Briscoe Standing Pat

HOUSTON (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he is standing firmly behind remarks he has made about President Carter's energy program.

Briscoe said Thursay that includes his statement he would not rule out a possibility of cutting off the flow of natural gas from Texas to other states.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill responded to that remark by saying it was irresponsible.

Briscoe told newsmen after a speech before the Texas Mortgage Bankers Association "As far as I am concerned, I have just started to fight for a sound, productive energy program."

'Red' In Command

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — Paul "Red" Adair, the Texan regarded as the oil world's premier blowout specialist, arrived today to take command of a new attempt to shut off a runaway gusher that has spilled some six million gallons of oil into the North Sea in seven days.

The 62-year-old Adair and his team will seek to cap the Ekofisk Bravo well by pushing a four-ton stopper through oil moving at the speed of sound.

Lawmakers On Outing

AUSTIN (AP) — Many Texas legislators junketed in the Rio Grande Valley today, leaving behind them in Austin long calendars of unfinished lawmaking.

The Senate and House quit Thursday for the usual three-day legislative weekend.

Air-conditioned buses whisked many of them away for a holiday sponsored by the Valley Chamber of Commerce, including stops in McAllen, Brownsville, South Padre Island and Harlingen, plus a night outing in Matamoros.

Rosalynn Doing Fine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The removal of a benign lump from First Lady Rosalynn Carter's breast won't interfere with her busy schedule, a White House spokeswoman says.

"She is up and about and in great spirits," said Mary Finch Hoyt, press secretary to Mrs. Carter. "This will not affect her schedule."

The SDN Column

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Several days ago Tommy Fletcher brought us a clipping from a Kentucky newspaper that his father had sent him. The clipping did not identify the paper it came from, but it contained an interesting item about big automobiles, which have made the news recently in energy stories. Actually, this item concerns one particular big automobile.

It is a 1956 Cadillac Fleetwood limousine which is owned by a taxicab driver, now 73 years old. If it holds up a couple more years---and there appeared to be no reason that it would not---the owner expects the '56 Caddy to hit the million-mile mark. It had well over 900,000 miles on it at the time the article was written.

The present owner bought the limousine when it was two years old and had 40,000 miles on its odometer.

But some other facts are equally as interesting as the car's record for longevity. It has never had a new engine, and has had only one overhaul, seven years ago. The only other major repairs have been the replacement of one wheel hub and the automatic transmission about 10 years ago.

The owner says it never uses a drop of oil and that it gets 19 miles per gallon of gasoline in the city and 21 miles per gallon on the open road. Moreover, the car's last set of eight-ply tires went 92,000 miles. The engine gets a tune-up every six months and is steam-cleaned every couple of years. The owner himself checks the motor oil and transmission oil every morning. The motor oil is changed after 1,500 miles of driving and the oil filter is changed every two weeks.

Incidentally, Tommy Fletcher's father is the Rev. Custis Fletcher, former vicar of St. John's Episcopal Church here, who now lives in Kentucky.

BY NUCLEAR EXPERT

Israel, Vanished Uranium Linked

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Israel is believed to have been behind the disappearance of 200 tons of uranium being shipped by sea from Belgium to Italy in 1968, a former U.S. Senate expert on nuclear proliferation said today.

Paul L. Leventhal's statement about the vanished uranium conincided with similar reports in the New York Times and the Los Angeles Times.

The newspapers quoted U.S. and European intelligence officials and suggested the Israelis may have used the fuel to run a small nuclear reactor that can produce the raw material for nuclear weapons.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli Atomic Energy Commission denied any Israeli connection with the disappearance.

Leventhal, former cousel of the Senate Government Operations Committee, said that several weeks after the ship failed to make its scheduled call at an Italian port with the uranium, "it reappeared with a new name, new registry, new crew, but no uranium."

He said intelligence sources from several countries investigated the incident "but eventually closed their probe of the case."

"It is assumed that it was unloaded in Israel," said.

Leventhal, who gave no further details and did not identify his source for the information, was speaking at a conference on "A Non-Nuclear Future," a gathering of critics of nuclear energy from 20 nations.

He told the participants that the 1968 incident illustrated the need for more rigorous safeguards of nuclear fuel and "the importance of international escort services for shipments of nuclear materials."

Israel has said its 26-megawatt Dimona reactor in the Negev Desert, bought from France in the late 1950s, runs on uranium obtained as a by-product of phosphate plants at the Dead Sea.

The reactor cannot be inspected by the International Atomic Energy Agecny in Vienna because Israel has not signed the treaty that is the basis for the agency's operations.

Indicators Signal Improved Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government index designed to foreshadow future economic trends registered its largest increase in 20 months during March, the Commerce Department said today.

The composite index of leading economic indicators rose 1.4 per cent from February, the biggest jump since July, 1975, it was the second consecutive monthly increase for the index after a drop in January caused by the severe winter weather.

Most of the economic statistics that have been announced this month have recorded gains, although the administration also has revised upward its projection of the annual inflation rate, saying it would be 6.7 per cent instead of the 5.3 per cent originally forecast.

The index showed contining improvement in the economy, with six of the index' 10 indicators showing increases, including the average work week and new orders for consumer products and materials. Building permits also were up.

The index now stands at 129.7, the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis said. This was 1.4 per cent higher than the revised February index of 127.9 per cent.

Contributing most to the March increase was new orders for consumer products and materials, which registered a 4.6 per cent gain. The average work week for production and manufacturing workers was 40.3 hours, up from the revised February figure of 40.2 hours and the highest in six months.

Other indicators registering improvements were the layoff rate, vendor performance and change in sensitive prices.

The four indicators that decreased were total liquid assets, contracts and orders and plant and equipment in 1972 dollars, stock prices, and money balance in 1972 dollars.

Total liquid assets actually increased but at a declining rate, the department said.

The index of 500 common stock prices was at 100.57, down three-tenths of a per cent from the February figure of 100.96. The March figure was the lowest in the last six months. Two of the indicators - changes in inventories and the new business formation index - were not available for compilation, the department said.

Krueger Still Hopeful Of Deregulation Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) -- There is still a chance that a bill for deregulation of natural gas can be substituted for the price controls that President Carter has proposed, according to U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, D-New Braunfels.

Krueger told a new conference here Thursday that he will continue his fight for "free market" energy prices. But other Texans in the energy fight felt favorable price control policies a more realistic goal.

The vote would be "very close" if it were taken now, even though a majority Ad Hoc Energy Committee has voted in the past for price controls, Krueger said.

Some Texans who have worked with Krueger for swift deregulation in the past are not willing to press the fight right now.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., said Thursday that he believes a temporary cap on both interstate and intrastate gas prices is desirable. His goal is to set the cap at a high level and include language in the law that establishes complete deregulation as the nation's policy for some time in the future. Bentsen thinks the producing interests will be fortunate to win that much from Congress.

Bentsen said immediate deregulation would be too severe a blow to consumers, particularly in Texas. Prices in Texas could be escalated beyond those paid by the rest of the country by the redetermination clauses that are in many intrastate contracts. Those clauses automatically raise the price of all gas to the highest price paid.

It would be possible for an interstate pipeline needing a small amount of gas to meet a winter peak by bidding $3 or $4 per thousand cubic feet for it, Bentsen said. That high-priced gas would be only a small part of the pipeline's total supply. But for intrastate contracts from the same area with redetermination clauses, the price for all gas would rise to whatever the interstate pipeline had paid.

The Texas Legislature could deal with that possibility with a law that would limit the amount prices could rise as a result of redetermination, Krueger said.

Although Krueger is steadfast in pressing the large battle over price controls, other Texans are concentrating on issues that will nonetheless be very important to many producers and Texas consumers.

"It's difficult to see where we could get the votes for deregulation," said Rep. William Archer, a Houston Republican. He foresees that "an awful lot of the infighting will be on technical questions, and some of them will be very important."

VATICAN CITY (AP)--Pope Pual VI and the arch-bishop of Canterbury, Dr. Donald Coggan, embraced in a "kiss of peace" today and issued a joint declaration that study should continue so that the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches "may be led along the path towards unity."

The declaration, on the next-to-last day of Dr. Coggan's ecumenical visit to Rome, conceded serious obstacles to unity between the world's 600 million Catholics and 60 million Anglicans, but it added:

"Christian hope manifests itself in prayer and action--in prudence but also in courage. We pledge ourselves and exhort the faithful of the Roman Catholic Church and of the Anglican communion to live and work courageously in reconciliation and unity in our common Lord."

The declaration was issued after the 67-year-old archbishop and the 79-year-old Pope prayed together and embraced at a Christian unity service in the Vatican's Sistine Chapel.

