Park won't talk to panel

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Tongsun Park, the key figure in the South Korean influence-buying scandal in Washington, came out of hiding today and said he would not let American authorities question him.

Declaring "I am a 100 per cent Korean," he told a news conference there is no need or any obligation for him to speak to any American investigators.

"If Leon Jaworski comes to Korea, it's his liberty, but I'm not going to see him," he added.

Jaworski, the former Watergate special prosecutor, is the new director of the investigation into the scandal by the ethics committee of the U.S. House of Representatives. The U.S.

Justice Department also is investigating charges that Park was the South Korean government's chief payoff man in Washington.

The 42-year-old Korean businessman said American newspaper allegations that he gave funds and favors to members of Congress to get their support for the Korean government and to advance his own rice-buying operations were "irresponsible, merciless and inhumane."

He also said there was no justification for the seizure of his property in the United States by U.S. authorities in connection with allegations of tax evasion.

Jaworski reporting on scandal probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leon Jaworski is giving the House ethics committee a progress report on his first few days in charge of the investigation of alleged South Korean influence-buying attempts in Congress.

The former Watergate special prosecutor is meeting with committee members today in their first session since he took over the investigation on Aug. 15. Aides declined to say in advance what Jaworski would tell the committee.

They also would not say whether the panel will consider a contempt of Congress action against Suzi Park Thomson, a former secretary to retired House Speaker Carl Albert. Ms. Thomson, who prefers that designation, was threatened with the contempt citation last week by investigators after she refused to answer three questions.

Ms. Thomson's lawyer, Phillip Hirschkop, said she is willing to answer the questions in a public session, but not in private.

He said she was asked whether she knows of any "payoffs" to congressmen by Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park or by former Korean Ambassador Kim Dong Jo and what she knows about a 1975 congressional trip to Korea.

HISTORIC FLIGHT — An era ended at Webb Air Force Base today when three crews manned aircraft for the final training flights at the military facility. The base is scheduled for closure later this year and the last plane departs Sept. 1. At the top Iranian student pilots Lt. Ali Mohammadi and Lt. Jahangir Anghtese confer with their instructor pilots Lt. Dennis Barnett and Capt. Jack Butcher. They were flying T-37s. In the lower photo, Lt. Hojatollah Sharifnia and Capt. Richard Phaneuf check out a T-38 before boarding it for the historical flight. The last two planes took off about 11 a.m.

Self-inflicted strangulation ruled

Local man hanged in jail

Kenneth Wayne Mears, 19, 2006 West 6th, was pronounced dead due to self-inflicted strangulation Tuesday in the Big Spring police department jail.

Mears had been under $25,000 bond in connection with the recent burglaries of the Gas House Lounge and Bush Country Lounge. He had been arrested on suspicion of burglary Monday.

Mears was on ten years probation in connection with a January, 1975 rape.

According to detectives, he had been linked with three other burglaries while being held in the station. The burglaries have taken place over the last three months.

Detective J.D. Carter was the last person to see Mears alive. He left the youth's cell at 1 p.m. today after talking with him. The body was found at 2:40 p.m. by Sgt. Leroy Spires as he made a round of the cells. The man was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Bobby West at approximately 3 p.m.

Apparently, Mears removed his socks, tied them together, and hung himself by tying one end to an overhead shower stall and the other around his neck. He then stopped off a narrow ledge in the cell. According to the police, he could have stepped back onto the ledge if he wished.

The suicide was the second in recent months in local jails. On July 7, Faustino Aguilar hung himself with his shirt in the Howard County jail.

Police Chief Stanley Bogard said, "There will be no investigation after the JP's ruling."

Bogard was asked if there were a method of preventing suicides in jail.

"The way it is now, an incident like this couldn't be prevented unless someone was up there (in the jail) with him," said Bogard, "but if we had a video monitoring system in the jail, that might do it," he added.

Bogard has requested such a system from the Permian Basin Planning Council. The council received an estimate of the cost from an appraiser last year, but Bogard has heard nothing about it since then.

"I have never seen the estimate of the cost, but I know we are talking about thousands of dollars," he said.

Graveside services for Mears will be at 3 p.m., Friday in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Mears was born Nov. 28, 1957, in San Antonio. He was employed by Casey's Body Shop. He moved to Big Spring in 1969 from San Antonio with his parents. He married Doris Withey May 14, 1976, in Big Spring.

Survivors include his widow, a son, Kenneth Wayne Mears Jr., both of the home; his mother, Juanita Mears, four brothers, James David Mears, Alfred Ray Mears, Ronald Mears and Doyle Mears, and a sister, Patricia Mears, all of Big Spring.

Provocative picture surfaces in Davis trial

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Defense attorneys for millionaire Cullen Davis tried unsuccessfully today to introduce into evidence a provocative picture of Davis' estranged wife Priscilla and a partially nude male friend.

The blonde Fort Worth socialite, under cross-examination by the defense, said she could not recall the picture being taken but identified the man as W.T. Rufner.

"Do you recall ever seeing W.T. Rufner in this condition of attire, or lack of it?" defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes asked.

"No sir," she replied.

"Not in that particular situation, no sir," she said.

State District Court Judge George Dowlen sustained prosecution objections to the picture and barred at least temporarily its introduction into evidence.

Haynes also zeroed in on the number of people, male and female, who have visited or lived at the mansion since the Davises separated in 1974. He questioned her specifically about how many had individual house keys.

The lawyers for Davis know they must discredit Mrs. Davis, the state's star witness, if they are to win an acquittal for the Fort Worth industrialist.

Mrs. Davis Tuesday identified her estranged husband as the "man in black" who wounded her and killed her lover Stan Farr in a summertime 1976 shooting spree.

"Their only defense is to destroy me," Mrs. Davis, 36, said outside the courtroom. "But it doesn't matter if I was the biggest hooker, doper or what have you...it has absolutely nothing to do with what he did."

Davis, 43, is on trial for his life in the Aug. 2, 1976, slaying of his stepdaughter, Andrea, 12, the first of two to die in the midnight shootings at the $6-million Davis mansion in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Davis, shot once in the chest that night, told the jury Tuesday how she lay bleeding on the mansion floor and watch the gunman fire two fatal shots into the dying Farr.

"Stan just looked at me, closed his eyes, laid down his head and he died," she said, tears flowing down her cheeks and her ice-blond hair tumbling across her face.

Moments earlier, she said, the man in black and wearing a woman's shoulder-length black wig had stepped from a stairwell, said "hi" and "then he shot me."

Mrs. Davis told also of running through the darkness to a neighbor's home across the 181-acre estate and crying:

"My name is Priscilla Davis. I live in the big white house in the middle of the field. Cullen has wounded me very badly. He's killing my children. He's killing everyone...please, he's trying to kill me."

She testified she was unaware at the time that Andrea's lifeless body lay crumpled in a basement utility room.

Since there were no witnesses to Andrea's death, the state intends to prove the bullet which killed the child was fired from the same gun used to kill Farr.

Stenholm 'likely' will seek seat in Congress

Charles W. Stenholm, a 38-year-old Stamford Democrat, indicated in a letter to The Herald this morning he would likely become a candidate for the office of U.S. Congressman from the 17th District in the 1978 election.

In a telephone conversation with The Herald, Mrs. Stenholm said if her husband does decide to enter the race his official announcement would likely be made about Oct. 1.

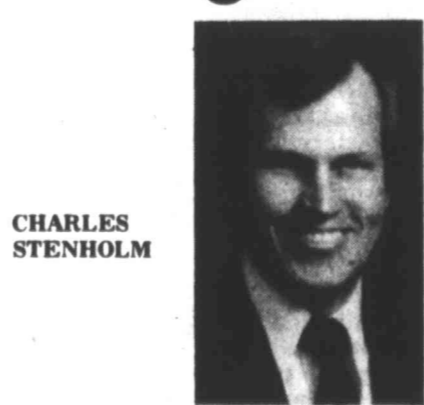

Stenholm is in College Station today attending an ASCS meeting. He was named to the ASCS committee several weeks ago.

Stenholm was born in Stamford to the late Mr. and Mrs. L.W. Stenholm. He was raised by his Swedish parents in the Ericksdahl community immediately east of Stamford.

He attended Tarleton State University two years and later enrolled at Texas Tech. While at Tech, he met his future wife, Cindy Watson of Dumas. The future Mrs. Stenholm was born to Mr. and Mrs. Steve Watson. Her mother runs a dress shop and her father is retired.

Cindy at one time was an elementary school teacher. The Charles Stenholms have three children, Chris 14, a high school freshman; Cary 11, sixth grader; and Courtney Ann, 5, who will be in kindergarten this year.

Stenholm formed a farming partnership with his cousin, Wayland Shirley. Their operation is substantial — they raise wheat, cotton, maintain pasture land and market both pigs and cattle. At one time, Charles was CHARLES STENHOLM president of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers Association. Still later, he served as REA manager in Stamford and was elected to the position of president of the Texas REA Association. Before being named an ASCS committeeman, Charles was a member of the State Democratic Committee. Thus far, A.L. (Dusty) Rhodes, Abilene attorney, is the only Democrat committed to the Congressional race. However, Jim Baum, Big Spring; Jim Sharp, who has yet to establish a home base but who formerly resided in Big Spring; and Joe Hanna, state representative from Breckenridge, have all indicated they are thinking seriously of offering for the office. Bill Fisher, Abilene tax attorney, is the lone Republican who said he is thinking strongly of running.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Consider this directive to all field offices of the state Department of Licensing:

"It is incumbent upon us to make sure that the director's picture is placed on the wall in a proper manner. It should be checked periodically to see that it is properly aligned. In those cases where the photograph has slipped or is at an angle within a frame, immediate action should be taken to realign it within the frame."

Assistant director Jack G. Nelson said he sent out the memo after director Rossline Y. Woodhouse "mentioned to me that she had received numerous comments from citizens throughout the state that her picture in our offices were at an angle."

Gov. Mandel will appeal

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Marvin Mandel, convicted of mail fraud and racketeering along with five of his closest friends, is appealing his conviction and awaiting word on the status of his pension. Convicted in U.S. District Court Tuesday on a single racketeering charge and 17 mail fraud counts, Mandel will remain governor under the state constitution until sentenced by Judge Robert Taylor on Oct. 7.

Lt. Gov. Blair Lee III would then become the state's 57th chief executive.

But the possibility has arisen of Mandel, 57, resigning earlier in order to qualify for his $12,500 pension. Both Mandel and Lee asked for a pension opinion earlier in the trial.

State Atty. Gen. Francis Burch says he is working up an opinion on the pension question, which may be announced sometime next week.

The Maryland state constitution says a governor upon sentencing "shall be suspended by operation of law without pay or benefits from the elective office."

Some officials in the state have contended that Mandel is entitled to the pension on grounds that he served a previous full term in office. Others assert that he must forfeit all benefits, pension included, if convicted of a crime. Burch has been silent on the controversy, pending completion of the opinion.

Drug conspiracy charge

HOUSTON (AP) — A third man has been arrested in a drug case in which federal agents say they seized in Dallas equipment capable of producing ingredients for 250,000 methaqualone tablets in eight hours.

Paul Alexander West surrendered Tuesday on a charge of conspiring to illegally manufacture methaqualone, a sedative. West posted a $25,000 bond.

Two Houston brothers, David Ivan Goodman, 45, and Herbert Goodman, 50, were arrested on similar charges last week. They were released Monday after original bonds of $250,000 were reduced to $100,000.

Tons of DBCP buried

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tons of the widely used pesticide DBCP are buried in California soil. Much more is stored in warehouses and railroad cars, and farm experts are hunting for a way to gather and dispose of those stores. The chemical DBCP — dibromochloropropane — was banned by the state this month after tests revealed that 10 workers regularly exposed to it at an Occidental Chemical Corp. plant at Lathrop, 75 miles east of here, were sterile or had almost non-existent sperm counts.

'Misconceptions' stall treaties?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, declaring that public opposition to the proposed Panama Canal treaties is based in part on

Odessa mayor urged to quit

ODESSA — Odessa city councilman Glenn O. Brown said Monday it would be in the best interests of everyone concerned if Mayor Dan Hemphill resigned.

Brown was a strong supporter of former City Manager Ron Neighbors, who resigned Aug. 1 following a long period of controversy with members of the council.

Hemphill is completing his second term in office. He emphatically said he would complete it and might offer for a third term.

Brown said Neighbors' resignation started a chain of events that may cause the council to probe into the police department.

Councilman Fred George said that the mayor's office is an elective one and no member of the council has a right to call for another councilman's resignation.

Hemphill's term expires next April.

misconceptions, is launching a series of meetings with officials from around the country to win support for the agreement.

As he called in the governors of Mississippi and Kentucky for a briefing on the agreement, Carter told a news conference Tuesday that the United States would have first rights to involvement in a new canal, if one is built.

Telling the President, while And the President, while Carter, while he "wouldn't want to say anyone who disagrees with me is ignorant," added he believes, "The way to arouse public support for the treaty is to let the American people know the advantages to our country of its terms."

Carter acknowledged that "there is not popular support for the Panama Canal treaty" but blamed this on "a great deal of misconception."

