Latest on fight to save Webb:

We're still in the ball game

(Special to the Herald)

WASHINGTON — Although the battle to save Webb Air Force Base will be an uphill fight, Big Spring is still in the ballgame.

That is the conclusion of the Big Spring delegation following a meeting with Secretary of the Air Force Thomas Reed in the Pentagon Friday afternoon.

The delegation, headed by Big Spring Mayor Wade Choate, had been in Washington since Wednesday night to protest last week's announcement that Webb would be closed. The delegation returned home at midnight Friday.

The best chance of saving Webb, the delegation concluded, comes through the possibility of a mission change, and this is the direction that Washington lawmakers pledged to support Webb have decided to go.

BURLESON ATTENDS

The meeting Friday with Secretary Reed was attended by the Big Spring delegation, accompanied by Cong. Omar Burleson and aides from the offices of Sen. John Tower, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Cong. George Mahon.

Pentagon officials explained that the Air Force is under a mandate from Congress to reduce its manpower by 13,000 military and 9,000 civilians.

In the Friday meeting, the reasons listed for axing Webb were 1) the two runways instead of three and 2) the facilities being "45 per cent substandard."

The secretary emphasized that a final decision has not been made. It was announced early in the cycle of the closing studies, he said, because of the national environmental policy laws which requires the military to announce what it's "thinking about."

Reed said that this will be at least a three, and perhaps as much as a six to nine-month process. Following the announcement that Webb is being considered for closing, the Air Force will begin a detailed study. The results of this study will be made public in 90 days. Then there will be a public hearing on the closing, probably in Big Spring. This could come in early July. After the hearing, a final decision would be made on the future of Webb.

Secretary Reed pledged that there would be no pull-down of personnel until after the studies are made and the hearings held.

These base closings are not something the Air Force likes to do, he said, but it has not had this few planes since before the Korean war.

He said some students who joined the ROTC program in 1970 and were promised flight training were still waiting for it.

DRAMATIC DROP

The number of pilots being trained each year has dropped from more than 4,000 in 1972 to less than 2,000 this year. The number of Air Training Command bases has declined from nine to seven before this round of closings which proposes to seal off Craig AFB in Selma, Ala., and Webb.

This would leave the number of undergraduate pilot training bases at five, which officials privately hint may still be too high, and more closings may have to be faced next year.

Cong. Burleson of Anson, who represents Big Spring in Washington, opened the meeting by saying that he feels that any decision to close Webb would be grossly in error.

He said that another meeting with Secretary Reed is being sought by him, Sen. Tower, Sen. Bentsen and Cong. Mahon for this week in which alternatives to closing Webb will be the subject.

Mayor Choate told Secretary Reed that Big Spring understands that the Air Force has a pilot training problem, but he said that Webb had proven itself among the top bases in the command for many years, and he added that surely there is a place in the Air Force's many missions for Webb.

Reed promised that the detailed study which the Air Force will now

Tower, Mahon open doors

By J. TOM GRAHAM

WASHINGTON — Snow covered the ground, and the air was still and cold Wednesday night when a hurried Big Spring delegation arrived at Dulles Airport just after 10 p.m.

The delegation, led by Mayor Wade Choate, had been quickly assembled Wednesday from an executive committee meeting of the Century Club at the Big Spring Herald minutes after word had reached the city that the Air Force was considering the closure of Webb Air Force Base.

The word came immediately before Howard College held ground-breaking ceremonies for its new coliseum, and most of the committee members went straight from smiles at the ground-breaking to the concerned meeting about Webb.

By 3 p.m., the delegation had tossed extra shirts into suitcases and left Big Spring for Midland airport to be joined by Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo and Odessa Mayor Dan Hemphill, who came on only an hour's notice. They joined Choate, Ralph Brooks, Winston Wrinkle and J. Tom Graham from Big Spring.

EARLY RISERS

The long ride to a downtown Washington hotel from Dulles Airport assured that the delegation would not be able to climb into bed until after midnight, and the members agreed to rise at 6 a.m. so they could have time to do some strategy work and be in Cong. Omar Burleson's office when he arrived Thursday morning.

Burleson had not known about the Webb announcement until late Wednesday night when he returned to Washington from Wright Patman's funeral.

The congressman found the Big Spring delegation waiting in his inner office of the Rayburn Office Building early Thursday, which had turned out to be a nice, warm day.

Burleson expressed surprise that the Air Force would make the annoucement without giving a chance for him and Sen. John Tower to argue in favor of Webb as he understood would happen.

He talked about the closing of the base at Mineral Wells which he and Tower succeeded in delaying for a year but which finally was closed, but he said that he felt Webb had a much better case.

No particular strategy came out of the 30 minute meeting except for the Big Spring delegation to get Sen. Tower's feelings about what should be done.

Following the meeting with Burleson came the delegation's many wanderings through the long, gray, high-ceiling marble corridors of the Congressional office buildings.

Through the maze of hallways, down into the subway to the Capitol, across the Capital basement, down another subway to the Senate Office Building went the group for its 11:30 a.m. appointment with Sen. Tower.

The senator was pressed for time that day because of the Armed Services Committee hearings on the defense budget, but he made half an hour to visit with the delegation, and his aide, Will Ball, devoted most of the day to helping Big Spring arrange a high level meeting with the Pentagon.

The senator was cautiously optimistic. He has won some battles to keep bases open, and he has lost some. But with his clout on the Senate Armed Services Committee, he has won many more than he has lost.

"There will be a fight," he promised.

Wednesday afternoon was a rush through the corridors and subways to see more lawmakers. The delegation visited with Cong. Jim Collins and Cong. Dick White's staff.

Then in mid-afternoon, the delegation was able to see the legendary George Mahon, the senior member of Congress and chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, one of the most important posts in Washington.

BUSY CONGRESSMAN

That Mahon could make any time at all for the delegation from Big Spring was a miracle. He was doing a musical chair act between three committee hearings and sponsoring an amendment on the floor of the House of Representatives — all at once. His staff was moving, but they made a movement for the delegation

The Big Spring delegation which skied to Washington to rally support for Webb AFB generally got a warm reception, though some appointees to office seemed to be saying, in effect, "Go home, send your tax money and quit yakking."

It's a peculiar establishment, the one hard by the Potomac.

It is a pleasure to report that Lew Jenkins, who sharpened his boxing skills by fighting in carnivals all over West Texas before winning the World's Lightweight Boxing championship in 1940, has come back a long way from that stroke he suffered several years ago and is now jogging five miles a day.

A resident of Antioch, Cal., the 58-year-old Lew almost lost his ability to talk during his days of travail but that problem has cleared up. Jenkins was inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame a couple of years ago.

Some members of his family, including a brother, Pete Jenkins, still reside here. At the time he was at the pinnacle of his boxing fame, he was known as the Sweet Swatter from Sweetwater but he spent about as much time in Big Spring as he did Sweetwater. It would have been alright with him if someone had referred to him as the "Big Bopper from Big Spring."

The male species goes through three stages. As an infant, he's a world-watcher. As a young adult, he's a girl-watcher. And, as a fellow who has made a few laps, he becomes a weight-watcher.

When Lawrence Welk and his band stopped in Amarillo recently to offer a concert, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Jordan of Big Spring were there to greet Welk.

Tommy knew Lawrence years ago when the musician was struggling to make ends meet here. Lawrence was living in a rented room near where Zack's is now located and making periodic appearances in the Settles Ballroom. He still has fond memories of Big Spring and asked about a number of old friends here. He commented he actually started his career in Wink (of all places).

Webb T-37 crashes

By JOHN EDWARDS

A Borden County ranch foreman was first to see the wreckage of a T-37 Air Force training aircraft Friday afternoon.

"When my husband called on that two-way radio, he said 'what's the fire?'" Mrs. Claude Sorrels said. Near the Colorado River 30 miles northeast of Big Spring, Sorrels found the crumpled jet.

"He told me if the boy was in there, he was dead," Viola Sorrels continued. But the foreman for Lorin McDowell III found the 23-year-old Iranian nearby in the pasture.

Air Cadet Nassrolh Hajioghli had ejected from the plane and parachuted to safety at 3:51 p.m., a Webb Air Force Base spokesman said.

The student in the Security Assistance Training Program Class 76-07 was released after observation at the base hospital Friday.

Mrs. Sorrels said the pilot was "just very sweet" but did not seem to speak much English.

The McDowell ranch headquarters was contacted by radio, and officials in Big Spring were notified. Emergency crews searched the area around Luther and elsewhere before finding the crash site between Vincent and Gail.

A controlled fire on land owned by James Barr and C. C. Wolf confused efforts to locate the crash.

Among those assisting Webb fire department and medical crews were Howard County volunteer firemen, Howard County Sheriff's Office, Borden County Sheriff's Office and Texas Highway Patrol.

A board of Air Force officers is investigating the accident to determine the cause.

Industrial team backs delegation

The Industrial Team of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce met Saturday morning to discuss the Webb AFB situation. The entire team went on record as supporting the Washington delegation completely in its efforts to keep Webb a strong, viable defense installation in Big Spring.

The delegation, comprised locally of Mayor Wade Choate, Winston Wrinkle, J. Tom Graham and Ralph Brooks, along with Mayor Ernest Angelo of Midland and Mayor Dan Hemphill of Odessa, worked long and hard hours presenting reasons why WAFB should be kept open. Roger Brown, captain of the industrial team, stated, "The team stands ready to lend whatever assistance necessary to present a united front in support of Webb in future public hearings."

BIG SPRING PROTESTERS — A crowd of almost 600 Big Springers listens as eight local citizens give their viewpoints on the possible closing of Webb. The crowd whistled and cheered as panel members spoke out against losing Webb.

Crowd of almost 600 attends protest rally

By JAMES WERRELL

Almost 600 Big Springers attended a rally 5:30 p.m. Friday to protest the possible closing of Webb AFB. After an organizational meeting that morning, the Big Spring Jaycees and other local civic groups had called on their members to attend, and spread word of the gathering.

The cheering and whistling crowd heard viewpoints from a panel of eight well-known citizens speaking out against the closing.

All speakers stressed the importance of maintaining a strong national defense policy, and reiterated the value of Webb in this capacity. Also frequently mentioned were the importance of Webb to Big Spring, and the excellent base-community relationship.

EIGHT SPEAKERS

The eight speakers were Roy Watkins, president of the Big Spring School Board; Rick Hamby, local attorney; Jim Baum, president of KBYG radio station; Vaughn Martin, local merchant and retired Air Force Lt. Col.; Travis Floyd, local merchant; Bob Taylor, KBYG employe; Harry Nagel, city manager; Eddie Acri, city councilman; and Pam Bloskas, one of the rally's organizers.

Vaughn Martin, the first to speak, disagreed with the reasons given for closing the base. He feels that operations are still safe and efficient, and that the complaint that Webb has only two runways doesn't hold water.

"It will be an uphill battle, but when we've already written 7,000 letters, we can't stop now," said Martin.

Eddie Acri, the next speaker, gave an impassioned plea in favor of saving the base. He cited that in 1971 Big Spring still owned the land on which the base is located.

"Now that we've given the land to the government, they've turned on us. I don't like it," said Acri. "I will propose that someone from the community go to Washington and sit on the Pentagon's doorstep. We don't want to be out of sight, out of mind."

Jim Baum stressed the importance of keeping up with the Russians militarily.

'WEAKER'

"Our gross national product is twice that of the Russians, yet we are weaker than they are militarily in almost all areas. Washington is more concerned with a better lifestyle than defending freedom," Baum said.

Pam Bloskas urged Big Springers to "get a message to the Pentagon." She stated that the community needs Webb.

"We need the base to take care of American people first, and the rest of the world second," she said.

SYMPTOM

The possible closing of Webb was called a "symptom of disregard for common sense in Washington" by Rick Hamby.

"Closing a base in Lubbock or San Antonio would have much less impact on the community than the closing of Webb. I think the decision is purely political. Big Spring just represents less votes than a larger city."

Roy Watkins extended a plea for continued pressure on Pentagon officials to keep the base open.

"This is a case of the tail wagging the dog. The bureaucrats are telling Congress what to do. This is just the wrong way to economize," said Watkins.

The supposed economy of closing Webb was questioned by Harry Nagel.

"Just take the environmental impact study for example. The government will spend four months and $100,000 on the study. I can get some industrial men. We can all go into my office and knock it off in about 30 minutes," Nagel said.

After hearing the speakers, the crowd was urged to continue writing letters of protest. Plans were also made for a march from city hall to Webb AFB next Saturday. Further plans for the march will be made during the week.

Brown joins race

Connally makes political hay

By The Associated Press

An emerging new controversy over the suspension of his campaign manager greeted President Ford as he arrived for a campaign swing through North Carolina Saturday — the day the government announced a popular decision to preserve the state's New River.

Howard "Bo" Callaway was placed on paid leave from his $42,500 a year campaign directorship after allegations that he used his influence last year when he was Army Secretary to get federal land rights to expand a Colorado ski resort in which he owned an interest.

"I have full faith in Bo Callaway," the President told reporters upon his arrival at Guilford, N.C. "He is stepping aside until all the allegations have been answered, and we will wait and see, but on a personal basis he is a man of integrity."

Later, Ford said he would consider North Carolina Gov. Jim Holshouser, the southern regional coordinator for the Ford campaign, for a top post and perhaps the vice presidency in a second Ford administration.

Some Republicans accused the President on Saturday of timing Interior Secretary Thomas Kleppe's announcement to preserve the New River to coincide with his visit to North Carolina.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., state coordinator for Ronald Reagan, Ford's rival for the Republican nomination, charged that the department's decision to place 26.5 miles of the river in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System was aimed at winning votes for Ford in the state's March 23 primary.

Ford denied that charge.

Former Treasury Secretary John Connally, meanwhile, was hosting a political retreat for Republican leaders from 21 states at his Picosa Ranch near Floresville, Texas.

He urged the GOP chieftains to work this year toward returning control of Congress to the Republican party, and told them to focus their campaigns on foreign policy.

The former Texas governor and one-time Democrat also disavowed any intentions of entering the Republican presidential race.

"Frankly, I don't have enough support in the Republican party. I'm a newcomer," he said.

As for the vice presidency, Connally said: "Nobody runs for that if they have any sense — or if they know what the job is."

However, he added, "I'm not going so far as to say I would absolutely refuse."

Among the Democratic presidential contenders, Alabama Gov. George Wallace campaigned through southern Illinois on Saturday in quest of delegate strength in the 24th congressional district.

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, was in California and planned to return to Illinois on the eve of the primary.

The race for the Democratic presidential nomination, meanwhile, lost one hopeful but picked up a new aspirant. Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp dropped out of the campaign on Friday, while California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. announced later in the day that he would be on his state's June 8 primary ballot.

Brown said he decided to run because "the party needs to be revitalized. We need fresh thinking, and I'm prepared to offer that."

Jimmy Newsom, who is running for the school board here, has two jobs (Cosden and that of contractor) but tried a third for a while — that of cotton farmer.

He reaped more than a bale an acre off the land he farmed but decided the life of a farmer wasn't for him — too many furrows that needed straightening, too many weeds that needed killing and too many things that could happen to a farmer between the time he put seed in the ground and the time he sold his cotton.

The City of Stanton and the T&P Railway haven't always hit it off.

There was a time in the recent past when the city officials in Stanton felt that the railway wasn't showing the proper spirit of cooperation in maintaining the right-of-way and providing the right kind of roads across the tracks, with the result that the city council talked in terms of slowing down the railroad traffic to two miles an hour through the city limits.

Gremlins have an eerie way of popping up in news copy. Take, as an example, an election announcement story this writer did recently on Helen Eggleston. The mind said Mrs. Eggleston was a candidate for county tax assessor-collector. The fingers wrote district clerk.

That immediately attracted the attention of Peggy Crittenden, who is district clerk and whose term extends through 1978, not to mention the incumbent county tax collector-assessor, Zirah Bednar.

The next gremlin I see walks the plank without a trial.

Aw, come on now. Howard County had an abundance of rain during 1975 and more of it fell at times than some people wanted. One of our farmers looked up into the sky after it started to shower during the summer and growled: "That damn Ford."

Patrolman replaces J. W. Parks

State Highway Patrolman David M. Jones, formerly of Sherman, Tex., started work out of Big Spring Friday.

He will be filling the vacancy created by the death of J. W. Parks.

Jones just completed the 18-week training course with the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) in Austin. His partner is Trooper Ben Lockhart.

A 1969 graduate of Sherman High School, Jones attended Southeastern State University at Durant, Okla. He was employed as a management trainee before joining the DPS.

Jones is a native of Greenville, Tex.

He is married to the former Janna Dempsey, Sherman.

The new patrolman's father, Robert E. Jones, has been a state trooper for 28 years.

Early voters can ballot

Absentee voting for the April 3 elections starts Monday and continues until March 30.

The county clerk's office will conduct absentee voting for the Big Spring Independent School District trustees, Howard College turstees and Howard County School Board trustees. The Big Spring City Hall will be the site of absentee voting in the city council race.

Absentee ballots in the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 election will be cast at the district office in Coahoma.

Also in Coahoma, go to the school administration office and city hall to vote absentee in those respective elections.

At Forsan, absentee voting for the school board will be conducted in the school tax office.

In the city council race, absentee votes will be taken at the city hall. No candidate in either the Forsan school or city council election is opposed.

Vandalism

Tape, 6,000 letters sent

A tape prepared by students in the high school speech department was sent along with over 6,000 letters to the President of the United States and other governmental officials protesting the closing of Webb Air Force Base.

Volunteers helped the chamber of commerce staff sort and prepare the letters. They were flown to Washington Friday and hand delivered to the various offices.

Deaths

John Harbuck

Services for John Wilson Harbuck 59, who died at 11:30 a.m., Thursday in Big Spring, were held at 2 p.m., Saturday in Sweetwater. Burial followed in the Garden of Memories.

Pendleton

Services were held 10 a.m. Saturday in Dallas for Mrs. W. W. (Nita) Pendleton, former resident of Big Spring.

Mrs. Pendleton died Friday as a result of a heart attack that occured five days previously.

She and her husband lived in Big Spring from 1930 through 1946.

Mr. Pendleton worked as a linotype operator for the Herald.

Mrs. Pendleton is survived by her husband and son, Buddy.

The Pendleton address is 1819 Ferndale, Dallas.

Branscum

James A. Branscum, 66, Snyder, died in a Big Spring Hospital at 3 a.m., Friday following a brief illness.

Services were held at 2 p.m., Saturday in the Calvary Baptist Church in Snyder. Burial followed in the Hamlin Cemetery.

Mr. Branscum was born Dec. 19, 1909, in Coleman County.

Survivors include his widow, Dovie, of the home; three daughters, Frances Ann Lacowski, Midland, Mrs. Londan Reed, Big Spring, and Nadine Johnson, Snyder; two sisters, Martha Seifers, Rule, and Gertie Jamison, Estelline; two brothers, Bill Branscum, Stamford, and Bascom Branscum, Paducah; 13 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Local group will back Trans Regional bid

About a dozen representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and city will support Trans-Regional Airlines application for new commercial flights Monday, Terry Hanson, chamber manager, said.

The group, which will include J. D. Nelson, chamber president, will appear at a Texas Aeronautics Commission (TAC) hearing before an examiner in Austin.

Chaparral Airlines, Abilene, and Southwest Airlines Co. will contest Trans Regional's request for some of the same routes.

On April 12, the TAC examiner will hear evidence over the applications of Trans Regional and Eagle Commuter Airlines, Brownwood, for service to Brownwood.

Big Spring's Trans Regional proposed scheduled air passenger and cargo service between Brownwood and Abilene, Austin and the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Eagle wants authority to fly between Brownwood and Abilene and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Texas International Airlines Inc. has pending before the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board an application to delete its service to Brownwood, leaving Brownwood without air service.

Tube rupture causes minor Cosden fire

A tube ruptured and asphalt ignited at Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. refinery Saturday afternoon, a spokesman said.

The fire was limited to a paving asphalt furnace on the north side of the railroad tracks.

"We handled it all by ourselves," the spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said. No firemen from outside the refinery were needed, and on one was reported injured.

How much damage was done to the furnace was not known immediately.

begin will include a search for alternatives to closing Webb.

Will Ball, aide to Sen. Tower, urged Pentagon officials that a list of possible alternatives to closure be drawn up as soon as possible and sent to Tower's office.

BIG IMPACT

Ralph Brooks, owner of Blum's Jewelers in Big Spring and a former Air Force Thunderbird pilot, told the secretary that the closing of Webb would have a severe economic impact on the community.

"Ask any officer ever stationed at Webb," Brooks added, "and he will tell you that it has the best community relations around."

Winston Wrinkle, owner of KBST Radio, noted that Webb had graduated the greatest number of pilots in the command and had the most flying hours last year.

Joseph Meis, deputy assistant secretary for installations and logistics, said the detailed study will look at the economic impact of such a closing on Big Spring.

He contended that at this point the whole proposal is "just a study."

Tower aide Ball asked if the 1977 budget, which is now being considered by Congress, did not already have Webb cut out of it.

Meis conceded that the budget did reflect $30 million in savings from "the package" of base closings, but he said it was not specifically tied to any given bases.

He said that the decision on which bases to "study" for closing had been basically Air Force operational considerations to this point.

Meis also said that the Air Force realizes that in the first year of a base closure and draw-down there is very little money, if any, saved.

When questioned about the capacity of Webb as opposed to other bases, officers said Webb was in the "middle group," with Williams AFB in Arizona far on top and Craig in Alabama at the bottom.

Mike Miller, Bentsen's aide, asked if Webb had not trained more pilot graduates at a low cost.

Col. Jim Hines, operations assistant, said he did not know the number of graduates, but he added that it is a complex issue relating to length of programs and other factors.

Secretary Reed said that the Air Force had thought it better to close Webb and make its assets available to the community than to mothball the base.

Meis said that the resources of the Office of Economic Adjustment will be available to help Big Spring make the re-adjustment should the decision to close Webb be finalized.

delegation with Mahon.

The tall, 72-year-old congressman turned grim when he talked about the closing of Webb.

That would have a terrible effect on a little town the size of Big Spring, he said, and it cannot be allowed to happen.

He suggested that the delegation meet personally with the Secretary of the Air Force. Although Tower's office had set up the meeting for Friday, Mahon personally telephoned to make sure that the Big Spring delegation would be able to speak with the secretary himself, and not just some underling.

The delegation caught Mahon in a little office off the Appropriations Committee staff's room in the Capitol, so the Big Spring people had to run back through the corridors and subways to their meeting with Sen. Bentsen at 3 p.m.

Bentsen sat his slender frame on the edge of the table and exchanged information with the delegation for another half hour. He vowed to do everything he could, and he assigned aide Mike Miller to the job.

At the end of the day, the delegation felt heartened. The members were more encouraged than when they had started the day because they had been able to see the senators and congressmen personally, and each one of them had given them a promise of unqualified support.

The mayors of Midland and Odessa had to leave the group Thursday afternoon to return home, leaving Mayor Choate, Brooks, Wrinkle and Graham to stay through Friday for the meeting with Secretary of the Air Force Thomas Reed.

