SEYMOUR JURY GIVES DENSON 6 YEARS

MEXICO BEING RUSSIANIZED K. C. ASSERTS

Call on American Federation Of Labor to Aid In Struggle

PLEDGE $1,000,000

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—(AP) Asserting that Mexican officials had "insulted, degraded and expelled American citizens, men and women, under circumstances that are abhorrent to our conception of constitutional government," the supreme council Knights of Columbus today called on President Coolidge and the state department to "put an end to this ignominous contempt" that has been shown by President Calles "for Americans' appeal."

Demand was made for protection of American citizens and for their treatment with the same consideration and respect that is shown to Mexicans in this country.

The American Federation of Labor and affiliated organizations were urged to co-operate to safeguard "not only American rights but the hard-won victories of labor itself to protect it from servile submission to despotic authority."

The convention authorized the supreme board of directors to assess the members of the organization $1,000,000 for a campaign of education, "to the end that the politics of Soviet Russia shall be eliminated from the philosophy of American life and the ideals of liberty of conscience and democratic freedom may extend to our afflicted fellow human beings beyond the Rio Grande."

After protesting against the policy of President Calles on "his recent despotic use of the armed forces of his military regime in oppressing the vast majority of the people of Mexico, who are struggling to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience," the statement said:

Warn Americans.

"We warn our fellow American citizens that they cannot endure at their very door step, with impunity, the Russianizing of Mexico. The soviet philosophy controls the military powers of Mexico. The family to them is a myth and a marriage a degradation. They have robbed it of its sanctity. Their conception of God is contempt for all religions."

After declaring that civil and religious freedom are suppressed in Mexico the statement continues:

"All this system in Mexico has been created under American auspices, sustained by American executive authority which, in the first place, while refusing to recognize Lenine and Trotzky have, by executive order of recognition accepted Calles and Obregon, who are the enthusiastic supporters of the Bolsheviki concept of government."

Points to Patronage.

"We further point to the significance of the patronage bestowed upon these military despots by the continuance of such recognition, and particularly by the discriminating favoritism shown to Calles by the continuance of the embargo, which makes the Calles ascendancy possible.

"We call upon the president and state department to put an end to this ignominous contempt which has been shown by Calles for Americans' appeal, and to resolutely demand protection for American citizens and that they be treated with the same consideration and respect which is shown to Mexican citizens in this country.

"The period of watchful waiting or any other such procedure is over. We, as American citizens, demand of our government that this action be taken forthwith."

DAVIS LEADS KANSAS RACE

Dirt Farmer Comes Back With Narrow Margin For Governor

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Interest in Tuesday's primary elections centered tonight on several closely contested races in Oklahoma and Kansas with indications that an official count may be necessary in some cases to determine the winners.

Incoming returns accentuated the victory of the wets in Missouri and the defeat of the ku klux klan in Kansas.

The contest between former Governor Jonathan M. Davis, and Donald Muir young lawyer of Anthony, for the democratic gubernatorial nomination held the spotlight in Kansas. Davis held a lead of 1,028 votes on returns from 2,399 precincts out of 2,641 in the state. The winner will oppose Governor Ben S. Paulen, republican, in the November elections.

All of the anti-klan candidates in the republican contests for state office in Kansas seemed assured of nomination by good majorities.

In Oklahoma, Congressman Elmer Thomas was leading J. C. (Jack) Walton deposed governor by 13,000 votes for the democratic senatorial nomination with the count two thirds complete and Henry S. Johnston of Perry reputed to have the support of the ku klux klan held a lead of 6,197 votes over W. M. Darnell farmer candidate in the race for the democratic gubernatorial nominations on returns from 2,260 precincts of the 3,179 in the state.

Omer K. Benedict former Tulsa postmaster jumped to a lead of more than 2,000 votes over State Senator W. J. Otjen in the Oklahoma republican gubernatorial contest. Senator J. W. Harreld, republican, was renominated.

Bury Veteran Who Drove For 3 Presidents

T. A. Murphy Piloted Jim Hogg's Special To Austin

Several Wichita Falls railroad men attended the funeral of T. A. Murphy, veteran passenger conductor on the M. K. & T. railway, who has hauled three presidents of the United States on special trains, and who piloted the special which conducted James Stephen Hogg to the capitol city when he was elected governor of Texas. Murphy was buried at his home in Denison, Texas, Thursday afternoon. He died Sunday morning of apoplexy at Denison, shortly after completing his run.

Conductor Murphy was the oldest conductor on the Katy lines in point of continuous service, and his record is rarely ever equaled in the annals of American railroading. Coming south with the Katy, he was one of the first men to handle a regular Katy train over the sparsely settled cross timbered section of Texas, and his first regular run was little better than a "jerk water" run of today.

SKULL BROKEN IN CAR CRASH

Mrs. Wm. R. McFadden Of Wichita Falls Seriously Injured

Mrs. William R. McFadden of 1015 Virginia street received a fractured skull and internal injuries in an accident on the Henrietta road a few minutes after eight o'clock Thursday night. She was unconscious and her condition was reported as serious at the Wichita clinic hospital following the accident. Her husband, W. R. McFadden, received minor cuts and bruises when the car, a large Gardner open model, was driven into a ten-foot ditch by the side of the road.

An ambulance carried Mrs. McFadden to the hospital. Mr. McFadden was later picked up by Grover Pyle of this city and carried there, too.

Anti-Evolutionist Leads in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Hill McAlister, state treasurer wrested the lead in today's democratic primary for nomination for governor of Tennessee from Governor Austin Peay, who seeks nomination, when returns from 1,179 of the state's 2,195 precincts were reported. McAlister's total was 54,482, Peay 52,901.

Dr. John R. Neal, senior counsel for Professor John T. Scopes at the Dayton evolution trial a year ago, was running a poor third in the democratic gubernatorial race. His vote was negligible.

McAlister claimed credit for having sponsored the Tennessee law which prohibited teaching of the theory of evolution in Tennessee.

Another leading figure in the evolution trial also sought office again today. He was Judge John T. Raulston, who presided at the trial. The judge sought renomination by the republicans in the 18th judicial district.

MIDNIGHT FIRE TRAIN RUSHES TO GAS BLAZE

Blazing Tank Car On Fort Worth and Denver Menaces Workers

EXPLOSION EXPECTED

A special train carrying two Wichita Falls fire department chemical engines and five tanks of water was sent out of Wichita Falls at mid-night Thursday an attempt to subdue a blazing tank car loaded with casing head gasoline on the main line of the Fort Worth and Denver just south of Henrietta. The tank car, derailed, with a broken wheel, presented at that time a menace to the entire section of the road—passenger trains going either north or south had been delayed more than four hours since 1:45 Thursday afternoon as they detoured via Ringold over the M-K-T and Rock Island; workmen, in the fear of a momentary explosion at the scene of the tank car unwilling to work in the neighborhood of the hazard, and the entire traffic on this end of the line was threatened.

The fire started at 1:45 Thursday afternoon, a wheel on the car breaking when its journal box became too hot. The wooden fixtures to the tank car were ignited from the wheel, this smouldering along and finally bursting into blaze. With the blaze workmen became afraid to work near the car, casinghead gasoline being highly explosive and liable to explode in the presence of too great heat.

It was planned Thursday night to bring the chemical engines to the scene and extinguish the fire if possible. If not, it was stated, an engine and a number of flat cars would be coupled to the car and an attempt made to haul it to Henrietta or Wichita Falls where water at high pressure might be turned on it.

Railroad officials stated at midnight Thursday that an explosion was expected almost momentarily.

"He's Been Murdered" Said Cook, Before Rector's Body Found; Maid On Stand

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Louise Geist Reihl, maid in the home of the Rev. Dr. W. Hall, at the time he and Mrs. Slabor Mills, choir singer were murdered told Special Prosecutor Simpson today that before the rector's body was found, Marie Gildea, cook in the home had declared:

"He's been murdered."

Mrs. Riehl, whose husband's annulment suit precipitated the present investigation told the state senator today of the two conversations she had overheard between the time the rector disappeared from his home and the time his body was found beside that of Mrs. Mills under a crab apple tree on the outskirts of New Brunswick.

Senator Simpson announced today that he expected to question Marie Gildea as to her knowledge of the case.

The next night, according to Mrs. Riehl's account, Willie Stevens, Hall's brother, said to Mrs. Hall: "Yes, I'm going to bed. I know he won't come home tonight."

State troopers reported to Senator Simpson today that Mrs. Minnie Clarke, an acquaintance of the Halls wanted for questioning by the prosecutor, had disappeared.

The senator said that he had ordered the state police last night to get a warrant and arrest Ralph V. M. Gorsline, vestryman in Dr. Hall's church when he had received information that Gorsline was about to leave the state.

The police reported that there had been no indication that Gorsline was preparing to leave the state, the special prosecutor added, and he had ordered the troopers to "use their judgment" and not arrest the man unless he seemed about to leave.

SELF-DEFENSE PLEA IN DEATH OF SPUR BOY

Slain Youth's Mother Says She Took Pistol From Him

BOTH FAMILIES MIX

SEYMOUR, Aug 5.—Six years imprisonment was the verdict of the district court jury here tonight in the case of Pat Denson, 20, charged with the murder of Edgar Brawley at Spur last November.

Receiving the charge at 4 o'clock, the jury returned its verdict at 6 o'clock.

Brawley's dying statement, introduced in court yesterday, accused Denson of the crime.

In today's proceedings, Walter Moore testified for the defense that on the day before the slaying he overheard a remark on the street to Edgar Brawley that Pat Denson, was in town, and that Brawley replied that when he saw Denson he "would burn him down and would not use a knife the next time."

"The next time," referred to a previous encounter between Denson, Brawley and the latter's father.

The defendant stated that Moore came to him the same afternoon and told him he had heard the remark, and that later the same day Horace Denson, his cousin, came to him and told him he saw Edgar Brawley purchase a gun in a hardware store.

Brother Cut, in Hospital.

The next morning Pat Denson asserted he went to the sanitarium to see his brother Carl, who had been cut in a difficulty with Edgar Brawley the day before.

Denson testified he went into the bakery in which Brawley was killed in order to be out of the way, but that while in there he saw Brawley come in, and believing he had a gun in his hand, he fired at him.

Mr. and Mrs. Brawley, parents of the slain youth, testified for the state Wednesday. Brawley declared that his son had never owned a gun until the day preceding the shooting, when he bought one and carried it home, where it was locked in a trunk by the youth's mother.

Feared Trouble.

Testimony given by the slain youth's parents revealed that the Brawleys feared trouble when they drove to Spur from their home, thirteen miles distant, the Sunday of the shooting. Edgar was hidden in the bakery, while other members of the family went into a store. A short time later shots were heard. Leaving the store, the elder Brawley encountered Pat Denson, fleeing from the scene of the shooting, he declared. He testified that he also saw Hugh and L. Denson, both of whom had guns. An officer approached, and Brawley declares that he requested that his life be protected. The officer then disarmed Hugh, Brawley testified.

