To Raise Money For New Piano At Notla Supper

A box supper will be held Friday night, March 18, at the Notla school house, where a variety program of local talent will be presented for entertainment.

Proceeds from the supper will be used to buy another piano to replace the one that was stolen at the school house a month ago.

One of the features of the evening will be a contest to select the ugliest man. Votes will be one cent each, and the man who wins this dubious distinction will receive a cake as his prize.

The box supper and program will begin at 8 p. m. The public is cordially invited.

Revival Meeting Starts Tuesday At Waka Church

Evangelistic meetings at the Waka Church of the Brethren will begin on Tuesday, March 15 and will close on Sunday, March 27, Rev. P. E. Rhine, pastor, has announced.

Rev. Harold R. Myers of Elkhart, Indiana, will conduct the meetings. Rev. Myers has been in evangelistic work in the East, but this spring has scheduled a number of evangelistic services in this section of the country.

He brings stirring Gospel messages, inspiring listeners to better Christian living.

Music will be in charge of the local congregation. The public is invited to join in worship at these services each evening.

Candidates for Mayor, Council File for Office

Three more candidates filed for city office before the deadline Saturday, giving local voters seven names on the ballot in the city election Tuesday, April 5.

Announcing for mayor are Charley Hobbs and Mark Burton, along with C. C. Carter, who entered the race two weeks ago.

G. T. Leatherman is a candidate for city alderman. He and Jim Anderson seek the places on the city council that will be open when the terms of Giltner LaMaster and Howard Holt expire next month.

No new candidates have filed for city clerk. M. M. Cudd seeks re-election and is opposed by Mrs. Charley Jackson.

Annual John Deere Day to be Held on Wednesday, March 16

Farmers and their families of the Perryton area have been invited to be guests of the Perryton Implement Co. at John Deere Day on Wednesday, March 16 Featured in the day's program will be a free noon meal and movies at the Ellis Theatre.

John Deere Day will start at 10:30 with an open house in the showroom and shop of the Perryton Implement Co. A new 14-ft. self propelled combine and the new Model R diesel tractor, largest John Deere has ever built, will be shown.

At noon, lunch will be served and at 1:30 p. m. the movies start at the Ellis. Feature picture is "The Sugar Plum Tree," starring Billie Burke and Don Wilson. It is a picture everyone will enjoy, built around a quiz program, where a cow, chickens, feed, a hen house, brooder house and other equipment are awarded to Miss Matilda Thorne and C. St. John Smith, a couple of feuding young people.

Other pictures are "Big Operations in the Wheat Country," "Guardians of the Harvest," and "Greener Pastures,' all of special interest to farmers and ranchers of this area.

John Deere Day has become somewhat of an institution for this section, and in pre-war days, crowds numbering 1,500 were common. Discontinued during the war years, the first post-war John Deere Day was held in Feb. 1947. A blizzard blew in on that day, and the weatherman repeated with another blizzard on the 1948 John Deere Day last year.

This time, co-owners Roy Stinson, John Bolin and Vernon Witt hope the weather will co-operate. They have arranged a good program, one that will be enjoyed by everyone, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Mennonites Open Spring Revival Sunday, March 13

J. W. Birky, evangelist from Pennsylvania, has been secured for the spring revival of the Mennonite church, it has been announced. The revival will begin on Sunday, March 13, and will continue through Sunday, March 27.

Mr. Birky is a relative of Mrs Emery Kauffman of the local Mennonite church. He has been conducting a series of meetings in California.

The Mennonite church, located at the corner of 4th avenue and S. Birch street, is extending a cordial invitation to the public to attend the revival meetings Each service will start at 7:30 p. m., stated R. L. Showalter, pastor.

Grade School Cage Tourney Set at Bethany

A basketball tournament for grade school boys and girls will open March 17 in the Bethany gymnasium with 12 boys teams and seven girls teams entered. The tournament will continue through Saturday night, with the finals and consolation games that night.

Boys teams entered include Hardesty, Beaver, Eureka, Forgan, Turpin, Balko, Beaver, Bethany, Grennough, Booker and Sunset and Eureka.

The first game starts Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and there will be games each afternoon and night for the three days.

County Farmers Receive $47,584 In ACA Payments

The year-end report of the Ochiltree ACA office reveals that $36,287.00 of a total of $47,584.80 has been paid to local farmers and ranchers who participated in the ACA soil conservation program for 1948. There were 345 farmers in the county participating in the program.

A breakdown of the payments shows the following conservation practices for 1948:

There were 29,985 feet of terraces constructed and 21,084 cubic yards of earth removed for total payments of $1,355.05.

Fifty acres of irrigation land were leveled at a cost of $50.

Forty-one livestock dams were constructed, and 90,292 cubic yards of earth removed—total payments, $6,317.24.

Three water wells were drilled —payments, $1,012.

School Census Means $55 For Each Child

Parents of school-age children are again reminded by superintendent Gilbert Mize that it is very important that all children of the district be included on the scholastic census which is now being taken. The state per capita aid of $55 is based on this census, and because of the increased enrollment and higher costs of operating the schools, it is necessary that no child be overlooked. Census blanks may be obtained at the school or at the Bell and Erickson office. Children who will be six years of age by September 1, and all children who will not be 18 years of age by September 1 are to be included.

'Gay 90's Review' Of Junior Class Monday Night

The "Gay Nineties Review" of the junior class will be presented Monday night, March 14, in the high school study hall at 7:30 p. m., featuring members of the junior class in songs and dances of yesteryear.

Proceeds from the review will go toward the annual junior-senior banquet.

A one-act pantomine, narrated by Harolyn Malone, with Jimmy Nelson, Earl Olmstead, Betty Hall, Jean Plummer and Beverly Hale.

Boys' Can-Can dance, with Earl Olmstead, Sonny Schnell, Jimmy Nelson, Curtis Leicht, Gary Conley and Richard Blacknore.

Girls' Can-Can dance with Diane Gerard, oan Sims, Jean Plummer, Betty Piersall, Danny Jean Mize and Rita Gale Smith.

Man Fined $100 And Costs on Liquor Charges

Floyd Kinder was fined $100 and costs on each of two liquor counts in county court this week, after having been arrested Friday by Sheriff Ray Phagan and J. T. Hill of the state liquor control board.

He was fined $100 and costs on a charge of possession of liquor for sale in a dry area and another $100 fine was levied on a charge of selling liquor in a dry area.

Sheriff Phagan stated that 19 pints of liquor were found in the taxi office where Kinder is employed. Three pints were found in some clothes hanging in a back room and another 16 pints were found in the juke box.

Fourteen Join Nat'l Guard at First Meeting

Fourteen men were sworn into the National Guard at the initial drill of Co. F, 142nd Inf., held Wednesday night, March 2. A number of others had completed enlistment papers but since they had not taken their physical examination, could not be sworn in at that time, stated Lt. Fountain Wade, company commander.

Several men from out-of-town phoned in that they could not be present for this first drill because of bad weather.

Drill nights have been set for each Wednesday at the VFW Hall. Others who are interested in joining the National Guard may inquire at the VFW hall on

Three School Board Men for Re-Election

The names of three candidates have been petitioned for the board of trustees of the Perryton Independent School District, while none have been submitted for the county school board.

A group of citizens has filed the names of S. D. Key, E. W. Hearn and L. D. Stinson for re-election to the Perryton school board. No other candidates have filed, reports Gilbert Mize, Perryton school superintendent.

The terms of J. H. Calliham from precinct 4 and B. H. Peckenpaugh precinct 2, expire this year on the county school board and no candidates have filed. Holdover members of this board are L. R. Conner, trustee-at-large J. H. Kershaw, precinct 1, and H. B. Urban, precinct 3.

Dates Set for Intramural Boxing Meet

Dates for the annual intramural boxing tournament of the Perryton schools have been set for March 21-22-24-25, coach Floyd Murry has announced. There will be approximately 20 bouts each night of the tournament in all weight classes.

Weighing and classification of the boys is being done this week, Murry stated. Daily training sessions for boys in all grades has been under way for two weeks.

The entry list is not as large this year as it has been for the past three years, Murry stated. The main reason for the decline is because some of the parents, especially parents of junior high school boys, have refused permission for their sons to participate.

During the three years of these intramural boxing tournaments there have been hundreds of bouts, and not one boy has been injured, stated Murry. All contestants box with the big 16-oz. gloves and all are taught the fundamentals of self defense before going into the ring.

The intramural boxing tournament annually attracts a full house for each of the nights. Last year there was a sell-out each night, and some had to be turned away the night of the finals.

Plan to Hold Dollar Day Once a Month

Dollar Days will begin in Perryton next month, with the first Dollar Day scheduled for Wednesday, April 6. At the meeting of local merchants Friday night, it was decided to hold a Dollar Day of values on the first Wednesday of each month.

Approximately 30 merchants attended the intial meeting, and decided to call the monthly event Dollar Day. Suggestions of prizes or drawings were discarded in favor of an old-fashioned bargain day, with prices on items lowered enough to make them real values.

Members of the retail merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce have been working this week, contacting other business firms to line up a varied selection of Dollar Day items.

JUST HERE and THERE

Quoting Joseph W. Frazer, president of Kaiser - Frazer. "You have to reach the people where they live if you want to sell anything . . . from automobiles to alabaster and nothing reaches people more intimately or more frequently than their favorite local newspaper. That's why newspaper advertising has always been the backbone of the advertising effort we of Kaiser-Frazer have made to introduce the first new automobiles in years to the American public. And, in these days of wide-spread prosperity, the people served by America's weekly newspapers represent a big proportion of our best friends and customers."

Our congratulations this week go to S. R. George who celebrated his 82nd birthday the other day. Sam and his good wife had many guests in their home during the day. Among those were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Haar, John Dieball, Ronald Dieball, Lawrence George and Jack Wooster. Sam. George

Billy D. Stone Killed, Two Others Injured in Car Wreck

Billy D. Sone of Perryton lost his life early Saturday morning when the car in which he was riding crashed into the rear of a truck parked on the Amarillo-Fritch highway. Milton Todd, Jr., and J. D. Ferguson were injured in the crash and both are still hospitalized.

The wreck took place at 1:30 a. m. Saturday seven miles north of Amarillo and involved the 1948 Frazer sedan driven by young Todd, who, with his companions was driving toward Amarillo. The truck, driven by Paul Thomas McWhorter of Amarillo, was parked on the highway, headed in the same direction. McWhorter was later fined $500 and costs in Potter county court on a charge of negligent homicide.

Investigating patrolmen stated the driver of the car apparently saw the truck too late to swing around the vehicle, and the car struck the left rear bed of the truck. After the impact, the car skidded and rolled down the highway, coming to a stop about 50 feet in front of the truck.

The entire body of the car was torn from the chassis, only the hood and one door remaining on the chassis.

Stone, who was killed instantly, received a fractured skull, crushed chest, fractured arm and lacerations. Todd received lacerations on his face and head. Ferguson suffered a fractured hand, cuts and bruises. Both Todd and Ferguson are recovering.

Joe Cantrell, state highway patrolman, stated that he had never seen a car so completely demolished. He said it is almost unbelieveable that anyone escaped alive.

