Two illumination shells from 4.2" mortars light the summer sky at Ft. Hood during National Guard camp. The rounds were fired by Wellington's Detachment 1, Support Company, 2nd Battalion, 142nd Infantry, in a field exercise during the two-week camp. Thirty-three men from Wellington participated from June 20 through July 4. (More pictures from camp in next week's issue.)

County 4-H Fashion Show Friday, July 9

Four-H Club girls will present their Collingsworth County Fashion Show Friday, July 9, in Bura Handley Community Center. The public portion of the event will be at 3 p.m., said Nancy Bigby, extension agent.

Judging will be held during the morning, when construction of the garments will be studied and judged. The girls will make an appearance before the judges at 1:30 p.m. also.

So far, twenty girls in four age brackets will be entered, and in each of these there are four categories.

Age divisions will be senior, for girls who have passed their 14th birthday but have not passed their 19th birthday before January 1, 1982.

Annual Tennis Tournament Gets Under Way Wednesday

Wellington's Annual Open Tennis Tournament got under way with boys and girls 14 years and under (junior high) going on the Ellison Park courts at 9 a.m. Wednesday, July 7.

These were the singles players, and doubles teams in that age bracket will follow.

The tournament will end about 10 p.m. Sunday, as the mixed doubles play.

Wellington people who are interested in tennis as a sport, to play or to watch, are urged to come out and sit in the shade of the Ellison Park trees to watch some of the best young players of the southeast Panhandle, said Ronny Williams, tournament director.

There are approximately 8 contestants in each event, and if this tournament runs true to form, a number of others will not pre-register, but enter when they reach the park.

The 14 years and under events will be followed by boys and girls singles and doubles in the 17 years and

Harvest Near End, More Hail Tuesday

Collingsworth's wheat crop is "close to the tailgate," one elevator owner described it early Wednesday, July 7. Most of the wheat coming in now is from growers going back to cut patches that were too wet at the time they went over fields the first time and these are scattered in every direction from town.

The problem now is weeds, both Wellington and Dodson operators say.

In spite of all the problems to this year's wheat crop--dry weather, too much rain, hail, sand and wind--there has been lots of wheat that yielded over 30 bushels per acre.

"There would have been lots of 40 bushel wheat if it hadn't had so much weather on it," according to Glen Warrick of Warrick's Inc.

Quality of the wheat has dropped through the wet wheat here and most, if not all, of that being delivered now is graded No. 2.

Pricewise, this doesn't make much difference to farmers who are selling their wheat outright, but it does make a difference to those who are putting their crop in the long term government loan reserve," according to both Warrick and Bill Lowe manager of Singley Mill and Elevator.

In the Dodson area, a little wheat is being delivered every day and most of this comes from patches that were mud holes the first going over.

"The weeds are about to take everything," said Rayburn Hightower of Dodson Co-op Enterprises.

He believes the crop in that part of the county will be out by the end of the week.

While wheat farmers were getting their wheat taken care of, cotton farmers in the county were still having weather losses.

A hail storm from a cloud that formed east of Wellington ton Tuesday afternoon, destroyed cotton in an area from Salt Fork River east to the state line, Extension Agent Don Reeves reported.

He said that Dr. Bill Estes and Truman Estes lost approximately 300 acres. Heavy rain accompanied the hail.

The losses could not be determined, since several farmers in the area could not get to their fields.

Denzil Lacy said that his cotton in the area along State Highway 203 was destroyed but Wednesday morning he had not been able to get to some of his other fields north of the highway.

There were unconfirmed reports of several other losses.

Much of this area is grassland and the loss was not felt so keenly.

The hailstorm came out of the southwest and traveled northeast into Oklahoma.

Samnorwood Church Plans Homecoming All Day Sunday

Samnorwood Baptist Church Homecoming Day will be held Sunday, July 11, with regular services in the morning and fellowship through the afternoon, followed by a dinner and evening worship.

The morning events will be at the Samnorwood Church; and afternoon and evening events will be at Panfork Baptist Encampment, 7 miles northeast of Wellington.

The Rev. Rick Smith, pastor, outlined the plans.

The regular morning service will be held at Samnorwood.

Panfork events start at 2 p.m. with the fellowship. This will continue until 6 and will include recreation and fellowship with swimming, volleyball, games and other activities, and most of all visiting and remembering.

A covered dish fellowship dinner will be served at 6 p.m. in the new Panfork Encampment cafeteria, and at 7 p.m. the worship service will begin in the tabernacle.

Returning to preach the sermon will be the Rev. Lee Hillon, pastor of the church a number of years ago, who is now associate pastor of Bykota Baptist Church in Amarillo.

"There will be lots of singing, and special music, and we hope that as many people as can will come out and be a part of this," said Rev. Smith.

He emphasized that

Ralph Long Dies Friday of Long Illness

Ralph DeVoy Long, prominent farmer who lived for many years southwest of Wellington, died in Collingsworth General Hospital at 8:20 a.m. Friday, July 12. Seventy-four years of age, he had been seriously ill for a number of months.

Mr. Long spent most of his life here.

He was especially active in community and farm affairs and in his church, First Baptist, where he was ordained a deacon at the age of 35. He belonged to the Farm Bureau.

He graduated from Wellington High School in 1929, where he was an outstanding athlete and president of his class.

In recent years he was active in the Ex-Students Association.

Born January 27, 1908 at Ector, Mr. Long was the son of J.B. and Lorena Bell Long. The family came here in 1916.

He was married to Miss Lutie Benson on August 13, 1929 at Hollis.

