Did you know that there is an organization called the "American Academy of Allergy?"

I didn't, but I am not surprised.

Remember the good old days when allergy sufferers only had to worry about a few plants, such as the ragweed? Now, there are many more things which result in respiratory difficulties, most of them blamed on air pollution caused by man himself.

Hay fever and "sinus trouble" are the most common allergies we hear about today, and apparently ragweed still is one of the principal villians.

Anyway, this "American Academy of Allergy" says there are a few areas open to vacationers who want to spend their idle time in a place that is free of ragweed pollen. These include such places as San Francisco, San Diego, Key West and Miami Beach, along with Seattle, the Keen Valley of the Adirondack area of New York State, and Nome, Fairbanks and Juneau, Alaska. Generally, it was noted, the hay fever season reaches its peak between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15, and in southern coastal areas, weeds are still active in October.

Ritz-Craft, Inc., recently sent out formal announcements to publications throughout the Southwest about its plant under construction in Snyder.

Heretofore, most of the announcements concerning the new plant here had been made only in Snyder.

The article quotes Larry J. Ritzenthaler, Ritz-Craft president, to the effect that Snyder was selected for the plant because of its proximity to a prime mobile homes market and sources of manufacturing supplies. He also said the company's decision to build here was influenced somewhat by stable labor conditions in the area, and by the quality of the community "which recently was named an All-American City by Look Magazine."

Ritz-Craft's total production will be nearly 14,000 mobile homes per year when the Snyder plant is completed, and the plant here will build mobile homes up to 14 feet wide and 70 feet long, completely furnished and decorated.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, June 9, the 160th day of 1970. There are 205 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, Norway's army surrendered to the Nazis in World War II.

On this date:

In the year 68, the Roman emperior, Nero, committed suicide.

In 1815, the Congress of Vienna ended.

In 1893, Ford's Theater in Washington, which had been remodeled into government offices, collapsed, killing 21 persons.

In 1915, after the sinking of the British liner Lusitania, the United States demanded that Germany pledge to guarantee freedom of the seas.

In 1943, after several years of debate, the U. S. Congress gave final approval to a bill providing for income tax deductions from a wage earner's payroll.

In 1948, President Harry S. Truman stirred up a controversy when he denounced the 80th Congress as the worst in history.

Ten years ago: A typhoon which hit Hong Kong left at least 30 dead and 19,000 homeless.

Five years ago: The first Australian troops to take part in the Vietnam war were being landed by plane.

One year ago: Harvard University ousted 16 students for their role in the seizure of an administration building.

TOUR FACILITIES — C. W. (Pat) Hendricks (left), one of the original founders of Ritz-Craft, and Robert Grant, director of personnel and public relations, were among a group of Ritz-Craft officials who made a tour of the plant under construction in North Snyder today. They arrived yesterday afternoon and will leave tomorrow. Plumbing fixtures for the office are in the foreground while the north wall is in the background.

Ritz-Craft Officials In Visit To Newest Plant

Top officials of Ritz-Craft made a whirlwind visit to the construction site of the firm's newest and biggest plant in North Snyder this morning. They arrived on a company airplane yesterday afternoon and were to remain over until tomorrow.

Included among the group was C. W. (Pat) Hendricks, one of four original founders of Ritz-Craft. The other three are John Ritzenthaler, Charles Cole and Vern Saltsgiver.

Accompanying Hendricks on the visit to the new installations were Robert Grant, director of personnel and public relations; Paul R. John, director of Ritz-Craft Manufacturing; Guy Jacobson, assistant director, manufacturing; Glenn Butler, pilot; and, Thomas F. Bubin, advertising and public relations representative. Their headquarters is located at Argos, Ind., where the flight to Snyder began.

Ritz-Craft has several staff members who already have moved here. The group includes Thomas Saltsgiver, general manager of the new plant; Robert (Whitey) Ragland, sales manager; Lloyd Palmer, production superintendent; and, Mark Dunlap, purchasing agent.

Told by a local man that the plant looked big from the inside, Hendricks said: "You ought to see it when we get everything inside — you'll wonder where all the space went."

Say Kosygin To Depart

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mail reported today that Alexei N. Kosygin will step down as Soviet Premier this month—but British and other Western diplomats reacted to the claim with some reserve.

One of the two deputy premiers — Kiril Mazurov, 56, or Dmitri Polyansky, 53 — will take over from the ailing, 61-year-old Kosygin, according to the newspaper.

It based its report on "well-authenticated reports reaching London."

British government and Western embassy officials said they have had no new indications suggesting Kosygin's departure may be imminent.

They recalled there has been considerable speculation in and outside Moscow this year that a shakeup in the Kremlin leadership may be on the way. This could follow elections for the Soviet parliament due Sunday.

"Some day this sort of speculation is bound to prove right," one official observed. "But as of now we have no facts to support it."

Steelworker Dies

JEFFERSON, Tex. (AP) — Archie L. Bryant, 41, a Shreveport, La., steelworker, was killed today near this East Texas community when his car struck two trees after failing to negotiate a curve, highway patrolmen said.

Nuclear Decision Due In 18 Months

VENICE (AP) — U.S. officials said today Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has told Western allies the United States has just 18 months in which it must decide what to do about a Soviet speed-up in nuclear weapons.

Laird reported that Moscow had accelerated its testing since strategic arms limitation talks began in Helsinki, Finland, last November. The talks are still going on in Vienna, Austria.

The officials said Laird designated 1971 as a year in which the United States would suspend decisions on new military production. Work was not going forward, he was reported to have said, on the underseas long-range missile system—although contracts for research and development are being let.

In a comprehensive report Monday to the Nuclear Planning Group of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Laird was said to have told seven allied ministers that the Soviets are already testing an undersea missile with a arange of 3,000 miles.

The U.S. Poseidon missile is said to go 2,800 miles, though no official figure has been disclosed.

Laird had met with the defense ministers of West Germany, Britain, Canada, Italy, the Netherlands, Turkey and Norway. The purpose of the meeting was to work on plans to ensure that nuclear weapons would be used only as a last resort to halt aggression, and then as sparingly as possible. The ministers also wanted to make sure that there is time for reflection on both sides before nuclear arms are used.

Westfall Rites Set

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Colonial Hill Baptist Church for Dan Westfall, 49, who died at 10:15 a.m. Monday in Brooke Army Medical Center at San Antonio.

Mr. Westfall had been receiving treatment there for burns suffered on May 12 at the American Magnesium plant.

The Rev. Miller Robinson will officiate at the funeral service and burial will be in the Sardis Cemetery in Fisher County, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mr. Westfall was a native of Fisher County and had lived here for the past 21 years. He was a 32nd Degree Scottish Rite Mason and was a veteran of World War II. Masonic rites will be conducted at the graveside.

He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Dana Huckle of San Antonio, Mrs. June Williamson of Snyder and Lesa Westfall of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Westfall of Kermit; four sisters, Mrs. Bill Tankersley of Nevada, Mrs. Julian Turnbow of Andrews, Mrs. Weldon Dolloff of Maryneal and Mrs. Tommy Rogers of Kermit.

Pallbearers will be Jim Walls, J. C. Williamson, Leon Autry, Richard Westfall, G. W. Ferguson, M. L. Rogers, Wayne Merritt and Bill Stanley.

Assassination Try Fails On King Hussein

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein escaped an assassinatinn attempt today in the midst of fighting between the Jordanian army and Palestinian guerrillas, the Amman radio reported.

The army troops were trying to curtail guerrilla incursions into Israel.

The broadcast said Hussein's motorcade was fired upon this morning as heavy fighting raged in the streets of the capital.

Leaders of both sides worked out a cease-fire arrangement late in the morning but this was ignored and the bitter fighting raged into the afternoon.

The combatants battled with rockets, bazookas, machine guns and automatic weapons, filling the city with the crash of explosions and the bark of gunfire.

Hussein's motorcade was driving through the crossroads town of Sweileh 12 miles northeast of the capital, the radio said.

Guerrilla sources in Beirut, Lebanon, said the king's driver was wounded in the incident but gave no other details.

Jordanian authorities and the guerrilla central committee—the supreme Palestinian body—had met in Amman and agreed to an immediate cease-fire, the radio said in an earlier report. They also agreed to set up a joint operations room to "supervise and control the situation."

Open warfare broke out between King Hussein's troops and militant Palestinians after two days of tension and the overnight kidnaping by the guerrillas of Morris Draper, the U.S. Embassy's political officer.

The guerrillas and Jordanian government forces clashed repeatedly Sunday night, with about 50 people reported killed or wounded and about 40 guerrillas arrested. Officials said Draper, 42, a native of California, was released unharmed after the 40 guerrillas were freed.

The fighting today began just after dawn and soon spread to all parts of the city. Four hours later the fighting intensified. Gunfire echoed from all over the city, punctuated by the louder sounds of rockets and shells.

Guests at the American-owned Intercontinental Hotel threw themselves to the floor as bullets whipped through the lobby, breaking windows and light fixture. No casualties were reported in the hotel, but many bodies were reported lying in a road near the hotel. They were said to be civilians caught in the crossfire.

First reports indicated the Jordanian army went on the offensive against the guerrillas, who had repeatedly flouted the government's attempts to restrain their operations against Israel and in effect set up their own enclaves within Jordan.

