

800,000 Due To Be In Training By Next June 15

First Serial Numbers

First serial numbers drawn and assigned to Howard counties who registered for military call Wednesday appear in today's Herald, on Page 8. There are 190 names and numbers in the first batch released by the local draft board. Other names will be carried in The Herald for the next several days.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The war department plans to have the first 800,000 selective service trainees in the army by June 15.

The program, announced by Secretary of War Stimson, means, in effect, that one man in every twenty of the 16,654,000 who registered Wednesday probably will be called to the colors within the next 8 months.

Stimson also disclosed yesterday that the remaining units of the national guard, numbering some 130,000 men, would be ordered up for duty by early February. Approximately 95,000 guardsmen already have been mobilized.

The conscription schedule contained one definite surprise—word that 15,000 of the men called up would be assigned to the elite corps of modern mechanized armies—the armored divisions.

Secretary Stimson said adequate housing facilities would be available for all men inducted into service.

Outlining plans for the first 800,000 conscription trainees, Stimson said the initial contingent of 35,000 would be summoned on or about November 15. The schedule thereafter: December 2, 60,000; January 3, 60,000; January 15, 90,000; February 10, 160,000; March 5, 200,000; and June 15, 200,000.

Japan Attacks As Burma Road Is Reopened

Terminus Of Route Bombed As Supplies Start Moving

HONGKONG, Oct. 18 (AP)—The headquarters of the Japanese South China fleet announced that Japanese naval aircraft today attacked Kunming, southwestern China terminus of the newly reopened Burma Road. It was the first Japanese action connected with the road reopening.

Bombs were dropped on Chinese munitions factories in the suburbs and military establishments within the city, the headquarters communiqué said.

Japanese planes dived at the city, capital of Yunnan province, through gaps in heavy clouds and were unopposed by any Chinese planes.

CHUNGKING, Oct. 18 (AP)—With anti-aircraft guns reported poking skyward at many a vantage point on the road from British Burma and Mandalay, traffic was resumed today on that Chinese lifeline.

Under the imminent threat of bombardment from close-at-hand Japanese air bases in French Indo-China, supplies for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's war machine started rolling in the early darkness today after a three-month closure in a British appeasement gesture toward Japan.

Observers believed the immediate result of the reopening would be release of large stocks of arms and ammunition, now stored in western China, which had to be kept there for three months as a reserve against the possibility that the road would remain closed.

Now, with fresh stocks rolling in across the Chinese-Burmese border, depots in the border region may be emptied of the old stocks and these rushed into central China for widespread Chinese counter-attacks on advanced Japanese positions.

Thus China was held likely to oppose a possible, new overland drive from Indo-China by the Japanese against Chungking and southwestern China, seat of Chiang's government and center of his war-making strength.

The Chinese press and government officials agreed, however, that the political significance of the British reopening overshadowed immediate material benefits.

Priority For Defense Orders

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today he intended to make some arrangements whereby defense orders with private industry would have priority over all others.

He added, however, that nothing along that line was in prospect in the immediate future.

A reporter inquired at a press conference whether, by executive order or some other means, he intended to see to it that defense contracts received priority.

Mr. Roosevelt replied in the affirmative, and added that he thought the priority matter was coming to a head.

FILM PLAYERS WED

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 18 (AP)—Steffi Duna, Hungarian-born actress and dancer, and Dennis O'Keefe, hands-off motion picture actor, were married here today by Justice of the Peace Nat T. McKee.

O'Keefe and Miss Duna came here by automobile from Tucson, where he met her as she stepped off a plane from New York, where she has been making personal appearances.

Nazi Invasion Attempt Smashed By RAF On Sept. 16, Official Sources Reveal

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Authoritative British aviation sources asserted today that RAF bombers frustrated a German attempt at sea-borne invasion of England on Sept. 16, forcing a total abandonment of invasion ships "by the ferocity of their attack."

On Sept. 16 the RAF communiqué told of a direct hit on a German warship, severe damage to an oil tanker and supply ship and the sinking of three supply ships and damage to others.

Also attacked that day were concentrations of war supplies, barges and shipping at Hamburg, Wilhelmshaven, Antwerp, Flushing, Ostend, Dunkerque, Calais, Boulogne and el. Havre—virtually the entire "invasion coast" of Germany and the occupied low countries and France.

With the first real fog of the season blanketing out the English channel today, restricting air activity on both sides, British coastal and naval guns blasted parts of the unseen "invasion coast" to keep the Nazi invasion schedule smashed.

Fog which would shield as well as hamper any channel crossing by Adolf Hitler's posts blanketed the Dover shores so tightly that the sea could not be seen from the beach.

During the night warship-mounted guns bombarded the French side of the channel so fiercely that the shores of Kent shook to the thunder. Shore watchers could see neither the cannonading ships nor their targets. The shelling lasted more than an hour.

Soon after daybreak British coastal guns took up the duel and drew long-range fire from Germany's own coastal batteries mounted on Cap Gris Nez and elsewhere along the 25-mile-wide Strait of Dover. British fire was concentrated on the Calais region.

The British guns had it their own way until shortly before noon when the Nazi artillerymen went into action. The guns on each side fired salvoes at 20-minute intervals.

The weather canceled the RAF's overnight operations against Germany and the "invasion coast" and the air ministry news service filled the lull with an account of havoc reported wrought in Berlin and elsewhere in Germany in previous nights of unbroken

RAF night raiding.

Whether the Sept. 16 pounding of Germany's invasion facilities was believed sufficient to cause the Nazis to give up their long-range plan the aviation sources would not say.

The succinct account of the British success was given official status by the air ministry news service which first reported it.

It was the first official admission that Nazi troops had tried to cross the channel.

If the Germans attempted invasion on dates other than Sept. 16, the aviation sources said, the fact that it did not develop "can only be attributed to repeat performances of a similar nature by the RAF."

They would not comment on the number of German troops involved nor on any possible casualties.

The RAF's "master scheme of bombing Germany," the air ministry news service said today, has "partially" wrecked several war factories in Berlin, almost gutted the Berlin general postoffice and seriously affected rail and water transport as well as damaging great industrial plants over a wide area."

Blasts Wreck Philadelphia News Plant

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18 (AP)—Two explosions, which Detective Martucci said apparently were caused by "incendiary bombs," early today wrecked a two-story brick building where several Italian language newspapers are printed.

Flames swept through the structure into an adjoining plant before being brought under control.

The blasts shattered windows of homes near the publishing building, in the heart of a popular Italian district.

The building is owned by the Metropolis Printing company. Amondo Forte, owner of the plant, said he could give no immediate explanation of the blasts.

After questioning Forte and making an investigation, Detective Martucci said:

"He had no labor trouble and got no threats. We are inclined to believe from what we have seen that this was started by incendiary bombs."

Among the newspapers printed in the plant is the Daily Il Popolo Italiano.

Reno Zucca, publisher of Il Popolo Italiano, said his newspaper is really an American newspaper printed in Italian, and added:

"We are definitely not pro-fascist and I can't imagine this was aimed at us."