Funeral services were conducted Monday, July 5, at 2 p.m. in First Baptist

Little League All-Stars Move into Playoffs Monday

Wellington Little League Association has named its all-star team, and these boys will move into the all-star playoffs Monday, July 12, at Canadian.

Time of the first game or the dates of the other all-star games have not been learned here, but this will be a double elimination tournament, said Kirby Campbell, one of those working with the program.

On Wellington's All-Star team are Eddie Garza, Ronny Heisler, Shane Black, Carter Nash, Daryon Brown, Brad Long, Lee Souder, Lance Stepnens, Danny Davis, C.H. Campbell, Bobby Wilkerson, Billy Bouldin, Rondel Sango, David Mithlo, Ruben Garza, and K.K. Kerlee.

Parents of the players will take the team members to Canadian.

Coaching the team will be Danny Gray and Jimmy Black.

Playing in the all-star round will be teams from Childress, Memphis, Canadian, Pampa and Wellington.

The Astros were declared all-around champion of the 1982 season, after they defeated the Dodgers in the tie breaker for the first half of play Monday, July 5.

It is the first time that this has occurred in Wellington Little League play, but because of the large number of make-up teams from the first half, when so many games were rained out, it became necessary to go ahead with the second half of play.

We don't know who we'll be playing in Canadian Monday night, but there's going to be a ball game and Wellington will be in there trying," said Campbell.

COTTON

Most older Collingsworth County cotton has suffered through an unusual season of hail, lightning, wind and rain damage such as the plants at left, but there are occasional bright spots in the fields like the unblemished plants at right.

Softball Invitational Gets Underway Fri. at 7 p.m.

A major event for Wellington area softball fans comes this week with the big three-day invitational tournament, which opens Friday, July 9 and will end some time in the late afternoon Sunday, July 11.

Returning for this year's event are the first, second, third and fourth place winners from last year's tournament, according to Candy Reyes, Wellington Softball Association president.

Play will begin at 7 p.m. Friday and continue until about midnight.

There will be games throughout Saturday, with an hour off for lunch and to at least 10 p.m.

Handsome trophies will be given, said Reyes.

These will include four under bracket, and this will be followed by the open division.

High school students will begin play Thursday, and the open division will start Friday afternoon and finish Saturday.

Mixed doubles will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday and finish about 9 or 10 p.m.

"In case of bad weather, play will be deferred on an hour by hour basis, and we are looking forward to a good tournament," according to Williams.

"We want a good turnout from the city of Wellington. This is a fine sport and we have excellent facilities, some of the best in this part of the country for a town of any size," Williams continued.

The tournament director said he wanted to thank the people who donated money for the tournament and he assured that all proceeds will go to fix up the courts.

"We have quite a few people in the tournament who are regional and state qualifiers from high school, so there will be some of the best players available, Williams added.

printed invitations are going out to as many former members as can be located.

"If anyone has been skipped, they are invited, and it was unintentional for us to fail to send an invitation," said Rev. Smith.

"We will have some sweet fellowship, gather together and thank the Lord for what he has done for Samnorwood in the past years." Samnorwood Baptist Church traces its history back through an older church to a still earlier church, known as the Indian Creek Church, where all denominations worshiped.

The first Samnorwood Baptist Church was located in the old Plymouth Community, and it was followed by the present church, which has been remodeled and updated several times.

sive player and standin defensive player.

Around 250 players will be in Wellington at some time during the three days, it was pointed out, and many of these will bring their families. Most will also come in campers or trailers, parking at the Marian Airpark ball park overnight.

These facilities make Wellington especially popular with teams throughout the Panhandle.

Reyes urges all softball fans through the area to come out and watch as many games as they wish.

presented, according to Miss Bigby.

There will be an award for everyone who enters the Fashion Show, an award for the best entry in each category and age group; the cotton award, the wool mohair award and best model.

Twelve contestants are eligible to attend the District Fashion Show in Amarillo later in the summer.

The county winner in the junior, intermediate and senior age groups in the four categories are eligible to compete.

The county with the greatest percent of increase for project completion and county with the greatest percent of increase for fashion show participation will be recognized with a certificate. GET MOST FROM COOLING DOLLARS

Consumers can get more from their "beat-the-summer-heat" dollar by taking some simple, no-cost steps to maximize cooling.

One good way to reduce cooling costs is to raise the air-conditioner thermostat to the highest comfort level possible. This will reduce energy consumption from three to 10 percent for each degree the thermostat is raised.

When it's excessively hot outdoors, turn the thermostat up even higher to keep from overworking the air conditioner.

Greatest efficiency results when a difference of no more than 15 to 20 degrees is maintained between inside and outside temperature.

Another way to enhance summer comfort while saving energy is using fans. They can be used either by themselves or with air conditioning. For every dime it costs to operate a one ton air conditioner, a fan costs less than a nickel.

Fans do not change the room's actual temperature, but the breeze they provide makes you feel much cooler. If you set the air conditioner at 82 degrees F. and use a fan to circulate the air, you will experience the same comfort as if the air conditioner were set at 74 degrees F.

Blocking out heat on those sides of the house that get direct sun exposure is an energy saver. Draw shades or draperies on the east side in the morning and one the west side in the afternoon to reduce the heat load the air conditioner must remove.

GIRLS SCOUTS VISIT SIX FLAGS

Some three years ago Girl Scout Cadette Troop No. 228 planned and earned their "trip money" to Six Flags. These girls have collected aluminum cans, held numerous bake sales, and sold Girl Scout cookies and calendars eagerly awaiting their promised cadette trip. This same troop began in the second grade as Brownies with the same adult leaders.

