RANGERS ARREST FOUR MEN ACCUSED AS MARSHALL FLOGGERS

SENTENCES TO PRISON MAY BE METED QUARTET

PROSPEROUS FARMER AND RELATIVES ARE INVOLVED

BOND IS REFUSED

CHARGED WITH HAVING VIOLATED MASK LAW IN AFFAIR

MARSHALL, Tex., June 16.—Four men were arrested here tonight by state rangers in connection with the flogging on the night of June 4 of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Richardson, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Strapp. They are Cain Anderson, well-to-do farmer, Olin Bruhn, his son-in-law, Tom Weems, employed on the Anderson farm, and D. Osborne, tenant farmer residing on Anderson. Charges were filed against the four.

Charges of committing a crime of assault while in disguise and of approaching a private residence while in disguise, were filed against Anderson, Weems and Bruhn. Osborne, who was released under bond earlier this week on five charges, was placed under an additional charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Sheriff John C. Sanders, who with Deputy Sheriff John Henderson assisted the rangers, said that the men would not be allowed bond tonight. The rangers who made the arrests were Elmer O'Neal and Parviz.

Anderson was the first man arrested, being released in jail about 4:30 p. m. Subsequently Bruhn, about 20, and Weems, about 24, were arrested in that order west of Marshall and jailed and Osborne also was at work when the horses entering the private residence in disguise in ten years.

Sheriff Sanders and the three rangers worked on the case most of the day, leaving Marshall about 8 p. m. They returned about 11 p. m. and asked County Attorney Taylor to file charges.

Arrest warrants issued by Justice of Peace J. W. Price, the officers set out again and by midnight the four were in jail.

BREMEN, Germany, June 16 (AP)—Continuing their tour of Germany, Clarence D. Chamberlain and Charles A. Levine, the American trans-Atlantic fliers, arrived here today from Hannover. They were immediately escorted to the north German Lloyd's special train, which took them to Bremerhaven. There they will meet their wives during the night and start their journey tomorrow morning on the Steamer Berlin.

They arrived at six o'clock this evening at the Bremen station, which was packed with expectant Germans who gave the fliers a hearty welcome.

Youth Killed When Car is Turned over

SWEETWATER, Texas, June 16.—Gene Wilson, 20, Buntyn, Tenn. was instantly killed while his companion, John Brady, 19, Memphis, escaped unharmed when their car turned over on the Rankland highway, two miles east of Roseport at four o'clock this morning. Wilson's neck was broken. The body was brought to Sweetwater to be prepared for burial. The two young men were driving from Memphis, Tenn., to Los Angeles. They had been driving all night, taking three-hour shifts.

About two minutes before the accident, according to Brady, Wilson who was driving, aroused him and asked if he wanted to go on or stop at the side of the road and sleep. Brady said it made no difference to him. "I faded off and the next thing I knew the car was turned over."

"I imagine Wilson had dozed off to sleep. The car had run into the soft gravel at the side of the road and I think Wilson, awakened, tried to turn it back and caused it to turn over," Wilson has a wife in Italy.

SLATON BIRTHDAY JUBILEE SUCCESS

FRIENDLY RIVALRY AND FELLOWSHIP MARK EVENTS THERE

(Special to the Avalanche)
SLATON, June 16.—"Old Times" recalled the days of old and "New Times" joined him in plans for the future today as Slaton celebrated his sixteenth birthday in a grand party which was attended by more than 2,000 citizens of Slaton and adjoining territory. Because of the "old times" which the morning program was postponed until in the afternoon and the basket picnic was lightly attended.

Under the sponsorship of the Slaton chamber of commerce, a large number of contests featured the afternoon program which ended in a ball game between the Old Times and the New Times, in which the Old Times won, 15 to 3. Alex DeLong captained the Old Times while L. T. Garland led the New Times. Preceding the contest the "Old Times" formed in Slaton since 1911, formed a parade, and marched around the square. The Slaton band, under the direction of J. A. Heinrich, played

CRAIG GETS HIS PH. D.

Completes Course in Chemistry of Harvard University and is Awarded Degree

William M. Craig, of the chemistry department of the Tech, was officially notified yesterday of his successful completion of the work for a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Harvard university. His major work was chemistry. The degree was conferred upon him this week.

