DALLAS, July 16.—The fourth Texas railroad to protest application of the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad for new construction in the South Plains country was announced here today by W. LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch.
Love, Like the Roses.

Yes, like the roses, love will bloom,
Till all the world has hardly room
For so much sweetness, like the roses,
The petals stir, the heart uncloses,
Until the world is made so fair
That not a garden has a care.
Nor heart a sorrow. Every duty
Love, like the roses, fills with beauty.

Love, like the roses, often dies.
Life has its spring and autumn skies
As well as gardens. Like the roses,
More soon perhaps than one supposes,
Love fades, and sees its petals fall,
Love has its autumn, after all.
Yes, often when the first leaf settles,
Love, like the roses, drops its petals.

Love, like the roses, yet lives on;
Yes, even when the rose is gone
Its perfume lingers. Like the roses,
A perfumed memory reposes
Within the heart, my lass, my lad,
Whoever rose or love has had
From rose nor love will never sever—
Love, like the roses, lives forever.

GRAND JURY TO TAKE HAND IN MYSTERY DEATH

Expect Investigation Of Whitfield Case to Shift Today

JURY IS RECALLED

Questioning of Man Is Without Avail Again Thursday

The probability of a grand jury investigation into the death of Mrs. Bess Whitfield looms up today.

A call has been sent for the reconvening of the grand jury of the 30th district court and if the members can all be assembled they will go into session at the court house this morning.

District Attorney Ben Allred said Thursday afternoon that he was considering laying the facts in the Whitfield case before the jury which means that a murder charge must be filed against Bob Whitfield, her husband, who has been detained in connection with his wife's death since he identified the body at a morgue late Monday morning. No formal charges had been filed last night but Whitfield was in jail again.

Found Last Sunday.

Mrs. Whitfield's body with three bullet wounds in the head was found under a tree just back of the baseball grounds about 5 o'clock last Sunday afternoon. Determined efforts of city and county officers since then to run down her slayer have brought only partly successful results. They have unearthed some evidence on the strength of which they have held the woman's husband; but they admit there are many angles of the case as deep a mystery now as they were when the body was first located.

Developments in the investigation Thursday brought practically nothing of value. Whitfield was subjected to another grilling in the morning and, for the first time since his arrest, broke down and cried. Questions concerning his wife, his three small boys and the future he faced brought from him the first show of emotion visible in days. But despite this, he stuck steadfastly to the same story he has told from the first—that he knew nothing of how his wife came to her death.

Recover Bullet.

The only step in the investigation to yield anything of importance yesterday was the autopsy performed on the body of Mrs. Whitfield in the morning. Dr. J. H. Fletcher, count physician and officials from the sheriff's and district attorney's office removed the one bullet remaining in the head of the victim. She was shot three times but two of the balls passed entirely through the skull. The bullet found in the brain was badly mashed, but it still retained sufficient size to convince officers it was a .32 caliber.

This would correspond with empty .32 caliber shells found in the loft of the Whitfield home on Pine street; and also with a .32 caliber revolver unearthed in a pile of rubbish in the back yard of the home.

The body of the woman was buried early Thursday morning in Riverside cemetery. Short funeral services were conducted at the grave.

If the grand jury meets this morning, as it is hoped it will, the district attorney's office will lay before it the gun found in Whitfield's back yard; the two empty shells found wrapped in newspapers and hidden in the loft of the home; affidavits concerning tracks found leading to and away from the place where the body was located; and a few other scraps of evidence uncovered in the rigorous search.

Officials admit their chain of circumstantial evidence is none too strong.

Expert Witnesses In Scopes Case Drawing Fire of Prosecution

Bryan's views on evolution and Christainity will be found on page 12 of this issue.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 16.—(AP).—Judge John T. Raulston, presiding at the trial of the Scopes case, retired to his chambers tonight with the most important problem of the trial thus far. After a day devoted to arguments on the competency of scientific testimony, the court took the matter under advisement.

Judge Raulston was expected to make his second momentous decision of the proceedings tomorrow. He prolonged the trial yesterday when he denied a defense motion to quash the indictment.

On his decision on the pending motion will depend the length of the trial, for should he exclude scientific witnesses, a dozen of whom are awaiting the word from the bench, the trial will be soon closed.

Bryan Speaks Out.

Seven of the dozen lawyers in the case spoke today but the clean cut division of the issue between religion and science was placed before the court at the afternoon session when William Jennings Bryan argued against the admission of experts and Dudley Field Malone pleaded that the door of the witness box be unlocked for them.

Mr. Bryan contended that the law as passed by the legislature was definite, clear and understandable, permitted of no interpretation from experts and the effort to inject experts was an attack on the religion of the children handed down to them by their fathers.

Mr. Malone, following Mr. Bryan, declared that the effort of the defense to place experts in the case as witnesses was not an attack on the Bible. The defense would have the Bible remain, but in the conscience, he said; while science takes its rightful place in the schools.

The whole matter was brought to the floor of the court when the defense recalled Dr. Maynard M. Metcalf, zoologist, who answered a series of questions on evolution yesterday evening with the jury absent from the court room. Dr. Metcalf was presented as a "test witness" to show the line of testimony the defense sought to introduce.

The scientist was not permitted to answer the one question asked by Clarence Darrow, defense counsel, if the witness could give any other evidences of evolution of man.

Will Describe It.

Mr. Darrow announced that the defense expected to show by men of science and learning, both scientists and real scholars of the Bible, what evolution is and that any interpretation of the Bible that intelligent man could possibly make is not in conflict with any story of creation, while the Bible, in many ways, is in conflict with every known science. He added that witnesses to whose testimony objection was made, knows his subject and is competent to speak.

WAURIKA, Okla., July 16.—Ted Elliott of Duncan, Okla., was found guilty in district court here today of criminal assault on Ethel Sreywaus, also of Duncan, last October, and sentenced to 15 years in the state penitentiary. Defense attorneys stated a motion for a new trial would be made and appeal taken in case of denial. No formal motion has been made yet.

BOARD BY 2-1 LETS OUT W. F. HOSPITAL HEAD

In Previous Ferguson Administration He Was Suppplanted

VETERAN IN SERVICE

Insane Institution Superintendent In State Work For 42 Years

Close friends of Dr. F. H. White, superintendent of the Wichita Falls state hospital, let out of that position yesterday by action of the state board of control in the transferring of Dr. C. W. Castner of the San Antonio hospital to the Wichita Falls institution see the hand of politics reaching into the case.

This became known Thursday when word reached Wichita Falls that the board by vote of two to one had let Dr. White out.

Cowell Backs Him.

S. B. Cowell, chairman of the board, voted to retain White, while R. B. Walthall and Dr. Harrington, the other members of the board, voted to have Dr. Castner succeed him. Dr. Harrington gave this information to the Record News over long distance telephone last night.

Harrington, in anawer to question, declared there was "no reason" for releasing Dr. White. Walthall could not be reached at Austin, reports stating he had driven to San Antonio following yesterday's board meeting.

The ouster of Dr. White came as a distinct surprise. The superintendent had not heard of the control board's action until called by the Record News Thursday. Later in the day, however, after meager information concerning action of the board had been obtained from Austin, Dr. White said he had talked with a member of the board and was quite sure he knew what was responsible for his let out.

"I am quite sure it is politics," stated Dr. White to the Record News.

Moved Once Before.

"During Ferguson's administration I was in charge of the hospital at San Antonio and in the course of his administration another man was put in my place, although I was not discharged. At no time was there any charge made against me in any way; it simply was a case of someone whom the administration sought to take care of. I have at no time taken any active part in politics."

His reference to "activity in politics" came when the question was asked whether he was let out because he had opposed Ferguson or whether Dr. Castner happened to be a strong supporter of the administration. Dr. White said he was certain he was not let out because of any political activity in which he had taken part.

Dr. White is a veteran in the service of the state's eleemosynary system, having occupied responsible positions, most of the time in the capacity of superintendent, for at least 24 years. His service has been expended at the hospitals at San Antonio and Austin; he was asistant superintendent at the Terrell hospital and came to Wichita Falls under the first Neff administration from that place. He has never been assigned to the insane asylum at Rusk.

Dr. White stated he had no plans at present, but would have an announcement to make later on, possibly.

Get Results From Sanitary Campaign

Although only one or two arrests have been made thus far, good results are being obtained in the campaign of the city against property owners maintaining open toilets and who have city sewer connections available. Hundreds of connections have been made in the last ten days, health department officials have reported, and inspectors are continuing their rounds giving notice of prosecution if the orders to connect are not heeded.

Decision to enforce all these connections or prosecute offenders to the limit of the law was reached by city officials and the chamber of commerce health committee in a discussion of means for improving sanitary conditions in Wichita Falls. The city council later adopted recommendations of the committee and instructed Health Commissioner Patton to see that all open toilets were eliminated.

Near Riot Call Of Cops Is Started By One Crying Kitten

Gasping and excited, three ladies drove up to the city hall Wednesday night, called for "any officer" and implored all speed in a rush to rescue a baby that was in some weeds out west of town.

"We heard it crying, sure as anything," the ladies said, "and to make sure we drove our car around and went back and heard it again. Please do hurry."

Detectives Carmichael, Donohue and Gardner broke all speed records in getting to the place which was out at the end of Ninth street. They heard the plaintive cries, all right, and started a search with flashlights. Locating the general direction of the cries they were stealthily slipping up on the spot when a big white cat jumped out of the weeds and ran. From the same place came another plaintive "meow" and there was the cause of all the trouble—a furry ball that had been telling its ma all about it.

TOWER ALMOST READY

Work on the entire plant is progressing nicely and it is hoped to have the building completed soon, says W. D. Trueblood, manager.

HOLLIDAY MAY BE PAVED BY SUMMER'S END

Good Progress Being Made On Improvement Of Long Street

Prospects of a completed paving of Holliday street from Eleventh to the city limits, probably with a 20-foot boulevard down the center from Eleventh to Seventeenth, before winter loom brighter daily as utilities companies here are making good progress on lowering of mains to make way for the paving crews.

Lowering Gas Mains.

The gas company is now at work dropping its lines and when this is finished it is believed that grading and paving wil begin at once, possibly within a month.

The Holliday street project will be one of the most pretentious ever undertaken here and with the spacious boulevard in the center will be one of the prettiest streets in town. It is proposed to lay a 20-foot concrete paving on each side of the 20-foot parkway in the center of the street.

