New Precinct Lines Drawn from Census

Public hearings on proposed redistricting of the Collingsworth County Commissioners' Court precinct lines will be held Wednesday, July 29.

Proposed new precinct lines are shown on the accompanying maps. The only changes are within the Wellington city limits. Outside the city, lines remain where they were before.

Two hearings are scheduled: one at 4 p.m. in the County Court Room, Courthouse, Wellington; and another at 7 p.m. at the Community Action Building, 610 East Ave., Wellington. Local attorney Bill Spillman will be in charge of the hearings.

The new lines were proposed by the county's Citizens Advisory Committee with the help of Baylor Law School professors David Guinn and Michael Morrison, and have tentatively been approved by the Commissioners Court.

After Wednesday's hearing the plan will be submitted to the Justice Department in Washington for its approval.

The Citizens Advisory Committee is composed of Robert Powell, chairman, Tessie Burba, secretary, Delia Aguilar, Jimmie Barber, Glenna Hernandez and Charles Darter.

The new lines are in response to the 1980 census figures which show that the ideal precinct in Collingsworth County would have 1,162 residents.

County Judge Bob Watson said legal advisors were complimentary of the existing precinct plan, and said that while the existing precincts were not too far out of compliance with voting laws, they were far enough out of compliance to be successfully challenged in court.

Precinct 1 had 193 more residents than the ideal; Precinct 2 had 96 too few; Precinct 3 had 65 too few;

and Precinct 4 had 32 too few.

Under the proposed changes Precinct 1 will have 13 residents more than the ideal number; Precinct 2 will have 7 too few; Precinct 3 will have the ideal number;

REVISED PRECINCT LINES

Proposed new precinct lines for the county have been drawn with legal advice from two Baylor Law School professors. The lines differ slightly from those proposed by local officials earlier in the year. The proposed new lines will bring the county into compliance with federal voting rights laws based on the 1980 census. The only changes in precinct lines are within the City of Wellington.

Led by 5 color bearers, 4-H Horse Club riders will present the grand entry and set the pivots to open the annual Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce Rodeo Friday, July 24 at 8:30 p.m.

The rodeo will continue with the slack roping at 9 a.m. Saturday and the second rodeo performance at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

The same 4-H Horse Club members will open the Saturday night performance.

This 1981 action takes place in the VFW Arena near the northeast corner of Wellington, just off the intersection of Highway US 83 and SH 203. C&C Rodeo Company of Childress is the producer.

Books open at 9 a.m. Thursday, July 23, and close at 5 p.m. Entries are accepted by phone calls only, 817-937-8401. Only three contestants may enter per call.

Interest in the rodeo is growing among rodeo cowboys and cowgirls who make the show circuit in the Panhandle and Southwestern Oklahoma, and beyond.

Some of these are regulars at the Wellington rodeos. Others follow the stock producer, C&C Rodeo Company of Childress, according to Bill Lowe, chairman.

The big rodeo dance will

1st Baptist Lets Contract For Educational Building

Members of First Baptist Church voted Sunday, July 19, to construct a new 12,800 square foot building to be used primarily for educational purposes, the Rev. Stanley Hughes has announced.

Work should begin in "about a week or two" he said, as soon as the ground on which it will stand has been surveyed. It is projected that the building will be completed in early 1982.

Hallmark builders of Amarillo was awarded the contract for $306,481, with sub-contracts to be let by the prime contractor for wiring, plumbing and possibly other items.

Plans for this educational building were begun several years ago and a building fund set up. With monies given Sunday morning, it has passed the $83,000 mark, said Rev. Hughes.

The building committee, with approval by the congregation, chose to use a metal building with brick to match the present church complex as a face for the south and east sides, Rev. Hughes said.

It will be located approximately 7 feet north of the present building with an enclosed walkway connecting the two. The pastor outlined possible uses of the building.

"It was planned to be used for more education space," he said. "There will be a chapel for small weddings and small funerals if the families choose. Wednesday night services can be held there.

"A multi-purpose fellowship hall larger than the one in the present education building will be included. This will have a kitchen.

"It will be 75 x 45 feet and can be used for large youth or adult groups with recreation included," said

Girl Scouts & Moms Camp Across American West

[Editor's Note: Two Wellington Girl Scouts and their mothers, Heather and Peggy Hendrix, and Kristi and Barbara Settle, recently returned from a 3-week camping trip through the western United States. Below is Mrs. Hendrix' account of the journey.]

On Thursday, June 25, at 8 a.m., fifteen girls and five adults left Pampa, Texas. Their destination was Ten Sleep, Wyoming, and the Girl Scout National Center West.

Fifteen girls were selected from applicants within the Quivira Council.

Pampa, Borger, Canadian, Memphis and Wellington were represented.

Going from the area were Heather Hendrix and Kristi Settle.

Jane Kadingo, Girl Scout field executive from Pampa, Nikita Kadingo, a native of Pampa and a student at NTSU in Denton, Carla Thomson of Borger, Barbara Settle and Peggy Hendrix of Wellington.

We arrived in Colorado Springs, Colorado, about 5 p.m. After unloading two vans and one u-haul trailer at the National Guard Armory the girls cooked supper.

For the trip the girls had been divided into 2 patrols. One group of 8 girls was known as the Texas Twisters, the other group of 7 as Texas Oilers.

After supper, the Trekkers went to Seven-Falls, a beautiful sight at night with the display of lights on the waterfalls. Indian dances were also being demonstrated.

Friday, June 26, was spent sightseeing in the Colorado Springs area at Van Bricks Pottery, Cave of the Winds and Pikes Peak. While at the top of Pikes Peak we were in a miniature snow storm. The trip on the Cog Railroad gave opportunity to enjoy much of the natural beauty of that mountainous area.

Saturday the group drove from Colorado Springs to Casper, Wyoming.

Sunday we drove from Casper, Wyoming to Thermopolis. Thermopolis is famous for its mineral hot springs. After pitching our tents, the girls and adults enjoyed the warmth of the pool.

On Monday, June 29, we drove the last 70 miles and arrived at the visitors center at National Center West.

Everyone soon understood why they had hiking boots. Everything was either uphill or downhill and rocks abounded--so much so that instead of using stakes to set up our tents, rocks and ropes were more serviceable.

On Monday evening camp personnel and trekkers from all over the U.S. got to know one another.

Houston, Texas, Michigan, Ohio, North and South Carolina, Pennsylvania and Georgia were all represented.

During the week at N.C.W. many activities were available to the Trekkers including hiking, horseback riding, archeology, conservation, and many varied crafts.

On Wednesday evening everyone gathered at one of the program houses for a Swap Party. (Before hand, each group or each girl within a group of Trekkers made something that represented her part of the U.S.) At the party each person swapped articles--in many cases this included addresses to keep in touch later.

Sunday, July 5, we left N.C.W. and headed for Cody, Wyoming, where we explored the Buffalo Bill Museum.

Monday we continued on to Yellowstone National Park and were welcomed at the lodge by a beautiful display by Old Faithful. Tuesday was spent seeing points of interest like the Grand Canyon of Yellowstone.

Tuesday night was spent in Jackson, Wyoming. Wednesday morning the Trekkers set off on a raft ride down the Snake River. This was very exciting "shooting the rapids"--so exciting that at one time our raft had four trekkers in the water.

Friday afternoon in Denver we saw the Denver Zoo. Saturday we toured Royal Gorge from several angles--the aerial tram, the bridge and the floor of the canyon.

Sunday, July 12, everyone arose early with much excitement. Before the day was over we would see friends and family and home. For some of the group this was the first and longest time to be away from home.

A few minutes after 6 p.m. we saw the "Little House" in Pampa. There was a welcome sight...Parents and family and a "Welcome Home" sign.

