10 Counties Hold Special Voting Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Voters of 10 central Texas counties decide today whether a Democrat or a Republican will represent President Johnson's old congressional district.

Estimates of voter turnout range from 35,000 to 48,000, compared to about 41,000 votes cast on Nov. 9 when Democrat J. J. (Jake) Pickle and Republican Jim Dobbs squeezed out another Democrat, Jack Ritter Jr.

The winner will replace U.S. Rep. Homer Thornberry, D-Tex., who went to Congress in 1948 when Johnson advanced to the Senate after serving 17 years as congressman from Texas.

Gov. John Connally in a special proclamation pointed out to Texans that this is the first election for a national office since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"The people of this congressional district have a unique opportunity to demonstrate to the world our confidence in the continuity of government and America's ability to move forward without breaking stride," he said.

Will Deliver Message In Person

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson will deliver his State of the Union message to Congress in person Jan. 8, Democratic leaders from the Capitol reported today.

Talking with newsmen after their regular weekly breakfast session at the White House, the party chiefs said the present session of Congress will end Friday or Saturday of this week and the legislators will come back Jan. 7.

They said they still have to talk with the Republican leadership to determine the exact date of adjournment.

Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts said the Democratic leadership still is hopeful and confident that a satisfactory foreign aid appropriation bill ultimately will be approved.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Senate Democratic leader, said he reported to Johnson that the Senate Finance Committee is making good progress on the tax reduction bill.

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL, Associated Press Staff Writer UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—America's new President came before the community today with a pledge of support and an "unswerving commitment to the keeping and the strengthening of peace."

President Johnson addressed the United Nations in the great hall of its General Assembly. It was his first international forum since he took the helm of government Nov. 22, upon the death of John F. Kennedy.

"I have come here today to make it unmistakably clear," Johnson said, "that the assassin's bullet which took his life did not alter his nation's purpose."

The President thus brought the reassurances expected of him, but no new major policy pronouncements or proposals. He did suggest in generalities that a modern new deal could build a better world, that it is time for a peaceful revolution on a universal scale to improve human welfare and dignity.

"The greatest of human problems—and the greatest of our common tasks—is to keep the peace and save the future... It is one commitment more than any other that would leave with you today, it is my unswerving commitment to the keeping and the strengthening of peace."

The United States wants amity, security, and peace for all, and above all.

"President Kennedy, I am sure, would regard as his best memorial the fact that in his three years as president the world became a little safer and the way ahead a little brighter.

To the protection and enlargement of this new hope for peace, I pledge my country and its government."

Johnson lauded the United Nations for successes exceeding failures. Yet he recognized that vast problems remain: conflicts between great powers and between small nations, disagreements over disarmament, persistence of ancient wrongs against human rights, tangled problems of colonialism.

But nations which created these problems by working apart can solve them by working together, the President said.

He did not emphasize specific areas of conflict and disagreement or suggest any specific solutions.

He did say what the United States wants. He mentioned an end to the cold war, first of all.

He said his country also wants to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons to nations not now having them, to push on with arms control and reduction, to cooperate with all U.S. members in conquering hunger, disease and ignorance.

Johnson let it be known in polite, subdued language that America doesn't intend to shoulder all the load. He said it favors an international aid program that is international in practice as well as in purpose. He said that "every nation must do its share."

Double Jolt Dealt Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The foreign aid battle has cost President Johnson his first setback on Capitol Hill since becoming chief executive, and with stinging criticism of Congress he looked hopefully to the Senate to recapture some of the losses.

The House dealt the administration a double jolt Monday, upholding an $800-million cut in foreign aid appropriations and adding a surprise amendment prohibiting the government from guaranteeing private financing of wheat sales to the Communist bloc.

It added up to another obstacle in the path of the battered aid measure and there seemed to be a good chance that final passage would have to be put off until next year. As the House was voting 249-135 to hold spending for economic and military assistance to $2.8 billion—$1.7 billion below what the late President John F. Kennedy requested — Johnson issued a sharply worded statement.

Johnson used as a vehicle for his criticism the foreign aid authorization bill which puts restrictions on the program and fixes a spending ceiling of $3.6 billion.

In his statement after signing the measure, Johnson made clear that he considers $3.6 billion "a dangerous reduction in funds" and that anything less would represent "a policy of weakness and retreat."

In words similar to those once spoken by his predecessor, Johnson said that he cannot oppose the spread of communism and promote the growth of freedom by giving speeches.

McNamara stressed that this was not the moment for the Atlantic Alliance to slacken its efforts to build up conventional military strength. With a bit more effort, he said, the deficiencies in NATO strength could be made good now.

For years NATO has maintained a target of 30 battle-ready divisions deployed in Europe, but has never been able to reach this figure. The alliance's strength now amounts to about 23 divisions.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk spoke in forceful terms of the political and military advantages of Washington's proposal for a rice-manned, Polaris-armed surface fleet — a part of the late President Kennedy's plan.

Earlier, Rusk had urged the alliance to support the Soviet Union in its "fundamental and far-reaching split with Communist China."

In his speech, relayed to correspondents by briefing officers, McNamara put the American case for a multitude of possible Western responses to Communists, ranging all the way from small local engagements to nuclear war.

NATO Told Of Mighty Deterrent

PARIS (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said today the awesome might of the growing U.S. atomic arsenal could destroy Russian society if the West ever was subjected to a nuclear surprise attack.

He also said the North Atlantic Alliance is strong enough to fight a conventional war with the Soviet Union without plunging the world immediately into a nuclear conflict.

McNamara told the ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that new appraisals of Eastern and Western military strength showed that the West is able to take care of itself in any war, little or big.

McNamara challenged the conventional picture of a world in which the West was so helplessly outgunned and outgunned that heretofore Communists that Western military leaders would have to fall back at once on nuclear weapons in case of attack.

