Two Wards Choose Commission Candidates

By H. S. GORDON
News Staff Writer

Candidates for the city commission were picked Friday night at two lively and independentle held meetings of Wards 3 and 4 when W. E. Ballard, manager of the Radcliff Supply Co., and Fred H. Parconta, owner of the Paronta Boner and Welding works, were named to run respectively for the posts.

A committee of five from Ward 4 and a committee of of three from Ward 3 were named to select a candidate for mayor. These two committees will meet jointly Monday night to fill the slate for the coming elections.

Ballard, from Ward 3, and Parconte, from Ward 4, will run in both the special and regular general elections.

Neither group volunteered any formal nominations for mayor, but admonized their respective committees to scan the lits of possible mayoralty timber, finally picking the one man they deemed most suited for the post.

Parconto was selected unanimously at the meeting at Ward 4 while the voters of Ward 3, meeting in the Baker School put up the names of Ballard and Joe Baten. Ballard won the nominating by a 30 to 49 vote.

Both candidates in addressing the groups, asked for the full cooperation of their constituents and told them that all of the necessary changes to be made will take a long time as it cannot be done overnight or even in the period of one year.

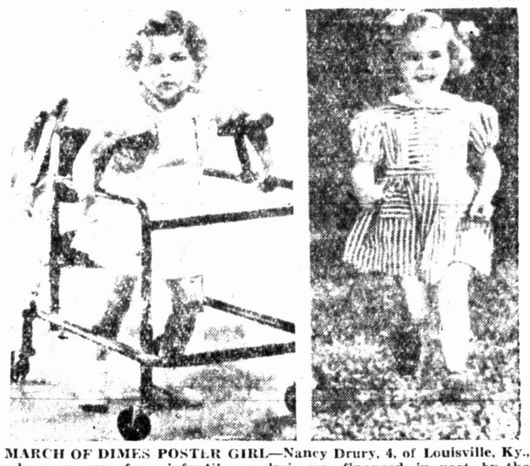

Saturday morning, another blank petition for candidacy was given out by the city manager's office, at the same time reliable sources in the Court house and City Hall said a petition for mayor was being circulated in behalf of S. E. Ferrell, head of the Ferrell Real Estate Co., 109 N. Frost St.

C. E. Cary, addressing Ward 3 voters, said other groups of the same ward could also hold a meeting and select a candidate in opposition to Ballard if they so desired. Cary said the meeting was being held to select a candidate for commissioner, but that it would not necessarily elect him to office. The group then elected to back Ballard for both the special and regular general election.

In picking the commissioner from Ward 4, the voters were warned to make their choice wisely since the man or men selected to run for commissioner from that ward, or a mayor, would be spending the entire city's money, not just that of the ward.

Frank Carter and Mitchell Hill, civic leaders from other wards, spoke briefly and told the voters they hoped the ward could pick a good

MARCH OF DIMES POSTER GIRL—Nancy Drury, 4, of Louisville, Ky., whose recovery from infantile paralysis was financed, in part, by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is a symbol of hope to all victims of the disease. March of Dimes Campaign to Begin in County Wednesday

The 1947 March of Dimes campaign, to raise funds to combat infantile paralysis, will begin officially on Wednesday in Gray county, in concert with counties throughout the nation. It will run through Jan 31.

There is no set quota, but it is hoped by the National Foundation, according to information received here, that the people will support the drive as well as they have in the past. Half of the money raised will remain in this county to aid those stricken. Aid was given to at least four children in the county last year.

J. L. Swindle, of The News, has been named county chairman of the drive.

The campaign is being waged principally through the schools, being bolstered there by principals and superintendents and their teachers. Supplies will go out this week—little deposit banks that will sit on desks in each homeroom, and cans to be placed by the school chairmen in the business houses of the community.

The Boy Scouts helped distribute the little "banks" in Pampa on Saturday. More than 200 of them have been put in stores, and others will be put in the schools this week. Children will get lapel tags for their donations.

Persons who wish to send checks for the fund are asked to make them out to Gray County March of Dimes, and send them to Joe Gordon, First National Bank Building, Pampa. He is treasurer for the drive.

The civic clubs and the veterans organizations are planning to wage a street corner campaign within the next few days, but plans are not to be completed until the first of the week.

Proceeds from at least one independent basketball game will go to benefit the drive. (See Sports page.)

Stassen Has Fear Of 'Going Too Far'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Bills to wipe out some $4,000,000,000 of union portal-pay suits got a head start over other legislation yesterday as a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee set hearings for Wednesday.

Seven other major bills, among 30 or more dealing with unions already introduced, are slated for early attention but the House and Senate Labor Committees have not yet set to work on them.

Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor who is seeking the Republican nomination for President in 1948, said yesterday there is "some danger of going too far" in labor legislation.

Three of the seven major bills are sponsored by Senator Ball, also of Minnesota. Stassen told a news conference all three "go too far." He was talking about bills by Ball which would outlaw the closed shop and industry-wide bargaining, and the Ball-Taft-Smith bill which is a revised version of last year's Case bill.

Stassens own labor program centers around amending the Wagner Act but avoiding compulsion as far as possible. Stassen is not a member of Congress.

Senator Capehart (R-Ind), sponsor of one bill to offset portal-pay claims, will be the first witness before the judiciary group. Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the Judiciary Committee has introduced another measure.

Senator Donnell (R-Mo) subcommittee chairman, announced the hearings will be public. He told reporters that witnesses will be required "so far as practicable" to file written statements covering their proposed testimony a day in advance of their appearance. The other subcommittee members are Senators Cooper (R-Tenn) and Eastland (D-Miss).

The seven bills which so far seem to be getting the most attention aside from the portal-pay measures are:

HOUSE

1. The new bill by Rep. Francis Case (R-SD), a huge omnibus measure that would revise the Wagner Act, delay serious strikes 60 days, give the government legal power to halt the most serious strikes even after that, and do many other things.

2. The Smith bill, another big measure, by Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va), designed to rewrite the Wagner Act. It would ban the closed shop, prevent strikes in public utilities or industries affecting public health or safety, and many other things.

3. The "Public Rights" bill by five Republicans, designed to protect the public against strikes that endan-

Lewis Attacks Injunction in Court Brief

WASHINGTON—(AP) — John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers told the Supreme Court yesterday that "public hysteria and political expediency" led to their contempt convictions and $3,510.000 fines in the soft coal strike.

Both the union and the government filed briefs outlining arguments they are to present orally Tuesday.

In the briefs, Lewis' counsel asked the Supreme Court to cancel the contempt findings as well as the fines, while Attorney General Clark argued they should be sustained.

The case grew out of the Justice Department's attempt, by obtaining a restraining order from Federal Judge T. Allan Goldsborough, to bar the miners from walking out of the federally-seized pits last November.

Lewis ignored the order and the miners walked out. After a trial, Judge Goldsborough fined Lewis $10,000 and the union $3,500,000 for contempt. On December 7, three days after the fines were imposed, Lewis ordered the men back to work.

The union's brief said the government Judge Goldsborough had "disregarded completely the plain, unequivocal language of the federal anti-injunction statutes, their indisputable purpose and scope, and controlling decisions of this honorable court."

At another point the union brief said the case reflected "enthusiastic compliance by the court (of Judge Goldsborough) with every government request, no matter how conspicuously contrary to law and how conspicuously contrary to fact."

Clark's brief argued that the Norris-LaGuardia Anti-Injunction Act, especially when viewed in the light of the later Smith-Connally Plant Seizure Act, left the way clear for the government to obtain court orders to "prohibit interference with the sovereign functions of the United States."

Clark said even if Judge Goldsborough was wrong in issuing his restraining order, Lewis and the union had no business disobeying it and should have been fined anyway.

The Lewis brief maintained that the $3,510.000 fines are "excessive." It noted they would come from union funds which include contributions from 122,000 anthracite miners and Canadian tituminous miners, as well as certain supervisory and maintenance mine workers who remained at work during the strike.

"A diligent search of the authorities fails to disclose that a fine of the tremendous magnitude here involved has ever been imposed by any court for any contempt, civil or criminal," the union brief said.

The government countered that "under the circumstances and evidence of damage to the United States," the amount is "appropriate and within the ability of the defendants to pay."

Arnall Resigns as Georgia's Governor

ATLANTA, Ga.—(AP)—Ellis Arnall resigned yesterday as governor of Georgia, "effective immediately after the qualification of the lieutenant-governor," in a maneuver apparently aimed at blocking succession of Herman Talmadge to the office won by his late father.

The 39-year-old governor, who unseated Gene Talmadge in 1942 and who was ineligible to seek re-election when Talmadge won a fourth non-consecutive term in 1946, dramatically removed himself from the controversy which has torn Georgia since death claimed the defender of "white supremacy."

His resignation automatically makes M. E. Thompson a claimant to the governorship the moment he is worn in as Georgia's first lieutenant-governor. It will be effective regardless whether the Legislature sustains Herman's claims to office based on a few hundred write-in votes acknowledged to have been engineered on election day as "insurance" in case 'Gene Talmadge died.

Arnall announced immediately after Talmadge's funeral that he regarded Thompson as the only legal successor, and would resign as soon as Thompson was eligible. Talmadge leaders ridiculed this and predicted Arnall would cling to office. At the same time, they arranged to prevent Thompson from being officially certified until the Legislature could be induced to name Herman for his father's term. This maneuver, they said, would avoid a vacancy and prevent Arnall from handing the governorship to Thompson.

Arnall's move appeared to preclude any situation in which he and Herman Talmadge might be rival governors.

In a nine-line letter to Secretary of State Ben Fortson, Jr., the governor said:

"In conformity with my announced purpose, supported by the opinion of the attorney general, and in order to insure an election by the people at the earliest time consistent with the Constitution, I hereby resign as Governor of Georgia effective immediately after qualification of the lieutenant-governor, so that the executive powers of government may devolve upon the lieutenant-governor and the expressed will of the people of Georgia may be effectuated."

The letter was dated Jan. 11, 1947, and came just 49 hours before the Georgia General Assembly convenes to accept or reject claims of Herman Talmadge, only son of the British Press for Early Action on Albanian Demand

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(AP)—The British made public yesterday a long Albanian note flatly rejecting a London demand for an apology and compensation for mine damage to two British destroyers and the loss of 44 sailors.

Simultaneously, a British spokesman said Sir Alexander Cadogan, United Kingdom delegate to the United Nations Security Council, would press for an early and complete airing of his government's charges against Albania. These were filed Friday night in the first case Britain has brought before the Council.

The Council, set to continue the arms discussion Wednesday, may start on the Albanian case late next week, one delegate indicated.

United Nations observers pointed out that Britain may tangle with Soviet Russia when the case is discussed. Russia fought for Albania's admission to the United Nations last year but was unsuccessful in the face of British and United States opposition.

Cadogan's letter to the United Nations accompanying the notes said that Albania's answer to the British protest was "entirely unsatisfactory."

The case began last Oct. 22 when the bows of two British destroyers were damaged by mines off the Albanian coast in the Corfu Channel, and 44 sailors were killed.

Albania lodged a protest with the United Nations against alleged violations of Albania waters by British troops.

On Dec. 9, the British in a note to Albania demanded an apology and reparations under threat of taking the affair to the Security Council.

Albania, in the reply released by the British, turned down the demand for reparations and for compensation for the officers and men who were killed; refused to apologize; called the incident an "accident" for which the Albanian government was not responsible, and indirectly laid the blame on the Greek government, with which Albania is at odds. This note was dated Dec. 21.

Administrators Would Set $2,000 As Base Salary

AUSTIN—(AP)—Texas school administrators in conference here yesterday voted resolutions urging unified action in behalf of increased financial support for public schools.

The conference specifically mentioned the Texas State Teachers' Association program urging $2,000 minimum salary for teachers and an increase in the per capita apportionment from $35 to $55.

The resolution characterized the present teacher crisis as an urgent one "due to the great inadequacy of finances."

Supt. H. W. Stillwell of Texarkana schools told the conference the chances of the program advocated for success are good, but he did not think they would materialize within the next year. He urged as the first step, support by independent school districts of the rural aid program in schools where the teaching crisis was the greatest. He said also that it would take new taxes to finance increased support and that teachers should create a willingness in their communities for new taxes.

The conference also adopted these resolutions:

That a multiple list of textbooks for elementary grades should be used in the adoption of elementary texts in Texas.

That the conference encourage further cooperative efforts on the part of all educational agencies and services in the interest of education for the improvement of health and safety, and for extended opportunities for the education of exceptional children.

That the conference recognize the urgency of the need of in-service teacher training during this teacher crisis and that the State department of Education and the teacher training institutions be asked to take the lead in and cooperate in helping school administrators to set up at convenient centers in service teacher training and curriculum centers.

School Executives To Help Form New Plan

AUSTIN—(AP)—A state advisory committee composed of school superintendents and principals whose duty it will be to study and assist in the revision of the vocational plan for public schools in Texas, met here yesterday following appointment by the Texas Association of School Administrators.

The committee has been appointed in conformance with the new George-Barden Act which provides federal funds to be used for vocational education.

In revising the present vocational plan, special reference will be given agriculture, distributive education, homemaking, rehabilitation, trade and industrial, and veterans' vocational education.

NEED A BARGE?

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(AP)—The Navy has enough difficulty with surplus property of its own without the Army giving it a barge. Today the Navy admitted it would like to get rid of BCL-1428, towed here last September (apparently for some reason now forgotten) by an Army tug and moored to a Navy buoy.

When a storm broke up the buoy the barge was tied at a pier. Now the Navy needs the space and can't find anyone authorized or willing to take the barge.

Anti-Communists Break With Party

ROME—(AP)—Anti-Communist factions of the Socialist party broke completely yesterday with the rest of the party, and the leader of the bolters declared that unless the party remained independent of foreign pressures "we will not be able to escape the spector of civil war and of international war."

Giuseppe Saragat, president of the Constituent Assembly in which the Socialists with 114 deputies are second in strength and hold the balance of power, made this declaration as delegates to the frequently turbulent 25th National Congress of the party listened in shocked quiet:

"The Italian Socialist party has been submitted to a cold and methodical process of subjugation to the principles of foreign forces. If in Italy there is not to be an independent Socialist party, we will not be able to escape the specter of civil war and international war."

(In Cleveland, Ohio, Premier Alcide de Gasperi, who is in the United States to seek financial and other aid for Italy, described as "ridiculous" statements that the split in the Socialists might lead to civil war. He admitted the split would have "a poor psychological effect" on his mission, but as to civil war he laughingly asked: "Who is going to fight it?")

Large Program Being Outlined For Legislature

AUSTIN—(AP)—The 50th general meeting of the legislature in Texas' 101 years of statehood convenes here at noon Tuesday for a session packed with highly-explosive potentials.

It will be the first general session since the close of World War II and postwar problems rooted deep in the life of every citizen face it on every hand.

Scores of topics for legislation giving almost certain promise of provoking conflict have already been dumped in advance into the lawmakers' laps. With the state in its best financial condition in history, it was a foregone conclusion that extremes of pressure seeking to increase appropriations would be brought to bear.

It will be one of the youngest legislatures in recent years, with many of its members World War II veterans in their 20s.

There will be 34 new members in the House, nine in the Senate. There will be 64 World War II veterans in the House, eight in the Senate.

Rep. W. O. Reed of Dallas, considered an almost-certain choice for the speakership, says that making expanded appropriaton demands fit revenue in hand or in sight will be the legislature's No. 1 problem.

Related to it are campaign platform pledges—begining with that of Gov.-Elect Beauford H Jester—that there will be no new taxes. The complicating factors in this situation are promises to raise the salaries of teachers and state employes and to otherwise expand state services in numerous directions.

Educational and other state-supported institutions, blocked of physical development during the war years, will be clamoring for new buildings as well as more money for operations.

Another major clamor will come from old age pension groups seeking removal of the ceiling on welfare

Demos Concede Income Tax Cut

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, House Democratic whip, conceded yesterday probable House passage of a 20 percent reduction in income taxes, "because the Republicans have got the votes."