Only to City Limits.

This paving, which will reach only to the city limits, will later be taken up and carried further south and then on through the new Weeks park and golf grounds. Contracts have already been let for the building of this road and extending it on to a connection with the present lake road near the pavillion entrance at Lake Wichita.

Rock Island Plans Many Improvements

The program of the Rock Island lines this year in the way of additions and improvements to roadway and equipment provide for an expenditure of $13,440,000. Among the items in this budget are the following:

Double track from Latimer to McFarland, Kan., a distance of 42 miles, at an ultimate estimated cost of $3,700,000, of which 18 miles are under construction this year at a cost of $1,200,000.

Construction of 18 coal chutes, 15 water treating plants, 11 washout plants and 32 cinder conveyors, at an estimated cost of $1,000,000. The coal chutes will be erected at Washington, Council Bluffs, Eldon and Marengo, Iowa, and at other points on the system.

A total expenditure of $8,600,000 is contemplated in the laying of new rail, track elevation, elimination of grade crossings, for shop machinery, improvements in locomotives, freight and passenger cars, etc.

A total of $5,110,000 goes for new locomotives, both road and switch power, for box cars, coal cars, motor cars, etc.

An expenditure of $2,230,000 is provided for rebuilding refrigerator cars, dump cars and coal cars.

The program also includes an expenditure of $990,000 for the construction of 33 miles of main line and sidings in the proposed new line to be built from Billings to Ponca City, Okla.

Other contemplated improvements include an expenditure of approximately $310,000 for improvements on the El Paso division, including a new passenger depot at Tucumcari.

Orders have been placed with various companies for all of the equipment authorized and considerable of the other work already has been done or is now in progress, and it is anticipated that practically all of the work will be completed by the end of the year.

CITY GAINS 5 MILLIONS ON TAX VALUATION

Real Estate Increases While Personals Fall

A gain of $5,164,336 in real estate and personal property values in Wichita Falls has been recorded for 1925 over those of 1924, it was announced Thursday morning by Tax Assessor W. R. Hyer and Finance Commissioner Oral Jones. This, while gratifying, was not quite as large as city officials had anticipated. They expected a valuation of between $40,000,000 and $41,000,000, whereas the catual figure was $39,261,506.

Figures Not Final.

These figures are not final, it was explained, and are subject to revision one way or the other by perhaps as much as $100,000. They represent, however, a very accurate estimate.

An analysis of the valuations shows that real estate in the city this year is appraised at $30,706,262, as against $24,335,760 in 1924. This was an increase of $6,370,502. Personal property valuations, however, fell off to the extent of $1,206,166. The 1925 renditions amounted to $8,555,244, while in 1924 they were $9,761,410.

The increase is attributed to the natural growth of the city, increase in property values as a result of the expansion, and construction of large amounts of new structures.

May Affect Rate.

While officials yesterday were reluctant to speculate on what bearing these valuations would have on the tax rate for the coming year, it was conceded that a rate of $1.30 per $100 would be difficult to obtain. A rate of $1.35 is not improbable, however, and this will be a 15 cent reduction from the existing rate of $1.50.

It is expected the rate will be set by the city council within a short time.

Harry Gray Presents Rotary With Trophy

In an effort to bolster attendance at Rotary club luncheons over the district, Harry Gray presented to the Wichita Falls organization yesterday at noon, a Rotary luncheon bell, as an award for best average attendance during the past three months.

Harry Gray

The bell, a bronze gong with the Rotary emblem engraved on it, will be placed in circulation for four three months periods, being awarded every three months to the club over the district having the best average attendance. At the end of the year the gong will become the permanent property of the club who has held it for the longest time. Presentation of the trophy was made by J. H. Allison and accepted on behalf of the club by Frank Keim, president.

In a second effort to stave off the annual summer slump in attendance the club decidd that the 24 members having the poorest attendance record over a six-month period would be hosts to the remainder of the club at a weekly luncheon.

Mrs. E. Esslet, a former vaudeville star entertained the members with several vocal solos that were well received.

Bert Bean, local coffee man, made a classification talk on the coffee business.

Hubby Reaches Semi-Finals In Western Tourney

DETROIT, Mich., July 16.—(AP) Oklahoma will challenge Ohio and Texas will wage war on Illinois in the western golf tournament at Lockmoor club tomorrow.

The Oklahoman, Keefe Carter, former champion of his home state, although just turned 19 years old, today defeated Rail Rolfe, of Chicago, 3 and 2.

The Ohioan is Fred Lamprecht of Cleveland, intercollegiate title holder from Tulane university, who, despite wild tee shots and numerous lies in traps and rough, finally overhauled L. E. Bunning, 3 and 2.

The banner of Illinois will be carried by Russell Martin, a young member of Floosmoor club, who downed Wattles of Buffalo by the popular margin of 3 and 2.

Martin's Texas opponent in the semi-finals is Clarence Hubby, a rugged young man from emple, who recently was runner-up in the Texas championship. Hubby took into camp today no less a brilliant player than Art Sweet, of Chicago, who was medalist in the western championship last year at Hinsdale with the remarkably low score of 141, only three strokes above the world's record set in this meet by Dexter Cummings. It was only near the finish of the match that Hubby got a lead finally winning, 2 and 1.

White Displays Finer Points Of Game for Duke

Texas City Mauler Gives Trammel Neat Boxing Lesson

By BLONDY CROSS.

Tommy White, the Texas City miller, gave our Duke Trammel, the Fort Worth walloper with the kill-'em-quick starboard sock, an artistic bit of boxing instruction in ten rounds Thursday night on the Legion fistic card.

White, just as elusive, if not more so, as Clyde Hull, the only other boxer to date who has been able to make Duke really look bad, stepped right in at the start and outpointed Trammel in every round but one. White, though just as clever as Hull, is a different style battler. He fought Duke at long range in spasms, but worked in close the greater part of the way, plugging to the midriff and side with a right, and chopping away with a left to the head.

Duke One Round.

No material damage was accomplished by either scrapper. White popped Trammel, if the blows were counted and averaged up, easily 15 times to Duke's one. But the Texas City boxer's clouts were of the short chipping variety, and served only to bring a flush to Trammel's visage and amass a large point margin for the ultimate victor.

Trammel waged a hard and game fight, but could not land. In fact, out side of a few fairly solid socks to the ribs—and White usually was going back, or giving with this blows when they landed—and a clip to the head in the sixth, Duke couldn't lay a glove on White. That one punch of Trammel's in the sixth followed a few seconds later by a mid-section attack served to offset White's pointage for the round, and gave this frame to Trammel, only chapter in which he had the better of the going. They were sparing in a neutral corner when Trammel slipped over the right that has made him famous locally. The blow caught White flush on the left cheek. He sagged momentarily, dived into a clinch, and then came up fighting furiously.

The rest of the way, scoring at will in the infighting, missing Trammel miss at long range, and countering with rights and lefts, White was complete master of the situation.

Monte Had Shade

Wildcat Monte, the Wichita Falls junior lightweight, and Joe Bernard of Seattle fought to a referee's draw in eight rounds. The last round was even up, in fact, Bernard finished the stronger. Bernard won the second and fifth rounds. Monte had the better of the going in the first, fourth, sixth and seventh. The third was a draw. Two judges were appointed. The one selected by Bernard called it a even-Stephen. Monte's choice warded Wildcat the decision. The referee settled the dispute by voting for a draw.

Jack Denton, Tahoka lightweight, beat George Storey, Oklahoma City junior welterweight, in six rounds. Storey, long and rangy armed, held Denton who was the aggressor at bay during the early rounds, but Denton scored in the third, fourth, fifth and connected for a couple of knockdowns in the sixth. The bout was a six-rounder.

Young Rich of Vernon outpointed Lefty Kimmer of Scotland in a four-rounder. The men are welterweights.

ZOO GETS NAPOLEANIC COACH

Berlin Zoo Purchases Gala Coach Of Bonaparte's Son.

BERLIN, July — The management of the Zoological Garden in Berlin has recently purchased the gala coach of little Napoleon II, the great Napoleon's only son, from the Castans Museum of War-Works.

The vehicle is still emblazoned with the Imperial French crown surmounting the date, A. D., 1813. The coach takes its place in the "Little Caravan" at the zoo, a procession of youngsters on the donkeys and camels and in coaches drawn by goats and ponies, making hourly rounds of the Zoological Garden.

MAGIC VALLEY SURPRISES.

According to the market reporter of the New York Times, "the first of the season's green corn arrived from Texas last week, but it was only a fair quality." Regardless of the quality, the Texas product was the first to arrive.

This excerpt is interesting to Texans: "Baskets of 50 to 60 ears sold wholesale at $2.25 t o$3.00. This corn is three weeks ahead of the first green corn received last year. One car of Texas cantaloupes arrived."

In the not distant future the Magic Valley of Texas will afford many surprises to the consumers of fruits and vegetables on Manhattan Island. There is no land like it. California has the climate, but the Magis Valley has the climate, the soil, the water, the nearness to market and a thousand other attractions which cannot be found in the Imperial Valley of the Golden Coast state.

AN AUTO SMASHING RECORD.

A new high monthly production total of 420,373 cars was reached in the automobile industry in the United States in April. The largest month previously on record was May, 1923, when the total was 404,450. Growth of the suburbs and the improvement of farming conditions have created the demand which has lifted the automobile sale to a new peak.

Two years ago the expert said that the point of saturation had been reached. Now the experts say the point of saturation may not be reached earlier than 1930, although former Governor James E. Ferguson said in a speech at Houston that it had been reached in Texas in 1924.

Texas has 750,000 motor vehicles. It may reach the million mark long before the coming of the year 1930.

WHERE THE LIBERALS LOST.

Novia Scotia has been ruled by the Liberal party 43 years. There was a great strike on with 12,000 united mine workers idle. An election came and the Liberals were hurled from power. They only obtained three seats in the parliament of Novia Scotia.

All the laborites were defeated. Forty conservatives were elected. Indeed, the Liberals of the British province were as badly thrashed as the democrats were thrashed in the United States less than a year ago.

Are the nations of the earth swinging away from liberalism to reactionaryism? Or was it time for the pendulum to swing the other way in the British province or dominion.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

Tides

If the "tide in the affairs of men," of which Mr. Shakespare has written, were as regular and dependable as the tides that move across the ocean, life would be a far easier and much less complicated problem.

