US Ready To Offer Easier Terms In Test Ban Treaty

PROTESTER HIT — A Finnish mounted policeman hits a protesting student over the head with his truncheon during a clash between Finnish Nationalist students and members of the Soviet-inspired World Youth Festival meeting in Helsinki. The students were protesting the Communist festival being held in their country. In three tear gas attacks, policemen broke up a demonstration by about 5,000 youths in the downtown area. JFK's Envoy Will Return To Geneva

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy is ready to offer Russia easier terms for a nuclear test ban treaty if Moscow will agree to inspections on Soviet soil.

Kennedy said at his news conference late Wednesday that U.S. disarmament negotiator Arthur Dean would return to Geneva with the new proposition.

The President said "important new technical assessments" promised a "simpler and more economical" means of detecting underground explosions, making it possible to offer Russia easier terms for policing a test ban agreement.

But Kennedy emphasized that some on-the-scene inspections still were necessary to distinguish between nuclear explosions and earthquakes.

May Need Fewer

"It may be that we shall not need as many as we have needed in the past," he said, "but we find no justification for the Soviet claim that a test ban treaty can be effective without on-site inspection."

In its April, 1961, proposals at Geneva, the United States demanded 20 inspections a year on Soviet territory, in addition to permanent detection posts. Russia rejected the on-site inspections, and agreed to the detection posts only if they were manned by Soviet nationals.

New data obtained from the Project Vela underground atomic tests in Nevada make it easier to detect small underground blasts from a greater distance. But congressional experts say there has been no significant change in the means of telling an earthquake, from an atomic blast.

Public Will Be Informed

Kennedy said he would keep Congress and the public fully informed of U.S. moves toward a test ban treaty. Such a treaty would require two-thirds support in the Senate.

Shortly after the news conference, Kennedy met at the White House with Dean, disarmament adviser John J. McCloy, Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, new chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Other points Kennedy touched at his news conference:

Thalidomide — Kennedy urged every housewife to check her medicine cabinet for the baby-deforming drug thalidomide. He urged Congress to pass strong legislation to guard the public against such harmful drugs.

Albany — He described the Albany, Ga., racial situation as "completely unsatisfactory." He said he found it "wholly inexplicable" that the Albany city council would not try to work with the Negro citizens.

Taxes — Kennedy said the Labor Department report showing a

Aluminum Workers End Walkout With 2 Firms

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The Reynolds Metals Co. joined the Aluminum Company of America today in reaching agreement with the Aluminum Workers of America, ending the one-day walkout by 16,000 workers.

Alcoa came to terms with the union Wednesday night. Early today Reynolds agreed on a similar pact.

The two-year contracts, providing improved pension and vacation benefits but no wage increases, were subject to approval by union locals, which may take as long as 10 days.

The Alcoa agreement covered all of its strike bound plants and workers began returning to their jobs.

Reynolds' agreement, covered all but the Bellwood, Va., plant, where further negotiation may be needed on local issues before the strike ends, officials said.

The strike of 225 members of the International Association of Machinists and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers continued at Reynolds' McCook, Ill., sheet and plate mill, largest of its kind in the nation. The walkout has idled 3,000 workers, most of them members of the United Steelworkers, which reached contract agreement with Reynolds June 28.

The McCook strike has stalled armor plate production for the Defense Department, along with sheet aluminum production for aircraft and missiles.

Negotiations continued at Pittsburgh between Alcoa officials and the United Auto Workers, which represents production workers at the firm's Chicago, Cleveland, Ohio; Edison, N. J.; and Vernon, Calif. plants. Expired contracts have been extended on a day-to-day basis.

Neither Alcoa nor Reynolds officials could give any immediate estimate on the value per hour of the fringe changes in the new contracts, which contain provision for reopening of wage, pension and insurance clauses upon 30 days notice after June 1, 1963.

However, the Alcoa vacation and pension benefits alone were said to be worth an additional 7½ cents an hour. Most workers will get an additional half-week of paid vacation. The pension improvement was up to 4½ cents an hour. Each employe will also be guaranteed 32 hours pay for any week in which he was employed.

Reynolds workers will get improved vacation and pension benefits and a continuation of their 23 cents an hour cost of living allowance.

'Miss Texas' Winners Are Announced

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Bonnie Beebe — Miss Arlington — won the swimsuit competition and carol Ann Scalco — Miss Beaumont — took the talent award Wednesday night at the Miss Texas pageant in Fort Worth.

The four - day pageant will reach a climax, Saturday night at Will Rogers Coliseum with the selection of Miss Texas. The winner will compete in the Miss America pageant later in the year in Atlantic City, N. J.

A crowd estimated at 1,000 watched 44 beauties from cities across Texas parade before the judges. Prior to the contest, Patricia Smith of Houston — Miss Sam Houston State College — withdrew from competition.

The swimsuit award was presented by Maria Beale Fletcher, the current Miss America. The current Miss Texas, Linda Loftis of Fort Worth, awarded the talent plaque.

The winner will also win a 5-day expense-free trip to Mexico City. A total of $3,000 in scholarships will be given away.

The contestants range between 4 feet, 11 inches and 5 feet, 8 inches in height.

Two Airplanes Narrowly Avert Aerial Collision

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)— The headline that never happened:

184 DIE IN WORST CRASH

But it could have happened Tuesday. Two jetliners with 184 persons aboard raced toward each other at a combined speed of about 1,200 miles an hour and at the same 33,000-foot altitude over central Kansas.

The piot of one squinted into the setting sun. The pilot of the other, tensely awaited radio instructions to change course — instructions that never came.

A collision was avoided when Capt. C. E. Davis, pilot of a Trans World Airlines Convair 880 jet, veered his huge plane to the right missing by 400 yards or less a big American Airlines Boeing 707 jet.

A collision at that altitude almost certainly would have spelled aviation's worst disaster, surpassing the aerial collision of a United Air Lines DC8 and a TWA Super Constellation over New York City Dec. 16, 1960, which killed 134 persons.

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) Wednesday admitted a "human error" at its radar control center south of Kansas City caused Tuesday's near collision. Now the FAA is trying to pinpoint how that "human error" occurred.

Marshall Benedict, FAA regional public affairs officer, said a controller and an air traffic coordinator at the center had been suspended, pending completion of an investigation. Neither was identified.

"The suspensions are routine in a matter such as this," Benedict said.

"But the error obviously was at the control center. It was a human error, not mechanical. We intend to find out exactly why it was committed."

Revised Bill Is Expected By Senator

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said today he figures the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will revise the space communications bill to allow President Kennedy to control international negotiations, involving any satellite corporation.

Gore, a member of the committee, and other liberal Democrats led the five-day filibuster which resulted in the bill being returned to the committee for a 10-day study.

The legislation to create a privately owned, government regulated communications satellite corporation must be reported back to the Senate for action by noon on Aug. 10.

Gore said the bill, as it now stands, gives the corporation "a primary seat" in foreign negotiations involving space communications, and "the President a secondary one."

"The Constitution," Gore said, "contemplated it to be the other way around."

Other congressional news:

Bonds — The House Foreign Affairs Committee met behind closed doors to work out a compromise proposal to purchase United Nations bonds. Sources say President Kennedy has told the lawmakers he will accept a compromise if it will assure passage of the bill.

More Rain For Already-Soaked Areas In Texas

By United Press International

Thunderstorms dumped up to 3 inches of rain on already-soaked North Texas again today, driving scores of persons from the Fort Worth suburb of Richland Hills. The rain flooded underpasses in Dallas.

Parched South Texas sweltered again with no rain in sight.

Big Fossil Creek rose to 19.1, about a foot higher than last Friday's near-record rains at Richland Hills. Ten families moved out then. Carswell Air Force Base at Fort Worth sent a fleet of trucks to take people from their homes — possibly 30 families. Some already are flooded.

The worst was at the point where the creek empties into the Trinity River.

The heavy rains soaked a wide section of North Texas, hindering traffic and flooding underpasses in both Dallas and Tarrant Counties.

The rain dropped overnight temperatures to 62 at Dalhart, 66 at Amarillo and 66 at Lubbock, compared with 81 at Galveston. Presidio had Wednesday's high of 105.

A tornado struck a farm near Midland Wednesday.

Three separate thunderstorm systems moved out of West and Northwest Texas into the North Central portion of the state early today packing winds up to 55 miles an hour and heavy rain.

The storms developed in a sys-

In Defiance To Soviet Warning

Army Helicopters Cross Into Communist Territory

BERLIN (UPI) —The United States Army today defied a Soviet warning and sent two helicopters over East Berlin.

The helicopters crossed the border four-to-five times each and flew as far as Marx Engels Platz, about a mile from the border.

All the flights were registered at Berlin's four-power air safety center and the Russian controller at the center protested the flights, informed sources said.

But the Russians did not—as they did last Monday—threaten to shoot the helicopters down, the sources said.

The Army sent the helicopters across the border as Communist East German newspapers demanded that the West give up its air corridors to Berlin.

The new demand came as the Communists appeared to be stepping up pressure toward a new Berlin crisis to coincide with the first anniversary of their anti-refugee wall.

The newspaper National Zeitung accused the West of allowing "aggressive gangs of all shades to misuse the airways." The Communist youth paper Junge Welt said there had been "unscrupulous misuse" of the corridors.

Moscow radio said Wednesday night that East Germany would take control of all access routes to Berlin under separate Soviet-East German treaty. It did not say when.

Western diplomats took this and East German leader Walter Ulbricht's trip to Russia to mean that Communists were planning a new showdown timed for the Aug. 13 anniversary.

The broadcast said the whole territory of East Germany would be "absolutely liberated," providing East German control over all access routes to a "free, demilitarized city" of West Berlin.

Britain Refuses Political Asylum To Robert Soblen

LONDON (UPI)—Britain today refused political asylum to Dr. Robert Soblen and ordered him back to the United States to start serving a life sentence for spying for the Soviets.

Home Secretary Henry Brooke, in an announcement to the House of Commons, said the British government had found "no ground for granting Dr. Soblen political sylum here."

"He is not in danger of persecution in his own country for his political opinions or on racial grounds," Brooke said.

"Dr. Soblen is a convicted spy, a fugitive from a sentence imposed on him by the courts of a country whose life is based on democratic institutions and constitutional guarantees."

The statement said it had ordered the Israeli El Al airline to fly Soblen back to the United States.

Soblen, a 61-year-old native of Lithuania, had been deported by Israel last month and was on his way back to the United States aboard an El Al airliner when he slashed himself in the stomach and wrists forcing the plane to land in London so he could be hospitalized.

Soblen, convicted of wartime espionage for Russia, had jumped $100,000 bail in New York last June 25 and fled to Israel just before he was due to surrender to federal authorities in New York to start his life term.

Local Girl To State Dress Revue Contest

Competing against 18 county 4-H Dress Revue winners, Phyllis Dalsing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl T. Dalsing, 1113 Huff Road., was chosen one of four top contestants in district 4 - H dress revue competition in Amarillo yesterday.

Miss Dalsing will model her blue - ribbon suit in state dress revue competition at the State Fair in Dallas in October.

The four girls, Miss Dalsing, Gail Carruth of Dallam County; Linda Holt of Hansford County and Mary Ann Edlin of Swisher County, will compete against 46 other district winners.

Miss Dalsing made and modeled a turquoise blue wool suit with a brown and turquoise silk print overblouse. She wore brown accessories, elbow-length gloves, bag and heels and a matching turquoise velveteen pillbox hat.

Judges for district competition were Dr. Graham Hard, clothing specialist for College Station; Miss Gena Brazeale, assistant home demonstration agent, Hale County; and Miss Leila Petty, home demonstration agent, Swisher County.

2 Wells Drilled At Illegal Slant

KILGORE (UPI) — Two more oil wells drilled at an illegal slant have been found in the East Texas oil field, the Kilgore office of the Railroad Commission said Wednesday.

The two leases the wells were found on have had all pipelines severed, the commission said. The total of oil wells now found to be slanted more than the maximum three degrees is 83.

PLANS ITALIAN TRIP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her 4-year-old daughter Carolina leave for an Italian vacation by jet on the evening of Aug. 7.

The First Lady's press secretary said they will leave from New York, arriving in Rome Aug. 8 and boarding a charter plane at Rome for Naples.

Cox To Cap Panhandle Tour With Barbecue, Rally In Pampa Saturday

Jack Cox, Republican candidate for governor, will climax an all-day tour of the Panhandle with a speech at a Republican rally in Pampa Saturday.

The western-style barbecue and rally will be held at 7 p.m. at the Rodeo Grounds.

Cox will begin the day with a coffee at 8:45 a.m. in Dumas, Mrs. Warren Fatheree, district committeewoman, said. He will arrive at 10:30 a.m. in Dalhart, where he will take part in the XIT Rodeo parade.

