Brushfires In L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Brushfires raged near Los Angeles today after destroying at least 100 expensive homes, scorching some 33,000 acres and turning thousands of wealthy canyon and beachfront residents into refugees.

Firefighters struggled in vain against walls of flame driven by gale force desert winds, as columns of flame roared 100 feet into the air. Officials said there was no hope the fires would be brought under control quickly.

Fire In Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)-A fire that roared through 10 stores and caused about $2.5 million in damage along Atlantic City's famous boardwalk was contained early today, fire officials said.

The smoky blaze, fanned by 25 mph winds, defied the efforts of some 120 firefighters for seven hours before being brought under control at 4:20 a.m.

Fire officials said 10 stores in a honky tonk row of souvenir stands and snack shops were wrecked in the fire. An apartment above one of the shops was also damaged.

The cause of the fire was not known.

Vance Returns Today

LONDON (AP)-American and Soviet arms negotiators had a "frank exchange" on President Carter's decision to go ahead with production of a nuclear artillery shell and missile warhead that can be converted to a neutron weapon, a senior U.S. official said today.

The official made the comment during Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's refueling stop here after days of inconclusive arms talks at the Kremlin. Vance also met with British Foreign Secretary David Owen during the one-hour stopover.

Peace Talks Convene

JERUSALEM (AP)-The Israeli Cabinet convened for the second day today to pour over a draft peace treaty with Egypt amid reports that Prime Minister Menachem Begin had reservations on several points in the 10-page text.

FIVE INJURED — Ambulance attendants, police officers, and bystanders are shown clustered around the site of a two-car collision that injured five persons Monday afternoon. 5 Perish In Blast

BROOKSIDE VILLAGE (AP)—A 30-inch natural gas pipeline exploded early today near a mobile home park, setting off a fireball that could be seen 30 miles away. Five persons were known dead and at least 43 others were injured.

Eugene Dolan, 29, a resident of the trailer park, said the heat was so intense metal on his trailer began to melt.

"I thought it was a hurricane at first, the noise was so loud," Dolan said. "The doors on the trailer were beginning to melt and we ran out."

"It looked like the earth had been scorched," said Frank Noe, who was among the first volunteer firemen to reach the explosion site.

Noe said one body was burning in the field when he and other firemen arrived.

"I went through World War II and never saw anyting like this," he said.

The blast created a crater about 30 feet in diameter on the edge of the trailer park, destroyed at least seven trailers and severely damaged a dozen more.

Fence posts were set ablaze and residents fled on foot across a field, saying their automobiles were too hot to touch.

One unidentified survivor said, "The heat was melting the paint on the car. It was too hot to touch and I was afraid the gasoline tank might explode. The whole place was like an oven."

Sheriff's deputies said between 40 and 50 persons lived in the park.

Five bodies were found in the field and Brazoria County Sheriff's Lt. Tom Thacker said it appeared all five had been overcome by flames while running from their blazing trailers.

A hospital survey indicated 15 persons were admitted after treatment, with at least three in critical condition from massive burns. All were in Houston hospitals except one who was in John Sealy Hospital in Galveson, about 35 miles away.

Carter Presents Wage And Price Guidelines

HOUSTON (AP)-President Carter's national address on inflation set for tonight contains guidelines business, labor and government should follow to halt the spiraling rise in wages and prices, said the director of the Office of Management and Budget.

James T. McIntyre refused, however, to give any details of Carter's plan during his speech Monday to the White House Conference on Small Business at the Shamrock Hilton in Houston.

"It's not that I don't know what he's going to say, I just don't want to scoop my boss," McIntyre said.

He did say President Carter intended to present the inflation problem to the nation "with the bark off - no pie in the sky or quick fixes, and no oversimplified, gimmicky solution."

As a prelude to Carter's address, McIntyre announced during his speech the establishment of a National Productivity Council by the President aimed at boosting the nation's sagging output of goods and services.

"Productivity in our country has shown little improvement in recent years," McIntyre said. "This slowdown has been one of the major factors fueling inflation in our country."

The OMB head said the council, which he would chair, would be the administration's focal point for dealing with productivity programs.

"It will serve as the mechanism for coordinating federal programs

Chamber Asked To Back Route For New Highway

A delegation from the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce is seeking endorsement by the Snyder Chamber of a route for a proposed "demonstration" highway from Lubbock to San Angelo.

Meeting with the Snyder Chamber directors Monday at The Shack, the C-City visitors said they hoped that towns along U.S. Highway 84 from Lubbock to Snyder and along Texas 208 from Snyder to San Angelo would combine their efforts when hearings are held on routing the highway.

Bobby Lemons, chairman of the C-City Chamber's Highway Committee, said he believed that the route through Snyder and Colorado City had several factors in its favor, one of which is distance. It is shorter than the U.S. 87 route which is being pushed by towns along that highway. Lemons said that no town can fight the battle alone, however, and he urged Snyder interests to join with others on the project.

Roy Kidd, president of the Snyder Chamber, said Snyder is very much interested in the proposed road and that the C-City proposal will be submitted to the local chamber's highway committee.

Larry Winders, manager of the Colorado City Chamber, and Shirley Delaney, member of the board, were here along with Lemons.

In other business at its meeting, the Snyder Chamber Board got reprts on the job fair scheduled for Nov. 18, the Western Texas College Basketball Tournament set for Nov. 16-17-18 under chamber sponsorship, the diapause spraying program to control boll weevils in cotton fields and the American Junior Rodeo Association's designation of Snyder as host city for its national finals rodeo again.

Ralph Miller, chairman of the local AJRA committee, said strong bids for the AJRA event were made by Fort Worth, Odessa and San Angelo, but the AJRA site committee picked Snyder again. Miller said the facilities here and cooperation of local organizations helped bring the rodeo back for another year.

Milton Stephens reported that the first spraying in the diapause program had been completed, covering another 78,800 acres of cotton land in the county. Another spraying is scheduled for Oct. 30. Stephens said that an area in the southeast part of the county and smaller area near the south edge of the county were deleted due to insufficient participation. It was necessary to delete these areas to assure state funding, he said.

Bill Warner, chamber manager, said plans are moving along for the job fair on Nov. 18. He urged chamber directors to help get the word out to local business firms who may need personnel. Some areas of Texas with high unemployment have been defined and notices of job openings here and the dates for the job fair will be publicized in some of the high unemployment areas, Warner said.

The Jackson Hole, Wy., News says a drilling rig in Teton County has caused quite a stir among the populace.

Kenneth Smith, went with one of several crews of GCO Drlg. Co. from this area there to drill some wells on National Forest lands, sent the paper to his wife, Joyce, who works in the SDN composition room. Smith is working on Getty Oil Company's Fall Creek rig, which required a year of planning before environmental obstacles could be resolved.

The Jackson Hole News says some seven wells are exploring "the prized Overthrust Belt, which runs from southwest Wyoming to the foothills of Teton County."

They say this region may contain the largest supply of oil and gas in the continental U.S. Before the Fall Creek rig could be moved in, Getty had to agree to build its own road, and then after the drilling is completed, the terrain must be restored so that a person would never know that a road had existed there. There have been other reports of grumbling, according to the Jackson Hole paper, but there was no mention of any of the residents giving up their automobiles because they burn filthy gasoline.

County Agent Billy Roach remarked Friday afternoon that a good shower would help fall grain considerably at this time, and within 48 hours a light drizzle had moved into the area. By Monday morning it had contributed a significant amount of moisture.

This has been one of those strange years when we got more than a normal supply of rainfall, but too often it didn't come at the right time.

But the strangest report yet came from Chick Hale at Lake J.B. Thomas. He has a pear tree that produced a crop of pears that was harvested recently and now is blooming again. Obviously, this mixed up tree is in for a shock soon, since the normal date for our first killing frost is just around the corner, but its difficult to determine what is normal these days among plants as well as animals.

United Way Drive Nearing Mid-Point

Significant reports from two divisions have pushed the Scurry County United Way campaign near the half-way mark.

The commercial division, with $5,653.50 and the utilities division with $2,640 came in with the reports which gave the campaign its latest boost.

The commercial division, headed by Jerry Vestal, has now accounted for 62 per cent of its goal, while the utilities division, headed by Rodger Sullenger, has raised 64 per cent of its goal.

Mike Reed and Larry Genuchi, general campaign co-chairmen, said they hoped that the campaign would gain some momentum. They noted that the drive now has brought in contributions and pledges amounted to $24,522, which is a little over 48 per cent. However, the campaign time-table shows that the halfway mark has been reached.

The advance campaign, headed by Bill Eiland and John Jarrell has now accounted for $14,278.25, which is 84 per cent of its goal.

The over-all goal this year is $51,340. The Scurry County United Way supports 13 participating agencies.

Q—Will the Senior Citizens Center use all the space in the band hall and art department? What are they going to do with the old Travis gym?

A—The former band and shop building of Travis Junior High now being remodeled by the county will house the Senior Citizens center plus offices for the county agriculture and home demonstration agents, Social Security, the county welfare office. There will be space which may in the future be rented to other state agencies. The Snyder Public Schools still own and still use the old Travis gym and plan to continue to do so.

2 Entrants Divide Biggest Grid Prize

Two contestants share the biggest prize of the season so far in last week's Snyder Daily News football contest.