Brawley also testified that after his son was shot, Pat pursued him around a corner, shooting at him several times when his target was thirty or forty feet away. Pat then went to the office of the deputy sheriff, where he surrendered.

Members of Jury.

The case was brought here on change of venue from Dickens county. Members of the jury were Will Yoe, Clint Joins, G. W. Pritchard, S. S. Knox, J. C. Wright, W. A. McFarlane, Fred McCord, B. K. Rhea, F. M. Smelledge, D. C. Cochran, A. C. Haskins.

Judge J. H. Milam presided.

The defense was represented by W. H. Murchison, Haskell, W. D. Wilson, Spur, and Joe A. Wheat, Seymour. The prosecutor was W. D. Combest, district attorny at Paducah, assisted by W. E. Lessing, Abilene, J. Ross Bell, Paducah, J. F. Cunningham, Abilene.

Col. Jake Walters Puts Roller-Skates On Ponzi

HOUSTON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—District Judge Charles Ashe today refused the application of Charles Ponzi of Boston for a writ of habeas corpus. Ponzi was turned over to the Massachusetts authorities.

Ponzi's attorneys, however, gave immediate notice of appeal to the court of criminal appeals which is to meet in Austin next October.

Tee effect of the appeal, if prosecuted, will be to keep Ponzi in Houston until the higher court renders a decision. In the face of the appeal Massachusetts authorities are powerless to remove him from the state.

Ponzi himself viewed the legal storm nonchalantly. "One might as well be a good sport about such things," he said in discussing denial of the habeas corpus writ. "I've been sunk and drowned a half dozen times," he said, "and I've floated a half dozen times also."

A crowd of curious spectators crowded the little court room when the Ponzi case came before Judge Ashe for decision.

Yesterday it appeared that Ponzi was perilously close to freedom. Judge Ashe was about to rule on the sufficiency of the Massachusetts indictment authorities to convince him of its regularity according to Texas standards. Mr. Shrigley pleaded for time and the case was postponed until today to give the Massachusetts attorney time to present them. In the meanwhile, he had sought assistance of Col. Jacob Wolters, Houston attorney, who ransacked Houston law libraries most of the night, he said, for court decisions on the point. Today his appearance as co-counsel with Mr. Shrigley caused a stir in the court room. Speculation was allayed only when Mr. Wolters entered an appearance for the prosecution and produced the authorities which finally convinced Judge Ashe that the Ponzi indictment answered requirements.

READ THIS FIRST:

Merry Locke, twenty and pretty, falls in love with a man in a gray suit whom she passes on the street every day when she leaves the Finch school of business to go out to lunch. To fall in love is nothing new to Merry. She's been doing that ever since she was sixteen, but this time she feels that she has found the Real Thing.

One day she tries to flirt with the man in gray, and after that he stops noticing her. But one night when she is at a circus with her youngest sister, Jinny, and Derrick Jones, who lives next door she meets the Man in Gray. He is a young lawyer named Anthony Gaines, and is a good friend of Morley Kaufmann, who employs Merry's sister, Cassie, in his office.

Tony and Merry see a great deal of each other for a month, and he asks her to marry him. Merry wants to be married at once, but Tony insists that they wait for six months. Merry has told him about all her love affairs, particularly about the one she had with Derrick Jones; and Tony wants her to be sure that she really cares for him before they settle down as husband and wife.

Merry fails in her business course, and dreads telling Moms about it. While she is trying to screw up her courage to break the news to her, Dad, Merry's father, has a stroke at the wholesale grocery where he is a clerk, and dies, leaving almost no money. Shortly after the funeral Helen, the oldest of the four Locke sisters, announces that she has married Bill Hepworth, whose father owns the store where Dad worked. Merry confesses to Moms that she has failed in her stenographic course.

Tony's mother, who has been out of town, returns with a cousin and Tony doesn't come to see Merry that night. Unreasonably jealous and angry, Merry goes to see Helen in her new home, with Derrick Jones and lets him kiss her, feeling that in this way she's "getting even" with Tony.

The next day, still hurt and jealous, she refuses to answer the telephone when Tony calls up.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER XIV

Tony Gaines telephoned the house three times that morning. But Merry stubbornly refused to talk to him.

Sitting at the top of the stairs, polishing her little pointed nails, she listened to Jinny tell him three times in succession that she wasn't at home.

She listened, with bitterness and resentment in her heart.

"Why does he bother about me?" she asked herself. "Let him call up his Cousin Louise and take her for a drive in his car."

Without ever having a glimpse of Cousin Louise, Merry had come to hate her as she never had hated anyone in her short, happy life before.

After Tony's third call, Jinny came up stairs and rebelliously announced that she would tell him no more white lies.

"He must know you're here, Merry," she said, crossly. For Merry had fairly haunted the telephone for weeks in the hope that he would call her up.

She got up and went into her own room, dropping the nail file and buffer down on the bed, forgetting that there was no longer a patient Helen to pick them up and put them away.

"I think I'll go out and look for a job," she said suddenly to Jinny, and put on her hat.

She would show Tony Gaines that she didn't need him in her life, any more than he needed her! She would go and get a job in an office keeping the files or answering the telephone, perhaps. There were lots of good-looking men in offices.

But the job she found was not in an office filled with good-looking men. It was not in an office at all.

It was in a beauty shop only four blocks away from home—a neat little white beauty shop where Merry had her nails manicured a dozen times before she learned to trim and polish them herself.

As she came up to it on the south side of Gower street, she stopped to look at the fascinating bottles and boxes that were grouped on a piece of purple crepe paper in the window. Muscle oil, pore paste, liquid rouge, paste rouge, dry rouge, big boxes of bath powder, little bottles of perfume.

Although Merry never used anything on her face but the slightest dusting of rice powder, she was intrigued by beauty aids as every woman in the world is intrigued and fascinated by them.

Just as she was turning away, her eye fell on a pink card tucked into one corner of the window. "Girl Wanted," it read.

In another second Merry was inside the shop.

The woman who owned the shop was all alone, sitting at a little table beside the window.

Merry had seen her often, and had thought she was "sticky looking."

She was, too. Her hair had been hennaed to a thick, oily red color, and she perspired through a film of liquid powder, so that her face always had a wet, pasty look. Her eyes glowed under lids that were brown with make-up.

"Manicure?" she asked, remembering Merry. She smiled with heavily rouged lips.

"No. Job!" Merry explained shortly, and flipped the pink card with her fingertips.

Instantly the smile vanished from the woman's face. She became all business.

For ten dollars a week she wanted Merry to answer the telephone in the little shop, keep it neat and clean, and act as saleswoman for the cosmetics that filled the glass case at one end of the room.

"It's easy work," said the woman, "especially in the summer months when everybody's out of town. In the winter I always hire another girl to help out."

Merry wondered if Madame Dale—that was her business name—called herself a girl.

"She looks as old as the hills to me," she said to herself, "and her skin's like white leather. I wonder if that's what so much paint and powder does to complexions."

In the mirror on the opposite wall, her own reflection struck her as being wonderfully soft and satiny and fresh compared to Madame Dale's mask of cosmetics.

She took the job.

Never afterward could she explain to herself just how she happened to take it. Sometimes she thought that it was because the day was so hot and she hated the thought of going on in the broiling heat to hunt some other kind of work.

It was cool in the little shop, with the red and white awning flapping up and down outside in the sultry breeze that traveled up and down Gower street.

"You got a lovely skin of your own," Madame Dale told her in her cheerful ungrammatical way, "but as long as you're working in a beauty shop, I think you might as well fix it up a little. It'll help sell this stuff." She waved a fat over-manicured hand toward the vari-colored bottles and boxes in the glass case.

It was no trick for Merry to sell beauty-aids.

It was no trick for Merry to sell beauty aids—not with a skin and hair like hers.

And when Madame Dale had darkened her eyelashes just the least bit with brown mascara, and reddened her Cupid's bow mouth, and touched her smooth cheeks with rouge, Merry looked like a masterpiece of make-up.

"I can tell we're going to get along real good—you and me," she said, smiling all around her fat nose when they were closing up the shop at half-past five. "It takes looks like yours to get by in a beauty parlor, and I don't mean yesterday."

She was cheerful and appreciative. And in spite of her slang and her bad grammar and her wild appearance, Merry liked her.

"Where did you find a position?" Cassie asked that night when she and Merry were upstairs freshening themselves for supper.

"It's not a position, it's only a job, and not much of a job at that," Merry told her. "It's in a beauty shop. I answer the telephone and do little odd jobs like that around the place."

Cassie's eyes widened. "So that explains why you're all painted up like a circus poster!" she said. "Just wait until your friend, Gaines, sees you! He'll have a conniption fit!"

Merry knew that he would.

Something that he had said about paint and powder the other night flashed through her mind now. "My mother's sure to like you because you don't paint or drink or smoke," was what he had said.

"Well, I'm painted now!" Merry thought rebelliously, as she started down stairs, "so if she doesn't like it she's out of luck!"

Before she reached the bottom of the stairs the telephone in the lower hall began to ring. She answered it.

"Hello. How's my sweetheart?" Tony's voice came to her, and she caught her breath. It seemed to bring him close to her, somehow.

"All right," she answered in a dull tone. "I started to work today, so I'm a little tired."

"I'd like to come over to see you tonight, anyway," he said after a pause, "unless you're too tired."

She answered that she wasn't too tired to see him, and hung up.

Cassie, wrapped in a thin white breakfast coat, was coming down the stairs.

"Who was that—your friend Gaines?" she asked, with a sarcastic curl to her red mouth.

Merry nodded. "He's coming over."

Cassie's eyebrows went up in mock surprise. "Did he say anything about bringing his mother with him—or about taking you to see her?" she asked, and Merry silently shook her fluffy head.

"No, I guess not!" Cassie went on. "He hasn't shown any signs of giving you an engagement ring, either! Merry, his Gaines doesn't mean business! He's just having a good time with you! If he intended to marry you he'd have bought you a ring ages ago. He has oodles and scads of money, so Morley Kaufman says."

All during the silent meal, Merry kept turning what Cassie had said, over and over in her troubled mind.

Until then she hadn't even thought of an engagement ring. But now she wondered why Tony hadn't given her one. She wondered why Tony hadn't told his mother about her, too.

"I'll have it all out with him tonight!" she made up her mind, stubbornly. "I'll tell him that he can marry me right now or he doesn't need to marry me at all. I'm not going to spend the summer in a broiling beauty shop waiting for him to shop for a marriage license!"

The more she thought things over, the more angry and resentful she became.

She was so busy with her own dark thoughts that she lent only half an ear to Moms' tirade about her new work at Madame Dale's shop.

"Answering the phone in a beauty shop! You, who should be making two or three times that much as a stenographer!" groaned Moms. "Is that what I've educated you for all these years, I'd like to know, so that you can paint yourself up like a trollop and make appointments for a beauty shop?" She burst into a flood of bitter, discouraged tears, and Merry rushed out of the dining room and out onto the front porch.

As she sat in the hammock couch waiting for Tony to come, she took out her new lipstick and eyebrow pencil and went to work.

"If I'm going to look painted, I may as well look good and painted!" she said to herself, with an angry little shake of her whole slim body.

