Aftermath of events called 'surreal'

Marine deaths, Grenada stun U.S. Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — "It's surrealistic," said Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., of the three days that saw the death of more than 200 Marines in Lebanon and a U.S. invasion of Grenada.

Since last weekend, there has been an atmosphere of stunned surprise and incredulity on Capitol Hill over events in the Middle East and the Caribbean.

"Where is the next war?" was a common wisecrack heard in the halls of the House and Senate.

"This is Wednesday and we must be in Grenada, or Nicaragua or Lebanon or God knows where tomorrow," said Rep. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif. "If we follow the reasoning of some of my colleagues, we may well be cheering on American forces in dozens of countries all over the world."

Similarly, Rep. William R. Ratchford, D-Conn., said, "Every time we wake up, we are committing ourselves somewhere else in the world."

Even as House members and senators sought information about progress of the fighting in Grenada, there was business as usual on the floor of both houses of Congress.

In the Senate, the issue was the Clinch River Breeder Reactor. In the House, the nuts and bolts of how much the Pentagon should spend for Air Force planes and Army tanks.

But off the floor, senators and House members struggled on how to react publicly to the involvement of the United States in two foreign wars.

Support or criticism of President Reagan's policies in Lebanon and the Caribbean generally fell along party lines, but not always.

In an unusual alignment, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., a liberal Democrat from Massachusetts, agreed with conservative Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., that the Marine command failed to adequately prepare for possible terrorist attacks against the military headquarters in Beirut.

A few, like Rep. Buddy Roemer, D-La., said they support the Grenada invasion, but want the United States out of Lebanon.

O'Neill made an emotional patriotic appeal for the need to back the American forces during a closed meeting of House Democrats Wednesday. "I think the speaker made the most passionate speech I've heard in seven years in Congress," said Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass.

LOCAL REACTION — American flags in Snyder have been at half-mast since Sunday's explosion attack in Lebanon and the death of 221 American Marines. The flag outside Snyder City Hall has been no

Reagan address tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — While a U.S.-dominated invasion force on Grenada quells remaining resistance by Cuban and Grenadian fighters, President Reagan is preparing to tell the American people "why we're doing what we are" in the Caribbean island nation and in Lebanon.

Scattered fighting continued on the island late Wednesday against what Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger called "diminishing Cuban resistance."

Less than two days after the 2,800 U.S. Marines and Army paratroopers, assisted by small contingents from nearby Caribbean nations, landed on Grenada, Weinberger was able to declare that all American students at two medical school campuses on the island were safe.

Assuring the safety of about 1,000 Americans on the island, many of them medical students, was cited by Reagan as a principal reason for sending troops into Grenada.

The first contingent of evacuees from the island — 69 Americans and one British civilian — landed at Charleston, S.C.

The president planned to discuss the situations in Grenada and Lebanon in a nationally broadcast speech at 8 p.m. EDT.

Cotton bale count will likely drop

By DONNY L. BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

The Scurry County cotton harvest is now underway — an effort effected this year by the government's PIK program, the summer drought and the recent welcome — if untimely — rains.

The rainfall Monday night had stopped most harvest activity through Wednesday with area gins reporting some 3,000 bales of cotton to date.

And due to a combination of set aside PIK acreage plus hot and dry conditions most of the growing season, the current estimate is that yields will undoubtedly be down for 1983.

Scurry County Agent Marvin Ensor notes any estimates at this point are "guessing big." His initial estimates, however, place the 1983 cotton crop at 45,000 acres to be harvested of the 54,000 planted in the spring.

As for yields, this year's harvest is guessed at some 20,000 bales total for an average yield of 270 pounds per acre. An overall average yield for the county is estimated at some 330 pounds per acre.

This compares to last fall's production of 36,903 bales and 1981's considerably higher production when 63,605 bales were finally counted.

According to figures released by Joe Hefner, executive director for the Soil Conservation Service here, cotton harvest figures for both '81 and '82 include:

—1981: 87,946 acres planted and, of that, 86,649 harvested. The total production equaled 31,464,124 pounds or 63,605 bales of cotton. The lint per acre estimate was 366 pounds.

—1982: 74,088 acres planted and, of that, 69,219 harvested. The total production equaled 18,097,734 pounds or 36,903 bales of cotton. The lint per acre estimate was 261 pounds.

The only final figure for 1983 involves acres planted. Primarily due to cutbacks prompted by the government's PIK program, some 54,000 acres were put into production.

Regarding local acreage set aside under the PIK program, Hefner said Wednesday that "paper work delays" at the Commodity Credit level have postponed delivery of the local PIK inventory.

It will list stored cotton to be distributed among participating farmers to compensate for their set aside acres.

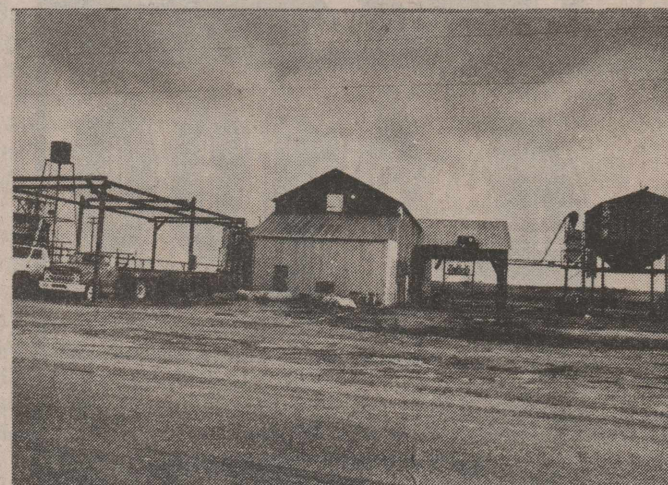

This list was to be available by Oct. 1. Hefner said it is currently thought it will be received in early November.

As for the 1983 cotton harvest, the bale count from seven county gins Wednesday equaled 2,811 bales.

