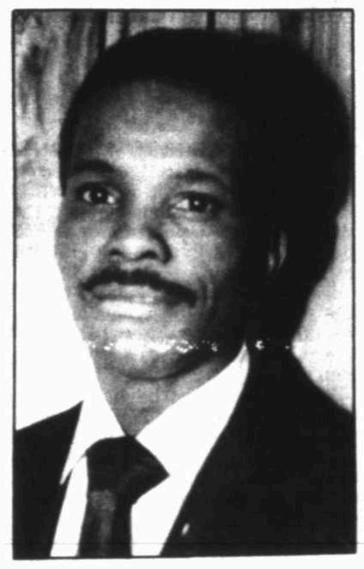

Eventually, the study will be turned into an official bishops' letter on the subject, serving as a basis for U.S. Roman Catholic teaching.

The bishops were blunt about the much-publicized question of priesthood for women. They are opposed, at least for now. But the issue of female clergy will at least be mentioned in the study, and many other dilemmas dealt with thoroughly.

Wife beating, sexual harassment, work discrimination and other negatives will be studied. So will the positives of greater involvement and leadership roles in church and business.

The group's formal rationale for the project puts it this way: "The American bishops have recognized the pastoral dimensions of the women's liberation movement and of attitudes and postures supported in the name of 'Christian feminism' and the basic underlying principles of the Equal Rights Amendment."

In more human terms, Bishop Joseph Imesch of Joliet, Ill., chairman of the letter-drafting committee, said he realizes many women are dissatisfied with their lot as Roman Catholics.

Egypt begins to ease restrictions on Coptic pope

NEW YORK (AP) — A church delegation, back from Egypt, reports restrictions on Coptic Orthodox Pope Shenouda III are easing and the Egyptian government has begun to restore some of his authority.

He has been confined in a monastery in Egypt's western desert since he was banished in 1981 by then President Anwar Sadat, who withdrew his government's recognition of Shenouda as head of the Coptic Orthodox Church.

The National Council of Churches delegation, led by the council's president, United Methodist Bishop James M. Armstrong, met with Shenouda and reported restrictions on him began easing about two weeks ago.

There now seems to be "tacit recognition of Pope Shenouda's legitimacy" by the Egyptian government, Armstrong said. The delegation also met with President Hosni Mubarak, who succeeded the slain Sadat.

"President Mubarak has spoken of him (Shenouda) as the 'spiritual leader' of his people," Armstrong says, and now talks about "when" Shenouda might be released, and not just 'if" it would happen.

"It was our contention, of course, that his full authority and powers must be recognized by the state and his rights must be reinstated," Armstrong said.

U.S. Baha'i office denounces Iran's ban on sect's activities

WILMETTE, Ill. (AP) — The U.S. Baha'i Office of Public Affairs says Iran's newly declared ban on all Baha'i institutions and activities "is an act of genocide...intended to extirpate a religious community."

The statement says that Iran, by making Baha'i organizations and service to them a crime, has created conditions in which the community's "survival will be impossible."

But in keeping with a Baha'i principle of obedience to law, the U.S. office says Iran's Baha'is have "immediately dissolved their national assembly and some 600 local assemblies."

World, Caribbean church councils criticize U.S.

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Leaders of the World Council of Churches and of the Caribbean Conference of Churches have issued separate statements, both criticizing the U.S. invasion of Grenada.

In the United States, the United Church of Christ also protested the invasion, adding its voice to previous criticizms by agencies of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) and Quakers.

In classical Christian thought, the woes of the world and of the people in it stem from a single, pervasive and underlying condition — an ailment called "sin".

The word isn't fashionable these days, despite the steady tromp of wrongdoings stamped in the headlines, and it's often been muffled, even in the churches. But it's getting sharpened attention.

That deep-rooted blight, with all its ramifications, mystery and counter-forces to it, was the focus for extensive deliberations at the Vatican earlier this fall, of representatives of the world's Roman Catholic bishops.

"The fundamental cause of all divisions in men's souls and their societies is sin, or the evil that man does freely before God," says a 49-page study document for the sixth general Synod of Bishops.

