Strain's jury dismissed for charge preparation

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Attorneys for both sides of the theft trial of Hereford farmer Robert Strain rested and closed their cases at 10:37 a.m. today, with Judge David Wesley Gulley dismissing the jury so the charge could be put into final form.

Testimony was heard this morning from the defendant's wife, Sallie Strain but Mr. Strain did not take the stand in his own behalf.

On Wednesday, Lubbock Attorney Patrick Abeyta accompanied his client, Thomas Martinez Sr., to court, allowing the state to call its final witness to the stand and wrap up its case.

Attorneys close cases

Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul had questioned dozens of farmers, businessmen and law enforcement officers in his effort to prove that Strain bought stolen goods and knew they were stolen when he bought them.

To show that the tools and farm equipment found last Aug. 15 in Strain's barn were stolen, Saul elicited the testimony of farmers from throughout the Panhandle and South Plains area. Last summer, they identified and claimed merchandise confiscated during the raid which had been stolen from their barns.

To attempt to prove that Strain knew the items were "hot," Saul put Martinez and his son, Thomas Martinez Jr. of Lubbock, on the stand along with Joe Angel Martinez of Hereford. All three men have been convicted of theft in connection with items that showed up after Strain's arrest.

Defense attorney Travis Shelton, who called the men "thieves off the street" and said their testimonies were uncorroborated, Wednesday filed a motion for an instructed verdict of not guilty after Saul announced the state would rest its case. Gulley denied Shelton's request.

Shelton also complained about insufficient evidence as he read his motion to the court, and listed what he called "errors committed by the court that we feel cannot be corrected."

Martinez, who attorneys for both sides questioned most of the morning, testified before the jury as to why he decided to appear as a witness. The explanation was the same he gave Tuesday when the jury was out of the courtroom.

"I'm testifying against him because he broke a deal," the 55-year-old flea market trader said from the stand. Martinez said the two men had agreed that if one got caught they would pretend not to know the other. He accused Strain of turning on him by naming him in a statement given the day of the arrest, and said after thinking about it a while he decided to testify for the state.

Martinez told the jury he had sold stolen goods to Strain on several occasions, and that he pointedly told Strain the items were stolen. He said Strain once asked him if the stuff was coming from anywhere close to Hereford, and Martinez replied that it came from "way out of town."

Testimony from defense witnesses occupied the afternoon session of the trial, with 11 of Strain's business associates and friends attesting to his good reputation in the community.

Gulley instructed the jury to return at 2 p.m. today but he was not certain the charge would be prepared by then.

Local Roundup

Pioneer celebration slated

Anyone with a "pioneering spirit" is invited to attend the annual Mid-Plains Pioneer Day celebration Saturday in Deaf Smith County Bull Barn.

Registration is set for 9:30 a.m., the program and business meeting at 11 a.m. and covered dish luncheon at noon.

Among the event's highlights is to be naming of "Pioneer of the Year" by the KPAN radio station. Also, the oldest man and woman present, along with the person traveling the farthest, are to be recognized.

Those planning on attending must be prepared to pay $3 as a registration fee. Tenure tags are to be presented by members of the sponsoring Pioneer and La Plata Study Clubs.

Summer courses offered

Hereford Independent School District and Amarillo College once again plan to offer college credit summer courses at Hereford High School.

Tonight is the first time registration may be performed, with the HHS cafeteria to be open from 7 to 8 p.m. for that task.

The choice of summer classes includes Government of the United States, History of the United States I, Freshman Composition I and II and Masterworks of English Literature. All meet twice weekly from 7 to 9:45 p.m. in the high school building.

More information may be obtained by phoning Kenneth Helms, director of the HISD vocational-education program, at 364-5112.

Pair of funds established

Two area funds have been established, one to help defer medical treatments and the other for a family of a man who died over the weekend.

Dean Fox requested a special fund be set up at Hereford State Bank for cancer treatments for Delfine Meorano Fox.

A memorial fund for Don Ed Middleton, who died Saturday, has been established for his family at the First State Bank of Happy. Donations may be mailed to the bank, for which the zip code is 79042.