The addition of Craig's degree to the chemistry department now makes it one of the strongest departments in the college. W. T. Boyd, head of the department, holds a Ph. D. from Yale and W. L. Bray, professor, has a Ph. D. from Chicago university. Chemical engineering being one of the important departments of the engineering school will necessitate a strong department, officials say.

Aged Prospector Tells Of Having Been Forced to Show Trail To Hugh De Autremont

JACKSONVILLE, Ore., June 16 (AP)—J. J. Parker, a prospector for 56 years, today in the trial of Hugh De Autremont, charged with the murder of Charles O. Johnson of Ashland, Ore., during the Shadyou tunnel holdup and slaying on October 17, 1922, positively identified the defendant as the man who on October 12, 1922 had accompanied him at the point of a rifle to show him the trail that led to the summit of the Shadyou mountains. The incident happened late in the afternoon, Parker testified.

COOLIDGE GETS FINE CATCH OF TROUT AT CAMP

BIGGEST ONE WEIGHS NEARLY 2 POUNDS HE FINDS

(By the Associated Press)
RAPID CITY, S. D., June 16.—President Coolidge entered into his summer vacation in the Black Hills of South Dakota today with an enthusiasm which won him a basketful of rainbow trout after a morning of fishing, as well as an acquaintance with his new surroundings.

Apparently invigorated by the mountain air at this altitude of 4,400 feet, the president was up by 6:30 o'clock and before breakfast was making plans for his fishing expedition in the racing streams which rippled invitingly about him.

Returning to the state game lodge from his fishing excursion, he called to Mrs. Coolidge, who was waiting on the rear porch, to come and see the trout. Nor did he seem to have any objection to a group of photographers nearby noisily clicking off pictures of the catch.

"Have you ever seen any rainbow trout?" the president called to Mrs. Coolidge.

She hastened down the steps and Mrs. Coolidge, as she did, saw the president's catch and the president had no time in picking from the basket which he carried the largest of the trout, Mrs. Coolidge stated.

"One pound and seven eighths," he commented as he looked at the small hand scale on which he looked the shining trout.

"That's wonderful," Mrs. Coolidge remarked as the president picked out the other six fish.

"BEAT" DRIVER FOUND

Young Dallas Woman Drove Coupe That Killed Her And Hurt Another Ft. Worth Man

FORT WORTH, June 16 (AP)—A young woman, said to be a well-known Dallas resident, was the driver of the disaster coupe which Wednesday night side-swiped an automobile on the Dallas-Fort Worth pipe near Arlington.

Learning that police were seeking the young woman voluntarily came to police headquarters, where she submitted to questioning, Martin said. Her companion, owner of a broken set of false teeth which was found in the coupe, which had been smashed likewise was questioned. No charges were filed but the investigation will be continued Friday, according to Martin.

The two men, who were about to meet a friend at their automobile, were knocked down by the coupe. The man who was injured, a young man, died in a Fort Worth hospital early this morning without regaining consciousness, while Martin was said to have "fighting chances to live."

BERGDOLL WOULD FLY MIGHT RETURN NOW

BREMENHAVEN, Germany, June 16 (AP)—Gleover Cleveland Bergdoll, the American draft evader, reportedly has been confined in the Bellenia monoplane Columbia to New York or Philadelphia, either alone or with Clarence Chamberlain.

"Should you care to sell or loan me the Columbia, on condition I fly the same from Berlin within a specified time to New York or Philadelphia, or if you do not care to allow me to fly the plane alone, would you be willing to allow me to accompany Chamberlain on a flight to New York? Let me know where I can reach you."

COLLINS BODY MOVED

Victim of Cave Disaster Pined in Casket in Crystal Cave; Damage Suit Now Likely

HORSE CAVE, Ky., June 16 (AP)—The body of Floyd Collins, whose imprisonment in Sand cave and death there attracted the attention of the nation, has been placed on exhibition in Crystal Cave.

After Collins' body was removed from Sand cave, where it had been sealed up for several months, it was buried over Crystal cave, but on Monday Dr. Harry B. Thomas, a local dentist who owns Crystal cave, had the casket removed from the cave and placed in the Grand Canyon of Crystal cave, 280 feet under ground.

The top of the casket is not fastened down," he said today in response to questions, "and it is optional with the natives as to whether they want to look at the body itself through the glass top. It is in a state of perfect preservation."

Dr. Thomas said he had permission from Lee Collins, Sr., father of Floyd, to bury the body on his property, but whether the body is placed there, he said, is a matter of perfect preservation.