The tour includes a luncheon at 1 p.m. in Perryton, a gathering at 3 p.m. at E. J.'s Restaurant in Canadian, and a meeting at 4:30 p.m. at the Shamrock Country Club in Shamrock.

Cox will arrive in Pampa at 6:30 p.m. for the barbecue. In case of rain, it will be held inside the Top O' Texas Community Barn.

Tickets for the rally may be obtained from Charles Norton, Mrs. Warren Fatheree, or any member of Gray County Republicans.

Adult tickets are $2.50 and children's tickets, 50 cents.

Drug Control Legislation Seems Likely

By DAVID BURNHAM

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress today appeared likely to heed President Kennedy's plea for additional controls on drugs, but not necessarily to the extent the Chief Executive would like.

Initial reaction was summed up by Rep. William Springer, R-Ill., a ranking Republican member of the House Commerce Committee.

"I'm inclined to believe we'll act," Springer said. "Everyone is in favor of the objectives of the bill. The only question is how far it should go."

Kennedy, at his news conference Wednesday, urged every housewife to check her medicine cabinet for the baby-deforming sedative thalidomide.

He said "additional legislative safeguards" on drugs were necessary to assure that the future does not hold "even more serious disasters."

Thalidomide never was sold commercially in the United States. But it was given to many patients for test purposes, and some Americans bought the drug overseas.

Kennedy praised the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), and particularly staff member Dr. Frances Kelsey, for keeping thalidomide off the market.

But he said the events surrounding the drug emphasized again "the urgency of providing additional protection to American consumers from harmful or worthless drug products."

Kennedy expressed disappointment that the Senate Judiciary Committee had cut from its bill some of the recommendatons he had made last March. He called for passage of the administration bill in the House.

He said this measure, unlike the Senate bill, would permit the immediate removal from the market of a new drug "where there is an immediate hazard to public health, which cannot be done now."

Abortion Plans Remain A Mystery

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Sherri Finkbine's plans to terminate the pregnancy of the child she fears may be horribly deformed by thalidomide remained a mystery today. But she said she hopes to find a country where she can obtain an abortion before Sunday.

"We hope it can be done as soon as possible," she told United Press International Wednesday. "The doctor thinks it will have to be done by Sunday if we are to avoid a Caesarian operation.

"We have made no decision on where to obtain the abortion," the 30-year-old mother of four healthy children said late Wednesday. "We have to weigh our decision and leave it up to doctors and lawyers to see what to do."

The local television personality and her husband, Robert, decided to leave the country for the operation when their efforts for legal sanction to protect them against possible prosecution failed.

The Finkbines decided to terminate the pregnancy when they learned thalidomide was blamed for thousands of malformed births in Europe and other countries.

Texas-Oklahoma Area Had 1 Case

A federal Food and Drug Administration official said Wednesday that an investigation into the use of the tranquilizing drug thalidomide in the Texas - Oklahoma area has turned up only one deformed birth because of the drug.

"We have found to date one case of birth defect due to the use of this investigational drug in our area," said Norman Foster, acting district director for the Food and Drug Administration in Dallas.

"One encouraging thing we have noted from our reports so far received is that many of the tablets received were not used," Foster said. "In addition, a substantial number of those received were used for women who were past the child - bearing age, who were in the latter stages of pregnancy or who were not pregnant.

"No Effect"

"There is the possibility that it (the drug) has gone to women in the early stages of pregnancy. We know that some went to women in the latter stages of pregnancy, but there was no effect."

He said state, federal and local officials went over hundreds of

Capitol Hill Commentary

By CHARLES W. CORDDRY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There seems to be a popular belief that the Kennedy administration has adopted many controversial defense proposals of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor which were rejected by the Eisenhower administration.

To a large or small degree, depending on the viewpoint, this is true and the belief has been propelled along by President Kennedy's nomination of Taylor to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

But there still is enough inflammatory material in the Taylor catechism on defense to cause wonderment, curiosity and apprehension in the Pentagon, to which Taylor returns on Sept. 30 after a three-year absence.

There is wonderment that the President reached into the retired ranks for a successor to Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, the present chairman who will succeed retiring Gen. Lauris Norstad as supreme allied commander in Europe.

There is curiosity as to whether two such strong-willed and self-assured men as 45-year-old Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and 61-year-old Gen. Taylor will have a sure modus operandi or can be expected to clash on key ideas that Taylor long has espoused.

There is both curiosity and apprehension among members of the military services, who recall Taylor's stormy times as Army chief of staff and the extent of opposition he encountered from the other services and somewhat from within his own.

He retired in Juy, 1959, after the normal four years as Army chief, but was recalled to duty at the White House in 1961 as Kennedy's personal military representative.

Taylor put his defense concepts and proposals firmly on record in a book and in congressional testimony after his retirement. So, presumably, he will be able to translate these ideas into officials recommendations and to undertake some of the "housecleaning" he said was needed in the Pentagon.

The belief that he has swayed the Kennedy administration to proposals rejected by the Eisenhower administration stems largely from decisions next year to enlarge the Army, increase airlifts, build more modern weapons, emphasize conventional arms expansion, and provide a more flexible defense posture for a wide range of threats.

Much of this came about at the time of the Berlin crisis and it was indignantly denied in McNamara's behalf that Taylor was the motivating force.

Notes From Wall Street

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ralph Rotnem of Harris, Upham & Co. says the overbought condition that has bothered the stock market for some time has now been largely corrected so that the list should again be in a position to respond more readily to favorable news.

To indicate a continuation of the summer rally, the averages will now have to better their recent highs of 600 for industrials, 126 for rails, and 116 for the utilities, preferably with a pickup in volume, the analyst thinks.

Investors Research Co., the West Coast advisory service, says what we must watch for now is a gradual move above the July high of 599 in the D-J industrial average, accompanied by a large number of daily advancing stocks. It says if this is accomplished within the next four to six weeks, it will be an important signpost of a strong fall market and a major advance in stock prices.

Walter Mintz of Shearson, Hammill & Co. sees no reason to change his earlier view that in the months ahead the stock market will move in a relatively narrow range and that the June lows are not likely to be penetrated, at least for a time.

Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. says the market is obviously making an attempt to cross the 600 barrier in the D-J industrial average and the action suggests that the summer rally has further to go. "It should be borne in mind," he adds, "that a market usually creates increasing confidence as it moves ahead."

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Nearly eight years ago, Patty McCormack dazzled Broadway as a child murderess in "The Bad Seed" — and one would hardly expect to find her in that lowly art form, a television soap opera.

Yet that is where she is, a new regular of NBC-TV's daily weeper, "Young Dr. Malone."

One's first impulse is to lament that, like many child stars who have created unforgettable stereotypes, such as Shirley Temple and Margaret O'Brien, she may have fallen flat on her career. And it is tempting to wish she would do with her new job what architect Frank Lloyd Wright suggested to officials after a look at Pittsburgh, namely: "Abandon it."

To this viewer, however, who watched her Wednesday and at other times on "Malone," there is an admirable practicality, professionalism and lack of affectation about her decision to take the part.

Reason For Everything

There is a reason for everything. And one may assume that Miss McCormack, now in her late teens, took the role for the usual reasons that one accepts comedown jobs. She is also at the awkward age for an actress who does not play sexpots. Whatever the reason, she had the sense to know an actress is not an actress unless she is acting.

In "Malone," she plays Lisha Koda, a child born out of wedlock and later legally adopted. And Wednesday, as always, she made the program seem far better than it deserves. She looked after a little girl at night and gave the show a sense of acceptable tone.

When she is not on, it falls apart as usual, with those soap opera hams, who, like most of our series heroes, are full of humanity and compassion and understanding — full of everything, in fact, except the ability to act.

First Duty To Himself

George Bernard Shaw once said something to the effect that an artist's first duty to himself is to provide his table with three square meals a day. And Miss Shirley Booth, as NBC-TV's "Hazel," has shown that a fine performer can be an asset to any format.

Miss McCormack, since "The Bad Seed," has had a video series, "Peck's Bad Girl," which went nowhere; some movies, which, except for the film version of "The Bad Seed," did likewise from the standpoint of establishing her as a star; and has had to scrap for good parts.

But she is still acting. It has never hurt a Shakespearean delineator to play music halls; it has never injured a schooled thespian to work burlesque or county fairs. They are all the theatre, and they all have lessons to offer. Better parts will come for Miss McCormack, and she will be a better performer for her present experience.

The Channel Swim: Gary Crosby guests on NBC-TV's "Here's Hollywood" Aug. 15 . . . Harold Lloyd is scheduled for same show Aug. 16 . . . The late Ernie Kovacs appears on a repeat of CBS-TV's "Lucy-Desi Comedy Hour" Aug. 27.

Dick Clark's "American Bandstand" marks its fifth year on NBC-TV Aug. 10...CBS-TV's "Accent" goes on the town in San Francisco Aug. 16. . .Same network's "Camera Three" offers a discussion of the late writer James Agee Sunday.

Carol Lawrence replaces Rita Moreno as a guest on CBS-TV's nighttime "Password" Tuesday... Syndicated reruns of "The Best of Groucho" have scored sales of more than $2,500,000. . ."Hennesey" reruns have grossed about $1,500,000 in less than four months of syndication.

Water Development Group Sets Meeting

AUSTIN (UPI) — Groups pressing for water development and conservation will meet Sept. 10 with Gov. Price Daniel, and his statewide Water Committee to discuss the proposed water conservation amendment which goes before the voters in the November general election.

Daniel said Tuesday the meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Sept. 10 in the Highway Department Auditorium in Austin.

Daniel is seeking support for the amendment. It would authorize the Water Development Board to develop storage facilities in reservoirs constructed or enlarged by federal or state agencies, with approval of the Texas Water Commission.

The Board would be authorized to execute long - term contracts with the federal government to get and develop storage facilities in federal reservoirs, under the constitutional amendment.

The addition would limit the present lending program and the acquisition of storage facilities to a total of $20 0million, as set out by voters in 1957.

Harry Provence of Waco, prominent newspaper editor and a members of the Brazos River Authority, heads a steering committee which will push a public information campaign on the amendment.

Daniel said voter approval of the amendment would give the state "another opportunity to take a giant stride forward" in water conservation.

"CHOSE TO CAPITULATE"

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Twenty-seven members of the Black Muslim sect who rioted at the District of Columbia's Lortion Reformatory got their way today.

Washington Prison Chief Donald Clemmer said he agreed to allow the Muslims to live together, forego group psychiatric treatment, and not to eat food cooked contrary to their principles. Clemmer said he "chose to capitulate" because we were in danger of serious disturbance.

"GOOD SHOW"

NEWCASTLE UPON TYNE, England (UPI)—A bank official mistakenly pressed the burglar alarm and summoned a horde of police.

"It was all an accident but the police were magnificent," a bank spokesman said.

Four Narcotics Pushers Arrested

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (UPI) — Federal police have arrested four narcotics pushers and recovered quantities of heroin, opium and marijuana in a home "laboratory" here.

Federal judicial police said they found 150 grams of heroin, 44 pounds of raw opium and 440 pounds of marijuana in the home of Gabriel Varela Cano. Two other men also were arrested in Varela's house in the Torrent Colonia.

Varela implicated an uncle, Alfonso Palma Jurado, who was later arrested in his home where police recovered an undisclosed quantity of marijuana.

FOREIGN ORDERS DECLINED

BON N(UPI)—West German industry received 1.8 per cent fewer foreign orders the first half of 1962 than it did during the same period last year, according to the Economics Ministry here.

A ministry report issued Tuesday said domestic orders in the same period increased 2.1 per cent.

Mrs. Finkbine took the pills, obtained by her husband in England, early in her pregnancy.

Although thalidomide was never released for general use in the United States, it is thought to be the cause of several deformed babies born to American mothers who obtained the drug in Europe.

Finkbine, a high school teacher, said earlier he and and his wife would leave the country to obtain the abortion because of their failure to gain legal assurance there would be no criminal prosecution under Arizona laws. Local laws say a mother's life must be in danger before such an operation can be performed.

Denmark, Sweden and Japan were listed as possible countries in which the Finkbines could go.

"In investigations like this," Foster said, "It may be that we will never know for sure. We're dealing in a situation where the drug was used several months ago, and sometimes records and memories are incomplete."

One Texas Birth

One deformed birth has been reported in Texas. The mother received the drug in Germany and the baby was born in Texas.

The drug was manufactured in the United States by the William S. Merrell Co., of Cincinnati. It was not licensed for general use. Quantities were sent to a number of doctors across the country for "experimental" use.

In European countries, babies were born with no arms or legs. Some had flippers for limbs. The deformities technically are known as "phocomelia."