But he denounced the cut—fathered by Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the House Ways and Means Committee and endorsed by Senator Taft (R-Ohio)—as an "unsound" approach to fiscal problems.

McCormack, himself a former member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, suggested instead of study of methods designed to ease the tax burden on "the little fellow" — possibly by boosting exemptions on earned income.

President Truman's estimate of the necessary spending in the fiscal year starting July 1 is $37,500,000,000. Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and an announced candidate for President, joined fellow Republicans today in attacking this figure as too high.

"Sharply padded," said Stassen of Mr. Truman's budget. "Wasteful and extravagant."

Stassen told a news conference he is laying before individual members of Congress a proposal to cut $5,000,000,000 out of the President's budget.

He suggested continuing enough of the wartime excise (luxury) taxes to raise another billion dollars to make the total income $38,500,000,000. There then would be $6,000,000,000 to work with on his calculations, he said.

Vandenberg and Byrnes Billing Offers Contrast

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) urged last night that the United States shift its China policy to encourage the non-Communist coalition backing the new constitution there.

Secretary of State Byrnes at the same time said he is more confident than ever before that "we can achieve a just peace by cooperative effort" by persisting with "firmness."

Their joint billing at the final session of the Council on world affairs had dramatic contrasts. In the Republican-dominated Senate, Vandenberg has gained new power in foreign affairs—the time of his greatest influence probably is just ahead. Byrnes, having finished the first phase of treaty-making, is retiring—he will be succeeded by Gen. George C. Marshall.

Vandenberg, in his first speech as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, served notice that adherence to a bi-partisan foreign policy does not preclude the fullest controversy over foreign affairs.

He differed with Byrnes on at least one point by insisting that a Pan-American conference on defense problems be called without delay.

Byrnes' last scheduled address as Secretary of State appealed for the United States to remain strong in military arms and forces until its strength can be reduced equally with that of other poxers. This, he said, is necessary for world peace.

"As a great power and as a permanent member of the Security Council," Byrnes said, "we have a responsibility, veto or no veto, to see that other states do not use force except in defense of law. We must discharge that responsibility."

Marshall, who is to succeed Byrnes late this week, is returning home from 13 months in China where he helped Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek put over the new constitution. He had hoped it would appeal to "Liberals" as he called them, among the Communists as well as among non-Communist political groups, but so far as the Communists have cold-shouldered it.

Vandenberg proposed, in effect, that the United States should abandon its policy of treating the Communists on a basis of equality with the Chinese Nationalists, and instead should throw its backing to the Nationalists, and other groups under the constitution.

Union Stockyards Set All-time Volume Mark

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)— A new all-time record for volume was set here in 1946 at the Union Stockyards, although the total number of all livestock marketed during the past year revealed a substantial decline from that of 1945, Glen L. Ellison of the Federal-State Market News Service reported Saturday.

Ellison's annual statistical report revealed 1946 sales here totaled $42,094,401, compared to $39,758,594.74 in previous years.

Although the 1946 cattle market gained slightly, calves, hogs, sheep and goats showed percentage losses. Salable receipts of all livestock last year numbered 1,219,337 against 1,365,392 for 1945.

Cattle established a 7.83 percent increase, the report showed, but percentages of decline of other classes were: calves 28.7, hogs 15.09, sheep 11.26 and goats 3.76.

'Reading and Writing for Fun' Is Discussed by Author, Poet, Actress

By SCOTT RAFFERTY
News Staff Writer

"Reading and Writing for Fun" as a subject matter, may not, at first, appeal to the average Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public or to their Billy or Suzie, but Anna Bird Stewart, poet, author and actress, has nevertheless undertaken the tremendous task of making them "see the light".

Here Thursday and Friday for lecture classes at the Senior and Junior High Schools, Miss Stewart set her sights on these students who have never particularly cared for English, as it is taught in our public schools.

Author of several books of poetry and prose for the younger students, Miss Stewart insists that writing is not a natural talent, but an "industry" that is created by study and work in the field of English, both prose and poetry.

Her lectures, which she prefers to give before small groups of students from kindergarten through college, stress the fact that poetry and prose reading and writing can be fun but, at the same time, can be the world's "greatest subject".

"I especially want to reach those students who are definitely antagonistic toward English," she said. "I fit my lectures to the age group before which I am speaking and have found that younger students are perhaps better listeners than many older students and adults and seem to appreciate what they are being taught".

Miss Stewart has spoken at schools in 43 states and is currently touring the Southwest. On one tour, she spoke at 84 schools in Colorado and many more in New York.

A native of New York, Miss Stewart was graduated from the University of Cincinnati and took graduate work in New York, London, Oxford, Paris and Teriguex, France. She was on the stage with the Jessie Bonstelle players and wrote a play, "A Midsummer's Dance Dream", which Miss Bonstelle produced to commenorate Shakespeare's birthday.

Her books of juvenile poetry and prose include "A Small Bird Singing", "The Three White Cats of Avignon", "Bibi, the Baker's Horse" and "The Two Young Corsicans". Her latest book, "The Young Miss Burney", will be out this fall. Most of her books have been published by the Lippincott Company.

She is also associate professor of English at St. Mary's of Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind.

Miss Stewart will be in Borger, Monday and Tuesday, and will then continue to Hereford, Clarendon, Veron and Childress.

Prison Guard Released After Eye Surgery

RENO (AP)—Dr. S. T. Clarke said yesterday Prison Guard Bert Deady, 45, should be able to leave the hospital tonight after an operation which might restore his sight through the use of an eye bequeathed to him by a murderer executed Friday.

But it will be weeks, or perhaps months, before Deady or the doctor will know whether sight actually has been restored by the operation.

Dr. Clarke injected vitreous from an eye of Paul M. Skaug into the injured eye of the guard. He also operated on the retina in an attempt to weld it together. The retina was split by small shot in the accidental discharge of a riot gun. Vitreous is the gelatinous-like fluid in the center of the eye.

Skaug, 24, formerly of Oshkosh, Wis., was executed Friday for slaying Mrs. Beate Marie Voss in a 1944 burglary.

HOUSTON—(AP)—Fliers from the Rio Grande Valley, undaunted by threatening weather, began arriving for a meeting here yesterday—by bus.

Fifteen early starters of the 200 members of the Rio Grande Valley Fliers Association who planned to attend the meeting were grounded by uncertain flying conditions. They left their light planes at points along the route and continued the trip by bus.

Others of the 150 planes are expected to land here this afternoon.

Wife Shoots Husband For Unusual Reason!

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—A 20-year-old expectant mother sat in an Allegheny County jail cell yesterday and wondered what the law would do to a wife who admitted wanting to keep her soldier-husband at home so much that she shot him in the hand to delay his return to the Army at the end of his furlough.

Chief County Detective Joseph A. Stack identified the young woman as Mrs. Marion Shields of near Verona in Penn Township, who, he said, declared:

"It was no accident because I meant to shoot him so that he couldn't go back to camp. I told him I was going to shoot him."

Her husband, Pvt. Aloysius Shields, was treated in an Army dispensary for a shattered forefinger on his left hand.

News of Interest To Oil Men

THE DRILLER'S LOG

By Bob Bray

Last week we reported strong rumors that the Gulf Petroleum Company was planning to begin drilling a deep test in the wildcat acreage northeast of town in the next sixty days. All attempts to learn the location of this well have failed but it might help to give some idea by recalling that the land leased by Gulf, almost a year ago, is a strip about five miles in width and ten to twelve miles in length. This acreage lies between Pampa and the recently acquired Phillips and Sinclair-Prarie land.

This week it was unofficially learned that the Phillips Petroleum Company is planning a deep Wildcat test in Southern Roberts County. The proposed test will be located on the Campbell land, Section 38, Block 2. Plans are to begin work in the next sixty to ninety days.

News of the death of Homer F. Wilcox reached here too late the Saturday evening following his passing for us to carry any more than a short wire story, at that time. Several of our friends have mentioned the fact that they felt we did Mr. Wilcox an injustice by not pointing out the importance of his work here in discovering the field that even to this day is largely responsible for the support of Pampa.

Homer F. Wilcox was born in Glen Elder, Kansas, June 8, 1877, where he lived until he completed his schooling. He spent the earlier years of his life in Kansas City and vicinity during which time he participated in several business enterprises. In 1913, he moved to Tulsa and a short time later entered the oil game.

Wilcox completed his first producing oil well, the Gracie Call, which was located near Bixby, Oklahoma, April, 1914. In drilling this well he encountered a sand at a greater depth than wells in that area had been drilled before, and this sand named for him. The "Wilcox Sand" proved to be one of the most prolific sands in the Mid-continent area.

Wilcox entered the Pampa area in 1924, where he acquired a large block of leases. On July 1, of the same year, he completed the first producing well in Gray County, the Phoebe Worley No. 1. In past years a great many wells have been drilled on the Combs and Worley blocks and it proved to be one of the best pools ever opened by the Wilcox company. The Pampa Refinery was acquired by Wilcox in 1930 and continued operation until 1936 when it was destroyed by fire.

Due to failing health Mr. Wilcox was forced to retire from the company of his founding, the H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas Company in 1943 after having been very active in the oil industry throughout the Mid-Continent field for more than a quarter of a century. He devoted the remaining years of his life entirely to his personal interests.

Mr. Wilcox died December 27, 1946 and is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters.

Practically all drilling operations were at a standstill last week because of the snow and mud. There was some activity in Beaver County. The Gulf's No. 1 Ratcliff was retreated with 5,000 gallons of acid and is now swabbing acid water with a slight show of gas.

We had an unofficial report Saturday, a week ago, that the Hunt No. 1 Light Estate had tested 50 mil. cu. ft. of gas and 30 barrels of distallate. We could not officially substantiate the report so we described the well as having had a fair show of gas. We can now report that the well is producing eight to ten million cubic feet of gas and four to five barrels of distallate.

NOTED SCIENTIST

Dr. R. C. Fuson, pictured above of the University of Illinois, who will begin a week of lectures on January 13 at Humble Oil and Refining Company's Baytown refinery, is the third nationally known scientist to participate in the "Humble Lectures in Science" series.

Dr. Fuson's subject will be "Special Topics in Hydrocarbon Chemistry."

The lecture series was inaugurated by Humble last year for the benefit of technical and research personnel at Baytown refinery. Preceding Dr. Fuson have been Dr. C. C. Price, of the University of Notre Dame, and Dr. E. R. Gilliland, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

WHY TEXAS IS LEADING OIL STATE

Each of Texas' 254 counties currently is producing or has produced oil or gas, or has land under lease for oil and gas development, a map prepared recently by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association shows.

Texas oil and gas counties number 169, while former petroleum counties total 17. The 68 others have land leased for oil and gas exploration and development. Counties added to the oil column include Edwards, Knox and Madison, where recent discoveries were made, and Newton, Nolan and Walker, which had shows earlier, but which reported their first production last year.

Nearly 54,000,000 acres, or virtually one-third the entire land area of Texas, is now under lease for oil and gas development. Texas farmers, ranchers and other land-owners receive around $215,000,000 a year in lease and royalty payments, the association reported. This extra "cash crop" totals more than two billion dollars for the past twenty-five years, or nearly one-seventh of the value of all Texas agricultural crops during the period.

GRANT CRUDE HIKE

KILGORE—(AP)—The Premier Oil Refining Company announced, effective Friday, a 10 cents per barrel increase in the posted price for crude oil in the East Texas field. The new price is $1.80 per barrel.

Three Wells Finished By Cities Service Co.

Completions to two oil wells during the past two weeks for a total potential production of more than 600 barrels of oil daily and one gas well with a daily potential of 7,200,000 cubic feet of gas were reported by Cities Service Oil Company. The Brunson C-1 in Lea County, New Mexico, is the larger of the two, with a natural flow of 386 barrels daily through a 1/2-inch choke. Producing from the Glorietta, this well is located in the center of the SE SE Section 3-22-37. Rice County, Kansas, is the location of the other oil well, the Dick-B No. 3, which came in for 216 barrels of oil per day. This well is located in the SE NW SW of Section 9-20S-9W.

Historic Walker Cup Match Slated May 16, 17; American Team Named

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK—(AP)—A dozen amateur golfers, nine of whom will be charged with the responsibility of returning the Walker Cup to this country, were selected yesterday by the U. S. Golf Association.

Meeting in annual session, the USGA named these players as a nine-man team to meet a picked squad of British amateurs at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 16 and 17, in the first Walker Cup matches since 1938.

Stanley E. (Ted) Bishop of South Natick, Mass., present national amateur champion.

Marvin H. (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., National amateur titleholder in 1939 and 1941.

Richard D. Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., National champion in 1940.

Smiley L. Quick of Los Angeles, present National Public Links champion.

Skee Reigel, Glendale, Calif., who broke the qualifying record in the 1946 National tournament.

A. Frederick Kammer Jr., of Groose Pointe, Mich., semi-finalist in the 1946 National tournament.

Dr. E. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., quarter-finalist in the 1946 National amateur tournament.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, Western Amateur champion.

As non-playing captain of the team, the USGA named Francis D. Ouimet of Auburndale, Mass., former holder of both the amateur and open championships who played with the U. S. forces in every previous Walker Cup test except the last two.

And in the event any of the nine regular declines, he will be replaced by one of three alternates—George S. Hamer, Jr., of Columbus, Ga., Maurice McCarthy of Cincinnati and Robert J. Sweeny of New York and London—in that order.

Ward is the only player in the group who was a member of the U. S. team at St. Andrews in 1938, when the Britons took seven matches, lost four and halved one, to win the Walker Cup for the time. All nine previous meetings in the series, which began in 1922, had been won by the Americans.

Odessa, Jefferson Get 'Record Take' On Schoolboy Game

AUSTIN—(AP)—Odessa and Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio will each receive a record $29,294.33 as their shares of receipts from the state high school championship football game, Ed Olle, business manager of athletics at the University of Texas, said yesterday.

This exceeds by $4,000 per school the amounts taken by Highland Park and Waco after their 1945 championship game.

Ticket sales made through the athletic office of the university for the Odessa-Thomas Jefferson game amounted to $38,671.40, the official auditor's report showed.

Official attendance for the game was 39,000.

Between 1905 and 1912, approximately 30,000 elephants were killed annually in Africa.

Baylor Names Bob Woodruff As Head Coach

WACO—(AP)—Bob Woodruff, line coach at Georgia Tech, was named head coach at Baylor University yesterday.

Woodruff signed a three-year contract at an undisclosed salary. He said he would bring three of his assistants from Georgia Tech but did not name them.

The announcement was made by a statement signed by Alva Bryan, chairman of the Baylor Athletic committee, and five members.

Woodruff has been at Waco for several days, meeting students and faculty members.

The statement issued by the Athletic committee late yesterday reads:

"The Athletic Committee of Baylor University since the resignation of Mr. Frank Kimbrough as head coach, has tried diligently to find a man that would not only fit in at Baylor, but one who has the capability of filling the job as head coach of that institution.

"We have personally contacted several prospective coaches over the country and have discussed with each of them their desire to come to Baylor and to determine their coaching ability.

"We are happy to announce that we have selected Mr. Bob Woodruff, of Georgia Tech.

"Mr. Woodruff has had years of experience as a football player himself and is now head line coach at Georgia Tech.

"Since he has been coaching he has achieved a national reputation.

"Mr. Woodruff played at Tennessee in 1935-39. As a player he was a member of the undefeated Orange Bowl team in 1938.

"He was employed as assistant coach by General Bob Neyland of Tennessee upon his graduation with a bachelor of science degree in engineering, and was a member of the coaching staff of the Rose Bowl team of 1939.

"Also, he was line coach for John Barnhill when he was head coach at Tennessee.

"Mr. Woodruff was assistant coach at the U. S. Military Academy under Col. Earl Blake, whose team won the national championship in 1944 and 1945.

"Mr. Woodruff entered service in 1942 and rose to the rank of Major in the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"Upon his discharge from the Army, he was employed as head line coach under Boddy Dodd at Georgia Tech.

"All of the above gentlemen and others have frankly advised the committee that in their opinion Mr. Woodruff would make Baylor University one of the finest coaches in the country, and each of them has given to this committee his recommendation that we employ Mr. Woodruff as head coach at Baylor.

