Primary Victories For Moody, Mayfield And Miller Seen

WRITER 'PICKS' WINNERS IN STATE VOTE

Moody Expected to Gain Nomination Without Run-Off

PARNELL PUT THIRD

Big City Machines Lined Up For Love, U. P. Man Avers

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff

AUSTIN, Texas, July 26. (UP)—Based upon a symposium of reports brought into Austin this week, Saturday's Democratic primary election should result as follows:

U. S. Senator—Earle B. Mayfield, first; Tom Connally, second; Alvin Owsley or Tom Blanton, third; Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cuningham, fifth, and Jess McLemore, sixth. A run-off will be needed in this race, it is indicated.

Governor—Dan Moody, winner without a run-off; L. J. Wardlaw, second; W. E. Hawkins, third, and Mrs. Edith Wilmans, fourth.

Lieutenant Governor—Barry Miller, first; Thomer B. Love, second; J. D. Parnell, third; H. L. Darwin, fourth, and John D. McCall, fifth. A run-off is expected to be necessary.

Land commissioner—J. T. Robinson, first; Otis Terrell, second, with a run-off likely if Flynt and Britton poll many names.

School superintendent—S. M. N. Marrs, first; W. E. James, second; and W. F. Garner, third. Marrs may be forced into a run-off.

Wardlaw Weak

In the races with only two candidates the winner appears to be W. Gregory Hatcher for treasurer, Lon Smith for railroad commissioner, W. G. Morrow for judge of the court of criminal appeals, and Sam Houston Terrell for comptroller. All of these men, as well as Robinson and Marrs, are now holding offices and as a result of the reports coming to the capital may be flattering.

That Governor Moody will win without a run-off is predicted on the assumption that Wardlaw will not get many more votes than Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson received for re-election and that Hawkins will

"Senator Parnell will be in the run-off," was the statement issued here Thursday from the campaign headquarters of J. D. Parnell, candidate for lieutenant governor.

Tom Love, one of the candidates, is conceded by the Parnell campaign managers the votes of those opposed to Al Smith, whom Parnell has endorsed for president and Love has repudiated. However, the managers declared that this vote was not large enough in the state for Love to poll more votes than Parnell.

Sections of the state which in the past have "gone strong" for Barry Miller have swung to the Parnell banner, according to the managers, because Miller is asking for a third term and has failed to state his views on material political matters of state and national importance.

Driver of Street Sprinkler Declares He's Rich Man's Heir

Oregon Man Sues for $1,000,000 As Son of Late Sam Lazarus

ST. LOUIS, July 26. (AP)—A 48-year-old driver of a sprinkler wagon for the city of Corvallis, Ore., filed suit in federal court here today for $1,000,000 of the $3,000,000 estate of the late Sam Lazarus, asserting that he is an illegitimate son of Lazarus and that, during his life, Lazarus recognized him as his son.

Lazarus, a railroad director and capitalist, died March 5, 1926, leaving a widow and daughter. The man, who uses the name Silas A. Lazarus, was not mentioned in the will, as he says he was promised.

The claimant, in his petition, recounts he was born in Sherman, Texas, Sept. 8, 1880, and at all times since his birth has been known to members of his maternal family as the son of Sam Lazarus.

"It's a huge joke," said M. N. Sale, Sam Lazarus' personal friend and attorney. "But it's what every rich man may expect when he dies."

Lazarus Known Here

John P. Marrs, Wichita Falls attorney, for many years a close personal friend of Sam Lazarus whose estate is in litigation in St. Louis, Thursday characterized claims made by Silas A. Lazarus to the effect that he was Sam Lazarus' illegitimate son and entitled to a share in the $3,000,000 estate as without foundation.

Silas A. Lazarus of Corvallis, Ore., filed suit Thursday in St. Louis to get what he claimed was his share of the estate, and claimed in his petition that Sam Lazarus had always recognized him as his son.

"Those who knew Sam Lazarus would never for a minute believe such a thing," Mr. Marrs stated emphatically. "I knew him personally and well for a number of years, and for eight years was associated with him as his attorney for the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railway which he built in 1903 or 1904.

"Mr. Lazarus was as square a shooter as ever lived and was a whole-souled, hard-hitting, honest man. He made no secrets of his dealings or actions. He had high principles and was conscientious in every way.

"I never heard of Silas A. Lazarus, and I believe with M. N. Sale, an attorney and personal friend of Sam Lazarus that it is but another case of what many wealthy people may expect when they are dead."

De Montel Issues Formal Call For Demo Precinct Conventions Sat.

A formal call for precinct conventions of the Democratic party in Wichita county, to be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, July 28, was issued here Thursday by E. O. DeMontel, chairman of the county executive committee.

Mr. DeMontel's formal call follows:

"By authority invested in me as chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Wichita county, I hereby call upon Democrats of the county to assemble in precinct conventions at 1:30 p. m. on Saturday, July 28, at their respective polling places to name delegates to the county convention, to be held at the county courthouse of Wichita county. Each precinct convention will choose one delegate to the county convention for each 25 votes or major fraction thereof cast for the Democratic nominee for governor at the last election.

"E. O. DeMONTEL,
Chairman, county Democratic executive committee."

JEALOUS MAN KILLS HIS SON

Girl and Wife Wounded Before Suicide

CHICAGO, July 26. (US)—An enraged father, jealous of his children's love for their mother, today shot and killed his son, wounded his wife and daughter, and then killed himself.

He was Fred Jansson, 41, manager and part owner of the apartment building in which the tragedy occurred.

The shooting, according to neighbors, culminated a family quarrel of several weeks' duration. It began shortly after the daughter Eva, 15, went away to visit relatives.

Mrs. Jansson is said to have written her daughter a letter which she refused to let the father read before mailing. He begin to drink heavily.

Calling the family together in a bedroom of their home, Jansson whipped out a revolver and began shooting. His son Paul fell dead from the first bullet, Mrs. Jansson was shot in the jaw and her daughter received a wound in her left hand.

The enraged man then fled to the bathroom, drank a bottle of poison and fired a bullet into his brain.

Mrs. Jansson and her daughter were taken to a hospital where it was said their wounds were not serious.

ROME, Ga., July 26. (AP)—The prohibition plank of the Democratic party is merely a pledge to enforce the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and makes no reference to repeal, maintenance or modification, Charman G. SMITH ONCE OWEN'S PATRON

Al Reveals Oklahoman's 1924 Bid for Aid

ALBANY, N. Y., July 26. (UP)—The sincerity of former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, in deserting the Democratic ticket and supporting Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, was questioned today by Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate.

Owen issued a statement in which he said he could not support Smith because he did not believe the federal government should be "Tammanyized."

The governor revealed that in 1924 Owen asked him to attempt to secure support of the Tammany delegation for Owen as the presidential nominee.

"Naturally I am sorry to see Senator Owen leave the Democratic party because of my nomination," Smith said when he learned of the Oklahoman's action.

Owen "Explains"

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—An attack today by Governor Smith on Robert L. Owen, former Democratic senator from Oklahoma, questioning the sincerity of Owen in leaving the party because of Tammany was answered tonight by the bolter with a long statement extolling Herbert Hoover.

Declining earlier in the day "to engage in a conflict of words" with the Democratic nominee when informed of the governor's remarks about him, Mr. Owen made public his statement tonight through the Republican national committee after a call upon Chairman Work.

He explained his position against Smith to newspapermen with the declaration that "I will be damned if I will stand for the Tammanyizing of the government of the United States."

Grand Jury Reconvenes Today For Final Report On Investigations

The Wichita county grand jury which reconvenes Friday morning at 9 o'clock probably will receive no further instructions from Judge E. G. Thornton before starting the task of completing its business for the July term, Judge Thornton said Thursday.

Members of the district attorney's office declined to comment on prospects of presenting further complaints in the activities in Electra of Ed Pryor, constable, and Tom Shook, former chief of police. It is understood, however, that the body will be asked to delve further into charges against the two men contained in a statement made to Ben Allred, district attorney, by Henry Shumate.

Shumate was recaptured by Sheriff W. G. Bralley while sleeping with Pryor at Electra a day after Shumate had escaped from the Wichita county jail.

Shumate, Pryor and Shook were indicted on a joint charge of burglary on three counts by the grand jury early in the month. Bond of Shook and Pryor was set at $1,500 and they were released on bond.

A few days ago Shook was ar-

OIL INDUSTRY STRENGTHENED BY PRICE HIKE

Standard of New Jersey Subsidiaries Boost Schedule

RAISES YET TO COME

Sharp Withdrawals From Storage Big Factor In Increase

North and North Central Texas and Oklahoma found themselves millions of dollars richer Thursday as magically as if Aladdin had soared overhead in a speedy plane and diligently rubbed his famed lamp above the favored sections.

But instead of Aladdin and his lamp, it was the Standard Oil company of New Jersey who made these rich districts even richer. The S. O. N. J., through its subsidiaries, raised the price of crude oil in these sections to the extent that a barrel of petroleum delivered to a Carter or Humble pipeline is worth from 10 to 13 cents more than it was before 7 o'clock Thursday morning.

Operators Cheerful

If the oil men affected had audibly voiced their true approval the sound of the shouting would still be echoing among the countless derricks of Seminole, where, because of over production, the oil man's spirit has been sinking with every shaft bored during the past 18 months.

Other business interests could have cheered as madly, for the oil industry has spread until its condition spells prosperity or depression in most centers of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Heavy inroads into light oil storage and the decline of light oil production in North Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas fields brought about Thursday's crude advance, says a wire from Tulsa, where many Midcontinent leaders have headquarters.

Others Predicted

Refiners had already discounted the advance, and they predict that additional crude changes will occur soon.

Little River, the newest of the Seminole pools, had a hand in the raise. It was touted to go to 250,000 barrels a day by Sept. 1, but wells completed before June 15, shut in and then opened up, showed the pressure off and water showings cut its potential production to around 75,000 or 90,000 barrels a day. A shortage of light oils thus quickly developed.

Premium payers forced the hand of buyers in the Panhandle field.

Heavy oils in Oklahoma were cut 2 to 14 cents and this action was offset by the nickel boost for West Texas, which now hardly looks as formidable as it once did.

In the meantime refiners are expected to make further increases in the prices of motor fuels.

The return of a prosperous oil industry is at hand, in the opinion of careful observers.

SOCONY BOOSTS GAS

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—The Standard Oil of New York tomorrow will advance gasoline throughout New England and New York one cent a gallon. Tank wagon prices in New York will be 18 cents a gallon.

Refineries Cut Prices Of Sugar to Low Level

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—Prospects of cheaper sugar for the breakfast table loomed today when many of the larger sugar refining companies cut their prices to 5.80 cents a pound, equaling the low quotations this year, and a decline of 20 points from current levels.

Federal Sugar Refining company announced it would further reduce its price to 5.55 cents tomorrow when the market opens.

Damage Toll Soars as Breckenridge Creek Reaches High Flood Stage

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, July 26.—Damage unestimated, but which will total several thousands of dollars was the result here today of water which reached the flood state in Gonzales creek, which passes through Breckenridge, skirting the business district on the east and traversing railroad and industrial yards.

Supply houses, the Miss Breckenridge Steam laundry, the Texas-Louisiana Power company, and scores of others are on the list of those sustaining losses. The water rose in the laundry and in several of the supply houses, while a number of small buildings were shifted from their foundations by the water, which some declare to have risen higher than noted in 20 years.

The rains in Breckenridge all the week total less than two inches but was heavy Thursday morning in the Parks and Wayland communities where feeders for the Gonzales rise. The creek passes through the city and a viaduct traversing it was crowded with thousands all through the afternoon watching the water rise.

Some livestock was lost, and many families, especially in the negro and Mexican districts, were driven from their homes. The water reached its peak at sunset.

WIDOW DENIES LOVER'S STORY

Lawyer's Speeches Before Jury Today

BASTROP, Texas, July 26. (AP)—Lawyers' speeches to the jury will begin Friday in the murder trial of Mrs. W. W. Waybourne, who went on the witness stand Thursday and placed all the blame for the killing of her husband upon Hugo Middleton, blacksmith.

Testifying as the last witness, Mrs. Waybourne denied Middleton's testimony that she had him hire a Mexican to kill Waybourne, who was found beaten to death in bed last March. She said she knew nothing of the plot until he told her later of it and, she said, of poisoning his 83-year-old father, J. J. Middleton, last fall. The blacksmith is indicted in both cases, and the defense theory has been that he implicated Mrs. Waybourne in her husband's murder as a safeguard against her telling his alleged confession in his father's death.

HEENEY GOES DOWN BEFORE STEADY DRIVE

Referee Stops Battle In Eleventh Round To End Gore

CROWD DISAPPOINTS

Championship Mill Fails To Continue Tex's Record Streak

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW York, July 26. (UP)—Gene Tunney tonight defended successfully his heavyweight championship of the world by scoring a technical knockout over Tom Heeney of New Zealand after two minutes and 32 seconds of the 11th round of their title bout here tonight.

It was a new Tunney, a new champion, a man who has acquired the fighting heat and the instinct to kill which his critics have said he never possessed.

After two minutes and 32 seconds of fighting in the 11th round Referee Eddie Forbes stepped between the men and led Heeney, who was almost cut to pieces by the terrific mauling the champion had given him, to his corner. Forbes then returned to the ring and raised Tunney's hand as the victor. Tunney was a different Tunney from the man who outspeeded Jack Dempsey at Philadelphia and again at Chicago. He entered the ring with the threat to "kill" his man this time and proved to his critics that he is a first class champion and a man worthy of a crown carried in other years by such men as John Sullivan, "Ruby" Robert Fitzsimmons and Jack Dempsey.

When the two fighters met in the middle of the ring after the knockout, Heeney said with a smile on his battered face:

"God bless you Gene; you're a real champion."

"Thank you, Tom, and good luck to you," answered Gene.

It was easily the greatest fight of Tunney's career, even when one remembers that he battered his way to the championship heights by an impressive series of knockouts.

Tex Rickard announced after the bout he lost $100,000 on the fight. It is the first time in history that the promoter has lost money on a heavyweight title fight.

"Radio and high tax kept the crowd down," Rickard said. "I am

Judge Cook's Record

I was county judge of Montague county for two terms, my first term being in 1901 and 1902, and my second term in 1903 and 1904. At the expiration of my second term I did not seek re-election as county judge for a third term.

These facts can be verified from the records of Montague county, or from any person connected with the official life of the county at that time.

I was appointed judge of the 78th district court in March, 1926, succeeding Judge Guy Rogers, resigned. I was nominated and elected in the following Democratic primary and general election in 1926 for the unexpired two years of the term. I am now a candidate for my first full term of four years.

W. W. COOK.

Editor's Note: The Daily Times, through error in reporting Judge Cook's speech, said he had served two terms as district judge of Montague county. As a matter of fact, Judge Cook had not served Montague county in that capacity, and did not make such a statement. It was The Times' error, and made honestly and without intention of boosting Judge Cook.

BUSINESS OUT OF POLITICS

Raskob's Resignation Keeps Corporations Individual

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, July 26. (US)—Corporations are impersonal institutions without souls and without political preferences.

The acceptance by the General Motors corporation of John J. Raskob's resignation of chairman of the finance committee during the period while he manages Governor Smith's campaign for the presidency emphasizes the essentially non-partisan character of business corporations.

Mr. Raskob withdrew from his duties as chief financial officer of General Motors evidently because he and his associates thought such overt action was necessary to impress the public with the fact that the corporation as such did not share Mr. Raskob's partisanship.

Into the Open

In an earlier era, where big business was a term of opprobrium, corporations did not openly enter politics until they were dragged in by their critics. However, they functioned politically covertly through large campaign contributions and through wire pulling. As Thomas R. Preston, president of the American bankers association, pointed out, it is much healthier for captains of industry and finance to come out into the open and let the people know where they stand.

Although it is proper for business officials to function politically, they should do so as citizens and not in their business capacity. The General Motors corporation has gone to great trouble to emphasize the distinction between the personal views of an executive and the stand of the company.

The acceptance of Mr. Raskob's resignation, however, must not be construed as a slap at Governor Smith. It has no political significance. It is merely a maneuver to keep the company out of politics. According to reports, the company is divided in its political views. Possibly the Chevrolets and the Oaklands are for Smith, and the more aristocratic Cadillacs and Buicks, with their fine Fisher bodies, are for Hoover. No longer is there any danger, since the assertion of the corporation policy of non-partisanship, that the purchase of a General Motors product "for every purse and purpose" will be interpreted as a gesture in favor of the donkey.

Action Significant

It would be confusing to put corporations as such into politics. How would the 400,000 customer and employee owners of the American Telephone & Telegraph corporation decide to cast the company's vote? The obsolete model Ford was commonly regarded as in favor of Coolidge and prosperity. Rumor links the new model A with preference for Hoover, and, if the reports persist, the sage of Dearborn may find it expedient to fall in line with an avowal that the Ford Motor company is impartial, being willing to sell means of transportation to Republicans, Democrats, Socialists, and prohibitionists on equal terms.

If General Motors, the leader, had not acted precipitately, the new era might have witnessed a drift of corporations into politics. Perhaps the Endicott Johnson corporation, which divides profits between stockholders and workers, and Burns Brothers, which long retained Morris Hillquit as counsel, would have voted the Socialist ticket. The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company would no doubt have leaned toward Smith, whereas the Park & Tilford stores perhaps would have gone into the Hoover column. With voting machines in operation in New York state, it would be mechanically feasible for corporations to vote.

In his letter of resignation, Mr. Raskob, the chairman of the Democratic national committee, said: "While all of its officers and employees are, of course, entitled to their individual political views, the corporation must not be put in the light of taking sides for or against political parties, personages and questions."

In accepting the resignation, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, concurred: . . . "On account of the importance to the corporation as well as to yourself of making it unmistakably clear that the corporation takes no part in political affairs, we are constrained to accept your request to be relieved from all your duties in connection with the corporation."

