'Bureaucracy' Is Target For Solons' Stabs

Some Punches That Hurt Have Been Landed

BY LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—President Roosevelt's administration is confronted today with Congressional rebellion on a wide domestic front.

It is an authentic rising of the Congressional clan against what legislators call "bureauracy." It is aimed more at Mr. Roosevelt's official family than at the President, but he does not escape.

There is anxiety within the administration, but the old timers have been around a long time—some of them since March 4, 1933—and they figure this storm will blow itself out in time. They hope that the President will select some influential individual to deal with Congress as a White House legislative agent.

Clamor Over Labor

Manpower problems, patronage, farm prices, the 1944 budget and administration disregard of expressions of Congressional sentiment top the list of grievances. There is clamor about New Deal labor policies but it remains to be seen whether there is actual majority force behind all the noise.

Congress already has landed some punches that hurt. House Democrats refused to give Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American-Laborite, N. Y., a place on the judiciary committee. Marcantonio's American Labor party is vital in administration strategy to carry New York in the 1944 presidential elections. That is why the administration urged Speaker Sam Rayburn and House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts to give him a choice committee post.

Senate Rejects Flynn

The Senate beat Mr. Roosevelt on Edward J. Flynn, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, who the President nominated to be minister to Australia. Legislators inflamed by patronage slights and personal affronts suffered from Leon Henderson compelled the President to fire him from the directorship of the Office of Price Administration.

The administration has tried for years to prevent appropriation of further funds for the committee to investigate un-American activities headed by Rep. Martin Dies, D., Tex., but the House last week voted it new life for another two years by a margin of 3-to-1.

To Abrogate Salary Limit

The House ways and means committee has begun the process of Congressional abrogation of the order that no one may receive a salary of more than $25,000 a year, after taxes. Mr. Roosevelt, himself, is charged by angry Congressmen with having imposed that limit after Congress refused to do so.

Farm bloc members are trying to raise price ceilings for agriculture products despite administration opposition and they are further angered by War department refusal to furlough farm boys for the crop season. Some of them are threatening to obtain labor for the farms by reducing appropriations for the armed services, thereby reducing the number of men who could be drafted. They may be able to do that.

The catch-all of capitol resentment is the new House investigating committee sponsored by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D., Va., a hard-hitting anti-New Dealer. Smith

Finns Re-Elect Their President

(By The Associated Press)

HELSINKI, Feb. 15—President Risto Ryti was re-elected to head the government of warring Finland by a practically unanimous vote today.

The decision was made in an election with puzzled factors, including the tentative projection of the name of Field Marshal Baron Karl Gustav Mannerheim, commander in chief of Finland's armed forces as a candidate without his sanction.

Ryti won on the first ballot with 269 votes of a total of 300.

Had Been Forecast

(The re-election of Risto Ryti as president was forecast in Helsinki dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press in New York. The broadcast said that "an absolute majority" of the electoral votes was assured Ryti after the Swedish people's party of Finland swung their 23 ballots to his support).

(The Finnish high command reported in a communique broadcast by the Berlin radio that a flight of 10 Russian planes had dropped bombs in the vicinity of Helsinki without causing any

Farm Incentive Payments Plan Voted Down

Subcommittee Of House Rejects Subsidies, 6-1

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 — The House agriculture appropriations subcommittee by a vote of 6 to 1 today rejected President Roosevelt's request for $100,000,000 to finance incentive payments to farmers raising Irish and sweet potatoes, beans, sorghum, flax and certain vegetables.

Mr. Roosevelt's request was submitted to Congress Feb. 10 by Harold D. Smith, director of the budget bureau. It was recommended by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard and Director James F. Byrnes of the Office of Economic Stabilization.

Favors Higher Prices

The sub-committee's action was interpreted as a move by farm representatives in the House to block subsidy payments to increase food production.

This group favors higher market prices for farm products. Its members insist this could be done by permitting the inclusion of farm labor costs in computing the parity formula. A bill to accomplish this has been approved by the House agriculture committee.

Wickard requested the $100,000,000 to be distributed among farmers as an incentive to plant from 90 to 110 per cent of their 1943 goal on the specified crop.

Hopeful Of Reverse Action

The department already has obtained pledges from thousands of farmers to cooperate in the program. The payments were promised at up to $50 an acre for all crops planted between 90 and 110 per cent of the goal. The payments were proposed to compensate farmers for the cost of expanding production, and were to be independent of all other farm payments.

Agriculture department officials declined to comment on the subcommittee's action.

Officials appeared hopeful, however, that some means may be found to make the payments. They said a final decision cannot be made until a thorough study is made of the committee's report.

Appeal Of Farm Bloc Rejected

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—The Army has flatly rejected the appeals of farm state congressmen to furlough skilled farm workers during the planting and harvesting of crops, it was learned today.

High-ranking Army officials have told the Senate military affairs committee, now investigating manpower, that it is "utterly impossible" to check men in the Army, select those who would be valuable in the growing of foodstuffs, and dispatch them to farms.

Another Plan Seen

The military spokesmen have talked favorably, however, of a plan for the permanent discharge of whole units now in training for work in areas which have reported acute shortages of manpower. But no distinction would be made between trained farm workers or those in other occupations.

The disclosure of the army's rigid stand on manpower came as congressional leaders promised vigorous opposition to the War

'Grand Rush' Is Seen For Automobile Tags

With 15,000 to 18,000 motor vehicles in Lubbock county to be registered for new license tags before April 1, Tax Collector-Assessor H. B. Bryan said today there will be "one more grand rush" if everyone waits until the last few days to renew their licenses for 1943.

Metal strips in lieu of full sized tags have been on sale since Feb. 1, but purchasers have been slow in making applications, Bryan said. The cost is the same as last year and the miniature tags must be attached to the car along with the old tags. The change was made to save metal in war time.

Morgenthau To Talk Over Radio Tonight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP) — Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau will address the nation tonight on the necessity of paying not less than the first installment of 1942 income taxes by March 15. The talk will be carried by the Columbia Broadcasting system, starting at 5:15 p. m. (central wart time).

Rickenbacker Favors Overtime Only In Foxholes, Desert

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15. (AP) — Captain Eddie Rickenbacker is opposed to overtime pay for the 48-hour work week recently ordered by President Roosevelt.

"Everybody should be ready to work 48 hours a week for the high hourly wages they get now, if for no other reason than to save their own skins," declared the American flying ace of the first World war in an interview yesterday at Independence hall.

"In times like this," he continued, "I do not approve of overtime pay except for the men in the foxholes, the swamps, the deserts—those making the supreme sacrifice."

Social Security For Soldiers, Sailors Asked

Expansion Would Obviate Veterans' Legislation

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 — Extension of social security coverage to members of the armed forces as well as to millions of others now outside the program will be recommended by the Social Security board.

Informed sources reported today that adoption of this recommendation, along with other board suggestions for expansion of the program to provide hospitalization costs and cash benefits to disabled workers, might obviate any need for special veterans' legislation like that which followed the last war.

Bills Are Pending

A number of bills proposing extension of social security coverage to members of the fighting services are pending in Congress, and the security board's recommendations probably will be made in its annual report, expected soon.

There has been little pressure for speedy adoption of such legislation, however, because men now in the services and their dependents are protected in many ways by laws enacted for the veterans of other wars.

These laws, among other things, provide for payments to depend-

Battleship Richelieu Of French Navy Is In New York Harbor

U. S. Fleet So Powerful Japs Took To Flight

Impending Battle At Sea Failed To Develop In Area

BY NORMAN BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. FLEET In The South Pacific, Feb. 15—The Japanese navy, after apparently extensive scouting of the strong United States Pacific fleet, refused battle in the final phases of the fight for Guadalcanal.

Thus the Pacific fleet—repeatedly reduced to impotence according to Japanese claims—stopped a Japanese attempt to heavily reinforce Guadalcanal merely by showing itself in strength.

Just Had To Show Up

Apparently the Nipponese fleet kept to the protection of its New Britain and Shortland bases, north of Guadalcanal after finding the strength of its American foe.

An explanatory bulletin broadcast to the crew of the warship to which I am assigned stated the situation succintly. The enemy likewise was "out in force, without question," it said. "Then after finding out what they were up against," it added, "they withdrew instead of reinforcing Guadalcanal."

Battle Didn't Develop

(Reports of what then seemed like an impending fight to the finish between large units of the American and Japanese fleets were current early this month, and in a communique February 2 the Navy department told of increased activity by the enemy in the Solomons area which it believed "indicates a major effort to regain control" of the entire zone.

(Subsequent Navy communiques reported a number of air and surface engagements between the opposing forces, in which both sides were said to have suffered losses. But the expected pitched battle failed to develop—for the now disclosed reason that the enemy was frightened off—and on February 9 Guadalcanal fell finally to the Americans without an important naval struggle.)

Allied Planes Blast Rabaul

(By The Associated Press)

Rabaul, Japan's "Malta" in the southwest Pacific, was reported a smoking ruin today from the greatest mass bomber raid ever carried out by the Allies from the Australian theater.

Fifty tons of explosives and 3,500 incendiary bombs were unloaded on that Japanese base in New Britain by 30 of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's four-motored bombers in four waves early Sunday, dispatches from Allied headquarters in Australia said today.

Flames Seen 100 Miles

Crews, who reported that they had been waiting more than a week for the chance to "burn Rabaul down again" said they did just that.

Smoke from fires and explosions rose more than a mile and a half and the flames were sighted more than 100 miles away, the raiders said. A huge area was set blazing from a village to the southeast of Rabaul to the bay across a narrow isthmus to the north and all along the harbor, reconnaissance showed.

Since Americans delivered a

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 — The 35,000-ton French battleship Richelieu, crippled but still far from impotent, slid into New York harbor last Thursday after dodging a pack of submarines in mid-Atlantic and riding out the toughest gale many of her crew had ever experienced.

The 7,600-ton French cruiser Montcalm, a 6-inch gun vessel which, like the Richelieu, had been based at the West African port of Dakar, made most of the Atlantic crossing with the battleship and berthed at Philadelphia. The two parted company two and a half days out.

Two large new French destroyers, La Fantasque and Le Terrible, each 2,569 tons, also made the crossing from Dakar and put into an undisclosed East coast port.

Admiral Makes Statement

At a press conference announcing the arrival, Vice Admiral V. B. Raymond A. Fenard, chief of a French naval mission to the United States, issued a statement which said:

"For the first time since 1929, there arrived a few days ago in certain eastern ports a most important contingent of French war vessels under the orders of General Giraud, including a battleship, a cruiser, and several destroyers, which are to undergo necessary repairs in different navy yards where they will be cordially received and treated just like all other United Nations ships.

Crews Anxious To Fight

"They are of the most modern types and constitute a valuable addition to the force of the United Nations.

"After more than two years of enforced inaction, the crews are anxious to take up the fight once

Pipeline Flows Its First Oil

(By The Associated Press)

NORRIS CITY, Ill., Feb. 15. — Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies said the Texas oil which reached here Saturday through "big inch," world's largest oil pipeline, will be transferred to tank cars for shipment to the East coast late this week.

The first flow through the 24-inch line, which runs from Longview, Tex., to Norris City, came at a rate of 60,000 barrels daily. B. E. Hull, director of War Emergency Pipelines, inc., said maximum flow of 300,000 barrels a day will be reached by April, or as soon as sufficient tanks are available.

Another Arm Planned

Hull said when the maximum flow is reached part of the oil will be transferred into an Ohio Oil company's pipeline to Pennsylvania. A 14-inch line from Norris City joins the Ohio line at Enfield, Ill., officials announced.

Officials announced last month another arm of the nation's oil arterial system—a 20-inch pipe—would be laid from somewhere near Port Arthur, Tex., to Seymour, Ind. Construction was expected to be completed by Sept. 1.

White House Silent On Timoshenko Visit

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. (AP)—The White House had nothing to say today in reply to inquiries about the possibility that Marshal Semyon Timoshenko, noted Russian military leader, was coming to Washington.

Murder Charge Against Local Negro Quashed

Failure Of Grand Jury To Include Negro Is Reason

Judge Alton B. Chapman this morning took cognizance of what within recent years virtually has amounted to mandates from the United States Supreme court to state courts of criminal appeals, when he granted a motion to quash a murder indictment against a Lubbock negro billed by a grand jury which failed to include a negro.

Judge Chapman, who presides over the 110th judicial district and who was ordered by the administrative judicial district council to conduct the January term of 99th court because of a vacancy created by resignation of Judge E. L. Pitts to become chief justice of the 7th court of civil appeals, acceded to a request of Burton S. Burks, district attorney, however, and remanded the suspect, Robert Johnson, to jail against the filing this afternoon of a new complaint.

Negro To Be Included

Judge Chapman predicated the possibility of asking his next grand jury commission to draw a panel of 16 men that would include at least one negro, to report in that chamber April 5 for action in the next term of court.

Because of the increasing flood of reversals that has become evident in cases carried to the supreme tribunal on contentions that racial discrimination was be-

Record Cold Wave Hits Eastern Areas

(By The Associated Press)

New England and the Middle Atlantic states were in grip, rednosed and watery-eyed, of a record-breaking cold wave today.

