Showdown Expected In Balkans; Reich Declines Comment

(By The Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, Dec. 26.—Nazi leaders in Rumania were reported in diplomatic dispatches today to have ordered a big speed-up in Rumania's manufacture of war materials as crowded trains, carrying the vanguard of some 300,000 fresh troops, rolled across Hungary into the Balkan kingdom of King Mihai.

The vast movement of troops with artillery, bridge-building equipment, tanks and other motorized vehicles, stirred speculation on the possibility of a showdown between powers with conflicting interests in the Balkans.

To Manufacture Planes

The diplomatic dispatches from Bucharest said two large Rumanian industrial plants would manufacture warplanes for Germany.

A submarine building yard already in operation at Galati has been ordered to increase its production, the dispatches said.

The mass shifting of troops and the speed-up order coincided with the appointment of Baron Manfred von Killinger, German minister to Slovakia, to the same post in Rumania. Informed sources said the baron was prepared to rule Rumania as virtual Nazi gauleiter (district leader).

No Hand In Administration

Although Germany has taken no hand in Rumania's civil administration thus far, diplomatic reports from Bucharest asserted that the reich was prepared to take over complete control.

Military experts estimated Germany already had approximately 100,000 soldiers in Rumania. Germans and Rumanians said they were guarding vital sources of oil supply and training the Rumanian army in modern methods of warfare.

Train Service Restricted

First official disclosure of the new massed Nazi movement came in an announcement by the Hungarian railway administration that passenger train service would be "specially restricted" to clear the way for passage of 1,160 troop trains —at the rate of 30 to 40 daily—be-

Armed Guards Along Coast Are Doubled

Unofficial Truce Reigns Between Warring Fliers

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Dec. 26.—British troops along the English channel have taken extraordinary precautions against a possible surprise invasion attempt by Germany despite an unofficial Christmas truce in the air war, it was learned today.

Perfect "invasion weather" prevailed along the coast yesterday. The result was that the heavily armed guards posted along the invasion danger zone were doubled as a safeguard against any German thrust through the blanket of mist which covered a calm sea.

Picked Troops On Guard

Picked troops armed with Bren guns and other automatic weapons combed the beaches and watched every cleft and fissure in the tall white cliffs.

Coastal highway traffic was halted at barricades and drivers were ordered to produce their identity cards and also were searched for weapons.

It was understood that the precautions would continue during the holiday season.

Single Plane Seen

A single German plane, which flew near a southeast coast town after noon today and flew back toward France after encountering anti-aircraft gun fire only served to emphasize the long bombing truce.

Millions of Britons had come out of air raid shelters this morning, however, after a second bombless night in ignorance that the British and German air forces were observing the truce.

The truce, effected without negotiations of any sort, entered its third day at dawn. It was known to people all over the world—except in the British Isles and perhaps in Germany.

P. G. Wodehouse--Prisoner In Nazi Concentration Camp--Is Calmly Writing Another Book

BY ANGUS THUERMER

(Copyright, 1940, By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Dec. 26. — P. G. Wodehouse, British author known to millions of readers in the English-speaking world as the creator of Jeeves, the all-knowing butler, now is sitting in a German civilian internment camp among truck drivers, coal heavers and British consuls, calmly and unhurriedly writing another novel.

He was arrested in German-occupied France, where he was living in his villa at Le Touquet at the time of the German offensive last May.

"I just don't know yet," the English humorist told me in an exclusive interview in his Upper Silesian camp, "what I shall call my book. I had rather been thinking of calling it 'Money For Jam.' Does that mean anything to you?"

"I had to admit the English phrase didn't mean a thing to a midwestern American.

"That's what I was afraid of," Wodehouse exclaimed. "What it means is money for nothing or easy pickings—I can't use the first of those because I already have written a book about that."

Wodehouse and 1,100 other British subjects are held at the camp inside double barbed wire fences.

The camp commander, a bemedaled little Saxon officer, ordered the English humorist brought to his office for the interview.

A tall, smiling figure, Wode-

Firmer Stand Is Plea Sent To President

Citizens Ask For Truth In FDR's Sunday Address

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The White House said today that more than 150 prominent American citizens had urged President Roosevelt to "make it the settled policy of this country to do everything that may be necessary to insure the defeat of the Axis powers."

The group, comprising editors, lawyers, authors, educators, actors, and religious and labor leaders, set forth their appeal in a letter.

Appeasement Opposed

They urged that all possible be done to promote "resistance to the plausible but fatal arguments of appeasement."

Evidently for the purpose of informing the president what they think a large section of the American people would like to hear in the chief executive's Sunday night radio speech, the group said:

"We ask you to tell us what we believe to be the truth, that the materials of war and the military and naval and air strength we now have and the implements we can now produce are enough to make certain the defeat of the Axis powers, so long as Britain is on her feet and fighting, but that with Britain down, they are not enough and may not in the future be increased enough to hold the whole world at bay."

Signers Of Letter

Among the signers of the letter were Hamilton Fish Armstrong, editor of foreign affairs; Herbert Agar, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal; Frank Altschul, New York banker; Henry Breckenridge, New York lawyer; John Stewart Bryan, president of the college of William and Mary; and Lewis W. Douglas, president of the Mutual Life insurance company and former New Deal budget director.

Earlier a White House secretary said that President Roosevelt would be "very specific" about war aid to Britain in his radio address, but would give no figures on any phase that might be helpful to any other

Eleven Missing In Coast Guard Boat

(By The United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26—Eleven coast guardsmen from the Point Arena station were missing today and authorities feared that they may have drowned in attempting to reach the disabled lumber schooner Stanwood 15 miles off the coast from Fort Bragg, Calif.

More than 24 hours had passed since the men put out from the station in a motor life boat and a motor surf boat. When the cutter Shoshone reached the side of the disabled 627-ton schooner early today the Shoshone officers were told that neither the life boat nor the surf boat had been sighted.

"If the motors do not fail, the boys may make it all right," coast guard officers said. "We understand they tried to get back into Point Arena but could not because of the high seas."

The craft put out at midnight Tuesday to answer the distress call of the Stanwood.

Gales of 60 miles an hour had whipped the coast for several days, and the Stanwood's deckload of lumber shifted, flooding the holds.

The Shoshone radioed it had taken the Stanwood under tow and was heading for San Francisco. The freighter Arkansas, which had been standing by for 12 hours, resumed its course.

Other Vessels Disabled

Two other vessels were disabled by the mountainous seas that also damaged many seashore homes in California. The United States weather bureau saw no immediate prospect of a cessation of the storms that have swept the coast for 11 days. Further rains were predicted for Oregon, Washington and California. Many rivers already were running bank-full.

The cutter Shawnee, sent to the assistance of the Stanwood from

Cut In Relief Load Is Seen

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Increased employment under the defense program was viewed by several senators today as making possible a reduction in relief spending.

Congress voted $975,000,000 to the WPA for the present fiscal year, but decided that the entire appropriation could be used before next March 1. A supplemental appropriation probably will be necessary to continue relief payments up to July 1.

Senator Adams (D-Colo), chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which handles relief appropriations, told reporters:

Might Be Decided Cut

"It would seem—with people going back to work under the defense program—there might be a very decided cut in relief expenditures."

He declared, however, that WPA figures indicated that only one person was taken off relief for every three jobs created in private industry. He added that many persons on

'Important' Person Said Dead In Crash

MADRID, Dec. 26. (U.P.)—Launches from British Gibraltar and La Linea, Spain, today cruised around the spot 500 yards from the Gibraltar beach where a French bi-motored airplane fell into the sea, reportedly with "an important political personality" and four other persons aboard.

It was believed that all occupants of the plane were killed.

The pilot apparently was trying to reach Gibraltar but could not locate the flying field there because of rain and fog last night. The plane appeared over Spanish territory and Spanish anti-aircraft guns fired on it. Soon afterward the plane fell to the sea.

John T. Flynn's 1940 Business Review:

Economic Changes Enter New Phase

How does American economy stack up after the end of the 12 tempestuous months that were 1940, and what's ahead for 1941? John T. Flynn, noted economist-writer, looks at the current American U. S. business picture in six articles. This is the first.

BY JOHN T. FLYNN
NEA Service Financial Writer

The year which now closes may, on the economic front, go down in history as one of the most memorable in our annals.

It marks the third phase in an economic revolution. The only question that remains to be settled is whether that phase shall remain for an indefinite period as the pattern of our economic life.

I speak of this as a third phase. The first phase of our economic life in this respect would be that which has persisted since the beginning of our history until 1933. In that phase the motor power in the business economic system was private investment.

Third Phase Is Here

The third phase is now here. It is the substitution of a defense or armament industry for direct public spending. It is, of course, another form of public spending. But it differs from the second phase in one important particular.

In the plan employed since 1933 the government paid out its funds —or the great bulk of them — directly to consumers who thereupon spent them in business. The funds were syphoned into business through direct payments to consumers. But in this past phase the government's funds are paid out, not to consumers, but to producers —the consumers benefiting indirectly.

Money Going To Producers

These two systems differ in this respect. Where the government pays its funds out directly, the payments are small—relief stipends or limited weekly payments to WPA workers, farm workers, etc. But where government spends its money by paving it out to producers and contractors, the workers who benefit are paid full time standard wages and the payments include profits to private individuals. The sums that must be expended are invariably much larger by this system than the former one.

Unless, therefore, the observer who is trying to look into the future understands this immensely important fact he cannot possibly

Storm Nears Texas Coast

A potent storm area centered near Galveston on the Texas coast brought widespread light to heavy rains and blustery weather over much of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana today.

Storm warnings were hoisted along the gulf coast from Brownsville to St. Marks, Fla. Strong northwest to southeast winds were expected. The New Orleans weather bureau described the disturbance as having "considerable intensity."

Light Rains General

Unusually low barometer readings were reported in North, East and South-Central Texas, where light rainfall was general. Light rains were reported also from Waynoka, Oklahoma City and Tulsa. Two Juveniles Said Missing

Juvenile authorities, upon insistence of a social worker, allowed two girls what they had hoped would be brief liberty from a cell in county jail—but the girls disappeared.

So reported officials this morning.

The girls were held as delinquents and were to have been sent to a state correctional institution, it had been said. They were allowed to go to their mother's house for Christmas dinner.

Police said a Lubbock man might be charged today with assault on a minor. A juvenile boy's father charged the boy was slapped.

Damages Of $94,000 Are Asked In Suit

Judgment in damages of $94,000 was asked this morning in 99th district court as outgrowth of the death of Mrs. Willie Mae Springer, 30, Nov. 27 after a collision of automobiles at Tenth street and Avenue L.

L. C. Springer, individually as next best friend for three minor children of his wife and himself, Latha Mae Springer, Lathern Clyde Springer, jr., and Betty Ruth Springer, brought the action, which named as defendants Great National Life Insurance company and Kenneth D. Moore, agent.

The petition, filed by John J. Watts and C. R. Carpenter, charged that automobiles driven by Mrs. Springer and by Moore were in collision and that Mrs. Springer was thrown from her car, suffering a skull fracture, punctured lung and other injuries.

His Chin Probably Hurt A Little, Too

When an officer arrests a man in a public place and the man's wife bops him on the official chin it is purely academic to decide which suffers most, the officer's peace or his dignity.

Anyway, J. W. Barnett, Woodrow constable, allowed the question to rest for the time being—instead of one arrest he made two.

Both paid fines, the woman for resisting arrest, said Walter Davies, justice of peace.

CERTAINTY OF VICTORY

Greeks Taking More Villages

(By The United Press)

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 26—Greek troops won smashing new victories in the Tepelini-Klisura sector of southeastern Albania Christmas day, an official spokesman said today.

He said several more villages were taken in that area and that the general advance still was under way, although Italian black shirts and Alpini units were being thrown into the battle as reinforcements "with surprising indifference to the sacrifice of human life."

Disastrous Setbacks

The Italians suffered "disastrous setbacks" in their counter-attacks before resuming their retreat northward, the Greek spokesman said. He said that at one point the Italians reinforced a section of their line heavily with the most experienced troops, but had been thrown back after a three-hour fight.

The fighting moved north of Tepelini and Klisura, main Italian

By Deeds Serious, Frivolous, Women Captured Share Of 1940's Headlines

Glances Back Interesting

BY MARIAN YOUNG
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Women captured their share of 1940's headlines. Spotlighted by the flames of battle during the history-making presidential campaign were:

Claire Booth, who emerged to prove that a woman can be beautiful without being dumb, rich without being a stuffed shirt. All within the past year, the handsome Miss Booth wrote a hit play (her third successful one), a best seller—"Europe in the Spring"—and, as a campaign speaker, stacked up in spectacular fashion against the best male speakers in either political party.

Frances Perkins—who was called "woozy in the head" by John L. Lewis.

Montana's Jeanette Rankin, first woman ever to be returned to Congress. She voted against the declaration of war in 1917. In January, Republican Miss Rankin will again go to Washington to take her place in the "loyal opposition."

SOMETHING TO WORRY ABOUT

On the day in January that President Roosevelt, in his annual message to Congress, appealed for national unity and asked taxes for defense, Miss Josephine Dillon, Hollywood, voice coach, said that cultivated New York speech—called the "Park Avenue accent" by those who don't like it—is ideal for Americans.

Mrs. Roosevelt posed for pictures in (1) her spring wardrobe; (2) her summer wardrobe; (3) her fall wardrobe.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, grand and gracious old lady of the feminist movement, urged women to continue not only to fight for their rights, but to fight to see that men recognize their rights. She pointed out that with men and women both losing all freedom in so many countries, this would be a poor time for women of America to relax their efforts to preserve it here.

Reports were issued that Gloria Vanderbilt, whose wealth increased from $4,068,593.20 to $4,117,446.86 during the previous year, spent only $16 for school books during that same year.

HEADLINE PERSONALITIES

The war made headline news of the doings of:

Juliana, plump Crown Princess of the Netherlands. Hitler's invasion of the low countries forced Juliana to flee to England with her two children, then to Canada. She visited the U. S. and had her first ice-cream soda recently.

Barbara Hutton. The five-and-ten-cent store heiress came home from Europe and re-discovered America.

The Duchess of Windsor. She became first lady of the Bahamas instead of the best-dressed woman of France. Recently a toothache brought her to her native America for the first time since her marriage to the former King of Great Britain.

Elsa Schiaparelli. The famous French designer left Paris soon after the fall of France and has been busying herself in America ever since making speeches to prove that (1) America never has had and couldn't possibly have any designers with real talent; (2) Paris is the only place where good clothes ever were or ever will be designed.

