FRIEND FROM ACROSS THE SEA — Ex-Seabee John Tabor stands in the courtyard of Roman Catholic seminary in Saigon where the 28-year-old American is studying for the priesthood. Too busy with theology exams to take much notice when the last GIs left for the U.S., Tabor will be ordained into the diaconate in a few weeks, as Duong Tan Bang, which means "friend from across the sea."

'HOUSEWIVES CAN'T TAKE ANY MORE'

Wholesale Prices Soar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices soared 2.2 per cent in March, posting for the second month in a row the sharpest climb in 22 years, the government reported today.

The surge in prices, led by a 4.6 per cent jump in the wholesale costs of farm products and processed foods, offered no letup in consumer prices at the retail level for at least the next several months. It also forecast further troubles for President Nixon's efforts to curb inflation.

NEARLY EVERYTHING

Industrial commodities shot up 1.2 per cent last month, the steepest rate since January 1951. Wholesale prices of finished manufactured goods jumped 2.1 per cent, a rate unmatched since August 1951, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor statistics said.

Nearly everything in the government's wholesale prices index was up, with processed foods rising 4.6 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis, the highest rate on record.

Big increases were posted for livestock, poultry, eggs, petroleum products, lumber and various textile products.

The continued rise in prices seems virtually certain to bring further pressure on the administration to clamp tighter controls on the economy. Nixon last week put a ceiling on meat prices but organized labor and congressional Democrats are pressing for even further controls.

MORE CONTROLS

The House Banking Committee has approved a bill to roll back prices, interest rates and rents to the levels of Jan. 10.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said the latest figures "are proof positive that all food prices must be controlled stringently and at once."

"America's housewives, consumers and workers can't take any more, " Meany said in a statement.

Socialite Telling Of 60 Hours Held By Kidnapers

DALLAS (AP) — "I was scared. I was absolutely terrified," Amanda Dealey testified today as she told of the 60 hours she was held by kidnapers in December.

She was the star witness in the trial of the Ransonette brothers, accused of abducting the slim blonde and holding her until $250,000 ransom was paid.

Mrs. Dealey related she was seized by a man as she alighted from her car in the parking lot of her apartment.

GET IN CAR

"Get in the car or I'll blow your ass off," she quoted the man, saying he displayed a revolver.

"I got in the car," she said.

In the automobile was a second man. Her glasses were pulled from her face and were replaced with glasses so blackened that she couldn't see.

Asked if she could identify the man who accosted her, Mrs. Dealey pointed to Woodrow Ransonette and declared, "Yes, sir. I'll never forget him."

Mrs. Dealey is the daughter-in-law of Joe M. Dealey, president of the Dallas Morning News and daughter of Charles Mayhew, wealthy retired industrialist.

BECAME DIZZY

Wearing gold-rimmed glasses and a two-piece tweed suit, she told today that she was taken to a house which she described as bitterly cold.

Her hands were handcuffed behind her and she was left standing facing a wall.

She said that "on high heels and everything" she became dizzy and asked to sit. They told her there were no chairs but allowed her to sit on the bathroom commode.

"I just sat there absolutely terrified," she said. "I was trying to imagine what they wanted. I didn't think Joe owed these men money." Joe is her husband, and the man who accosted her said she was being taken because Joe owed them a debt.

Mrs. Dealey said Woodrow fetched an electric blanket and a pillow and made a bed on the floor. He slept beside her, "his feet in my face," she testified.

On cross-examination, Mrs. Dealey said she could not definitely identify Franklin, the other brother on trial, as one of her kidnapers.

She identified pictures of an apartment which testimony has shown was rented by Woodrow.

YOU'RE SICK

Mrs. Dealey said that on the second day she had an attack of vomiting and Woodrow told her, "I've done this thousands of times before the women always get sick. You're just sick."

From time to time, she said, she heard Woodrow turning the cylinder of his pistol and this frightened her.

She lay awake the second night wondering what could be going on.

"At this point, I knew it must be a kidnaping," she said, and "I really didn't know how much longer I'd be able to live or what."

She had only one cup of chicken noodle soup as food each day.

On the night of the third day of her captivity, Mrs. Dealey said, Woodrow got excited, said someone was coming and he'd have to tie meup.

HARD TIME

Her hands now were cuffed in front of her and Woodrow now handcuffed them behind her. He bound her legs with tape and tied her hands to her feet with cord so she couldn't move at all. He stuffed gauze into her mouth and taped it in place.

"I had a cough and had a hard time breathing at all," she said.

Woodrow later brought another man whom she couldn't see and held up her left hand.

"Then he told me to take off my engagement ring. I had a hard time because my hands were swollen. I hoped they would leave me my wedding ring but they took that too," she testified.

Hopes To Spend Rest Of His Life In Viet

SAIGON (AP) — Former Seabee John Tabor was too busy to notice the last GIs departing. He is staying home — in Vietnam — and he has theology exams coming up.

Tabor, 28, wants to spend the rest of his life here as a Roman Catholic priest.

"I guess I won't have so many chances to talk with Americans now," he says, "but I didn't do that much talking with Americans anyway. I'm not here for the Americans. I'm here to help the Vietnamese."

Seven years ago Tabor wound up his third Vietnam tour, took off his U.S. Navy uniform, donned a black cassock and entered St. Joseph's Seminary in Saigon.

SON OF CARPENTER

Tabor, son of a carpenter, was brought up in "a very strong Catholic family" in Jaffrey, N.H. His English now is like a dark room, littered with bad grammar and GI slang. He stumbles in a rush of thoughts, keeps lapsing into smooth, cultured Vietnamese and tosses his head to make it go away for the moment.

In a few weeks he will be ordained into the deaconate as Duong Tan Bang, which means Friend from Across the Sea. One more year and he joins his diocese at Da Nang, the northern port city where he felt the call.

Tabor first arrived in Vietnam in 1963 with a Seabee well-drilling team. He remembers his first night at Da Nang, camped in a transport plane with his drilling rig, looking out across a temporary airstrip that a few years later would be the focus of a 40,000-man U.S. air base. There was a Vietnamese guard with a helmet almost down to his shoulders.

Heaviest Casualties

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government today reported the heaviest ground action since the cease-fire Jan. 28, with more than 200 casualties. Military sources claimed that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were "probing" in preparation for a major offensive.

The government reported Communist infantry and artillery attacks on four positions west of Hue, in the central highlands, in the Cambodian border area 50 miles north of Saigon and in the Mekong Delta.

The heaviest casualties were reported in two days of fighting around a government position five miles southeast of Cai Lay, in the northern Mekong Delta. The government said 27 government troops and 39 of the Communists were killed, 69 government men were wounded and eight civilians in the town were wounded by Communist artillery fire.

A heavy government toll also was reported in the central highlands in an attack on the outskirts of the Than Giao base camp 18 miles southwest of Pleiku. The Saigon command said Communist infantry, moving under cover of an artillery barrage, overran a ranger outpost. Thirty-four of the rangers were reported missing and 51 were wounded.

Long Election At Beeville

BEEVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Forty-one hours and still counting.

The polls opened at 7 a.m. and Beeville residents cast 3,810 ballots to fill three vacancies on the city council, decide whether to adopt five propositions and offer their opinions on a four-part animal referendum.

All the votes finally were counted just after midnight today.

Dr. Dudley Braly and John Galloway were re-elected to the city council and Ronald Hardy was elected to his first term.

Former councilmen Bernie Sandoval, former Beeville mayor Umberto Saenz and newspaper editor Fred Chapa were defeated.

Deposits Will Be Asked For Room

The Organizational Affairs Council of the Chamber of Commerce voted Wednesday to require a $5 deposit on use of the Chamber meeting room by outside organizations.

Ron Mercer, Chamber manager, explained that members of some organizations which had in the past been allowed to use the meeting room free of charge had left the room in a disorderly condition after using it.

"If the room is left in an orderly condition after the meetings, the $5 deposit will be returned to the organization. Otherwise, the Chamber will keep it," Mercer said.

Wandering Autoist Creases Yard Here

Daves reported to city police that a motorist apparently U-turned at the intersection by coming up on the curb, across his front yard and over the top of the gas meter, knocking it off. The inventive motorist left the scene.

Texas Star Won't Appear April 8

Texas Star Magazine, the Austin-based publication which has been a regular part of Sunday's edition of The Herald for 98 weeks, will not be included in the April 8 paper because printing has been suspended temporarily.

Gordon Fulcher, editor and publisher of the supplement, said he is optimistic that publication can be resumed at an early date.

Salter's Salary Upped To $28,500 At College

By MARJ CARPENTER

Dr. Thomas Salter was complimented by the board of directors at Howard County Junior College, and granted a three-year extension of his contract, and a raise to $28,500 per year in their monthly luncheon meeting here Wednesday.

In other action the board raised the semester dorm rates to $125 per semester, granted discriminatory regulations at the girls dorms, approved a new position of guidance counselor and approved new dishes for the cafeteria and advertising for the cafeteria food service contract for next year.

The board, at the conclusion of their business session, requested Dr. Salter to leave while they discussed his contract. They agreed that they wanted to discuss his contract prior to the next meeting when he will make recommendations on other administrators.

PLEASED

All of the board members concurred that they had been extremely pleased with his services as the new president of the college, and of his public relations in the state and the community. Dr. P. W. Malone, charter member of the board, made the motion in connection with the contract extension and it was passed by acclamation, with all board members present.

Dr. Salter told the board "I am overwhelmed and deeply appreciative. My wife and I are happy in Big Spring and I enjoy working with the people at the college. They are nice and eager and work hard."

In other business, the board faced the reality of HEW regulations which state that girl's and boy's dorms cannot have discriminatory regulations.

HEW has forced removal of regulatory hours at dormitories in schools throughout the United States, since federal funds may be removed if the schools do not comply. In the case of HCJC, this would include from $300,000 to $400,000 in work-study programs, federal loans and other grants.

The board was presented a suggestion by Tony Wynn, vice president of the college, which followed a study of other colleges in the area including Snyder, Odessa and Texas Tech. The board granted placing the girl's dormitories on self-regulatory hours.

STILL LOCKED

The dorm will still be locked and will not maintain open housing, but a security guard will let the girl into the dorm at the hour she sees fit. The door will be locked behind her. The decision was made regretfully by many members of the board, who preferred dorm hours.

The board recommended purchasing 50 dinnerware pieces for the college cafeteria, to replace dishes bought when the cafeteria was opened. The item was presented by Ralph Smith, business manager.

They also vetoed a decision to place a sprinkler system in the gymnasium after it was discovered that it would take 24 years to break even on insurance savings and decided that "The building would be obsolete by that time."

They also mentioned the possibility if somebody setting off the sprinkler system and ruining the gym floor.

The board approved setting up a position of vocational guidance counselor which would be funded by state funds. Applications will be accepted, including applications from faculty members already in the system.

CHARGES INCREASED

The board increased the dorm charge per semester by $12.50 per student to a total cost for a semester of $125. This was the first raise in the dorm rates since the dorms opened. The board agreed that the higher cost of utilities, upkeep, repairs and dormitory help caused them to have to raise the rates to break even.

The board also recommended advertising for bids for student food service for the coming year and authorized the administration to approve the best bid.

Board members present included Harold Davis, Donald McKinney, Jimmy Taylor, Dr. Charles Warren, Paul Adams, K. H. McGibbon, chairman and Dr. Malone.

Coca-Cola Firm Bottles Million Plus Cases Here

Note: This is one of several stories focusing attention on local industries printed in connection with Big Spring's "Salute to Industry Week."

Over a million cases of Coke, Fresca, Tab, Sunrise Orange and Sunrise Grape are bottled and distributed by Coca-Cola Bottling Co. in Big Spring each year.

One of three local plants open for public tours this week as part of "Salute to Industry Week" sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the bottling company employs 34 persons with an annual payroll of around $250,000.

Some 280 bottles a minute are filled and are then distributed to 550 local businesses.

Syrups for Fresca, Orange and Grape are made at the plant while the formula for Coca-Cola itself is shipped in in 54-gallon barrels.

In the bottling process, empty bottles are placed on a conveyer belt where they are washed, inspected, filled with syrup and water, capped and dated.

Seven route trucks distribute the bottled drinks locally. The plant also serves nine trucks in Midland and four in Lamesa. Two service men serve 800 vendors in the area.

The present 60,000 square foot plant on West Highway 80 was built in 1952. Before that, the company had operated since 1918 on East Third Street.

Heading up the 34-member staff are Lowell Jones, manager; Weldon Wood, sales manager; Ordis Walker, service manager; Marshel Searcy, production manager; and Wanda Jones, office manager.

Walker has been with the company 38 years and Wood for 35 years.

Nixonites Oppose Move To Bar Aid To Red Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration leadership in the Senate today opposed a move to bar any aid to North Vietnam without specific approval of Congress.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee in the Senate, argued that the proposal of Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., Ind-Va., is premature since no aid plan has yet been presented by the administration.

Byrd modified his amendment to a pending dollar devaluation bill to make it clear that the spending ban would apply only to funds heretofore appropriated by the Congress to the Defense Department and other agencies for other purposes.

It would not stop President Nixon from submitting a North Vietnam aid plan later nor its consideration by the Congress, Byrd emphasized.

REGARDLESS

Supporting Byrd, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said that administration spokesmen have said "they're going to provide this aid regardless of what Congress does."

In two lopsided votes Wednesday, the Senate attached to the same bill provisions aimed at curbing presidential impoundment of money and holding federal spending to $268 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1.

"This provides that Congress will retain the power of the purse," Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. said in defending the Democratic package that was rushed to the floor at the urging of Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

President Nixon has asked a budget ceiling of $268.7 billion but he opposes restrictions on impoundment. That is the practice of presidential refusal to spend money appropriated by Congress. This year, Nixon is refusing to spend $12 billion earmarked for such domestic programs as highways, health care and hospital construction.

Senate Republicans argued Ervin's amendments would take away the president's chief inflation-fighting tools without offering anything to replace them.

TOWER TALKS

The effect, said Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., would be to make "the chief executive the chief clerk . . It's a mandate to spend, without regard to efficiency, common sense or economy."

The anti-impoundment provision was adopted on a 70-24 vote; the spending ceiling by an 88-6 margin. Ervin hailed the votes as evidence that Congress "is just as anxious as the President or anyone else for the government to set its financial house in order."

The bill to which the impoundment and spending-ceiling amendments were attached—and to which Byrd hopes to tie his provision barring U.S. aid to the Hanoi government—would formally devalue the dollar as a result of an international monetary crisis in February.

The dollar actually has been devalued already in world trading.

Tradition Is Ended Here

The high price of meat has halted a Big Spring tradition.

Since 1955, Charlie Merritt and his crew have sold barbecue for the Bakers A.M.E. Church at Northwest Tenth and Lancaster.

They sold plate lunches for $1.50 and barbecue at $2 per pound. They always had to estimate how much they would sell each Saturday and try to sell it all that day.

"It's just getting where we can't come out ahead," Merritt stated. "We could put the church more in the hole, instead of helping them raise funds. Inflation has halted the Baker Church weekly barbecues."

Shield Bill Skips Along

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas senators approved a bill today to protect reporters' confidential sources although some questioned how public officials could be protected from newsmen.

The House-approved measure cleared the Senate on a 25-6 vote and now goes back to the House, which must consider the Senate changes.

The Senate also passed to the House 14 bills, all on 31-0 votes, to curb abuses by water districts.

NO DEFENSE

The newsman's "shield" bill would allow a reporter to refuse to divulge sources for a story and to hold onto his notes unless ordered by the Texas Supreme Court.

"What protection does a public official have from an irresponsible reporter? I don't think we ought to create an elite group of people just because they are members of the press," said Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan.

Earlier, Moore murmured that an official "has no defense 'cept to kill him."

Sen. H. J. Blanchard, D-Lubbock, said he thought adopting a "shield" bill could lead to further regulations and ultimately to "the point where you censor what they write."

SECRET DATA

The sponsor, Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said newsmen needed the protection because the U.S. Supreme Court had "pierced" the "shield" with a December 1971 ruling that the constitutional right of free press does not allow reporters to keep their sources secret if an investigative body orders them to tell their sources.

