Plans To Block Profits In War Being Proposed

PAY-AS-YOU-FIGHT POLICY FOR ANY FUTURE CONFLICT SUGGESTED; ESTABLISHMENT OF MAXIMUM PRICE LEVEL IS ADVOCATED

BY CLARENCE M. WRIGHT
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—A "pay-as-you-fight" policy for any future war was urged upon congress today by the house committee on military affairs.

After studying means of taking profit out of war, the committee urged the establishment of a level beyond which war-time prices might not go, a 100 per cent levy on excess profits, and higher taxes for everybody.

The report submitted by Chairman McSwain (D-SC) said "outrageously extravagant profiteering" doubled the cost of the World war. Such measures as it urged, it said, would prevent that happening in any next war, and there would be no "staggering debt to consume the substance of the survivors and of the succeeding generations."

Of proposals to draft all wealth in war-time, the McSwain report said:

"Some loose thinking, based on noble sentiment, has proceeded upon the theory that all of the wealth of the nation would be drafted and confiscated for the use of the nation would be drafted and confiscated for the use of the nation in time of war.

"A little more careful and analytic thinking would convince such persons that such a plan and program would socialize all of the property and industrial system of America. To contemplate such a result is truly abhorrent."

McSwain said a bill embodying committee suggestions, including price limitation or "stabilization," would probably be offered this week. Since the house ways and means committee is the only one authorized to act on taxes, he urged upon it the suggestions to levy a 100 per cent tax on "all profits shown to be due to war-time business conditions."

But Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the ways and means committee replied, to newspapermen:

"If the military committee's bill does what it is designed to do, there won't be any war. So there will be no need for us to levy a 100 per cent excess profits tax."

The military committee report estimated that the World war cost $39,000,000,000, including around $10,000,000,000 loaned to Allies.

Attorneys Busy On Appeal Procedure

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 18 (AP)—Bruno Hauptmann read and smoked in his cell in the Jersey prison death house today, but his attorneys were busy on the outside clearing the way for an appeal from his conviction for the Lindbergh kidnap-killing.

Frederick A. Pope, defense counsel, said he would appear—probably tomorrow—before supreme court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard to petition the state to bear the expense of printing the trial record. The cost is about $10,000.

Hauptmann has sworn a pauper's oath, and under Jersey statute the trial judge may grant the petition at his discretion.

VETERAN TOWER GUARD SLAIN IN BREAK AT GRANITE PRISON

BY FRANCIS E. BARDEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

GRANITE, Okla., Feb. 18.—Hard-eyed sheriffs' posses sped over the short grass plains and granite crags of southwestern Oklahoma today in search of 18 fugitives from the state reformatory here—one of them the wanton killer of Peter "Uncle Pete" Jones, veteran prison tower guard.

Thirteen other convicts who joined in a dash for freedom yesterday, shielded from guards' gunfire by 20 women and children visitors, were locked in their cells, while Mrs. George A. Waters, America's only woman warden of a prison for men, questioned guards and inmates in a determined effort to learn the source of pistols smuggled to the leaders of the break.

Highways Blocked

A complete blockade of major highways, in effect all night, was unrelaxed today. Officers from Anadarko, El Reno, Chickasha, and other cities joined in a new drive to flush the felons from overnight hiding places.

Fathers and husbands grimly armed their homes against possible depredations by the outlaw gang of rapists, robbers and killers. After a break of 23 Granite convicts August 15, 1932, an orgy of assaults and robberies terrified southwestern Oklahoma.

From two smuggled pistols, the plot expanded abruptly to its deadly completion.

Keys Are Demanded

The ringleaders appeared suddenly at the side of a trusty prisoner, serving as inside turnkey, and poked a pistol muzzle against his ribs.

"Give us the keys," they hissed.

With cold precision, the malcontents rounded up all inside turnkeys and day Sergeant Walter Ford, locking them in a cell.

"Come on," they yelled.

A mob of youthful prisoners rallied to the cry, rushed headlong upstairs into the visitors' room.

"There were about 20 visitors there, mostly women and children," said Leslie Long, an Altus convict, who was there talking with his wife and sister-in-law.

"We all went out toward the front

BOMB RECEIVED BY LONG TODAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—A bomb which failed to explode was received in the mail today by Senator Huey P. Long.

Long was absent from the capital spending the week-end in New York on private business when a package was delivered in the mail.

Earl Christenberry, the senator's secretary, said he opened the package without noticing from where it had been sent. The machine was found within.

He immediately telephoned postal authorities and inspectors were sent to take charge.

Dallas Woman Will Go To Trial Today

GATESVILLE, Feb. 18. (AP)—Mrs. Ethel Johnson, 45, of Dallas, faced trial today for allegedly slaying her son and his young bride—whose deaths were termed a murder and suicide when their bodies were found on a ranch near here last August.

Maury Hughes, chief defense counsel, planned a motion for continuance on the grounds that important witnesses are absent from the state. He said, however, that he would proceed immediately if state's attorneys agreed to the use of a deposition the defense has sought to obtain.

Bandits Said To Show As Much Courage As A Tin Soldier In Forays

NOTED PSYCHIATRIST SAYS AVERAGE MAN IS MORE DARING THAN UNIMAGINATIVE KILLER

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, noted Chicago psychiatrist, believes the desperado exhibits about as much courage in his sensational forays "as a tin soldier."

Looking back into the minds of the scores of criminals he has examined as director of the behavior clinic of the Cook county criminal court, Dr. Hoffman asserted in an interview today that it is generally a lack of imagination and not courage that gives most gunmen their daring.

The criminal who unflinchingly walks into danger, Dr. Hoffman said, does so, "because for one thing he hasn't the imagination to conjure an impressive picture of himself being shot, caught or convicted; he hasn't a true knowledge of the peril he is facing."

Alluding to John Dillinger's machine gun raid on a police station for weapons and ammunition; Alvin Karpis' blasting his way out of a police trap against overwhelming odds, he said:

"The average man, perhaps, lays aside his newspaper with a sigh of relief, thanking his everlasting stars his job is adding a column of figures and not hunting public enemies.

"But that doesn't make him a coward and the desperado a brave man, because of their different viewpoints." Put the imaginative peace loving citizen

MAJOR PROPOSAL FOR CRIME DETECTION IS CONSIDERED

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 18—One of the most important pieces of legislation facing the forty-fourth legislature, creation of a department of public safety, was set for special consideration in the senate today.

It was the first outstanding measure to come up in the senate after expiration of that body's rule specifying only emergency measures should be considered during the initial 40 days of the session.

Passage Expected

Since 18 senators had signed the bill, sponsored by the special senate crime investigating committee, observers forecast it would be passed without undue difficulties, but prospects were not so rosy in the house, where committee consideration was set for later in the week.

BILL IS PASSED

AUSTIN, Feb. 18. (AP)—The Texas senate today passed a bill to merge state law enforcement agencies into a modernized state department of public safety.

SLICK DARNELL CAUGHT HERE

FARWELL FUGITIVE IS FOUND IN A HOTEL THIS MORNING

After a little more than three days of fugitive freedom, Lindly (Slick) Darnell, 20, who escaped from the Farwell jail for the second time last Thursday night, was arrested here this morning by Deputy Parum Posey and Cap Moore.

Darnell was at a hotel in the 700-block Main street. He was outside his room when taken into custody about 9:30 o'clock this morning. The sheriff's department earlier had assisted Farwell peace officers in a search of Lubbock hotels for Darnell.

Hacksaw Blade Found

Two pieces of a hacksaw blade were found on Darnell, Sheriff Tom Abel said.

Darnell and his father, J. L. Darnell, escaped from the Farwell jail Dec. 5 after locking the jailer in a cell block. They were caught the second night afterward, the youth 10 miles north of San Jon, N. M., and the father at Texico.

Last week young Darnell escaped by sawing bars from his cell and shaping a key from the metal top of a refuse can in the jail. He manipulated locking devices in the jail with the key.

He was being held for transfer to the state penitentiary to serve a 2-year sentence imposed on him after he pleaded guilty of robbing a Farwell filling station.

STATES YOUTH BOASTED OWN MORAL CODE

YOUNG DEFENDANT TO TAKE THE STAND TO RELATE STORY

BY JOHN JAMESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 18.—A famous psychiatrist, Dr. Karl A. Menninger of Topeka, Kas., testified today he believed Phil Kennamer was "mentally ill, irrational, and believed in his own omnipotence" the stormy night of last Thanksgiving when he killed John F. Gorrell, jr.

Answering a question which required 43 minutes to ask, since it reviewed the life of the federal judge's son on trial for murder, the alienist testified young Kennamer "had his own moral code."

Name Is Described

"What is the scientific name for this mental condition?" asked A. Flint Moss, chief defense attorney.

"Psychopathic personality is the word most commonly used now," Dr. Menninger said.

Dr. Minninger was not permitted to answer the long involved question when it first was put Saturday. State's attorneys successfully insisted upon revisions, asserting that many of the strange actions of the defendant occurred when he was under the influence of liquor.

To Tell Own Story

Pawnee came out of its week-end lull today, looking forward to the most exciting moment of the trial, the moment when the puzzling Phil, a boy from "the big city," will tell his own story from the witness chair.

Phil was ready to tell. Ahead of him, however, were a learned group

STOCKS CLIMB AS NEWS IS ANNOUNCED

U. S. LOSES FEDERAL CLAUSE; UPHELD ON PRIVATE BONDS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. —The Supreme court today upheld the government's right to cancel 'gold clauses' in private bonds but ruled that government gold obligations can not be paid off on a 'dollar for dollar' basis.

Chief Justice Hughes, in a summarization of the decisions, disclosed the court's ruling that government "gold clause" bonds must be paid off in gold or the equivalent amount of devalued currency.

Attitude Is Unknown

This, in effect, means that for every $1,000 dollar gold bond, the government must pay $1,690.

What the administration attitude would be remained to be seen. It had already been declared by Attorney General Cummings to be ready "for any emergency."

The government won the solitary case involving gold certificates. The decision was that the court of claims did not have jurisdiction to entertain suits against the federal government because of its gold bonds and gold certificates.