Shana Koonsman, Route 2, Snyder, and Danny Bass, Route 3, Box 334, will received $16.25 each after finishing in a tie for first and second place honors.

According to the contest rules, they will divide $20 that has accumulated in the second place offers, plus the week's $12.50 first prize. The rules provide that second place money be carried over in the event of a multiple tie, and this had occurred on three previous weekends.

The two winners missed only three selections each in last week's contest.

Two other contestants finished just out of the money with four misses each. They are Mark Spieker of Hermleigh and Charles Porter, 314 36th Place.

Another contest begins today and the list of games may be found in sponsors' advertisements on the football contest page of this issue of The Snyder Daily News.

stifling regulations

If anyone believes there is an effective effort being made to reduce the federal bureaucracy, they should heed the words of the head of the American Mining Congress. The president, J. Allan Overton Jr., said at a recent seminar, "Government by regulation has created a paradise for lawyers and a banquet for accountants, but it is pure hell for the sensible businessman."

Stating that regulations are pouring out of Washington in an avalanche, he said, "The Federal Register which promulgates and proposes regulations covered 65,000 pages this year, more than twice as much as five years ago. The government produces enough documents each year to fill 51 major league baseball stadiums."

Overton noted that the steel industry has to comply with 5,600 regulations administered by 27 separate agencies. An oil company needs 636 miles of computer tape to store information required by only one of the federal agencies. "And a list of new and proposed regulations affecting the mining industry takes up nine pages of paper," he added.

"It is becoming increasingly difficult to unearth the wealth of the country. We are having to dig through an awesome overburden of governmental regulations. I submit to you that our government is on a regulatory rampage," Overton said. He mentioned that the cost this year for regulations is passed on to consumers and burdens them with $100 billion.

As an example of regulatory overkill, Overton referred to the recent proposal by the Environmental Protection Agency to require $10 billion be spent on scrubbers for new power plants. This regardless of the sulfur dioxide content of the coal used.

It has been projected that 26 coal-fired power plants using scrubbers would create a residue of sludge which would cover 13 square miles a foot deep each year. In that context, Overton said, "If I may paraphrase a common adage, it seems Washington has a wonderful plan to cleanse Peter by polluting Paul."

This outspoken head of the Mining Congress said that foreign producers now have an edge because they do not have to put up with so much governmental folly.

an obvious answer

Lay people experience difficulty in understanding why there should be a question about ownership of official papers. But after more than 200 years the question is still the subject of litigation in this country. At present the General Services Administration is seeking to retain control of documents for the period when deputy administrator Robert T. Griffin was in charge of operations.

Griffin was fired recently, much to the embarrassment of President Carter and unhappiness of Speaker Tim O'Neill of the House of Representatives. Revelations in connection with charges of misconduct by GSA officials and employees are beginning to shed light on reasons for the griffin firing. These disclosures, incidentally, aren't particularly complimentary to Speaker O'Neill or President Carter.

But the dispute now is whether files in the office vacated by Griffin are his personal property or belong to the Government agency which employed him.

The same question is involved in litigation over official papers of former President Nixon and former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Congress passed a special law covering the Nixon case, but the law has been challenged in litigation which is still pending.

Hopefully, according to Department of Justice lawyers working on the GSA case, a decision in the Griffin suit will settle the question in all situations and probably take care of it for the future.

So far as the average citizen can see there shouldn't be any question concerning ownership of files accumulated by a public official in the course of discharging his responsibility as an employee of the U.S. Government. Some, as is the case with former President Nixon, want to use official files as a source of material for memoirs to be published, usually in book form.

Justice Department claims that copies of letters and other memoranda accumulated by an individual in the course of his work as a public official belong to the agency, not the individual temporarily in charge of a segment of public business.

Absurd is a notion that a government agent is any more entitled to ownership of files developed in the course of his official duties than would be the case with a bookkeeper and records of a bank's operations.

disclosure for all

When are we newsmen going to strip ourselves naked as we strip others? I've been on all major TV talk shows and nobody ever asked the hard questions.

When are we newsmen going to submit ourselves to the X-ray scrutiny with which we probe the private lives of public people?

When are we going to submit ourselves to a shakedown search--open our closets, empty our pockets, hang the dirty linen on the line?

A while back the Boeing Airplane Co. got a whopping billion-dollar contract for a new generation airplane. I announced: "Good news for Seattle, Wichita and all Boeing suppliers!"

It was also good news for Boeing investors. Had I been one--which I was not--might I have contributed to boosting the stock price by the relative prominence I gave that item?

When the SST was being debated, and the B-1 bomber, I favored both. Had I owned Boeing stock--which I did not--might not my recommendations have been self-serving?

For that matter, how do you know that I did not take money from South Korea to soft-pedal criticism and help that government get more of your tax dollars? You don't know.

Questions arise almost every day with every newsperson who also has personal interests or private investments--and any of us worth his salt has some of both.

Why not subject news handlers to the same scrutiny to which we subject politicians where a potential conflict of interest exists?

We spotlight the drinking habits, the pill use and the sexual mores of a Rep. Hays, a Rep. Mills or a Sen. Brooke, convinced that private indiscretion subjects a public servant to potential blackmail. Why not us of the news media?

Are we not vulnerable to distoring or killing a story or embellishing a story due to some personal habit or quirk of character?

You bet we are! Chet Huntley suffered embarrassment because of a financial interest in a meat-packing business which could have influenced his editorial judgment on a related subject.

I've been guest on all the top rated TV talk shows and nobody ever asked me any of the "hard questions" which are always asked of politicians:

"Have you ever accepted from any foreign government a party, a party girl, a plane ride or a vacation?"

"Have you ever had a homosexual lover?"

"Do you have any secret bank accounts, any debts to gamblers?"

"Do you drink?"

"What are your investments, total assets, other income sources?"

"Did you ever report favorably on any person or property in which you have a vested interest?"

"You are always talking up Arizona; do you own land in Arizona?"

Yes, these questions do seem to be impolite, impertinent, an invasion of privacy . . . s, they could embarrass our families.

Yet these are questions to which we demand answers from public servants. And in some ways we are more influential than they.

Some five years ago we of the news media overthrew the U.S. government. How many of us could have stood up to the grueling grilling to which we subjected the Watergate principals in that ugly expose?

How many of us are willing to strip to the degree that we stripped them?

I certainly don't want to. But if it is a good idea--and I think it is--somebody has to go first.

Do I hear a second from anywhere in the major league media?

my turn

by glenn rea

It seems over the years that newspapers have become more important than ever. Time was that journalists published sheets of news as a sideline to their printing business. Today, however, we see more and more that without freedom of the press or any media we could very easily become puppets for self-serving politicians.

Fortunately most papers accept this responsibility without losing sight of their place in society.

Sometimes we hear complaints that newspapers in general whitewash the facts to ease public conscience or that papers only print the bad news.

One editor we knew grew tired of these accusations and decided to show his subscribers the whole truth. His first opportunity came in the form of an obituary.

In his attempt to reform and tell the truth, he commented as follows on the death of a citizen:

"Died-aged fifty-six years, six months and thirteen days. Deceased was a mild-mannered pirate with a mouth for whiskey. He came here in the night with another man's wife and joined the church at his first chance.

"He owes us several dollars for our paper, and a large grocery bill, and you could hear him pray for six blocks. He died singing 'Jesus Paid It All,' and we think he was right; he never paid anything himself.

"He was buried in an asbestos casket and his many friends threw palm-leaf fans in his grave as he may need them. His tombstone will be a favorite resting place for hoot owls."

Needless to say this editor's subscribers were quick to change their tune and have the paper return to its old style of reporting.

It looks like winter has finally arrived and for many the rain it brought was a necessity. For the past few months, many businesses have lamented that the seasons have been undependable. Unseasonally dry, hot, or warm.

With this cold snap and moisture, maybe we will be returning to a seasonal schedule and businesses can offer their fall and winter products without worrying about sunburn or turning the thermostats lower.

DES MOINES (NEA) - Just as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy reached the microphone at a crowded fund-raiser here for Sen. Dick Clark, an accordion player in the next room abruptly terminated his rollicking rendition of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

"I recognize that song!" Kennedy shouted. "But Dick," he moaned in mock dismay, "it seems to have stopped in the middle!"

He needn't have worried. In Iowa these days, nothing stops the Kennedy music for long - not even Jimmy Carter's triumph at Camp David and subsequent surge in the polls.

Iowa Democrats, with their first-in-the-nation precinct caucuses, gave Jimmy Carter his initial boost toward the White House way back in January 1976. But there is no guarantee they will repeat the favor in January 1980 - not while those Irish eyes of Ted Kennedy are smiling so alluringly.

Carter has clearly recaptured much of the ground he lost during the first 18 months of his presidency, quieting - perhaps for good - the doubts about his competency which has gnawed at even his staunchest supporters here.

But the bloom is off the rose nonetheless. The emotional allegiance many Iowa Democrats felt to Candidate Carter has been largely dissipated by President Carter. With one quick trip to the state, a trip billed solely as a support mission for Dick Clark, Ted Kennedy electrified every crowd he addressed and touched off talk of a draft movement for 1980.

