PRESIDENT ALREADY IN. WE AN OSTRICH? ARCH R. R. HOOKUPS. PAUPERISM DYING.

Washington correspondent says Coolidge will keep out of Mitchell fight, referring to Col. Mitchell's charges as to general agency in the management of States air forces and the suggestion that Col. Mitchell, low rank for telling the truth should now be arrested for telling the truth twice.

... could the President, who is of the Army and Navy, keep of the Mitchell matter? It is inevitable that his subordinates, of the President's readiness for both sides of any question, undertake any action without approval.

... people do not believe that the will permit any action as Col. Mitchell until the enervation question shall have been thrashed out, including the flimsy effort to fly to Hawaii, and catastrophe of the Shenandoah.

... to be hoped that the inquiry comes, will not be a white enterprise, but a real investigation.

... President will want to know the protest of Commander Lansie, an experienced airman who flew across the Atlantic in a plane was ignored. The President want any whitewashing or of suppression of Colonel who isn't easily suppressed, in any way. He will want the facts, so that he gets them.

... most disquieting thing in our defense programme is this attributed to Judge Wills, Secretary of the Navy:

View of the experience of the planes in the Artie expedition, of the Hawaiian flight, of the Shenandoah disaster, we come to the conclusion that the Pacific are still our defenses. "We have nothing to fear from enemy aircraft that is not a constant."

... experience in the Artie, the of the Hawaiian flight, the Shenandoah disaster had no to do with capable air navigation a great deal to do with in management of our air

... should have, indeed, nothing from foreign aircraft if we give to foreigners such management as our aircraft has. Mr. Wills statement that our oceans are not defense sounds like the of some ostrich saying, "I nothing to fear, the sand is my defense. I can stick my head in

... suggested that railroads be to combine in great transportation, and that they make their decisions "rather than have the do the choosing for

... not have a selection of well men, railroad men of course, and with traffic conditions, a survey of railroads, and let government know which companies should be made in the inter economy and of efficiency?

... Coolidge will certainly not leave these companies to selfish interests based on for stock jobbing. being broken down roads with for the sake of immediate rather than more efficiency. for the sake of unloading railroads on the stock

PERRYTON'S FIRST COTTON GINNED

LIBERAL PURSE IS DONATED BY BUSINESS MEN OF PERRYTON

The first cotton to be received at the gin here was brought in on Thursday of last week, September 17th by Bob Johnson, who lives near Sutton's grove, in Texas county, Oklahoma, with O. M. McBride, also of Texas County, running him a close second, arriving in Perryton only a few hours after Mr. Johnson.

A purse of $35.00 was made up among the business men of Perryton through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, which was presented to Mr. Johnson; also some merchandise was given to him by the Perryton Equity Exchange and Mr. Hood, our competent gin man, donated the work of ginning the cotton. To A. M. McBride the 2nd man to bring cotton to Perryton was presented with a purse of $20.

Mr. Hood informs us that this cotton was of a good quality and that he paid 24c per pound for it, which is one cent more than the market quotations.

Unless there is unusually early frosts there should be a good cotton yield this year, for these first bales were brought in three weeks earlier than the first cotton in 1924.

ROGERS—RUSSELL

Mr. James Cleveland Russell of San Antonio and Miss Antha Rogers of Gatesville, Texas, were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents Wednesday morning.

This came as a complete surprise to their many friends.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Lindsey in the presence of the immediate family and a few close relatives.

The bride is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Rogers. She is a graduate of the Gatesville High School, and State Teachers College at Denton. Since leaving school she has been engaged in teaching. She has for past three years been in Wichita Falls Public Schools.

Mr. Russell, after leaving University of Mississippi, has been engaged in business in San Antonio. He is the youngest brother of Ex-Governor Russell of Mississippi.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell left overland on their bridal trip, after which they will be at home in San Antonio.

Congratulations and best wishes from a host of friends follow this happy couple into their future home. —Gatesville Messenger.

The bride is a sister of C. B. Rogers of this city and is well known here having visited her brother and other relatives here this summer.

Among those who went from Perryton to Liberal, last Friday, to "take the children" to the Sells-Floto circus were: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Nash, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Yoakley and children, Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Blank and children, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Barbour and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wilson and son, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Johnson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Herring Lance, Mr. and Mrs. Will Tandy and children, Mr. and Mrs. John Black, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Whippo and children, Mrs. A. C. Witt and children, Mr. and Mrs. R. holders that own profitable railroads.

Pauperism is dying out in the United States thanks to better wages, widows' pensions, more enlightened medical care, and especially campaigns of health advertising, carried on by the great life insurance companies.

Of 100,000 in our population, only 71.5 are in poorhouses now. And that is exactly 71.5 too many.

In 1914 there were 91.5 out of 100,000 in the poorhouses. Things have improved since the war forced up wages.

CREAT SERVICE AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

A great audience gathered at the new Christian Church last Sunday for the Dedication. The congregations of the Methodist and Baptist Church were there in a body and many from Booker, Spearman and other points were in attendance thus providing an audience that filled the building. Evangelist Chas. A. Chasteen preached a great sermon, "At the Throne of Grace". Over $2300.00 provide for heating, seating and all other obligations of the Church except Church Extension Loan. This places the congregation in excellent financial condition. Mr. B. B. Kent as chairman of the building committee with appropriate remarks presented the keys of the building. Mr. J. M. Cummins received same in behalf of the congregation. Rev. Huckabee of the Methodist church and Rev. R. S. Norman of the Christian Church of Booker offered prayer. BIRTHDAY PARTY

Sunday, Mrs. W. C. Barber entertained at five o'clock dinner for her son Melvin, the occasion being the thirteenth birthday anniversary of the young man, who was the recipient of many pretty and practical gifts.