Officers investigate theft

More than $440 worth of car stereo equipment was stolen between noon and 2:30 p.m. Wednesday from a 1976 Chevrolet in the Hereford High School parking lot, Hereford police reported this morning.

Victim of the crime is Chad Mason, 123 Fifteenth St. Included in the loot were two speakers and approximately 25 cassette tapes.

Police arrested two people Wednesday, one for driving while license suspended and the other for no driver's license.

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's department, meanwhile, reported a weekend theft of about $300 worth of merchandise in a truck. Taken from Kenneth Waters' vehicle were, among other things, several cassette tapes and a citizen's band radio. The crime occurred at his 224 Ave. E residence.

WEDNESDAY'S HIGH: 80 (normal high this date: 81 record: 99 (1953))

OVERNIGHT LOW: 67 (normal: 55 record: 41 (1924))

OUTLOOK: A 20 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms late tonight, with a low near 60 foreseen. Winds should be southerly at first tonight - shifting to northerly by daybreak - 10 to 20 miles per hour.

Friday is predicted to have a 30 percent chance of more precipitation, with winds to stay 10 to 20 miles per hour and come from the northeast.

Showers may continue Saturday, though the rest of the Memorial Day weekend is expected to be partly cloudy and mild.

Mondale gathers $300,000 in Texas

BY SCOTT MCCARTNEY
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Walter F. Mondale, stopping in Texas to replenish his presidential campaign coffers with $300,000 from a $1,000-per-plate dinner, says President Reagan is "out of touch" and "looking at the country through Rose Garden-colored glasses."

The former vice president said Reagan is not dealing with the growing federal debt, not concerned about signals that interest rates may rise, and is making the world more dangerous.

Reagan, the Democratic front-runner asserted, is falling into the trappings of power and isolation in the White House.

"If you don't watch out, you'll start inhaling it and believing it. You begin to think the condition of the country is measured by the condition of the Rose Garden and that's not the case," Mondale said.

Reagan 'out of touch'

"This president has gotten out of touch and he's looking at the country through Rose Garden-colored glasses," Mondale said.

"If you don't see it as it really is, you will solve no problems at all," he said. "The first thing we need is a president who knows what's going on, sees it as it really is and then provides serious, balanced leadership."

The dinner, organized by Dallas financier and former John Glenn supporter Jess Hay, netted about $300,000 Wednesday night for Mondale and should stimulate another $100,000 in pledges and other contributions from Texans, campaign spokesman Dayton Duncan said.

Mondale, whose campaign has made staff and travel cutbacks and is reportedly nearly $2 million in debt, said the Dallas affair will help give him enough money to run an "adequate campaign" in California and New Jersey, which hold primaries June 5.

"We won't have what I'd like, but we're going to have enough to put on a good campaign," he said.

Earlier in the day, Mondale held a $1,000-per-couple fundraiser in Chicago and wired the floor of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. After the dinner, he left Dallas for New Mexico, which also votes June 5.

Mondale told reporters that Reagan, during his televised news conference Tuesday night, "told the American people that the deficit is being overestimated when in fact we know the deficit is being underestimated by billions of dollars."

"He predicted that interest rates are going to go down when practically everyone in the country ... (is) predicting a substantial increase," Mondale said.

He also countered Reagan's claim that the world is becoming safer under his administration.

"In fact if you look at the Middle East, if you look at Central America, if you look at the runaway arms race, it is hard to draw any conclusion but that the world is more dangerous," Mondale said. "Reagan says the world is safer. ... The fact of it is, unlike what he said, the world is more dangerous."

Mondale thanked Texas Democrats for his victory in the state's party caucuses May 5.

Texas, he said, "was one of the major victories in the

Many scholarships given Wednesday

Scholarships totalling more than $150,000 were awarded to outstanding seniors at Hereford High School Wednesday morning during the annual Honors Assembly program.

Heading the list of honor grads are Kimbera Mills, valedictorian, and Laura Thames, salutatorian. Kim is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mills, and Laura is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thames.