In 1925 Lum Pao-Hwa of China played 764 games of tennis in one week.

Rev. Hughes. Volleyball and basketball can be played and there can be roller skating with the right kind of skates."

A parlor in the building can be used for families waiting during funerals, for showers, formal gatherings, Sunday School class gatherings and other similar occasions.

Sunday School class space is now crowded, said Rev. Hughes, and even without growing much, it (the new space) will be filled up.

There has been some discussion of furnishings and we don't feel there will be a need for a great amount of furnishings, and what we do can be bought later, said the pastor.

Tommy Hudson is chairman of the building committee, and members are Mrs. Jim Ingram, Mike Hughes, Benson Long and Rodney Myrick.

The finance committee is headed by Mrs. Dee Burba and members are Ronnie O'Rear, Dale Morris, Mrs. Paul Schaub, and Kenneth Patterson.

Mixed doubles, 1 p.m. Sunday.

"We will limit each event to 16 entries and no person may enter more than 4 events unless approved by meet officials."

The singles entry fee is $3.50 and the doubles fee is $7.00. Tournament proceeds will go to buy ball machine for the high school tennis players.

Forty-two trophies will be awarded, first and second in each division and including individual point champions.

The 13 events will include boys singles 14 and under; boys doubles 14 and under; boys singles 17 and under; boys doubles 17 and under; men's open singles, men's open doubles and Girls singles 14 and under, girls doubles 14 and under, girls singles 17 and under, girls doubles, 17 and under, women's open division singles, women's open division doubles and mixed' doubles.

Williams points out that Wellington has one of the few tree-shaded tennis courts in the Panhandle.

Park benches will be moved close to the courts under the trees for the comfort of the spectators.

"There is probably no sport that is growing in popularity as tennis is. It's something you can play and enjoy at any age. If you are not playing in the tournament, we invite you to come out and watch the action," Williams said.

Campbell, United State Flag; Wade Williams, Texas; Lolly Campbell, Collingsworth County; Mickey Anglin, City of Wellington; and Randy Barnett, the 4-H Flag.

Setting the pivots will be Toni Bell, Paul Bell, Chad Feemster, Dudley Owens, Stacy Scott, Jimmy Barber, Kaylynn Bartlett and Lesa White.

Old timers who roped in the arena 20 to 30 years ago and who are present at the Friday night performance will be introduced just after the grand entry.

They should report or send word to the announcers booth before the grand entry starts.

This group, it is pointed out, kept interest in rodeo events alive in Wellington for a long period of time.

There will be 5 major events, bareback bronc riding, tie down calf roping, saddle bronc riding, girls open barrel racing, girls junior barrel racing (13 years and under), Team roping and bull riding.

Handsome buckles will be awarded for each first place winner. An all around trophy buckle will be presented, and the winner must enter at least two events, including one rough stock and one roping event.

A buckle will be presented each night to the first place barrel winner.

The Wellington Chamber of Commerce Rodeo has been advertised widely, even beyond the Panhandle area, and we are expecting this to be one of the major events of this summer's rodeo circuit, said Mr. and Mrs. Lowe.

"Now we want to say 'You-all Come.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Lowe have volunteered their time to head this year's rodeo, and all of those who are working with him are also giving their time to make the big event possible, said Virginia Robey, Chamber of Commerce president.

Much repair work has had to be done at the arena, and especially in getting the shoots ready for the performers.

Wellington Lions Club members will take tickets at the gate. The contestants will use the south gate while the north gate to the arena grounds is to be used by those attending the performance.

The concession stand will be open both nights under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Murdock, and Chamber of Commerce members will help.

Coffee and donuts will be available for ropers and those attending the slack Saturday morning.

Wellington Volunteer Ambulance Service will have one of its ambulances at the grounds both nights.

Irrigation Clause in Dodson Area Leases

A 4,000 acre block of oil, gas and mineral lease which also protects certain water rights of the landowners, has been filed in the office of the county-district clerk, Helen Gollighugh.

These Collingsworth County leases were acquired by the Harlow Corporation of Amarillo, and the block was put together by Woodson Pickens of Hollis, Okla.

Besides the Collingsworth County acreage, the Harlow Corporation has an estimated 60,000 acres leased in Harmon County, which Pickens began buying for the Amarillo corporation about two years ago.

Asked what was paid for the Dodson area leases, Pickens said "Primarily everything has gone for $10 per acre." The term is 5 years with 1/8 royalty. Rental payments are shown on the leases as $1 per acre per year.

Pickens said he received permission from Harlow Corporation to add the irrigation clause.

For example, this provides that during drilling water producing stratas shall be cemented off to a depth of 250 feet to preserve irrigation systems. Another provision is that the use of water in either the production process or in secondary recovery will be made only with the consent of the lessor.

"To me that is very, very important," Pickens told The Wellington Leader. It is especially important to Harmon County, he believes "for to me the irrigation is worth more than the lease money." In that area where there is irrigation, "every place that I bought a lease, that I know of, the irrigation clause was added onto it," he said.

Oil, gas and mineral leases which have been recorded for Harlow Corporation include these:

Murray J. Dodson and wife, Auvarie; Murray J. Dodson, attorney in fact for Kate Hyde; and Juanita McCullough: N/2 of section 40, block 10; N/2 section 38, block 10; section 42, block 10; S/2 and NE/4 section 41, block 10; and section 39, block 10.

Gale Caswell and Mickey Caswell husband and wife.

SW/4 of section 60 and NW/4 section 41, both in block 10.

Louis E. Patterson and wife, Jewel: NE/4 section 59, block 10.

Mattie Erma Bonneau and husband, Van Bonneau: S/2 of N/2 section 22, block 10.

R.T. Jameson and wife, Viola: west 140 acres of N/2 of N/2 and the N/2 of S/2, section 22, block 10.

Effie Patterson, Louis E. Patterson, Danny White, A.T. White, Jr., and Donald Harry White: NE/4 section 60, block 10.

W.O. Vaughan and wife, Austia Mae: SW/4 section 61, block 10; survey 46, block OS and NW/4 section 59, block 10.

Other instruments filed included:

Assignment of oil and gas lease: Bill Fancher to Hunt Oil Company of Dallas: 145 acres out of section 35, block OS.

Assignment of over-riding royalty interest: Glenn Cope of Midland to Kay Bates: an over-riding interest of .0625 of 8/8 oil gas and other hydrocarbons and all other minerals produced, saved and sold, if and when produced in the NW/4 section 14, block 17. This is on the Wheeler County line, north of Dozier.

Joe Jett, 76, Dies July 14 In Missouri

A former resident of the Buck Creek-Quail area, Joe Jett, 76, died Tuesday, July 14, in West Plains, Mo.

He was the father of Claude Jett of Wellington and he and his family farmed here from 1942 until December 1951, when they moved to West Plains.

He began working in early adult life in the oil fields and in pipeline construction in Pottawatomie County, Okla., and after moving to Missouri, he returned to pipeline construction and farming.

Joseph Samuel Jett, Jr., was born July 13, 1905 in Pottawatomie County, then in the Indian Territory, the son of the late Joseph Samuel and Georgiann Richards Jett.

Services were held at 10 a.m. Friday, July 17 at Rover Assembly of God, Rover, Mo., with the Rev. T.L. Morris and the Rev. Wayne Adrian officiating. Burial was in Redburn Cemetery.

Pall bearers were grandsons, Michael, Danny, Mark and Willie Jett, and Terry Bennett and Dennis Dye. Honorary pall bearers were friends.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Ruby Agnes Jett of West Plains; 7 sons: Kenneth Jett of Wild Horse, Colo.; Claude Jett of Wellington; Sam Jett and David Jett of West Plains, Mo.; Harvey Jett of Mansfield, Mo.; Phillip Jett and Lester Jett of Alton, Mo.; three daughters: Nancy Venburg of Manhattan, Kansas; Lana Bennett of Hope, Ark.; and Maxine Grinstead of Sheridan, Ind.;

items that remind of earlier life in those communities should feel free to bring them.

