Father Wants To Contact Kidnaper

BULLETIN

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 29 — UP—The grief-shaken, sobbing millionaire father of his kidnaped six-year-old boy asked newsmen, photographers and television cameramen to leave his premises Tuesday "because we think they are trying to make contact."

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 29 —UP— Police stood in the shadows Tuesday awaiting the first move by the woman kidnaper of a brown-eyed six-year-old boy to contact the victim's millionaire father.

The kidnaper was a stockily-built, red-haired woman. She whisked Bobby Greenlease Jr., from an exclusive Catholic school Monday morning.

The father, Robert C. Greenlease, who made millions as an automobile dealer, had received no contact from his son's abductress by early Tuesday.

Police declined to discuss "ransom" possibilities. They remained in the background, although one closed door conference followed another at headquarters.

All available detectives were assigned to the case and then withdrew from the kidnap victim's house in respect for Chief Bernard Brannon's fears for the boy's safety.

The chief postponed for several hours informing the press, radio and television reporters of the kidnaping at the request of Bobby's shocked parents.

The Greenlease's English - type house was quiet through the hot night. Police if any, were in plain clothes. Inside, behind drawn blinds, were the Greenleases, their 12-year-old daughter, Virginia Sue,

Gas Firm Heads At City Session

Representatives of the Empire Southern Gas Company were on hand this morning for the weekly meeting of the Pampa City Commission to give detailed testimony on the concern's gathering system and pipe lines.

James A. Davis, Fort Worth, president; Erwin Thompson, local manager; and Jimmy Sells, accountant, began giving statistics on the company's operation shortly after 10 a.m. today and by 11:30 a.m. were still testifying.

A resolution passed by the city commission last week, giving company representatives 30 days to furnish data and statistics, was the reason for the representatives' appearance today. Empire has asked the commission to boost the present minimum rate of $1.50 to $2 with other increases along the line.

Only other items commissioners were able to discuss before the gas hearings came up were four bids for a new maintainer and possibility of acquiring a new fire department booster truck.

Even the reading of the minutes took a longer-than-usual time this morning, largely because of the wording of the gas resolution.

Davis did most of the talking for Empire and City Attorney Bob Gordon, most of the questioning for the commission. Complete with stenographer, microphone and tape recorder (for the aid of the stenographer), the public gas hearing went into many a detail, most of them concerned with the compay's two mail transmission lines (west and south) that serve the Pampa area.

Using a big map of the gas system, Davis pointed out and testified on the size and length of the gathering system and pipe lines; the date of installation (November, 1952); the volume of gas used; the difficulty of getting new pipe; right-of-ways; the means used to get maximum service in peak periods of use (the winter); others on the same gas lines; ownership of wells; and the history of the company.

Empire bought out from the old Texas Gas and Power Company and it was Sells who audited the books of the old company.

Concerns and their net bids for selling the city a new motor-grader (maintainer) were Tom Carpenter Equipment Co. ($10,673.33);

CALLS FOR COURAGE

Truman Denounces 'False Prophets'

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 —UP— Former President Harry S. Truman urged Americans Monday night to stand up against new "isolationists" who attempt to sow seeds of distrust and division at home and abroad.

Mr. Truman denounced such "false prophets" as threats to freedon in a speech accepting the annual Four Freedoms Award at a dinner attended by 1,400 persons at the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

"All across our country there are people at work, stirring up suspicion of the united nations, of our allies, of our own public servants, of our fellow citizens," he said. "All across our country there are zealots clamoring for somebody's head."

The former president said freedom could be preserved only by men who have the courage to "stand up to a bull, or to stand up for a whole community when it has been frightened into subjection."

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson presented Mr. Truman with the award given each year by the Four Freedoms Foundation to an individual fostering the freedoms set forth by the late President Roosevelt in 1941. They are freedom of speech, fredom of religion, freedom from want and freedom from fear.

Acheson said "no honor which can be conferred on Mr. Truman can equal the honor he has won for himself."

The former president in his speech made no mention of personalities and refrained from attack on the Eisenhower administration or the Republican party.

However, he denounced the "investigating frenzy" in Washington, "book burners," those who attack the United Nations because "it is full of foreigners," and those who would cut taxes "whether the danger is over or not."

GOV. EARL WARREN
. . . new Chief Justice?

Warren May Be Chief Justice

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 —UP— Responsible administration sources said Tuesday that President Eisenhower will announce selection of Gov. Earl Warren of California as chief justice of the United States at his news conference Wednesday.

These sources said there is a "slight" possibility the announcement will be delayed, but that there is no doubt in their minds the President has finally decided on Warren.

Mr. Eisenhower was represented as wanting to have a chief justice named, even by recess appointment, before the court convenes next Monday for the 1953-54 term.

Final Details Worked Out

Apparently final details of the Warren appointment were worked out Sunday in Sacramento, Calif., between the governor and Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr.

Brownell recommended to Mr. Eisenhower at a White House conference Monday that the nation's highest judicial post be given to Warren.

Warren would succeed Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson who died Sept. 8 of a heart attack.

Mr. Eisenhower will meet reporters Wednesday in his first regular news conference since July 29, shortly before he left for his six-weeks vacation in Colorado.

Announcement Expected

Administration figures in a position to know said confidently but privately that the chief executive would make the court announcement Wednesday morning.

POW Persuasions May Be Delayed

PANMUNJOM, Sept. 29—UP—Allied disapproval of India's handling of prisoners and wrangling between the UN and the Communists over "explanation" facilities threatened Tuesday to delay indefinitely the start of efforts by both sides to persuade prisoners to return home.

A United Nations spokesman made it clear the UN was only waiting for official delivery of the ground rules for the explanations before firing off a stiff protest to the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

An officer said the UN would invoke the armistice agreement itself to prevent Indian troops from marching anti-Communist Chinese and North Korean prisoners "at gunpoint" to Red agents trying to lure them back to communism.

Printing Difficulties Blamed

Indian spokesmen already have announced it is mandatory for the prisoners to attend the explanations. They also must appear individually, despite Allied protests this would lead to intimidation.

The Indians announced release of the rules was delayed by printing difficulties, but promised delivery of the full text soon.

India's only reply to a UN charge Indian troops distributed letters containing Communist propaganda to the anti-Red prisoners was a complaint the letter of protest was released to the press before it was received by Lt. Gen. S. P. Thimmaya, chairman of the commission.

A UN spokesman promptly denied the Indian countercharge and said release of the letter was delayed several hours until the UN received notification of its delivery.

Facilities Criticized

Both the UN and the Communists, meanwhile, voiced dissatisfaction with facilities provided by the opposite side for the explanations, threatening further delay of the already postponed talks. The starting date is scheduled for Thursday.

The communists demanded 28 more tents in addition to the 16 already constructed by U. S. engineers in the demilitarized zone. They apparently were concerned over the task of giving explanations to 22,500 prisoners in 85 days, the present alloted time resulting from a five-day delay.

The United Nations rejected the nine huts provided by the Communists for the interviews with 335 South Koreans, 23 Americans and one Briton. The UN said the huts, each only 9 by 15 feet, were too small.

USSR Offers To Negotiate German Peace

PARIS, Sept. 29—UP—The Soviet Union has offered to negotiate a German settlement with the western allies in a Big Four conference if they will join Russia and Communist China in a Big Five roundtable discussion of all other problems, it was disclosed Tuesday.

A Soviet note to this effect, delivered to the diplomatic envoys of the United States, France and Great Britain in Moscow Monday, constituted a rejection of the allied bid for a Big Four conference of foreign ministers on Germany and Austria in Lugano, Switzerland, Oct. 15, the French foreign office said.

Russia's action was interpreted here as an attempt to profit by differences among the western allies, with Great Britain demanding a broad-scale Big Four conference and the United States opposing one at this time.

Russia's note was sent in reply to an allied note of Sept. 2.

Authoritative French sources said the highlights of the Soviet note are:

1. Russia flatly, if indirectly, rejects the western invitation to the Lugano meeting.

2. The Soviet Union wants Red China present at a five-power round-table talk on all issues which "contribute to world tension" except those of Germany and Austria.

3. There would be a four-power meeting on Germany alone, but Russia did not suggest a time or place for such a meeting.

Lawmen Say Little Vice In Pampa

There is very little vice in Pampa, according to statements made by local law enforcement officers today.

Meanwhile, the sheriff's office reported that three women were arrested at two small hotels. Each of the women entered pleas of guilty to charges of vagrancy and were ordered by Justice of the Peace J. V. Andrews to pay $50 fines and court costs. They were given "floaters" out of town.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan, in a statement, said that these three were the only prostitutes in Gray county, "as far as I know."

"There is very little vice in Pampa and Gray county," the sheriff stated. "There won't be any more prostitutes in Pampa. I am assigning one man to make a daily check of hotels to see that there will be no more prostitution here."

He said that if any prostitutes are found in any hotel here, the hotel will be closed by writ of injunction, provided the courts "cooperate with us, and I am sure they will."

He pointed out that his office and the city's police department are cooperating in the drive to keep down vice in Pampa.

Chief of Police Jim Conner agreed with Jordan that there is very little vice here.

"I think Pampa is a pretty clean town in that respect, compared to other towns of similar size," he said. "However, there will always be a little vice in any city, no matter how strict the laws are, or how diligent the police are in enforcing the law."

Increases H-Bombers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 —UP— The Air Force's hydrogen bomber — the B-52 Stratofort — is slated for expanded production.

A top-level decision to equip the Strategic Air Command with greater than previously planned numbers of the long-range, high-speed aircraft was announced Monday.

Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott said the Air Force will open a new production line at the Boeing Airplane Company's Wichita, Kans., plant, increase total numbers to be built and raise planned monthly production rates by 25 to 40 per cent. B-52s now are on production at Seattle, Wash., the first units scheduled to roll out in 1954.

By coincidence, Talbott made his announcement shortly after Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said at the White House that Russia is making "lots of progress" with atomic and hydrogen weapons development. He said America's overriding problem is to "develop the strongest position for our country" within available money and manpower limits.

TULSA, Sept. 29—UP—The Tulsa Douglas aircraft plant may be used to build B-47 medium jet bombers originally scheduled to be constructed in Wichita as a result of a stepped-up building program of B-52 atomic bombers.

Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott announced Monday the Wichita Boeing plant will become a secondary supply for the new B-52 heavy jet bombers. The B-47 program at the Wichita plant may be shifted in part to the Douglas plant at Tulsa and the Lockheed plant at Marietta, Ga.

However, Talbott and Assistant

CAA Inspecting Plane Wreckage

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 29—UP —Investigators of the Civil Aeronautics Administration Tuesday inspected the burned wreckage of an Army-chartered plane which crashed at Standiford Field, killing 22 persons and injuring 19.

The two-engined C-46, operated by Resort Airlines, stalled several hundred feet from the ground as it came in for a landing and dived nose first into a soy bean patch. With a crew of three, it was ferrying 38 soldiers from Camp Kilmer, N. J., to Fort Knox, Ky.

The injured were in critical or serious condition, suffering burns, broken bones, head or internal injuries.

The dead crew members were the pilot, Capt. Whorton Moller, 33, and the co-pilot, John Dewitt Pickel, 31, both of San Antonio. Stewardess Dorothy Jean Bush of Miami, Fla., was injured critically.

Witnesses said, just before the plane touched down, the pilot apparently seemed to sense something was wrong and pulled up sharply. When the plane hit the field, both engines caught fire, but the flames were quickly extinguished by airport emergency crews.

The forward section of the plane and the left wing were smashed into fragments. The rest of the fuselage remained fairly intact, but was twisted and pierced with holes.

One of the first to reach the wreck was Marion Hopper, an American Airlines employe.

"I've seen plane wrecks before, but this was the worst," Hopper said. "The plane was afire when I arrived, and at least 15 or 20 persons were either lying dead or moaning pitifully."

Lt. Col. Henry Stiebel, Ft. Knox transportation officer, said the soldiers were en route to Ft. Knox for processing — either discharge from the service or reassignment.

The plane was one of five chartered by the Army for the 140-man troop movement. One already had landed and the others were sent to nearby fields.

Air Force Refutes Theory On Saucers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 —UP— The Air Force still insisted Tuesday that "flying saucers" are weather freaks despite a retired Marine officer's attempt to prove they are space ships from another planet.

A spokesman said there was no change in Air Force's official view, although Donald E. Keyhoe, in a book "Flying Saucers from Outer Space," claimed the Air Force has secret movies proving the oft-seen glowing objects are interplanetery craft.

Both the Air Force and the weather bureau, after exhaustive studies, agreed many months ago that the fiery, fast-moving objects seen by observers from coast to coast were light effects caused by temperature "inversion."

Keyhoe, however, claimed he supports his interplanetary ship theory with official Air Force documents. A press release prepared by his publisher "revealed" what it said was a bitter struggle in high Air Force circles over whether to make the alleged pictures public.

Secrecy won, it said.

Pampans Visit WTSC Library

Four Pampans were expected to leave this morning for Canyon where they will take a long look at West Texas State's new library.

Purpose of the day-long jaunt will be to get ideas for the construction of the proposed new Pampa library, according to M. K. Brown, executor of the Fannie Lovett estate which is to furnish the money for the new city structure.

