Home of Zach Starnes

We don't want a tax cut from President Bush, we want a grant.

We want a part of the $9.4 million that the feds are dishing out under a new Private Stewardship Grant program to undertake conservation projects on private lands.

Texas projects received more than $850,000 this year, and next year we want a piece of that pie such as the following folks received.

A group in the Texas Panhandle is receiving $91,875 to restore pastureland for at-risk species, including horned toads, aka horned frogs.

So far this summer, we've seen five different honored toads around our house, including three babies.

At about $10,000 each, the government's tab is already $80,000.

And if they're paying by the pound, we know a couple of ol' Horned Frogs walking around who would bring a pretty good price.

We can see that government check coming now and we haven't even gotten to the rare and endangered fish lurking in our backyard ponds.

Surely these fish are worth as much as a shiner from Arkansas.

Add another $50,000 to the government's bill for the fish (that are obviously endangered) that can be seen in the photo on today's front page and this is turning into a pretty good government give-away program after all.

It's a little bit more than the $36,000 allotted for the 12 red-cockaded woodpecker recruitment cluster sites in Montgomery County, but it's in the range of the $100,000 in Kerr County for the black-capped vireo and golden-cheeked warbler habitat restoration.

Or how about the $220,000 for Briscoe and Donley counties for improving the nesting area of the interior least tern and that ever-present Arkansas River shiner.

According to the press release, work in this area will involve control or elimination of invasive plant species, tree planting, revegetation of denuded areas, and fencing out riparian zones.

Other than the de-nude part, this sounds like normal Saturday afternoon yard work.

We're not going to spend our government check until we hear its been electronically filed into the checking account.

We're not holding our breath either. We've claimed extreme tomato crop damage for at least five years with Joe Hefner at the Farm Service Agency and we haven't even got a Coca-Cola out of the deal!

After realizing that a quorum would not be present for Thursday morning's hospital board meeting, board president Carl Williams quipped that he did not know whether to call out the DPS or the Homeland Security to search for absent board members.

Coliseum at 8 o'clock...

Graduation tonight for SHS seniors

Snyder High School will award diplomas to 164 seniors in ceremonies that begin at 8 this evening in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Tonight's ceremony is dedicated to the memory of classmates William Taylor Cotton and Johnny Dean Ervin.

Assistant band director Kay Kennedy will perform the processional, while the prayer will be led by senior Will Davis, a member of the SHS National Honor Society.

Acknowledgments will be given by SISD Supt. Dr. Ronny Collins and high school principal Larry Scott.

The valedictory address will be given by Kellie Dodson, while Lillie Valdez will offer the salutatory address.

Dodson is graduating with a four-year average of 99.037, while Valdez has a high school career average of 97.458. Both are members of the National Honor Society.

Dodson is the daughter of James and Bonnie Dodson, and Valdez is the daughter of Reuben and Toni Valdez.

Scott will announce scholarship winners with the total amounting to more than $257,805, and Scott also will give the closing remarks.

SHS social studies teacher Richard Hester will present the graduates, while SISD trustees Mark McCormick, Richard Chambers, Doug Neff and Cathy Peoples will award diplomas.

The ceremony will end with the class of 2003 singing the school's alma mater.

This year's senior class chose Waiting by Green Day as the senior class song and it will be performed tonight by Tanner Beard, Isaac Hernandez, Isaac Sanchez, Justin Stoker and Matthew Stokes.

The class flower is the Tiger Lily and its colors are the traditional black and gold.

As its motto, the class chose, "Live like there's no tomorrow, love like you've never been hurt, and dance like no one is watching."

Honor graduates are Katie Bryant, Erin Cooley, Amanda Hartzog, Jacinda Judah, Wendy Profitt, Aaryn Stewart, Sara Cantu and Kellie Dodson.

Others are Cozy Jones, Tyler Kerr, Alton Schwertner, Lilli Valdez, Bonnie Cleveland, Jason Guynes, Whitney Jones, Kristina Mayer, Zach Starnes and Catherine Whitworth.

LOOKING OVER THE MENU — A curious kitten found a backyard pond to its liking this week and had his eye on its inhabitants. A quick move by the kitten sent the fish to the bottom of the pond and the kitten continued its wanderings around the neighborhood. (SDN Staff Photo)

Four injured in accident Thursday

Four people were treated at Cogdell Memorial Hospital Thursday afternoon following a three-vehicle accident around 3:50 p.m. on U.S. 84 near the Inadale Community Center.

Paul Wilson and Johnny Irvin, both of Snyder, were transported by Snyder EMS to Cogdell Hospital where they were listed in good condition this morning.

Wilson was driving the 1980 Ford pickup that overturned, while Irvin was a passenger along with Sharon Wilson and John Wilson, also of Snyder.

Sharon Wilson, wife of the driver, and their son, John, were treated and released Thursday afternoon.

Investigating DPS trooper Terry Snyder said Wilson was towing a Ford Aerostar van into Snyder when the left front tire blew out on the van. This caused the van to begin whipping back and forth and resulted in the pickup going off the road and overturning.

The van came loose from the pickup and struck a 2003 Mercury driven by Ralph Hawkins of Arkansas. Hawkins was not injured.

In addition to the Snyder EMS, emergency services also responded from Roscoe and Sweetwater.

China denies it tried to cover up SARS epidemic

BEIJING (AP) — A top Chinese health official denied claims that Beijing tried to hide the seriousness of the SARS virus, saying today that the government warned about SARS as early as February and early efforts to fight it were slowed by poor information.

Gao Qiang, the executive deputy health minister, waved a copy of the Communist Party newspaper People's Daily, which reported about an atypical pneumonia Feb. 12 that had killed five people in Guangdong province and infected 305.

The symptoms were similar to what now is known as severe acute respiratory syndrome, including fever, dry cough and chills, Gao said. The World Health Organization believes that SARS originated in Guangdong.

"Infectious diseases are impossible to cover up," Gao said. "You may be able to cover up figures, but you can never cover up viruses."

Gao's comments were the highest-level response yet to accusations that communist officials tried to cover up the extent of the illness. Critics have complained that China's early reluctance to release information might have worsened the impact of the disease.