Outlasted Torture Period After Prayer For God's Help

By JEREMIAH A. DENTON Jr., USN
As told to Kathryn Johnson
Associated Press Writer

We had no choice but to formulate our actions according to the code of conduct with the hope that determined men could defeat the North Vietnamese system of torture.

In late 1966, some signs began to indicate that our faith and resistance were starting to demoralize the enemy, causing them to vacillate.

For example, after being tortured in August to rewrite a confession on rough paper just for pure punishment, I was returned to the Pool Room and, for the first time after the amazingly successful prayer for God's help, I outlasted a severe torture period without yielding in any form.

IN TEARS

After the prayer described earlier, in which I no longer experienced any pain, the guard attempting to break me showed increasing remorse and Jim Mulligan later told me that after each session with me the guard would be in tears when he arrived at Jim's room from mine.

He tried to act brutal, but the kid really wasn't like that.

Late in the fifth afternoon of these two 5-day sessions, an officer standing at my door told the young guard to tighten even more on the bars in which my bleeding, swollen legs were tightly rigged.

They came in and started pulling and I just looked up at him with the simple question: "Why?"

NO, NO

Bursting into tears, he dropped the rope and pushed the other guard away, went out the door and screamed in Vietnamese to the officer: "No, no, no!"

I'm almost sure he was telling the officer that it doesn't do any good any more, he is not feeling anything, and you're just tearing him up.

After ten minutes of screaming, the young guard came in and loosened the rope on the iron so that I could get enough play in my legs to get a night's sleep even with the rear cuffs on.

The next day they moved me to a building called "The Gate." My cell had no ventilation, and since irons had swollen my limbs, they left me in mere loose ropes.

I thought "My God, I'm free, I've beaten them for once."

The Vee had given up on me but didn't want the other POWs to know. To save face they had chosen to isolate me.

LEFT ALONE

At The Gate, I was generally left alone and soon had a next-door neighbor, young George Coker, with whom I made elaborate escape plans.

Some of these plans, though impractical for execution at the time, may have helped him with his subsequent actual escape.

George, who knew me before, when he saw me later through a hole in his door, didn't recognize me because I was so thin. He said he thought I weighed less than 120 pounds. When I was shot down, I weighed 165 pounds and I believe this was the low point of my physical condition.

LOST FEELING

Peeking through a crack in my door, I could observe that torture was still proceeding. On the night of Dec. 7, three guards, including Happy, came to my room and gave me the standard rope trick.

After the rope, I tapped to George until I lost feeling, then I sat down until I lost consciousness.

Soon I could hear Happy arguing with the other two guards outside and after about an hour on the ropes, they came in and removed me without a word.

Again, I had beaten them but I attributed this win less to my own endurance than to a weakening of their resolve to risk torturing me to death in my weakened condition. I did develop the confidence that they could never again break me, but later I learned that this was overconfidence.

The next day a much bigger sign came when peeking through my door I saw more than 20 sets of irons and cuffs come in from various buildings around camp and I sensed there had been some sort of major change.

Starting Dec. 9 I was treated like a normal prisoner, except for Solo and I was allowed to wash daily, to have cigarettes again and was no longer in light fetters.

GREAT JOB

I even got a 10-minute exercise period a day.

In late January a large number of prisoners from the Briar Patch, where the same kind of treatment had been going on, was returned to the Zoo, requiring them to move me in with someone else. That man turned out to be my old friend, Jim Mulligan, who was even skinnier than I and had done a great job.

After three days together at the Zoo, Jim, I and many others were moved to Little Vegas (sometimes called Las Vegas). Here I was caught almost immediately communicating with Jim Stockdale and I was moved to a punishment section called the Mint, which has three rooms.

What? City Has No Entry?

Big Spring apparently will have no official representative in the Cow Chip Throwing contest in Odessa this Saturday.

Chambers in some cities are sending official representatives, but the Big Spring Chamber had not even heard about it or received any information about the contest.

Odessa citizens perhaps are afraid that Big Spring can "throw it" further than can the Odessans, although most cities in the Permian Basin are already willing to concede that Odessa probably will produce the champion chip thrower.

It's really a rather smelly situation, but if any citizen wants to take their clothespins and goggles and report in at the Odessa Meteor Crater, they can represent Big Spring. Finalists will go to Beaver, Okla., April 21 for the World Championship.

Certainly, if any individual desires to compete and uphold the honor of Big Spring, the citizens will back them from afar.

Coming from a town with the initials B.S., a chip thrower might go far.

Wedding Bells For Rod Steiger

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Rod Steiger and secretary Sherry Nelson have applied for a marriage license.

Steiger, 47, and Miss Nelson, 36, submitted the application at the Santa Monica County Building on Wednesday. The marriage will be Steiger's fourth and Miss Nelson's third.

No marriage date was announced.

Steiger has appeared in numerous motion pictures, among them "The Pawnbroker," "In the Heat of the Night," and "No Way to Treat a Lady."

She Will Refuse To Pay Fed Taxes

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Singer Joan Baez will refuse to pay part of her federal income taxes again this year to protest military spending even though American troops have left Vietnam, her business manager says.

"She's a pacifist and she's always protested the amount spent on arms," Roy Kepler of Menlo Park, Calif., said Wednesday in a telephone interview.

He said Miss Baez has refused for the past eight years to pay the percentage of her income tax she figures corresponds to the amount of military spending in the federal budget.

In past years, the Internal Revenue Service has collected the amount it figures is owed by Miss Baez, usually by attacking her bank account, he said.

The singer is due to return from a European tour next week and will help him write a letter to the IRS explaining her refusal to pay all her income tax, Kepler said.

Firm Launch Date Booked For Skylab

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Space agency officials set a firm launch date Wednesday for Skylab, the nation's first space station, and for the launch of the first crew that will live and work aboard the house-sized orbiting laboratory.

Skylab, a large craft containing almost 100 experiments, living quarters for astronauts and a solar telescope, will be launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., at 1:30 p.m. (EDT) May 14.

The first crew to live aboard the craft, astronauts Charles Conrad, Dr. Joseph Kerwin and Paul Weitz, will be launched the next day, May 15, "no earlier than 1 p.m. (EDT)," the space agency said.

William C. Schneider, director of the Skylab program, said the launch dates were established after a comprehensive review of the pre-launch work that had been completed and of remaining work.

"Preparations for both launches are currently proceeding very well," he said. "There is still considerable work ahead which may subsequently cause difficulty but the assessment made today is encouraging."

The announcement was the first formal date set for the launch. The space agency had been using "planning dates" of April 30 and May 1 for the two launches, but those dates were moved into the month of May when it was found in January that pre-launch preparations were running about two weeks behind schedule.

Skylab will be lanched into earth orbit and remain there for almost a year.

Conrad, Erwin and Weitz will man the craft for 28 days, working and living in space longer than any other human beings.

Two months after they return to earth, a second three-man crew, Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, will be launched. This crew will live in skylab for 56 days.

A month after the second mission ends, the third and final three-man crew, Gerald P. Carr, Dr. Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, will start another 56-day mission.

The prime purpose of the $2.6 billion Skylab is to determine the effects of living for long periods of time in space. Extensive medical experiments and measurements will be conducted on each of the astronauts.

Crude Boost

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An increase of 25 cents a barrel in the posted price of North Texas and West Central Texas crude oil was announced by Atlantic Richfield Co.

It said the new price of 40-degree API gravity, retroactive to March 21, is $3.81 per barrel, with a differential of two cents per degree of gravity below 40 degrees.

The price was raised to protect the company's source of crude supply, a spokesman said.

PREMARITAL SEX STRONGLY OPPOSED

Family Planning In China

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is another report on medicine in China by AP Science Editor Alton Blakeslee, who recently spent several weeks in the Peoples Republic.)

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NANKING, China (AP) — Late marriage, with premarital sex strongly opposed, is one of the official policies through which the People's Republic of China is trying to limit population growth. China now is the home of about one-third of all the people in the world.

Late marriage has been a strong influence in controlling population growth, said Dr. Li Chio-chen, a leading member of the Ministry of Public Health in charge of family planning, in Peking, and Dr. Lin Chi'iao-chih, 71, a prominent gynecologist who visited the United States last October.

SEX NO-NO

It calls for sexual abstinence among young people during years when sexual desires and fertility are usually high.

"We have to educate young people to pay more attention to their work and studies, and to social morality," the two physicians said through interpreters. "Then their energies are mostly spent."

Family planning, they added, is "a spontaneous desire now of women. They no longer want to be confined to the kitchen. They want to work. In rural areas, the girls wants to compete with the boys and they can't do this if they are always getting pregnant."

NOT NECESSARY

At the Maternity Hospital in Nanking, officials said, "no contraceptives are given to unmarried woman—it is not necessary.

"The law and public opinion are against premarital and extramarital sexual relations," the hospital officials told visiting Americans. There is no written law concerning premarital regulations, but "social and moral pressure are the most effective barriers. Education and criticism come into play if it occurs.

"We take this kind of thing very seriously."

The unmarried girl who becomes pregnant can obtain an abortion upon request, they said, but "she has to obtain a certificate from her parents or from the commune where she works. We attach great importance to morality. The transgressor is criticized by the public."

LITTLE STIMULATION

Exactly what kind of certificate was meant was not explained.

In a discussion earlier of family planning at a workers commune in Peking, we were told that single men were free to buy concoms in a pharmacy, "but they don't."

With girls and young men dressing alike, usually in loose trousers and jackets, and with a total absence of anything like nudity or erotic art or pictures on public display, there is little of the outward sex stimulation that marks some Western countries.

OLD GALS

But affection and romance are apparent in the laughter and comaraderie of young people and among couples holding hands while walking at night along the Bund in Shanghai by the Whangpoo River.

Under a law passed in 1951, two years after the Communist party came to power, the marriage age was 18 for girls (who had once been married off as early as 14 or 29) and 20 for men. Now the custom is about 23 for girls in general and 25 or older for men, but in cities generally girls marry at 25, Dr. Li said.

Infant mortality has come tumbling down dramatically, said the two physicians. Dr. Lin, the gynecologist who speaks excellent English, put it this way, "In remote areas you used to see many pregnant women, but didn't hear the cry of a child. There were no kids playing around."

Before the Communist government took over, the death rate of infants in the first year of life was as much as 200 per 1,000 births in some areas, more than 100 in Peking, and close to 90 in Shanghai, Dr. Li said. Now, in cities it is only a few per cent, she said.

The officials said drastic reductions in infant mortality and in adult death rates from infectious diseases, make effective family planning all the more urgent to prevent staggering population growth.

'BAREFOOT DOCTORS'

In the forefront of education concerning family planning and in distribution of contraceptives are the so-called "barefoot doctors," most of whom wear shoes. They, men and women alike, who have had at least a few months medical training are the first line of medical contact for small groups within production brigades in countryside and city.

They carry the message of the family planning as well as give first aid and vaccinations to prevent diseases. More elaborate educational efforts go on as well, some directed by other agencies or emanating from hospitals like the Maternity Hospital in Nanking.

Contraceptive pills and sterilizations are free. Here in Nanking, pills are delivered to women at their homes if they neglect or forget to come for them each month.

Woman can follow their preference concerning the type of contraception they use—the pill, the IUD or intrauterine device, sterilization or husband's use of condom, said Drs. Li and Lin. Many men also seek vasectomies, or surgical sterilization. The contraceptive pills contain the same kind of hormones as those in other countries.

As for abortions, if contraception fails, "we do not popularize them, but abortion is available on request," said the Nanking hospital leaders.

$100,000 In Cash Missing

HOUSTON (AP) — Postal investigators from Fort Worth sought today to recover some $100,000 in cash and a larger amount of paid money orders which disappeared last weekend from the main post office here.

The investigators were tight-lipped about the theft but a source within the postal service said the loss was between $100,000 and $500,000.

R. O. Bower, inspector in charge of the Fort Worth office, said the $500,000 figure was too high, adding that the paid money orders could not be spent. But he agreed that the actual cash loss could well be $100,000.

Bower refused to name a figure, he said, until an audit could be made.

"We are tryng to verify the exact loss now," he said.

The source said the money disappeared from the department's registry section while it was unattended between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m. Sunday.

Bower said there was no evidence of a break-in and said the theft appeared to be "an internal matter."

Calley Asks New Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr. has asked the U.S. Court of Military Appeals, the military's highest court, to grant a new trial or reverse his murder conviction stemming from the My Lai massacre.

Calley's attorneys, in a petition listed among reasons for the appeal a judgment made by the Review that Calley maliciously ordered civilians shot during the March 16, 1968, sweep of My Lai hamlet.

The appeal said it was up to the jury at Calley's original Ft. Benning, Ga., court-martial to decide whether malice existed.

Calley, an Officers Candidate School graduate, was sentenced in 1971 to life imprisonment for the premeditated murder "of not less than 22 Vietnamese" and assault with intent to murder a Vietnamese child. Calley, now 29, was 24 when he led his troops through My Lai.

Actor Call Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — John Call, 64, veteran charactor actor who had appeared on Broadway and played numerous roles on television and in motion pictures, died Tuesday of a heart attack. He also was a featured player with the New York Shakespeare Festival in the early 1960s.

Wants First Call For Texas Yields

AUSTIN — Texas citizens should get first call on her own petroleum products, State Rep. Renal B. Rosson believes, and he has introduced a resolution requiring the Texas Railroad Commission to curtail out-of-state deliveries if Texas consumers cannot be assured of these products.

Rep. Rosson was joined by Rep. Joe Hanna, Breckenridge, Rep. E. L. Short, Tahoka, and others, in proposing the resolution which would require the TRC to give high priority to solving problems of supply of petroleum products, particularly propane, butane gas and diesel oil.

Laws already exist in Texas which provide that the Commission shall take into consideration and protect the rights and interests of Texans to crude oil and all its products, such as gasoline and lubricating oil, Rep. Rosson said.

ROUGH TOMMY: (Q.) I called Tommy and told him I was sorry about the fight we had the night before. He said he wanted to see me, so I went to see him.

I will never forget that night. It was the last night I was with him. He made me feel so good.

The next weekend we went to the lake in the car and he wanted me to have sex with him. It was daytime, and I said no. He got mad and cursed me.

I got out of the car and started walking home. He chased me and grabbed me. I pulled loose and walked all the way home. It took me hours. I lost the heel off of one of my boots.

I don't feel a thing for him now. But I want to cry. I will never call him again. But if he calls me, what should I say to him! — Abused in Alabama.

(A.) No! Every time you say yes to him you ask to be abused. Why punish yourself?

Also, do not assume that sex is all right as long as no one sees you. You can get in trouble in private, too.

SHOTGUN REVERSAL

'I Just Shot Someone But I Did Not Mean To'

AUSTIN (AP) — The trial judge made a mistake in not instructing the jury to consider self defense in the shotgun slaying of Manuel Garcia by his wife, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled Wednesday in reversing her conviction.

Cecilia Garcia appealed her conviction in El Paso, where she was sentenced to 27 years in prison in her husband's Aug. 28, 1970 death.

State witnesses testified that Mrs. Garcia called police the morning of the shooting and asked, "What is the charge if I shoot my husband dead center with a shotgun?" The response was "murder."

She called again a few minutes later and a policeman went out to look at a hole in the ceiling caused by a shotgun blast, which she said had fired accidentally the night before when her husband came home drunk and hit her.

About 2:15 p.m. on Aug. 28, Mrs. Garcia called police and said, according to court records, "I just shot someone but I did not mean to."

Police said Garcia told them before he died that as he walked toward her, "she let him have it."

She contended that he came home mad and cursing and said, "Well, if you're that sick, I'll just end it right now." She said she thought he was reaching for a pocket knife, and she grabbed the shotgun near the bed and it again fired accidentally.

The appeals court noted that the trial judge charged the jury on accidental death, and the jury refused to accept that account. But Mrs. Garcia was entitled to have the jury instructed on the law of self defense, the appeals court said.

Judge W. A. Morrison dissented from the majority opinion. He said although Mrs. Garcia testified her husband had threatened her, she did not testify that she feared he would carry out the threat.

Sheepmen Are Singing Blues

By The Associated Press

The mournful howl of coyotes is being matched these day by that of sheepmen throughout the West, many of whom say they may soon have to go out of business because of losses to predators.

