Industrial Pact Expected Today

Local officials were keeping a wary eye on the weather this morning as officials of Northern Electric Co. were on their way to Snyder for a final session to complete negotiations for establishing a manufacturing plant in the former Wickes Building.

Contracts for a lease on the building have been revised, and last-minute details were to be discussed at a meeting this afternoon, provided the Northern officials were not delayed by weather conditions.

En route here were Larry Udall, vice president for planning and corporate development, who is based at Northern's corporate headquarters in Laurel, Miss., and Jimmy Daniels, who has been designated as manager of the plant here, who was coming from Brownsville.

Bill Henry, Chamber of Commerce Manager, said that arrangements had been made for a meeting of the [illegible] officials and representatives of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation, local financial insitutions, city and chamber officials this afternoon, provided the Northern Electric representatives were able to get to Snyder. It was hoped that the contracts could be signed today.

Northern Electric, a subsidiary of Sunbeam, is the firm which requested the labor survey here last November. It has been seeking a plant facility for making electric blankets and indicated early that it would likely give Snyder top consideration if sufficient labor would be available. The labor survey turned up over 800 potential applicants.

Snyder interests have been seeking a top flight industrial tenant for the 75,000 square foot building since it was vacated by Wickes Homes more than a year ago.

Northern indicated that

Inflation Slows

WASHINGTON (AP)-Consumer prices rose a moderate 0.4 percent in December, bringing the overall rise in prices in 1977 to 6.8 percent, the government reported today.

The inflation rate was about in line with what the Carter administration predicted for the year and compared with a 4.8 percent price rise in 1976.

The Labor Department blamed last year's acceleration of inflation on higher food prices during the first half of the year when severe winter weather affected crops and reduced supplies.

The administration originally projected consumer prices to rise 6.7 percent in 1977 but revised its forecast in April to 6.9 percent because of the weather's effect during the first three months of the year.

Although inflation was higher last year than in 1976, the rate cooled during the second half of the year. Consumer prices rose at a seasonally adjusted 4.6 percent annual rate during the final three months of 1977, compared with a 10 percent annual rate in the first quarter.

Administration economists predict inflation in 1978 will rise at about the same rate as last year, with the average family's food costs increasing 4 to 6 percent.

Vance Unsuccessful

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)-Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance apparently failed today to persuade President Anwar Sadat to quickly revive the Etyptian-Israeli peace talks. Sadat denounced Israeli "arrogance" and the "twisting" of peace efforts.

NBC News reported, meanwhile, that it has learned Sadat might fly to Washington Sunday for talks with President Carter and that Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin might also go to Washington. There was no official confirmation of the report in the Mideast or in Washington.

Spacecraft Launched

MOSCOW (AP)-The Soviet Union today launched an unmanned resupply spacecraft that will dock with the manned Salyut-6 orbiting space station, the Tass news agency said.

The spacecraft, called Progress-1, will dock at the space station alongside the cosmonauts' Soyuz-27 spacecraft, Tass said.

With Tax Cut, Anti-Inflation Remedy

Carter Gives Congress Economic Plan

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter's plan for the U.S. economy mixes a $25 billion tax cut this year and an anti-inflation program pegged to voluntary restraints by business and labor on wages and prices.

In his first annual economic message to Congress today, Carter said his economic package, if approved by the House and Senate, will reduce taxes by $258 for a typical family of four with $15,000 annual income, a reduction of nearly 20 percent. About 96 percent of all taxpayers will receive some reductions, he said.

Presidential aides said the tax reduction, however, would only be intended to offset increases in other taxes such as Social Security during 1977 and 1978.

The president also promised to consider additional tax reductions on a regular basis, perhaps annually, to keep the tax burden on Americans from cutting further into their income.

In announcing his economic program, Carter said it contains "my economic priorities for the years ahead and my strategies for achieving them."

It is intended, in part, to meet criticism from the business community which has complained it did not understand Carter's economic policies.

"I have begun from the premise that our economy is basically healthy, but that well-chosen government policies will assure continued progress toward our economic goals," Carter said in the report he sent to Congress.

There was little that was new in the program that had not already been leaked by the administration to reporters. But some of the goals of the program for unemployment and inflation were changed.

A chief aim is to reduce the nation's jobless rate from the current 6.4 percent to as low as 6.1 percent by the end of this year and 5.5 percent by the end of 1979.

Carter virtually abandoned his commitment to a balanced budget by 1981, pledging instead to work for a balanced budget when the economy is near full strength.

He also abandoned his previously stated goal of reducing inflation to 4 percent by the end of 1978.

He said his economic program should ensure growth in the economy of 4.5 percent to 5 percent a year and a reduction in unemployment of about one-half percent each year. The economy grew by nearly 5.8 percent in 1977.

"Our problems cannot be solved overnight," Carter said. "But we can resolve them if we fix our sights on long-term objectives, adopt programs that will help us to realize our goals and remain prepared to make adjustments as basic circumstances change."

The most controversial part of Carter's program will be his effort to get labor unions and business leaders to accept smaller increases in wages and prices in order to reduce inflation by one-half percent a year.

Carter's chief economic spokesman, Charles L. Schultze, acknowledged to Keeping tab on our neighbors:

The word "parity" is found in the news daily, now that farmers are protesting the prices they receive for their products, and it is apparent that many people are uncertain about its meaning.

The Big Spring Herald, noting that the "parity concept was established in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933," came up with this explanation. (Oldtimers will remember the AAA).

Parity is a ratio of an index of prices paid and prices received during the base period of 1910-1914, compared to present-day indexes of prices paid and prices received. For example, if a farmer could take a bushel of wheat to town in 1912 and buy a shirt with its proceeds, then today at 100 per cent parity, he would be able to take a bushel of wheat to town and sell it for enough to buy a shirt.

In other words, if a bushel of wheat and a shirt each sold for $1.50 in the 1910-14 period and shirt now costs $10, then a bushel of wheat also should cost $10 now.

Jerry Tidwell of the Lamb County (Littlefield) Leader-News says one of Benjamin Franklin's famous quotations may be subject to question now. He referred to a paragraph in a letter Franklin wrote, as follows: "Our Constitution is in actual operation; everything appears to promise that it will last; but in this world, nothing is certain but death and taxes."

"We're not so sure that Franklin was right as far as death is concerned," said Tidwell. "We noted a health report over the past week that predicted that people in the United States would live to be 183 years of age by the year 2080.

"But taxes have been certain long before Mary and Joseph were forced to go to Bethlehem to pay their annual tax to the government. We wonder what the tax rate will be in the year 2080 ... probably 98 per cent social security and 2 per cent withholding."

Financial Firms Have Glowing Reports On '77

Snyder banks and Snyder Savings and Loan Association had glowing reports for their stockholders at annual meetings held Thursday afternoon.

All three institutions reported deposits at an all time high for the past year, and year-end figures were at the highest level in history. Loans and earnings also were at new peaks as 1977 went into the books as a banner business year in Snyder.

Hopes were voiced for a continued good year in 1978, although all agreed that the new year would have to hump to exceed the one just finished.

"It's not ofen that you have two excellent cotton crops in one year," said Martin Brooks, President of West Texas State Bank. He had reference to the fact that the bulk of the harvest from a good 1976 crop came off after the first of 1977, but the best crop in history grown in 1977 was almost completely harvested before the end of the year.

West Texas State Bank, Snyder National Bank and Snyder Savings and Loan stockholders all re-elected their boards of directors. Snyder National and Snyder Savings also re-elected the same officers, while West Texas State elected two new assistant cashiers in the customer service department. They are Marie Line and Barbara McGee.

Snyder National officers re-elected are Roger B.

Ag Course Focuses On Current Scene

The Agriculture Economics course offered for evening students at Western Texas College this semester has taken on new importance because of the current interest in the proposed farmers' strike and the American Agriculture Movement.