The four hurried back to the hotel to research and prepare statements and fact sheets for the Friday meeting. They ate no dinner until after 10 p.m., then continued working on their reports until after midnight.

Friday morning was spent preparing for the meeting, mostly in Tower's office and with the help of his staff.

Accompanying the four Big Spring residents was Cong. Burleson, who changed his schedule so he could be with the delegation from his district. Also going were aides Ball from Tower's office, Miller from Bentsen's office and Larry Seagle from Mahon's staff.

ACROSS POTOMAC

The Pentagon sent two automobiles to pick up the group and take it across the Potomac to the huge five-sided building.

The meeting lasted for more than an hour, with Secretary Reed staying for about 15 minutes. The remainder of the time was spent with other Air Force civilian and military officials. (See a separate story for a report on this meeting.)

Then the Big Spring delegation held one more final strategy session with the aides at which it was decided that a change of mission is Webb's best hope.

This was followed by another rush to the airport for connections to be back home by midnight.

The delegation departed in a cold rain that was turning to freezing sleet. The weather had been hot and cold, and the mixture fit perfectly with the reception the group received in Washington.

Cause of death unknown

Pybus autopsy bares little

Contrary to earlier impressions, Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena Jr. said the autopsy of the body of W. D. (Bill) Pybus, 55, did reveal some clues.

Ochotorena declined to say what they were, fearing disclosure might hamper the sheriff's office's investigation.

"They couldn't determine cause of death," Ochotorena said.

Ochotorena Friday ruled the cause of death was unknown when Sheriff A. N. Standard returned from the Austin lab.

The peace justice set Jan. 11 as the date of Pybus' death, saying the man could have died the day after he was injured. Death might have come a week later, Ochotorena added.

Pybus disappeared Jan. 10. His body was discovered Wednesday morning north of Big Spring on a country road near the Borden County line.

By studying the victim's fingerprints and teeth, positive identification was established, Ochotorena said.

C. A. Breadsley, chief chemist for the Texas Department of Public Safety, supervised the autopsy. The body has been returned to Big Spring.

Special markers are available

The Veterans Administration has announced that special memorial gravestones and markers will be provided to families of deceased Medal of Honor winners as part of the country's Bicentennial program.

VA Administrator Richard L. Roudebush said the Medal of Honor markers "are intended to bear silent witness to a nation's eternal remembrance of the selfless deeds of these brave Americans."

The special markers will carry an enlarged representation of the Medal of Honor in gold leaf on marble or granite headstones and in bronze on the cast metal markers. The words "Medal of Honor" will also be highlighted by one of these methods, Roudebush said.

The VA administrator said present headstones and grave markers will be replaced with the memorial devices only with the written approval of the next of kin or the person listed on the cemetery's records.

"Since the VA does not have burial records for many of the Medal of Honor winners who are buried in non-government cemeteries, I am appealing to the families or friends of these men to advise us of their wishes as soon as possible," Roudebush said.

"It will also be of great assistance to us if local historians, or city, county or state officials who know of the location of a Medal of Honor winner's grave will contact any known relatives of the serviceman to alert them concerning this program," Roudebush said.

"I think it would be fitting if we could have all these stones in place on Memorial Day this year, but to do that we will need the cooperation of everyone who can assist us with information," he added.

Roudebush emphasized that there will be no cost to the families for the memorial headstones or grave markers.

Relatives of deceased Medal of Honor winners who wish to have the present grave markers replaced with the memorial stone should contact the nearest Veterans Administration office, or they may write to the Director, National Cemetery Service, Veterans Administration, Washington, D.C. 20420.

The Medal of Honor was first awarded in 1863. Since that time 3,400 have been awarded.

Officials at Arlington National Cemetery estimate there are fewer than 200 Medal of Honor recipients buried there.

A little lower

The four wishes

By WILFRED CALNAN
HC Family Service Center

While I was yet young and in my undergraduate university years, we learned with considerable awe of a sociologist by the name of Thomas, who had postulated a few years before that the human being is motivated by certain basic wishes. Today, I still find these as valuable in describing human motivation. The four wishes, as Thomas expressed them, are:

Affection
Security
Recognition
New Experience

One can see how important these wishes are, how intertwined they are, and how some of them tend to conflict, one with another.

Today it is widely accepted that all human beings need love. Clinically, it has been observed that an infant with all physical needs met, has died because of lack of human contact. Almost all of us can recall a crisis in our lives when we came through largely because others showed us that they cared.

People in depression will tell us that "there is nothing left to hold on to," wringing their hands as they say it. Knowing that "we belong" means so much to us. The person who has developed inner security is not easily threatened by life. Indeed, he seeks out life, in the words of Robert Browning, "faces life breast forward."

New experience is necessary for all of us. In the lighter sense, we want life not to be dull but for there to be excitement. In the deeper sense, life to be lived must be a continuous chain of rebirths. Each morning needs to greet a new day.

Every person needs to be acknowledged as somebody who has his own inimitable individuality. We need the esteem of our peers. We need our special abilities to be recognized.

The conflict of wishes can cause us stress and even pain. For example, the high school senior looks excitedly forward to his first college year. At the same time, he is afraid to leave his family, his high school crowd. He may become quite conflicted, may even find excuses for delaying his departure for college.

The young executive may be ambitious for promotion that he believes will recognize his abilities. At the same time, he finds it difficult to leave the security of his present job, which he knows like the back of his hand.

The richness of a good family life is demonstrated as parents help their children satisfy these wishes in a healthy way. The child who knows he's loved has also the assurance that his parents will support him through the new experiences of life. He will know that he has something to give because his parents are confident that he has. He will know what is reasonable to expect of himself because parents have helped him understand both his potentials and limitations, will applaud this success, and, if necessary, will accept his failures, always with the assurance that they care about him as a person. He is their child whatever he does, whatever happens to him.

Texas gains in average school teachers' pay

AUSTIN — Texas has moved up this year from 35th to 24th place among the 50 states in average annual pay for public school teachers, a national survey shows.

Average classroom teacher pay in Texas in 1975-76 is $11,373, according to a survey of the National Education Association titled "Estimates of School Statistics, 1975-76."

This still leaves Texas $1,151 below the national teacher pay average of $12,524, as quoted in the NEA report. These are preliminary estimates, based on figures supplied by the 50 state education agencies, including the Texas Education Agency. Revised estimates will be compiled after the end of the school year.

The revised figures for the preceding year showed Texas in 35th place among the 50 states with average annual teacher pay of $9,807, which was $1,843 below the national average of $11,650 for 1974-75.

Callie W. Smith, executive secretary of the Texas State Teachers Association, said that "these new figures show that while the 1975 Texas Legislature was passing House Bill 1126 to improve teacher pay, the other states were also moving ahead.

"We are pleased in the improved pay situation for Texas teachers, but we still have a long way to go to reach the national average, which probably will continue to climb from the present estimate of $12,524."

TSTA pushed for a $10,000 starting pay for Texas teachers in the 1975 Legislature. House Bill 1126, passed in the fading hours of the session, raised starting bachelor's degree teachers from $6,600 to $8,000, and master's degree teachers from $7,200 to $8,600.

TSTA leaders will try again in the 1977 legislative session to secure raises aimed at boosting the Texas teacher pay average above the national average, Smith said.

Won't risk more lives

Bodies sealed inside mine

OVEN FORK, Ky. (AP) — A southeast Kentucky coal mine where 26 men have died in less than a week will be closed and sealed immediately, U.S. Undersecretary of the Interior Kent Frizzell said Saturday.

The mine will remain sealed, with 11 bodies still inside, until danger of further explosions is past, "possibly two or three months," Frizzell said.

The decision was announced after a six-hour meeting between federal and company officials. The officials had said earlier, while they discussed sealing the mine, that it would be at least closed down.

"We aren't going to risk any more lives," Dick Nellius, a spokesman for the U.S. Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA), had said.

The men died in an explosion late Thursday night. Eight were Scotia workers trying to shore up a roof weakened by an explosion Tuesday that killed 15 miners. The other three were federal inspectors, supervising the operation.

Both blasts were blamed on methane gas, but it was not known exactly what set off either explosion.

Two men survived Thursday night's explosion. One, Rick Parker, said Saturday he thinks the blast could have been caused by a faulty air compressor that he said was still running in the mine.

Parker made the statement in an interview with a Louisville Times reporter, according to a copyright story in the paper Saturday.

Parker said the compressor, which is mounted on a mine rail car, turns itself on when the pressure inside it drops to a certain point, then back off when the pressure is built up again.

"It's like a time bomb," Parker said. "It could go off again any time."

The compressor apparently runs on batteries and, unless it was destroyed by the blast, could keep going until the batteries run out.

Parker, 27, and Ernest Collins, 25, had gone in with eight other company workers and three federal inspectors Thursday.

Parker and Collins were working a short distance from the other men, behind a rock pile, which shielded them from the explosion.

They managed to work their way back toward the mine entrance, 3½ miles away, and were brought out by rescue workers.

The other 11 men were apparently killed immediately, officials said.

Methane is often found in deep coal mines. Scotia No. 1 was known to be a "gassy" mine, MESA officials said.

Tuesday's explosion apparently erupted near the mine's face, where the coal is actually mined. Safety officials said this is usually where methane is most concentrated.

BILL ATWOOD, JR.
WANTS TO WORK FOR YOU

I am a candidate for State Representative of the 83rd District of the State of Texas. I've been asked many times what I'm going to try to do in our State Capitol. At this time I would like to say I cannot and will not make any promises, but I am going to try to represent you to the best of my ability. Our district has not been efficiently represented in the past and it is time for the people to start getting their shares worth in our capitol. We have too many bureaucrats in office. Our unneeded bureaus and agencies cost us the taxpayers, thousands of dollars each year. We should be able to cut taxes instead of adding new ones. We don't want any new taxes. A lot of our tax money goes for things like studies of why a bird flies, which we all know that it has wings, so why spend our money to tell us that. It cost 15 million dollars a day for our government in the State of Texas to operate. There is not one agency in our state government that knows even how many people work for the state, however in 1975 there was a 36 per cent increase in employees. If we cut down on bureaus, we will also limit government control, but yet our legislators sit around thinking of new ways to spend more money.

Gun Control: I will never vote for gun control. Gun control will do nothing except leave innocent people defenseless. Our legislators are going to fool around and pass a bill for gun control unless we get more people in office that will not accept gun control. Gun control almost passed in the last session. The best method against crime would be to make stiff mandatory sentences for crimes related to guns. I will not only vote No for gun control, but will try to convince other legislators who voted yes last time to vote No this time.

Welfare: Welfare takes its chunk of our money. Welfare is a good thing if used properly. Our needy and senior citizens need some assistance. Welfare was meant for three reasons. The reasons are:
1. To help the needy
2. People medically unable to work
3. For people laid off their jobs until they find new jobs.
What happened to Welfare? Most of the needy do not get welfare. The people who receive welfare who are able to work never find new jobs. Under Rules and Regulations set up for Welfare under our federal government, someone can and needs to take the initiative to cut down on welfare and try to work out welfare problems and save the taxpayers dollars. Under our present State penal code, a person who obtains 200 dollars illegally can be convicted of a felony and sent to prison. A person can obtain $10,000 illegally from Welfare and only get a misdemeanor fine. We need to make welfare fraud a felony charge.

Social Security: I want to try to make sure people who work hard and pay social security all their life will receive back what they put in to Social Security.

Oil and Gas: I will defend the oil companies. Oil is one of our nation's best resources. We have a lot of legislators who do not defend oil. What do you think would happen if we did not have oil? The government should not control oil and gas. They want to pay less for domestic oil, than for foreign oil. Yet our men work just as hard to produce it. The government regulated the well head in order to establish the gas rates. We pay twice as much for natural gas as people in New York, yet we send it up there from under us. This is not the fault of our oil and gas companies.

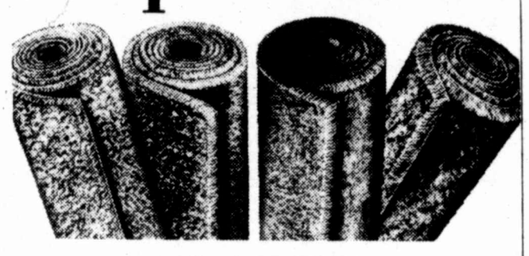

Working People: I want to work in our capitol for the working man and woman. We need to protect ourselves against higher utility rates and inflation. We need to try to lower materials so that we can afford them.

Agriculture: Agriculture has no voice in our state government. I have an uncle who works hard in our capitol for improvement in agriculture. He wants me to be elected so that with his help and my help and others help, we just might be able to get some improvements for agriculture and a stronger voice in our State Capitol. I am not unaware of the problems facing agriculture. We have land and cattle ourselves.

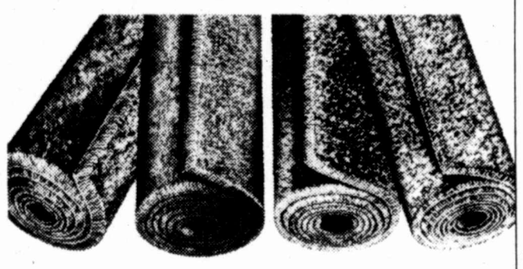

I sincerely hope you will vote Bill Atwood, Jr. in the May 1 election so that we can put common sense back into our government and start putting the government back into the hands of our people. You cannot represent the people efficiently unless you keep them informed and know what they think is best for them and the industries of our district and West Texas.
Thank you.

There has got to be hope

The question for Big Spring right now is: Can Webb Air Force Base be saved?

Based on my impressions of the Big Spring delegation's trip to Washington last week, I think the honest answer must be: It's still possible, but very difficult.

Despite what the Air Force says about this being a "study" with no final decisions yet made, it is clear that the upcoming detailed environmental impact statement is more likely to be a justification for the closing than it is a sincere probe.

As one lawmaker's aide said, the Defense Department is definitely looking down the gun barrel at Webb right now. We're not dead yet, but our position desperately needs improving.

On the plus side, the Big Spring delegation received unqualified commitments from Cong. Omar Burleson, Sen. John Tower, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Cong. George Mahon to fight all the way for Webb.

When lawmakers as powerful with the military purse strings as Sen. Tower and Cong. Mahon pledge to fight, there has got to be hope.

Webb is out of the budget at this point, and we must somehow get our base restored or by Oct. 1 there will be only a caretaker force left here, and by Dec. 31, Webb will be closed.

There will be a period of indecision which may last several months. The Air Force will prepare an environmental impact statement to be made public within 90 days. Then there will be a public hearing in Big Spring. By mid-July, we should know.

SEN. LLOYD BENTSEN sits on the edge of his office table as he talks with the Big Spring delegation about the closing of Webb AFB which has been announced by the Air Force.

During this same time, the Congress will be considering the defense budget, so this will be the best time for a wedge to be driven in which could save Webb.

One thing is clear: Air Training Command is going to be pared down. It would do Webb little good to survive under the present ATC mission, for we would just be back in the same mess next year. It looks as if even more ATC bases are certain to be cut before too long.

Our best hope is another mission. It would cost a little money, but there is hope. There are many missions in the Air Force. Perhaps one could be taken from a large base near a metropolitan area. There are towns that do not want military bases near them; some are even bringing lawsuits to stop a base buildup.

However, Big Spring would not want simply a temporary or "caretaker" mission that would in effect mothball the base. This could hurt our town worse than the closing. These are decisions that our community must struggle with as we fight for Webb.

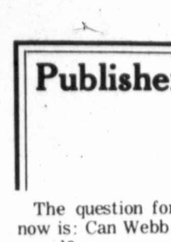

Although they did not say so during the formal meeting with the Big Spring delegation on Friday, Pentagon officials afterwards quietly indicated that Americans should be urged to write their congressmen and senators to make them see how important an adequate defense budget is to our nation.

An increased budget could, of course, take the pressure off the terrible reduction in manpower and bases which the Defense Department has been forced to undertake.

With more than 7,000 letters already coming in to the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, our people have rallied to support Webb in a manner which few congressmen can ignore. Maybe even a president will notice that kind of mail.

We must keep fighting and not give up hope.

— J. TOM GRAHAM

Micro-wave affair

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON — President Ford's administration has removed some electronics intelligence equipment from the U.S. embassy roof in Moscow in return for reduced Soviet microwave bombardment of the embassy — a top secret effort to avoid an open rupture of U.S.-Soviet relations.

INTENSIFIED electromagnetic radiation beamed at the embassy to interrupt U.S. intelligence-gathering has produced repeated complaints that embassy personnel, including Ambassador Walter Stoessel, have been physically harmed. The Soviet government refused even to acknowledge the microwave attack, much less stop it. Thus, the Ford-Kissinger policy of detente was seriously threatened on a peripheral issue.

The result is what critical officials high in the Ford administration call "hand-wringing" diplomacy. Instead of outright U.S. demands that the Soviets observe the bounds of civilized behavior, a bargain of sorts has now been secretly struck. Some electronics equipment on the embassy's roof used to penetrate confidential Soviet communications has been removed. In return, electromagnetic radiation at the embassy has decreased. However, radiation remains above minimum safety standards, and the matter is by no means closed.

Many nuances and implications of this hush-hush affair are not fully known; nor is its ultimate outcome. But critics within the administration believe Mr. Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger are following tactics that have provably failed in past confrontations with the Kremlin.

THE SOVIETS began directing microwaves at the U.S. embassy in the early 1960s, obviously as a countermeasure against electronic spying. By contrast, the U.S. has followed the normal diplomatic practice and dealt indirectly with similar electronic spying from the Soviet embassy in Washington — never by beaming microwaves against the Russians.

That the radiation in Moscow was above the Soviets' own safety standard has for years been the subject of innumerable conferences high in the government. President Johnson raised the matter at Glassboro, N.J., in 1967 with Soviet Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin, who disclaimed any knowledge of microwave bombardment. However, the U.S. decided not to press its grievance.

What changed this was a drastic increase in electromagnetic radiation at the embassy in Moscow within the last 24 to 36 months.

Building A Raft

After reading the book, "Huckleberry Finn," my brother and I were so impressed with Huck's adventures we decided to have some of our own. We took our trusty, but dull, hatchet and one of Dad's handsaws and set out to a spot down on the creek where a large grove of willows grew.

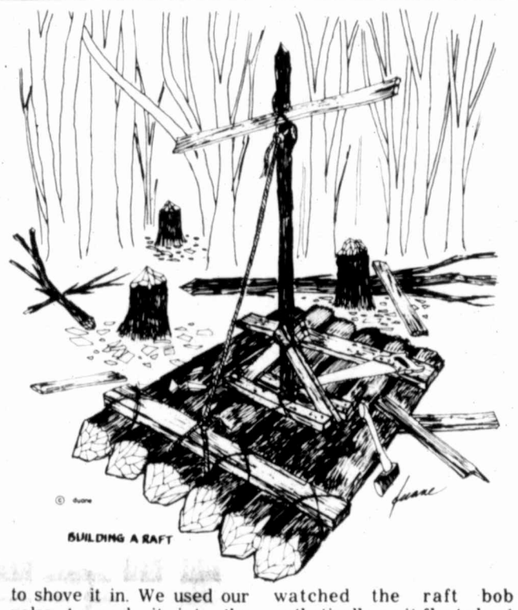

We would cut down a few trees, build ourselves a raft and the next time the creek flowed we would ride the stream clear to the coast (only about five hundred miles away). No telling what we might see or do or what might happen to us. It was so exciting. We would take along a little food but we would live mostly off the land. We would fish the streams or hunt wild animals along the banks with our Red Rider B.B. gun.

It took about a week of hard labor just to get the trees cut and to chop them into logs the right length. We didn't mind the hard work, besides, it would all be worth it when we set sail.

We connected all the logs together with boards and nails, some old rope and bailing wire. Though it was probably not as pretty as Huck's, it did look seaworthy. We added a mast, rigged up a sail made from an old bedsheet and made a pole rudder to guide her with. We were proud when we had finished. We made further voyage plans and looked at the sky, hoping it would come a "gully washer" soon. It didn't.

After about a month we decided it might never rain again and we just had to try that raft out. There was a large stock tank about a quarter of a mile away so we decided to take it over there for a trial run. We tried to pick it up but quickly decided it must have grown to the ground. We finally budged it a little by using poles for levers but it took us all day to go about ten feet. We abandoned the stock tank idea and decided to just wait for the rain.

When the rain finally came we rushed down to the creek to shove it in. We used our poles to work it into the water. Green logs are not good to make rafts with as Huck could have probably told us. The raft bobed up and down just under the surface of the water, hardly able to float itself, much less two eager adventurers and their provisions. Sadly we watched the raft bob pathetically as it floated out into the swift muddy current. It hadn't gone more than a hundred yards down stream when it bumped into a tall tree and was reduced to splinters in a few seconds. If we had headed toward the coast, it would have been a short trip.

On retail side, business brisk

Week's business

- Surge in buying reflected in statements.
- Kresge's sales show gain of 26 per cent.
- Items like refrigerators, furniture sell.
- Montgomery Ward becoming part of Mobil Oil.
- Oil companies meeting in secret.

NEW YORK (AP) — Business has turned brisk in some of the major retail chain and department stores across the country.

The surge in buying this year, which was reflected in the profit statements of three big companies and government statistics this past week, follows a rise in employment and an easing of inflation as the nation recovered from the recession in the last half of 1975.

"Early in the second quarter, aided in part by improved weather and particularly by an improvement in economic conditions and consumer confidence, sales began to push up," said Robert Dewar, chairman of the S.S. Kresge Co.

"Throughout the balance of 1975, with the economy gathering strength, consumer demand increased, leading to the important fourth quarter when excellent results were achieved," he said.

In the quarter ended in January, Kresge's sales rose 26 per cent from their level in the same period a year before. Its profits jumped 249 per cent.

J.C. Penny Co.'s sales in that period rose 20 per cent and its profits 235 per cent. And Montgomery Ward's sales were up 9 per cent and its earnings 118 per cent.

In February, retail sales nationwide rose 12 per cent from a year ago, the Commerce Department said.

The buying was heavy in durable goods — items like refrigerators and furniture. Durable goods sales rose 3.5 per cent in February, mostly because of a jump in auto sales.

Montgomery Ward, meanwhile, will become part of the Mobil Oil group of companies if a merger proposal announced this past week goes through. Montgomery Ward is a subsidiary of Marcor Corp., in which Mobil currently has 54 per cent ownership.

Mobil proposed to merge completely with Marcor through an exchange of securities worth an estimated $900 million. The deal must be approved by directors and stockholders of the companies.

Meanwhile Mobile was also negotiating the sale of its 7.5 per cent ownership in Arabian American Oil Co., the joint venture of four American firms that produces most of Saudi Arabia's oil.

Executives of Texaco, Exxon, Standard Oil of California and Mobil met all week in secret and under heavy guard in Panama City, Fla., with Sheik Ahmed Yamani, the Saudi oil minister.

The subject as the complete takeover of Aramco, of which the Saudi government now owns 60 per cent. On Friday, they reached "general accord on major issues," something that has eluded the negotiators for months.

"Over the past few years Saudi Arabia has not been in a rush to finalize a new agreement with Aramco," said Anthony Copp, an energy economist for Salomon Brothers investment bankers. "In large part this has been dictated by the large volume of spare oil productive capacity in the country," he said.

