Six To Eight Killed

Terrorists Set Off Bomb In Beirut

By LARRY COLLINS

BEIRUT (UPI) — Anti-government terrorists set off a time bomb in a packed Beirut street today.

Six to eight persons were killed and 12 to 15 injured, according to early estimates.

Meanwhile, a movement was understood to be afoot within the government to postpone Tuesday's Lebanese requested United Nations Security Council meeting on this country's troubles until after the Arab League has a chance to act in the matter.

Foreign Minister Charles Malik was said to be planning to postpone a trip to the U.N. in New York for the council session so he could be present at the Arab League meeting in Tripoli, Lebanon, to discuss the issue Wednesday.

A satisfactory Arab League decision for a solution would make U.N. action unnecessary, it was said.

The new violence came in the midst of a growing government crisis, with several cabinet ministers threatening to quit unless President Camille Chamoun abandons his hopes of running for a second term in September. The dissident group is reported putting pressure on Chamoun to accept a compromise solution that would permit him to remain in office only until a new election.

The explosion and accompanying fire twisted the red trolley car sideways off its tracks, gutted the front half of the car, and peeled its metal sides backwards like skin being stripped from a banana.

The force of the bomb, one of the most powerful yet exploded in Beirut, showered the crowded street with glass from apartment windows for 100 yards on either side of the trolley.

Police said "many persons" lost a leg as the bomb exploded on the floor of the trolley.

Police said the bomber apparently got on the trolley, placed the bomb in a package under his seat, and then got off.

The cabinet crisis was coupled with reports of a worsening military situation for the government both north and south of the capital.

(A dispatch from Nicosia said British troops on Cyprus were alerted to be ready to fly to Lebanon at a moment's notice should British property or citizens be jeopardized.)

Bitter street fighting between insurgents and army troops broke out in the ancient Phoenician seaport of Sidon, 35 miles to the south, Sunday.

Beirut radio reported Sunday night that the army had fought for hours in the streets of Halba, 12 miles northeast of the northern port city of Tripoli, to wrest control of the city from the insurgents.

Sidon is the western terminus of the Trans-Arabian pipeline which delivers the flow of Aramco's Saudi Arabian oil to Mediterranean ships.

Opposition sources reported four persons killed and 12 wounded. Two of the dead and two wounded were government troops, they said.

Paris Edition Of Paper Seized

PARIS (UPI) — All copies of the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune were seized by police today. They were confiscated at the newspaper's office at 5 a.m.

The paper was believed seized because of a front page story reporting the French fleet had left Malta for France. It also carried a picture of Adm. Philippe Auboyne, commander of the fleet, identifying him as singing the Marseillaise.

Near Record Voters Turn Out In Rome

ROME (UPI) — Voters in near-record numbers turned out today to wind up a two-day election expected to show a decline in Communist strength and to reaffirm Italy's close ties with NATO nations guarding the Mediterranean.

More than 77 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots Sunday. Today's turnout is expected to push the total over the 90 per cent mark, perhaps setting a new record in a country always conscientious about voting.

The first returns will be available this afternoon. The popular vote totals should be in by late Tuesday, but the distribution of seats in the new parliament will not be known until Wednesday at earliest because of Italy's complicated proportional representation voting system.

The Christian Democratic Party, dominant in Italy ever since World War II, is expected to poll the biggest vote.

Plane Explodes; Crew Escapes

(UPI) — Investigators sought today to find out why a $2,225,000 radar reconnaissance plane exploded without warning after 100,000 miles of safe flight. Sabotage was considered a possibility.

Twelve airmen inside the RC121 Super Constellation escaped from the plane though it nearly was demolished in five minutes of explosions and fire late Sunday.

The cause of the blasts was listed as "undetermined." A spokesman at this Cape Cod base said sabotage would be considered as a possibility.

Seven Drown Going To Aid Of Child

ROCKPORT, Tex. (UPI) — A little girl drowned when she walked too far into the surf off a beach here Sunday, and six persons who rushed into the water to save her also lost their lives.

The child, Janice Bailey, 9, sank into an unmarked 15-foot ditch in shallow water. Her mother was among the six would-be rescuers who died. Four other rescuers survived the mass catastrophe.

The drownings occurred on a seldom-frequented portion of the beach, which the Bailey family used because of the crowds along the main shoreline of the heat-wracked little town on the Gulf of Mexico near Corpus Christi.

The ditch, dredged two years ago, originally was surrounded by warning signs — but they had washed away. Janice walked unsuspectingly into the pit and then began thrashing around in the water.

Many persons on the beach saw her plight, and 10 of them rushed in to save her. One by one, the treacherous waters swallowed up six of the rescuers — Mrs. Bailey, four children, and Leonard Berry, 40, a military chaplain from Syracuse, N.Y., who was visiting the Baileys.

Manuel Gomez, who was driving in his car, saw Janice's struggles and leaped out of his auto and into the water. He was rescued and revived without injury. Another man was pulled out before he reached the ditch. All told, 10 persons tried to rescue Janice.

The editor of the Rockport Pilot, Jack Baughman, was standing beside Janice's father as firemen pulled the bodies of the seven victims out of the hole.

Janice, an airman from Victoria Air Force Base, was talking to a Rockport priest — and he quoted the priest as saying:

"Father, that is Father Berry they're bringing out."

Firemen came with more bodies, wading up to the sand.

"Father, that is my wife. Oh my God, Father, that is my little girl."

Searchers Continuing Nike Probe

MIDDLETOWN, N.J. (UPI) — Thirty ordnance experts today resumed searching through wreckage from last Thursday's Nike-Ajax missile explosion that killed six soldiers and four civilians.

An Army spokesman Sunday denied reports that the "triggering mechanism" of one of the missiles had been found.

A public information captain at Ft. Wadsworth said, "We have no confirmation of that (finding the mechanism). And we haven't heard from the site as to whether they have found anything else in the way of explosives or triggering mechanisms."

Starkweather Case Interest Hinges On Caril Fugate Trial

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Interest in the Charles Starkweather case today hinged on whether the mass slayer intends to carry out his threat to take his teen-aged girl friend "down with me."

The condemned Starkweather, 39, has voiced on several occasions his plans to make Caril Fugate, 14, share in the responsibility for some of his 11 slayings. But at other times, his attorney T. Clement Gaughan said, the red-haired killer says he will not testify against Caril.

Caril is presently being held at the Lincoln State Hospital where she will stay until it is decided whether she is old enough to stand trial for her alleged part in the January murder rampage.

An embittered citizenry, meanwhile, has made it clear they regard the death sentence a just punishment for Starkweather's crimes.

At nearby Bennet, the home town of two of Starkweather's teen-age victims, Robert Jensen, 17, and Carol King, 16, approval of the court's decision apparently was universal.

Jensen's best friend, Ron Leader, who turned 17 last Friday said the verdict was "the best birthday present I could have ever had." He said "everyone was kind of worried" when the jury remained out for several hours. It was feared Starkweather would escape the death penalty, he said.

"There is nothing that they can ever do to Starkweather that will bring our boy back," Jensen's mother said.

Mrs. Warren King, sister-in-law of Carol King, said of Caril Fugate "we all feel in the back of our mind that she killed Carol."

Nuclear Test Is Staged, US Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government announced today that a nuclear test was staged at Eniwetok Atoll at 9 p.m. c.d.t. Sunday.