The President's actions are part of an administration attempt to counter attacks by foreign-policy conservatives who say the treaties give away too much for what the United States gets in return.

A White House official said that the meeting with the governors, Cliff Finch of Mississippi and Julian Carroll of Kentucky, was the first of several on the agreement.

The agreement reached two weeks ago in Panama between U.S. and Panamanian negotiators turns control of the canal over to Panama by the year 2000, although the United States would retain the right to defend its neutrality at any time.

The governors said after the meeting that Carter sought their help in convincing their states' citizens of the need for the treaties, but that he specifically asked them not to put pressure on their states' senators.

Tax board eyes re-evaluation

The Howard County Tax Appraisal Board meets at 3 p.m. this afternoon with only one issue to talk about: re-evaluation.

New Appraiser Earl Dean is facing up to the biggest thorn in the side of his appraisal office today when discussion begins on the possibility of updating the 1958 building schedule used to assess property tax in Howard County.

Three governmental bodies have already said that they encourage a reevaluation. The City of Big Spring, the Howard County Commissioner's Court, and the Big Spring School District Board of Trustees have all indicated their approval of such an undertaking.

Former appraiser Carleton Harry recommended before he left that the new appraiser be given the power to correct specific properties to their fair market value, rather than simply being able to adjust for improvements.

The reevaluation would take as much as two years and cost $400,000 if done by an outside appraiser. However, the job could be done by the present appraiser's office plus additional staff for much less.

Such a reevaluation would not mean a tax increase if the assessment rate was dropped a comparable amount.

Police beat Right action at wrong place

Mary Lou Martinez, Vincent Route, chose the wrong place to change her baby, 6:20 p.m. Tuesday.

According to reports, Mrs. Martinez began to change the baby on a bench in the middle of the Highland South Mall. When she did so, she set her purse down next to her.

When she walked away she forgot the purse, and that was the last she saw of it. The handbag which contained two billfolds, various identification papers and $1,125 in cash is now missing.

The driver of a U.S. Postal Service truck reported that four male juveniles ripped off three packages from his truck while it was parked at 1501 Wood. The incident took place at 12:40 p.m. Tuesday.

Investigators are sure of only one of the addresses on the stolen packages.

Burglars broke into the home of Jack Lipscombe, 2404 Allendale, Tuesday afternoon. Once inside they lifted a 19-inch color television set valued at $550, and two shotguns.

While A.L. Fulcher, 2318 Brent, repainted his house Sunday night, the rugs that he had left on the walk in front of his home were stolen. Loss was estimated at $400.

Burglars entered the home of Linda Mason, 2211 Lynn, through an unlocked front door, sometime between 7:40 and 9:30 p.m. Tuesday. Stolen were a clock radio, a pearl ring, two wrist watches, a gold antique bracelet and an assortment of costume jewelry. Value of the items was estimated at $360.

Burglars also lifted a 12-gauge shotgun from the home of R.H. Sadler, 2106 Merrily, sometime Sunday. The gun was valued at $250.

Vandals broke the side-view mirror on the 1976 Buick Skylark belonging to Lewis Heflin, 3912 Hamilton, sometime Saturday. The mirror was valued at $40.

Four mishaps were reported Tuesday. A parked vehicle belonging to Everett Lee Smith, 1314 Hamilton, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene on the 200 block of Runnels, 9 p.m.

Out of court settlement

The malpractice trial of Dr. R.B.G. Cowper ground to a halt Tuesday afternoon as the parties agreed to settle for what was rejected to be approximately $25,000 in damages.

The suit was filed by Marijo Halfmann for a total of $750,000 in damages after a gynecological operation performed by Cowper allegedly left her severely burned.

The trial began Monday afternoon with testimony from Dr. Cowper, and later, from his nurse who assisted in the operation.

DISTRICT GOVERNOR VISITS — The Big Spring Rotary Club received its annual visit from the region's district governor Tuesday. District Gov. and Mrs. Duke Martin (right) were guests at the club's weekly meeting. Ralph McLaughlin, left, introduced Dr. Martin. He also was greeted by club President E. Ray Tatum and his wife, Cletis.

'Let's serve to unite mankind'

Rotary Clubs can serve to unite a mankind which is pulling apart all over the world, the district governor of West Texas said in Big Spring Tuesday.

Dr. A.B. (Duke) Martin, who heads the 46 Rotary Clubs in this region, made his annual visit to the Big Spring club at the Settles Hotel.

Dr. Martin said fellowship had been the first goal of Rotary, and he noted that this year's international theme is, "Let's serve to unite mankind."

"In the U.S. there are all kinds of groups demanding rights at the expense of someone else, he said.

The former Amarillo College president said that this was not the way of America, a nation which had been banded together for a common purpose.

Dr. Martin, who earned his graduate degrees from the University of Texas, said that Rotary was founded by Paul Harris so the men at the top of their professions would not be alone. The idea was that these men in business and professional life could help each other solve the kind of problems that would destroy them, he said.

The district governor was introduced by Ralph McLaughlin, a former district governor.

Carter endorses banking inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, although defending Budget Director Bert Lance as having done nothing "illegal or even unethical," says he does not object to plans for Senate hearings into banking practices that grew out of the investigation of Lance's personal financial dealings.

Carter was asked at his news conference Tuesday about the plans of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, to hold the hearings. The President said he does not oppose them because they would be "part of our political process that ought to be encouraged."

Carter called Lance "one of the more competent and intelligent people" he has known.

Despite the President's endorsement, the controversy over Lance's dealings while head of two Georgia banks has prompted new interest into whether the government should scrutinize banks more closely.

Both the House and Senate are to conduct hearings on the subject next month.

Committees of both houses say they will look at such practices as borrowing by bank officers, correspondent relationships between banks and bank officers and directors who are allowed to write overdrafts on their checking accounts.

"We would be remiss if we did not explore these areas ... before considering substantive amendments to the banking codes," said Rep. Ferdinand J. St. Germain, D-R.I., chairman of a House Banking subcommittee studying how the government should oversee financial institutions.

Proxmire said his committee will examine "unresolved questions as to what constitute acceptable banking practices."

KEPT IN STALL — Peter Saunders of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals tends a Shetland pony in Plaistow, N.H., Tuesday. The SPCA said the animal was kept in an uncleaned stall for two or three years. Its hooves have grown to 18 inches. A Plaistow woman is charged with mistreatment of the pony.

Expended rocket bumped Voyager?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists believe the Voyager 2 space craft's erratic behavior after its launch last weekend may have been caused by a jettisoned rocket that bumped into it.

The 350-pound expended rocket, which should have fallen clear, may be tagging along with the unmanned space probe bound for Jupiter, Saturn and beyond, scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here said Tuesday.

to fire maneuvering thrusters while there is a rocket close to the spacecraft," said project manager John Casani at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida, where the sister ship Voyager 1 is to blast off Sept. 3.

The twin space probes are intended to take photographs and make scientific observations of Jupiter and some of its moons in 1979, of Saturn and some of its moons in 1980 and 1981, and perhaps Uranus.

For that reason, a maneuver planned for later this week to correct Voyager's course may be delayed while light-sensing instruments aboard the probe search for signs of the jettisoned rocket, called a propulsive module.

"No attempt will be made to fire maneuvering thrusters while there is a rocket close to the spacecraft," said project manager John Casani at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida, where the sister ship Voyager 1 is to blast off Sept. 3.

Water study report

County and city officials and other interested persons were introduced Tuesday to Vol. I of the "208 study" on water quality management for the upper Colorado River basin.

Copies of the 200-page compendium of basic information, plus an appendix of supporting data, were distributed to officials for suggestions. These must be made within 20 days to the Citizens Advisory Committee, which will shape the final report. This panel has been set up by the governor for planning waste water management.

Attending the meeting at CRMWD headquarters were representatives from Mitchell, Borden, Sterling and Howard Counties. Those attending from Big Spring included Clyde McMahon, Harvey Hooser, Theo Earnest, Oscar Cagle, and Ken Dawson. Also, representing Freese and Nichols was Don Catts.

The study, to satisfy requirements of Section 208 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972, was conducted by the Colorado River Municipal Water District under a grant from the Texas Water Quality Board. O.H. Ivie, CRMWD general manager, and Rodney Lewis, who surveyed the area for the report, gave highlights.

The study is part of a three-pronged inventory of the 96,500 square miles in the Colorado basin which rises from the Gulf to an elevation of 3,000 feet some 1,000 river miles northwest to its head eight miles northeast of Lamesa.

Vol. I (Basic Information) has narratives, tables and illustrations describing the nature of the upper basin

Bell begins defense

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. is scarred by allegations from two former high executives, opened its defense today against charges leveled in a $29 million damage suit.

Louis Bailey, a corporate official from the St. Louis headquarters of Southwestern Bell, was the first witness called and was expected to testify throughout the day.

The lawsuit was brought by fired executive James Ashley and the family of T. O. Gravit, who was Bell's top Texas official when he committed suicide in October 1974.

Bailey was Gravit's immediate supervisor during the period in which Gravit was the Texas vice president of the company.

Bailey testified that he was largely responsible for Gravit's promotion to the Texas post and approved pay raises which increased Gravit's salary from $41,000 annually in 1970 to $80,000 at the time of his death.

Bailey said he had a good working relationship with Gravit and Gravit never complained to him about any of his duties.

The Gravit notes accused Bell of operating illegal political "slush funds," engaging in unfair rate-fixing tactics and allowing company executives to spend money wastefully on themselves.

Bell, in a counterclaim in the suit, charges Gravit and Ashley defrauded the company of about $30,000, mostly by filing false travel and expense vouchers.

Ashley and the Gravit family claim the company investigation destroyed the two executives' reputations and was designed to drive them out of the Bell power structure because they were critical of certain practices.

Bell attorney Hubert Green, in his opening argument to the 10-man, two-woman jury more than two weeks ago, warned there would be a lot of "mudslinging" in the case.

He said the company maintains it has the right to investigate its employees.

Ashley was suspended from his $55,000-a-year job in San Antonio on Oct. 9, 1974, by an official who told him one of the reasons for the action was alleged sexual relations with female Bell employees. He was fired Oct. 31, 1974.

The plaintiffs contend Gravit was driven to insanity and suicide by the investigation which Bell security agents questioned employes about alleged wrongdoing by Gravit and Ashley, including whether they ever had sex with them.

Earlier, a psychiatrist testified for the plaintiffs that the Bell probe drove Gravit to insanity and suicide.

Auto Body Repair courses offered at HC

Starting Thursday, Howard College will begin a full program in Auto Body Repair. Brad Mosher will be the instructor for both day and evening classes.

The Auto Body Repair business is booming, according to Mr. Mosher, but there are not enough qualified people who can do the repair on wrecked vehicles. Because of this shortage, wages are high in the area for qualified repairmen and painters.

Mosher commented that in the automotive field the repairing and repainting of car bodies is growing faster than any other service work. Each year there are more and more cars and trucks on the road. As a result, there are more collisions, more wrecked bodies and more damaged fenders. This means plenty of work and top pay for those who have the know-how required to do quality work.

The Auto Body courses offered at Howard College will cover all phases of body repairing, use of modern tools and equipment, step-by-step procedures for handling typical jobs. Various sections of the program work with the most popular design techniques

Management tips offered

Applications are being accepted for Howard College's management training program. The course of study has been revised to provide a broader and more comprehensive understanding of theory and practical application of the skills and knowledge required for success in directing the activities of others.

The basic courses, Supervisory Management, Human Relations in Business, and Personnel Management, are offered to give the student insight in both theory and application of management principles. Internships in management are offered to afford the student the opportunity to observe and apply management techniques in a working environment.

Other courses in the program of study include business, accounting, and law as well as studies in the basic skills such as English and mathematics. The associate degree program provides a comprehensive study of concepts in management for both the beginner and the individual already in a supervisory capacity. Applications for the management program of H.C. are being accepted at the present time. Those interested should contact Theron Lee in Room A-4 of the Horace Garrett Building on campus or by calling 267-6311, ext. 78. Fall semester registration is August 25th and 26th and Mr. Lee requests that those wishing to come into the Management Program get in touch with him before these dates.

Profession has come long way

Big Spring Mayor Pro Tem Polly Mays welcomed the teachers Monday at the annual gathering of the faculty for Big Spring schools.

Her address went into a bit of history about teachers in Big Spring schools, and it was so interesting that I thought the Herald's readers would like to see it too.

Here is what Mrs. Mays dug out of our community's history for its teachers to appreciate:

... JUST A CENTURY ago the first school in Big Spring was started in a tent near what is now the entrance to Comanche Trail Park. A tent store, tent saloon, and several tent-homes stood around the spring.

When the railroad arrived in 1881, most of the early settlers moved downtown to be near the railroad, and a school was ordered constructed by the commissioners court in 1882. Five hundred dollars was appropriated from public funds for a two-story school house at 4th and Scurry (now the site of our library).

POLLY MAYS

The second story was used for a courtroom.

From one teacher in 1882 the school system grew to five teachers in 1896.

Today's teachers must have one or more degrees but those who taught in the early days had different requirements to meet. Such as:

Women teachers: Must not keep company with men. You must be home between the hours of 7 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless attending a school function.