This reflected gin activity last week with the weekend and Monday rains stopping most harvest activity here.

The following is the bale count by gins reported Wednesday. These include: Dunn Gin, 130 bales; Farmers Co-Op, 1,065 bales; Fluvanna Gin, 138 bales; Hermleigh Gin, 255 bales; Ira Gin, 92 bales; Paymaster Gin, 635 bales; and China Grove Co-Op, 496 bales.

TEMPORARY HALT — Cloudy skies and wet weather have temporarily stopped the Scurry County cotton harvest. As of Wednesday, seven county gins reported 2,811 bales of cotton ginned to date. (SDN Staff Photo)

Oral history workshop Saturday

An oral history workshop is planned Saturday to identify 10 volunteer workers for a Centennial project now planned by personnel with both the Scurry County Museum and the Snyder Daily News.

Saturday's workshop is planned from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. and will include a catered lunch. Reservations are required before 4 p.m. Friday and a $4 fee will be asked to cover cost of the lunch and workshop supplies.

Museum personnel want to identify and train a team of qualified oral historians who will work on the project during the winter and spring of 1984.

As now planned, oral histories from county residents will be obtained and then published in the SDN Centennial Edition planned next summer.

Saturday's session will focus on such topics as techniques of interviewing and the verification of historical data.

The museum-portion of the project is funded in part by the Texas Committee for the Humanities, which supplied grant monies for the recent "Where the Buffalo Roamed" seminar conducted at Western Texas College.

Want ads get results, and if there is any doubt let us put your telephone number in one of those small ads saying that you accept free dogs or cats.

We got some experience answering the telephone this weekend, as our home telephone number was placed in an ad. It read, "Home for sale by owner in nice neighborhood."

We knew nothing about the ad until we returned from the golf course and the wife asked if there was anything she needed to know about.

At first we thought the staff had made a mistake in someone's ad, but a check Monday morning revealed the joke was on us.

Jerry Baird, director of continuing education at Western Texas College, has gotten much praise for his barbecue and secret barbecue sauce.

Now Baird has some competition in the cooking area. A couple of weeks ago the various members of the Occupational-Technical advisory committees were invited on campus for a noon luncheon.

Sam Walker, welding instructor, was in charge of the meal and it certainly was good enough to rival Baird. We might get the two of them to team up and enter 'em in a national contest.

We don't know the toughest guy in Scurry County, but building contractor Dick Norris would have to be among the nominations.

Norris, who used to be Forrest Lumber Co. manager, is not a big person, but we're convinced he's got to be tough.

Bob Cole observed Dick working several days ago, and Dick had a big chaw of tobacco. Dick needed some gasoline to clean his paint brushes, and Bob says he siphoned gas without spitting out his slug of tobacco.

That's true grit.

Animal warden hurt in mishap

City of Snyder Animal Warden Lloyd Merritt was hospitalized following a two-vehicle accident here Wednesday which caused extensive damage to the city-owned animal warden's pickup.

The second involved driver was Romero Pina, an airman stationed at Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock. Both he and Merritt sustained what were thought to be minor injuries in the accident.

It occurred Wednesday east of the city around 4:05 p.m. at the intersection of U.S. Highways 84 and 180.

Reports from accident investigators indicate that Merritt was traveling east on 180, just east of the bridge over 84 near Rip

Q. — What was the record for Snyder junior varsity football teams during 1981 and 1982?

A. — In 1982, the JV team had four wins and six losses. In 1981, the JV did not play a full season due to injuries and an insufficient number of players. Before the schedule was dropped, they were 1-1.

In Brief

Numerous calls received

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In suburban Lakewood, an eager enlistee asked a recruiter about his chances for overseas duty if he listed his top three choices: Beirut, Beirut, Beirut.

In Anaheim, a woman called to ask how to send Christmas cards to the injured Marines in Beirut.

At the 43 Marine Corps Recruiting Stations across Central and Southern California, the phones were ringing Tuesday as they haven't since the Iranian hostage crisis of 1980, Marine spokesmen said.

Callers have expressed anger, sympathy and support over the bombing deaths of more than 200 servicemen in Beirut.

Troops overcome resistors

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — The U.S. invasion force on Grenada overcame resistance today at the Grenadian army headquarters of Fort Frederick in the capital of St. George's, a Barbados radio report said.

The privately owned Voice of Barbados said opposition on the Caribbean island continued on the east coast at Calivigny Point, a military zone. In Washington, Pentagon sources said armed Cubans also were still holding out at the Richmond Hill prison, in St. George's.

Leader may have quit post

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Nicaraguan guerrilla leader Eden Pastora has reportedly quit a rebel group fighting to overthrow his country's leftist Sandinista government, claiming a co-leader is trying to kill him.

Rebel sources, who talked on condition they not be identified, said Pastora quit the Revolutionary Democratic Alliance because he felt political chief Alfonso Robelo was plotting to kill him.

Texas might go to court

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas is "giving serious consideration" to a lawsuit that would stop EPA approval of burning of toxic wastes off the Texas coast, Attorney General Jim Mattox said Wednesday.

"The proposed burning has aroused concerned citizens in the Rio Grande Valley and elsewhere along the coast, who fear that clouds of toxic fumes or dangerous drifting liquids from a spill could reach shore from the site," Mattox said in a letter to EPA chief William Ruckelshaus. "There also is concern about sensitive marine life in the gulf."

Mattox's telegram said EPA failed to adopt specific procedures and standards for ocean incineration of dangerous wastes before it tentatively approved last week a permit for Chemical Waste Management Inc. to operate two incinerator ships out of Port Isabel.

Nurse says she's pregnant

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — A nurse charged with murdering an infant girl says she's pregnant, but a prosecutor suggested the woman was "just trying to get sympathy" and get out of jail.

Genevieve Jones, 33, will be tried Jan. 9 in connection with the death last year of a 15-month-old Kerrville girl.