OUTCASTS ASK HOW TO VOTE

Strip Claimed By Both Texas and Oklahoma

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 26. (AP)—Voting will be a problem to citizens who live on a strip of land which is claimed by both Oklahoma and Texas. They will become citizens of Childress county, Texas, when the survey, recently made, is declared permanent by the United States supreme court.

In the controversy between Texas and Oklahoma, the line between the two states was surveyed a few years ago. When the survey was completed it was found that the state division line had been placed almost one mile west of the intersection of the one hundreth meridian and the Red river. This makes a strip of land about one mile wide and 11 miles long that tapers off gradually as the line runs northward.

When the supreme court makes its decision on the boundary question this strip will be attached to Texas, and Childress county will be made larger by the order. The disputed strip now is in Harmon county, Oklahoma.

Citizens residing on this disputed land have requested the attorney general to advise them as to where they shall vote.

Army To Install Big Beacon at San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, July 26. (AP)—Aviators soon will be able to journey to San Antonio on a straight course through the winds, rains, darkness and fog upon a radio highway.

Captain T. L. Clark has announced that one of the army's six radio beacons, to be scattered over the country, will be installed at the army's new flying school which is to be built near here.

The beam, which travels in straight lines like the beam of a searchlight instead of in broadening circles as does the usual radio wave, can be regulated to any distance from 100 to 2,000 miles. Three parallel beams will be broadcast. If the pilot is on his course he will hear the letter "T," should he swing to one side of his course he will receive the letter "A" and if he deviates on the other side he will hear the letter "N." By keeping in the T beam he can avoid drifting from his course.

East Texas Farmer Challenges Neighbors

NACOGDOCHES, Texas, July 26. (AP)—All of East Texas has been challenged by W. D. Hicks, truck farmer, living near here, to beat him on his record with one-half acre of tomatoes.

Hicks sold 405 crates off the tract, receiving $281.74 for the lot. His expenses outside of the crates was only $11. He sold every crate on the home market at 50 cents to $1.50 a crate.

BAYOU CITY TO VOTE ON BONDS

$10,000,000 Program Civic Improvement Planned

HOUSTON, July 26. (AP)—Houston will get an additional $10,000,000 worth of public improvements if a bond issue to be voted on Aug. 25 carries.

The biggest item in the improvements will be a $7,000,000 railway station to be constructed by the Southern Pacific lines in the event the bond issue for $2,950,000 carries.

The bond issue would provide for the extension of Washington avenue into Franklin street, giving the city another crosstown thoroughfare; straightening of Buffalo bayou in the city and construction of concrete lining in the business district; extension of White Oak Bayou drive into the business district, leading to another crosstown thoroughfare, and for the paving of several other streets.

Money to be spent on various projects: Washington avenue, $1,750,000; sanitary sewers, $200,000; permanent paving, $200,000; White Oak Bayou drive, $200,000; macadam streets, $200,000; total, $2,950,000.

The new Southern Pacific station would be erected alongside its present station, and the cost of the structure, together with expenses incident to moving trackage, would total in the neighborhood of $7,000,000, perhaps more, officials of the road estimate. Two buildings, the Brazos hotel, and the Shepherd laundry plant, will be torn down to make room for the new station.

All the work is expected to be completed by 1930.

Rare Pig-Tail Monkey For Zoo at Houston

PARIS EDICTS HURT LAWYERS

Divorce Protest Is Traced To President Wilson

PARIS, July 26. (UP)—Exactly who threw a monkey wrench into the mechanism of the Paris divorce mill still is a question which is bothering the group of American lawyers in Paris who have made thousands of dollars out of their divorce specialty—but it now is apparent that it was a fairly large sized wrench.

While the case resulted in a few suspensions of those interested in an expensive process of speeding up American divorce trials the scandals prompted the minister of justice, the public prosecutor, the magistrates of nearly 50 separate divisions of the palace of justice—and even President Doumergue and Premier Poincare, backed by the whole French cabinet, to decide that any American who gets a divorce hereafter will have to cling close to every letter of the Napoleonic code.

Some say that the undercurrent against the French divorces really started with a protest by President Wilson to Premier Poincare and Ambassador Jusserand concerning the divorce of a member of the president's family.

French Claimed Jealous

The American lawyers here say it is all a case of professional jealousy among the French lawyers, only a few of whom have ever been permitted to get into the sacred "inner circle" of the divorce trust.

The French lawyers deny this and insist that the legal profession in America seeing a goodly share of its business vanishing over the European horizon, started all the fuss.

Whoever did it has done a good job. It is estimated that the loss to the Parisian divorce ring during the next few months will be little short of a million francs as a score of prospective clients, alarmed by the attitude of the French authorities, have notified their lawyers that they have decided to postpone their European visit indefinitely.

If the situation continues, the lawyers say, there will be no alternative, but to return to the United States, for there is not enough commercial and financial legal work in Paris to keep the present legal colony alive.

Abilene High School Starts Farming Course

ABILENE, Texas, July 26. (AP)—Beginning with the fall term of the 1928-29 session, Abilene high school will offer an accredited course in vocational agriculture. This work will be put on in cooperation with the state board of vocational training and the Smith-Hughes board of the federal government and will be under the supervision of the best qualified teacher available, Superintendent R. D. Green said.

Adding the vocational agriculture department to the curriculum of the local school was made possible by the chamber of commerce agreeing to provide the special equipment needed for the work. That organization will buy approximately $500 worth of supplies for the department.

Maine Woman Rejects Al Smith For Hoover

AUGUSTE, Me., July 26. (AP)—Declaring that the election of Governor Smith would be the first step toward the repeal of the 18th amendment, Mrs. Gertrude M. Pattangall, former member of the Democratic national committee from Maine, announced that she would support Herbert Hoover for president and William Tudor Gardiner, Republican, for governor of Maine.

New Cotton Mart Granted Charter

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—Louis N. Osmond, New York cotton dealer, who recently brought suit against the New York cotton exchange and some of its members, announced today he had obtained a charter from the secretary of state for a new exchange to be situated in New York City to be called the National Cotton Exchange, Inc.

He said the new exchange would permit trading in 25 and 50-bale lots as well as 100-bale lots and in addition to trading in raw cotton would trade eventually in its natural and manufactured by-products, including cottonseed, linters and cotton in its various states of manufacture. The number of members will be limited to 1,000 and the offering price of the membership will be $250.

Mr. Osmond said that applications have been received for about 100 memberships, and that trading probably would be started within three months.

Dallas-Los Angeles Air Route Opens Nov. 1

LOS ANGELES, July 26. (AP)—A direct airplane passenger line between Los Angeles and Dallas, Texas, to be in operation by Nov. 1, was announced here today by officials of the Aero Corporation of California, and the Standard Airlines, Inc.

Cotton Shipping Open In Corpus Christi Port

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, July 26. (UP)—The cotton shipping season is underway from the port of Corpus Christi and during the next few weeks thousands of bales will be shipped to foreign markets.

The Simmons university cowboy band will give a concert on the public square at 6:30 and the rural people will assist the town folks in serving a breakfast of Scurry county products.

100,000 HEAR HOOVER TALK

Record Political Audience Expected at Palo Alto

PALO ALTO, Calif., July 26. (UP)—One hundred thousand persons may come here by motor, train and airplane for the Hoover acceptance address in Stanford stadium, August 11, under plans completed today by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbut, president of the university, and his advisory committee.

Such a crowd would be the largest ever to gather for a political occasion in this country.

The record for crowds at similar gatherings was established in 1924 when John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, was greeted by 50,000 picnickers at Bunceton, Mo. The crowd was so large he was heard by only a few.

Doctor Wilbur's committees have arranged, however, to give 100,000 a sight of the nominee from a seat in the stadium where every word which transpires may be heard. The capacity of the stadium is 87,000 and arrangements have been made to seat 13,000 more in the arena.

Workmen have completed the speakers stand at the south end of the field. A press box to accommodate 100 newspaper men and photographers was built 25 feet in front of it. Under the stand was constructed a work room which will house $25,000 worth of radio and telegraphic equipment. The radio hookup will carry the speech to 3,000,000 listeners according to estimates of the National Broadcasting company.

Special to The Record News.

The only outside speaker was M. A. Wiley of Chickasha, representing a building and loan association of that place, which, in a few years, has grown to where it now has more than 1,200 members. He was introduced by J. A. Mathis of the Frederick Building and Loan association.

Parachute Instruction For Embryo Aviators

SAN ANTONIO, July 26. (AP)—In an effort to overcome the natural antipathy which anyone has to falling several thousand feet, even with a parachute, Brooks field instructors have designed a course of instruction calculated to give confidence to embryo flyers when they are called upon to make their first practice jumps.

Seven students, who are to be initiated into the mysteries of parachute jumping are taken into the air at one time and allowed to use parachutes, attached to dummies, drop from the plane. This gives them confidence by assuring them that the parachutes do open very soon after leaving the plane.

Accomplishments in State Administration During Term of Dan Moody

TAXATION—State ad valorem rate for two years of this administration will be at least 8 cents lower than rate for preceding administration. Lowered the ad valorem tax rate, notwithstanding this administration had to pay $3,685,070.96 of debts left unpaid by preceding administration.

Fraud, graft and corruption eliminated and the people given a dollar in value for every dollar of public money expended.

HIGHWAYS—Contracted and actually placed under construction 396 miles of concrete road; 219 miles of bituminous road; 758 miles of grading and drainage structures; 1,056 miles of asphalt road—this is over 2,400 miles of highway work in 18 months; more than ever before in an equal period of time. More roads built and better maintenance than ever before. What preceding administration paid 30 cents per square yard for this administration has had done at from 7 to 9 cents a square yard. Auto tax law amended to give counties larger share for lateral roads, yielding counties $2,500,000 more from this source than they received before. This was done without increase in auto tax.

SCHOOLS—Fifteen dollars per capita apportionment for first time. Rural schools qualifying for rural aid given six-month term for first time. Free high school tuition to rural boys and girls for first time. Adequate support of higher education.

More Roads and Better Roads—Longer Terms and Better Schools Than Ever Before

TEXT BOOKS—Expense reduced by forcing publishers to sell to State at lowest wholesale price and by contracting for rebinding used books, making a saving of $200,000 per year.

PRISON SYSTEM—Under last administration lost the people $653,703.80. Placed on budget basis, annual operation cost reduced a quarter of a million dollars and made an earning of over $7,500 in first year of Moody administration.

NOW that the windows have been let down, we may go ahead with the rest of the daily routine.

EACH day brings something new to be happy about. Saturday is election day and campaigning will be over. This morning as I was giving the office cub its daily airing, an aspirant to office handed us both his card, and said "Here, take this home and tell your daddy to vote for me." Rather clever, that man.

Another thing to be happy about on this subject of election day is that it occurs on the day off for the office force but we are all going to be allowed to work on that occasion. And we were told ahead of time, so that if we have week-end plans made, work and play will not prove of mutual hindrance.

DOES this clipping sound goofey to you: "Miss —— of Oklahoma City is the guest of Miss —— at the city hospital"? It was was clipped from a paper in the trade territory.

I know some persons I would like to entertain in a hospital. Hardly think I would call them guests, though.

THE Woman's Forum is recipient of a $10 gift from Mrs. Zaidee V. Smith of Los Angeles, Calif., who visited the club house last winter when she was in Wichita Falls as the guest of Mrs. Fred T. Couper. Upon returning to her home and thinking of the work of this body of 1200 womne, she decided that she would like to have some part, even a small part, in the goal of the organization. Thus the $10 contribution toward the building fund of the Woman's Forum.

That's a very clever idea, and if more club house visitors would take heed. . . .

THE Woman's Forum has something else to be proud of—it is headed toward becoming part of a national order with a wide reaching scope.

The Woman's Club News, publication of the Woman's club of San Francisco, carried a story in the last issue concerning the establishment of reciprocity relations between the San Francisco organization and the Woman's Forum of Wichita Falls.

Not only is this new honor in the form of recognition, but it also carries prestige. Now members of the local woman's organization may affiliate and enjoy the hospitality of the San Francisco group when they are traveling in California, or should such a member move to San Francisco. Mrs. T. T. T. Reese of this city has been the guest of that group.

The San Francisco order has a membership fee of $400 or $500 and carries on its activities in a club house of 12 stories.

Only about 20 women's clubs in the country enjoy reciprocity relations with the large San Francisco group.

WHILE we are on the subject of the Woman's Forum, mention might be made of the fact that Mrs. Evelyn Bain, hostess at the club house, who is at present on a vacation with her son, Frank, is visiting women's club houses in various parts of the country and drawing comparisons with the local club.

Mrs. Bain writes Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, president of the local women's group, and relates that not one of the clubs visited thus far is in a class with the Wichita Falls Woman's Forum. Her latest visit was through the club house of the Little Rock, Ark., women's organization which holds forth in a downtown club house of three stories, and even that does not compare with the Wichita Falls organization and club house!

Clarendon to Make Golf Field Into Airport

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, July 26.—Plans are going forward here for the completion of an air landing field. The local Lions club in cooperation with the chamber of commerce, are sponsoring this work and expect to have it ready for use within a short time. On August 1, commercial passenger service will be started through here between Amarillo and Fort Worth at the rate of 10 cents per mile and Clarendon is providing a landing field so as to be in line for this service when started. A tract of ground at the west city limits now in use by the local golf club will provide space for the field, which will be properly marked and identified for airplane landings.

New Warns Postoffice Men Against Politics

WASHINGTON, July 26. (US)—The civil service commission and the postoffice department today warned federal employes not to participate in the coming political campaign—except to cast their votes at the polls.

Government employes in the civil service must in no way take part under penalty of discharge.

Postmaster General New issued an order to postmasters not "to accept political managements or become conspicuous in political campaigns."

CHIC CHERIE — Latest Fashions

It is a warm day. Much too warm to play tennis or go swimming or do anything so strenuous. Cherie says so to Ernest or Eustace or Edwin or whoever it is sneaking into the picture on the left. Cherie and Dina are going to town on important business. And just in case you think that Cherie's costume is too warm for the sort of day she says it is, we inform you that she is wearing a sheer dress of black and white printed georgette with a cape cardigan (it comes down only to her hips and has no sleeves) of crepe satin. Cherie and Dina are going into town for the express purpose of keeping cool by looking over the advance fall styles just a little earlier than any of their friends.

These are the reward of their search for knowledge. The dress with all the pleated frills is of black crepe with the almost normal waistline and slightly bloused bodice that is beginning to come in even in late summer fashions. The number and frilliness of the frills, too, show that it is new. Just behind it is a dress with several notably chic features—the draped flounces on the skirt, the ornamental cuffs, the buckled belt. The dress with the scalloped collar again shows that skirts are going to be wider, waistlines higher and double necklines very good indeed. The draped skirt of the fourth frock is its best point. It's hot weather, but Cherie will try them all.

Girl Graduates Should Get Work And Stick to It, Says Dorothy Dix

After School Every Girl Should Get a Job and Prepare to Stick to It, Says Dorothy Dix, Since Husbands Are Scarce and Marriage Does Not Always Mean Support.

These few heartfelt words of advice are addressed to the sweet girl graduates: My dear, you are about to begin the serious business of life. Prepare yourself for it by learning how to do some particular kind of work so well that you will be able to command a good salary. You will have to work just as hard and just as long hours for a little money as you will for much. It is only the experts who get the fat salary envelopes.

It is just skill that makes the difference between a $5 a week cook and a $5,000 a year chef. It is craftsmanship that enables one woman to get $50 for a hat while another woman can't sell hers for $5. It is knowing her job from A to Z that raises a cash girl to be the head of the department or to be the European buyer in a department store, and it is ignorance that keeps another girl nailed down to her counter in the bargain basement and selling pots and pans from youth to age.

The reason why women's work is nearly always poorly paid work is not because of any discrimination on account of their sex. It is because it is almost always sloppy, incompetent, ill-done work. Wherever you find a woman doing as good work as a man she is paid as well as a man. Often better, because she has less competition. There are fewer women experts in any line than there are men.

Don't make the mistake of thinking that it isn't worth while to perfect yourself in any trade or profession because you expect to marry and won't follow it long. Most girls feel that way about business. They regard it as merely a bridge of sighs that carries them over from their schooldays to the altar, and so they walk it under protest, with no interest in it and no desire to turn out a good performance. Working to them is just marking time.

Perhaps in our grandmother's time every fairly pretty girl could look confidently forward to getting married and having a husband to support her, but granddaughter has no such certainty; more and more are the men shying away from wedding rings and more and more so those men who get married expect their wives to keep on with their jobs and help make the living. It has got so that every girl had as well face the fact that she is likely to be her own meal ticket so long as she lives, so it is up to her to make it cakes and ale instead of scant bread and butter.

Nor even if a girl does marry does it do away with the necessity of her having some way to support herself. Sometimes the husband's health fails and he is no longer able to work. Sometimes he dies, and at middle age she is left a penniless widow, or is thrown out on the world to support an invalid husband and a houseful of children.

And whether her fate then is a heart-breaking tragedy or merely a temporary misfortune depends altogether upon whether she is a trained woman with a trade to which she can turn her hand or whether she is one of those ignorant, helpless, soft, domestic women who have never earned a dollar in their lives and who do not know how to do anything for which anybody is willing to pay.

Moreover, the competent business woman has that within herself which compels her husband's respect and forces him to treat her decently. She does not have to endure tyranny and abuse. She does not have to put up with unfaithfulness and drunkenness because the man, at least, affords her shelter and feeds her, because she can walk out any day and make her own living and support her children. She can stand on her own feet. She is economically free and can never be turned into a domestic slave.