At seven-thirty Tony Gaines' big blue car came rolling down Chester street, followed by the interested eyes of all the neighbors who were sitting out on their verandas to enjoy the evening air and quiet.

It was not often that a three thousand dollar car stopped in Chester street for one thing. And for another, any car that stopped before the Locke house was an object of curiosity in the neighborhood. The Locke girls, and their beaus, kept the whole street on tiptoe.

Merry sat perfectly still in the swing and waited for Tony to come to her. There was a cruel little feeling of satisfaction in her face as she saw his eyes sweep over it.

"What have you done to yourself?" he asked, frowning. "You don't look like yourself at all, Merry. I was going to bring my mother to see you tonight, but now I'm glad I didn't. I don't want her to see you when you look like this."

Get Yourself a Brand New Liver

How Dodson's Liver Tone Makes You Feel the Old Liver is Born Again

Just off the slant of Old Piedmont where it rolls away into the foot-hills of South Georgia, Bud Evans makes a good stand of cotton. A year ago he was too sick to even follow a plow. His right side seemed hard, felt as if his liver had turned to stone; belched gas all the time; couldn't hold up his head for the pain; calomel just turned him inside out. You couldn't imagine anyone sicker than Bud Evans. It just happened that an egg buyer dropped in on him one day and says: "What you need, Bud, is a dose of Dodson's Liver Tone—your liver is baked and full up so it doesn't work." And so Bud got a bottle at the town drug store for a few cents. The very first night it loosened up so much sour bile and fermenting food that the swelling went down, his whole system righted itself and he was a new man entirely before noon.

There is no question but that Dodson's Liver Tone will do more for bilious people than anything else ever known. It works easily and smoothly, without gripe or distress, and cleans out all the sour bile and sickening stuff that gives you headaches, nausea, vomiting, bilious fever and all the other distresses due to obstinate constipation.

Get one bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, and if it doesn't make you feel like you had traded your old, worn-out liver for a new one full of pep, go to the druggist and he will refund the price.

Child Bandits Foiled in Plan To Wreck Train

CURBING CRIME

CRIME is the great problem of two of the largest cities in the United States, the cities of New York and Chicago. But it is becoming less of a problem in at least one great city—Baltimore.

Many reasons have been advanced for the reign of lawlessness in New York and Chicago, as well as various reasons why authorities have been unable to cope with it. The situation in both cities is admittedly serious. Life is cheap. Murder is rampant. Punishment is haphazard.

It is the matter of punishment that the remedy lies, if Baltimore's experience can be taken as a criterion. Not the mere certainty of punishment, but punishment that is of prompt and adequate as well as certain.

Serious crime has decreased in Baltimore 13.3 per cent during the first half of this year over the corresponding period a year ago, a report issued by the Baltimore criminal justice commission shows. And it is 22.8 per cent below the same period in 1924. This covers the crimes of murder, burglary and robbery and larceny, naturally considered the most serious.

Prompt trials, swift convictions and adequate punishment are given in the report as the reasons for the reduction of lawlessness. The report also mentions the speedy trial of Richard Reese Whittemore, sentenced to hang August 13 for the murder of a penitentiary guard.

This case, the report states, "should encourage and stimulate various agencies charged with the administration of criminal justice in Baltimore to improve the record thus far made."

But the most remarkable and logical feature of the report is the section that says:

The dockets are not clogged, cases are tried while witnesses are still available and the facts are fresh in their minds and before there has been a chance to tamper with them. Yet with all this speed and promptness of trial the result has not been such as to jeopardize in any way the rights and privileges of the accused.

One of the things a criminal least desires is a speedy trial. The cry of being "railroaded" is his first wail. More loopholes to escape conviction or to obtain mitigation of charges arise out of trial delays than from any other source.

Delay is the criminal lawyer's best bet. "Never try a murder case until the grass is green over the victim's grave," was the way a widely known California criminal lawyer expressed it.

Neither New York nor Chicago can be accused of undue haste in bringing their murderers to trial. There is no excuse for delaying a murder trial an unreasonable time anywhere at any time. That is, not unless holding human life cheaply is a good excuse.

CIVILIZED CLOTHES

CLOTHES may make the man but the growing lack of them seems to make the woman. Gertrude Lawrence, actress, sailed for England, after giving reporters a statement in which she declared stockings were a tremendous expense and an awful encumberance. She predicted the time will come when women will find it cheaper and more comfortable to go without stockings. Her hosiery bills, she explained, amounted to $2,000 a year.

Any man ought to cheer a move to eliminate such an annual expenditure. But, of course, the average lady does not spend quite that much for her stockies.

Stockings may be superflous in warm weather, but where it happens in most sections of the country high temperatures do not prevail throughout the year. When chill winds blow hosiery is not exactly an encumberance.

When Miss Lawrence predicts women will go without stockings she is rather belated. The ladies have already adopted that habit, or have tried it out. And if Miss Lawrence is going to abandon various articles of apparel because of the expense where will she stop. There is almost no limit, but strangely the elimination of clothes does not appear to curtail bills.

Humanity may be returning to first principles—the days of the jungle. One of the principal indications of man's upward climb from the savage civilization was found in raiment for the body. Now, as the raiment is cast off, are we also to revert back to the primitive?

AN ODD ATTITUDE

EUROPEANS are displeased with the United States for various reasons, which we do not fully understand. In France the opposition assumes direct form in the criticisms of the country and attacks upon American tourists. America is surprised. Presumably she has been lenient.

President Coolidge, through his official spokesman, who is himself, finally takes recognizance of the situation and proceeds to scold the Americans. He said they must cease their recriminations of Europe, that they must behave when abroad, and that we should all adopt an attitude of helpfulness and sympathy. He also gave a few hints to Europeans to change their tactics.

But this will be startling advice for Americans who supposed they were the victims, not the offenders. But their own chief executive tells them that they have some faults to correct, and this is probably true. But that does not sound like a chieftain defending his people from the insults heaped upon them by others. Americans have not been exactly unhelpful to Europe. And the unfriendliness is on the other side.

The United States went and and won a war for France; loaned her money, supplied her with essentials, sacrificed and suffered, emptied our pockets. Now it is over, France steps up and says she cannot and will not repay the money. It is an outrage even to suggest a possible return. Then she slaps us in the face, steps on our feet, attacks our people.

The president tells the Americans they should turn the other cheek, be more generous, kinder. Wonder what next?

GENIUS AMERICAN

ALL Americans, seemingly, are miniature Edisons these days. Our minds are busily engaged in creating, if not in literature, the drama, music, journalism, then in scientific contributions to the progress of the age. Everybody has an idea, or many ideas, which seeks to work out for the benefit of the world and himself.

This trend is particularly noticeable wherever a new general wonder becomes an established fact, such as the automobile, the flying machine, the phonograph or the radio. The genius American is busy with the latter at present. In fact, he is so busy that the radio division of the United States patent office is unable to keep up with the applications for patents.

The examiners have been tripled, and still they are losing ground in the influx of requests for permits. There are now 1,850 radio patent applications awaiting action on the patent office as compared to 1,594 at the first of the year. The radio division is five months behind the applications.

The office has been contending with the problem for several years. When broadcasting first began, one division handled all radio, telephone and telegraph patents. But it was necessary to establish a separate division for radio in August, 1924 and since then it has been a steady battle to meet the growing demands of inventors.

This presents an explanation of America's progress in the scientific, mechanical fields, in the practicalities which provide the day, the comforts and luxuries. It shows why this nation leads the world. The American mind is active. It is never at rest. It ever seeks something better.

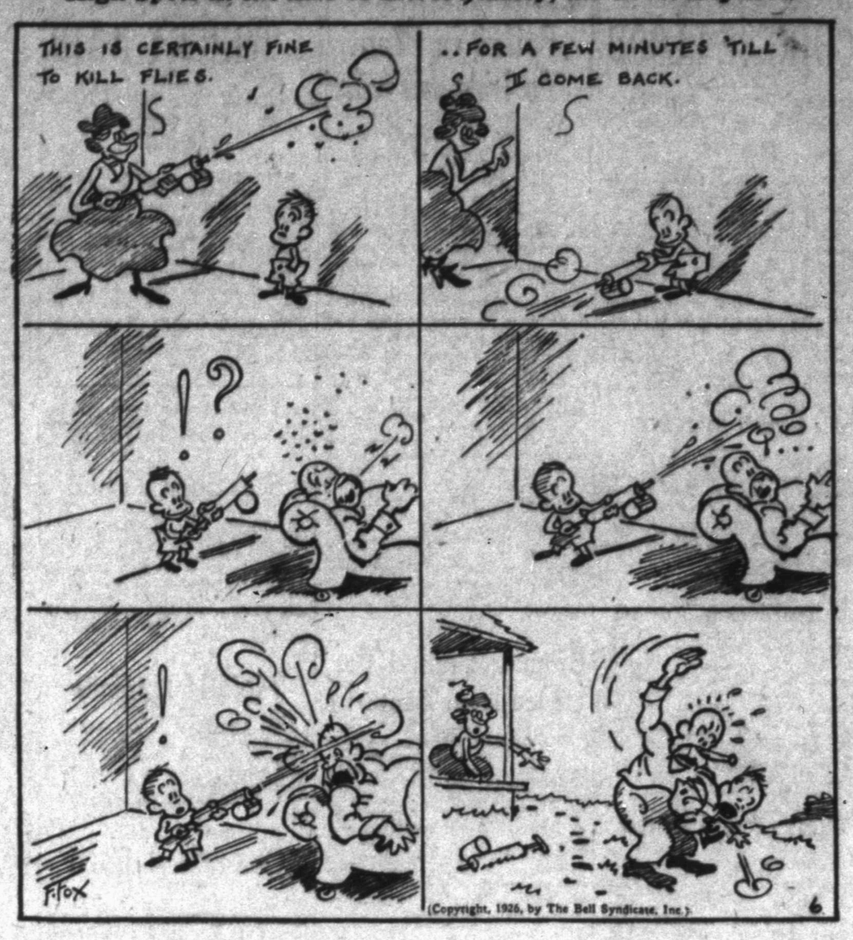

POET ANNOUNCES MARRIAGE

EDWARD DAVISON, the poet, who recently married Natalie Weiner, a former newspaper woman, announced the event by the following sonnet:

EPITHALAMION

The Anglo-American friendship to cement
In such a mode as can incur no blame
Natalie Weiner lately changed her name
To Davison with the young man's consent.
Cherishing her, 'tis his declared intent
Vice to eschew, the devil to disclaim;
She vows to make it her eternal aim
To be forgiving and obedient.
Free from all taint of the Bohemian sins,
In grave austerity they came to mate;
Suffice that their happiness begins
With promise of Conjugality
Blessed by Religion, licensed by the state,
And sanctioned by Respectability.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR.