MARKETS SOAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—Securities markets surged upward upon news that the supreme court had upheld abrogation of gold clauses in private obligations today. Wall Street tickers quickly started to hum. Raiload bonds jumped as much as 2 points in many instances, and numerous early losses in stocks were converged into gains of $1 to $3 a share.

Act Is Validated

The effect of the decision was to validate the act of congress suspending gold payments of private obligations containing gold clauses.

F. Eugene Nortz of New York, owner of $106,300 of gold certificates, had sued to recover $64,334 which he said was the difference between what he received and the value of the gold to which he contended he was entitled.

The joint resolution of congress suspending gold payments which the court today declared valid as applied to private contracts was enacted on June 5, 1933. Its purpose was "to assure uniform value to the coins and currencies of the United States."

He then received at length the history of previous regulations con-

IMPERIAL VALLEY OF CALIFORNIA IS SCENE OF BLOODY RIOTING; ADDITIONAL OFFICERS SOUGHT FROM GOVERNOR

(By The Associated Press)

EL CENTRO, Calif., Feb. 18—Scene of bloody rioting in which two men were killed and approximately 500 shots were fired, California's Imperial valley through its public officials, today appealed to Gov. Frank F. Merriam for additional officers to restore peace to the area, wrecked by labor troubles since last December.

Imperial county authorities, seeking to forestall martial law, wired Governor Merriam to send every available state motorcycle officer into the valley, which produces two-thirds of the nation's winter vegetables.

The rioting took place late yesterday when 400 men and women stormed the lettuce packing shed of Martin Wahl in a hand-to-hand fight between striking lettuce workers and non-strikers.

Eldred Kenneth Hamaker, 23, Westmoreland, and Paul Knight, 24, Santa Maria were killed by gunfire.

The rioting broke up a conference presided over by Edward Fitzgerald, national labor conciliator. When the news reached the conference that bloodshed had developed, the meeting was adjourned, representatives of both the employers and strikers declaring "it is now a fight to the finish."

The rioting ended when sheriff's deputies and state officers hurled tear gas into the mob.

There was no explanation today as to who started the gun-

Beautician Decries Modes Chosen By Women For Arranging Coiffures

BY OPAL McMAHON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

"Women's tresses have been written about, sung about, talked about and otherwise advertised since the beginning of time", W. Wilson, a guest artist of the Lubbock Beauty Supply's trade show and beauty school and a recognized authority on hair styling, said this morning.

"I'll wager that Eve, in the Garden of Eden, complained to Adam often that 'she'd just washed her hair and couldn't do a thing with it'", he said.

During the first craze of the bob during the World war, milady was not fashionable unless her locks were cropped, and since then we have had the wind-blown, the boyish bob and the shaved neck and other fashions which a woman has had to adhere to if she wishes to be considered fashionable, he added, but no longer is this true.

Suit Personality

A woman today "wears her hair the length which is suitable to her personality, size and style of beauty and not what is stupidly decreed as the current rage".

He designated classes of women according to hair and suggested styles which would be most becoming to them.

For The Matron

"The matron, in most cases, should wear her hair short and neatly tailored, as long bobs, with frills and fluffs, defeat their own ends and leave the effect of trying to disguise age instead of simulating youth. My advice to the matronly woman is to accept her years gracefully. Choose a hair dress that is becoming; choose clothes that show good points to their best advantage; turn yourself out smartly, well groomed, immaculate—and the beholder will not think: 'Here comes Mrs. Jones—forty if she's a day, gotten up to look 15'. Instead the reaction will be: 'That lovely Mrs. Jones always looks as if she'd just stepped out of a band-box ,one of the most charming persons I've seen.'"

"For the woman who is a little more than just pleasingly plump, short hair with close fitting waves is always the most flattering. If such a person just must have curls, let them be high on the head rather than down on the neck, as that adds to the fleshy look. The new trend in hairdressing this season is a definite boon to the plump woman, since the style calls for high coiffures, swinging to the front, and this gives a very slenderizing effect.

"Hair and hat styles should always harmonize, as every woman knows. If the newest arrangements for the hair are too severe, by no means use them", he warned. "Instead, modify them to fit your individual needs".

Slender persons should wear fluffy coiffures, he said.

"Children should not have their hair set in flat waves with tailored ends. It takes away so much of the child's charm and naturalness. Studied effects are all right for many types of girls and women but never for a child. Be sure that the effect of a child's hair is natural, not suggestive of the child's having gotten into mama's waving fluid while she was at the grocery store, he added.

"Many a sweet young thing looks sweeter and more demure with long hair looped in a simple knot, reminiscent of grandmother's day", he said, while others would resemble an old maid school teacher from the comic sections.

When mother and daughter step out this season, both can look alluringly young. Most flattering to the mature figure is the lovely new shimmering satin evening gown (left) with dropped shoulder line and pastel-flowered pattern that suggests the coming spring. ## Matadors Clash With Aggies Of Lawton In City Tuesday

LOCAL CAGERS RETURN FROM A ROAD TRIP IN NEW MEXICO

Texas Tech's basketball club came home yesterday, fatigued after a full week on the road and six games on as many consecutive nights at Alpine, Texas, and Las Cruces and Albuquerque, New Mexico.

But there is no rest for the weary. Tomorry night the Matadors clash with the Cameron Aggies of Lawton, Okla., in the first of a two-game series.

The Matadors came home last night from Albuquerque, where on Saturday night they defeated the University of New Mexico Lobos, 31 to 28, in the final of a two game Border conference series.

At about the same time, the Cameron Agricultural college team came to Lubbock, and established quarters for the brief sojourn here.

The Cameron Aggies bring an impressive record to Lubbock.

The latest report mailed to Texas Tech offices shows the Aggies to have won fourteen games in fifteen starts this season. Results of games last week had not been reported, but a glance at the Aggie roster offers reason to believe the Lawton team could hold its own against almost any kind of competition.

Beat Eastern Oklahoma

Included in the list of Aggie victims so far are the powerful Eastern Oklahoma State Teachers college cagers, who dropped one game to the Aggies, 45 to 49, and the other, 36 to 39.

The Aggies, in their first fifteen games, averaged 41 points per game, while holding the opposition to a 27-point average.

Shortest men on the Aggie team are Meredith Friels, forward, and Arron Curb, forward, at 5 feet, 10 inches. All the others in the squad of ten men are six feet or better. Pete Burke, star forward, is 6 feet 3 inches, and Ernest McPhetridge, center, towers 6 feet, 5 inches. The two guards, Bob Sims, captain, and Riley Matheson, each reach 6 feet 3 inches into the stratosphere.

They're Heavy, Too

The team is crowded with heavyweights. Burke weighs 195, McPhetridge 190, Sims 195, Matheson 200.

Largest score registered by the Aggies was their 59 to 19 victory over the Ft. Sill army team. They opened the season with a 54 to 36 victory over the Fletcher Indians. Their only defeat in the first fifteen games was at the hands of the powerful Halliburton Cementers, a semi-pro club, which the Aggies defeated early in the season, 44 to 40. In the second meeting, the Cementers won, 45 to 41.

The Texas Tech cagers clicked like a machine Saturday night to beat the University of New Mexico Lobos at Albuquerque, 31 to 28, to split a two-game Border conference series.

Tech played smooth, careful basketball, passing frequently and working the sphere up under the basket for most of its shots. Their defense was good under the backboard, and the Loboes were forced to shoot from distant points.

Curly Wilkinson led the Raider attack with 10 points, most of them from rebounds off the backboard. He lifted them in steadily in the last half. Boyer, Lobo forward, shared scoring honors of the evening, however, with a dozen points.

Priddy Is Defensive Star

The defensive work of Co-Captain Larry Priddy was a feature of the game. It was his job to guard the Lobo scoring star, or at least the star of Friday night's game when the Loboes defeated Tech, 37 to 35, in an over-time game. The star did not make but two points Saturday night.

Tech's ability to sink gratis shots won Saturday's game, since it was short of the Lobo field goal mark. The Matadors scored 13 free shots in 16 efforts.

The Loboes led, 18 to 16, at half-time.

It was the seventh Border conference victory for Tech, against one defeat.

Nature Is Delaying Trial Of Campbell

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP)—Perverse nature had so contrived things today that Sir Malcolm Campbell had just about decided it might be March before conditions of Daytona's sands allow him to shoot for the world's automobile speed record with old Lady Bluebird.

Two days of rain squalls and a wind that persisted in blowing from the land out to sea, messed up the 11 1-2 mile stretch by the edge of the water as it hasn't been messed since the Englishman arrived two weeks ago for the assault on the 272.108 mile mark he set in 1933.

"If we don't get a miracle change in a few days," he said, "we'll probably be here until March. I've never seen the beach worse."

The tip-off is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock. At the same time tomorrow night the teams meet in the second and concluding game of the series.

Tech's hoopsters came home last night after a strenuous road trip through Southwest Texas and New Mexico. They're due a big welcome tonight, and if you want a choice seat in the gymnasium, better come early.

It's a pretty fair drive from Lubbock to Alpine and from Alpine to Las Cruces, N. M., and from Las Cruces to Albuquerque, but the Raiders did it in six days, and played six basketball games. Four of the games counted in the Border conference race. The Matadors won three of the four, and stayed ahead in the conference championship race. A pretty successful trip.

The Cameron Aggies bring a big, tall team, with a very impressive record, to Lubbock. They should give the Matadors plenty of trouble. The games tonight and tomorrow night should be worth the price of admission.

THE NATIONAL football rules committee meets this week to draw up the regulations which shall govern the collegiate game this fall. It is not likely that many outstanding changes will be made, despite the fact that the "left wing" of the American Football Coaches association have made nine suggestions, or proposals.

But in connection with the rules committee meeting, the following essay, from the mill of Eddie Neil, the Associated Press scribe, is presented:

College football has a clear track into the public prints, too clear a track, perhaps, for its own good sometimes. Without the publicity steam sports pages generate all fall, football never would achieve such stature that it could afford problems such as subsidization and overemphasis.

On the other hand, high school football rates little worrying on a national scale. There have been efforts made to adopt a separate code of rules for high school players. It stands to reason that boys of 14 to 17 haven't the physical structures of their college brothers, and therefore need more protection.