A day or two ago I watched the Majestic, the biggest ship in the world, leave her pier and move out into mid-channel, her captain confident that there was plenty of water between her and the floor of the sea.

Had she moved out a few hours earlier she might have missed the shoals, but there would have been uneasy moments at the bridge.

It is fortunate for navigators who must bring their vessels into comparatively shallow harbors that tides can be counted upon.

The tides that influence our lives are not of as frequent recurrence as those whose swelling crests follow the moon around the globe, nor are they regular, or in anywise to be predicted.

A man who today thinks that he has accomplished all he can accomplish in life, and who has settled down to a dull and humdrum existence may tomorrw find an opportunity which could lead him to heights far past his dreaming.

But it will lead him nowhere unless he is ready to take advantage of it.

My neighbor a few doors down the street is fifty years old. Since he was twenty-five he has been in a business where he was placed by his father. He disliked the business exceedingly.

But he saw no chance for a change, so he mastered it, and managed, by working hard, to make a comfortable living for himself and his family.

But all the time he looked longingly at another business and in his spare time found out all that he could find out concerning it without being directly engaged in it.

At forty-eight he had an unexpected opportunity to embark in this business. He was under some doubt as to what he ought to do, but at last decided to make the change.

In two years he had made enough of a success to be sure that he might spend the rest of his years in it, happily and without regarding the day's work as a day's drudgery.

When the tide set right for him he was ready to take it, and it was "sure to lead on to fortune."

But had he not put his whole energy into learning the business he was in, the tide would have found him helpless to launch himself upon it.

Preparedness means mental ability and self confidence.

A good mind will succeed fairly well toward the end of a lifetime. It may come tomorrow. One never can tell.

But to take the tide at the flood one must be ready, and the only way to be ready is to discipline the mind and the will, and to learn how to lear, which is one of the most difficult undertakings a man can embark upon.

W. J. B. Has Found An Issue for 1928—Stone And Webster Gets Clifford—Help Mexico And Calles—Rolling Along With The Railroads.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN is on the road again, just as he has been on the road every year for 35 years. As predicted by this newspaper, when the evolution fight began last year, W. J. B. has found his paramount issue for the campaign in 1928.

All government issues, which include all the economic issues, are to be kicked aside by W. J. B. and the issue of 1928 will be "Was an ape the father of mankind?"

Darwin never said it. Huxley hinted at it. Many of the greatest scientists of the world are othodox Christians. Many of the great Catholic writers of the world include notable priests in the world of science, are champions of the doctrine of evolution, an evolution which does not conflict with the teaching of their church or conflict in any way with the decrees of the Vatican.

Incidentally, the Vatican has been "hands off" from the beginning. But back to W. J. B. He has had a paramount issue in every national campaign for 34 years. He is doing his best to manufacture one for 1928 and as usual the issue will come out of the south. If W. J. B. runs true to form he will assist in wrecking the democratic party in 1928 as he has succeeded in wrecking every campaign where he has been permitted to shape the platform policies of the party and dictate its nominees. He was the principal wrecker at San Francisco in 1920. He was the principal wrecker at the Madison Square Garden in 1924.

He is a remarkable man. He has held the center of the stage for more than a third of a century. He has a personal following in every American commonwealth but it must be conceded by fair-minded men that as a political dictator, a maker of paramount issues, he has made the party of Jefferson the doormat or the football of history.

GEORGE H. CLIFFORD has been made the representative of the Stone and Webster interests in Texas, an dthese interests are largely interurban railways, trolley lines and power and light companies. He succeeds Luke P. Bradley of Houston, who came to Texas 14 years ago and has been the spokesman for the Stone and Webster people since that time. Mr. Bradley has been given a promotion and sent to another section of the country.

George H. lifford is a native Texan. He was born on a Texas farm. He started as a line man when the first survey of the Dallas and Fort Worth interurban was made.

He mounted every rung of the ladder and now he is seated on the apex in so far as the interest and the people which he represents in Texas are concerned. Now Fort Worth will be the headquarters of the Stone and Webster interests in Texas, and George H. Clifford, who was chasing a plow on a Texas farm 25 years ago, will carry the load.

Another Texan has been given a place in the national picture gallery. John Marcus Davis has been elected president of the Deleware, Lackawana and Western Railway company. He is the successor of W. H. Truesdale, one of the best known rail executives of America. John Marcus Davis was born in Anderson county. In 1892 he began as a stenographer in the offices of the Santa Fe Railway company, in the city of Temple. Since then he has spent years in the rail service with the Erie, Great Northern, Harriman Lines and the Baltimore and Ohio.

Now he is the president of one of the richest and most important rail lines on the map of America. Opportunity knocks every day, but only the man who fits himself for service awakes when the knocking takes place. George H. Clifford prepared himself for every promotion and John M. Davis made the journey from the typewriter at Temple to the head of one of the most important railways of the progressive east.

PRESIDENT CALLES of Mexico says that the Mexicans are getting ready to make initial payments on their foreign debt; that the National Bank of Mexico is to be established without delay; that national highways are to be built stretching from cities on the Texas Rio Grande border to the City of Mexico; that the Mexican telephone and telegraph company, backed by American money, has been organized and will build the first long distance telephone line in Mexico.

Mexicans are on the march. They should be given a helping hand. They should not be turned over to the fender mercies of the nationals of other countries who are forever grabbing the natural resources of the Aztec republic. Some of the wealth taken out of the soil of Mexico should be turned over to the republic for the support of national schools and national highways. Billions of dollars have been taken from the bowels of the earth in Mexico in bygone years for the enrichment of nationals of other countries and yet 12 millions out of a population of 15 millions in the republic of Mexico are illiterate and poverty-stricken.

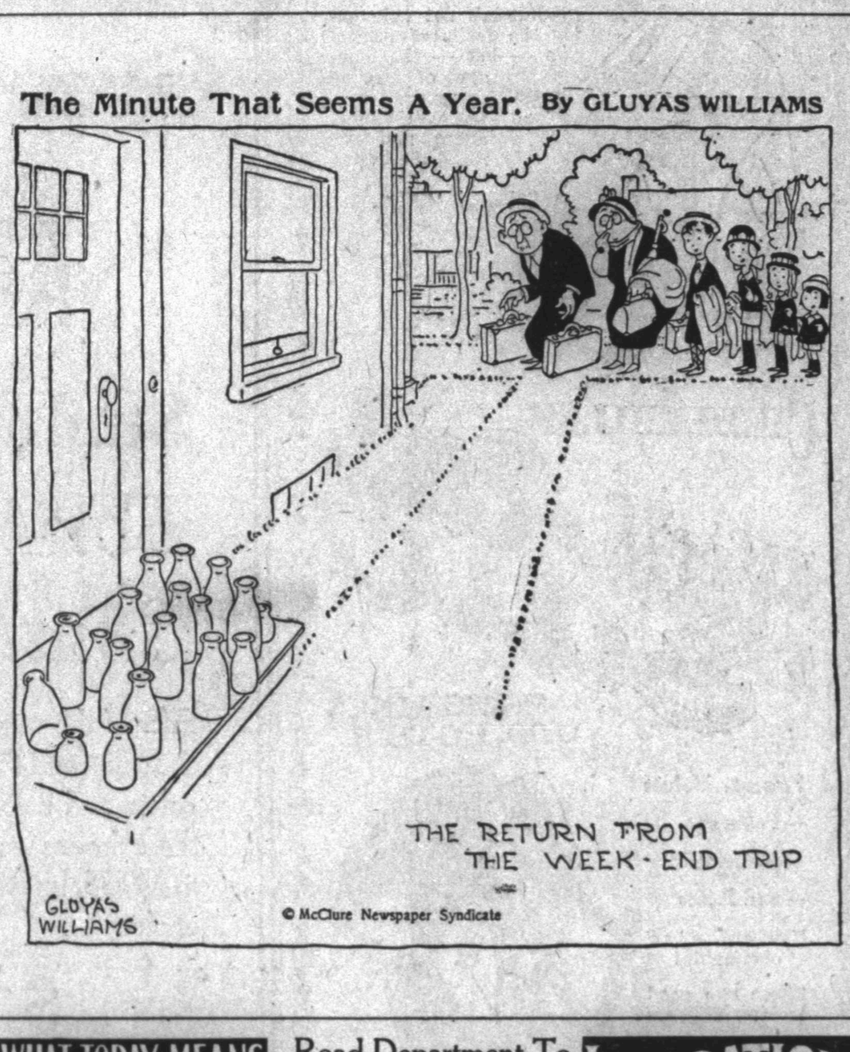

Now who have been the spoilers? Were they Mexicans or were they knights of the golden fleece from every civilized land under the sun?

Justice is justice and civilized man, who boasts of his Christian civilization, should deal justly with those who are the under dog of the world and never been given a helping hand.

RAILWAYS OF THE UNITED STATES transported 981,000,000 persons, nearly nine times the population of the United States during the past year. Fatalities for the year totaled 149, or one fatality for 6,314,000 persons transported safely. Moreover the number of injured was 15 per cent less than the average for the previous four years and the smallest number injured during any one year since 1901. On the other hand, motor vehicles slew more than 30,000 persons during the year and the number of injured totaled 250,000. Why not safety first in the motor vehicle world? Why not a drastic law that will reduce the death list?

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Cancer.

The planetary aspects of today are favorable during the forenoon, and become excellent during the early afternoon and evening, although, later on, they assume a rather adverse nature. If you have been in doubt as to the right moment for the initiation of any new enterprise, if you have been waiting for some auspicious occasion, on which to commence the working out of some new though, change or idea, today is the appointed time, and all the signs counsel to "do it now." It is also a propitious opportunity for the solemnization of marriage, and those who are wed today will never regret the step they take. Late at night, there are some sluggish ivbrations that indicate a lack of responsiveness, and a tendency to heckle or find fault.

A boy born today will not, at the beginning of its career, enjoy very good health. On the contrary, he will suffer from many ailments of a more or less serious character. Once his anxious period is passed, however, he will flourish like the green-bay tree, and develop a strong and vigorous manhood. A girl, however, will be robust and healthy from her birth and sickness of any grave nature will never be her lot. Both will possess cheerful dispositions, and be, in a sense, especially during the period of childhood, both careless and irresponsible, trying at all times to evade duty rather than comply with it. They will, however, on attaining maturity undergo a change, and become good citizens, with an ever present desire to make up in sincere effort for the time they fritted away in their youth.