On June 14 the nineteen member group left for Grand Prairie. They picked up on the way and arrived at the Charles Cason home, their hosts while in Grand Prairie. The same afternoon and evening were spent at the delightfully new water amusement park "White Water." The next morning was spent in Dallas at Reunion Park where they rode up to the Reunion Tower to view Dallas, lunched at Union Station, visited the John F. Kennedy Memorial and other interesting landmarks in the area. The entire afternoon and evening hours were spent in Six Flags. Leaving the Dallas-Fort Worth area, they journeyed to the now famous "South Fork Ranch" where the girls took the walking tour around the ranch-house, stables, swimming pool, and grounds. After lunching in the Plano City Park they began their drive home. The many road-side stands proved to be a treat, so time was taken to have a watermelon feast in a road-side park. This was a three-day trip.

Those attending the cadette trip were: Ashley Williams, Kaylynn Bartlett, Linda Lacy, Leslie Hammons, Kristie Keller, Angela Watts, Leigh Ann Barton, Candy Canada, Robi Lou Mabery, Penny Wilkins, Heather Hendrix, Jodi Blacksher, Christie Whitten, Julie Wilkins, Paula Wilkins, Yvonne Canada, Peggy Hendrix and Barbara Bartlett.

SCHOLASTIC EXCELLENCE

Did you know that nearly half of the children enrolled in Christian schools are not from Christian families? These children were enrolled because of the outstanding scholastic record of Christian schools.

The school being started in Wellington will be using Accelerated Christian Education materials. These materials were developed under the direction of Dr. Donald R. Howard, a Baptist man from the Dallas area. This curriculum teaches individual Bible scriptures without teaching any denominational doctrine.

Before your child can be enrolled, a test must be administered to determine the level at which your child will begin in each subject. Signing your child up for the test will not obligate you in any way.

If you want to sign up your child for testing, have questions answered, or inspect samples of course material, attend the public meeting being held Friday, July 16th at the community building.

INFLATION-FIGHTING FOOD IDEAS

Serve Rice In Many Ways On Different Days

One of the nicest things about that universal favorite—rice—is that it can be made into dishes to serve today, reheat tomorrow or freeze to be baked months later.

BEEFY NOW 'N' LATER CASSEROLE

- 2 pounds zucchini, sliced (about 2 quarts)
- 1 pound lean ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon each ground black pepper and garlic powder
- 1 cup finely chopped onions
- 3 cups cooked rice
- 1 can (4 ounces) chopped green chiles
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1-1/2 cups cottage cheese
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 2 cups grated Cheddar cheese

Beef, zucchini and rice make a hearty casserole that freezes beautifully for make-ahead meals.

Cover and cook zucchini in small amount of salted water about 5 minutes. Drain thoroughly and set aside. Cook beef, seasonings, and onions until meat is no longer pink and onions are tender crisp. Combine with rice, green chiles, and zucchini. Blend eggs, cottage cheese, and Parmesan cheese. Stir into meat mixture. Turn into two buttered shallow 2-quart casseroles. Top each with 1 cup Cheddar cheese. Bake one at 350° for 30 minutes. Wrap and freeze the other for later use. Each casserole makes 6 servings.

Thank you!

Our special thanks to Debbie Henard who generously donated the fireworks that made possible the Methodist Youth Fireworks Stand this year.

And to Corky Bowen for the use of her lot on Hwy. 83.

And to everyone whose donations helped make our stand a success.

Thank you very much.

Clean Up Your Air

COLLEGE STATION - Indoor pollutants are a hidden health threat. Are they conquering your home's air?

If so, clean up your air, advises Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Indoor pollutants that are potential hazards for humans include carbon dioxide, carbon monoxide, formaldehyde gas, ultraviolet light waves, other chemical vapors, dust, pollen and tobacco smoke, she says.

Berry recommends three methods for controlling indoor pollution:

1) Allow enough fresh outside air to come inside to dilute indoor pollutants by using an air-to-air heat exchange system to pre-heat or pre-cool outside air. As the system pre-heats or pre-cools outside air, it saves energy that would otherwise be used by your main cooling or heating system -- and it cleans your inside air. This system is a small supplemental device available from many heating and cooling companies.

2) Bring outside air indoors with adequate ventilation -- this could be

THE MICROWAVE COOK

Spicy Barbecue Sauce
Cooks In The Microwave

Ready to brush on burgers, this spicy sauce microwaves in less than 10 minutes.

All across America—in parks and backyards, on decks or patios—people are barbecuing up a storm. One of the fastest ways to whip up a flavorful and spicy sauce is to use the microwave oven. Here's a brush-on for burgers, chicken and ribs that's especially easy thanks to a convenient and tasty head start—Campbell's Condensed Onion Soup.

SWEET AND SPICY BARBECUE SAUCE

1 can (10 1/2 ounces) Campbell's Condensed Onion Soup
3/4 cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
2 tablespoons honey
1 small clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/8 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon cornstarch

In 1-quart microwave-safe casserole, combine all ingredients. Cover. Microwave on HIGH 6 to 8 minutes or until hot and slightly thickened, stirring frequently. Let stand, covered, 2 minutes. Use as a barbecue sauce for chicken, beef or pork. Makes about 2 cups.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

WE MUST PLAN AHEAD

AUSTIN -- One issue the Legislature must face in the 1983 session is that of a statewide water plan for Texas. Such a plan is important for the whole state, although sometimes it seems like people in our area are the only ones who realize how important it is.

Actually, most people
would agree on the need for such a plan. We would go further. We believe we not only need a good water plan, but we also need to begin to implement that plan.

One thing seems certain.
We need more water in our area. The water table of the Ogallala is dropping. Even though we sometimes have too much water in one place
at one time, flooding is rare.