Stone is survived by his wife, Vera; his father, Lois Stone of Perryton; his mother, Mrs. Lorene Stone of Ralls, a sister, Shirley of Ralls, and a brother, Bobby of Perryton. Services were held Sunday.

Todd, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Todd, is a member of the Army and is on leave from Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio. Ferguson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ferguson.

North Plains Concert Association Membership Drive Opens; To Continue Through Saturday

Ninety persons attended the launching of the North Plains Concert Association's membership campaign at a dinner in the Masonic Hall dining room Monday night.

Presiding at the meeting was Al Tremble, president, who explained that the association is a non-profit organization composed entirely of volunteer workers. All of the money taken in thru the sale of adult and student memberships remains with the local association and is used to pay the concert artists who will appear next fall.

The number of cencerts to be presented in Perryton depends upon the number of memberships sold. However, three concerts are guaranteed, regardless of the amount of money taken in.

No tickets will be sold at the door for these concerts, and admission will be by membership card only. The membership cards are transferable, however.

Adult memberships are $4.80 and student memberships are $2.80, including tax.

The concerts are booked thru the Lucius Pryor Concert Service of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Charles Thomas, representing the company, has been in Perryton for several weeks, along with Geri Regier, campaign director.

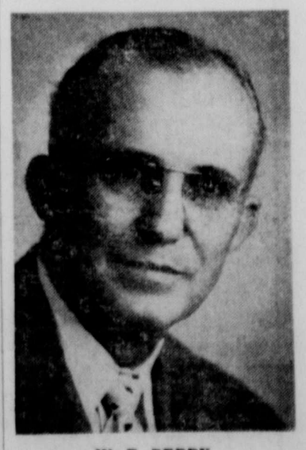

The membership drive began Tuesday morning and will end on Saturday, March 12, at 6 p. m. No memberships will be sold after that time, except to newcomers to Perryton.

Volunteer workers are contacting persons for membership, although the prospect list, which was taken from the telephone directory, is not complete. Those ffin 'Came West' In a Covered Wagon From ssouri to the Panhandle--It Was In 1915

FLOYD COFFIN
Rules Were Strict in the City

When you think of a family coming west in a covered wagon, hauling their worldly possessions behind a team of horses, you immediately think of the great westward marches of the middle 1800's, when settlers left their homes to push to new country.

That's the way postman Floyd Coffin came to the Plains country—but the year was 1915, when automobiles were several years removed from the curiosity stage and Floyd was eight years old.

He remembers their trip west very well.

The family was living near Ava, Missouri, where Floyd was born, when his father, T. H. Coffin, decided it was time to move. He was tired of Missouri farming and wanted to go to new country. So he sold the farm, the equipment, and much of the household furnishings, loaded his wife and five children in the covered wagon and set out for the west.

"The trip took six weeks," says Floyd. "We were started for San Antonio, but when we happened to pull into the small hamlet of Pampa, the trip was over. Dad liked the Plains."

Mr. Coffin liked the Plains so well that he's still here. Mr. and Mrs. Coffin now reside in Pampa, having retired from the farm south of Kingsmill where they first started farming western style in 1915.

For the Well-Dressed Golfer

(AP) Newsfeatures

NEW YORK—Here are two views of the gabardine slacks most of the pro golfers will be wearing on the fairways this spring.

The slacks have numerous special features and will be manufactured in six different colors by Tee-Off Inc.

They are pocketless on the front and sides but have two large patch pockets in the rear. On the left rear of the slacks are places for three golf balls and six tees. On the right rear are towel and pencil holders.

Both pockets are large enough to hold keys, wallets, scoreboard and cigarettes without interfering with your golf swing, good or bad.

WHAT IT MEANS:

North Atlantic Security Pact

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON—If the United States joins the union of Western European nations in a North Atlantic security pact, it will be taking its farthest step away from traditional American isolationism. Never before has this country joined European countries in a military defense agreement in time of peace. It has religiously followed George Washington's caution in his Farewell Address:

"It must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her (Europe's) politics, or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships, or enmities."

It was such a proposal which proved Woodrow Wilson's undoing when he sought to get this country to join the League of Nations. The Senate turndown was based primarily on Article X of the League Covenant, particularly the word "preserve".

"The Members of the League undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the League."

We have joined other American republics in defense agreements. We have linked ourselves with European nations in trade and economic pacts. But this Atlantic Union proposal is military and European. It would commit us morally to take part in World War III if it came. Its sponsors in Congress and in the State Department look upon it, however, as a measure to safeguard the peace. A strong commitment like this, followed by the necessary military preparations, would serve to deter an aggressor, they say, while disunion and unpreparedness on the part of the Western democracies might tempt a designing nation to seek a conquest.

George Washington's advice was sound, they say, but only as applied to the problems of his time. We have twice learned that we are inevitably drawn into any world war, they continue, and now we are faced with a new danger — the worldwide threat of Communism. The consequences of our joining the Atlantic Union are freely admitted by its sponsors:

1. It would mean increased military expenditures. Formation of the union would be an empty and dangerous gesture if each country did not strengthen its forces as much as possible. There would be mutual assistance, but most of it would inevitably come from the United States.

Estimates of the cost to us of military supplies for the Western nations in the first year range from $1,000,000,000 (B) to $3,000,000,000 (B).

Our own armed forces, say diplomatic sources, should not be weaker than planned in last year's military program. And some experts now say that the $15,00,000,000 defense budget which the President is said to contemplate would not provide money enough to make possible the expansion which was planned last year.

2. We would be committed to resist aggression in Europe. This doesn't mean that we would pledge ourselves to go to war, as that would be unconstitutional. We can go to war only when Congress has declared war.

It is likely, according to well informed officials, that the U. S. will agree to a pledge similar to that made with the American republics at Rio de Janeiro on Sept. 2, 1947. That agreement provided that "an armed attack by any state against an American state shall be considered as an attack against all American states." And in case of attack, all the nations would immediately join for consultations as to the next step.

The idea of U. S. armed resistance to foreign colonization or invasion of any indepedent Western Hemisphere nation is not new. It was implicit in the doctrine which President Monroe laid down in his message to Congress in 1823. It was broadened in the Act of Chapultepec in 1945, when the American Republics as a group agreed to look upon an attack against any of them as an attack upon all. It was this act which Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the foreign relations committee, sought to preserve when he was helping to draw up the charter of the United Nations. He and others there insisted that the charter include a statement that the United Nations endorsed regional arrangements.

Such a regional arrangement for the Western Hemisphere was later formalized in the Reciprocal Assistance Treaty at Rio de Janeiro.

If the U. S. joins the Atlantic Union, and if some nation invades one of the member nations within the next two years, the people of this country would have no further chance to express their opinion as to the issue of peace or war. It would be up to Congress to implement the agreement: and a new Congress will not be elected until 1950.

Diplomatic officials say, however, that the people have expressed widespread approval of such a pact in letters and editorials. They add that public opinion detectors find that the public's chief concern is over the cost in dollars and the effect on taxes. Both major parties included in their platforms in the last campaign an endorsement of the principle of the Atlantic Union.

Bull-fighting is a survival of the ancient Roman wild beast shows.

CAMERA NEWS

By IRVING DESFOR

We've seen an unprecedented snowfall in the mid and far west this winter; in the east a couple of ski tournaments had to be cancelled due to lack of snow.

But undoubtedly the right amount of snow will fall in the right places and tempt the camera fans into action. It transforms familiar scenes into new picture material that is worth the extra effort to go after. It brings on new activities, especially with children, that deserve a place in the family album.

Snow acts as a wonderful reflector so you can shoot a bit faster or close your shutter down another stop. The effect is similar to shooting a beach or water scene in summertime. It enables box cameras with slow film to get good exposures. An average snow scene on a sunny day with people in the foreground could be shot at 1/100th of a second at f/11.

'HEY POP—Your turn to shovel'

The texture of the snow s best rendered with side or back lighting. But be sure you have an adequate lens shade to prevent glare hitting the lens. A lens shade is protection, too, should snow be falling. Holding a paper above, but out of range of, the lens will keep the flakes from looming too large in the finished picture.

A medium yellow filter is best for most scenes which include the sky. But if the sky is a deep blue you can do without it. A polaroid filter is handy when shooting an icy surface against the light to eliminate glare.

Scattered black masses of trees, shrubs or buildings can be a distraction. It's better to come in close and use a dark branch to frame a winter scene. The long shadows of early morning or late day can enhance the texture of the snow scene, especially if there are ripples or ridges.

Any trace of oil or moisture in the shutter can freeze in extreme cold and gum up the works.

Don't blow snow flakes off the lens . . . the moisture in your breath is just as bad. Use lens tissues or a small bulb syringe. It's best to keep the camera in the trunk compartment of the car rather than in the heated interior before taking it out in the cold. Any sudden change of temperature is bad for the gears and innards of precision cameras but the box cameras don't seem to mind it at all.

I have to go now, folks. That whooping and hollering you hear in the distance are my youngsters out front with the sled. And it makes a pretty picture.

Services Held In Muleshoe for Mrs. Ellen Black

Beaver's Tail In the Soup For Trappers

(AP) Newsfeatures

MASARDIS, Me. — Modern methods finally have caught up with the cooking of a dish which 81-year-old trapper Bert Pollard claims is one of the oldest truly American delicacies — Indian beaver tail soup—on an oil-burning stove now, instead of the beech or maple coals he used to favor.

Beaver tail soup isn't often found in the average household diet, but Pollard says it was a standby in his home during his childhood. His father taught him how to make it when Pollard was five.

Once, when Pollard and Hosea Sawyer were trapping in Blackwater Stream wilderness, they subsisted on the soup while they wintered in for about two months.

Pollard's recipe?

Assuming you can find a beaver tail, scald it with hot water till you can peel off the skin. Scrape the meat till it's white. Boil slowly in a deep kettle two hours or more. Add two tablespoons of seasoning, any vegetable and a batch of dumplings. Serve very hot.

Racing Plane is Spare Time Job

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — A sleek, all-metal racing monoplane, so tiny that you can taxi it between parking meters along the average city street, or store it in the family garage, is the brainchild of David A. Long, 34, year-old chief designer at the Piper-Stinson Aircraft factory here.

The plane, which put $1,000 in prize money in Long's pocket at the All-American air races in Miami, was built by Long and a group of Williamsport technical school students working at night in their spare time.

Powered with a 90-horsepower engine, the sleek "Midget Mustang," as Long calls the plane, can cruise at 170 miles an hour and can top 200 miles an hour when the throttle is pushed aganst the firewall.

Long, a veteran of the Army Transport Command, squeezed his lanky frame into the tiny cockpit when he and the students gave the four cyclinder, in-line engine its last test. He pushed ahead the throttle and took off, so confident that the drawings were O. K. that he passed up the usual ground tests. Long flew the ship to Miami, copped the prize money, then returned home by train. An admiring pilot bought the plane out from under him.

The plane, with its V-type landing gear, manually-operated flaps and low landing speed now will be built commercially for sportsmen pilots and businessmen who want a fast single-place plane for business and pleasure. It will sell in the less-than-$5,000 class.

Black List Stops Drinking

ST. PETER PORT, Guernsey (AP)—Guernsey men say the finest cure for drunkenness is the "black list."