If you use filter cloths in your pot when making coffee, see that the cloths are kept in good condition. Tate Fry of Norman, Okla., uncle of the bride, played the wedding music. The bride wore a navy lightweight wool suit with white blouse and navy accessories. She carried a white prayer book, adorned with gardenias and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony, the bride's mother entertained at breakfast. Attending were Mrs. King, mother of the bridegroom; Mary Charles Reynolds, daughter of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Ralls and Mr. and Mrs. Walker Watkins of Ralls; Miss Florence Pickett of Lubbock; Mr. Fry and several San Antonio friends and relatives.

Legion Head Is To Speak Here Jan. 7

Letters are being prepared today extending invitations to American Legion posts and editors of the entire area to attend a meeting in Senior High school auditorium the night of Jan. 7 at which Milo J. Warner, national commander of the Legion, will speak, according to Chas. Whitacre, district commander.

Officials of several posts in the district aready have advised, he said, that they will be represented by delegations. Some will come from New Mexico.

Final arrangements for the program cannot be made, Whitacre said, until the national commander has advised definitely of his traveling schedule. Plans are, however, for a delegation from Allen Bros. post of the Legion here, which will be official host, to greet Warner in Amarillo and escort him here.

The district commander gave assurance that the program will be expedited as a convenience to members of out-of-town delegations who will want to get an early start home.

TASTY TOASTED SANDWICH

Spread toasted bread slices generously with pimento cheese, add strips of crisp bacon, sliced olives, lettuce and a little mayonnaise if desired. Youngsters will like these for lunch. Serve first a cup of clear, hot broth, then toasted sandwich and milk, and, for dessert, baked apple with cream.

A deep drawer with compartments makes a convenient storage place for pots, kettles, lids and pie pans.

GLAMOURIZERS—Glamour is a subject American designers know all about. Here's proof of it. The American made cocktail or evening mitts are of suede with gold kid bows and cuffs. The hat is a Sally Victor confection of colorful ribbon, berries and stiffened veiling. These two glamourizers would be sufficient pick-up for the plainest black dress.

Wilson-Smith Wedding Read In Wichita Falls Church

The marriage of Miss Eloise Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith, 2209 Tenth street, to John Hiner Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wilson of 1907 Twenty-third street, took place Wednesday afternoon in the First Christian church in Wichita Falls.

Rev. J. B. Blunk read the ceremony.

The bride wore a wood rose suit with wine accessories and she carried a bouquet of gladioli. For "something old" she wore a locket her father had given her mother.

Cousin Is Attendant

Mrs. Blunk, a cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a corn flower blue suit and carried a bouquet of red roses.

After a short trip, the couple will be at home here at 2124 Sixteenth street. The bride is a well known member of the younger set. She is a graduate of Texas Technological college where she was a member of D. F. D. social club. She is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. She is employed by the New Wrinkle Shoppe.

Mr. Wilson is also a graduate of Texas Technological college where he was a member of the College club. He is associated with the Star Engraving company of Houston.

CHEESE BAKED POTATOES

Scoop out the center of large baked potatoes, mix with seasonings, a little milk or light cream, and grated cheese. Mix well and refill the potato shells. Sprinkle with paprika and return to oven to heat and brown.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Turner of San Antonio are spending the week with his mother, Mrs. John F. Turner, 920 Avenue M.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wester, jr., of Mountainair, owners of the Mountainair Independent, and J. K. Wester of the Wester Finance company of Albuquerque, N. M., are the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wester, 412 Avenue R, and their sister, Mrs. Bud Shelton, and Mr. Shelton, also of Lubbock.

SWEET POTATOES IN SEASON

Good quality sweet potatoes should be smooth, nicely shaped, firm to the touch and have a clean, bright appearance. Sweet potatoes that appear wrinkled, have decayed spots, bruises or soft tips are not a good buy. Unless you have the proper storage space for them, it is more economical to purchase small quantities.

Use a sharp knife when slicing stuffed olives. This helps keeps the stuffings in the cut slices.

College Party Plans Trip To Tres Ritos

A party of eight persons will leave Lubbock early Friday for an annual winter sports camp sponsored at Tres Ritos, New Mexico, by the women's physical education department of Texas Technological college.

The group will return Jan. 1.

New watches come in strange cases. One tiny new timepiece swings in a bell-shaped gold case from a bowknot fob pin, or from a heavy two-tone gold link bracelet.

Sand, Cold Cover Plains, Panhandle

Sand-laden winds swept out of the north and west Wednesday night, howling through the streets and causing the crowds of theater goers to seek protection from a gale that approximated 40 miles an hour at times.

This morning's mercury was down to 39 degrees, a drop of five from that on Christmas morning. Maximum Wednesday, the state experiment sub-station reported, was 61 degrees.

Little damage was done by the gale to crops, as almost all cotton and grain sorghums have been harvested. Wheat is the only growing crop at this season and no reports of blowing out were received Thursday.

Sand drifted into houses through window and door cracks, adding to the Christmas confusion and debris left from the holiday celebration.

Amarillo had a cloudy morning, with the mercury down to 36 degrees; Texline, on the New Mexico state line north of Dalhart, reported clear and cold, with a 30 degree minimum. No damage to crops was reported in the wheat areas of the North Panhandle.

Most important among provisions of the bill, the letter said, is the reduction of the more than 100 departments now making up the state government to 19.

Japan Makes Little Progress For Better Relations With Russia

Soviet Chiefs Distrust Japs

TOKYO, Dec. 26. (U.P.)—Japan has made little progress in its attempts to effect a rapprochement with Russia, the influential newspaper Nichi Nichi reported today, despite the efforts of Lieut. Gen. Yoshitsugu Tatekawa, new Japanese ambassador to Moscow.

Lack of progress was due, Nichi Nichi asserted, to Russian misapprehension that Japan was soliciting its favor because of the "necessity" for its expansion southward, as well as because of its policies toward China and the United States.

Is Golden Opportunity

Nichi Nichi made its statement after saying that this was the golden opportunity to adjust relations.

It expressed hope that Russia would speedily conclude a new fishery treaty which, according to Nichi Nichi, Russia promised last year when a temporary treaty was signed. This temporary treaty, Nichi Nichi pointed out, expires Dec. 31.

Emperor Hirohito, in a message formally opening the new session of parliament, asked the entire nation today to aid the government in conducting state affairs in view of the troublous world situation.

He said he was pleased to see the intercourse between Japan and the nations with which it has treaties, become closer.

The emperor instructed parliament to approve the budget for the next fiscal year, the largest in the country's history, totaling $1,611,432,400.

Christmas Services Are Held In City

Christmas services were held in Masonic lodge hall Wednesday morning by members of Lubbock commandery No. 60.

Altus Sansom, commander, and Dr. Jack Lewis, prelate, conducted a program, assisted by individual responses by Sir Knights Kennedy N. Clapp, M. J. Nelson of Slaton, Hugh J. McClellan, Ray C. Mowery and Neil H. Wright.

Reading of a Christmas story by the prelate and singing of hymns completed the program, which was one of three public functions annually given by the commandery, the others being on Easter and on Ascension day.

Rotary Convention To Be Held Here

District convention of Rotary International will be held in Lubbock May 4-6, according to announcement received from Frank S. Roberts of Breckenridge, district governor.

Homer D. Grant, former club president here, has been named by directors of the Lubbock club as the chairman of the general convention committee. Some time in January Chairman Grant will probably select his sub-chairmen and begin plans for entertaining the visitors.

The district is now composed of 55 clubs with a membership of approximately 2,600.

District Governor Roberts has asked all of the clubs to send him the names of members who might be available for speakers on the program. Headquarters of the convention will be in the Lubbock hotel.

EXPENSIVE

Report On Ginnings For County Given

Lubbock county cotton ginnings to Dec. 15 totaled 44,830, an increase of about 2,500 since the Dec. 1 report, according to Andy L. King, statistician for the federal bureau of census.

For the same period last year, the ginnings were 58,205 bales, a loss of 13,375 bales or 23 per cent. Ginnings to Dec. 1 were 42,251 bales.

Registration Of Aliens Hits Deadline Today

Reminder that today is the deadline for alien registration as required by federal law was given by Postmaster Amos Howard, who said that approximately 500 had registered up to this time.

The greater portion of those so recorded were Mexicans. Less than 50, he estimated, were of other nationalities.

All persons 14 years or over must be fingerprinted, as well as records taken of their life history. Those under 14 need not be fingerprinted at this time, but they should be as soon as they reach the required age.

Much Of World Blew Up For Average American Citizen In Past 12 Hectic Months

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Much of the world that John Doe, average American, learned to live in blew up in 1940.

For a few months, events abroad and at home were comparatively placid. The European conflict seemed a "phoney" war. (Remember?) The usual preliminary fireworks heralded the presidential contest, but folks were not greatly steamed up.

Then "Blitz" Exploded

Even Germany's quick gobbling up of Denmark and Norway, and the British retreat from the northern front, did not dislodge John Doe's belief that "the impregnable Maginot line" and "the crack French army" still were a most potent pair of military aces.

Then on May 10 came the Nazi lightning. Across Holland and Belgium, which had staked their safety on pledges of neutrality, and into France rolled the German juggernaut.

Too Fast For John

Within 40 days, Hitler pushed from the Rhine to the English channel. The soldiers of a new Napoleon held western Europe from the Arctic circle to sunny Spain.

John Doe was awed by the swift and annihilating onslaught of this new military machine, with its tanks, flame-throwing infantrymen, dive bombers, fifth columnists and parachutists.

John Doe began to wonder how long England could hold out and whether "it might happen here."

Willkie Makes Bow

His demands for super-defense turned a budget-minded Congress into the No. 1 peace-time spender.

Along came Wendell Willkie, a new kind of Presidential prospect. The former Democrat and utilities executive, with his amazing candor, captured the fancy of anti-administration voters. Despite his WWall street background he won the Republican nomination to kick the props from under another political tradition.

The shortly after midnight on July 19, John Doe listened at his radio as a President in shirt sleeves sat before a microphone in the White House and told the nation that because of "over-riding public danger" he would accept a third term if the people drafted him.

John Doe, showered with political shrapnel, saw his son register for possible war service, along with 16,400,000 other young men. The fury of the campaign sent John Doe and his cousins to the polls on November 5 in greater numbers than ever before. And the third term tradition was broken.

Japan and liberty-loving France, meanwhile, had gone totalitarian. Churchill had been given dictatorial powers to fight the Battle of Britain.

Bad News And Good

"All out" aerial warfare put millions of Europe's civilians into the front lines. Apprehensive John Doe saw the first batch of draftees set off for training camps but he heard criticisms of a "lag" in arms production.

He read of power plant explosions with hints of sabotage.

But good news came too—the boom in industrial production, the increase in factory payrolls and farm income. Not so good was a rising cost of living.

Balancing it all at year's end, John felt that he was sitting pretty compared with his cousins in almost any other part of the world.

Funeral For Lubbock Man Killed In Crash To Be Held At Bowie

A. B. Davis Is Death Victim

Funeral services for Albert B. Davis, 53, newsstand operator and cotton buyer of Lubbock who was killed instantly in a head-on automobile collision a few miles west of Benjamin about 7 o'clock Christmas night, will be conducted in Bowie.

According to Associated Press dispatch from Benjamin, the body was to be taken overland to Bowie. Further arrangements had not been announced.

Others Are Injured

Davis and his two sons, Fulton and Joe, of Lubbock, were returning from a trip to Wichita Falls when the accident occurred. The two sons and two men going to Wichita Falls were injured in the accident.

Fulton Davis, about 28, suffered a broken collar bone, severe leg injury and deep cut, according to information received here. Joe, about 23, suffered fractured ribs and a fractured ankle. They were being taken to Wichita Falls in an ambulance this morning.

Believed Gravely Hurt

Ralph Samson and Paul Samson, his brother, were others injured in the accident. Paul was believed gravely injured of a skull fracture or concussion and was in Knox County hospital in Knox City. His brother was less seriously injured. They were en route from California to the home of their father near Wichita Falls.

Because of condition of the injured, details of the accident had not been learned by investigating authorities.

Fulton Davis and his father operated Arcadia news stand.

Survivors of Davis, besides the wife and two sons, include two sisters, Mrs. Clark Greenwood of Lubbock and Mrs. Harve Miller of Sunset, and two brothers, J. W. of Sunset and Ben Davis of Bellevue.

Had Been To Wichita

Sheriff Louis Cartwright of Knox county, said the Lubbock men had been to Wichita Falls, where Mrs. A. B. Davis had been taken to visit a relative who was ill. The other machine was proceeding eastward on the Lubbock-Fort Worth highway.

The impact was "right in the middle of an 11-mile stretch of concrete road that doesn't have a turn in it," said the sheriff, who ascribed possible cause of the collision to the approach of another vehicle and that car's lights.

It was deemed likely that Davis' sons and Ralph Sansom would recover from their injuries.

J. D. Haygood of Lubbock told a graphic story of the wreck.

"I happened along just after it," he said. "The engine of the Davis car was driven back and the body of Davis was wedged between the engine and the front seat.

Cars Almost Demolished

"He was dead; we could tell that. We concentrated our attention on removing the others. The Davis boys were placed in Sheriff Cartwright's car and rushed to the hospital. The others were put in an ambulance. Deputy Sheriff Orville Capeheart and members of the maintenance division of the highway department remained at the scene of wreckage, cleared the road and kept traffic moving to prevent other mishaps.

"Fulton Davis, who is manager of Arcadia newsstand, complained that his right leg hurt. It appeared to have been broken.

"I never saw such results of a collision. Both cars were almost demolished."

Stop To Aid

With Haygood were Mrs. Haygood and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Horne, all of Lubbock.

"And before we left the scene I saw Thurman R. White and Bonner Cummings, also of Lubbock. All had stopped to do what they could."

Mr. Davis lived at 1963 Texas avenue. He had lived in Lubbock 12 years.

Haygood referred to Davis as "Ab" Davis. He said Davis had been in Lubbock at least 10 years, having moved there from Bowie.

Both Legs Broken

Efforts to establish further information either here, Lubbock or through the widow in Wichita Falls or through Wichita Falls members of the state highway patrol were not immediately successful.

Warren Funeral home at Knox City said both legs of A. B. Davis had been broken and that his chest apparently was crushed. He also was believed to have suffered a fractured skull.

Eleven Missing

Eureka, was badly battered as it crossed the Humboldt bar and was forced to turn back. Commander C. C. Paden reported by radio that waves had carried away four lifeboats. A seaman suffered a fractured leg.

SOS Is Flashed

The schooner City of Alberni flashed an SOS from a point 500 miles off Cape Flattery and a tug was sent from Puget Sound to its assistance. The 1598-ton Windjammer, carrying 10 men, was partially dismasted by the gale.