If today is your birthday, you can travel better alone, than in company; you possess a keen understanding and a remarkably quick perception, but lack the ability and often the desire to explain your ideas to others—especially if they are at all slow witted. This is, possibly, one of the reasons why you do not attain that material prosperity to which your many abilities entitle you. It is such an effort for you to instruct others in what they should do for the materilization of your plans that you look upon it as time wasted, and elect to do everything yourself, which is incompatible, owing to human limitations, with success.

You possess a charm that is very attractive, and are blessed with the gift of conversation, a well developed sense of humor, and a love for all that is artistic. Most of the unpleasant spots in your life are smoothed over by your calm assurance and kindly spirit.

Road Department To Share in Gas Taxes

AUSTIN, July 16.—(AP).—Three-fourths of the revenue collected from the occupational tax on gasoline, beginning September 1, 1925, will go to the state highway department, and the other fourth to the available free school fund, under an opinion delivered today by the attorney general's department to S. H. Terrell, who requested the opinion. Ernest May, assistant attorney general, who wrote the letter to Mr. Terrell, cited the acts of the third called session of the 38th legislature and the highway and education department bills of the 39th legislature as the basis for the opinion.

HOW IT STARTED

"Library."

Your dictionary will tell you that "library" comes from the French "librairie," a bookseller's shop, derived from "libraire," a bookseller. But that is only the preamble to the story.

In the first and second centuries A. D. there was great stimulation in Rome in the use of books, and to meet the increasing demands the booksellers conceived a speedier method of production than had been possible with the old system of scribes copying one at a time. The enterprising dealers assembled a score or two of scribes, most of whom were well educated slaves, and had them all write a tonce at the dictation of one reader. So dozens of copies could be made in the time that had formerly produced but one.

The scribes who prepared the manuscripts were known as "librarii," and since many booksellers themselves did the copying which produced their wares, the name was applied also to the dealers in books. It is from this beginning that we have the word "library," its intermediate derivation being from the French "librairie," a bookseller's shop.

IRRIGATION

The Amount Paid Mr. Waggoner By The Irrigation District.

In preceding articles we have related some of the conditions which obtained at the time negotiations were pending between Mr. Waggoner and the Irrigation district board for the right to flood the lands now covered by the waters of Lake Kemp and the Diversion lake.

Mr. Waggoner did not seem to want the two big lakes to be built on his land. It was reported at the time that he felt they would interfere with his business of cattle raising. So he was apparently resisting the efforts of the district board to get a right of way for flooding and for other purposes.

There was much talk of the necessity of bringing condemnation proceedings. In fact the contract mentions this.

In any event Mr. Waggoner must have realized that the district as a creature of the state had the right of eminent domain and could condemn his land and proceed with the work if they saw fit and he finally reached an agreement with them.

By the terms of this agreement the district, which means the people of Wichita Falls, paid Mr. Waggoner the neat sum of $300,000, and received from him sundry rights and privileges. These rights are contained in the contract.

The Callahan Construction company immediately established their camps at the two dam sites and commenced active construction work.

The contract is a lengthy document which contains many provisions which are of interest to the people here.

It does not contain any provision which gives the right to any one other than Mr. Waggoner, to fish, boat, swim, or hunt in or upon the lakes created.

The fee title to every foot of the land remains in Mr. Waggoner. All the district got was the right to do certain things and to put the land to certain uses which are strictly limited by the provisions of the contract.

CONSIDER STATE HATCHERY ON THE GUADALOUPE RIVER

AUSTIN, July 16.—(AP).—Advisability of establishing a fish hatchery at Kerrville on the Guadaloupe river is being considered by Turney Hubby, state game and fish and oyster commissioner, who is now in Kerrville. Mr. Hubby is slated to return to Austin Friday.

THE STORY SO FAR—

There was something strange about Enid Austin. She had a mysterious air that at the age of 23 had attracted Ronald Corley. They had become engaged and two days before their marriage Ronald and Coralie Brainerd, Enid's friend, eloped. Enid is left to bear out her humiliation and makes a resolve that never again will she trust a man.

The Corleys return to town where they take up their home. Ronald loves his wife but still watches for Enid. At the age of 26 Enid meets Lucien Grant. After a headlong romance on Grant's part they are married, Grant for love and Enid because she wants a home of her own. She makes up her mind not to love Lucien but has little trouble deceiving him until on his honeymoon he asks her the point blank question, "Do you love me?" For the time being she evaded his question, but later after a heated conversation with him in their honeymoon rooms she declares she does not love him.

Now to go on with the story.

They did no entertaining while the apartment was undergoing its redecoration, but when it was finished, Enid planned on giving a dinner. As usual, she talked over the arrangements with Lucien, and as usual she was determinedly friendly.

As she chatted on at length he wondered that she could so ignore the more important side of their relationship, that she could take it for granted that he was content with things as they were. Outwardly she was so feminine, so entirely desirable. He remembered the incredible elimpess of her when he had held her in his arms, remembered with a sharp pain in his heart all her sweetness.

She leaned toward him suddenly. She was so close that the faint perfume she used drifted to him making him catch his breath.

"I don't believe you've heard a word I've been saying."

He forced a smile.

"Oh, yes I have. You said you thought 12 would be a good number and you named over several people you wanted to invite."

Enid smiled back at him. She was tired tonight and for once her smile was soft, even a little wistful. It lacked that hard, bright quality so characteristic of her. He had seen her wear that smile once before and he racked his brain trying to remember.

Then in a flash he recalled the incident. It had occurred on the train at the beginning of their honeymoon. They had been on their way to the dinner, and a golden haired child had clasped Enid about the knees, looking up at her out of wide, blue eyes.

Enid had cuddled the baby against her throat, crooning over it in a way women have. Afterward her face had worn a tender smile, her eyes had looked mysterious.

CHAPTER XIII.

Dinner Gossip.

Perhaps if Lucien had known more about women, or if he had not loved Enid so much, he would have viewed the situation between them far differently. Instead of taking matters in his own hands, he gave Enid her way in everything. Not only that, but he let her see how much he needed her, and, because she had made up her mind to be entirely selfish, she took everything and gave nothing.

On the night of the dinner for 12 Lucien observed her from his end of the long table. Jervis Ames, a very prominent banker, sat at her right, and Ronald Corley at her left. She was dividing her time between them, and, although she was radiant, her manner was as bright and hard as usual.

Lucien noticed that Ronald sought her attention constantly. When she turned toward him he talked to her eagerly, his blue eyes never leaving her face. If Lucien had not known better, he would have said that Ronald was in love with her.

For the first time it occurred to him that he had never asked Enid what man she had loved in the past. Could it have been Ronald Corley? A stab of jealousy went through him, and for a moment he saw red. In desperation he turned to Coralie, who sat at his left.

She smiled up into his eyes.

"I've been watching you. You've done nothing all through dinner but devour Enid with your eyes."

He grinned back at Coralie, whom he liked. She reminded him of an ingenuous child. She was so frank, so obvious, so pink and white and wholesome. Of course, she had no depth, and her curves were, perhaps, a bit too opulent; but for all that he liked her.

"Has it really been as bad as all that?"

She nodded.

"Yes; and if the dinner weren't so delicious, I think I'd be inclined to discipline you. If you want a bit of advice from an old, married woman, I'll give it to you. It isn't wise to let a woman know how much power she has over you. She's apt to take advantage."

"Is that the way you handle Ronald?"

"Of course. Ronald is entirely normal; he has all the failings of other men. I suppose you know that he and Enid are old friends. They were engaged to be married at one time."

Coralie said this quite calmly. The fact that Ronald had jilted Enid had seemed to Coralie perfectly normal. Coralie hadn't the capacity for deep suffering, and, consequently, had no idea of the torture Enid had endured. Besides, even if Enid had loved Ronald at one time, she was now happily married to another man. Coralie had no comprehension of any situation that was not entirely normal; she had no suspicion of undercurrents; she simply took things as she found them.

Lucien was amazed at the effect Coralie's information had upon him. One moment he was hot all over, and the next as cold as ice. So Ronald was the man Enid had loved in the past. Enid and Ronald Corley had once been lovers! What had separated them? Why hadn't they married? Did Coralie know? Dare he broach the subject to her? In some way he must find out the truth, even if he had to ask Enid herself.

"You say that Enid was once engaged to Ronald?" Lucien asked.

Coralie nodded.

"Hasn't Enid ever told you about it?"

"No."

"Well, then, I won't. Perhaps I shouldn't have said as much as I have. Ron always tells me that I have no discretion or tact. I'll say this much, however. It's a good thing they never married, for they're not a bit suited to each other. I've always been a fatalist about such things, and you and Enid were made for each other."

Lucien hardly heard Coralie's chatter. He was looking at Enid, at the other end of the table. Ronald was saying something to her in an undertone, and she was bending her bright head toward him. She had loved Ronald once; perhaps she still cared for him.

CHAPTER XIV.

Undercurrents.

After dinner coffee was served in the large living room. Enid sat behind the silver service, her slim white fingers moving like butterflies among the fragile china, and Ronald still lingered by her side. She drew him like a magnet. It seemed incredible to him that he had once been engaged to her, that he had held her in his arms, kissed her when he wished. It seemed impossible to believe that she had ever loved him.

How entrancingly remote she was. It was as if she kept a barrier of some kind between herself and people with whom she came in contact. Was she that way with her husband, or did she give herself entirely to him? The thought stirred a vague jealousy in Ronald, made him long for something that he could not define.

Ronald glanced from Enid to Coralie, who sat quite near him, near enough for him to overhear bits of her conversation.

Coralie wore a somewhat rumpled pink chiffon dress. It was a trifle tight for her, so that the shoulder straps cut into her soft white flesh making it bulge slightly.

"Yes, the country has its drawbacks," she was saying. "It is always difficult to keep help. But I don't believe in bringing children up in the city, and Ron agrees with me. Of course I come to town several times a week. I'm not buried alive or anything like that. I always say that if Ron is willing to commute, I ought to be able to stand it, and then as I said before, there are the children to be considered."

Ronald sighed.

Coralie was a darling, but she was so obvious.

His gaze returned to Enid, slim and perfectly groomed. He could not imagine her ruffled over anything. If she lived in the country it did not seem possible that she would ever have trouble getting servants. Enid was one woman in a million and she might have been his.