A merry half hour was spent, by the guests, searching for the hidden names on the unique place cards.

Each guest had been asked to come prepared to tell of some present day man of affairs and as might be surmised all those mentioned, except President Coolidge were stars in the world of football, baseball and golf.

A most enjoyable hour was spent at the table discussing, pro and con, the relative merits of the various players mentioned.

After dinner a quiet search for "trees" was instituted, this game brought out the fact that our Plains reared boys are not very familiar with the tree family. Marion Tucker, having named properly the larger number was awarded first prize while Alton Witt, Beal Puckett, Dean McLarty and the host tied for "consolation" drawing for first place Dean McLarty was the victor, carrying off the "hooby" prize.

The balance of the evening was spent on the croquet ground, until the pealing of the Church bells called the young guests to the various places of worship. Those present were Alton Witt, Marion Tucker, Irvin Hergert, Beal Puckett, George Lewis, Dean McLarty and the young host.

MORE RAIN

It has rained or misted almost continually since early Monday morning and up to Thursday noon there had been 1.15 inches of moisture here in Perryton but larger amounts have been reported from neighboring communities. The ground was already damp from his recent rains and now some of the roads are almost impassable. There has been more moisture this month than any month within the last year—we having had, according to the government gauge here, about 3 1/4 inches and conditions are favorable for more within the next few days. The Liberal mail truck failed to get in either Monday or Tuesday and was several hours behind the schedule on Wednesday.

SOROSIS CLUB

Mesdames J. C. May and Clarence Zirkle were hostesses to Home Economics Department of the Sorosis Club, on Wednesday afternoon of last week, at the May home. The program for the afternoon was as follows:

Roll Call Response—a built-in fixture.

What is interior decoration, Mrs. Ida Garrett.

Why is a beautiful home a necessity? Mrs. D. D. Shanks.

Interior Architecture—Mrs. Henry Cutter.

After the program, papers were given out with 20 national slogans to be filled in the blank spaces. Mrs. Haskell Holland was the winner of the first prize, a lovely box of stationery. Mrs. Thos. Thompson won the bobby prize, a small box of candy.

A delicious two course luncheon was served to the members and a number of guests. Mesdames May and Zirkle were declared delightful hostesses.

COUNTY COURT

County Court met in short session on Monday and Tuesday of this week but owing to the almost impassable conditions of the roads, very little business was attended to. No cases were tried but most of the probate matters were disposed of. All left over cases will be taken care of at the next regular term.

Miss Owens, who was to teach expression has resigned from the Perryton school faculty. Miss Ruth Abramson of Amarillo will take her place. Miss Abramson comes here highly recommended and we are sure the pupils will be well satisfied.

FIRST FOOTBALL GAME OF SEASON

PERRYTON RANGERS TO PLAY DUMAS HIGH SCHOOL TEAM HERE SATURDAY, SEPT. 26

The Perryton High School Football team is opening the season with a bang when the town boys, clad in their new football togs, meet the Dumas School team on their home grounds Saturday, September twenty sixth. The Perryton High School Football team has a pretty stiff schedule of games arranged, and the game here with Dumas will give some thrills and will tell us which way the football wind is blowing. By the close of the State Interscholastic League season, which is October thirty-first, our boys will have played six games, three at home and three away from home. Then there will be a game each week until Thanksgiving.

We understand that the Dumas High School has some pretty heavy and some experienced men and a coach who knows the game. What we may look for is a hard fought battle throughout the four quarters of the game. And there will have to be some Herculean work if the visitors edge out on our own hefties.

The town team has been working out regularly and until late hours. Several of the old boys of last year's team are out and it is around them as a nucleus that the present team must be built. Two or three boys from other high schools have transferred to this school who have some football experience and who are showing up well. Then there is a herd of youngsters trying out for the various positions, learning the game, aiding the others in the practicing and who will a little later be fine relief for the others. There is in all some twenty-five tryouts who have filled out the eligibility sheets. And it is the job of the coaches to convert this wealth of raw materials into first class fighting men. The average weight of the boys is 145 pounds, which is heavier than Perryton has formerly had.

As many of the boys have been heaving wheat or driving trucks, and such other man size labor during the past summer it will not require a waste of so very much time to get these conditioned. Indeed from the enthusiasm one sees on the field one would think the whole gang has all the stamina needed and that all are primed for a skilled demonstration of muscle and brawn, for the spirit of the boys is of the best. And we may expect to see the boys fight hard and fight all the afternoon to the pleasure of every citizen of our town. And here is our hand on it that the boys come off the field Saturday—win or loose—knowing that they have both done their wholehearted duty and that they have the whole town behind them supporting them to the last man. Let's go out and make it complete.

The coaches, Messrs G. D. Minick and Ernest Record are putting their best efforts forth to help the boys and from all appearances have accomplished wonders in these first two weeks of school. If the citizens of the town will show as much interest as these coaches and the boys are, Perryton will have one of the best teams in the Panhandle.

The boys met in a business session on Wednesday afternoon of this week and elected Carroll Dodd as captain and Lawrence Smith as line captain.