"Mr. Woodruff is married and has a child. He and his wife, for the last couple of days, have been upon the campus at Baylor and have mixed and mingled with the student body and many of the faculty.

"Everyone who has met him is pleased with his personality and have confidence in his ability.

"We frankly state that in our opinion Woodruff is the best man available in the country at this time to fill the position to which he has been employed.

"We believe that through his efforts Baylor University will have a very bright athletic future.

"We feel sure that the friends of Baylor will like Mr. Woodruff and we hope everybody will be pleased with our selection."

Woodruff said he had coached both the T formation and the single wing and would use whichever Baylor football material fits.

"I'm very happy to come to Baylor as head football coach," he said. "I know that my association with the university alumni and all those interested in Baylor will be a pleasant one.

We hope to play a colorful brand of football that will bring credit to Baylor and the Southwest Conference."

Tennessee U. Coach Approves Appointment

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Gen. Bob Neyland, head football coach at the University of Tennessee, last night said he was delighted to learn that Bob Woodruff had been appointed head football coach at Baylor University.

"He is a fine boy and a good coach," Neyland said. "He will do a fine job there. I am delighted to hear of his appointment."

Neyland, who has been fishing in the Miami area since his team met the Rice Owls in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day, said he would leave for Knoxville tomorrow.

Pampa Fives Sweep Three Cage Games

Pouring 130 points in the buckets with comparative ease, Pampa High's three basketball teams walked off with rousing victories over weak but scrapping opposition here Friday night.

The main event of the triple-header at the Junior High gym saw the Harvesters trounce Perryton's smooth but low-scoring Rangers, 46-27, but also saw them relinquish individual honors to Keith Flowers, Perryton's allstar athlete, who dumped 17 points in the nets ,14 of them in the last half.

In the prelims, the unbeaten Harvester "B" cagers romped all over a hopelessly outclassed Morse five, 54-18. Oddly enough, the Morse team was the same one that the Harvester first stringers had beaten only 40-25 in the season opener.

The other game saw Coach Livingston's Gorillas outfight a scrapping Perryton reserve aggregation, 30-18.

Completely dominating the picture in the first three quarters, the Harvesters slapped the Perryton five into 30-6 submission at the end of two stanzas and coasted through the final two periods with comparative ease, although a Perryton surge in the final period forced the Harvesters to use more caution in the final minutes.

Behind Flowers in the individual scoring department were Raymond Hernandez of Pampa with 10 points, followed by Derrel Davis, Bill Speer and Malcolm Fagan with nine points each.

Although his teammates were badly outscored, Jack Womble of Morse led individual scoring in the Pampa "B"-Morse game with 11 points, followed by Harbord Cox and Zeke Griffin of the winners with 10 points each. The local reserves built up a 20-2 lead in the first period and were pressed only in the final stanza, when Morse scored 13 points.

Center Jim King looped eleven points to spark the Gorillas in their 30-18 victory over the Perryton reserves. The game saw Referees Jack Davis and Bob Carter call 38 personal fouls, 23 of them on the Gorillas.

Men's Club Will Meet Heiskells In Benefit Tilt

A benefit basketball game, matching the Heiskells of Pampa and the Frank Phillips Men's Club of Borger will be played at the Junior High Gym., Tuesday, January 21.

All proceeds from the game, after Federal taxes have been deducted, will go to the March of Dimes campaign fund in Gray County.

Phillips, powerful AAU quintet, is now in the quartefinals of the Plains A. A. U. basketball tournament at Amarillo, a meet from which the Heiskells were eliminated by a strong Hedley Lions team Thursday.

The Men's Club team annually plays some of the Southwest's strongest college and independent teams. Its players are made up entirely of Phillips employes.

Several former Pampa Harvester stars are included on the Heiskell squad, organized here by Grover, Orville and Claude Heiskell. The roster also includes Bill Bridges, former A. A. U. player from Wisconsin, Bob Andis, ex-Pampa and Texas Tech cage standout and others.

Tickets for the game will probably go on sale Wednesday of this week. A block of advanced tickets will be sold and the remainder will be available at the boxoffice that night.

'Vacancy' Signs Hanging on Many Grid Field Gates

(By The Associaated Press)

NEW YORK— (AP) —The "help wanted" shingle was out at at least a dozen colleges yesterday after another flurry of job-trading.

More than a score of pigskin tutors have turned in their suits since the season's close, and relatively few of the vacancies have been filled.

Latest advertisements for help are from the University of Maryland, LaFayette and Colby, which lost their head coaches Friday. T-master Clark Shaughnessy resigned the second time from Maryland, E. E. (Hooks) Mylin bowed out at LaFayette and Danny Lewis quit the little Maine school.

Meanwhile, three vacancies were filled. Ed McKeever, who had resigned from Cornell, signed a three-year contract as head coach at the University of San Francisco, and Cornell selected George K. (Lefty) James as his successor at Ithaca. James had been anassistant at Cornell 11 years.

At San Francisco McKeever succeeds Maurice (Clipper) Smith, who left college ranks to direct the National Football League's Boston Yanks.

A third vacancy, that at Baylor, was filled by Bob Woodruff, line coach at Georgia Tech. Woodruff succeeds Frank Kimbrough, who is reported to be angling for the Arizona State job vacated by Steve Goutchie resigned.

James' appointment at Cornell leaves Colgate as the only upstate New York school seeking a coach. That job was vacated by 68-year-old Andy Kerr, who retired after reaching the school's age limit.

The vacancy at Syracuse left by the resignation of Biggie Munn to take over Charlie Bachman's job at Michigan State had been filled previously with the elevation of assistant Coach Reaves Baysinger.

New York University is seeking a replacement for Jack Weinheimer, who stepped down after the close of the season. Boston University replaced Walt Holmer with Buff Donelli, former coach at Duquesne and late of Lou Little's staff at Columbia.

Virginia Military Institute still has to fill the vacancy left by resignation of Allison T. (Pooley) Hubert.

Kansas State seeks a successor to Hobbs Adams who left the coaching job but continues as athletic director.

Idaho does not plan to name a successor to J. A. (Babe) Brown until next summer.

On the Coast, California is seeking a successor to Frank Wickhorst and Oregon is out to get a replacement for Gerald A. (Tex) Oliver. Jim Bradshaw left the Fresno State head job but is staying on in the athletic department. Alonzo A. Stagg's job at College of the Pacific has been filled by Larry Siemering, and "Mr. Football" has gone to join his son, A. A. Stagg, Jr., at Susquehanna U.

One of the first of the season's vacancies announced, that of the venerable Dana X. Bible at the University of Texas, was quickly filled when assistant Coach Blair Cherry moved up. Bible continues as athletic director.

The golden snow often seen in Glacier Park is made of small, yellow insect bodies.

Scott's Scrap Book

By SCOTT RAFFERTY

With the opening of the 1947 West Texas-New Mexico League baseball season a little more than three months away, the Pampa Oiler baseball owners have done no apparent work toward the building of a ball club. Other clubs, meanwhile, have already signed several players.

Furthermore, Grover Seitz, manager of the 1946 Oilers who won the league playoff and the subsequent Texas Class C championship, told this writer; yesterday that the club's owners had not approached him on whether he was to manage the 1947 team.

Seitz pointed out that "work on the club should have started at the time of the winter minor league meeting in December".

He said the owners had not indicated that they "will even have a club".

R. L. Edmonson, Sr., president of the Oilers, told this writer yesterday that "we definitely will have a ball club", but he did not elaborate other than to say that "I suppose Grover will be manager, but we haven't signed him up yet".

Seitz pointed out that he had had "several other offers" from clubs in higher leagues but he had refused all of them because he maintained his home and business in Pampa and intends to stay here.

The popular manager seemed concerned that the club officials had not contacted him, pointing out that practically all other clubs in the league had started building their 1947 teams.

It seems to this writer that the club officials are making a very unwise move in not instituting their club-building program. It is a long and tedious progress and the manager gets the worst end of a delay. He must contact players—sometimes traveling many miles to do so — arrange spring training sites and dates, check all equipment and do hundreds of other things before the season opens.

Another factor that is apparently delaying proceedings is the question of who is to pay the city taxes on Oiler Park, which the club purchased from Danciger Oil and Refining Company last year.

It seems Edmondson appeared before the City Commission a couple of weeks ago but the matter was never streightened out because it was not revealed whether the bill of sale in the transaction had specified that Danciger or the baseball club was to pay the back taxes.

If Pampa is to have as near good a club as Grover put out last season, the owners had better get busy and give Grover, or whoever is to manage the team, the "green light" to start signing players before there are none left to sign.

Rideout Twin Named School Track Coach

RAYMONDVILLE—(AP)— Wayne Rideout, world's record-holder in distance running, has been named coach of the Raymondville High School track squad.

Rideout, while at North Texas State College, set a world's record for the three-quarters mile at the Penn Relays in 1938. With his brother, Blaine, he also holds a world's record for indoor and outdoor medley relay running. This mark was set at New York, also in 1938.

Rideout previously coached at Lamesa, Rosenburg, Tyler and Kuafman. He recently was discharged from the Merchant Marine.

Southwest Head Says Loop May Not Follow Code

FORT WORTH—(AP)—There is a possibility that the Southwest Conference will refuse to follow the NCAA in every detail of its new "purity" code according to Dr. Gayle Scott of TCU, president of the conference, Dr. Scott returned yesterday from the New York meeting.

"Of course I cannot speak for the conference," he said, "and do not know what decision will be reached. I will make definite recommendations at the Dallas meeting next Saturday and Sunday. At this time I had rather not say just what the recommendations will be."

It was evident, however, that Dr. Scott feels that the Southwest Conference may balk at two phases of the proposed new code. These have to do with off-the-campus recruiting of coaches and the granting of board and room as well as tuition to athletes.

"As yet it is hard to evaluate just what happened at the New York meeting," Dr. Scott pointed out. "The proposed changes are not yet part of the NCAA constitution. They are still being considered by a committee along with the proposition to abolish bowl games. Until the committee reports and the changes are definitely in the constitution, there's nothing really definite.

"I do think a great deal was accomplished. To me, the outstanding development was the establishment of the principle that 'outside help' to athletes must be stopped. Many conferences which claimed to be 'pure' because they gave athletes only tuition or less, solved the problem by letting the alumnae or booster clubs pay the boys' expenses or even more. This practice, which we all believe to be bad, will be definitely banned."

Under the proposed new code, it would be legal to give athletes campus jobs to defray their expenses aside from tuition which may be granted by the schools. This may cause a reversion to the old "clock-winding" positions that were in vogue some years back.

Dr. Scott is of the opinion that the Southwest Conference may refuse to take this "backward step."

"We also feel that a regulation prohibiting coaches from recruiting anywhere but on their campuses will lead only to subterfuge. We fought it in New York but were outvoted. Only 130 of the 250 member schools cast ballots on the proposition. Just what the Southwest Conference will do on it I don't know."

Dr. Scott smilingly admitted that if the conference does refuse to adhere strictly to the NCAA code that the "time may come when we'll have to play each other or members of conferences that feel like we do." But he pointed out that many things may happen before that.

Gather Ye Rosebuds

XXXI

AT two o'clock that Friday afternoon, Rose was in the parlor, lackadaisically running through the Charles Wakefield Cadman album, when she saw Mrs. Kerr coming along the pavement toward the Cameron porch. It must mean a telephone call. Rose got up from the piano and went to the door.

"For you," Mrs. Kerr said. "A man. He's holding the line."

"Long distance?" Rose thought of Dixon.

Mrs. Kerr said no. "I didn't recognize the voice, Rose. Someone who hasn't called before."

Rose shut the door and followed Mrs. Kerr to the cottage. She felt unaccountably nervous, and her hand jiggled as she picked up the receiver. Of course, she was being silly. It couldn't possibly be—

She said "Hello," in a strange, timid sort of tone, Mrs. Kerr discreetly withdrew.

"Rose?"

She didn't answer immediately.

"Hello, Rose? Is that you, honey? Know who this is?"

"Yes," she said.

"I haven't seen you in a coon's age, honey, but I still think about you. D'you ever think about me?"

"Yes," she said. "Sometimes."

"I'm leaving Blakesville today, leaving for good and won't be back. I kind of wanted to tell you goodby. I'll never forget you, Rose."

She said, "I'll never forget you, either," and added, as if the words were not to be repressed: "I wish I could."

A pause, and then he said: "I never knew what happened to us, why you bumped me off like that. I've been in and out of town most of the summer, Rose. I've hung around the park a hundred times, hoping you'd show up; but you didn't. I've wanted to telephone, but I was afraid to, not knowing what you'd say. And I was kind of mad, too."

"HOW did you get this telephone number?"

"Well," he said, laughing, "I got it. Don't you bother how. . . . Honey, I'd like to see you again. Just once, to talk things over."

"But if you're leaving—"

"I'm going up to Asbiron Springs to stay the week-end. You know where that is? Up the river thirty miles, the resort place with the nice little tavern. It's very respectable, and not many people there at the end of the season. I'm taking the traction and have only a few minutes to make it." He paused. "Look, Rose, why don't you meet me at Ashiron this evening? You could catch the five o'clock traction."

"Oh, no," she said. "No!"

"Wait!" His voice was warm and lower. "You're thinking how I used to joke about our going to Chicago. You never liked it, you were insulted, weren't you? Only married couples could go on trips together, you said."

"Yes, I said that."

"But what if I told you this is strictly on the level? It is, Rose. You come up to Ashiron and see. 'Mr. and Mrs. Breen,' that's how it'll be in the register. Honest."

"You mean—you don't mean—" She had to stop; the world seemed to stop around her.

"I mean you're the only girl I've ever loved, and I've got to see you tonight. At Ashiron. Please!"

"You're asking me to—to elope—"

"Well, I can't tell you too much on the telephone, but it will be all right and just the way you want it."

"Is there a minister at Ashiron—a church?"

"What? Oh, yes. Don't worry. I said on the level, didn't I. You trust me, don't you?"

"But it's so—I don't know what to think!"

"The whole thing is whether you love and trust me."

She was silent, clinging to the telephone with rigid fingers.

"Come on, honey. Get that four o'clock traction. Please do!" His voice implored, and even over the wire the spell of it reached her. "I've been so lonely for you, Rose. Every day, every hour, feeling so bad because you turned me down—"

She listened, and believed. "I'll come," she said. "I'll come."

MRS. KERR was on the cottage veranda—or a woman resembling Mrs. Kerr, Rose couldn't be sure. But she was sure of nothing. All reality had melted away.

She went home and in her room stood staring for long moments, before she pulled the suitcase from her closet and began to fill it with things from the bureau drawers.

When the suitcase was ready, she started to dress, her hands shaking so that she blundered and dropped things, and the comb tangled in her hair. As she stared into the mirror, she seemed to see not her own face, but Mamma's, Dixon's—the composite of a dozen faces, all staring questioningly back at her. To the faces, she whispered: "I love him, he wants to marry me." The faces should have dissipated then; they didn't; they remained. She turned from the mirror, angered, trembling.

She got out her hat and coat, and put them on, and tiptoed down to the stair landing for a glance at the clock. Just three. She was too early, she would have to wait. But not here. Through the window she could see Mamma planting the tulip bulbs, the sunlight falling on her bent head and broad, stooping figure. Soon Mamma would be coming into the house, calling to her, perhaps—"Rose, dear, where are you?" . . . She would have to go downtown, wait there, at the traction station. Looking at Mamma, she whispered, "I'm eloping with a man she's never even seen!" . . . But such thoughts must not be tolerated; she thrust them from her, and went back to her room, took up her purse and the suitcase, glanced all around.

The door opened, and Sidney walked in.

PANHANDLE BRIEFS

Members of the Canyon Classroom Teachers Association last week asked residents of Canyon and vicinity to aid them in securing the enactment of the new equalization bill, through support of the Texas State Teachers Association's recently projected financial program.

Members of the Canyon Teacher group are planning a program of work whereby the people of Canyon and Randell County will be asked to support and back the teachers, in their efforts to convince district legislators of the necessity of the enactment of this new bill.