The Matson liner Matsonia reached Honolulu eight hours late after one of the roughest crossings in years. Crockery was broken and cargo damaged.

Three homes at Stinson Beach, Marin county, were destroyed and 50 others were threatened by the pounding seas. Damage was in excess of $25,000.

VANISHING LAKE

KONSTANZ, Switzerland (AP) — The Rhine and other streams are filling Lake Konstanz (area 214 square miles) with stone and sediment at the rate of 4,000,000 cubic feet a year.

WHAT NECESSITY MOTHERED—Lack of gasoline and scarcity of taxis have produced a bicycle boom in Paris, and French women are tempering their clothes needs accordingly. Here's Lucile Manguin trouser skirt (or jupe culotte) that enables the Parisienne in a city now directed by Germans to do her shopping readily. Blouse is of scarlet flannel.

MARKET RAGGED

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (AP)—Stock market traders turned to the shares of some of the less prominent concerns which stand to benefit by the $17,000,000,000 national defense program today and pushed a number of these prices to the highest levels in a year or more.

Meanwhile many of the steels, aircrafts and other "war" issues were neglected and the list at the close presented a ragged appearance.

Trading struck a post-holiday lull and turnover approximated 750,000 shares.

Cotton advanced 15 to 25 cents a bale.

house said "It certainly was grand of you to come down and see me."

He wore a heavy tan flannel bathrobe held together by a leather belt, a blue turtle-neck sweater, a pepper-and-salt sports coat and trousers and a pair of knit gloves and carried a three-inch stack of sheets of paper, the draft of his new, untitled book.

"I was in Le Touquet," he said in a soft English voice, "where I have had a villa since 1934. I was cut off, of course, by the speed of the German advance. About May 22 we had our first sign that the war really was in progress.

"At that time I heard that a German army doctor was making inspection trips, around my district; then I began to see a few bicycle riders, and then suddenly the countryside was occupied by German troops.

"Before I really could do anything, the war was over for me."

Wodehouse and several other British subjects were picked up July 21 by German officials and sent to a prison at Loos. There, Wodehouse said, they were turned over to French police, who treated them as criminal prisoners and allowed them out of their cells for only one hour out of each 24.

"The German commander came to inspect," the author related, "and swept through the place like the east wind. He raised hell."

Shortly afterward the group was sent to Huis, Belgium, where they spent five weeks. From there they were transported to their present camp. A group of red brick buildings with barred windows which formerly was an insane asylum.

DANIEL FROHMAN

Death Claims Theater Dean

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Daniel Frohman, 89, dean of American stage producers, died at 6:15 a.m. (CST) today in the Leroy sanitarium of complications following a fall.

Frohman, one of the most distinguished figures in the history of the American theater, had been in the sanitarium since Nov. 4, when he broke his right hip in a fall in his hotel suite.

Developed Many Stars

The veteran producer, who helped develop many of the leading stage stars for more than two generations, kept an unflagging interest in the stage, although he had been professionally inactive for many years.

He retained a studio over the Lyceum theater and lined its walls with hundreds of autographed photos and handbills reminiscent of a bygone day when he and his brother, Charles Frohman—who died in the sinking of the Lusitania during the World war—were the nation's leading producers.

Wrote Own Obituary

He kept in touch with the footlight folk, as president of the Actor's Fund, a philanthropic organization.

Only two years ago—in April 1938—he wrote his own obituary and sent it to newspapers with this note:

"I enclose an article for your mortuary department. As I may soon pass away, you may want these facts."

Anxious reporters, sent to investigate the state of his health, found him comfortably lounging in his old leather chair, enjoying a cigar.

Assuring them he felt "fit as can be," he added:

"I just thought the newspapers might be interested. I might be run down by an auto, you know. Certainly I feel fine, but you can't live forever."

Saved From Ejection

A year ago, when the mortgage fell due on the theater studio in which Frohman, at that time, made his home, the aged producer was saved from ejection by the intervention of a friendly banker, who said Frohman could remain in the apartment as long as he lived.

Once a copy boy for the old New York Tribune, when Horace Greeley was editor of the paper, Frohman traced the beginning of his interest in the theater to a visit to the P. T. Barnum museum in New York shortly after the Civil war.

He believed that public taste in the theater completed a cycle every 20 years, and a few years ago foresaw a swing backward to romance in the theater, rather than "intellectual and hard" plays he found on the modern stage.

Britons Watchful

Germany had intimated that it would not bomb Britain during the Christmas period if British planes refrained from attacking Germany reached London too late Christmas eve for the afternoon papers. The British Broadcasting company did not broadcast it, and as is customary in Britain the newspapers did not publish Christmas day and are not publishing today. Today is also a holiday—"boxing day."

The result was that while Britons knew that in their own localities there had been no bombing since dawn Christmas eve, they had no way of knowing that both British and German planes had been grounded for more than 48 hours, so far as normal bombing activities were concerned.

Crew Is Captured

One German reconnaissance plane did fly over the Orkney islands, in the vicinity of Britain's Scapa Flow naval base, Christmas day. Fleet air arm and air force fighter planes spotted it, forced it down and made the four men of its crew prisoners. It was the first time in months a German plane had been reported over the Orkneys.

All German radio stations were on the air last night, and British stations broadcast programs at full strength, including a dance band program relayed from the United States.

Late Christmas Mail Keeping Postoffice Force Busy Here

Four extra mail trucks were being used this morning to deliver the Christmas packages that remained undelivered from Tuesday night's trains and from mail arriving Christmas day, said Postmaster Amos Howard.

Ten extra clerks, a number of them needed to take care of vacancies, were working, Howard said. Nine men were out with the flu.

Most Trains Light

Late trains Tuesday brought a heavy mail, which had to be held over until Thursday morning before being delivered. All trains Wednesday were light, except Santa Fe No. 94, which had a heavy movement.

Two special delivery carriers Wednesday delivered between 500 and 600 special delivery letters and parcels. The men worked all day.

Packages that had arrived here before Dec. 20 and which could not be delivered, were taken out by package carriers Thursday morning in an effort to deliver them.

Records Broken

Cancellation records of previous years were broken; the totals for four days exceeding any four day period in previous years. On two days the machine cancelled over 70,000 letters and cards and on the other two days the numbers were between 60,000 and 65,000.

A surprisingly small number of undelivered packages was on hand Thursday, due to the persons to whom they were addressed having moved away and left no forwarding address.

Senator Austin (R-Vt), acting minority leader, asserted that there should be a substantial reduction in non-defense expenditures, but added that "relief is the poorest place to begin." Many families still are in need, he said.

Senator Ball (R-Minn) said that it should be possible to reduce the over-all relief outlay, but added that the middle west still was in great need of WPA money.

New Nazi Moves

tween now and Jan. 31.

(Because of the holiday, there was no official comment in Berlin).

The disclosure followed closely news that Russian, German, Italian and Rumanian experts who had been conferring nearly two months in Bucharest finally had gone home after failing to decide which nation or group of nations should control the strategically-important mouths of the Danube river—the reich's supply line to the east.

Russia Stands Firm

Officially, it was said the meetings would be resumed at the end of January, but informed sources declared there was a wide breach between the Axis delegates on the one hand and the Russian representatives on the other, with the latter firmly insisting on Soviet Russian control of the Danube outlets.

Reports from Bucharest quoted Soviet diplomats as declaring openly that the red army was preparing to occupy the mouths of the Danube and the Rumanian province of Moldavia as far west as the Siretul river after the first of the year. The Rumanian police sought to stem an exodus of Moldavian residents by denying what they called these "alarmist rumors."

Turkish Action Looms

Diplomatic sources saw the possibility of action against Turkey in a German "drang nach osten" (drive to the east), or that the Nazis were contemplating aid to the hard-pressed Italians by attacking Greece through Bulgaria.

The theory that the Nazi troop movements concerned Russia was given some color by reports of travelers from Germany, who said rail traffic in the eastern part of the reich was being disrupted by the passage of troop trains toward the Soviet frontier and into Slovakia.

nation.

Stephen Early, press secretary, indicated the speech would also deal rather comprehensively with administration efforts to speed up domestic production of war materials.

Others On List

Others were Douglas Fairbanks, jr., motion picture actor; Mayor Maury Maverick of San Antonio, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, mother-in-law of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh; Dorothy Thompson, columnist; Walter Wanger, motion picture producer, Frederick C. Walcott, former Republican senator from Connecticut and Dr. James R. Angell, former president of Yale.

"A too prevalent indifference and apathy toward what is happening in the world and the threat to our own vital national interests prompts us to write you this letter," the communication began.

"Many Americans understand the dark consequences to us, to freedom and to democracy here, to the foundations of American institutions, should the Axis powers gain the supremacy of the seas. But many, far too many, do not understand, a few do not want to understand.

Blinding Us To Peril

"If, before 1938, ignorance and lethargy and disbelief brought many European democracies to their grave and led the United Kingdom to the thin edge of disaster, so ignorance and lethargy and disbelief are blinding us to our own peril. This ignorance, this lethargy, and this disbelief must be swept away before it is too late. There may be only a little time left.

"You led us splendidly during the critical days of late spring and early fall, we ask you to give us the same splendid leadership now.

"We ask you to clarify once more, but perhaps in greater detail, the nature of the conflict which threatens to wipe out the sort of Christian civilization in which men may be free from the restraints of intolerance, from the fear of injustice and from the menace of arbitrary power.

"We ask you to inform us, clearly and boldly, of the possibilities of English failure and of the consequences to us and to our children's children should Britain fail."

bases in the area, controlling the roads north to Berat and west to Valona, but the Greeks still had not announced the occupation of either town. Both were reported still within range of Italian artillery. The government spokesman did not specify any positions taken by the Greeks, except to say that they had won some strongly fortified mountain emplacements west of the Drinos river, where they routed Italian Alpini at bayonet point and captured eight cannons and 10 heavy machine guns.

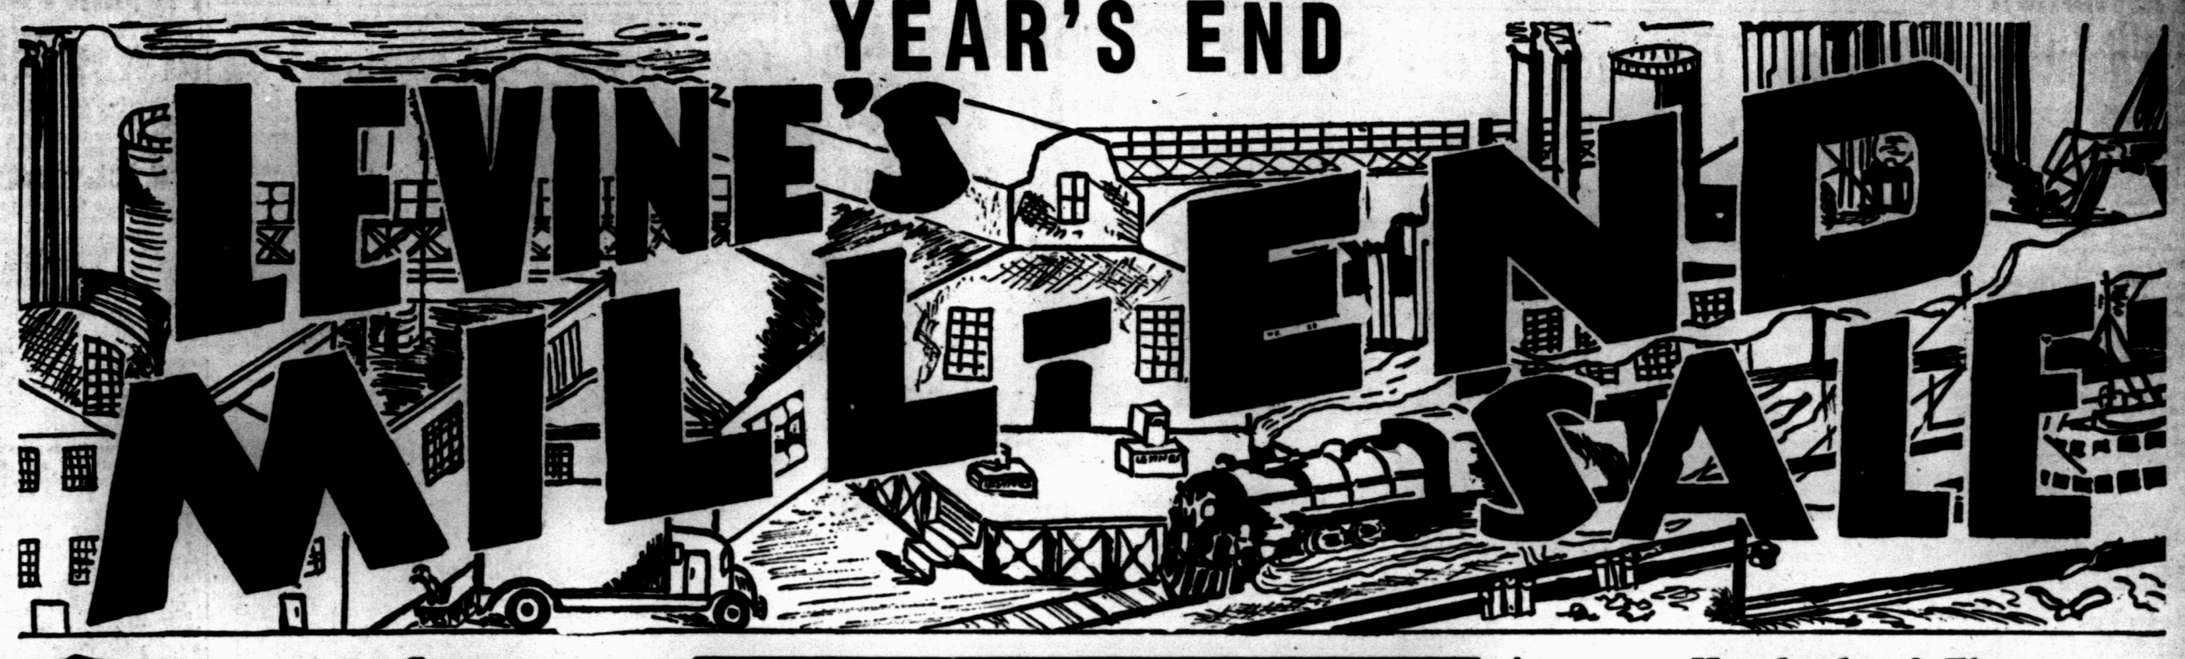

In the south coastal sector, the Greeks were reported forging ahead from Chimara toward Valona, 30 miles north. Mary Merlin, United Press correspondent with the Greek troops at Chimara, reported that the rumble of heavy artillery across the hills in the direction of Valona could be heard above the chant of the choir at Christmas eve church services.