Bee wrenched her arm free, and hurried away. Once in the subway, standing alone in the shadows of a steel vestibule, she opened her vanity case and looked into the little mirror at two blazing eyes and a distinctly reddened nose, the last of which she promptly powdered. "No sense in getting mad," ran her still confused thoughts. "But darn it, he makes me mad! Why can't he let me alone!" She clung to a hand-rail, swaying, and stared out at the dim steel posts of the tunnel that flitted past like fence-pickets. "Of course it's absurd to stand there on Broadway and fight. What's become of my savoir faire, anyway? I'll put him out of my mind. And keep him out."

The war had scarred him. How long ago it seemed! She had been a high school girl then, but a fiery little patriot. And she had read the post-war books voraciously—on Mesopotamia and its horrors on Allenby in the slaughter along the French front. And later, when she first met Fred, who was younger and slimmer then and not prosperous, but always with those restless attractive eyes, she had devoured books on the exploits of the flying men—There must be, she reflected moodily, a lot of men like him scattered about in prosaic business life. Men with vivid, unvoicable memories: seared, world-old young men—especially the aviators. A picked lot, those aviators; lonely, careless, fighting men, dropping along the battle-gashed fronts like flies, but laughing at death as they fell.

At five o'clock on the following afternoon Louise gathered the various papers on her desk, placed them in manilla folders and put them away in a filing drawer. She couldn't abide coming to a littered desk in the morning.

The door opened a little way, and Wilbur's pale face appeared. Lou winced, then smiled.

"Have you a minute to look at these drawings?" he asked. Why couldn't he bring them right in? There was something pitiful in his hesitation. It was a form of selfconsciousness, of course. He was an artist. Not much of an artist, to be sure—not yet. It was a question whether he ever would be. Still, he was cursed with the temperament, poor fellow. Out of place in business, but useful there, and somehow a part of the merciless machine.

"Surely," she replied with outer cheer. "Come in."

He spread the water-color sketches. She thought them excellent.

"There's another thing—" he began. She had suspected that, and inwardly braced herself.

"It's only that—well, I—I got this today."

He produced a small white box and opened it. She saw a diamond set in a platinum ring. He evidently couldn't say more at the moment, but stood there holding it out in slender fingers that trembled.

"I wonder if that was wise," she remarked in her cool way. But she didn't feel cool. The purchase must have just about stripped his slender savings. It wasn't a cheap stone. Very likely he was paying installments.

"I'm sure it was." He spoke with nervous eagerness. "As I explained to you. I've got to go through with it. You don't know how she can probe into things. A thing like this, that means so much to her. If I didn't go through all the motions she'd surely find me out. You don't know. Maybe she'll find me out, anyway." How dismal he was! "And I've wondered Lou . . . You did say . . . Oh. I realize how mean it is to ask so much of you. It isn't fair. If I wasn't at my wit's end I'd never—"

"What is it, Wilbur? What do you want me to do?"

"Well—" He swallowed. "Well, if you could, just this once, let me take you to dinner with her, and—"

"I did promise to go through that, didn't I?" mused Lou.

"Oh Lou, you don't know how wonderful—"

"When do you want to do it?"

"Well, you see, I told her last week, and she's been at me every minute. It's taking just about all the nerve I've got. She's even been coming in and talking to me in the night. She can't sleep, you see. It's pretty wearing on us both. And I've thought that if only—well, if we could do it pretty soon—maybe—say this week sometime, or perhaps—tonight. You see, I'm afraid that if I can't put the thing on a definite footing pretty soon, it may—well, sort of wear me out. You see—"

"Lock your door at night," offered Lou. "You've got to have your sleep."

"It wouldn't do much good, I'm afraid. She'd talk through the door. When Mother's excited about a thing, she never lets go. You don't know. And she's always excited about me, anyway. But this—"

"All right," said Lou crisply. "We'll go tonight. Better just make a job of it, Wilbur. I'm game."

"It's perfectly great of you, Lou! And—well, I've wondered if you'd—"

"What?"

"Well, just so it would be sort of unanswerable to her, Lou—I mean if you'd wear the ring—"

She tapped thoughtfully on the desk, considering the old situation with knit brows brusquely: "All right, Wilbur Give it here. I'll carry it in my bag and put it on just before we get there. But I'd like to wait here awhile, if you don't mind. It'll be as well not to see her until just before dinner. The less we have to talk the better. I make it a rule not to lie any more than I have to."

"All right. But—if you think it'll be all right, I'll—just call her up first."

"Oh, surely! Prepare her mind for it. I confess—" Lou drummed the desk again. "I never tried to act a part before. I've usually been what I feel and said what I meant."

"Of course, if it's going to be too hard for you, I wouldn't—I realize that I'm—"

"Shucks! We're in now. The thing is to carry it off."

DOROTHY DIX

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

From Business Men and Matrimonial Bureaus Comes the News that Beauties are No Longer in Demand—"And," Adds Dorothy Dix, "The Plain Girl Usually Makes a Better Wife—It Doesn't Do to Take a Woman on Her Face Value."

Cheer up, ye maidens who are not conspicuously endowed with the fatal gift of beauty! There are indications that the living picture is going to be turned to the wall, and that the plain-faced girl is about to come into her own at last.

The manager of a circuit of motion picture shows has posted up a notice that no Venuses need apply for jobs as cashiers in his theatres. He says that the beauties waste too much time in flirting with young men who hang around their boxes and obstruct trade, and that they are more interested in their looks than they are in making the right change, whereas the girl who isn't sufficiently pulchritudious to attract attention, and who doesn't expect her face to make her fortune, gets right down to business and is worth half a dozen good lookers.

That is good news, for, heretofore a peaches and cream complexion, combined with a willowy figure and a boyish bob, has been more potent in getting a girl a good situation than a knowledge of how to spell or add up a column of figures correctly, or an ability to sell goods.

However, the best is still to come. The editor of a matrimonial paper in which men advertise for wives says that his patrons seldom mention beauty among the qualities they demand in a wife and frequently state that they prefer homely girls to pretty ones.

What do you think of that? Isn't that the rainbow of hope, and the Balm of Gilead, and all the other consoling things that you can think of? Also, isn't it an indication that men are beginning to show very nearly human intelligence when they commence realizing that it is the plain girl, and not the beauty, who is the preferred matrimonial risk?

One of the reasons why there are so many divorces is because, in selecting their wives, men have only looked at the outside of girls' heads, and if they were sufficiently painted, and calsomined, and otherwise adored they have not taken the trouble to try to find out how the said head was furnished inside with brains. Nor, if a girl's figure was lissome and straight fronted and graceful, have they stopped to investigate whether there was a warm and loving and generous heart beneath those entrancing curves.

And often there was neither intelligence nor affection, for the beauty is likely to have all of her goods in the show window, and when the man got tired of his pretty baby doll and wanted a wife who was a real companion and a helpmate, and upon whose unselfish devotion he could depend, he found that he hadn't gotten it. Wherefore he shrieked loudly, "Stung," and rushed for the divorce court, or else went about with the air of an early Christian martyr the balance of his life.

I'M THE GINK

I'm the mother-in-law ginkette who is constantly suggesting to my son-in-law that he isn't doing as much for my daughter as he should. I never come out with the statement. I just ask him if he heard about the new car that Jimmy Jones bought his wife, or if he knows that Frank Smith bought his wife a new fur coat. Of course my son-in-law is embarrassed. He is a young fellow just getting started but I don't care. I take a delight in pointing out what others are doing if it happens to be superior to his own efforts.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

STILL A ROSE

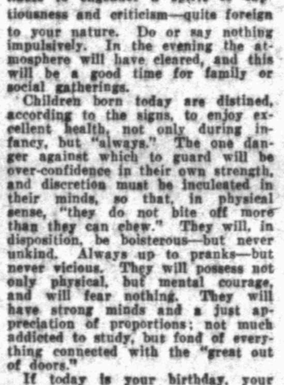

You never loved and love in vain,
Although the loved may give you pain;
For you have this, who truly love,
The rest can never rob you of:
Whatever other love has flown,
You have the splendor of your own.

For I am certain no one cares,
Ore even hungers unawares,
But that the soul has greater worth,
Feels more of heaven, less of earth.
The fire refines and leaves the gold,
Aye, even when the fire is cold.

There are some moments sharply sweet
That time itself cannot repeat,
And yet our hearts they alchemize
And better fit us for the skies.
A sense of God's great love we gain
By loving, though we love in vain.

The love we win we often lose,
When those we loved their love refuse;
But, when the passer onward goes,
The garden rose is still a rose;
This much I know the more I live:
We only keep the love we give.

WILLIE WILLIS

"I could of made a good Robinson Crusoe suit out of that old fur coat of mama's grandmother's, but she wanted to know what I wanted the scissors for."

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

LEO.

Today's planetary aspects are quite adverse, and not until after sundown, do they show any signs of favorable import. It is an inauspicious occasion for travel, or for doing anything out of the ordinary, as it will be found difficult enough to attend conscientiously to routine work. You are liable to feel grouchy and dissatisfied—not alone with others, but with yourself. The influences are liable to engender a spirit of captiousness and criticism—quite foreign to your nature. Do or say nothing impulsively. In the evening the atmosphere will have cleared, and this will be a good time for family or social gatherings.

Children born today are distined, according to the signs, to enjoy excellent health, not only during infancy, but "always." The one danger against which to guard will be over-confidence in their own strength, and discretion must be inculcated in their minds, so that, in physical sense, "they do not bite off more than they can chew." They will, in disposition, be boisterous—but never unkind. Always up to pranks—but never vicious. They will possess not only physical, but mental courage, and will fear nothing. They will have strong minds and a just appreciation of proportions; not much addicted to study, but fond of everything connected with the "great out of doors."

If today is your birthday, your temperament is a very difficult one, and you are emotional to the nth degree, and, at times, tempestuous. Very few people feel at ease in your presence as no one knows which way the cat will jump. You can, if you only so desire, make yourself very charming. On the other hand, you do without the slightest provocation—make yourself very objectionable, at other times. You are a human volcano—not always in a state of eruption, but liable to become so without warning or advice.

You are ambitious for social and intellectual betterment, read with avidity, converse fluently, and envince great interest in club and social life. You like to lead, but as consistency is essential to good leadership, you never succeed in gaining many followers. Your mate, if happiness is your "desideratum," should be one who can help you to control your impulsive vagaries.

Successful people born this date are: Solomon Van Rensselaer, soldier-congressman; James Brewster, manufacturer; John H. Wheeler, historian of North Carolina; Samuel P. Carter, naval officer and soldier; George T. Maxwell, physician; Tarkington Baker, editor and author.

MODESTY.
By Harris T. Redholz.

The girl looked very young and innocent to be a bandit, but she prodded Smith with a very business like revolver.
"Come on,' 'she snapped. "Shell out! Give me your money, and your watch."
She backed her victim into the alley.
"Sure," said Smith obligingly. "Here they are. And you'll want my hat, of course. It's new—I just paid eight dollars for it. My shoes are in good condition—wait while I take 'em off."
"Well—I—I suppose so," sighed the bobbed-haired bandit. "I hate to do it, but I'm in this game for the money. Take off your shoes, and put your watch and money in them—and the hat, too."
"And this suit," said Smith, working rapidly. "It's a new suit—worth fifty dollars!" He took it off, and the girl turned pale. "This silk shirt's worth something, and you can have my collar and tie. Now the underwear——"
The revolver clattered to the sidewalk.
"Help!" she screamed. "Help! POLICE!"

