Long Chase By Officers And Civilians Results In Arrest Of Man Wanted For Robbery Of Two Banks

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 30.—Policeman Anthony Ruthy, the traffic officer on duty at Randolph and Michigan boulevards when Alfred J. Lingle was slain June 9, 1930, in a pedestrian tunnel there, was killed at the same busy intersection tonight by a man fleeing arrest for bank robbery.

A fellow officer, Patrick Durkin, was seriously wounded in the chase along streets jammed with rush-hour traffic, which ended with the capture of Frank Johnson, 30, Rock Island, Ill., as the assailant.

Told Of "Visions"

Ruthy, whose testimony of "visions" in the trial of Leo V. Brothers for Lingle's murder caused a sensation, was felled as he started from his post in the middle of Michigan boulevard. It was he who had named Frankie Foster as the man he saw fleeing from the pedestrian tunnel after Lingle was shot down; but at the trial he said his identification of Foster was only a "vision."

Officers said two private operatives had trailed Johnson to a building just north of the intersection. While one of them, L. B. Benson, started for police the other, John Woods, walked down the boulevard with him.

Broke And Ran

Just as Ruthy moved from his post and Durkin from the corner, Johnson broke away and dashed down the street, threading across Randolph to the public library corner. On the way, he whipped out a gun and fired twice—once at Ruthy, once at Durkin. Ruthy fell mortally wounded in the abdomen.

Johnson dashed to the library steps and Policeman Pat Enright, on duty a half a block away, start-

Fights Liquor

"Any person who has liquor in his home is a criminal," ruled Superior Judge Edward I. Butler of Marin county, Calif., in denying an appeal in a liquor possession charge. "Although the Volstead act is bungiesome and unenforceable, it is the law," he said, adding that anyone who sees liquor in a friend's home also is a lawbreaker if he doesn't report the violation.

Plans Made To Use Nitro For Snuffing Well

Immediate Action In Effort To Halt Blazing Inferno In East Texas Is Expected By Company Officials

(By The Associated Press)

GLADEWATER, April 30.—Rapid progress was made today toward putting the Sinclair No. 1 Cole in condition to receive an extraordinary dose of nitroglycerine to stifle the flames which claimed eight lives and it was barely possible that the giant geyser of fire might be tamed tomorrow by the deft hands of M. M. and Harry Kinley of Tulsa, daredevil placers of explosives.

J. M. Clevenger, foreman in charge of 50 men and a large number of teams, tractors, and other machinery clearing away debris and building a path for the charge of nitroglycerine, earlier in the day had expressed fear it would be Saturday before physical conditions would be ideal.

Expresses Confidence

Clevenger recalled that the Kinley brothers had snuffed out three great oil well fires for the organization and expressed confidence that the task at hand would prove a mere trifle for them, once the trigger was poised for release.

Some men encased in asbestos clothing were engaged in the tedious task of pulling out steel casing and rig equipment from the inferno. While this work was in progress, visitors were barred from the scene. This applied to newspaper men for the first time and all who sought to plow through the deep

Shouse Says Fess Using "Below The Belt" Blows

States Chairman Has Abandoned Rules Of Honest Men

(By The Associated Press)

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 30.—Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, attacking the administration of President Hoover in an address here today before the state convention of the Democratic woman's club of Kentucky, declared President Hoover "is as utterly misplaced in the White House as any man could be."

"The American people have ceased to give credence to statements is using from the White House," said Mr. Shouse, "the trouble is President Hoover can't deal with men on a basis of equality, although he does well where he has the authority of a czar."

Predicts Control

Mr. Shouse predicted the Democratic party would gain control of both houses of congress as well as the presidency in 1932 and said Kentucky had the opportunity "to lead the way this fall for a victory that would provide the basis for them 20 to 30 years of Democratic rule in the nation."

Departing from his prepared text, Mr. Shouse also discussed the tariff, farm relief, charges he had "smeared Hoover, and prohibition.

Hopes For Declaration

Discussing prohibition Mr. Shouse said: "I hope the Democratic party will have the courage to make a constructive declaration on this vexed problem."

Mr. Shouse criticized President Hoover for what he charged was the failure to give Senator Robert Wagner of New York credit for employment relief measures introduced by the senator in the last congress. He predicted the measures would be passed by the 72nd congress "over the president's veto if necessary."

Shouse said discord within the

Bank Bandits Take $20,000

Two New Orleans Banks Held Up By Four Robbers; Total Of $10,000 Is Taken From Each Of Two

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, April 30.—Within less than four hours, masked bandits raided two branches of the Canal Bank and Trust company here and escaped with approximately $20,000 in cash.

A check by bank officials showed the holdup of the Ewing branch, far uptown, shortly before noon to have netted about $10,000 loot. The second holdup, at the Lautenschlaeger branch, downtown, this afternoon, resulted in the loss of almost an equal amount of cash.

Four Participate

In the first robbery, four masked men participated, and filed in a closed car driven by a black-hooded chauffeur, after forcing three customers to lie on the floor of the lobby while a dozen employes were herded into a corner.

The same methods were employed in the Lautenschlaeger branch robbery, where four masked men also appeared.

Surprise Awaits Members Of Mickey Mouse Club At Next Regular Session

MICKEY Mouse's latest picture is "Castaways," and it will be shown at the Palace theater tomorrow morning when the Lubbock Mickey Mouse club holds its regular weekly meeting. In addition to the "all-squeakie" film with the club's mythical hero in the leading part, there will be a singing contest and an instrumental contest for the members of the club, winners to receive suitable prizes.

Doors to the Palace theater will be opened at 9 o'clock tomorrow and the show will start promptly at 9:30. A special surprise number is included on the the program but President Jack Copeland would not divulge the nature of it. He says that he expects a full attendance of the club tomorrow and promises a treat in the way of the surprise package.

The feature picture, a regular lengthy film, "Dracula," is one of those "scary" kind, the president states, and "if you are nervous and easily frightened you had better bring along your older brother or sister to sit with you."

Members of the club should bring their membership cards and the regular weekly dues, one dime, for admission to the show tomorrow.

"Straw Hat Day" Observed Here

They're due to be seen on the streets today—those new "straw katies", ushering in the spring and summer season for Lubbock and South Plains males.

Merchants have given the new styles conspicious places in their windows and Avalanche-Journal advertisements have shouted the news to the menfolks. The stage is set — ready for "off with the old, on with the new" as far as men's hats are concerned.

Counties Will Have Services Of Agent Soon

Jones, Stonewall And Kent To Get Home Demonstration Workers, According To District Agent's Announcement

Three more counties in district No. 2 of the state demonstration service will have county agents "just as soon as we can get them," according to word received here from Miss Myrtle Murray, district agent leader.

New counties are Jones, Stonewall and Kent. This makes 23 counties in the districts out of 34 that have agents.

Money Available

"Appropriations for these counties are available and we hope to get agents for them right away," Miss Murray explained. "We will select our girls and then give them an examination. Just as soon as we have three agents that can qualify we will place them. I hope that it can be done before the first of June."

Besides these counties, a fourth one has virtually completed its arrangements for an agent. This one will not be announced until all financial arrangements are complete.

Government Aids

Additional appropriations for home demonstration work are made available to Texas by the federal government under the Smith-Hughes act. The increase is met by counties who pay a portion of the cost of the agents.

Besides these counties there are several more on the South Plains that have been working for an agent. Among these are Bailey county to the northwest, Crosby county east and Parmer county. Terry county also is seeking an agent.

"Scented" Buds

Edwin's System Not Quite "Ethical"

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 30.—It was just like any other flower shop, prohibition agents said. Across the front window was a big sign which read "Florist." There were lillies and roses there too.

But the scent that reached the nostrils of the agents, they related, was strangely unlike any roses or lillies they had ever smelled so they decided to investigate.

Inside they reported they found Clarence Edwin amid a system of pipes, designed not to water the flowers, but to quench the thirst of any of Edwin's customers who might care for beer.

Perhaps Edwin can think of some explanation. At any rate he was given time by a United States commissioner, who continued his hearing.

Young Colorado Hero Declares That He Is Having "Swell Time" Visiting

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Bryan Untiedt is having a "swell time" visiting President and Mrs. Hoover.

The Colorado school boy hero so described his visit today to a clerk who recognized him as he was buying a present for his mother. It was his first public expression on his experience at the White House.

There were no kings around today to be watched by the 13-year-old boy and he gave himself over to sightseeing and chatting with President and Mrs. Hoover and other White House guests.

He watched the president play medicine ball and ate breakfast, lunch and dinner with him, went shopping and visited Arlington, Mount Vernon, Fort Myer, the Smithsonian institute, the National museum, the bureau of engraving and printing and the White House dog kennels.

Negligence Is Charged After Accident Here

C. A. Sheffield Is Released On $250 Bond After A Complaint Is Signed By Mother Of Dead Girl

Two Counts Cited

Palimae Kelly Instantly Killed And Floyd Ward Seriously Hurt Last Friday Night At Avenue H Underpass

C. A. Sheffield, hotel manager, yesterday was charged with negligent homicide in a complaint filed in county court in connection with the death last Friday night of Palimae Kelly, 17, in an automobile accident at the Avenue H. underpass. The complaint was signed by Mrs. E. Birkett, mother of the girl.

Following the filing of charges, Sheffield made $250 bond. His surities were W. A. Myrick, jr., and E. J. Parsons. County Judge E. L. Pitts ordered the defendant to appear in court May 18 for the setting of the case.

Instantly Killed

Miss Kelly was instantly killed and her companion Floyd Ward, was seriously injured when they were struck by an automobile driven by Sheffield as they were crossing Avenue H at the north entrance of the Avenue H underpass. The driver of the car told officers his view of the road was blocked by another machine, with a trailer attached, which was parked on the road. As he swerved to miss the trailer his automobile struck the couple walking across the street.

The complaint filed by County Attorney Vaughn Wilson charges Sheffield with negligence on two counts. One count alleges that he was exceeding 30 miles per hour within the city limits. The other allegation charges he was going at such rate of speed that he was unable to control his automobile when the danger of striking Miss Kelly became apparent.

Third To Call

Mrs. Birkett was the third person related to the girl to call at his office in regard to filing a complaint in connection with the fatal accident, County Attorney Wilson said. The charges were not preferred against Sheffield until a thorough

Four Escape In Crash Thursday

Although both machines were damaged, the occupants of the two automobiles colliding at Sixteenth street and K early last night escaped injury.

The collision occurred when Gordon James, 2319 Eighth street, driving a Ford coach east on Sixteenth street, and Mrs. C. C. Crowson, 1407 Avenue M, driving a Pontiac coupe, west on the same street, attempted to turn into Avenue K at the same time, according to officers who investigated the accident.

Two girls were riding in the automobile with James. Mrs. Crowson was alone.

Mellon Severely Criticized By Congressman Marvin Jones

AMARILLO, April 30. (AP)—"When Andrew Mellon's interests do not conflict with those of the government, he makes a pretty fair secretary of the treasury," said Congressman Marvin Jones, Democrat, in addressing the Amarillo Rotary club today.

"But when Mr. Mellon's interests conflict and they frequently do, the idea seems to be 'God help the government.'"

Congressman Jones charged that one of the causes of the present economic conditions was the big decrease in the amount of currency in circulation.

Visiting Texas High School Home Economics Girls Guests For Tea

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

SOMEONE was wishing today it would stop raining and that the sun would come out again to stay. It served as a reminder that in another month or so this same person will be wishing that it would rain again.

Perhaps there has been plenty of precipitation, but here is one person who doubts it. There have been very few times in the history of West Texas when we have had too much rain and at those times it was a condition lasting but a short time. If I'm not badly mistaken, a good season now is going to help later in the year with crops—later when rain isn't so plentiful.

The mud is inconvenient if this happens to be the time of year when you have decided to make a motor trip; it gets tracked into the house and most things are more unpleasant during rainy weather than they are on a balmy spring day, but we might just as well be glad to see it. Moisture is one thing West Texas can use and one thing we should not complain about, even in a land of sunshine.