In his speech, relayed to correspondents by briefing officers, McNamara put the American case for a multitude of possible Western responses to Communists, ranging all the way from small local engagements to nuclear war.

United Fund Asks Reports Of Workers

A special appeal was issued this morning to all workers in the United Fund campaign who have not reported to do so as soon as possible.

Donations to the United Fund now stand at $20,658. The goal is $20,000.

Wayland Holt, general campaign chairman, said this morning that there was every reason to believe that if the goal could be reached if the outstanding prospect cards were worked and reported. He pointed out that the goal had been more than half reached although far less than half of the prospect cards had been reported.

The campaign office will be open through Saturday morning to receive reports of the volunteer workers of the United Fund.

West Berliners May Visit Across Wall At Yuletide

The agreement was signed by Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and his signature would have to show specifically that he was signing for the West Berlin city government. Again, the West Berliners were refused.

However, Korber eventually signed the agreement and there was no immediate explanation. The signing appeared to mean that the Berlin and Communist negotiators had found a formula to break the deadlock which arose Friday over how to sign the document.

Opinion here was divided as to what political implications this agreement might have. Some officials say it is nothing but a technical agreement without political overtones. Others fear it gives the East ammunition for their campaign to isolate West Berlin from the Western camp and turn it into a so-called neutral, demilitarized city.

West Germans, as distinguished from West Berliners, have always been able to cross into East Berlin.

Alabama Wants Carnival Workers

CAMERON (AP)—Authorities are seeking the return to Alabama of four carnival workers charged in the death of a soft drink salesman whose body was thrown into a well.

Maj. Bill Jones, an Alabama state investigator, and Sheriff W. A. Bratton of Sumter County, Ala., were due here today to file extradition papers.

The four men surrendered without a struggle Monday after a sheriff fired three bullets into their hideaway. They captured a massive manhunt centered in the Buckholts community west of here.

Bloodhounds, airplanes, helicopters and jeeps were used in the search. The prisoners identified themselves to Texas Ranger Capt. Clint Peoples as John Lokos, 25, who said he has no home town; Clarence Cook, 24, of College City, Calif.; Gerald Eaton, 27, of Buckholts and Harold Edwards, 20, of Randlett, Okla.

"They are accused of killing Leonard Culpepper, 55, at his home near the Alabama-Mississippi line Friday. Murder, attempted murder, armed robbery and burglary charges are on file in Alabama.

Bratton said four men robbed Culpepper of $125, shooting him once in the spine and twice in the head, and tossed the body into a 12-foot well.

He said the robbers then threw the dead man's wife into the well with her hands tied behind her back. Mrs. Culpepper, seriously injured, was rescued the next day.

Milam County Atty. John Henderson Jr. filed armed robbery charges against the men—here in the Dec. 9 holdup of a farm family near Buckholts.

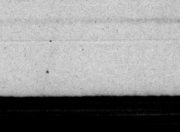

The same four are also accused of robbing another farm family near Walters, Okla.

Sybil Burton Divorces Famed Actor

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP)—Judge Arcadio Estrada of the First Court of Puerto Vallarta granted Sybil Burton a divorce from actor Richard Burton Monday.

Mrs. Burton asked the divorce on grounds of "abandonment of the home, cruel and inhuman treatment," telling the court that Burton "has been for some time in the company of a woman who is not his wife."

The divorce petition was filed by Sybil Williams Burton through her lawyers on Dec. 3.

Informed sources here said Burton's two children, Katherine and Jessica, will remain with their mother, and Burton must make annual payments of undisclosed size for their support.

These sources said the couple reached an agreement Nov. 11 on the disposition of financial interests. Terms of the agreement have not been disclosed.

Talking with newsmen after their regular weekly breakfast session at the White House, the party chiefs said the present session of Congress will end Friday or Saturday of this week and the legislators will come back Jan. 7.

They said they still have to talk with the Republican leadership to determine the exact date of adjournment.

4 US Hostages Back In La Paz

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Four U.S. citizens held hostage for 10 days in a tin mining center by Communist-led miners returned by plane today to La Paz, Bolivia's capital. They were freed and moved to the tin mine city of Oruro Monday night.

The Americans and 15 other hostages got their freedom after a noisy, tense meeting of 4,000 miners approved an agreement between the government and dissident Vice President Juan Lechin, boss of the mine workers' federation.

The Americans, three members of the U.S. Embassy staff in La Paz and a Peace Corps volunteer, were found in good health but in a highly nervous state by mine company doctors.

The other hostages—a West German, a Dutchman and 13 Bolivians—returned to their families and jobs in Catavi, where they had been held.

The Americans were brought by a jeep convoy over 30 miles of treacherous mountain road through pouring rain to Oruro, hub city for this Andean mining area. U.S. Ambassador Douglas Henderson greeted them and arranged for a flight to La Paz today, although the rain threatened to delay takeoff.

The hostages were seized Dec. 6 in retaliation for the government's arrest of two Communist mine union leaders, Irineo Pimental and Federico Escobar, on criminal charges. The American had gone to Catavi, 150 miles southeast of La Paz, to deliver a $15,000 U.S. aid check to help in the construction of two schools.

"For the last 10 days, the Communies have tried to force us to ask for Pimental's and Escobar's release, but not one of us gave in," said one of the Americans, Thomas M. Martin Jr., 27, of the Bronx, N.Y.

"They tried all sorts of scare tactics," added Martin. "U.S. Information Agency officers."

Another hostage, Bernard Rifkin, 52, Brooklyn-born labor adviser for the U.S. Agency for International Development, said the worst part of the ordeal was the night of their capture.

"They put guns in our backs and set off dynamite," he reported.

