Great Soviet Drive Rolling

Reds Said In 25 Miles Of Berlin And Only 12 Miles Out Of Danzig

By RODNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Friday, March 9—The Germans said last night that Russian tanks had plunged within 25 miles of greater Berlin on the second day of an all-out frontal assault, while Moscow announced that other Soviet forces invading Danzig territory for the first time had rolled within 12 miles of the former free city of Danzig.

Surging ten miles west of the Oder river, "the Rhine of the east," and last natural defense barrier before the Nazi capital, the Russians were reported by Berlin to have reached the junction town of Seelow, outflanking the Oder fortresses of Kuestrin and Frankfurt.

Reds Ignore Reports

This development came as the Americans in the west crossed the larger obstacle of the Rhine south of captured Cologne.

Russia's high command communique again ignored the vital Berlin sector except for the announcement that Red Army troops to the north had overwhelmed German positions only seven miles from the Pomeranian capital of Stettin, main port for Berlin.

Moscow dispatches said the heavy fighting along the Oder might be the prelude to a final offensive against the Reich capital, but suggested the main blows might be forthcoming later on both flanks of the Nazi heart city.

Striking eight miles inside southwestern Danzig territory in a 14-mile advance yesterday, Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's second White Russian Army penetrated to within 12 miles of Danzig city and to within 17 miles of Gdynia, another important Nazi naval base on the Baltic, with the seizure of Stangenwalde.

Nazis Squeezed In

The Germans in this northern coastal area were squeezed into a 3,820-square-mile area with all landland escape routes cut.

Berlin announced that Russian troops in a new offensive also had crossed the Nogat river boundary from East Prussia, reaching Neuteich, 19 miles southeast of Danzig, in a seven mile advance inside Danzig territory north of fallen Marienburg.

The First and Second White Russian armies together captured 360 towns and villages during the day, including the Pomeranian stronghold of Buetow and the "Polish corridor" bastions of Koscierzyna and Skarszewy to the east, the Soviet communique said.

Coup Catches Nazis Asleep

Sensational Crossing Has Only One Parallel, Shortens War By Months

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, March 8—Thousands of U. S. First Army troops, surging across the Rhine south of Cologne, drove east toward Germany's heart tonight against surprisingly light resistance after cracking the historic western barrier in a brilliant coup heralding a speedier end to the war.

The swift, sensational crossing was the biggest military triumph since the Normany landings, and was a battle feat without parallel since Napoleon's conquering legions crossed the Rhine early in the last century.

Caught Disorganized

It caught the Germans so disorganized that they met the assault waves with only scattered artillery and mortar fire, and they were quickly driven from strategic positions. The Alfied high command kept them confused by withholding the momentous news for 24 hours.

The Luxembourg radio broadcast without official confirmation that the Americans crossed at Remagen, site of the great Ludendorff doubletrack railway bridge, 28 miles southeast of Cologne and 12 miles southeast of Bonn.

(Brussels radio carried the same report, prompting speculation in London that the Americans may have seized the bridge intact, putting them in position to hurry tanks across and exploit the surprise blow to the full. The German communisue said this morning that the Americans had reached Remagen.)

Other Armies Close In

The crossing, fated to end the war months sooner than calculated, if it can be exploited, came as four Allied armies closed up to the Rhine nearly everywhere on a 150-mile front and the Third Army on the south end began blasting with artillery at Coblenz, most important river crossing left to the enemy.

The Germans rallied for three counterattacks after the first American infantrymen hurdled the river at 3:50 p.m. yesterday, but these were hurled back.

The enemy was caught without prepared positions, and he was forced tonight to blaze away with artillery at the deep and firm bridgehead, trying to stem the Allied tide of men and materials rushing across the river.

Fighter-bomber squadrons snarled through the murky sky, attacking a half dozen communications centers surrounding the bridgehead in an attempt to seal off reinforcements.

Tight censorship prevented pinpointing the location of the crossing and supreme headquarters late tonight still permitted only the barest details to be disclosed in the hope of throwing the Germans off the scent except those immediately brought to battle.

(Supreme headquarters imposed its blackout on the First Army's southern wing yesterday after permitting disclosure that armored units were 10 miles south of Bonn, which would place them in the area of Remagen).

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges struck boldly while the Germans still reeled under tempestuous Allied blows that had driven them back to the east bank. Gen. Eisenhower sent warm congratulations to every soldier in the First Army, declaring:

"The whole Allied force is delighted to cheer the First United States Army, whose speed and boldness have won the race to establish the first bridgehead over the Rhine."

Already the bridgehead was

Yanks Smash To Cliff's Top On Iwo; Nimitz In U. S. Parries Questions

Take-Off Spots May Be In China

By J. W. DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 8—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, forecasting the final assault on Japan as one of overwhelming might, said today "it may well be" that some of the now-secret take-off spots will be in China.

The U. S. commander of the Pacific ocean areas popped up in Washington at a time when other important figures of the war against Japan were circulating in the capital.

But at a news conference he discounted thoughts that there might be a direct connection. He shied away from the idea that a stride toward Tokyo via the Chinese mainland may be just around the corner.

Can Go As It Pleases

"The Navy is strong enough to go to any point in the Pacific it wants to go," he said.

"Where?" he was asked.

With a grin, the pink cheeked, blue-eyed fleet admiral replied: "The Japanese would like the answer to that very question. They'll learn in due course."

More than 100 reporters packed around him in a paneled conference room, where he sat with Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and other officers.

One asked directly whether there was any connection between his arrival here and the presence in Washington of General Joe Stilwell, Admiral William F. Halsey, Lieut. Gen. A. C. Wedemeyer, chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek, and Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, ambassador to China.

"I think not," said Nimitz.

Periodic Conference

He said he arrived Sunday night, coming for one of his periodic conferences with Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet.

Reporters pressed for comment on the advantages of a landing in China. Nimitz said:

"In planning the final assault on the empire, we need more than one position. We need a number of positions. It may well be that some of these positions will be in China."

Mindful that Nimitz is in command of the Pacific ocean areas and that General Douglas MacArthur is commander in the Southwest Pacific, a reporter inquired in what zone the Japanese home islands lie.

"The Japanese islands are in the Pacific ocean area," Nimitz said. "But they are large land masses and conduct of operations in large land masses is properly a function of the Army."

Big Job Ahead Yet

Emphasizing that "we still have a very big job before us," Nimitz said he did not believe "much over 10 per cent, if that much, of the Japanese Army has been committed in the various island operations to date."

Other Nimitz statements, volunteered or brought out by questions:

"Russian bases would be useful to us.

"I do not believe there have been any changes in plans for the

Historic American Conference Closes

By FLORA LEWIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MEXICO CITY, March 8—Delegates to the Inter-American conference signed a blueprint for a new era in this hemisphere tonight. Then they started home, preparing to extend their system for peace and prosperity to the rest of the world at San Francisco.

The 16-day meeting here closed with traditional pomp and ceremony, first in a plenary session in Mexico's gilt and marble chamber of deputies, then at beautiful Chapultepec castle, where delegates signed the final act containing 59 resolutions.

Historic Decisions

The conference reached historic decisions on its outstanding problems in an aura of friendliness which provided a startling contrast to the tension in continental relations a few months ago.

Nevertheless, prime questions were left over for the San Francisco meeting where, some delegates said, the real test of decisions made here will take place.

The Mexico conference has put a problem to the United Nations at San Francisco which may cause far more strain in that meeting than appeared here. It stems from the act of Chapultelpec, guaranteeing American frontiers with the armed might of the American nations.

It remains for the San Francisco conference to decide how far this hemisphere can go in imposing peace, without the express direction of the World Security council. Main point of conflict is the fact that if a virtually autonomous system is created in the Americas, Russia and Britain may seek the right for independent action in their part of the world.

Indications here were that the United States may ask special conditions to allow the western hemisphere to handle its family problems, since it has never threatened world peace. There is a division of opinion among U. S. delegates here on this point, and President Roosevelt will probably have to decide.

Summary of Major Points

Here is a summary of the historic decisions taken at the Inter-American conference, which Secretary Stettinius described as the hemisphere's most successful:

1. The Act of Chapultepec—guarantees American frontiers and political independence, backed by the armed forces of American countries.

2. Reorganization of the Pan-American union, supported by a permanent board representing all American general staffs, to act as a security council for this hemisphere and as the coordinating body for all political, economic and social relations.

3. The economic charter for the Americas which pledges the na-

Further Gains On Luzon Reported

By CLYDE BARTEL
Associated Press War Editor

American Marines with tank, air and naval gunfire support made further small gains yesterday against desperate Japanese machinegun defense of last enemy lines in the hills of northern Iwo Jima, while Yank doughboys seized more towns on Luzon island in the Philippines.

Tanks crawled over Iwo's volcanic rock and sand terrain to knock out Japanese pillboxes and reached the cliff top overlooking the northeast beach, as the Third, Fourth and Fifth Marine divisions moved slowly ahead in the third day of the sustained drive to finish the battle for the island, said Pacific fleet headquarters.

(By The Associated Press)
Tokyo radio said today that warships have been bombarding Zamboanga on the southwest tip of Mindanao island in the southern Philippines since early Thursday morning and the bombardment "is believed to be a prelude to a landing attempt."
The report was without any Allied confirmation.
Mindanao is second only to American-invaded Luzon island in size in the Philippines. It was bypassed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur when his forces returned to the Philippines at Leyte last October.

Wont Be Long Now

Despite the continued bitter enemy resistance, the opinion that "it won't be long before this thing is over," was expressed by Vice Adm. Richmond K. Turner, naval amphibious commander in the operation.

Fleet headquarters also said that Army, Navy and Marine long-range planes hit Japanese installations in the Bonin islands, north of Iwo, and on Wake island and the Palaus.

President Sergio Osmena of the Philippine commonwealth government administered the oath of office to his new cabinet in Manila. All the cabinet members were patriots who had refused to collaborate with the Nipponese, and several were guerrilla leaders.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said units of the 33rd division captured Aringay, west of the Philippine summer capital of Baguio, after a 12-mile drive north along the mountainous west coast of Luzon.

Crossing Sharply Alters Situation, With Depleted Germans Forced Finally To Bay

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

COLOGNE, Germany, March 8—The First Army's crossing of the Rhine altered the Western front military situation overnight, and opened the possibility of shortening the European struggle by months.

As a result, the First, Ninth, and Third U. S. armies and the First Canadian Army may change over from their limited operations of clearing out the west bank of the Rhine to the more continuous and ambitious project of forcing the river before the Germans have time to organize any semblance of organized defense.

No Time To Regroup

The rapid Third and First Army advances south of Cologne caught the Germans by surprise. It is apparent that they have had no time to reorganize their scattered forces east of the river at any point.

Marshal von Rundstedt did not have sufficient troops to hold the German border defenses. In the Allied drive to the Rhine by four armies he lost at least a third to a half of what few he had.

Thus with disorganized forces totaling less than he had to hold a stabilized front, the Nazi field marshal is facing if not an impossible task at least the most difficult task of the war.

This is the task of trying to seal off the First Army bridgehead and at the same time throwing up a defense along the entire length of the river.

Two Possibilities

Only two possibilities seem open to the Germans in trying to halt the First Army threat to run through the center of Germany. One is to pull troops from the Russian front. The other is to abandon the Italian front and pull the 27 German divisions out of there.

The first step appears extremely unlikely in view of the new Russian offensive along the Oder

Goebbels Admits Climax Is Past

LONDON, March 8. (AP) — Propaganda Minister Paul Gobbels told the German people today that the war had "already exceeded its climax" and would "lead up to a furioso in its final phase, then end suddenly and rashly" in German victory.

Predicting German superiority in morale and purpose would permit Germany to snatch victory in the final moment of crisis, Goebbels said in an article in his newspaper, Das Reich:

"Experience teaches us it is not man's business to argue or speculate about the forcible necessities of the war. War comes at the moment it's due with the force of a hurricane and usually ends the same way, quite suddenly after its wildest eruption."

Fronts Remain Fluid

The fighting fronts remain fluid, he said, and "it is not to be presumed that it will become completely stabilized anywhere at any time."

The German radio, more than 24 hours after the Americans crossed the Rhine, made no mention of it tonight but some accounts stressed the growing fury of the battle.

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius of Transocean predicted the major Rhine crossing would be attempted by the British Second and Canadian First armies across the north German plain.

He asserted that despite the pressure on the central Rhine, "there is no serious threat to the Rhine line yet between Bonn and Coblenz."

Vinson Acts On 'Fringe' Wages

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — Fred M. Vinson fixed the limits for four common "fringe" wage adjustments tonight in his last act as economic stabilizer, and said they could be granted without OPA approval.

These adjustments involved vacations, shift differentials, merit increases and job reclassifications.

At first the Vinson order, handed down as he took the oath as federal loan administrator, to be succeeded by William H. Davis, former WLB chairman, was regarded as a concession to the board.

Short of Expectations

Later analysis by the board showed, however, that the ruling was not as liberal as it had expected it to be.

The possibility immediately arose that Davis might have to make his own revision or extension of the order to cover additional fringe adjustments.

In a statement which the board at first blocked from release through the Office of War Information but later withdrew objection to, Vinson said that all other fringe adjustments, which he classed as "minor," could not become effective if OPA says a price increase would be needed.