FOR OUR FRIENDS

NO OTHER animal can draw the universal sympathy and love that is accorded a dog. There was the mourning at the British court the other day when the King's pet died and sorrow over the death of Richard Byrd's pet, Igloo.

Pal, the pet dog of a widow and her four children in Schenectady, N. Y., was threatened with execution recently unless his license fee and court costs, amounting to $11, were paid. The widow had no money but the dog's death would have been a genuine tragedy to the little family. Citizens became interested and as a result a fund of $28.85 was raised. After the fee had been paid, the remainder of the fund was presented to the needy family.

KING COTTON AT COURT

IN KEEPING with the spirit of this section, there is to be a cotton court at a pageant to be presented before the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention under the direction of Miss D'Lauriel Beville. Miss West Texas and every member of her immediate court will be gowned in organdie.

This is a gesture in the right direction. West Texas is a land of cotton and it is fitting that cotton should be worn at a pageant such as this, particularly since gowns from this fabric will be no less lovely than dresses of silk.

OUR RIVALS

THEY didn't get as much publicity on it all as the women did Easter, but the men are welcoming spring today. This is Straw Hat day in Lubbock and, rain or shine, they are all supposed to parade around in their new lids for the benefit of the public in general. You can't blame the men for being so late with their spring togs. They had to wait until all the furor of Easter styles for women died so they could get more notice.

HOW CIVILIZED WE ARE

THIS is a great day. We probe around to see that our drinking water is pure, that we have a balanced diet; we choose our toothpaste, lotions, car, clothing and other things by the dependability of the manufacturer as evidenced by his trade mark; we pride ourselves on our power of discrimination in selection of neccessities and luxuries and then it becomes necessary for the public health services to warn laymen against drinking anti-freeze solutions.

BACK TO THE WEATHER

WEATHER forecasts 25 years ahead, expected from study of "sunspots", a headline relates. Now we'll be able to set dates for picnics with impunity.

Seriously, though, we should realize great benefit if such forecasts can be accurately made. A. F. Gordon, of the Scripps institution of oceanography of California, advanced some theories this week before a meeting of the American Geophysical union which indicate that men may be able to determine a number of years in advance when droughts and wet spells will occur.

If such things can be done we should be able to look toward the proverbial rainy day—or dry day—and prevent much of the economic depression of these occasions. Men who study the weather believe that rainfall, heat and other such conditions increase and decrease in regular cycles and that this will al-

You either feel GOOD or you don't

Chief Connally had both these experiences

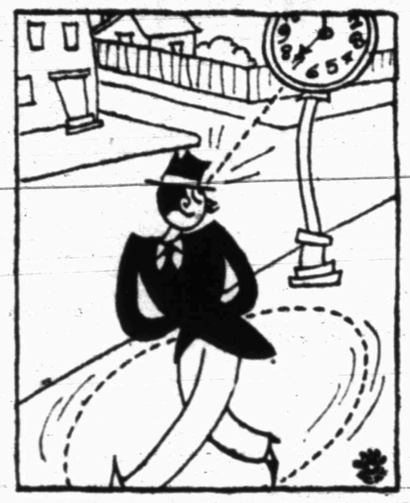

Mr. C. P. Connally, Asst. Chief of Police, Atlanta, Georgia

"I felt weak and rundown," writes Chief Connally. "An examination of my blood showed it to be 33% below normal. After taking S.S.S. about six weeks another blood examination showed my red-blood-cells had been restored to normal. My appetite was improved and my skin became clear. S.S.S. has made me feel young again, although I am 56 years old.

Every spring countless thousands take S.S.S.—the purely vegetable tonic—to build back their red-blood-cells so that they may have that new strength which makes for a keen appetite, firm flesh, a clear skin and greater resistance against infection and disease. A warning against substitutes for genuine Kotex

YES, some substitutes are cleverly made to look like Kotex. But that doesn't make them the same.

Are they clean, like Kotex? Scientifically made in surroundings of hospital cleanliness? Have modern methods been used, so that hands have never touched them?

These questions remain unanswered, when you accept a substitute of whose makers you know nothing. But these are questions of vital importance; because they are directly related to your health.

Accept no substitute of whose origin you are uncertain. Demand Kotex — the genuine. Hospitals use Kotex. It fully meets their requirements.

Kotex is supremely comfortable. Shaped to fit. Adjustable. Stays soft for hours.

Perfume Which Turns to Whisky Is Latest Trick Of U. S. "Leggers"; Government Chemists Kept Busy With Stuff

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A rose by any other name may smell as sweet, but not to the chemists who test perfumes for Uncle Sam.

The innocent rose scent in a bottle of "toilet lotion" may be only camouflage for a bootlegger's trick to obtain industrial alcohol from the government.

Alcohol is the base for perfumes and toilet preparations, just as it is the base for whisky. High-grade perfumes are practically all alcohol, with a touch of perfume oil added.

Bootleggers syndicates therefore try to obtain alcohol under pretense of making perfume, using it instead to make illicit liquor. Some actually manufacture perfume, but use perfume oil of such a nature that it can be easily distilled out, leaving pure alcohol that is far more valuable as whisky than as perfume.

Chemists of the bureau of industrial alcohol, supervised by Chief Chemist G. F. Beyar, try to discover such "fake" perfumes and thus detect those who are obtaining alcohol under false pretenses.

Their laboratory smells like a drug store toilet goods counter. Gaily-colored bottles of all shapes and sizes, full of scents and lotions, line the shelves.

Every manufacturer of toilet preparations who wants a permit for industrial alcohol must submit samples of his product showing the perfumes to be made in such a way that they cannot be easily distilled back into alcohol.

The chemists always must be on the watch for new tricks of dishonest manufacturers or bootleggers. If the samples contain less perfume oil than the formula allows, it may be possible to distill out the oil more easily. If there is too much oil in the samples, the manufacturer may be diverting part of his alcohol to bootleggers.

Before government agents began close supervision of dishonest perfume manufacturers, many did not even bother to maintain a fake plant as a blind, but trucked their alcohol direct from government warehouses to liquor-making plants.

When agents began supervising actual manufacture, genuine perfume was made, but of a sort that could be easily redistilled. It was shipped off in drums, ostensibly to bottling plants, but instead found its way to illicit stills for conversion back into alcohol.

Between 500 and 600 samples of perfumes, toilet lotions, hair tonics and theater sprays are tested by the government's chemists every month.

Racketeers are seeking to make an ally of the innocent-looking perfume bottle which adorns milady's boudoir table, but plans for redistilling cheap perfume to obtain the alcohol usually are frustrated by V. C. K. Robey (left), chemist of the federal industrial alcohol bureau, or someone else on the staff.

Bryan Untiedt's Story

THERE are occurring many events of more importance than the visit of Bryan Untiedt to Washington but reports of few, if any of them, have been given any more recent notice. A public interested in politics and taxes, in legislatures, murders, scandals and visiting Oriental rulers, also has time to be interested in the activities of a small boy—particularly if he is a proven hero and is visiting with the President of the United States.

This is a human world, after all, and even the grizzled, somewhat cynical czars who walk the decks of the nation's humming news rooms, realize it. They know, even if loath to admit it, that a lot of people, in the privacy of their own homes, delight in homespun tales of romance such as hides behind the printed lines of the Bryan Untiedt story.

Right here in Lubbock, and over the South Plains there are dozens and dozens of grown men who are reading daily of the Colorado boy in the White House, and secretly living his thrills in their own imaginations. The Untiedt story, sandwiched between the latest gang war and the most recent, sensational divorce suit, is drawing plenty of attention to itself.

And, if you ask The Morning Avalanche, it's a pretty healthy state of affairs. It proves that all of us are ready and willing, at the slightest provocation, to interest ourselves in the finer, cleaner things of the everyday world. It indicates that there is still a homely heartbeat available for a boy who plays a man's part and then accepts his well won honors in an humble, courageous way.

We need more Bryan Untiedts—and more Bryan Untiedt stories to make life a little happier, a little sweeter.

RUNNING IN CIRCLES

One of our American astronomers, Dr. Dayton C. Miller, of Cleveland, Ohio, has taken up the problem of destinations in a big and cosmic way. He has presented evidence, direct and circumstantial, that this solar system of ours is on its way to the Constellation Drago and making progress at the rate of six miles a second. It denies an ancient opinion that we are going toward the Constellation Hercules at twelve miles a second. There is an important and possibly fundamental difference here, even though no one has any idea what its importance may be.

Unlike lesser wisdom science knows that nothing can be done about it. There is nothing to be done about the solar system. It will just have to run its course and see what comes of it.

Sometimes one thinks civilization, life, that thing familiarly known as "progress," are like the solar system in this respect. Man talks of making civilization, guiding life and promoting progress as though it were in his power to run things according to his will and whims. But usually when he imagines himself making the most progress he is getting no farther than a dog chasing its own tail.

Philosophers, economists, moralists, prophets, seers, lecturers, professional prognosticators and evangelists seem to be engaged in the futile business of determining where we are going that we may firmly and highly resolve to go somewhere else.

No effort ever was made to get the war profiteer who put a shine up to a dime.

A jingo is a patriot who would sacrifice his last neighbor to protect the national honor.

You may inherit a great fortune, but it takes real ability to get the knack of dodging taxes.

Practical Health Problems

INFANT TRAINING

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Probably no other factor of infant training concerns the mother so much as the difficulty of training infants to proper habits so far as concerns their excretions. Some mothers are apparently able to teach their babies not to soil themselves after they are six weeks old. Other mothers find it difficult to train infants even after two years of age. Granted that the child and the mother are of normal intelligence, training can do much in this regard.

In a recent consideration of the subject in Hygeia, Katherine Brownell suggests that the first step is to determine the usual hour of the bowel action, which, at the age of six weeks, is perhaps twice each day. A small vessel, made especially for the infant, is held between the mother's legs, and the child is supported in a comfortable sitting position. This is repeated time after time, and at least 50 per cent of babies get the idea promptly. In a few instances infants do not seem to learn readily; in such cases, a small glycerine suppository or the temporary insertion of any well greased or oiled tube will begin the action, and after two or three days the artificial stimulation can be omitted.

It is, of course, important to have the child understand that the matter is entirely normal. It must not be frightened, and everything possible should be done for its comfort. The mother should realize that the infant should not be taken from a warm bed and its skin placed in contact with a cold vessel brought in from outdoors.

A slight warming of the utensil will keep the child from anticipating its use with fear of discomfort. Wherever the systematic plan is adopted the results are likely to be so good that the mother becomes a propagandist and educator for the future.

Visiting nurses have put such plans into effect in homes and invariably with good results. Here, after all, is a case in which individual attention by trained mother or nurse means much for the beginning of sensible habits. The child whose training is begun at six weeks of age is a more easily trained child in other habits and ways of life thereafter. The world is built on a social scheme, and happiness depends largely on a reasonable amount of conformation to social custom.

Termed As Patriot

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Is Sandino, the Nicaraguan disturber, in reality a bandit?

Or a patriot?

"His enemies," answered Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, recently back from Central America, "say he's a bandit. Considering that they're his enemies, I suspect that they're prejudiced.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart

"Sandino has been in arms a long time, and a large element among his countrymen continue in sympathy with him. I doubt if this would be the case if he were an ordinary bandit. A common bandit seldom has many friends. He may have a few followers, but not the good wishes of practically the entire population of the area he operates in. Sandino evidently has. Otherwise his own people would suppress him."

"LATIN AMERICAN revolutions no doubt are tiresome," admitted the Iowan, "to big North American concerns engaged in business in Latin America; but, after all, they don't have to engage in business there."

Indeed, there is some complaint that special privileges, granted to foreigners at the expense of the native masses, occasionally are responsible for anti-governmental uprisings in the Carribbean republics. For example, the dispossession of small farmers to improve the irrigation facilities on Yankee-owned fruit plantations is mentioned among the causes of serious fighting lately in Honduras.