You must keep the school room clean and neat and sweep the floor at least once daily, scrub the floor at least once a week with hot, soapy water; clean the blackboards at least once a day and start the first at 7 a.m. so the room will be warm by 8 a.m.

You may not loiter downtown by ice cream stores. You must not ride in a carriage or automobile with any man unless he is your father or brother.

You may not smoke cigarettes. You may not dress in bright colors. You may under no circumstances dye your hair. You may not travel beyond the city limits unless you have the permission of the chairman of the board.

MEN TEACHERS were required to not wear detachable collars or remove their neck tie from their shirt. Their hair was not to be closely cropped unless bald or with a scalp disease.

One teacher said after hearing the board president read these regulations: "Well, now I know how the Israelites felt when Moses gave them the 10 commandments."

Mrs. Mays was followed to the speaker's podium by Bill Albright of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. Albright jokingly noted that Interim Superintendent Lynn Hise had been making prolific notes during the mayor pro tem's list of teacher requirements in the last century.

When it was Hise's turn to talk, he noted to the teachers, "You've come a long way, baby."

Around the rim

Bill Werrell

After working as a Banquet Captain (illustrious title for a completely lackluster job) at a Ramada Inn in Cincinnati, I swore off working indoors and took a job the next summer with the town labor force of Glendale, Ohio.

Seeing that it suits my nature to handle other people's junk, I found myself on one of the two trash collection trucks in town.

THERE IS A difference between trash and garbage, in that trash is somewhat more sanitary, and doesn't contain the vile little living organisms which makes garbage collection a high paying job.

For the part-time summer trash collector, pay was set at the minimum of a minimum wage rate. It wasn't one of those jobs you dreamed about in which you'd work a few summer months and come home one day in a brand new Corvette or classy foreign sports car. I didn't even rate a used Volkswagen bug.

There were good points to the job however, and my mother can still attest to them, although there is some disagreement as to which were the good points.

At this moment, there rest three used washing machines, two old sewing machines, some orange aluminum siding, a vast array of wooden crates and boxes, several broken power tools, about ten feet of heavy chain, three outdated air conditioners, hundreds of feet of scattered copper wire, an old Royal typewriter missing the "A" and "W" keys, and my special prize, a completely useless high output air compressor (or is it actually some kind of water pump?) all about the floor of the basement in my house in Cincinnati.

These prizes are all evidence of my uncanny ability to divert the driver of my truck, Jess, (who taught me everything I know about trash collection) away from the city dump to my personal dump in the cellar of my house.

My mother, hearing our dump truck pull into the drive, would stand on the back porch, hands on hips, and try to smile as I showed her some of the new "neat" stuff I was able to ferret out of the city's waste cans each day.

Jess taught me the value of used wire for its copper content, and explained that scrap metal was up to a premium and had gone up in value by a few cents a ton that year.

WE TRADED OUR treasures off a lot too. I remember I got an electric magnet, (malfunctioning) from Jess, for the mere price of two of my extra air conditioning coils.

The job however wasn't restricted to trash collection, and unfortunately included the dread job of brush piles.

Jess also taught me everything there is to know about brush piles. Putting a pitch fork in the right place, pushing in, away, and up and over in one smooth motion would often dump an entire enormous looking pile of brush into the back of our truck.

Grass bags were another story. Cincinnati, known for its humid atmosphere, does a fast decomposition job on anything biodegradable which is left in an enclosed area.

Grass was especially fast, and once it got going, or "ripen" as Jess called it, the odor was often offensive enough to make pitching it into the back of a truck a job equally as repugnant as certain tasks done about livestock on the farm.

Even with a basement, seemingly floating in rusty relics, there were a few things I picked up that even mother was excited about.

She still uses the electric frying pan, and the sterling and crystal serving dish made an ideal wedding gift to an acquaintance whom we forgot about until the last moment.

Race to betrayal

William F. Buckley, Jr.

It is instructive to contrast the symbolic meaning to the United States of our positions in Panama and in Taiwan. It is being suggested that we chart a course giving up sovereignty over the Canal Zone. Opponents of this course of action cite as among the reasons for not doing so the symbolic loss of prestige to the United States. The quick answer to that question is that the loss in prestige is of the sort that marks prestige with little red pins scattered about the globe—there, there, there, and there the American flag is flying.

There is another kind of prestige that inures to great countries that transcends marketing-class demonstrations of prestige, in exchange for fundamentally improved situations. A great country looks first after its own security, and then seeks to oblige the licit ambitions of other people—in Panama's case, the reunification of their country.

IN TAIWAN, our presence is of huge symbolic meaning. As long as our treaty survives, we have advised the world that for all that we are prepared to deal with the Communist superpowers, we are not prepared to appease them by turning over more human beings for them to victimize.

Now Senator Kennedy and former Senator Scott would not put it this way. Senator Kennedy was wondrously vague about the future of Taiwan. He was concrete on two points: we should terminate our defense treaty, and we should not try to exact from China the pledge that it would renounce force in seizing Taiwan. Where he became vague was on what then would protect Taiwan from the colossus on the Mainland.

Well... such things as an American presence in the Pacific (the American presence in the Pacific, to judge from events since 1975, is there for the purpose of guaranteeing that America will never act in the Pacific), continued economic trade with Taiwan, that sort of thing. What would we gain from our withdrawal from Taiwan? Once again, the senators and their supporters are vague. What we stand to gain is a capitulation to the will of mainland China. Why is that a gain?

Two points need to be considered, one symbolic the other practical. The symbolic point is that the termination of the treaty would mark a change in American foreign policy. We entered into the treaty 15 years ago because we were prepared to make a statement, namely that we would defend Taiwan in any war of aggression initiated from the mainland.

Fifty years ago Lindbergh was flying the Atlantic. Using that as a reference point in relation to where we are today, will the next 23 years lead us to the planets?

It seems that Americans pride themselves on how we treat our neighbors and how fairly everything we do is for the rest of the world, including the third world countries.

If we wave the well-worn "Big Stick" again, we will give the communists the propaganda they need—a superpower overbearingly representing a defenseless third world country.

As to specifics, the article presented by the gentleman from Wyoming (how in the world did a letter from Wyoming get this far south?) refers to President Carter in the euphemistic terms of "President Peanut" as having authority over the decision as authorized by the Constitution of the United States lies with the Senate.

Currently, we pay for the use of the canal zone at $6 an acre and have been paying for decades. All the treaty would do is give a raise in monetary benefits to the tiny country plagued with unemployment and inflation.

The treaty also secures the five American bases in Panama until Dec. 31, 1999, and also reserves the right of U.S. forces to intervene militarily to protect the state of neutrality of Panama after that date.

Do write to the representative in Washington and tell them how you feel. But consider this also: the treaty would be served out in the year 2000. What will the world be like 23 years from now, and how will the canal in its present state be useful to us then?

Red carpet treatment

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — For 25 years, the State Dept. has been arbitrarily blocking selected Communists from entering the United States by invoking a law from the Red Scare days of Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

The McCarran Act, passed in 1952, established nearly 30 categories of people who could not visit the United States unless they were recommended for visa waivers by the State Dept. Among the undesirables were prostitutes, polygamists, paupers and advocates of the "international doctrines and world communism."

Now, thanks to a recent bill passed by Congress, the McCarran Act will soon be less restrictive. Over the years, nevertheless, the law has often been selectively applied. Out of some 19,000 waiver applications last year, for example, only about a thousand were denied.

DURING THE Richard Nixon-Henry Kissinger era, Communist leaders from Western Europe were considered anathema, because official visits to the United States would give them credibility at home. In 1975, for instance, a prominent Italian Communist, Sergio Segre, was invited to speak at the New York Council on Foreign Relations. The waiver was denied and the conference had to be cancelled.

Communists who were critical of U.S. allies were also considered verboten by the Nixon administration. One such case involved a prominent British citizen, Carmel Budiardjo, who wanted to lecture in the United States on human rights violations in Indonesia. Under pressure from the Indonesian government, the State Dept. temporarily withheld her visa on the grounds that she had previously lied about being a Communist from 1946 to 1948.

In contrast, Communists who have the State Dept. seal of approval are speedily granted visa waivers and are ushered in on a red carpet.

Take Vulkan Shopov, chief of agriculture for the Bulgarian Communist party. As an Eastern European Communist, in an era of détente, he is ardently courted by U.S. diplomats.

Shopov came to the United States in June at the invitation of the State Dept. The U.S. taxpayers footed the bill for his month-long visit, including travel expenses to and from Bulgaria.

In a May 9 cable to the State Dept., the U.S. ambassador in Sofia, Martin Herz, was ecstatic about Shopov's pending tour. "Embassy strongly believes (Shopov) must be accorded VIP status as far as (expenses) and general treatment is concerned," exclaimed Herz.

The Communist leader, cabled the ambassador, should be taken to a "southeastern agricultural region, including visit to Atlanta or other Southern city"; the Great Plains wheat, corn and soybean region; and the Western states.

In general, wrote Herz, Shopov "would like to see most advanced forms of American agricultural technology. He has said he expects to work hard during the visit."

Despite the distinguished Bulgarian's announced intention to keep his nose to the grindstone, Herz suggested some lavish entertainment for the visitor:

"Seize me, good buddy... but you're standin' on me toe!"

Cervix usually removed in hysterectomy

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How is it possible to remove the uterus without taking out the opening that leads into it—the cervix? Why is this useless and possibly troublesome cervix left after a hysterectomy, making it necessary to get a Pap smear? These questions have been driving my friends and me bananas for years. — W.W.

It is possible to remove the body of the uterus and leave the cervix in place because they are semi-independent structures. As a matter of fact, leaving the cervix in with a hysterectomy used to be common procedure. The thinking was that it gave more support to the surrounding structure when in place.

You and your friends may have had your hysterectomies before the "cervix" was brought with regard to the cervix. You should still be having your Pap tests. If the uterus was removed because of cancer, this is even more reason to do a Pap smear on remaining tissues such as the cervix and vaginal membrane.

Surgical techniques are always changing as newer and better information comes to light. The cervix and hysterectomy is a case in point. Another one involves breast surgery for cancer. We are now going through a period of differing opinions concerning the radical mastectomy (breast removal) vs. the simple lumpectomy (lump removal).

I fear that too many folks think medicine should be as precise as physics or chemistry. It isn't and never will be unless the bionic man and woman is as much a part of our future as it is of television programming today.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several people in my office are on a new pineapple diet. It works as follows: On Monday and Tuesday we eat four eight-ounce cans of pineapple chunks (in natural juice), with nothing else except possibly black coffee or tea. The other five days of the week you can eat anything you wish (within reason).

We have all lost weight on this diet, but would like to know if it is medically safe and why it works so well. — Mrs. R.M.

You must be a pretty hungry bunch come Wednesday morning. It's not surprising that you lose weight on this fare, since four cups of anything, no matter how tasty, is not going to supply very many calories. A cup of diced pineapple supplies only 75 calories and the juice probably another 50 to 75.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My young daughter died in an accident and I want to know whether I will see her still as a child in the resurrection. To what extent do our relationships differ in Heaven from those we know on earth? — M. A. E.

DEAR M. A. E.: There is no doubt that we will recognize one another in Heaven, just as surely as we shall know Jesus by the nail prints in His hands. Jesus said: "Many shall come from the east, and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven" (Matthew 8:11). That verse certainly implies the idea of recognition.

There has to be a change in our relationships in Heaven, for there we are all members of the one family—"The Father of our Lord Jesus Christ of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named" (Ephesians 3:14, 15). Jesus spoke of this change when He said: "When they shall rise from the dead, they neither marry, nor are given in marriage; but are as the angels which are in heaven" (Mark 12:25).

The fact that there is no growing old in heaven, no time and no passing of years, would imply that the new spiritual bodies we will be given will never be looked upon as belonging to different age groups. If some were regarded as children while on earth, it would mean they would have to remain children eternally, and we would not want that. In this respect there must be quite a change in our relationships.

The important thing to remember is that love is eternal, and we will surely experience a more perfect love for one another than was possible upon earth.

For the record

In a letter to the editor printed in Tuesday's Herald, written by Anne Griffin, a typographical error occurred in the second sentence which, in effect, altered the entire meaning of the letter.

The word "recreational" somehow was substituted for the word Mrs. Griffin used, "residential."

The first four sentences should have read: "Parkhill is a nice neighborhood of well-maintained homes and several attractive apartments. It is a residential area, zoned as such in 1961. (The City of Big Spring retained a Dallas planner consultant, and accepted his recommendations on May 9, 1961). The proposed site for the skateboard park is located in Parkhill, and it is NOT zoned for commercial use."

The Herald apologizes to Mrs. Griffin for the unfortunate substitution of the word "residential" and is happy to draw attention to the correction.

Questions on nutrition answered by specialist

By ELLEN M. PORATH
Associated Press Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Whether it is safe to eat a recently deceased lobster or lasagna that has matured five hours in the trunk of a car falls within the expertise of Charlotte Dunn.

Miss Dunn, who announces cheerfully she is "55 and over the hill," is a food nutrition specialist with the University of Wisconsin Extension.