She was a born entertainer. People stimulated her, and she had the gift of letting them know this. But while she was a flattering listener, seeming to concentrate on what was being told to her, her thoughts were often busy with something else. It was that way tonight. She listened to Ronald, answered him with pertinent phrases and all the while her thoughts were busy with the knowledge that she was attracting him. He had hardly left her side all evening. What a glorious revenge it would be to lead him on, delicately of course, but deliberately. She had no scruples about it. Her conscience did not trouble her. No matter what she did it would be impossible to hurt Ronald and Coralie as they had hurt her.

"Why don't you and Lucien come down to the country and spend a week-end with us?" Ronald was saying. "I think you would enjoy it, and Coralie loves company."

Enid smiled up at him. "It's a nice idea, I'll speak to Lucien about it. But, not for the present, Ronald, I'm just getting settled you know, and there's still a great deal to be done."

Inwardly, she was thinking: "But we will go, and I'll be charming to Ronald. Of course, I won't give him a chance to be alone with me, that is, if I can help it. But I'll be a disturbing factor—for all of that. It may be possible to jar even that perfect complacence of Coralie's. Anyway, it will be fun to try."

Bridge tables were set up and the guests cut for partners. Strangely enough, Enid and Ronald played together at the first table with Coralie and Lucien opposite. Coralie chattered gayly and aimlessly about nothing at all. She played bridge very badly and kept apologizing to Lucien as the score against them mounted. She kept insisting that his silence was due to the fact that he was disgusted with her, which, of course, was not true.

Lucien was acutely aware of Ronald's absorption in Enid. He was aware, too, of the fact that she was encouraging him. He made up his mind to speak to her about Ronald as soon as they were alone. He must ascertain whether or not she still cared.

CHAPTER XV.

Alone at Last.

It was 1 o'clock before the last guest departed and Enid and Lucien were alone. Enid was as fresh as she had been in the early part of the evening. Not only that, but she was as flawlessly groomed. Not a hair was out of place, not a wrinkle marred the perfection of her dinner frock. Her eyes were sparkling as she turned to Lucien with a laughing remark, "It was quite a success, wasn't it?"

She wandered about the living room straightening things here and there. She gathered up the cards and slipped them back into their cases, she threw away bridge scores and emptied ash trays, and all the while she hummed a gay little tune, as though she were perfectly happy and contented.

ALL NOT WELL AT C. I. A. SAYS BOARD LETTER

Recent Faculty Disagreement With Dr. Lindsey Blainey Are Admitted

DENTON, July 16.—(AP).—Verification of reports of controversy between Dr. Lindsey Blainey, president of the College of Industrial Arts, here and some members of the faculty was given by J. W. Deagan, resident member of the board of regents, in a formal statement today. The regents met a week ago to consider the conditions and hear reports, adjourning until September, as they considered they had an understanding of the situation. Mr. Deagan's statement follows:

Regrets the Publicity.

"Speaking for the board of regents of the College of Industrial Arts, I wish to express my regret of the wide publicity which has been given the misunderstanding that for some time has existed at the college. The board of regents felt that the matter could be settled in a quiet manner much more satisfactorily than would be possible were the causes of the contention at the institution given a general 'airing' through the press of Texas, as nothing even approaching a scandal was involved. I still feel that much of the publicity hinting at major disturbances at the situation is unwarranted.

"In view of the fact, however, that much has been written of the unofficial rumors, I believe that the time has arrived for the board of regents to make a comprehensive statement regarding conditions at the College of Industrial Arts.

Over Executive Methods.

"During the past few weeks a controversy as to the executive methods at the college has developed between the president and some members of the faculty. This controversy included a change or two in the faculty and other matters. As this controversy grew, an undesirable atmosphere developed at the institution and a large number of faculty members felt that a meeting of the board of regents should be called in an effort to secure harmony in the conduct of the school.

"A petition was signed by a number of the faculty members and this was to be presented to the board, requesting it to meet. The petition, however, was never presented, as three members of the board of regents requested Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, president, to call a meeting. This was done.

Board Is Called.

"The board met on Tuesday morning of last week. During that day, Tuesday evening and Wednesday several of the faculty members were called before the board in an effort to determine what the conditions were and how they could be remedied. The disclosures during the investigation were of a confidential nature, but nothing sensational was brought out. Before the board adjourned Wednesday evening, to meet again in September, the regents had come to what they considered a satisfactory understanding of the controversy.

"Since the meeting, I have talked with the president of the college and with various faculty members and have been assured that the work at the institution is being carried on in a harmonious manner."

One-Cent Check For Too Much Taxes Is Sent to Frederickan

FREDERICK, Okla., July 16.—That government employes are exacting in their clerical work and figuring is undobtedly the truth, judging from the fact that George M. Burkhardt, Frederick abstract agent, recently received a check from the United States government for one cent.

The check is made payable to Burkhardt and an inscription tells that the money is a rebate for an overpayment of income tax.

Figuring at the rate usually charged, the paper, ink, time of printing the form and the work of writing the check is worth more than the actual value of the check. The tender is drawn on the treasurer of the United States and is a regular check countersigned by the proper officers.

Officials Warn Against Danger From Mad Ones in Hot Weather.

A warning that all dogs should be kept in restraint during the hot weather has been sounded by city officials as a guard against possible danger rfom mad-dog infection.

The extremely hot weather, it is explained, renders dogs susceptible to going mad, with attending serious results. It is safer for all concerned, they say, that the pups be kept penned or chained at home while the temperatures are running so high.

Haskell is more fortunate than a number of other counties in the state, owing to the fact that it has three state designated highways totaling 109 miles within the borders of our county.

THRESHING BEGINS.

Threshing crews throughout the north and northeast part of the county got under way last week for the threshing of Haskell county's wheat and oat crop. The grain was practically all cut and in shock and the separator crews are winding their way over the threshing fields as they come to them. Plenty of hands are in the county and it is thought that harvest will be completed in record time.

GIN ROUND BALE SYSTEM.

Another addition is being made to the Electric gin building of this city, in which will be installed around bale press of the latest model and type. C. A. Duaney, manager, is quite enthusastic over the project and expects to have t in first class condition when the season opens. He is also going over his gin and making it complete in every department and will leave nothing undone to have it in perfect condition for the bumper cotton crop which is new in the making over Haskell county.

MEETING DRAWS

The Hogg-Wall-Williams meeting, that is a union meeting of all the Haskell churches is mobilizing large audiences at every service. Between two and three thousand people come to the evening service and the morning service at the Christian church is well attended. The average attendance at the downtown meeting for men is 95. There were 101 present Monday morning. The general concensus of opinion is that these men of God who have come to Haskell to fight sin are terribly in earnest and deeply spiritual. The Christian people of Haskell are expecting a great revival of religion.

More Truth Than Poetry

FASHIONS IN FORMS

They alter the fashions in Paris,
Whenever a season goes by;
A lady's array that is stylish in May
Is all out of date in July.
There is always a changing procession
Of fashions in frocks and in capes,
And slippers and hose and more intimate clothes,
And now there are fashions in shapes!

The languid and languorous lady
Who was built on the lines of a file,
Was regarded last fall to have just about all
The figure demanded by style.
But now you will never behold one
Who is even as thin as a slat,
They have taken on weight at a terrible rate—
For fashion has made 'em all fat.

Next autumn the modes may be shifted—
Or possibly even next week,
Only dames who are lean on the rues will be seen
For slimness will then be thought chic.
And so it will move through the cycles—
For a season will plumpness abound,
Then ladies who look like a shepherd boy's crook
In the Bois and cafes will be found.

Alas for the dealer in costumes
Who once made a brilliant success,
And who put all his heart in the wonderful art
Of teaching my lady to dress.
Now figures must change with the fashions,
No time can she put in with him,
To conform with the style every once in a while—
She must spend all her days in a gym!

Herd Tramples Spudders In Second Straight Stampede, 9 to 5

THREE HOMERS TOO MUCH FOR EULAS MORGAN

Domestics Start and Finish Well, But Lose In Middle

By BLONDY CROSS

Houston's Buffs humbled our erstwhile proud Spudders again Thursday at the plant, this time, 9 to 5.

The gang got away to a rattling start but wilted after the Herd tied her up twice and then forged one-run ahead in the sixth. The Spudder fire died down and from then on it was pickin's for the South Texas outfit.

Tanner injected Bubber Jonnard as pinch hitter during the ninth after there was one away and the Spudders put on a belated and quite abbreviated rally. Bubber cracked a single to right. Callaghan drew a pass, and Distel singled to right for a score. Cal drew up at third. He scored when Williams forced Distel at second. Bodie forced Williams.

The Bovines got to Morgan for 15 safeties, three of which were homers. Gallagher, Peel, and McCurdy of the enemy each lofted one over the fence. Distel also bruised a four-bagger.

Carlisle Littlejohn, Buff right hander, found the going rough in portions, but struggled through in creditable fashion when the Wichita Falls club began apparently to lose heart in the face of the uncanny ability of the Buffs to grab the breaks.

Start Well

The Buffs connected for a pair of singles in the first, Gallagher and Gainer on the swinging end, but the blows were interspersed with two infield outs and a strikeout, so the plate was not scratched. The Spudders combed Littlejohn for a pair. Callaghan strolled to first via the free transportation route, and Distel on the second ball pitched to him hoisted the spheroid for rapid transit to the uncultivated soil in rear of the left center fence. Williams popped a single to center, but Ping hit into a double play. Then Turge doubled to left. Golvin went out, second to first.

Houston balanced accounts in the second. With one away, Dick passed McCurdy, and then Hollohan rifled a long one to right center, sending Mac to third. The blow was a two-bagger. Littlejohn followed with a two-cushioner to left center, scoring both. Kane swished a hard bounder just to the right of second. Turgeon made a sweet stop, but threw low to first. Littlejohn advanced to third. Gallagher hoisted one to short center. Williams came in fast, gathered the nugget to his chest, and held Littlejohn to third. Callaghan went back to the left field boards and pulled down a high rocket by Powell.

Gainer, first up in the Buff third, laced a single at the keystone; but the menace was mild for Compton forced him at second. Dick whiffed Peel, and McCurdy bounded out to short.

