Little Cowboys, Cowgirls To Participate In Rodeo

Plans are shaping up for "Little Buckaroo Rodeo" to be staged Saturday, June 22, in the improvised arena adjacent to Olton Recreation Center.

Children with horses, and children without horses are invited to fill out entry blanks found elsewhere in this issue and leave them at Chamber of Commerce office by June 20, in order to be a part of the fun.

Stick horse races will be featured for the very young. Children with horses may enter in their field. Other events will include goat ribbon races, egg and spoon races, greased pig chase, musical chairs and relay.

Official entry blank printed on page 2.

Professional rodeo clown, Rodger Johnson, will provide entertainment for the entire family. Experienced rodeo announcer, D.M. (Bub) Holt, will keep the crowd informed.

A gentle saddle horse, donated by Joe Harrell, will be given away. Tickets will be available at the rodeo.

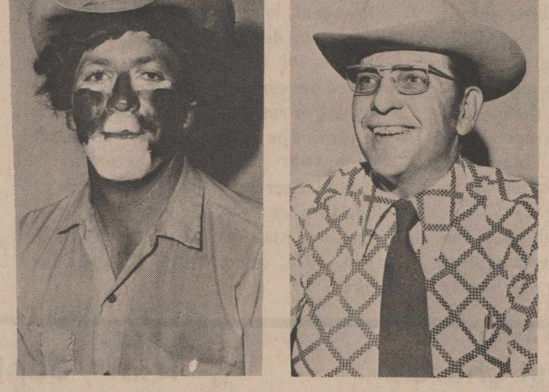

Leading the show off at 10:30 a.m. will be contestants mounted on horses. Other attractions will follow.

Arena workers are still needed, as are concession stand helpers and parking attendants. Teenagers or adults interested in assisting in the show are asked to call Mrs. "Doc" Brimhall, president of the Cowbelles, sponsoring organization.

Dedicated to the promotion of beef, the Cowbelles will be offering bar-be-que beef sandwiches for sale, along with lemonade and other cold drinks.

Additional information may be obtained from any of the rodeo committee: Mrs. Brimhall, Mrs. Kenneth Williams, Mrs. Sammy Thomas, Mrs. Jay Pike, Mrs. Charles Koontz or Mrs. Rodger Johnson.

Entry to the rodeo grounds will be fifty cents per car.

OFFICIAL, CLOWN AND ANNOUNCER --Rodger Johnson, clown for amateur rodeos will perform at Olton's Little Buckaroo Rodeo there June 22. Bub Holt will serve as announcer for the events.

Career 'Rewarding'

Time has not made any basic changes in barbering since Parley Myers began cutting hair in 1947 but, as in all things, the passing years have altered his profession.

Perhaps the greatest change, and a welcomed one for all barbers, was the acceptance of regular hours.

"I'd have quit - I just wouldn't have kept up with it," he says of the long hours demanded when he began. Frequently Saturdays were busy past midnight and standing in almost the same spot for such a long while was exhausting labor.

Working six days a week, he remembers that business would be practically nil on the first three days of the week and become increasingly busier at the week's end.

Soon after Parley completed his six months barber training in Lubbock and began work for Hubert Moses in his shop on Main Street, local barbers began observing closing hours similar to those shops in larger towns.

Monday closing began as a union thing, he says, but was picked up by others. It is the accepted rule today.

Changed hair styles have extended the time span between hair cuts from the 10 days to two weeks that was the norm in those days. Costs of hair cuts have risen from 75 cents when Parley began to the $2.50 charged for a plain cut today.

When Parley began, the shine boy was a regular "fixture" at the shop. He remembers an instance when the shine boy made more money one busy Saturday than he did cutting hair.

Parley doesn't remember exactly when he last had a shine boy in his own shop but believes it might have been 1969. The reason the shine boy has departed the current scene is not known but may be due to a number of things including improved shoe materials and self-shining polishes.

Still another banishment of time is the barbar shop shave. Once a major service by the barber, Parley says there are very few shave customers he has today. They are limited almost completely to persons confined to home.