Settlement Reported In Suit Here

Settlement of a $61,260 wrongful death suit against a Pampa man and the company he represents was settled Tuesday with the plaintiff awarded $30,000 in all.

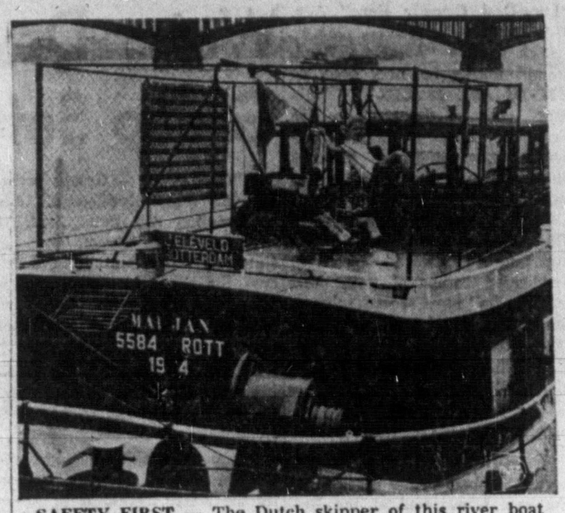

According to a report from the District Clerk's office, the suit was filed by J. Fred Curtis, administrator for the estate of Robert L. Curtis, 36, Pampa, against Ross V. Sessions Jr. and the Texas Gas Producing Company.

The complaint alleged wrongful death. It stated that on June 1, 1962, Robert L. Curtis, deceased, was killed at approximately 12:30 a.m. 10 miles east of Borger on State Highway 152 in Carson County, when he was struck by a car being driven by Sessions, who was employed by the Texas Gas Producers Co.

According to reports by officers who investigated the accident, Robert Curtis and a companion, Robert Luster, also of Pampa, were pushing a car alongside the road when they were struck by the Sessions vehicle. Luster was not seriously injured.

The suit called for $20,000 each for the Curtis three minor children and $1,260 in funeral expenses.

The court awarded each child $9,580 and the administrator, $1,260.

Four Youths Await Delinquent Hearing

Four youths, ranging in ages from 14 to 16, are being held in city jail today awaiting a delinquent hearing in five thefts, one breaking and entering and four automobile thefts since May 28.

The youths admitted taking merchandise from several Pampa stores and three were arrested July 17 in Sherman after they had abandoned a car they stole in Pampa July 16. They were arrested while driving a car taken in Sayre, Okla. The fourth youth was apprehended in Pampa.

No immediate action has been taken against the boys, who are classified under the state juvenile law.

Brief Youngster About Hospital

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — Children may react more favorably toward a hospital stay if they're cushioned for it in advance.

Mrs. Millicent Martin, child development specialist at the University of Illinois, says a child's idea of hospitalization may be different from that of an adult.

Since children usually can't visit hospitals, it's especially important for parents to explain what to expect. The best preparation is for parents to visit the hospital or find out as many details as possible from the doctor.

The child will want to know what will happen during the day, what his room will look like, what the doctors and nurses will do, how he will feel, and, of course, if Mommy will be there.

JFK Trapped In Quicksands Of Federal Deficit

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy appears to be trapped in the federal deficit quicksands. The fiscal year 1963 is one month old and already generally is condemned as another deficit year.

The President has been disappointed in his hope that new boom business conditions would hike tax revenues to meet the obligations of big spending government. Now under consideration are two emergency methods of making those boom hopes come true:

A pump priming appropriation for public works.

An across-the-board tax cut to increase consumer and corporate spending.

Kennedy has not quite made up his mind whether to try either of these medicines on the U. S. economy. Pump priming is a discredited wonder-drug. FDR tried it. Pump priming did not work. There were 12.8 million persons unemployed when FDR took office in 1933. Congress voted $3 billion for pump priming in the first months of the New Deal and continued to vote billions thereafter.

War Boom Did It

Five years later 10.3 million persons remained unemployed. That was in 1938 shortly before the World War II boom. By 1944, unemployment had been reduced to 670,000. There is nothing in the record of FDR's pump priming to promise that more pump priming by JFK would produce its money's worth in reduced unemployment and otherwise in improved economic conditions.

Moreover, big prime-the-pump spending would increase the federal deficit unless taxes were raised or spending in other areas were reduced. The basic argument against tax reduction now also is that it would put the treasury further into the red. The argument against more and larger deficits is that they are inflationary and must further depress the purchasing power of the U. S. dollar. That buck today is worth only about 46 cents in terms of its purchasing power as of 1939.

The economists who misled the President with their calculations that a business revival would greatly increase the 1962-63 tax take apparently are not convinced that FDR's experiment with pump priming discredited that device. Neither have they indicated any interest in exploring the possibility of reducing government expenditures toward a balanced budget.

Shameful Prospect

President Kennedy's pride may turn his economists to such exploration before this fiscal year is out. There is no cause for pride in a four-year record of consecutive treasury deficits. That is the record, however, toward which the Kennedy administration is moving. That would be a shabby record, matching FDR's first term series of deficits.

There is a lag of several days in treasury accounting. The figure for the first three weeks of this fiscal year—the first three weeks of July—reflect a deficit of more than $4 billion spending. Items that are substantially up this year compared with last include:

Foreign aid; Aeronautics and Space administrations; Veterans Administration; health, education and welfare.

The shocker, however, is the increased cost of the public debt. Interest on the debt is $205 million for the first three weeks of this fiscal year; up from $164 million last year.

Frozen French Fries with Vegetable Oriental is quick and easy party fare

Repeat Performances Requested For Recipes

The kitchen never takes a holiday! Especially in Summer, the creative cook needs imagination and ingenuity to offer new taste-tempting dishes which will pique those lagging weather-weary appetites. This is the perfect time to take a tip from Oriental cooks and serve crisp, tender vegetables that keep their flavorful goodness to the last forkful. Frozen French fries . . . minutes away from the freezer . . . with no time spent peeling or paring is the magic ingredient in this delicious, quick and easy combination that will bring requests for repeat performances all year 'round.

Tasty frozen French fries combined with fresh tomatoes and crisp cauliflower dressed with piquant spices and steamed to the "just tender" stage will be the star of an intriguing dinner with Oriental overtones. Served with spicy beef strips done to a turn on a charcoal grill, this combination eliminates any need for encouraging the family to be members of the clean plate club.

To top off our Oriental dinner, we like to serve a traditional Far-Eastern dessert that is interwoven with an ancient Chinese legend. Legend has it that, during the Seventh Day of the Seventh Moon Festival in China, everyone indulges in flavorful iced fruits served both fresh and candied. Watermelons are the great favorite of this festival season. Made into a beautiful basket and heaped with the traditional seven fruits . . . a picture of cool, succulent dining . . . a delight for dessert on any summer dinner table.

FROZEN FRENCH FRIES WITH VEGETABLES, ORIENTAL

2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 package (1 pound) or 2 packages (9 ounce each) frozen French fries
1½ teaspoons salt
8 green onions, cut in half lengthwise
2 medium sized tomatoes, cut in thin ¼ inch wedges
2 cups thinly sliced (about ⅛ inch thick) raw cauliflower (about ½ head)
1 teaspoon curry powder
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup water

Heat oil in large frypan. Add French fries, sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt and brown, stirring often. Add remaining ingredients; toss lightly. Cover; cook just until vegetables are heated, about 5 minutes. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

ORIENTAL BEEF STRIPS

1-3 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, finely minced
1-3 cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 pound thin lean beef chuck strips (1½ inches wide, ¼ inch thick, 2 to 4 inches long)
½ teaspoon meat tenderizer

Combine onion, garlic, soy sauce, brown sugar, ginger and monosodium glutamate. Pour over beef strips; mix to coat well. Cover and marinate in refrigerator about 2 hours. Drain. Lace meat on skewers; sprinkle with tenderizer. Cook over low glowing charcoal to the desired degree of doneness, 7 to 10 minutes, turning as needed to brown evenly. Yield: 4 servings.

This Recipe You'll Fix Friends Often

The Cheese and Rice Tomato Scallop is a cinch to make. Canned tomatoes, poured over a cheese-rice mixture and flavored with buttery goodness, make this a colorful casserole that you'll prepare often and then save in your recipe file for Sunday night suppers when fall comes.

CHEESE AND RICE TOMATO SCALLOP

4-5 servings

Preheated 350 degree oven
Shallow casserole, 2-quart
2 cups unsalted cooked rice
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon insant minced onion
2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
2 cups (1 lb. 3 oz., can) drained tomatoes
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk

Mix rice, salt, pepper, onion and 1 cup of the cheese and spread over bottom of casserole. Break up tomatoes into smaller pieces and spread on top of rice mixture; set aside. Melt butter in small saucepan. Add flour, mixing to form a smooth paste. Remove from heat and add salt and milk, blending well. Return to heat and stir until mixture begins to thicken. Pour over tomatoes and top with remaining cheese.

Nautical Sandwich Inspirational Touch

Where e'er the seven seas surge shoreward, there for the finding will surely be a food-way inspiration. A prized seasoning — its deft use . . . an inherent way with preparation. Such are the determinates of round-the-world taste traits, so easily adapted to that cosmopolitan, the sandwich.

SEVEN-SEAS SANDWICHES GRILLED CHILI-CHEESE SANDWICH

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
8 slices enriched bread
4 (1 ounce) slices process American cheese
¾ cup chili con carne

Butter bread. Spread 3 tablespoons chili con carne on unbuttered side of bread; top with cheese slice. Cover cheese with another bread slice, buttered side up. Grill until golden brown on both sides. Serve hot.
Yield: 4 sandwiches.

Heat Lightning Scores Big Hit With Teenagers Not Worried About Weight

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The teen-age set goes for tall drinks with ice cream and chocolate flavor and milk. So do other members of the family who are not worried about their weight.

HEAT LIGHTNING

For each serving, put scoop of vanilla ice cream in 12-ounce glass. Sprinkle with 1 heaping teaspoon quick chocolate-flavored mix. Repeat until glass is ¾ full, ending with chocolate layer. To serve: add milk to fill glass. Stir gently. Eat with spoon.

FLUFFY CHOCOLATE MILKSHAKE

(Yield: 4 servings)

¾ cup quick chocolate-flavored mix
1 cup marshmallow cream
1 quart milk

Use blender or rotary beater to combine quick chocolate-flavored mix, marshmallow cream and about ¼ cup milk; blend until smooth. Gradually add remaining milk, blending until well mixed. Pour into 10-ounce glasses. If desired, top with spoonful of marshmallow cream and sprinkle with additional quick chocolate - flavored mix.

CHOCO - BANANA MILKSHAKE

½ cup quick chocolate-flavored mix
2 ripe bananas, mashed
1 quart milk
Nutmeg

Blend together quick chocolate-flavored mix and mashed bananas. Gradually add milk, stirring briskly to mix well. Pour into 10-ounce glasses and sprinkle with nutmeg.

Cool Concoctions Made With Coffee

They look like a tantalizing mirage, but these luscious coffee coolers are just exactly what you need to quench a summer thirst. We've selected these three because each is an all-time favorite coffee drink. The fact that they are also among the most beautiful drinks you could conjure up makes them particularly appealing for summer entertaining.

MOCHA FROSTED

2½ measuring cups strong, cold coffee
5 tablespoons chocolate syrup
1 pint coffee ice cream

Place all ingredients in bowl and blend with rotary beater until smooth. Pour into tall glasses. Serves 4.

FROSTED COFFEE HAWAII

2 cups strong, cold coffee
1 cup chilled pineapple juice
1 pint soft coffee ice cream

Combine ingredients and beat thoroughly with a rotary beater or electric blender until the mixture is smooth and foamy. Pour into tall glasses. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

DOUBLE COFFEE ICE CREAM SODA

½ cup Coffee Syrup
½ cup heavy cream
1 quart coffee ice cream
Chilled sparkling water

In each of 4 tall glasses blend 2 tablespoons each Coffee Syrup and heavy cream. Add 2 scoops coffee ice crea. Fill glasses slowly with sparkling water. Stir gently to mix. Makes 4 servings.

The Lighter Side

On Truck Drivers' Comments

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Last month, upon returning from a vacation motor trip, I propounded a theory as to how truck drivers amuse themselves on the highway.

It was my conjecture that they play a game called "Detroit Chess," the object of which is to see how many cars each truck can "capture" on a long hill or curve.

Since then, I have received a steady stream of complimentary letters from truck drivers, the wives of truck drivers, the employers of truck drivers, and other interested parties.

Modesty forbids extensive quotation but a typical salutation was one that read "you are a sick man and to me you really stink."