"Just so," nodded the Hawkeye senator, "and I'm opposed to a policy of projecting the authority of the United States, backed by marines, into property disputes outside our territory.

"Of course we should save lives. Protecting vested interests is a different matter."

"INTERNAL disturbances of other countries," continued the corn belt lawmaker, "are not our business, anyway.

"We are as likely to meddle in them on the wrong as on the right side.

"Even though, as occurred in Nicaragua, a liberal group gets into office by overthrowing a corrupt, reactionary regime, it doesn't follow that the new crowd will not presently need to be thrown out in turn. Liberals have a way of turning corrupt and reactionary, too, quite often, when once they are entrenched in power."

"PANAMA," recalled the senator, "had a revolution not many months before I visited there.

"It is recognized now that it effected a great improvement.

"Yet the old administration howled 'Bandits!' for all it was worth while it was being ousted. It would have been very glad to have the United States intervene to save it."

"THE Central American press," said the Iowan "is declaring openly that Cuba simply is suffering for a revolution.

"I didn't go to Cuba, and if I had I don't suppose I'd have heard anything about it there; from all accounts no one dares to mention the subject aloud under President Machado's jurisdiction. But that's the verdict elsewhere in Latin America.

"In Cuba the individual who makes such a suggestion is in line to be dealt with as a 'bandit'."

"SO when I hear Sandino denounced as a 'bandit'," concluded Senator Brookhart, "I want fuller information before drawing any definite conclusion.

"Even when I hear stories of the atrocities he is reported to have committed I want to hear his story also before I feel absolutely certain.

"I think that maybe 'bandit' merely is a name his enemies are calling him."

PAYING IN HUMAN MISERY

Latest and most convincing of the attacks on the tariff inflicted upon the world by the Hoover administration comes from the Carnegie Foundation, whose investigators never go off half cocked. Its conclusions usually come last, but they are as dependable as the tides and as searching.

After studying the effects of the 1930 tariff upon world business and its relation to the world-wide depression, the foundation announced:

"Following passage of the act there came from every corner of the world a volume of angry protest and retaliation which has not diminished to this day. The act was a blow struck by one nation at the economic stability of 60 nations."

Economists traced step by step the processes of economic dislocation leading from the enactment of this insane and selfish legislation to the prostration of business the world over. Now they can with certainty point the finger of guilt at those responsible.

It matters little now whether the protectionists believed a higher tariff would restore prosperity or acted solely upon selfish motives. The world is paying the cost in human misery. They face an accusing jury of 17,000,000 unemployed in six leading industrial nations.

THE GENTLE JUNGLE

When authorities differ, the innocently ignorant layman has nowhere to turn. And it has been casually assumed of late that the lurid moving and talking pictures of conditions in the world's wild places were approximately authentic. But an explorer of unquestionable credentials, William Beebe, told a Philadelphia audience recently that the jungle has been much maligned and its inhabitants slandered, both in the name of science and entertainment.

Sharks, scorpions, tarantulas, vipers, vampire bats and even lions and tigers are not nearly so dangerous as is supposed and a two-inch tropical fish is more to be feared than any of them. Of more practical interest is the fact that tropical heat is cooler than New York in midsummer. This famous explorer, indeed, has made out a case for the jungle which implies that it may some day become a favorite pleasure resort as well as a sportsman's paradise. Since the tropics include one-third of the earth's surface, it is encouraging to be told that they are so attractive.

Writers and picture-makers undoubtedly load their stories with as many thrills and terrors as the traffic will bear and the audience endure. But the scientist insists on the facts. And the testimony of the best-known naturalist of today is all in favor of a wholesome skepticism in accepting the yarns of those who have lately exploited the jungle, the veldt, the desert and the deep sea to contrive novelties in public entertainment.

If something must be hugged, let it be the curve.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY • by MILES BURTON

READ THIS FIRST:

The famous Hardway Diamonds are stolen and a gang led by a person called the Funny Toff, who no one has seen, but who is identified by his maniacal laughter at the scenes of his crimes is suspected. Inspector Brooks is first put on the trail, but his body is returned in a packing case to Sir Edric Conway, police commissioner. Young Dick Penhampton, who is in love with pretty Alison Weatherleigh, is put on the trail and at midnight discovers the body of one Thomas Herridge, a rival gangster. One of the diamonds has been placed on the dead man's chest. Dick and Detective Pollard seem to lose all clues. Dick finally asks Sir Edric to make an examination of the packing case in which Brooks' body was returned Dick discovers a piece of mud in the case from Brooks' shoe. Upon being analyzed, the discovery is made it probably comes from a lonely hill country known as the Mendips. Dick pays the locality a visit to investigate some old lead mine workings. In the hills, Dick discovers an abandoned old mining building belonging to a lead mining syndicate. Summoned home by a telegram signed Alison, Dick learns next morning that Mr. Ibbotson's house has been robbed of some famous rubies. The police question the servants. Inspector Pollard finds a perfect finger print on the door knob of the pantry. After being photographed, Pollard identifies the finger prints as the same as found on a glass in a gang hangout known as the Margate Jetty.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 30

"From these photographs you infer that the man who took the rubies was an occasional frequenter of the Margate Jetty," remarked Sir Edric. "Even I can see that C is a photograph of the impressions on the door-handle. That looks rather significant, doesn't it? The Hardway case led Brooks to the Margate Jetty and we believe that the Funny Toff had a hand in that business. This seems to strengthen my suspicions that the Funny Toff is responsible, for the disappearance of the Maharajah's rubies as well. What do you know of the man who was responsible for the imprints marked A?"

"Not very much, sir," replied Pollard. "They were made the night after the discovery of Inspector Brooks' body, before I had got my system of checking the visitors to the Margate Jetty property organized. However, the landlord told me that only one man he didn't know by sight came in that evening. He looked like a gentleman, but he must have been pretty broke, for he didn't pay for his own drinks.

"Now, sir, there's a lot we don't know about that Hardway business. If Herridge was telling the truth when I saw him, as I believe he was, I look at it this way. He had told his pals that he was going for the diamonds that night and it had got to the Funny Toff's ears. But suppose he wasn't telling all the truth, suppose that he was working for the Funny Toff, who put him up to the job? The Funny Toff, as we know from other cases we've had, and as this business of the rubies proves, has friends in all sorts of posh circles. He would know all about the arrangements in Lord Hardway's house, as he knew all about Mr. Ibbotson. It struck me, as soon as I heard about this gentleman at the Margate Jetty, that he was the man we were looking for?"

"I think I follow your reasoning," said Sir Edric. "Did you manage to trace this man?"

Pollard avoided the question. "Since we really know nothing about the Funny Toff, sir, I couldn't push my theory very much further, sir," he replied. "Then came the death of Herridge. Now, it's easy to see why his body was left with the diamond on it. It's the same as the sending of Brooks' body here—a warning of what comes of interfering with the Funny Toff. But why was he killed? Brooks was killed, I reckon, because he was on the Funny Toff's trail. But Herridge had done nothing, so far as I know, except tell me the yarn about the two men who held him up. And there were precious few people who knew that he'd told me, sir."

Sir Edric exhibited visible signs of impatience. "Yes, yes, but I don't see that this brings us any nearer to the identity of the man whose finger prints these, are, the man who entered Mr. Ibbotson's house last night," he interrupted. "It seems to me that we are wasting valuable time. Do you, or do you not, know who he is?"

It had come to it as last, Pollard realized. There was no further possibility of circumlocution. He had put off the dramatic moment as long as he dared, feeling, in spite of the overwhelming proof which he held, that his chief would consider his theory too outrageous to be considered seriously. But now Pollard knew that he must put it to the test.

"I'm not in a position yet to answer that question positively, sir," he replied. "If you would consent, sir, I should first like to ask Mr. Penhampton a few questions in your

Spring Fever Strikes In Courthouse

A. J. Clark, Tax Collector, Has The Fishing Bug And Now It Appears "Dangerous" For Any Mention To Be Made

Spring fever has attacked the county courthouse and A. J. Clark, tax collector, for one, is willing to admit a touch of the malady.

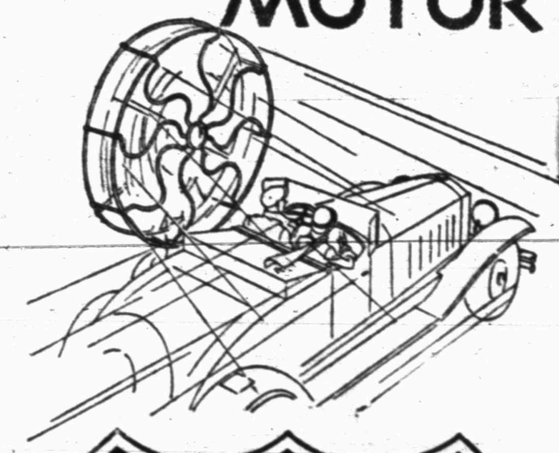

A great desire to go fishing is the principal cause of his suffering, if you take Mr. Clark's word for it. His friends make practice of telling him fish stories and otherwise constantly aggravating the ailment.

Yesterday, the county tax collector laid down an ultimatum: "The next fellow who mentions fish to me will do so at his own risk."

While dreaming about deep, clear pools of water, with big black bass disturbing the smooth, crystal-like surface in their flouncing for insects, Mr. Clark thought up a law, which he says someday will be introduced in the legislature.

"I would like to go to the legislature just to introduce a bill which would make it a felony offense for a store on the Plains to display fishing tackle and alluring pictures of catches in their show windows," he said. "It's enough misery just thinking about fishing, much less having something to remind you of it every time you walk down the street."

presence."

Dick happened to be in his rooms when Sir Edric's telephone message came through. "Yes, I'll come along at once," he replied. "Anything fresh? You'll tell me when you see me? Good!"

He took a taxi to Scotland Yard, and was immediately shown into Sir Edric's room. "Look here, Dick, there's been another burglary, and we think it's got something to do with our old friend. Pollard wants to ask you some questions. Of course I haven't told him the details of your Wapping adventures, but he knows, naturally, that you tried your hand at amateur detection."

"And now he wants me to place my information at his disposal," replied Dick ruefully. "All right, I'm game."

Pollard was summoned. He contented himself with nodding rather stiffly towards Dick, and then, having secured a permissive nod from his Chief, he began his interrogation.

"Would you mind telling me, Mr. Penhampton, if you are acquainted with a Mr. Ibbotson, who lives at 321 Park Lane?" he asked.

"Ibbotson?" replied Dick. "The man who bought the Maharajah's rubies at Christie's the other day? Yes, I know him fairly well. I can't say that he's actually a friend of mine, but I've danced at his house, and I've seen him often enough at the Eros. Bit of a bounder, in my opinion. Always talking about his money, and what he means to do with it. The last time I saw him, he was full of having bought some flats somewhere in the Manchester Square direction."

Pollard glanced at Sir Edric, who was listening intently. "You say you have seen him at the Eros club, Mr. Penhampton," he continued. "Are you a member?"

"Yes, I have been since it was started," replied Dick. "It's not a bad place. You meet some queer folk there, as you do in all these nightclubs, but it's not a bad place on the whole. You haven't been raiding it, have you, Inspector?"

Pollard took no notice of the question. "Were you there on the evening of September 24th last?" he asked.

Dick smiled. "Really, Inspector, I can't say offhand," he replied. "I'm not one of those people who could tell you what they were doing every day of the year. I don't even keep a diary, which is, perhaps, just as well. All I can say is that I came back from shooting grouse in Yorkshire about the middle of the month, and did not go out of town again till October 1st. I know I went to the Eros two or three times about then."

"Do you remember seeing Mr. Ibbotson there about that time?"

Dick shrugged his shoulders. "One sees so many people," he replied. "I can't say that I particularly noticed Ibbotson. Wait a bit, though, I do remember one night seeing Ibbotson dancing with that massive wife of his, and thinking what a lamentable spectacle it was. Oh, yes, and there was some fuss about his having lost some keys or something. But I can't tell you what date it was."