Dear Editor:

As a concerned citizen, in regard to the possible closing of Webb AFB. What I would like to know, why is Reese AFB not one of the bases considered to be closed?

Is it because of Congressman George Mahon? I understand that base is his baby. Lubbock could stand loss of their facility more than Big Spring could and we are talking of a duplicate facility. In fact, Webb is more modern, hospital, barracks, etc. As a taxpayer, I can't see spending money for new barracks, and boom, consider shutting down. I understand the new theater at Reese and BX is a drop in the bucket to money spent recently at Webb AFB.

Let's consider Reese as the one to close, not Webb. A quick tour of Reese will reveal the taxpayers are getting rooked by a modern up-to-date facility being considered for closing and leaving an out-dated facility open.

The personnel at Reese live at Carlisle, which is no more than a community of base personnel and closing of Reese would not affect the economy of Lubbock as the closing of Webb would affect Big Spring.

As a local farmer and an oil company engineer and having been on both facilities, I am shocked at this news of Webb being the one considered to be closed.

Flush was weak

Around the rim

Walt Finley

According to Bennett Cerf's Treasury of Atrocious Puns (a phrase which might well be redundant), a poker-loving spiritualist wanted another player for a Saturday night session and summoned the ghost of a departed companion.

THE GHOST was delighted to sit in on the game, and on the first hand he drew five beautiful hearts. He bet his stack.

Unfortunately, one of the flesh-and-blood players had a pat full house and raked in the pot — just one more time when the spirit was willing but the flush was weak.

A Dallas woman who marked her property with an identification number was burglarized.

The TV set and a radio which displayed the identity number were not touched by the intruders.

But they did take the $10 electric pen which the woman had borrowed to engrave the numbers.

Can't you hear them talking it over:

"Hey! Why don't we take this home and engrave our stuff? You never can tell when some crook will break into our house and steal the stuff we stole."

"You're right," the other would reply. "I can't understand people nowadays. They're likely to steal anything!"

A rather rotund tennis player, with the initials WF carved on his battered racket, was discussing the technique of his game with intrepid reporter John Edwards while thinking of his impending tennis battles with curvaceous Carla.

My brain barks out a command to my body:

"Run forward speedily. Start right away. Get there before the ball does. Get set. Slam the ball gracefully over the net."

"Then what happens?" John asked.

"Then my body says, 'You gotta be kiddin', fellow!'"

GOOD OL' Bill Factor, reports: The barber shop was crowded. The barber was trying to embarrass Uncle Russ. He cupped his palm over Russ's bald head and rubbed affectionately.

"You know, Russ, your old ball head feels just like my wife's cheeks."

The onlookers tittered. Uncle thought about that for a moment, then rubbed his hand over his bald pate the same way the barber had, then brightened up with:

"By golly! It shore does, don't it!"

Disillusionment

It's almost enough to lead to disillusionment.

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — In earlier columns, we described the plight of the stoop laborers who harvest the winter vegetables that housewives find in the supermarkets.

There is grim irony in the fact that those who work in the world's most bounteous fields often live in stark poverty, earning barely enough to subsist. Some live in virtual bondage to the field boss, who collects more out of their wages than he pays them.

FOR MOST, there seems to be no escape from the perpetual poverty of the fields. They have no other skills, no place else to go, no hope of a better life.

Their living standards have been held down by the big growers, thus assuring their availability at low wages. From California to Florida, the political power has been on the side of the growers whose agriculture empires are tied to the banks, the railroads, the real estate interests.

These pressure groups have more friends in Washington than do the migrant workers who cannot afford the campaign contributions, law fees and other favors it seems to take to win friends and influence in Washington.

The Labor Department is supposed to uphold minimum standards in the work camps where the stoop laborers live. Inspectors made a routine call last December, for example, on a Florida tomato farm, which is part of the great Duda and Son agriculture domain.

The inspectors found 16 separate health and safety violations and fined the farm a paltry $230. Duda subsequently notified the Labor Department that the violations had been corrected. With no more concern, the inspectors accepted Duda's word and marked the case "closed."

Not long afterward, our reporter Hal Bernton, posing as a drifter, was hired off skid row by Duda and was assigned to this same camp. He found it hardly fit for human habitation.

The workers lived in rundown old trailers, which were divided into four tiny compartments. Bernton and another recruit shared a grim room that reeked of human wastes, with a dirty sink and a waterless tap. There was barely space for two cots, each equipped with a filthy mattress but no pillow.

The mattress had such an unbearable stench that Bernton searched the empty bunks for a cleaner one. He was caught dragging it into his room by the field boss, a burly man with a vicious Doberman pinscher to enforce his rule. The boss growled his disapproval but grudgingly let Bernton keep the precious mattress.

Among Bernton's neighbors was a weathered young couple, with a six-month-old baby. Their home was a tiny section of an old trailer. It took every cent they could earn to buy food and medicine for the baby. They were terribly frustrated over the unaccountable shortages in their weekly pay and the unfair deductions.

THEY HADN'T been able to save enough, for example, to buy a crib for the baby. Once the child fell from the bed onto the hard tile floor. Happily, he escaped serious injury.

"It's hard to me to believe," wrote Bernton in a report to us, "that Duda can expect the family to live in such cramped quarters. This is more reminiscent of 19th-century slave quarters than any 20th-century habitation."

Not far from the miserable work camp live the white farmers who run Duda's farm. Unlike the hot, dusty, barren camp site, their homes are shaded from the sun by lovely old palm and pine trees. Automobiles and an occasional powerboat are parked on the grounds.

None of this, apparently, made much of an impact on the federal inspectors. As a Duda spokesman pointed out to us, the 16 citations weren't treated as "serious violations." But the farm managers must be aware of the conditions; for the spokesman said daily inspections were made of the work camp. The spokesman insisted that the owners and managers had no knowledge of any improper activities at the camp.

LETTER SEARCHES: CIA agents are peeved that their mail-opening program has been portrayed as a snooping operation. They scanned letters from China and Russia not so much for content as for "microdots." These are tiny microfilmed messages, which can be hidden under the punctuation marks in innocent-appearing letters.

NAVY CHARGES: The Navy has filed preliminary charges against two officers of the cruiser Belknap, which collided with the carrier John F. Kennedy in the Ionian Sea last November. The accident set off fires aboard both ships, killed eight persons and injured 46. The Belknap's skipper, Capt. Walter R. Schafer, has been charged with dereliction of duty.

A devotion for today

"Supplement your faith with virtue." (II Peter 1:5, RSV)

PRAYER: Teach us, O God, that we must make an all-out effort if we are to have an enduring faith. Help us in our effort to know Thee whom to know is life eternal. Amen.

Go fly a kite! That's what a large group of hardy souls did in the Festival Committee's second annual Ben Franklin Kite Flying Contest. The chill in the air didn't prevent a crowd of participants and onlookers (lots of dads lent a helping hand). Margaret Lloyd, chairman, and her helpers, Kay Griffith, Anita Daniels, Ann Bott and Sarah Tipton, got the event underway, while Dennis Smiley snapped pictures right and left.

Thanks to Capt. David Smith, president of the Webb JOC, and his aides, Capt. Walter Solak, 2nd Lts. Neil Schaal, William Thompson, Thomas L. Peterson and Joseph W. Kahiapo. They did a sterling job of judging the contest. Cash prizes were provided by Friends of Howard County Library.

The variety of kites was amazing — small, large, hand-decorated, ready-made, homemade, long tails, short tails — a typical American event — no two alike!

Our own private supermen, George Zachariah and L. B. Paul, Sr., came to our rescue as usual! When Mrs. Thelma Carlile's 3rd grade unveiled their class-created flag at Moss School, we were busy with the Bicentennial Band advance team, so George and L. B. handled the event in their usual capable way. We hear it was an outstanding program. Thanks, men!

An enlightening conference was held with Mrs. Edward Jacobs and Miss Rosetta Brown concerning a June 8-11 meeting to be held here. The Rev. L.B. Adams, of Ft. Worth, heads up the planning for the 73rd Annual Session of the Original West Texas District Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress. Up to 400 participants can be expected sometime during the conference. The youth night skits will depict the church history of the area, and will have a Bicentennial theme. Our thanks for being included!

Tid-bits: When Johnnie Lou helped set up plans for the Howard College Coliseum groundbreaking, she took a leaf from the efficiency book of Capt. Dick Steele. There was a preliminary "briefing" for dignitaries, patterned after the one Dick held as project officer for Webb's recent Bicentennial designation ceremony. Just call us copycats — Cooperation is the key word anytime we visit our friends at the Big Spring School Administration offices. WTCC opposes oil industry divestiture

The executive committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in a recent meeting, adopted a position paper opposing any and all proposed federal legislation mandating either vertical or horizontal or a combination of vertical and horizontal divestiture of the petroleum industry.

In its position paper, WTCC states that the ultimate results of such legislation would be more shortages of energy supplies, higher prices to the consumer and even more desperate and costly federal government legislation.

"This proposed federal legislation would eliminate the competition that already exists," sayd L. H. Byrd of Midland, chairman of WTCC's Mineral Resources Committee. "The eight major oil companies have only a total of 65 per cent of the market, an average of about 8 per cent each, and not one of the major oil companies has over 10 per cent of the total market. There are many other basic industries in the United States where this is certainly not the case. The only thing keeping prices of gasoline and oil products as low as they are now is the great amount of competition among the integrated oil companies themselves and between the integrated and non-integrated companies.

Celebrate the bicentennial. Secede from the union.

The economists say that 1976 won't be a bad economic year. On the other hand, it won't be a good economic year either.

That means you're going to have to be careful with your money. You're going to have to put it where you can get the most out of it.

That's why it should be in First Federal instead of a credit union. Look at the advantages.

Guaranteed Interest. Every passbook and savings certificate account pays a specified, guaranteed rate of interest. You know how much your money is going to earn. In a credit union, you don't. You have to wait and see how efficiently the credit union has operated during the dividend period.

Better Choice of Plans and Better Rates. We have a variety of plans, including both Passbook accounts and Certificates of Deposit.

The interest on all of them is compounded daily. So, you actually earn more interest than the quoted standard rate.

A Passbook account can be opened for any amount, and it will earn interest for every day it's open. There's no penalty or loss of interest for withdrawing any or all of your funds.

There are also several longer-term, higher-rate Certificates of Deposit. You can choose any one of these:

Maturity Period	Minimum Deposit	Standard Rate	Effective Annual Yield
90 day	$ 500	5¾%	5.92%
1 year	$1,000	6½%	6.72%
2½ years	$1,000	6¾%	6.98%
4 years	$5,000	7½%	7.79%

Fund Transfer. You can save a little each month by arranging an automatic fund transfer from your checking account. Or, use our TELE-TRANSFER system to transfer funds from your checking account to your savings account, or vice versa with one phone call to us. You get your deposit or drafts made in one day.

Personal Loans and Instant Credit. If your family is buying a car, boat, appliance, or needs another kind of loan, we can help you. It doesn't make any difference whether you have an account with us or not. However, if you do have a First Federal account, you automatically have instant credit up to the amount of your account. You don't even have to wait for a credit check.

Special Interest in Big Spring and Howard County. When you save at First Federal you're contributing to the growth and prosperity of your community. We're deeply involved in financing the housing and construction industry. So, First Federal is committed to the progress of this area, and your deposits are committed to that same progress.

Do the most for yourself. Do the most for your community. Secede from the union.

Art association displays paintings

The Big Country Art Association exhibition will be on display at the Heritage Museum here starting today and continuing through March 28.

There will be twenty paintings on exhibit which were selected at the annual fall show by the judge, Ben Karnes of Fort Worth.

Cities represented in the show include Cisco, Colorado City, Sweetwater, Snyder, Stamford, Big Spring, San Angelo and Abilene.

Two Big Spring artists have pictures in the display including Martha Conway with "Fall Bouquet" and Roberta Ross with "Part of the Big Country," a prickly pear rendition.

The public is invited to visit the display at the Heritage Museum. The Big Country Artists group is a branch of the Texas Fine Arts Association.

Potton house gets historical marker

The historic Potton House, located on Gregg Street, has recently gained another honor and has been named a Recorded Texas Historic Landmark. This announcement was made by Mrs. Wesley B. Blankenship, chairman of the Texas Historical Commission.

As a result of meeting the state's requirements for this official designation, a Texas Historical Building Medallion with an interpretive plate, giving a capsule history of the structure, will be affixed to the building.

The dedication date for the marker will be announced by Mrs. Floyd (Polly) Mays, chairman of the Howard County Historical Survey committee. A certificate designating the building as a recorded landmark will be presented at the dedication ceremonies.

The inscription on the marker reads: "Potton House, Joseph Potton (1847-1920), a native of England and master mechanic for Texas and Pacific Railroad, built this Victorian residence in 1901. Designed by the Fort Worth firm of S. B. Haggart and Son, the house was constructed of Pecos sandstone with iron pillars and zinc gable decorations. Potton, a school board trustee, and his wife occupied the home after he retired in 1912 and often entertained here. Later, their daughter, Mrs. Henry R. Hayden and her family resided here."

The marking on local historic sites and landmarks is part of the Texas Historical Commission's program of preservation activities. These also include archeological investigations, history museum consultation, and administering the National Historic Preservation Act in Texas. As of 1974, the commission has erected approximately 6,800 official markers.

The name and location of the present marker will appear in the next edition of the Guide to Official Texas Historical Markers. It was already recognized by the National Archives.

MILLER SHERRILL

Two are honored

Clyde A. Miller has retired from Exxon Company, U.S.A. with almost 32 years of service. Assigned as operator lease, he was located in the Spraberry area, Midland District, in the Midcontinent Production Division.

In 1944, Miller joined the company in Stratton, Texas. Assigned to the drilling organization, his rig locations included other areas of South Texas until his move to West Texas in 1952. He began production field assignments as operator lease in the Midland District in 1960.

He is a native Texas and is married to the former Dorthy Mae Nance. Retirement plans for Mr. and Mrs. Miller are to continue making their home in Stanton. A retirement dinner was held March 10 in Miller's honor. At that time, he received retirement awards.

Thomas J. Sherrill has observed his 30-year service anniversary with Exxon. Assigned as maintenance foreman, he is located in Forsan, in the Midland District, Midcontinent Production Division.

In 1946, he joined the company as a roustabout in Eunice, N.M., and later that year he moved to his present location.

Sherrill and his wife, the former Gladys Rya, make their home in Big Spring

At a luncheon held recently in his honor in Big Spring, he was presented service awards by District Operations Superintendent Joseph L. Barthel, Jr.

Felony 'pot' charges filed against two

Charles A. Shelton, 27, of Canutillo, and Donald S. Smith, 26, Carlsbad, N.M. are the two men in the Howard County jail in lieu of $2,500 bond charged with felony possession of marijuana.

They were arrested early Friday morning on the highway near the intersection of IS-20 and State 176 by State Trooper Bill Priest. Stopped on a speeding violation, they were reported to have over 50 pounds of marijuana in their possession.

Smith was also charged with possession of a prohibited weapon.

Lamesa science fair today

LAMESA — The tenth annual science fair, postponed a week because of high absenteeism, will be held today at the Middle School Gym.

The fair will be open for public viewing from 2-4 p.m. At that time students will learn how their projects fared during Saturday's judging when the gymnasium was closed to the public.

First and second place winners will be eligible to enter their science projects in the South Plains Regional Science Fair in Lubbock the next weekend.

Chopper pilots end training

Four former helicopter pilots completed their conversion training to fixed wing aircraft at Webb AFB this week. Friday, Col. Robert Meisenheimer, deputy commander for Operations, presented certificates to the following, listed with their next assignments:

Capt. William T. Griffin, C-141, Charleston AFB, S.C.; Capt. James R. Casey, F-4, MacDill AFB, Fla.; Capt. C. Gregory Cope, RC-135, Offutt AFB, Neb.; Capt, Jerome W. Beatty, B-52, Carswell AFB, Tex.

This is the second class to complete training since the program began here last July. During the 27 weeks, pilots fly at least 30 hours in the T-37 and 90 in the T-38 along with ground training consisting of 12 academic courses.

THE DUST FLIES — Keith Long competed in the 12,000 pound Open Class tractor pull in the Houston Astrodome earlier this year. Driving the "Red Raider," the Longs will enter several more tractor pulls throughout the year.

Area pullers win Fort Worth meet

Area residents took top honors at the Southwest Championship Tractor Pull, March 5 through 7. The competition was held at the Tarrant County Convention Center in Fort Worth.

A tractor owned by Elbert Long of Big Spring, and driven by his son, Keith, won first place in the 9000 pound Superstock competition. The Longs also took third place in the 9,000 pound Superstock Challenge Class competition the following night. In this contest there was only a five inch difference between first and third place pulls.

Another area resident, Derwood Blagrave of Ackerly, captured first place in the 12,000 pound Stock competition with a tractor driven by his son, Stan.

Tractor pullers vied for a $23,000 purse at the Fort Worth competition. Both the Longs and Blagraves plan to enter more pulls in the near future.

Ronald Cross enters race

Ronald R. Cross has filed as a candidate for election in the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 board.

Ross M. Roberts is the only Coahoma resident seeking election to the board.

J. B. Hall and incumbents, Theo Earnest, Oscar Cagle and Owen Johnston also are running. The deadline for filing was Saturday.

Keele attends TPA seminar

Paul Keele, Big Spring, attended a continuing education seminar concerning "The Pharmacist and Antiobiotic Therapy." The seminar was held recently in Midland and was sponsored by the Texas Pharmaceutical Association.

Pharmacists from throughout West Texas heard lectures concerning new developments in antibiotic therapy including drug interactions and adverse reactions. Five hours of continuing education credit were earned for participating in the seminar.

All-time record sales mark set

NEW YORK — W. R. Grace & Co., an international chemical company, has announced that the company set all-time records during 1975 in sales and revenues, net income and earnings per share.

Grace's record net income was $166,678,000 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1975, up $47,568,000, or 40 per cent, from the restated 1974 figure of $119,110,000. Earnings per common and common equivalent share in 1975 reached an historic high of $5.31, compared with $3.83 as restated for 1974, up 39 per cent. Sales and operating revenues rose to $3,529,163,000, a one per cent gain over the restated 1974 figure of $3,500,367,000.

The 1975 results include a $35,632,000 after tax gain ($1.14 per share) on the sale of the greater part of Grace's majority interest in Jacques Borel International, S.A. Excluding this gain, earnings per share were still a record $4.17, an increase of nine per cent over 1974.

Grace maintains an agricultural chemicals plant east of Big Spring.

March 25 is deadline

Cotton production cards due

Cotton production cards should be received by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office here by March 25, Tim D. Hall, county executive director, said.

Remember to include remnants, all gins for the particular farm and the respective production at each gin, Hall said.

FUNDS OFFERED

The county committee has been provided $34,000 to spend on any of the following practices:

RE-1. Establishment of a permanent cover on farm or ranch land. (Cost aid on seedbed preparation, seed and seeding operation.)

RE-2. Improving permanent cover through brush control by means of dozing, spraying, grubbing or root plowing. (Cost aid on brush control, raking and seeding.)

RE-5. Constructing earthen tanks for livestock.

RE-7. Building terraces, standard or parallel.

RE-8. Building diversion terrace.

RE-12. Constructing waterways.

SB5-A. Drilling and casing new waterwells which are to be used for livestock water. Also, storage facilities can be cost-shared.

SB5-C. Pipe line, installation and storage facilities for livestock water.

Guidelines and specifications are available at the ASCS office.

On the fourth Thursday of each month, the county committee approves eligible applications. Applications are considered on the basis of conservation benefits and needs of the applicants, Hall explained.

ALLOTMENTS

The transfer of cotton allotments will continue until May 1. Transfer may be made for farms in different counties.

Producers also may request reapportioned acres. These acres can be distributed to the requester at no cost and are allocated to producers in Howard County who intend to plant more cotton than they now have allotment acres, Hall said.

The purpose is to provide more disaster coverage, Hall said.

Farmers with wheat or barley planted for grazing only, should have it certified for grazing only by March 20, Hall noted. Otherwise, farmers will not be allowed to substitute these allotment acres for cotton allotments.

Hall listed several wheat and barley harvest alternatives:

"1. Certify for harvest if you will over plant cotton allotment.

"2. Certify for harvest if you have a disaster and want it appraised and considered for a low-yield payment. This must be done before the crop is plowed under or grazed out.

"3. Crops must be free from grazing by March 20 to allow normal growth.

"4. If harvested, and you feel it was low-yielding, bring production records in and office will figure eligibility."

ELECTION ORDER AND NOTICE
THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF Glasscock

On this the 16 day of February, 1976, the Board of Trustees of Glasscock County Independent School District convened in Regular session, open to the public, with the following members present, to-wit: Arley Wheat, President; Lawrence Jost, Edd Plagens, Jesse Overton, W. E. Bednar and the following absent: Leon Halfman, George Schwartz, constituting a quorum and among other proceedings had by said Board of Trustees was the following:

WHEREAS, the term of office of Edd Plagens and Arley Wheat members of the Board of Trustees of this School District will expire on the first Saturday in April, 1976, said first Saturday being April 3, 1976, and on said date a trustee election will be held in said School District.

WHEREAS, it is necessary for this Board to pass an order establishing the procedure for filing for and conducting said trustee election;

THEREFORE, BE IT ORDERED BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF Glasscock Co. INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT:

1. That an election be held in said School District on April 3, 1976, for the purpose of electing to the Board of Trustees of said School District Glasscock Co.

2. That all requests by candidates to have their names placed upon the ballot for the above mentioned election shall be in writing and signed by the candidate and filed with the secretary of the Board of Trustees at the superintendent's office not later than 30 days prior to the date of said election.

All candidates shall file with said application the loyalty affidavit required by Art. 6.02 of the Election Code.

The Secretary of this Board of Trustees shall post on the bulletin board in the building where the Board of Trustees meets the names of all candidates that have filed their applications in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Order, and said Secretary shall otherwise comply with the terms and provisions of Art. 13.32 of the Election Code.

3. That said election shall be held at the following places, and the following named persons are hereby appointed officers for said election:

(a) In election precincts numbered open election at St. Lawrence Hall Building, in St. Lawrence, Texas, in said School District, with Mrs. A. F. Henrichs as Presiding Judge and Mrs. James Henrich and . . . . . Clerks.

(b) In election precincts numbered open election at Lee Community Building, in Lee, Texas, in said School District, with Mrs. V. E. Phillips as Presiding Judge and Mrs. E. L. Smith and . . . . . , Clerks.

In open election at Courthouse in Garden City, Texas in said district with Mrs. Judy Kingston Judge and Mrs. Dennis Calverly as clerk.

The polls at the above designated polling places shall on election day be open from 7:00 o'clock a.m. to 7:00 o'clock p.m.