Michael A. Kristula, 41, another U.S. Information Agency officer, commented: "I felt the embassy did everything possible and we never questioned their efforts nor did we ever doubt the support of President Johnson or the American people."

She said that in February 1960, Baker told her and her husband that he had a stock profit with Robert G. Baker even though the former Senate aide invested no money of his own.

Military Rule Ended For South Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Constitutional government returned to South Korea today after two years and seven months of military rule, but the soldiers still had control.
Chung Hee Park, who led the May 1961 coup and has headed the military junta since then, was inaugurated president. He said a shivering, rain-soaked audience he would not permit dictatorship or "the reappearance of incompetence and corruption masquerading under the name of democracy."
A few hours before the inauguration, the new National Assembly convened, bringing into force the constitution written by the military rulers last year. It gives overwhelming power to the president, and Park's hand is strengthened even more because the military's Democratic-Republican party won 110 of the 175 assembly seats in elections Nov. 26.
Park in his inaugural address called on his people to achieve autonomy, independence and prosperity "through their own toil. He set two goals:
Greater independence from foreign influence and "unsuitable foreign customs and manners."
Defeat of communism and reunification of the divided Korean Peninsula.
He did not mention the United States, which since World War II has been South Korea's military and economic protector at a cost of more than $5.4 billion in aid and thousands of casualties in the Korean War.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When I married "S" it was agreed that we would raise his two sons, four and six. He and his wife had a friendly divorce on grounds of incompatibility. Now he wants to HIRE his ex-wife to come and live with us and take care of the boys. I work out and make as much as he does, and we hired a housekeeper who does a good job. I don't want that woman in my house. My husband says she isn't capable of working out, could use the money, knows the boys and can handle them. He sees nothing wrong with it! (He is 30, she is 42 and I am 28.) He claims he feels nothing for her and she feels nothing for him. Is this possible? We have been married for seven months and I am ready to walk out.
DEAR READY: Don't let the "nothing" they feel for each other mislead you. If your husband wants the boys' mother to raise them, he should provide a separate home for them. There is a crowd.

Conviction Of Reds Reversed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal appeals court overturned today the conviction of the Communist party of the United States for failure to register under the 1950 Subversive Activities Control Act.
The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia said the government failed to prove that no volunteer was available who could register for the party under the act. It returned the case to the district court for either a new trial, if the government requests it, or directed verdict of acquittal.
Attorneys for the Communist party argued during the trial that no officer of the party could formally register it under the terms of the 1950 act without incriminating himself.

LBJ Signs Pollution Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson signed today a bill providing $85 million over the next three years to help states and local agencies combat air pollution, including that from automotive exhausts and industries.
The ceremony in the White House Cabinet Room was attended by a large delegation from Congress and government officials.
Johnson said the bill will make possible a national attack on air pollution, which he called a growing threat to national health and safety.
He said more than 6,000 communities need help in combating air pollution.
The bill expands a 1955 pilot program which provided federal funds for cooperative research under direction of the secretary of health, education and welfare.
The new measure gives the secretary broader authority for such research and also directs him to recommend remedial actions.
Funds Made Available
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Housing Administration loaned $630,301 Monday to finance construction of 50 low-rent homes in Elsa, Tex.

Surplus Storage Is Still Big Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's farm programs have not reached the point in the reduction of surpluses where they can show much decline in government costs of storing, handling and transporting crop surpluses.
These operations cost the Agriculture Department about $697 million during the 16-month period ended Oct. 31.
This amount compared with losses of $681 million a year earlier.
The report for Oct. 31 showed the government had $7,411,857,000 tied up in products owned by it and stored under loans to producers. This compared with $7,341,841,000 a year earlier.
Baker, 35, resigned his $19,000-a-year post Oct. 7 after questions were raised about his outside business and financial affairs. He first came to the Senate as a 14-year-old page boy from Pickens, S.C.
Baker was not on hand for the hearing. He has not been seen around the Capitol since his resignation.

East And West Ends On A Teeter Totter?

EAST AND WEST. By C. Northcote Parkinson.

Here we have a professional historian, of mischievous tendencies, tossing into the arena of current international affairs some highly controversial interpretations of where we're all headed.

For other professionals and for amateurs too (he writes so easily that interested amateurs can follow his propositions), this is a book that can cause some table-pounding arguments.

Parkinson starts with the basic idea that ever since history has been recorded (more or less accurately), the civilizations of the East and the West have alternated in ascendancy. For example, when Europe was in its Dark Ages, Chinese culture was flowering. He contends that the West started gaining the initiative around 1,500 A.D. and started loosening its grip in the middle of the last century.

His is no Spenglerian moodiness; he presents a fast-paced review of the history of civilization. He sees the alternations of supremacy not only in the military sense, but also in the broader aspects of trading, inventions, ideologies, art and technology.

He makes broad generalizations in capsule form (sometimes for the sake of provocation?), as he develops a theory that a piston-like alternating thrust between the two sides of the world has created a life-giving competition. He feels that history is a pattern, not so much of conquest, but of decadent civilizations creating a vacuum into which the opposing side, stealing ideas from their former superiors, takes the road to domination.

As a prophet, he theorizes that Moscow will serve as a buffer against the future Oriental tide, saving Washington as Byzantium once served as a buffer for Rome. He dismisses airily the United Nations, as hopelessly devoted to peace, and questions whether a "mental stagnation" of international peace and conformity would be desirable.

This is the same Parkinson who is noted for such satirical writings as "Parkinson's Law."

Here he is addressing himself to more serious subjects; but it must be assumed that in the role of gadfly he is deliberately applying the stinger to us all. Some readers will be offended by his facile references to supposed Western decadence, on the ground that he chooses superficial targets: some Americans will deplore his off-hand remarks about their superficial weaknesses. But at least there is a stimulating huff and puff in these pages.