The nurse, who married a 19-year-old man in April, told the San Antonio Light in a telephone interview from the Kerr County jail that her pregnancy has been confirmed by a Kerrville physician.

District Attorney Ron Sutton said Wednesday that he doubted she was being truthful.

"Why would anyone facing possible life in prison want to get pregnant?" he said. "I think she's just trying to get sympathy and just maybe get out on bond."

Ms. Jones is charged with the September 1982 death of Chelsea Ann McClellan.

35 repeat killers estimated on loose

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says there may be nearly three dozen repeat murderers, like Jack the Ripper or the Boston strangler, on the loose in America and many "will look as normal as the person next door."

At a news conference

Wednesday, department officials disclosed some of the findings from their preliminary research into what they call the problem of "serial murders."

The officials defined such "serial murderers" as those who kill for motives other than greed, a fight, jealousy or family disputes. Unlike mass murderers, whose killings all occur in one spot, serial murderers often cross city and state lines, making their detection more difficult.

Roger L. Depue, chief of the behavioral science unit at the FBI academy at Quantico, Va., said early research shows "many of these people are not obviously mentally ill and will look as normal as the person next door."

The early surveys of existing unsolved murders and interviews with convicted serial murderers have convinced department officials that there may be 35 repeat murderers at large in this country today, said Robert O. Heck, the research project director for the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention.

"That's a conservative estimate," Heck said.

He added that one medical examiner was asked recently to review unsolved murders in his city over the past three years and, as a result, "now believes they have five serial murderers there." He declined to identify the city.

As examples, they also cited Charles Starkweather, who went on a killing spree in Nebraska and Wyoming in 1957-58, and John Wayne Gacy, convicted in 1980 of killing a series of boys in the Chicago suburbs.

Depue said his office wants to study all the open murder cases in the country, noting that about 28 percent of the nation's roughly 20,000 homicides go unsolved and that the percentage has been rising in recent years.

He said his unit has interviewed 40 convicted serial murderers in the last year and so far has "identified four general categories of serial murderers."

Depue declined to give details of the different types at this stage of the research.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Frequent urination

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm writing you for information on the prostate gland. I have been troubled with a frequent urge to urinate. I get up three times a night and then, for two to three hours in the morning I have to go every half hour.

I went to a urologist a year ago. He performed a biopsy and said the gland was not malignant. But he did say it was enlarged and wanted to remove 80 percent of it at that time.

I did not have it done because I thought the doctor was trying to sell something that was unnecessary. I would like your opinion on this. If I have this operation, will it cure the frequency of urination?

DEAR READER — To start with, there are several different causes of frequent urination. These include diabetes. Obviously whether an operation will help you or not depends entirely on what is causing the frequency to begin with.

If you have frequency from an enlarged prostate gland, then surgery should relieve the symptoms, unless you have a complication or an infection following the operation.

Frequency occurs when the prostate is enlarged and obstructs the outflow from the bladder. You never really empty the bladder because of the obstruction so you frequently return to the bathroom in response to the signal of a full bladder.

Usually the patient also has a small stream from the obstruction and may have trouble starting or stopping urination. Tests can be done to determine if you really do have urinary retention that leads to frequency. Incidentally, retained urine also may lead to a bladder infection.

To update you on such disorders I am sending you The Health Letter 15-6, Prostate Gland Problems. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — When I retired 15 years ago I ate breakfast heartily. I usually had fruit, dry cereal, milk and a cup of coffee. On weekends I enjoyed a leisurely big breakfast. My favorite was waffles and sausages. I usually ate four medium waffles with syrup or jelly.

Now I no longer can eat anything significant for breakfast. I have a half grapefruit and coffee, usually several cups without cream and with a small amount of sugar. I yearn for the most enjoyable meal of the day, which was always breakfast, but I simply am not able to eat my former fare.

Have you any idea why this change has taken place? I am quite active in organizations. My calendar is full and I play 18 holes of golf every day when I'm in town.

DEAR READER — A lot of our eating habits are just that — habits. A person who is accustomed to eating a large breakfast will feel fatigued and even weak if he suddenly doesn't get breakfast. That lasts a few days, then his body adjusts.

You may find that if you exercised each morning when you got up and then had a late breakfast and skipped lunch, you would develop a breakfast pattern.

You may also be getting enough calories from your other meals each day so that the additional calories for breakfast would just be too much. So if you do develop a big breakfast habit as you describe I would strongly suggest cutting back on your other meals. Otherwise you may have some problems with being overweight along with its health problems.

The King David Hotel in Jerusalem, headquarters of the British forces in Palestine, was blown up July 22, 1946. Nearly 100 people died and 50 were wounded in the attack by a terrorist group. The attack was sparked by an Anglo-American committee recommendation earlier that year to divide Palestine and allow the immediate admission of 100,000 Jewish refugees. Britain, however, refused to agree to the plan unless the U.S. shared the costs. Terrorism continued until Britain withdrew from Palestine in 1948.

Some women dedicate their lives to African violets. Others are fascinated by Russian history. Me? I'm an authority on roaches, ants, mice, crickets and mosquitoes.

My eyes can pick up a shadow running across a baseboard during an eclipse. I can pick a mosquito off a ceiling with a rolled-up copy of Good Housekeeping, using the bed as a trampoline. I can tell when a cricket is chafed just by the way his back legs are rubbing together.

Sometimes I wish I had the Disney-type mentality towards animals that my husband has. To him, every mouse is Mickey, every cricket is Jiminy, every squirrel is Rocky, and why can't we all live in the forest together in harmony?

For openers, anything in fur that is not on a hanger terrifies me. If I wanted the animals to live in the house with me, I'd give them their own key.

I'm always looking for a miracle. Some humane way of ridding the house of these pests without my having to track them down, with specially trained guard dogs, bait traps or poisons that reduce them to dust.