Accompanying Brown were to be C. P. Buckler and Dr. W. Purviance, estate executors; and B. R. Cantrell, local architect.

Gray Back On Drouth Aid List

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Sept. 29 —UP—Emergency drouth feed shipments were to be resumed to 38 Texas counties Tuesday, after the State Drouth Committee reviewed conditions in all counties of the stricken area.

Claude K. McCan, committee chairman said the latest move reinstates 38 of 104 counties suspended from the emergency program at the committee's last meeting Sept. 9.

He said the move was made necessary by unseasonably high temperatures, coupled with lack of rainfall. It brings to 86 the number of counties under the program.

Car-Train Crash Fatal To One

LAPORTE, Tex., Sept. 29 —UP —One man was killed and another critically injured early Tuesday when their automobile smacked into the side of a slow-moving freight train on a fog-dimmed grade crossing at the edge of Laporte.

Dead when sheriff's officers removed him from his battered vehicle was Edgar Early Fry, 29, of Laporte, the driver.

Engineer Of TRRC To Austin Meet

Engineer Fred Jacobs, armed with data on oil and gas ratios for the Quinduno Field, will take off Saturday for Austin and a meeting with Arthur Barbeck, chief engineer for the Texas Railroad Commission.

Called for the first of the week is a hearing at which the Panhandle's new wildcat field will be discussed, according to Jim McClintock, deputy supervisor for the regional office of the commission.

Jacobs will have a preliminary talk with Barbeck, McClintock said, and then will discuss the field with commissioners.

Producing about 5,000 barrels of oil per day, the new field has a top allowable of 93 barrels per day per well. Best end of the field, the supervisor continued, is the east end which has a low gas-oil ratio. The west end, with a higher gas-oil ratio, does not produce so much oil.

Jacobs is expected to return to Pampa Oct. 7.

Contacted early today, Jacobs told The News he does not know what will come up at the Austin session. "They (the TRRC) just told me to come down there."

He added, "And I won't be able to tell you anything when I get back."

Pampa Area Due Cooler Weather

Cooler weather was promised residents of the Pampa area today, but the forecaster warned that "real cool" weather could not be expected.

The forecast came on the heels of Monday's high wind that apparently did considerable damage to the wheat crop of the area.

The high temperature yesterday was reported at 93 degrees, with last night's low being 61. The temperature at 11 a.m. today was 82 degrees.

Temperatures should drop about 10 degrees below Monday's maximum, the forecaster said.

The first front, with very little push behind it, was due to hit here this afternoon, with the second front, coming from the northern Rookies, due to slide in behind the first one during the night.

The combined forces of the two fronts should be enough to snap the sizzling weather which has been breaking late-season heat records in many Texas cities, the U.S. Weather bureau said.

The high winds yesterday, with gusts reported up to 50 or 60 miles per hour, damaged the wheat crop more than anything else, Jim Strawn, Gray County soil conservationist, said. He added that the recently planted 1954 wheat doesn't stand much of a chance.

IN FORT WORTH DEATH

Suicide Verdict Returned

FORT WORTH, Sept. 29—UP— Justice of the Peace N. M. Nicholson returned a verdict of suicide in the death of John C. Whiting, a 44-year-old insurance man who was found shot to death Monday.

Whiting's father was a once-wealthy oil man who built the fabulous "Whiting Castle," a 16-bedroom mansion with turret-like appendages and oriental rugs on the floors of the larger rooms.

Whiting, shot in the head, was found in the home of two Carswell Air Force Base captains on a meandering road at Lake Worth. The house is on the property where "Whiting Castle" was located before it burned in 1950.

The two captains are L. W. Brockwell and R. M. Bieslot.

Brockwell said Whiting told him earlier that his second wife was divorcing him, and Nick Dear, a neighbor, said Whiting had seemed morose about the divorce.

Brockwell said he was the last man to leave Monday morning and thought he had locked the house. He said as he left he passed Whiting's house about 200 yards away and waved at Whiting.

Authorities said Whiting, wearing dark trousers and no shirt, held a cigaret with the fire out in his left hand. A .22 caliber pistol lay on his chest.

Whiting's first wife was Helen Whiting, a New York show girl who met Whiting during Billy Rose's Casa Manana show in Fort Worth in 1936 and 1937. They were divorced several years ago and both remarried.

Polio Chapter To Select Directors

Six new directors will be elected at a general membership meeting of the Gray County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which will be held Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the office of the Chamber of Commerce here, it was announced Monday afternoon by Dr. Douglas E. Nelson, chairman.

Five directors will be elected for three year terms and one will be chosen for two years to fill the unexpired term of the late Frank Leder.

A special nominating committee, headed by Mrs. Raymond Laycock will bring recommendations for approval at the meeting, he said.

The executive board also is expected to submit the name of a general drive chairman for the annual March of Dimes campaign, to be held next January, for approval at this meeting.

Those whose terms expire are Roy Taylor, Clifford Allison, Floyd Bull, Dr. Ed Williams and Mrs. Harold Rinehart.

'Peeping Tom' Reported Again

Pampa's "Peeping Tom" was back in business last night, according to a report received by police.

He was reported to have been at 407 Hill at 9:45 o'clock, Police Chief Conner said today.

Police have received several window peeping reports during the past month and a half. Chief Conner estimated there had been about 10 reports. All were believed to concern the same man.

Police investigated last night's report, but as in all of the other reports, the Peeping Tom had vanished.

Young Robbers Caught Today

FORT WORTH, Sept. 29—UP— Three Abilene teen-agers, who robbed a Weatherford filling station of $450 with a toy pistol, were captured in Fort Worth early Tuesday after a 90-mile-an-hour chase from Weatherford.

The trio, who said they stole their car in Abilene, were returned to Weatherford.

Hawk-Nosed Robber Sought

DALLAS, Sept. 29 —UP—Police renewed their search Friday for a hawk-nosed robber who specializes in parked couples after he struck for the third time Monday night.

His victim Monday night, however, was a 36-year-old safety engineer who was alone. The robber locked him in the trunk of his own car, just as he has done to parked couples twice in the last two weeks.

The latest victim was K. L. Clinton, who said the well-dressed hawk-nosed man stopped him as he left a restaurant, told him his car had broken down, and asked for a ride to a garage.

After they had driven off, the man pulled out a gun, told Clinton to stop, took his wallet (which was empty) and locked him in the trunk. Then he drove off with Clinton in the trunk.

Clinton said he heard the car stop about 15 minutes later and tried the trunk latch. He found it was sprung because the robber had slammed it so hard when he locked him in. He called police.

A man meeting the same description Sunday night apologized for "interrupting" a couple parked near White Rock Lake, took $2 from them at gunpoint and locked them both in the trunk.

The same thing occured last week to another couple parked in Oak Cliff. The robber got $5 from them.

Both couples escaped from the trunk by kicking out the rear seat.

Missing Publisher Sought By Police

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 29—UP —The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said Tuesday it has received a request to help search for Thomas Frank Stewart, 46-year-old publisher of the Bonham, Tex., Favorite.

Stewart has been missing from Bonham for two weeks. The patrol said the request for its aid came from L. E. Stewart of Atoka, Okla., a brother of the Bonham publisher.

Lubbock Traffic Program Praised

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 29—UP— Planning years in advance is the only way to solve today's complicated traffic snarls, according to Lynn H. Andrews, a traffic engineer from Lubbock, Tex.

Andrews, here for the four-day 24th annual meeting of the Institute of Traffic Engineers, said Lubbock has tripled in size in 13 years to 105,000 persons, but the city is five years ahead of traffic problems.

He told the 350 delegates to the conference that purchase of land in areas leading to the city aided in the plan. He added that modern highway design, including freeways without signals and an extra lane at intersections make Lubbock one of the outstanding traffic successes in the nation.

Home Nursing Courses Slated

A meeting for Pampa women interested in taking a home nursing course has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday in the Red Cross room in the basement of the First Methodist Church, according to Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, executive secretary.

The course will be taught by Mrs. Walter Noel, authorized Red Cross nursing instructor. This get-together, however, will be just for the purpose of registration and assignments.

Actual classes will get underway at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 7 in the same location, Mrs. Shotwell said.

"Those interested in Civil Defense are urged to take this course," the executive secretary said. "For, if one is trained to take care of the sick, she'd be of value to the community in time of emergency."

Anyone wishing to register for the course can contact Mrs. Shotwell at 707.

Red Cross Leaders Plan Austin Trip

Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, Pampa, and Mrs. Helen Bonninger, Borger, American Red Cross executive secretaries, plan to leave the Panhandle Oct. 8 for Austin and a meeting with the executive secretaries of all communities participating this year in federated fund drives.

Actually, Mrs. Shotwell said today, it will be a meeting Oct. 9 of the Red Cross Board of Governors, W. W. Overton Jr., Dallas, national Red Cross fund-raising chairman for 1954, will be in charge of the get-together.

Red Cross representatives from six states Texas, Louisiana, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Mississippi will be on hand, Pampa's executive secretary pointed out.

A one-day affair, it will be the first meeting of its kind ever held, she continued. Pampa's Red Cross chapter is one of eight participating agencies in this year's Pampa United Fund drive, slated for the latter part of October.

There will be no separate fund-raising campaign for the Red Cross in Pampa, Mrs. Shotwell emphasized, adding that there will be a campaign in any outlying community not covered by the United Fund drive. Warren Hasse will lead that part of the Red Cross drive.

Many friends called during the evening. Two physicians hurried into the house during the night. They departed without comment.

The tall, kindly, distinguished-looking father appeared briefly on the stoop at the front of the house. He fought back tears as he talked to clusters of friends.

Greenlease, a punctual man, took Bobby to school Monday at the French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion. He left the house precisely at 8:43 a. m., as he always does. He dropped Virginia Sue at her school, Sunset Hill, and then delivered Bobby at 8:57.

Bobby's kidnaper moved easily and surely. She hailed a taxi and told her story to the nuns. She said she was Bobby's aunt and the boy's mother had suffered a heart attack.

She even stopped to pray for Mrs. Greenlease in the chapel, at a nun's suggestion. She said: "I'm not a Catholic, but it did me good to pray."

Then she left with Bobby in the taxi. They went a few blocks to the parking lot of a large drug-store. There they walked to a light blue, late model Ford, the cab-driver said. The car had a Kansas license.

Bobby is 38 to 40 inches tall, weighs 53 pounds, has brown hair, brown eyes, and a lower front tooth missing. His kidnaper was described as about five-feet four-inches tall, weighing 135 pounds and wearing a dark skirt, white blouse and dark hat. Her hair was described as "reddish."

During the summer, more than 200 college students are added to the staff, working under direction of the permanent members. The past summer, Miss Shuman has worked in on of the permanent national camps at Fort Lupton, Colo., where 1400 registered persons and probably 600 more who were not registered, were housed in tents, shelters, and cinderblock buildings.

There the five staff members taught classes in English, classes in sewing for women and woodworking for men; conducted a Friendship School, which is similar to our own Vacation Bible Schools; taught children crafts and games; and provided various forms of recreation, such as movies and boxing.

Next week, Miss Shuman will return to Arizona, where she worked last winter, to minister to the more than 30,000 people in the 400 independent camps in that area.

No. 2 G-Man Not Known To The Public

BY JAMES F. DONOVAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 —UP— Ask any American schoolboy to name the head of the FBI, and he'll snap out the answer quickly: J. Edgar Hoover.

But ask the same schoolboy or even Washington's know-it-alls to name the No. 2 G-man, and chances are they won't know. The man in question likes it that way.

He is Clyde A. Tolson, 53, Missouri-born bachelor who has been Hoover's top aide for years. Since 1947, he has borne the title of associate director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Although a constant companion of his famous boss, Tolson has deliberately managed to avoid publicity and public notice. Retiring and reserved by nature, he prefers to remain in the background.

Yet he is one of the busiest men in the government. As the FBI's top executive officer, he supervises the day-to-day nation-wide activities of the G-men and serves as chairman of the FBI executives conference which submits major policy recommendations for Hoover's personal consideration.

A Former Clerk

Tolson first entered the government service as a war department clerk in 1918—three years after he was graduated from Laredo (Mo.) high school. Two years later, he was made confidential secretary to the secretary of war. He served as confidential secretary to secretaries Newton D. Baker, John W. Weeks and Dwight F. Davis for eight years while attending George Washington University at night.

While in Law school, Tolson met Hoover who had been appointed FBI director only a few years previously. Each impressed the other. Their mutual respect decided Tolson's fate. In 1928, he became an FBI special agent.

He first was assigned to the FBI's Boston office, then was transferred to Washington headquarters where he was promoted to inspector in 1929 and to assistant FBI director in 1930.