Van Rigby, instructor for the course, said that it has been altered to include a study of the current situation in agriculture. There are plans to have several local speakers, including farmers and state representatives (if possible), and the current situation in Washington and the rest of the United States will be studied. Students will have the opportunity to express their views on current problems locally and nationally.

The course offers a good opportunity for people to get involved in a situation that could have a great effect on the future of our country and the world," Rigby said.

The course needs a minimum of 12-15 students enrolled before it can be taught. Classes will meet from 6:30-9:20 on Monday evenings in APS B 105. No labs are required. The course is listed as AG. 134 on the schedule.

Persons wishing further information about the course may contact Rigby at WTC, 573-8511, extension 216, 215, or 245, or call him at his residence, 573-3863.

Tuesday is the final day to register for spring semester classes.

Storm Watch Is Posted In Texas

By The Associated Press

Snow was falling in the Texas Panhandle and across portions of West Texas early today as a winter storm moved out of the Colorado Rockies and began roaring across the state.

About one inch of snow was reported on the ground before dawn today in an area north of Amarillo. A winter storm watch was posted for most of West Texas for today and tonight.

Snow was expected in North Central Texas by evening.

A travelers advisory was issued for the Texas Panhandle and the El Paso area during the night as the snow storm moved into the state.

Arctic air remained firmly entrenched across much of the state today. Early morning temperature expremes ranged from eight at Dalhart to a chilly 35 at Brownsville. Temperatures were ranging from the teens and 20s in North Texas to the 30s in South Texas.

Some early morning temperature readings included 10 at Amarillo, 14 at Wichita Falls, 20 at Texarkana, 17 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 22 at Austin, 20 at Lufkin, 22 at Houston, 30 at Corpus Christi, 36 at McAllen, 31 at Del Rio, 17 at San Angelo, 31 at El Paso and 15 at Lubbock. Light snow was reported at Amarillo, Dalhart and Wink during the pre-dawn hours.

Forecasts called for mostly cloudy skies and continued cold temperatures statewide with snow expected in West Texas and rain in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Highs were expected to range from the teens in North Texas to the middle 50s in the Valley.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Thursday, 34 degrees; low, 15 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. today, 15 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1978 to date, .16.

West Texas-Travelers advisory Panhandle and portions of the southwest today. Continue winter storm watch today and tonight all sections except extreme south. Chance of snow today and tonight ending Saturday. Significant accumulations possible by tonight most sections except extreme south. Driving conditions will be hazardous today Panhandle and portions of the southwest. Not so cold Saturday. Highs low 20s north to near 50 lower elevations of the Big Bend. Lows near 10 Panhandle to the upper 20s south and the 30s Big Bend. Highs Saturday 30s north, 40s south to the mid 50s Big Bend.

Farmers Get Attention, Understanding At Home

By JOHN LONG

"They're trying to get something done without hurting anybody, and yet get attention in Washington," said a local farmer of the tractorcades and protests planned in the nation's capital by the American Agriculture Movement.

But, what is the response on the homefront that farmers are drawing by their protests?

Locally, the response has generally been one of understanding, but one that is also mixed with reservations.

"I think farmers have a legitimate complaint," said Milton Ham, a local businessman. "I'm very sympathic for them. Some of them are close friends of mine."

Farmers face the same problem the rest of us face, Ham said, and that is deficit spending by the federal government, rather than 100 percent parity.

Noting that a guaranteed 100 percent parity can only be achieved by government controls, Ham said he believed the government would only interfere in farm operations if it directly intervened.

"There is no simple answer to it. If there were a simple answer to it," Ham said, "everybody would have it."

Saying he also believed that farmers have a legitimate complaint, Lynn Smith added, "I think it's impossible for them to get 100 percent parity."

Even if 100 percent parity is attained, Smith said he thinks it "would throw the grocery bills for the rest of us that much higher." "It would contribute immen-

cia in journalism

The hearings before the House intelligence oversight subcommittee have disclosed the deep involvement of the Central Intelligence Agency in overseas journalism.

American journalists owe an overriding allegiance to their government, but they also have a responsibility to their readers to maintain their independence from the government as collectors and reporters of the news overseas. Balancing these responsibilities may be a delicate matter in many circumstances but except in cases where national security is vitally involved, we must favor the side of journalistic independence.

Perhaps more clear-cut is the issue of covert CIA involvement in journalism, in the planting of news stories, in the publication of newspapers and magazines abroad, and in the publication of books, all for propaganda purposes.

The new charter for the CIA being drawn up by Congress should make clear that prime responsibility for overseas propaganda and information activities of the United States rests with the U.S. Information Agency and the State Department.

By contrast, the prime responsibility of the CIA should be the gathering of intelligence information overseas for use by government officials in this country.

The CIA should spend more time acquiring knowledge about foreign countries and less time muddying the waters of knowledge in the international news, magazine and book publishing business.

At the same time, the CIA has a very difinite and most important role as set out by the government and it should not be shackled unnecessarily as some members of Congress and others would do.

a doubtful victory

Results of the recent vote in Chile endorsing the military regime of President Augusto Pinochet were predictable under the watchful eye of Pinochet's Interior Ministry.

And the president's claim that the election rebutted United Nations' charges of human rights violations and repression was patently ludicrous in the light of his victory statement.

"There will be no more elections, no voting and no consultations for 10 more years," he said.

Even members of the Pinochet junta expressed their doubts over world reaction to the plebiscite. "It's always going to be believed," said Gen. Gustavo Leigh, the air force commander, "that here in Chile we are fixing the election."

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

We would like to invite everyone to come by the American Agriculture Strike Office at 2612 College Avenue and discuss the agricultural situation with the farmers and ranchers. There are stickers supporting this movement available.

This is a loosely organized movement, with everyone doing his own thing. Farmers and ranchers are not known for working together. So this is a new experience.

We will handle our own financing. We would appreciate your letters to Congress and the President. There is information on how to do this at the strike office. Inflation and over-regulation from Washington are everybody's problems.

We want to thank the Chamber of Commerce for their concern and confidence. We appreciate the editorials and coverage in The Snyder Daily News, and the publicity KSNY has given.

It makes for a good community when these problems are no longer "rural" or "city." We all share the same problems.

To The Daily News:

O.K., Snyder, you are helping the Jaycees pay for the Kiddie Park. You sent the Girls Softball team to the national tournment. People who have lost their homes have had your help and the list goes on and on. This is as it should be. We should help our neighbors.

Now we farmers want your support. We're not asking for charity. We want a fair deal. We are consumers. We like to shop and spend our money just like everybody else.

The unions get better pay for labor. The oil companies are asking for and getting higher prices and are still asking for higher prices. Companies can't operate and not make a profit. And yet the farmer is asked to operate without a profit. As consumers we are paying those same higher prices that every one else is. Only without a little profit how can we spend money we don't have. If you will stop and think farmers support the Snyder economy. We also pay taxes.

We're not asking for a guarantee. A West Texas farmer has no guarantees. If it doesn't rain he can't plant. The strong winds and dust storms could put him out of business within an hour or less and a hail storm can do the same thing. Then there are the insects we fight every year. But this is our livelyhood. The life we love. All we need is a fair shake in the market place.

Thank you for letting me speak.

warp and woof evident

WASHINGTON (AP)-By Monday evening, when the American public has heard the various economic messages of President Carter, they will be able to see the warp and woof, said Walter Heller.

If so, it will bring solace to those critics, many of them in the business community, who say they've been viewing a lot of loose threads but little discernable pattern in the past year.

Heller, an adviser to the Council of Economic Advisers and former chairman of that group under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, uses such words as cohesion, coherence, cooperation and coordination.