This movement never has gained the momentum it deserved. We write and talk about the colleges all the time. We forget the little fellows' problems.

Most of this mental staggering around comes of a letter from Ed Osborn, sports editor of the Valley Morning Star, down in Harlingen, Texas. He gets to talking about football, particularly high school football, and rules. And he suggests a rule that would greatly benefit the prep school boys, and do the college game no harm, either.

He says:

"Make all substitutions from a table, the same as in basketball. Don't misunderstand me, this is not entirely new and may be used extensively in other sections of the country.

"I work an average of 15 games a year, high school games, the spot where an official really has a chance to do some real calling, as everything in the book and out of it usually happens in the course of one afternoon. I do believe that no better rule for speeding up the game could be adopted.

"There's nothing tricky about it. A player simply reports to a table and runs to the ball. It is unnecessary for an umpire to drag out his pencil and paper and take up time writing down the name of the incoming player, and the outgoing as well, as some do.

"Few players go first to the umpire, another time waster. Usually they go, all excited, to the nearest white shirt they see, and that official calls the umpire, and the ceremony begins. All this could be avoided by a chart kept on the sidelines.

"In this section we have tried it, have found it works exceedingly well. We have checked and found it a great time saver. It keeps the game going without appreciable pause, sustains the action. All substitution penalties, of course, remain the same. It is permissible for a coach to send an assistant to the table to report a substitute who is tearing straight into the game."

There's an idea that seems sound as a hickory nut. In fact I'd even carry it farther. It seems to me that in high school games there should be no limitation at all on substitutions. A boy should be allowed to go in and out as often as he wanted to. You can say that it would give coaches a chance to run a team entirely from the bench. But that's little enough squawk if it brought a dazed kid out of a game, when his condition was more suspected than realized, and saved him while in that state from a blow that might kill him.

Coaches will tell you, too, that running a team from the bench is a sorry task even among collegians, who aren't as excitable as high school kids. It's one thing to call a play, another thing to do it.

PORKERS LOOM AS CHAMPIONS FOR SEASON

DECIDING GAMES ARE SCHEDULED DURING PRESENT WEEK

(By The Associated Press)

Two games at Dallas next Friday and Saturday between the pace setting University of Arkansas Razorbacks and the pursuing Southern Methodist Mustangs will decide the Southwest conference titular picture for 1935.

Should the Porkers sweep aside the Mustangs in both tilts, they could get no less than a draw even if they dropped two games later to the Texas Aggies.

Could Sack Title

The Methodists could sack the title under these conditions: Defeat Arkansas twice and finish the season with victories over Baylor and Texas Christian while Arkansas is losing at least one game to the Aggies.

But Rice Institute, tied for second place with the Methodists, also are in the picture. To figure, however, they must trim the Texas Aggies Tuesday night at College Station and Texas Christian Friday night in Houston and go on to Fort Worth Texas and Baylor later. All of this would be voided, however, if Arkansas whipped Southern Methodist twice and split with the Aggies.

Texas Favorite

The other scheduled game for the week-end finds Texas a decided favorite over Baylor at Waco on Saturday night.

It took the University of Texas Longhorns to dirty Arkansas' undefeated record last week. They licked the Porkers, 33 to 23, after dropping the opening tilt, 47 to 30. The Methodists stung the Aggies, 35 to 29, and then lost a 32 to 30 game to Rice at Houston. Baylor took Texas Christian, 30 to 25, in the other game played.

YANKEES AFTER GOOD MATERIAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—Failure of Lou Gehrig, big league home run king, to come peacefully within the fold is not the only care besetting the New York Yankees these days.

Apparently convinced Babe Ruth is through as a regular and more or less in doubt concerning the condition of Earle Combs, Manager Joe McCarthy is trying desperately to round up more seasoned outfield material.

The Yanks tried to cook up a deal with the Boston Red Sox for either Roy Johnson or Carl Reynolds. Failing here, they turned to the Detroit Tigers and now are reported angling for the high-strung Gerald Walker.

McCarthy is known to like Walker who was suspended last summer for what Manager Mickey Cochrane termed "stupid base-running," and believes a change of livery would do much to calm down the temperamental southerner and convert him into a first class outfielder.

James Roosevelt Will Visit Texas

AUSTIN, Feb. 18 (AP)—O. C. Christie, secretary of the Young Democratic clubs of Texas, said that James Roosevelt, son of the president and national secretary of the organization, would come to this state next month. Roosevelt plans to visit Fort Worth, Dallas, Austin, San Antonio, and Houston during a four-day tour.

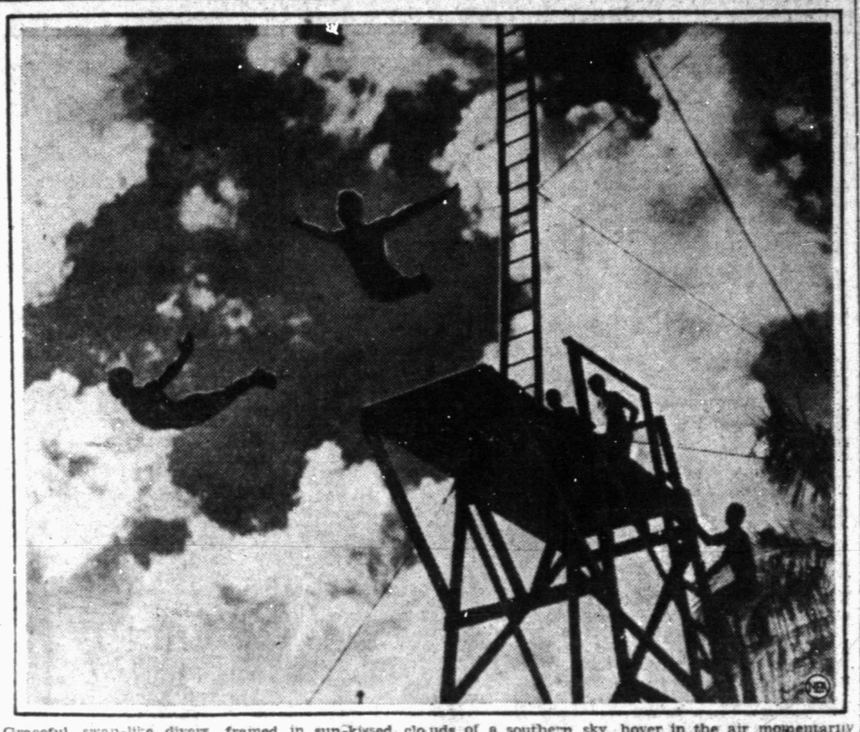

State headquarters has been moved from Dallas to Austin, Christie announced.

The Soviet Union's department of education says there are 107,000 high school and college students in Moscow now as compared with 90,000 in all Russia during czaristic days.

GORILLA POGI IN MAIN GO

SOUTH AMERICAN AND VIC WEBBER WILL GRAPPLE HERE

After making commendable showings in semi-final bouts at Lubbock and Amarillo the past two weeks, Gorilla Pogi, the never-give-up grappler from Buenos Aires, has filed request to meet Vic Webber, the handsome lad from New York, in the main event this week at the Auditorium.

Pleased with his work here recently, Promoter Sied Allen has granted Pogi's request, so the two scrappers will battle it out here Wednesday night in the finish fight.

Pogi, since returning from South America and Old Mexico the last time, has been going fairly good in the Southwestern circuit, fighting mostly on semi-finals. Last Wednesday night he defeated Dutch Aultman, the lanky German, in the special event here, and went on to Amarillo the following night to win a tough scrap there.

Trained Bear Coming

Webber, the new hero in the circuit since dropping his unorthodox and rough tactics, polished off Rod Fenton, Canadian bad man, last week in as pretty a bare-handed fist fight as the fans hereabouts have seen in some time.

As added attractions this week, Promoter Allen is presenting Joe Kopecky, the wise old panther-man from East Texas, and Marvin Barackman, of Nebraska, in the 30-minute special event, and Andy, the wrestling bear, 400 pounds of trained bear flesh, against Pat Dowdy, the Auditorium referee, in the 20-minute preliminary.

Lamesa Educator Chosen For Group

AUSTIN, Feb. 18 (AP)—L. A. Woods, state school superintendent, announced the following elections to the committee on classified and accredited high schools:

D. C. E. Evans of Southwest State Teachers college, San Marcos; Dr. Colby D. Hall of Texas Christian university, Fort Worth; Dr. R. F. Roger of Weatherford Junior college; H. W. Stillwell of Texarkana, A. M. Blackman of McCamey, L. V. Stockard of Dallas, V. Z. Rogers of Lamesa, Joe P. Harris of Dallas, Dr. I. I. Nelson of Austin and V. L. Griffin of Victoria.

FERA predatory animal hunters in Utah have obtained more than 1,150 pelts of animals since September, and are estimated to have saved cattle and sheep men more than $100,000 from loss of stock. Their kill included 12 mountain lions.

Tech Fighters Win From West Texans

SCORE OF 23 TO 19 SET UP IN BOUTS HERE SATURDAY

By winning or gaining draws in all boxing bouts and running up a two-point advantage in wrestling matches, Texas Tech's fighters defeated the West Texas Teachers college Buffaloes, 23 points to 19, in a dual meet here Saturday night.

Allowing five points for a wrestling fall, three points for a wrestling decision, or time advantage, and one point each for boxing bouts, the Matadors scored 16 points while winning four wrestling matches. The Buffs also won four wrestling matches, but only one of them a fall, for 14 points.

The Matador boxers won three bouts, two of them by technical knockouts, and drew four times. Each team was awarded one point in case of a draw. The only Buffalo boxing victory was by forfeit, Tech failing to produce a bantamweight to oppose Wendol Cain of the Buffs.

Gains By Forfeit

Tech gained the edge in wrestling when Leo Jackson of the Buffs failed to re-enter the ring after neither had established the time advantage necessary for victory in the regular 6-minute period. The time was divided, 1 minute 53 seconds for Jackson, 1 minute 45 seconds for Jesse Browning, Tech's heavyweight. There was wrangling over the time-keeping, and the Buff wrestler did not go back in, thereby forfeiting to Browning.