4. Vena Lawson is hereby appointed Clerk for absentee voting, and Mrs. Betty Pate and . . . . . are hereby appointed Deputy Clerks for absentee voting. The absentee voting for the above designated election shall be held at County Clerk office within the boundaries of the above named School District and said place of absentee voting shall remain open for at least eight hours on each day for absentee voting which is not a Saturday, a Sunday, or an official State holiday, beginning on the 20th day and continuing through the 4th day preceding the date of said election. Said place of voting shall remain open between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on each day for said absentee voting. The above described place for absentee voting is also the absentee Clerk's mailing address to which ballot applications and ballots voted by mail shall be sent.

5. By resolution heretofore adopted, this Board of Trustees determined that the electronic voting system voting machines shall be used in the above mentioned election for absentee voting by personal appearance; and in accordance with said resolution and the Election Code, ... as Presiding Judge, ... and . . . . . as Clerks, are hereby appointed the Special Canvassing Board for said election.

Absentee voting, both by personal appearance and by mail, shall be by paper ballots and shall be canvassed by a special canvassing board, and Vena Lawson, as Presiding Judge, Mrs. Betty Pate, ... and . . . . . as Clerks, are hereby appointed the Special Canvassing Board for said election.

6. The manner of holding said election shall be governed, as nearly as may be, by the Election Code of this state, and this Board of Trustees will furnish all necessary ballots and other election supplies requisite to said election.

7. Immediately after the votes have been counted, the officers holding said election shall make and deliver the returns of said election and perform all other duties as provided by the Election Code.

8. The Board of Trustees shall give notice of said election, and this combined Election Order and Notice shall serve as Notice for said election. The President of the Board of Trustees is hereby authorized and instructed to post or cause to have posted said combined Election Order and Notice at three public places where notices are customarily posted in this school district, and said posting shall be made at least 20 days before the date of said election.

The President shall also cause a copy of this combined Election Order and Notice to be published one time in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where this school district is located. Said publication shall be not more than 30 days nor less than 10 days before the date of said election.

It is further found and determined that in accordance with an order of the Board of Trustees, the Secretary posted written notice of the date, place and subject of this meeting on the bulletin board located in the central administrative office of this school district, a place convenient to the public, and said notice, having been so posted, remained posted for at least 72 hours preceding the day of this meeting.

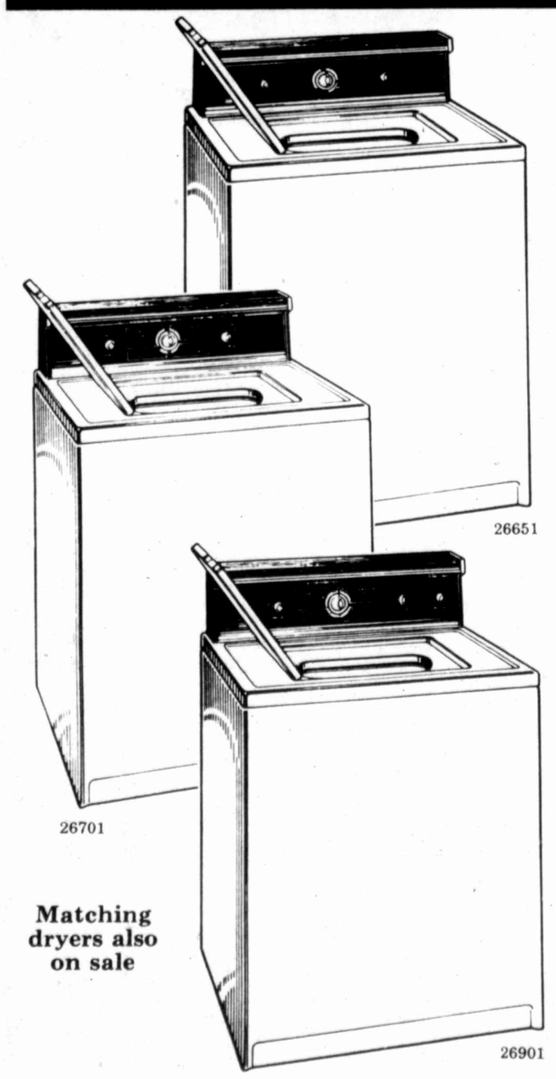

It is further found and determined that in accordance with an order of the Board of Trustees, the Secretary furnished a notice of the date, place and subject of this meeting to the county clerk of Glasscock County, Texas, the county in which most, if not all, of this school district's pupils reside.

The above order being read, it was moved and seconded that the same do pass. Thereupon, the question being called for, the following members of the Board voted AYE: Arley Wheat, W. E. Bednar, Lawrence Jost, J. L. Overton, Edward Plagens; and the following voted NO: . . . . .

Dawson 'wet' vote called for April 3

LAMESA — Dawson County Commissioners ordered another local option election April 3. This one is to decide whether Justice of the Peace Precinct No. 2 will go wet or remain dry.

This action was taken during Monday's commissioners court meeting, at which time commissioners reappointed two hospital board members, approved the purchase of a mimeograph machine for the public library, granted the Senior Citizens $3,600 and heard news that the county will get another six miles of Farm-to-Market paving in Precinct 4 next year.

Election boxes for the wet-dry election will be set up at Ackerly and Sparenburg. Peace Precinct 2 includes the Ackerly and Sparenburg election precincts and the nine southern sections in the Key-Midway election box.

Commissioners were also advised by district highway engineer George C. Wall that the county is eligible for the six miles of paving. This will include an extension of FM 2052 from State Highway 349 to intersect with FM 829. Cost per mile, according to the engineer, ranges from $55,000 to $65,000.

Bell improves C-City service, gets raise

COLORADO CITY — Telephone rates will go up later this month and in the first part of April as the result of action by the City Council.

The council, approved the rate hike that had been sought for six months by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. When telephone officials first approached the council, they were told the service was "lousy" and the council would not grant the increase until service was brought up to standards.

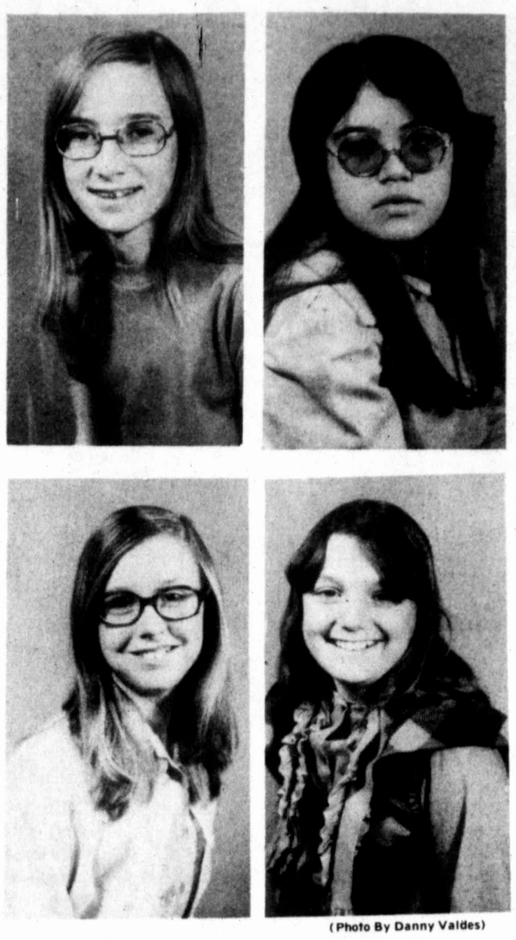

Bell's District Manager Bill Gilliland, Snyder, told the council Tuesday night that in the last few months, the company has spent in excess of $55,000 to improve service for Colorado City.

The new rates include $14.50 for business one-party, up from $13; and $6.75 for one-party residence, up from $6.25.

Pioneer, tool company reach sale agreement

AMARILLO — The board of directors of Pioneer Corporation has announced they have reached an agreement-in-principle with the stockholders of International Tool and Supply Company, Inc., for Pioneer to acquire that company by a tax-free exchange of stock.

International Tool and Supply Company, Inc. (ITS), is an oil field supply, manufacturing and service organization with headquarters in New York. ITS supplies drilling and production equipment to the oil industry throughout the free world. The company is one of the larger suppliers of drilling and production equipment to the oil industry, and has a plant and offices in Houston.

Details of the financial arrangements were not made public, but it was announced that the present management of ITS, Robert G. Chadderdon, Earl N. Stone and other key employes will remain with the organization.

Pioneer Corp., through subsidiary operations, is engaged in the exploration for, and production of oil and natural gas, as well as the production of liquid hydrocarbons, coal, vanadium, and uranium. Pioneer also operates a statewide network of heavy construction equipment dealerships and a contract oil and gas drilling business.

Pioneer Natural Gas Company, the utility division, serves natural gas customers in an area about the size of the State of Ohio, in the Panhandle and High Plains of Texas.

Midlander indicted in Taylor Co.

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Securities Board says a three-count indictment has been returned by the Taylor County grand jury against Gene McQueen, Midland, for alleged sale of unregistered securities.

The case was filed at the request of State Securities Commissioner Roy Mouer after an investigation by the Lubbock office of the State Securities Board.

Bill Atwood, Jr. Speaks Out On Webb Air Force Base

I think it is sad when a nation the size of ours doesn't have the money to maintain a Defense system. I don't think there is a sufficient reason to close an air base that is so vital to our area of West Texas. This would be a tremendous loss to Big Spring, Texas and to the 63rd District. From an economic stand, closing Webb Air Force Base would cost Big Spring 40 million dollars annually. We must think of the people who built apartments for housing of Webb personnel, the businesses that cater to Webb, the job loss of civilian personnel, the whole thing is a bad situation. Our nation should be building up our defense instead of tearing it down. I refer back to Roosevelt when he said "Carry a big stick and speak softly." I am not, at present, your State Representative, but I can assure you that if I am elected in the May 1 election, I will immediately go to work from the State and District level and join with the appropriate leaders to try to keep open or get reopened, Webb Air Force Base.

Vote Bill Atwood, Jr. for your State Representative.
Thank you,
Bill Atwood, Jr.

Tech peels Orange

(AP WIREPHOTO)

LOOSE BALL — Syracuse University's Dale Shackleford (33) grabs hold of a loose ball during first period action of the NCAA Midwest Regional First Round playoffs Saturday. Trying to grab the ball from Shackleford is Texas Tech's Rick Bullock (C) and teammate Grady Newton (23).

DENTON, Tex. (AP) Texas Tech sophomore Mike Russell and center Rick Bullock muscled aside Syracuse's smaller Orangemen with a relatively uncontested 69-56 victory Saturday night to gain the semi-finals of the NCAA Midwest Regional Basketball Tournament.

Michigan and Wichita State met in the second game of the doubleheader at the "Super Pit" in the campus of North Texas State University.

Both Russell and Bullock played most of the second half with four fouls, but Syracuse could never make a deep slash in Tech's 39-28 halftime margin.

Russell, a sophomore from Buffalo, N. Y., scored 21 points and Bullock added 19 points as the Red Raiders of the Southwest Conference ran their season record to 25-5.

Independent Syracuse was paced by little 5-10 guard Jimmy "The Bug" Williams, who scored 19 points for the Orangemen.

Texas Tech will play Missouri March 18 in the semifinals at Louisville, Ky.

Syracuse finished the season with a 20-9 record as the Orangemen could never get their fast break offense untracked.

There were only two other Syracuse players on double figures. Larry Kelly with 14 and Marty Burnes with 12.

Keith Kitchens was the only other Red Raider in double figures with 10 points.

A crowd of 10,000 watched the match as East met West.

Syracuse cut the Tech lead to 39-32 early in the second half on heroics by Williams but Tech steadily pulled away against Syracuse's alternate press and zone defenses.

The Orangemen could hit only 43 per cent of their shots in the first half and Tech's strong man to man defense put the Red Raiders in position to outrebound the smaller Orangemenn 18-11 in the first half.

Texas Tech Coach Gerald Myers said, "we played a tremendous defensive first half. We had to go into a zone in the second half to protect Russell and Bullock when they got into foul trouble. We don't like to go into a zone unless we have to."

He said that Texas Tech, which shot 53 per cent from the field for the game, "had difficulty at times breaking the Syracuse press.

"It was not a very artistic game. We were content to run some time off the clock when Syracuse decided to stay in the zone, and after Bullock drew his fourth foul with 12:29 to play. You've got to give them credit, they never quit."

Syracuse Coach Roy Danforth said, "We've got the youngest team I've ever had and our youth caught up with us tonight. It's the first time ever I remember a Syracuse team being held to 28 points in one half."

Syracuse forced Tech into 19 turnovers, but shot only 39 per cent from the field and was outrebounded by Tech 39-28.

Danforth said, "Tech is very strong inside. We could never get the ball inside for a good shot. They have a very fine team and Bullock and Russell are class players. They will represent the Southwest Conference well in the regional."

Tech was the runnerup in the SWC during the regular season to Texas A&M, but beat the Aggies in the post season tournament, 74-72, in a last second shot by Russell.

TEXAS TECH (69)
Newton 3 0-0 6, Russell 8 5-7 21, Bullock 7 5-7 19, Kitchens 3 4-4 10, Dunn 2 3-4 7, Dukes 1 0-0 2, Huston 1 0-0 2, Leggins 1 0-0 2. Totals 26 17-22.

SYRACUSE (56)
Shackleford 2 0-0 4, Sease 2 0-1 4, Burnes 4 4-6 12, Kindel 0 1-2 1, Williams 9 3-4 21, Seipert 0 0-0 0, Kelley 7 0-0 14, Keys 0 0-2 0, James 0 0-0 0, King 0 0-0 0, Arrington 0 0-0 0. Totals 24 8-15.

Halftime: Texas Tech 39, Syracuse 28. Total fouls: Texas Tech 17, Syracuse 20. Fouled out: Russell. A-9,884.

Rutgers survives 1st round scare

By The Associated Press

Top-ranked Indiana broke open a tight game in the second half and No. 3 Rutgers survived a huge scare in the final seconds Saturday as the two major college unbeatens marched into the next round of the NCAA basketball tournament.

But fifth-ranked North Carolina failed to make the elite group of 16 after losing to Alabama. The Crimson Tide, ranked No. 8, crushed the Tar Heels 79-64 as powerful Leon Douglas scored 35 points and grabbed 17 rebounds.

No. 1 ranked Indiana beat pesky St. John's 90-70 and Rutgers squeaked by Princeton 54-53. The second-rated Marquette Warriors kept pace, rolling to their 22nd straight victory with a 79-60 romp over Western Kentucky.

In other first-round NCAA action, No. 7 Notre Dame nipped No. 15 Cincinnati 79-78 on Toby Knight's last-second tip-in; 16th-ranked Western Michigan beat Virginia Tech 77-67 in overtime; No. 10 Missouri downed 11th-ranked Washington 69-67, and Connecticut edged Hofstra 80-78 in overtime.

In later games, VMI played Tennessee; Virginia battled De-Paul; Texas Tech met Syracuse; Wichita State played Michigan; Pepperdine faced Memphis State; Arizona played Georgetown; Boise State tangled with Nevada-Las Vegas, and San Diego St. met defending champion UCLA.

Scott May, college baketball's Player of the Year, scored 33 points to power Indiana past St. John's in the first round of the Mideast Regional at South Bend, Ind.

May, a two-time All-American forward, scored 19 points in the first half but the Hoosiers needed a 29-10 spurt in the second half to move from a one-point lead to their 28th straight victory of the season.

All-American center Kent Benson added 20 points and guard Quinn Buckner wound up with 15 for Indiana.

In the first round of the East Regionals at Providence, R.I., All-American Phil Sellers hit four key second-half fouls shots to help third-ranked Rutgers hold off Princeton, the Ivy League champion.

But independent Rutgers had to sweat out a one-and-one foul shooting situation by Princeton's Pete Molloy with four seconds remaining. Molloy, perhaps unnerved by two time outs called by Rutgers Coach Tom Young, missed the foul shot, which would have tied the game and given Princeton the chance to shoot for the go-ahead point.

At Dayton, Ohio, Douglas tied his career points high in leading Alabama, the Southeastern Conference champion, to its easy victory over North Carolina, regular season winner in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The victory insured Alabama of its furthest advance ever in the NCAA basketball tournament.

At night, VMI upset ninth-ranked Tennessee 81-75; De-Paul turned back No. 13 Virginia 69-60; fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas crushed Boise State 103-78; No. 14 Michigan nipped Wichita State 74-73; No. 19 Texas Tech trimmed Syracuse 69-56 and Pepperdine beat Memphis State 87-77.

In later games, Arizona played Georgetown and San Diego State met defending champion UCLA.

Nicklaus fires 68, but loses ground to Green

MIAMI (AP) — Lean and lanky Hubert Green stalked away from a host of challengers with a seven-under-par 65 and established a four-stroke lead after Saturday's third round of the $200,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

Green, in a slump most of the season, put together a three-round total of 201, a whopping 15 under par for three trips over the usually-difficult, 7,065-yard Blue Monster Course at the Doral Country Club.

"That is exceptionally low for three rounds on this golf course," said Jack Nicklaus, the defending champion who couldn't keep pace with Green's surging finish.

"Goodness gracious," said Nicklaus, "I shoot 68 and I'm losing ground."

That's exactly what happened. His four-under-par effort left him a distant seven shots back at 208 going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $40,000 first prize.

Mark Hayes, the second-round leader, could do no better than a 70 in the warm, sunny, typically breezy south-Florida weather and dropped back into a tie for second at 205.

He shared that position with veteran Bobby Mitchell, who had a 68.

Ben Crenshaw, who chipped in to save par on the 17th hole, ran out of magic on the 427-yard, water-guarded 18th— which ranks among the toughest holes on the pro tour. He took a bogey, dropped out of a tie for second and into a share of fourth with a 69 for 206.

He was tied with Australian David Graham. Graham, who shot a 65 last Sunday in the final round of the Citrus Open, matched the course record with a 64.

Nicklaus and Marty Fleckman were next at 208, all but out of title contention. Fleckman shot a 69. outh African Gary Player had a 69-209.

Johnny Miller, Hale Irwin, Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer are not competing.

Kentucky strangers may clash in NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny Crum, meet Joe Hall. Joe, say hello to Denny.

Intoductions between those two college basketball coaches are not needed, of course, but their teams may want to get acquainted. Crum's Louisville Cardinals and Hall's Kentucky Wildcats never have met in a game, although they play in the same state.

In fact, the last time that Kentucky played Louisville in a basketball game was 1959—and that one wasn't even originally scheduled. It took place in the NCAA tournament, and the Cardinals beat the Wildcats 76-61.

The two teams from Kentucky may get a chance to play each other at last in the 39th National Invitation Tournament, which starts Saturday with four first-round games at Madison Square Garden.

Kentucky and Louisville have been placed in the same bracket and could possibly meet in Thursday night's semifinals.

To get them in that unique situation, Kentucky would have to win two games. Louisville, one of four seeded teams in this tourney, has drawn an openinground bye and will play Monday night against the winner of Saturday's Providence-North Carolina A&T game.

The NIT is something of a visit home for Louisville, which has played in the nation's oldest post-season college basketball tourney 10 times before. The Cardinals' last NIT appearance was in 1973. Kentucky, on the other hand, last visited the NIT in 1950, when the Wildcats experienced an embarrassing 89-50 defeat by Nat Holman's "Grand Slam Kids" at City College of New York.

FIGHT FOR FIRST — Steers Byron Harris gave Pertile a good race in the 660, but Pertile won with a time of 1:29.2 and Harris placed second. More coverage of the Big Spring Optimist Junior Relay on 2B.

Eastwood wins 4A crown

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — El Paso Eastwood surged from behind in the fourth quarter Saturday to run away from Tyler 74-62 for the Class 4A state schoolboy basketball championship.

Gilbert Shepherd hit a spectacular driving hook shot and heaved in a 15-foot jump shot to give Eastwood a 63-60 lead that it never relinquished.

Tyler had led 42-37 at halftime, but Eastwood closed to 54-53 at the end of the third quarter, following several mental lapses by Tyler. Once, Eloys Bowser raced to the sideline to wipe his hands on a towell and Shepherd, left unguarded, flipped in a basket.

Anthony Lee, Tyler's 6-9 sophomore threw in 19 points but only six in the second half. Eastwood's 6-4 Steve Wohlgemuth out-rebounded Lee 14-11 and zipped scoring passes on the fast break to teammate Tim Crenshaw and Jim Bowden as Eastwood pulled away in the final minutes.

Eastwood's got its final six points on free throws as Tyler was forced to foul to try to get the ball.

With the score still close, Tyler missed six of seven consecutive shots within four feet of the basket.

Shepherd, a 5-8 senior who is a dazzling ball handler, scored 19 points for Eastwood, which is 11 more than his season average per game. Crenshaw tallied 18.

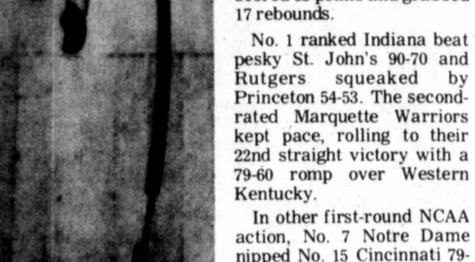

Brookeland wins B crown

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Brookeland turned 21 errors by Union of Brownfield into 20 points today in winning a Class B semifinal match, 69-62, at the State Schoolboy Basketball tournament.

Brookeland, from deep East Texas, will play Richards, 51-42 victor over Krum, for the championship tonight.

Union's Dicky Faught scored 25 points before fouling out with 32 seconds left in a frantic fourth quarter as Union, southwest of Lubbock, cut a 14-point deficit in half.

Steers cop 2nd in ninth grade

Midland teams win both divisions

Led by Ricky Cluck, Eddie Puga, David Winton and Byron Harris the Big Spring freshmen racked up 74 points Saturday in the Big Spring Optimist Junior Relay good for a second place finish to Midland Austin which had 149 points.

Midland schools dominated the meet, especially in the eighth grade. Midland San Jacinto won the eighth grade division with 111 points followed by Midland Goddard with 75½.

Two track records were broken. Jack Fannon of San Angelo Glenn cleared 12 feet seven inches in the ninth grade pole vault to break the old record of 12 feet set by Vejil of Kermit in 1967. Dale Barker of Abilene Lincoln broke the eighth grade 230-yard intermediate hurdles record with a time of 28.2. The old time was 29.1 set by Kellner of Midland Goddard in 1972.

Big Spring had three firsts and two seconds in ninth grade competition and a second in eighth grade.

In ninth grade, Ricky Cluck won the long jump with a jump of 19 feet 8¼ inches, Eddie Puga snapped the tape in 23.9 to win the 220 and he anchored the 1320-yard relay team that won with a 2:37.0 time. Cluck ran the first leg in 38.8, Byron Harris the second in 42.7, David Winton the third in 37.0 and Puga in 38.2.

This foursome also picked up a second in the sprint medley relay. Winton ran the 110 in 11.4, Puga the 220 in 25.9, Cluck the 330 in 38.5 and Harris the 660 in 1:43.2 for a combined time of 2:59.0. Harris ran the 660 in 130.8 which won him the second spot.

Joe Willie Jones of Runnels kept Big Spring from being shutout of the top three spots with a second in the 330.