All these, the business community sometimes argue, have been missing or at least difficult to discern. As a consequence, confidence in the Carter economic program has been noticeably lacking.

Therefore the effort, said Heller Thursday evening, just before the round of economic messages began, will show "Not just the substance of policy but how it hangs together." The warp and woof, that is.

In his view, the weaving of a more integrated policy began with the recent appointment of G. William Miller, a businessman, to replace Arthur Burns as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

"Miller can cooperate and coordinate," said Heller, predicting that there will be more give and take between the Fed and the White House, "done in a constructive and friendly atmosphere."

Relations between the Fed and the White House will be more like they were in the Kennedy administration, said Heller, who then was chief economic adviser to the White House.

"We had our say and William McChesney Martin, Fed chairman had his. Nobody gave up independence but we had reasonably well balanced policies, without shots being fired across the other's bow."

It was not quite that way with Burns and Carter. The president, intent on a growth economy, seemed to irritate the chairman, whose greatest economic fear has always been inflation.

Even if better cooperation and coordination of policies results, there is still a question of how much business support the president can muster.

A survey by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce suggests that Carter's problem is not solely one of programs but of understanding. Many businessmen feel he simply does not understand them.

Large exporters especially are likely to remain angered by the president's insistance on revocation of tax deferrals for goods shipped abroad, on the continuance of double taxation of dividends, and on the goal of limiting tax deductions for business lunches.

The extent of the business community suspicions is indicated by the continued belief of many that the president eventually will revert to wage-price controls in an effort to restrain inflation.

To them, controls are anathema. And, says Heller, they are to the administration too. "He's dead set against them," he said, and so, he said, are all his top advisers.

Nevertheless, a more active role is planned by the president in keeping the wage-price spiral from gaining momentum. "A very gentle attempt," said Heller.

Perhaps the most acceptable aspect of the Carter program, so far as business is concerned, is the prospect of a tax cut, in part to offset higher energy taxes and Social Security payments, but also with some incentives to expansion.

Carter is getting much more on top of the economic-political situation, said Heller, and business people and others will "have a much better feel of the man than in 1977."

Heller, now a professor at the University of Minnesota, said people ask him what kind of a grade he gives the president for the first year.

"I reply, 'incomplete.'" Why? "He hasn't had to take an exam. When he does, he'll get good marks."

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Fish-or-cut-bait time is rapidly approaching for Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., who has been testing the waters of his home state for a possible gubernatorial bid this year.

Although several polls have shown him with a comfortable lead over all other gubernatorial contenders, Republican or Democrat, Schweiker is still hesitating.

He has previously indicated he would make the race only if other GOP hopefuls drop out and unite behind his candidacy. And that, it is now apparent, isn't going to happen.

At least one Republican, Richard Thornburg, former head of the Justice Department's criminal division, "is in the race all the way, regardless of what Schweiker does," according to his associates.

Thornburg could be formidable competition. He has already raised a sizeable campaign kitty and has signed on a top-flight political consultant, Eddie Mahe, former executive director of the GOP National Committee.

Even more discouraging, from Schweiker's perspective, is the fact that Thornburg also has a lock on the services of media whiz David Garth, who masterminded the upset triumph of Edward I. Koch in last year's New York mayoralty election.

It would be almost unprecedented for a senator to give up his seat to run for governor, but Schweiker has blithely confessed he is interested in the state house primarily as a stepping stone towards a presidential bid in 1980.

As governor, blessed with political patronage plums, he figures he could lock up the Pennsylvania GOP delegation to the 1980 convention. As senator, he's never packed much clout with party regulars.

Politicians elsewhere sneer at Schweiker's sudden conversion to conservatism following his 1976 alliance with Ronald Reagan. (His rating by the liberal Americans for Democratic Action plunged from 80 to 15 last year.)

But Schweiker is unruffled by all the snickers. He has a virulent case of White House fever and will pursue whichever course appears likely to lead to his goal.

Former Rep. William Roy, D-Kansas, is the early favorite to succeed retiring GOP Sen. James B. Pearson, which could produce one of the most hostile Senate combinations in recent years.

Roy, an obstetrician and lawyer, was narrowly defeated in 1974 by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., following a bruising and bitter campaign which left deep scars. He had planned to tackle Dole again in 1980, but could wind up serving with him instead as a result of Pearson's unexpected retirement.

The anti-union National Right to Work Committee didn't have long to enjoy its success in forcing the Federal Election Commission to crack down on campaign financing practices of labor organizations.

After repeated prodding from the conservative group, the FEC late last year filed suit against both the National Education Association and the AFL-CIO charging illegal use of compulsory union dues to support political candidates.

But the week after the AFL-CIO action, the FEC was back in federal court with a new lawsuit - and this time the defendant was the National Right-to-Work Committee.

Because the right-to-work group is a corporation, the FEC says it can't solicit political contributions from anyone but its employees - unless it has "members." The committee claims it does indeed have "members" - all those folks who support its goals - but the FEC notes its articles of incorporation specifically say it shall not have members.

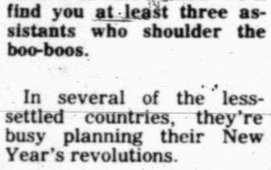

National Right-to-Work calls the FEC suit "outrageous" and "vindictive," but it's now up to the courts to settle the fight.

Seeks Relief From Husband's Bondage

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Until I read your column today I thought I was the only woman in the world whose husband didn't trust her out of his sight.

We've been married a year and I feel like a prisoner. I have my own car (which I paid for myself), but my husband carries the keys and if I have to go anywhere he insists on driving me there.

When he comes home from work I get the third degree. "Was anybody here today? Who did you talk to?" (He places the telephone cord in a certain way so he will know if the phone has been used.)

I've never lied to him and have no reason to, but he doesn't believe a thing I say. I am his fifth wife, and now I know why the first four couldn't live with him.

Please don't write me at home because he gets all the mail before I do. Just write a message to "Stuck in Penna." and tell me what to do.

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: Obviously you are able to write, so if you really want out of that miserable marriage, write to a friend or relative and ask them to come and get you.

You appear to fear your husband, so if you have reason to believe that he's capable of doing you bodily harm, ask whoever is coming to rescue you from this tyrant to bring along police protection.

If you have no one to whom you can write, tell your husband you want to leave, and if he doesn't give you the keys to your car, telephone the police (or sheriff) and ask THEM to come and get you.

DEAR ABBY: I am the office manager for a law firm and have several women working under me. Is there in existence anywhere a standard dress code for the office?

I realize that times are changing, and office attire is more casual now, but surely there must be a limit to some of the "get-ups" women are allowed to wear to the office.

I have an extremely difficult time getting the idea across to some of my girls. Can you help?

FORT WORTH

DEAR FORT: For what it's worth, there is no "standard dress code" for all offices.

I don't know what kind of "get-up's you consider "the limit," but if you spell out specifically what you consider inappropriate attire for your office, you'll have your own dress code.

DEAR ABBY: I am in my middle 40s, single by choice, and I have an excellent position. My widowed mother lives with me and I am not lonely.

A few months ago my favorite cousin died. She was a few years older than I, and her husband was 12 years her senior. Well, the new widower has been coming here very often to visit "us." Both Mother and I agree that he is interested in ME. The problem is, I am not interested in HIM.

So far I've been able to avoid being alone with him, but he is very persistent. If he doesn't catch on pretty soon, I may have to hurt his feelings in order to discourage him. Can you give me a few pointers?

NOT FOR HIM

DEAR NOT: Keep the conversation impersonal, don't let him get you alone, stay out of his reach, and retire early. He'll get the message. (P.S. How about introducing him to a friend? One woman's leftovers can be another woman's banquet.)