Chuck Gifford, director of the United Auto Workers here and a key early Carter supporter the last time out, is effectively off the reservation now. Kennedy is his candidate if Kennedy will run - and will quite probably be his candidate even if he continues to insist he is not going to run.

Tom Whitney, who was chairman of the Democratic Party when Carter won the 1976 precinct caucuses, is quietly talking with key policical activists in other states - New Hampshire included - about organizing a full-fledged "draft Kennedy" movement early next year, an effort that would be concentrated on the Iowa precinct caucauses and a write-in vote in the New Hampshire primary.

Ed Campbell, Whitney's successor as party chairman, is more discreet - but clearly cool to Jimmy Carter.

All of them, and others as well, will be meeting with like-minded Democrats from every part of the country when the national party holds its mid-term conference in Memphis in early December.

John White, Carter's hand-picked national party director, has rigged the conference rules so tightly that there will be no meaningful opportunity for dissent during the formal program proceedings in Memphis. Kennedy will participate in a panel discussion of national health insurance, but he will not go near the full convention plenary session.

The real politicking at Memphis will be taking place in corridors and hotel rooms, and Iowa Democrats are likely to be in the thick of the plotting.

The precinct caucuses of 1976 were pure opportunity for Candidate Carter, an obscure former governor from Georgia who simply stated sooner and worked harder than anyone else in the field. For President Carter, who can no longer devote even days - let alone months - to cultivating caucus support, they are pure peril.

In Iowa, Carter does not have two more years to solidify his popularity and instill enthusiasm in his supporters. He has a year at most, and quite possibly less. Kennedy can claim he is not a candidate until he is blue in the face, but that alone will not deter some very savvy Iowa Democrats from championing his cause at the precinct caucuses either directly or indirectly through the election of "uncommitted" delegates.

Carter came in first in the 1976 Iowa precinct caucuses with a mere 28 percent of the votes. That was a triumph for an unknown candidate. It would be a disaster for an imcumbent president

Letter To Editor

To The Daily News:

In your editorial published on Sunday, Oct. 22, entitled "It's Time to Choose," this voter wholeheartedly applauds your choices for governor of Texas and the 17th District Congressional contest.

America and Texas are indeed at a political crossroads. Our free enterprise system and democracy itself are at stake. Your enrosements of Bill Clements and Bill Fisher can only indicate that people are truly realizing that voters concerned with the direction our government is taking us should and must vote for principles over party lines today as never before!

Our president and Democratic-controlled Congress are truly not represepting the wishes of conservative, common sense working people any longer. One need only look at the lesbian, homosexually pushed ERA legislation, rampant deficit spending, inflation, and the Panama Canal give-away as prime examples.

To those hard-core Democrats who insist they have to remain a loyal Democrat and vote their usual straight ticket, I appeal to you; consider the cost of today's liberal policy and where America is headed. Indeed, it is time to choose!

Are we willing to vote our conservative principles and morality rather than party allegiance, or will we let the liberal political factions which are trying to control out federal and state governments take our nation and state to total ruin?

DAC Has Fall Meeting

The fall meeting of Tejas Chapter of the National Society of Colonial Daughters of the 17th Century was held recently in the home of Mrs. Ernest Thomas of Odessa. Chapter members and guests convened at 12 noon for a luncheon hosted by Mrs. Thomas, her sister, Mrs. Ray Hurt of Ft. Stockton and her mother, Mrs. Al Harris of Kermit.

Following the luncheon the group assembled for a brief business session with chapter president, Miss Delila Baird, presiding. Mrs. Jimmy Hale, chapter chaplain, voiced the opening prayer and gave a tribute to a deceased member, Mrs. James B. Day of Rotan. Mrs. Bernie C. McCrea led in the pledge to the flag. This was followed by a discussion of problems relating to national defense.

The program chairman, Mrs. Bernie C. McCrea, introduced Mrs. Jimmy Hale who spoke on the subject, "Texas in the 17th Century"

By way of introduction of the subject, Mrs. Hale posed the question, "Texas in the 17th century?". The speaker continued, "Of course, we know that the land was here then, but what was Texas like in the 17th century, 1600-1699, while our forefathers were first arriving on the east coast? She related facts concerning the questions during her program including history of Texas leading up to the 17th century.

In conclusion, Mrs. Hale noted, "Thus during the 17th century only two flags flew over Texas--those of Spain and France. The state motto, "Friendship" comes from the Tejas Indians who were friendly to the Spanish explorers. And also from these friendly Indians comes the name chosen for the chapter, Tejas Chapter of Colonial Daughters of the 17th Century."

Attending the meeting in Odessa were members Miss Baird and Mrs. Hale of Rotan; Mrs. Harris, Kermit; Mrs. Hurt, Ft. Stockton; Mrs. McCrea, Abilene; Mrs.L.T. Nelson, Sweetwater; Mrs. R.G. Russ, Hale Center; Mrs. Thomas, Odessa and Mrs. Kenneth Whisenant, Abilene. Also guests, Mrs. J.D. Ivey, Hale Center, Mrs. Wayne G. Arnold, Plainview and Mrs. Mary Bob Thomas of Odessa.

The next meeting of Tejas Chapter will be the last Saturday in January, 1979 in the home of Mrs. Whit Clark in Rotan. The January program will be presented by Mrs. Henry F. Clark of Snyder.

ROTAN DAC MEETS--Mrs. Kenneth Whisenant of Abilene and Mrs. Jimmy Hale of Rotan discuss points of Mrs. Hale's program, "Texas in the 17th Century" at the Odessa meeting of the Tejas Chapter of Colonial Daughters of the 17rh Century.

South took dummy's ace of clubs, played it's 10 of trumps and proceeded to ruff a club. If clubs had been kind enough to break 4-2, South would have made seven by setting up two clubs for heart discards. The 5-1 break made it impossible for him to set up even one discard and he had to play hearts. He drew a second trump, led a heart toward the 10 and was one down when East showed up with the king and West with the jack.

Tough luck, but not the sort of tough luck that would defeat a declarer who gave himself every chance.

That declarer ruffs a club at trick two. Leads a spade to the 10. Ruffs a second club, leads a spade to the nine, ruffs a third club, leads a diamond to the ace, ruffs a fourth club to set up dummy's last club as a winner.

Now he ruffs his last diamond with dummy's deuce of trumps, discards one heart on that last club and has made his slam in spite of the 5-1 club break.

McFarland Sings At Cosmorama

Cosmorama Study Club met for their regular monthly meeting at Martha Ann Woman's Club recently. Hosting the meeting were Patsy Williams, Erma Hicks, Charlotte Smith and Jane Crenwelge. Members of the Snyder Newcomers Club were special guests.

"Versatility and Contrast", the program subject was presented by Fred McFarland and Verna West. Mrs. West accompanied McFarland at the piano and on the guitar as he sang several songs from the era 1940-1960.

McFarland's past musical experiences include singing with San Antonio Opera, Dallas Civic Opera, Dallas Summer Musicals, Casa Manana at Fort Worth, Grannie's Dinner Playhouse and Theatre Three, both in Dallas, Wyoming Summer Theatre at Laramie, Honolulu Theatre Center, Theatre Inc. in Houston, two years of U.S.O. Tours, and staff singing for T.M. Productions (radio and television commercials).

Mrs. Smith conducted a short business meeting. She welcomed Mrs. Ray Courtney as a new member. She concluded by reminding the group of their participation in the Martha Ann Woman's Club garage sale to be held Nov. 4 at Towle Park Barn.

Watch out for bill collectors who pose as survey takers, government agents or court representatives--any deception is illegal, warns Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Help Bag Some Treats

By Joanne Schreiber

Hallowe'en is everybody's favorite holiday, with witches and goblins, black cats and bats, full harvest moon and grinning jack-o-lanterns. If there are trick-or-treaters in your family, planning to go out to collect candy, apples and other treats, send them out in style with these easy-to-make trick-or-treat bags of Pelion's Phun Phelt.

This new craft material is made of 100 percent polyester, so it is washable, crush-proof and colorfast. Crafts enthusiasts like it because it cuts cleanly and because it may be stitched, glued or fused in place.

TO MAKE THE TOTE BAGS, you will need:

One-half yard Phun Phelt in old gold or tangerine (makes 2 bags)

9 x 12-inch pieces Phun Phelt in tangerine and sunny yellow, plus scraps of green (for the pumpkin)

9 x 12-inch piece of black Phun Phelt, plus scraps of white, emerald green and electric pink

Thread to match, Slomon's Quik Glue, scissors

Cut Phun Phelt 22½ x 15 inches. Pink one long edge if desired. Turn down 2½ inches along that edge to make cuff. Stitch cuff down inch from fold. Cuff is on right side of finished piece. Place short edges together, wrong sides out. Stitch. This becomes center back seam.

Place seam in that position and stitch across bag to make bottom seam. Turn bag right side out. Cut two strips for handles, each 1½ x 11 inches. Sandwich with glue. When dry, stitch handle to bag at center front and center back.

PUMPKIN: Cut out yellow Phun Phelt according to pattern. Cut eyes, nose and mouth. Cut pattern again of tangerine Phun Phelt with features cut out. Glue this over solid yellow shape. Glue green stem to top of pumpkin. Glue entire trim to front of bag.