The army troops were reported setting ambushes for the guerrillas in many parts of the city, and a Palestinian spokesman said the army was attacking guerrilla headquarters on the outskirts of the city.

The guerrillas in turn took positions on hillside houses overlooking the commercial center of the city and threw up roadblocks across the streets leading to them.

The commercial district emptied rapidly of bystanders as bullets whipped through it. Ambulances rushed about, and many guerrillas were reported killed or wounded.

Among the casualties was a French Embassy attache, who stopped for a roadblock and was wounded when troops opened up from both sides of the road.

The Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine seemed to bear the brunt of the army's attack at first, but later guerrillas from all organizations joined in.

An official for the Palestine Liberation Organization was asked by telephone who started the fighting. He replied: "We can't say anything now, we are too busy fighting," and slammed down the receiver just as an explosion went off.

Army patrols ducking from doorway to doorway were fired on by guerrillas holed up in nearby buildings.

New Robb Child Is Given Name

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson's new granddaughter has been named Catherine Lewis Robb, the parents, Maj. and Mrs. Charles S. Robb, announced today.

The baby was born last Friday at the Bethesda Naval Medical Center.

The middle name of Lewis is an old family name of Robb's side, he added.

Father Robb said he plans to take 19½-month-old daughter Lucinda out to the hospital to see her new sister for the first time. Then Mrs. Robb—the former Lynda Byrd Johnson—and the whole family will go home to their nearby Arlington, Va. home.

Bill Requires A Speedy Trial

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., charging society is being deprived of the constitutional right to a speedy trial, introduced a bill today to require federal criminal trials start within 60 days of indictment.

The North Carolina Democrat and one of the Senate's leading authorities on the Constitution said "we must take steps to make the 6th Amendment right to a speedy trial—a right so far denied to both society as well as the defendant—a reality after all these years."

Ervin said the bill, co-sponsored by Michigan Democrat Philip A. Hart, also provides "a workable and constitutional alternative" to President Nixon's preventive detention proposal now being considered for the District of Columbia.

Until recently defense lawyers had little success invoking the speedy trial right of the Constitution. But last month the Supreme Court overturned the conviction of a Florida truck driver who was not tried until 7½ years after his arrest.

The justices did not define clearly what they consider to be too long a time, but they warned lower courts to enforce the right of a defendant to a speedy trial.

Ervin's bill would go into effect in four stages, starting first with serious felonies in which defendants have been detained under high money bail and gradually requiring other felony trials in the federal courts to be held within two months. Tax, antitrust and security cases would be exempt.

Each district court would be required to establish plans to carry out the speedy trial mandate and to report to Congress the additional funds and personnel that would be necessary.

Ervin is a strong critic of the preventive-detention proposal—which would allow a judge to jail a defendant without bond if he decided the accused's past record gave a reasonable indication he would commit more crimes while free.

Supporters say preventive detention is needed because of what they claim is a high incidence of repeat crime by persons out on bond while waiting trials, which may not be held for months.

Ervin's bill also authorizes additional penalties for crimes committed while out on bond and provides for pretrial service agencies to supervise persons awaiting trial.

Should she leave husband?

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I can't discuss with anyone I know. It's my husband. He's a wonderful person. The only thing wrong with him is that he can't get really excited about me unless I put on sheer lingerie and high heels, and he can tie me up with ropes.

Aside from that he is a faithful husband, and a good provider. I am 24 and he is 27 and we've been married for nearly 3 years and so far have no children. [We both work.]

My husband feels guilty that he should enjoy something so much that I find repulsive and frightening. He has pleaded with me to be more understanding. He is always after me to do this. It's the only thing we ever fight about. Do you think he could be dangerous? He isn't mean or cruel about anything else. He never suggested anything like this before we were married and we went steady for 2 years. Should I call it quits?

NO NAME IN MAINE

DEAR NO NAME: If your husband insists that you submit to a farout fetish which you find "frightening and repulsive" — that's cruel enough to call it quits. How "dangerous" he could be is anybody's guess, but from what you say about him, you are courageous—and perhaps foolish to stick around to find out.

DEAR ABBY: Recently you recommended GAMBLERS ANONYMOUS which I am sure was a big help to many compulsive gamblers. I have wished many times that there was an ADULTERERS ANONYMOUS for people like myself who are compulsive adulterers.

Don't laugh. It is a serious problem. I have a wonderful husband and family, but I have been involved in so many adulterous affairs that I can no longer count them. I am not oversexed. In fact, I'm just the opposite. I can't for the life of me understand why I deliberately get myself into such miserable situations which offer no sexual fulfillment, and put me in danger of losing my wonderful husband, and everything that is dear to me, if discovered.

Can't something on the order of Alcoholics Anonymous be organized for us?

WEAK SISTER

DEAR WEAK: The only real help I can recommend for you is psychiatric help, for not until you understand what motivates you to behave as you do, will you be able to control your actions, which are clearly destructive. I can't imagine one compulsive adulterer telephoning another and hoping to be talked out of it.

DEAR ABBY: My piano teacher falls asleep during my lessons, and when she wakes up she makes me go thru the whole thing again. Can you give me some help?

TAKING LESSONS

DEAR TAKING: Your piano teacher is the one who needs the help. Tell your mother. You may be a "dream" of a pupil—but this is ridiculous!

DEAR ABBY: God bless ("WALKING A TIGHTROPE," that wonderful woman who didn't want to continue to accept child support money from her "ex" because she had remarried and didn't need it, and her "ex" had remarried and needed it desperately to feed and clothe the children of his second wife, whom he had adopted. Tell her that here is one lawyer who says that even tho her present "well to do" husband doesn't want to let her "ex" off the hook for child support, HE has nothing to say about it. She may waive the money if she wants to.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "RUSTY IN COLORADO SPRINGS": When a woman "loves" a man, she doesn't try to make him JEALOUS. She tries to make him HAPPY!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Snyderite In NSF Program

COLLEGE STATION — William L. Branson of Snyder has been selected to participate this summer in a National Science Foundation training program in engineering science at Texas A&M University.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Furman D. Branson, 4003 Irving, this Snyder High School senior was selected on a competitive basis for the eight-week program beginning June 21.

Study and solution of stress problems will be conducted by Dr. J. G. H. Thompson, mechanical engineering professor. The high-ability students will utilize various Texas A&M facilities, such as the Mechanical Engineering Department analog computer and IBM 360-65 third-generation computer in the university's Data Processing Center.

Academic requirements of the program surpass most high school instructional levels, thus offering a challenge to the exceptional students selected as participants.

The 34 student participants will come to A&M from 16 Texas cities and six other states. The program concludes Aug. 14.

Two Groups Plan Patriotic Rallies

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Plans for a patriotic "rally for the majority" and a drive to display American flags throughout the city have been announced by separate organizations.

Spokesmen for a local businessmen's group announced that a "rally for the majority" will be held next Sunday, Flag Day, to show support "for our country, our President and our form of government."

A campaign called "Stars and Stripes Forever over San Antonio...especially now" was organized Monday by Lt. Col. Fred McEwen, commandant of the Texas U.S. Marine Corps Reserve League, and co-chairman Morris Mathieu, a supermarket chain executive.

They said the campaign would begin June 28 and continue through July 3. Plans call for all major merchants here to offer flags for sale, McEwen said.

"San Antonio can be the center of patriotism in the United States," Mathieu said.

Mishap Kills Two

HOUSTON (AP) — Two young men were killed and four other persons injured today when a car in which they were riding slammed into a concrete post.

The dead were identified as Ricardo Garcia, 21, and Chris Gutierrez, 18, both of Houston.

SNYDERITE TO TOUR CARIBBEAN — Larry Wesson of Snyder, shown in the foreground at right, is a member of the "Tarleton Troubadours," a group from Tarleton State College that will make a USO tour of the Caribbean area for 28 days beginning June 29. They will entertain the servicemen at bases in the Caribbean area. The select group of singers, including five lovely coeds and six young men, are well-known throughout the "Heart of Texas." The four-week tour is sponsored by the USO, the National Music Council and the Department of Defense. Wesson, a 1969 graduate of Snyder High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wesson, 3726 Austin.

Charged With Wife Slaying Second Time

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Police had an all-points alert out today for a Houston man charged in the knife slaying of his wife.

It was the second time police hunted Jonas Dalton McGough for slaying his wife. He was indicted 19 years ago in Texas City in the shotgun death of his former wife, but was found insane.

This time police have charged him with stabbing to death his present wife, Mrs. Geneva McGough, who was found dead Sunday in the couple's home, a butcher knife in her neck.

McGough, 51, was last seen Saturday drawing out $1,400 from his bank account. Mrs. McGough was found dead Sunday and officers said she had been killed at least 24-hours earlier. Neighbors reported hearing screams from the house Friday night.

In the old slaying, McGough had been indicted for shooting Bette Sue Hayman, who had divorced McGough and resumed her maiden name.

A jury found that McGough was insane at the time of the killing and not responsible for his actions. He was released as sane after staying three years at the Rusk State Hospital for the criminally insane.

McGough was also found insane after two burglary charges were filed against him by Harris County authorities in 1967.

The Wake Forest tennis team completed its season with a 13-5 record.