Krush's Victory Only Partly Won

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Premier Khrushchev appears to have won only a partial victory with the new Soviet budget, possibly through compromise after a clash in the Kremlin hierarchy.

The battle may not be over. Some oddities about the Soviet budget session suggest that Khrushchev is encountering opposition.

The big argument seems to revolve about defense spending. The Supreme Soviet—a rubber-stamp parliament—was told Monday that the defense budget is being cut next year by the equivalent of $66 million. Actually, that is not much of a cut. And in the Soviet budget it is impossible to determine what money appropriated under other titles goes toward defense.

When relations between the United States and the Soviet Union are bad, the Soviet military budget can be expected to go up. The Soviet people know that deep international crises mean little hope for abundant consumer goods. Therefore, reductions of tension are popular.

Khrushchev made points with the Soviet public this year by reaching agreement with the United States and Britain on a limited ban on nuclear tests. If he then attempted to head toward other agreements, he seemed to run into some stony opposition.

A curious tug-and-pull in Soviet foreign policy this year was reflected by shifts in emphasis. Sometimes the stress was on agreements, reduction of military budgets and disarmament. At other times these purported aims were pushed into the background.

Cold Wave Keeps Tight Grip On Most Of Nation

By The Associated Press

A pre-winter cold wave, longest of the season, continued over most of the eastern half of the nation today but there was a promise of a little relief in some sections.

Sub-zero cold again stung most of the northern area from the Rockies into northern New England and northern New York state. Freezing weather again nipped many parts of the Southland.

Temperatures ranged down to 16 at International Falls, Minn., and at Watertown and Rome, N.Y. In the Midwest, Lone Rock, Wis., had -11, and it was 9 below at Milwaukee and Chicago's O'Hare Airport.

Construction Boom May Continue As US Population Grows And Prospers

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Demands of a growing population and a prospering economy are counted upon to keep the seemingly endless construction boom going strong in 1964.

An increasing number of doubters have been wondering out loud lately if a housing and office surplus wasn't in the making. Vacancies in new apartment and office buildings have been increasing in several cities as available floor space zoomed.

But those in the construction industry are confident the nation's needs as a whole are still not met in these, and especially in some other, lines.

And the Commerce Department also forecasts that the industry will have a banner year in 1964, helped along by a big gain in public projects.

Contractors insist that a growing population and the spread from cities to suburbs have built up a backlog of demand in many areas for houses, streets, schools, hospitals, churches, water and sewer systems, and shopping centers. Some of this will be satisfied by private investment, much of it by spending of local, state and federal governments.

The Commerce Department puts 1962 spending for construction at $58.8 billion. It rose by 6.6 per cent this year to $62.6 billion. The department estimates 1964 will see a 5 per cent rise to $65.6 billion.

But government's share of this spending will be a record $32.2 billion, a gain of 8 per cent over 1963. Most of the increase will be at the state and local levels, with school construction up 9 per cent to $3.3 billion, and outlays for public hospitals and other institutions up 17 per cent. Still more optimistic is the Associated General Contractors of America. It puts total spending at $65.8 billion and cites the volume of contract awards in recent months. To the $65.8 billion the association also adds an estimate of $22 billion spending for maintenance and repairs.

Construction contracts jumped over 1963. F. W. Dodge Corp., construction news specialist, reported all major segments of the industry were included in the strong advance, putting the first 10 months of the year 10 per cent above the like period of 1962.

The housing boom that marked 1963 and brought some worries of possible over-building will continue, but at a slower rate of gain, the Commerce Department believes. It thinks spending for nonfarm houses and apartments will be up 3 per cent next year to $26.5 billion, with 1,500,000 private units being started. The increase this year over last was 8 per cent, for a total of 1,945,000 units. To this can be added about 25,000 farm houses and 35,000 public housing units.

The Commerce Department qualifies its estimates with some assumptions. It says the record totals will be reached if there is a federal tax cut applying to 1964 incomes, if mortgage funds continue abundant, and if the "national economic activity in the United States will move ahead strongly."

The contractors may assume all this, too, but they put even more faith in the backlog of unsatisfied demands.

Mail Burns In Truck
BENNETT, Colo. (AP) — A mail truck burst into flames early today, and thousands of pieces of Christmas mail were destroyed.

Spontaneous combustion was tentatively blamed. The accident was 40 miles east of Denver.

The truck carried about 100 sacks of mail and pouches. "We lost about everything," postal inspector David Hunter said.

Flood Victims May Receive Some Help

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Victims of the Baldwin Hills Reservoir disaster got a word of encouragement—and a promise of money—from Mayor Samuel Yorty.

"It's obvious these victims are not responsible for the damage," Yorty said Monday. "They will be compensated and we will help them file claims against the department of water and power and the city," Yorty said.

Damage from Saturday's devastating flood could run to more than $10 million dollars, officials estimate.

Yorty's promise of help came as a residents and businessmen picked through the mud-slick rubble below the now-empty reservoir.

Nearly 300 million gallons of water roared through a break in the earth-filled structure Saturday afternoon, crashing down on the homes below and sweeping in at least three persons to their death.

Sixty-four homes were destroyed, and 82 homes and 55 apartment buildings received major damage. At least 27 persons were injured.

Cleanup crews hauling away the mud and debris also watched for a possible fourth victim of the swirling flood waters.

Mrs. Marie MacDonald told rescuers her husband, Archie, 70, was snatched from their home by the torrent as she watched helplessly. She said she has been unable to locate him since.

Chrysler To Split Stock

DETROIT (AP) — Stockholders of Chrysler Corp. today overwhelmingly approved a second 3-for-1 stock split by Chrysler within the past year.