It has met every three years since being established in 1965 at the close of the Second Vatican Council to advise the pope.

The onset of sin, as portrayed in the Book of Genesis, was when the first man, Adam, sought to seize full control, be God himself, decide his own rules.

That egocentric, domineering impulse — to regard self as the utmost — is seen at the core of every tyranny, every heedless oppression, cruelty, conflict, crime and greed, every selfish injustice and deprivation, both in social systems and personal strife.

While various explanations — psychological, sociological, economic and political — are given for the "hostilities, disorders and unjust structures," the "root cause is sinfulness," says Cardinal Joseph Bernardin of Chicago, a U.S. delegate to the synod.

"Ultimately it is sin and its consequences which separate us from God and disorient us as individuals and as society," he adds in a column for the weekly Chicago Catholic. "If we are honest with ourselves, we know this to be true.

"And we therefore know our need for repentance and forgiveness. We crave to be made whole again. We want to be reconciled with God and one another. The good news of the gospel is that God offers us reconciliation in Christ Jesus."

Encouraging and helping people to respond to it, he adds, is the church's mission.

But an obstacle to it cited by Bernardin and by numerous other church scholars, as well as by some psychiatrists, is that many people have lost any sense of sin.

Black Panthers prowl no more

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — More than a decade ago, they prowled the streets of Oakland, Calif., in shiny black shoes and black leather jackets, berets perched jauntily on their heads, starched blue shirts tucked into pressed black slacks.

They said their purpose was to try to prevent police brutality. But J. Edgar Hoover, then director of the FBI, branded the Black Panthers "the most violence-prone of all the extremist groups" and declared a sort of secret war.

Today, the Panthers roam no more. The men and women who used the credo, "Political power grows out of the barrel of a gun," have filtered into every pore of American society.

Former Panthers work in congressional offices in Washington, D.C. An ex-party member is running for mayor in a North Carolina city and another ran for the state legislature in Massachusetts. Eldridge Cleaver, the former Panther minister of information, has said he wants for run for mayor of Oakland.

There are ex-Panther postal workers, school teachers and legislative assistants. One former Panther is a troubleshooter for a computer firm. Another owns a plumbing company.

Bobby Seale, who helped organize the black power group in 1966, lectures to college groups and lives in Philadelphia, where he is finishing a barbecue cookbook and is about to start a novel, a thriller about a black activist and some other '60s types. He also frets about bills and sending his three children to college.

"As a functional organization, the Black Panther Party is non-existent," Seale says in the midst of a weight-lifting workout at a Germantown YMCA. "I spent eight years in the Black Panthers and I've had my fill of that. But I haven't given up the struggle."

In the 1960s and '70s, the struggle began with law books and tape recorders, as the Panthers sought to record how police were doing their jobs. But in little time, the Panthers' practice of patrolling the Oakland community to guard against purported incidents of police brutality led to bloody shootouts. Lawbooks were put aside for pistols and shotguns.

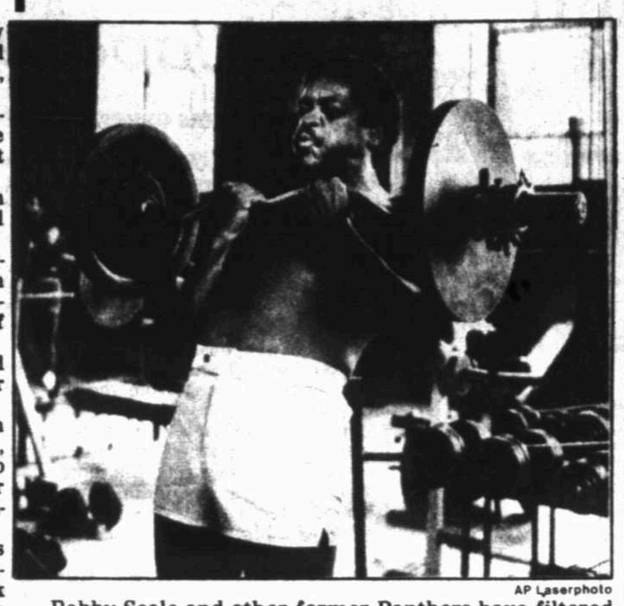

The FBI launched a secret campaign of "dirty tricks" involving fake Panther documents and letters, infiltrators and informants. The campaign, part of the FBI's COINTELPRO operation to disrupt and discredit civil rights and anti-war organizations and their leaders in the 1960s and '70s, was disclosed by a Senate investigating committee in 1976.