Board Supports Food Director

Following a 5½-hour executive session which ended at 2:05 a.m. today, the Snyder Independent School District board of trustees gave a unanimous vote of confidence to Charles Ketchum, director of school food services, and then voted, also unanimously, to raise Ketchum's salary by $1,000 per year.

The board had met in special session at 8:30 p.m.

Ted Crenwelge, board president, announced immediately that the board was going into executive session to discuss a list of grievances submitted by Mrs. Mary Beth Hicks, manager of the cafeteria at West Elementary School. Only the six members of the board attending the special session, school administrators, Ketchum and Mrs. Hicks remained in the board room for the discussion.

The only announcement made following the executive session was that the vote of confidence had been taken and that Ketchum's salary had been increased. Ketchum's contract had been extended for the 1977-78 school year at the February meeting of the board.

Board members attending the special session were Bill Clayton, Max von Roeder, Bill Voss, Vera McSpadden, Jerry Rice and Crenwelge. Board member Dillard Teal was out of town.

Water Contract Suit Is Returned

A suit to define the contract between the City of Snyder and the Union-Fluvanna Water Authority has been returned to 132nd District Court here.

The suit was filed several months ago after questions arose concerning some of the terms of the contract. Subsequently, it was filed in federal district court at Lubbock and included The Farmers Home Administration and the State Public Utilities Commissions as defendants.

The Farmers Home Administration came into the picture because it was a lending agency for the Union-Fluvanna Water system, which purchases treated water from the City of Snyder. Meanwhile, the Public Utilities Commission had come into being as a rate regulatory agency in the state.

The federal court did not accept jurisdiction in the case and the Farmers Home Administration and the PUC were dismissed from the case and it was remanded to the state court.

Texans Would Continue Driving With $2 Gas

HOUSTON (AP)—A university survey shows the majority of Texas would continue to use their cars for work or family driving even if gasoline cost $2 a gallon.

The survey results were released Thursday by the University of Houston's Institute for Urban Affairs and Energy Institute quoted 62 per cent of those polled as saying they would continue driving if the price of gasoline rose above $2 a gallon.

Dr. David Gottlieb, dean of the university's social science college and head of the opinion survey, said the poll involved 500 persons randomly selected to represent the economic, racial and geographic distribution of the state's people.

Many of those questioned in the telephone poll said they would have no choice but to drive. The 55 miles per hour national speed limit was endorsed by 78 per cent and 50 per cent favored cutting federal transporation and highway funds to states which do not endorse it.

Most said they support President Carter's plan for tax reductions for better home insulation and said they will buy more efficient cars if a "gas guzzler" tax is passed.

Those polled felt "the world is simply running out of fuel supplies." Nearly 60 per cent gave this as a major cause of the energy problem.

One out of two polled felt a major cause was that "the United States has sent too much fuel overseas."

Gottlieb said that showed how misinformed the public is, because the United States has exported virtually no fuel for years.

"The federal government has used the energy crisis to draw attention away from the real problems facing our nation," was agreed on by 42 per cent. Forty-nine per cent disagreed and the rest were undecided.

Asked if they heard at least one of Carter's two energy broadcast messages last week, 62 per cent said yes and 38 per cent said no. Gottlieb said this shows a high interest in Carter's energy policy.

Gottlieb said the poll was the first statewide poll taken since Carter's talks. he said it shows public awareness of energy problems in increasing. He said during the 1974 oil embargo, a similar poll showed less than three Texans in 10 believed the crisis was due to a growing long term energy shortage.

Now 64 per cent believe the problem is real.

Two years ago even more Texans thought the United States was still exporting oil, Gottlieb said.

The researcher said the changes in opinion have occurred mostly in the lower income and less educated part of the populous.

He said the poll, like all surveys, probably contains some errors but he said general conclusions can be drawn from the data because the sample group's demographics closely paralled the state's general population.

Four Die In Jet Crash

McLEAN, Va. (AP) — Four persons were killed when their twin engine Beechcraft Hawker jet crashed in a park and skidded into a house in this Washington, D. C., suburb, authorities said. A family of six in the home escaped injury.

Clyde A. Lilly, president of Southern Company Services Inc. of Birmingham, Ala., and William G. Lalor Jr., Southern's executive vice president, reportedly were aboard the plane.

Lilly was chairman of the Atomic Industrial Forum, an international meeting of utilities, universities and product manufacturers dealing with atomic energy.

Gale Klappa, a spokesman for Southern, said two pilots from Atlanta also were aboard the company-owned jet. He identified them as Thomas L. Taylor, 33, and Ronald L. Golden, 30.

Fire officials said two bodies were found in the park and a third was found in the aircraft, but it was unclear whether a fourth was found. The plane's flight plan said two passengers, a pilot and a copilot were aboard the plane.

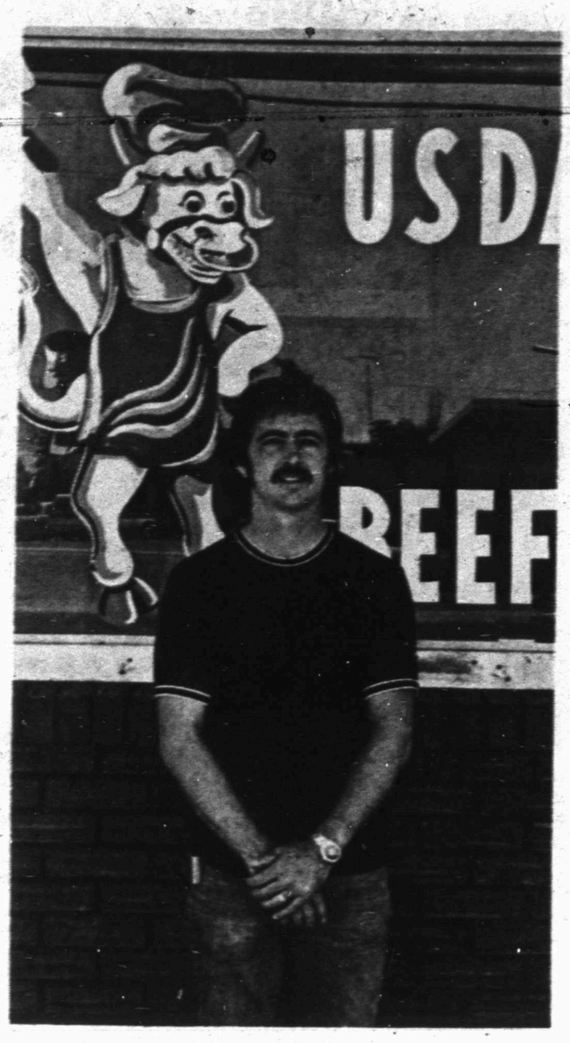

None of the bodies has been identified.

The plane left Washington National Airport in rainy weather en route to Birmingham. Southern is a subsidiary of Southern Co., the parent firm for utility firms in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida.

Both radar and radio contact with the aircraft were lost shortly before the crash, authorities said.

Dennis and Shirley Clarke and their four children, Michael, 15, Cindy 13, Tricia 9, and Jody 7, were watching television in their downstairs family room when the plane crashed.

The family escaped through the garage as flames from the wreckage engulfed their two-story brick dwelling.

Ford Profits Soar

DETROIT (AP)—Buoyed by feverish demand in the lucrative big-car market, Ford Motor Co. became the second U.S. automaker to establish earnings and sales marks for the first three months of the year.

Ford, the world's No. 2 car maker, reported Thursday its net profits rose 47 per cent from the first quarter of 1976 to $483 million, the most for any three-month period in company history.

Sales also set a three-month high, jumping 24 per cent to $9 billion, Ford said.

Ford's earnings, equal to $5.12 a share, were better than the $4.50 to $5 a share Wall Street analysts were forecasting.

The company earned $328 million, or $3.59 a share, in the first three months of 1976 on sales of $7.4 billion.

The company's strong showing came a day after industry giant General Motors, the other leading big-car producer, reported record first-quarter profits of $903 million, a 13 per cent gain from the year before.

Chrysler Corp. reported earlier in the week that it earned $75.4 million in the quarter, up five per cent from 1976 and second highest ever for the period. Analysts suggested Chrysler fell short of its quarterly record of $90 million set in 1973 because of weakening demand for compact cars, Chrysler's forte.

Major Oil Firms Deny Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — If 20 major oil companies decide to lower the price of gasoline to pay back $336 million in alleged overcharges, you could see a brief reduction in prices at the gas pump.

But no much and not for long.

The oil companies are denying vehemently the Federal Energy Administration's charge Thursday that they artificially inflated the price of oil purchased from foreign subsidiaries between October 1973 and May 1975.