Gao repeated official explanations that an inadequate Chinese public health network was to blame for earlier underreporting of the true scale of China's outbreak. "The Chinese government did not conceal the truth," Gao said.

The SARS virus has killed at least 755 people worldwide out of more than 8,300 people infected, the vast majority of them in Asia. China has been the hardest hit, with 328 deaths. WHO said in mid-March that it was a global health threat.

Gao refused to comment on the government's decision April 20 to fire Health Minister Zhang Wenkang and the mayor of Beijing for what state media said was their inadequate response to the outbreak. The same day, the government announced sharply higher numbers of SARS cases.

City, county receive grants

Two grants totaling $92,000 have been awarded to the city of Snyder and Scurry County from the Office of Homeland Security.

The city will receive $66,383 and the county will receive $25,812 according to the West Central Texas Council of Governments.

Perry Westmoreland, director of the Emergency Management Program in Snyder and Scurry County, said the funds resulted from a 185-page needs-assessment application submitted last spring.

The funds will be used to purchase equipment from a shopping list prepared by the Department of Homeland Security.

Westmoreland said the shopping list has not been received but likely items would be things like communication equipment and chemical suits that could be used in the event of a disaster or terrorist incident.

Bob Hope's 100th birthday celebrated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thousands of people the world over, from presidents and kings to common folk, took time to thank Bob Hope for nearly a century of memories on the enduring entertainer's 100th birthday.

"He can't believe that this is happening and that he's made it to his Big 100," son Kelly Hope said Thursday as the family gathered at Hope's estate in Toluca Lake.

"It's wonderful. It's a pot of gold. It's cherished," the son said as Hope's staff sorted through more than 2,000 letters and post cards and thousands more e-mails.

In Hollywood, the fabled intersection of Hollywood Boulevard and Vine Street was renamed Bob Hope Square.

In Washington, President Bush marked the occasion by establishing the Bob Hope American Patriot Award, which may be granted annually to any civilian "who has demonstrated extraordinary love of country and devotion to the personnel of the United States Armed Forces, in the form of true patriotism."

Bob Hope

In London, Buckingham Palace said Queen Elizabeth II sent Hope a private birthday card.

California Gov. Gray Davis saluted Hope for his many years of entertaining U.S. forces.

Hope, whose career spanned vaudeville, radio, film and television, traveled overseas to entertain U.S. troops during World War II, the Korean War, the Vietnam War and the Gulf War, making his last trip when he was well into 80s.

"For more than 75 years, Bob Hope has shown the world compassion, goodwill, and a uniquely American patriotic spirit," Davis said in a proclamation.

Birthday parties were held in such far-flung locations as Eltham, England, where Leslie Townes Hope was born in 1903, and in Cleveland where he grew up.

But at Hope's Los Angeles home it was a day of quiet appreciation. Although too frail to take part in any of the public events, Hope was said to be alert and happy — and overwhelmed by the outpouring of affection.

His family celebrated with a birthday meal of his favorites — lamb, roasted potatoes and lemon meringue pie — and birthday cake. His spokesman Ward Grant said the comic's wife, Dolores, who turned 94 on Tuesday, joked that the cake would have 100 candles "and a fireman with an extinguisher standing by."

Hope's staff planned to release 101 balloons, "one for each year and one to grow on."

At the Bob Hope Square ceremony in Hollywood there were reminiscences of Hope doing radio broadcasts from nearby Sunset and Vine, dining at the old Brown Derby restaurant, dropping in for today night fights at the American Legion hall, and paying after-hours visits to his bank.

"Bob always put money in. He never took any out," joked Johnny Grant, Hollywood's honorary mayor.

Microsoft, AOL Time Warner settle long fight over browsers

SEATTLE (AP) — AOL Time Warner and Microsoft have called a truce in their battle over Internet browsers, with the software giant paying AOL $750 million in a deal heralded as the start of a new era of cooperation between the longtime rivals.

Microsoft will license its browsing software to AOL through 2010 at no cost. The companies also will collaborate on new digital media initiatives and ways to make their products mesh more seamlessly.

The deal announced Thursday ends legal fighting over AOL's antitrust suit, which was filed in response to Microsoft's efforts to bolster its Internet Explorer browser.

Shares of AOL rose 3 percent in Friday morning trading. AOL stock traded at $15.29, up 44 cents, on the New York Stock Exchange, while Microsoft shares rose 30 cents to $24.70, or a little over 1 percent, on the Nasdaq Stock Market.

The settlement comes less than two months after Microsoft chairman Bill Gates called AOL Time Warner chairman Dick Parsons to discuss ending the lawsuit, Parsons said in a conference call.

"It's a forward-looking agreement," Gates said. "I was impressed with the fact that they are looking forward, and I'm very happy with what we've come up with here."

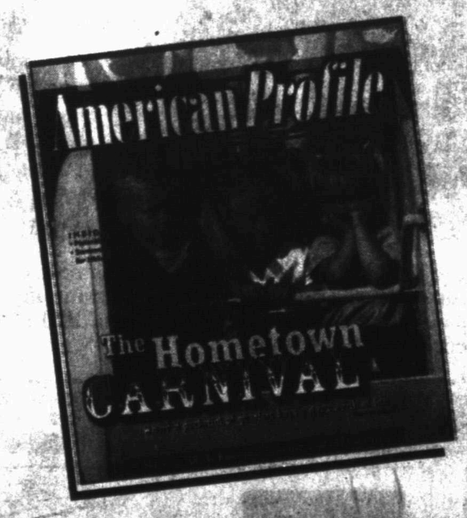

The agreement resolves a lawsuit AOL filed against Microsoft in January 2002 on behalf of its subsidiary, Netscape Communications. The complaint was one of several private antitrust lawsuits still pending against Microsoft over its tactics.

AOL had alleged in the lawsuit that Microsoft used anticompetitive business practices to ensure the dominance of its Internet Explorer browsing software over Netscape's software.

Prosecutors want autopsy results unsealed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — An autopsy indicated that the body of Laci Peterson's unborn son had a significant cut and plastic tape wrapped around the neck, according to news reports that prompted prosecutors to ask that the results be unsealed.