Sub-zero temperatures, many of them breaking all-time records, were recorded. Early reports indictated Watertown, N. Y., hit the jack-pot with an official 35 below, but Ogdensburg, Warrensburg and Gloversville, N. Y., were not far behind with, respectively, 34, 33 and 32 below zero.

New York City was shivering with a low of 7 below, a record for the date. Boston had an official -14 and Hartford chalked up -12.

A biting wind nipped ears and fingers.

Schools in many communities were closed, primarily as fuel conservation measures.

Rostov Is Taken; Chain Tightened Around Kharkov

Great Events May Be Expected Shortly, Moscow Says; Fall Of Kharkov Is Said Imminent; Nazis Attacking In Africa

By CARL C. CRANMER
Associated Press War Editor

German armored forces have smashed through American lines in Tunisia for a gain of 20 miles in heavy fighting, dispatches from Allied headquarters in north Africa reported today. The Red army continued to reap successes on the Russian front where Rostov had fallen and Kharkov was endangered.

The seizure of the initiative by the Axis forces in north Africa was in the Faid pass area, 65 miles inland from the Tunisian coast where Marshal Erwin Rommel apparently had joined part of his forces with the troops of Gen. Jorgen Von Arnim to begin a battle for central Tunisia.

An Allied headquarters communique said the Axis was attacking with tanks, infantry, artillery, and dive bombers, and dispatches from headquarters said the American positions at Gafsa, 60 miles southwest, were endangered by the surprise thrust.

The German radio said Sidi Bouzid, 10 miles southwest of Faid, had been captured, and the Allied communique said the action was continuing. The German high command, however, did not claim capture of Sidi Bouzid.

The German attack, restoring the Tunisian front to furious activity after months of minor sparring, was begun at 7 a. m., yesterday with possibly 50 German tanks overrunning American artillery positions, it was reported.

On the Russian front, where the Red army forged a chain a bit closer about Kharkov and drove with unchecked momentum to cut off possibly 200,000 Germans attempting to escape from Rostov on the Don, there was no sign of German counterattack however.

A mid-day Soviet communique recorded by the Soviet monitor in London said the Russian forces had made new advances in the Zolochev area, where the big Ukrainian city was threatened from the northwest and in the Chuguyev area, where the banners of the Red army already were snapping in the winter winds, only seven miles short of the city's

Double Aerial Assault Blasts Germany, Italy

Great Weight Of Bombs Rained On Cologne, Milan

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Feb. 15—Royal Air force squadrons, bombing Germany and Italy in a double-barrelled assault, attacked the Rhineland city of Cologne and the Italian arsenal city of Milan last night, it was announced today.

The naval base of Spezia, on Italy's west coast 100 miles south of Milan, also was attacked by British bombers.

It was Spezia's second raid of the war. The first was made the night of Feb. 4.

Major Forces Suggested

The communique's phrasing suggested that the major forces were concentrated against Cologne and Milan.

The actual number of planes used was not disclosed, but expert observers in the path of the bombers were impressed by the strength shown.

Both attacks were described as "large scale" operations and eleven British bombers failed to return.

The Cologne raid was concentrated and a "great weight" of high explosives was rained on the city in a half hour, authorities said. Defenses of the oft-bombed Rhineland city here were reported less active than usual.

113th Raid On Cologne

It was the 113th attack on Cologne, which was last visited by the RAF on Feb. 3.

Milan also was subjected to a concentrated attack and large fires were started in the city's industrial section where war industries and transport facilities are centered, it was reported. Italian defenses also were described as weak.

Ruling Upheld On Musicians

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 — The Supreme court today affirmed the Chicago federal court ruling that the government could not prosecute the American Federation of Musicians for Sherman anti-trust act violations because of its refusal to make records for juke box and radio reproduction.

The anti-trust action was instituted after James C. Petrillo, head of the musicians' union, ordered his members not to make such recordings.

Injunction Prohibited

The district court dismissed the complaint on the grounds that the Norris-LaGuardia act prohibited the issuance of an injunction, since the case involved a labor dispute.

The government, in appealing, asserted that the case raised these new questions of law:

1. Whether a union may demand that an employer hire men for "useless and unnecessary work."

Coercion Is Questioned

2. Whether a union may use organized coercion to eliminate competition.

3. Whether a union may com-

Hitler Is Said Giving Up Post

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Feb. 15—The Evening Standard reported in a Berne dispatch today that Adolf Hitler was relinquishing supreme command of the German armies and turning the post over to Field Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein.

There was no confirmation of the report here, but observers said, "we would not be surprised if this happens or that it had already happened."

Dissension Reported

The mounting German disaster in Russia apparently had caused dissension of some sort in the Nazi high command. Military observers believed Hitler might be forced to give up the direction of strategy on the eastern front. They said indications were that the German general staff had decided on a new defense line based on Riga, Kiev and Odessa. That line would be roughly 280 miles west of Kharkov.

An Exchange telegraph dispatch from Zurich said Hitler was contemplating formation of a "defense council" which would involve many changes in the high command, including the resignation of several well known gen-

LaGuardia Offers "Isolhash" As Antonym For "Globaloney"

(By The United Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia offers "isolhash" as an antonym for the "globaloney" of Rep. Clare Booth Luce, R., Conn.

He said yesterday in his weekly radio broadcast that the recipe for "isolhash" was:

"Stale and discarded bigotry, narrow-mindedness, prejudice, hatred, greed and selfishness, all leftovers from the last war and now smelly from nauseating serving prior to Pearl Harbor. Spice this with witty phrases and catchwords and season with plenty of petty partisan politics and you have isolhash, an unsavory, unpalatable dish, repulsive to people who love freedom, security and democracy."

Box Meals May Aid Victory

With industrial workers on the job 24 hours a day, lunch boxes are no longer a "noon snack." They are now breakfast, midnight supper or dinner, and a substantial part of the day's meals. Knowing what to put in the lunch box to speed up production is one of the problems of the homemaker, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist.

A lunch box meal should include at least two sandwiches with substantial filling, a hot beverage or soup, a raw vegetable, fruit, and something sweet, if desired. If the beverage or soup does not contain milk, then milk should be purchased at the plant or carried with the lunch.

Sandwiches Are First

Sandwiches get first consideration in the planning, for they are the basis of the lunch box. There is an endless variety of suggestions for fillings. The main dish for the family meal is an easy selection for sandwiches the following day. Slices of meat loaf, liver loaf, kidney loaf or tongue make hearty sandwiches. Left-over roast or pot-roast may be extended by grinding with cooked vegetables and moistening with mayonnaise or chili sauce.

Other good fillings are ground liver and bacon with celery and onions; frankfurters ground with mustard pickles; baked beans and bacon; ground corned beef seasoned with sweet pickles and mayonnaise; chopped veal, mustard and onions; ground pork and cabbage, pickles and mayonnaise; left-over chili; peanut butter with chopped celery and pickles; and ground cooked meat combined with nut butters.

Sandwiches can be made more interesting by varying the kind of bread used. There are whole wheat, cracked wheat, enriched white, rye, pumpernickle, raisin, nut and fruit breads and buns from which to select.

To Keep Sandwich Moist

Spread the bread with butter, fortified margarine or mayonnaise to keep the sandwich moist and to add flavor and extra energy.

Meals are much more appetizing if they contain a hot dish. Soup is a favorite, and old stand-bys are bean, split pea, vegetable, barley or rice in a meat stock, tomato and chili. Cocoa, milk, hot tomato juice or coffee are other suggestions for something hot.

Raw vegetables—celery, tomatoes, green peppers, carrots, onions or lettuce add food value and crispness to the lunch box.

Any fresh fruit in season, canned fruits or dried fruits, cooked or uncooked, makes a good dessert.

Something sweet also may be added. If the hot dish does not contain milk, chocolate or tapioca pudding or custard will add milk to the lunch. Cookies, firm cakes, individual pies or doughnuts are easy to pack.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

If Uncle Sam thinks a boy is old enough to be drafted into the Army his parents ought to regard him as a man, capable of making his own decisions and handling his own affairs.

Yet, some parents can't seem to realize that.

They would not interfere in their son's business to the extent of the Iowa farmer accused of having—unknown to his son—gone to a local draft official and offered him a 50-dollar bribe if he would give the boy a deferment.

But many of them interfere in less serious ways. They try to influence the boy's choice of which service he will enter. That isn't right, for it is the boy and not his Dad or Mother who will have to do the fighting. And he ought to be allowed to decide where he wants to be without their putting any "We just couldn't bear to have you in the air corps" restrictions on his choice.

PARENTS' REMARKS CAN HURT SON'S PRIDE

Nor should they urge that he try to find a safe berth for himself. He may be the type who would always regret not getting in the real fight.

And they shouldn't try to use pull—if they think they have some—to get the boy a commission.

It is hard on his pride, too, if they go around making remarks that give people the idea they think their son is any better than any other soldier or that it would be any worse for him to be sent across than for any other boy.

If he is 21 or older their son is a man and they should stay in the background while he assumes a man's responsibility for defending his country.

They don't do him any service when they try to assume part of his responsibility.

Lubbock Salesmen Pool Transportation

Steady progress toward the pooling of transportation by salesmen working out of Lubbock was reported Saturday at the semi-monthly luncheon of the re-organized Lubbock Traveling Salesmen's association in Hilton hotel.

The chief purpose in reorganizing the association, President J. L. Crow explained, was to provide the agency through which salesmen might cooperate in tackling their transportation problems resulting from the rationing of tires and gasoline.

At the first luncheon, he reported, eight salesmen worked out pooling arrangements among themselves for the following week. At Saturday's luncheon, more than 30 of the members reported they had worked out such an arrangement for the coming week.

The president emphasized that all salesmen in Lubbock an dimmediate area are desired as members of the association. The larger the active membership, he explained, the greater will be the opportunity for individual members to find someone with whom to share transportation.

The next luncheon will be held Saturday, Feb. 27, at 12:30 p. m. in the Hilton.

Lockard Paintings On Display This Week

Windows of Sansom Paint and Paper Co., Thirteenth St., and Ave. K, are displaying the brush work of a local artist this week, the exhibit being one of a courtesy series this firm presents each month.

The work is by Robert Lockard, 1703 Ave. T, an instructor at Texas Technological college, and whose art work has been seen here before.

Three of Lockard's pictures are displayed. Two are water colors, Earth Shape, and Barron's Gin. The third is an oil painting of a landscape type.

Contract Calls For Saving In Leather

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Use of roller skates, motor-scooters and skis by guards at the Chicago aircraft assembly plant, now under construction, is called for in a union contract to be presented to the management by an AFL local.

Shoe rationing and the desire to save man hours were given as reasons for the clause.

DRESS SAVER

To prevent woolen, silk or synthetic dresses from becoming soiled across the shoulders, tack in back shields made of some soft thin material. These can be purchased readymade at novelty counters, or can be made very simply at home of some washable cotton, net, silk, or even a piece of discarded slip. Shields should be made of soft, smooth material for comfort. The back section of a simple dress or blouse pattern should do nicely to cut it by. Finish edges by narrow hems or picoting. Tack to inside dress seams neatly. Shields should be laundered after every second or third wearing.

Tech Cotton Research Idea Headlines Accomplishments Of First Year Of Program

BY BOB WEDDLE
Journal Staff Writer

Headlining the accomplishments of a year's research work under a bill passed by the state legislature in August, 1941, establishing the cotton research committee in Texas, is a project underway at Texas Technological college to develop a three-dimensional weaving.

This development is as yet, said L. E. Parsons, head of the department of Textile engineering at Tech, more an idea than a fact, but a three-dimensional fabric would virtually revolutionize the automobile industry and would open up a totally new field of industrial applications for cotton, notably as transmission and conveyor belts.

To Develop Methods

Other research being carried on by the textile engineering department at Tech, in collaboration with the cotton research committee, is intended to develop methods of fabricating a raw cotton into usable forms so as to greatly reduce manufacturing costs.

Already a material of unusual properties which is neither spun nor woven and may be manufactured for as little as one-tenth of the fabricating costs of spinning and weaving has resulted from research being carried on at Tech. Possible outlets for this material, particularly as a wall covering to serve in lieu of wall paper, are being investigated. This new cotton fabric lends itself to printing of suitable wall designs, giving a tapestry effect, possessing acoustical properties and serving as an insulation. It also may be made flame proof and washable. Staple length is unimportant in such fabrications.

Fabrics Are Included

This product is not yet developed for use in garment making, whereby cheaper cotton clothing may result; however, the research is being continued with this as the ultimate objective. Certain fabrics have been achieved that may work out suitably for window draperies, artificial leather for upholstery and perhaps shoe soles and uppers.

Another project of Texas Tech, in cooperation with Texas State College for Women, is that of studying and testing fashion designs for cotton women's wear. This project has been so favorably received that the National Cotton council and the National Association of Textile Manufacturers have expressed a willingness and a desire to co-sponsor and contribute to the cost of the undertaking.