In addition, artists are invited to bring recent paintings, and it is hoped that some of these will be of remembered Loco-Arlie scenes.

Mrs. Lloyd King is secretary, the only office for the reunion group. Hosts are Mr. and Mrs. John Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd King, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lockhart, Mr. and Mrs. Pat

Campbell Places In State 4-H Horse Show

Ed Campbell placed 10th in the cutting horse contest of the State 4-H Horse Show at Waco last week, Extension Agent Don Reeves reported.

Wade Williams, competing in the reining contest, tied with the best score, 147, then was disqualified when he failed to make a lead change on the pattern he ran. This differed from the pattern used in this part of the state, and also from the pattern used in the Panhandle District horse show at Amarillo.

Eight other riders were disqualified for the same reason, those attending the show said.

Campbell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Campbell, while Williams' parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Williams.

Attending the state show were Mr. and Mrs. Williams and daughter, Amy, Bill Wilson who coaches Williams and Extension Agent Don Reeves, Jack Campbell and daughter Lolly and the contestants.

Four Players at Basketball Camp

Four members of the Wellington Junior High girls basketball team attended the Lindsay, Okla., All-Star Basketball camp, through the week of July 12-17.

Directed by Charles Heatty, Lindsay high school basketball coach, it is the largest basketball camp in the world.

Going from here were Kaylynn Bartlett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Bartlett, Robi Mabery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Mabery, Ashley Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, and Leslie Hammons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hammons.

They attended a special junior high session, limited to girls in 6th through 8th grades.

"The coaches taught them the basic instruction on skills and fundamentals of offense, defense shooting, passing, dribbling, ball handling in general, and they did it all to music," said Mrs. Bartlett. Every day, each girl had an hour of individual instruction.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett picked up the girls Friday and saw the one-hour performance presented by the 290 girls and their coaches, which included drills and skills, set to music. Then Patty Wren of Dallas, who was there to play in the Oklahoma-Texas All-star game, gave a ball handling exhibition.

During the week, the girls were split into teams, which challenged each other. Sometime during the day, a game would be played.

"The purpose was not to engage in a basketball game but to teach the rudiments of the game," Mrs. Bartlett added.

Just before this year's camp began, Heatty was selected the National Basketball Coach of the Year for 1981.

Eight coaches work under him and are in charge of various aspects of the game. One had come from Nigeria and another from California. Among them was Oklahoma's Woman's basketball Coach of the Year.

A dozen or so counselors and assistants are on the staff, all college seniors or graduates who have majored in physical education or who are on basketball

Kids Krusade Under Way

The Kids Krusade is under way this week at Fundamental Baptist Church, with the closing ceremony planned for Sunday evening, July 26.

Hours of the Vacation Bible School are 7 to 9 p.m.

The theme for the entire week is "God's Strange Creatures".

"We are studying animals taken from the Bible who preach a message," said Rev. Howard McCann, pastor. "These include a donkey, ant, rooster, lamb and lion. All have a message for us today."

Approximately 50 boys and girls from age three years through high school are expected by the end of the week, the pastor said.

Bus transportation will be furnished for those who need it, Rev. McCann said, and those wanting to ride the bus should call 447-2903.

Rev. McCann is the Krusade superintendent.

Teachers include Mrs.

James Reynolds, juniors; Mrs. John Franklin, kindergarten through third grade; Mrs. Jimmy Denton, preschool (ages three through 5);

Aides are Barbi Reynolds, Margaret Seale, and Paula Reynolds. Mrs. Howard McCann is in charge of refreshments.

The closing program

Sunday evening will begin at 6:30. The boys and girls will give memory verses and songs that they have learned.

Council Holds Short Meeting

Wellington City Council held a short meeting Monday, July 20.

James McDanel, who lives outside the city limits west of 8th street, met with the council to discuss cable television service.

Mayor Ralph Owens pointed out that the city's franchise to Cablecom General covers only service within the city limits and that the city has no jurisdiction beyond that.

There was further discussion of city zoning, from the standpoint that zoning should be by petition of a majority of the residents of an addition or subdivision of the city.

A study of zoning ordinances of other towns the size of Wellington will be made.

Mayor Owens announced that he and City Manager Glen Taylor have secured from Army surplus at Lubbock 8,000 feet of underground wiring which will be used in lighting the runways at Marian Airport.

Present were Mayor Owens and councilmen Sam McGill, John Rainey and Gary Brewer and City Secretary Nell McKinney. Absent were Council members Lyndon Crelia, and Willie Gragson, and Taylor, who is on vacation.

Texas Gain is North's Loss

COLLEGE STATION -- If Texas continues to grow at its present pace through the next decade, its population may surpass New York's by 1990, an analysis of new census data shows.

"Texas can now be compared to a giant magnet drawing increasingly more people from other regions and states," concludes a report by two Texas A&M University sociologists.

Dr. R.L. Skrabanek and Dr. Steven Murdock, have found that more people moved to Texas between 1970 and 1980 than in any other previous census decade in the state's history. The Census Bureau set Texas' population for April 1, 1980 at 14,228,383 compared to 11,196,730 for April 1, 1970 -- an increase of more than 3 million people.

Skrabanek, a sociology professor and demographer with the Texas Real Estate Research Center, and Murdock, head of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station's Department of Rural Sociology, said between 1970 and 1980 Texas had a 27 percent increase in people as compared to the national increase of 11 percent. Texas numerically gained 3 million people, exceeded only by California, which increased by 3.7 million, the researchers found. Ranked third was Florida, which grew by 2.9 million.

At the other extreme New York and Rhode Island lost in population, as did the District of Columbia.

The analysis of the 1980 census' data is being conducted for the Texas 2000 Agency of the governor's office.

According to the report, Texas ranked sixth in total number of people in 1960 and moved ahead of Ohio and Illinois by 1970, and into the third spot ahead of Pennsylvania by 1973. California's 23.7 million and New York's 17.6 million exceeded Texas' 14.2 million by fairly wide margins in 1980. But, if New York and Texas growth patterns continue at the same pace, (New York declined by almost 700,000), Texas' population will surpass the Big Apple state.

Skrabanek and Murdock said the new census figures confirmed what population analysts have been saying about widely differing regional growth patterns in the last decade. Especially pronounced were the differences between the Frost Belt and the Sun Belt states.

The North increased by only 2.3 million, contrasting sharply with an increase of 20.9 million for the South and West.

While eight states in the South and five in the West each gained more than 500,000 inhabitants, Skrabanek and Murdock found not a single Northern state that had an increase that large.

Gin Trash May Give Farmers New Energy

COLLEGE STATION -- The waste products of cotton ginning -- called gin trash -- could someday be the source of energy used to power gins, says a Texas A&M University researcher.

Texas harvests and produces more cotton than any other state with the crop often, exceeding 5 million bales. For about 90 percent of the cotton crop, every bale harvested results in between 700 to 1,200 pounds of gin trash.

The implication of gin trash research would allow farmers to be more energy independent, said Dr. Ronald Laceywell, an agricultural economist.

Much of the research being conducted cooperatively by Texas A&M's Center for Energy and Mineral Resources and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, part of the Texas A&M University System, involves developing synthetic fuels derived from plants or plant residues.

Five major crops in Texas sorghum, cotton, corn, wheat and rice -- produce more than 20 million tons of residue each year.

wells completed was the largest number since 1957, Cox noted. This compares with 16,149 drilled in 1979 and only 7,728 drilled a decade ago in 1971. At that time, the average price of U.S. crude oil was $3.48.