New Mattresses For 220 Families

Two hundred and twenty farm families in Howard county have received new mattresses under the new completed program of utilizing surplus commodities corporation.

Lora Farnsworth, county home demonstration agent, said that all of the 220 mattresses originally planned had been completed.

Less than half a bale of cotton remained and all of the ticking had been exhausted.

The work was done through the supervision of county home demonstration club members and in cooperation with the families receiving the mattresses. Under terms of the program, mattresses went to applying farm families with less than $400 income.

BRAKEMAN ROBBED

DALLAS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Officers today sought two roughly-dressed men who attacked and robbed Lloyd of Mineola, brakeman on a Texas and Pacific freight train, when he caught them in the act of breaking into a box car of his train here last night.

Lloyd was robbed of $21, his watch and knife. He was treated at a hospital for injuries suffered in the attack.

Terrific Defense Barrage Meets Nazis' Night Attack

MINISTERS INDICTED FOR NON-REGISTRATION—Eighteen hours after close of conscription registration, two Back Bay ministers, Rev. Keith C. Kanaga, 25, left, and Rev. Harry H. Krueger, 24, right, were indicted by a federal grand jury at Boston on a charge of knowingly failing and neglecting to register in accordance with the provisions of the selective service act. Both ministers attempted to leave statements explaining their action, but registration officials declined to accept statements.

Nazi Vessels Avoid Battle

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP)—A flotilla of German destroyers "retired precipitately" without damaging any British vessel when a British unit attempted to engage in battle 100 miles southwest of Land's End yesterday, the admiralty announced today.

The admiralty declared that the German flotilla, of four destroyers, escaped into the north-held base of Brest, on the French coast, in the fading light of day.

The admiralty's statement was the British version of a brush which the German high command declared had occurred at the mouth of the Bristol channel, resulted in the torpedoing of one British vessel and compelled the British force to flee.

"No damage was in fact sustained by any of our ships," the admiralty said.

Nov. 5 Date For Roll Call

Mrs. Ray Lawrence was named roll call chairman for the Red Cross as members met Friday morning for organization and to set the date, November 5th, for the beginning of the drive.

The goal of the group is to have 2500 members. Shine Phillips, chapter chairman, will assist Mrs. Lawrence.

Phillips, who has been chairman of the local Red Cross chapter for many years announced his resignation and a committee composed of Mrs. Harvey Williamson, chairman, Mrs. Charles Koberg, Joe B. Harrison, Pat Kinney and Grover Dunham, was named as a nominating committee to select a new chairman.

Ted Heaton of St. Louis, representative from the national chapter, complimented the group on the growth of the chapter and told that Big Spring ranked seventh in Texas in amounts raised last year. Heaton also discussed a home defense program.

Phillips announced 450 women working at knitting under direction of Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle and Mrs. Lois O'Barr Smith for refugee relief.

Others attending were Mrs. Mary Delbridge, J. F. Wolcott, R. C. Strain, Pat Kenney, Jena Jordan.

HERE'S ONE MAN READY TO GO

Faith, and the Irish are ready. The morning's mail brought a letter to the Howard county draft board from Edward Mistrot Calahan, Big Spring, requesting that he be put in class one.

Asserting that he was anxious to serve his country anytime and anywhere, Calahan said he could go on a moment's notice. He added that he was ready to "go now to serve my country."

Father, Son Are Quizzed In Stabbing

CLAREMORE, Okla., Oct. 18 (AP)—County Attorney D. M. Battenfield said today a farmer and his son were held for questioning in the fatal stabbing of Blair L. Barnes, Long Beach, Calif., whose body was found in an abandoned coal pit six miles east of Chelsea.

The county attorney said an Erie, Pa., man was sought after his name was found on papers in a bloodstained car owned by Barnes which was picked up on a Tulsa street Oct. 8.

Barnes, the son of Fred L. Barnes, parks director of the Corry, Pa., council was enroute home after visiting relatives in Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

Battenfield said the farmer and son were arrested after a cedar chest, containing a woman and a child's clothes, was found at their farmhouse.

Barnes had left Pennsylvania with a similar cedar chest in his car, Battenfield said. The farmer and his son declared they found the chest along the roadside about three weeks ago.

Battenfield said Pennsylvania relatives reported it was possible Barnes may have picked up some passengers in Erie, Pa., for the trip westward.

In Tulsa, Detective R. L. Delaney said several articles of women's clothing were found in the abandoned car. A map of Long Beach, Calif., with code markings on it was discovered in a pocket of the car and it was turned over to the federal bureau of investigation.

Delaney said he was investigating the possibility that other persons may have been passengers in the machine and may have also met death and their bodies hidden in the coal pits, some of which were partially filled with water, in the Chelsea area.

Barnes had been stabbed several times in the throat and left breast and his body apparently had been dragged about 200 yards from a side road and tossed into the pit.

Deny Padding Of WPA Rolls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The senate campaign committee heard today an official denial that the WPA was padding its rolls in a political maneuver and also listened to two witnesses' charge that WPA workers were being coerced to vote for President Roosevelt.

Howard O. Hunter, testified that instead of being swollen, WPA rolls on election day would carry a "smaller percentage of unemployed" than at any comparable time since the beginning of the WPA program.

The relief official denied contentions that relief rolls were being increased to influence the nation at election and charges that this practice had been followed in the election years of 1936 and 1938.

Richard N. McKibben, president of the Workers Alliance, testified that every form of vicious intimidation possible is being employed, from threats of loss of WPA jobs to the formation of an administration-supported "company union," to force WPA workers to vote for Roosevelt.

William Levern of New York president of the WPA Teachers Union (AFL) submitted affidavits to support his contention that there was a "conspiracy of the New York City work projects administration to deliver the WPA vote to the democratic party through an unparalleled campaign of intimidation, espionage and persecution."

Registering To Continue

AUSTIN, Oct. 18 (AP)—Adjutant General J. Watt Page today instructed local boards throughout east Texas to register for selective service any men who did not register Oct. 16 and who voluntarily present themselves before time for the national lottery.

Page acted on orders from the national director of selective service, Clarence A. Dykstra.

Appointment of one lawyer in each county to serve as members of advisory boards for registrants was announced by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel.

The governor recently named district judges as chairmen of these boards, of which there is one for each judicial district and whose function is to provide help in preparing questionnaires and claims.

Associate members will be appointed by the board chairmen and members to assist them.

"These men are rendering a fine and patriotic service to their country," Governor O'Daniel said. "No compensation has been provided for any member of the advisory boards."

The lawyer advisory board members named today by Gov. O'Daniel included, by counties:

ECTOR—Jesse R. Orth, Odessa.

HOWARD—Thos. J. Coffee, Big Spring.

MIDLAND—Chas. L. Klapproth, Midland.

Young Men Get Numbers

First phase of the Howard county draft board's pressure work neared an end here today with more than 2,400 of an estimated 2,700 county registrants assigned serial numbers.

