Pair Named in Odessa Bank Case Held For Rankin Slayings

EMORY, Raines County, Texas, Nov. 19. (AP)—Suit for $100,000 was filed against the Texas Bankers association, its members and others here today as a result of the killing of William Carl Hansen at Odessa, Texas in an alleged bank robbery.

The action was entered by Mary Hansen, widow of the slain man, who named officers and members of the Texas Bankers association; Reeder Webb, sheriff of Ector county; A. C. Francis, sheriff of Midland county; Bud Barfield, sheriff of Upton county, and J. W. B. Hogan as defendants.

Hansen was slain in the asserted robbery, which occurred Nov. 25, 1927.

Hogan, and "Red" Wood and J. H. Dumas entered into a conspiracy to "frame" the robbery of the Citizens National bank in Odessa for the purpose of killing William Carl Hansen and another person, whose identity is unknown, to obtain the rewards.

The case will be called for trial in district court here Dec. 3.

Dumas and Wood are under Upton county indictments charging murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the slaying of two supposed bank robbers at Rankin, Texas. Ranger Captain Frank Hamer largely was instrumental in the return of the bills. Shortly before the grand jury, he issued a signed statement from Austin charging a "murder ring" had sprung up to collect rewards offered by the bankers association.

MISSISSIPPI BREAKS LEVEES

Father Of Waters Joins In Menacing Floods

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 19. (AP)—Overflowing streams were spreading death and destruction in five states tonight and the mighty Mississippi river itself was out of its banks along the borders of Missouri and Illinois.

Rainfall of unprecedented proportions for this time of the year brought Kentucky and Illinois into the flood belt during the day and increased the seriousness of the situation in Missouri, while communities in Eastern Kansas and a portion of Oklahoma were recovering slowly from the most disastrous November flood on record.

Three deaths in Kentucky, where the Cumberland river was on a rampage, and two more reported in Kansas brought the total known dead to 17.

Property damage already was estimated at more than $10,000,000. Several thousand families were homeless with a cold wave and snow in some places adding to their misery.

Three employes of a coal company were swept to death near Pineville, Ky., when a bridge over the Cumberland river was carried away.

Swollen by 36 hours of rain, the stream invaded the business district of Middlesboro and flooded dwellings in the low parts of Pineville, Harlan and Barbourville. More than 700 persons were forced to flee their homes in Harlan.

The Kentucky river left its banks and flooded homes and business buildings in Neon.

At Quincy, Ill., the Mississippi river had reached flood stage and was pouring through broken levees, inundating thousands of acres of farm land. There were unverified reports that three persons had drowned. The flood from the Mississippi and its tributaries had taken a heavy toll in livestock and damage to farm lands in this area estimated at $1,000,000.

The Missouri river was reaching the flood stage across the whole of Missouri and threatened inundation of a large acreage of bottom land in the vicinity of St. Louis. The Grand river and other streams were on a rampage and many rail lines and highways were blocked in the state.

LAW REQUIRING KLAN TO FILE NAMES UPHELD

FIERY OPINION GIVEN

Secret Practices of Hooded Order Bitterly Attacked By Highest Tribunal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. (US)—In an opinion fiery with criticism of the Ku Klux Klan, the supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the Walker law, which requires unincorporated secret societies in New York state to file their oath, by-laws and membership lists with the secretary of state.

The opinion was read by Justice Van Devanter, with Justice McReynolds dissenting on the ground that the court was without jurisdiction.

Nation-Wide Attention

The case was carried to the highest tribunal by George W. Bryant of Buffalo, a member of the klan who was convicted of violating the law by failing to file the required information. He contended the Walker law was in violation of the 14th amendment to the constitution, in that it "deprived him of life, liberty or property without due process of law." The case had attracted nation-wide attention.

Reviewing decisions by lower courts, Justice Van Devanter pointed out that in one case the court declared it to be "a matter of common knowledge that the klan functions largely at night, its members disguised by hoods and gowns and doing things calculated to strike terror into the minds of the people." He added:

Powers in Decision

"If so it was advised that the order was a revival of the Ku Klux Klan of an earlier time with additional features borrowed from the Know-Nothing and the A. P. A. orders of other periods; that its membership was limited to native-born, gentile, Protestant whites; that in

Stores in Communities To Close For Visit Of Celebrants

Bringing to a successful close the most outstanding chapter of railroad building in the Southwest during the past decade six special trains will be run Tuesday and Wednesday over the new South Plains extension of the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad.

Members of the local delegation are scheduled to arrive in Childress early Tuesday morning where a rousing welcome awaits them. From that point they will continue on the two-day trip to the lower Panhandle country and the Llano Estacado or the Great Staked Plains of Texas.

The bodies were found by Reeso when he returned home after working his route for a dairy. He left home at 4 o'clock this morning. The murder is believed to have been committed shortly thereafter.

Despite evidences of robbery in the ransacked house, police believe the double murder was the deed of a lunatic with a mania for killing, possibly the same person who killed J. W. Blackman, 74, Sunday morning while he slept at his home.

SOUTH TEXAS C-C IN MEET

Agriculture and Industry Are Discussed

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 19. (AP)—Greater cooperation for plans embracing South Texas agricultural, ranching and industrial expansion was urged by three speakers here today at the opening of the second annual South Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

Speakers on today's program were: O. W. Killam, retiring president; Congressman John Garner, representative of the 15th district; Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas chamber; W. N. Blanton, manager of the East Texas regional organization; C. W. Wheatley, president of the Texas division of the Izaak Walton league; M. W. Brennan, Laredo; Pablo Pena, mayor of Nuevo Laredo; Robert Lee Bobbitt, speaker of the Texas house of representatives; the Rev. Charles W. Cook; Arthur Burnett, vice president of the San Antonio chamber, and Mrs. R. G. Coulter of San Antonio.

Review of Year

Killam reviewed the activities of the regional body during the last year, stressing work that organization has pushed and urging greater cooperation for the program for the future.

He cited possibilities of irrigation in South Texas, declaring that numerous garden spots had sprung up where water was available. Self satsifaction at what the section already has is one of the deterring factors, he said, and urged that the nature of the soil and drainage facilities be given a chance to produce by taking advantage of water facilities available from rain fall and rivers.

Inland Waterway

Garner forecast an inland waterway from the Atlantic seaboard to Corpus Christi, which would benefit inland South Texas through faster movement of freight to world ports.

He also said the lower Rio Grande valley will have deep water within the next few years, and that difficulties now existing between communities would be settled.

In the event he becomes minority leader, he will join Republicans in support of a farm relief bill as well as in whatever efforts they may make toward revision of the agricultural schedule of the tariff bill the representative said.

Judd Gray's Ghost Book Written 'Too Well,' Say Literary Critics

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (UP)—Judd Gray's "ghost" book is full of "ghost writing," literary critics hinted today after reading the volume which Albert Snyder's murderer is supposed to have written while awaiting execution in Sing Sing.

The critics pointed to the erudite references to obscure European writers, to the flowing, gaudy style of the writing and ventured the question of whether the little corset salesman who died because he loved Ruth Snyder too well, could have penned such flaming phrases.

The title of the book is "Doomed Ships." It is filled with strange contradictions about Ruth Snyder who died in the electric chair for the same crime as Gray. In one paragraph he pictures her as a siren whom he could not resist; in another place he said, "she had the bluest, most glistening eyes I have ever beheld—I can see her now—magnetic," and goes on to explain she was so sensitive that she wept because he was "so kind" in rubbing camphorice on her sunburned shoulders.

Gray's book confirms the fact that he refused to altar his story to help Mrs. Snyder obtain a new trial.

SUCCESSOR TO CURTIS SOUGHT

Senators Look Around For New Floor Leader

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. (AP)—The problem of choosing a majority leader to succeed Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, vice president-elect, is giving Republican members of the senate some political pastime after the serious labors of a national campaign.

An apparently friendly contest which is still a free-for-all is being waged in behalf of some of the older Republican senators with the names of Senators Watson of Indiana; Jones of Washington; McNary of Oregon; Fess of Ohio; Moses of New Hampshire, and Reed of Pennsylvania, among those under discussion.

Seniority has always been the guiding light in the determination of senate posts but this has been waived in recent years in the selection of the party leader. When Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, died four years ago, Senator Curtis was chosen as his successor although he was outranked in seniority by Senators Warren of Wyoming; Smoot of Utah, and Borah of Idaho.

These three veterans have indicated again that they prefer the chairmanships of their important committees to the cares of a floor leader and so the contest has been thrown wide open once more.

FOUR ARRESTS IN GEM RING

Smugglers Held for Plot At New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (INS)—Arrests in an alleged international jewel smuggling ring were brought up to four today when, in addition to William Ballyn, choir singing chief steward of the Cunard liner Berengaria, and a policeman, special agents of the U. S. treasury department detained a prominent jeweler and his daughter in connection with a $100,000 gem seizure yesterday.

It is reported that further investigation has revealed a conspiracy to smuggle millions of dollars worth of precious gems into this country from Europe.

The policeman arrested is John T. McIntyre, who was on traffic duty outside of the Cunard line pier.

Morris Landau, diamond merchant, and his daughter, Frances, 22, were the two latest prisoners in the gigantic plot through which the special agents of the treasury department say more than $1,000,000 worth of gems have been illegally brought into this country in the last year.

Miss Landau works for her father as a bookkeeper.

All are to be arraigned before a United States commissioner during the day. Meantime the agents have promised two more arrests in the case.

Proposed Bill Would Pay Farmers' Losses

AUSTIN, Nov. 19. (AP)—A bill will be introduced in the 41st legislature, providing that the state help pay cotton farmers of 13 West Texas counties for their losses under the federal and state restrictions imposed this season to stamp out pink boll worms, State Representative Henry Webb of Odessa, said here today.

Webb did not know what the losses will amount to nor how much appropriation the bill will call for.

Army and Navy to Investigate Fires

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (INS)—Army and navy boards of inquiry today are investigating two fires that broke out simultaneously Sunday imperiling the Brooklyn navy yard and the Mitchel field army aviation base with damage estimated at $300,000.

While the officials have not yet officially linked up the two fires, the similar circumstances aroused suspicion. One blaze broke out in an empty four-story warehouse near the navy yard; the other in a vacant building near the aviation camp.

Soldiers saved five new amphibian Curtiss planes at the aviation base.

Dry Law Enforcement Expected to Be Shifted to Department of Justice

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. —Transfer of the prohibition enforcement unit from the treasury to the department of justice is to take place July 1, 1929, the first of the next fiscal year. A definite understanding has been reached on this subject by leaders of the administration and the necessary legislation is to be enacted at the approaching short session of congress.

As constituted at present the prohibition enforcement unit is a bureau in the treasury department. It was placed there when the Volstead law was enacted because it had been the treasury, through the internal revenue bureau, which had been charged with the duty of combatting "moonshining," then largely restricted to the mountainous sections of the Southeast, as well as making war on smugglers. Despite the expansion of the prohibition unit and the mounting appropriations for its maintenance the illicit liquor industry has grown faster than the means for curbing it and this has created much dissatisfaction on the part of the "drys."

Mellon Attacked

The fact that Secretary Andrew W. Mellon at one time was interested in the liquor business has made him the object of repeated attack both by prohibitionists and politicians. The former have been insisting for several years that enforcement would be more effective if the agencies of detection were placed under the jurisdiction of the department charged with the duty of prosecuting. This finally has found favor with those in authority and it is understood an agreement has been reached for the transfer of the prohibition unit, providing the requisite legislation can be enacted.

It is not anticipated that congress will offer serious objections. In fact the disposition of congress has been to order this transfer even though the movement were not initiated by the executive branch of the government and was restrained from doing so last spring by the leaders who felt nothing should be done which might tend to make liquor a campaign issue. With the election over, however, and the administration willing there is every reason to believe congress will act favorably on the suggestion.

It is intimated in well informed circles here that the proposed transfer has the approval of President-elect Herbert Hoover and it is not unlikely that this is true. It is known that he had a conference several days ago with Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general having charge of law enforcement, and while dispatches from Palo Alto, Calif., quoted her as telling newspapermen that no questions of public policy were discussed it is significant that immediately thereafter it became known this transfer would have executive approval.

Supply Bills Drafted

The house appropriations committee is now engaged in drafting the various supply bills for the government and which, when enacted by congress, become effective July 1. It is not anticipated, however, that the proposed change will be reflected in these and it is assumed that the treasury bill will carry the recommended allottment for prohibition enforcement. However, when congress passes the bill making the transfer it is expected it will carry a provision likewise transferring authority for expenditure of these funds from the treasury to the department of justice.

General Motors to Make Big Shifts

DETROIT, Nov. 19. (UP)—Changes of the greatest importance in the official personnel of the General Motors corporation are in the offing, according to reports in high automotive circles, the Detroit Times says today.

Alfred P. Sloan, president, is scheduled to become chairman of the board of directors and Fred J. Fisher, vice president, is slated to fill the position now occupied by Sloan, it is reported.

The changes are being brought about by the retirement of John J. Raskob, as chairman of the finance committee and as a member of the executive committee, and by the wish of Pierre S. DuPont to retire as chairman of the board of directors.

Fred J. Fisher has been identified with General Motors since the Fisher Body corporation was absorbed and is now vice president. During the past two years he has become one of the important figures in Wall street.

VARE'S CASE TO BE SETTLED

Short Session Will End Long Dispute

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. (INS)—The fate of Senator-elect William S. Vare, Republican of Pennsylvania, barred from the senate for the last year, will be settled at the coming short session of congress, it was learned today, if senate leaders have their way.

The Vare case has developed into a two-cornered fight, with William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor, fighting for Pennsylvania's junior senatorial mantle. Wilson charged fraud in Vare's victory and claimed the election.

Vacancy Indicated

All indications point to the senate denying Vare his seat and to the rejection of Wilson's contest. This would result in a vacancy in Pennsylvania's representation in the senate and lead to an appointment pending the next election.

The lone chance for a postponement of a decision in the contest until the next session of the new congress would result from indications that a Democratic-Insurgent alliance planned to unseat Vare and seat Wilson. Under such circumstances, the regular Republican organization would block a vote until the new senate meets, when they will have a much greater strength than in the present senate.

Oath Refused

The Vare hopes for victory were destroyed last winter when the senate by a record vote, refused to give him his oath of office. Although the senate decreed, in the resolution adopted at the time, that this action did not prejudice Vare's case, the preponderant majority against seating him indicated only a miracle could reverse this judgment.

The Vare cas lost ground ever since then, due to a lack of leadership. In the beginning, Senators Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, and Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, led the fight for the Pennsylvanian, but neither has had much success in such contests. The other Republican leaders have abandoned his cause, ever since he led the bolt to Herbert Hoover's candidacy at the Kansas City convention. At that time, it was rumored Hoover would aid him but this report has proven unfounded.

Nicer But Cheaper Turkeys to Be On America's Thanksgiving Table

CHICAGO, Nov. 19. (UP)—More and better turkeys for the nation's feast table this Thanksgiving were forecast today in reports to commission houses here from the plains states where the gobbling of doomed fowl has become music to the natives.

The Thanksgiving turkey won't cost any more this year than it did in 1927—between 55 and 60 cents a pound—but thanks to Uncle Sam, it will be a much nicer utrkey. The commission men don't take credit for that. The government imposed restrictions on the Texas crop, permitting only the very best fowl to leave the state, and the government gets the glory.

Otherwise this promises to be a fairly normal Thanksgiving.

Warm weather has slowed up the shipment of turkeys into Chicago. Birds "on the hoof" are coming in in large numbers now and "off hoof" turkeys will begin arriving Nov. 24. They should be in the hands of retailers a week from tomorrow.

Fewer From Texas

Feeding conditions this autumn have been better than usual and that as well as the government curtailment of low grade shipments will add to the quality of the feast next week.

Fewer turkeys come from Texas now than from other parts of the country. Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa have come into their own as big turkey raising states.

Geese also are plentiful this year as are ducks, guineas, Alaskan reindeer, chinchilla rabbits, English venison, bear meat and capon. The commission men hope we don't all feel bound to serve turkey as large quantities of other good foods are going to be on sale too.

Chinchilla rabbits which sell for 50 and 60 cents the pound are considered a delicacy. They are milk fed and although raised for their fur their meat is as tender as that of a chicken.

Venison $1 Pound

English venison will advance to $1 the pound and bear meat to 75 cents about 48 hours before Thanksgiving.

Other ingredients and accessories of seasonal feasting—except liquids, which will be discussed in another dispatch at a later date—are unchanged over last year to cheaper. Maurice Aaron, who has been catering to the American appetite for feathered foods for the last 43 years, estimated that a family of five could stuff itself to the bursting point at an outside cost of $8. Here is the menu and costs as Aaron drew them up:

Turkey (8 pounder, allowing enough for two days of hash)	$4.50
Potatoes, sweet and Irish	.25
Celery	.25
Cranberries for sauce	.30
Nuts	.50
Pumpkin for pies	.35
Coffee, soup, etc.	1.00
Total	$7.15

Shawnee Banker Gets 18 Months in Prison

GUTHRIE, Okla., Nov. 19. (UP)—Wallace Estill Jr., former president of the National bank of Shawnee, now defunct, today was sentenced to 18 months in federal prison by Judge John H. Cotteral. Estill was charged with conspiracy to violate the national banking laws.

The former bank president pleaded guilty to the charge 34 months ago. He was indicted with Jess M. Caldwell and Russell S. Caldwell and other officers of the bank in April, 1925. The bank failed in 1924. The two Caldwells were acquitted after four trials.

Bet Loser Hit By Auto As He Pushes Peanut

HARLINGEN, Texas, Nov. 19. (AP)—In addition to bruised knees, a stiff back and a rather tender nose, Bill Williams, election bet loser, today was nursing a wrenched wrist and a slight scalp wound as he continued rolling a peanut toward Harlingen from Rio Hondo, 11 miles.

Williams lost a half day on his schedule, by which he must roll the nut with his nose the 11 miles, when a negro woman in an automobile struck him yesterday. Williams had covered five miles, and after his wound had been dressed at a hospital, he went home.

He resumed his push this morning.

Quarantine on Five Counties to Be Lifted

AUSTIN, Nov. 19. (AP)—Quarantine established by the livestock sanitary commission because of fever tick infestation, has been ordered lifted from Bexar, Bowie, Burnet, Karnes, Lampasas, Lavaca, Wilson and Zavalla counties, effective Dec. 1. The tick has been eradicated in these counties, according to the proclamation by Governor Moody.

BRITISH NAVAL CRUISE

LONDON, Nov. 19. (UP)—Naval circles today discussed the projected world cruise of a British naval squadron which would include at least one of Britain's two greatest and newest battleships, either the Nelson, 33,500 tons, or the Rodney, 33,900 tons. Their main armaments include nine 16-inch guns.

Labor President Attacks Critics

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 19. (AP)—A defiant challenge to opponents of the American Federation of Labor was hurled today by William Green, president of the federation, in his opening address before its annual convention.

Declaring that recently the organization had been branded a "menace to American institutions," Mr. Green shouted:

"We challenge our enemies to produce evidence in support of their contentions."

He declared the federation was much interested in the welfare of labor in the South. Today, he added, the organization was face to face with such new problems as machine displacement, mass production and convict labor.

Proprietor of Speakeasy For Kids Under Charge

CHICAGO, Nov. 19. (UP)—Anthony Juskus, alleged proprietor of an ice cream parlor which sold liquor to school children, was ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter today by a coroner's jury which investigated the fatal shooting of 18-year-old William Adomaytis.

Young Adomaytis, a public school pupil, was shot through the heart in Juskus' parlor yesterday. Juskus confessed to police that he killed the youth but contended it was "partly accidental."

Wewoka Judge Will Quit if Proven Drunk

WEWOKA, Okla., Nov. 19. (UP)—The resignation of George C. Crump as district judge here will be forthcoming if investigators for the attorney general's office find he has been intoxicated, Crump told J. Berry King and W. O. Gordon, assistant attorneys general.

Art Exhibit At Woman's Forum Representative of America's Best

By LOIS ANGLIN
Record News Society Editor

The art exhibit that is now on display at the Woman's Forum is probably one of the most unique, well balanced and attractive displays yet shown in Wichita Falls. This collection was assembled by Samuel McClellan Yunt of the Yunt Art galleries in Kansas City, and represents almost every section of this country. It has just arrived here from Dallas where it was on display for two weeks at the Highland Park town hall.

No other country affords as great a variety in style as does America and in this exhibit we find pictures of wide and varied appeal.

Among the paintings hanging at the Forum clubhouse are "Landscape" by Frederick; "Inner Dock," "Open Brook," "Golden Bridge," and "Morning on the Coast" by Lester Stephens; "The Clearing," Van Lear; "Misty Morning," and "Landscape," DuVaness; "Landscape," Rutledge; "Autumn Sunset," by Schultz; "Monlight," Hyde; "Autumn," Kitchell; "Spring," A. E. Chillman; "Cornish Coast," Stewart; "Watching The Flock," Steelonk; "Child with a Toy Wagon," "Portrait of Old Lady," and "The Return of The Salmon Girls," Geoffrey Norman; "Reflection," "Repairing Nets," and "Idle Hours," H. M. Thiem; "Old Homestead," H. W. Rough; "Schooner in Harbours," R. E. Moffett; "Across the Shallow," J. F. Carlson; "In For Repair," Harry Vincent; "Late Summer Landscape," C. F. Pierce; "Coast and Surf," F. W. Waugha; "Spring," Indsly; "Breath of Autumn," Bruce Crane; "Firelight Meditation," Irving Couse; "Jubilant Sunset," Ben Foster; "January," A. B. Martino; "Moonrise," C. W. Eaton; "Windswept," Irving Manior; "Golden Venice," T. B. Barnett; "Fishing Fleet," T. B. Barnett; "Sundown," C. W. Eaton; "Sunset Glow," George H. Bozertna; "Gray October Day," William Glussman; "Winter Quiet," W. Koeinger; "Moonlight," Maurice Braun.

Norman's "Portrait of An Old Woman" has attracted much attention by art lovers here and likewise his "Child With a Toy Wagon." Other favorites are Lester Stephens' "Golden Bridge" and "Open Brook."

Ben Foster is another of America's realistic and impressionistic artists. He has created a great deal of interest with his autumn colorings. In Irving Manior's "Windswept" we find poetry and peacefulness. Couse is considered the best portrayer of the American Indian and in "Firelight Meditation" shows no mean ability.

Other paintings equally as important as the above mentioned are hanging in the Forum clubhouse and may be seen at any time. A formal openhouse will be announced later.