"Although exploration costs continue to increase, the industry is committed to a policy of intensive drilling in Texas. It is hoped that successes with these wells will help offset further production declines this year and in the future," Cox said.

County's 1980 Oil Production 18,383 Barrels

Collingsworth County, which has had recorded production since 1936, last year produced 18,383 barrels of crude oil and condensate at the rate of 50 barrels per day. Production in 1980 boosted Collingsworth County's production total through the end of the year to 1,048,980 barrels.

Despite a ninth consecutive year of maximum production schedules (the maximum efficient recovery rate) in nearly all of Texas' fields, the state's annual output of crude oil and condensate last year fell below the one-billion barrel mark for the first time since 1965. Moreover, a downward production trend continued for the eighth consecutive year since Texas' output peaked in 1972.

The total of 960-million barrels included more than 931-million barrels of crude oil. Also produced was 29-million barrels of condensate, according to figures compiled by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Last year's production level showed a drop of more than 46.5 million barrels from 1979 output and was more than 330 million barrels below 1972 production of almost 1.3 billion barrels. Nevertheless, production in 1980 pushed the all-time cumulative total since 1889 to almost 45.7 billion barrels of crude oil and condensate.

Edwin L. Cox, president of the Dallas-based Association, noted that despite the drop in output there is a very encouraging trend in one aspect of industry activity: Since President Carter began a gradual phaseout of crude oil price controls on June 1, 1979, a phaseout accelerated by President Reagan, the number of wells drilled in Texas has skyrocketed.

Last year's total of 18,697

Sales Tax $2,210 for Pay Period

The City of Wellington has received $2,210 payment of the optional one percent city sales tax for the pay period ending July 9, State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced.

This is down from the comparable period a year ago, when the tax rebate was $5,145.

Taxes collected in prior months of 1981 were higher than those of a year ago and covers the drop experienced in June.

Taxes collected and rebated for the year through July 9 totaled $36,205, compared to 1980 payments of $35,741. This represents an increase of 1.3% for 1981 up to July 9.

Rural Rodents Can Spread Plague

With public health officials already worried over an outbreak of rabies among domestic animals, experts at Texas A&M University are now concerned with the spread of bubonic plague from field rodents to domestic rats in West Texas.

Scientists say a danger to humans exists when plague carriers such as ground squirrels and prairie dogs shift their disease-carrying load of fleas to the massive numbers of rats in urban areas.

To date, there have been no reported cases of disease infected rats in Texas, but a few cases of plague-infected wild animals have been reported in more desolate parts of West Texas and New Mexico.

Dear Parent or Guardian:

At the beginning of school your child will be bringing home an application form for student accident insurance. The school is not in the insurance business; however, as a service to those who might wish to obtain accident insurance for their children in school, this institution permits the Keystone Life Insurance Company of Texas to send accident insurance applications home with the pupils at the beginning of each school term.

This insurance company will carry the interscholastic football coverage for Wellington High School football players during the 1981 season. The football premium is $38.00 per high school football player and is paid by the school district out of football gate receipts. Remember, this policy only covers football at the high school level. No other sport is covered.

This same company offers a student accident insurance plan for all students in grades K thru 12. The cost for the 1981-1982 school term is $12.00 for at school protection or $32.00 for 24 hour coverage. This insurance is paid for by the parent or guardian and covers all school athletics, except high school football, according to the stipulations of the policy.

In the past some misunderstandings have arisen concerning student accident insurance. This letter attempts a brief explanation of the present student accident insurance program. Should you have any additional questions, please call my office.

Sincerely yours,

Kenneth L. McKay

Water Project Legislation Has Priority in Special Session

AUSTIN--When the Special Session of the Texas Legislature opens on July 13, one item receiving top priority will be legislation that looks to the future water needs of the State.

Speaker Bill Clayton says his water trust plan will provide the citizens of Texas with the opportunity to finance much needed water projects at reasonable rates of interest—even by today's standards.

The legislation, if passed by the legislature and approved by the voters at an election to amend the State Constitution, will establish a fund or funds to finance water projects in aiding water development, water conservation, water quality enhancement, flood control, or any combination of these.

Clayton said the legislation being prepared for the Special Session is the version which was pending before the Senate when the regular session ended in June. Earlier in the regular session the House had approved the concept, but there were a number of changes made when the legislation reached the Senate.

One-half of state revenues which exceed appropriations would be deposited in the fund or funds.

The management and expenditure of the money accumulated will be provided for in enabling legislation which will be offered during the special session. Under the proposed enabling legislation, one dollar of water funds could be used to guarantee up to ten dollars of bonds issued on the local level for water projects.

The other one-half of the surplus tax revenues would be used by the legislature as it sees fit. In fact, if the legislature wishes to use the funds earmarked for the water funds for purposes other than water projects, it may do so by a simple majority vote of both houses.

The Clayton plan also provides for a bond guaranty program in which a maximum of $500 million of the general credit of the State will be used to guarantee the payment of principal and interest on bond issues of qualified political subdivisions, the funds of which will be used for water projects.

Under the proposed enabling legislation, one dollar of State funds in the Treasury will guarantee two dollars of bonds issued on the local level for water projects. The guarantee will cause political subdivisions to be able to acquire a rating on its bond issue which means a possible savings of one and one-half to two percent on the interest rate of the bond issue.

The bill would also give the legislature the authority to use funds from any source to retire state debt. State debt is all debt issued and guaranteed by the full faith and credit of the State of Texas.

The Clayton plan goes on to provide that the legislature may authorize the transfer of revenue from the general revenue fund to any of the funds created under this constitutional amendment.

This bill would allow the issuance of authorized but unissued bonds guaranteed by the full faith and credit of the State of Texas at a rate of interest not to exceed 12 percent. Currently there is a six percent limit on the amount of interest that may be paid on Texas Water Development Bonds which make these bonds unmarketable. The proceeds from the sale of Texas Water Development Bonds will be used for qualified water projects under Chapters 16 and 17 of the Texas Water Code which provides for the current storage acquisition and loan programs of the Texas Water Development Board.

Clayton said, "This legislation, if approved, would offer opportunities to communities of the State of Texas unlike any programs heretofore provided in this state. The savings provided the citizens of the state through these various programs would be significant."

Relatives Visit Mrs. C.C. Taylor

Buel Taylor of Lubbock and his daughters, Mrs. James Ribble and son Paul and Karen Taylor, who live on the island of Saipan, visited their mother and grandmother, Mrs. C.C. Taylor. Miss Taylor will return to Saipan, where she will be teaching for the third year. Her students include children of both island residents and of military personnel.

Mrs. Ribble has lived on that island 12 years, where her husband is employed by the U.S. government. They are being transferred to Seattle, Washington.

Mrs. Ribble and Miss Taylor also visited their mother and youngest sister, Mrs. Mary Louise Taylor and Frances Taylor, who live in Brownfield.

Sell it with a Classified Ad.

The savings would be evident through a lower tax rate paid on debt issued to finance water projects and it would allow construction to begin on many water projects, thus avoiding the tremendous escalation of construction costs through project delays because of lack of funding that have been experienced over the last decade. This is a unique funding plan that can help Texas avert a water crisis."

Poem Accepted For Publication

Marjorie Anderson has received first place and an award of $500 for a poem she submitted in the contest sponsored by World of Poetry, Sacramento, Calif. It is entitled "Hounds of the North."

An anthology in which the poem is included will be published within a year, said Mrs. Anderson's daughter, Mrs. Ben Meadows of Amarillo.

Mrs. Anderson, who also lives in Amarillo, entered a second poem, "Earth Cry." Although it did not win a prize, the publishers of "World of Poetry" asked her permission to publish that poem also.