The probable line-up for Saturday is as follows:

Charlie Kent, right end; Gilbert Ragsdale, center; Albert (Runt) Dear, half back; Carrott Dodd, full back; Dean Conner, half back; Leon Shrader, left end; Walton Wilson, tackle; Claude Murrell, guard; Lawrence Smith, tackle; Henry Hogland, quarter back and Billy Beardsley, guard. There is much other good material among the ones trying out for the team and there may be some few changes made in the line up for Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Corey are the proud parents of a baby girl who was born to them on last Sunday morning, September 20th.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

A MARY GRAHAM BONNER

SPARKLING BAY

It was called St. Margaret's bay, and a great body of water it was, as the books which tell all about bays might have said about it.

But those who lived in the fishing villages along its shores or in the lumber camps near by would never have spoken of it in that way.

"The water sparkles in St. Margaret's bay more than water sparkles anywhere."

Maybe that was quite true. It was what they felt about it. And yet they did not boast.

They loved it as families love each other with loyal devotion. Sometimes the bay behaved badly, sometimes it was hard and unkind. But it was their bay and they loved it.

They would no more have exchanged bays than they would have exchanged families. They no more would have wanted to live elsewhere than one wants to leave everything and everyone who has grown dear and familiar to settle in some strange country where one is unknown.

They did not talk much of what they felt before strangers. But when they got together they talked of the beauties about them and of their sparkling bay, just as people will talk of what is very dear to them when with those who understand and who are sympathetic.

They did not object to being far removed from cities and amusements and all those things that larger places carry with them.

They were not in the least lonely. And why should they be? There were enough families so they could talk and laugh and tell stories together or play an old organ and sing.

The children knew other children—there were always groups of them for picnics in the summer or swimming in the clear, cool water. They helped, too, with the fishing, the searching after wandering cows which could never have been found had it not been for the hollow-sounding bell, worn around every cow's neck.

The little ones had toys made out of sea shells, and worn-out boats in which to play, and other toys besides what had been brought to them at Christmas time by Santa Claus.

Their cheeks were soft and rosy because of the good salt air, and always they were hungry when mealtime came—even for the fish of which they grew weary at times in thinking about.

When the little meat wagon came along, how they did follow after it. Meat was such a treat.

But it was the sparkling bay that they loved so much they never could have left it—not even for meals and meals of meat.

Water, they knew, sparkled in the sunlight elsewhere. The sea, along the shores, changed colors constantly—even far out at sea the colors changed. Sometimes gray, sometimes blue, sometimes green, sometimes black and inky.

Along the shores there were such soft greens in the water, and delicate blues, and at night if you dipped your hand in you could see silvery wavelets for yourself.

But during the day when the sun shone down and there was a warmth that was never hot, just a comfortable, delicious warmth without real heat and oppressiveness, the bay sparkled more than at any other time.

It fairly seemed to dance for joy. Such a delighted, joyous bay, winking and laughing, dancing and prattling, skipping its jewels along the surface of the water as children skip flat stones along the water.

The sun, looking upon the jewels of the bay, was so dazzling one had to turn one's eyes away every so often and look toward the quiet green woods.

But the bay received most of the attention on those days when it skipped jewels along the surface of the water with the sun looking down.

For, the people said, there is nowhere such sparkling water as the water of St. Margaret's bay on a day when the sun comes out.

Worn-out Boats in Which to Play. It skipped jewels along the surface of the water with the sun looking down.

For, the people said, there is nowhere such sparkling water as the water of St. Margaret's bay on a day when the sun comes out.

Matter of Instinct

There is a great deal of truth in the assertion that knowledge, some kinds of knowledge at least, is largely a matter of instinct. Mildred, aged five, came running into her mother's room one morning in a state of great excitement. "Oh, mamma," she exclaimed, "cock has just killed an old hen to make over into chicken."

PUBLIC AGENCIES FOR PUBLIC JUSTICE

The Springfield, Massachusetts, Union, in commenting upon a decision of the Public Utilities Commission of Massachusetts, which awarded rates to the New England Telephone Company sufficient to assure its financial stability, said:

"As a public utility, the telephone business is in a class by itself. In the interests of the public it has to be a virtual monopoly. Competition would only result in requiring users to pay money for two or more equipments instead of one.

"The New England company, alone requires new capital to the extent of $20,000,000 a year for the next three or four years to meet the public demand. It would be grossly unfair to present users of telephones were they to be charged rates that would enable the company to get that amount of money annually from current earnings. The problem it is to bet new capital from investors and not from present users of telephones. The investor is always looking for a safe return on his investment and safety of the investment itself, and that means the financial strength of the company."

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Springmyer of the Fairview community were Perryton shoppers last Saturday.

COWPONY RACE

Some cowpony from the Panhandle section is going to win a cash prize of $100.00 and a beautiful loving cup for its rider or owner.

The occasion will be the cowpony race at the Tri-State Exposition at Amarillo on October 1.

Special attention to this race has been called by O. V. Vernon, secretary, who, both because of the handsome prizes and the sport of this event, believes that a number of ponies from the three states always represented at this fair will be entered.

He especially asks that all interested send in their names and the name of their horse at once. This should be done immediately so that proper provision can be made for those coming.

The loving cup is offered by the Finklea jewelry store. It will bear the name of the horse and owner, the date of the race, and the place and fair.

Rules for entering this race follows:

All purses paid on evening of same day of races.

All entries must be made by five o'clock prior to day of race.