Men are more interested today, he agrees, in properly caring for their hair but says heredity still holds the upper hand in most cases of baldness.

Barbering has been "real rewarding" and has given him its share of memories. One unforgettable occasion, Parley remembers, dates back to his earliest days in Hubert's shop. Leaving the shop after finishing with a customer one Saturday night, he decided to check back to be sure that Moses had not closed up while a customer was showering.

Arriving back at the shop, he found the freshly bathed man just finishing and a worried shine boy wondering what to do since both barbers had gone and he was left with the showering customer and no keys to close shop.

Still another shower incidence Parley recalls with a chuckle, this one happening while he was attending barber school. Beginning barber students learned their art on customers seeking free haircuts. Those customers, Parley says, were quite frequently "over-indulgers."

The school's shop was located in the basement and the remembered customer, in an alcoholic haze, "Where's the elevator?"

"One of the guys said, 'Right over here' and put him in the shower," Parley remembers. "We let it run for a good little while, opened the shower door and the man walked out and up the stairs without saying a word."

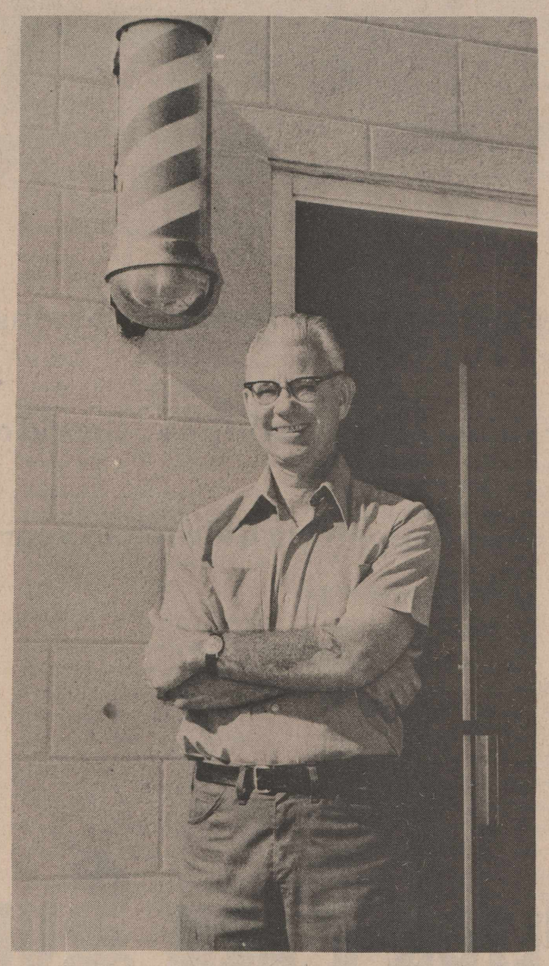

Another vivid recollection of Parley's came several years later in May 1957 when Olton was struck by an early afternoon tornado. At work without a car, Parley suddenly found himself alone and the town's streets deserted.

"I remembered reading that a door or window should be left open during a tornado and for a little while I walked along opening doors. There was no one around and I'd never felt so lonely in my life. I wasn't really afraid but I was kinda shakey after it was all over and I know I was the loneliest person on earth that day."

Parley, who put in his own shop in 1960, considers himself an Olton native since he came here when he was only seven years old. A member of the Class of '43, he graduated at mid-term and went into the Navy. Serving aboard a submarine and then landing crafts, Parley spent three and a half years in the service. He entered barber school soon after his return home.

He married the former Mary Caswell and they are parents of two daughters, Lana, a senior at West Texas State University, and Denise, now Mrs. Craig Smith.

A Baptist, Parley served a two-year term as city councilman before becoming mayor eight years ago.

HIS HONOR THE BARBER -- Mayor Parley Myers stands at his barber shop doorway beneath the age-old symbol of the "tonsorial parlor." The barber pole traces its ancestry back to the long ago age when the barber was also physician, dentist and mortician.

By School Board

Length Of Hair Discussed

Hair...the pros and cons of the length of hair...the view of the young people and the view of the board of trustees who sets the rules took up the largest portion of time at the board meeting Monday night.