That is simply a list of men—and women—who must not be served with alcoholic drinks on the 16,000 square mile island. And anyone disregarding it and selling or giving a drink to a listed person is liable to $200 fine or six months' imprisonment. It's a medieval practice that works so well it's been preserved.

Cheif Inspector John Bannerville of the Guernsey civil investigation department quoted one man black listed for the last two years:

"It is impossible for me to get a drink on this island now. No one dares serve me; no one ever dreams of asking me to have a drink.

Some are black-listed voluntarily; others are listed on magistrates' orders for excessive drunkeness.

Those on the black list are photographed holding a blackboard on which is written his name and age and the period for which he is blacklisted. The sentence records that he is on the black list for a period varying from one year to life.

Then copies of the pohotgraph are sent to every hotel and bar proprietor on the island. It must not be exhibited but every proprietor must keep it near his car for quick reference.

Rotarians Will Honor Prexy In Odessa

ANGUS S. MITCHELL

ODESSA (Special) — Rotarians from more than half-a-hundred West Texas communities will converge on Odessa March 15 when the Rotary club's international president will be welcomed at a special program and barbecue dinner.

Angus Mitchell of Melbourne, Australia, international president of one of the world's top civic organizations, will make Odessa his only stop in District 127. Members from each of the 40 clubs in the district have been invited, along with representatives from other Texas and New Mexico areas.

Mitchell has been a Rotarian in Melbourne since 1927 and has served as district governor, international director and honorary trustee of the Rotary foundation.

A native of Shanghai, China, the Rotary president was raised and educated in Australia. He was a co-founder in 1905 of the firm of Mitchell and Bellair, which later became Mitchell, Bellair and Lees, grain and mercantile brokers of Melbourne and Liverpool, England.

A large crowd is expected at the program at which Mitchell will receive his first taste of barbecued beef, Texas style served by the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang.

Camera Aids Judges

For Beauty and Abundance Lay Out Garden This Way

Most home gardeners will agree that even a flower border is no more beautiful than a precisely laid-out vegetable plot, with crops growing in straight parallel rows, squared with plot boundaries, without a weed to be seen.

Not only beauty, but efficiency is gained by such a layout. One quick trip with a wheel hoe down the straight aisle between two rows will destroy hundreds of weed sprouts, in a fraction of the time required to cultivate a disorderly garden.

Rows should be spaced with varying distances between them, depending on two factors: The needs of the crop, and the convenience of cultivation. In rich soil vegetables may be spaced more closely than in poor; but when spaced too close together, it is difficult to cultivate between the rows.

Crops growing twelve inches tall or less may be spaced 10 inches to a foot apart if cultivated with hand tools. For a wheel hoe, eighteen inches is likely to be found a minimum distance to avoid disturbing the roots of the vegetables.

Taller vegetables, and those that make vines, large bushes, or have a sprawling habit, must be given more distance between rows. In small gardens, 4 feet will usually be the maximum distance, given only for such crops as bush squash and cucumbers.

After you know where the rows are to be, a line should be stretched to mark the first row.

Some gardeners use a straight, narrow board as a ruler to mark the row. A heavy cord wound on an iron reel is handy, but any strong cord stretched between two stakes will do.

Using the corner of a hoe, draw in the soft soil a shallow trench with this line as a guide. This is known as a drill. Some prefer to use the end of the hoe handle rather than the corner of the blade. Others have small hoes which they like; but it is more a matter of touch than the tool.

The End of a Rake or Hoe Handle Will Make a Shallow Drill.

For small seeds such as radishes, onions, carrots, lettuce, and endive, a drill half an inch deep is enough. A little deeper for beets and Swiss chard, and an inch for peas, beans and sweet corn will be sufficient. Shallow sowing is preferred nowadays in the cool, moist spring, but make drills a little deeper when hot weather comes.

Ranger Band Club to Meet Monday Night

Rome Utilities Causes Headaches

ROME (AP)—If Signor Giuseppe Rossi and his lady are grumpy and short-tempered these days the state of their city's utilities may be partly to blame. There is not enough electric power to go aorund, and gas is low.

The result, in terms of the effects upon Mr. and Mrs. Average Roman:

Signor Rossi finds his place of work dark from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. two days each week. If he works in one of Rome's countless electric-powered shops, his machines are idle during those periods. Even on the days he has power, the current is so low and variable that much appartus refuses to function. He dare not ride elevators: all too often, they get stuck. The electrically-propelled omnibuses and streetcars on which he rides to work are fewer these days; those left are overcrowded. His favorite cafe may have no coffee, if it has no power to heat its pots.

Signora Rossi, if she cooks with electricity, also has the two powerless days to worry about. If she cooks with gas, she finds pressure often too low to boil water. If gas heats the hot water for her bathroom, as it does in many Rome houses, she and her family must bathe in cold, most days.

Stores are required to close early to save current. Their radio is so faint, often, that it is imperceptible; their phonograph turns out noises like "braaaaw." Theaters are reduced to 60 per cent of their average consumption—which means one or more shows fewer each day.

Signora Rossi is now ordered to read her own power meters, and make sure she uses less electricity than she did last fall. This means she must take her bills for September and October, add the totals, divide by nine to get the weekly average, and figure out how much current she may use to stay 15 per cent below last fall's average consumption for lights and 35 per cent below that for other purposes. She must, too, post the figures beside her meters, and submit to weekly spot checks.

If she fails to do all that, woe unto her. She may have her power cut off. Or she may be fined.

House guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Herndon this week are Mr. and Mrs. Clay Stephens of Rome, New York.

These Cliches the Movies Could Do Without; Recognize Them?

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD — More cliches the movies will be better off without:

The gum-chewing telephone operator cries in a Brooklyn accent, "Gee, Mabel, what a party!" . . . The stage-door attendant is a pipe-puffing old character called "Pop . . . The court clerk, a creaking clown, swears in witnesses at a mile a minute: "Do-you-solemnly-swear-to-tell-da-troot-da-whole-troot-an'-nuttin-but-da-troot?" . . .

The heavy throws a drink into the hero's face. The hero says grimly, "You shouldn't have done that." . . . The reluctant conspirator says, "I don't like this, I tell you." . . . The radio producer looks at his wristwatch and tells his engineer, "Stand by—one minute to go."

In the close-up, with swords locked, the duelists glare at each other long and hard . . . Several pals are breezing along in a jaloppy. You know they're happy because they're singing, probably off key . . .

A four-piece orchestra plays. But from the sound track comes the melody of 25 instruments . . . The hero sings to his own guitar accompaniment. From nowhere, harps, fiddles, and trumpets join in . . . The hero doesn't walk across the room and out the door. He pauses, hand on knob, and says, "And I really mean it." . . . Somebody scribbles briefly with a pen. He holds up what he has written, and it's as long as the Gettysburg Address . . .

The reporter excitedly shouts his news in headline form over the telephone to the city editor. Off duty, he slouches around the heroine's apartment with his shoes off, eating celery or getting soused. Photographers take flash pictures without bothering to focus.

The chief of homicide detectives is represented as a cigar-chewing dunce who couldn't find his way out of the Holland Tunnel. Lawyers shout and shake their fingers at witnesses.

The heroine is on the witness stand. The district attorney glares at her and demands, "Do you love this man?" He shakes his finger at the hero, seated glumly at the counsel table. She is under oath. There has been a big misunderstanding between the lovers. Her answer will clear it up and thank heaven, end the picture. Looking her man squarely in the eye, she says, "Yes." Reporters rush for the phones and photographers snap the lovers, now embracing in front of the jury. The old judge raps his gavel and says with misty eye, "Case dismissed." The End.

Bethany Wins Over Balko 26-22 Friday Night

Bethany high school made it three in a row over Balko in their basketball rivalry this season, taking a 26-22 decision Friday night in the Bethany high school gym before a capacity crowd.

Balko was in the lead, 13-10, at the half, but a second half rally by Bethany whittled away that lead.

High point man for the evening was Ollenberger of Bethany with 13 points. Sargent of Balko made 8 points to lead his team.

Starting lineup for Bethany was James and Ollenberger, forwards, Kliewar, center, Unruh and Tice, guards. For Balko, Wilson and Bartel started at forwards, Neufeld, center, Kinsey and Sargent, guards.

Other games of the evening were a grade school girls' game with Balko winning 24-10, and the Balko Independents won over Bethany, 35-26.

Southwestern Life Increases Insurance to $697 Million

In 1948 the people of Texas increased their life insurance with Southwestern Life Insurance Company to $697,208,140, James Ralph Wood of Dallas, president, announced in releasing the Company's 46th annual financial statement to policyowners. This was an increase during last year of $56,341,122.

He stated that inasmuch as Southwestern Life is wholly a Texas company, with every director and its more than 800 employes and agents living and working in Texas, this evidence of the confidence and good will of the more than 245,000 Texas citizens who are now numbered among the Company's policyowners was especially gratifying.

During last year more than $8,300,000 was paid to the owners of the Company's policies and to their beneficiaries.

The assets of Southwestern Life increased $19,239,813.75 during 1948 to a total of $179,601,941.91, enabling the Company to close the year in the strongest financial position in its history.

The largest increase in any of its investments was in loans made on Texas real estate, raising its holdings of such loans to an all-time high of $38,689,534.87.

Mr. Wood stated that Southwestern Life had a larger proportion of agents who had qualified for the Texas Leaders Round Table, an honorary organization of the Texas Association of Life Underwriters, than any other company. He said this was due to the high calibre of men selected to represent the Company and to the carefully organized and continuing program of instruction maintained for them.

Red Cross Campaign Is Going Well

Although no tabulations have yet been made of the returns, the 1949 Red Cross drive in Ochiltree county is progressing "very satisfactorily," according to the county campaign committee. The drive will continue through March 31.

A complete list of donors will be published at the completion of the drive.

Letters have been mailed to every resident of the county appearing in the recently published city and county directory, but in case these letters did not reach all residents, contributions may be mailed to the Ochiltree Red Cross Chapter or left at either of the Perryton banks.

Legion Steps Up Membership Drive

The Legion membership drive was accelerated this week, with a membership crew making personal solicitations in order to meet the 1949 quota by March 19, date of the American Legion's 30th birthday.

The membership committee is composed of Arch Talley, O. P. Graves, Robert Barlow, Virgil Olmstead, Walter LaMaster, Mark Boehning and John Stubblefield.

Dues may be paid to any of these men or left at the following offices: County ACA office in the courthouse, the county service office in the courthouse annex, Sibley Jines and Son, Stewart Printing Co., Perryton National Bank and W. B. LaMaster Realty Co.

Army Manuvers Watched By Germans

LANGEN, Germany (AP)—Winter maneuvers of America's occupation troops along the Rhine have the Germans goggle-eyed.

Big dun-colored trucks, trundling artillery pieces behind them, swing through a village and everybody turns out to watch.

Omnipresent small boys turn such visits into a carnival and worried hausfraus yank them away from curbstone positions.

Sometimes younger men watch the long columns of motorized troops with a quiet bitterness. Memories are still fresh in their minds.

Down narrow village lanes the women hang out of windows to watch U. S. armed might roll into position and it's plain they are impressed.