In another over-time wrestling match, Jakie May, the Tech mat coach, gained a 42-minute advantage in the regular period, but lost by a margin of 76 minutes when they came back for the extra time. Tech lost still another when Everett Williams, welterweight, lacked six seconds of having the required one-minute advantage over Clarence Wooten. At the end of the 2-minute extra period, neither had fallen, and the toss of a coin decided the match in Wooten's favor.

In the bantamweight class, Gene Palmer of Tech pinned Ray Small in 5:55 minutes, after holding the advantage nearly all the way.

Winston Watkins, Tech's wrestler in the 138-pound class, defeated Flashy Morris, holding the advantage for 4:25 minutes. The match went the limit.

Bill Gambell gave Tech its second wrestling victory by a fall, pinning Gardner Sanderson of the Buffs in 3:30 minutes. They were 175-pounders.

Tech lost only one match by a fall, this to Strangler Blaine, Buff middleweight, when Dysart Holcomb was smothered in 2 minutes.

The Matador wrestlers were well received, in their debut Saturday night, by a crowd of about 1000. Most of the matches were fast and active.

Tech's boxers looked 100 per cent improved last night over their pitiful showing on the previous Monday night against the North Texas Aggies.

After forfeiting the bantamweight match, the Matadors went to work, and Wilmeth "Bud" Nichols, San Angelo flew into Garrett of the Buffs to win by a technical knockout after 1:53 minutes of the second round. Nichols was a fury, and never let up until Garrett's second tossed in the towel. They are lightweights.

"Sugar" Sweet of Tech and Brady McCoy of the Buffs fought to a three-round draw. It was mostly long-distance punching to each other's face and head. McCoy showed a slight edge in the second round, but the other two looked even. They weighed 145 each.

Otis Cannon Wins

Otis Cannon, former Slaton athlete, bloodied McCarty of the Buffs in the first and second rounds. The towel went in after 1 minute, 54 seconds of the third round, and it was Cannon's bout by a technical knockout, McCarty took a bad beating in the second round. They fought in the 155-pound class.

Jumping back to the 125-pound class, C. A. Gibbs of Tech and Gerald Brown of the Buffs fought to a draw. Brown was on his knees in each of the first two rounds, but rallied in the third to gain a draw. Both were fairly fizzled when it was over.

Alton Hankins of Tech, fighting in the 165-pound class, got a decision over George Caviness in three rounds of fair fighting. They slugged each other around the head, dividing honors in the first two rounds. Hankins kept up a steady stream of rights and lefts in the third to win the nod.

Mitchell In Draw

R. C. Mitchell, the Lockney boy who set the fans afire with his knockout attack last Monday night, weakened in the second and third rounds and all he could get was a draw with Stina Cain, the Buffs' 175- pounder. Cain was dropped to his knees twice in the first round, once for the count of eight but he rallied in the last two to take a slight edge.

Bull Katrola, Tech football tackle, and Clinton Meek, Buff heavyweight, flailed at each other with long, sweeping hooks and threshing-machine ladies for a draw. Meek seemed to have the edge in the third round, but there was little to choose. They swung wildly and haphazardly in the comic treat of the evening.

In an exhibition bout tossed in between a couple of wrestling matches, Demp Cannon, recently returned to Tech after being graduated at the Coffeyville Junior college of Kansas, was not eligible to represent Tech in the meet proper, but he won a brief three-round decision over Jimmy Ortiz, Santa Fe scrapper who was entered at Tech for the fall semester but who transferred to West Texas Teachers last week.

LAFFOON WINS OPEN TITLE AT PHOENIX

CRAIG WOOD COMES IN SECOND; CLARK HAS SHOW POSITION

(By The Associated Press)

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 18—Ky Laffoon, bronzed Denver ace, had $500 in his pocket today because of his victory in the $2,500 Phoenix open golf tournament.

In rounding off the achievement he shot a sub-par 68 for the last 18 holes yesterday, giving him a card of 281 for the 72-hole distance.

Three Under Par

This was three under par and four strokes in front of Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., who took second place with 285. Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., blasted out a 69 on the final round to take the show position at 286.

Wood collected $350 and Clark $250.

Laffoon's iron game was brilliant, the Coloradoan consistently dropping them close to the cup. He caged five birdies and missed five others on the last round.

Johnny Revolta, Milwaukee, and Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, were deadlocked for fourth place with 287s. Each received $187.50.

The tournament completed the winter tour of the golfers in the west. Most of them said they were headed for Tampa, Fla.

HOUSTON PLAY DRAWS MANY

TWENTY-FIRST ANNUAL TOURNEY SET WITH DAWSON DEFENDING

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Feb. 18—Fairways of the Houston country club were lined with a sparkling collection of amateur golf stars today on the eve of the twenty-first Houston country club invitational tournament.

Johnny Dawson, Chicago amateur, got in a final practice round before starting defense of his title.

Here to challenge Dawson were Zell Eaton of Oklahoma City; Gus Moreland of Dallas, Walker cup team member and three times winner of the Houston invitation; Reynolds Smith, Texas champion; Harry Todd of Dallas, western amateur champion; Ossie Carlton, Houston veteran and three times winner of tht crown; Leland Hamman, trans-Mississippi titleholder; Reuben Albaugh, long hitting Dallas star and many others.

Perfect weather prevailed and tournament officials expected an entry list of more than 200.

In the last 20 years the number of inmates of San Quentin prison voluntarily taking educational courses has increased from a score to more than 2,930 convicts out of a population of 6,000.

Two Lubbock friends met on the street yesterday.

"How's tricks, Bill?" asked one.

"Not so good", came the reply. "My wife's been nursing a grouch all this week".

"Too bad", came the response. "I didn't know you'd been sick!"

A MAN whom The Plainsman considers one of the broadest guaged in all Texas said this, just the other day:

"I don't dislike anybody. I couldn't, to save my soul, call the name of a person whom I don't like or to whom I wish any harm".

If that isn't the test of big man with an open mind, The Plainsman doesn't know what is.

Perhaps you haven't noticed it and maybe it's because so many people have been out of sorts and worried over their own problems these past few years, but there seems to this writer to be a drift among people to think the worst and believe the worst about everybody.

Some folks seem to almost make it a business of knocking the other fellow and appear to want to think the worst, rather than the best of their fellow man.

BELIEVE it or not, rackets attack almost everything and one of the latest to be uncovered right here in Texas is the practice of over-ambitious school trustees and officials 'padding' their list of scholastics in order to get more state money than is coming to them.

The Plainsman sincerely hopes this hasn't spread to the Plains area because state school officials are going to make it tough on those they find engaging in this new type of chiseling.

The Texas senate has before it a bill to correct this evil and the bill, when and if it becomes a law, will strike off 1936 school rolls literally thousands of mythical names.

Information thus far gathered shows that one Texas city is paying $16.50 per annual capita for 18,000 school children who do not really exist, while West Texas, in general, has two percent more school kids than are officially enumerated.

The biennial report of the state auditor shows that 276 districts in the state are able to operate their schools on state money alone—not using a cent of local taxes in the footing of their educational bill.

That indicates not something rotten in Denmark, but something rotten in Texas and the Lubbock district's senator, Arthur Duggan, chairman of the upper house committee on educational affairs, has recommended quick passage of the bill in order that the new law may be hurriedly applied against the abuse.

That Man on Avenue Q says the fellow who claims the art of conversation is dead has never awaited his opportunity to use the telephone while his 16 year old boy is talking with his 14 year old sweetheart.

They were having a geography lesson in one of the local schools last Friday.

"Robert", asked the teacher, "what do they raise in Ireland?"

"I know, teacher", Robert replied, "but I can't tell you. My mother says I mustn't use rough language!"

HOW in the world did American courts ever arrive at the guilt or innocence of the murder defendant before it became fashionable to have alienists on the witness stand?

A scallion to Walter Winchell, who last night announced over a coast-to-coast hookup a story from Neodasha, Kans., and pronounced it as if it were Neo-DASH-a instead of Neoda-SHAY!

THE Plainsman spent Friday and Saturday in Amarillo and Pampa and hears things are better up that way.

The wheat, of course, needs more moisture but they've had quite a bit up there and are expecting more.

The lakes between Amarillo and Pampa are fairly flush with water and they don't look anywhere near empty.

If anything, there seems to be more business in Pampa than there is in Amarillo, although this may look that way due to the more constricted retail area.

There's plenty of activity in Clay Gray county seat and there was a big crowd in town there Saturday. People in both Amarillo and Pampa seem to be in better spirits than they were a year ago and psychology means a lot, as we've all found out.

SHORT TURNS: You should have seen the moon just before dawn this morning . . . It hung in the west like a big ball of gold and flooded the town like an incandescent bulb . . . All The Plainsman has to say is that if Amos Howard makes half as good a postmaster as he did a county clerk we don't need to worry any about mail service here . . . Incidentally, congratulations to Amos and for the other applicants: don't forget there couldn't be but one person appointed . . . . Pampa and Amarillo people are mad because Lubbock High school is considering leaving District one and joining District three. . . . . They should have thought about that before framing up a three year Thanksgiving Day contract.

Barbara Kent Favored Thrice By Lady Luck; Final Break Came When Actress Wed Man Who Put Over Numerous Stars

BY DAN THOMAS
Hollywood Journal Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18—When Lady Luck takes pains to smile thrice upon the same individual, that person is pretty apt to make quite a mark in this world.

Hence, it is rather safe to predict that Barbara Kent one of these days will be numbered among the foremost celebrities of filmdom.

Three times already has the elusive lady shouldered the responsibility of furthering the career of this young Canadian who had no thought of entering the movies when her family moved to Hollywood some 10 years ago.

When she was 14, Barbara's father entered her photograph in a state-wide beauty contest. She knew nothing about it until she was notified that she had been awarded the special "personality girl" prize.

As a result of this contest, she was invited to make a test at the Universal studio and subsequently was offered a five-year contract.

"During the ensuing years I worked hard at acting, just as I work hard at everything I attempt," Barbara related between bites of a 1 o'clock breakfast. "But I never regarded my career as being all-important."

Marries Good Manager

The third smile from Lady Luck came when the pretty brunet actress married Harry Edington about three years ago. She was prepared to give up her career and devote her full time to making a home for her husband.