Kim accepted a four-year scholarship to West Texas State University in the amount of $12,000 and a $200 biology scholarship. She was also offered a full scholarship to Hardin Simmons in the amount of $22,000; a full scholarship to the University of Florida in the amount of $14,000; a full tuition and $1,000 to the University of Texas; a $2,000 National Merit Scholarship and full tuition to Baylor University; a $2,000 scholarship to Texas Christian University; and a $200 scholarship to Texas Women's University.

Kim had a grade-point average of 100.86 and was a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship program. She took advanced courses in high school and is a three-year member of the National Honor Society, a three-year member of the debate team, and received an award in the National Forensic League. She will attend WTSU in the fall and will be a pre-medical major.

Laura had a grade point average of 100.60. She is also a three-year member of the National Honor Society and was a member of the HHS Band her sophomore and junior years. As a senior, she elected to enroll in the Agriculture Parttime Training program and was employed at Hutto Veterinary Clinic. She plans to attend WTSU beginning this summer and will enroll in the pre-veterinary medicine program.

Third in the graduating class and high male student was Mark Lytal. He accepted a $3,700 scholarship from WTSU in academics and grants. He was also offered an $8,400 scholarship to Austin College, and a $200 math-science grant to Eastern New Mexico University.

HHS Principal Bill McCarty announced the honor graduates and Supt. Harrell Holder presented the valedictorian and salutatorian and representatives of local organizations made presentations of the local scholarships.

A list of scholarships and special recognitions continue on Page 2 of today's Hereford Brand.

Both parties receive good turnout

Both parties reported good turnouts at the Republican and Democratic county conventions held Saturday morning.

"We had a tremendous county convention," said County Democratic Chairman Roy Dale Messer. There were 70 delegates there and over 100 persons total.

At conventions held Saturday

The seven delegates to the state Democratic Convention elected during the two-and-a-half hour meeting were Al Dziuk, Rinaldo Garcia, Helen Rose, James Elliott, Shirley Easterwood, Bill

Cleavinger and Messer.

Four delegates will go to the state convention committed to presidential candidate Gary Hart, two for Walter Mondale and one delegate signed in as uncommitted. The state gathering is set for June 15 and 16 in Houston.

Four resolutions were also passed, one dealing with the new and controversial system for choosing a presidential candidate. There were also resolutions against placing nuclear waste dumps in this area, calling for a nuclear weapons freeze and complaining about proposals by the Governor's select committee on education.

Jane White, secretary of the county's Republican committee, said about 35 persons attended their convention. She considered that a good turnout.

Republican delegates selected to attend the party's state convention, also set for June 15 and 16, were Edwina and Garth Thomas, Ike and Debe Graves, Frank Barrett, Bill Allen, Wes Fisher and Noland Dulaney. Ft. Worth is to host the event.

White said the committee drafted one resolution to carry to the state convention.

Honor Graduates At HHS

Mark Lytal was third in the class and the high male graduate. Kim and Laura hold certificates of recognition presented by Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

News Roundup State

Report shows guard shortage

HOUSTON (AP) — An attorney for Texas prisoners says he will ask a judge to find the state's prison officials in contempt of court if new figures agree with January data which showed too few guards are working at five prison units.

William Bennett Turner said Wednesday he may ask U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice to find the state in contempt of his sweeping prison reform order issued in 1981.

Papers filed by the office of Vincent Nathan, whom Justice appointed to oversee prison reforms, found five units of the prison system were 149 guards short of the levels they were supposed to meet by January.

Turner said he will seek updated statistics before asking for the hearing.

Prison officials maintain the shortages have been corrected since the first of the year.

Friend loyal to Bonnie and Clyde

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — Floyd Hamilton says his friendship with Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker meant more than the $5,000 reward money he could have had for turning them in to authorities.

"But I told them what they could do with their $5,000. I wouldn't do it," said Hamilton, reflecting on the ambush 50 years ago Wednesday that killed his old friends. "... I give 'em (Bonnie and Clyde) my word, and there never was any question I'd go agin' it."

The outlaws were gunned down near Gibsland, La., despite the loyalty of their boyhood friend from west Dallas.

"Bill Decker (a sheriff's deputy then) and Winter King (the prosecuting attorney) offered it to me to put Bonnie and Clyde on the spot, you know, to tell where they'd be at a certain time," he said.