School and College News

The Schubert quartet presented a series of musical selections at a special assembly period Monday morning. The numbers included: "The Morning," "That's What Puts the Sweet in Home Sweet Home," and "Charming Billy Boy." Each member of this organization was introduced by George O. Miner, basso and director.

Following the program, the freshman and senior classes of the junior college held a brief business meeting in the auditorium. R. O. Jonas, business sponsor of the Wal-kun, announced that a rummage sale would be held Saturday. The proceeds will go to the year book fund, he announced, and urged all students to contribute something in the enterprise.

Plans were also made for a picnic by members of both the college classes, to be held Wednesday night. As arrangements were not complete, it was announced that a placard in the main corridor Tuesday would bear the place of the party. A charge of 25 cents per couple will be made.

Members of the college Spanish club will present a one-act Spanish play at the general assembly period Thursday morning in the main auditorium, according to an announcement made by Wilbur Kent at the class meeting Monday morning.

Three interesting speeches will feature the weekly meeting of the college senate meeting Tuesday night, according to Curtis Cook, president of the organization. The program, as arranged by Arvil Davis, program chairman, will be as follows: "World Peace" by Robert Trevathan; "Tammany Hall" by Oliver Fudge and "The Relationship Between the N. T. A. C. Organization and the School" by Lem Parks.

Twenty music stands have just been constructed by the manual training department of the school for the high school orchestra and band. The stands are of a very artistic design and are constructed of wood, with a very fine finish. They will be used at all musical programs presented at the Junior college building. The work was engineered by A. W. Horaung, director of the department.

Plots and all general principles of the short story were discussed at the weekly meeting of the Junior college Writers' club held in the dining room of the home economics department of the college Monday afternoon.

As each member of the club is working on a short story to enter in a contest sponsored by The Wichitan, the high school and college newspaper, all types and general points in the writing of stories was fully discussed. Miss Eva Weber, sponsor of the organization, was in charge of the meeting.

Members of the mid-year senior class of the high school held a brief business meeting in room 142 Monday morning. Wilson Gray, recently elected to the office of president, resigned and an election was held for a new president. Kenneth Mills was elected to succeed him.

"Aim High—Shoot Straight—Forward, March" was adopted as the class motto before the adjournment.

O' These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (US)—He was about to board the Century for Chicago.

He took another look at his tickets. "The last time I went to Chicago," said he, "I sent my stenographer for my transportation and told her to get reservations on either the Century or the Broadway limited. I didn't care which. And she came back with tickets on the Century and a compartment on the Broadway."

"Did you get away all right?"

"No, I figured that would be too much of a stretch."

On the same platform was a woman who was ticketed for the third section of the train.

"They shoulda told me I was on the third and I'd have changed it or took an upper till it got started and then got better. They oughten to do that to a customer. Putting me on the third section!"

"But," said the porter, "it's as good as either of the others, it's just another section lady, but it's not any different."

"It's not the first, so it ain't as good," said the lady who wanted her money's worth. "It makes me mad!"

Silence.

"How many cars on this train?"

"Four" said the red cap.

"Then why don't they take two and put on each of the other sections and make only two trains?"

"They pick up cars from Boston, lady," said the patient red cap.

"How many?"

"Two."

"Well, why can't they put one of those on each train, too?"

The porter heard someone calling him and ducked.

It was very large car with many windows. One of the best makes, and shiney and new. A woman at the wheel. Place, New York.

Every window, every little tiny window, had one full pair of dotted Swiss curtains—with tiny ruffles! They were looped back with white cord and tassels. I'll jump off this building, and it is high, if I am exaggerating.

It couldn't have happened in Pee Wee Valley, Ky., or in Little Rock, Ark., or in Pueblo, Colo., but in a smart town like New York there are just all kinds of people. Nobody knows where they come from.

An Englishman who saw the Swiss curtains said that in the Bronx he saw a lady pushing a baby buggy, and it had a regular sedan top, made with glass windows all curtained and, entirely enclosing the baby. The fact that such buggies are intended to give the child air mattered not to this mother, who wanted to do something spectacular with her money.

"That's nothing," said a lady noted for accuracy, "I was in England during the days when salaries were very high. A family of boys making exhorbitant wages—for them—brought the money home to mother. They didn't know what else to do with it. Mother spent what she could, bought two pianos, and two Victrolas, and having a lot of it left, she thought a while and then bought a great big, bright linoleum for the lawn. She kept it down by great rocks put at the corners, and people came from miles around to see the thing. Then she hired someone to keep it shiney.

Two Girls Live On Hot Water and Rice

Because of stomach trouble, Miss A. H. and sister lived on hot water and rice. But since taking Adlerika, they say, they can eat anything and feel fine.

The simple mixture of glycerin, buckhorn bark, etc. (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLE action. It acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes foul matter that poisoned the system for months. It clears GAS and sourness from the stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis and rheumatism.

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will surprise you the great amount of poisons Adlerika brings out—you would never believe they were in your system. In chronic constipation, GAS, sour stomach and sick headache, just ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Sold in Wichita Falls by Allison's Drug Store. uses a cup of SUGAR in boiling ham

A famous cook gives his recipe

A MAN, famous among his friends for his fine cooking, was asked the secret of his delicious boiled ham. He gave this simple recipe: Put a cupful of sugar in the water that boils an average size ham. Also one-half cup of vinegar. Try this and see how much it improves the taste and flavor of the ham.

Every good cook knows that there is no substitute for sugar in improving the enjoyment of other foods. Whether in preparing fresh vegetables, fruits or meats, sugar is the secret of successful cookery.

Sweetness is nature's perfect flavor. It is also the cheapest nutriment that you can buy.

Health comes from eating good foods, flavored to please the taste. Beware of extreme reducing diets. They are dangerous. Eminent medical authorities warn us that permanent injury often results from starvation diets.

Be sure that you and your children are properly nourished. Eat enough of varied foods, sweetened for enjoyment. The Sugar Institute.

WHY CHILDREN DISLIKE HOME

When Parents and Kids Are 'Alike' They Fight

Solving the Problem of the Incompatible Family—Straight Talk to the Girl With a Mercenary View of Marriage—The Wherefore of Love.

Dear Dorothy Dix—The other day you had an article about the girl who is sweet away from home and sour at home. Perhaps she had a home and a mother and father like mine. Perhaps she was constantly nagged at and tyrannized over and treated with no consideration or respect. I am 24 years old. I pay my board at home, but the way I am treated there poisons my whole life. It has come to a point where we do not speak, but that is a relief, as it is only in this way that I can be rid of the constant fault-finding. Believe me, if I hadn't the ability to be genial and sociable and jolly when I am away from the house, I cannot call it home. I would be in the madhouse. So be pitiful to the girl who is sour at home. There may be a reason for it.

—A DAILY READER.

Answer—Undoubtedly there are parents and children who just naturally antagonize each other. Sometimes it is because they are too much alike. Sometimes it is because they haven't a single idea, or thought, or taste in common.

I know a father and daughter who fight like cat and dog because the girl is, as Uncle Remus used to say, "just his spit and image." Both are argumentative. Both are highly prejudiced. Both are inflexible in their opinions. Both are utterly lacking in tact and diplomacy.

As a result, when the girl, who represents one generation, comes into conflict with her father, who belongs to another generation, the fur simply flies and the innocent bystander takes to the tall timber. Both this father and girl are splendid people, but they can't get along because they are too much alike in character.

I know a mother and daughter who are in a perpetual wrangle and who get on each other's nerves because an old hen has hatched out a swan and she can't understand for the life of her why the swan takes to the water, so she stands on the bank and clucks angrily at her and tries to make her come back on the safe, dry land.

The swan, whose native habitat is water, can't comprehend what mother hen is so scared about, and why she nags her so about doing the thing nature created her to do, and which she is perfectly safe in doing.

Of course, it is very sad when parents and children are antagonistic, and when they fail to get all the sweetness and happiness out of the relationship that should exist between them, but the wise thing to do is just to accept the fact that they can't live together peaceably, and to separate.

Living in strife will wreck anybody's nerves and ruin their dispositions, and it is idiotic to do it when all they have to do is to put on their hat and go around the corner. Generally after they separate the members of a family who have hated each other at close range get to be actually fond of each other.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Will a love affair in my youth play havoc with my happiness in later years, should I decide to marry? Somehow I do not feel that I will be doing any wrong, because I love this young man. I am not going to marry him, because he is poor and I prefer a life of ease as an old man's darling. In this I am not wrong, as I have known poverty and I have seen other people's love go on the rocks because there was not enough money to pull it through the ruts. I, therefore, deem it necessary that money be the largest factor when in the market for a husband, and am going to marry a man 29 years older than myself. This man is a man of the world, and I think he will be able to look at it broadmindedly.—TWENTY-ONE.

Answer—there are very few men who are broadmined when it comes to their own individual womankind. They may be able to take a liberal view of other women who have thrown their caps over the windmill and led an untrammeled life, but they want their own wives to be like Caesar's, above reproach. You never hear of a man who runs with wild women introducing them to his sisters or his daughters.

So don't count on your elderly suitor's being willing to overlook your past because he has been a bit of a rounder himself. That is precisely the type of man who puts the highest value on purity in women, and the chances are that the reason he is marrying you is because he believes that you are a good girl. Otherwise he would not want you for a wife. He would be satisfied to have you just for a playfellow.

As you seem to have no conception of anything high and holy in marriage, but to regard it from a purely mercenary standpoint, and in as much as you are offering yourself to the highest bidder, I must warn you that even on these sordid grounds you will be making a mistake to indulge in a love affair before you marry. No man boasts of having picked up a second hand wife on the bargain counter.

So if you want to get a worthwhile husband it will pay you to keep your skirts clean. Even when a man is infatuated enough with a girl with a past to marry her, in his heart of hearts he never really forgives her, and he never really trusts her. Futhermore, there are very few men who marry women with pasts who do not reproach them with it in every time of matrimonial bickering.

So I think that having a love affair in your youth will play havoc with your happiness in later years. It does pay a girl to be good, even looking at the matter from a practical standpoint.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Why is it that a fellow can be in love with a girl and, although she likes him better than any other fellow, she cannot learn to love him? And why is it that a girl who is a wonderful character, can be in love with him and he cannot learn to love her? Why is it that a man can know a girl who is fine, and pretty, and interesting, and nice to get along with, who is just the girl he ought to marry and whom he wishes he could learn to live, and yet he can't do it while he is in love with a girl that he knows will make him miserable if he marries her?—JOE.

ANSWER—Set it down to the contrariness of that ill-regulated organ, the human heart, Joe, and let it go at that. Nobody knows why we love those whom we shouldn't love and fail to love those whom we should love. It just happens that way, and that is why the world is filled with disgruntled old bachelors, and old maids, and forsaken wives, and wandering husbands, and the divorce courts have to run overtime.—DOROTHY DIX.

CHIC CHERIE

Cherie is going to buy all her winter clothes for $200. But how? She doesn't even know what she's going to do! If she stays home she'll need different clothes than the sort she'd buy if she goes to college. And if she goes to work she'll need a still different wardrobe. She wants not one budget, but three. And she really isn't up to it herself! She's offering three $50 prizes—one for the best budget of each sort (see sketches). And while you're looking at the sketches you might notice, too, the two-color jersey frock, the crepe with the new wide tab-collar, the velvet and sheer crepe afternoon dress with metal thread.

Latest Fashions

Please help Cherie. You must have an idea about budgets. How would you spend $200 for winter clothes (1) if you were going to college, (2) you were going to business, (3) you were staying at home? Cherie offers three $50 prizes—one for the best budget of each class. We're sure you hate to see her worried. She doesn't even know whether she can buy one of these hats—she'd love the Dutch bonnet evening hat of maline with metal embroidery. She'd love the soleil with the bandeau and the swooping one-sided brim. But she can't buy anything until she has her budget problem settled. We'll tell you about the "picture" part tomorrow.

Al Wires Regards To Labor Meeting

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 19. (AP)—Greetings from Gov. Alfred E. Smith, resting on the gulf coast, were read to the American Federation of Labor today at the opening of its annual convention.

He sent his "heartiest felicitations" to the labor men and told them he was not yet "physically fit" to accept their invitation to visit them but before the convention was over he hoped to attend.

Hardly had the applause elicted by a series of welcoming addresses by representatives of New Orleans and the state of Louisiana died away before the annual report of the executive council presented the delegates with the slogan to "double trade union membership in 1929."

Delegates were urged by the executive council to pay particular attention to bringing into the fold workmen on jobs which required little previous training, since they have not advanced proportionally with unionized labor. This class includes many women workers.

The report reiterated the federation's support of the five-day week and said that 165,029 persons affiliated with organized labor now enjoy the limited working period.

Wichita Delegation First In Long Caravan

from Floydada to Quanah. However, local business men plan to make a special trip through towns along this road at some date in the future.

In addition to the Wichita Falls train, other specials to make the South Plains trip will be from Fort Worth, Dallas, Childress, Memphis and Estelline and one that will have as its passengers high officials of the Burlington system and the Denver railroad.

Each of these trains will arrive in the various towns at 15-minute intervals which will make it possible for one celebration to be staged for all trains.

Estelline Closes Shop

When the special trains arrive in Estelline Tuesday morning they will be greeted by practically the town's entire populace. Business firms will "close shop" and schools of the town will close for the big celebration. Members of the Estelline Booster band and the Memphis Gold Medal bands will combine to furnish music for the occasion.

Streets of Turkey will be gayly decorated when the trains arrive in that prosperous little city.

Arrangements have been completed for a big parade which will wind its way through the town and reach the depot just as the first of the special trains arrive.

Quitaque's main street will be roped off for a distance of several hundred yards in order that the visitors may not be bothered with the traffic during the short time they have to view the "Queen City of the Valley."

An agricultural exhibit made up placed near the depot at South of crops raised on the plains will be Plains in order that the special train passengers may see what fine products can be grown in that section. South Plains is one of the youngest towns on the new Denver road but its citizens have planned an enthusiastic welcome for the hundreds of visitors.

Visit "Youngster"

From South Plains the specials will go to Sterley Junction, another of the Denver road's "youngsters." The town's few business men expect to gather at the depot. Many farmers of that section will also probably be in the town when the trains arrive.

The various delegations will arrive in Plainview at 1 o'clock where the afternoon and evening will be spent. Plainview has planned a wild duck dinner for the visitors. Hunters of that city have been very busy for the past two weeks shooting the 1,000 ducks that are to be placed on the banquet tables. Several of the high Burlington system and Denver officials are expected to address the Plainview gathering.

During Tuesday night the trains will proceed to Dimmitt where breakfast will be taken Wednesday morning. Dimmitt business men will be prepared to extend the visitors a real greeting.

From Dimmitt the special trains will proceed to Hart, one of the newest towns on the South Plains line. Everyone aboard the trains will be given a souvenir at Hart which will be a badge in the shape of a heart.

The trains will pass through Plainview and Sterley Junction again Wednesday morning while en route to Lockney where a luncheon will be served. Ladies of Lockney and the surrounding communities have donated the food for the occasion. Following the luncheon the visitors will be taken for an automobile sightseeing tour over the city.

Petersburg and Becton will be visited during Wednesday afternoon where the excursionists will be welcomed by the towns' citizens.

Drive Over Lubbock

Arriving in Lubbock about 3:30 o'clock, the remainder of Wednesday afternoon and evening will be spent in the "Hub of the Plains." Following a drive over the city and the surrounding vicinity the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce will tender a banquet to the hundreds of visitors.

The Wichita Falls special train will start its return trip from Lubbock about 8 o'clock and will arrive here about 4:30 a. m. Thursday.

The following business men were announced late Monday afternoon by the chamber of commerce as those to make the trip: J. L. Maxwell, Eli Morgan, C. H. Gannon, Henry Ford, P. H. Brown, P. V. Halpin, J. V. C. T. Christensen, B. A. Stayton, John W. Bradley L. C. Robertson, J. M. Wright, James Biggs, Lester Jones, Oral A. Jones, J. L. Randel, W. Lee Moore, T. E. Noble, P. M. Seeds Band Goes

In addition to these there will be Paul Seeds and members of his band.

Opening of the new South Plains extension of the Denver will mean the realization of a dream which people of that section have cherished for many years. It makes possible overnight passenger service from Wichita Falls to Plainview and Lubbock.

One day freight service from this city to the entire South Plains section will be available. In addition to opening up a trade territory of 5,000,000 acres it brings into contact 1,000,000 more acres with a population of some 50,000 people.

The first regular passenger from Dallas through Wichita Falls and on to Plainview and Lubbock will be operated Thursday night. The first train into Dallas from Lubbock will run Friday night.

Bandit Near Death After Killing Detective, Wounding Two in Fight

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 19. (UP)—Detective Sergeant Joseph Carroll was killed, Sergeants Fred W. Carroll and Elmer O'Grady were wounded and Henry Peterson, suspected Brooklyn, N. Y., bandit was reported dying in a hospital today after a gun battle last night in front of the police building here.

The shooting came after Sergeant Fred Carroll had gone to a hotel two blocks from the police building where Peterson was reported registered.

The officer entered Peterson's room and said he was wanted at headquarters.

"Sure, I'll go down with you," Peterson told Sergeant Carroll and the two left the hotel. Near the police station Peterson whipped out a revolver and fired. The bullet clipped the detective's ear.

Sergeant O'Grady saw the shooting from his office window and summoned Sergeant Joe Carroll. Peterson turned his fire on them. One bullet struck Carrol in the ear and another in the lung. Another bullet wounded O'Grady.

BEER MAKERS DRAW FINES

Judge Lectures Prisoners As They Face Court

With the unhurried precision for which his court is famed, Judge W. H. Atwell in four hours Monday afternoon dealt out punishment to 31 defendants who pleaded guilty to the possession, the sale, or the manufacture of beer.

Judgment fell upon the beer makers in the first day of the semi-annual federal court session here, and before the afternoon was over almost 40 cases had been disposed of, and fines ranging from $5 to $350 had been assessed. Verdicts of guilty were returned in the only two contests, and half a dozen cases were dismissed.

Sentences, notably mild early in the afternoon showed a marked tendency toward greater severity as the last cases were called. Flavin George and K. L. Norflett, two boys charged with running a still, drew the heaviest single fine. Each was assessed $350. George gave his age as 18 years. Norfleet will be 21 soon, he said.

Woman Faces Court

Mothers of young children, several of whom were arraigned during the first two hours of the session, received the special consideration and advice of the judge. The lightest sentence of the session was pronounced against a woman who told the court of her five year old daughter and was given two days in jail and a $5 fine. A mother of five children between the ages of four and 14 years, was fined $30 and advised not to try to "mix children and beer."

To the defendant who made beer in order to keep her apartment house rented, to the man who was taking it for his rheumatism; to the mother trying to make money for her children and the cripple seeking to overcome his handicap; to the youths who found it exciting, and the many who just liked it, Judge Atwell lent a considerate ear and offered the benefit of a seasoned advice. In spite of the great number of cases disposed of, the court moved with an appearance of leisure.

Advice to Young

Almost every case called its special mild but pointed comment from the judge, and to the special circumstances of every defendant careful consideration was accorded.

To the 18 year old boy who married two weeks after his arrest, and who drew a 10 day sentence and a $5 fine, were the words: "If you just won't think you know it ALL, you'll come out all right." And to the two youngsters who, refusing to tell of how they got their still, brought down $350 fines the appeal: "You'll feel a heap stronger and happier when you're men if you haven't anything to hide."

HOOVER OFF TO LATIN AMERICA

Guns Roar Salute When Journey Starts

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Nov. 19. (AP)—Herbert Hoover sailed today on the battleship Maryland to meet the peoples of Latin-America and extend to them an assurance of the friendly feeling of the United States for her neighboring republics on the southern continent.

Corinto, on the west coast of Nicaragua, was the first announced port of call as the Maryland lifted anchor and moved out of the harbor. Afterward the president-elect was to follow a devious path which would lead him to Balboa for a brief inspection of the Panama canal, down the west coast of South America to Callao and thence to virtually all of the countries on the continent.

The definite itinerary for the trip was to be made public after a consultation on board the Maryland with Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher, special representative of the state department, who joined the Hoover party on the Maryland.

Embarking as a private citizen three and a half months before his inauguration as president, Mr. Hoover boarded the Maryland while the guns of other battleships in the harbor roared a presidential salute of 21 guns.

The president-elect was met at his train by Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States battle fleet, who escorted him to the admiral's private yacht which was tied up alongside the dock.

For a moment the party paused and stood at attention while the naval band saluted Mr. Hoover; then they stepped into the yacht and slipped silently out into the bay. Mrs. Hoover, their son, Allan, and various other members of the party followed closely after. There was some delay about getting under way.

New York Klan Law Is Upheld

part of its constitution and printed creed it proclaimed the widest freedom for all and full adherence to the constitution of the United States, in another exacted of its members on oath to shield and preserve 'white supremacy,' and in still another declared any person actively opposing its principles to be 'a dangerous ingredient in the body politic of our country and an enemy to the weal of our national commonwealth;' that it was conducting a crusade against Catholics, Jews and negroes and stimulating hurtful religious and race prejudices; that it was striving for political power and assuming a sort of guardianship over the administration of local, state and national affairs, and that at times it was taking into its own hands the punishment of what some of its members conceived to be crimes.

"We think it plain that the action of the courts below in holding that there was a real and substantial basis for the distinction made between the two sets of associations or orders was right and should not be disturbed."

The New York law exempts the Masons, Knights of Columbus, labor unions and various societies from its provisions. Taking up Bryant's contention that the klan is thus discriminated against, Justice Van Devanter pointed out that the other organizations are required under a separate statute to incorporate and to report the names of their officers to the secretary of state for New York.

Again quoting from the lower court's decision, Justice Van Devanter pointed out that it had been held that "these other organizations and their purposes are will known, many of them having been in existence for many years." He also pointed out that the lower court had declared that while the other organizations required an oath of membership, "we hear no complaint against them regarding violation of the peace or interfering with the rights of others."

BRANSON ASKS BRIEF CHANGE

Oklahoma Judge Requests More Definite Petition

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 19 (UP)—Fred P. Branson, chief justice of the state supreme court, today asked that Herbert Francis, suing the justice for damages amounting to $46,000, be required to make his damage petition more certain and definite on three points.

Francis alleged that Branson ruined his brief printing business when the chief justice refused to entertain any case wherein Francis printed the brief.

That he state whether his brief printing business was built up largely through courtesies extended by Branson, in granting extension of time to file briefs to Francis for the benefit of his clients, but for such courtesies extended by Branson his brief printing business would have suffered great detriment.