And even if you are rich and your father is likely to leave you a fortune when he dies, it is still important for you to take up some particular line of work and make yourself mistress of it. It will teach you how to take care of your money so that you will not be cheated out of it, as so many rich women are. If you lose your money it will enable you to make more instead of becoming that most pathetic of creatures, the shabby genteel woman who has seen better days.

And if you should not marry it will furnish you with the best possible substitute for husband and children by giving you a vital interest in life. No busy person is ever bored. The only sour, disgruntled old maids are the idle ones. There are no happier, jollier, more alert and interesting women than the bachelor women who are engrossed in the romance of business and who have espoused careers instead of men.

In picking out your lifework give it at least as much thought as you would to the selection of a hat or a new frock. See that it matches your disposition and don't go into it unless the very thought of it gives you a kick. Don't do as most girls do, follow the herd, and take up stenography when you can't spell because Mamie is going to do it, or bookkeeping when you can never add two and two together and get the same result because Jane is going to a business college.

Study yourself and try to find out what your individual talents are, and if you do not discover any flair of genius in any particular quarter, then go in for the thing you like to do best, no matter what it is, for it is only when we do the thing that we enjoy doing for its own sake that we do it well. Nobody was ever scourged into a success. Those who reach the top of the ladder are those who climb because they delighted in climbing.

Above all, try to get an honest line on your own abilities. Don't rate yourself too highly and don't make the mistake of thinking that because you would like to be a motion picture star or a famous writer or a dancer with your name in electric lights over a theater on Broadway that just the desire will enable you to be one. God has to give us beauty and brains and genius. If He hasn't done it, we can't make them for ourselves, and none is so forlorn as those who waste a whole life trying to do the things that nature never intended them to do.

Lastly, in choosing your lifework remember that those women succeed best who capitalize their sex and who work along feminine lines. The real contribution that woman has brought to the commercial world is the housewifely instinct for detail, for knowing just where everything is and being able to put her hand on any paper in a file in the dark, in the same way that mother can always locate the lost cap or find a clean handkerchief.

And where there has been one successful woman steeplejack or longshoreman, hundreds of women have made fortunes in keeping boarding houses and millinery and dressmaking establishments.

So go to work, girls. Be competent. Learn to be experts, and be shoemakers that stick to your lasts.

Silk Stockings Are So Cheap and So Pretty That Brief Skirts Will Stay

EVANSTON, Ill., July 26. (US)—It was left to the American Chemical Society institute in session at Northwestern university to explain the shortness of flappers' skirts.

"It is common belief," says Professor O. R. Sweeney, of Iowa State college, "that the flapper's abbreviated costume is the result of some mental or spiritual change that has taken place in a new generation.

"As a matter of fact, short skirts really have a pure chemical explanation. The chemist has found how to change wool into silk. Result—Fine silk stockings, and cheap enough that every flapper can afford several pairs.

"With plenty of good looking silk stockings, the logical result is the short skirt, which, apparently, has come to stay."

Eastern Star Members Charge Secret Session

DENVER, July 26 (AP)—Several hundred members of the order of Eastern Star stormed the doors of the city auditorium late last night when they were denied entrance to an executive session of the order's triennial convention.

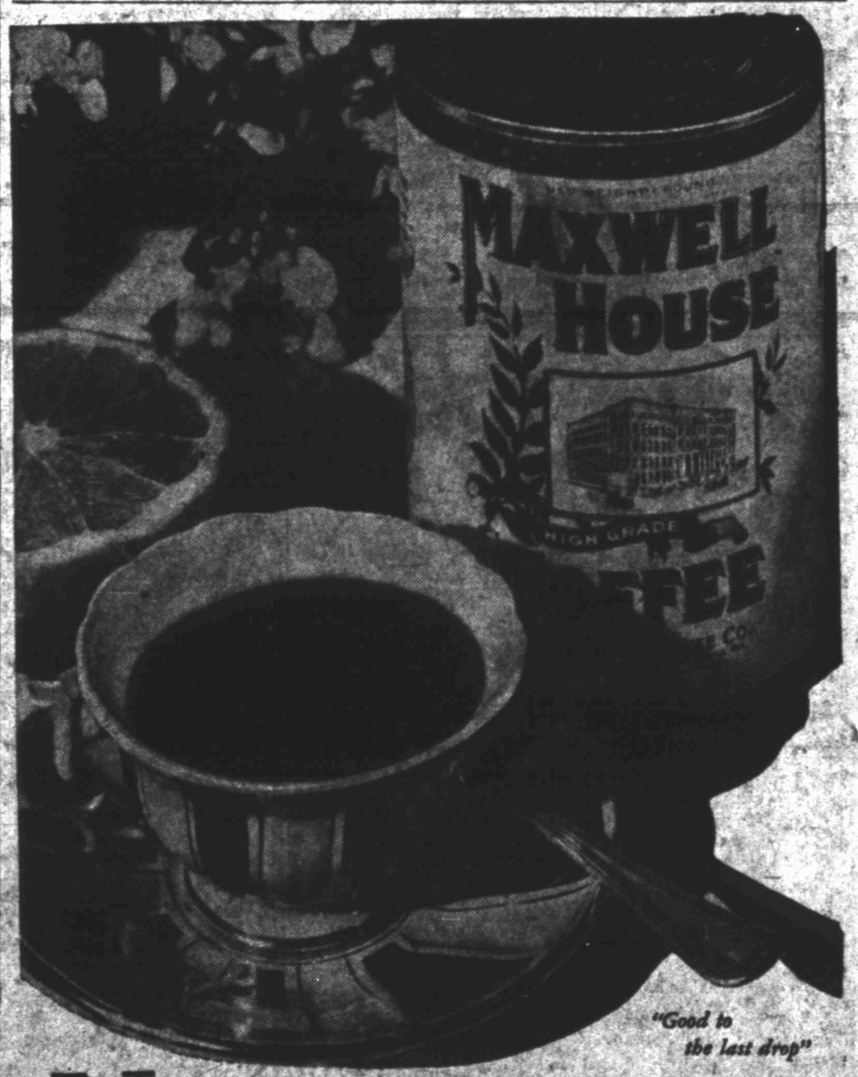

For an hour the large lobby of the auditorium was the scene of disorder and attempts by Governor John Hammil, Phillip Jerguson, and other high officials of the order to pacify the members failed.

One group of men formed a flying wedge and charged the ushers who guarded the door while both men and women raised their voices to shouts in demanding admittance. Mr. Jerguson, who today becomes the new grand patron, explained to the women that "it was moved, seconded and passed that the general chapter go into executive session Wednesday night." His statement was met by cries of "it was not." Some shouted "we've paid our dues. We support the grand chapter. Why all this secrecy?"

The question before the meeting, which went on as an executive conference, was the proposed revision of the ritual. Whether it was voted upon was not known today.

Instructions

A remainder of instructions and of important points of information concerning Saturday's Democratic primary was issued Thursday by E. C. DeMontel, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee.

Points to be remembered, Mr. DeMontel said, include:

The polls will open at 8 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m.

Citizens should remember to SCRATCH OUT the names of those they vote against, and to leave untouched the names of those they vote for.

Do not scratch out the pledge at the top of the ballot. If that is done, the ballot will be thrown out and will not be counted.

Rush periods are likely to be during the noon hour and after about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Early in the morning and early in the afternoon ordinarily are the times when the voter is most likely to avoid the rush.

The counting of votes should begin one hour after the polls open, and election officials should make an effort to keep up in their counting as nearly as possible with the voting.

As soon as the polls close, the election judge should make a "correct but unofficial" memorandum of votes, as shown by the count at that time, cast for each candidate. Similar announcements should be made at intervals of two hours after the polls close until the count is completed.

To the Voters of Wichita and Adjoining Counties:

I Request Your Support of My Father

W. C. MORROW

for Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals

His record on the Court furnishes evidence of his fitness. That he is qualified, is vouched for by the written endorsements of an overwhelming number of the judges, prosecuting attorneys and lawyers of the State.

While Judge Morrow asks your support upon his record and qualification, I desire to add my personal solicitation and to assure you that your support will be appreciated.

JEFFERSON SMITH

Candidate for

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

MAKES SPEECHES

FORMERLY OF BAYLOR COUNTY

(1) JEFFERSON SMITH favors permits for more and better transportation facilities so that citizens of Texas can obtain fair price for ranch and farm products, minerals, leases and royalties. He will uphold constitutionality of Relinquishment act of 1919.

(2) JEFFERSON SMITH in speeches over the state declared that he is opposed to Railroad Commissioner, other state officers and candidates riding on free railroad passes. Also, he stated that he will uphold and enforce the law passed by the Fortieth Legislature to prohibit state employes from campaigning during their employment at state expense.

(3) JEFFERSON SMITH said that he is candidate for Railroad Commissioner for the regular six-year term to succeed the regular term of the late Commissioner Allison Mayfield, and further said that this is the first time within six years that the voters have had opportunity to elect Railroad Commissioner for the regular six-year term to succeed Mr. Mayfield, deceased, since different men have been filling out said unexpired term. Jefferson Smith believes that the voters of Texas have the right to elect Railroad Commissioner for regular term.

Tax Reduction of 20%

RECOMMENDED BY

EVERETT HUGHES

CANDIDATE FOR

County Tax Assessor

To the Commissioners' Court on June 27, 1927.

Failing in my effort at that time, and after first having discussed the proposal with many taxpayers throughout the county, I announced for office Feb. 26, 1928, claiming that Wichita County is assessing all property on a higher per cent of value than the other higher Counties of Texas, and receiving less money back from the State in school aid, in proportion to taxes paid to the State, than other counties, as shown by reports from the State Comptroller and State Superintendent of Schools.

Investigation of these statements was made by the Business Council of Wichita Falls, composed of about 125 business and professional men, whose chairman appointed a committee of three to verify statements as set out in my announcements.

After their investigation of such statements, representatives of business men of Burkburnett, Electra and Iowa Park were invited to join those of Wichita Falls in appearing before the Commissioners' Court on May 23, 1928, for an open discussion of the matter, which meeting resulted in an agreement to reduce values to lower taxes paid to the State 10% and a saving to the taxpayers of approximately $65,000, thereby reducing the bonus we have been paying to the schools of East Texas counties, 94 of which have received $2,864,500 more money in school aid than they paid in taxes to the State the same year.

The above reduction is only one-half of that due the people of this county.

Believing in representation by the people, in taxation, I am asking your support in my effort for a further reduction of 10% on your taxes, by taking renditions on 30% of value to equalize values with other counties.

My late announcement and lack of money and time has prevented my seeing as many voters as I would like to have, but I believe the time has come when most people vote for their best interest.

Having started the move for lower values, I will appreciate, at least as much as you do the reduction, your support on July 28.

Yours for "Service That Saves"

EVERETT HUGHES

Just a word to the voters of Precinct One, Place Two, by Mr. J. O. Cowart, candidate for Justice of the Peace.

J. O. COWART

The last word before the voting takes place on July 28, I wish to thank the voters for the courteous treatment accorded me while calling upon them to ask them for their vote for justice of the peace. I am sure that the voters will agree with me that any court that is called upon to try more cases than all three of the district courts of the county is an important court, and should be filled by a man versed in the law. To create the proper respect for law and to protect society the law must be properly enforced; a man to sit as a judge in a court of justice should be a man who knows and understands the law which he is called upon to enforce, and have the courage to enforce it. My experience in the practice of law for the last 25 years I feel fully qualifies me as a judge to fill the office of justice of the peace. I promise to conduct the court as the law directs and to enforce the law as written and to see to it that every one charged with a violation of the law shall get a fair and impartial trial according to the law and the evidence. I earnestly ask your vote and influence at the polls Saturday, July 28, and will gracefully abide by the results of the primary.

Texas Mother Finds Best Plan

When Nature fails you, try and help yourself by the most natural method! That's the advice of leading authorities nowadays; and for over fifty years it has been the plan of the makers of California Fig Syrup. The quick, easy way this pure, wholesome product relieves children of those symptoms of stubborn bowels, such as headaches, biliousness, coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, etc., and makes them strong, energetic and rosy-cheeked again shows there's no use drugging a child with harsh purgative medicines. And Fig Syrup helps give tone and strength to weak, flabby stomach and bowels so they continue to act of their own accord and you don't have to keep dosing them. Its popularity is shown by its sales record of over four million bottles a year and by praise thousands of mothers are fairly showering on it. A Texas mother, Mrs. M. H. Goodrich of 1830 S. Olive St., San Antonio, enthusiastically declares: "My big, fat boy, Milton, Jr., is now six. He is strong and energetic and weighs 49 pounds. I give California Fig Syrup a lot of credit for his condition. I have used it with him since babyhood for every cold or upset spell. It always regulates him quick and starts him to eating right and improving in every way."

Your protection against inferior substitutes is the word "California," which always appears on the carton of genuine California Fig Syrup.—Adv.

Countess' Annulment Plea Is Rejected

ROME, July 26. (UB)—The Roman rota today rejected the plea for annulment of the marriage between "Donna" Madalena, Countess Papadopoli Aldobrandini against Prince Potenziani Spada, governor of Rome. The countess based her plea for annulment on the ground that she had been forced into the marriage against her will by her mother when she was in love with another.

The rota found that there was no ground for the annulment of the marriage.

County Commissioner

Precinct No. 3

L. L. Kuntz has made one of the best County Commissioners Wichita County has ever had. He has been fair to the rich man and the working man alike.

L. L. Kuntz has saved money for the county. On July 1st, of this year, Wichita county had $122,387.77 more money in the treasury than there was in the treasury on July 1st, 1927. (For details see Financial Statement of Wichita county).

LET'S RE-ELECT L. L. KUNTZ

(What "Home Town Talk" Said about County Commissioners Court in Wichita Times, Friday, July 20th.)

HOME TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

The county commissioners court of Wichita county reduces the county tax rate, accepts reduced valuation of around eleven million dollars in the county, and hears reports of substantial balances in all funds of the county including those allotted to each commissioner's precinct. There are few counties in Texas that could make a better showing in this respect. It is a most pleasing situation and one in which citizens along with county officials can take satisfaction.

FLYNT IS WELL QUALIFIED FOR LAND OFFICE

The son of a Confederate soldier, left penniless after the Civil war, E. I. Flynt came to Texas from Madison county, Alabama, at the age of seven. He grew to manhood in Erath county, obtaining his education in Stephenville where he specialized in mathematics and civil engineering.

In 1886 he came to Hardeman county and was county surveyor for sixteen years—compiled an abstract of title to Hardeman county lands, and engaged in the land and abstract business for many years.

His work, both as abstractor and surveyor, was accurate in the extreme and in demand in all parts of the Panhandle and West Texas. Friends of Mr. Flynt feel that his familiarity with land conditions of the state, his reputation for honesty over a long period of years, his own competency and worth recommend him highly for such a position of trust as the State Land Office.

Mr. Flynt is the owner of several farms in Hardeman county and is at present engaged in managing them. If elected Commissioner of the General Land Office he promises an efficient and economical administration.

The present incumbent has held office for nearly twenty years and is asking for another term.

FOR

COUNTY JUDGE

1. A well seasoned lawyer of 22 years active practice, yet young, active, alert and open minded, willing to hear both sides, kind and courteous to all.

2. His platform announced in January advocated the lowering of assessed values so as to save in state taxes, while his opponent as chairman of board of equalization last July defeated lower values and lower taxes last year.

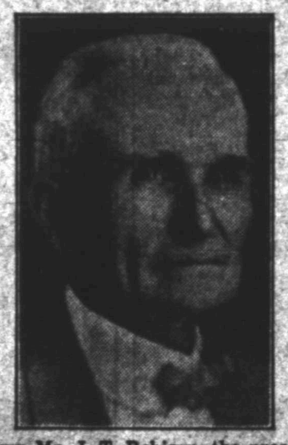

3. He put on newspaper campaign in April and May for lower values until his opponent was converted to the idea, and same was adopted by the commissioners' court, resulting in a saving of over $100,000 to tax payers. This could have been saved last year just as well.

4. Go to the polls Saturday and elect a wide-awake, progressive man for county judge.

as Land Commissioner

Having known Mr. J. T. Robison, the present Commissioner of the General Land Office of Texas, several years, and being familiar with the duties and responsibilities of that office, the undersigned desire to recommend him and his administration of the State's affairs as wise, wholesome and invaluable to the people of Texas. We do not believe the people can at this time afford to make a change on account of the great questions that are now pending in the Courts and with which he is possibly more familiar than any one else. His conduct of that office has been of a high order, honest and efficient. We believe his re-election will be for the best interest of our state.

CRITIC RAPS BASH LETTER

Pastor Scored by Member Of Church

Sharp criticism of Rev. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, for his letter mentioning certain political candidates as being members of the church, was voiced in a letter to the pastor Thursday by James T. Cumley.

Mr. Cumley, a member of the First Christian church, handed a copy of his "open letter" to the Wichita Falls pastor to the Record News. The letter follows:

Dear Brother Bash:

There may be some who might rightfully question the right of one of such little consequence in church circles as I am, to address an open letter to his pastor.

I acknowledge to being the highest private in the extreme rear ranks of the First Christian church of Wichita Falls, Texas, and I sometime fall in arrears in my church dues or pledges from one to two years. Notwithstanding these two facts, as admitted, and admitting my, perhaps, all unworthiness to be heard from in exclusive church circles, yet at this critical hour in our state and national affairs, I deem it my duty to raise my feeble voice in solemn protest against a minister of the Gospel mixing the affairs of his church, and I hope mine, with the affairs of state.

Insult to Voters, He Says

Your letter to some of the congregation of the First Christian church, as shown in Tuesday's Times, hurt you and the church in the eyes of every free thinking loyal American citizen. It was an insult to their intelligence, and questioned their ability to think, vote, and act as free born American citizens.

Your letter, intended to help members of the First Christian church who have their names on the Democratic ticket, will hurt them in the eyes of the sons of men who fought, and will fight again, to separate and to keep separated, the affairs of church and state. Most of all, in my opinion, it has hurt the church irreparably.