The first classes of the Veterans Vocational School at Wellington got under way last Friday afternoon, it has been announced. The sessions are being held in the County Courtroom for a few days, until a permanent location can be secured.

Under the plan now in affect, the school will cover the full nine courses in agriculture as offered at Texas A&M College over a period of three years.

An additional period of twenty days, during which time offers may be submitted under veterans' priority to purchase surplus farm property at the POW camp near McLean, has been granted by the WAA. This additional period of time is from last Friday, January 10 to January 29.

The property to be sold in tracts of land which aggregate approximately 300 acres of land together with any improvements thereon not reserved.

The donation of a centrally located lot for the location of a new Spearman Community Hall was announced at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Finance Committee, last Tuesday morning. If present plans are carried out, construction on the new building will begin in early Febbuary.

Financing for construction of the building has not been completed. At the present time 39 Spearman citizens have donated over $5,000 to the project.

Officials of the Producers Utility Corporation, which serves Groom, have recently announced plans for the construction of a new four-inch main gas line in order that they may better serve Groom residents during the winter months.

The decision to build an additional line was the outcome of dissatisfaction on the part of many Groom residents, with the low gas pressure, which was described as insufficient to heat homes, during the recent cold spell.

Tentative plans for the installation of four traffic lights at Hereford are being made by the City Commission. The lights will be located at the intersection of Main Street and First, Second and Third Streets; and at the intersection of Highway 60 and Highway 52.

Military Furlough Rates Expire Soon

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The special military personnel furlough rates for train and bus travel will expire Jan. 30.

The rates were placed into effect by the railroads during the war and were applicable to coach travel only.

These gave service personnel a rate of 1.25 cents per mile compared with the 2.2 cents charge for civilian travel.

Passports Being Refused Oilmen

TEHRAN — (AP) — An American diplomatic official here said Friday the United States Department is refusing to issue passports to American oilmen seeking to visit Iran.

He said the action was taken "out of respect to an Iranian law prohibiting discussion of oil concessions." An Iranian law passed in 1944 carried an eight-year imprisonment penalty for Iranians found guilty of discussing oil concessions with foreigners.

Artie Shaw's Permit To Drive Is Revoked

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The driver's license of Artie Shaw, bandleader husband of Novelist Kathleen Winsor, has been suspended by the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

R. E. Criswell, chief examiner for the department, said Shaw failed to appear Friday to show cause why the license should not be revoked. Criswell said the clarinetist was convicted six times of traffic law violations in 1946 and on three speeding charges during the two previous years.

Truman Appoints 3 New Court Members

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman yesterday formally designated three more men to serve as members of one of the half dozen military tribunals in Germany trying Nazi war criminals in the American zone of occupation.

They are Superior Court Judge Fitzroy D. Phillips of North Carolina; Judge Robert M. Toms of the Third Judicial Circuit, Detroit, Mich., and Capt. Michael A. Musmanno, USNR, on leave from the Common pleas Court bench of Pittsburgh.

John J. Speight, Dothan, Ala., was named an alternate.

All have been in Germany for some time. Their assignment to a particular tribunal is at the discretion of the military commander in the area.

Ford to Build New, Low-cost Automobile

BOSTON— (AP) —John R. Davis, vice-president of the Ford Motor Company, says his organization intends to "et the pace" in 1948 by producing a completely new, low priced automobile.

He said in an interview that it would be "the greatest change since the introduction of the Model A" and described the proposed new vehicle as lighter in weight and less costly than the present-day Ford.

Bridal Procession Ends in Fisticuffs

BENTON HARBOR, Mich.—(AP)—Still wearing her wedding corsage, 23-year-old Cherry Bauder appeared in Municipal Court yesterday to describe a battle with her fiancee that broke up their bridal procession.

She and John W. Buke, 30, both of Three Oaks Mich., were nearing the steps of the Berrien County courthouse here Friday to be married, she said, when they began arguing whether to postpone the wedding one day.

Suddenly, according to Miss Bauder, Buke ended the discussion with a right to her mouth. The bride-to-be marched to the sheriff's office.

Judge Webster Sterling fined Buke $10 and $14.45 costs on an assault and battery charge after he pleaded guilty.

County Clerk Don Pears is still holding the marriage license.

Body of Third Boy Recovered From River

ORANGE—(AP)—The body of Don Talmage Jordan, 11, of Moscow, Texas, one of three boys drowned Thursday morning when the car in which they were being chased by an Orange policeman plunged into the Sabine River, was recovered Saturday at 3:15 p.m.

Bodies of the two other victims were recovered earlier. A fourth boy in the car was saved.

Jordan's body was buried in mud at a depth of about 35 feet.

It was recovered with specially constructed grappling hooks about 90 feet from the river bank in the municipal turning basin. It will be sent to Moscow for funeral and burial services.

The body of Gene Dorel Shelby, 13, drowned at the same time, was recovered the same day and taken to Moscow for burial. The body of Elvin Earl Borders, 17, driver of the car, was taken to Austin.

Sherrill Ray Jordan, 15, brother of Don Talmage, was the only survivor.

man who not only was a "nice fellow and a good neighbor," but a man who is capable of handling the city affairs at large as well as those of his own ward.

Ward 4 later chose Paronto unanimously and voted to back him for both elections. Named to the committee to meet with Ward 3's committee on the selection of a mayoralty candidate are: Nat Lunsford, Ed Scott, Roy Holt, A. A. Proctor and W. J. Ulrich. It was also learned that A. C. Troop, district manager of the Fox Rig and Lumber Co., will be endorsed for mayor by voters of the Fourth Ward.

The committee of three named by voters of the Third Ward are: Leon Cook, V. P. Miller and C. D. Knight.

While Ward 4 has not named any future meeting date, Ward 3 voters will meet again at the Baker School at 8 p. m. Friday, when a fully organized body will be set up and committees named.

R. F. McCalip, acting chairman of the Ward 3 meeting Friday, expressed pleasure at the unexpected large turn-out, but said that more residents of the ward should turn out at the next meeting. He added that a wider interest in the election and civic affairs as a whole is beginning to show up in the ward.

As yet neither the two named candidates for commissioner has circulated their petitions for signatures, but will do so within the next few days. They will need at least four names to the petitions to make the 5 percent of the total vote cast at the last general city election when only 69 ballots were tabulated.

In the meantime, voters of Ward 2 are being notified of a similar meeting to be held at 7:30 p. m., Monday in the District Court room to select a candidate for city commissioner.

Many voters still remain under the impression they are selecting candidates for alderman. This is not so. The title is commissioner. Besides, many voters also were under the impression that they were electing their men on the spot. This also is incorrect. They are selecting a man to run for city commissioner from their respective ward, or in other words, to have his name placed on the ballot. The commissioners will be elected for a temporary term on the Feb. 25 election and then will have to run again for election for a two-year term at the regular city election April 1.

late governor-elect, that the Legislature elect him to his father's term. It appeared intended to spike Talmadge campaign argument that Arnall would repudiate verbal pledges if seek to hold office another four years.

Commenting on Arnall's qualified resignation, Herman Talmadge said: "That is just another effort by Gov. Arnall to dictate his successor as governor, in order that he may control him. I am confident that when the Legislature elects me governor that Gov. Arnall will comply with the law."

Lieut.-Gov.-elect M. E. Thompson, who says the Legislature is without authority to elect an alternate to Gene Talmadge, and who claims enough assembly support to defeat Herman, declined comment on Arnall's move.

SENATE

1. The Ball-Taft-Smith bill, by Republican Senators Ball (Minn), Taft (Ohio) and H. Alexander Smith (NJ). This would delay serious strikes 60 days, outlaw jurisdictional and organizational strikes, require unions to make financial reports, and do other things.

2. The Ball bill to break up industry-wide bargaining.

3. The Ball bill to outlaw various forms of the closed shop. Senator Byrd (D-Va) also has introduced an anti-closed shop bill, but he is not on the Labor Committee and Ball's version probably will get more consideration.

4. A resolution by eight Democratic Senators to create a 20-man commission to study the labor relations field, particularly the problem of crippling nation-wide strikes, and recommend legislation before March 15. This was one of President Truman's proposals.

Legislature

spending. They wil also recall campaign promises that they will get more money.

Early demands for more money will stem from legislators carrying the ball for school teachers and state employes whose stipends were fixed two years ago and who meanwhile have been taking an inflationary beating. Sens. G. C. Morris of Greenville and A. M. Aiken, Jr., of Paris, announced they would seek emergency bonuses of $300 each for 15,550 rural aid schol teachers.

They will also seek an extra one-cent per gallon on gasoline to be earmarked for farm-to-market roads.

Rep. C. S. McLellan of Eagle Lake plans a natural gas transaction tax estimated to bring between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000 annually.

Here are some of the other topics that are almost sure to strike fire if they are introduced as expected:

Legislative redistricting—Southern and Western legislators try again to force House and Senate to follow the constitutional mandate requiring redistricting every 10 years. This mandate has been ignored recently.

Pari-mutuel betting—Sen. Gus Strauss will urge return of legalized horse race betting, legalization and taxing of slot machines, sale of liquor by the drink. This could develop into the session's loudest fuss.

Conservation—Proposals are expected limiting the fact-finding functions of the Railroad Commission. Other proposals are in sight to extend water regulation laws to underground supplies in addition to the existing statutes on surface water disposal.

Labor—Legislation looms to abolish the closed shop. Labor groups will fight this and come up with their own proposals to protect the right to bargain collectively.

Veterans legislation—Several outright bonus bills have been talked of, and one of Gov.-Elect Jester's project is a veterans affairs commission. The veterans land amendment will also require enabling legislation.

Aeronautics—The new-born State Aeronautics Commission will seek expanded powers and financing, and major airlines have already indicated they will fight.

Education—There is a reported effort to unseat State School Supt. L. A. Woods by making the office appointive (by the State board of education) rather than elective. In thiss ame category, the amount of aid to rural schools, the per capita apportionment and related questions of salaries, will take up a great deal of legislative attention.

Speedy Decision in Lamarr Case Denied

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Hedy Lamarr has lost her attempt to get a court decision in a movie contract suit before the birth of her baby, due about March 11.

The Superior Court held with Producer Arnold Pressburger that it would be better for Hedy to wait until after the birth to try her suit in which she wants release from a contract to make a picture for Pressburger.

Hedy's lawyers argued that her health would be best served if she had all her financial affairs settled before the birth. Her doctor, John Vrunwink, testified for her. She is the wife of Actor John Loder.

GOOD RECORDS ARE MEANT TO BE BEATEN

★ The infantile death rate in the United States is very low. From 1934 to 1936 we ranked seventh in the world, led only by New Zealand, Holland, Australia, Norway, Switzerland, and Sweden.

Yet 70,000 infants die annually in the first month of life, and 53,000 more from the second to the twelfth month. How many of these precious infants might have lived had their mothers had adequate prenatal care under the direction of a competent physician?

It is now up to the mothers to take advantage of the knowledge and skill of the physician during the trying months of pregnancy. We are ready to supply the needed dietary supplements and other medication ordered by your physician.

Week's Activities

JAYCEES—Time was devoted to discussion of the forthcoming Jaycee-sponsored West Theatre presentation of "The Shining Hour." It will be Feb. 27, 28 . . . . The Jaycee installation banquet-dance will be held Tuesday night. (See separate story in this edition.) Jack Nimmo is the in-coming president.

ROTARY—Charles Thomas, manager of West Theatre, outlined the history of that newly-formed organization for this area. He presented one of his singers, Miss Ethel Korosy, who sang two solo numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. A. Yoder. The Rev. B. A. Norris had charge of the program.

LIONS—Members turned to a little levity this week with a skit enacting a day in the Chamber of Committee office. Art Teed played the part of Chamber Manager Red Wedgeworth, and Jean Pratt, club sweetheart, played the part of Mrs. Margaret Payne, Chamber secretary. . . . A girls' trio from the High School sang three numbers. Members of the trio were Alverna Miller, Bunnie Shelton, and Elinor Carruth. They were accompanied at the piano by Gwen Weston.

KIWANIS—K. C. Watkins introduced Mrs. Roy A. Webb who showed her ability at the piano with three numbers, and then an encore. . . . The speaker was a member of the club, the Rev. Clyde Smith, who recently came here as First Methodist Church pastor. Laying the groundwork for his short talk with what he imagined was the inspiration for the song, "Old Man River," he said that there must be a purpose in the order of man's life, but said that there are some events which "roll" man on inevitably. He spoke of life as just rolling along, expressing the belief that time will work out many problems. "Time in our 'old man river' will work out a great many things that man could have done very little about," he said. Life finally, he stated, empties into the "gulf, which is eternity," and it is not matter of 60 or 70 years. It goes forever. Summing up, he said, "Be unselfish as we serve, and say 'Roll on, Old Man River, Roll on.'"

Writer Discusses Economic Report

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON— (AP) —President Truman, in his report to Congress, gave a lecture on what makes this country's wheels go round.

Here it is, boiled down, for it contains a warning for 1947.

The ability of people to buy things depends upon how much money they make, how much credit they can get, and how much money they've saved.

Prices have gone up, higher than wages. Some people have dipped into their savings. And a lot are buying on credit or installments.

But business in 1946 turned out more goods than in any previous peacetime year.

In 1947 production may be as much as five percent higher than in 1946.

If the people can buy up the goods produced, the country can stay prosperous.

But they won't be able to, if prices are too high. And they are too high. So they should come down.

Mr. Truman can't force them down. That's up to business.

Prices are out of line with wages, having risen too much. Of course, higher wages all around would mean people could buy all the goods made.

But higher wages all around probably would mean higher prices and then people would be back where they started.

The whole point in what he's saying is this:

If prices are too high—in relation to wages—people can't buy what they'd like to buy.

If they can't buy, business will have to slow up making goods.

A slowup in turning out goods would throw people out of work.

The more people out of work, the fewer goods can be bought.

And so on—with the circle getting wider all the time and the country slipping into a depression.

ABOARD AN AIRPLANE NEAR-ING DENVER — — Pace has turned the old horse of the Army Air Corps into a flying clothes horse.

They've gone at it over the C-47 again, and her back in commercial harness just like a doughboy buck sergeant returned to his former job shoe store.

She no longer wears a painted robe of tatters—here drab. Her sides are sleek, and inside she is cushioned soft and clean.

Outside in the darkness the two study props whirl through the charted air, the certainty of a velvet land—here warmth and light and power wait. And the sleek soft custom stretch out in comfortable seats—dly passing the time until journey end.

Where is the mystery and adventure? They don't have done this to the C-47 once raffish sky queen of the air, the American ambassador of wings.

What a gal she is! She carried a thousand things Army troops all over the world—Plasma and food for "Vinegar" in Burma and China, parts to help Mark Clark turn the German tide of Salerno—one to keep "Old Blood and Guts" roaring across France—the battered Nazi legions.

She brought the wounded, who wept in gratitude—the sanctuary of her thighs—and marked her with blood and—d.

She left her marks in fields of new romance—Karachi and Karachi—Bizarte and Bari, Thelepte—Termo, Cairo and Hongkong.

It was something to ride her in those days. Not piloted by trained men—pretty as chauffeurs. They was squired by slouchy leather-eted young Gypies who could overloaded her in a way would make a safety expert squirm—in his swivel chair—he danger meant less to—than the fact the guys needed the supplies.

Your passport—hello" and the need for a ticket didn't have to have tickets—until they "organized" the way. When the trip was over, waded a quarter of a mile—mud or sand to the opposite.

It all seemed—then, but everybody was to fix. And now looking back—wonderful in a way than—er return.

They will—soon will give away to—efficient planes. Well—fabulous day. But the—uld have brought the—ck. They took out the fun when they put the cushions back in.

They should have taken the old girl out when the war was over and shot her through both engines and left her there on the forgotten fields of her glory.

Week's Activities

JAYCEES—Time was devoted to discussion of the forthcoming Jaycee-sponsored West Theatre presentation of "The Shining Hour." It will be Feb. 27, 28 . . . . The Jaycee installation banquet-dance will be held Tuesday night. (See separate story in this edition.) Jack Nimmo is the in-coming president.