Improving fertility

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB -- In one of your columns you described the effects of DES on male children. My husband is one such case. Although he is not completely sterile his sperm count is only 4,500,000. We are unable to conceive. Can this effect of DES be reversed? Is there hormonal therapy that can correct this dysfunction? We would appreciate your advice concerning this matter.

DEAR READER -- DES (diethylstilbesterol) is a synthetic substitute for estrogen and it was once widely used to prevent miscarriages in women who had histories of miscarriages or a threatened abortion. The spotlight has been on its effect on the daughters of women who used DES. As I mentioned in my earlier column there is evidence that it may also have affected some of the sons by affecting sexual development and more often affecting sperm production. It is certainly true that low sperm counts and infertility can result in a man whose mother took DES to preserve her pregnancy.

However, that does not prove that this caused your husband's low sperm count. There are lots of men who have low sperm counts whose mothers never went near DES during pregnancy. The normal count is 60 to 150 million sperm cells per milliliter (there are about 3.5 milliliters per teaspoon).

There are some things that can be done in selected cases to improve a man's fertility which may help in your husband's case. It is important to have had an evaluation to be sure there are no hormonal deficiencies that can be corrected. Some men have higher counts when they are placed on thyroid supplements. Recently there has been some success reported in using the fertility pill that women use, to increase sperm production in men. The same hormones from the pituitary gland that stimulate the ovary in the woman stimulate the testicles in the man. Using this principle the fertility pills were tried and found to work in some cases.

Another technique that has helped in some cases is the use of pooled specimens. A large number of sperm cells can be collected in several specimens and artificial insemination used but that is cumbersome and expensive and some people object to artificial insemination on moral grounds. I believe the Vatican has come out against artificial insemination for any reason, even when the donar is the husband.

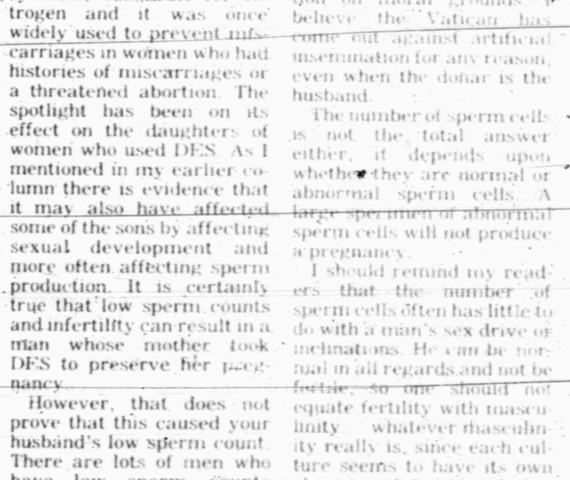

The number of sperm cells is not the total answer either, it depends upon whether they are normal or abnormal sperm cells. A large specimen of abnormal sperm cells will not produce a pregnancy.

I should remind my readers that the number of sperm cells often has little to do with a man's sex drive or inclinations. He can be normal in all regards and not be fertile, so one should not equate fertility with masculinity. Whatever masculinity really is, since each culture seems to have its own changing definition of that term.

My best advice would be for your husband and perhaps yourself to go to a fertility clinic for a careful study, to learn if he can benefit from a fertility pill or other recent developments. Each case is different, and you won't get a good answer without a good personal study.

Consumer Food News

COLLEGE STATION -- Attractive prices appear on fryer chickens, eggs and lettuce at Texas grocery markets, according to Mrs. Gwendolyne Glyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Grocery shoppers also can expect the following prices and quality levels:

FRESH VEGETABLES -- Reasonable prices highlight cabbage, carrots, potatoes, dry onions, sweet potatoes and hard-shell squash. Moderate price items include eggplant, cauliflower and Brussels sprouts.

FRESH FRUITS -- Good-quality oranges are most economical when shoppers let price and intended use determine the size to buy. Texas grapefruit is plentiful and quality is excellent, but quality is slipping on grapes and tangerines. Bananas and apples are good choices both quality-wise and pricewise.

BEEF -- Demand for beef is increasing, with prices the same as pre-holiday prices or slightly higher. However, many markets are featuring some beef cuts -- primarily chuck roasts, sirloin and T-bone steaks. Good values appear on ground beef and beef liver.

PORK -- Prices are a bit irregular although attractive prices show up on Boston butt roasts, end chops, semi-boneless hams, bacon, frankfurters and liver. Economical prices appear on quarter-loins cut into chops and rib end roasts.

FROZEN FOOD COUNTERS -- Leading feature items are a variety of vegetables, orange juice and fried chicken.

CONSUMER WATCH WORDS -- In "sizing up" lamb promotions, check for less expensive cuts, such as riblets -- instead of the more expensive leg-of-lamb.

Pearl Bailey Now Freshman

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Entertainer Pearl Bailey, 58, is a freshman at Georgetown University.

She enrolled Monday as Pearl B. Bellson, her married name, signing up for courses in French, Islamic civilization, Islamic religious thought, Egyptian art and introductory philosophy.

That adds up to a full schedule of 18 credits and she said she would like to have taken more.

Miss Bailey said the courses in Islam and Egyptian art should be easy for her because she is familiar with the subjects from her travels.

When Miss Bailey was awarded an honorary doctorate of humane letters by Georgetown last May, she said, "You should see my face when I get the real thing."

Girl Scouts Earning Badges

Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 239 is working on requirements for the Dancer Badge. Debbie Burney, director of the West Texas Theatric Arts Centre, has been providing instruction and information concerning the dance as an art form. The girls visited her studio where they had the opportunity to learn and practice the different types of steps and rhythms involved.

Next they will study the life of a famous dancer and will visit a Brownie troop to share the things they have learned.

A special "good-bye" was given to Ida Flores who will be moving to McCamey next week. Leaders for the troop are Bobbie Donelson and Sandy Norris.

We are showing the same hand as yesterday except that we have shifted the direction to make South the declarer.

The bidding is the same except that in yesterday's article the player with the East cards elected to bid four spades. This time we find that he has passed the four-heart double.

West opens the king of diamonds and his partner drops the deuce. What should West lead at trick two?

He should lead one of his low diamonds.

There is a common sense, simple convention in this situation.

When your partner leads the king against a suit contract and you have two cards in the suit you automatically play the higher one unless it is the queen.

The deuce cannot be the higher of the two cards. Hence it is either a singleton; or it shows queen-deuce or queen and two small.

The low lead cannot hurt with any of those possibilities.

Ask the Experts

A Carolina reader wants to know the point-count range for an opening bid of two notrump.

In standard American it is 22-24 points. In expert circles it shows 20 to 22. The reason for the difference is that almost all experts use the two-club opening followed by a two-notrump rebid to show a 23-24 point notruinp-type hand.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Westerners Saddle Broncos, 97-87

By BILL McCLELLAN

Popping up from under a 3-point blanket at half-time, Western Texas College took control in the final 20 minutes here last night to smother the nation's number 13-ranked junior college basketball team, New Mexico Military Institute.

The 97-87 victory puts the Westerners in a four-way tie for second place in the conference standings along with Amarillo College, South Plains and the Military.

Odessa College, which lost last night to Amarillo 98-86, holds a one-game lead with a 6-2 mark.

Five Westerner players reached the magic double figure mark yesterday with forward Adam Beadle accounting for 27. Second on the list was Doug Worthington. And that's not so surprising, according to Coach Nolan Richardson.

"This is the first time Doug looked like the super player I thought he could be," Richardson said of the 6'5" forward from Buffalo, N.Y. "It had to come from him. I hadn't been playing him much because he hadn't been doing his job. Tonight he took it on himself and did a great job. He is the slack we needed. Defensively he played well; offensively he played exceptionally well. He did everything."

Worthington connected for 18 points and backed a strong second-half defensive effort that cut NMMI's scoring to 64 percent of what it had been the first half.