"LINDY" GIVEN $25,000 CHECK FOR HIS FLIGHT

FORMAL CEREMONY IS OBSERVED AT ITS PRESENTATION

GETS OWN PLANE

FLIES AT A RATE OF 144 MILES AN HOUR

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 16.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh tonight received a check from the hand of Raymond Ortel, representing the $25,000 prize which he won by making the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

The colonel, nearing the end of a busy day which followed a night of rest and a morning on wheels in a Brooklyn parade, settled down at 6:20 o'clock for a few moments in the dining room of the Hotel Brevoort, owned by Raymond Ortel. After a few short speeches the check was handed to the aviator.

The check was highly distinctive—aside from his figures. It carried Mr. Ortel's signature, the American flag, the Spirit of St. Louis and all its working and numerical were embossed and illuminated on fine vellum.

"Thanking the aviator and the donor were two hundred invited guests, the press and trustees of the prize.

Check Presented
In presenting the check which was offered in 1915 to any one who could fly to Paris, Ortel said:

"I had two thoughts in making this offer. One was to stimulate aviation, the other to strengthen friendly relations between the United States and France. Through you, Colonel Lindbergh, my aspirations have materialized beyond words."

Colonel Lindbergh with his usual bluntness accepted the check described by a young woman in the audience impulsively as "so beautiful to cash" and stepping forward from among the several trustees of the fund, said:

"I have often been asked by press men what first directed my attention to a possible flight to Paris. I believe Mr. Ortel first directed the attention of most aviators that way. His offer of $25,000 for the first non-stop flight to Paris was a challenge to the pilots of the world to see if they could build and operate a sufficiently capable plane. I don't think any such challenge without reason will ever pass unheeded."

DE PINEDO ENDS TOUR

Completes Trip Around World in Huge Monoplane and Receives Royal Greeting Home

ROME, June 16 (AP)—Commander Francesco De Pinedo came home this afternoon from his 25,000 mile flight over four continents, bringing down his plane, Santa Maria on the waters of the Tyrrhenian sea off Gaeta, Rome's ancient seaport. His flight from Barcelona occupied six and a half hours and he was at Gaeta a few minutes after five o'clock.

De Pinedo was greeted on coming ashore first by Premier Mussolini, who took him warmly by the hand and said the cheers and applause of about 20,000 Romans, who had eloquently shown their appreciation of the flier's achievement by doing something almost unprecedented for Roman—standing for several hours on the beach in the full glare of the sun on a day when the temperature in the shade was officially set at 95 degrees.

Notables Greet Him
Ottavio's beach was packed with enthusiastic crowds as the aviator graciously guided his machine to a point close by the pier on which the Premier and the venerable Cardinal Vannutelli, members of the Italian cabinet and scores of notable, had assembled. Above, two squadrons of planes swooped about in the heavens, but at a discreet distance.

New Prison Board Does First Tasks

AUSTIN, June 16 (AP)—The new Texas state prison board, authorized by act of the fortieth legislature, which so far has failed to define the board's power, began to function today after a conference of six of the nine members, which Governor Dan Moody, and selection of Colonel R. H. Baker of Houston as chairman and A. H. Carrigan of Wichita Falls as vice-chairman.

Colonel Walter Styles, chairman of the present prison commission of three was designated temporary manager of the prison system, pending final selection of an $8,000 a year manager authorized under the reorganization act.

Colonel Baker said it may be several weeks before a permanent manager is selected.

Governor Moody has named only seven of the board of nine. Of these, six were present today. Besides Baker and Carrigan they were Rabbi Henry Cohen, Galveston; Frank L. Tiller, Rosenberg; Lee Stinson, Sherman; and Joe Wearden, Galveston. The seventh member, W. M. Odell of Fort Worth was absent.

LUBBOCK ENJOYS PROSPERITY NOW

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS AND RECORDS SHOW THIS IS FACT

That Lubbock is experiencing prosperity is indicated in the various daily records which are the barometer of the city. During the past two weeks alone business has shown a decided advancement and since the generous rain an unusual amount of business is being transacted.

Real estate transfers hold the limelight for the month and a total consideration of $296,962.91 has been recorded in deals since June 1. In the past four days more than $75,000 worth of real estate has changed hands according to the records of county clerk Amos Howard. Should the transfers continue at the rate they are likely to total more than $500,000 by the end of the month, a record for deals in the city since the boom of several years ago.