I visited a hardware store a few weeks back and the salesman was ecstatic. He showed me one of those sonic boxes that you just plug into the wall and voila, every insect in the house goes running into the streets holding its ears.

I was suspicious. "What's it sound like?" "We don't know," he said. "Only the insects hear it."

"How do we know they hear it?" "You never see them again."

"Do dogs hear it?" "No, only the insects you want to get rid of."

"Can they hear it under the sink when the cupboard doors are closed?" "Yes."

"Does it make them crazy? Destroy their hearing? Maybe we're creating a new threat... insects and rodents with impaired hearing."

"No," he persisted. "Where do they go when they run out of the house?" I asked.

"Probably next door." "And then she buys these sonic things?"

"And they move on," he said.

"Where do they eventually wind up?"

"Somewhere where they have no electricity," he snapped. "Maybe the ocean."

I bought eight of them at $39.95 each.

I want to believe, but yesterday I thought I saw two crickets dancing in time to something.

FREDERICK, Md. (AP) — A handicapped grandmother says she is driving her motorized wheelchair from Pennsylvania to Florida to try to convince others with disabilities that "they can do something worthwhile."

"I hate to see handicapped people sitting at home thinking they cannot do anything," said the 65-year-old Mrs. Yocum.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — How does a woman achieve professional success in a traditional male career?

That is a question Dr. Myrna C. Tashner, a licensed psychologist, has been studying since 1980 and now is helping many of her clients work through.

Ms. Tashner, in an in-depth study of 23 Minnesota women who have become leaders in the fields of medicine, law, science, politics and business, found the women shared many of the same personality traits.

The women also identified similar motivations leading them to choose professions dominated by men, faced similar stress as they advanced in their careers and reacted to those pressures in like manners.

Ms. Tashner, who has a private practice in Minneapolis, reported the findings in her doctoral thesis for West Virginia University.

In addition to using the material in her private counseling sessions, Ms. Tashner conducts seminars to help women achieve success in their professional and personal lives.

"The women in the study were asked to tell 'what characteristics got them into their careers. Each identified personality traits they considered significant, and 11 of those characteristics were common among the women," she said.

"The women, who were not identified by name in the study and did not meet with one another, all said they worked hard and possessed intelligence, problem-solving ability, social skills, social consciousness, achievement orientation, creativity, flexibility, tenacity, empathy and assertiveness. The women said 13 characteristics had helped them in their careers: intelligence, social ability, self-esteem, self-confidence, integrity, pragmatism, achievement orientation, tenacity, enthusiasm, humor, freedom, curiosity and empathy. The women also said they had faced common obstacles to career advancement.

"They frequently cited being a woman, having delayed the start of their careers, lack of hours in the day, constraints brought about by children, resistance by their husbands and lack of role models as problems that kept them from achieving within their career," Ms. Tashner said.

At least two-thirds of the women said they chose their career because they disliked traditional female jobs.

"Mother and friends were teachers," said a dentist who participated in the study. "Although I hated student teaching, I thought teaching was the thing for women to do." So she became school librarian.

"I used to say 'If I were a man I'd be a dentist.' By that time, the women's movement came along and I decided I didn't have to be a man."

Thirteen of the women in the study had mothers who did not work outside the home. The remaining mothers were employed in the traditional female careers of nursing, retail sales, dressmaking and clerical services.

"Of the 23 women, only two said their mothers wanted them to have a traditional female occupation," Ms. Tashner said. "No woman reported that her mother encouraged her to become a homemaker.

Sixteen of the women said their fathers also were supportive of their career area. The other seven said their fathers

Obituaries

McCarthy

Graveside services for Ellon Martha McCarthy, 91, of 2300 Merrill, are pending at Bell-Seale Funeral home.

She died at 7:13 p.m. Tuesday. She was born Jan. 29, 1892.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. J. C. (Evelyn) Watson of Snyder and a son, William Floyd McCarthy of Victoria.

Runnels

BROWNFIELD -- Services for Hettie Runnels, 79, of Brownfield will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the First Baptist Church here with the Rev. E. K. Shepherd, senior adult minister, and the Rev. Gordon Lincoln, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Terry County Memorial Cemetery under direction of Brownfield Funeral Home.

She died at 3:20 a.m. Wednesday in Brownfield Regional Medical Center after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Runnels was born in Saint Jo. She married Hubert L. Runnels in Childress Aug. 6, 1921. They moved to Brownfield from Hardeman in 1930. She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, two sons, Bert of Snyder and Burl of Wolf-ford; three daughters, Mrs. Lamoyee Baker and Mrs. Alva Lee Chandler of Brownfield and Mrs. Joyce Felts of Lamesa; six brothers, Earnest Trolinder, Herman Trolinder and Clifford Trolinder, all of Quannah, J. T. Trolinder of Los Molinas, Calif. and Clyde Trolinder of Midland; six sisters, Mrs. Dobie Bradley of Brownfield, Mrs. Ora McMinn of Antton, Mrs. Lora Young of Dallas, Mrs. Lona McCullough of Hollis, Okla., Mrs. Lucille Bradley of Lubbock and Mrs. Cleo Thornton of Bonham; 14 grandchildren; 30 great-grandchildren and eight great-great-grandchildren.

had no influence on their careers.

About half of the women in the study were married. All but two others had been married but were divorced and had not remarried.

The 12 women with children felt the children had a greater effect on their careers than being involved in a dual-career relationship.

"In general, the women seemed to feel having children had slowed down and retarded their career advancement," Ms.

Tashner said.

When asked what they would do differently if they were just beginning their careers, most of the women said they would have begun and completed their education earlier and would have delayed marriage and having children.

Ms. Tashner said questions raised by the study need to be investigated on a much larger scale to determine if the findings are true among successful women in general.

Lennon guitar is on display

CHICAGO (AP) — The idea of writing to Yoko Ono for help was a bit ambitious for a museum not yet 1 year old, but staffers at the nation's only peace museum figured the worst she could do was say no.