But Edington, manager of Garbo, Marlene Dietrich, Ann Harding, Grace Moore and other stars, had different ideas. He believed that his young wife could go far if properly guided.

So, using the same rare judgment he has shown in guiding the activities of the great stars, he started planning Barbara's career. That he has been successful is proved by the fact that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer recently signed her to a long-term contract, and Louis B. Mayer personally is searching for the proper vehicle with which to launch her as an M-G-M player.

"Until now I never have taken my career really seriously," Barbara declares. "Things just happened to me without my having much to do with them. But now that Harry has convinced me there really is a definite place for me in this business, I am determined to find that place. And with him to advise me, nothing can hold me back."

Whether there will be any more lucky breaks for Barbara cannot be foretold. Having carried her this far, perhaps Lady Luck will continue to watch over her.

Or, again, she now may figure that it is up to the actress herself to make what future breaks may come her way.

When Ship Comes In

A honeymoon cruise on John Farrow's new white schooner, Mavourneen, will be the order of things for John and Maureen O'Sullivan this spring. The schooner is en route here from the shipyards in Vancouver, B. C. A papal dispensation (John has been divorced) is expected by them any time now. And then their marriage will take place as soon as both can arrange to get a few weeks away from work at the same time.

Another Football "Star"

Those University of Alabama footballers certainly do make a hit in Hollywood. First it was Johnny Mack Brown who showed up so well in the Pasadena Rose Bowl that he was handed a film contract. And now Universal is negotiating with Dixie Howell to star in "The Adventures of Frank Merriwell."

Tables Turned

Several years ago Lew Ayres then tooting a saxophone in an orchestra, got quite a kick out of glimpsing Rex Lease, the first live film star he ever had seen. Now Rex is working as an extra in "Hold That Man," in which Ayres is starred.

Sure Shot Gambler

If you've heard this one before, don't read it — if not, thank Mervyn LeRoy. He told it to me between the third and fourth races at the Santa Anita track the other day.

A man walked up to a bookie at a race track and bet $1000 on Black Maria, a 100-to-1 shot. A little later he returned and bet another $1000.

"Don't waste your money on that horse, he hasn't a chance," admonished the bookie.

"What makes you so sure of that?" asked the bettor, pulling another thousand from his pocket.

"I ought to know, I own him," stated the bookie.

"Well," replied the bettor, shoving the money forward, "I happen to own the other three horses."

NERVY SALES METHODS

Business and professional men are frequently annoyed by mail order firms which send them goods not ordered with a request that the merchandise be either paid for or returned. Such sales methods are entirely indefensible.

It is unfair to place upon a busy man the burden of wrapping and remailing stuff he does not want, yet the average person feels an obligation to pay for it or send it back. This method of alleged salesmanship no doubt produces results, or it would not be resorted to by the concerns which practice it.

One way of handling such cases is reported by a Michigan paper. A doctor was sent $10 worth of cigars with a request to try them and remit if satisfied. In case he did not smoke, it was suggested that the doctor could find some friend who would be glad to take them off his hands. The doctor wrote in reply:

"Cigars received: I enclose in payment two prescriptions well worth $10. If you do not need them, you can sell them to some friend."

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

Dutcher

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Dr. Rex Tugwell, white hope of the liberals in Washington, seems to be on top of the AAA heap, after a brief period in which his enemies thought he had been dropped to the ocean bottom with an anchor around his neck.

The upset came within 48 hours of a press conference held by Secretary Wallace and AAA Administrator Chester Davis, at which many giggled over Tugwell's fate.

The inside story of Tugwell's comeback will remind you—if you were ever a Northern schoolboy—of Gen. Phil Sheridan's famous ride.

Here's the first connected, accurate account of events surrounding and including the sensational purge of AAA liberals which ousted General Counsel Jerome Frank, demoted Consumers' Counsel Fred C. Howe, and booted out three or four of their subordinates:

From AAA's birth, Frank and Howe led the fight to prevent AAA from being prostituted by food industries which hoped for big profits at expense of consumers out of a program designed to relieve farmers. They had Tugwell's support.

Foes Go After Scalps

Food industries declared war on all three, promising in some cases to "get them." These industries were supported by subsidized leaders of farm organizations and a strong AAA group.

Ever eat canned asparagus? Well, renewal of the canned asparagus agreement was the big fight immediately before the "purge." Howe's men said AAA must have a strong books and records clause in the agreement because, while it appeared likely growers were being injured and consumers gypped on that asparagus, AAA's crop section had no real data on it.

Davis and other AAA officials cried "obstructionists!" clamoring for harmony at all costs. Howe and his men refused to recede. Wallace backed them up when the agreement reached him for signature.

Meanwhile Frank, also differeing with Davis as to books and records clauses and seeking a stronger license clause in the proposed AAA amendments which would let him win AAA decisions in the courts, was having his troubles with Davis.

Showdown Beats Frank

He insisted that when administrative policies gave rise to legal problems that might react against AAA, administrators should be guided by legal counsel.

The final Frank-Davis blow-up came over a relatively minor matter.

Davis told Wallace he must choose. He himself must have a free hand, which meant removal of Frank and Howe, or he'd quit. Wallace consented reluctantly. Davis had most processors of food and many so-called farm leaders behind him and Wallace couldn't afford an administrative explosion with Congress here.

They said something to Roosevelt about a reorganization, and F. D. acquiesced. According to most explanations, the president didn't get the point.

The job was done with all the grace of an inept butcher while Tugwell was resting blissfully in Florida. Every liberal in the Agriculture building felt a sinking sensation and every conservative chortled with glee.

Tugwell To Rescue

Then flabbergasted liberals began to holler—at Wallace and Roosevelt. Harry Hopkins protested at the White House. A couple of senators wrote horrified letters.

Tugwell, besieged by long distance calls, boarded a plane and reached Washington airport at 4 a. m. Jerome Frank was there to meet him. They huddled and Tugwell made an early descent on the White House. To understand what happened there, you have to realize that Tugwell, while keeping hands off AAA, had been advising Roosevelt on everything else under the sun. And that he was blazing mad.

He left with some definite promises and insiders know he is commissioned with far more power in AAA than ever before.

Rex In Saddle

Tugwell will sit in the new AAA operating council in which other high officials had insisted he would have no part. His close friend and associate, Dr. Calvin Hoover, will be the new consumers' counsel.

The AAA legal staff, formerly under Davis, now will be under Tugwell. Dr. Thomas C. Blaisdell, whom Tugwell brought to Washington, becomes head of the National Emergency Council's consumer unit. Howe remains as the AAA's consumer contact official.

Frank has been offered the job of handing AAA cases for the Department of Justice, which would place him in a strong strategic position in respect to AAA.

So within 48 hours the conservatives—and possibly Wallace himself —became the ones to be flabbergasted.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANN HOLLISTER, pretty and 20, breaks her engagement to TONY MICKLE, commercial artist, because of his drinking and general irresponsibility. The same day PETER KENDALL, wealthy and prominent, learns how VALERIA BENNETT, his fiancee, has deceived him and tells her everything is over between them.

Ann and Peter, both heart-sick and disillusioned, meet and discuss their mutual unhappiness. When Peter asks Ann to marry him she agrees.

They go to Florida and spend several weeks happily. Then Peter is called home because of business. All of the Kendall family except Peter's sister, MILLICENT, snub Ann.

Mrs. Kendall suspects her daughter, CAROL, is in love with LAWRENCE, the chauffeur, and discharges him. Carol leaves, ostensibly to visit friends in Miami. Ann sees her in a car and learns that Carol has married the discharged chauffeur. She promises Carol that she will keep her secret.

At a week-end party Ann is thrown from a horse. Although her injuries are not serious Peter is alarmed.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

The next afternoon Peter took Ann home. Because she was still weak from shock a trained nurse was engaged.

Friends called. There were cards and flowers. Valeria sent roses, gorgeous red ones to brighten the sick room. Peter read the written messages to Ann and relayed verbal ones.

She was recovering rapidly. She would be quite well by the end of the week. In fact, she was so well on the fifth day after the accident that the nurse arranged to leave after dinner that evening. She had been called to an old patient who was ill.

Dressed in a turquoise blue satin negligee, Ann was lying on a chaise longue by the window. She had been permitted to see a number of friends that afternoon. Sarah and Mac, Millicent, Marcia Johnson, Merle Merriweather.

And now, Valeria. She had come in as Millicent was leaving. She had said, "I'll only stay a moment. I know long visits are taboo."

"The nurse says I'm well. I'm only being lazy now."

"That's good. Too bad you chose that brute to ride."

Valeria's voice seemed very friendly. Ann thanked her for the flowers and then remembered that Peter had moved them, leaving only the pink roses he had sent.

Ann had been glad to see them go. She might not get well so soon, looking at Valeria's roses.

And now here was Valeria at her friendliest, with her smooth voice and sleek, golden hair, wearing a new spring suit with a gray fox piece slipping from her shoulder. She opened her bag, got out her compact and made up her face carefully.

Valeria looked cool, sweet and smiling. But inside was turmoil. The story of Peter Kendall's anxiety had been brought to her. Millicent had told Mrs. Kendall because she enjoyed seeing her mother's discomfiture. And Mrs. Kendall had told Valeria that Peter had acted like "a crazy young fool" when Ann had been thrown from the horse.

Valeria had decided, "I must do something soon before she falls in love with him."

She was leaving now. She told Ann goodby and closed the door behind her.

Ann was relieved. It had been an ordeal. Somehow she had the feeling that there was something venomous and cruel beneath Valeria's surface friendliness.

There was a piece of paper on the rug. Ann reached down and picked it up. It was a check, and the words and figures leaped at her, "Valeria Bennett, $2,000, Peter Kendall."

Valeria had entered the room again, "Ann, did I—?"

And then, as she saw the check in Ann's hand, she said in a low, embarrassed tone, "You mustn't mind Peter being generous with me. Remember Peter and I—"

"I don't mind," Ann said steadily, interrupting. Something was dying in her. She felt drained of all feeling, as though she would never mind anything at all again.

Valeria was looking down at Ann's face which had turned from delicate rose to white all in a moment. "I know you are sensible, so I will talk plainly," she said. "You shouldn't blame Peter and me for feeling as we do about each other. Remember, we've cared for years."