A public security ministry communique said that Italian air raiders killed 15 and wounded more than 30 persons at Corfu, Ionian island capital, Christmas day.

Funeral For Lubbock Man Killed In Crash To Be Held At Bowie

A. B. Davis Is Death Victim

Funeral services for Albert B. Davis, 53, newsstand operator and cotton buyer of Lubbock who was killed instantly in a head-on automobile collision a few miles west of Benjamin about 7 o'clock Christmas night, will be conducted in Bowie.

According to Associated Press dispatch from Benjamin, the body was to be taken overland to Bowie. Further arrangements had not been announced.

Others Are Injured

Davis and his two sons, Fulton and Joe, of Lubbock, were returning from a trip to Wichita Falls when the accident occurred. The two sons and two men going to Wichita Falls were injured in the accident.

Fulton Davis, about 28, suffered a broken collar bone, severe leg injury and deep cut, according to information received here. Joe, about 23, suffered fractured ribs and a fractured ankle. They were being taken to Wichita Falls in an ambulance this morning.

Believed Gravely Hurt

Ralph Samson and Paul Samson, his brother, were others injured in the accident. Paul was believed gravely injured of a skull fracture or concussion and was in Knox County hospital in Knox City. His brother was less seriously injured. They were en route from California to the home of their father near Wichita Falls.

Because of condition of the injured, details of the accident had not been learned by investigating authorities.

Fulton Davis and his father operated Arcadia news stand.

Survivors of Davis, besides the wife and two sons, include two sisters, Mrs. Clark Greenwood of Lubbock and Mrs. Harve Miller of Sunset, and two brothers, J. W. of Sunset and Ben Davis of Bellevue.

Had Been To Wichita

Sheriff Louis Cartwright of Knox county, said the Lubbock men had been to Wichita Falls, where Mrs. A. B. Davis had been taken to visit a relative who was ill. The other machine was proceeding eastward on the Lubbock-Fort Worth highway.

The impact was "right in the middle of an 11-mile stretch of concrete road that doesn't have a turn in it," said the sheriff, who ascribed possible cause of the collision to the approach of another vehicle and that car's lights.

It was deemed likely that Davis' sons and Ralph Sansom would recover from their injuries.

J. D. Haygood of Lubbock told a graphic story of the wreck.

"I happened along just after it," he said. "The engine of the Davis car was driven back and the body of Davis was wedged between the engine and the front seat.

Cars Almost Demolished

"He was dead; we could tell that. We concentrated our attention on removing the others. The Davis boys were placed in Sheriff Cartwright's car and rushed to the hospital. The others were put in an ambulance. Deputy Sheriff Orville Capeheart and members of the maintenance division of the highway department remained at the scene of wreckage, cleared the road and kept traffic moving to prevent other mishaps.

"Fulton Davis, who is manager of Arcadia newsstand, complained that his right leg hurt. It appeared to have been broken.

"I never saw such results of a collision. Both cars were almost demolished."

Stop To Aid

With Haygood were Mrs. Haygood and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Horne, all of Lubbock.

"And before we left the scene I saw Thurman R. White and Bonner Cummings, also of Lubbock. All had stopped to do what they could."

Mr. Davis lived at 1963 Texas avenue. He had lived in Lubbock 12 years.

Haygood referred to Davis as "Ab" Davis. He said Davis had been in Lubbock at least 10 years, having moved there from Bowie.

house said "It certainly was grand of you to come down and see me."

He wore a heavy tan flannel bathrobe held together by a leather belt, a blue turtle-neck sweater, a pepper-and-salt sports coat and trousers and a pair of knit gloves and carried a three-inch stack of sheets of paper, the draft of his new, untitled book.

"I was in Le Touquet," he said in a soft English voice, "where I have had a villa since 1934. I was cut off, of course, by the speed of the German advance. About May 22 we had our first sign that the war really was in progress.

"At that time I heard that a German army doctor was making inspection trips, around my district; then I began to see a few bicycle riders, and then suddenly the countryside was occupied by German troops.

"Before I really could do anything, the war was over for me."

Wodehouse and several other British subjects were picked up July 21 by German officials and sent to a prison at Loos. There, Wodehouse said, they were turned over to French police, who treated them as criminal prisoners and allowed them out of their cells for only one hour out of each 24.

"The German commander came to inspect," the author related, "and swept through the place like the east wind. He raised hell."

Shortly afterward the group was sent to Huis, Belgium, where they spent five weeks. From there they were transported to their present camp. A group of red brick buildings with barred windows which formerly was an insane asylum.

Death Claims Theater Dean

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Daniel Frohman, 89, dean of American stage producers, died at 6:15 a.m. (CST) today in the Leroy sanitarium of complications following a fall.

Frohman, one of the most distinguished figures in the history of the American theater, had been in the sanitarium since Nov. 4, when he broke his right hip in a fall in his hotel suite.

Developed Many Stars

The veteran producer, who helped develop many of the leading stage stars for more than two generations, kept an unflagging interest in the stage, although he had been professionally inactive for many years.

He retained a studio over the Lyceum theater and lined its walls with hundreds of autographed photos and handbills reminiscent of a bygone day when he and his brother, Charles Frohman—who died in the sinking of the Lusitania during the World war—were the nation's leading producers.

Wrote Own Obituary

He kept in touch with the footlight folk, as president of the Actor's Fund, a philanthropic organization.

Only two years ago—in April 1938—he wrote his own obituary and sent it to newspapers with this note:

"I enclose an article for your mortuary department. As I may soon pass away, you may want these facts."

Anxious reporters, sent to investigate the state of his health, found him comfortably lounging in his old leather chair, enjoying a cigar.

Assuring them he felt "fit as can be," he added:

"I just thought the newspapers might be interested. I might be run down by an auto, you know. Certainly I feel fine, but you can't live forever."

Saved From Ejection

A year ago, when the mortgage fell due on the theater studio in which Frohman, at that time, made his home, the aged producer was saved from ejection by the intervention of a friendly banker, who said Frohman could remain in the apartment as long as he lived.

Once a copy boy for the old New York Tribune, when Horace Greeley was editor of the paper, Frohman traced the beginning of his interest in the theater to a visit to the P. T. Barnum museum in New York shortly after the Civil war.

He believed that public taste in the theater completed a cycle every 20 years, and a few years ago foresaw a swing backward to romance in the theater, rather than "intellectual and hard" plays he found on the modern stage.

Britons Watchful

Germany had intimated that it would not bomb Britain during the Christmas period if British planes refrained from attacking Germany reached London too late Christmas eve for the afternoon papers. The British Broadcasting company did not broadcast it, and as is customary in Britain the newspapers did not publish Christmas day and are not publishing today. Today is also a holiday—"boxing day."

The result was that while Britons knew that in their own localities there had been no bombing since dawn Christmas eve, they had no way of knowing that both British and German planes had been grounded for more than 48 hours, so far as normal bombing activities were concerned.

Crew Is Captured

One German reconnaissance plane did fly over the Orkney islands, in the vicinity of Britain's Scapa Flow naval base, Christmas day. Fleet air arm and air force fighter planes spotted it, forced it down and made the four men of its crew prisoners. It was the first time in months a German plane had been reported over the Orkneys.

All German radio stations were on the air last night, and British stations broadcast programs at full strength, including a dance band program relayed from the United States.

Late Christmas Mail Keeping Postoffice Force Busy Here

Four extra mail trucks were being used this morning to deliver the Christmas packages that remained undelivered from Tuesday night's trains and from mail arriving Christmas day, said Postmaster Amos Howard.

Ten extra clerks, a number of them needed to take care of vacancies, were working, Howard said. Nine men were out with the flu.

Most Trains Light

Late trains Tuesday brought a heavy mail, which had to be held over until Thursday morning before being delivered. All trains Wednesday were light, except Santa Fe No. 94, which had a heavy movement.

Two special delivery carriers Wednesday delivered between 500 and 600 special delivery letters and parcels. The men worked all day.

Packages that had arrived here before Dec. 20 and which could not be delivered, were taken out by package carriers Thursday morning in an effort to deliver them.

Records Broken

Cancellation records of previous years were broken; the totals for four days exceeding any four day period in previous years. On two days the machine cancelled over 70,000 letters and cards and on the other two days the numbers were between 60,000 and 65,000.

A surprisingly small number of undelivered packages was on hand Thursday, due to the persons to whom they were addressed having moved away and left no forwarding address.

relief rolls were not qualified for jobs in defense industries.

Senator Austin (R-Vt), acting minority leader, asserted that there should be a substantial reduction in non-defense expenditures, but added that "relief is the poorest place to begin." Many families still are in need, he said.

Senator Ball (R-Minn) said that it should be possible to reduce the over-all relief outlay, but added that the middle west still was in great need of WPA money.

New Nazi Moves

tween now and Jan. 31.

(Because of the holiday, there was no official comment in Berlin).

The disclosure followed closely news that Russian, German, Italian and Rumanian experts who had been conferring nearly two months in Bucharest finally had gone home after failing to decide which nation or group of nations should control the strategically-important mouths of the Danube river—the reich's supply line to the east.

Russia Stands Firm

Officially, it was said the meetings would be resumed at the end of January, but informed sources declared there was a wide breach between the Axis delegates on the one hand and the Russian representatives on the other, with the latter firmly insisting on Soviet Russian control of the Danube outlets.

Reports from Bucharest quoted Soviet diplomats as declaring openly that the red army was preparing to occupy the mouths of the Danube and the Rumanian province of Moldavia as far west as the Siretul river after the first of the year. The Rumanian police sought to stem an exodus of Moldavian residents by denying what they called these "alarmist rumors."

Turkish Action Looms

Diplomatic sources saw the possibility of action against Turkey in a German "drang nach osten" (drive to the east), or that the Nazis were contemplating aid to the hard-pressed Italians by attacking Greece through Bulgaria.

The theory that the Nazi troop movements concerned Russia was given some color by reports of travelers from Germany, who said rail traffic in the eastern part of the reich was being disrupted by the passage of troop trains toward the Soviet frontier and into Slovakia.

nation.

Stephen Early, press secretary, indicated the speech would also deal rather comprehensively with administration efforts to speed up domestic production of war materials.

Others On List

Others were Douglas Fairbanks, jr., motion picture actor; Mayor Maury Maverick of San Antonio, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, mother-in-law of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh; Dorothy Thompson, columnist; Walter Wanger, motion picture producer, Frederick C. Walcott, former Republican senator from Connecticut and Dr. James R. Angell, former president of Yale.

"A too prevalent indifference and apathy toward what is happening in the world and the threat to our own vital national interests prompts us to write you this letter," the communication began.

"Many Americans understand the dark consequences to us, to freedom and to democracy here, to the foundations of American institutions, should the Axis powers gain the supremacy of the seas. But many, far too many, do not understand, a few do not want to understand.

Blinding Us To Peril

"If, before 1938, ignorance and lethargy and disbelief brought many European democracies to their grave and led the United Kingdom to the thin edge of disaster, so ignorance and lethargy and disbelief are blinding us to our own peril. This ignorance, this lethargy, and this disbelief must be swept away before it is too late. There may be only a little time left.

"You led us splendidly during the critical days of late spring and early fall, we ask you to give us the same splendid leadership now.

"We ask you to clarify once more, but perhaps in greater detail, the nature of the conflict which threatens to wipe out the sort of Christian civilization in which men may be free from the restraints of intolerance, from the fear of injustice and from the menace of arbitrary power.

"We ask you to inform us, clearly and boldly, of the possibilities of English failure and of the consequences to us and to our children's children should Britain fail."

bases in the area, controlling the roads north to Berat and west to Valona, but the Greeks still had not announced the occupation of either town. Both were reported still within range of Italian artillery. The government spokesman did not specify any positions taken by the Greeks, except to say that they had won some strongly fortified mountain emplacements west of the Drinos river, where they routed Italian Alpini at bayonet point and captured eight cannons and 10 heavy machine guns.

