Janitor Shoots Himself In Head 3 Times But Fails To Obtain The Desired Effect

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Salvatore Morrione, 50, a janitor, went into the cellar of his apartment building today, tired of living and determined to end it all.

He placed a revolver to his temple, closed his eyes and pulled the trigger. He heard the report of the shot but he did not die. He did not even fall.

He put the gun to his head and fired a second time. The result was no more effective than the first.

He fired a third time and threw the gun away in disgust.

Then he walked upstairs and explained to his wife and two children that he had found a gun and that it had accidentally discharged as he was examining it. That, he said, was why he was bleeding.

Doctors at Bellevue hospital were amazed when he walked in and told them the real story—how three shots failed to kill him. They didn't believe the story until X-rays showed the presence of two bullets and the possibility of a third.

Still the doctors did not feel Morrione's condition was serious. He was placed in the prison ward on a charge of illegally possessing a firearm.

Four hours after the shooting, however, Morrione complained of a pain in the head.

The doctors placed him on the serious list.

Lubbock County Conservation District Talked

Movement toward the formation of a soil conservation district in Lubbock county was given impetus in a meeting of the Lubbock County Land-Use Planning committee in the courthouse Monday afternoon. Approval of the project as one of the major objectives of the committee for 1940 was given in the session atended by approximately two-thirds of the 30-member group.

Farmer petitions will be circulated within the next few days and the applicaton for the district dispatched to the state board which will order a hearing and a subsequent election for the district. The farmers will more than likely be joined by two adjoining counties of the area in establishment of the district.

Data Presented
Planting of windbreaks and trees, the establishment of more cold storage lockers over the county and conducting a campaign for promotion of more uses for cotton were other objectives approved by the general committee after reports were made by sub-commitee leaders.

Full information on the soil conservation district, the steps to be taken for its creation and other data were given the committee by E. E. Reynolds of the Soil Conservation service office here. Reynolds also exhibited pictures of work done in soil districts in this area. The district, when created, must be for a five-year period, Reynolds pointed out and must be approved by a two-thirds majority vote of the farmers in the area. Participation in the districts program is entirely voluntary, he revealed.

Slide Woman Reports
The petition seeking the creation of a district must be signed by fifty farmers of the county. Establishment of the district will provide the district with the technical knowledge and service of Soil Conservation service engineers and technicians in fulfillment of the program.

Mrs. O. R. Copeland of Slide, chairman of the windbreaks and trees sub-committee, made a brief report on her groups objective of planting "thousands of trees in Lubbock county during the year" after which C. T. Wasson, AAA assistant for the county, who explained AAA payments which will be given on the planting of trees, windbreaks and woodlots.

Payments up to $30 per farm will be made this year on the basis of $7.50 an acre for 350 living trees.

Daughter Of Abernathy Couple Dies Here Monday Afternoon

Wilma Jean Price, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Price of Abernathy, died at 4:15 o'clock Monday afternoon in a sanitarium here after an illness of 10 days.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the First Baptist church at Abernathy, with the pastor, Rev. J. F. Nix, officiating, assisted by Rev. D. H. Land, Nazarene pastor. Sanders Funeral home will direct burial in Abernathy cemetery.

Surviving are the parents; three brothers, Dale of Abernathy and Elwood and Dewey, jr., both of Fort Bliss; and a sister, Bernell of Abernathy.

South Plains Projects Included In Those Urged At Highway Meet

Two South Plains projects were included in 28 urged by delegations from countries or groups of coutries before the state highway commission at Austin, according tot he Associated Press.

Projects presented for consideration included:

Floyd—Proposed designation of a road from Lockney east to a connection with highway 207.

Gaines, Dawson and Lynn—Improvement of highway 214 from Seminole to the Yoakum county line; designation and improvement of a road from Seagraves via Welsh to O'Donnell.

Browder Given 4-Year Term

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Earl Russell Browder, the Kansas-born American communist leader, was convicted of passport fraud in federal court today and sentenced to 4 years in prison and fined $2,000.

The jury of 11 men and a young woman deliberated only 45 minutes on the verdict after hearing Browder himself in a singular summation plead for his freedom for more than an hour. No other defense was offered.

Correspondent Lawyer
Brushing aside his attorney, George Gordon Battle, Browder took the floor with the statement that he was a correspondence school lawyer.

The sentence was pronounced immediately after the jury was polled and a defense motion for delay was denied. It specified that 2-year sentences on each of two counts must be served consecutively. The maximum prison sentence would have been 10 years.

Browder, a perennial candidate for political office, was the communist candidate for president in 1936 and is now a candidate for the seat in Congress vacated by the recent death of Rep. Sirovich (D-NY).

Tales Of Escape Are Told By Survivors

MARSEILLE, France, Jan. 22. (AP) Survivors of the burning Italian liner Orazio told tales of escape in borrowed lifeboats on a stormy sea when 48 were landed here today.

The ship was a gigantic torch on the Mediterranean 38 miles off here yesterday morning after a mysterious pre-dawn explosion. The fire burned all but two of the vessel's lifeboats.

But rescue vessels which speedily answered distress calls sent over their own lifeboats and Italian officials said all 412 passengers were believed safe and most of the crew of 231.

The Orazio, it was disclosed, was shaken by an explosion in the engine room at 5 a.m., and then almost instantly was in flames from bow to stern.

In Paris, an official statement indignantly denied what was termed a German insinuation that a French contraband control party, which boarded the Orazio before the fire, was responsible for sabotage. The statement was issued in response to a dispatch by DNB, official German news agency.

Fifty Search For Man Missing From Near Paducah Two Days

PADUCAH, Jan. 22 (AP) — Fifty men tonight sought traces of Debbs Walker, 21, who disappeared Saturday while two companions came here to obtain help in starting a truck stalled on a ranch.

Walker and the two companions had gone for a load of wood when the truck broke down. He decided to stay with the truck while the companions went for aid. He was gone when they got back.

Dies Committee Resolution Is Given Approval

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 — A resolution to reestablish the House committee on un-American activities cleared its first legislative hurdle today despite fresh criticism of the committee's methods and a charge that its chairman, Rep. Dies (D-Tex), had "actively associated" with a "fellow traveler" of the Christian Front.

The House rules committee unanimously approved the resolution and put it on the calendar for House consideration tomorrow. Leaders said its approval by the House was virtually certain. The Dies committee's authority expired Jan. 3.

Refuse To Look
Rep. Hook (D-Mich) linked Dies' name with the Christian Front, 17 of whose members have been arrested in New York and charged with plotting to overthrow the government.

Hook appeared before the rules committee with a mass of documents he wanted the members to look over, and, when the refused, put into the congressional record a statement declaring that Dies was in "active association with a prominent collaborator" of the Christian Front, and had been "taking us for a ride for his own political purposes." This "collaborator," Hook said, was Merwin K. Hart of New York city.

Congressman Dies Says Hooks' Charges Do Not Need Answer

ORANGE, Jan. 22. (AP) — Rep. Hooks' (D-Mich) remarks before a House committee that Rep. Dies (D-Tex) had actively associated with a Christian Front collaborator were termed by Dies tonight as "too ridiculous to justify serious consideration."

Replying to Hooks' assertion that Merwin K. Hart was a "fellow traveler" in the organization, 17 members of whom FBI agents charged plotted to overthrow the government, Dies said he knew Hart but had never been associated with him and knew nothing of him being a "prominent collaborator" of the front.

Louisiana Legislature Speeds Action At Huey Long Pace

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 22 (AP) —In a political forum atmosphere and at the best Huey Long pace, Governor Earl Long's vote-wooing program glided along in the Louisiana Legislature today.

The House completed action on all 20 of the administration bills, sent them to the Senate where they quickly gained committee approval, paving the way for adjournment Wednesday—equalling the five-day minimum par established by the late "Kingfish."

While ostensibly weighing the legislation at hand, the main issue in the House debate seemed to be who loved Huey and who didn't in the hectic days when the blustery governor was founding the political dynasty which Brother Earl seeks to prolong by winning a gubernatorial runoff primary against Sam Jones February 20.

Jap And British Relations Again Are Strained

Seizure Of German Seamen Off Japanese Liner Is Termed "Serious Unfriendly Act"

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer
TOKYO, Jan. 22—Japan in a vigorous protest tonight accused Britain of "a serious unfriendly act" in seizing 21 German seamen from the Japanese liner Asama Maru 35 miles off the east coast of Japan.

The Japanese government, declaring "forcible measures" were used to capture the Germans Saturday, reserved the right to demand return of the prisoners and requested a "full, valid explanation."

Protest Received
British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie received the protest at the foreign office in an interview with Masayuki Tani, vice minister of foreign affairs, who said Japan attaches "greatest importance" to the incident.

The Asama Maru, bound for Yokohama from San Francisco, was halted by a shot across her bows from a British warship. A British boarding party seized the 21 German seamen of military age but did not molest 17 other German seamen and passengers. Two seamen escaped detection by hiding.

Interned At Hongkong
British authorities indicated that the captives, part of a group who formerly served on Standard Oil vessels in Central and South America, would be interned at Hongkong.

A foreign office communique said Tani told Sir Ribert that Japan adhered to the principle that only those "embodied in the armed forces" of a belligerent should be yielded to a demanding belligerent.

"Nevertheless, a British warship took the above-mentioned forcible measure against a Japanese vessel in waters near Japan.

Unfriendly Act
"The Japanese government cannot but regard the British action as a serious, unfriendly act against Japan, therefore they attach the greatest importance to the affair.

"The Japanese government cannot acquiesce to the measure taken by the British navy regarding which they demand that the British government promptly furnish a full, valid explanation.

"The Japanese government hereby explicitly reserve the right to demand delivery to them of the detained Germans. In view of the fact that British action already has given a great shock to public opinion in Japan, repetition of such action would aggravate all the more sentiment of the Japanese nation against Britain.

"From the broad viewpoint of the future of relations between Japan and Britain, the Japanese government request the British government to pay serious consideration to the matter."

Rancher Gives Anti-Freeze To Cows To Prevent Deaths

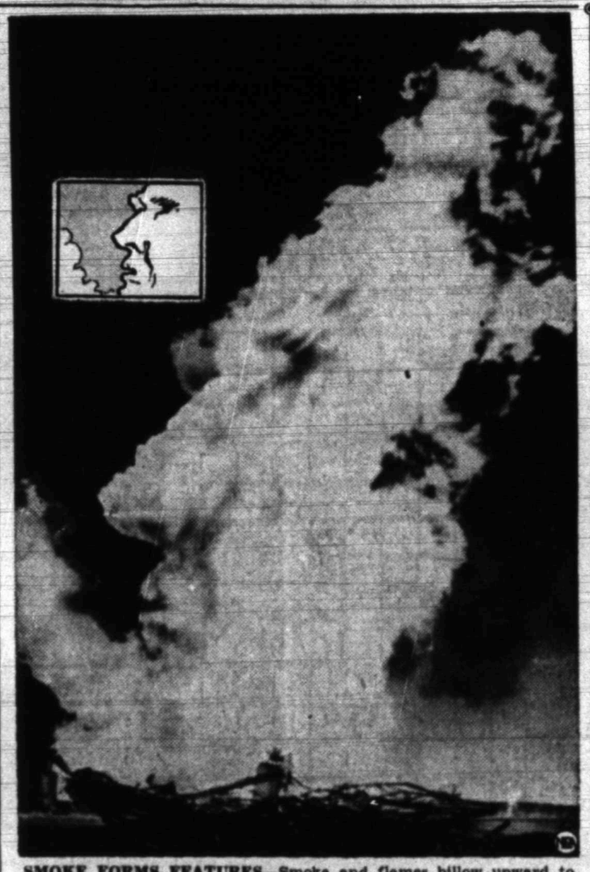

(By The Associated Press)
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Jan. 22.—Rancher Ed Johnson got his car thawed out and came to town today with a report that at his ranch it's as "cold as Helsinki—42 degrees below zero."

He claimed his place was the coldest spot this side of Finland. And, with no idea of bidding for membership in the Burlington liar's club, Frost-Bitten Ed related:

"Although the milk would run when I milked the cows this morning, it froze into beautiful rainbows before hitting the pail, so I just corded it up."

He mentioned something about willingness to take an oath on that one, but the following he just told:

He can't come to town very often in this weather because he hasn't any anti-freese left for his automobile after giving it to his cattle to keep them from freezing.

Soviets Warn Finland That Germans Will Get 'Em But Finns Get 900 Russians

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer
HELSINKI, Jan. 22.—To the accompaniment of loud-speaker broadcasts that the Germans were coming and "would kill all Finns," Russia's red army was reported in military dispatches today to have lost 900 troops in a fruitless attempt to crack Finland's Mannerheim line.

(Nazis in Berlin immediately replied that Germany's position remained "friendly toward the Russian cause but strictly that of an observer.")

Fighting Is Heavy
Heavy fighting was reported northeast of Lake Ladoga in the direction of Kitila, Kollantjoki and Ilomanisi with the Russians leaving more than 600 dead on the battlefields. The red army appeared ready for a new effort after concentrating new supplies and munitions.

Another soviet attack at Taipale on the Karelian isthmus was "halted in its infancy" it was reported in tonight's communique covering yesterday.

Dead Counted
"After yesterday's fighting (at Taipale) about 120 enemy dead were counted in our foremost positions," the communique said, "and on the ground in the front of our lines were the bodies of several hundred there.

"The enemy tried to give effect to his attacks by loud speakers mounted in his positions which exhorted our men to surrender, declaring that Viipuri would be taken within 48 hours and threatening that Germans are coming to help him and would kill all Finns."