Before noon H. C. Hooser and Bruce Frazier, draft board members, had drawn and numbered 2,366 names of county residents between the ages of 21 and 36 and was due to finish the job early in the afternoon.

Miss Olive Chumley, clerk, and June Krupp, volunteer worker, had transcribed approximately 1,000 of the names and were due to get most of the copying done before the end of the day. Lists will then be posted on the draft board's bulletin board.

FD Charges 'Falsification Of Fact'; Willkie Raps Forcing Of Relief Vote

Will Make Political Speeches To Answer Foes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt charged to his 1940 campaign opposition today "a systematic program" of "deliberate falsification of fact" and said he would discuss "these misrepresentations" in five pre-election speeches.

In a statement read to his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt stated his opinion that the "falsification of fact" was "deliberate" rather than "unwitting" and said he would "tell the American people x x x in what respect they are false." Reporters were told, however, to wait for the addresses to learn what he considered "misrepresentations."

There is a possibility, the democratic nominee said, that one of the five addresses, scheduled for Washington on October 30, might be shifted to Baltimore.

Newsmen told him that the change would put him in Baltimore the same day that Wendell L. Willkie is scheduled to speak there.

The president said that was See ROOSEVELT, Page 8, Col. 3

Will Never Trade Good For Ballots, GOP Man Says

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN IN MISSOURI, Oct. 18 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, standing before a weather-worn statue of Thomas Jefferson, today called himself a "political amateur" at taking relief money and forcing men to vote because the government fulfills a social obligation in keeping them from starving.

"Wendell Willkie will never trade bread for votes from those who can least afford to demand independence," the republican presidential nominee told a crowd in front of the Missouri capitol at Jefferson City.

"I do not know how to sit down in dark rooms with Frank Hague and the Kelly-Nashes of Chicago," he said. "I do not know anything about the stealing of votes x x x about making lofty speeches over the radio."

Willkie said he could never "engage in duplicity, in poses in the creation of imaginary emergencies."

"I know nothing about how to seek to control men's votes as See WILLKIE, Page 8, Column 3

Corpus Christi Guest Honored At Two Parties

Mrs. E. V. Spence entertained Friday with a "Spend the Day Party" at her home to compliment her sister and houseguest, Mrs. Gordon Lewis of Corpus Christi.

During the morning the group had outdoor games in the yard and at noon a buffet luncheon was served for twenty guests and close friends of Mrs. Lewis.

During the afternoon bridge was entertainment. Mrs. Lewis was also entertained with a party in the home of Mrs. George Oldham Thursday afternoon and a group of her friends called during the hours to visit.

Wallace Ford of Midland is in the Big Spring hospital for medical attention and Mrs. Ford accompanied him here.

BAIRD, Oct. 18 (AP)—W. H. Wright, manager of the Vernon chamber of commerce, yesterday was elected president of the North-South Highway association.

Campus Religious Leaders Open 20th Annual Conclave

WACO, Oct. 18 (AP)—Two thousand campus religious leaders from some 80 Texas colleges will gather here tonight to open a three-day session dealing largely with world events in the light of their theme, "Conquer With Christ."

It will be the twentieth annual session of the Texas Baptist Student Union. J. W. (Bill) Marshall of Dallas is state secretary. Seventy-five students will join 16 adult church leaders in the program, continuing through Sunday morning.

Charles Wells, newspaper feature writer and cartoonist who has spent 15 years in Europe and Asia, and Marshall, who has just returned from China, will be featured in giving the convention a world-wide emphasis. Wells will deliver a series of crayon illustrated talks on "Christ and World Need."

170,000 Barrel Crude Slash Is Recommended

DALLAS, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Independent Petroleum Association of America favors a cut in the nation's oil production of 170,000 barrels daily for the remaining months of 1940 and the first quarter of 1941.

One hundred thousand barrels of this would be cut east of California. The recommendation was made yesterday by the committee on balance of supply and demand and approved by the convention.

The average daily production east of California is 3,000,000 barrels and for the nation 3,840,000.

The bureau of mines estimate of demand for the nation this month is 3,580,000 barrels daily.

The convention prepared today to elect officers and wind up all other business.

Frank Buttram of Oklahoma City was expected to be re-elected president.

Mrs. W. J. McAdams also received word of the death of her uncle, Walter M. Cox, whose death also occurred Thursday night after a long illness. Burial is today in Dallas.

WHEAT ACREAGE ABOUT THE SAME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics reported today the acreage seeded to wheat for harvest in 1941 in the United States was expected to be about the same as in 1940.

A crop of about 750,000,000 bushels would be produced, the bureau said, if yields were average. This year's crop totaled 792,000,000 bushels.

The bureau said large world supplies and low export prices would continue during the 1941-42 season unless world acreage is materially smaller than is now expected, or world yields per acre are small.

The bureau predicted the United States would have a surplus supply of 350,000,000 bushels of old wheat when the 1941 crop starts moving to market. Most of this is expected to be stored under government loans.

THE RECORD..... Facts That Concern You

No. 23 of a series

WOULD YOU CUT DOWN THE APPLE TREE?

You'll probably find a few bad apples in a bushel of good ones. That's the way it is with beer retailing in America.

There are hundreds of thousands of wholesome, law-abiding beer retail establishments that sell good beer—the refreshing, appetizing beverage of moderation. At the same time, there is a handful of undesirable, anti-social taverns. Unfortunately, these few outlaw establishments bring discredit to the entire beer industry.

To protect your right to drink good beer, the Brewing Industry wants such anti-social retailers eliminated entirely. It has instituted a "clean-up or close-up" program—now in effect in some states and being extended.

We'd like you to know about this socially important program. May we tell you about it in an interesting free booklet? Write: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

Looking 'em Over

For Better or for Worse— It is in the books for Big Spring to take Lamesa's gridders to a cleaning tonight, but, since the days of miracles are not past, there is an outside chance that the Steers will be upset. But, it is highly improbable, Lamesa has not shown a great deal of power, due to lack in weight and numbers, in engagements with upper-bracket schools, although there is a good record of victories chalked up in their favor. In their game with Odessa week before last, the Tornados were soundly beaten to the tune of 22 to 0. Judging from that, Big Spring will have a scalp tonight.

Odessa should paste Abilene to the wall without too much difficulty this afternoon. The Eagles were rated darkhorses at the beginning of the season, but as things now shape up, the Bronchos will take it with a close margin.

The San Angelo-Cisco tilt is a toss-up, with a very small leaning in favor of San Angelo. So far this year, the Bobcats from the banks of the Concho have failed to show winning power but appear to be moving on the upgrade now.

Although we are very timid in saying so, Midland may get the nod after the contest with an unpredictable Breckenridge crew. If today is the Buckaroos day, it is all up with the Midlanders. We are basing our pick of Midland on the opinion that the Bucks had their day last week.