Watching from a tiny bridge a fraulein squealed:

"Ach himmel! The guns!" Her companion was busy smiling at a soldier who tossed a quick wink in her direction.

Commanding officers of "Exercise Snowdrop" have impressed upon troops that the German population is not to be inconvenienced in any way. Troops will not trespass, dig foxholes, fire guns, or enter German houses.

And so, as the trucks rumble through town, it becomes a sort of showpiece on wheels for watching Germans.

Start Spading Garden as Soon as Soil Crumbles

If you want your garden plot to be well prepared, spade it yourself. Weeks may slip by waiting for a plowman to do a job which, by the proper approach, can be reduced to enjoyable and beneficial exercise.

The secret is to take it easy. Spading is not hard work if done a little at a time. A space 30x50 feet can be spaded in a leisurely way in eight hours. One hour a day for eight days, and the job is done.

But first, be sure the soil is in condition to spade. Never work soil which is too wet; and if the soil is heavy, don't wait until it has become too dry. There is a point between extremes when even heavy clay can easily be lifted, and will crumble under a blow from the spade. You can tell this point by using the "mud pie" test.

Mould a ball of earth in your hand, and pat it to make a mud pie. If the pie holds together, the soil is too wet to spade. If it crumbles, then you can go ahead.

Systematic spading makes the job easier, and more complete. Here is one way to do it: Set a definite task for your first day's work, say a strip six feet wide, running the shortest dimension of the garden. At one end dig a ditch, say one foot wide and the depth of the spade, removing all soil from it. Pile this soil near the opposite end of the strip.

Now begin to spade with the blade not parallel to the trench, but at right angles to it. This enables you to lift the soil more easily, and deposit it in the trench. The spade should be driven down, not on a slant, but perpendicularly to its full depth. Take a small slice of the soil so your back is not strained. Lift it up, turn the spade over, so that the top soil falls underneath and bottom soil on top. In filling the first trench, you have opened a second.

If you wish to spade under manure, spread it evenly over the area, except for the top of your initial trench. When this first trench has been dug, clean the manure from the top of the next trench and throw it into the bottom of the first; then proceed with your spading, piling the soil on top of the manure.

When you have finished your day's quota, you will have an empty trench, which should be filled with the soil you removed from the initial trench.

When Soil Crumbles in the Hand, It Is Dry Enough to Work.

Drive the Spade Straight Down, Full Length, for Best Results.

What It Means:

Atom Ages Effect on Education

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON (AP) — It isn't enough to learn how to make atomic bombs. You also have to learn how to live with them.

That, in general, is the conclusion of a lot of educators in colleges and universities who are trying to remold educational standards to fit the atomic age.

How they are doing it is described in the forthcoming issue of "Higher Education," a publication of the Federal Security Agency. The Agency's Office of Education queried colleges and universities and received 500 replies.

Results of the survey are described in an article by Dr. Claude E. Hawley, associate chief for social sciences, division of higher education.

It was found that about 100 of the institutions are taking drastic steps to adapt their courses to the new force. As Dr. Hawley expresses it, they "are impressed with the weighty obligations of educators to help unravel some of the horrible and fascinating problems newly created."

(The pedagogues' awareness of the problem, however, was by no means unanimous. Of the 500 colleges replying to the questionnaire, 400 indicated that the coming of the atomic age had affected their activities only incidentally.)

One of the most striking developments is the effect on training in engineering and other technical professions. Some of the faculties are requiring their students to acquire a much more general education so that they can understand their new problems and responsibilities.

The State University of Iowa requires its engineering students to take twice as many courses in the social sciences and humanities as it formerly did. Many others have made similar changes or are considering them.

On the other hand, many schools are requiring their liberal arts students, the ones who are specializing in general education, to take more physical and natural science courses. Some have developed new non-technical courses on atomic energy for the benefit of students with little scientific background.

The teaching of all the social sciences in many of the schools is being revised. Students are being told about the probable social implications of atomic energy and of the social effects of new atomic inventions that are likely to come.

Economic aspects of the new power are studied. And in political science there is increasing emphasis on the problem of control of atomic weapons.

In some teachers' colleges future professors are being prepared to guide the next generation through the thorny new atomic frontiers.

Some theological schools have added new courses on religion and science. Courses in philosophy stress the moral aspects of the development of atomic energy. One professor of religion wrote:

"A renewed emphasis on the need for human brotherhood and the break-down of segregations of minority groups has come into our teaching with the arrival of the atomic bomb."

"Virtually every institution reporting a change due to recent atomic energy developments," Dr. Hawley related, "indicated that the content of existing courses had been altered to include some discussion, if not formal units, on the new phenomena.

"As one respondent said: 'I doubt that we can name one course that has been added. I doubt that we can name one course that is not affected.' "

Fire Prevention Pays Off

ELLSWORTH, Mich. (AP)—Because old Peter Wieland believes in getting in the first punch, the village of Ellsworth hasn't had a fire in nearly three years.

Wieland, the 74-year-old fire chief of this tiny northwestern Michigan community explains it this way:

"Fighting fires is like boxing —the fellow that gets in the first hard punch usually wins. A small fire is easier to put out than a big one, and preventing one is easiest of all. That's what we've been trying to do in Ellsworth—prevent fires."

Although Chief Wieland's aim is by no means unique, people of the village of Ellsworth proudly think his record is.

The last time this community of 550 population had a fire was May 9, 1946. That was 33 months ago. The village credits Wieland's hard work, caution, and planning.

The fire department carefully burns grass in all vacant lots each spring to prevent damaging grass fires. To eliminate possible fire sources in homes or office buildings, the whole town enthusiastically pitches in with fire inspections; and then, if hazards are found, Wieland sees that the owners do something about them. As a guard against the day when their record inevitably ends, Wieland and his crew keep their fire-fighting equipment in top shape.

Hobbs to Show New Crysler On Friday

The Hobbs Motor Co., local Chrysler and Plymouth dealers, will hold the first showing of the "Silver Anniversary" Chrysler models Friday, March 11. This year marks the completion of a quarter century of the Chrysler corporation.

It is understood that Chrysler will show more changes in design and engineering than in any previous model.

Among other things, the car has been made considerably more roomy in its passenger compartment, and it has four inches more wheelbase. Yet it is shorter overall, narrower and lower than its immediate predecessor.

The most notable changes in the Chrysler line are the new headlights, which have a bulls eye lens to give more light and cut down glare. The starter button has been eliminated through the use of a combined ignition and starter switch operated by the ignition key.

For the protection of passengers riding in the front seat, a safety cushion is installed at the top of the instrument panel. This cushion, which curves completely around the front of the car, is made of thick sponge rubber, leather covered.

Open house will be held all day Friday in order that the public may inspect the new Chrysler, stated Charley Hobbs, owner.

Puts Message Inside Fresh Egg

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—If you know a hen's egg-assembly line layout you can put messages inside chicken eggs — before the eggs are laid. Dr. Robert E. Phillips, head of the department of poultry husbandry at Iowa State College, has been doing it for years.

Dr. Phillips, who has surprised friends with greetings or congratulatory messages sent inside freshly laid eggs, says anyone can do it. All you need is to be handy with a scapel and know the inner workings of a live hen.

You simply substitute the message for the regular yolk at the precise moment the yolk starts its journey toward becoming an egg, Dr. Phillips explained. The hen does the rest.

Best results are obtained by placing the message in a container smaller than the egg yolk, Dr. Phillips said.

Deflationary London Note

LONDON (AP)—The London Zoo now values its common frogs and toads at threepence apiece (five cents).

A year ago it put them at sixpence.

The shrinkage was disclosed in a report on the zoo's year-end stocktaking.

This showed 6,337 birds, mammals, reptiles and fish worth 85,577 pounds (358,308 dollars).

Included were a common hippopotamus and a black rhinoceros at 2,000 pounds each ($8,000).

Georgia Ann and Mary Gertnser of Dodge City and John and Edward Inglnert of Spearville, Kansas were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dragoun and family.

Burton Files For Mayor

Mark Burton of the Triple Supply has authorized the Herald to announce his candidacy for the office of mayor, City of Perryton.

Friends have urged him to run for the office, since he plans to retire from active business in the near future and will be able to devote most of his time to the office of mayor, if elected.

Mark Burton was born and reared 25 miles northwest of Perryton. He has been in business in Perryton since 1936, when he joined the Key Electric Co. Later this firm became a partnership and the name was changed to Key and Burton.

Last year the name was changed to Triple Supply when S. D. Key sold his interest and Bill Parker and Joe Watson became partners.

Burton is an active worker in the Baptist church and is a member of the Rotary Club.

He is worthy of the consideration of every voter when they go to the polls in the city election on Tuesday, April 5.

Drove School Bus

Floyd worked on the farm while he went to school in Kingsmill and after he finished grade school there, entered high school in Pampa. For the last three years of high school, he drove a school bus to pay his school expenses. It was on this school bus route that he met a student—Miss Vida Mae Woodworth—who in later years became Mrs. Floyd Coffin. She was the daughter of station agent J. W. Woodworth, who later became agent at Perryton.

Floyd didn't have time to play football or basketball while in high school, but he did have time to do some running while doing the chores around the farm, and he became the school's best mile and a half runner on the Pampa high school track team. Another well-known miler in those days was Jim Hayden, who is now an Ochiltree county farmer. He was then in Panhandle high school.

"We had plans to run a mile race to see which one was the best," says Floyd. "But Jim broke a leg before the race ever came off and we never got around to it."

He finished Pampa high school in 1928, and for the next year drove the school bus. In July, 1929, he took the civil service examination for postal clerk, and on October 1, 1929, he started to work in the Pampa office. He's been a postman ever since.

On November 20, 1929, after he had landed this good job, he was married to Miss Vida Mae Woodworth. They now have two daughters, Carol Ann, age 4, and Gloria Mae, age 2.

"I thought I was going to be a clerk when I started to work," he says. "But I was put out on a city route and learned to carry the mail first."

Six Years a Carrier

This city carrier job lasted for six years in Pampa and Floyd still hadn't gotten to be a clerk. Since it seemed as if he wasn't going to make the grade at Pampa, he arranged a transfer with a clerk in Jefferson City, Mo. In October, 1935, Mr. and Mrs. Coffin moved to Missouri.

Here he learned the difference between a small and large post office. In Jefferson City, they went strictly by regulations and mistakes weren't tolerated. There were inspectors located inside the building on a "catwalk" where they could observe the clerks while remaining unobserved themselves. There were checks and counterchecks on a man's work. Alawys in the background was the "demerit" system, whereby a man could be dismissed if he had as many as 750 in a year.

Floyd learned to abide strictly by the regulations and did as he was told by his supervisors. Employees had to, or lose their jobs.

He learned to handle the mail, though. In five tests he took, he "threw" 4,796 cards into cases, missed only eight and averaged throwing 55 per minute. This is considered good, even in Jefferson City.

"Working in the impersonal, strictly regulated atmosphere of the Jefferson City post office made it hard on me when I came to Perryton," Floyd says. "Up there, we were forbidden to do anything for the patrons that wasn't covered in the postal regulations."

"Such things as looking thru the mail in the back of the office for a person's letters that he would receive later in the day, anyhow, was strictly against regulations. In Perryton, I found this sort of thing was expected."