Of immediate concern was the status of the meat packing and textile industry cases, blocked in the dispute over this "fringe" policy.

Both still must be released by the board, which stayed the effectiveness of its decisions pending settlement of the policy, and some portions will go through Davis and some through OPA.

The textile case, establishing a 55-cent minimum and 5-cent general increase for 23 southern and 31 northern mills, would have to be approved by Davis, who voted for it several weeks ago as a member of the WLB.

Job reclassification phases of the meat packing case would go through Davis, but the OPA would have to pass on the provision for free tools and work clothes, a board spokesman said.

Clearing his desk for Davis, Vinson issued the order authorizing WLB approval of these four wage adjustments to become effective on authorization of Davis, instead of OPA, if price ceilings or production costs would be increased.

Floydada Woman Liberated On Luzon

Miss Hester D. West of Floydada, who has spent most of the last decade as a Methodist missionary in China and the Philippines, has been freed from Los Banos prison camp in southern Luzon, the Associate Press reported Thursday night.

Miss West, a native of Floydada, is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. L. West of that town.

In a telephone conversation last night with a Morning Avalanche reporter, Mrs. West said that she and Mrs. West had not heard directly from their daughter since the fall of Manila. They had roundabout word from Miss West in December of 1943, when a repatriated friend of the missionary contacted them by a letter.

The Floydada residents were notified Monday of the liberation of Miss West in a communication from the War department.

Mrs. West said her daughter had spent five years in China as a missionary, that she was transferred to the Philippines when the war in China increased in scope. Including the years of her internment, Miss West has been in the Philippines approximately four and a half years. She spent a year in the states at the expiration of her services in China.

She is a former student of Baylor university and of Vanderbilt in Nashville, Tenn.

Women In Drive Top Their Quota

The women's division of the Red Cross War Fund drive not only met its residential section quota yesterday, but beat last year's $12,009 as well, Mrs. Hub Jones, chairman announced. A total of $12,058 has been contributed to date, with workers still bringing in Red Cross memberships.

Give To The Red Cross

Reports on the general drive for the county, of which George P. Kuykendall is financial chairman, showed $62,825 in the bank at 6 p. m. yesterday. Another $11,375 must be obtained from unsolicited contributions, and from Slaton's, Lubbock Army Air field's and rural community campaigns to meet the county quota of $74,500.

NEW DEAL DELAYS REPORT
Due to the fact that all of the members of the committee were not present, there was no financial report given at the meeting Thursday night at the New Deal auditorium. Two movies were shown, however, and talks were made by W. O. Fortenberry and W. C. O'Mara.

Contributions from those who were missed in the two-day solicitation drive are continuing to come in at financial headquarters at Kuykendall Chevrolet company, and persons who want to con-

City Commission Moves To Improve Health Conditions

City commissioners Thursday afternoon took action to improve health conditions in Lubbock by authorizing the inauguration of a typhus fever control program, instructing the health department to make recommendations for the construction of a new city dog "pound" and extending the inspection service of health department for dairies and milk plants.

The typhus control program will include the passage of an ordinance requiring all business buildings in the city to be rat-proofed and rat-freed and the permanent maintenance of such a service by the city.

The commissioners' action set up a $3,000 revolving fund for the rat eradication work, the money to be used to pay labor required in the work and to purchase tools and materials. Cost of rat-proofing the buildings will be paid either by the owner or occupant of the building.

To Use Experienced Help

An experienced former employe of the U. S. Public Health service is to be employed to direct the work.

City Health Officer J. W. Rollo and Gerald Jarvis, laboratory technician, appeared before the commission to present the proposals for expansion of the health services. Dr. Rollo was instructed to make the proper arrangements for setting up the program after preparation and approval of the ordinance by the commissioners.

Dr. Rollo and Jarvis were also instructed to make recommendations for the location and construction of the new dog pound and improvement of the city's dog-catching department. Figures of the department reveal that an average of 108 dogs per month have been impounded by the city during the past several months and that present facilities are inadequate.

Milk inspection service was ordered expanded to include inspection of dairies and milk plants in the Plainview area after it was revealed that milk for Lubbock consumption was being secured there due to the decrease in the number of dairies in this area because of the manpower shortage.

Liberated Heroes Of Bataan Choke Up On Reaching Home

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8 (AP) —"This makes it all worth while!"

With these few, tear-choked words, Sgt. William Thomas, 48, Bloomsburg, Pa., expressed for nearly all the 272 heroes of Bataan returned here today, the reaction to the open armed, heartfelt and clamorous welcome given them as they steamed through the Golden Gate and into San Francisco.

After three years of imprisonment by the Japanese, they were liberated Jan. 30 by Rangers who broke into the Cabanatuan camp to free all held there.

San Francisco turned out in a tumultuous welcome for the heroes. The harbor was alive with boats, their whistles and sirens screaming, their masts and lines bedecked. Bands played and flags tossed.

"I'm tickled. I just can't talk. It's the most beautiful sight I ever saw!" That's the way it was with Lt. Harry M. Brown, 30, of Cicero, Ind., who had been away four years. His wife now is at Brownsburg, Ind.

Mayor Roger Lapham and Army officers boarded the big transport in the harbor to extend an official welcome.

"Every one of us is glad you're here," the mayor exclaimed. "We will try to make up for the things you have gone through. Thank God you're back."

The liberated soldiers lined the rail as the transport moved to the dock. Many seemed straining to catch sight of a familiar face

Wounded Vet, Hurt In Pride, Declines Medal For Heroism

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 8. (AP) — With a wound to his pride deeper than those of the flesh, Sgt. Joseph Kusaila, 24, of Waterbury, Conn., has declined to accept a medal for "leadership under fire" after the Army had refused to make him a commissioned officer.

In a letter to Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, Kusaila, who is a patient here at the Army's Nichols General hospital, said that the officer candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga., "washed him out" as officer material on the grounds that he "lacked the qualifications of a leader."

Later he went overseas and related in his letter to Gen. Marshall that when two officers deserted their men and "fled in terror" in the face of enemy fire, he led an assault against enemy positions. Kusaila and his group knocked out four German pillboxes and isolated a fifth, he said, taking more thin 50 prisoners.

For this he received the Bronze Star which he termed in his letter to the chief of staff "an ill-conceived sop to my conscience."

The 2,500-word letter was painfully typed with the veteran's left hand while his right, broken and partly paralyzed by a shell fragment, hung in a sling.

Kusaila, an honor graduate of Columbia university and a former photographer's model, addressed the American commander earnestly and respectfully. In an interview here he said he realized the seriousness of the charges he wa making against American officers. He asserted that the

Ohio Valley Believed Winning In Costly Fight On Flooded Rivers

PORTSMOUTH, O., March 8. (AP)—The Ohio valley appeared to be winning its fight against the third most disastrous flood in its history tonight, but the issue was undecided at some points. The cost was terrific.

Although less seribus than floods of 1937 and 1913, the rain-fed Ohio river and its tributaries laid siege to hundreds of war arsenals in the rich industrial valley, took at least 10 lives and forced possibly 150,000 persons from their homes.

Crests Move South

The crests, however, were headed downstream to the broad Mississippi, and there, flood control provisions were expected to keep the waters in bounds.

Portsmouth was the scene of the stiffest fight against the Ohio. Sand bag and earthwork dikes were erected atop the city's 62-foot floodwall as waters of the Ohio and the Scioto rose above the premanent barrier. The water stood at 64.3 feet. Army engineers supervising the dike-bulding said "we have a fifty-fifty chance of holding, even if it reaches 66 feet."

Empty sandbags were flown to the beleaguered city by Army troop-carrying transports. They were dropped to soldiers and volunteers—including men, women and children—erecting the hasty breastworks.

Ebbing At Pittsburgh

The river was ebbing at Pittsburgh, where it is formed by the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers. Other cities along Ohio's eastern border, such as East Liverpool and Steubenville, reported the waters receding, but days must elapse before thousands who fled to the highlands can return and begin the job of drying out their homes. For some of them this is an almost-annual task.

Louisville, Ky., expected a crest of 47.5 feet tonight or tomorrow morning, and expected the waters to remain at the stage for a day or so.

Cincinnati's flood receded from a top of 69.2 feet, and then remained stationary.

Shawneetown, Ill., traditional victim of high waters, had 51 feet of water, highest since 1937, and forecasters looked for a crest of perhaps 60 feet by the week's end.

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Try Hot Water Plus For Acute Distress–Pain After Eating

Perhaps the greatest cause of distressing stomach upsets is excess stomach acidity.

If the thousands of unfortunate people, who suffer from so-called dyspepsia, acid indigestion, food fermentation, sour stomach, flatulence, gas or other stomach distress brought on by excess acid would drink slowly after each meal half a glass of real hot water containing one spoonful of NEUTRACID they can usually obtain almost unbelieveable relief in a very few minutes!

NEUTRACID is not a laxative — it is soothing and comforting to the mucous membranes and very agreeable to take. NEUTRACID—a physician's formula can now be obtained at Mark Halsey Drug Co.; O'Donnell Arts; Corner Drug Store. Or any first class Drug Store.

Ex-Soldier Suicides As Cops Scan Room

WASHINGTON, March 8. (AP)—A man tentatively identified as Warren G. Payne, 24, of La Tuna, Tex. (El Paso county), a discharged soldier, died early today, a few hours after jumping from an 8th floor hotel window while in the custody of police.

Seated in a police cruiser car near where he struck the ground was his bride of only a day, the former Elizabeth Sarak, 27, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. She did not see him fall.

The man had been arrested in a night club on charges of passing bad checks and impersonating an army officer. He wore the uniform of a second lieutenant in the medical corps when he jumped without warning through a closed window as city and military police searched his room.

Payne and his bride were married Tuesday in Hyattesville, Md. They met while he was an army orderly at the Kew Gardens hospital, Kew Gardens, Long Island, N. Y., and she was a nurses' aide there. Police said he was a private in the medical corps until May 1943, when he was discharged. They did not disclose the reason for his discharge.

He had resided in El Paso, Texas as well as La Tuna since entering the Army, police said.

Cologne Vastly Different Now To City Writer Visited Back In '41

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Cologne I visited four years ago was a fast moving community full of hard working men and women who spent their money freely and would bet you the war would be over by Christmas.

They drank beer in the cheapest places of amusement. They mixed champagne with a red Bulgarian wine in middle class resorts. That mixture produced a terrific hangover. In the swank night spots which evaded the 11 p.m. curfew with connivance of the Nazi police, they were drinking champagne straight.

Was Boom Town Then

Cologne was a boom town with its roofs on and money in the pocket and in the bank. They weren't such a bad lot on the surface and they were having a big time with their well paying jobs, their girl friends and the hope of world domination.

Cologners weren't even angry with the British. They were just annoyed. Dozens of them told me that the British were silly. The British, they said, had been licked in 1940 and were just too stubborn to quit. The German long word for it meant, "war prolongers." They weren't angry with Americans, either, but there was evident the first faint stirring of suspicion and, maybe, fear. Our first lend-lease bill was well on its way in Congress when I was there.

Conversation Recalled

If Herr Direktor Klein of Cologne's Humboldt - Deutz motor works is still alive, I'd like to resume with him today our conversation of just four years ago which took place in his well furnished plant office.

I wouldn't want to resume in Klein's office, though. I see by the papers that Klein's office and plant are missing. One of the things Klein told me, and which I verified by personal inspection of the city and its industrial suburbs, was that British bombers had not hurt Cologne. I went all over town and couldn't find any bomb scars. Maybe a patched roof here and there, but that was more attributable to falling flak fragments than to British bombs.

The Royal Air force then was pitifully weak as a striking force. Klein's plant was a good example. On the city outskirts it was making 5,000 big and little diesel motors every month. Klein said there had not been an hour's interruption of work since the war began. I am sure he told the truth.

He showed me pridefully around, reporting that he was adjusting his production methods as rapidly as he could to those of a Chevrolet plant he once had visited near Detroit. In his easy colloquial English, Klein said "that Chevvie plant was a production man's dream to come true, but with angels."

Where I'd like to resume our conversation was at the point just before I said goodbye. We had been discussing the lend-lease act. Klein and other Germans were asking "what will the United States do?" I told them I didn't know.

"Never mind," Klein said to me, "it makes no difference, because your intervention would not be the deciding factor this time. You know, Wilson, old fellow, this is not 1918."

Really Not 1918

That's where I'd like to pick up our conversation. I would agree with Klein that this is not 1918. The Cologne of 1918 was unscratched just as I found it in the latter days of February and the early days of March in 1941. Four years ago Cologne was as lively and weather-tight a community as there was on earth.

In Cologne I stopped in the Dom hotel on the square which surrounds the magnificent Cologne cathedral. The Dom hotel is missing, too. Hanging out my top floor window one night I heard and saw what passed for a fairly severe air raid in 1941. The British were overhead all right but compared with the pasting Cologne has taken in the past few weeks it was strictly a party call. The RAF scarcely left cards.

And now Cologne is dead, except for the great cathedral. Its walls have been chipped a bit but the famous 15th century stained glass windows must be safe. The Germans were removing them four years ago when I was there. My 1941 hotel room is part of a rubble heap in a roofless basement. The restaurants and theaters I attended are gone. The men and women I talked to are dead or captured or they are refugees.

When Klein said this was not 1918 he was a better prophet than he knew.