ROTARY—Charles Thomas, manager of West Theatre, outlined the history of that newly-formed organization for this area. He presented one of his singers, Miss Ethel Korosy, who sang two solo numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. A. Yoder. The Rev. B. A. Norris had charge of the program.

LIONS—Members turned to a little levity this week with a skit enacting a day in the Chamber of Committee office. Art Teed played the part of Chamber Manager Red Wedgeworth, and Jean Pratt, club sweetheart, played the part of Mrs. Margaret Payne, Chamber secretary. . . . A girls' trio from the High School sang three numbers. Members of the trio were Alverna Miller, Bunnie Shelton, and Elinor Carruth. They were accompanied at the piano by Gwen Weston.

KIWANIS—K. C. Watkins introduced Mrs. Roy A. Webb who showed her ability at the piano with three numbers, and then an encore. . . . The speaker was a member of the club, the Rev. Clyde Smith, who recently came here as First Methodist Church pastor. Laying the groundwork for his short talk with what he imagined was the inspiration for the song, "Old Man River," he said that there must be a purpose in the order of man's life, but said that there are some events which "roll" man on inevitably. He spoke of life as just rolling along, expressing the belief that time will work out many problems. "Time in our 'old man river' will work out a great many things that man could have done very little about," he said. Life finally, he stated, empties into the "gulf, which is eternity," and it is not matter of 60 or 70 years. It goes forever. Summing up, he said, "Be unselfish as we serve, and say 'Roll on, Old Man River, Roll on.'"

The couple left following the reception for Austin, where the bride will complete this semester's work at the University of Texas. After February 1, the couple will be at home at Tulsa, where both will attend Tulsa University.

Mrs. Halter is a '46 graduate of Pampa High School. Mr. Halter also graduated from High School here, where he lettered in football, basketball and track. He served 27 months in the U. S. Navy with duty in the Pacific. He enrolled at Tulsa University in 1945 and has lettered two years on the Golden Hurricane football team.

2 Meetings Put on Chamber Calendar

SHAMROCK—(Special) — Members of the Chamber of Commerce have been called for a general meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 at the U-Drop Inn. The 1947 program will be presented and discussed.

On Friday night, Feb. 21, the annual membership banquet will be held. George Gheen, New York City speaker, will be a guest. Members will bring their wives and other guests, it was said.

Postoffice Figures In Comparable Gain

SHAMROCK — (Special) — The Shamrock postoffice sold $3,124.84 worth of postage stamps during December to exceed the figure for the corresponding month in 1945 by $150.75, Postmaster Flake George has announced.

The last quarter of 1946 showed a drop in total receipts of about 2 percent under the last three months for the previous year, Postmaster George said, and the receipts for the entire year slumped $3,131.75 under 1945's all-time high.

SHAMROCK, (Special)—Miss Joy Williams, Wheeler County 4-H winner of the Santa Fe Award, which was a trip to Chicago and the 4-H Club Congress, has returned.

"I have never enjoyed myself so much in my life," declared Joy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milt Williams, and student at West Texas State College, Canyon.

"We went to ten banquets in all. We saw Spike Jones and his City Slickers, James Melton, Ma Perkins, the All Girl Orchestra, Harry Wismer and many others."

march of dimes . . .

We all have fun dancing, playing in various sports and just having a lot of fun on our two legs. We don't think too much about them until something happens to one of them and then we really begin to get gray headed.

But there is a group of children who are disabled, most of them for life. They are not asking any physical aid in their fight for life, but just a small financial gift.

This week is called "The March of Dimes." Give a dime—a dollar. Help some cripple look to the future with hope instead of despair.

We used to look at time as a thing that never seemed to pass; but now that we are entering into a new year, we wonder where the old one went in such a hurry. Now that finally we have reached 1947, we look back into 1946 with a mixed feeling—of joy and melancholy.

We, the classes of '47 and '48 and '49 have seen the active seniors of 1946 pass on in their own way, each to become known as "an alumnus of Pampa High School." Then, too, with the rapid passing of the summer months, we saw a new class enter our ranks—and after a brief period we ceased to refer to them as "lead heads" and the like, but called them "fish". We came to appreciate their spirit and plain cooperation; we even went so far as to think, at times, that they might someday have just about as good a class as our own; but not quite.

Then again we look back at all our activities—the football games with their pep rallies, and the parties, the honors, and what ever else we did all through the year. In November we saw a swell guy leave and a swell guy take his place—as principal. So it was with everything—teachers and students left and teachers and students came—we won football games and we lost football games—we passed and we flunked—

But that was 1946 and now it is 1947. In this year as in last we shall again lose a class—a class that at the time will seem so vitally essential—but as the class of 1950 joins us, we shall forget. That's the way with time though—it plays tricks on sentiment. Beginning next September the class of 1948 will rule supreme for a year, and those of the rest of the classes are looking forward to their leadership as they appear loaded with potentialities in every field. That is the future however, and of it we can only dream and predict.

And predict we will do. In 1947 everything will be different. We shall have a school pulling together as never before in its history. We shall lose a great class and in turn—gain one. The student Council that did so well in '46 shall do that much better in '47. We shall have championship football team as well as a top-notch basketball and track squads. In general we shall profit by our mistakes and each of us shall take his place in schol history. The classes of PHS pulling together will make the most of the year of 1947—Time Marches On!

glorious semester . . .

A grand semester is coming to a close and a bang up finale it is too with exams to finish off. This was the semester that opened with bright mornings and sultry afternoons but ended with snow and biting freezing weather. It was a well filled eighteen weeks of study and activities, but the semester ahead will be something to look forward to. Those parties and dates are pleasant memories of our past, but we'll all look forward to pleasures yet to be experienced. Our memoirs can be enriched by this time to come if we chose to make it worthwhile. The end of it will find us again under sunny skies and rising temperatures; graduation exercises and plays; but that isn't what will make it a success. Instead it's what we put into it, and the more we give the bigger dividends we'll receive. So let's really make it a success by letting one of our foremost resolutions be to strive more toward the making of a bigger and better finish of a grand and glorious schoolyear.

school cleaned . . .

During the holidays a gleaning project was carried on throughout PHS, which included moping the floors, repairing all broken windows, walls, etc., varnishing the band room and gym floors, and washing the blackboards. Were you in on the working end of this project that you are so ready to arrange?

A certain amount of deterioration is expected and looked for in a building used as much as Pampa High, but why make the additional work which always seems to come?

A vote of thanks to our friends who keep this a place to be proud of and we hope all the students will back them in their work. B. B.

First Sections Mailed By Annual to Steck

The Pampa High School annual is progressing rapidly under the direction of Miss Olive Carter, sponsor.

Already the first twenty-eight pages have been finished by the staff and were sent off Friday to the Steck Company in Austin.

Included in these pages are the junior, sophomore and freshman class sections. Some of the division sheets and snap pages were sent also.

Probably the most important feature of the annual is the cover, and the staff promises that the cover for this year's annual will prove by far the best. It has the padded cover, but the color and the design will remain a secret until the books are distributed among the students in May.

Other pictures that have been taken but not finished yet are the class favorites and the pin-ups.

During the next week the staff will work on the athletic section and will complete the snap shot pages.

Tentative Schedules Made For Semester Enrolling

The re-enrollment for the 1947 semester was begun Wednesday afternoon in home room meeting. The students were given schedules for the second semester and they were counseled by their home room teachers as to their subjects and schedule for the next semester.

Small changes, such as dropping a semester course and taking a new one in the same period, will be made by the home room teacher. If a student knows that he is failing a course and must rearrange his schedule accordingly, this is made through the office with Mr. Frank Wilson, principal, or Mrs. Lou Roberts, registrar.

Home room meetings were held Thursday and Friday so that further work could be done on the schedules. The home room teacher was to present to the office a tentative schedule for each student.

After the semester exams the teacher will check the schedules against the grades to see if everything checks.

The students' last spring and in September gave their preference as to their subjects, and 75 percent of the students are already taken care of when they make out their tentative schedules Wednesday.

This new plan of enrolling was instituted last spring. The student was given a schedule with the teacher and subject and he put down his courses and the choices of teachers. Also, an alternate course was put down in case he was unable to get his first choice.

Pampa Cagers Take Three Games From Perryton and Morse Friday

Scoring a total of 131 points and limiting three opponents to 63, the Harvester "A" and "B" squads combined with a snappy Gorilla five to take in all three wins of a triple feature in the local gym Friday night.

The Gorillas raked in the first win of the evening by trouncing Perryton's "B" squad 30-18. The future Rangers found Dick Livingston's five a little too fast and not once did they threaten the lead. It was the "sharp-shooting" of Malcolm Douglas and the defensive play of center Jimmy King that spelled the difference for the Pampans. Douglas took top honors with ten points and King followed with nine.

The Harvester "B" string kept its three year winning streak intact by handing Morse a decisive 54-18 defeat. The reserves were fast to start and never stopped as they led at the half 33-4. In the final period Morse came to life by sinking 13 points but it was too little and too late. Griffin led the scoring with nine points and close behind with eight were Harold Anderson and Harbord Cox.

Finishing the perfect night for Pampa, the Harvesters shellacked a fighting Perryton five 47-27.

The well planned Harvester offensive, led by Hernandez and Fagan, coupled with the great rebounding of Davis and Speer to keep the Rangers in the hole most of the night. It was only after trailing 40-13 in the fourth quarter that the bewildered cowboys attempted to rally but this proved futal as the Harvesters lead was too great. Speer led the scoring with 12 points followed by Perryton's Keith Flowers with 11 and Hernandez and Fagan with ten and eight points respectively.

Band Jackets Arrive Party Given by Band

At last after a year of anticipation, the members of the Pampa High School band have received their eagerly awaited band jackets.

The jackets were ordered in November of 1945 and were supposed to arrive in May of 1946. However, ask any proud owner of one of those jackets if they were worth waiting for and you will receive an emphatic "Yes".

The jackets are reversible. One side is Harvester green with bright gold colored sleeves. Also on this side is the large letter P which has stripes representing years of band work. The other side is a soft beige suede accented only by the green and gold jersey wristlets and tight filling band around the neck and waist.

The band semester party was held Friday night in the high school cafeteria. The entertainment committee, headed by Dan Byers, presented such games as ping pong and shuffle board during the evening.

Dancing was included on the program also. The record player was used to play the band's own recordings of music, both "hot and sweet".

Cokes and doughnuts were served throughout the evening.

Admission was by ticket only. The tickets were sold to band members only, although it was permissible to bring guests. Over a hundred band members and guests attended.

Spearman President Of Local Hi-Y Chapter

John Spearman was elected Hi-Y president in a very close race last Thursday, January 9.

Richard Scheig, with the second highest number of votes, automatically became the vice president. Other officers elected were Billy Tarpley, secretary; Warren Jones, treasurer; and Bill Bain, parliamentarian.

Meetings during the second semester will be held in the homes of the members.

Mr. C. T. Hightower, the Hi-Y sponsor, concluded the meeting by explaining his appreciation for the work of the first semester officers.

Bill Bain will be in charge of the program, "The Place of Christianity in Today's World," at the next meeting, January 16.

DEFINITION

By ROBERT McDONALD

Joy,
In a small boy,
Is a clear ringing bell.
Grief,
Is a torn leaf,
To be scorned and unwanted.
Pain,
Is a dark rain,
Cloudy, harmful and dim.
Love,
Is a golden dove,
Soaring in a locked tower of happiness.
The earth,
Is a mirth,
In which is joy, grief, pain, and love.

Friends, Romances Result Book Shortage

Friends, romances, and enemies have been made by the members of the algebra II classes because of the shortage of books.

New books were to be bought this year; and an order and most of the old books were sent to the publication house. As it always happens, the new books didn't arrive; and the few books that were left are being shared by two and upwards to six people at a time.

The seats are conveniently moved to bring the books into eye range and it is quite common to find a girl sitting rather close to a boy, "looking at the book."

When one of these precious little items, this statement will undoubtedly be corrected by all the students who are now struggling in the first semester) is lost, this is where partnerships are dissolved.

But algebra is an interesting subject (another incorrect statement) and books or no books, one still fails.

Happy is the house that shelters a friend. . . . Emerson

Poets Get Recognition In Texas Anthology And National Contest

Betty Pate, Robert McDonald, and Mary Beth Wright, students in Mrs. Edith Rankin's freshmen English classes, received honorable mention for poems sent to the contest sponsored by the National High School Poetry Association of Los Angeles, California.

Five other students in the same classes received certificates for their poems. They are Jimmie Hagerty, Dale Richardson, Mona Cox, Odevern Spencer, and Marlene Swafford.

All of these poems will be published in the Texas Anthology of High School Poetry.

This contest is held each year and is open to high school students all over the nation.

The three poems that received honarble mention are printed elsewhere on this page.

"Big Hearted Herbert" To Be Given Jan. 30-31

"Big Hearted Herbert" will be presented by the senior class January 30 and 31 at the High School Auditorium. This will be the first class play to be given on the newly decorated and lighted stage. This stage is said to be the best equipped in the Panhandle which will make for a more enjoyable performance.

Practice has been continued during the week after a recess for the holidays with Floyd Brandt as Herbert Kalness and June Southwick as his wife, Elizabeth, leading the able cast.

The play centers on the Kalness family with Herbert as the domineering (be thinks) of the family. Elizabeth is his pretty, charming, patient wife who always sides with her children when they are having trouble with Herbert.

The Kalness children are Herbert Jr., Robert and Alice played by Lawrence Baines, Tom Darby and Marjorie Lawrence respectively.

Herbert Jr., is a handsome, intelligent high school boy who gets in trouble with his father over the car. Robert, his younger brother, is always making wise cracks and meddling in other people's business.

Alice falls in love with Andrew Goodrich, a young handsome lawyer, played by Orlin Allen.

Others in the cast are as follows: Martha, the maid, Mildred McClendon; Amy Lawrence, Bunnie Shelton; Jim Lawrence, Bob Love; Mr. Goodrich, Weldon Mitchell; Mrs. Goodrich, Edith Morrow; Mr. Havens, Isaac Huval; Mrs. Havens, Joanne Thompson.

Head property manager is Frances Jean Gilbert and her helpers are Betty Jean Mosley, Mary Lane, and Gloria Jay. Prompters are Bill Speer and Margie Taylor.

Behind the Eight Ball

By RICHARD HUGHES

The Harvesters are looking better as the season progresses; and if they should continue to improve, it may be curtains for the Sandies. When Amarillo wins in football, Pampa always wants to come out of the top end of the basketball standings. "Turn about is fair play."

The highly rated state champion El Reno Indians found the Golden Sandstorms too much as they lost two games during the Christmas holidays. El Reno had two starters, one of them an all-stater, which might indicate that Pampa will have to be on their toes to beat the Sandies.

Five players who were either starters or high on the reserve list will start this year. Starting for Amarillo are Boone Pickens, Bob Henry, Larry Whartis, Bill Carter and Jewell McDowell. We hope that the Sandies discontinue their "ball stalling" activities as employed last year. If everybody played this type of basketball, fans would soon drop the sport like the proverbial "hot potato."

Basketball, like most other sports, is something that is mastered only after years of practice and a lot of actual game experience. "You've gotta start 'em young and raise 'em up right," and that is what the athletic department proposes to do.

A squad of 25 boys, from Junior High and the Freshmen class make up the Reapers. They entered conference play this week against Amarillo and have a schedule of ten games planned this year. The Gorillas have also garnered experience in spite of winning only two of their five games. Most of these games were against "A" high schools teams. Let's support coaches Davis and Livingston and heir future Harvesters.

Orchids to Bil Speer and Maurice Lockhart for receiving honorable mention in football by the Texas Sports writers. Bill was first string end on the all-district team and Lockhart was second team center.

Onions to those so called loyal Harvester rooters who always have "something else to do" on the nights that the Harvesters play at home.

The good attendance we have been having at our home basketball games is something we are all proud of. No matter what some say it is important to be back there rooting for our school's cagers.