There was no immediate indication of the type of test involved. It was the third nuclear blast in the current series in the Pacific. The first took place May 11 and the second the next day.

A joint statement by the Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department said:

"A nuclear test detonation took place at 2:00 p.m., May 26, 1958, Eniwetok time (9 p.m., May 25, 1958, c.d.t.) at the Eniwetok Atoll. The test is part of the Hardtack nuclear weapons test series under way at the Eniwetok proving ground."

Communist Czechoslovakia today rejected an invitation to observe an explosion of a "clean" U.S. H-bomb to be set off in July or early August.

Russia previously had turned down the same invitation.

The United States had invited 14 member nations of the United Nations committee on the effects of scientific radiation to observe the test shot. The foreign observers will be allowed to check instruments that would show this country's "clean" bomb releases a substantially smaller amount of radioactivity than the so-called "dirty" bomb.

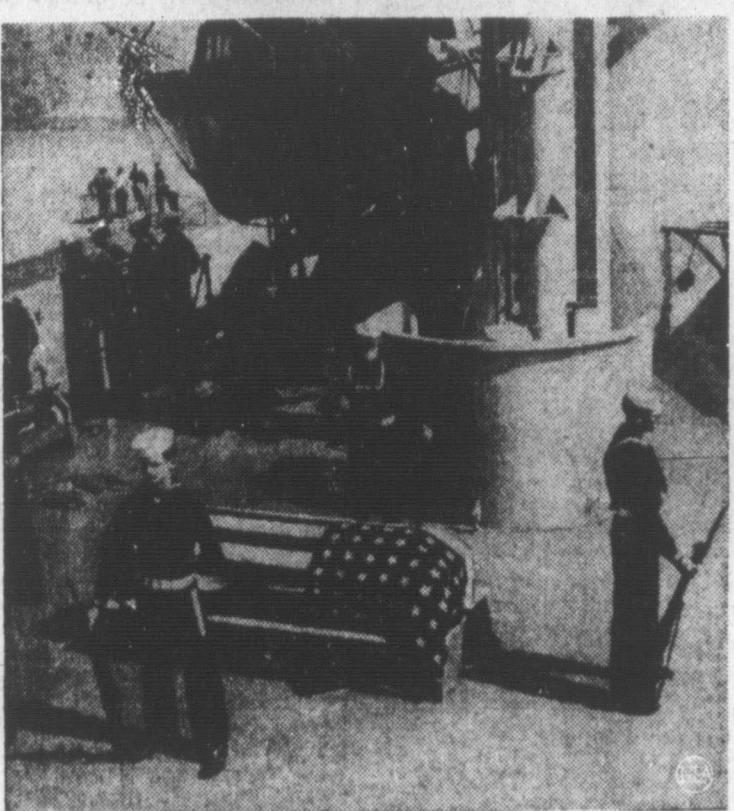

Russia and Czechoslovakia were the only two Communist nations to receive the invitation. Both have been pressing a propaganda campaign against continuing nuclear tests.

Ike To Ask Renewed Corporation, Excise Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most revenues. Even if corporate and excise tax levies are continued at current rates for another year, the federal government is expected to run up an eight to 10-billion dollar deficit in fiscal 1959.

The deficit for fiscal 1958, ending June 30, is estimated at about three billion.

To encourage auto sales and revive the hard-hit railroad industry, Congress might decide to cut excise taxes on automobiles and transportation, particularly the 5

Final selection of one body to represent the dead of World War II will be made, and it will rest, together with the remains of the Korean veteran, at Arlington National Cemetery. Interment is scheduled for Memorial Day, May 30.

Felt Named Boss Of Far East Forces

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower today named Adm. Harry D. Felt commander-in-chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific and Far East.

Felt, 55, is now vice chief of naval operations. He will succeed Adm. Felix B. Stump who will retire Aug. 1.

As commander-in-chief, Pacific, Felt will direct the U.S. Army, Navy and Air Force from headquarters at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

The largely American United Nations command in Korea continues to report directly to Washington, however, and is not a part of the Pacific command.

The President nominated Vice Adm. James S. Russell, now deputy commander-in-chief and chief of staff of the Atlantic Fleet, to be vice chief of naval operations, succeeding Felt. His nomination must be confirmed by the Senate.

Felt, a native of Topeka, Kan., is a naval aviator. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1923.

At the outbreak of World War II, he was commander of the dive bomber squadron of the aircraft carrier Lexington. He was air officer of the carrier Saratoga from 1942-43 and commander of the carrier Chenango in 1945.

He participated in the occupation of Guadalcanal, the battle of the eastern Solomons and the Okinawa campaign.

Man Fined On Driving Charge

Charges of driving while intoxicated were filed in County Attorney Don Cain's office this morning against Charles Walton Patterson, 1109 Duncan.

Patterson entered a plea of guilty in Gray County Court and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

He was arrested yesterday about 9:30 p.m. in the 300 block N. Cuyler by city police.

'Operation Unknown' Today

AT SEA OFF THE VIRGINIA

CAPE (UPI) — Forecasts of dripping skies and squally winds threatened to mar the Navy's solemn "Operation Unknown" today but failed to delay elaborate plans for final selection of a World War II unknown soldier.

Navy weather planes took off at dawn to probe unsettled skies and a choppy ocean for the smoothest seas within range. There, three of the fleet's proudest vessels will rendezvous about 25 miles offshore.

At the rendezvous, in a dramatic ceremony, a veteran of the second great war will be chosen to be reburied in Arlington National Cemetery near Washington on Memorial Day Friday, alongside an already-selected unknown hero of the Korean war.

President Eisenhower will speak at the Arlington ceremonies capping a week of official mourning by the nation for its war dead.

The World War II body chosen at sea today, together with the unidentified Korean casualty, will be placed aboard the destroyer Blandy for movement to Washington and Arlington.

Roller Coaster Ride Checked

BUCKEYE LAKE, Ohio (UPI) — Authorities today closed a roller coaster ride for a safety check. Fifteen screaming fun-seekers were thrown from their cars Saturday night, injuring 14.

The accident occurred when the three cars bearing 15 young persons at Buckeye Lake amusement park neared the top of the first incline, about 75 feet high.

Authorities said the cars disengaged from the lifting chain allowing the cars to hurtle back down to the start.

The occupants were thrown out as the cars overturned upon rounding a curve at the bottom. Fourteen were injured, none critically.

French Fleet Sailing On Paris' Orders

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI) — Premier Pierre Pflimlin said today the government would fight with "very great vigor" the insurrection on Corsica.

Simultaneously, an official announcement said the powerful French Mediterranean fleet was sailing toward an unidentified destination on direct orders from Paris.

Pflimlin, addressing an emergency session of Parliament, said France was threatened with a civil war. He said such a conflict "would subject us not only to a humiliating defeat in North Africa but also would destroy our basic liberties."

BULLETIN

PARIS (UPI) — Reliable government sources reported today that Gen. Charles de Gaulle has offered to meet Premier Pflimlin for secret talks on the French crisis.

He described the events in Corsica as a revolt against legal authority and said his government will "use with very great vigor the means in its possession against all those who attempt to revolt against it."

He spoke as new resistance centers sprang up in France's overseas possession.

Receives New Setbacks Despite the premier's plea for Assembly unity, he received two quick setbacks.

Right-wingers demanded that President Rene Coty be asked to call a meeting of all middle-right party chiefs, with Gen. Charles de Gaulle in attendance to help solve the deepening crisis. They named former Premier Antoine Pinay to present the proposal to Coty.