Set Aside $250,000

The cotton research bill set aside $250,000 to be used in research projects and authorized a continuing appropriation for the purpose of establishing cotton research facilities in Texas, dedicated to pursue research investigation in utilization of cotton products. The legislation established a cotton research committee composed of the presidents of the University of Texas, Texas A. and M. college and Texas Technological college, to direct and administer the act.

During the year in which the administration has functioned under the act, a survey of the Texas cotton supply and marketing situation has been made to determine the character of research activity that would best serve immediate needs of Texas cotton interests.

Employ College Facilities

As a result of the survey, it was determined, that tangible results could be achieved more effectively by employing research facilities already available at state institutions, supplementing and modernizing those facilities, to be placed at the disposal of the cotton research act.

The research committee designated the department of textile engineering at Texas Tech to conduct a project in connection with cotton spinning and textiles, the bureau of business research at Texas university to carry out work in cotton products economics, the bureau of industrial chemistry at Texas university to do work in cotton fiber chemistry, and Texas A. and M. college to conduct research in connection with cottonseed products utilization.

During the year of work, the research undertook to determine why and how foreign spinners could be eager buyers of Texas cotton—which had been termed inferior by criterion of the U. S. Department of Agriculture—with which they manufactured cotton goods for re-export to this country as fabrics of a quality superior to domestic manufactures.

Difference In Staple Length

It was learned that there is a difference in the length of staple of the same variety of cotton grown in Texas and in the southeast of 5-32 of an inch, in favor of the northeast, which made a difference in value of $35 per bale. It also was learned that the longer staple cotton had a breaking strength of 110 pounds, and the shorter staple a breaking strength of 109 pounds, a difference well within the limits of experimental error.

At the University of Texas a process is well advanced to chemically modify the characteristics of cotton fibres. Research here proposes to make improved industrial fabrics from treated Texas cotton fibres, contemplating a spinning technique suitable to treated short staple cottons common to Texas, which will result in manufactures equal to the best obtainable from cotton of longer staple, anticipating retention of the qualities of toughness and hardiness which occur naturally in Texas cotton.

Progress Is Reported

Research in cottonseed utilization as undertaken at Texas A. and M. college includes food and foodstuffs uses of cottonseed and industrial applications of cottonseed products. Commendable progress has been made in developing a manufacturing process which eliminates toxic principle in cottonseed meal. This development has proved of timely interest because of a grave deficiency in protein foodstuffs.

Engineering research is underway to develop more economical methods of recovery of cotton linters pulp. The much-publicized rayon automobile tire is manufactured from pulped cotton linters, as well as gun cotton and ethyl cellulose, popularly known as "cotton rubber." Also included in this branch of research is solvent extraction as a method of oil recovery; the recovery of purified protein for use in plastics and glues and the manufacture of furfural from cottonseed hull bran.

All cooperating agencies are participating in a project concerned with a "cotton" automobile tire. This research is well advanced, even though its development has been hampered by difficulties in obtaining materials and priorities.

In view of difficulties encountered in acquisition of laboratory facilities, results of the project thus far are considered highly satisfactory. From the $250,000 appropriation only $63,519 had been expended up to January 1, but undeveloped equipment and supply orders were outstanding to the amount of $51,423.

Recruiting Drive Is Opened In City For WAVES, SPARS

Lubbock today becomes the focal point for enlistment of WAVES and SPARS in West Texas, as the Lubbock Navy recruiting station launches an intensive program for recruiting women 20 to 50 years of age for both branches of the service.

Lt. Comdr. L. H. Ridout, jr., Dallas, is in charge of Navy recruiting for the entire upper half of Texas.

Applicants may present themselves at the recruiting office here for interviews. Complete information and all necessary papers will be given each applicant here. After being completed and filed here, papers will be sent to Dallas and the applicants will be notified to report. Where applicants are ordered to Dallas, it is explained that transportation both ways will be paid by the government, whether accepted or rejected.

Ensign Marguerite Stuart, in charge of the WAVE and SPAR recruiting in Dallas, has asked that all applicants in West Texas first contact the Navy recruiting office here for complete information.

Navy Appeal Made For Specialists

Vacancies in the Navy's many trade schools have caused the recruiting service to send out a call for men who have turned 17 but who have not reached 18 years of age.

According to H. W. Harris, chief specialist and recruiter in charge of the Lubbock office, the call is for a limited time. Men also are needed for assignment on board the fighting ships.

Men with police experience or with experience in the postal service especially are desired at this time. These men should be in the age group, 38-50. Specialists of this grade will be given second class petty officer ratings, with excellent opportunity for immediate advancement to first class and chief petty officer ratings, Harris said.

City School District Has Oven For Sale

Do you need a bakery oven?

If so, you might get in touch with the city of Lubbock and Lubbock independent school district. They have a couple they would like to sell.

The ovens are the result of a tax deal. A firm which went out of business recently couldn't pay all the taxes it owed. So it turned the ovens over to the city and school district with the stipulation that all the money realized from them be applied on taxes.

The ovens are described as being "Super-Bake" type 24-B. They are in good condition, officials said.

Inquiries should be addressed to Marlin R. Smith, jr., Lubbock city manager.

Duroc Breeders Will Stage Sale Saturday

Fifty-two pure bred animals have been consigned for sale in the first winter auction to be held in Lubbock next Saturday, Feb. 20, by the West Texas Duroc Breeders association, it was announced here yesterday by Coleman Cowan of Idalou, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The sale will be held at the fair grounds in the eastern part of the city. Col. Kenneth Bozeman and Col. Don Estes of Lubbock will sell the hogs.

Cowan said among breeders who will participate are W. A. Williams of Vaga, Harry Duval of Roaring Springs, H. F. Carpenter of Roswell, N. M., and C. L. Franz of Turkey, each with a number of gilts, bred sows, and boars entered in the sale. Franz is field man for the sale.

The association held one sale last fall, in Lubbock.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin, as directed on label or as your doctor advises, and feel world's better. Get genuine Dr. Caldwell's.

Santa Fe

reports to its passengers and shippers on its first year of war operation

About this time every year, it is customary for Santa Fe to report on the condition of this railroad to its owners, the stockholders of this company.

This year, Santa Fe feels the need of making an additional report—not only to the stockholders, but also to the people who have helped us accomplish the biggest job we have ever had.

These are the people who ride on a railroad, who ship on a railroad, and who work on a railroad.

Santa Fe salutes them and thanks them.

Without their cheerful cooperation, this difficult year would certainly have been harder to pull through, if not completely impossible.

This report is built around good, old-fashioned American sportsmanship.

During 1942, Santa Fe moved 79 per cent more passenger miles . . . and 122 per cent more freight ton-miles . . . than in 1918, during World War I.

And all this was done with 26 per cent fewer locomotives than we had in 1918.

These figures indicate the greatest volume of business we have ever handled.

They also indicate why you may have experienced some difficulties and inconveniences in traveling or shipping by train during the past year.

Crowded Trains

If you had difficulty obtaining reservations, or had to stand for a portion of your trip—we were just as concerned as you were over any inconvenience it may have caused you. And we mean it!

Our passenger traffic volume was up 102 per cent last year as compared with 1941. Gasoline rationing, in our territory, will increase that volume even more this year.

The Santa Fe must handle this additional load with its present passenger cars, as no new cars will be built during the war.

Late Trains

We hate late trains, too! . . . and we are sorry if they have caused you to miss a connection or an important meeting.

In these days of unprecedented passenger volume it is not always possible to maintain schedules with on-time regularity . . . and since military trains have the right-of-way over everything else, they often cause our regular passenger trains to be delayed.

At many stations along the line, mail and express are heavier than in normal times—and take longer to load. This is another reason why trains are delayed.

Dining Car Service

We regret if you had to stand in line for a seat in the diner—and we honestly wish we could correct this situation.

Five and more settings per meal are frequently required in our dining cars in these days of limited equipment and crowded trains, whereas two settings used to be enough.

Car Shortage

Mobilizing cars necessary for troop movements has caused a shortage of cars at some points on the line.

Special troop trains are becoming almost routine on the Santa Fe. In just one case, we moved an entire division from one camp—and it took 55 complete trains to handle the men and equipment.

We must also keep our passenger cars in constant service to handle the increased traffic all over the line. For this reason, we cannot always concentrate extra cars at any one point.

Freight Cars

Due to the submarine menace and the diversion of freighters to other services, almost all of the intercoastal freight tonnage formerly handled by ships through the Panama Canal was hauled by the railroads in 1942.

Export freight moving to Pacific ports from eastern United States over the Santa Fe in 1942 increased 374% over 1941!

All this brought about an unusually heavy demand for Santa Fe freight cars . . . increased considerably the average length of haul . . . and occasionally caused delays in delivering empty cars at some loading points. It also indicates Santa Fe has many busy months ahead.

Keep 'Em Rollin'!

Please remember there's only one thing we want to do more than keep trains on time and supply cars as promised—and that's keep troops and war freight on their wartime schedule. And we know that's the way you want it!

The record traffic we handled last year was made possible not only by the wholehearted cooperation of our patrons and employes, but also by the harmonious attitude of the Army and Navy, the wise direction of the ODT, and the help from the Interstate Commerce Commission's Bureau of Service.

Red Offensive Hits New Peak

boundaries.

While the Russians hurled heavy forces at Kharkov, 400 miles west of Stalingrad and hub of the German defense east of the Dnieper, they also were directing a series of converging attacks upon the 70-mile wide Nazi escape corridor west of Rostov.

Several Towns Captured

Several towns and villages were captured southwest of Voroshilovsk, northwest of Rostov, and progress also was reported northwest of Stalino, where the Russians had penetrated to within 70 miles of the sea of Azov, pressing upon the bottleneck through which the German garrison of Rostov, some 200,000 men was fleeing.

The Germans acknowledged the fall of Rostov, and also Voroshilovgrad to the north, but said it was a methodical withdrawal of German forces in which all military installations were destroyed.

Russian dispatches, however, said the capture of the city of 500,000, once described by the Germans as the spigot to Caucasus oil, was a bloody affair in which the Russians charged through the city's modern streets against Germans who had been directed to stand to the last.

Hundreds Of Nazis Slain

Firing from rooftops and cellars, the Germans were said to have died by the hundreds amid blazing ruins.

The Russian account said the city was taken by a three-sided attack, one of which came from Soviet forces which crossed an arm of the sea of Azov and drove in from the southwest to meet other forces coming from the south and east.

On walls before which were piled hundreds of German corpses the Russians said they found German posters advising: "Do not believe rumors. We will not leave Rostov."

Kharkov Fall Imminent

With Kharkov, the strongest remaining link in the old German defense line of the winter of 1941-42, apparently about to fall the Germans were reported in Moscow to be throwing in elite divisions hastily transported from France in an effort to stave off further disaster.

But the Russians were reported going ahead and Moscow dispatches said "great events may be expected shortly."

In north Africa German forces, perhaps including units of Marshal Erwin Rommel's army, were reported attacking strongly along the rim of their southern corridor in Tunisia, but the British Eighth army continued its pressure from the south where the Axis was withdrawing toward Ben Gardane, 25 miles inside the Tunisian border.

Location Not Clear

The dispatches telling of the German attacks did not say whether they were south or north of the Chott Djerid where American motorized forces once pushed up to the Sened area, 50 miles from the coast, then withdrew.

A Berlin broadcast by Transocean, recorded by the Associated Press, reported however that the Germans had occupied Sidi Bou Zid, 70 miles west of Sfax and a short distance west of Faid pass where the French were driven out a few weeks ago. American troops were last reported in the Sidi Bouzid area, where they had gone to reinforce the French. The little Tunisian town is about 30 miles north of Maknassy, the German-held position north of the Chott Djerid.

Presumably the Germans were chiefly interested in protecting their communications to the north.

Mediterranean Areas Raided

Allied air forces raided Crete, Sicily and southern Italy, following up large-scale blows Saturday by B-24 Liberators on Naples, and attacks on Tunis, Bizerte and Crotone in Sicily by other bombing formations.

Meanwhile Germany was having continued trouble with the peoples under her heel in the occupied countries. For the third time in little more than a week German and Dutch Nazi police searched for the assassins of one high in the councils of the Dutch puppet regime of Antop Mussert. The latest victim was C. Van Ravenzwaal, minister of social affairs and mayor of Utrecht, who had followed the leadership of Mussert, the Dutch "fuehrer."

Previously the assassinations of Lt. Gen. Hendrik Alexander Seyffardt, former Dutch war minister, and Dr. H. Reydon, Dutch Nazi propaganda chief, had been reported.

More News Of 'Lost Battalion' Received

Radio news, supposedly with Japanese origin, giving information on the "Lost Battalion" continues to intrigue Lubbock listeners.

Ed Tonn, 2206 Broadway, reported hearing Tokyo today, the voice supposedly being that of A. L. Favel, 1005 Ave. C, Lubbock. Incidently the City Directory lists an A. L. Savell at that address. Another person reported hearing the voice of Pvt. Robert D. Savell, not listed here.