In 1969, Black Panthers Mark Clark and Fred Hampton were killed in a pre-dawn police raid in Chicago. Police said they were searching for weapons.

Clark's and Hampton's relatives and survivors of the raid successfully sued city, state and federal officials and were awarded $1.85 million last March.

Seale claims law officers killed 26 Panthers and that the Panthers killed their share of police and FBI agents.

"They wounded 60-odd of us, we wounded 32 of them," he asserted. "I think the reason we killed less and wounded less was because they had ... more equipment."

AP Laserphoto

Bobby Seale and other former Panthers have filtered into every pore of American society. He keeps in shape using weights in Philadelphia. Seale now lecures to college groups and lives in Philadelphia, where he is finishing a barbecue cookbook and is about to start a novel.

Bobby Rush, one-time Panther deputy minister of defense and former leader of the Chicago chapter, is an alderman in Chicago.

"The Panthers created an image of defiance and organized defiance and resistence to police forces that did not take into consideration the rights and basic human dignities of the black community," Rush said in a telephone interview. "A lot of the reform in police departments across the country today is directly related to the heated controversy of Panthers vs. police."

Over the years, the Black Panthers switched from bullets to ballots, seeking elective office and supporting others.

"They canvassed the community where they felt they could be most effective and helped in getting the vote out and generally supported my candidacy," Oakland Mayor Lionel Wilson said, recalling his 1977 campaign.

Old sock on display at museum

YORK, England (AP) — A 1,000-year-old sock, apparently discarded by a Viking in the 10th century, will go on display at a museum — but only after "very careful laundering," officials said Friday.

The khaki-colored sock was discovered earlier this year when archaeologists digging at Coppergate along the River Ouse found the remains of a Viking settlement.

The sock is to be one of the exhibits at York's new $4.5 million Viking Center museum in Coppergate, which opens next year.

But before it can be displayed, it will be given a "very careful laundering in purified water, dried and reshaped" — at a cost of about $1,200 — said Jean Glover, director of the Northwestern Museum and Art Gallery Service in the nearby Lancashire town of Blackburn.

Miss Glover said there is a danger the sock "could disintegrate if badly handled. But we are confident it can be conserved."

York, 190 miles north of London, was used as a military headquarters by England's Roman conquerers, and was where Constantine the Great was proclaimed emperor in 306 A.D. It later became a center for the Vikings who raided England during the 9th through 11th centuries.

Antarctic journey recalled

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Russell Robinson remembers Adm. Richard E. Byrd's second Antarctic expedition 50 years ago as "extremely primitive" compared with those of today

Robinson, then 22, was one of 100 men hired for the two-year trek that broke new ground in scientific exploration of the ice-bound continent.

He and other members of the expedition gathered in Washington in October to celebrate the anniversary of that day five decades ago when the Jacob Rupert, one of two ships used to transport the crew, set sail from Boston to New Zealand.

An aeronautical engineer, Robinson was assigned to look after the expedition's airplanes. But he spent most of his time behind dog sleds — the only means of transportation used to move supplies to and from the expedition camps.

"Today the expeditions are all done with motorized equipment — not a dog in the contingent, as far as I know. We depended on dogs very much," Robinson, now living in Tucson in retirement, recalled.

The dog teams traveled routes made treacherous by the shifts and buckles in the icy terrain, he explained. "We used to put marking flags in the ice and watch them move over time," he said. The motion was created by two bodies of ice that were moving at different rates of speed and grinding against each other.

"You'd get all kinds of trail accidents," Robinson said — dogs and men injured from sled collisions. Once, a crevasse opened beneath one of the men, who would have slid to an icy death in the water if onlookers hadn't managed to rescue him.

The men lived in tents that soon became snow-covered caves. They spent 12 hours a day at work, and 12 hours huddled in down-filled sleeping bags, resting and sleeping.