Gafford was born Feb. 27, 1903, at Crowell, the son of John Thomas and Lue Creasey Gafford.

He grew up around Wellington and in the Aberdeen and Rolla communities.

Leaving home at an early age, he began to make all the rodeos, at which time he met and married Brida Miller, who was a rodeo star in her own right and at the time world champion lady bronc rider—once at Cheyenne Frontier Days and at Madison Square Gardens.

Gafford had lived many years in Wyoming and in 1973 made his home in Center, Texas, with his brother and sister-in-law.

He was a member of the "Wild Bunch" Hall of Fame and was active in the Rodeo Circuit during the late 1920s, 1930s and 1940s. He was an All-Round Rodeo Star.

His wife died last year. Survivors are a sister, Mrs. Vivian Godbey of Amarillo, formerly of Quail; three brothers, Bert Gafford of Center, Garrett Gafford of Fresno, Calif., and Monroe Gafford of Big Spring. There are a number of nieces and nephews.

Mrs. G.L. Jones Honored as Retired Teacher for July

Mrs. G.L. (Mary) Jones, who taught in 6 rural schools of Collingsworth County, as well as schools near Houston and in Bandera County, was selected as Retired Teacher of the Month for July by The Collingsworth County Chapter of the national Retired Teachers Association.

When she was born at Overbrook, Indian Territory, Dec. 28, 1896, it was only 7 years since that new country was opened and the population had jumped by a hundred thousand in one day--the day of the "Run of 1889." In many ways, this was still a pioneer country.

Mrs. Jones parents were John Selby and Sophronia Hughs Aaron, who four years later brought their family to Greer County. They settled at Victory, now Jackson county, located 12 miles west of Altus just off US Highway 62.

Her grandfather, Jack Aaron, gave land for the first church to be opened in the area, Mrs. Jones said. This was the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Mary Aaron became a member. "I began school here when I was 7. I was told I had to know my 'ABC's' before I could start to school."

"I gathered nails and from a copy of the alphabet would form a letter and then ask what it was. This way, I learned my alphabet in a day."

"In 1905 we moved in wagons, driving the stock, from 3 miles north of Hollis to our home 11 miles northwest of Wellington, in Salt Fork Community. We lived in a 16' x 32' half dugout until we built two large rooms joined to it. Mrs. Jones attended Gregg School. It was while living here that my father was ordained as a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"About 1914, we sold our home and leased the L.T. Alexander Ranch at Lutie and I attended the Indian Creek School two years.

"We drove Old Maud, age 20, to school. This was when you could hear a car coming a mile away. When the teacher would hear she would tell the boys to 'hold Maud'." Old Maud didn't ever get used to those cars."

Later Mrs. Jones attended school at Plymouth and Wellington High School.

Her father's health had failed and the family moved to Bandera County, where she graduated from Center Point High School in Kerr County.

She attended Schofield College at Kerrville and Southwest Texas State University at San Marcos.

Mary Jones began her teaching career in a small, one teacher school in Waller County near Houston, where her mother's family lived.

"At the end of the year I was offered a scholarship to Baylor University as the most deserving teacher of Waller county that year. Not being financially able to take advantage of this, I taught at our home school in Bandera County the next year.

It was here she met her future husband, the late G.L. (George) Jones. Before they married, he was called into the Army in World War I. She returned to Collingsworth County and taught two years as principal of the two-teacher Cottonwood School. After a year at Crossroads, a stint as principal of the four-teacher Aberdeen School, she resigned to be married.

The couple settled on their ranch south of Kerrville where their twin sons, Harvey and Howard, were born. She did not teach again until the boys were old enough to start to school.

In 1925 her parents were again living in Collingsworth County, and the Jones came to move them back to Bandera County. But in the brief visit, they decided to make this their home.

Like many other Collingsworth teachers of that period, Mrs. Jones attended summer sessions at West Texas State Teachers College, now University, and took correspondence courses in the winter.

In this way, she earned all credits for a degree except for her practice teaching, which had to be done at the college.

In the next 18 years of teaching, she taught at Cross Roads, the primary grades, high school math and algebra at Salt Fork, was principal at Needwood four years, then taught at Roundup 6 years, also at Aberdeen, Elm Valley and again at Cross Roads. That school consolidated with Wellington Schools, and because she had not taken her practice teaching to complete the work for her degree, Mrs. Jones could not go into the Wellington System, as a number of teachers were able to do.

"I loved teaching and always tried to make my school a community center," she says.

She remembers with pride that the trustees would build a platform and seats in the school for the closing program, which lasted two nights. First the younger children gave their program, the the more advanced students presented plays. There was always a large crowd.

Her pupils played basketball with enthusiasm and sometimes, if there weren't enough students, Mrs. Jones played on the team.

After she retired from teaching she sold life insurance for several years in Collingsworth, Wheeler and Childress counties, and represented Wallace Monument Co. of Clarendon for 22 years.

In 1980, when she retired, she was presented an engraved gold plate from the company in recognition of her work.

"Since high school days I have been active in my church and in civic affairs," she says. I have taught Sunday School classes almost continuously for 60 years."

Presently she is a teacher of Dorcas Class at United Methodist Church. She has served on the board of stewards, now the church, board, of United Methodist Church 12 years, first at Aberdeen Methodist Church, later in Wellington.

A long-time member of the Methodist women's organization, first Woman's Society of Christian Service, she was also president of the Methodist Guild and represented the church women at schools of missions in Lubbock and at Mt. Sequoyah, Ark. She now belongs to the Dorothean Group and the prayer group of United Methodist Women.

Additionally, she has been county chairman of the Red Cross Drive and the Cancer Crusade.

Mrs. Jones is a member of the Order of Eastern Star and was worthy matron in 1952 and again in 1971. She belongs to Wellington Garden Club, Wellington Book Club and the Collingsworth County chapter, National Retired Teachers Association.

In 1942, Mr. and Mrs. Jones moved from the Aberdeen area to their farm two miles west of Wellington about the time their sons

Unsalting Our Diet for Healthy and Tasty Eating

PREPARING FOR A PICNIC

Individuals on salt restricted diets face challenges whenever they plan meals. But the situation becomes more difficult when planning a low-sodium picnic menu that the whole group will enjoy.

Studies show that most Americans consume far more salt than they need to maintain good health. A good place to start reducing salt in everyone's diet is by substituting new Fleischmann's Unsalted Margarine for butter or regular margarine. It is now available in the dairy case, and is kosher and parve (milk free), too.

When it is necessary to follow a low-sodium diet, many of us are led to believe that food will be bland and boring. This is not the case. The accompanying recipe for Calico Potato Salad combines Fleischmann's Unsalted Margarine with a variety of seasonings in an unusual variation of a favorite dish where no one will miss the salt. Served warm or at room temperature, it is an ideal dish to pack for a day's outing.

CALICO POTATO SALAD Makes 10 Servings

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) Fleischmann's Unsalted Margarine, melted
- 1/4 cup cider vinegar
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/3 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 1/3 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped pimiento
- 6 medium potatoes, peeled, diced and cooked

Thoroughly combine Fleischmann's Unsalted Margarine, vinegar, sugar, dry mustard and pepper. Mix in green pepper, onion and pimiento. Pour over warm potatoes. Toss lightly and serve warm.

Sodium: 10 MG. per serving

ENERGY SAVING WAYS

With DISHWASHERS

Dishwashers are considered a necessity in millions of homes across the country. Just as with all appliances, a dishwasher's energy-efficiency depends a great deal on how it is used.

- Wash full loads. It takes as much hot water and electricity to wash just one dish as it does for a fully loaded machine.
- Use the short cycle for lightly to normally soiled loads.

Turner Visits In Northwest

N.J. Turner recently visited family and friends in Colorado and Washington.