CAT: Cut paper pattern with mouth cut out. Use pattern to cut black Phun Phelt. Glue cat face to bag front. Cut nose of pink Phun Phelt and glue to face. Cut white strips as narrow as possible and glue as whiskers. Cut eyes along largest outline. Use to cut white Phun Phelt. Glue in place on face. Cut next smaller size of green and glue over white. Cut smallest of black and glue over green.

Naturally, you can change the motifs on the basic bags and make Christmas totes, birthday totes, Easter totes and personalized totes. For durability, you can make the bags of double thicknesses. Projects such as this are good for group efforts, such as Brownies or Scouts, and make excellent bazaar items.

Grandmother King Of Chili

ROSAMOND, Calif. (AP)-The "King of Chili" is a queen for the first time in the world chili championship's 12-year history.

La Verne Anne Harris, a Las Vegas grandmother, says she didn't mind the fact that the trophy she won Sunday was inscribed with the words: "King of Chili."

She says she prefers to be called Nevada Annie because "Who wants La Verne's chili?".

Fence Linked To Berlin Wall

WASHINGTON (AP)-- The "Tortilla Curtain" is being compared to the Berlin Wall as Mexican-American groups protest plans to construct 12 miles of strudy fences along the Mexican border.

"The Berlin Wall is a pretty potent symbol...it would be strange if Sussian Premier Leonid Breshnev made a speech from a platform on the Mexican side of the fence," said Ed Pena, director of the League of United Latin American Citizens, referring to President Carter's speech at the Berlin Wall earlier this year."

The LULAC spokesman was joined by representatives of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, the American G.I. Forum and the U.S. Catholic Conference at a Monday press conference that coincided with the government's official announcement of the 10-foot high fences featuring concrete bases and hard-to-cut razor sharp steel meshsing.

The first of three such fences will be built in the urban areas of El Paso and San Ysidro, Calif., with a third fence scheduled for San Luis, Ariz., next year.

"Building these fences is an act of unwarranted, stepped-up hostility directed both towards Mexico and Mexican-Americans," said MLDEF President Vilma Martinez. "Is this the administration's new good neighbor policy? Is this the new proposal to defend human rights--barbed wire fences?"

However, Immigration and Naturalization Service Commissioner Leonel Castillo, one of the highest-ranking hispanics in the Carter Administration, said reaction to the fences "draw a lot of inference from a $2 million expenditure."

"Fences are not new," he continued. "They have been around for years and have been the subject of quite a few congressional hearings..they're making a lot out of fences on less than one per cent of the U.S.-Mexican border."

Upon completion of the six-mile fences in Texas and California, the 2,000-mile Mexican border will be dotted with 39 miles of fences.

The fences, added Castillo, represent a "middle-ground" approach to the illegal alien problem. "This is a more humane and sensible approach... rather than thousands of more Border Patrol officers or more severe enforcement tactics."

In San Antonio, LULAC spokesman Ruben Bonilla said, "If this plan is carried to completion, we'll have three great walls--the Berlin Wall, the Great Wall of China and the wall in our own free society and it is irreprehensible that a great nation as America should tolerate it."

Loaned Cars For Student Drivers

WASHINGTON (AP)- High School students throughout the country learned how to drive through the use of more than 37,000 motor vehicles loaned by new car dealers during the 1977-78 school year, according to the Highway Users Federation.

The federation, a nonprofit business coalition, said the total retail value of the loan-cars was more than $240 million.

Relax before testing pressure

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Today, when everybody is so concerned about blood pressure, where there are free clinics twice a month, and blood pressure machines, I wonder just how great the benefit is to the individual? If taking blood pressure should affect everyone like it does me, it could cause great stress.

I am a female over 60, 130 pounds and without a family doctor; mine is too old for practice. Other doctors in the area are not taking new patients. Needless to say, having my pressure taken has turned out to be a great stress.

After 10 years of not knowing what my blood pressure is, I had it taken at a "Golden Age Group" where the attitude was, "You haven't had yours taken!" At this time it was 180/80. Since then, I have gone to free clinics twice a month and each time it upsets me. They found it to be 168/72, 170/74 and the last time, 180/64.

It appears to me my pressure varies with the nurse. When it was 168 and 170, the nurse was pleasant and talked before slapping on the band like the others had done. I have restricted my food to no salt and less sugar. I never did eat a lot of meat, certainly no sweetbreads, kidneys or that sort of food. Could the fact that I have reduced salt and sugar account for the lower numbers? Or is it just the difference in the observations of the nurses?

DEAR READER — All of your lower readings are perfectly normal. They are certainly within the range of normal fluctuation of blood pressure. All of your upper readings are a little high, but that is not an unusual finding in your age group. To really evaluate what your top reading means, you should be mentally and emotionally relaxed, as well as physically relaxed, before the pressure is taken.

For people like you, who get upset when their blood pressure is taken, that usually means that they have to rest for a while in between readings and sort of get used to the surroundings to get a reasonably accurate pressure reading. If the upper reading is still high, it can be important.

We do know that when the top reading is too high, it can be a factor in increasing one's risks for heart attacks and strokes, just as we have always said that an increase in the lower readings would. I wouldn't get hysterical about it, however, as that will make matters worse instead of better.

Just remember that your readings aren't all that bad. Do what you can to get your weight down and restrict your salt as you are doing. With adequate weight control and salt restriction, it's unlikely that you will need to take any medicines.

I do think, however, that you should make a major effort to get a family doctor. You might prefer to let him worry about your blood pressure rather than having to worry about it yourself. That might be the best treatment of all for you.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure, which explains factors that control the level of pressure and how it fluctuates. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

My other two suggestions would be to develop a regular walking program if you don't already have one. Also, if you happen to use a lot of coffee, you might be wise to either stop it entirely or switch to a decaffeinated brand. That may make you less nervous or tense. Stopping coffee often does for people what taking a tranquilizer is supposed to do.

Victim Receives $6.8 Million

AUSTIN (AP)-- John Coates, paralyzed from the waist down in a shooting accident, was $6.8 million richer today and might have a place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

But the money won't make up for his loss of the use of his legs, Coates says.

"Nothing can compensate me for what I've lost," Coates, 42, told reporters Monday, shortly before a judge formalized his settlement with the Remington Arms Co.

Coates was wheeled into the court by his son Will, 16, who was holding a Remington Mohawk 600 rifle when it discharged during a deer hunting trip last Dec. 11.

Coates' attorney, Joe Jamail of Houston, said the rifle fired when Will pushed the safety to the "off" position but did not pull the trigger.

State District Judge Tom Blackwell entered judgement in a closed-door session requested by Remington's lawyer, Robert McKissack of Corpus Christi.

Jamail called the Judgment "apparently the largest single payment settlement of a tort case in history."

The latest edition of the Guinness Book of World Records says a $6.3 million judgment for Thomas Hooks, 18, of Venice, Ill., in 1975 was the largest lump-sum personal injury award.

There have been larger settlements but they involved payment over a period of years.

Jamail said Will was in a four-wheel-drive vehicle with his father and other deer hunters when it was discovered his rifle was loaded. To unload, Jamail said, the safety had to be off.

"When he took off the safety, that's all she wrote," Jamail said. The high-powered .243 caliber rifle fired into the back of Coates, who was sitting in the front seat, ripping through his spine, kidneys and other organs.

Jamail said Remington has not admitted the rifle was defective.

"They admit nothing, but they ought to recall the damn things," Jamail said, adding that he has heard of no recall plans.

McKissack, Remington's lawyer, refused to talk to reporters.

Coates said the bolt action rifle that shot him was four or five years old but was seldom used.

Americans To Set Drinking Record

NEW YORK (AP)-Americans will consume an all-time high 450 million gallons of liquor this year, according to an estimate by the Wine and Spirits Marketing Bulletin.

The forecast is based on analyses of the first five months of 1978 which showed a consumption increase of 4 to 5 percent over 1977.

Extras Cost Farmers Dearly

WASHINGTON (AP)-It's probably easy for a farmer who sees the price tag on a new tractor of $50,000 or so to rationalize that a few dollars more for a heater and an air conditioner are well worth it.

But those options can add 15 percent to 20 percent to the cost of a new tractor or combine, says the Agriculture Department.

Looking at what happened in 1972-75, a USDA report says that prices of farm production items overall rose 65 percent in those years. But within that general group farm machinery prices soared 83 percent.

The steepest rise occurred in 1973-75, a period when mrket prices of many commodities - including grain - climbed sharply. Farmers' incomes, as a general rule, also were up.

"While costs for the basic farm machines were soaring, the total outlay was also increased by greater demand for optional equipment," the report said. It was published in the current issue of Farm Index, a monthly review by USDA's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

For example, in 1975 about 64 percent of all the tractors in the 120-129 horsepower class sold that year included air conditioners. In 1973, only 42 percent had them, the report said.

"Among large tractors with 130 horsepower or greater, 85 percent of 1975 sales were air conditioned, compared with 65 percent in 1973," it said. "Heaters achieved a similar 1975 popularity."

Sales of medium-sized combines included 57 percent with air conditioning and 84 percent with heating, compared to 27 percent and 69 percent, respectively, in 1973.

"These options, while perhaps being a welcome change to farmers who spend so many hours operating equipment, are far from cheap," the report said.