Appearing before the school board on behalf of the student council were Freddy Stockdale, David Leathers and Jim Walters.

The representatives of the student council asked the board to allow male students to wear their hair a little longer than had been permitted in the past.

They said that the students in high school had asked them to come before the board in order to get the hair code changed in the Mustang handbooks which are given to students each year at the beginning of school.

Stockdale said, "We aren't asking that you do away with the dress code, but we would like to be able to wear our hair over our ears, preferrably to the bottom of the earlobe."

During the ensuing discussion, board member Uil Gunter asked, "Is the style you now have with the present rules so far removed from what the current styles are that you feel out of place?

Walters replied, "Let's put it this way, 'It bothers us.' "

President of the board, Royce Collins, pointed out to the young men that "Everytime you kids go off to some other school to participate in competition with others, we get compliments about how neat and well groomed and well mannered you all are. We appreciate the compliments and we appreciate the fact that you deserve these compliments. We'd like to keep it that way."

Walters told the board that when they were at these school functions, "We walk in and we are the only ones there with short hair."

DePrang then asked, "Do you feel like an odd ball?"

Stockdale replied, "I don't really feel out of place. It's not a matter of what others think of you."

Gunter asked, "If we do allow this, most everybody would be satisfied, do you think? Or is it just the rule? We have agreed that we are pretty close to fashionable, which we want, but at the same time we want you to learn to respect discipline as a part of the learning process. Rules are something we have to live with all our lives and somehow, our human nature being as it is, rules are made to be broken or bent a little. I'm wondering if it is the RULE more than the length of the hair that is the issue here."

Collins then said, "Boys, I want to pass on something to you that my father told me when I was a young man. He said 'Your name travels a whole lot farther than you do. So what ever you do, do it right and neat.' This is true and our students have a good name and we are proud of you."

The boys were then asked if they wanted to leave or stay for the board's decision and they agreed to stay. Following a short discussion among the board members only, a unanimous vote to keep the hair code as is was made.

The three young men thanked the board for allowing them to state their views and the board thanked the boys for appearing and asked that they return any time, if they had a problem or if they just wanted to sit in on the meetings and see how the decisions were made.

In reports from the superintendent, the final count for average daily attendance was 928.23 students, "which means we lose funds for one teacher unit from the federal government" Turner said.

"We are allowed salary funds for one teacher for every 25 student ADA," Turner explained. "However we are asking for consideration by the government to leave this teaching as is, because of the six weeks periods when the flu epidemic caused so many absences."

"We can't get by without the extra teacher," Turner explained, "So we will have to pay the salary out of local funds if we can't get the government to make this exception because of the illness."

Ending the year "in the black" was the good news from the lunchroom.

Custodians approved for employment by the board were Albert Ruiz who replaces Bob Starritt and Augustine Valencia who replaces "Fuzzy" Marshall.

In other action, the board approved the student accident policy using the same company as in years past.

The board also agreed to change the steps in front of the auditorium into a slopping sidewalk to prevent accidents by persons attending school functions who are unaware of the different levels. David Maxey and the CVAE group will do the work.

Brownie Day Camp Begins

Day Camp begins Monday for Olton Brownie Troops. Registered girls are asked to bring sack lunches for both Monday and Friday. Meals will be cooked Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Equipment needed for cooking and serving meals will be a tin plate, cup, fork and "dunking bag." A Scout knife is also recommended.

According to Mrs. Phil Hughes, camp director, shorts or pants will be acceptable, as will a sun hat. Sandals are not recommended.

Sessions will begin at 9:30 a.m. and close at 2 p.m.

Assisting Mrs. Hughes will be Mrs. Hoyt Taylor. Other adults will be Mrs. Kenneth Williams, leader of first year Brownies; Mrs. Bob Coen, leader of second year Brownies; and Charlsa Scribner and Mrs. Fred Burgess with Junior girls.

'Good News' Quartet Sets Appearance

"Good News Quartet" of Amarillo will be singing the good news about Jesus in special appearances June 29 and 30 in the First Baptist Church. Invitation to attend each of the performances is extended to the public.