The top portion of the game was a close race, with neither team getting much of a lead until the final minutes.

WTC, which was down by six but tied the contest with several minutes to go, suddenly lost what little finesse it began the game with and missed four straight layups. In addition, the defense just wasn't handling the Bronco scoring attack.

Fired up by Jarome Mobley's 16 first-half points, NMMI meanwhile appeared to be able to hit almost anything and plunked in 11 points before the buzzer to take a 58-44 lead.

"The first half we didn't play the best defense. They were beating us to the boards. I really think they were pushing us around under there a lot," added Richardson, who was displeased with the officials despite winning. "The second half we changed it around. We beat them to the boards on both ends. We got ahead and never looked back."

A number of calls from the officials were questioned by Richardson, which resulted in no relief. In fact, the coach was charged with a technical.

"In the dressing room at the half I just told the guys, 'We can't play and worry about the officiating, we've just got to go out there and play the game'".

WTC sunk the first 7 points of the second period, caught up with the visitors 63-63 with 14:05 left in the game, and never went behind again.

Joe Mendoza slapped up two free throw tries to knot the score and seconds later Beadle cashed in on a 3-point play after he was fouled while making a shot.

Momenteum fell towards the Westerners for the first time all night, as NMMI, which went 9 of 10 from the charity line the first half, missed a one-and-one situation and WTC scored two more points.

In a three minute period, Moorehead nailed two field goals and a couple of free shots, Beadle hit on a goal and two free shots and Julio Gallardo added another field goal to put the host team in the lead 78-68.

From there, the Westerners continued to hold a 12 to 7 point advantage for the rest of the game; their fifth conference victory in eight outings.

Aiding the efforts of Beadle and Worthington were three more players in two figures. Gallardo posted 17, Mendoza noted 15 and Moorehead had 12. Also scoring for the Westerners were Dwight Williams with 6 points and Reginald Reid with 2.

Lewis Lloyd, one of the nation's leading scorers, managed to pocket 33 points for the Broncos. Teammates Mark Cartwright and Mobley had 15 and 11 points, respectively.

A total of 63 fouls were called in the contest as the action became rough, and even hostile at times.

NMMI's Cartwright was the first player to be sidelined for infractions. Cartwright went out with 8:01 remaining. Moorehead fouled out with 2:35 left; New Mexico's Tony Phillips went to the bench with 2:10 showing and Reid was pulled with 16 seconds to play.

Also sidelined was NMMI's Mobley, who was dismissed from the game with 28 seconds left after he apparently took a punch at a Westerner player. Beadle was forced to come out of the game with 1:37 to go because of an injury - a deep cut near the hairline - sustained a few moments earlier.

According to Richardson, Beadle's injury looked to be minor.

The victory was a crucial one for the Westerners, who are looking for a fourth consecutive trip to the Regional playoffs.

"This puts us back into a very clear picture," commented Richardson after the game. "If we can play the way we played in the second half all the time we're going to be number one."

Next up for the Westerner's is Monday's 8 p.m. game at Big Spring against Howard College. The game will be preceeded by a women's contest at 6 o'clock.

Lombardi Award Given To Irish Defensive End

HOUSTON (AP)-Notre Dame defensive end Ross Browner gave the No. 1 signal twice during his final collegiate football season.

The first time came when the Fighting Irish beat Texas in the Cotton Bowl to win the national championship. The second time was Thursday night when he won the Vince Lombardi Award as the nation's outstanding collegiate lineman.

And maybe the second time had a deeper personal meaning.

"I wanted to go out with a national championship," the senior 6-3, 247 pounder said. "We accomplished that and now I feel I can give the No. 1 signal to my father because I came out on top in this, too."

Browner addressed his No. 1 signal to his late father, Jimmy Lee Browner Sr., who died of cancer in 1976.

"I do have some reasons to dedicate the rest of my life to the fight against this dreaded disease," Browner told the sellout crowd of 1,200 at the $100 per plate dinner. "I got a lot of the discipline that I have today from my father."

Browner, a finalist for the Lombardi Award last year when the trophy went to Houston's Wilson Whitley, won out this year over teammate tight end Ken MacAfee, Texas defensive end Brad Shearer and Kentucky defensive end Art Still.

Browner was the favorite to win the Lombardi last year as a junior when he also won the Outland Trophy. Shearer came in this year as a favorite along with Browner because the Texas defender earlier had been awarded the Outland Trophy.

Browner established school career records of 348 tackles, 80 of which went for losses totaling 537 yards. He also had a school record 13 career fumble recoveries.

The Lombardi Award is named in honor of the former Green Bay and Washington coach who died of cancer. All proceeds from the dinner go to the American Cancer Society for research.

Pardee Leaves Bears; Talks To Washington

CHICAGO (AP) - The Chicago Bears found themselves without a football coach today after Jack Pardee resigned and headed for greener pastures.

Pardee, who had been biding his time in signing a new contract, asked permission to talk to the Washington Redskins and shortly after that the Bears issued a release saying Pardee had resigned.

Pardee, who had been at the Bears' helm for the last three years and had been reluctant to sign again, said Thursday, "I nearly fell out of bed when I heard the news Wednesday night."

The news was that George Allen had been fired as coach of the Redskins.

Pardee left for Washington to talk to the Redskins, and the Bears were in line searching for a new head coach. When asked whether he had been fired or quit, Pardee said: "Well, no, I'm just talking to Washington. Nothing has changed." Told the Bears had said Pardee had resigned, he replied, "Well, whatever they said."

Jim Finks, general manager and vice president of the Bears, was on his way to Tampa, Fla., for the National Football League meetings and unavailable for comment.

Pardee, reached at O'Hare International Airport before leaving for Washington, said, "I enjoyed living at Washington more than I did any other place."

Pardee is a 15-year veteran of the National Football League, having played at Los Angeles and Washington under Allen. Recently he said he was displeased with facilities at the Bears' training camp and their home grounds at Soldier Field.

Pardee was hired by Finks in 1975 and the Bears finished the season at 4-10. They were 7-7 in 1976 and 9-5 this season when they earned a berth in the playoffs only to lose to the Dallas Cowboys.

Pardee's previous Credentials included coaching the Florida Blazers to a 14-7 record in the World Football League although the club failed to meet the payroll in the final weeks of the season.

9th Black Rips Toros

Snyder ninth grade Black team ripped the Big Spring Toros in cage action here last night, 86-55.

The contest was close in the first and third quarters, but the Tigers outpointed Big Spring 26-11 in the second period and 27-12 in the fourth to take an 11th victory in 13 outings.

Tony Degrate led the locals with 26 points. Robert Rodriquez had 16 points; Carlos Martinez had 14; and Kris Seale noted 13. Big Spring was paced by Hilario with 21 and Williams with 14.

Snyder Black will travel to Lamesa on Monday for a 5 p.m game with the Tors.

'Stangs Slap Frosh Girls

Sweetwater's Teresa West fired in 25 points here yesterday as the Mustangs defeated Snyder freshman girls, 41-34.

Snyder fell behind 6-4 in the game but tied the visitors 15-15 by half time. Led by West's scoring however, the 'Stangs posted 26 points in the second half to Snyder's 19, for the win.

Pam Gray led the local squad with 12 points. Teammates Kim Fritz and Sherry Warren noted 10 and 7.

The local girls' team will host Lake View on Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Highland Bags Bulldog Trio

HIGHLAND--The Hornets and Bulldogs concluded their first-round 11-B cage session here yesterday, with Highland collecting a trio of wins for the effort.

Highland boys, led by Wright's 18 points, pounded out 19 third-quarter points while handing Ira only 7 to take a 69-58 victory. Teammate Thompson added 14 points to the effort.