Young Executives More Reluctant To Move Now

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- Lyle Pichelman is general manager of a metal manufacturing company in Peoria, Ill. He and his family have moved 10 times in the last 16 years, always because he was offered a better job.

But times are changing for today's executives.

The last time Pichelman, 41, was offered a new job - which meant another move and about a $4,000 salary increase - he turned it down.

And it will take more than a few thousand dollars in pay to get Pichelman - and thousands of professionals like him - to move again.

"I left the decision up to him, but we both knew that this time there was my job to consider," said Mrs. Pichelman, who at 38 is the mother of two children, ages 12 and 15. "I had been at home for 13 years, but two years ago I decided I wanted a paying job."

She got one and now earns about $18,000 as a financial analyst for the City of Peoria, bringing the family income to $45,000-$50,000.

"If the right job for Lyle came long, we'd take it," she said. "But I wouldn't want to step down financially or professionally. I like my job."

The Pichelmans are not alone.

Executive recruiters, management consultants and company personnel officers report that American professionals agonize more now over job transfers. And more people turn down jobs, even promotions.

Behind the wariness are myriad changing social attitudes. More wives are working, and they are contributing significantly more to family income. And couples are finding that uprooting a family has more hidden costs than once realized, psychological and financial.

"Back in the mid-1960s, the go-go '60s, there was a risk-taking tempo I don't see today," said Gerard R. Roche, president of New York-based Heidrick & Struggles, one of the largest executive recruiting firms. "People would go anywhere for an extra $4,600 and a new title.

"But there's been a swing back to the hearth. People are saying, 'I have a beautiful home; my kids are in school. I'd prefer not to uproot."

Carl W. Menk, president of another large recruiting firm, Boyden Associates, put it this way: "Five and 10 years ago, people were more inclined to change jobs. Today people have different goals and different values. Not everyone wants to be chief executive officers anymore. They get to a point where they say, 'I've achieved what I want to do. This kind of thinking didn't exist 10 years ago."

Dr. Eugene Jennings, a Michigan State University business management professor, said that with inflation growing, he finds people get choosier about whether and where they'll move.

"People are developing geographic tastes in ways I've never seen in the 25 years I've been monitoring mobility in corporations," he said. "A whole psychology has developed that says, 'I want to be environmentally free of congestion, pollution, commuting.' It's a resurgence of the old theme - go West. Now it's not a direction but a spirit. People are saying, 'Get off my back. Let me live my life.'"

Jennings' research shows the most popular places in which to live are: San Francisco, Seattle, Boston, Connecticut, Denver, Dallas and Cleveland.

A study this year by the Employment Relocation Council in Washington shows that 30 percent of its member companies report problems with employees accepting transfers to high-cost or undesirable locations. However, only 3 percent reported serious problems.

"California was noted as a problem most frequently, generally due to housing problems" the report says. "The New York-New Jersey area followed, problems mainly attributed to the cost of living. Other problem areas mentioned were: Chicago, the northeast United States-New England; Washington, D.C.; Houston; Detroit; and Philadelphia."

The study shows the average cost of moving a homeowner in 1977 was $11,740 - up 12 percent from the 1976 average of $10,440 and 50 percent higher than the 1973 cost of $7,800.

And rising moving costs are only part of the problem. Researchers say executives who once demanded salary increases of 10 to 15 percent to move now are getting 20 to 30 percent.

One result of this shift in values is that many firms are balancing the benefits of moving an employee with the rising cost of transfers. Many others are looking more closely at such family considerations as a working spouse or a reluctance to change children's schools.

Some companies are luring good professionals to transfer with financial sweeteners - bonuses, stock options and helping with some of the chores of selling one house and finding another.

"We used to take the point of view that we were moving one person," said Felix Moletteri, employment manager for the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. "But now we're more and more concerned about the impact a move has on the employee's home environment."

Moletteri said AT&T offers various transfer incentives to employees. They help find a new home or rent an old one, with AT&T paying the management fee. It also has a cost-of-living formula to minimize the differences in real estate prices, as well as city and state taxes.

Moletteri insisted that AT&T has no trouble getting employees to move to its New York-area operations, but he conceded that he only hears about those who agree to transfer and that others may be taking themselves out of the transfer circuit before being asked to move.

"We're sure that out there in the companies there is a reluctance to move," he said. "But there are still sufficient numbers of people willing to move so that they are coming here in greater numbers than ever before."

Reversal Of Sterility Success Rate Rising

By MICHAEL FUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- Voluntary sterilization, particularly in men, is increasingly becoming a reversible method of birth control as microsurgical techniques are improved and standardized, according to a new report on contraceptive technology.

The report, published Monday by the Population Crisis Committee, says the best surgical centers already have success rates as high as 90 percent in reversing vasectomies in men who did not suffer extensive tissue destruction during the original sterilization.

"With standardization of sterilization procedures to maximize the chances of reversal, the success rate of reversal procedures will increase," the committee predicted.

The committee said several months ago that voluntary sterilization is now the world's leading contraceptive method.

The nonprofit organization, which promotes population control, also said Monday that chemically treated devices, including condoms that dissolve and hormone-dispensing vaginal rings, are likely to be next birth control methods on the market.

No real scientific breakthrough, such as a pill for men or a contraceptive vaccine, are expected anytime soon, the report said.

And despite the increased success in reversing vasectomies, it is expected to be several years before scientists perfect a simple technique for inserting a tiny, removable plug in a woman's Fallopian tubes to render her temporarily sterile.

Men and women seeking sterilization today are usually warned to expect permanent sterility.

The committee, in its review of prospective birth control methods, said researchers expect to begin human testing soon of a condom designed to dissolve during intercourse, releasing a spermicide to prevent conception.

Some experts doubt that the film-thin devices will be as effective as existing condoms, but they overcome two of the major disincentives to using the present devices: they don't interfere with sensation and present no disposal problems.

The vaginal ring, which may be commercially available in about five years, offers an alternative to presently used oral contraceptives in that it is expected to be just as effective as the pill by dispensing smaller doses of the same hormones, estrogen and progestin.

You can do it!

Weatherstripping and caulking around doors and windows stop energy leaks.

In time, even tiny air cracks can add up to large heating and cooling losses. But sealing those energy-robbing cracks isn't all that hard. You can do it yourself with Texas Electric's free booklets on caulking and weatherstripping. They're part of a series we're offering to energy-conscious homeowners who want to make their homes energy efficient. Using basic tools and readily available materials, even unhandy people can caulk and weatherstrip their own homes to keep energy costs down.

Other booklets in the series cover insulation, storm windows, ductwork, and general maintenance. Just call us, or ask for the booklets on the comments section of your electric bill. See how easy it is to make your home energy efficient.

Parrot Pollution

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently bought a very expensive cockatoo. He has a cage for it, but it's hardly ever in the cage because my husband thinks it should have the freedom to fly around the house.

Needless to say, there are bird droppings everywhere! My husband refuses to clean up after the bird, so I have to, and I am tired of the mess. We fight about this constantly. Otherwise, we have a good marriage, but this really keeps me in a bad mood. What can I do?

LYNN IN GLENDALE

DEAR LYNN: Give your husband an ultimatum. Either the bird stays IN the cage, or HE cleans up after it. If that doesn't work, keep your windows open a lot, buy a cat, or send me your address and I'll send you a wonderful recipe for stewed cockatoo on toast.

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years, but this is my first time to write. When I read your advice to kids to stay in school, I had to write because I am living proof that kids start on a life of crime when they begin skipping school.

That's what happened to me. I am an 18-year-old boy who has been in trouble since I was 12, and it all started when I began skipping school.

I have been in more institutions and group homes than I can count, and right now I'm in jail waiting for my court date. (Armed robbery.)

I wish I could tell every kid on the other side of these jailhouse bars, "STAY IN SCHOOL, AND DON'T QUIT NO MATTER WHAT!" Please don't be a high school dropout like me!

You can't get a decent job without a high school diploma. And without a job, all that's left is running the streets and stealing.

I'd also like to tell young kids, "Remember, you have only one mother and father, so mind them! If they punish you for doing wrong it's only because they love you, and want what's best for you."

Please correct my spelling, Miss Abby, and print this. Maybe someone will listen to you.

JESSE

DEAR JESSE: I'll print your letter in hope that some kids out there will listen to you. Thanks for writing. (P.S. I didn't have to correct one word. Your spelling was perfect. God bless you, son.)

DEAR ABBY: We are two secretaries who have a peculiar problem. We have been instructed to answer the telephone in the following manner: "Good morning. This is Mr. Johnson's office."

Occasionally we get some smart aleck on the other end who says, "Well, what do you know – a talking office!"

Do you have a snappy retort for those people who get smart with us? Thank you.

THE GIRLS IN [illegible] OFFICE

DEAR GIRLS: Don't feel that you have to come up with a "snappy retort" to every smart aleck that throws you a jab. Ignore it.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Shy Nun Had Chance To Meet Pope

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - Sister Helen Mary was just too shy.

For 10 years, the nun was pen pal to a Polish cardinal. But when she visited Poland - her parents' home - several weeks ago, she couldn't get up the nerve to call on him.

She stopped in Krakow three times, but thought Cardinal Karol Wojtyla - now Pope John Paul II - would be too busy to see his pen pal.

"My cousins asked me if I would like to try and meet him," she said. But "cardinals are so busy, I guess I was just bashful."