He worked in Jefferson City for six years, until November, 1941. While he liked the work all right, he wasn't too fond of the hours. They worked around the clock, and in those six years, he never had a good daytime shift. For the first three years, he worked from 11:30 p. m. to 8 a. m., then changed to 4 a. m. to noon shift.

Back to Texas

In October, 1941, after having wanted to get back to the Texas Panhandle where his parents and wife's parents lived, he worked out a transfer with Floyd Cox of the Perryton office. The deal was that Cox would go to Lohman, Mo., a man in Lohman would go to Jefferson City, and Floyd would come to Perryton.

This all worked out all right for everybody concerned. At least Floyd says he's satisfied.

Even if it was a change from the city way of doing things, Floyd says he has enjoyed his work in the Perryton office. In fact, he's high in his praise of the postal department in the way he's been treated for the past 19 years.

"I haven't a single complaint to make," he says. "I've been very satisfied in every respect working in the post office. I like the work, the pay is all right, and I expect to keep on until I retire."

We'll bet he does, too.

have an opportunity to discover the presence of the disease at the earliest possible moment. Since the symptoms are often so vague that the patient is unaware of having pyorrhea," Dr. Cox said, "regular visits to the family dentist are extremely important in the control of this disease."

The treatment of pyorrhea is not an involved procedure. In the average early case one of the main therapeutic features is the proper hygienic care of teeth and gums as outlined by any reputable dentist. Carelessness regarding mouth hygiene is usually the basic cause for the condition.

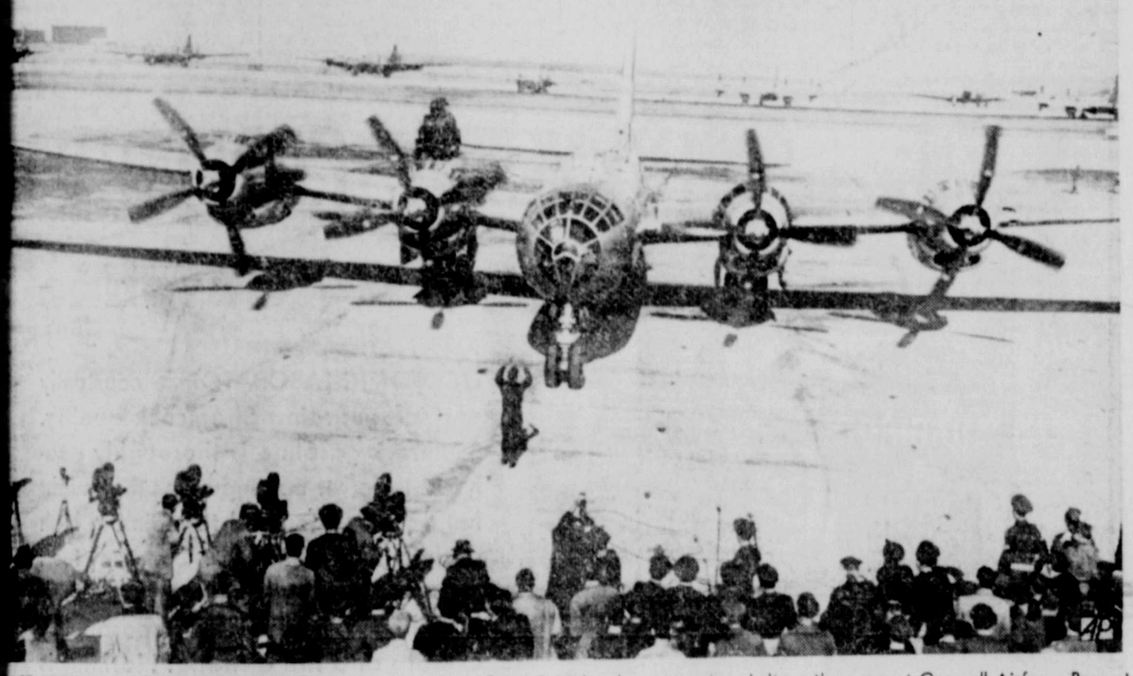

The family dentist can usually remove the cause of the trouble, Dr. Cox said, and when this has been done, intelligent routine care of the mouth by the patient will help to effect a fairly quick cure in the majority of early cases.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McMillen have spent the past six weeks visiting in Albuquerque, New Mexico, where they visited in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Mood McMillen and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barbour. CHURCHES GO HOLLYWOOD: Produce a Commercial Film

(AP) Newsfeatures

The churches are the latest to "go Hollywood" by producing full-length movies for public showings in commercial theaters. The new Swedishmade film, "I Am With You," is the first to be produced under religious auspices and shown commercially. Sponsored in this country by the Religious Film Association, Inc., interdenominational agency of major Protestant groups, the movie tells the story of a a young Swedish pastor who becomes a missionary in Africa. Accompanied by his wife and young son, he begins ihs mission work happily. Soon, however, the son dies of a snake bite. The wife loses heart and succumbs to malaria. The pilings up of personal tragedy proves a strain on the young missionary's faith but as the result of a convert's example it emerges with new strength and purity.

MEETING HIS FLOCK: Helge, the young pastor (right center) appars before the congregation. The role is played by Rune Lindstrom, top-flight Swedish star. Most of the film was shot in Africa.

TRAGEDY STRIKES: First the boy dies and then the wife is fatally stricken. In a touching burial scene Helge stands alone with his congregation.

MISSIONER'S RETURN: Helge leaves the mission. Then a young African woman asks him to rush her injured husband to the hospital. Seeing her faith in time of crisis restores his own zeliefs.

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 13.

The Golden Text is: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Hebrews 11:1).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy" (I Timothy 6:17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Paul and John had a clear apprehension that, a mortal man achieves no worthy honors except by sacrifice, so he must gain heavenly riches by forsaking all worldliness" (page 459).

Who Lifts the Check for "Operation Snowfight"?

Now that the states between the Missouri and Rockies have dug themselves out from the packed snows of a three-months' blizzard, the vouchers for the job are pouring in. Here, as in so many other places, there stands out the striking contrast between the way government treats the railroads and the way it treats rival methods of transportation. The railroads did their own snow-plowing, ice-blasting and ditch-digging—with their own equipment and at their own expense—while opening up the highways for the trucks was done by government at the taxpayers' expense. The cost of the railroads' snow-fighting will have to be reflected in their rates and fares—or in deficiencies in net income. But the cost of clearing the roads for the trucks will not appear in the charges for truck transportation—instead it will be concealed in higher taxes which everybody will pay.

What the railroads' expense will total, no one yet knows exactly. Roadmasters and superintendents and their staffs are still trying to catch up on their sleep. One major railroad with a network of lines in the blizzard area estimates that, from November 18 to date, sleet and snow have cost it well over $1 million in direct costs of clearing the line, retrieving equipment and repairing communications, exclusive of loss of revenues, claims for delays and damage, and added rental on freight cars blocked by drifts. This same road spent more than $45,000 just to open up a relatively unimportant 45-mile branch, or $1,000 a mile. It probably would have been cheaper to suspend operation, waiting for the snow to melt, but that kind of economy does not gee with the railroads' sense of public obligation. A neighboring road is unofficially reported to have spent $3 million to $3.5 million out-of-pocket in opening its lines in the area . . .

It just happens, without any reason or logic to explain, that a tradition has grown up which piles all the costs of railroad service upon the rates which railroad patrons must pay, while it has become an accepted custom with other kinds of transportation to shift a large part of the cost to the taxpayer.

As a matter of fact, from present indications, none of the users of the highways (that is, none of the payers of levies on gasoline and license tags) will be called upon to pay the extraordinary costs of the recent blizzard—because, this time, it looks as if general state and federal appropriations will account for most of the extraordinary expense. Home-owners and farmers and other payers of taxes on property and income will thus be the principal contributors to defraying an expense which is an integral part of the cost of conveying goods by highway.

From its beginning at the end of January through February 18, "Operation Snowbound" cleared more than 62,000 miles of highway in Nebraska, Wyoming and South Dakota. Still further sums were expended by the Department of the Interior on its own account. Finally, the state themselves, from general revenues have paid out enormous amounts for "relief," a sizeable portion of which went for road clearance. Nebraska, for example, authorized at least $500,000 for this purpose, and Wyoming, $1 million.

All agencies which fought this disaster did the job together, without counting the cost or reckoning who was going to pay it—which is just the way it should have been done. One or two railroads were able to use a few Army road machines for line clearance though they were only a small fraction of the total railway effort. The railroads, in turn, aided "Operation Snowbound" by running special trains to move government and contractors' machinery to points of attack on highway blockades.

One railroad, we hear, saved the Army "terrific expense and delay" by handling cars of emergency hay direct to ranch areas—not just to stations—and railroad maintenance-of-way employees distributed it, some 7,000 tons having been so handled in one district alone, in lieu of the Army's "haylift" by air. Meats and other foods were "peddled" from way cars on numerous railroad lines. Railroad service rendered to relieve human or animal suffering were, for the most part, "on the house."

This paper in no way seeks to becloud the credit due any of the agencies which bore the brunt of this blizzard and aided the people and their livestock in stricken areas. The physical job was shared equitably and performed well by all concerned. But not that the bills must be paid it would not be amiss to call attention to the fact that as far as transportation agencies go, railroad service would be much "cheaper" than it now is if part of the cost of railroad service could be concealed in people's tax bills.

Babson Discusses Wages

ROGER W. BABSON, Editor-in-Chief

Babson Park, Fla., Mar. 4. The cost-of-living is definitely declining. This especially applies to food supplies, but is also shown by the mark-down sales of clothing, underwear, shoes and other things. Cars of various makes can be secured with immediate delievery; and it is estimated that before the year is over one may buy any car "off the floor", with the possible exception of a Chevrolet or Ford. The price of new houses has begun to decline. If your family is not getting their things cheaper, it is because they are not shopping around as they should.

The difficulty in the wage situation is that many labor leaders feel that, in order to hold their jobs, they must get for their members a little more wage increase every year. Of course, they know that this cannot go on forever. They should know that they will hold their jobs better in the end by not asking for an increase in wages than by experiencing a bust.

Attitude of big Companies

Certain industries are still in a seller's market, -- that is to say, they can dictate the price. This especially applies to the building industry, the steel industry, and a certain portion of the automobile industry. This means that if they grant an increased wage to labor, they can pass this along to us consumers by merely raising the prices. Therefore, if any of the labor unions in these industries strike for more wages, and the government backs labor up the companies will accept the recommendations. They, however, will plainly state that this will be added to the price of goods and passed along to us consumers. This is an entirely new attitude. It may cause labor to now take all they can while the going is good or it may bring them to their senses.

Of course, this policy is hard on industries which cannot pass along any increased wages to consumers. I have in mind the clothing industry, the shoe industry, and the manfacturers of refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, and radios who dare not add anything more to their prices. Hence, they must fight any further wage rises or depend upon new labor-saving machinery which is now being installed. Manufacturers ordered such machinery two or more years ago when they anticipated labor's demands, but it is just beginning to be delivered.