Received Comments

What I regard as the most thought-provoking comment came from a California truck driver, apparently a veteran of freeway traffic. (A veteran of freeway traffic is anyone who is still alive after the first mile.)

Now that we know what games the truck drivers play," he wrote, "please inform us as to the type and name of the game that the tourists and other absent-minded automobile drivers play; such as yourself on cross-country tips."

He went on to suggest that if I didn't have a better title in mind, the game could possibly be called "Freeway Roulette."

To begin with, he continued, the tourist or commuter receives a certain number of points "for pulling out on a high speed freeway in front of a truck."

Then, he said, the points increase in accordance "with his ability to maintain a below normal speed for the next five miles."

Can Double Tally

Making a sudden turn in front of a truck without giving a signal adds still more points to the score. Or the tourist can double his tally by stopping "dead still in front of a truck moving at 60 miles per hour."

Finally, bonus points are given for driving along behind a truck at night with your bright headlights on.

At the end of the day, the tourists get together at a motel and add up their points, the winner being awarded a copy of "Fun on the Highway," autographed by Duncan Hines.

It seems to me that my correspondent has done a splendid job of defining the rules for "Freeway Roulette." It sounds like great sport, particularly if there is a game of "Detroit Chess" going on in the next lane.

I would, however, like to offer one additional rule: The game must be suspended until I have time to sell my auto insurance stock.

Bing May Have To Mind 'Kids' While Kathy Performs

By BING CROSBY
Written For UPI

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — My chances of failing to keep up with the times have diminished with the arrival of each wiggling and supercharged addition to my clan.

Unless I watch myself closely, chances are that I'll become one of those crashing bores who seizes every opportunity to extol his offsprings' latest adventures.

You see I've got my ABC television activities spaced and other projects timed so I can spend months on end with Kathryn and our three young 'ns, Harry, 3; Mary Frances, 2, and baby Nathaniel Patrick.

Although my work was much more intensive — and took me away from home for long stretches — when my other group was in the growing - up stage, those four males managed to tough it out and, I'm proud to say, are making something of their lives.

Just recently, I returned with Kathy and the youngsters from our newest diggings in Mexico, snuck in a TV taping session with old Toboggan Nose, made a platter or two and caught up with my radio work before we all took off for Hawaii.

Tex (Harry) and his sister already swim like waterdogs and, the way he's developing now, little Nat will have the Australian crawl pretty well mastered before the summer is over.

I'll have to admit I've mellowed in the past few years. Those who knew me as a strict disciplinarian would be surprised to see Pops at play with his kids —showing them how to bait a hook, keep a taut fishing line and generally appreciate fishing and hunting.

They're getting so they know the varieties of fish and birds that abound around Casa Crosby in Mexico, and they were beside themselves with glee at the sight of the colorful species of tropical fish around Honolulu.

Who's boss on these adventures? Well, the Old Groaner issues a directive once in awhile—just to keep his mythical rank as head of the house. But I'll have to admit that Mrs. C. is the top kick in this unit. She's an organizer, that girl, and I've yet to see her let any situation get out of hand.

Kathryn gave out a statement to a national magazine recently to the effect that my "tastes are simple." Well, they'd better be. Anything complicated around our menage soon would be reduced to its simplest form because that's the way Kathryn is constituted.

In fact, she's got things so well organized at home I begin to see signs of an interest in "lights, camera, action!"

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—In a nutshel, says Investographs Stock Survey, "we think the market may have turned (for the better), but we're still awaiting technical confirmation."

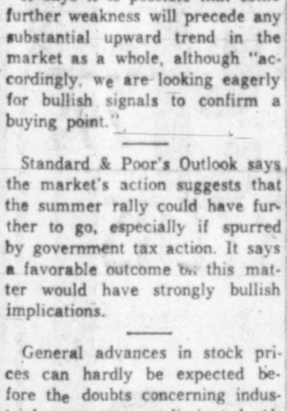

It says it is possible that some further weakness will precede any substantial upward trend in the market as a whole, although "accordingly, we are looking eagerly for bullish signals to confirm a buying point."

Standard & Poor's Outlook says the market's action suggests that the summer rally could have further to go, especially if spurred by government tax action. It says a favorable outcome on this matter would have strongly bullish implications.

General advances in stock prices can hardly be expected before the doubts concerning industrial prospects are dissipated, Alexander Hamilton Institute feels. In the meantime, it thinks trading will be within a narrow range, subject to emotional influences which have recently pervaded the financial community.

Analyst Arthur Wesenberger, says the period of summer dullness may continue with the environment of confusion and uncertainty causing wide price swings in many issues and groups. Under the circumstances, he says a policy of building up cash reserves appears prudent.

El Chamizal Dispute 'Ground Rules' Told

EL PASO (UPI) — If an American living in El Paso suddenly found himself in Mexico because of an international land trade to settle the El Chamizal dispute, he could still live at his old address and remain a U.S. citizen.

He could still own the same home, although he would be a resident of Mexico. He would not be ejected from it. It is understood that this would be the case if Mexico cedes the United States 200-250 acres of Cordova Island and gets more than 600 acres of the El Chamizal (The Thicket) section of El Paso.

Mexico would wind up about 400 acres ahead of the United States in the deal. This would settle the century - old dispute which the Rio Grand started by changing course in a storm and putting El Chamizal on the U.S. side of the river.

U. S. authorities will not go into detail about various points of the proposed swap, since it has not been formally agreed upon. But it is understood that an American living in the Mexico area would not be forcibly put out.

If an American living in El Chamizal chose to move back into the United States, it is presumed that he would be paid for the property he left behind. This is a point that remains to be settled.

Mexico and the United States, under the proposal being considered, would contribute jointly to a compensation fund. Both countries would contribute to a fund to beautify the border.

Mexico could not take property away without compensation. Americans live in Juarez, across the border from El Paso, now own property in Juarez and work in El Paso.

Their property rights in Juarez have never been threatened so they have assurance that they could do the same in El Chamizal if Mexico gets it.

Allowance Grows With The Child

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — If your child asks for an allowance increase, don't give him a nasty "no," a University of Illinois family life specialist advises.

The child's financial problems are just as real to him as yours are to you, said Mrs. Margueritte Lynch. Vacations always bring new and different interests, and he may need more money.

As he grows older, as his interests and activities expand, it is only natural that his money needs will increase.

But be sure he understands that his allowance can't be increased simply on request. Take time to talk things over and give him a chance to state his case. Help him to understand that his allowance is his share of the family income.

Mateos Appropriates Holdings Of US Multi-Millionaire William Jenkins

LA PIEDAD, Mexico (UPI) Some 50,000 acres forming a "Latifundio" (Estate) said to belong to multi - milionaire William Jenkins were formally appropriated Tuesday by President Adolfo Lopez Mateos and turned over to several hundred peasant families.

The act was one of the final ceremonies in Michoacan State during the President's tour which ended with his return to Mexico City.

The land was in the name of a society listed as Torres - Teytud, with 25 year rights for cattle raising. Seven years of the original concession remain. The land has been used for agriculture.

Jenkins, a U.S. - born resident of Mexico for many decades and now over 80, is a former intimate of ex-President Lazaro Cardenas. He has been criticized frequently for his vast land, industrial and commercial holdings, principally in his home state of Puebla.

Production Of Wool Is Down

AUSTIN (UPI) — The estimated wool production in Texas is 47,605,000 pounds, down 9 per cent from last year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

It is the lowest total since 1958, the USDA said.

A combination of loss of sheep shorn and a decrease in fleece weight accounts for the production lag. The USDA said sheep shorn and to be shorn total 6,983,000 head compared with 6,431,000 head at the same time last year. The fleece weight average of 7.8 pounds per fleece is .3 pound below last year.

Only New Mexico of the western states reports prospects for increased wool production this year, the USDA said

Tax Deadline Is Coming Up

Manufactureres, retailers, and others liable for more than $100 of excise taxes for July, must deposit such taxes with a depositary, Richard V. White administrative officer of Internal Revenue Service, Pampa, said today.

"They should use a Form 537 for this purpose and make the deposit no later than August 31, 1962," he said.

Deposits may be made in local authorized banks, or at a Federal Reserve Bank.

Information regarding tax depositaries is available at the IRS office.

14 Area Students Expect Degrees On August 23rd

CANYON (Spl) — Fourteen students from Pampa and vicinity are among 227 students who expect to receive degrees at summer commencement August 23 at West Texas State College, according to Dr. Walter H. Juniper, dean of the college.

The candidates expect to complete requirements by the close of the current summer session, Dr. Juniper said.

Charles A. Banks of Groom is candidate for the Master of Business Administration degree. Three are candidates for the Master of Education degree. They are Grady Burnett of Wheeler, Doyle Eugene Isaacs of Shamrock, and Felix Wilson Ryals of White Deer.

Seeking the Bachelor of Science degree are Marvin Albert Berry of Pampa, Monta Patton Hinkle of Pampa, Arlen Dale Kaiser of Skellytown, W. A. Kessie Jr. of Canadian, Jean Arnold Martindale of Pampa, Elizabeth Malin Pitcher of Allison, Corrine Wheeler of Groom and Mabel Ramsay Wolfe of Miami.

Donald Wayne Tinney of Pampa is candidate for the Bachelor of Business Administration degree.

Fonda Is Not Looking For Stage Show

HOLLYWOOD
By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Henry Fonda, a longtime commuter between Broadway stage roles and Hollywood movies, will not appear on the legitimate stage this fall for the first time in several years.

"I'm not looking for a play this season," said Fonda during a rehearsal break from "Spencer's Mountain," the movie in which he stars for Warner Bros.

"I've done three plays in the last three years," he explained. "And I've only been away from the theater for one year in the last 14."

Fonda's preference for a stage appearance each season has always overshadowed his desire to appear in pictures.

Prefers Theater

"I prefer the theater," he said. "New York is home. But I don't mean that to be critical of this medium. There's more personal satisfaction for me on the stage."

Some actors prefer stage plays because of theater audiences which they claim stimulates a performance. Fonda places less importance on audience and more emphasis on technique.

"It's not the audience," he said. "In a play you rehearse and then play it from beginning to end. In a movie it's bits and pieces."

Good scripts are also high on Henry's list of considerations before taking a role.

Recognizes Good Script

"When you read a script you either get excited about it or not and find something you can contribute," he said. "I think you're awfully lucky to find scripts you want to do in whatever medium you want to work."

Fonda, who says he's not a "compulsive worker," has another movie tentatively scheduled this year, then hopes for a fishing holiday with his son, Peter.

Peter is also in Hollywood. The young man is playing his first motion picture role after having made a stage debut. Another of Henry's offspring, daughter Jane, has starred in pictures and plays.

Young People's Hurts Make Mom A Nurse

Well-equipped for first-aid emergencies, this homemaker uses a soothing lotion in a plastic bottle to treat the smoke-irritated eyes of a youthful beginning barbecue cook.

KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Healthy active young people living it up around the home create a joyful sight for doting mothers. It is also one that frequently casts us in the role of emergency nurse. My children didn't go to camp this summer. They are at home giving me, in a small way, the first-aid thrills that the camp nurse must endure in a big way all summer. My hat is off to her.

In mastering the riding of the two - wheeler bike, our six - year-old worked through at least a pint of antiseptic and three boxes of ready bandages. Climbing a rope is a great sport, but oh, those blisters! And isn't it appalling how much blood can flow from a scalp nicked by a swing? Insects of all sizes and kinds are a staple distress call. So are splinters.

A sympathetic friend tells me that smoke - filled eyes and fat-spatter burns lead her list now that her young teen - age son and his pals have discovered the pleasure and economy of cooking their own hot dogs over the grill.

No homemaker wants to inhibit the fun. The trick is to be ready for the inevitable side effects. I have to check the first-aid supplies, for example, more frequently in summer than winter and even then a crisis in the bandage department is apt to arise. The specialties of summer first aid, the sunburn preventives and sunburn pain relievers, disappear with speed and need frequent replacement.

Keeping supplies replenished and accessible is the answer to emergencies which develop when the youngsters gather. One way a homemaker can solve this is to have a regular first - aid apron. This is a bright red and white striped bib apron with a deep pocket for supplies. Copying the idea with an ordinary apron, I find it useful when several youngsters are present for an impromptu party. While it may sound silly to stuff such items in an apron pocket, you'd be surprised how many steps it saves when you are trying to cope with a series of minor complaints.

In my pocket go the most-likely-to-be-needed items: a small bottle of insect repellent and one of lotion to sooth the itch where the repellent misses, paper tissues, a few bandages to protect imminent blisters, a tube of antiseptic cream for burns and an eye lotion in a small plastic bottle which can be squirted directly into smoke - tearing or sun-reddened eyes.