"These damn coyotes are eating me out of house and home," drawls sheepman Charles Pentz of Morgan, Utah, who says he has lost well over 200 sheep in the year since a federal ban on predator poisoning took effect.

Others in sheep ranching claim coyotes are destroying the industry and with it the much needed commodities of wool and meat.

Though mutton accounts for only 1.5 per cent of the meat consumed in the United States, coyotes have been linked to higher meat prices and sometimes to future famine.

Conservationists say sheepmen are pulling the wool over the public's eyes and strongly support the poisoning band and continued research on range ecology.

Government agencies, federal and state, have been caught in the middle and are generally trying to help stockmen with other forms of predator control and encouraging bounty hunting, research and statistic-keeping.

The Utah Legislature earlier this year passed a resolution requesting President Nixon and the Environmental Protection Agency to lift bans on a certain coyote poison which is said to have little effect on other wildlife.

The resolution was sponsored by state Sen. Miles "Cap" Ferry, a cattleman, and Sen. Robert F. Clyde, a stockman who says he has suffered enormous losses of sheep to coyotes.

"It's a terrible problem," says Mrs. Herman Dearden of Henefer, Utah. "I know a number of people who may have to go out of business. It's a real shame. They've dedicated their lives to sheep raising. They don't know anything else."

The Deardens run a small sheep operation in the high desert country some 40 miles east of Salt Lake City.

Sheep also dominate the life of Roscoe Rich of Burley, Idaho. He's president of the Idaho Citizens Grazing Association and the Idaho Wool Growers Association.

"One purebred sheepraiser in western Idaho reported losing 40 per cent of his lambs to coyotes," Rich says. Rich gets disgusted when environmentalists claim sheep raisers should accept a certain percentage of loss to coyotes for the privilege of grazing on public lands.

Butcherette Says Boycott Lot Of Tripe

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — The meat boycott is a lot of tripe, and housewives deserve the higher meat prices they are getting, says Margie Thompson, who has been in the butchering business for 30 years.

To prove her point, Mrs. Thompson, 52, plans to start a meat-cutting class to show housewives how to cut costs by retrieving choice cuts from less savory ones.

Mrs. Thompson says spiraling meat costs have been caused to a great extent by housewives' demands for more packaged gourmet cuts. She also criticizes women for skimping on family food budgets to pay for other luxury items.

"You want everything wrapped fresh, then you take a plastic bag to put the meat package in," she said in an interview Tuesday. "Then you want it all double-bagged at the checkout counter and the cost of paper products went up 29 per cent this year.

"Who, please tell me, is supposed to absorb that?" she asked.

Mrs. Thompson, who learned meat cutting after answering a "Butcherette Wanted" ad in 1943, now wants to teach techniques housewives can use to save money.

A round steak, selling here for $1.49 a pound, if properly cut yields top and swiss steaks which sell from 20 cents to 60 cents more in stores, she said.

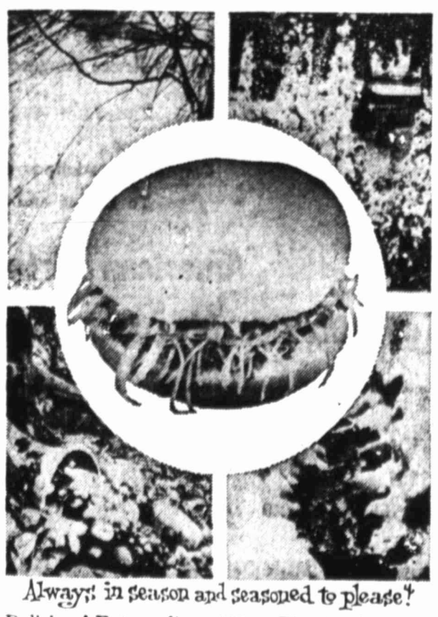

Housewives could save "at least 40 cents a pound" by cutting steaks and stew pieces off a prime rib roast, she said. And a large porterhouse or T-bone can be cut into New York steaks or filet mignon.

Group Boycotts Mexican Church

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The National Union of Organists, calling the use of electric organs in churches "absurd", this week declared a boycott against the Metropolitan Cathedral to demand the repair of two antique instruments damaged in a 1967 fire.

"The electric organ that was installed to substitute the large ones is good for a cabaret show but not to interpret Bach," the union said.

One of the two large pipe organs they want repaired was made in Spain in 1693 and the other one in Mexico in 1736. They have 1,350 pipes made of tin and lead, according to the organists.

All Religions Suppressed

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Communist Albania, which declared the world's first atheist state six years ago, has "suffocated" all forms of Christian life in its plan aimed at "the total destruction of the Roman Catholic Church," Vatican radio declared today. Other religions also have been suppressed, it added.

The radio, in a program titled "Hope Until the Bitter End," said the few priests left in Albania "are dying, in poor health after persecution in prison and concentration camps."

It added: "The total elimination of the hierarchy, the radical suppression of religious and cultural institutions and suffocation of all forms of Christian life have been the results of a program aimed at the total destruction of the Roman Catholic Church."

The newscast came four days after an Austrian Catholic news service reported that a priest, identified as Stephan Kurti, had been executed in Albania, condemned to death for secretly baptizing a child.

Vatican radio made no reference to the reported execution but its program was said to have resulted from the report.

Films Of Mexico Booked Friday

Tickets for the Friday night travel film scheduled by Eastman Kodak Company at the Municipal Auditorium will be available at no charge at both The Herald and the First National Bank through Friday afternoon. The show begins at 8 p.m.

The tickets are free to the public. Except in unusual circumstances, no more than four tickets will be given to any individual.

The multi-media show has a name: "Mexico, a Photo Adventure" and it explores myths about the south-of-the-border land while documenting its contemporary life in a fascinating study of people and living legends.

Edited from more than 20,000 color slides and 25,000 feet of color movie film, the multi-image spectacular fills a 12X36 foot screen alternately with the sweep of a single panorama and as many as 12 pictures at one time.

Accompanying the film here will be Thomas Freeman and Roger Smith.

Smith joined Eastman in 1964 as an exhibits representative in New York City's Grand Central Station. Two years later he assumed the responsibility of resident manager of another Kodak exhibit — Six Flags Over Texas. Each of these assignments provided him with an opportunity to study and help solve a wide variety of customer problems.

In 1967, Roger became a photographic specialist in the Photo Information department of Kodak's Consumer Markets Division. As a consultant on movie equipment, he replies to the varied inquiries that Kodak receives pertaining to photographic problems and information.

Roger is also on the program service staff of Eastman Kodak Company. In this capacity, he has presented a number of slide and movie shows, promoting an interest in the wonderful world of photography.

Roger's keen interest in amateur photography has prompted him to participate actively in many accredited salons. His photographic accomplishments have won him numerous acceptances in these salons, as well as awards in camera club competitions. Roger is also print director of the Rochester International Salon of Photography, Inc.

Before joining Kodak, Roger earned a bachelor of science degree in business administration from the Rochester Institute of Technology.

Freeman became a photographic specialist in Kodak's Photo Information Department following a wide variety of assignments in marketing and training.

Tom joined Eastman in 1965 after earning a bachelor of science degree from Delaware State College. Following a year in the business and technical training department, he went to Washington to assist the government in analyzing their copy and duplicating requirements. He has also assisted consumers with photographic questions at the Kodak Information Center in New York City.

After returning to the home office in Rochester, Tom served as a marketing education specialist at the Marketing Education Center where he had responsibility for training photo retail and Kodak personnel in marketing techniques.

He was also active in the pilot chase of the photographic program for culturally underprivileged children administered by the National Association of Photographic Manufacturers. Then, as a Kodak sales representative for the Consumer Markets Division, Tom was assigned the territory of Vermont and New Hampshire prior to joining the Photo Information department where he handles consumer inquiries on photographic equipment.

TEC Officials To Talk Here

Unemployment insurance and the unemployment insurance tax will be the subject of a two-hour clinic sponsored Tuesday by the Chamber of Commerce, Howard County Junior College and the Texas Employment Commission.

Starting at 10 a.m. in the HCJC Auditorium, local businessmen will hear presentations by William N. Blissit, district director of TEC, San Angelo district, and Sam Buckmaster, unemployment tax specialist and supervisor with the San Angelo TEC office.

"We feel a great need to educate our people on what they can do to help themselves," said Chamber Manager Ron Mercer. He said the course was set up by the Economic Development Council of the Chamber after it received requests from local businesses for the program.

ACCORDING TO GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATION

Tuna Rotten At Time It Was Canned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Star Kist tuna fish that sickened more than 200 persons before it was recalled was rotten at the time it was canned, a government investigation has determined.

A Food and Drug Administration investigation shows Star Kist packed the fish in two lots at its American Samoa plant. Cesar Roy of the FDA's office of compliance said in an interview that the fish was so decomposed that a trained inspector would have been able to smell it.

ALL KINDS

Asked about the results of the investigation, Thomas Virgil, manager of marketing for Star Kist, said, "We have all kinds of quality control. How that occurred we don't know."

Virgil was not available for later telephone interviews regarding the investigation. Star Kist is a subsidiary of H. J. Heinz Co.

Roy said "an individual well trained in organoleptic detection would not miss this decomposition" of the fish.

Organoleptic detection involves observing and smelling fish.

Star Kist recalled nearly 173,000 cans of tuna fish coded GD417 and 419 in February after consumers who ate the fish reported it made them sick.

FOOD POISONING

The National Communicable Disease Center, which keeps track of food-borne illness, counted 232 instances of what it considers confirmed food poisoning due to the Star Kist tuna.

The NCDC said none of the victims required hospitalization and most reported their sickness lasted a few hours.

The reports forwarded to NCDC listed traditional scrombotoxin reactions of a burning sensation in the mouth, hive-like skin eruptions, cramps and headache.

The poison blamed for the reactions in unique to the scromboid class of fish such as tuna, skipjack and bonita. The poison, scrombotoxin, is produced by bacteria which multiply in the fish once decomposition begins.

HISTAMINE

Cooking during the canning process kills the bacteria but does not destroy the toxin.

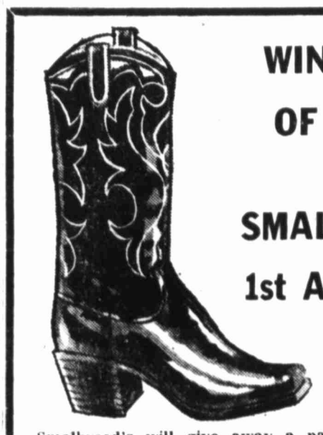

Present in conjunction with the poison is the chemical histamine. Since the histamine is relatively easy to detect, the FDA tests for histamine to determine whether tuna fish is decomposed.

The FDA took 18 random samples from the cans of tuna fish collected in warehouses and cans submitted by consumers. All of the samples showed what the FDA said it considered high levels of histamine.

Stop Transfers Of Black Pupils

HOUSTON (AP) — Transfers of black pupils to three Houston School District junior high schools for the coming 1973-74 year were stopped Tuesday. Officials said the quota of 39.4 per cent established by the district's tri-ethnic policy had been reached.

According to the 1970 school desegregation plan, pupils may transfer to any school in which their race is a minority until the quota is reached.

Dr. Sandra Eckles, 31, of New Haven, was found Tuesday night in a room at Yale's Laboratory of Clinical Investigation suffering from gunshot wounds in the chest and back. She died a short time later in Yale-New Haven Hospital.

Police said they discovered the body of her alleged assailant, Mar Doungdee, 28, in a hallway nearby. The Thailand native died of a single gunshot wound in the chest, apprently self-inflicted, police said. A .32—caliber pistol was in his hand.

Dr. Eckles, a native of Minnesota, was studying microbiology under a post-doctoral fellowship at Yale. The Baylor University School of Medicine graduate came to New Haven last July from M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston, Tex.

Proxmire Concedes Hair Undeductible

WASHINGTON (AP — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has decided his hair isn't tax deductible after all.

He published his 1972 income tax return in the Congressional Record last week, listing as a medical deduction the $2,758 for his hair transplants.

But after a second look, Proxmire said, he's sending federal and state tax agencies an additional $1,000.

"This $1,000 jolt to my pocketbook is more painful than the plastic surgeon's drilling holes in my scalp. But on reconsideration I simply must disagree with my tax expert on the justification for the medical expense as necessary for my health. It wasn't."

FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A marvelous day to extend your activities beyond their present range. Almost anything you do can have a successful termination by using good judgment. You now have an abundance of energy and logical reasoning power.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Meet with regular associates and state your aims. This will bring mutual advancement. Make the appointments early for best results where business contacts are concerned.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Get together early with business experts and find the right way to advance more quickly in the future. Use good judgment and get the right results. You can benefit from today's activity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you adopt a different attitude, you can gain the personal aims that have been difficult in the past. Show that you have true intelligence. Know what you want and then take the right steps.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Listen to what experts have to say and have greater progress in the near future. Don't confide your good ideas to questionable people. Follow your intuitive hunches for best results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can easily gain the aid of allies so that you become more successful. Attend the social which can be helpful to your particular ambitions. Avoid one who has an axe to grind.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Higher-ups are looking kindly toward your work and you could be in line for a raise if you are especially conscientious. Study your position well and do whatever will improve it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are now able to go after your highest aspirations and in a most decisive way. Distant events give you an opportunity to get ahead fast. Don't lose your temper with others. Be calm.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Know what it is that kin expect of you and carry through cheerfully so they are pleased. Improve your interests by looking into the future and taking the right steps now. State your aims.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk with associates and gain mutual aims with ease. Get busy on that paper work that is vital to your future progress. Don't permit others to waste your valuable time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A new attitude toward finances can bring you the fine success you want, so put your intellect to work. If you are in doubt about handling a problem, talk it over with an expert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can get started on any new outlet that appeals to you and has a promise of success. Put that special talent of yours to work and you win out. Turn bad luck into good luck.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) After a confusing day in the outside world, closet yourself where you can make notes of good ideas and think about the future. Suggestions from others can help you get ahead faster.

Loop Tennis Tourney Set This Weekend

SAN ANGELO — A talented field of netters gather here Friday and Saturday for the Dist. 5-AAAA tennis meet, and the team title appears to be up for grabs.

Odessa, Abilene Cooper, Midland Lee, Midland and Big Spring all have a shot at the honors as action gets under way at 9 a.m. Friday at the Central High School courts. The semifinals are scheduled for a 9 a.m. start Saturday, with finals to begin at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Big Spring's main hope for a berth in the regional tournament next week in Lubbock could be the girls doubles duo of Judy Jordan and Linda Little. Little has been playing the No. 1 singles most of the year, but coach Novice Kniffen moved her to the doubles spot last week because of the rugged competition in girls singles.

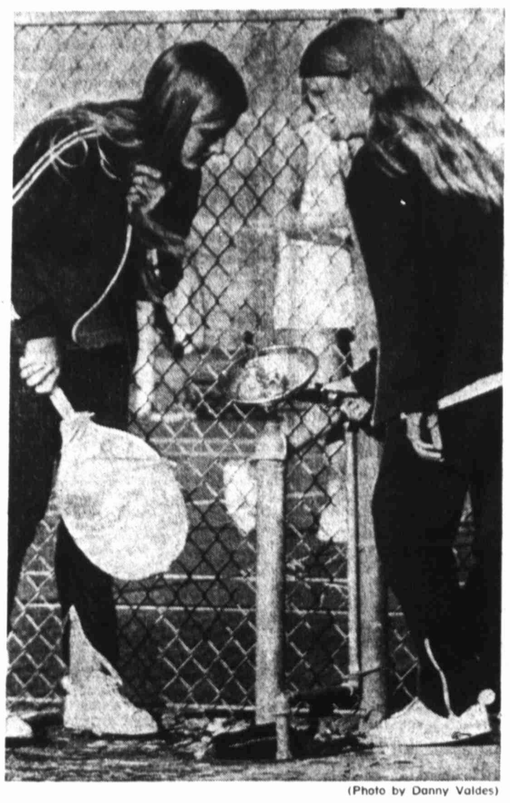

Stiffest test in girls doubles could come from Mamie Beavers and Kay McKelvy of Odessa. Big Spring's Ann Caton and iVcky Murphy will also be entered.