Until the opening of the new Ledo road, no truck fleet had rolled into China since the Japanese closed the Burma road two and a half years before.

Bill To Kill Courts Gets Committee Nod

AUSTIN, March 8 (U.P.)—A substitute bill abolishing five regular and three special district courts today had a favorable report from a Texas house committee.

Adopted as a substitute to the original proposal by Rep. C. M. McFarland, Wichita Falls, which called for abolition of 26 courts, the bill was approved last night by the committee on judicial districts.

Committee Chairman Ned Price, Tyler, said eliminated would be the following regular courts: 91st, Eastland county; 89th, Wichita county; 77th, Limestone county; 111th, Webb county, and 20th, Falls county, and special courts in Smith, Rusk, and Walker counties.

Price said he expected to ask house consideration of the bill within a week.

CAPABLE

A GIRL entered the manager's office to apply for a job, and when asked if she had any particular qualifications or unusual talents, stated that she had won several prizes in crossword puzzle and slogan contests.

"That sounds good," the manager told her, "but we want somebody who will be smart during office hours."

"Oh," she explained brightly, "this WAS during office hours."

MARINE TOLBERT

M/Sgt. Frank Tolbert, USMC, one of our favorite "we knew him when" persons, was in the office for a few minutes Thursday afternoon and stopped by the desk long enough to say "Hi, how you been?" and shrug off the questions we asked about his writing career, which seems to be going with the speed of an avalanche in the Alps.

Frank has traveled to many places in his position as overseas editor of the Marine's "Leatherneck," but he says he could get as much material for his short stories right here in Lubbock as any spot he visited in the Pacific. Magazines are turning thumbs down on war stories, for instance, he said.

There are not many young men who have already seen their names under short stories and articles in Saturday Evening Post, Collier's and Esquire, such as has been Frank's, fortune. He is so modest about it all and won't look at you when he wriggles as you question him and he says, "Shucks, anybody could have done it."

WE asked about the "Little Virgie" stories which were so popular and Frank said he got tired of her and thought he would never write another one.

That Marine can write; there are no two ways about it and when he says anyone can do it he is being entirely too "Ernie Pyleish." Anybody can do it with Frank's splendid mind and with his luck in having a mother who helped him gain a vocabulary and a love of words and seeing how he could arrange those words on paper in order to be just a little different from another writer.

WANTS DOG

DEAR MISS TURNER:

I am a boy 12 years old. I am out of school because of ill health and get very lonesome for someone to play with during the day. I think a little dog would be perfect; so if anyone has a small pup he would like to give me please call 7000.

I had rather have a male dog.

Sincerely yours,
Wade Brock,
2419 Twenty-fourth.

DEAR WADE:

We're sorry you are missing school because of your health and naturally we know you want a dog, as almost every boy does. We have a hunch that someone seeing this request will get in touch with you. As least, here's wishing you luck.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR MISS TURNER:

I read your column and know you help people in many different ways and I certainly hope you can help me too.

I have a brother who is with the tank corps in Germany and he has written twice, asking me to send him several clippings of the story about a friend of his who was killed in action. The boy was Sgt. Samuel Walker and the story of his death was in the Lubbock paper sometime around the first of this year.

I have tried unsuccessfully to find the paper or the date of the story. If any of your readers knows the date of that paper I would appreciate it if he would tell me.

Sgt. Walker had several buddies still fighting in Germany and they have asked my brother to get them copies of the story.

Thank you,
Mrs. L. K. Hess,
1802 Ave. S.

Profiteering In Surpluses Seen

WASHINGTON, March 8. (AP)—Rep. Poage (D-Tex) declared today that the procedure followed in disposing of surplus Army equiment is an invitation to profiteering.

"Millions of dollars worth of construction equipment and farm machinery, including tractors, buildozers, fresnoes and street paving rollers are being offered for sale," the Texan commented in an interview.

"The bulk of this valuable material will go to a small handful of dealers backed with a lot of money. If there isn't a lot of profiteering in the disposal of equipment under the surplus properties disposal act I'll be surprised."

Sales Scheduled

Poage referred to a series of sales scheduled this week and next in Oklahoma and Texas.

Most of the equipment for sale was used in the construction of Denison dam on the Red river between the two states, the Grand river dam in Oklahima, and in the construction of numerous Army camps and air fields throughout the two states.

"There's nothing irregular about the way the sales are being carried out. The fault lies in the law. It does provide that state or city governments have first chance at buying the equipment, but unless they happen to have the money ready right then to do business they're out of the picture.

Will Go To Few Dealers

"That's why practically all of this will go to a few dealers with a lot of financial backing."

Page has introduced legislation to amend the law to provide for turning over such equipment as bulldozers and ditch digging machines to soil consehvation districts.

Under his proposed amendment, which is pending before the House agriculture committee, the secretary of agriculture would have the authority to requisition such machinery as he deemed needed from stockpile which had been declared surplus by any other government agency. The Agriculture department then would issue the machinery to local soil conservation districts, either by loan or grant, to carry on soil erosion control work.

Laredo Newsman Asks Rehearing Of Appeal

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—A motion for rehearing of his appeal from a criminal libel conviction has been filed in the court of criminal appeals by William Prescott Allen, Laredo Times publisher.

The court, said Allen's attorneys in the motion, "does not cite a single Texas case in support of its conclusions."

The court in reversing and remanding the cause had held that part of the language in an article in the Times was libelous, and that part of it was not. The cause was reversed and remanded, the court said, because the trial judge should have limited the jury's consideration to the "language of the statement charged in the indictment to be libelous."

Allen also asked that the original cause be dismissed and not remanded for new trial.

Vinson Takes Oath As Federal Loan Chief

WASHINGTON, March 8. (AP)—Fred M. Vinson took the oath as federal loan administrator today in a quiet ceremony attended only by his immediate family and members of his staff.

The ceremony was in the federal reserve building office he used as director of economic stabilization.

Schoolboy Cagers Reach Semi-Finals

AUSTIN, March 8.—West Texas cage teams found the going was tough in the Texas schoolboy basketball tournament, and first round firing took a heavy toll from the ranks of West Texans at the big show.

The winners from regional meets at Canyon, Plainview and Abilene sent four of the 24 teams to the state tournament in Austin, and only one of these four teams survived the first round.

The two Abilene winners were called upon to play defending state champions in their respective divisions, and only the Baird Bears came through with a victory. They knocked out the defending Class A champion, the Nocona Indians, in a 25--23 thriller.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

AUSTIN, March 8 (AP)—Tomorrow's schedule in the state schoolboy basketball tournament:

9 a. m.—Enterprise vs Ingleside (Class B).

10:15 a. m.—Prairie Valley vs Prairie Lea (Class B).

11:30 a. m. — Quitman vs Baird (Class A).

2:00 p. m.—East Mountain vs Sidney Lanier (San Antonio) (Class A).

3:15 p. m.—Pampa vs Greenville (Class AA).

4:30 p. m.—Lufkin vs Waco (Class AA).

7:15 p. m.—Paschal (Fort Worth) vs Austin (Class AA).

8:30 p. m. — El Paso vs Milby (Houston) (Class AA).

Lacking the polish with which they usually operate, but still looming well above the field, Prairie Lea's defending state Class B champions mowed down the other Abilene winner, Highland of Roscoe, 42-24.

Panhandle Clubs Lose

The Panhandle winners at the state tournament were both beaten, but both of them made great showings, and their margin of defeat was very close. The Class A Canadian team fell before East Mountain, 33-31, to eliminate the Plainview tournament winner.

Stratford, winner of the Class B tournament at Canyon, lost a heart breaker to Prairie Valley of Nocona, 26-22, to complete the round of the West Texans at the state tournament.

Baird knocked out the first of the two defending champions to return this year, and won the right to play Quitman Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock in the semi-finals. Quitman rolled over Victoria, 45-21, to reach the semi-final bracket.

The Prairie Lea five started sluggishly, and never reached the high scoring peak that had carried them to 26 straight victories, but they were entirely too much for Highland, and won going away.

Stratford Game Close

The Prairie Valley-Stratford game was close all the way. With only a minute left to play, Prairie Valley managed to do a good job of stalling, and protect a narrow two point margin, while slipping in another two pointer to insure the victory.

Prairie Lea and Prairie Valley will meet in the semi-finals Friday, following the game which will match Mt. Enterprise, a good looking outfit from East Texas' piney woods, and the tall boys from Ingleside.

Mt. Enterprise brushed by Sugarland, 34-26, and Ingleside advanced by beating McCamey, 32-16, in today's opening round.

The Class A semi-finals were paired up tonight as Sidney Lanier of San Antonio nosed by Texas City in a free scoring 41-40 thriller that closed the night show.

Sidney Lanier, who was champion two years ago, but beaten at the state meet last year, will tangle with East Mountain, winner over Canadian in the first night game, in the other Class A semi-final game.

The Class AA bays will go into action Friday, with the eyes of West Texas on the first and last games on the Class AA slate. Pampa plays Friday afternoon and El Paso plays the finale Friday night.

Pampa will meet Greenville, winner over Highland Park in the bi-district, and El Paso will meet the favorite, Milby of Houston. El Paso was winner over Abilene in the bi-district playoff.

Field Completed At Cage Tourney

KANSAS CITY, March 8 (AP)—Completion of the 16-team bracket for the National Intercollegiate basketball tournament in Municipal auditorium March 12-17 came today with entries of Doane college, Crete, Neb., and Simpson college of Indianola, Iowa, Director Emil S. Liston announced today.

The "streamlined" 16-team tourney will be a single elimination affair with three night games the first four days and two games nightly Friday and Saturday.

"Despite war-time conditions, we will have a strong field," Liston said. "I am amazed at the eagerness with which colleges all over the country have sought to enter the tournament."

The other 14 teams include: West Texas State Teachers, Canyon.

Potts Cagers Take Boys Club Feature

The junior league basketball game Thursday afternoon at the Lubbock Boys club was almost a one-man show, Frank Clark leading the Potts team to a 33 to 21 victory over the Laquey team, by pouring in 21 points for the top scoring honors. Melvin Lindsey paced the losers with ten points.

In the midget league, Dickie Lowrey made it another one-man show, leading his own team to an 18-10 win over Crawford, and shooting in 12 of the points himself. Jimmy Crawford also led his own team, getting half of its points.

COACH CHANGES JOB

HOUSTON, March 8. (AP)—Ray Tripp, coach at the Cedar Bayou High school for the past year, has resigned to become associated with the Port Arthur coaching staff.

Hermleigh Beats China Clippers

HILLSBORO, March 8. — The high flying China Clippers ran into unexpected trouble here tonight, and found the West Texas brand of girls basketball was a little tougher than that of their own back yard, and the club's 97-game winning streak was snapped by Hermleigh, 36-34.

The Clippers were heavy favorites to win the sixth annual tournament, Hermliegh, a team from Scurry county, brought a great record of 30 wins and three defeats to the state tournament but critics gave them no chance to stop the mighty Clippers.

With the condolences of the critics ringing in their ears, the Scurry county team took the floor as decided underdogs, but proceeded to throw the state playoffs wide open for the rest of the route.

The West Texas brand of basketball was featured throughout the opening day of the tournament, and three other strong West Texas clubs came through with victories in the opening round.

Union of Dawson county romped to an easy win over Bloomington, 31-8, Whitharral nosed out a 43-41 victory over Avinger in a high scoring thriller, and Friona romped to a 38-24 win over Lott.

Aquilla, defending state champion, had little trouble in beating Comfort, 35-21.

Other first round scores were Mesquite 47, Novice 21; LaPoyner 24, Aledo 19; Follett 45, Jonesboro 17.

In Friday's quarter-final round in the lower bracket, two top West Texas teams will clash when Union moves against Whitharral. In the opener lower bracket game, Hermleigh will play Follett. In the upper bracket, Friona plays Mesquite and Aquilla plays La Poyner.

Cubs Move Indoors For First Workout

FRENCH LICK, Ind., March 8 (AP)—The opening spring training session of the Chicago Cubs was "all wet" for Manager Charlie Grimm and the nine players who were on hand today for the first stir of the National League's warm-up season.

Their practice field inundated by the swollen Lost river, the slim early-bird contingent eased through a light workout in the auditorium of the French Lick hotel.

Of the reporting nine, only Tommy Livingston, regular catcher in 1943 who recently was discharged from the Army, had veteran status.

Cowhands Black Take Track Meet Honors, Golds Second

Wayne Cobb's Cowhands Black carried off top honors in the Sophomore-Freshman track and field meet Thursday afternoon at Chapman field, but the great individual work of Trennon Stroud kept the Cowhands Gold in the thick of the fight.

Stroud, captain of the Golds, accounted for 16¼ points for the top honors of the day, getting three first places, and running a leg on the winning 440 yard relay team. He copped first in the 50, 100 and 200 yard dashes.

The Blacks piled up a total of 37 points, the Golds followed with 47, to give the Sophomore class a grand total of 104 points. The Cowboys White followed with 24 points and the Cowhands Red finished with four points.

Williams Steals Show

In the eighth grade track meet, Coach Morris and Wimberley's Whites won over Barrett and Parker's Reds, 67½ to 46½, with Charley Williams, a seventh grader competing with the eighth graders, stealing the show.