Sunderman Rites Held

Funeral for Mrs. Earl Sunderman, 52, a native of Snyder, was held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Harveson-Cole Funeral Chapel in Fort Worth. She died of a sudden illness in a Fort Worth hospital the preceding Friday night.

Born July 14, 1917, in Snyder, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hamilton. Her father was an attorney practicing law in Scurry County until his death. The family belonged to the Methodist Church.

She joined the church at an early age and was a church school teacher. She was graduated from Snyder High School and McMurry College in Abilene. At the time of her death she was a teacher in the Technical High School in Fort Worth.

She and Mr. Earl Sundermann were married in 1938.

Surviving are the husband; a son, Don; and her mother, Mrs. W. W. Hamilton, all of Fort Worth; and, a brother, William S. Hamilton of Harrisonburg, Virginia.

'Chicken Bank' Reported Robbed

A "chicken bank" was robbed sometime between Friday and Tuesday morning.

The thief plucked the money out of the piggy-type bank at the residence of Thurman Allen on the East Highway, getting $70, mostly in half dollar pieces, according to City Police.

Says Panel Head For Violence

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The mayor of Houston attacked the U. S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Monday, charging it with condoning violence.

The commission held hearings here last week and afterward said that Houston ranked 45th and 46th of the 46 cities it had studied in Negro Mexican - American and women's employment.

Mayor Louie Welch, speaking at a conference on labor statistics here, singled out commission chairman William H. Brown III, a Negro, for his bitterest attack.

Welch said that in a television interview aired Sunday here Brown "warned of violence for Houston by agreeing that with the kind of employment discrimination he contends is 'blatant' and 'Pervasive' here, the city is not only subject to violence but on the verge of it.

"Mr. Brown's response could be interpreted as being the beginning of a self-fulfilling prophecy for Houston," the mayor said, reading from a prepared text.

"It would be interesting to know if this response was designed to be repeated often enough that people will start believeing it and someone will begin fulfilling Mr. Brown's prophecy by engaging in violence," Welch said.

Brown, reached by telephone in his Washington office, said "obviously no one is in favor of violence, and I'm not in favor of violence."

Storms Hit Again On High Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A tornado threat in Crosby County and bristling thunderstorms in other sections plagued weather-jittery West Texans across a broad stretch of countryside again Monday night.

Soaking rains fell as far south as Terrell County on the Mexican border, where Weather Bureau observers said the downpours probably set off flash floods in remote areas.

Word of a funnel cloud being sighted near Ralls caused an official tornado warning to be issued for a strip from Lorenzo to Crosbyton but peace officers said they found no trace of damage.

The Weather Bureau reported hailstones up to 1½ inches thick pounded other localities, principally in the Lubbock vicinity, and heavy rains blew through that sector on vicious winds. Lubbock measured .63 inch of rain.

Winds up to 35 miles per hour flailed Tulia, between Plainview and Amarillo.

At one time a severe thunderstorm watch covered 40 counties in Northwest Texas and 5 counties in Southwest Texas, remaining in force for some until 1 a.m. The alerted sector centered on a belt 140 miles wide from 50 miles northeast of Amarillo to 70 miles west-northwest of Hobbs, N.M.

Scattered thundershowers continued this morning, spreading southward toward Del Rio and eastward to around Fort Worth and Dallas.

The evening turbulence capped a day of summery weather which saw temperatures climb as high as 93 degrees at El Paso and Wichita Falls.

Another round of thunderstorms was predicted by tonight in parts of Northwest Texas along with occasional showers in central and southwest sections of the state.

Jaycees Discuss Activity Plans

Snyder Jaycees discussed rodeo plans and installed a new director at their meeting at noon Monday.

President David Burkett, who presided at the session, installed Bobby Goodwin as a director. Goodwin was unable to attend the installation banquet held on the night of May 30.

Mickey Nunley reported on plans for the Jaycee activities in connection with the rodeo and Jimmy Farmer reported on plans for the club to operate a fireworks stand July 1-4.

Bobby Goodwin gave the invocation and Jerry Craig led the Jaycee Creed. Guests were James Shafer, Gary Fulfer, Joe Stephens, Gary Carroll and Bill Street.

Fatally Wounded

HOUSTON (AP) — James York, 23, of Houston was fatally wounded by gunfire Monday night while sitting in a car on a street. Police sought the assailant.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

Minor damage resulted from a two-car mishap at Avenue F on the East Highway at 6:18 p.m. Monday.

Damage to the 1961 Model Pontiac Station Wagon of Alfredo Leal Massoquin, Box 437, was set at $50 and damage to the 1961 Model Chevrolet of Anthony Gaines Bullard, 1918 Coleman, was set at $30.

Seafood Paella Is Quick Party Dish

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you are looking for a range-top main dish that will serve a party of eight to ten (second portions included), you may want to try this seafood paella.

This paella is made a convenient way—with seafood and fish, onion and green pepper, peas and artichoke hearts all from the freezer. You can do your shopping ahead.

One of the new paella dishes, cast iron coated with porcelain enamel, is perfect to use for this recipe. But if a paella dish isn't on hand, you may use a shallow range-top casserole. No cover for the cook-and-serve dish is necessary.

SEAFOOD PAELLA

1 package (8 oz) frozen lobster tails
1 package (1 lb) frozen fish fillets—ocean perch, cod, haddock or flounder
1 package (1lb) frozen cleaned, peeled shrimp
¼ cup olive oil
½ cup frozen chopped onion
½ cup frozen chopped green pepper
3 cups uncooked converted-type rice
5 bottles (each 8 oz) clam broth
2 medium tomatoes, peeled and diced
1 can (4 oz) pimientos, drained and cut into strips
¼ teaspoon ground saffron
1 bay leaf
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 package (10 oz) frozen peas
1 package (9 oz) frozen artichoke hearts
Salt to taste

Thaw lobster, fish fillets and shrimp according to package directions. If necessary, partially thaw vegetables to separate pieces. Remove shells from lobster; cut into thirds. Cut fillets into 1-inch pieces.

Heat oil in a 3½-quart paella dish or shallow rangetop casserole. Add onion and green pepper; cook gently until thawed and tender. Add rice and cook, stirring, until evenly coated with oil. Add clam broth, tomatoes, pimientos, saffron, bay leaf and pepper; mix well. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low and simmer without a cover for 15 minutes. Add seafood, frozen vegetables and salt; mix lightly to distribute evenly. Continue to cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until rice, seafood and vegetables are done—about 10 minutes. Serve from dish in which paella was cooked.

Serves 8 to 10—two portions each.

NOTE: If rice isn't cooked as much as you like, cover paella dish with foil and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for about 20 minutes.

Wool Is Chic For Fall Look

By AP NEWSFEATURES

Fashion may well serve as a mirror of the exciting decade ahead, where the mood is one of yearning for peace, beauty and serenity—a mood that the fashion world has anticipated in "Great Lady" fashions for all.

The chicest of the chic are fashioned of pure wool. Happily, a wide spectrum of exquisite wool fabrics serves as a palette for the artistic talents of ready-to-wear designers and creators of accessories like hats, shoe toppers and knit stockings.

This is a special year for layered dressing. Play your own game of fashion math by putting elegant pieces together. Play lightweight sweaters against heavy textured wool skirts and jackets to enjoy versatility.

Look for sportswear designed for the most active, as well as the most passive sportswoman among you. Dream about wool knit romper suits 'n socks in heavenly heather—try a jacquard tunic and pant set—the very best interpretation of the important pant look.

And if bewitching is your ballwick, hide out in black for a spectacular discovery. It's the right color for all your walking hours, but never better than when the sun goes down.

This season's color story finds diffused, muted colors standing alone—or in focus as accents in the new neutrals, those that pale from beige into brown ... or come on strong in black. The other is of brights, newly clear and sharpened to perfection in wool plaids, patterns and solids.

The fashionable of the future will find that skirt lengths are free of formula in every fashion category. Above the knee midi on down to high ankle lengths ... longuette doesn't mean just lowering the hemline, it expresses the entire mood of softness; the styling is all new and the "put togethers" emphasize the body creating a truly feminine appearance.

Dresses are both new and reminiscent as leg 'o mutton sleeves and mid-calf lengths add a pretty look to newly interpreted granny dresses with graceful high necklines in soft, wool knits. Women will rejoice knowing that such classics as the "shirtdress" are featured for round the clock wear in lightweight crepes to lush, textured tweeds. Stylings are innovative and more modern than ever before as hemlines wander, cuts go bias and fabrics provide the fashion news.

Newcomers blend with revivals. The "gaucho" look in pants proves that skirts must share the longuette limelight. Self-accessorizing takes a full turn into the '70's with nailhead trimming on gaucho pants worn with a dramatic matching cape. Passementeries, braid and leather bindings are grace notes in the same catetory.

The daring so long missing in fashion is back. Decolletage declares dramatic neckline interest while long fitted sleeves suggest pristine contrast.

And both midi skirts slit to high thigh and a midriff diagonal cutout should find widespread male admiration.

In the coat and suit category, expect the unexpected.

Wool longuette coats stand alone in ribbon patterned wools. Coats often have skirts or pants to match and shirts that link fall's layered look. Dramatic capes, combined with matching pants, highlight many a collection this season. And pants are perfect in tandem with the longuette coat.