Randy Mattingley will be the top Steer boy's singles entrant, and he'll have to face the likes of Midland's John Kirwan, San Angelo's Jay Goss, Abilene Cooper's Cactus Schroeder and Midland Lee's Steve Hilliard. Mattingley, a junior, has one championship to his credit this year.

Gerry Christich is the other boys singles entry.

Dori Crooker and Melody Ray will test the girls singles field, headed by the talented threesome of San Angelo's Karan Meares, Odessa's Susie Smith and Cooper's Ann Schoeder. Meares is the defending district and state champion, but has been beaten several times this year by Smith and Schroeder.

Midland Lee's Doug and Rick Crumley will be the favorites in boys doubles. Big Spring will send the twosomes of Bob Fielder-Robert McEntire and Hayes Stripling-Bruce Christich into the action.

(Photo by Danny Valdes)

AWAIT DISTRICT ACTION—Big Spring High School netters Linda Little (left) and Dori Crooker will be in action this weekend in the District 5-AAAA tennis meet in San Angelo. Little will be playing doubles with Judy Jordan and Crooker will be the No. 1 singles player for the Steer team.

Knicks Within One Of Sweep

By The Associated Press

The Knicks had balanced scoring and their trademark, team defense; Baltimore had Elvin Hayes, but little else.

As a result, New York is one game away from sweeping its first-round National Basketball Association playoff series with Baltimore, and Knicks Coach Red Holzman, a master of moderation, is saying things like, "We're in a good spot now."

Each of the five Knick starters scored 16 points or better, more than offsetting a brilliant 36-point performance by Hayes, as New York grabbed a 3-0 lead in the playoff series by beating the Bullets in Baltimore 103-96 Wednesday night.

Bill Bradley was high scorer for New York with 23 points, followed by Dave DeBusschere, 19; Earl Monroe, 18, and Willis Reed and Walt Frazier, 16 apiece. Hayes, meanwhile, was a one-man gang, hitting 16 of 26 shots from the field and also grabbing 14 rebounds.

The key to the victory, in addition to New York's balanced scoring, was the team defense played by the Knicks—and not by the Bullets. Time and again Knick players would elude their defenders and break free for clear shots, while at the other end of the court the Knicks' switching tactics blanketed the Bullets.

In other playoff games, the Boston Celtics took a 2-0 lead in their first-round NBA series with Atlanta by beating the Hawks 126-113 in Atlanta, while in the American Basketball Association, Utah beat San Diego 103-92 to take a 2-0 lead. All series are best-of-seven.

John Havlicek, who scored 54 points in the series opener, led Boston with 29 points. Jo Jo White added 24 points, Dave Cowens had 20 points and 25 rebounds and Paul Silas added 17 rebounds.

Boston led 29-13 after the first quarter, then shook off an Atlanta comeback with a 10-0 spurt in the second period.

Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn, emulating Holzman, also was not ready to claim victory in the series, depite his team's second consecutive impressive triumph.

"It's not over yet," he warned. "They're capable of playing better than they have. We just played real good defense."

Atlanta was led by Pete Maravich with 30 points and Lou Hudson with 27. Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons observed, "We're better than we have looked. We know we have to slow them down to win, but when you're behind you can't play a slowdown. But Boston played with confidence . . . they were awesome."

Willie Wise scored 29 points to lead Utah past the expansion Conquistadors. Utah led most of the first half, San Diego grabbed a brief lead in the third period, then Wise and Ron Boone moved Utah out to a 99-88 lead with four minutes to play.

Baseball Sets Show--On Time, This Year

By The Associated Press

Cincinnati's Don Gullett was scheduled to deliver the first pitch of the 1973 baseball season today, giving the major leagues a two-week jump on last year.

You remember last year, when opening day was a little late—15 days late to be exact—because of the first player strike in history.

The only strikes this opening day were to be thrown by Gullett of the Reds and San Francisco's Juan Marichal, the opposing pitchers in today's only scheduled game.

The American League and its revolutionary designated player rule gets going Friday with five games scheduled. The remaining five NL openers, following Cincinnati's traditional early start, are also set for Friday and the final AL opener will be played Saturday.

Gullett, Cincinnati's baby-faced left-hander and Marichal, the grizzled ace of the San Francisco staff, had the starting jobs for today's opener between the Reds and Giants. But gloomy weather threatened the game with cloudy skies and showers predicted, possibly mixed with light snow.

Along with today's opener, the Texas Rangers and Cleveland Indians close out the exhibition season with a game at San Antonio, Tex.

In Wednesday night's exhibition action, the Indians stopped the Rangers 4-3 as Walt Williams collected four hits and Leo Cardenas knocked in two runs.

Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the Oakland A's 6-3; the Chicago Cubs beat the San Diego Padres 5-0; the California Angels nipped the power Minnesota Twins topped the Houston Astros 6-4.

Rain washed out games between Baltimore and Atlanta, Montreal and Boston, St. Louis and Kansas City and the Chicago White Sox vs. the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Home runs by Steve Garvey and Willie Davis carried Los Angeles over Oakland. The consecutive shots off reliever Rollie Fingers in the sixth inning wiped out a 2-1 A's lead and the Dodgers later scored two more runs over Oakland's No. 1 fireman.

Bill Bonham, Bob Locker and Rick Reuschel combined for a five-hit shutout as the Cubs beat the Padres. Bonham allowed no hits in three innings, Locker one hit in four and Reuschel four hits in four.

Eighth-inning throwing errors by outfielder Ollie Brown and pitcher Bill Parsons enabled California to score two unearned runs and beat Milwaukee.

Reliever Fred Beene pitched out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam in the ninth inning to help the Yankees trim the Mets. Gerry Moses knocked in two runs for the Yankees, including one with a ninth-inning homer.

In off-the-field action, Montreal sold infielder Hector Torres to Houston and Boston sent relief pitchers Ken Tatum and Don Newhauser.

Texas Youth Eyes Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A cluster of giggling girls strained against the ropes around the Augusta National practice putting green and thrust pencils, tickets and scraps of paper at the harried golfer on the other side.

'Please sign here."

"May I Have your autograph?'

'Just make it 'Love to Susan,' would you please?'

The target of the onslaught wasn't Arnold Palmer. It wasn't golden-haired Jack Nicklaus, slim and modish Johnny Miller nor the chatterbox Lee Trevino.

It was Ben Crenshaw, 20, from Austin, Tex., and don't take his name in vain. He's golf's new Mr. Personality, the Charisma Kid, the fuzz-faced collegian who many are predicting is the game's super star of the future.

When Palmer is tired of missing three-foot putts and Nicklaus has become bored with $50,000 checks and Grand Slam talk, young Crenshaw may be the player who sends galleries busting through restraining ropes and going into wild hysterics.

That's what they're saying here at the 37th Masters Tournament, starting today. Crenshaw, an amateur, may find out quickly. He's paired at 10:06 a.m. CST with the old king himself, Arnold Palmer, four times winner and the man whose personal magnetism sent the game on a dizzying spiral in the 1960s.

"He's one hell of a player," said Palmer.

"I rate him one of the 10 best players in the world, pro or amateur," said Australia's David Graham. "You can tell he's destined to be a great champion by the way he grips a club.

"Few men possess a strong, almost infallable grip. Sam Snead does. Ben Hogan did. And of course, Palmer and Nicklaus. So does Crenshaw. He could win here—make no mistake about it."

Crenshaw is one of two strong amateur threats this year in a tournament with Nicklaus heavily favored at 4-1 odds. The other is Vinnie Giles, a 30-year-old lawyer, investment banker and management representative from Richmond, Va., who is the current National Amateur champion.

The select, hand-picked field consists of 59 American pros, 15 foreign pros, six U.S. and two foreign amateurs.

Those veterans of another age, Jock Hutchinson and Fred McLeod, lead the parade as honorary starters at 8:45 a.m. EST and the game's great and near-great follow in pairs over the 6,980-yard, par-72 layout, starting at 9 a.m.

Single rounds are played daily through Sunday, with Columbia Broadcasting System televising the final two rounds. The gate is a sellout, no more tickets available. The prize money, modest by tour standards, is fixed by the Masters sponsors. The champion can count on about $25,000.

Rangers Throttle Bruins, Plante In Playoff Victory

By The Associated Press

Since joining the Bruins, goaltender Jacques Plante has found Boston a veritable fountain of youth.

Wednesday night, however, the New York Rangers made him feel his years—all 44 of them.

The Rangers took 31 shots at Plante, who was appearing in his 111th Stanley Cup game, and scored on six as they erased Boston's home-ice advantage with a 6-2 opening round victory.

In Wednesday's other National Hockey League Stanley Cup games, Montreal edged Buffalo 2-1, Minnesota blanked the Philadelphia Flyers 3-0 and Chicago stopped St. Louis 7-1 to all take 1-0 leads in their best-of-7 playoffs.

While over in the WHA, Cleveland gained a 1-0 advantage in its best-of-7 series by defeating the Philadelphia Blazers 3-2 in overtime while Minnesota won its one-game play off with Alberta 4-2. Tonight Houston is at home against the Los Angeles Sharks.

Since coming to Boston from Toronto, Plante had compiled a 7-1 record with two shutouts. But Plante admits the years have taken their toll. "I can't use my reflexes to stop the shots now," he says. "I've got to play the angles."

The Rangers' game plan indicated that they weren't too concerned about aid for the elderly.

"We wanted to take as many shots as possible," said Rangers' Coach Emile Francis, who had isolated his team since Sunday night in Fitchburg, Mass., to prepare for the game. "If we couldn't take them up close, then we took them far away."

As soon as the first puck was dropped in Montreal, NHL playoff history was made as each team had a Dryden in the nets. The Canadiens had Ken Dryden, boasting the league's best goals-against average, while Buffalo countered with Dave Dryden, a suprise starter over Roger Crozier.

In the end, though, it was younger Ken with the victory on the strength of Yvan Cournoyer's power play goal at 3:51 of the third period

Bruins Invited To Tour China

WASHINGTON (AP) — UCLA's national collegiate champion basketball team has been invited to tour the Peoples Republic of China sometime in May, the Washington Post said Thursday.

In Los Angeles, UCLA Athletic Director J. D. Morgan said, "There will be no comment at this time."

The Post said it understood school officials were polling the players on the matter and a decision would be forthcoming "later this week."

The Post said the invitation was extended by the U.S. State Department and quoted Paul Phillips, public affairs adviser for the Cultural Affairs Bureau, as saying the tour would be in "the area of two or three weeks."

Cats Favored In Dist. 5-4A Track Friday

SAN ANGELO — It's as cut-and-dried as it ever has been when Dist. 5-AAAA schools come together Friday in San Angelo Stadium for the district meet.

San Angelo Central's Bobcats will be a heavy favorite to end a four-year run in which the league favorite has been upset, since they haven't lost to 5-AAAA competition this year. Odessa Permian, Abilene and Midland Lee will be the only team to challenge the Cats, while Big Spring appears to top the second division after last week's showing in the San Angelo Relays.

Field event preliminaries get the meet underway at 1:30 p.m. Friday, with track prelims set for a 3 p.m. start. The finals are scheduled for 8 p.m.

San Angelo has shown strength in both the 440-yard and mile relays this year, with bests of 42.0 and 3:22.5. Dwight Harris could sweep both the 100 and 220-yard dashes, but teammate Tony Poole shouldn't be far behind. Harris has run a 9.6 century this year and a 21.3 in the 220.

The Bobcats will also have the favorite in the shot put with David Brooks, who has thrown 57-0 this year, and Frank Myers competing.

Other clear cut favorites Friday will be Permian's Tommy Humphreys in the pole vault, Midland Lee's Wendell Ward in the 440-yard dash and John Patton of Lee in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles.

Humphreys has cleared 14-7½ this year, but he'll be tested by David Dodson of San Angelo, with a best of 14-0, and Big Spring's Sam Dodson, who has sailed over 13-8½ this year and owns two first place finishes.

Big Spring will also have a man chasing Patton, unbeaten this year in the hurdles and owner of a 38.9 best. Bobby Mayo of the Steers legged a 40.9 last week in the Angelo Relays, finishing second to Steve King of Permian.

The Steers' other hope for points will be in the mile relay, where the foursome of Ronald McKee, Mayo, Don Beene and Doug Smith hit a low of 3:26.9 last week in finishing behind the Bobcats, Permian and Abilene.

Some of the biggest scrambles could come in the mile and the high jump.

Permian's Lindon Dugan won the mile at the San Angelo Relays, which included all 5-AAAA teams but Midland Lee. But close behind was Big Spring's Bob Priebe, who showed some of his old form for the first time this year. Priebe, who got down to 4:27.0 last year, ran a 4:31.6 for runner-up honors last week.

Also challenging will be San Angelo's Brad and Greg Croad, Gregston of Abilene and Forbes of Permian.

In the high jump, Midland Lee's David Frazier and Bryant Huckabay have been dominating all year, but Permian's Terry Penn established himself as the top choice by clearing 6-6 last week.

Other possible point-getters for the Steers are David Wood in the high jump, Smith in the 440-yard dash and Ken Froman in the shot put and discus. Wood hit a high of 6-2¼ last week, his best of the year, but it wasn't good enough for a place. It missed the school record by three-quarters of an inch.

The only district record that appears to be in danger is the 220-yard dash mark of 21.4, set by Mike Holt of Lee in 1970.

For What It's Worth

Jack Cowan

This is the week of truth for Big Spring High School athletes. Or at least it is for some of them.

The Dist. 5-AAAA track and tennis meets will decide the Region I entrants, and in the golf action — though it's pretty much decided already — the final round of the five-stop tournament will be played.

San Angelo has the edge in the track and golf, while the tennis strength appears to be pretty well divided.

The Steer tracksters scored only 24 points for a seventh place finish last week in the San Angelo Relays, but coach Glenn Petty has to be encouraged. The field was so strong that three 5-AAAA teams finished below the Longhorns — Midland High with 12, Odessa with 6, and Abilene Cooper with one point.

San Angelo was an easy winner with 123 points, while Permian rang up 90 for runner-up honors. All of 5-AAAA was present for the slaughter except for Midland Lee.

Taking a long look at the situation, however, it appears there'll have to be some kind of break to get a Steer into the regional action. It takes either a first or second place finish, and those may be hard to come by.

The mile relay team of Bobby Mayo, Doug Smith, Don Beene and Ronald McKee may have the best chance, provided they can slip upon somebody. San Angelo, Permian and Abilene all topped the Big Spring quartet Saturday, but it was close and Petty's foursome hasn't run over 3:28 in a month.

Bob Priebe finally rediscovered some of the form that made him a contender in the mile run the past two years and finished second to Permian's Lindon Dugan by just over a second. He ran a 4:31.6, his best effort of the year. In last year's district meet he ran a 4:27.0 and missed a regional spot by a step.

Mayo also managed a second in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles in 40.9, finishing behind Steve King of Permian, who ran a 40.1. But missing was Midland Lee's John Patton, who has a best of 38.9 and hasn't lost a race this year. Sam Dodson has a chance in the pole vault, but he'll have to upset either Tommy Humphries of Permian, with a best of 14-7½, or San Angelo's David Dodson (14.0). The Big Spring Dodson has cleared 13-8½.

* * * * * *

In tennis, Steer Randy Mattingley has proved he can handle old nemesis Steve Hilliard of Midland Lee, but still standing in the way are Midland High's John Kirwan, San Angelo's Jay Goss and Abilene Cooper's Cactus Schroeder.

Judy Jordan, the No. 1 girls' player at BSHS, was outclassed in the singles play but could still have a shot at the doubles crown with Linda Little. The defending state champion, Karan Meares, is back, but she has been worked over regularly this year by Susie Smith of Odessa and Ann Schroeder of Cooper.

There seems to be an overabundance of tennis strength about . . .

* * * * * *

In the golf, it would take some kind of super effort to get someone to regional. With two teams to represent the district, San Angelo has the top spot wrapped up and Cooper must hold off Permian and Midland Lee for the other. And as far as the top two medalists go, Big Spring's best scorer, Jimmy Stewart, is six shots behind the low man when the highest score is subtracted.