Building permits are keeping up with other activities and a steady increase in building is being noted daily. Grover C. Merrill, city building inspector, reports that he will have a nice total to announce for the first year's building record for Lubbock.

The city office began recording all building permits July 1, 1925, and the year's books will be closed soon. Merrill states that for the first fifteen days of June a total of 325,000 worth of residences have been erected in the city which boosts the total for 1927 to a good figure.

RAILROAD COMPLETED

Governor of Oklahoma Drives the Golden Spike At Pawhuska Line is Completed

PAWUSKA, Okla., June 16 (AP)—This picturesque little capital of the Osage Indian nation formally was given mail line railroad connection with the outside world today when Governor Johnson drove a golden spike marking the completion of the new Santa Fe road from Pawhuska to Fairfax.

The ceremony was tinged with the same primitive atmosphere that marked the building of railroads in the younger days of the west. Gaily attired Indians of many tribes, here for the annual convention of the society of Oklahoma Indians, mingled with state and railroad officials and thousands of white persons who came to attend the double celebration.

Completion of the railroad, which has been a decade in the making, shortens the gulf route of the Santa Fe from Kansas City to Galveston by 57 miles, about ten miles more than the length of the new road.

CAMP LOCATED NEAR LUBBOCK STARTING WORK

OTHER GROUPS OVER COUNTY TO BE BUSY SOON

PROGRESS RAPID

SIXTY MEN INCLUDED IN PARTY AT THE CANYON GRADE

With a giant steam shovel a number of trucks, wagons and other construction equipment, unloaded and with more than 60 men establishing a camp about three miles southeast of Lubbock, one-fourth mile from the Lubbock cemetery the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railroad, the long worked for direct connection with Ft. Worth, is rapidly becoming a realization as work on the construction of a cut and fill where the new rail will cross the Yellow House Canyon will start at once, officials of Sprague and Nisely, general contractors for the line, announced yesterday. Construction of temporary camp dwellings which is occupying the time of the men is expected to be completed soon and actual work on the line at that point will start immediately. R. F. Kline, representative of the firm, said here today.

Immediately following their establishment at the camp, the crews will start work on the deep cut and fill where the new rail line will cross the Yellow House canyon, into the north of the Lubbock cemetery. The cut and fill, although through a relatively narrow canyon, is one of the most difficult jobs on the route after the line starts up on the Plains which has influenced the Sprague and Nisely firm to do the work themselves. The firm has already let sub contracts on the remainder of the line in Lubbock county with the exception of the work on the cut and the grade into the terminal grounds in the city of Lubbock.

H. M. Sprague in Charge
H. M. Sprague, member of the firm which has headquarters at Houston, Tex., has been assigned to the camp here and will direct the construction work on the cut. The main office of the firm has been maintained at Plainview with C. E. Campbell and A. A. Nisely, in charge. The camp has been located for some time at Plainview and is the one being established here in the second established by the firm.

"SIGNALS" EXPLAINED

Power House May Have Caused the Lights Thought to Have Been Coll's Distress Signal

CHUTE, AUX GALTES, Quebec, June 16 (AP)—A new theory to explain the mysterious disappearance of the plane of the missing French aviator, Nungesser and Colit, might still be alive, was advanced here tonight.

It is now believed that the lights were those of a power house at this place. It has been established that the power house lights were on at the time several persons at St. Germain, 25 miles east of here, reported sighting flares or distress signals coming from this direction.

Dispatches from Chautauque today said that George Bonanza, a trapper, who had previously reported hearing sounds resembling a passing airplane on May 9, had made certain of the day by means of the date marked on the skin of a beaver he trapped the day the plane was expected in New York. Bonanza said the sounds he could see as plane due to the heavy fog—led him to believe the plane was flying northward, up the course of the St. Marguerite river. He said the engine seemed to be in trouble, or to be short of gasoline.

The Woman's Day

By Allen Sumner

Today's unmarried woman takes her independence, her freedom, her conceded "right to her own life" so much for granted that she forgets occasionally the quiet different lot of the unmarried woman of a generation ago. One of the most perfect pictures of the rebellious old maid of the '90's is Ellen Dacy, heroine of Helen Hull's new novel, "Madness." The title comes from a line of Matthew Arnold: "Yes, in the sea life ensiled." Ellen Dacy feels herself "ensiled" because of the selfishness of "men folk," because of the universal acceptance of their belief that women should wait for what men give them and carve out no life for themselves.