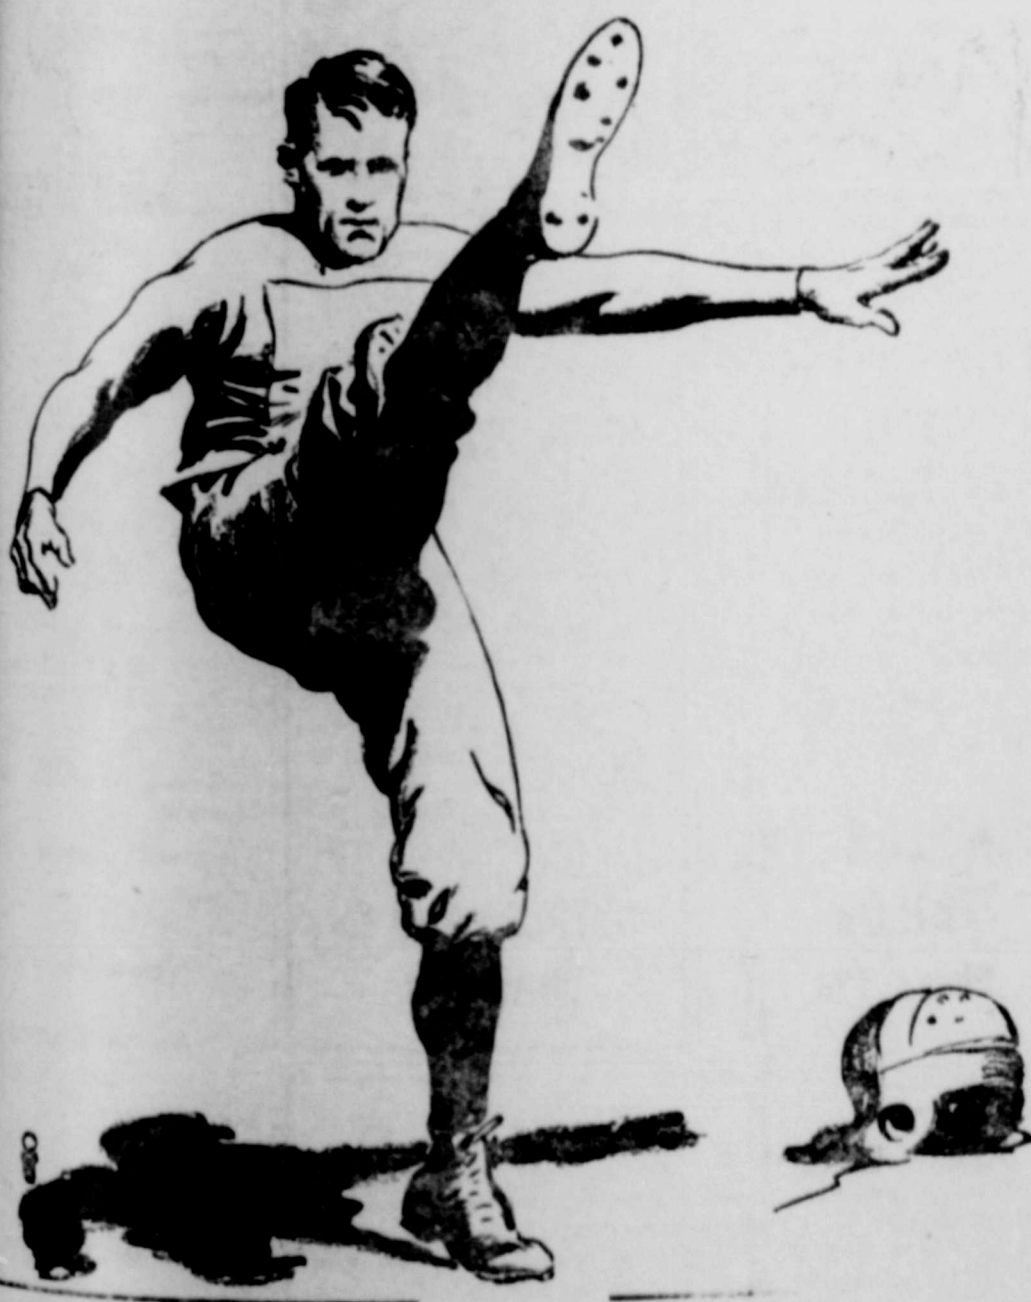

Cow pony Races: Any cow horse eligible to this race which has been actively in use on a ranch thirty days prior to this meet and are not to be entered in any other class of races during this meet. Stock cowboy saddles must be used.

No entrance fee charged in any race.

Firestone

will ALWAYS give Most Miles per Dollar

No matter where crude rubber prices may go—Firestone advantages in securing raw material, in manufacturing and distribution are always active to make good the pledge of Most Miles per Dollar.

Racing drivers—hill-climbing and endurance record holders—taxicab, motor truck and bus operators—and hundreds of thousands of car owners—are daily emphasizing the unheard-of mileage and service delivered by Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping is one of the biggest factors in tire performance and long mileage, making Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords the most economical tires ever offered motorists.

The cord from the fabric mills is first delivered to a separate plant where it is treated in a solution of gum, which insulates every fiber of every cord. This protects against internal friction and heat, giving the sidewalls greater flexibility and additional strength.

Prove Firestone's many superiorities for yourself. If you have never had the safety, comfort and economy of these serviceable, long-mileage tires—go to the nearest Firestone Dealer—for Firestone only builds Gum-Dipped Cords.