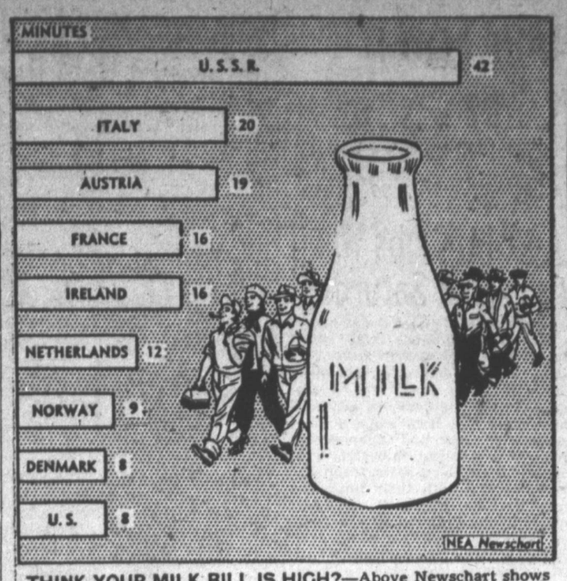

Hoover soon began to assign Tolson to accompany him on special missions. Tolson was at Hoover's side when the FBI chief personally arrested the notorious Alvin Karpis at New Orleans in May, 1936.

Rounded Up Kidnappers

Tolson also accompanied Hoover on his arrest of some of the most dangerous kidnappers and bankrobbers of the 1930's, including Harry Campbell; John Henry Seadlund, the kidnapper of Charles S. Ross of Chicago; and bank robber Harry Brunette.

Tolson was made the assistant to Hoover in 1938. In 1942 he and Hoover supervised the FBI's roundup of Roger Touhy and his gang, the notorious Detroit kidnappers who escaped from an Illinois penitentiary.

Four years later, Tolson was named the FBI's associate director — a title unique in the FBI's history. To that post, his associates say, he has brought a photographic memory, sound judgment and the ability to go directly to the heart of a problem.

Scientists Reveal Data On New 'Battle Of Toothpastes'

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 —UP— Here is the scientific low-down, direct from the horse's mouth, on the new "battle of the toothpastes."

They're your teeth the battle is raging around, and you'll want to know what there is to "enzymes" making your teeth decay faster and to "anti-enzymes" knocking those "enzymes" for a loop.

The horse's mouth is the highly reputable Journal of Dental Research which is the organ of the International Association for Dental Research. A scientific report published in its August issue was the tee-off point for all the enzymes-anti-enzymes hullabaloo.

Four scientists of Northwestern University, Chicago, wrote the report which was about their efforts to find a way of preventing "dental caries." This is the most common disease of humans and causes the cavities that dentists spend much of their time filling.

They began on the generally believed (but not proven) theory that acids eat into teeth and create "caries" or cavities. These acids are made when microorganisms always present in the mouth attack carbohydrates such as starches and sugar which lodge around the teeth.

Coating Contains Enzymes

Now, teeth have a coating which the layman calls "film" and the dentist calls 'plaque." Its hard to take off, and when its taken off it forms again almost at once. The Northwestern scientists described this film as a "sponge" which holds the ingredients of tooth decay in contact with the tooth where they can do the most harm.

One ingredient is carbohydrates, particulars sugars. Another are the micro-organisms which attack them and, in "breaking" them down, make acids. But there is believed to be a third ingredient, an enzyme or enzymes. An enzyme is a chemical substance which speeds up chemical actions — in this case, the manufacture of acids inside the film or "plaque."

So the scientists began looking for an anti-enzyme — one that would enter hte plaque, couldn't be washed off by saliva, and wouldn't do any harm except to acid-speeding enzymes. There are many "anti-enzymes" — plain water, for example — but they don't stick on teeth.

They tested 381 chemical compounds and settled on two—sodium dehycroacetate and sodium n-lauroyl sarcosinate. The first was then tried out on 92 humans; the second on 256 humans. At the same time they got 292 humans to use a tooth paste which cleaned but could to nothing else.

Tested For Nine Months

Their subjects brushed their teeth morning and night with the three kinds of tooth paste for nine months. Forty-four per cent of those who used cleansing tooth paste only were in the "safe area," at the end of that time, the others in the "questionable" or "dangerous" areas. Of the 92 who used the sodium dehycroacetate, 89 per cent either were in the safe or the questionable category. Of the 256 who used sodium n-lauroyl sarcosinate, the safe and the questionable amounted to 95 per cent of the total.

The question now is what to make of these results. The scientists, Drs. L. S. Fosdick, J. C. Calandra, R. Q. Blackwell, and J. B. Burrill said that "no accurate estimates concerning the effects of these compounds on clinical caries (the cavities which the dentist finds) can be made."

They added that the dividing line of acidity - alkalinity was not proven. They hedged themselves with other "if's"—especially the "assumption" that "acid on the tooth surface is the immediate cause of dental caries." They indicated that they weren't going to commit themselves definitely until after their now-nine-month tests have run for two years.

Glittering Las Vegas Thinks Gambling Boom Will Continue

BY ALINE MOSBY

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 29—UP—Wall Street worries about recession, but the world's most fabulous gambling resort booms ahead with plans for two more multi-million dollar hotels.

Though trade may be off around the country, this land of cactus and dice isn't worried that any minor depression will slow down the slot machines and roulette wheels.

Business here is two and one-half times over last year, when seven million visitors spent $122 million in the town.

Now two more gambling edifices have been licensed, the $2.5 million Surprise and the $3.5 million Casablanca, each with the inevitable swimming pool, lavish casino rooms, bars, restaurants and supper clubs for big-name floor shows.

The Casablanca will tower eight or 10 stories, the first tall hostelry in town. Both hotels will be built on the "strip," a stretch of country wasteland on the highway outside the town.

This desert land, useless for anything but gambling, already has been bought up for 40 miles out of Las Vegas, all the way to the California line. The asking price is from $1,000 to $1,250 a front foot.

Two million - dollar shopping centers of smart stores will be sandwiched among the sprawling hotels and 24-hour-a-day wedding chapels.

Even the existing seven hotels on the neon-crazy strip are expanding. The Flamingo is putting up a new million dollar front with a huge lighted silo-shaped structure to light up the desert. The El Rancho Vegas, Last Frontier, Desert Inn, Thunderbird and Sands talk about new rooms. The Sahara claims its expansion to more than 200 rooms will make it the largest hotel in town.

Some Los Angeles sources predict a recession would leave Las Vegas the most expensive ghost town in history. But you don't hear one pessimistic comment here.

Sands Casino Boss Ed Levinson points out not even Monte Carlo, New York or Miami Beach can offer what Las Vegas has — swank but inexpensive rooms, swimming, gambling in plushy casinos where you get free liquor and cigarettes, and free entertainment by big-name stars.

Even Opera singers like Lauritz Melchior and movie queens such as Shelley Winters and Marlene Dietrich are flocking to perform for big money at the hotels.

Mayor C. D. Baker predicts this town of 35,965 will soar to 100,000 by 1959. Two years ago the count was 24,624.

And an executive at the Sahara sighs, "Recession? Our biggest headache is not annoying the people we have to turn down. If you don't know somebody at the hotel or have connections, you can't even get a reservation. We've been sold out for New Year's for months.

Reduced Oil Runs Continue

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 —UP— Several oil companies Monday announced they would continue their reduced refinery runs of crude oil in October, in the face of the industry's record stocks in gasoline and other products this time of year.

Sinclair Refining Co. said it will maintain next month its cutback of refinery runs annouced for September. This slash amounts to 5 per cent, or 20,000 barrels per day, of crude runs to stills.

Phillips Petroleum Co. said it is scheduling a 3 per cent reduction in refinery runs for October. This cut is in addition to a similar reduction for September, bringing the total cutback to 16,000 barrels daily.

Gulf Oil Corp. said it expected to retain its present rate of refinery runs during the next month. Gulf cut back its crude runs to stills by 25,000 barrels a day in mid-July.

Ike Due To Be Shivers' Guest

Nichols Finds How To Take Stitch In Time

BY HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—UP—Having an ambition to learn how to stitch a hem, I went down to the Government Printing Office, where you can learn everything from how to shoe a horse to the "A B C's of Mending."

From a leaflet covering the latter subject, I learned a simple tear can make a garmet useless. That's what it said. "A well-done mend can make it look like new. Such is the magic of the art of mending," it added.

And what, the little 10-cent booklet asks, is a well-done mend? It may be a mere patch or a more intricate job of repair with a darning needle, etc.

Keep Mending Basket Handy

There is advice also to look into all garments that come ready-made. There might be a rip or a tear.

By all means, the government recommends, keep a mending basket handy. And here in the sixth paragraph I learned what a housewife or a bachelor keeps in a well-stocked mending basket.

Different sizes of fine and coarse needles, different sizes and colors of thread, darning cotton, pins, buttons, snaps, hooks and eyes, tape, bits of net, scraps of patching material, a stocking darner, a ruler and a tape measure.

Coast Guard Way Ahead

This is old-fashioned stuff. One department of our government, the Coast Guard, is way ahead in this darning business. It has found and is using a new-fangled darning machine, manufactured by Pfaff. It not only will darn sox, but it will put your initials on hankies and bed sheets.

Also it could drive you crazy. After a young lady demonstrated it to me at what is known as the parachute loft, I took it over in an attempt to do some initials work.

This new machine, she said, is doing the services a lot of good.

By A Leaguer

Recently the League of Women Voters completed work on booklet "Know Your Community" which will soon be sent to each home in which at least one poll tax has been paid. It is with a great deal of pride that we present this brochure. . .a great deal of time, effort and zeal have gone into the construction of this booklet which represents a great many unpaid woman hours.

To list a few of the division titles in this book, we find: History of Gray County and Pampa, What City Government Includes, How City Boards Work, Education, Health and Welfare, and last but far from least, The Citizen's Role in Government.

This booklet is very informative, particularly to newcomers to this area. This was issued by the Pampa League in the hope and belief that a more thorough knowledge of local government will help citizens to recognize their responsibility in their government.

Apathy under any type of government is nourishment on which the corrupt machine thrives.

Attend all meetings of your party and do not neglect to vote in all elections.

MATURE PARENT

I have finally been asked "That Question."

It's been asked by the mother of a 20-year-old boy who left home for his vacation job one morning and didn't return. Instead, he telephoned to say that he'd found himself a furnished room and was going to continue to work this fall rather than go back to college.

He said he could see no other answer to his parents' demand that he pursue academic training he doesn't want and asks their understanding and forgiveness. From the bed to which she's retired in nervous collapse, his mother cries out "That Question":

"Why did this happen to me?"

With all sympathy, may I suggest that it's happened to her because like countless other human beings, she is subject to disappointment? It's happened because none of us is given special insurance policies against the frustration of our wishes.

We can no more control the destiny of another person than we can control the seasons of growth and decay. So the fact that we can ask such a question is intimately related to our suffering. It implies that we are a human being who denies that he has human limitations.

It is, I expect, our refusal to accept these limitations that has put us to bed with nervous collapse.

For when we regard ourselves as a special brand of critter above the disappointments lesser mortals suffer, we don't make ourselves likely prospects for trust or confidence. Our assumption that we're entitled to special protection against frustration of our wishes makes it impossible for our grown son to say, "Mother, let's discuss my desire to go against your wishes." Rather than face explosion, he gives up hope of understanding—and leaves home.

It's been my experience that self-centeredness is always behind "That Question." Since we can't accept our boy's limitations until we accept our own, our attitude will continue to separate us from him unless we correct it.

So long as we insist on regarding ourselves as a unique victim of disappointment, we cannot possibly respond to his disappointment. How then, can we expect to help him think through his discouragement over college?

So let's stop raging at life for presuming to deny us a wish. We're not the Almighty ordaining the destinies of others. Let's get out of bed, make ourselves a bowl of hot soup—and ask our son to come over and tell us why his wish seems more important than ours.

If we listen with understanding and love, that's all the present moment requires of us.

The pointed toe is the important toe in women's shoe fashions for fall. This may or may not be accompanied by the new, slender heel.

Everybody likes those shortcuts that cut cooking to the vanishing point. But you can't always cook in a hurry, or you'll miss some of the greatest dishes of all time. When you feel like creating a labor of love in your kitchen, you'll value our recipe for Semi-Sweet Chocolate Meringue Mound.

It's a great dessert right from the authentic old Viennese tradition. To make this dessert, no less than three big, paper-light meringues are heaped with the most wonderful, rich,, semi-sweet chocolate filling, and perched one on top of the other. Then the chocolate filled meringues are capped by a third meringue for a crown. To serve, cut the delectable thing in small wedges from top to bottom. Too rich for big servings, you know.

Chocolate Morsels Flavor Filling

The secret of the filling's sumptuous flavor is simple. Just use a package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels that have the famous delicate, candy-like flavor. Semi-sweet Chocolate Meringue Mound is the kind of dessert that used to be served in Vienna with coffee topped by a wicked drift of whipped cream. That was in the days when there was time for everything.

It's goot to take time for some creative cooking when things have been too hectic for fun. So what if Semi-Sweet Chocolate Meringue Mound isn't a quickie. It's a classic, and that is more important. So when it's beauty, elegance, superb flavor you want, make a Meringue Mound. It will remind your family that you still have time to give them the best things in life.

SEMI - SWEET CHOCOLATE MERINGUE MOUND

Meringue:
4 egg whites
1 cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup nutmeats, finely chopped

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Add gradually sugar and salt and continue to beat until stiff and satiny. Fold in nutmeats. Spread on four 8-inch circles cut from brown paper. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 300 degrees F. for 30 minutes, or until crisp and lightly browned.