ELLEN WAS TYPICAL. One may not at first think Ellen typical of her day. One may think that the rebellious "old maid" who did not take her lot for granted was the exception and not the rule. But I am inclined to think that all the seemed placid, receptive old maids of 50 years ago were in reality the same seething furnaces of revolt that was Ellen. Ellen was just a girl when her lover, her father and her brother, "joined the gold rush." They talked much of "going for the women folk—coming back with piles of gold for you—making your lives easy," but Ellen was not fooled by their fine words, if her mother was. She knew that it was not unselfish love for their "women folk" that drove these men out across the plains and mountains, but the need to "give their own lives" unafflicted from family responsibilities, lives of adventure, romance, and drama.

PA CAME HOME. Eighteen years went on, while "women folk" ran the unyielding huge farm. They almost starved. They suffered from cold and the terrible loneliness of remote places. Ellen plowed and sowed and reaped, milked and cooked and sewed, and hardest of all, kept hope blooming in her mother's and sister-in-law's hearts, and kept her own corroding bitterness from showing through. Eighteen years later her father, worn out by too much freedom, too much adventure, too much unrewarded searching for the gold that was not out west but had been in his own farm if he had only stayed there to till it, came home.

WANTED TO LORD IT. He resented Ellen's feeling of possession of the farm. Ellen tried to keep this feeling hidden, but could not always do so. She was bitter and irritable those days. Until she saw her father she thought she had long forgotten Matthew, her lover, but when she saw her father—

"Like flame, like the spring restlessness in the colt, hope that she had done with years ago, burst through the stones she had laid heavy over it, swept in a storm through her hard, strong body, so that she refound her hands into the mane of the colt and clung there. Then she saw her mother's face, stern, warning pity in the sunken eyes.

"Did you come alone?" she cried out, but she knew before she asked.

"You has settled somewhere on the coast," Martha said. "Pa don't know where Matthew is now."

"Oh, fool, fool, to let hope trick her! Her knuckles scraped the rough wood and the smart gave her angry relief. The spring sun had done it, and the suddenness. What was Matthew, or any man to her? She was old and done with dreams."

INJUSTICE. Eighteen years of slavery to the farm, doing her father's and brother's work while they pillaged for adventure and gold, then her father announced that he had sold the farm. Thurston her younger brother, had urged him to. He needed cash and if Pa gave him the proceeds he would "give him and Ellen a good home always."

"Ellen stood motionless. Sell it, the land? Why, it was hers. Her life spread over the smooth acres. "I'd have you know this is my land," said Ellen's father. "I would it, I cleared it and made it a home."

"You left it, didn't you?" asked Ellen. "You left it, and for twenty years I've worked day in and day out. You didn't care then what I sowed or reaped."

BROTHERLY LOVE. "Now, Ellen, it's not yours. It's his. And he sees eye to eye with me. This is the time to sell it. You can't work like a man all your life. I tell you I don't want you crashing around in men's boots, while I make the Dacy name mean something. You ought to be thankful there's a good home waiting for you."

"A good home until she died. They would give her that. Without these acres she was nothing. They would take her life, her job, her reason for being, away from her. Profoundly she knew that she had been less-laden, living there, making the land yield. What could she do until she died. Soon she would be 40, then 50—60. Listening to the light voice of Thurston's wife making complaints. Her brother and father! They could do this. They were wrong against her in promise, in intention, male arrangement."

CAN'T GET AWAY FROM THE ISSUE

It matters not what you say, nor what you may think personally the prohibition question is going to be one of the outstanding issues of the Presidential election in 1928.

Some observers seem to think that prohibition is destined to be "about the only issue that people are going to care very much about in the coming presidential election."

The South Plains section of the State is possibly in the best financial condition of any portion of the State. Our banks are all in fine condition, and this section holds the record of fewer bank failures of any section of Texas.

The peddlers are coming, and Lubbock always wants them to have a good time when they are in our city. This peddlers party was originated in Lubbock, especially as a feature for this city.

SLATON HAS BIRTHDAY

Slaton, the little city in the Southeast part of the county, is celebrating her sixteenth birthday this week, and the people of that town are justly proud of the achievements that have been theirs during that period of time.

But it's different today. On that same ground stands a modern little city, with good brick business houses, nice church buildings, splendid school houses, community buildings, splendid residences, and blocks of brick paving, to say nothing of the big investment of the Santa Fe in its division facilities.