Leading the scoring for the Bulldogs were Joe Hall, 18; Fred Kesner, 14; and Keith Bryant, 11. David Mosley, Ira's leading scorer all year, missed the contest due to a head injury suffered in the Roby game.

In other action here last night, Highland girls relied on an 17-point third-period effort to nip the visitors, 48-42. Ira took a 9-6 lead, but lost it by half time (23-23). The Bulldogs out-pointed the Hornets 11-8 in the final set, but it was the third quarter score - 17-8 in favor of Highland - that made the difference.

Hope Fullwood scored 24 points for Highland. Kristi Hughes and Kim Layne led the visitors with 15 and 14 points.

Earlier in the day, Highland B-team boys defeated Ira 35-31. Ira's Art White scored 9 points.

Up next for the Bulldogs is the opening of round-two play which brings Hermleigh to Ira beginning at 5:30 on Tuesday night. Ira junior high hosts Westbrook at 6:30 on Monday.

Dunbar On Local Agenda Tonight

Local high school basketball teams go back on the courts tonight both here and away as Snyder takes on district rival Lubbock Dunbar.

Playing the host role will be the girls' team, while the boys make their second trip in a week to the West Texas city.

Coach Ken Housden's varsity girls' club, 1-0 in league play after defeating Estacado here on Tuesday, welcome the Pantherettes at 7:30 in Tiger Gym. The game will be preceeded by a junior varsity contest at 6 o'clock.

The local boys' team, which has fallen out of the 3-AAA round-one race, will be looking for an emotional victory tonight as well as a physical one in order to get tuned up for round-two which gets underway Jan. 24. Those games tonight are scheduled to begin at 4:15 with a sophomore game and will be followed by a 6:15 JV contest and the varsity tilt at 8 o'clock.

Gold Team Takes Win

Snyder Gold, eighth grade girls' squad, defeated Sweetwater here last evening, 17-9.

Scoring for the Gold team were Shana Koonsman with 9 points and Patti Clark and Tracey O'Day wiht 4 each.

Snyder Gold will host Lake View on Monday.

Eighth Black Pops 'Stangs

Snyder girls' eighth grade Black team whipped Sweetwater B team in basketball action here yesterday, 20-10.

Scoring for the local team were Kelly Jones, 6; Brenda Anderson and Joyce Barnes, 4 each; and Vickie Gregory, Lisa Cobb and LaDonna Halford, 2 apiece.

The girls will host Lake View on Monday.

7th Grade Tourney Postponed

The Snyder 7th Grade Tournament, originally scheduled to begin at 3:30 today, has been postponed until Jan. 27 and 28 Roy Carter, athletic director, has announced.

Four local and four area teams were to compete in the two-day tournament, which has been cancelled until next weekend due to weather conditions and future weather forecasts.

8th Black Loses One

Snyder's 8th grade Black squad was defeated 55-45 by Runnels White here Thursday. Keith Wallace and Tommy Gressett paced the locals with 15 and 12 points respectively.

Runnels, which jumped out to a 16-4 first-quarter lead and held on for the victory, was led by Rosson, 21, Armendarez, 12, and Johnson, 11.

Up next for the local team is a Monday contest with Lamesa.

To Boot Or Not To Boot

...That Is The Question

By BILL McCLELLAN

Then there's this kicking rule the NCAA has come up with. Well, I figure you have to look at both sides in this one. With shoe on and shoe off, you might say.

The SWC trio of Steve Little (Arkansas), Russell Erxleben (U of Texas) and Tony Franklin (A&M) have a point. It's going to be awful hard to break that 67-yard record now.

'Course everyone says something has to be done about the increase of field goal trys. Some years back you'll recall, efforts were made to spice up the game. This included, among other things, the widening of the goal posts. Apparently the kicking game has been improved so much now...that it's too much. The NCAA giveth and the NCAA taketh away.

In case this means nothing to you, I'll go over the facts real quick.

Due to an increase in the amount of field goal attempts this year (2,513), the NCAA Rules Committee adopted a change Wednesday that gives the defensive team possession at the line of scrimmage rather than the 20-yard line on missed field goal attempts outside the 20.

What that means is, if Erxleben tries to beat the 67-yard record in a game and misses, the opposing team gets the ball back on Texas' 47-yard line, instead of their own 20, as in the past.

In a way, that's good. In a way, that's bad.

The trio of Southwest Conference booters feel the rule is aimed against them directly. Well, perhaps not, but it is a fact that the group kicked 22 of the 64 efforts made from beyond the 50 yard line in NCAA ball this past year. And when a team can line up on the mid-field stripe and boot in three points time after time, without having to worry about missing, then that can be a pretty awsome offense when you think about it.

And Little, Erxleben and Franklin have a point when they say it penalizes the athletes who are able to kick that far. After all, it's not their fault they're such good kickers.

Still, there is argument for the rule. First of all, the pros use it (along with a shorter distance between goal posts and no kicking tee). Second is the point made by schools that don't have a great leg. Teams such as Texas, Arkansas and A&M can literally kick their opponents back into a hole - well, to the 20-yard line at least - and perhaps make three points in the process. And with Earl Campbell graduated and gone, the Longhorns might have found that kind of strategy to be the best. (Just kidding, Freddy.)

So now what. An emergance of Super-Kickers? Maybe. Emphasis will have to be put on precision (skill) and not quantity. Erxleben will just have to make sure he doesn't miss...after he's talked Akers into the idea.

Will the 67-yard mark be broken? Undoubtedly. But it may take a while. Field goal experts won't get many opportunities from that distance. No more will the average booter be called on to try one from the 50 in the first quarter.

But when there are three seconds on the clock and the visitors are ahead 25-23 with the conference championship on the line...time out is called...a quick sideline discussion and into the game races non other than 'Super-Kicker'...He sets up on his own 46-yard line ... He's back ... There's the snap ... The holder's got it. It's kicked! It's up ... up, up, up ... and over!

See? He not only broke the record, he saved the day as well. Now isn't that more thrilling? The NCAA thinks so.

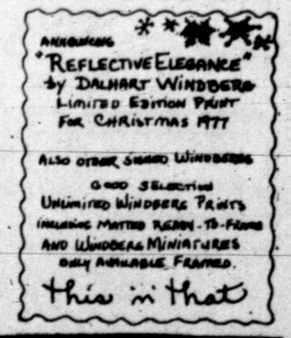

And the NCAA giveth, and the NCAA taketh away.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

When Massachusetts people are heard to brag, "Our state was the cradle of liberty," New Hampshire natives smile and respond, "Yes, but we rocked the cradle." They have good reason to make such a statement. America's Declaration of Independence was signed on July 4, 1776, while New Hampshire had set the pattern by signing theirs on June 15.

In New Hampshire there is an interesting stone formation, known world wide as the Great Stone Face. Carved out of solid granite, by wind and rain, it bears an amazing likeness to the face of a strong and handsome man. The old man inspired Nathaniel Hawthorn's story, "The Great Stone Face."

But an equally famous tribute was paid to the state by the great orator, Daniel Webster. "Men put out signs representing their trades. Jewelers hang out monstrous watches, shoemakers a huge boot. Up in New Hampshire God Almighty has hung out a sign that says, "In this state I make men."

That is no secret! That seems to be His main business. That, and repairing those He has made who, for some reason, mar and break themselves. Maybe that is why Christ came as a carpenter, rather than a writer or a farmer or a fisherman. He makes men. He repairs men. He beautifies the lives of men with His presence and His power. "Follow me," Jesus said, "and I will make you."

Believe Him. He really does!

Counties Informed On Ballots

AUSTIN (AP)-The Secretary of State's office is trying to straighten out a number of Texas counties on what local races will be on the ballot in this year's elections.