That he sent out copies of letters (Branson alleges) were written by Francis to lawyers in the state saying the opinion had not affected his business.

That he be required to say how many editions of the address of one of the counsel in Riley vs. Owens in Oklahoma county district court he printed, whether or not Francis was paid for printing the address and if he were by whom; that Francis show how many he printed on his own initiative and circulated among lawyers.

The motion may be heard Saturday. Today was Branson's last last day to answer the suit. The original suit was filed Sept. 4.

Fractures and Broken Bones

It is better not to try to remove the clothing from the injured part before the arrival of a doctor unless the patient is bleeding profusely. Bleeding should be stopped by pressure, if from an artery, the pressure should be close to the wound between it and the heart; if from a vein, the pressure should be close to the wound with the wound between the point of pressure and the heart. Arterial blood comes out in jets from the direction of the heart, and venous blood in a steady stream from the direction of the extremities.

A broken back is very serious and may cause death unless handled by an expert. No attempt should ever be made to turn the patient with a broken back over on his face. The best position is directly on the back until a doctor can make a careful inspection.

In fracture of the skull there is nothing that non-medical aid can do except to keep the patient on his back with the head slightly raised and apply cold compresses to the injury. If the surgeon is greatly delayed, it may be advisable to administer castor oil to clean out the bowels.

Compound fractures should be splintered as are simple fractures and in addition, great care must be exercised to keep the wound clean. Plain boiled water may be used to wash away dirt. One must be careful to keep the jagged edges of the broken bone from doing more damage.

In most fractures it is advisable to apply cold compresses to assist in reducing the swelling until the doctor is able to make his examination.

Never attempt to transport a person with a broken long bone without the support of a splint.

If you should be injured, yourself, where no help is to be had, you should use the same methods of splinting that you should on another person before you attempt to travel.

The after treatment of fractures must be handled by a doctor or hospital. The condition is too serious for amateurs to attempt treatment. However, should you be out in the wilderness where no doctor is obtainable, you should put padded splints about the injury and stretch the injured limb in an normal a position as possible.

The site of the injury may be treated with cool wet compresses. The diet should consist for the first week almost exclusively of raw fruits and non-starchy vegetables.

In practically every fracture of a long bone it is necessary for the surgeon to use a stretching process termed "extension" to prevent a shortening of the limb or overlapping of the bones.

Some people have abnormally brittle bones. This is because of wrong feeding. When we learn to live properly, our bones will not be over-brittle and should a break occur, the knitting together will take place rapidly.

After the break has healed there may be a kind of neuralgic pain for a long time. This can best be treated with alternate hot and cold applications or deep therapy lamp and massage. Should the bone be allowed to heal in a wrong position, it cannot be straightened unless it is surgically broken again and properly reset.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Soft Teeth

Question: Reader writes: "My dentist has told me my teeth are softening. What is the cause and cure for this?"

Answer: The softening of teeth is caused either through lack of organic minerals in your diet or because of a systemic acidosis which is destroying these mineral elements as rapidly as you are putting them into your body through food. I believe the tendency toward soft teeth is usually developed in early childhood or even before the child is born. If this is recognized early enough in life it may be possible to bring about structural changes in the teeth, but usually the best that can be done is to prevent the trouble from becoming worse.

Erythema Nodosum

Question: Mrs. N. R. M. writes: "I am a woman of 34 and had erythema nodosum about eight weeks ago and am weak from it yet. Can you tell me the cause of this disease, and how long it lasts?"

Answer: This is an inflammatory skin disease marked by tender red nodules due to exudation of blood and serum, and accompanied by intense itching and burning. The lesions appear in successive patches and the disease lasts for several weeks. It is considered highly infectious but can be quickly cured by the application of certain remedies which your doctor or druggist can furnish you.

Normal Weight

Question: L. J. writes: "Please state the normal weight of a person from childhood to manhood."

Answer: The weight would vary with the hight and measurement at the different ages; also in relation to glandular activity and temperament. No set standard can be used, but each case must be judged separately.

As Told by Them to FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By EARLE B. COMBS

Earle Combs was born in Pebworth, Ky., about 27 years ago. Six years ago he was teaching readin' writin' and 'rithmetic in the old home town. One afternoon he was helping a few of the pupils play a spirited game of scrub baseball when a scout from the Louisville club came along and signed him up. Two years later Miller Huggins grabbed him off, and ever since Earle has been swatting the apple for the New York Yankees. He bats with his left hand and throws with his right.

"I like the wheeze," Combs told me, "about the Irishman who asked the Hebrew why it was that the Jews were so wise.

"'Because,' said the Hebrew, 'we eat a certain kind of fish,' and he offered to sell the Mick one for ten bucks.

"The Irishman handed out the long green, and in exchange received a small, dried fish. He bit into it, and then exclaimed, 'Why, this is merely a smoked herring!'

"'See?' said the Jew, 'you're getting wise already!'"

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—An English novelist who gained great celebrity in recent years and who has a reputation as an "exquisite," was the guest not long ago at a country house in Long Island. The host and hostess are outdoor people and they like to have outdoor people around them. The talk and activities concerned sport very largely, and the novelist guest seemed somewhat out of it.

His hostess became worried over the matter and decided to speak to him about it guardedly. Perhaps something sporting could be devised which would interest this languid lion.

"Do you never take an interest in outdoor sports?" she asked.

He pondered over that, then replied:

"Why, yes, I remember playing a game of dominoes on one occasion outside a cafe in Paris."

There are more cats in Greenwich village than in any other place of its area in the world. Perhaps the people down there are too lazy to take them over to the North river and drown them, or their sensibilities may be such that they cannot bring themselves to call up the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and doom the kittens to painless extinction.

In the window of a brick apartment house was the sign, "Milk fed spring kittens given away." Inside a batch of little kittens reminded one of small ducks. The owner, a phlegmatic-faced Swede, said, "Now don't take it unless you're sure you'll give it a good home, because they're going like hot cakes."

This was an intelligent way of getting rid of the kittens. Others are not so thoughtful, merely putting the creatures outdoors to shift for themselves. However, these homeless waifs eat from garbage cans, achieving the size of small pigs. Cat life on the streets of the village is always interesting.

"Our cat stays thin because it eats up all the cockroaches," explained one apartment dweller. "A fight like that is a bitter one," she continued. "Eventually either the cat or the cockroaches gives up the ghost. The odds are about even there. Of course, there's never any real quietus, because if the cat wins the cockroaches always come back to us here in the village, and if the cockroaches carry the day, well, there are always other cats."

"And," added the head porter to the new broom wielder, "don't forget that the boss is a stickler for work. Never let him see you loafing or you'll lose your job."

The new porter took the advice very much to heart.

After about two weeks of this a very angry boss called in the head porter.

"Where in thunder did you get that new porter from?" he demanded. "I can't stop a minute in any one place since he came here without getting dust down my throat, on my clothes and in my shoes. You can tell where I have been standing by the clean circle that always appears round me.

"That porter keeps on sweeping the same circle for half an hour at a time if I stay that long in any one spot. Then when I get back to my desk he appears again and goes through the same process. He interrupts my visitors by banging the broom against the chairs and I've had a larger bill for cleaning clothes where he has bumbed up against me in two weeks than I would normally have in six months. Fire him and get one that is a little less obvious."

The attention of the man who clung to a strap in the subway express rushing uptown was drawn to the woman who sat in front of him. She was humble, possibly 55 years old, and was shabbily dressed. Her pocketbook was frayed. Her shoes were old and large. Her hat was styleless. In her heavy hands, hands that unquestionably had performed manual labor, she held a leaflet and stared at it. She looked up for a moment and turned it over. Large type caught the strap-hanger's attention. He looked—looked again. The leaflet was a tipster's daily racing chart.

"I will make you to become—" Mark 1:17.

Our lives interest Jesus not because of what they now are, but because of what they may become, by the power of God. We are transformed by "the renewing of our minds." Rom. 12:2. We are transformed through communion with Christ. "When they beheld the boldness of Peter and John they took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus."

"Ye must be born again." John 3:7. The new birth means new life. "Plenteous grace with thee is found, grace to cover all my sin;
Let the healing streams abound;
make and keep me pure within.
Thou of life the Fountain art,
freely let me take of Thee,
Spring thou up within my heart, rise to all eternity."
—C. WESLEY.

Lions in Laboratories

NOTHING can be much more interesting, to an American, than the history of this country during the last three-quarters of a century.

During that period the country emerged from its infancy and reached a lusty, energetic manhood. The change that came upon it was profound; even yet we do not see clearly just what has happened to us or just where we are going. But the process of change has at least gone far enough so that we can pause and look back to study ourselves objectively.

A good many novelists have tried to interpret this development for us. One of the latest to do so is Thames Williamson, whose "Stride of Man" puts under a microscope the whole astonishing swing from a frontier civilization to an era of factories, mass production and big cities.

The hero of this book, born in an Oregon log cabin, grows up with the new industrialism and becomes a kind of Henry Ford—a super-energetic maker of automobiles. He lives and breathes only to make autos; and, in his mind, his workers are only rather eccentrict machines, indispensable but fit only for the performance of such tasks as cannot yet be entrusted to automatic whirligigs.

This man may fairly be taken as a type. He is modern America personified. He can recall the days of oxcarts and the pony express, but he remembers them only with impatience. He himself has killed them forever. He exists without a background. Nothing matters, to him, but the production of solid, material things. When someone reproaches him because the industrial age has made no contributions to the arts, he is pained; has he not given his city money for an art museum? To the end of his life he remains ignorant that a man or a nation can have any higher aim than the erection of factories.

Yet, accepting this man as the incarnation of the American spirit, it is impossible to feel that he is wholly wrong.

The pioneers struggled west with very definite, material objectives. They wanted to find a place where life could be easier, where poverty could be eliminated, where every man could have enough and to spare. They were, very definitely, out for the full dinner pail and all its appurtenances.

Industrial America is the logical result. As the pioneers, without exactly realizing that they were doing it, performed a work of incalculable service, it may be that their children, the industrialists, are doing likewise. Herbert Hoover has said that the complete abolition of poverty is now a possibility for us. And that work will be done, not by the poets and seers and artists, but by the energetic men who are obsessed with the job of producing an ever-increasing stream of material things.

We are not quite finished with our pioneering. America seems to be a sort of laboratory, in which the great possibilities of the age of industrialism can be tested for the benefit of the rest of the world. The day of the pioneers had its hard, cruel, unpleasant aspects, and so has our own. But much can be forgiven an era of preparation.

Hoover and His Guards

ALREADY, Herbert Hoover has had a taste of the loss of personal freedom that goes with election to the presidency of the nation.

On the day after election he found his Palo Alto home guarded by several unobtrusive, capable-looking men in civilian clothes. These men will watch over him until he finishes his time in the White House. They are secret service operatives, charged with the safety of the president, and in recent years it has been decreed that the president-elect also must have their protection.

A number of our presidents, notably Roosevelt and Harding, grew tired of this eternal vigilance, and delighted to outwit their guards. But the surveillance is necessary, for all that. Mr. Hoover cannot escape it. It is one of the prices he must pay for his elevation.

The Fear of Bond Issues

AMERICAN tax-payers seem to have lost their traditional fear of big bond issues.

In the last election Missouri voted $75,000,000 for good roads. Iowa voted $100,000,000 for the same purpose. Kansas also voted for a new state road system. Other states followed suit with smaller amounts.

This is highly important. The automobile and hard-surfaced roads have done more than any other thing to knit our country together. Every dollar spent for good roads is a dollar spent for the further unification and development of the nation. The result of the votes on these huge bond issues indicates that the voters have come to realize that.

Defective Hearing

A BULLETIN from the children's bureau of the United States department of labor announces that a survey shows that 10 per cent of the school children of the United States have measurable defects of hearing.

To relieve the situation, there is recommended a uniform law in all states and cities requiring an annual examination of the hearing of all school children, with eventually the opening of clinics in all schools.

Probably it will be a good many years before such laws can be passed. In the meantime, each parent can do his part. The expense of having a doctor examine a child's hearing is negligible; and doing so may save the child an untold amount of unhappiness in future years.

A Mother Sends Her Boy to Jail

IF AN 18-year-old boy, arrested for robbery, should escape from jail and run home to his mother, you would hardly blame the mother if she should help him make his escape good. It would be easy to understand how her love could overbalance her knowledge that he really ought to pay for his crime.

But an Illinois youth of that age, jailed in Kentucky for robbery, escaped and went home—and his mother sent him back to jail. He reappeared at the jail a day or so later, saying his mother had told him to return and "take his medicine" and lead a better life thereafter.

That young man's mother evidently was a woman of considerable strength of character. She refused to give way to unwise emotionalism when she could have been easily excused for doing so.

The INN of the HAWK and RAVEN

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

(Copyright, 1928, Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York)

During the summer, Jonifer takes Gerane and his nephew, Peter, to Edelweiss on a pleasure jaunt. They are disguised as gypsies. While there, they see Starcourt acting as the escort of the princess, on her return to the palace. One look at Gerane's face, when she sees Starcourt, tells Jonifer that she loves him. Peter arrives at the same conclusion, and is none too pleased, for he secretly loves Gerane. However he knows he can never marry her, for not only was his father, Jonifer's half-brother, of illegitimate birth, but he himself was born out of wedlock. Jonifer, being the legitimate descendant of the Duke of Droon, who was made an outlaw, many, many years ago, after his attempt to seize the throne, exercises his prerogatives as head of the family in a way that the son of his deceased illegitimate half-brother often finds distasteful. Peter instantly becomes jealous of Starcourt, who, according to a spectator, is about to undertake the extermination of the bandits in the Forest of Droon and has been made a colonel, for he has voluntarily undertaken the task.

INSTALLMENT XIV

Gavan Starcourt's determination to destroy the robber band was, in a great measure, due to injured pride. More than anything else in the world, he longed for the day when he could stand before that contemptuous bandit chief and remind him of the general who had returned after defeat, to overthrow the adversary by whose hand he had been conquered, but not disgraced.

He went first to Baron Dangloss, minister of police, then to the minister of war, and finally to the regent himself, imploring permission to undertake a campaign against the robbers of Droon forest.

The regent, Count Halfont, was the uncle of the Princess Yetive. Her mother, recently deceased, was his sister. Since the death of her father, Prince Casper VI, he had been the regent of Graustark and would remain in that exalted position until Yetive ascended the throne at the age of 18.

At the conclusion of the regent's brief talk with Starcourt, he announced that he would take the matter under advisement and instructed Starcourt to present himself again, one week from that day.

The outcome was gratifying to Starcourt. He was allotted his five hundred soldiers and was raised to the rank of colonel, to boot.

Two companies of regulars from the citadel and another hundred from the army post at the gateway to the pass of the two kings, were put at his command, besides a picked force of two hundred from the famous duke's dragoons. Active operations were not to be undertaken, however, until winter was over.

With the coming of spring, the campaign began in earnest. Camps were established at certain points on the king's highway and at other places of a supposedly strategic character among the foothills on either side of the pass. There were eight in all, each with a company of fifty men. Starcourt's "roving squadron," as it came to be called, dividing into groups of twenty, undertook the task of combing the hills and valleys for many miles in all directions. Armed with special warrants they seized and examined scores of men, only to release them, in the end, for want of positive proof that they were members of Jonifer Davos's band.

It was when the new colonel was in Edelweiss on his first trip to report progress that he saw Gerane Davos in the crowd along Castle avenue. That is to say, he looked again into a pair of eyes that were strangely familiar to him. It was not until he was on the point of leaving to rejoin his men that he remembered the stripling whose beautiful, blazing eyes had met those of the robber chieftain without wavering! The boy who turned out, by Jonifer's confession, to be not only a girl, but his own daughter!

Cursing himself for a fool, Starcourt rushed to Baron Dangloss, and, inside of an hour, the shrewdest operatives in the department were searching for the three gypsies. They traced the trio to the lodging house near West Gate, and even as far as Ganlook, where all signs of them were lost. The gypsy band, encamped over against the walls of Ganlook, frankly admitted that three strangers had joined them outside of Edelweiss and had accompanied them as far as the fork in the roads, some distance back, where they had driven off into the hills.

In the third week of this intensive campaign, Starcourt's men at the upper end of the Inn of the Hawk and Raven, not far from the Axphain border, swooped down upon a small band of highwaymen in the very act of holding up a stage coach running between Balak and Ganlook, killing two of them outright and capturing seven others.

Edelweiss was wild with excitement. Starcourt's name was on every lip. "Ah, this is the way to go about it! Chase them down like rats! No more fiddling around!

It was Jonifer Davos who killed two of the assailants and wounded another.

Put the whole army out there if necessary! The only way!" Everybody was cheering and calling for Starcourt, the hero of the hour. But he was not there. The crowd murmured gloatingly: "But why expect him to be here? He is where he should be! Up there in the mountains, ferreting out and destroying all the rest of those rascally thieves of Droon forest!"

Now the truth must be told. In the first place, the highwaymen seized by Starcourt's men were not connected with Jonifer's band. In the second place, one of the six passengers in the coach at the time of the attempted robbery was no other than Jonifer Davos himself! In the third place, it was Jonifer Davos who killed two of the assailants and wounded another, and it was he who, with another valiant traveler, took part in the subsequent chase that resulted in the capture of the rest of the gang by Starcourt's men in an abandoned quarry-shed, some miles back from the highway. To his fellow traveler, Jonifer observed, as they watched the soldiers disarm and bind up the quaking bandits:

"Axphainian goslings masquerading as eagles! Humph!" He spat disgustedly. "And these soldiers believe they have captured some of our—I mean, some of Jonifer Davos's men."

"Ho! What a joke!" sneered the other.

"Joke?" growled Jonifer, glaring at his companion. "It is an insult! These miserable, whining—why, I could weep for shame."

Later on the officer in command of the troopers announced to Jonifer, who sat beside the driver of the coach, as it continued its journey down the king's highway, that this was the entering wedge. From now on the job would be comparatively easy. These snivveling wretches would be only too glad to betray their comrades, in return for some form of immunity on the part of the crown, and "before you know it, we will have Jonifer Davos and every last one of his men in the tower, waiting to have their heads chopped off."

Jonifer could not resist saying: "Well, if these fellows are a sample of the stuff that Jonifer Davos's men are made of, I must say I cannot understand how he has been able to rule the king's highway for so many years, sergeant."

"Simply because the right men have not been sent out to capture him, sir."

"Oh, I see," said Jonifer Davos. "To be sure," admitted the sergeant, "it is more than likely we shouldn't have captured these fellows at all, except for your courage and—"

"Oh, that was nothing," broke in the robber chief. "I was foolhardy, of course, in resisting as I did—but I carry a large sum of money, and I am blessed if I could bear the thought of letting it fall into the hands of thieves. That is to say, you understand, without a fight."

"Still, it was an uncommonly brave thing you did, sir," said the officer, gazing with admiration at the far from bellicose looking gentleman on the box. (Jonifer Davos was as tidy and as inoffensive looking a traveler as you would see in many a day. And so was John Crispo, his companion, for that matter.)

"Colonel Starcourt will welcome you with open arms, Mr. Schmidt. I forgot to mention that he is in charge of our operations, sir."

"I have heard of him," said Jonifer. "The last time I was in Edelweiss I heard that he was making plans to—ah—hunt down a band of robbers. I should like to meet him. But I am going no further than Ganlook. I shall not visit Edelweiss on this trip. Pray give your commanding officer my compliments. If he should happen—"

"He is not in Edelweiss, sir. His headquarters are at Ganlook Fort, not twenty leagues from here. You know the fort, I dare say?"

"Oh, yes, I have passed by it a number of times," said the other, his eyes narrowing a little. Headquarters at Ganlook Fort?

"But he is constantly on the move, so we may fall in with him at any one of the posts between here and the foot of the pass."

This time Jonifer's eyelids flickered ever so slightly.

"I hope so," he said. By no means, however, was he sincere.

"In about two hours we come to camp No. 7," said the sergeant. "The one we just left, where I and my men are stationed, is No. 8, the last before we come to the frontier. There are five camps along the highway between ours and Fort Ganlook. We work out from these, you see, into the hills and—"

"Five camps?" broke in Jonifer, much more sharply than he intended.

"There are eight all told. Fifty men to each camp."

"Eight times fifty," mused the other. "Four hundred in all, eh?"

"Five hundred, including Colonel Starcourt's roving detail. We are to remain in the field for a year, if necessary."

Jonifer was alarmed. This was disturbing. He had attached little or no importance to the words of his informant that day in Edelweiss. Many times before the hills had been raked by soldiers and police, so he had dismissed the report of fresh activities with scarcely a thought. But now he was aware of a curious sensation of dread, as one who is walking straight toward an unseen trap that he knows lies somewhere along the path he has to traverse. He looked about him. He was hemmed in by soldiers—thirty of them. The acute feeling of dread passed, after a moment or two, however. He was a fatalist. Let come what may. If it were destined that he should put his foot into the trap—well. He knew there was only one way out of it for him. If the worst came to pass, he could shoot his way out, so why worry? By that he meant he could shoot himself. He knew he could never be taken alive. Besides, he had been in tight places before—and had got out of them.

And presently this astonishing rascal began to laugh to himself. This was a beautiful adventure! He even began to hope that he would meet Starcourt, shake hands with him, and listen to his congratulations and praise!

Some time in the future, if his designs in regard to the young officer were carried to a successful conclusion, he would find pleasure and amusement in reminding that vain-glorious gentleman of the meeting.

But, after they had passed through camp No. 7 and were on the way to the larger one at "Night's Rest," his confident mien deserted him. He began to realize that this was no child's game the soldiers were playing. In this camp he saw and recognized mountaineers who were being questioned by the officers in charge. And he knew that these sullen confederates recognized him and were nonplussed.

He contrived to set their minds at rest—and a good thing he was able to do so, he reflected, for he discovered that they were darkly wondering whether he had gone over to the enemy and was betraying them!

As he rode away with the little troop, he was conscious of a very uncomfortable feeling that there might be one among these mountaineers who would blurt out the truth about him, and then what chance would he and Crispo stand? For miles his ears were alert for sounds or galloping horses coming up from behind!

A FRENCH LESSON

In reading I just chanced upon
A truthful phrase, to me;
It was in French, and in that tongue,
Was "souvent femme varie."

Considering that in your French
You're rusty and behind,
The substance of the thing it means
Is: "women change their mind!"

I know the phrase is over-used,
And absolutely trite;
I also know that this old phrase
Is absolutely right!

TURKEY WEARS NEW ATTIRE

Fine Buildings Replace Old Structures

TURKEY, Texas, Nov. 19.—Turkey, a city of some 1,500 or 2,000 souls, has cast aside its shabby clothes that it donned during its cradle days and has blossomed into a thriving and typical West Texas community that is prosperous and building for the future.