Filling:
1 package semi-sweet chocolate morsels
4 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups scalded milk
½ cup cold milk
¼ cup cornstarch
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt the semi-sweet chocolate over hot, not boiling water. Beat the egg yolks until thick. Add the sugar and salt gradually and beat until very thick and lemon colored. Add the scalded milk slowly. Cook, stirring, over hot water until mixture coats a metal spoon, approximately 5 minutes. Add the melted chocolate. Blend the cold milk and cornstarch. Add slowly, stirring to the chocolate mixture. Cook over hot water until thickened, approximately 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Add vanilla, and mix well. Let cool. Spread over three cooled meringue rings. Place one ring above the other, topping with a plain meringue. Chill 2 hours. Cut in wedges. YIELD: 8 servings.

Beauty Editor Gives Tips For Mature Smartness

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The woman past 40 has many angles to consider to keep herself well-groomed and young looking. One angle that some are inclined to neglect is the back-view.

Such neglect not only indicates careless grooming, but also that the years are making inroads. Absent-mindedness, you know, is supposed to be a sure sign of oncoming age. And no woman has a right to feel old in middle-age.

If you haven't been in the habit of constantly checking your back-view, it might be a good idea to make a check list and tack it alongside your floor-length mirror.

You want to be certain that your hem is even, that stocking seams are straight, that your slip is hidden and that heels are not run-down. And how about your neck and hair lines? Does powder or dandruff ever cling to your shoulders? Is your hair always as smooth looking in the back as it is around your face?

It is also important to check the back-view when buying clothes. A dress that is becoming in front may not be behind. It may fit too tightly over the derriere, causing a ripple above the waistline. Or, the trimming that is fine in front may be too much in the back.

Take time to study the clothes from every angle. After all, that's one way that they will be seen on you.

Tourists Go To Okinawa

Truce Violation Charged

PANMUNJOM, Sept. 29 —UP— The Communists charged Tuesday a United Nations twin-engine military plane flew over Kaesong Monday in violation of the armistice agreement. The Reds charged a second violation by an Allied military aircraft which they said flew beyond the military demarcation line south of Kanjinhiyon.

Nutria Is Popular In Fashion World

By ELIABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 —UP— The life expectancy of coypu is shorter now. The little fellow is figuring prominently in the fashion world.

A coypu skin, bleached and clipped and combined with other coypu skins, makes a creamy beige fur coat that looks like blond beaver. Blonde-tone furs are the latest thing. Their popularity may help the sagging fur industry sell more coats.

Women have stopped buying furs in alarming numbers in recent years. The Associated Fur Manufacturers Association said its sales last year were only half what they were expected to be, and they're expected to drop again.

Try New Color Fox

Coypu fur, bettern known in this country as nutria, and other clipped, bleached furs such as opposum and fox, are the season's big hope to tempt women in spite of the federal luxury tax, which the industry blames for its doldrums.

Fox breeders even are experimenting with a new golden fox to replace the silver fox once so fashionable. Every shade from egg shell to amber is popular in the clipped furs.

Another new style in furs is a coat that looks like a dress. Flat furs like broadtail and persian lamb are styled like coat dresses. Maximilian has a black Russian broadtail fitted coat with built-in stiffening over the hipline to hold the skirt out in a bell shape. At the back a center panel of extra fullness is caught with a black velvet bow.

Buttons From Neck To Hem

Esther Dorothy designed a black Russian broadtail fitted coat that buttons from neck to hem with large, smoky pearl buttons. It can be turned around backwards and worn with a belt as a button-down-the-back dress.

Except for beige, color is less important than style in this year's furs. Slim, black wraparound coats in seal, persian lamb and broadtail are made to look as dressy as mink. Some of the black coats have round yokes of contrasting fur, such as an Alaskan seal coat with a broadtail yoke. Other round yokes are accented with an inset of black braid.

New Air Speed Test Run Slated

EL CENTRO, Calif., Sept. 29—UP—Navy Lt. Cmdr. James Verdin Tuesday readied his Delta-type Douglas F4D Skyray jet interceptor for an attempt at shattering his newly-established world speed record of 742.7 miles per hour.

Douglas officials said Tuesday's speed run would start when desert temperatures reached an anticipated peak of 96 degrees, at about 3 p. m. (cst) because each degree of temperature is worth an additional mile an hour. The temperature was 89 during Monday's flight.

The Navy test pilot set a new world mark Monday in four lightning passes over a three-kilometer course along the Salton Sea.

His best run was 748.5 miles per hour, but a lap of 734.6 brought down the average.

"We're going to try again Tuesday," Verdin said. "We want to have a clear record before the Britisher makes another attempt in the Supermarine jet."

Verdin referred to Cmdr. Mike Lithgow who was attempting to beat his unofficial world mark of 737.3 which he set last week in speed runs over the Libyan Desert.

The official record smashed by Verdin was 727.6, set earlier this year by Great Britain's Hawker Hunter jet.

Verdin's run was officially certified by Charles Logsdon, timer for the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. Logsdon explained Lithgow's Libyan attempt was only unofficial because it had not been accepted by the FAI.

However, he said if Lithgow's 737.3 mark is ultimately ruled official, the mark set by Verdin in the Skyray will not stand, even though it is 5.4 miles per hour better than the Britisher's.

Logsdon said FAI regulations require a new official speed mark to be at least one per cent higher than the old. Verdin's figure falls short of this.

WHITE HOUSE GOSSIP

Ike Enjoys Grandchildren While Son Hunts Housing

BY MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 —UP— Backstairs at the White House:

If Maj. John Eisenhower takes his time finding quarters for his family at Ft. Benning, Ga., it won't make the President and Mrs. Eisenhower unhappy.

While their son is house-hunting at his new Army station, the President and his wife are having a wonderful time with the three grandchildren, David, 5; Barbara Ann, 3; Susan, 1.

Mr. Eisenhower actually has been leaving his office early and racing to the White House to play with the kids. The children and their mother, Barbara, probably will be here another week.

A Secret Service agent is with the Eisenhower grandchildren constantly. While the agent is resident at Ft. Benning, he'll probably have time to complete courses in the Infantry, Artillery, and Paratrooper schools if he so desires.

What did the President do his first day back at the office after Denver? He went swimming in the White House pool.

The telephone number of the Western Union office at Lowry Air Force Base was classified by the Air Force as "restricted" security information when the President had his Summer White House offices on the base.

The President hopes he has heard the last of police sirens for a while. He got an earful in recent visits to Chicago and Boston. In both cases, his car was surrounded every time it moved by motorcycle men who kept their sirens blaring constantly.

In Boston, the police blew their sirens even in a mile-and-a-half tunnel, although there was no traffic impeding the President's progress.

Sirens are rarely used in Washington, much to the President's gratification. If Mr. Eisenhower is moving through a crowded part of the city, foot policemen are stationed at the busier intersections and cut off traffic as he approaches.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith of the Senate Labor committee went to the White House the other day for a very important conference with the President. One of the senator's assistants drove him, and waited in the White House lobby.

When the senator emerged from the President's office, the assistant walked toward him to tell him where the car was parked. Bill Simmons, the President's receptionist, leaped from his chair and rushed at the assistant.

"You," shouted Simmons, "get back there with the rest of the reporters."

Two Escapees Still At Large

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 29 —UP— Two of four prisoners who escaped from the McNeil Island federal penitentiary were still at large early Tuesday as authorities intensified a search for the missing men.

Four prisoners escaped Monday night from the water-rimmed penitentiary in Puget Sound about five miles southwest of here but two of them were quickly captured.

Still at large were John Edward Watson, 27, serving a five-year term for Post Office burglary and Earl E. Smith, 29, serving five years for auto theft.

Vincent N. Chesney was apprehended on a small raft late Monday night and another escapee, Edward M. Morden, serving four years for auto theft, was captured near the penitentiary's farm.

Warden Fred T. Wilkinson said the four escaped during school period but declined to give further details.

The penitentiary is surrounded by water with the closest land — Longbranch Peninsula — about a half-mile from the island's western edge. However, authorities doubted any of the men swam across Pitt Passage separating the island from the peninsula in the high tide and driving rain Monday night.

Koreans Prove Adaptable To Surroundings Of War, Peace

BY PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign Analyst

Back in the death - laden winter of 1950-51, Korean children skated on the frozen paddies while shells from the big guns whistled overhead.

It was a demonstration how these tough people — and to some extent, all humanity — could adopt themselves in time to almost any situation.

Now the Koreans live in a nightmarish half - world of neither peace nor war.

Koreans Are Adaptable

But the Koreans again are showing themselves adaptable.

United Press Correspondent Victor Kendrick reports from Seoul:

"Among the blackened ruins of bombed out buildings and along the cratered streets are appearing sure signs of peace — night clubs and civilian automobiles."

The job of rebuilding Korea will take years, Kendrick says, "but the first shoots of the new life already are sprouting like the rice that covers the fertile valley and is the backbone of the country's economy."

But the way will not be easy.

Six Million Homeless

The war made more than six million South Koreans homeless. Whole villages were flattened. It has been estimated that before South Korea can become self-supporting, it will need nearly $2 billion in aid. Some Some 400 million is needed at once.

The situation as it effects the South Korean civilian population is far different for the United Nations Eighth Army which still must face the possibility the war will resume with redoubled fury.

The war from June, 1950, to the truce signing in July, 1953, saw comparatively little air-to-air action except just below the Yalu River boundary with Manchuria.

Air Attack Feared

Now, the UN commanders believe, a surprise air attack might mark resumption of the hostilities.

To that end, anti-aircraft and radar warning crews are getting intensified training. Foot soldiers are working through problems of amphibious landings, patrol actions and every phase of warfare.

The Koreans, as with civilians everywhere, dream of peace. But the Eighth Army must be prepared for war.

DALLAS, Sept. 29—UP—The Oil Industry Information committee will sponsor Tuesday's meeting of more than 200 key representatives of the petroleum industry and allied businesses, for discussion of employe participation in a year-round public relations program.

Speakers will include J. L. Latimer, president of the Magnolia Petroleum Co.; George R. Bryant of Houston, vice president of the Texas Company and the committee chairman for Texas, and J. N. Beasley of Humble Oil and Refining Co., Houston.

Alaska has about six persons to each square mile of land.

Famous Undercover

HOUSTON, Sept. 29 —UP— Texas J. Foster, Houston policeman who became nationally famous as the result of undercover work in cracking narcotics traffic, has been reprimanded by superiors here as the result of off-duty speech making.

The reprimand, which is entered on the young officer's record, came from Inspector Carl Shuptrine.

Shuptrine said Foster failed to follow department procedure in arranging to make speeches and added the officer made "some nonfactual statements."

"And it is not the practice for accident investigators to talk on narcotics," Shuptrine said. "Officer Foster has not worked in the narcotics division for 18 months."

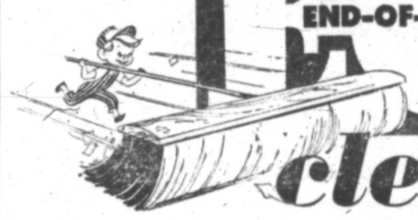

He was taken from that detail when his face became too familiar to dope peddlers and he was considered too "hot" for such work.

Worldwide Trade

"Will those foreign scoundrels buy from us as much as they sell?"

This question is most frequently put by those persons who have just begun to believe in free trade. They believe that it should be equal on all sides and that only financial equals can trade with one another.

If this were true we couldn't get our shoes shined by a poor shoe-shine boy until we had "raised the conditions of trade to equality."

But it isn't true. Egalitarianism, or equal income for all, goes contrary to nature, which endows some men with ten talents and others with but one.

But the question must be answered. Sometimes it is asked this way:

"What reason do we have to believe that English producers will buy from us, rather than some other country of the world, the goods they need?"

Or: "How can we be sure the amount of their imports will equal the amount of their exports?"

These questions were asked nearly a hundred years ago, at a time when England had abolished her tariffs and other nations still held theirs high. The protectionists said:

"England will be ruined. She buys everything the foreigners send in, and she pays no attention to whether or not the foreigners buy an equal amount from her. The foreigner will carry off English money and spend it somewhere else. How will England get her money back?"

Frederic Bastiat, who was instrumental in persuading England to abolish her tariffs, answered:

"I wonder how so many men who call themselves practical men should have all reasoned without reference to practice."

For in practice, as Bastiat pointed out, direct barter takes place very rarely. Never since the introduction of money has any farmer said:

"I want to buy shoes, hats, advice, lessons — but only from the shoemaker, the hat-maker, the lawyer, the teacher, who will purchase from me farm products of equivalent value."

Why should nations restrict themselves to deals of this kind?

Practically, you know how it works out. When a salesman sells you a vacuum cleaner you don't care whether the vacuum cleaner was made in Chicago or in your home town. Neither do you care whether the salesman takes your money and spends it in Honolulu.

You understand domestic free trade very well and you know that it's to your advantage to have the whole nation prosper, not just your home town. In fact, when you stop and think, you realize that your hometown (if it is at all dependent on tourists, or industries which sell products in other places) prospers when the rest of the nation prospers.