Terms Assessed By Judge Blair

(Special To The Avalanche)
CROSBYTON, Jan. 22.—Twelve years in the penitentiary must be served by three of four defendants who faced Judge Daniel A. Blair in 72nd district court Monday.

Records of Burton S. Burks, district attorney, showed that five years must be served by each of two men removed here by bench warrant from Huntsville penitentiary, Victor Easter, about 23, and W. B. Poindexter.

George Hart, negro about 30, must serve two years.

Run Concurrently
Easter had been allowed suspension of a sentence in 1938 for burglary, but it was set aside today and he was given five years in the penitentiary to be served cumulative with a five-year sentence assessed Oct. 29 in Montague county for conviction on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Poindexter, who had been indicted as H. B. Poindexter but who informed the court of the irregularity, pleaded guilty before Judge Blair on a charge of forgery. Previously he had been given four years in the penitentiary from Comanche county.

The terms will run concurrently, said the district attorney.

The negro stole an automobile from Roy Bullock Dec. 17, and made his plea before the court.

Libel Suit Pending
The complaining witness, Joe Bowers, recommended suspension of sentence for another man, who pleaded guilty of theft of seed cotton and of a trailer. The trailer, said Bowers, had been recovered and restitution made of the value of cotton.

Thus the two-hour court action cleared the dockets of the 72nd criminal docket here, so far as arrests of persons indicted were concerned.

Judge Blair excused the jury until 9 o'clock Thursday morning, when the Jeff Spikes $25,000 libel action against Street & Smith publications is called for hearing.

New Order Affecting Panhandle Oil Allowances Is Made Public

AUSTIN, Jan. 22 (AP)—The railroad commission today made public an order prescribing that oil production allowables exceeding marginal allowances in the Panhandle must be based on well potential tests witnessed by commission representatives.

Heretofore in some instances, temporary allowables have been granted pending the taking of potentials by a commission agent.

Britain Warned Not To Delay Ships Too Long

American Vessels Are Detained At Gibraltar Longer Than Those Of Italian Government

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 — The United States has expressed to Great Britain "its serious concern" over the treatment British authorities are according American shipping in the Mediterranean area, particularly at Gibraltar.

This was disclosed tonight when the state department made public an Aide Memoire, handed to the British ambassador Saturday, which protested that American ships at Gibraltar were being detained three times as long as British contraband authorities hold Italian ships there.

Average Of 12.4 Days
The Aide Memoire, appending a list of nine American ships detained by British authorities at Gibraltar between November 15 and December 15, pointed out that they were held an average of 12.4 days each, whereas Italian ships were held an average of only four days, and demanded assurances that the examination of American ships be speeded up. The present situation was declared to discriminate against American shipping.

Since the proclamation of the combat area which keeps American ships out of North European waters, Gibraltar has become the chief port of examination of American ships by British authorities.

One In Series
The protest was another in a series of representations made recently by the United States on such matters as Britain's blockade of German exports, her taking American ships into the combat area, and her interference with American mails.

In addition, Secretary Hull called the British ambassador, Lord Lothian, to his office today and drew his attention to the plight of American tobacco growers as a result

State Funeral For Borah Held

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—President Roosevelt and other national leaders bowed in grief today at a state funeral for the revered elder statesman, Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho.

Senator Glass (D-Va) and many another brushed tears from their eyes in the hushed half-gloom of the Senate chamber as congressional chaplains prayed over the slate gray, steel casket containing the remains of the man who came out the West 33 years ago to win fame in some of history's most momentous debates.

Door Locked
After the ceremony the doors were locked, and the body lay in solitude, except for an honor guard of policemen, until the time came at 5:10 p.m., (CST) to start the long journey back to Idaho, where burial will take place Thursday in Boise.

Aside from the solemn grandeur of the scene — floor and galleries packed with black-clad diplomats, legislators, judges and Borah's friends from private life—the ceremony itself was simple.

Mrs. Henrietta Bagger Plum, well-known Washington singer, opened the service with the hymn, "Lead Kindly Light." There was no accompaniment.

Blessing Pronounced
"I am the resurrection and the life, saith the Lord," began the House chaplain, the Rev. James Shera Montgomery. The Senate chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Ze Barney Phillips, then read a lesson from the 14th chapter of St. John and the eighth chapter of Romans.

Another song by Mrs. Plum, "Abide With Me," and a prayer, including a supplication for Mrs. Borah and the late senator, concluded the service. The Rev. Dr. Phillips raised his hand over the casket in a blessing.

Oil Field Worker Subdued But Not Until After Two Deaths

CORPUS CHRISTI, Jan. 22. (AP)—An oil field worker who was subdued with tear gas at his home today after he had killed two men and wounded two others was questioned by officers tonight, but no charges were filed.

The man fired a volley of gunfire through the windov of his home to kill first E. H. Bruening, local poultry dealer, and then Arthur Kretzchman, ambulance driver, who had answered the call to take Bruening to the hospital. Wounded were William L. Denson, operator of a poultry company, and John Marsalis, policeman. Several other officers as well as bystanders were narrowly missed by bullets from the man's rifle before he was routed from his home.

Morgenthau Coordinates Allied Purchasing Of War Materials

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP) — Secretary Morgenthau indicated today that, at President Roosevelt's request, he was coordinating allied and American army and navy airplane purchasing in this country.

The treasury secretary said at a press conference that his connection with airplane procurement today was substantially the same as a year ago. He testified then before a Senate committee that he was facilitating the pre-war airplane purchasing of a French military mission.

Declining to give details, Morgenthau asserted that his role was to "look after our own interests first, last and always."

Deal Of The Allies For Winning European Conflict Disclosed By "Big Guns"

Three Speeches Are Analyzed

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The bombardment of war-oratory turned loose by British big guns at the week-end disclosed a deal of the Allied strategy for winning the conflict.

I have been particularly interested in dissecting the speeches of First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Halifax—heavy artillery, these two—and the less known but vigorous Minister for Economic Warfare Ronald Cross. This trio pretty well told the whole story of the anglo-French trials and fears and hopes.

Official Answers

As I pulled these addresses to pieces and weighed the various statements—not overlooking omissions—it became clear that they gave more or less official answers to many questions which one encounters constantly.

First off, it is worth while to note the underlying purposes of these speeches. These great men don't talk merely to get the sound of their own voices. The real reasons for the broadcasts seem to be to be four:

Purposes Listed

1. To inform the public at home of the progress of the war; to keep up the morale under circumstances which already are trying; to prepare the public for great sacrifices to come.

2. To advise the fighting forces, and keep up their morale.

3. To convert neutral countries to the Allied viewpoint.

4. To reach the German public and try to persuade it to desert Hitler. The Allies are, of course, making every effort to produce a revolt in Germany.

Among the notable points made by the speakers, and sometimes emphasized by the three of them, were these:

Chance Thrown Away

Hitler threw away any chance he may have had to win the war when he didn't strike at the very outset, Germany then being fully prepared and the Allies not yet set.

Now the Allies have the nazi fuehrer beaten (all three ministers claimed this) because of his bad economic condition and because the blockade has shut him off from war supplies and foodstuffs.

However, the war isn't over and the people of Britain and France must be prepared for great sacrifices.

"The only reason peace cannot be made tomorrow" (Halifax) is because the nazi government hasn't offered to repair the damage it has done to its little neighbors, and its word is worthless to the Allies. This was another bid to the German people to throw Hitler out.

Turkey In Camp

Churchill in effect appealed to the neutral countries to join with the Allies, and made complimentary references to numerous states, from western Europe to the Danubian countries and Balkans "behind whom stands the resolute Turk." (Turkey is understood to be in the Allied camp.)

To emphasize his appeal, the first lord drew a lurid picture of the dangers which he saw in communism. He used the strongest language employed toward the soviet, there having been a disposition prior to the invasion of Finland to avoid doing anything to draw Russia into the war. The Allied viewpoint appears to have shifted.

Italy Unmentioned

It was notable that none of the speeches mentioned Italy. This presumably was because the Allied are treading lightly where Mussolini is concerned, with the idea of winning his cooperation, if not brotherhood.

And again we had a prediction which one took to mean that out of this war might grow something like a United States of Europe in which all the nations would participate in peace for the common good. This time it was Halifax who made the reference, which already had been advanced by British Premier Chamberlain and French Premier Daladier.

Derden Begins His Campaign

AUSTIN, Jan. 22 (AP)—Albert Derden of Marlin, a candidate for governor, condemned the general sales tax and replied to Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's attacks on "professional politicians" in a radio address today.

The speech was another of a series by legislative foes of the governor's taxation program. Derden is a member of the House.

"By a sales tax upon gasoline," he said, "we already are contributing all the money which goes to build our highways and millions of dollars to our available school fund and to the retirement of road bonds. With an additional sales tax upon cigarettes, liquor and beer we are contributing practically all the money now available to the old age assistance program.

"Through the means of these sales taxes we now collect 55 per cent of all state revenue—or in other words, 55 cents out of every state dollar is now collected through the medium of a sales tax. Is this not enough to make you people tax conscious?"

Explanation Of Zoning Given For Two Public Schools

Central Ward, grades one through six, south of Broadway to Fifteenth street between College avenue and Avenue Q, from Ninth street to Sixteenth street between Avenue Q and Avenue N, from Ninth street to Fifteenth street east of Avenue N to the Santa Fe railroad, and some rural children who ride school buses.

Mayor Will See That All Newly-Weds Do Not Starve

GARDNER, Mass., Jan. 22 (AP)—A hard-hitting but considerate mayor, who had but 15 cents when he returned from his own honeymoon, wasn't spoofing when he told unemployed men of this community that if they married he would see that they were supported "even if you have to go on public welfare."

"It's high time for reformers to stop 'monkeying' with natural laws," Mayor Fred E. Perry, father of two boys and two girls said in an interview.

"Because a number of people have been frightened by the drives they have heard during the past decade about economic collapse, they have refrained from marrying and the result is an increasing number of bachelors and old maids and a falling birth rate."

"A healthy city, state and nation requires marriage and if a man without a job in this city wants to get married, he has my blessing and benediction, and I'll see to it that he gets a public welfare job."

Excavation For Denison Dam Will Be Resumed Soon

DENISON, Jan. 22 (AP)—Resumption of excavation for the Denison dam outlet works today awaited only moderation of the weather.

A settlement was reached yesterday between the contractors and striking truck drivers and shovel operators.

George W. Condon, contractor, described the settlement as the result of "give and take" and labor leaders said it was "satisfactory." Pickets were withdrawn from lines held since the strike started last Thursday.

Troops Participating In Texas Maneuvers Are Snowed In

CHRISTINE, Jan. 22 (U.P.)—Seven thousand troops of the second division were snowed in today.

Brought here, 50 miles south of San Antonio, for war games, the troops were without skis for maneuvering on the snow.

They stayed in their tents, which contained no stoves.

Sweden, now pacifist, prior those conquerors and military issues, King Charles XII and Gustavus Adolphus.

YOU MEAN TO SAY MAXWELL HOUSE HAS ACTUALLY BEEN IMPROVED?

RIGHT! IMPROVED IN TWO VERY IMPORTANT WAYS!

2 DEFINITE REASONS why Maxwell House is now even richer, more delicious!

1. New Enriched Blend. Yes! The famous Maxwell House blend has actually been improved . . . made richer, smoother, even more delicious and full-flavored than ever!

2. Improved Roasting Method! And this magnificent new blend is now roasted by a new method called Radiant Roast. A method that roasts each bean evenly . . . brings out more fully the extra-rich flavor of these choice coffees. No weak coffee from under-roasting. No bitter coffee from parching. Always full-flavored, always delicious!

Rev. Coughlin Denies Membership In, Urges Support Of "Christian Front"

ress Reports re Criticized

ETROIT, Jan. 22 (U.P.)—The Rev. rles E. Coughlin discussing the members of the Christian Front used of plotting to overthrow government said in his weekly io address yesterday that he was a member of the organization, urged support of it.

Coughlin criticized newspaper reits of the arrest of the 17 alleged tionists. His statement was an wer to charges that he incited mbers of the "Christian Front."

Prisoners Feel They Have Lost Their Best Friend With Suicide Of Victim

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 22 (U.P.)—Walter and George McGee felt today that they lost "our best friend" when Mary McElroy, their kidnap victim in 1933, killed herself in Kansas City yesterday.

"It wouldn't have hurt any worse if it had been a sister," said lean, black-browed Walter.

His chunky younger brother, who has spent half of his life in prisons, said, "it makes this life sentence twice as hard."

Walter, now 34, was saved from the gallows by Miss McElroy. George, 29, was given life imprisonment. Miss McElroy had told them both she was making plans to help them when their parole hearing comes up this spring.

Never Forgot Them

In 1935 Walter's death sentence was changed to life imprisonment two days before his scheduled hanging because Miss McElroy pleaded with Gov. Guy B. Park to spare him.

She never forgot the two. She visited them last in 1936 and later kept in touch with them through their sister, Mrs. Dess Fisher of Fort Leavenworth, Kan. On Christmas she gave them subscriptions to magazines.

And they did not forget her. Walter, trying to find something to do to pass away long idle hours in his cell, learned to crochet.

He made Miss McElroy a dress, a handbag, two blouses and six pairs of gloves with his own hands. For these prisoners with our prayers, asking that they be tried on the charges leveled against them by the officials of the federal government."

"If they are guilty, let them be punished," he said. "If innocent, God speed their freedom."

Early Harvest Is Expected

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22 (AP)—Southern California farmers, favored by a mild and wet winter, anticipate an unusually early harvest of particularly fine crops.