Acclaimed as probably the leading gospel singing group in West Texas, the "Good News Quartet" will sing at 8 p.m. Saturday. Sunday has been designated as Old-Fashioned Day with "dinner on the ground" following morning worship services and entertainment by the group during the afternoon.

An old fashioned concert is scheduled by lamp and candle light Sunday evening.

Elton Wyatt Assumes Duties At First United Methodist

The Rev. Elton Wyatt has moved here from Hale Center to assume the pastorate of the First United Methodist Church.

Pastor of the Hale Center UMC the past six years, Rev. Wyatt and his wife, Wilma, arrived here Wednesday. His first services in the local church are today.

Rev. Wyatt attended school in Roscoe and graduated from McMurray College. He received his degree from Perkins School of Theology by correspondence.

Appointments were announced June 6 in the closing session of annual conference of Northwest Texas United Methodist Church, meeting in Polk Street UMC in Amarillo.

REV. ELTON WYATT

Ordination services were held Tuesday evening. The new pastor's son, Jerry Wyatt, was ordained as deacon and has been appointed to a one-year internship at Dimmitt's First United Methodist Church. He will return to Perkins next year. He is married and has one son.

The Wyatts have another son, Lynn Sims of Hale Center, and three daughters, Mrs. Leonard Groves of Morton, Mrs. Charles Evers of Amarillo and Mrs. Bill McKibben of Lovington, N.M. They have eight other grandchildren.

'We Can Do It'

Are small towns coming back? Some are.

Surveys show many city people would rather live in a small town.

"Whether a small town grows, or begins to wither, often depends upon the determination of local people," says Will Erwin, assistant secretary for rural development of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Towns with a 'we can do it' attitude will go out and bring in job-producing plants, offices, and laboratories, so that their young people don't have to leave their home area in search of job opportunities," says Mr. Erwin. "others will cater to tourists and a recreation-hungry nation.

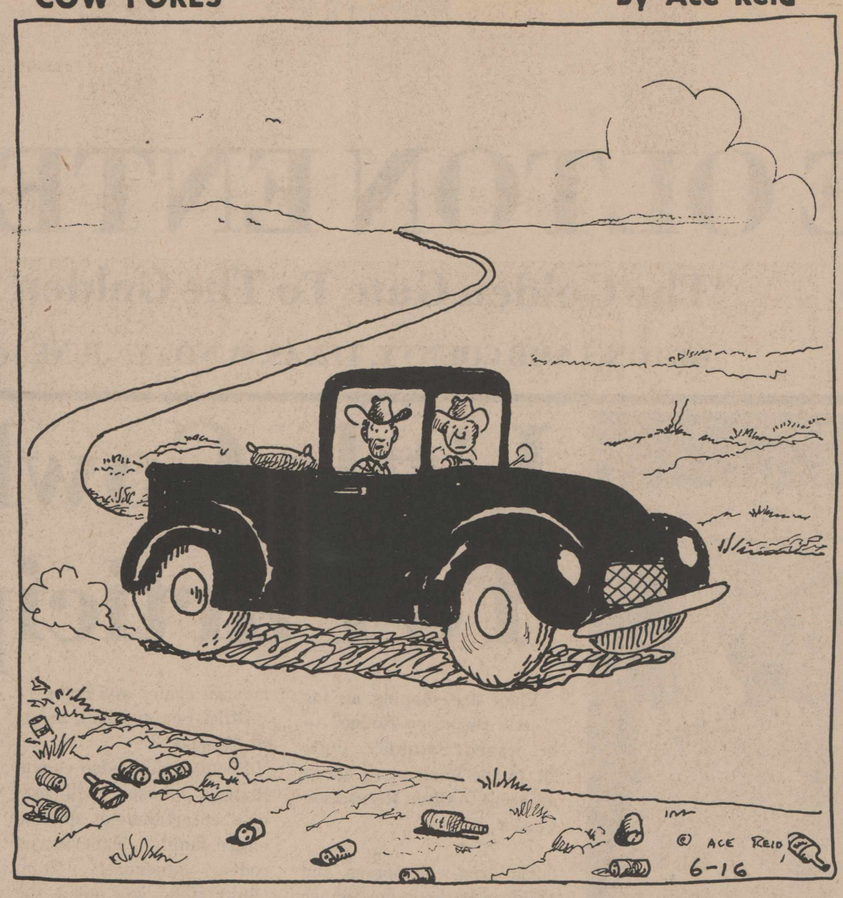

"The 'we can do it' crowd will guide the area's growth to make sure it hepls to meet the needs of people, adding to the beauty and environmental tone of the neighborhood.