Employment Outlook

Statistics show that employment is gradually falling off. This,of couree, is an important factor in connection with wages. When an idle man is standing behind an employed man waiting for his job, two things happen. First, the employed man works harder and does a better day's work; and secondly, he is not going to ask for any wage increase. People are spending less. Hence, the vicious circle they have been using up their war savings. This causes less demand for goods, which in turn, causes employers to lay off more help. Then the purchasing is still less. Hense, the vicious circle which has been spiraling upward for the past few years will now begin to spiral down just as rapidly.

One thing I wish to emphasize here is that wage conflicts are not conflicts between labor and management it should be remembered that labor and management, that is, it is a negotiator between labor and consumers. Labor is not fighting management, but rather is fighting the public. Even when labor leaders criticize the dividends which are being declared by management, itshould be remembered that these dividends do not go to management; they merely make out checks to send to life insurance companies, savings banks, and small investors all over the country.

The Next Depression

The Panic of 1873 was due to overreaching by the railroad barons of that day; the Panic of 1893 to the overextension of western farm laons; the Panic of 1913 to the overexpansion of industrial trusts; and the Panic of 1933 to the collapse of our banking system following the stock market break of 1929. The next panic will be due to the overreaching of labor and a collapse of the present union leadership.

Wolf Creek Philosopher

Hoover Commission Is Just Wasting Its Time

(Ed. note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher is judging other people by himself, which if you ask us is a poor standard, but we're publishing his letter this week for what it's worth, if anything.)

Dear editar:

I was out here on Wolf Creek the other day, tryin to get awhiff of spring, noticin a certain warmth to the sunshine that means me and my cows just about has this winter shipped, with one-fourth of a bale of Johnson grass hay still left to carry through a sudden March blizzard, which is a great satisfaction, and stumbled on a copy of the Amarillo News with the wapper still on it and while that paper make's better firewood if you leave it rolled up, I opened it anyway, putting intellectual nourishment ahead of physical comfort, and sat down and read where Herbert Hoover and his commission is gettin ready to reorganize the Federal government to make it more efficient.

Then a little further on I read where some legislators has some plans to reorganize the state government, the school system, the prison system and a few other affairs to make them more efficient.

Then a little further on I read where some legislators has some plans to reorganize the state government, the school system, the prison system and a few other affairs to make them more efficient.

Now I don't care much what they do to the iegeral and state governments, even imagine the county government could stand some improvement, it makes mighty good readin to hear about plans for making government more efficient, but I would like to suggest to them experts, that they shouldn't forget that whatever system they install, they still gonna have about the same crew doin the operatin, and there is some folks who just ain't subject to much improvement, whether they're on a handcar or a streamliner, they get about the same distance. It don't make much difference in the quality of the politician whether he uses a hand-wound telephone like Perryton or a dial system like some of these smaller towns, whether he legislates in a office heated by a coal stove or atomic energy run by a thermostat.

We still get about the same kind of legislation, which must suit most of us as we don't make much change, don't make no difference how many elections we hold.

I had a expert out here lookin over my farm a while back and he made a lot of suggestions on how I could improve it, and I admit if I followed his recommendations I'd be a lot more efficient, but what he don't take into consideration is that at the same time I'd be a lot tired-er, and the truth of the matter is whatever system I use, this farm ain't gonna produce no more than I'm willin to porduce, and I'm already workin right up to the limit of my willingness, the same as you and about 95 per cent of the rest of the folks I know.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

... claim to the world's ...allenger spreading ...il-producing area ... stretches of Wes- ...

The Elk City field in Eastern Beckham County, 125 miles west of Oklahoma City, is the Sooner State's bid for recapturing the "largest" oil field honors. Whether it will approach the East Texas fields area remains for time to tell. Only four wells have been completed, proving about 3,000 acres. But it has surpassed East Texas in the vertical extent of its producing formations.

But geological and geophysical information available indicates the field may produce over ninety-two sections in seven different townships. That's a little less than 60,000 acres against East Texas' aproximately 130,000 proven acres.

"Strat Traps" Elusive

But the potential challenge has arisen recently in the form of a theory that the Elk City reservoir is stratigraphic instead of structural. If the "strat trap" idea holds up, production could extend for miles in all directions. Only the drill could be depended upon to determine the limits.

The East Texas field in Gregg, Upshur, Cherokee, Smith and Rusk Counties is on a stratigraphic trap, which is the most difficult of all anomalies to find. The west Edmund field in Oklahoma, largest reservoir developed in the United States during World War II, is another strat trap. It was found by a "doodle bugger" — an operator using home-made instruments.

Shell Oil Company opened the Elk City field one year ago. Initial production of the discovery well was 469 barrels of 65.4-gravity distillate and 5,736,000 cubic feet of gas from upper Pennsylvania sand at 9,260,360 feet. Several possible oil-gas zones were drilled to total depth of 13,133 feet. A fishing job caused Shell to complete in the upper section.

The company then undertook an expensive evaluation drilling program, intending to drill one well per section until the limits of the field were fairly well known.

Before Shell completed its second well, Union Producing Company, Shreveport, acquired a spread and began drilling south of the discovery well. Each firm has completed two "one-mile offsets," and each is now drilling a well. Six additional locations are understood to be planned in the near future.

All of the completed outposts had from four to six oil, gas or distillate zones, the total thickness of the pay sections ranging from 100 to 200 feet. (East Texas has an average of thirty-five feet of effective Woodbine sand.)

The nearest, and only comparable, producing field to Elk City is the Texas Panhandle field. Geologists have compared the producing sections of the new and old field to arrive at an estimate of 25,000 barrels per acre as Elk City's recovery from the Pennsylvanian, Devonian and Ordovician formations to be explored. They all produce in other parts of Oklahoma.

Four Zones Drilled

One of the wells now drilling has cut three zones with a total of 260 feet of pay and was drilling in zone No. 4 Permeability and porosity of parts of the sections were so great they could not be measured. While sticking with a maximum of 350 barrels per acre foot as the probable recovery, engineers observing the well went on beyond a possible 560 barrels per acre-foot, assuming 300 feet of effective pay.

The Elk City structure as now outlined is centered in Township 10N, Range 21W, which it blankets. It takes in parts of Townships 9N to 11N, Ranges 20W to 22W.

A curious situation has developed in the eastern part of the huge, kidney-shaped structure. Twelve years ago, Continental Oil drilled a 14,000 foot hole in Washita County, three miles east of one of the present Elk City wells. There were few good indications of oil or gas in the drilling samples and the hole was not tested extensively. Continental subsequently dropped its block. It has been found that the dry hole was on the high part of the structure.

Independents, including Kenneth A. Ellison, Oklahoma City geologist, picked up Continental's old drill site and other leases. A deal was made for Max Pray, Chicago wildcatter, to retest the old hole while Continental, Cities Service and other companies have paid good prices for tracts down-structure from the old dry hole.

Majors Move In

Shell controls more than 21,000 acres of the Elk City structure having bought heavily after shows were found in the discovery. Other major companies moved in and bought west and northwest through Roger Mills County, Oklahoma, and Wheeler County, Texas and eastward across Washita County, Okla.

Shell is estimated to have spent $350,000 per well in its program so far, but that included continuous coring and testing operations in most of the holes. It is estimated the Granite Wash-Pennsylvanian zones can be developed at $150,000 per well.

The field is in the southwestern part of the Anadarko Basin, in the trough just north of the Wichita Mountains. Exploration of the formations of older age will be expensive as was shown by Superior Oil Company's 17,323-foot hole in Caddo County, also in the trough. That hole was completed well above the enticing Ordovician sands. And it is believed to have cost $1,000,000.

Welsh Want Welsh in Schools

LONDON (AP)—The Welsh want their children "dysgu cymraeg yn yr ysgol."

Hold it, that's not pied type, but translated means they want children "learning Welsh in the school."

A plea for more use of "yr hen iaeth"—the mother tongue—was made in a recommendation of the central advisory council for education of Wales in a report to the minister of education.

"Adequate provision for teaching Welsh should be made in all secondary schools so that any child in any secondary school in Wales may study Welsh if he so desires," the report added—in mere English.

Welsh is already taught in primary schools but is dropped for English thereafter.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

BY TEX EASLEY

(AP) Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Freedom Train soon will be rolling again across the country and residents of many a small city can thank Rep. Homer Thornberry of Austin when it stops in their hometown.

A member of the committee which considered legislation financing the train's future tours, Thornberry devoted his first speech in the House to the subject.

"It is only right that the history-laden train visit small towns," he said, "because I feel the people of these communities have had time and again demonstrated their willingness to be first when there is fighting to be done—first when there are taxes to be paid, and first when there is work to be done for the general welfare of their country."

Colleagues applauded and promptly passed the measure, which provides $2,500,000 (m) to operate the historic train until July 5, 1951. (The train was set up, and maintained until now by a private foundation).

Future schedules will be planned by a bi-partisan joint Senate—House committee working with the executive branch of the government.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Milledge, Gayla Fay and Miss Jolene Weight visited in Denver, Colo. from Thursday through Sunday. While in Denver they visited Misses Coleen Milledge and Lenis Fern Wright who attend Denver Womens college.

Veteran Forum

Q. I was honorably discharged from the Army in 1946, but have not applied for readjustment allowance yet. How long will this benefit remain available to me?

A. Generally, this benefit must be claimed within two years from discharge or release from active service or two years from July 25, 1947, whichever is later.

Q. As an honorably discharged veteran of World War II, I would like to know to what hospitalization I am entitled.

A. If you have a service-connected disability, you have top priority for VA hospital care. If you suffer with a nonservice-connected disability, you may be hospitalized under existing law if beds are available and you say you cannot afford treatment elsewhere.

Q. I am at present receiving compensation for 30 percent disability. If I take a job carrying rural mail three hours a day, will my compensation be stopped?

A. Compensation is not reduced because of your employment. Reduction in compensation is made only if your disability has lessened in degree.

Q. Early last year I received an adjustment check on my compensation from the Veterans Administration. Do I have to pay income tax on this payment?

A. No. By law, all payments made under laws relating to veterans are exempt from Federal income tax payments.

Says TAX-SAVER SAM:

"If your allowable deductions are more than 10 percent of your income, you save money by itemizing them on Long Form 1040. If those deductions are less than 10 per cent of your income don't itemize them. Instead, take advantage of the 10 per cent deduction automatically provided in the tax table for the Form 1040A and the Short Form 1040 (if you are permitted to use those forms.) If you must use Long Form 1040 because your income is over $5,000, take the 10 per cent deduction provided for on page 3."

"The new law allows an additional exemption of $600 (like an extra dependent) for taxpayers or wives who are 65 or over. It also allows a $600 extra exemption for a blind taxpayer or blind wife of a taxpayer. These extra exemptions apply ONLY to taxpayers and wives, NOT to their dependents."

"All 1948 service pay of enlisted men and women is exempt. Officer pay is exempt up to $1,500. In some cases taxes owed by service men and women can be paid in twelve quarterly installments."

Baku Restoration Pushed

MOSCOW (AP)—From Baku it is reported that the last three years have seen progress in the restoration of oil output of the important oil fields of this petroleum center.