The California fruit growers exchange said today that warm days and cool nights of recent weeks, following some heavy rains, were "forming up" citrus crops unusually well and were inducing extremely good coloring. Earlier there had been fear that the tree crops were approaching maturity too rapidly, but the cooler weather has retarded their growth.

Much Earlier

Paul Wilson of the Los Angeles county agricultural commissioner's office said the vegetable crops would be much earlier this year than last.

"Strawberries and asparagus particularly are away ahead of schedule," he said, adding that only heavy frosts could prevent bumper harvests.

There have been no reports of frost damage to date, Wilson said, and the only anti-frost "smudging" yet required has been, in a few cases, for lemons, less protected by foliage than other citrus trees.

The maximum Sunday temperature in the Los Angeles area was 71. Today's minimum was 52.

Wife Of Chairman Of Insurance Board Dies In New York Home

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Mrs. David Franklin Houston, 67, wife of the chairman of the board of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York and former secretary of agriculture died at her East 74th street home today.

Houston served in Wilson's cabinet and formerly was president of the University of Texas. Mrs. Houston was born Helen Beall in Austin, Tex.

OPERATION AT SCHOOL HOUSE—John Hill (above), 10, swallowed a metal pencil cap at a St. Louis school and the cap lodged in his windpipe, cutting off his breath. A doctor, performing an emergency operation in the school yard while the snow fell, slit the windpipe below the obstruction, admitting air to the boy's tlungs. The cap later was removed at a hospital.

Highway Meet Gets Underway

AUSTIN, Jan. 22 (AP)—Five Central Texas counties combined forces into a large delegation today to lead off the regular monthly state highway commission hearing with presentation of a six-point road improvement program to facilitate transportation in their area.

The group, composed of Palo Pinto, Jack, Young, Eastland and Mills county representatives, requested the commission to: (1) Release right-of-way deeds to counties on highway 254 from Graham to Mineral Wells; (2) Locate highway 120 from the Jack-Young county line to the Brazos river; (3) construct highway 120 from the Brazos river to three miles south of the Possum Kingdom dam; (4) build a bridge over the Brazos river on highway 120; (5) grade and set in drainage structures on highway 81 from Strawn to Desmona, and (6) do basic work on the same highway from Goldthwaite to the Comanche county line.

The commission followed its set policy of making no commitments. Thirty four delegations were docketed.

Improvement of highway 86 was requested by a Swisher county group and the same type of work on highway 51 from Odessa to the Crane county line was asked by Ector county representatives.

Hutchinson and Potter counties combined to seek a change in designation and construction of highway 136 and acceptance of a master plan for Potter county and Amarillo.

GLAMOROUS SONGSTER

AN OPERA star who is considered one of the best-dressed women in America is glamorous Gladys Swarthout the dark-eyed beauty who has been chosen by a group of distinguished American artists as the "ideal American girl." You remember, of course, she is to sing here in February under auspices of the South Plains Civic Music association.

Miss Swarthout has an excellent style sense and absolutely refuses to wear anything simply because it is the "newest thing in fashion." She bases her entire wardrobe on several patterns that are flattering to her and often her clothes are beautifully styled so that they can be worn for several seasons and still be at the height of fashion.

• • •

Her clothes are always outstanding for their simplicity of line and unusual fabrics. She is said to insist that a few good clothes and interchangeable accessories are what make up an effective wardrobe.

Which illustrates that old maxim whether your budget runs in three figures or six, you can be smartly frocked if you know how to shop and how to choose the styles that "really do something for you!"

• • •

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Miss Turner: You are noble indeed and you are doing a beautiful kindness to the glamour boys. How they need it. Of course you and Charlie could see right off that you couldn't fool the Lubbock girls, but you don't leave 'em there, you go on advertising them, through the press throughout the U. S. A. But there is one thing that's sure to crumb the deal and that's their pictures.

Of course we all like the old boys and are used to looking at them so it isn't such a shock to us, but imagine a girl really considering one of those mugs! (Editor's note: We can imagine it all right. One of them has married, another's engagement been announced since the pictures appeared in the paper here.)

Yes! I'd leave off the pictures and I'll say with the success of your "employment agency" lately, that if they can be hitched you'll get the job done. But of course Charlie couldn't risk you (with your dangerous, bloody nails) on such a tame task as Woman's Angle or an employment agency alone so he wishes this matrimony agency off on you. You really should speak to Charlie about the "Tack" system in the Amarillo Globe-News, where no pictures are required and you can combine the two agencies. You have had a good response (considering) but I have a feeling that these out of town girls are just trying to take our poor old boys for a ride.

Li'l Hetty

• • •

Dear Li'l Hetty; You'll notice we left out about five pages of your letter since we saw immediately you do not know any of the men who were "presented" at the bachelors' debut party. It's too bad you weren't at that gathering; you'd feel different about the matter. As for the matrimonial agency, that's out. And from the stack of letters John Shewmake showed us Saturday morning, this wide spread publicity is certainly putting Lubbock on the map. One letter was from Congressman George H. Mahon.

As for the radio complaint, address it to KFYO. Thanks for your letter. Write again when you have another grievance.

• • •

TO THE Li'l Abner club in care of The Woman's Angle: I am out of arrows just now, but decided to try a letter as I live in a small town, Plainview, where there are no Li'l Abners. I thought it would be fun to write and see if there might be one bachelor or widower who might be around 50 years old and would like to correspond with me.

I am five feet, five inches tall, weigh 135 pounds, brown hair. Will tell more about myself upon an answer. I lived in Lubbock ten years and have quite a few friends living there. Here's hoping I receive an answer.

Ann.

If anyone wants to write to Ann who lives in the "small town Plainview" (won't census taker and editor on leave, Jack Woodward, throw a fit at that description) we have her true name and street number.

Presbyterians Will Hold Prayer Week

Attendance at Women's Missionary society meetings Monday afternoon was reduced because of inclement weather and illness.

Mrs. M. D. Temple taught the lesson at the First Presbyterian Woman's auxiliary meeting. Her subject was, "Foreign Missions." Miss Virginia McLean gave the devotional.

Plans were made for a week of prayer to be held from Saturday to February 4. Circle 3 members served refreshments at a social hour. Approximately 25 members were present.

A short business session was held by the First Baptist Women's Missionary society at the church. Mrs. J. E. Alexander presided in the absence of Mrs. W. H. Porter, president.

Twenty members were presnet.

Reports Given

The First Methodist W. M. S. met in the chapel at 3 o'clock. The group opened the meeting with a hymn and a prayer led by Mrs. A. N. Gamble.

Reports were given during a business session and the group voted to contribute $25 to the Community Center. Mrs. A. W. Evans announced the church women's federation meeting next Monday.

Mrs. Mary E. Payne gave news from the missionary bulletin. Mrs. O. B. Trinkle sang. The devotional, "The Greatest Thing in the World," from a book by Henry Drummonds was given by Mrs. Ed Terrell. She also gave the closing prayer. Sixty persons were present.

Central Baptist W. M. S., met in the home of Mrs. Jack Welch, 1309 Eighteenth street. Mrs. Osa Wilbanks led the song service and Mrs. Bryan Wages led the prayer.

Rev. Jack Welch taught the Bible lesson. Mrs. J. C. Sledge presided for business. The group will meet next Monday for an all-day quilting with Mrs. Welch.

Miss Iva Brock closed the meeting with prayer. Twenty members were present.

Service Held

A pledge service was conducted by the Asbury Methodist W. M. S., at the church. Mrs. W. E. Hamilton led the program which was taken from the yearbook.

Mrs. H. F. Hawkins gave the meditation from the World Outlook. Mrs. Annie Steele told something of the life of Belle Bennett. Thirty-five were present.

Circle meetings were held by the First Christian Woman's council as follows: 1, Mrs. T. Teal and Mrs. W. Bewley were hostesses in Mrs. Teal's home. Mrs. Mary F. Hinton gave the devotional and Mrs. Lynn Liddell taught the lesson. Mrs. Joe Coursey presided for business. Eleven members and four visitors attended; 2, Mrs. Ernest Lee was hostess, nine were present, Mrs. Ben Eskridge presided for business. Refreshments were served. The meeting of circle 3 was postponed because of illness; 4, Mrs. Dave Leaverton was hostess, Mrs. I. T. Wilson taught the lesson and there were 13 members and one visitor present; 5, Mrs. J. W. Broome was hostess. Mrs. Hilliard taught the lesson and Mrs. R. A. Mills gave the devotional. Eight members and one visitor were present; 6, Mrs. J. Mule Davis was hostess in the home of Mrs. D. N. Leaverton. Mrs. L. D. Thomas and her daughter, Juanita, were present. Twelve members and two visitors attended. Visitors were Mesdames L. W. Squyres and Charles F. O'Neall.

Units 2 and 3 of the St. Paul's Episcopal auxiliary met as follows: 2, Mrs. Mark Allen was hostess and Mrs. William Alden was co-hostess. Twelve members were present for the business meeting. Rev. John A. Winslow was a guest.

Mrs. Earl Bullock and Mrs. E. L. Richards were hostesses in the Richards home for circle 3. Plans were made for the year. Fifteen were present.

East Side Baptist W. M. S., met with Mrs. M. M. Hollingsworth for a Bible lesson from the sixth chapter of Romans. The group will attend a social at the church, January 29, at 7 o'clock. Six members were present.

Mrs. Bryan Landers, 2520 Elm street, was hostess to the Arnett-Benson Bible class at her home. Those present were Mesdames A. W. Brewer, J. E. Sligar, Eric Gentry, L. Vannoy, J. E. Reid, C. O. White, A. R. Pendley, I. T. Weed, Landers and Dr. W. F. Fry who taught the lesson.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Pendley, 2708 Ruby street.

Idalou Seniors To Present Play At Clubhouse Friday

Seniors of Idalou Rural High school will present a three-act play, M'liss, Friday night in Idalou clubhouse.

Naydeen Gregory will take the leading role in the Western comedy. Proceeds will go to yearbook financing.

Admittance price will be 15 and 25 cents.

Mrs. Jerre Harrod, teacher in Idalou schools, is directing the play.

LISTEN FOLKS!

Very often a prospect for life insurance says to me: "I want to ask my wife."
That, of course, is the most sensible thing to do. However, don't forget that in reality she is about the last one in the world who can answer the straightforward question of whether or not you should make a gift to her. That, however, is exactly what you are doing.
Ask your wife, of course, but explain to her that you are making a gift to her. And if you need any help, Southland Life has a little book, "What Wives Should Know," that YOUR wife ought to read. Write we and I'll send you one.
And when you buy life insurance, buy it the WRIGHT way!

Church Meeting Is Held Here

First of missionary institutes in each of nine districts of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference was conducted Monday in the First Methodist church.

Dr. O. P. Clark, Lubbock district presiding elder, was in charge. Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, pastor of the church and conference missionary secretary, will be principal speaker in each of the district meetings.

Other speakers Monday were Dr. Frank L. Turner of Abilene, president of McMurry college; Tom Ellzeg, Perryton layman; Dr. J. O. Haymes, Big Spring pastor; Rev. Don R. Davidson, Idalou pastor; Rev. Ed Thorpe, Ralls pastor; Rev. J. H. Crawford, O'Donnell pastor; and A. N. Gamble, Lubbock district lay leader.

Others Are Planned

Dr. Lipscomb and Dr. Turner will go to Plainview for a similar meeting today. During remainder of the week they will go to Amarillo Wednesday, Borger, for Dalhart district institute, Thursday, and Clarendon Friday.

Next week they will be in Childress (Vernon district), Stamford, Abilene and Big Spring (Sweetwater district).

Dr. Lipscomb will return here Sunday for regular services. He recently returned from Charlotte, N. C., where he attended a general missionary council, a prelude to the district institutes.

Junior High School Girls To Entertain With Open House

Plans are being made by the second year homemaking classes of Junior High school to hold an open house and tea in the auditorium and homemaking department soon. They are directing the open house as the first problem of a unit of work on, "Planning Social Life For the Family."

The second year class and the first year class are sponsoring a style review and exhibit of the work they have done. Children's clothes, toys, linens will be on display. School dresses, pajamas, play suits, housecoats and aprons will be shown in the style review. Approximately 130 girls will take part.

This is the first year that second year homemaking work has been offered in Junior High school. Mrs. J. C. Bateman is teacher.

Play Is Reviewed At DAR Meeting

Mrs. F. A. Kleinschmidt reviewed the Hart-Kaufman play, "The American Way," at a meeting of the Nancy Anderson chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution Saturday afternoon when they met with Mrs. M. B. Hilburn, 1220 Avenue M.

Assistant hostesses were Mesdames W. M. Craig, C. M. Ballenger, Kleinschmidt and W. C. Rylander.

Mrs. C. S. Mast, regent, appointed Mrs. W. G. Dingus chairman of a committee composed of herself, Mesdames W. L. Baugh and Robert W. Wright. It was announced delegates to a state convention in Abilene and national congress in Washington, D. C., will be elected at the February meeting. There are 50 members in the local chapter.

Mrs. Ella May Keith O'Brien Presents "The American Way"

An audience of several hundred persons greeted Mrs. Ella May Keith O'Brien of Dallas Monday night when she appeared at Senior High school auditorium in a dramatic presentation of the Hart and Kaufman play, "The American Way." The First Christian Woman's council sponsored the program.

Mrs. O'Brien read most of the play, the characters stepping from the pages and seeming actually to walk about the stage as she presented first one and then the other in gestures, enunciation and facial expressions.

A wild sweep of applause testified to the audience's reception of a drama which tells the story of a German couple who came to the United States just before the turn of the century, who loved this country and "the American Way" while rearing their two children, making a small fortune in a cabinet business and losing it in the days of the depression. It is a drama which pictures the German man dying to save his grandson from joining with anti-American forces.