Williams won four first places, and ran a leg on the winning 880 yard relay team. He stepped over the 50 yard dash in 6 seconds, took the 100 yard dash in 12.1 seconds, jumped 16 feet, 10 inches in the broad jump and threw the junior discus 77 feet, 3 inches.

A sixth grader, battling the eighth grade opposition, took the pole vault as Bill Davis, young son of Coach J. Mule Davis, soared over the bar at 7 feet, 9 inches for first place.

In the duel between the Cowhands and Cowboys, another Davis son, Sam, tied for top honors in the pole vault with Lester ork of the Cowboys White, with a leap of 8 feet, 3 inches.

Other First Winners

In other field events, Arthur Rampy of the Blacks, won his second first place of the day, jumping 17 feet, 5½ inches to take the broad jump. Bob Schmidt of the Golds took first in the high jump with 4 feet, 10 inches. Gene James of the Blacks won first in the shot put with 43 feet, and Wayne Cobb won the junior discus with 101 feet, 3 inches.

Rampy's other first place was in the 110 yard low hurdles, stepping the distance in 14.3 seconds. Stroud won the 50 yard dash in 6 seconds, the 100 yard dash in 11.1 seconds, and the 200 yard dash in 22.9 seconds. Jim Johnson of the Blacks won the 440 yard dash in 60 seconds, and Jackie Davis of the Whites won the 880 yard run in 2 minutes, 38.6 seconds. Stroud, Jack Vaughn, John Lanham and Lloyd Thompson won the 440 yard relay in 50.5 seconds.

The Lubbock Westerners will take to the runways this afternoon at 4 o'clock with such track powers as Levelland, Andrews, Denver City and Tahoka to be among those who will show up for the invitation practice meet.

Lubbock Wins Over Idalou Tennis Club

Lubbock High school tennis hopefuls showed lots of promise for a big year as they won Thursday afternoon's encounter with Idalou netters in a series of matches here. The local tennis players plan to return the games to Idalou next week.

Lubbock won both boys events, and the girls doubles team won the first set of their match with the Idalou girls, but the match was called because of darkness at the end of one set.

Louis and Herbert Hawkins of Lubbock won over Eugene Becknell and Sam Bishop in the boys doubles, 6-1, 6-4. David Hester was hard pressed to defeat Garland Taylor of Idalou in the boys singles, 6-3, 6-4.

Wanda Sawyers came from behind to beat Francys Peters in the girls singles, for the lone Idalou victory. Peters took the first set, 6-1, but Sawyers came back to sweep the next two sets, 6-2, 6-1.

Francys Peters teamed with

Snead, Hamilton Set Fast Pace

MIAMI, Fla., March 8 (AP) — Sam Snead and Bob Hamilton made the game of golf look as easy as hopscotch or any other child's pastime today as they led the way through the first round of the $7,500 International Four Ball tournament with a lop-sided 10 to 9 triumph.

Snead's eagle and five birdies and Hamilton's seven birdies took the "international" angle out of the event. Victims were Stanley Horne and Jules Huot, the Canadians who formed the only non-United States team.

The top-seeded combination of Byron Nelson and Harold McSpaden won as expected, but the day brought an unexpected threat from their second round opponents, Ben Hogan and Ed Dudley.

Hogan showed flashes of his old-time brilliance, and he and Dudley won, 8 and 7, over Ky Laffoon and Jack Grout.

The "Gold Dust Twins" took things easy in downing Willie Klein and Pvt. Otey Crisman, 6 and 5.

A surprise contender came forth in the team of Chick Rutan and Claude Harmon, who prevailed by a 7 and 6 edge over Mike Turnesa and Willie Goggin.

Wilson, Carter Split In Volleyball Series

The Wilson Wranglers and K. Carter Coyotes split even Thursday afternoon in the Lubbock Grade school volleyball league play.

The Wilson girls won a 26-18 victory over Carter, while the Carter boys evened the series with a 27-17 win over Wilson.

After tomorrow's round, the low 100 scorers will play an 18-hole test Saturday with the low 60 survivors playing for $800 in prize money in a 36-hole competition Sunday.

Jack Sharkey Rates Dempsey As No. One

BOSTON, March 8. (AP)—After being silent for more than eight years as boxing's most heated argument became more so, Jack Sharkey, Boston's former heavyweight titlist has settled it by publicly stating that Jack Dempsey was a much more effective puncher than Joe Louis, the current titlist.

Sharkey is considered somewhat an authority, being the only one who fought them both.

Ignoring Dempsey's recent omission of himself from the former's "best 10" opponents, Sharkey placed the old Manassa Mauler first on his own first 10 list and Louis seventh.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

An Encouraging Sign

Keep An Eye On Eric Johnston

AN alert Washington newspaper reporter standing near the "house phones" in a major capital hotel the other evening heard a man call for a room number and, when he got his connection, say:

"Eric? This is Bill. Shall I come up now?"

Apparently the answer was in the affirmative, because the caller hung up the phone and made for the elevators.

The man doing the calling—the one referring to himself as "Bill"—was William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

The man called "Eric" was Eric Johnston, level-headed, progressive, intelligent president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Eric Johnston, as everyone knows now, is a most unusual sort of fellow—especially unusual to be head of the Voice of Business, the United States Chamber of Commerce. To be sure, he isn't suitable to some of the nation's industrial czars, or to extremists in the ranks of labor who maintain soft jobs by keeping their followers in an uproar over differences between labor and management. But the rank and file of Americans; to the more intelligent of American business leaders and unionists, Eric Johnston is highly satisfactory. He represents a new trend in employer thinking; is an example of co-operation between men who sign paychecks and those who receive them.

Ever since he was elected president of the USCC, Eric Johnston has gone out of his way to maintain cordial relations with the more responsible leaders of labor. And because they are like all the rest of us, and appreciate willingness on the part of another to "go half way" and, if necessary, a little more, chief unionists have extended to Eric Johnston the same sort of cordiality he has extended to them. While he and they haven't always agreed in principle, there has been between Mr. Johnston, Mr. Green and Philip Murray, of the CIO, a personal relationship here-to-fore unknown among men in their respective positions. "Eric" and "Bill" and "Phil" have always been able to sit down together and talk things over without getting mad—which to us indicates a great deal.

In the peace era to come, American management and American labor are going to have to work together; they're going to have to get along together—else they will pull down around their own heads, and the heads of all the rest of us, the whole economic and political structure of the nation. Eric Johnston has set for business a broad pattern. Those who follow him will do well to stay with the pattern.

Mr. Johnston is still a young man, on the sunny side of 50.

Because he has the confidence of most of business, much of organized labor and the vast majority of the people not connected directly with either management or unionism, he can play a major role in domestic affairs of the future and we hope he will.

It is not beyond the realm of imagination to suggest that some day the Presidency of the United States may call to Eric Johnston. If it does, he very likely will receive support from the more thoughtful in labor as well as of the more thoughtful in business.

Not Such A Bad Idea!

U. S. government monitors, whose duty it is to keep track of all enemy radio broadcasts, picked up an interesting bit of propaganda from the German radio the other day. Commenting on the Yalta conference, the German announcer said:

"Germany is to be beaten by brute force. All German industry will be carried off and courts will be set up to organize the mass murder of German men, women and children."

As far as Americans know, the Yalta conference did not make those precise decisions. But with the exception of the mass murder angle, most of us will be very well satisfied with the decisions of Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin if those were the ones they made.

Perhaps the German propagandist told his people those decisions were made because he knows in his heart that those are the punishments most deserved!

Japan's New Wooden Ships

WE note with interest that the Japanese have turned to construction of light wooden ships, instead of heavier models.

Just in case there is any misconception on the part of the Nipponese, let it be marked here that American submarines, surface vessels and airplanes can hit wooden ships as well as steel ones—and that the wooden variety will sink just as quickly!

"As they traveled west, many of our pioneers left their bones bleaching on the desert behind them," declared a political speaker on the radio last night. They must have been pretty wobbly after that.

CHICAGO—THE YOUNG GIANT

III

When Jeff Martin stepped out of the murky and smoke-blackened train shed into Chicago's bright sunlight he looked like a coal-heaver who had neglected to wash up at the end of the day's work. His face and hands were streaked with smoke and dust; his high-standing linen collar was wrinkled and smutty and his light-brown suit was disheveled. He had been two nights on the road, but he had not gone to bed at all, for he distrusted the newfangled sleeping car attached to the train.

He carried—and this was a deep secret—the sum of $3,000 in a money belt around his waist. This was an unexpected inheritance from a rhematic and querulous old maiden aunt to whom he had been kind and attentive.

He had reached the age of 32 and was vividly conscious that his life was a failure. He had tried hard, but for one reason or another, had never made a success of anything. Now he hoped to make a new start in the fast-growing, vigorous town that was on everybody's tongue.

Jeff was sadly disappointed in the appearance of Chicago, or of as much of it as he could see from the hack that he took to the Briggs House from the station. The city blocks were a hodge-podge of wooden and brick buildings, huddled together without harmony or design. Most of the wooden houses were unpainted, and they had the sodden appearance that comes from long exposure to the weather. Some of them leaned crazily to one side, or over the street, and looked as if a little push would knock them down.

Modern stores with handsome show windows stood next door to disreputable-looking barrooms. A wind was blowing and the air was full of dust and whirling scraps of paper. The streets and sidewalks were littered and dirty.

It was Sunday morning and church bells were ringing. About a block from the Briggs House there was a large and handsome church, built of wood and painted gray. Many groups of people were coming along the street, on their way to the services. Nearly all the men wore tall silk hats and the long, double-breasted frock coats known as Prince-Alberts.

In the matter of hair on the masculine face there was much diversity in fashion, but every grown-up male wore either a beard or a mustache. Jeff Martin had no beard but his mustache stood out, straight and stiff; he waxed it daily.

Leaning over in the hack to get a good view of the people going to church he noticed that the ladies of Chicago dressed exactly like the ladies of Baltimore. The hoopskirts era was over and full skirts with bustles had come into favor.

Skirts were long, so long indeed that their hems collected dust and refuse from the pavement. All the ladies worde over-dresses of colored silk. These outside garments were ornamented with embroidered flower and other decorations.

Jew spent his first days in Chicago going about the city. Studying a little map, he learned that the Chicago river ran straight east into Lake Michigan, and that about a mile and a quarter inland it was formed by two forks—one coming from the northwest and the other from the southwest—so these waterways had a shape somewhat like that of a capital letter Y, with wide-spreading branches.

The city was divided into three main divisions — North Side and South Side, meaning north or south of the river, and the West Side, which included everything between the two branches of the Y. To Jeff, as he strolled along the streets, the community seemed to be a conglomerate mixture of shanties, office buildings, marble residences, low and filthy dram shops and elegant stores.

The people he passed followed the same pattern. Sedate-looking gentlemen in high silk hats and properly equipped with gloves and canes were elbowed by toughs and street Arabs. Foreigners, with strange speech on their tongues, went back and forth.

Along the lake front on the North Side were the houses of many wealthy families.

Some of the costly, pretentious lake front residences were architectural monstrosities cluttered with turrets, domes, bay windows, cornices and portelcocheres. Simplicity was a word left out of the dictionary of the architects who designed these structures. They endeavored to fill every blank space with some ornamental device that would disgrace the facade of the houses.

The Henderson home, where he was attending a party the night of the fire, was similar in design to these palatial lake front dwellings but built on a smaller scale. It was of reddish brick and consisted of two stories and an attic. At one side a wide driveway led up to a porte-cochere. The porch in front was so wide and its ceiling so low that it kept the rooms on the lower floor in gloomy dusk even when the sun shone brightly The large weather vane on the ridge of the roof, shaped like a flying goose, creaked noisly with every little shift of the wind. The porte-cochere was much too big and stately for a house of such moderate size but to Jeff Martin it all seemed very elegant.

He thought it was just the kind of house he would build for himself if he ever had the means.

Easter Holidays At Tech Start Mar. 29

Easter holidays for Texas Tech students will begin at 6 p. m. Thursday, March 29 and classes will be resumed at 8 a. m. Wednesday, April 4, unless conditions develop which make it necessary to change them, it was announced by President Wm. M. Whyburn.

Rumors concerning cancellation of the Easter vacation have circulated but Dr. Whyburn said, "To date the college has had no official request that holidays be cancelled."

New Demonstration Is Staged In Italy

ROME, March 8. (AP) — Shots were fired in the night at carabinieri guarding a clinic where Lt. Gen. Count Francesco Jacomoni is held on war crimes charges, in another of the series of demonstrations so far weathered by Premier Ivanoe Bonomi.

No attempt was made to burst into the hospital.

The escape Sunday of Gen. Mario Roatta and a protest riot before the royal palace were previous incidents of the week.

The cabinet declared its confidence in Bonomi late yesterday. Opposition parties protested anew against his retention of control of the government.

Jacomoni, brought to court for continuation of his trial this morning, was guarded by carabinieri armed with submachine guns. He told the newsman that "I heard the shooting, but I stayed in bed."

Former viceroy of Albania, he was one of a group accused of helping Mussolini maintain his dictatorship. Among acts charged to him are the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, aggressive international policies and murder of the Roselli brothers in France.

Give To The Red Cross!

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

JUDGE Walter L. Hatfield of Elizabeth, N. J., has remitted the sentence of a young fellow whom he had sent to prison for a long term on a charge of embezzlement of $140.14 from his employer.