Lady drives at age 58

WEST WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — At the age of 58, Rachel Maglioli has decided she finally has the incentive to learn how to drive — she won a car in a nationwide contest.

She said she was at first just surprised she had won the car and then remembered she had never driven. "I wasn't giving it up, so I decided it was time to learn," she said.

War affects mental health

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Years of political strife and war have made Salvadorans paranoid and fearful, mental health professionals say.

In interviews, the professionals, religious leaders and intellectuals said Salvadorans are troubled deeply by the turbulence around them. Most asked not to be identified by name because of the fear of reprisals.

"Don't mention my name; that's part of the paranoia here," one professional said. "Everyone distrusts everyone else."

"Before, this was a city of windows and gardens, now it's a city of walls and bricks," a university researcher said. "The war has touched everything and has not left even one fiber of this society alone."

The researcher said Salvadorans were an open, warm people who now are marked by suspicion and mistrust.

He said the changes brought about by the conflict extend even to the way people speak — now saying "be careful" as a farewell instead of the traditional, "May things go well with you."

But those interviewed said many Salvadorans try to block out the violence around them. This defense mechanism is also noted in speech patterns. Instead of saying there is "violence" up the road, people talk about unspecified "problems."

"Really the war has affected everyone, even the rich people who are afraid of what they might lose," a psychologist said. As a defense, clients often insist their symptoms have nothing to do with the violence and dangers around them, she added.

The defense mechanism is particularly effective for residents of San Salvador, because urban violence has declined considerably in the past two years as the 4-year-old civil war became more entrenched in the countryside.

The war dates to Oct. 15, 1979, but political strife was commonplace throughout the 1970s and accustomed Salvadorans to violence. It has moved slowly from the city to the countryside.

Mental health treatment is not extensively offered in El Salvador, where the per-capita income is the equivalent of $599 a year. There are 24 psychiatrists in the nation of 4.7 million people and its one psychiatric hospital resembles, in the words of one psychiatrist, "a jail."

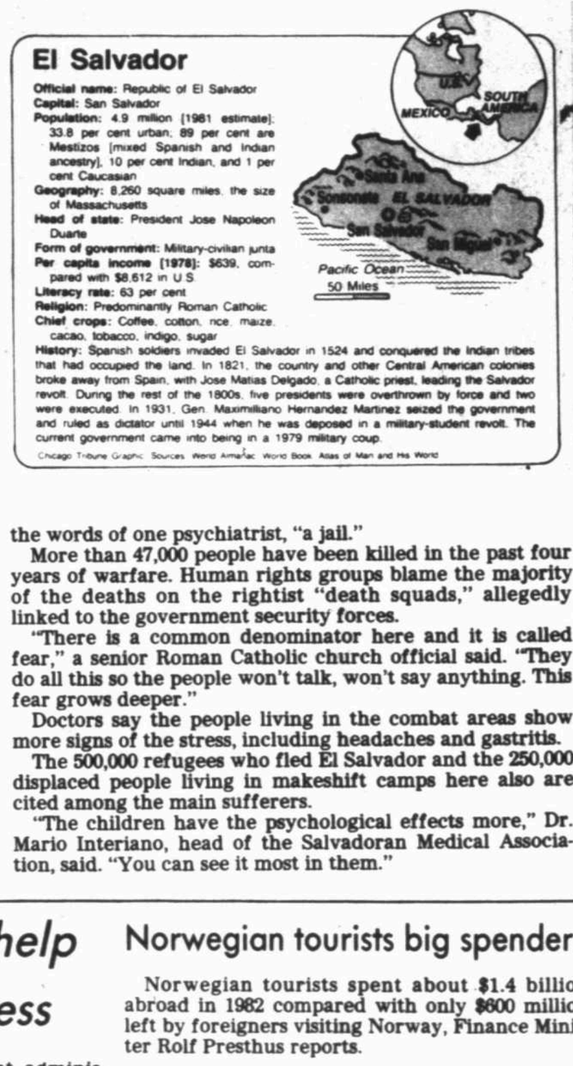

More than 47,000 people have been killed in the past four years of warfare. Human rights groups blame the majority of the deaths on the rightist "death squads," allegedly linked to the government security forces.