(Let's keep it this way and really get behind our boys.

Animals are such agreeable friends --they ask no questions, they pass no criticism. . . . Eliot

Miss Stewart, Author and Lecturer, Gives Talk in Assembly, Thursday

"Reading and writing can be fun," stated Miss Anna Bird Stewart, noted author and lecturer who spoke to the assembly Thursday, January 9.

Miss Stewart attributes her start in the poetic field by her childhood love for stones and rocks. In order to avoid trouble with her mother she wrote a poem to remind herself not to look or to touch the stones. This was at the age of five; and gifted with a rare joy for writing, she continued her simple experiments with rhyme. A few years later she contracted the disease of malaria and for seven years she was confined to bed. It was during this period she received her self-education, especially in the field of literature. Back on her feet once more she lost no time in overtaking her original class.

Upon graduation Miss Stewart journeyed to New York City to undertake her work as author. Success was a slow process; and it was a few years before her first book, a collection of poems for young people, appeared. She followed this with eleven other collections, the most popular of which is considered her poem "Builder of Bridges"—a tribute to the men who build the nation's bridges.

Miss Stewart maintains that anyone can write, but to be successful at it, it is first necessary to study the art of writing and then to work hard at it.

She stated that while some people find it difficult to find a subject on which to write, it should be the easiest part of writing. The main sources of material for writing are what you see and hear or what somebody else has seen and done.

Miss Stewart addressed the entire student body during the first period assembly and then addressed the various English classes throughout the day. The classes asked questions concerning the various phases of creative writing, of journalism, and of Miss Stewart's association with the different popular authors.

glimpses of glamour

Santa must have been good indeed if one may judge by the boom in fashions this week. Everyone is showing off that new plaid skirt, sweater, or blouse on their friends.

Oh's and Ah's echo up and down the halls and delightful sighs are heard as the latest in color or cut is presented.

Katherine Crowly weighed high on the fashion scale last Tuesday in a divine plaid skirt of orchid, green and red against a white background combined with an orchid sweater and white pearl beads.

Last Friday the "Eight Semester Quintuplets" sported their colors in an exceedingly spectacular way. The Quintuplets wore six inch wide and five feet long bows of different colors with skirts to match. The members are Jean Pratt who wore aqua; Beverly Baker, resplendent in red; Edith Morrow, shinning with yellow; Margie Lawrence, exotic in fuschia; Marjie Taylor, lovely in green. All of the girls wore moccassions and if you don't memorize their colors you'll surely be at a loss.

Oh, those football jackets. The boys received their jackets first period Tuesday morning for last year's work.

Speaking of sweaters, Donald West really takes the prize in a beautiful sweater with a red and yellow figured front and solid blue back with yellow sleeves.

Mary Lou Mazey was beautiful one day last week in a bold red suit with a pin of silver bows connected with a chain.

The royal blue corduroy suit of Ann Spencer's was a dream. She added a melon blouse and a gold choker which made a delightful contrast.

Miss Edith Kral sported a lovely lapel watch as her evidence of Christmas. While on the subject of watches, the pink-gold of Mildred McClendon's is really beautiful and the band is one of the newest types.

Frances Gilbert, Joann Thompson and Helen Kiser are flashing beautiful diamonds—from Santa, that is! Frances' white gold mounting sets off the two large stones and smaller side stones to a definite advantage. Joann's has for the sides a flower design with diamond insets and yellow gold mounting. Helen's is also a beautiful stone with two side cuts in the gold mounting.

Enjoyable Time Spent Over Xmas Holidays

"Oh, I had the most wonderful, most super time ever!" Exclamations like this have been heard all week long, and then follows a long discussion of what each did during the Christmas holidays.

Most of the girls were talking about "the cutest boys home from college and military schools." When Anita Lane was asked what she did over the holidays, she could only say with a sign, "Go with Bobby Jack Davis," who was home from military school.

Carol Sloan did her "good deed" by spending most of her time visiting Leona Mills who had the mumps all during the holidays.

Pool seems to be all that the boys ever think about (am I kidding?) as Buddy Sawyer, Phillip Anderson and countless others spent most of their time shooting pool.

Becaue of the weatherman, Mrs. Hortense Miller didn't get to go to Kansas as she had planned.

Catherine Standish just couldn't think of a thing that she did over the holidays. Surely with two weeks out of school, Catherine, you must have done something. Just goes to show what school can do for you—when you're out, you are so lost you can't do anything.

Work and study was all Irma Lee Perkins was able to get done. (No wonder she's so smart!)

Mr. Jack Nichols said he did practically everything, while Naneen Campbell made the most of the snow by making a snowman.

Jerry Barber and Shirley Easter spent their time "just loafing."

Girls' Volleyball Starts With Light Workout

The girls volleyball club met Tuesday afternoon for their regular workout. Alice Jean Robinson, who headed the uniform committee, reported on the prices and availability of the uniforms. They chose green blouses and white shorts.

Reba Joyce Bain was appointed head of the committee to draw up anld accept the constitution. Alice Jean Robinson, Eleanor McNamara and Avis Kelley were selected as her assistants.

The club plans to play their first out-of-town game the second week after exams. They intend to play such towns as White Deer, Panhandle, Lefors, Miami and Amarillo, whom they played last year, and also such neighboring towns as Borger, Phillips, Shamrock and Canadian.

Their practice has consisted of jumping rope (for limbering up), serves, passes, set-ups, net recovery, and spikes. This year they hope that there will be more Pampa High students out to see their home games and cheer them on.

The basketball class tournaments sponsored by Miss Dorothy Hoyle played off their finals Tuesday afternoon. The third period team led by Reba Bain triumphed over Virginia Snider's first hour squad with a 33-28 victory. The game moved faster during the first period than at any other time. The third period's passing attack was well planned and allowed their forwards, Dorothy Jones, Edeline Pryor and Jeanine Conyers to get up close to the goal and score. The first hour guards, Margaret Walker, Lavoria Morie, Virginia Symonds, Mary Conklin and Betty Hawthorne each played a half and while in they all played a swell game.

Edeline Pryor led the game as high point man.

Umpires for the game were Dorothy Hoyle and Eleanor McNamara. Mary Kretzmierer served as scorekeeper, and Martha Maguire acted as time keeper. They played four seven-minute quarters.

Test Schedule Brings Gloomy Atmosphere

The long faces seen in the halls of PHS this week could have been caused by the publishing of the first semester test schedule.

Tests begin Tuesday, January 14, at 1:00 o'clock and are over Thursday, January 16, at 4:00 o'clock. Come to school only when you have a test assigned.

Tests scheduled for Tuesday are as follows. 1:00 to 2:30—English and salesmanship; 2:30 to 4:00—English IV, commercial geography and speech.

Wednesday, January 15, tests are: 9:00 to 10:30—math; 10:30 to 12:00—secretarial training, mechanical drawing and home economics; 1:00 to 230—history; and 2:30 to 4:00—bookkeeping, wood shop and drama.

Thursday, January 16, tests are: 9:00 to 10:00—science; 10:30 to 12:00—journalism, languages, Bible and sociology; 1:00 to 2:30—Texas history and Algebra II; and 2:30 to 4:00—girls physical education.

Reports cards will be given out in home room Monday, January 20.

Bad Impression Held About American Youth

by Patty Bolin

With the returning servicemen came discouraging rumors of the impressions that Europeans had of American youth. It was said that they beleived us to be brainless and selfish brats who engaged in despicable pastimes. This could not be true! I frankly didn't believe it, so I resolved to discover the truth. Fortunately, I was able to correspond with a fine Dutch lady; and in exchange of letters I found that the stories I had heard were absolutely true!

This Dutch woman, who speaks several languages and is at the present helping teach Dutch children, who is enriched with the culture of Europe, and who may be regarded as symbolic of the Old World, writes, "I hope it never will be here like some young people of America are doing. We have heard here of bad things in America and bad situations with young people. I understand it very well, there are bobby-soxers. I couldn't find the word in the dictionary, perhaps you will give me a synonym, but I understand what it means." Don't laugh. It isn't funny. It's pitiful. If this gracious old lady is so misled, what can the common people, the young people think?

How can the United States spread peace and democracy if the people of the world regard our way of living with contempt and disgust?

This is a problem that presents a challenge to each and every one of us. It will take patience, kindness and understanding on our part. And when we have disproved these fears and rumors-and only then-can we, the bobby-soxers of today, take our places as leaders in a world of tomorrow.

Begin Studying Today To Pass On 'Morrow

Now is the time for all good students to start studying for exams.

Projects are finished, notebooks are being handed in and everyone knows exam time is here again.

Study! Study! Study! Or you will not be ready when those anxiously awaited days arrive. I know that you are all looking forward to them.

As that inevitable time draws nearer, many students are heard wishinging for exemptions; others are cramming as fast as possible in order to be better prepared; and all students are worried about their possibilities of passing.

There is only one consolation in the thought of taking exams, and that is thinking of how happy you will be when you are finished.

The Little Harvester will not be published next week due to the semester exams. It will appear the following week with all the news, editorials, pictures and columns that you know so well.

Projects Show Work By English Students

A great variety of term projects was turned in Monday by the students in Miss Anne Louise Jones' senior English classes. The projects centered chiefly around some phase, idea or figure in English literature.

Margie Taylor dressed a doll in beautiful wine velveteen to represent the great Queen Elizabeth. Small multicolored beads adorned the sleeves and bodice of this dress. The collar was made of white cotton, frilled and full, like the many pictures of Elizabeth show. Frances Gilbert and Joan Sawyer took a later period and designed a lovely costume for a doll. They made the dress of deep rose velvet with matching hat.

A pageant theater was made by Bill Turpley and Charles Lockhart, complete with religious figures and bue velvet curtains. The eight-sided Globe theater was constructed by Lyman Osborne.

Stoke Poges Church with its yard and graves was made by Edith Morrow and Mildred McClendon. This church was immortalized in Thomas Gray's famous poem, "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard." This construction looked like a typical vine-covered stone church with a tall steeple. Leona McClendon also did a beautiful painting illustrating the poem.

Eight wall plaques of the most outstanding English authors were woodburned and then varnished over by Margaret Jones. Bobby McPherson made book ends and personalized them especially for Miss Jones by placing her initials on them. A typical old turnstill was made by Isaac Huvall.

A lovely drawing of Anne Hathaway's Cottage was done by Bob Oden. There were three literature maps of England made. Cecil Link was very original in placing English stamps around the border of his map.

Several plays, short stories, essays and poems were written and prepared by different students. An interesting booklet of sketches of authors and their lines was assembled by Bobbye Clements and Peggy Reno.

The students were asked to prepare a sheet with the number of each project and give their value of that student's work. This aroused interest and thus made it necessary for them to look at and enjoy other students' work.

Tri-Hi-Y Meet Plans Adult Advisory Board

The Tri-Hi-Y met Thursday night for a business meeting. Jean Pratt, president, presided.

The plan for an adult advisory board composed of three prominent business men chosen by the Hi-Y and one lady chosen by the Tri-Hi-Y was discussed and accepted.

Semi-formal initiation will be held the third Thursday in February in the Presbyterian Chapel. The pledging of the new members is to continue until that time.

The next meeting will be held jointly with the Hi-Y next Thursday night.

Art Class Is Formed For Second Semester

There will be a new subject offered this winter semester. An art class has been formed so all artists please take note.

Mr. Frank Wilson, principal, stated that there seemed to be a great amount of interest in school for an art class, so one has been formed to meet this interest.

Mrs. Sue Jackson, English teacher, is to be the instructor. Mrs. Johnson was affiliated with the art department in Corpus Christ several years ago, but is known to all of the PHS students as an English teacher. Mrs. Johnson has an art minor on her Master's degree.

This class will be open to all classifications. The class will be held the sixth period in room 218. A half unit a semester is to be given for this class.

"Seniors should take it only with special approval from the office," advised Mr. Wilson.

The second half of the course is to be given the first semester of next year.

Radio Program Gives Forecast for Future

Past events was the main theme of the radio program Friday afternoon. A future forecast was given by Hansel Kennedy, but the backward glance was narrated by Sue Follis.

The activities of the Student Council were reviewed by Richard Hughes. La Rue Kessler gave a complete coverage for the Glee Clubs and the A Cappella Choir, a synopsis of the Little Harvester was given by Edith Morrow.

Marjorie Lawrence briefly told of the Senior play with its complete cast. Completing the program was Hazel Nice who gave the sport news.

Reba Killion was master of ceremonies.

'Sigh'---They're Over Laughter Returns

Whew! The storm that has swept over the entire area of P. H. S. had subsided with the last bell of Friday. The six weeks' test were over!

All clouds are predicted to be rolled away by Monday and a variety of smiles and frowns will present themselves Wednesday at homeroom. Happy faces should start appearing about Friday afternoon when girls can once more say "Yes" in answer to dates. It is reported that teachers will once again assume a reasonable facsmile of human beings as work becomes easier. Students will again enter classes without the fear that they may never get out.

The over-all reports for PHS is a welcome change for the better during the next few weeks.

Flash! A warning. There is a terrific storm headed this way about January 17! Be prepared!

A Sonnet

By MARY BETH WRIGHT

What is a sonnet? 'Tis a pearly shell
That murmurs of the far-off murmuring sea,
A precious jewel carved most curiously,
It is a little picture painted well.

What is a sonnet? 'Tis a tear that fell
From the poet's hidden ecstasy.
A two-edged sword, a star, a song—Ah me!
Sometimes a heavy-tolling funeral bell.

A JOB FOR CONGRESS

If Congress is looking for a job we would like to suggest that the members look into the publicity agents now spending the taxpayers money to give themselves a pat on the back.

Government press agentry, which flowered under the New Deal to cost the nation's taxpayers more than $74,000,000 in the last fiscal year, faces drastic cuts from economy-minded members of the New Congress.

Official records show that in the last fiscal year there were 23,009 full-time employees engaged in tasks falling under "education, promotional and publicity" activities.

In addition, federal employees devoting more than one week but less than a full year to these activities totaled 22,769.

Criticism of the government's huge crops of press agents reached its peak during the OPA extension fight in Congress. Of the overall $74.8 million so-called "information" budget, $2.6 million was budgeted for OPA.

The GPA's press agents literally flooded the country with propaganda favoring extension of the price control law without change. To spread their propaganda they utilized the "grass-roots" organizations established originally as volunteer watch-dogs for price regulation.

Before the advent of the New Deal there was but one press representative at the White House, and an average of about one each at the ten established government departments.

LET 'EM SMOKE MARKS

The black market sale of cigarets by our military personnel has become such a serious threat to German economy and German currency that the occupation authorities are thinking of prohibiting the importation of American cigarets into that country.

We have a suggestion which we hope the authorities will consider before making their final decision. Instead of banning imports, why not send to Germany only those acrid sawmill sweepings, encased in paper cylinders, which passed for cigarets here during the wartime shortage. It would stimulate an otherwise dormant industry and create employment. And it would certainly make American cigarets one of the least desirable commodities on the continent of Europe.

Answering Readers' Questions On Unemployment

Mr. Otto Laupredht, Santa Ana, California, asks some questions concerning unemployment that might be in the minds of other readers. I will reproduce his six questions, some of which are in the form of statements rather than questions, and then answer them below:

"Mr. R. C. Hoiles states that the columns of the paper are open for questions on the causes of unemployment.

"(1) I for one wish to ask the gentleman what yardstick he would use in measuring the true and the fictitious earning power of all men, if a free market obtained?

"(2) How would he measure the owners of vast holdings who produce nothing but squander fortunes on themselves?

"(3) Depressions in the U.S.A. obtained long before labor unions "collective bargaining furore."

"(4) What standard of earning power would Mr. R. C. Hoiles set up for his own efforts and those of a know-nothing, common laborer who is forced to ask what appears silly questions to further his meager knowledge?

"(5) The third reason given in Mr. Hoiles' article raises the question, Whom else would he tax in order to support our government?

"(6) I hope to have these questions plainly answered, to enable me to envision a better, brighter and more enlightened One World of Peace and Good Will towards all men."