Texas A. & M.'s and T. C. U.'s battle at College Station Saturday looks like a cinch as far as picking them is concerned. The Frogs will be out to make up for their showing last week, but they will need more than determination to wallop a well-nigh unbeatable combination—Kyle Field and Aggie homecoming. It will very likely be anything but a walk-over for "Jarrin" Jawns, et al., but this is one time when the fine Texas Christian play will be outbested.

Despite the showing made by Arkansas in shelling a weakened Baylor aggregation, Texas University is on the books to declare it a "hazy hunt" and bring home the bacon for Mr. Bible.

Southern Methodist will have a job on hand with Auburn or Alabama. Polk (take your pick), but he can't keep from seeing the Mustangs on the winners' end.

Rice is slated to put on a burst of speed and outclass Tulane by a thin lead. Baylor, still quivering under a wallowing received at the hands of Arkansas, should be out for a victory and make Villanova the innocent victim.

Sam Houston Teachers Sink S'Western La.

BEAUMONT, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Southwestern Louisiana College Lions gave Sam Houston Teachers a scare with a two-touchdown splurge in the fading minutes here last night but it was too big a hump to hurdle and the Texans won 22-12.

Relax, Vaughn and Gifford scored Sam Houston's touchdowns with Van Herring kicking a field goal. Cagnoliotti got the two Southeastern counters.

Steers Tops Over Lamesa Tonight

Barker Picks Tenn., Cornell To Head List

By HERB BARKER
NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Conducting the weekly interview with football's willing (but frequently misinformed) crystal ball:

Alabama-Tennessee: Alabama's the mystery team of the Southeastern conference but Tennessee, off its decisive defeat of Duke, looks like the Sherlock Holmes to provide all the answers. The Crimson Tide, reputedly exceptionally strong, hasn't played a major foe yet and this vote, therefore goes to Tennessee.

Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech: Tech teams of the past have been tough meat for the Irish. This is another year and it will be a major surprise if Carnegie keeps the score within reasonable bounds.

Cornell-Syracuse: Syracuse, with a sophomore find in Sal Miliabito, may give the big red some trouble but Cornell is so well drilled and strikes with such devastating quickness that a Syracuse victory seems impossible. The ballot is cast, as usual, for Cornell.

Michigan-Illinois: Bob Zuppke, canny coach of the Illini, engineered one of 1938's greatest upsets in this game. History can, and does, repeat but so far as this corner is concerned, we'll take Harmon, Evashevski and company.

Washington State-Stanford: Stanford's lone unbeaten, untied major outfit in the far west, has a stand-out back in Norman Standlee and a tricky offense. Washington State has tied Southern California and beaten California. In a quandary of this sort, only the coin can help.

Texas Aggies-Texas Christian: Stringing along with the Aggies to the bitter end.

Colgate-Duke: Duke has had time to get over the Tennessee setback and rates the nod in this one.

Penn-Princeton: Penn may not be quite so good as the 50-7 score against Yale indicates but should get past this one, especially since the Tigers seem to be having line trouble.

Pitt-Fordham: The Panthers have developed surprisingly well and this should be fiercely contested all the way, but Fordham is the choice.

Columbia-Georgia: Columbia teams, given exceptional coaching, usually are strong until injuries play hub with a small squad. Georgia is young but potent. Out of the hat—Columbia.

Yale-Dartmouth: De-emphasis, doubled in spades. But Seymour and Anderson will be back and the nod goes to Yale.

Harvard-Army: With Johnny Hatch an uncertain Army starter, the choice is Harvard.

Ohio State-Minnesota: It begins to look as though Ohio State was over-rated. Minnesota is rested and ready—or should be. Minnesota.

Wisconsin-Northwestern: Having hurled Ohio State, DeCorveant, Clowson, et al., look safe enough in this one although Wisconsin's passers may spell trouble. Still, Northwestern.

Indiana-Iowa: Bo McMillin's luck is going to change sooner or later but, in the meantime, Iowa.

Kansas-Nebraska: No need to look past Nebraska.

Missouri-Iowa State: Looks like too much Christmas for Iowa State.

Oklahoma-Kansas State: The Sooners' defense hasn't looked like much but they have plenty of scoring power. Oklahoma.

Washington-Oregon State: Tough as any on the list and no surprise either way. The coin spins and says—Washington.

California-U. C. L. A.: Ditto this one but perhaps U. C. L. A. is overdue. U. C. L. A.

Southern California-Oregon: We'll take Southern California or did you guess?

Yearlings Bow To Colts, 27-21

Big Springers Edged Out In Final Period

SWEETWATER, Oct. 18—Two touchdowns in the last six minutes of play gave the Sweetwater Colts a 27 to 21 victory over the Big Spring Yearlings last night on the winners' home grounds.

After the Colts had gained a 13-0 lead in the first period, the Yearlings went to work early in the second and drove across three touchdowns between that time and the close of the third quarter. Sweetwater did not revive until the fourth.

On the Big Spring side of the ledger, Matlock took a one-yard crash to hang up the counter and Fullback Stewart received credit for the extra point with a pass from Matlock. Stewart snatched a fumble to set up the next counter, racing 20 yards to the Sweetwater double stripe.

Stewart tore around end from the 16 to hang up the final marker and Matlock converted with a sweep around end.

Sweetwater's Huddleston raced thirty yards through Big Spring to hang up the first counter, with Shaw turning in the extra point with a line plunge. On the next marker, Shaw hit the line from the two-yard stripe to push it over. He failed to convert extra point on a pass. In the final account, Shaw hurled a paydirt pass to Nash was good for 22 yards and a touch. Huddleston repeated with an end run that covered 10 yards.

Stanton—Spinks and Egger, ends; Thornton and K. Robinson, tackles; Clinton and Davis, guards; H. White, center; Turner and Henson, halfbacks; Chandler, quarterback, and Red White, fullback.

Schoolboys In Home Stretch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Texas schoolboy football campaign jams into the home stretch in fifteen of the sixteen districts tonight.

Forty-eight games are carded, a majority of the tilts counting in the conference standings.

Headlining the schedule is the battle at Kerrville between Brackenridge (San Antonio) and the Kerrville Antlers, two of the state's 23 undefeated, untied teams.

Four games were played last night, two counting in the conference standings.

Arlington Heights (Fort Worth) remained unbeaten in District 7 with a 12-6 win over North Side (Fort Worth). Sam Houston and John Reagan played to a 6-6 tie in the Houston district.

Robstown's powerful Cotton Pickers crushed Corpus Christi college-academy 40-0 and Austin (Houston) nosed out St. Thomas (Houston) 7-4 in non-conference games.

The Mustangs just managed to snare a tie with Pitt last week. Auburn is first-class in every respect. This vote for S. M. U. is based on nothing more substantial than the fact the game will be played in Dallas.

Baylor-Villanova: Baylor, for the same reason.

Arkansas-Texas: Spot for an upset but we'll take Texas.

Georgia Tech-Vanderbilt: The Commodores are surprisingly tough but Tech's scoring punch should be decisive. Georgia Tech.