"There is a common denominator here and it is called fear," a senior Roman Catholic church official said. "They do all this so the people won't talk, won't say anything. This fear grows deeper."

Doctors say the people living in the combat areas show more signs of the stress, including headaches and gastritis.

The 500,000 refugees who fled El Salvador and the 250,000 displaced people living in makeshift camps here also are cited among the main sufferers.

"The children have the psychological effects more," Dr. Mario Interiano, head of the Salvadoran Medical Association, said. "You can see it most in them."

White House staff, reporters find Japanese prefer frisking

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House staff members and reporters covering President Reagan's Asian tour, often aggravated when required by security agents to pass through metal detecting devices, were pleased to find that such items are apparently held in low regard in Japan.

Instead, the Japanese preferred an old-fashioned, quick, but seemingly thorough frisk, often by white-gloved Japanese policewomen, to check for weapons.

That was just one of the wrinkles in the security picture as seen from the other side of the world.

In South Korea, a Korean Broadcasting cameraman was stationed on a road divider as Reagan's motorcade, stretching more than a quarter of a mile, sped by from downtown Seoul to Kimpo International Airport. Two security agents stood with him, one in front and one behind.

Security restrictions were so tight at the presidential Blue House in Seoul that photographers were banned from taking any pictures outside. That's to prevent terrorists or assassins from learning the layout of the building, which is hidden from public view, or the fortifications protecting it.

It's no secret, of course, that a private driveway leading up to the Blue House is lined with machine gun nests. Reporters were told that all of the presidential security guards are black-belt experts in martial arts, in addition to being expert shots with weapons.

Despite all the precautions, the presidential house is vulnerable to attack. After all, it is situated less than 26 miles from the border with North Korea, and thus well within the range of artillery shells.

In Japan, the quiet moat surrounding the Imperial Palace, residence of Emperor Hirohito, called for special precautions. Reagan had to drive over it to attend a state dinner and a private audience with the emperor. The swans that swim in the moat were nowhere to be seen when the president arrived for the dinner. Instead, their spot was taken by two police officers in a rowboat, prompting a reporter to ask "can you really booby-trap a swan?"

From much of what Reagan could see as he moved about Tokyo, the only city he visited in Japan, the capital was largely uninhabited. The president's first view of Tokyo was from his Marine Corps helicopter as he flew from Haneda Airport to the Akasaka Palace, the government's guest quarters behind a large stone wall. Tokyo, from the air, was bathed in a damp haze, and much of it was barely visible in the distance.

From the Akasaka Palace to the Imperial Palace, hidden behind a wall, and back, the streets were empty. Crowds were kept afar, often more than a block away, and few people could be seen on the streets.

A representative of the Foreign Ministry said that in boosting the security force to 90,000 policemen for the Reagan visit, rather than the 6,000 to 7,000 normally assigned to a visit by a head of state or government, the Japanese were meeting a request by the United States. The greater force also reflected heightened tensions as a result of the bombing attacks on the U.S. Marine headquarters in Beirut and on a South Korean delegation in Burma.

In Seoul, the president saw people. Hundreds of people. Thousands of people. Even, according to South Korean officials, millions of people lining the Seoul-Kimpo route. They waved U.S. and South Korean flags. They waved signs welcoming "The President of the United States and Mrs. Ronald W. Reagan." They jumped up and down in their jogging shoes, and they stayed behind lines set up by policemen.

Hospital opens 'VIP wing' to help ease the pain, drum up business

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Being admitted to a hospital might never be a real pleasure, but officials at one institution hope their "VIP wing" will help ease any pain while drumming up business.

Patients tired of standard hospital fare will be able to check into the new first-class wing at Doctors Hospital in Hollywood early next year and dine on champagne and lobster.

The special area will contain only 10 beds. Patients will have access to limousine service, gourmet food offered on china and wine in crystal goblets.

"Everything you could get in a hotel you will be able to get here," says Kenneth Berg, administrator of the 124-bed hospital. "We call it a hotel within a hospital."

Patients will have to pay up to $100 more per day over regular room rates to get red-carpet treatment.