How does this work out on a worldwide basis? Here's a specific example:

A farmer produces wheat. He sends it to the world market and offers it to the highest bidder who may be a Chinese, an Indian, or South African, or fellow American. He receives in exchange — what? Money, which is just so many drafts or orders, varying in amount.

He can use this money to buy something he needs on the world market, from a Chinese, an Indian, South African or fellow American.

Ultimately, at the end of the operation he will have drawn out of the world market and brought back home exactly as much as he put in. His consumption will equal his production exactly.

The farmer doesn't care whether what he sends into the world market is purchased by a fellow American or by a foreigner. He doesn't care whether the money he receives comes from a Hottentot or a Patagonian. He doesn't care whether the things he buys were produced in Uganda or Tahiti. Under free trade there is always in each individual case an exact balance between what is poured into and what is drawn out of the great common reservoir.

We're Still Waiting

Will John and Jane Bull get their wedding present?

The suspense has been killing us ever since newspapers carried the story of an English town that wants to save money by giving newly-weds cash for a down-payment on a house.

Town fathers of Bootle, Lancashire, toted up the expense of keeping a couple in a public housing unit, and decided that helping them buy a home was a cheaper way out.

A gift of $420 to the couple would furnish them the down payment on a three bedroom house. On the other hand, the council noted, it costs the town $591 to subsidize and maintain a three bedroom public housing unit for the first year, plus another $70 that the central government throws in.

The town of Bootle would save $171 just in the first year, and would collect taxes on the house in years to come instead of shelling out for maintenance.

Private ownership, they discovered after years of experience with socialism, costs less than public ownership.

The catch, of course, is that permission of Britain's Ministry of Housing was needed before the plan could be set up.

That was several months ago — and the newspapers haven't printed a word about the decision.

"Our Founding Fathers And The Natural Law"

Since this column has always believed and has been preaching that it is necessary to live in harmony with natural and moral law, a pamphlet written by Clarence Manion on the subject of "The Founding Fathers and the Natural Law" was very interesting and enlightening to me. Unless people believe that there are natural and moral laws that they must live by if they want to live more abundantly and have peace and good will, we will continued to be in one war after another and eventually have a very low standard of living rather than an ever-increasing standard that we should have if we live in harmony with these great moral laws.

With this idea, I want to quote from this masterpiece.

Mr. Manion starts his article by saying:

"The term 'natural law' has always had a great variety of meanings. In one or more of its many senses it is acknowledged by every body. The procession of daylight and darkness through the four seasons of every year promulgates one kind of natural law, while the instinct of self-preservation in all living things tells of another kind. The most violent opponents of the natural law concept entertain, nevertheless, a healthy respect for the natural law of gravity and admit that for all practical purposes it is universal.

"There is no serious controversy about natural law until discussion reaches the point where the natural law becomes supernatural, the point, in other words, where natural law is described as the will of God perceived by His rational creatures. At this crucial point the fat of disagreement is definitely in the fire of unquartered argument.

"It must be admitted therefore, that in one sense or another, all of the Founding Fathers of the American Republic believed in natural law. Did this belief stop with the 'laws of nature' merely, or did it extend to an acknowledgment that natural law is a projection of the Eternal Law of God Himself? What was the natural law philosophy of the Founding Fathers, and to what extent did they write this philosophy into our American constitutional system?

"Predominatly the Founding Fathers were lawyers, trained in and devoted to the common law. 'So steeped were the eighteenth century colonial lawyers in Coke's teachings. . .that the controversial literature of the era of the (American) Revolution, if it is to be understood, must be read or interpreted by a common law lawyer.

"Familiar to all American lawyers of the Revolutionary period was Coke's report of Calvin's Case which goes directly to the point where the 'natural law' controversy is now most heated and contentious:

" 'The Law of nature was before any judicial or municipal law (and) is immutable. The law of nature is that which God at the time of creation of the nature of man infused into his heart for his preservation and direction; and this is the eternal law, the moral law, called also the law of nature. And by this law, written with the finger of God in the heart of man, were the people of God a long time governed before the law was written by Moses, who was the first reporter or writer of law in the world. . .God and nature is one to all and therefore the law of God and nature is one to all . . .This law of nature which indeed is the eternal law of the Creator, infused into the heart of the creature at the time of his creation, was two thousand years before any laws written and before any judicial or municipal laws. And certain it is that before judicial or municipal laws were made, kings did decide cases according to natural equity and were not tied to any rule or formality of law.'

"This is a fair digest of the theistic principle upon which all of our pre-Revolutionary legal education was based. The principle was even more compactly summarized by Coke himself when he quoted Bracton to buttress his historic argument with James I, 'The King is under God and the Law; Human government, in other words, is limited by the law of God. Coke properly regarded that maxim as controlling in his day just as Bracton had interpreted it to be controlling in the Middle Ages. This principle was the mainspring of what Coke welded into the common law of England.

"It was common lawyers, too, on this side of the ocean who did not doubt the new orthodoxy merely, but categorically challenged it on the authority of Calvin's Case. To this end they used Blackstone and to good effect and particularly the following:

" 'When the Supreme Being formed the universe and created matter out of nothing, he impressed certain principles upon that matter from which it can never depart and without which it would cease to be. . .Man considered as a creature must necessarily be subject to the laws of his Creator. . .It is necessary that he should in all points conform to his Maker's will. . .This will of his Maker is called the law of Nature. . .This law of Nature being coeval with mankind and dictated by God Himself, is superior in obligation to any other; no human laws are of any validity if contrary to this; and such of them as are valid derive all their force and all of their authority from this origin. . .Hence it follows that the first and primary end of human laws is to maintain these absolute (God-given) rights of individuals."

Social Security Payments Hit More Than Five Billion Yearly

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The nation's annual bill for supporting the needy aged and Social Security beneficiaries over 65 is approaching the astounding figure of $5 billion, despite the greatest period of prosperity in our history. This sum exceeds the amount of money required for running the federal government in Herbert Hoover's day.

Although no administration dares to permit the system to go broke, the current re-examination of its operations by a House Ways and Means Subcommittee, headed by Representative Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, suggests that it will need radical revision.

Payments by employees covered by the insurance may have to be boosted far higher than the 2 per cent effective next year, possibly to 4 or 5 per cent. Congress may eventually be forced to appropriate millions of dollars annually for the fund in order to keep it solvent.

SHOCKS FOR SOME — Although Curtis will not open public hearings on this problem until November, his able staff has almost completed its studies. And it is a certainty that their revelations will produce many shocks to those who boast, for partisan or economic reasons, that the Social Security financed guarantees what its name implies for those unable to work.

It should be noted that this is the first study ever made of the system since it was established in 1935 under conditions entirely different from those which exist today.

GREAT HAPPENINGS — "As an example of our difficulties," says Curtis, "what member of the 1935 Ways and Means Committee could have predicted that within 18 years the United States would have been plunged into two wars? That the atom and hydrogen bombs were even possibilities?

"That the budget expenditures of the federal government would have climbed from $8 billion in fiscal 1936 (when the act was signed) to more than $72 billion (officially estimated) for 1954?

"If these developments, the increasing expenditures of government, could not have been forecast 18 years ago, how can anyone be more certain of the future?"

UNFAVORABLE FIGURES—Staff comparisons of Social Security assets and liabilities for recent years reveal an increasingly disproportionate and unfavorable relationship between these two items.

In 1946, the year after the end of the second World War, Social Security receipts amounted to $1,448,000,000, and the payments to retired workers over 65 totaled only $378,000,000, or about one-fourth of the income. In 1952 with maximum employment, receipts came to $3.8 billion and payments to beneficiaries jumped to $2 billion, or more than one-half of the receipts.

But the 1953 figures are even more alarming. Payments into the insurance fund are estimated at $4 billion, which includes several hundred millions in interest turned over by the Treasury. But the expenditures are running at an average rate of $235,000,000 a month, which would make a yearly total of $2,820,000,000. In May, the outgo was $250,000,000, which will amount to an annual expenditure of $3 billion if continued, or three-fourths of Social Security income.

In addition, the annual bill for those receiving old-age assistance, which is financed by the federal government, states and cities, is nearing $2 billion. Thus the overall total is approximately $5 billion.

GAP BETWEEN RECEIPTS, PAYMENTS — The distressing factor, however, is that the gap between Social Security receipts and payments has narrowed in a period of unexampled prosperity, with an historical minimum of unemployment. It is believed that millions of men and women now over 65 are working in stores, factories and service trades. It will not be long before they will quit paying into the fund and begin to draw on it.

The original actuarial experts in 1934-35 have been proved terribly wrong. For 1940 they estimated that there would be 8,300,000 over 65, and the figure was more than 9,000,000. For 1950 they planned for only 10,800,000 over 65, but there were 12,200,000 in that category. They did not foresee the population growth, figuring it at 141,000,000 for 1950 as against an actual 151,000,000 then, and 160,000,000 now.

BID FOR A SMILE

The man of great financial prominence had met with an accident.

Doctor — We'll have to probe.

Just at that moment the man recovered consciousness and exclaimed:

Great Man — If it's a surgical operation, go ahead, but if it's another congressional investigation, give me an anesthetic.

Some people go to church three times during their lives—when they're hatched, matched and dispatched. (Contributed by Convict 70778, Michigan State Penitentiary, during his spare time.)

A farmer wished to insure his house and barns.

Insurance Man — What facilities have you for extinguishing a fire in your village?

The farmer pondered a little. Finally he answered,

Farmer — Well, sometimes it rains.

The American Way

RENEWAL OF FAITH

By DE WITT EMERY

It has been said many, many times by a great variety of people that what this country needs more than anything else is a spiritual revival. That is undoubtedly a true statement but what is a spiritual revival and how can I, or any other individual citizen, help bring it about? I'm not at all sure that I know the right answer, but, for what it may be worth, here is my thinking on this most important of all questions.

Such a revival must be based on renewed and greater Faith — Faith in God; Faith in our fellow man; Faith in ourselves; and Faith in our form of government, which guarantees every American the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness so long as he does not interfere with these same rights of any other American.

The best way I know of to get started down this road is to help your neighbor. Go out of your way if necessary to do something nice for your neighbor. If you do, then almost before you know it he'll do something for you and you'll be surprised how much these simple acts of kindly, friendly consideration do to build up your faith in your neighbor and his faith in you.

Then you and your neighbor can join hands in doing something for another neighbor and so on and on over an ever-widening circle; no one can foretell how far it will go. You'll find as you go along in this spirit of helping your neighbor that you are increasing your faith in God because in serving your fellow man you are also serving Him. He said, "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

You will find further that you are also building up your faith in our Republic, which is the only form of government in the world under which the individual has the absolute freedom to live his life in whatever way he chooses.

There are all sorts of by-products to this program, the most important being an increase in your self reliance. As you do more for your neighbor you will automatically do more for yourself. You'll be better able to stand on your own feet. You'll be less dependent on others and on your government. And nothing, "no, nothing" can be more important than this.

In the beginning, Americans were the most self reliant people the world had ever known. They had to be in order to survive; in order to conquer the wilderness and the Indians and later the Red Coats. They did these things because they had an irresistible desire to be free; to live their lives without interference from their own or any other government.

For many years the American people continued to be self reliant. Then for no good reason a change occurred. At first an almost imperceptible change, and self reliance was replaced with an ever-increasing degree of dependence on the government. Far too many Americans were bitten by the security bug. They became infected with the poison of something-for-nothing. Let George do it. Relax, don't worry, the government owes you a living, and more and more of the same.

Somehow we've got to get this country back to the basic principles of freedom and limited government on which it was founded. Our government must again be the servant rather than the master of the people. This cannot be done overnight or by Congress passing a law. If it's done at all, it's got to start in the hearts and minds of the people.

We've got to have the same abiding faith in and dependence on God which our forefathers had, rather than the present day dependence on government. We've got to, by our own efforts, take care of ourselves and our families and do what we can to help those who are unable to take care of themselves. Each of us in his own way must work out and provide for his own security, looking to government only for the protection of his life and property.

This won't be easy, but then it wasn't easy for the Pilgrims when they landed on that bleak Atlantic coast. They had very little besides their faith in God, a burning desire to be free and faith in their ability to take care of themselves under any and all circumstances. They came through. We can, too, if we've got what they had. Have we?

People Who Laugh At National Debt Know Little Of Economics

By THURMAN SENSING
Southern States Industrial Council
Nashville, Tennessee

Due to stiffening interest rates—a necessary part of the effort to stop inflation—the annual interest on the national debt will be running close to $7 billion by the end of the current fiscal year.

As dastardly a crime as it would be to bequeath to our children the $275 billion mortgage now existing on the nation, it could be done—and we see very little evidence indicating that it will not be done.

But we cannot pass this annual interest charge on to our children or even on to next year. Skip this interest payment just once—and see what happens!

Of course, we have been deluded and misled by false prophets with reference to our national debt for so long that we have reached the point we almost believe some of the fallacies about debt that they have promulgated among us.

Chief among these fallacies was the theory that "it makes no difference how much we owe so long as we owe it to ourselves." Many people, including socalled responsible economists, actually believe this. They could be no more wrong.

In the first place, of course, we don't owe it to ourselves; we owe it to each other. In the second place, if it were true, then there actually would be NO LIMIT to the amount of debt this nation could carry—and anybody with any common sense at all knows that is simply not so.