Injuries such as deep cuts or friction scraper can't be dealt with in the field. The injured should be taken back to the house for soap - and - water treatment.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I go with a girl who goes to confession and tells the priest all kinds of things about herself that are not true. I wouldn't mind so much, but she includes me. Abby, she told me she doesn't know why she does it, but when she starts to talk she can't stop. I go to the same priest and I don't want him to think I am that kind of person. Should I tell the priest that she is lying? I am 17 and so is she.

LIED ABOUT

DEAR LIED ABOUT: Encourage your friend to "confess" to the priest that she has lied about herself and you, not so much to protect YOUR reputation, but for the sake of her own peace of mind. Compulsive lying is frequently a symptom of an emotional disturbance. Encourage your friend to see a doctor if it persists.

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper for a bride to play the piano at her own wedding? My daughter is a musician and wants to provide her own piano music. She will be married at home.

DOUBTFUL

DEAR DOUBTFUL: Your daughter should be satisfied to star at her wedding in the role of a BRIDE.

DEAR ABBY: I am active in our ladies' church group and am considered a quiet person. We had a meeting today and got into a discussion on our rummage sale plans. While I was telling my views on how it should be run, one of the ladies reached over and held my mouth shut while she explained how SHE thought it should be run. I used to think a lot of this woman, and didn't let on how hurt I was. I went home and cried. Now tell me, Abby, what should I have done?

HURT

DEA RHURT: I suppose you could have bitten her, but perhaps she was only trying to be funny. You were wise to have said nothing. Your friend's action revealed her bad manners.

DEAR ABBY: I think you are a big phony. You claim that you answer every letter you get, but I wrote to you on June 9th and have looked in your column every day and you never answered my letter. I think you make up your own letters. I dare you to print this.

MAD AT YOU

DEAR MAD: I can't possibly answer every letter in my column, but if you had sent a self-addressed stamped envelope you would have heard from me personally, and promptly. And thank you for the compliment. I wish I had the imagination to make up letters half as good as those I receive.

Unload your problem on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Helpful Hints Are Often Aggravating

If you want to please a man—

Don't make helpful suggestions when he is having trouble with whatever he is trying to do. (Coming from a woman any suggestion will prove irritating to the masculine ego — and the better the idea, the more irritated a man will be that he didn't think of it himself.)

Never say "I told you so" when he fails to take your advice and time proves that he should have. (Just let him comfortably forget you told him so — instead of reminding him of it.)

Don't get hurt feelings when he is critical of you. Accept the criticism if it is valid and if it isn't, lightly shrug it off.

Don't interrupt him when he is reading or concentrating on a project of his own. Men don't suffer such interruptions gladly.

Don't make a habit of sharing all your little troubles and worries with him. His sympathy will be replaced by irritation in short order, if you do.

Don't ask him to run errands for you that you should be doing yourself. No grown man likes to be made to feel like an errand boy.

Try to remember that things that are important to him — whether they seem important to your or not.

Give him your full attention when he talks, instead of letting half your mind go on thinking about somethine else. Your eyes and your voice will give you away if you aren't really listening.

Don't insist on rehashing disagreements under the delusion that if you just talk long enough about a subject you'll come to some kind of agreement.

Husbands will be happy to read "Happier Wives (hints for husbands)." Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, care of The Pampa News, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, Ne wYork 19, N.Y.

SHADES AID COOLING

Properly fitted window shades will help your air conditioner operate more efficiently and less expensively. During the day, drawn shades will reduce inside temperatures and create a pocket of air between the shade and window as an insulation barrier.

Male Pajamas Become Elegant Winter Style

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press International

PARIS (UPI)—Young designer Yves St. Laurent took the top of a man's pajamas and made an elegant winter fashion out of it today.

All the designers in Paris have shown tunic dresses, including St. Laurent's arch rival, Marc Bohan, who replaced him at the house of Christian Dior.

But St. Laurent's tunics — one of the hits of his first solo winter show—were cut as loose and easy as a girl borrowing the top of a man's pajamas.

Some of these were turned into suit jackets in heavy wool, buttoning down the back or with four or five buttons down the front. One theater suit had this "pajama," or smock jacket, of rich brown velvet with sparkling bejewelled buttons at the cuff, like a man's jacket.

New "Glove" Shape

St. Laurent also exhibited a slightly new shape in his collection of the first fall-winter clothes he has made since he left Dior and opened his own salon.

While rival Bohan and other designers issued the "arrow", or triangle line for winter, St. Laurent did an about-face and made his 1962-63 female as thin and sleek as a tube.

"A glove silhouette" was the way St. Laurent dubbed his line on the programs for the fashion reporters and celebrities, including dancer Zizi Jeanmaire, who crammed his salon.

St. Laurent also ignored the trend of other designers for lower skirts and kept his just barely covering the knee.

Some fashion writers agreed his show was better than the first solo line he presented last January, although some of his dramatic evening dresses could be only for film stars seeking attention at movie openings.

Collarless Coats

The models in the white salon, decorated with a blooming camellia tree, glided around in collarless slim coats with long, narrow sleeves, as slender as toothpicks. Underneath were unadorned, beltless sheath dresses, fitted but not snugly at the waist.

Even some of his narrow coats combined the tube look with the pajama top look, the collarless slim coat having just a couple of buttons at the neck and at the mannish sleeve.

Other slim coats were casually tailored with wide lapels and snug tie belts. He also showed looser coats with wide, loose shoulders and some with billowing sleeves caught with cuffs at the wrist; some of his suits, too, were more conventional with slightly fitted jackets reaching below the waist.

Applause was heavy for sheath cocktail dresses, almost all of which had a high waistline under the bust, dipping to slightly below the natural waistline at the back. Sometimes this line was emphasized with a sewed-in band of material that ended in a flat bow under the bust.

FUR CHOKER

Thought for that out - of - fashion but still - good fur collar: Detach it from the coat and have it made into a little fur choker to wear with your new collarless coat or suit.

★ Polly's Quiz ★

By Polly Cramer

Directors' chairs, the wooden ones with canvas seats and backs (like movie directors have with their names painted on the backs) are a boon to the budget of any bride — recent or not so recent. They are really inexpensive (usually around $10) and comfortable to sit in.

The frames can be painted to fit into any color scheme and the original canvas covered or replaced with almost any fabric if the combinations available do not strike one's fancy. As occasional chairs in a sleek, well - planned but cost - conscious living room, these chairs will be a smart asset. As dining room chairs, they are terrific. Can you picture red chairs, with black and white striped canvas, around a black painted table on a white vinyl floor? Gets a room off to a good start, doesn't it?

After they have served their time indoors and are replaced by more permanent pieces, move the directors' chairs out to the terrace or porch to answer another need, perhaps in another color.

Dear Polly: I removed the finish from an oak dining table and did it over with clear varnish. I have the dining chairs but the dark walnut varnish will not all come off. They are in a combination den - kitchen which has pink counter tops and pine panelling. The scheme is green, pink and yellow. What should I do with my chairs?—Mrs. M. G.

Dear Mrs. M. G.: Painted chairs will be very smart with your natural wood table. Use a satin finish paint in a deep green or a muddy yellow-gold, whichever would contribute most to the over - all effect of the room. I do hope that oak table was not finished with a shiny gloss varnish. a dull waxed finish is always more pleasing.

Dear Polly: In the new home we are building, the bathroom fixtures will be white. Would pale-blue tiles and white upper section of wall be all right? Also, could I use deeper blue tile on the floor? —H.B.

Dear H. B.: White fixtures AND all - white tiles may not seem so exciting as you plan your new bathroom but they allow more freedom in changing color schemes. This you will appreciate in a few years' time. If you like blue, use it for paint, which is easier to change. There is nothing wrong with your own suggestion. Mine should be food for thought.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest.

This girl sets her hair with pink foam rollers. They're soft enough to sleep on and won't break ends even though the hair is bleached or tinted.

Pink Foam Rollers Will Protect Hair And Enable Wearer To Sleep

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Your hair can be the highlight of your good looks, or it can cause your other features to pass unnoticed. It's up to you.

Sun and sea take their toll of your hair during the summer and extra care must be taken to keep it healthy.

First, use a conditioner frequently to combat drying. This is especially important if your hair is bleached or tinted. Wield that brush daily and vigorously to stimulate circulation and the flow of natural oils necessary to healthy hair.

Shampoo your hair each time you come out of the salt water. When you set it, be sure you use the kind of rollers that won't break the ends.

Rollers made of spongy pink urethane foam have no rough edges to snag or split the ends of dry and brittle hair and are the safest kind to use. Brush rollers can damage the hair by breaking and those made of metal may rust and cause discoloration to light or bleached hair.

Another, and more obvious, advantage of foam rollers is the fact that they permit you to get eight hours sleep at night. You won't have to lie down to an uneasy rest with a head full of hardware. They are soft and comfortable, yet supply sufficent body for the current smooth hair styles.

Of course, no tresses, however shining and healty, will look beautiful unless they've been styled by an expert. Have hair professionally cut and be diligent in your efforts to keep it glossy and in good health. You will have taken a primary step toward overall beauty.

The Coffees Have Home Dedication

WHITE DEER (Spl) — Mr. and Mrs. George Coffee and children dedicated their new home July 22 with the Rev. Curtis Lee of the First Methodist Church holding the dedication service.

The program ended with the guests joining hands and singing "Blest be The Tie." Mrs. Brooks served refreshments from a table decorated in blue and white.

Out of town guests included Luke, Brock, David and Elizabeth Gibson of Dallas; Mark Conway, Las Vegas, Nev.; Messrs. and Mmes. Paul Daurer, Steve Daurer and Steve Milton, all of Panhandle; Roland Dauer, Pampa; Mmes. Bill Housley, Lubbock; Gordon Stevens, Vernon; Frank Walters and Laurie, Dallas; Edwin Hutcherson, Memphis; Miss Helen Maddan and Gerald Hall, Amarillo.

Former Schoolmates Entertained In Home

GROOM (Spl) — Mrs. Jerry Kotara entertained former schoolmates in her home Saturday afternoon. Those present were Mrs. Jerry Mills, Tommie and Kelly, of Gruver; Mrs. Ronnie Cade, Gaylene and Beverly and Mrs. Neil Terrell and Berry, of Pampa; Mrs. Mack Grange, Jane and Thane, Mrs. Gregory Rapstine and Michael, Mrs. Jerry Braddock, Kerry and Kevin, all of White Deer; Mrs. Raymond McKinny and John of Groom, the hostess and Kemberly and Stephen.

Make Friends Manners

If you don't have a wedding gift sent until after the ceremony, write a note of apology to the bride.

VERSATILE PLASTIC

Conserve your time and energy during the summer by upholstering your dining room chairs with neatly tacked plastic film. Your living room curtains will be protected against dust and sudden rain if they are backed by clear plastic shower curtains.

Play It Cool On Hot Days

"We're just staying home this summer — vacationing in the backyard."

More and more families are learning to enjoy their homes when the weather is pleasant, and are taking their real vacations in the winter. Even though Pop still has to get to work, and even though Mom still has the responsibility of the house and family, it's possible to take a summer-long vacation at home — if you set a cool-and-easy plan for summer living.

According to Jean Kinkead, women's consultant for The Travelers Insurance Companies, a relaxed summer schedule can be superb insurance against a type of battle fatigue common to our hyper - organized society. The whole family will appreciate and profit from a break from too-tight planning.

For those who will be spending the summer at home, here are her tips on creating a vacation-at-home.

First, set aside a small fun-fund. Use it to book a teenager to help care for the children or cut the lawn; a laundress to cope with the ironing, a cleaning woman to help with the inevitable housework. This sounds like a lot of help to a woman accustomed to doing all her own work—but even a few weeks of this kind of help can leave a harried homemaker refreshed.

Second, clear the decks. Put away the silver vases, the extra ornaments, the many dust-catchers. Send the rugs for their annual cleaning. You'll find that an uncluttered house looks cooler, and is easier to clean.

It is estimated that about 93 per cent of all homes in New York City have television sets.

Moore, Clay In Big Gate Bout?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jack (Doc) Kearns, the old medicine man who concocted the first million boxing gate, came up today with what he is certain will be another.

Louisville, according to the good doctor, already has tentatively offered a million for a light heavyweight title bout between veteran Archie Moore and Cassius Clay. But Doc, who as Moore's manager has more than somewhat to say about the match, thinks that Los Angeles likely may outbid Clay's home town.

"And if one or the other of them doesn't get on the stick," observed Kearns, "they both may blow it because Ingemar Johansson is making attractive gestures for a bout with Moore in Europe either in October or November."

The amazing part of this whole bit is not that Moore, at his "ancient" age and owning only the light heavyweight title of the world in California, can attract these kind of box car figures. For he still is an attractive proposition at anybody's box office and the natural "feud" which would result when he counters the loquacious young Clay's buildup remarks would make this one a bout well worth seeing.