During that time, the United States kept price controls on oil produced within this country, while foreign oil prices tripled.

The companies can appeal the FEA's ruling to the agency or in the federal courts.

And an FEA spokesman said that even if the oil companies eventually are forced to refund overcharges, the companies still could keep as much as half of the $336 million.

They would be allowed to recalculate the import deals in which they did not charge U.S. consumers the maximum allowed under the price control law.

One option the companies could take to pay back the overcharges would be a temporary price cut at the gasoline pump.

But with more than 714 million gallons of gasoline sold daily in the United States, a rebate at the pumps might consist of only a penny or two for a few days or weeks.

The companies could also chose some other method of returning the money to the public, including temporarily holding off on some future price increase instead of rolling back current prices.

Gulf Oil Corp. led the FEA's list of alleged overcharges with $79.6 million, or 23 per cent of the toal.

"Gulf categorically denies that it has violated FEA regulations concerning the price of crude imports," a Gulf spokesman said.

"The company has met with the FEA on numerous occasion over the past three years in an effort to resolve this matter. Gulf continues to maintain that its pricing method was in compliance with the law and regulations in effect at the time."

Gulf and other companies contended that the FEA changed its rules after many of the transactions were completed.

Standard Oil of Indiana, listed with $55 million in alleged overcharges, accused the agency of "retroactive rulemaking." It said it had "followed the letter and the spirit of the regulations" in effect at the time.

The report of the theft was logged by police at 10:16 p.m. Thursday when officers were tipped by a telephone caller who reported seeing two juveniles at a press box in one of the baseball diamonds at Towle Park.

About 11 p.m., officers stopped the vehicle the pair was traveling in and recovered the speaker. The juveniles were later released to the custody of their parents.

The unlucky expert nad a new hand for us. He showed us the West cards, gave us the bidding and asked: "What would you lead?"

We studied the hand and replied, "We would lead the same deuce of diamonds you led. Did South make a singleton ten?"

"No," was the reply. "My partner won the trick and gave me a club ruff. Later on he made a trump trick to set declarer two. This hand took place in an IMP match and believe it or not, cost us the match."

Before you go any further see if you can figure out what happened at the other table. We'll give you a hint. We didn't figure it out.

What happened at the other table was that South responded one spade and West passed. North jumped to three clubs, South made a very bad bid of three notrump and West elected to double.

South was delighted. So delighted that he redoubled. West cashed his six diamond tricks to score 1,000 points, a net gain of 800 and 13 IMPs which gave his side the match.

PLANNING FOUNDERS DAY CELEBRATION—Carolyn Limmer, left, and Laura Greene look over the Founders Day message for Lambda Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. The sorority is planning a celebration of its 46th anniversary to be held April 30.

Sorority Plans 46th Anniversary

Beta Sigma Phi, a social, cultural and service organization for women, plans the celebration of the 46th anniversary of its founding.

It is the largest women's sorority in the world. Celebrations will take place in the 25 countries in which the organization's 250,000 members in over 12,000 chapters exist. The organization is non-academic, non-political and non-sectarian. The keynote to Beta Sigma Phi is friendship.

Chapters of five different degrees meet the growing needs of various age groups. Each chapter adapts the plans for socials, civic, and service and cultural activities to fit the interest of its members.

Internationally, the chapters have created several special funds: The International Loan Fund; The International Endowment Fund, which has donated over one million dollars to cancer research, cystic fibrosis, homes for underprivileged children, and many other causes; The Exemplar Fund, which helps to support Literacy Village in India; and a college scholarship fund for members or their sons or daughters.

Outstanding projects and activities of the local chapter, Lambda Kappa are: donations to the Texas Rehabilitation Center and to the Snyder Jaycee's Children's park. The chapter helps with the heart and cancer drives in Snyder, and also gives a $100 scholarship to an outstanding Scurry County senior for WTC.

The Founder's Day celebration on April 30 at the WTC cafeteria will mark the 46th anniversary of the founding. The organization was founded in Abilene, Kansas, by Mr. Walter W. Ross and will be observed by the Lambda Kappa Chapter here.

Mrs. Laura Green will serve as chairman of the Founders Day activities. The toastmistress for the evening will be Carolyn Fortune. Other members to take part in the program are: Susan Chesser, Carolyn Green, Barbara Bills, Marsha Cribbs, Dena Ellis, Donna Cullar and Bonnie Hollis.

Mrs. Carolyn Limmer has been selected for the honor of presenting a special message from the sorority's president. She has received the message from the International office in Kansas City, Missouri. Awards will be presented to outstanding members and the First Lady of the Year will be awarded to an outstanding woman of Snyder.

Try to accept others as they are. Learn to recognize and appreciate people's strengths and unique qualities, advises Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Altrurian Luncheon Meet Held

Altrurian Club (TFWC) had its international luncheon recently with fifteen members and two guests, Miss Enid Irving and Mrs. Melba Light attending.

Each member prepared her favorite dish, either foreign or American, and during roll call described its origin and content. Some of the unusual dishes were Mexican Casserole, Chicken Enchiladas, Hawaiian fruit salad, Rogan Josh, Cucumber yogurt, Mexican Bolas, Chinese Marbelized Tea Eggs and Bohemian Coffee cake.

Mrs. Ross Blanchard Sr. and Mrs. Clyde Hall, Sr. were hostesses for the luncheon.

Mrs. Travis Rhoades and Mrs. Vernon Deffebach presented a program on Americanism. Mrs. Rhoades spoke of the abundant life we have today and asked, "What of tomorrow?" Today we face the test as to whether out blessing of freedom can be preserved. She presented much food for thought from such sources as Ecclesiastes, Rudyard Kipling and others.

Mrs. Deffebach said the American dream is that human liberties be shared by all and recalled that out presidents, beginning with Woodrow Wilson, have all strove and are still striving to reach that goal. She showed large prints of Normal Rockwell's depiction of the Four Freedoms as set forth by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. These pictures graphically portrayed freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from fear and freedom from want.

During the business session the club voted to present Mrs. Travis Rhoades' name to the Chamber of Commerce for consideration in their annual Outstanding Senior Citizen contest.

HOUSE PANEL FALLS IN STEP

Senate Panel Far Above Carter's Price Supports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee is falling in step with President Carter on price supports, but the committee's Senate counterpart is still far above him.

Using proxy votes collected overnight, the House committee chairman, Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., Thursday swung his panel in Carter's direction on supports for wheat and corn, the two most important crops.

While the Senate panel is close on a corn support figure, Carter is still trying to get the committee to cut its wheat support price.

Because millions of acres of the two grains are planted each year, those crops have the biggest potential for upsetting the President's budget.

A 1.2 billion bushel wheat surplus has built up from the last harvest and already depressed prices enough to trigger the support.

Corn prices are not expected to fall that low, but administration spokesmen say Carter's aim is to keep supports near or below the market to avoid a drain on the budget.

Last week, a House subcommittee approved levels that could have totaled $6.2 billion and thrown off the President's budget.

The subcommittee head, W. R. Poage, D-Texas, Thursday asked the full committee to adopt levels much closer to Carter's. The motion was failing, 12 to 20, when Foley cast the proxy votes of 13 absent Democrats for Carter's position.

"I was fearful and Mr. Poage was fearful that the subcommittee levels would strongly invite a veto," Foley said later.

It was the closest Carter has come to a victory in the two weeks that the panels have been working on replacement statutes for the farm programs that expire Sept. 30.

Carter initially proposed only modest increases, to maintain a potential farm-program budget near the current top of $935 million. Last week he agreed to supports that could raise the budget to $2 billion.

One type of support comes through target prices. When average market prices fall below target, the USDA makes up the difference with direct payments to farmers.

In the four years that target prices have been in the law, payments have been made only to rice growers. Some are expected this year on wheat.

The support programs, actually costing about $400 million now, are triggered by favorable worldwide weather that reduces the demand and the price for U.S. crops. About two-thirds of the present cost come from peanut and tobacco supports, both long above world prices by law.

The secnd type of support, rates for crop loans, is considered the price floor in the domestic and exports markets for the grains. They are also more familiar to farmers because so few target-price payments are made.

As of Thursday, these are the postions from which an ultimate compromise will come on the wheat program:

-House committee: 1977 target price, $2.65 a bushel; 1978 target, $3; loan rate, $2.35 a bushel, beginning in 1977.

-Senate committee: 1977 target, $2.90; 1978 target, $3.10; loan rates, $2.25 for 1977, $2.47 for 1978.

-Carter proposal: no 1977 changes; 1978 target, 2.90; loan rate, no change

-Current: $2.47 target, $2.25 loan rate.