The 75-year-old Hamilton said he saw Bonnie and Clyde at least once a week from 1932 to 1934, when they were on the run.

Tax-poor schools file suit

AUSTIN (AP) — One million school children in Texas are being discriminated against and are not getting equal education opportunities because of discrepancies in the way the state distributes funds to poor and wealthy districts, according to a suit filed by eight school districts.

"One million children in Texas are discriminated against and deprived of rights to equal educational opportunity under the system of financing the Texas public school system," said the suit filed against the state Wednesday in an Austin district court.

Gov. Mark White and other state officials said inequities between tax-wealthy and tax-poor districts could be handled by the Legislature without court action.

Reagan to send missiles to Saudi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, eager to stop Iranian attacks on Persian Gulf oil shipments without direct U.S. intervention, is reviving a plan to send Stinger anti-aircraft missiles to Saudi Arabia.

The Pentagon asked Congress for permission to send 1,200 of the weapons to Saudi Arabia and 1,613 to Jordan earlier this year, but the proposal was withdrawn in March after Israel recoiled at the possibility of Stingers in the hands of its Jordanian neighbors.

Now, with heightened concern that air raids on Persian Gulf oil traffic may continue, the administration plans to ask Congress again "in the near future" to provide just Saudi Arabia with the U.S. missiles, a congressional source said Wednesday.

International

Diplomats look to Iran-Iraq war

Egypt's foreign minister said today that non-aligned countries should team up to prevent the Iran-Iraq war from escalating to the point where the superpowers would intervene to protect Persian Gulf oil shipping.

In Tokyo, Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariz Aziz said Iran has denied Iraq the right to use its own ports in the gulf, giving Iraq the "full right to retaliate against" Iran.

At least 20 ships have been attacked in the gulf since January, and both gulf countries and nations supplied by oil from the gulf have been pushing diplomatic efforts to safeguard ships and end the 44-month war.

Iraq has attacked ships in a declared war zone near Iran's Kharg Island to try to halt shipment of Iranian oil, and Iran has been accused of attacking oil tankers outside of the war zone in retaliation for Iraq's blockade of Kharg. Iran has denied responsibility for the attacks.

Soviets testing liquid fire bombs

LONDON (AP) — The current Soviet offensive in Afghanistan could cause widespread famine, according to a British study which says two out of three Afghan children examined by researchers were starving or malnourished.

In another report issued here Wednesday, Jane's Defense Weekly said Soviet planes are dropping "liquid fire" bombs on Afghan rebels and also are using fuel-air bombs that kill anyone within a quarter-mile radius.

The magazine, part of the authoritative Jane's Publications, said the Soviets have been using the weapons since the summer in eastern Afghanistan in a major battlefield testing program. It said the "liquid-fire" bombs showed a far-like substance on the ground that can burst into flames when stepped on.

Mexico fighting rabies epidemic

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP) — Health officials in this Mexican border city have vaccinated more than 4,000 dogs in an effort to control a rabies epidemic that has resulted in treatments of 28 people so far this year.

Dr. Guillermo Garcia Aguirre, city health center director, declared the epidemic Wednesday, warning that officials must speed up efforts to vaccinate the city's 40,000 dogs and round up strays.

The World Health Organization has offered to send personnel to the city and provide other assistance, Aguirre said.

In the latest case, a dog attacked 13 people, including its owners, prompting doctors at the city's health center to begin antirabies treatment for all, authorities said Wednesday.

The victims included 11 children from a lower middle-class neighborhood on the city's south side. It was the most serious case of the year and the third in two weeks.

Bans anti-satellite testing

House blocks Reagan's weapons plan

By TIM AHERN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has blocked Reagan administration plans for key anti-satellite weapons tests and followed the setback with a vote to hold the president to his pledge not to send combat troops to El Salvador.

The votes late Wednesday came as the House worked its way through a huge bill authorizing the Pentagon to spend a record $285 billion in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, the fourth year of President Reagan's five-year plan to "rearm America."

Although the Democrat-controlled House hasn't yet finished the bill, it has already given Reagan fewer than half the MX nuclear weapons he wanted and has refused for a third straight year to approve new nerve gas weapons. The bill will be sent later to the Republican-controlled Senate.