This city is just another evidence of the rapid development of the South Plains. All around Slaton, as also true of Lubbock and other Lubbock county town, there are a type of farmers that rank high in their class, and who are doing much to develop the South Plains agriculturally and at the same time add to the greatness of the cities.

We congratulate our neighbor to the southeast on the successes they have made. Their achievements are such as to command congratulations from all of the people and as they grow so does all of the South Plains towns, and so also does the South Plains develop in a general way.

EDITORIAL

When the editor is away, there is a difference. No matter what kind of substitute you may have, there is a difference. The editor who has scanned the exchanges for years and has followed the pen of the various editors can tell at a glance at the editorial page, when the regular editor is away.

Lubbock is going to be greatly in need of that Federal building long before we get it. It seems that there is always a lot of things that come up to block the progress of public buildings, and this is one case where there is delay that is causing a great deal of inconvenience to the people of this city.

OUT OUR WAY By Williams

THE EARLY BIRDS.

SO THINK WE

We think many of the farms of the East should be planted in trees and the farmers come west to grow their crops. That country back there could be converted into a hog raising section and thereby defeat the boll weevils, and rehabilitate the lands.

BRIGHT MINDS

Selfishness is not living as one wishes to live, it is asking others to live as one wishes to live. And selfishness is letting other people's lives alone, not interfering with them.

OPINIONS

NOT ONIONS THIS TIME

This year more than ever before have the people of Texas talked and thought about diversification. In Collin county, it started several years ago. The farmers of that section turned to onions. We can't think of anything we under rather look forward to the future when the harvest will be great, and there will be more prosperity here than in any other section of the country.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that there is one man in Texas who has been postmaster so long that he no longer has any curiosity what is in a letter, and very seldom ever reads a post card.

YOUR HEALTH

Since the development of the technical devices that measure accurately the blood pressure of man, physicians have given increasing attention to departures from the normal of these measurements.

YOUR HEALTH

Most of the insurance experts in the United States were inclined to believe that low blood pressure particularly in persons after fifty years of age, tended to longevity. About three per cent of men have blood pressure under what is supposed to be normal.

CARDS OF THANKS

From this time on, all cards of thanks and obituaries, other than what is written by the editor will be charged for at the rate of one-half cent a word. This of course does not mean an announcement of the death and funeral, which is news matter, but a long article on where the deceased was born, what all he did in childhood, where, and whom he married, how many children and what lodges, churches and societies he belonged to, interests to one much save the immediate family, and is not considered news.

The Herald is getting in line with the right principal. There is really no news value to a card of thanks. They are of very little interest to anyone. Those who are really due thanks usually receive it personally long before the card appears in the newspaper, hence no real service is rendered, but it does take time to set the type, and space in which it is run. People should never expect it, and it is more of a custom than anything else, and as time means much to newspapers, since it costs so much per hour to get type set it is only right that those who want these words of "thanks" to be sent out to the public pay the regular advertising rate.

HOTELS

For the past few weeks Seminole has had the appearance of a real oil center. The local hotels have been crowded to overflowing, and at present many of the private homes have come to the relief of the many people in some way interested in the oil development of Galveston county by opening their homes and letting out rooms.

WIDOWERS OF MIDAS

THIS HAS HAPPENED From his deathbed, T. Q. CURTIS, who has just come into his home as his wife for one year, because he wants to help her further, announced that he had named BILLY WELLS as the only one of the three that is sincere. The others—NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON—do not enjoy the old man's generosity.

Billy is secretly engaged to Dal Romaine, nephew of Mrs. Meadows, and is deeply hurt when she observes he is also paying attention to Winnie.

Unknown to T. Q., the girls learn he intends to adopt one of them when the year is up, and Nyda and Winnie turn the house into a place of intrigue. Strange events are taking place in the house, and the girls are trying to find out the truth.

T. Q.'s safe is robbed, and SAWYERS, the butler, throws suspicion on Billy whom he saw in the library and in the hallway at a late hour. Billy, who is innocent, is accused of the crime.

EDDIE BANNING, Nyda's former sweetheart, is also involved.

T. Q.'s safe is robbed, and SAWYERS, the butler, throws suspicion on Billy whom he saw in the library and in the hallway at a late hour. Billy, who is innocent, is accused of the crime.

EDDIE BANNING, Nyda's former sweetheart, is also involved.