"Economic development makes it possible for towns to do things--to provide convenience in getting goods and service--to serve as a starting point from which people may improve the quality of their lives.

"Frequent, long drives to big cities may be far from dead. But it makes sense, regardless of the gasoline situation, for towns to develop in such a way as to meet the needs of residents, including farmers."

Can towns be developed to get this done? The answer is "yes," according to Assistant Secretary Erwin, if you are willing to work at it. He cites the story of Livingston, Alabama, as it appears in the May 6, 1974, issue of the Congressional Record.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

Nobody asked me but-

It's just one gal's opinion but I think it's ridiculous that the "Powers That Be" have ruled that Little League be opened to girls. Not that I'm against little girls playing baseball either. It would be marvelous to have a girls division of Little League.

Seems that we're being swept along by a force that can not accept being told "no" to anything. Verbally and by example we hear it proclaimed "THEY aren't going to tell ME what I can't do."

It's carrying civil rights and liberties and women's lib too far! Next we'll have gals wanting to play for the Dallas Cowboys!

Locally we've had a need for several years for a girls program similar to Little League. Little sisters have gone to innumerable practices and games and "shagged flies" countless times for the boys having all the fun of being in the game.

There have been many who would have made good players IF some adults had taken the steps to organize and carry out such a program. It's very likely that there would be more little girls participating in their program than there are boys in the present programs -- if you don't believe it, ask a few!

Ah yes, I'm all for a program for girls but I'm very much against the new ruling from Little League headquarters!

Besides! Although it's one woman's opinion, the whole thing was probably stirred up by some parents who weren't nearly as interested in their daughters playing ball as they were in winning a "you can't - I can" argument!

RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wilson came home this week from Cedar Creek where they stayed twenty four days. One weekend they were joined by their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wilson, Lynda and Bill of Rosenburg. The Oltonites were visited by his brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Wilson of Athens and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson of Hale Center. Also their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cross of Commerce. Other guests were Mrs. Wilson's sister, Mrs. Mamye Malcom of Athens and their brother-in-law and sister, Mr.and Mrs. Garland Peek of New Home.

SHERRI DAUBERT

Cook Of The Week

A petite brunette who will help lead cheers for the 1974-75 Mustangs holds the title this week as Enterprise cook. Sherri Daubert, an OHS cheerleader next year, will be a junior.

Sherri is the sister of Mrs. Robert Lacy and makes her home with Margaret and Bob. She moved here with the Lacys last year from Hart.

Skiing, both water and snow, is one of Sherri's favorite pastimes. She also likes to swim and enjoys all sports. Bob teasingly says that another of her hobbies is "running around with Steve."

Recipes shared by Sherri include a bar-b-que sauce that is especially good on chicken, Margaret says. The pumpkin cake is a delectable dessert similar in texture to angel food.

BAR-B-QUE SAUCE

1 c. catsup
⅓ c. Worchestershire sauce
1 t. chili powder
1 t. salt
2 dashes (or more) Tabasco sauce
2 c. water

Mix ingredients together and bring to a boil. When using on chicken fry chicken till brown. Place in baking dish, cover with sliced onions and top with sauce. Bake in 350° oven 45-60 minutes.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON CAKE

2 c. sifted cake flour
1½ c. sugar
3 t. baking powder
1 t. salt
1 t. cinnamon
½ t. cloves
½ t. nutmeg
½ c. salad oil
8 egg yolks
½ c. water
¾ c. pumpkin
½ t. cream of tartar
1 c. (8) egg whites

Sift dry ingredients into bowl; make well in center and add in order; salad oil, egg yolks, water and pumpkin. Beat until satin smooth. Add cream of tartar to egg whites; beat till very stiff peaks. Pour egg yolk batter in thin stream over entire surface of whites, gently folding to blend. Bake in ungreased 10" tube pan in slow oven (325°) 55 minutes. Increase heat to 350° for 10 minutes. Remove from oven and invert. Remove from pan when cool. Trim with whipped cream, cherries, etc.