The ninth grade team's other nine points were won by: Cluck, a fourth in the 330; Ronald Sunday, a fifth in the pole vault; Mark Young and Robert Wrinkle placed fifth and sixth in the discus and Winton a sixth in the 100-yard dash. The top teams in the meet were:

SPORTS BRIEF

MEXICO CITY — Eddie Dibbs defeated Ken Rosewall 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 and moved into the semifinals of the World Championship Tennis tournament.

STRAINING FOR A WIN — Big Spring's Eddie Puga, anchorman for the 1320-yard relay team, carries the baton across the line for a first place finish.

Steers dumped twice in Austin tournament

AUSTIN — According to a Lubbock Coronado fan the Monterey baseball coach said his pitching was so good even his great hitters couldn't touch them. When told of this, Big Spring coach Larry Horton said, "The way my guys are hitting, anybody can get them out."

When he said that the Steers were 6-1 and their lack of fire-power at the plate hadn't cost them too much, but it caught up to them in the Austin tournament where they dropped two games, 5-4 to Austin LBJ on Friday and 3-0 to Austin Travis on Saturday.

Horton said his team found out they aren't the only good team around. "We played well though," Horton said. "With a little luck we could have won the first game and we hit the ball well in the second game, but most of them were caught."

"In Friday's game we got beat by a fluke. Heil got on, on a ball that fell between (Mike) Harris and (Mike) Warren — that they gave Warren an error on, though Harris should have had it. With one out Caballero tripled to tie the game 4-4. I told (Dick) Battle to put the next two guys on. And it worked — well, it almost worked. Suthphen tried to suicide squeeze and he popped up to (Kent) Newsom. Newsom had Caballero dead to rights for what should have been an inning-ending double-play, but he hit him on the back as Caballero was trying to get back to third and the ball went into the outfield. Caballero then came in with the winning run."

Horton said all fields were in good shape, but the one the Steers played on Saturday had odd dimensions. "It was built like the old Polo Grounds," Horton said. "It was shallow right down the lines, but real deep after that. We hit a lot of balls that would've been home runs here, that were just long outs there."

Pat Carroll's arm tightened up in the third and Horton took him out. Vernon came in and shut Travis out the last four innings. Vernon has yet to give up a run in three games (19 innings.)

"Carroll didn't pitch that bad," Horton said. "Carroll walked two in the second, gave up a triple and a single and they had their three runs. He struck out six in three innings."

Battle, who had been hitting real well before the tourney, ran into a slump, going oh-for-seven. Ken McMurtrey and Warren led the Steers for the two games with three hits apiece.

Big Spring had four extra base hits against LBJ. Warren and Kyle Pfeiffer had triples and McMurtrey and Forrest Harry belted out doubles. Warren and Newsom had doubles against Travis.

Horton said he would pitch Frank Rubio against Snyder, there Monday, 4:30. He said he would wait and see how things go before he decides who he's going to pitch against Pecos in Steer Park Tuesday, 4:30.

Carolina Teams winning and losing

NEW YORK (AP) — Melvin Watkins hit the go-ahead field goal with 1:03 left in overtime and Lew Massey contributed four killing points as North Carolina-Charlotte beat the University of San Francisco 79-74 Saturday night and moved into Monday night's quarterfinals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

In the second game of a double-header at Madison Square Garden, St. Peter's of New Jersey met Holy Cross for Monday night's other quarterfinal berth.

Earlier in the day, Bob Fowler led Kentucky on a ninepoint tear midway through the second half and the explosive Wildcats went on to beat Niagara 67-61 in the opener of an afternoon doubleheader. Providence strongman Bob Misecivius tore up North Carolina A&T with 16 second-half points and led the Friars to a runaway 84-68 victory in the second game.

The UNC-Charlotte-San Francisco game was easily the most dramatic of the day in the NIT's opening round.

The Dons seemed to have the game locked up with a 69-67 lead with 21 seconds left before the UNC-Charlotte 49ers came back to tie the game in regulation time on Kevin King's dramatic shot with no time left on the clock.

Winford Boynes scored four of San Francisco's first five points in overtime to give the Dons a 74-73 lead with 1:34 left. But Watkins hit an uncontested jump shot from 10 feet out to provide the 49ers with a 75-74 lead.

Then Massey connected on a field goal and two free throws in the last 18 seconds to lock it up for UNC-Charlotte.

Cedric Maxwell led UNC-Charlotte, 22-5, with 28 points, while Massey contributed 25. Sam Williams scored 21 points while Boynes had 19 for San Francisco, 23-8.

The victory earned the 49ers a shot in the quarterfinals against Oregon.

Providence strong man Bob Misecivius tore up North Carolina A&T with 16 second-half points and led the Friars to a runaway 84-68 victory in an opening round game of the National Invitation basketball tournament Saturday.

In the first game of a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden, Bob Fowler led Kentucky on a nine-point tear midway through the scond half and the explosive Wildcats went on to beat Niagara 67-61.

In a night first-round doubleheader, North Carolina-Charlotte met San Francisco and St. Peter's, N.J. faced Holy Cross.

Providence's first-round victory shot the Friars into a quarter-final game Tuesday night against Louisville, one of four seeded teams that drew a first-round bye in the 12-team tourney.

Providence held only a 42-37 lead, before Misecivius took charge of the game early in the second half.

Driving in for easy baskets through the porous Aggies defense, the 6-foot-9, 230-pound Misecivius scored 10 of his game-high 20 points in a 15-8 run that gave the Friars a 57-45 lead with 9:05 to go.

Hayes picks self

MIAMI (AP) — Mark Hayes, who hasn't been there before, says he believes he's on the verge of winning.

And Jack Nicklaus, who's been there so many times before, promises he'll do better.

"It's a new experience for me," said Hayes after he took the second-round lead—the first of his career—Friday with a 68 that put him at 135, nine under par for two trips over the windswept, 7,065-yard Blue Monster Course at the Doral Country Club.

"I won't try to force anything," said Hayes, a 26-year-old who hasn't finished higher than third in his two full years of tour activity. "I'm not going to try to shoot 62 like some of these guys can. I'll just try to play good solid golf and let the birdies come when they do. If it's my week, I'll win.

"It takes a lot to win. It takes a lot of luck and a lot of good ball hitting."

Hubert Green was one shot out of the lead after a 70—136. Ben Crenshaw, with a second round 71, and Bobby Mitchell, with a 69, followed at 137. Bob Dickson, who has had a pair of 69s, was alone at 138. Grier Jones, 68, and Marty Fleckman,70, were at 139.

Although a face in the crowd to most golf fans, Hayes has played very well in the last two weeks, putting together finishes of fifth and eighth and actually moving into position to challenge for the titles in both events.

It marked a continuation of his steady progress on the tour—the only life he ever wanted to live. He won $40,620 and was 68th on the money-winning list in his first full season, 1974, and last year improved to $49,297 and 47th place. Right now he's 13th with $27,237 for the year.

Players' announcement gets mixed reaction

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Major league baseball players ran on the beaches, played tennis and golf and catch in the back yards today after pitching club owners a fast curve they hoped would help break baseball's labor log jam.

The players, tiring of training informally at their own expense and seeing no progress at the negotiating table, announced Friday that the rag tag conditioning on college, high school, junior high school and Little League complexes was over.

"The word has gone out," said Tom Seaver, the pitching ace of the New York Mets. "The players are behind it unanimously."

But in West Palm Beach, that unanimity was apparently broken by the Atlanta Braves, who voted to continue informal workouts. The Braves have about 20 players on hand.

"We're staying," said Atlanta pitcher Carl Morton, the Braves' player representative. "We can make it for a little while at least. We had a meeting of about 45 minutes today (Friday), and there are no problems.

"This has been an excellent informal camp for us...I don't think you can have better spirit than we've had."

Morton said he was not disturbed by the decision of the other clubs to cease workouts and predicted camps would open officially next week. "And," he said, "we'll be ready to play games in about five days after it starts."

Some of the players, hard hit financially by the owners' spring training lockout, talked of going home and waiting for the Florida stadium gates to open.

Steve Carlton, the Philadelphia Phillies' star left-hander, said the players should have taken the action a long time ago.

'It was the only thing the players could do to put pressure on the owners," Carlton said. "As long as guys were working out and getting in shape it's a good deal for the owners."

Baseball showed mixed reaction to the news that its players had decided to take a hard line.

"That's too bad," commented National League President Charles Feeney.

American League President Lee MacPhail took a more noncommital view of the move.

"We obviously have no control, no involvement whatever," MacPhail said. "Whatever the individual players decided to do, that's up to them. I can hardly comment on what they do. They're not club camps, club workouts."

If the owners were upset over the players' action, it wasn't evident at the negotiating table. There was no progress according to both sides.

There appeared, however, some light at the end of the tunnel. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn arrived in St. Petersburg Friday and there was some feeling, especially by the players, that Kuhn might order the spring camps open for the good of baseball. He has that power.

Dallas Tornado attacks 'Jaws'

SAN DIEGO (AP) — It takes more than a frightening name to make it in the North American Soccer League, as the San Diego Jaws found out.

The Jaws, making their debut Friday night, were swallowed up and shut out 2-0 by a more experienced and polished Dallas Tornado team.

Pacers, moving ball well, crush Spurs; Nets break away from Ky.

The pace is picking up for the Indiana Pacers.

Just listen in on Coach Bob Leonard's thoughts after the Pacers crushed the San Antonio Spurs 132-115 Friday night.

"I think our shooting was a little bit better. Any time you get 30 assists during a ballgame you're moving the ball real well, and that's what we have to have. Darnell Hillman is really starting to come on now with his rebounding and shooting.

"The last two games we've had 42 and 37 assists. That's what we have to have. Mike Flynn has been playing real well the last few games."

In other American basketball Association games, New York buried Kentucky 124-106 and St. Louis shaded Denver 101-97.

Flynn, a rookie guard, pumped in 11 Indiana points, including three three-pointers, midway in the third period. The Pacers were led by Billy Knight's 29 points. Don Buse added 19 and Flynn had 17 as seven Pacers hit double figures. James Silas led the Spurs with 32 while George Gervin had 26.

Nets 124, Colonels 106

Two baskets apiece by Tim Bassett and Al Skinner sparked an 8-2 New York burst early in the fourth period that broke open a close game against Kentucky.

Spirits 101, Nuggets 97

Marvin Barnes took charge for St. Louis in the final four minutes, pumping in 10 of his 25 points.

Next Winter Olympics to ABC

CBS and NBC cry foul

NEW YORK (AP) — Over the protests of CBS and NBC, who have charged foul play to Olympic officials, ABC has conditionally obtained the rights to telecast the 1980 Winter Olympics from Lake Placid, N.Y.

A joint announcement issued Friday by ABC Sports and a committee head for the 13th Winter Games made official— pending International Olympic Committee approval—the transaction that NBC and CBS had tried to postpone.

The release, made by ABC Sports President Roone Arledge and John M. Wilkins, chairman of the the 1980 Olympics' Marketing and Television Committee, announced an agreement "in principle" to give ABC the rights despite outraged cables sent overseas by the other two networks. The other networks asserted they never got the chance to bid on an equal footing with ABC for the rights to the first Winter Olympics in the United States since the Squaw Valley Games of 1960.

No dollar figure was released by ABC, which obtained the broadcast rights for the seventh of the nine Olympiads held since 1964.

NBC's wire went to Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, claiming that rights to the Lake Placid Games had been awarded to ABC "through private and non-competitive procedures," representing a "flagrant departure from the standards and ideals for which the Olympiad stands."

Croydon B. Dunham, vice president and general counsel of NBC, charged that "ABC has been provided so preferential a position that any bidding procedure has been rendered impossible, and the ability of any other party to obtain U.S. television rights has been foreclosed."

CBS offered a similar protest to Ronald McKenzie, president of the organizing committee for the 1980 Games, with copies to leading political figures including the two U.S. Senators from New York, James Buckley and Jacob Javits. CBS asked that the approval be rescinded and the bidding reopened.

But Wilkins insisted that "After extensive conversations and correspondance with representatives of all three networks, the committee decided that ABC demonstrated superior experience and expertise in international sports television and had superior contacts with international broadcasters— thus insuring a television signal that would satisfy the world requirements and project the most desirable Olympic Games image."

Is Seaver getting ready to play out his option?

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Baseball's current player-owner stalemate has put a cold chill on one of the game's most celebrated love affairs—Tom Seaver and the New York Mets.

It isn't so much that Tom Terrific, winner of the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the National League last year, is asking $800,000 for his services the next three years or that the Mets don't think they can afford it. Like pouting school kids, they're refusing to talk about it.

"A couple of months ago Tom was in New York and we sat down to talk about a new contract," Joe McDonald, the Mets' general manager said Friday. "We didn't make a great deal of headway and mutually decided to discuss it later.

"A second meeting hasn't worked out."

Seaver has become involved up to his ear lobes in the players' efforts to achieve a strong new agreement with the owners and, until Friday's dramatic suspension, had single-handedly supervised informal training for some 40 big leaguers at Eckerd College here.

He has worked closely with Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, in solidifying his contemporaries behind the cause.

"We were supposed to meet earlier this week—I am very anxious to get all of our players in the fold," McDonald said.

"I told Tom I would be in my office at Huggins Field every day. He hasn't come by."

McDonald acknowledged that Seaver's reluctance to come by the Mets' headquarters possibly could be traced to the fact that the field is shuttered for player training as part of what the players call a lockout.

"I talked to him on the phone and he told me to come over to Eckerd College where he was working out," the Mets' general manager added. "I told him I didn't want to do any negotiating in a parking lot or in a dugout swarming with players and newsmen.

"He said why didn't I come by his house at Indian Shores. I know he is a super pitcher, maybe the best pitcher in baseball, but I don't see why I should go to him to get a contract signed.

"I repeated my invitation that he come by the office or that we arrange a mutually agreeable meeting place. He said he was very busy and that maybe we could do it later.

"Whether it's a $200,000 pitcher or a $20,000 pitcher, I am anxious to get all of our guys signed. Seaver says he wants to wait. I don't know whether it's just that he's so busy or that he is waiting to see how negotiations turn out."

If the players stick to the arbitrator's decision in the Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally case, Seaver would be able to play the next year under option and then become a free agent.

Few upsets in Gloves

FORT WORTH (AP) — For 71 bouts, Golden Gloves fans expected the unexpected—one of the big upsets that usually punctuate state tournaments.

But the defending champs kept defending and the ex-champs kept making successful comebacks. Then the defending light-heavy king, San Antonio's Anthony Bullen, stepped in the ring a strong favorite over Fort Worth delegate Ronnie Walters.

Walters was supposedly a slower fighter, a light puncher. But he came up with a load of hidden dynamite Friday night and stretched Bullen out for the count in the second round of their quarterfinals match.

The surprise sends Walters into Saturday's headline semifinals match against Houston's Robert Moore, a knockout winner over Austin's Ron Shepherd Friday night.

Elsewhere on the amateur boxing ladder, the favorites progressed as expected. Lightwelter Ronnie Shields, the only national champion in the field, outclassed Dale Zint of Amarillo. The 17-year-old Beaumont sharpshooter floored Zint three times within two minutes and the bout was stopped.

Dixie cities last chance

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Memphis and Birmingham get their last shot at National Football League franchises for 1976 at the league's annual meeting starting Monday.

But it's likely that, a week from now, the two cities will still be known as former World Football League franchises.

The NFL will no doubt give some consideration to pleas by Canada's John Bassett, owner of the defunct Memphis Southmen—or was it Grizzles?—and A.E. Burgess, principal owner of the Birmingham Americans-turned-Vulcans, for immediate entry into the league, along with Seattle and Tampa Bay.

But previous sentiment has been to take expansion one step at a time—or two, if you consider the Seattle Seahawks and Tampa Bay Buccaneers separately—and to hold off until at least the 1977 season for any more teams.

Where Super Bowl XII will be played is to be determined. And there's another subject that wasn't even on the agenda when Super Bowl X was played, mainly when the college and expansion drafts will be held.

The draft to stock the Seahawks and Buccaneers with veterans from the 26 existing teams was supposed to be held last January in New Orleans, just before the Pro Bowl game.

But when reports surfaced that the players' union might try to obstruct the expansion draft, the owners of the two new teams went to court, just before Super Bowl X, to prevent any union interference— and that forced postponement.

With that draft knocked out of whack, the NFL decided to postpone February's collegiate draft as well. Both now figure to be conducted around the end of March.

Super Bowl XI is set for a new site, the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., on Jan. 9, 1977. Super Bowl XII will be played Jan. 15, 1978, and it's up for grabs. The NFL will probably decide the site Tuesday, after hearing bids from Pasadena, Los Angeles—the Memorial Coliseum, Dallas—the Cotton Bowl, Houston—Rice Stadium, Miami—the Orange Bowl and New Orleans—the Superdome.

There will be rules changes up for discussion, such as widening the playing field and reducing the time the offense has to put the ball in play.

But there will be an unofficial undercurrent of discussion, too.

The NFL Management Council and the Players Association haven't conducted a bargaining session to hammer out a contract since last September in Chicago. With all the litigation going on and the two sides still far apart on some issues, it's going to be a long haul before a contract is signed and both sides express interest in getting together as soon as possible.

Tyler in 4A final

AUSTIN (AP) — El Paso Eastwood, good enough to win with starters on the bench, and run-and-shoot Tyler were matched today in the Class 4A Texas schoolboy basketball championship game.

Eastwood squandered a 13-point halftime lead before nipping Victoria 69-67 on Jim Bowden's jump shot with 11 seconds left in a three-minute overtime period Friday.

Tyler outshot Houston Milby 76-69 with all five starters scoring in double figures and 6-foot-9 sophomore Anthony Lee hauling in 18 rebounds.

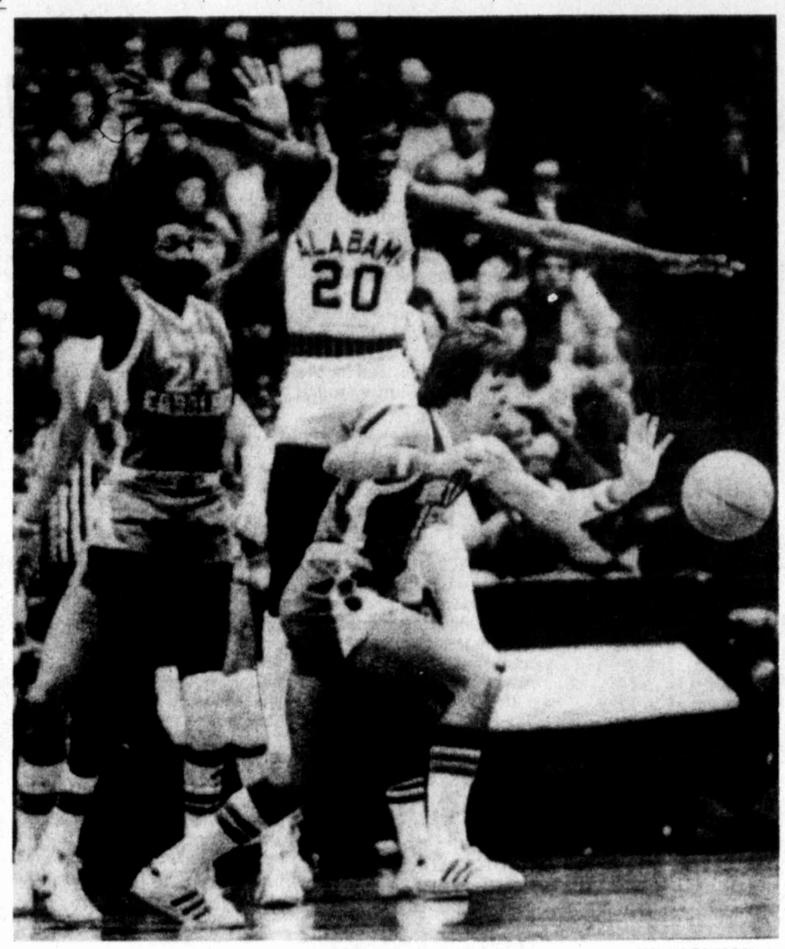

It was Eastwood's first trip to the state tournament, and in gaining the finals, the school did what no El Paso school has done since 1947. Tyler also made the finals for the first time. The school has been here only once before, in 1921, first year of the tournament.

The Eastwood-Tyler Class 4A championship game was scheduled for 2:05 p.m., following Class B semifinal contests between Richards and Krum and Brookeland and Union of Brownfield.

One precious second cost Victoria a spot in the 4A finals as officials ruled that Phil Durrett's goal came after the buzzer ending the fourth period with the score tied 65-65.

Victoria's Charles Spurlin missed two free throws with two seconds left in overtime which would have brought another extra period.

Anthony King poured in 30 points for Victoria. Tim Crenshaw and Steve Wohlgemuth— who fouled out—each had 18 for Eastwood.

Wesleyan coach honored

1975-76 All TAC team

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — John Howerton of Texas Wesleyan was named the Coach of the Year and Gary Blount of Midwestern and Duke Sherley of Dallas Baptist were the top vote getters on the 1975-76 All-Texoma Athletic Conference basketball team.

Blount, Midwestern State's 6-foot-7 junior postman, and Sherley, Dallas Baptist's 6-1 senior guard, are joined on the first team by forward Larry Gibson of McMurry College, guard LeRoy Shaw of Midwestern State and forward Keith Rush of Bethany Nazarene.

Howerton, in only his second season at Texas Wesleyan, directed the Rams to a 21-14 record and second place finish in the South Zone race. Howerton nosed out Jim Poteet of Bethany Nazarene College.

Sherley hit for 18.7 points, while Shaw had 13 points and six assists. Rush, Bethany Nazarene 6-9 junior, scored 14.7 points and brought down 8.0 rebounds a game, while hitting 56 per cent from the field.

Shaw, Arthur Jackson of Wayland Baptist, and Rush tied for "Player of the Year" honors with two votes each. The 10 league coaches conducted the poll.

The 6-2 Jackson led the league in scoring with a 20.9 game average, and hit 83.5 per cent at the foul line to win two statistical honors.

Jackson headed the second team, along with guard Charles Fixico of Oklahoma Baptist, guard Otis Garrison of Bethany Nazarene, postman Dwight High of Dallas Baptist, postman Wayne Wayman of Texas Wesleyan, and Duffy Holloway, a 6-5 forward-center from Oklahoma Christian.

Holloway was the unanimous pick as "Freshman of the Year." He averaged 17.9 points and 8.4 rebounds per game.

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Here is the 1975-76 All-Texoma Athletic Conference basketball team:

Seven local girls make Texas All-State teams

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Waco Midway, the two-time undefeated Class 3A state champion, and Duncanville, which won the first Class 4A state title, grabbed nine spots between them on the 1976 Amarillo Globe-News All-State Girls Basketball team.

Locally seven girls were selected. Trena Bayes of Coahoma made second team guard on the 2A squad. Teri Airhart of Klondike was picked for first team guard on the class B squad. Making the state B second team were guard Dana Halfmann of Garden City and Leslie Davis of Klondike at forward.

Ann Nichols of Sands and Beverly Strickland of Forsan were selected as forwards on the B third team as was Tracey Airhart of Klondike at guard.

Midway defeated Canyon, 64-59 for the Class 3A state title in a game between unbeatens. The Waco school defeated Canyon, 60-52, for the 1975 state championship, also in a game between unbeatens.