The Steers are in sixth place, six shots behind Midland High and 13 ahead of Midland Lee's No. 2 team.

Garden City Girl Awaits Regional

SAN ANGELO — Garden City's Cynthia Curry earned a berth in the Region 2-B tennis tournament next weekend by winning the Dist. 11-B girls singles crown here Tuesday.

Curry defeated Jane Jeschke of Miles 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the finals to gain the berth in the April 13-14 meet.

Golfers End Play Friday

SAN ANGELO — The host San Angelo Central Bobcats try to hold on to their 17-shot bulge here Friday in the fifth and final round of the Dist. 5-AAAA golf tour.

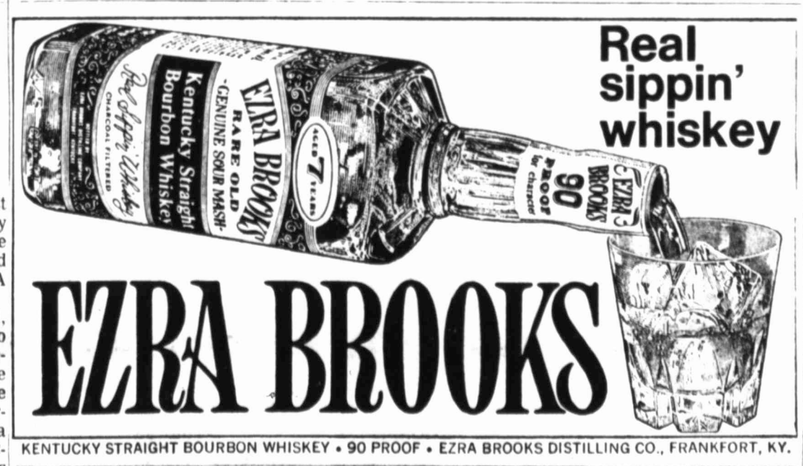

The Bobcats, with a 1232 total, go to their home San Angelo Country Club with the comfortable lead over second place Abilene Cooper, which will be trying to hold off Odessa Permian and Midland Lee for a regional berth. Cooper has a 72-hold total of 1249, Permian is third at 1256 and Lee owns a 1260 score.

Midland High is fourth at 1279 and Big Spring stands sixth in the 16-team group at 1285. Midland Lee No. 2 stands seventh at 1298 and Abilene No. 1 has a 1304 for eighth. Big Spring No. 2 is 15th with a 1401.

San Angelo's Randy Waterhouse is the low scorer through four rounds with a 302, while Lee Baird of Cooper is second with a 307 total. But golfers are allowed to drop one score in the run for medalist, and Baird is tops when he eliminates an 84 he recorded in last week's windy round at Odessa. Waterhouse was the only golfer to break 80 that day.

San Angelo's Grant Collyns, Permian's Kyle Howard and Lee's Steve Cromwell are all among the top shooters.

Big Spring's low scorer is Jimmy Stewart, who has a 317 total. He is followed by Randy Grimes at 321, Terry Pate and Bennett Robb with 329s and Grady Harris with a 333.

JUST LEARNS OF WORLD WAR II END — This Papuan, about 50 and identified as Boni Meki, is shown after he emerged from the jungle Tuesday and disclosed that he had been hiding from Japanese forces that had inducted him into a work gang in 1942 shortly after they occupied the Island of New Ireland, off New Guinea. Meki stayed in the jungle completely alone, living off berries and snakes, not knowing that the war had ended 28 years before.

Vote Mandatory Prison Terms For Drug Pushers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved long, mandatory prison sentences for hard-drug pushers who are not addicts themselves.

Mandatory sentences also were provided for using or unlawfully carrying a firearm in the commission of federal crimes that threaten life and property.

The legislation was passed and sent to the House 93 to 1 Tuesday after a motion to delete the mandatory-sentencing provisions was defeated 76 to 18.

WAVE OF TERROR

No action has been taken in the House on legislation of this type and what will happen to the bill there is uncertain.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., chief sponsor of the mandatory sentencing, told the Senate that a "wave of terror is sweeping through the nation."

"We need to get at the man who sells the dope and the man who wields the gun," he said.

Sens. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., protested against taking sentencing discretion away from judges. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the Senate, before mandating such "massive, fearsome penalties, should at least take time to look at how they fit into present law and what the effect would be."

Talmadge offered a two-part amendment to legislation that combined in one package separate bills passed last week to compensate victims of violent crimes.

10 TO 30

One part of the amendment dealt with nonaddicts who illegally manufacture, distribute or sell as much as one-tenth of an ounce of heroin or morphine.

For first offenders, the minimum mandatory sentence would be 10 to 30 years in prison in addition to the penalties provided by present law. For second offenders, a life sentence would be mandatory.

In neither case would an offender be eligible for probation, suspended sentence or parole except after serving 30 years of a life sentence.

However, the mandatory sentences would not apply to first offenders under 18 years of age. If they were convicted a second time, they could be sentenced as first offenders on the recommendation of the attorney general.

Under present federal law, the penalty for drug pushers—addict or nonaddict—is up to 15 years for a first offense and up to 30 years for a second offense.

NIXON'S IDEA

President Nixon, in a recent message to Congress, urged mandatory penalties for drug pushers; but, unlike Talmadge's amendment, his proposal would apply to addicts and nonaddicts alike.

The other part of Talmadge's amendment provides for additional penalties for the use or unlawful carrying of a firearm in federal crimes of violence.

The minimum penalty for a first offense would be 5 to 15 years, in addition to the sentence for a basic crime. A judge would not have to impose this if he publicly gave his reasons for not doing so.

In the case of a second offense, however, the judge would have to impose a minimum sentence of 10 to 30 years, and this could not be suspended nor could parole be granted.

'Doomsday Seers' Drawing Fire

By The Associated Press

Varying opinions on auto pollution in Texas' largest cities highlighted three public hearings held by the Texas Air Control Board Wednesday night, ranging from near-unanimous belief in transportation control in Dallas-Fort Worth to the blasting of "doomsday seers" in Houston.

The hearings, held simultaneously at Houston, Dallas and San Antonio, were called to give the TACB data concerning the need and feasibility of transportation controls to meet national clean air standards.

AIR PLANS

The board said information gathered at the hearing may be used by its members in writing such controls into its air quality plans. Deadline for the plans, to be submitted to the federal Environmental Protection Agency, is April 15.

At Houston, city public health director Dr. Albert Randall said testing at nearby Dickinson, Lake Jackson, Beaumont and Orange show air pollution there often approach or exceed those within Houston itself.

"The fact that there are approximately 90 per cent fewer vehicles in these areas compared to the City of Houston indicates that major hydrocarbon emission sources are not from automobiles," Randall said. He advocated addition of emission control insections of emission nual state auto inspection, but added that other transportation controls, if any, be initiated on a limited basis.

BLAME INDUSTRY

Dr. Walter Quebedeaux, Harris County pollution control director, blamed 70 per cent of Houston area air pollution on industry.

Another witness downgrading the role of autos in the overall air pollution picture was Gordon L. Jennings, who spoke on behalf of the Houston Chamber of Commerce. He said any major transportation control would kill downtown Houston.

"The implementation of such controls either directly or indirectly will change the city," Jennings said. "In short, it will begin to die."

MASS TRANSIT

At the Dallas meeting, however, a Fort Worth councilman, John O'Neill, advocated the bypassing of downtown traffic to other routes as one means of cutting down on the use of automobiles. He also listed programs to implement efficient traffic flow and inspection of emission controls on all autos as means of ultimately cutting down on auto pollution.

Public mass transit was an integral part of the testimony of many at the Dallas meeting.

O'Neill and James L. Wells of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce both advocated a strong mass transit system for that city.

George W. Crawford, professor of physics at Southern Methodist University, D.C., recommended "creation of a public transit system that has the same ease, convenience and an even lower price than autos." He said this would not only decrease pollution, but also conserve fuel, decrease freeway congestion and increase safety.

Another SMU professor, Dr. Carlos Coon, agreed that mass transit is the most attractive means of cutting vehicular use, if it can be made as equally "attractive, efficient and economical" to the public as automobiles.

CAR POOLS

He said such programs as encouraging wide use of car pools could be effective, but warned that gas rationing would be "too unworkable and too unpopular" with the public. Other witnesses agreed.

Another advocate of public transit was John J. Rouark, who said, however, that both long-range and short-range transit programs are necessary. Rouark is director of transportation for the North Central Texas Council of Governments.

Two men representing the City of Dallas each spelled out special programs for the TACB board.

Fred Barnes, section chief of Dallas air pollution program, asked for implementation of spot check-maintenance of vehicle emission controls; establishment of a vapor recovery system at gas dispensing sites and the encouragement of conversion to gaseous fuels, but no gas rationing.

'PARK AND RIDE'

John J. DeShazo, director of the City of Dallas' Traffic Control Department, called for reduction of air pollution by increasing the efficiency of transportation. He cited metered freeway ramps, computer traffic controls and message signs that tell motorists of freeway conditions and possible alternate routes.

DeShazo said a "Park and Ride" program would be one of several ways to cut vehicle miles traveled and therefore the amount of pollution emitted. The program allows for motorists to park their cars at a specified location and then to board express buses that would take them to the central business district.

Decrying the "doomsday seers" in Dallas was John B. Blain, Jr. district design engineer for the Dallas district of the Texas Highway Department.

He applauded the goal of the TACB to curb vehicular pollution but he questioned possible measures against it, especially gas rationing.

He expressed confidence that the auto industry will succeed in cutting emisssions to acceptable levels.

LOVE OF CARS

"Mass transit efforts are good," he said, "but the public's preference for cars cannot be ignored. Any rules must bear strongly on this point."

Thefts, Runaways Given Attention By Cherry

During March, 62 children were referred to Ed Cherry, juvenile probation officer, for offenses ranging from theft to running away.

This is more juveniles than referred during any other month this year or last. August was high during 1972 with 56 youths referred.

Cherry counseled 48 youths and some parents during March 1973.

CATEGORIES

His office divided those reported into categories of offenses including: 27 local runaways, three non-local runaways, three auto theft, one burglary, one theft over $50, eight theft under $50, 18 truancies and one minor in possession of alcoholic beverages.

During March, eight juveniles were placed under supervision and the number under supervision stood at 32. One child was started on official probation, bringing the official probation total to six.

On parole from the Texas Youth Council here were eight boys and three girls. At the Gatesville State School for Boys were 16 from here. And the Brownwood State School for Girls had seven from Howard County.

County Judge A. G. Mitchell, acting as juvenile court judge, presided at two juvenile hearings.

FIRST QUARTER

During the quarter, 52 local runaways were reported to Cherry. Add to this 19 non-local runaways.

Truancy was the second most frequent offense committed by juveniles. Of the 26 truancy referrals, 18 came during March.

Cherry's office, which consists of Cherry himself and a secretary with other duties too, reported 14 cases of minor thefts during the quarter.

They had four shoplifting referrals, seven burglary, one theft over $50 and three auto theft.

Indecent exposure complaints involved two youths. Also shown were eight arrested as minors in possession, one in a domestic disturbance, one traffic violator, two accused vandals and one child accused of forging and passing a check.

Gardeners Convene Here At Settles Hotel

Approximately 150 women are expected to arrive in Big Spring today and Friday for the 27th annual meeting of District 1, Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. at the Settles Hotel.

The pre-convention events today included a district judges council meeting with Mrs. Carroll Anderson, district judges president, presiding, and Mrs. M. R. Hurt speaking on "Landscape Graphics." Mrs. Hurt is national landscape design accrediting chairman and Texas landscape design schools chairman.

At 4 p.m., a tea at the hotel honored Mrs. Robert H. Dooley, state president; Mrs. James F. Malone, district director; and Mrs. E. H. Boedeker, incoming district director.

The pre-convention dinner scheduled at 7 p.m., today will honor past directors, district officers and district chairmen. Mrs. J. K. Somerville will preside, and Mrs. O. T. Brewster, youth communications chairman, will be in charge of the program. Student winners in the "Water, Waste or Wisdom" speech competition will speak during the banquet. The four entrants are David Wright and Susan Smith, both of Big Spring; Jana Myrick, McCamey; and Sharon Edwards of Sundown. A poster contest was held in conjunction with the same subject, with 10 students entered in the competition. Judges for the speech competition are Dr. Paul Koshi of the U.S. Experiment Station; Mrs. R. E. Breckenridge, biology teacher at Big Spring High School; and Mrs. Julian Patterson. Prizes for first, second and third place will be $15, $10 and $5, with the first place winner being eligible to enter the state competition.

MRS. DALE SMITH

The convention, focusing on the theme, "Forty-five Years Later," will begin Friday morning with a breakfast featuring a program on wild flowers by Mrs. Clifford Drake, naturalist.

Mrs. Drake, who is from Phillips, will discuss Texas' heritage of wild flowers and the uses people in earlier days made of some of the plants. Her talk will be illustrated with color slides. The flower photographs were all made in the Panhandle and vary from fields of flowers to close-ups of single blossoms.

The program was compiled by Mrs. Drake, a botanist and photographer. She has collected plants for the herbariums at the University of Texas at Austin and Texas Tech University at Lubbock. She has won awards for outstanding photographs of wild flowers, and she is affiliated with the Photographic Society of America.

The speaker for Friday's luncheon will be Mrs. Dale Smith of Big Spring whose topic will be "Trends of the 70's." Mrs. Smith is a master judge, ratified state speaker and accredited landscape critic. Emphasizing new trends in modern and abstract arrangements and new theories in arranging, Mrs. Smith uses primarily desert materials found in this area — driftwood, weathered wood, rocks and dried flowers. The use of fresh flowers is minimal. For her arrangements at the luncheon, she will use two large, colored and sculptured pieces of polystyrene made at Cosden Refinery and will form them into abstract designs.

Mrs. Smith has attended numerous flower show schools and has lectured extensively in Texas and New Mexico. Currently president of the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs, she was a state chairman for six years and has also held zone offices. She is recording secretary of the Landscape Critics Council.

Discusses Hanging Baskets

The preparation and culture of appropriate plants for use in hanging baskets was outlined Wednesday by Mrs. John Knox for Big Spring Garden Club in the home of Mrs. John Hogan, 509 Westover.

Members finalized plans for their participation in the District 1 convention being held Thursday and Friday at the Settles Hotel. Mrs. D. S. Riley is general chairman for the event, and club members are in charge of decorations for a dinner Thursday evening.

The women agreed to contribute $30 to the landscaping project at Westside Community Center. Mrs. Knox presided, and Mrs. Riley served refreshments.

The serving table was centered with an arrangement of boxwood foliage forming an Easter egg tree. Multi-colored eggs tied with yarn bedecked the tree branches which were intermingled with colorful birds. The arrangement was made by Mrs. Hayes Stripling.

A Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. state convention is scheduled May 1-3 in Dallas, and Mrs. Knox will serve as club delegate. The next meeting will be in May, with Mrs. Norman Read and Mrs. Knox as hostesses.

Neefe Sr., 2701 Rebecca. The couple plans to marry June 16 at First Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. R. Earl Price officiating.

Piano Auditions Are Continuing

Students of Mrs. Dick Mitchell will play Friday for the National Piano Guild auditions being held at Howard County Junior College. The students are John Griffin, Renea Hord, Deborah Miller, Cheryl Drennan, Lance Johnson, Phyllis Johnson, Lani Kay Frerich, Andrea Frerich, Tina Bednar and Jana Calverley.

A LOVELIER YOU

Instant Remover For Timeless Women

By MARY SUE MILLER

Instant makeup remover has been the dream of all busy women — time-less women in offices and homes, on trains, planes or highways. Well, as the result of a brainstorm by cosmetic staffers, it's here.

A sort of "magic" lotion instantly removes all traces of makeup, soil and polluted air, without muss, fuss, or rinsing. Cleansers are completely self-contained: application is suitable for all skins and all ages. It removes foundation, cheek color, lipstick and eye makeup.

For a clean sweep, you simply whisk it on with a cotton ball. That's all.

A lady architect has dubbed this kind of cleanser a "portable powder room." Packages are indeed totable — unbreakable plastic bottles fit into a handbag, desk drawer, beach bag, glove compartment, medicine chest. In other words you can clean up whereever and whenever you lack time or facilities for deep-pore cleansing.