Another one of these "modern" fallacies promulgated among us was that "a large debt is a national blessing." To consider a debt as something to be paid, they said, was a relic of "the horse and buggy age." They devised a way of changing a debt into an asset by financing the deficit with government bonds—but that didn't keep the debt from piling up and the people from owing the money.

All we can say is, that if a large debt is a national blessing, we seem to be well on the road toward eternal bliss in this country! We wish we could believe it.

If there were actually no limit to the amount of debt the nation could carry, then we could imagine a debt of a size that would require an annual interest payment equalling the total national income. This, of course, reduces their argument to an absurdity. Because, again we say, that interest charge must be paid each year as it falls due—and where would the money come from?

It would be worth our while to consider for a moment where the money is coming from with which to pay our present annual interest of $7 billion. It is, of course, coming from the people—and the people live in the states, so it would be quite interesting to know just how much of this interest the people of each state are paying.

This amount can be quite fairly arrived at by prorating it out to the states on the same basis as they pay internal revenue in to the federal government. For instance, the State of Oklahoma pays 1 per cent of the total internal revenue paid by the 48 states of the Union. This means that the people of Oklahoma are paying $70 million each year as their share of the annual interest charge on the national debt. And the people of Oklahoma are going to keep on paying no less than this amount, year after year, until we start reducing the national debt.

Figured on the same basis—and it is a fair basis because each state's obligation as concerns the national debt would certainly be in the same proportion as it pays the annual interest on the debt—Oklahoma's share of the national debt is $2,750,000,000. Oklahoma's state debt, at the close of the fiscal year 1952, amounted to $1226,568,000. The people of Oklahoma may feel this is a rather sizeable debt—and it is comparatively—but it will be noted their state debt is less than five per cent of their share of the national debt. It will also be noted that the annual interest they pay on the national debt would pay off their state debt completely in about twenty months!

And yet there are those who would ignore the national debt as of no importance, or attempt to laugh it off and say "it makes no difference." As a matter of fact, the national debt—considering all its ramifications—is perhaps the most important problem facing the people of this nation at the present time.

LOOKING SIDEWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

I got up at 6:30 the other morning after getting to sleep at 3 a.m. and as a result of this less than noteworthy enterprise I feel much better about the future of our country. If this seems to be a baffling train of thought, hold on. It gets clearer as we travel north.

I got up at 6:30 because it takes me an hour to get out of the house, which meant 7:30 in that case, and it is another hour to New York, which meant 8:30, and I had a half hour trip to the pier at 46th Street and the Hudson River where our own great liner, the United States, lay waiting to be headed out for Europe at noon. I was going to say goodbye to my son for at least a year and possibly two years, and to accomplish that I would have been willing either to get up at 4:30 or stay up all night. He was departing for England on a Fulbright Scholarship.

He had a four-person cabin in Tourist Class, which is how the Fulbright youngsters are sent abroad, and between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m., when I had to leave the ship, I met 40-odd Fulbright men—young, intelligent, decent and concerned. I think it fair to add that they also were dedicated. They wanted the utmost that they could learn and they wanted to bring it back, go to work, contribute to their generation and, if possible, improve a beloved country. They waved no flags nor spoke in solemn, heavy tones. They didn't talk about love of country or obligation to country. They simply said that there was, unhappily, not enough time to learn all that had to be learned and make it valuable to their generation and times.

Some people in high places have criticized the Fulbright Scholarships. I do not in simplest honesty understand why. Having met almost half-a hundred of these young men I can only say I wish we had half a million of them. With them abroad as unofficial ambassadors, our stature in the world's eyes could only increase. With them coming back to share what they have learned, we could only have a better country.

One was going to England to complete his thesis on political economics. Another was going to perfect himself in bio-chemistry. Another was going to drown himself in architecture. One had a writing scholarship. Another a mathematics scholarship. By boy was going to do his doctorate work in English so he could teach at college level the subject he loves best and which has been an enthusiasm with him since he was eight years old. I sometimes like to think that my own love for this noble language rubbed off on him, but I can't truthfully claim it. He seemed to come upon this rich lode of speech by himself.

There was a boy from California, another from Texas, another from Indiana, and one from Wisconsin. And from three dozen other states, too, all eagerly looking forward to finishing the work they set out upon when they were six years old and first taken to school. Not one was supercilious, not one had any notions about England or Europe itself offering opportunities not available here. They simply felt that in a shrinking world one had to absorb as much of as many cultures as could be absorbed, the better to become a citizen in a perplexing and often dismaying world. They weren't sober-sides, peering dimly through thick glasses and clutching learned text books under their arms. They were free, healthy, bright American kids and of the 40-some I met not less than 42 were vocally wondering what the girl quotient would be aboard ship.

I left the ship unhappy to say goodbye but alight with a new kind of pride in a generation that is often pointed to as a horrible example of what not to be. I can't speak for the generation second-removed from me, but I can say that the young men I met, now in their early twenties, one generation removed, were as a group something for which pride was just and right.

I feel much better about what is ahead for our country.

U. S. Collects Part Of WWII Lend-Lease

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 —UP— President Eisenhower reported to Congress Monday that the United States has collected $429 million or approximately 1 per cent, of the $42 billion expended on World War II lend-lease.

As required by law, he submitted a formal 32-page report on lend-lease operations during the calendar year 1952. The only "operations" were a trickle of collections and continuing efforts to settle outstanding lend-lease accounts.

The principal one of these is Russia's $11 billion account. At a series of conferences last June, the United States agreed to accept 300 million as a cash settlement if Russia would also return 186 U. S. naval vessels it "borrowed" during the war. The talks, like many previous ones on the same subject, ended in deadlock when Russia refused to fix a date for returning the ships.

Black Tricorne Of Death May Vanish From British Courts

LONDON, Sept. 28 —UP— "Prisoner at the bar!"

The murderer stood up. He gripped the rail of the dock so hard his knuckles showed white.

From the austere isolation of the bench the judge crooked a finger.

An attendant stepped behind him holding a handkerchief-sized piece of black cloth. He folded it once—into a triangle and then draped it across the great curling wig that swept down to the judge's shoulders.

Tricorne Meant Death

That small tricorne of black meant death. The spectators gasped. The murderer—I could see the sweat thickly beading his brow—swayed as the even and cultured tones pronounced his doom:

". . . To be hanged by the neck until you are dead. . ."

So Nevil Heath, sadist - slayer, was sentenced to death in the oak-paneled No. 1 court of Old Bailey. So hundreds of murderers have heard their doom in the ceremony of the black cap—the most awesome ritual of criminal justice.

May Be Seen No More

And now this ceremony, the only touch of drama permitted in the restrained procedure by which British justice determines the guilt or innocence of a suspected slayer, may be seen no more.

The Royal Commission on Capital Punishment recommended, in a report last week, hte use of the black cap be left to the discretion of individual judges. This means it will be used only on rarest occasions, if at all.

Hollywood, which featured the ritual in so many films, and sensation-seekers who throng British murder trials, will be the losers. There was nothing quite like the black cap anywhere in the world outside the empire.

Not Really A Cap

The black cap is not really a cap. It is a part of the ceremonial equipment of a high court judge and is intended to represent the tricorne hat which he carries at state functions. To inflict a sentence of death, to emphasize that the state is taking the gravest step within its power, he wears full dress.

The black cloth is folded into a triangle with the ends hanging over the judge's ears rather than front to back as a tricorne would be worn—if it were possible to get the narrow-gauge headgear over a sheepskin wig.

British Laborites Open Convention

MARGATE, Eng., Sept. 28—UP —The British Labor party opened its 52nd annual conference Monday on a "hate America" theme drummed up by extreme leftwing socialists.

Some 1,266 delegates and party leaders gathered in the winter gardens of this coastal resort near the big American air base at Manston to approve the party platform, "Challenge to Britain." Among the party leaders were Former Prime Minister Clement Attle and his chief rival for party control, Aneurin Bevan.

The opening debate was on the "cold war." A moderately-worded section of the program called for Britain to share rearmament with her Allies as long as there is a threat of aggression. It called also for increased trade with Communist countries but within the limits of the cold war.

The labor program also called for re-nationalization of the steel and trucking industries, a return to a free national health service and development of commonwealth resources to make Britain more independent of dollar raw materials.

Special Stamp to be Prited

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 —UP— Postmaster General Arthur E Summerfield Monday announced a special printing of a three - cent stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of the trucking industry. The stamps will go on sale at Los Angeles Oct. 27.

YOUNGSTER STANDS PAT—Intrigued by a plateful of biscuits and the speech of Sir Gerald Templar, this young Chinese boy stands fast, despite commands of a Chinese official to "go away." This table-top diplomatic crisis happened as the High Commissioner for Malaya spoke at the official opening of the village of Sungei Nipah.

An Honor And Nuisance . . .

Presidential Visit Disrupts All Normal Routine At A Golf Club

By HENRY McLEMORE

Today's quiz will open with this question: What is the greatest honor, and, at the same time, the greatest nuisance, that can befall a golf club?

In case you are not sufficiently interested to bother your brains in the mink coat, trip to Pantagonia (for two), and gross of washing machines that go to the winner, the answer is — a visit by the President of the United States.

The President can disrupt the normal workings of a golf club more efficiently than a shovel of sand can a wrist watch. When he arrives for a game the club's standard procedure runs and buries itself in a sand trap, or jumps in a water hazard with only the tip of its nose showing.

World has reached me that though President Eisenhower's admiration for the Cherry Hills course in Denver while he was vacationing there filled the chests of the members with pride, it also filled their heads with the idea of voting the next time for a President who plays, say, solitaire, or whose favorite sport is exploring caves.

As I got it, when Ike sallied forth to seek the wily par and the even more elusive birdie, it called for more preparations than if Ringling Bros. had been given permission to put on their show in the ladies' locker room.

The course had to be cleared for four or five holes in front and behind his foursome for fear, I suppose, that some Democrat with a super slice or hook would fire away at him. No one was timorous enough to take a look through the golf bags of his retinue, but the word is that they were first cousins, at least, to the Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

One of the bags, it was reported, was large enough to carry a pilot and passenger and was capable of breaking through the sound barrier.

There was a radioman along at all times, too, and he was said to have been in constant touch with Washington and the U.S. Embassies throughout the world in case war broke out or Ike got a hole-in-one. Two of the clubhouse telephones were alleged to have been taken over by Secret Service men who, in case Ike started shaking the ball or stabbing his putts, could rush through calls to Ben Hogan and Bobby Jones (who were said to have been standing by) for corrective advice.

Cherry Hills members had to undergo a screening of sorts, I was told, and if they brought guests to lunch or to play a round, were told to be sure their guests were second generation Republicans, at least. One long time member — a former chairman of the greens committee, I believe — showed up wearing an Al Smith button, and was detained in the men's bar until the presidential party had settled their Nassau bets and departed.

All of this was none of Ike's doing, of course. But there is a widespread belief in this country that Presidents are valuable, and any thoughts that he might have had about going out and shooting a 95 like any other conscientious hacker got no consideration.

As I said earlier, Presidents of the United States make fine decorations, but they cnn be a bother. F. D. R., whose passions were stamp collecting and yachting, always showed up at the America's Cup races off Newport in the 1930's, either aboard Vincent Astor's Normahal or a naval vessel of some sort. And he got more right of way on the ocean than the competing yachts — almost as much as J. P. Morgan and his Corsair. Sometimes it looked as if F. D. R. and Morgan were trying to win the Cup from Sopwith and Vanderbilt.

Hoover was a considerate President along these lines. His sport was medicine ball, and a man can play that without causing much commotion. Come to think of it, I can't name more than half a dozen country clubs devoted solely to medicine ball in this country.

No Bicycle, Though

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29— Patrolmen John Duffy and Paul Shoe pulled over to the curb Monday when they saw a cane-twirling man on a street corner dressed like a perfect gentleman except for the absence of trousers.

"Where are your pants?" Duffy asked.

"In the cleaners," the unidentified man replied "I'm waiting for them and I'm not dressed any different than a six-day bicycle rider."

Until 1926, Albania had no money of its own, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN? — Apparently President Eisenhower wants Wayne E. Richards to repeat a statement as the newly elected commander-in-chief of the VFW visits the Chief Executive at the White House. Richards asked President Eisenhower to make "an immediate and thorough review" of the number of Air Force wings needed to safeguard the nation.

Formosa Observes Confucius Birthday

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sept. 29—UP —Nationalist China Monday paid homage to Confucius with traditional pomp.

The Orient's greatest sage was born 2,504 years ago Monday, and his birthday is a national holiday on Formosa.

About 50,000 Taipeh residents jammed Confucius temple to observe the solemn ceremony, complete with ancient dances and chanting. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, a Christian himself, praised Confucius as a saint, stage and learned scholar.

But 180 miles away, on the Chinese mainland, the Communists have condemned Confucius' ideas as feudalistic and anti-revolutionary.

Gloomy Picture Painted For Quarterback Clubbers On Friday Night's PHS Foe

FROM ALL REPORTS, THE Fighting Harvesters are going to have their hands full this coming Friday night.