Currently on a 71-game win streak, Waco Midway is represented on the all-state Class AAA team by repeater Barbara Anderson, a 5-5 senior guard, and 5-8 junior forward Diane Horn—both on the first team— forward Jean Smith and guards Cindy Hamm and Vivian Speer, both on the second team.

Waco Midway is the only school to place five players on any classification's all-state teams.

Duncanville, which finished a 33-3 season with a 70-69 overtime win over Victoria in the Class 4A championship game, was represented on the 4-A first unit by 5-11 sophomore forward Christi Capps and 5-7 senior guard Doedii Henderson. Forward Wilma Lyn Ruff and guard Debbie Lewis made the second team.

Canyon and Victoria were the only other schools to place as many as four players on their classifications' elite teams.

Canyon, which has lost two games in 71 appearances during the past two seasons, is represented on the first 3-A team by two-time repeater Robena Johnson at forward and guard Marci Davis. Forward Louise Davis and guard Merry Johnson made the second unit.

Victoria, which ended 33-2, grabbed two first-team spots— forward Von Bunn and guard Doedii Henderson—and two on the second unit—forward Gina Boldt and guard Amanda Aguilar—on the Class 4-A elite.

Phillips, which defeated Bellville, 83-69, for the Class AA state title, placed forward Jill Rankin and guard Jan Lawson on the first AA team.

AT RECOGNITION DAY — Big Spring High School's delegation to Southwestern Bell's Science Recognition Day in Lubbock, March 5, gathers around one of the company's latest data communications devices as Ronald Newton explains its operation. The telephone company honored 120 outstanding high school science students and teachers from throughout West Texas at the annual event. Bell Telephone Laboratories official W. D. Bulloch and Southwestern Bell speakers told the students about some of the latest developments in the telecommunications field.

Big Spring High School

West Texas student councils meet here

By SHAUNA HILL

AHHH!!! Another holiday from the toils and troubles of schoolwork approaches. School will be dismissed Wednesday, March 17, at the regular time for the annual Spring Break. Classes will resume Tues., March 23 at 8:30 a.m.

Three high school choirs participated in UIL Concert and Sighreading contest in Midland last Wednesday and Thursday.

The Meistersingers were awarded a I in concert and a I in sightreading which made them a Sweepstakes choir. The Girls' Choir made a I in concert and a I in sightreading which gave them a sweepstakes rating. A combined choir made of Freshman Choir members and A Capella Choir members was given a II in concert and a II in sightreading.

West Texas Student Councils that attended the Spring Forum at B. S. H. S. yesterday were treated to excerpts from Campus Revue '76. All of Act II and the Shenandoah section of Act I were performed for the enthusiastic audience thanks to the advance planning and hard work of the Big Spring Student Council.

The "Play It Again, Sam" production will also be presented at the State Student Council Convention at Waco in April.

The Bible Club elected officers for the 3rd quarter of the 75-76 school year last week. Second period officers include: Curtis Harbin, president; David Stull, vice-president; Diane Ferrell, secretary-treasurer; Darlene Stephens, social chairman; Mike Bailey, Good Morning World chairman; and Robert Smith, reporter.

Linda Cook, president; Danny Campbell, vice-president; Sherri Snodgrass, secretary-treasurer; Kathy Motes, social chairman; Roanne Riley, Good Morning World chairman; and Mark Hughes, reporter were selected as seventh period officers.

Intramural ping pong begins tomorrow! Twenty 4th period players and fifteen 5th period players will vie for the championship which was won last year by Tim Trawick. Trophies will be awarded to the winner and the four runners-up at the end of the season. Coaches Cox and Hagood will referee the tournament.

The Metal Trades Club of VICA held a drawing for a free tune-up last week. Mrs. Rosario Diaz held the winning ticket and will receive a free automotive tune-up in the near future.

The Golden and Silver Horns Stage Bands competed in the Texas Tech Stage Band Festival in Lubbock yesterday. Gene Currie's Golden Horns performed "Suncatchers", "Rifferendum 94", "Feelings", "Introduction and Allegro", and Stan Kenton's arrangement of "The Star Spangled Banner".

Bill Bradley's Silver Horns played "Malaguena", "Dusty Butterfly", and "Charter Jazz Suite" for the trio of judges. Both bands did well against stiff competition and ratings will be announced at a later date.

The adult chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes hosted a barbecue at the Stripling residence last Thursday night. High school athletes and coaches were invited to the get-together so that new coaches and old-timers could become better acquainted.

A correction is needed for last week's article pertaining to the Office Education Association. OEA pre-registeration forms are to be picked up in room V-22, not room V-12.

The Steer Band Boosters Club will meet this Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Goliad band hall to discuss the Spring Tour to Waco, the journey to Enid, Okla. for solo and ensemble contest winners, and future money-making projects.

Goliad Jr. High

Volleyball tourney will end this week

By LUCIAN GRATHWOL

Goliad's choirs, accompanied by Miss Joyce Hull, attended the University Interscholastic League contest at Midland High School last Wednesday. The Boys' Choir sang for the judges in concert and sightreading. In concert the judges rated them at a III. In sightreading the boys also received a III. The Girls' Choir was also judged on concert for which they received a II and on sightreading for which they received a III.

The volleyball tournament sponsored by the student council will end this week. Finalists and champions will be announced in next weeks Megaphone.

This Wednesday, March 17, there will be a student council meeting of all members and officers. The meeting will be held during the eighth grade advisory in room 102.

On March 11 Rory Heaton and Kathy Turner gave book reports for the library aides. The first report was given by Rory on a book called "Sharks." Kathy reported on "My Side of the Mountain." In library business, Mrs. Essie Person has taken two more aides, Donna Kinder and Junior Valdez. The library club elected a new treasurer, Renee Wilson since the former treasurer, Marcia Crumley, is moving to Alabama in the near future.

In boys P.E. this week the boys will be in their second week of soccer. This program will last about two to three weeks, and intramurals will be held at the conclusion.

Goliad's Spelling Bee was held last Friday, March 12, with Mrs. Martha Moore doing the pronouncing. Winner of the competition was Glenn Margolis and the runner-up was Liani Parker. The winner will be entered in the Howard County Spelling Bee. This is the fifth consecutive year that Glenn has represented his school in the County Spelling Bee. This is the last year Glenn will be eligible to participate since he is in the eighth grade this year.

STANTON

Students honored

By DEE DEE ADKINS

Now I know that this really doesn't fit in, but I'd like to welcome my nephew, Barry Andrew Madison, born March 8, into this world. That's the best news of the week.

Friday, March 5, a group of aspiring students were honored in Lubbock at the Southwestern Bell Science Recognition Day. Jo Mims, Jill Hughes, Dee Dee Adkins, Donna Sue Hale, and David Stroud attended the function which included several informative lectures. The group was accompanied by Stanton's science teacher, Mr. John Anastasio.

National Honor Society members have been named and posted. Seniors — Rae Avery, Connie Christon, Cathy Merwin, Jo Mims, Steve Payne, John Yater. Juniors, Rickey Dill, Pam Holcombe, Jill Hughes, Debbie Webb, Carolyn Woody, Sophomores, Dee Dee Adkins, Leza Britt, Terrie Oldaker, David Stroud.

Mrs. McClennan and the speech and drama club invite the public to attend the performance of the one-act play, "Cyrano de Bergerac", March 27. The cast includes Steve Payne, Debbie Webb, Tim Glynn, Dee Dee Adkins, Diana Wells, Amy Hazlewood, Mike Hudson, Rickey Dill, Jill Hughes, David Louder, and Dean Christon. The play goes to contest March 30.

Ms. Fowler is tour member

SAN MARCOS — Big Spring Junior Catherine Fowler will be a tour member of Southwest Texas State University's top student choir, the chorale, made up of 60 auditioned voices.

The Chorale will go on its annual concert tour Mar. 6-10. This year's tour will include high schools in the South Texas cities of Port Lavaca, Corpus Christi, Kingsville, McAllen, Harlingen and Brownsville.

The Chorale will be joined on the tour by faculty artists mezzosopano Peggy Brunner, baritone Harry Wayne and pianist Robert Whalin. Included in the program are works by Willan, Victoria, Schutz, Brahms, Milhaud, Barber and Gershwin.

Ms. Fowler, an alto II for the Chorale, is the daughter of Peter A. Fowler of 1302 College in Big Spring. She is a commercial art major with a journalism minor.

Pep squad holds meet

By LINDA SCHWARTZ

The Pep Squad met on Monday during activity period to set up the new rules for electing cheerleaders. Rules pertaining to the club will be put into a handbook and passed out to every member next year. The Pep Squad picture was taken before the meeting.

The Student Council met on Tuesday to choose several movies for Easter. The Juniors also had a meeting to discuss and gather things for the banquet.

Wednesday the seniors met to ask for suggestions of sponsors for their trip. The seniors will be selling chances on a CB radio. Plans, themes, and decorations for the coronation of the spring festival were discussed. The seniors decided to have the spring coronation in the auditorium this year.

The FHA group picture was taken on Thursday during activity period. The Bearkat's hosted a practice tennis meet on Thursday also.

The High School Girls' Track Team travelled to Eldorado on Friday to be one of their many guests at the track meet. Saturday the High School Boys' Track Team travelled to Imperial for their first meet of the season.

Some of the FHA members attended the Area meeting held at the Ector County High School from 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m.

Grady

Place in show

By LESLIE WELCH

Well, last week was very exciting for those attending the Houston Livestock Show from Grady. Tana Yates, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Sammy Yates won Grand Champion for her steer, "Joe." Congratulations Tana, we're proud of you! Judith Yates placed 1st with "Chico" and Faye Welch placed 12th with "Comet." 'Way to go, girls!

Monday, the One-Act play cast practiced at 9:00 a.m. and again at 3:45 p.m. Those on the Annual Staff had a worknight, Monday evening at 6:30 p.m. At 7:00 p.m., the juniors will practice for their play.

Tuesday, March 9, the FHAer's met with Miss Pennington for an FHA meeting. Also, Tuesday, Faye Welch, Leslie Welch, J. C. Tunnell, Steve Kirkpatrick, and Mr. Vestal left for the San Angelo Stock Show to be held March 9-12. Good luck Group! The One-Act players practiced Wednesday at 10:10 a.m.

The Home Economics class took a field trip, Thursday morning at 11:00. The juniors had play practice at 3:45 and the yearbook staff had worknight at 6:30, Thursday evening.

Friday, March 12, the One-Act play cast had practice at 9:00 a.m. while the junior play cast had practice at 3:45 p.m.

Saturday was a very busy day for the Grady students. The tracksters attended the Imperial High School Relays. The FFAer's attended the judging contest at San Angelo. The FHAer's went to the Area Convention in Odessa. The Student Council attended a Forum in Big Spring.

Well, that's the news for this week. See ya around — Bye!

Accepted at medical school

ABILENE — Curtis Mullins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mullins, 3307 Cornell, is one of 19 Abilene Christian University students accepted to Texas medical schools for the 1976 school year. Mullins will attend the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas.

Mullins, a 1973 graduate of Big Spring High School, is a senior pre-med major at ACU. Mullins is a member of Omega Rho Alpha, Alpha, Chi, Kinsman social club, the Big Purple Marching Band, and the American Chemical Society.

To present folk dancers

The Texas Tech Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation presents the San Antonio College International Folk Dancers in a workshop and concert, Thursday, March 18, in Lubbock.

The San Antonio College Dancers specialize in Mexican Dance and will include a suite of Polish Dances. The program will be one of exhilaration-music, colors, movement, and emotions.

The workshop is open to the public to participate either as a dancer or a spectator; on March 18, at 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 1:00 p.m., 3:30 p.m., and 4:30 p.m. The workshop will be held in the Womens Gym in room 108. The concert will be Thursday night, March 18, 1976, 8:00 p.m., Lubbock High School Auditorium.

Forsan

Attends clinic

By ELLEN GRESSETT

The tennis teams under the supervision of Coach David Redwine are still in full swing. The teams travelled to Snyder on March 9 for matches there. The teams travelled to Brownfield March 12 and 13 for the Brownfield Tennis Tournament. The Forsan teams will host Stanton on March 16. Tennis has really become popular at Forsan, especially since the new tennis courts have been painted red and green. It is amazing what a paint job will accomplish. As for the district tennis meet — it is only four weeks away.

The Forsan Buffalo Band was engaged in a band clinic the last three periods of March 11. Concert contest is Wednesday, March 17 at Crane, Texas.

The speech team has been engaged in speech meets at various colleges as they began preparation for the District UIL Meet.

On March 19 there will be an assembly presented by Neil Christian and his Harp Guitar. Admission charge is 25 cents. The UIL One-Act play will be presented March 22 at 7:00 p.m. in the Forsan Auditorium. The admission charges are 50 cents for students and 75 cents for adults.

McKay speaks at UTPB April 26

ODESSA — Noted television sports personality Jim McKay will speak at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin the night of April 26, announced Jackie Hollabaugh, student activities adviser.

McKay, host of the top rated Wide World of Sports program on ABC TV, has agreed to come to the university immediately prior to his attendance at the Kentucky Derby and immediately after his return from a European assignment.

Runnels Jr. High School

Students complete unit, make poetry notebooks

By GINA ROBERTSON

To complete their study of poetry, students in Mrs. Warren's classes made poetry notebooks. The notebooks were judged on the basis of originality, content, and neatness. Winning first place and receiving a paperback book were Mono Coates, Rosanna Mendoza, Cynthia Washington, Sherri Minchew, Corina Woodruff, Tammye Spears, and Melinda White.

On Saturday, March 6, two events affected Runnels students. A track meet was held in San Angelo, and band competition in Sweetwater. In the track meet several Big Spring boys placed in the different categories. Another meet was held here this Saturday, March 13.

The entire Runnels band received a II rating in both concert and sightreading. Several students received I ratings in solo instrumentals. Playing flute Toni Myrick, Shirley Shanks, Melinda Vassas and Sherri Blalack, each received the top rating. One the cornet Pete McDonald, and Ernesto Jara received a I. Sherri Rogers, alto sax, Lorraine Langford, bass clarinet, Lorraine Langford, clarinet, Charles Parker, trombone, Loretta Langford, french horn, and Steve Chavez on the Baritone also each received a I rating. Receiving a II rating in solo competition were Donna Reynolds, Liz Ruiz, Pam Banks, and Delynn Minchew all playing the clarinet. Jaime Renteria, Brent Pearce, Sam West, and Robert Hughes played the cornet with a II rating. Lisa Griffice and Michelle Ivery placed playing the flute, with Angela Schmidt and Tom Hastings on percussion. Billy Taylor, baritone, and Liz Ruiz, oboe also received a II. Receiving a III rating were Fletcher Johnson, alto sax and Alicia Russell, flute.

Receiving a I rating in flute trio were Toni Myrick, Shirley Shanks, Lisa Griffice. Also Sherri Blalack, Melinda Vassar, and Michelle Ivery. Playing a cornet trio and receiving a I rating were Brent Pearce, Pete McDonald, and Ernesto Jara.

After a concert for the public given on Tuesday night in the high school auditorium, the choir travelled to Midland on Wednesday. They were competing against other junior high choirs in the area. The girls 7th and 8th grade choir received a I rating in concert and a II in sightreading. The boys 7th and 8th grade choir made a II in both concert and sightreading. Also, the advanced choir placed II in both categories.

The student council met this week. Being discussed was the forum to be held Saturday, March 13 at Big Spring High School. Registration fee for each student was $3.00. Also discussed was the sale of Runnels pennants to be sold next week for $1.00 each.

After the news of the Webb Air Force Base possible closing, several students wrote letters to senators and the President in hopes that the base would remain open here in Big Spring.

Spring break will be enjoyed by students and faculty alike beginning this Thursday. Classes will resume on Tuesday, March 23.

TOP TROPHIES — Brian Jones, vice-president of the Meistersingers, is shown with the sweepstakes trophies won by that choir and the high school Girl's Choir. Charles McKinney is president of the group. They were top winners in the region Thursday.

BSHS clubs attend district competition

By SHAUNA HILL

Five Big Spring High School Automechanics Club members went to Midland last Friday and Saturday and competed at district contest. Ronnie Wegner competed as a wheel alignment mechanic. Cruj Rios and Joe Millaway went as auto motor analysts. Julian Rubio and Greg Mason competed as auto electricians. Mr. Mathis sponsored the group.

E.A.R.

Tradition was the name of the game for the five Electrical Appliance Repair Club members who competed at district contest in Midland yesterday. Jimmy Horseley, Gary Lawson, Armando Nunez, Gilbert Perez, and Frank Snell had to win first place in both district and state competition in order to keep the winning tradition of the last 10 years alive. Mr. Buckner is E.A.R. instructor.

I.C.T.

Twenty-two members of the Industrial Cooperative Training Association competed in speed-skill contests and in student selected jobs at the district meet in Midland last Friday and Saturday.

Students who competed include: Joel Adams, Debbie Alarcon, Cynthia Abundez, Ricky Arguello, Michael Bailey, Brad Beach, Tim Blackshear, Donna Brooks, Dennis Burns, Terry Carter, and Gary Cole.

Other students in competition were: Lita Cox, Todd Dean, Ricky Gamble, Terry James, Ronny Klaus, Morgan Nichols, Sylvia Olivas, Cathey Rudd, Ronald Schultz, and Dave Wilson.

Mr. Dewberry sponsors and instructs the I.C.T. Association.

Named to honor roll

Three Big Spring area students have been named to Honor Rolls at Tarleton State University in Stephenville, Texas.

Darisa K. Crooks, Big Spring, has been named to the "A" Honor Roll and Distinguished Student List for the Fall Semester 1975.

Ms. Crooks is a General Agriculture major.

Jackie Rudd, Big Spring, and Billy G. Reed, Ackerly, have been named to the "B" Honor Roll and the Distinguished Student List for the Fall Semester 1975.

Jackie is a Plant and Soil Science major and Billy is an Animal Science major.

SANDS

Bicentennial flag is presented to school

By KELLY ZANT

Sands is presently under three flags at Ackerly; the U. S., the Texas, and last week student council president Mary Kaye Hunt was presented with a Bicentennial flag which the student council purchased from the Bicentennial commission in Big Spring. So for all you cats who think that the S. C. never does anything for the school, just go out side and . . . look up.

Debbie Parker, junior at SHS, has been selected by the selecting committee as the selectee for the empty spot on the stage crew for One-Act Play. There are exactly 21 days or approximately three weeks until play-day, and the entire crew has been slaving like dogs to get it all together. You can all count on another big win for the Sands One-Act Play.

Three girls from Sands attended the Area II FHA meeting in Odessa yesterday. Those attending were Kaye Hunt, Karen Cowart, and Susan Martin. Lisa Martin, Area II first vice-president, was already in Odessa by Friday night to help in the election of new officers for Area II.

The senior-faculty vs. outsiders basketball game turned out to be a huge gigantic success, Friday night. Positively everyone had a great time but its been reported that not a single one of the players could get out of bed the next morning because of sore muscles. Well, I guess that'll teach em not to mess around with bad seniors.

Will Berry's 'good life' includes lots of history

By MARJ CARPENTER

A 93-year-old West Texas pioneer said this week, "I've had a good life — good health, a good piece of land and a good woman for a wife."

Will Berry, who came to Mitchell County in 1901 in a covered wagon, has had a long and interesting life. Along the way, he has collected items of history not only from his own life but the lives of people around him.

He has six cases of historic items in the Mitchell County museum and items of furniture sitting in a special section of the museum.

At his own rural home, he has an additional museum, made from beautiful rocks, many of which he can tell you what part of the country they came from originally.

His collection includes such items as a Hefflewhite cabinet and guns, rocking chairs, knives, Indian artifacts, coins and many other items.

He has such items as an old Chinese brass serving tray which he found at a garage in Big Spring and a coin plate used with a cash register in a San Angelo saloon.

Beautiful old bottles whose colors have changed through the years and a collection of unusual whiskey bottles also are included.

A cedar chair, a rosewood bed and a framed picture made from human hair are just a few of the many items owned by Will Berry.

He still enjoys life. He goes into Colorado City, Snyder or Big Spring and visits friends or relatives. His daughter and son-in-law live with him. His other daughter lives in Midland. The two daughters are Mrs. Mary Nell Wright and Mrs. Billie Smith. Mrs. Helen Early of Big Spring is a niece.

Berry made his living by farming his eighty acres. He said laughingly, "My father was a musician. He could play any musical instrument and traveled around the world. When a lad, he was a stowaway on a ship out of England and landed in Labrador."

"He stayed there until after the Civil War and then made his way to Michigan and finally to Texas. When I got big enough to get behind the plow, I went to work. I couldn't carry a tune in a sack. My brother was a musician, however. I always liked flowers and music, but I couldn't make music."

His love for flowers is reflected in the fact that bluebonnets and verbenaes bloom outside his home. "I always liked bluebonnets," he said. And his were already blooming this year.

Back in 1941, Berry had been to a Farm Bureau meeting in San Francisco and on the way home, he was in a train wreck where two trains collided. He was one of two passengers seriously hurt. He broke his back in the accident.

"I've never walked quite as straight again," he recalled and picked up a stick to guide his steps as he looked over his museum.

"We were out here a few years and got a couple bales of cotton to the acre. Then the dry years came and I went back to Kaufmann County to pick cotton and met my wife, Lucy. We had known each other earlier when we were in school."

He recalled some of the people he knew in Big Spring such as Jess Slaughter, Shine Phillips and Nat Shick. He rocked a while and added, "I remember when Colorado City had five saloons. There was a gold mine south of town. A man called Dirty Dozen got a little gold out of it.

"There was a big depot, an opera house and two salt works, east and west of town. There was a trolley line that ran up the hill to a race track. I have one of the old rails."

But then Will Berry has a little bit of whatever was history in West Texas.

"I recall when the oil men first came around leasing land. I got a little money and built my museum. I remember that my wife fixed hot light bread and butter for the oil lease man who came around. I always figured we got a better deal because of the good bread."

He picked up a dueling pistol and looked it over. He dusted off a sword with his hand. "I've really had a lot of fun. I was both a spendthrift and a miser. I'd spend money on some things that people wouldn't and saved maybe when I shouldn't . . . but it's been a good life."

He looked out at the sand blowing, "I've seen a lot of that. I've seen good times and bad, but the good prevailed."

And Will Berry kept the history all along the line.

The "Horizons '76" Girl Scout exhibit marked the 64th birthday on March 12 of the international organization.

Twenty GS troops from Big Spring, Sand Springs and Coahoma participated in the event by displaying posters or presenting skits illustrating the past, present and future of Girl Scouting.

The opening ceremony was presented by the Big Spring Senior Troop 360. Jerri Davey acted as the speaking Statue of Liberty. Other members presented the flags of the past, present and future of Scouting. The girls emphasized the importance of patriotism to the Scouting program and the involvement of Girl Scouts in community and national affairs.

The original "flames of freedom" ceremony was held in Washington, D.C., at the national Girl Scout convention. During the opening ceremony, Betty Ford, honorary GS president, lighted a torch for all Girl Scouts of the United States. Then torches were lighted for the six regions by the regional chairman. Each regional chairman lighted a red, white and blue bicentennial candle and council presidents received flames on slender white tapers.