Flooding like that we have experienced recently in some counties is just one example of why we need a comprehensive water plan for the state. If we had the proper reservoirs, we could retain much of the flood water that pours through the Panhandle and South Plains. Many residents of East Texas take up arms
every time someone from our part of the state mentions a water plan. They are afraid we will try to steal
their water.

With a good plan to catch
our own flood water, we should not need any East Texas contribution.

Where should these reservoirs be located? How many of them do we need?

What size should they be?
How should we transport water from the reservoirs to the site where it is needed?
What effect will this storage
and transportation system
have on the environment?

These are just some of the questions we must answer.
The nation is losing 12
square miles of farmland every day. We must protect the farmland we have in Texas and we must make sure we have the water that farmland needs.

We must examine our water and wastewater problems for urban areas, too.
Texas will be the second most populous state in five years or so, and most Texans will live in cities.
Despite the defeat of the "Water Trust Fund," the Water Development Board has $40 million to spend on water development: conservation, transportation,
flood control, wastewater and related fields. This is not enough money, but the expenditure of this money needs guidance. We need a master plan for the development of water.

We will be working, during the next session of the Legislature, for a plan to develop water wisely. We need your help in deciding what type of development is important. We hope you will write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711, and tell us about your water
needs.

A Word on the Word with Jim Powell

It's Not a Ritual Or Good Luck Charm

To some people, the Bible is a good luck charm to be displayed prominently, and reading it is only a ritual of worship. Brenton Osgood of Springfield, Mo., takes a different point of view.

"It's not a religious ritual or a good luck charm," he said. "The Word of God is very much alive. It takes on life as circumstances change
and needs arise."

Brenton says that reading
the Bible regularly will demonstrate how the Bible can communicate specific messages to specific people to help them make their lives better.

"In reading the Scriptures
on a daily basis, there are verses that will just grip you and you know in your heart

that there's something about that verse that you need at that point," he explained. "It is God's Word to us individually, a way I discover Him,
the way I learn about Him."

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN -- Texas taxpayers got some good news
last week when the Texas Research League released a study indicating that the state should be able to get through at least the next decade without a major tax increase.

The study, conducted by TRL Vice President James
W. McGrew, shows that tax revenues generated from the state's oil and gas industry
should be sufficient to meet spending needs into the 1990s.

TRL, a private research organization, began the study in 1979 at the request of Gov. Bill Clements.

Despite the good news for the 1980s, the report predicts that declining oil and gas production in the 1990s
could result in a "staggering
tax bill."

McGrew concluded that production estimates from five sources indicated that oil production in Texas will drop from the 954 million barrels produced in 1980 to
as low as 196 million barrels by 2000.

Oil and gas severance
taxes amounted to some 27
percent of the state's total revenue last year.

With those funds decreas-ing, spending would have to be cut or taxes increased to comply with the constitutional limitation against deficit spending.

McGrew says TRL doesn't think a spending cut is "very likely."

Homeowners Insurance

Homeowners also got some good news recently when the State Board of Insurance decided that insurance rates should be reduced.

The board decided to cut homeowners insurance rates
by an average of some 16
percent statewide, despite protests by spokesmen for the insurance industry.

Insurance company officials agreed that rates should go down, but they wanted a much more conservative cut
of only about 2 percent.

Under the new rates,
which become effective Sept. 1, a basic homeowners policy on a $50,000 brick home would go down anywhere from 16.9 percent to 25.2 percent, depending on what area of the state the policyholder lives in.

The news for renters, however, wasn't as promising.
Tenant homeowner rates are slated to go up by an average 22.3 percent.

The board approved an additional five percent credit for homeowners who install security devices — such as deadbolt locks and solid core doors — but renters
won't qualify for that credit.

Redfish Ban

Lawmakers got a preview
of arguments that are likely to surface during the 1983
legislative session when the House Committee on Environmental Affairs and the Senate Committee on Natural Resources held public hearings on the continued
need for a ban on commercial fishing for redfish and speckled sea trout.

The redfish ban was one of the most controversial
subjects of the 1981 session, but lawmakers voted to prohibit commercial fishing for the two species for two years despite cries from the fishing industry that hundreds of fishermen would be put out of work.

Even after the ban has been in effect for a year,
there is still no agreement
over what effect it has had on redfish and trout populations.

Texas Parks and Wildlife
officials say that an $800
million annual sport fishing industry and 12,000 jobs
which support it would have been endangered if the ban

had not been passed.

Commercial fishermen,
however, say not only the fishermen have been put out of business but seafood
transporters and wholesale and retail fish markets as well.

Parks and Wildlife, however, says that loss will amount to no more than $12 million annually compared to the potential loss of the sports fishing industry.

The Legislature will be deciding next year whether to continue the ban or lift
it, but the politically strong sportsmen's lobby is expected to win since commercial fishermen have little political clout.

Attorneys Fees

The state finally has won at least a partial victory in its fight against federal imposed prison reforms, but the cost of that victory was high.

Texas has been presented with a $1 million bill for attorneys fees from the Houston law firm that was hired to act as outside counsel in the prison reform case.

The state's endeavors in the case paid off last month
when the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals reversed
portions of a lower court order requiring one-man
cells for Texas prison inmates.

The bill presented by the firm of Fulbright & Jaworski represents services rendered since last July.

Gov. Bill Clements has called those charges "excessive and exorbitant" and he has frequently criticized Attorney General Mark White
for his handling of the case.

White says he agreed to hire outside attorneys under pressure from Clements and

the Texas Department of Corrections.