The boy has not only made full restitution from money which he earned at war work in the penitentiary, but he has completed more than two years of high school and is taking a correspondence course in tax accounting.

I am glad to see that for once the law is human and a judge is wise.

In a country as big as ours and a society as complex as the one in which we live, human beings have come to be considered too much as units of a mass.

Laws have to be made to fit the whole, and individuals cannot be taken into consideration.

But many of our laws are antiquated and belong to an era which has long since passed.

As a reporter I met many criminals and sat in at many trials.

In all the cases which I "covered," the law concerned itself only with the crime and its effect upon society and never with the cause and the background of the criminal.

Often I felt that other means could have done more to reform a wrong-door than a prison sentence. And yet, the law often has no other means, not even where the judge was sympathetic and human. He simply had no choice.

Have you ever visited a prison? Have you ever seen the misery of these places? Do you know the filth, the foul smells, the desolation and the graft in most of them?

I have talked to many a prison warden. Most of them are reasonably human, but almost all of them have become hardened, and prisoners to them are just so many human animals in capitivity.

"A prison is a place of punishment," said one of these wardens to me. "If you don't make it as unpleasant as possible to a criminal, he'll get to like it so much that he'd rather be here than work for a living."

That is just a lot of rot. The most luxurious prison is still a prison. Liberty is the very essence of life—at least here in the United States.

Some day, perhaps, we will find better ways to deal with crime than to build dungeons and cages for erring fellow men.

I AM not a scientist. I can't tell you whether crime is a disease or not. But, with very few exceptions, I have not met any criminal who went into crime by choice.

Weakness, yes. Lack of understanding of right and wrong, yes. But crime as a business or for the love of it is something which you will very seldom find.

Maybe this problem of crime and its treatment isn't very important to you. Maybe there isn't enough of it for you to care.

But remember this: Crime is usually first brought about by temptation. And temptation is liable to come to you or your children as well as it did to that fellow in Elizabeth.

Maybe the couple of years in prison taught that fellow a lesson.

But wouldn't it have been much better to teach him a lesson before he committed his crime?

Isn't it better to prevent than to reform?

U. S. Food Stocks Low

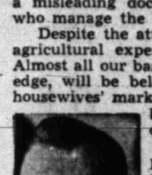

"Pretty Statistics" Hide Facts

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE latest 1945 food forecast from Washington reads as optimistically as did Army and Navy communiques before protests from war correspondents and Censor Byron Price forced military headquarters to tone them down lest they convey to the American people an erroneous impression of the progress of the war.

The appalling but endurable dinner table shortages for the current year are carefully hidden behind a mountain of vague language and camouflaged with meaningless statistics of comparative consumption in prewar and depression years. But the economists and statisticians who published such a misleading document will not fool the women who manage the household budgets.

Despite the attempt to soften the sad story, the agricultural experts still paint a gloomy picture. Almost all our basic pantry supplies, they acknowledge, will be below the 1944 level—a year when housewives' marketing and red coupon trials were bad enough if you believe the lady of the house.

TUCKER

Such delicacies as beef, pork, poultry, lamb and mutton, veal, potatoes, butter, cheese, lard, canned and evaporated milk, deciduous fruits, canned goods and sugar will be even harder to get than they were last year. In fact, these dishes will be less plentiful than they were in the 1935-1939 period, a time when prewar unemployment ran high and food consumption was correspondingly low—so low that Henry Wallace inaugurated his free distribution system with orange and blue stamps. Incidentally, the amount of groceries bought by this method is included in all the official estimates of the over-all 1935-1939 consumption. Obviously, the use of such an era as a base for comparing present-day demand and supply has no meaning save to make America's kitchen cupboard look less empty than it really is.

National income, which means purchasing power for food and other things, was below 100 billion dollars in the 1935-1939 years, despite federal subsidies for farmers and city residents. People did not have the cash to invest in provisions. In 1945 60 million workers will have about 160 billion to spend on a steadily diminishing hoard of groceries.

SUPPLIES: If the new tables released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics could be eaten, they would make a merry but misgiving meal. Here are a few mysterious items from this official menu:

The meat allotment per capita for 1945 will be "above the 1935-1939 level" (that sounds good), but "some of the most popular foods" (butter, cheese, potatoes, canned and evaporated milk, dried beans, lamb, veal and mutton) will not be so plentiful as they were even in that skimpy, prewar age.

However, the men and women toiling 12 hours a day or the mothers feeding hungry families of workers and school-going children need not worry. The scientific feeders hasten to assure them (although homemakers rarely see these bulletins) that, despite the reductions mentioned above, "total food supplies will remain fairly large."

Believe it or not, Mother can fatten the household diet with such hearty and delectable dishes as peanuts, ice cream, margarine, cottage cheese, chocolate or dried skim milk, canned fruit juice, citrus, eggs and fluid milk. So, why worry about shortages of beef, potatoes and butter?

Thus, when a man from a steel factory, the farm or the mine comes home at night his wife can cheer him and strengthen him for the next day's task by announcing, "Don't worry, Dad. I have no meat, potatoes, vegetables, butter. But I can fill you up with peanuts, margarine, cottage cheese and chocolate milk!"

The official meat calculations, although bad enough, might puzzle the housekeeper who has to do the buying instead of the figuring. The per capita supply for 1945 is placed at from 128 to 133 pounds, 15 to 20 pounds below 1944's consumption.

However, from this total, which allows about one-third of a pound per person per day, the Washington experts do not deduct the wastage in inedible skin, fat and bones. They use the phrase, "dressed weight," without explaining that it refers to the butcher's precooking carving.

EXPERTS: The men who staff the Bureau of Agricultural Economics are among the most honest and realistic of all the so-called experts in Washington. They know their stuff. They would like to reveal the facts without glossing over or withholding them. They also believe that the American people can swallow bad news if it is served to them straight.

But their superiors—the subordinates admit it privately—censor their reports.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

PRESIDENT Roosevelt's plea for the cooperation of all parties in building a world peace machinery is likely to be heeded by responsible Republicans, if they are convinced that he really means what he says.

The stand taken on the San Francisco conference by New York statesmen, mentioned here yesterday, is further described today. As former government top officials and heads of great economic political associations, they swing weight in framing GOP policies.

These leaders seek a device to banish war as the deciding factor in national disputes. They will go along with FDR, even though he is poison ivy to many of them, if he will champion a practical program. But they will fight him if he abandons fundamental American ideals for unilateral settlements, governments without the consent of the governed and other strong-arm techniques as the price of admission to a world organization.

LEMAN

Republicans, as well as Democrats, want a bulwark against future bloodshed. Their eagerness for security explains why many former so-called isolationists now favor the principles of Dumbarton Oaks, the Atlantic Charter and the Declaration by the United Nations.

They resent the accusation that they have flip-flopped. Their original opposition to involvement in European disputes was based on their abhorrence of war. Now that the V-bomb and other space shorteners make geographical aloofness impossible, they are willing to try a new method for preventing a third global catastrophe—an attitude entirely consistent with their former repugnance to armed conflict.

Republicans of this type and those who hold opinions similar to those of Governor Dewey and the late Wendell Willkie charge that it is unfair to smear their Party as the opponent of world collaboration when history clearly shows that today's Republicans and their predecessors have long advocated measures for international accord.

DISARMAMENT: An impartial examination of records more recent than the dream expressed a century ago shows that under Republican administrations numerous attempts were made to promote world peace. The Dawes Commission in 1924, the Young Commission in 1929, the Hoover Moratorium in 1931 all relieved economic pressures on the German republic which threatened European tranquility.

President Roosevelt says he hopes that the San Francisco conference will be the start of a disarmament movement. This objective was achieved at the Washington Conference in 1921-22, the Geneva Arms Conference in 1927 and the London Naval Conference in 1930. Had the great nations prevented the rise of Axis aggressors after these gatherings, all today would be enjoying the benefits of a reduction in armies and navies.

Many forget that these assemblies also improved conditions in the diplomatic field, especially in the Pacific. It was the Four Power Treaty that terminated the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and the Nine Power Treaty that guaranteed the "Open Door" in China. The Kellogg-Briand Pact renounced war as an instrument of national policy. No important representative government ever violated that pledge; it was torn up by the totalitarians.

FDR Placates Extremists In Both Camps

Vinson's Selection Is Approved

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — In picking Fred M. Vinson, Economic Stabilization director, to succeed Jesse Jones as Federal Loan administrator, President Roosevelt resorted to a compromise characteristic of him when the conflict between Right and Left wings blows up too much of a tempest.

It is significant that Mr. Vinson's appointment immediately prompted recommendation from the two figures involved in the controversy over control of the lending agencies that has raged for weeks.

STOKES

Statements of approval came both from Mr. Jones, who was deposed from his dual role of Secretary of Commerce and Loan Administrator, and from Henry Wallace, who was confirmed as Secretary of Commerce only after Congress had separated the office of Federal Loan administrator from the Commerce department so that Mr. Wallace would not direct policy for the lending agencies.

This signifies the compromise, middle-of-the-road course.

He's "Middle-Of-Roader"

Fred Vinson long has been a familiar figure about Washington. In his career in Congress for 14 years and as Stabilization director he has been identified closely neither with the ardent New Dealers nor with the staunch Conservatives in the party. Between times he served on the federal bench here.

He is one of those able men, experienced in government, who can be drafted to step into almost any government position.

He was drafted from the bench here by President Roosevelt to take over the difficult Economis Stabilization job, in which he has served since May, 1943. It has been his task to hold the line against inflation and, in that capacity, he made some enemies, including some segments of organized labor.

IN selecting Mr. Vinson for his new post, Mr. Roosevelt obviously was influenced some by the same considerations which were partly responsible for drafting the Kentuckian into the job of Stabilization director—it was a means of appeasing the Southern Conservative Democrats in Congress.

Jesse Jones was very popular with that group. Fred Vinson also gets along well with them. His appointment will tend to soothe some of the ruffled feelings among the Conservatives caused by the ousting of Jesse Jones and the elevation of Henry Wallace to one of Mr. Jones' former positions. This is apparent in the reaction to the Vinson appointment at the capitol.

FDR Wants Peace

Mr. Roosevelt is not going out of his way now to pick any more fights with Congress. The war over Henry Wallace stirred up enough ruckus for a while, particularly with the President inclined to do everything possible now to keep Congress—the Senate in particular — in a co-operative mood so that he can get sufficient support to put through his international program. That is uppermost in his mind.

The newly appointed Loan administrator is not exactly the sort of man either the extremists in the Jesse Jones camp nor the extremists in the Wallace camp would have selected.

He has been close in the high councils of the administration, is generally sympathetic with its basic program, and can be counted upon therefore to follow in general the objectives the administration finally will adopt for the use of the lending agencies in post war program.

CONGRESS is going to have a voice in formulation of these policies, and it will be helpful consequently, from the administration's standpoint, to have as Loan administrator a man well regarded at the capitol and familiar with legislative processes and the legislative mind.

Fred Vinson is well equipped for his new assignment. For many years he served on the House Ways and Means committee and was influential there in tax and fiscal matters. His advice was sought by administration officials in financial matters and, as Jesse Jones pointed out, he is familiar with the operations of the lending agencies.

Liberated Heroes

among the men and women standing on the wharf. Occasionally one would lift a hand to brush away a tear. One lad—he had lost an arm—caught sight of his mother, and she saw him. They waved across the few feet of water that separated them.

"This was worth every day we spent over there," exclaimed Lt. William J. Duncan, quartermaster, of Pelahatchie, Miss. "That day, Jan. 30, when we saw the Rangers, and this day will compete in my heart for the greatest experience in my life."

Capt. Curtis Burson of Denver was as happy as a boy. "I'm heading like hell for the Rockies," he shouted, "to see my wife and daughter."

There was a great cry from the ship of "Where's Eleanor? Where's Eleanor?" as the official launch drew alongside the transport. The nation's First Lady was not on hand, however.

A chaplain, Col. Alfred Cookman Oliver of Washington, D. C., peered axiously toward the city as the ship loitered in mid-stream. "All I can say," he murmured, "is that I'm waiting to see that dock where my wife is waiting for me." Chaplain Oliver, in the Army 28 years, was the first man off the ship. His wife was there. "Honey," she said, "I brought your overcoat with me." There were tears in their eyes as they gazed upon each other.

Some of the older men stumbled as they left the ship. Most of the soldiers were calm. Only the young lads tore loose with "yippees" and assorted cheers.

Three men in litters were the last to leave the transport.

STOCKS BREAK SHARPLY

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Stocks, bonds and commodities today suffered their sharpest break in months as heavy liquidation apparently was touched off by a revival of reconversion fears coincident with the First Army's crossing of the Rhine and talk of further government pressure against speculation.

It was noteworthy that, while peace-rated shares retreated with the armament groups, they suffered considerably less. The stock list idled at moderately lower levels until the final hour when a sharp wave of selling put the high speed ticker tape as much as 4 minutes behind actual floor transactions and it was 35 minutes before the machinery returned to normal operations. Declines of 1 to more than 4 points were reduced in most cases at the close.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off 1.2 points at 61.4, widest reaction since the fall of 1.6 points on Nov. 8, 1943. The market was the broadest in many weeks, 1,016 issues registering. Of these, 834 were down against 182 up or unchanged. Transfers of 1,860,000 shares compared with 1,400,000 Wednesday. Of the total, 1,000,000 shares appeared in the concluding hour.