In a 1973 letter, Sister Helen Mary said, then-cardinal Wojtyla wrote, "God repay you for your remembrance and good words at Christmas-time. I love Poland as much as you do. I wish for the freedom of Poland. I hope your New Year will be blessed. With by blessings, Cardinal Karol Wojtyla."

Asked if she would keep writing to her pen pal, the sister said: "Well, I do not know. He will have so much correspondence... I will probably write him at Christmas."

Mounted Unit Gets 1st Policewoman

CLEVELAND (AP)- Juanita Black, 32, has become the first woman to be assigned to the Cleveland police mounted unit in its 79-year history.

Mrs. Black, a rider since she was a child, said she always wanted to be in the horse troops.

She is a mother of two.

was officially welcomed to the board, and Joe Flack was elected by the board to the treasurer's post which was left vacant by the death of Loren Sullivan.

Kidd appointed a nominating committee to present a slate of conadidates for board positions which will have terms expiring at the end of this year. The committee is composed of Dorothy Downing, Milton Stephens, Jack Cypert, Henry Clark, Kidd and Warner.

A proposal by Warner that the county judge and the city manager be designated as regular guests and be invited to attent all chamber board meetings was approved. Board members agreed that this should enhance communications between the three agencies.

which support productivity improvement in the public and private sectors, and for assuring that maximum benefit is realized from these programs," he said.

McIntyre said his office now is at work on the President's budget for fiscal 1980, and predicted the federal deficit will drop to just above $40 billion in the current fiscal year.

"When President Carter took office, the deficit was in the $60 billion range," he said. "I am determined that the 1980 budget, which will go to Congress in January, will have a deficit significantly lower than the $40 billion in 1979."

Although he wouldn't say where the budget cuts would come, the OMB director said the spending total in 1980 would be "very, very tight," and would "reflect little or no growth."

"If we maintain programs at current levels, that would mean another $50 billion deficit, and that's unacceptable to us," McIntyre said.

"The deficit is on the decline, and we still intend to balance the budget," he said. "But it would be irresponsible to take a meat ax approach to government spending - we need a responsible approach."

English adventurer Sir Richard Burton, at the age of 32, visited the sacred Islamic city of Mecca.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

October 25, 1978

Many changes are in store for you this coming year which could advance your self-interests. Have patience if things start out slow. Give them a chance to develop.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Intimidation is one way to get something you want today, but ask yourself what price you place on your image or reputation. Only then should you decide if it's worth it. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Bring things out in the open rather than stew in silence over a matter that has you greatly disturbed today. Clearing the air will prevent getting an ulcer.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're not usually a nitpicker but today you're apt to badger pals over picayune issues. You'll feel different about things tomorrow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Avoid pressing too hard today in trying to make your points. If you do, you could alienate a pal.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You first must set a good example if you want others to produce for you today. It's easy to criticize that which you're not doing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Trouble will ensue if you poke your nose in areas where it doesn't belong. Keep your mouth closed, no matter how tempted you are to do otherwise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There will be some difficulty in achieving a meeting of minds today. Perhaps it would be best to discuss important matters tomorrow.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your tendency to not finish things will be accentuated today. If you don't want to clutter up the workroom, don't begin anything new at all.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Outside pressures by well-meaning friends could lead you to take chances you ordinarily wouldn't. You run the risk of getting into deeper trouble if you do.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Mind your temper today if the family does things that don't exactly go along with your desires. Remember, they have rights, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's not likely you'll have your mind on what you're doing today. You can get away with being absent minded only in unimportant matters.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't involve friends in your financial affairs today. Hard feelings could quickly result. One of you would feel taken advantage of.

Five Injured In Two-Car Mishap

Five persons were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon following a two-car collision at the traffic Y southeast of town.

Taken to the hospital from one of the cars by Galyean Ambulance Service were Ruben Gonzales, 19, Lynda Gonzales, 18, and Mara L. Luna, 18. They were treated and released. Taken to the hospital from the other car were Willard Burns, 69, and Nellie Burns, 71, both of Summitt Station, Ohio. They remained at Cogdell late this morning and were listed in good condition.

The mishap occurred about 3 p.m., police reports show, as the Burns car was traveling north on Highway 208 and the Gonzales car was going east on the Highway 84 Business Route.

Burns was driving a 1978 Mercury, the reports indicate, and Ruben Gonzales was driving a 1965 Chevrolet. Extensive damages were reported to each vehicle.

Two other mishaps were also investigated Monday.

One occurred at Western Texas College at 11:10 a.m. That mishap involved the collision of a 1977 Pontiac driven by Cynthia Falls and a 1963 Oldsmobile driven by Juan Alberto Carrasco. Only minor damages were reported in that collision.

The other collision was at the Sonic Drive-In about 11:40 a.m. Reports show that a 1973 Ford driven by Val Francis Lapin and a 1978 Dodge driven by Randy Vann of Colorado City collided. Again, only minor damages were reported.

League Opener Thursday...

District Schedule For Volleyballers Changed

Snyder High School's varsity volleyball team will begin its conference schedule Thursday night instead of next Tuesday, Roy Carter, athletic director, announced today.

Carter said the district schedule was changed following a conference with University Interscholastic League officials who advised that the playing dates should be rearranged to include an open date for each team.

Thus, Snyder will play Lamesa here Thursday night in a game that was originally scheduled for Nov. 16, as the last game of the season.

A non-conference game with Lubbock Estacado which had been scheduled for Thursday night has been canceled.

Except for moving the last game with Lamesa to the head of the list, the district schedule will remain unchanged.

The change in the district schedule means that tonight's games with Denver City here will be the last tune-up action for the Tigers before they go into district play.

Guidry Tops List...

Yankees Put Three On League All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP)-Ron Guidry, the good left arm of the New York Yankee, is among three players from the world champions selected to The Associated Press 1978 American League All-Star baseball team.

Second baseman Willie Randolph and third baseman Graig Nettles were the other Yankees chosen for this year's team in a nationwide poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

The Yankees were the only club with three representatives. Boston and Milwaukee each had two players - outfielder Jim Rice and catcher Carlton Risk representing the Red Sox and shortstop Robin Yount and outfielder Larry Hisle the Brewers.

The remainder of the AL team, announced today, included first baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins, outfielder Al Oliver of the Texas Rangers, designated hitter Rusty Staub of the Detroit Tigers and Baltimore's Jim Palmer as the right-handed pitcher.

The National League All-Stars, announced Monday, included first baseman Steve Garvey and second baseman Dave Lopes of Los Angeles; third baseman Pete Rose and outfielder George Foster of Cincinnati; outfielder Jack Clark and left-handed pitcher Vida Blue of San Francisco; shortstop Larry Bowa of Philadelphia; outfielder Dave Parker of Pittsburgh; catcher Ted Simmons of St. Louis and righthanded pitcher Gaylord Perry of San Diego.

Guidry, a 25-game winner with a league-leading 1.74 earned run average and nine shutouts, was an obvious choice for the left-handed pitcher's spot, and the voters accordingly made him a unanimous choice.

Randolph, a .279 hitter with 36 stolen bases and one of the slickest gloves in baseball, won easily over Kansas City's Frank White, 143-57. Nettlers, who hit 27 homers and drove in 93 runs, was a closer winner over Kansas City's George Brett. Nettles collected 173 votes to 140 for the Royals' third baseman.

Rice, a .315 hitter who was the league leader in homers with 46 and RBI with 139, was the top vote-getter in the outfield with 283. Hisle, who hit 34 homers while driving in 115 runs, received 186 votes. Oliver, who hit .324 and had 89 RBI, won the final outfield spot ahead of Detroit's Ron LeFlore, 152-105.

Carew, the league's leading batter with a .333 average, was a landslide winner at first base over Cleveland's Andre Thornton, 286-20.

Yount took the shortstop position without much trouble over Boston's Rick Burleson, 173-92. Yount had his best season for the Brewers with a .293 batting average and 71 RBI. Fisk, a .284 hitter with 20 homers and 88 RBI, beat New York's Thurman Munson for the catching position, 160-122.

Staub, with 24 homers and 121 RBI, won the DH position by 154-74 over Rice, who split his duties between the outfield and the DH spot. Palmer had a 21-12 record and a 2.46 ERA, gaining the right-handed pitcher's slot over Boston's Dennis Eckersley.

Steelers Bruised After Run-In With Campbell

By GARY MIHOCES
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)-The Pittsburgh Steelers, who looked on the bright side after their first loss this season, were also on the bruised side after their first run-in with Earl Campbell.

"I hate to lose, but something good may come out of this," linebacker Jack Lambert said Monday night after Campbell smashed for three touchdowns to lead the Houston Oilers to a 24-17 victory over Pittsburgh.

"There's some possibility that maybe we thought we couldn't be beat. Now we know we can," Lambert added.

"That undefeated stuff is over with."

The game capped a weekend of upsets around the National Football League, and the Steelers lost the distinction of being the last NFL team with a perfect record. Now they're 7-1 with the tougher half of their schedule ahead.

The Oilers, who withstood two deep steeler thrusts in the frantic final four minutes, climbed to 5-3 and now trail Pittsburgh by two games in the American Conference Central Division.

"We'll work hard and hope for the best," said Campbell, who carried 21 times for 89 yards.