Melton wool coats hug the body for both warmth and sophistication. Primitive prints in below-the-knee coats take beautifully fur trimmed collars and cuffs. And piping is back too.

Wool suits are the newest offering of all—with short cropped jackets, slim flared skirts and a sportive look that is particularly attractive in tweeds, jacquards and knits. In this category the knitted midi length aviator suit is sure to be a favorite.

At the other end of the spectrum—suit jackets go to great lengths to add sophistication—whilehe gaucho looks fit nicely in between.

Each Sunday from late April or early May through September, Seattle, Wash., bans cars from six scenic miles of Lake Washington boulevard. The winding route past parks, lake shores and private homes is turned over to bicycles, a project undertaken several years ago in cooperation with the League of American Wheelmen.

Working Uniforms Accent Fashion

By AP NEWSFEATURES

Do you find yourself, more mornings than not, faced with a problem of deciding what to wear to work that day? If the prediction of a clothing corporation president, Leighton A. Rosenthal, comes true, these what—to—wear—to—work—blues soon will be a thing of the past.

Rosenthal says, "Within 10 years more than half of the American women will be wearing career clothes on their jobs. The tabs for the garments and their maintenance will be picked up by their employers."

The president of Work Wear Corp. explained that the concept of work clothes originated with the overalls and coveralls worn mainly by men and women in blue—collar and factory jobs. The main function of these garments was to cover—up and protect a person's wear—to—work clothes.

Now the emphasis in career clothes is on fashion. Modern uniforms look like they've come from the drawing boards of couture designers and they have. The attractive outfits worn by airline personnel, for example are a major inducement in recruiting new employes.

Giant firms in the auto industry and in the financial, food and beverage and restaurant fields have been using garment rental services for years. Now department stores, insurance companies and banks are instituting the career clothes concept for their employes.

Rosenthal firmly believes stylized work wardrobes are here to stay. Designers are experimenting with unique color combinations, more original styling and exclusive silhouettes for particular businesses. Non—crushable fabrics and the fact that every outfit is tailored for figure flattery and styled for comfort and movability enhance the appeal of company uniforms. And although some gals might not want to wear the uniforms for everyday street—wear, the accessories—handbags, shoes, boots, rainwear—make mighty welcome additions to the nonwork wardrobe, at little or no cost.

Won't company—provided uniforms destroy a woman's individuality. "No, more attention will be directed from the neck up," says Rosenthal. He believes the money women will save by not having to buy work—day dresses will be spent on additional cosmetics, hairpieces, more glamorous evening and leisure clothes.

WORKING FASHION — Who would guess that this fashion-conscious doubleknit dress by Apollo, topped by a swirling poplin cape, is a company "uniform"—the tab for which is picked up the employer?

Words Used Without Tought About Origin

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP BUSINESS ANALYST

NEW YORK (AP) — Was it a mischievous Greek named Pan who brought about that recent plunge in the stock market? It might be difficult to prove, but it certainly makes as much sense as some of the other explanations.

Pan was the greatest trouble maker among the pagan deities. His mere appearance among the timid wood nymphs sent them into frantic flight, and he was suspected also of filling humans with unreasonable terror — or panic.

In the absence of better explanations, why not just blame Pan for scattering the nymphs of Wall Street? We use his name regularly in the vocabulary of business, but sometimes we forget the fellow is an influence too.

In hopes that it will help workers, employers, financiers, investors and others find their bearings in these confused days, herewith is a list of words they commonly use without much thought as to their origins.

The meanings were checked by etymologists at Merriam-Webster, publishers of the Third New International Dictionary.

COMPANY. It means breaking bread together. Company and companion have the same derivation, from the Latin com, which means "with," and panis, which means "bread."

If you share bread with another you generally are in his company for some time. Understandably, this once meant that you enjoyed the other's company. Today, with some workers feeling they are paid in crumbs, it isn't always so.

MANUFACTURE. Curiously, this word has a meaning that contradicts the original. It means, literally, "a making by hand." It comes from the Latin manus, or "hand," and facere, "to make."

The word now suggests machinery, although some corporate officers, viewing reports of falling productivity, are likely to charge union leaders with adhering to the literal definition.

BRIBE. This word started out well, but it's been all downhill since. It meant an honest scrap of bread, but it has degenerated morally. It comes from the Late Latin word, briba. When it came into the English language it meant "a gift begged," then "a present." Now it's a present meant to corrupt a person.

BUDGET. You certainly couldn't fit the U.S. Government budget into the old meaning, which was "a little leather bag." The Romans had a word, bulga, which the French borrowed as bouge. The English borrowed it from them as bogett and gradually it evolved to budget.

ACCUMULATE. Reassuringly, it means today just what it meant to a Rome banker. When a man speaks of accumulating a fortune as "making my pile," he is using the word correctly.

It comes from cumulus, which is Latin for "a heap or pile," and cumulare, which means "to pile up." Attach the prefix ad, which means "to," and you have accumulare, or "to heap together."

BILL. It once meant "bubble" and you may be sure a lot of installment buyers wished it meant the same thing today. The Latin word bulla means "bubble" or "amulet." In Middle English it was bille.

The suggestion has been made that the first bill was an amulet attached to a necklace. It then became the official seal attached to a charter, but after that the link becomes tenuous. Merriam-Webster says the current meaning might have come about through applying the term to any document furnished with a seal.

AMORTIZE. A lot of home buyers will recognize this word and they won't be surprised that it is associated with death.

When a person amortizes a mortgage or other debt, he is bringing about its gradual extinguishment or death, to say nothing of his own. It comes from Latin word ad, "to," and mors, "death."

Junior Editors Quiz on POPCORN

QUESTION: What makes popcorn pop?

* * *

ANSWER: In England, the word corn is used for wheat, and in Scotland and Ireland, for oats. In 1492, Columbus found corn growing in Cuba and learned it was called "maize." Because of the small kernels, however, this plant, new to Europeans, came to be known as "corn." There are several kinds of corn, such as dent, flint, sweet and popcorn. This last is a development of flint corn, which is often grown in the northern U.S. and in Canada. Popcorn has small ears and hard pointed kernels. When dried and then suddenly heated, these explode or pop, turning into the much larger white and delicious morsels we call popcorn. Scientists are not certain as to how the kernels pop, but they think moisture inside is turned into steam, which then suddenly explodes the kernels' hard shells. Popcorn plants are grown closer together than other corn plants and the ears are allowed to dry out on the plant. Much popcorn comes from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Iowa.

Remarks That Grow Tiresome

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you had to name the 10 common remarks in the English language that you get most tired of hearing year after year, which would you choose?

It's a fascinating game to play, because our vocabularies become so hackneyed with dull and repetitive phrases that with some people one feels he can carry on a conversation in his sleep.

There are so many trite sayings in our day-to-day talk that it is impossible to pin them down to the 10 that are the most boring, but here is a list of potential candidates:

"What's new?"

"Hot enough for you?"

"Cold enough out for you?"

"Here today, gone tomorrow."

"After all, it could be worse."

"Well, if you aren't a sight for sore eyes!"

"We simply have to get together for lunch sometime. I'm free most any day."

"Long time no see."

"I like your new suit. Too bad they didn't have one in your size."

"Speak about the devil, and look who shows up!"

"No can do."

"If I had it all to do over again, things would sure be different."

"If I were running this place, there'd be some changes made."

"Do you mind getting it, Jim? The smallest I've got on me is a $20."

"I don't like to gossip, but—"

"Age before beauty."

"You know?"

"I hate to say I told you so, but—"

"I'll match my public life with any man's."

"You never hear a word I say."

"Be my guest."

"Why can't you be like other husbands?"

"Wait'll I tell you what happened to me. It'll make your hair stand on end."

"The trouble with you kids is that you've had it too good. You don't know what it means to do without."

"Well, I must be off. Don't take any wooden nickels."

"All I can figure out is that it must be a virus of some kind. There's a lot going around."

"After they made him, they broke the mold."

Shoots Husband, Then Slays Self

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Houston man was shot and slightly wounded on a shopping center parking lot Monday and his assailant later turned the gun on herself, police said.

J. Wayne Hodges, 45, told police his wife Mandy fired six times at him and hit both arms and a leg. He was not seriously hurt.

Mrs. Hodges then drove to her son's home in nearby Katy, Tex., where she shot and killed herself, officers said.

Woman Killed In Shooting

WACO, Tex. (AP) — One woman was killed, a second wounded and a third is being held by the sheriff following a shooting drama at a farmhouse on Farm Road 434, nine miles south of Waco Monday.

The dead woman, shot in the back, was found lying face down a few feet from the back porch. She was Annie Matthews, 75. The wounded woman, who is in satisfactory condition in hospital, is Hanna Pinton, 84. She had wounds in her right hand and forearm.

The shooting was discovered when mail carrier George Merrick, passing on his rounds through the community of Downsville-Asa, heard a woman screaming in a field. She was struggling with another woman who held a large-caliber revolver.

He got the gun away and called the sheriff.

When deputies arrived, they found the third woman barricaded in the house. She surrendered after an hour when they fired a single round of teargas against the window.

The woman is being held in the jail clinic. No charges have been filed.

Horns' Kite Flies High

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The amateur had his day Monday in sectional qualifying for the U.S. Open at Dallas Athletic Club and University of Texas sophomore Tom Kite Jr. had the best day of all.