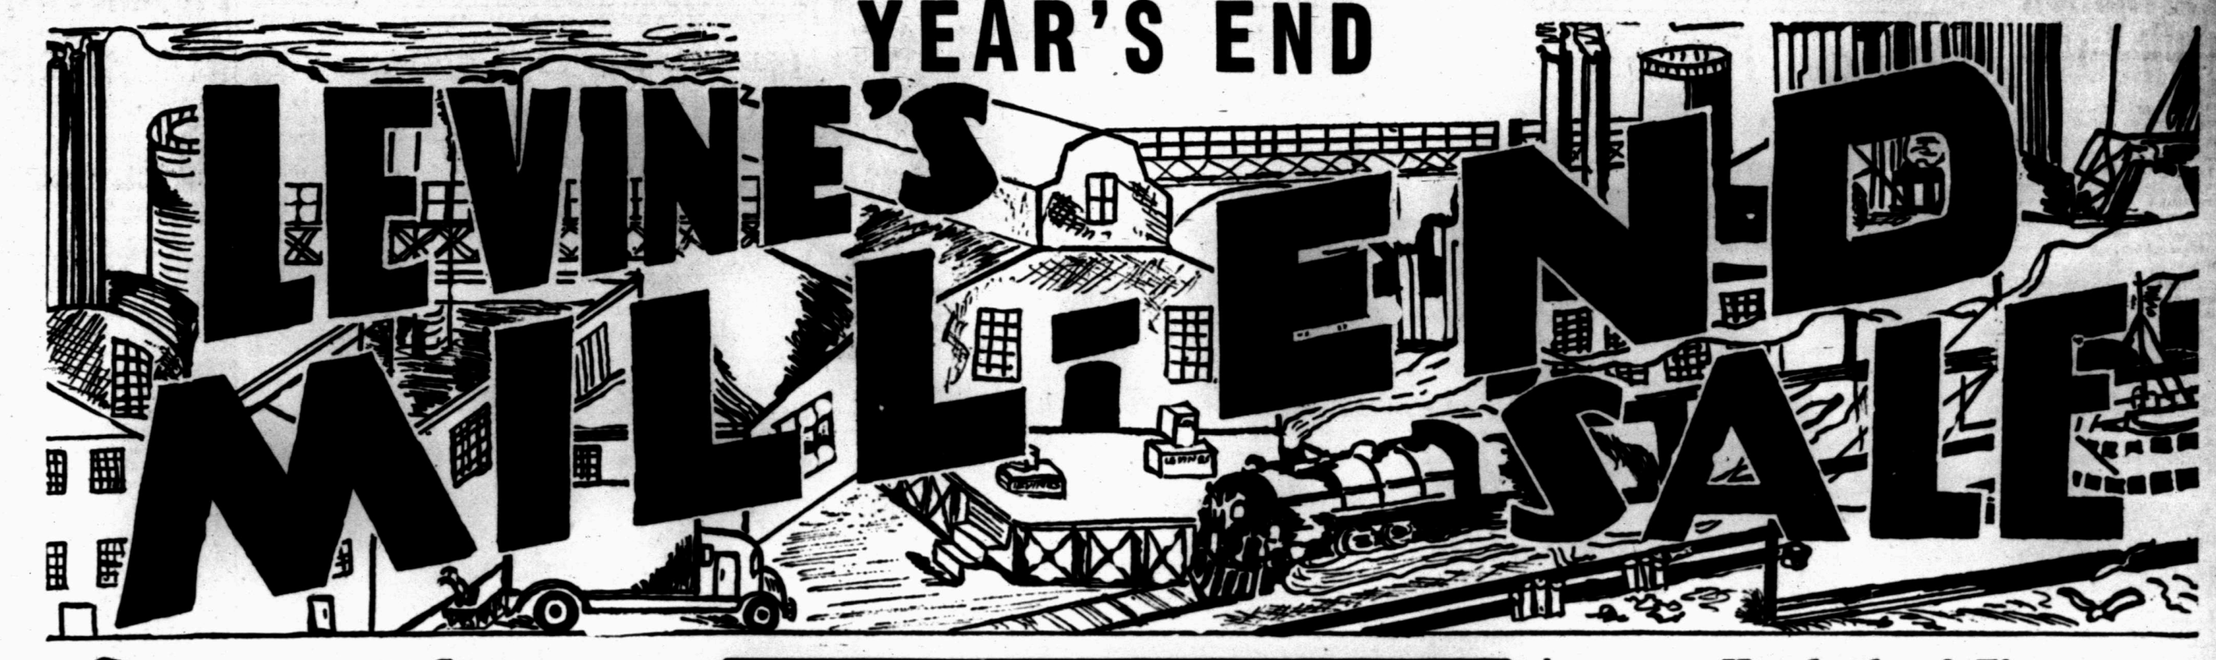

In the south coastal sector, the Greeks were reported forging ahead from Chimara toward Valona, 30 miles north. Mary Merlin, United Press correspondent with the Greek troops at Chimara, reported that the rumble of heavy artillery across the hills in the direction of Valona could be heard above the chant of the choir at Christmas eve church services.

A public security ministry communique said that Italian air raiders killed 15 and wounded more than 30 persons at Corfu, Ionian island capital, Christmas day.

Red Raiders Invade Oklahoma City; Tangle With Warrensburg Five Tonight

Techsans Play In Invitation Tournament

(Special To The Journal)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 26 — Texas Tech's Red Raiders, runners-up last season, start shooting for top honors in the Oklahoma City All-College basketball tournament tonight when they engage the Warrensburg Teachers college Mules in a first-round game. The contest starts at 7:45 o'clock.

The Raiders last played the Mules here a year ago in the semi-finals of the 1939 tournament. Tech won that game, 32 to 30, but lost to the Oklahoma Aggies in the finals, 34-37.

Must Win Four Straight

The game is one of eight to be played the opening day. Each of the 16 teams entered will play four games in the tournament, whether they win or lose. To win the tournament title, a team must win four consecutive contests.

Coach Berl Huffman and his Tech cagers, 10 strong, arrived here late last night. Players making the trip are Capt. J. B. White, Jake Geron, Elvis Erwin, Bob Andis, Frosty Cox, Ed Irons, Gabe Gilley, Norman Volz, Byron Gilbreath and Lewis Locke.

Sixteen Teams Are Entered In Event

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 26 (AP)—Sixteen teams from six states will see action this afternoon and tonight in the first round of the fourth annual All-College basketball tournament at Municipal auditorium here.

Texas teams total six, with five entries from Oklahoma, two from Missouri, and one each from New Mexico, Wyoming and Kansas.

Quarter-finals in the tournament will be played Friday night, semi-finals will be Saturday night, and finals on Monday night.

Teams eliminated will play out their bracket in reverse order so there will be eight games each day.

Pairings Thursday afternoon:

West Texas State Teachers, vs University of Tulsa.

Southeastern (Okla.) State, Durant, vs. Baylor.

East Central (Okla.) State, Ada, vs. New Mexico Mines, Socorro.

Oklahoma City University vs. University of Wyoming, Laramie.

Pairings Thursday night:

Springfield, Mo., Teachers, vs University of Texas.

Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers, vs Texas Tech.

Oklahoma Aggies, Stillwater, vs. Texas Aggies.

Texas Christian, vs. Pittsburg, Kan., Teachers.

Fist Fight Enlivens Jockeys' Title Feud

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 26. (AP)—A fist fight added tension today to the ding-dong race between Earl Dew and Walter Lee Taylor for the 1940 American jockey championship.

Tropical Park stewards called the youngsters on the carpet for an explanation of the altercation in the jockeys' quarters after the third race yesterday.

Taylor has gained ground since the opening of the Tropical meeting and Dew was ahead by only three winning races—283 to 280—at the conclusion of the Christmas program.

Race Sets Stage

Both finished out of the money in the race that apparently set the stage for the incident. Dew was riding Molest and Taylor was astride Best Quality.

Dew came up on the outside of Taylor and the horses were side by side for a moment. There was a flurry of action before they separated.

Both jockeys unsaddled and weighed in without exchanging a word, but fists started flying when they reached the jockey room entrance. Neither was injured before other riders intervened.

Southwest All-Star Eleven Is Winner

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 26 (AP)—They had an air show here yesterday but it was with footballs and a Southern Methodist university product showed them all the tricks of the trade as the Southwest All-Stars bounced the St. Mary's Rattlers around 34-6 in a game played for the British War Relief fund.

Ray Mallouf, the mighty Mustang, pitched three touchdown passes and his heaves also led to the other two counters.

St. Mary's scored via the airways, Mike Ball passing to Charles Cooney for 37 and to Curt Sandig for 27 yards and a touchdown.

The All-Stars proceeded to score again with little wasted motion.

Rival Teams To "Shoot The Works" In El Paso Classic

Arizona State And Western Reserve Ready For Test

BY HENRY SUPER
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 — Two of America's smaller college elevens—Arizona State at Tempe and Western Reserve of Cleveland—face each other in the Sun Bowl football game at El Paso in what might turn out to be the most thrilling of the New Year's day bowl games.

These teams stress speed and trickery—and the records show they've been pretty successful with that style of play.

Record Very Impressive

Western Reserve lost only to Dayton in an eight-game schedule this year. The "Red Cats" have been coached by "Big Bill" Edwards since 1935 and lost only six games in 56 starts. In 1935, 1936 and 1938 they were unbeaten.

Arizona State Teachers college is coached by Dixie Howell, former Alabama Rose Bowl star. The Bulldogs won the Border conference title this year for the second straight time and are unbeaten over two seasons in that conference. They also are unbeaten in loop competition for the last two years.

Tempe's Second Trip

In the last two campaigns, the boys from Tempe lost two games—one each year to Hardin-Simmons. This will be Tempe's second trip to El Paso, having played a scoreless tie with Catholic university in the last one. This season, State played 10 games, lost to Hardin-Simmons and tied with Texas Mines and Gonzaga.

In order to get in top shape, Howell is drilling his team in practice sessions against Nebraska which plays Stanford in the Rose Bowl. Howell will continue these sessions until Friday or Saturday after which he'll take his squad to El Paso.

Boasts Speed Galore

Amazing speed has been the keynote of Howell's offense, with a backfield reputed to be the fastest in the country. Four of the conference's top five ground-gainers play for Arizona State—Hascall Henshaw, Joe Hernandez, Ripper Pitts and Bill Davis. Hernandez can turn 100 yards in 9.8 seconds; Henshaw and Davis in 10 and Pitts in 11. Pitts is a crashing fullback who already has been drafted by the Chicago Cardinals in the National football league.

Coach Howell says: "I think we have the speed to win."

Western Reserve is an exponent of the widest of wide-open football. Edwards believes in taking chances and plans to win his games by outscoring the opposition rather than defensive work and playing for a lucky break to pull the team through. Western Reserve uses a single wingback with shift to the left or right in order to consistently change tailbacks.

Will "Shoot The Works"

The star of the team is Dick Booth, a marvelous kicker who averaged 50 yards all season, a fair passer and great runner.

Western Reserve has two weaknesses—its passing offensive is not very good and it is short on good reserves in the line. All season Reserve completed only 21 passes for 299 yards.

Twenty-six players will make the trip west, leaving on Dec. 28. Edwards has ideas of moving up into big time football so he is determined to "shoot the works" at El Paso.

Ho Hum! Indians And Huskers Are Hit With Various 'Ills;' Mentors Also Are Affected

BY HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 26—Clark Shaughnessy left the University of Chicago to get away from six-man football, but now it looks as if that is what he might have to play in the Rose Bowl.

Shaughnessy's Stanford Indians really are the vanishing Americans. They have been vanishing from the practice field to the doctor's office and the hospital at the rate of two and three a day. They're not specializing on any one ailment, either, but rather they are playing the field. Some have had the flu, some have had colds, and some have had both of these plus tendon, ligament and kneecap trouble.

Even Affects Coach

The Stanfords (with a huge Red Cross painted atop their special car, I presume) are scheduled to gather in this city of roses today. In order to carry on an intelligent conversation with the coaching staff and players I have been reading up on medicine in my almanac. From what I've heard the boys don't discuss football much anymore, but spend their time exchanging recipes for cough syrup, discussing the merits of kerosene and sugar, framing their x-ray plates and autographing one another's mustard plasters.

Even Coach Shaughnessy is said to have been influenced by the medical talk, and is considering scrapping the famed T-formation for a Rose Bowl offense based on Harvey's theory of the circulation of the blood.

What a break it would have been for Nebraska if Coach Biff Jones had been far-sighted enough to have engaged a competent doctor to scout the Indians. A doctor could have brought back a much more comprehensive diagnosis than any ordinary football scout.

This may be an extraordinary football game between Stanford and Nebraska on New Year's day, at that. From Phoenix, where the Nebraska team has turned desert rat and is toughening itself by scrimmaging midst the cacti, word comes that sickness and injury have hit the Cornhuskers and that they, too, may stagger into the bowl from the workings of an ambulance.

Flu has hit some of the players and camp followers and there is much coughing and sneezing going on.

Unless the two teams regain their health before kick-off time, certain changes in the rules for the games will have to be made.

For instance, there will have to be a penalty written in for the illegal use of the sneeze. It would be unfair for an ailing tackle on one team to threaten a healthy opposing tackle with a sneeze that might send him to bed for a week with an attack of grippe.

Makes Suggestions

Too, there will have to be a rule against having a back with a head

Bears To Meet Georgia Tech

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—Semi-final five-star special for this season (may be some dope on the bowl games later) is California to beat Georgia Tech Saturday . . . And before some of our pals in Atlanta start writing asbestos letters, we'll explain those Bears were getting better and better every game and Tech wasn't . . . We won't try to pick the winner of the Blue-Gray fuss but wish we could be there . . . They may put on bigger programs and fancier parades some other places, but at Montgomery they're running a fox hunt as an added attraction and in our neck of the woods that's considered tops in real fun.

FAMILY TIES

Out at Kansas State Teachers college at Pittsburg Charley Morgan is head football coach and his sons, Bill and Jack, are first and second string quarterbacks . . . John Lance, jr., and Ray Lance play guards on the basketball team coached by John Lance, sr., and Blair and Pat Chapman make up a pretty fair doubles team for their dad who doubles himself as chemistry prof and tennis coach . . . . Our informant hastens to add that it's all on the up and up, as Bill Morgan is a first string basketballer and brother Jack and John Lance, jr., are track men.

STILL JUST A YOUNGSTER

It wasn't the sage of Shibe park who claimed the first hundred years are the hardest . . . From the way Connie Mack looked and talked when he celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday the other day, he'll still be trying to win pennants with the Athletics when he has a good start on the second hundred . . . So we'll add our timid tribute:

Oh, Connie Mack is seventy-eight.
And some folks think that's pretty late.
To start right from the bottom.
But Connie still thinks baseball's fun;
He'll keep the A's all on the run
Till baseball ends next autumn.

ANOTHER GRID GAME

Sandies, Cats Are Wary Of Superstitions

BY TOM W. MILLER
United Press Sports Writer

The weatherman turned loose his gloomiest weather today all over North Texas, but every drop of rain that spattered down at Dallas, site of the state championship Amarillo-Temple football game Saturday, was a gift from heaven to Wildcat Coach Les Cranfill.

His boys like the mud.

Good Luck Sign?

Temple edged past Stephenville in the bi-district on a wet field. The Wildcats plastered Longview in the quarter-finals in a sea of mud. It rained the morning of their overwhelming semi-final victory over Corpus Christi.

Now came dripping skies to Dallas just two days before the big collision of the two power-loaded teams.

Maybe there is not much to omens, but Coach Cranfill's father-in-law, "Pop" Kendall, thinks so.

Word came from Temple that "Ebony" dropped by Kendall's home last night, so, according to him, the Wildcats are "a pure cinch" against Amarillo's favored Sandies.

The black cat paid a visit to Kendall's back door the night before the Stephenville game. Its insistent "meows" attracted his attention; he fed it and the cat went away.

Can't Lose Now

Temple squeezed by Stephenville, so Kendall decided the cat was lucky. He tried to find it in the neighborhood. No luck.

Then the night before the Longview game, the black omen appeared again. Next day was "cat's day." Friday the 13th. Temple won 24-13.

This performance convinced "Pop." He anxiously awaited "Ebony's" return. The cat returned Tuesday of last week, before the Corpus Christi game. It found its weekly meal ready.

The luck-bringer popped up again last night, so the Temple coach's father-in-law thinks the Wildcats can't lose now.

The story sounds fantastic but Kendall tells it convincingly, and Temple—the underdog, comeback team that arrived from nowhere—has kept on winning.

Talking about luck, omens and the like, there's one strong one in favor of the unbeaten, untied Sandies.

The Amarillo boys will play in the white jerseys they like so well. Temple will wear solid blue jerseys.

Won On Toss

This arrangement came about during the three-hour conference at Fort Worth Sunday between representatives of the two schools to decide site of the 21st Interscholastic league title game and other details incidental to it.

Temple lost the matching when the matter of jerseys came up. Amarillo will wear black pants with white jerseys. The Wildcats will have new solid blue jerseys with white numerals, but will don their old, campaign-worn blue pants.