She said yes, within days, and another Peace Museum dream started coming true.

One year later, the guitar used by the late John Lennon to record "Give Peace A Chance" was on display at The Peace Museum, not far from a "peace quilt" awarded to folk singer Pete Seeger by the women of Boise, Idaho.

Those and hundreds of posters, manuscripts, photographs and other memorabilia make up the museum's "Give Peace A Chance" exhibition, which opened in September on the fourth floor of a converted warehouse.

Seven rooms, laid out like a maze, chronicle the peace songs and campaigns of this century's folk and rock musicians.

"It's a palace now, a real people's palace," Peace Museum co-founder and director Mark Rogovin said after the opening, which several thousand people lined up around the block to view. "There were people who laid flowers at the base of the Lennon guitar; people were crying."

The exhibition's name comes from the Lennon song, which the former Beatle wrote during one of his 1969 "bed-ins" for peace after his marriage to Ms. Ono. He was fatally shot outside his New York City apartment in December 1980.

Lawyer insulted by critic

AUSTIN (AP) — A Southwestern Bell lawyer says he was personally insulted by a critic to the telephone company's $1.36 billion rate hike request who accused Bell of "sexism" in the way it makes charitable donations.

"My clients are appalled at what we view as the sexism in giving," Consumers Union lawyer Carol Barger said Wednesday. She complained that Bell gave $33,545 to boys' organizations and only $2,000 to girls' groups in the year that ended in March.

Bell lawyer Jon Dee Lawrence said her comments "raise a hackle on my neck" and added, during a recess in the rate hearing, that he took her statement as a personal insult.

Their influence is strongly felt in the exhibition. Lennon's gold records hang on the wall surrounding the glass-encased guitar, which is on loan from Ms. Ono. Photographs, record covers and a box of "peace acorns" from among those the couple sent to world leaders in 1969 fill two rooms. A message from Ms. Ono hangs at the exit.

In the room dedicated to folk singers, one can read Joan Baez's reaction to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, which she typed out that day in 1963 and saved.

There are sections devoted to Seeger, Woody Guthrie, Bob Dylan, Country Joe McDonald, Harry Chapin and Phil Ochs, and festivals such as Woodstock and the concerts for Bangladesh.

In another room, a photograph captures the late reggae musician Bob Marley smiling as rival Jamaican political leaders Michael Manley and Edward Seaga shake hands on stage at the One Love Peace Concert in 1978.

"It's a piece of history that could have slipped away," curator Marianne Philbin says of the entire project. "It's very important resource material."

But Rogovin and Ms. Philbin are quick to point out that the exhibition is not merely a nostalgia trip for those who lived the protests and music of the 1960s.

"Our primary focus is actually on the future ... that we must have a future," said Rogovin. "The greatest musicians have seen the theme of peace as their mission."

At the museum's request, many items were loaned or donated by the musicians or their families. Hundreds of volunteers, including architects and carpenters, gave their time and skills to complete the exhibition. Donated sound systems pipe in the song "Give Peace A Chance" and others.

The Peace Museum opened in November 1981, billing itself as "a unique institution dedicated to exploring issues of war and peace through the visual, literary and performing arts."

Rogovin, a Chicago muralist, founded it with Marjorie Craig Benton, former U.S. representative to UNICEF and a former member of the U.N. Committee on Disarmament.

The West Texas Rehabilitation Center — Despite the closing of the Snyder Unit, the Abilene-based organization continues to provide a bus service twice weekly for any locals requiring physical therapy treatment. The bus leaves each Tuesday and Thursday.

Oil Patch Foster Parents Association — A new organization to the United Way. It comes to the aid of children — the abused and the neglected — who need a temporary home. From 15 to 20 are aided each month alone.

Salvation Army — Through August of this year, 58 persons have turned to the Salvation Army in their time of need. In addition, two local youth are served each summer by sending them to Camp Hoblitzelle near Midlothian, Tx.

Red Cross — A local and national organization providing disaster relief when it's needed. In addition, CPR first aid courses are offered and have been used by local businesses and law enforcement personnel.

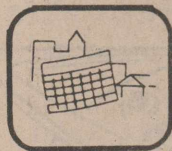

REHAB CONTRIBUTION—A check in the amount of $220 was presented to Mickey Nunley, board member of West Texas Rehabilitation Center, by representatives of Scurry County Extension Homemakers Friday. Proceeds from the Candy Shoppe at the recent bazaar held by the homemakers were designated for the center. The coopera-

The soap score

Have you ever wondered if there's any difference between the higher priced complexion soaps and the all-purpose soap you buy in the supermarket? The answer is plenty. Complexion soaps are made with a neutral pH, making them gentle and less irritating. All purpose soaps can be very drying. Complexion soaps are hard-milled, so they last quite a bit longer. The fragrance lasts longer too, not so with grocery soaps. Some all purpose brands also contain ingredients like deodorant, which can irritate your face and cause a reaction when exposed to sunlight.

Kick the habit

This side leg kick exercise will shape up your legs in a hurry if you do it faithfully. Just lie on your side, legs extended, right leg on top of left leg. Then kick the top leg forward as far as possible; immediately lift leg up and circle back to starting position. Kick-lift-lower 10 times. Then switch position, and lie with the left leg on top of the right. Repeat the kick routine 10 times for the left leg. Do this at least five times a week to tone inner thighs.

Safety or timidity?

Pessimistic Pete wasn't worried about the slam that he might have missed. It would have made easily if East happened to hold king and exactly one small trump.

What Pete was worried about was his contract. He had lost a club as a starter and three trump tricks added to that one club would leave him one trick short.

Pete saw that if West held all five trumps, there was little that he could do about it.

Anyway, East took his ace of clubs and led back to dummy's king. Now Pete was ready for a safety play. He led dummy's one trump and played his nine. West showed out, but Pete was now in full control. He simply played ace and queen of trumps. East got his king and collected the 10 later on, but Pete had his game.