FADING GOLDFISH

Have you noticed that the beautifully tinted, red-gold goldfish which you bought at the store and feed little papery flakes to every morning sometimes gradually fade out and turn a dingy silver and finally a leaden? No healthy goldfish would behave in this disgraceful way. Some ingenious discovered that not only could you dye carnations green and sweet peas orange, but that you could take common ordinary carp and tint them into nice little Japanese goldfish. Very pretty while it lasts.

Now what do you know about that?

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE

An East Sider of foreign birth and short term residence in this country prospered to the extent where he graduated from the ranks of the Forsythe street sidewalk merchants and became a regular business man, with a store and show cases and everything. Also, for the first time in his life he was able to start a bank account.

One day he was engaged on the telephone by the assistant cashier of the bank where he kept his checking fund.

"Mr. Abrams," stated the cashier, "I called you up to tell you that on the first day of this month your account appears overdrawn $103."

"So?" droned Mr. Abrams. "Say, young man, would you do it for me a favor?"

"Sure."

"Then, please, you should look at your books and tell me how stood the account on the foist day of last month."

In a minute or two the bank functionary was back at the phone.

"Oh, Mr. Abrams," he said, "on the first day of last month you had a balance to your credit of $322.25."

"So!" shouted Mr. Abrams, "Und did I call you up?"

Wanted: St. Patrick

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—The impression evidently has been gained in some sections of other states that Texas is in need of a St. Patrick to drive out the snakes.

"We have reports from all sections and in only a few non-populous counties are no plans being made for the second primary," Mr. Hamblem said. SPUDDERS WIN HOUSTON FINAL

LaFayette, Benton, Lapan Slug Way to 10-9 Victory

Wichita Falls copped the final game of the Buff series yesterday in Houston, 10 to 9, in a battle featured by heavy hitting and copious miscues. Neither Jim Roberts nor Jake Jacobus, starting hurlers, were effective. Three players on each team secured three hits each. They were LaFayette, Benton and Lapan of the Spudders, Bailey, Brovold and Burns of Houston.

Lapan drove in four and Benton three of the Spudder runs.

Start Early.

The Spudders opened with a four-run crash in the first frame, scored again in the second and then kept on plugging away, never being overhauled, although Houston menaced severely in the seventh with a four-run barrage. The Buffs had already tagged a trio of markers. But Wichita Falls came back in the eighth and sewed up the melee by tabulating two more.

LaFayette started the game with a single. As remarked in these columns before, Laffy was due to get started hitting on this trip. The new first sacker came through nicely yesterday in fact has been coming right along lately.

Turgeon followed LaFayette's blow with a hoist to left. Jenkins walked and Lamb flied out to right. Benton doubled to center, scoring both LaFayette and Jenkins. Metzler and DeFate walked. Lapan singled, scoring Benton and Metzler. Roberts fanned. The Spudders had batted around.

Laffy Again.

LaFayette opened the second with a bingle and advanced to third on Turgeon's sacrifice and Jenkins' infield out. Lamb walked and Benton singled the score across.

The Spudders held the upper hand the rest of the way.

Houston got to Jim for a couple of runs in the fourth and another in the fifth but skipped the sixth. The big fellow got in bad in the seventh and gave way to Kiefer. Joe took a little biffing and Estell had to be hauled before the game was over.

The Spuds are in Beaumont today.

Cards Nose Robins, 11-9, in Ten Rounds

BROOKLYN, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The Cardinals made it two straight over the Robins by winning a ten-inning battle 11 to 9 today. St. Louis launched a batting attack in the final session, scoring four runs. In its half Brooklyn scored two runs, one a homer by Wheat with none on base. Manager Hornsby of the Cardinals became involved in an altercation with a fan seated behind the St. Louis dugout in the eighth inning and was prevented from climbing into the stand after his tormentor by Umpire Frank Wilson.

NET RAILROAD INCOME IN TEXAS DECREASES

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The net operation income for Texas railroads for the quarter ending April 30, was $7,282,025, a decrease of approximately 19 per cent compared with the same period for 1925, the railway commission announced Thursday.

Jack Kearns says that he told Tex Rickard to send the wire "Collect" when Tex telegraphed Jess Willard an offer for a battle with Jack Dempsey.

BENEFITS BY COBB'S PASSING
Fothergill, Now Regular, Finds Himself as Player

It has been several years now since Ty Cobb began "retiring" from the lineup of the Detroit Tigers, the team for which he has been the mainspring for over 20 years.

Each season, too, has seen someone pointed to take Cobb's job in center to fill his place in the Tiger outfield.

Bob Fothergill was one of these. Heinie Manush was another. There have been half a dozen others who came well heralded and passed unnoticed. In the interim Cobb has done, shall we say a fair job of outfielding himself.

This year, however, Cobb has taken himself out of the lineup. He is firm in his desire, apparently, to see the Tiger outfield function properly without him. He knows that it is inevitable that the team must play without him and wants to see his outfild "made" before he is forced to remain out entirely.

There can be little criticism indeed at the outfield combination he now has, with Harry Heilmann, Manush and Fothergill forming the trio.

Of these three the work of Fothergill is probably the most interesting. Heilmann has been recognied as a star for lo, these many moons. He has worn the league batting title on occasions. This in an era of lefthand batters while he swings from the third base side.

Manuish's speed afoot and Cobb's liking for his general style has presaged big things for him ever since he joined the team. Fothergill, on the other hand, has had to battle gamely to prove that he is an A. 1. ball player—capable of holding down a regular berth.

Injected into the outfield for indefinite periods Fothergill has shown flashes of real playing. One thing must be said for him. His batting has never been poor. He did lack, however, some steadiness in the outfield.

But last spring Cobb asigned him to left field. There he has stayed much of the time.

But last spring Cobb made it clear that Bob was to have a regular berth in the outfild. Fothergill, asured of this, settled down to play his best game. Set on keeping him in the lineup Cobb devoted much time to helping him take the rough edges off his fielding.

And now Bob is carrying his end in one of the best, if not the best outfild in the majors. As far as batting is concerned the trio tops the list. Recent averages showed them turning in a group of averages unexcelled in either league. Heilmann is batting around .350, Manush .375 and Fothergill boasts of the startling average of about .410. These, of course, may fluctuate a bit as the averages are issued.

Fothergill attracted Cobb's attention while serving his novitiate with the Bloomington team in the Three-Eye league in 1920. He hit over .500 that year. The Tigers purchased him and farmed him to Rochester where he proceeded to collect a .338 average. He showed Cobb his stuff for part of the 1922 season and then went back to Rochester, to hit close to .400 for the rest of the season. Then he was asigned a locker with the Detroit team.

Fothergill gives one the impression of being "hog fat." He is of medium height and carries 185 pounds of weight but this does not handicap him at bat or afield, apparently. He is a good man to have on a ball club as far as temperament goes. Which means much in these days of prima donnas and salary brokers.

Panthers Divide With Exporters

BEAUMONT, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The Exporters and Cats divided a twin bill today when Fillingim won his fourteenth game of the year 11 to 9, in the opening game but Sam Ross was beaten for the first time this year by the Panthers, by a 4 to 4 win in the short game. The Cats came through with pinch homers in the ninth inning of the first game, three of them following passes for six runs, but the locals had amassed a big lead that was started when Fillingim hit one oiff of the park with the bases loaded in the second inning. The second game was won by a rally of four unearned runs in the fifth inning after the Exporters had clouted Bird freely. The Exporters ran their double play total to 154 for the season with three in the first game but missed two more in the second.

Bruins Tag It On Sports, 6 to 1, While Steers Lose

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 5.—(AP)—San Antonio evened the series with Shreveport Thursday, by scoring six runs while the Sports got one, and returned to first place as Dallas lost.

Jim Lindsey was effective in every inning but the third, when the Sports made their only score. The Bears sandwiched two triples with a single and an error in the second for a lead that proved sufficient, but added three more in the sixth when Gleason lost control. He issued three passes to force in two runs, after which Cantrell took the hill and held the Bears the rest of the game.

BUD WILL BE ALL-AMERICA

That's What Earl Mayfield Thinks of Sprague's Grid Ability

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—(AP)—"Big Bud" Sprague of Dallas, former Texas university star, will be a practically unanimous choice for all-American tackle laurels at conclusion of the 1926 campaign in the opinion of United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield.

This fall Sprague will play his second season for West Point. Last season he was conceded one of the outstanding tackles in the country. He was appointed to the United States military academy by Senator Mayfield.

"I saw Sprague in the Army-Navy game of 1925, and he turned in a wonderful game," Senator Mayfield told the Associated Press. "Eastern gridiron critics realize he is one of the most promising forwards of years."

Sprague was the most valuable player on the 1925 Texas University eleven being an unanimous choice for all-southwest tackle.

The red-haired lad from Dallas in top form weighs around 205 pounds, and runs a hundred yards in close to ten seconds.

When it was announced Sprague was going to West Point, "Doc" Stewart, Longhorn coach, predicted he would make the all-American combination.

Brilliant Net Career Slated for Allison

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Prediction of a brilliant net career for Wilmer Allison, Texas university freshman tennis player was made Thursday by Albert Love and Edward Mather, who represented the university in the intercollegiate net tourney in June.

They recently returned to their home here. Love pointed out that in one of the big eastern tournament Allison defeated John Barr, Southern Methodist university star and holder of the southwest conference singles title.

Allison will be eligible for the Longhorn team next season, and is expected to be Barr's most formidable opponent for conference honors.

Panhandle Biffs Firemen, 14 to 3

The Panhandle baseball team took a wild and jumbled game from the Wichita Falls fire department team Thursday afternoon.

Panhandle club emerged the victor by a 14 to 3 score after nine innings of fumbles, boots, wild pitches, base hits, batting out of turn, shifting positions, and letting Freddie Boone, the base umpire go in as a pinch hitter in the ninth.

Something like a dozen miscues were pulled by the firemen while the Langhorns played almost airtight ball behind McDuffy, Randolph and Hatton. Nice catches were turned in by Hebern, of the firemen, Hamm and Hinds of the Panhandle club.

Hargrove and Rawls led the Panhandle attack with two hits while Parker and Carter slapped out a pair for the firemen. Parker pitched good ball for the firemen, but ragged support proved his downfall.

McDuffy hurled the first four innings for Panhandle and only one safe hit was gleaned from his slants, this a single by Parker that Graves lost in the sun and let fall in front of him.

Gorman Disqualified in Romonoff Match Much To Chargin Of Fandom

But Jonathan Public, as Usual, Is Exceedingly Moist—Tommy Record Fights Uphill Battle to Defeat Joe Kopher

BY BLONDY CROSS.

Jack Gorman lost to Billy Romonoff on a foul!

Rather a series of fouls!

Whereupon, hard-boiled wrasseling fans, including a host of narrow minds, also a number of well-meaning but greatly misled enthusiasts, became exceedingly miffed, venting loud and boisterous wrath on the head of little Tommy Record, referee in the main tiff of the Wichita Falls mat association's card last night at the Eleventh and Ohio arena.