COCONUT OATMEAL COOKIES

2 c. sifted flour
1 t. baking powder
1 t. salt
1 t. soda
1 c. shortening
1 c. firmly packed brown sugar
1 c. sugar
2 eggs
2 t. vanilla
1 c. rolled oats
2 c. coconut
1 c. pecans

Cream shortening and sugars till fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla. Beat well. Add flour in four parts, beating until smooth. Add oats, coconut and pecans. Bake in 375° oven on greased cookie sheet 10-15 minutes.

Alana Hamill Honored With Pre-Nuptial Shower

Miss Alana Hamill, bride-elect of Garland Huguley, was complimented Saturday afternoon with a pre-nuptial shower in the home of Mrs. Melvin Rape.

Special guests were Mrs. Greer Hamill, mother of the honoree, and Mrs. A.G. Huguley, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Guests were registered by Miss Susan Rape.

Laid with an antique white cutwork linen cloth, the party table was adorned with an arrangement of purple daisies with orchid satin streamers lettered in silver with the names "Alana" and "Garland." Orchid and white mints, nuts, white cake squares decorated with orchid bridal motifs and orchid-colored punch were served. Presiding at the party table were Mrs. Grady Durham and Bob Hall.

Hostesses presented the honoree with a corsage in her chosen colors, table lamp, bedspread, linens, stainless steel cake pan and pieces of her selected pottery and glassware.

Coffee To Fete Miss Strain

Sugar, Spice, And Sage

By Jan Sherman

So very often we hear about what Father's want for their sons and daughters. They are concerned about their health, and well being. That, of course, you say, is a natural for a parent. You receive a call from a distant city the day after a bad storm in your vicinity, and it's Dad wanting to know if his little, "chicken" is okay! Ever so often you find a ten dollar bill tucked away in something from Dad. "I just couldn't use it, he said, "it had a bent corner." Time for a new grandchild in the family and Dad is there to tap on the glass and boast a little--a lot! He's there when that new dress was no longer a luxury, but a necessity,..and he bought it. Maybe a little uplifting was needed to help you worry through a problem. That's right..he's there..to tell you most of your worst worries don't materialize. On graduation day, guess who was proudest of all? All your life he tried to guide you into the right decisions and more often than you count, you blew it. Sometimes Dad may not have the extra money to buy all the pretty things for you that he'd like for you to have, but you never knew it. He kept it from you to keep you from worrying about it. But the most important thing about Dad is and was that he was there when you needed him.

Dad's aren't always big and tall. They aren't all the past captain of the football team or the class Valedictorian. Little boys are often found saying their Dad is surely the best and the grandest and they "can lick your Dad."

The man you call Dad has helped you and honored you through your life, even though he might not actually be able to lick Jimmy's dad... he's still the strongest, toughest, and nicest guy you know. He loves you and has since they showed you to him behind some little glass windows. He was there, and boy, is he proud of you.

He's done all of this and has done so much more than you know. What do you do for him? Are you there when he needs you. Are you aware of the times you should be listening to his problems instead of your filling his ear all the time? Have you said thank you recently, not for the family car on Saturday night or the new whatever he bought you not long ago. I'm referring to appreciation of the times he's stood by you and helped with problems.... or did you let him?

This is a time each year for evaluation of the way you show appreciation for your Dad. Do you think that new tie is equal to what you could do for him. Could you be closer to him than you are? Could you "be there" as much as he was?

Employment Is Essential For Program's Continuation

Cooperation of local residents is needed if the rehabilitation program being sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. T.B. Wheeler for young men of the State School in Lubbock is to continue.