The broadcast said they were doing well, but would be glad when the war is over. Tonn said today's broadcast must have been from a record, since the speaker wished everyone "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

A Japanese broadcast was heard at 6:15 p. m. Friday by Prof. W. F. Helwig, of the electrical engineering department at Texas Tech.

Prof. Helwig said voices represented as those of Charles Robertson, of Houston, and a man named Woodward, of Wichita Falls, were heard. Both men stated that they were well clothed and were getting enough to eat. Privates Woods, Patterson and Harrison, were mentioned by the other speakers as being well.

The men are being held prisoners in Java, according to the broadcast.

Stock Market

TWO-YEAR PEAKS REACHED

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP) — In one of the broadest and speediest markets for many months, numerous stocks today climbed to peak levels in more than two years.

Heavy buying continued in low-priced utilities and other categories and volume for the full proceedings was not far from the 2,000,000-share figure, or the largest since late December, 1941. There were intermittent slow-downs after the opening and top gains ranging from fractions to 2 points or so were reduced near the close. Losers were relatively meager.

The further upswing again was attributed by brokers mainly to encouragement over Russian battle victories, persistent talk of inflation, pressure of idle funds and brightening of hopes for favorable economic legislation by Congress.

Rail and utility bonds advanced.

Enrollment Of 17 In WAAC Is Announced

Enrollment of 17 more South Plains and Panhandle women in the Woman's Army Auxiliary corps was announced this morning at the West Texas Army Recruiting and Induction station here. The group includes one colored woman, Margaret A. Campbell, Plainview, the fourth negro in a district of 76 counties to enroll in the corps.

Lubbock county neared the half-way mark toward its first-quarter quota of 41 with enrollment of 18 women, it was announced.

Other enrollees are Elizabeth J. Schwind, Lillie M. Gooding, Eva I. Dudley, all of Pampa; Helen L. Hodges and Dorothy E. Wittlif, White Deer; Marjorie E. Wyrick and Helen L. Tienken, Tulia; Amelia J. Warren, Big Spring; Cora L. Morrow and Helen Fortenberry, Midland; Ruth C. Logan and Edna P. Clark, Borger; Ima D. Moeser, Colorado City; Zerva L. Smith and Wanda I. Cruse, Slaton; and Velma R. Pike, Amarillo.

The South Plains platoon of WAACS, given the name of Westernettes, is to leave for training centers sometime today. It is comprised of approximately 32 women.

A cubic foot of solid gold weighs about 1200 pounds troy weight.

Correct Rendition Of Property Urged

Lubbock county citizens who own real estate, using the property as a homestead, should see to it their homes are rendered properly on the county's tax books in order to benefit from the $3,000 exemption, H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor-collector, said today.

Assessing of ad valorem property taxes that will go to making up the 1943 roll now is beginning, Bryan said.

Bryan said the tax rate in Lubbock county on farm and ranch land has not changed since 1932, when county commissioners recommended a reduction in the levy from a uniform $12 an acre to $10. This rate will apply off the 1943 roll, unless the commissioners meet and recommend a change within the next few days.

In the five years Bryan has served as assessor-collector he said the county's total valuation has grown by natural causes from about $21 million to about $32 million dollars, and an increased levy has not been deemed necessary or advisable.

In some neighboring counties, records reveal, it has become necessary this year to increase county levies as much as 30 per cent over last year, but this is believed to be largely due to the lower valuations placed on property. In Lubbock county all real property is valued at 60 cents on the dollar for taxable purposes, which automatically gives a $5,000 homestead full tax exemption. Natural increase in wealth each year boosts the county's income without advancing valuations or assessments to meet increased administrative costs. The county's tax rate for all purposes is 19 cents. The state levies an additional 75 cents, the constitutional limit.

Farm Bloc Appeal

Manpower commission's cancellation of dependency as a ground for draft deferment. Sen. Warren R. Austin, (R., Vt.) author of a compulsory service bill, said the WMC's efforts to solve manpower problems without congressional action were doomed to failure. Chairman Andrew J. May, (D., Ky.) of the House military affairs committee said his group would report favorably on Wednesday a bill to postpone drafting married men with children in each state until all single men and married men without children have been called.

Committee To Act

May said his committee would act regardless of week-end statements of WMC chairman Paul V. McNutt and Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey that all able-bodied men aged 18 through 37 would be in the armed forces by the end of the year unless they were in essential war jobs.

Meanwhile, Senate Republican Leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon appealed for action to forestall a disastrous slump in foodstuff production. He said that in his opinion some skilled workers could be shifted from Army camps to farm fields without endangering the country's offensive or defensive power "in the slightest degree." He protested against what he described as the disruption of production on vital home fronts by denying them sufficient labor to keep supplies of food and materials flowing to the fighting forces.

Army Said Wrong

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, (D., Colo.) a member of the Senate military affairs committee, said he is "more convinced than ever" that "the Army is dead wrong." Under a plan of releasing whole units to relieve distressed farmers, no differentiation would be made between skilled workers and men from "white collar" occupations.

"A white-collar worker may be the most patriotic man in the world, but he is not very useful to a farmer, except, perhaps in fruit-raising areas or some others where skilled workmanship is not so necessary," Johnson said.

Col. Mangrum Takes Corpus Christi Post

CORPUS CHRISTI, Feb. 15 (U.P.)—Back from the south Pacific where he commanded the first Marine squadron to land on Guadalcanal, Lt. Col. Richard C. Mangrum will take over today as commander of the cadet regiment at the Naval Air Training center.

Col. Mangum will supervise all non-flying activities of the aviation cadets.

Racer Jumps From Van To Beat Plugs

MONTROSE, Calif., Feb. 15 (U.P.)—Black Rain, speedy race horse, was not content to win the feature event at the Colorado State Fair in Pueblo.

On the way back to Montrose the horse had to out-race two "old plugs" on U. S. Highway 50.

The horse was being driven back to his Western Slope ranch in an automobile trailer after the fair when he spotted two old horses running alongside the highway and drawing away from the car and trailer.

Black Rain leaped over the top of the horse trailer breaking the rope, struck the back of the car and tore out after the two other horses. He passed them before his owner caught him after a mile chase.

PELLEY LOSES APPEAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (U.P.) — William Dudley Pelley, founder of the silver shirt organization, today lost his appeal to the Supreme court from his conviction on charges of violating the sedition act through publication of his "fellowship press."

Battleship Richelieu

again against our common enemy. They will soon join their comrades of the French navy who have since last December taken their places with the British and American navies and are doing their share in keeping open the sea lanes to the north African front."

Disclosure Permitted

Censorship permitted the disclosure today of their arrival.

The Richelieu had lain at anchor at Dakar for more than two years.

Naval officials permitted me to make the 3,700-mile trip from Africa with her "just in case anything should happen."

United States destroyers escorted us all the way, safeguarding against an attempt by Germany and Italy to sink such a prize while she was able to move only at slow speed.

See Statue Of Liberty

The men aboard were excited and happy as the Statue of Liberty broke through a heavy fog at journey's end.

"Our coming will show the American people that France still has a navy," Capt. Marcel Deramond told me. "It will show them, too, that our sailors are anxious and eager to fight."

The Richelieu is one of the world's most powerful battleships and the transfer to the United States conclusively ends the one-time fear of Washington and London that she might fall into Axis hands.

Carries Four Planes

Armor plating of the Richelieu is strong enough to withstand a direct hit by a 16-inch shell directly above one of her magazines. Her main batteries are eight 15-inch guns. Measuring 815 feet from stem to stern, she is equipped to carry four planes and has a normal complement of 1,460 men. The battleship can attain a top speed of 32 knots.

The Montcalm, completed in 1937, is one of six cruisers of La Galissonniere class. She is equipped to carry four aircraft, launched by catapult. Her normal complement is 540.

To Be Refitted

The Richelieu came to the United States under terms of the broad agreement enacted between the French and the Allies last Dec. 8 at Algiers. Her pierced hull, useless propellor shaft and damaged guns will be repaired and she will be completely overhauled and refitted. On return to battle a few months hence, able to make full use of her tremendous striking power and her heavy armor, she will take a place among the world's greatest battleships.

The voyage began Jan. 30, after a single trial run outside Dakar's harbor. The ship stole away quietly at dusk, apparently headed for Casablanca where, by carefully-circulated reports, she was to obtain parts from her sister ship, the Jean Bart. But we moved steadily westward past the Cape Verde islands instead, then set a course directly for the United States.

The first four days were uneventful but on the fifth—just as we were reaching the halfway mark—a radio message warned of submarines dead ahead. We changed course abruptly, almost 90 degrees, and maneuvered carefully for several hundred miles. Some 36 hours later we returned to a direct course without having seen a trace of the enemy.

The storm struck on Feb. 8, hundreds of tons of water crashing across the bow and damaging the fo'c'sle. At the stern, where a temporary hull had been built over a 40-foot rent caused by a British torpedo, great timers were used to bulwark buckled steel plates. The crippled ship, operating also with but three of her four propellors, banged and shuddered in the tumultuous seas for 24 hours, but she rode out the ordeal without material harm.

R. E. Smith Dies At Home Near Amherst

AMHERST, Feb. 15 (Special)—A resident of the Amherst section 14 years, Robert Elmer Smith, 48, Amherst route 1, died Sunday night at his home. Funeral services are pending arrival of a son in the armed services.

Immediate survivors include his wife; three sons, O. W., Littlefield, Ray H., Amherst, Lloyd R., stationed in Florida; one daughter, Mrs. Oleta Sawyer, Amherst; and five grandchildren.

Services are to be held in Amherst Baptist church, with burial under direction of Bryan McDonald & Son Funeral home of Lubbock in Amherst cemetery.

Littlefield Flier Is Killed In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 15 (AP) —The names of three Will Rogers field fliers killed in the crash of their light bomber west of Eldorado, Okla., yesterday were announced today by the public relations office.

The pilot was Flight Officer Sergeant C. P. Anderson, 23, Littlefield, Tex. The others were Sergeant Carlton Weal, 21, Bradford, R. I., and Sergeant Howard J. Smith, 32, Tell City, Ind.

Investigation of the crash was continued by a board of officers from the base.

Dallas Drys Plan Election Petition

DALLAS, Feb. 15 (U.P.)—Dallas dry forces will start circulating petitions today to ask for a county-wide prohibition election for beer and whiskey, said the Rev. Preston P. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Dallas county campaign against beverage alcohol.

Because of the small turnout at the November general election, only 1,142 names will be necessary to force the calling of a county-wide election, Reynolds said.

For a thorough tire examination the tire should be removed from the rim and every bit of outside and inside surface inspected.

CHARGED WITH STATUTORY RAPE—Homer Scott, 20, (left) Amarillo, taxi driver, was charged with statutory rape in connection with his alleged relations with Dorothy Frisbie, (right) 18, who said in a signed statement she had given rat poison to Scott's children, Johnny, 16 months, and Glenda, 3. Johnny died and Miss Frisbie was charged in his death.

Five Gaunt Army Fliers Tell How They Subsisted 16 Days After Crack-Up In Idaho Area

(By The United Press)

BOISE, Ida., Feb. 15 — Five gaunt Army fliers told today how they subsisted on chocolate, woodpeckers and squirrels and shivered in a crude, snow-covered tent for 16 days after their bomber was forced down in the desolate wilderness of Loon lake.

The fliers, still hardly able to believe their rescue, hoped that three of their comrades were as fortunate. Those three set out for help through the frozen pine forests 12 days ago and never returned.

Search for Others

A rescue party on skis began a search for them today.

The five others were sighted Saturday by Penn Stohr, 40, a veteran mail pilot, as he flew over snow-bound Loon lake on his regular flight between the mountain villages of Cascade and Warren. The stranded fliers waved their arms and Stohr waved back.

He returned late yesterday and set his ski-shod plane down on the ice of Loon lake to find five men, huddled in their rough shelter, hungry and weak from exposure. One of them, Staff Sgt. Forest S. Hoover, Tacoma, Wash., had suffered a broken knee and cut foot. His buddies had cared for him as best they could.

Bomber Shears Off Trees

One of the five, 2nd Lieut. James V. Kelly, Warren, Kan., told how they lived on a diet of chocolate ration and made a "delicious broth" from woodpeckers and squirrels they had shot. They had hung a shirt from a pole as a distress signal, and kept from freezing by building a fire around an old tree stump.

Their bomber had sheared off the tops of pine trees and smashed heavily into the snow on the shore of the lake. Before Stohr arrived, another plane, not equipped for landing on ice, dropped supplies and a walkie-talkie radio set.

Stohr flew the men back to Cascade, where they were treated to their "first square meal" since their plane crashed Jan. 29. They ate ravenously. Then they were brought here to the hospital at Gowen field air base.

Besides Hoover and Kelly, the five included Lt. Robert R. Orr, the pilot, Tacoma, and Staff Sgt. Paul C. Lowen, Tacoma.

News Briefs

Charged with drunk driving, W. O. Harbison, 40, pleaded guilty this morning in county court and was assessed a fine of $50, court costs, and his operator's license suspended six months, a judgment of Judge G. V. Pardue said.