More than 16,285,000 shares were recorded in favor of the split with holders of 29,039 shares opposed.

The special stockholders' meeting took less than half an hour. The new split, which follows a similar split last April, will become effective Dec. 20.

Chrysler President Lynn A. Townsend told the stockholders Chrysler sales for the first nine months of this year totaled $2.2 billion with profits of $100 million.

"This exceeds our profit margin in any similar period since 1950," Townsend said.

Townsend added that Chrysler car sales for the first 11 months of the calendar year totaled $78,820 or 13.1 per cent of the market. This compared with $21,206 cars or 10 per cent of the market in the same period in 1962. He reported that all Chrysler operations are in the black.

The stock split increases the number of Chrysler common shares from 40 million to 80 million and reduces the par value of a common share from $12.50 to $4.25.

Best-Dressed Woman Vote Offers Skulduggery Chance

BY INEZ ROBB

Darn! Once again I have let golden opportunity knock and have failed to fling wide the doors.

Once more I have failed to vote in the annual sweepstakes to determine the world's best-dressed woman. And to think how I have railed against individuals in the past who have failed to exercise the right of franchise — that noble instrument of democracy!

But it says right here on the ballot that my vote must be returned by Dec. 10. Since I am almost a week late, there is nothing to do but pitch my ballot in the wastepaper basket.

Every year when this smart arrives I plan to do the smart thing — send out a letter to each of the "distinguished women of taste" listed on the ballot and ask what I am offered for my vote. My favors in this election have always been for sale. The trouble is, I keep forgetting to solicit bids.

There are 152 "women of distinguished taste" (and who, pray, chooses them?) in my list, too, and that is to opt for 10 to 12 winners. As far as I can learn, none of these women (from every point of the compass, by the way) earned her distinction in any hard-fought local primaries or by-elections. There were no preliminary bouts in the hustings.

Now, I have read in a national magazine that large sums of money — as much as $50,000, if I remember rightly — have been offered by ambitious women or their respective husbands to guarantee that the women in question are among the finalists. That is, the 10 or 12 selected annually as "best dressed" in the wastepaper basket.

Of course, all such crosses are frigidly disapproved of by election officials.

This high-minded attitude is very commendable, indeed. But I want it known at once that I am wide open to such profitable skulduggery. I will take cash or kind, say diamonds, rubies, emeralds, or a lifetime supply of sables and Iranian caviar.

There is another way to cash in, too, and that is to opt for guest privileges in the mansions or on the yachts of the women who make the ultimate grade. If I had any real instinct for this sort of thing, I would long ago have offered my votes to Mrs. Bruno Pagliai (Merle Obregon) in exchange for a fortnight in her Mexican palaces, or to Mrs. Winston Guest and Mrs. Charles Wrightsman for a season in the Palm Beach sun at their respective villas.

Or Dublin: now I love Dublin. I should have proffered my ballot to Sybil Connolly, the dashing Irish designer, for a month in her Dublin mansion and guest privileges in her boutique.

Then there's Queen Sirikit of Thailand — "a woman of distinguished taste," too. If only I had thought of it in time, I would have offered her my vote in exchange for an all-expense paid trip to her lovely land, plus the guest suite at the palace. I'd even listen to her husband's Dixieland trio and all that jazz. And I'd only ask to wear her diamond-studded dress on the most formal occasions.

Hum-m-m — Mrs. Gianni Agnelli of Italy would be a proper pigeon for a yachting cruise. Or, better still, Mrs. Stavros Niarchos, of the Greek shipping family. The Greeks have the biggest yachts today. I must make a note of this for next year and get my offer in early.

Only a piker would settle for a week end in Philadelphia with Mrs. T. Charlton Henry, or one in Chicago with Mrs. Edward A. Cuddehoy, or God forbid! one in Los Angeles with anyone.

So candidates in American cities such as San Francisco, New Orleans, Houston, Atlanta or Boston will have to lay out cold cash for my vote.

"The sole aim of the poll is to pay thoughtful tribute to distinguished good taste and elegance in feminine dress," says the ballot sent to "2,000 style experts and observers of the contemporary fashion scene."

Well, girls, shuck that "thoughtful tribute" business. Just send a box top and cash tribute if you want my vote in 64.

Junior Editors Quiz on LABRADOR

QUESTION: Why is Labrador called Labrador when it is in Newfoundland?

ANSWER: "Newfoundland" originally meant the island to the right in our map; "Labrador" referred to the large peninsula to the left. Both areas were discovered by early explorers, but Newfoundland, because of its better climate and important fisheries, became much the most important. Newfoundlanders, however, have always had an interest in the Labrador coast (in black) because of sending their fishing vessels there in the summer. At one time, this coast was a "dependency" of Newfoundland.

As important minerals were found in the Labrador peninsula, Quebec disputed Newfoundland's claims. The English government settled the issue in 1927 by awarding to Newfoundland both the Labrador coast and that part of the peninsula shown in gray. These two areas are now part of Newfoundland, which itself is a province of the Dominion of Canada (it was once a separate dominion). Because the two areas, in black and gray, are part of the general peninsula, they are usually spoken of as "Labrador." "Newfoundland" generally refers to the large island to the east, which is the main seat of the provincial government.

FOR YOU TO DO: Our artist especially enjoyed doing this picture of the Labrador coast, because he spent two summers there. Color the picture by making the huge cliffs dark slaty brown, and the water blue, leaving the icebergs and reflections pure white. The schooner's sails could be gold.

(Corra Lee Morrissey of San Carlos, Calif., wins today's grand prize of a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, and you may win a set too.)

Memories Big Help In Making Man

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Man makes his memories, and his memories make the man.

The shorter the distance there is left to go, the more recollections there are of the journey already traveled.