Dick Grabs Lead

Eulas took the situation by the collar in the fourth. He fanned Hollohan and Littlejohn, and worked Kane into bobbling out to the box. Then in the domestic portion of the couplet with Golvin on second by virtue of a walk and sacrifice bunt by Turgeon, the big fellow larruped a single through short to put the Spudders a run out front.

The advantage did not survive the next round. Gallagher led away in the fifth with a drive over the starboard barrier for an unhampered voyage around the runways. The Spudders indicated, but that was all. Williams lined a single to left, and was forced at second by Bodie. Turgeon oozed an infield safety past the box. Golvin aviated to left, and Dorman went out to first unassisted.

Singles by McCurdy and Hollohan after there was one out followed by an error at short on what stacked up as a possible double play netted the Bayou City squad a one-run lead in the sixth. Littlejohn was master in the Spudder half of the inning.

Compton singled in the Houston seventh after there were two down, and Peel put one over the left field fence, making the score, 6 to 3, Houston.

Singles by Gainer and Compton coupled with an infield out netted the Buffs another in the ninth. Then McCurdy hit a homer over the left center fence to bring the score up to 9-8.

Buffs Leave After Today—Hurray! Hurray!

Houston's ball team, sorry to say, will be at the orchard again this afternoon. It's the third and final game of the series. The Buffs have won the other two.

Rip Wheeler will probably be Tanner's selection for mound duty. Marvin Goodwin will probably call on Benge. With these two hurlers in form the battle should be a close one.

The Spudders are not expected to beat Houston this afternoon, but the league gravy train rolls into the fortress tomorrow—Beaumont comes for a pair.

Magnolia Tossers Scoop News, 12-5

By playing a great brand of baseball the Magnolia Shallowfield club defeated The Record News team from Wichita Falls on the Magnolia diamond Thursday afternoon 12 to 5. The home club hit Jimmy Parker hard in the pinches and the young Wichitan's strikeout string grew but six in the game. The News team made five errors in the field, and Magnolia made only two miscues. Only six hits were garnered off the Magnolia pitcher, and with the help of his mates he had The Record News team helpless.

This gave The Record News a fifty-fifty average with one win and one loss. The club is open for games with any club in their class and hope to arrange several games in the near future.

Texhoma's Down Monroe Travelers, By 4 to 2 Count

TIMELY HITS AID OILERS; BOONE STARS

Peyton And Trout Stop Monroes at Crucial Times

Texhoma won a 4 to 2 verdict over the Travelers Thursday afternoon on the Twilight diamond in a closely contested battle. Pap Peyton let in the only two runs of the Travelers in the fifth, and Trout finished the game, which was featured by the playing of Gerard Boone at second base for Texhoma. He accepted nine chances at second base, figuring in one double play, without an error. Hatton and Rice also turned in nice catches in the outfield for the Travelers.

Texhoma took a lead in the first inning off Murrell. McMahon and Kizziar went out. Rabbit Gordon walked, stole second and continued on to third when Hicks threw low to first. Thompson beat out an infield hit, scoring Gordon for the first tally.

One, Two, Three.

In the next two innings the Texhomans were retired in order and the only features to these innings were the catches by Rice and Hatton. Rice took Boone's drive after a high jump into the air. Hatton raced to the right field foul line to take Kizziar's drive that was ticketed for two or three bases.

Texhoma got to Murrell again in the fourth inning. Gordon popped out to Faichney. Thompson singled to center and continued on to second when the ball got by Rawls. Thompson took third on Davis' infield out. Boone crashed a single over short for the first tally. Boone stole second; McDuffy doubled to right, and Boone romped home.

Texhoma counted another in the fifth. Peyton singled to right. McMahon sacrificed him to second. Peyton stole third, and continued on to the platter when Hicks' threw wide to third.

Score In Fifth.

The Travelers' only two scores came in the fifth. Murrell was safe at first on Gordon's bobble. Hefner doubled to left, scoring Murrell. Taylor whiffed and Rawls beat out an infield hit to short, scoring Hefner.

Texhoma threatened to score again in the sixth but brilliant fielding stopped them. With one down, Ross beat out an infield hit. He stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Boone walked and McDuffy hit to Taylor who nipped Ross between third and home. Hicks tagged Ross and threw McDuffy out trying to reach second.

The Travelers made a game effort to score in the last two innings but failed. In the sixth, Hatton opened with a single to center. Rice fanned. Ikard hit to Kizziar who forced Hatton at second. Ikard took second on a wild pitch. Murrell ripped a single off Umpire Moseley's shins. Ikard took third and Hefner fanned.

Taylor opened the seventh with a single to left. Rawls hit one over second which Boone fielded on the bag, forcing Taylor, but Rawls beat Boone's peg to first. Hicks hit to Boone who forced Rawls at second with a toss to Gordon. Faichney ended the game with a strikeout.

Lina Motors Best U. S. Machine Nine By 8 to 3 Score

ELECTRA, July 16.—The Lina Motor took the U. S. Machine shop nine into camp Wednesday by an 8-3 tabulation. Cal Calvert led the attack for the winners with a double, single and sacrifice fly out of three attempts.

The motormen started the counting in the initial inning when they chased three runs across the pan on Warner's walk, Williams' single and Hale's error. Ray's single and R. Hipp's infield bingle, Easley's single and a pair of miscues netted them another in the second.

The machinists rallied in the third when singles by Hale and Modrell Scott and Scholdberg and Ray's error scored their three tallies.

The score:		R.	H.	E.

U. S. Machine	003 00—	3	5	6

The Passing Hour

By William B. Ruggles

FRANKENSTINE

Peace to some Scotchman's placid dust,
Who thought up how this game is played—
He is happier now, I trust
Than when he tried the thing he made.
And staunchly stanched on either foot
Contrived to blow a six-inch putt.

Peace to MacPherson or McTabb
Who got the blamed game under way—
Those shepherd folks who time would nabe
A pastured stretch in par to play;
They made the rules—played once—enorm
They found that they were off their form.

Perhaps in some quaint church-yard laid—
Beside some quiet Scottish kirk—
They look back on the game that's played
And grin about their ghoulish work—
Peace to their ashes buried then,
Who's left no peace to other men.

University co-ed beats army officer in rifle match.—News item. Higher education promises higher mortality in husbands in the next generation.

THE RUNT STICKS

PROBABLY baseball's smallest infield combination is that doing duty at short and second for the Chicago Cubs with Rabbit Maranville, the skipper handling one position and Earl Adams the other. Both are little infielders but loom large as ground coverers and in handling chances. The Rabbit is well past the peak of performance and his elevation to Killifer's saddle probably, luck breaking right, will keep him in the majors a bit longer than his span calls for. But Shorty Adams is still on the up-grade.

Texas league fans recall Adams as its best infielder in 1921. Yet that spring Branch Rickey tried to peddle him all over the circuit. Walter Salm, then manager of the Spuders, had either vision or the luck to grab the runt shortstop, and with Al White on one side of him and Buddie Tanner on the other, Adams contrived to make a sensational infield year astonish the loop.

Rickey decided that Adams would not do while the Cubs were at Orange. He went north with the second team under Roy Thomas and Roy evidently had orders to parcel out his services for he offered him to everybody hereabouts.

The Cubs use Roy Adams at second most of the time now. A glance at his daily performance shows that he usually gets 8 or 9 chances, well above the bagman's average. And the Cardinals are not sitting so rosily in infield talent that Rickey, from his present civilian job with the club, can not wonder occasionally why he did not hold on.

MOST diamond leaders, like army instructors, prefer the tall rangy type of infielder—the Arthur Fletcher-Delvin-Shafer model. But you can tell little about bagmen from their size. Some of the greatest infielders of all time have been short fellows—Maranville has earned his spurs as one. Arnold Hauser was another; Davy Bancroft is something of a midget. Dr. John Lavan, who is forcing attention as Detroit's regular infielder is a veritable Lilliputian.

When Adam delved and Eve span, Ad may have been a gentleman, for he did not forfeit paradise when playing out of cuppy lies!

Cullen Caln says that he was at the Sox ball camp at Eagle Pass when Bill Barrett decided he could not play shortstop. But it was in New York, Boston, Washington, Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland and Chicago that Eddie Collins reached the same conclusion.

WHEN Bill Killifer stepped out of the management of the Cubs a few days back, the third Texas leaguer to manage a major league ball club went out and a probable minor league record (made possible by Hornsby's replacement of Rickey) of three former Texas leaguers managing major ball clubs through the same year was spoiled.

Hornsby and Speaker are the only native Texans who have risen to the leadership of teams in the majors. The Texas league produced Speaker but can only claim foster parentage of Hornsby, as his real minor league berth was with Babe Peebles at Denison in the old T. and O.. Killifer was not a Texan, but Texas college bred at St. Edward's in Austin.

Killifer's passing on the ebb tide of a luckless year brings up the query of how long Speaker and Hornsby will last. Mrs. Dunn, the Cleveland owner, declared the other day that Old Silver Top had a lifetime job with the Indians. But a lifetime job in baseball means as long as you keep out of the cellar. The betting was free when Hornsby took over Rickey's bad job that he would be a morning glory but so far the Rajah has astonished his carping critics and has seen the Cards brace under his leadership.

But you do not last forever in the baseball game. They will follow Killifer some day.

SPOKE'S FINAL HAVEN

WHEN Hornsby slips, he will probably stay in St. Louis, his adopted home. But Speaker has never gotten Texas corn from behind his ears and while he has been growing prematurely gray in American league spangles has been streking every fall back to the home town at Hubbard City.

No few North Texas fans believe that Spoke's last baseball haven will be the best minor league franchise in America—that at Dallas. Not as manager for the present owners but as part owner himself and field boss.

Dallas is as nearly Speaker's home as Hubbard City. He belongs to Hella Temple there—has a host of friends—many of them well able to finance a purchase into the club, as is Speaker himself. He brought Cleveland to train on the Steer stamping ground for two years and formed a popular tie that way. When Yarry Gardner was sent to Dallas last winter, it was believed this was another Cleveland feeler and while Larry is gone now, he, too, left a pleasant wake of friendship.

Dallas fans lost in the wildness of the second division look forward as faithfully to a Speaker return as the Irish used to a reappearance of Lord Edward.

Lott Eliminates Kinsey from Nat'l Clay Court Meet

ST. LOUIS, July 16.—George Lott Jr. of Chicago, national junior champion, furnished a big upset in the national clay court tennis tournament here late today by eliminating Howard Kinsey of San Francisco. The score was 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

NORTH BEATS SHIPPERS, 6-2.