Kite tamed the DAC's 6,840-yard championship course with a sizzling seven under par 36-hole total of 137 with rounds of 8, and 67 over the par 72 layout to lead the six qualifiers who earned spots in the Open June 18-21 at Chaska, Minn.

Two other amateurs also advanced to the Open over a field of mostly club pros. Corker DeLoach of Houston finished third at 69-72—141 and Austin schoolboy Hank Cox tied for fourth at 68-74—142.

Pro Bob Dickson of Muskogee, Okla. was runnerup to Kite with 70-69—139.

Tour regular Rives McBee of Garland was in a 69-73—142 and Buddy Hamilton of Austin got the sixth spot at 69-74—143.

Two other tour regulars, Terry Dill of Austin and John Schlee of Dallas, failed to earn a trip to Chaska. Dill is the first alternate with a 71-73—144, even par. Schlee zoomed to a 148 on rounds of 70-78.

Other alternates include amateur John Cameron of Dallas and pros Rik Massengale of Jacksboro, Robert Eastwood of Galt, Calif. and Jesse Whittenton of El Paso, all with 146s.

Young Golfers Seek Crown

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A total of 52 golfers, ages 6 to 17, remained in contention today after Monday's qualifying round in the South Texas Junior girls National Invitational golf tournament.

Karen Cox of Corpus Christi and Luann Thames of San Antonio led open division qualifiers with three-over-par 75s.

The top qualifiers were—

Open Division: Karen Cox, Corpus Christi, 75; LuAnn Thames, San Antonio, 75; Debbie Wines, Phoenix, Ariz., 79; Karen Dremonas, Lansing, Ill., 79.

Intermediate division: Shannon Johnson, Englewood, Colo., 81; Mary Beth Morgan, Houston, 82; Brenda Goldsmith, San Antonio, 83; Suzanne Norton, Euless, 83.

Sub-Junior Division (nine holes): Marcia Larochelle, San Antonio, 43; Robin Sue Hall, San Antonio, 49; Beth Ann Durrett, Dallas, 49; Laura Sullivan, San Antonio, 51.

Midget Division (nine holes): Tina Morban, San Antonio, 45; Sandra Castillo, San Antonio, 46; Rae Rothfelder, Fort Worth, 59.

Daniels Wins Split Decision

DALLAS (AP)—Young Terry Daniels of Dallas won a split decision after trading knockdowns with fellow townsman Sonny Moore, 205, in a 10-round fight Monday night at Memorial Auditorium.

Daniels, a North Texas State collegian, floored his veteran opponent with a left and a right in the second round. A dazed Moore rose and took 20 seconds of punishment before the bell.

Moore, 31, retaliated with a couple of flurries in the third and put Daniels down with a left to the head, but he bounced up and backed away until he recovered.

Both judges voted for Daniels and referee Pat Riley picked the underdog Moore as winner.

Daniels now has a 16-1 won-lost record as a professional. Moore has won 19 bouts, lost 32 and fought to two draws.

Baseball Antitrust Suit Nears Close

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Curt Flood's $3.1 million antitrust suit against baseball is expected to end Wednesday after rebuttal testimony by the executive director and counsel of the players' association and Bill Veeck, former big league club owner.

The defense finished its case Monday with a complete day of testimony by Dr. John Clark, an economist from the Arthur Little firm of Cambridge, Mass., who did an involved analyses of certain aspects of baseball.

After Jay Topkis, one of Flood's lawyers, finishes cross examination of Dr. Clark Tuesday, both Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, and Dick Moss, counsel for the group, were due to take the stand.

Veeck is expected to be the final witness Wednesday morning as both sides have told Judge Irving Ben Cooper the Federal Court case will be completed Wednesday.

Both sides will file written summations with the judge and it may be some time before a verdict is announced. No matter what the outcome, it is expected the case will be appealed to a higher court by the loser.

Dr. Clark said player salaries had increased from $19,500 in 1965 to $24,957 in 1969 and $28,088 in 1970 which actually became $28,376 with the addition of newly-won minimum salary increases.

Speaking of the pension fund by which a five-year player gets $300 a month at the age of 50 or $772.50 at 65 and a 20-year-player gets $800 at 50 and $1,945.11 at 65, Dr. Clark said Flood's current status as a 12-year-man would give him a monthly pension of $1,625.11 at the age of 65.

Dr. Clark testified from a percent analysis of baseball's revenue and expenses that the net margin (profit) had declined from 12.5 per cent in 1965 (up to 14.5 in 1966) to 3.7 in 1969. The figures showed player salaries and pension represented 20.5 per cent of costs (an increase of only 2 per cent from 1965) while costs of selling and general administrative expenses rose 4.4 per cent in the same period.

Dr. Clark testified the majors spent $31,074,000 on player development and minor league operations in 1969 and that represented 25.2 per cent of operating revenue. Although total revenue figures were confidential, a little simple arithmetic revealed major league total operating revenue from tickets, radio-TV, concessions and advertising approximated $124 million and the net before taxes was about $4.5 million.

Dr. Clark followed the testimony of most baseball executives when he said elimination of the reserve system, which binds a player to a club for life, and most proposed modifications of the system would result in "the stronger teams getting stronger and the weaker teams getting weaker."

The economist testified the cost of developing an average big leaguer was $316,000 and that only seven per cent of those signing pro contracts made it to the majors. He said such figures made baseball a unique business operation.

Garrett Gets Baseball Job

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Garrett's status as a potential professional baseball player, after helping Kansas City win pro football's Super Bowl, was the most startling development of baseball's annual summer free agent draft.

Al Campanis, general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, startled the draft meeting Friday by announcing he was selecting the negotiation rights to Garrett on behalf of the Dodgers' Bakersfield, Calif., farm in the California League.

Garrett, an outfielder, played baseball in his college days at Southern California, prompting the Dodgers to draft him for baseball at the time. However, a five-year contract with the Kansas City Chiefs, reportedly for $450,000, was too attractive to turn down. The former Heisman Trophy winner gained over 1,000 yards for the Chiefs in 1967 and scored in the Super Bowl victory over Minnesota.

At the age of 26, the 5-foot-9 Garrett told the Associated Press Friday night, "I intend to play baseball and will negotiate with the Dodgers."

He has called a news conference for Monday afternoon to explain his decision to quit football after the 1971 season when his contract expires.

In his college days at USC, Garrett hit .390 in 38 games in 1965, slammed six homers and drove in 20 runs.

The baseball executives completed their two-day draft meetings with a total of 1,038 selections as compared to 1,147 a year ago and a record 1,169 in 1967. The draft gives the club the exclusive negotiating right to the player for a stated period. If he does not sign, he goes back into the pool for future re-draft. Players who had been drafted previously but did not sign are covered in a secondary phase.

Baltimore led with 67 draft picks, 57 in the regular phase and 10 in the secondary. Pittsburgh had the most, 60, in the regular phase.

David Kingman, a pitcher-outfielder from Southern California, was the first selection in the secondary phase. He was taken by the San Francisco Giants.

Braves, Sox Win In FL

The Braves bested the Giants 14-4 and the White Sox tripped the Yanks 5-1 in two Farm League contests held in Towle Park last night.

The Braves' Rudy England twirled a 3-hitter while Gerald Snyder and Lonnie Blackhard shared the mound duties for the White Sox.

Center Warren Koegel and linebacker Jack Ham, starters on Penn State's unbeaten football teams the last two seasons, will co-captain the 1970 squad. Koegel is from Glasco, N.Y. Ham from Johnstown, Pa.

Pitchers Shine In Junior Loop

There were some outstanding pitching performances in the Junior Teenage League last night with Tim Holder, Dodger pitcher, firing a 3-hitter at the Braves in a 13-3 triumph and with Marvin McClanahan, Bullet hurler, twirling a 1-hitter at the Rebels in a 9-1 victory.

The Dodgers erupted for seven runs in the 4th frame to turn the tide in their favor while the Bullets got the upperhand with a 5-run outburst in the 3rd.

Charles Cain doubled for the Dodgers while Scotty Sullivan stroked two singles. Single base hits were credited to Randy Dryden, Holder, and Weldon Sears.

Lee Melot got two of the Braves three hits — both singles — and Greg Godair got the other one, also for only one base.

Greg Gafford got the only Rebel hit while the Bullets' McClanahan aided his own cause with two safeties. Robert Hernandes got the only other Bullet hit as Rebel pitchers Wesley Key and Kevin Jones looked good in losing performances.

Travelers Blank Blues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Arkansas Travelers, who have spent their Texas League season chasing the Memphis Blues, finally caught them Monday night and took over the Eastern Division lead.

Joe DiFabio turned in a four-hit shutout as the Travelers blanked the Blues 5-0 Monday night to take a one-game lead in that division.

In other games El Paso downed Amarillo 5-2, San Antonio ripped Shreveport 10-5 and Dallas-Fort Worth thumped Albuquerque 13-7.

It was DiFabio's sixth victory in seven decisions this season. He didn't allow a Memphis runner past first base. Eddie Crosby slammed a two-run homer in the second inning for all the offense DiFabio needed.

Dayle Campbell blasted a three-run homer in the first inning to start El Paso toward its victory. Amarillo got its runs in the third and seventh, with Jim Howarth scoring both.