COMPARATIVE TAXES AND NATIONAL INCOME

The accompanying table shows annual taxation and national income per capita for leading countries in Europe, compared with United States. Figures for taxation are based on national and local taxes in 1923 and 1924 converted at average exchange rates. The table is adapted from computations of National Industrial Conference Board.

While the taxes of foreign countries, converted into dollars, are of interest for comparison, it should be understood that the actual taxation in a country does not necessarily represent the true tax burden on the people of that country. It is the relation of taxation to national income which constitutes more nearly the real tax burden. Comparison of the per capita taxation of countries is also significant as indicating to a certain extent the degree of governmental enterprise, such as "social" undertakings or departmental work, in the respective countries.

In United States approximately three-fifths of total taxation is of states and municipalities, whereas the major part of taxation in European countries is national.

Great Britain	$86.94
France	39.07
Italy	19.04
Belgium	24.83
United States	69.72

Great Britain	23.2%
France	20.9%
Italy	19.2%

We can all study these tables with profit. European governments are loaded with paternalism—hence killing taxes. We must keep that blight out of this country and have much lower taxes.

THE CLEAN TOWN.

Cleanliness, it has been said, is next to Godliness. A dirty individual is neither clean spiritually nor mentally. Dirt makes for ruin physically, mentally, morally. This is as true of a town as of an individual. The dirty town, the town full of rubbish, of untidy houses, of muddy streets, of unsanitary conditions, is non-progressive materially, morally and educationally. Neither moral nor material advancement flourish in dirty, unkempt dwellings or in unkempt towns.

If any town or city is ambitious for advancement, or if even a few of its men and women are ready to devote their time and energy to the betterment of the community, the surest way to achieve success is to clean up—make back yards and front yards clean, make streets clean and keep them clean, encourage the people to beautify their homes and their yards, stimulate a love for and a pride in their homes and in their towns, repair the tumble-down yard fences, paint up, make things as clean outside as they should be inside, and then that community will look up mentally, morally and materially.

No community which does not clean up and paint up, which does not do its best to have clean streets and clean yards, has any right to look up and face the world.

It might be said a dirty town makes a dirty people; a dirty people makes moral and material dirt and decay. It is the duty of all men and women to make their homes and their home towns just as clean and attractive and beautiful as possible. He who falls short in this respect falls short of his duty to God and man, it matters not what else he may do.

OF SCHOOLS AND FASHIONS

The streak of the conventional which keeps men from expressing their own ideas for fear of seeming peculiar is never responsible for any of the great creations or accomplishments in the world's history.

Fashions in art, music, dress, and the like do not foster individual genius, but serve rather to depress and enervate it. J. G. Huneker went so far as to say that "There are no schools in art or literature, only good writers and artists. There are no types, only individuals." This is a cheering word from one who was well able to pass an opinion on the subject; and it may serve as a warning to those enthusiasts who are all too eager to follow the hue and cry of a new fad in the fine arts.

The attractive thing about a fashion is that its features are plainly apparent to the one who would follow it, and he has to do little or no thinking on the subject himself. It is clear, therefore, that those who shrink from mental activity and creative thought will be found among the ones who most closely cling to the accepted "school" or fashion.

The individuals who have reached achievements in their chosen field have done so because of patient unrelenting toil, together with the conviction that their message is pecu-

HOW WALL STREET DOES IT

Were it not serious, there would be something amusing in the latest reports published in the conservative press of New York relative to the prospects for the cotton crop. We are told there is "a growing conviction that the new crop has made a good start, and that with an increase in acreage, a plentiful use of fertilizer, and a determination on the part of the farmers to secure a liberal yield, there is prospect for another large crop." All of which is handed out to impress upon the cave dwellers of the East the idea that the farmer has prosperity in sight. As a fact if the farmer does produce a bumper crop, he will get little or nothing for it. He will work twice as hard, produce twice as much and get much less cash.

Then, in order to straddle the issue, after the manner of all well-ordered Wall Street newspapers, we learn that "in the western half of the belt, as a result of the protracted drought, the crop is not so well advanced." This lays the groundwork for higher prices of cotton products for the people. The farmer will be paid a low price for a poorer quality of cotton, because the farmer must be gyped whichever way the cat jumps, and the impotent and apathetic public will pay the rest of the bill.

These financial jugglers, these speculating harpies who live on the sweat of men who work, passing out their propaganda without governmental or private protest, are sowing the seeds of discontent that unless there be some change before long will produce a bumper crop that may shake the teeth out of the nation. The farmer is tired of continuous exploitation.

W learned, in a scientific article the other day, that grease spots on clothes keep moths alive, that if we starve the moth our clothes will be safe—so—when you see a nice little moth in your new Summer suit, remove the food supply, and let it die gently in a natural manner.

About Your Health

Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Gaines, M.D.

THE TABLE YOUR FOE

Of the many sins against right living, overeating is perhaps the chief, especially in cases of individuals in whom age has laid its restricting hand on bodily activity. Many men have retired from business, only to inaugurate a system of dietary that is an infinitely worse burden. In such cases, a protein, or, proteins, become the invisible foe. "Baked beans" and "dressings" are heavy protein foods. Fresh meats are laden with protein. Highly-seasoned foods owe their evil effects to protein in excess. Enough for you to know, that protein is stimulant and if pushed, a dangerous intoxicant.