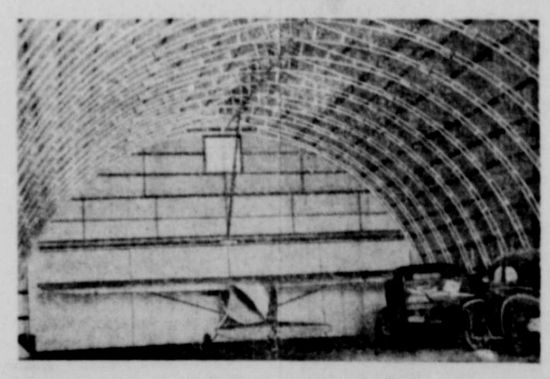

An editorial in "Baku Worker" stated recently that during the first three years of the postwar five year plan, 1946, 1947 and 1948 oil production there had increased by 31.4 per cent in the same period and that natural gas extraction had increased 23.6 percent.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. LeMaster were hosts to their supper club which met Saturday evening.

The evening was spent playing bridge, with Mrs. LaRue Norris receiving high for the women and LaRue Norris high for the men.

Those enjoying the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Miles Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Max Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brashears, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Todd, Mrs. Mattie Maude Caylor, and Mr. and Mrs. LaRue Norris, guests.

Notla HD Club Is in Home of Mrs. Bill Kelln

Mrs. Bill Kelln was hostess to the Notla Home Demonstration club on March 3.

Representatives from the Work Simplification school, Mrs. Etta Waggoner and Mrs. Norman Swink, gave demonstrations on bed making and table setting. They illustrated the methods of geting the job completed with the minimum of steps.

The group made plans for a box supper which is to be Mar. 18.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Fay Savage, Edd Savage, George Yates, Carol Wall, Etta Waggoner, Lawrence Good, Norman Swink, Wayne Tittle, Ralph Hale and the hostess, Mrs. Kelln.

O. E. S. To Have Special Program

At the regular meeting of the Perryton chapter of Eastern Star next Tuesday night, March 15, a special program will be given honoring the past matrons and patrons of the chapter. The meeting will be at 7:30, Mrs. Violet Igou, worthy matron, has announced.

During the meeting the chapter will also celebrate the thirty-eighth anniversary of the Perryton chapter which was chartered in 1911 at Old Ochiltree. Later the chapter was moved to Perryton and renamed.

Members and all past matrons and patrons are urged to attend.

EASTER PARADE—HOME-MADE . . . The smart little coat at left is made of a new pastel blue flecked tweed, flaunts the fashionable flared back and big Peter Pan collar. Princess Elizabeth Sculptured with Horse

LONDON (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and "Tommy"—one of her favorite horses—have been sculptured in a gilded silver statuette.

Queen Elizabeth had it done for her personal collection of portraits of her heiress-apparent daughter.

Doris Lindner, a sculptress noted for her models of horses, caught Elizabeth's likeness at sittings in Euckingham Palace. Later she worked frequently at the royal stables to catch Tommy's characteristics.

The equestrian statuette shows Elizabeth side saddle on Tommy as she appeared as colonel of the Grenadier Guards at the King's birthday parade last June.

May Establish Ceramics Class In Perryton

An organizational meeting to establish classes in ceramics will be held Monday night, March 14 in the home of Mrs. I. H. Sharpe 809 S. Amherst, under the direction of Mrs. George Lewis of Borger.

If enough persons are interested in this type of work as a hobby, regular classes will be started.

Mrs. Lewis will bring her kiln and other equipment for use of those taking the lessons, and will demonstrate the work at this meeting.

Mrs. Lewis, the former Lura Mae Sharpe, has her own shop in Borger, Lewis' Ceramics Shop located at Coolidge and Main streets.

Any one who is interested in this type of work is invited to the meeting.

Salzburg Music Scheduled

VIENNA (AP)—The 1949 Salzburg Music Festival, July 27—Aug. 31, will include performances of six operas, three plays and 24 concerts.

Paying its annual tribute to Salzburg's most famous native son, the festival will feature two operas by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, "The Magis Flute" and "Titus." Conductors who have been invited to participate include Wilhelm Furtwanger, Bruno Walter, Edwin Fischer, Josef Krips, George Szell and Hans Knappertsbusch.

Mize Returns From National School Meeting

Superintendent Gilbert Mize reutrned Thursday from the annual meeting in St. Louis of the National Association of School Administrators. He and other school superintendents of the Panhandle made the trip by special train, boarding the train at Panhandle.

Of the 10,000 school men present, approximately 1,000 were from Texas, Mize stated.

Among the principal speakers were Dr. James N. Conant, president of Harvard, and Willard Goslin of Pasadena, Calif., president of the national association. Dr. Homer P. Rainey, president of Stephens College, spoke at a special Texas banquet.

Most of the discussion of school problems evolved around the same problems in Texas that the controversial Gilmer-Aiken bill seeks to solve, Mize stated. These problems of school consolidation, uniform standards, adequate financing, and equalization of the school tax load seem to be common to all states, judging from the discussion at this national meeting, he added.

The meeting began Sunday, Feb. 27, and ended Wednesday, March 2.

Stone Funeral Held Sunday

Funeral services were held in the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. for Billy D. Stone, age 21, who was killed early Saturday morning in a car wreck between Fritch and Amarillo.

Rev. James Abernathy, pastor of the Ralls Baptist church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. O. C. Curtis, pastor of the First Baptist church in Perryton.

Pallbearers were Cornelius Anderson, Junior Anderson, Tom Slack, Echford Perkins, Duane Ferguson and Clifford Lawrence.

Interment was in the Ochiltree cemetery.

Billy D., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lois K. Stone, grew up in Perryton and was employed as a barber at the time of his death. He attended the Perryton schools and was an outstanding football player his final year of high school. He served in the U. S. Army after he finished high school.

He is survived by his wife Vera Mae; his father, Lois K. Stone, Perryton; his mother, Mrs. Lorene Stone, Ralls, Texas; a sister, Shirley Lois, Ralls; a brother, Bobby Gene, Perryton; and his grandmother, Mrs. Zora Stone, Dallas.

Denazification In U. S. Zone About Finished

BERLIN (AP)—The vast deNazification program in the U. S. zone is grinding toward a stop.

Theo E. Hall, the American official in charge of deNazification, says:

"We consider that the primary mission of deNazification has been accomplished in the U. S. zone. From May, 1945 Nazis were kept out of office until their cases were disposed of. The majority are now eligible to hold office.

"During this critical three-year period, however, the Land (state) constitutions were written and elections held. This gave the new governments a chance to take root—and the Nazis had no part in their formation."

Hall stressed that "only in the U. S. zone was the implementation of the deNazification program turned over to the Germans."

Each state enacted an identical law which requires every one over 18 years of age in the U. S. zone to register. About 13,000,000 persons in the U. S. zone have registered.

Some 3,500,000 were listed as "incriminated." Of these, 2,500,000 small fry Nazis were granted amnesty without trial. The trials of 924,616 have been completed. The remainder have died. About 25,000 cases remain to be handled. Most of these are "new registrants," that is, persons who have entered Germany recently.

Of the 924,000 Nazis who were tried 22,000 were deprived of their civil rights. Some 103,000 others were placed on probation by the courts. About 473,000 were classed as "followers" and fined. About 17,000 were freed. The remainder were granted amnesties.

Hall believes that the British, French and Russian deNazification programs leave loopholes for Nazis to return to positions of power in government and industry. Only the U. S. zone made an effort to screen the entire population.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation to our friends for their kind expression of sympathy and the floral tribute to our loved one, Billy D. Stone.

LORETTA YOUNG — ROBERT CUMMINGS
Wendell Corey — San Jaffe and Douglas Dick in —
"The Accused"
Miss Young portrays a university teacher of phychology. Although obviously inhibited, she is to all outward appearances the perfect poised and self-controlled product of study and culture. And yet, when she is trapped in an intolerable situation, she reacts to it with the most primitive emotions of blind fury and unreasoning fear, both of which impel to murder.

SUNDAY - MONDAY - TUESDAY -- MARCH 13-14-15
ALAN LADD — ROBERT PRESTON — BRENDA MARCHALL
Donald Crisp — William Demarest — Faye Holden in —
"Whispering Smith"
This is the story of Luke Smith (Alan Ladd), a two-gun special agent for a holdup-harassed railroad which bravely poked through the rugged Rockies of the old West in 1890. He was so soft-spoken and moved with such swift silence through the bandit-infested mountains, that he was nicknamed "Whispering." And in discharging his duty, he eventually had to shoot it out with his best friend, Murray Sinclair (Robert Preston)—the husband of the woman he loved, Marian Sinclair (Brenda Marshall).

Variety for Violets

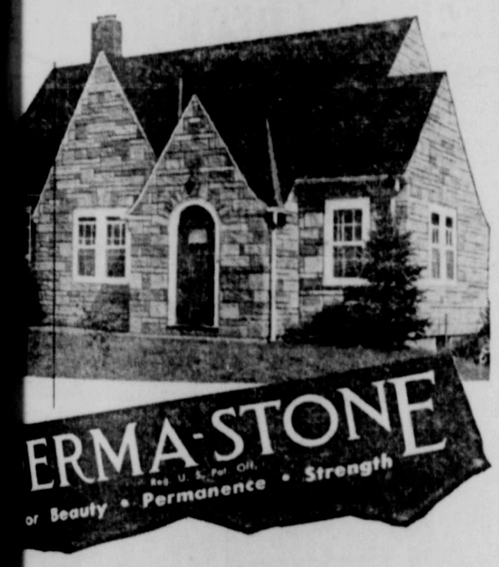

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard (Jake) Cann, now in his 26th season as New York University basketball coach, says his team is living out of a traveling bag this season.

"Our court is being renovated this season," says Cann, "and we've had to shift around in order to practice. Why, one week we had practice at four different courts."

The Violets should be a much improved team next season. Their only losses due to graduation will be Joe Dohlon and Dick Kor.

Prime Minister Back Malaya Girls' Sports

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — The Prime Minister of Johore has come to the support of Muslim girls who want to come out of seclusion and play a part in the sports life of Malaya.

Dato Onn Bin Jaafar, a Muslim who is also president of the United Malaya National Organization (a leading Malay political party in the federation) urged Malay women to prepare for the time when they will play an equally important part with men in molding the future of this country.

His action came in the midst of a dispute that developed in Muslim circles after the Malay girls formed the Kuala Lumpur Malay women's hockey association and soon became the object of criticism by certain members of the U. M. N. O.

Onn said the emergence of Malay women from their seclusion was an inevitable social development. It is a sign of the times, he commented, and unfavorable criticism is only a "storm in a teacup."

Go ahead with your sports activity, he wrote one of the team members. "I am right behind you." He also donated $50 to the team.

Clay Allen, head of the Canadian Valley Production Corp., was a Perryton visitor Tuesday.

Weekly Swing of Southwest Farm Markets

(USDA)—Livestock prices averaged higher during the past week, but some other products suffered slight declines, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration reports.

Cattle sold mostly unchanged to 50 cents higher for the week. Common and medium cows brought $18 to $19.50 at Houston Monday, $16.50 to $18.75 at San Antonio, and $16.50 to $18 at Fort Worth. Beef cows sold upward to $18 at Oklahoma City, while common to good grades ranged from $16.50 to $18.75 at Denver.