Pollard glanced at Sir Edric, who was listening with a puzzled frown upon his face. He was immensely pleased with the result of his catechism, which confirmed his suspicions in every detail. By Dick's own confession, he knew Mr. Ibbotson, had been in his house, where no doubt he had made himself familiar with the situation of the safe. He had been at the Eros on the night when Mr. Ibbotson lost his keys, since he had admitted knowledge of that incident. Finally, he knew of the purchase of the property.

Pollard stood for a moment, apparently considering Dick's replies. And then suddenly, as though to catch him unawares, he shot out his vital question. "Would you mind telling me how you spent yesterday evening?" he asked.

Dick hesitated. He had no wish at present to mention his journey to the Mendips. He glanced at Sir Edric, and the curious expression of his friend's face suddenly warned him that these questions were of vital importance to himself. Without understanding what had happened, he knew that he was, in effect, undergoing examination. It was certain that Sir Edric would not have submitted him to it without good cause.

Injunction Filed Against Carnera; Old Contract Up

NEW YORK, April 30. (AP)—An application for an injunction to restrain Primo Carnera from going through with a contract to fight Jack Sharkey, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, June 10, for a rival promoter, was filed today in federal court by the Madison Square Garden corporation of Illinois.

The application also asks that Carnera be restrained from entering into a contract for any bout without the express consent of the Illinois corporation.

The Madison Square Garden corporation of Illinois holds a contract on the giant Italian heavyweight calling for him to meet the winner of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight title bout, which is scheduled for Cleveland, July 3. The match between Carnera and the winner would be staged in the fall.

The Garden, in its application for an injunction, said if Sharkey should defeat Carnera the ponderous Italian's value as a gate attraction would be materially decreased and that the Sharkey-Carnera fight if it is allowed to be held, would detract interest from the Schmeling-Stribling set-to in Cleveland.

The Garden said there was a clause in its contract with Carnera under which he promised to participate in no major bouts prior to his championship match under its auspices, in September.

Tennis Queen Will Remain Amateur

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 30. (AP)—To quote the tennis queen, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, it would take an awful lot of money to make her turn professional and enter motion pictures.

University studio officials today disclosed they discussed with Mrs. Moody last Friday the possibility of doing a series of one reel sport pictures for them.

"It will take an awful lot of money," they said Mrs. Moody told them, "to make me give up my amateur standing."

When they asked her how much she was quoted as saying: "$155,000."

Thereupon discussion dropped.

It was reported Mrs. Moody also visited a number of other studios while here, and rumors she had signed a contract followed her to Ojai, Calif., where she competed in a tennis tournament. In reply to these she said she intended to "remain an amateur all her life."

San Benito Wins Opener Over Corpus Christi, 5-3

Corpus Christi tied the game in the sixth, 3-3. Nabours intentionally walked Campbell. Ledbetter grounded out and Midkiff tripled.

League Teams Cut To Player Limit; 18 Men

Beaumont Enters Race With Ten Non-Class Players; All Teams Cut To Limit After Midnight Yesterday

By The Associated Press

WICHITA FALLS, April 30.—Youngsters will have their golden opportunity in the Texas League this year, 57 non-class men being on the rosters of the various clubs after each, according to the league rule, had reduced its roster to the player limit of 18 men. The player limit went into effect at midnight last night.

Figures released today by Milton Price, league secretary, showed Beaumont is entering the flag chase with 10 non-class men, leading the league in this respect. Houston follows with eight, Wichita Falls, Dallas and Galveston have seven, while San Antonio, Shreveport and Port Worth were the only clubs to retain the league minimum of six.

Claud Robertson, skipper of the San Antonio Indians, was the only manager to include himself in the player's list. Del Baker, Beaumont pilot and veteran catcher, was not listed as a player. It was said he would give Lorbeer and Wise ample opportunity to make the grade before assuming a player role himself.

Bobby Bows To Movie World

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 30. (AP)—Bobby Jones, the motion picture star, made his bow on the Broadway screen today with a lesson in the fine art of putting.

A pre-view of the first of a series of 12 short "talkies" entitled "How I Play Golf" revealed the world's champion very much at ease in his new role, well supported by a small cast, including "Calamity Jane" and as convincing as usual in his demonstration of how to make the hard ones look easy on the greens.

"Calamity Jane," of course, is the famous Jones putter that has played a bigger part than any other single club in carrying the Atlantan to a dozen national championships. It was so polished up, however, by contrast with its usual rusty appearance that it was necessary for Bobby to introduce it again.

"The important thing in putting," said Jones, in carefully measured tones, as he stepped forward to give a demonstration to the "duffer," played by Frank Crave, "is to get an easy stance, with the feet pretty close together, and a smooth swing to the stroke for distance putting."

Craven and Joe E. Brown furnished the comedy background for the first of Jones' "talkies," supported also by Richard Barthelmess. In the introductory background was the voice of O. B. Keeler, Bobby's "Boswell" and long-time associate.

George Wright of Boston, famous as a baseball player as far back as 1869, now hale, hearty and an ardent golfer in his 85th year, was among those invited to the Jones preview.

"I thought maybe I could pick up a few pointers to help my game," he remarked.

El Paso Boxer To Meet Jackie Berg

NEW YORK, April 30. (AP)—An all-star card of three ten round bouts with Jack "Kid" Berg, of England, and Tony Herrera, El Paso, Texas, as the leading attractions was announced today for Madison Square Garden, May 8.

The card will take place of the Billy Petrolle-Jimmy McLarnin fight, which was postponed until May 27, because of Petrolle's illness. He has a light touch of influenza.

Exports from the Irish Free State last year were only five per cent lower than in 1929.

SOX WIN ERROR COMEDY

CHICAGO, April 30.—In an 11-inning comedy of errors this afternoon, the Chicago White Sox defeated the St. Louis Browns, 10 to 9. Bob Fothergill singled to right in the eleventh but Lu Blue was out at the plate on a fine throw by McNeely, and it appeared that Kimsey would weather the storm, Bill Cissell followed with another single to right and Reynolds scored the winning run. McKain allowed but four hits in eight innings and won his third game of the season. It was also the Sox's third win in a row.

Four Women Meet Today In State Golf Semi-finals

COUNTRY CLUB, SAN ANTONIO, April 30. (AP)—Four women who have played through four days of rain, and to whom the golf world today is all sunshine because they are in the semi-finals, will compete tomorrow to determine which two shall play for the 1931 Texas Woman's Golf Association state championship Saturday.

The four semi-finalists are: Mrs. F. C. Pharr, Texarkana; Mrs. R. E. Winger, Fort Worth; Mrs. R. R. Fisk, Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Ruth Hunter, Dallas. They played excellent golf today in the quarter finals to continue their respective parades to the throne room in which there is room for only one.

The match between Ruth Hunter and Mrs. F. C. Rochon was the star attraction of the drenched fairways today. Mrs. Hunter, who lives in San Antonio but is playing as an entry from Dallas on a non-residence membership at Cedar Crest Country club, pulled herself and her golf together to fight brillantly on the back nine.

Fish Artists And Fish Engineers Beat Army And Sophs In Championship Rounds And Artists Tracksters Win

Texas Tech athletes in the basket ball and track intramural scrambles spent the better part of the day yesterday in a pair of ball games and a dual track meet. In the first round of the double round robin schedule for the campus basketball championship between four league champion teams, the Fish Liberal Arts defeated the Army of the Independent League, 34 to 17 in a game at high noon yesterday. Last night the Fish Engineers defeated the Soph Aggies, 16 to 14.

In the track meet, Coach Dallas' Liberal Arts thinly clads defeated Coach Tadlock's Engineers, 61 1-2 to 47 1-2, in a meet that had everything usually seen at a college meet. It was the second track meet of the season, the Aggie team having defeatd the Army last week.

Again the shooting of the Bryant boys, Lefty and Stoops, and the fine goaling of Jessie Holmes and "Bulldog" Hale, provided victory for the Fish Artists; Cowan and Owens were effective scorers in the Fish Engineer victory. The champ round will be reaumed next day evening with two imp games.

House Of David Moves To Lubbock In Caravan Of Trucks And Automobiles Next Friday; Lubbock Club Prepares

One week from this morning a caravan of trucks and automobiles resembling a circus in several ways will file into Lubbock. In the automobiles will be the House of David baseball club, the most famous traveling club in the world and containing some of the best players in or out of organized baseball. In the trucks, eight of them, will be the huge lighting plant and equipment which illuminates baseball fields for night play.

Each truck is equipped with a folding tower that extends fifty feet high, surmounted by a cluster of high powered lights which reflects in a non-glaring manner onto the playing field, making the ground as light as day and doing away with shadows. A huge turbine is part of the portable equipment which furnishes power for the lights. A crew of fifteen men are required to operate th plant.

Under such circumstances the House of David team, headed by its new manager, Grover Cleveland "Old Pete" Alexander, former big league player and last year with Dallas of the Texas League, will meet a local baseball club in an exhibition game at 8:30 o'clock next Friday night.

W. L. "Crip" Golightly, manager of the local team which will meet the be-whiskered ones from Benton Harbor, Michigan, and promoter of the game, is gathering his material this week and preparing them for the ordeal of meeting the most popular and perhaps the best semi-professional team of the country. College men will compose the biggest part of the local team. Since baseball is not played as an intercollegiate sport here there is not a regular Texas Tech Matador team, but a number of baseball minded athletes are enrolled at the local college and will make things interesting for the visitors.

The game here next Friday night will be the first outdoor night game in Lubbock and the first night baseball game on the Plains. Playing at Big Spring on Thursday night, the unshorn House of David team, members of which have hair varying from 10 to 36 inches in length and whiskers of proportionate length, will drive here Friday morning for their exhibition game.

Proceeds of the game will go toward providing additional furniture and equipment for the varsity men's club room in the Tech gymnasium, Golightly announced.

Reorganization Of Firm Is Urged By Receiver In Equity

LOS ANGELES, April 30. (AP) — Immediate action by creditors and security holders of the Richfield oil company of California to effect a reorganization and refinancing of the concern is being urged by William C. McDuffie, receiver in equity.

Under forced sale, company properties carried on the books a year ago at $131,900,000 would have a value of but $23,800,000. He estimated in a statement issued yesterday. The estimate was based on a valuation made for him by Stone & Webster, engineering corporation. This valuation indicates holders of convertible 6s of 1944, of which $26,401,000 are outstanding, would receive less than 50 cents on the dollar.

PROPOSE AUDIT

AUSTIN, April 30 (AP)— Gov. Sterling today signed a bill proposing an audit of the state bank guaranty fund.

Then she tried this magic soap —it lathered instantly!

● This unique soap conquers the hardest of hard water—even water from sandstone or limestone country. A single rub and you have mountains of fragrant creamy lather. Men say that Kirk's Cocoa Castile cuts auto grease and grime like magic. Also washes away dangerous germs—especially from children's hands.

"For two years we had only hard water," says Miss Pearl Nelson, of Cokato, Minn. "I used several soaps to see which was best when finally a girl friend told me about Kirk's Cocoa Castile. I have found that it has not only softened the water but has kept my skin smooth, soft, and stimulated. I have used it for shampooing my hair, and it has become soft and fluffy. It is also a large cake for the price compared with other soaps."

Millions agree with Miss Nelson—they say there is no soap like Kirk's Cocoa Castile for lathering instantly in the hardest or coldest water. It is made from 100% pure cocoanut oil—the same fine oil used in nut butters and candies. The instant it touches any water this magic soap bursts into creamy, silky bubbles that cleanse quickly—leave skin refreshed—and produce a luxurious rapid shampoo.

Try Kirk's Cocoa Castile in your hard water—watch it bubble into fragrant lather—feel its delightful softness—all hard water harshness gone! A big white oversize cake for only 10c. Look for the red arrows on the wrapper.

Cotton Cotton Market Is More Active — Livestock Little Action In Hog Trade — Grain Lively Upturns Seen In Grain

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 30. (AP)—The cotton market was decidedly more active here today but prices sought lower levels making new low records for the season particularly on old crop months. Much lower cables than due started rather general liquidation by longs and numerous stop loss orders were uncovered.