Police said two breakins were reported this morning. Twenty-five dollars in cash, possibly some cigarets, was taken from the Earl Ince service station at 708 Avenue H after a window had been smashed. Bumpass cafe reported approximately $30 in money and merchandise taken in a similar burglary, said Aubrey Fawver, assistant chief of police. Dave Pope, a 29-year-old negro, was charged with theft of $8.80 from Ethel Lee Jordan of Lorenzo, in a negro cafe here. A Lubbock Mexican was released to the Seminole sheriff, who said he would file a charge of chicken theft. Officials said two chickens were recovered. Troy Reese of Sneed hall, Texas Technological college, said his bike had been stolen. John Douglas Partain of 1308 Fifth street in Levelland charged a tire had been removed from his car parked in 1100-block Tenth street in Lubbock. A complaint was filed charging a 28-year-old negro with rape of a 10-year-old negro girl.

Members of Lubbock High school basketball team will present their queen Tuesday night when the Westerners play the Amarillo Sandies on the local high school court, it was announced this morning. The queen already has been selected, through a secret vote.

Lt. Emma A. Yukna, whose home is in Nazareth, Pa., spent the week-end here while en route to her first assignment since graduating Jan. 23 in the Officer Candidate school for WAAC's in Fort Des Moines, Iowa. She will be with the recruiting sub-office in El Paso. It. Yukna enrolled as an auxiliary on Nov. 2. Her visit here was with the local Army recruiting personnel under Lt. Col. Marvin B. Durrette, commander for the West Texas district.

Members of the Texas Technological college chapter of the Future Farmers of America will hold a meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Agriculture building, it was announced this afternoon. T. L. Leach, professor; in the department of Agriculture, will serve as advisor.

Charge Is Quashed

ing practiced in conduct of southern and southwestern state district courts, Judge Chapman has made it a practice to avoid such resubmissions to his 110th court by use of negroes as grand jury commissioners and grand jurors, he told the 60-man special venire that reported to him at 10 o'clock this morning for the Johnson case.

Negroes Not Barred

The law has not barred service of qualified negroes on grand or pettit juries in Texas, but there has been no custom built about their employment in such duties. They, like others who qualify for jury duty, must be able to read and write and must qualify additionally for the right to pay a poll tax—with the added stipulation for grand jury action that they must have paid a current poll tax.

Those representing Johnson, Jimmie Cunningham and Max Coleman, informed the court that never had a negro done either pettit or grand jury duty here since Lubbock was organized as a county and that the omission constituted discrimination against that race, which, it was claimed, number approximately 5,000 in the county.

Many Reverses

Since the famous Scottsboro, Ala., case there has been a rising number of negro convictions "kicked back" to the lower courts on contention that barring negroes from jury duties constitutes not only racial discrimination, but a violation of the 14th amendment to the federal constitution.

Repercussions from the motion went even further. Burks said he had filed a motion to dismiss as against other negroes indicted by the same grand jury: Frank King, charged with burglary, W. L. Lewis, robbery, and Jess Ridley, burglary. He said that when the case of Willie Crawford, negro charged with theft over $50, comes up Wednesday, he expected to file a similar motion.

To Re-File Complaints

"In each case, however, I plan to re-file against the defendant—and that goes for Johnson, as well—and refer each case to attention of the next 99th grand jury. Attitude of the defense counsel in the Johnson case merely defers court action, it would seem. Everybody has seen this move to place negroes on juries for years. It has been even slower in coming than many of us had expected. Several important cases involving negroes in the Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston sections have been reversed in recent months and procedure seems to be in for a bit of tailoring, as a result."

Burks said James Stephens, charged with burglary, had been released from charges after having been accepted by the Navy.

No announcement had been made at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon in regard to the cases of W. L. Bailey, charged with assault to murder, and Alfredo Carrasco, a Mexican similarly charged. Counsel for Bailey filed a motion and exceptions directed at qualification of Judge Chapman to hear the case, under legal premise the 99th court is by law vacant.

Trial Date Argued For W. R. Newtons

(Special To The Journal)

OLTON, Feb. 15. — Presiding Judge C. D. Russell had before him today setting trial date in 64th district court of Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Newton of Cameron, charged with assault and attempt to murder Dr. Roy Hunt, Littlefield physician. Dr. Hunt was shot and seriously wounded last May 21 when he responded to a call by telephone to come to a place a few miles south of Littlefield, on the Lubbock highway.

Motive for the shooting and the alleged murder attempt never has been established. Both state and defense lawyers have been striving to determine which witnesses are in the armed services and if they can be given furloughs in order to appear in court at the trial. March 8 had been tentatively suggested for the trial while efforts proceeded with obtaining the presense in court of essential witnesses.

E. A. Bills, special prosecutor, is representing the state of Texas. Counsel for the defendants include T. W. Potter of Littlefield, Dusty Miller of Amarillo, and Camp and Camp of Cameron. Potter was the only defense lawyer present in court today.

Dr. Hunt was shot several times in the shoulder and abdomen about one o'clock in the morning on the highway. He was able to get back into his car and drive to Littlefield and to a hospital, in which he is associated there. The next day Lamb county officers went to Cameron with the warrant of arrest for the couple.

At present, the security status of members of the armed forces is:

1. For those whose former occupations were outside the program, such as farmers and lawyers, nothing at all.

2. For those who worked in "covered" employment, no different from that of civilians who were thrown out of work.

This latter group, however, shouldn't write off their payments for social security as a total loss.

Most states have provided they shall have, upon discharge from service, the same right to unemployment compensation they would have had if they had lost their jobs instead of entering the armed forces.

Texas Solons Back To Work

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 15 — Texas legislators buckled down to work again today with prospects good for action one way or the other on bills to curb loan sharks and to prevent sale of inferior insecticides.

Rep. S. J. Isaacs of El Paso held top of the House calendar for his bill to add attorney fees to court costs in usury judgments.

Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe had a favorable place in the Senate for his bill to match federal regulation of insecticides and fungicides with similar requirement for preparations made and sold within the state. All Senate action on bills, however, depends on getting sufficient members present to suspend rules.

Printed for members' study, but still far from action, were the rival chiropractic and basic sciences bills for healers, the state aeronautical control bill and the Senate bill to enjoin habitual loan sharks and House bill 100, to regulate labor unions.

Spade Ranch Fire

The modern fire-fighting methods contrasted as vividly with methods of the olds days on the ranch layout as the physical size of the ranch now does with its expanse of 50 years ago, when it sprawled over 270,000 acres.

There was no stampede of cattle, either — the 3,500 fat Hereford yearlings and 2-year-old steers, unlike the wild scrubs that once belonged in this section, "were so tame most of them came up and watched us fight the fire," said W. E. Twitty, Lubbock fire chief.

Discovered about dawn, when a telephone call was placed to Tom Arnett, Spade foreman, the fire, sometimes burning 12 feet high and traveling 20 miles an hour before puffs of a slightly-north-of-east wind, was not extinguished until mid-afternoon.

Firemen operated their trucks slightly faster than a man can walk, spraying one tank of 250 gallons to each mile, then running a mile away to where they could refill tanks from surface water. Spade officials said thanks this morning for "the efficiency of the two fire departments."

In Lubbock too there were grass fires — three of them. Sunday afternoon, firemen went to 604 Avenue W, 1915 Nineteenth street and 3111 Twenty-second street. No damage was reported.

LAFS Class To Finish Tuesday

Another large class of America's finest pilots will graduate and receive their wings and diplomas at the Lubbock Army Flying school Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the post theater, according to Col. Thomas L. Gilbert, commanding officer.

After their graduation the commissioned officers and flight officers will be assigned to active duty with Air Force units, some of them will receive a short period of additional training in various lines.

Bishop Honor Student

Presentation of wings and diploma to the honor student, Aviation Cadet John E. Bishop, will be made by Capt. Alvin L. Smith, commanding officer of training group two. Cadet Bishop is from New York and his father is a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy. He was a student at Cornell university prior to entering flight training.

The program will not be open to the general public due to the limited seating capacity of the post theater. Capt. Aubrey C. Halsell, post chaplain, will give the invocation and the oath of office will be administered by Captain Russell D. Shively, secretary.

Lt. Col. Howard D. Kenzie, director of training, will make the graduation address and wings and diplomas will be presented to the class by: Capt. Thomas O. Marshall, commander of training squadron three; Capt. Thomas M. Potter, commandant of cadets; Capt. Albert G. Arnold, commander of training squadron four and Capt. Gordon J. Mott, director of ground training.

The air corps song will be sung by the graduating class and the program will close with the national anthem, played by the Flying school band, directed by Warrant Officer George P. Attridge. The band will also play prior to the beginning of the graduation exercises.

Mothers and fathers, wives and relatives and friends of the cadets will be guests of the cadets and students for the exercises.

Space For Market In Great Demand

Applications for space are coming in at a record rate in the semi-annual market sponsored by Western Wholesale Market association of the chamber of commerce in Lubbock hotel March 6, 7 and 8, officials reported this morning.

Clothing wholesalers and manufacturers seeking space in which to display their merchandise are sending applications from all parts ed the nation, the report said. Every important industrial and style center in the nation already is represented in the list of applications.

This flood is interpreted as a corroboration of the contention of officials of the association that need for the market is greater now than at any time in the previous 15 years' history of the organization. It is impossible to estimate, they say, the savings in gasoline and tires that will result from the provision in the market of a convenient trading center where wholesalers and retailers can transact business without the necessity of long trips.

Hale Center Concert Brings In $12,000

HALE CENTER, Feb. 15 (Special)—Over $12,000 in war bonds and stamps were sold Friday night at a Victory rally and entertainment program in the ward school auditorium here.

The total is expected to be run over $15,000 today by purchasers who were unable to be present that night. About 600 people were in attendance at the event.

H. S. Hilburn, editor of the Plainview Herald, was principal speaker, and Jack B. Wester, superintendent of Hale Center schools, was director.

Featuring the program was the coronation of Miss Edna Landers, representing the high school junior class, as queen. Her escort was Charles Bell. Others features were folk dances, patriotic songs, varied instrumental music and a playlet by students of the ward school.

There are between 800,000 and 1,000,000 fibers in the human optic nerve, according to scientists.

Russian Dandelion May Prove Source For New Rubber Crop

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—If the Russian dandelion has as much rebound in it as the Russian army, then the United States has a potential crop of live wire rubber coming up.

The department of Agriculture reported today that more than 18,000 pounds of kok-saghyz roots, otherwise known as Russian dandelion, have been harvested from experimental plantings made last year.

A much greater proportion of the roots were left in the fields to determine how they stand the winter and to produce seed next season.

From the original experiments it has been determined, the agriculture department said, the kok-saghyz (pronounced coke saghgeese) can be grown successfully in the northern tier of states from Vermont to Oregon.

But the project to convert the dandelion into commercially usable rubber is only in the experimental stage and motorists with threadbare tires should not let their hopes be prematurely aroused.

The roots so far grown in the United States do not yet equal the 6 to 8 per cent average rubber yield from all-harvested mature roots in Russia but the rubber obtained is of high quality, the department added.

Hollywood Friends Meet In Solomons

GUADALCANAL, Feb. 3 (Delayed)—(AP)—Two old Hollywood friends— Commander Gene Markey, writer-producer, and Lieut. Robert Montgomery, a film star —had a reunion today far from cinemaland's bright lights and sound stages.

When they met accidentally on Guadalcanal, they slapped each other on the back and retired to an obscure corner for a long talk.

"We hardly mentioned Hollywood," Markey said later. "It was mostly about the war situation in general and the Solomons in particular."

Plans For Venereal Clinic Here May Be Given Up Temporarily

Belief that plans for a proposed venereal disease clinic in Lubbock will be abandoned, at least temporarily, prevailed among city and county officials this morning.

Such a proposed clinic first was discussed several weeks ago in line with a nationwide effort to safeguard against the spread of social diseases among men in the armed forces. Because of the location of air force projects here, the city and county joined in cooperating with the commands of Lubbock and South Plains Army Flying schools in studying and attempting to cope with the problem.

The resulting actions included the appointment of Glynn Hudgens by the city and county as a special officer to devote his entire time to this type of enforcement. Special ordinances also were adopted by the city.

These and other actions resulted from the recommendation of a special committee representing the city, county and the air schools. The committee also investigated the need for a clinic.

The committee's recommendation that the clinic not be attempted at this time is based upon two principal findings.

One is that conditions have been improved greatly.

The other is that the skilled manpower necessary to the operation of such a facility would be difficult, perhaps impossible, to obtain.

Lady Marines To Wear That Touch Of Scarlet In Uniform

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—Yep, the lady Marines are going to wear that touch of scarlet which made the masculine Marines so irresistible.

The Marines of the women's reserve will have a scarlet muffler and scarlet chinstrap.

Uniform Forest Green

The uniform itself is forest green and strictly tailored with a hip-length unfitted coat, straight skirt and matching topcoat. Shoes, shoulder-strap purse and gloves are of army brown, the dress shoes a pump model with a flat bow on the vamp.