Clay Curtis demanded, pointing for breath.

"In the library, Mr. Clay. He hasn't had any dinner, sir. I wish you would try to persuade him to eat something."

But Clay passed him with out a word, and dashed, running through the music room to the library.

"Dad! Where's Billy? What's happened to him?" he demanded.

"Why, Clay, son, I'm glad to see you!" T. Q. Curtis rose and held out his hand to his son.

"Where's Billy, Dad? What have you done to her?" Clay ignored father's greeting.

"She's left the house, son. How did you know that anything had happened to her? She's perfectly well, she left of her own accord, over my appeal to her to stay—to stay always."

"Then what did Winnie Shelton mean by telephoning me that Billy was in great danger and that I was to come here at once?" Clay demanded hotly.

"I think you'd better sit down a moment, son, and let me tell you what has happened here today. I'll be as brief as possible, but I insist upon your listening to me."

Clay did not sit down, but stood leaning against the desk, his hands gripping the edge of it. While his father rapidly sketched the events of the day, not glossing over his own folly, Clay's hot, smart young eyes never left T. Q.'s face.

"So Billy turned you down?" Clay cried out exultantly when his father had finished. "Thank God for that! But what did Winnie Shelton mean by that nonsense of her—that Billy is in danger?"

"Didn't Billy get home to her mother?" T. Q.'s voice dropped his alarm.

"No. I've been at home since six. I think you'd better put a few questions to Miss Winnie Shelton." Clay decided finally. "You'll be on the safe side" with the hard-boiled baby is concerned, we'd better ask Mrs. Meadows to go to her room with us. You've still got her under lock and key."

"I thought it best to have her kept to her room until tomorrow. T. Q. pressed his button on his desk and almost immediately Sawyer's answered. "Please ask Mrs. Meadows to join me at once in Miss Shelton's room, Sawyer."

As T. Q. tried to get into the lock of Winnie's door, Mrs. Meadows came hurrying from her own room, accompanied by Sawyer on the house telephone.

Winnie was pacing up and down the room. Her small white teeth were biting angrily at the knuckles of one clenched fist, and her beautiful blue eyes were staring from her face.

"I thought that message would bring you on the run!" She whirled upon Clay, ignoring T. Q. and Mrs. Meadows.

"What did you mean?" Clay asked her sternly.

"Winnie's Billy?"

"Yes, that's right. Five minutes ago she was in Dal Romaine's apartment, helping him to pack his suitcase to leave with him."

"You don't think that's very strange?"

"I don't know what you mean when you say that."

him just the same! I even helped him in some of his dirty little schemes. I've never traded to his name of Madame Dubois. And I helped him get the dope on the high society racket—rackets for his friends, Name Society, and the like. So Romaine was really an accomplice!" T. Q. roared. "Truman was right, but for Mrs. Meadows sake I wouldn't let myself believe him."

"This is all an infamous lie, and I'll sue for slander!" Mrs. Meadows panted.

"You'll be lucky if you get out of this thing with a shred of reputation left!" Winnie spat at her viciously.

"Why are you telling us all this—about a man you say you love?" Clay demanded.

"Why? Why? Because I'd rather see him dead than to see one else!" Winnie screamed. "When Clara brought up my dinner, I begged him to take a note to Dal. I begged him to get me out of this to take me away from Dallas, and he sent me back word that there was no answer! No answer!" she shrieked. "To kill him if I could! No answer—after all I've meant to Dal Romaine. Why, she went on, reckless in her fury, "I've spent two week-ends with him at his cabin in the country and a week with him in Chicago, when Billy didn't even know where he was! I'd have cut off my right hand for him, crook though I knew him to be, and then he won't even lift a finger to help me when I'm down and out!" Her fury spent itself suddenly and she began to sob.

"In spite of his disgust and rage, Clay's face softened a bit at sight of her tears. "Where's Billy? When will he take her?"

"I won't tell!" Then—"Yes, I will! He can't have her! He thinks he can compromise her and then force T. Q. to let him marry her. After the adoption goes through, Oh, I know him!" he told her in a low voice. "He's got a quarter of a mile from the main road. He'll take her there. It's eleven miles from here, out past Clifton. Turn off the main road about three miles from Clifton—it's a left turn, dirt road. The log cabin is about a quarter of a mile from the main road. You can't miss it. And I hope you kill him!"