Manchester cabled that the market was discouraged, the decline in cotton checking cloth and yarn business.

After mid-session prices rallied on covering and trade buying in sympathy with steady stocks recovering 8-9 points from the lows. The market continued to improve most of the afternoon in sympathy with stocks gaining about 18 points from the lows. Prices closed barely steady with July at 8.99 and October at 10.34 or 11-12 points above the lows or 14-9 points respectively net lower for the day.

KANSAS CITY, April 30. (AP)—Moderate activity developed in the hog trade with prices unevenly steady to 5c higher. The chief stimulating influence was a curtailed supply. Total offerings were around 66,500 a decrease of 17,000 from a week ago.

Aggregate receipts of cattle estimated at 23,000 were 11,000 short of a wek ago. Trade was marked by a little better action on fed steers and yearlings with some strength on finished offerings.

Stocker and feeder steers were in light supply at all times with some strength on stockers but demand for feeders slow.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY,
Associated press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 30. (AP)—Stocks came back with a rush today when bears, discouraged by the absence of volume selling at the opening, swung first gradually and then rapidly to the buying side.

The rally, amounting to 5.7 points in the 90-share composite price index, was the best the market had seen since early last October, eclipsing by a small margin the automatic rebound that corrected the heavily oversold position in mid-December. Like that upturn it was at the expense of the short interest, and it brought comfort of Wall street which badly needed relief from almost two months of steady selling pressure.

Because of yesterday's discouraging weakness professional bears had doubtless expected heavy liquidation at the opening and were surprised by the steadiness of initial prices. U. S. Steel touched Wednesday's low during the first hour but refused to break it. Shorts switched to American can for a time, with indifferent success, and then began a cautious covering movement which grew in breadth until the last hour when the retreat became a scramble.

Sales amounted to 3,300,000 shares.

Limitation On Trucks Sought

Amendment Requiring Issuance Of Special Permits Pending Before Senate At Recess; No Opposition Seen

AUSTIN, April 30. (AP)—Efforts were made today as the senate returned to consideration of pending truck regulation bills, to place strict limitations on trucks hauling nitroglycerin, bombs, gunpowder and inflamable substances over the state highway system. An amendment which would require issuance of special permits, granting permission for one trip on which explosive and inflamable substances were transported to cost $25 each, was pending when the senate recessed. Sponsors of the truck bills indicated they probably would not oppose the amendment.

Among the amendments to the truck control bill adopted was one by Senator Small of Wellington which provided that limitations on height, weight and length should not apply to trucks transporting property from points of origin to the nearest practical common carrier loading or unloading point.

Other amendments adopted provided that the weight of trucks should be listed on license receipts, that certain utility emergency trucks, not exceeding 6,000 pounds in weight, might operate over the highways at a maximum rate of 40 miles per hour and that each truck should carry a fire extinguisher and its driver possess a driver's license.

Dallas Barber Now On Trial

Rebuttal Testimony Of State In Murder Trial Of Lawrence Elam Is Offered In Court On Thursday

WAXAHACHIE, April 30. (AP)—Rebuttal testimony with which the state sought to prove that Lawrence Elam, Dallas barber and farmer, shot and killed Albert Griner at Charlie Staten's home near Rylie's Prairie without justification was introduced today in Elam's trial here on murder charges.

The Statens, father and son, declared Elam drove to their residence, knocked on the door and said he had come with his "friend," Griner. They related that while the group sat about a stove, after some of them had taken drinks of liquor, Elam shot Griner. They said Elam and Griner had been enemies but apparently had effected a reconciliation.

Elam testified last night that he shot in what he believed to be self-protection when Griner reached toward his hip pocket as though to draw a gun. The defense rested last night.

The case was expected to reach a jury tonight or tomorrow morning.

Soviet Russia will add 15 vessels to the far eastern merchantile fleet.

Grain

FORT WORTH, April 30. (AP)—Grain demand fair. Quotations ranged as follows: Basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid: Wheat No. 1 ordinary hard 81-81 1-2; No. 2 hard .04 per cent protein 81 1-2-82 1-2; No. 2 hard 15 per cent protein 82-83 1-2. Corn, mixed 66-67; No. 2 white or yellow 68 1-2 to 69 1-2. Oats No. 2 red 39-39 1-2; (No. 2 white delivered Texas group one points 38-38 1-2). Barley No. 2 nominally 43-54. Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 1.25-1.26; No. 2 kaffir 1.14-1.15.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 30.0 (AP)—Lively upturns in grain prices late today accompanied word of a probable further large increase of the amount of imported wheat allowed in France. Purchases of United States wheat by France were also noted, and for the first week since last August no Russian wheat exports were announced. Stock market recoveries aided the upturn of grains.

Wheat closed irregular, 3-8 cents off to 1 1-8 to 1 1-4 up; corn 7-8 to 1 1-2 advanced; oats at 1-4 to 1-4 decline to 1-4 gain, and provisions varying from 30 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

Corn and oats and rye rallied briskly with wheat. Indications were that corn in particular had been oversold. n the early downswings of all cereals, rye touched a new bottom price record for the season.

mud were stopped on the Kilgore highway four miles from the pillar of flame and smoke.

Presence of the asbestos suits reminded Clevenger that the Kinley boys did not use them.

"They just go out there with thin shirts on and they deftly place the shot that seldom fails to smother the most stubborn fire," he explained.

The Texas railroad commission today took cognizance of the burning well. Leslie McKay, chief deputy supervisor of the oil and gas division, was on the ground but refused to say what would be the significance of his visit.

McKay intimated the commission might frame more stringent oil well safety measures. He was accompanied by Homer Pierson chief deputy of the Dallas division, and J. L. Martin, chief of the Tyler district.

Heavy rain which drenched this section yesterday and last night had subsided, but intermittent showers and lowering clouds persisted. The deluge of water from the sky served only to emphasize the futility of natural means in extinguishing the giant blaze.

war the general is one of the best known figures in this section. He was one of the foremost Texans in the war. He has also been active in national guard work in Texas since the war.

General Hulen is well acquainted with Lubbock, the Tech and West Texas, having visited this city and the college upon several occasions. His last visit here was in December, 1930.

The general is prominent in railroad circles in the Southwest and public circles as well. When he became vice president of the Denver lines, succeeding Mr. Clarity, his business moved him from Houston to Fort Worth. Citizens of Houston and South Texas feted him with a testimonial banquet at which were gathered many of the state's leading figures to bid him success in his new position.

Gov. Sterling also appointed Mrs. M. H. Hagaman of Ranger to succeed S. C. Rowle of Fort Worth on the board of regents of C. I. A. and Dr. Jack Hearne of Fort Worth to succeed Dr. W. O. Talbot of Fort Worth on the state board of dental examiners.

The following were reappointed: Paul Carrol of Texarkana and C. Bryan Allison of Dallas, state board of pharmacy; R. H. Hoffman of Denton and Kester W. Denman of Lufkin, board of regents of C. I. A.; Dr. C. M. Rosser of Dallas and Dr. E. W. Wright of Bowie, state board of health.

The appointments were sent to the senate for confirmation.

Shouse Says

Republican party had driven it to such "desperate straits," that Chairman Fess of its national committee had abandoned "rules that govern honest men" and was delivering "below-the-belt blows."

He said he had found in his recent trip to the Pacific coast evidences of "Demoralization and distress and discord" among Republicans and a "high spirit of enthusiasm" on the Democratic side.

"I do not mean by this," he added, "that there are not differences in our party. Such differences must exist always in a nation so huge as ours, and composed of so many elements of population, actuated each by its own school of thought.

"But while Democrats may wrangle over a few questions, they are united in the broad principles of their faith, and nothing has transpired that suggests that a united party will not support the conclusions of the national convention, which alone is able to make the platform to set forth the issues on which we will fight the battle of 1932."

Officer Killed

ed after him. Johnson fired again and the shot grazed Enright's face.

Traffic Snarled

Johnson ran down Randolph street to Garland Court, a half-block away, and twisted his way among parked automobiles with Enright, Policeman Leo Sherlock and Ernest Scaenblin, a civilian close behind.

He turned onto Washington street, over to Busy Wabash avenue, and down it half a block, his pistol now empty, before Scaenblin could seize him.

The shooting came at 6 p. m.—the Loop's busiest time—and it snarled traffic into a knot it took an hour to untie. Michigan boulevard was blocked by excited pedestrians, and street cars were jammed along Wabash avenue.

The private operatives said Johnson was wanted for a $2,800 robbery of the LaFayette, Ill., State bank April 10, and the Neponset, Ill., state bank April 22, when $400 and $500 was taken. They had obtained a warrant for him at Kewanee, Ill., this morning and were preparing to serve it when the shooting took place.

unanimous opinion of all they would be and would eliminate the necessity of decorating store fronts as has been the custom at the Panhandle South Plains Fair each fall and at other conventions and important meetings.

The flags will be stored by the Lubbock Chambr of Commerce and used on all important occasions here.

A similar plan of decorations has been used by a number of cities over the nation for various conventions and celebrations, including Cheyenne, Wyoming, for numerous fiestas and celebrations, at Abilene last year during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention and at other points.

Several Days Required For Tabulation Of All Reports

Several days probably will be required to tabulate reports of work done around Lubbock homes during the ten days' cleanup and paintup campaign which closed yesterday, W. B. Atkins, chairman of the general steering committee of the drive, said last night.

A final inspection of the city was made yesterday by women's clubs committees and Boy Scouts. Some of the reports were filed yesterday and the others are expected today, the chairman said.

Boys' Week Is Program Theme

Local Kiwanis Club Features Numbers Dealing With Boys At Regular Weekly Session Held Thursday

Members of the Lubbock Kiwanis club heard a program on National Boys' Week in their regular weekly luncheon at the Lubbock Hotel Thursday noon. The program was in charge of J. T. Trigg.

Talks on scouting by two boy scouts, a short talk on boys' work by D. T. Jennings, scout executive and several selections by a boys' quartet featured the program.

R. C. Douglas, Lubbock scout holding more than 40 merit badges, was the first speaker on the program, talking on "What Scouting Has Done To Me." The youngster detailed various accomplishments of scouting such as keeping the boy's mind employed, fits him for an everyday occupation early in life, provides him with leadership characteristics and cause him to form healthful habits. He explained the merit badge system, the scout oath and the scout law.

M. K. Foster, another scout, spoke on "What Men Can Do For Boys," emphasizing the fact that a man must be a real pal to a boy to aid him along in life.

The boys were followed by Mr. Jennings who made a few remarks on boys' work, pointing out that training of youth is just as essential now as in the past. He urged the members to take a more active interest in boys in Lubbock.

The program was closed with three vocal selections by the boys' quartet composed of Woodrow Wilson, Billy Crenshaw, Perry Blocker and Roy Eaton. Mrs. L. J. Von Tungleu was accompanist.

Two Pilots In Hospital Badly Hurt As Result Of Forced Landing But Passengers Landed Safely

ELYRIA, O., April 30. (AP)—Two pilots lay in a hospital today badly hurt and their tri-motored air liner was a wreck, but they had saved their eight passengers from all but minor injuries in making a forced landing five miles north of here.

Pilot Sam Taylor and Allen McDiarmid, who was with him at the controls, were flying a National Air Transport ship from Chicago to Cleveland yesterday when, witnesses and passengers agreed, two of the motors went dead. Taylor coolly made sure that all the passengers had their life belts fixed and then started to bring the plane down.

The left wing caught in the top of a small tree, whirling it around and against telephone wires before it landed in a barnyard. All but one wing and the passenger compartment was destroyed, but the passengers were calm.

Taylor, who once before landed 13 passengers safely in Cleveland under similar circumstances and who engaged in a dispute with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the 1929 national air races when their planes interfered with each other, suffered a possible fractured skull and a fractured left ankle. McDiarmid received possible fractures of the ribs and internal injuries.