A source close to the case who requested anonymity confirmed information in the autopsy to The Associated Press on Thursday.

Prosecutors responded later in the day by saying it was misleading.

"The information being leaked has clearly been skewed in favor of the defense," wrote Deputy Stanislaus County District Attorney David Harris. "By releasing the autopsy reports the court will allow the media to see what the actual facts are and then accurate information may be reported to mitigate recent adverse publicity."

The information was first reported by cable news channel MSNBC, which said it had received a portion of the autopsy report completed by the Contra Costa County coroner's office. Results had been sealed by court order after Stanislaus County prosecutors said releasing them would jeopardize Scott Peterson's right to a fair trial.

Only the prosecution and defense were given copies of the reports and prosecutors said they had not shared results with police or Laci Peterson's family.

In a statement, District Attorney James Brazelton said "evidence in this case should be presented in court through the testimony of witnesses and not selectively leaked to the news media by unknown persons whom the press will not identify."

The Contra Costa County coroner's office did not comment on the report.

Part of the autopsy indicated the unborn baby boy had 11/2 loops of plastic tape around his neck, MSNBC said.

Scott Peterson, 30, of Modesto, is accused of killing his wife and unborn son, whom the couple had planned to name Conner, last Dec. 23 or 24 in their home. Laci, 27, was eight months pregnant at the time. The bodies washed ashore in San Francisco Bay last month.

Contra Costa County authorities concluded their autopsy report earlier this month, but did not disclose the cause of death.

It's possible the baby's body was cut shoulder to shoulder or became wrapped in the tape because of its long submersion in San Francisco Bay, the MSNBC report said, adding that the part of the coroner's report the network received "doesn't prove anything one way or another."

Mark Geragos, Peterson's defense attorney, would not comment on the report. He said Stanislaus County Superior Court Judge Al Girolami, during a closed meeting in his chambers Tuesday, "more than telegraphed that he does not want us commenting on the case."

Girolami had said he was considering a gag order to prevent news leaks.

Geragos has suggested that members of a satanic cult were the killers. He has also hinted that a female mystery witness could lead authorities to the real killer and free Scott Peterson.

Suspect in Ohio campus shooting death indicted

CLEVELAND (AP) — The suspect in a fatal university shooting rampage was indicted Thursday on aggravated murder, attempted murder and kidnapping charges.

A grand jury indicted Biswanath Halder, 62, of Cleveland, on 338 counts stemming from a seven-hour attack at the Case Western Reserve University business school on May 9. Prosecutor Bill Mason said his office would seek the death penalty.

"I chose to indict him on everything I could," Mason said. "I basically threw the book at him."

Graduate student Norman Wallace, 30, of Youngstown, was killed, two people were wounded and 141 were trapped inside the business school as police SWAT teams cornered the suspect and forced him to surrender.

Halder, a graduate of the business school who has been held without bond since his arrest, was to be arraigned this morning.

Halder had no legal representation Thursday. A public defender who handled earlier court appearances was not longer on the case, and a new lawyer was to be appointed today.

Halder's former attorney has described him as needing psychiatric care, but Mason said, "The guy very clearly understood and knew what he was doing."

Halder, a native of Calcutta, India, blamed a computer lab employee for destroying his Web site devoted to helping fellow Indians form businesses. He sued university employee Shawn Miller in 2001, but the lawsuit was dismissed and his appeal was recently rejected.

Most players underestimate the advantage in falsecarding. If you think the contract will make, try subterfuge.

Today's deal occurred during the Vanderbilt Knockout Teams in Philadelphia last March. East and West had been suffering against the Italian world champions, Norberto Bocchi and Giorgio Duboin. But although they lost the match, Burrell Humphreys (East) and Bharat Rao (West) had one wonderful story.

North's one-no-trump response promised at least five spades. South's natural two-diamond rebid denied three-card spade support.

West led his highest club. Duboin, the declarer, rose with dummy's king, played a diamond to his ace, ruffed a diamond in the dummy, crossed to the club ace, and trumped another diamond. Then South cashed dummy's spade ace, and Rao smoothly dropped the queen!

Taking that card at face value, declarer called for the club nine, and Humphreys casually played his queen!

Declarer could have got home by playing two rounds of spades, discarding his diamond queen. But thinking that West would trump in immediately, Duboin continued with the diamond queen, ruffed in dummy and overruffed by East. Humphreys produced the club 10, shocking Duboin. South ruffed with the heart eight, but West discarded his remaining spade.

When declarer tried the heart king, West won with the ace and exited with his last diamond. At trick 12, South had to lead away from the jack-six of hearts into West's queen-seven: one down.

It just goes to show that even world champions can be misled.

Dear Abby

Girl assaulted by friend's dad doesn't know what to do next

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday night, I went to a church dance. I didn't want to go, but my mother made me. I danced a few times, but mostly sat with another girl who's a good friend. When I got up to make a phone call in the hallway, I was unaware that her father had been watching me.

He followed me down the hall, grabbed me, and wouldn't let go. I tried to break away, but the harder I struggled, the tighter he held me. Nobody saw us. When I finally got away from him, I ran out of the building and all the way home.

I haven't told my mom about it because she would jump to the wrong conclusions — and if I tell my friend, she might accuse me of lying about her dad and it would wreck our friendship. What should I do, Abby? — TROUBLED TEEN GIRL IN LOGAN, UTAH

DEAR TROUBLED: You have to speak up. Tell your mother. Tell your clergyperson. Your friend's father is a predator. He assaulted you and he MUST be reported. If you remain silent, he could do something more serious to you or some other young girl. Please don't wait.

DEAR ABBY: I have been living with "Ken" for seven years. On two occasions in the past few months, he has told me he's dating someone else. Each time, Ken allowed me to believe it for more than an hour. Then he admitted he was "putting me on" — that he was only testing me to see if I really loved him.

We were already having problems, and this "game" has caused me to doubt our future together. When Ken realized how upset and manipulated I felt, he apologized and said he regretted ever making such a statement.