At the same time, the Assembly judiciary committee reacted with hostility to Pflimlin's request to crack down on rebellious deputies who now have parliamentary immunity.

A Defense Ministry communique disclosed the Mediterranean fleet movement, answering persistent rumors that it had defected to rebel forces supporting Gen. De Gaulle.

They originated when Fleet Commander Adm. Philippe Auboyne praised the rebellious ruling junta in Algiers and said: "I shall take the opportunity to tell Gen. (Lauris) Norstad how the miracle of May 13 (the uprising) is a great chance not only for France but also for the Western world."

Asks for New Powers Today, the Paris Defense Ministry said in a communique: "Rumors having circulated about movements of the fleet, the Ministry of National Defense and armed forces states that all ships which took part in inter-allied maneuvers in the Mediterranean are moving in accordance with orders received from the Ministry of National Defense."

Pflimlin made no mention of the fleet when he appeared before the deputies this morning.

He told of the threat of civil war and added: "To save our liberties, it is not sufficient that the authorities should do their duty. It now has (See FRANCE Page 3)

The greatest music has not been written," Rev. Dick Crews told the seniors, "or the greatest novels or the greatest poems." Rev. Crews spoke at Senior Vespers Sunday at Pampa High School. Wilhousey-Neilson's arrangement of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the Harvesters Band and a Capella Choir was the production number of the program.

Rev. Crews, who is pastor of the First Christian Church in Pampa, briefed the graduating class on his version of the abundant life, free, disciplined, dedicated.

"Remember," said Rev. Crews, "a journey of a thousand miles begins with the first step." He advised graduates to take time out from the beach this summer to learn to type for some of them will have to type their way through college.

"Breaking rocks to no purpose does a prison make," observed Rev. Crews. "Make some brave decision now." Above all, he said, develop the power to say "No" to the schemes of the undedicated.

From the orchestra pit and on stage W. R. Tregoe's Band and William A. Hunt's Choir succeeded in breathing new life into "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Rev. John Roche, C. M., made St. Francis' prayer the Benediction. Rev. O. M. Butler of Harrah Methodist Church gave the Invocation and Dr. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, gave the Scripture reading.

Peter Technokoff's "Thou Life of Life" came from the joyous choir. The Band opened with the tread of "Pomp and Circumstance" and closed with the Wagnerian rhythms of the March from "Tannhauser."

Commission To Open Pipe Bids City Manager John Koonz said today that Pampa City Commissioners will open bids on pipe and fittings tomorrow in their weekly meeting.

Koonz said commissioners will also open bids on sealcoating for some of Pampa's streets.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine moved into a new home and I wanted to give her a little gift. I do nice crocheting so I made her a three-piece dolly set. I washed and starched it and wrapped it in tissues and ribbons. I know dollys aren't being used much nowadays but I thought these were special. She said she loved them. A friend called me up and told me not to feel hurt if I never saw my dollys used, because this lady said she loved them only to make me feel good but she had no intention of cluttering up her new house with anything so old-fashioned as dollys. My problem is, should I ask for the dollys back (I could sell them for $10 the set, I'm sure) or should I skip it?

"CHAIN ONE, TWO" Dear "Chain": Skip it. Certainly. You have only the word of this "friend" (some friend) who could have made up the vicious lie just to hurt you. If the lady to whom you gave the dollys said she loved them — believe her.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to tell that woman who signed herself "Capable of Having my Own" a few things for calling adopted children "second-hand, tossed-out merchandise." Having a child doesn't make a woman a mother. Pigs can reproduce. She is darned lucky she is capable of having her own because if she adopted a child, she'd never get an adopted child. They are very particular about who gets their babies. Pardon me, L.A.D., but your ignorance is showing. BOILING MAD

DEAR ABBY: I am married and have three children. I don't get out much so I like to talk to my friends on the telephone. This one friend of mine gets me sore. When

I call her up she always cuts me short by saying something is burning on the stove or somebody is at the door. I am tired of these excuses. What should I do?

CUT SHORT Dear Cut: People who have time to kill on the phone usually call someone who hasn't. Find another telephone pal.

DEAR ABBY: I have a lovely daughter-in-law but she looks like she belongs in a circus. She won't get on a scale, but I think it would take a freight scale to weigh her. She has had four children. By looking at her you can't tell if she is about ready to have the baby or if she has already had it. She eats all day long and I am afraid she will bust out of her skin. Can you tell me a smooth way to get her to lose some weight without hurting her feelings?

MOTHER-IN-LAW Dear Mom: If you want to help your daughter-in-law, don't be too concerned if the manner in which you get her on a diet is "smooth" or "rough." Plead, beg, bribe, but get her to a doctor and let him take it from there.

Confidential To Pinky: The surest way to make a man wonder if he still loves you is to keep asking him.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
If you're a decent person, one day — unavoidable — you'll realize you've wronged your child. Perhaps you've punished him for telling you he didn't overflow the bathroom basin — and then discovered he told you the truth. Perhaps he's disobeyed your command to return his younger sister's comic book — and in your anger struck him harder than you meant. Your punished child retreats to his room — and you begin to feel uncomfortable.

The sense of discomfort grows. To relieve it, you go upstairs to his room. You say, "Mommy was unfair to you. Will you kiss me and tell me you forgive me?" But when you sit down on the bed beside your wronged child, he pulls away from you. It is clear that he doesn't want to kiss and forgive you.

I hope you don't insist that he does. Some parents do. Usually they are people who are always boasting of themselves. "There's one good thing about me. I can get mad awfully fast, but I'm always over it just as fast."

So after they have indulged their quick anger, they demand children's quick forgiveness of their remorse. And by their coaxing insistence on forgiveness, they seek to stifle the children's resentment at abuse.

If we sincerely wish to repair an injustice we have done a child, the way to do it is to encourage his protest against it.

When we seek to evade his protest by premature demands for reconciliation, our remorse is false. Our wheedling pleas for his good will is domination — our effort to despoil the child of his resentment and replace it with affectionate feelings that will make us feel good.

It is dangerously confusing to a child to be required to get cozy with a person whom he's not ready to forgive.

So if our remorse is genuine, we don't ask him for kisses and cuddles. Instead we encourage him to protest the injustices our remorse has already protested. We say, "I'm sorry that I was unfair to you. I know how angry you must be with me. I want you to know that I think you have a right to be."

Forgiving us is the child's affair.

Mrs. Wayne Cob gave a portion of the mission book, "God's World Plan."

In a short business meeting, the circle elected Mrs. Kenneth Gray as chairman to replace Mrs. Mann who is moving to Panhandle. Mrs. Mann was presented a love gift from the circle.

There were twelve ladies present with Mrs. W. G. Gooding offering the closing prayer. The next meeting will be conducted in the home of Mrs. Gray, 318 N. Warren.

New Credit Line Marks Birth Of A New Press Service, UPI

NEW YORK (UPI) — The appearance of a new credit line — UPI — in newspapers and on the air throughout the world last weekend marked the birth of United Press International. It was formed when United Press and International News Service joined forces.

United Press International now sends news and pictures to more newspapers and radio clients than ever served by an independently operated news and picture agency.

It is estimated that UPI has more than 6,000 correspondents around the world and delivers its news and picture services over a leased wire system of approximately 300,000 miles.