Hurrah for the Yappers!

That's human nature at its best and its worst.

You can give the other fellow the razzberries and make him like it. Just so long as your man wins all is well. Such is a leading trait of the great American sports public.

But let the favorite meet disaster; allow him to be defeated at his own game - - - then, the world is all wrong! Or rather, that particular portion of terra firma which may have been involved in the force that turns the tide against the popular idol.

Gorman, weighing in at 137 and a half pounds, surprised close students of wrestling last night by taking the first fall of a stormy melee from Billy Romonoff, one of the world's greatest exponents of wrestling at the 145-pound limit.

But Jack, the favorite, Jack, the Wichita Falls idol, lost ground steadily on the return engagement until Jack, in apparent desperation, tossed caution and wrestling ethics to the breezes, indulged in every method of fouling within the category of dirty grappling. Jack, the idol, put the irrepressible Dutch Mantell, Amarillo's orang outang, to shame, gouging, biting and slugging furiously all the way. Momentarily he was given tit for tat, so to speak, eventually losing the second fall. Hardly had the combatants resumed hostilities before Gorman tore loose with the eye-gouging and biting tactics again. Romonoff retaliated in that he resorted to short-arm jolts to the face and short ribs.

Biting and Kicking

Referee Record halted the match at one stage and cautioned the wrestlers, declaring the first man who displayed further unfair tactics would be disqualified immediately. Record had cautioned both men several times before and Record cautioned them again on a number of occasions before Gorman, the real malefactor was pulled from a mess of arms and legs in the midst of a biting and kicking orgy and sent to his corner bearing the stigma of disqualification.

Then 50 per cent or so of noble fandom reared up on its hind extremities and yowled malicious jeers at Tommy Record, spat venomous invectives and accusals at Tommy—not because he had brought to a sudden halt a sensational and thoroughly blood-tingling exhibition, not because he had stopped the match after a flagrant fouling, but because one other than the pride of Wichita Falls, one other than Jack Gorman, the favorite, had been awarded the decision.

Good Match, All Right.

For an all-around nip and tuck, thrilling encounter no better match could have been staged. The mill was fast all the way. It was scientific and fraught with the spectacular, especially prior to the initial fall, a period mixed with flying flops and heaves into, through and over the ropes. The going was fast and Romonoff had a bit the better of the opening hostilities, but Gorman, outweighed and outsmarted, was not outfought. And it was his ever-willingness to bore in and battle to the limit that brought him first honors via a combination of tumbles followed with a reverse flying head lock applied to a befuddled, in fact, groggy opponent. The time was 16 minutes.

On the return, Romonoff got away with a brace of trigger arm locks that seemingly wore Gorman, both physically and mentally, into desperation. After worming out of both applications Gorman STARTED the rough stuff. From there on neither wrestler was above reproach in his performance. Gorman was the aggressor in use of the foul tactics, but Romonoff came back in spurts with the same style of battle, however, never resorting to biting and gouging. He kicked and slugged at intervals. In other words, both became dirty.

Romonoff copped the fall in 10 minutes with a flying headscissors, the first enacted on the local mat since return of the game to Wichita Falls nearly two years ago.

Coming back for the third fall, Gorman bore in furiously. Hardly had the men gone to the canvas before Jack was guilty of an attempt at gouging. Romonoff retailiated as best he could with a crack to the midriff. What would you have?

Repeated cautioning by Record fell on deaf ears. He stopped the bout after six minutes of fighting and uttered an ultimatum viz. "You fellows stop this rough stuff! The first one who does it again will be disqualified!"

Tough on Jack.

Unfortunately for Gorman, he was "the first one to do it again!" The final set-to had gone eight minutes when stopped.

Gorman, naturally, is dissatisfied. He sent word after the match: "Tell Blondy I got a dirty deal."

Jack did NOT get a dirty deal. He was just too quick to foul again. Had he waited it's an even shot Romonoff may have been "the first to do it again." Jack didn't use his head.

A return match is in order, however. Import some 280-pound referee who won't disqualify anybody but who will grab 'em by the ear and pull 'em apart every time one or the other gets naughty and then you'll have a sure-fire crowd pleaser.

Record wrestled the preliminary with Joe Kopher. Kopher, a bit heavier than Tommy, won the first fall of a scientific and exceptionally clean bout in 22 minutes with a step-over toe hold. Record fought an uphill battle on the return, winning the second fall with a reverse arm bar in ten minutes. He captured the deciding fall in 22 minutes with a flying headlock.

Hudlen Robbed Of Shutout in Final

WACO, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Willie Hudlin, the Cubs high school pitcher from Wagoner, Okla., pitched his last game of the season for the locals here today and Riley deprived him of a shutout victory by hitting a fluke home run in the ninth, the score being 6 to 1 in favor of Waco. Hudlin leaves tomorrow to join the Cleveland Indians. Today's victory makes the 16th victory for Hudlin with the cellar Waco club and shows that the high school star is deserving of a trial in faster company.

The Cubs got to Darrough in the second inning for two runs and in the sixth with one on base, Briscoe hit a home run. The score:

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A further decline was followed by rallies in the cotton market here today on covering and trade buying. December sold up from 17.12 to 17.34 and closed at 17.21 compared with 17.20 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at a net advance of one to tko points.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of five to six points and active months soon showed net losses of seven to nine points under a renewal of liquidation and local selling stimulated by favorable weather reports and relatively easy Liverpool cables. October eased off to 17.17 and January touched the same price while the market was under this pressure, making reactions of about 80 points from recent levels.

The market showed considerable firmness during the middle of the day with October selling up to 17.42 and January to 17.38, making net advances of about 12 to 15 points. Later offerings increased somewhat and there was some selling believed to be for Wall Street account accompanied by rumors that bearish private condition of crop figures compiled by one of the local authorities might be expected tomorrow. Last prices showed reactions of some 10 or 12 points from the best. Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool to American and continental selling on the favorable weather, but said there was fair trade calling.

A feature of the trading here which attracted more or less comment was the appearance of increased buying orders as prices approached the 17c level on the early decline which were supposed to rep resent pric fixing for the trade.

Exports today 5,118 bales, making 26,-883 so far this season. Port receipts 4,068. U. S. port stocks 685,007 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The cotton market was fairly active today and prices fluctuated in arather broader range although there was a lack of definite trend. The trading was largely in the way of evening up commitments in advance of the government report due on Monday. After an early decline of 6 to 7 points owing to favorable weather reports the market turned firmer on rather free covering by shorts in advance of the bureau and advanced 22 to 24 points from the lows before the upward movement was checked. During the early afternoon prices reacted 15 to 17 points from the highs on selling induced by favorable weather advices in the noon reports but after this selling had run its course the market rallied six to eight points and closed steady, showing net gains for the day of seven to eight points on active trading months.

There were no additional private crop reports released today and sentiment was said to be somewhat uncertain as to what the government will show in its forthcoming report.

At the start Liverpool was a shade better than due but prices opened two to three points down and lost a little additional in the early trading on the good weather in the belt. October trading down to 17.05. December to 16.91 and January to 16.90, or six to seven points under the close of yesterday. These proved to be the low points of the day.

The market later in the morning rallied rather sharply and continued to improve on shorts covering in advance of the bureau until after mid-session October traded as high as 17.27, December at 17.16 and January at 17.12, or 22 to 24 points up from the lows. An afternoon reaction on good weather in the belt caused prices to lose 15 to 17 points of the advance but the market rallied again about six to eight points in the late trading and established a moderate net gain for the day. Exports for the day totaled 5,118 bales.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Stock prices drifted lower today as the market resumed the correction of the weakened technical position resulting from the recent rapid and sustained advance in many issues. While some bear selling and profit-taking undoubtedly was inspired by the marking up of the cal money rate from 4 to 4½ per cent, the reaction was not generally associated with anything in the day's news which, in the main, was again favorable. Trding showed a marked falling off in volume, the day's sales aggregating 1,725,-900 shares, as compared with 2,515,100 yesterday and 2,715,000 the day before.

Despite the reactionary trend in the general list, active bidding continued for a few selected specialties. Case Threshing machine was the individual feature, scoring an extreme gain of 22 points by touching a new high record of 169, as compared with al ow of 62½ earlier in the year.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Rapid progress of harvest northward with some new wheat already loaded in Canada did a good deal today to give wheat values a downward swing. The wheat market closed heavy, ⅝ to ⅞c net lower, corn at ¼c decline to ⅝c advance, oats ⅜ to ⅝c down and provicions varying from 40c off to 17c gain.

With harvest nearing completion in the more advanced sections of the American northwest, the movement of the spring crop is increasing. Threshing returns are mixed, but reports of wheat yields better than expected in parts of the domestic spring crop belt were a bearish factor.

Although commission houses were fairly good buyers of wheat today on downturns in price, the market most of the time acted tired. Export demand for North American wheatw as described as slow, with business smaller than yesterday. Premiums however, at the Gulf of Mexico were firm. Some Illinois wheat testing 16 to 20 per cent moisture sold here today at 9 to 20c under the September price.

Corn rallied in the late trade, hot weather over the greater portion of the corn belt acting as a stimulus to buy. Oats traders took their cue from wheat. Most of the provisions list was higher, helped by an upturn in the value of hogs.

STOCK-A-DAY

The Maine Central Railroad operates 1,155 miles of road in Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and New Brunswick. The company was originally a consolidation of the Penobscot and Kennebec and the Androscoggin and Kennebec roads and the company has acquired or leased some 16 other carriers. The company maintains a regular marine service for distributing and collecting summer travel and a car ferry across the Kennebec river at Bath.

Little change has taken place in revenue frieght tonnage in the last 10 years. Products of farms and forests have decreased and products of factories and mines have increased. Freight train load has increased, however, and so has freight revenue per train mile. Total operating revenue rose 65 per cent in the 10 year period but expenses also advanced.

Funded debt totals $26,312,300. Capital stock outstanding consists of $3,-000,000 in 5 per cent cumulative shares preferred of $100 par and $12,-006,900 in common shares of $100 par. Net income in 1925 was $1,177,-000 approximating pre war results for the first time and was well ahead of earnings for the previous seven years. Over 39 per cent was earned on the preferred stock in 1925 and 8.34 on the common.

Dividends were paid on both classes of stock from 1884 but were discontinued in 1920. Payments on the preferred were resumed in 1924 and accumulations which had reached $20 a share were finally paid off March 1, 1926 and regular dividends at the quarterly rate of 1 1-2 per cent have been paid since. Dividends on the common were resumed with a special $1 a sare payment June 15, 1926. President McDonald said further common dividends would be paid as earnings and cash position warranted.