Other local hospitals, trying to compete in an area with more hospital beds than patients to fill them, are also offering frillier accommodations.

Broward General Medical Center plans to remodel a floor with carpeting and wall coverings resembling those in fine hotels, says assistant administrator Richard Parks.

"It'll be kind of like all the niceties of home," says Parks.

Humana Hospital Cypress in Pompano Beach first offered luxury suites two years ago. It advertises private rooms with "extra amenities like plush wall-to-wall carpeting, comfortable recliners and decorator furnishings."

Tree delivered to Rockefeller Center

NEW YORK (AP) — A 3-ton, 75-foot Norway spruce was delivered to Rockefeller Center on Friday to be turned into this year's crowd-attracting Christmas tree in the mid-Manhattan business center.

The tree, to be lighted Dec. 5, came from the property of Allan Heinsohn in the Rockland County community of Valley Cottage.

Heinsohn, who said he is getting a "minimal" payment for the 60-year-old tree, said he was glad to unload it because "it has been killing the grass on the front lawn."

Ex-CIA informant ordered deported

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Edgars Laipenieks, a former Olympic coach and CIA informant, has filed notice of appeal of an order that he be deported for alleged war crimes in his native Latvia during World War II.

He was ordered deported to Chile last September by the Board of Immigration Appeals.

Laipenieks, who coached Chile's Olympic track teams in 1952 and 1956 and the 1964 Mexican track team, has denied he was involved in war crimes while serving with the Latvian Political Police during the Nazi occupation of his homeland.

Cracks found in jet engine mounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy said Friday it has discovered small surface cracks on engine mounts aboard six of its F-18 jet fighters and is repairing them.

"The crack does not affect safety of flight," the Navy said. Each of the F-18's two engines is held by three mounts.

The repairs involve "polishing out the small surface crack without removing the mount from the aircraft," the Navy said in a statement.

Bus slams into railroad overpass

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The driver of a city commuter bus, apparently dazed after colliding with a car at a downtown intersection, slammed the vehicle into a concrete railroad overpass Friday and at least 27 people were injured, authorities said.

Initial reports indicated the Jatran bus had the green light at an intersection where the collision occurred, said Mayor Dale Danks.

After the collision at the intersection, the bus proceeded across a vacant lot and struck the overpass wall, buckling a portion of the large vehicle behind the driver and sending passengers flying forward.

Former official accused of lying

DETROIT (AP) — A former state Teamsters official faces three counts of lying to a federal grand jury investigating medical, dental and optical contracts awarded by the union's welfare fund.

Charles F. Collins, indicted Thursday, is accused of lying about his involvement with two insurance executives, including Allen Dorfman, who was convicted of bribery and conspiracy a year ago and killed gangland-style in January.

Collins, 40, of West Bloomfield, was executive director of the Michigan Conference of Teamsters Welfare Fund from August 1979 to August 1983.

Panel proposes new area codes

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's Board of Estimate has asked the state Public Service Commission to put off for two years a proposal to split the city into two telephone area codes.

New York Telephone Co. has asked for permission to assign a new area code to the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island to free up 36 exchanges in the 212 system, enough to last two years.

A city consultant recommended instead that a second area code be assigned to special uses such as paging devices and computer linkups and that an eight-digit dialing system be set up to double the potential number of exchanges.

Funds OK'd for air base

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Appropriations subcommittee approved $49 million Friday to build austere facilities at an Egyptian base that would be used by U.S. rapid deployment troops in an emergency.

Medical students adapting to life in Big Apple

NEW YORK (AP) — When the year began, Philip Sachs was sharing a three-bedroom beach house with another medical student in a tropical paradise. As it ends, he is sharing a small dormitory room with two other students in a concrete jungle.

The books, courses and instructors are the same, but few of the 160 students transplanted from St. George's University Medical School to Long Island University's Brooklyn campus after last month's invasion of Grenada are confusing the old campus with the new.

"I'm sorry, but I feel safer in Grenada than I do here," said Sachs, 36, of Atlanta. "One girl has already had her purse stolen, and another guy had his car broken into and his luggage stolen."