You've been on quite a trip yourself if you can look back and remember when—

A girl could be 21 and unmarried and still not worry about being called a spinster.

Ballroom dancing was a rhythmic and graceful partnership—instead of the individual contortions of two people seized simultaneously with fits.

People never went on a vacation until they had saved up the money to pay for it.

What was inside a Christmas package was more important than the wrapping.

Half the small kids in America wanted to grow up and be street car motormen. Today most of them have never seen a trolley.

When a woman washed her hair, it took her the rest of the day—and the help of a strong sun—to dry it.

Greater love had no husband than he who helped lace up his stout wife in a whalebone corset.

The only time many people stayed up after midnight was on Dec. 31—and they yawned all the next day.

A salon's reputation depended on the variety and quantity of its free lunch.

Anyone who discussed religion was expected at least to have read the Bible all the way through—and be able to cite chapter and verse.

If you gave a girl more than a $2 box of candy, it was tantamount to a proposal of marriage — else why would you spend all that money on her?

It was part of growing up to be given a $5 gold piece by a favorite uncle or aunt.

When you saw a boy with a crew cut, you knew his mother must have fought bugs in his hair — and had taken the easy way of getting rid of them.

Everyone was sure progress would solve all of mankind's woes.

Those were the days!

Kudor tribesmen of New Guinea regard visiting naturalists with esteem because they themselves are well-informed about birds, insects and animals. But to them, outsiders who come to scratch for gold in stream beds are "long-lost," or crazy.

LBJ Faces Crucial Test In Problem Of Aid Cuts

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's honeymoon with Congress, where he served 32 years, has come to a sickening stop. He is faced, after less than a month in office, with the same challenge President John F. Kennedy never mastered.

It's how to get this dawdling Congress, the laziest in at least a generation, to do what he asks. The House didn't give him much time to ponder his dilemma. It has just hit his foreign aid program with a meat ax.

This action, even the timing, was a brutal end to the quiet spell Congress let Johnson have after Kennedy's assassination while he tried to get used to his new job.

Johnson may soon reveal whether he's going to follow the Kennedy method of soft talk with Congress, or whether he's capable of a much tougher policy that might get results where Kennedy couldn't.

Just last week the two houses had authorized a ceiling of $3.6 billion for foreign aid, a figure Johnson was willing to accept. Congress finally reached this action after months of wrangling within itself and with Kennedy.

That figure was $1.3 billion less than Kennedy had originally asked and $800 million less than he had finally set as a bottom figure. But the ceiling actually winds up less than a president's minimum figure anyway.

So watching Congress set a spending limit of $3.6 billion was endurable. But the ceiling is only that. After the ceiling Congress still has to vote the actual money to be spent. And that, in turn, usually winds up less than the ceiling.

This week the House, acting before the Senate, was to vote on the spending money. To try to forestall too big a cut, Johnson called in the greatest antagonist of foreign aid in the House, Rep. Otto E. Passman, Louisiana Democrat.

Passman is chairman of a House subcommittee which passes on the money to be spent for foreign aid. Johnson, who had magical method of getting things done his way when he was in Congress, talked to him. Passman listened, went back to the Capitol, and his committee promptly made a joke of the Johnson-Passman conversation.

It decided foreign aid should get only $2.8 billion, or $800 million less than the ceiling permitted, and $1.7 billion less than Kennedy's final minimum request.

Johnson responded immediately with a statement — that this kind of cut would "put our foreign policy in a strait-jacket."

Johnson still had hopes, although perhaps slim, that the full House when it voted, would be more generous than the Passman committee's recommendation. The recommendation wasn't final but the House vote would be.

But Monday, just about the time he was signing the authorizing bill with its ceiling of $3.6 billion, the House voted, upheld Passman's committee, and decided $2.8 billion was plenty.

This was a terrible jolt but even this action by the House wasn't the last word. The Senate hadn't voted yet.

And Johnson could hope that the Senate would approve spending at or near the $3.6-billion ceiling and then, in a compromise between House and Senate, the final spending figure would be higher than that of the House even though lower than that of the Senate.

But — the House hadn't been content with just cutting money from foreign aid. It added an amendment to prevent this country from giving Russia credit on the wheat it wants to buy from the United States. This was a deep wound.

Johnson fought back with another statement, saying he cannot oppose the spread of communism and promote the growth of freedom by giving speeches. "But this in its own way was just a speech. It probably won't change a single Senate vote."

Now it's up to Johnson to perform. He knows as he tries that the Congress and the country will be watching him. It's his first big test.

May Be Old, But Girls Still Care

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Staff Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Leo is a derelict.

He's getting bald and his teeth are cracked.

Leo still has a little of the old fire—he growls and paces up and down in mock anger—but to be honest he's not much when it comes to lions.

The zoo decided to sell Leo. He was taking up space, and he sure wasn't earning his three pounds of horsemeat a day.

The 12 little misses promptly set up a howl. They insisted they would collect the money—$16,000—to get Leo his enclosure.

Zoo officials surrendered after warning the girls of the task they faced.

Lesla Bell, 12, was unperturbed.

"Who ever heard of a zoo without a lion?" she said.

And Jacques Webster, 11, said, "I'm just awfully afraid Leo feels nobody cares a thing about him."

Jean Ann Bell, 9, admitted, "I've never seen a real, live lion and it's about time I did."

The girls formed a club to help Leo.

First they staged a backyard circus. Total collections—$19.55.

"It was a beginning," said Alava Bell, 12.

Next came an art show. Working from school-odd until dark for days, they set up a gallery in 9-year-old Shelly Springman's back yard. Paintings, needlework and ceramics were displayed on picnic tables.

It cost 25 cents to make the tour. The art was for sale, too. One young artist tagged this note to her painting:

"For sale—50 cents. $1 if you have it."