Prior to the consolidation the United Press had 2,494 newspaper and 2,398 radio and television clients. International News Service served, directly and indirectly, radio and television stations, magazines and special service clients. The logotype of the new global news and picture network began appearing in newspapers shortly after 11:30 a.m. e.d.t. Saturday when the services were physically amalgamated. Actually the consolidation took place May 16, but the announcement was delayed to allow time for working out technical details.

Stronger News Report
Frank H. Bartholomew, who was president of UPI, is president of UPI. J. Kingsbury Smith, who was general manager of INS, is vice president and associate general manager.

"The consolidation of the two services," Bartholomew said, "will assure a stronger competitive news and pictorial news report to newspapers, radio and television stations throughout the civilized world."

"Like the newspapers dependent upon us for news, ours will be a business organization, collecting and distributing one of the world's most perishable products, news. We believe private enterprise with a profit incentive is the best guarantee of objective coverage of world news, exactly as it is for the subsequent publishing of that news in the great independent newspapers of the world."

The former INP picture network was installed in the UPI newspaper bureau in New York and the UPI telephone desk took control. The best pictures from the new pool were fed into the joint system with all clients immediately receiving the benefit of the consolidation of the services. UPI picture bureaus at New York and other points took over the supplying of clients who receive their service by prints and INP bureaus at those points ceased to function.

Popular UP Columns Continue
UPI clients will continue to receive all the columns and special dispatches which were so popular in the former UP news report. They include: William Ewald on TV-radio; Lyle C. Wilson, Washington; Gay Pauley and Mary Prime, women's news; Oscar Fraley and Steve Snider, sports; Delos Smith, Science; Charles M. McCann, foreign news analysis; Louis Casals, religion; Dayton Moore, Backstairs at the White House; Joseph W. Grigg Jr., chief European correspondent; Vernon Scott and Hazel Johnson, movies and TV from Hollywood; Fred Danzig, stories about TV personalities in New York; Jack Gaver, Broadway theater; Doc Quigg, humorous column.

Among those joining UPI immediately was Paul Allerup, former managing editor of INS. He became features editor of UPI in charge of developing special news projects.

United Press Movietone News (for TV stations) is a part of UPI. Teleneas, a newsfilm television service, continues to be operated by the Hearst interests.

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Philadelphia Phillies are "interested" in a proposed stadium to be built on the grounds of the Cedarbrook Country Club. The commissioners of suburban Cheltenham Twp. have scheduled a public hearing June 17 to discuss the plans.

Back Stairs At The White House

By DAYTON MOORE

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower plans to be using four kinds of air transportation regularly by early next year. Helicopters and a specially equipped, light, two-passenger plane will be used for trips up to about 100 miles. It will be the piston-engine Columbine III for medium-range trips in this country. A Boeing 707 jet airliner will carry him on transcontinental and transoceanic flights.

A white House aide said the helicopter flights to Gettysburg, Pa., last week marked the start of the President's regular use of whirlybirds for short trips. Indications are that the President will use helicopters frequently on fairly regular weekend trips at his farm this summer.

Weather permitting, the President plans to give British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan a helicopter ride to Baltimore June 10 when they attend graduation ceremonies at Johns Hopkins University. The President probably will fly by helicopter also when he goes to Annapolis, Md., June 4 to deliver the commencement address at the U.S. Naval Academy.

An aide gave three reasons for the President's increased use of helicopters: convenience, speed, and elimination of auto traffic hazards. The President steps out his office door and, in about 25 strides, is in a whirlybird for a takeoff from the south lawn of the White House. He lands right at his destination—his farm, a university campus, or anywhere that a small plot of open land is available.

The President's prospects for getting his wife Mamie to accompany him on a helicopter flight appear to be dim. She doesn't like to fly even in the more comfortable, plush Columbine III.

No Men's Clothing Sales Recession Is Expected

By PRESTON MCGRAW
DALLAS (UPI)—The operators of more than 3,000 men's clothing stores in 32 Southwestern, Midwestern and Southeastern states aren't looking for any recession-type thinking from their customers next fall and winter.

A spokesman for the Southwestern Men's Apparel Club, which sponsored a three-day market in Dallas of fall and winter clothing for men, said today that salesmen for more than 1,000 lines reported heavy buying. The more than 3,000 buyers who attended set an attendance record.

"Salesmen told me that everybody bought," William W. Sher-

Maurice Bresnen and Bob Drewry of the Hat Corporation of America (Knox, Dobbs and Cavanaugh) said two of the "hottest" items in men's headware are Tyrolean hats and a jet black model with a watermelon red lining called the "Jaguar."

Things Looking Up
"Some stores let their inventories get low, of course, and they are now building them up. But most of them bought in the belief that the recession is going to end and things are going to go up again this fall and winter."

Suits About Same
"We have sold more black hats this year than in the last 20 years," Bresnen said.

It is going to be hard to tell a 1958 fall and winter suit from a 1957 suit. Lapels are a shade narrower, most suits are three-button types.

"Colors border on dark, with neat patterns," Paul Dickey of Jackman and Sons of Los Angeles, said. "And there are some plaids. There is some interest in cardigan jackets after eight years."

"I don't think lapels are going to get much narrower."

Nor are there any radical changes in shirts, like the pink shirt fad of a few years ago. Russ Mammings of C. F. Hathaway Co. said his biggest seller is still the Oxford cloth shirt with button-down collar.

On The Business Scene

By UNITED PRESS
Machine tool orders in April fell 23 per cent below March to $22,800,000 and reversed the upswing which had been in effect since December. But incoming business from abroad increased last month, reflecting tool buying in this country by European auto makers.

Despite warmer weather and some sales promotions, retail trade slipped slightly this week. Declines from the prior week in purchases of appliances, house-wares, and men's apparel offset increases in women's apparel and outdoor furniture. Auto dealers reported a moderate rise in sales of new passenger cars.

Freight carloadings have failed to improve despite some pick-up in consumer goods shipments. Alfred E. Perlman, president of the New York Central Railroad, reported. He said he has seen no signs that the bread and butter items in the heavy industry category like coal and iron ore are improving. He also told the annual stockholders meeting that the gloomy rail picture could change "overnight" if pro-railroad proposals are enacted in Congress.

He urged Central stockholders to take action themselves by writing their congressmen.

Manufacturers shipped $104,300,000 worth of vending machines in 1957, an increase of 1 per cent above 1956, the Commerce Department reported. Shipments of beverage vending machines dipped 6 per cent while confection and food machine shipments rose 1 per cent.

Prospecting while wondering what happened to Hopalong Cassidy!

A line doesn't stay damp long around the neighborhood of the Canton Reservoir in the state Bud Wilkerson made famous.

Just tip your hat and ask any of the 21,087 folks who have, according to John Marksbury, resident engineer ala Canton, motored up for a week or weekend.

Better yet you can direct inquiries towards seven Pampa people who hauled in 895 white bass and two booming 6-pound plus drum.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Speegle landed 320 white bass and the pair of drum while John Mobley and son pulled in 300 white bass. John Hersey caught more than just a cold too, he got 100 white bass and D. L. Martindale and W. L. Eckroat hooked 75 white bass.

Marksbury says the fish are being caught on plugs, trotlines and just plain old everyday bank cane poles.

Palm-hammering the water from our ears while passing note on Fleet Boy.

Who's Fleet Boy?

Why he's a 4-year-old gelding owned by John T. Simms of Pampa, and trained by Hubert Vincent to win money outrunning other plugs, that's who he is.