Harry Stiteler, coach of the Corpus Christi Buccaneers who were crushed 28 to 0 last week by Temple, is going to see the game at Dallas' Cotton Bowl and will be rooting for Temple.

He telephoned Les Cranfill to get him six tickets and at the same time wished the Temple team luck.

Amarillo and Temple agreed that the half-time intermission will be 20 minutes, so that both team bands and pep squads will have sufficient time to put on their stunts.

Year's Golf Play Contributed Thrills; Sarazen Comes Back

BY LARRY ROLLINS
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 26.—It was a corking year in big time golf—with the professional experts shooting at $162,000 in prize money—but the 1940 campaign was not without its oddities and disappointments.

* * *

Fred J. Corcoran, tournament bureau manager for the Professional Golfers association, delved into his memories of the dizzy business for a flock of superlatives:

Wood Sets Record

Most controversial incident—Ed Oliver's disqualification after coming early to tee in the National Open. Remember how Oliver teed off before his designated time, then played out his disallowed final round for a 287 that would have tied for the title?

Lowest 72-hole score — Craig Wood's 64-66-68-66 — 264 for a world record over a championship course to win the Metropolitan Open by 11 strokes.

Greatest comeback — Gene Sarazen, after all these years, by tieing in the National Open. (Lawson Little won the playoff with 70 to Sarazen's 73.)

Picard's Shot Greatest

Outstanding performer—Ben Hogan, who won the most money, $10,655, and captured the Vardon trophy with an 18-hole average of 70.53 for 75 rounds.

Funniest Incident—Clayton Heafner climbing a tree to find his ball after hitting a wild shot in the Oakland Open.

Greatest shot—Henry Picard's 195-yard tee shot within ten inches of the cup under pressure as defending champion in the P.G.A. tournament. Three down to Sarazen with three holes to go, Picard finished with three birdies but lost when Sarazen sank a 15-foot putt for a half.

Little In Limelight

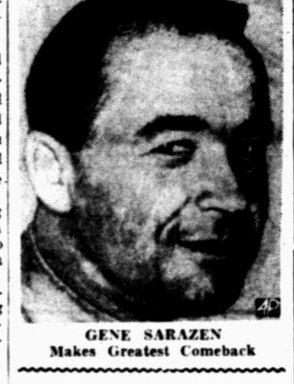

Lowest 18-hole score—Ed Dudley's eight-under-par 62 in Philadelphia sectional qualifying for the P.G.A. championship.

Best match—Byron Nelson's one up victory over Sam Snead in the P.G.A. finals.

Greatest finish—Lawson Little's final 65 to win the Los Angeles Open after trailing by five strokes entering the last round.

Toughest luck player—Clayton Heafner, who just missed winning three tournaments, losing by a stroke each time.

Many persons of a superstitious nature still bow to the moon when first they see it, and turn the coins in their pockets.

GENE SARAZEN
Makes Greatest Comeback

Amarillo To Leave Tonight For Game

DALLAS, Dec. 26 (AP)—The Amarillo Sandies, 37 strong, start tonight on their trek to Dallas to keep a date with the Temple Wildcats in the state schoolboy football final.

They will break the trip with a stop-off for a workout tomorrow afternoon at Fort Worth, also spending the night there.

Meantime, Temple remained at home for workouts today and tomorrow and Coach Les Cranfill said he was uncertain when to take the squad to Dallas but the Wildcats probably would arrive tomorrow night.

Mehle To Shoot For Four-Minute Mile

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 26 (AP)—Walter Mehle, an earnest young man who set an American 1,500-meter record the last time he ran a race, believes that in 1941 he will achieve that shining goal of the middle distances—a four-minute mile.

The only reason it hasn't been done already, he declared today is that no other runner has thought it possible, and therefore hasn't really tried it. The fastest mile ever recorded was four minutes, four seconds by Glenn Cunningham.

"I've been studying this thing for several years," said the blond former Wisconsin athlete who will run the mile in the Sugar Bowl meet here Sunday.

"I think I can do it this coming season, or next.

"I don't mean I'm necessarily the chosen one, as there are others who could do it, but I'm definitely counting on it."

Blaik To Take Pigskin Post At West Point

(By The Associated Press)

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 26—For the first time since the early days of football at West Point, Army's team will be directed by civilian coaches next fall.

The defense program has brought about the change.

Earl (Red) Blaik, former Army player and coach who is quite familiar with the army system and regulations, will return from Dartmouth, where he has been head coach since 1934, and bring his entire staff of assistants.

Former Army Men

The staff includes Harry O. (Pat) Ellinger, Army guard in the early 1920's, and Frank Moore, trained by Captain "Biff" Jones, former Army head coach, so there won't be a complete break with the Army tradition of graduate coaching. Others coming from Dartmouth are Andy Gustafson, backfield coach, and Averell Daniell, assistant line coach, both University of Pittsburgh graduates. Trainer Rollins Bevans also will make the change.

In announcing the break in the policy of having officer-coached teams, Brigadier General Robert L. Eichelberger, military academy superintendent, said yesterday, "The uncertainty of being able to secure the desired army officer football coaches during the existing national emergency was one factor considered in making the change."

The coaching shift was indicated recently when Captain Bill Wood, who coached the unsuccessful 1940 team, was assigned to active duty.

Arkansas Favoring Aggies Over Rams

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Dec. 26. (AP)—Arkansas, which met and lost to both teams, thinks the Texas Aggies will defeat Fordham in the Cotton Bowl.

"I would take the Aggies and spot Fordham 10 points," said Gene Lambert, scout and assistant coach.

He was the most enthusiastic Aggie supporter among the Razorback coaching staff and grid squad, but nearly everyone connected with the team thought the Texans would be too much for the New Yorkers.

Several of the coaches thought Fordham's chances would rise on the Rams' pass defense, which they predicted the Aggies would solve, and line play.

"Fordham has never really been subjected to the passing of the Southwest conference."

Arkansas lost to Texas A&M, 17 to 0 and was beaten by Fordham 27 to 7.

NEBRASKA STOCK RISING

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 26. (AP)—Stanford's mighty Indians rolled into the Rose Bowl front today and found a rapidly mounting wave of enthusiasm for—not themselves—but Nebraska!

Loyal Stanford backers remained firm in the belief that the magic of Clark Shaughnessy's big red team from the farm would continue through New Year's day, but there has been a marked revision of estimates about the Nebraska team by many impartial observers in the past few days.

MacKenzie Says Peace May Come When People Tire Of Slaughter

Scribe's Faith Is Bolstered

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

It was a grand thing to see a tacit Christmas truce observed over yonder—sort of bolsters up a fellow's faith in mankind.

Sure, any cynic could figure out plenty of trickery the belligerents could resort to during such a cessation of bombing. But personally I'm not willing to admit that human nature is so far gone as to use Christ's birthday in such a manner.

It's more satisfying to be one of those optimistic lightweights who believe that civilization isn't going to die despite its grevious illness. Reminds me of an incident I encountered in the World war during the bloody battle of Passchendaele.

Pessimism Ruled Supreme

It had been a terrible day. Men were dying by thousands and there was no end to the wounded. We war correspondents were at our evening meal—a gloomy affair for we were dog-tired and dispirited by the awfulness of it all. One of the men spoke up and his voice was bitter:

"The whole world has gone crazy with the war lust. Christianity is as dead as a door-nail, and men are going out to slaughter one another for the pure joy of killing."

Captain Relates Story

There was silence for a bit, and then Captain C. E. Montague, the famous English writer—a kindly soul of great breadth of vision—answered with a story of a simple little scene he had noted that day at an emergency dressing station.

A wounded British Tommy came trudging in. He was leading a German prisoner who also was wounded—just a boy of seventeen or so. Tommy had been in a hot fight and already had accounted for three or four of the enemy when he came upon the youngster. The boy was frightened but he managed to shoot Tommy through the arm, and then prepared to use his bayonet.

Didn't Have Heart

The Briton was seeing red by this time, and was as near the brute stage as he ever could get. He had been fighting hand to hand; he had killed, and here was another who was trying to kill him. However, Tommy threw his rifle down, closed with the German boy and disarmed him. Somebody asked the cockney why he hadn't killed the German.

"You see, sir," apologized Tommy, "'E was such a little begger I didn't 'ave the 'eart to do it."

That was all, but it settled the argument.

Truce Arranged

There was an unofficial truce the first Christmas of the World war—spontaneous affair arranged by the men themselves. They left their trenches and fraternized—even played football in no-man's land.

But the powers that be quickly put a stop to that sort of thing. The idea was that the boys were there to kill each other, and not to swap cigarettes and food from the Christmas boxes which they had received from home.

I've seen a lot of war at first-hand, and the further I've gone the more convinced I've become that the average man of any civilized country hates bloodshed. Wars are made not by the people but by the ambitious throw-backs to barbarism who happen to be in positions of control. You can't tell me that the father of babies no matter what his race or nationality, gets joy out of dropping bombs on defenseless women and children.

Queen's Words Considered

All that being true you'd think there ought to be some way of making peace. Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, in a message to her people yesterday from her exile in London, said of peace prospects:

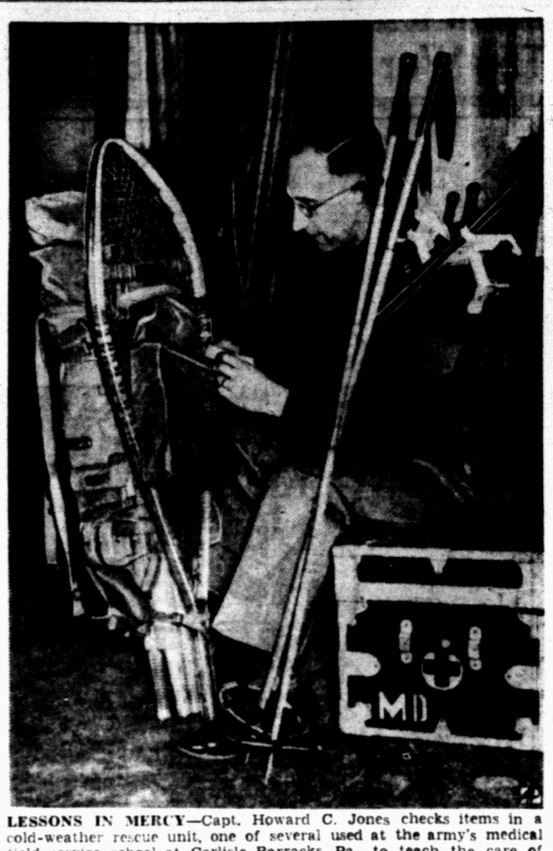

"Having followed the course of events with tense attention, I believe myself to be in a position to tell you that in recent months prospects have greatly improved."

It would be interesting to know whether she meant that prospects had improved because of Britain's recent successes, or whether she had something else in mind.

As has been said before in this column, I believe that peace probably will come finally through the refusal of one of the peoples to march further through the valley of the shadow of death.

DIFFICULT

A trip to the moon would entail such difficulties as leaving the earth, which is traveling 70,000 miles an hour, and landing on a body which is moving around us at the rate of 2300 miles an hour.

LESSONS IN MERCY—Capt. Howard C. Jones checks items in a cold-weather rescue unit, one of several used at the army's medical field service school at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., to teach the care of soldiers wounded in battle.

TOWN GETS PETTICOAT RULE

Church Painted In 52 Minutes

BROOKLAWN, N. J., (U.P.)—When the Brooklawn Methodist church needed a new coat of paint, the Rev. Albert Lang, pastor, appealed to borough residents for aid. Sixty men, including borough officials and members of a local American Legion post, answered the call. At a signal from the pastor, they went to work and finished the job in 52 minutes.

Pumps Manned For Lobsters

TULSA, Dec. 26.—Rep. Wesley Disney suggested last night that private industry should construct a $20,000,000 airline toll highway between Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

"I am for building a toll road, a defense highway between Tulsa and Oklahoma City, not at public expense, but by private industry," he said.

"Let private industry do these things instead of socking a bill to the taxpayers. And private industry could make a legitimate profit out of it."

Turned Over To State

He said that after the highway was paid for out of tolls collected, and the builders of the road had realized a legitimate profit, then the ownership of the highway should be turned to the state.

"Recently I traveled on the big toll road from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh, Pa. I paid a toll of only 90 cents for a 116-mile drive.

"The public apparently is glad to pay tolls for roads, bridges and other improvements which revert to the state as free after they are paid for."

Would Be Six-Lane

He said tolls on such a highway between Tulsa and Oklahoma City probably would be comparable to those on the Pennsylvania road.

"The construction of a six-lane toll road here would be much easier and less expensive than the Harrisburg-Pittsburgh road," he said.

He declared such a highway between Tulsa and Oklahoma City would be less than 100 miles long.

Disney said he planned to write a letter to Chairman Sandy Singleton of the state highway commission and to talk to Tulsa county's state legislative delegation about the matter.

Need Authorization

It would be necessary, he said, for the state legislature to authorize the organization of such a project and give the road builders power to condemn property for right of way and to issue securities to finance it.

"I am anxious to get away from the idea of going to the federal government to get everything we want. Private industry has credit and it should do this in cooperation with the state," he added.

A substitute will have to be given permission to break in the huddle before one play is run, because the coach may have sent him in to warn a teammate that it is time for him to take his aspirin or to put drops up his nose. And when the two captains meet before the kickoff for the toss the one whose thermometer shows the higher temperature should be given his choice. His choice of goals, that is, because if given his real choice he might upset things by saying I'll defend the south bed in the Pasadena clinic, and leave the game flat.

Meacham Rites Are Read In City Today

Last rites for W. B. Meacham were conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Rix chapel, with Dr. Jack M. Lewis of the First Presbyterian church officiating.

Rix Funeral home announced this morning burial would be in a Lubbock cemetery.

The 75-year-old McKinney resident and father of Mrs. Wylie Briscoe and Mrs. Mildred Hill, both of 1627 Main street, died Tuesday in Lubbock, of a paralytic stroke.

Other survivors are four sons and a sister.

AMERICA'S 1940 draftees, or trainees, according to one's preference in "ees," are smart.

They are so smart that they are surprising the psychologists who are testing their smartness.

The psychologists say frankly that they hadn't expected the boys to be so smart.

Statistics from Fort Dix, N. J., reveal that out of 2,961 draftees examined, 338 of 'em qualified for Class 1 rating. This is a proportion of 11 per cent and the psychologists had expected only 7 per cent to make Class 1.

In Class 2, the second brightest group, whence some officers and many non-coms, as well as "many bright and able clerks and general office workers" are expected to come, the psychologists had an even bigger surprise. They had expected 24 per cent of the draftees to land in this class, but the actual percentage was 42.