Foreman Remarks

The famous defense lawyer from Houston, Percy Foreman, told the Texas
Bar Association convention
meeting in Austin last week
that the state should not outlaw the insanity plea.

The aging Foreman, veteran of many a courtroom
victory, in his address said
that insanity was a sickness
and, like cancer, was impossible to outlaw.

The issue of changing the insanity plea promises to be a topic for the Legislature meeting in January. Some lawmakers have promised to modify the plea, possibly changing the legal verdict
from "not guilty by reason of insanity" to "guilty but insane."

THOMAS ROLL CALL REPORT

Your Congressman's Votes
Reported Each Week

WASHINGTON --

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes June 24-30.

HOUSE

REAGAN VETO By a vote
of 253 for and 171 against,
the House failed to override President Reagan's veto of a fiscal 1982 "urgent supplemental" appropriations bill
in the amount of $8.9 billion.
A two-thirds majority -- 270 votes -- was needed to overcome the veto. While Reagan was most dissatisfied with the bill's $3 billion stimulus of the housing industry, he also objected to what he viewed as excessive spending for the Postal Service, Corps of Engineers
flood control projects, federal highway construction and other programs. The vetoed bill was HR 5922.

Members voting "nay"
supported the presidential veto.

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1,
Ralph Hall, D-4, Jim

Mattow, D-5, Jack Brooks,
D-9, James Wright, D-12,
Jack Hightower, D-13,
William Patman, D-14, Kika
de la Garza, D-15, Richard White, D-16, Mickey Leland, D-18, Abraham Ka-zen, D-23, and Martin Frost, D-24, voted "yea."
Reps. James Collins, R-3,
Phil Gramm, D-6, Bill
Archer, R-7, Jack Fields,
R-8, Jake Pickle, D-10, J.
Marvin Leath, D-11, Charles
Stenholm, D-17, Kent
Hance, D-19, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, Tom Loeffler, R-21, and Ron Paul, R-22,
voted "nay."

Rep. Charles Wilson, D-2,
did not vote.

FEDERAL SPENDING--
After sustaining the veto,
the House passed, 267 for and 106 against, an appropriations bill (HR 6682) virtually identical to the vetoed measure except that it omitted the $3 billion in special aid for the housing industry. The Senate also passed HR 6682 (see vote below). President Reagan
then vetoed this bill, too,
saying that about $1 billion
of its $5.9 billion pricetag
was "excessive" spending unwarranted by the Administration. Congressional attempts to override the second veto were likely to be made in mid-July. Counting his successful veto of HR 5922 (see preceding House vote), Reagan has had each of the five vetoes of his presidency sustained by Congress.

Sam Hall, Ralph Hall,
Mattox, Fields, Brooks,
Pickle, Wright, Hightower, Patman, de la Garza, White, Leland, Hance, Kazen and Frost voted "yea."

Collins, Gramm, Archer, Stenholm, Gonzalez, Loeff-
ler and Paul voted "nay."

Wilson and Leath did not vote.

SENATE

CHALLENGING REAGAN

By a vote of 59 for and 26
against, the Senate passed the $5.9 billion spending bill (HR 6682) despite signals

from the White House that the president would veto the measure. (See preceding
vote).

Senators voting "yea"
supported $5.9 billion in additional fiscal 1982 spending for a variety of programs.

Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D,
and John Tower, R, voted
"yea."

SUMMER JOBS By a vote
of 55 for and 37 against, the Senate tabled and thus killed an amendment to appropriate an additional $68 million for 1982 summer
jobs programs for youths,
primarily inner-city minorities. About 675,000 slots
already have been funded,
and this would have raised the number to 735,000. The vote came during debate on a short-term spending bill aimed at funding various programs until Congress
and the president resolve their battle over longer-term measures (see preceding votes). The bill (HR 6685)
was headed for final passage and the White House.

Senators voting "nay"
wanted to spend more this summer to provide jobs for teenagers.

Tower voted "yea."
Bentsen voted "nay."

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas, effective July 27, 1982, unless otherwise determined by the Commission.

It is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 13.4 percent increase in the company's intrastate revenues.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas. The Commission staff has contended in the past that all rates are subject to change as a result of Southwestern Bell's rate application.

Notice to El Paso Area Customers

Effective January 1, 1982, Southwestern Bell adopted the Mountain States tariffs in effect for El Paso County. Southwestern Bell proposes to merge the separate El Paso tariffs with its tariffs applicable to the rest of Texas. The resulting new rate schedule is on file with the PUC and the El Paso area municipalities served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection at our El Paso business office.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

The filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for interexchange private line and foreign exchange (FX) service. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide interexchange private line and foreign exchange service in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell's tariffs. While Southwestern Bell has proposed no increase in long distance rates, any change in those rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies.

Aviso Público

Southwestern Bell, en conformidad a las reglas del Public Utility Commission (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas, por la presente hace saber su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel para servicio de teléfono en Texas con vigencia a partir del 27 de julio, 1982, a menos que la Comisión haga otra determinación.

Se espera que el nuevo arancel que se ha solicitado rendirá un aumento de 13.4 por ciento en los ingresos intraestatales de la compañía.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel se ha
archivado en las oficinas del Public Utility Commission en Austin, Texas, al igual que en cada municipalidad afectada y servida por Southwestern Bell, y cada una de las oficinas de la compañía para negocios con el público en Texas tiene una copia para lectura pública. En el pasado, la Comisión ha sostenido que toda tarifa está sujeta a cambios que resulten de la manera en la cual Southwestern Bell aplique sus tarifas.