If any of you readers want to have some fun with this hand, you may try to study the chances of a declarer who finesse. Then work out some sort of trump coup to hold East to two trump tricks. It can be done so that this time Pete's far-fetched safety play was wasted. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Debate continues over lie detector test usage

NEW YORK (AP) — On the eve of 1984, use and misuse of lie detectors has sparked debate in the courtroom, the boardroom and the war room over the mixing of machines and morals.

In Washington, federal officials are arguing over Reagan administration proposals to require mandatory polygraph tests for thousands of government employees. In Los Angeles, lawyers are disputing two different lie detector tests which alternately indicate John Z. De Lorean is lying and telling the truth about the cocaine charges against him.

In New York, a television station paid for a lie detector exam for a former Guardian Angels member who claimed leaders of the self-styled subway vigilantes had staged incidents involving claims of police brutality. And across the country, more and more employees and job applicants are filing — and winning — lawsuits against companies which require them to take polygraph tests.

A major problem is that no one, not even the 1,200 members of the American Polygraph Association, will claim lie detector test results are always 100 percent accurate. However, they say the machine's measuring of changes in heartbeat, blood pressure and perspiration can show to 95 percent accuracy whether someone is lying.

Opponents, on the other hand, say a machine should never be the gauge of something as abstract as "truth." After all, if people through the ages have been confounded by the notion of "What is truth?" then how can a machine decide it for them?

At hearings in Washington earlier this month on the Reagan proposal, the head of the congressional Office of Technology Assessment called the lie detector "more of a fear detector." "There is no scientific evidence to establish the validity of polygraph testing for screening of a large number of people in connection with the investigation of unauthorized disclosures," John Gibbons said. "There has been no research on this type of application."

The White House directive last March, aimed at plugging leaks to the news media in the Defense Department and other agencies, could require 2.5 million federal workers and 1.3 million employees of defense contractors to submit to polygraph tests or lose their jobs. Disgruntled Defense Department employees complain that while the Nixon administration had its "plumbers," the Reagan administration has its "electricians."

Private employers require an estimated American 500,000 to 1 million workers and job applicants to take polygraph tests each year. Tests are given to judge the honesty of workers before they are hired and to question people already on the job about thefts.

Some people who lose jobs because they flunk lie detector tests are fighting back by hiring attorneys who challenge the use of the machines on a variety of legal theories.

In some cases they claim the results are libelous. In some cases they claim the machines were defective or the operators were negligent. In one case in Chicago, a lawyer negotiated a settlement after claiming lie detectors were discriminatory because blacks have a higher failure rate. Another pending case in New York claims that a department store is discriminating against the physically handicapped by requiring them to take lie detector tests.

Lawyers have also won damage awards for clients denied jobs because of lie detector tests: $150,000 in Michigan, $220,000 in Connecticut and $250,000 in Florida.

Seventeen states and the District of Columbia have passed laws either banning or restricting the use of lie detectors, and 21 states require polygraph operators to be licensed, according to the Legal Action Center in New York.

There is no federal law limiting polygraph use, though the U.S. courts bar lie detector results as evidence. It is also rare for any state court to allow lie detector results as evidence, even if both sides ask that it be admitted.

In the De Lorean case, both the defense and the government prosecutors would like to have polygraph evidence admitted on the former auto magnate's claim that his arrest by the FBI on drug trafficking charges was illegal entrapment. But the defense wants the judge to admit the lie detector test that it arranged and De Lorean passed, while the government wants the judge to admit the test the FBI arranged and De Lorean flunked.

The U.S. Supreme Court has never directly addressed the issue, though a 1965 opinion suggested that polygraph results might be at odds with the Fifth Amendment protections against self-incrimination.

In the Guardian Angels case, WNBC-TV last Thursday asked Curtis Sliwa, the group's founder, to take a lie detector test to defend himself against the allegations by four former members. When Sliwa and his wife Lisa refused, the station asked one of the four men to submit to an exam and he did.

Journalists condemn press restrictions

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Journalists from the Americas say Nicaragua, Cuba and South America's military dictatorships are the hemisphere's worst offenders in restricting press freedoms.

Speakers at the 39th General Assembly of the Inter-American Press Association recounted stories Wednesday ranging from government harassment of newspapers to mysterious disappearance of reporters.

The assembly is to issue a report on the status of press freedom in the Americas at its close on Saturday. It began Monday.

Dear Abby

Women Who Pay Their Way Also Can Play Their Way

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I want to congratulate the 16-year-old Iowa girl who didn't think it was fair for the fellow to always treat the girl. She said she had a job and could pay her own way, but her friends and parents thought she was crazy—the boy should always pay.

She is not "crazy"—she is smart. I am a senior citizen and have always felt that boys obligated girls by paying their way, then they expected sexual favors in return. (Maybe not all, but about 98 percent did.)

I say the girl should pay her own way, and if the boy makes romantic overtures, she is free to do what she wants, depending on the way she feels about him, because she won't owe him anything.

WISCONSIN GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Another Wisconsinite shares your view:

DEAR ABBY: When I first started to date about 15 years ago, I was one of those rare girls who insisted on paying for myself. I got some strange looks, but that's the only way I felt comfortable.

My reason was twofold. First, I felt if a man treated me, I would owe him something, and that something could mean sex. Second, I believe male-female relationships should be mutual.

One of the few men I dated told me he appreciated my independent attitude. We're married now, and still share all the expenses.

IT'S WORKING IN EDGERTON, WIS.

DEAR ABBY: My mother was terminally ill, so we decided to keep her home in familiar surroundings instead of having her live out her last months in a hospital.

This decision necessitated constant care, night and day, changing bed linen several times a day, and trying to make Mother as comfortable as possible. This was exhausting enough, but worse yet were friends, neighbors and relatives who felt the need to visit from 7:30 a.m. until 11 p.m.