These are the positions on corn, the basis for determining supports on other feedgrains:

-House: 1977 target, $1.85; 1978 target, $2.10; 1977 loan rate, $1.75; 1978 loan rate, $2.

-Senate: no 1977 changes; 1978 target, $2.28; loan rate, $2.

-Current: $1.70 target, $1.50 loan rate.

Rep. David Bowen, D-Miss., an influential House committee member, said after meeting with Carter at the White House Thursday that the President again expressed his "concern about keeping the programs at a reasonable level."

"The implication was very clear that he would not hesitate to veto a farm bill that was too expensive," Bowen said.

As important for the budget as the actual figures set for this year and next are the formulas used to adjust the supports in the following years of the five-year Senate bill or the four-year House and Carter measures.

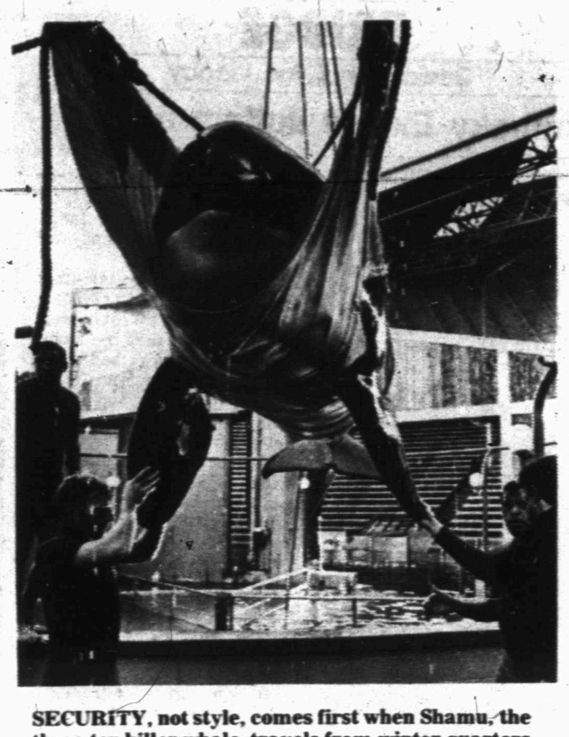

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, successfully proposed to the Senate panel Thursday that target prices after 1978 bear the same relationship to production costs as the 1978 figures it set. In the case of wheat, that's 7 per cent above costs; corn, at cost.

Loan rates would be 85 per cent of the target.

But the cost formula used there includes a "management fee" for the farmer and the average price of land the last 35 years.

Carter has opposed both a guaranteed profit from the government on any crop and the inclusion of land values and, in effect, a farmer's wages in the escalator formulas for the targets. He seeks flexibility to vary loan rates to keep U.S. crops competitive in the world market.

The House committee has adopted the Carter approach for wheat and feedgrains.

OVERCOMES ECONOMIC STORM

Brighter Days Seen For Sunshine State

EDITOR'S NOTE — An economic black cloud hung over the Sunshine State in the mid 1970s, but Florida, like the rest of the nation, seems to have weathered the storm. There already are indications that brighter days - and a bigger population - are ahead.

By MARTIN MERZER
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Sub-tropical winds howling through empty condominiums lining Florida's coasts; hordes of unemployed northerners demanding handouts from state officials; rustcolor citrus rotting on trees black with disease.

These problems contributed to sleepless nights in the mid-1970s for officials of the nation's fastest growing state.

Florida's boom, based on an economy still largely dependent on tourism and construction, ended during those years. Part of it was because of the effects of the oil embargo and runaway inflation. Part of it because high gasoline prices discouraged potential tourists, and soaring mortgage rates discouraged shoppers for homes.

Unemployment in Florida went from 4.3 per cent in 1973 to 10.6 per cent in 1975.

Most economists believe that the boom is a thing of the past, but Florida's economy is recovering slowly - at a pace about six months behind the national average.

"We may not approach the level of growth we had earlier in this decade, but I see growth coming back into the system," says Tom Walker, a prominent local economist. "The rate of population gain is well in advance of the rest of rest of the nation, and population is one of the engines of economic growth."

Among the promising trends: The unemployment rate is down - to 7.9 per cent in January, the same as the national average. And with 500 northerners settling in Florida each day, there are fewer unsold apartments, construction loans are up - up 54 per cent in January over the same period last year - and already there is a shortage of office space in Miami.

In addition, Gov. Reubin Askew's 1977 budget proposal includes tax reform for consumers and businessmen temper to requested hike in the state sales tax to five per cent.

Taxation, one of the lowest in the nation, is among the features of Florida living which most appeal to northerners. The other is the state's fun-in-the-sun reputation.

The problem is that as people move into the state, beaches become jammed, bucolic farmlands turn into townhouse developments and shopping centers.

Florida is home for some 9.5 million persons. The population projection for 1980 is 10 million, so officials are working to broaden the state's economic base and to provide jobs.

Businessmen take pride in Florida's diverse economy. Commercial forest land provided more than $1 billion in wholesale manufactured value in 1975; production from phosphate mines exceeded $1 billion, and the 1975 commercial fishing harvest was worth $75 million.

Tourism fell off this year during a hotel employes' strike and the January freeze, which saw Miami dusted with snow flurries for the first time in recorded history. Afterwards, state and industry officials pooled resources for an advertising blitz in the North.

Now, industry officials say 1977 tourism will exceed 1976, when 27 million visitors left behind $10 billion.

The freeze caused about $200 million in agricultural losses, including the entire winter tomato crop in South Florida. Federal aid is helping farmers get going again.

A tree-killing disease called citrus blackfly, originally feared as a possible catastrophe, was headed off by airborne attacks of insecticide before it reached the Central Florida citrus belt. And although the cold created one of the lowest yields of juice in history, citrus industry officials say higher prices for what was produced should put revenue near original predictions.

On the whole, most economists agree that Florida's outlook is healthy. A report just released by the Conference Board, a business research group, says Florida is expected to double its share of U.S. personal income from the current 3.2 per cent to 6.4 per cent by 1990.

The coastline of Alaska is longer than the Pacific, Gulf and Atlantic coasts bordering the lower 48 states.

FIRST 100 DAYS

Carter Support Has Broadened

NEW YORK (AP) — Support for President Carter has broadened during his first 100 days in office, particularly among persons who voted against him who now believe he is more conservative than expected, according to a New York Times-CBS News survey released Thursday.

The poll found that 63 per cent of the 1,707 persons questioned generally approve of Carter's performance. Nearly half of those who voted against Carter now give him good marks.

The poll also found that although most of the participants in the poll were confident in the method Carter has chosen to combat the energy crisis, they are unwilling to make many of the sacrifices he has suggested as solutions to the problem of dwindling resources.

Those questioned generally resisted the President's proposals that would raise prices or taxes but accepted those that would not require financial sacrifice.

The perception of a move to the right of the President's political philosophy was most evident in the West, a section of the country where Carter fared poorly in the November election, the poll said.

Carter's overall popularity was roughly equal to that of former President Nixon's and much higher than former President Ford's during comparable portions of their terms.

The survey also showed that while Carter had gained the trust of most of those persons questioned, there was a continuing large-scale disaffection toward government and government officials.

The conclusion of the pollsters was that Americans want the Congress to have more control than the president over the conduct of national affairs.

Lily Tomlin To Appear In Court

NEW YORK (AP)--Comedienne Lily Tomlin must appear in court next Wednesday to explain why she is listing the name of former opera star Zinka Milanov as understudy for her hit one-woman Broadway show.

Miss Milanov, who starred for many years at the Metropolitan Opera, filed a $2.2 million damage suit Thursday in state Supreme Court here, saying the unauthorized use of her name caused her "shock, humiliation and embarrassment."

George Boyd, stage manager for Miss Tomlin, said Miss Milanov's name was included in the playbill along with the name of other well-known persons or persons admired by Miss Tomlin.

"We have a one-woman show, so it's ludicrous that there could be a standby or an understudy," said Miss Tomlin's stage manager, George Boyd.

"The fact that the playbill has certain standard things is in itself ludicrous and we tired to make it satirical and humorous."

Farrah Not At Funeral

HILLSBORO (AP) — A handful of curiosity seekers were disappointed Thursday when they didn't get to see actress Farrah Fawcett-Majors.

Mrs. Myrtle Fawcett, 81-year-old grandmother of the actress who has skyrocketed to fame in the "Charlie's Angels" television series, was buried here after funeral services at a local funeral home.

About 10 persons watched outside the funeral home, hoping for a glimpse of the star. The size of the crowd sharply contrasted with the turnout of about 400 here April 11 when the star came to a local hospital to visit her then-ill grandmother.