Many Beautiful Homes

Great things have happened in Turkey during the past 18 months although it is not a "boom town." Brick business buildings have appeared to take the place of those wooden structures which once stood along Main street and beautiful homes are gradually filling the empty spaces along the residential streets.

Little more than one year ago there was not a single modern brick building in Turkey. Today there are more than 30, all of which would do credit to a town of much larger size.

One new sub-division has been opened recently on the heights overlooking the town. This subdivision promises to be one of the best residential sections of any town in all West Texas.

The first unit of a $100,000 school building is nearing completion. Two new ward schools have already been completed. The erection of the new building will take care of the ever increasing number of students attending the local schools.

Among the outstanding new buildings is the Turkey hotel, advertised as being "Good as its Name" and it lives up to its slogan. This hotel will afford ample accommodations for traveling men who will visit Turkey in increasing numbers now that the new South Plains extension of the Denver road is completed.

New Water System

Turkey's new $55,000 water works system has been completed. Eight-inch mains have been laid throughout the business district of the town and six-inch mains have been placed in the residential section.

A $35,000 sewer system is now in operation. A gas franchise has been granted the West Texas Gas company and it is expected that work of laying the mains will start in the next 30 days. Natural gas will be piped from the Amarillo fields.

Citizens are seriously discussing the paving of streets here and definite plans on such a project are expected to be formulated within the next 12 months. A committee is now working on plans to pave state highway No. 86, known as the Ozark trail.

Operations were started this season by a $100,000 cotton compress. Tentative plans are under way for the erection of a modern cotton seed oil mill. Cotton receipts in Turkey average around 10,000 bales annually. However, receipts this year will be around 15,000 and citizens declare that in the course of a few years this figure will be increased to about 40,000 to 50,000 bales.

Turkey is ideally located to become one of West Texas' leading trading centers. It is 45 miles southwest of Memphis, 65 miles east of Plainview, 35 miles west of Estelline and 45 miles north of Matador. The town is situated on highway Nos. 86 and 18 and every year hundreds of tourists pass through the city.

Turkey can rightfully boast of one of the largest and most productive trade territories of the lower Panhandle country. Local citizens claim a trade territory of about 500,000 square miles, 35 per cent of it being in cultivation.

New Farming Enterprises

Cotton is the leading crop in the Turkey territory, although farmers in the vicinity are paying attention more and more to the cow, the sow and the hen. Grain crops of all kinds do well in the section and the yield of feed crops is increasing annually.

Farmers near Turkey are very much interested in the dairying industry and already nine bull circles have been organized in the territory adjacent to the town. This movement was launched in order that a better grade of dairy herds might be placed on the farms.

A large chick hatchery is located in Turkey and it operated to full capacity during the past season. The three produce houses of Turkey are paying out hundreds of dollars cash each week to the farmers for their cream, eggs, poultry and other produce. This industry is just in it infancy and a steady increase in the business is certain to be enjoyed.

Two large lumber companies have been established here recently, giving the town three large and up-to-date yards all of which carry a complete line of lumber and building materials.

The West Texas Utilities company has taken over the electric light plant and enlarged it in addition to installing an ice plant.

Banks Reflect Growth

A Methodist church that will cost about $28,000 and a $20,000 Baptist church are being constructed. There is also a Church of Christ here. The First National bank is now housed in a new building. This bank has deposits totaling $375,0000. The Farmers and Merchants bank just opened here Tuesday.

Proof that business men of the city are taking an increased interest in the town's development is seen in the establishment of a chamber of commerce with a full-time secretary. J. M. Edwards is the newly employed secretary. J. A. Lacy is president.

A survey of Turkey as it is today and a thought of what it was one year ago is conclusive evidence that this town is one of the fastest development cities of the lower Panhandle section of Texas.

Olney Legion Banquet Postponed Indefinitely

OLNEY, Texas, Nov. 19.—Because of the inability to secure a prominent speaker, the local post of the American Legion has postponed indefinitely the annual banquet. Efforts will be made to complete banquet plans at the post's next regular meeting.

MATADOR TO HONOR GUESTS

C-C Host at Luncheon for Visitors

MATADOR, Texas, Nov. 19.—Matador, county seat of Motley county, will be host to more than 100 Wichita Falls business men Thursday noon when the local chamber of commerce will give a luncheon in honor of the passengers aboard the special train that will run on that day over the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railroad from Floydada to Quanah.

The Matador band will be on hand ready to do its share in entertaining the Wichitans. A short program is being arranged in connection with the luncheon, according to M. P. Leaming, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Dr. A. C. Traweek is chairman of the reception committee.

Matador is located not far north of Roaring Springs and is connected with that town by a spur line of the Q. A. & P. railroad. The Texas headquarters of the Matador Land and Cattle company, a Scotch organization which has extensive land holdings in this section, are located here. The general offices of this company are in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Although the cotton yield was cut short in Motley county this year, business conditions are sound in the section and local firms report they are doing a good business.

Lines are now being laid for a new sewer system here which is expected to be placed in operation about January 1.

Fertile Valley of Tongue River Assures Growth for Roaring Springs

ROARING SPRINGS, Texas, Nov. 19.—Although the Wichita Falls special train that will run over the Quanah, Acme & Pacific railroad Thursday will not make a long stay in Roaring Springs, the delegation will be extended a cordial welcome.

Business men of Roaring Springs are planning to gather in full force at the depot when the Wichita Falls special rolls into town.

When the Wichitans pass through this section they will have an opportunity to view the fertile lands of the Tongue river valley, a land that has aided materially in making Roaring Springs the prosperous little city that it is today.

It was in 1926 that this town was practically destroyed by a great fire. But this did not daunt the town's citizenry and the city was soon rebuilt. Modern brick business buildings have made their appearance and the town presents a truly pleasing appearance.

Roaring Springs' main bid to fame is through the agricultural resources of this section of West Texas. The Tongue river, which is an upper arm of the Pease, comes off the cap rock above this town and creates a wide and fertile valley.

Rich, alluvial soil from the great staked plains has been deposited in the valley for hundreds of years by this river. Sheet water from the cap rock seeks an outlet and thus provides excellent sub-irrigation for much of the area. Springs are found at many points in the valley.

Present business conditions in Roaring Springs are very good in the opinion of S. W. Weatherall, vice president of the First State bank and unit director of the chamber of commerce.

Bank deposits here total around $230,000. The three local gins are expected to turn out about 5,000 bales of cotton this year. Three other gins located in the Roaring Springs trade territory are expected to gin a similar amount.

Roaring Springs has a splendid school building. The city has a neat parkway along its main street.

Recent completion of the Quanah, Acme & Pacific railroad from McBain to Floydada provided the town a rail outlet to the west in addition to improving service to the east.

What Is A Station-to-Station Call?

In telephone parlance, a station is a telephone. A station-to-station long distance call is one where a connection is established between your telephone and a desired telephone in a distant town, and not between you and some particular person in the distant town. Every local call you place is really a station-to-station call—you talk to whoever answers the called telephone.

To use this service, if you know the distant telephone number, give it to the long distance operator; if you do not know the number, give the operator the name and address of the party whose telephone you wish to reach, and let her know that you are willing to talk to anyone who answers at the called telephone.

Station-to-station calls cost about 20 per cent less than those where you ask to talk to a particular person.

THAT WONDERFUL TERRITORY

known as the Green Belt and the South Plains country is now nearer to the markets of the world. . . .

The completion of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains and the extension of the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railroads have opened for exploration a vast area of agricultural and grazing lands, with new cities and towns, as yet in their infancy.

Picture this western domain a few years hence—what a change will come to pass—for progress follows the bright steel rails.

It would behoove us, therefore, to extend to the people of this part of our trade territory the helping and aiding hand of friendship, good will and community spirit that others have received many times in the past.

200 HUNTERS PROVIDE GAME

Barbecue King Prepares Royal Feast

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Nov. 19.—One thousand wild ducks, shot on the plains of West Texas, will be on the menu at the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains celebration party here on Tuesday evening.

More than 200 hunters of Plainview and surrounding communities have been busy for the past several days killing the birds in order the passengers on the special trains which arrive here Tuesday may have a banquet menu that is a little out of the ordinary.

A. H. Morrison, well known for preparing barbecue and public banquets, has charge of preparing the ducks for the occasion. The banquet will be staged in Plainview's municipal auditorium.

Underwood Presides

R. A. Underwood, prominent business man of this city, will preside over the banquet. Several high officials of the Denver and Burlington railroad systems are scheduled to make addresses in addition to talks by local men and several persons from the various cities who will have delegations on the South Plains trip.

Plainview, the county seat of Hale county, is one of the most attractive cities on the Great Staked Plains of West Texas. The town is located 220 miles west of Wichita Falls, 369 miles west and north of Fort Worth, 399 miles west and north of Dallas.

The site for the city of Plainview was surveyed in the fall of 1887 for Z9 T. Maxwell and E. L. Lowe by Col. R. P. Smyth, a surveyor and engineer from Austin. The city was named for the general characteristics of the surrounding country, being located on the plains of West Texas which are practically level in all directions, affording an unlimited vision.

Until 1907, Plainview remained a pioneer ranch town of this section of the state and a trading post for the cattlemen who at that time occupied the entire country with their large herds of beef cattle. In 1907 the Santa Fé railroad was extended into Plainview from Canyon City, Texas and the town was incorporated.

In 1910 two other rail lines were built from Plainview, the Santa Fe was extended southward to Lubbock, and a branch was built by the same company to Floydada, east and south of Plainview, 28 miles in length.

Pine Water System

Now that the new South Plains extension of the Denver railroad is completed, Plainview is still more benefited by increased rail facilities, giving connections for Dimmitt, Silverton, Lubbock, Petersburg and Lockney.

The area of the city of Plainview that is incorporated is 4.73 square miles or 3,100 acres. The population of the town is estimated at approximately 10,000 persons.

Plainview's water system is municipally owned. The water supply is underground and is found at a depth of 50 feet in inexhaustible quantities. Most of the large wells here are drilled to a depth of from 50 to 275 feet in order to take advantage of two or three strata of water.

In addition to the railroads, Plainview is served by two state highways, No. 9 from Amarillo to San Antonio and No. 28, running from Vernon to Clovis, N. M. Hale county has a total of 1,250 miles of roads, all of them being 40 feet wide. Of this total mileage, 65 miles are state highways.

The city of Plainview has nearly 100 blocks of paved streets. All other streets are graded dirt. The city has about 50 miles of concrete sidewalks.

Plainview's building program during the past year has been remarkable. Buildings recently completed, those now under construction and those planned to be erected in the near future will cost around $2,000,000.

Among the largest downtown buildings now under construction are two new hotels. These two buildings will cost about $800,000. A four-story office building has just been erected at a cost of $200,000.

A sanitarium and clinic recently completed a large addition at a cost of $50,000. A plumbing shop, two churches, two laundries, and an attractive passenger depot for the Denver road are among other buildings either under construction or completed.

Good Crops

Land suitable to raising of many farm crops surround Plainview on all sides. The land is rolling, almost level, dotted here and there with lakes. Prospects are bright for an excellent wheat crop next year. Wheat fields, which comprise many acres, are to be seen.

The feed yield this year is good and farmers are well prepared to keep their stock in good condition this winter. Cotton is grown to some extent throughout the territory.

Hale county farmers are paying a great deal of attention to dairying and poultry and are diversifying their crops more than ever before.

Breckenridge Methodists Attend 1928 Conference

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Nov. 19.—A large delegation of local Methodists traveled to Ranger Sunday to attend the final sessions of the 1928 meeting of the Central Texas conference which closed Sunday night with the reading of appointments by Bishop John M. Moore.

Among other events of the conference were reports given by all the presiding elders covering the work of the last year, and a message of greeting received from the Baptist general convention at Mineral Wells.

One of the outstanding addresses of the meeting was that delivered on the opening day by Dr. Paul B. Kern of San Antonio.

Turkey Business Men Bend Their Efforts to Making Town Fruit Mart

TURKEY, Texas, Nov. 19.—If plans and hopes of Turkey's business men materialize this section of West Texas will become one of the greatest fruit raising countries in all the Southwest.

Tentative plans are now under way to colonize a strip of land south of Turkey, four miles wide and 20 miles long, with German, Italian and Norwegian fruit raisers.

Soil through this section is of a sandy nature and is said to be adaptable to the raising of any kind of fruit.

Business men of the city claim that the section, if cultivated properly, could raise enough fruit to supply the entire state of Texas.

With the completion of the Denver railroad's South Plains extension, the colonization of this fertile section is expected to be brought about much more easily and quicker than first anticipated.

TOWN BECOMES RAIL CENTER

Industry and Agriculture Join Here

CHILDRESS, Texas, Nov. 19.—Childress, "nerve center" of the Fort Worth and Denver City railway system, will be host to hundreds of visitors here Tuesday morning immediately before some six or seven special trains commence their tour of the road's new South Plains rail extension.

Arrangement are being made to prove to the visitors that Childress is one of the most wide awake towns in Northwest Texas, according to Jerry Debenport, manager of the city board of development.

Amarillo's special train arrives here Tuesday evening and the passengers aboard will spend the night in Childress. Trains from Wichita Falls, Dallas, Fort Worth and the official Denver train will commence arriving here shortly after 6 o'clock.

Construction Aids Town

Passengers on the special trains will spend about one hour in this city and during that time they will be guests of local business men at a breakfast tendered in the new Hotel Childress, now nearing completion.

Following the breakfast the visitors will again board their respective trains for the South Plains jaunt. A large delegation of local business men will board the Childress special which will make a one-day run over the new road.

Childress has already benefited very much from the completion of the new Denver extension. The extension connects with the main line of the Denver at Estelline and then runs on into this city. Six miles of new yard have been constructed here to take care of the increased traffic resulting from the new road. A new brick warehouse has been erected and more men have been placed on the Denver's payroll.

It is reported that the Denver company plans even a greater program of development in Childress in the near future.

The past year has been a banner one for Childress. Since last January there has been more than 980 front feet of commercial property erected in the city. The building program has included two churches, one hotel which is now nearly completed, one ladies' club room, eight storage houses, not including one under construction now, and about 215 residences. It is estimated that the city's building program will aggregate around $2,000,000 this year.

Gate City

Childress, commonly referred to as the "Gate City to the Panhandle-Plains," is located in the heart of the fertile Upper Red-Pease river valley. The city is 119 miles north and west of Wichita Falls and 126 miles southeast of Amarillo. The area of the town is four square miles, or 2,560 acres.

The Denver railroad provides excellent rail service for Childress, and the completion of the new South Plains extension provides the third outlet, the other two being to Wichita Falls and Amarillo.

Two highways converge in Childress, the U. S. No. 870 or Colorado to Gulf highway and the U. S. No. 83, or the Great Plains highway. Childress county is now engaged in a big program of highway construction. Bonds have been voted to construct paved roads across the county in four different directions.

Good agricultural land lays in all directions from Childress. An average of 38,000 bales of cotton per year has been produced during the last six years in the county. Childress county claims to produce more poultry and farm dairy products than any other county on the Denver road in West Texas. Grain sorghums, wheat, oats, forage cane and some alfalfa are other agricultural products grown near here.

The industrial development in Childress has been outstanding. The average monthly cash industrial payroll is reported to total approximately $183,000.

The heavy repair shops of the Fort Worth and Depver City and Denver South Plains railways, serving these two entire systems of approximately 850 miles of rail line and employing a large number of workers, are located here.

The district power plant of the West Texas Utilities company is located here. Among other industrial concerns here are the following: Cotton compress, oil mill, boiler and machine shops, bottling works creamery, mattress and broom factories, cotton gins and other smaller concerns.

Wholesale Center

Childress is rapidly coming to the front as a wholesale and jobbing center. There are now about 33 wholesale and jobbing concerns located in the city.

This city receives its water supply from Lake Childress, an artificial lake covering approximately 600 acres. It is located nine and one-half miles northwest of town. The capacity of the lake is three billion gallons and is said to be large enough to amply supply a city of 15,000 people.

The water system of Childress is municipally owned, with a capital investment of approximately $800,000. The distributing system of the city can deliver 1,782,000 gallons every 24 hours for consumption.

Childress' sewer system is also municipally owned and it was recently rebuilt and enlarged to meet the requirements of a city of 12,000 population. Mains radiate to and serve every part of the city.

The Northern Texas Utilities company owns and operates the city's gas system. Gas is piped from the fields in Wheeler county, 65 miles north of here, and is available to residents living in every section of the town.

The West Texas Utilities company, which has its district offices located here, serves the city with electricity. More than 100 miles of electric high lines radiate from the company's central power station plant here, serving some 10 additional towns, villages and cities in this territory.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone company owns the phone system and there are about 1,200 service connections in the city.

Childress has an excellent school system with an enrollment of about 1900 students. P. P. Brewster is superintendent. More than 50 teachers are employed in the local schools. The high school has 35½ units of credit with all class A universities.

There are 11 churches in Childress. Three hospitals are located here, one of which is now under construction. It is the Jeter Townsend hospital and will cost about $65,000 when completed the first of next year.

Childrass maintains an 81-acre park. The town has two modern motion picture shows, recently built and refinished, in addition to the largest and most commodious theater for 125 miles in either direction.

The white way system has recently been completely re-installed and a 210 percent increase was made in the number of ornamental lights. Every settled residential section of the city is adequately served by street lights.

Bank deposits in Childress at the date of the last call totaled $3,482,611

"Best Comes Last," Say Folks In Lubbock, At End of Rail Journey

"Hub of Plains" Plans Royal Reception for Hundreds of Visitors During Railroad Celebration

LUBBOCK, Texas, Nov. 19.—"They're saving the best to the last," C. E. Maedgen, chairman of Lubbock's committee to entertain the visitors to the South Plains on the occasion of the celebration of the completion of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railroad, Nov. 20, and 21, declares.

Five special trains from Dallas, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Childress and Amarillo are expected here in addition to special trains carrying officials of the Denver, Burlington and associated railway lines. From five to seven hundred people are expected.

Five-Hour Stay

Maedgen has a committee to serve with him composed of W. W Rix, W. E. La Fon, Richard L. Douglas, and G. W. Scott.

The special trains will arrive in Lubbock about 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 21, for a five hour stay. They will have already visited Estelline, where the new line branches from the old, Turkey, Quitaque, South Plains, Sterley, Silverton, Plainview, Dimmitt, Lockney, and Petersburg. The night of Nov 20 will be spent at Plainview.

When the trains arrive at Lubbock, they will see the principal city of the Plains, known over the southwest as the "Hub of the Plains," due to the fact that seven railrogd outlets run out of Lubbock in every direction, giving Lubbock the position in regard to the South Plains that a "Hub" has to a "wheel."

After the ride over the entire 202 mile extension from Estelline, the six special trains will unload their passengers in Lubbock.

Visit Tech Campus

The 700 Texas business men will have an opportunity to visit the campus of the Texas Technological college where the state has spent several million dollars to build a college of agriculture, engineering, home economics and liberal arts to serve West Texas.

The college plant now has 16 buildings located on a campus of 2,000 acres that affords plenty of room for expansion. A total of 1,807 students have enrolled in the school thus far during the fall term this year. Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the college and Frank E. Clarity, of Fort Worth, vice president and general manager of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railway and also a director of the college, will assist other officials of the college in showing the visitors over the spacious campus and through the many buildings.

This college alone will give the seven hundred Texas business men an "eye full" and a full reward for their long jaunt to Lubbock. The trains will have traveled approximately 310 miles when they arrive at Lubbock due to the return trips from Silverton to Sterley and from Dimmitt and Plainview to Sterley before they journey down the Lubbock line through Lockney and Petersburg to Lubbock.

In addition to the visit at the Tech, the visitors from Wichita Falls and the other cities will have the opportunity to see J. Perry Burrus' half million bushel storage elevator that is full of South Plains grain at this time. They will see a town that has over 186 wholesale distributing concerns that look to Wichita Falls for a large part of their merchandise that is in turn distributed out over a radius of some 100 to 200 miles with the use of eight railroad outlets, seven state highway outlets, over 163 freight trucks, bus lines and private trucks. Looking to the future for air transportation, the city of Lubbock is working on an airport that will give adequate facilities to the air traffic. George E. Benson is chairman of a committee from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce that has secured for temporary use a 320 level field. The committee is still at work, to secure a permanent field that will be in keeping with the city and section.

The visitors who like turkey for their Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners will be in position to visit two modern poultry packing plants at Lubbock where more turkeys and other produce are prepared for initial shipment in cold storage cars than at any other point in Texas. A meat packing plant, where practically every meat product is made up from the cattle and swine raised on the South Plains that is obtainable from the biggest packing houses in the nation, is also located at Lubbock doing an ever increasing business and the trade trippers will be given an opportunity to visit this plant.

Lubbock citizens will be on hand to meet the Denver visitors to show them over the city.

Arrangements have been completed for a big street parade that will start from the city hall, proceed through the downtown business district of the town and arrive at the depot just at the time when the special train rolls in.

Cowboys' 'Turkey Roost' Now Thriving Town Of Turkey

TURKEY, Texas, Nov. 19.—Little did the early day cowboys realize when they named an old turkey roost near here years ago that they were contributing the name for a town that is now taking its place in the West Texas sun.

Years ago there was an old turkey roost to which the birds gathered by the hundreds every night. The cowboys and ranchers dubbed the spot "Turkey Roost."

When this town was first settled it was called by that name. Later, enterprising citizens decided to shorten the town's name to what it is known by today—Turkey.

FLOYDADA TO ENTERTAIN VISITORS CELEBRATING RAIL EXTENSION

EARLY MORNING PLANS READY

Wichitans to Be Given Breakfast on Arrival

FLOYDADA, Texas, Nov 19.—Not many weeks ago Floydada citizens celebrated the initial run of a through passenger train from Oklahoma City, Okla., to this city over the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railroad.

This through passenger service was made possible by the completion of the Q. A. & P. extension from McBain.

On the morning of Nov. 22 more than 100 Wichita Falls business and professional men will arrive here and help stage another celebration on the completion of a rail extension that provided Floydada with an outlet to the east.

Floydada Welcome Planned

Although the Wichita Falls special train, which will have spent the two previous days on a run over the Denver's new South Plains extension, will be here during the early morning hours, Floydada's enterprising citizens are planning a welcome fitting for the occasion.

The reception committee is making plans for a breakfast at which the Wichita Falls delegation will be guests. Impromptu speeches will also be made. The Floyd County Hesperian is planning to issue a special edition early on the morning of Nov. 22 that will contain a special section carrying all late news from Wichita Falls.