Major Ruth Cheney Streeter, of Morristown, N. J., who heads the corps, turned up in the uniform for the first time Saturday at a press conference.

Plans Nationwide Tour

Major Streeter announced she would set out Tuesday on a several weeks' nationwide tour of Marine posts and recruiting offices.

She expects to recruit the quota of 18,000 enlisted women and 1,000 officers in double time.

Major Streeter doesn't believe there is a particular type of women for the Marines, except she hopes they'll be strong and intelligent.

Asked why the Marines had no trick name as do other women's auxiliaries, Major Streeter replied, "We thought 'Marine' was a pretty distinctive name."

War Trims Minor Loop Ranks To 14

Five Surviving Leagues May Not Begin Schedule

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 — Only 14 of the 31 minor baseball leagues that started the 1942 season remain in the picture for the coming season and at least five of the survivors are in the doubtful class.

Attributing their reasons to various specific conditions but with the war as the underlying cause, a trio of circuits voted to suspend operations for the duration yesterday. In addition, the Texas league couldn't make up its mind and decided to wait until Feb. 24 for a definite verdict.

Northern, Pioneer Quit

At Minneapolis the club owners of the class C Northern league first debated cutting to eight clubs before deciding to drop out altogether. At Pocatello, Idaho, despite a fat sinking fund, the Pioneer agreed to disband for the duration. It also is a class C loop.

The Three-Eye league, class B and one of the nation's oldest, reached the same conclusion at Chicago.

No Definite Decision

Along with the Texas league, the Canadian-American circuit ran into a snag over the week-end and could not reach a definite decision. Feb. 22 was set as the date for another meeting.

Five of the 17 circuits which have suspended since the start of the 1942 season failed to finish the campaigns of last year. During the winter 12 others decided they were not strong enough to battle the shortage of talent, travel handicaps and the rationing of gasoline.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 — The indoor track season that threatened to be such a bust because there was nobody in sight to give Greg Rice and Gil Dodds a tussle seems to have turned up the hottest three-way mile rivalry since Glenn Cunningham, Gene Venzke and Bill Bonthron were having it out . . . And we'd hesitate to pick any of those three to beat Dodds, Earl Mitchell and Frank Dixon . . . Mitchell's 4:08.6 at the Millrose was the second-fastest early season mile on record and Dixon's 4:11.4 was plenty fast for the Boston track.

McNutt Not To Advise Clubs

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 — Unless Paul V. McNutt changes his mind, the bosses of baseball will start their 1943 season without hints, advice, or directives from the government as to whether the sport should be suspended.

On the other hand, club owners and the athletes themselves will receive no assurance that they can continue through the season.

Explains Status

Mr. McNutt explained baseball's status today this may:

"Baseball is not now on the list of nonessential industries. But, as I stated Saturday night, the list of nonessential activities will be extended from time to time.

"I cannot say when any industry will be named either as essential or non-deferrable. Guessing about it is futile."

May Be Only Statement

Mr. McNutt's statement probably is all that baseball owners or players will hear from the War Manpower commission until such time as the industry may be put on the nonessential list.

On Saturday Mr. McNutt received a telegram from the Texas league owners, asking him to clarify baseball's status. He said today that the Texas league and all other loops would have to decide for themselves whether to start the season.

Ocean Wave Entered In Handicap Event

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 15 (AP)—Trainer Ben Jones, in a last minute change of plans, has nominated Warren Wright's three-year-old Ocean Wave for the $25,000 New Orleans handicap to be decided Feb. 27, but right now the colt remains a more likely starter in the $15,000 Louisiana derby March 6.

Jones had not intended nominating the Wave for the handicap as late as the finn' race Saturday, saying he did not relish running his Kentucky Derby entry against older horses. However, today he declared:

"I decided at the last minute I might as well nominate him after all, with the idea of having him eligible just in case. If those older horses don't come up to the race just right, Ocean Wave might have at least a good chance for the $5,000 second money or the $2,500 third prize."

Texas League Heads Postpone Decision

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 15 (U.P.)—Officials of the Texas league will meet Feb. 24 in Dallas to decide whether the proud class A-1 circuit will live or die.

The league received what appeared to be a stay of execution yesterday when club owners adjourned a two day session after failing to determine the course of the 1943 campaign.

Although still officially alive, the league's pulse appeared to be growing weaker by the minute.

The Dallas meeting will be held just 24 hours before the deadline of Feb. 25 when loop officials have been asked to reach a definite decision and notify the office of William G. Bramham, national association president, of their action.

Baseball Is Out For Duration At Baylor

WACO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Athletic Director Ralph Wolf announced that Baylor university had dropped intercollegiate baseball for the duration.

Wolf said the school would go ahead with track and tennis if players were available at that time, but added he had no hope of having a gold team.

Texas Nearing League Crown

Longhorns Sweep Arkansas Series

By ED FITE
United Press Staff Writer

It's Texas by two lengths as the field makes the final turn and heads into the home stretch in the Southwest conference basketball campaign.

The redoubtable Longhorns beat off a determined bid by the morning-line favorite—Arkansas—as they made the turn into the the stretch and now it'll take one "out of the blue" to nose across the finish line ahead of Coach Bully Gilstrap's quintet.

The Gilstrap-coached team has chalked up seven victories in eight starts thus far and turned in their most impressive performances in their last two outs—against Arkansas, the team most fans were picking to halt the Longhorn parade, especially after a red hot Rice Owl five buried the Texans, 50-39, earlier in the week.

With the first conference cage title since 1939 in sight, the Longhorns were not to be denied and they turned on the heat with a vim and sent the tall Porkers scuttling back to their Ozark hideouts to the tune of 45-31 and 48-35.

Four More Games

Now, with two games to the good over Arkansas and Rice, the Longhorns face four more games, one each against Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Baylor and the Texas Aggies. Three victories would clinch the title and two would assure a tie.

The only other major event of last week's play was the erasure of TCU's slim hopes for a chance at the crown. They fell before Baylor, 50-41.

This will be a busy week along the conference front with six games carded, but none of them are expected to alter the championship picture.

SMU, Aggies Play Tonight

SMU and the Aggies open the play at College Station tonight; Baylor goes to Houston to meet Rice Thursday night and the Aggies open a two-night stand in Fayetteville against the Porkers Friday night. Saturday night, Rice meets SMU in Dallas and Texas meets TCU in Fort Worth.

Bill Tom Closs, the elongated Rice star, continued to set the pace among the individual scorers, thanks to a 25-point spree against SMU, and now has 132 points, 12 more than runner-up John Hargis of Texas, who tossed in one 22-point spree against Arkansas.

The standings:

Team	W	L	PCT
Texas	7	1	.875
Arkansas	5	3	.625
Rice	5	3	.625
Texas Christian	4	4	.500
Southern Methodist	3	5	.375
Texas A. and M.	2	5	.286
Baylor	2	7	.222

Work Resumed On Deal To Sell Phils

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (U.P.) —National League President Ford Frick today resumed negotiations which he "hopes" will lead to an early sale of the Philadelphia Phils.

"League officials have been contacting various groups interested in the franchise while I've been gone from the office but there isn't anything new," the senior circuit executive said.

Frick had been confined to his home over the week-end with a cold.

Negotiations for the sale of the franchise broke down last week. It was indicated that if a deal was not consummated by Thursday — when Phils' President Gerry Nugent hands the club stock over to the league — that former New York Giant general manager Bill Terry would be appointed to operate the club for the league.

Manager Of World Champions
Associated Press Features

James J. Jeffries retired unbeaten and bequeathed his world heavyweight crown to Marvin Hart who was soon whipped by Tommy Burns. To prove his right to the title, Burns visited Europe and knocked out every champion or near-champion he could entice into the ring.

But there was a tall and terrific negro on Tommy's trail—Jack Johnson. He followed Burns halfway around the world inviting him to defend his laurels. Burns finally sailed to Australia for a couple of matches and, to his surprise, Johnson soon turned up there.

They finally met to arrange a match and Johnson and Burns got into an argument. Burns became infuriated and threw an inkwell at Johnson but Jack ducked it. The arena was packed for this first world championship in Australia.

Tantalized And Jabbed Him

Johnson tantalized burns by talking to him during the rounds, asking him, after each jab, if he liked the Australian climate and played with him like a cat with a mouse.

Johnson jabbed and uppercut Burns until he was cut to pieces but wouldn't knock him out. Johnson wanted to give him a licking and he did just that for 14 rounds, until Burns could go no further. The title passed to Johnson, the first negro to wear it under the Marquis of Queensberry rules.

Joe Louis would have beaten Burns but Johnson, never. Burns was short and pudgy, could hit and was fairly clever, but slow. I consider Burns just a little better than the Spanish heavyweight Paulino Uzcudun.

Could Block Punches

The art of blocking punches was the gift of Johnson. He could block blows right out of the air and then counter quickly, and if you weren't knocked out, you wish you were, for then you would be in for quite a bad licking.

His boxing ability was just the opposite of Louis'. Johnson was a keen student of boxing. He would wait for you to lead, if you didn't then he would try to make you. He was aggressive, wasted few blows, and when he led at you, he didn't miss.

This first Negro champion was not as well advised as the second, Louis. Many mistakes were made, which were all blamed on Johnson. Louis has been perfectly handled.

Finals Set Tonight In Golden Gloves

FORT WORTH, Feb. 15 (AP) — The boys who fight only for glory slug it out tonight to determine eight Texas representatives in Chicago's National Golden Gloves tournament.

Thirty-two fellows with iron in their fists and blood in their eyes —seventeen of them members of Uncle Sam's armed forces — appear in the semi-finals and finals of a state tournament that has broken all records for attendance.

Four former state titlists, two of them holders of national crowns, are in the 32 scrappers who will sock and jab for hours tonight.

Dixon Seen As Great Miler

Negro May Set Record For Race

BY JACK CUDDY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 — Dusky Frank Dixon's surprise victory in the Hunter trophy race at Boston Saturday night apparently heralds the "arrival" of the first great negro miler in history.

Many negroes have distinguished themselves in other departments of track and field and in most other sports, but Dixon is the first athlete of his race ever to win a major mile. Moreover, he is the first freshman ever to turn the trick.

The late John Borican of Bridgeton, N. J., record-breaking middle distance runner who died in December, always dreamed of becoming the first great negro miler, but his activities were restricted to routes of from 600 yards to two-thirds of a mile.

Many Great Performers

Track and field history is studded with the names of great negro performers, particularly in the sprints and jumps, but we can't recall a negro runner ever to distinguish himself beyond the middle distances.

Frank Dixon, 20-year-old New York U. freshman, is different. He has concentrated on distance running ever since he proved a "boy wonder" at James Monroe High school. His "arrival" in the mile at Boston Saturday night was unexpected but not sudden. His triumph over Earl Mitchell of Indiana, Don Burnham of Dartmouth and Gil Dodds of Boston was the result of years of preparation. Moreover, Flying Frank ran a "smart" race in 4:11.4, which is comparatively fast time for the Boston track, where the record of 4:09.7 was established by Walter Mehl and where the best Glen Cunningham could do was 4:10.

Alibis Offered

The experts say Dixon's rivals made strategic mistakes in the Boston race. Maybe they did, but always there are alibis after an upset. Dixon's coach, Emil Von Elling, claimed Frank used poor pace judgment the week before when the well-proportioned, smooth-striding negro finished third to Mitchell and Dodds in the Wanamaker mile at New York's Madison Square garden.

Next Saturday night Dixon again will match strides with Mitchell and Dodds at the Garden in the Baxter mile of the New York A. C. meet. And he should give a good account of himself because the National A. A. U. and intercollegiate cross-country champion has the power, speed, style and heart of a great miler. In a couple more years he may be challenging Gunder Hagg's outdoor 4:06.2 and the indoor 4:07.4 held by Cunningham, Chuck Fenske and Les MacMitchell.

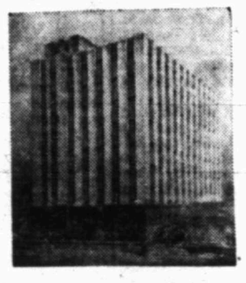

TWC EDGES HOWARD PAYNE

BROWNWOOD, Feb. 15 (AP) — Texas Wesleyan, still leading the Texas conference, defeated Howard Payne 56-54 Saturday night with Parham, Ram forward, leading his team by scoring 25 points.

The PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says no person ever quite understands how another can be quite so dumb as to disagree with him.

Our own prediction is that the war will end in 1943, 1944 or later.

THE Plainsman was given a good dressing down by one of the local empire builders—who happens also to be a good friend—for our remarks here the other day to the effect that Lubbock might do a better job for soldiers stationed here than it has done in the past.

This gentleman insisted that Lubbock has entertained its temporary guests at LAFS and SPAFS as well as it possibly could with the entertainment material at hand. Perhaps he is right, since he admittedly is closer to the subject than we are. However, the writer still believes we could branch out some if we only would.

But in the last day or two have come to this department two letters which indicate that Lubbock hasn't been too dilatory in its community hospitality toward the uniformed gentry and their families.