Hog trends for the week ranged from unchanged to 50 cents higher, and feeder pigs unchanged to $2 higher. Top butchers brought $20.75 at San Antonio, $21 at Fort Worth, $21.25 at Oklahoma City, and $22.25 at Denver. Sows moved at $17 to $17.50 at San Antonio and Denver, and $16 to $17 at Fort Worth and Oklahoma City.

Eggs eased slightly during the week under heavier receipts. Current receipts brought 38 to 39 cents a dozen at Fort Worth and New Orleans, 39 at Dallas, and 37 to 38 at Denver. Fryers strengthened slightly, but other poultry held unchanged. Fryers cashed at 28 to 30 cents a pound at Fort Worth and 30 at Dallas.

Wheat gained 2 to 3 cents a bushel for the week, and white corn about a penny. Yellow corn, oats and barley lost 1 to 2½ cents. No. 1 hard wheat closed Monday at $2.46¼ to $2.50¼ at Texas common points. No. 2 white corn sold at $1.75½ to $1.78½, yellow corn $1.59¾ to $1.61¾, and white oats 88¼ to 92½. Milo held steady.

Jack M. Allen, a student at Texas University, was operated on for appendicitis in an Austin hospital Saturday. He is reported to be recovering nicely.

Swiss to Join Refugee Group

GENEVA (AP)—The Swiss Federal Council has announced that Switzerland, which is not a member of the United Nations, will enter the International Refugee Organization in the near future.

Switzerland, it is understood, will make part of her contribution to IRO through services to refugees now in Switzerland and the rest of it in money. Her total share is approximately $1,500,000.

Switzerland already is a member of the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization, The World Health Organization and the Food and Agricultural Organization.

Swiss officials said they hoped formalities would be concluded so that Switzerland could have a representative at the second general IRO council here in March.

(Ed. note: This is the first place essay of the contest conducted in Perryton high school by the Perryton Sorosis Club recently. Jimmy Cameron placed first, Marian Day, second, and Phyllis Taylor, third.)

By JIMMY CAMERON

To understand more fully the question of the kind of teacher I would like to have, it would be better for me to advance my mind into the future. After getting out of school we all will probably be more inclined to know what kind of teacher we should have had in high school. Much depends on well trained school children of today since they will be the people who will run our country in a few years. Among the children in school today, some will be teachers, some doctors, some grocers, and some will be in every occupation which helps our country to move forward today.

My opinion is that first a teacher should build himself into a strong attractive personality using as the foundation a good mind well filled with knowledge. There are so many different kinds of students that a teacher needs to be an exceptional person, in order to understand the individual's views. Since there are many different religions and beliefs—and sometimes races—among the young people in school, a teacher must avoid being prejudiced or he is sure to make enemies. We students expect a kind of fatherly interest from our teachers. He must not fail us; but to be worthy of this duty he must be likeable, reasonable, tactful; in fact, he must understand boys and girls.

I think a teacher that would help us to succeed in life would be a patient teacher. He would be sure we understood every part of our studies before going to a new lesson. He would be a teacher the students have confidence in. By this, I mean a teacher we could go to with our problems and feel sure of a satisfactory answer. We should feel able to go to this teacher with personal problems as well as problems on our school work.

This teacher should help us realize the problems that face us when we take our place in the ever-advancing world of tomorrow. A qualified teacher should have enough experience about the ways of the world to give the students a clear picture of what awaits them. Hats off to the teachers who care enough about the future to teach its citizens of tomorrow the way to be successful.

Headless Ghost Rongh on Cats

SINGAPORE (AP)—Cats disappear mysteriously in a Singapore bungalow haunted by a headless ghost.

Within five months nine felines have vanished from the dwelling house. They depart every time the headless apparition comes roaming through the corridors in the wee hours of the morning.

The bungalow's dwellers have not been scared into moving. There's a housing shortage.

Ideas to make your house a real delight. Read "YOUR HOME" in the Herald, March 31.

Party Arrives, Heads for Links

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Red-haired Patty Berg blew into town left her suitcases unopened and made a bee-line for the golf course, exclaiming:

"It's like heaven to be back here. I've been in cold weather so long I'd forgotten there still was a place with climate like this." Then the women's masters champ started a practice round.

The golfer arrived by train to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Berg and Miss Betty MacKinnon, Arkansas state champion. Patty recently made a movie short with Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Babe Zaharias, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen. The movie concerns the lives of golf caddies. Proceeds are to send caddies to college.

The entrance walk, instead of dividing the front lawn, is placed at one side of the lot, and leads to a side entrance to the front porch. This leaves the lawn open, and increases its apparent size. Beds of flowers are planted at the angle of the walk.

Low growing flowers are used, in pink, blue and white. Dwarf phlox should be sown directly in the garden, where it will remain in flower all summer, covering the ground like a carpet, with its attractive florets. Pompon asters grow in low bushes, with many branches, with a flower at the end of each branch. They make excellent cut flowers, and the flowers should be cut before they fade, to prolong the blooming period.

Small evergreens are used to flank the porch entrance. These must be kept low by annual shearing. In a house of this design no shrubbery whatever should be used in front, and no tall trees or shrubs near the house.

Parts Dealers Attend Area Meet At Woolwines

Approximately 160 automotive parts dealers and service men from Perryton and neighboring towns attended a service meeting held Thursday night at the Woolwine Supply Co. in Perryton.

Paul Woolwine, company salesmanager with headquarters in Pratt, Kansas, and Jack Ellinger, district manager of the Hastings Manufacturing Co. of Hastings, Michigan, conducted the meeting.

They discussed the latest mechanical developments in servicing of new and used automotive and farm equipment.

This was one of a series sponsored by Woolwine's to better acquaint their customers with the latest techniques in the automotive field, stated Woolwine.

Other meetings covering another branch of the field have been scheduled and will be announced later, he added.

Towns represented at the meeting were Spearman, Follett, Darrouzett, Canadian, Booker, Gruver, Balko and Perryton.

Malays Worship At Police Station

SINGAPORE (AP)—A police station has become a "kramat," a holy place of worship for the Malays of Singapore.

Their shrine had been located some 100 yards from the Harbor Division Police Station and hundreds of pigeons would hover about the grave.

Then one night a police sergeant dreamed that a beautiful lady came to him and said her grave had been moved to the tower of the nearby police station. When morning came the pigeons had deserted the grave and were flying about the tower.

And now the Mohammedon Malays of the area visit the police station to pray for favors.

Tulsa U. Has Rats in Belfry

By LEO MARKS

(AP Newsfeatures

TULSA, Okla.—Tulsa University has rats—not bats—in the belfry. Because of crowded classroom conditions, the psychology department has set the little creatures up in housekeeping in the bell tower of Kendall Hall, oldest building on the campus.

The room has been whitewashed and heating installed at the insistence of Dr. and Mrs. Anchard Zeller, faculty members.

The rats are part of a recently-established animal laboratory.

Actually, the tiny rodents are not the usual variety of rat. They are hamsters, measuring from four to six inches in length, which were brought to this country from Syria by the United States Public Health Service.

"It was found," Mrs. Zeller explained, "that they are susceptible to certain diseases to which white rats are immune."

Students, especially the girls, don't mind handling these little pets which resemble guinea pigs.

"The hamster, a hibernating animal, is especially valuable in the winter because it goes into a coma and is that much easier to observe," Mrs. Zeller said.

Rats do not hibernate. People whose homes they infest will even swear they don't sleep at all.

Hamsters are also more economical to breed. "They have a rapid reproduction rate," according to Mrs. Zeller. "Baby hamsters are less than an inch long, but reach maturity in 31 days.

"The gestation period is 16 days, so it is possible to produce several generations in a short time."

They are being used in basic behavior research, problems of motivation and learning, and in the study of the nervous system.

Sister, Brother Of Local Man Taken by Death

WELLSVILLE, Mo.—The death of Mrs. Emma Barton at the Audrain Hospital in Mexico, Mo., Thursday morning, Z. B. Brooks at Phoenix, Ariz.

They were the sister and brother of A. E. D. Brooks of Perryton.

Mrs. Barton was born Mar. 15, day afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Wells Funeral Home, and burial was in the Wellsville cemetery.

Mrs. Barton was bon March 15, 1879 and died February 24. She had made her home with her son and daughter, Raymond and Pauline Barton on a farm near Wellsville. Her husband, Irvin O. Barton preceded her in death thirteen years ago.

Surviving besides the two children at home is a daughter, Mrs. Earl Weber of Montrose, Colo., three brothers, A. E. D. Brooks, Perryton, Texas; Luther Brooks, Montgomery City, Mo.; Eugene Brooks, Derby, Kansas; two sisters, Mrs. Walker D. Jones of Wellsville, Mo., and Mrs. Sadie Brown, Coloumbia, Mo., and a number of grandchildren.

B. Brooks, whose rites and burial were to be in Phoenix, Ariz., was a former resident of Wellsville. He operated a cleaning and pressing plant for many years before going west about fifteen years ago.

Former Resident Dies In Oregon

Word has been received of the death in Lebanon, Oregon, on February 19 of F. W. Forester, age 83, who was an early-day resident of Perryton. He was buried at Sweet Home cemetery near Lebanon.

He and his brother Jesse lived in Ochiltree county before Perryton was established. Jesse left in 1918 and F. W. moved away in 1919. F. W. came back to Ochiltree county but once, to attend the funeral of W. B. "Cap" Dennison.

Jesse now lives in Salem, Ore. Mrs. O. R. Truax is a niece and Allan Dennison is a nephew of the deceased.

Flying by Television, Those Antennas Count

(AP Newsfeatures

NEW YORK—Television is better than railroads for getting home quickly, says George Brown. Brown has his own airplane. After a Sunday visit down in New Jersey, he was flying home to the Flushing, N. Y., airport when the weather souped up over Passaic, N. J.

"I had about half a mile visibility. I drew out my map and kept glancing at it and the ground trying to spot some landmarks. But there were too many rivers and roads, and I wasn't getting anyplace. I couldn't even find a railroad. Following the iron trails is one good way to get home sometimes.

"I dropped down to 800 feet, and then got an idea. Lots of the homes had television sets. The crossbars of the antennas all pointed the same way.

"So I threw away the map, and lined up the wings of my plane parallel with the crossbars of the antennas. I came in straight as a die to Manhattan, and finding Flushing was simple. Railroad tracks sometimes curve. But television will guide you in on a straight line—if you're near enough to the right city."

Brown, a flier since 1930, is a foreman for American Airlines.

London Air Traffic Grows

LONDON (AP)—One hundred thousand more persons used London airport in 1948 than in 1947.

The Ministry of Civil Aviation said 385,673 passengers on scheduled air services used the airport last year against 281,638 in 1947.

Northolt airport handled 320,520 in 1947 and 445,616 in 1948.

Poles Expect College Boost

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's ministry of education expects a 20 percent boost in enrollment of students in colleges and universities during 1949.

The ministry estimated registrations would reach around 100,000 compared with the previous top post-war figure of 80,000.

The rapid reconstruction of educational institutions damaged or destroyed during the war is credited with steadily increasing facilities for expanded student enrollments.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Castle returned Saturday from California wheer they visited their daughter and other relatives. Mrs. Castle has been in California for several months and Mr. Castle joined her there in February.