The show netted $153.02.

The girls are still at it—this time selling homemade novelties.

"And just think," said 11-year-old Tina Ayers, "we just need $15,827.83."

Even Chimps Need License To Drive

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Robert E. Stover, 41, and a girl named Tammy were tooling down Interstate Highway 4 in his sports car.

She was steering and he was working the brakes and accelerator.

John McLeod saw them drive through Lakeland Sunday and called the highway patrol. They were speeding. The patrol radio barked, "Be on the lookout for a sports car driven by a chimpanzee."

Trooper Lamar Maxwell stopped the pair outside Tampa.

Stover, a carnival showman who trained the chimp to steer, was charged with reckless driving and having no driver's license.

"After following the chimp and watching her pass cars between 60 and 70 miles an hour, I am convinced that she is a better driver than many on the road," said Trooper Maxwell.

Eight Hospitalized In Train-Truck Crash

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — A truck-train collision Monday derailed 10 cars of the San Francisco Chief. Eight persons remained hospitalized today.

The injured included the farm truck driver, Warren J. Neill, 18, Portales, N.M. A Santa Fe Railway spokesman said the train was traveling about 75 miles per hour. Neill suffered only minor head lacerations and bruises.

Chimp Takes Space Test

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP) — Eight days under simulated space conditions had only one noticeable effect on a chimpanzee named Duane—he lost less than one of his 37 pounds.

Officials at the Lockheed Missiles and Space Co. plant said Monday that Duane's heartbeat, respiration and temperature were remarkably stable throughout the test.

The chimp endured the experiment inside an instrumented air-tight capsule installed in vacuum chamber.

Originally scheduled for just five days, the test was extended for eight days and eight hours when it became apparent the animal was capable of continuing.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

IXTAPAN Mexico — Lying here in the hammock I discovered from the Science Digest that a man, during his adult years, spends over 3,500 hours—or about five months—scrapping at his beard.

The author of this treatise on shaving then proceeds to tell the reader (he includes photographic illustrations) the correct way it should be done. I for one am delighted they have now made a science of whisker removing instead of permitting the civilized world to go about it in the haphazard manner we men have used since obidian razors were the vogue.

The loss of time doesn't bother me since I shave two or three times a week (slop type) and even then I run over to the town barber who wastes HIS time scrapping my face for 8 cents U.S. Haircut 24 cents, satisfaction guaranteed.

What is upsetting, however, is discovering I've been doing things the wrong way all my life. Scientists have determined you should use a brush to lather your face and not shave against the whisker grain.

Well, you can imagine how awful I feel having merely wiped a bar of regular soap across my cheeks and neck and then dragged a rusty blade back and forth in all directions.

First of all, the scientists say, shaving water should be 115 degrees F. for best results. Presumably you hold a thermometer under the faucet and if it reads around 121 degrees, turn on enough cold water to get it down to 115.

Fortunately, the lawn around our spread is not so scientific yet. It gets a barbering every two weeks and the gardener refuses to do his day's clipping and digging around the flower beds for less than $1.20 U.S. This is as outrageous a price as the ancient custom of native gentlemen who would trade a cow for a lady when he wedded a wife. No woman is worth a good cow. And $1.20 a day to manure your lawn is absurd but the gardener points out that he does not have to lather the grass nor has he made a science of his work, which things cheaper than they would be otherwise.

Also, he is considerate enough not to bump my hammock with his mower so all in all, it probably is worth the price.

I studied this article and exchanged ideas on shaving and cutting grass. According to the scientists, shaving is something like golf (the way I play it) and they warn you that the grass on the razor is extremely important.

For instance, a slanting or slicing stroke requires less work and is a decided advantage over using the direct or straight stroke. Just like I swing the club.

However, there were some discrepancies. Science says that no whiskers, except on the edge of the chin, stick out straight. Most lean at an angle of 39 to 59 degrees.

The gardener got my navigation plotter and discovered my whiskers lean at an angle of 34 to 63 degrees, mostly Northwest. And the science writer claims whiskers lie flat under the chin.

Well mine go in circles and stick up, which is the way the grass grows on the other side of the yard according to the gardener.

I don't think he is anti-science but he prefers the direct stroke with his lawn mower instead of the slice. (His beard, you may be started to know, sticks straight out all over his face.)

Then I asked the gardener what he thought about sending the barber to a college in Mexico City. And he shouted, "No! He will come with electric clippers, a white suit like a doctor and triple his prices. A specialist with a style."

Maybe he IS anti-science. But fortunately we get science in small doses out here and it generally is confined to magazine articles.

Johnson's Political Planners Prepare For Any Opponent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's political strategists are not counting on Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona or New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller out of the 1964 Republican presidential nomination race.

But they are quietly preparing for the possibility that the Republicans may select neither as their nominee, choosing instead an easterner other than Rockefeller.

Johnson and National Chairman John M. Bailey obviously would be happy to have Goldwater head the Republican ticket to be chosen at the San Francisco convention in July. But Bailey, among others, feels this is less likely to happen than before John F. Kennedy's assassination.

Rockefeller, an announced candidate for the nomination, is going into every available primary, Goldwater, currently meditating on his political future, may be convinced that he would be letting the conservatives down if he doesn't enter the contest.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon remains a potential factor in Michigan Gov. George Romney, thrown out of the party national committee by a vote of the delegates at the party's annual convention, now set to open Aug. 24 in Atlantic City.

Because of the time-clock necessities of clearing the way for individual delegate candidates to file for election, he couldn't postpone a Jan. 34 meeting of the party national committee to fix the convention delegate apportionments by states.