His three touchdowns came on short bursts against a Pittsburgh defense that had allowed a total of three rushing touchdowns in seven prior games.

Houston also benefited from the third-down passing of Dan Pastorini, who hit 13 of 19 tries and wasn't sacked.

Pastorini and running back Ron Coleman set the tone early on a 23-yard third-down pass that kept alive an 80-yard drive for a touchdown. It came on Campbell's 1-yard run early in the second quarter.

A series later, Terry Bradshaw and Lynn Swann connected on the first of two Steeler TD passes, a 25-yarder.

After a fumble recovery, Roy Gerela kicked a 30-yard field goal to give the Steelers the lead. Toni Fritsch countered with a 39-yard Houston field goal six seconds before halftime to make it 10-10.

In the third period, Pastorini hit a pair of third-down passes on a 70-yard drive that ended when Campbell powered 3 yards.

Early in the last quarter, Pastorini found tight end Mike Barber for 26 yards on third down. Campbell ended the 80-yard march with an 1-yard ram and the Oilers led 24-10.

Then Bradshaw went to work. After having a 23-yard touchdown pass to Swann nullied by holding, he hit Swann with a 6-yard scoring toss with 5:20 left.

After a successful onsides kick, Pittsburgh drove to the Houston 15-yard line before a Bradshaw pass was intercepted by safety Kurt Knoff.

After an Oiler punt, Bradshaw led a march to the Oilers' 14-yard line, but it ended when he threw a fourth-down incompletion with 10 seconds left.

"Games like this make you old in a hurry," said Oiler Coach Bum Phillips.

Dickey Adds New Injury

COLLEGE STATION (AP)--Texas A&M halfback Curtis Dickey has added a sore groin to his list of ailments.

The All-Southwest Conference player already suffers from a sore left ankle and sprained right knee.

Eight other members of the Aggies' offensive unit are listed as out or doubtful for Saturday's conference game against Rice.

Out are starting center Ed Pustejovsky, halfback Temple Aday and reserve right guard Mark Burger.

Injured in last week's 24-6 loss to Baylor were starting left guard Kyle Golson, bruised knee; second team left guard Arlis James, strained back; and quarterback Mike Mosley, sore right arm.

Halfback Adger Armstrong is on the doubtful list, and reserve cornerback Darrell Adams has a bruised thigh from practice last week.

Snyder Freshmen Rip Sweetwater

Snyder's 9th grade volleyball team downed Sweetwater 9th, 15-6, 15-1 here Monday.

Seeing action for Snyder were Patti Clark, Lisa Cobb, Kelly Dryden, Toni Elrod, Robyn Harlin, Rhonda Head, Shana Koonsman, Ann Melton, Kathy Northcott, Donna Preston, Sherri Rich, Bunny Roe and Tracy O'Day.

Snyder 9th's next game will be against Big Spring in the SHS gym.

Next Shoot Wednesday At Aspermont

The Aspermont Gun Club will hold its next shoot Oct. 25. The club announced that its books are still open, and membership is $10. There will be four weeks left to shoot 75 targets in each event. Book will close after Wednesday's shoot.

Starting time will be 5 o'clock and all shooters are requested to show early because of the large amount of entries in the league.

Last week's results:

Novice-Skeet: Larry Clark 21, Fred Albright 19, Roger English 18.

16-yard trap: Donnie Frazier, Joe Stubbs 16, Fred Albright and Rimes 15.

Handicap: Hatfield 15, Calhoun 14.

Overall leader in Novice: Larry Clark and Roger English 47, Danny Clark and Donnie Frazier 14.

Razorbacks Fall To 9th After Loss To 'Horns

By The Associated Press

In the space of 60 minutes, a college football team can see an unbeaten season come to a crashing halt and find itself hurtling down the rankings of pigskin powers.

That fate befell the Arkansas Razorbacks after their 28-21 loss Saturday to the Texas Longhorns, as a nationwide panel of 64 sports writers and broadcasters dropped Arkansas from third to ninth in The Associated Press poll.

The victory gained little ground for the Longhorns, however, as they improved only one notch to seventh.

There was no change in the top spot, however, as the Oklahoma Sooners garnered 54 first-place votes and 1,270 points - 63 more than second-ranked Penn State, which was listed first on the other 10 ballots.

Both are 7-0-0 after victories Saturday. The Sooners, first for a fifth consecutive week, swamped Iowa State 34-6 and the Nittany Lions thrashed Syracuse 45-15.

Alabama, which gained a step to third, clouted Tennessee 30-17 and earned 1,073 points from the voters. Nebraska, which also advanced one notch, was eight points behind the Crimson Tide after its 52-14 rout of Colorado.

Maryland blanked Wake Forest 39-0 to collect 938 points and earn the fifth spot. Southern Cal, which knocked Alabama out of the top spot earlier this season, hammered Oregon State 38-7 and got 926 points, while Texas totalled 893 and Michigan, which walloped Wisconsin 42-0, got 767 points and was eighth - in front of Arkansas and UCLA.

The Second Ten consists of Houston, Arizona State, Missouri, Louisiana State, Pitt, Georgia, Prudue, Navy, Notre Dame and Clemson.

Texas A&M, 12th last week, suffered its second straight setback with a 24-6 loss to Baylor and dropped out of the rankings, while Clemson-ranked 18th in the preseason poll, made its first appearance in the regular season scramble.

The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points based on 20-19-18-17-16-15-14-13-12-11-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1

Akers Says Ford Tops At Producing Yardage

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)-Last year, recalls Texas Coach Fred Akers, Southern Methodist quarterback Mike Ford had a "pretty fair day" in a 30-14 loss to Texas. "He's learned a lot in a year," warns Akers.

"I don't think I've ever seen a quarterback produce the yardage he has," said Akers.

"Have we?" Akers asked. "Surely not."

Akers tried to recruit the sensational passer after he took over as coach from Darrell Royal at the close of the 1976 season, but he told his news conference Monday. "He (Ford) was too far gone (to SMU) for us to turn his head."

In his 1977 appearance against Texas, Ford completed 21 of 46 passes for 253 yards. The weather, Akers remembers, was moist and overcast, "but it didn't seem to bother him Ford a whole lot."

The two teams play again here Saturday. Texas is 3-0 in the Southwest Conference and SMU is 2-1.

"SMU is an explosive football team...very dangerous..." Akers said. "He Ford throws off balance, falling...when he sees a receiver, he usually gets the ball to him. That's their game - to throw the ball."

Asked if Texas might try a three-man rush to stop Ford's passing, Akers said. "We don't ever try a three-man rush. Sometimes it seems only one man if rushing but it is not by design."

Eighth-ranked Texas upset No. 3 Arkansas, 28-21, last Saturday, with the passing combination of quarterback Randy McEachern and split receiver Johnny "Lam" Jones winning the Texas coaches' award as the outstanding offensive players of the game.

McEachern had 236 yards total offense, throwing three touchdown passes. Jones caught six passes, including scoring tosses of five and four yards.

Linebacker Robin Sendlein - who had 11 tackles, sacked the passer twice and broke up two passes - was voted the best defensive player.

Akers said holding Arkansas' Ben Cowins and Jerry Eckwood to 143 yards rushing "was a real credit to any defensive team."

He called the Texas pass protection the "best we've had" all season, with tackle Craig Rider particularly outstanding.

After viewing the Texas-Arkansas films, Akers said, "I'm still just as happy. That was a big win for us, but that thing's over and we're looking to SMU. I know we got our hands full."

Asked about the quality of play in the SWC, Akers said, "Most coaches feel... I feel for sure that our conference is the toughest one in the country. More teams can compete at the national level than in any other conference and this makes for a tough conference race."

Texas defensive end Ron Bones and center Scott Huntington, who handles snapbacks on punts and placekicks, each suffered elbow injuries, and Akers said "it could be close" whether they will play against SMU.

Theismann Still No. 1 For Pardee

WASHINGTON (AP)-Despite two consecutive losses, the Washington Redskins aren't switching quarterbacks - at least not yet.

"I haven't given it much thought, yet," said Coach Jack Pardee. "The way I look at it, things haven't changed much since the beginning of the year. I continue to think of them both as No. 1 although Joe has done nearly all the playing."

The question arose Monday after Joe Theismann had a horrible day Sunday in the Redskins 17-6 loss to the New York Giants, completing only 15 of 38 pass attempts with three interceptions and overthrowing several open receivers.

Meanwhile, veteran Bill Kilmer sat on the bench.

Theismann shouldered all the blame for the loss but said he would be ready for the San Francisco 49ers Sunday in RFK Stadium here.

Sims Doesn't Need Surgery

SEATTLE (AP)--David Sims, a starting fullback for the Seattle Seahawks who has scored eight touchdowns this season, won't require surgery on a knee strained during Sunday's victory over the Oakland Raiders, a Seahawks spokesman said.

Gary Wright said Sims suffered a severe strain on his left knee during the first half of the Seahawks 27-7 victory and would be sidelined for three to four weeks.

Sims, who scored one of his touchdowns in Sunday's contest, is the team's leading rusher.

Dandy Don's Night Off

NEW YORK (AP)-Don Meredith was not in the announcing booth Monday night for ABC's telecast of the Houston Oilers-Pittsburgh Steelers National Football League game-simply because he didn't have to.