Your letter recalled to those of our open minded citizens the foulest, vilest and filthiest chapter in the nation's whole political history. I refer to that leprous viper, the Ku Klux Klan, as it crawled across the fair face of our nation and left in its odorous wake, rapine, murder, thievery, outlawry, and political, mental and moral suicide. I, and I believe I speak for the majority of free men, do not want, and will not tolerate any minister of the Gospel of mine or of any church, to tell me, or ask me, or suggest to me, how or for whom I should cast my vote in city, county, state or national election.

Just as sure as you or any other minister of the Gospel brings politics into your pulpit, just so sure do you drive open minded men away from the church, and rightly so.

Vacant Churches

From my observation in the last 20 years, it occurs to me that the Protestant churches of America are fighting for their very existence. This is evidenced by the thousands of vacant churches of all denominations throughout our land. A quarter of a century ago there were no vacant churches and that was a time of ministers who preached and sometimes fought for the Bible, as they believed it, and their churches were filled every Sunday with eager listeners who wanted to learn the truth about God's Word. And they were told that truth about the Bible as the minister believed it.

It is my humble opinion, and I know other men who have this belief with me, that the thing that is destroying and vacating our churches today is the gradual encroachment by the church and its ministers into the affairs of the state.

If the Protestant ministers of America would return to preaching the Bible, they would fill our vacant churches, and a tired, weary business man would know where to go on Sunday when he wanted to hear and perhaps learn something about the Word of God. Surely the idea might be worthwhile. It should prove a noble experiment.

Directors Deny Oil 'Combination'

CASPER, Wyo., July 26. (AP)—The board of directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana today branded as "unqualifiedly false in its entirety" a report from New York concerning a working combination of the Indiana Standard and the Sinclair Oil corporation.

The board, headed by Colonel Robert W. Stewart, its chairman, is in Casper on an inspection tour of Wyoming properties.

BRELLE, N. J.—Fumes from insect poison sprayed on rose bushes is held responsible for the death here of John Douglas Russell, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Russell of Rutherford. Two years ago I was elected Judge of the 78th District Court to fill an unexpired term, and am now seeking re-election for a second term. During that time I have not missed a day from my duties at the courthouse, but been on the job constantly where those having business with the court, could find me. My record of affirmed cases is higher than the average of district judges over the state. Having faith in the good people of Wichita county, I submit my candidacy for second term, confident that I shall receive your support for which I shall be most grateful.

Negro Near Death After Woman Wields Knife in Battle Here

George Brown, negro man, was in a critical condition at the Wichita General hospital, suffering from severe knife wounds in the arm, and Amy Mitchell, negro woman, was in the city jail facing charges, as the result of a fight in the negro residential section about 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

Arteries in the man's arm were severed by the knife, nurses at the hospital said. He had almost bled to death before he reached the hospital. Slight hope was held for his recovery.

Although details of the fight had not been learned, witnesses told police that the woman had been hit in the head with a brick before she started using the knife. Her head bore a deep gash.

rested and charged with driving a car while intoxicated. These charges, it is understood, may come up for consideration of the grand jury.

When the body was convened early in the month, Judge Thornton instructed the jurors to investigate charges of Mr. Bradley that the interior construction of the jail was responsible for the numerous jailbreaks there within the past few months.

Should they find that the construction could be improved upon so as to tend toward an elimination of breaks from the jail, Judge Thornton instructed them, they were to make recommendations in their final report.

At the time the jury recessed the jurors did not hand in a final report, and it is believed that they may make recommendations on the jail construction when they adjourn for the term.

COUNTY HOLDS $828000 CASH

Huge Balance Shown In Auditor's Report

With Wichita county's cash balance standing at $223,073.07 on July 1, a gain of $123,247.77 over last year was shown in a report prepared by the department of E. P. Walsh, county auditor, and announced by M. A. Bundy, county commissioner.

The balance is that left after all current bonds and obligations have been met.

With the county finances in their present stable condition, Mr. Bundy pointed out, the decrease in taxation in Wichita county by $8,000,000 valuation will be easily effected.

Most of the cash of the county is in funds set aside to meet bonded indebtedness. The county, however, is drawing more interest on its money than it pays on the bonds, Mr. Bundy said, and for this reason no hurry has been made to take up the bonds.

The road and bridge fund, with an increase over last year of $45,274.32, shows the largest single gain.

The statement follows:

CITY FACES SECOND SUIT

$212,500 Damages Asked By Landowners

Suit for $212,500 damages against the city of Wichita Falls and others was filed Thursday by D. G. Whitney and C. W. Whitney, who claim that discharge of oil s-wage and waste into the river has caused the value of the plaintiff's property to decrease. An injunction restraining defendants in the petition from further pollution of the stream also is asked. Hearing on the injunction probably will be had Friday or Saturday, since the 30th district court concludes its term here this week.

The land in controversy is a 750-acre tract situated about two miles north of the Wichita Falls business district, the petition sets out.

In addition to the city of Wichita Falls other defendants in the action are the American Refining company, the Orient Petroleum company, the Continental Oil company of Texas, the Panhandle Refining company, the Primrose Refining company, the Texas Pipeline company, the City Laundry and the Wichita Falls Laundry company.

The suit is brought against the city because of the city garbage dump being located close to the river, the petition alleges. The oil concerns are held liable in the petition because of the petroleum refuse emptied in the river and the laundries are included because of other alleged waste.

This is the second large suit to which the city has been made defendant within the past few weeks. A previous suit alleging water logging of land by water from city canals seeks damages of $306,000.

Service, high ethical standards in business, application of the ideal of service to personal and business life, development of acquaintances as an opportunity for service and the recognition of the worthiness of all occupations and the dignifying by every Rotarian of his own occupation were topics discussed by J. C. Hunt, J. M. Spoonts, H. H. Voelcker, J. T. Tarry and Al Moline, respectively. These topics were given as expressing the five major purposes of Rotary.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK.—It had begun to rain and the cigar store clerk had just finished pasting a notice on the window which read like this: "Umbrellas, $1.00."

"I read the other day a story about the Broadway girls and their umbrellas of many colors, but it didn't say a word about the men," remarked the clerk.

"Well, what about it?" queried the man addressed, who was not in a very good humor after having been forced to submit to five straight days of rain.

"Well, just this," replied the clerk, who was not to be bullied out of expressing his opinion or giving his views on divers subjects whenever he got a chance, "men are mighty particular about carrying umbrellas and that is the reason why we have to sell them over cigar counters. A clerk not only has to be judge of a good cigar these days, but he's also got to be able to tell a good dollar umbrella when he sees one. Can you imagine that? Picture the old days when you were a kid: can you imagine buying an umbrella in a cigar store in those happy days? I should say not.

"Here, only a little while ago, a fellow came in and asked for one of the dollar umbrellas. I pointed to the stand there and told him to take one, but he wasn't satisfied with them. No, he turned to me and said, 'Oh, pick me out a good one.' To which I replied, 'There ain't no such thing: a dollar umbrella is just that no matter where you get it and you won't get any more, anyplace. Just grab any one of those and what have you? A dollar umbrella.'

"Yet, on the other hand, how many men are there who won't move out of the house unless they have their umbrellas with them? Umbrellas seem to be a necessary part of their everyday equipment and they never lose a chance of bringing one along. Before leaving home or their office they look up at the sky and if there is a cloud or two they straightway go to the rack and get the umbrella ready. Nothing like being prepared is their motto."

The commuter's son was paying his first visit alone to New York City. School vacations had begun and as a special treat the boy was going to see a big league game.

Naturally, the commuter's wife was apprehensive. Much might happen to an inexperienced boy in the city and visions of him eternally following green lines in the Grand Central subway station filled her mind.

After the boy had started the four-year-old son of a neighbor called. He asked for the boy and was told he had gone to the city. The commuter's wife added, "I hope he doesn't get lost."

"Is he coming back?" asked the youngster.

"Oh, yes, he will be back again this evening."

"Well," said the youngster with the satisfaction born of having finally and completely settled a weighty problem, "that's all right. If he doesn't come back you'll know he's lost."

A bent old gentleman and his little old lady in rusty, clean black came slowly up to the "Barnyard" in Central park. They stood arm in arm, looking at the pigs, the goats, the donkeys and the chickens in that most unusual of all the park exhibits in the world. The old gentleman clucked to the chickens, tossed an apple to the pigs, and the two of them tottered off again in the direction of Fifth avenue.

"They come here almost every fair day," said the park attendant. "They visit with the farm stock a while, then they go home. They live in one of those fine big apartment buildings in the West Seventies.

"I got to talking to the old man one day. Nice old fellow, he is. Seems that he and Ma—that's what he called her—had been all their lives on a farm up in New England. Their children all married and went to the city, and they got too old to keep it up themselves. So they sold the place and, at their children's request, bought a home in one of these co-operative apartments. But they're homesick for the old farm, both of them. That's the reason they come here to visit the farmyard."

"Funny, isn't it?" asked the park attendant. "The country people want to go to the city, and the city people want to go to the country. And when both of them get there they want to get right back!"

LOVE

In my study I have found.
Love's what makes the world go 'round.
All the things which great men do
Is for some love, tried and true.
I am praying love will come
That will make my slow world "hum."
All the love that I have found,
As my slow world pokes around,
Has been mostly shams and flats;
We hate loved—like dogs and cats.

So, if someone knows the clue
How to find a love or two
That will brighten every dawn,
Bring them on, boys, bring them on.
But you'll get yourself in bad
If they're like the loves I've had!

Glorifying the Mail Clerk

THE MAIL CLERK has never been a very romantic figure.

Times are changing, however, and modern science is about to pitch the gray-uniformed clerk into a position of color and picturesqueness.

The postoffice department announces that it will shortly establish a new airway postal service, in which clerks will fly in planes and sort the mail en route, just as is done now on railways. Large new planes, providing space for clerks and sorting rooms, are now being prepared, and it is expected some will be placed in operation on portions of the transcontinental route.

Many postal clerks have already applied for transfer to this new branch of the service. Among them is Walter Tuchfarber, of Olathe, Kan., who has been a railway clerk for 22 years.

This is an interesting development. The mail clerk is about to become one of those glamorous beings the rest of us envy.

The Newsboy, a Merchant

IT HAS always been more or less an American tradition that the newsboy is a poor, fatherless young chap who supports a widowed mother and, probably, a sister or two by the pennies he makes by selling papers.

Now comes the census department to announce that very few newsboys are in this class. Most of them come from good homes, it says, and are not driven to selling papers by hard necessity.

It is a good thing for us to recognize this. The newsboy is an ambitious young business man, putting in his spare time wisely and profitably. He is learning early in life things about the world of business that most young men do not learn until they reach their majority. Selling papers is an excellent training school. It is not by accident that so many of our prominent business and professional men earned their first pennies in that way.

Don't pity the newsboy who sells you your paper. Admire him, rather, as an energetic, capable young American who has ambition.

The Clearer Vision

IT ISN'T hard to feel a little bit envious of Marcella Calkins, the Wisconsin girl who is enjoying the gift of sight now for the first time in her 20 years of life.

The girl has been blind since birth. The other day Milwaukee doctors performed a delicate operation on her eyes; now she can see, and in a short time her sight will be wholly normal.

There must be a great thrill in seeing things for the first time. After living in darkness for 20 years, one must find the newly-visible world a marvellous, gaily-colored place indeed. The commonest objects—houses, trees, clouds, lawns—must have a touch of divinity about them. Marcella Calkins, who for so long was an object of pity, is more fortunate now than most of us.

For we who always have had good eyes do not, customarily see very much after all. We take in the outer aspect of things—we know that John Jones is dark haired and slender, for instance, and that Tom Brown is blonde and stout; but that is about the extent of it. We take all familiar sights for granted and are profoundly incurious.

Yet, for all that, every object that meets our eyes is something of a marvel. The house in which you live, to whose sight you are so well used—it is a bit miraculous. In order that that house could be built savages had to emerge from caves, invent tools and weapons, learn to shape trees into planks and mud into mortar, suppress the instincts of savagery so that they could have time for home building. The newspaper in which you read this represents something for which a great many men have died on the scaffold. The street car that takes you downtown is a daily testimonial to the fact that man's mind has progressed from beastlike darkness to comparative light.

All the things a man's eyes rest upon from morning to night are, in their own way, symbols. There is nothing in the universe cut-and-dried. The mere fact that you can see at all is a profounder miracle than the star of the east in old Judea. The commonest summer sunrise is an omen of incalculable significance.

Marcella Calkins is to be envied. Seeing for the first time, she is better fitted to realize that human life is surrounded by glowing mysteries. She may escape our mater-of-factness. Seeing too much and too easily, we have grown purblind. We seldom recognize our own divinity.

ROMANCE IS DEAD

The recent attempt of a number of stowaways to start a mutiny aboard an Australian liner serves to recall that the romance and terror of the sea is vanishing. Steady and speedy turbines are making ocean voyages more certain, and the radio and wireless telegraph link the ships with land and other vessels even though they are thousands of miles at sea. Usually a vessel is not very far from some other ship, and nowadays conversations can be carried on around the world.

When the stowaways attempted to terrorize the passengers and captain of the Australian liner, it was only a few minutes until the whole world knew of the attempt. A short time later aid was rushed toward the vessel from the nearest land.

BISHOP SHOWS WAY

Reviewing the position which the leaders in his church have taken at various times during great political stress in the country; in keeping the church aloof from partisan politics, the venerable Bishop Candler of Atlanta, eminent and beloved among Southern Methodists, took his stand with them, in a statement issued to the press a few days ago, and in doing so quoted the momentous words of Jesus, before Pontius Pilate, "My kingdom is not of this world."

In the statement Bishop Candler took occasion to show how such a stand had saved the church from becoming embroiled in the bitterness of politics in other critical stages of the country's history, notably during reconstruction days, and thus had preserved itself as an agency of spiritual force, for the ministry of the gospel. And the bishop, while according to others the right to differ with him, has taken the high ground that the church must preserve its mission in the present time, free from the passions of politics, and the bitterness of partisanship, by not allowing political matters to enter its pulpit and organization.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service — by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Virginia Brewster is in love with a poor artist, Nathaniel Dann, but she is tricked into promising to marry Frederick Dean in one year if she fails to earn $100,000 which he alleges her father had cheated him out of in a bootlegging deal.

Brewster had lost his fortune in speculation before his sudden death so that Virginia is left destitute. She pawns some of her jewelry and a broker friend, Oliver Cutter, promises to invest the money for her and try to earn the hundred thousand.

She avoids all her wealthy friends and seeks work under an assumed name, but without success. She finds orchids at her hotel one evening from Dean and wonders how he learned her address. A call from the agency brings hope, but when she goes there the manager tries to dissuade her from working and advises her to marry.

Virginia suspects that Dean has bribed the agency not to help her, and this conviction is strengthened when she finds that she is being shadowed. She tries other agencies, but word leaks out that the "Brewster girl" is job-seeking and she is besieged by reporters. Among the group that are interviewing her she recognizes the man who has been following her.

Cutter insists on taking Virginia out to dinner and hints that there are several ways in which as beautiful a girl as she can obtain the coveted hundred thousand. She challenges his remark and he pretends innocence.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XXXII

Oliver's distaste for gratitude did not disturb Virginia. He always had been impatient of most accepted standards of conduct and conventions, she remembered tolerantly. It would be like him to get her out of this appalling situation in which she found herself and attempt to pass it off with a negligent wave of his hand. She smiled over the thought of how she would startle him with the truth when she dared tell it. He would know then how much she owed him.

She unlocked the door and entered the small dark room with her mind filled with pictures of the future. Pleasant pictures. Automatically she switched on the light and took off her hat, still half-dreaming over the assurance of success she had received from Oliver.

It was several minutes before she noticed a box on the bed. Her first impression was that Frederick Dean had sent more flowers and she decided not to open the box. But a second glance revealed that it was not from a florist. The label was that of a famous modiste.

Virginia was curious to know why anything from that shop should be sent her. Perhaps it was something she had ordered before her father's death, she reflected. Often weeks were required to bring made-to-order lingerie and garments from Italy or France to America. She'd better see what it was. It would have to be returned unless it had been included in the bills already presented to the estate. Better send it back anyhow, if the shop would credit it, Virginia thought as she untied the tape and turned back the tissue folds.

When she held the contents up for inspection she could not recall having ordered anything of the kind. It was a cape wrap of silver metal lace, exquisitely made. Virginia gazed at it admiringly a moment before she threw it over her shoulders and looked in the mirror. It was richly smart with the black chiffon dress she was wearing and Virginia took it off and put it back in the box with a small sigh of reluctance.

She was retying the tape when her telephone rang and she answered, to be told that Nathaniel Dann was downstairs. Virginia's heart sang with joy. She darted about, washing her hands at the stained lavatory in the corner, touching her ear lobes with perfume and setting the waves of her bob more smoothly.

She was about to hurry out when it occurred to her that Nathaniel would want to take her to some better place than the hotel parlor to talk. Turning back to get a light wrap, her eyes fell upon the box on the bed. She stopped, breathless with delight at the thought that came to her. Why not wear it? It must belong to her. She had bought nothing since her mourning clothes were purchased. Surely the bill for this was among the accounts rendered. Possibly it had been paid for. And it was very lovely.

With quick, nervous fingers Virginia tore at the tape and pulled off the lid. Hastily, and a little guiltily, she threw the wrap about her and whirled out of the room.

Her feeling of guilt vanished completely in the happiness of seeing Nathaniel's face light up with admiration when she rushed eagerly up to him. Her eyes fairly sparkled and her soft lips parted in an adorable, tempting fashion.

"What fairy has been waving a wand over you?" Nathaniel inquired with mock seriousness.

"Don't be so modest," Virginia laughed back at him. "Perhaps you had something to do with whatever it is you refer to. Weren't we silly, Niel?" she added ingenously.