I am trying to believe him and forgive him, but I'm having a hard time. Am I wrong for having doubts about him? — ANGRY AND CONFUSED IN THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST

DEAR ANGRY AND CONFUSED: Your boyfriend's game is sadistic. You're right to have second thoughts about him. If Ken pulls something like this again, dump him and don't look back.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from "Michigan Grandmother," whose son had recently divorced and whose grandchildren were starting to steal. In your reply you advised, "When couples separate, they still have a joint responsibility to the children they brought into this world."

I think that on some level, children know this. Often, when parents are having trouble in their lives (divorce in this case), children will act out in some manner — such as stealing — so that family members MUST come together to handle the crisis. The grandchildren in this instance may not actually expect their parents to reunite, but their stealing is "rewarded" by seeing their parents involved and coming together to work through the problem. In this way, they are once again a family — even if it's just for a little while.

Time and love are great healers. Your advice to "Michigan Grandmother" was on the money. Spend more time with the boys until they have adjusted to the divorce. If they don't make the adjustment, family counseling is the next step. — JULI HERREN, ST. PETE BEACH, FLA.

DEAR JULI: You said it very well. I agree.

P. Diddy, Simmons and Cuomo protest NY drug laws

NEW YORK (AP) — Sean "P. Diddy" Combs joined fellow rap impresario Russell Simmons and former U.S. housing secretary Andrew Cuomo in calling for the repeal of New York's strict Rockefeller drug laws.

The Rockefeller laws, passed in the 1970s, can subject first-time offenders to 15 years to life in prison if convicted of selling as little as 2 ounces or possessing as little as 4 ounces of a controlled substance.

Your Birthday

There are strong indications that you might make some major changes in your lifestyle in the year ahead. By doing so, it'll also affect peripheral elements, such as your pastime activities and friendships.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — It behooves you to be extremely selective with whom you choose to pal around today. The wrong types could drag you into situations with people who have a history of causing trouble.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — This is not a good day to turn a blind eye to responsibilities or tasks that need tending. What you ignore now will be far more difficult to take care of later on.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Friends might be a bit more difficult to get along with today, so it might be up to you to maintain your dignity and not stoop to anyone else's rude level in response. Don't be retaliatory.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — If you make a mistake or err in some manner today, own up to it without excuses. You would cause a bigger problem if you try to shift the blame onto another to cover up your shortcomings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — It is very unlike you, but today you could adopt a touchy or sensitive attitude. You could find yourself taking offense at something another says or does where no ill will was intended.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Someone who is quite skilled at manipulating others might select you as his or her pigeon of the day if you're not careful. Be on your toes and don't allow yourself to be victimized.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Tact and logic are two of your greatest assets and it behooves you to rely on them today, because they're your secret to success. If you become defiant instead you will fail to achieve your aims.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Although you might want to be, you are not a superhero. Don't take on any task or assignment today that is too strenuous for you either physically or mentally. Wait until assistance arrives.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — Although you enjoy a game of chance from time to time, this is not a good day to gamble on anything that contains elements that are precarious and treacherous. Stay safe, not sorry.

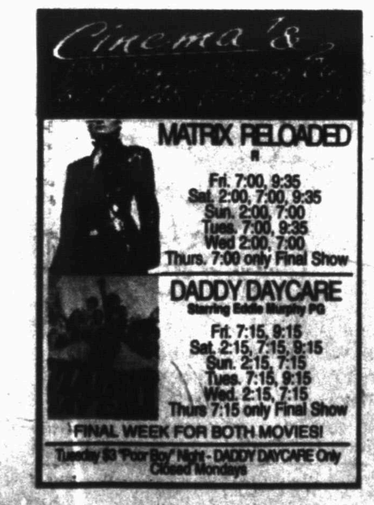

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — You would be putting your reputation at risk today if you failed to come through on a commitment you recently made. Those you let down would be both disappointed and resentful.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — If there is something others want you to do today that you believe wouldn't serve your best interests, be strong and stand up against it. Don't give way to peer pressure.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You have such a soft heart it would be easy for another to jockey you into a position today to pick up his or her share of the tab. Protect yourself and don't be a patsy.

WTC loses rider at conference rodeo

HOBBS, N.M. — The Western Texas College rodeo team had a solid performance in the opening round of the Southwest Conference finals Thursday, but was dealt a serious blow when bareback rider Tyson Thompson was lost for the rest of the year.

Thompson was sitting in good shape with 66.5 points, when he was kicked during a pick-up, breaking both bones in his leg above the ankle.

"That didn't help our cause," head coach Greg Rhodes said. "We can still be okay, but instead of us being able to take care of it ourselves, we're going to need help from other teams. I don't like to be in that position."

Several other members had were in the top 10 after their first rides.

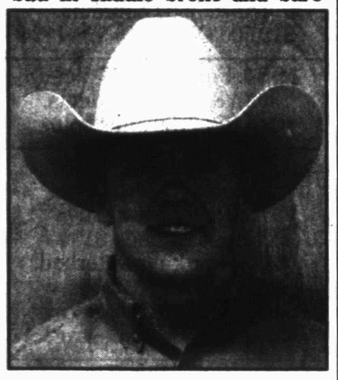

Steer wrestler Steven Turner is in fifth place after a time of 5.1.

Hadley Hunting is in sixth in the bull riding event, earning a score of 71 after his first ride, and Randus London completed the barrel race in 16.64 to place in the top 10.

Rhodes said Ashley Ryan did well in calf roping, but must wait until after her second round calf to see where she sits.

Rhodes said the horses used for bareback and saddle bronc caused some problems for his riders.

"We've had problems with the quality of livestock we've competed on. They are costing us bad in saddle bronc and bareback," he said. "The guys are trying to make good spur rides, but it's difficult on horses that don't buck."

Tyson Thompson

Despite the problems, Cody Horwedel had a seventh-place ride in saddle bronc, securing 59 points on his initial ride.

Rhodes said Clay Bunney was "sitting pretty good" with his first horse in bareback with 62.5 points.

"The guys are doing great," Rhodes said. "We'll see how the second round goes."

The second round got underway this morning. The conference finals are scheduled to run through Saturday night.

Spurs finally finish Mavericks

DALLAS (AP) — Steve Kerr was a forgotten man for most of the postseason.