Ralph Rickey socked a three-run homer in the fourth inning for the Missions in their rout of Shreveport. Winning pitcher Ron Matney aided his own cause with a two-run single in the seventh. Dick Sauget hit a two-run homer in Shreveport's four-run third inning.

Greg Arnold maintained his mastery over Albuquerque, defeating the Dodgers for the third time this season. Arnold allowed 10 hits and walked seven, but held on for the victory.

Pokes Sign Six

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys signed six players Saturday, including three draft choices, two free agents and a college basketball player from Utah.

The draftees were Joe Williams, a running back from Wyoming, picked in the 12th round; 15th round selection Ken DeLong a tight end from Tennessee and Nebraska center Glen Patterson, drafted 17th.

Signing on as free agents were center Dale Evans of Kansas and defensive back Larry Holton of Iowa State.

Sox Win, Giants, Braves Tie In LL

The White Sox defeated the Yankees 19 to 13 in a wild hitting match and, the Giants and Braves were tied five and five when play was stopped after seven innings in two Little League tilts in Towle Park last night.

Willie Tippen led a White Sox hitting barrage with four hits, a double in the first and fifth, a home run in the fourth and a single in the sixth. Dennis Buchanan also rapped out four hits for the White Sox with a double in the first, single in the fourth and fifth and a home run in the sixth.

The White Sox players stroked three hits each. Bobby Riggins singled in the second and fifth and doubled in the fourth; Raul Villanueva stroked doubles in the first and sixth and singled in the fifth, while Arthur Ollison rapped three singles in the first, fifth, and sixth innings.

Aiding the White Sox attack Alvin Ollison singled in the first and doubled in the fifth, Danny Chaidez stroked a double in the first and singled in the fifth. Winding up the attack Oscar Ramirez and Larry Lee both stroked doubles in the sixth.

The Yankees hit White Sox pitchers Bobby Riggens and Willie Tippens for eight hits. Randy Rinker led the Yankee attack with three hits, a single in the first and doubles in the fourth and sixth. Salvador Canales rapped two singles, one in the first and fifth while Mike Forbes managed a single in the fifth and sixth, and Randy Wilson stroked a single in the second.

Bobby Riggens and Willie Tippens shared mound chores for the White Sox while Salvador Canales and Don Vaughn pitched for the Yankees.

In the National League the Giants hit Brave pitcher Brad Francis six times and Randy Riggs once.

Barry Blalock led the Giants hitting attack with singles in the first, sixth and seventh. Kenny Crow managed two hits, singles in the first and fifth while Kelly Ragland rapped a home run in the first and Gary Greenlee singled in the sixth.

The Braves managed three hits off Ricky Rice and one off Glenn Davis. Brad Francis singled in the first, Danny McCormick rapped singles in the fourth and seventh, and Kerry Young singled in the fourth.

Hockey Death Is Accidental

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — New York Rangers' right wing Ron Stewart has been cleared of any responsibility in the death of his teammate, goalie Terry Sawchuk, a National Hockey League veteran.

A Nassau County grand jury heard nine witnesses Monday, then ruled that Sawchuk's death May 31 was accidental.

Sawchuk, 40, was hospitalized April 29, following a scuffle with Stewart. The two shared a house in East Atlantic Beach, N.Y.

Nassau County Dist. Atty. William Cahn said all the witnesses had testified that no punches had been thrown between the two players, who reportedly had been arguing over housecleaning.

The witnesses said Sawchuk and Stewart, 37, began quarreling in a local bar and later continued their shoving and pushing match on the lawn of their home, where Sawchuk was injured.

The record-setting goalie died of a blood clot in New York Hospital following several operations.

Cahn termed the death "tragic, senseless, bizarre."

Cajuns, Jewell Collide Tonight

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Northeast Louisiana and William Jewell tangle tonight in the second round of the NAIA baseball world series after taking opening round victories.

The Louisianans capitalized on three errors and slammed home three runs in the final inning to defeat Pembroke State 8-3 in Monday night's second game. Earlier, William Jewell stemmed a three-run rally in the final inning to squeak by Central Washington 4-3.

Pembroke and Central Washington play at 2 p.m. today with the nightcap winner's bracket game starting at 8 p.m.

Bobby Orr, 22-year-old star of the Boston Bruins, is a native of Parry Sound, Ont.

Two Qualify In Junior Olympics

Two Snyder area youths qualified Saturday for the Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympics scheduled for July 25 at Abilene.

The regional qualifying meet was held at Perryton. Marsha Talley placed first in the 100 yard dash with a time of 11.5 seconds and dirst in the 220 with a time of 25.9. She also ran a leg on the winning 440-yard relay team, performing with the Abilene Track Club aggregation.

Gary Patterson placed first in the 70-yard high hurdles with a time of 8.6 seconds.

Phillips Named To Cup Team

For the second year in a row, John Phillips of Snyder has been named to the Texas Junior Davis Cup tennis team and will make the tour of national tournaments later in the summer.

Phillips, the Class AAA University Interscholastic League singles champion, downed David King of Abilene, 6-2, 6-2, in the Davis Cup competition which concluded yesterday at New Braunfels.

The eight-man Texas Junior Davis Cup Team is composed of Howard Butt of Houston, Dale Ogden of Bedford, Richard Walthall of San Antonio, Jim Bayless of Houston, Dan Nelson of Austin, Mitch Creekmore of Houston, Dan Murray of Fort Worth and Phillips.

Girls Softball Team Organizing

A girls softball team is being organized by R. J. Nelson and Albert Lewis. Anyone interested in playing is asked to attend workouts at 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

British Conservatives Are Calling For Change

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservatives, the party of Sir Winston Churchill, empire builders and upholders of tradition, are crying for change and reform as they campaign to recapture power.

After 5½ years in opposition and with recent popular feeling running against them, if the opinion polls are accepted, the Tories' appeal to the electorate has turned an unfamiliar note of desperation.

"Go out and fight," party leader Edward Heath exhorted his followers at the start of the battle to oust the ruling Laborites in next week's election: "Go out and fight for a better Britain."

It could be Heath's last chance. His divided party would be unlikely to forgive their leader a second defeat at the polls after their trouncing in 1966.

The Conservatives feel it should be self-evident that Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his Laborites are leading the country to ruin. They can't understand why voters should favor Labor. Therefore they may blame Heath for any rebuff by the electorate.

By tradition dating back to the days of Disraeli last century, they have represented the Establishment. Theirs has been the party of government, while Labor, except for brief periods, has been in opposition, a movement of protest and reform.

Now the roles are reversed and the Tories are offering change and reform to an electorate that seems to be largely in a complacent and reasonably satisfied mood.

Some Tories fear that five more years of Labor rule could relegate the Conservatives to a permanent role of opposition.

Heath's task is twofold: to arouse the electorate and to improve his own personal image. This last worries the party hierarchy. He has consistently run far behind Wilson in the popularity polls since taking over the party leadership from Sir Alec Douglas-Home in July 1965, even when his party was strongly favored.

Yet many believe Heath would be a good administrator. The anomaly stems from his personality.

Elected to Parliament in 1950, he was taken into Harold Macmillan's government in 1955 and moved steadily up the ladder of power with the party. He was defeated in October 1964.

Intimates say Heath, who is 53 and unmarried, enjoys the business of government but detests the rough and tumble of politics. He is often outmaneuvered by Wilson, a master of political infighting. Even Heath's hobbies—playing the organ and yachting—are unlikely to endear him to the man in the street.

Like Wilson, Heath comes from the lower middle class—his father was an industrial carpenter. He became the first non-Establishment leader of his party. He was educated, not at one of the great private schools, but at a grammar—high—school and at Oxford. He went into banking after serving as an artillery officer in World War II.

Party strategists are relying on their admittedly more efficient party organization and bigger campaign fund to get every possible Tory voter to the polls, especially in the marginal Laborite districts.

Heath defined the issues as he saw them in a speech to party candidates and district leaders launching the campaign:

"The biggest price rise in 20 years ... record unemployment—the highest for 30 years ... a record number of unofficial strikes ... the biggest tax increases in history."

The party's electoral platform seeks further curbs on immigration from Commonwealth countries and more stringent efforts to impose law and order, especially on student demonstrations.

In foreign affairs, the Tories want another stab at reaching a settlement with rebel Rhodesia and they would sell arms to South Africa. They would reverse the Labor government's policy of withdrawing armed forces from east of Suez by the end of 1971. Heath has said a Conservative government would join in forming a Commonwealth force to maintain order in Southeast Asia and would retain land, sea and air forces in the Persian Gulf.

In the crucial field of economic policy, Heath opposed the 1967 devaluation of the pound which many see as the main instrument in the nation's economic recovery. He has blamed half the present price explosion on wage-hungry government unions, rather than on inflationary policies through increased credit and overvaluation.

Heath chartered a 50-seat plane to take him on the most extensive speaking tour of Britain ever undertaken by a political leader. His top aides are barnstorming elsewhere. They include:

Douglas-Home, 66-year-old elder statesman and party spokesman on foreign affairs who renounced his title as the 14th Earl of Home in 1963 to succeed Macmillan at the helm. Educated at Eton and Oxford, he went into politics in 1931 and held ministerial posts in 1952-64. The tall, gaunt Scot is beloved among party rank and file.