A funeral home spokesman said the size of the hospital crowd probably was the reason the star did not attend the funeral.

US Hijackers ProvokeAttacks

By JAMES ROBINS
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — American hijackers who are beaten and tortured in Cuban prisons often provoke the attacks by their repeated protests against a government that won't let them leave, a former prisoner said.

"A group of them actually tried to take placards downtown in Havana saying Castro was unfair and wouldn't let them out. That lasted about five minutes," said David Nirenberg, 25, of Philadelphia.

Nirenberg spent 15 months in Cuban prisons between July 1973 and October 1974 after he and three shipmates were seized from a sailboat the Cubans said was in the country's waters.

Nirenberg and Susan Brown, seized from the same sailboat, were among the first American prisoners released following the visit to Cuba in September 1974 of U.S. Sens. Jacob Javits, R-NY, and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

He contacted The Associated Press here on Thursday to comment on an AP interview conducted in Havana this week with hijacker Garland Grant, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Grant said in the interview that he was a member of the Black Panthers when on Jan. 22, 1971, he hijacked a Northwest Airlines jet with 59 people aboard while on a flight from Milwaukee to Washington, D.C.

Grant said that he was released from a Cuban prison six weeks before the interview and was living in a Havana hotel with about 15 other American hijackers.

Speaking of the mistreatment he said he had received while in Cuban prisons, Grant said, "I've been in this place six years and I'm out of my mind. Believe me, I'm all for the United States now. I'd even wear a Nixon button."

"They are bringing it on themselves to a point," Nirenberg said of the hijackers, "but it's really hell down there. There were trying to act as they would in this country. Down there, it doesn't go."

"The Cubans don't go around looking to beat them, they just leave them to rot. Then when they can't take it anymore, they do their little protests and the Cubans beat them with a vengeance," he said.

Golf Team Hangs In

AUSTIN, TEX.(AP)- With the aid of a court injunction, the Austin Crockett girls golf team finished the Region IV tournament last week with a score good enough to win the event by 51 strokes.

Unfortunately, the University Interscholastic League event had officially ended the day before.

The UIL's executive committee refused Thursday to allow the Cougars, who arrived late for the regional tournament due to a misunderstanding, to play in the next week's state meet.

The Cougars and another Austin team were late for the Corpus Christi meet, which began April 22, after their coach thought the tournament April 23.

The Cougars, tagged by many as the best girls team in the state, were subsequently disqualified, but parents of the girls secured a court injunction to allow the girls to compete.

Tiger JV Wraps Up Season With Victory

Snyder junior varsity closed out the '77 season with a 6-5 win over Lubbock Christian yesterday. The victory leaves the Tigers with a 4-11 record for the season.

The Tigers fired three runs in the second and one each in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to wrap up the Lubbock JVers.

Kyle Short walked, as did teammate Billy Stephens in the bottom of the second period, and Jay Hammond singled to fill the diamond. The trio scored, backed by David Zajieck's single to right field, and led the visitors, 3-1.

In the fourth and fifth periods Snyder raised their advantage by two as Hammond scored again and Everton rounded the bases for his only trip of the afternoon.

Lubbock junior varsity added four runs to retaliate in the top of the sixth set, as Yochum, Parham, and T. Williams crossed the plate. Perrin scored also, his second of the contest.

With the tally tied 5-5, Snyder's Gary Atwood reached first on a walk, and was assisted around the bases by a couple of singles from David Lee and Zajieck, to score the winning point.

Sid Everton started on the mound for Snyder. Everton was replaced in the sixth inning by Bobby Degrate. Degrate found trouble when the score locked at 5-5, but Everton returned to make the save. Linn from Lubbock gets the loss.

FORT WORTH, (AP)— Victory-starved Texas Christian University football fans will get a preview of the new "Dry Look" here Saturday when the Horned Frogs close out spring training with the annual Purple-White intrasquad game.

New head coach F.A. Dry says the game will be played under actual game conditions except for punt and kickoff returns. Dry said that is being done because he doesn't want to take chances on sustaining injuries at the end of the spring training session.

The Horned Frogs have high hopes for the coming season after an 0-11 season last year. Kickoff will at at 2 p.m.

ChavezStruggle Not Over Yet

EDITOR'S NOTE — Cesar Chavez has won the fight with the Teamsters for the right to organize farm workers in California. But his 12-year struggle isn't over. From California, he will eventually launch a national campaign. Before that, though, the growers will get his attention once again.

By ROBERT McEWEN
Associated Press Writer

COACHELLA, Calif. (AP) — It's been nearly 12 years since a slightly-built farm worker named Cesar Chavez organized his people in the fields and vineyards of California to the battle cry of "Viva la Causa."

Looking back today at the long struggle, Chavez, now 50, says: "I learned what life teaches all generations, that one must fight for justice and truth. You can't sit around and complain. You've got to get down to it and make demands."

Since he first asked an entire nation to stop eating grapes to help him win recognition from the growers, Chavez' farm workers have won new contracts, survived bloody battles with the Teamsters and brought a measure of social change to the farm lands.

To his people, he is part messiah, part teacher. To his adversaries, he is a demogogue who has damaged agriculture by divisive strikes, political alliances and national boycotts, a labor leader who can't run his own union by professional standards.

His tactics and zeal are unchanged. He has sacrificed his private life for the union. He can't remember when he last saw a movie. His credo is self-discipline and denial.

"There is no life apart from the union," he says. "It is totally fulfilling."

One recent Sunday, thousands of the some 40,000 Mexican-Americans, Filipino and Arab farm workers who have joined his UFW turned out to march behind their leader. Mile-long, uneven columns of men, women and children formed along the dusty shoulders of Highway 111 near this small desert town.

"What I have with these people developed during the formative stages of the union," he said later. "We've been through a lot together and developed solidarity. I know a lot of them personally."

A Coachella farm worker named Ramiro Gastelum, who brought his young son and aged father to a crossroads to watch Chavez pass by, explained in Spanish what the UFW means to him.

"Sure I follow Chavez. Chavez means more money, more medical," he said.

While it's hard to generalize about salaries and benefits statewide - they vary depending on the time contracts were signed - the UFW notes that before the union struck the Delano grape country, workers were getting about 85 cents to $1 an hour as they had for about 15 years.

Today, Delano area workers get $3.54 an hour. They also have medical plans, pensions, vacations, holidays and employer contributions to an economic development fund that pays for clinics and educational programs.

Today, Chavez is trying to win back through elections 30 of 31 contracts now expired that it lost to the Teamsters in Coachella four years ago.

OPERATION WISHBONE EFFECTIVE

War Continues Against Border Dope Dealers

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

MCALLEN (AP) — A battle has been won, but the war against dope dealers along the Rio Grande is still raging, says a top law enforcement official.

Law officers swept through this portion of South Texas last week, armed with 16 indictments naming 62 alleged drug violators.

"We disrupted a lot of heroin and marijuana operations, but we haven't stamped out the drug traffic in this area . . . We still have a long way to go," said Don Smith, the special agent in charge of the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) office in this border city. "We have gotten 50 of the 62 persons named in the indictments. The mop-up operation now in progress should give us about six more within the next couple of days."

Operation Wishbone concentrated on Starr County, a sparsley populated area bordering the Rio Grande known as a hot-bed of smuggling activity.

"We aren't naive enough to think we wiped out all the dope dealers in Starr County," Smith said Thursday. "But we wanted operation Wishbone to have a three-fold effect.

"First of all, we want to disrupt the major operations in South Texas. Secondly, we want to show the leaders of those organizations that they can-and-will-be arrested.

Twenty-nine of the 62 persons named in the indictments were alleged "class one violators," said Smith meaning they are capable of delivering quality marijuana and heroin in large amounts on a regular basis.

"Starr County is one of, if not the major transshipment point along the entire Southwest border," said Smith. "We know of 15 major smuggling operations in the county and there may be as many as 20 or 25.

"There is an interrelationship between the two largest confiscations of marijuana made in this state [illegible] Starr County operations," he continued referring to the busts made in Donna, Tex., another Rio Grande Valley town where officers discovered 17,790 pounds of marijuana last December stored in a house and two months later, stopped two large trucks transporting 18,120 pounds just outside the city limits.

The [illegible] was headed out of South Texas theorized officers, via U.S. Highway 281, nicknamed the "Marijuana Highway" or "Pot Pavement."

Operation Wishbone also spawned arrests in other Texas cities and in California, Georgia and Tennessee.

"Operation Wishbone actually began on Jan. 1," said Smith. "Since that time, we have confiscated about 79,000 pounds of marijuana, 3½ to four kilos of heroin, 130 games of cocaine, 7,000 dosage units of drugs pills, capsules, 17 vehicles, eight weapons and made 110 arrests.