Ann was staring at the other girl, fascinated, watching the hard light leaping up in her eyes, the sulky, small mouth parting to reveal sharp white teeth. She had never noticed before how cruel Valeria's teeth were.

"You're doing Peter a great injustice," Valeria said. "Of course he wants to be fair, Ann, even though his grandfather is going to cut him off because of you."

Ann was wide awake now, breathing quickly. "It's not true!"

"Of course it's true. I should think you'd hate to mess up Peter's life like this. Why don't you ask for a settlement and go away?"

"I don't want a settlement."

"Don't tell me you want Peter?" Valeria's lips curled. "Girls like you start out deliberately to trap a man into marriage and then conveniently fall in love afterward."

"Please go," Ann whispered.

The door closed behind Valeria. Ann stared at the door a long time,

THE PLAINSMAN GETS SOME MAIL

LAMB COUNTY RELIEF WORKER WRITES POEM

Dear Plainsman: Enclosed you will please find a short poem, that J. B. Maddux, Littlefield, Texas, wrote concerning work relief on the state highway.

Mr. Maddux, is a Lamb relief client, and has been working on the highway for his relief, since the project began. Mr. Maddux was writing in behalf of the relief clients, and we feel that this poem expresses their truest feelings.

If some day you can find the necessary space in your very interesting column of The Journal, we would appreciate it to the greatest extent, if you would print this poem that reveals the opinions of so very many highway workers and relief clients.

Thanking you in advance, we remain,

Yours very truly,
Lamb County Relief Workers.

Well, now you will see us working
If you'll get out on the road,
With pick, forks, rakes and shovels
And truckers with their loads,

Just like as many red ants
We're always on the trek,
To get our seven-twenty
At the end of every week.

There's Kautz, and Lamb, and Horace
That oversees the work,
And a score of shirt tail bosses,
So you see it's hard to shirk.

The job that is assigned to us:
That's why a lot of us
Can only rake and shovel,
Sore tail, groan and cuss.

There's water-jacks, God bless 'em,
And shovelers in the pit,
That would, instead of shoveling,
Much rather stand or sit.

And so the host of workers are
Constant on the trek
To get the seven-twenty
At the end of every week:

We're out to work at eight o'clock,
Back on the job at one,
Worse than a bunch of locoed steers,
At five we're on the run.

It seems the devil's in us
In a manner so to speak,
But God grant our seven-twenty
At the end of every week.

(Dear Relief Workers: Thanks for thinking of me and my column. I have an natural antipathy toward poetry but it's a poor rule that can't be broken on exceptions. Let me hear from you at any time and to Mr. Maddux, a palm for knowing rhyme and metre. The Plainsman).

AIRFLOW or AIRSTREAM
YOU GET THE GOOD THINGS FIRST IN A CHRYSLER

THE new Chrysler Airstream takes its place with the dramatic new Airflow to bring modern motor car travel to new additional thousands.

The new Airstream Six and Eight cost little more than the out-and-out economy cars. Yet they embody many of the advantages of Airflow design which so revolutionized motoring last year.

THE new Airflows are a pure delight to the eye. And with their brilliant new exterior beauty, they bring new interior luxuries and an even more astonishing Floating Ride.

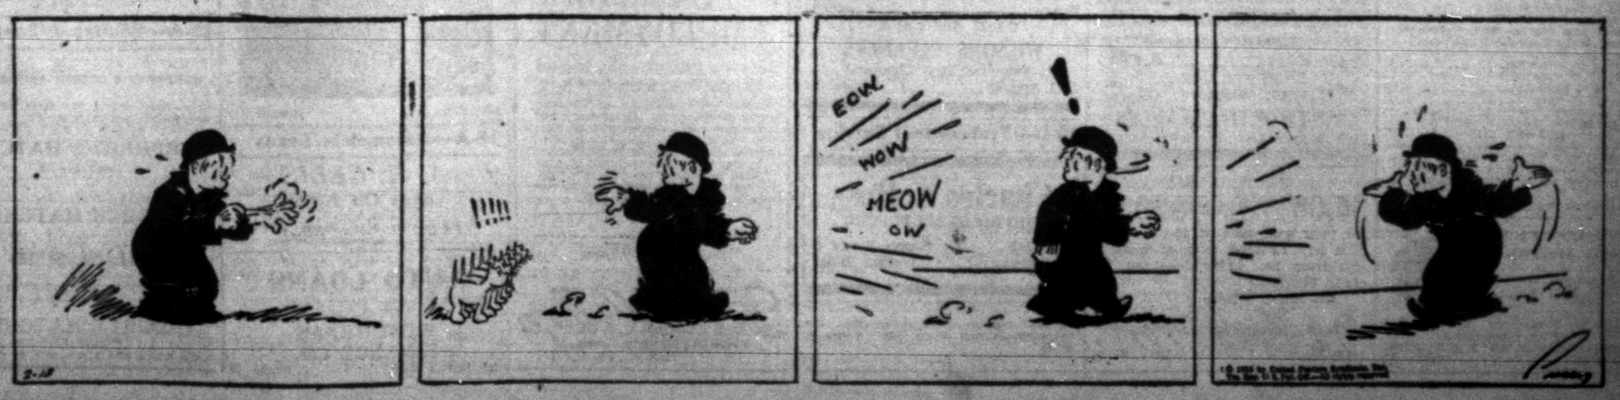

The new Airflows give remarkably easy-shifting with new syncro-silent transmissions. And they have new perfected steering . . . so sure and effortless that these big cars handle like a small roadster.

DAILY MARKETS

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18 (AP)—Cotton opened easier as Liverpool cables came in lower than due. First trades showed losses of five points on old crop months and two points on October.

March rallied 2 points right after the start to 12.40, but other old crop months remained at the opening figures. October eased off two points in the early trading, making that month four points under Saturday's close. Near the end of the first half hour trading March was at 12.39, May at 12.47, July at 12.50 and October at 12.39, or four to five points under Saturday's close.

The impression prevailed here that the decision in the gold case would be handed down today.

The market was very active during most of the morning. After dropping to 12.34 for March, 12.41 for May and 12.44 for July, or 9 to 11 points under Saturday's close, the market rallied sharply on first news from Washington on the supreme court's decision which indicated that the government had won all phases in the gold decision.

March rose to 12.62, May to 12.73 and July to 12.79, or 28 to 35 points above the earlier lows.

Later when it was learned in Washington advices that the government had lost the federal bond case the market eased off, March dropping to 12.56, May to 12.65 and July to 12.68, or 6 to 11 points under the top.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 2 to 4 lower under moderate liquidation, but the market showed a tendency to await the gold clause decision. Mch 12.39; May 12.46; Jly 12.49; Oct 12.39; Dec. 12.43; Jan 12.46.

Any uncertainty felt with reference to the expected gold decision seemed to be more clearly indicated by the restricted volume of business rather than the action of prices.

Trading became a little more active after the call with the market sagging under liquidation. This was absorbed by trade buying on a decline from 12.47 to 12.40 for May and the market was quiet at the end of the first half hour with prices off 6 to 9 points.

Liverpool cables said that business there was restricted with some Bombay and continental selling absorbed by local buying.

The market continued to sag during the middle of the morning under scattering liquidation with a little southern selling.

May worked off to 12.39 and October to 12.31, making net declines of 8 to 10 points, but the market met a little more trade buying at this level. At mid-day May was selling around 12.41 with the general market quiet and steady at net declines of from 5 to 7 points.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (AP) — Sellers displayed more activity than buyers in the grain pits early today, and prices tended to weaken. All else among traders appeared to be dwarfed by nervous tension over likelihood of financial developments at Washington.

Opening unchanged to 3-8 lower, May 97 to 97 1-4, wheat then declined all around. Corn started 1-8 to 5-8 off, May 86 to 86 1-8, and continued to sag.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—Stocks spurted today following announcement that the supreme court had ruled in favor of the government's abrogation of the gold clause in private contracts.

Suspense was the rule during the morning hours, but there was little excitement in the financial sector and many of the board rooms were virtually deserted. Equities were inclined to sag, however, until the flash of the court's decision appeared on the news tickers. The list immediately turned around and showed its heels to the confused bears.

Bonds of the secondary classifications rallied with stocks and fear of a panic in the Chicago grain pits caused the board of trade to suspend trading. The dollar, strong in early foreign exchange dealings, reversed it strend under a fast covering movement.

In the initial buying movement the stock ticker tape got several minutes behind floor dealings and prices were pushed up 2 to around 7 points before profit-taking caused the advance to taper off considerably. After halving initial gains, the list again stiffened. The rails and industrials recorded the most pronounced gains, but the utilities were able to get up only small fractions.

Gain of around 2 to 6 points were shown by Case, Santa Fe, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Smelting, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, American Can, American Telephone, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Allied Chemical, Howe Sound, Du Pont, Cerro De Pasco, American Smelting, Domé and McIntyre Porcupine. Many issues were up around a point or so.

GOLD RULE IS HANDED DOWN

U. S. LOSES FEDERAL CLAUSE; UPHELD ON PRIVATE BONDS

cerning money and a decision of the court on the subject.

Hughes stated the court was not concerned with the wisdom of the law in question but that the question was one of power and not politics.

President Roosevelt was closeted with his secretaries, Marvin H. McIntyre, and Stephen T. Early, as the supreme court decision was handed down.

Hughes spoke slowly and with great deliberation.

He emphasized the word "affirmed" when the private bond cases were decided, sustaining lower courts.

Reasons Are Told

The chief justice enunciated with a distinctive clearness. With feeling he read his brief summary of the cases decided and then launched into the reasons for the court findings.

The crowded court listened intently, all eyes fixed upon the black robed chief justice.

"Fairly construed, the gold clauses were intended to afford a definite standard of a measure of value and thus protect against the depreciation of the currency by payment of a lesser value than that prescribed," Hughes said.

Decision Is Relayed

There was no immediate way of telling if all the justices agreed with the opinion he was reading.

Treasury officials were running back and forth from the court to the marshal's office relaying the decision over an open telephone circuit to high administration officials downtown.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, came out of the court at 12:15 and said "I'm satisfied."