Age brings in many people, torpor of the eliminating channels of the body. Obstruction and over supply of food become a deadly enemy. Stupor after meals, dizziness, hardened arteries, heightened blood-pressure, auto-intoxication, apoplexy, not a very enticing chapter. Many fatal cases of brain hemorrhage can be traced to overeating. People just won't stop and think! That neighbor of yours, that died suddenly of paralysis at sixty years of age; he should have lived to eighty—had he lived right!

Within the past year, I have known of a half-dozen men, found dead in bed after having eaten a heavy six o'clock dinner, and retiring "in good health and spirits." Will we never take warning? Increased blood-pressure is a symptom of protein poisoning. Lessen the amount of protein, and it falls. Serious disease of the kidneys may be traced to the banquet-table. Over-work doesn't do serve half the blame it gets, while the innocent looking sugar-bowl, the seductive mince-pie, and the rare beef-steak are working their havoc.

Next Week:—
"The Stomach's Rest Hours"

A GOOD BULL STORY

A traveling man with torn clothes and a crushed hat sat in a country hotel expounding upon the necessity of compulsory automobile liability insurance maintained by the state to protect the public from damage done by automobiles. His clothes had been torn, his car wrecked and his life endangered by a driver with no assets.

A farmer in the corner grocery store, with a bloody nose and a broken buggy whip in his hand, was cussing his neighbor Jones for allowing a bull to run loose on the highway to frighten his team, cause a runaway, upset his load of berries and nearly killed him.

Jones was financially irresponsible but nobody thought of suggesting a law that all owners of bulls should be required to carry compulsory state liability insurance to protect the public from the dangers of such animals. Yet hardly a day passes that one does not read of some person or animal being gored to death by an enraged bull.

Our present laws provide for collecting damages from people whose acts cause injury or loss to others. If persons who are liable are financially insolvent the injured party cannot secure compensation. The same law applies to automobile accidents as to bull accidents or to any other kind of accidents.

Why should the automobile owner be made an exception to the rule in regard to compulsory automobile insurance in order to provide against a possible insolvent driver? Why should the state be put into the business of insurer? The whole proceeding is just another step toward socialism. People thoughtlessly argue in favor of this type of compulsory insurance supported by a state fund, who would not for a minute consider such a proposition if they understood it in all its ramifications. The traveling man and the bull story are every day examples.

CANADA'S RAILWAY EXPERIMENT FAILS

"Canada is becoming weary of the load it carries in added taxes because of the failure of its experiment in carrying on its publicly owned Canadian National Railways System" says the San Francisco Chronicle.

"The question of dropping out of the railroad business may be the real issue in the coming general election. The Canadian Senate has been conducting inquiries looking for a way out of the mess. Five concrete proposals have been submitted, but the one most favorably considered involves the willingness of the Canadian Pacific, privately owned and operated, to consider an amalgamation or merger of its paying lines with the Dominion's losing lines, under a joint board of directors.

"Canada is yearly adding $100,000,000 to its public debt for the privilege of owning a railway system it may call its own. In the last six years the operation of these lines has added an aggregate of $710,943,247 to the Dominion's obligations. The people are beginning to cry out loud. The prewar debt of the Dominion was less than $400,000,000. It is now about $2,500,000,000 and the deficit of its publicly-owned railway system adds yearly to the burden.

"Here in the United States we can appreciate the Canadian difficulty. During the World War we also tried an experiment in national operation of railroads. It cost us something like $1,600,000,000. It will take us

COMPARABLE TO FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

In discussing the place of the holding company, or what might be termed the investment company, in the field of electric development, Geo. N. Till, an authority on these subjects, gave one of the best illustrations yet presented to remove from the public mind any mystery which attached to these terms. Financially, holding companies are comparable in their relation to the electric industry to the federal reserve banks in their relation to the banking system. They bring to the smallest community the same type of service offered to the largest cities and they give improved service at a lower cost than is possible with the small isolated plant.

The federal reserve bank has served as a stabilizer to the United States banking system, has provided a reservoir of credit which is available all over the country and has also furnished an invaluable service in the development of the country. The holding company in the public utility field serves quite the same function from a financial standpoint, and where the generating plants are interconnected physically, they likewise provide a reservoir of generating capacity closely resembling the financial reservoir.

Because such companies can manufacture their power in larger blocks in the most efficient plants, located in relation to coal and water at the most favorable points for economic generation, they can offer surer and better service to their customers at much lower rates. The holding company structure places a premium upon administration, management and service to the public.

BUILDING MOST COMFORTABLE HOMES TO BURN

One can search through the homes of all nations and not find as much comfort as has been built into the average American house during the past three decades. A careful analysis of a group of dwellings that averaged $15,000 in cost, shows nearly 30 per cent of the total cost in "modern conveniences"—plumbing, wiring, heating, etc. It is doubtful whether the proportion would vary much, whatever the cost of the buildings, for houses in city or town or even in the country, where electricity and water are available.

Other nations call their building styles "Moorish," or "Norman," or "Gothic," we might well call ours the "Comfort" or "Electric" period. It may be that the stone or brick house of Europe, that can't burn or decay, are more enduring. But where they are cold and clammy dens, the American home is a place of sunshine and light and sanitation. And we are building better every day.

We, as a nation, should be more careful with our matches, cigarettes, roofs and chimneys and stop burning our houses after we have built them. We lie awake nights to make them more comfortable and then burn them down.