Smith credited the Department of Public Safety's 33-man task force, U.S. Customs, the Border Patrol and "especially the Mexican Federal Judicial Police" for Operation Wishbone's success.

"We named it operation Wishbone because a wishbone has two sides that can be pinched together. We felt we could effectively pinch several major operations if we worked together with the Mexican authorities. They have been a tremendous help."

Fire Death Is Being Probed

CANTON (AP) — Fire destroyed a trailer home Thursday in the Oakland community, near here in East Texas, and Michael Grieger, 19, died from inhaling smoke, authorities said.

State and county officers reported they were investigating a possibility of foul play.

ENLISTS—Susan L. Hembree has enlisted for three years in the Texas National Guard and has been attached to the Snyder unit as a clerk-typist. Her husband, PV2 David R. Hembree is a member of the Snyder National Guard, having enlisted last November for six years, and will depart May 8 for active duty. Capt. Don Vineyard, commander of the local unit, is shown administering the oath to Mrs. Hembree.

Humphrey To Retire In '82

NEW YORK (AP)–Sen. Hubert Humphrey says he rejected advice to "Be tougher and get mean" in his losing race for Senate Majority Leader in January because "we don't need any more toughies and meanies in politics."

Humphrey, who recently had his cancerous bladder removed, also said in an interview in the May issue of McCall's magazine that he will retire from politics when his current term expires in 1982 so that he can "write and reflect."

The Minnesota Democrat, who will be 66 on May 27, said the operation "made me realize how fragile life is....I have dreams and hopes, but I'm a realist. This is a rough one...Humphrey, loser of the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination to John F. Kennedy and the 1968 presidential election to Richard M. Nixon, was defeated in the race for Senate majority leader by Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia.

learning by earning

We have only the greatest respect for parents who demand that their children earn their spending money or allowances. It seems that far too many parents simply dole out whatever funds are necessary for the occasion.

A news report out of California this week was distressing in the fact that four youngsters in one family who were learning something about the private enterprise system are now about to learn a hard lesson about Big Brother and all its maze of regulations.

It seems that the Cessna children formed a Kidco, Inc. firm to sell manure off the family ranch. The children, ages 9 to 14, have been ordered to appear before the California Board of Equalization and explain why the firm has no permit to sell manure.

The enterprising youngsters got the business bug about a year ago when they contracted to sweep six main streets in the Country Estates for $150 a month.

They then branched out by contracting with their father, to remove manure and wood shavings. After composting the mixture, the product is sold to landscapers and the local golf course for fertilizer.

In addition, the young entrepreneurs offer a service to rid customers of gophers at the rate of $1 each.

The state board got interested when it found out that the kids' best month of sales exceeded $3,000. We say hooray for the kids, and we hope that the father was also sharp enough to influence the children about savings and prudent spending.

Learning how to work and to accept responsibility is a trait that far too many youngsters never have the opportunity to learn. Responsibility, of course, means living within the law, but we doubt that anyone ever dreamed that the children could do so well in the free enterprise system.

For those who mow lawns, trim hedges, wash cars, walk dogs, sit children, dip ice cream, etc.–we tip our hats. Those who simply want a free ride are likely to never change that attitude as adults.

parents denied rights

There was no particular surprise to a Supreme Court stand last Monday to refuse review of a lower court decision on the challenge to a desegregation plan for the Midland Independent School District.

The justices let stand a U.S. 5th Circuit Court decision denying the parents' request for an order blocking the desegregation plan. The parents' petition was denied without comment.

What did concern us about the outcome was the argument used by the Justice Department in opposing the petition. The Justice Department successfully argued that the parents of children in the Midland school district were not parties to the lawsuit which led to the desegregation plan and had no standing to challenge it in court now.

It seems a shame to us that parents of children affected by bureaucratic decrees and court ruling have no right to argue for what they feel is best for their children.

railroads welcome program

NEW YORK (AP) Struggling for 30 years with an over-capacity problem, the railroad industry was one of the few that greeted President Carter's energy program with undiluted glee.

The reason: The program calls for increased coal production and, says William H. Dempsey president of the Association of American Railroads, "There is nothing we do better than hauling coal."

To the railroads, coal is gold.

While other industries view the energy challenge as a potential if not certain restraint on their growth, the railroads see it as their salvation. Coal makes up 20 per cent of its traffic. Now it seems bound to grow.

Even before Carter posed the challenge in his energy message the railroads were commiting themselves to the future of coal, adding in the past three years some 48,000 special cars costing between $25,000 and $30,000 each.

To the railroads, coal also is a neat business. Whereas many rail shipments require boxcars to be dropped off at various sites over a period of several days, some coal trains never are broken up.

Instead, a 150-unit train might run from minehead to utility or port and back again on a regular basis without ever being disconnected or rerouted. No problems, no damage claims, no downtime and none of the confusion that often leads to lost cars.

"There is nothing we handle so well with so few cars at such reasonable levels of profits," says Dempsey, eager to convince people that just as in a real war, the railroads are eager to serve in the nation's moral equivalent.

With fixed costs accounting for 20 per cent of expenses, any increase in rail traffic compounds itself on the income statement. While making no promises, Dempsey suggests coal could serve to keep down costs for other shippers too.

Prepared for their opportunity, and anxious not to lose it, the railroads can shower statistics down upon the subject.

The President's energy goal of a two-third increase in annual coal production by 1985, while seemingly formidable, would require only an 8 per cent average annual increase over 1977 production, says Dempsey.

This, he points out, would mean a total rail traffic growth rate of less than 3 per cent a year.

"By way of comparison," he notes, "railroads handled a 5 per cent traffic increase in 1972 and an unexpected 10 per cent gain the next year, for two all-time records."

No problem with time either, says Dempsey. "The elapsed time between the order of a new car or locomotive and its delivery currently is about three to five months. And rail can be delivered in 90 days."

The trouble for the railroads is that not everyone believes them. "People have the Penn Central syndrome," said one railroadman, referring to the bankruptcy of the nation's biggest line after several years of poor service.

There is a feeling among some people, including those who can influence legislation, that the nation shouldn't entrust the energy challenge to an industry that has been merely surviving with individual exceptions.

And there is the fear among some railroad people that officials in the Federal Energy Administration hold to the view that the more transportation the better, a view that could pose problems for the railroads.

Currently being considered by Congress is a coal pipeline act that would grant pipeline companies the right of eminent domain. If passed, it could lead to a proliferation of pipelines and cut into the rails' business.

While enactment of the bill faces may obstacles, one of them being the fact that pipelines depend on much needed water supplies, the railroad people aren't taking chances. They're out to win approval from the public.

Challenging claims of detractors, Dempsey declares "I welcome the opportunity to state unequivocally that this premise simply is not true."

The U.S. troops in Europe during World War I were known as the American Expeditionary Forces.

GOOD OL' DAYS

Remember when a gallon of gas cost less than a quarter? Fifty years ago we Americans certainly had an easy life. Back then, when you pulled your money clip and handed over your hard-earned crisp dollar bill, you knew you'd get most of it back in change.

Why, in those days, a fellow could pick up a pound of coffee for a measly 43 cents, step over to the cobbler's shop for a new pair of shoes at about four dollars, or dig up that tin box in the backyard, pilfer about $900 of his savings and buy one of Detroits newest and finest autos.

Those were the days!

REALLY??

But wait a minute. Let's look at a few reciprocals. The average fellow may not have had it so good in the Good Ol' Days.

In 1925, to buy that gallon of gasoline, he had to work 22 minutes. Today, 6.6 minutes will get you the same gallon of gas at today's prices, excluding tax.

The spendable average earning in 1925 was $.54 per hour. the average gallon of gas cost $.2009 and $.2220 including tax. In 1950, that same gallon of gas cost only $.2008 and $.2676 including tax, while the average spendable earning per hour rose to $1.39.

In 1975, the average price of a gallon of gas cost $.4503 and $.5677 with tax, representing a 256 per cent increase. The average hourly earning was up to $4.07.

A new car 50 years ago would have taken 41.5 weeks to purchase while one today would take 26.5 weeks. A gas range in 1925 would have taken 138 hours of average annual wages to purchase while it takes only 61.5 hours today.

A dozen oranges would have taken 49 minutes to purchase back then while only 19 minutes today. A dozen eggs would have taken 53 minutes compared to 13 today.

Were the "Good Ol' Days really that good?

PROGRESS

As if the unprecedented growth being seen in our local building industry isn't proof enough that we're expanding, the hospital is looking to a $3.25 million expansion of its facilities.