Answers

Answer to No. 1: There could be no fictitious earning under a free market.

The only way to measure the true value of all workers at a certain time and certain place is to have all jobs interchangeable. Then anyone who thinks another person is getting too much would be free to do the work for less. Thus the consumers would get more for their money. Then no one would get too much and no one would get too little.

Answer to No. 2: I presume he means by this question how we would measure the earnings of those who inherited wealth and "squandered" fortunes on themselves. If they produce no wealth, they have no earning power. This question was answered a couple of thousand years ago when Cicero asked if the working man would have been better off if the factory had not been built. As a matter of fact, if the parents of spendthrifts had not been permitted to give the wealth to whomever they desired, they undoubtedly would not have created it. The result would be that the whole world would be poorer, and the workers as a whole would have to take less wages because the parents of the spendthrifts did not produce and save wealth.

Of course, if the spendthrifts would use the wealth to create more, everyone would be better off, including the "squanderers," if we can define a squanderer. But if we took away from the parents the right to give this wealth as they please, we would take away their freedom. When we do not have freedom we do not have much production and everybody suffers.

Answer to No. 3: Certainly depressions existed in the United States before labor unions. Depressions are caused by things being out of balance—by misuse of bank credit, by class legislation such as tariffs, progressive taxation and discriminatory labor laws. Collective bargaining only adds to the severity of depressions and inflation.

Answer to No. 4: The earnings of myself and everyone else should be based on a free market. If anyone tries to change too much in order to make too much profit, he cannot sell his goods. He is inviting competition. If he tries to sell for too little, he cannot pay expenses and goes out of business. The earnings of anyone, however, have to be spent or reinvested in order to do the owner any good. Thus there is competition for labor and competition in selling. Thus both the worker and the consumer benefit by profits.

Answer to No. 5: I would have the government tax everyone who voluntarily wanted to pay taxes in order to have his life and property protected. I would have it done on exactly the same basis as the gasoline tax. We tax the poor who use the roads, by way of the gasoline tax, on the same unit rate per consumption of gasoline as we tax the rich. That is the way all taxation should be—in proportion to the service. Then everybody would be interested in government economy, the poor as well as the rich.

Now with progressive taxation the unthinking believe that there is some way of escaping indirect taxation. The real taxes a man pays are not his direct taxes but the difference between what he has to pay for goods because of bad taxes and bad government and what he would have to pay if taxes were in proportion to the service rendered by a good government with the consent of the government—a government that only tried to protect men's lives and property.

Answer to No. 6: His sixth paragraph is a worthy objective. I hope that I have answered his question in a manner that will help bring understanding and thus open the way toward peace and good will.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON

By RAY TUCKER

POPULAR—Leaders of business and industry visiting Washington during the holidays have brought a warning to Republicans that Harry S. Truman may be no presidential pushover in 1948.

They report that his post-election moves, such as his defiance of John L. Lewis his removal of controls on the American economic system and his tougher attitude toward Moscow, have made him extremely popular with the average citizen.

Most of these bearers of bad G. O. P. news were the sort of "economic royalists" who hated Franklin D. Roosevelt. They voted against him four times, and they would have voted against him again if they had been given the opportunity.

Unlike many conservative business men, these individuals did not support F. D. R. in 1944 for reasons associated with his conduct of the war afairs of state.

WARNING—But they admitted, in private discussions with their political chums, that they would probably vote for Mr. Truman as of today. They are still keeping their fingers crossed, waiting on the Supreme Court's disposition of the Lewis case. Mr. Truman's legislative program and final settlement of the peace treaties.

However, their present warning to optimistic Republicans is: "Don't discount Harry Truman! Produce a good legislative program on Capitol Hill and trot out your best man in 1948!"

KIDDED—General Douglas MacArthur has been kidded unmercifully for his exhibition of military showmanship and for strutting his stuff on land, on the water and in the air.

Despite his magnificent job of island-hopping American might from Australia to Tokyo, he is definitely unpopular with the Navy crowd.

During the holiday wassailing at Washington, the commander of the ship which spearheaded the invasion of Luzon told a story on "Mac" which helps to explain his unpopularity in naval circles.

The invading forces had obtained only a small beachhead, and the channel for pouring in men, weapons and supplies was only fifteen feet wide at low tide. It took furious and frantic work to shove in enough men and stuff to hold our scanty territory ashore. The junior grade lieutenant serving as beach-master (his superior officer had been killed) was a harassed man.

Suddenly he got a loud-speaker call that a distinguished General was about twenty feet off-shore, that his landing boat could not negotiate the shallow waters and that he wanted pontoons supplied so that he could walk on Luzon without wetting his feet.

WET—The beach-master exploded. Over the loud-speaker system, for everybody to hear, he yelled:

"Who does that so-and-so, General think he is? He ain't winning this war. I need more men, more weapons and more food through that channel. I haven't time to bother with pontoons. Let him wade ashore like the rest of us!"

And that is just what General Douglas MacArthur did. He reached Luzon with his feet all wet.

REACTION—Philip Murray is receiving plenty of evidence these days that many members of his most powerful and influential unions, especially in the heavier industries, have no stomach for another round of prolonged and payless strikes. The reaction obtained by his filed workers and district leaders from working men and their families marks a new and hopeful note in labor-management relations for the forthcoming critical year.

The sentiment against another series of industrial disturbances lies behind the fairly moderate tone which Mr. Murray adopted in his New Year's Day greeting to his followers. Besides the opposition which he has met within his own ranks, he is disturbed by the almost unanimous condemnation of the "Nathan report," which contended that industry generally could boost wages twenty-five percent without a corresponding increase in prices.

Control—Another deterrent is the attitude of leaders of the rival American Federation of Labor, which so far shows no intention of making heavy demands. In his recent conservations with his nation-wide representatives, President William Green has emphasized the need for preventing a price spiral that will offset recent pay envelope gains.

If living costs within the next few months behave as many economists predict, with accelerating production and buyers' restraint leading to a gradual decline, it is not believed in government or labor circles that there will be many troublesome walkouts.

The fact is that Mr. Murray himself is fearful of Congressional retaliation in the form of legislation. Some Capitol Hill spokesmen, including key G. O. P.-ers, have let him know that they will strive for passage of a "reasonable" bill if he agrees to keep his men "under control."

MACKENZIE'S Column

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

News item: The reported romance between England's charming young Princess Elizabeth and handsome Prince Philip of Greece has become the subject of political controversy in Britain.

News item: Field Marshal Montgomery, England's famous soldier, has been feted in Moscow, and the Soviet press is paying tribute to him as one of the world's outstanding commanders.

"And what," demands a reader, "is the relationship—if any—between Elizabeth's romance and Monty's ilonization in the Red capital? It sounds like a bad mixture of shoes—and ships—and sealing-wax—of cabbages—and kings."

Well, that's a fair question. There's a very definite association of ideas. A few days ago the London newspaper "pictorial" asked:

"What will be Russia's reaction to Elizabeth's engagement to a Prince whose identification and origin will scarcely be disguised by formal British citizenship? Or is the Russian reaction to such a personal matter of no real concern?"

That's it: What will Russia think? Why should Moscow be concerned with an affair of heart between two youngsters who are just starting out in life and have had no hand in international affairs?

The answer lies in the fact that the Prince is a Greek—and the Russian bear is claws-down on Greece. So are the little bears—Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria.

The point of this Communist hostility is clear. Greece is the only country of the Balkan peninsula which hasn't been brought under Red rule. Moreover, it's in a highly strategic politico-military position, and provides John Bull with his last foothold on the peninsula.

So both Moscow and London want the upperhand in Greece.

Because of this situation, the left wing of the British socialist (labor) party is uneasy about the possibility of the Prince marrying into the British Royal family.

Left-wing pressure has been receiving recognition from Prime Minister Attlee's government. It isn't that the tail is wagging the dog, but the tail certainly is demonstrating its importance. Thus we see London making gestures of amity towards Moscow.

That completes our circle and brings us back to Monty. Observers generally regard his visit to the Soviet Capital as a diplomatic mission of good will, and the warmth of his reception would seem to be an indication of the measure of his success.

ON LABOR ..... by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON— (NEA) —President Truman' state of the Union message and the Senate Republican conference labor program provide the first opportunity to see how close together and how far apart the two parties are on revising labor legislation.

Two specific references in the President's message drew applause. First was when he said there should be early legislation to prevent jurisdictional strikes. Second was when he said collective bargaining agreements should be faithfully adhered to by both parties.

But there is a lot more agreement than on those two points.

Another "unjustifiable labor practice" which the President mentioned was the secondary boycott. Labor unions use this kind of strike against an employer to make him stop handling parts of material produced by rival unions or non-union workers.

The Republican conference labor committee, consisting of Senators Taft, Smith and Ball, goes along with the President in opposition to the secondary boycott, but they go much further.

The President says there should be no blanket prohibition against boycotts. He would not deny unions the right to boycott to preserve their existence or any gains made through bargaining.

The GOP leaders would outlaw all boycotts, jurisdictional strikes and strikes conducted to force union recognition during organization of the workers. In the first draft of the revised Case Bill introduced in the Senate, these offenses would be punished by $5000 fines and a year's imprisonment.

The Republicans would go even further here, by authorizing anyone who suffered a loss from any of these union practices to sue in federal courts for triple damages.

And wildcat strikes would cause striking employes to lose their rights under the Wagner Act.

Employers would not have to rehire strikers in such cases.

NO DRAFT THREAT

Still another remedy which the President asked is legisaltion to provide machinery for arbitrating and settling disputes arising under a labor contract.

The Republicans would handle this one by permitting either management or unions to sue in federal court of enforcement of the contract and recovery of damages.

Republicans thinking goes along with the President on the need for extending Department of Labor machinery to assist in collective bargaining by mediation board on top of the present U. S. Conciliation Service. Whenever the board intervened in a dispute, there would have to be a 60-day cooling-off period. Employes who struck in this period would lose their rights to be rehired. Employers who violated the restriction could be cited for unfair labor practices under the National Labor Relations Act.

All proposals are pretty sketchy on what would be done if this machinery broke down.

The President did not renew his request of last year, that strikers against the government be drafted.

The President briefly mentioned the need to broaden social legislation to lessen the causes of workers' insecurity.

In their immediate program the Republicans have nothing to match this. But separately they will introduce bills to raise the minimum wage, set up a national health program, broaden Social Security coverage and provide better housing.

WHERE THEY PART

It is on the President's final recommendation—for the creation of a temporary joint commission of 12 congressmen and eight representatives of labor, management and the public to study industrial relations—that the two parties seem pretty far apart.

The President says such a commission should be able to report by March 15.

The Republicans in their policy statement say "such an investigation would take many months, even years, to produce legislative results, and there is no time for that." The Republican approach here is to take each labor problem, make it the subject for special congressional investigation and separate remedial action.

On these specific subjects, the Republicans seem prepared to go 'way beyond anything the Democrats have in mind.

The President mentioned only the need for preventing nation-wide strikes, improving the collective bargaining process, studying underlying strike causes.

The senators have in mind limiting the rights of supervisory employes to bargain collectively, overhauling the National Labor Relations Act, amending the Norris-LaGuardia Anti-Injunction Act, outlawing compulsory membership in unions, establishing federal standards for union organization, making unions financially responsible, and the writing of a new anti-monopoly act to apply to labor unions.

Jurist Rounds Out 30 Years of Service

W.R. Ewing Retires as Judge of 31st Judicial Dist.

To reminisce, perhaps, is one of the greatest of diversions, even though the past may have held something of heartache. Man, in a sense, makes his effort in life but to reach the day when he can look back upon his tasks with relived fervor.

Brushing against the imperfections of humanity can in no small way bring comfort—and doubly so if we can do something for those in distress. Serving the cause of society, carryinug out the mandates of its laws, which, as Calvin Coolidge said "men do not make . . . but discover(s) them," is probably one of the highest of missions.

So it is that William Rees Ewing, for 30 years a jurist to the people of the Texas Panhandle, has finally come to that place in his fairly eventful life when he can look back on his work. Although he is no longer "judge" in the literal sense, he will continue to be Judge Ewing, not only to those people who know him personally, but also to those who know him only by name. Thirty years is sufficient time to become venerated in the hearts of men. Venerated, even, to those who it has been his duty to sentence to prison. One such man sent him a Christmas card this past season.

Judge Ewing, plains-boy, rancher, military student, school teacher, and finally lawyer, at 71 is gray, and there are lines in his face. Because of an accident—and he emphasizes it is for that reason—he uses a cane; but he is still active. He outstrips many such younger men, and he is frequently seen at public events. That, he says, is probably an off-shoot from other days, when, as always, it was a prime necessity to meet and talk with people if the politician was to stay in public office.

Be that as it may, he has been the "choice of the people" for 30 years.

The Judge was born at Carleton, Mo., in 1875, moved with his family to New Mexico in 1887; and while there he attended school at the military academy at Roswell.

STENOGRAPHER

He came to Texas in 1893, when his father became a rancher near Higgins. Soon thereafter he moved to Canadian where he worked as a stenographer and studied law under the late Judge Hoover. He was admitted to the bar in 1900. He served as a county attorney in Oklahoma for about a year, and he was later the first court reporter for the 31st District Court.

In 1904 he formed a law partnership wth H. G. Hendrix, who was later district judge and member of the Court of Civil Appeals; Amarillo.

It was 38 years ago (Jan. 1, 1909) that he took office as district attorney. In April, 1915, District Jude F. D. Grever was assassinated at Lefors, and he was appointed to serve out the unexpired term.

Judge Ewing, Frank Willis, Jr., and M. M. Miller sought the office at the next election—1916. Since then he has been the choice of the people. He was sworn into office 30 years ago the first of this month He closed that career by swearing in his successor Jan. 1—Judge Lewis M. Goodrich, of Shamrock.

LONG ENOUGH

It was last spring that Judge Ewing, called by a News reporter on a Saturday afternoon, said he did not "choose to run." "I've been in long enough," he said.

He has finished his course as jurist, serving with 10 district attorneys, 11 court reporters, and holding over 1,200 weeks of court.

He has been honored for some time as presiding judge of the 12 judicial districts in this end of the state, an honorary position. His duties as presiding judge have been to call conferences of the judges who preside over the 42 counties of the districts.

"COWTOW "

In recalling the often fond, often desolate days of early Panhandle life, he says: "In 1893 Canadian was a good size town. I imagine it had a population of about 1,000 then. It was a wide open cowtown—five or six saloons—yet it was law-abiding and quiet. There were many large ranches in the surrounding territory. There was very little farming done then. Some of the big ranches in the nineties were Robert Mood & Sons, the Asaac Bros., the Stickley, Captain Arrington, W. H. Hopkins, Dave Hargraves, and Flavius Hamilton."

Of the social life: "I'm afraid we didn't have much, at least we didn't rush about as we do today. We had an occasional party, moonlight hayrides, and we took our best girl buggy-riding on Sunday afternoon. We didn't have any shows and no traveling shows came to our town. In 1896 or '97 a large building was erected in which we gave home talent plays."

WIDE EXPERIENCE

There's a full-size volume of material that could be written about Judge Ewing. At his age, he is still mentally active, being replete with yarns and episodes of his career with people who get in trouble.

The courtroom, he says, draws a cross-section of life. The incidents that occur there are both tragic and funny. The line separating the tragic and the amusing is often very thin, and one often blends into the other.

It is, he says, as Shakespeare had Jacques to say in the play, "As You Like It":

"All the world's a stage,
And the men and women merely players;
They have their exits and their entrances,
And one man in his time plays many parts."

COURT IS STAGE

The court, perforce, is also a stage, and the men and women merely players. There, philosophizes the Judge, they parade their petty hates, their malices, and their lesser imperfections; they embroil those they love, and so often their little children.

And the Judge? He "plays many parts"—judge of verdict, judge of interpretation, conciliator, informant.

The Great Play, he declares, is the divorce. For instance, at this time there are over 100 divorce suits on the docket—the number beginning to vie with the number of marriages in some localities.