Difficulties Of Cobbs At An End

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 30. (AP)—The marital difficulties of the Tyrus Raymond Cobbs were "straightened out" today.

The former major league baseball star announced that a divorce suit filed by his wife, Mrs. Charlie Marion Lombard Cobb, on April 15 had been withdrawn.

"It is Mrs. Cobb's desire," he said, "that I personally make official announcement that the divorce proceedings have been withdrawn; that her attorney has been advised of this fact; that she took this step on her own initiative and that no further comment is to be made on account of the sacredness relating to her decision."

"Seven years without birds would mean the annihilation of the human race," declared a scientist in England recently.

Your Mother goes or I go . . . this Minute!

AN orphan—Flo called herself—that evening we met in the city—strangers—lonely. After that night—I lived for her passionate lips—lips that enticed me into marriage.

Flo spent wildly—kept me broke—baby came—and Flo took pneumonia. When my poor, old widowed mother sold her house to pay our bills—she had to live with us. Two women—one roof—that's when hell cut loose! Kind, noble—Ma did all the work—never complained. Flo sulked, nagged—even cursed Ma for kissing baby—for little things—for nothing at all.

Then Ma took neuralgia—couldn't work. Flo kept growing nastier—UNTIL—that day Ma broke a pitcher—trivial thing—a molehill that flared into a mountain. "Get out—out of my home, you worthless hag"—Flo screamed and swinging on me—"This roof's too small—she's got to go, Eddie—or out I go—this minute"?

"Stop," I roared. "You're cruel as a snake." Flo moved toward me—voluptuous arms circled my neck—"Ma's sick," I struggled on, "No friends—no place to go—she'd die! Before you drive her out"—Flo's lips sought mine—"I'll see you—damn you—I'll see you—you . . ."

Which woman did Eddie choose? Did his slavish desire for Flo tear into shreds his sense of justice—send into the streets his aged mother who worked, sacrificed, gave all to make them happy?

Or did destiny force Eddie to drive from his home this wife who had made him so happy—had borne his child—and whose embraces were still an ecstacy he craved like dope?

Red And White' System Groceries Will Open On Friday

Fifty Stores Are To Co-Operate In City And Section

Characterized by its proponents d co-operators as a proven meth- of economical food distribution, plan is to be inaugurated here riday whereby a union of 50 in- pendent, home-owned stores of ubbock and the South Plains open eir doors to the public as member rms of the Red and White sys- m. The move Friday will mark e first entry of this nationally own system of service to con- mers of this area.

The franchise which brings the d and White operating system to ubbock and the South Plains for dependent dealers has been se- ured through the efforts of the ooten Wholesale Grocery com- any, headed by H. O. Wooten. he Wooten company will act as e supply house for the Red and hite stores over the territory.

Other Stores Open

Simultaneously with the opening f 18 stores in Lubbock, Red and hite stores are opening at nine- een other South Plains towns, of- ering the same service as that at ubbock. The other towns include rownfield, Draw, Levelland, Loop, orenzo, Lovington, N. M., Meadow, orton, New Home, O'Donnell, lains, Post, Ropesville, Slaton, Ta- oka, Tatum, N. M., Tokio, Well- an and Wilson.

Transformation of the interiors f several members of the system as been progressing for the last everal weeks, and with the formal pening every store will be uni- ormly presented in the general olor scheme of red and white.

Many In Country

"Just around the corner from verywhere"— "individually owned nd unitedly operated," are the hrases which have proven a near magic formula for the more than 5,000 Red and White stores inde- pendently owned over the United States and Canada, and which be- come familiar to Lubbock and its trade territory for economy and convenience when the 48 stores of this section open for business.

Briefly, the Red and White plan is a union of independent manu- facturers, wholesalers and retailers, banded together in a cooperative way to market grocery products to the consuming public. The plan is substantially a merger of purchas- ing power without any merger of capital structure, to insure the per- manence of the independent mer- chant. The Red and White plan recognizes the wide public accept- ance of the multiple chain store methods, and it therefore uses many of the popular features upon which these stores capitalize. The organization is building around on- ly high class expert merchandisers. Because of its international scope it is constantly on the alert for the newest trend and developments and is considered an unchalleged lead- er in its field.

Wooten Has Franchise

The Wooten Grocer company, in securing the Red and White fran- chise will supply a territory in- cluding nearly every county of the South Plains and two counties of New Mexico. It is hoped that many other like stores will be aligned within the next few months.

According to T. W. Pearce, chair- man of the advisory board of the new organization, the Red and White stores offer the following outstanding advantages for the pa- tronage of the public: "merchandise of the highest grade at the lowest price, made possible by the tre- mendous buying power of the or- ganization; convenience of selec- tion of merchandise, through scien- tific, attractive arrangement of store interiors; the individual, per- sonal interest of the store's owner to his customer's needs and he 'as you please' service to the consumer which means 'help yourself, ask the clerk or telephone.' Another feature of the system is that 'your grocer' will conduct his business as he has always. Those who have delivered groceries in the past will continue the delivery service and other ser- vices will be just as they always have been."

Factors Explained

"Perhaps the greatest factor en- tering into the Red and White sys- tem is the fact that it does not de- prive the grocer of his indepen- dence. The member Red and White store operator will still own and op- erate his business. There are no membership fees, brokerage char- ges, royalties or 'dues,' Mr. Pearce stated. All that is required of him is that he arrange his store accord- ing to the plan as outlined by the Red and White system cooperative with other members in the buying of goods and operate his store un- der the Red and White plan.

"For those member owners who desire to stock it, a complete line of choicest grade merchandise is of- fered by the organization under the Red and White label. Stocking the Red and White trademarked goods is entirely optional with individual store owners, however, as a com- plete line of nationally advertised goods will be available at the sup- ply house.

Interiors Uniform

"To facilitate transformation of the member stores, an official of the Red and White organization has supervised the rearranging the supply house to meet the demands of the store owners and in the dec- oration and equipment of the indi- vidual stores. The store designs call for uniform interiors with fronts decorated in the Red and White color scheme.

"In evolving this remarkable sys- tem of operation, of which the in- dividual store designs form a part, the Red and White organization for the past ten years has solicited any suggestion looking toward the im- provement in the operation of the great system.

In Use a Decade

"The system has been in opera- tion for more than a decade and has had ample opportunity to eli- minate any unsound principles which might have developed in the organization and so successful have been the operating principles of the system that expansion has been rapid and sound until Red and White at present is international in its scope, with buying power equal if not superior to any pur- chasing organization in the world.

"Buying through 200 wholesale houses which in turn buy from one source, the 15,000 or more stores, situated in three-fourths of the United states and from Montreal to British Columbia in Canada, bear witness to the success of Red and White operation. It is not nec- essary to point out the fact that the system embraces the largest group of individually owed stores in the universe."

Advisory Group Formed

In the practical working out of cooperative features of Lubbock and South Plains member stores, the affiliated dealers have formed a local advisory committee, select- ing officers from their own mem- bership, the personnel of which will have charge of matters pertaining to the successful operation of the local organization.

"Pooling of buying power," stated Mr. Pearce, " and the great number of stores effect greatest possible savings in the purchase of mer- chandise, thus materially reducing the operating cost of each store."

Reasons Cited

Reverting to the reasons for the support which the pub licis giving to the individually owned stores, one member of the advisory board stated:

"When you trade with your own local Red and White store you are patronizing your own neighborhood grocer. He and his money are im- portant business assets to your community. Red and White stores principles and procedure are the very foundations upon which this and future generations of individ- ual merchants must depend for an equal opportunity in business."

"What the individual Red and White store does and how it does it may be stated in a few words:

"For the merchant there are no fees, royalties or franchise charges of any nature, but the procedure is one of loyalty and cooperation be- tween the manufacturer, jobber and retailer. The Red and White system is very particular in that it obli- gates the merchant to cut out all waste in his business and shows him how to do it.

"Each local unit, being a sepa- rate and distinct organization, car- ries out the plan as laid down in the national system. The executive or advisory committee, composed of retail merchant members, are elec- tive by their fellow members. They confer with the supply houses on merchandising suggestions and pass on all outside arrangements looking to the conduct of their business."

The Lubbock membership in the Red and White organization in- cludes some of the largest inde- pendent retail outlets in the city as well as a number of the older established concerns, Mr. Pearce said.

H. O. Wooten, who heads the or- ganization as president, is enthus- iastic in his belief that the Red and White system is the one great in- stitution for he independent grocer and declares with pride that "no- where in the United States has there been a failure of the Red and White organization, and that there is not an instance among the mem- ber grocers where there has been dissatisfaction as to the results."

Opening Friday

The formal opening of the Red and White stores will be held Fri- day. Souvenirs have been provided by a majority of the stores for their patrons and children.

Thousands of Lubbock and South Plains customers will see the new system in full operation Friday and a "great day is in store for the buy- ers," Mr. Wooten states. Mr. Woo- ten expressly urges the ladies to visit the store sometime during the day and to make a minute and careful study of the methods em- ployed in the operation and service of the stores.

Southern Farmers Take Combat Steps Against Threat Of Russian Growers

ATLANTA, April 30. (AP)—Southern farmers have taken steps to meet the threat of Russian competition in the world cotton markets.

Economy of production, improved quality of staple and more home grown feed and food are three of weapons being used to combat the menace as the result of organized campaigns which were formed early this year in several states to bring the farmers face to face with the facts and to stress the importance of following a definite farm program.

Authorities now predict that the 1931 cotton crop will be produced at less cost per pound than any crop since the World War.

"The declining cotton prices in recent years, and more especially the terrific slump during the past two years, has brought home to all of us the necessity for producing cheaper cotton," declared J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture in Mississippi.

Holton pointed out that cheaper cotton may be produced by the use of added machine power to take the place of expensive man labor; by fertile soil, whether the fertility be artificial or natural; and, in its final effect, by the practice of economy generally.

"The Russian government," Holton said, "has employed experts to supervise the production of cotton; they have supplied the most modern machinery for cultivating the crop; they have sent to America and probably other countries for the best seed available, and they are producing a uniformly high quality of cotton which has a staple superior to the bulk of American staple."

Cotton experts at the South Carolina college of agriculture say that cotton contests conducted over a period of five years already have brought about improvements, both as to lower costs and better staple in that state.

In Mississippi, which along with Arkansas and Louisiana has two distinct types of cotton farming, a state wide effort has been made to encourage the growth of better cotton through organizations called "one variety cotton communities." Here all farmers in a given area plant only one variety of cotton, selected by a vote of those interested, several of the best farmers near the center of the community are chosen as pedigreed cotton breeders, and these furnish seed for all the others.

In other states various methods looking toward improvement have been made and the experts say excellent results are noted.

QUANAH, April 30. (AP) — Announcement has been made that W. A. Moseley, R. A. Kelley and J. A. Stephenson, elected mayor and alderman for wards 1 and 2 respectively, in Quanah's city election April 6, but who each refused to qualify and resigned because of alleged irregularities in the election, and violation of the charter through failure to have paid all city taxes prior to election, again will be candidates in the special election called for May 10.

Harry Koch, retired newspaper editor, defeated for mayor, also will be a candidate.

Dr. T. D. Frizzell, present mayor, was not a candidate.

For your long evening gloves, sew tiny brown or other colored buttons up the back from the wrist to the top of them and they will match up with your costume and be very different.

The Family ROCK-PILE

How many hours do you spend each day, seven days a week, in your kitchen?

Does it make you feel as though you were chained to a rock-pile, with a never-ending routine of tasks connected with the preparation of three meals a day and their aftermath of dirty dishes?

If so, there is a servant—electricity—within your door, loafing around and waiting to be put to work. There is scarcely a kitchen task which it will not do willingly, silently, better than you can do it yourself, and for the most nominal wage.

Why be chained to a family rock-pile when this new servant will release you from it?

Negro Not Pleased By Life Term

BEAUMONT, April 30. (AP) — The first hundred years are reputed to be the hardest, but Abraham Lincoln Greer believes that even 99 are too hard to endure.