Mississippi-Duquesne: Can't see Duquesne in this one. Mississippi.

Tulane-Rice: Rice, timidly and reserving the right to a re-count if Tulane happens to click as it should.

North Carolina State-North Carolina: The Tar Heels are back on the right track. North Carolina.

Manhattan-Detroit: Taking Detroit.

Temple-Michigan State: Likewise, Michigan State.

Aggies Start SW Grind Sat. Against Frogs

Rice, Texas, SMU, Baylor Slated To Down Opposition

DALLAS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Castiron Texas A. and M., the football robot that has allowed only 51 yards on rushing plays in three games, starts chipping at the mountain tomorrow down at College Station.

The Sugar Bowl champions and defending Southwest conference titlists, winners of 14 straight games and currently ranked the nation's second team, bow into conference play against Texas Christian.

So starts the assignment few believe the Aggies can carry out—become the first team in history to win the conference pennant two years hand running.

Texas Christian, strictly on form, doesn't rate to beat them. Experience, weight and skill favor the Aggies. But the Christians have a quaint way of balancing the books, and they've done it before.

If Kyle Gillespie, the Christians' "bad knee" boy, can get in there at the proper time and shell the Cadets with his great passing, every advantage could be dissolved.

It's the Aggies to continue their streak, but not by a runaway.

Three more unbeaten conference clubs face the danger of their first shacking.

Breath-taking Rice, on top of the world after thrashing Louisiana State, 23-0, meets a mad-dogged Tulane team at New Orleans, one that started out to bag another undefeated season and has lost three straight. The going will be rough, but Rice is picked to win.

Unbeaten Texas, showing offensive punch, should take Arkansas at Little Rock. Cowboy Jack Crain is riding hard and has able companions in the backfield dept. in R. L. Harkins, Spec Sanders, et al. Arkansas was good in beating Baylor last week, but they're not fast enough to hold Texas in check.

Southern Methodist has been spluttering on the offense. The old motor should kick off this week, and it's the Methodists, despite some key injuries, to turn back unbeaten Auburn at Dallas.

Strictly on the strength of reports that Baylor has resolved to gather the sagging ends of what started out to be a dangerous football team and start all over—sunny Jack Wilson, grand fullback—the hunch is that the Golden Bruins will tear into Villanova at San Antonio Saturday night.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Jack Doyle, the Broadway odds manufacturer, is quoting even money on Ohio State-Minnesota tomorrow.

Your old pal, Lefty Gomez of the Yankees, is trying to peddle a radio serial called "Lefty Gomez' Hot Stove League" and it looks like it may grab off a sponsor.

The price tag on Kirby Higbe of the Phils is exactly $150,000, of which at least $100,000 must be cash on the line.

Today's guess star—C. E. McBride, Kansas City Star: "I can't pick long shots for myself, so why should I be doing it for you. But I give you Alabama as the team most likely to upset the dope. Tennessee is a 1-4 favorite out here."

Folks are wondering about this. When Fritz Crierler coached at Princeton, Klaski was considered a Princeton prep school. This year there are three Klaski grads on the Princeton varsity and four more or

Big Spring Slated To Try Air Game

For the first time this season, Big Spring's Steers will go into a game favorites when they meet the Lamesa Tornados at Lamesa tonight at 8 o'clock. After the demonstration of power turned in by the Longhorns last Friday night against Odessa, they are scheduled to hand the Lamesans a pasting, although are not likely to turn the game into a race-track as they did last year.

Lamesa is making its last stand try in the District 3-AA race for this season. Losing its first conference tilt, 22 to 0, to Odessa, Lamesa is slated to shoot the works in an attempt to stay in the running. Lack of weight and material reserves will act to the hosts' disadvantage, Big Spring being the possessor of an abundance of bulk.

The Lamesans are hoping to concentrate on shoving the Big Springers aside with spurts of speed. Coach McCollum of Lamesa has organized his crew in the form which he thinks will give the best service for a team that will have to overcome a fast-charging line.

In the Lamesa lineup, both tackles and one end are due to give the visitors the most worry during the evening's performance. Gus White, flankman, has been a standout this year in lifts engaged in by the Lamesans.

The Golden Tornados chance to even the score or possibly sink the Steers might hinge on whether or not White can get in the open long enough to sweep down the field with an overhead play.

Yesterday afternoon, Big Spring Coach Pat Murphy gave his squad an intensive workout in skill practice, letting defense plans move somewhat into the background. He is not counting on a large amount of trouble in keeping Lamesa under control, but will, for the first time, put the Bovines on the field with orders to turn on the heat with a series of new touchdown drives.

Last week, the Longhorns let it be known they could hold a charging team without too much danger, but lacked the drive necessary to push across the double-stripe.

Tonight will see a Big Spring aggregation that is expected to depend more on an aerial attack to chalk up yardage. During the past week, maneuvers depending on accurate hurling and receiving for proper execution have taken up a great deal of field work.

As things now stand, Murphy will have a minimum of injuries to weaken his crew. Nance, tackle, will be in shape after taking it rather easy this week with bruises received last Friday. Halfback Bostick, although not fully recovered from a foot hurt, will be ready for full-time play. Fullback Presley is rid of a cold. Jack Graves, the forepart of the season with an injured hand, might receive a little time in the flank position, but will very likely spend most of the time on the sidelines.

Last year, the Big Springers played host to the Lamesans and sent them back home with the short end of a rather top heavy score. A McCollum-coached team is supposed to be a hard outfit to beat in its own backyard, therefore, Coach Murphy reports he is expecting anything but a cinch tonight. With a line that is above average for high school football, the Murphysmen should be able to keep the Tornados from blowing them back to Big Spring, but their scoring punch is an unknown factor, thus far.

KBST WILL CARRY T. U., ARK. GAME

For the second consecutive Saturday, the Humble Oil & Refining company will broadcast five football games featuring Southwest conference teams on Saturday afternoon and evening. The triumphant Texas Aggies open their conference season by playing T. C. U.'s Horned Frogs in College Station. The Humble company's broadcast of this game will begin at 2:30 p. m. with Kern Tins handling the play-by-play description and Pat Flaherty the color. It can be heard over stations KPRC, Houston; WOAI, San Antonio; WFAC, WFAA, Dallas-Fort Worth.

Another conference game of outstanding interest to be played Saturday afternoon is the annual contest between the Universities of Texas and Arkansas, which will be played this year in Little Rock. The Humble company is sending Cy Leland to Little Rock to broadcast a play-by-play description of the game for Texas listeners and he will be assisted by Buddy Bostick on color. The broadcast begins at 2:30 and can be heard over stations KFTZ, Fort Worth; KNOW, Austin; KGKL, San Angelo; KABC, San Antonio; KRLH, Midland; KBST, Big Spring; KRBC, Abilene; KTRH, Houston; KRGV, Weslaco; and KRIS, Corpus Christi.