I had to stop whatever I was doing to prepare coffee for these visitors, make sure they didn't stay too long and answer the telephone, which rang at least 50 times a day—people wanting to know how Mother was.

My husband finally put a "No Visitors" sign on our front door, which did no good because everyone thought the sign didn't apply to him.

Abby, please ask your readers to be more considerate of dying relatives and their families, and not drop in at all hours expecting conversation and coffee.

EXHAUSTED IN NEW YORK

DEAR EXHAUSTED: The "inconsiderate" visitors who need to heed this message will think it doesn't apply to them, so it's up to those caring for the very sick person to meet the visitors at the door with a firm but gentle, "I'm sorry, but this is not a good time to visit." And put a muffler on your telephone.

CONFIDENTIAL TO AMBITIOUS IN CONNECTICUT: There are two ways to get money: Marry it or earn it. Actually, there is only ONE way, because if you marry it, you will earn it.

Wounded Grenada combatants are home

FORT BRAGG, N.C.

(AP) — An Army sergeant injured when his helicopter was shot down over Grenada was among dozens of wounded servicemen who were returned to the United States for treatment after the island invasion, said military officials and family members.

At least 20 wounded were brought Wednesday to Womack Army Hospital at Fort Bragg, according to a newspaper photographer who witnessed their arrival, and officials said five more were at the Charleston, S.C., naval hospital.

"I can go to sleep now," said a relieved Anna Bruton of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., after receiving word that her son, Army Staff Sgt. Amos Martin Howard, was at the North Carolina hospital.

She had been told he was aboard a downed helicopter and waited 17 hours before learning from her daughter-in-law that Howard had escaped death. She said he was in stable condition, recovering from head injuries and broken ribs.

Meanwhile, the last of an estimated 3,000 paratroopers from the 82nd Airborne Division prepared to leave Fort Bragg for Grenada, unidentified Army sources told the Fayetteville Times.

Ready for Fort Stockton...

Turnovers have plagued Tiger foe

By BILL MCCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

Fort Stockton may have lost its past four ballgames, but that's not an indication of how tough the Panthers can be, said Snyder Coach George Byerly this week.

The Tigers challenge the Panthers in Fort Stockton at 8 p.m. Friday.

Both Fort Stockton and Snyder are 0-4 in District 2-4A play. The Panthers are 3-4 for the season while the Tigers are looking for their first victory.

Fort Stockton has dominated some of its opponents statistically - for instance Sweetwater - but lost the game because of turnovers.

"They are a pretty good team, really," said Byerly. "The games they've lost they've had a turnover problem. They've had a good bit of yardage, they are just not getting downfield with the ball before they turn it over. Something has to give because we're probably last in getting turnovers. We had two last week (against Pecos) so maybe we're on the upward swing of getting some."

Byerly characterized Fort Stockton as being a lot like Pecos. The Panthers favor the ground game instead of the airways, and boast a good, solid defense.

"They are a strong rushing team. They've been able to run the ball on just about everybody.

Again, they don't do a lot of different things, mainly just block and run. All of their backs are big and strong," said the coach.

Van Watson, a 152-pound junior, quarterbacks the team. He replaces senior Lee Daggett, who was injured earlier in district play. The backs are 165-senior Tony Munoz and 138-senior Danny Sanchez. Defensively, Fort Stockton may be the biggest team in 2-4A.

"They have a real good defense. Nobody has really been able to drive the ball on them. They are real big up front and hard to run against," said Byerly. "They don't stunt a lot, they just line up and play defense."

Fort Stockton's defensive line is anchored by tackles Randy Caldwell (206-senior) and James Valenzuela (225-senior).

Anthony Acosta (174-junior), who doubles as offensive guard, lines up at noseguard.

Most of the scoring against the Panthers has been on break-away runs or has been aided by Fort Stockton's turnover-prone offense.

A column muncher?

By BILL MCCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

It's a standing agreement, started during the Mike Jenkins regime. If I ever pick the Tigers to lose and they win, I'll eat my column. Choice of location is theirs, presumably during the following Monday's workout or the next pep rally. In fact, after the game in the middle of the field is fine with me. Somebody else will have to bring the column though. I'm not that crazy.

With that in mind, and not exactly loving the taste of paper and ink, I figured I'd play it safe and pick the Tigers against Fort Stockton this week. Mainly, because I think Snyder can beat 'em. But I've had second thoughts. Oh, I still think Snyder can beat the Panthers, but I'm not going to play it safe. Call it a challenge - a minimal bit of extra incentive.

What do you say, Tigers. Can you put some fiber in a sportswriter's diet?

You know, life, or pickin' football winners at least, can be cruel.

I was humming along at .900 last week, having missed only two games with four left to go. Then the bottom fell out. Zap. The Jets blew a 21 point lead. Zap. The Rams fumbled in the end zone. Then, God forbid, (Zap) the mighty Dallas Cowboys decided to play it conservative in the final few minutes.

In a few hours, my best week of the season turned into a .750 nightmare. "But I'm not really complaining. Afterall, .750 is a bunch above what I had been pickin'." For the season then, it's 104-56, .650.

We've got some interesting ballgames again this week. I didn't say easy. I said interesting. Believe me, there is a difference.

Snyder at Ft. Stockton: A column muncher? We'll see...PANTHERS 20, TIGERS 13.

Lamesa at Pecos: Pecos is definitely in the thick of things. They won't let a little Tornado disrupt their plans...PECOS 27, LAMESA 0.

Sweetwater at Monahans: You'll hear the Lobos howl from a long way away if they win this one. Stick your ear out the window...MONAHANS 21, SWEETWATER 20.

Lake View at Andrews: Like Pecos, Lake View is still in the hunt. Look for them to bag a fox, or, err, Mustang...LAKE VIEW 21, ANDREWS 7.

McCauley at Borden Co.: McCauley has a good passing attack, but Borden has a better running game. Besides, it's homecoming in Gail...BORDEN 36, MCCAULEY 8.