Informed of the court's decision, Chairman Sumners (D-Tex) of the house judiciary committee said:

"That's all right. The big trouble was in the private cases. We can take care of the federal cases by legislation without paying a cent."

Verdict Satisfactory

Speaker Byrns said: "A satisfactory verdict. But the importance of the opinion, as I've said before, is, to my mind, exaggerated."

In his summary, Hughes said:

"The questions at issue was power of congress to establish a monetary system and power of congress to invalidate existing contracts which interfere with its constitutional authority and whether the gold clause did constitute such an interference as to bring them within the range of congress over the monetary system."

Hughes then discussed the power of congress to invalidate existing contracts which interfere with its constitutional power, including those issued by private parties, states, municipalities and their political subdivisions.

The court reached the conclusion, he said, that congress in the exercise of its power to regulate currency could not be controlled by gold clauses in private obligations. The court had repeatedly ruled to that effect.

Cummings Notified

An attache of Attorney General Cummings' office was present and immediately left to telephone Cummings of the decision.

A number of others also dashed out of the chamber presumably to notify other government officials and individuals directly affected.

As he spoke, Hughes now and again, leaned forward to emphasize a point. He nodded his head frequently as he stressed some former court decisions. Now and then he paused, to continue in a more vigorous fashion.

COTTON IS UP

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18. (AP)—Cotton prices on the New Orleans exchange took a sharp upward spurt with rather wild trading when first news of the supreme court's gold decision was received. The first understanding was that the government had won on all counts, but this information was later changed. Prices rose to 25 to 28 points above Saturday's close.

GRAINS SCORE GAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 18. (AP)—Wheat and corn prices scored a jump of more than 2 cents a bushel in lively trading today after gold clause cases were decided. Immediate announcement was then made that the board of trade would be closed until further notice.

How long the market would be closed was not immediately announced. President Robert P. Boylan, using powers granted him several days ago, issued the order that halted dealings in the grain pits and then officials of the board studied the decisions in the various cases ruled on by the court.

The announcement of the suspension of trading was made from the visitors gallery. Operators on the floor immediately retired from the pits.

The last prices written on the blackboard showed May wheat at 98 3-4 compared with a previous close of 97 1-2 to 3-8, and May corn at 89 compared with 86 1-2 to 3-8.

FIRST ON CALENDAR

AUSTIN, Feb. 18. (AP)—Repeal of the pari-mutuel race track wagering law, a platform demand of Gov. James V. Allred and the Democratic party, held first place today on the calendar of business in the Texas house.

FUNERAL TODAY

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 18. (AP)—Funeral services for Judge Richard Spencer, 50, prominent attorney and former Texas legislator who died Sunday, were planned today.

fire.

C. B. Lawrence, financial secretary of the fruit and vegetables workers' union, however, charged the two men killed "were murdered by hired gunmen."

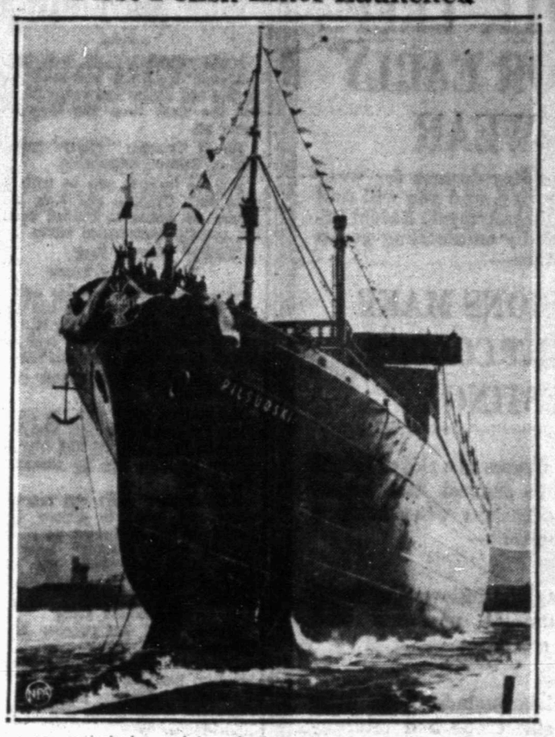

American Legion officials charged communists were busy in the Imperial valley and warned against their activities.

The present labor trouble developed last Wednesday when lettuce strikers and trimmers demanded a minimum wage of fifty cents an hour for women and fifty-five cents an hour for men, with packers to receive a minimum of seventy-five cents an hour. They also demanded recognition of their unions and elimination of piece work.

FARMER HELD UP

CLINTON, Okla., Feb. 18 (AP) — Three men, presumably three of the 18 fugitives from the state reformatory at Granite, held up Guy Stocks, a farmer, one mile east of Clinton at 9 a. m. today and took his sedan.

First Polish Liner Launched

Paid for entirely by coal in a barter arrangement with Italy, Poland's first trans-Atlantic liner, the 15,000-ton Pilsudski, is pictured sliding down the ways in its gala launching at Trieste. The vessel will operate from the new Polish port, Gdynia, in the New York and Halifax traffic.

NRA PLANS

compulsory 30-hour work week is needed to restore industrial employment to former levels.

New Inquiry Sought

He was confronted as well by demands in the senate for a new investigation of complaints that the present NRA has fostered monopoly and injured the little business man.

One of several points of controversy on which the president's stand was awaited eagerly was section 7-A of the present NRA act, guaranteeing the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively. There had been indications from officials that the White House would seek to continue this clause. The national labor relations board recently recommended that the collective bargaining question be "clarified" in the law. Senator Wagner (D-NY) has said, he wants a stronger collective bargaining law and it is believed he aims at barring so-called "company unions."

Others Are Favored

Aside from collective bargaining, the only phases of the present NRA which have been mentioned at the White House as favored on a permanent basis are provisions against child labor and the maintenance of minimum wages.

There have been indications that the president planned to ask that the recovery administration be extended a year beyond June 16, when the present law expires with authority to continue it still another year if he desired.

PSYCHIATRIST

in the same peril gunmen frequently face, the psychiatrist believes, and, unless his fundamental attitude toward danger changes in the crisis, you would have an exhibition of true courage, "because the imaginative layman would be facing danger knowing it to be danger."

"The fact that the odds in a career of crime are so overwhelmingly against them would indicate they were unimaginative and lacking in perception to ever start," he said.

Nine out of ten men he had examined for violent crimes were cowards he said, asserting that "their 'front' is gone when you take their gun away or lock them up."

Citing the other extreme, Dr. Hoffman said the so-called meek person may regard too pessimistically the consequences of a step before it is taken, and thus never take it; but he contends that no person knows exactly how he will react to a crisis until he is faced with it.

Chamness, El Reno were killed one mile west of El Reno last night when their car collided with one driven by David Shaw, guard at the El Reno federal prison. Shaw, unconscious, was brought to a hospital here. Chamness, 50, was an official in the First National bank at El Reno.

Conditional Pardon And Parole Revoked

AUSTIN, Feb. 18. (AP)—Gov. James V. Allred today revoked a conditional pardon and a general parole granted by former Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

Allred rescinded a conditional pardon issued last December to Frank Boykins, sentenced to five years for robbery in Taylor county, on the statement of District Judge M. S. Long of Abilene that Boykins was under indictment for burglary.

A general parole issued last April to O. D. Reynolds, sentenced to two years for theft in Van Zandt county, was rescinded, Allred said, upon advice of Van Zandt County Attorney Lewis O. Osborn that Reynolds had not contributed to the support of his wife and two children, as required in the parole.

give the state a thoroughly modern law enforcement and crime detection agency. They said it was badly needed to combat alarming crime conditions reported by the senate investigating committee.

The immediate business in the house was somewhat in doubt since under a suspension calendar almost any bill could be called up. There were reports the bill outlawing race betting bookies and another repealing the state law legalizing pari-mutuel wagering on horse races might reach the floor quickly, in either of which events a bitter contest was certain.

Hearings To Start

Meanwhile, much interest centered on the beginning of hearings by the senate and house committees tonight on proposed constitutional amendments authorizing levying a sales tax of two per cent on retail business.

Two members of a senate committee which conducted extensive investigations into tax conditions had endorsed a sales tax to retire Texas' bonded indebtedness. They were Senators T. J. Holbrook of Galveston and A. P. Duggan of Littlefield.

On the other hand, Governor James V. Allred was opposed to a sales tax, and has his tax commissioner, R. H. Montgomery, working on other suggestions to raise revenue. It was possible the governor's tax proposals would be made public this week.

Missouri Physician Found Dead Today

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Feb. 18 (AP)—Dr. Roy F. Huckett, 32-year-old physician of Independence, Mo., who has been missing since Saturday night, was found dead today at a tourist camp here.

Miss Dorothy Peglar, his 24-year-old office assistant who disappeared at the same time, was found in one of the cabins with the body.

Dr. W. L. Wysong, Clay county coroner, said the physician had died of acute alcoholism. The coroner said the girl, who was detained by police, refused to talk.

RETURNS TO SNYDER

SNYDER (Special)—J. R. Reeves, former resident here who went to Lamesa last May, has returned here and is with the Snyder Transfer and Storage Co. He was with that concern at Lamesa, in the branch there.

He was her "dearest ufus" and her pet "tumblebug," she was his little "salami herring," but she canceled their marriage plans, Robert Isaacson, economist turned liquor jobber, shown here in Chicago court, sadly declared in his $100,000 balm suit against Mrs. Mary B. Alexander, Harvester magnate's widow. Mrs. Alexander, in Florida, is ignoring the suit.

VETERAN TOWER GUARD SLAIN IN BREAK AT GRANITE PRISON

tower. They herded us out there to keep the guards from shooting at them.

"After they broke, I went over and gave up."

As the mob rampaged down the corridors toward the double-barred front doop and freedom; one of them snatched a sawed-off shotgun from a door-guard's wall rack.

An instant later, the same gun blazed its fatal charge at 60 year old Peter Jones, alert in his guard tower in front of the prison walls.

"I'm sure he didn't have a chance to defend himself," cried Mrs. Waters.

The convicts hunched forward warily behind their helpless hostages.

Hands Flutter Up

A feminine figure raced into the yard from the warden's residence, just outside the walls. It was Warden Waters. Her hand fluttered up in a signal to riflemen in sentry-boxes on wall and tower.