She works from an office crammed with canning lids, notebooks and piles of the 43 foot information pamphlets she has written for the Extension. She says she gets about 30 calls a day from people who have questions on nutrition and food.

Miss Dunn, settling back casually with her right foot propped on the chair seat, recalls some of the questions.

"There's this one: 'Grandma died and we're cleaning out her basement. We've found food from umpteen years back and we can use it, can't we?'"

She grimaces. "I tell them, umpteen years you've lived without it and I want you to go on living."

She admits her telephone manner is occasionally abrasive.

"I get a little impatient," she says. "I always say if anyone talked to me like I talk to some of them, I'd hang up on me. But you're taking such a chance. You have a product that could mean death and you're being sloppy with it."

Miss Dunn says she thinks many callers' problems arise from carelessness or inexperience, and "they want you to tell them it's all right."

Often it isn't all right — as in the case of a woman who wanted to be reassured that a lasagna casserole left in her car trunk five hours was still edible. It wasn't.

Miss Dunn, who has held her position since 1956, fires off answers like a drill

ANSWER WOMAN — Charlotte Dunn, food nutrition specialist with the University of Wisconsin Extension, talks to about 30 callers a day, answering queries on everything from canning to what steps to take when your freezer goes out.

sergeant surveying the troops. She seldom has to consult books for answers.

Many callers want to know if they can freeze a certain food. In most cases they can, although Miss Dunn advises them to freeze a small amount first to see if they like the quality of the thawed food.

"I tell them you can always freeze your husband, too, but the quality may not be there when you thaw him out," she says in her Oklahoma twang.

With the pickle season waning soon — she and co-worker Mary Mennes get 7,000 questions a year on canning, pickling and freezing — come ham and turkey questions. Then the January lull, followed by gardening questions.

Occasionally she gets calls at home. She answers all questions, including one about a deceased lobster.

"We had two live lobsters in an ice chest. One passed away during the night. Is it okay to eat it?" she reads.

"Oh no," she says with a shake of her head. "We don't know what time he died."

More Births Tied For First Place

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman who's afraid her husband won't be on hand when she has her baby, because she's due Jan. 1, and her husband already has tickets for the Rose Bowl game.

I was born on New Year's Day, and I'm sure I wasn't the only baby who had to compete with the Rose Bowl game.

My mother's doctor (an avid football fan) gave her strict instructions not to come to the hospital until after the game was over! My mother, an obedient registered nurse, was used to taking orders from a doctor, so she waited until the game was over and she barely made it to the hospital in time. Those on the scene tell me that I was very nearly delivered by a neighbor lady.

Sign me . . .

NEW YEAR'S BABY (1954)

DEAR ABBY: Read on for another situation in which the doctor was a football freak:

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the expectant mother whose husband loved football reminded me of my own experience.

The day my baby was born I awakened my husband early in the morning to tell him I thought we should call my doctor. We dressed and waited for a grocery store to open because those were depression days and we had no phone. We phoned the doctor from the store, and he told us to get to the hospital fast. We had no car, so we called a cab, a terrific extravagance for a couple living on $16 a week. (Our college degrees cut no ice!)

When we got to the hospital, my doctor said I would probably not deliver before evening. Around noon my doctor invited my husband to go to the football game with him, so the two of them took off.

You guessed it! At 1:20 p.m. a staff doctor I had never seen before brought my nine-pound baby boy into the world!

My "baby" will be 44 in October. He has two fine children of his own, and times have changed because HE was present when they were born.

MRS. P.H.R., CINCINNATI

DEAR ABBY: I'll put my bowling nut up against that lady's football nut any day.

When I was expecting my fourth baby, I knew from experience that the baby was on its way—but in a hurry. So I threw a few things into my overnight bag and my husband drove me to the hospital.

The doctor on duty called my doctor and said it wouldn't be long.

My husband kissed me on the forehead and ran down the hall, saying he had to bowl in a tournament that night!

I didn't whine or fuss him out because I knew the team needed him. (He was top scorer.) They won the trophy, and I finally had a baby girl after three boys!

MAGGIE

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that lady who's expecting her baby on Jan. 1 that she doesn't have to worry about competing with the Rose Bowl game in 1978.

Jan. 1 will fall on Sunday next year, so the Rose Bowl game will be played on Monday, Jan. 2.

Peanuts enjoying new vogue

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

With a peanut farmer dwelling in the White House, the lowly goober has taken on a charisma it never had before.

In Washington, some government officials have set out bowls of unshelled peanuts for visitors, and at cocktail parties in the nation's capital salted peanuts are much in evidence these days.

Peanuts have long received high marks from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which includes peanut butter on school lunch programs. Nutritionists say the sticky spread is 26 per cent protein. It is also rich in Vitamin B, phosphorus, thiamine and niacin.

For a long time it was believed that peanuts originated in Africa, but discovery of the nuts in Inca tombs indicates that they were native to the Americas. In fact, the Peruvian tribes are said to have mixed minced up peanuts with honey. In Mexico there was an Indian tribe which used cocoa in a peanut butter recipe and called it earth chocolate, since peanuts grow underground.

Peanuts are not nuts at all but a member of the pea family. Thomas Jefferson, who liked the little nuts, called them "ground peas."

The evolution of the peanut is interesting in light of recent discoveries. We are told they caught the fancy of Spanish explorers who encountered the nuts in Peru and took samples back home with them and began their own fields. In the 16th century, Spanish and Portuguese ships brought peanuts to Africa and traded them for spices and ivory. They have flourished in the dark continent ever since.

Peanuts recrossed the Atlantic in the 18th century in the holds of slave ships, which stocked them as a source of cheap food for their human cargo. Soon Southerners were growing nuts on plantations and calling them goobers, a derivative from the Congolese name "guba."

Today more than a half billion pounds of peanuts, a good part grown in Georgia and Alabama, is eaten in many other forms, from cream of peanut soup to peanut butter pancakes. Here a recipe for the soup.

1/2 c. butter
1 c. thinly sliced celery
1 medium onion, chopped fine
2 tbsps. flour
2 qts. chicken stock or broth
1 c. creamy peanut butter
1 c. light cream
Melt butter in large saucepan over low heat and add celery and onion. Cook till tender but not browned. Add flour and stir till mixture is smooth. Gradually add chicken broth and bring to a boil. Blend in peanut butter and simmer 15 minutes. Stir in cream just before serving. Serves 8. Good with a chilled rose wine.

Consumers save money buying foods in bulk

COLLEGE STATION — Consumers can sometimes save money buying foods in bulk — but only when the food is used or preserved before it spoils, Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist, says.

Two items currently being harvested are potatoes and broccoli, she said.

Miss Reasonover is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Texas A&M University System.

"Freezing is the easiest preservation method. In freezing foods at home, remember to use moisture-vapor-proof containers for packaging."

To freeze broccoli, select tight, compact, dark green heads with tender stalks free from woodiness. Wash, peel stalks and trim. If necessary, to remove insects, soak for one-half hour in a solution made of four teaspoons salt to one gallon cold water. Split lengthwise into pieces so that flowerets are not more than one and one-half inches across.

Blanch them by heating in boiling water for three minutes; then cook quickly in ice water, drain, package and freeze immediately.

"Potatoes can be frozen baked or stuffed or as french fries," the specialist said.

To freeze baked and stuffed potatoes, bake and stuff as usual. Package in moisture-vapor-resistant container or bag.

To prepare, bake without thawing in a hot oven, 400 degrees F., until thoroughly heated and lightly browned. Store two to four weeks.

Educational kit helps housewife cut costs

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sarah French, a Connecticut housewife, always thought of herself as a careful shopper, clipping coupons, comparing prices and watching for specials to save money. A one-month experiment with an educational kit developed to help consumers cut grocery costs showed her she could save even more. But she also learned that the experts' theories aren't always practical.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — Like millions of other women, Sarah French balances her food budget with an agility worthy of a professional economist, matching demand to the tastes and appetite of her family — against supply — her husband's biweekly paycheck.

In 12 years of marriage, Mrs. French has learned many of the tricks of supermarket shopping. She passes up displays of tempting, but expensive products, strategically placed to catch the eye of the shopper. She reads labels and studies the fine print in the ads.

Mrs. French clips coupons, buys house brands, watches for specials and tries not to be swayed by the pleas of her daughter, Emily, 8½. "You've got to resist children," she says. "Children want this or that. A lot of parents will buy just to keep the kids quiet."

Recently, Mrs. French learned a few more tricks from "Be a Better Shopper — Buying in Supermarkets," a kit prepared by Cornell University experts.

Before getting the kit, Mrs. French did virtually all of her shopping at one supermarket. A month later, she visited three competing stores to take advantage of advertised specials. She paid more attention to prices on the second trip, comparing supermarket offerings. She stocked up on some items that were on sale.

Mrs. French rejected some of the suggestions of the experts, however. She said she couldn't see herself spending the time to write down every purchase and price as recommended. She was dubious about finding space to store items bought in large quantities, on sale.

An attractive brunette who worked until the birth of her second child, Catherine, 3½ months, and who plans to return to her clerical job in the fall, Mrs. French also said that the experts did not pay enough attention to individual tastes.

"There are certain things we will eat and it's no use for me to buy other things," she said. When it comes to changing brands to take advantage of a special, Mrs. French is selective. "Certain ones are worth the money. I wouldn't switch no matter what the price."

Family members are particular. Emily, for example, prefers a particular brand of hot dogs. It would be a false economy to buy a cheaper brand, Mrs. French said.

Heinz Biesdorf, the Cornell professor who headed the team that developed the Better Shopper kit, concedes that consumer preference can be a factor in shopping. But he argues that most people do not really taste any difference; they only think they do.

If you honestly can tell the difference, Biesdorf says, you should try to decide which is more important — the taste or the money — and spend accordingly. Biesdorf says his aim is not so much to teach people what to spend as it is to make them aware of the money they have and the use they make of it.

Mrs. French is determined not to make concessions when it comes to quality. She says of food: "It's one of the necessities of life and it can jolly well be enjoyable."

Mrs. French does her main shopping once every two weeks; the trips coincide with French's payday. Perishables such as bread and milk are replaced more frequently. When she needs an item like milk, she says, "I try to go straight to the place where it's located, get it and get out of there. If you don't, you're doomed to impulse buying."

There are other shopping pitfalls. "The things that bug me about supermarket practices are the things that are profitable for the supermarkets such as putting tempting items like their fresh baked cake right at the doorway where you're bound to fall over it coming in the door," Mrs. French says.

"It took a long time" to learn to "withstand" temptation, she adds. "And it's still hard to go by those little goodies at the door. I always stop and look at 'em. I never buy 'em."

Another danger: "You go to a store with a marvelous bargain and decide to pick up other things on which the store is making up the cost."

Mrs. French avoided such a trap on her most recent shopping trip, after using the

"YOU'VE GOT TO RESIST CHILDREN" — Mrs. Sarah French, a Connecticut housewife, looks over foodstuffs in Norwalk, Conn. supermarket, recently, and tries not to be swayed by the pleas of daughter, Emily, eight. Her second child, Catherine, rides in shopping cart. "You've got to resist children," says Mrs. French who has learned many of the tricks of supermarket shopping in 12 years of marriage.

Better Shopper kit. Displaying advertisements for ham, sausages and baby shampoo and discount coupons for spaghetti and soda, she said: "With luck, that's all we're going to get."

When she left the store 35 minutes later, Mrs. French had purchased the items on her list and nothing more. "This is the first time I've been in a store, bought exactly what I came to buy and walked out," she said.

Mrs. French decided on the spaghetti even though she already had four 11 pound cans at home. The price was right — 19 cents a pound with the coupon or about 30 cents less than normal. She had learned one of the basics of being a smart shopper: Buy on sale, even if you don't need the item for immediate use.

Since she only had one coupon, she could not take advantage of another basic rule: When the price is right, buy a lot.

The main shopping trip of the day was an afternoon expedition to the supermarket closest to Mrs. French's home, Emily and Catherine, who stayed home during the morning, came to the store. Mrs. French said she tries to leave the children home when her husband's work schedule permits him to watch over them, but it is not always possible.

She entered the store at 12:28 p.m. The first purchase was a box of English muffins for Emily. "She's been begging me for them for weeks. That's impulse number one," Mrs. French said ruefully.

Wheeling the cart past the produce department, Mrs. French paused at a display of potatoes. "The sign says Idaho, but the bag says Russet. I think I'll pass."

Next comes a package of frankfurters — "I should have bought them at the other store; they were 10 cents cheaper," chocolate chip cookies for which she has a coupon, crackers, flank steak — "It's $2.38 a pound, but it's pure meat," some other meats, beer, fruit juice, soda, breakfast items, cat food, cheese and so on. Mrs. French was at the checkout at 1:15 p.m. Her bill was $32.26. Earlier in the day, she spent about $16. She bought slightly less than usual because the family was going away for the weekend and because a current hot spell meant lighter and smaller meals.

Four weeks before, Mrs. French spent almost $56 at a single supermarket. She normally spends about $75 every two weeks.

With a family income somewhat above the U.S. median of about $14,000, the Frenches have a little leeway when it comes to food purchases. Mrs. French says she is aware of inflation, but feels there is little she can do. "You just sort of absorb it," she says.