Clay did not give her his promise in words, but his face, as he turned upon his father, was terrible to see. "You'll go to get them, Dad, and I'll bring Billy back—but not to you! I'm going to take her to my mother, and I'll marry her if she'll have me. God knows I love her enough to marry her, no matter what that brown-skinned devil has done to her. As for you, Dad, I hope you realize what your selfish folly has done—made a thief of Nyda Lomax, turned this poor, unfeeling little hypocrite—his eyes seared Winnie Shelton with hatred and contempt—into a cheap crook, stripped her of her virtue, and thrown her back upon the world, a menace to decent people. As for Billy, you've undermined her character with luxury and made her easy prey for the first black-hearted adventurer that comes along. They're ruined! As for you, you've selfish pleasure, because you were lonely! And you did it in the name of philanthropy!"

Philanthropy! My God!

He flung out of the room, his furious young face comforted with an effort to keep back tears. T. Q. Curtis whose head had bowed low under the indictment of his son, did not look up when Mrs. Meadows rushed out of the room, banging the door behind her.

Oddly enough it was Winnie who tried to comfort the broken, old man. She touched his shoulder, and on the shoulder, spoke the sincerest words she had uttered to him during the whole year: "I'm sorry, Mr. Curtis. You're a good man and I don't blame you for hating me. I hate myself!"

WORK RENEWED ON BROWNFIELD TEST

CAVEINS AND MISHAPS OF PAST NOW OVERCOME; DRILLING RESUMED

BROWNFIELD, June 15—Operations have been renewed on the Klondike oil test that is located on the Brownfield ranch about 11 miles southeast of Brownfield.

The well was spudded in about one year ago and drilling operations for the first few hundred feet were accomplished without encountering obstacles but since that time the test has been delayed by caveins, collapsed casing and other general breakers.

It was finally decided that further progress could not be made without installation of a rotary rig which made it necessary to pull about twelve hundred feet of casing which proved to be very difficult but it was accomplished after about thirty days of effort.

Dr. G. S. Gerson, who is in charge of all operations says, that rapid progress will now be made and the well will be brought in as a producer within a very few months or that the bottom of a dry hole will be reached. He and the other workers are very hopeful that good production will be secured as formations heretofore drilled have been very favorable.

Big Spring Host To Texas Scribes

BIG SPRING, June 16—The special train carrying 224 members of the Texas Press association spent one hour in Big Spring Tuesday night, June 14th. Arriving at 8:10 the delegates were met by the Big Spring municipal band and about 500 citizens who marched up Main street to the courthouse lawn where 2,000 people greeted them. Main street between 3rd and 4th was roped off and the guests were permitted to give vent to their inclinations in response to the musical strains of the Miller orchestra. This round of merriment was indulged in for a few minutes when the secretary of the State Press association, Sam P. Harbin, was called for to receive from the Big Spring officials a letter of welcome. Mr. Harbin failed to appear and in his place and for the State Press association, J. J. Taylor, responded and accepted the gift from G. B. Cunningham who represented the voice of Big Spring. Literature telling of Big Spring, Howard county, the oil fields and the trade territory and the opportunities for investment was placed in each seat of the train where the editors found it upon the return to the coaches.

CONTRACTS SIGNED FOR TWO NEW OIL TESTS

BIG SPRING, June 16—The F. H. E. Oil company has made a fifty-fifty contract with Mrs. Debra Roberts to drill two wells on north west quarter of section 137. Two wells to be drilled five, one to be located on the northwest corner and one on the southeast corner. They have just completed a well for Mrs. Roberts that is showing big heads. This well is located between the

NEW MARLAND WELL IS PUMPING THIRTY BARRELS

BIG SPRING, June 16—The Texas-Marland well being drilled on section 13, Block 33, T. 8 S. on the J. B. Harding ranch six miles south of Big Spring has been on the pump 24 hours and is producing 30 barrels per hour coming from a depth of 3154 feet. This extends the production Northwest a distance of about 28 miles. This is one of the best wells brought in and is the deepest producing well in Howard county.

Invaluable in the sick room

Bed pans and other articles used in caring for the sick can be sterilized by washing in a strong solution of Clorox. Characteristic odors of these are destroyed by daily pouring a strong solution of Clorox into an open dish, and adding a few drops of vinegar. Bed linen and towels are made sterile by using Clorox in their laundering. See directions on label for many other uses.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged, and need a flushing occasionally. Clorox has backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to active work. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.