Fans who saw Paschal, the Friday night PHS foe, against Amarillo Fridat night, came away from the game with a lot of admiration for the caliber of the Paschal team.

It's generally conceded that Paschal was very "unlucky" in its game with the Sandies. When you get one of the most ardent Sandie supporters, Putt Powell, to admit that the Sandies were lucky to beat Paschal, then you know that Paschal will be anything but a pushover for the Green and Golders.

Orville Lewis, who has picked up the nickname of "Cryer Lewis," painted a pretty gloomy picture for the Quarterback Clubbers last night in the club's weekly confab.

Lewis, along with Deck Woldt, scouted Paschal against Amarillo last Friday night.

"Paschal has a big team and has a fast backfield," Lewis said. "To point out how unlucky they were against Amarillo, they fumbled twice inside the Sandie 10, once inside the 20 and one of their ends dropped a perfect pass in the clear on the Sandie five," Lewis added.

"I guess we'll have to play 'em since they are on the schedule," Lewis concluded weepingly.

COACH TOM TIPPS OF THE Harvesters, in his address to the Quarterbackers last night, said he was a little confused over the reaction of some of the fans after last Friday night's game against Big Spring.

"When I was talking to some Big Springers after the game, they were all happy," Tipps said, "but when I got with some Harvester fans they jumped all over me. For awhile I forgot what team I was coaching," Tipps went on.

"It seems some of the fans here aren't satisfied unless the Harvesters run the opposition off the field," Tipps said. "We just don't have that kind of a ball club. In fact, I'll settle with a one-point win or even a penetration on most of our remaining games," the Harvester mentor added.

Friday night's game was the case of one team being up for a game and the other not. Big Spring principal was on hand for the game here Friday and he told several high school officials and fans here that Big Spring coach Carl Coleman didn't have his boys up for the San Angelo game as he waited for the Pampa game to get his charges fired up. They really wanted to defeat the Harvesters. And they caused some uneasy moments for the Green and Golders to say the least.

Coach Tipps and his assistants, Aubra Nooncaster and Dwaine Lyon, sent the Harvesters through possibly their roughest workout of the season yesterday.

Tipps told the Quarterbackers last night "we may not be ready physically for Paschal Friday night but we will be mentally."

For you Pampa fans planning to go to Fort Worth for the Paschal game, you will have to obtain your tickets down there as no tickets are being sent here. You won't have to worry, though, about getting a ticket. The game will be played at Farrington Field which seats around 20,000 and, of course, there'll be room for anyone wanting to attend.

3 Harvesters Pass 100 Yard Rushing Mark

Three Harvester backs have gained 100 yards or more from scrimmage through the first two games, according to the Daily News figures.

Ed Dudley tops the rushers with 186 net yards gained. Dudley has picked up 200 yards and lost 14 in the rushing department. Following Dudley in rushing is Harold Lewis with 139 net yards and John Darby with an even 100 net yards.

J. N. Wright, PHS quarterback, is the passing leader with seven completions in 17 attempts for 225 yards. Three of Wright's tosses went for touchdowns.

Dudley, in addition to leading in rushing, tops the Green and Golders in pass receiving with two catches for 96 yards; in punting with an average of 43.7 on eight kicks; and in scoring with 21 points.

Darby is second in scoring with 18 points followed by Lewis with 12.

Hurlers Named For 1st Two WS Games

BY LEO H. PETERSEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—UP—Chuck Dressen appeared ready to call on a secret weapon Tuesday in his bid to bring the Brooklyn Dodgers their first world championship.

His ace in the hole against the drive of Casey Stengel's New York Yankees for an unprecedented fifth consecutive Series championship was a young left-hander whose 21st birthday falls Wednesday—the day the series begins.

His name is Johnny Podres, and he doesn't figure in the Dodger plans for the first two games. For they will send Carl Erskine, 20-game winner, against Allie Reynolds, the Yankees' money pitcher, in the first game with crafty southpaws Preacher Roe and Ed Lopat dueling in the second.

Third Game Is Key

But the key—when teams have split the first two games— usually has been the third contest and that is the one in which the Dodger manager, who is fond of gambling when the chips are down, hopes to come in with his "sleeper"—Podres.

Johnny, a young fellow as baseball age is measured, hasn't been much of a "pheenom" this season, although his record shows nine victories against four defeats. Dressen brought him along slowly, picking his spots and the young southpaw measured up. Besides, he was particularly effective against the Yankees in spring exhibition games and in the annual city series game between the clubs in mid-season.

But as a secret weapon, Podres figured only in the event the Dodgers, one of baseball's greatest wrecking crews, could come out of the Yankee Stadium with an even break in the first two games.

Back to Shotton Philosophy

"Certainly I'm thinking about Podres as a starter," Dressen said. "He's a definite possibility. But you don't know what goes on in the mind of a 21-year-old."

Dressen obviously was going back to the philosophy of old Burt Shotton, who, when he managed the Dodgers to their 1949 pennant and faced the Yankees in the series, refused to name his pitchers for each game on the grounds it might worry them. But Shotton, like Dressen is expected to do, always came up with the pitchers who figured to start the games.

Stengel revealed he changed his series pitching plans when his ace southpaw, 18-game winner Whitey Ford, foundered in Boston against the Red Sox.

Stengel said he first planned to start Ford and Lopat against the Dodgers at the Stadium where the fences are much longer than at Ebbets Field.

"But when Ford took his lumps at Boston, I had to change my mind," he said. "I had hoped, because he was young, that I could open with him at the Stadium, figuring I could use him to start two games — if the Series goes that long. For he is young and strong.

Doesn't Under-estimate Dodgers

"Now I thought maybe I could save Reynolds for the bullpen and maybe in one start," Stengel continued. "Well, the way it is now, I have to count on Reynolds to start two, if the Series goes that long, and maybe I'll have to call on him in relief, too. But instead of backing up my pitching with Reynolds, I now have to lead off with him."

As for the Dodgers, Stengel had these observations:

"I do not under-estimate the Dodgers. They're smart. They execute the play. There are six guys in the lineup who not only can hit the ball out of the park but also can beat out bunts on you.

"And talking about bunts—how about Roy Campanella? I'll never forget last year when he beat out a bunt at Ebbets Field with Lopat pitching. That's what I mean about the Dodgers, they hurt you with a short ball as well as with a long ball."

Rough Slate For SWC 11s

By UNITED PRESS

Southwest Conference football teams, some of them idle last Saturday, looked Tuesday to a round of inter-sectional play and one conference opener this weekend.

The Rice Owls probably will have the most uncertain game. The Owls play Cornell in Ithaca, N. Y., and a unique "gentleman's agreement" between the two schools prevented them from scouting each other's team.

Because of the distances involved, the two coaches agree, instead, to exchange films of some of their last year's games. And it may prove sufficient inasmuch as both are relying heavily on last year's lettermen for their punch.

The Owls eased off after a week-long series of rough workouts and stressed mostly passing offense and defense Monday. They were idle last week.

The University of Texas Longhorns breezed through a light workout after watching movies of their 41-12 conquest of Villanova Saturday. They meet the University of Houston this weekend.

Jimmy Carter Wins By TKO

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 29—UP—Lightweight champion Jimmy Carter's crown shone brighter Tuesday as the result of his technical knockout victory over Ben Miloud of North Africa.

Carter, whose fistic reputation was tarnished by a defeat at the hands of an obscure club fighter three weeks ago, had little trouble in handling Miloud in an over-the-weight bout before 2,500 fans Tuesday night. Referee Erne Sesto stopped the fight at the end of the eighth round.

Transfer Of Browns Nears A Reality

BY CARL LUNDQUIST

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—UP—The St. Louis Browns at long last seemed certain Tuesday to be moved from the home they have occupied for more than a half century—to Baltimore.

President Will Harridge of the American League said "the time has come for us to make a decision and we are getting closer to a solution. I think by nightfall we will have a new home for the Browns."

"Baltimore is the only city that has made us a concrete offer," he continued. "Los Angeles did not. With Los Angeles, it is a long-range proposition but we do not want to hang on this way for another two or three years."

Baltimore Offers $2,400,000

The Baltimore group, headed by attorney Clarence Miles and backed by such civic interests as Mayor Thomas D'Allesandro and his entire council, again offered to purchase the Brownie stock at a price of $2,400,000.

The American League club owners, weary of their "no decision bouts" with Bill Veeck, president of the Browns, appear to be ready to do an about face and accept Baltimore instead of Los Angeles and its group of supporters headed by Del Webb, vice president of the New York Yankees.

"I think the major accomplishment in our meeting Monday night was the decision that the league will not consider St. Louis in 1954," Harridge said. "That is the most concrete development from our evening which was well spent. The Los Angeles people did not offer us any such concrete proposal as did Baltimore.

Veeck Has No Comment

"My feeling was that they merely came on in a friendship gesture to let us know that we could go there in the near future," he continued.

Veeck had no comment to make other than that he felt a solution was near.

"Maybe I have said too much already," he said.

Webb still felt, however, he might be able to block the transfer to Baltimore and switch the Browns' franchise to the Pacific Coast.

"The Baltimore switch is certainly not a sure thing," Webb said. "We can go west as well as east and it makes a little more sense. You know how I feel."

McLean, under new coach Hap Rogers, blasted Claude 45-7 at McLean Friday night for its third victory. Meanwhile, Clarendon opened up in the second half to smother the Pampa B team Guerillas at Clarendon, 32-6. But the two leaders had one honor smashed, that of having their goal lines crossed for the first time this season.

Don Rutherford returned a kick-off 90 yards for Claude's TD against McLean while Russell Morrow raced 53 yards to score for the Guerillas against Clarendon.

While McLean and Clarendon remained undefeated, Canadian's Wildcats were meeting defeat for the first time. The Wildcats dropped a 26-25 thriller to the Perryton Rangers of 1-AA. It was the first Canadian loss in three starts.

The poll, sponsored by the Dallas Morning News, gave Lamar 81 points to lead the top ten again this week.

Lopez Inks New Tribe Contract

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—UP—Manager Al Lopez, signed to a new two-year contract, listed three "basic requirements" Tuesday if the Cleveland Indians are to overtake the New York Yankees in 1954.

"We'll never catch 'em until we get a right fielder, a first baseman and a relief pitcher," Lopez said.

General Manager Hank Greenberg praised Lopez as "the best manager in baseball" when he announced the two-year pact and said "at no time did we consider not renewing Al's contract." The terms of the contract were not revealed but it was estimated Lopez will get $35,000 a year.

Vols Revive Hopes In Dixie Series

DALLAS, Sept. 29 —UP—Nashville had renewed hopes Tuesday of victory in the Dixie Series, as the Vols journeyed into "enemy" territory for final games of the series that Dallas leads 3 games to 2.

The Nashville Vols of the Southern Association stayed in the contest Monday night with a 8 to 6 victory in Nashville over Dallas of the Texas League. The teams traveled Monday and resume play Friday night in Dallas.

Nashville's home run hitters collected four big ones Monday night in what was strictly a hitters' contest. Each club collected 12 safeties as the Vols used three pitchers and the Dallas Eagles four.

After scoring once in the third inning to tie the game at 1-1, Nashville added another in the fourth and then unleashed its long ball hitters for a five-run fifth inning.

Home run hitters for Nashville were Harvey Gentry with one on base, Bob Lennon with one on, Bill Taylor and Slugger Novotney. Bob Bareford hit a bases-empty home run for Dallas.

Joe Kotrany, who was lifted in the fifth inning, was charged with the loss. Dick Libby, who was pulled in the sixth, was credited with the Nashville victory.

Irish Named No. 1 Team In Nation

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—UP—Notre Dame's impressive opening game performance against Oklahoma earned it the accolade as the nation's No. 1 college football team Tuesday in the first weekly ratings of the United Press Board of Coaches.

Michigan State, 1952 mythical national champion, was ranked second, UCLA third and Ohio State fourth in the ratings of the 35 leading coaches who comprise the United Press board.

The Fighting Irish, whose 28 to 21 victory over Oklahoma showed they have made an excellent adjustment to platoon-less football, received 25 first place votes and 325 out of a possible total of 350 points.

All 35 coaches listed Notre Dame among their top 10 choices, only one voter selecting them lower than fifth. In addition to the 25 first place votes, five coaches voted the Irish second, one third, two for fourth place, and one each for fifth and ninth.

Southern California, Maryland, Michigan, Oklahoma, Baylor and Georgia Tech rounded out the top 10 teams in that order. Southern California and Michigan each attracted one first place vote and was chosen for every place from first to 10th in the voting. Baylor was the only other team to receive a first place vote.

Mississippi State headed the second 10 teams with 66 points, followed by Duke, Louisiana State, Texas, Rice, Georgia, Mississippi, Army and Wisconsin. There was a three-team tie for 20th place among Holy Cross, Pennsylvania and William & Mary.

Churchill Intends To Stay In Office

LONDON, Sept. 29 —UP—Prime Minister Winston Churchill issued a special statement Monday asserting that he has carried on with his job ever since he became ill last June and indicateing that he intends to remain in office for the foreseeable future.

Churchill emphasized that he has never backed down from his call for a meeting of Big Four chiefs of state on world issues—a meeting which, he is known to feel, might crown his long career by lessening west-east tension.