They fired, without effect, their marksmanship impeded by the hapless captives.

But a moment later, from a flank, came the sullen boom of Deputy Warden M. R. Gallion's automatic shotgun.

Eight boys lurched and stumbled as his slugs ripped into their flesh. None was seriously hurt. Another, terrified, halted. A tenth was taken nearby by a civilian, Vernon Taliaferro of Carter, who was present at the break and was deputized and armed by the guards.

Twenty-one of the more determined prisoners swarmed into parked automobiles or stopped drivers of cars on the highway.

Prodding owners away from the wheels at pistol points, the desperate men roared down the road.

Excuse Whined Out

"I couldn't get no car so I got shot," whined Hook Rogers, one of the group recaptured.

Mrs. Waters, whose first thought was care for the casualties, named five of the fugitives as the ringleaders. They were:

Malloy Kuykendall, 20-year-old jailbreaker, serving 75 years from Pottawatomie county for robbery with firearms. Last August 20, Kuykendall and two companions slugged a jailer at Tecumseh, stole Sheriff W. A. Robert's machine gun and automobile, locked the jailer and Robert's family in a cell, and fled the jail, to be recaptured months later.

Lee "Little Red" Cantrell, held for safekeeping for Stephens county authorities, who feared a break from the Duncan jail. He was charged with the $400 robbery of a store at Duncan.

John Reid, held, like Cantrell, in the Duncan robbery.

Buster Nichols, 20, serving four 5-year terms from Oklahoma county for assault with a dangerous weapon.

Bennett Casey, Oklahoma county burglar.

The break was not unexpected, said Mrs. Waters.

Looking For Trouble

"We have been having trouble down here all week," she said. "We took every precaution but we couldn't guard against guns being smuggled in from the outside."

Her administration has been probed by three state investigating agencies, checking charges of brutality to the inmates. The result of none of the probes has been announced.

"It has been upset here since they started their investigations," complained the woman who took charge of the institution in 1927, a year after the death of her husband, who also held the office.

The break was planned and carried out with deadly precision. Ironically, many of the fugitives less than a fortnight ago scrawled their signatures to a petition asking that Mrs. Waters be retained as head of the reformatory and praising her administration.

The slain guard's widow, Mrs. Peter Jones, also worked in the reformatory, and saw her husband shot. A favorite of the inmates, to most she is familiarly known as "Mother." Many of them have helped her at her work in the guards' kitchen.

Three fugitives were recaptured at Sayre by possemen.

The defendant has been pictured already as a boy with small regard for the counsel of his parents. In his last pre-testifying conference with his father, Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, the boy held true to that picture.

Tell In Own Way

"Father, I'm going to tell this story just like I want to," he told his father yesterday, said A. Flint Moss, chief of the defense counsel.

A third member of that conference was "Judge" C. B. Stuart, the venerable bulky veteran of the law who once defended Judge Kennamer before congressional investigators.

"He would listen to Judge Stuart and his suggestions but not to his father," Moss said.

FORMER TRUCK DRIVER WILL VISIT BIG CITIES; HE'S A BIG SHOT NOW AFTER HAVING WRITTEN SONG FOR MOVIES

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 18. (AP)—A small-town boy who made good in the big cities, left today to visit for the first time the biggest of them all.

He is Truman "Pinky" Tomlin, late of Durant, Oklahoma.

Ere the week is out, he will have seen both Chicago and New York, where his name is known, even if his roseate contenance isn't.

"Pinky" wrote a song.

Was Driving Truck

Less than four months ago, he was driving a truck in his home town. Then, as he phrases it, "right out of nothing" a tune and some words to go with it struck him.

He called it "The Object of my Affections."

He took it with him, in an ancient automobile, to Los Angeles. It was the only song he had ever composed, he said but he thought it was good.

Still stained with the marks of travel he went to Jimmy Grier, leader of the orchestra at a fashionable hotel. "Pinky" sang the song. Then he joined the band, graduated to a theater, and bounced smack into the movies.

Is Success Story

Today, he's Hollywood's No. 1 success-story.

His song has crossed the country, brought him fabe, a little fortune, a motion picture contract, and scores of offers from metropolitan night-clubs.

"You talk about the wings of song," he laughed. "Boy, I'm certainly getting a ride on them!"

Out of the motion picture "lot", where he is under contract, executives said they consider him "the hottest thing that ever happened."

Although he professes a total and complete ignorance of music, he has completed two more songs. The music department at the studio says they have the same "it" that made his first composition a hit.

NAZIS ASKING PARENTS TO CHRISTEN ALL CHILDREN AFTER GERMAN HEROES

BERLIN, Feb. 18. (AP)—First names now are coming under nazi scrutiny with a view to encouraging parents to christen children after German heroes.

German names stem from the sphere of valor, weapons, war, and victory, says one writer, Dr. Karl Plumeyer. He implies that they are more desirable than those of less worthy derivation.

He heads his list of suggestions with "Adolf," which, he says, comes from "Edelwolf" ("noble wolf"), which "was a victory and fortune-promising animal."

Also recommended are Archibald (a true hero), Bernhard (strong as a bear), Ernst (determined fighter), Karl (man), Irmgard (mighty protectress), Frieda (protectress) and Mathilde (great fighter).

"Old German names again are coming into prominence," Dr. Plumeyer says. "Through geneology and purifying the language parents are obligated to consider themselves true Germans and to nurture this idea in the family. The spirit of our time is different from the poetic ideas implied in Greek names, or Latin."

He suggests that citizens of the third reich afflicted with such names as Trotsky or Marx—"given them by arch-communistic parents"—have them changed by court procedure.

Lovable

her eyes dull and expressionless, traveling over the satiny surface.

Valeria was wrong. Ann didn't want Peter. Not now. Not ever. Peter, who wanted Valeria, who was having an affair with Valeria, giving her checks.

The nurse came in a few minutes later and found Ann lying back quietly, her eyes closed. The nurse put a practiced hand on her patient's pulse, shook her head.

In the kitchen, fixing broth for Ann, she asked, "Who was the blond who called on Mrs. Kendall?"

"Miss Bennett," the maid answered. "She's Mr. Kendall's old girl."

"Hmn." Miss Brock was tempted to step out of her professional role and talk to Peter. She compromised by saying to him, "Miss Bennett shouldn't be allowed to see Mrs. Kendall until she is stronger. She upsets her."

Peter said, "Thank you. I'll keep her away. How is Mrs. Kendall feeling now?"

"She was fine all day. She seems tired now. Too much company, I suspect."

The nurse departed with Ann's tray. She would leave after getting her patient in bed for the night.

Peter hurried through his dinner but when he opened the door to Ann's room she was sleeping. He stood close to the bed for a moment, gazing down at her anxiously. How still and white she looked, with her long lashes lying against her cheeks. She was pale, he thought, almost as pale as she was the night of the accident when he had sat through the long, anxious hours watching her.

He closed the door. The nurse was waiting in the living room, hat and coat on.

"I'm afraid I alarmed you, Mr. Kendall. I'm sure there's nothing to worry about, Mrs. Kendall is just tired. She seemed so well I thought a few friends could call but she must have overtaxed herself. A good night's sleep is what she needs."

Several times that evening Peter looked in on Ann but her eyes were closed. Finally he opened the door of his room and the door to Ann's and went to bed.

The door to Ann's room was closed next morning. Peter knocked but there was no answer.

While he was eating breakfast, the maid passed through with tray. A moment later, she came hurrying back. "Mr. Kendall, Mrs. Kendall has gone."

"Gone?" Peter pushed back his chair and ran to Ann's room. Ann was not there. Not in the bathroom, not in the living room or anywhere in sight.

He was gripped by a terrible fear. Could the blow on Ann's head have affected her mind? Then he saw the small envelope, addressed "Peter." His finger were shaking as he opened it.

"Peter, I've found out about you." Ann had started to write "and Valeria" but had decided against that. The note might fall into other hands. So she had merely written:

"Peter, I've found out about you, and because I can't possibly bear it, I am going away. Lovable."

Peter looked up. The maid was standing in the door.

"You may go, Susan," he said in a hoarse, unnatural voice. He read the note again in bewilderment.

"I've found out about you . . ."

What had Ann found out? Why, that he loved her, of course. And because she still loved another man, she could not possibly bear it. Because she believed he would tell her soon, she had run away.

There could be no other explanation, no other reason for her flight.

"I could not possibly bear it." The phrase was searing his brain. Wave after wave of agony poured over him.

How long he sat there in the quiet room, he did not know. He noticed evidences of hasty packing. A large traveling bag was open. Evidently Ann had discarded it to pack a lighter bag. The door to the closet was wide and he could see her clothes hanging there.

Her pearls were in the jewel case on the dressing table. With them was the diamond ring he had placed on her finger only a few nights ago.

He had believed when he slipped the ring on Ann's finger that she was learning to care, misinterpreting her gallant attempts to play the game. And Ann had realized he was misinterpreting.

The sight of her bed, the rumpled, embroidered pillow case where her head had been, brought fresh agony. She had not been well enough to leave. She had looked so little and wan and tired when he looked in last night. Why had she gone? Why hadn't she trusted him?

He put his head down on the dressing table, listening dully to the telephone ringing, ringing insistently.

CATTLE MARKET IS BRIGHT SPOT

DAM PROGRAM IS BEING OUTLINED

BRADY, Feb. 18 (AP)—The McCulloch county water conservation board, created to promote and direct a county-wide low water dam construction program, was organized at a meeting at the Brady Chamber of Commerce office last week.

P. R. Wulff, Brady business man and owner of considerable farm property, was elected chairman. Carl A. Blasig, secretary of the Brady Chamber of Commerce, was chosen secretary.

A number of applications have been received from property owners for construction of dams. Surveys to determine the details and cost of construction will start immediately. The Texas relief commission has agreed to furnish all of the labor and 25 per cent of the material or truck hire cost free regardless of whether the dams are built on public or private property.

"Conservation of water by means of these dams is of inestimable value to this section to prevent water shortage in case of a drouth, to provide better fishing waters for which this section is famous and to increase the amount of rainfall provided a sufficient number of additional bodies of water are created," Wulff said.