Mrs. O'Brien explained her admiration for the authors and their play before she began her monologue and her interpretation was evidence of that appreciation. The Dallas woman spent the week-end here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. McFarland. She is leaving this morning for Dallas where she conducts the Far Away Studio of Dramatic Art.

Fidelis Class Luncheon Held In Fifty-Fifty Classroom

First Methodist Fidelis class attended a monthly luncheon in the Fifty-Fifty classroom Friday afternoon. The hostess group consisted of Mesdames Ray Walden, M. G. Bowles, Allan Hill, Vincent Carr, Louis Pinkston, Lindsey Thompson, R. A. Metcalfe, Alex Hensley and G. W. Thrush. A Valentine motif was featured.

After a vocal duet by Mesdames Hugh Van Newton and Louise McWhorter, the class sang, directed by the teacher, Mrs. T. C. Delaney, and a "get-acquainted" hour was held. Mesdames McWhorter and R. Wilkerson were special guests.

Way "Build-Up" Helps Will Interest Women
The cause of a woman's periodic suffering from headache, irritability, cramp-like pain, may be functional dysmenorrhea due to a malnutrition, a condition that is often helped by CARDUI.
Principal way CARDUI helps is by stimulating appetite and the flow of gastric juices. Thus it may aid digestion; help build up a woman's strength, energy and nerve-force; so increase physical resistance to periodic discomfort.
It also helps reduce periodic distress for many who take it a few days before and during "the time." Your confidence in CARDUI is invited by its 50 years of popularity. Adv.

Politicians Are Waiting On FDR

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Democratic presidential campaigning, it appeared today, will stay largely beneath the surface until President Roosevelt discloses whether he will try for a third term.

Potential candidates for the nomination and their managers are busy, but their work of lining up delegates is based on a big "if." Vice President Garner is the only candidate who has said he would stay in the race no matter what Mr. Roosevelt decided.

As a result, Democratic dopesters are laying no odds on the ticket at this juncture.

McNutt May Join

Whether the president is thinking of retiring no one in authority professes to know definitely. A widespread view in the capital is that he may announce he has no third term ambitions, but whether this would rule out a possible "draft Roosevelt" movement in the Democratic convention would remain to be seen.

The Ohio Democratic primaries in May might provide one of the big tests of strength, should several candidates participate. Organization leaders in the state have declared that the delegation would favor Mr. Roosevelt's renomination, though pledged to Senator Donahey as a "favorite son." Donahey, however, has not decided whether to enter the primary.

Garner's supporters are urging him to seek the Ohio delegation, and some politicians believe that Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, might get into the state's battle.

Preliminaries For Registering At Tech Are Begun Monday

A total of 385 prospective students obtained permits to register for the spring semester Monday at Texas Technological college.

Monday was the opening day of final examinations of the fall semester and of pre-registration activities for the spring semester. Although Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 will be official enrollment days, students may go through preliminary procedure before that time and be ready to be admitted to the library for scheduling of classes on the official registration days.

Florida Woman Seeking Texas Man For Marrying Purposes

HOUSTON, Jan. 22 (AP)— Mayor Oscar Holcombe received a mailed plea from a St. Petersburg, Fla., woman—who said she was 50 years old but looked 38—for a Texas oilman with $10,000.

She wanted him for marrying purposes.

Conversations with women who married Texans, she wrote, convinced her "one could not find a more adaptable type for an all-around weathering of the bumps in the road in Texas."

Coton gins, oil mills and other similar industries in the county will be contacted by the Cotton Use committee in an effort to seek more use of cotton bagging and sacks during the year, Curtis Boyd, chairman of the group, said in making a brief report on his committee.

To Meet Regularly

Mrs. W. H. Long, Slaton, said the establishment of more cold storage locker units in the county was to be made during the year, her sub-committee had been informed.

Monroe May told of the possibilities of a farm organization in the county and after taking names of leaders interested in organization said a movement would be started toward that goal in a short time.

Henry Mahoney of Shallowater, chairman of the land-use committee, presided at the session. C. C. Jobson, county agent, is secretary.

The commitee will hold regular meetings the third Monday of each month.

Anti-Horse Stealing Group To Quit; Business Drops Off

UNICORN, Pa., Jan. 22 (AP)—The Unicorn Protective society, organized 72 years ago to combat horse stealing, has decided to disband—for lack of business.

The organization's last annual report said merely:

"No business," no losses, no exciting events."

For years members were horse-riding vigilantes, who not only tracked down thieves but also acted as judge and jury.

SEEKS OFFICE—W. N. Corry of Keller, 38-year-old Tarrant county farmer has announced his candidacy for commissioner of agriculture in the July Democratic primaries. Corry was a member of the forty-sixth legislature.

Eve Curie Says It Is Expensive To Remain A Mademoiselle

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22. (AP)—Mademoiselle Eve Curie, daughter and biographer of the discoverer of radium, has "tried very hard" to remain a mademoiselle but, she laughingly admitted today, the French war tax is enough to drive anyone into matrimony.

In France, she said upon her arrival to dedicate a street named for her mother, she has to pay a 30 per cent income tax now—just because she's still single at 35. She holds a post in the French ministry of information.

During the interview the mademoiselle was gay, but she was almost in tears when later she went to the street for the dedicatory services and tried to express how she felt over having a thoroughfare named for her famous mother, Mme. Marie Curie.

Abraham Lincoln And Robert E. Lee Meet At White House; One Is Escort, Other Actor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP) —A man who plays Abraham Lincoln and a man named Robert E. Lee rode up to the White House gate last night.

The tall "Lincoln," in an auto, was Raymond Massey, star of the movie, "Abraham Lincoln in Illinois."

The Robert E. Lee, on a motorcycle, was a Washington policeman.

'Lee was assigned to escort Massey from the airport to a White House dinner engagement.

Gov. Phillips Of Oklahoma Is New Head Of Oil Commission

WICHITA, Kas., Jan. 22 (AP)—The Interstate Oil Compact commission elected Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma its chairman today, discussed proposals to avoid surpluses by reducing production, and adjournment with member states mapping a campaign against enactment of the Cole bill for federal control of the industry.

Gov. Phillips, who succeeds Col. Ernest O. Thompson of Texas as compact chairman, said after an executive session he was "not only against the Cole bill but against any modification of it."

Gov. Payne Ratner of Kansas and Gov. Phillips said Gov. John E. Miles of New Mexico had joined them in an invitation to chief executives of 17 other oil-producing states to appear with them before the Cole committee in Washington next month in opposition to the proposed measure.

Noted Director, Who Made Many Famous, Dies In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22 (AP)—Edwin Carewe, 56, the director who megaphoned such stars as Dolores Del Rio, Francis X. Bushman, Gary Cooper and Wallace Beery of motion picture fame, is dead.

A nephew, Winston Platt, who lived across the hall from the director's apartment, found Carewe dead—of a heart attack, physicians said—in his bedroom today.

Born March 5, 1883, at Gainesville, Texas, Carewe attended the University of Texas and the University of Missouri, then began an acting career with a New York stock company.

Believing he could never succeed with his true name—Jay Fox—he borrowed the name of Carewe from a play character and took his first name from that of his favorite actor, Edwin Booth. He often remarked that his rise to wealth and a prominent position started then.

Neely Announces Dell Morgan Will Assume Line Coaching Duties At Ric

Former Lubbock High And Tech Coach "Hired"

Dell Morgan, former Lubbock High and Texas Tech coach and for the past seven years assistant at Auburn, last night was named line mentor at Rice Institute by Head Coach Jess Neely, according to an exclusive dispatch to the Morning Avalanche last night from a well-informed source.

The report said that Coach Neely, who just recently resigned as head mentor at Clemson college in South Carolina to accept the Houston job, selected Morgan to aid him in rebuilding the football fortunes of the Rice Owls.

Coach Neely made the selection from his Clemson, S. C. home.

No Comment Available

Nothing definite was received from Auburn, Ala., confirming the position, but it was generally believed that the Westerner and Red Raider assistant coach of the late twenties and early thirties would accept the offer.

His selection completes the Rice staff. Other coaches are Cecil Gregg, holdover backfield coach; Joe Davis, former Clemson end coach under Neely, and Bill Wallace, holdover freshman coach.

Morgan is widely known all over the nation, not only for his coaching accomplishments in high school and college circles but for his athletic career at Austin college at Sherman when that school was in its heyday as an athletic power. Playing under Coach Pete W. Cawthon, Morgan earned for himself the still unchallenged reputation as one of the greatest linemen to cavort for the Sherman institution.

Came Here In '27

He came to Lubbock High in the fall of 1927 after serving as head mentor at Quanah High the year previous. It was in the spring of 1926 that Dell took a spin with the St. Louis Cardinals, but gave up the diamond as a playing profession to accept the assistant coaching job under Henry Frnka. It was here that he first gained a state-wide reputation as a builder of basketball teams, turning out some of the best cage aggregations in Lubbock High's history as well as aiding Frnka in rolling out potent powerhouse on gridiron.

Serving three years as a schoolboy mentor, Morgan "graduated" to the ranks of the college profession in the fall of 1930, assuming the duties of line coach under his old tutor, Cawthon, upon the inauguration of a new coaching regime at Tech. Following that year of service, the likeable Dell took complete charge of the Freshmen gridders at the college, turning out fine future varsity material. He also was head cage mentor.

Meagher Signs Him

But in the spring of 1933, Morgan was asked to come to Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn to assume duties as assistant to Jack Meagher, athletic director and new head coach at the intiution. Since that time, Morgan has served as an assistant on the gridiron—annually helping turn out one of the powers of the Southeastern conference and the entire South in the Plainsmen gridders. Other positions he holds at Auburn include: Head Baseball coach, boxing coach, wrestling coach, assistant basketball coach, and one of the chief scouts.

It will be remembered that while at Sherman, Morgan not only earned himself a name as a great gridder but in all other sports as well, turning in lettering performances in baseball and basketball.

Burton Give Tip

He was regarded as one of the more promising pitchers to take a turn in the "big time." Playing with Russell T. "Dutchy" Smith, line coach at Tech, Morgan wrote a legend in sports at Sherman on the diamond, hardwood and gridiron that still lives.

No further comment was forthcoming from either Coach Neely, whose Country Gentlemen thumped Boston college in the Cotton Bowl this year, 6 to 3, nor Morgan.

The report reached the Morning Avalanche from Charles Burton, sports editor of the Dallas Morning News.

Managers Heap Fire On Blades

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Three National league managers have picked the St. Louis Cardinals to win the pennant this year. While this may be considered a form of strategy, it also is, in plain back-fence words, a dirty trick to play on sophomore Ray Blades.

Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, Bill Terry of the Giants and Doc Prothro of the Phils perhaps made their statements without tongues in cheeks, but it is more than slightly possible that they realized that by shifting the fire to Blades' chair they would take a little heat off themselves.

Argument Has Logic

They can back their choice with logic, pointing out that in his first year Blades had a team which came close, and he'll have the same team back, fate and Judge Landis being willing. It also might be mentioned, however, that a frog's first hop may be its longest.

Anyway, it's a touch spot for any manager to be on, particularly a fellow who a year ago wasn't sure whether he had a ball team or nine men on a raft.

Reds On Spot

Naturally Joe McCarthy and his Yankees are on a spot every year, but it's practically home to them, and anyway, the Yankees are a team apart. What applies to them doesn't necessarily apply to 15 other major league clubs.

The Cincinnati Reds were on the spot last year, but they weren't generally picked until just before the season started. At that they had a tough time making good, what with Johnny Vander Meer's bad arm, Lee Grissom's failure to do as well as expected, and an emergency ward assortment of injuries and ailments.

Other clubs last year were in the might-have-been class. Pittsburgh had to get along without a couple of pitchers who had been counted on, Cleveland felt the loss of Johnny Allen, the Giants came loose at the seams after a winter of operations.

Slaton Band Mothers Plan Annual Football Banquet Thursday Night

SLATON, Jan. 22 (Special) — Final preparations are being made by the Slaton Band Mothers for the Annual Football banquet honoring Slaton High's Tigers to be held at the Club House Thursday night under sponsorship of the group.

The committee on arrangements announces that two out-of-town speakers will appear on the program. School officials are expecting an attendance of 100 at the event.

Following are a list of the boys who will receive football letter awards: Lealand Scott, Earl Blassingame, Van Smith, R. W. Wicker, Shirley Butler, Billy Joe Lucado, Rolfe Carter, Oscar Lee Clark, James Stotts, Ezlo Collier, Harry Bell, George Gentry, J. W. Martindale, J. B. Ward, W. H. Mudgett, Charles Austin, and Briggs Robertson, and the two managers, J. C. Tucker and Kirby Dunlap.

Out of this number, only three will return next season, Van Smith, Elzo Collier and Martindale and Coaches Curtis Hamilton and Jack Miller.

New Downtown Gym Is Set Up

Change in the site of training operations, transfers of the downtown gymnasium from Main street to 13th, marked Golden Gloves activity here yesterday, while fighters and fans of three neighboring towns began welcoming the new boxing season.

Plainview's Golden Gloves preliminary tournament got under way last night, sponsored by the Elks Club there.

Tahoka High school will be the scene of amateur fisticuffing tonight and tomorrow night, and Floydada High is sponsoring a similar tournament Thursday and Friday nights.

Superintendent Haines and Coach Leo Jackson of Tahoka High school have been pointing to the Tahoka tournament since early winter, and should produce one of the best of the invitation affairs. It starts each evening, beginning this evening, at 7:30 o'clock at the high school gymnasium. If the number of entries justify a third night of fighting, the finals will be staged Friday night.