"I'm 37. I'm slow. I'm not a very good defender," Kerr said, explaining why San Antonio coach Gregg Popovich had kept him at the end of the bench.

Kerr went into Game 6 of the Western Conference finals having played just 13 minutes with a grand total of zero field goals.

But in the third quarter Thursday night, Popovich had nothing to lose. His team was playing poorly, his starting point guard was ill and the backup wasn't effective. So he turned to the guy with four NBA championship rings and told him to fire away.

Rekindling images of his glory days alongside Michael Jordan in Chicago, Kerr hit four 3-pointers, three during an amazing fourth-quarter rally that took the Spurs from 13 down all the way to the NBA Finals.

San Antonio beat the Dallas Mavericks 90-78 to win the series 4-2. The Spurs advanced to play the New Jersey Nets in the championship round, starting at home Wednesday night.

"I mentioned to Steve that he needed to be ready tonight, and he was real ready," Popovich said. "It's a fitting finish to what I thought would be the end of his career, but he told me we're going to have to think about an extension or he won't be available for the finals. And he said that with a straight face."

Dallas led by as many as 15 and was ahead 71-58 when Nick Van Exel made a jumper with 10:53 left. Even with Dirk Nowitzki missing a third straight game because of a sprained left knee, the Mavericks appeared headed to a winner-take-all seventh game on Saturday night in San Antonio.

"I didn't think the game was over," Mavs guard Raja Bell said, "but you can't help thinking about Game 7."

The Spurs came back with stingy defense and the outside shooting they lacked in previous games. Their six straight 3-pointers to open the fourth quarter were the ultimate zone-busters.

Manu Ginobili had the first, then Stephen Jackson hit two. Kerr's trio came in a span of four possessions, with the first tying it at 71 and the last making it 79-71. Ginobili added two free throws before Van Exel ended Dallas' drought with 2:51 left.

Over 8:02, the Mavericks missed seven shots and committed six turnovers. It was a stunning meltdown for a team that has thrived on making other teams melt down, such as in Game 5, when they made San Antonio blow a 19-point lead.

"We were playing so well for so long and the bottom just dropped out," coach Don Nelson said. "We couldn't get a shot to go in. We went cold at the wrong time."

Nelson, only under contract as general manager next season, might've been on the sideline for the final time.

Kerr, the career leader in 3-point accuracy, took only four shots, but made them all, and all were behind the line. That made for 12 points in 13 minutes. He also had three assists and two rebounds.

"I figured just let it fly and see what happens," said Kerr, who won three NBA titles with Chicago and one with the Spurs in 1999. "This is one of best nights of my career, ranks right up there with anything that happened in Chicago."

Jackson scored 24 points, making five of San Antonio's 10 3-pointers, on a night when Tim Duncan was constantly double- and triple-teamed.

Duncan had 18 points and 11 rebounds, Rose had 12 and Ginobili added 11 to help San Antonio overcome scoreless outings from two starters — Tony Parker and Bruce Bowen.

Van Exel had 19 points to lead the Mavericks, who were without Nowitzki for the third straight game because of a knee injury that probably would've prevented him from playing in a Game 7.

Michael Finley, who had only 13 points after 31 the previous game, bit his collar as he left the court with 1:01 to play, then hugged Nelson.

Rangers snap Orioles' streak

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hank Blalock went 3-for-3, walked twice and scored two runs as the Texas Rangers ended Baltimore's four-game winning streak with an 8-4 victory Thursday night.

The Orioles were denied a fifth straight win for the first time since May 2001, and their run of nine straight games reaching double figures in hits also came to an end.

"We knew we were going to have to put some runs on the board since they've been swinging the bats very well," Rangers manager Buck Showalter said. "It was a little frustrating we didn't score more runs."

Especially because Texas drew six walks, including five from Orioles starter Pat Hentgen (1-2).

Ismael Valdes (5-2) allowed two runs, four hits and a walk in 5 2-3 innings to earn his second win over the Orioles in seven days.

Francisco Cordero, who entered in the seventh, earned his second save.

With two doubles and a single, Blalock boosted his batting average to .359 and regained the AL lead from Baltimore's Melvin Mora.

Ruben Sierra hit a two-run homer in the ninth, helping the Rangers to their ninth win in 11 games.

Mora went 1-for-4 with two RBIs.

Ramon named in Who's Who

Isaac Ramon has been selected for inclusion in Who's Who in High School Sports in the 2002 football edition.

Isaac Ramon

The publication will be placed in the archives of the College Football Hall of Fame in South Bend, Ind.

Ramon was a member of the varsity baseball and football teams as well as the junior varsity basketball team.

The placekicker for the Tigers, Ramon was invited to participate in the 2003 Lone Star Kicking Challenge at Texas A&M.

Ramon will be a senior next school year.

Astros rally to top Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Billy Wagner converted his 11th straight save opportunity and Jeff Kent started a rally in the eighth inning with a double as the Astros beat St. Louis 7-4 on Thursday night after blowing a two-run lead.

"When we play the Cardinals, we always have a tough game," Wagner said. "We were able to get lucky there at the end and score a couple of runs."

Wagner earned his 15th save to help the Astros improve to 23-1 when leading after eight innings.

Houston scored twice in the eighth and added two runs in the ninth on Kent's double after failing to hold a 3-1 lead in the seventh.

Kent's double with one out in the eighth chased Cardinals starter Matt Morris. Jeff Fassero (0-2) relieved and Lance Berkman hit a run-scoring grounder that shortstop Edgar Renteria missed for St. Louis' third error.

Cal Eldred then relieved and gave up a single to Morgan Ensberg, followed by a sacrifice fly to Brad Ausmus that scored Berkman for a 5-4 Houston lead.

Wagner made sure the lead held up.

Kirk Saarloos (1-0) faced one batter for the win and give the Astros a split of the four-game series. Saarloos threw five pitches, striking out Mike Matheny.

The Cardinals took a 4-3 lead in the seventh off Brad Lidge, who relieved starter Tim Redding with two outs in the sixth.