He left Amarillo June 4 to visit a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Whitley (Jaquetta) in Denver.

Four days later he flew to Portland, Oregon and was met by his two brothers, L.C. Turner of Washougal, Washington, and Olan Turner of Yuna City, Calif.

They went to the home of the L.C. Turners in the mountains for a reunion of the three brothers, and around 50 other relatives.

After the reunion, there was more visiting and sightseeing by the three brothers. They traveled up the Toutle River to within 18 miles of St. Helen's volcano. Turner said the sight was beyond describing. Volcano ash had been pulled out of the river so that timber could be moved downriver.

Every 5 minutes or so there was a puff of smoke, coming from the center of the volcano, Turner said.

A new crater is forming in the center of the volcano. He called the sight "beautiful" when seen through field glasses.

When Turner left Amarillo, temperatures were in the 90-100 degree range. In Washington they had a fire in the heater morning and night with temperatures from 30 to 40 degrees.

Upon returning to Denver, Turner and the Whitneys spent more time sightseeing and going to the races. He returned home June 28 and was met in Amarillo by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Delmar Turner.

On Sunday, the entire group met at Bura Handley Community Center, where dinner was spread at noon and visiting continued through the day.

Mrs. Hilda Bird of Amarillo received the gift for being the oldest person attending, while Kayla Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Coleman, Jr., was presented the gift as the youngest one present.

Joe and Marie Richardson of Shamrock were the most recently married.

During the business session, Frank Coleman was elected president; Richard Sims vice-president; and Barbara Coleman, secretary-treasurer.

This reunion is held on the third weekend of July each year.

Those attending, by families, were:

Others are Tom Raburn of Dallas, Janice Raburn of Waco, Caressa Shaw of Brighton, Colorado, Wendy Weeks of Dallas and Tammy Johnson of Butte, Montana.

The family spent the weekend visiting, playing tennis and swimming at the Woodlands.

The reunion ended Sunday afternoon after a lunch and family meeting at the Sam Raburn home.

Mr. and Mrs. O.B. Raburn, Sr., returned to Wellington after staying in Houston and Dallas with their sons families.

Coleman Family Holds Two-Day Annual Reunion

The annual Coleman reunion was held Saturday night and Sunday, July 18 and 19, with family members coming from Texas and Oklahoma. Approximately 50 attended.

Due to the good rains that fell Saturday night, the traditional picnic at Pioneer park had to be moved. Those coming from north of Salt Fork River went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Coleman at Dozier for a picnic supper, and those from south of the river came to the J.D. Coleman home in Wellington.

On Sunday, the entire group met at Bura Handley Community Center, where dinner was spread at noon and visiting continued through the day.

Mrs. Hilda Bird of Amarillo received the gift for being the oldest person attending, while Kayla Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Coleman, Jr., was presented the gift as the youngest one present.

Immigration Policy

The Reagan administration is expected to announce this week proposed changes in immigration law and policy.

We don't know yet what the details are, but almost any change would be an improvement over the present policy that allows almost anyone to come across the Mexican border without the benefit of a passport, but makes them illegal when they get here.

There's no doubt that we have an economic need for Mexican workers and that Mexican workers need our jobs. The problem has been that there was no rational system to bring the two together.

At least government officials have admitted now that our present system is a failure.

It may take several years of experiment and debate to come up with a sound program, but the fact that we are beginning to talk about it is a hopeful sign.

It doesn't seem that it would be too difficult to devise a scheme whereby Mexicans could obtain some sort of guest worker visa for a limited period of time. If that were coupled with a plan to make it illegal to hire someone without the proper credentials and strict control of our border, then it seems that many of our current immigration problems would be solved.

A friendly and fair relationship with our Mexican neighbors is one of the most important long-term issues facing the southwestern states and the United States as a whole. A question of national sovereignty arises when a nation does not control its borders, and a question of national morality arises when we wink at illegal immigration when we need the workers but close our eyes to their attendant problems.

FROM HIS WORD

There is a movement starting among some very well-known celebrities to become more "friendly."
It is their position that if we would only give a "friendly" word of encouragement to our friends and those whom we come in contact with daily our lives would be enriched.

It is the old idea, that if you are friendly, you will have friends. They are NOT speaking of false flattery, but of genuine kindness, exhortation, and friendly behavior.

This type of conduct should be the mark of the Christian's life in that we should encourage one another. "But exhort one another daily, while it is called Today; lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin." (Heb. 3:13) "This is My commandment, that you love one another, just as I have loved you." (John 15:12) Therefore, can we as God's people be anything less than "friendly"
and still be called God's people? REO

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Acting quickly in the first week of the special session, the Texas Legislature made progress toward passing three of the five issues called by the Governor.

The Senate redistricting committee approved a congressional redistricting plan,
while the House overwhelmingly voted to abolish the state property tax and to create a fund to assist water projects across the state.

If each chamber this week endorses the lead taken by the other, it will be three down, two to go before the halfway point.

The proposed congressional redistricting plan contains a primarily black district in Dallas, which is what Gov. Bill Clements
wanted. Unless the House alters the plan, the Governor will sign the bill.

The property tax and water fund were issues presented in the form of proposed constitutional amendments. Should the Senate follow the House action, the issues will go to the voters
on the November ballot.

That leaves only the Medical Practice Act and revision of the Property Tax Code as unfinished business
on the special session agenda.
Disappointed observers
who had wanted to see more political action now predict a scurry over the property tax code changes.

State Property Tax

In abolishing the ad valorem tax, the Legislature
would not make much difference in taxpayers' bills.
In 1979 the Legislature lowered the tax to a speck of a sum, and it wasn't even worth collecting. The total tax in an entire rural county might come to $2.50.

Still, the tax remained in the Texas Constitution as the source of construction funds for 17 state universities and colleges. Attorney Gen. Mark White ruled that until the law was removed from the Constitution, no other revenues could be used for construction.

Following his ruling, Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls filed suit to resume collecting the tax,
possibly including over $250
in back taxes to 1979.

If the law is stricken from the Constitution, the lawsuit becomes moot and the threat of back taxes disappears.

Water Fund

The water fund amendment, sponsored by no less than House Speaker Bill Clayton, would set up a dedicated state fund financed by surplus revenues.

Under its provisions, unspent state money would be divided, with half going into the water projects assistance fund and the other half for purposes chosen by the Legislature.

The Texas Water Development Board would administer the fund, steering it as loan money to local governments, to help research water projects, and to pay for reservoirs.

The amendment is coupled with enabling legislation which appropriates $40 million to the fund in 1982.
The issue will reach voters
on the November ballot.

Congressional Redistricting

By far the most politically rife issue on the Governor's agenda, the task of redrawing congressional districts was thought to become a sticking point in the special session.

The Governor wanted a plan which created a black Dallas district and which also favored Republicans.
Senate Democrats wanted a plan which favored all incumbents, Democrats and Republicans alike, including two Dallas liberals targeted by Clements.

In a surprise move last week, the Senate committee voted for a substitute bill by Sen. John Wilson, D-La Grange, which was similar to Clements' wishes.

Party lobbyists may still try to use the Democrat voting strength to protect liberal congressmen Jim Ma-tox and Martin Frost.

In the end, conservative Democrats probably did not feel it was worth a gut-fight to protect liberals.

In the Legislature particularly, conservative Democrats find themselves aligned with Republicans
against liberal Democrats, and memories of recent battles (and the mood of the voters) will probably prevail
over cries for party unity.
One legislator put it this way, "the Democrats have a family feud to settle before they can form up on party lines in the Legislature."