Ms. Sandy Sibilsky, Big Spring field executive, lighted a candle from the taper of the West Texas Girl Scout Council.

Each girl's candle was lighted from the flame of the candle given to Ms. Sibilsky.

The idea of "flames of freedom" is to kindle an inspiration and awareness of Girl Scouts throughout the world. Marjorie Ittmann, outgoing national president, explained, "These flames will burn again in Girl Scout councils on the evening of the Girl Scout birthday on March 12. They symbolize our pledge that Girl Scouts will carry forward the light of freedom for all people as we enter our nation's third century."

The exhibit is an annual event during GS Week to share with other troops and the public the wide scope of Scout activities.

The 1975 exhibit featured a theme of "Texas on Parade." Scouts illustrated the history of Texas cities and portrayed Texas under the six flags during a flag pageant.

"Globe" was the theme of the 1974 mall exhibit. Each troop developed a program or display about a foreign country where Scouting exists. The flag ceremony featured flags and costumes of each country.

The first mall exhibit was held in 1973 with a parade of programs centered around an over-all view of Scouting. Groups made butter, terrariums and camp food to distribute or sell. One troop featured an Indian village complete with corn grinding and a working loom.

Mrs. Tom Stephenson was the chairman of the "Horizons '76" exhibit. Other committee members were Mrs. Tom Ivey; Mrs. Matt Hunter; Miss Lavelle Bradford, Cadette Scout; Miss Pat Hamilton, Senior Scout; and Daryle Hohertz.

Special aides to the committee were Colleen Anderson, Jerri Davey, Diana Garcia, Patricia Ferguson and Pat Hamilton of the Senior Troop. Mrs. Stephenson is the advisor.

The aides organized the projections in the mini-theatre, helped with judging, manned the council display and made ribbons and award certificates.

The Girl Scouts would like to express their appreciation to all organizations donating equipment and materials. Organizations making donations included the First Baptist Church, Trinity Baptist Church, Kentwood Older Adult Center, Big Spring High School, Rockwell Brothers Lumber, Higginbotham Lumber, KBYG, KBST, KHEM and the Big Spring Herald. Families helping with the exhibit included the Bill Bradfords and the John Hamiltons.

FUTURE BRIDE — Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wallace of Ackerly announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Ann, to Reagan William Hammett. He is the son of Mrs. Alline Hammett of Austin and the late Q. A. Hammett. The couple will be wed in the home of the bride's parents on July 10. Don Long, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Ackerly, will perform the ceremony.

BSSH volunteers share ideas to improve service to patients

"Most of us need to learn how to relax," said Mrs. Gloria Coffee Wednesday as she explained her work as a volunteer at Big Spring State Hospital.

Mrs. Coffee, who is a leader in relaxation therapy on the alcoholic unit, spoke at the hospital auxiliary's meeting in the Staff Development Building, BSSH. She was a member of a panel which included other volunteers, Mrs. Doris Day and Mrs. Joyce Orr, along with Mrs. Otillie Van Vleet, director of nursing services.

In her present job assignment, Mrs. Coffee spends an hour with the group therapy four or five days each week. She told various methods used to induce relaxation, noting that physical and mental tensions form a cycle which people must teach themselves to break.

"I have set two goals for the group," continued Mrs. Coffee. "First, I want each person to be able to sit and experience a pleasant time and second, I want him, or her, to acquire techniques which will enable them to relax at will the rest of their lives."

Mrs. Day, a long-time volunteer in group therapy on Unit 4, said, "I try to encourage everyone to express their feelings without criticism or moralizing from me. They have to do this themselves; bearing all the responsibility of the outcome themselves. Sometimes, a person finds he is only fooling himself, then he starts getting insight and can begin working on more positive steps to a better future."

Mrs. Orr, who recently began reading to residents on Unit 11, said, "I don't know that they always listen, but just hearing my voice and knowing I'm there seems to help."

During a question and answer period, Mrs. Van Vleet emphasized that the volunteers "give a new dimension that the staff cannot."

Mrs. Margaret Baum, volunteer coordinator, welcomed new volunteers. She announced that Mrs. Varilyn Newsom and Mrs. Dorothy Hull are now assisting on the hospital's medical unit and that Ms. Sheri Clarke is teaching arts and crafts on the adolescent unit. Mrs. Penny Tyler continues to work with remotivation and a rhythm band on Unit 10.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Maria Hilario and Mrs. Sopopa Salazar for providing plants and to Mrs. W. E. Archer and Mrs. Hilario for sewing the new blue and white tunics for volunteers.

Mrs. Jo Bright, assistant coordinator, is working with Miss Ruth Beasley, hospital librarian, to provide "Book Nooks" on each unit, and Mrs. Norma Porter reported that progress is being made in beautifying several areas of the hospital grounds and the patio of the Allred Building.

Mrs. Pat Monroe has completed a schedule of monthly birthday parties for each unit, with local clubs and individuals providing cakes. According to Miss Nancy Easley, director of the Retired Senior Volunteer program, members of that group will also help provide birthday cakes.

Several new projects, including proposed summer activities, are being studied by Mrs. Genie Crooks of the Volunteer Services staff.

The next scheduled activity for all auxiliary members and community guests will be the luncheon on April 15.

Tips given for care of electric blankets

By SHERRY MULLIN
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

It will soon be time to store electric blankets for another year. Electric blankets are an expensive piece of household equipment and should be used and stored carefully, not only because of the cost, but to insure safety.

An electric blanket has many features in its favor. First and foremost are its sleep-ability and washability. Because an automatic heating blanket gives uniform warmth to all the body's cold spots without the weight of piles of coverings or the constriction of bed socks, it lulls the user into the bliss of a sound night's sleep. And how convenient to be able to launder it in an automatic washer or by hand. In fact, the dominant "don't" in electric blanket care is don't dry clean. Cleaning solvents can damage the insulating material which protects the wiring.

Manufacturers contribute fast familiarity with a new automatic blanket by including specific direction on how to make the bed, regulate warmth, use safely, and launder. Basically, what is good for one electric blanket is also beneficial for another. However, due to differences in design and fiber content, it is best to follow enclosed instructions to the letter. An alternative is to consult directions in the washer's manual for correct timing of soak, suds, rinse, and spin cycles.

The following basics serve as a helpful review of machine or hand-washing procedures:

1. Wash as soon as the blanket starts to be soiled, not only before summer storage. Don't wait for soil to become imbedded, or the gentle handling which is mandatory may not be adequate to do a thorough cleaning job.

2. Disconnect the control. Tie any dangling parts loosely in a washcloth or small towel, and shake the blanket gently to remove dust or lint.

3. Pretreat soiled binding or spots with thick soap or detergent lather, or with sudsy solution rubbed in with a soft brush.

4. Use cool to warm water for both sudsing and rinsing, as for a baby's bath.

5. Never twist or wring an electric blanket during washing or rinsing.

6. A fabric softener may be added, following directions on the container.

When washing by hand, squeeze through plenty of soap or detergent suds in a bathtub or deep washtub, or use a plumber's plunger to suck suds through the fabric to loosen and remove soil.

Let the blanket lie in the tub while the suds are drained off. If possible, use the shower spray or a shampoo spray to flush soiled suds from the blanket and tub, then fill the tub with successive lukewarm rinses, turning the blanket over and over to make sure that the rinsing is thorough. Finally, squeeze out excess water without wringing.

Directions for some electric blankets permit use of an automatic dryer, others do not. Proceed accordingly. When a dryer is used, remove the blanket while damp to guard against overdrying and excessive tumbling that cause shrinkage. To finish the drying (or to dry it immediately after washing), drape the blanket over parallel lines — preferably outdoors in the shade. Then use both hands to straighten and pull it into shape.

Johansen gives guidelines for rose care

Johnny Johansen gave guidelines for rose care to the Creative Homemakers during the Tuesday evening meeting. Members met in the First Federal Community Room.

Johansen explained the proper way to plant, prune and care for rose bushes. He also told the women which flowers, trees and shrubs grow best in the West Texas area.

Mrs. Pat Johnston presided at the meeting. Mrs. Pam Thompson and Mrs. Ann Melendrez were hostesses.

Members discussed plans to host a bicentennial tea in May.

Mrs. Carolyn Reed was appointed chairman of the October bake sale.

The next meeting will be held April 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room. Mrs. Glenda Lindseth will demonstrate the art of breadmaking.

Midland couple announce birth

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Madison of 317 Thornridge, Midland, announce the birth of a son, at 6:30 p.m. March 8 in the Midland Memorial Hospital.

The boy was named Barry Andrew. He weighed 8 pounds, 6 ounces.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Adkins of Lomax. Paternal grandparents are G. I. Madison of Stanton and Mrs. David Haefele of Vernon.

Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Stallings of Lomax, Mrs. D. W. Adkins of Big Spring and Mrs. Nancy Erwin of Long Beach, Calif.

Citizens react to Webb closing

By FAYE ROBY

Coahoma and Sand Springs are feeling vibrations from the shocking announcement made earlier this week of the possible closing of Webb AFB.

Upon checking with the Coahoma School Administration it was learned that approximately 72 students of the 1063 enrolled in the Coahoma School district are federally funded.

Archie Segrest of Sand Springs and co-owner of R&S Paint Company is optimistic and believes after due consideration the installation will remain open. R&S is currently involved in a base-construction project.

When interviewed, Bill Read, president of Coahoma State Bank, stated, "Anything that hurts Big Spring hurts Coahoma," Mr. Read also stated he had written a letter to President Ford and urged others to do likewise.

Kenneth Scott of Sand Springs is hopeful the base will not close but expressed optimism at the ability of the area to survive in the event of closure.

Coahoma Mayor Joe Swinney was unavailable for comment.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Schneider and son Chris, of Rankin, are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tucker of Sand Springs.

Don't forget to order your community calendar from Mrs. Jeanette Brooks or any member of the student council. Calendars cost $1 and listings of birthdays, anniversaries, meetings, etc., are 25 cents each. The deadline for ordering the calendars is May 1.

Congratulations are in order for three Sand Springs ladies who are members of the local Art Association. In a recent showing, Mrs. Martha Conway (Dalmar) received three honorable mentions and a third place ribbon in the professional class. While in the amateur division Letha M. Lewis took first place in graphic arts with a charcoal drawing and honorable mention for a pencil sketch. Mrs. Eve Woolverton placed second in graphics and an honorable mention in oils.

Coahoma Lodge number 992 A.F. & A.M. will gather for a regular stated meeting March 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Hall in Coahoma.

We take this opportunity to welcome the Rev. Donnie Brogden and his wife Sharon to Sand Springs. He is the new minister of the Sand Springs Church of Christ.

The Rev. Brogden is a native of Oklahoma City, Okla., where he graduated from Oklahoma Christian College and more recently from the Sunset School of Preaching in Lubbock.

The Brogdens have two children ages five and seven.

Rev. Brogden plans an emphasis on youth and their total commitment to God. The young people of the church recently enjoyed a color slide presentation on archaeology and the Bible. More activities of this nature are planned in the future.

Cary Banks drove in from Lubbock this weekend to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Banks of Sand Springs.

The Big Red Band is off again this week. They will be traveling to Crane Wednesday for UIL contests. The Junior High Band participated in UIL contests in Odessa on Saturday. Results from that contest were not received in time for this copy.

On March 9 the Coahoma school board members met and approved new math and spelling text books for the '76-77 school term. The meeting date of the board of equalization for oil was set at 10 a.m., May 18 in the Administration Building. Members appointed to the board were H. C. Wallin, James Barr, Earl Hull and Jasper Gibson as alternate.

Absentee voting for school board trustees begins at 8:30 a.m. Monday in the Administration Building and continues through March 31.

Three trustee positions are open with six candidates filing for office. Incumbents are Rodney Brooks and Johnny Justiss. New candidates are Harold Abregg, O. D. O'Daniel Jr., Carl R. Frazier and Dennis Greenfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Scott are hosting Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Duncan of Winters this week. The Duncans are Mrs. Scott's parents.

The Sand Springs Lions Club will conduct their regularly scheduled meeting at 6 p.m. Monday at the Fina Truck Stop.

"Fantastic" was the word Peggy Snell, secretary at Coahoma High, used in describing the program viewed by a packed gymnasium March 11. The performance, consisting of new modes of physical education demonstrations, gymnastics and square dancing and involving students of all ages, was presented for parents and friends of the school during the observance of National Education Week.

The membership of East Howard County Senior Center met in the fellowship hall of Sand Springs Baptist Church Thursday evening.

Refreshments were served to eighteen members and guests.

Mrs. Dalton Conway presided over the meeting.

Program chairman Oscar Cagle introduced guest speaker, Miss Bessie Love from the Howard County Council on Aging. Miss Love spoke to members about possible activities available to the group. Miss Love has been active in helping organize other senior centers in this area.

Members enjoyed table games after the program.

The Coahoma Lions Club will join the Big Spring Downtown Lions Club for Ladies Night Monday in Big Spring.

"Singspiration" originally scheduled for March 14 at Midway Baptist Church as been cancelled.

Sand Springs Volunteer Fire Department responded to numerous grass fires this past week.

The Gary Grant home on the north service road narrowly escaped burning Wednesday afternoon. Alert neighbors telephoned the fire department about 3:30 p.m. when they discovered that a spark from burning garbage had ignited dry grass and weeds in the area. Quick action by the ladies with their garden hoses averted the loss of a home.

Fire Chief Kenneth Scott asks that persons reporting fires please be as specific as possible when giving directions. Often much time is lost while the fire truck wanders up and down roads and embarrassed would-be firefighters seek the site of the fire.

He made these suggestions. When reporting a fire speak slowly and clearly. State the location and type of fire. Leave your name and phone number so the location can be rechecked if necessary.

Fire Chief Scott also recommended that if you bring a fire under control before the fire truck arrives please notify the fire department. Fewer false runs mean a savings of your tax dollars.

Xeroradiography unit detects early breast cancer painlessly

Malone-Hogan Hospital now has a Xeroradiography Unit that is capable of detecting breast cancer in the very earliest stages through a process that is quick, painless and effective.

Dr. Buerk Williams, chief radiologist of Malone-Hogan Hospital, traced the development and usage of the process of Xeroradiography (or mammography) for the Malone-Hogan Hospital volunteers at the general meeting held Monday afternoon at the hospital.

Using Xeroradiography print-outs, Dr. Williams pointed out the advantages over conventional X-rays. The Xeroradiography Unit can see through tissues, look into the body and use less radiation than conventional X-rays.

Xeroradiography is an imaging system which employs the principle of static electricity. Unlike the Xerox copy machines in business offices which utilize light as the imaging energy source, the Xeroradiography Unit in the radiology department utilizes an X-ray beam as the imaging energy source.

As the X-ray beam traverses the patient, it is captured as a latent image onto a charged Selenium plate which is held in a light tight cassette. The latent image is then transformed onto recording paper as the permanent image via the processing mechanism of the system.

The Xeroradiography machine consists of two large steamer-trunk like units, one being the charging mechanism and the other being the processing mechanism.

The medical application for Xeroradiography stemmed from the personal research and clinical investigation of Dr. John N. Wolfe in Detroit during the late 1960s. He confined his efforts to utilizing this modality for diagnostic mammography. Through his effort, it was learned that Xeromammography was superior to conventional silver imaging mammography in that there is greater resolution of the breast tissue, i.e. small structures and especially tiny abnormal calcifications.

Xeromammography records all structures of the breast in good detail on one image and the interpreter has the sensation of being able to "see through a very thick portion of the breast" just as well as the thin portions.

A unit is now operational in the radiology department of Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Mrs. Jack Irons presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Ken Perry, vice president, membership, reported a total of 5538 hours worked from June 1975 to the end of February 1976.

Officers were elected to be installed at the annual awards luncheon on May 13 at the Big Spring County Club. Mrs. Wade Choate will serve as president; Mrs. Ken Perry, president-elect; Mrs. L. B. Paul Sr., vice president, membership; Mrs. Charles Tompkins, treasurer; and Mrs. Jack W. Lipscombe, secretary.

The money was presented to the Guatemalan consul in Houston.

History of birth control featured in program

Mrs. Nancy Harrington gave a biographical sketch of Margaret Sanger, an early worker in support of birth control, during the meeting of Mu Zeta sorority.

Members met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Debbie Wegman.

Mrs. Harrington said that Margaret Sanger was the first person to take action to inform poor people about birth control methods. Margaret Sanger was a nurse in the slums during the late 1800s and early 1900s. People would come to her asking, "Tell us what the rich people know. Why don't they have babies every year?"

At this time it was illegal for anyone to teach birth control methods.

Margaret worked to change the law. In 1916 she organized the first birth control clinic. But police prevented its opening.

In 1918 it became legal for doctors to prescribe birth control methods.

Margaret Sanger was responsible for the opening of a research bureau in 1923 when the diaphragm was developed.

Mrs. Harrington said that it was not until the '30s that birth control methods were taught in the medical schools.

Shortly before her death in 1966, Margaret Sanger stated, "In 1776 men were liberated and it has taken almost 200 years to give women reproductive independence."

Members had a pot-luck supper prior to the meeting.

During the Beta Sigma Phi chapter meeting Mrs. Linda Fraser and Mrs. Judy Carpenter were introduced as guests.

Mrs. Darlene Boehmer, president, showed members the Bicentennial Cookbook the club selected to sell as a financial project.

Mrs. Meta Gress read an excerpt from "Heritage Heartbeat."

Mrs. Boehmer reported on the BSP City Council meeting. At the council meeting, Mrs. Rose Davis was nominated as Beta Sigma Phi Woman of the Year from the Mu Zeta chapter.

Name tags and place cards for the Founders' Day banquet, April 22, will be made by Mrs. Boehmer, Mrs. Jani Smith and Mrs. Gress.

Plans for an Italian night social were completed. The social will be held in the home of Mrs. Gress.

Members were reminded of the game night at the nursing home at 6:30 p.m. Monday. Each member will bring a prize.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m., March 29 in the home of Mrs. Judy Klampfer.

Kentwood PTA elects officers

Members of the Kentwood Parent-Teacher Association elected officers for the 1976-77 school year during the March 2 meeting held in the school cafeteria.

Mrs. Sara Lee Stokes was elected president. Other officers elected were Rob Allen, vice president; Mrs. Claudia Stabeno, secretary; and Mrs. Peggy Crabtree, treasurer.

Members voted to raise yearly dues to $10 per couple. The money taken in from the dues will replace funds raised at the Halloween carnival.

The PTA will sponsor a Halloween fun night instead of the carnival.

Mrs. Hyer wins CB radio at gem, mineral show

Mrs. Jewel Hyer was the grand prize winner of a citizen's band radio given away at the Bicentennial Gem and Mineral Show held Saturday at the Dora Roberts Fair Barn.

The show was sponsored by the Big Spring prospectors' Club.

Big Spring citizens won three of the 18 hourly prizes. Junior and adult winners received gems, minerals or jewelry made by club members or donated by dealers displaying at the show.

Miss Teresa Alexander and Miss Angela Taylor were awarded liquid silver necklaces for selling the largest number of tickets prior to the show.

Doris McKee won the drawing for the afghan donated by the Altrusa Club of Big Spring. Proceeds from the drawing were donated to the Howard County Bicentennial Commission.

Among persons attending the show were visitors from Guam, Oregon, Oklahoma, Kentucky, New Mexico, Arkansas, Georgia, Minnesota and Maryland.

After the close of the show a group of dealers and club members had dinner at La Posada.

The Prospectors' Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Texas Electric Reddy Room. Lee Thackrey, geology teacher at Howard College, will show a film about Hawaii.

Refreshments were served from a table centered with an arrangement of daisies and greenery surrounding a yellow candle.

Extravagant hosts never invited out

DEAR ABBY: What has happened to good manners? My husband and I have a lovely large home, and we love to entertain, but our friends do not know the meaning of the word "reciprocate."

We've had elegant sit-down dinner parties, small brunches, outdoor barbecues, cocktail parties and buffets, but we're never invited to our guests' homes. Why?

We've lived in a number of towns and have always had our invitations reciprocated, but in Los Angeles, it's different.

We enjoy being with people, and we realize that some of them can't afford to entertain the way we do, but we'd be satisfied to accept an invitation for coffee and cake. After all, it's the people, not the refreshments, that make the party.

LEFT OUT IN L.A.

DEAR LEFT OUT: I am not defending those who accept invitations and fail to reciprocate, but I suspect that you entertain so lavishly that your guests feel inadequate to entertain you on the same grand scale and therefore make no effort to entertain you at all. Try having smaller groups for coffee, cake and conversation, and see what happens.

DEAR ABBY: My grandmother belongs to a senior citizens group. She told me that she met a very nice woman at this group who has a grandson she thinks I ought to meet.

Even though I told my grandmother that I can take care of my own social life, she went ahead and gave my telephone number to this woman to give to her grandson. He hasn't called yet, but he might.

Is there any way I can prevent my grandmother from doing this again? I don't think it's right for other people to make MY business their business. I'm 21 and can choose my own friends.

NEEDS NO HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Don't make a federal case out of it. If someone calls as a result of your grandmother's "help" and you don't want to meet him, tell him you're not available. Unless you're already involved with someone, why not meet him for coffee? You could be passing up a gem.

DEAR ABBY: Over the years many of our neighbors have gotten married, and on every wedding invitation it says, "No children."

We kids who are not invited are very disgusted. We need to have fun, too.

What do you think of those people? We think they are very unfair, and we hope you will print this so they will see it and invite us next time.

DISGUSTED IN PENNA.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Children are sometimes excluded from weddings and receptions to keep the cost and/or the noise down. Also, some receptions are held when children should be in bed. Since most weddings are the stuff of which beautiful memories are made, it's unfortunate that more children can't witness them.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with Roy for a year and a half. We plan to be married.

Roy's brother went with a girl I'll call Gloria. Gloria and I are good friends. Gloria broke up with Roy's brother and is going to marry someone else.

My boyfriend and I were invited to the wedding. I want to go. My boyfriend says that he will not go and that out of respect to his brother, I shouldn't go, either. I think he's out of line, and I told him I thought he was childish—and if everyone thought like this, no one would have a friend in the world.

What do you say?

EASTERNER

DEAR EASTERNER: I'm with you. Adults choose their own friends. (And enemies.)

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Women host bridge day Tuesday

Tickets are still available for the annual spring luncheon and bridge day sponsored by the West Texas Republican Women. The event will be held Tuesday in the KC Steak House Restaurant.

The annual event is open to the public. Tickets of $3.50 are being sold for the day of bridge and the luncheon.

Hours of the bridge day are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The luncheon will be served at noon.

Chairmen of the luncheon are Mrs. Wallace Hunter and Mrs. Walter Wheat.

The women will furnish door prizes for the event. Prizes will include some of the women's favorite baked goods, home decorations and other items.

Women interested in attending may contact Mrs. June McDaniel, Mrs. Wheat, Mrs. Polly Mays, Mrs. Ted Ferrell, Mrs. Lamar Green, Mrs. Louise McAdams or any other member for tickets.