The House decided, 238-181, to ban testing of anti-satellite weapons against a fixed target in space unless the Soviet Union resumes tests of its weapon.

The Soviets have halted their anti-satellite tests and have called for a treaty banning the weapons. But Reagan told Congress earlier this year that such a pact couldn't be verified and the U.S. program should go ahead.

Hours later, the House approved, 341-64, a ban on sending U.S. troops "into or over El Salvador or Nicaragua for combat" unless those forces are needed to save U.S. embassy personnel or other American citizens.

A day earlier, Reagan told a nationally televised news conference that "we have never had any consideration" of sending combat troops to aid the U.S.-backed Salvadoran government in its fight against leftist rebels.

If upheld by the Senate, the anti-satellite vote would permit the Pentagon to only fire the weapon into space and would bar any attempts to hit satellite-like targets. It would also extend a ban written into law last year by Congress.

The Pentagon has already twice this year successfully test fired the weapon, a small three-stage rocket carried aloft by an F-15 jet. But it was only aimed at an imaginary "point in space" and the Pentagon had planned a test later in the year to see if it could hit an actual target — a high-flying weather balloon.

Reagan administration officials say the U.S. weapon is needed to offset a Soviet system that has been operational for at least a decade.

But critics contended Wednesday the Soviets have only a rudimentary and cumbersome system that is no threat to the high-flying satellites the Pentagon depends on for surveillance and early warning of attack.

Rep. George Brown, D-Calif., led the opposition, calling the Soviet weapon "a model-T system, not of high effectiveness."

Rep. Norman Dicks, D-Wash., said "the time is right to seek arms control solutions to anti-satellites. If we delay, it may be too late ...

to avoid a major escalation in the arms race."

But Rep. Ken Kramer, R-Colo., disagreed, saying the Soviets "have the capability to take away our eyes and our ears."

The U.S. system uses some "star wars" technology but is not part of Reagan's "Strategic Defense Initiative."

Employee Of Month

Amalia Mireles, an employee in the bookkeeping department, was named the May employee of the month at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Reagan wants funds

House firm against Nicaraguan aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders predict the House will stand by its opposition to any money for undercover aid in Nicaragua, casting a cloud over President Reagan's effort to get a quick infusion of military funds for El Salvador.

"It seems to me a majority are for not giving any more funds whatsoever" for covert assistance to the rebels fighting Nicaragua's leftist government, Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said Wednesday.

Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, said he had told Secretary of State George P. Shultz and CIA Director William J. Casey that "they cannot expect to pass money for continuing a covert war in Nicaragua in the House and they would be wise to drop that."

Wright also said he told the officials that insisting on money for the undercover aid program could jeopardize Salvadoran aid, since the two are tied together in a total package on which the House and Senate must agree.

Shultz, nevertheless, said that in a closed-door meeting with the House Foreign Affairs Committee he "put forward the case of people in Nicaragua who are fighting for their liberty."

Guardsmen found guilty of killings

ZACATECOLUCA, El Salvador (AP) — The jury hearing the case of five former national guardsmen charged in the murder of four American churchwomen today found them guilty on all counts.

The five-member jury, which had sat through an all-night court session, deliberated one hour before reaching its verdict. The guardsmen had been taken back to their jail cells and were not in the courtroom when the verdict was read.

The trial was considered crucial to U.S.-Salvadoran relations. Congress has withheld $19 million in military aid to El Salvador this year pending a verdict.

The defendants each faced three criminal charges — aggravated homicide, aggravated destruction of property, and theft. The final two charges stem from the burning of a van in which the churchwomen were riding when they were abducted.

The jury started deliberations at 5 a.m. EDT, after a trial that started Wednesday morning and continued through the night with only short recesses.

The only one of the defendants who had confessed to the murders told reporters Wednesday he was coerced and offered money for his confession. But Judge Bernardo Rauda Murcia said he would not allow the confession to be retracted at the trial.

"The prosecution and defense have to analyze the case as is stated in the (prepared) proceedings," the judge said. "They cannot veer from them Immediately, I will call it to their attention that they have no right to do it."