HASKELL NEWS

HASKELL, Aug. 5.—A unique affair was that of the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Pinkerton at their country home last Wednesday evening. Unique because, although everything was in order for a formal anniversary tea, the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton knew nothing of it until a half hour before the house party arrived. Their daughter, Mrs. Wayne Koonce and her husband were host and hostess and so planned that Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton spent the entire day away from home and on their return late in the evening, found everything in readiness for the celebation, with a beautiful white gown for the "bride", a gift from Mrs. Koonce. At the appointed hour, guests from both Haskell and Rule began to arrive and were met by the pages, Mark Walthall and Killian Kaigler, who directed them to the right entrance where they were greeted by Mesdames Joe Jones and Mamie Barron who introduced them to the host and hostess and the honoree and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Pinkerton, Mrs. C. M. Pinkerton, Mrs. George Morrison, J. F. Morrison, Mrs. Eal Lusk of Oklahoma City, who composed the first receiving line. They were then directed to the punch bowl by Mrs. J. P. Payne and served punch by Miss Martha Barnum of Fort Worth and Miss Louise Kaigler. They were introduced to the second line by Mrs. Marlin Wilson who were: Joe Jones, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Pace, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lindsey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Alexander of El Paso, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Post, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Post, Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Alexander of Stamford, Mrs. D. L. Cummins, Mrs. Ethel Irby, and Misses Lora Hills and Nettie McCollum. From here they were shown the way to the dining room by Miss Lucile Taylor where Mrs. J. F. Morrison presided over the following girls: Gladys Connor, Pauline Walthall, Nancy Guest and Bessie Bee Kaigler who served a refreshment plate, carrying tube roses of brick ice cream and angel food cake in white and green, which echoed the color scheme.

From the dining room Miss Lois Earnest escorted the guests to the guest book, presided over by Mrs. Theron Cahill and then to the beautiful display of silverware, where Misses Marguerite McCollum and Grace Spurlock took pleasure in showing the many and varied gifts. Mrs. Hill Coates stood at the side entrance and bade the guests good night. Violin and piano music was furnished throughout the evening by Mr. and Mrs. E. Raborn.

MRS. F. T. SANDERS MISSIONARY HOSTESS

The Woman's Missionary society of the Methodist church initiated the beautiful new suburban home of Mrs. F. T. Sanders last Monday afternoon in the regular summer meeting of that society. Mesdames H. M. Smith, R. J. Ernest and the hostess greeted the guests at the side entrance and they were directed to the dining room where they were served fruit punch by Mesdames E. Sutherlin and Elmer Irwin before being escorted to their seats where they enjoyed the program. Two of the most interesting chapters of the study course book were taught by Mesdames Mary Blawley and Bob Harrison. Mrs. S. R. Rike, the president, then urged that a chaperone and eight or more girls be sent to the North Texas Girls' camp, August 14-25, which is managed by Mrs. Tom C. DeLaney of Memphis, Texas. By special request, Mrs. J. W. Sowell, who has spent nearly a year in California, told of having visited a Wesley house and of attending Trinity church where the Rev. Bob Schuler is pastor. Then Mrs. J. U. Fields addressed the meeting. Other out-of-town guests who told of interesting facts about their Sunday schools or missionary work were: Mrs. Fred Alexander of El Paso and Mrs. W. C. Bickley of Abilene. Then a word of gratitude for the recovery from a recent illness and operation of Mrs. F. T. Sanders by Mrs. W. A. Kimbrough was responded to very feelingly by Mrs. Sanders. A social hour was observed and the social hostesses, Mesdames E. Sutherlin, Elmer Irwin, R. C. Montgomery, H. M. Smith, W. A. Kimbrough, assisted by the hostess, served iced water melons that were raised on the Sanders farm. The guests: Out-of-town guests, Mesdames Earl Lusk of Oklahoma City, W. C. WOMEN'S CLUBS MEET

On last Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Haskell County Federation of Women's clubs met with the Weinert ladies in the Weinert tabernacle. Mrs. H. Weinert presided. Miss Olga Bowman rendered a piano solo, Miss Veda May McClaren gave a reading, then Mrs. J. U. Fields gave her first report of the biennial at Atlantic City. Mrs. Warren of Munday, Knox county, told of some of the benefits of a county demonstrator and stated that Knox county was scheduled to have a county demonstration encampment the latter part of August. The president, Mrs. H. M. Smith then presided during the business session, and it was discussed and decided upon to have a flower show early in November. At that time the chrysanthemums will be in bloom and Haskell county grows beautiful fall roses, besides many varieties of cultivated flowers. The prime motive is to make flowers and trees grow where weeds now flourish and to this end there will be a seed and plant exchange department. Tuesday aftenoon was extremely warm and the Weinert ladies were very thoughtful in serving iced drinks throughout the afternoon.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Lon A. Smith, member of the Texas railroad commission, believed that certificates of necessity and convenience will be granted not only to the Texas Panhandle and Gulf railway, running from Fort Worth to Tucumcari, N. M., but to three other lines as well, he said here Thursday.

Appreciable Decrease Noted During Week In Oil Field Operations

OKLAHOMA IS ALONE IN GAIN

Wichita Falls Area Shows a Total of 315 Operations

Oil operations in the Mid-Continent fields, including north Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, reached a total of 3,877 during the week just ended the Oil Weekly wil say today.

All state fields show a decrease over the previous week, except Oklahoma, which increased slightly. The falling off in field work in north Texas and Kansas was sufficient, however, to bring the total for the entire Mid-Continent to a figure which is 87 less than that for the previous week.

In the north Texas district, the Panhandle area led with 602 operations, due to the intensive development of Carson, Hutchinson and Gray counties. Next in order came west Texas with 583, and the Wichita Falls area with 315.

Following is the table prepared by the Oil Weekly:

$65,000 Is Paid For Forty Acres

One of the largest acreage deals to be made for some months in the district was closed Thursday when L. P. (Pink) Hammond purchased 40 acres in Wichita county from the Saunders estate for a consideration of $65,000, half cash and half to be paid out of oil. The deal was handled by W. C. Witcher, guardian for Frances Ann Saunders.

The lease bought by Mr. Hammond is located in block 12, A. B. & M. survey, abstract 339, Saunders estate fee (formerly Ward and Todd) and consists of 40 acres offsetting to the south the Clark and Smith well, one mile west of Sunshine Hill, recently deepened from a shallow sand and now flowing 295 barrels daily from sand at 1861 to 1871 feet. The new owner has derrick timber on the lease and will drill an offset to the Clark well at once.

A report that Joe Howell of Electra had purchased a half interest in the Clark and Smith well on 25 acres for a consideration of $75,000 could not be verified Thursday afternoon.

Burns-Simms-Jones Have Wildcat Well

L. T. Burns, Simms Oil company and T. H. Jones have an estimated 25-barrel well with the possibility of a larger producer when deepened on their wildcat test on the Turbeville land in Archer county, located 536 feet from the north line and 549 feet from the east line of block 21, Jefferson county school lands, and about three miles southeast of the major pool, the nearest production to the new well.

Sand was topped in the new strike at 1010 feet and after having trouble in getting a casing seat, the hole was bailed from sand at 1010 to 1011 feet which tested dry. More sand was taken and at a depth of 1017 feet the well had 500 feet of oil in the hole Thursday noon.

The finding of oil in this test means the opening of another pool for old Archer county and will start renewed activity in an area that has been quiet for some time.

Continental Given Lien on Crusader

SHREVEPORT, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A $1,500,000 mortgage executed in St. Louis was filed in the district court here yesterday afternoon. The holdings of the Crusader Pipe Lines of Arkansas were given as security for the mortgage to the Continental Supply company.

The mortgage covers four notes bearing 7% per cent interest maturing Sept. 15.—1926.

The property of the Crusader company placed under motgage include a ten-inch pipe line extending from Norplet, Ark., to the west bank of the Mississippi river at Ferraday, La., a distance of 147 miles, pumping plants, power houses and other oil field equipment and a large acreage in Union and Ouichita counties, Arkansas, Richland, Franklin and Concordia parishes, Louisiana.

SAVE BEAUREGARD'S HOME

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. —(AP)—The home of Gen. P. G. T. Beauregard, distinguished Confederate officer, will not become a macaroni factory. When a company was about to purchase the ground on which the general's house stands for a factory, the Beauregard Memorial association agreed to purchase it and a first payment of $4,000 has bound the contract.

VOTE SLOW COMING IN

Democratic Committee Urges Lagging Counties to Shake a Leg.

HOUSTON, Aug. 5.—Official tabulation of returns from the recent primary is hindered by the fact that 22 counties have made no attempt to send in official returns, Richard T. Fleming, secretary of the state democratic executive committee, said Thursday.

Mr. Fleming Thursday received a telegram from Arthur Eidson, Hamilton, state chairman, asking him to urge all election officers and democratis generally to make official returns at once.

DEEPEST OIL WELL

OLINDA, Cal., Aug. 5.—(AP)—An oil well near here has been drilled to a depth of 7773 feet, said by oil men to be the world's record for deep drilling. DEEP TEST FOR KOSSE

KOSSE, Texas, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Construction of the steel derrick for a deep test on the Bassett lease, two and one half miles west of Kosse, was started Tuesday.

CRUDE IS CUT IN PANHANDLE

Sensational Increase of Pipeline Runs Given As Reason

AMARILLO, Aug. 5.—The oil industry's answer to the sensational advance of the Texas Panhandle field since February was made known Wednesday in no uncertain manner.

The Plains Pipe Line company announced a 20 cents a barrel cut in the posted market prices for the field, as follows:

Gravity—	New Price
28 to 28.9	$1.15
29 to 29.9	1.20
30 to 30.9	1.25
31 to 31.9	1.30
32 to 32.9	1.35
33 to 33.9	1.40
34 to 34.9	1.45
35 to 35.9	1.50
36 to 36.9	1.55
37 to 37.9	1.60
38 to 38.9	1.65
39 and above	1.70

Wednesday afternoon the Marland, Magnolia, Humble, Pantex, Gulf and other purchasers had not then met the new Plains reduction, but they were expected to do so.

Mid-Continent oil men familiar with the Texas Panhandle development, which has occurred at a very unusual rate, say that the crude cut was due to several factors: First of all is the apparent over-production now existing; second is the inadequate pipe line and storage condition; third is the great volume of drilling under way that may send the output to 100,000 barrels a day or greater, and fourth is the excess of wax and sulphur that makes treating the oil an expensive and bothersome factor.

How the Texas Panhandle field has grown in output is shown by the following figures compiled by A. F. Hinton of the National Petroleum News from pipe line runs there:

January 1	5,279
January 8	4,897
January 15	5,448
January 22	5,681

DRAW JURY FOR BRALLEY

Court To Be Transferred To Larger Room to Hold Crowd

A special panel of 36 names was drawn by Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk, from the jury wheel Thursday morning before Judge W. W. Cook to act as talesmen from which the jury for the trial of W. G. Bralley, Wichita county juvenile officer and candidate for sheriff, will be selected. Bralley is charged with aggravated assault in connection with an episode in the corridors of the court house Tuesday noon in which he is alleged to have used a gun in obtaining or attempting to obtain retraction from Fred Smith sheriff of certain alleged utterances. The jury panel was made returnable at nine o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, August 11, to Judge W. W. Cook, in the 78th district court room.