And what's more, Fleet Boy won his last time out at Phoenix, covering the 3/4 mile in 1:09 3-5 during a feature event. And this equalled the track record yet.

Fleet Boy and stablemate, Kelly's Ear, 4-year-old filly, have been shipped to Omaha for the Ak-Sar-Ben season. They'll return to La Mesa Park at Raton, N. M., for features races later in the summer.

Other Fleet Boy stablemates remaining at the La Mesa Park are Webster, Mary's Frank, Country Lane and Moss Bore War.

And then there was the suicide of a forger who worked three years to perfect a signature, and the check came back marked insufficient funds. . .

Add Alton . . .

Did you know that the Thyger family can claim, not one, but two all-stars this spring.

Tractor super-special, Alton Thyger, was named to the Texas High School Coaches All-State track team recently and his younger sister, Sherry, who was a stand-out in Pampa's 19-18 loss in the finals of the state volleyball meet at Abilene about a month ago, was also given all-star mention.

Alton has inked an agreement with Utah State University in Logan, Utah, calling for four-years of study and sprinting while Sherry will be a senior at Pampa. High next fall.

Alton's mom, says, "I look for Sherry to follow after her brother, and go to college in Utah too."

A tardy post-mortem of what other writers had to say about Alton's exploits at Austin earlier this month:

DICK MOORE (Fort-Worth Star Telegram) — Alton Thyger of Pampa was the only sprinter to go through the season undefeated. Sidney Garton (TCU bound) of New Boston lost a 100-yard dash early in the season in a photo finish with an Arkansas sprinter.

Thyger runs a lot like ACC's Bobby Morrow. It doesn't appear he is putting out. Yet Alton had winning times of 9.6 and 20.9 in the 100 and 220 respectively in the schoolboy finals.

BOB HATFIELD (Austin American-Statesman) — The 48th annual Texas Interscholastic League Track Meet has to go down as one of the best ever, thanks to guys like Pampa's Alton Thyger and New Boston's Sidney Garton. They were terrific.

JIMMY BROWDER (Abilene Reporter-News) — Alton Thyger of Pampa, winner in the 100 and 220 is being compared with Bobby Morrow as a smooth effortless sprinter.

Thyger runs with a minimum of arm-swinging and body motion and his head seems to glide along at the same level throughout the race. He was unfortunate in winning the 220, however, as he lost his footing and took a nose-dive.

Speedway Looks Like Junk Yard

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Speedway resembled a junk yard today as the fastest cars in the history of the 500-mile auto race were dismantled for final inspection.

The lineup for the 42nd annual event was completed late Sunday when two more cars were ousted by faster competitors for a field average of 143.445 miles per hour, two miles faster than last year and nearly a mile quicker than the previous top of 142.507 in 1956.

The fastest qualifier was Dick Rathmann, Miami, Fla., who won the pole position with an average of 145.974. Bob Christie, Grant's Pass, Ore., was the slowest at 142.253.

A brand new car driven by Roy Rothman, the 1952 race winner, never got going despite the fact the engine was rebuilt completely. Rothman and six other hopefuls were left stranded at the starting apron when time ran out.

Out Of The Past

Whatever Happened To . . .

Hank Borowy

Hank Borowy, a right-handed pitcher, came up to the Yankees in 1942 and enjoyed considerable success through the war years.

Then in 1945, after piling up a 10-5 record for New York, he suddenly was sold in mid-season to the Chicago Cubs in a $100,000 deal that helped put the Cubs in the World Series that fall. After moving to Chicago, Hank won 11 more games and lost only two.

Borowy never again approached that '45 showing of 21-7 and finally ran out his career with a 2-2 record for Detroit in 1951.

Whatever happened to Hank Borowy? Now 42, Hank is in the real estate business in his native Bloomfield, N.J. He still keeps an active interest in baseball and late last season served briefly as a batting practice pitcher for the Yanks.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Al Kaelin, Louisville, Ky., got match play in the masters tournament at the American Bowling Congress championships off to a wild start Sunday night by upsetting defending champion Dick Hoover, Akron, Ohio.

Hoover, beaten 766 to 746, still has a chance to retain the title he won the last two years running, however. The tournament is run on a double elimination basis.

Hoover's loss wasn't the only shock the masters got in its first match play set. Also beaten were Al Faragalli, Parsmus, N.J. — the current leader in the all-events division of the regular ABC tourney — and Marty Piraino, Syracuse, N.Y.
--

Faragalli lost to Roy Kirchner, Louisville, Ky., 774-734, while Piraino was defeated by Art Nish, Sparks, Nev., 817-767.
--

Only hours earlier, Piraino had set a masters record by leading 35 qualifiers into the match play round with a 1769 score in eight games.

In another big match, Don Carter, St. Louis, 1957 bowler of the year, defeated Bill Lillard, Chicago, 810-752.

Campy Starts New Boxing Job Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roy Campanella, "overwhelmed" by an offer to serve as a deputy state boxing commissioner, will start training for his new job today.

The former Los Angeles Dodgers' catcher will be allowed to sit up in a wheelchair for the first time since he suffered partial paralysis in an auto accident last Jan. 28.

Gov. Averill Harriman visited Campanella Sunday at the Institute for Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at the NYU-Bellevue Medical Center and offered Campy the deputy commissioner's job.

Harriman reported the 36-year-old, former catcher "was overwhelmed" by the job offer and replied, "I would very much like to take it."

Doctors at the institute said the job "would be great" for Campanella's rehabilitation, but gave no indication when he would be able to assume his new duties.

The chief responsibilities of deputy commissioners involve the supervision of professional fights at various clubs in the state. They make between $7,000 and $8,000 a year.

Light-hitting Roy McMillan

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Ernie Vossler, Midland, Tex., headed for Detroit and the Western Open today after confirming that the best short game gets the longest payoff in tournament play.

Vossler, displaying a money-putting finesse acquired a month ago with a new putter and new spectacles, won the $2,800 top prize in the Kansas City Open Sunday with a 19-under-par total of 269.

While a huge gallery circled the final green, Vossler hit a long drive and rammed an 8-iron shot 140 yards to within six inches of the cup for his fifth and final birdie of the day and a 57.

Three strokes behind with 272 was Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., collecting $1,900. PGA champion Lionel Hebert, Lafayette, La., exhibited his fine iron game for 274 and the $1,400 third-place prize.

THE CITADEL LISTS 3

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — The Citadel will play host to the University of Miami (Fla.) and the University of Georgia and Florida State University in an invitational basketball tournament here Dec. 19-20. The Citadel, slowly regaining major status in basketball, had a 16-11 win and lost record last season.

For Davis In 440

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — The Big Ten had a new outdoor track and field champion today in Illinois and four new individual champs, including Ohio State's speedy Glenn Davis who moved in as the 440-yard run king in world record matching time.

The Illini, scoring points in 11 of the 14-event championship card Saturday, hung up its 20th conference track title. The Illini team collected 46 points to nose out defending champ Indiana by five points.

Davis, Ohio State's Olympic 400 meter hurdle champion, provided the meet's biggest thrill when he covered the 440 run in 45.8. Many observers felt that Davis could have bettered that time if he had not turned his head to check his pursuers.

The 58th annual meet put five new conference records in the books and drew another. First division finishers in addition to the new champs from Illinois and runner-up Hoosiers, were Ohio State with 35 points, Michigan State 23 1/2, and Minnesota 16.