Hermleigh at Leuders-Avoca: Unfortunately, Hermleigh's winning streak stops...LEUDERS 28, HERMLEIGH 21.

Rice at Arkansas: No problem for the Razorbacks...ARKANSAS 31, RICE 14.

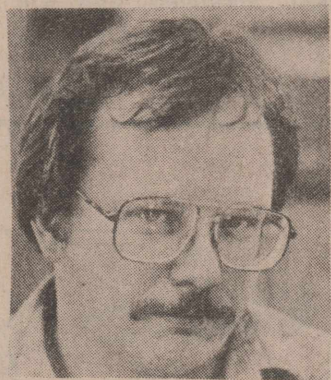

Tulane at Baylor: The Bears will find a way...BAYLOR 24, TULANE 17.

Gun club notes winners

Brent Smith of Snyder took first place in the men's division of the Canyon Gun Club's black powder shoot, held recently at the club range.

Cynthia Cox won first in the women's division while Randall Babcock took top honors in the junior division.

The club expressed its appreciation to the club members, visitors and nine visiting shooters. Up-

2-4A roundup

Nobody is sure whether Friday's game in Monahans will straighten out or further confuse the wild District 2-4A race, but it's a strong bet that Pecos and Lake View are hoping for the latter.

Monahans' Lobos, which stand alone at the summit of the district with a 4-0 mark, entertain unbeaten but tied Sweetwater (3-0-1) in one of two key loop contests Friday.

A Monahans victory would help insure a playoff berth for the Lobos, while a loss could bring about a three-way tie for second.

Pecos, 3-1-0, is counting on keeping in the thick of the race when it travels to Lamesa. Lake View, also 3-1-0, hits the road to play the Andrews Mustangs. Andrews, 1-2-1, is not mathematically out of the playoff picture, though the Mustangs' outlook is dim.

And, in a game which could determine last place in the loop, Snyder treks to Fort Stockton. Both are winless in district play.

While Friday's games should help clear the picture, the conference playoff representatives will likely not be decided until the final week. Pecos still must play Monahans and Sweetwater, while Sweetwater has the Eagles and Lake View left. Meanwhile, Andrews considers itself in the picture with Snyder and Lamesa remaining on its schedule. Monahans finishes with the Eagles and Fort Stockton.

2-1A roundup

It's shootout time in District 2-1A as two undefeated teams stake their claim on a gridiron championship.

The action takes place Friday in Highland, where the defending state and 2-1A champion Hornets play host to a hopeful Trent Gorilla team. The contest, scheduled for a 7 p.m. start, is expected to determine not only the 2-1A champion, but the runner-up as well, since all other district members have at least two losses going into this week's action.

In typical fashion, Trent drubbed Grady 50-15 last week while Highland overpowered Ira 76-54.

Hermleigh celebrated its homecoming by defeating Paint Creek 65-53, giving the Cardinals a shot at win No. 2 in Leuders-Avoca this Friday. Meanwhile, Paint Creek, the only winless team left in 2-1A, entertains Grady.

Grady hopes to have better luck after sliding 30-6 to Borden a week ago. Borden will hold its homecoming festivities this week, hosting a McCauley team which was idle last week.

Ira's Bulldogs are off this week.

County roping slated Saturday

Western Texas Rodeo Booster Club will sponsor the annual Scurry-Mitchell County Roping, to be held at the Scurry County Rodeo Association Arena this Saturday.

Calf roping will start at 9 a.m. with entries to be made prior to that time. Team roping will follow. Entries will be accepted until 50 teams rope in the first go.

A barrel race will start at 8 a.m., one run for $25, $5 of which will go to a scholarship fund.

Belt buckles will be awarded to the champion calf roper, the champion team ropers and the combination champion. Entry fees are $30 for two head in calf roping and $30 for three head, progressive after one, in team roping. Ten dollars of the calf rop-

The top five calf ropers from Scurry County will match the top five from Mitchell as determined by the first roping (enter again, second for $30). The top 10 teams will match each other as determined by the first roping (enter second head for $30).

Persons entering must be a resident of Scurry or Mitchell counties or school districts within the respective counties.

Moerschell will start

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Rob Moerschell will continue as quarterback of the Texas Longhorns despite an impressive winning relief performance by Todd Dodge against Southern Methodist, Coach Fred Akers said Wednesday.

Moerschell started all six games for Texas this season after acquiring the responsibility when Dodge suffered a separated shoulder late in fall practice.

WJCAC basketball...

Coaches note new rules

Western Texas College basketball coaches Barry Davis and Joe Cushing reported several rule changes which fans may notice this season.

The Westerners will open their season at home, 7:30 Nov. 1 against McMurry College junior varsity. Fans will see both teams here in a double header at 6 and 8 against Weatherford on Nov. 3. On tap Friday is scrimmage action as the Dusters take on Lubbock Christian at 3:30 in the WTC gym.

Davis said one rule which will be apparent to fans takes place only in the final two minutes of a ballgame. During the final two minutes, if a team is in the bonus situation, a foul will automatically be worth two freethrows. In the past only a foul determined by the officials to be intentional, or a shooting foul, gave the opponent two freethrows.

The two new rules in women's basketball have been used in the past by the men. One concerns freethrows. For 1983-84, the freethrow shooter will not be allowed to leave the freethrow line before the ball hits the rim. All other players may move as soon as the ball is released from the shooter's hand. Also, once all the places are taken around the circle, all other players must be behind the freethrow line. They cannot be off to the side.

The other rule has to do with closely guarding a ballhandler for five seconds. In the past, when officials called "closely guarding," a jump ball was the result. This year, the defensive team will get the ball out of bounds.

The coaches said there were other minor and more technical rule changes, but none of which would be obvious to the general audience or affect the flow of the game.

Jack Thompson, a quarterback for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, was born in Pago Pago, American Samoa.