Gate Might Be Amazing

The amazing part is that Doc, whose sprightly mien and twinkling eyes belie the fact that he will be 80 this month, well may add another million dollar gate to his collection.

Maybe not so startling, at that. Because, after all, the old medicine man invented the first one 'way back in 1921 when he sent Jack Dempsey against Georges Carpentier, the French "orchid man." And he also was the moving force behind the second one, when Dempsey fought Luis Angel Firpo, the "wild bull" of the Pampas.

But Doc is not concerned with past history. He wants to make something new.

"Actually, this would be a better bout than the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston thing," he shrugged, adjusting a gray silk tie on his natty button-down blue-striped shirt. "They're two dull guys who never have much to say; can't talk. They won't contribute much to the buildup they will need."

But Moore and Clay — plus Kearns — would indeed be something else again.

"Both of these boys can talk real good," Doc explained, a fact which needs little substantiation. "We'd put the Patterson-Liston thing in the shade."

They might, at that. For when these three musketeers got finished sopping up the headlines the heavyweight duo might be lucky to obtain a paragraph.

Helps With Publicity

Moore, with Doc handling the reins in the background, always has contributed deft publicity movements. Clay is a cocky young gentleman who somewhere along the way would be unable to refrain from commenting on the age of the elderly mongoose. It wouldn't be long until the feud was real.

"There is a syndicate of millionaires backing Clay," said Kearns. "We've been dickering here and there and they have guaranteed a million including television, radio and motion pictures. We'd have to arrange the right kind of a theater deal. But either those folks, or those in Los Angeles who are interested, will have to move so we could put it on before mid-October."

Otherwise, the pond-hopping Doc will "aviate" to Europe and send old Arch against Johansson.

"But first I'd like to get in Clay," he finished. "It could be the greatest ballyhoo fight in recent years. A sure million bucks."

Don't bet against it, either. When it comes to ballyhoo, which means sure-fire box-office, the roving octogenarian never has had a peer.

El Paso Loses To Oilers, 2-1

By United Press International

Guess what? El Paso batters are human. They too are subject to popups, strikeouts, and weak grounders like the rest of the Texas League.

Tulsa pitching proved that point Wednesday night. For weeks the Sun Kings, who lead the second-place Oilers by seven games, had run rampant through the league battering hurler after hurler from the mound. Wednesday night they came up with only five hits and were beaten, 2-1, by the Oilers.

In other league games, San Antonio mauled Amarillo, 14-6, and Albuquerque staggered past Austin, 12-11.

Gordon Richardson got credit for the victory over El Paso but needed relief help in the ninth inning. Catcher Marion Lee Talton ruined a shutout with a second-inning El Paso homer.

San Antonio rolled up 16 hits against hapless, last-place Amarillo for an easy victory. Albuquerque thought it might have an easy night, piling up a 9-1 lead through two innings. However, Austin rallied, and the Dukes pulled the game out with a run in the bottom of the ninth.

Tonight, Tulsa is at El Paso; Amarillo is at San Antonio; and Austin is at Albuquerque.

Insurance Open Starting Today

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The 11th annual Insurance City Open, with $35,000 total prize money, got rolling today, with 150 top professionals and amateur golfers competing over the 6,551 yard par 71 Wethersfield Country Club layout.

Six former champions, were among the starters, including Ted Kroll who won the Canadian Open last Sunday with a two-stroke victory over Charlie Sifford. Kroll won the first ICO in 1952. He looked like a repeater last year until Billy Maxwell nosed him out in a seven-hole playoff.

Other former ICO winners teeing off today were Tommy Bolt, who took the title in 1954 in a playoff with Earle Stewart; Jackie Burke Jr., Gene Littler and Gardiner Dickinson.

Not competing was Arnold Palmer, the only double winner, in 1956 and 1960.

Bolt, whose 11 under par 60 helped him win in 1954, holds the course record..

Among the pre-tournament favorites this year were Kroll, Sifford, Tommy Wulff, who turned in the low qualifying score of 68 and Bolt. It is Wulff's first go at the pro circuit.

The winner will receive $5,300 or $1,000 more than last year. Second prize money is $3,400 and the purses scale down to $1,000 for 11th place. There are 29 other prizes, with 40th place paying $110.

Twins Win 13-6 Over Wheeler

LEFORS (Spl) — Lefors Inter-City League baseball team, composed of teenage boys, "The Twins," defeated the Wheeler team Sunday on the Lefors field, 13-6, to put the Lefors team in second place.

Scott Dunnam, winning pitcher, struck out seventeen opposing batters, and gave up the six runs off five hits and five errors on the Lefors team.

Best hitters in Sunday's game were Anthony MCool with two singles; Ronnie Line with one double; and Tommy Smith, with one single and one triple.

The record for Lefors now stands 5-2-1.

Next Sunday they will play undefeated Samnorwood on the Lefors field to close the season. The starting time for the game will be 3 p.m.

IT WENT THATAWAY — Roger Maris of the New York Yankees slides across the plate as Jim Pagliaroni hustles after a baseball thrown out of the Boston Red Sox catcher's reach by Arnold Earley. Hector Lopez hit the ball to the pitcher that was heaved wild by him.

Red Sox Hurler Knew He Had Mound Gem

CHICAGO (UPI) —Bill Monbouquette of the Boston Red Sox, bounced from the American League All-Sar squad because of poor pitching, was the biggest star of all today.

He took a tip from an old master and matched a performance by a teammate in pitching the third American League no-hitter of the season, a tight 1-0 win over tough Early Wynn and the Chicago White Sox.

"I knew it all the way," said the stocky righthander. "Nobody on the bench said anything about it."

"I kept thinking about that game with the Yanks this year when I didn't give up a hit for 6 2-3 innings and Tom Tresh got a bunt," Monbouquette said. "I knew I had to have a little luck for this one."

Joined Wilson

Earlier this season Red Sox pitcher Earl Wilson threw a no-hitter against the Los Angeles Angels. Ironically, the losing pitcher was Bo Belinsky, the author of the first hitless contest this year.

Meanwhile Monbouquette had been taking his lumps, struggling along with an 8-10 record. He hadn't pitched a complete game since June 9 when he beat Kansas City 9-3. He had been knocked out of four straight games.

Catcher Jim Pagliaroni said monbouquette lacked coordination the last three or four times out.

So "Mombo" — as his teammates call him — went to Boston coach Sal Maglie, who threw a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Phils in 1956 when he was pitching for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Maglie helped me a hell of a lot," Monbouquette said, "especially with coordination."

"I was throwing like this," Monbouquette said, demonstrating, "with my arm coming around way ahead of my body. But Maglie helped me so that I had my body out front and then the arm whipped around like it should."

Issued One Walk

Only a second inning walk to Al Smith marred an otherwise perfect game for Monbouquette. He said he threw curves at the start of the game, then sliders and fast balls after the fifth.

He was throwing so hard in the later innings that he finished his motion nearly a foot onto the grass beyond the front of the mound on every pitch.

Dolls Down Bobby Sox In Wild One

LEFORS (Spl) — In a fight to the finish, the Dolls defeated the Bobby Sox in a close one, 31-30, Tuesday night at the city ball park.

The Dolls led off the game with 4 runs, but fell behind until the top of the 7th inning, when they came through with several runs to sew up the contest.

Winning pitcher was Judy Barnes. Losing pitcher was Linda Kautz.

The coaches, Carl Nunn, preacher of the Methodist church, and coach of the Bobby Sox; and Doyle Harris, preacher of the church of Christ and coach of the Dolls expressed their ideas in that they thought a wonderful season has been completed by the girls summer baseball teams and told of the hard work and good sportsmanship by both teams.

Little Loop Team Has Big Picnic

LEFORS (Spl) —The Cardinal Little League baseball team and families had a picnic in Leforian Park Saturday night to mark the end of the season.

The evening, sponsored by the coaches, Chestine Dunn and Ben White, was spent eating hamburgers, cake and ice cream, and playing baseball and other games.

The coaches were presented gifts by the boys on the team.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ben White, David, Joye, Phil and Bennie; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Henderson and Royce; Wendell and Todd Noel; Mr. and Mrs. Nace Lofton, D. D. and Dennis Keith; Mr. and Mrs. Liston Cates and Rickey, and guests Marilyn and Becky Cates of Shamrock; Marlene and Doug Cates; Phillip and Shiela Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Pennington, Renae and Stevie; Mr. and Mrs. Chestine Dunn, Dennis, Terry, Mike and Johnetta.

FIRST ROUND TIE

ST. ANNES, Eng. (UPI)—Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla., shot a course record equalling 35-33—68 Wednesday to tie with Harry Weetman of Britain and Bob Charles of New Zealand for the first-round lead in the $9,800 Carling-Lancastrian Open golf tournament.

Second-Frame Walk Is Mar To Perfect Game

By NORMAN MILLER
UPI Sports Writer

Who says the art of pitching is dead? This is the major leagues' greatest season for no-hit no-run games in 45 years.

As Casey Stengel would say, just look it up.

The latest no-hitter by Bill Monbouquette of the Boston Red Sox Wednesday night in Chicago was the fourth in the majors this season.

You have to go back to the dead-ball days of 1917 to find a year when as many as four different pitchers threw no-hitters (There were six that year.)

Of course, there were four no-hitters in 1951, but two of them were pitched by Allie Reynolds, and another, by Bob Feller, actually was a no-hit, one-run game.

Missed Perfect Game

Monbouquette, 25-year-old right-hander from Medford, Mass., hurled his 1-0 masterpiece against the Chicago White Sox and missed a perfect game only because he walked Al Smith in the second inning.

Oddly, Monbouquette had been knocked out of the box in his four previous starts and had not pitched a complete game since June 29. He had been dropped from the American League All-Star staff because of his ineffective pitching during the past month.

It was a presure-packed game. The Red Sox did not score for "Mombo" until the eighth inning when Lu Clinton singled with two out following hits by Jim Pagliaroni and Pete Runnels. Clinton also helped Monbouquette defensively by leaping against the wall to grab Charley Maxwell's bid for a hit in the second.

Early Wynn, bidding for his 298th victory, was the loser.

Standings Unchanged

The season's three earlier no-hitters were pitched by Bo Belinsky of the Angles, Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers and Earl Wilson, Monbouquette's Red Sox team mate.

While Monbouquette was making the big news of the day, the situation atop both league standings was status quo.

The New York Yankees swept a doubleheader from the Washington Senators, 6-4 and 5-2 in 11 innings, and the Los Angeles Angels remained six games behind them by beating the Cleveland Indians twice, 2-1 and 8-4 in 10 innings. The Detroit Tigers also swept the Kansas City Athletics, 6-5 and 9-1; and the Minnesota Twins beat the Baltimore Orioles, 3-1.

In the National League, the two top contenders both lost. The Pittsburgh Pirates walloped the Los Angeles Dodgers, 9-1; and the Chicago Cubs edged the San Francisco Giants, 3-2 in 10 innings. The Cincinnati Reds defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-1; the Milwaukee Braves shutout the Houston Colts, 3-0, and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the New York Mets, 11-9.

Ford Won 11th

John Blanchard's three-run homer in the 11th gave the Yankees their nightcap victory before 48,147 fans, largest crowd ever to watch a professional sports event in Washington. The hit broke up a 2-2 duel between Whitey Ford and Dave Stenhouse. The triumph was Ford's 11th.

In the opening game, the Senators made four errors in the third inning to sabotage starter Bennie Daniels and help the Yankees get off to a 6-1 lead. Rookie Jim Bouton pitched a seven-hitter for his Washington homer.

Dean Chance pitched a five-hitter for the Angels' opening win over Cleveland, losing a shutout on John Romano's ninth-inning homer. Los Angeles scored four runs in the 10th inning of the nightcap, breaking a 4-4 tie when Ruben Gomez of the Indians balked home a run. Bob Botz was the winner in relief.

Tigers Won Twin Bill

Detroit capitalized on 20 bases on balls and four nightcap errors by Kansas City to sweep a twin bill. The Tigers rallied for three runs in the ninth to beat Granny Hamner in the opener. Al Kaline hit a Detroit homer. Rookie Howie Koplitz pitched a seven-hitter to win the second game, yielding a homer to Norm Siebern.

Minnesota pitcher Jim Kaat scattered nine hits and drove in the tie-breaking run in the 11th to beat Robin Roberts and the Orioles.

In the NL, Bob Friend pitched an eight-hitter for his 12th win as the Dodgers committed three errors. Bill Mazeroski hit a Pittsburgh homer and John Roseboro hit for the Dodgers' only run.