"You were," Nathaniel told her, but he smiled when he said it, and Virginia let it pass. "I intended to ask you to share a walk in the park," he went on, "but you look too gorgeous for it."

"Nonsense. No one will notice me."

"Maybe not, if everyone has suddenly developed eye trouble," Nathaniel remarked. "We'll take a taxi to Fifty-ninth street. I don't want to lead a parade into the park."

"All right," Virginia assented. "If you think you can afford it."

"Don't try to patronize me, Cinderella," Nathaniel bantered. "How do you know I'm not a prince in disguise?"

Virginia looked at him with eyes that proclaimed him a prince as he was.

The distance to the park was but a few blocks, and shortly the two lovers were walking blissfully into the far, dim reaches of shaded paths.

"You know, Virginia, you should not have done it," Nathaniel said reproachfully when at last they had found a secluded bench. "Life isn't long enough."

Virginia drew away from the arm he put out to encircle her waist.

"Do you think we can live every hour to please ourselves?" she asked.

"Well, if it didn't please you to go out with someone else why did you do it?" Nathaniel pressed. "Is there anyone who has a greater right to be with you than I have, Virginia?"

"Niel, I'm afraid you're trying to be difficult. We both acted foolishly. You shouldn't have been so disagreeable when I telephoned you, and I should have told you that I meant to come down to your studio after dinner."

"Why didn't you?"

"Because I was mad when you gave me a short answer. You wouldn't say whether you would be in or not."

"I'm sorry. I've been sorry all evening. But you haven't answered my question. I can't understand why you broke our date."

Virginia opened her mouth to speak, closed it, and sat silent, casting about in her mind for a safe reply.

"I met an old friend who was extremely depressed and wanted me to have dinner with him," she said at last. "I couldn't refuse because I am under obligation to him for a great kindness."

Nathaniel sensed a reserve in her explanation that left him feeling vaguely dissatisfied. "Well, I hope he considers himself sufficiently repaid," he said crossly. "He's taken one good evening out of my life."

"I thought you wouldn't mind," Virginia replied soothingly. "Don't you want to help me pay my debts?"

"If you put it that way, what am I to say? But I hope you won't bankrupt our fund of time paying off old obligations," Nathaniel grumbled.

"We wouldn't be near quarreling so often if you would just realize that you haven't a monopoly on love, Niel," Virginia cautioned him tremulously. "I want to be happy as much as you do, only I can't turn my back on everybody else just to live for myself."

"Thanks."

"Niel, please don't be stupid. I don't mean I think you would do it, either. I know you wouldn't, but you seem to want me to without realizing what you do."

"That's not quite right," Nathaniel protested. "I said I hoped you hadn't many bad debts to pay off."

"You seemed to think I minded it less than you do."

"Now that's a remark deserving a kiss," Nathaniel exclaimed, and made good.

"It's time to go," Virginia declared when he released her. "We'll be getting in trouble with an officer if you're going to act like this."

"Nobody, not even a cop, would blame me."

Virginia glanced at her watch. She wore it now most of the time, chiefly because it was one of the very few ornaments she had left.

"Good gracious, Niel. It's after midnight."

"All right, Cinderella; if you're afraid your magnificent cloak will turn into rags, we'll hurry home."

Virginia remembered what he had said the next morning as she read a brief letter from Mr. Dean.

" . . . glad the chasuble met with your approval. Thought you'd prefer it to that old shawl you were wearing in the Village the other night. Don't try to get used to shabby things, Virginia. It's just a waste of time. The things your beauty deserves will be yours in less than a year remember . . . "

Virginia's face went white as she read and her eyes lifted finally from the taunting lines on the thick gray paper to turn toward the chair over which she had thrown the silver wrap. It gleamed dully against the faded green upholstery and to Virginia it was less attractive than any kitchen rag could have been.

With desperately furious speed she gathered it up and threw it into the box in which it had arrived. Then she summoned a bellboy with much impatience he thought she must be trying to catch a steamer.

"Take this downstairs and tell them to return it to the shop that sent it," she ordered, thrusting the box upon the boy. "Right away," she added, and handed him a tip.

When he was gone she went to the telephone and called Dean's residence. There was a wait of several moments before the servant who answered informed her that Mr. Dean would be on the wire presently.

Virginia's hand shook the receiver against her ear and she bit her underlip to stop its trembling. Now that she had followed her impulse to reach the man who was tormenting her she found herself wondering if it could do any good to talk to him. But whether it would or not she felt compelled to take some action, to protest against his having her spied upon. If nothing else. He wasn't playing fair. . . . Virginia grimaced at the thought. Fair! Could she expect fairness of Frederick Dean?

"Good morning," she heard him saying suavely a moment later. "Sorry to keep you waiting, my dear. Morning tub. Have you called to thank me for the wrap? Charming idea, copying the old ecclesiastical chasubles, isn't it?"

Globe Girdlers Find Themselves Embroiled With Customs Office

SEATTLE, Wash., July 26. (UP) John Henry Mears and B. D. Collyer, who recently broke the world record for circumnavigating the globe, failed to enter the United States legally in their dash and are enbroiled in a controversy with the United States customs, it became known here tonight.

Mears will be summoned before the customs in New York to explain why he failed to clear customs here after entering Canada. Before he hopped off from Victoria, B. C., last Saturday he promised Canadian officials that he would land and clear at Seattle. Customs officials went to the airport at 2:30 a. m., to clear the fliers and release them with all possible dispatch to aid them in their efforts to make a new 'round-the-world record.

Instead of landing, however, Mears and Collyer flew over the airport, waved a hearty "cherrio" to the customs officers and kept on flying.

The law states that persons coming into this country "shall at the first port of entry, clear themselves."

Customs authorities here say Mears will be liable to a heavy fine for his violation of the immigration law.

OLNEY RALLY HEARS DEBATE

District Attorney Candidates Address Voters

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, July 26.—A spirited debate between two aspirants for the office of district attorney, over which had done the most during the past term of office, was contrasted by more deliberate vote-seeking oratory of other candidates for the same office at a political rally here tonight. The meeting afforded a last opportunity of Young county citizens to hear the district candidates, and a good attendance of about 200 was present in the municipal auditorium.

After the district candidates had spoken, candidates for Young county and precinct offices were heard.

E. P. Fruechte, Wichita Falls, led off with the fireworks when he presented his claims for promotion from first assistant district attorney to the full robes of office. "During the 14 months preceding my connection with the district attorney's office," he said, "only 36 cases were tried. After 21 months as first assistant, I look back on 309 cases as having been tried, 126 with convictions."

Sam Spence, in his contradictory reply, asserted that "the reason there had been a lack of cases tried before Mr. Fruechte came into office was that times were dull." He further said that much of Mr. Fruechte's work, as listed in Mr. Fruechte's list of accomplishments, "had been forced upon him."

The younger candidates were followed by W. L. Scott, aspirant for the same office, who characterized them as "young and enthusiastic," and in the same breath characterized the office he sought as one demanding "an older and more mature man."

Mrs. John B. Rhea spoke in the interest of her husband's candidacy for the office.

Intelligentsia Battered as Police Disturb Sitting and Thinking

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—Forty-four men and women, arrested early today in "Julius," a Greenwich Village restaurant, patronized by the intelligentsia, were discharged in court after a severe lecture on good behavior by Magistrate Dreyer.

"Julius," well known night club where the village intelligentsia was wont to sit and think, or, as police contend, sit and drink, was raided early today.

The frequenters were charged with disorderly conduct and held for a hearing. The promoter, Walter Anderson, 32 years old, and a waiter, John Murphy, 50, were charged with violation of the Volstead act.

Tete-a-tete discussions were going on when seven headquarters detectives announced everyone was under arrest. This abrupt interruption of the intimate conversations aroused a murmuring against the invaders which shortly turned to physical combat. The detectives, however, quickly quelled the disturbance and started to load the men and women into six waiting patrol wagons.

While the exodus was underway someone threw the switch extinguishing the electric lights and once again a battle ensued. Many of the villagers and detectives were roughly handled and somewhat battered in the melee that followed.

RAINS FAIL TO RAISE LAKE

Precipitation Below Kemp Watershed

Recent rains have had little effect on the water level at Lake Kemp, it was learned at the offices of the irrigation district in the city auditorium Thursday.

The present level of the water is 1,137.1 feet above sea level, and the level of the spillway is 1,150 feet above sea level. The highest point the water has reached in the past few months was 1,138, and the low level before the June rains was 1,133.9.

The rise in the lake has been small in the past week due to the fact that most of the rainfall has been below the watershed, it was said at the irrigation district office. Most of the precipitation has been south and east of the lake, a district which drains away from the lake.

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

As Told by Them to

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By SALLY O'NEIL

Introducing Miss Sally O'Neil, who changed her name from Chotzy Noonan to that. She is known as Hollywood's worst tomboy, and is a diminutive cyclone. Hails from the wilds of New Joisey.

Sally is blue-eyed and Irish, pugnosed and pugnacious. Has two brothers, two sisters and an assortment of shelks.

Sally laughs a lot—but longest and loudest at this hilaritale:

"I know a famous movie actress here in Hollywood," Sally told me, "who is so fashionable that she is almost a stranger to her little son. One day she decided it was about time she became acquainted with him.

"She read old books about the things mothers used to do, such as singing lullabies and rocking to sleep. And then, one night, she sent her nurse out and stayed at home just for a new sensation.

"She crept into the little one's bedroom, and began to croon as she rocked the cradle, 'Hushe-bye, baby, on the treetop.'

"The child turned a wondering eye on her and then said, sleepily:

"I say, old dear, will you can that chatter? A fellow wants to get some sleep, you know."

A half inch rain fell at Abilene but little else was reported from that direction.

Early in the day a slow rain fell in the vicinity of Fort Worth, according to the Denver dispatcher.

Soldiers' Joy Ride Ends in Jail Here

A joy ride from Lawton, Okla., to Wichita Falls proved a costly one to two young Fort Sill soldiers who were given a hearing before J. A. Lantz, United States commissioner, Thursday on charges of transporting a stolen automobile from Lawton to Wichita Falls, July 24.

They were arrested by Wichita Falls police when they drove into town Wednesday morning at 1 o'clock driving a Buick touring car which proved upon investigation by Edwin Fore, special agent of the United States department of justice, to belong to Joe Boyd of Lawton.

The two boys first told the police that they were on their way to Houston to visit their sister but declared before Lantz Thursday that they stole the automobile planning to make a "joy ride" to Wichita Falls and return the automobile to Lawton before it had been missed.

They were committed to jail on failure to make $1500 bonds granted them by Lantz.

Great Canyon Loses Fight

German Army Veteran Is Saved From Plunge

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., July 26. (AP)—Clinging to the sheer wall of Yellowstone canyon, with a dislocated knee preventing his ascent and a drop of 800 feet impending should his nerve or his strength fail, Francis Haebrack, 35, of Milwaukee, spent a terrifying four hours in Yellowstone park yesterday before rangers rescued him.

Haebrack, who served during the war in the German army, attempted to descend the rocky wall of the canyon, where there is no trail. He managed to get down about half the distance, when his knee, weakened by an old wound, gave way. Clinging to the rock, he finally managed by shouts and using his shirt as a flag, to attract attention from the opposite side of the canyon.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Health Dividends

If you were condemned to die tomorrow, how much would you give for one more year of health and happiness? You would no doubt give every dollar and every piece of property if, when sick, you could once again regain your health and all its possibilities of happiness and enjoyment.

Have you, who are so concerned about your investments in real estate and bonds, ever considered what a valuable piece of property you possess in that body of yours, and have you cultivated and improved it to the greatest extent that is possible?

If you had money in the bank and it was only bringing 2½ per cent, and it was possible for you to obtain six per cent, you would consider yourself foolish if you did not make the change. Therefore, why be satisfied with obtaining insufficient dividends from your wonderful body, the most complicated mechanism that has ever been created! Our capabilities for accomplishing, and for enjoying ourselves during our lives, depend not only upon the wonderful vision and imagination of the mind, but upon the health of our physical bodies.

The poorest servant who is healthy is much richer than the feeble millionaire with dospepsia, who cannot enjoy his wealth without health. No wealth we can obtain, or honor we may receive, can make us happy unless we have the health with which to enjoy them, and the value of all we possess diminishes in value to us directly in proportion as we become sick.

The efficiency we develop and our ability to continue with our fellows, depend upon the way we can express ourselves through our physical bodies. All of our ability to learn from the world and all of our power to give in return, depends upon our physical mechanism. We speak with our mouths, we see with our eyes, we hear with our ears, and we move with our muscles. It is only through these definite physical mediums that we are able to make our contact with the world and its people.

Would you take a million dollars for the loss of your eyesight? Probably not. And yet, it is true that every day most of us do things which hurt our eyes. Through bad habits and practices we impair our sight, and in this way limit and cut down our enjoyment of the beautiful things of life which we might see and understand.

When our ears become stuffed from catarrhal diseases, from eating acid forming foods, we cannot hear and enjoy the delicate tones of music, or learn the things which would come to us through the use of our ears.

Health is the capital which bears the greatest interest. It furnishes an income which, when economically used, will support you in comfort. He who is a foolish spendthrift of his health throws away his principal and will soon find himself bankrupt. The more he draws upon his capital, the sooner it will be exhausted, and all over-eating, over-working, loss of sleep, improper habits and all the things which injure health will cause one to rapidly expend his fund of health, his reserve of life, and the bankruptcy of death will summon him to a reckoning.

Questions and Answers

Question—J. H. writes: "Please explain the proper method of taking an enema, whether hot or cold, and how much water should be used."

Answer: If a quart of tepid water is used there is no danger of your ever producing any intestinal injury through the taking of enemas, but too much water may be harmful, and also if it is too hot or too cold. It is best not to use soap, salt, or anything else which may be irritating.

Question—Mrs. J. K. asks: "Is a yam the same as a sweet potato, and if so is it as wholesome?"

Answer: Most yams sold in the United States are really sweet potatoes. The true yam resembles a sweet potato and is grown largely in the West Indies and to a small extent in Florida and Louisiana. Specimens may weigh from 10 pounds upward, and have been known to weigh as much as a hundred pounds. Both yams and sweet potatoes are starchy foods and are best thoroughly baked in order to bring out the full sweetness. They should be combined with other foods the same as any other starches.

Question—Mrs. W. writes: "I have a place at the top of my stomach on the right side that gives me some trouble, something like the colic, every month. Can you tell me what it is and the remedy? I am very stout, weighing about 242 pounds. Can you tell me something to reduce my weight?"

Answer—The distress you have in your right side may be due to gall bladder trouble, to stomach irritation, or to colitis, in the hepatic flexure of the colon. As you are overweight, the sensible thing to do is to diet to reduce, and then your symptoms will no doubt disappear while on the diet which is necessary for you to take to bring about a satisfactory weight reduction. Space in this column is limited, but I will be glad to send you complete instructions on how to reduce upon receipt of a self-addressed, stamped, large envelope.

Must Be Dirty.

TUNNEY SLASHES HEENEY'S CORRUGATED FACE TO GORY MASS

STOPPING MILL IS HUMANE ACT

Gene Great Fighter Against Slow, Game Old Tom

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

YANKEE, STADIUM, N. Y., July 26.—A knife couldn't slice up a human being's face more than Gene Tunney's left hand slashed poor Tom Heeney's corrugated countenance up at the Yankee stadium tonight.

The referee, Eddie Forbes, stopped the slaughter after two minutes and 52 seconds of alleged fighting in the 11th round. It was just as well. The so-called "Hard Rock of Down Under" was chopped to a bloody smear. It was all just about as expected, the man from New Zealand wading in bravely to certain destruction. Blood dripping from his nose, blood dripping from cuts along the creases of his strangely old looking face, one eye partly closed. Woefully outclassed in the boxing, yes, it was just about as expected.

But no one thought a fist could hash up the leathery skin of the tough old fellow from the antipodes to such an extent that it would be mercy to halt the affair before some of the ladies in the crowd of about 40,000 became ill.

Fight Financial "Flop"

So Tunney remains heavyweight champion of the world, and George "Tex" Rickard, celebrated pugilist promoter, registers his biggest flop. The gate is estimated at not to exceed $700,000, with Rickard taking a heavy loss on his guarantees to the fighters.

Tunney himself selected Heeney as his opponent in what is said to be Tunney's last fight. He made no error. Heeney's crude, clumsy walking style fitted the masterly boxing of the heavyweight champion as neatly as one of the gloves on Tunney's hand. It made Tunney look great, made him appear the master boxer, as he stalked about the ring. Carefully erect, his thin nostrils compressed, his hands performing Queensbury magic before the bewildered eyes of the hairy-chested Heeney.

The physical contrast, too, made Tunney look good. It was a race horse against an ox, a silky, well featured fellow against a shaggy, unkempt looking man with thick "piano" legs, and a body like an old time beer barrel.

Tom Out in Tenth

The bell clanging to close the tenth round found Heeney sprawled out on the flat of his back on the canvass punched down by a succession of smashes to the face and body. He lay there, his eyes blinking dully at the lights over head, until Eddie Harvey and Jimmy Hennessey, his seconds, piled into the ring, pulled him aboard his stodgy legs again, and led him back to his corner. The bell probably saved Heeney from being counted out then and there, but he came out for the eleventh like a gallant old fire horse responding to an alarm, flourishing his gloves around with astonishing courage.

A good, game fellow, is Thomas Heeney of Gisborne, New Zealand, but that lets him out. He was still standing up, right in Tunney' own corner, when Forbes stepped between the fighters to stop it, and Charley Harvey, one of Heeney's managers, afterward mildly protested Forbes' action, but it was too late.