MORE POWER TO TAXPAYERS' ORGANIZATION

Twelve Pacific Coast and Western states have just concluded a taxpayers' conference at Portland, Oregon. This organization has been growing during several years past until in territory it, today, covers about one-half the area of the United States.

It is not a "paper" organization. It is composed of business men and women and farmers who understand that if local taxes are to be reduced, the average citizen must be brought to a realization of the fact that he pays all the tax bills. The day laborer may get a tax statement from the county, state or nation, but the manufacturer, farmer and business man who does get such a tax statement a long time to forget this costly lesson."

and who does pay taxes, adds the amount as overhead of doing business, to the price of every article he sells. The people must be made to understand this fact; there is no escape from taxation.

The reason that headway is being made in reducing the federal income tax is because every individual makes up his own tax statement and has evidence of exactly what he has to pay. Therefore, the movement for federal tax reduction has general support. Such is not the case, however, in cities, counties and states because the individual never has a chance to see all of his tax bills on one statement.

The Western Taxpayers League hopes to make the foregoing fact so clear that there will be as general a demand for tax economy and reduction in city, county, state and municipal affairs as there has been and now is for a similar program in federal affairs.

Martin B. Madden, Illinois Representative in Congress, Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, and one of the leaders in the tax reduction program in Washington, addressed the Portland conference. He expressed great gratification at the organization of this taxpayers' association and said he hoped it could extend its activity until it included every state in the Union. He then added: "An enlightened public sentiment is the only thing that will cure our taxation evils. The man who does not make out an income tax schedule should not fool himself with the idea that he has escaped taxation. In the end, as matter of fact, he pays most of the taxes."

He said taxpayers' organizations can be of great help in co-operating with the financial directors of our government and in helping them carry out a business program unhampered by political pressure and pork barrel methods which result from the demands of influential friends to satisfy constituents. The continual upbuilding of political prestige at public expense accounts for most of our governmental troubles.

COTTON SEED

"When selecting cotton seed from the field, be sure to choose seed from low, short, jointed stalks loaded with cotton," recommends A. K. Short, director of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, Dallas. Mr. Short recently broadcast the first demonstration of cotton seed selection ever given over radio, on the R. F. D. program over Station WFAA, the Dallas News and the Dallas Journal.

"The low, short, jointed cotton stalk is the same type as the corn stalk that produces the first roasting ears in the spring," he declares. "It is the same type as the pig that gets fat quickest; the horse or mule that can do the most work; the boy who plays foot-ball at college."

Cotton farmers are warned by this crop authority to avoid selecting seed from cotton stalks that "all went to hay"—the long jointed, late-maturing. He also points out that the stalks with few bolls and limbs and with few feeder roots are undesirable as seed-producers.

"The yielding capacity of any plant depends upon its feeding area," the foundation director states. "Look for many feeder roots on the heavy producing cotton plant. Notice also that the plant from which you should select seed has produced bolls at every joint. From such stalks, select your seed from those with the highest percentage of five-lock bolls. You can use every boll, because four lock bolls will produce as many five-lock bolls as will the five-lock bolls from the same plant."

"A stalk of the type that has bolls at every joint will produce cotton in spite of boll weevil, army worm or drouth."

week and is now trying out its merits.

This is the first electric typewriter to be owned by a Perryton business machine and is a great improvement over the ordinary typewriter. It is motor driven and only a light touch is required on the keys and no matter how hard or how light the touch may be, this machine produces an evenly written page. It has four different powers and will make as high as 16 copies at one time, the last being as legible as the first.

The Sea and the Roses

By GEORGE A. BARNES

(Copyright.)

GREAT masses of roses covered the wall and grew in rank profusion along the roadside, and, when I left the pony-cart and climbed the bank, I could see that the yard was filled with them and the little cottage facing the sea almost hidden with their wealth of color.

Thinking that the owner would not object to my gathering a small bunch from such an abundance, I was proceeding to do so, when, from behind a bush, a little old lady appeared, her refined face delicately pink from her exertions, looking as sweet as one of the roses among which she was working.

"Please don't pick them," she said, coming forward a few steps. "Don't think I'm selfish, but they're Deddie's, and I can't let anyone else have them,"
and with implicit faith in my obedience to her request, she returned to her work.

For a few minutes I stood and watched her deftly loosening the earth around the roots of a young rose bush, and then, with the gull of a child discovered in some wrong-doing, I laid the few roses I had plucked upon the wall, and going back to the cart drove to my friend's house, where I was visiting.

A few days later, while we were passing the garden with its rose-covered wall, the sweet old lady appeared from among the bushes, her arms full of cut roses, which she pressed against her breast.

To my friend's greeting she replied with a pleased light of recognition in her eyes.

"Who is she?" I asked, when we had passed out of hearing; and I told the episode of a few days ago.

"Here is a sad story. Years ago she came here, a bride, to spend her honeymoon in the little cottage, which belonged to her husband. They were wealthy, and the weeks slipped by until fall, when they returned to their city home; but she loved the place so that every summer they returned here to spend a few weeks in the country, within sight of the sea. And here, one July morning, when the roses she had trained over her windows were hanging heavy with dew, a little girl came to bless the household. The husband, going to the open window, plucked a great spray of roses, and placing them on the stand by the bedside, said: 'This shall be her luck flower.' And he kissed the babe and the young mother.
They named the child Edith, but she always called herself 'Deddie'."