Lidge walked Miguel Cairo to start the inning and then gave up singles to Orlando Palmeiro and J.D. Drew to load the bases. Albert Pujols hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Cairo. Lidge had not been scored on in his previous 10 games, covering 9 2-3 innings.

Devils, Brodeur blank Ducks

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The Anaheim Mighty Ducks are starting to understand what the Minnesota Wild went through.

After smothering the Wild in the Western Conference finals, the Ducks have failed to beat New Jersey goalie Martin Brodeur in the first two games of the Stanley Cup finals.

"It's disappointing not to be able to generate anything offensively," Anaheim captain Paul Kariya said after the Mighty Ducks' second straight 3-0 loss to the Devils on Thursday night.

Game 3 of the best-of-seven series is Saturday in Anaheim.

The Wild were shut out in the first three games against the Ducks in the previous round. They finally scored one goal in Game 4 but it wasn't enough to keep from getting swept.

That gave Anaheim 10 days off before meeting the Devils, and so far the Ducks haven't found their game again.

"We're not playing with the same passion and will as we did in the first three rounds," defenseman Keith Carney said.

Brodeur faced 16 shots for the second game in a row. He had no trouble stopping them all, and few of the shots were generated from legitimate scoring chances.

Backed by second-period goals from Patrik Elias and Scott Gomez, and a third-period score by Jeff Friesen, Brodeur became the first goalie since 1945 with back-to-back shutouts to start a finals series. Toronto's Frank McCool had three straight against Detroit 58 years ago.

"It's kind of hard for me to realize it," Brodeur said. "We're here on a mission to try to be successful in these playoffs."

Brodeur tied Dominik Hasek's record, set last season, with his sixth playoff shutout of the year. He has 19 career postseason shutouts, second only to the 23 Patrick Roy posted in his just-ended career.

Kariya led the Ducks with 81 points in the regular season but has been bottled up by the Devils' penetrating defense. He has one shot in the series, and it came in Game 1. He set up Steve Rucchin for the second of Anaheim's two shots in the middle period, but Brodeur managed to keep the trickling puck from getting all the way through.

Sox trade Hillenbrand for Kim

BOSTON (AP) — The Red Sox traded All-Star third baseman Shea Hillenbrand to Arizona for Byung-Hyun Kim, cashing in their most tradable player for a former reliever who will join their rotation.

Kim reluctantly filled the closer's role in Arizona after Matt Mantei injured an elbow in 2001 and holds the club record with 70 saves, including a team-record 36 last season. He was 8-3 last year with a 2.04 ERA and 92 strikeouts in 84 innings.

Protesters are against media consolidation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Small groups of demonstrators marched and chanted across the country, urging federal regulators not to give large media companies more control over the nation's newspapers, television and radio stations.

In Los Angeles, about 60 people marched outside Clear Channel talk radio station KFI on Thursday, with signs reading, "No Choice, No Voice: Reclaim Our Airwaves."

The Federal Communications Commission, set to meet Monday, is to consider eliminating many restrictions on media ownership in the same city. Another proposal would raise an existing market cap that prevents any one company from owning a combination of TV stations that reach more than 35 percent of U.S. households.

"We're frozen out," said Karen Pomer, a member of the group Code Pink, which organized the Los Angeles protest and rallied for peace during the Iraq war. "All of this is benefiting conservative voices."

In Pittsburgh, about a dozen people protested outside the Clear Channel building. In New York about 150 people picketed radio station WWPR, carrying signs that read, "Farewell Free Speech, We'll Miss You," and "The Airwaves Belong to the People, not Clear Channel." The New York protest was organized by United for Peace and Justice NY, an anti-war group.

San Antonio-based Clear Channel — which owns 1,200 stations nationwide, including nine in Los Angeles — has become a favorite target for those who oppose deregulation.

Fast weight-loss diets aren't the answer

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is your opinion of fast weight-loss diets? My local hospital recently sponsored one: a fasting diet with no solid food for 12 weeks, at which time solids are progressively reintroduced for 13 weeks. My husband entered this program, weighing in at 340 pounds. He lost 20 pounds in two weeks and is no longer required to take insulin for his diabetes. Nonetheless, I remain concerned about such drastic dieting.

DEAR READER: At the risk of antagonizing the many disciples of fast weight-loss programs, I am going on record as opposing this practice.

Unquestionably, most of these plans are effective in getting people to lose weight. But the regimens are so restrictive that dieters cannot stick with them. Therefore, after several weeks during which patients shed unwanted pounds, push comes to shove: They have to get back to eating normal food.

Because their weight losses depended on the strict diet, they seldom learned effective and proper techniques for maintaining their slimmed-down figures. Studies have documented that more than 90 percent of fast weight-losers eventually gain back most, if not all, of the weight they lost.

Also, research has shown that repeated cycles of weight-loss/weight-gain are unhealthful and may lead to elevated blood cholesterol levels and heart disease. Statistically, it's healthier to remain somewhat stout (no more than 10 percent above ideal weight) than to engage in hopelessly repetitive efforts to lose weight.

I'm glad that your husband enjoyed initial success; I hope he can continue to keep his weight under control without a formal and expensive program. As you've discovered, obese diabetics can often reduce or eliminate medicine once they begin to lose weight — and keep it off. This is because the amount of insulin or anti-diabetes medication is directly related to the quantity and composition of food that is eaten. With less intake, there is less requirement for insulin and other drugs. The long-term risks of the lose/gain cycle for diabetics are more serious, because this pattern makes it harder for doctors to make appropriate adjustments in medications.

I'd feel more comfortable if your husband — and others like him — were to choose a reasonable diet in which he felt confidant, and which he could permanently follow without feeling deprived of a satisfactory oral intake. To that end, I suggest that he consult with a registered dietician to learn specific methods that he could employ to address his diabetes in an effective manner. Or, if he wishes, he could try my simple and inexpensive "no flour, no sugar" diet, an easy method to lose weight and keep it off.

In addition to the positive feedback I regularly get from my own patients, I have received literally hundreds of letters from satisfied readers who successfully tried this diet, lost weight and acknowledged that they can stick with the diet indefinitely — until they reach their weight goal and then modify it to suit their own personal needs.