Adding 11 per cent to 42 per cent, we find that 53 per cent of the lads are falling into the two upper brackets. The psychologists had expected the "middle range" Class 3, that of "the average soldiers, able to act without constant supervision," to claim at least 38 per cent of the men examined. But only 28 per cent landed in the "average soldier" class; only 13 per cent in Class 4, and only 6 per cent in Class 5, the lowest.

The nation will be glad to learn that the psychologists have discovered what most persons had already suspected—that the new army is going to be made up of intelligent and fine young Americans.

But there is one thing some persons are mildly curious about—and included in that number is The Plainsman. It is:

Just how do the draftees rate the psychologists in the matter of intelligence?

Did the former find the latter fairly smart, too?

WE HATE to be old killjoy this soon after Christmas, but before you get quite knee deep in making out your income tax, remember there's a change in the law this year that applies to everybody!

Here-to-fore, payment of income tax has been based upon net income.

But this year it is based upon gross income.

Don't get crossed up, and don't think you can make up your return on the same basis you made it up last year, the year before, or the year before.

You can't do it the old way any more.

L. B. Barkley, deputy collector of internal revenue here, says he knows a lot of people are going to make erroneous returns and he wishes to avoid all the trouble and mistakes possible.

Therefore, if you don't understand just how to make up your income tax, or if you don't understand the change in the law outlined above, better see Mr. Barkley or one of his merry men in plenty of time before the March 15 deadline.

That Man on Avenue Q says no matter when you were born, you're old if you're glad Christmas is over.

UNTIL just the other day, The Plainsman, probably like most present-day Americans, had a vague notion that poor, old Myles Standish was doomed—if "doomed" is the word—to lifelong bachelorhood when petite Priscilla asked John Alden why he didn't speak for himself.

But historical and genealogical records prove that wasn't the case at all. Captain Standish, doughty soldier who had fought in the Low Countries before joining the Pilgrims, was not so easily discouraged. In fact, the record shows old Myles was quite a go-getter.

After young John Alden threw his old chum a curve ball and spoke for himself once, Cap Standish went out and spoke for himself—not once, but twice, with marked success. And he got to be a Pilgrim Father in the exact sense of the word!

The Plainsman found all this out a few days ago when he happened across an article—a modern sequel to New England's most famous courtship—which told of the death in Middleboro, Mass., of one Myles Standish, ninth lineal descendant of the Pilgrims' one professional fighting man. Of further interest was the fact that Myles Standish, IX, died on the Pilgrims' own Thanksgiving day, not the streamlined holiday thought up in an idle moment by Mr. Roosevelt.

What is more important is that Myles Standish, I, leaves behind him Myles Standish, X, and thus assures one and all that the fine name of the gallant, but bashful soldier of Plymouth will continue, for awhile at least, to live on.

If nothing else, this information is conclusive proof that the Standishes, too, are pretty successful at speaking for themselves!

UP IN New York of late a state legislative investigation has been prying into activities of the Communist party and among other things has brought to light that the Reds have been recruiting Brooklyn college professors.

Called to the witness stand among 72 teachers and students of Brooklyn college, was one Dr. Bernard D. N. Grebanier, assistant professor of English.

Dr. Grebanier testified that he had joined a Communist "cell," and that for a year his dear comrades had bled him, in the way of dues and special donations, to the tune of about $500, or 10 per cent of his annual salary.

Finding membership in the so-called "party" a rather expensive hobby, the doctor offered to resign, only to learn that he couldn't resign—that the only way he could shake himself of the scum was to get kicked out and if kicked out he might be subject to dire pains and penalties.

The Plainsman has no sympathy for Dr. Grebanier in the trouble he hopped into, but we certainly do sympathize with the kids of Brooklyn college who have had to accept the doc as their teacher.

How a guy so dumb as to be bled for 10 per cent of his salary by a flock of stinkers, and for causes not clear to him, can be smart enough to teach anybody anything is more than we can figure.

He must turn out an awful bunch of dummies, since it is well known that before a guy can teach a dog tricks he's gotta know more than the dog!

LIKE MANY another Lubbock citizen, N. L. Ball noticed some time back that our quick changing traffic lights invite, rather than discourage, automobile accidents at our busy intersections.

But unlike most others who have wondered about the quick-changing lights, Mr. Ball threw himself into a one-man study of them and came up with a pretty good idea.

"Instead of letting the four lights change all at once," he asks, "why not have them arranged so they'll all show a brief period of red—danger—and then shift to the green "go" on the sides where green is due to come up?"

As the lights are set now, here's the way they work:

Assuming you are proceeding westward on Broadway at Texas avenue, and assuming the green is on for north-south traffic on Texas, you come to a stop before you enter the intersection.

The light changes, giving you a go-signal, and flashing the stop-signal to the Texas avenue traffic. That is done simultaneously.

You proceed into the intersection — but a fellow coming into the intersection from the north, and traveling south, doesn't get his stop-signal in time to stop and that throws you and him together in the intersection. Chances are you'll dodge each other, all right, but the danger is there and every so often cars hit in the intersection, due to the swift change of the lights.

Mr. Ball's idea, if put into effect, would throw the stop-signal on the north-south traffic a second or so before the east-west traffic flow is released by a green light.

Then there would be less likelihood of intersection smashes.

A SYSTEM very similar to his suggestion is in effect on the double lights at Nineteenth street and College avenue, where there is a dangerous jog and a resultant traffic bottleneck.

The Plainsman, who negotiates the Nineteenth and College intersection from two to four times daily, will testify that the double system there is working out very well.

Well, enough, in fact, that we believe it would be worth trying on all the lights in keeping with Mr. Ball's idea.

YESTERDAY: Andre and Lona lay plans for a daring move, Girardeau leads Lona into believing he loves her, but secretly intends marrying Ronnie and her millions. At Bailey's ranch, Wes is surprised to learn of the bombing tests in Rainbow Canyon. Ronnie cuts him off before he can tell their secret. But he is more concerned with a remark about Andre's engagement to Ronnie.

WES MAKES A CATCH

CHAPTER XX

During the few days since they had discovered the significant cache in Rainbow Canyon, Wesley had barely mentioned it to Ronnie at all. In truth, he was gravely disturbed. He wondered if he should simply make light of it so as to prevent Ronnie Bailey from doing something foolhardy again.

Wes interrupted his thoughts, snapped his fingers.

"Gosh!" he breathed, aloud.

He had been sitting at his office desk with a book on primitive Indian cultures before him, but he hadn't read much. Now, he forgot the book altogether.

Here as an array of assorted facts which suddenly had slipped a little closer together. Ronnie Bailey, daughter of an airplane manufacturer just moved to New Mexico. Five Japanese shooting at her not far from Rainbow Canyon, and being captured by the Federal Border Patrol. United States Army officers arriving to test a priceless new bomb right on the isolated plains. Andre Girardeau seen coming from Lona Montoya's apartment, and Andre Girardeau apparently intimate with the Baileys and with the army officers as well. Lona Montoya seen meeting a strange man in Rainbow Canyon.

"Whew!" Wes exclaimed again, quietly.

The facts didn't quite add up, didn't dovetail. But they did alarm him. He realized too that he alone knew all these facts, and this weighed heavily. Added information—most important of all, really—was that Ronnie Bailey had violet eyes, and hair that shone with the deep rich glint of youth and healthfulness, and an incomparably pretty smile. These latter phenomena, no doubt, could be claimed by other young women somewhere, but Wesley had never encountered them, or at least had never been aware of them. But one was constantly aware of Ronnie Bailey even in one's most intimate thoughts!

He wondered if he should go at once and tell Ronnie what he knew about Lona; that Lona and Andre Girardeau were friends.

But no. No, that wouldn't do. He had merely seen Andre leaving the place. Any other implication was purely a matter of suspicion so far, Wes reminded himself. To tell Ronnie about it would be a spiteful act of a love rival.

Because he wanted to think these things out, Wes left the campus at 5 p. m., walked to the University stables, and took out his horse. He said he would ride for half an hour or so before supper time.

But he was less than a mile out Arroyo del Rey when the magnificence of sundown assailed him, so he dismounted and sat on a rock point to enjoy the show. Colors were bursting from the horizon in terrific if silent explosion. Just south of west he could glimpse Rainbow Canyon in milky-blue haze, and Miracle Peak to the north now was a great pyramid of brass and crimson. Wes felt exalted.

Suddenly, though, the stillness was broken by a sound of hoofs. He turned to look.

"Why—it's Lona!" he murmured.

He expected her to see him and come by. Then he noted that he had unconsciously come out the Rainbow Canyon trail a ways before turning off here to dismount, and that Lona herself was riding down that trail as if with definite purpose. She did not look toward him. His own horse lifted his ears and head as if to whinny, and Wes quickly grabbed its nose.

"Whoa, boy, ho-o-o-o-o," he soothed the animal.

In five minutes Lona was out of sight, winding among cacti and mesquite and yucca growths, over and around ground rises, and Wesley York was staring after her with a quizzical frown. "She had a pack and a pistol and a canteen," he told himself. "Hers will be more than a short ride. I—I wonder—"

All at once he mounted his own horse and swung down the trail to follow her. The thought of shadowing Lona Montoya or anybody else was somewhat distasteful, but Wesley consoled himself with reasoning that he was a faculty member with responsibilities, and that certain other definite suspicions were strong enough to justify his actions now.

He rode carefully to keep just out of sight, pausing often to listen and to walk ahead for brief reconnaissance. He wished that he had brought his own pack and canteen, but he had not anticipated a long desert ride. One thing on his saddle was the lariat rope which always stayed tied there.

In a short time the sun's great display had ended, and twilight moved quickly into night. Wesley welcomed the darkness. It would keep him unrevealed from Lona. Knowing that she would push right along, he kept his own horse walking fast, or sometimes in a slow gallop, and when he had neared the sloping terrain that led down into Rainbow Canyon itself, he stopped and dismounted. Safer now, he reasoned, to proceed afoot, especially since he wasn't at all sure what he would do if he did see Lona enter the Canyon cave again.

He was tying his horse in some brush and carefully noting the immediate landmarks in order to find it again when the animal lifted its ears and head as it had done once before this evening. Now, though, the beast looked back up trail, toward home.

"What is it, fellow?" Wes whispered.

The horse gave no further sign. Just listened. But that was enough; Wes knew from years of experience that a horse's nose and ears are keen, dependable. Somebody else, was coming, surely; a third rider was on the Rainbow Canyon trail and Wes reasoned that it would be either of two men, one a stranger and one known to him.

BEWARE, TAXPAYER, BEWARE!

Members of the legislative and executive committees of the Texas County Judges and Commissioners association announce they will recommend to the legislature next month the enactment of a law permitting transfer of surpluses from various other funds for use in the general funds of counties.

The excuse for this undertaking is that general funds in many counties already are heavily burdened because the constitution fixes 25 cents as the maximum tax which may be levied for general fund purposes.

This proposition is one that should be defeated instantly and smashingly. It will be nothing more or less than an attempted evasion of one of the most important protections that the constitution provides.

There is just one reason for this 25-cent general tax maximum. That reason is the safeguard it gives against extravagance in government. But if the proposed law is enacted, it would be easy enough to deliberately create surpluses in various other funds with the intent of sluffing excess amounts into the general fund. Such a law would destroy completely the value of the tax rate maximum.

Not only should this law be defeated, but taxpayers should identify in their own minds those men who try to slip this thing over.

They are not the kind of men who should be trusted in public office.

U. S. Industry's Foreign Tie-Ups Worrisome

BY BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 — While Senator Burton K. Wheeler suns himself on a liner in the Pacific, certain Department of Justice officials are more than a little worried about the future of his pending investigation into U. S. industry's foreign tie-ups.

Catton

Unofficially, and sub-rosa, the department is awfully anxious to have that investigation pushed. It is convinced that a thorough probe of trade and patent agreements between big German and American industrialists would reveal some surprising facts, and it figures a Senate committee is best fitted to do the job.

But Wheeler's committee won't get going until after the first of the year. In his absence, the Dies committee has begun to show an interest in the same subject. Now the Justice people are afraid Dies might steal the whole show. They figure Wheeler would do a first-rate job and that Dies probably wouldn't — but that Dies' work would spoil things for Wheeler.

Wheeler himself apparently isn't worried. He is said to feel that there's no good reason why Dies shouldn't look into this subject if he wants to. Also, he doesn't share Justice's distrust of the rangy Texan.

Medical Plans Moving Ahead

"Socialized medicine" has been a very hot potato politically for a long time. That is why those interested are watching closely developments in at least two states — Michigan and Ohio. Legislatures there are passing laws enabling medical service plans to be set up. Members would pay a weekly fee into a fund, being then entitled to medical and surgical services at need.

This plan, which has support of state and local academies of medicine, is entirely voluntary and therefore is not in any sense "socialized medicine," but is similar to plans for providing hospitalization under the same terms which have proved popular in many places.

While it would not solve the problem of medical care for the lowest-bracket income group, the proposed plans are expected to be a boon for small-income groups, and may serve to reduce the agitation for "socialized" instead of "co-operative" medical care.

Needs To Improve

Apparently, Vice President-Elect Wallace needs to polish up his Spanish a little more. Washingtonians who attended the Avila Camacho inaugural report that while Wallace valiantly talked Spanish to Mexico's new president, the services of Avila Camacho's interpreter had to be called on frequently.

They don't report that maliciously. Wallace made a fine impression, they say, and was liked by the Mexicans first rate.

"No More, No Less"

The recent influenza scare on the west coast led a federal health officer to reminisce sadly about the 1918 epidemic, when he was put in charge of influenza-control measures in a New England city.

"We did everything in the book," he said. "We closed the churches and the schools and the movies. I'm not sure but what we even closed the saloons. As fast as anybody came down with it, we isolated him promptly. We had people wearing masks, and so on. But you know, I honestly don't believe it all did one bit of good. If we hadn't been there at all, I think they'd have had just exactly as much flu as they did have—no more, and no less."

The Catholic clergy in Haiti are French, mostly Bretons.

pistol at least, Wes nevertheless decided to take action without it. Quietly he unslung his lariat rope, petted his horse to soothe it, and walked back up the trail 50 yards or so. When he caught a glimpse of the approaching rider, he crouched out of sight. His heart was beating rapidly, and he had to force down a certain urge to get panicky."

This is no child's play," he reminded himself. "Whoever the man is meeting Lona, he would kill me as sure as sin. And yet—by heaven I shall do this thing!"