Behind them came Iowa, 15, Purdue 13, Michigan 11 1/2, Wisconsin 8 and Northwestern 7.

New Big Ten records were established in the shotput by Bob Henry of Minnesota (56 feet, 11 1/2 inches), in the half-mile by Dave Lean of Michigan State (1:10.1), two-mile run by Leonard Edelen of Minnesota (9:03.2) and in the mile relay by Indiana (3:11.7).

PERFECT — Ed Shay of Chester, Pa., blasted a perfect 300 game for a 733 series to take first place in the singles of the American Bowling Congress Tournament in Syracuse, N. Y. It was the first perfect game in the championship since 1955 and the 15th in 55 years.

Should Have Stood In Bed

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — About 35 longtime Dodger fans, including members of the Brooklynlyng band that used to play at Ebbets Field, traveled by bus from New York Sunday to watch their former heroes in their first invasion of the East.

They shuddered in bed! The Dodgers' game with the Phillies was postponed because of rain.

GIANTS RATE SOME NOTICE

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Milwaukee Braves still have to be the favorite to win the National League flag but the time has come today to take those surprising San Francisco Giants seriously.

Two weeks ago you could still have doubted the Giants. They had fattened themselves by winning eight of 10 from the decrepit Dodgers, whose veterans finally have started careening down the other side of the hill.

But during the interim the Giants have won nine of 13 games and to four young men and nm fa certain, aren't going to fold as expected.

The Giants had the crux of a winning ball club in Willie Mays, Ruben Gomez and Johnny Antonelli. They simply weren't enough to carry the club to the jackpot. Mays is having another fine year, just as he did last season when the club finished sixth. Antonelli won 20 games in 1956, when again the team wound up sixth.

The supporting cast simply wasn't there.

City Rookies

Which brings us to the quartet of rookies which has made the team jell: Namely first baseman Orlando Cepeda, catcher Bob Schmidt, right fielder Willie (Boom Boom) Kirkland and third baseman Jim Davenport. Throw in 19-year-old pitcher Mike McCormick and we have the answer to a ball club which obviously, as of now, isn't going to pull an elf fold.

The 20-year-old Cepeda so far has done everything right to spare the infield and Davenport is a superior glove man. The 25-year-old Schmidt has closed a catching gap and the 24-year-old Kirkland is doing a solid job.

McCormick has been another surprise. A $60,000 bonus baby when signed in August of 1956, in two years he won three games. Pitching with remarkable poise, he's won four games in the last three weeks.

New Challengers

In re-evaluating the National League, you still have to hand the overall award to the Braves, but it has become obvious that there are new challengers. The Cardinals, Redlegs and Dodgers are going back. It is the Giants and, surprisingly enough, the Pirates, who are coming on as the teams of the future.

Pittsburgh has a sound club. It's weakness is in lack of reserves.

Dick Groat, at shortstop, is the Pee Wee Reese type and Bill Mazeroski at second is the best double play man in the league. Hank Folles probably is the best catcher in the league right now, with Roy Campanella gone and Cincinnati's Ed Bailey in a slump.

Frank Thomas at third, an outfield composed of Roberto Clement, Bob Skinner and Bill Virdon and three good pitchers in Bob Friend, Ron Kline and Vern Law gave Pittsburgh a club which needs only reserves and some help here and there to be a real bidder.

Giants Play Army

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — When the San Francisco Giants stop off here today for an exhibition game with the U.S. Military Academy, it will mark their first visit to New York since their big move West last winter.

The transplanted New Yorkers play the Cadets in a game they used to squeeze in on the Monday preceding the regular NL season opener when they called the Polo Grounds home.

'Frisco Fisticuffs Its Way To 2 1/2 Lead

By FRED DOWN

The San Francisco Giants used power at home to make their fast start and now they're using pitching on the road to convince National League rivals their pennant threat is "the real thing."

The amazing Giants achieved their strongest position in more than a decade for this stage of a season Sunday when they swept the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-2 and 6-1, and rebuilt their lead to 2 1/2 games. The Giants now have won 9 of 13 games on their current Eastern trip and have an overall 13-5 record on the road.

A crowd of 35,797 saw a near free-for-all develop in the fifth inning of the opener when Giant pitcher Ruben Gomez and Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh took menacing positions. The trouble, which started in the fourth inning when Gomez hit Bill Mazeroski with a pitched ball, was quickly stopped.

Gomez, none the worse for the incident, went all the way to hurl a nine-hitter and win his fifth decision. Then Ramon Monzon, who won only three games all last season, also pitched a nine-hitter for his fourth victory.

Braves Split

The Milwaukee Braves split a double-header with the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals divided with the Cincinnati Redlegs in other NL games. In the American League, the New York Yankees whipped the Cleveland Indians, 6-3 and 6-1, the Detroit Tigers beat the Washington Senators, 7-2 and 6-3; the Chicago White Sox won, 4-3, after bowing to the Boston Red Sox, 6-3, and the Kansas City Athletics shut out the Baltimore Orioles, 4-0.

Taylor Phillips pitched a six-hitter to give the Cubs a 1-0 victory in their opener but Bob Rush's eight-hitter enabled the Braves to win the second game, 5-2. A fielder's choice produced the opener's only run in the third inning.

11 Courses At NTSC For Teachers

DENTON — Eleven special courses for teachers have been announced for the summer session at North Texas State College by Vice President A. M. Sampley.

The first six-week term runs from June 2 to July 12 and the second from July 14 to Aug. 22.

Special offerings are in teaching of English, business education, health education, driver education, and advanced coaching methods.

The National Council of Teachers of English will co-sponsor with NTSC the workshop on new approaches to the teaching of English grammar. It will meet from July 14 to Aug. 1.

Two business education workshops are scheduled during the first six-week term. The teaching of typewriting will be the subject from June 2 through June 21 and shorthand instruction is the topic from June 24 through July 12. These will feature lectures and demonstrations by a number of nationally-known authorities in the business education field.

A health education workshop, usually offered only once, is scheduled for both summer terms this year because of demand. It is planned for teachers, nurses, administrators, and community leaders.

One driver education course is slated the first term and two the second. A number of high school teachers will attend under scholarship grants to the college by the Allstate Foundation.

Two advanced coaching classes the second term will be taught by the NTSC coaching staff, with guest lectures by a number of the state's more successful mentors in football, basketball, track, and golf.

Another advanced coaching course will be devoted especially to the direction of women in basketball and volleyball.

Another special feature of the summer program will be the nineteenth annual clinic for school librarians June 13 and 14. Dr. Frank Vandiver of Rice Institute, noted civil war historian, has been named the principal speaker.

Study Of CIO

Recently there has been quite an outbreak of favorable publicity for Walter Reuther. This powerful and ruthless labor boss wants to be president of the United States. The ambition, presumably, is laudable, since we have had it dinned into our ears since pre-school years that every American boy can happily aspire to that exalted office. And isn't Walter an American boy? And, therefore, isn't it right and proper that he should aspire?

Of course, to us old-fashioned Americans, the person we would like to see in the highest political office of the land would be someone of sterling character and habits, whose moral outlook is unimpeachable, and whose concepts of Americanism are unimpeachable. Further, we'd like someone with some measure of ability in the task of working with diverse groups in an harmonious manner on a voluntary basis.