Stotts, Mitchell Entered

Several boxers from Lubbock and Slaton planned to enter the Tahoka tournament. James Stotts of Slaton, a 1939 district champion, will fire up the welterweight division, and Pats Mitchell of Texas Tech, last year's heavyweight champion, is to compete.

Tahoka invites all and sundry fans of the area to look on. The winning team will be sent to Lubbock for the District tournament, and others who compete are invited. In a recent duel meet with the Littlefield CCC team, Tahoka boxers won five out of seven matches.

Lubbock boxers, and several out of town Golden Gloves entries, worked out here Sunday in the basement space at 1011 Main street, but Trainer Cliff Caraway said yesterday the equipment would be moved to the building at 1012 Thirteenth street, formerly the Studebaker automobile agency.

New Place Is Larger

Remodeling of the basement space for future use as a beauty shop necessitated moving out of the Pup Thomas building, but "Pop" Cole, the Star Tire and Dryer-Lee man, graciously consented to the use of the ground floor building on 13th, between Texas avenue and Avenue J, and all boxers training for the district tourannment are invited to report for workouts each evening.

Caraway said the place was larger and would be more suitable, and that a ring would be erected, along with various other training equipment. All boxers are urged to take advantage of the situation and get themselves in shape for the District Golden Gloves tournament which starts on week from next Monday night.

The "gymnasium" will be equipped with punching bags, heavy bags, skipping ropes, and other training goods, but boxers who have extra material of their own, such as gloves, ropes, weights, etc., are invited to bring them along. The workwill get under way each evening about 8 o'clock, Caraway, who is donating his services as trainer of the Glovers, said.

There is still plenty of room and time for boxers to send in their entry blanks. About 70 have been received, but the goal is one hundred, or more. That number will be reached if complete teams from the four preliminary tournaments are brought to the district event, and in every case full teams have been promised.

Some Tickets Left

Too, there are several good ringside tickets lying around waiting to be purchased by the fight faithful. They are on sale at Oran Wilson's A. & L. Drugstore, at the Hilton Hotel lobby desk, at the Hotel Lubbock drug store, and at Hop Halsey's drugstore on College Avenue. The prices are cheap for this type of boxing show, and the ringside seats, about 500 of them, will be there for the fans, in addition to about 700 bleacher seats for six bits a throw at the box office.

Only one new entry was received yesterday, that from Don Robertson, Slaton light heavyweight. Robertson, along with James Stotts, last year's lightweight champion, worked out in the Lubbock gymnasium Sunday afternoon and were

Slaton High Cagers Nip Tahoka, 26 To 21, In League Contest

SLATON, Jan. 22. (Special) — Flashing a smooth attack, the Slaton High Tigers put on the power here tonight to eke out a 26 to 21 triumph over the Tahoka High cagers in a South Plains league game.

W. M. Mudgett, consistent forward, was high point man for the night with 12 tallies. Tahoka's Shawn was second in this department with 10 points.

Coaches Flock To St. Louis Universities

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 22.—The grass apparently looks greener on the other side of the fence to more than 100 football coaches who are trying to land jobs at Washington and St. Louis universities.

The list of job hunters is growing so long someone has even suggested putting a bounty on them.

The vacancies occurred at both institutions ten days ago when Coaches Jimmy Conzelman and Cecil Muellerleile resigned almost simultaneously. However, neither man was aware of the others plans.

Jim's salary was said to have been between $6,000 and $7,000 last year. Muellerleile reportedly received $4,000 at St. Louis U, a Catholic school and the junior member of the Missouri valley circuit.

The scramble for their jobs has taken on something of a "field day" complexion, with more than 70 applicants at St. Louis U and 30 or more at Washington.

Neither school would release the full list of names. Many of the candidates are regarded as "small fry."

Heading the string of possible "big time" successors to Conzelman is Dr. John (Jock) Sutherland, who coached several great teams at Pittsburgh university. He conferred with Washington officials Sunday; said he liked the setup but did not disclose his terms.

Sam Dagley, for nine years line coach at Gonzaga university, was here recently looking over the St. Louis U situation. Jack Chevigny, former Notre Dame star and more recently coach at Texas university, was reported seeking the post. Others mentioned included W. J. Dufford of St. Ambrose College, Davenport, Ia., and Tom (Kitty) Gorman, former line coach at Creighton.

Wrigley Denies Having Any Holdout Problems

CHICAGO, Jan. 22. (AP)—Owner Phil Wrigley denied today he had any holdout problems even though some of his Chicago Cubs had asked for more money than was offered in their original contracts.

"Some of the boys are asking for more money, but I've always encouraged discussions over salary problems," explained the Cub owner. "I wouldn't call them holdouts at all."

He said Dizzy Dean's contract was returned again today unsigned.

Dean didn't say how much he wanted but said he thought he was worth more than we offered," Wrigley added, "and gave several reasons for his views. I don't know what I'll do about it yet."

He said nothing more had been heard from Hank Leiber, Augie Galan, Stan Hack or Clay Bryant, all of whom have expressed dissatisfaction with terms. Nothing has been heard from Billy Rogel, Detroit shortstop received in a trade for Shortstop Dick Bartell.

Revenge, "I'll Getcha" Angle Is Spur For Godoy's Shot At Louis

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—It seems that a Chilean soldier and an Italian bartender were fond admirers of an Irish stevedore who was badly beaten one night by a young negro pugilist.

The chap who had served in the army of Chili and the fat little drink-mixer were incensed at the way the Brown Bomber battered the game Irishman who earlier that night had held the world's heavyweight championship.

Reports say that both had to be restrained from clambering into the Chicago ring and taking a punch at the new champion. Both vowed vengeance.

Fought In Prelim

The former soldier and the rotund barkeep had fought in a preliminary bout. The Chilean, Arturo Godoy, had beaten the saloon owner, Tony Galento. Both saw Joe Louis knock out Jim Braddock.

Godoy started to climb into the ring after Louis. But Sixto Escobar, the flyweight who had learned to speak English, took a message from their American manager and explained to Godoy, in Spanish, that there might be trouble, perhaps even a race riot, if he charged into Louis. Godoy slumped back into his seat.

"Later", he said.

'He Can't Do That'

When Galento visited Braddock's dressing room and saw Jim's terribly bruised face he unloosed a vicious roar and started for Joe's quarters. "He can't do that to my pal," Tony told Jim. But Tony was halted.

"Later," someone said.

Last summer Galento got his chance at the championship, his opportunity to strike a blow for his beaten pal. He had Joe groggy in the first round and down in the third but Gallant Galento was knocked out in the fourth.

Gets Angry Again

Down in Iquique, a little seacoast town in Chile, where his family made their living sword fishing in the Pacific, Godoy heard of the Louis-Galento fight. Godoy had left the States a year or so earlier to return home and rest on the small fortune picked up in American rings. And to fight now and then in Buenos Aires.

He thought of the beating Joe gave Braddock and he was angry again. He wanted a crack at Louis. He figured that if Galento had been good enough to wangle a championship shot that he, who had twice beaten Galento, deserved a bout.

Has Better Chance

The match was made. Godoy arrived a few weeks ago. On February 9 in Madison Square Garden he gets his chance against Louis in the second sequel to that Chicago episode.

What chance has Godoy? As much as any of the others, maybe a little more. But not much. Arturo takes a punch well. He took all Galento could sling and Tony never had him down, not even dazed.

Godoy hits hard, hard enough to stun Louis, perhaps even knock him out. He is young, fast, and smart enough that, should he get Joe groggy as Tony did, he's a much better bet to finish him off.

He's Not Afraid

Godoy's best punch, like Galento's, is a left hook. His right is fairish. Arturo comes of rugged peon stock, with a trace of the Aruacano Indian. He is swarthy, with high cheek bones and black eyes and crinkly black hair. He stands about 6 feet and weighs around 200.

Arturo began fighting when officers ordered him into the company bouts at the army camp. He is the South American champion now and the biggest pugilistic hero down there since Firpo. It was Godoy who knocked Luis out in three rounds to halt Firpo's comeback a few years ago.

Godoy married a few months ago and brought his pretty young wife to the States with him.

She says Arturo will win. And we learned long ago not to argue with a lady, even if we hold spades.

DR. EDDIE BAKER

Carnegie Tech Selects Baker

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 22. (AP)—Dr. Eddie Baker, for three years first assistant and backfield coach, today was named head football coach at Carnegie Tech, succeeding William F. (Bill) Kern.

He steps into the post that Kern resigned to become head coach at West Virginia university because the outlook at Tech seemed as dismal as the Tartans' 1939 grid record. He was given a two-year contract.

Baker enrolled at the University of Pittsburgh from Nanticoke, Pa., and was graduated from the school of dentistry in 1931. Like Kern, he was an assistant at Pitt under Dr. John Bain (Jock) Sutherland, but accompanied Kern to Tech at the close of the 1936 season.

Owls Smother Mustangs To Annex Lead

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Jan. 22.—Without the service of two first-string players, the Rice Owls smothered Southern Methodist university with ridiculous ease tonight, 52-33, and assumed undisputed possession of the Southwest conference lead.

Frankie Carswell, great scoring guard, sat on the bench rubbing a sprained ankle and Capt. Ike Steakley, forward, lay on a hospital bed fighting the flu, but Rice didn't need them.

Were Never Headed

The Owls, playing as a unit, started the spree when Bob Kinney, stringbean center, meshed a field goal shortly after the opening whistle.

They were never headed and ran up a 26-16 half-time lead, retaining that margin of superiority throughout the contest.

Little J. W. Coppedge, Mustang forward, kept the Dallas team's offense together as best he could, hustling the ball like a madman and ringing up 12 points, but his efforts were not enough.

Jacobs Signs Pastor-Savold Bout With Winner Meeting Joe Louis

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP) — Promoter Mike Jacobs late today announced the signing of a 15-round heavyweight fight between Bob Pastor of New York and Lee Savold, young Des Moines prospect.

The fight will be held in Madison Square Garden March 1 and the winner has been promised a championship bout with Joe Louis.

Americas Move To Substitute For Olympics

By MORTIMER [illegible]
Associated Press Sports [illegible]

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22 — [illegible] stout and genial president of the National Amateur Athletic [illegible] Lorenzo Di Benedetto, declared today the Pan-American games [illegible] "a certainty" for this year [illegible] might become a permanent [illegible] for Western hemisphere nations.

"This would certainly [illegible] lations of the Americas" [illegible] "Of course it calls for time [illegible] we must get a full organization [illegible] up to start the 1940 games."

Definite Work Under Way

He said plans for such games in the United States [illegible] summer, in lieu of the Olympics, which are among the war casualties, had "passed the talking stage" with work already under way organizing a definite program.

But the A.A.U. committee he appointed to take steps for 1940 games, he added, is looking beyond this year toward a permanent periodic meet for the Americas.

Shift Among Countries

"The committee, with other organizations taking part, expects to prepare a constitution for an international association to have jurisdiction over the Pan-American games every four years or oftener if desired," he said. "The association would award the games to different countries just as the International Olympic committee does."

The A.A.U. president said that American countries were "not ready to participate," and that the first suggestion for Pan-American games to supplant the Olympics [illegible] came from Alexander Ro[illegible] American who is athletic director [illegible] Ecuador.

Removal Of State Archives From Capitol Basement Urged

AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (U.P.)—L. W. Kemp of Houston, member of the State Historical board, said here today he will urge the board to move the state archives division of the state library from the Capitol basement.

"We have been putting the cart before the horse," Kemp said. "The priceless documents that could not be replaced are being stored in the basement of the capital where they could not be removed in case of fire, while the state library on the second floor of the Capitol is being used for magazine reading and distribution of modern books.

"Architects tell us we cannot move the archives to the second floor because the library there will not safely stand the additional weight. But we can meet that situation by transferring the work of secondary importance to the basement and using the main library space for the archives and the legislative reference section."

McNutt's Raps Are Answered

AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (AP)—In a thrice-repeated radio broadcast yesterday, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel retaliated to criticism of Federal Social Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt blaming the governor for failure to call a legislative session on the WPA intake problem.

"McNutt had some very critical remarks to make about me as governor," O'Daniel said, "but he followed his cryptic remarks by some rulings more favorable to the poor people of our state. If it pleases the Honorable Paul V. McNutt to abuse me in order to encourage him to help the poor, who need jobs and financial assistance, I am happy to take his abuse."

Buying Urged

Addition of persons to WPA rolls in Texas, suspended several months, was approved last week by McNutt who said the situation could have been cleared if O'Daniel had called a special session.

Broadcasting in person from the governor's mansion and twice later by transcription, O'Daniel also:

Lauded establishment of the Southland Paper Mills, Inc., at Herty near Lufkin;

Asked citizens to supply food and clothing to the poor during the current cold wave;

Extolled industrial opportunities in East Texas;

Urged buying of lower Rio Grande valley citrus fruit before prices "skyrocketed."

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 22 (AP) — More than a score of representatives and observers from three states and the federal government will attend the first meeting of the recently-established upper Rio Grande basin committee here Saturday, it was announced today.

Water authorities from New Mexico, Colorado and Texas are to be present, as well as delegates from nearly every federal agency with any sort of interest in Rio Grande basin development.

The purpose of the committee is to make a broad study of future development in the basin and map plans and policies to that end.

Dinner was served by members of the Ropesville High school homemaking department.

Development Talked

Ryan pointed out the development of joint vocational agriculture and homemaking programs in other states. Miss Sorensen discussed development of the cooperative plan in Texas.