"When the lady appeared among us the second summer after, she was accompanied only by her baby; and instead of the beautiful gowns that had been her husband's delight, she wore a widow's dress, and her dear face was haggard with grief.

"The child had grown into a little lispng tot, who followed her mother about the house and garden, which was the widow's great solace, and where she spent most of her time, only going each day to the high cliff, from which she and her husband used to watch the sun set across the ocean, and the beach where they had walked in the moonlight, two married lovers."

"The flowers that had graced the baby's entry into the world seemed to have possessed some occult charm, for never was anyone more fond of roses than this child. She always carried a bouquet in her chubby hand, or wore a spray pinned onto her little pinafore, and if, by chance, she dropped one, she always stopped to pick it up.

"She was a strange child, too, with little unchildish notions and fancies that oppressed one with a feeling of eeriness. The ocean fascinated her, and oftentimes at night, when it roared upon the rocky headland, she would awaken her mother and say: 'Mamma, why does the sea want me? Why does it keep calling to me?'

"One evening her mother tied a little hood over the curls, and together they went down to the headland, as was their custom, the child carrying a big spray of Jacqueminots. A strong wind was blowing out to sea, and the mother shielded the child in front of her.
They had stood thus for some minutes, when the roses slipped from the child's hands, and the wind caught and blew them toward the edge of the cliff. She darted forward to save them, and was stooping at the very edge to pick them up, when there came a sudden blast, she tottered on the brink for a moment, and then, grasping the spray of roses in her little hands, pitched forward into the sea.

"Her mother never returned to her city home. Winter and summer she has roses blooming in the cottage or garden, and every evening she goes to the cliff with an offering of flowers for 'Deddie's grave,' as she calls the ocean."

As we returned home that evening,
my friend pointed out toward the sea.
On a high point overlooking the water a lone figure was outlined against the setting sun. As we looked, she raised her arms and threw a great cluster of roses out into the water, and then sank upon her knees and with clasped hands watched them float out into the pathway of the sun.

No large a grave; so small a child!

SOMEBODY MUST PAY TAXES

Popular opinion probably will eventually concentrate in sufficient force to cause the elimination of the obviously unfair practice by government of issuing tax-exempt bonds. In effect it is nothing less than making the weak shoulder the burden of the strong. Tax-exempt securities impose a burden in more ways than one on all industries.

Remember the closing out sale is still going on at the Geo. R. Ragdale store. Watch this paper next week for more astounding bargains. 34-11-c

IMPROVED FORDS WIN FAVOR HERE

Details of Improvements in Bodies is main topic of Auto Row.

Perryton has seen the improved Ford cars.

Early last week, it was on display in the showroom of Johnson Motor Company, the Ford dealer here and ever since have been the center of curious and admiring groups.

"Have you seen the new Fords," is rapidly eclipsing as a needless question the time honored "Is it hot enough for you," when the temperature stands at blood heat. Ever since the first display of the new Ford models, Perryton has been examining the cars until now there is scarcely anyone who isn't familiar with their improved appearance and increased riding comfort. Lower bodies on a lowered chassis frame, one-piece windshield in the Coupe and Tudor, lower windshields which conform to the shape of the cowl in the open cars, closed car colors and especially designed low seats are now popular topics of conversation wherever Ford cars are mentioned.

The gasoline tank under the cowl which may be filled without disturbing any of the occupants of the car benefits carburetion and makes possible comfort features in the tonneau heretofore unknown.

Open car devotees have found the new Ford Touring car ideal for general use.

The coupe's new standard color of channel green together with its many improvements and refinement, is a magnet for all who are interested in a two passenger closed car. The run-

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Green Mountain Boys and "Old Ti"

Although an accident of geography placed Ticonderoga upon the soil of New York, Vermont, through the deeds of her "Green Mountain Boys" has an equal claim with her neighbor upon its stirring history. There, John Stark, a colonial captain fighting with the British against the French, showed the military qualities which later made him the hero of Bennington. There, too, Robert Rogers from "the New Hampshire Grants" (the land which later became Vermont) had many escape with his Rangers.

But it was at the outbreak of the Revolution that Vermont came in with her strongest claim to Ticonderoga as a part of her history. There at the dawn of May 10, 1775, Ethan Allen and his "Green Mountain Boys" won their deathless fame when they took possession of the old French fort "In the name of Jehovah and the Continental Congress." But if Ticonderoga was the scene of a Vermont triumph, it must also be recorded that it came very near being the scene of a great disgrace for her. For it was within the walls of the fort that the traitorous negotiations between the British and some of her leaders, dissatisfied because of unawarded honors, were carried on and they, and through them, Vermont, narrowly escaped the shame which sullied the fame of Conway and Charles Lee, and engulfed Benedict Arnold.

The complete history of Ticonderoga would fill volumes. It begins away back in 1609 with Samuel Champlain, who fought the Iroquois on a narrow cape in Lake Champlain, called Cheondaraga or Ticonderoga, "between two lakes," and for the next 150 years this spot was the scene of battles. In 1755 the French began building a fort on this promontory, and named it Fort Vaudreuil, in honor of the governor of Canada. It was later called Fort Carillon, but it is best known as Fort Ticonderoga, or "Old Ti."

After the Revolution Ticonderoga fell into decay, but through the patriotic efforts of the Pell family, which, in 1818, obtained title to the land upon which the fort stood, it has been partly restored and today it is visited by thousands as one of our most interesting historic shrines.

Buy across the Counter

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay! You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you! And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.