For a loss by Republicans in his legislative, is regarded as a possibility. Henry Cabot Lodge, like Nixon and Romney, says he is not a candidate. Lodge, Nixon's 1960 running mate, is now U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Bailey's advice to the Democrats at this point is to lay low and let the Republicans fuss about politics. He is opposed to changing the timing or the place of the Democratic nominating convention, now set to open Aug. 24 in Atlantic City.

Because of the time-clock necessities of clearing the way for individual delegate candidates to file for election, he couldn't postpone a Jan. 34 meeting of the party national committee to fix the convention delegate apportionments by states.

Lawyers Say Ruby Should Be Free Before Christmas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's lawyers are trying to get the man who killed the assassin of President John F. Kennedy out of jail before Christmas. The state insists he should be kept behind bars.

Dist. Judge Joe Brown ordered a Dec. 23 hearing on the defense request Monday for release of Ruby under bond. His trial on a charge of murder is set for Feb. 3.

A business agent pictures Oswald as a man who killed the president and the slaying of her husband. When Oswald is mentioned, she summons her few words of English to murmur: "Lee not like anyone—but he love me."

Oswald's mother, Marguerite Oswald, continues to maintain that her son was innocent. Tom Howard of Dallas, one of the lawyers representing Ruby, applied for a writ of habeas corpus.

Howard also said the defense staff, headed by Melvin Belli of Los Angeles and San Francisco, wants Ruby to undergo psychiatric examination and this case be done properly.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade has said repeatedly he will oppose the release of Ruby under bond and will fight any move for transfer of the trial to another city.

They Used Our Corn To Cop Our Cash!

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — A drive-in theater is short two essential items today—cash and popcorn.

Detectors said burglars covered floors and concrete walks with popcorn kernels to make things easier when they wheeled out a 350-pound safe containing $6,000 from the theater office.

The kernels acted like ball bearings.

New Confidant Of Johnson Is Young, Retiring Texan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any list of those close to President Johnson in these early days of the new administration would include Bill Moyers, a 29-year-old Texan.

One of Johnson's first acts after succeeding assassinated John F. Kennedy was to have Moyers temporarily relieved as deputy director of the Peace Corps.

Johnson installed Moyers, even for the spotlight. He is held in high regard by White House associates, many of whom served under Kennedy.

statements and handles confidential or delicate subjects with patience, tact and diplomacy. He also is said to challenge the President's views when he thinks such a course is helpful.

Moyers, dark haired and slender, looks more like a graduate student than a man saddled with government responsibilities.

Friends say Moyers has never been the spotlight. He is held in high regard by White House associates, many of whom served under Kennedy.

Panel Asks For Basis Of Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — After preliminary study of the FBI report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the Presidential Investigating Commission is calling for the evidence on which the report was based.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, heading the high-level board of inquiry, announced its decision Monday night and disclosed that the commission is building a legal staff to help it scan the evidence.

Warren told newsmen the move was "a perfectly normal thing." But it was clear that the commission intends to scrutinize and evaluate the FBI's work on the case instead of taking the FBI findings at face value.

The still-secret FBI report is understood to indicate that Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, was the hidden rifleman who killed Kennedy on Nov. 22 in Dallas and to dismiss, by omission, the theory that Oswald had help or accomplices.

The Warren commission, it appears, wants to sift every scrap of evidence available which might resolve, one way or the other, any suspicion of collusion or conspiracy. Such talk gained circulation after the captured Oswald was shot dead in a Dallas police garage by nightclub owner Jack Ruby, 32.

After a 2½-hour meeting of the seven-man commission and its general counsel, J. Lee Rankin, Warren told reporters he felt that "no statement of any kind should be forthcoming at this moment."

"We decided it would be essential to have the materials on which the reports we are receiving are based," he said, adding:

"We are formally requesting the agencies to supply that material to us."

The wanted materials, he said, do not include physical items of evidence like the Italian-made rifle which fired the fatal shots or the three matching rifle bullets recovered after the assassination.

The commission does want to inspect the documents, investigation reports, statements of individuals, and similar basic, investigative material, Warren said, not only from the FBI but from the other federal agencies involved in the far-flung inquiry.

Conference Begins Its Final Days

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Churchmen from all corners of the earth and from Protestant, Orthodox and Anglican faiths dropped speech making and turned to religious business matters today.

The Commission on World Missions and Evangelism of the World Council of Churches, representing 300 million members, entered the final three days of a 12-day conference.

More than 200 members are present from 52 nations.

Earlier sessions, beginning Dec. 8, featured talks on a score of church problems. These topics were dropped as church leaders got down to financial, missionary problems and other matters.

Dr. Kathleen Bliss, head of the board of education of the Church of England, and Prof. Mauricio Lopez, an Argentine now on the staff of the World Council of Churches in Geneva, spoke Monday night on appealing to the intelligentsia of the world.

Dr. Bliss said by intelligentsia they did not mean eggheads but "the creative minority" who make our culture. She said failure to appeal to them was "a peculiar kind of snobbery" and unpardonable for Christians "whose Lord was a carpenter."

Lopez said that "whether or not the intellectual can be converted is a question only God can answer."

"This communication of the gospel to men of high culture must, in the first place, recognize them as men—men like all other men," he said.

Lopez said Latin America is facing a social revolution which is a challenge to the church.

KC Voters To Decide On City Income Tax

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"Shall I give 50 cents of every $100 I earn to the city?"

That question faced the voter here today.

The city says it is in dire need of the $6 million the earnings tax will raise; that other means of raising revenue will be necessary if the tax of one half of one per cent of earnings fails to pass.

An estimated third of the people who work in Kansas City live outside its confines. They, too, would have to pay the tax, although they cannot vote.

In March, 1957, the city submitted the earnings tax to a vote. It was defeated 20,716 to 80,615.

Cairo, with a population of more than three million, is Africa's largest city.