Names Not Published

Judge Cook will turn the men over to Judge C. M. McFarland of the county court at law, and the jury for the trial of the case will be selected from them. The jury, inasmuch as the offense charged is a misdemeanor, will contain but six men. The list of names drawn was handed to C. L. Bradford, constable, and instruction given him to permit none to see it prior to the trial.

Announcement of trial for Mr. Bralley for Wednesday of next week by the county attorney created considerable interest in Wichita Falls Thursday. Judge C. M. McFarland of the county court at law stated that inasmuch as large crowds would probably attend the proceedings one of the larger district court rooms on the third floor of the court house would be borrowed for the occasion.

Counsel for Defense

There was no announcement of the employment of additional counsel by the sheriff, Fred Smith, to aid Wayne Somerville, county attorney, in the prosecution of the charge against Mr. Bralley. Opposing Mr. Somerville and his assistants will be H. F. Weldon, Guy Rogers, Shields Heyser, H. R. Wilson, and J. T. Montgomery, all of whom have volunteered their services in defense of Mr. Bralley.

Bankers Get It But Farmers Don't

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 5.—A(P)—The basic principle of the farm relief bill defeated recently in congress is identical with the basic principle of the federal reserve bank law, said Walton Peteet, secretary of the national council of farmers. Sixty-four organizations here tonight including 3,000 rural visitors are attending the farmer's short course at the A. & M. college of Texas. In comparing the farm relief bill and the federal land bank law, the speaker pointed out that bill proposed capital funds for each of several of our basic agricultural commodities including cotton just as the bank law has established reservoirs of money resulting in the equlization and stabilization of our money and credit system.

Believe It or Not

RADIO SINGER WITH ROTARY

Talking Baritone Says Wireless Great Ad Medium

The Rotary club was entertained at the regular meeting Thursday at noon by Leland Johnson, "talking baritone" radio entertainer and concert pianist of station WFAA, who is here to open an engagement at a local theatre. Mr. Johnson sang, "Dinah," "Poor Papa," "Always," and "Nothing Else to Do."

In addition to his group of songs, he made a short talk on the radio. "It seems to me that radio is the greatest medium of advertising the world has ever known," he said, "but the radio without the newspaper is not a sound medium. The newspaper enlightens and impresses, and the two together are the strongest medium of advertising we ever had."

The Waxahachie Rotary club has issued a challenge to the Rotary clubs of the state for an attendance contest this year, it was announced by Albert Miles, president, who urged all local members to attend clubs while away on their vacations during the summer.

Guests were introduced by E. H. Eddleman and Walter H. Campbell was introduced as the "baby" Rotarian.

Richard Barthelmess And Dorothy McKail In "Ransom's Folly"

One of the most interesting and picturesque phases of national military history, namely life at a western army outpost during the Indian wars is given vivid portrayal on the screen in Richard Barthelmess' new picture, "Ranson's Folly," which comes today to the Strand theatre here.

"Ranson's Folly" is based on the celebrated novel by Richard Harding Davis, Dorothy Mackaill plays opposite the star.

Fort Crockett in the picture is represented as a United States cavalry post of 1885—the period which Frederick Remington made immortal with his highly colored drawings of Indian and army life. It was constructed in San Fernando Valley on a desert plain fringed by the glowing Santa Barbara mountains. There were 12 buildings used in this scene including soldiers' barricks, officers quarters, the post hall and post hospital etc., with Indian tepees on the outskirts and a horse corral.

The parade ground was three hundred feet long and permitted manouvers of an entire cavalry troop in the main scene. A troop of experienced ex-cavallymen was formed for the production, in command of Colonel C. C. Smith famous Indian fighter, who plays the role of Colonel Bolland in "Ranson's Folly." Colonel George L. Byram, who also won his spurs warring against the Indians, was engaged as technical and military advisor.

During production, the set presented a colorful scene with mounted troops in colorful uniforms, Indians with their squaws and papooses, six mule teams trains of pack mules coming in from the hills, and bucking broncbos in the corral. This life and color Director Sidney Olcott transplanted to the screen in "Ranson's Folly" with his usual deftness, and the result is a picture which every red-blooded and patriotic American will enjoy to the full.

VAN DEVENTER RECONSIDERS

Will Not Protest Nomination Of Avis on Expense Account

E. Van Deventer, defeated candidate in the race for a place as legislator from the 111th district, place 2, announced Thursday that he had made a definite decision not to contest the placing of the winner's name, J. D. Avis, on the ballot for the general election. The basis for the contest, which Mr. Van Deventer announced Wednesday he was considering, was to have been an alleged failure on Mr. Avis' part to comply with the law regarding filing of election returns.

Mr. Van Deventer, after conferring with his attorney Wednesday and Thursday, stated that "A strict construction of the law would probably serve to keep Mr. Avis' name from the ticket. I, however, have chosen to refrain from contesting the election on that ground."

Mr. Van Deventer ran second in a three-way race for the legislative post, place 2, district 111. J. D. Avis, incumbent, received a majority of the votes, Van Deventer was second, and H. L. Hooker, the other candidate, third.

SIN A HUSK SAYS PASTOR

Warns Youth of False Attractiveness in Wrong-Doing

"Are you a hog-tender for sin tonight, or a son of God?" challenged Burroughs A. Waltrip, boy evangelist in a keenly descriptive sermon Thursday evening on "The Straying Youth," in which he modernized and adapted the story of the prodigal son to the lives of his large audience of young people.

"I know sin is attractive, it's pleasant, exciting and alluring. Our young people are throwing the best of their lives away because they are good looking, they have attractive personalities, and money.

First Dabble in Sin.

"They dabble in sin, then indulge deeper and deeper until their characters are wrecked," the young minister told his listeners, sketching a familiar picture of wild modern youth.

"Christ understands, though," the speaker declared forcefully," he knows that we all have our first time to sin—that our hearts yearn for worldly things before our feet turn to follow in waywardness. His love will lift you and transform you if you'll only turn back to him, away from the husks and the hog pens."

Quartette Music.

A mixed quartette from the Gardner B. Y. P. U. composed of Miss Virginia Ely, Mrs. E. B. Reeves and Messrs E. O. Alexander and J. C. Terril, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ina Ponder sang "It Pays to Serve Jesus" for the offertory. Thos F. Glosup, song leader for the revival sang "Back to My Father," accompanied by Miss Sylvia Smith.

Mrs. George A. Wilson, Waco chalk talk artist illustrated "I Choose Jesus" and "Jesus Is Calling," closing her part of the service with a sketch of "mother" while Mrs. Fred Barron sang "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight," accompanied by Miss Faye Myrick.

MOVIE FAN'S ESSAY WINS

Last Year's Prize Article Reprinted to Aid 1926 Contestants

Are you bearing in mind the "Greater Movie Season" essay contest, which this newspaper announced Monday. The contest began Wednesday and will continue through September 4th. Such valuable prizes as a Brunswick Panatrope, valued at $650, a trip to Hollywood, Calif., and the movie studios with all expenses paid and $100 in gold are the major prizes.

The subject of the essay contest is, "What the Motion Picture Means to Me." Nothing hard about writing some 300 words of description on that subject, is there?

Wednesday we published the essay which won first prize nationally last year. Did you clip it as we suggested? Today we are reproducing the essay which won second prize nationally. It was written by Mrs. Lawrence G. Wood, a woman living in Tulsa, Okla. who glories in the fact that she is just a housewife and who, like millions of others, has found love and contentment in her home and family. She, too, is a lover of the movies.

The Women.

Here, word for word, is her prize winning essay.

"In the city directory you will find listed Frances Wood, housewife. No description of me could be more accurate, for housewife is all that I am. I intended to accomplish great things when I left college, but love and marriage came to me and I am content now to let the rest of the world do the big things. My home supplies work for my hands to do, and I can always find ways of keeping my brain active.

"The Motion Picture is one of the greatest opportunities I have for providing recreation and keeping mentally fit. My husband's income does not permit idle wasting of money for amusement, but the cost of a picture show is not prohibitive. I can attend without feeling that I am seriously oversteping the family budget. The movies are practically my only recreation and are no small factor in securing the happiness which is so necessary to my well being.

"An evening at a good motion picture theatre seems to make up somewhat the deficit caused by lack of wealth. A desire to travel is not so dominant because of the wonderful photoplay of far countries. Pictures like "The Covered Wagon" satisfy me because of books I have read. I enjoy a glimpse of life as the rich lead it. The romantic siuations, the glamour, seem to help me hold the tenderness and love for my husband that are so easily lost when a man and a woman think of getting ahead and making money. I remember that my husband is the most wonderful lover in the world, and poor as we are, I would not change my job of housewife for all the money coined. Thus the motion picture helps me overcome instead of surrender to a darbness which could be so easily predominate in my life."

Widely Varying Angles.

You have now read two prize winning essays, and have probably noticed wto widely varying angles of approach. The third prize winning essay will be reproduced Monday. It was written by a deaf man, and is distinctly different from the first and second. Which shows that there is no specific form to be followed in writing your essay. Just be yourself and write your own reactions, your own thoughts, your own feelings about the influence of the motion picture on your life, and mail your essay, on or before September 4th. to Essay Contest Editor. The Record News.

Homes Open To Trio of Children

Allan, red headed and freckled, and 4 years old, a parentless little fellow, ward of the Texas Children's Home and Aid society, is no longer without a father and mother. He was placed yesterday in the home of a charming young couple outside the city who were looking for a little boy. Miss Katherine Henricle, agent of the society, announced.

Another child, a boy of two years, who was being kept by a couple, has also found a home. Miss Henricle told The Record News that she had three children to place, these two boys, and a charming little girl of 5. The 2-year-old boy was one of those she mentioned. When the foster parents of the younger boy saw a possibility of losing him, they immediately spoke to Miss Henricle and have taken him into their home.

Many applications have been received, it was said, and a number of persons have asked for the little girl to take her and rear her. Because so many have wanted her, the child has not been assigned a home yet.

NEW CENTER PARTY DEPUTY

KARLSRUHE, Germany.—(AP)—To Frau Klara Philipp, wife of the Badenese chief forester, has fallen the distinction of succeeding the late Konstantin Fehrenbach, fourth chancellor of the German Republic, as center party deputy in the Reichstag.

Frau Philipp is chiefly known in Germany in circles having to do with social welfare, besides being a leader in the Catholic center party. She first attracted attention as a publicist. With the war, Frau Philipp settled with her husband in Pforzheim, where she devoted her energies to the problem of food rationing, nursing and wayward children.

After the war she entered actively into politics, accepted election to the national executive committee of her party, became a member of the national film censorship board, and lectured at the women's high school in Heidelberg.

IN PARIS

PARIS.—(AP)—A Paris court has decided that a wife who has her hair bobbed without her husband's authorization justifies her husband in addressing severe remarks to her and which do not excuse her if she abandons her husband on account of them.

The case arose when a husband obtained a separation order on the grounds of desertion, which the wife allowed to go by default. Later the wife, nineteen years old, opposed the judgment declaring that she left her husband only because he had insulted her with his remarks about her bobbed hair.

The court sustained the separation order saying:

However unpleasant the epithets used by the husband may have been, they were based on the fact that the wife had had her hair cut short without her husband's authorization.