When many cities are being hard-pressed to find enough doctors to fill existing hospital bed capacity, we don't have enough bed capacity to serve existing doctors. Besides that, hospital administrator Cy Miller predicts an additional three or four new doctors will be practicing here by year's end.

The community now gets a chance to okay a bond issue for the new construction. It should be passed handily and we can then get ready for more building activity and better patient care.

While things are occurring at an unbelievably fast pace, we should take time to try and put into perspective what all this means. Not only are we getting bigger, we're getting better. As our populace grows, so do the services a community needs to offer to guarantee its citizens a quality of life of which to be proud.

Isn't it great to be living in Snyder?

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —The mills at Justice may grind fine, but they are exceeding slow these days.

More than three months into the Carter administration, the department has barely begun to fill dozens of federal judicial and prosecutorial vacancies around the country.

And political considerations, which Carter vowed to remove from the selection process for judges and U.S. attorneys, continue to intrude — emanating, in some instances, from the White House itself.

For years, members of the U.S. Senate have virtually dictated the choice of district court judges and federal prosecutors within their states in a power grab that goes well beyond their constitutional power to confirm presidential nominations.

"To have them doing the naming and the president reduced to advising and consenting is a reversal of the whole constitutional process. It would be nice to get it back where it belongs," said one top Justice Department official.

So far, however, it's business as usual in the selection of U.S. attorneys. Only four have been named by Carter to date. All were commended to the President by Democratic senators. And all have political credentials at least as compelling as their legal qualifications.

In Arizona, Carter chose Phoenix attorney Michael D. Hawkins, chief counsel of the state's Democratic party and campaign director for newly elected Sen. Dennis Deconcini. In western Tennessee, the U.S. attorney's job went to Memphis City Councilman W.J. Michael Cody, who was Carter's Shelby County campaign director in both the primary and general elections last year.

Nominated as the new U.S. attorney for Maine was George J. Mitchell, deputy director of Sen. Edmund Muskie's 1972 presidential campaign and unsuccessful Democratic nominee for governor in 1974. And in South Carolina, the post went to Columbia municipal judge and prosecutor Thomas E. Lydon Jr., who has been active in the campaigns of both Carter and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings.

Despite Carter's campaign promise that judicial and prosecutorial selections would be made strictly on the basis of merit, potential U.S. attorney candidates must receive political clearance from Hamilton Jordan at the White House. There is, however, no similar political check on federal judges.

The Justice Department and the White House are slowly setting up 11-member "merit" commissions in each federal judicial circuit to choose nominees for Court of Appeals vacancies. The first eight commissions (of 13) have now been appointed, although it will be another two months before they begin recommending judicial candidates to Carter.

Our sources report the White House initially sought to stack the membership of these "merit" commissions entirely with "early Carter supporters," backing off only after top Justice Department officials suggested such a move would hardly create confidence in the impartiality of the selection panels.

Bowing to senatorial grumblings, the administration will not attempt to set up merit commissions to nominate federal district court judges — although it is encouraging senators to do so voluntarily. Lawmakers have accepted the invitation in only eight of the 50 states, and only two new district judges (of more than 20 vacancies) have been nominated by Carter so far. Both are from Florida, where the two senators have a merit commissin to screen nominees.

The two judges and four U.S. attorneys are the only nominations sent to Capitol Hill thus far. "Usually we'd have 50 to 60 by this time, especially at the start of a new administration," a Senate Judiciary Committee source told us.

housing plans eyed

Each year, the average price of a new or existing house creeps higher by a few thousand dollars, placing homeownership beyond the reach of more and more Americans, particularly young couples just starting out.

No end to housing inflation is in sight, and nobody seems to have any good ideas on how to stop it or even slow it down. But if you can't lick inflation, there are ways of working around it, and housing and banking industry people, as well as government officials, are coming up with a number of ideas aimed at giving would-be homebuyers at least a toehold in the housing market.

One "alternative mortgage" plan being talked about by financial institution loan officers would let homebuyers pay only the interest on their mortgage for the first five years of a loan to keep monthly payments as low as possible in the beginning. Payments would jump in the fifth year, but in the meantime the family's income would presumably also have increased.

A similar plan, which is already being experimented with by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, allows homebuyers to start payments on FHA mortgages at a lower than normal level, then gradually increase them for 10 years before levelling off.

Yet another approach is contained in legislation that has been introduced in Congress by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass. Under this proposal, a future homebuyer could accumulate up to $10,000 toward a downpayment on a home in an Individual Housing Account. Taxes on the interest earned by the account would be deferred until the home it was used to buy was eventually sold.

This is similar to the tax-deferred Individual Retirement Accounts workers without company pensions are not permitted to build, except that it is designed for the early years of life rather than the later years.

According to the president of one savings and loan company in Washington, testifying on the proposal before the Senate Banking Committee, the Individual Housing account "is one of the most powerful incentives I can imagine for thrift and homeownership."

None of these ideas would make homeownership any less expensive in the long run, but they do hold out the promise of making it more possible for more people.

VFW Sets Loyalty Day Observance

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8231 and its Ladies Auxiliary have announced that Loyalty Day will be observed Sunday, May 1.

This date is designated as Loyalty Day by an Act of Congress and has been observed annually since 1958.

"Nobody knocks success, and Loyalty Day has certainly stolen the thunder from the communists and their May Day rallies," VFW spokesmen said. "But the fight against these subversives is a never-ending one. If we become careless and drop our guard, we will all live to regret it.

"The ideals and concepts of our forefathers have long endured and have forged these states into the strongest and greatest nation the world has ever known, but we need a tremendous resurgence of good, old fashioned, red, white and blue patriotism on a daily basis if we are to continue to endure as free people. We veterans will never forget that we are one nation, under God, and are willing to fight to protect our free nation."

GOD'S PILLARS

Wherever Christians are being tried and tested, they are also being ripened and cured. They are like great trees that, having been cut down, are transported to a mill. At the mill they are put on the great saw and trimmed on all four sides. Now they are no longer trees, they are called timbers. Sawed and shaped, they are ready to be used by the builder to support great weight—steadfastly!

So God makes pillars for His Temple. Great souls are sawed asunder by the sorrows of life—shaped by sadness, and hewn by humiliation and tears.

In their own commonplace and homely way they have allowed their earthly experiences to make them into great weight-bearing timbers and beams to be used in the building of His kingdom here on earth!

Senate Plan Better For Teachers

AUSTIN (AP)-A Senate subcommittee proposal on teacher pay raises would be lower than proposed percentage increases for other state employes but higher than the increases in a House-passed bill.

And the Senate version would put a greater premium on longevity.

Teachers' salaries would be raised 5.1 and 3.4 per cent over the next two years under the proposal discussed Thursday by the Senate Education Subcommittee.

That compares with proposed increases of 6.8 and 5.1 per cent for other state employe

But the Senate proposal, which would cost the state $320 million, includes increases for the 11th and 12th years of teaching experience. The top scale today is 10 years.

Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, dean of the Senate and longtime expert on school financing (he co-authored the Gilmer-Aikin bill of 1949) asked what it would cost the state to give teachers the same percentage increases as other state employes.

Raymond Bynum of the Texas Education Agency said it would cost $411 million.

Committee Chairman Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, told the staff last week the salary increase had to be held to $320 million or less.

A House-passed bill would cost the state $260 million in teacher pay increases.

Arizona Man Is Killed Near Odessa

ODESSA (AP) — An auto accident northwest of here in West Texas killed John Talamantez, 20, of Tucson, Ariz., Thursday.

Officers said the vehicle ran off the right side of farm Road 1053, swerved back to the left and rolled over, halting upside down. Talamantez was pinned inside.

A companion, Jimmy Martinez, 23, also of Tucson, was treated at Crane County Memorial Hospital and dismissed.

Study Panel Suggests Guides On Mailing Lists

WASHINGTON (AP) — You aren't just Occupant or Resident to those bulk mailers who have you on their lists. You're an "inquisitive kid" or "a black activist" or some other type.

A government commission says you should be told before someone peddles a list with your name and "label" on it.

The Privacy Protection Study Commission is recommending that the direct mail industry set voluntary guidelines to prevent mailing lists from being sold without permission of the persons on the list.

If that doesn't work, federal and state laws may be needed later to deal with sales of mailing lists, the commission's chairman, David F. Linowes, said Thursday.

But he noted, "There are First Amendment problems in limiting communication with others."

It is common practice for organizations to sell their lists of customers, members or donors to other groups, Linowes said.

"People keep wondering, "How did I get on that mailing list?" Well, they ought to be told," he said in a speech to a conference of the Direct Mail Marketing Association.