Vocational teachers presented plans for 1940 and reported progress of the last year. Administrative problems of the program in relation to the entire school program were discussed by school superintendents.

Another Wednesday

Another of the meetings will be conducted Wednesday night in Crosbyton. First of the series was held Saturday in Seminole.

Attending were Miss Lucell Rose, Wilson; Miss Berniece Parris, Meadow; Miss Madeline Hegi, Tahoka; Miss Alice Rorex, Lubbock; Miss Joye Pace, New Home; Miss Jean Bain, Meadow; Miss Vivian Murphey, Brownfield; Stilwell H. Russell, Wilson; Homer Franklin, Meadow; J. T. Carter, New Home; S. G. Anthony, Wilson; L. F. Rawson, Ropesville; Leslie Browning, Tahoka; W. T. Hanes, Tahoka; Miss Ilse H. Wolf, Lubbock; J. Walter Grist, Ropesville; Billy Key, Ropesville; Thomas Neely, Brownfield; A. L. Hartzog, Brownfield; W. B. McAlister, Plains; Emmitt Smith, Brownfield; William W. Hall, New Home; and Ryan and Miss Sorensen.

Plainview Bouts

quite impressive. Stotts is gunning for the welterweight title this year, the division that promises to be the hottest of the entire tournament. The defending champion, Pete Nachlinger, a ring veteran, is back for another try, and Jimmy Critz, another veteran who has fought in several sections of the country, has about decided he can not make the lightweight division and probably will compete with the welters.

Mrs. Rodgers Dies Monday

A spry octogenarian who liked football games and had no objection to dancing, Mrs. Ioway Rodgers, 84, died at 10 o'clock Monday morning after she suffered a paralytic stroke.

MRS. RODGERS

Mrs. Rodgers died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. W. T. Rogers of 2105 Main street.

She was born Aug. 20, 1855, in Tarrant county, was taken to Missouri when a baby, and returned to Texas in an ox-wagon four years later. She lived in Dallas many years. She had been a Lubbock resident 13 years.

Rites To Be Today

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the First Methodist church in Claude. Rev. H. G. Gantz, pastor of the Lubbock First Christian church, will officiate. Interment will be in Claude cemetery. Griggs funeral home of Amarillo took the body.

Spry and mentally alert, Mrs. Rodgers kept in step with the times. "Progression" caused her to turn to football, she told a reporter in December of 1938. In the same interview she told a reporter she had been invited to a dance and planned to go.

Survivors Named

Mrs. Rodgers died 20 days after a neighbor octogenarian, Mrs. Sue McMurry, had died of pneumonia. Another octogenarian of the same block, Mrs. Mattie Watson, 87, a close friend of Mrs. Rodgers and Mrs. McMurry, survives.

Mrs. Rodgers is survived by three sons, R. C. of Morarity, N. M., Sam of Amarillo, and Ed of Claude, and two daughters, Mrs. Viola Simpson of Honolulu and Mrs. Rogers.

Her husband, Samuel L. Rodgers, died Jan. 14, 1895.

New King And Queen Of The Movies Have Been Elected

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22 (U.P.) — Tousle-haired Mickey Rooney, the impetuous young Andy Hardy of the films, and Actress Bette Davis wore the crowns of movie "king and queen" today.

Rooney succeeded handsome Tyrone Power as "king," and Miss Davis was awarded the crown worn last year by Jeanette MacDonald, singing star. In the current poll, Power was the second choice, and Miss MacDonald was ranked seventh.

Sonja Henie, blonde skating sensation, was second in popularity among the actresses, and Judy Garland, a starlet, was third. Spencer Tracy ranked third among the men, the same as last year.

The balloting was sponsored by about 60 newspapers throughout the nation.

Eclipse Of Sun To Be Visible

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—An Annular, or ring, eclipse of the sun will sweep across the southern United States April 7 from West Texas to Florida, traveling eastward.

It will shadow part of the United States up to the Alaskan southern border. In Canada, the part-shadow will reach to the Arctic circle.

An annular eclipse is so named because the rim of the sun will show in a narrow ring of light all around the dark moon. This is due to the fact the moon is a little too far away for its bulk to cover the sun completely.

While astronomers can make only a few studies in this kind of eclipse, the spectacle for the public is something that comes to most persons only once in a lifetime, and many never see it. This eclipse lasts six minutes, much longer than most total eclipses. During that time, the moon will cover 93 per cent of the sun's surface.

Exact positions have not yet been predicted, but popular astronomy gives the main course. The central shadow will enter Southern California from the Pacific ocean about 1 p. m. Pacific time. Chihuahua, Mexico, seems to be at dead center of the path.

The approximate time for this ring shadow, is about 3:30 p. m., Central time.

HOW TO REMEMBER...

In One Easy Lesson!

The ambition to remember well can be realized by practicing one simple rule.

A well known principle of the psychology of memory is to associate the fact you wish to remember with something you already know. Take the following as an example:

You wish to remember that the Pilgrims landed in America during the year 1620 . . . now associate this fact with THE BAKER COMPANY telephone number which also is 1620. . . . Presto, the job is done . . . it's easy to remember . . . telephone 1620.

His Criticism Unnecessary

MANY of the people of Texas place the blame squarely upon Governor O'Daniel for failure to make provision for the indigent old people of the state. Many others believe just as sincerely that the failure has been due to obstacles thrown in the governor's path.

However, regardless where the blame may properly belong, there is reason to question the propriety of the statement attributed the other day to Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security administrator, that "this is an emergency which the governor (of Texas) himself has created." The statement was made after a Texas delegation had appealed to Mr. McNutt for assistance in cutting some of the present red tape so as to permit the certification of large numbers of needy prsons for work.

There is no question but that an emergency does exist in large areas of the state. There is no question but that the state of Texas has failed in its pledge of more aid for greater numbers of indigent persons. There is no question but that fewer people are receiving less aid now than at the beginning of the O'Daniel administration. But there is extreme disagreement among people of Texas as to where the blame belongs for such failures.

The delegation to which Mr. McNutt listened doubtless was entirely sincere, but, quite obviously, it was one in which the spokesmen were people who do not admire Mr. O'Daniel. From them, Mr. McNutt likely would hear only one side of the Texas controversy. Unless he already had made an extensive study of the proposition, it would seem most inappropriate of Mr. McNutt to base any public criticism such as he voiced of any governor upon hearing one side of a question.

A Different Picture Now

QUITE obviously, no one knows the course that the war, or wars, in Europe may take. Surprise likely will be the element depended upon most for the success of any moves that might be made.

But if it happens, as feared, that Belgium and Holland are made the initial battlegrounds of real war on the western front, then the issue of the whole struggle may be decided there. Certainly, the Germans will face more vigorous resistance than in 1914 if they attempt to strike at the English channel and France through the two little neighboring nations.

Military strategists are agreed that if there is to be slaughter on the scale of 1914-18 on the Franco-German borderland, there are three lines of possible attack. They are through the edge of Switzerland, a direct frontal attack, and the Belgium-Holland area. The Switzerland route encounters natural geographical obstacles of major importance in the case of German aggression. The frontal attack would encounter the Maginot line. That leaves the Belgium-Holland route as the most logical now, just as was true in 1914.

In 1914, the war broke with a suddenness and began with a violence which caught France, Britain and Belgium in a serious condition of unpreparedness. The Germans had the finest military machine the world had seen to that time and they threw it into almost instant gear, with the result that they were at the gates of Paris within a very short time after the beginning of hostilities. Their finest troops and their biggest guns were pounding at the Belgian fortifications almost the instant war started.

That condition does not prevail now. It is true that the Belgium and the Holland frontiers are not protected by Maginot lines. But they are defended by all of the forces of men and arms which could be concentrated almost instantly at any point where either of the little nations might be attacked. It also is to be assumed that France and Britain, anticipating that the attack may be through Belgium and, or, Holland, have made their preparations to rush assistance to the little countries with greatest speed. In 1914, they didn't have any help to send. Furthermore, France didn't have a Maginot line, which meant that large portions of available French forces had to be kept in reserve as a safeguard against the possibility of a German attack along the route now defended by the line.

In 1914, the initial stage of the war pitted tiny little Belgium, alone, against the might of the German army. A similar attack today not only would find the Belgians better prepared, but in all probability assisted by the British and French, and perhaps the Dutch. It is a combination which means that if Germany elects to attack, there is no "push-over" on the western front as was the case 25 years ago.

The One-Minute Sermon

Ye are the children of the Lord your God: ye shall not cut yourselves, nor make any baldness between your eyes for the dead.

For thou art an holy people unto the Lord thy God, and Lord hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth.—Deuteronomy 14; 1 and 2.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MARY CARROLL — American fashion expert, in London during wartime.

VINCENT GREGG — soldier of fortune, in love with Mary.

CARLA MARCHETTA— a mysterious London socialite.

DR. GILBERT LENOX—surgeon, serving with British army.

* * *

YESTERDAY: The operation restores the real Mary Carroll to life and happiness. She writes Gilbert, expressing her gratitude. Then she summons Vincent. He is overjoyed to find her, but the figure of Carla stands between them. Vincent begs for a chance to regain their former happiness. Mary does not answer.

CHAPTER XXI

Mary remained in the hospital a week longer.

In that week, Vincent was at her bedside almost continuously. His flowers made a florist's shop of her room. Awaiting her in the morning on her breakfast tray were notes from him—amusing and endearing.

They'd reached an agreement at last. They would forget the last few weeks of their lives since the Moravia disaster and start all over. As soon as it could be arranged, her marriage to Gilbert would be annulled and she and Vincent would return to America.

If Mary would awake sometimes at night and remember Gilbert's kind gray eyes and the boyish, unruly red hair, she'd brush the thought aside. If she would pause sometimes in looking at Vincent to wonder if Carla's lips had flamed to his, she would shut out the picture.

"There could never be anyone but you," Vincent would tell her, his old assurance returning. "Smitten—that's me. Crazy, goofy, simply hepped."

That stolid British nurse, Miss Babcock, sometimees made Mary nervous by her silent disapproval. A married woman—Dr. Gilbert Lenox's wife—to have so attentive a visitor. Mary could almost read her thoughts.

It was because of this that Mary refused to let Vincent take her home. "Afraid of a scandal, aren't you, sweet?" he teased.

She could couldn't explain to him, but there was another reason. It wouldn't be fair to let Vincent go with her to Gilbert's rooms, so intimate with all that belonged to him.

* * *

In the days after she was home, Vincent seemed to relax. "We'll soon be out of this," he promised, he took her for daily walks. "You and I—back to Manhattan. You and I, Mister and Missus, just as we'd planned before all this happened."

Tea in hidden-away teashops. Dinner at night and the walk home in blackout, arm in arm. But she couldn't bring herself to let Vincent come inside. Their good night kiss was at the door.

"Your kisses aren't the same," Vincent accused her one night, drawing away sharply. "Is there some crazy idea in your head that makes you think I'm not on the level with you?"

"No—no, of course not. It's only—well, I'm not over what happened yet."

But deeply within her, Mary knew something was different. She fought off her strange feeling.

The next morning, her thoughts still perplexed her, Mary took her drawing board to Hyde Park, hoping to forget the scene with Vincent in finding something amusing to sketch.

Newsboys were shouting. Mary read the apron banners they wore. "Moravia Sinking Reopened."

It had come, then! Miss Babcock was right. There was to be another investigation into the mysterious sinking of the ship. She would be a witness.

She bought a paper, reading hastily through the story. The name of Anna Winters leaped up before her eyes. She read—"Among those to be called for questioning will be Anna Winters, 23, of Bournemouth, now living in London."

For a minute, Mary thought of Anna—so beautiful and ethereal in the flame red dress on the night the Moravia went down. Then she brushed all thoughts aside except of the coming hearing at Scotland Yard. She'd promised Miss Babcock she'd tell all she knew. Was there, after all, so much to tell? The young man on board who'd followed her. Carla Marchetta's friend. The sight of the periscope in the water before the final crash.

Mary was flushed and breathless when she reached her rooms.

"Oh, hello, sorry to startle you."

A commanding figure in well-tailored uniform rose from the chair. Gilbert Lenox!

Mary threw her hands to her face. "Oh, Gilbert!"

He stepped to her and drew her hands away, staring at the new-found loveliness.

"Jove, you're stunning! I knew you must have been beautiful, but I'd no idea it would be like this."

He was studying her face, his eyes hungry. "Look at me!"

Mary's dark lashes swept up. She felt the pulse in her throat beating wildly. "Do you know now?" she whispered.

Gilbert drew back, his hands thrust into his pockets as if he were keeping them purposely clenched. "Once you tried to tell me something in the hospital," he began slowly. "I couldn't understand it then. Now I know what you meant. You're the girl in the restaurant—you're the girl from home."

"Yes—I'm that girl. I'm not Anna Winters—I'm Mary Carroll."

"Funny thing, I couldn't forget you. And although I could never explain it, you and Anna Winters were mixed up in my mind. Something about you was the same. So I didn't marry a girl named Anna Winters—I married an American, Mary Carroll. Your voice—your face, everything is just the way I remember you in the restaurant."

Mary ran toward him with a glad cry. "You forgive me then for masquerading as Anna? It all happened so quickly — reading I was dead—knowing I had Anna Winters' things, her passport. And I had to stay in London. It was my only chance to be near Vincent Gregg, the man I'm going to marry."

* * *

Mary gasped, as she realized what she had said. Why had she blurted it out? She might have spared Gilbert some of the hurt. But Gilbert must have expected this. He had known there was someone else. Lenox took the blow smiling.

"Of course," he said at length, but all the eagerness had gone out of his voice and eyes. "I'd forgotten for a minute. It's all right, though. I knew all along you were in love with Vincent. You can have your freedom whenever you like."