"There's no investigation or anything like that," said Charles Seltzer of the elections division, "but we are working with them in certification of the positions on the ballot." Seltzer said the state constitution specifies a number of district and county jobs that will be voted on this year and which ones will be on the 1980 ballot.

"There are a few counties which were out of synchronization and we are trying to help them get back in."

According to the state constitution the local offices to be voted on this year are district clerks, county judges, county clerks, judges of county courts at law, county criminal courts, county probate courts and family relations courts, county treasurers, criminal district attorneys, county surveyors, inspectors of hides and animals, county commissioners for Precincts 2 and 4, and justices of peace.

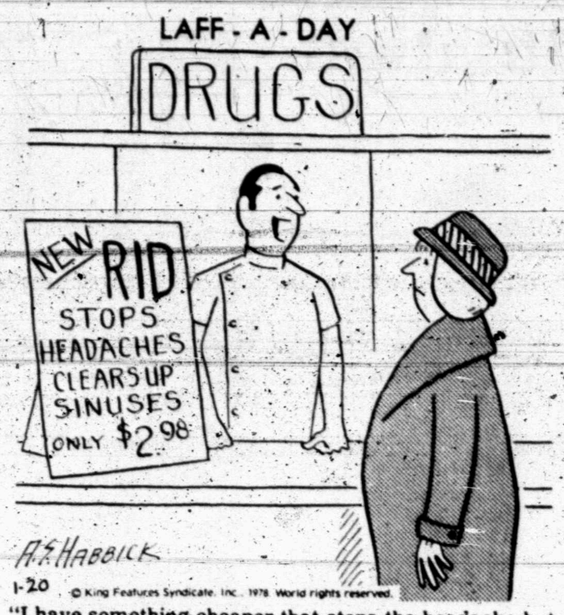

In 1980, the offices to be on the ballot will be sheriffs, tax assessor-collectors, district attorneys, county attorney's public weighers, county commissioners of Precincts 1 and 3, and constables.

District judges are elected according to the time at which they were appointed.

Lana Turner To Co-Star In Movie

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Lana Turner will co-star in "Little Mo," a three-hour NBC movie based on the life of tennis player Maureen Connelly.

She will play Mo's mother with Glynnis O'Connor in the title role.

"I have something cheaper that stops the headache but doesn't give a hoot about your sinuses."

Texans Praise, Criticize Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter's State of the Union address met with warm praise and blistering criticism from members of the Texas congressional delegation.

"It was a good speech and it set the right tone - honest recognition of our problems, and confidence in the ability of our people to solve them by working together," House Majority Leader Jim Wright said Thursday night after the speech.

"I found nothing to cheer about;" countered Sen. John Tower, a Republican. "While saying the citizens of this country were tired of big government, he spoke of making it bigger. He spoke of counter-productive energy matters while asking for more production. He said nothing of the shifting balance militarily in favor of the Soviets and that is chilling to me."

Democratic congressman E. Kika de la Garza said the "President spoke with confidence and moderation, what I would call a balanced State of the Union message ... I am glad the president proposes to support our proposals to reduce and try to bring some common sense into federal regulations that simply harass private business without any visable gain by anyone."

"The president is obviously trying to walk a tightrope between inflation and recession," said Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen. "He's signaling he's going to take a more moderate approach with fewer new programs and emphasis on completing programs already underway. There's a recognition that you can't do everything at once."

Democratic freshman Rep. James Mattox said "the tone was important. The government can't solve all our problems."

Rep. Barbara Jordan, one of six Texans serving out their last terms this session, called the president's message "sober in tone."

"He really captured the mood of the country in calling for the limit of government on the country. That is a saleable item now," the Houston Democrat said.

Your Birthday

Jan. 21, 1978

You may enter into an alliance of tremendous importance this coming year. It will be with one who will serve as a stablizing influence in your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) To be on the safe side today, give co-workers and helpers the kid glove treatment. They won't perform well if they're not buttered up. Find out to whom you're romantically suited to by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Make play out of work today, but don't play and avoid your work. The former will benefit you, the latter won't.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Normally you're not overly possessive of loved ones. Today, however, you may feel that they must account to you for all their actions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Weigh the odds wisely today before you toss the gauntlet. Avoid any confrontations where you may be overmatched going in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you put conditions on things which you give others today, they in turn will do the same. No one will get much of a deal.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) That old adage of neither a borrower nor a lender be is worth keeping in mind today. Misunderstandings could arise in either instance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Stepping out of line in the romance department is asking for trouble today. Even a harmless rendevous could be seriously misjudged.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A sensitive friend could have hurt feelings if he learns that you did something for another pal that you refused to do for him. Play no favorites.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unless you are collectively appointed, do not assume you're the spokesman for your peer group today. Some other friends want to be chairman as well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Holding an outsider up as an example to a member of your family today could prove to be a poor way to make a point. Such comparisons arouse animosity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An independent associate will not appreciate it if you poke your nose into his affairs today, even though your intentions are well-meaning.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Agreements should be entered into cautiously today. Unless both parties are in complete accord, someone is going to feel they got the short end.

For Dinner Theatre Event

'Barefoot In The Park' Next WTC Production

Neil Simon's comedy "Barefoot in the Park" has been chosen for the annual Western Texas College dinner theatre production in March, Jeanne Kobuszewski, director, has announced.

"It's a tremendous comedy," notes Miss Kobuszewski. "After reading what seemed to be hundreds of scripts, I found 'Barefoot in the Park' to be a hurricane of hilarity.

"There are more funny lines in this comedy than one can remember, and not one is a gag. They are all spoken seriously. That's why everything is so wonderfully funny.

"We're planning to run the show six nights -- March 2, 3 and 4 and 9, 10 and 11 -- with all performances in the WTC Student Center."

Tryouts for roles in the play are scheduled from 6-8 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday in the Fine Arts Theatre. WTC students and others in the community interested in theatre are invited to try out. Scripts are available in the drama office in the Fine Arts Building and in the Learning Resource Center.

Technical positions are also open, and anyone who wants to participate in the production may sign up for Drama 111 to receive an hour's credit. Everyone interested in being a part of the play should attend tryouts, Miss Kobuszewski stresses.

Corie and Paul Bratter, a pair of newlyweds, are the major characters in "Barefoot in the Park." The title of the play was derived from the heroine's insistence that to walk shoeless through February snow is a test of whether her young, rather proper bridegroom is a sufficiently free, eccentric character to deserve her as a bride.

Simon admittedly drew from memories of the first week of his own marriage as he wrote "Barefoot," describing the adventures of the newlyweds setting up housekeeping in an antiquated New York apartment. They have a postage-stamp bedroom sans bed, a bathroom sans tub and a radiator that has chosen February not to work.

Everyone in the play must at some time or other walk up the stoop and five flights of stairs to reach the door of the apartment, and some must conquer the plight more than once. There's the telephone man who comes to install the phone, the delivery man, the young husband who tries to give equal time to new law practice and his lovely new bride, the bride herself who floats about seeking to set up the perfect apartment in the perfect marriage, the mother-in-law who lives alone and sleeps on a board, and the charming deadbeat of a neighbor who is a connisseur of a rare appetizer like knichi and who promotes a remarkable Albanian restaurant on Staten Island.

"'Barefoot in the Park' has been acknowledged as one of the funniest and one of the most successful stage comedies of our time," Miss Kobuszewski says, "and I am looking forward to getting rehearsals underway. If anyone has questions about tryouts, or would like further information, they may call my office, 573-8511, extension 233."