Two Constitutional Amendments which passed out of our committee early last week were passed on the floor of the House on Wednesday, July 15. Speaker Clayton's Water Trust Fund bill and a bill that would repeal the State Ad Valorem Tax were both passed in the House and sent to the Senate. If the Senate concurs, this will leave only three unresolved issues in Governor Clement's call: the Medical Practice Act, the overhaul of the Peveto bill and the Congressional re-districting. It appears the Medical Practice bill and the Congressional re-districting

will originate in the Senate.
Then, the House will use the Senate bills. If the Medical Practice Act is not passed,
there will be no regulation
on doctors after September 1. Anyone can practice medicine after this date if the legislation does not act.
One State Representative was heard to say, "I'm going to start doing hysterectomies for $25.00
each until I learn how if we fail to pass this bill."

Congressional re-districting
should be passed by July 24.
This will give the Legislature time to override a veto,
if necessary. The overhaul of the Peveto bill has been set on the back burner. It will be the last and, if my prediction is correct, this is where the big fight will start. Numerous bills have been introduced that will speak to this big mistake.
Peveto now has a new 128-page bill introduced to overhaul what was done in 1979. If nothing is added to the call, the session should be near the end of its work by July 24. Other less controversial issues could be added: providing additional funding for the Veteran's Land Board, a gasohol bill exempting state gasoline tax, and funding of building needs of colleges and universities. The latter could be tied to the Constitutional Amendment
that rescinds State Ad
Valorem Tax.

The attempt to take over Conoco Oil Company by a Canadian Oil Company has upset some of the U.S., companies. Restrictions on U.S. business in Canada has irked U.S. businessmen.
Some of the oil company and real estate interests have been largely responsible for killing bills in committee in the Texas State Government that placed restrictions on the ownership of agricultural interest can now get the attention of the oil
interest on this issue.

Congress were recorded on major roll call votes July 9-15.

HOUSE

DEFENSE SPENDING

By a vote of 190 for and 194
against, the House rejected an amendment to make the Pentagon answerable to the same grants and contracts procedures that other departments and agencies must follow. The amendment was offered to the FY 1982 defense authorization
bill, which exempts the Pentagon from a law requiring departments to use contracts in acquiring property or services. Since major contracts entail competitive bidding, the law controls the multi-billion dollar federal procurement apparatus. Its exemption permits the Pentagon to substitute grants for competitively bid contracts in obtaining basic research.
The bill (HR 3519) was headed for final passage.

Members voting "nay"
wanted to exempt Pentagon research procurement from a federal law governing the award of grants and contracts.

Henry Gonzalez, D-20, Tom
Loeffler, R-21, Abraham
Kazen, D-23, and Martin
Frost, D-24, voted "nay."
Rep. James Wright, D-12,
did not vote.

B-1 BOMBER—By a vote
of 153 for and 254 against,
the House rejected an amendment that was unfavorable to production of the B-1 as the next-generation U.S. manned bomber. The amendment stated that research and development
money in the FY 1982
defense authorization bill (see preceding vote) could be spent for any new bomber the Administration chooses to build; the radar-resistant Stealth is the main alternative to the B-1.
This countered the bill's instructions that the money
be spent only on the B-1.

Most members voting
"yea" opposed or leaned against production of the B-1 bomber.

Mattox, Leland and Paul
voted "yea."

Sam Hall, Wilson, Collins, Ralph Hall, Gramm,
Archer, Fields, Brooks,
Pickle, Leath, Wright,
Hightower, Patman, de la
Garza, White, Stenholm,
Hance, Gonzalez, Loeffler, Kazen and Frost voted
"nay."

DRUG ARRESTS—The House adopted, 362 for and 49 against, an amendment allowing military personnel to make drug arrests outside of the U.S. land mass and military equipment to be used domestically for drug enforcement. This gives the armed services their first major role in helping civilian agencies police drug trafficking. The amendment was attached to HR 3519
(see preceding votes).

SENATE

NOISE CONTROL I--

By a vote of 54 for and 32
against, the Senate failed to achieve the three-fifths majority needed to end a filibuster mounted by liberals during debate on the FY 1982 Justice Department authorization bill. The talkathon sought to prevent action on amendments limiting the role of the Justice Department and the courts in advocating busing to integrate schools.

Most senators voting
"nay" opposed the antibusing amendments.

Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D,
and John Tower, R, voted
"yea."

NOISE CONTROL II--

The Senate rejected, 40 for and 55 against, an amendment designed to retain federal noise control regulations in a way that benefits American's only motorcycle
manufacturer, the Harley Davidson Motorcycle Co., of Milwaukee, Wisc. The amendment was offered to a bill that returns most authority for controlling noise from Washington to state and local governments. The bill (S 1204) was passed on a non-record vote
and sent to the House.

Senators voting "yea"
wanted a single federal noise standard for the manufacture of motorcycles.

Bentsen and Tower voted
"yea."

Stop Smoking System Returns in August

PRPC--Because of the success experienced in February, the Panhandle Health Systems Agency (PHSA) and Collingsworth County Judge Bob Watson are bringing the American Health Foundation's Stop Smoking System back to Wellington.

During the free introductory session, the system will be explained by Pauline Hefley, who is an insurance agent in Amarillo. She is one of seventeen Golden Spread citizens who completed an extensive training period on the smoke stopping course last fall. Local contact for the course is Rita Lowrie, a Wellington school teacher. She successfully completed the course in February. The introductory session will be held in the Collingsworth County Courthouse at 8:00 p.m., Monday, August 3.

During the program, those who sign up will be taught to utilize personal strengths to help them overcome the urge to smoke. Elements of a Weight Watchers, Alcoholics Anonymous and some other smoking cessation programs are combined to give the individual the urge-reducing techniques that will work best. They are also given "homework assignments" that help them apply techniques they learn in the classroom to everyday life.

During the five-day session earlier this year, 18 Collingsworth and Wheeler County citizens 'kicked the habit.' Many of those people had smoked two packs a day for over thirty years. Regionwide, over 100 have quit smoking as a result of the program, which is part of the development activities of the PHSA's Health Promotion Task Force.

The program has already paid off for dozens of Panhandle citizens. So far, over 85 percent of those signed up for the course have kicked the habit. Nationally, over 75 percent are still not smoking at the end of six months.

Mike Neace Wins Club Invitational

Mike Neace of Shamrock won the Wellington Country Club Invitational tournament Sunday, July 12, but not until he had defeated Steve Farris of Memphis in a sudden death playoff.

Neace was one over par with 73 at the end of the first 18 holes, then parred the last 18 for 72 or a total of 145 on the 36 holes.

In the sudden death playoff, Neace birdied two and Farris parred.

Third place went to Everett G. Gauldin of Vernon, with 151 or 7 over par. Fourth in the championship flight was won by Lynn Monzingo of Memphis with 152. Others in the championship flight were Mark Nichols of Seminole, Joe Bob Crowning of Memphis, Stuart Miller of Shamrock.

Willie Gragson won the first flight with 153. Second went to Jay Gauldin, a Vernon school boy with 157. Under UIL rules he could not accept and second then went to Sam Haynes of

of the Eagle ceremony. The principal address was given by Frank Shearer. Then John Ferguson presented the charge to the Eagle Scout and Samuel C. Ferguson presented the Eagle.

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the ceremony.

The duffers flight consisted of the 5 players with the highest scores who played for a set of woods. Winner of this third flight was Henry Sullivan with 182. Others playing were Mark Gauldin of Vernon, Dr. Chester Harrison of Hollis, Jim Cochran and Eddie Orr.

Again, Wellington Country Club received congratulations on the condition of its course and several players said they'd never seen one in this good shape to be no older than it is.

Carson Attends Brucellosis Conference

Dr. Ben Carson of Quail recently attended a one-day seminar in College Station in conjunction with the Texas brucellosis program. It was co-sponsored by the Texas Animal Health Commission, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Veterinary Medical Association.