At present, eight young men from the ages of 20 to 28 make their home in a tenant house on the Wheeler farm which was remodeled for the young men. In order for the project to continue, the men must have employment from people in the Olton area.

Physically strong and able, the young men would like work in fields or yards. They have some experience in stacking hay, helping irrigate, hoeing and can do many other similar labors.

"They're happier when they are busy," Mrs. Wheeler says. And they can remain at the Wheelers in this rehabilitation program only if they can be given some employment.

A very nominal wage, 75 cents per hour, is all that is requested and this payment is put into a trust fund for them at the School.

Royce Humphries came this week to join the seven others who have been staying at the Wheeler farm. The seven are Johnny Housewright, Nelson Roberson, Jerry Franks, Clarence Bramlet, Willie Wilkins, David Boaz and Joe David Turner.

The Wheelers, with their daughter and son, Laura and Alan, recently took the seven on a family outing to Six Flags Over Texas. Also accompanying them were another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kerry Wheeler of Lubbock. The party stayed overnight in the Cleburne Park and were joined by Wheeler's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wheeler, Carroll Ann, Shirley and Linda.

Paint Horse Enthusiasts Take Top Wins In Shows

A number of Oltonites have made good showings in recent paint horse competitions through their membership in the West Texas-New Mexico Paint Horse Club.

The club held its Fourth Annual Show June 1 in Clovis, N.M., with 157 entries in 46 different classes. Bandi Nicholson placed first in the show in the youth halter mare class while her father, Buddy Nicholson, received a first and second in the 1973-72 gelding class with his 1972 gelding, "Side Car." Canny Collins placed first with his gelding, "John Q" in the dally team roping class.

The following day in a show at Nara Visa, N.M., Nicholson and Collins each placed second in halter with Miss Nicholson claiming another first in youth halter mares.

Competing June 8-9 in the Nolan County Sheriff's Posse shows at Sweetwater, Nicholson placed two firsts in halter and showed the grand champion gelding. Quenette Collins placed first in the aged gelding class and Collins won a first in roping. Miss Nicholson placed second in youth halter mares.

Father Of The Year

Dear Enterprise,

I would like to nominate my step-father, George Redinger, for the father of the year. Although we've only known each other a little over 10 years, we're as close or closer to each other as any normal father and son. Although I was fourteen when George married my mother, and was already through most of the period when a boy really needs a father to mold his character, George wasted no time in establishing a father-son relationship with me. Even before his marriage to mother, he showed an active interest in the Soap Box Derby I was building. In high school, I was very active in De-Molay's in Plainview. George never missed an open meeting or Installation Service for nearly four years.

George always made sacrifices for me and my two sisters. Although he was working his farm near Olton, he drove back and forth from Plainview so we could go to school there, since all of our friends were there. In the summer we would move to the farm and be a very happy family leading a good country life. It is here on the farm that George and I have really grown close to each other. Although I lived on a farm until I was eleven years old, I had never really learned anything about it. George took me under his wing and started teaching me, step by step, the things I needed to know about farming. He taught me, over the first few years, about use and care of equipment, irrigation, crop rotation, herbicides, pesticides, and when I got my first car at age sixteen, he taught me how to care for it and keep it in top shape. He instilled in me the same pride and enjoyment he has for keeping things (cars, equipment, clothes, etc.) in perfect condition for as long as possible.

After a few years came a very important lesson. He started teaching me to think. He would let me make some of the decisions on the farm. If I made a mistake, he very rarely scolded me, but told me why I should have done something different. If I had a different idea he would always listen and give some of my ideas a chance, even though it might cost him time and money.

A few years later, when I announced my plans to go to college and work toward a degree in agriculture, George offered his assistance in helping me get my start in farming. His one condition was that I get my degree first. Next May I will graduate with my degree in Agriculture. The following January, George is turning everything over to me. He'll be trusting me with his land, equipment and even his house, all these things that he's loved and worked for all these years. How could he trust me so much? He's now like a father and a brother all rolled into one. He's done so much for me and so much with me in less than ten years that I doubt if I could really repay him if I tried for the rest of my life. I will, however, try.

Thank you very much,

Sincerely,
J.O. Bass III