The crowd didn't object to Forbes' action. The fight was all over by the end of the third round after something of a flourish by Heeney in that round. From that time on Tunney simply fed him a left jab, backing up and sticking it out as Tom walked in, the champion occasionally varying the monotony of his method by hitting the advancing Tom under the heart with a right, or crossing his right to Tom's tough chin. The clients speedily tired of the one-sided proceedings. Many of them got up and started for the exits when Tom hit the floor in the tenth, thinking it was all over. It was a fight without a thrill.

His little short arms put him at a terrific disadvantage with the long armed champion from the beginning. He would swing one of his chunky arms wildly, Tunney would pull back a bit—almost politely, it seemed—and the swing would chug the air half a yard from its mark. Then Tunney would move his left forward sharply and sting Tom's nose.

Tom Is Courageous

Or if Tom got to rushing and struggling too stoutly, Tunney would would lock him up in a clinch from which Heeney could not disentangle himself until Tunney got ready.

It is said that Tunney, in his stilted manner, said to Heeney after it was all over:

"You are a courageous fighter, and I wish you all good fortune."

He said a true word when he said that Heeney is courageous, but courage doesn't take a prize fighter far if that's all he's got. In comparison with Heeney's showing against Jack Delaney, Johnny Risko, Paolino and his other opponents since arriving in this country, about a year ago, the fight makes Tunney a better man than he has been rated.

Heeney might have lasted through to the end of the fifteenth, but he would have been a sad, sad sight at the finish. He was sad enough as it was. He was going when the finish came. Rickard, the promoter, was probably as sorely disappointed by the result as by the receipts. He had been dreaming of a $3,000,000 gate with Heeney and Jack Dempsey as the attraction next year. The old Manassa Man Mauler walked into the show tonight and stole all the applause the champion, and the stolid looking challenger.

PREDICTION ON STATE PRIMARY

Moody Believed Victor By Wide Margin

not poll as big a vote as Lynch Davidson did in 1926. The combined vote of Mrs. Ferguson, Davidson and Mrs. Wilmans was not enough in the 1926 campaign to keep Moody from a majority in the first primary. It required, in addition, the scattering vote for Mrs. Kate Johnston and O. F. Zimmerman to force a run-off.

Mrs. Wilmans received 1580 votes in the 1926 race. It is not apparent where she will get many more votes this year, especially since her name is barred from the ballot in several counties. Hawkins has not made any approach to the vigorous campaign of Lynch Davidson and Hawkins is under the same ballot handicap as Mrs. Wilmans.

Total Vote Lighter

There is the additional advantage for Moody this year that the total vote likely will be lighter. The total vote for governor in the first primary in 1926 was 821,234. It is variously estimated here that tomorrow's vote will be between 600,000 and 700,000, depending largely upon the weather. A majority of a 700,000 vote is 350,001. In the first primary of 1926 Moody received 409,732. In the run-off he got 495,000. It is true he hasn't made the long campaign he did two years ago, but it is also just as true that he has the support of large numbers of state employes and appointees, which he lacked in the 1926 race. This advantage should offset the handicap of enemies made and the shorter campaign.

This expected cutting down of the primary vote will be due to some extent to the absence of some who want to vote for Herbert Hoover for president. Many can not reconcile their pledge, "I am a Democrat" and vote for Hoover in November so will stay out of tomorrow's primary.

Names Barred

Barring of the names of Love, Hawkins and Mrs. Wilmans in some counties will also keep some of their supporters out of the primary, though the names of these three may be written on ballots, where they are not printed.

As Love's name is one of those under the ban in several counties it may seem strange that he is picked for runner-up in the lieutenant governor race. But Love has centered about himself the "Constitutionalist" strength and has the benefit of a close association with the political powers throughout the state during the time he was Democratic national committeeman and right hand man of the Wilson administration in the handline of federal appointments. The contest over his right to a place on the ballot gained him publicity that he could not have gained by weeks of hard campaigning.

Miller Picked

Miller is picked for first place although he is running for a third term. This selection is made largely because the Bexar county-San Antonio city machine has been instructed for him, and because he has the best chance to divide the big Dallas county vote with Love, both being Dallas residents.

The Bexar-San Antonio machine vote does not always go as instructed. Claude Pollard carried Bexar county in his race for attorney general two years ago in the face of instructions for an opponent. This year the machine is weakned by local contests that have developed since the late Mayor Tobin's controlling hand kept everything steady.

The third term bugaboo is not hurting Miller as much as it would ordinarily. When Governor Moody defeated Mrs. Ferguson he broke the usual rotation. In the ordinary course, Miller should now be finishing the customary second term as lieutenant governor and be running for governor. When Moody came out against Mrs. Ferguson, Miller cast aside that prospect and supported Moody. Now he must serve a third term as lieutenant governor in order to be in that favorable position to enter the 1930 race for governor.

Next Race Talked

The 1930 race is already being widely discussed at Austin. The elective head of practically every department is being mentioned as a prospective 1930 candidate for governor. Some believe W. Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer, is making his present strenuous campaign for re-election with the view of leading the opposing candidates and thus put himself in line for the governorship. Since Hatcher's lone opponent has spent but $5 in the campaign much credence is given the report.

Chairman Clarence Gilmore of the state railroad commission, Attorney General Claude Pollard, Chairman Ross Sterling of the highway commission, and Comptroller Terrell all are mentioned as prospective 1930 gubernatorial timber.

Agricultural Commissioner George Terrell, when told this week that it seemed like every elective department head was a 1930 candidate for governor, admitted that it appeared so and said he was not ready to declare himself. If Wardlaw runs a race anywhere near what his supporters are claiming he will run, he also will be a 1930 possibility.

AMBIDEXTROUS

Pitcher and Batter Duel Until Base On Balls Is Issued

MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 25. (AP)—When an ambidexterous pitcher meets a likewise equipped batter, the result is a walk.

Paul Richards, shortstop, who pitches equally well with either hand, was put in the Muskogee box yesterday in a Western association game with Topeka after two regular pitchers had been knocked out. All went well until Wilson, a switch hitter, came to bat.

Richards wound up lefthanded and Wilson took the righthand side of the plate. The pitcher changed his glove and Wilson hopped to the other side of the plate. After several changes, Richards discarded his glove and wound up with both hands in the air. Pitching alternately with his right and left hand, Richards walked the batter.

Tom Says Gene Great Fighter

Heeney Dissatisfied With His Own Showing

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, July 26. (UP)—Gene Tunney is a wonderful fighter, Tom Heeney, defeated challenger, told The United Press, when interviewed in his dressing room after the fight.

"But I'm not satisfied with the fight I put up," Heeney said. "In the fifth round an eyelash turned back into my left eye and I could not see during the sixth round."

Charley Harvey, Heeney's American manager, said he ordered Heeney to crouch when he went out in the eleventh round but he continued to stand up and was "wide open."

"It's the first time in his ring career a fight has been stopped because he was in trouble," Harvey said. "He felt pretty badly about it and told the referee he was willing to go on with the fight."

disappointed in the financial outcome of the venture, but I can take the bitter with the sweet."

A liberal estimate after the bout, placed the crowd at 50,000 and the gate receipts at $750,000. Rickard, however, said that the exact figures would not be available for several days.

Heeney broke into tears when Bernard Mortimer of Southampton, the original Heeney man, and the man who has done most to bring Tom into line for a chance at the heavyweight title, greeted him following the battle.

"Bernard, I am sorry you came over here to see this," Tom said.

"We are with you, win or lose," Mortimer replied.

Mortimer Satisfied

Then Mortimer issued the following statement:

"We are perfectly satisfied. The referee had no necessity to stop the fight when he did and award the decision to Tunney. Tunney's thumb caught Heeney in the eye, bending an eyelash beneath the lid, making him totally blind in one eye. The other eye was filled with tears and it was impossible for Heeney to see his man.

"When Heeney went down the first time, if the referee had said 'knockout' we would have said nothing. When he stopped the fight owing to the eye, we are firmly convinced with a minute's rest, Heeney would have recuperated and gone back to fight.

"It's a pity — a champion like Tunney does not defend his title more often and further create interest in the game that has made him."

Tunney Rushed

From the time the first blow was struck it was apparent that Tunney was for a knockout. The hardy challenger who learned his fighting in bar room brawls, came in at the champion with arms akimbo and rushed Tunney as best he could. His rushes, however, bore little fruit for the champion kept a straight left in Heeney's face and hammered away at Tom's body with both rights and left when they clinched.

The champion, although holding a wide lead by points, did not bring the fight to a head until the tenth round when he hooked and jabbed the challenger's body and ripped home terrific blows to the head. Just before the bell in this tenth round, Tunney sent the challenger to the floor and it seemed apparent that Heeney never would have but for the bell that saved him.

Heeney Is "Out."

His seconds ran out to help him to his corner. Heeney seemed entirely willing to remain on the canvas. He was stretched out with his left leg hanging limp over the edge of the ring and it was only by some hard pulling that his seconds managed to drag him to his corner.

Tunney's seconds leaped into the champion's corner and urged Gene to go in and finish Heeney at once. Tunney's eyes followed Referee Eddie Forbes, who seemed on the point of stopping the bout. Then Heeney answered the bell for the 11th round.

Thanks to some desperately fast work on the part of Heeney's seconds, the Hard Rock from New Zealand came out and at the start of the 11th round it seemed as though the challenger had been full revived. He tore into Tunney with rights and lefts with the champion dancing away and waiting for his chance for a knockout punch. It was not, however, until Tunney, sensing that the victory was imminent, charged Heeney with fast flying fists and started the blood flowing freely from Heeney's nose and from a cut which had been opened over his left eye in an earlier round.

Heeney Come In

Then it was that Heeney came in, both fists flying, and caught a stiff right on the chin. He fell into a clinch and was unable to protect his chin. The champion kept both fists coming up from between their bodies with a merciless rain of blows on the rugged jaw of Heeney, and just as it seemed Tom was going down again, the referee stepped in between the men and led Heeney to his corner a beaten man.

Body Punishment Won, Gene Says

Tunney Relieved That Foe O. K. After K. O.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, July 26. (UP)—Gene Tunney, in a statement after the fight, said he believed it was constant right-hand punishment to the body that brought him his victory over Tom Heeney here tonight.

"I am very gratified to win," Tunney told The United Press.

"I am positive my right hand punches to the body are what won the fight for me. I was very concerned about Heeney's condition and was glad to get word from his dressing room that he was all right. I cannot say anything at this time about a return match."

Vaudeville Program Postponed to August 9

The vaudeville program and band concert, which was to have been presented in Bellevue park Thursday night, will be given Thursday night, Aug. 9, it was announced at the offices of the park department.

The postponement was made because of continued rains, threatening weather and wet seats which made it inadvisable to give an open air program, it was said.

The Fight by Rounds

Round One

Determined, Tunney whipped a solid right to Heeney's jaw. The challenger ducked and swarmed into Gene with short left and right hooks to the chin that drove the champion to the ropes. Heeney shot over a solid right to the head on the break. Sticking to his right hand, Gene crashed two rights on Heeney's jaw but a sweeping left hook almost bowled the champion from his feet. Tunney was out fast, stabbing with his left, but Tom beat both hands like a tattoo on Tunney's chin as they swapped in close. Gene ripped a solid right to Heeney's head, moved the challenger and Tunney was on the run as Tom ripped after him, both hands flailing to the head. There was a bad bruise over Tunney's left eye at the end of the round.

Round Two

Tunney, obviously startled at Heeney's fierce offensive, started boxing the challenger. He shot his left to Heeney's head but could not keep the bull dog of the Anzac away. Tuney blasted left and right into the sturdy head of the Hard Rock without causing a flicker of Heeney's eyelashes. Gene swapped with his challenger and ripped left and right hooks into the chin in a furious exchange. Tuney sparred as Tom ripped in. When Gene's left hook dropped low, Tom mentioned it, and Gene smiled and asked forgiveness. A second later they were crashing each other along one side of the ring in a slugging exchange of head clouts that rocked both on their heels. The bell broke up the exchange as the crowd stood and roared its approval.

Round Three

Absolutely unawed by the power in Tunney's newly found right, Heeney plodded into a right-handed exchange with the titleholder. Tom dropped his guard and stood before the champion, hands ready and daring another exchange. Gene accommodated him and they cracked lefts and rights, short vicious pokes that stung jaw and cheek. Gene didn't seem to like that and he bounced back on defense, spearing the challenger with a succession of lefts as Tom stalked after him. Tunney slipped, as Heeney swept a right hook to his head and nearly fell, but came back to firmer footing, without having been down and unhurt. Heeney slugged viciously at the champion's head while Tunney met his attack with solid left hooks to the body.

Round Four

Rising in sympathy with Heeney's unexpectedly determined onslaught the crowd bellowed the invader on as he whipped a short left and right into Gene's chin. Tunney bounced two rights off Tom's flinty chin and shot the challenger's head back with a stinging left hook. Gaining the upper hand decisively for the first time in the fight, Gene threw a right into Heeney's head with every ounce of his weight and strength behind it. This time Tom's eyelid actually fluttered and Tunney pressed his advantage with two crushing rights to the heart. Sensing the turn, with blood beginning to drip from a cut under his chin, Heeney tore savagely into the champion and nailed him to the ropes with a rocking volley to the head. Back to the hemp, in the same position as when Dempsey floored him last fall, Tunney fought vainly to sway out of danger but Heeney nailed him repeatedly on the head. The bell broke up the challenger's onslaught.

Round Five

Tunney smashed his right full under Heeney's heart but the Anzac seemed to like it, and bounded in close to sling at the champion's body. Gene drilled a left and right into Tom's rugged head and blood dribbled from the challenger's nose. Boxing cagily again on the defense, his natural style, Gene prodded the Anzac with jolts to the head and body as Tom sturdily ploughed into whatever punishment came his way. Tom slipped, as Tuney hooked him in a clinch but was up without a count. Tunney pecked at him steadily up to the bell.

Round Six

Heeney grazed the champion's body with a right. The champion landed a right under the heart. Heeney put a right to the head. They exchanged blows to the head and clinched. Heeney landed hard left to the body and then to the head and clinched. Heeney landed hard left to the body and the champion backed off. Gene landed left and rights to the body. Heeney backed the champion to the ropes and took a left to body and right to head for his efforts. Gene was jabbing away at the head with both fists and cutting the challenger up badly. They clinched. Heeney landed a right to the body and they fell into a clinch. The challenger appeared to be a bit groggy. Gene shook Tom with hard left to jaw. The champion was fighting a superb battle and wearing the challenger down.

Round Seven

Half a head shorter, Tunney was content to maul the challenger, killing the effectiveness of Tom's left hook by burying his right hard against his cheek as Tunney danced about, shearing Tom with his left. The Anzac missed frequently. His short arms going by Tunney's head. Tom caught the champion again near the ropes. Tunney's vital spot, and slashed a left and right to Gene's head. Gene wabbled a bit and tore out of the precarious position so fast that he landed in the center of the ring before Tom could get away from the ropes. Gene was boxing him easily, shearing him deftly with lefts.

Round Eight

Freshened by half a bucket of water poured over his head and a new haircomb, Tunney came out to hold the challenger helpless. Heeney's left eye swelled and nearly closed when something irritated it. Tom shook his head in desperation as he could hardly see from that eye. Finally he closed it of his own accord and tore into Tunney with one good eye. Quick to see his advantage Gene held the challenger a moment, looked over his difficulty and then pumped lefts and rights to Tom's head and body. Tom wobbled under the blows, but blood spurted from his nose as he lashed forward in one despairing effort. Tunney met his courageous attack with sharp left hooks right up to the bell.

Round Nine

Hardly able to see from his left eye, despite the ministrations, Heeney gallantly piled into the champion. It seemed dye from the tights had gotten on to Tunney's gloves and into the challenger's eye. Tunney stood and slugged with the challenger, but Tom got the worst of that, too, as Tunney's knifing lefts drummed on the Anzac's head, blood began to ooze from Heeney's battered left eye. A gorey sight and becoming garier, Heeney again summoned his strength for another surge and ripped his right and left to the champion's head.

Round Ten

Heeney's eye looked almost normal as he came out doggedly to battle the unmarred champion. Gene grabbed Tom as the Anzac lunged forward and sank a left and right in the body. The snap seemed to have disappeared from Heeney's punches and Tunney apparently had little desire to cut up the challenger further. Gene grabbed Heeney as the Anzac plunged in close and showered him with left hooks to the head and body. Tom reeled under full left and right hand clouts to the head. Plodding forward now by instinct, Heeney ran into a barrage and went down under a right to the head. As Heeney rolled unconscious almost from the ring, the bell rang, and ended the session. Heeney was out, flat on his back and had to be carried to his corner. His seconds had him restored for the next round.

Round Eleven

Tom came out with a left that missed and Tunney measured him for a final blow. Showing amazing recuperative powers, his head a mass of blood, Tom plunged again into Gene and was smashed with a right to the head. A right to the heart sent Tom reeling again. Tom could barely stagger in the close places. His back to the ropes, Tom blindly staggered forward. Tunney half kidding, stabbed him easily with a left and let him get away. Gene flayed Tom about the head on the ropes and Tom reeled under the punishment. The challenger was helpless.

Reinstatement of Bill Celebrated

French and Americans In Paris Are Pleased

PARIS, July 26. (UP)—Americans and French joined in a celebration tonight on the return to international competition of William T. Tilden, No. 1 ranking player of the United States, who will now carry the brunt of the battle against France in the Davis cup matches.

Tilden's reinstatement by the United States Lawn Tennis association, which suspended him from the Davis cup team recently because he violated amateur rules by writing newspaper articles, led Americans in Paris to believe that the most prized trophy in the tennis world is about to return to the United States.

"I am glad the authorities realized their error," Tilden said. "I shall do the best I can to win for America."

It is the general belief here that public opinion in France caused the American officials to take the action.