George Altman's two-run homer in the 10th inning and Don Cardwell's clutch relief pitching earned the Cubs their win over the Giants, who lost their fourth straight game. Billy O'Dell was the victim of Altman's blast. Cardwell retired the last two hitters in the 10th to save the win for Bob Buhl.

O'Toole Threw Five-Hitter

Jim O'Toole held the Cardinals to five hits and Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer as the Reds scored their 13th victory in 14 games. Robinson's homer was his fourth in the last five games.

Bob Shaw of Milwaukee pitched an eight-hitter against the Colts for his third shutout of the season. The game was enlivened by a bat-throwing tantrum by Norm Larker of the Colts after he had been tossed out of the game for protesting a called strike.

Don Demeter hit a two-run homer and Tony Gonzalez collected four hits in Philadelphia's 18-hit attack against the Mets. Frank Thomas hit two New York homers, one with the bases loaded.

Yankees-Giants Cop Pair From Cards-Cubs

LEFORS (Spl) — All Star Games were played in Lefors Monday and Tuesday night by top players in the little league bringing much excitement to the fans and satisfaction to the coaches and teams.

The best players on the Yankees-Giants took the best players on the Cards-Cubs both nights, with a score of 14-12 on Monday night and a score of 4-3 on Tuesday night.

The Yankees-Giants were coached by Gene Robbins and Dale Garrett and the Cards-Cubs by Chestine Dunn and Les Smith.

In Monday night's game, the Yankees-Giants beat the Cards-Cubs with 14 runs on three hits, while the Cards-Cubs had twelve runs on seven hits.

The Cards-Cubs took the lead in the first inning 5-0 on four walks and two hits, and the Yankees-Giants came back and tied it up in the top of the third on four walks and two errors.

The Yankees-Giants made two runs in the fourth inning and one in the fifth and six runs in the sixth inning. Leading hitters for the team were Archie Fugate and Butch Jernigan.

In the bottom of the sixth and last inning, the Cards-Cubs began with Davie White getting a walk, followed by Jerry Don Wariner who walked. Then Michael Mills had a base hit, followed by a walk by Gary Smith. Jerry Dunn got a base hit for the team and D. D. Lofton was on base on a fielders choice. Rickey Cates got on base on a walk, then Jimmy Gilbreath came up with the bases loaded, the score 14-10, and brought the crowd up with a hit to the fence for a double bringing the score to 14-12. Jerry Don Wariner followed for the Cards-Cubs with two men on base and hit a long drive to the right fielder, Dale Einney, who made a great catch for the Yankees-Giants to win the ball game.

Rickey Cates had two for three for the Cards.

Winning pitcher was Gary Mac Sublett and losing pitcher was Dennis Keith.

On Tuesday night it was the second night in a row that the Cards-Cubs outhit the Yankees-Giants only to lose in the final round due to walks and errors and hits at the right time by the opponent.

The Cards-Cubs led the Yankees-Giants 3-2 until the 5th inning when the Yanks tied it up on an error.

In the top of the 6th the Yankees shut out the Cards - Cubs. Jimmy Gilbreath came in to pinch hit and got a hit, only to be put out, followed by a strike out and fly out. In the bottom of the inning Archie Fugate for the Yankees-Giants sewed up the game when he hit a line drive single between short and second to score Marvin Finney with the winning run.

Philip Allison, Yankees-Giants, got one hit for his team and Archie Fugate the other to score the winning run and break the tie.

Leading hitters for the Cards-Cubs was Mills with one hit in three official times at bat; Dennis Dunn with two for three and Jerry Dunn, one for two.

Great defensive play was shown by Glen Hix for the Yankees-Giants, and Gary Smith for the Cards-Cubs.

Playing for the Giants-Yankees were Vince Stracener, Ronnie Willis, Glen Hix, Bruce Ginn, Philip Allison, Marvin Finney, Archie Fugate, Butch Jernigan, Gary Mac Sublett, Lewis Davis, Stevie Adkins, Mark Ginn, Dale Finney, Mike Robbins and Dennis Fugate.

Playing for the Cards - Cubs were Dennis Dunn, Jimmy Gilbreath, Jerry Don Wariner, Michael Mills, Gary Smith, Jerry Dunn, D. D. Lofton, Rickey Cates, Billy Earles, Clifford McDaniel, Terry Dunn, David White, Dennis Keith, Troy Stanton, and Hal Sims.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Who'll Pay Tax Law Billion-Dollar Question?

The overlooked sleeper in all the tax cut proposals now being made is what the government will use for money to make up for the lost receipts.

Nearly everyone now crowding the limelight in this act — from Auto Workers' President Walter Reuther to U.S. Chamber of Commerce President Ladd Plumley — has a $10 billion hurry-up tax cut plan. But there are few constructive ideas on new sources of revenue to pay the government's bill.

The easy way out is expressed in an idea that it won't be necessary to raise new taxes that will make up the full amount of the tax cut. People who were crying all over the place a few weeks ago about raising the national debt from $300 billion to $309 billion are now saying it won't hurt to let it go a little higher, if taxes are cut substantially.

There are tax studies all over Washington now on possible variations. If taxes are cut $10 billion, raise only $5 billion. If cut $7 billion, raise only $2 billion. Anyway you slice it, it still comes out $5 billion more debt.

There has been some speculation on following the examples of the western European countries. They have been able to hold down and even reduce income taxes. But they have resorted to extreme taxation substitutes which would probably not go over here.

European countries have high taxes on liquor, tobacco, coffee, salt, sugar and other necessities such as matches. They have also imposed high sales taxes on nearly every commodity or manufactured item in trade.

Sales taxes in this country are largely reserved to the states, except on gasoline — where both federal and state governments take their bite — and on a few "luxury" items where there are still federal excises.

Congress has just billed the tax on railroad transportation and cut in half the tax on air fares, effective Nov. 15. Hiking those rates again just to make up for income and corporation tax cuts wouldn't be popular.

Then there is the proposal that all United States government expenses be cut to make up for the tax cut.

There is an excellent opportunity for this now. Not one federal government appropriation bill for the fiscal year which began July 1 has been passed by Congress.

This provides an opening for any economizer to propose that all appropriations be cut 10 per cent right across the board. That would yield an estimated $9 billion saving, which is close to the amount of most proposed tax cuts.

Appropriations might also be cut, beginning with a major hack on foreign aid. Anti-foreign aid congressmen in both parties are quietly discussing this. Some would like to cut taxes and all spending bills, then adjourn Congress quick and go campaigning, leaving the rest of the Kennedy administration program stranded high and dry.

The Auto Lore

Since the automobile is such a necessary part of our lives, it is not surprising that a body of folklore and myth should have grown up around it.

There is, for instance, the ritual of tirekicking, the practical basis for which has been lost in the dim recesses of pre-Detroit time.

There are those who adhere to the sacrament of oil change every specific 1,000 miles despite the time interval involved or the driving conditions encountered.

Then there are the brake-fanners who, following their fathers' faith, stoutly maintain that pumping the brakes is the only true way to salvation at the bottom of a steep hill.

A lot of those motoring myths are disappearing as the industry approaches the day when tires will last the life of a car and engines will be permanently sealed at the factory.

As for the other belief, a recent test by engineers has proved that a steady pressure on the brakes is more effective than pumping, releasing, pumping. The increased rotating speed of the wheels, caused when the brakes are released, requires more braking power than is saved by the momentary release.

A corollary belief that you should descend a hill in the same gear used to ascend it no longer holds with today's high-horse power engines and automatic transsions, where downshift does not occur until very low speeds.

The engineers make a few recommendations for descending hills:

Use steady pressure on the brakes; don't "fan."

Put car in a lower gear, if necessary, to avoid excessive braking.

If the brake pedal continues to get harder, despite a reduction in gear speed, pull off to the side and allow the brakes to cool. Braking hard from a speed of only 40 m.p.h. can heat linings to 800 degrees F.

A heavy load, of course, increases the strain on brakes. It may also lower the body of the car, cutting off cooling air to the brakes.

What Really Counts

Shareownership in America has increased dramatically since 1952. In that comparatively recent year about 6.5 million Americans owned shares in the nation's publicly-held companies. Ten years later, in the early part of 1962, the figure had jumped to 17 million, almost a 30 per cent advance. Also an estimated two million additional people own shares in privately - held companies only —that is, companies whose securities are not available to the public at large. Most impressive of all, there are indications that as many as 35 million non - shareowners are on the threshold of investing or interested in learning more about it.

These are some of the facts included in the New York Stock Exchange's just - released 1962 Census of Shareowners in America. And this handsomely printed and illustrated booklet is full of other important and interesting information. The average shareowner certainly isn't rich — his annual household income is $8,400. Women shareowners outnumber men, but the margin narrows. More than a quarter of all shareowners live in the smaller communities like Pampa.

So the story goes. It is a story of widespread public faith in the future of American corporate enterprise — in the multitude of companies which provide jobs, goods and services, a place for savings, income, opportunity. Beyond that, it is a story of faith in a system — the system we call free enterprise.

And that's what really counts. Stock values will go down, and stock values will go up, sometimes spectacularly, just as do the values of other kinds of property. It's the system that we must keep strong and unchanged.

A thought for the day: Daniel Webster, the American statesman, said: "God grants liberty only to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it."

Pull Up A Chair

You have probably heard of professional tea and coffee tasters, but Uncle Sam's Dept. of Agriculture employes a small group of turkey tasters, whose expert task is to eat turkey day after day, and keep a line on the texture and flavor of the birds. . .Speaking of food, beefsteak in Soviet Russia varies somewhat from our own. Thoughts while shaving: 1. Mr. Kennedy is by no means the first President the Washington newsmen have accused of favoritism in slipping some fair - haired correspondents exclusive news tips . . .2. In his early days at the White House, President Franklin D. Roosevelt noted the newsmen lacked adequate facilities and thereupon ordered a newsroom set up for them closeby the executive offices. At first, FDR did not hold regular news conferences, but there were certain favorite reporters who'd drop in while he was signing mail or sometimes even while he was being shaved, and he'd talk informally with them. . .3. Mr. Truman was also criticized by Fourth Estaters for being less than impartial. On one occasion, at a cocktail party at which many newsmen were present, and within their nearing, President Truman made an appointment with one newspaper columnist for an exclusive interview the next day — and he fulfilled his promise, too. There were squawks, but HST withstood them. . .4. William Howard Taft, who had been Secretary of War under Teddy Roosevelt, was a great favorite among Washington reporters while in that post. But once he was in the White House, succeeding Teddy, he was extremely chilly toward the press — with one exception. That was Gus Karger, Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Times - Star which President Taft's brother Charles owned.

matter of fact

The Romans probably advanced the art and science of metallurgy of silver further than any other race up to their time. The Romans had several large and important silver workings, using perhaps the first fire metallurgy (pyrometallurgy) to produce silver and metal and then converting the metal into priceless silver ornaments.

Price Fixing Measure Fight Looms in Congress; Fate Uncertain

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON —The well-financed supporters of federal "fair trade" legislation are mounting a major drive in Congress to pass their price - fixing measure before the end of the session.

They are so confident of victory that John W. Anderson, head of Quality Brands Associates, the major organization backing the bill, is offering to refund 25 per cent of the large contributions made to the group's "legislative and education" fund if the bill does not pass.

Anderson made the bold victory forecast and his unusual refund offer in telegrams sent to some of the largest U.S. manufacturers, including those in the drug - cosmetic field, stating:

"We offer you our assurance that the quality stabilization (fair trade) bill will be enacted substantially as pending, or we will remit to you on your demand up to 25 per cent of the amount of your contributions if accepted by QBA and if within the range of the two amounts ($5,000 to $10,000) mentioned."

The tip - off on the strategy of the "fair trade" supporters' drive to push their legislation through both the Senate and House before adjournment is contained in a second telegram Anderson dispatched to the same companies.

"It is now urgent that everything possible be done in the short period ahead to clear both the Senate and House Committees impressively," the telegram states, "and to make certain that all members of each chamber knew how desperately producers, resellers. . .need this Act."

Anderson's telegram also highlighted the urgent need for soliciting extra funds for their final big lobbying effort, stating:

"The quality stabilization hearings confront the organizations with heavy outlays for intensified educational work and for conducting vigorous field contacts and repeated mailings to some hundreds of thousands of people who must communicate and activate others to communicate with their lawmakers in Washington.

"In addition, very substantial funds are urgently needed for speakers and organizers to continue and intensify highly successful trade meetings throughout the nation."

To raise this legislative war chest, Anderson urged the manufacturers to send "initial checks for five or ten thousand dollars" by return mail.

He described these contributions as "the barest fraction of a single year's cost to you in excess operating expenses and distributive handicaps which the quality stabilization bill (if passed) will at once remove for you."