Mr. Reuther, as one of the most able gangsters of our time, certainly has ability. This has been demonstrated in many tangible ways since the bloody riots of the thirties which he engineered in Flint and Detroit, right down to and including the equally scandalous insurrection violence at Kohler, Wisconsin. In Reuther, we obviously have a man of talent. He is a past master of the arts of extortion, head cracking and coercion. Actually, he is probably one of the most able muscle-men this country (and Russia) has produced.

We mention Russia, for it was in the Soviet Union that Reuther put the finishing touches on his character and tactics. It was there, where he underwent training for six years, that he learned the gentle arts of sabotage, and also it was while he was there that he became devoted to socialism, and dedicated himself to overthrowing the American concept of free enterprise, with the plan of turning this country into a Soviet United States. This is well known. He boasted openly of his aim and purpose.

Since Mr. Reuther is dedicated to the use of force and violence, since he is equally dedicated to socialism and to having some people pay for the gains of other people, we seriously question his qualifications for President. As we look at the political horizon we can think of no one who could possibly have fewer of the proper qualifications for this office.

Yet, strange as it seems, this is the man who is receiving reams of press support in the nation's dailies. The CIO Newspaper Guild has indicated with more than passing interest that he's the boy to beat. Eleanor Roosevelt considers his entry into the presidential arena as a splendid idea. And there are scores of others who are already giving lip service to Reuther as ruler.

We were particularly enchanted with the activities of the CIO Newspaper Guild in this connection. This particular union is supposed to have high ethical standards. It is supposed to be dedicated to journalism, and not to promoting or backing any person into presidential office. But it now appears that the Guild has in its offices a monstrous pot of paint with which it endeavors to color not only the landscape but all politicians or would-be politicians with a hue favorable to its own collectivist stripe. Reuther is just the kind of man the Guild wants as President.

With equal curiosity we have watched the Guild do a bit of gilding on the person of Barry Goldwater of Arizona. This particular senator, one of the few with the temerity to call Reuther by his correct appellation, has found himself excoriated again and again by the highly ethical Guild writers. Goldwater has expressed himself factually respecting the Kohler strike and the part Mr. Reuther has played therein. This, in Guild parlance, is the unforgivable sin. Therefore, it dips its brush, consisting of a thousands pens, into this same paint pot and smears Mr. Goldwater from pate to pedal extremities.

In the peculiar situation that confronts us, Mr. Goldwater is actually just the kind of man who could quite properly aspire to presidential office. We do not know of any such aspirations. But if he had them, there could be some very serious consideration of his qualifications. His record is impeccable; his patriotism high. His devotion to duty is exemplary. His ability in managing and in knitting together divergent factions by logic and harmony is well known.

But as things stand, the Guild is out to blacken Goldwater. At the same time it endeavors to make Reuther look like a tin saint.

Unemployment Is Avoidable

By F. A. Harper

Installment 10
Suggested Plan

Suppose, for instance, the manager of a certain firm enjoyed such confidence among his employees that they would enter into an agreement with him which they might state something as follows: "We prefer to keep on working here at the best wages we can earn, having in the past been satisfied that the best prospect for us is with your firm. Times have now suddenly changed. Prices and wages which prevailed a short time ago when we were working full time and you were able to sell the entire output, no longer keep us fully employed. So for the duration of this emergency, we propose going ahead working at full output. You will then sell it at the best price you can possibly get in the market. After paying all costs other than payroll and profits, you will divide up the proceeds so that the participants share proportionally from these returns as they did just prior to this emergency—share and share alike. We trust you in honestly accounting on that basis, paying us the highest possible wage the market will allow us for keeping on with our productive work."

This program would without any question, cure unemployment wherever it were to be adopted. In most instances, I believe the decline in "real" wage return would be surprisingly small—especially if other firms in increasing numbers would join in the same program.

Such a procedure, one way or another, is the only way to really cure unemployment anyhow. So the quicker we do it the better for all concerned. It is a program that employees and management of individual firms can start whenever they decide to do so, curing their own unemployment entirely at once and hoping that the rest of the economy will shortly do the same thing.

Those who take such a step might strongly object to having to help carry the heavy costs of a dole for those refusing to do likewise. That objection itself would be one wholesome consequence of such a program, bringing further effective pressure on the doers to do likewise.

The Dismal Science
Economics has been called the dismal science, possibly because it denies that (economically) 2 plus 2 equals 5; it denies that we can consume what has not been produced; it denies that we can raise buying power merely by raising wage rates; it denies that we can cure unemployment by asking for even higher wages when the level is already so high that consumers are refusing to pay the prices necessary to cover wages and other costs.

It is strange that economics alone is called a dismal science merely because utopian schemes are denied by the reality of apparent truths. After all, other disciplines and sciences are rigid too. Algebra is strict in matters of equality within an equation. Geometry holds firmly to the total of the angles within a triangle. Chemistry identifies anything other than hydrogen and chlorine as impurities in table salt.

Viewed in another light, these rigidities are characteristic of anything within an ordered universe, economic truths included. We should welcome rather than bemoan these guides to order, even if they preclude building limitless economic castles in the air. Above all, in difficult times like a depression, we need a firm grip on the prescription for regaining economic health.

Depressions are really the price we pay for our economic ignorance about how an advanced economy works. We can have any level of unemployment and business depression we want, so long as the cures we try are what caused the trouble in the first place.

I doubt that there is now as much general understanding of what causes depressions and what will cure them as there was in 1929. There seems to be less understanding that labor is subject to the same laws of price as is any commodity; that unemployment is only the fever on the brow of an over-priced wage economy; that purchasing power of the employee class can be raised by lowering wages rather than raising them in times like these.

I do not mean in this analysis to assert or imply that we shall suffer as serious a depression as we did in 1929-1939, though it is certainly possible that we may. It probably will not even follow the same pattern of progress as the earlier depression. But if a serious economic adjustment is in the cards and beyond the point of prevention at this time, we shall surely suffer unnecessary privation as the price to be paid for defying simple economic truths, such as the relationship of employment to wage rates.

Masses Try To Lynch A 'Fine Institution'

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The current animosity toward American automobiles is an example of the mental stampede in which masses of people try to lynch some fine institution. The old corner saloon died at a rope's end in 1919 to the cackling glee of a multitude who really had nothing against it. At worst, we were just out of patience with ourselves for getting drunk and squandering money. This, of course, was our own fault and, having destroyed a familiar social resort which was no more harmful than we made it, we soon adopted in its place a reeking dive with no legal or social standards whose faults have carried over into the heterosexual boozing dens of today. Our pent-up yearning for the old saloon is expressed in a highly successful New York resort called the Gay '90's and a similar place called Lulu Belle, in Scottsdale, Ariz., where children and Iowans gawk at the can-can girls who serve the tables. These enchanting females all have children in the local schools, are active in PTA and frequently smack some sassy pair for clucking "oh you kids!"

The magnificent American automobile of all sizes and prices from approximately $2,000 up to approximately $10,000 is a symbol of economic, social and cultural success. The fact that we could earn enough money to buy up the colossal production which mocked the Soviets and Europe should have filled us with pride. Instead we heckled an industry as great as all of Russia's industries combined for adorning our cars with pretty but unessential bright-work and the glorious hues of a Yankee flower garden. The prices were consistent with the earnings of our people. Indeed, we had eagerly approved a degree of inflation so that we could buy such luxuries, and the beauty of these cars was endorsed by the joyous response of the customers. After all, they were the judges.