Rice, S. M. U. and Baylor defend the conference's intersectional record with games with Tulane, Auburn and Villanova respectively. The Rice-Tulane game will be brought back to Texas listeners from New Orleans by the Humble company beginning at 1:50 p. m. Hal Thompson will handle the play-by-play on this game and Tom Jacobs the color. Tune in on KXYZ, Houston; KTRA, San Antonio; KFIW, Beaumont; KGKO, Fort Worth.

The S. M. U.-Auburn game will be broadcast from the Cotton Bowl in Dallas beginning at 2:30 p. m. over station KRLD, Dallas. Ves Box will handle the play-by-play description of this game and Dave Russell the color.

The Baylor-Villanova game will be played in San Antonio's beautiful new Alamogordo stadium Saturday night. The Humble company's broadcast of the game will begin at 7:50 p. m. with Dave Young handling play-by-play. It can be heard over stations WACO, Waco; WRR, Dallas; KTEM, Temple; KABC, San Antonio; KXYZ, Houston; and KFDH, Beaumont.

Lutherans' Mission Festival To Be Held Here Sunday

The Lutheran churches of Big Spring, Midland, and Lometa will celebrate their annual Mission Festival at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Sunday, Oct. 20.

The guest speaker at these special services will be Rev. V. Meyer, of Carlsbad, New Mexico. Services will be held at 10:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. In the morning service the visiting pastor will speak on "The Marching Orders of Our Captain."

The topic chosen for the afternoon service is "Bowing the Seed."

Rev. Meyer, an outstanding vocalist, will also sing a selection in the morning service. The public is cordially invited to worship with us in our Mission services.

"OH, ORRIN" HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18 (AP)—Instead of "Oh, Johnny" it may be "Oh, Orrin," for we Bonnie Baker. The petite singer told friends that she and Orrin Tucker, who leads the band with which she works, are engaged but haven't set a date for the ceremony.

Tulane Has Only Scrub All-America

ATLANTA, Oct. 18 (AP)—He's billed as the nation's only all-America scrub, and he's probably the most expensive luxury on the Tulane squad.

The name is Harley Ray McCollum. Last year, playing on Tulane's undefeated Sugar Bowl-bound football team, he was head-and-shoulders over nearly every other tackle in the country, winding up with a place on the Associated Press all-America eleven.

This year, beset by scholastic difficulties, he's repeating his junior studies. But it hasn't kept him out of football. He's a regular fixture on the Tulane field, working out with the scrubs, whenever Coach Red Dawson calls for scrimmage.

Expensive? Well, perhaps not in dimes and dollars. But with Tulane taking its lumps from Boston College, Auburn and Fordham in three successive starts, Dawson could think of more vital occupations for his six-foot five-inch mastodon than being an ornament on the bench.

"We hated to lose him this year," says Dawson, grimly, "but it has been extremely gratifying to see the spirit of co-operation and good-will he exhibits in these workouts with the scrubs."

McCollum, grimly silent, isn't calling any shots. But he's keeping that 230-pound frame in shape for another try at the top shelf.

Meanwhile, the deep south's other all-America lineman, Guard Edward (Moe) Molinski of Tennessee, is at the same old stand. But he has a red-hot battle on his hands to keep from being surpassed by his teammate, Bob Sutherland, back after a year with an injured leg.

Paul Vincent Severin, North Carolina's all-America end, may have plenty of competition elsewhere in the nation, but he's still tops around the Tar Heel state. Far from slowing down in his senior year, he is Coach Ray Wolf's leading pass-receiver, snaring five for a total of 84 yards.

Baylor Cubs Break Kilgore Win Streak

WACO, Oct. 18 (AP)—Texas' longest football winning streak is at an end.

The Kilgore Junior College Rangers who had gone 19 games without a defeat, lost to the Baylor Cubs yesterday by a 13-0 count.

Pulatte scored for Kilgore with Robinson and Phil counting the Cub touchdowns.

Editorial Two Kinds Of Security The Herald's Serial Story The Road To Shani Lun By Rita Mohler Hanson

Social security which is receiving so much attention is coupled with another security about which we seem little concerned — financial security.

There must be finances—money—to meet the demands of social security. Somebody must supply the money with which the beneficiaries of the social security system are paid. Money represents somebody's labor, or service that has been rendered, and no other money is real money. In other words, every penny that is paid to recipients of social security, under whatever name, has been earned by the labor of someone else, and collected from the earner in the form of taxes.

It is right that the government—some government—should care for those unable to care for themselves, unable to provide food and clothing and shelter which every human being requires. That has always been done and should be done, and for a long time a reasonable part of the taxes collected by various governmental agencies was set aside for and used for that purpose. But the broadening of the field to which social security is applied has so increased the amount that must be found for that purpose that the tax has become burdensome.

The payments that have been and are being made, by workers and their employers, into the treasury, to be used for unemployment and old age assistance, are being spent for various government purposes just like any other treasury funds. Against this depletion of the security funds, bonds are deposited. When the income from taxes of every sort does not equal the outgo—and it has not equalled it for some years—more bonds are issued. It is inevitable that if this continues there will come a time when the bonds will be more than the nation can carry. What then?

Social security is firmly bound up with financial security, for the nation and the individual.

Chapter Eight
ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

"How gorgeous!" Lynn gasped, and held the ring close the better to admire its beauty. She pressed the pearls to her cheek, felt their soft sheen and then gazed at them again, enchanted.

"It is too large," Temu said, removing the ring. "We'll have it cut down." Lynn could not bear to see that ring leave her sight. "Perhaps it would fit the middle finger," she suggested.

He shook his head. "That would place it imperfectly."

"I'd really like to own that ring," she persisted. "I'd like to buy it."

He shot her a quick, compelling look that for some reason made her feel abashed as if she had been guilty of some breach of manners or lacking in a sensitivity and intuition she should possess.

"Some rings are never for sale," he replied quietly.

"I understand," she agreed ruefully. She hadn't known it was in her to feel such a passion for an object. For a moment she had forgotten her surroundings, her plight.

"How did you acquire the ring?" she asked.

"I neither bought it nor stole it," he replied, returning the ring to her pocket. "You'll want some of these hair ornaments," he went on, and laid aside one of pink jade representing the lotus and another of peony design in blue tourmaline.

"My short hair wouldn't hold those things," she informed him coldly.

"I imagine it grows swiftly," he remarked, and calmly laid aside several necklaces of Mongol workmanship. "You have beautiful hair."

Though she had brought up the personality his continuation of it made her angry. With an effort she held back a contemptuous remark. Finally he picked out a pair of tiny, jeweled tobacco pipes. He was so arrogantly sure of himself that Lynn could not help being impressed by it. Being the friend of a prince seemed to have its compensations, she mused.

"Where," she asked curiously, "do you think I would ever wear these strange things?"

"There will be times when you are with the Princess Mother and pleased to wear Chinese garb. She belongs to the China of the old days." He told the men to leave and called his own boys to bring chests of cedar and sandalwood in which to pack the garments for the journey. He walked to the kang where her steamer trunks and traveling bags lay.