OBITUARIES

Raymond Hill

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Saturday at First United Methodist Church for Raymond H. Hill, Route 2, Snyder. Mr. Hill, 78, was dead on arrival at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

The Rev. Wayland Dowden, pastor of Union United Methodist Church where Mr. Hill was a member, and the Rev. Jene Greer, pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church, will officiate at the funeral service. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A retired farmer and ginner, Mr. Hill was a native of Buffalo Gap and had lived in Scurry County for 39 years. He was married on July 10, 1921, at Ovalo, to Margie Hodges. She survives. Also surviving are a son, James Hill of Snyder, eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Mr. Hill was preceded in death by one daughter and one son.

Mrs. Rogers

Services are set for 2:30 p.m. Saturday in Bell-Seale Chapel for Mrs. Faye Rogers, 81. Rev. Otto J. Schaufele, pastor of First Christian Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Rogers died at 6:23 a.m. today in Cogdell Memorial Hospital. She was born April 5, 1896. She was wed to Jessie W. Rogers, who preceded her in death.

Surviving are two stepdaughters, Mrs. Ruby Smith of San Angelo and Mrs. Frances Congor of San Antonio; a son, Leslie Stewart of New Braunfels; a stepson J.W. Rogers of Colorado City; three sisters: Mrs. Porter King, Mrs. Oren Wilson and Mrs. Earl Brown, all of Snyder, and several grandchildren and great children.

G. W. Wolfe

Garland W. Wolfe, 90, of Snyder died at 1 a.m. today in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

Services are set for 2 p.m. Sunday in Bell-Seale Chapel with Sam Kitching officiating. Burial will follow in Hillside Memorial Gardens under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mr. Wolfe was born August 18, 1887.

Surviving are his wife, Lou of the home and a nephew, Don Robinson of Hereford.

Suspect Is Sought Here

Sheriff's deputies reported they are searching for a suspect in connection with an act of criminal mischief.

Robert L. McKinney told deputies that three tires and wheels were destroyed on a trailer he owns. In addition to the destruction of the tires and wheels, McKinney said that the spindles and brake assemblies were also damaged. Damage in the incident is estimated at $900.

The incident was reported to deputies Thursday morning, but is alleged to have occurred Wednesday night while the trailer was parked on West 23rd St.

Farm Situation

sely to inflation," Smith noted.

But there is strength in numbers, Smith said. "If the farmers band together they will get some success," he added.

"Farmers have problems and they need help, but I don't think they're going about it the proper way," said local businessman Buddy Whittenburg. Whittenburg said there is "no way" he would support a strike.

In their demands for 100 percent parity, Whittenburg said, "Farmers are going in for government control and that's what they need to be out from under."

A farmer and rancher himself, Max von Roeder said that if it came to a strike, he did not believe cotton farmers could have much immediate impact.

"The cotton farmer can't strike for a month or three months, but for a whole year," said von Roeder, "and I don't think most people in this area can do that."

Noting that there is a surplus left over from last year's cotton crop, von Roeder said the effects of strike by cotton farmers would not be immediately felt.

Similar sentiments were expressed by another farmer and rancher, Don Vineyard.

A strike by cotton and wheat farmers would have no effect for about a year, Vineyard said, but the farmer of food staples could have an effect in one month.

"I don't really understand why the farmers are striking," said Brenda Lee, a local secretary. "I don't really know about 100 percent parity."

When asked what action she thought Congress might take, Miss Lee replied she is not sure. "You never can tell about Congress," she said.

Floyd Hollis, the owner of Hollis Tractor Sales, said that he, too, is not sure what Congress will do.

He said, however, that farmers "need to make a profit or they'll go out of business."

The manager of Hasting's Books and Records, Carol Deen, said she believes that farmers have a valid complaint.

"By striking and making people realize their problem," she said, "Some kind of solution can be worked out."

And a solution to their problems, she said, is what farmers are seeking.

Cold Thief Is Sought

Plunging temperatures may have prompted someone to take a small, gas-powered heater from the Don Adams' Laundry.

Adam reported the theft to police Thursday morning. The theft is alleged to have occurred between 6 p.m. Wednesday and 6:30 a.m. Thursday. Value of the heater was estimated at $20.

In other reports Mrs. Bobbie Hargrove told police that her 1974 Cadillac was struck by a vehicle in the 2300 block of Ave. R. The incident was reported at 12:07 p.m. Thursday.

Later Thursday, reports indicate, police contacted a subject who may have driven the vehicle that allegedly left the scene of the collision.

The sunflower, found in flower gardens, can attain a height of 20 feet.

SIGN OF THE TIMES--Parked in front of the local agriculture strike office recently was a tractor with the sentiments of its owner painted on it. Reaction to the farmers' strike has been varied. (SDN Staff Photo)

10 Pleas Heard In County Court Here

Ten guilty pleas have been entered in county court yesterday and today.

Two of the pleas were entered this morning by Rance Allen Smith who pleaded guilty to charges of possession of marijuana and to driving while intoxicated.

Allen, of Snyder, was fined $200 and sentenced to serve a 180-day probation on the marijuana charge and was levied a $100 fine and a six-month probation on the DWI charge. Arrests for both offenses took place on Dec. 12.

Other guilty pleas to DWI charges were entered Thursday by Nazario Renteria, Antonio Tongumo, C.T. Baker, Joe Forrest Holcomb, Tex Looney, and Lucio Solis.

Renteria, Looney, and Solis were each given $100 fines and 30-day jail terms, probated for six months.

Holcomb and Tongumo were levied $100 fines and three-day jail terms while Baker was assessed a $50 and a 30-day jail term, probated for six months.

Solis also entered a guilty plea to a charge of criminal mischief. He is alleged to have destroyed a mattress while briefly incarcerated in the city jail on Jan. 15.

On the criminal mischief charge, Solis was fined $100 and ordered to pay $35 restitution.

Receiving a $200 fine and a 30-day jail sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of theft was Antonio DeLeon.

DeLeon, reports indicate, is alleged to have taken a tool set and a tape player-radio combination from George Kirkpatrick on Dec. 18.

Carter's Plan

reporters that the initial reaction of business and labor ranged from "wary acceptance to a little bit of grumbling." But if successful, he said, inflation could be reduced to 4 percent by 1981.

Carter said success of the inflation program will depend on major firms and unions consulting with the government in advance on steps that can be taken to slow the wage and price spiral in individual industries.

"This program is based on the initial presumption that prices and wages in each industry should rise significantly less in 1978 than they did on the average during the past two years," Schultze said.

Carter said he rejects the idea that inflation can be reduced only through slow-growth policies that keep unemployment high. But he also said that unless inflation is controlled, "the prospects for regaining a fully employed economy will be seriously reduced."

The president said there will be continued emphasis on reducing the inflationary contributions of government regulations and programs and announced establishment of a high-level interagency committee to deal with the problem.

"My administration cannot and will not pursue policies in the future that threaten to trigger a new and more virulent round of inflation in this country," Carter said.

He didn't disclose anything that wasn't previously known about his tax program, which will be outlined in detail in a special message on Saturday.

Carter said there would be net tax reductions for individuals of $17 billion if Congress approves, they would take effect on Oct. 1.

He said individuals would also benefit from $2 billion in reductions in the federal excise tax on telephone bills and the federal payroll tax for unemployment insurance.

There would be an additional $8 billion in tax savings for business, partially offset by about $2 billion in business tax reforms, for a net reduction for business of nearly $6 billion.

The corporate tax rate would be reduced from 48 percent currently to 45 percent on Oct. 1 and to 44 percent in 1980.

Carter would make permanent the existing 10 percent investment tax credit, and extend it to investments in industrial and utility structures, as well as to equipment.

Businesses would also be allowed to use the investment tax credit to offset up to 90 percent of their federal tax liability, compared with 50 percent currently. But Carter would reduce the amount of business entertainment expenses that will be deductible.

Carter also said that if Congress fails to follow his recommendation for a full rebate of proposed new energy taxes, then he would ask for additional tax reductions for individuals to offset this increase.