GALLOWAY TO HOSPITAL

DETROIT, July 26. (AP)—Chick Galloway, Detroit infielder, was taken to a hospital here today after being struck in the head by a ball pitched by Haskell Billings in batting practice before the Tiger-Yankee double-header.

U. S. ATHLETES WORKING HARD

Paddock Charges Dropped By British Delegate

By FRANK GETTY

AMSTERDAM, July 26. (UP)—With the latest squabble ironed out, the American team settled down to training in earnest today for the opening of the sixth Olympiad Sunday.

General Reginald Kentish, British Olympic delegate, announced he would make no further effort to have Charley Paddock, American sprinter, disqualified on the basis of a radio talk which Paddock was alleged to have made in the United States.

In that talk, Kentish said, Paddock told how four American sprinters at the 1924 Olympic games in Paris had agreed to make one false start each in the 100-meter race in an effort to tire out Harold Abrahams, the English star.

Paddock "Just Talking"

Paddock denied that he had made such a statement, explaining that he was merely outlining a hypothetical case to show the difference between professionalism and amateurism. Professional athletes, Paddock said, could resort to such tactics, but amateurs never did.

Eighteen American track men went to The Hague today to work out and found conditions ideal. All the hurdlers were making 9 seconds or better in the 70-yard high hurdles. Leighton Dye made the best time—8 4-5 seconds.

Joseph Tierney and Ray Barbuti had a fast trial run in the 400-meters with the former winning by a foot. The time was 49 1-5.

Harold Osborne and Robert W. King were satisfied to make around six feet in the high jump. That is higher than they had been able to go here because of the poor condition of the Olympic stadium.

Lloyd Hahn Ready

Lloyd Hahn, who is the mainstay of the American team in the 800 and 1,500 meters, wound up his heavy training today by doing a speedy 1,200 meters. From now on Hahn will confine himself to jogging and light sprints to keep his legs unlimbered.

American newspaper men have agreed on an unofficial point scoring system, under which first place will be worth ten points and the next five places, five, four, three, two and one point, respectively.

William Agee and Harvey Frick, marathon runners, covered 23 miles in fast time, but Joie Ray was satisfied to jog over three miles of the course.

Goat Raisers Choose Del Rio For Next Meet

SAN ANGELO, Texas, July 26. (AP)—Del Rio was chosen as the site of the 1929 convention of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' association of Texas at the close of the annual meeting here today. T. A. Kincaid of Ozona was re-elected president for his fifth consecutive term.

Roger Gillis, Del Rio, was named first vice president, and V. A. Brown, Rock Springs, second vice president. The secretary-treasurer will be selected at a meeting of the executive committee tonight

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

ANOTHER "CRUCIAL" series faces the Spudders today. Jim Galloway and his men open a three-day stand this afternoon at Houston and temporarily leadership of the Texas league, if not the ultimate deciding of the second half pennant, rests with these all-important games. President J. Alvin Gardner of the Spudders views the battles with the Buffs with equanimity. The Houston club has shown signs of breaking in recent games and the Spudder boss believes his men will win the series.

THAT THE GAMES at Houston will be intensely and bitterly fought is certain. Rivalry between the two clubs, marked this season with two fistic battles of opposing players and the hectic pennant chase now prevailing will have no result other than to offer more affairs to provide thrills for the Houston fans, even if it is nothing less than spectacular ball games.

I got down to the office early yesterday before anybody else was there and I'm seated at my desk trying to think how in the name of mud I'm going to fill this colyum, being as devoid of thought as a sports writer usually is. Well, I'm sitting there, looking into space and probably looking important, just like an office boy or an editor or some other important person but not like a sports editor.

They never look important and in fact they aren't important.

Well, in comes up to my desk a man and he sticks out his paw and I grabs it, not knowing what the idea is and thinking maybe I'm being initiated in a new lodge, like the Merry Order of the Razzberry. But I'm mistaken, because this man smiles genially, showing a row of teeth like T. R. used to, and hands me a cut like we run in newspapers.

"Mugga is m' name," he says, "Horace Roy Mugga. You of course know me. I'm candidate for weight inspector of soup, subject to the will of the people and the count of the votes, so help me Sears-Roebuck. Here's my cut. It's only a small one, just three columns and a very good likeness. I didn't want to put you people to the expense of making a cut and so here is this one, taken in 1906 when I was field marshal at the Annual Parade, Field Day and Barbecue of the Amalgamated Association of the Opponents of Strawberry Shortcake. I have an ad in your paper that I'm paying a dollar and 98 cents for, so please run this cut on the first page of your newspaper. And Horace Roy Mugga and his countless friends will appreciate it and I won't forget it when I'm elected. Have a cigar?"

All the time this discourse has been going on I'm trying to tell him I'm not the editor so when he finally gets out of breath and stops I break the sad news to him. Mr. Mugga glares at me.

"You're not the editor of the paper, eh," he says.

And with that he picks up the cigar he had given me and stalks out.

Anyhow, this column is filled.

SPUDDERS GAIN ON CONTENDERS

LAPAN'S HOMER IN NINTH WINS

Pete's Blow With One On Scores 6-5 Victory

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 26.—The Spudders strengthened their hold on first place today. Jim Galloway, with foresight and aided by luck, sent Pete Lapan to bat for Pete Turgeon in the ninth inning. Two were out, the Bears led, 5 to 4, and one runner was on base.

Pete responded with a home run over the right field wall and the Spudders won, 6 to 5.

Thus the Wichita Falls club is a game and a half ahead of Houston and three games in front of Dallas, after both contenders lost today.

The Spudders continued to bat hart, pounding Christian for 10 hits and fielded errorlessly their second straight day. Jenkins smashed three hits, including two triples.

Boggess and Nason of the Bears hit home runs.

The win gave the Spudders the series, two games in three, and they open a three-day stand Friday at Houston.

Kiefer, Estell and Shores hurled today. Shores worked the ninth inning only, striking out two of three men to face him and retiring them in order. Shores is given credit for the victory.

Honorable Cecil Storey

is the outstanding candidate for Representative to the Legislature from the 112th District, on account of many sound reasons, among which the following will be easily recognized by all who take constructive interest in our State Government:

BECAUSE he is a Native Texan (not a newcomer to this community), having spent all his years of manhood at Vernon, where his success has been made and where his sterling qualities were early recognized and respected;

BECAUSE he is intimately familiar with Texas laws and Texas history, with the worthy traditions and the daily habits and customs that make up the life of the people of this section, and has a wide and an understanding sympathy for the needs of this citizenship;

BECAUSE his schooling was in Texas institutions of learning, from public grade schools to State University, and because he has successfully passed the tests and demands of the school of experience by living close to the people, of every walk of life and line of endeavor;

BECAUSE he is neither too young for matured judgment nor too old for new thought and youthful enthusiasms, and because his courage has been always equal to the requirements of the occasion;

BECAUSE, by his legislative record in representing this district, he has demonstrated time and time again that he has the mental capacity, the parliamentary training and the moral stamina to carry forward a vigorous resistance to every legislative attempt to carry this State backward;

BECAUSE he commands the respect of every upright member of the State Legislature, and by and through that respect he has been able to render to this district a higher character of representation than could have been rendered in any other way;

BECAUSE his views and his position upon any public matter of importance can be learned by anybody by a simple inquiry; and because his views and actions invariably are sane, sound and sensible;

BECAUSE, when sectional questions perplex our legislature and divide our State into "East Texas" on one hand, and "West Texas" on the other, we then especially need strong, courageous, intelligent and respected native leadership and representation, by one who knows and loves and understands West Texas;

BECAUSE he does not need the office because he is poor, nor want the office because he is rich, for he is neither rich nor poor; although he has served, and offers to serve again, at a considerable financial loss to himself.

For these and for many other reasons, and because the voters of Wichita County have established the custom of electing a citizen of Wilbarger County to fill this office, in recognition of the fact that Wichita County has two other Legislative Representatives who reside in Wichita County; and also because Wichita County would suffer a great public loss if we should fail to return him to represent this district, the citizens of this City, County and District are earnestly urged to re-elect the Honorable Cecil Storey.

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 13 to 15 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables, with probably a little selling on reports of rains in the eastern belt. The rains in the Southwest were considered favorable, however, and the advance met heavy realizing, together with local and southern selling.

October, after selling up to 20.82 at the start, or about 25 points net higher, eased off 8 or 9 points from the best with the market comparatively quiet and steady at the end of the first hour.

Realizing sales attracted by the initial advance were readily absorbed and the marked advance on continued covering or rebuying by recent sellers influenced by reports of increasing boll weevil infestation in Alabama and apprehensions that the eastern and central belts were getting too much rain. October sold up to 20.94, with the general list showing net advances of about 37 to 39 points. The demand tapered off somewhat at this level and the market was quieter at midday with prices showing reactions of a few points from the best.

Futures closed steady, 39 to 43 points higher; spot steady; middling 21.15.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 26 (AP)—Cotton prices advanced today under trade buying induced by talk of increased weevil activity and reports of an over-abundance of rain. At the highest October traded at 20.38, or up approximately $2 a bale. The option closed at 20.34, or 36 points net up, with the general market steady at a net advance of 36 to 40 points.

Liverpool cables were 9 to 12 points better than due and first trades showed gains of 10 to 20 points.

Profit-taking was absorbed on setbacks of 7 to 11 points and the market started upward again for the remainder of the session, closing at or near the highs with October at 20.34, December 20.33 and January 20.26, or 36 to 40 points net up.

Oil Industry's Extreme Caution Is Seen in Small Gains On Price Hike

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, July 26.—Steel took the lead in another firm but quiet stock market, today. It was in steady demand from the opening as a result of the favorable reports from Pittsburgh and other steel centers and its consistent strength influenced better feeling throughout the speculative community. Trading was extremely light as many operators held off waiting on the reserve bank statements. Money held at 5¼ per cent. With a somewhat less supply in evidence a general belief existed that a higher rate would be in effect for over the week-end. Montgomery Ward and the other pool favorites evidenced somewhat better support and gained a little. Lively battle between the bulls and bears continued in General Motors and resulted in fractional advance for the session. Oils were helped by the announcement of advance in prices of crude oil and gasoline. Railroads were dull but firm with quiet accumulation in Missouri Pacific and others with a favorable earnings outlook indicated by increased car loadings.

Oil Shares Helped

The advances in the oil shares resulting from the price announcements were comparatively small as the best people in the industry are not wholly in favor of marking up quotations at this time. They recognize that if much further advance is made it will simply mean renewed burdensome production and big stocks in storage that will put the industry back where it was a year ago and require drastic corrective measures. Announcements were made of new directors to go on the Pressed Steel Car board who represent one of the strongest groups in the steel industry.

Every time the Durant brokers get General Motors started there is one floor broker who throws just enough stock at them to stop the move. That's the report from the floor which explains the market in motors in recent sessions. The broker selling is a member of one of the best known families of New York. The Durant group think he's hooked as they look for a record breaking earnings statement next week. The latest estimate as to motors income for the second quarter is the most bullish yet received. It indicates that net for the six months amounted to well over $9 a share and rather strengthens belief that earnings for the full year will run over $17 a share. As it now appears that the earnings statement will be issued at the same time the Steel earnings are made public next Tuesday the bulls remain cheerful in the face of money developments.

American Smelting Up

American Smelting enjoyed one of the best advances of the day on rumor that recapitalization is near. It was estimated that earnings for the first six months jumped over $15 a share. Other copper shares were firm but quiet. Hudson and other independent motors held to fractional range. Yellow Truck gained a little in the face of quite heavy offerings influenced by expectation that quarterly report to be issued next week would show another loss. Those holding most of the stock base their operations on what they think earnings will be in years to come and are not worried by current returns. Radio was moved higher against the shorts with expectation voiced that its quarterly report would be made public early next week.

Decline in broker's loans of $10,400,000 during the week was a pleasing surprise. It was entirely due to developments in the investment market, however, as the amount of credit used in stock dealings increased for the period reported on. It is the hope of the more powerful bankers that a quiet but orderly stock market can be maintained while further reduction is effected in the amount of unsold new securities. Thereby the necessary reduction in socalled brokers' loans would be brought about without so upsetting security markets as to undermine confidence in the general business world.

Sterling sold at a new low for the movement under continued offerings from abroad influenced by money developments here. Other foreign currencies were quiet and irregular. Wheat rallied strong toward the close on short covering with all options closing net higher for the day. Corn was in demand throughout and added to its gains. Cotton benefited further from receipt of news of storm weather in the South.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW.

KANSAS CITY, July 26 (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—No material price changes were registered on cattle at most points around the 11-market circuit. Trade on native grain feds was somewhat uneven, demand fairly broad for light weight yearlings and light weight steers, and narrow for matured steers. Western grass steers moved slowly to packers, shading values on the off-quality kind at some markets. Chicago scored $16.65 on choice yearlings, equalling the season's high mark paid at Omaha on Wednesday. Common to medium Kansas-grazed Texas steers at the river markets ranged from $9.75 to $12.50, kinds above $11.50 fairly well covered and scaling upward to 1,175 pounds. Total receipts of around 26,900 were about the same as a week ago and 2,000 less than the same day last year.

The supply of hogs was estimated at 69,200 as compared with 79,375 last Thursday and 83,511 a year ago. Decreased receipts stimulated shipping demand and the better grades were generally 10 to 15c higher. Packers were bearish, refusing to follow the pace set by shippers at several points. The extreme top of $11.70 was paid at St. Louis.

Fat lambs were on a steady to strong basis with a few markets reporting a slight upturn. Aged stock continued to hold at the same levels. Choice range lambs realized $15.35 while $15 was paid for Colorado rangers at Kansas City. Aggregate offerings were around 28,500, a 2,500 decrease from a week ago and a shortage of 10,500 from the same day last year.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.
By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, July 26 (US)—Grain futures, particularly September corn, turned sharply on the shorts today and began driving them to cover in a way that suggested a continuation of the wave of buying again, with higher prices.

At the close wheat was 1⅝c to 1⅞c up; corn was ½c to 3⅝c up; oats are ⅝c lower to 1⅜c higher; rye was 1c to 1⅝c up.

Presumably the incentive for the short covering was an order from the grain futures administration for a report on all open trades in July corn of 100,000 bushels or over.

But more than this, perhaps, the urge for short covering lay in the growing realization that if the handlers of the July bull deal are going to carry it through to fall September corn will at the end of this month step into the place occupied by the July future at present.

Under these circumstances the September future could easily sell much higher. It has undoubtedly been heavily sold. For months it was regarded as the proper short side of a spread between September and December. Innumerable traders began to sell September and buy December when those futures were about 16 cents apart. Now they appear to be caught.

Wheat opened sharply lower on the break at Liverpool, but it made its bottom prices for the day immediately and began to advance. There were rumors that a turn of hot weather in the Northwest and Canada might knock down some of the brilliant promises of the spring crop.

The biggest influence, however, probably was buying for foreign account which was said to have been going on in a big way for several days.

Wheat stuck to the upgrade, but looked toppy at times. Late in the session the December future got through the offers. It closed at just about the offers level.

If general covering of wheat sets in tomorrow along with covering in corn all the markets may show a good deal of strength. Wheat looked at the close today as if it might be a good buy on any early setback this morning.

The action of corn at the close suggested that it may be strong from the start.

Produce Prices Drop As Cotton Regains Level

The produce market in Wichita Falls was typified by upheavals which sent the general price trend downward. Onions dropped to 60 cents per dozen bunches, green beans slipped 2½ cents per pound and plums, grapes and cantaloupes all registered declines.

Cotton climbed 35 to 50 points on local markets, back to 20 cents. Small grains were unchanged, as were poultry and creamery prices.

HUMBLE POSTS FIRST BOOST

North Texas Price Raised 10-18 Cents

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Thursday's new schedule of crude prices issued by the Humble Oil and Refining company from its Houston headquarters whereby an advance ranging from 10 to 24 cents per barrel in the present price of North Central and West Texas crude was announced was welcomed by the producers and operators in the district.

The new price which is the first substantial boost to be made for the district's oil since Feb. 21, 1928, is thought by the majority of the fraternity to be but a forerunner of further advances that will become general throughout the entire Mid-continent field.

That the petroleum industry will no doubt receive further raises in the price for its output is indicated in a number of instances, namely the rapid falling off in the Seminole pool of Oklahoma that for the past two years has by its tremendous output daily, utterly demoralized the markets of the nation. Another good sign is seen in the heavy withdrawal of crude from the stocks in storage, especially is the case in the eastern and other light oil fields, with a gradual decline from the older pools a shortage of this grade crude but a question of a few months away.

A review of the new schedule posted by the Humble company shows the greater portion of the district's production receiving from 10 to 18 cents per barrel according to the various grades. The Archer, Wilbarger, Young, Wichita and other pools in the Wichita Falls area producing oil showing gravity of 37.9, 38.9, 39.9 and 40.9 baume. The local fields while producing 41.9 oil is of a negligible amount.

Late Thursday none of the major companies had met the Humble prices, but one or more of these are expected to fall in line within the next 24 hours. Following is the Humble bulletin of new prices effective at 7 a. m. Thursday:

Gravity	Old price	New price	Increase per bbl.
31.9	$1.09	$1.09	0 cents
32.9	1.16	1.16	0
33.9	1.19	1.21	2
34.9	1.22	1.26	4
35.9	1.25	1.31	6
36.9	1.28	1.36	8
37.9	1.31	1.41	10
38.9	1.34	1.46	12
39.9	1.37	1.51	14
40.9	1.40	1.56	16
41.9	1.43	1.61	18
42.9	1.46	1.66	20
43.9	1.49	1.71	22
44.9, above	1.52	1.75	23

The Humble bulletin follows:

Humble Oil and Refining company, effective 7 a. m. this morning, July 26, 1928, post following prices for North Texas, Ranger, Mexia, Powell, Richland, Wortham, Lytton Springs, Curry, Moran and Nocona crudes: $1.16 for 32 gravity with 5-cent increase for each degree above 32, top price $1.76 for 44 gravity and above and 7-cent decrease for each degree below 32 gravity, making minimum of 60 cents for crude below 25 degrees.