Conspicuous losers of 1 to 3 points included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, N. Y. Central; U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Anaconda, Standard Oil (NJ), Johns-Manville and Du Pont. Modest plus marks were retained by Cudahy, International Telephone and Philip Morris.

Secondary rail bonds weakened.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 55 to 80 cents a bale lower today on favorable war news which helped touch off a heavy liquidation movement.

Another factor in the decline was a declaration by the president of the American Farm Bureau that no liberalization of the farm parity formula will be sought because of inflation danger.

Values dropped as much as $1.60 a bale from the highs of the day before selling abated and was followed by partial recovery. Early firmness stemmed from unfavorable crop news and new Belgium inquiry for 45,000 bales of cotton.

Futures closed 55 cents to 80 cents lower.

"We knew when we went to Iwo Jima it would be a tough nut to crack. The very toughness makes clear the importance the Japanese placed on that position.

"The pattern of resistance on Saipan, where there was a considerable number of civilians, and on Iwo, where I believe there were no civilians, may be anticipated in the Japanese homeland. I believe the civilian population will participate fanatically with troops in defense of their homeland.

This comprises the first shipment of nearly a million garments sent to the Philippines.

Another wire from Geneva, Switzerland, said that 50 carloads of Red Cross food, medicines and bandages left March 6 for a distribution point at Moosburg, Germany, where 10,000 Americans are held, 4,000 of whom moved there recently from Stalag Luft III. A Red Cross truck convoy with food and medicines was sent from Switzerland the following day for the Lubeck and Karlsbad-Marienbad area where a large concentration of prisoners is on the march.

Yanks Surge On East Of Rhine

nearly out of small arms range, a front dispatch said, and Associated Press correspondent Don Whitehead reported the Americans were fanning out swiftly, seizing strategic positions and driving to get the crossings out of artillery range.

"Impregnable" Moat

The Americans burst across the river — never crossed in battle since Napoleon's day—at a point about 280 miles from Berlin, hurdling in one giant stride what the Germans throughout their history have regarded as an impregnable moat and a symbol of Teutonic greatness.

The dramatic announcement was made tonight 24 hours after the crossings in order to leave the enemy in the dark while the Americans built up a powerful bridgehead. The Germans themselves had yet to tell the homeland that the Americans now were across the stream.

AP correspondent Howard Cowan, crossing with some of the troops, declared: "The Americans are across the Rhine to stay."

May Outflank Rhur

The surprise blow was threatening to outflank the entire Ruhr basin — the greatest resource of war material left to the enemy—and was a military achievement unsurpassed since the Allies stormed ashore in Normandy.

AP correspondent Wes Gallgher, writing from Cologne said the crossings had changed the Western front situation overnight and opened the possibility of shortening the war months earlier than calculated by the Allied high command only a short time ago.

He declared it was apparent that the Germans had no time to reorganize their scattered forces east of the river at any point, and that Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt was too short of troops to hold the whole river line.

Must Rob Other Fronts

To seal off the bridgehead, von Rundstedt must rob other forces along the river, weakening them before the threat of six other Allied armies, or must draw from the Russian or Italian fronts, both now ablaze.

Eisenhower now was in position to strike for the heart of the Reich across the rolling hill country south of the Ruhr valley.

The fact that supreme headquarters in announcing the crossings referred to a bridgehead indicated good progress had been made east since in military parlance a crossing becomes a bridgehead only when it moves out of direct, short-range fire.

Situation Changes

toward Berlin, which Berlin reports, especially since the German high command stripped the Western front to meet the last Russian offensive.

It is known that the German high command has considered for some time the plan of abandoning the Italian front and attempting to hold a line in the Alps with a skeleton force.

Probably Be Too Late

Whether these troops could now be brought up to bolster the Eastern and Western fronts quick enough to meet the new threats remains to be seen. Even if brought out of Italy they probably could reach threatened points only one division at a time. They might well be destroyed piecemeal without having appreciable effect on the situation, as in Normandy.

This piecemeal employment of reserves has been characteristic of the German Army direction for many weeks and seems to indicate the German high command has hit the bottom of the soldier barrel.

Thus American troops are on the east bank of the Rhine in a position to deliver a death blow while other Allied forces in tens of thousands are along the river threatening von Rundstedt everywhere.

Could Strengthen Some

If he had time, say two weeks or a month, to reorganize and spread along the river bank his available troops, bolstered by incoming divisions from Italy, he might put up a much more formidable battle.

But Gen. Eisenhower has not given him this time.

Von Rundstedt needs every man and any bridgehead no matter how small will gobble up his available troops in constant fighting, leaving him neither men nor time to organize the rest of the river defenses.

This will make other American crossings when they come many times easier than they would have been if the German high command had been given a quiet three or four weeks with no losses to organize the situation.

Easier Than Expected

Most military men, in forecasting a long summer war, believed that once across the Rhine it would take weeks of bitter battling really to break through inner German defenses.

Americans already are into German's inner defenses and the next few days may well bring a definite turning point of the war.

City Commission

week and plant inspections at least once a month will be made of dairies at Plainview sending milk to Lubbock plants.

The commission authorized additional 800 miles a month mileage for inspectors' cars to be paid at the rate of five cents a mile, at least during the present emergency.

In the course of presenting evidence, it was revealed that the number of Grade A dairies in the Lubbock area had decreased from 63 a year ago to 39 at present and that milk for local consumption came from dairies near Tahoka, Levelland, Abernathy and Petersburg.

The milk brought here in bulk from Plainview is given a 'flash' pasteurization and then re-pasteurized in Lubbock plants for retail distribution.

The commission also took another action in the interest of improved health conditions by instructing City Manager Marlin R. Smith and City Engineer Arch King to complete plans and specifications for the construction of a sanitary sewer interceptor line in the downtown area to relieve present over-loading of downtown lines. The work is expected to be ready to start early this spring and completion is expected before fall.

Civic Center Project

Mayor O. W. Ribble, after considerable discussion, was instructed by the commissioners to request the formation of a committee composed of representatives of the Lubbock Kiwanis club, the City Planning commission, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the City to make an extended study of the proposal for a civic center project in Lubbock. The project is sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

The committee would be asked to visit other cities and towns of similar size as Lubbock, study their projects and recommend preliminary plans, location, etc., for the civic center.

Other action during the nearly four-hour session included:

Requesting the establishment of a railroad crossing by the Fort Worth and Denver railroad on Twenty-third at East Ave. A; authorizing the calling of an election to extend the city limits to include an area in southeast Lubbock bounded on the east by East Ave. K, on the south by East Twenty-eighth; on the west by Ave. B and on the north by the present city limits; approving the transfer of $1,000 to the City-County Welfare fund; approving several contractor's gas fitter's, electrician's and public works bonds.

Bonds approved were: C. B. Harris, J. J. Tyson and J. D. Leftwich Construction Co., general contractor's bonds; A. H. Osborn and Morris Mathis, bond for moving a building; J. A. Stanley, public works bond and gas fitter's bond; L. C. Neill, and William Crawford, electrician's bonds; and W. D. Click, sub-contractor's bond.

The commission also voted to prepare resolutions expressing appreciation and gratitude to employes of the city who have served in the armed forces to be presented to them upon their discharge from service.

Besides Mayor Ribble, and Smith, City Commissioners W. B. Price, Hub Jones, Fred Childress and Ray Dickey, City Attorney Bradley and City Secretary Lavenia Williams attended the session.

Pacific Advances

In the southern part of the island, troops of the 11th Airborne division and the 158th regiment, Eighth Army, advanced 13 miles east of Balayan bay to seize Lemery.

The Yanks maintained steady pressure on the Japanese Shimbu line in the Marikina watershed east of manila, and American bombers hit the enemy there with 1,000 tons of explosives in two straight days.

The situation in Burma was the brightest of the war for the Allies, with British and Indian troops crashing Japanese defenses in Obo, a northern suburb of Mandalay. The fall of this fabled city, an enemy base, was believed to be imminent.

Chinese troops captured New Lashio, 130 miles northeast of Mandalay, where the railway from Rangoon joins the old Burma road. The Chinese took Old Lashio, two miles to the north, Wednesday. The twin victories give the Allies control of the entire Burma road from New Lashio to Kunming, China.

Redistricting Is Beaten In House

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP) — By a 17-vote margin the House of Representatives today killed a bill proposing to redistrict the state for House representation.

Not since 1921 has the legislature voted a bill realigning representation although the constitution requires redistricting after each federal census.

The bill which the House killed 75 to 58 was a committee approved substitute for one introduced by Rep. Harley Sadler of Sweetwater.

Asking immediate consideration of the substitute bill, Sadler told House members failure to approve redistricting at the general session which reaches the half-way mark tomorrow would mean a called session for redistricting.

Governor Coke R. Stevenson had recommended redistricting on an emergency basis for the general session.

Following is the roll call on today's vote killing the House redistricting bill.

Aye on the motion to table (killing the bill)—Adams, Baker, Barber, Bond, Gallaway, Chapman, Coker, Colson, Counts, Cousins, Covey, Cummings, Donnell, Dunn, Evans, Fant, Files, Foster, Gandy, Gathings, Gray, Green, Greer, Helpinstill, Huddleston, Hull, Hydrick, Hayes, Johnson, Fred Jones, Doc Jordan, Lanier, Lansberry, Lee, Lehman, Lightfoot, John T. Russian Front

Berlin said the Pomeranian junction town of Schlawe also had fallen.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second Army captured 2,000 of the 5,000 German prisoners taken during the day and overran 300 localities on a 10-mile front between Schlawe in the west and the Vistula river in the east. A total of perhaps 200,000 Germans were caught in the trap around Danzig, original estimates said.

Enemy broadcasts told of "terrific fighting in the forefield of Berlin" as Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's tank-led First White Russian Army infantry surged forward in an all-out assault covered by broadsides from massed Red Army artillery.

New Constitution Plan Is Offered

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—A method of writing a new state constitution by the process of amending the present one is proposed by Rep. C. M. McFarland of Wichita Falls.

McFarland filed today for introduction tomorrow a joint resolution which like all other joint resolutions proposes an amendment to the constitution.

But instead of amending one section of the document McFarland's resolution proposes an entirely new constitution. If his resolution is adopted the people would have a new constitution — and without benefit of a constitutional convention.

Another Proposal

Sen. T. C. Chadiek of Quitman has proposed that the legislature submit the question of a constitutional convention, elective delegates to which would draw up a new constitution for rejection or acceptance by the people in a second referendum.

McFarland proposes that the legislature resolve itself into a committee of the whole to act in the capacity of a constitutional convention and write a new constitution (in the form of an amendment to the present constitution) which would be submitted to the people in one election.

His resolution contains the bill of rights but other sections are merely sketched in, to be written later if the legislature approves his idea.

The Wichita Falls representative said New Jersey recently submitted a new constitution by this method. Missouri recently adopted a new constitution which was framed by a commission.

Lubbock Eighth In Building In State

A report of the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas revealed Thursday that Lubbock ranked eighth in building permits for cities in Texas during January.

Lubbock's $146,128 in permits for the month were exceeded only by Amarillo, Austin, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio.

The eighth-place ranking was quite an improvement over January, 1944, when Lubbock's permits ranked 15th in the state. Last December the city had climbed to eighth place and maintained it through January.

Lubbock's postal receipts ranked 13th in the state during January, the report also revealed.

Homecoming Fete Is Scheduled Sunday At Tabernacle Baptist

Special home coming services in observance of 12th anniversary of the Tabernacle Baptist church, Fifteenth and Ave. N, will be held at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Sunday, Rev. Ben D. Johnson, pastor, announced.

Local members and representatives from five other churches organized under the supervision of the Lubbock church, Brownfield, Floydada, Midway, Pleasant Hill, N. M., and Littlefield, are expected to be present for anniversary sermons.

Review By Johnson

Fruits of labor will be reviewed by Rev. Johnson and approximately 1,500 local members whose church had its beginning 12 years ago in a private home with 18 charter members. Rev. Johnson and his then small congregation worked diligently and within a short period of time made three temporary moves to accomodate increased membership.

At a revival meeting held in 1933, membership was increased to 65 persons and $90 was contributed to begin work on a permanent church building. Two and one-half lots were borrowed from B. F. Foster, then owner of the Lubbock Transfer and Storage, and construction work was begun on a 40x60 Tabernacle church building on the corner of Fifteenth and Ave. N.

Built In 1936

One year later these lots were purchased by the church for $1,250 cash and in 1936 a new building was constructed with a full basement and auditorium. In 1937 an annex, 58x32, was added to the rear of the building increasing its present size to 98x36x58, which is evaluated at $50,000.

Construction work is now under way on a Sunday school building, a full basement and an added 25x70 foot fireproof second story. In beginning days of the church, there were no facilities for a real Sunday school, but now the church school is departmentalized with a full corps of efficient teachers.

During these years of work in Lubbock, the Tabernacle Baptist church has conducted revival meetings in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Michigan, New York state, and throughout Texas. In connection with organizing five churches in surrounding territory, this church has assited in obtaining preachers for these churches, drawing from their representatives in the Fundamental Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth.

Rev. Johnson said the plan of his church is to enlarge their work and establish more churches in West Texas, at the same time increasing membership and interest in Lubbock.