One letter comes from a lady who lived here for about eight months while her husband was serving at LAFS, and who returned to her Midwest home after the husband was assigned elsewhere. Wrote she, in part:

"I certainly miss Lubbock and its fine people. Truly, our stay there was most pleasant—and we'll always remember it as one of the nicest places we've ever been."

The other letter came from an Army wife who, with her husband, recently has been moved to another Texas air base. She said:

"Oh, how we wish we could be back in Lubbock! While —— is a larger city, it looks run down and motheaten when compared to the home of LAFS. And the people here, while also Texans, certainly aren't the same kind of Texans that abound in Lubbock. When we were first ordered to Lubbock, in our smug way we thought we were being ordered to the end of the world. Now we know it was the end of the rainbow!"

These comments were included in letters from the Army wives who were ordering mail subscriptions to The Avalanche-Journal, so they could keep up with goings-on here.

UNLESS the people of Axis countries, and the downtrodden millions of occupied lands, do a better job of listening to U. S. radio propaganda than we Americans do of listening to theirs, we're wasting a lot of time and effort.

Not long ago, a German radio propagandist urged American listeners to go to their public library, dig up a certain book and read passages allegedly "exposing" the British as arch enemies of this nation.

Government listeners saw they had a chance to check up on the results of Nazi poison, so the American Library association was asked to make a nationwide check on requests for the volume mentioned. The complete report showed that only one request was made for the volume—and that by a San Franciscan who wanted the book for an entirely unrelated purpose!

Since free Americans may, if they choose, listen to Nazi propaganda broadcasts, while residents of Axis and occupied nations are subject to death if caught listening to ours, it is not silly to suggest that perhaps our programs are even less productive than the enemy's are here.

Anyhow, it's something to think about.

A "temperamental" person is merely one whose associates don't slap down when he or she turns loose and has a tantrum. No person would be "temperamental" if pushed into a cage with a lion.

That Man on Avenue Q says it is much easier to understand human behavior if you will bear in mind that every person considers himself an exception to all rules.

WITH no desire to be a forecaster of possible doom, The Plainsman never-the-less cannot share the optimism being disseminated from Washington to the effect that there will always be plenty of food in this country to care for the needs of our own and allied fighting men; the American home front; the civilians in other United Nations lands; for the peoples of Axis-held nations and, eventually, for the hungry millions of defeated enemy territories.

If Nature is kind, sufficient farm labor is made available, and more farm machinery than is now in sight can be put to work, it is possible that the U. S. can, by careful administration, be the larder for the world.

But should we have a short crop this year, a shortage of labor, or both, look out! We simply will not be able to do all some of our officials say we must do and that millions of foreigners are expecting us to do.

* * *

No one expects that the American home front will have foods in either the quantities, or the varieties, to which its people always have been accustomed.

That's all right. We should expect neither. We're in a war to the death and "living as usual" won't win it.

But any one of several mishaps could bring about an actual food shortage in this country by next fall and winter, or, at the latest, by next spring.

The food situation in the future is likely to be much more serious than most of us guess—and a whale of a lot more serious than we've been told it can be.

EVEN if there is no widespread hunger in the land, Americans will, within another year, be feeding themselves on a lowered plane undreamed of two years ago.

Instead of customary American fare, we'll be getting daily sustenance more like that typical of Europe in normal times, which is 'way, 'way under our accustomed standards. The simple fares of France, Italy and Greece, for instance, that we've heard of all our lives but paid little attention to, will be mirrored on our own tables by 1944, unless a near miracle occurs.

Fancy eating in this country is on the way out—and on the double-quick.

We'll be lucky if, through the war, we'll have enough plain, solid food, including dairy products and eggs, to keep us going without discomfort. That's the best we can hope for—and don't let anybody fool you.

* * *

The day's best definition:

Seasoned troops: Mustered by vinegar, dispositioned by sergeants—and peppered by will to whip the enemy.

* * *

ADVICE to the wavering: If any home front inconveniences seem to you to be unbearable, remember that Guadalcanal isn't exactly a picnic!

Chapter 22

Visitors

Something—Mary could never remember just what it was prompted her to turn back to the piano, snatch up a sheet of that strangely written, strangely numbered music, stuff it quickly into her purse. Then, she sat down demurely with one of the rare editions of Dante's "Divine Comedy," pretended to be so absorbed in the illustrations that she didn't realize Senorita de la Vega had entered.

"Buenos dios," her hostess said. And then something more in rushing Spanish.

Mary rose, smiled, marvelling that she could keep her expression quite bland when her heart was thumping wildly.

"How do you do? I—" Then of course she realized her predicament. She must not let Carmencita suspect she'd heard that tirade of a moment ago. She must also get Dad's message over quickly.

But of course—the maid!

Glancing past Camencita, Mary smiled sweetly at the dour-faced woman. "I'm terribly sorry. But you see I speak no Spanish and since Miss de la Vega doesn't understand my English, I wonder if you would act as interpreter?"

For a brief breathless moment, Mary waited to see if they were going to accept her pretense of not having overheard.

Mary gave the message quickly, urgently. Heard the woman say "Senor Dan Sherman" and saw Carmencita's smile vanish replaced by alarm.

When the maid had finished, Carmencita turned immediately to Mary, saying, "Si si Senorita. Go! Queek."

Mary drove steadily, her eyes on the road ahead, her thoughts worrying her new discovery. She would talk to Dad about it the first chance she had.

Tear blinded, Mary paced the long corridor until she was physically tired, until the last shred of emotion was under control.

When her father came from the sickroom after a last visit for the night, she was waiting in the car.

"How is he, Daddy?" she asked immediately.

"Better—He'll pull through, I think." Dr. Paul rubbed his forehead, sighed wearily.

"Oh, I'm so glad. Is she still with him?"

"The Spanish girl?" Dr. Paul shook his head. "No, I sent her home after Sherman fell asleep. He's perfectly quiet now."

"Daddy, that woman is an imposter," Mary blurted then.

"So? What makes you think that?"

She sketched the events of the afternoon rapidly, pulled the sheet of music out of her bag.

Unconvinced

But Dr. Paul only smiled at her tenderly. "Look here, Puss. You aren't letting jealousy upset your balance wheel, are you?"

"No, Dad. Certainly not."

He took the sheet finally, examining it with the aid of the light in the dashboard. "Hmn. Does look funny. Still—probably nothin gto it. Numbers probably refer to notes in the chord. I wouldn't be alarmed."

Silently, Mary folded the music, stuck it back in her bag. Dad was probably right. The green-eyed monster trying to give her a more logical reason for hating Carmencita than just that Dan Sherman loved her!

Then, as her thoughts ran persistently, tormentingly back over the afternoon's events, Mary recalled something she'd overlooked. Carmencita, in her perfectly unaccented English, had said, "What the hell is the matter with the phone? You knew damned well that wasn't to be out of order until tonight!"

Telephones "out of order" on purpose! What sort of business was that!

She didn't have time to consider what she would do now to prove Dad wrong. But something—she'd think of some way.

Her father let her out at the front door while he drove on to the garage. So Mary faced the trio in the living room alone.

Her mother — and Mrs. Lloyd and Porter. Surprised, of course, and aware of a definite feeling of dismay, Mary managed a greeting.

Porter was beside her instantly. "Hello, darling. How are you?"

"Fine. And you?"

"She's looking perfectly stunning," Mrs. Lloyd said at once, with not a shade of difference in the greetings she would have given had it been weeks ago.

Surely Porter must have told her about the broken engagement. But Porter himself behaved as if it simply hadn't happened. For the balance of the evening, except for Dr. Paul who sat rather silently, genial observer, they all skirted the real subject as if it were taboo.

When they had gone, finally, Mary said, just to break the strange little silence that descended, "I thought they were staying on at the Springs another week."

Her mother put her arms about her waist. "Darling, do say I was right in sending for Porter. Weren't you really terribly glad to see him? Aren't you grateful that he is big enough to take all your silly pouting for the foolishness it is? They are both so wonderful, dear. You are truly fortunate. Do you realize that?"

Mrs. Garthwaite's Plot

Mary stared at her mother. "You sent for him?"

"Yes, dear. I thought you'd quarreled long enough." Her mother smoothed back the curls that tumbled carelessly about her neck. "You need to go to the hairdresser's dear before—"

"Mother, why are you being so unreasonable?" Mary demanded angrily.

That touched off her mother's own quick fury. "It isn't I who is being unreasonable, after all! I am only trying to keep you from making the mistake of your life. If you don't heed me now, you'll regret it forever. I know what I am doing. I can see plainly what you are doing. I am only trying to save you from yourself."

"That's ridiculous. No one knows better than I whether I am in love!"

"You silly little fool. In love! What is that, pray! A mood—an infatuation—a passionate interest in someone who isn't worth your little finger. I know who has swept you off your feet. That Lieutenant Dan Sherman! I'm not blind. I'm not ignorant either of the 'crushes' girls get when they are as young and inexperienced as you are. But I know too that there isn't another girl in the state who has the chance for life-long happiness that you are trying to throw away."

"Mother—please—"

"I only know that you are being deliberately stubborn and willful. I shall forbid your marrying that sailor," she finished furiously, her face livid with anger. "You may as well make up your mind to that right now."

"You needn't worry," Mary retorted dryly, spent with all this fury, hurt, baffled. "Dan Sherman doesn't want me to marry him. He's in love with Carmencita de la Vega."

"Splendid. Maybe now there is some hope of your coming to your senses."

Tear-blinded, Mary flung herself up the stairs to her room. Was there no end to all this? Must it be a crime not to marry a man just because you didn't happen to love him? Or was she truly "out of her senses" and laying up suffering for herself against some future day?

This Curious World

BY WILLIAM FERGUSON

Today's Journal Editorial

A LOGICAL SELECTION

Most Americans naturally were pleased when Prime Minister Churchill announced in London the other day that American Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had been placed in command of unified United Nations forces in North Africa.

It was appropriate, for somewhat obvious reasons, that Mr. Churchill should make the announcement. It was most appropriate, too, that President Roosevelt immediately should nominate General Eisenhower for promotion from lieutenant general to full general—a rank certainly no less than commensurate with the commander's responsibilities.

But it should be borne in mind that the fact that General Eisenhower happens to be an American had much less to do with the selection than that he is the best man available for the job.

He is credited with having done more than any other individual in the designing of the present North African campaign. His position as one of the world's foremost tacticians is unquestioned. He has demonstrated marked ability in the field during the limited opportunities given him. He can obtain a degree of cooperation from the French that would be impossible for any British leader. And it happens that the likely scene of final decisive action in North Africa will be at points where concentrations of American strength are greatest.

He was, in short, the choice dictated by the policy which seeks to end the war in the shortest possible time.

HOW to be mistaken for a celebrity: It is permissible for you to snub others, but never forgive those who snub you . . . Never miss a chance to take an undeserved bow, but make sure you can blame your boos on others . . . No matter how silly it seems, do something that will set you off from the crowd . . . Make up your mind that nothing is more important than grabbing some newspaper space—and I mean nothing . . . Make certain you inhabit places where all the best people congregate, even if you can't act like a gentleman . . . Try to stay in the public eye, even if it means ruining your health . . . Keep talking about how you'd like to get away from your hurly-burly life, but never do anything about it . . . Treat all promises of personal loyalty with suspicion and you'll be right most of the time . . . Always be nice to strangers, but a friend who can no longer do you a favor should be ignored . . . Do and say odd things. It will give many people the idea you're a genius . . . Don't be surprised to hear vicious things about yourself. It's a Siamese twin of the spotlight . . . Display a thick skin and a strong stomach in order to weather all the foul blows you'll have to take . . . Never be yourself. Always act like you think a celeb should act . . . Accept the fact that most of the compliments you receive are insincere, but never stop trying to get them . . . Be ready to give an interview on any subject. Whether you know anything about it is beside the point. All interviews read silly . . . When you arrive in the Big Town, never fail to be photographed getting off the train . . . Get the reputation of being a wit. A wisecracker stands a better chance of survival in the spotlight than an intellectual . . . Be prepared to hear yourself called a ham, because the competition in the celebrity world demands that you act like one in order to exist . . . Be tolerant of the attention of all bores and assorted jerks and pretend that you're enjoying their annoyances . . . No matter how tough things are, be sure your conversation sounds like a radio commercial about yourself . . . Yes, it's easy to be mistaken for a celebrity, because most celebs are mistakes.