'Rest home' charges filed

WHARTON, Tex. (AP) — Authorities arrested a man and sought a woman today after the discovery of a group of undernourished, incapacitated persons at a rural residence that allegedly operated as a "rest home."

Held in Wharton County jail was Elmer Arnold Tompkins, 34, of Van Nuys, Calif. He was charged with 12 counts of false imprisonment and bond was set at $60,000.

Jack Kwmp, an investigator for the Wharton County crime task force, said Tompkins helped run the "rest home" at Spanish Camp, a settlement seven miles north of here.

Kemp said warrants also were out for the arrest of Lillian Gobert, 35, also of Van Nuys but formally of Wharton. She was charged with seven counts of false imprisonment.

Kemp said the two were charged in connection with the confinement of the group of mentally disabled armed service veterans and other individuals, some of whom were found locked in an unventilated garage.

Kemp said it is believed the woman unlawfully transported several of the men from California and held them virtually prisoners while she administered their disability and pension checks.

He said 13 persons, including six veterans and two women, were found at the residence. The persons ranged in age from 28 to 50, authorities said.

Kemp said six of the men found at the three bedroom brick residence were taken to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Houston. Two were suffering from severe malnutrition and all needed immediate attention according to the county medical examiner, Kemp said.

The remaining patients were taken to the Texas State Hospital in San Antonio upon the recommendation of the medical examiner.

Tompkins' arrest came Sunday after officers raided the home where they were told a man was being held captive.

"It was pretty grim," said Kemp. "We found five men locked in a garage without ventilation and they all had to use a single gallon can for a toilet."

He said authorities first learned of the Spanish Camp operation from a California woman who was searching for her son.

Kemp said the missing man was found at the home and that he immediately asked to be taken back home to California.

Soldiers who robbed him nabbed

MCALLEN, Tex. (AP) — A one-day visit to friends near the Mexican city of Reynosa cost Enrique Millan nearly $500 when he was held up and searched by Mexican soldiers.

But the McAllen resident says he has received some sort of satisfaction as well as part of the money.

The soldiers who robbed him were "arrested" and the general of the garrison where they were stationed has been transferred to a job in the army's personnel department in Mexico City, according to Mexico City sources.

The incident appeared to be another in a series in recent months involving the arrest or detention of U.S. citizens by Mexican officials who reportedly then force the Americans to buy their way out.

Millan, a beauty supply distributor, said Tuesday it all started last July 3 when he and his two young children went to a town near Reynosa to visit some friends.

"Just outside of Reynosa, we were stopped by some soldiers who told me they were searching for weapons. I saw one of the soldiers reach into the glove compartment where I had placed a small plastic bag with some checks and cash from my business totaling about $900 plus my wallet," he said.

"I asked the soldier to give it back to me. He told me to check with the lieutenant. The lieutenant then gave me back the papers I had in my wallet and told me he would turn us loose on that condition that if we saw him again on the street 'you have never met me'. Otherwise, he said, he would arrest us."

Millan said he then complained to a newsman friend in Reynosa who called Gen. Ulises Cermeno, commander of the Reynosa garrison.

"The next day, the general came to my friend's home and told me he had arrested the soldiers, but that they had said they had taken only $200 and that is what he returned to me."

He said he heard that other people also had been detained by the soldiers that day and that the soldiers were acting "on the general's orders."

He said he recovered some of the rest of money by canceling the checks.

A friend later tried to get him to request the help of U.S. Rep. Kika De la Garza, but Millan said, "since they got rid of the general and I was busy with my business, I decided to drop the whole thing right there. I had too many other things to do."

Andrews new 259th judge

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe announced the appointment Tuesday of H. G. "Pete" Andrews Jr. of Stamford as judge of the 259th Judicial District Court, which was created by the 1977 legislature.

Briscoe also appointed Shackelford County Atty. Quay F. Parker of Albany as district attorney for the 259th district.

Rep. Hubenak enters ag commissioner race

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Joe Hubenak, D-Rosenberg, says he wants to be Texas' new agriculture commissioner because of the "clowning" attitude of the appointed incumbent.

"Texas agriculture is not a laughing matter — it never was and never will be," the 40-year-old legislator told a news conference Tuesday in announcing that he was a candidate for the 1978 campaign.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, former aide to Gov. Dolph Briscoe, was named by Briscoe to be agriculture commissioner when Commissioner John C. White resigned to become deputy U.S. secretary of agriculture.

Brown, a frequent after-dinner speaker, has said he will seek election to the job in 1978.

"Today we are witnessing the office operating by an appointee — a temporary commissioner of agriculture — who apparently believes that he is solving some of the state's problems by telling funny stories and reciting nursery rhymes," Hubenak said.

"Agriculture in Texas must not become a mistreated stepchild, and we need to institute new ideas and new programs to bolster the products and incomes of our farm and ranch populations," he said.

Hubenak said his primary source of income was his partnership in an accounting business in Rosenberg plus an interest in three different tracts of farm land with his family and others.

He said he was born and reared in Iowa Colony, Brazoria County, and went to school in Alvin, Alvin Junior College and the University of Houston. He had additional work in the University of Nebraska and the University of Colorado.

For the past 10 years he has represented Brazoria and Fort Bend Counties in the Texas House and for the last six years was chairman of the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee.

Fifteen refugees hoping for freedom

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Saying that life in Viet Nam was "like being in hell," 15 refugees will be hoping for freedom when a British tanker docks here today.

The South Vietnamese were rescued by the tanker Cavendish July 9, after spending 15 days at sea in a small boat off the South China Sea.

Charles Wilcox, captain of the Cavendish, told a South African newspaper during a stopover that the refugees had only a one-day supply of food and water when they were rescued 300 miles from Saigon.

He added the Vietnamese told him that 51 ships had ignored their distress signals before the Cavendish stopped after the crew discovered the boat and its white SOS flag.

The refugees, after meeting with Immigration and Naturalization Service officials on debarking, will be taken to temporary quarters in the area, according to a spokesman for the Catholic Diocese of Corpus Christi. Their resettlement is being coordinated by the U.S. Catholic Conference.

The resettlement was being initially sponsored by the St. Vincent de Paul Society of St. Patrick's parish and the cathedral parish in Corpus Christi, the spokesman said.

The refugees include eight children, three sets of parents and another adult.

While the Cavendish was en route to Texas to deliver a cargo of propane and butane, the Vietnamese made their home in the ship's laundry.

Yarbrough plans revenge?

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Post quoted Bill Rothkopf as saying Tuesday night he fears former State Supreme Court Justice Donald B. Yarbrough will get revenge for secret tape recordings Rothkopf allegedly made while acting as an agent of the Harris County district attorney.

The newspaper quoted Rothkopf as saying he met face to face with Yarbrough over the weekend at a deposition hearing and it is still possible "for him to do me in."

"I'm very concerned about my safety and I will continue to be in the future," Rothkopf said in an interview with the Post. "I know this is very important to him and I'm sure he feels vengeful toward me."

Charges dropped, jobs not regained

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — A jewelry robbery they didn't commit has changed the lives of two men.

After being charged with robbing $18,000 in jewelry here last January, Merlin Ingram, 24, and Michael Harrison, 27, were told they had to either resign or be fired from their lucrative positions as managers of the Muskogee Country Club.

Charges were dropped against the men in June when two convicts imprisoned in Dallas — Thomas Cawthon and Tom Lester Pugh — confessed to the robbery.

Though authorities determined the men are innocent, neither has regained his old job. "Just the fact that we were arrested seems to make people suspicious — they're human," said Ingram, who now does odd jobs for a friend. "They think, 'If they were arrested, they must have been guilty.'" Police said the two were Knowing him as I do, I continue to feel that it is possible for him to do me in at any time."

Yarbrough said he told Rothkopf he was not angry at him.

"When I saw Bill I felt tremendous compassion for him," Yarbrough told The Associated Press. "I told him, 'Bill, I am not angry with you and I hope you call me some time.'"

Harris County Dist. Atty. Carol Vance has said he has tape recordings in which Yarbrough plotted to have former Victoria banker Bill Kemp killed.

Vance said Rothkopf, a former business associate of Yarbrough, had a special body microphone taped to him and made the recordings during conversations with Yarbrough between May 12 and June 10. Vance said he did not have enough evidence to obtain conspiracy to commit capital murder charges against Yarbrough.

Yarbrough resigned from the Supreme Court June 15. He faces trial in Austin in October on forgery and perjury charges. A disbarment trial is scheduled in Houston Sept. 5.

Rothkopf told the Post he answered a multitude of questions in the deposition hearing "quite satisfactorily." The hearing was in connection with Yarbrough's disbarment trial.

Rothkopf, 58, was evasive about where the "secret deposition" took place. He said certain precautionary measures were taken to protect his identity.

Rothkopf said the depositions took place last Friday and Saturday and included an appearance by Yarbrough with his attorney, Waggoner Carr.

Tower at odds with Carter

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Tower told a meeting of businessmen in this border city today he could not support President Carter's amnesty proposal for illegal aliens because "right now we don't know what we're talking about."

"As far as the President's program is concerned, I do agree with him that we should beef up the Immigration and Naturalization Service both with manpower and resources but I cannot support the amnesty proposal because right now we don't know what the impact will be," Tower said.

(AP WIREPHOTO) MID HUBBY? — John Collins, New Haven, Conn., the first man in the United States to become a certified mid-wife, says people have trouble figuring out what to call him. "I get 'mid-hubby' and 'nurse man,'" he says.

Testimony to begin in Candy's will test

HOUSTON (AP) — Testimony was to begin today in probate court in a lawsuit contesting a portion of the purported will of Candace Mossler.

Attorneys picked a five-man, one-woman jury Tuesday in Probate Judge Pat Gregory's court. The trial is expected to last up to four weeks.

Two adopted sons of the late millionairess are challenging a codicil that cut them out of a share of the estate estimated at $12 million.

Attorneys for Daniel and Christopher Mossler contend Mrs. Mossler falsely believed the two brothers would kill her or frame her on income tax evasion charges.

They claim in a petition that Mrs. Mossler suffered from an insane delusion when she wrote the codicil, or addition to her will, in 1975.

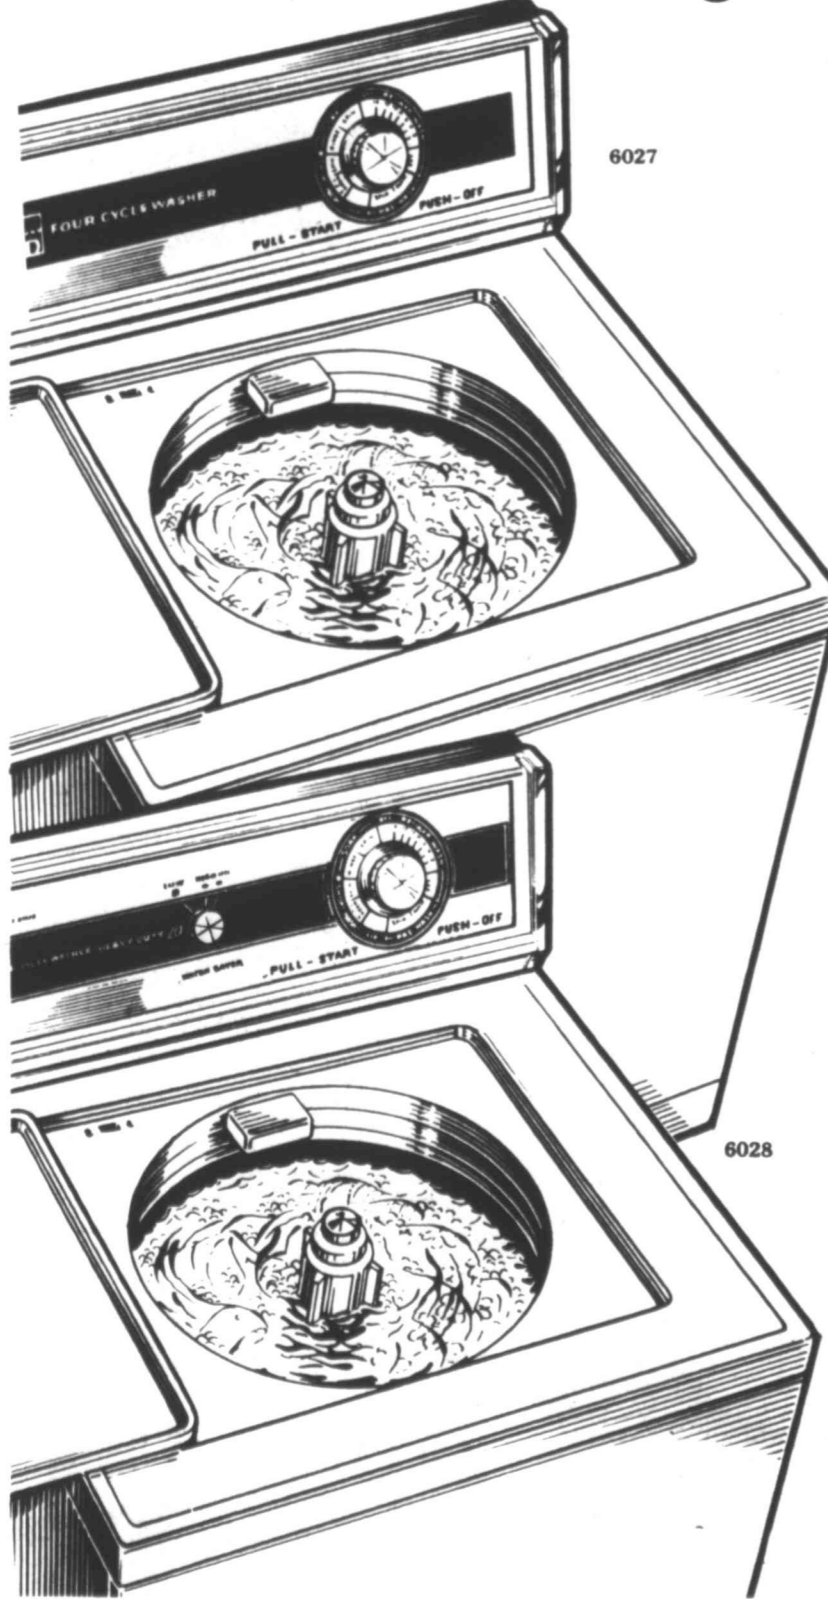

Mrs. Mossler died last October in her Miami, Fla., hotel room at the age of 62.