WHAT IT MEANS — The "fair trade" or "quality stabilization" bill, as it has been renamed, is being sponsored by Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey (Minn.) and Representative Oren Harris (D.Ark.) chairman of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

Representative Harris' committee and the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee are now considering the Humphrey - Harris "fair trade" bill.

Their measure would amend the Federal Trade Commission Act to permit the owner of a brand name or trademark to establish resale prices. It would give these manufacturers the right to stop the resale of their goods at cut rates.

Assistant Attorney General Lee Loevinger, head of the Justice Department's Anti - Trust Division, is leading the fight against the price - fixing legislation.

He is circulating a memorandum among Committee members charging that "this bill would result in price - fixing and apply to virtually all aspects of wholesale and retail trade."

Loevinger warns "this federal system of resale price - fixing will result in higher costs to the consumer," and that "even such items as meat and potatoes could be price 'fixed' at the discretion of the manufacturer, wholesaler, or processors" under the legislation.

The Justice Department is also checking the activities of the organizations supporting the legislation to determine whether their lobbying is within the law.

Request for this review was made by Representative John Dingell (D., Mich.), member of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, and a leading foe against the price - fixing legislation.

Showdown votes in both the House and Senate Committees are scheduled early in August. Supporters of "fair trade" legislation are forecasting that the legislators will approve their measure.

Final House and Senate approval, despite lobbyist Anderson's rosy prediction, is anything but a sure thing.

House Speaker John McCormack (D.,Mass.) is known to be opposed to the legislation because of the impact it would have on consumers. With the session growing short, he could easily work with the House Rules Committee to block a floor vote. It was successfully killed in that legislative traffic committee last year.

In the Senate, the opposition of the National Association Retail Druggists, which is pushing the measure, to the President's medicare bill hasn't helped its chances among Democratic senators who favored the latter.

BUSINESS TIPS — The State Department is now sponsoring a series of seminars at Harvard on American marketing methods for foreign business and government representatives. — Defense buyers are fuming, in private, that Secretary McNamara's cost-cutting efforts are too energetic. Procurement officials have confided to congressmen their opinion that if the goal of $3 billion a year in savings is met, it will be at the expense of defense effectiveness. . .The Kennedy Administration wants big businessmen to share their know - how on good management practices with their smaller business associates. To show big firms how to do that, the Small Business Administration is drawing up a guidebook that will be out this fall.

The Doctor Says:

By DR. HAROLD T. HYMAN

'Hidden' Alcholic Poses Task for Family, Employer

In each community and in every doctor's practice, there are a certain number of "hidden alcoholics." Most often, in my experience, the "silent drunk" has enough money to purchase a supply of liquor without too greatly unbalancing the household budget. Spacious living quarters often make it possible for the drunkard to imbibe alcoholic beverages and sleep off their effects without attracting the attention of neighbors, associates or even members of the same household.

I recall, for example, a bank officer, believed to be a total abstainer, who regularly drank a quart of whisky before retiring. His performance was matched by several social leaders and at least one prim school principal whose dependence was on gin.

Despite my familiarity with the problem of the hidden alcoholic, I had no idea of how prevalent the condition is until I read a recent report in the North Carolina Medical Journal. For, after interviewing 100 adult male patients in a search for nonalcoholic control subjects, it was discovered that 29 probably fell into the category of hidden alcoholism.

The men included in this category gave histories of (1) periods of blackout while intoxicated; (2) sneaking and gulping drinks; (3) inability to control their intake of alcoholic beverages; (4) need to take a morning "eye opener"; (5) loss of friends, families or jobs due to drinking or (6) actual hospitalization on some previous occasion for alcoholism.

Yet none of these patients was admitted to the hospital for any condition related to alcoholism. None had any sign of nutritional deficiency, presumably because they had the means to obtain a balanced diet despite the daily costs of their alcoholic beverages. And in none was alcoholism given consideration in the diagnosis of the condition for which hospital admission was sought.

Since these "hidden alcoholics" frequently come on evil days, it is a matter of utmost urgency for friends, members of the family and business associates to detect the condition and then persuade the silent drinker to seek help before it is too late.

Particularly is this of importance to members of the household. In too many instances, devastating fires have been started and lives lost when a hidden alcoholic fell asleep with a lighted cigarette in hand.

BID FOR A SMILE

As the young man and his girl left the movie theater after a performance, the young woman said:

Young Woman — It's perfectly marvelous what progress the films have made in just the last few years.

Young Man — Yes. First they moved, then they talked, and now this one smells.

Pegler Says:

Little Girls', Boys' Rooms At Madonna Inn Nice

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. — The boy at the filling station stopped in mid-swipe at the windshield.

"Is there a decent motel around here?" he exclaimed. "Mister we have got the greatest. The Madonna Inn."

"That sounds like a convent or a monastery."

"No that is this man's name. Alex Madonna. He is a construction contractor. Highways and bridges and he built a dam, too."

"You couldn't be on the payroll, could you? This is quite a plug for a tavern."

"No, but about 700 people around here are on his payroll. And it is quite a tavern."

But it was night and a little red sign on the Madonna Inn said "Sorry; No Vacancies." So Mrs. Frank Pubins, four years out of Hempstead, L.I., who now runs the Homestead Inn, said: "Go to the Madonna for dinner, anyway. It is the absolutely I can't describe it we go there ourselves sometimes for meals and be sure to visit the little boys' room and the little girls', I mean it now, be sure, don't miss those."

This sounded like cross-filing, a California political vice which inflicted Earl Warren on a nation already troubled, but Mrs. Pubins' son, Bob, who helps around the Homestead, said: "Be sure to visit the ladies' room and the men's room, honest everybody does."

The wine cellar is the main dining room to date with more a'building and more bars, too, but there was room in the place called by the inadequate name of the coffee shop, which had old-fashioned drug store soda fountain chairs arrayed at tables and a border of booths of massive California wood carved with grapes and other conventional symbols of abandon and abundance. There were many pretty girls serving the tables, young and special who turned out to be co-eds from California Polytech in town. Anne Hurley discoursed on married life on campus, about credits and the poor preparation for college which had been her portion. The cultural atmosphere is a fringe benefit.

The next morning I rounded up Alex Madonna and sat again in the same booth with this phenomenal young man and his banker, E. J. Fabbri, of the Bank of American one of the late A. P. Giannini's boys. Mr. Madonna is a chunk, a rock of a man, with blue eyes and fair hair becoming scant above the forehead and forearms like the Village Blacksmith's. His grandparents came from the southerly slope of Switzerland, two of many Italo-Swiss on the California coast. His own father died when Alex was only 8.

Mrs. Madonna was not destitute. Her husband had been a scale model rancher. But Alex had a bonus heritage of character and ambition and he soon began to grapple with Life as a contractor, mowing lawns. He related that he was supposed to get 65 cents for mowing one lawn, but never got more than 44 cents. He still sees his late client now and again and always thinks of the carry-over debt. He also cleaned chicken yards, plucked chickens, gathered and shelled walnuts and did things around the date palms.

In another job he slept in an attic above the bedroom of a dairyman who would rap him awake at 3 a.m. by whacking the ceiling with a shoe. The boss tried to make him buy an alarm clock, but Alex couldn't afford it. He was supposed to get a dollar a day, but in his immaturity was persuaded that it would be only fair to waive the dollar on days when anything was wrong with any of the machinery, even though he worked. And, finally, the boss said the price had been 75 cents, not a dollar, and paid him $16 for 52 days.

Alex says these incidents taught him to think. He seems to think very well, for he often underbids all opposition on multi - million jobs. He can run almost any heavy duty construction machine or sharpen a pencil to the finest point for figuring costs. He is now only 41 and he says he feels about 35. He has no managers at the Madonna Inn. Such executives worry the help.

If a waitress, or a cat skinner on a highway job, seems to be careless or inattentive he talks things over and finally may have to say, "I am afraid you don't fit in with us." But more often "another chance" will straighten things out. One man with the equivalent of a third-grade education is a fine worker, but can't cope with half a dozen orders in advance. Give him one job at a time and he is of the best.

Alex finished high school, but never went to collge. Neither did Phyllis, his wife, who is beautiful and responsible for the great beauty of the apartments in the Madonna Inn, no two alike, and the Gay Nineties decoration of the famous Little Girls' Room. They had a job to serve a dinner for 700 in the wine cellar, which was only a "project" two weeks before the date. Carpenters, electricians, wood-carvers, plumbers and all worked around the clock until almost deadline when Phyllis whirled into action on the girls' room and Alex rubbed his mighty palms together and materialized the one next door for the boys'.

These privies are now a regional treasure only a little less vaunted than a castle. People pass the word and Mrs. Madonna said the demand is so insistent from both genders that now and again if scouts report that the coast is clear, parties are conducted into premises which normally are mysterious and forbidden to the respective other halves of the human race. I believe this is the utmost integration this side of Paris, France, Europe. There will be color press on this in the gaudy magazines in due course.

Alex Madonna's coat of arms is a design of the pick and shovel. It is all over the place. Stamped on copper-top tables, carved into massive wooden doors and wrought into grills. He discovered an enormous vertebra and a hip-and-leg bone in one great hunk of grey stone in the wine room — dinosaur stuff, perhaps.

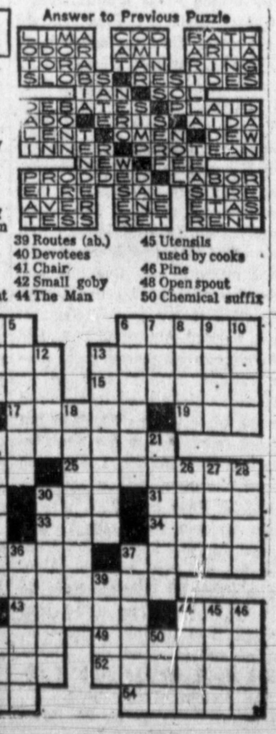

Alex has never had a smoke and like Joe Kennedy, who imported oceans of whiskey, he has never learned the taste of liquor.

Deformed Baby Died 3 Months Following Birth

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)— The Bexar County Medical Society said this week a woman who took the tranquilizing drug Thalidomide during pregnancy gave birth to a baby who had no arms or legs and died three months later.

The State Health Department said the child was born Oct. 12, 1961 and died Jan. 12 of this year.

"I understand this woman received the drug thalidomide in Germany," said Dr. Nina Sisley, acting city health officer. She was married to a man in the Air Force and they came to the United States, where she had the baby — I believe at Lackland Hospital.

"The baby was born without limbs — neither arms nor legs— and died approximately three months after birth. Since then, the woman has returned to Germany."

Foreign Aid Authorization Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy, praising both parties for their support, signed into law Wednesday a $4.6 billion foreign aid authorization bill.

He hailed the legislation as a sign of recognition by both Republicans and Democrats that the program is strongly tied in with this country's defense.

With Secretary of State Dean Rusk, congressional leaders and a bipartisan group of lawmakers looking on, Kennedy signed the measure after making a statement about its importance.

"I recognize that many of our fellow citizens disapprove of it, but I believe that this is because they do not realize how closely tied in it is with defense," Kennedy said.

"It is very much related to our national security and is as important dollar for dollar as any money spent for defense itself."

The actual money authorized in the bill must still be appropriated in later legislation.

The $4.6 billion authorized represented $206 million less than Kennedy requested. Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., has promised to lead a drive to cut $2 billion off the total.

At one time or another during its sojourn in Congress, the appropriation bill carried amendments that would have stalled purchase of United Nations bonds and tied Kennedy's hands in dealing with Poland, Yugoslavia and India.

Man Kills Wife, Self

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Sharon White was only 16 when she married Burnell Bauguess in 1954 but she was a June bride.

Two years later she and her husband became the parents of a boy, Michael. Together they operated the Blue Haven lounge.

But the bloom of love faded. Sharon and Burnell became estranged. She went to live with her mother, Mrs. Margaret White 41, in nearby Augusta and filed for divorce.

Sharon, 24, and Mrs. White were among a dozen people in Sedgwick County Court Tuesday, awaiting an uncontested divorce hearing before Judge Clement Clark.

Sharon and her mother were sitting near the rail; Bauguess, 29, stood behind them.

Suddenly shots shattered the courtroom quiet.

"The husband bent over his wife as if to talk to her," Judge Clark said. "He pulled a gun and shot her in the back of the head.

"Then he shot her mother and then shot himself in the head."

Sharon and her husband died several hours later. Mrs. White was reported in fair condition with an arm wound.

CENTURY STAMP—The first commemorative documentary revenue stamp ever issued by the federal government will go on sale on July 1, when the Internal Revenue Service marks its 100th birthday. Such stamps are used on bonds, deeds, debentures and other legal documents and cannot be used for postage.