Even before he caught a closer glimpse of the rider's silhouette, Wes felt sure he knew who it was. He was humped over in a rock shadow, waiting. It would take good aim to throw a lariat loop accurately in the starlight, but then the man's bulk should be visible against the sky, and Wes knew something of roping. Roping is fundamental to a man ranch reared.

He allowed the rider to pass, horse walking fast. Then—sws-s-s sws-s-s-s--, sws-s-s-s-s—three rapid twirls of the loop and—throw!

He saw his loop dart out and settle with perfect aim around the rider's shoulders. Then Wes dug in his heels for the jerk he knew was coming.

Georgia Patrolman's Slayer Is Caught

Another Still Being Sought

(By The United Press)

DECATUR, Tenn., Dec. 26—Charles Coates, Missouri fugitive and slayer of a Georgia highway patrolman, was tracked down and captured four miles east of here last midnight and was taken to Dalton, Ga., to be held for trial.

His capture ended a five-day search by a posse of Georgia and Tennessee officers who had scoured the hilly country along the Tennessee river since Coates shot to death Corporal Fred Black of the Georgia patrol near Ringgold, Ga.

Threws Gun Aside

Capt. D. Frank Simmons said that Coates alias Charles Butler threw his gun aside and surrendered while lying flat on the ground when officers approached. He was weak from lack of food and loss of blood. He had been wounded four days ago in a gun battle at the Chattanooga airport.

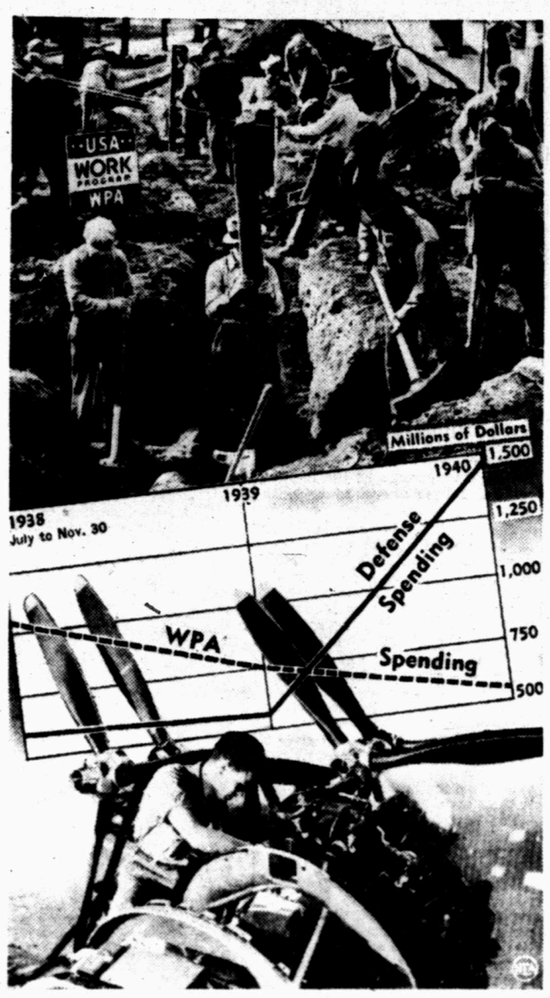

Simmons announced that Coates had stolen an automobile late yesterday and was attempting to escape when his path was blocked on the Decatur-Athens highway. He and a companion wrecked the car in a ditch and fled again into the woods.

Officers still were seeking the other man.

EIGHT BROTHERS IN DRAFT

CLOVIS, N. M., (U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Northcutt boast of having one of the biggest "draft families" in the Rocky Mountain area. Of eight sons of draft age, seven registered and one has volunteered. For "reserves" the Northcutts point to three sons who are under military age.

John T. Flynn Looks Back Over Business Year Of 1940; Trends For 1941 Outlined understand the forces that are at work. We are now floating on a sea of government expenditures raised by loans, but they are of a wholly different type.

The following simple figures will illustrate this:

Private security investment.
1929 ..... $8,002,000,000
1939 382,000,000
Bank loans:
1929 ..... $41,000,000,000
1939 22,000,000,000
U. S. government borrowing.
1929 ..... $
1939 3,600,000,000

Thus the government has stepped in to take up partially the collapse of private investment.

Now, however, the manner in which wartime expenditures are replacing expenditures on relief projects is illustrated by comparison of defense expenditure with WPA outlays:

WPA spending, July to Nov. 30.
1938 ..... $1,010,000,000
1939 750,000,000
1940 539,000,000
Defense spending, July to Nov. 30:
1938 ..... $ 574,277,000
1939 571,108,000
1940 1,481,000,000

These figures are perhaps the most important extant today—for they are the explanation and hold the key to what is happening and will happen in business during the coming year.

What has happened and what is the outlook, under these strange and difficult circumstances, we will see in succeeding articles. But the first thing to bear in mind is that while defense expenditures have risen, they have not yet exercised their full force upon the business world.

NEXT: Will defense spending produce a boom?

Uncle Sam Has Task Feeding These Boys

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (AP)—"We was used to cawnbread—never tasted white meal before, suh."

That's the explanation five hill-billy naval recruits gave when they polished off 56 breakfast biscuits at one sitting.

The story was told on the arrival of the U. S. liner Washington from the Orient yesterday after removing 1,342 evacuees from the troubled Orient.

The backwoods youths with the boarding-house reaches were among 2,000 navy recruits picked up by the liner at Hampton Roads, Va., on the way to the Far East.

They debarked at San Pedro, Calif., mighty pleased with meeting up with white bread.

Silent Screen Star Is Dead

(By The Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 26—Blonde Agnes Ayres, who rocketed to movie stardom in the old silent screen days, retired to cinematic sidelines when the talkie era started and later made an unsuccessful comeback attempt, died Christmas day of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Miss Ayres, a film contemporary of Gloria Swanson and Wallace Reid and whose outstanding roles were in "The Affairs of Anatol" and opposite Rudolph Valentino in "The Sheik," had been in failing health for some time.

Stricken Christmas Eve

She suddenly was stricken on Christmas eve and died later in a hospital without regaining consciousness. She was 42 years old.

Surviving is a daughter, Maria, 15, now reported to be in Mexico City with her father, S. Manuel Reachi, from whom the actress was divorced in 1927.

Among other films that starred Miss Ayres, whose distinctive hair style was remembered by a tightly braided coronet effect, were "The Ten Commandments," "Son of the Sheik," "Lady of Victory," "The Donovan Affair," "Broken Hearted" and "Worldly Goods." Another was "The Awful Truth," which later was reproduced as a talkie featuring Irene Dunn and Cary Grant.

Londoners Live Eternity As Bombs Whistle Down

Homes Leveled By Explosives

BY MILO M. THOMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—I have been "bombed out." So have a large number of my friends. Some men on the London staff of the Associated Press have actually been bombed out as many as three times. It is by no means the worst thing which can happen to you in total warfare waged upon a metropolis.

Four things happen to buildings from bomb explosions. They may be merely damaged, their occupants may be bombed out, the premises may be demolished or they may be leveled.

Building Demolished

"There's nothing over three feet high," they say when they try to describe to you a leveled building. It is the product of a direct hit by a high explosive bomb of the highest calibre. I have seen a whole block in that condition, more than once.

The demolished building is one so messed up that it has to be torn down and rebuilt. But the bombed out premises can frequently be made tenantable again. They are victims of concussion of a man-made fiendish tornado which has all the freakish characteristics of a natural one.

One Experience Enough

For every demolished building there are probably 25 from which the tenants have been driven either permanently or temporarily.

One experience, therefore, gives a fairly accurate picture of what has happened to tens of thousands among the ten million people in the London area.

You have long since retired from the blacked-out living rooms to the basement shelter, leaving doors unlocked in case police or ARP men need to make hurried entrance and windows partly open to save the glass against some less distant explosion.

May Be The End

The gurgling whistle of a bomb brings you up tensely, all nerves. The sound swells into a scream which is coming right at you.

You say inwardly, "Perhaps this is it," referring to that direct hit against which no ordinary shelter is proof, the thousand to one chance that this may be the end.

Comes a blinding flash and the earth heaves.

You have a feeling that all your little world has suddenly been shaken into a heap.

Collapse Always Threat

Debris seems to be falling all about you.

The air is sharply cold and dusty, almost unbearable.

A gale seems to be whistling through the once cozy house.

Things continue to fall. Long after the crash of sound has been succeeded by a deep silence, that silence is broken occasionally by falling glass.

You have an urge to fly but you keep your place by sheer force of will, knowing it is the safest place you've got, hoping that a collapse is not going to bury you next minute.

Wreckage Complete

The next minutes pass like hours.

At last, you reach for the light switch and snap it, but nothing happens. As you fumble for the matches and candle on your bedside table, knocking off the first aid kit and the candy intended to feed you if your have to be dug out, pieces of plaster slip from the bed to the floor.

At last you make a light, find slippers and steal through a carpet of glass and plaster to view the scene.

Tattered draperies stir eerily at empty windows.

Doors have been crookedly wrenched off their hinges.

Here is a whole window frame pushed into the kitchen.

Dirt, Soot Everywhere

Yonder is a mullioned window looking like the billowing sail of a Spanish galleon.

The terrific wrench to the house has dislodged soot from all the chimneys which has swept three inches deep over some of the rugs and mingled with the glass and plaster dust upon all the furniture.

The locks of glass connecting doors have burst. An interior partition is out of plumb. There's a splash of water from a damaged pipe.

It is a mess which grows increasingly uncomfortable as the wintry winds blow through the house.

You can scarcely wait for daylight to begin.

Miss Liberty Is Presented As 1940 Outstanding Woman

Miss Liberty—the Outstanding Woman of 1940

BY RUTH MILLETT
NEA Service Staff Writer

There is no question but that she is the Outstanding Woman of 1940.

During a trying year, when the convictions of many wavered and doubted, she stood for everything the word America sums up.

Nor did she overlook the importance of letting the world know it.

Everything she stood for, you could call "old-fashioned."

She proclaimed the dignity and rights of individuals. Human beings were not meant, she told the world, to think and act and live in goose-step.

Rights Of All Respected

While supporting rule by the majority, she upheld the right of minorities to their beliefs and opinions.

She did not succumb to any doctrine of superiority. Always she has accepted men for what they were—not for the race, nationality or religion, given them by birth.

She upheld the tradition that America should be a haven for the persecuted of other lands.

She disdained the idea that America might "make up to" the dictators.

She stood by the firm conviction that only in a democracy is life worth living and supported the belief of realists that only people who are strong can be free.

You know her—and love her—this Outstanding Woman of 1940. Her home is New York's great harbor. Her job is to hold the torch of liberty—to remind Americans of their rights and their duties as fortunate citizens of a democracy.

She is the Goddess of Liberty—America's greatest woman of this and of all years.

Services For Ellis Dean Barnes Held

Funeral services for Ellis Dean Barnes, 18-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Barnes of O'Donnell route 3, were conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the First Baptist church in O'Donnell.

The baby died of tracheo-bronchitis at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in Lubbock sanitarium.

Survivors are the parents and a small sister, Bobbie Lucille.

Plains Funeral home announced burial would be in O'Donnell cemetery.

LONDON'S TRANSPORTATION

The bus is London's most popular form of transportation. In a normal year, 2,222,695,228 passengers are carried by bus; 570,604,622 by trolley-bus; and 516,133,450 by street railway.

Goodfellows Conclude Job

Lubbock Goodfellows were at ease today, with nothing to do until another Christmas season rolls around.

They did their final job of 1940 early Wednesday morning when they distributed packages to approximately 1,200 families containing gifts for about 3,500 children.

Taken as a whole, according to the Chief Goodfellow, it was as successful as any of the eight annual campaigns undertaken by the Goodfellows in Lubbock in the effort to make certain that no needy children in the city would be forgotten.

Children Were Waiting

Distribution of the packages proceeded exactly as scheduled, the Chief Goodfellow reported. Some 300 Goodfellows with their automobiles appeared at the old Dalby Motor Freight house, Seventh street and Avenue H, where the packages were placed in the cars by uniformed Boy Scouts. The long line of automobiles created considerable of a traffic problem for a while, but police kept the flow moving smoothly. Most of the Goodfellows reported that the children to whom packages were addressed were waiting when they arrived.

The package for each child contained at least one new and one repaired toy, fireworks, oranges, apples, mixed nuts and candy.

Bears are known to suffer from arthritis.

Call For Election Will Be Studied

A resolution proposing a call for an election on a $175,000 bond issue to pay for a new engine for the city power plant is the most important matter scheduled for the city commission at its semi-monthly session this afternoon.

A lapse of at least 14 days is required between a formal call and the holding of an election. Tentative plans are, however, to set the election on the proposed bond issue for about the middle of January.

Total cost of the engine and the addition to the light plant building to house it will be in excess of $200,000, but the remainder of the amount will be paid out of revenues.

Remainder of the business on the commission's calendar this afternoon is routine, officials said.

CITY BEAMS ON WHITTLERS

SAN ANTONIO, (U.P.)—As a special attraction to whittlers, benches with concrete ends and wooden backs and seats have been constructed and placed in one of the city's parks. The wooden seats and backs are easily removed and replaced in the concrete ends.

Honeycombs six feet in length are not uncommon on the Malay Peninsula.

SYSTEM FULL OF POISON FLUSHED OUT BY HOYT'S SAYS LOCAL CONTRACTOR

Hoyt's Compound Ended Constipation, Heart-Burn, Sour Stomach, Gas Bloating And Pains Says J. M. Spencer, Lubbock

Before anyone recommends a medicine publically, he is probably convinced of its worth by profiting from it himself. So it was with Mr. J. M. Spencer, 223 Ave. R., Lubbock, who made the following statement to the Hoyt Man, a special laboratory representative at the Mark Halsey Drug Store: "I am 45 years old, and have lived in Lubbock for nine years. I am a painting and carpentry contractor. For years I had constipation, heart burn, sour stomach and gas bloating. My entire system was full of poison. My kidneys were bad, and I had severe pains across my back. I was underweight, rundown and nervous. I had given up hope of finding relief, I couldn't eat.

"After a few doses of Hoyt's Compound I began to get relief. Now my bowels are more regular, I eat anything without suffering, and I enjoy my food. I have a much better appetite, and am gaining weight and strength. The pains in my back are gone, and I don't get up nights. I get a good night's rest. I take this opportunity to publically recommend Hoyt's to those who suffer as I did!"

MR. J. M. SPENCER

Sufferers, come to the Mark Halsey Drug Store and learn more about Hoyt's Compound. The Hoyt Man is anxious to explain it to you. This popular medicine is recommended and sold by all Mark Halsey Drug Stores. Adv.