Mary whispered, "Thanks," amazed because she felt no elation.

Gilbert turned and began to slip into his officer's overcoat. Mary came close to him, touching the braid timidly. "Are you leaving so soon? I thought perhaps you'd come home to stay. I—it would be nice if I could talk to you again, to thank you for everything."

Gilbert Lenox was brusque as he answered. "No, I'm here only for a few days. Came back to supervise the preparation of some special serum for gunshot wound cases. It's being made up in our London hospital laboratory. I'll be at the hospital while I'm here so you may keep these rooms until you've made your own plans."

Mary Carroll should have been relieved that he was going— glad now that this scene, which had to come—was over. He intended keeping his bargain. She could have her freedom. She could be Vincent's wife.

"Best of luck if I don't see you again," Gilbert was saying as he shook her hand.

Mary knew in that instant that she was in love with Gilbert Lenox—madly, poignantly in love with him.

Refund Given Man On Railway Ticket Dated Feb. 19, 1879

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 22. (AP) —L. E. Fisher, insurance man of Edgar, Neb., sent Oscar Braungart, Wabash railway agent, an unused ticket from Fort Wayne to Huntington and asked for a rfeund.

"Hope I did not hold it too long to get my money," he said.

Braungart said he didn't. He sent the ticket, dated Feb. 19, 1879, to St. Louis for redemption.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WILLIAM EDGAR BORAH'S disappearance from the American public stage will have an incalculable effect on political events at home and abroad. Only the few who knew his secret plans with respect to our role in the European conflict and the 1940 Presidential battle realize how far-reaching it will be.

Mr. Borah firmly believed that circumstances would steadily tend to bring the United States toward actual participation in the war—financial, if not military. He was as firmly determined to prevent it, if possible, and he had intended to deliver one of those old-time Borah warnings against "entangling alliances", specific or spiritual, with Europe. As a sergeant major of the "Battalion of Death" that prevented American membership in the League of Nations, he knew all the legislative and political tricks. Though it is not generally recognized, the "old man"—a term of endearment—was an exceedingly wily worker off the Senate floor as well as on it.

Moreover, the American people trusted him. He moved both the Senate and the Senate's masters—the common people who sit around the cribs and the stoves and the cracker barrels. He was a great voice and influence rather than a legislative manipulator. At least 15 Senators and numerous Representatives—Republicans, Democrats, Progressives—watched how he voted or felt, and then did likewise, sometimes against their own convictions. In his passing the isolationists have lost their St. Paul.

* * *

MYSTERY: Mr. Borah might have exerted an even more powerful influence with respect to both the Democratic and Republican Presidential nominations. Too old to cherish any personal ambitions, he meant to wage a deathbed battle against the renomination of President Roosevelt and the selection of Herbert Hoover, Thomas E. Dewey or Robert A. Taft as GOP standard-bearers.

The senator liked and admired Franklin D. Roosevelt almost to the point of declaring for him both in 1932 and 1936. He saw Mr. Roosevelt as a warm-hearted individual and a humanitarian, and Borah once said: "The key to my public conduct is my sympathy for the underdog wherever he roams the alleys of the world." But FDR's federalization policies—Borah was a great constitutionalist in the bald sense of that term—alienated the Idahoan. He eventually experienced the same reversal towards Theodore Roosevelt, though he once said of his early hero: "Since Theodore Roosevelt sat in the White House, there has been no Rpublican President whom I could honestly support."

So Mr. Borah would have aided John Nance Garner, whom he once described to the writer in the pre-convention campaign as a "great Progressive American". It would have been his answer to insidious suggestion that the V. P. is a "reactionary" and an "evil old man". He would have backed Frank Gannett, Rochester publisher, in the GOP race, not because he expected Mr. Gannett's nomination, but to serve notice that he opposed Messrs. Hoover, Dewey and Taft. Whom he would have supported in the Presidential contest itself—after the nominations—is a characteristic Borah mystery.

* * *

PROBLEM: The United States may soon face a crisis—within a year at the most—with respect to prospective involvement in the European war. The reason—and a few high-placed insiders here discuss it frankly—is that the Allies need many more planes to establish air superiority, and they will run out of dollars with which to buy them. Their greediness in selling gold to us at an artificial price may prove their undoing in their fateful hour.

The British and French have so far ordered about 5,000 planes from American manufacturers, and presumably they can obtain sufficent exchange with which to pay on the barrel. But now they want to increase their original order by 8,000 ships, making 13,000 in all. Such an expansion would cost them an additional cold billion dollars—approximately—and it is doubtful whether they can raise it. So doubtful, in fact, that the British and French purchasing agents have returned home to ask the big bosses—Chamberlain and Daladier and their political bankers—what they can do about it.

America's resultant problem resembles that of 1917. Then our industrial plant had expanded so rapidly and invested so much money to handle foreign orders that, when the Allies' funds ran out, Uncle Sam had ti extend loans and credits. Otherwise, there would have been an economic crash, as Treasury Secretary McAdoo stated in a letter to President Wilson that was not uncovered until the Nye neutrality inquiry. They're wiser at Washington now, but certain cabinet members are whispering the same advise to FDR that McAdoo handed to Wilson.

* * *

HELP: Our military experts—as well as some editors—have been extremely dubious about reports of severe Russian casualties and a steady series of Finnish victories in the Arctic snows. The skeptical have been inclined to class these obituary lists as "propaganda".

But the best information which Washington—the State, War and Navy departments—can obtain from "land of the rednight sun" is that they are correct. Up to January 17 the Russian dead totaled 80,000, while the wounded taken by the Finns or returned to Soviet infiramries amounted to 50,000. Incidentally, Moscow originally committed the major military blunder of using troops from her republics where it rarely snows or grows cold. So they died by the thousands from exposure—"white exposure", to use a semi-official witticism employed here.

Over the same period the Finns have buried only 10,000, and sent a similar number to warm, modern, hygienic hospitals. The figures do not reveal the whole story, however, insofar as the outcome is concerned. Finland has a population of about 4,000,000, whereas Joe Stalin can command approximately 180,000,000. Figure the death lists out on a percentage basis. That's why Helsinki is calling for help!

* * *

ANECDOTES: The passing of Borah—nobody here, in Boise or abroad called him by his full name—has provoked more anecdotes than at any time since the death of Boss Penrose. The most fascinating concerns three eastern lads who followed Greeley's advice to "go west", but stopped where they did—and thence rose to fame—because they ran out of money.

One of 10 children, Borah left his McGuffey schoolhouse in southern Illinois with the intention of settling somewhere in the Northwest. At Boise he didn't have carfare for the rest of the way. He studied law, married the governor's daughter, voted the first time for William Jennings Bryan and settled down. His favorite senator—Burton K. Wheeler—set sail from Hudson, Massachusetts. He stopped for the night at Butte, and lost his money in a poker game with several card sharpers. Burt is now the senior senator from Montana.

The Odyssey of the late J. Hamilton Lewis is the most romantic of all. "J. Ham", as Washington called him, also set out for the Northwest. At Omaha he went "broke". So he barged into the office of the president of the Union Pacific. He explained that he was "temporarily incapacitated financially"—he always used three big words when one short one would suffice. He also pointed out that, as a lounger around the railroad station, he had seen many trains "going West" with empty seats. He promised that some day he would become an influential politico, and, in return for a free ride, he agreed to assist the U. P. whenever he could do so legitimately. The president was so impressed—and suppressed—that out of his own pocket he financed the future senator's next ride. Ironically, the man who showed the most perseverance and originality in going places never achieved the reputation of the two boys who stopped off before they got to "the end of the line".

Here And There In Tex

By W. N. FUREY
Written For Associated Press

WHETHER Davy Crockett named the site of Honey Grove, the Fannin county town famous in the 20th century as the hearth-stone of Editor Buttermilk Jim Lowry, never will be known definitely, but to question it probably would arouse the wrath of every townsman. The legend, however, has passed the oral records of so many generations that it at least has taken on a verisimilitude of truth. But why Honey Grove? Wild honey and oak trees!

Baptism by Crockett has given the town a measure of prominence it otherwise might not have enjoyed, but there was another incident of historic moment which, had it not miscarried, would have made Honey Grove even more important in politics and commerce, and given it a singular position in the records of the state. This was the designation of the town, during Reconstruction days, as a county seat in a newly created county that became one of the "ghost" subdivisions of Texas.

* * *

"New County" Forgotten

The carpetbag constitutional convention which sat in Texas at intervals from June, 1869, to February, 1869, among other things enacted some "declarations" intended to have the force of law. One created the county of Webster, but whether in honor of Daniel or Noah was not stated. It was to have been comprised of parts of Lamar and Fannin counties, and would have been about 17 miles east and west, stretching from Red river to the then southern boundary line of the two counties. Seven miles was to have been taken from Lamar and ten from Fannin, and Honey Grove was "declared" the county seat.

The officials of Fannin county were instructed to have election of officers for the new subdivision and start it in business, but this never was done. The legislatures which followed the convention took no action toward legalizing Webster county and Honey Grove remained a town in Fannin county close to the Lamar county line. Incidentally, the same convention declared Delta county, but the next legislature legalized Delta and it became a county in regular order.

* * *

THERE is reason to believe Crockett visited the neighborhood where Honey Grove is and found wild honey so abundant in hollow trees in the oak groves dotting the landscape, that giving the place that name was a natural. SPIRITS DAMPENED
NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—Backwardness of steels dampened rallying spirits in today's stock market.

While early declines running to a point or so were chipped down at the close, few issues were able to emerge with plus signs.

The new was colorless marketwise.

Dealings were inconsequential throughout, transfers of 437,950 shares being the smallest for any full session since Dec. 4. The total compared with 635,730 last Friday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .1 of a point at 49.6.

Further confirmation of recessionary tendencies in industry were seen in cuts of ¼ of a cent a pound in copper and zinc. The cooper rates were the lowest since last October. Copper shares, through, were moderately resistant, Kennecott ending up a trifle while Anaconda and American smelting were off minor amounts.

Among losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Eastern Air Lines, Westinghouse, J. C. Penney and Standard Brands.

Loft was a relatively active gainer of a point. Others on top at the finish were Union Carbide, Montgomery Ward, National Biscuit, Consolidated Edison and preferred issues of Standard Gas and Electric.

Bonds were mixed, with a few rails firming. Major commodities dipped.

Fractional losses in a narrow curb market were posted for American Cyanamid "B", Electric Bond and Share and Creole Petroleum. Humble oil rose 1⅛ on a single sale. Recently weak standard gas bonds rallied. Turnover of 86,000 shares, smallest since last August 31, compared with 106,000 Friday.

At A Glance . .

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—
STOCKS: Lower; steels lead drift.
BONDS: Unever; some rails higher.
FOREIGN EXCHANGE: Narrow; chief rates quietly maintained.
COTTON: Weak; foreign and Wall street selling.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22. (AP) — Poor cables and foreign and domestic long liquidations depressed cotton futures here today. Closing prices were barely steady, 21 to 25 points net lower.

NEW YORK REPORT
NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—Prices for cotton futures crumbled nearly $1.50 a bale today under a blast of selling ignited by Bombay and Wall street accounts. Final prices, bottom for the day, were down 19 to 28 points.

Liverpool closed down the 25-point limit and when Bombay cables revealed further easiness in the east Indian market, selling from abroad hit the ring in a steady stream.

Today's recession was orderly as trade interests bought on each point markdown. Local professionals and New Orleans, also contributed a little support.

The Worth street textile market appeared deadlocked. Many bids have reached sellers at somewhat under current list prices but mills refused to make concessions.

AVERAGE PRICE
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22. (AP)—The average price of middling 15-16 inch cotton at 10 designated southern spot markets was 22 lower at 10.65 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days was 10.94. Middling ⅞ inch average was 10.47 cents a pound.

Lubbock . .

The prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry—Lubbock Poultry and Egg company, delivered Lubbock. Grain — S. E. Cone Grain and Seed company. Following prices being bid by Lubbock grain dealers. Cotton—Carlock and Carlock. All prices subject to change during day.

Grain . .

CHICAGO REPORT
CHICAGO, Jan. 22. (AP)—Quiet but persistent selling weakened wheat prices today but losses of as much as a cent a bushel at times attracted enough purchasing to give the market frequent rallies.

Wheat closed ⅜-⅝ lower than Saturday, May $1.00 ⅝-¾, July 97 ⅛-98; Corn ⅛-⅜ down, May and July 58 ⅜; Oats unchanged to ⅛ off; ryae 1 ¼-1 ½ lower and lard 5 to 7 lower.

Grain dealers sold 10,000 bushels of hard wheat to mills but in general demand for wheat or flour from processing interests was quiet. Export business also was dull, although cables disclosed the United Kingdom recently bought almost 4,000,000 bushels of Rumanian wheat.

H. C. Donovan, crop expert, said serious damage probably was inflicted on Texas winter oats by the recent cold and damage also must have been sustained to some extent by wheat that had no snow covering. Even where the crop wa swell covered the weather caused much evaporation, thus cutting down the amount of moisture the soil may receive when snow melts .

Trade in corn was light but handlers booked 56,000 bushels to arrive. Small quantities of corn were sold to Denmark over the weekend. Export business recently has been the largest since the beginning of the season but foreign buyers have found it possible to get all the offerings they want.

Oats prices were steadied by reports of irreparable damage to the crop in parts of Texas. Some farm experts estimated much of the acreage would have to be replanted with spring oats.

FORT WORTH REPORT
FORT WORTH, Jan. 22 (AP) — Moderate demand for grain was reported here as the week began.