Enterprising Town

When the Wichita Falls men visit here they will see one of the most prosperous and rapidly growing towns in the South Plains territory. New business buildings are continually making their appearance, additional business firms are being established and a great number of new homes are being erected.

Floydada is the county seat of Floyd county which is situated on the eastern border of the great Staked Plains of Texas. Floyd county is bounded by Hale county on the west, Crosby on the south, Motley on the east and Briscoe on the north.

Floyd county was created out of the territories of Young and Bexar on August 21, 1876. The county was named in honor of one of the martyrs at the fall of the Alamo, Donophan Floyd, who gave his life that others might be free.

Dedicated in 1887

It was on March 2, 1887, that Mr. and Mrs. James B. Price of Cole county, Mo., dedicated the town of Floydada. It was platted with business lots 25 feet wide and 150 feet long. The four principal streets leading from the square were 100 feet wide while all other streets were 75 feet wide. The town still remains as it was first platted.

Floyd county contains 1,036 square miles or 663,040 acres. The county is 30 miles wide from east to west, and about 34 miles long, from north to south.

The town of Floydada has one and three-fourths square miles within its limits. In 1910 the population of the town was 750 and today it is estimated at approximately 4,500. In 1927 the assessed valuation of the city totaled $2,040,000.

Established industries are increasing rapidly here. Among those already established are the following: flour mill, laundry, four cotton gins, bottling works, five grain elevators, mattress factory, two chick hatcheries, ice plant, two bakeries, one wholesale grocery and a cotton compress which is now under construction.

Although practically all the industrial sites near the Santa Fe railroad, which connects Floydada with Plainview, are now occupied, the recent completion of the Quanah, Acme and Pacific extension has placed several desirable industrial locations available.

Good Road Connections

Floydada is not only served by two of the largest railroad systems in the Southwest but also by principal highways. The Lee highway, one of the cardinal roads of the South, passes through Floyd county over state highway No. 28, a distance of 42 miles.

A north and south highway passing through Floydada from Ralls to Silverton is being sought and designation of the road is expected in the near future. This road would connect highways Nos. 53 and 21 Bus lines operate in all directions ou of the town.

Natural gas, piped from the fields near Amarillo, is furnished the city by the West Texas Gas company. Electricity is furnished by the Texas Utilities company which supplies a number of towns in this territory. A $100,000 municipally owned water system covers the entire city. Two up-to-date fire trucks and a volunteer fire department with two regularly employed men give ample protection against fires.

Floydada has two banks with total deposits of more than $2,000,000. The city has three brick school buildings valued at $210,000. The local high school has 23½ affiliated credits with the state university. There are six churches in the city. These are the Baptist, Methodist, two Presbyterian, Wall Street Church of Christ and Church of Christ. Three hotels are located here.

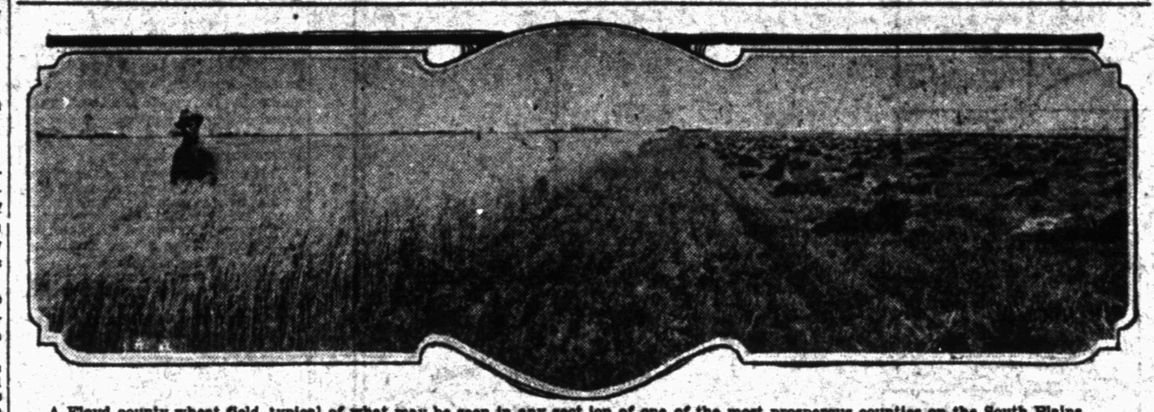

Conclusive evidence of the steady growth being enjoyed by the town is the fact that local postal receipts during October showed a gain of 30 per cent over those of the same month a year ago.

Ideal Farm Country

The rich, loamy soil in Floyd county makes the territory an ideal one for the agricultural pursuit and the county is so situated that it is able to produce large crops of both wheat and cotton. The estimated cotton yield of the county this year is 18,000 bales.

During the year of 1927, eggs, chickens and cream sold in Floydada brought the farmers $475,000, proving that the dairy and poultry industry is receiving considerable consideration in this section of the state.

Expenditure of $200,000 By Denver Starts Sterley Junction on Boom

STERLEY JUNCTION, Texas, Nov. 19.—The scene of an approximate expenditure of $200,000 by the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad, Sterley Junction promises to become one of the leading little towns along the new South Plains extension.

Situated in the heart of a good wheat, cotton and feed producing territory, Sterley Junction has everything in view that goes to make up a good trading center.

The few residents of the new town and farmers of the vicinity have been very interested in the arrival of the new South Plains extension of the Denver railroad and many are expected to gather at the depot on Nov. 20 to greet the arrival of the special trains which will mark the inauguration of regular passenger service over the recently completed road.

The first business was transacted in Sterley Junction last spring and since that time the little town has changed very much. T. C. Ward and W. A. Bergstron of Amarillo are promoters of the town. Earl Fuqua of Amarillo is owner of the townsite.

Already about 50 business and residence lots in the town have been sold and it is expected that about 50 additional ones will be sold before Dec. 1.

Sterley Junction now has two stores, two restaurants, one barber shop, one grain elevator, two filling stations, one garage, a recreation hall. There is one modern brick store building now under construction. Two rooming houses and a lumber yard are expected to be opened by Dec. 1.

A movement is now under way to have the school districts of Lone Star, Roseland and Prairie Chapel consolidated with the school building located here. Two churches are expected to be established here by Jan. 1 A postoffice has been designated for the town and a postmaster is expected to be appointed soon.

One well has been drilled and a water works system will be installed and placed in operation soon. Electric lights are furnished the town by the Texas Utilities company from a line running out from Lockney. The town also has telephone service. The West Texas Gas company expects to have a gas line through here by the first part of the next year.

Sterley Junction is, as its name implies, the junction of the two lines of the Denver's South Plains extension. The town is the junction point of the, line that runs from Estelline to Plainview and Dimmitt and the other line that runs from Silverton to Lubbock.

The town has been the scene of much work on the part of the Denver railroad. The expenditure of around $200,000 by the Denver road was made by the new station, a water tower, stock yards, engine house and other structures were built. About five miles of trackage was laid here.

About 20 employes of the Denver road are expected to be stationed in Sterley Junction regularly just as soon as the road is opened. Members of four train crews are also expected to reside in the town.

This town is located 20 miles east of Plainview, five miles west of South Plains, 20 miles south of Silverton, eight and one-half miles northeast of Lockney, 19 miles from Floydada and 56 miles northeast of Lubbock.

Sterley Junction will probably be incorporated within the next year. The town is named in honor of W. F. Sterley, now deceased, who was general freight and passenger agent for the Denver road.

Hunters Swoop Down on Game in West Texas Woods

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Nov. 19.—A small army of hunters heavily stocked with ammunition moved out of this city with the opening of big game season recently for an invasion of Mason, Kimble, Menard, Brewster, Jeff Davis, Presidio and other southwestern counties where deer, turkey and bear are reported to be numerous.

Despite many new game reserves, posted signs and increased numbers of game wardens, these local hunters are hopeful of making the season's bag limit before the mid-January closing date.

RAIL OUTLETS AID QUANAH

Half Century Sees Rapid Progress in Area

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 19.—Wichita Falls business men who arrive in Quanah Thursday afternoon to conclude a three-day trip through the South Plains and Lower Panhandle countries will see here one of the most interesting railroad centers of the state.

Less than 50 years ago Quanah was merely the hunting ground of Indians. Today it is one of the leading cities in Northwest Texas.

Quanah has excellent rail outlets in practically every direction and this factor has proven a material aid in its development.

Rail Shops

Shops of the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railroad, which runs from this town to Floydada on the South Plains, are located here. The main line of the Denver railroad passes through Quanah. The Kansas City and Orient passes through the eastern part of Hardeman county, of which Quanah is the county seat.

There is now under the course of construction a concrete highway running east and west through Hardeman county. Lateral dirt roads give excellent connections with all sections of the county. It is expected that a north and south highway will be paved within the next year or two.

Quanah has long been known as one of the best wholesale and distributing centers in Northwest Texas. More than 20 wholesale business enterprises are located here. The retail merchants are progressive, constantly expanding and increasing their yearly volume of business.

The Quanah public schools are among the foremost in the state and excellent rural schools are located throughout Hardeman county. The religious life of Quanah is evidenced by the many church edifices, a number of them being built of brick and stone.

This town has four miles of asphalt and brick pavement, and over 12 miles of sidewalks and storm sewers. The Quanah oil mill is one of the largest in the state and serves as headquarters for the oil mills in Lubbock, Amarillo, Sweetwater and Childress.

Heavy Bank Deposits

Quanah bank deposits totaled more than $3,000,000 at the last call.

Hardeman county's farm lands are well suited for the raising of cotton, grain sorghums and other agricultural crops. The county produced about 50,000 bales of cotton last year but the crop has been cut rather short this year because of adverse weather conditions.

Quanah is planning a "Dutch" lunch for the Wichita Falls business men when they arrive here Thursday afternoon. Although it will be called a lunch it will be a real "feed," according to Carl Quin, secretary of the chamber of commerce. Every effort will be made to show the visitors a hearty reception and a good time during their stay in this city.

Hammer and Saw Busy in Hart As New Road Opens

HART, Texas, Nov. 19.—The song of the chisel and saw played to the accompaniment of the beat of the hammer is heard every day in Hart as this little West Texas village takes on larger proportions in preparation for the big things sure to come its way since the completion of the Denver and South Plains railroad.

The town of Hart is hardly a year old but it gives promise of becoming one of the "husky youngsters" along the new Denver road. New buildings, the majority of them modern brick structures, are rapidly making their appearance and the town will take on a definite form in the next few months.

Although few in numbers, Hart's citizens are planning for a big time on the morning of Nov. 21 when the first passenger trains to be run over the new railroad arrive in town. Each visitor will be given a souvenir—a badge in the shape of a heart.

Hart is located in one of the finest wheat sections on the South Plains and prospects for a bumper crop next year are very favorable. Acre upon acre of green wheat may now be seen in all directions from the town. Much of this land was planted in crops for the first time this year.

Cotton can also be grown successfully in the Hart vicinity and much feed sorghums are raised. Many fields may now be seen along the railroad in which the feed is thickly stacked.

Farmers are beginning to pay more attention to the keeping of good dairy herds and many are making a great deal of money from their chickens and turkeys.

Hart now has one drug store, a lumber yard, three grocery stores, one hotel, a barber shop, grain elevator and the new brick depot. A hardware store and another grain elevator and lumber yard are to be opened here soon.

The Phillips Petroleum company has opened a wholesale branch here. Three garage buildings are now under the course of construction and a modern brick building that will provide four store spaces will be completed in the next few weeks. Work has been started on a new tile and brick barber shop building.

Hart is located 27 miles from Plainview and 17 miles from Dimmitt. It is the only town between Plainview and Dimmitt on the new Denver railroad.

RAILROAD ENDS AT DIMMITT

Much New Land Opened By Extension

DIMMITT, Texas, Nov. 19.—Dimmitt, county seat of Castro county, no longer will be held back in its development program for the recent completion of the Denver and South Plains railroad will mean that the town will be placed on a par with other plains railroad centers.

Citizens of Dimmitt have long wanted a railroad and now that the Denver extension has fulfilled their dream they are expecting big things to happen here. In fact they have already commenced happening.

A building program of no mean proportions is now under way and it promises to continue for some time. Four brick business buildings and about 35 new residences are now under the course of construction in Dimmitt.

New Lands Opened

Located in the heart of one of the greatest wheat raising sections in West Texas, Dimmitt is ideally situated to become the logical trading center for many hundreds of farmers.

Large areas of land which have previously been devoted only to the grazing of cattle are being plowed and planted in wheat, grain sorghums and other crops.

Dimmitt is the terminus of the new railroad running out of Plainview, giving the town excellent rail connections with the outlying territory.

Completion of the new railroad is expected to result in a great many more people moving into the territory to farm the sections of land now being placed under cultivation. Crops grow good on land that is just plowed for the first time which makes it a very desirable section for new settlers.

Welcome Planned

Dimmitt will feed some 500 or more visitors on the morning of Nov. 21 when several special trains that mark the formal opening of the new railroad arrive in town. Plans are being made to give the visitors a welcome they will long remember. Charles S. Bean is chairman of the local reception committee.

"We are glad these people are coming and we are going to show them we are glad by treating them in the best way possible," C. G. Burns, secretary of the Dimmitt chamber of commerce, said.

Greetings to Friends!

The completion of the Quanah, Acme & Pacific and the Fort Worth & Denver South Plains Railroads will mean a new era of prosperity and commerce to the people served by the two railroads.

Much of the business of this new trading area should be with Wichita Falls manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers and other business concerns.

The citizens of Wichita Falls and the citizens of the Plains country have much in common.

This institution as well as all Wichita Falls rejoices with the people of the South Plains in the completion of the new rail lines that brings them nearer to the metropolitan cities and the markets of the world.

ESTELLINE TO HAVE HOLIDAY

Entire Town Joins In Rail Celebration

ESTELLINE, Texas, Nov. 19.—Estelline, located in the extreme southwestern portion of Hall county, is one of the most important junction points in West Texas.

The city is the junction point where the new South Plains extension of the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad meets the main line of the Denver.

It is also the junction point where the Colorado and Gulf highway crosses the Ozark trail.

Estelline will "close shop" on the morning of Nov. 20 when the special trains run that mark the official opening of the Denver's new rail extension into the South Plains.

Visit Other Towns

All business houses of the city will close and even the school will cease operation in order that a fitting welcome may be extended those visitors who ride the first passenger trains over the new road.

Between 100 and 150 Estelline citizens are expecting to board several cars here and proceed with the others on a visit to other towns along the South Plains road. About 100 persons from Memphis will travel with the Estelline party.

Although the trains will stop for only a short time here the visitors will be extended the greatest welcome probably ever given a party by this thriving little town. The Estelline Booster and the Memphis Gold Medal bands will combine under the direction of Paul James of Memphis to furnish music for the occasion.

Completion of the new rail extension marks another step in the wonderful progress that has characterized Estelline's growth recently.

There has been a $40,000 water works system and a $35,000 sewer system just completed here. The entire town is served by natural gas. The city is adequately protected against fire with the recent purchase of a modern fire truck.

New Buildings

Eight new brick buildings have been erected here during the past nine months and others are expected to be built soon. The public square, around which the business district of the town is located, has been transformed from a weed patch to an attractive park set in grass and trees.

The $20,000 street paving program around the square will be carried to completion in the next few months.

The Estelline school has recently been consolidated with the Hulver school district and there are prospects of two more consolidations this year. The high school now has 2 1/2 credits of affiliation.

A new $25,000 bank structure was only recently completed and is nicely furnished. Bank deposits at the last call totaled $235,205.56.

Estelline is not only provided with excellent rail connections but is also well served with roads. The concrete highway which traverses Hall county passes through the city. The other highway is paved for six miles out of the city toward Turkey.

Excellent agricultural country is located in the vicinity. This was attested not so many weeks ago when the Estelline exhibit won first prize on its agricultural exhibit at the Hall county fair. It was the second consecutive time that Estelline won first place at the fair.

Cotton Country

This city has two modern cotton gins which will probably turn out about 8,000 bales this season. New settlement in the agricultural territory to the west is expected to gradually increase the number of bales ginned here.

A considerable amount of livestock is also shipped from Estelline as excellent ranching country is located near. Fine herds of cattle graze on these pastures.

Citizens of Estelline are greatly enthused over the prospects for a continued growth of the city which is assured with the starting of regular freight and passenger service over the new South Plains line of the Denver railroad.

Curry Green is mayor of Estelline and R. H. Whaley is president of the chamber of commerce. The city's population is now estimated at more than 1,000 persons.

Much better grass was obtained on the pasture land, while on 30 acres devoted to wheat raising, an increase from three bushels to 12 bushels per acre was accomplished in one year of terracing despite severe hail and continued drought.

France Announces New Passenger Air Service

BORDEAUX, Nov. 19. (AP)—The first flights with passengers have inaugurated a new airplane service from Bordeaux to Geneva and return. Landings are made at Clermont and Lyon on the way. The new line is known as the "Line of the 45th Parallel," which is follows fairly closely.

How New South Plains Railroad Links Wichita Falls to Rich Agricultural Territory

Route of the new Denver and South Plains railroad is shown in the above map. The extension connects with the main line of the Denver road at Estelline with the trains running on into Childress, thus giving excellent connections for persons coming to Wichita Falls.

The new road passes through some of the most prosperous counties in West Texas providing excellent freight and passenger service for a territory estimated at 5,000,000 acres and having a total population of 150,000 people.

Rugged Cap Rock Scenery Provides Setting for "Queen City of Valley"

Quitaque, Early Trading Center in West Texas, Takes New Growth With Building of Railroad

QUITAQUE, Texas, Nov. 19.—Quitaque, "Queen City of the Valley," is entering upon a new area of progress with the completion of the Denver railroad's new South Plains extension.

Nestled in the crescent of the Cap Rock which towers 600 feet west of the town, Quitaque is situated in one of the most attractive scenic spots in all of West Texas.

Since the days of the early pioneers who forged westward to seek new homes, Quitaque has always been an excellent trading center. Its volume of business is gradually increasing and the town is taking on an appearance of permanence with the recent erection of brick business buildings and attractive residences.

Progressive Leaders

Realizing that the opening of the new South Plains railroad is one of the most important events in the town's history, citizens of Quitaque are planning a wonderful and typical West Texas reception for those passengers who ride through here on special trains on Nov. 20 to mark the formal opening of a road that taps one of the richest sections in all the southwest.

Arrangements have been made to have Quitaque's streets decorated with flags and bunting on Nov. 20 and the town's populace will turn out en masse when the special trains arrive. G. Tunnell is chairman of the committee that has been making arrangements for the big celebration.

A visit to Quitaque impresses one with the spirit of progressiveness held by the business men—men who who look forward to the day when the city will assume a much greater role in West Texas than it has ever played before.

Towering crags and cedar clad hills, rugged canyons and plains covered with an abundance of grass form an unique and attractive background for Quitaque. This was the scene of some great engineering work on the part of the Denver railroad. It was necessary to construct two large tunnels near here in order that the new South Plains railroad might climb the Cap Rock.

Business men of Quitaque did not wait for the South Plains road to be built before they started taking an interest in their town and building for the future. This was started a number of years ago and today the town is ready to start reaping the benefits that are certain to result from the new line.

Building Program

During the past year Quitaque has enjoyed an unprecedented growth. G. H. Russell, editor of the Quitaque Post, estimates that buildings which have either been completed here recently or are now under the course of construction involve an expenditure of about half a million dollars.

This building program has included the erection of numerous modern brick business buildings, schools, a new cotton gin, cotton compress, sewerage system and many beautiful residences.

The discovery of water at shallow depth near the city has solved Quitaque's water supply problem and the streets of the town will be laid immediately with six-inch and eight-inch pipes that afford not only an adequate water supply but also provide good fire protection.

The wells that provide the water produce more than 300 gallons of pure water every minute and an automatic pumping station keeps the town reservoir filled at all times. A six-inch pipe leads from the wells to the receptacles. Two 50,000 gallon capacity reservoirs will be used as a reserve, giving the city a water supply of 150,000 gallons.

Gas Provided

Quitaque has granted a gas franchise and actual work of installing the system is expected to be started soon. The surveys are now being made for a modern sewerage system and the town is furnished with electric power by the West Texas Utilities company.

Splendid buildings house more than 530 school students. These buildings are provided with up-to-date equipment and well qualified instructors are employed. The town's schools are recognized as among the best in this section of the state.

Among the recently constructed buildings here is the new depot. It is a brick structure. G. C. Cobb, the agent, with his family has already moved here from Estelline.

Quitaque is not only a town of good business establishments, good schools, good homes but also a city of good churches, thus providing a well-balanced community.

The town has a chamber of commerce that is functioning actively and helping to build the community on a permanent foundation. O. Arthur is president of the organization. Business men are cooperating splendidly in the work of the chamber.

The territory surrounding Quitaque is prosperous this year, in spite of the fact that some West Texas sections have experienced a rather poor crop season. It is expected that more than 7,000 bales of cotton will be ginned here this year.

Cotton is the principal crop in Quitaque's trade territory but the farmers are not dependent upon the staple yield alone. They are raising an abundance of feed and the yield is reported to be good this season.

Steak Country

There are a number of fine herds of cattle in the territory adjacent to the town and Quitaque can easily be proud of the its "K-C" steaks as well as its cotton and feed crops. Much of the country near here is excellent for grazing and farmers are gradually improving the quality of their herds.

The new South Plains railroad means a great deal for Quitaque for it provides an outlet to the other sections of Texas and the Southwest in general. Pioneers of the town have long looked forward to the coming of the railroad and on Nov. 20 they will see their dreams realized.

Any visitor in this town who will survey the existing conditions and the prospects for the future can not help but realize the reason why Quitaque is called the "Queen City of the Valley."

Silverton Boasts Scenes of Beauty As Well As Increasing Commerce

Sheer Cliffs Along Brim of Cap Rock Afford Natural Beauty With Color

SILVERTON, Texas, Nov. 19.—Rome may have been built on seven hills but it hasn't a thing on Silverton for this city is built on the greatest hill of all the Southwest—the great staked plains of Texas, stretching away for miles upon miles from the Cap Rock which rises some 600 feet nearby.

Some of the most beautiful and inspiring scenery in the entire state of Texas can be viewed near Silverton where the Cap Rock suddenly ends, and drops hundreds of feet to meet the rolling prairies that stretch to the east.