Aviso a Clientes en la Región de El Paso

Con vigencia a partir del 1o de enero de 1982,
Southwestern Bell ha adoptado las tarifas de Mountain States efectivas en el condado de El Paso. Southwestern Bell propone unir las tarifas de El Paso con sus otras tarifas que se aplican al resto de Texas. El nuevo arancel que resulta de esta unión se ha archivado en la Comisión de Servicios Públicos (Public Utility Commission), al
igual que en las municipalidades de la región de El Paso servidas por Southwestern Bell, y está disponible para inspección pública en nuestras oficinas de El Paso.

Aviso a los Clientes de Otras Compañías de Teléfono

El registro incluye, pero no se limita a, propues-tas para aumentar las tarifas para servicio de línea privada entre centrales telefónicas (interex-change private line) y servicio de central telefónica extranjera (foreign exchange FX). Cambios en dichas tarifas de servicio también afectarían a clientes de otras compañías de teléfono porque
dichas compañías proveen los servicios ya mencionados en conformidad a tarifas especificadas por Southwestern Bell. Aunque Southwestern Bell
no ha propuesto un aumento en las tarifas para
larga distancia, cualquier cambio en las mismas también afectaría a los clientes de otras com-pañías de teléfono.

Baumgardner Director of LARS Sensing Program

WEST LAFAYETTE—Ind. June 23. Marion F. Baumgardner, a Purdue University professor of agronomy and acting director of Purdue's Laboratory for Applications of Remote Sensing (LARS) since July 1981, has been named director of LARS, effective July 1, 1982.

Baumgardner's appointment was announced today by Bill R. Baumgardt, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and David Landgrebe, associate dean of the Schools of Engineering, following recent approval by Purdue's Board of Trustees.

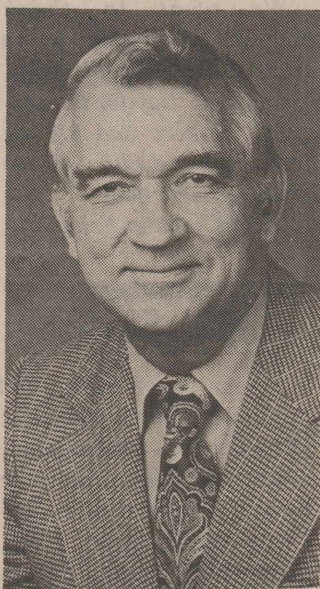

Baumgardner, who has been associated with the LARS program since its inception at Purdue, served as leader for its Earth Sciences Research Programs from 1977 to 1980. He was named associate director of the laboratory in June 1980.

He became acting director a year ago when Landgrebe, who was then director, accepted the position of Director of the Engineering Experiment Station at Purdue. Landgrebe had directed the LARS program since 1969.

LARS is a research laboratory which focuses the university's unique resources on development of improved techniques for analyzing earth resource information. Its research and educational mission is accomplished through a multi-disciplinary staff drawn from 11 departments in four schools at the university.

Baumgardner, who joined Purdue's agronomy staff in 1964, received the B.S. degree at Texas Tech University in 1950 and the M.S. and Ph. D. degrees from Purdue in 1955 and 1964. He also has an honorary doctor of science degree from DePauw University.

As a participant in the 1974 Summer Study of the National Academy of Engineering's Space Applications Board, he helped define applications of space technology for the 1980s and 1990s. He served on the National Academy of Sciences' Committee on Remote Sensing for International Development and was chairman of the Agricultural Research Institute's National Study Panel on Remote sensing from 1977 to 1981. He also was vice chairman of the International Working Group on Remote Sensing for International Development and was chairman of the Agricultural Research Institute's National Study Panel on Remote Sensing from 1977 to 1981. He also was vice chairman of the International Working Group on Remote Sensing, International Society of Soil Science, 1978, 81.

Baumgardner was chairman of the planning committee for the International Symposium on Machine Processing of Remotely Sensed Data, Soil Information Systems, and Remote Sensing and Soil Survey held at Purdue in June 1980. This program, co-sponsored by the International Society of Soil Science and Purdue, was attended by many U.S. and world scientists.

The author of numerous scientific papers, Baumgardner has served frequently as a consultant to several international development agencies with assignments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and Europe. He has traveled and lectured in more than 60 countries and is active in a dozen national and international scientific societies.

A Danforth Associate, he is also a Fellow of the American Society of Agronomy, the Soil Science Society of America, and the Indiana Academy of Science.

He is a member of several honorary societies, has served on many university and community committees, and is active in the Methodist church. He and his wife, Maralee, are the parents of three children.

Created in 1966, LARS has made a number of contributions to the nation's earth resources survey program, mainly in the creation of instrumentation and computer data processing procedures for remote sensing and the development of ways to use these in agriculture, forestry, geology, and water resource management.

In 1971, LARS was involved with federal and state agencies in the Corn Blight Watch Experiment and demonstrated that it not only could identify crops but also could evaluate, by both manual and machine implemented methods, a specific disease condition. In 1976, LARS was a recipient of the W. T. Pecora award, given by NASA and the U.S. Department of Interior, in recognition of its contributions "to the understanding of terrestrial phenomena through remote sensing techniques."

Conservation Pays for Shanks

By the SCS Staff

Cecil and Alliene Shanks live at 1402 West Avenue in Wellington. A large sign in front advertises "Wellington Florist," referring to the thriving floral shop that adjoins their house. That is Alliene's domain; Cecil is a farmer. On second thought, he is more than that... he is a farmer's farmer.

In recognition of his outstanding work, Shanks was named the Outstanding farmer-rancher of Collingsworth County by Salt Fork Soil and Water Conservation District and received his award at the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce Banquet, March 5.