Reginald Maudling, the party's 53-year-old deputy leader and spokesman on Commonwealth affairs. Oxford-educated, he entered Parliament in 1950 and held ministerial rank 1952-64. An easygoing family man, he likes nothing better than working on his farm during weekends. He lost the party leadership to Heath in 1965 but agreed to work under him.

Ian Macleod, 56 year old economics expert, a canny Scot who plays the bagpipes and speaks Gaelic. He is noted for his oratory and debating ability. First elected to Parliament in 1950, he was named health minister only two years later.

The campaign finds several former party greats on the sidelines. Anthony Eden, now Lord Avon, retired in 1957 because of ill health. He is 73. Another former prime minister, Harold Macmillan, now 76, retired for the same reason in 1963. R.A. Butler, former leader of the party's liberal wing, quit politics in a dispute with Douglas-Home and became master of Trinity College, Cambridge. He is now Lord Butler of Saffron Walden.

Campaigning for re-election as a Tory but not as a member of Heath's team is Enoch Powell, 58, right-wing maverick who opposes Heath on almost every political issue. Heath kicked him out of his "shadow Cabinet" in 1968 after Powell made a violent speech against further immigration by nonwhites. Heath said Powell would get no post in any government he headed. Powell may cost the Tories votes among uncommitted intellectuals.

PUBLIC NOTICE

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS
TO: RAYMOND E. DAVIS, Defendant, Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the County Court of Scurry County, at the Courthouse thereof, in Snyder, Texas, by filing a written answer at or before 10 o'clock A. M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 20th day of July, A. D. 1970, to Plaintiff's Petition filed in said court, on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1970, in this cause, numbered 2544 on the docket of said court and styled West Texas State Bank, Plaintiff, vs. Raymond E. Davis, Defendant.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to wit: Suit for balance due on three promissory notes in the total amount of $768.48 including interest and attorney's fees.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve the same according to requirements of law, and the mandates hereof, and make due return as the law directs.

Witness, Beverly Ainsworth, Clerk of the County Court(s) of Scurry County, Texas.

Issued and given under my hand and the seal of said court at Snyder, Texas, this the 3rd day of June A. D. 1970.

BEVERLY AINSWORTH, Clerk,
County Court
Scurry County, Texas
By Dell Smith, Deputy

Foreign Oil Role Eyed By TIPRO

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association members moved to get some action on a type of "participation" or participation in the oil importing program.

The move was taken at the TIPRO convention here Monday.

A the same time, the association elected to maintain its policy of participating in other efforts to neutralize what the state organization terms the advantage foreign oil holds over the domestic product.

Such participation would include federal legislation, the group said.

The action on the separate TIPRO step was set in motion by Johnny Mitchell, Houston independent and former association president.

At Mitchell's suggestion, TIPRO President William J. Murray Jr. of Austin was instructed to name a five-man committee of association members to confer with top officials of the American Petroleum Institute prior to the National Petroleum Council's scheduled July meeting in Washington.

Such a conference, said Mitchell, would seek to place before API leaders what he described as the deteriorating position of independents within the industry and obtain their help in devising a producer-explorer program.

Also addressing Monday's meeting was the director of the State Department's Office of Fuels and Energy, James Atkins.

Atkins said world crude oil prices are launched on an unmistakable upward trend under the twin influences of demand and politics.

"I believe the world's price of oil will go up in the next decade—and drastically," he told TIPRO members on the second day of their convention.

"The basic fact is that the United States must not become dependent on foreign oil" Atkins continued. "If that happens, a crash program would need to follow to correct the situation."

"Restriction on oil imports is not protectionist in intent," he said. "National security is the guiding factor."

"The State Department believes restrictions on oil imports are necessary for both economic and security reasons."

However, Atkins appeared to agree with figures showing that by 1980, half of the United States' anticipated demand of 20 million barrels of oil daily will come from foreign sources.

Atkins said the question of the moment is whether limitation of imports will be by tariffs or the present quota system.

He could offer no information as to the decision President Nixon will make on the issue, but said "What ever system we adopt, it must provide security."

Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., told TIPRO members in another talk that he would put before Congress within two weeks legislation that would prohibit the imposition of a tariff system on oil imports if the tariff would break domestic wellhead prices.

He said this could be done by amending the International Trade Act.

Bush also advised that he plans to withdraw legislation he introduced several months ago making permanent the existing oil imports program.

"If my change to the trade bill limiting the use of tariffs is adopted, then legislation making the present program permanent will be less urgent," he said.

Bush also said any tariff proposal designed to break the price of crude oil in the U.S. would endanger the industry, consumers and national security.

Fast Ship Victim Of Jet Age

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The proud liner United States, which holds the record for the fastest transAtlantic crossing by a ship, is being placed in dead storage —a victim of the jet age and the fiscal balance sheet.

The liner lost more than $4 million last year despite a $12 million federal subsidy.

The United States Lines said Monday it will pay the Norfolk Port and Industrial Authority $9,000 per month to keep the 8-year-old superliner at the Norfolk terminal.

She was rejected for storage by her builder the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., whose officials said they had no room for her 940-foot length.

The British liner Queen Elizabeth left Cherbourg on a Thursday morning in August 1952 about 30 minutes before the United States left LeHavre. The next day the U.S. ship overtook the British liner near Cornwall, England. When the vessels were about one mile apart they dipped their ensigns in salute.

With that, the U.S. ship went on to beat the Queen to New York by about 12 hours. The United States' official record, set on another crossing, is three days, 10 hours and 40 minutes.

The $79.4-million ship made more than 400 crossings, and carried more than a million passengers, including such notables as the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and Prince Rainier of Monaco.

The owners of the ship said high wages made it too costly to run, and that jet airliners were taking away passengers.

An official of the United States Lines said it would cost $600,000 a year to maintain the ship in idleness, including the cost of a skeleton crew.

Treasury Bond Thefts Soar

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Theft of government securities has become so widespread that some insurance firms have balked at covering U.S. Treasury bonds, the Federal Reserve Board says.

Losses reached $20 million last year for banks in New York City alone. Wall Street brokerage firms were hit hard also, the board said.

The FBI, keeper of the only full list of which securities are stolen, won't make its data available to banks that may be confronted with a suspicious bond, the board told Congress.

The report was sent privately from the Federal Reserve Board to a House investigating subcommittee. A copy was obtained by the Associated Press.

The board made no mention of Mafia involvement in the rash of thefts from the multibillion-dollar flow on Wall Street of Treasury bills, bonds and notes —each a type of loan to the government that can be cashed in or sold.

But it said insurance firms have been hiking their fees for covering the government bonds in Wall Street hands since last fall and, in several cases, have refused to furnish any more protection.

The theft losses last year were substantially higher than any other year in history, the report said.

It cited the $13 million disappearance from the Morgan Trust Company as well as two other New York bank cases that each topped $1 million.

Many Treasury bills are payable to the bearer and can be cashed easily. Other stolen securities have been used as collateral to get loans at banks ranging from Miami, Fla., to a small town in central Pennsylvania. Still other stolen bonds are carried overseas for sale.

The Federal Reserve Board report was sent in response to inquiries by Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of a House government operations subcommittee.

The report said the Treasury had stopped keeping its central list of stolen securities 12 years ago, although it said several regional banks in the Federal Reserve system had renewed an informal checklist last fall to block attempts to cash stolen Treasury bills and bonds.

The FBI has a computerized list of stolen securities, but it will give out the information only to police agencies and not to banks, the board said.

The report recommended the FBI data be made available directly to banks, brokers and other financial firms. If this can't be done, it said some other federal agency should start keeping a computerized checklist of the stolen government bonds.

Mace Is Used For Original Purpose

By WILLIAM MORRISSEY
Associated Press Writer

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A 77-year-old professor of Romance languages has asserted the authority of Cornell University by swinging its symbol—a mace—on a young demonstrator.

Morris Bisho, Alpha Kappa professor emeritus, carried the university mace in Monday's commencement exercises here and used it to beat back a youth trying to wrest the microphones from university officials.

"The mace," Bishop related, "was originally a weapon of offense in the Middle Ages. Richard the Lionhearted used to carry one at his side all the time.

"So I saw no reason why I shouldn't use it for the same purpose. I poked him and pushed him back."

Witnesses said Bishop, a stocky man, took the 14-pound silver and gold instrument from his right shoulder and delivered a blow at the young man's side.

"He stumbled back a few feet," Bishop said, "then a couple of the strong-arm boys (campus police) took him away."

Police arrested three of the demonstrators. Two, a student and a former student identified by university officials as an activist leader during his days on campus, were charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

The third man, who police said was not associated with the university, was charged with third degree assault.

The 4-foot mace is a tapered silver shaft with a gold terrestrial globe at the top. The globe is surrounded by silver ribs and a 1½-inch image of a bear holding an oar sits on top.

It was designed by Sir Eric Clements of the Goldsmith's Guild of London.

Bishop is no stranger to campus disorders, though his research in the subject has centered mainly on the 19th century variety.

In a recent talk before the Board of Trustees of the Cornell University Council, Bishop termed current campus demonstrations tame compared to those of the early 1800s.

Speaking on the "lower depths of higher education," he detailed pitched battles with faculty members, horsewhipping and cannon bombardments. On occasion, he said, the faculty fought back.