Rugged canyons and steep hills are to be seen as the Cap Rock is climbed to reach the great South Plains. And upon the top of this hill, a hill that has upon its tops thousands upon thousands of acres well adapted to agriculture, dairy, poultry raising and the cattle industry is located Silverton, county seat of Briscoe county.

Barbecue Promised

Silverton has long been known as one of the best inland county seat towns in the state but with the completion of the new South Plains extension of the Denver road which comes up to this city, the town is certain to assume a greater and far more important role in the march of progress that has characterized the West Texas section for the past several years.

Those who travel on the various special trains that will be run over the South Plains railroad when passenger service is formally inaugurated on Nov. 20 will be treated to a typical West Texas barbecue during the noon hour.

All business men of the town are expecting to gather at the depot and several are expected to make short talks, welcoming the visitors to the Briscoe county seat.

During the past 12 months Silverton has enjoyed a wonderful building program. There have been three grain elevators and one new cotton gin constructed. About 12 new modern store buildings have been erected and a motion picture show has opened.

By next Jan. 1 it is expected that between 35 and 40 new homes will have been constructed here. Business men estimate that the building program this year now totals from $500,000 to $750,000.

Silverton has a new hotel that affords good accommodations for traveling men who are certain to call here in increasing numbers now that the new railroad runs into the city. This hotel has about 18 rooms.

The city waterworks system was completed about three months ago. It has a 100,000 gallon storage capacity. Water is obtained from a well. The West Texas Gas company has been granted a franchise and natural gas is expected to be available for Silverton residents by next spring.

Modern Conveniences

The West Texas Utilities company furnishes Silverton with electric power on a line running out of Plainview. The local telephone system is owned by the State Telephone company.

An election has been called for Dec. 6 when Silverton voters will pass on a $100,000 school bond issue. If the issuance of the bonds is approved the funds will be used for the erection of a new high school building. There is already one school building here in which about 500 students are housed. The assessed valuation of the Silverton independent school district is about $3,000,000.

Business men have talked considerable recently of providing the town with a modern and adequate sewerage system and definite steps along this line will no doubt be taken in the near future.

Bank deposits in Silverton total about $250,000. The town's population totals around 1,200.

Farmers Diversify

It is expected that 3,500 bales of cotton will be ginned in Silverton this year. However, farmers in this vicinity are not depending solely on cotton for a living but are raising their own feed and paying a great deal of attention to the raising of poultry and breeding of good dairy stock. A car load of high grade Jerseys was shipped into this section last summer.

Entrance of the South Plains railroad into Silverton has already had its effect for three car loads of fine Hereford cattle have been shipped from the town recently.

T. M. Nichols is mayor of Silverton. Ernest Tibbets is president and O. R. Tipps, secretary of the chamber of commerce. Ralph L. Buell is editor of the Briscoe County News, which is a Nunn-Warren publication.

LUBBOCK GAINS ANOTHER SPOKE

"Hub of Plains" Boasts Six Rail Outlets

LUBBOCK, Texas, Nov. 19.—Lubbock, "Hub of the Plains," has gained another very important spoke in its constantly enlarging wheel of development with the completion of the Denver's South Plains railroad extension.

This city now has six rail outlets, radiating in all directions from the city. These railroads, with the good roads that parallel them make for easy accessibility from Lubbock to all sections of the plains country.

Heavy Building

Lubbock's growth during the past few years has been most remarkable and today the town is probably the fastest growing city in all of West Texas. It is estimated that building permits now total about $3,000,000 this year.

Recently the government appropriated $165,000 for a new federal building, with $50,000 of the fund available during the fiscal year starting in july, 1928.

One hundred or more wholesale distributing houses here serve more than 16 counties that surround Lubbock. Only about 25 per cent of the farm land surrounding the town is now in cultivation which means that a constant influx of farmers to this area is certain.

The Texas Technological college, which opened here in 1925 has been a great help in the fast development of the city. Establishment of the college here resulted in hundreds of families moving to Lubbock and making the town their home.

On Dec. 1 Lubbock county will vote on a $2,004,000 road bond issue. If this issue is approved roads will be paved in all directions from the city, the total length of which will be about 175 miles.

Bank deposits in the city of Lubbock total more than $4,500,000.

In addition to the territory surrounding Lubbock being a cotton country, it holds front rank in the growing of kafir corn, milo maize, feterita, corn, cane, millet, sudan grass, peanuts, wheat, oats, alfalfa, rye, barley, field beans, watermelons, fruits, and a number of other crops.

Under these conditions, dairying, poultry and hog raising are very successful. According to government records the average rainfall in this section for the past 25 years has been 21 inches, 75 per cent of which falls through the growing season.

The shallow water underlying the entire section at from 45 to 120 feet guarantees an abundance of water for stock raising, home and commercial gardens and orchards the year round and adds greatly to the profits of diversified farming.

SPECIALS TO VISIT PADUCAH

Cottle County Seat Is Prosperous City

PADUCAH, Texas, Nov. 19.—In the list of thriving and prosperous West Texas towns is included Paducah, county seat of Cottle county and a city of some 3,000 persons.

Wichita Falls business men who are passengers on the special train to be run over the Quanah, Acme & Pacific railroad on Thursday, will have an opportunity to view this town.

Work has just been started here on the paving of more than 50 blocks. One modern brick store building has just been completed here and a new theater has just opened. Other new business firms have just opened their doors here.

Good Farm Country

Paducah is located in a section near where the "Pan" joins the "Handle," a county that is suitable for the growing of almost any agricultural crop.

A complete water and sewer system, municipally owned, covers the town. An abundant supply of good water is obtained from wells along Tongue river, seven miles northwest of the town. Electric power is furnished by the West Texas Utilities company.

The Methodist church has just completed a $25,000 educational building. Erection of a new building is being planned by the Baptist church and the Church of Christ has purchased land on which it is planned to erect a new building.

Paducah has a good school system, a live chamber of commerce and a good weekly newspaper. Bank deposits here total more than $987,000.

Cottle county is located in a good cotton producing area. However, the staple crop has been cut short this year and a conservative estimate of the county's yield is 25,000 bales. Grain sorghums do well in this territory and some wheat, oats and corn is raised.

Dairying Grows

Although still in its infancy here, dairying is being considered more seriously by the farmers than ever before. A large number of registered cattle have been shipped into the county and the sale of dairy products has increased to a remarkable extent during the past year or so.

Standard bred poultry is fast becoming the rule on Cottle county farms and poultry products comprise a good sized item in the incomes of a great many farmers.

Two transcontinental highways cross Cottle county, crossing each other in Paducah. The Lee highway runs east and west and the Great Plains highway runs north and south.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.—Adv.

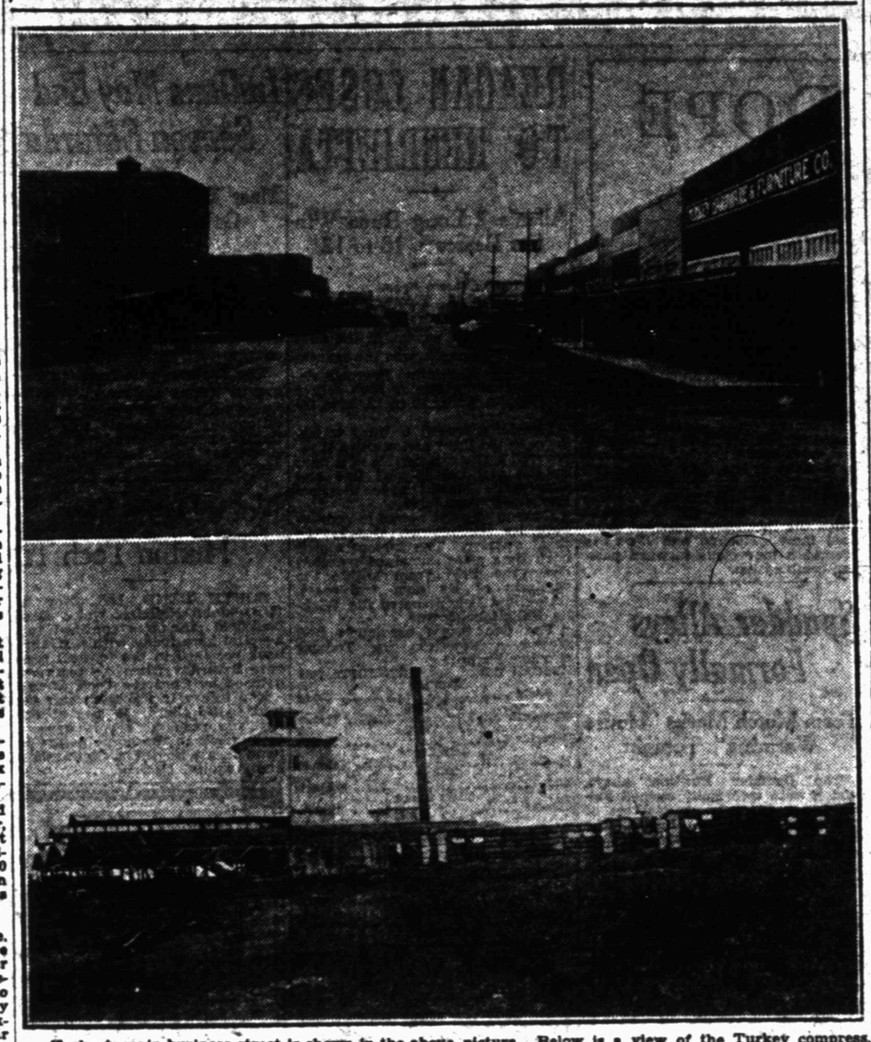

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Floyd County Rich in Agricultural Promise; Rail Visitors To Attend Luncheon in City

LOCKNEY, Texas, Nov. 19.—The city of Lockney, located in the heart of the noted shallow water belt district of the great staked plains, will give passengers on the special trains that run over the new South Plains extension of the Denver railroad a real "feed" when they arrive here at noon of Nov. 21.

Elaborate preparations have been under way for several weeks to give the visitors a welcome they will long remember.

Immediately after the trains arrive at the Lockney station, the passengers will be escorted to the main street of the business district where they will be tendered a lunch consisting of sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee. Ladies of Lockney and the surrounding communities are to donate the food.

Tour of City

Following the luncheon the South Plains visitors from Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Dallas, Fort Worth and other towns, as well as officials of the Denver and the Burlington railroads will be taken in automobiles for a sightseeing tour of the city.

Lockney, a city of some 2,500 population, is located in Floyd county and is the intersection point of the Santa Fe and Denver, and South Plains railroads. It is a city of good schools, churches and attractive homes.

This town has enjoyed a substantial building program during the past year, the development having been given an impetus with the recent completion of the new South Plains railroad.

Among the industries of which Lockney is especially proud is the Lockney Cotton Oil company that was placed in operation less than one year ago.

The mill is said to be among the most modern in the entire South. The company recently started installation of new machinery that will make possible the manufacture of mixed feeds, thus furnishing a balanced ration for the poultry, dairying and hog raising industries.

Big Wheat Crop

Local business is also proud of the Panhandle Sand and Gravel company's pit, 30 miles northeast of here. This company is expending a large amount for the construction of a plant that will work at a wonderful degree of efficiency.

Prospects are favorable for Lockney to continue its rapid growth. It estimated that approximately 120,000 acres in Floyd county is now planted in wheat. Lockney is certain to benefit from a bumper crop which now seems certain to be harvested next year.

The produce business has been very active recently here. During three days of last week local buyers paid about $10,000 to farmers for turkeys.

Lockney's five gins will turn out about 5,000 bales of cotton this season, it is thought.

The territory surrounding Lockney is noted for its shallow water wells which make possible irrigation of crops. The year of 1915 marked the beginning of this irrigation work.

Lord Cowdray, prominent capitalist from the British Isles, seeing the possibilities of the farming industry in the shallow water belt of Floyd county set about to "put the water on top." Thousands of acres of rich, fertile soil was purchased by his company, cut up into small farms, improved and wells were dug and irrigation plants installed.

Farm Development

Farmers from the north and east were brought to Floyd county and the farms were sold to them at a nominal price. Everything went well as long as the head of the concern lived but the war opened and the climax came when the Lusitania was sunk in mid-Atlantic carrying with it the head of the large development enterprise.

The period of stagnation that followed further retarded the development of one of Texas' greatest farming empires. Many wells were abandoned due to the high price of fuel, labor and the low price of farm products. Many farmers were forced to give up their land on account of the period of depression. The irrigation enterprise stood at a standstill.

This year marks the beginning of the rennaisance in irrigation. The West Texas Gas company piped its cheap fuel through the heart of the shallow water belt. The Anderson Clayton company of Houston, Texas, began to promote the practice of irrigation and in keeping with its own preachings purchased an experiment farm nine miles northwest of here. Natural gas was piped from the mains to their farm. Experiments were made with the new fuel and it was found that the cost was reduced about two-thirds. At this time many wells are again being put to use in an effort to insure the piping of the cheap fuel to the farms.

Electric power companies are very much interested in the supplying of cheap electric power for irrigation purposes. Experiments will soon be under way to determine the minimum and maximum cost of electric power for irrigation purposes.

The amount of available water has never been questioned as some of the wells have pumped 24 hours per day for many weeks and the water has never been lowered more than one foot. It seems as if the whole shallow water belt is underlaid with a large river af water that never falls.

Alfalfa has proven to be a very successful crop for even in the driest year, two irrigations at the proper time will insure a good crop. W. H. Crawford, four miles southwest of Lockney harvested 36 tons of alfalfa from 26 acres on the first cutting and the land usually produces four and sometimes five cuttings.

Wheat on irrigated land produced 40 bushels per acre on the W. A. Stowe farm, four miles northwest of Lockney while the yield was only seven bushels per acre on an adjoining dry-land farm.

By experimental work it has been found that cotton land watered before the crop is planted will produce in the neighborhood of one-fourth bale to the acre more than will the dry-land cotton unless the season is very favorable.

Cane, milo, higera, kaffir, corn, peanuts and any other crop grown in the temperate zone will produce in proportion to the estimates of the respective crops mentioned above.

Oats have been known to average more than 25 bushels per acre more on Floyd county irrigated land than on the dry farmed land.

With the use of fuel oil, irrigation has cost the average farmer in the neighborhood of $2 per acre but with the incoming of cheap fuel in the form of natural gas that cost should be cut to less than $1 per acre.

Banker's Farm Column Wins School Honor

RUSSELL, Kan., Nov. 19, (AP)—A banker is hailed as one of the best newspaper reporters in Kansas.

He is J. P. Ruppenthal, vice-president of the Farmers State bank of Russell and writer of a column of agricultural news in the Russell Record, a semi-weekly.

The journalism department of the Kansas State Agricultural college has awarded him a certificate which says he is the writer of the best farm column in Kanas.

Although never connected with a newspaper on a full-time basis, Ruppenthal began his "journalistic career" 35 years ago, when he wrote personal items about the rural neighborhood in which he was teaching school.

Stubborn Cough Quickly Ended by Famous Recipe

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that usually follow the "flu."

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but as it is absorbed into the blood, it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

OPTIMISM AT SOUTH PLAINS

"Baby" of Region Starts Growing Fast

SOUTH PLAINS, Texas, Nov. 19.—South Plains may be one of the youngest and smallest towns on the South Plains extension of the Denver railroad but it promises to cast off its swaddling clothes in the near future.

Citizens of South Plains, although they are as yet few in numbers, are very optimistic over the town's future and believe it will make one of the most important trading centers along the new railroad.

A. B. Brown, J. S. Edwards and W. F. Cooke comprise the committee in charge of the reception that will be tendered passengers on the special trains that will arrive here Nov. 20.

16 Months Old

The entire populace of the town is expected to gather at the depot. Arrangements are being made to have an agricultural exhibit near the tracks in order that visitors may see the wonderful farm products raised on the plains near here.

Sixteen months ago there was not a single building to mark the location of South Plains. Today there is one drug store, two grocery stores, one hotel, cafe, barber shop, lumber yard, hardware store, cotton gin, grain elevator, machine shop, a filling station and the postoffice.

South Plains is not yet an incorporated city but steps along this line are expected to be taken in the next 12 months.

This town had a water works system when it was one year old. The system is owned by A. B. Brown. Water is obtained from a 200-foot well. Electricity is furnished the town from a line running out of Plainview.

Excellent farming country surrounds South Plains and good cotton and feed crops have been raised this year. One exceptionally good yield of a feed crop has been reported by Wilbur Wilson, living four miles north of here. Mr. Wilson had 23 acres planted in higeria which averaged 83 bushels to the acre.

Fine Hog Ranch

South Plains is also proud of the Staniforth brothers hog ranch, located four miles east of the town. About 750 Duroc and Poland China hogs are on the farm used as brood stock. In addition there are from between 600 and 700 pigs. Four world chamoion Poland China hogs are on the farm.

Acres in this territory planted in wheat, grain sorghums and cotton are about equally divided. The dairying and poultry industry is receiving more attention from the farmers than ever before as they realize they must abandon the "one crop" idea of farming.

Two large ranches in the vicinity of South Plains have recently been broken up into smaller farms. This is expected to result in a marked increase in the section's population.

Although just in its infancy, South Plains expects to do big things in the next few years and there is no doubt but that it will.

Drive on for Municipal Landing Field

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Nov. 19.—Headed by the chamber of commerce, all the civic organizations and the citizenry in general are making a concentrated drive to give this city an airport in the near future.

At the last meeting of the Breckenridge Lions club the principal speaker was F. G. Yonkers of Ranger, head of the movement which recently put over the airport program in that city. Mr. Yonkers declared that Breckenridge is the largest city without an airport in a state which leads all the United States in the number of landing fields maintained. He also described the co-ordination of effort on the part of Ranger organizations which speedily brought an up-to-date airport into being there.

NEW BUILDING IN PETERSBURG

Dream Comes True As Railroad Enters

PETERSBURG, Texas, Nov. 19.—Residents of Petersburg and the surrounding country are about to have a long sought desire realized, the entrance of a railroad line into the town.

Completion of the new South Plains extension of the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad means a great deal for Petersburg. The town has always been a good inland trading center but the railroad means it will enjoy a greater growth than ever before and take its place with other thriving West Texas railroad communities.

Petersburg is located in the extreme southeastern corner of Hale county about 25 miles from Plainview, a similar distance from Lubbock and about 30 miles from Floydada. This affords the town an excellent trade territory.

Grain Elevators

Entrance of the South Plains extension of the Denver railroad has already has its effect upon Petersburg. Since the rails have been laid through the town two grain elevators have been erected, a new theater has been built and many new and attractive residences have made their appearance. The town has an excellent school.

Citizens of Petersburg are expecting that the year of 1930 will see the further continuance of the town's building program. Good farming land stretches in all directions from the town. Wheat, cotton and feed can be grown in abundance. Farmers are paying a great deal of attention to the diversification of their crops. Herds of good dairy cattle can be seen on many of the farms.

Recent rains have given indication of a good wheat crop next year and farmers of the territory and merchants of Petersburg are certain to profit from the money that the grain will command.

Great Train

When the special trains stop in Petersburg on Nov. 21 the hundreds of visitors are certain to get a cordial welcome. Citizens of the town are more than glad that the railroad is completed and they are going to show their appreciation by turning out in full force to greet the passengers on the various special trains that mark the formal opening of the new South Plains extension.

"You cannot 'Sears Roebuck' insurance any more than you can 'mail order' the practice of law or medicine," says Claris Adams, brilliant insurance attorney.

Well, let's see. Imagine one of your policy-catalog (if such a thing existed) in front holders or prospects with an open insurance of him, writing down on a pink order form something like this:

The Mail Insurance Company,

Gentlemen: Please forward by parcel post, C. O. D., the following insurance:

1 Small liability policy for Ford car, to cost not over	10.00
1 Fire and Theft Policy for same	8.60
1 Residence Public Liability Policy for five-room bungalow	5.50

Of course, you can't imagine such a thing. Nobody could or would buy insurance this way. Why not? Because insurance isn't an article that can be sold like clothes or shoes or potatoes—it is a contract.

Bare Facts

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—President Cal certainly violated no confidential covenants when he startled the five-tube world by broadcasting our naval secrets.

We cannot understand what made Cal get off his small-navy diet.

Overnight he went in for proteins and armored calories with the result that the navy gained five hundred million tons in one meal.

Geneva is the town where the Red Cross started and the double-cross never even hesitated.

We had a beautiful navy at that time but that conference flattened it.

Our armament motto became, "first in war, second in peace conferences and third in the hearts of the junk man."

They took our nice navy out like a cat in a bag. We did not even have enough boats left to take Robinson Crusoe off his island.

Suddenly, Cal took a country twist on the situation and realized that a nation without a navy was a heel without a shoe.

Now, when the children sing, "The Army and Navy Forever," they won't mean a Boy Scout in a canoe.

We are glad that Cal has decided to launch a big turkey for future Thanksgivings.

And after that big navy is all built—

But think of all the fun we will get scrapping it.

Then we can build another one—

And by that time—

Instead of christening the navy with a bottle of champagne—

We will owe so much money that we will smack each new boat over the nose with—

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

EXCEPT FOR TEAMS which are preparing for final games on Thanksgiving day or the following Saturday, notably the Texas members of the Southwestern conference, the leading elevens of the country will be in action this week. Indeed, quite a few clubs will finish their schedules with next Saturday's play, although there are many games booked for Turkey day and a few the following Saturday, and even into Dec. 8. This week being the start of the grid climax, it follows of course that there are a host of vastly important games to be played.

Ten years, even five years ago, a Yale-Harvard game would be the game of the day. But the "Big Three" no longer exists and the football dominance that was held by that trio has been shattered. Still, there remains sufficient traditions around the Yale-Harvard contest to make it an outstanding battle of the day, even though there is nothing more at stake, to the outside world at least, than the mere victory. But triumph will make it a successful season at either institution and this game this week at New Haven would be a corking game between two very strong teams.

NEBRASKA'S undefeated team, which, however, was tied by Pittsburgh, meets the West Point Cadets on the plains in one of the day's feature games and an outstanding intersectional combat of the year. Carnegie Tech's conquerors of Notre Dame, unbeaten and untied, clash with a powerful New York university eleven. Wisconsin meets its old foe, the northmen of Minnesota, and in addition to this traditional battle the Big Ten title is involved, Wisconsin being the sole unbeaten Western conference team.

OKLAHOMA and Oklahoma Aggies clash at Stillwater in the game that is surrounded with greater and more ancient rivalry than any contest of Sooner state teams. California meets Stanford. Fordham engages Georgetown. Illinois battles Ohio State. Michigan takes on Iowa. Missouri and Kansas joust in their annual melee. Northwestern meets Dartmouth in an important intersectional fray. Princeton meets Navy in a colorful contest. Purdue has a tussel with Indiana for the championship of George Ade's state.