The instant remover method leaves skin looking and feeling refreshed, and ready for a sparkling makeup. Gone are the stale effects of applying layer upon layer of cosmetics. Not to mention the possible harm done the skin by such a course.

All of which goes to show cosmetic chemists are sensitive to your slightest wish and work toward its fulfillment. Never fail to let your voice be heard.

Hard Decision

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter from a woman who felt guilty because she had put her senile, incontinent father in a nursing home. Her guilt was reinforced when she was reminded how her father had diapered her and put up with her childish babbling. To compare a child with an elderly person is ridiculous.

A child can be diapered in public in a stroller. An elderly person cannot. A child can be left in a playpen. An elderly person cannot. A child learns and matures in time. An older person becomes worse. The old person who can get around thinks he is capable of "cooking" and using matches and has to be watched every moment.

It's easy to get a baby sitter. Try to get someone to sit with an old person. Relatives won't even help.

So, after eight years when I couldn't take it anymore, I found the nicest, cleanest nursing home I could afford and I took my elderly father there. I said goodby with tears in my eyes to someone who didn't even know me.

Then I went home and started to be a wife and mother again. I looked at my husband with grateful eyes for his willingness to pay for the care of my father in a nursing home. (It isn't cheap.)

Then the letters started to come from my brothers and sisters who had never offered to keep Dad for one day. They said, "YOU put Dad in a nursing home. How could you?"

I'll sign myself what my father always called me.

Farmer Had To Stomach Nude

INNSBRUCK, Austria — Farmer Adolf Walthauser, 48, was angry when he found artist Sophia Larocca painting in his field.

He walked up to her, bared his stomach and said, "Draw me nude!" Miss Larocca painted a nude on his stomach before the poor man could cover himself. Walthauser wanted damages, but his lawyer convinced him he had no case.

She Gets Lots Of Help In Cooking, Baking, Decorating

By BARBARA LORD

"My mother is of German ancestry, and the Germans want to eat all the time," said Mrs. Gerald Miller. "Mother spent a lot of time in the kitchen, but I was never really insterested enough to help any more than I had to."

When Mr. and Mrs. Miller married 14 years ago in Seguin, she knew the basics of cooking, but realized soon that she had a lot to learn. Luckily, she had help. Her husband likes to cook.

Miller is the district conservationist with the United States Department of Agriculture. The couple has three children, Cindy, 12, Lorrie, 11, and Rusty, 2.

"He can do about anything in the kitchen that I can do," said Mrs. Miller about her husband. "He helps with the desserts as well as main dishes." Additional help comes from their two daughters, whom Mrs. Miller encourages whenver they show an interest in helping. They prefer baking to cooking, and Mrs. Miller said they're very good about cleaning up the clutter when they're through.

Baking is also Mrs. Miller's favorite task in the kitchen, but she gets her share of preparing meals as well. The family enjoys breakfast together each morning; Miller comes home for lunch (sandwich or soup) every day; and she fixes a hot and nutritious meal every night.

BAKES BREAD

"I like to bake our own bread occasionally, but if I made it very often my family would get used to it and expect it all the time," said Mrs. Miller. "I don't want to be obligated to it."

MRS. GERALD MILLER

The Millers enjoy casseroles and Mexican foods, but other than these variations, they prefer meat and potato meals. Many of Mrs. Miller's recipes are acquired through members of College Park Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Miller is vice president and past president of the club. She also gets recipes from newspapers and magazines, but many of the family favorites are those she has had for so long she doesn't remember the source.

In the way of hobbies, Mrs. Miller enjoys a wide variety. She has done decoupage, foil art, "modge podge" and some ceramics. She and her husband refinish furniture to add to the early American decor of their home at 606 Baylor.

"Gerald does most of the refinishing," said Mrs. Miller. "I enjoy it and help when I can, but most of my help is just in finding the pieces to be done. I don't like furniture that you buy just to look at; it has to be useful."

Also, Mrs. Miller likes to sew, and she classifies it as a necessity as well as a hobby. She took a tailoring course and learned the finer points of the art. She said she can't see something she likes in a store without comparing the cost to what it would be if she made it.

CHAUFFEUR

Mrs. Miller's days and evenings are kept filled with chauffeuring her children to various activities. Cindy plays flute in the Runnels Band and Lorrie is a Girl Scout. The family attends First Presbyterian Church.

When the Millers were told they were coming to Big Spring seven years ago, they thought they were "being sent to the end of the world." Now, they consider it home. She is originally from Seguin, and he is from San Antonio. They lived in Snyder and Mineral Wells before coming here, and Miller, who is a hunter, traded his deer country for quail and dove country.

Miller is a graduate of Southwest Texas State University at San Marcos, where he majored in agriculture.

NEW HAMBURGER CUPS
Running over with flavor

Danish Style: Cool, Casual

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Danish cuisine is famous for its open-face sandwiches. That gave a bright cook the idea of concocting an open-face salad. Iceberg lettuce takes the place of bread and there's an accompanying Sour Cream Dressing we think you'll like.

DANISH OPEN-FACE LETTUCE SALAD

1 small head iceberg lettuce
Sour Cream Dressing, see below
12 thin slices cheese
8 thin slices smoked salmon
Thinly sliced cucumber, pared and scored thin sweet onion rings
8 canned sardines
Cherry tomatoes, halved
Dill or sweet pickle slices
Herb, parsley or watercress sprigs

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce. Wrap and chill.

Prepare and chill Sour Cream Dressing.

Just before serving, cut 4 crosswise slices from the lettuce and place each one on a salad plate.

Spread each lettuce slice with a layer of Sour Cream Dressing.

Arrange cheese, salmon, cucumber, onion and sardines attractively on top. Garnish with tomato, pickle and herb sprigs.

Pass remaining dressing.

SOUR CREAM DRESSING

1 cup commercial sour cream
¼ cup mayonnaise
2 tbsps. white wine vinegar
¼ tbsps. chopped dill or sweet pickle
1 tsp. onion salt
1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. dill weed
¼ tsp. white pepper

Thoroughly mix together all ingredients. Makes about 1¼ cups.

Hamburger Highlight For Barbecue Buffs

How did the barbecue buff ever get along before the "invention" of hamburger? Here is a recipe for forming that old favorite into hamburger cups. They cook about as quickly as patties and can be filled with a variety of foods. For a rich barbecued appearance as well as added flavor brush the meat with a glaze of jelly, horseradish and Kitchen Bouquet, the bottled browning sauce.

GLAZED AND FILLED HAMBURGER CUPS

2 lb. ground beef
3 tbsps. quick-cooking rice cereal
2 tsps. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 egg, beaten
1½ tsps. bottled browning sauce
¼ cup apple jelly
1 or 2 tsps. prepared horseradish.

Combine beef, rice cereal, 1 teaspoon saltand pepper lightly with a fork. Mix together egg and 1 teaspoon browning sauce. Add to meat. Divide meat into 8 portions and form around back of 8 individual foil cupcake pans. Combine jelly, water, horseradish, remaining browning sauce and salt in small saucepan. Heat and stir untol blended. Brush on meat. Place meat-covered cupcake pans open side down 2 to 3 inches from medium to hot coals. Grill 10 minutes or until edges are brown and meat next to pans holds cup shape. Brush with remaining glaze. Turn and remove pans. Cook about 5 minutes more. Serve filled with baked beans or heated sauerkraut. Makes 8 hamburger cups.

OVEN BARBECUE CHICKEN

5 lbs. chicken, cut up
3 tbsps. catsup
2 tbsps. vinegar
2 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
4 tbsps. butter, melted
3 tbsps. brown sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. chili powder
1 tsp. paprika

Dip chicken pieces in a sauce made by combining all other ingredients. Place chicken inside a greased paper bag and bake at 500 degrees for 15 minutes in a tightly-covered roasting pan. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for one hour, 15 minutes.

LEMON SPONGE

1 3-oz. pkg. lemon gelatin
1¼ cups hot water
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon
⅔ cup sugar
1 large can evaporated milk
Vanilla wafers

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, add sugar and lemon and chill until ready to whip. Chill milk until ice crystals form in it, then whip as you would cream. Whip gelatin, and combine both mixtures. Whip again. Pour into a long Pyrex dish (9 by 13 by 2-inches), which has been covered with vanilla wafer crumbs on the bottom. Alternate layers of crumbs and lemon sponge until dish is filled. Set in refrigerator to chill.

OMY'S FUDGE CAKE

2 cups sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup shortening
½ cup cocoa
½ cup butermilk
1 tsp. soda
2 cups flour
1 cup boiling water

Combine all ingredients except boiling water. Mix thoroughly. Add boiling water, mix, and immediately pour into layer cake pans, and bake for 30 to 35 minutes at 350 degrees.

PEACH COBBLER

1 No. 2 can sliced peaches, drained
2 cups sugar
1 cup flour
4 tsps. baking powder
⅔ cup milk
½ cup butter

Mix peaches and one cup sugar, and simmer for five minutes. Make batter by melting butter in a 9 by 12-inch pan. Combine flour, baking powder, remaining 1 cup sugar and milk. Pour over melted butter, and then pour peach mixture over batter. Do not mix. Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. When crust rises to top, sprinkle with sugar. Bake 10 minutes longer.

BLITZ KUCHEN (Lightning Cake)

½ cup shortening
4 egg yolks, unbeaten
1 cup flour
Pinch of salt
⅔ cup sugar
3 tbsps. milk
1 tsp. baking powder
Juice and grated rind of one lemon

Cream all ingredients together, except lemon juice and rind. Add lemon, and cream well. Spread batter into two greased and floured layer cake pans. Cover with meringue.

Meringue:

4 egg whites
1 cup sugar
½ cup pecans or coconut

Beat egg whites until stiff. Add sugar and pecans. Spread on top of batter, and bake at 300 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool in pan.

Custard (for between layers):

½ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
2½ tsps. cornstarch
1 egg, beaten
1 tsp. vanilla

Mix all ingredients, and simmer over medium heat until thickened. Place one layer of cake, meringue side down, on cake plate. Spread with custard. Place other layer on top with meringue side up.

WHET YOUR FAMILY'S APPETITE
With aroma of seasoned chicken

CHICKEN, BARLEY AND MUSHROOM CASSEROLE

3 tbsps. butter
1 cup med. grain barley
½ cup sliced celery
½ cup thinly sliced onion
1 can (3-oz.) sliced broiled in butter mushrooms, undrained
1 cup chicken bouillon

Brush chicken with browning sauce and arrange on top of barley. Cover with foil and bake in a preheated 350 degrees oven 45 minutes. Remove foil and arrange oranges on top of chicken or around edge of baking dish. Cover with foil again and bake 30 minutes more. Makes 4 servings.

Turkey Sandwich

Make a devilishly new turkey salad sandwich. Mix one cup chopped turkey and ¼ cup chopped celery with mayonnaise. Spread eight slices of whole wheat bread with one 4½ ounce can deviled ham. Put turkey and a lettuce leaf on four slices. Close sandwiches with remaining bread slices.

Could Be Subsidizing Business

By agreeing to construct an unpaved road for a developer of a largely undeveloped subdivision, the County Commissioners Court may be subsidizing a business, in effect.

Howard County road department men and equipment are to be used to increase the value of land, and the developer will realize profit from this increased value when he sells the land.

The court should establish a policy requiring subdividers to construct and pave the roads themselves before approving a subdivision. Only when homes or businesses have been established on a majority of the land in a subdivision should the court be willing to accept road right of way and to use government resources to improve roads.

State law gives the court power to require the developer to provide certain widths of right of way for roads; declare specifications for construction of roads within the proposed subdivision; establish specifications for adequate drainage for roads; and to post bond of not more than $3 per lineal foot of road for proper construction of roads.

State law says:

"The Commissioners Court of any such county (one with population less than 100,000) shall have the authority to refuse to approve or authorize any map or plat of any such subdivision, unless such map or plat meets the requirements set forth in this Act . . ."

A Job Well Done

After 62 years of service, Gen. Lewis B. Hershey has begun his well-deserved retirement.

Hershey, 79, enlisted as a National Guard private in 1911. He retired as a lieutenant general. For three decades, 1941-1970, he headed the Selective Service System, influencing the lives of more than 14 million Americans. For the past three years he had been a manpower adviser to the President.

The general was the focal point of draft protests during the height of the Vietnam war. He did stay on too long in that job. But his career was a long one built on dedication and duty.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

The Bible says that the earth will be destroyed by fire. How do you think this will happen? Could it be a bomb, or might there occur just sudden disintegration of everything? I'm not worried, just curious. R.G.M.

First, let's set the stage by quoting the text you refer to. Peter wrote the words in the third chapter of his second letter, "But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the nighto in which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works therein shall be burned up."

Obviously, Bible writers had to use the best word imagery they could to describe coming events. In the first century, before explosives and atomic energy, this was a pretty accurate portrayal of a universe-wide catastrophe. Peter knew, as God's Spirit counseled him, that at the end of the age there would be this inevitable and devastating judgment of God. It would come on a creation that rebelled against Him. Now there's a strangely contemporary sound to that, isn't there?

As a matter of fact, many evangelical theologians are saying that the time is getting increasingly ripe for this prophecy. Nobody really knows when or how it will happen, but happen it must, as God's righteous timetable moves along.

I hope your curiosity leads you soon to the discovery of faith in Christ. You see, the same God who reluctantly scheduled judgment, has eagerly provided safety for all who claim Him. After you reread my first paragraph, check the 23rd Psalm. You'll see what I mean.

'LET US TURN NOW TO OUR PROBLEMS AT HOME...'

Biting The Hand

By Rowland Evans
And Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Growing indications that Prime Minister George Papadopoulos, the Greek strongman, is now running into serious political troubles at home derive not so much from the unprecedented outbreak of student riots in Athens as from the intentionally arrogant way Col. Papadopoulos has lately been treating President Nixon and the United States.

Anti-government demonstrations are hardly unique in today's political world, but what Col. Papadopoulos did earlier this year with his abrupt cancellation of direct U.S. military aid — with no prior word to Mr. Nixon, his long-time benefactor — had no precedent in this country's long postwar history of military aid.

PAPADOPOULOS LEAKED his decision to cancel U.S. military grant aid to the controlled Greek ress on Jan. 15, with major headline play and maximum public exposure on the radio and television. The reason for handling the decision that way, as perceived here, is a desire to cater to growing anti-Americanism in Greece. That anti-American feeling, in turn, has been the direct result ofthe cozy relationship between the Nixon administration and the military dictatorshi installed by the Papadopoulos-dominated Greek junta almost exactly six years ago.

Particularly infuriating to the Greek people was the deal between Papadopoulos and the U.S. to permit "homeporting" of the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Athens area.

In view of the political risks Mr. Nixon had taken to extend military aid to Papadopoulos,the abrupt cancellation of that aid early this year — an event scarcely noted in Washington — set something of a record for incivility.

Consider the background. In the summer of 1971, by an overwhelming majority, the House passed an amendment to the foreign aid bill authored by Rev. Wayne Hays of Ohio, no soft-liner, barring all U.S. military aid to Greece. That limitation on arms aid finally found its way into the foreign aid law — bit with a proviso permitting the President to extend the aid if he found "ovwrriding requirements o f t h e national security of the United States."

On Feb. 17, 1972, Mr. Nixon made just such a finding — and ordered the Pentagon to send some $10 million of direct military aid to Greece.

MOREOVER, THE White House had been making secret but hard-hitting attempts to persuade Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany also to extend military aid to the Greek dictatorship. Mr. Nixon's reason for that was obvious: under attack in the U.S. Congress for playing footsie with the military junta, he wanted at least one other member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to join the U.S. In fact, all NATO nations except the U.S. were beginning to treat the Papadopoulos regime as the leper of Europe.

The West German government, in a series of secret agreements never fully made public, did finally consent to go along with President Nixon and the U.S. and send token aid to Greece. As a quid pro quo, Papadopoulos agreed — again with no public announcement — to free several score political prisoners held in Greek jails ever since the 1967 coup d'etat.

As it turned out, only one such political prisoner was in fact spirited out of Greece; the deal came a cropper, and Bonn not only did not carry out its part of the arrangement but its ambassador was declared persona non grata.