"Now as to your clothing for the trip," he said. "We travel light. A laundryman washes our garments every evening. Take only two or three changes of underclothing—sturdy shirts and shorts and heavy stockings. A dress or so for the evenings. The Duchess has Mongol cloaks and trousers prepared for you."

The light silk pajamas lay across the pillow.

"Another thing," he added. "You must have heavy, warm garments for sleeping in the desert."

"But I haven't," she retorted.

"I'll see that you are supplied. The rest of your possessions will be packed away until we reach Delun." He turned, went out, and closed the door behind him.

Open Door

Lynn sat down and stared unseeing at the maid who was busy with the packing. What now? What did they want with her in Delun that they should take her against her will? Was it a sample of Oriental cruelty and vindictive ness?

Temu had said, "The Prince will not hold your brother's crimes against you." Lynn did not feel confident that this was true. Somehow, she must escape!

A servant came in and eased himself out with a chest of garments on his shoulder. The door did not latch behind him. The massive red gate beyond the devil-screen had stood open all morning, Lynn knew, to admit strings of coolies delivering merchandises. The maid's back was turned.

Lynn walked boldly and quietly out of the room, across the courtyard, and into the street. She might happen upon a white person, or someone speaking English, who would heed her plea and take her to some source that would give her aid and protection.

She had barely gone a few paces into the street when Chan, the head servant, darted in front of her and began chattering and waving his arms, urging her back. Looking around, she saw Temu standing at the gate and watching the shadow of a smile about his mouth.

Of the few passersby, staring at her vacantly, not one seemed worth appealing to. She tried to dodge around the boy barring her way.

He was big for a coolie, or being the athletic girl she was, she might have struck him down.

Temu sauntered over, motioned the servant back into the compound, and asked Lynn if she didn't prefer walking back to being taken by force. She walked beside him and managed to drop her handkerchief, a distinctive, hand-made piece of linen. She turned and saw a beggar snatch it up.

"Where is Sherdock?" she demanded. "I wish to see him."

"Sherdock left for our next camp last night," Temu escorted her to the orange door. "We shall be ready to depart in a few minutes."

She stepped inside and turned and looked at him. "Since I must go, why couldn't I have gone with Sherdock?"

He measured her with eyes that missed nothing, a faint smile on his lips. "Sherdock might be physically helpless if a tall, strong girl such as you are, made up her mind to leave."

"Did he go alone?"

He spoke crisply. "No, but I do not want the servants forced to lay hands on you."

His words generated an emotion in Lynn out of all proportion to his apparent intention. Blood rushed to her face. She hadn't believed herself capable of such a passion of fear-whipped hate and some other indefinable emotion that welled up in her. She lifted her hands, and could have struck him.

Temu Darin stared. Then, suddenly understanding her rage, he spoke stiffly. "I have no evil intentions towards you." He wheeled and left her.

Lynn closed the door, turned, and sank down in a chair. She was trembling like a spent child, ashamed of her emotion and lack of control with a shame intensified by his final words. Somehow her pride, something original and exclusive, had been hurt.

One More Clue

Presently she noticed that all her possessions except one bag had been taken away. The maid had disappeared. Lynn rose and bathed her face, powdered her hair, and ran a comb through her hair. Then she put on her wraps for the journey. There was no use being refractory when it did not advance her cause. Finally, she took paper and envelope from her bag and wrote in a firm hand:

Please rescue me. I am being taken to Delun against my will by men who claim to be representatives of the Prince of Shani Lun.

She signed her name and sealed the note in an envelope addressed to "Any Chinese or American Government Agent." This she enclosed in a larger envelope with a reasonable sum of money and placed it inside her purse.

He smiled and watched her face obliquely as he directed her through several courtyards to an inconspicuous side gate where a motor-car awaited them in an hutting barely wide enough to accommodate the machine.

Lynn gasped, stopped and stared.

The car bristled like a man-of-war. It was a large limousine fitted with machine gun emplacements on the front fenders. Strapped to the running boards stood gunners in heavy sheepskin garments. Beside a native driver sat the mechanic, a small sun-burned white man who looked as if he might be French.

A white man—Lynn's heart lifted. But he stared straight ahead and did not once glance at her.

"We're being quiet as possible about this expedition," said Temu. "I'm taking valuable cargo through a bandit-infested region."

They walked around to enter the car from the farther side. Then Lynn saw the driver. He was a burly Mongol, minus one ear, his face deeply pitted with smallpox scars. Evidently, instead of a red pilgrim's robe, he wore a khaki uniform and sat hunched over the wheel busily playing a pair of knitting needles in a pile of rare white camel-hair yarn.

Lynn closed her eyes and opened them again. She had seen right. The very pilgrim who had so terrified her in the temple park was busily knitting a little white garment.

At sight of Lynn he stuffed the work into his tunic, jumped from the car and flung himself at her feet, beating his head in the dust and chanting strange musical words.

Washington Daybook By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—Politics is a strange disease. It's like tropical fever. Once it's in your blood, there is no telling when it's going to crop out. And for an outsider, it is pretty hard to see what the conditions are that bring about its recurrence.

For instance, in the senate gallery the other day, I witnessed this little legislative drama:

Senator Wheeler, the Montana democrat, who has been one of the chief ramrods in opposition to administration foreign policy, stood up before the senate the other day and offered his resolution to investigate foreign control or partial ownership by foreign companies or individuals of stock, patents, etc., in American firms which contribute to the national defense program.

There was a preamble to the resolution which started: "Whereas authentic reports indicate that German and other foreign corporations enjoy a measure of control over some of our most important defense industries; and whereas an American corporation which supplies glass for instruments and weapons for the army and navy has been shown to have close relations with a German concern involving disclosure of secret processes; and whereas one of the most important metals, invaluable in the manufacture of airplanes, is controlled by a corporation half of whose stock is reliably reported to be owned by the German chemical trust..."

Following some more whereases was the resolution to investigate the situation and report to the senate.

It takes an army of reporters, working night and day, just to skim the cream of the news off this national defense program, and nobody can say that he or she knows all about it. But on the surface, this would look like a pretty worthy investigation, wouldn't it? If there are financial fifth columnists working against the defense program, one of the national legislative bodies should know about it. If there aren't, then all these rumors should be branded as propaganda and silenced forever. BUT...

Senator Austin, Vermont republican, brought up the question of expediency and objected to consideration at this time.

Senator Barkley, leader of the democratic majority in the senate, put in this: "Being a member of the committee on interstate commerce, I am familiar with the facts connected with this resolution and the statements before the committee resulting in its report. I can state that there is no politics in the resolution. It is not a political matter at all..."

Senator Austin—"Does it NOT occur to the senator from Kentucky (Mr. Barkley) that without any intention on the part of the senate in passing the resolution, nevertheless politics might get into this matter?"