Shanks, 60, is a Wellington native and graduate of Wellington High School in 1941. He began farming for himself in 1942 on land he now owns, using a 6-mule team. The next year, 1943, he traded his team for an Allis Chalmers tractor. But on January 1, 1944, Cecil Shanks entered the Army and saw active duty in the Philippines. It would be 1946 before he returned to Wellington and his farming.

The early years of his farming were on rented land at various locations around Wellington. Cotton was the principal cash crop of the area, and has always received highest priority from landlord and tenant alike. As time went on though, Cecil began paying more and more attention to the erosion problems caused by continuous cotton cropping with little or no regard for land treatment.

He took steps to offset these erosion problems. The addition of cotton bur mulch added organic matter and tilth to the soil. The use of winter small grain cover on cotton stalk ground was effective in controlling winter and spring wind erosion in the harsh West Texas wind. He noticed the effectiveness of terraces of controlling erosion on sloping land, and began encouraging his landlords to install terrace systems on the land he operated. The more he observed the effectiveness of these conservation measures, the more he knew that he was on the right track. In fact, he was instrumental in getting terraces installed on some land that he no longer operates.

He found however, that he needed some accelerated funding in order to install needed conservation work at a desirable pace, so he entered the Great Plains Conservation Program in late 1974. By using this program, he installed a tremendous amount of conservation work in the past seven years. This includes 74, 390 feet (almost 14 miles) of terraces, 4,196 feet of underground irrigation pipeline and 6.3 acres of critical erosion treatment on gullied areas. His conservation program will be complete on this farm when he carries out 11 acres of mesquite brush management this year.

The terraces on the farm serve two purposes: those on the more sloping land are primarily level contour terraces for erosion control, the less sloping land has been terraced primarily for moisture conservation and utilization and level parallel terraces have been installed to the maximum extent possible on that land. All of Cecil's terraces are of the wide-based type to fit modern six or eight-row equipment. He has even enlarged existing terraces on rented land over the years to better accommodate large equipment.

He is well aware of the cost-effectiveness of various methods and practices. A good example is the excellent irrigation water management program on the 80 acres of cropland and 24 acres of alfalfa hayland that he operates. The operation has been designed and operated to make maximum use of available water supply and energy input through proper timing and distribution of water applications.

In 1981, about six acres of severely gullied areas were treated, caused by uncontrolled as much as possible by terracing, then the gullies were shaped with heavy equipment. Heavy rains destroyed much of the original shaping work before vegetation was applied, so most of the area has to be reshaped.

Bermudagrass was sprigged on the proper seeded, fertilizer applied and weeds were controlled. By the fall of 1981, the area now appeared to be established to grass and stabilized. This is unusually quick progress for projects of the type in this area, and reflects both a good growing season and excellent efforts by Cecil applying the needed treatment and follow-up management to insure success. This is just one more example of the thoroughness that Cecil Shanks exhibits in all of his farming operations. Everything is well planned, installed, and carried through to completion.

A sound cultural program is applied to support some of the more visible practices. Cecil does an excellent job of rotating high residue crops such as sorghum and small grains with his cotton. He uses a sound fertility program and mulches with cotton burs on occasion as needed. Sweep and chisel tillage has just about replaced the disk plow in his operations, with a resulting increase in crop yields, and a great decrease in erosion hazards.

His wheatland is usually stubble mulched for moisture conservation and erosion control. Contour farming practiced on all of his terraced land and terraces are also provided any other maintenance work that is needed in the off season each year.

Cecil has served on the county ASC committee and has been a local officer in the Farm Bureau.

He has an outstanding reputation as a good farmer and his practices and methods are respected and observed by most of the farmers in the area. Probably no other single person in the local area has had a greater influence in proving the value of terracing and disproving the false opinion that terracing and modern farming and equipment are not compatible.

Cecil and Alliene Shanks have two daughters, Mrs. Tyrone Penick of Altus and Mrs. Don Hendrix of Wellington.

Cynthia Castillo Rites Monday

Cynthia Castillo, month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Castillo of Lutie, died Sunday, July 4, in Northwest Texas Hospital, Amarillo. She was born June 2 in Shamrock Hospital.

Graveside services were conducted Monday, July 5, at 10 a.m. in Fairview Cemetery with the Rev. Natividad Villanueva, pastor of Mt. Sina Mision Bautista officiating. Arrangements were under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home.

Survivors are the parents, sons sister, Sonia, and two brothers, Richard and Manuel, Jr., all of Lutie; and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Santos Castillo of Reynosa, Mexico and Mrs. Carmen Arellano of Chapala, Mexico.

SS Records Now Held at Pampa

The records kept by Social Security contain the work history of every person who has ever worked in employment or self-employment covered by Social Security, Larry Mayo, Social Security Branch Manager in Pampa, said recently.

These records go back to 1936, when Social Security began. The earliest records were kept on ledger cards, but as the program grew, they became inadequate because of the sheer volume of reports. Currently, the records are kept on reels of magnetic tape so they can be processed by computer.

These records are extremely important to those whose work is covered by Social Security. At the time of retirement, disability, or death, these records decide eligibility and the amount of benefits.

If all of a person's earnings are correctly reported, there will be no problem. But, if some earnings were incorrectly reported, because of an error in the Social Security number or worker's name, or if they were never reported, the person may receive a smaller benefit than he or she should. Or, in extreme cases, the person may be found to be ineligible for benefits.

Each year, the earnings of about 2 million workers are reported without Social Security numbers. These earnings cannot be credited to the workers' records. Also, if a person marries or changes the spelling of his or her name without notifying Social Security, earnings reported with that name may not be credited to the person's record.