"Meredith's contract doesn't include all the games," said ABC spokesman Irv Brodsky.

Meredith's contract - reportedly for 14 games a year--was not increased when the NFL schedule was boosted to 16 games this year. "So there are nights he doesn't have to work and this was one of them," said Brodsky.

Michigan failed to make a first down against Ohio State in their 1950 game but still won, 9-3.

FILM DISCUSSION--Music teachers from Snyder elementary schools are shown discussing the series of films they have been showing to fourth, fifth and sixth grade students the past several weeks. Music Is, the title of the film series, is produced by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The aspects of music studied by the students have been rhythm, harmony, form, melody and tone color. Career oriented films have also been shown to the students. From left on the front row are Anniece Baker, martha Fagin, Robin Smith, Monette O'Day, and on the back row is Mary Lou Scott. Not shown is Dorothy Kayser. (SDN Staff Photo)

Oil Demands Expected To Increase Next Year

HOUSTON (AP)-An oil industry study group says the nation's economic growth is expected to slow a bit next year but that demand for petroleum products should climb to a record 19.4 million barrels a day.

The supply and demand committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America said, however, the slower economic growth, assumed normal weather, and increased availability of coal and nuclear power will temper 1979 oil consumption.

The anticipated requirement for 19.4 million barrels a day in petroleum products would be only 2.1 percent above 1978 demand that is expected to average 18.9 million barrels a day or 3 percent above 1977.

The study group released its annual report Monday at the annual meeting of the 5,000 member trade group.

The committee forecast oil imports will begin to climb again next year as domestic crude production resumes a downward trend.

Oil imports dropped back from record levels after the start of crude production from Alaska's North Slope region last year.

But the committee now projects North Slope projection will level off next year at about 1.13 million barrels a day, only slightly above the current level. Combined with anticipated demand growth, such a trend will require additional imported oil.

American illustrator N.C. Wyeth died in 1945.

Whalen Lake Dumping Stops

AUSTIN (AP)--The railroad commission has ordered three oil operators to stop using Whalen lake, 15 miles northwest of Andrews, as a dumping ground for oil field brine.

Evironmentalists claim that hundreds, and possibility thousands of migratory game birds have died at the playa lake, which is a dumping site for 200,000 barrels of brine and chemical every month.

The commission Monday scheduled a hearing for Thursday and instructed operators to show why the shallow lake should not be put off-limits to them.

The shutdown was issued to Whelan Corp., Phillips Petroleum Co. and Petroleum Corp. of Texas.

The Austin American-Statesman reported Monday that protests by environmental groups became so intense last year that a federal grand jury was convened in Midland to review complains of dumping procedures by firms in the oil-rich Permain Basin, but the complaints were dropped.

The lake is three times as salty as ocean water, the newspaper reported, but it quoted Phillip Russell of the commission as saying, "Brine is not the problem. Iron sulfide is."

"The Whalen Lake situation is something that a little preventative medicine could cure," said Harold Irby, director of the migratory game program for the parks and wildlife department.

Austin lawyer Ivan Hafley, representing Whalen, said if the commission revoked Whalen's dumping permit, there would be a loss of 20,000 barrels of oil a month.

"This situation is such an emotional thing with both sides that neither will be verv willing to give in," said Irby. "They have been werangling so long that there appears to be no middle ground."

Chief engineer Bob Harris of the commission's oil and gas division told the three operators that based on his personal observation "substantial pollution" is occuring at the lake and "little or no progress has been made toward correcting the situation even though repeated attempts have been made by the commission to obtain corrective action."

The American-Statesman reported the commission issued a permit in 1977 recommending that dumping into the lake continue "on an indefinite basis, subject to review after one year."

Alfalfa Seed Drops 5% In '78

WASHINGTON (AP)-Production of alfalfa seed this year is estimated at about 91.3 million pounds, down 5 percent from the 1977 output, says the Agriculture Department.

Producers boosted their acreage for seed harvest 25 percent to about 491,000 acres, but yields dropped sharply to an average of 186 pounds an acre from 245 pounds in 1977, the department said.

Heavy rains in the San Joaquin Valley reduced California's yields by more than half this year, and cool and wet weather also lowered yields in Idaho, Washington, Nevada and Oregon.

McDonald's Welding Supply Stocks Steel For All Needs

"All kinds of welding supplies," best describes McDonald's Welding Supply Co. located at 1110 College Ave.

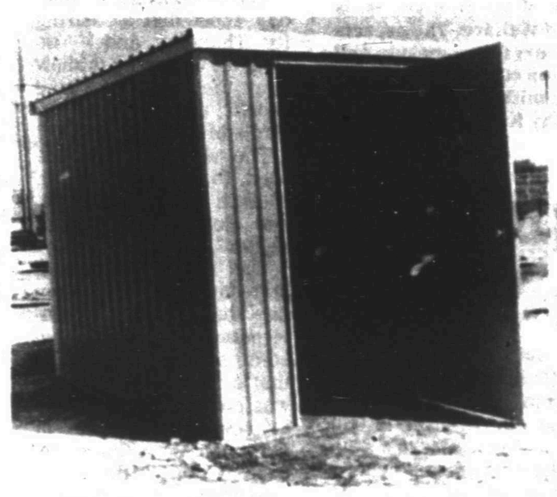
"We sell lots of steel and carry one of the largest steel supplies in Snyder," says owner Gayle McDonald.

"We keep a yard full of steel in stock at all times and will cut steel to any size the welder or customer might need."

McDonald said he will make special deals for steel bought in volume. "We will sell the steel by the foot or by the truckload," McDonald explained.

The steel yard is full of I beams, H beams, angle iron, channels, boxed tubing from ½" to 6", expanded metal for barbecue grills, flats from ¼" to 1½", cement reinforcing rods and solids bar stock. The sheet metal comes in all different sizes from 16 gauge to 2" thickness. Some of the standard movers, according to McDonald, are the ½", 3-16" and ¼".

McDonald Welding Supply also carries kits for building your own backyard storage building out of heavy oilfield angle iron with heavy gauge steel siding. The 6' X 9' building is 8' tall and has a double lined steel door with inserted lock large enough to push a lawnmower through or wheelbarrow. They come in colors of white, green or beige. The buyer can construct the building himself or buy one already built by McDonald. The welding supply house offers pickup or delivery.



BACKYARD STORAGE BUILDING-Gayle McDonald of McDonald Welding Supply on College Ave., has started a new line of backyard storage buildings for the homeowner. The 6' X 9' metal building is made of heavy oilfield angle iron and heavy gauge steel siding to withstand West Texas winds and weather. (SDN Photo)

Why Put It Off? Winterize Now At McCormick And Sons

"The Performance Company." It is a familiar line for Phillips 66 but it is also familiar to anyone that has lived in this area for very long because it also belongs to McCormick and Sons Oil. Co.

They have been Phillips distributors and in business since 1936 in Scurry County and since that time have gained the confidence of many customers.

Many people are more familiar with McCormick and Sons for their tires, batteries, grease and accessories. They carry a full line of oils and can meet your needs with service items for your car or truck.

At this time of year many people are getting ready for winter and will soon be getting their propane trucks filled. If you need propane call McCormick and Sons because they can meet any of your propane needs whether it's for residential, commercial or industrial. They also rent propane tanks in various sizes to meet your needs.

Before winter gets a good grip on us, be sure to contact McCormick and Sons for your anti-freeze needs. With competitive prices, you can't go wrong purchasing your anti-freeze at McCormick.

Contact Junior, Bill or Bob McCormick for your car or truck needs, you'll be glad you did.

They are located at 2401 Ave. Q. or by dialing 573-6365.

IT'S THAT TIME--With winter coming on, it is time to get your propane tanks filled and prepared for that first freeze. Call McCormick & Sons Oil Co. and they will service your tanks and if you need a tank, they can rent you one.

Prince Flies Own Plane

DUBROVNIK, Yugoslavia (AP) - Prince Charles piloted his plane from London to Dubrovnik to begin an official five-day visit to this communist nation.

The heir to the British throne arrived Monday to a picturesque welcome at Cilipi airport near this Adriatic resort. A schoolgirl, clad in a colorful folk dress, presented Charles with a bouquet, as federal and local officials looked on. Then Charles, a former British naval officer, inspected a Yugoslav navy honor guard.

Charles is scheduled to visit Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito, who is resting at his south Adriatic residence of Igalo. A nationwide tour is also planned.

More Medicine From Plants

LONDON (AP)-British researchers are investigating certain plants that may become important sources for drugs.

Dr. David Phillipson of London University's school of pharmacy told a recent conference that a Kenyan shrub showed promise as an aid in the fight against leukemia.

Jacqueline Kennedy married Aristotle Onassis in 1968.

Guitarist May Go To Jail

TORONTO (AP) - Rolling Stones guitarist Keith Richards has pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of heroin and faces a maximum punishment of seven years in prison.

A jail sentence is not mandatory, however, and Richards, who pleaded guilty to the possession charge Monday in a county courtroom packed with his fans, could be placed on probation.

Richards free on $25,000 bail, was charged after police searched his room in a downtown Toronto hotel and allegedly found a pouch containing 22 grams of heroin. Richards and the British rock band were in Toronto to record their album, "Love You Live."