To be sure, many went deeper into debt than prudence should have let them, but a nation which babbles "freedom" would have pulled a sullen mouth if the government had ventured to admonish us not to over-commit ourselves. At a luncheon gala given in the Waldorf in the winter of 1936, Harlow Curtice of General Motors announced his company would continue to make beautiful cars at whatever cost, mostly represented by wages, plus a reasonable return, as long as the people would buy them.

The European flivver is, in actual fact, a mechanical beetle whose main marvel, in the public mind, is not its cheapness, littleness and convenience, but the incredible fact that it can run at all. It is a gloomy thing, mainly the color of dead grass. Its illusion of magical power is dispelled by the fact that the motor does not have to pull the weights which give American cars their stability, comfort and class. And a man of normal dimensions must absorb himself like a reptile and tuck his head between his knees to get in. Getting out, he resembles a worm emerging from a chestnut. For women with social pride in expensive possessions such as furs and a few diamonds, these tawdry capsules are an embarrassment before the public. This loss of face is not recouped by a gay pretense that they are going proletarian as a protest against the parking problem. A girl doesn't knock her hat slouchwise, bark her shins and endure the bumps and jiggles some time after a period of fiddling with futile nostrums to cure the depression.

New Category In Travel Books

With rioting fast becoming one of the most popular sports in many parts of the world (including Boston), travel authorities soon are going to have to add a new chapter to their books.

Under the heading of Riots: What To Wear To Them, How To Behave During Them, and How To Get Out Of Them With A Whole Skin will be vital information for the guidance of the hundreds of thousands of Americans who go abroad each year.

I have been in quite a few riots in my time as a newspaperman, and in quite a few places. So, I thought I might as well give some advice while the travel authorities are revising their books.

One of the most important things to remember when caught in a riot, even in what appears to be a friendly one, is to try to look like a rioter and not like what is being rioted at. That's even better sense than it is grammar. For example, if a mob is throwing stones, eggs and fruit at a politician, avoid looking like a man elected to public office.

If you have on a Homburg, throw it away. If you speak, don't sound pompous. If things get too hot, pick up a tomato and throw it at the politician. You can always make your aim bad.

The last riot I was in was in Tripoli not too many months ago. The rioters were made at King Saud for visiting their king, and tore up and down the streets, running over and stepping on anyone who happened to be in their way. In my seersucker suit, which I always wear in hot climates, there wasn't much danger of my being taken for a visiting king but I wasn't taking any chances.

When I saw the mob coming I rumpled what hair I have, pulled my shirt tails out, stepped behind the biggest post I could find, and yelled, "Boo King Saud! Boo King Saud! Saud go home! We Libyans don't want you here!"

It worked fine, and I got back to my hotel without a scratch. Another thing to remember in a riot is to steer clear of policemen who are breaking up the riot—or trying to. Many voices at riot-attending, make the mistake of trying to get near a policeman. This would be all right were it not for the fact that few if any policemen take time out from swinging their clubs to tell you tell them you are on their side.

I tried to get near a policeman in Calcutta one time, and before I could say I was an American, did not believe in riots, and was ready and willing to help the police quell the disorder, a cop had given me a good caning with one of those whippy sticks Indian Gendarmes.

By the way, he finished with me, I was for sure I was for law and order at all.

In lots of riots I have been in, I would have been perfectly safe had the rioters known I was an American, and not British or French or something. But in the heat of a riot, Americans look like any whose literary includes countries where rioting is popular, should be able to clearly identify himself as an American.

Chewing gum isn't enough. Whistling Yankee Doodle isn't either. Neither is wearing a splashy tie or a sports coat of a pale color. What you need is one of those Uncle Sam suits you see in Fourth of July parades, or make-up that you can put on in a second, which makes you look like Abe Lincoln.

Bulky to carry along, yes, but mighty reassuring in the middle of a wild disorder.

THE NATION'S PRESS

STUDY IN CIO CONTRASTS
Colorado Springs Gazette
(Telegraph)

Recently there has been quite an outbreak of favorable publicity for Walter Reuther. This powerful and ruthless labor boss wants to be president of the United States. The ambition, presumably, is laudable, since we have had it dinned into our ears since pre-school years that every American boy can happily aspire to that exalted office. And isn't Walter an American boy? And, therefore, isn't it right and proper that he should aspire?

Of course, to us old-fashioned Americans, the person we would like to see in the highest political office of the land would be someone of sterling character and habits, whose moral outlook is unimpeachable, and whose concepts of Americanism are unimpeachable. Further, we would like someone with some measure of ability in the task of working with diverse groups in an harmonious manner on a voluntary basis. Mr. Reuther, as one of the most able gangsters of our time, certainly has ability. This has been demonstrated in many tangible ways since the bloody riots of the thirties which he engineered in Flint and Detroit, right down to and including the equally scandalous insurrection violence at Kohler, Wisconsin. In Reuther, we obviously have a man of talent. He is a past master of the arts of extortion, head cracking and coercion. Actually, he is probably one of the most able muscle-men this country (and Russia) has produced.

We mention Russia, for it was in the Soviet Union that Reuther put the finishing touches on his character and tactics. It was there, where he underwent training for six years, that he learned the gentle arts of sabotage, and also it was while he was there that he became devoted to socialism, and dedicated himself to overthrowing the American concept of free enterprise, with the plan of turning this country into a Soviet United States. This is well known. He boasted openly of his aim and purpose.

Since Mr. Reuther is dedicated to the use of force and violence, since he is equally dedicated to socialism and to having some people pay for the gains of other people, we seriously question his qualifications for President. As we look at the political horizon we can think of no one who could possibly have fewer of the proper qualifications for this office.

Yet, strange as it seems, this is the man who is receiving reams of press support in the nation's dailies. The CIO Newspaper Guild has indicated with more than passing interest that he's the boy to beat. Eleanor Roosevelt considers his entry into the presidential arena as a splendid idea. And there are scores of others who are already giving lip service to Reuther as ruler.

We were particularly enchanted with the activities of the CIO Newspaper Guild in this connection. This particular union is supposed to have high ethical standards. It is supposed to be dedicated to journalism, and not to promoting or backing any person into presidential office. But it now appears that the Guild has in its offices a monstrous pot of paint with which it endeavors to color not only the landscape but all politicians or would-be politicians with a hue favorable to its own collectivist stripe. Reuther is just the kind of man the Guild wants as President.

With equal curiosity we have watched the Guild do a bit of gilding on the person of Barry Goldwater of Arizona. This particular senator, one of the few with the temerity to call Reuther by his correct appellation, has found himself excoriated again and again by the highly ethical Guild writers. Goldwater has expressed himself factually respecting the Kohler strike and the part Mr. Reuther has played therein. This, in Guild parlance, is the unforgivable sin. Therefore, it dips its brush, consisting of a thousands pens, into this same paint pot and smears Mr. Goldwater from pate to pedal extremities.

In the peculiar situation that confronts us, Mr. Goldwater is actually just the kind of man who could quite properly aspire to presidential office. We do not know of any such aspirations. But if he had them, there could be some very serious consideration of his qualifications. His record is impeccable; his patriotism high. His devotion to duty is exemplary. His ability in managing and in knitting together divergent factions by logic and harmony is well known.

But as things stand, the Guild is out to blacken Goldwater. At the same time it endeavors to make Reuther look like a tin saint.

Program covers were made with baby pictures of those attending the banquet.