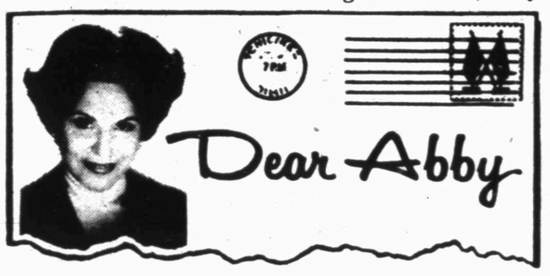

There is an inch-and-a-half thick catalog available to mailers giving the names of the various lists available, Linowes said. "Inquisitive kids" and "black activists" are among the titles of the lists, which give mass mailers some assurance that they are mailing thier comeons to someone who is known to be interested in a specific pitch.

"If your name is on such a list, you can get tagged forever with that sort of identification. And you probably won't even know about it,"Linowes said.

Some direct mailers are beginning to send forms to those on their mailing lists allowing them to say if they don't want their name and other information about them turned over to others, he noted.

Other organizations have promised to remove any person's name from a mailing list on request.

Linowes said the commission would recommend in its report to Congress in June that such voluntary actions be expanded.

Can't Stand Sound of Late Wife's Bird

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Last year, around this time, my wife and I would be awakened every morning by a mockingbird who sat on the wire behind our house singing its heart out.

My wife just loved to hear that bird. She even recorded his singing and played it back often.

Now my dear wife is dead, and that bird is back, and every morning when I awake to the sound of that mockingbird, it brings back memories that just break my heart.

I love all of God's creatures just as my lovely wife did, but I must either destroy that bird or I will surely go out of my mind.

I tried to shoo it away, but it comes back every morning. Is there another way to get rid of it?

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Please don't destroy that bird. Your wife would have wanted it to live a full life. Perhaps some kind of scarecrow will do the trick. If there's another way, I'm sure my bird lovers will write in and let me know.

DEAR ABBY: In your column, which I read each day with amusement, you refer quite often to husbands who are philanderers.

Did it ever occur to you that these fellows are that way because they have a Frigidaire in the kitchen and a "Frigid Dear" in the bedroom?

"COULD-BE"

DEAR "COULD": There's no such thing as a "Frigid Dear"—only clumsy men.

DEAR ABBY: I had a terrible experience yesterday and I would like your opinion.

I was shopping in a department store when a saleslady offered to help me.

I said, "Thank you, I'm just looking," and then I proceeded to look at some sale merchandise out on the counter, and the saleslady disappeared.

I found several things I wanted, but the salesperson who had approached me was nowhere in sight, so since I was in a hurry, I handed my merchandise to another salesperson who was standing near me.

Suddenly No. 1 saleslady appeared, and when she saw No. 2 writing up my sale, she ran to her, tore my merchandise out of her hand and said, "She was MY customer!"

Then No. 2 gave No. 1 a shove, and it soon developed into a hair-pulling brawl! Other store personnel came running, and it took two women and a man to separate them.

What I want to know is this: Just because that saleslady offered to help me, did that make me "her" customer?

Nobody really waited on me, I found what I want myself.

STILL SH

DEAR SHOOK: Her offer of help did NOT m "her" customer, and since she was nowhere i write up the sale, it was your right to a salesperson to do so.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelop rsonal 90069.

Shell Chief Has Doubts About Plan

HOUSTON (AP)-The president of Shell Oil Co. says emphasis on energy conservation without sufficient supplies leaves "no room for error" in President Carter's energy program.

John F. Bookout said Thursday if voluntary conservation efforts fail and new domestic reserves remain unexplored, the nation will find itself more than ever dependent on oil imports.

Bookout spoke at Shell's annual meeting, during which stockholders aproved a two-for-one stock split effective May 16 to shareholders of record May 6.

He expressed doubt that some of Carter's energy conservation proposals can be achieved within the specified time frame.

"Also, we are concern the proposals do not g enough," he said.

National Safety Council

National Disaster Survival Test Set

CHICAGO,--The National Safety Council has offered free additional information on disaster survival to all those who take the National Disaster Survival Test, it was announced here today by Vincent L. Tofany, Council president. He said all people have to do is send their completed Official Test Form to the Council, with their names and addresses indicated.

"The National Disaster Survival Test itself will provide people with a wealth of useful information for preventing disaster-related accidents," Tofany said. "Our follow-up printed piece, however, will provide additional details, and can be used as a reference long after the program is over."

The National Disaster Survival Test will be telecast Sunday at 7 p.m. on NBC as a 90-minute "Big Event." It is being produced for NBC by Warren V. Bush Productions in cooperation with the National Safety Council. The Council expects approximately 20 million people to participate in the Test.

"We anticipate great interest in the program because the National Disaster Survival Test will be concerned with all types of safety--public, home, industrial, and even traffic--all within the context of disasters." Tofany said. "Most accidents associated with disasters can be prevented, if only people knew what to do. The Test is designed to provide people with that information."

Persons who have appeared on all three national networks will appear on the National Disaster Survival Test. Host of the Test will be Tom Snyder of NBC's Tomorrow Show. Co-hosts include journalists Shana Alexander (CBS's 60 Minutes), John Amos (ABC's Roots), and Kate Jackson (ABC's Charley's Angels) and astronaut Wally Schirra.

Tofany will provide amplification for the answers to be given on the program, and Frank Stanton, chairman and principal officer of the American National Red Cross and former president and then vice chairman of CBS, will also appear.

The National Disaster Survival Test is patterned after the award winning National Drivers Test that first appeared on CBS in 1965. That program attracted more than 50 per cent of the entire viewing audience in its time period, and won the coveted Peabody award. It was produced and written by the same Warren Bush whose company is producing the National Disaster Survival Test.

To generate participation in the program, the National Safety Council has distributed masters of the Official Test Form throughout the Council's entire membership, encouraging all members and friends to duplicate from the master. The Council has also invited newspapers across the country to run the Official Test Form. In all, more than 50 million Test forms will be distributed to Americans, the Council says.

DEAR READER — thoughtful advice is be passed on. Many people nee to train the bowel. Part of that training program is to eat a reasonable breakfast that would include at least two glasses of liquid.

The breakfast and liquid stimulate a natural reflex and when you learn to use this reponse you can avoid the useless and often harmful laxatives that are so commonly used.

A good thing to eat at breakfast with this program is one of the cereal products that contains bran.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. You may not need it but you may be able to share the information with friends and help them too. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you please tell me something about kidney infections. Last year my doctor diagnosed my illness as acute pylitis. He said it was a kidney infection. The doctor gave me antibiotics and I was cured. Is it possible for a kidney infection to reoccur?

Lately my urine is cloudy, particularly at night before I go to bed and in the morning it seems fine again. I've also had a dull pain in my back, but the pain is not severe at all. Should I go to the doctor and find out if I do have a kidney infection again or is it nothing to worry about? I'm 16 years old.

DEAR READER — The only way a urinary tract infection can be diagnosed is by examining a specimen of urine. Yes, you should go see your doctor.

A mild dull pain may be associated with a dropped kidney or an infection. An infection may also increase the leakage of albumin. Phosphates and other chemicals can also make your urine cloudy.

'Jointed' Buses Due In U.S.

DETROIT (AP)-European type articulated buses- the kind that bend in the middle- should begin hitting the streets of American cities early next year, says the only U.S. producer of the vehicles.

AM General, a subsidiary of American Motors Corp., said Thursday that a $2 million expansion to make room for the new bus is underway at its Marshall, Tex., assembly plant, and should be completed by August.

Cruse Moss, president of AM General, said $70 million worth of initial orders for 392 articulated buses - about $178,600 per vehicle - have been placed by transit authorities in Seattle, Oakland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Chicago, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, St. Paul, Phoenix and Washington.

He said deliveries from the Marshall plant are scheduled to begin early next year and be completed by 1979.

Moss said the buses, which seat up to 70 persons, can maneuver better in congested traffic because they are able to bend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you have authority over others, wield it wisely today. Should you act tyrannically, you'll feel bad about it later.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Assume no financial commitments on behalf of someone else today. It could turn into a costly mess for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Make do with what you have, rather than borrow. What you get today is likely to make you feel unduly obligated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have problems with others today, be honest about who caused them. It's possible you could be more to blame.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Work and responsibilities may be swept under the rug today because you're more pleasure-bent than duty-conscious. They won't go away.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) To further yourself, you may be tempted to gamble on something today you know little about. Your customary caution would serve you better.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your mate may rekindle an old grievance today. It's best to wait until you're both calm to work it out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do your part to keep the household budget in line today. If your mate wants something you can't afford, try to talk him out of it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Companions you usually get along well with could be miffed today if they feel you are taking them for granted. Watch yourself!