The codicil said the two brothers and an adopted daughter, Martha Mossler Meredith, had "not demonstrated the care, love and affection for me which I deserve as their mother." Mrs. Meredith is not represented in the lawsuit.

Jacques Mossler, a Houston and Miami banker and financier and Mrs. Mossler's second husband, was found stabbed to death in Miami in 1964.

By Danny Reagan

To round out a week of vacation, and since we were in the neighborhood anyway, Golden Richards' secret admirer and myself decided to take in the Dallas Cowboy-Miami Dolphin game in Texas Stadium last Saturday.

What can I say about that game? The nachos were good. . . too many jalapenos, though. We didn't get caught in a major traffic jam after the game. The motel wasn't broken into when we got back. That's about all I can say about it.

Actually, there may be a little more, but I'd rather not talk about it. I'll talk about Six Flags instead. No? You want to be a masochist? Okay.

Tom Landry can be more perplexing than acre-feet and square acres sometimes. There is no doubt in my mind, the mind of Golden Richards' secret admirer and most of the minds of the other 58,000 plus who witnessed the spectacle, that Tom Landry did not try to win that ballgame.

Maybe he was smart. . . I'd like to think he was. But the name of the game is winning. Okay, okay, I also know the name of the preseason game is finding out who your best men are. But shoot, everyone does that, but they also try to win.

Don Shula kept his better ballplayers in the action almost 75 per cent of the time. Landry had his top horses in for less than 50 per cent, I'm almost positive. Tony Dorsett ran three plays, whoopee, big deal!

Landry keeps saying "I know what Dorsett can do." That's his justification for using the million dollar baby so sparingly. So far, from listening to or watching the first three games, all I know Dorsett can do is run seven plays, bang a knee, sit out a game, run three plays in another and sit on his helmet for two hours.

Sure, what he's shown has been milk and honey to the Cowboy fan. But what about stamina? During regular season, Dorsett's going to have to do more than run a couple of plays and sit down. If he does that, we'll all be up Stink Creek without a charcoal filter.

Pertaining to the last bomb that the Miami quarterback Strock threw to Nat Moore (60 yards. . . he also caught one for 56), one disgruntled Cowboy fan sitting behind us said, "Well, I'm sure as hell glad he dropped the first two." That's right. Moore dropped two other perfect passes that would've meant two more Miami TD's.

The score should've been 34-14, or worse. And that Seattle game last week. . . whew! That score was much closer than the actual play would indicate.

What does it all mean? I'm switching my allegiance to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers? No, of course not. It's very hard for me, as a person or non-person (sports editor) to criticize Tom Landry. I grew up on football with him. He can do no wrong.

Well sometimes. One thing is for sure. The Cowboy organization is surely sophisticated enough to weed out the no-talent guys during pre-season without having to lose ballgames to do so.

Roger hurt, doubtful

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday there was only a 50-50 chance veteran quarterback Roger Staubach would play in Saturday night's National Football League preseason game against Baltimore because of a pulled hamstring muscle.

Staubach suffered the pulled hamstring in a 20-14 loss to Miami last Saturday. "Unless Roger is going full force by the end of the week he will not play and Danny White will start with some of the rookies getting time," said Landry. "Roger isn't as young as he used to be and it's not worth the risk."

Landry added "It will be hard to keep him (Staubach) out of there. He always tries to hide his injuries."

Landry said million-dollar rookie Tony Dorsett, who has been briefly showcased in two Cowboy games, will play "more than a quarter. We still have a lot of backs to play and we know what Tony can do." The Cowboys are 1-2 in the exhibition season and Landry said he would take one more good look at the rookies before trimming the squad for the final two preseason games.

DALLAS (AP) — The 63rd year of Southwest Conference football this autumn should be a photo finish similar to the 1976 campaign when Texas Tech and Houston crossed the finish wire face mask to face mask. Tech and Houston are loaded again with quality quarterbacks to run the helm of explosive offenses. But perhaps the most awesome shadow is cast by the Texas Aggies who finished seventh in the nation last year and return their entire first team offense. "It could be the best of offensive team I've had in five years—and we weren't exactly slackers last year, scoring over 30 points a game," says Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard. Defensively, Texas Tech returns the most veterans although both Houston and A&M will field talent galore. However, none of the above may win.

There's a darkhorse from Waco called Baylor which could lap the field. "This is going to be an unpredictable team," says Baylor Coach Grant Teaff.

"When you take the talent and inexperience and throw it up against talented teams you don't know what to expect.

"They are not void of talent, they just need experience. They'll get that in a hurry." Baylor and Texas Tech tangle in the first crack out of the box Sept. 10 in what should be a wild SWC opener. And Baylor catches the Red Raiders at home.

Baylor just doesn't have an experienced quarterback. "That will be a key game for us," says Tech Coach Steve Sloan. "We beat Colorado in our opener last year and we were hard to catch after that."

Texas Tech returns 16 starters and 42 lettermen while Cotton Bowl winner Houston lost only four starters on both offense and defense.

Houston plays a quick test on Sept. 12, playing UCLA in a nationally televised game in the Astrodome.

Arkansas, under new coach Lou Holtz, brings back a league high of 43 lettermen.

There are two other head coaches in their first year of SWC play—Texas' Fred Akers and Texas Christian's F.A. Dry.

Akers will have a hale and hearty Earl Campbell to help usher in the I-Formation attack as Athletic Director Darrell Royal watches from the stands with his Wishbone-T offense in dry dock.

Dry will inherit a thin schedule, including Rose Bowl champion Southern California.

At Southern Methodist, Ron Meyer must find a quarterback to replace Ricky Wesson as TCU looms on the schedule Sept. 10. The Mustangs need to hurry on their rebuilding program with Ohio State paying a call Oct. 1.

Coach Homer Rice of the Rice Owls is saddled with finding a replacement for All-American quarterback Tommy Kramer.

"One of five or six teams could win it," says Bellard. "TCU, SMU and Rice are a year or so away but realistically any of the other teams have a chance."

"The Aggies and Houston look mighty strong to me," says Sloan. "I think this year's race is going to be even closer than last year's. That makes for great fun for the spectators but not for the coaches."

North Texas State will field the best independent team in the Southwest. "We've got a good chance for a bowl," says Coach Hayden Fry. "We have an experienced team coming back."

NTSU plays Mississippi State, SMU, Florida State and Memphis State in an effort to catch the eye of bowl committees.

Season tickets going . . . going

"Do you still have season tickets left? Do you still have season tickets left? That's all I hear nowadays. I've just about had it!" so stated ace ticket vender and part-time Gong Show groupie Don Green this morning in a candid interview.

"We have lotsa season tickets left," Green explained, verifying the fact that there were lotsa season tickets left.

All in all, the season ticket situation is de meme (French) in relation to last year. A total of 624 season tickets were sold to smart tickets shoppers before the first ballgame in 1976.

As of 9:30 this morning, a total of 416 tickets had been purchased. "We'd like to sell a bunch more," Brig Green announced from the bridge of the USS Sellmore.

Green indicated that a number of people were coming in and asking if their old seats from last year were still available. "I'd like to emphasize that now we are selling the season tickets on a first come, first served basis," the personable ex-Trig teacher said, his hair visibly graying at the temples.

Season tickets are $10 each, and that is good for admission to all five home games. An earlier statement by Green indicating that that figure computed out to a cost of $2 a game has been proven correct. "That is quite a savings over regular admission," said Green, "and when the Steers start winning, those fans who didn't buy season tickets are going to be sorry. But it'll serve them right," Green might have added had he still been on the phone.

Seriously folks, season tickets will remain on sale at the Big Spring ISD Business Office until 2 p.m. Friday (Sept. 2), the day of the first regular season home game. Support the Steers. Buy a season ticket.

P.S. The scrimmage this Friday in Memorial Stadium is free.

Pee Wees need shirts

Ron Douglas Cowling of the local Pee Wee football organization announced today that the program needs football suits badly.

Cowling urged the 100-plus participants from last year to consider selling their uniforms to the players who need them this season.

call to either Leo Williams (3-1084) or Cowling himself (3-6088) will be greatly appreciated. Arrangements to sell the old suits can be made through them.

Cowling also stated that it is not too late to sign up for the Pee Wee season. Another sign up date will be announced shortly.

El Paso, Arkansas stretch TL leads

El Paso and Arkansas stretched their leads Tuesday in the East and West divisions of the Texas League respectively with only 10 days left in league play.

Reliever Billy Wilson, 6-5, pitched the final two innings for the Diablos as they picked up a 4-2 victory over San Antonio. El Paso now leads Midland by 1 1/2 games.

All four El Paso runs were unearned, including the two they scored in the ninth to snap the tie.

In the sixth inning, San Antonio's Tim Roche cracked his fourth home run to tie the game at 2-all. Barry Biggerstaff, 5-7, went the distance for the losing Dodgers.

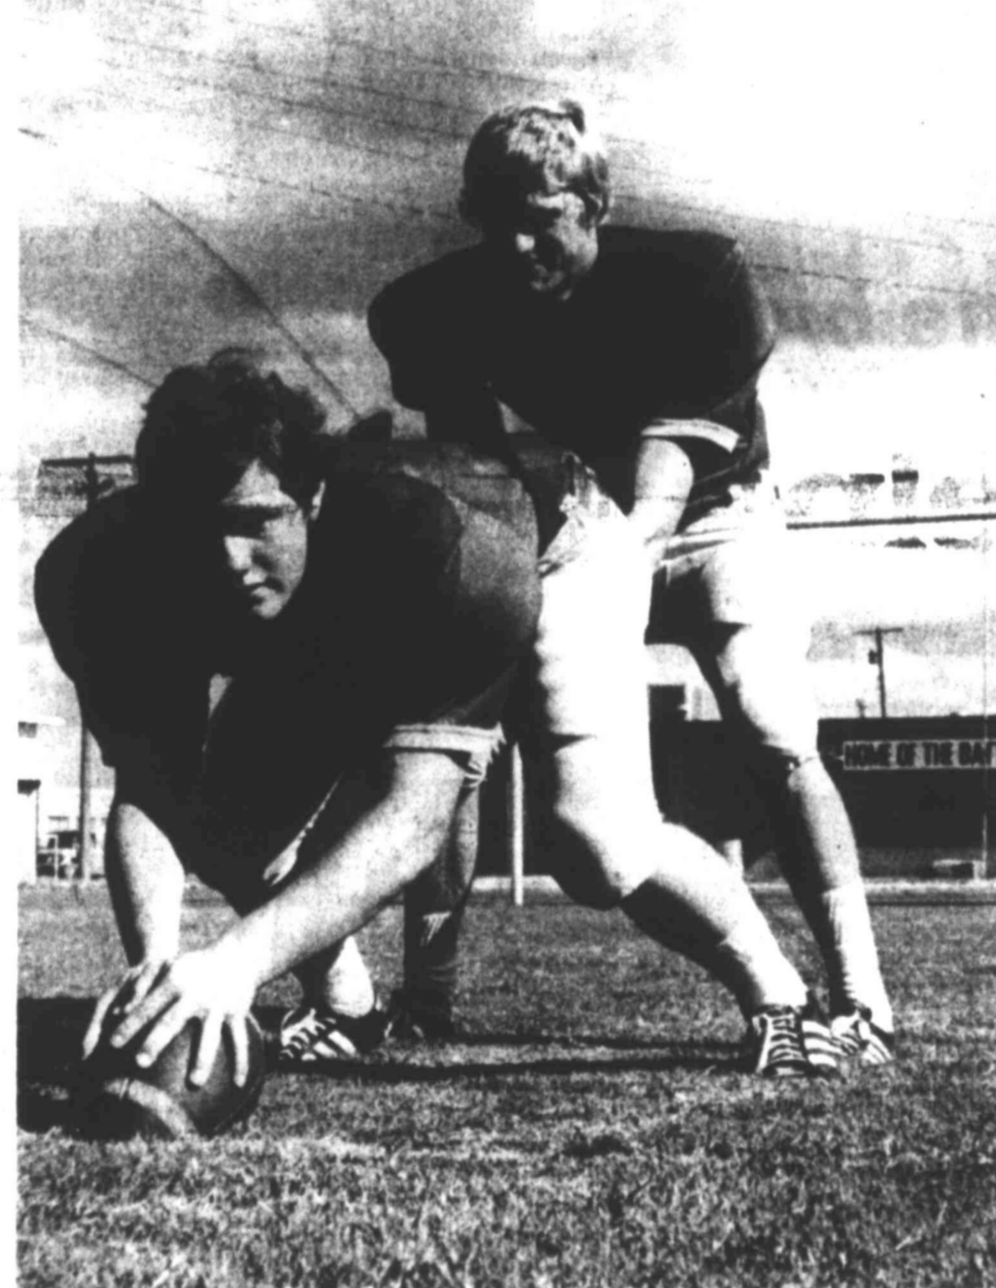

The red-hot Arkansas Travelers copped their fourth game, nipping Tulsa 4-3. The Travelers, who now have a 3 1/2-game spread over Tulsa, scored the clincher in the eighth inning.