FRAUD

"There is more fraud perpetrated on the court in divorces," he says, "than in any other type of litigation. They come in and swear to a set of facts, which, if true, might entitle them to divorce. But if the other side was heard an entirely different picture would be presented."

The grounds used for divorce are many, most of which are not printable. Of all divorces, the most serious, of course are those involving parents with children. "The hardest problem," he explained the other day as he looked out of the office window where he was soon to be but a visitor, "is giving custody of the children. If there is ever a time when I craved divine guidance, it's been when we have over here the father, over there the mother; and in the middle the little children who don't know what it's all about."

The father, he observed, is in the fault only part of the time. And "it's hard to take a child from its mother, but some mothers lead immoral lives, and don't make a home for their children. In these cases, there is nothing I could do."

Judge Ewing looked like this when he was attending Roswell, N. M., military academy. He grew up in New Mexico.

PARENTS

While not using the "this-modern-generation" didactic, he did deplore some of the practices of our time. Recalling the days of his own boyhood, he said there are too many outside influences that tend to break down home-life, which he described as the core of our American society . . . Mothers and fathers go to the night club, leave their little children at home. In due time, the children get the idea that they too should go to the night clubs; and they do—at an early age.

"GOOD CHILD"

Then, later, there is the delinquent, up in court with infractions of the law scored against him. When this happens, the Judge declares, "mother comes in and tells me how good a boy (or girl) the delinquent is," and she will stick by him to the last. That is the old and heart-breaking story of juvenile crime.

Asked if he thought the reformatory did much good, he said: "Many go there soured on the world, come out worse than before. . . . If the delinquent lives in the locality from which he is sent, the public eye is on him, and in some cases he does better. . . . But if he is a transient, a fly-by-night, he moves on, and continues his life of crime.

CRIME ON THE RUN

"Some," he continued, "are helped; others are not. The automobile is a great contributing factor, not only to juvenile, but to adult crime. It is a great temptation—to do something and then get away in the car."

Most crime, he believes, sees its inception from something that happened, or didn't happen, in the home. And a great responsibility, therefore, is laid upon the parents. People must realize this, he asserted.

APPROPRIATE JOKE

Visitors—and he has had hundreds of them—often give the Judge cigars. Consequently, he had a backlog. He gave the reporter a handful, adding: "They may get you down. Some of them are two years old." And then assuming his ever-popular role, he told an appropriate joke. It went like this:

A traveling man gave a Negro porter a bottle of booties, and a few days later asked the recipient: "Well, Sam, how was the whiskey?"

Sam's reply: "Well, Suh, if it'd been any bettah, you wouldn't 'a' giv'n it to me; and if it's been any worse'n, Ise wouldn't 'a' drunk it."

ACCIDENT

Judge Ewing himself could have "spured on the world," to use his phrase. But perhaps the training and experiences of his own youth have left their mark on him, the mark of a bright disposition. Though accident has left its physical mark on him he is still as dapper as a sophomore. The antics of youth, which, seeming at the time to be quite untoward, are often entirely interesting in restrospect. For instance, Judge Ewing foundly recalls the incident of his youth as a school teacher, an incident related in "Boy's Life of Will Rogers," by Harold Keith.

Keith's book, says the Judge, is authentic in this story:

"Frank (Judge Ewing's brother) was a husky friendly youth in whose quiet blue eyes lurked a hint of devilry and fun. Like Will Rogers, Frank hated school. The only one near him was a combination cabin-dugout, taught by Frank's 18-year-old brother Rees, which Frank haughtily refused to attend. Not only did he refuse to attehd, but he spent much time hanging around the outside of the school house just to torment the pupils.

"Once he smoked them out by putting a board over the chimney, and another time he emptied the school room even faster by riding past and roping the ridge pole that supported the structure . . . .

"But Frank's father, who was a fiery Kentuckian who could rule his family, now took a hand and sent Frank back to school. Reluctantly the boy went—but not for long. There came a Friday afternoon program and Rees Ewing announced that each pupil must give some kind of reading. When it came Frank's turn he protested that he had not had enough warning, but Rees was insistent. He could not have the pupils going home and telling their parents that the teacher granted favors to his brother. So, with a glint of mischief in his eyes, Frank got up and recited as follows:

'Oh, Lord above, look down with love
On us poor sinful scholars.
Who hired a fool to teach this school
And paid him thirty dollars.'

"That ended Frank's schooling permanently. No one asked him to come back."

TIME TO FINISH

Now that he has retired from the bench, the Judge says he will have plenty time to fish, even though he will be a law partner of Aaron Sturgeon, local attorney. He used to hunt, but not since he almost lost his life on Oct. 25, 1926.

He had been riding across his ranch near Miami, when he stopped his car on a hill overlooking a pond, which he was going to investigate for ducks. As he started down the hill, he noted that the strong wind was rolling his car slowly down the hill. Returning to it, he laid his hand on a fender just as the car suddenly gained momentum from hitting an incline. The car thrust him under it, sped down the hill. As he relates, "it balled me up, just turning me over and over in a ball." As he lay unconscious, broken ribs piercing his lungs, and with right hip broken, he scribbled a note to Mrs. Ewing, telling her how he had so inadvertently fallen into the trap. With night coming, snow falling, he became colder.

"THE OTHER SIDE"

Curious cattle milled about him, and it grew darker. Soon he could not use his hands, and it was impossible to rise.

"That's one time," he recounts, "I could see the other side. If I had stayed there all night, I would have died, but a searching party, sent out by my wife, found me about 8 o'clock."

He still has trouble with his hip.

'AT THE BAR'

The Judge was but affirming the quotation from Coolidge, used above, when there came a time for him to sentence to imprisonment a man whom he had known for some time. The charge was murder, and the defendant had been found guilty. In a soul-searing and stern voice the Judge called the defendant by name, saying:

"I only wish,——, that on Nov. 5 I could have placed my hand on your shoulder and said 'Don't do it.'" Then he said: "It is not I that is sentencing you—it is the law.

The man was given a long term behind the walls.

A divorce suit once brought a young man a tongue-lashing from the bench for avoiding a Texas law and then seeking the sanctuary of Texas law to remedy a hasty and ill-thought decision. The case arose from a young couple's getting married in Oklahoma to avoid a three-day notice period in Texas, and then applying for a divorce in this state.

He was not averse to lambasting jurors when they stepped out of line. One juror, who had agreed on the guilt of a man and then hung the jury over the penalty to be imposed, was called a stubborn blockhead by the judge before he dismissed the jury.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

And, as has been said, there was the lighter side of the courtroom. A man was fined by hasty request, and a stunt was stricken from the record not consider for any purpose in this case the grunt of the defense counsel."

Whereup it was stricken from the record, and the Judge raped for order in the court.

His sympathy must have been with one jury in its fundamental disagreement. The Judge cherishes a yellow piece of paper which the bailiff brought down to him from a jury deliberation room in December, 1932. It reads like this:

"At Misery

"Judge of 31st

"Your Honor:—If it pleases the court, please send us 2 door nobs (sic) or anything with a little intelligence for argements (sic) sake. And oblige. Jury.—By Jury Clerk."

TESTIMONIAL

Testimonials in veneration of Judge Ewing came sincerely and in great number during the last months of his tenure. At a dinner in the Judge's honor at the Schneider Hotel last Dec. 6, he received what he says is one of his most edifying honors. In resolution form, it was signed by lawyer friends from Pampa, Gray County, and several surrounding counties. It said, in part:

"Now, therefore, we . . . do hereby acclaim Judge W. R. Ewing for the services he has rendered. Throughout thirty years of faithful service, his record gleams with integrity, ability, honesty and fair dealing toward his fellow-man. As officers of his court, we proclaim his record and his devotion to the sacred performance of his duties to have been outstanding. We appreciate him as a man, a scholar and a jurist. Judge Ewing's life and character are blended with the orderly and lawful development and progress of this section of our country, to which he has contributed, with the help of his God, his fullest measure."

The Judge, choked with emotion, read the testimonial that night to his assembled friends and workers.

A. J. Folley, Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, in a telegram, said: "Jude Ewing completes his tenure of office without a blemish on his judicial ermine."

His affirmance record, he says, is about 75 percent, which, according to other lawyers, is good. Some persons had said the Judge's record was about 90 percent, but he said it was not that high.

The Judge, above, poses for Cameraman Smith just before he retired from the bench.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewing are shown above in a photo taken about 1905. It was the day of the mustache, and the Judge was fashionable. First child, and only daughter, is shown. She is now Mrs. Lucille Woelfl, of New York City. Robert Ewing, the only son, lives at Pampa.

Judge Ewing is shown above, sentencing a man in his last case here a few days ago. Former District Attorney Walter Rogers is in the background.

This picture was taken shortly after Judge Ewing was elected to his first public office, district attorney, in 1908.

Shippers Demand Removal of War Railroad Controls

FORT WORTH—(AP)— Five hundred delegates to the Southwest Shippers Advisory Board demanded in resolution Thursday that the federal government agencies remove wartime railroad measures of heavy car loading and suspend the national car pooling plan.

The return to pre-war car service rules was asked by the representatives of five Southwestern states "to permit the proper and normal distribution of commerce under tariff rules and regulations." Wallace Green of Dallas, board chairman, presided at the morning sessions.

In a report from the Joint Loss and Damage Prevention Committee, V. W. Appleby of Corpus Christi called for more efficient handling of goods by cerriers and announced that a special group had been appointed "to investigate unnecessary damage to furniture." R. T. Wilbanks, traffic manager for Montgomery Ward & Co., Fort Worth, was appointed chairman to investigate such damages.

Shippers at the sessions charged that rail carriers must immediately augment their supply of cars and increase their repair forces, while railroad managers contended that cars owned by the railroads in this area and built for the type of traffic here, especially grain, were not getting back to Southwest carriers but were being used by Eastern railroads in the car pooling plan.

T. B. Ollis, superintendent of transportation for Southern Pacific Lines, said his company plans to purchase an additional 2,200 new freight cars, making a total of 6,200 cars ordered in recent weeks.

On Oct. 7, 1943, the Japanese commander, fearing the Americans would recapture the island, sent an interpreter to tell 96 U. S. civilian prisoners—all that remained on Wake—"to put on their best clothes as they were being sent to the United States."

Instead the prisoners were lined up and slain by rifle fire.

HERE'S A LETTER JUST IN, AND HE'S GOT SOMETHING HERE

Shamrock, Texas,
Jan. 9, 1947.
I read your ads in the Pampa News the first thing when we get the paper, so that's why I am listing my farm with you. I believe you will sell it.
My place is —— miles north of —— Post Office, 160 acres, 110 in cultivation, good mixed sandy land, crossed hog wire fenced, 2 gas wells, gas in both houses, stock water tank, overhead tank for home use, gas in tank house. Three acres in chicken wire fenced, several hen houses, two sets of improvements on place. Large 5-room house, hall, bathroom, glassed-in porch on east and south side of house, screened in back porch, cistern, sheet iron 21x24 garage, 36x29 ft. granery, sheet iron double 44x80 ft. barn with stalls for stock on one side. Young orchard to be put out in three weeks. House modern on REA. School bus at door to Shamrock. Mail at door at 10 o'clock.
Mr. Duncan, I have been offered $13,000, but ask $16,000 if sold by 1st of March. My age and health, and son in service cause me to put it up for sale, this beautiful farm home. $10,000 will handle.
There's ½-acre garden fenced that makes the finest vegetables I ever saw grown in Wheeler County.
Come see this place for yourself, we are always home. No one else has a listing on this place.

Thanks,
Name of Owner.

That's the kind of letters I like to get, and if I was in the market for a good farm, I wouldn't look any further. If you would be interested in this good improved farm I will be glad to show it to you.

Here's a deal that I'm going to go broke on just advertising the thing if I don't get something done in the next few days! We own a good seven-room house at 611 North West Street. It's been rented to the same people for 5 years, and they have agreed to move just as soon as they could in case we sold. Now this house should sell for around $6500, but it does need a new roof on it, and we have cut the price down to $5250 in order to make a quick sale. I've had a bid on it of $4750, but am not going to take it for a while anyway. I'm trying to raise some money to build a little brick building, is the reason for selling. This house has nice hardwood floors, 2 floor furnaces, all modern. The back yard is fenced, has a good garage, and it's on the pavement, and there is no debt against it. But who ever bought it, I belive I could safely say that you could borrow at least $4000 on it. It wouldn't cost you too much to repair the roof, and say you did spend $300 on it, you would sure have a cheap house. Go by and look it over and make me a bid as I sure must sell this house right quick.

Want to buy a good business lot close in, that would be suitable to build a skating rink on, say a 50x140, for about $4,000 or $5,000.

I have a 360-acre farm that is a dandy; 215 acres in wheat, balance good short gramma and mesquite grass. Quite a few improvements with a 7-room house and 2 barns, rented now, but the rent wheat would go to the buyer, and you would get possession when the wheat is harvested. It would take $50 an acre to buy this place.

Here's another ½ section with nothing but a good windmill and stock tank. The fences are extra good, 180 acres are in wheat balance short grass. Buyer gets owner's share of the rent wheat, and possession when the wheat is harvested. This farm will cost you $33 an acre.

Here's a bargain on a new listing; 8-room duplex with a private bath to each side. Double garage. This apartment is close in and a good one. Take $6500 for it, and it is rented.

6-room house in 7 blocks of the main street, on the pavement, with a double garage for $7000.

I've got a good 2-bedroom house over on the hill that I will trade for a cheaper house in a good location. Man says since the Republicans are in, the country's going to the dogs, and he's getting his while the getting's good.

Here's what you might call an auction sale: A man in New York City owns some lots here in Pampa and he wrote me to sell them for him. He doesn't know what they are worth, and I couldn't tell him as I didn't know either. They are Lots 5 and 6, Block 37; Lot 19, Block 41, in the Wilcox Addition, and Lots 11 and 12, Block 8, in the Finley-Banks Addition. Look these over and make me a bid, even if it's for $1.00.

640-acre wheat and stock farm; 240 acres in wheat, balance short grass. Well improved, the owner lives there now. Want $50 an acre for this farm, and can give immediate possession.

159-acre Wheeler County farm. Creek runs right down the middle of it, you can raise alfalfa on this farm. Pretty well improved. $6900 for this place and you can have the 40 acres of wheat. If you don't have all cash you can pay me $2000, and I will carry the balance to suit you.

I will sell you one of the nicest fishing lakes in the country for a certain sum. There's something on the place beside the lake to make a living. This would sure make someone that's got a lot of money a nice country home where he could entertain his friends and make whoopee. This is a country home that is a home . . . and it's only a matter of a small drive from Pampa.

About 10 head ofgood mixed yearlings for 12½c per pound. Delivery in the next thirty days.
Thirty young black Angus cows, 6 calves, 1 bull. Take $115.00 for these good cows.

I could go on like this all day, we've got so much to sell. Anyway, if it's real estate or cattle, or anything in our line, we appreciate any business dealings that we may have with you.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate (formerly called Barcel Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—(AP)—Stocks generally continued to back water in today's market although real selling pressure was lacking.

Dealings were quiet from the opening on but declines of fractions to a point or so predominated near the final hour.

Accounts again were trimmed by those who desired a safety-first position pending moves in Congress on the budget, taxes and other economic problems.

Transcontinental & Western Air touched a new 1946-47 low. Losers included Bethlehem, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Western Air Lines, Schenley, Texas Co., Union Pacific, Kennecott and American Smelting.

Bonds slipped and cotton futures were lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 11—(AP) — Wheat spurted for gains extending to more than 2 cents at times on the Board of Trade today. Gains in oats ranged to around a cent while corn was ahead fractionally.

Mills were good buyers of wheat. Strength was based on Washington reports that the government would expand its export buying program to total 1,500,000 tons of grain and grain products each month between February 1 and June 30.

Offerings of corn by the country fell off from yesterday's large total. Bookings amounted to around 85,000 bushels. Shipping sales totaled 15,000 bushels, a good part of which was believed to have gone to distillers.

Wheat closed ⅝-2¼ higher, January $2.15⅝, corn unchanged to ½ higher, January $1.31¼-⅜, and oats ⅝-1 higher, March 76.