Tech Asked To Aid Civil Service In Seeking Radio, Radar Workers

Authorities at Texas Tech have been requested by the Civil Service commission and Army Air forces to cooperate in soliciting recent women graduates and senior students, who are urgently needed to assist engineers in the radio and radar sections of the AAF and work as junior professional assistants with Civil Service, to make application for work as an immediate and vital contribution to the war effort, according to Dr. Harry L. Kent, administrative assistant.

War department representatives are now selecting young women for a training program in aircraft radio work to begin April 2 at the University of Texas. Students will participate in a 24 week training course at the university for engineering aide trainee (aircraft radio) and will be compensated at the rate of $145 a month while in training. Upon successful completion of the course, which offers a fundamental intensified study of basic radio engineering, trainees will be assigned to assist military and civilian engineers in research, development and testing of airborne radio equipment at Wright field, Dayton, Ohio. Their salary will be advanced to $164 a month upon assignment to Wright field and after assignment to duty, opportunities are afforded personnel who display appitudes for advancement.

To Compile List

Dr. Kent said Tech will compile a list of names and addresses of interested women graduates and students who have had six or more credit hours in math or physics, plus additional requirements. Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 35, must show experience or training of one year of practical full-time technical experience in some branch of engineering, showing that she is able to perform subprofessional engineering work at this level.

Other young women may apply who have recently graduated from college, completed at least four years in high school with an adequate background in math and physics, preferably two years in algebra, one year each in geometry, trigonometry and physics. Candidates must pass a special math and general aptitude test as conducted by a Civil Service commission representative and applicants are interviewed by an AAF representative in order to determine their interest, suitability in the program and sincerity of purpose, according to Dr. Kent.

Aid In Arrangements

The University will make all room arrangements for the engineering aides while in training and when they are assigned to Dayton, individual assistance from counselling bureaus will assist in securing satisfactory housing accomodations.

Civil Service application form 57 should be submitted to Director of Air Technical Service Command, Wright field, Dayton, Ohio, (Attn: TSPCD); or Director of 10 US Civil Service Region, 210 South Harwood street, Dallas, (Attn. Margaret Ann Smith, AAF Representative).

Positions are now open with the federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and other sections of the country for women college graduates and senior students to work as junior professional assistants with the government, Dr. Kent said. If applicants haven't had college training, they must have had three years of experience of sufficient scope and quality to show clearly their ability to perform duties of compilation and analysis of business, economic, statistical, occupation or budgetary data, according to Dr. Kent.

Analysis Or Research

Other duties will cover anlysis or research in social sciences, analysis and development of office methods and procedures, direct participation specialized office activities in such fields as marketing, transportation, and finance. Different phases of the work include preparing or edition of written material for presentation through press, public radio and motion pictures; writing or review of correspondence or memoranda on specialized technical projects; laboratory or field work in some phase of technical agriculture.

Annual salary is $2,433, subject to deduction of 5 percent for retirement purposes, for federal work-week of 48 hours which includes eight hours of required overtime.

Applicants will receive admission cards stating specifically the time and place for a two-hour written exam. Applications should be made to the US Civil Service Commission Recruiting section, N. W. 3rd Floor, 613 G. street, Washington 25. DC.

ARE YOU YOUNGER THAN YOU THINK?

Here Is a Viral Message to Men of 40, 60 or Older —Men Who Feel That the Years Have Let Them Down

If life apparently has lost its zest, you again may be able to enjoy life as you did in your youth. If added years have slowed down your vim, vitality and youthful pleasures, here is a simple, inexpensive method that may change your whole outlook on life. Don't feel old and worn out at 40, 60 or more. Why not try and regain the pleasures of living you once enjoyed; why be discouraged? Regain the verve and zest of a much younger man.

Just ask your druggist for Casella Stimulating Tablets; either 48 tablets or 200. (The 200 size bottle costs much less per dose.) Take as directed on label. There is nothing harmful in Casella. Take as long as you feel that you need them.

Added years may no longer deprive you of desired enjoyments. Why be the victim of the "older" years?

Don't Be Discouraged

Goethe finished Faust at 82; Connie Mack is still managing the Athletics at 84; Titian painted masterpieces between 80 and 99; Clara Barton was an active president of the Red Cross at 83; Verdi was composing; Victor Hugo was writing; Corot was painting long after 80.

So don't let the added years get you down. Get Casella tablets at your druggist today.

Food, Nutrition And Rationing News . . .

Ample School Lunch Needed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Wynell Eskridge, a foods and nutrition major student at Texas Technological college, has written two articles on school lunches, the first of which appears below.)

BECAUSE at least one-third of a child's nutritive needs must be supplied by his lunch, this meal should contain the necessary supply of calories, protein, minerals and vitamins. Many schools have solved the problem of serving children a balanced diet by having a lunch room or cafeteria.

An eating place run by a school and supervised by a trained dietician who understands all the needs of the group furnishes children with well cooked hot food required to meet their physical needs. If children eat at the school lunchroom they receive enough food for constant energy, growth and development and are not handicapped in their school work by the effects of faulty nutrition. Lack of nutritive food may show up in the child in signs of indifference, fatigue and listlessness. In contrast, the normal adequately fed child is interested, energetic and alert, as well as happy from a sense of physical well being.

Pattern Is Suggested

If a school does not have a lunch room, a good packed lunch should be supplied. The following pattern may be used as a basis for planning an adequate lunch:

One-half pint of milk or cocoa;

Two sandwiches, one a meat or meat substitute, and one a fruit or vegetable combination;

Fresh fruit or custard;

Milk or mild drinks can be carried from home in a vacuum bottle or a screw-top jar. Soups, which add variety and nutritive value may also be carried in a vacuum bottle. If the soup is heated just before pouring into the bottle it will remain hot until the lunch hour.

Sandwiches which make up the chief portion of the meal may be made more enjoyable by varying the kinds of bread used.

Such breads as raisin bread, date bread, prune bread, nut graham and whole wheat may be used with butter, plain or with fillings. Sandwich fillings suitable for school lunches are: cottage cheese and prune pulp; cream cheese; cottage cheese and apple butter; peanut butter and raisin; peanut butter and jam; chopped hard boiled egg; date and nuts; grated carrots mixed with chopped raisins and moistened with mayonnaise; hard cooked egg yolks sieved and seasoned with minced parsley; ground ham and hard cooked egg; lettuce and tomato; salmon or tuna; sliced chicken; meat loaf; cold meats and grated cheese.

Grapefruit sections and lettuce

Grapefruit Salad Will Dress Up Early Spring Meals

EARLY spring meals need brightening up. Lots of fresh greens and fruits are important particularly when so many other vitamin and mineral rich foods are in short supply.

Start with grapefruit sections, salad greens and your favorite dressing, or add your choice of the following additions to your basic salad:

Mixed fresh or canned fruit; chopped nutmegs and grated cheese; raw vegetables chilled and dipped in French dressing; cottage cheese and minced green pepper; avocado slices and pickled beets; cubed cooked or raw vegetables; salmon, shrimp, crabmeat, chicken, meat and diced celery.

Tangerines, now at the peak of their season, are colorful and important food.

Tangerine Salad Mold

One package orange gelatin, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup cold water, ¼ cup grated cheese, 1 cup tangerine sections, cut in halves, ½ cup chopped nuts, pinch of salt.

Dissolve orange gelatin thoroughly in boiling water, add cold water and divide among 8 individual molds. Mix other ingredients and add to gelatin. Place in refrigerator to set. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise on the side.

Tangerine Tarts

Fill individual tart shells with tangerine sections. Mash currant or cranberry jelly until smooth; spread over tangerine sections.

1 cup baked beans
½ cup dry bread crumbs or ¾ cup soft bread crumbs, salt and pepper to taste
½ cup grated raw carrots. Catsup, chili sauce or left-over stewed or canned tomato, to moisten, 1 onion, chopped

Mash baked beans in bowl. Add remaining ingredients with only enough catsup or tomatoes to moisten. Shape into small chops or into round patties. Dust with extra bread crumbs. Saute to a delicate brown in drippings. Serve with catsup or chili sauce.

Seek Variety In Breakfasts

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final in a series of breakfasts and lists surprises for the morning meal.)

Below are a few ways to get variety and maybe surprises into breakfasts, according to Mrs. Ruth C. Wilson, Emergency War Food assistant, Etxension Service, A. and M. college.

Mix fruits, berries with sliced peaches, or sliced bananas with oranges. This gives change of flavor, and helps when the points run low and there isn't enough of one kind to go around.

Enjoy an old-fashioned shortcake for breakfast. Split the biscuit and spread with butter or margarine. Use berries, cooked dried fruit or other fruit for filling and top. Serve with generous serving of whole milk or cream.

Vary Fruit Flavors

Vary cooked fruit flavor. Sprinkle applesauce with cinnamon or other spice, or with raisins or chopped dried fruit. Add orange or lemon slices to prunes, figs or dried peaches.

Boil or fry tomatoes, red or green, and serve with bacon or ham.

Take a tip from New England, and have Saturday night's baked beans for Sunday morning, perhaps with codfish cakes and toasted brown bread.

Brown in a little fat, slices of left-over oatmeal or other cooked cereal, or corn meal mush. To slice and brown well, it must be thick and cold.

Make bacon rolls by putting crisp bacon into hot toasted rolls which have been split and buttered. Return to broiler for just a minute.

Use stale bread to make an old favorite, French toast. Dip bread into a mixture of egg and milk, or into a mixture of egg and tomato juice.

Britons are consuming 30 per cent more fresh green vegetables than they did before the war.

Fish Loaf Will Tempt Family's Appetite

There is a great deal to learn about fish to serve it in the most te...pting manner. Bulletin No. 27, "Wartime Fish Cookery" (from the U. S. Dept. of the Interior, Fish And Wildlife Service), is most helpful for complete information on the whys and wherefores of fish cookery. Here is a recipe for fish loaf that serves six persons.

Two cups flaked fish, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ cup fortified margarine, ¼ cup flour, ⅛ teaspoon powdered cloves, 1 cup milk or tomato juice, ½ cup bread crumbs, ½ cup finely chopped celery, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, ¾ teaspoon salt.

Drain the fish flakes and add the lemon juice. Melt the margarine, stir in the flour mixed with cloves and then the milk or tomato juice. Cook until the mixture is smooth and thick. Allow to cool and then add the fish flakes, celery, bread crumbs, parsley, and salt, and mix until well blended. Mold into a loaf with the hands and place on oiled paper on a rack in an open roasting p..n. Bake for about 45 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

QUICK BAKED BEANS

2 cans baked beans (about 4 cups)
2 tablespoons old fashioned molasses
¼ cup tomato catsup
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 strips bacon (optional)

Empty beans in baking dish. Mix molasses, catsup and seasoning and add. Place strips of bacon over top. Bake until bacon is crisp or beans thoroughly heated.

Men Of Yank Armored Division In Germany Say U. S. Tanks Inferior

By ANN STRINGER
United Press War Writer

WITH THE THIRD ARMORED DIVISION, Germany, March 8—Don't talk about the superiority of American tanks to men of this Third armored unit.

"Our tanks are not worth a drop of water on a hot stove," said S/Sgt. Robert Earley of Fountain, Minn., who commanded the first tank to enter Cologne. "We want tanks to fight with, not just to drive over the countryside."

Earley was tired, and he was shaking. So were the rest of the men in his company.

Half of Tanks Lost

"It makes us feel pretty bad to have everyone at home talking about having the best equipment when we know our tanks lack a lot of being the best," chimed in Cpl. Charles Miller of Kansas City, Mo.

In one field alone, this company lost half its tanks. Altogether, it has been assigned three times as many tanks as normally alloted a tank company.

"We pushed into this town in our old M-4 tanks, which the Nazis have been knocking around all through France," said tank commander Sgt. Sylvester Vila of St. Louis. "It made us feel pretty blue."

Jerries Knock 'Em Out

Tank driver T/5 Virgil Sanders of Pomona, Calif., added:

"They gotta keep giving us more because the Jerries keep knocking them out."

I asked another driver why his tank had not been named.

"What god would it do?" he asked in reply. "We wouldn't even have time to get used to the name, so we just drive it blank. It's less trouble that way."

Army Private Finds $500,000 In Silver On Northern Luzon

WITH THE U. S. 33RD DIVISION, Philippines (Delayed) (AP) — Four trucks were required to haul away $500,000 in silver coins found by an Army scout who was looking for Japanese along the highway north of Rosario.

"There I stood, knee deep in money," said Pfc. Lewis Zerillo, Astoria, Long Island, N. Y.

The former coffee salesman, now first scout of Company C, 130th infantry, was leading his patrol when he came to where an exploding artillery shell had uncovered the treasure which Japanese apparently had buried after looting Philippine banks.

Ten Filipinos worked two days collecting the coins, most of them Philippine but some of them American and Chinese, and shoveling them into trucks. Some of the metal was hard to handle. The heat of the artillery blast had fused coins into chunks the size of a man's head.

The estimated use of silver during 1944 for arts and industries was 125,000,000 ounces, of which approximate 65 per cent went for war use and other essential uses.

"IN THE HEART OF YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD"

Move To Relocate State Medical College Favored By Senate Group

AUSTIN, March 8. (U.P.)—Advocates of relocating the state medical college at a site to be chosen by a future legislature got a seven to three favorable vote from the Senate committee on constitutional amendments at a late hour last night.