ONLY FOUR MAJOR collegiate elevens which play representative schedules have not been tied or beaten this season. Three are in the South and the other is in the East. They are Georgia Tech, Tennessee, Florida and Carnegie Tech. The two Techs have played the harder schedule, probably, and each numbers Notre Dame among its victims. However, Tennessee and Florida have engaged some foremost clubs of its section, particularly the Vols.

Carnegie Tech, which is in Pittsburgh, and like Pittsburgh university, is rated as an eastern team, is in what might be termed the far East. Boston college is the only major team in the near East that hasn't been beaten or tied, but the Hub town boys haven't encountered sufficient opposition to give them high national rating, though they have defeated some good teams, notably Fordham.

TWO TEAMS in the Middle West have not been defeated, but were tied. They are Wisconsin, held even by Purdue early in the season, and Nebraska, fought to a scoreless no-decision last week by Pittsburgh. Out in the far West, California and Southern California have not been defeated, but their own 0 to 0 mars their records.

DETROIT and Ohio Wesleyan have not been tied or beaten—and they have played some good teams. Indeed, Ohio Wesleyan beat both Michigan and Navy, and Detroit has beaten some of the best so-called "secondary" schools, and only last week ran a crusher over Fordham right in the New York club's own ballwick. Detroit, incidentally, is coached by Gus Dorais, who was a teammate with Knute Rockne when the Irish first achieved great grid fame. Rockne and Dorais formed a marvelous forward passing combination.

Spudder Alleys Formally Open

Team Match Marks "House Warming" Tonight

The Spudder Bowling alleys, which were informally opened Friday when enthusiastic devotees of the sport insisted on hurling the balls down the maples; and then opened officially Saturday, will have a third and final formal opening tonight.

Jim Galloway and Pete Turgeon, proprietors, as it says on the door leading to the handsome Spudder alleys, have made plans for an auspicious "house-warming" tonight. The alleys will be opened for inspection at 7:30 o'clock and at 9 o'clock a special team match between leading bowlers of the city will be played.

"Swede" Johnson won the pair of bowling shoes offered by the Spudder alleys for the highest score in play Saturday. He rolled a 234.

Several business houses and oil concerns are forming teams and the organization of a bowling league is to be undertaken soon. Teams desirous of entering the league are asked to communicate with Galloway or Turgeon.

REAGAN LOSES TO HENRIETTA

Allen's 2 Long Runs Win For Bearcats, 18 to 12

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Nov. 19.—Two 75-yard runs by Allen on intercepted forward passes, in the first and third quarters, was the margin by which Henrietta Bearcats defeated Reagan Junior high school of Wichita Falls, 18 to 12, here today.

Henrietta scored a third touchdown in the third period when it recovered a Reagan fumble of a punt on the visitors' 15-yard line and Chadwick plunged over the goal line a few plays later.

Reagan showed power in scoring both its touchdowns, also in the third quarter. The juniors scored each time after sustained marches down the field from within the shadows of its own goal posts. Raley and Logan scored the Wichita Falls touchdowns.

The two teams previously had played a scoreless tie. Today's starting lineup:

REAGAN (12)	Position	HENRIETTA (18)

MILT GORDON HIGHLY RATED

But Mr. Swenson Will Be Back For Old Job

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The Spudders have a new third baseman. Rather, they have a young man who MAY be the new third baseman. Mr. Walter Swenson, known as Wally, probably will have a deal to say about that. Anyhow, J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Wichita Falls club, yesterday announced the purchase of Milton Gordon from the Wilkes-Barre club of the New York-Pennsylvania league.

Milton bats right-handed and throws the same way. Who ever heard of a left-handed third baseman? In 67 games in the NYP loop last season, Gordon clouted for a mark of .290. He is said to be a long-distance hitter of no mean ability and his record for those 67 games bears out that belief.

Gets Hit a Game

Gordon got exactly as many hits as he played games—67, of which five were doubles, six triples and two home runs, 90 total bases. He also stole seven bases.

The latest addition to Spudder ranks is a husky young man. His age isn't known by Prexy Gardner but he is a mere youngster, is sound of wind and limb, chews tobacco only in the ball game, and in fact has all the requisites and appearances of a REAL ball players. He was highly touted to Boss Gardner by several baseball men who know diamond ability when they see it.

The purchase price for Gordon was not announced.

Rival for Swenson

Acquisition of the youngster will give Swenson a rival for the job of guarding the hot corner but doesn't mean that Wally is on the market. Far from it. Gardner merely will bring him to camp to enable Manager Jim Galloway to look over the youngster, though of course if the kid shows the stuff he will be retained.

The New York-Pennsylvania is a class B league. Incidentally, it was from a class B circuit, the Three-Eye, that Swenson was purchased two years ago.

Landis Approves Oklahoma Deal

Sale of Pitcher Thomas to Yanks Finally Okeyed

By BILL SLOCUM

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (US)—In a bulletin from the office of Commissioner Landis is the information that the deal between the New York Yankees and the Oklahoma City club of the Western league for the services of Pitcher Fay Thomas has passed its final test and all is O. K.

Thus ended what for a time threatened to be a wrangle involving the two New York ball clubs. From the office of the commissioner comes the word that the Giants had not been deprived of their rights in the transaction, this being the suspicion of Mr. Landis when he refused at an earlier date to sanction the deal.

History of His Case

Thomas, you may recall if you happen to have a good memory for players who come and go along the baseball highway, bobbed up at the Giants' camp in Sarasota three or four years ago, supposedly a free agent. He had been recommended to John McGraw by Sam Crawford, the thumping Tiger of ten years ago. Thomas made quite an impression on McGraw, particularly with his speed, but it was apparent that he needed some seasoning in the minors.

McGraw sent Thomas to George Weiss' New Haven club and he made quite a record as a strikeout artist during his stay in the Eastern league. He was recalled in the fall and had gone elsewhere for higher education in baseball when it was discovered that he had not been a free agent at all. He had signed with Oklahoma City in the Western league before he went to Sarasota.

Whereupon Commissioner Landis suspended the young man for a year and canceled all agreements which had been made for his services.

During the past season Thomas was reinstated and he joined the Oklahoma City team. It was late and he did little work, but he attracted the eye of a Yankee scout and the New York club entered into negotiations with Manager Jack Holland for his purchase. Terms were agreed upon and about the time the announcement of his capture was made at the Yankees' office Commissioner Landis stepped in and shouted:

"Just a minute. The deal is off until you hear more from me."

The commissioner figured that if Thomas was coming back to the majors the Giants should have first call to his services. Then he began an investigation and it ended when the Oklahoma City club officials showed him that Thomas had been offered to the Giants.

So Thomas will report at St. Petersburg next spring to let Miller Huggins look over that fast ball.

CALIFORNIA TO PLAY STANFORD

"Big Game" Features Coast Football This Week

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19. (UP)—The Pacific Coast football race reaches a climax this week with the most colorful spectacle of Far West gridirons—the annual "big game" between California and Stanford.

Whether or not a title hangs in the balance, the "big game" always is a gala affair because of the hosts of alumni in this section and the traditional rivalry of the universities. But this year it assumes more than the usual importance because of California's brilliant record.

Bears "Beating Back"

The Golden Bears, beating back after years of mediocre showings toward a resemblance to the "wonder teams" built by the late Andy Smith, are tied with Southern California for the conference leadership. The closeness of the race is illustrated by the 0-0 tie played by California and U. S. C.

A win over the Cards by California would prevent the Trojans from gaining a clear-cut edge in the race, and a decisive victory for the Bears would even put them on top, in the estimation of grid followers, if not in percentage figures.

Southern California on Saturday demonstrated the power of its reserves by turning back the powerful Washington State team, 27 to 13. Stanford whipped the University of Washington Huskies, 12 to 0 and California had an easy 60 to 0 victory over the non-conference Nevada Jackrabbits.

Trojans Meet Idaho

Southern California was without the services of Don Williams, star quarterback. The Trojans have only Idaho to play in their conference schedule and it seems safe to assume they will go through the conference season without a defeat, thus placing California in the more difficult position of having to beat Stanford, which U. S. C. formerly conquered.

Oregon staged a surprise Saturday by defeating Oregon State in the annual game, 12 to 0. The state team had been favored.

ALBION TAKES TITLE

ALBION, Mich., Nov. 19. (UP)—Albion college, for the first time in 37 years won the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic association football title today by defeating Hope college, 7 to 0. The victory gave them a clean record of not having been defeated or tied this season.

Runyon Writes of Odd Nicknames Bestowed Upon Various Notables

Most Unique Monicker He Has Encountered Is "Innocence"—and It Belongs to Persistent Criminal

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Speaking of monickers, as I was doing the other day, the strangest monicker I ever came upon is appended to a resident in the bright city of Syracuse.

He is a young man with an open countenance, and a most guileless expression. Gazing upon his chirp-and-chase, or face, I thought of a wide-eyed child that suspects naught of the snares and pitfalls of this wicked world.

I was dumfounded when someone informed me that the young man had but recently been a boarder at one of the state's penal institutions. That he was as often in durance vile, as not.

"What might that young man's name be?" I asked Mr. Jack Lewis, the Syracuse boxing promoter and referee.

"It might be almost anything," replied Mr. Lewis. "We call him 'Innocence'."

It was only after an acquaintance of years that I learned that "Bugs" Baer's other name is Arthur. The humorist's monicker was derived from the fact that he used to be a cartoonist, and always drew a little bug in the form of a baseball in one corner of his cartoons, as a sort of a trademark.

There are ever so many citizens of these United States who have more or less fame by their monickers, but whose real names are rarely mentioned.

They are not only of the sporting world. You find them in politics and business, as witness "Bath House John" and "Hinky Dink" of Chicago, and the late "Big Tim," and "Little Tim" of a bygone political era in New York, whose surname of Sullivan was unnecessary for identification in conversation years ago.

And there were "Bet-a-Million" Gates and "Diamond Jim" Brady. Big business men, big plungers, big boulevardiers, the one rather more of this than the other. The newspapers like these picturesque appellations.

"Pittsburgh Phil," whose other name was Smith, was the greatest turf plunger of his time. After him came "Chicago" O'Brien, the former bricklayer who has made himself a wealthy man off the races by betting on those hot favorites to show.

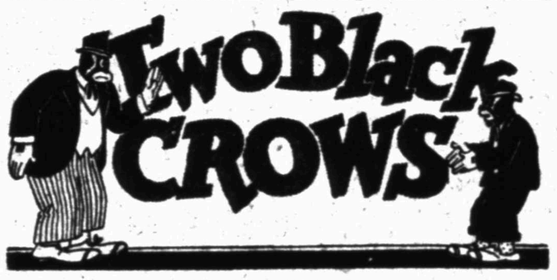

"The Singin' Kid" is a racetrack character whose right name is Arthur Loftis. He is called "The Singin' Kid" because of a high tenor voice that he is willing to let fly on slight provocation. There are a millions "Kids" of one kind and another scattered around the country. "The Yellow Kid," "The Money-From-Home-Kid." I always thought the most picturesque kid-monicker was that of "The Honey Grove Kid" who came from Honey Grove, Texas.

"Palmer House" Ryan is a Chicago turf operator. "Reliable" Ryan was a bald-headed chap out of Cincinnati, who owned a noted horse named Reliable. Sometimes this Ryan was called "Get-Rich-Quick" Ryan.

"Big Ben," who was always identified as "Out of St. Louis," was a great crap shooter of years ago. There is an upstate New York sporting man widely known as "Blues," whose real name I never heard. "New Orleans" is a turf follower out of that city.

"The Boffer" is Johnny Broderick, one of the ablest of the New York detectives. That tag was hung on him by Frankie MacDonald, the well known sporting man, because of Broderick's adeptness with his blackjack in moment of emergency, which Mr. MacDonald describes as "Boffing."

An old-time hobo monicker that was once widely known as "A-No-1," carved on the water tanks along every right-of-way between the coasts. And with it you would not infrequently find "Pittsburgh Skin." "Denver Shine" and scores of other monickers almost as well known among the fraternity.

MORAN AND MACK

Moran—You knows EVERYTHING, don't you Big Boy?

Mack—If I don't know it, then it ain't in the news reels.

Moran—Well, how long is a string?

Mack—What kinda string?

Moran—A PINK string.

Mack—You don't mean a GREEN string, does you?

Moran—Maybe it was.

Mack—See that. You starts a subject and you can't finish it. You shouldn't start argufying with people what has had their heads educated.

Moran—Is your head educated?

Mack—Yes sir, there's three lumps on it from big college football games.

Moran—Well, I knows MY onions too.

Mack—If all you knows is ONIONS, I don't wanta meet your friends.

Moran—You'd like to meet an onion if it was in a Thanksgivin' turkey.

DALLAS BUYS VET BARNABE

Steers Acquire Lefthander From White Sox

DALLAS, Nov. 19. (AP)—The acquisition of Charlie Barnabe, left-handed pitcher, from the Chicago White Sox, is expected to aid the Dallas Steers materially in their fight for the 1929 Texas league flag. Announcement of the purchase of the veteran portsider was made yesterday by Bob Tariton, business manager of the Herd.

With the sixth place Waco Cubs last season, Barnabe turned in 12 victories against the same number of defeats.

With Barnabe came three young pitchers, Phil Hensick from Jacksonville, Fla., William Windsor and Elmer Bray from Palestine of the Lone Star league. All three will qualify under the rookie rule.

Johnny Farrell to Return to Florida

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Nov. 19. (UP)—Johnny Farrell, open golf champion of the United States again will act as professional at the St. Augustine links this winter, it was announced today. He will take up his duties shortly after the Christmas season.

With him as co-professional will be his brother Jimmy, who pairs with Johnny as pro at the Quaker Ridge club, Mamroneck, L. I., during the northern golf season.

Farrell's career as a golfer was climaxed this year by his extra-round victory over Bobby Jones for the national open title.

Grid Shutout Since 1925

DALLAS, Nov. 19. (AP)—When the Baylor Bears defeated the Southern Methodist university Mustangs Saturday, 2 to 0, it was the first time a Mustang eleven had been blanketed since the 1925 season. Arkansas last had the distinction holding the Ponies to a scoreless tie that year.

Not since that time has any team as much as held the Methodists scoreless in the first half until the Bears turned the trick. Saturday's loss was the fourth for the Mustangs since 1925.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (AP)—The track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union tonight recommended that the 1929 national senior and junior outdoor championship be held at Denver. This meet is held annually around July 4.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Anyhow, Ken Strong of New York U. Leads in Grid Scoring

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (UP)—Ken Strong, New York university's sensational halfback, continues to lead the nation's gridiron scorers by virtue of three touchdowns and as many extra points scored in the game with Missouri Saturday.

The 21 points scored Saturday brought his total for the season to 138—19 touchdowns and 25 extra points.

Utah Still Tops Rocky Mountain

DENVER, Nov. 19. (UP)—Utah university still leads the Rocky Mountain conference, but a victory over Utah Aggies on Thanksgiving day is necessary if the Utes are to finish the season in first place.

Colorado university provided an upset Saturday by defeating Colorado college, 24 to 19. Colorado has one more game to play, against Denver, and a win, coupled with a Utah defeat, would put Colorado in first place.

Utah was tied by Brigham Young Saturday, 0-0.

"I'll Tell the World I Feel Like a New Man Now, and Am Getting Better Every Day," Says Bellevue, Texas, Farmer

'THIS ORGATONE IS SOME MEDICINE,' SAYS CURRY

Still the demand for Orgatone in Wichita Falls increases.

Allison's Drug Store is now becoming accustomed to the enormous sales of the great health builder and what a few weeks ago seemed a phenomenal record has now paled into insignificance in the face of a steadily increased number of bottles sold daily.

Such an acceptance, however, of a medicine is amazing. Nothing like it has ever been heard of.

"There is only one answer to this tremendous demand—merit. Orgatone produces results as nothing else can in the way of restoring people to normal health, and nothing on earth can keep it from outselling all other preparations."

With convincing proof of the remarkable health powers of the medicine, such as that of Wm. Curry, living at Bellevue, Texas, it is easy to understand why everybody is taking and praising Orgatone.

"I'll tell the world I feel like a new man and am getting better every day—this Orgatone is some medicine," declares Mr. Curry. "I'll tell you it just beats anything I have ever taken or heard of for stomach trouble.

"I know I had as bad a case of stomach trouble as any man ever had. I had simply gotten to the point where I was forced to live on nothing but the very lightest of food—milk, soft boiled eggs, cereals—no sooner would I eat a meal than everything would turn sour and feel like lead in my stomach, and I would have such terrible spells of heartburn and sick headaches I could hardly stand them.

"Gas would bloat me up until I was in agony all over, I would get so weak and out of strength that many times I didn't feel like I could even go to my work, much less do anything after I got there. I had to always be taking strong laxatives for constipation, and my nerves were so upset I could hardly get a wink of sleep. Mornings I got up with a bad taste in my mouth, my stomach feeling upset and feeling like I just couldn't make it through the day and the bad part of it was that nothing I could find seemed to relieve me a particle.

"Well, sir, so many Wichita Falls people were praising Orgatone that when one of the druggists here recommended it to me also, I didn't wait any longer to try it out, and from the quick way it brought me relief I knew I had got hold of the best medicine ever sold in a drug store.

"I am just starting on my second bottle now and I'll tell the world my stomach just seems to have been made over. I am gaining in strength daily, sleeping like a top every night, and feel full of new life and energy. I can hardly realize I am the same man.

"Yes, sir, just send anybody to me, if they want to know what a real medicine Orgatone is. Farming men or anybody else will get an earful about Orgatone from me."

Genuine Orgatone is sold in Wichita Falls, exclusively by the Allison Drug Store, 716 Indiana avenue, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative who is meeting the public daily and charges nothing to explain his theories on health and hygiene. All mail orders filled promptly by mail upon receipt of price, one bottle $1.25 per bottle or six bottles $6.25.—Adv.

Power Transmission Lines Bring Many Advantages to a Community

CHIEF among the advantages of electric power transmission lines is flexible service capacity. Many conditions, such as heat or cold, cloudy and stormy weather, cause variations in the demand for electric service in any city. Today the greatest demand may be at six A. M.; tomorrow it may come at ten A. M.; and the next day at eight P. M. When a city has transmission line service these variations are instantly met, with ease. But when a city depends upon an isolated power plant it is probable that a heavy load at an unusual hour will result in poor service for part or all of its customers.

Greater dependability is another big advantage of transmission line service. It is usual for a city to have two and sometimes five or six sources of power when served by transmission lines. So that if one source of power is cut out for any reason, another is instantly switched into use. In case of an isolated power plant an accident in the plant itself is likely to throw all or a part of the city out of service for a time.

Ability to Increase Power Capacity is a mighty important advantage to any city that has ambition to become truly great. Transmission lines permit instant and almost unlimited increases in the amount of electric power which can be served a city. An isolated plant must undergo drastic structural changes at great cost in order to increase its capacity very much. And the process is slow. Cities have been known to lose important industries because they could not supply enough electric power when it was needed for the industry's establishment or expansion.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (AP)—Comparatively light private figures on ginnings to Nov. 14 with reports of unfavorable weather in the South, and relatively steady cables, seemed the factors on moderate advances in the cotton market here today. After selling at 19.42 early, January advanced to 19.58 and closed at 19.54, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 6 to 9 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 4 points. There was covering by near month shorts which in some instances was accompanied by selling of later deliveries. Offerings were comparatively light and prices firmed up during the afternoon.

December advanced to 19.65 and March to 19.59, making net advances of about 10 to 13 points on the active positions. The close was within a few points of the best although the bulges seemed to meet some further southern selling or realizing. Two private reports were issued, one of which estimated the ginnings up to Nov. 14 at 11,197,000 bales, while the other made it 11,300,000 bales. These figures, on the average, appeared to receive rather a bullish interpretation, and may have accounted for some of the buying.

The report of the census bureau showing the amount of cotton ginned prior to Nov. 14, is scheduled for publication Wednesday morning. Reports that sales of cotton goods last week had been in excess of production, were probably a contributing factor on the advance from the early decline, although the features most generally mentioned were the small private ginning figures and the steady cables.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 19. (AP)—Following an easier opening the cotton market worked higher today when two private ginnings estimates proved to be more bullish than expected. January contracts which had sold down to 18.89 rallied to 19.02 and closed at 18.96, or 6 points higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 3 to 8 points.

The market opened easy despite higher Liverpool cables than due. First trades were 1 point down to 3 points up and prices eased off a few points after the start on fears of large ginnings, December selling to 18.83, January 18.99 and March 18.96, or 2 to 3 points under Saturday's close.

Later in the morning shorts covered and there was more or less trade buying on two private ginnings reports making the total prior to Nov. 13, 11,197,000 and 11,300,000 bales. The large exports for the day added to the buying which eventually carried December to 18.95, January 19.02 and March 19.08, or 12 to 13 points above the lows and 9 to 10 points over the previous close.

During the afternoon the market was quiet and prices fluctuated within the early range but near the highs until near the end some early buyers took profits and December closed at 18.90 and March 19.06, or 4 to 8 points net higher.

SPINNING REPORT

Spinning spindles in place Oct. 31 totaled 35,413,000, of which 30,315,086 were operated at some time during the month, compared with 28,227,090 for September and 32,535,200 for October, last year.

'Big Ten' Brokers Less Active On Stock Market; Radio in Lead

By BROADMAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (US)—Radio was the oustanding feature of a more irregular and slightly less active market today. It soared in sensational manner despite desperate efforts of shorts to stop its rise and closed 331½ for gain of 30 points after registering new high at 335. Other recent leaders lost under heavy profiting and while making up part of their declines in the afternoon finished slightly under Saturday's final prices.

There was no new influence at work as the selling was precipitated in most part by the belief that last week's trading had been too fast and stabilization of the market would be welcomed. Brokers who act for the "big ten" were noticeably less active although putting support orders in when needed while most of the activity came through the larger commission firms handling "public business."

Steel, Motors, Can and other standard industrials lost fractionally. Kennecott dropped two points on dividend announcement, but Cerro de Pasco and other coppers ruled strong. Oils and rails were quieter and a little lower. Banks called $10,000,000 loans but the rate held at 6½ per cent.

Trust Investment Planned

An investment trust planned by the "big ten" was the popular topic of discussion. Its influence did much to counteract the heavy profit taking met with in the early hours. Those most conversant with the plans of the market leaders warn, however, that not all the stocks mentioned as affected by their operations would be taken in the organization. As Cutten said in Chicago, Saturday, there has been considerable shifting of security holdings by the most active operators in recent weeks.