Therefore, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Losing Weight" that includes my no flour, no sugar diet. Let me know how your husband takes to it. Other readers can obtain their own copies by sending a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $2 to Newsletter, P.O. Box 167, Wickliffe, OH 44092. Be sure to mention the title.

Wanted man caught on 'Kiss Cam' arrested

CINCINNATI (AP) — A wanted man was arrested after his parole officer spotted him kissing his girlfriend in a live crowd shot displayed on the scoreboard at a Cincinnati Reds game.

David Horton and his parole officer attended the same May 7 game when the smooching couple were caught by the "Kiss Cam" at Great American Ball Park.

The parole officer and a police officer arrested Horton, 24, in his front-row seat.

"Out of all the coincidences, we had 20- or 30-thousand people at the ballpark and who do they put on the 'Kiss Cam'? And then, who is there but his parole officer?" said Richard Goldberg, Horton's attorney.

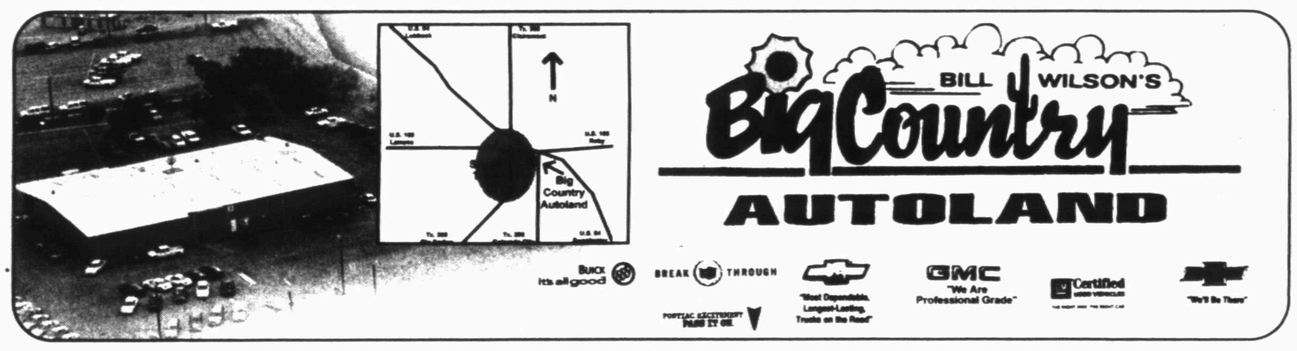

Horton, of Cincinnati, was convicted of felonious assault in 1999 for stabbing two men. He was granted release after serving two years of a four-year prison sentence.

Horton had been arrested March 27 and was indicted for trafficking and possession of cocaine. He is accused of failing to appear in court on those charges.

If convicted, he could face up to 18 years in prison.

Court revives 'Robin Hood' challenge

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court revived a challenge to a "Robin Hood" law that requires wealthier school districts to give money to poorer ones, sending a case back to a trial court.

The 8-1 decision Thursday overruled two lower courts, giving a partial victory to four property-rich school districts. The districts had wanted the high court to throw out the plan altogether, forcing state lawmakers to come up with a new plan immediately.

The plan, dubbed Robin Hood by critics, has survived several legal challenges since it was written in 1993 in an attempt to give all students an equal chance for a basic education.

The lawsuit argues that because state law caps how much school districts can collect, the plan essentially creates a state property tax, which is banned by the Texas Constitution.

Almost 40 percent of the districts are at the limit, $1.50 per $100 of value.

In oral arguments in March, attorneys for the state argued that not enough districts are at the limit to constitute a statewide property tax. The state also argued that the schools that are at the limit haven't proven that they had to be there to meet the basic education requirement.

Legislators are expected to meet in special session this fall to focus on the issue.

"In no form or fashion does that take the pressure off the Legislature to solve this crisis," said Rep. Kent Grusendorf, the Republican who chairs the House public education committee.

Several districts called Thursday's ruling good news, and said the issue is not one of rich vs. poor but of adequacy.

"All we're doing is arguing with each other how we slice the pie. We should be arguing if the pie is big enough," said David Webb, chief financial officer for La Porte Independent School District, which filed the suit with West Orange-Cove Consolidated, Port Neches-Groves and Coppell school districts.

Bush says Mideast countries cut off aid to terrorists

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush says Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Jordan must cut off financial aid to terrorist groups and help insure the security of Israel to foster the creation of a Palestinian state in a Middle East peace agreement.

Trying to isolate longtime Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, Bush said he has come to realize that "it was impossible to achieve peace with Chairman Arafat. He's failed the Palestinian people in the past."

Bush will hold twin Mideast summits next week, one with Prime Minister Ariel Sharon of Israel and Mahmoud Abbas, the new Palestinian prime minister, and the other with the leaders of Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Egypt as well as Abbas. The meetings will come after Bush visits Poland and Russia and stops in France for an abbreviated appearance at the annual summit of industrialized democracies.

The Mideast trip marks Bush's deepest involvement in Israeli-Palestinian peacemaking. He said he wanted to meet with Mideast leaders because "I am intent upon working toward a two-state solution in the Middle East — two states, Israel and Palestine, living side-by-side in peace. In other words, I want them to look me in the eye so they can see that I am determined to work to make this happen."

He made his comments in a series of interviews conducted Thursday and released today as he flew to Poland.

Aboard Air Force One today, Secretary of State Colin Powell played down expectations for Bush's meeting with Sharon and Abbas.

"Let's not look for the 56-yard pass right away or the 54-yard field goal," Powell said. "We have to get this started. The tensions are great and the mistrust is high."

At the same time, Powell said that Arafat "still has standing with the Palestinian people." But, Powell said, the fact that Abbas has met with Sharon indicates the Palestinian prime minister "does have authority to act, and he is not beholden to Mr. Arafat's instructions."

"I take this as encouraging," Powell said.

Bush said he would tell Mideast leaders that the United States needs help to achieve peace. "And we need countries like Egypt and Saudi Arabia and Jordan and others to work together to cut off funding for terrorist groups, to prevent the killers from moving around, to help provide security."