FORT WORTH, July 16.—Lou North, former Steer hurler, claimed by the Cats via the waiver route last week, started and finished his first game for the champions today, edefating the Beaumont Exporters, 6 to 2, and helping the Cats start a five-run rally in the third inning by knocking a home run over the center field fence. North was never in danger, keeping the seven Beaumont hits scattered over the full route and showing lots of stuff with men on bases. The score:

Map in Penny Store Shows Chain Stores

One of the show windows of the J. C. Penny company store, at No 713-15 Eighth street, contains an unique and graphic demonstration of the size and the growth of that nation-wide organization.

The window trimmer has placed colored tacks in a large map of the United States at the points where the company have stores. From these tacks strings of the same color run to a card on which the name of the city or town and the number of the store is printed in bold type.

There is one yellow tack. This denotes the "mother" or first store, which was opened at Kemmerer, Wyo., in April, 1902. The red tacks indicate the 671 stores that are in operation this year, while the black tacks direct attention to buying offices of the company at New York City, and St. Louis.

It is an exceedingly interesting display, well calculated to arrest the attention of people passing the window. It affords a keen realization of the magnitude of that great organization.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 16.—(AP)—The cotton market after an easy start and a tendency towards a reaction in the early morning rallied sharply later on, recovering 50 to 52 points from the lows and reaching a level of 33 points above yesterday's closing, finally closing near the top and 29 to 32 points net higher for the day.

The start was irregular with Liverpool better than due and opening trades here 9 points up to 4 down. The market turned easier right after the call owing to a bearish construction placed on the government "pars" for the next report and resultant selling carried October down to 23.24 and December to 23.35, the day's lows.

After the weather map showed little rain in the western belt the market became steadier and gradually advanced owing to very unfavorable reports on Texas drouth district conditions. By mid-session October had advanced to 23.54 and December 23.36.

After slight reactions around noon the market rallied again on a report that a prominent private bureau made the condition 72.3 or 1.4 points under its own report of two weeks ago. Noon weather reports also showed practically no rain. The advance was accelerated later by the announcement that the same private bureau made the indicated crop 14,100,000 and that an important private agency in Texas made the condition of that state only 57. October advanced to 23.74 and December to 23.87, or 50 to 52 points above the early lows. The close was at the very high points.

Exports today 11,323 bales.

STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 16—(AP)—A marked expansion in public participation characterized the resumption of upward movement in prices in today's stock market. Steel shares awoke from their lethargy and assumed the early leadership on the advance, but the buying switched to the oils in the late trading, with sporadic strength showing throughout the day in the coppers, public utilities and specialties. bTe day's sales exceeded 1,400,000 shares.

United States Steel common touched a new high on the current movement at 118⅝. Republic closed a point higher and most of the others improved fractionally.

Extension of recent crude oil price advances was finally taken cognisance of by the oil group. Tidewater jumpins five points to 141 on a few sales, while California Petroleum, Colorado Fuel, Houston, Mid-Continent, Phillips, Producers and Refiners, Texas company and Royal Dutch sold about one to three points higher. The weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute showed an increase in crude production in the week ended July 11, for the first time in five weeks, but it was only 650 barrels above the week before.

In the railroad list the feature was the spirited demand for Southern Railway common, which touched par for the first time in history, showing a gain of 2¾ points on the day. International railways of Central America and Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred also mounted to high ground.

In all, about thre dozen issues attained new 1925 peak prices, the list including United States Rubber common, Keystone Tire, Timken Roller Bearing, Household Products, American Can, International Business machine, General Railway Signal, American Agricultural Chemical, Ginter company, American Tobacco "A" and "B" and Phillip Morris. Savage Arms jumped seven to 56½ on a run of the short interest and then eased on profittaking.

The return flow funds from the interior of New York was reflected in the renewal rate on call loans to 3% per cent and the subsequent reduction to 3½. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

A rally in Danish kroner which carried them up to around 30.90 cents the highest rate in about three years, featured the foreign exchange market. Other rates held relatively steady, demand sterling being quoted around $4.85 and 11-16 and French francs just above 4.70 cents.

County Officers Make Whiskey Haul

Three hundred gallons of mash, a 250-gallon still and six dozen bottles of choc beer comprised the haul made late Wednesday night by Deputy Sheriffs Summers and McLain and Deputy Constables Rowe and Taylor in two raids made west of town. Two men were arrested and are now held in the county jail awaiting filing of charges today.

The choc beer was take nin a roadhouse eight miles west of the city. Complaints made to the officers about several similar places led to an investigation of it last night. One man was arrested there.

3 Things An Oil Must Do

Much of the harm that is done to a motor may happen during the first few revolutions of the flywheel—before the oil has had time to thoroughly cover all moving parts.

The above cross section of a motor shows the many points that must be protected by a film of oil. Only a few parts of the motor are continually bathed in oil. Some of the most vital parts depend on the "splash"; others can be reached only by a fine mist generated by the heat and speed of the motor.

When the motor is idle, there is no protective fluid film on the bearing surfaces. You must depend on the adsorbed film—that property which a good lubricant has of leaving a sufficient amount of greasiness on the bearings for safe lubrication, even in the absence of the fluid film. Ability to form and hold an adsorbed film is the supreme test of the worth of an oil.

"A Christian Believes Man Comes From Above; But An Evolutionist Believes He Comes from Below"

Remarks of William Jennings Bryan at "Ape" Trial

WM. J. BRYAN

COURT ROOM, DAYTON, Tenn., July 16.—(AP)—William Jennings Bryan made his first court argument in the Scopes case this afternoon. He addressed the court in support of an effort by the state to have scientific testimony excluded.

Mr. Bryan said he had not thought it proper before to take part in the discussion. He felt that in dealing with questions of law properly the state's authorized representative should speak.

"But today," said Mr. Bryan, "we come to decision on which the length of this trial will depend. If the court hold, as we feel should hold, then we may reasonably expect that the case is nearing the end."

The speaker recalled that he had been referred to by almost every attorney on the other side. "I have been charged," he said, "with being the archeonspirator in religious bigotry.

RECALLS PROTET TO PRAYERS IN COURT.

"This question is so important between the religious and irreligious that even the invoking of the divine blessing upon it should be regarded as partisan and partial."

"The statute defines exactly what the people of Tennessee intended and defined as unlawful and needs no interpretation," said Mr. Bryan.

"That there might be no ambiguity, no confusion of thought, the legislature was careful to define what was meant by the first part of the statute.

"If the teacher taught that man was a descendant of any lower form of life he violated the statute and we have the confession of the defendant that he knew that he was violating the law.

"Experts cannot be permitted to come into this court and testify that it is not a bad doctrine. This is not the place to say that the law should not have been passed. The legislature is the place for that advice to be given.

"If they (the experts) had half the affection for Tennessee, indicated by their presence here, they would have appeared before the legislature.

"If any state, New York, for instance, from which the impulse comes to prevent the enforcement of this law, passed such a law and Tennessee had sent men to New York to resist it, their presence would have been resented. Suppose Tennessee had sent men to New York to protest and testify as to the New York prohibition law, would not New York considered this improper?"

The text book in evidence states the very thing that is outlawed in this state, he said.

CLAIMS MINORITY IS CONTROLING CHILDREN.

"Has it come to a time that the minority in Tennessee can take the education of the children out of the hands of the parents of the children who attend the public schools? He asked.

The moment the law became a law, he said, anything contrary to the law in the text books became outlawed. The law supercedes the authorization of the school books.

The Floridan called attention to a recent meeting of the National Educational association where it was proposed to tell Tennessee to "head in."

Mr. Bryan predicted that little Howard Morgan, witness for the state yesterday, would become a distinguished lawyer some day. "This little boy understood the theory of evolution," said the speaker.

The speaker recalled that the testimony of Walter White and F. E. Robinson intended to show that Scopes did know what the law meant and realized that he was violating it.

When the Floridan called attention to the National Education association, he said there was a plain announcement of what was to be done, but the chairman of the resolutions committee later said there would be no resolution.

"There are so many theories of evolution that no resolution could be passed, and, if a specific stand were taken, it would cause controversy.

"Evolution," he said, "is the growth of all life from one cell."

"This," he said, "is not the same as the growth of the individual."

"A Christian believes that man comes from above," he said, "but the evolutionist believes that man comes from below."

Taking the text book on biology, Mr. Bryan called attention to a diagram in which animals were classified.

CLAIMS MAN SHOWN AS OF 3,499 ANIMALS.

"These animals are given in round numbers,' he said, "but I do not believe these animals breed in round numbers."

The court room resounded with laughter as the speaker took up a sketchy discussion of the diagram showing the number of birds, beasts and fish.

"Man is shown here as mammal, scattered around somewhere in side a circle with 3,499 other animals."

"Evolution that begins with nothing and ends nowhere," was a description Mr. Bryan used. "And, they would undermine the faith of these little children in that God who stands back of everything," he said.

"More than half the scientists do not have any personal God," he said, "according to letters sent to one of their number.

"This doctrine of evolution disputes the very thought of the virgin birth, eliminates the resurrection and the atonement. They leave no room for miracles and the Bible teems with miracles. They deny by logic every truth of the Christian religion.

"These people come from out of the state to rob the people of their religion."

Mr. Bryan quoted from a speech by Mr. Darrow in a Chicago case in which tribute was paid to Nietsche as a philosopher and a picture drawn of his influence. Mr. Darrow objected to reference to any case except the one under consideration.

Mr. Bryan had spoken of the Chicago lawyers in the Loeb-Leopold trial. To Mr. Darrow's objection the judge said:

"It will not prejudice the court."

"Then it won't do any good," said Mr. Darrow.

HE SAYS EVOLUTIONISTS HAVE DISCARDED DARWIN.

Mr. Bryan continued:

"In New York they are trying to prevent the adjournment of schools to permit the children to go to churches of their choice for instructions. These attorneys are not going back to New York to protect the children of that state, but they are here to try to bring experts to tell Tennessee how to have your children taught."

Reading from Darwin, he said that evolutionists have discarded Darwin in many ways but retain the Darwin theory that all life comes from one cell in the sea.