Danny O'Brien boosted his record to 8-8 while Mark Soroko dropped to 4-5 for Tulsa.

The Jackson Mets had to go 10 innings to gain a 4-3 victory over Shreveport. Keith Bodie's one-out single knocked in Marshall Brant, who had singled and advanced on a hit by Bill Gifford.

Steve Wojcik, 4-4, was the winning pitcher in relief, while Chet Gunter, 5-3, sustained the loss.

The Amarillo at Midland game was postponed due to rain.

TEAMING UP — Two Stanton Buffalo juniors who will be seeing a lot of each other this season are quarterback Todd Smith, 6-1, 170-lb. and center Miles Tollison, 5-11, 185 lbs. Smith, Tollison and the rest of the herd of Buffs will be squaring off this Friday in Coahoma against the Bulldogs in a scrimmage between the two bitter rivals.

Rangers relax to lose

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Rangers took one glance at Mike Caldwell's statistics Tuesday night and felt they were going to have two batting practices — one before the game and another during it. "His statistics were terrible but if I could explain how he pitched a seven-hitter, we'd be in here winners," said chagrined Texas Manager Billy Hunter.

Milwaukee's Caldwell, boasting a five-run-plus earned run average, lasted eight innings and defeated the Rangers 4-2 with relief help from Bill Castro.

"I felt good when I read the paper and saw the Rangers had taken (New York's) Ron Guidry lightly," said Caldwell, alluding to the fact that the fastballing Guidry had defeated Texas during the weekend series.

"I hoped they would take me lightly too," said Caldwell. "I knew they would look at my statistics and they did and they came out relaxed. I could tell they were surprised and frustrated when they couldn't get to me."

With Caldwell's sinker permitting just seven singles, the Brewers jumped on Ranger starter Dock Ellis for eight hits, including a two-run homer by Sal Bando and a solo roundtripper by Cecil Cooper.

The Rangers fell 2 1/2 games behind Kansas City in the American League West as Caldwell earned his fourth victory against six losses. Castro collected his 13th save.

Ellis dropped to 7-10 as the Rangers hit the road for three games in Boston.

The 28-year-old Caldwell of Boise, Idaho, who was acquired June 15 from Cincinnati for two obscure minor leaguers, was 1-7 last year with the San Francisco Giants. He was 7-13 in 1970.

However, Caldwell had a 14-5 record in 1974 before undergoing elbow surgery.

Seeds sprout

BROOKLINE, Mass. — Fifth-seeded Dick Stockton and sixth-rated Roscoe Tanner fashioned straight-set victories in the first round tests at the 50th U.S. Pro tennis championships. Stockton breezed to a 6-3, 6-3 decision over South Africa's Pat Cramer. Tanner dashed the hopes of local favorite Doug Crawford 6-4, 6-4.

White Sox... good hit, bad pitch, lotsa laughs

The classic White Sox score is 11-10. Sometimes they get the 11, sometimes they get the 10. You know they're going to score 10 or 11 a game, and you know their pitchers are going to give up 10 or 11. It's the only big-league ballclub I know of where the hitters are pushing for their pitching coach to get back on the active list.

"Watch this," said Richie Zisk, propped against the batting cage the other day. "This is what we call slump batting practice. With Stan throwing, we practice how to get into a batting slump."

He laughed. Stan Williams was out on the mound. He'd throw the ball up there, nice and hittable it seemed, but Oscar Gamble would bounce softly to second base, or Jim Spencer would swing and miss, or Eric Soderholm would pop it up.

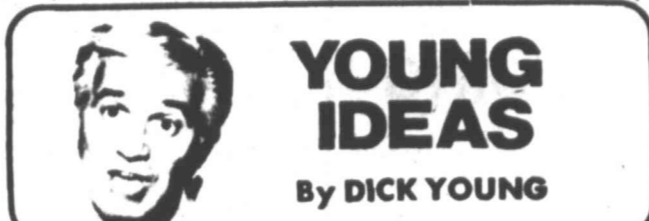

"His ball just naturally moves," said Richie Zisk. "We can't hit him. I told Bill Veeck to activate him. He can win some games for us." Stan Williams won 109 games in the bigs, mostly with the Dodgers. He is 40 years old, and lean, but he has not pitched in a game since 1972.

club together, dressed it in turn-of-the-century uniforms, and turned it loose to ravage American League pitchers, but it is Lem's managing, his superhuman cool, that has made them pennant contenders in the AL's Wild Wild West.

"It's like a day at the beach," Lem tells his ballplayers. "Just go out there and take your rips. Have some fun."

And so they go out there and play ballgames that remind most fans of father-and-son outings.

"We're the only team," says Richie Zisk, "that can score six runs in the first inning and play catcup ball the rest of the way."

Last Sunday, the White Sox scored six in the first at Texas, and lost. On Tuesday, they scored six in the ninth inning to take the lead from the Yankees and, a few minutes later, lost. Their team batting average of .284 is the best in the league. Their ERA of 4.39 is, except for the expansion clubs, the worst in the league.

This odd mix has produced some rather weird individual pitching records on the club stat sheet. Francisco Barrios has a plump 4.18 ERA, but is 11-and-4 in winnings. Steve Stone is 13-and-7, but his ERA is a succulent 4.17. Only Lerrin LaGrow, the reliever, can look his bat-carrying teammates in the eye. He has an ERA of 2.56, not exactly Bruce Sutter stuff for a bullpen ace, but the best by far on the staff.

Speaking of Bruce Sutter, since his arm went sore the other half of the Chicago longshot entry, the Cubs, dropped sharply out of the Walt Disney script, which called for an All-Chicago World Series.

A newsmen reminded Bob Lemon it was all up to him now. He grinned. "We're trying to spit it out," he said, "but we just can't. Our guys have just too much fight."

ZISK PLAYING LIKE HE'S SIGNED FOR LIFE

The togetherness is incredible. Richie Zisk is unsigned, but playing outstanding ball under free-agency pressure, and his pro-Sox spirit would make you think he had signed for life in Chicago. Eric Soderholm, who rescued his career by working with weights, is called "Nicky Nautilus" by his teammates. Ralph Garr shouts from the dugout corner to the Yankee side: "Hey, Munson! You're making too much money to quit!" They're laughing their way through the league.

"So we lose a few tough ones," says Bob Lemon, shrugging. "Doesn't everybody?"

He shuts the door after a painful defeat by the Yankees, and talks briefly and quietly to his men. "Lots of clubs would like to be where we are," he tells them. "Nobody expected us to be up here anyway. So play them one at a time, and just keep trying, that's all."

NTSU trio impressive

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — A trio of North Texas State University football players highlighted a three-hour scrimmage here Tuesday.

And head coach Haden Fry was elated, particularly about the first contact by middle guard Walter Chapman of Grand Prairie.

Chapman, a fifth year senior, was sidelined by a knee injury in the season opener last year against Mississippi State.

"Before he got hurt, I said there wasn't a better nose guard in the country," said Fry. "Based on one scrimmage, I think I will be saying that again."

Halfback Michael Jones of Lorraine hogged the statistics during the scrimmage, breaking for a 77-yard touchdown run while rolling up 190 net yards in 13 carries. He also caught a 40-yard scoring pass from senior quarterback Ken Washington of Port Arthur.

HEAD ON — Coahoma's Bulldogs are headed for a Friday night collision with the Stanton Buffs in a pre-season scrimmage. Quarterback Tim Greenfield (rear) will be skipping what Head Coach Roy Winters calls a "wide-open offense" behind the protection of (l to r) Randy Phillips, Terry Roberts, John Mulky, and Randy Bennett.

Goltz diamond is a real gem

By the Associated Press

"Every pitcher with great stuff has six or seven games a year where they put on quite a show," said Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch.

Tuesday night was one of those games for Twins mound ace Dave Goltz, who hurled a one-hit, 7-0 gem against the Boston Red Sox. The triumph was Goltz' third this year against the Sox, whose fifth consecutive loss dropped them out of first place in the American League's East Division.

The only hit off Goltz, 16-7, was a single by Jim Rice in the fourth inning. Goltz struck out 10 and walked three in recording his first shutout of the season.

"Those stats sure show how well he pitched," said Boston catcher Carlton Fisk. "He's been tough on us all year. He struck out everybody in the world."

Glenn Adams had two doubles and a single and Lyman Bostock chipped in with a double and a single to spark Minnesota's 14-hit attack. Rod Carew socked his 12th home run, extending his hitting streak to 13 games. Carew has hit in 30 of his last 32 contests.

In other American League games, New York moved into the East top spot with an 8-3 verdict over Chicago, Kansas City remained a game in front of Minnesota in the West with a 5-2 triumph over Baltimore, Milwaukee topped Texas 4-2, Detroit defeated California 5-1 and Toronto overwhelmed Oakland 8-1.

Locke seals Hall of Fame bid

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Arthur D'Arcy Locke, better known as Bobby, the first foreign player to make it big on the American pro golf tour, quit a winner in 1956.

Although still at the top of his game, he packed his bags — including the game's most deadly putter — and headed home for South Africa.

"I was 39 years old," Locke explained in his very British accent. "It was growing dark and I was running out of petrol."

There was more humor than accuracy in the account of the man who pioneered the United States tour for foreign players and was one of the first to point Gary Player toward this country.

He wasn't completely out of petrol. Using that peculiar stance — lining up far to the right and seeming to hit over his left shoulder — Locke won his fourth British Open title in 1957 and collected the last of his 80 world-wide titles the following year.

Now 60, Locke was one of four men enshrined in the World Golf Hall of Fame Tuesday night.

Joining him were England's John Ball, journalist Herb Graffis and golf course architect Donald Ross. Ball was named by the Hall's Pre-Modern Era committee. The other three were selected by the Golf Writers Association of America. The four brought to 30 the membership in the Hall of Fame.

Locke and Graffis, 84, were present for the inductee ceremonies. Ross and Ball are deceased.

Locke, generally regarded as the best putter the game has known, came to the United States in 1947 and was an "immediate success. He won seven titles that year — competing against such American stars as Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Jimmy Demaret — and was second on the money winning list.

Although a four-time winner of the British Open (1949, 1950, 1952 and 1957), he failed to collect any of the major titles in the United States. He was third in three U.S. Opens, however, and really wasn't too disappointed about it.

Bradshaw has lived up to rep

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — Terry Bradshaw marched into training camp eight years ago, touted as a man with a golden arm, tabbed as savior of the hapless Pittsburgh Steelers.

Bradshaw has lived up to the billing as well as anyone could. He has led the Steelers out of pro football's wilderness and helped them win five division titles and two Super Bowl championships.

What more could be expected of this blond cowboy from Louisiana who loves to sing, fish, raise cattle — and play football?

Bradshaw knows: When is Terry Bradshaw, the hot-shot quarterback from Louisiana Tech, going to pass for 3,000 yards, become All-Pro and finally live up to his ability?

"Everybody is waiting for me to erupt," Bradshaw said Tuesday at St. Vincent College, the Steelers training camp. "Everybody is waiting for me to get 3,000 yards and 28 TDs like Kenny Stabler (of Oakland). But that's not going to happen. I don't think it can happen and us win."

Bradshaw guides the offense, calls the plays. But the Steelers, under Coach Chuck Noll, are not a pass-oriented team. They do not rely on the pass to win. And that means Bradshaw plays a different kind of role than Stabler or Fran Tarkenton of Minnesota, who use the pass as a primary weapon.

"I'm not the nucleus of this team," said Bradshaw. "The defense and the running game are. It took me a while to get used to the idea but now I like it."

"I think it's even more of an accomplishment to have 50 per cent completions, have two running backs run for 1,000 yards and win the Super Bowl. If they're waiting for me to erupt ... heck, I may have erupted five years ago."

Bradshaw had his best personal statistics five years ago, passing for 2,259 yards and 13 touchdowns.