Chefs Survive Meatless Days

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Jan. 22—France's newly decreed three "meatless days" a week have caused chefs a real problem, but by utilizing their inventive culinary genius they have been able to offer an average selection of 60 dishes in large restaurants without breaking the law.

The menus of most famous Paris restaurants are not shortened on the meatless days, although many new dishes had to be concocted with such meat substitutes as sole, ducklings, truffles and lobster. The government aided the cooks by decreeing the barnyard fowl and game are not meat and by not restricting the purchase of tongue, liver, brains, kidneys and other such edibles.

Sale Forbidden

The new law, which went into effect this week, forbids the sale of serving of beef and veal on Mondays and Tuesdays and of all meats on Fridays. This is to assure the army of an adequate meat supply on the theory that civilians do not need as much meat as do the men at the front.

A United Press correspondent making the rounds of Paris' best known restaurants found a wide choice of dishes available. Ciros offered the following business men's luncheon for the equivalent of $1: hot and cold hor d'ouerves, Sicilian macaroni, turbot with cream sauce, chicken livers and fruit pie. Ciros also offered 11 kinds of fish and seven kinds of game from wild hare to sea birds.

Appetites Tempted

Drouants tempted appetites with 14 different kinds of oysters in addition to sea urchins which look like pin cushions but taste like scrambled eggs. Also on Drouants' menu were eels and the famed Marseilles fish soup, bouillabaisse. Drouants' chef concocted a new dish of grilled smoked herring with mustard sauce and offered duck either with oranges or roasted with ripe olives.

Special "fish express trains" run to Paris every afternoon from Boulogne, Lorient and other fishing ports, bringing in thousands of tons of fish and crayfish.

Except for a shortage of coffee and the meat restrictions, the average Frenchman hardly would know a war is in progress. He can buy anything else he wants. There are no food cards, no rationing, no limit on the amount of clothing, shoes, paper or anything else he wants to purchase.

The coffee shortage resulted from the cancellation of shipments from Brazil to enable ships to bring cotton to France for use in making munitions. Thousands of tons of Brazilian and Columbian coffees in bonded warehouses at Le Havre have been earmarked for the army and navy. But thousands of more tons are being imported, chiefly from French colonies. To curb hoarding and speculation, the government has ordered all owners to declare all coffee reserves in excess of 100 kilograms (about 220 pounds).

On Wartime Basis

The Paris public transportation system still is operating on a wartime basis. Subways stop running at 11:30 p. m., but there are sufficient taxicabs.

Theaters and movies now are running full blast. Dance halls have reopened since soldiers have received leaves. Each week during the last few months has seen at least one new cabaret open. Among the most successful new ones is that of the famed French torch singer, Lucienne Boyer.

Police restrictions, however, still prevent opening of any of the "hot spots" in Montmartre which now is the quietest part of Paris. Police fear that if they allowed it to run wide open during the blackout they would be unable properly to police the darkened streets.

Hedy Arrives And Mercury Starts Rising

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Item—Hedy Lamarr is in town.

Item—The weather bureau said the temperature might rise above freezing today.

OTHERS:

BAYSHORE, N. Y.—Coast guardsmen sighted a seal in Great South bay, the first seen around Long Island in four years. The seal was lolling on an ice floe.

SPIKED!

NUTLEY, N. J.—Mrs. Henry Lampe found the house in disorder and called the police. Upstairs they found Bernard Greely, 19, dangling half-out of a second-story window. A nail protruding from the sill had snagged his trousers. Greely was charged with breaking and entering.

DON'T THEY KNOW IT?

BROOKLINE, Mass.—The Rev. Samuel MaCauley Linday thought up 10 causes for which, if he had it, he would spend $1,000,000 in 1940. No. 1 was "to teach race track followers that you can't get something for nothing."

INDUSTRIAL ITEM

WASHINGTON—Harry Ross, San Francisco pin ball machine merchant, asked adjustment of a $200 deficiency charged against his 1936 income and defended deductions he had made on the ground that pin ball machines become obsolete in three to six months.

THAT'LL TEACH HIM

NEW YORK—Police charged that Alexander Marra, 39, bit his 10-year-old son, Orlando, because the boy left the spigot of a wine cask open.

ARTIST AND DECTECTIVE

BOSTON—A youthful gunman held up Daniel A. Maresch and robbed him of $18. Maresch, a former commercial artist, made a pastel portrait from memory. With the drawing as a guide, he was able to identify a rogues gallery photograph as that of the robber.

THE FLESH IS WEAK

FITCHBURG, Mass.—Sunday services at the Unitarian church here were omitted yesterday for the first time in 103 years. Water in the furnace boiler had frozen and cracked the pipes, and there was no heat.

INSULT TO INJURY

DETROIT—Norman Mittleman, 33, would have been merely angry if the holdup men had been content just to take his car, his $500 and his watch. What made him downright furious was the fact that before letting him out they made him switch his shoes—so he wouldn't hurry in reporting to police.

Hull Blamed In End Of Trade Agreement

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—Collapse of negotiations with Argentina for a reciprocal trade agreement was attributed by a House committee witness today to efforts of Secretary Hull to place a quota on canned beef imports.

F. E. Mollin, secretary of the American National Livestock association, Denver, told the ways and means committee he understood the Argentine government refused to accept the quota.

Mollin, appearing before the committee for cross-examination on testimony given Saturday, testified it was "clearly indicated" Hull had offered to reduce the tariff on Argentine canned beef although "there was nothing to justify" such a reduction.

"Mr. Hull wisely attempted to put limiting quotas on these imports," Mullin continued, "and that is the reason why they couldn't get together."

The witness said that although the Argentine negotiations had been terminated, he believed this was "only temporary."

VETERAN DIES

DALLAS, Jan. 22. (AP)—Capt. J. W. Ayers, 96, Civil war veteran died today. He served with the 8th Illinois infantry of the Union army.

Oil Suit To Be Dropped

DALLAS, Jan. 22 (U.P.)—Attorneys representing most of 55 Texas oil companies agreed today at a hotel conference with Hugh Buck, assistant state attorney general, that their firms would cease dumping salt water and waste oil into Southeast Texas streams.

A formal promise of co-operation with state-sponsored program ending stream polution will be given by some of the companies this afternoon before Judge John A. Rawlins.

To Drop Suit

The pollution suit filed by Attorney General Gerald Mann against the companies will be dropped in the cases of the companies agreeing to end stream pollution, Buck said.

Those who oppose the state's plan will be prosecuted.

The program for ending pollution was mapped by the state game, fish and oyster commission and the state health department.

Representatives of the city of Beaumont, whose water supply has been hard hit by salt water and oil pollution, expressed reluctance at the conference to dropping the pollution cases.

Buck said he hoped for an agreement to his plan by the Beaumont spokesman.

Funeral For Mrs. Dalton Blagg Conducted Monday Afternoon

Funeral for Mrs. Dalton Blagg, 24, of 1314 Avenue F was read at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon in the First Baptist church by Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor, assisted by Rev. B. C. Welch of Petersburg. She died Sunday afternoon.

Survivors include the husband; one daughter, Betty Trowbridge; father, J. F. Burrow of Petersburg; two brothers, Thomas Burrow of Petersburg and Thurman Burrow of Houston, and two sisters, Mrs. Opal Webster of Pauls Valley, Okla., and one of Petersburg.

Mrs. Blagg was a beauty operator at Shaw Beauty shop.

She had undergone major surgery twice, the last time about two weeks ago, and had developed chest complications.

Last Rites Are Read Monday For Mrs. Millie Veazey

Last rites were read Monday at Sanders chapel by Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of the First Baptist church, for Mrs. Millie Veazey, 75, of 2111 Twenty-seventh street, who suffered a hip fracture when she fell at her residence early last week. She died Sunday afternoon.

Other services will be read at 10 o'clock this morning at Johnson's chapel in San Angelo, where she formerly lived. Burial will be in San Angelo.

Mrs. Veazey had lived in Lubbock 14 years. She lived with two sisters, Misses L. E. and N. E. Kendall.

Mrs. Veazey is survived by two sons, A. S. of Dumas and I. F. of Flagstaff, Ariz.; two brothers, B. F. Kendall of Lubbock and H. Q. of Phoenix, Ariz., and the two sisters.

Man Is Found Boiling His Mother-In-Law In Kettle

BUCHAREST, Jan. 22. (AP)—Gendarmes heard John Huluka was having trouble with his mother-in-law.

They broke into his house at Coloran today and found her body boiling in a large kettle.

Hulka was arrested on a murder charge.

BUSY AS A ONE-ARMED FAN DANCER!—So you think that one-armed paperhanger was busy? Regard fan dancer Marguerita, of Jacksonville, Fla. Due to perform at a benefit program for needy children, she broke her left hand. But with the injured member in a sling, as seen above, she danced anyway—with one hand, one fan.

Major Projects Of Jaycees Discussed At Monday Meeting

Two major projects of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were discussed in Monday's meeting of the newly-formed greeting committee to welcome new people to Lubbock and sponsorship of the Music association's membership campaign.

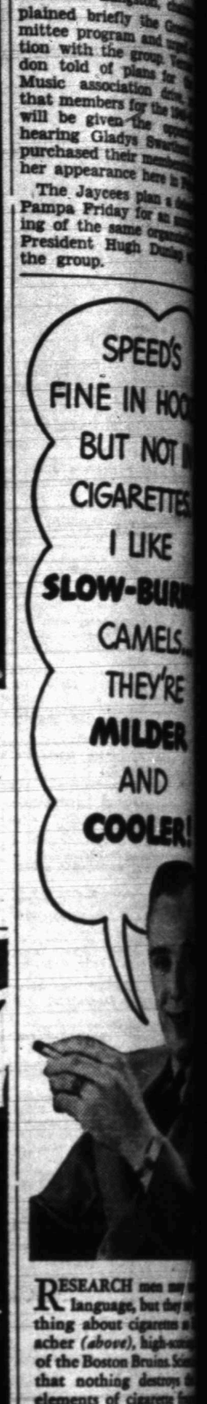

Lonnie Langston, chairman, explained briefly the Greeting committee program and urged cooperation with the group. Vernon Brandon told of plans for the Music association drive, stating that members for the board will be given the opportunity of hearing Gladys Swarthout, who purchased their membership by her appearance here in person.

The Jaycees plan a dance in Pampa Friday for an organizing of the same organization. President Hugh Dunlap presided over the group.

Manufacturer Of Soap Draws Most Money

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—A soap manufacturer shoved aside all the fabulously paid motion picture colony to rank as the nation's highest paid corporation employe in 1938.

The $469,713 salary and bonus of F. A. Countway, president of Lever Brothers company in Massachusetts, topped all others in last year's corporate income tax returns.

Under a new law the treasury made public today the names of those who receive more than $75,000, instead of $15,000 as in past years. This change cut the list from 50,000 to an even 400.

Compensation Only

The list was not, however, a "400" of the nation's wealthiest people, because it excluded income from dividends or other sources not called "compensation."

Thomas J. Watson, head of International Business Machines corporation, ranked second with $453,440, and not until sixth place did Actress Claudette Colbert's $301,944 appear as the best that Hollywood could do.

An unexplained technicality, however, excluded from the list all the wealthy executives and artists of Loew's incorporated and its subsidiary, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures. Louis B. Mayer, M-G-M head who led all others on the 1937 salary list with $1,161,753, was not shown for 1938.

Helen Hayes First

The only stage celebrity in the list was Helen Hayes, who got $113,458.

Although 1938 was not generally as good a business year as 1937, few important changes in compensation appeared. The biggest was a reduction from $500,000 to $100,000 for William Randolph Hearst. Countway's No. 1 salary in 1938, however, was more than double the $204,301 he collected in 1937.

No. 3 salary man was E. G. Grace, Bethlehem Steel magnate, whose compensation dropped from $394,976 to $378,698 and No. 4 was George Washington Hill, whose American Tobacco company remuneration declined from $380,976 to $331,248.

Texans Listed

The motor industry supplied its usual crop of headliners, with W. S. Knudsen of General Motors advancing from $247,219 to $303,400, the fifty highest salary reported; Edsel Ford dropping from $146,056 to $113,291, and Walter P. Chrysler from $189,136 to $162,083. Alfred P. Sloan, jr., received $164,450 and Charles F. Kettering received $192,923, both from General Motors.

Among the salaries reported—for the calendar year 1938 or for corporations' fiscal years ending in 1939—were these from Texas:

Hughes Tool company, 1938: R. C. Kudell salary $30,000; bonus $142,849.54, total $172,849.54; S. P. Brown, salary $24,000.00, bonus $60,716.15, total $84,716.15.

By Occupation

Pollock Paper and Box company, 1938: Leslie L. Jacobs, salary $40,000.00, bonus $45,271.71, total $85,251.71.

By industries, here are other top paychecks of 1938:

Banking — Winthrop Aldrich, Chase National Bank, New York, $177,600.

Telephone — Walter S. Gifford, American Telephone and Telegraph, $209,350.

Oil—H. F. Sinclair, Consolidated Oil company, $200,550.

Aviation — J. H. Kindelberger, North American Aviation, Inc., $96,299.

Railroads—M. W. Clement, Pennsylvania railroad, $100,410.

Sports—C. H. Strub, Los Angeles turf club, $140,887.

Publishing — Joseph M. Pulitzer, Pulitzer Publishing company (St. Louis Post-Dispatch), $180,461.

Advertising — Sheldon R. Coons, Lord and Thomas, $108,921.

Dairy—Thomas H. McInnerney, National Dairy Products corporation, $150,460.

Utilities — J. I. Mange, utility clearing corporation (Associated Gas and Electric system), $82,818.