One female student complained that someone stole her wallet and several thousand dollars of jewelry from her coat pocket in the school library.

"I don't trust my car in this neighborhood," said Michael Sugerman, who comes from Long Island. "Of course I feel safer in Grenada — except when there's a coup."

There seemed little chance of that Thursday, as Borough President Howard Golden welcomed the second-semester medical students, evacuated from the island after the U.S.-led invasion, to LIU at a brunch.

He urged the students, who resumed classes a week ago, to take advantage of the city's "extensive transportation system."

Carol Feinman, a spokeswoman for the university, said several of the medical students apparently had been victimized. But, she said, "there's no place in the city where that doesn't happen."

Korean children will have surgery next week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two Korean children that Nancy Reagan brought to the United States will have open-heart surgery next week at St. Francis Hospital in Roslyn, N.Y., the White House said Friday.

Sheila Tate, Mrs. Reagan's press secretary, said the first lady received an update by telephone from Harriet Hodges, who came to the United States with the children but was flying back to Korea on Friday night.

Mrs. Tate quoted Mrs. Reagan as saying after the telephone call, "I feel as if I'm their mother sweating out these operations."

Mrs. Tate said both children, who have heart defects, have been catheterized in preparation for the operations. She quoted the first lady as saying the doctors were very optimistic.

Mrs. Reagan met the children when she accompanied her husband to Seoul, Korea a week ago. She brought them back to the United States on Air Force One on Monday. They visited the White House before flying to New York.

As a result of all the publicity, the hospital has had to put an extra person on its switchboard to handle the telephone inquiries. Also, a clothing manufacturer has offered to provide wardrobes for the youngsters before they return to Korea, Mrs. Tate said.

The operations of Ahn Gi-sook, 7, and Lee Kil-woo, 4, are being financed with donations from the hospital and the surgeons, as well as Korean and New York businessmen under the auspices of the so-called Gift of Life program.

Ms. Hodges is coordinator of children's programs for international human assistance programs in Seoul.

The New Car is here.

Newly arrived: the Honda Civic CRX. And Civic CRX 1.5.

They sweep away all preconceptions. Just as the original Civic did a decade ago. With innovative aerodynamics. A two-seater design. And, for the CRX, the best gas mileage in America.

The Civic CRX 1.5 blends performance and fuel efficiency* with an ambitious 1.5 liter 12-valve engine.

It also offers an optional automatic transmission with torque converter lock-up. And both the CRX and CRX 1.5 provide torsion bar front suspension, a 5-speed manual transmission and a lockable stowage compartment behind the seats.

The 1984 Civic CRX and Civic CRX 1.5. Totally new cars from Honda. But then, that's nothing new.

"It's good to have a place where you really like to live."

Debbie Allen talks about living at The Clusters:

"There's a lot of activity around here. Like this aerobics class.

"I can swim, play tennis, aerobics, jog. I can stay in good physical shape just living at my own house.

"I've lived here 8 months and I've been an apartment dweller for several years. I looked at several other complexes, but they were all the same...just four walls, a bathroom and a kitchen. This one is quite different. It has all the other luxuries."

No other Midland apartment community combines a multitude of activities with truly luxurious living. Featuring your choice of decorator wall coverings, side-by-side icemaker refrigerators, built-in micro-waves, ceiling fans, dishwashers, washers and dryers, trash compactors, mini-blinds and French doors to patios/balconies.

Come and visit and you'll see why Debbie Allen says, "I would really hate to move from here...I love it."

"I'VE SEEN EVERY APARTMENT COMMUNITY IN MIDLAND."

"My feet hurt and my patience was wearing thin. I'd seen every apartment community in Midland, and none met my standards... until I discovered Oakridge Apartments. Just a little off the beaten trail, Oakridge has the quiet, private location I'd been looking for. Plus all the other extras I'd just about given up on. Like new construction, nice, friendly neighborhood appeal and superior amenities—indoor spa and sauna, clubhouse and pool, to name just a few—Oakridge is the greatest. I should know, I've seen them all."

1- and 2-bedroom and 2-bedroom studio apartment homes are available now. Take Loop 250 to N. Holiday Hill Road and look for the giant American flag.