"Yeah, and we were 6-8 that year," he said. In 1975, Bradshaw nearly matched that season with 2,055 yards, but he also threw 18 touchdown passes and the Steelers won their second straight Super Bowl.

Bradshaw has looked extremely sharp in preseason games this year. He completed 13 of 16 passes against the New York Jets last week. He has a 65 per cent average in three games while playing about half the time. The 6-foot-3, 215-pound Bradshaw attributes his fine start to peace of mind, experience and a change in his passing style.

"I'm excited about this year," he said. "I'm throwing the ball better because I'm taking it up to my shoulder after the snap and not whirling it around like a pitcher like I used to. I'm not throwing it as hard, but I'm throwing it better."

Gilliam to be cut, Yepremian is back

By the Associated Press

New Orleans Coach Hank Stram says that quarterback Joe Gilliam won't make it back with the Saints. Gilliam was passing during a practice session Tuesday, but Stram said he ranks Gilliam dead last in the four-man race for the quarterback job.

That means the former Pittsburgh Steelers star is apt to be cut or traded by the National Football League team.

Stram says he still has faith in the quarterback, but that there isn't much time left for him to make it into form. The player hasn't made more than three practices in a row since the preseason started due to headaches and nausea resulting from his withdrawal from heroin.

Elsewhere in the league, the Baltimore Colts said they'd retire the venerable No. 19 jersey of Johnny Unitas in an Oct. 9 ceremony.

The Colts also announced they'd signed five-year veteran cornerback Nelson Muncy to a series of one-year contracts. Muncy missed the team's last six games last year with a knee injury.

The Cincinnati Bengals moved premier receiver Isaac Curtis from strong-side flanker to weak-side split end to give him more pass-catching opportunities. Coach Bill Johnson says the move could help the Bengals overcome double coverage by opponents that held Curtis to a low of six touchdown receptions last season.

Meanwhile, Garo Yepremian is back, but it looks as though Roger Staubach's comeback may be delayed.

Yepremian, the Miami Dolphins' placekicker who has been sidelined with a hamstring pull since Saturday, practiced Tuesday and kicked well, according to Coach Don Stula. Bob Griese returns to his more familiar role as quarterback and Yepremian to his regular kicking job in the Dolphins' NFL exhibition against Minnesota Friday night.

But in Dallas, quarterback Roger Staubach's hamstring wasn't healing well. Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said there was no better than a 50 per cent chance he would play in Saturday's game against Baltimore.

"It will be difficult to keep him out of there. He always tries to hide his injuries," said Landry.

(AP WIREPHOTO) TOUGH TRAINING CAMP — Quarterback Terry Bradshaw of the Pittsburgh Steelers is showing excellent passing form during the pre-season, and he attributes it to peace of mind, experience, and a change in his passing style. The Steelers end their training camp this week and will travel to New England for a nationally televised game Sunday.

Astros drop sixth in row

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's 1-2 pinch hitting punch from Bruce Boicclair and Ed Kranepool has given the Mets a pair of 2-1 victories over the Houston Astros.

Monday night, it was Boicclair's two-run pinch double in the seventh inning that wiped out a 1-0 Houston lead. Tuesday, Kranepool got the tying run home with a two-out pinch double in the eighth and the Mets pushed across a run in the ninth to win it.

Houston left-hander Floyd Bannister, just off the disabled list, blanked the Mets on six hits over the first six innings of a scoreless struggle against Nino Espinosa and gave way to Tom Dixon in the seventh.

The Astros, who have lost six games in a row, took a 1-0 lead in the eighth when Terry Puhl doubled with one out, moved to third on an infield out and scored on Jose Cruz' single.

But Steve Henderson began the bottom of the eighth by outlegging a slow roller to short and moved to second on a oneout balk by Dixon. Dixon got the second out and Kranepool, a 16-year veteran and one of baseball's premier pinch hitters, came up to bat for Jerry Grote.

Houston Manager Bill Virdon declined to put the potential lead run aboard and had Dixon, a right-hander, pitch to the lefty-swinging Kranepool even though southpaw Joe Sambito was warming up.

It promptly backfired when Kranepool doubled Henderson home. It was his ninth pinch hit in 20 attempts this season. In his career, Kranepool has 65 pinch hits in 228 appearances for a .285 average.

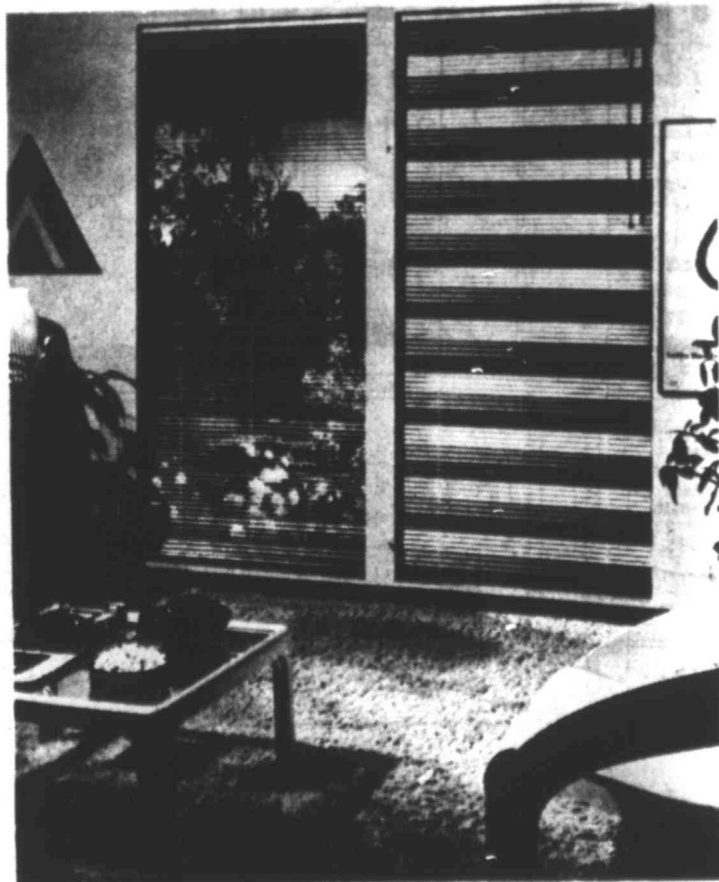

"I wasn't looking for that good a pitch for some reason," he said. "I anticipated they'd pitch around me or that Dixon would throw me a bad pitch. But he threw it right in there. That shows you how smart I am."

While Kranepool was happy the Mets won, he isn't ecstatic about being used mostly as a pinch hitter as the Mets attempt to rebuild with youth.

Military outguns young Texas vet

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Although he was only 12 when he fought in two of the biggest sea battles in Naval history, Calvin Graham of Fort Worth still is being outgunned by military rules.

Graham, who was injured aboard the USS South Dakota during WWII, is seeking an honorable discharge.

He even participated in the sea battles at Santa Cruz and Guadalcanal.

But Graham is not entitled to an honorable discharge.

The reason?

W.L. Gulley, director of the White House military office, said Tuesday Graham does not qualify for veteran benefits because he lied about his age to enlist.

"The statutes in regard to fraudulent enlistment are quite explicit. Enlistment under false pretenses cannot be counted as creditable for any veteran's benefits," Gulley said in a letter to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

And since an individual who fraudulently enlisted has never been a member of the armed forces, Gulley added, "he cannot be formally discharged."

"I can assure you Mr. Graham's youthful service is appreciated and he has been given every consideration within the laws governing such matters," Gulley said.

Members the USS South

Dakota Association had a reunion recently and vowed to help Graham. Among the ship's officers is Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

Ray Karnoff, association executive director, said that members may solicit Shriver to have Kennedy introduce special legislation granting the discharge.

"I remember the kid," said Karnoff, who was a pharmacist's mate aboard the ship. "He helped me save some of those lives during that battle."

"We read your (Star-Telegram) story and half the crew members sent me letters about it. When we got together, they couldn't believe he hadn't gotten the discharge yet," Karnoff said.

"We'll do anything we can, but I don't know if it will do any good in Washington," Karnoff added that "if the kid went through hell and back—which it was—you'd think they'd give him something besides a piece of paper."

MOVING OUT — A photographer and a firefighter at a downtown Indianapolis fire run for cover as the roof of a burning building collapses toward them late Tuesday afternoon. On the other side of the building six firefighters were injured when the roof and wall collapsed at the same time.

Harte-Hanks plans buy of broadcasting firm

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Harte-Hanks Newspapers, Inc., has announced agreement in principal to purchase Southern Broadcasting Co. for a total price of $57 million.

Southern is based in Winston-Salem, N.C., and owns AM-FM radio stations in Phoenix; Raleigh-Durham, N.C.; Houston; and Richmond, Va. It also owns an AM station in Birmingham, Ala., and FM stations in Memphis, Tenn., and Tampa, Fla.

Harte-Hanks will dispose of WGHP-TV in High Point, N.C., and KFWD-FM in Dallas in order to meet requirements of the Federal Communications Commission. Those disposals are planned to occur simultaneously with the acquisition of Southern which owns the two stations.

Harte-Hanks said negotiations have been conducted with Gulf United Corp., a life insurance holding company in Jacksonville, Fla., in which Gulf United would acquire the television station and the Dallas radio station for $24 million cash. Negotiations have also been conducted in which Harte-Hanks would acquire an AM-FM radio station in Tampa, Fla., which are being disposed of in connection with Gulf United's merger with Bahall Communications Corp. Harte-Hanks would dispose of the FM station in Tampa to meet FCC requirements.

Southern will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Harte-Hanks and will remain headquartered in Winston-Salem.

The parent firm owns 26 daily newspapers and 54 nondaily publications in 33 markets. It owns network-affiliated VHF television stations in San Antonio, Folks can breathe easier in Intercourse, Pa. Small towns to keep identity?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three families in Berry's Lick, Ky., can breathe a little easier. So can the folks in Devil's Elbow, Mo.; Zap, N.D.; and Intercourse, Pa.

The Postal Service wants to let America's small towns keep their identity even if it closes their post offices to save tax dollars.

Under the proposal, due to take effect in 30 days, residents of towns whose post offices are closed can in virtually all cases receive mail addressed to their hamlets.

And the communities will still be listed in the Directory of Post Offices, often used as a reference book for place names.

The proposed regulations, published in today's Federal Register, outline the steps to be taken in closing a post office. The public has 30 days to comment before the proposal becomes final.

One postal official noted, "People in rural America are worried that if they lose the post office, they also will lose community identity."

Deputy Postmaster General William F. Bolger said many small town residents "believe that it is like being taken off the map. So if we close a post office, we will do everything we can to maintain community identity."

One example of a community whose post office loses money is Berry's Lick.

Ridin' fence

Up at Lamesa there is a rare specimen. It's an employee who goes beyond the call of duty.

There's a few here and there, but not too many. But Joe R. Samaro, 62, has turned an eyesore at the Lamesa Middle School into a flower-filled garden.

Last time I was over in Lamesa, I noticed the flowers and asked about them. One woman told me about it and said, "They are pretty because, Jose — he cares."

It seems that Samora has worked for the Lamesa Independent School District for a dozen years. When the old junior high school was torn down, he took it upon himself to help make the grounds more attractive. That is when he started the garden.

He started cultivating the large gravel area around the girl's gymnasium which fronts on Bryant Street.

Where there were once only rocks and gravel, there are now red oaks, live oaks, Japanese pinon and pine trees.

His blossoms include flowers that are pretty at different times of year. In the fall, the chrysanthemums are pretty and in the summer, the bright colored zinnias and dahlias are flanked by hollyhocks. Petunias bloom most of the summer and in the spring and the fall, there are roses.

Each morning, Samora waters part of the huge garden for about 30 minutes before his actual work day begins.

Charles Varner, head of school maintenance, said recently that Joe's gardening does not interfere with his work as a painter.

Samaro said the school children are proud of the garden and leave it alone. He hasn't ever bought any seeds. He collects seeds from the previous year and a lot of folks give him seeds and cutting to plant.

He makes me think of my own childhood when I attended schools in Mercedes. That schoolground was absolutely beautiful. There was a thin gardner named "Mr. Smith" who always seemed to be hoeing and raking and clipping and pruning.

Everyone said "When Mr. Smith dies, the yard won't look the same."

I thought, "Oh that's silly." I was so used to going to that school with the immaculate lawns, the well-pruned trees and the beautiful flowers. Poinsettias bloomed at Christmas and plumbago in the hot summer.

When Mr. Smith retired, the lawn began to droop. The flowers died and later the shrubs. The edges of the sidewalks held longer grass.

Four employees took his place. They worked eight to five and mowed the middle and dug up the dead plants.

One person who cares does make a difference. And the Lamesa school district is fortunate to have Joe Samaro.

Out by the Middle School fence.

Doctor indicted
DALLAS (AP) — An Irving, Tex., physician, arrested last month on charges that he tried to hire a patient to kill another doctor, has been indicted by the Dallas County grand jury.

The grand jury indictment accuses Dr. Bobby Mack Via, 40, of attempting to solicit a capital murder.

Dr. Via allegedly offered a patient $2,000 to kill Dr. George N. Berryman, Via's former medical school classmate who shared office space with Via.