There are steps a person can take to ensure that his or her earnings are correctly reported, Mr. Mayo said. First, the person should make sure that his or her employer copies his or her Social Security number and name just as they are shown on the Social Security card. Do not rely on memory when giving the number.

Another precaution a person can take is to check his or her Social Security record every 3 years or so. This is especially important if the person holds more than one job or changes jobs often.

A post card form can be obtained at any Social Security office just for this purpose. All a person has to do is fill it out and mail it. In return, he or she will receive a statement of the earnings shown on his or her Social

Mrs. Childress Dies July 2 In Waco

Mrs. Mattie L. Childress, 109-B 14th St., died in Hillcrest Hospital, Waco, at 12:40 P.M. Friday, July 2. She was visiting a daughter there.

Mrs. Childress, a retired nurse, lived in Collingsworth county during her girlhood and as a young woman, then returned here in 1968, several years after the death of her husband.

In Wellington, her activities included work with the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Midway Extension Homemakers Club and Thomas Nursing Center Auxiliary.

She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Born July 20, 1904, at Wynnewood, then in the Indian Territory, she was the daughter of Charley and Rose Baker Ogletree. She came here as a small child and lived in the Marella, Lillie, Salt Fork area, where she grew up and attended school. She married Demos Childress Nov. 16, 1921 in Collingsworth County and they farmed at Swearingen until they moved to Borger.

He died July 19, 1953.

Mrs. Childress worked for Phillips Petroleum Co., during World War II and as a nurse's aide at Borger and later in California, Venita, Okla., and Silverton. She was a practical nurse after returning here.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Monday, July 5, in the Church of Christ with Garell Forehand and David Hall officiating. Mr. Hall was in charge of the graveside service at 4 p.m. Monday in Highland Park Cemetery, Borger.

Pall bearers were grandsons, Michael Jones, Scott Jones, Greg Nite, Kelly Nite, Carlton Fletcher and Jim Worth. Honorary pall bearers were Darrell Childress of Amarillo, Benny Brown of Stinnett, Marshall Peters and David Peters. Nieces and cousins formed the choir and arrangements were by Guy Owens Funeral Home.

Survivors are two daughters, Joyce Jones of Waco and Clea Nite of Amarillo; two sisters, Mrs. David Peters, and Mrs. Christine Jolley, of LaHabra, Ca., 6 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Students Learn Meat Processing From Former Wellington Man

A former county man who must have helped with some hog killings when he was growing up in Buck Creek Community, is teaching 8 boys and a girl in his meat processing class at Tatum High School how to do it properly.

Wayne Lacy, son of Mrs. Robert Lacy, is the subject of a story by Marilyn Covey, staff writer for The Henderson Daily News. Here are excerpts:

"Let me be on the kill floor," each student requests. Lacy says that the students get tired of doing the same job and all want to work on the kill floor, the area where an animal is killed, skinned and cut into halves for processing and packaging.

Lacy teaches all the aspects of processing meat, from the live animal to the packaged product on its way to the school cafeteria or someone else's dinner table.

When they work in the lab, the students put on rubber boots, white coats and hard hats and strap a holster of sorts containing butcher knives around their waists.

The kill floor is in the back of the lab. In the front is a cooler with tables for cutting the meat, saws, a grinder and areas to package the produce. The cooler joins two freezers, one for the large carcasses and a colder one for packaged meat.

Senior Leatrice Adams, only female in the class, said that killing the animals does not bother her. "They shoot it between the forehead," she said. The animals are hung and their throats cut to let the blood drain out.

Lacy said, "I still don't really enjoy watching the killing part of it, but the way we do it is probably as humane as any."

The students slaughter cattle, sheep, hogs and goats. One day a week is for the school cafeteria. Other animals are slaughtered for individuals, Lacy says. "We charge for our processing, based on the warm carcass weight," he said, adding that the fee is 14 cents per pound plus $5 for killing the animal.

(While four students are killing a calf, four others are boning another animal. Meat is packaged in 20-pound containers for the cafeteria, and ground twice to mix the fat evenly with the lean.)

The class at Tatum was the dream of a former agriculture teacher, James Irwin. The first class began two years ago and is limited to 10 students per semester.

The purpose of the class is to teach students a skill that will help them find employment upon graduation.

Discussing the four students who were working on the kill floor, Lacy said, "These boys right here could probably go to a meat processor and, with just a little bit of training, work into a good job."

(Tatum High School is one of 5 in the state with a complete processing facility.)

"We are state inspected," Lacy said. "When packaging the meat, we try to make this package as air-tight as we can. This is one of the things I stress, for the kids to make an attractive package."

When the first escalator was installed in Harrod's department store in London, brandy was served to passengers who felt faint.

New Rules for LP Gas Vehicles

AUSTIN - The Railroad Commission adopted emergency rules this week to insure that vehicles converted to use lp-gas as fuel are safe. Existing rules regulating conversions were repealed. The new rules go into effect immediately.

The popularity of lp-gas vehicles has increased the number of conversions taking place in Texas. Technological advances in the lp-gas industry made existing rules inadequate to protect the public, according to Hugh Keepers, director of the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Division. Twenty-four independent school districts, for instance, converted their school buses to lp-gas before the emergency rules were adopted. Existing rules did not take school bus conversions into consideration.

According to Keepers, the new rules equal or exceed standards set by the National Fire Protection Association. In many cases the new minimum standards for equipment are higher than standards under the old rules.

Emergency rules are effective for 120 days. During that time, the Commission will publish the rules in the Texas Register for public comment so that they can be considered for permanent adoption.