Churchill's statement followed a demand made by labor leftist Aneurin Bevan Sunday night at Margate, demanding that if Churchill "is unable to do his duty, he should resign."

He's Wrong Again

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—UP—Police last week ordered Bruce Wormald, 20, a Columbus University student, to remove his 1936 automobile from Welfare Island in the East River where it stalled more than a year ago.

Wormald paid a visit to the island Sunday and attempted unsuccessfully to get the auto started. Finally, in desperation, he said, he and a friend pushed the car into the river —"to comply with police orders to get it off the island."

Police handed him a summons which charged:

"Dumping refuse into New York City waters in violation of the sanitary code."

Youngest Family

AMARILLO, Tex., Sept. 28—UP—James Owen Brooks, three years old and eldest of six children in the Jim Brooks family, looked on proudly Sunday as two of the younger ones celebrated birthdays.

Twins Ronnie and Donnie Brooks were one month old. There is another set of Brooks twins, Ike and Mike, who were a year and a month old Monday. Sarah Mae Brooks is two and James Owen three.

Mrs. Brooks, who is only 21, married when she was 17.

Salesman Dies in Car Crash

DALLAS, Sept. 28 —UP—John a. Brown, 48, a salesman, was killed Sunday when he lost control of his car and it crashed into an embankment on Belt Line Road. Brown was a salesman for Investors Syndicate.

Self-Made 'Diamond Jim' Has Mink Ties, Big Diamond Array

BY HARMAN W. NICHOLS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 29—UP—When you walk into a certain Italian eatin' house here you are greeted by James Brocato. He smiles at you through eye-glasses that are studded with diamonds around the rims.

Jim now goes by the name of "Diamond Jim Moran." He is the only man I ever knew who wears diamond-studded shoe-strings and has a diamond zipper in his pants.

There was a rumor that at one time he was the body guard for Huey Long.

"That ain't true," he told me. "Me and Hooey were kinda second brudders. No kin. That was a rumor that wasn't right."

Jimmy had a rough time getting through the second grade and finally decided it wasn't worth while to complete the circuit.

Tried Professional Boxing

He first took a flier at professional boxing and didn't do too bad there. He licked a few in the flyweight field and eventually became a heavyweight. He didn't attract much attention until he went into the restaurant business and made a fortune out of meatballs.

When you walk into his fancy joint in the old French section of New Orleans you will find him wearing $210,000 worth of diamonds The front of his shirt, as well as the front of his britches are covered with gems.

Every button on his shirt-front is a diamond. There is a diamond on the back of his wallet, which is full of long green. He will duck under the bar in his place and come up with a set of diamond-decked store teeth.

"I do not wear these teeth," he said, "Except in front of company. I am no show off."

Jimmy can remember every face he ever saw, but no names. To him all men are "Cap," or "Cuz" except vips, who are "Mister Sir."

All the gals are "Honey," "Sugah," or "Dahling."

Dresses The Part

The 217-pound hunk of man dresses the part, too. He wouldn't be caught at the morgue in a suit that cost less than $200—of which he has over 100. His shirts run up to $40 each and over and he has some 700 of these, all with his name hem-stitched across the front. His pride and joy, though, are mink ties which cost him a pretty several dollars.

"No other human bein'," he said, "has as many mink ties as me."

He has them in every shade, including platinum.

He has 124 pairs of monogrammed sox, which cost almost $90 a pair. And for his balding head he has 86 hats.

Jimmy didn't like the kind of cologne he bought in the stores. So he invented his own.

"I just couldn't find what I needed for my personality. So I took three kinds and mixed them with a dash bourbon. Refined, eh?"

NEXT CHIEF JUSTICE?—Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson has been mentioned as the new Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, succeeding the late Fred M. Vinson. The 61-year-old judge has been a member of the high tribunal since 1941. In 1945, he was named to represent the U. S. in negotiating with the Big Three concerning trials of the Axis war criminals.

Briton Back Sans Romance With Princess

BY ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON, Sept. 29 —UP— London's knowledgable west end claimed Monday that RAF Group Captain Peter Townsend had at least one date while he was in the country recently, and that the girl was very pretty.

She was not Princess Margaret.

A friend of the royal family cited the report Monday as further evidence that the romance between the handsome war hero and the little princess no longer is a threat to Queen Elizabeth's peace of mind.

But he added that the situation still is being watched with interest—if no longer with anxiety—by palace quarters.

Townsend, who came over from Brussels for a conference of air attaches and a short holiday, slipped out of the country quietly some days ago to return to his post.

According to well - informed circles, he did not communicate with Princess Margaret even by telephone while he was here and did not speak to any other member of the royal family.

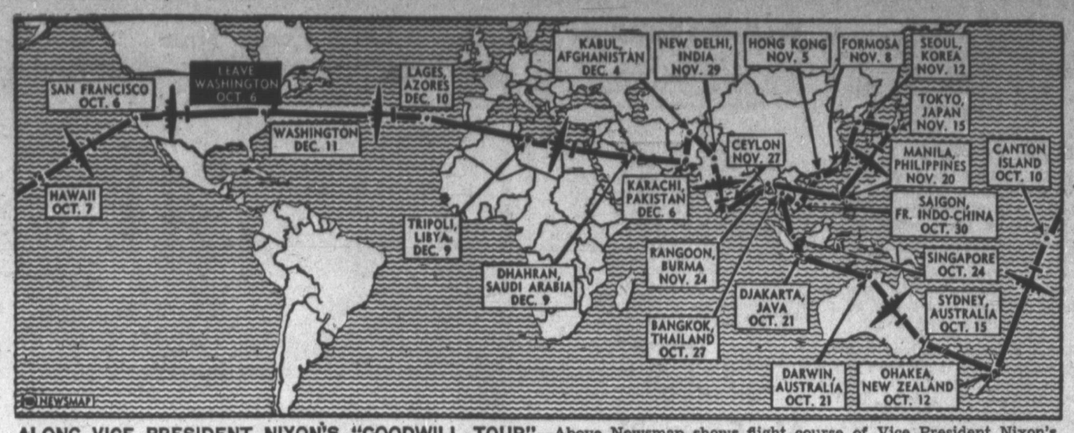

He is scrupulously observing a promise these circles believe he made, to do nothing that would raise another flurry of world speculation.

For the same reason, Queen Elizabeth probably scrapped a reported intention to summon Townsend to Balmoral during his visit and discuss his future with him. It is widely believed in court circles that he will some day be recalled to the royal service.

Townsend is reported to have had this assurance when he resigned as deputy master of the Queen's household to become air attache in the British embassy in Brussels, after the princess' affection for him became public property.

Lodge Report Denied

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 29—UP—The American delegation to the United Nations dismissed as "ridiculous" Monday a newspaper report that delegation chief Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., was set to succeed either Secretary of State John Foster Dulles or presidential assistant Sherman Adams.

Herter, Jr.; a State Department official; a military aide and a secretary.

Murder Defendants Face Life Terms

CANYON, Tex., Sept. 29—UP—Earl George Robertson, 19, and Joseph Paul Lucas, 20, who entered pleas of guilty, faced life prison terms Tuesday for the murder of taxi driver Harry Gibbs last Jan. 8 in Amarillo, Tex.

It was the second murder conviction for each man. Lucas, of Tamaqua, Pa., earlier was given 99 years and Robertson, of Floydada, Tex., a life term for the robbery-slaying of Victor Smith, Amarillo service station attendant.

The trial came as a surprise move Monday. Ih had been scheduled to begin Wednesday with a special venire of 305 summoned.

However, Assistant District Attorney A. W. Lair presented the Gibbs murder case to a petit jury that had been called to hear a robbery case. He said he considered it better to accept a guilty plea with recommendations of two life prison terms. The two men offered to accept that penalty.

Lucas was an AWOL airman from Amarillo Air Force Base when arrested and charged with the two slayings and assaults on two other taxi drivers.

The assistant district attorney told the venire he was willing to accept as jurors the first 12 men who would agree with the life term recommendation. The veniremen answered "yes" or "no" as the roll was called, and 17 answered "no" before 12 were found who would agree with the life term verdict.

The jury was chosen and sworn in within five minutes, two witnesses testified and the case went to the jury in 30 minutes. The defense waived closing arguments.

Witnesses were Dr. Harvey Jackson, who performed the autopsy on Gibbs, and Deputy Sheriff Bob Wilson of Randall county.

The jury retired at 1:15 p.m. and returned its verdict at 3:50 p.m.

Bad Bidding Shows At Bridge Tourney

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Let me make it clear, to begin with, that I don't think highly of the way the bidding went in the have opened the bidding and hand shown today. North shouldn't shouldn't have bid a new suit at his second turn.

But I don't blame South for getting himself into six no-trump. The hand was being played in a pair tournament (specifically, the Master Pair Championship, held a few weeks ago in St. Louis) and North's strong bidding made it appear that nothing less than six no-trump would earn a good score.

Why West chose to open the king of clubs will probably remain a mystery forever. Such a lead was almost sure to cost a trick, and West had a very safe lead in the form of the ten of spades. The only explanation I can think of is that West decided that silly bidding deserved an equally silly opening lead.

At this point the monkey business ended and good bridge began. The South player happened to be Sonny Moyse, editor of the Bridge World, who proceeded to demonstrate that he knows a coup from a coop.

Sonny won the opening lead with the ace of clubs and promptly returned the ten of clubs. West took the second trick with the queen of clubs. When East discarded the seven of hearts, however, West visibly brightened and shifted to the eight of hearts.

Being an alert gent, Moyse saw what was going on and therefore refused the heart finesse. Instead, he put up the ace of hearts, cashed dummy's good clubs (discarding a low heart from his hand), and got to his hand with the ace of diamonds in order to run the spades.

Fortunately for declarer, the spades broke, and he could run all five of them, discarding four hearts and a diamond from the dummy. East could save only two cards, and one of them had to be the king of hearts. Hence East had to blank his queen of diamonds—a conclusion he came to after long and painful thought.

Once again Sonny saw what was going on, so he led the diamond from his hand to dummy's king, dropping East's blank queen. Dummy's jack of diamonds then furnished the twelfth trick for a very well-earned top score.

Haymes' Plea Turned Down

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29 —UP—Federal Judge Ernest A. Tolin Tuesday considered a government motion to turn down crooner Dick Haymes' plea for a special "constitutional" court to hear his deportation case.

Haymes, a native of Argentina, wants the court to consider his argument that a trip to Hawaii to visit actress Rita Hayworth, now Mrs. Haymes, was all right under a century-old friendship treaty between the United States and his country.

The government, in its move to dismiss Haymes' plea, rejected the singer's contention he was being deprived of his rights.

The Los Angeles Daily News said Tuesday Dick Haymes is in debt some $180,000 and faces control of his income by a creditors' committee as an alternative to going bankrupt.

The News said creditors met Monday and selected a committee of three to guide the singer's financial path and to determine a personal allowance for him.

The paper said Haymes would make about $200,000 this year but indicated this amount would not enable him to clear his financial obstacles. It said a $55,000 tax bill was among Haymes' obligations.

Confidence Voiced In Natural Gas

HOUSTON, Sept. 29—UP—The natural gas industry was told Tuesday it must "stand on its own feet and carry its share of the exploratory and discovery budget" by a leading member of the oil and gas industry.

Speaking, at the annual convention of the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, L. F. McCollum said "natural gas has come of age."

"Since the industry has now reached maturity it must stand on its own feet and carry its share of the exploratory and discovery budget," the Continental Oil Co. president said.

He said there was an urgent need for natural gas producers to increase exploration and drilling activities aimed specifically at finding new gas fields.

But he said the price of natural gas must be maintained at a level that would provide an incentive for increased exploration and "a profit commensurate with the risks taken."

Sen. McCarthy Takes A Bride

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 —UP— Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy laid aside his bachelorhood Tuesday to marry beautiful Jean Kerr, a former office assistant who stood "beside me when things were darkest."

Two thousand guests, including many of Washington's highest officials, were invited to the ceremony before the gem-encrusted high altar of St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Among the dignitaries attending were Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Director Allen W. Dulles of the Central Intelligence Agency, and numerous senators and congressmen.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower received an invitation but could not attend. The White House said they were busy playing host to the President and First Lady of Panama.

The bride — 29, blue-eyed, and auburn-haired — has been McCarthy's "regular" date for the last five years. But the engagement, announced two weeks ago, came as a surprise.

Miss Kerr chose for the wedding a gown of candlelight satin and Chantilly lace, cut with a deep-shoulder neckline, empire bodice and cathedral train. Her fingertip length veil was arranged from Mary Queen of Scots lace headdress outlined in pearls and brilliants.

The Wisconsin Republican, who is 43, chose a cutaway, Ascot and striped trousers for the formal morning wedding. He bought a Homburg for the occasion but at the last minute rejected it.

The Rev. William J. Awalt was named to officiate at the single ring ceremony and to celebrate a low mass afterward. A reception followed in the fashionable Washington Club a few blocks away.

A special police detail was assigned to deal with crowds outside the cathedral. Invitations to attend the ceremony inside were so strictly limited that even the organist required a special pass.

Gifts poured in from well-wishers in all parts of the country.