Senator Barkley—"It is not contemplated there shall be any hearings under the resolution at present. . . . There will probably be no publicity about the matter. As the senator from Montana (Mr. Wheeler) says, in January..."

Senator Wheeler—"There will not be any politics after January anyway. Politics will be over at that time, will be adjourned, we hope, for four years. . . . What we want to do is gather the information between now and January."

Senator Austin—"All the learned senators say supports my opinion that we would do well to put this off until after the first of January."

There was more to it than that, a lot more, but all in the same vein. The resolution passed and the preamble passed and the senate interstate commerce committee now is presumably going into the matter of foreign influence in companies which have to do with national defense, but since both sides admitted that it has something to do with politics, let's all put our heads together and figure out how.

Man About Manhattan By George Tucker

NEW YORK—The glittering displays that make Fifth Avenue the window-shoppers' paradise are miraculously coming to life.

For years the strollers from every corner of the globe who swarm the Avenue night and day could by strict rule, see nothing but inanimate objects in the windows.

But now the displays have suddenly blossomed out with motion, sound and human beings, and undoubtedly soon will approximate Broadway floor-shows.

The taboo on action in Fifth Avenue windows was imposed long ago by the Fifth Avenue Association—the merchants' governing body—because it feared that unrestricted competition for eye-catching displays would degrade the swanky thoroughfare to a Coney Island.

Having decided that, the merchants of course immediately set about to outdo each other with spectacular static displays.

The leading stores wound up by hiring stage designers to produce exhibits that would attract attention from the other fellow's window, and the trend hit a hysterical peak one night when the surrealist artist Salvatore Dali and a fur-lined bathtub somehow crashed through the plate-glass window of a bizarre display he was arranging.

That was as far as the stores could go in that direction, so they plunged into a frantic scramble for trick ways of circumventing their own inanimate-display rule.

A cosmetic firm put a tall, gushing colored fountain in its second-story window. Technically it was action, and there were a lot of raised eyebrows among other Avenue tenants, but it was relatively conservative and not on the street floor, and would have cost a lot to rip out, so they let it stay.

That started the ball rolling. Another second-floor establishment smuggled in a life-size scantily-clad mechanical drum-majorette that caught every male eye—and got away with it. A department store at Christmas put swimming bells in its ground-floor window, with amplifiers to carry their clanging out to the sidewalk.

Finally the other day a big department store, swept off its feet by style-show enthusiasm, decided to go overboard and put living models in its window.

Then at the last minute it had qualms, so the store hit on a unique compromise. They borrowed from peep-shows the girl-in-the-fishbowl illusion, in which the image of a real person behind the scenes is projected by lenses and appears dwarfed in a globe a few inches from the spectator's nose.

From there it's obviously only a step a few months in terms of Fifth Avenue conservatism to putting real living people in the windows.

MEXICO SLATES DRIVE ON FOREIGN 'ISMS'

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 18 (AP)—Congressional circles said today that governors of Mexico's 28 states would confer here next week on a nation-wide campaign against "foreign isms."

Twenty-two governors reportedly have already agreed to attend the conference which will formulate a plan of action against "nazism, fascism, communism and other isms which endanger the democratic and revolutionary system of our government."

About 7,083 islands make up the Philippine group.

Religious Must Lead In Change, Says Sheen

EL PASO, Oct. 18 (AP)—Dedinat-ing a 40-foot stone statue of Christ,
Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen of Catholic University said the religious could not withdraw from the world but must lead and direct the social revolution, not follow it.
He spoke here yesterday on Mount Cristo Rey where hundreds of Catholic followers had gathered for the ceremony.
Monsignor Sheen called for more penitential and sacrificial Catholics rather than merely devout Catholics.

LONGSHOREMEN'S DISPUTE SETTLED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15 (AP)—
Efforts to lead the liner President
Taft for quick departure to Hawaii with defense supplies were pushed today after spokesmen for employers and longshoremen announced settlement of a dispute which had halted cargo handling since Tuesday.
Six gangs of stevedores were ordered for this morning to complete loading of the 4,000-ton cargo, of which 1,700 tons were described by shippers as defense materials for the islands.
The big American President line ship was due to continue to the Orient and bring back Americans leaving that troubled area.

FREE TIME ON HIS HANDS...
CLARK KENT REMOVES HIS OUTER GARMENTS, TRANSFORMING HIMSELF INTO SUPERMAN.

I THINK I'LL HOP OVER TO THE DREXMORE HOME AND SEE HOW LOIS IS MAKING OUT IN HER NEW POSITION.

MOMENTS LATER... DOWN OUT OF THE CLOUDY SKY PLUMMETS A COLORFUL FIGURE...

LOIS—BELOW WITH MRS. DREXMORE!

DRAT MY MEMORY! I NEVER CAN RECALL THE COMBINATION TO THE SAFE WITHOUT FIRST CONSULTING THIS SLIP OF PAPER!

ISN'T IT TERRIBLY DANGEROUS TO LEAVE THE COMBINATION OF YOUR SAFE LYING ABOUT LIKE THAT?

DANGEROUS? VERY! (A FEW YES! BUT ENOUGH TO MENACE ANGE THAT I KEEP YOUR VALUABLE JEWELS IN MY HOME! POSSESSION OF THEM!)

WHAT'S THE SUITCASE FOR... YOUR SPARE LIPSTICK?

IT'S A ROUGH TRAIL... YOU'D BETTER LEAVE IT!

I'LL LEAVE IT IF YOU TELL THIS LITTLE BANDIT TO KEEP HIS MITTS OFF!

ME, I NO TOUCH! WHAT'S BEEN BAG, LADY?

DID YOU BRING YOUR LITTLE HATCHET, BOY SCOUT? OR ARE WE SUPPOSED TO CRAWL THROUGH THIS CABBAGE?

IT IS PRETTY THICK, IT'S GOING TO BE SOME JOB!

LEAD ON, MAC—IF THE LITTLE GIRL GETS TIRED I'LL CARRY HER!

YOU CAN'T WRITE ANY MORE SONGS???

WHAT? BUT-BUT HOW? WHEN? WHY?

I JUST FOUND OUT NOW... I HAVE TO LEAVE HOLLYWOOD!

'LEAVE HOLLYWOOD?'

THAT SPECIALIST UPSTAIRS... HE'S TAKING TOMMY BACK TO NEW YORK FOR TREATMENTS—AND I MUST GO ALONG!

HERE'S A LITTLE PRESENT I BOUGHT YA, STUPID!

EH? A PRESENT? F-FOAM ME P-AW—I-I SAY!

FAVING THE OLD CHAP BUYING ME A PRESENT—ER—AN—MY WORD!

S-BUT—THIS IS A CHAUFFEUR'S UNIFORM, OLD CHAP!

YEAH! I NOTICE THAT EVERYBODY WHO'S ADVERTISED FOR A CHAUFFEUR DEMANDS THAT THE APPLICANT FURNISH HIS OWN UNIFORM!

NOW, CLYDE, WHO WE'RE GOIN' JOB-HUNTIN'!