TIPS to soldiers and soldiers-to-be: In case you were wondering about the difference between the Garand repeating rifle (used in combat) General MacArthur is the authority for rating it the tops. Said the General: "A child asked his dad the difference between a Garand and an ordinary rifle. 'There's a big difference," said the father. 'It's just as if I spoke, and then your mother spoke'" . . . The one they still talk about at Fox Dix concerns the Sgt. who bawled out a rookie for standing around with his hands in his pockets . . . "You'd think," barked the Sarge, "you had a $1,000 and were afraid of losing it!" . . . The rookie happened to be Pvt. H. Morgenthau, 3rd, whose pop is the Treasury biggie. . . . An acting corporal (one waiting for a corporalcy) is called "A-Hollywood Private." . . . If anybody asks you the definition of "jeep" tell them Bob Hope's . . . "A malted milk shaker that was drafted!" . . . Morale Minutes, a breezy army paper edited by Sgt. Michael Wardell of the 2nd Service Command, coined the phrase "Beware of Jap rheumatism—it stabs you in the back" . . . The Fort McPherson Sound-off is authority for this: The colonel believes his uniform makes him look like Lewis Stone. The sgt. thinks his makes him look like Victor McLaglen, and the pvt. imagines his uniform makes him look like Gary Cooper . . . Don't grumble about missing the comforts of home—when you go through the army routine of keeping sane hours, eating regularly, and the other regimentation . . . All the other fellows are taking it. That regimentation is why you're in the army . . . It's what the enemy would make you do forever . . . The U. S. is fighting him and that regimentation—so that you can stay free—in a Democracy.

THE three New York drama critics who practically pronounced life and death on the Broadway shows in the early 20s are gone . . . Percy Hammond, Alexander Woollcott and Heywood Broun, the deadliest and most colorful of the aisle-judges two decades ago, are dead . . . All three had wit and style . . . Some of their capsules survive among the classic punch-lines of all time, especially those typed in acid . . . Heaven will have to watch its step, with those three sitting in judgment . . . Broun and Woollcott licked a jinx when they retired from play reporting. There is nothing exer than an ex-critic, but both Broun and Woollcott bloomed more brightly when they quit assassinating shows and actors. Broun columned for causes, and Alec won greater fame on the networks and magazines . . . It is ironic that the only one who stuck to criticism was Percy—who detested it.

U. S. Extends Its Paternalism Ever Southward

BY PETER EDSON

Journal Washington Correspondent

WHILE Gov. Herbert Lehman has been organizing his Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation, the Nelson Rockefeller Office of Inter-American Affairs has been carrying out a practical experiment in post-war rehabilitation of its own down in the El Oro province of Ecuador.

EDSON

This is the border country, you won't recall, between Ecuador and Peru. The two countries have been fighting over it for 125 years without reaching any decision. All the geography maps have printed this area in two colors for years, blood has been spilled all over it, no one could live there in peace, and thousands of square miles have degenerated into a kind of international No Man's Land.

Every effort by third parties to settle this century-and-a-quarter-old squabble failed—until the third meeting of Pan-American foreign ministers in Rio last January. Then Ecuador and Peru got together and agreed to end their war, Ecuador getting some 80,000 square kilometers of territory and Peru withdrawing its troops just a year ago.

That was the beginning. Ecuador wanted to colonize the area but had no money and lacked technical experts. So, last March a deal was made with the Institute of Inter-American Affairs, a Rockefeller office subsidiary corporation, to lend a hand. A U. S. mission of engineers, specialists in tropical medicine, agricultural economists, nursing administrators, sanitary engineers, relief workers and assorted experts was recruited to go into the area.

FROM SCRATCH

FORTY thousand colonists were ready to move in, but were totally lacking in equipment and know-how. Nearly 90 per cent of these people had tropical dysentery and malaria which had to be cured before anything could be accomplished. They had no food to last till they could get their own crops producing, no seed, few tools. It was strictly from scratch. The list of supplies for the colonists included everything from 2000 machetes, to cooking utensils, to 80,000 pounds of food—principally rice, beans, lard.

It was mid-summer before the first colonists moved in and the six months that have elapsed since the El Oro expedition got going haven't given enough time to tell how this is all going to work out. Allen R. Edwards, in charge of the U. S. technical mission, came back to Washington recently. He was hopeful. The country has rich soil and agricultural resources, he says. The land can be made to produce rubber, quinine, hemp, foods, fibers.

Already the Ecuadoreans have improved the little harbor of Puerto Bolivar at the mouth of the Guayas river as a trade center. A hospital and medical training center have been opened. A model stock farm is being established, demonstration farms set up.

DOING IT ALL AROUND

THIS is the type of rehabilitation work which this Institute of Inter-American Affairs is tackling in other distress areas of Latin America as part of the Rockefeller office program of Basic Economy. The whole thing is an effort to help these countries which have lost their export trade become self-sufficient.

In Costa Rica it's a food-raising program to supply U. S. forces in the Panama Canal zone.

In Honduras it's a trans-isthmus road-building program.

In Peru it's sanitary engineering preliminary to development of the Chimbote coal and iron fields.

In Haiti it's an effort to shift the country away from coffee, sugar and bananas to production of fibers, spices, essential oils and hardwoods.

In Brazil there's a $4 million development, half financed by the U. S., half by Brazil, to raise food for the rubber tappers.

Agricultural experiment stations on the American pattern have been started in five countries. In all, there are more than 100 rehabilitation and food developments already functioning.

1. Checks Germ Growth in Drinking Water. 89% of 3,355 chicks sent Dr. Salsbury's Laboratories for free diagnosis had bowel troubles. These troubles often come from germs entering the digestive system through the drinking water. Phen-O-Sal inhibits germ growth. 2. Medicates Chick's Digestive System. Phen-O-Sal's non-oxidizing medicines the entire digestive system with astringent action so often needed in bowel troubles. Use Phen-O-Sal in any kind of water.

Not All Workers To Get Extra Pay Under 48-Hour Week Rule

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—The 48-hour minimum week order has raised a bumper crop of questions.

It'll take some time to reap all the answers, but some are ready now:

One of the early doubtful points was cleared up by the interpretation that employes in affected areas who aren't covered by the fair labor standards act or union contracts won't necessarily get time-and-a-half for hours worked in excess of 40 a week—that'll be a matter of bargaining between employe and employer.

Some Workers Exempt

The fair labor standards law, specifying overtime pay after 40 hours, specifically exempts from its provisions such groups as domestic servants, employes of retail or service establishments whose selling or servicing is all or mostly within a state (rather than interstate); agricultural workers and processors or agricultural commodities "in the area of production."

However, the war manpower commission points out that an employer in one of these non-covered lines might lose his workers if he decided to pay "straight time" for additional hours—while another employer across the street might be offering time-and-a-half—or if he increased the work week to 48 hours but kept his employes at their present 40 hours' pay.

Some quarters advance the theory that an increase in hours but none in pay might be construed as a decrease in pay and therefore be banned under the wage and salary stabilization orders.

What about exceptions to the 48-hour week in which WMC might decide a shorter week "would more effectively contribute to the war effort?" These, it is indicated, would be approved for hazardous or extremely fatiguing jobs. (In this connection: the War Labor board has said an industry could start paying overtime below the 40-hour mark.)

Four hundred thousand more babies were born in the United States during 1941 than the annual average of the preceding ten years.

Army Air Base Sets Fast Pace With Its Own Scrap Campaign

By JAMES HELBERT
Written for NEA Service

PATTERSON FIELD, Ohio, Feb. 15—This Army air field does its part these days in tying tin cans to Axis tails and greasing the way for the downfall of the enemy in a hail of old scrap metal, paper and salvaged kitchen fats.

Specifically, the Quartermaster Corps salvage operations at Patterson Field collects, classifies and disposes of enough waste every month to make several bombers, supply an infantry company with cartridges, make enough high explosives to remove Fat Hermann Goering and several of his skinnier pals from the scene.

In addition, a sizeable amount of waste rubber, leather and paper piles up in the drive to beat the shortage of vital materials as the Army attempts to relieve the salvage problem for which civilians must make sacrifice.

11,000 POUNDS OF CANS

Thus Patterson Field sends its waste war materials to the furnaces and mills to come back into the war stream, and in addition gets paid for most of the scrap. Contractors who haul off the junk pay the post finance officer the market price, thereby contributing financially to the war effort.

Cans suitable for detinning, however, were contributed to the Dayton salvage drive. Trucks from that city hauled away 11,000 pounds of cans collected in the last two months and representing the sweat, toil and maybe tears of several hundred soldiers on KP duty.

Each day several soldiers assigned to KP get the job of washing, removing the ends and flattening tin cans used in the three mess halls, thus contributing materially in the drive to salvage tin—almost a precious metal now that many of the sources of tin are in Japanese hands.

FATS, BONES GIVEN

From the mess halls also come fats, grease and bones that some day may explode over Berlin and Tokyo. Almost 7000 pounds of fat and grease and 30,000 pounds of bones—much valuable grease is extracted from those T-bones, ham bones, etc.—started on the way to munitions plants from Patterson Field the last two months, and the Army received $1175 for this kitchen waste.

Waste paper — government agencies must write or print on both sides of a sheet now—collected at Patterson Field in July and August stacked up to a total of 262,682 pounds for which a dealer paid $131.

Biggest and most important scrap heap, however, comes from the many machine shops, laboratories and hangers which in two months poured back into the fight 125,000 pounds of aluminum alone and that is a lot of aluminum in anybody's air force. Also 5000 pounds of brass from the shops, 5605 pounds of cable lead, 11,000 of copper, 1500 pounds of lead and zinc, 19,000 pounds of galvanized sheet iron, and 30,000 pounds of steel and iron trimmings were saved for further use against the enemy.

Even those little brass bases from light blubs accounted for 90 pounds of that valuable metal, while recruits and other soldiers using the pistol range picked up 2441 pounds of used brass cartridge shells. Salvage officers say these two items alone prove that nothing is too small or insignificant to contribute, an important fact for civilians who want to know what they can do.

SALVAGE COTTON AND WOOL

Cans unfit for detinning can be used for light sheet iron and the Patterson Field salvage crew piled up 5000 tons in that classification during July and August.

Cotton and wool scrap saved for possible use in making uniforms and other military supplies weighed 600 pounds.

Lieutenant Tripp, in charge of salvage operations, and Master Sergeant Vincent, his right-hand man, admit there is little of the romance and glory of battle in collecting second-hand T-bones, dented fenders, smelly bacon grease and old cotton, but they have the important job of junking the Japs with junk—and they like it.

Everybody pitches in at the Army's Patterson Field, Ohio, to help the great scrap and salvage drive. Above, left, loading a truck with some of the 11,000 pounds of tin cans collected in the last two months and contributed to Dayton's salvage drive. Above, right, a Patterson Field soldier and a civilian worker dump bones from the mess hall into a garbage truck, first step toward a munitions factory where grease from the bones will go into explosives. Photo below shows part of the Patterson Field salvage junk yard. In the foreground is pile of old rubber, behind that, a pile of aluminum plane propellers.

Basketball Is Aid To Baseball Players

WACO, Feb. 15 (AP) — Another ancient theory of the sports world soon will be a war casualty, if Lt. Hank Greenberg has anything to say about it.

For many years the staid old men of baseball have feared the physical effects of basketball upon baseball players. Some managers have forbidden their teams to try the court game.

But Greenberg, former major league baseball player, finds basketball of immeasurable value. He said in a letter to the Waco Army Flying school that "men participating are generally better conditioned than any other group."

Di Carlo Is One-Man Team At Villanova

VILLANOVA, Pa., Feb. 15 (AP)—Johnny Di Carlo is a one-man track team at Villanova college. He not only coaches the team, but runs on the one-mile relay quartet. A senior, he was named to succeed Coach Jim Elliott, now in the Navy.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

No. 4 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chiropractic.

CASE HISTORY No. 206. This patient had developed fainting spells which grew in number and severity as time went on. During one of these spells she struck her head on the floor and on trying to rise discovered that all use had gone from her legs. Despite costly advice and treatment the condition gradually became worse. Sensation as well as movement was lost in the limbs. Eventually she was carried into a Chiropractor's office where analysis revealed the nerve pressure that was the cause of her trouble. The first simple adjustment enabled her to move her toes. In three weeks' time, leg movement returned, and a week later she was able to walk again. There has been no recurrence of the fainting spells since Chiropractic adjustments were given.

CASE HISTORY No. 468. Severe headaches had troubled this woman for eight years, the attacks occurring sometimes two and three times a week. She had obtained only temporary relief from the many treatments undertaken, and when she finally decided to try Chiropractic it was, she explained, "her last hope." A series of spinal adjustments brought immediate relief, and within 3 months the headaches had apparently ceased. Headaches occurred twice during the following six months, and in both instances Chiropractic adjustment brought prompt relief. There have been no headaches since.

CASE HISTORY No. 421. A baby girl who had been subject to eczema since she was six months old. Scores of remedies were tried without success. Her mother, who had begun taking Chiropractic adjustments herself, suggested that Chiropractic might help the child. Analysis indicated nerve pressure and a series of adjustments were given. The eczema completely cleared up and has not reappeared at any time since.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC? The Chiropractor teaches that the brain and nervous system are the root of health. From the brain, nerve energy is distributed through the nervous system to control all parts of the body. When this nerve energy is shut off even slightly between brain and body (by bone displacement in the spine), one or more body functions are interfered with and ill health results. By x-ray, analysis and spinal adjustment the Chiropractor is able to relieve nerve interference and restore normalcy to the affected part. No drugs. No surgery. Nature is the healer.