Dr. Carson is now certified to work with livestock producers in accordance with the fee-based regulations of the Texas brucellosis program.

Brucellosis is a highly contagious disease of livestock, centering in the reproductive organs. It causes abortions, weakened calves, loss of milk and sterility.

Subjects taught during the short course included a detailed study of brucellosis, reduced dosage of Strain 19 vaccine, and regulations in conjunction with the Texas program.

"Veterinarians such as Dr. Carson are now quite knowledgeable about the Texas brucellosis program, and are qualified to assist livestock producers with the disease," Dr. Frank Mann, TVMA immediate past president, Wharton, said.

"The accredited veterinarian is a cornerstone of the Texas brucellosis program," said Dr. John Holcombe of Austin, TAHC Executive Director.

Revised regulations have been in effect since July. Elements of the Texas program include a multi-area plan, reduced dose of Strain 19 vaccine, improved laboratory systems, increased surveillance, producer participation committees and emphasis on prevention.

Garden Club Slates Bake Sales Friday

Wellington Garden Club will hold bake sales in three locations: Friday, July 24, according to Mrs. Charles Michael, one of those working on this.

The hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., or until all the food is sold.

Tables will be set up at Sullivan Hardware and Furniture; Parsons Drug, and at 1109 Childress St.

Proceeds from the sale will go into the club's fund for projects.

During the last year, Wellington Garden Club has erected a new cemetery marker; spent over $600 at Memorial Gardens Cemetery; and kept flowers planted in front of Bura Handley Community Center. Members also planted a tree in Ellison Park to honor the Americans held hostage in Iran, Mrs. Michael explained.

The first printer to use leaden Roman letters, which are substantially the same today, was Nicolas Jenson in the 15th century.

Vincent Braddock, Dimmit; Dr. Dale Barber, Channing; E.H. Brainard, Pampa; Julian Bivins, Amarillo; Jim Finley, Claude; John R. Henard, Wellington; Nolan Henson, Jr., Happy; Jake F. Hess, McLean; Clarence Martin, Friona; A.E. Pronger, Jr., Stratford; John M. Shelton III, Amarillo; and J.R. Taylor, Amarillo.

Taylor is chairman. The committee is one of 15 throughout Texas. Commissioners of the Texas Animal Health Commission have named one committee for each of the 15 TAHC areas. The group represents TAHC area 1.

"Selection of these committees is a major step forward in the Texas brucellosis program," John Armstrong, Kingsville, chairman, TAHC, said. "All members are actively engaged in livestock production, and their suggestions and recommendations as to how to improve and implement the Texas Plan for brucellosis control will be invaluable to Commissioners and the entire staff of the TAHC," Armstrong explained.

Brucellosis is a highly contagious disease of livestock. It affects the reproductive organs resulting in abortions, partial loss of milk production, weakened calves, and in some sterility in bulls. In humans, brucellosis is known as undulant fever.

Members of the committees were selected from names submitted to the Commissioners by various segments of the livestock industry.

Ambulance Service Has Vital Role in Civil Defense Action

The role of the Collingsworth Volunteer Ambulance Service within the County Civil Defense Program was announced jointly by County Judge Bob Watson, County CD director; Marshall Peters and Corky Bowen, president and co-ordinator respectively for the ambulance service.

In the event of a disaster or emergency requiring civil defense action, the ambulance service will function at several points, but primarily at two places, the scene of the disaster and at Collingsworth General Hospital and the Ambulance Service barn which is located on the hospital grounds. The Ambulance barn will be headquarters for that organization's work.

The key role of the ambulance service will be that of transporting injured persons to the hospital. Sut Braselton, hospital administrator, will be in charge of the hospital's care of the patients, along with his staff and additional persons designated to work in the hospital.

As county judge, Watson is director of the county's civil defense program, assisted by Mayor Ralph Owens for Wellington and John Green for Dodson.

Also working with the civil defense will be N.E. Childers of the Sheriff's Department, who is also a member of the ambulances service, is an emergency medical technician and commander of the Texas State Guard.

Mrs. Bowen this week announced the assignments of the individual members of the ambulance service in an emergency or disaster situation.

There will be one driver, two EMT's and one person from the records and linens department aboard each ambulance that goes out, Mrs. Bowen said.

Following a disaster, a first aid department would be set up in the doctor's lounge, under the direction of Delores Birkey and King Bowen.

In charge of triage, which determines who shall be admitted and the order of admittance, at the northeast hospital entrance would be Tessie Burba and Frances Williams.

Peters will coordinate work at the scene of the disaster and Mrs. Bowen will coordinate work at the ambulance service headquarters, the ambulance barn.

Making up the triage at the scene will be John Brown, Dennis Cudd and Fraya Hammons. Charles Roberts will be at the scene in the Samnorwood area.

Participating in ambulance operation will be this group, which Mrs. Bowen said will report to the ambulance barn.

Drivers: Tom Wilkins, John Birkey and Billy Moseley, EMTs will be Jimmy Barber, Keith Davis, Zeldon Jenkins, Johnny Barnett, Larry Hammons, Kenneth Patterson, Char-lotte Stephens and Mary Ann Lowe.

In charge of records and linens will be Margaret Vines, Pam Vines Sherwood, Helen Patterson, Maude Clay, Louise Peters, Dorothy Watson and Mary Morrow.

Funeral home ambulances will be used as needed.

The morgue will be set up at the ambulance barn under the direction of Trudie Peters and Rev.

Roland Jenkins.

Jack Campbell will be chairman of the stretcher bearers, and working with him will be Johnny Mote, Jr., Clyde Ingram, Reece Bowen, Leamon Bawcom, John Dodge, Cliff Hartman, Mike Belew, Gary Brewer, Gary Lemons, Don Hendrix, Johnny Holton and Kent Holland. All these would report to the ambulance barn should an emergency occur.

In charge of wreckers at the scene would be David Peters and Billy Colson.

Ambulance service personnel who are also hospital employees are Sharon Bowen, Charles Harvey, Morene Childers, Mary Saldana and Hope Gray.

Danny Gray is fire chief, and those functioning at West Texas Utilities Company would be Jim Sikes, Leon Martin and Jeff Langford.

Fr. Erpen Begins 3rd Term As Elks National Chaplain

Fr. B.A. Erpen of Our Mother of Mercy Catholic Church, Wellington, was sworn in for his third term as National Grand Chaplain at the 117th Annual Convention of the Grand Lodge, B.P.O. Elks, held July 12-16 in Las Vegas.

Over 5,000 voting delegates, and over 25,000 total from across the U.S. attended the convention, the largest representation in the history of the Elks.

Reports at the convention confirmed that the Order donated over $19.8 million to charity in 1980, for a recorded total of over $382 million in charitable donations since 1880.

The Elks, in addition to numerous other charitable ventures, local, state and national, are sponsors of the annual Elks Hoop Shoot, in which over three million youngsters participated during 1980.

Awarded annually are individual four-year scholarship grants of $20,000 to the top winners and thousands to the many winners in the respective States.

Among the many charities the Elks sponsor are state eye banks, crippled children's hospitals or children's diagnostic clinics as in Texas, cancer research, rehabilitation programs for the handicapped, youth camps, and rehabilitation programs for cerebral palsy youngsters.

Last year the Order recorded over 3,527,000 man-hours of volunteer time contributed by its members for the organization's charitable efforts.

The care and concern of all veterans is constant. Dr. Donald Curtis, the chief medical director for the VA said:

"Last year they (the Elks) made over 31,000 visits to everyone of our 172 VA medical centers and gave over 110,000 hours of labor." The Elks built the first Veterans Hospital in Boston, which it later donated to the government.

Besides being National Grand Chaplain, Fr. Erpen is currently in his thirteenth term as Texas State Chaplain.