YET, DESPITE Mr. Nixon going out on several limbs for Papadopoulos, the Colonel never informed Washington in advance of his decision to renounce all American military aid on Jan. 15. Instead of letting Mr. Nixon get credit with Congress for cancelling the aid, Papadopoulos took full credit himself and in such a way that the U.S. State Department had to duck a question on whether the U.S. had been consulted.

The end of military aid, however, won't soften anti-Papadopoulos sentiment in Congress. Thus, two days later Democratic Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal of New York, chairman of a key House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, wrote Greek exile leader Elias Demetracopoulos that because of its continuing "moral support" of the Greek government, the U.S. "bears responsibility" for the plight of political prisoners. That was as strong an indictment of American policy toward Greece as any Congressman has ever made.

Ever Comb A Porcupine?

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — For everything a man does in this world there are a thousand things he leaves undone or never gets around to trying.

So when you meet anyone who is bored because he feels he's seen everything, done everything worth doing and met everybody worth knowing, you know he's awfully ignorant — or he's an awful liar.

If a fellow feels a bit jaded or fed up with what he does and how he spends his time, he might make a list of things he hasn't got around to doing. It might get him to try to do something new.

Here — right off the top of his head — are a few things one man hasn't got around to doing, for one reason or another:

Put out the fire in a dragon's boiler.

Played the "Moonlight Sonata" on a harmonica.

Written an anonymous letter.

Begged the issue.

Tried to make a living as a crying towel salesman in Utopia.

Hidden behind a woman's slacks.

Raised or lowered the Federal Reserve Bank's discount rate.

Rescued a horse from a banker's runaway daughter.

Made love in a helicopter.

Salted an abandoned gold mine.

Woke up dewy-eyed.

Been able to tell the vintage of a bottle of French wine — or cola, for that matter — with eyes closed.

Sold anything under the counter.

Cast a pearl before swine.

Barked up the wrong tree.

Traded recipes with a cannibal.

Decided a national election with a last-minute vote.

Taken Dracula to lunch during National Brotherhood Week.

Made much mileage by dating long-distance telephone operators.

Combed a porcupine.

So don't just lie there complaining about your lot, sluggard. The world is singing with the summons of a host of things undone.

Both Are Antiseptic

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When my children fall and cut themselves or suffer a break in the skin, my wife pours rubbing alcohol on the wound.

I claim an antiseptic spray is safer, less painful and not dangerous. What's the medical opinion? — A.S.

Nothing wrong with the alcohol except it is likely to sting, probably a lot more than the wound itself.

As long as spray is available, why not use it and spare the kids the extra pain? Ask your wife which treatment she would prefer.

Before the new antiseptics came along, alcohol or even whisky was appropriate to use and the general effectiveness was usually measured by "how much it hurt." The idea has held on and your wife probably still feels that it has to hurt to be effective. Not true.

Incidentally, the most effective method of sterilization is to wash out the wound with soap and water. If a cut bleeds readily, probably that's all you need do.

However, since infection usually comes after the cut, it is best to cover the wound with a sterile dresing. Every house should have a supply of covered, sterile bandages for such emergencies.

While I'm on the subject, I should add that it is the puncture wound that is more likely to become infected and in that case antiseptics, whichever kind you choose, will have little if any value.

Such wounds should be made to bleed and immediate steps should be taken to avoid infection, including getting a tetanus shot if the victim has not had one within five years.

Dear Dr. Trosteson: You don't seem to have a booklet on psoriasis. Is there anything that can be done for it? My sister is almost a nervous wreck with a bad case on arms and legs. — H.L.T.

No, I haven't written a booklet on psoriasis because about all I could do would be to give a long list of things which some people claim to have used as successful cures.

Trouble is that every last one of them has also been tried by others without success. Indeed, sometimes it goes away without treatment, but not often.

Really, the best advice I can give is to advise sufferers to go to a dermatologist for any of several treatments that will soften the scales of psoriasis, keep the skin pliable, and prevent the itching. And to take a philosophical view that at least this isn't the kind of disease which kills or cripples you.

I add that last bit of counsel because, for whatever unknown reasons, nervous tension and worrying about it often seem to make it worse.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son is 14 and any little bit of exercise makes his knees hurt. He has been checked for rheumatic fever and been x-rayed but nothing showed. The doctor says it is probably growing pains, but I can't believe this — not when a 14-year-old cries from pain after walking a block. — V.G.

I agree that "growing pains" is a weak excuse, because growth isn't painful. It's time to look further to find out WHY he hurts. My suggestion: the condition of the feet or footwear which does not give sufficient support (or a combination of the two) can be reflected in pain such as your son suffers. A podiatrist or an orthopedist would be my choice to examine him.

* * *

Headaches! You can beat them. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How To Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Illinois Tests Night Drivers

CHICAGO (AP) — High-level lighting systems at three driver test centers here have accomplished two beneficial results — efficiency of the stations is up and irritation associated with having a student driver in the family is down.

The system, consisting of 1,000-watt Metalarc lamps in Acre-of-Lite fixtures, made it possible for the state of Illinois to extend driver tests beyond daylight hours. Both the lamps and the massive fixtures, which spread an average of 5 foot-candles of light per acre of ground, are produced by GET Sylvania Inc.

The lights were installed to make it easier for working parents who found it inconvenient to accompany their student drivers to test centers during normal working hours. The longer operational hours also greatly increased the testing capacity of the centers. About 43 per cent of all tests are performed under lights.

Getting Used To Sand

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

Sandstorms always remind me of how long I've now lived in West Texas. I was a native South Texan and moved out here in 1950. That's 23 years ago this year. Long enough to have seen a sandstorm or two.

SPRING HAD always been my favorite time of year down in the Gulf Coastal regi on and I loved those gulf breezes.

We moved to Pecos in the fall and it was a lovely time of year. But since I've been in West Texas, my favorite time of year has shifted from spring to fall.

We had a light winter that year and along about March, I got up one morning unaware of what a real sandstorm was like.

Before night I knew. In 1950, Reeves County farmers had discovered irrigation water and they had plowed up almost every available acre of land all the way around Pecos. All the dirt was loose.

That fine white caliche dust began to blow that day in under a regular sandstorm and you couldn't see two feet in front of you.

IT BLEW INTO houses like the windows were wide open and I spent half the day putting wet rags along the window sills and at the base of the front door — which unfortunately faced west.

In spite of all of that, every stick of furniture in that house was covered with sand. The baby cried because she couldn't go "outside to play" and finally settled for sitting in the middle of a dusty floor and wiping up the floor with her corduroy overalls.

I couldn't believe that mess. You had to sweep a chair off before you could sit down. And wash the dishes before you ate as well as after.

BY THE TIME my husband came home, I was in tears. And when he began to tell me about how he had gone out to check a crop loan for the bank and got caught out in the storm and couldn't see to drive, I shut up about the dirty house.

Since then, I've gotten to drive in a few of those sanders myself. Just a few weeks ago, I was driving across by Tarzan and Lenorah and it got where you couldn't tell whether you were on the road or in the ditch.

A couple of days after that I was be m o a n i n g the tragedy of housecleaning in West Texas in the spring. This one pioneer ranch woman said, unsympathetically, "Oh don't get so bent out of shape. Most of them aren't as bad as that one the other day and when they are, the best thing to do is just open the doors and windows and let it blow on through."

SEVERAL TIMES after that, when we were having a real lalapaloozer, I thought about her advice . . . but somehow I just never did have the nerve to carry it out.

I still fight to keep the sand out and clean it up. But I have learned that in the spring, you don't always have to get after housecleaning immediately. After all, tomorrow may bring a bigger and better sandstorm.

Save The Brush

WASHINGTON — The energy crisis has reached the point where it is quite possible that Americans will be asked to make great sacrifices to conserve the power we need to maintain the highest standard of living in the world.

A group of wise old men met in Washington, D.C., last week to discuss what electrical appliances could be eliminated from the American home to guarantee an adequate energy supply for our future years.

"GENTLEMEN, WE are here today to discuss the elimination of certain electrical appliances from the American scene. The President has asked us to present him with a list of those appliances that will have to be sacrificed to conserve our power supplies. Are there any suggestions?"

"I think the electric toothbrush should go," one of the wise men suggested.

"Are you out of your mind?" another said. "You can't expect Americans to brush their teeth by hand. It would cause tremendous hardship on the average middle-income citizen who has no one to brush his teeth for him. Gentlemen, I'm as much for power conservation as the next person, but let's not lose our heads."

"All right. What about abolishing electric hair curlers?"

"RIDICULOUS," a wise man rumbled. "The American women in this country would be up in arms if he took their electric curlers away from them. How can we expect them to support our energy policies if they have no easy way of setting their hair?"

"Good point," said the chairman. "We can't throw out the baby with the bath water."

"I have a suggestion as to how we can save some power," another wise man said. "Why don't we ban the electric pencil sharpener?"

There was dead silence. Finally a man shouted, "No way! The electric pencil sharpener is the key to the entire capitalist system. Do you know why the Russians are behind us in their schools? Because their students are still sharpening their pencils by hand. Besides, our gross national product depends on electric pencil sharpeners. It takes a Russian secretary a full minute to sharpen her pencil by the antiquated nonelectric method. Our secretaries can do it in 10 seconds. Gentlemen, once you allow the Soviets to close the pencil sharpener gap, you can kiss our economy goodby."

The chairman said, "Then we're all in agreement that the electric pencil sharpener stays."

"What about the electric can opener?"

"Absolutely essential. You can't ask an American citizen to open a can by hand. We'll have a revolution on our hands."

"I imagine that would go for electric orange juice squeezers also?"

Shortage Nearing

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — Like a mirage seen in shimmering desert heat is the vast wealth of the oil sheikoms in the Persian Gulf. When in the next decade the United States must import up to 30 per cent of all the oil we use their take will increase from roughly $10 billion a year to $30 billion or more.

That tidy sum will be at the command of sheiks whose desert principalities are sparsely populated and whose peoples make few demands. The leverage in world finance and diplomacy this will give these autocrats is reason for dark foreboding in Western capitals, foremost among them Washington. Along with the sheikdoms there are the leading oil producers such as Iran and Saudi Arabia, making up a total over-all of 75 to 90 billion of dollars, yen, sterling and francs by 1980.

HOW WILL THEY spend these vast sums? In a speech in Paris recently Thornton F. Bradshaw, president of Atlantic Richfield, put this question to a leading British politican. Bradshaw said all he could think of was that they would come into the stock market and buy all of General Motors, all of IBM, all of General Electric. After thinking for a moment, his British friend replied:

"Splendid! You let them buy General Motors. You let them buy IBM. You let them buy General Electric. And then you nationalize."

This was, of course, meant for a laugh. In a serious vein Bradshaw made what for an oil man was an heretical proposal. He suggested sharply increased taxes on cars according to horsepower to discourage large cars. He would encourage the use of gasoline taxes for building mass transit systems in cities.

A gasoline shortage is just around the corner. It is likely to be acute with the beginning of the tourist season. The motorist scurrying from pump to pump to fill up his tank will be a common sight. Prices will rise sharply and there may even be an attempt at rationing, which promises to be both too late and too little.

SHORT OF A direct attack on the great god horsepower and the status symbol of the Cadillac and the Lincoln Continental, the pinch will grow worse from year to year. Far from stimulating production of the motorcar, as was the goal when the excise tax was removed, the objective should be just the opposite.

A Devotion For Today . .

"Love your enemies, and do good, and lend, expecting nothing in return; and your reward will be great, and you will be sons of the Most High; for he is kind to the ungrateful and the selfish. (Luke 6:35, RSV)

PRAYER: Father, make us more loving that we may reflect Your image in which we are created. For Your sake. Amen.

Garment Courses Offered At HC

A series of training courses in garment industry sewing will be offered to area residents by Howard County Junior College beginning April 9 and lasting four weeks. A new course will start each week.

The college will work jointly with the Chamber of Commerce and Big Spring Dress Company in developing the training program.

Trainees will receive 36 hours experience using industrial sewing equipment and at the end of the period their applications will be considered for employment by the dress company.

Garment industry workers in Big Spring receive the minimum wage as a base salary, and are then paid at a piece rate for work done beyond quota.

"It is not uncommon for many of our workers to earn $2.60 an hour," said F. E. "Mel" Melton, supervisor of the local dress plant.

He said employes get three to five paid holidays each year, Blue Cross-Blue Shield insurance benefits and a week of paid vacation after having worked for the company a year. Employes work in a well-lighted, air conditioned setting.

Training classes will be held 6-9 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights at the factory. Mrs. Virginia Morris will be the instructor. She has been training supervisor at the company for the past two years.

There will be no charge for the training program. Participants must be at least 18 years old and under 62 in order to qualify for employment after training.

Interested persons may register by phoning the college, 267-6311 Ext. 32. Applicants are asked to please not call the factory.

Mauzy Day Park Site

AUSTIN (AP) — Kiest Park in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas will become Texas' temporary capital on April 28 when Sen. Oscar Mauzy, Dallas, becomes governor-for-a-day.

Mauzy chose the site because it is in his district.

Mauzy's longtime friend, U.S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes, will administer the oath.

Preceding the 11:30 a.m. ceremony will be a memorial service at the John F. Kennedy Memorial in downtown Dallas, with the Rev. Zan Holmes, former House member, presiding.

Several members of the Dallas Cowboys professional football team, including Rayfield Wright, Cornell Green, Ron Sellers, Tony Fritsch and Marv Bateman, will hold a football clinic as part of the program following Mauzy's swearing-in ceremony.

Mauzy is president protempore, or assistant presiding officer, of the Senate during the regular session of the 63rd Texas Legislature and it is tradition that the persons holding the job is honored at a governor-for-a-day ceremony and festivities.

Fellowship To BS Man

Dr. (Maj.) Bruce Ettinger, a Webb Hospital physician, has been chosen by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists to receive a research fellowship.

The fellowship, according to Dr. Ettinger, is designed to allow the recipient to continue his education toward a career in research and related teaching within the field of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

The doctor is one of two recipients chosen this year nationwide.

Dr. Ettinger, chief of obstetrics and gynecology here will be working on a project aimed at understanding defects in pregnancy which lead to a lack of oxygen in an infant.

He will be working in Portland, Ore., at the Oregon Regional Primate Research Center and the University of Oregon School of Medicine.

To qualify for the award the applicant must be a specialist in OB-GYN, and be considered by his training supervisor as suitable for a career in medical education.

The doctor and his wife, Lois, have been at Webb for nearly two years. They are both natives of New York. They have two children, Jesse, 3 years; and Kerry, 2 months.

The fellowship will begin July 1 and will be for a one - year period, after which the physician will be on his own to finance the rest of the project.

Total Of 47,513 Bales Processed

As harvesting finally approached an end, nine Howard County gins had received 47,513 bales of cotton this crop year, a survey Monday and Tuesday revealed.

Lomax Gin Co. led with 9,103 bales counted and another 200 to 300 still out in the field. Last year, Lomax posted 6,663 bales ginned.

Second place goes to the Wendell Shive Gin in Coahoma. Shive's gin garnered 6,900 bales, a whopping increase over the 3,855 processed at the facility last crop year.

Next came Farmers Co-Op at Knott, a gin with 6,734 bales in and planning to reach 6,800. Last crop year, the gin showed 8,088 bales received.

With 5,595 bales compared to 4,800 for last year was Planters Gin on the Lamesa Highway. Their season is over.

Co-Op Gins at 511 NE 2nd St. reported 5,383 bales, about the same as the 5,400 bales ginned the previous year.

Broughton Gin in Big Spring gave 4,175 bales as the amount received and projected 50 bales still out.

Vincent Gin Co. closed out with 3,96 bales on their books. At Knott, Planters Co-Op ended with 3,661 bales.

Broughton's Gin in Coahoma processed about 2,000 bales.

Eight Cities To Celebrate

AUSTIN — It's centennial time in Texas.

The Calendar of Texas Events, issued today by the Texas Highway Department, indicates that the year 1873 was an important one in Texas history. During the April-September period covered by the Calendar, at least eight cities, from El Paso to Texarkana, will be celebrating their 100th year.