Rumoc Regime Aided By Vote

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Italy's first regional elections have given Premier Mariano Rumoc's center-left coalition government a strong boost, while the Communists did not do as well as generally expected.

The voting Sunday and Monday put Rumor's coalition in control of 12 of Italy's 15 new regional legislatures, and the four government parties got 58.2 per cent of the 32.7 million votes cast, an improvement of 2.8 per cent over the last national election in 1968.

The Communists and their allies, the Proletarian Socialist party, took 31.1 per cent of the total vote, won a majority in the legislature of the northcentral region of Emilia-Romagna, which includes Bologna, and were the biggest vote-getters in Tuscany—Florence—and Umbria. But in the latter two regions they fell short of a majority and will have to win the support of one of the center-left parties to govern.

After gaining in every major election since the war, the Communists got 27.9 per cent of the vote, a tenth of a per cent under their 1968 showing. The Proletarian Socialists lost nearly one-third of their support, dropping to 3.2 per cent. The Communists, failure to gain was believed due at least partly to a party split over the 1968 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The regional governments are being set up in an attempt to achieve a sweeping decentralization of the government promised by the 1948 constitution. The regional legislatures will be able to draft laws concerning urban planning, agriculture, hunting and social and medical assistance. The precise limits of the regional powers are to be prescribed by the central parliament within two years.

The Communists will have local control over nearly one-fifth of the Italian territory, a wide strip across the peninsula containing 8 million people, or 15 per cent of the population.

The center-left coalition gained votes despite a drop of nearly one per cent by Rumor's Christian Democratic party, the largest in Italy, which took 37.9 per cent of the vote. Factional feuding and an unusual lack of public support by the Roman Catholic hierarchy were blamed for the slight Christian Democrat decline.

The big party's loss was offset by gains for the Unitarian Socialists, which took 7 per cent of the vote; the Republicans, 2.9 per cent, and the Socialists, 10.4 per cent.

The gains by the coalition partners were expected to increase support for legalization of divorce in Italy, which they want and the Catholic party opposes.

The concentration of votes in the center was expected to strengthen Rumoc's hand in a coming test of strength with labor. The unions embarked this spring on a forceful campaign of strikes for social reforms, including health, housing and tax benefits. The government said it could not afford all of them right away. The unions called a truce for the last two weeks of the campaign, but Monday night they announced a new series of strikes.

Special Interest In Burglaries

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Police have a special interest in three recent burglaries here.

The victims were policemen themselves, one on duty at the time.

Patrolman John Little reported two portable television sets were taken from his home and patrolman Paul Hernandez said three rifles and cases were stolen from his apartment.

Patrolman Richard Flack said that while he was on duty, a camera was stolen from his personal car—parked across the street from police headquarters.

Dr. Garver Heads Houston Schools

HOUSTON (AP) — Trustees Monday night named Dr. George G. Garver of Walled Lake, Mich., general superintendent of the Houston school district, the nation's sixth largest.

He will replace Dr. Charles R. Nelson, who has been acting superintendent since April 1 when Glenn Fletcher retired. Nelson had sought the job.

A native of Monte Vista, Colo., Garver, 38, has been superintendent of schools at Walled Lake since 1965. That school district has 10,400 pupils, compared with 245,000 in the Houston system.

Garver will receive a three-year contract at a beginning annual salary of $41,500.

Golden Eagle Is Not Ready

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nature lovers eager to "Follow the Golden Eagle to America's Great Outdoors" are being told by embarrassed Interior Department spokesmen they'll have to get along with the old fashioned green eagle—the one on the dollar bill.

The Golden Eagle, a bargain priced admission ticket to more than 3,000 federal recreation areas, is grounded waiting for the fog to lift in the House of Representatives.

With the vacation season already well under way outdoorsmen have no choice for the time being but to pay as they go, shelling out individual fees for each day they spend in federal parks, forest and preserves.

For the past five years, vacationers have been able to purchase for $7 a Golden Eagle passport admitting a carload of people for unlimited visits to national recreation areas throughout a full year.

Single admissions, on the other hand, usually cost about $1 a day per carload.

The Golden Eagle covered areas under the Interior Department, Forest Service and U.S. Corps of Engineers. The legislation supporting it, however, expired March 31.

The Senate has approved an unlimited extension. The House version, which stalled after clearing committee, extends the Golden Eagle only until next Dec. 31.

A spokesman said the House Interior committee was not completely sold on the Golden Eagle and felt a temporary extension would allow time for "a real long look at it."

A House vote on the extension was postponed two weeks ago and has yet to be rescheduled.

Pending legislation may eventually increase the cost of the Golden Eagle from $7 to $10, but even that would be a bargain for frequent visitors.

Interior Department spokesmen say they have no way of knowing exactly how many people visited national recreation areas using the Golden Eagle, or how often or how long they stayed. But nearly 681,000 of the passes were sold in fiscal 1969.

A survey made in 1967 estimated the average vacation group included three or four people and spent five or six days in the national recreation areas.

Golden Eagle holders, in contrast, spent an average of 13 days in federal areas, the survey estimated.

An Interior Department spokesman said inquiries about the Golden Eagle were flowing in recently at the rate of about 500 a week.

No Warning Shots For Dallas Police

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A new directive to Dallas police says they must not use warning shots but may shoot to kill when they feel the situation warrants such action.

Police Chief Frank Dyson, explaining his instructions about using firearms at a news conference Monday, admitted action had been hastened by two recent cases in which suspects had been shot.

He explained that the ban on the use of warning shots is "not intended to require officers to further endanger themselves or a third party by aiming to wound the offender, but neither is the aim to be calculated to kill."

"Weapons are to be used by an officer when, in the exercise of sound judgment, he has reason to fear for his own personal safety and the safety of others," the police chief said.

While the directive was based on state laws, he said, the sound judgment of the officer was emphasized.

"An officer's first reaction in a stress situation should not be to reach for his gun and fire, but rather to make a determination of whether he can do his job without using his weapon," Dyson said.

Each officer, he added, had the solemn obligation of "recognizing the importance of human life and remaining constantly aware of this in his performance of his duty as a policeman."

Dyson hinted that a shakeup in the departmental command of Dallas police was in the making. He also said the Dallas Chamber of Commerce is considering underwriting a public relations program aimed at giving the police department an improved image.

GIRL WANTS TO BE VETERINARIAN

Dear Joyce: If possible, I would like some information on a career as a veterinarian. The interested youth is a girl of 15, a sophomore in high school. — MRS. W.D., HAVERTOWN, PA.

Love of animals isn't enough to make a veterinarian out of a girl. It's a six-year college course, and is science-oriented. Only about 5 per cent of veterinarians are women but there's no reason determined girls should not try. TAX ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

• • •

Q — I lost my refund check. Can I get a duplicate?

A — Yes, report this loss to the IRS service center where you filed your return and they will supply the forms needed to apply for a replacement.

Q — What's the deadline for paying my second estimated tax installment for 1970?

A — Second quarter estimated income tax payments should be made by June 15, 1970. Be sure to use the pre-addressed voucher and envelope that came with the Form 1040ES tax package you received in February.

Q — Is it true college students aren't subject to income tax withholding anymore?

A — Last year's tax reform law makes it possible for some students to avoid having income taxes withheld on parttime or summer jobs under certain conditions.

To qualify, the student must have had no Federal income tax liability in 1969 and anticipate none this year. If that is the case, the student should notify his employer. This covers only Federal income tax withholding. Social Security taxes will continue to be withheld.

This provision of the law affects any taxpayer who qualifies such as retired persons and others who may work part-time.

Q — Aren't tax rates supposed to be lower for single taxpayers?

A — Yes, beginning in 1971 tax rates will be lower for single taxpayers. The change will reduce the tax paid by single people to no more than 20 percent greater than what a married couple would pay on this same income on a joint return.

Q — If my son earns too much on his summer job, will I lose my exemption for him?

A — The amount of your child's earnings will not change his dependency status if he is under 19 at the end of the year or was a full-time student for some part of each of five months of the year. In such a case, you may continue to claim his exemption as long as you provide more than half his total support and the other tests are met.

Q — I lost the form I used to deposit the taxes I withheld from my employee's wages. Where can I get more?

A — Contact your local IRS office or service center for Federal Tax Deposit Form 501. When you make your request, give your name, business name, address, and employer identification number. Also indicate the type of tax, tax period and number of forms you need.

Q — My daughter was honored as the best student in her graduating class and was given a $100 savings bond. Is this taxable?

A — If she won the bond for her overall educational record, then it probably is not taxable. Prizes are taxable if the winner had to perform a specific act such as write an essay or do a project.

The general rule is that prizes given in recognition of past accomplishments in educational fields are not taxable if the recipient is selected without action on his part and is not expected to render future services as a condition of receiving the award. The same rule applies for prizes in religious, charitable, scientific, artistic, literary or civic fields.

Man, Grandson Drown In Bay

SEADRIFT, Tex. (AP) — Fritz Webber, 70, and his grandson, 14-year-old Myron Harbroth, both of Seadrift, drowned Monday when a big wave threw the boy into the water and the grandfather dived to rescue him while they were sailing in San Antonio Bay.

Both bodies were recovered by the Coast Guard.