The school was located at Galveston by popular vote and a constitutional amendment is necessary to change it.

Last night's committee action sends the proposal to the floor of the Senate where 21 votes out of a possible 31 will be required for passage. It then will have to go through a House committee by majority vote and through the House with 100 of the 150 possible votes.

Next step if the proposal runs the legislative gauntlet will be a vote of the people Nov. 4, 1946. In that election a majority will be decisive.

As long debate neared an end last night, Sen. Fred Mauritz, Ganado, sponsor of the relocation plan, held out the likelihood that in a relocation Galveston would retain part of a dual state medical program. This tack was taken after Dr. Chauncey Leake, vice president and dean of the medical branch of the University of Texas, told the committee that Texas needed an additional medical college.

Dr. Leake estimated need for new doctors in Texas at 350 a year. He said the present state medical college can furnish 90 to 100, and Baylor and Southwestern 50 to 60 each. He said an additional college would be better than enlargement because experience had shown that regardless of how much clinical material was available classes should not exceed 60 students.

May Establish Branches

Scant reference was made by any of numerous speakers to other provisions of the Mauritz proposal. These included:

1. Authority for the Legislature to establish branches, post-graduate units or special schools in locations deemed appropriate for education of physicians, surgeons and dentists.

2. Authority for the legislature to appropriate money for care of indigent patients in hospitals wheer the illness is of a nature thatwill aid medical training.

3. Authority for counties to vote a tax not to exceed 15 cents on $100 to assist in meeting local needs for medical treatment of indigent sick persons.

Dr. R. M. Calder, San Antonio, opened and closed the argument for relocation. He submitted figures gathered by San Antonio Chamber of Commerce when that city had an offer before regents to locate the medical school there.

Graduates Favor Move

Dr. Calder said a poll in which more than 2,000 letters were mailed showed 226 graduates of the medical school for moving and 44 against; graduates in the Army, 122 for moving, 11 against, faculty, 33 for moving, 24 against; student body, 319 for moving, 41 against. He said among a poll of members of medical societies there were 700 for moving and 120 against. Others replied the matter was debatable.

Great industrial development in area contiguous to Galveston was cited as likely to furnish more future clinical material. Calder said the number of patients was not so important as the type of case. He said it is not possible to move patients in advanced stages—that for instance an operation for appendicitis could not be delayed.

Opportunities Said Scant

C. W. Jaeschner, Houston, senior in the medical college, told the committee that few students had adequate opportunity to study actual cases. He said 30 might be called to witness an operation but it could not be delayed while students were given instruction.

Galveston's opposition to the proposed removal was summed up by Mart Royston, chairman of the Sealy & Smith foundation, I. H. Kempner of Galveston Chamber of Commerce; County Judge Theodore R. Robinson and Dr. Leake.

Robinson a former legislator, advised the committee not to be too much impressed by student views—12 were at the hearing—, recalled that University of Texas students booed a proposal for military training on the campus not so long before the present war. Value of the Sealy & Smith foundation was put at $15,000,000 all to go to the hospital at Galveston Sen. W. E. Stone said Galveston and the foundation contributed annually far more than the cost of Galveston patients treated in the hospital.

New Deal Ag Shop Big Aid To Farmer

Now that commercial shops are so far behind with their work, farmers and residents of the New Deal Independent School district have found an answer to their shop problems.

More than 90 farmers have made use of the New Deal vocational agriculture shop since it opened last September. There everything from tractors and trucks to plows and windmills have been repaired.

The shop affords an abundance of equipment with which to work, such as acetylene and electric arc welding equipment, blacksmith equipment, electric drill and press drills.

Farmers can do their own work or be assisted in repair work by the shop personnel, which includes Dean Havins, shop instructor and Louis Ponder, helper. Sherman E. Taylor, New Deal vocational agriculture teacher, is supervisor.

In a recent article in the Avalanche-Journal publications, it was erroneosuly reported that J. E. Hancock, farmer of the New Deal district, had built a terracing machine in the Lubbock vocational agriculture shop. He built the machine in the New Deal shop.

Report Rendered By Insurance Company

When officials of the Texas Employers Insurance association and policyholders residing in and near Lubbock gathered at a luncheon in the Matador ballroom at Hilton hotel Thursday, annual report on the operations of the company was made.

Approximately 60 persons heard three Dallas men, officials of the company, comment on the company's 1944 statement. They were L. A. Guthrie and C. G. Weakleq, both vice presidents; and Ben H. Mitchell, secretary. W. A. Black, in charge of the Lubbock office, also was heard.

The association's earned premiums reached an all-time high last year, the report said, with the figure totaling $6,830,000, an increase of $306,521 over the preceding year. Surplus to policyholders increased $139,000 to $2,703,000, and the contingent reserve fund was upped by $52,000 to a total of $552,000. Dividends disbursed during 1944 on 1943 earned premiums were $1,909,000, the report said, bringing total dividends paid by the company to $14,916,992.

The meeting here is one of 18 being held throughout Texas during this month, with company officials meeting with policyholders in all cities where the concern maintains district offices.

"White Collar" Term Said Outmoded Now

WASHINGTON, March 8. (AP)—Senator McFarland (D-Ariz) says "white collar worker" is an outmoded term in wartime.

When WLB Chairman William H. Davis used it during testimony to the Senate banking committee today, McFarland interrupted:

"Mr. Davis, my laundry told me this morning they couldn't take my shirts any more because they didn't have the labor and couldn't get it. Instead of calling them white collar workers while the war is on we should call them 'dirty collar workers'."

Seven of Ralph Waldo Emerson's ancestors were New England ministers.

In ancient Rome, shopping for the family meals was regarded as man's work.

Dirty dishes sparkle clean when you wash them with ELECTRENE! They dry by themselves, bright and shiny, without streaks or film. Half the time and work, at far less cost! Leaves your hands satiny soft, smooth.

Yanks Train On Il Duce Haunt

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Associated Press War Writer

ROME,—The fancy, marble pillared training grounds where Mussolini taught his elite blackshirts how to conquer for fascism now is a rough, tough GI testing field where Uncle Sam is turning out some 900 infantrymen a week for the final battle with Germany.

Traveling audit committees are combating rear headquarters, quartermaster depots, inactive antiaircraft outfits and almost every unit behind the front lines for able-bodied men.

Course Is Thorough

The new candidates pour into the infantry conversion training center at the rate of 900 a week for a stiff 12-week course covering 32 subjects, ranging from military courtesy and discipline to "riot duty."

Some of the budding infantrymen, most of whom were pulled out of jobs in which normally they never would have seen the front, like it and some don't.

When Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy to the supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean, visited the center for the formal dedication one highranking officer asked a toiling private what he thought of the idea. The answer was "when you gotta, you gotta, sir."

Most of the men realize that if they are going into the line they had better find out what goes on up there and learn to use all the weapons available.

Cooks Made Soldiers

The center is under the command of Brig. Gen. L. J. Jaynes, an amiable and hardworking officer who has adapted Mussolini's setup to his needs and supplied a good many new wrinkles. Already 6,000 men have gone from the center to the front.

Included in this number were 800 men who formerly were army cooks.

"Those 800 cooks made damned good soldiers," General Jaynes said.

Personnel experts comb army records for candidates and make personal visits to the units involved. Skilled persons hard to replace are not selected. Since German planes are a rarity in this theater a good many antiaircraft gunners have been converted to infantry.

The school started early in December. Sixty percent of the instructors have had frontline service. Watching battlewise sergeants and corporals tell new men about the tricks of a German machine-gun, it seems they have been teaching all their lives. They know how serious it is and their students pay strict attention.

Jap Warrior Code Reveals Fanaticism

(By The Associated Press)

A Japanese warrior code with teeth in it was reported Wednesday by Tokyo radio.

"Though his weapons are damaged and his ammunition exhausted, he will charge empty-handed and bite the enemy to death," read one resolve of the bypassed Japanese at Rabaul, New Britain as reported by Domei news agency and picked up by the FCC.

Domei said the Nipponese garrison at Rabaul was prepared for the "coming of the enemy". This possibly indicated Japanese fears that the Australians, who hold the bulk of New Britain island, are on the point of endeavoring to recapture Rabaul, which the Nipponese wrested from the Aussies near the outset of the war.

Domei listed a series of "commandants" adopted by the Rabau Japanese, including the concept that it is a disgrace to be "taken captive alive" and a pledge to "defy death and fight to kill 10 of the enemy."

Pants For Women Workers 'Essential'

LOS ANGELES, March 8. (AP)—Please, gentlemen — the sportswear industry today exhorted the War Production board—slacks are war essential!

"We strongly feel that oversight of the fact that women wear pants in factories may result in endangering the safety of countless women in defense plants throughout the country," said the wire to Washington.

Fight Is On For Control Of Katy

KANSAS CITY, March 8 (AP)—Management of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad and a group of its stockholders are engaged in a bitter fight for future control of the road, Katy President Matthew Sloan has revealed.

Letters have been sent to stockholders by Sloan, asking them to oppose proposals of E. N. Claughton, Miami, Fla., to substitute a nine-man board of directors for the present 15-man board which Sloan heads. The matter will come up for a decision at a meeting of the stockholders in St. Louis April 6.

Claughton, who is registered as holder of 11 per cent of the railroad's common stock, the largest individual holdings, is working with a newly-organized Stockholders Protective committee headed by Marvin Adams of Miami, Fla. The group is said to control some 40 per cent of the common stock of the railroad, and Sloan said Claughton wrote that he believed they would be able to elect three of the five members of the present board up for reelection. Adams said a refinancing program would be sought to put the road on a sound financial basis.

Claughton issued a statement from Miami, saying that "we aren't necessarily interested in a complete reorganization if we can get the road on a sound basis without one. If the Katy can't pay dividends in these times when it is earning good money, what can the stockholders expect after the war?"

Sloan, in his letter to the stockholders, declared that "the management believes that any change such as proposed by Mr. Claughton would be entirely unwise and a dangerous departure."

Less Butter But More Cheese And Milk Due

WASHINGTON, March 8. (U.P.)—Less butter but more cheese and processed milk are in store for civilians in 1945, the Department of Commerce indicated today.

Thomas S. Hutchins of the foodstuffs unit, bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, in an article prepared for publication, indicated United States milk production this year will reach a record high of more than 130,000,000,000 pounds.

New Type Mechanical Insect Exterminator Invented By Farmer

A new mechanical device in the field of insect extermination is on the market.

The machine was invented and designed by a "broke" farmer, who was so confounded by the invasion of boll weevils, worms and other insects that he turned to inventing something that would get them before they got the cotton.

"The machine is a labor-saving device in comparison to dusting," said J. B. Vickery of Lubbock Sheet Metal and Roofing company, who has the franchise for the manufacture and distribution of the machine in 20 counties of this area. "It also gets more insects than the dust, which frequently loses its effectiveness in a rain or wind."

By Pioneer Farmer

The inventor, L. S. Webb of Midland, is a pioneer farmer of Midland county and was the first farmer to gin 100 bales of cotton in one season in that county.

The machine, the name of which is Insect Exterminator, is especially applicable to leafworm, boll worm, boll weevil, cotton flea hopper and grasshopper. It is made to be either horse drawn or attached to a tractor, necessitating only a few minutes to make the change. Horse drawn, it covers 30 acres a day. Acres covered by tractors would depend on the rate of speed traveled. It will not only get the insects, it is very beneficial to the growth of the plants when used after stormy weather when the plants are dirty. It cleans and rejuvenates the plants, gets the dirt and all residue.

After years of studying the life and habits of the insects, Webb has made a 12-year study of the machine. He says that he knows what it will do and that he knows the presence of the insects in large areas of the country every year means no crops, and the absence of them, an abundance of crops.

Entomologists and federal supervisors estimate the damage at $173,000,000 to cotton alone annually, caused by the insects for which the machine is most applicable. The Firestone Farm Service Bureau statistics estimate $739,500,000 is the annual fees bill of only 12 kinds of insects. They estimate that over 1,700,000 families could eat well on the value of crops that only 12 kinds of insects destroy.

The machine can be made in any size the market demands and at a price in reach of the average farmer. It operates on a plurality of rows. The fans blast or blow the insects from the plants and deposit them in sacks conveniently located on the machine.

A two-row machine, mounted on a tractor, will be on display at the Lubbock County Labor Saving Device show March 17 on the Texas campus.

Comparison Of Drugs Reveals Advancement

NEW YORK, March 8. (AP)—A parison of the ten most important drugs used in 1910 and in 1945 reflects a "tremendous advancement" in medical science, the Journal of the American Medical association said today.

In a poll of professors of medicine in leading medical schools, the Journal found the 1910 drugs considered most important were ether, morphine, digitalis, diphtheria antitoxin, smallpox vaccine, iron, quinine, iodine, alcohol and mercury.

The 1945 list included penicillin, the sulfonamides, and antibiotics; whole blood, blood plasma, and blood derivatives; quinine and quinacrine (a synthetic substitute for quinine also known as atabrine); ether and other anesthetics, morphine, cocaine, and the barbituric acid derivatives; digitalis; arsphenaumines; immunizing agents and specific antitoxins and vaccines; insulin and liver extract; other hormones, and vitamins.