Gray County—96 cents for 32 gravity, with 5-cent increase for each degree above 32, with top price $1.56 for 44 degrees and above and 68 cents minimum for below 29 degrees.

Wheeler County—86 cents for 32 gravity, with 5-cent increase for each degree gravity, top price $1.46 for 44 gravity and above, with minimum of 65 cents for crude below 30 gravity.

Carson-Hutchinson Counties—76 cents for 32 degrees gravity, with 5-cent increase for each degree above 32, with top price $1.36 for 44 gravity and minimum of 69 cents for crude below 32.

Crane, Upton, Crockett and Pecos, all grades, 65 cents.

Depression Broken

TULSA, Okla., July 26. (UP)—Over a year of depression in crude oil prices of Oklahoma was broken today when the Carter Oil company of Tulsa posted increases in oil above 32 gravity.

The new prices on a sliding scale of five cents a barrel reach a maximum of $1.76 a barrel for 44 gravity oil.

This is an increase of about 25 cents a barrel for this gravity oil. The minimum increase posted by the Carter company was 67 cents for 25 gravity oil.

The posting became effective today and affects Oklahoma and Kansas crude.

The Humble Oil company followed with similar posting for Texas today.

The new posting was declared by Oklahoma oil men to be the most important happening in the oil industry in over a year.

Magnolia Petroleum company had received no notice of an increase from the Dallas, Texas headquarters. Virtually all major purchasers, however, are expected to follow suit.

Rapid withdrawal of stocks from the Mid-continent field was given as explanation for the increase.

The depression which started when the Seminole field was at its peak about two years ago and continued until 32 gravity oil was bringing only $1.16, was believed to have been broken definitely by the new posting.

Low gravity crude, under the new price list, decreases 7 cents a barrel for each degree under 32 gravity to a low mark of 67 cents for 25 gravity crude.

If other companies follow Carter a renewal of activities in Kansas and Oklahoma where the new posting applies, is expected.

Auto Kills Watchman Who Gave Train Singal

CHICAGO, July 26. (US)—Gottleib Steek, railroad grade crossing watchman, was run down and killed today by a party of joy riders whom he sought to save from an approaching train.

The driver of the car, who first ignored the warning signal and then realized it was futile to race the train to the crossing, swerved his car, struck Steek and hurled him to death beside the tracks. They waited until the train passed, and then sped away, ignoring the body of the man who warned them.

Small Donations Filter Into Republican Fund

WASHINGTON, July 26. (UP)—Republican headquarters announced today small donations for the campaign fund are beginning to pour in. The smallest contributions have been two for 50 cents each. There have been some worn dollar bills pinned to notes expressing confidence in a Republican victory.

LITTLE RIVER COPS INTEREST

Two Dozen Wells are Now Standardizing

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., July 26.—Interest in the Greater Seminole field is still centered on the Little River pool, where 26 of the 125 operations are standardizing.

Between now and Aug. 15 all of the 26 and many others should be completed and allowed to produce at the rate of 100 barrels per day until Aug. 15, after which they will be permitted to flow at the rate of 1,600 barrels per 40 acres and 800 barrels per 20 acres. This rate of production is to continue until Sept. 10, when a plan of proration on the basis of acreage and potentiality will be put into effect

Output Off Again

Daily production of the whole field was off 628 barrels Wednesday to 237,130 barrels from 1,097 wells, compared with 237,758 barrels on Tuesday from the same number of wells. The comparative production report follows:

Valera Hopes for Growth After 'Strike'

Special to The Record News.

COLEMAN, Texas, July 26.—Sandwiched between high gravity oil production on three sides, now that the Henshaw Oil corporation's No. 1 Harris is virtually assured of developing into a well, Valera, long a western Coleman county agriculture buying and trading community of less than 500 inhabitants, was brushing the sleep from its eyes, hoping that the Henshaw No. 1 Harris would be the starter of a revamped existence.

Old-timers in the village were recalling interesting events of the past in the life of the community dating everything from the Valera bank robbery several years ago and the way in which Theo. Griffin released himself from the vault, where the intruders had placed him, with a screw driver thoughtfully placed in his hands by one of the fleeing bandits.

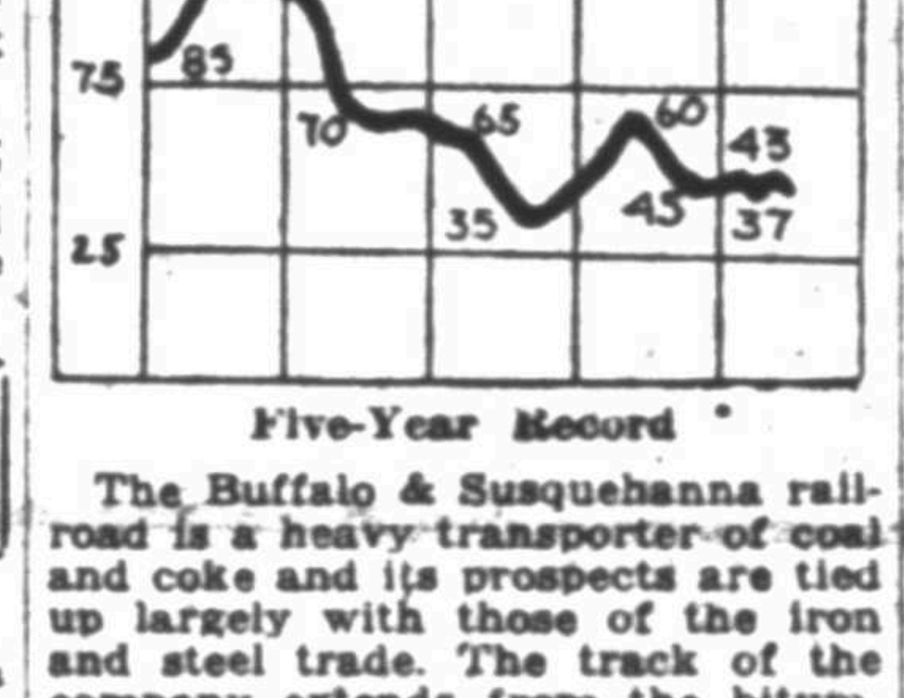

First in the evolution of Valera's quickened pulse was the Continental Oil company-M. G. Cheney discoveries on the Overall ranch, but that production was three miles east. Then Roth and Faurot drilled into a heavy flow of gas on the Sealy and Smith estate, later drilling an oil well and then a second gasser, bringing both oil and gas to within two miles of the city limits. Finally with the Henshaw strike, less than one mile south of Valera, the citizens there are seeing visions of growing to a semi-oil center and believe that the visions are not idle dreams, if the No. 1 Harris fulfills its present indications.

Like the fairy princess in the night, oil has often elevated struggling communities to average sized cities and Valera is gaining hope in what in the beginning of oil development in Coleman county appeared a shot at the moon.

STOCK-A-DAY

BUFFALO & SUSQUEHANNA RAILROAD CORP.

Five-Year Record

The Buffalo & Susquehanna railroad is a heavy transporter of coal and coke and its prospects are tied up largely with those of the iron and steel trade. The track of the company extends from the bituminous coal fields near Sagamore and Dubois, Pa., to connect with the Erie and New York Central. In addition to owning a railroad, the company controls coal and coke properties. The main line totals 218.22 miles and it leases approximately 20 miles more.

Since 1920 the company has reported an operating deficit which has been more than offset by other income. The latter has been derived chiefly from rentals for the use of its equipment. For the last three years, net income has not been sufficient to cover preferred dividends although the trend has been upward. The company earned a net of $145,000 in 1927, compared with $124,000 in 1926.

The funded debt is about 75 per cent of the property valuation and consists of $4,525,900 in 4% first mortgage gold bonds. Capital stock outstanding consists of $4,000,000 in 4% cumulative preferred shares of $100 par, and $3,000,000 in common shares of $100 par. The two classes of stock have equal voting power.

Dividends have been paid on the preferred stock regularly at the required rate. On the common stock 6% was paid in 1925, after which dividends have been discontinued.

As of January 1, 1928, total current assets amounted to $740,431; current liabilities were $296,098, and net working capital $444,333. Book value applicable to the common stock amounted to $136.16 a share.

BAR SPEAKERS PROBE FUTURE

Noted Experts Review Fifty Years of Progress

SEATTLE, July 26. (UP)—The last 50 years of progress in the fields of religion, science, medicine and education, marked by a development unequalled in any like period in the secular history of the world, have brought each of these great fields to the same situation, namely the threshold of a new progress, extension and expansion the like of which is probably beyond human imagination.

This conclusion was reached by a doctor, an educator, and engineer, and a preacher, who delivered a symposium before a group of the most distinguished lawyers in the country at the opening of the annual convention of the American bar association here.

Dr. William Allen Pusey of Chicago was the physician.

"With our present knowledge," he said, "and the means at our command for the study of diseases, it is not fantastic to say that the control of all of them is now within the possibility of our accomplishment."

Dr. John H. Finley of the New York Times was the educator.

"To me," said Dr. Finley, "the word of prophesy of the highest import that these 50 years have spoken is that education is not for the infant, the child, or the youth alone, but that it is a life process that is largely self-education."

The preacher was Dr. Ozora S. Davis of Chicago, president of the Chicago Theological seminary and moderator of the National Council of Congregational churches in the United States.

"We are coming with a new vision and understanding," he said. "This is not wrought by the surrender of ecclesiastical convictions; it does not mean that all religions are equally true; but it does affirm with new conviction that God hath made of one every nation of men, that they should seek God, for in Him we live and move and have our being."

F. B. Jewett, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and president of the Bell Telephone laboratories, represented the fields of science and engineering.

"In the past 50 years," Jewett said, "scientists and engineers have evolved out of their growing needs, a powerful machinery for acquiring and applying new knowledge. In addition they have made a beginning, at least, in organizing their knowledge and facilities to make them available to the masses."

The basis of all—or nearly all—of the progress made in medicine in the last half century was due to the experiments and discoveries of Louis Pasteur, made a little more than 50 years ago, Dr. Pusey said.

"Pasteur's work converted a germ theory of disease to a germ knowledge of disease," he said.

"The total of our progress (in 50 years) is best shown," he averred, "by the fact that the length of life in civilized communities have been increased over 20 years—from an average of 35 years formerly, to 58 years now."

There are five times as many children being educated for a longer school year and for more school years now than in 1878, Dr. Finley said, and the cost of education in the United States has increased more than twenty fold—from $80,000,000 to $2,000,000,000.

Without attempting to give any encyclopedic outline of the immense progress of engineering and machinery during he last five decades, Jewett said that the results of it all was only a scratch on the surface of what it will be, that all of the machinery and development of scientific and engineering theories and laws to the present state of amazing perfection has only added a pleasure and fullness to the lives of men, which, after all, have changed but little.

CHECKER MEET AT CLARENDON

Competition Opens First Week in August

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, July 26.—Jim Morris, president of the local checker club, announces that the club here will be host to the Panhandle players on the second Tuesday in August. Mr. Morris says the invitation includes all players anywhere in the Panhandle section bounded by Childress and Parmer counties on the south and extending to the north state line. Prizes will be offered for the winners in three classes of play to be divided upon the ability of the player. This meet will take the place of the usual Amarillo meet which will not be held this year and which has been known as the Panhandle checker tournament.

E. M. Lindsey, local municipal band director, is at present champion of the Panhandle, having won the honor at the last meet held in Amarillo two years ago. Morris, who has just returned from the state meet at Dallas, where he was in the finals, says he expects a large atetndance for the meet here.

"Aerial golf" in which an aviator is partnered by a man on the ground, who putts the ball after the former has dropped it from the air as near the green as possible, has been played on a New York golf links.

STRAND: Monte Blue in "Brass Knuckles," a vitaphone picture. Two vitaphone shorts. Pathe news.

MAJESTIC: Last times of Reginald Denny in "Good Morning Judge." Inkwell Imp cartoon. Pathe news. Comedy.

OLYMPIC: Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in "The Big Killing." Fox news. Hal Roach comedy.

MISSION: "13 Washington Square." Comedy.

GARDEN: "Man In the Rough." Serial. Comedy.

GEM: "Thunderbolt's Tracks." Serial. Comedy.

"The Big Killing," with Raymond Hatton and Wallace Beery, is bringing down the house with laughter at the Olympic. The play is a burlesque on melodrama.

"Glorious Betsy," one of the biggest of the vitaphone pictures, and one that is announced as having more talking than any of its predecessors, has been announced by Manager Hans Smith for presentation at the Strand theater the week starting Friday, August 3.

The New York Times of Monday shows "The Lion and the Mouse," vitaphone super feature, in the spotlight in New York at Warner's palacial New York house at $2 top. It was presented in Wichita Falls several weeks ago at a price which would allow the entire family to see the above show for the price of a single ticket on Manhattan island.

The same issue of the same paper reviews the opening of Bebe Daniels in "Hot News," at the world famous Paramount theater on Times square. This picture was presented here recently at the Majestic.

Here are some of the others listed in the more famous of Broadway's houses:

"The Racket," at the Rialto.

"Wings," at the Criterion.

Adolphe Menjou in "His Tiger Lady," at the Lexington.

John Barrymore in "The Tempest," at the Embassy.

Ramon Navarro in "A Certain Young Man," at the State.

Dolores Del Rio in "The Red Dance," at the Globe.

A recheck of this list will show that Wichita Falls has not fared so badly, for a number of these pictures already have had their Wichita Falls presentation—and they are STILL running in New York.

It would be silly to say that we are beating Broadway and it would be illogical. But it is certain that we are getting new pictures, at popular prices, as soon as New York in many instances, and that practically none of our pictures at the first run houses are old when we have our first chance to view them.

Clara Bow is billed in a picture so entirely different from those in which she has been starred recently that the Majestic fans Saturday probably will gasp when they see it. It is "Ladies of the Mob" and is a melodrama.

Monte Blue and Betty Bronson are opening in "Brass Knuckles" at the Strand theater Friday. It is the tale of a crook who wasn't so crooked.

Pointing to the Young Rajah, hypnotist, who will open at the Mission Saturday, all efforts are being made to make the opening a big one. The hypnotist is to be here for only two days.

The "dog days" are in July and part of August. They are so called because Sirius, the dog-star, most brilliant of all the fixed stars, then rises and sets in the daytime and not at night.

SCHOOLS RATED AT CHILDRESS

Four Standard Ratings Are Awarded

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 26.—Following the visit of the state inspector of schools, four additional Childress county schools were rated as standard rural schools. At the time the schools were inspected in March of this year, nine schools were visited and each scored more than the necessary number of points but several were unable to meet the requirement of an eight months school term.

It was necessary for each school to score at least 800 points out of a possible 1,000, and the points must be distributed over different departments to insure proper balance. An eight months schools terms is necessary to become a standard rural school.

The schools which were rated as standard rural schools are: Gilpin, Highpoint, River Camp and Valley View.

The schools which were visited and scored at the same time include the following, with their scores: Garden Valley, 942; Community Center, 935; Gilpin, 929; Arlie, 900; River Camp, 894.5; Valley View, 884.5; Highpoint, 847; Cedar Hill, 810; Mountain View, 503.

The rural schools of Childress county are making rapid progress and since efforts at standardization were undertaken a number of the schools have been given the rating as standard schools. Consolidations have been made and this county now has several first class consolidated schools and the schools which are not included in the consolidated districts are in the best of condition.

First Cargo of Wheat Sails To Rotterdam

GALVESTON, Texas, July 26. (AP)—The first full cargo of grain from the gulf moved from Galveston Thursday aboard the British steamship Troutpool, destined for Rotterdam with 280,000 bushels of wheat.

Flying Marines Bomb Sandino's Rebel Camp

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 26. (UP)—Heavy casualties were inflicted on a force of rebels today when a squadron of marine planes bombed a camp of soldiers under command of Augustino Sandino, rebel leader. The planes were subject to heavy machine gun and rifle fire but were not greatly damaged.

The squadron of planes under command of Major Ross E. Rowell, circled the camp situated about 50 miles northeast of Mura on the Honduran frontier, dropping bombs. Five of the marine planes were struck by rifle fire.

Geo. A. Smoot
Candidate for
Judge of 78th District Court
Twenty years a practicing attorney in your county—I advocate:
1. Speedy trials of all criminal cases.
2. That all civil cases should be set down in regular order and tried.
3. I am emphatically opposed to holding jurors over in idleness at an enormous expense to the county.
4. I believe in appointing the best and most competent auditor possible to administer the county's business.
If you endorse the above, I will appreciate your support.

A Public Officer Who Has Served Two Years as First Assistant District Attorney of Wichita County; Who Has Put Action Into the Trial of Cases; Who Has Never Shirked a Responsibility; Who Always Showed a Willingness to Work; Who Has Demonstrated His Ability as a Prosecutor.

(Read an excerpt from a recent letter written by Mr. Fruechte in answer to an inquiry by a friend.)

. . . "Should I be elected, I will go into the office unfettered, unchained and not bound to any individual or set of individuals. I have made no promises to anyone and if I must make any promises and bind myself to insure success, then I will be pleased to go down into defeat.

"As you well know whatever rung on the ladder of life I have reached, I have gotten there through my own efforts. I have learned from experience that too many promises are merely bait. I have no promises to make what I will do should I be favored with the honor I seek except to say that I will do my duty faithfully and honestly. I feel that my work in the office during the past two years as First Assistant is sufficient evidence as to how I will conduct myself should I be successful.

. . . "I have always had implicit confidence in my fellow man to reward anyone for honesty, willingness to work, faithfulness and qualifications and for that reason I have no fear as to the outcome of the Democratic primary on the 28th of this month."