Particularly if those 99 are to be done behind bars of a prison.

Greer, Beaumont negro youth sentenced last year for the murder of Nathan Newman, aged junk dealer, several years ago, has written to his attorney, Fletcher Jones, protesting the 99-year stretch.

"I wish you and the judge would get your heads together and knock them years down to something I can throw," Greer wrote. "I don't believe I can make these 99 years."

German "Sea Devil" Will Be In Canyon As Lyceum Number

CANYON, April 30. (Special) — Count Felix von Luckner is to be in Canyon May 6 as the outstanding number of the college lyceum program for the year.

Count Luckner is the famous German "Sea-Devil" who, during the years of the war, sank 500,000 tons of shipping without sacrificing a single life. His is probably the most romantic story that the war has produced. It includes a voyage of 2,500 miles in an open boat with a crew of six almost dying of thirst. While many rowed on for forty-eight days over rough sea.

Count Luckner's coming was arranged by the lyceum committee of the college with Wallace R. Clark as its chairman.

Number Of Deaths From Wood Alcohol Is Estimated At 208

WASHINGTON, April 30. (AP) — The number of deaths from poisonous wood alcohol and synthetic menthanol last winter was placed today at 208 by the bureau of industrial alcohol.

In addition, the bureau said more than 200 other deaths were believed due to drinking similar liquids, mostly in the form of anti-freeze solutions or speakeasy products. Authentic reports upon them, however, have not reached the bureau.

Ethiopia's area now is estimated at 400,000 square miles.

Heavy Damage Suit Looming

Dallas Hotel Operator Subject Of $25,000 Suit Filed After Shooting Of Woman; Son Is Plaintiff

DALLAS, April 30. (AP)—Suit for $25,000 damages was filed in 44th district court here against the estate of John W. (Long John) Collie, Dallas hotel operator, by Walter Lee Long, 4, son of Mrs. Peggy Long, 24, whom Collie allegedly shot and killed last December 14.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Long's son through his next friend and grandfather, R. E. Barber, and made T. C. Collie, guardian of the accused slayer, a defendant in the suit.

John Collie is under an indictment for murder but has never been tried.

The damage suit petition set forth that John Collie was adjudged insane by a jury here April 17. It charged that the shooting of Mrs. Long deprived the child of her care and training as well as the financial means for an education.

Collie allegedly shot and killed Mrs. Long in a small hotel near the courthouse, after an argument over a small amount of money. After shooting the woman, he turned the weapon on himself and one bullet was fired into his head. He was in serious condition for several weeks but has recovered sufficiently to be transferred from a hospital to the county jail.

Chickens Save Lifer

John Cerar's ability to raise prize-winning chickens has won him a release from a life sentence in prison. Ten years ago John was sentenced to die for murder. Friends succeeded in having the sentence changed to a life term. John entered prison in San Francisco and started raising poultry. His birds won so many cups and medals that he will soon be given freedom to enter the business. He is shown here with two of his prize winners.

Dream Of Life Brings Death

Woman Falls Dead Just As An Oil Well Is About To Be Brought In On Land; Work Again Underway

McALLEN, April 30, (AP)—Just as the dream of a lifetime seemed about to come true for Mrs. Sadie King, 75, as she stood beside her oil well and watched the gas pressure push a 40,000-pound drill stem 300 feet into the air, Mrs King dropped dead from a heart attack.

Her death climaxed a long series of tragedies and disappointments which have dogged her daughter, Mrs. Dayle L. Smith, in the attempts to get oil in western Hidalgo county.

Twelve times Mrs. Smith and those associated with her, including her mother, drilled wells, only to see them stopped at the last minute by some mysterious circumstance. Once the driller quit suddenly, just as the well was about to be brought in. His successor found the drilling machinery had been tampered with, and the work all had to be done over again.

The most recent attempt went down to more than 4,000 feet, and then an obstruction was found in the well. It took months of work, and thousands more dollars of the Smith fortune to clean it out.

Recently the driller announced it was cleaned out, and the Smith family, including Mrs. King gathered at the well to watch it brought in.

As the tremendous gas pressure began to whistle through the well, and suddenly with a rush and roar lifted the drill stem out of the hole, Mrs. King fell dead.

Mrs. Smith and her sister, Mrs. M. A. Krausse of New York, who have worked for ten years or more drilling in this section in the hope of getting one test down without interference, are now at work again, hoping tht the present well will bring in oil when the gas is cased off and it goes on down.

Whole Family Of Snakes Come Out To Take A Stroll

SAN ANTONIO, April 30.0 (AP)—Officers Mike Livo and Pete Scrivano of the San Antonio police force have "sworn off."

The boys had stopped to exchange greetings on a San Antonio street about 3 o'clock in the morning, according to the story they told at headquarters. They saw a sight that froze them in their tracks.

Coming down the middle of a Commerce street sidewalk, his head high, was a huge rattlesnake. He was going places, intent on doing things.

He would have passed the officers without as much as a kind word, but they would have none of his high-hatting. They took another look, rubbed their eyes, obtained rocks and committed mayhem.

Looking over the vanquished, they were startled by a faint hiss.

Coming down the sidewalk was another huge rattler. It was the Old Lady and she was stopping not in the order of her point.

Livo and Scrivano killed the Old Lady.

There couldn't be any more, but there was. The officers were in the act of disposing of the corpora delicti when a third rattler apepared. He, the Big Brotner, also met an untimely end.

Backtracking, the officers found three other reptiles emerging from a large pit in a carnival show.

Talkies are to be produced in Chile.

Garner, Veteran Texas Congressman, Daily Picks Flowers For Old Friend

UVALDE, April 30. (AP)—John N. (Jack) Garner, veteran Texas congressman, who back in Washington, kept a daily rendezvous with his political antagonist but personal friend, Nicholas Longworth, still cherishes the warmth of those contacts, although death has come between them.

Garner's great hobby always has been, when home on his ranch near here, to ride or walk through the brush, trees and flowers, indigenous to this rolling section of West Texas, during the hour just before and at sun-rise. In the nation's capital, as every-one knows he and Longworth gave to each other the hour immediately after the day's session of congress when they could recall the debate, sometimes sizzling with personalities that affected each.

Death has reversed the arrangement. Garner's favorite hour at home now is given in memory to his friend, Longworth. As he strolls or rides along his favorite paths he stops to pick Texas bluebonnets, wild daisies, juagilla and other untamed and, in some cases, unnamed flowers—for Nick. He brings them in, the dew still brightening the petals, and places them beneath a picture that has the chief place in the Garner study. Written across the photograph are the words: "Warm Regards," and beneath them is the signature "Nicholas Longworth."

An exhibit by district No. 1 of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be sent here by Amarillo for the annual convention of the regional chamber here May 14, 15 and 16, Maury Hopkins, convention manager, has been notified.

Reform No Issue In Reno Election

RENO, Nev., April 30. —This city, with its legalized gambling and plainless divorce, is probably the most wide open town in America, but strangely enough no one seems to want to reform it.

While other cities are in the throes of reform battles, Reno faces

By NEA Service

a city election on May 5 in which not a single candidate promises to clamp down the lid.

Mayor E. E. Roberts loses no opportunity to tell the voters he likes a liberal community. He has even attacked "longhairs" and Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist Board of Temperance from the pulpit of a local Methodist church.

Efficiency in municipal administration is the campaign issue raised by the mayor's opponents. One of these is Howard S. Doyle, automobile dealer and president of the Chamber of Commerce, The other is Milburn S Gregory, World War veteran and town booster.

Roberts has been a quiet worker in many past campaigns, but this time he is making many speeches in defense of Nevada's right to go "wide open."

His opponents are making quiet drives for votes, arguing that a business administration is needed to build a greater Reno. When Roberts' "liberal" views are brought up, the Doyle and Gregory workers declare their candidates are liberal in views, too.

This campaigning is no new idea to Roberts, for besides being mayor of Reno since 1923, he has previous political experience, including three congressional terms. He is also Walter Johnson's father-in-law.

Roberts is attracting attention far beyond the confines of Nevada with some of his statements, like the one from a Reno pulit, suggesting placing a barrel of corn whisky on every corner in the city.

"I'd have a dipper in every barrel, with a sign saying: 'Help yourself to all you want, but don't carry any away,' " Roberts declared. "And that would soon drive all the bootleggers out of business."

He has likened Nevada to the last frontier of freedom, where personal liberty was given an opportunity to flourish.

M. P. Caldwell was named general chairman and Clyde Prall ticket chairman of the Fort Worth group. Weatherford, Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Abilene, Sweetwater, Snyder, Post and Slaton also will be visited by Fort Worth's train.

No Gambling Is Allowed At Night Club; Bond Is Posted

RICHMOND, April 30. (AP)—Operators of Loma Linda, night club, were permanently enjoined in district court here yesterday from permitting operation of gambling devices in or about the place.

Charles Exarky, operator of the restaurant and dance hall, posted bond of $2,500 to insure observance of the injunction.

A temporary injunction was granted on application of C. L. Dutton, county attorney, after a raid on the place by Texas rangers March 15 when sixty-eight persons were charged with gambling and paid fines.

Crop Prospect Now Favorable

Monthly Business Review Is Released Thursday By Federal Reserve Bank; Outlook Said To Be Good

DALLAS, April 30. (AP)—Although the agricultural situation continued generally favorable, there were some offsets caused by the severe freeze late in March, necessitating replanting and the resulting slow growth of early-planted crops, according to the monthly Business Review, of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, released today.

"The agricultural outlook continued generally favorable," the review stated. "An excellent surface and subsoil season obtains in practically all sections of the district and farm work has progressed normally. According to the department of agriculture, small grains are in good condition and promise heavy yields. Among the developments which tended to offset these favorable factors to some extent was the damage resulting from the severe freeze late in March, the poor germination of seed caused by the cold wet soil, which has necessitated some replanting and the slow growth of early planted crops. The favorable weather recently however, is doing much to overcome the latter attacks. The physical condition of ranges and livestock has shown a further improvement. Range forage has grown rapidly and is furnishing excellent pasturage with the result that livestock are getting fat earlier than usual.

The Review said the early Easter had reflected in sales of department stores in larger centers, there being a seasonable increase of 17 per cent over the previous month, and "while they were 11 per cent smaller than a year ago, the decline was slightly less than in February.

"Distributions in most lines of wholesale trade during March showed an expansion over the previous month and comparisons with a year ago generally were the most favorable shown for any month of the current year," the Review said. "Consumer buying, however, is still at a low level and retailers are showing no disposition to make purchases beyond well defined needs.

"The demand for funds at banks in larger centers continued downward. Loans of reserve city banks showed a further decline and at the the middle off April were considerably smaller than a year ago.

Coincident with the decline in loans, there was an increase in their investments and a reduction on the borrowings at the Federal Reserve bank. On the other hand, borrowing from country banks show a gradual expansion to meet the withdrawals of deposits and the demand for funds to finance agricultural operations."

Curiosities Of Morocco Amaze Ripley Anew While He Searches For New Adventures To Reveal To Readers

Robert L. Ripley, who has astonished more persons than any other man alive through his "Believe It Or Not" cartoons, finds that the curiosities he has reported always amaze him anew. During his present trip through Northern Africa he saw for the second and third times such strange things as shown in the pictures. In Marrakech, Morrocco, for instance, he discovered the Scorpion Eater, (center inset) and (left) the Mohammedan sacred queue, the lock of hair left on the head by the faithful so Mohamet can jerk them to heaven when they die. At right Ripley is shown in the tomb of St. John the Baptist at Oudja, Morrocco. Mohammedans worship the saint as Sidi Yahia. Ripley will portray other amazing facts he has discvored-ed on his journey in his cartoons which appear in The Morning Avalanche.