Others reaching that milestone are Terrell, Overton, Mineola, Plano, Weimar and Schulenberg.

One of the state's oldest cities, Columbus, marks its 150th birthday on May 11-20, while Yorktown takes note of its 125th anniversary on April 12-14.

The entire month of August has been set aside to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Texas Rangers, with activities centered around the Texas Rangers' Fort Fisher in Waco.

Some 800 events are listed in the Calendar in addition to the special anniversary celebrations.

As befits a Texas Calendar, there are dozens of rodeos and roping contests, and rodeo fans will have no trouble finding places to follow the sport.

From flea markets to major festivals; from sand sculpture contests to displays of fine art, pleasure, he will find it some time, somewhere in Texas.

Copies of the six-month Calendar are available at Highway Department tourist bureaus, or by writing the Texas Highway Department, Travel and Information Division, P.O. Box 5064, Austin, Tex. 78767.

Crime Roll Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Sen. John Tower voted to defeat a motion to table and thus kill a crime bill amendment to provide mandatory minimum sentences for non addict drug pushers and for those who use or carry a gun in a federal crime.

The Senate defeated the motion to table 76-18 Tuesday.

Fired Because Of KKK Link?

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal court hearing for an airport guard who claims he was fired because of his membership in the Ku Klux Klan was expected to end today, lawyers said.

C. C. Clark is asking U.S. District Court Judge John V. Singleton to order the city to reinstate him as a security guard at Houston Intercontinental Airport and give him all back pay.

Clark is represented by lawyers from the American Civil Liberties Union, an organization frequently attacked by the Klan.

Percy R. Follis, chief of airport police, said Tuesday that Clark was fired not because of his affiliation with the KKK but because of his bad temper and inability to get along with superiors.

Several other airport officers testified that Clark discussed the Klan frequently and tried to get them to attend Klan functions.

Plan To Issue Tax Free Bonds

HOUSTON (AP) — City councilmen overruled objections from their legal department and authorized a plan to issue tax free bonds for private educational institutions.

The decision was reached after W. Lawrence Cook Jr., an assistant city attorney, said in a letter that the move would "simply add weight to the efforts of those who already are desirous of depriving states and municipalities the privilege of issuing tax-exempt bonds."

The council formed the Houston Higher Education Authority, which consists of a board of directors appointed by the council. This step followed requests from two men representing the Gulf Coast Bible College.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ◇	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ◇

Today's hand produced a rather surprising swing when it was dealt in a recent team-of-four contest. The bidding was identical at both tables and South became declarer at a final contract of three no trump.

At one table, West opened the ten of diamonds and after this was covered by dummy's jack and East's queen, the latter was permitted to hold the trick when South followed with the deuce. A diamond was continued by East and declarer played the king which won.

The ace of spades was cashed followed by a small spade. West put up the king on the second round and returned the nine of diamonds to dislodge South's ace.

A small heart was led to dummy's ten and East was in with the ace. He shifted to a club. South put up the ace, led a small heart to the jack and then played dummy's queen of spades. When the jack and nine dropped, he had nine tricks — four spades, two hearts, two diamonds and one club.

At the other table, everything started out the same—declarer held off on the first round of diamonds, won the continuation and then cashed the ace of spades. West had been doing some thinking, however, and observing that his opponent would routinely bring in the spade suit if left to his own resources, West decided that desperate measures were in order to steer South off the course.

He dropped the king of spades under the ace to create the impression that he had a singleton. It appeared to declarer that there was no future in spades inasmuch as the suit seemed to be divided five-one.

He looked elsewhere for the required tricks and clubs offered a reasonable chance. Six tricks can be counted in the other suits—two each in spades, hearts and diamonds. Repeated finesses thru East will secure three more in clubs, provided that the latter holds either the king or jack.

A heart was led to the ten and ducked by East. The nine of clubs was returned for a finesse. West was in with the jack and cleared the diamond suit. Another heart was led, and this time East played the ace and came back with a club. South put in the ten and West won with the king and cashed the eight of diamonds for the setting trick.

Private Mail Companies Double In Past 18 Months

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of private mail companies in the nation has doubled in the past 18 months and backers say the growth will continue as magazine publishers and large bulk mailers seek ways to escape rising U.S. postal rate and service problems.

"With each deterioration of mail service, these firms grow by leaps and bounds," says James H. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, which represents the nation's 220,000 mailmen, public and private.

OKIE FIRM

By association count, there are now about 200 private firms in operation. But they remain relatively small and localized, hardly a dust speck in the Post Office's eye.

Forbidden by law from carrying first-class letter mail, largely lacking intercity service, most of them specialize in delivering advertising flyers, catalogues and occasionally magazines within a single city.

Outfits delivering circulars on a door-to-door basis have been around for a long time. But the trend toward private mail delivery got a major boost in 1968 when an Oklahoma City firm won attention by putting mail into plastic bags and sticking it onto customers' doorknobs, says Rademacher. It is illegal for private firms to use mail boxes.

PUBLICITY

The firm, Independent Postal System of America, "got so much publicity that a lot of people got the idea to do the same thing," says Rademacher.

IPSA, which sells route franchises of about 400 houses to free-lance mailmen, often housewives, now has about 140 offices in 31 states. Ye5kmn revenues have been doubling each year, in 1972 they amounted to a mere $3 million, compared with well over $2 billion for second-and third-class mail handled by the U.S. Postal Service.

Private mail delivery is often cheaper than the U.S. Postal Service's, says Richard Paplinski, vice president of operations of Consumers Communications Services, a private mail service covering eight cities in Ohio, Indiana and Kansas.

DOING OUR BEST

He points out that a department store wanting to blanket an area with advertising flyers, for example, would have to pay CCS only $36 per 1,000 items, as compared with $48 with the U.S. Post Office.

Responding to the charges of slow delivery and high prices, a spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service says the service knows there are trouble spots, but "we're doing our best to overcome these problems and believe service is improving."

He noted that the postage charges were set by the independent Postal Rate Commission after lengthy hearings on what it cost the service to deliver mail.

Kidnaping, Assassination Will Not Nip Inauguration

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's military government vows that terrorist kidnaping and assassination will not block the inauguration of a Peronist president on May 25.

"Nothing and no one will stop the process which climaxed with the March 11 election," the ruling junta said after the slaying Wednesday of an army intelligence specialist, the fourth major terrorist crime in a week.

"The decision of the people and the government will be delivered to the new authorities on May 25."

However, the navy, in a separate announcement, said the incoming Peronist regime "should define itself clearly" on the issues of terrorism and guerrillas.

As part of their election strategy, Peronist candidates said guerrilla violence was justified because of the "military's violence" during its seven years in power. Thousands of young radicals and four groups of left-wing guerrillas supported the Peronists, but Peronist leaders say those guerrilla groups ceased their terrorist activities after the election.

President-elect Hector J. Campora met Wednesday night with Interior Minister Arturo Mor Roig, but neither issued a statement afterward.

Furr's To Add 10 Cafeterias

LUBBOCK — Dr. Jack D. Steele and Jearl R. Hale of Lubbock, have been elected directors of Furr's Cafeterias, Inc. at the annual meeting of company shareholders.

Dr. Steele has served as Dean of the College of Business Administration of Texas Tech University in Lubbock for the past three years. He formerly served as general manager of New York operations for Xerox Corporations Education Group.

Mr. Hale is chief pilot and director of transportation and real estate for the company. He joined Furr's as chief pilot in 1961.

Don Furr, president, told stockholders that the company anticipates the addition of about 10 cafeterias this year.

Five of these cafeterias are currently under construction in Garland and Amarillo; Glendale, Ariz.; Santa Fe, N.M., and Oklahoma City, he explained.

"In March, an agreement was signed for the building of a new cafeteria in El Paso's Morning-"negotiations are under way for the construction or acquisition of a number of new units, and the company expects to finalize some of these this year."

Furr said that even after absorbing the expenses of equipping or acquiring and opening eight cafeterias in 1972, the company is in the strongest financial position ever.

Furr's has approximately $5.9 million available for operating purposes and expansion opportunities, he said.

The company currently operates 45 cafeterias in six Southwestern states.

Furr pointed out that both sales and net income reached record levels during 1972. Net income of $1.6 million, or 71 cents per share, was 19 per cent ahead of the prior year. Sales climbed 23 per cent to $30.6 million.

"Management expects steady and profitable growth during 1973," concluded Furr.

'Boy Birth Pill' Idea

LONDON (AP) — A British scientist suggests a "boy birth pill" to produce male domination is the answer to the population problem.

Fertility depends largely on the proportion of women to men, Prof. John Postgate of Sussex University writes in the current issue of the magazine New Scientist. A rapid transition to a female minority is the quickest route to curbing population growth, he says.

Postgate says science could develop a selective fertilization pill that would assure 90 per cent male births, men would soon be in a large majority, and the rate of population growth would be reduced rapidly.

"There is a surprising prejudice among ordinary people in favor of having male children," he wrote. "Among most African, Asian and Central and South American peoples this prejudice amounts almost to an obsession.

"Millions would leap at the opportunity to breed male. No compulsion or even propaganda would be necessary."

He conceded that the shortage of women might result in widespread polyandry — marriage to more than one man at the same time — or in their being treated "like queen ants."

MEAT BOYCOTT CHANCES SLIM

'This Thing Is Like A Prairie Fire'

NEW YORK (AP) — Dramatic gesture though it may be, leading economists see little chance the nationwide meat boycott can have much lasting effect on prices.

The week-long protest would have to continue in some extended form to carry much weight among the major supply and demand forces at work around the world, many economic observers agree.

"It may make a lot of people feel better because they're doing something," says Dr. A. James Miegs, economist at New York's Argus Research Corp.

"But to have a significant impact on the price of beef, you would have to bring about a pretty fundamental change in American buying habits -- and I don't believe that's likely to happen."

RATTLE SABRE

"This thing is like a prairie fire," observes Walter Heller, University of Minnesota professor and former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

"The spontaneity of it is as impressive as its magnitude. One reason why I like it is that I think the consumer should rattle his saber occasionally.

EATING HABITS

"But I don't think the long-run effect on demand will be very tangible. I believe people are going to go back eventually to their basic eating habits."

"Prices went up in the first place because of the tremendous demand for beef in this country," noted Leif Olsen, chief economist at First National City Bank of New York, the nation's second largest bank.

Olsen said massive consumer responses to economic problems are not new in the United States. "Normally these things are rather temporary," he said.

However, he also pointed to the possibility that the boycott "may represent a peaking of demand. The whole purpose of prices is to balance supply and demand. This boycott suggests that we could have a levelling off of demand for, say, the rest of the year."

"If the consumer buys less this week and then makes up for it next week, it all washes out," said Paul Samuelson, Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor who won the 1970 Nobel Prize in economics.

VERY DRAMATIC

"It's very dramatic," said another knowledgeable economist who declined to be identified. "But a one-shot kind of boycott can at best have a temporary effect.

"It might be a different story if there were a continued campaign — like for instance 'meatless Monday' or 'meatless Friday' every week."

Robert Johnson, economist at the large brokerage firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, saw a chance that the boycott could actually work against the consumer.

Meat Price Ceilings Disturbing Packers

DALLAS (AP) — Meat packers are, as expected, unhappy about this week's meat boycott. But, they are not just unhappy about the meat price ceiling—they are worried about it.

They attribute rising meat prices to natural factors outside their control. And while the meat boycott is hurting them this week, they are more apprehensive about the price ceiling in weeks to come.

Herman M. Waldman, secretary-treasurer of Dallas City Packing, Inc., said Wednesday that production was off about 20 per cent this week. Although none of the firm's 100 employes has been laid off, he said, the scheduled work load has been cut back somewhat this week.

CAN'T PROJECT

"As a company," Waldman said, "all we can do is react. We can't project into the future." He cited increased demand and per capital consumption of beef in recent years and the short supply of cattle because of the hard winter and other factors.

Waldman said it takes about two years after the birth of a calf to get it on the table. "We can't crank up meat any quicker," he said.

He said the boycotters have gotten fabulous publicity and that people are conscious about their meat and the boycott.

Bob Ondrusek, a cattle buyer for Columbia Packing Co., echoed the sentiment that packers are being squeezed.

He said Columbia, a company with annual sales of about $3 million, lost $75,000 during the earlier wage-price freeze and believes the same thing could happen during the meat price ceiling.

UNFAIR

Ondrusek said the ceiling is "as unfair as it could be" to packers, citing what he called a worldwide shortage of cattle and hogs.

He denied that packers had been lining their pockets at the expense of the consumer. Several years ago, he said, the company's profit margin was between seven and 10 per cent of sales. Last year it was less than one-half of one per cent.

Waldman at Dallas City said also that profit margins were down in recent years.

Both agreed that the real effect of the boycott won't be known until Friday and Saturday when most people do their shopping.

Ondrusek, who said production at Columbia is down about 20 or 30 per cent this week, sees the ceiling as the greater threat because it will continue after this week.

He said despite the squeeze between the ceiling and rising animal prices, he had a number of regular customers whom he would have to supply, whether he made or lost money on the transactions.

Panel Hears Public School Money Plans

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dozens of witnesses have told the House Education Committee that Texas should adopt a new plan for financing public schools even though the U. S. Supreme Court says it does not have to.

The court ruled recently in a San Antonio case that Texas' Minimum Foundation program is constitutional, but it also noted there were discrepancies between what is spent per pupil in rich districts and what is spent in poor districts.

This problem is one to be resolved by the legislature and the local districts, the court.

Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, sponsor of one of two plans presented to the committee Wednesday night, noted that the court divided 5-4 on the issue. Change one vote, he said, and the state would be forced to adopt a new plan.

Kubiak's plan is backed by the State Board of Education.

The other proposal is sponsored by Rep. Dewitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, and is backed by the Texas State Teachers Association.

Both plans would scrap the Minimum Foundation program that was considered one of the best in the nation when it was created in 1949.

Both would require local districts to tax at 100 per cent of property value.

Under Kubiak's plan, 85 per cent of the school children of the state would get the same state and local dollar total if their districts voted taxes of as much as 65 cents per $100 valuation. But districts could receive some state aid by taxing at a rate as low as 25 cents.

Under the Hale bill, districts would have to tax at the rate of 45 cents or higher to get state assistance.

The Kubiak bill provides for greater flexibility in staffing since the Hale bill spells out in greater detail the personnel requirements according to the average daily attendance.

The Edgewood Independent School District in San Antonio, which was the one involved in the Supreme Court decision spendings $418 per student from state and local revenue each year.

The rich Andrews district in West Texas spends $1,707 per student.

The House chamber and balcony were filled with teachers, administrators and board members from all over the state for the hearing.

A subcommittee was expected to work on both bills.

BOO HER WRITERS

Give Ann-Margret Lots Of Credit For Good Try

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ann-Margret once appeared in a movie called "Kitten With a Whip." Would that she had saved said whip and used it on those who wrote her first NBC-TV special this year.

Because the material in "Ann - Margret — When You're Smiling" was of no help to the singer-actress in her bid to come back strong from the serious injuries she suffered in a stage accident last fall.

The special, scheduled for broadcast Wednesday night and screened for reviewers earlier this week, was taped at the Las Vegas Hilton and the NBC studios in Burbank, Calif.

The show had several bright spots—namely George Burns and Bob Hope, the stage sets, the brilliant musical arrangements, the crisp, swinging band work and the fine audio engineering effort.

But all this was sabotaged by a script and "special material" that made Ann-Margret come across, well, silly. I was pulling for her and instead wound up wincing throughout most of the show.

She opened, somewhat nervously, by singing "Everything I Have Belongs to You," then commenced gamboling about in the audience like a lost kitten in search of a pal.

The hour was partly salvaged by the on-stage appearances of Hope and Burns. They did sort of a Sun City buck-and-wing, kidded each other and emitted the sense of fun and competition you'd expect from two old pros who obviously respect each other.

Their presence occasionally seemed to give Ann-Margret a lift. She finally managed to get things going in the dance department with a rousing number that used her old motorbike pictures as the starting point.

All things considered, we'd have to give Ann-Margret lots of credit for a good try. Her writers—one of whom was her husband, ex-actor Roger Smith—deserve a loud boo.