He read what he called the Darwin, "family tree" and added "now here we have our glorious pedigree and each child is expected to take it home to his family to be substituted for the Biblical family tree." "Evolutionary theory has failed and today there is not a scientist who has traced one species to another and yet they call us ignoramuses and bigots because we won't throw away our Bibles.

"Any member of a church is a better qualified expert on the Bible than any Bible expert who is not a member of the church."

"Amen," cried a voice from the crowd.

CROWD IN APPLAUSE AS COMMONER FINISHES.

"This is not a mock trial," Mr. Bryan said. "If we must have a mock trial, let us have it at the close of this case. Let us not give those who would stand in the limelight on the platform at Dayton a chance to usurp a court of Tennessee with its duty clearly before it. To enforce the law, a law that is clear and understandable."

The crowded court room broke into applause when Mr. Bryan concluded.

Dudley Field Malone followed:

"The theory read by Mr. Bryan was written by Darwin 75 years ago," he declared. "Have we learned nothing in the last 75 years?"

"Are we to hold to the beliefs of people who thought the earth was flat and whose other scientific beliefs were erroneous? I think this case has developed two frames of mind. There is a difference in the scientific and the religious frame of mind. The theological mind believes that the word of God is literal and is not to be changed.

Scientific thinking is modern. The scientific mind is open. It believes that God is God, the Bible is the Bible and should be retained as guide.

"I defy any one after Mr. Bryan's speech to say that this is not a religious question. We contend that we have the right to present our own case. We admit that our defendant taught evolution but we contend that we have the right to produce witnesses to show that the theory he taught does not conflict with the story of creation as taught in the Bible.

"We do not desire to destroy the Bible but let's us keep it in the world of your consciences and not in the field of science."

LAMAR AVENUE AND ALL POINTS EAST

Major Nabry Johnson underwent a minor operation Thursday.

Court of Honor of the Boy Scout organization will be held at the First Christian church.

Floyd Roberts of Oklahoma City arrived Thursday to assist his uncle W. Roberts, architect here, in the duties of his office.

Misses Kate and Gene Lane are in Clarendon, Texas, for a few weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Brumley.

Burton Millard will return to his home in San Jose, Calif., after a several months stay at the home of Mrs. James and Jay Calvert.

One marriage license was issued Thursday by the county clerk. It went to Elmer Edrington and Miss Allene Hollman, both of Wichita Falls.

Mayor R. E. Shepherd and Police Commissioner Frank Queisser are expected to return today from Dallas where they have been attending an annual state police convention.

The Trinity university male quartet will be here for a concert at the First Presbyterian church lawn Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served and a free-will offering taken.

Mrs. Angus Willgus, wife of the educational director of the First Presbyterian church, with her children will move here from San Antonio to live. Her residence will be at 1813 Elizabeth.

Prayer meeting of the First Presbyterian church went out to the Floral Heights Presbyterian church, Wednesday. A good meeting was held with the subject of John 3:16. The meeting was attended by about 75 people.

Only two building permits were issued Thursday by the city clerk, it being the second day in succession when the day's total amounted to two. One new construction job of $3,000 was authorized and a $800 repair project was also permitted.

J. W. Chatham, Jr., for four years auditor and assistant general manager of the Wichita Water Improvement District No. 1 has resigned that post to return to the chamber of commerce staff as traffic and industrial commissioner.

To express his appreciation for their pleasing selections, Oral Jones, president of the Kay Bible class, wrote the Rotary club quratet of Electra a letter of thanks and issued an invitation to return and "spread more joy at the earliest opportunity."

Services at the Evangelical meeting now in progress will be under the leadership of the Salvation Army Friday evening. They will take charge of the music and the entire service. Much progress is being made in the meeting, it is reported, and many additions are in prospect before the close of the meeting.

A decree was made Thursday by G. A. Remington, general manager of the irrigation district, that meddling with gates on the canals and laterals of the Wichit a County Improvement District must be stopped. For the benefit of the land owners and water users the general manager ordered that locks be installed immediately on all gates of the system.

Frank B. Creighton, city scout executive, has accepted the invitation to conduct the regular court of honor at Henrietta Friday night. He will review the activities of the scouts as well as attend the court session. Mr. Creighton stated Thursday that an Eagle Scout badge, the highest honor in scouting, would be awarded at the Henrietta court of honor, besides several merit and first class awards. He will leave Friday afternoon.

Voelker and Dixon, architects, have been authorized by the board of education of the Wichita Falls independent school district to draw up plans for the addition that will be made to the Washington school, immediately. Two rooms and a hallway will be added along the full length of one side of the present building, for the two stories and basement. The proposed dadition will be a bout 70 by 22 feet, and will cost around $20,000.

Seven Scouts Are Given New Ranking

As a reward for their work and effort seven boys were ranked as first class scouts, and nine as second class scouts at the Court of Honor held at the First Christian church Thursday evening. Besides granting them first and second ranks, forty-six merit badges were awarded. The court was attended by forty boys.

Scouts Are Tested.

Before the ranking of first degree was granted Scouts Milton Cook, Dillon Holt, James Bailey, Fred Willin, Albert Bentley, Tidwall Onstott, and J. W. Deaton were tested. The test consisted on questions concerning how they earned the two dollars, required to be earned, reports as to the results of their cooking, signaling, and other requirements. The second class scouts, James Harvey, Joe Hancock, Lloyd Bland, George W. Parks, Joseph White, Milton Brand, Bill Kay, Harry Daugherty and John Cole, were given similar but lighter tests.

The purpose of the court Thursday night was the awarding of the first ranking because the trip that will be made next week has as its requirements, only first class scouts may go. All first class scouts desiring may go on this trip.

Twenty-Eight To Go.

The number that will leave Sunday is twenty-eight with two scout masters Jimmie Gallagher and Bill McClure, and Frank B. Creighton, city scout executive. The trip will be a tour of South Texas which will include Fort Worth, Waco, Dallas, Austin, New Braunfels, San Antonio, and with as their objective, Corpus Christi. Points of interest or importance will be visited all along the way. The scouts will travel in trucks attended by one car.

The scouts made a good showing at their Court of Honor Thursday night and it is reported that they are certainly living up to their pledges.

ORCHESTRA AT OLYMPIC

Rin-Tin-Tin Also Shows Today For The Last Time

As an added attraction to their regular film the Olympic theater announces for today only the Atlantic City Seven, a jazz orchestra of the higher class, featuring Howard Fordham at the piano, supported by six kings of syncopation, in singing, dancing, comedy specialties and various other combinations of both music and song.

The orchestra will appear twice today, in the afternoo nat 4:30 o'clock and again in the evening at 8:45. Their entertainment will consist of 30 minutes of music and song.

The film offering for the day will be "Tracked in the Snow Country," a film of the far north, featuring Rin-Tin-Tin, the famous police dog of filmdom. A two-reel juvenile comedy and Pathe News will also be shown.

The feature is a story of the Alaska gold mine, the love for gold that leads men to murder, the love of a dog, and the romance and of a man and woman. The story deals with the tale of a secret mine, known only to one man, the owner of Rin-Tin-Tin. Another kills for the sake of the map, which he sees the other drawing, the dog gets the blame. Hunted by humans, the animal reverts to its former self and becomes a wolf. At length it tracks down its enemy and the story is worked out after a dramatic climax in the heart of the mountain amid the gold, that one man had killed another to obtain.

Palace Offers Unusual Treat In Ches Davis Musical Revue Here

Contrary to the usual run of musical comedies, the Ches Davis Musical Revue, starting its second week at the Palace theater Monday, offers some real entertainment that is both high class and clean. The show is a decided improvement over the average musical revue.

Outstanding among the list of excellent acts is that of Smaltz, the little man with the big gree-checkered cap, with the bill that holds the cap proper on the head though it may set far back over the forehead. Kenna Brenna is the originator of this well known character and has to his credit long runs in big vaudeville houses, "The Mayor of Laughland" he is called and is well deserving of the title.

"Spanish Troubadours."

For those who like jazz, there are the "Spanish Troubadours," an orchestra that plays popular pieces with a vim that puts them over. This act scores its real hit though on its Spanish pieces. All the favorites of the romance songs are played by this versatile orchestra.

Ches Davis is another who has gained some renown for his charaterization of the southern negro. Davis plays his part with no attempt to make his character more than it is, and as a result offers probably the best blackface role ever seen at a local picture house.

Some real laughs are furnished in the Mart-Jiggs-Moran act. This comedy trio were formerly with the "Maggie and Jiggs" company of New York. Now they are "on their own" and bring more than their share of laughs and entertainment with them.

"Imperial Four."

The "Imperial Four,"a harmony quartet of the first water, offers a real treat. This quartet plays pieces that come in for more than the usual amount of applause.

$10,000 Bond Is Granted Glasscock

Bond of $10,000 was set by agreement late Thursday afternoon for W. J. Glasscock, under indictment on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying on June 13 of J. J. Stockley in a local hotel. Glasscock has been in jail since Stockley was killed.

A writ of habeas corpus was sued out yesterday by attorneys representing him and a hearing set before Judge Stine of the 30th district court at 5 o'clock. State's attorneys agreed, however, that Glasscock was entitled to bail and later agreed to the $10,000.

Bond had not been supplied at a late hour last night and Glasscock was still in the county jail.

COCKRELL FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services for S. A. Cockrell, who died at his home, 2315 Ninth street yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock, will be held from the family residence this afternoon with the Rev. A. J. Holt, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be made in Riverside cemetery.

FIVE YEARS FOR ROBBERY

Sentences of five years each were imposed Thursday on C. A. Graham of Electra when he entered pleas of guilty to two cases aleging highway robbery. He was indicted by the last grand jury following his arrest about six weeks ago.

He accepted sentence and will be taken to the pen in a few days.

state, moved to exclude the testimony of scientists by which counsel for the defense contended that they would show that there was conflict between science and religion, or between the theory of evolution in question and the story of the divine creation of man, on the grounds that under the wording and interpretation of the act, the evidence would be incompetent.

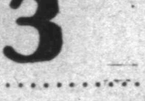

The jury, a part of the case that has had little active participation in it, was still subject to call, the members not being permitted in the court room during the day.

William Jennings Bryan Jr. opened for the state, making the first argument on the law involved. He was followed by Arthur G. Hays, for the defense, this argument also dealing with the law in the case.

Mr. Bryan called the discussion of expert testimony the heart of the case and declared that the courts have unfavorably regarded such evidence, received it with exterme caution and investigated it with every care.