Brinkley Wins Court Battle

Federal Judge Denies Motion To Set Aside Certain Portions Of Bill Of Complaint Being Offered

TOPEKA, April 30. — Dr. J. R. Brinkley, Milford, Kas., goat gland specialist and unsuccessful independent candidate for governor last fall, won today another legal skirmish in his effort to set aside the order of the state board of medical registration and examination which cancelled his license to practice medicine and surgery in Kansas.

Judge John C. Pollock of United States district court denied a motion by the board and William A. Smith, former state's attorney general, to strike certain portions from Dr. Brinkley's bill of complaint.

The board on September 17 revoked Dr. Brinkley's license after finding him guilty of gross immorality and unprofessional conduct. Seeking vindication, the hospital owner became an independent candidate for governor, and although his ame was not printed on the ballots he received approximately 180,000 votes.

Subsequently, Dr. Brinkley sold his radio station which he had operated in curiosities with his hospital, after the federal radio commission refused to renew his permit. Dr. Brinkley, according to latest reports, is in Mexico making arrangements for a new radio station near Del Rio, Texas.

SWEETWATER, April 30. —Arrangements have been made for the opening of convention headquarters in Lubbock during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, as a part of Sweetwater's campaign to secure the 1932 annual meeting of the regional organization, by the Sweetwater Board of City Development.

The Lubbock campaign offices will be in charge of John Henrdix, secretary of the Sweetwater board, and Miss Orlena Sanger, assistant secretary.

Setting up of the headquarters is to be completed before the opening of the convention, Mr. Hendrix said.

Another step taken is the sending of official representatives throughout West Texas, where possible, to meet with chambers of commerce in asking for their support.

Phil> Baker, chairman of the committee asking chambers of commerce for their support, is on a busin-ss trip to El Paso and Roswell, N. M., this week, stopping in each city en route to seek support. Other members of the committee are to visit other cities during the coming week in various parts of the state.

Memorial To Uncle Sam Is Sought

Troy, New York, Citizens Claim Uncle Sam Made His Home In City; Federal Government Asked For Recognition

TROY, N. Y., April 30 (AP) — "Uncle Sam" made his home here, Trojans say, and they want a memorial for him.

They will ask the federal government officially to recognize their claim that Samuel Wilson, whose grave overlooks this city, was the inspiration for the jocular extension of the abbreviation "U. S." to the sobriquet representing the United States government.

One of the exhibits in possession of a citizens' committee is a letter written by Lucius E. Wilson, a great grand nephew of Samuel Wilson, which furnishes a possible clew to the origin of the name.

Samuel Wilson, the letter says, came to Troy from Mason, N. H., in 1768 and engaged in brick making with his brother Ebenezer. Later Samuel Wilson went into the slaughtering business.

"At this time," wrote Lucius Wilson, "he became associated with Elbert Anderson, who was a government contractor furnishing supplies to the army, which was then stationed at Greenbush and Newburgh. (During the war of 1812).

"Uncle Sam was given a contract by him to supply the beef and pork he required, and he packed it in casks and barrels, marking it 'E. A.- U. S.' "

Samuel Wilson, like the "Uncle Sam" of the tall hat, striped trousers and frock coat, was a spare and dignified gentleman of kindly visage, known and beloved as "Uncle Sam" in his own neighborhood.

At the Greenbush army camp where many Troy men were stationed they saw on Wilson's barrels and casks the initials of the contractor and of the consignee. Soon everything marked "U. S." became known as "Uncle Sam's." The term sprang into popular favor. In newspaper stories dealing with United States customs officers Published in 1813 there were references to "Uncle Sam's men."

MEASURED IN MILES

SUPPOSE for a moment that advertising didn't exist—that there were no trade-marked goods—that everything you bought had to be judged solely by its look or feel or taste.

Imagine yourself setting out to do the morning's shopping under such conditions. You'd drive down the street, looking in windows for the articles you needed—the blouses for Johnny, the half-dozen bath towels, the toilet soap, the ginger ale for tomorrow's picnic. You'd stop, ask questions, examine the towels, smell the soap, wonder if here was your money's worth or if you might find something better farther on. And though you followed this procedure mile after weary mile, you could never be sure.

Computed simply in terms of gasoline and tires and shoe-leather, advertising saves you a startling sum every year. And if you add the value of your time, the amount is vastly increased.

When you buy a product that is advertised you know in advance what you will get, how much it costs and where you can obtain it. That is why, in millions of modern homes, the newspaper advertising columns are a daily guide to purchases.

Read the advertisements in the Avalanche and Journal, decide what you need, then buy with assurance.

Let advertising save you time and money

A Home Hoosegow

Chicago Man States Jail A Success

CHICAGO, April 30. (AP)—The home hoosegow is here.

Up until last night neither the general public nor the police knew of its existence and they might never have learned about it if things hadn't gone a bit awry at the home of Howard Lietzman.

There was some kind of a celebration at Mr. Lietzman's home, which the police said led them to discover the one and only privately owned jail in Chicago. It seems as though Mr. Lietzman invited Messrs. Clyde Secrest and Charles Willhoyt to join him in the party, and as matters progressed Mr. Secrest seized a chair and offered to smash the radio.

It was this that prompted Mr. Lietzman to remove Mr. Secrest to the basement, where he bound him securely with surgeon's tape, put him in the private jail, snapped a padlock on the dorr and returned to see his other guest, who by this time, fearing a similar fate, had called police. All three were arrested.

"I built the cell room," said Mr. Lietzman, "to hold my guests when they get noisy or try to break up the furniture. Up until now it has been a success.

Germany Turns Corner And Recovery Now Is Predicted

BERLIN, April 30. (AP)—Germany has turned the corner of economic depression, at least psychologically, and there is a firm basis for predicting a gradual recovery, Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, told the bank shareholders today.

Recent business improvement can hardly be considered more than seasonal, he said, but he emphasized the steady decline of inventories in many lines and called attention to the fundamental shift in psychological attitude in Germany and abroad from extreme pessimism to confidence in the solidity and solvency of Germany.

Support Of 18th Amendment Pledged By Young People Of Taylor County

ABILENE, April 30. (AP) —Under the guiding hand of a zealous Methodist minister who finds no time to "sit down idle and grow old and rusty," although he has no formal appointment at this time a Young People's Christian Temperance League, designed eventually to reach national proportions, has been organized at Potosi in the Southern part of Taylor county.

The constitution of the League is built around a palnk pleding "support to the 18th Amendment." The plan was conceived by The Rev. Cecil Ambrose, supply pastor of the Potosi church, and he, young himself, is enlisting the support and influence of all young people.

At the first meeting the group adopted a constitution, elected officers, and inaugurated plans for passing the idea along to other communities and cities. Odell Briggs freshman student in McMurry College, Methodist institution here, is president.

Plans were started to bring temperance leaders of national renown into this section of the state.

"It is up to young America to stand foursquare behind the federal constitution," the Rev. Ambrose said in the course of his discussion of "The Dangers of a Nation Divided."

"As a united young people, you can retain and enforce our laws," he said. "By your vote and influence you can declare that the crown of thorns plaited by the advocates of light wines and beer shall never again be pressed down on the brow of the American people—that this country shall never again be crucified on the cross of the liquor trade.

"I know that this organization is needed, and my prediction is that it will be the greatest movement of the decade among young people. The organization is our answer to John J. Raskob's challenge that what the Democratic party must do to win the 1932 presidential race is to 'take a courageous stand on prohibition,' and I believe it will be effective."

Rev. Ambrose is 32 years old. He is a native of Tennessee, but a "Texan by education and taste." Born in a hewn log cabin, he received most of his education from reading and undirected study. He came to Texas in 1908.

The budget for other departments of the university, embracing the college of arts and sciences, schools of theology, music, law, engineering and graduate, will be reduced from $835,000 to $750,000 Selecman said.

Heavy reductions are being made in the teaching personnel of the university, it was learned.

Passage Gives An Example Of Perseverance

Three Times Defeated, Bill Proposing Three-Cent Levy On Cigarets Brought Up In House Again And Approved

BY HARRELL E. LEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, April 30. (AP)—Perhaps no better recent example of the effectiveness of perseverance can be found than in the legislature's passage of the bill to levy a tax of 3 cents a package on cigarets.

Less courageous men than the proponents of the cigaret levy probably would have thrown up their hands and quit after the house of representatives thrice had said it would not accept their proposition. But they came back a fourth time and won, 72 to 56.

Held Necessary

Their most effective plea was that the cigaret tax was necessary to support the state's public school system adequately. Phil Sanders of Nacogdoches, who steered the bill through the house, summed up this argument when he said the question to be decided was "The American Tobacco Company vs. the school children of Texas."

Not only had the bill been rejected thrice by the present house, but it had been killed by every legislature for several years. It had come to be regarded almost as something which would go on and on forever but always in the "proposal" stage.

Senator Benjamin F. Berkeley, Alpine, might well be called the "daddy" of th ecigaret tax. It was he who proposed the levy as an amendment to the natural gas tax bill which the House passed.

The Senate's action came as a surprise to many. Few speeches were made against the amendment and it was adopted 18 to 3 with two pairs.

Procedure Unusual

This procedure was unusual as the constitution provides that all revenue-raising measures must originate in the house. However, Edgar E. Witt, lieutenant governor, held the house could amend a revenue bill by levying an entirely different kind of tax.

The amendment bill went back to the house, and that body at that time failed to adopt it by only one vote. This was a sign of the shifting winds as the house previously had voted overwhelmingly not to print two tobacco tax bills on minority committee reports.

The free conference committee lagorde only a little while and reported back with practically the same bill which the senate had passed and the house rejected. This time the House accepted it by the 72 to 56 vote.

Opponents of the cigaret tax claimed it would be impossible to enforce. The tax can't be levied on the out-of-state manufacturer. Therefore it is placed on the man making the first intrastate sale. Thousands of fly-by-night dealers will order the cigarets from outside the state and sell them without paying the tax, opponents said.

In addition, the consumption of cigarets will be cut down, and many smokers will order from other states, objecters to the tax stated. Because of these factors, Dewey Young of Wellington, a consistent opponent, said the tax would raise only $2,500,000 annually instead of the $9,000,000 for which some hoped.

Half To Schools

Proponents claimed the tax would raise $6,000,000 annually. Half would go to the schools and the other to the general revenue fund. They said county officers would enforce the tax the same as any other law.

As passed by the legislature the tax would not become effective until 90 days after the present session ends, or about August 10.

Young stated 12 or 13 states had passed cigaret taxes and two or three had repealed them. He mentioned the neighboring state of Louisiana as one of the states which had repealed its cigaret levy.

Child Stops Henderson's Cussin'

What the federal radio commission could not do, a 12-year-old girl, Louise Carlson of Wichita, Kas., has accomplished—silencing the cuss words of W. K. Henderson, owner of radio station KWKH, Shreveport, La. Louise listens to all of Henderson's broadcasts and recently wrote him a note asking him not to swear except upon very special occasions. The fiery Henderson, whose tirade on chain stores has been heard throughout the nation, replied that no cause was worth using words which offended nice young girls. He promised Louise that if she or any other little girl heard him use a single swear word he promptly would forward a five-pound box of candy. Louise, above, says she would rather not have Henderson, inset, swear than receive the candy.

Stories Told Of Great Suffering

MAZATLAN, Mexico, April 30 (AP)—Stories of great suffering and starvation among the prospectors in the new gold fields near El Tambor, Sinaloa, have been brought here by disheartened miners who, abandoning efforts to make a fortune, returning home.

Caravans of prospectors and their families arrive at the field daily but find they cannot stake claims until legal points connected with those already set up have been settled. The new arrivals, most of whom spent all they possessed in getting to the field, find nothing in the mining settlement to give them a means of living.

Troops have been thrown about the field to prevent new staking of claims. Those who have claims and work them manage to eke out only a miserable existence, finding themselves at the mercy of money lenders who have established a flourishing business in the settlement.

Two towns bordering on the field, Cosala and San Ignacio, have set up rival claims to the territory, the former claiming that the field lies within its municipal boundaries. All the claims staked out by the discoverers and first prospectors were listed as within the municipalty of San Ignacio.