Another factor of importance is the price at which the planned holding company will take over such stocks as Baldwin, Montgomery Ward, etc. According to current reports the ultimate plan is to sell stock in the holding company to the public. To do so will require that it be made attractive by making the comparatively low priced stocks carry those which have been pushed to prices that discount events for many months to come.

Bearish Propaganda Fails

Bearish propaganda as to important selling of Radio failed of its purpose because the largest holders of the stock have not disposed of any of their original holdings. Due to the amount of stock held by General Motors, Westinghouse, American International and prominent individuals, professionals who are short of the stock eventually will have to effect an agreement to cover.

Bethlehem scored a new high with buyers talking of prospects even beyond January when the long long awaited dividend is expected. Continuation of improvement at current rate, they maintain, will mean extra disbursements during 1929. Kennecott increased its dividend as expected and now stockholders are looking ahead to extra disbursements.

Dividend Raise Expected

Steady absorption of Allied Chemical is due to the belief that the directors will no longer wait for the Steel recapitalization to award long patient stockholders. It is expected that the dividend will be increased to an $8 annual rate at the next meeting. This payment, it is declared, would be fully warranted and a larger return following the splitting up of the shares.

Johns Manville was well taken again with continued reference to banking plans for joining the organization with Congoleum. It was called the "1929 leader." Packard was talked of as likely to earn $15 a share next year, according to the current schedule outlook, together with income expected from airplane motors.

Diamond Match has been sought as a "sleeper" by those who declare the full value of the special distribution of North American match stock is not realized.

Steel Merger

American Steel Foundries was bought by those who think it is out of line with value at which it will be taken into the consolidation planned by important interests in Westinghouse and Baldwin. Merger waits upon the settlement of differences between the largest stockholders in Westinghouse. The next meeting of Westinghouse will reveal which is the most important factor. Thereafter more active work on merger with Baldwin and other companies is looked for.

Steel Foundries is desired in the organization, it is stated, because of its control of the lowest cost bearing on the market. Despite the lesser expense of production, it is claimed, complete tests have proven the bearing the equal of any now being used by railway equipment manufacturers and others.

Sterling Rallies

Sterling rallied further and dampened hopes for increasing gold shipments as there is no incentive to import the metal at the current quotation. Other exchanges were more active and higher.

Wheat and corn were subjected to pressure on receipt of bearish crop advices, influencing irregularity in other grains. Cotton fluctuated within a narrow range in quiet trading to close a little higher.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Nov. 19. (AP)—Enlarged domestic supplies of wheat, together with an increase of the amount on ocean passage, tended more or less to weaken the wheat market today. Liquidating sales by holders of December delivery wheat contracts counted also as a bearish influence.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at ¼@⅜c net decline. Corn finished ¼@⅜c off, oats a shade to ¼c up, and provisions varying from 10c setback to a rise of 20c.

Toward the end of the day, hope of any important rally gave out, for at least the time being, after announcement that the United States wheat visible supply had piled up 1,333,000 bushel increase for the week, whereas both last week and last year a decrease was shown.

Little heed was paid to detailed reports indicating that a striking proportion of 1928 wheat production in Canada will be unmillable, being graded as No. 6 and feed.

Official predictions of clear weather ahead for the corn belt proved to be more than a market offset for prevailing moist conditions which have interfered with husking and hauling of corn.

Provisions reflected upturns in the value of hogs.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 19. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit was extremely slow with uneven and sharp price declines enforced on most killing classes; Chicago, with liberal receipts, reported an especially dull trade on beef steers, yearlings and fat she stock at 25c to 50c lower values; stockers and feeders were on a firm basis at some points but unevenly lower at others. No improvement on slaughter classes is expected until demand at eastern dressed beef markets expands. Choice long yearlings at Chicago topped at $17.50 and finished heavy steers brought $17. Aggregate receipts of around 119,300 were 10,500 more than last Monday and 9,000 in excess of a year ago.

Moderate hog receipts resulted in a fairly active trade in this division at steady to 15c higher figures. The day's top of $9.30 was paid both at Chicago and St. Louis. Total offerings were estimated at 115,800 against 136,042 a week ago and 130,383 the corresponding day last year.

Comparatively light receipts of sheep around the loop stimulated demand for fat lambs and strong to 25c higher values were general. Aged stock held fully steady with slight strength at St. Joseph. St. Louis scored $13.75 for top lambs while $13.25 was realized at Kansas City and St. Joseph. The supply approximated 65,300, a shortage of 45,000 from a week ago and 13,000 less than a year ago.

MOORE COUNTY TEST WATCHED

Formations Found High In Wildcat

BORGER, Texas, Nov. 19.—With the Barnsdale-Hagy-Harrington No. 1 in the northeast corner of the Thomas Ross survey, eastern Moore county, three miles north of the Skelly Byrd-Armstrong area, drilling at 2,780 feet and the fomation higher than at the Marland-Carver gasser three and a half miles east the gas is expected to be reached above the 2,850 foot level.

The well was standardized at 2,610 feet. It is attracting wide attention among oil men in the Panhandle area.

The Marland-Carver well is now producing about 20 barrels and a gas production of 20,000,000 feet daily.

Block 3-T in Moore county, just to the west of the Barnsdall, is also attracting much attention, especially among lease men. Several lease sales have been made there recently.

The Skelly No. 4, Byrd-Armstrong area, on the J. W. Proctor survey in eastern Moore county, drilling at 3055 feet, is expected to reach the pay at about the 3100 foot level. Gas flow of 8,400,000 feet has been encountered and the pipe has been set for production.

The International Railways of Central America operates over 800 miles of lines in Guatemala, Honduras and Salvador, forming an interoceanic system between the west and east coasts and with Mexico. More than 100 miles of line were placed in operation in 1927 and on May 3, 1928, it was reported 55 additional miles of track were under construction. The properties of the company are held in fee with subsidiaries for construction and is in the hands of American railroad men of long experience. None of the properties revert to the respective governments before 1970.

The road carries substantially the entire production of the United Fruit company, the world's largest farmer, in its territory. It derives about 80 per cent of its revenue from transporting agricultural products, of which coffee represents 15 per cent and bananas an equal amount. About 75 per cent of its revenues come to the company in United States gold.

Gross revenues have increased each year since 1918 and net income also has shown an upward tendency. Net for 1927, $1,992,755, was four times that of 1918 and showed a gain of $34,000 over 1926. The new lines under construction will tap a rich region and provide much additional freight. The company owns 6,838 acres of land, 95 locomotives, 191 passenger cars and 1,881 freight cars.

Funded debt totals $22,238,000. Capital stock outstanding consists of $10,000,000 in 5 per cent cumulative participating preferred of $100 par and $15,000 shares of no par common. The majority of the common stock is tied up in a voting trust agreement. Dividends are being paid on the preferred regularly at the required rate. No dividends have been paid on the common. Net income for the first half of 1928 was $1,445,784.

As of June 30, 1928, current assets totaled $5,443,223, current liabilities $2,578,925, net working capital $1,952,934 and book value of the old common as of Dec. 31, 1927, $110.91 a share.

Gasoline and Soap Made From Coal Successfully, Scientist Declares

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19. (AP)—Germany's commercial success in making synthetic gasoline from soft coal, and incidentally also making soap from coal, to which the Standard Oil company has acquired the American rights, was described today to the second international conference of bituminous coal at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The story was told by the man who is marketing this synthetic gasoline in German filling stations, Dr. Carl Krauch, director of the German dye trust. He was introduced by Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Diverse Products

Krauch said that coal gasoline may be changed in the making at will into "the most diverse marketable products, such as kerosene, gas oil and lubricating oils."

"We are thus enabled," he said, "to adapt the process to the fluctuations of the market."

"At present," said Dr. Krauch, "we have reached at our Leuna plant an annual production of 70,000 tons of gasoline, of which 40,000 tons are obtained from coal. At the end of next year we hope to be able to raise the production to 250,000 tons.

Soap is produced because the dye trust found quantities of paraffin from liquid coal on its hands, with a paraffin market relatively small. Dr. Krauch found out how to overcome the difficulties of extracting from paraffin some fatty acids that make soap.

Makes Good Soap

"We have found," said Krauch, "various ways of refining fatty acids to such a degree that, in the judgment of soap experts, they stand comparison with good fatty acids derived from natural fats."

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, who sponsored the conference, forecast a better and happier economic and social situation for those who live in mining fields, when the industries that arise from liquifying coal are established.

WOULD RESULT IN OIL STABILIZATION

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19. (AP)—Perfection in this country of the Bergius method of extracting oil from coal would result in stabilization of the oil industry, Walter G. Teagle, vice-president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, said here today. Teagle, attending the international coal conference at Carnegie Institute of Technology, said his company was experimenting with the process at its Baton Rouge laboratory.

While he declined to say when oil taken from coal would be ready for the market, he declared it would be available for commercial purposes even though it was not profitable at the outset.

Teagle said his company was conducting research on the hydro-genation of oil to determine its possibilities.

State to Probe Nocona Gas Waste

AUSTIN, Nov. 19. (AP)—Alleged waste of casinghead gas in the Nocona oil section will be investigated by R. D. Parker, chief of the state railroad commission's oil and gas division.

He left tonight for Wichita Falls for a hearing on the McCarty Oil company's application for a permit to reapply pressure on some of its production, and while on the trip, will inspect the Nocona section.

Some of the Nocona operators think that gas now being wasted from the upper strata can be conserved, by some arrangement, to maintain pressure in the field. The gas is not of the proper quality for fuel nor for burning to produce carbon black, and the state conservation law makes no provision for saving casinghead gas, which flows out with the production of oil.

Chinese Bandits Make Good Tax Collectors

FOOCHOW, China, Nov. 19. (AP)—Bandits, once the scourge of this part of China, but now allegedly reformed and incorporated into the provincial military, are being put to a new use, that of collecting the taxes. The newly appointed revenue collectors are showing great aptitude for their new job, gathering far larger amounts than their predecessors and in general proving themselves a success.

Big Livestock Sales Reported

JACKSBORO, Texas, Nov. 19.—Jack county cattle raisers have reported two notable sales occurring during the last week, together with a successful exhibit at the shorthorn feeders' show and sale at Kansas City.

Loving brothers, at Jermyn, sold a large consignment of high-grade shorthorns to the Kansas City concern following the herd's standing first, second and third in the heifer classes. The selling price was $11.46 a hundred.

James W. Knox of Jacksboro sold R. W. Bowling of Langley, Kan. 250 registered cows and 10 registered bulls from his Aberdeen-Angus herd. This herd, which for years has been one of the chief sources of supply of bulls for feeders throughout the South, has been augmented by several hundred head of purebred matrons, and will be devoted to raising quality calves for the baby beef feeder market.

WACO BECOMES METRO OF MILK

Black Land Farms Find Salvation

WACO, Texas, Nov. 19.—A mass meeting of Waco, McLennan county and Central Texas citizens, including a representation of farmers from every community of this territory, tonight at the Waco Chamber of Commerce witnessed inauguration of an undertaking which picks this city as the point at which milk manufacturing capital enters Texas.

Immediately the Borden company will begin erection of a half million dollar milk condensing plant in Waco, thus initiating a dairy program which has been 10 years in the making and spoken of by the agricultural leaders of Central Texas as the turning point in the state's black land farm problem. The concensus of opinion, both on the part of the company's representatives and the Waco Chamber of Commerce milk campaign committee, is that passing of two years under the milk production program will see an average of 300,000 pounds delivered daily in to Waco.

2,000 Pledges Given

Assurance that their opinion rests on a convincing basis is seen in the fact that one item accomplished in preparation of the McLennan county dairying program was the obtaining of pledges from farmers in this county guaranteeing a milch stock population of 15,000 cows, creation of which should begin immediately with coming of the milk plant. Over 2,000 farmers created this guaranty with their signatures. In this item of the program, likewise, banking interests of Waco and elsewhere in Central Texas have assured their financial cooperation, seemingly removing every obstacle to farmers securing the milch stock and at the same time inserting in the program a guaranty of registered animals as the basis of production.

Coincident with initiation of the milk production program, McLennan county seeks Dec. 18 to vote $4,952,500 bonds for 500 miles of good roads construction, deemed requisite to expedite milk delivery, and by reason of this fact a program of construction which emphasizes "all-weathering" of the county's lateral or cross road highways. However, complete concreting of the county's designated state roads likewise is provided.

Chief feature of the meeting was the address of Walter Page, general manager of the Borden company, who, in outlining plans of his company in this section, took as the theme of his remarks the turning point toward assured prosperity for Texas agricultural areas by reason of the entrance of milk manufacturing capital to this state.

"To give some idea of the value of this milk manufacturing undertaking," said Mr. Page, "let us consider a 35-mile radius around Waco. This area would contain approximately 2,500,000 acres of land, which due to the difficulty of the one-crop system should have declined $20 per acre in value, or a total of $50,000,000 in land depreciation. On the other hand, suppose that diversification in the line of dairying increased land values $20 per acre. The increased value would be $50,000,000 and the increase will affect the entire community as well as the farmer."

"Intensified and diversified farming wins prosperity and prosperity brings contentment and happiness," declared Mr. Page. "Dairying must be added to the present farm activity of the South. Farmers should produce as much cotton, too, as they did before, but produce it on less land."

Becton Promises Growth in Future

BECTON, Texas, Nov. 19.—When passengers on the special trains over the Denver's South Plains extension pass through Becton on the afternoon of Nov. 21 they must not judge the town's future by its present size.

Although just a small place now, Becton gives promise to develop into a prosperous little trading center. It is located in a good agricultural region and the new railroad is certain to benefit the town materially.

The new Denver depot is located several hundred yards from the town. It was necessary for the railroad engineers to make a deep cut at Becton because of a considerable hill. The highway crosses the track on a viaduct.

There are three or four stores in Becton, a cotton gin and a consolidated school that would be a credit to a much larger community.

Everyone in the town and many farmers from the surrounding countryside are expected to gather at the depot to welcome the special trains to be run over this section of the new South Plains railroad on Nov. 21.

Bridge Built Over Gap In Grandfield Road

GRANDFIELD, Okla., Nov. 19.—Following a period of several weeks during which the Grandfield-Chattanooga highway could not be used because of a gap at Jack Creek, north of this city, a temporary wooden bridge spanning the creek is now under construction and will be completed this week.

A large dredge at work in widening the stream, known locally as Deep Red, left the gap some weeks ago. The state highway department finally assumed responsibility for its replacement through the county commissioners. Witt & Williams of Grandfield were awarded contract for the temporary bridge. A concrete and steel permanent structure will replace it when widening of the ditch has been completed.

Issues Defined By Stresemann

BERLIN, Nov. 19. (AP)—Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister, told the reichstag today that "authoritative British opinion," supported the German view that the questions of evacuation of the Rhineland and revision of the total reparations that Germany is to pay because of the war, are distinct issues.

In taking up the impending negotiations for a reparations agreement, as provided by the understanding reached by the conference of six powers at Geneva, Herr Stresemann said:

"I affirm with satisfaction, and in this I am supported by authoritative British opinion, that the question of evacuation of the occupied zones and the settlement of the reparations problem, are two wholly separate issues."

The foreign minister answered critics who have deplored the action of Germany in raising the Rhineland question by saying:

"The time had come to take the evacuation issue out of the sphere of unofficial and confidental conversations and duly and formally assert our claims before the occupying powers. Many influential circles abroad agreed with us in regarding the presence of foreign troops on German soil, which continued even today, as a perilous obstacle to the development of international relations."

NEW BRIDGE WINS APPROVAL

Commissioners Agree To Project Here

When property owners petitioning for a new bridge across Wichita river at Scott avenue put up $25,000 and guarantee the two approaches to the bridge, the county will make appropriations for two thirds of the cost of the construction and let a contract for the work, members of the county commissioners court agreed Monday afternoon.

A petition bearing 500 names of property owners in Precinct 1 was backed by the arguments of J. T. Harrell, spokesman for the group backing the proposal. Chamber of commerce officials attended the court session Monday in readiness to support the petition. The court wil lact when the $25,000 is ready to be placed in escrow, Judge E. W. Nicholson said. Early in the hearing Monday he opposed the immediate action on the petition on the grounds that engineers estimates of construction costs should be furnished first. J. M. Isbell, county engineer, has been instructed to make such estimates.

The plea for the bridge set forth that its construction is necessary for any further expansion of the city in that section. Its supporters stood out for immediate action by the court and promised that the citizen's fund will be forthcoming at once.

The court Monday morning approved the annual report of the City National bank as depository for the county school funds. The report gave the aggregate assessed valuation of the common school districts as $7,987(091. The oustanding bonded indebtedness at the close of the school year, August 31, totalled $156,618.99, with $23,281 redeemed during the year.

Receipts and disbursements of the maintenance fund were reported at $106,114.87; of the building fund, $18,105.88; of the text book fund, $51.74; of the sinking fund and interest accounts, $14,932.32. The report showed a $554 income on a $20,000 permanent investment fund.

Deaths

MONROE PETERS

The body of Monroe Peters, 56 years old, who died at a local hospital Sunday afternoon, was sent to Sulphur Springs, Texas, for burial at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Two big orchestras will be here with "Rio Rita," musical extravaganza is scheduled for Wichita Falls Dec. 3, according to H. C. Federer, city manager of Dent theaters. One is Roger Wolf Kahn's internationally famed group and the other is a Spanish orgaanization.

"In Hollywood" is the new show announced to open at the Olympic theater Tuesday with the Lillian Murry and Elmer Wright company. Manager Charlie Moorehead says the Zippity Zip company now at the theater is going to make this bill one thoroughly in keeping with its name.

Neither the writer of this column nor Mr. Federer has heard from Hans Smith, who until recently was manager of the Majestic theater here. Hans went to Tyler to become city manager there for the Dent theaters of that city.

"Rain," or as the censors and the movie producers insisted on calling it when it was adapted for the movies, "Sadie Thompson," is opening Tuesday at the Mission theater. It is one of the outstanding shows of recent years, not from the point of morals perhaps, but certainly from the point of view of the dramatic art and dramatic situations. It is one show that will make an impression the theatergoer will not forget for a long time after viewing.

"Ramona" at the Majestic and "Beware of Bachelors" at the Strand are two pictures now showing which are high in amusement value from the public's point of view. They perform their mission as shows and keep the audience pleasantly interested. With good shows far and few between, this pair should attract good crowds.

PAYING UP

Hyer Pleased With Response to His Tax Appeal

Wichitans are paying their taxes earlier this year than in any year since W. R. Hyer, city tax assessor and collector, took office, he said Monday.

"Time and money is being saved the public and the city alike in this unusual early tax paying by the property owners," Mr. Hyer said. "We sent the tax statements out a little earlier than usual, and the result has been great.

"Early tax paying means the property owner no longer faces that debt, and it means he saves the added cost of penalties which are assessed as soon as the taxes become delinquent."

Movie Packs Many Laughs

"Beware of Bachelors" Good "Hokum"

(By the Record News Critic)

"Small squibs and sentences and these paper bullets of the brain awe a man from the career of his humor?

"No, the world must be peopled. "When I said I would die a bashelor, I did not think I should live till I were married."

All of which is by way of borrowing a line or two from "Much Ado About Nothing" by the immortal Shakespeare to introduce "Beware of Bachelors," which opened at the Strand theater Monday. As "Shake" was a big-hearted man who covered a vast territory in his range of subjects, we have no doubt that he would approve this introduction.

Broadly speaking—very broadly—the play is wilder than one may guess. It has laughs by the reel and that's the prime object of the play. The fact that Warners made it and Vitagraph, Inc., are the distributors, and that Roy del Ruth directed it, and that Robert Lord adapted it from something or other and that said Lord went to school in the well known Harvard university, and that much other junk the picture-makers precede their pictures with is there, is really immaterial.

BURGLARS RAID STORE HERE

Burglars who have confined their activities chiefly to house prowling and burglaries in stores on the outskirts of the city "pulled" their first job in the down-town section Sunday night when they escaped with 39 dresses valued at $1,000 from the Georgiana Shoppe at 723 Indiana avenue, according to reports received Monday at police headquarters.

The thieves entered the building by breaking a glass in a rear window of the building.

Hayward Kendall, Coal Man, Dies

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 19. (AP)—Hayward Kendall, wealthy Cleveland coal operator and writer, died from pneumonia today at the Rockefeller institute, New York, according to word received by relatives here.

Recently he declined to contribute to his alma mater, Cornell university, because of what he termed its "fraternity caste system and sexy characteristics." He offered to leave $1,000,000 to Cornell providing fraternities were abolished and the co-eds were given a separate college.

Youth Loses $92,000 By College Failure

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 19. (AP)—A college degree is worth $92,000—some times. That is what it cost Samuel Vanderpoel Gilbert Saturday when the estate of his uncle, Arthur E. Gilbert, was settled in court. Ten years ago the uncle died leaving stock worth $92,000 to his nephew, providing the young man was graduated from Cornell university before he was 25 years old. Samuel couldn't produce a degree and the shares went to the former Mrs. Arthur Gilbert, now Mrs. George Stone.

Small Boy Hunts "Chest" to Give His Only Dime to Aid Other Needy

"Say lady, where's the chest? I'd like to put a dime in it?"

One could not believe that the small boy possessed a dime. He was dressed in bagging trousers, and broken shoes without stockings. But because he was one of seven children who are being partly kept up by the Family Relief association, his sense of responsibility and gratitude had deepened until he felt that he should return his bit to those who had helped him.

The chest official did not take the money, but asked him questions. He is 14, the oldest of the seven children, and an eighth child died recently. With his mother he is attempting to keep the little brood together. The mother averages from $3 to $7 a week in earnings. Three of the children go to school, and three are in the Day Nursery.

"And where's your father," he was asked.

"He—he's in jail, 'way off some place," the youngster answered hesitatingly.

He was on his way to the Family Relief office to get milk tickets, and maybe a pair of stockings, he said. He was told to keep his dime, and it was explained that no one expected him to pay for his milk tickets, nor the stockings, nor for any other aid that had been given to him and his little brothers and sisters.

A Contrast of Commerce and Travel
When Stephen F. Austin, the father of Texas, and his colony first ventured into Brazos Valley they endured a long and tedious journey in covered wagons. Today the rapid strides of progress in our Lone Star State have enabled us to send greetings by swift locomotive and airplane to that section of the West which even in the old days held a promise of prosperity now amply fulfilled. W. B. McClurkan & Co., Wichita Falls' oldest department store, congratulates the South Plains on the realization of their dreams.