OC singers give program to music club

The Odessa College Chamber Singers presented a program to members of the Big Spring Music Study Club. Members met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. G. R. Robinson.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Curtis W. Compton and Mrs. Jim Baum.

Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall was the program leader.

Eugene Windsor directed the singers in several songs. A male barbershop quartet sang several selections. Mark Frost and Dena Harrell were soloists. Windsor sang an aria from Verdi's opera.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. James Litte, 4 Glenwick Cove, at 3:30 p.m., April 14.

Daughters enrolled in Beta Sigma Phi

A legacy tea for the daughters of Alpha Kappa Omicron members was held Wednesday in the home of Mrs. De Anne Tucker. The tea was in celebration of the girls' enrollment in Beta Sigma Phi.

Legacy members are daughters of members or young girls under the age of 12 who are enrolled in future membership in the international women's organization.

Disney's treasure hunt was the theme of the tea.

Each girl was presented with a yellow rose corsage. The yellow rose is the sorority flower.

Girls enrolled are Donika Huckabay, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Gary Huckabay; Ingrid Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hamilton; Michelle Carlile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Carlile; Karri La Rochelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clay La Rochelle; Kimberly Tucker, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Ronald Tucker; Becky Stancil, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. John Stancil; and Tera Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Sims.

Sewing club honors member

Members of the Sew and Chatter Club honored Mrs. Ruby Martin during a noon luncheon held Wednesday in the Spanish Inn.

Mrs. Martin is moving to San Antonio. Members presented her with a farewell gift.

After the luncheon, members went to the home of Mrs. Ervin Daniel for a business meeting. Mrs. H. V. Crocker presided.

Mrs. Crocker read a letter to the club from a charter member, Mrs. Laura T. Anderson. She moved to Gilmer several years ago.

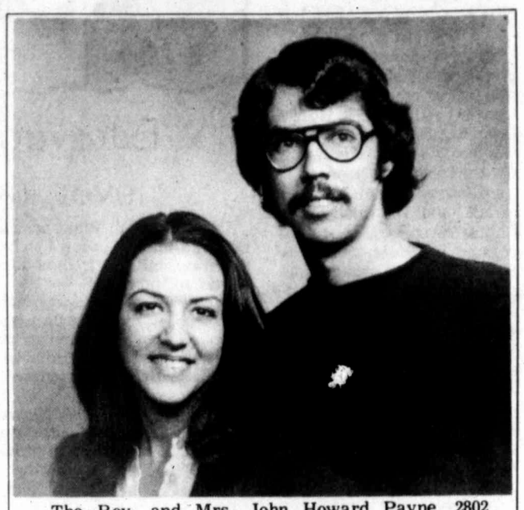

Mrs. Daniel presented a bicentennial program. She played a tap entitled "Old Glory Speaks," written by the late Amos F. Hurley. John Jones, a teacher at Garden City, recorded the reading.

Members spent the afternoon sewing, crocheting and doing macrame.

Mrs. Tom Rosson, Mrs. Marvin Sewell, Mrs. Daniel and Mrs. Martin were honored for their birthdays.

The club will meet March 24 in the home of Mrs. H. V. Crocker, 707 Benton, for a luncheon and afternoon of quilting.

Hats off to The Herald Classified Section for the fine results they give! Phone 263-7331.

The Rev. and Mrs. John Howard Payne, 2802 Clanton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Ellen, to James Lynn Bedsole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Bedsole of Pittsburg. A summer wedding in Houston is planned.

Drug abuse workshop set Monday

The College Heights Parent-Teacher Association will sponsor a workshop on drug abuse Monday from 7-9 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The workshop is the second in a series of seminars on parent and family life.

A speaker from Webb Air Force Base will be the guest speaker. He will also show a film.

A question and answer period will follow the program.

Guests should park behind the cafeteria for easy access to the meeting place.

All interested persons are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Modern Woman's forum meets

A bicentennial program was featured at the Thursday meeting of the Modern Woman's Forum. Members met in the home of Mrs. T. G. Adams.

Mrs. W. E. Singleton presided.

Members answered roll call by telling of successes, failures and personalities of United States presidents.

Mrs. S. R. Nobles, Mrs. Harwood Keith and Mrs. Adams were appointed to the nominating committee for officers. They will report at the April 9 meeting.

Mrs. Nobles was the program leader for biographical sketches of the revolutionary war period. Mrs. Nobles told of Lydia Darragh and her family. They acted as spies for Gen. George Washington.

Mrs. Cass Hill gave an account of Cornwallis' part in the Revolutionary War.

Mrs. Hugh Duncan will host the next meeting at 3 p.m., March 26.

Washington's reach — IV

New agencies mushrooming

By BROOKS JACKSON and EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's highway death rate is one-third lower than it was 10 years ago when Washington began requiring safety equipment on cars.

The level of eye-burning sulphur dioxide in the nation's air has dropped 25 per cent since federal environmental controls were imposed five years ago.

If this decade of expanded federal regulation has saved lives and reduced pollution, it has also extended Washington's reach into the lives of individual citizens in ways never before experienced in this country.

Since 1965, the number of major regulatory agencies has doubled from 12 to 24.

This new regulation costs money. The record of progress has been uneven and claims of progress hard to justify. The five-year-old Occupational Safety and Health Administration, for example, has yet to produce solid evidence it has reduced job deaths and injuries.

Some of the agencies have made an obvious mark. The antidiscrimination laws enforced by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission have helped blacks and other minorities increase the number of technical and professional jobs they hold by one-third.

Traffic Safety

The record of the Traffic Safety Administration, one of the first in the recent surge of new agencies, shows in a nutshell the benefits and costs of the new wave of federal regulation.

Highways are safer now. Deaths and disabling injuries have been averted, probably by the thousands. Cars cost more. And when the bureauracy becomes too eager, it can do more harm than good.

When Congress established the agency in 1966, the traffic death rate had reversed its historic slide and had been increasing for five years. More than 50,000 were killed on highways that year, a record at the time.

Today, after nearly a decade of regulation, the death rate per passenger mile is the lowest since statistics have been kept. The rate has dropped each year since the traffic safety law was enacted and the number of persons killed in vehicle accidents is now below the 1966 figure.

Preliminary figures for last year show the death rate had dropped below 3.6 per 100 million miles, compared to 5.7 in 1966.

A dramatic number of auto fatalities were prevented in 1974 as the byproduct of the energy crisis. The gasoline shortage brought the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit, a reduction in highway travel — and 9,400 fewer highway deaths than the year before.

But last year, as speed edged up and travel resumed its upward climb, the actual number of highway deaths did not increase and the death rate per mile continued to drop.

Even Ford Motor Co., which says regulations are becoming excessive and too expensive, estimates that cars equipped to meet 1971 safety standards kill and injure about 25 per cent fewer people than unregulated cars.

Such protection costs money. Ford estimates its 1971 Pinto carried $120 in federally required safety equipment. That soared to $325 for a 1975 model with new side-door reinforcing beams, stronger roof supports, heavier bumpers and seat belt warning systems.

Putting On the Brakes

Some of the traffic safety agency's rules have been flops — like the bus-brake affair.

Last year, it required all new air-braked trucks, trailers and buses to carry bigger brakes and expensive computer systems to prevent the wheels from locking in a skid during panic stops.

But when the system's sensors on buses got out of adjustment by as little as six one-thousandths of an inch, the computer would release the brakes during normal braking speeds of about 10 mph and then slam on the brakes at around 5 mph, throwing passengers to the bus floor.

Bus companies began disconnecting their $1,200 "superbrake" system and Massachusetts threatened to lift the permits of any bus company using the federally required gear.

Finally, after three days of hearings and a two-month comment period, the agency temporarily suspended the standard on Jan. 7.

A similar, if slightly loosened standard is still in effect for semi-trailer truck rigs, despite protests and court suits by drivers and trucking firms.

Job Safety and Health

In the five years since it was formed, the highly controversial Occupational Safety and Health Administration has produced no reliable indication that it has saved many workmen's lives or prevented any significant number of serious job injuries.

In fact, there is still no agreement on even how many workers are killed each year in job accidents. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates 5,900 died from job accidents or diseases in 1974, a projection based on reports by 600,000 employers.

But the National Safety Council says its analysis of death certificates shows work accidents caused 13,400 deaths that year.

As evidence of their effectiveness, federal job-safety officials point to a reported drop in the 1973 injury rates in such industries as logging, longshoring and roofing, the so-called "target industries" where OSHA concentrated early enforcement efforts.

Yet the rates of serious injuries — those which resulted in lost workdays — actually went up in three out of the five industries in 1973. In 1974, when no special enforcement efforts were made, the rate of serious injuries declined in three and went up in two.

In short, the statistics for the very industries where OSHA concentrated its efforts, show no trend in one direction or another.

If OSHA can't yet claim any clear victory, it at least has the satisfaction of proving its critics wrong on a number of counts.

Industry witnesses, for example, once predicted that OSHA's proposal to impose strict protection for workers in polyvinyl chloride plants would put 2 million people out of work and cost the economy at least $60 billion.

But OSHA was alarmed by 17 workers' deaths from a rare form of liver cancer linked to the chemical in lab tests with rats. Strict exposure limits were imposed.

What happened? In the year after OSHA's action, one plant did close, but four others opened and the price of polyvinyl chloride declined about 10 per cent below previous highs.

Once a Decade

Small businessmen also said they feared overzealous safety inspectors would ruin them.

But the average worker can expect to see one of OSHA's 1,400 compliance officers about once a decade, at present rates. Fines average $25 per violation. Employers appeal fewer than five per cent of all citations and even then they almost always remove the cited hazard, an indication OSHA inspectors generally stick to the book and avoid arbitrary rulings.

Safety at Home

One federal agency has exercised power to decree that an electric frypan is unsafe and to make it harder to open aspirin bottles. It may order that all new bicycles and lawn mowers be redesigned.

In three years of existence, the Consumer Product Safety Commission has banished 20 million items from store shelves and homes on grounds they were unsafe.

These included bottles that exploded, disposable cigarette lighters that flared up unexpectedly, electric ranges that shocked their owners and snowmobiles prone to sudden steering failures.

The commission has made mistakes. The courts voided the commission's seizure of 100,000 imported dolls from Bradley Import Co. in Los Angeles. The commission said the dolls were unsafe for children because the costumes were held on with pins. The court, noting that the dolls sold in fashionable gift stores at prices around $75, said there was no evidence the dolls were intended for use by children.

MOTHER RETURNS — A 26-year-old Polish woman, Grzyma Janiszewski, was reunited Thursday with her newborn daughter after what may have been ignorance of American customs led her to walk out of a New York hospital and leave the child behind. Miss Janiszewski gave birth last Friday and slipped out of the hospital Saturday. The New York Daily News ran this photo in its Thursday editions and the mother, while apparently on a shopping trip for baby items, saw the picture and returned to the hospital to claim her child.

Children books for adults only

By REBBECCA TAYLOR
REFERENCE LIBRARIAN

Books about children are as varied as those about adults.

Like their counterparts about adults, most are concerned with problems encountered by and about children.

Some good examples of the variety available are among the books provided through the McNaughton service. These books are distinguished by the light green label on the bottom of the back and spine of each book.

AMATEURS WIN

"Son-Rise" by Barry Neil Kaufman tells of the author's son, Raun, who, at 20 months of age, was diagnosed as an infantile autistic.

He was performing on the level of an 8-month-old and gradually withdrawing more and more. The book tells how the amateur efforts of his family and a few volunteer brought Raun from the 8-month level to the 30 to 36 month level in four months.

The inexplicable and heartbreaking withdrawal from the real world was reversed. At the writing of this book, Raun was an exceptionally bright three year old; alert, affectionate, involved.

ORIENTAL ADOPTIONS

"They Came to Stay" by Marjorie Margolies and Ruth Gruber is an account of how Marjorie, a single, career girl, successfully adopted two Oriental orphan girls.

One little girl was from Korea, given up for adoption by her mother who was dying of tuberculosis.

In Korea, society is male-oriented, and a young girl without a family is almost a nonperson. The mother believed her two sons would have a chance at a normal life as orphans but her daughter would not.

The second little girl is half American, half Vietnamese, the unacknowledged daughter of a civilian contractor. Raised in bars on poverty and abuse, Holly presented her adoptive mother and new sister with some large problems.

This book is a warm and intricate narrative of how three people from three different cultures came to love and understand one another.

PARENTS IDENTIFIED

"Twice Born: Memoirs of an Adopted Daughter," by Betty Jean Lifton takes different approach to adoption.

A noted writer of children's books delves into her own hang-ups about not knowing her real parents.

As she seeks and eventually unravels the hidden past, she reveals the trauma to which all adoptees are subjected in varying degrees.

Her personal journey through the land of official "secrets," which are the fabric of most adoptions, makes interesting and challenging reading.

SCHOOL MONSTER

"The Myth of the Hyperactive Child & Other Names of Child Control" by Peter Schrag and Diane Divoky indicts public school programs of special education.

The book takes the basic stand that a well-meant attempt to provide adequate education to the physically, emotionally and mentally handicapped has turned into a monster of creeping repression.

The authors believe that many children are being placed in "special" classes and many others being given medication for no better reason than the inability of the parents and teachers to cope with them.

Between 500,000 and 1 million children are now receiving some form of psychotherapeutic medication.

The authors contend that there are many cases in which no medically or scientifically identifiable reasons are given for the "special" treatment.

PERFORMS 'FEET' — Gary Gipson demonstrates a move in the Korean karate he will teach at the YMCA starting Tuesday. For eight weeks, Gipson will instruct a coeducational class in the basics of Tang So Do 7-9 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays. For $6, members can register, John Schiebel, Y physical director, said. The cost for nonmembers is $12.

TV show addicts

DALLAS (AP) — "Rich Man, Poor Man", the television special series based on Irwin Shaw's novel, has turned thousands of Dallas-Fort Worth area residents into television junkies.

Actress Dorothy Malone, who lives here and is one of the many stars in the 12-hour "television novel", says the mania could become worse.

The show—which follows the trials and tribulations of the fictitious Jordache brothers — first aired here Feb. 1. Since then, life has become chaotic, say some of those addicted to the show.

"It's ridiculous. Why, it's just another Peyton Place," said a man who asked to remain unnamed. He added: "But I haven't missed a show."

"Rich Man, Poor Man" has become the topic of water cooler conversations. It's the "in" thing at cocktail parties, and teachers' lounges.

Mary Bower, 24, says she has rearranged her Monday night hair-washing routine just to see each segment of the sometimes tragic "Rich Man, Poor Man". But the "ultimate disaster" struck in Miss Bower's own life three weeks ago when her television set was stolen.

Striking workers close Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A series of strikes is dimming some of the brightest lights on the Las Vegas Strip.

"Sitting in your room watching TV doesn't make it," said one tourist, heading home. "We can do that in Minneapolis."

Some 11,000 Culinary Workers Union members started the second full day of a strike against 15 hotels today. Musicians went out on strike Wednesday evening; stagehands struck Thursday morning.

A dozen hotels are preparing to close by Sunday. By Friday, tourists were jamming the only big-name show left in town.

The major strike by culinary workers hit only half the clubs in town, but they are among those with the biggest names and capacities.

Six are owned by billionaire Howard Hughes — the Desert Inn, Landmark, Castaways, Frontier, Sands and Silver Slipper.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 14, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Think over plans to make your life more efficient in all areas — work, outside matters, home and family, and friends.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to be of greater service to others, gain their goodwill. Make better plans with partners. Entertain at home in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be cheerful with others and raise both your and their spirits. Dress charmingly and make a fine impression.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make your home more attractive and comfortable for future happiness. Study a new interest carefully before acting.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get into the spiritual studies that will elevate your consciousness and make the future brighter. Show diplomacy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study financial position and improve it. Reduce expenses. Make small, necessary repairs at your home. Improve wardrobe.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your appearance and health and do whatever will improve both.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plow through work with flying colors, and have time for other pursuits later. Show the romantic side of your nature.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go after vital matter that means much to you. Relax and restore energies later. Steer clear of persnickity pals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle civic matter early. Later, don't spoil the prestige you now enjoy. If invited to a party in p.m., accept.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study philosophical matters early and new plans. Not a good day to go afar from home, or you could get into trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your hunches are good in a.m., so follow them, but they go awry later in the day. A charming, social evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can have a talk early with partners and get good results, but enjoy social activities in afternoon and evening.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, MARCH 15, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until evening you have many tasks that require a stick-to-itiveness to carry through successfully. Interesting conditions come into effect in the evening.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get busy performing tasks you have promised to do. Take the right amount of exercise to rebuild your vitality.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve your talents so that you can accomplish more and have greater benefits in the future. Use care in motion.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Give as much attention to home affairs as you can during hours away from business. Study a new interest.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Shop with care and be sure to use extreme care in motion. The evening is fine for being with friends.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study monetary matters and find a way to improve your position. Cut down on expenses. Obtain the data you need.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find the right solution to a problem that had you puzzled. Use positive methods in handling a new project.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take special steps to make this a most productive day. Obtain the advice you need from a business expert.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Using the right means can help clear the way to gaining your objective today. Attend the social tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Begin the week properly by handling tasks at hand intelligently. Take care of credit affairs wisely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A new plan needs more study before you put it into operation. Sidestep a foe who is overly aggressive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle any responsibilities you have in a most conscientious fashion. This evening is meant for romance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Others may be worrisome to you at this time, but try to be understanding and by evening all will be harmonious.

Not enough money in the town treasury

Sand, sea and tin cans

CRYSTAL BEACH, Tex. (AP) — Crystal Beach is a seashore town with more sea than shore and more fish than people.

Incorporated as a township in 1971, the Bolivar Peninsula community claims about 42 square miles of the Gulf of Mexico and about 25 square miles of land. It has a permanent human population of just over 600 and fish in the uncounted millions.

It also has a population of problems that its founding fathers never expected.

"We incorporated to keep Galveston from taking us in," says Mayor Eddie Robinson. "It was strictly a defensive move."

Since then, says one resident, "There's been nothing but problems."

The town annexed miles of offshore lands to cash in on an oil drilling boom.

For a while it worked. Oil companies drilled 15 offshore wells, paying Crystal Beach $2,000 for a well for the privilege. But the boom died when 12 wells were dry.

Other problems came up. Since Crystal Beach was self-governed, Galveston County stopped maintaining roads, cleaning beaches and providing police protection. The township took on those expenses.

Crystal Beach named a marshal but town officials said he was fired when he spent more time catching shrimp than crooks. The next town peace officer lost his job after someone stole his gun and badge and he was arrested for drunkeness by a Galveston County deputy.

Citizens began to complain about deteriorating roads and beaches, which now resemble garbage heaps, littered with tin cans, glass and abandoned auto parts. Petitions were circulated twice to "de-incorporate," but nothing ever came of them.

The problem, says Robinson, is that there's not enough money in the town treasury.

"The average tax on a house here is $10 a year," he said, "and that's not much when you consider a load of shell (for roadways) cost $8."

"They're trying every way they can think of to come up with more money," said one resident. "I think they're in over their heads."

Robinson said the newest plan is to change Crystal Beach from a township to a city. This legal maneuver would enable the town to increase tax rates and annex more land.

News of the plan sent tremors of panic up and down the peninsula. At Gilchrist, eight miles up the beach, citizens hurriedly organized an incorporation petition.

"We don't want to become part of Crystal Beach and all its problems," said Ray O'Quinn, a Gilchrist resident. "We'd like to be left alone."

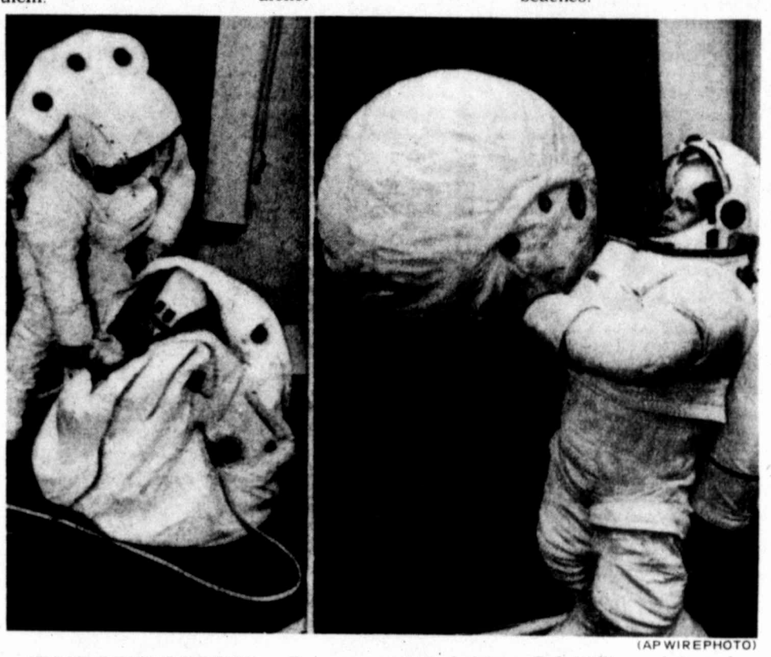

The plan has divided Crystal Beach because of the prospect of new taxes. Several residents told of being threatened. Some began carrying guns in their cars. Several meetings held in churches broke up after arguments and fist fights.

Problems seem out of place in an area some consider a paradise of sand, sea and sky.

Bolivar Peninsula is a mecca for sun lovers, surfers and fishermen. During summer months, Crystal Beach's population surges to 5,000 as vacationers crowd the flat, treeless stretch of sand.

College students jam the wide, tan beaches during the spring break from classes. Many prefer the untouched sweep of Bolivar to the commercial jumble along other Texas beaches.

"It becomes just one long party for the kids," Robinson said. "They pitch tents or sleep in their cars or on the beaches."

Texas crops

Rains provide needed boost

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Good rains finally came to parts of Texas last week, providing planting moisture for spring crops and giving boosting small grains and pastures, Dr. H. O. Kunkel, acting director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

However, southern and western areas of the state received little of the moisture, Kunkel said.

The rains over central and eastern sections should take some pressure off cattlemen who have been battling high feed bills and a shortage of hay, forage and stock water, he said.

Kunkel said although prospects for a grain crop from wheat, oats and barley have been reduced by dry weather, the rains will rejuvenate these crops somewhat.

South and Southwest Texas and Coastal Bend, the area where spring planting takes the lead, are still dry, Kunkel said.

District agricultural agents gave these reports:

Panhandle: The dryland wheat crop is still in poor shape. Freezing temperatures caused some damage to fruit trees that were budding and blooming. Sugarbeet planting has started in the Hereford area. Many stocker cattle are moving off wheat fields to auctions.

South Plains: Much more moisture is needed, especially for dryland wheat. A soil moisture survey for the area showed good subsoil moisture in most counties. Some onions, potatoes and sugar beets are being planted.

Rolling Plains: Additional moisture is needed throughout the area. Spring land preparation continues. Early vegetable planting is active. Livestock are in fair to good condition.

Far West: The area remains extremely dry. Only irrigated crops are making any progress. Fruit trees are in bloom. Land is being prepared for spring crops. Livestock feeding continues. Sheep shearing is in progress. Goat shearing is about complete.