As a Palestinian state emerges, Arab nations will have to support Abbas with development aid as well as advice, the president said

Foam loosens seal on shuttle wing mock-up, may be culprit

CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — In what could be a breakthrough in the Columbia accident inquiry, foam shot at a fiberglass mock-up of a space shuttle wing knocked loose a seal — the same type of piece that investigators believe was damaged during liftoff.

"We're not drawing any conclusions," said Air Force Lt. Col. Woody Woodyard, a spokesman for the Columbia Accident Investigation Board. "We've got to analyze the data and evaluate all the data before we can draw any conclusions."

But he described Thursday's result as "significant."

The Columbia Accident Investigation Board suspects a seal along the leading edge of Columbia's left wing was damaged when struck by a chunk of foam insulation that broke off the fuel tank during launch.

In the first and only shot of the day at Southwest Research Institute in San Antonio, a 1.67-pound piece of real space shuttle foam was fired at the fiberglass leading edge at 533 mph. The foam blasted through the 33-foot barrel of a nitrogen-pressurized gun toward pretend panel No. 6 on the leading edge, tilted at a 20-degree angle.

Upon impact, the adjacent seal lifted and pulled toward panel No. 7, leaving an opening about 22 inches long, Woodyard said. The width of the gap ranged from the thickness of a dime to more than a quarter-inch.

All the parts in the abbreviated leading edge were fiberglass and came from the never-launched shuttle prototype Enterprise, which is housed at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, Woodyard said. In highly anticipated testing in June, researchers plan to shoot foam at real carbon-composite wing pieces that actually flew in space.

Fiberglass is about 21/2 times more resilient than the carbon composite material that makes up real wing panels and seals, Woodyard said. That would suggest that a real panel or seal would have been even more damaged by a foam strike.

Thursday's result was within impact predictions, Woodyard said. Earlier this month, researchers in San Antonio fired foam at the silica-glass thermal tiles that cover much of the space shuttles, but little if any damage resulted — also no surprise.

Births

Felipe and Eliza Gutierrez of Snyder are parents of a daughter, Angelina Marie Gutierrez. She was born, weighing seven pounds, four ounces, at 7:49 p.m. on May 29 in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Paternal grandparents are Felipe and Mary Lou Gutierrez and maternal grandparents are Freddie and Amelia Hernandez. All are of Snyder.

Police searching unsolved cases for connections to killer suspect

JACKSON, La. (AP) — Investigators looking for a woman's body at a house once occupied by a man suspected in the serial killings of five women came up empty after digging up a driveway.

Sheriff Austin Daniel said police planned to examine two more concrete slabs today.

He said both sites were connected to serial killings suspect Derrick Todd Lee, but declined to elaborate. Lee once worked for a concrete company.

Authorities said Thursday they were looking for the body of Randi Mebruer, 28, who disappeared in 1998. A one-time neighbor of Lee's told investigators that the slab was poured in the middle of the night about the time Mebruer disappeared.

At that time of Mebruer's disappearance, Lee worked for a concrete company and stayed at the house with a girlfriend.

Investigators uncovered a 4-inch bone fragment from beneath the concrete slab Thursday, but it turned out to be an animal bone, authorities said.

Lee, 34, was arrested in Atlanta on Tuesday and was named as the suspect responsible for five murders in Baton Rouge and Lafayette. He is being held without bond.

Three arrested in Snyder

• Arrests

DPS troopers arrested Priscilla Hassell, 25, of 6509 22nd St., in Lubbock at 3:51 p.m. Thursday on Hwy. 84 just north of Snyder. She was charged with possession of a controlled substance and possession of marijuana.

Deputies arrested an 18-year-old male at 8:58 p.m. near the Northeast Community Center for driving with license suspended.

City officers arrested a 42-year-old male at 12:39 this morning for misdemeanor driving while intoxicated. He was taken into custody in the 2700 block of Avenue E.

• Mischief

Officers were called to Wes-T-Go at 9:54 p.m. Thursday as juveniles were throwing rocks at the business.

A person told officers at 2:52 p.m. that someone had thrown paintballs at a residence and vehicles in the 3400 block of Avenue V.

A woman called officers at 6 a.m. today to report her vehicle had been egged while parked in the 4000 block of Eastridge.

• Animal problems

At 8:32 a.m., the animal warden reported she had picked up about 20 dead rabbits that had been thrown in the area of 35th Street and Denison Ave.

A woman on County Rd. 267 said she had lost some sheep and goats.

Four hunting dogs were reported lost on Hwy. 84 near the Fuller Ranch.

• Music disturbances

Officers were called to the 100 block of Browning at 2:31 p.m. Thursday in reference to loud music. At 8:34 p.m., a complaint for loud music was received from the 2600 block of Avenue W. A similar complaint was made in the 2500 block of 26th Street at 8:55 p.m.

• Hay fire

A bale of hay was reported on fire on CR 4114.

Company G, 142nd Infantry
36th Infantry Division Scholarship

Matthew Stokes is the recipient of this annual scholarship awarded to the graduate of the Class of 2003 of Snyder High School. This award is given to the student that has demonstrated outstanding patriotism, citizenship, academic achievement and concern for family values and responsibilities.

This scholarship is dedicated to all the brave and gallant men of this combat infantry company of the Texas National Guard of World War II who were mobilized in the Army of the United States on 25 November 1940 in Snyder, Scurry County, Texas and to the more than 700 of their comrades who walked with them and wore the colors of the George Company during its long period of active military service.

The 36th Infantry Division, of which G Company was a part, was the first American Division to invade Hitler's Europia at Salerno, Italy on 9 September 1943. This division made two other assault landings at Anzio and Southern France.

The 36th "Texas" Division participated in seven European campaigns: Naples-Foggia, Anzio, Rome-Arno, Southern France, Rhineland, Ardennes-Alsace and Central Europe.

The 36th Division Suffered over 27,000 casualties, third highest of any World War II Division. This proud Division and its men were one of the most highly decorated combat units in the United States Army. This was the fighting 36th.

We, the children of that generation, want to express our sincere gratitude to those men and women who sacrificed during World War II in Europe, in the Pacific or at home to make certain our beautiful country remained free and strong.