The jurors sat in straight-backed chairs throughout the long session, listening to pre-trial testimony being read, then to arguments by prosecutors and defense attorneys.

Michael Posner, executive director of the New York-based Lawyers Committee for International Human Rights which has represented the victims' families, said U.S. Embassy officials were pressing for a trial without recess to make sure the jurors were not subject to any outside pressures.

Ann Landers Meatloaf recipe

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several years ago you swore off printing recipes in your column after your meatloaf created so much trouble. A man in Detroit said it poisoned his dog and a woman in Denver said her husband used it as grounds for divorce. In New Mexico a woman's oven blew up and she blamed you.

In spite of all the trouble it caused, I think you ought to run the recipe again as a public service to the state of Arizona. Here is what is going on:

The Arizona Civil Liberties Union charged the State Corrections Department with violating the rights of the prisoners by serving meatloaf to the incorrigibles for 21 straight days. The A.C.L.U. claims it violates the freedom of those whose religious beliefs prohibit them from eating pork. (Muslims and Jews are not supposed to eat pork and Seventh Day Adventists do not eat meat at all.)

Your delicious meatloaf has no pork in it and they could leave off the strips of bacon across the top, which you said were "optional."

Please, Ann, as a gift to the people of Arizona, will you print that recipe again? I have served it every Thursday night since you first printed the recipe and everyone in the family still loves it.—B.J. in Oklahoma

DEAR B.J.: I swore I would never print another recipe, but your plea has softened my heart, and maybe my head, because I've decided to run it again. Here it is:

ANN LANDER'S WORLD FAMOUS MEATLOAF
2 pounds ground round steak

2 eggs
1½ cups bread crumbs
¾ cup ketchup
1 teaspoon Accent
½ cup warm water
1 package Lipton's onion soup mix

Beat thoroughly. Put into loaf pan, cover with 2 strips bacon if you like that flavor. Pour over all one 8-ounce can Hunts Tomato Sauce. Bake on hour at 350 degrees. Serves six.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter is 21. She is getting engaged to her steady (he is 22) and they plan to be married when she finishes college in 1986.

These two bring out the worst in each other. They are always fighting, yelling or not speaking at all. We thought the relationship would wear itself out but it hasn't.

They have no friends because no one wants to be around them. They argue about things of absolutely no consequence. My husband and I see history repeating itself. My husband's brother and his wife behaved the same way. They fought and argued for three years before they married and after 22 years of battling she filed for divorce and he committed suicide.

We realize that everyone has to make his own mistakes but these two are headed for disaster. What can we do to help them?—Worried In Dixie

DEAR DIXIE: Lay off. A sure way to shove them into marriage is to tell them to stop seeing each other. Counseling might help but they must seek it willingly.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage—What to Expect," will prepare you for better or worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Former resident buried

Leona Sowell reported to The Brand Tuesday afternoon that she had just returned from Sacramento, Calif., where she has been staying for many weeks. She attended the funeral services of her sister, Mary Odessa Goad Grant, a former Hereford resident, who died March 29 in Sacramento. Mrs. Grant was buried in East Lawn Cemetery.

Mrs. Grant, a native of Arney, Tx., had lived in Hereford. Happy and Amarillo. She was 71 years of age.

Survivors include her husband, Peter G. Grant; two daughters, Mary A. Hedreck of Georgia and Glenna Ruth Malone of Iowa; a son, Clifton L. Frazier of Minnesota; four sisters, Ms. Sowell of Hereford; Vesta Tice of Sacramento, Lorena Sandage Sr. of Hillsboro, Or. and Lavinna Bell Wells of Herald, Calif.; a brother, C.L. Goad Jr. of Sacramento; seven grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren; many nieces and nephews.

Happy 1st Birthday Jessica

Improvement scams greatly affect elderly

COLLEGE STATION — Now that spring is here, it's time to be on the watch for this year's home improvement scams.

While consumer frauds are widespread and pervasive, the elderly are special targets for these abuses, says Nancy Granovsky, a family resource management specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

According to recent research conducted by the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging, home repair and improvement frauds were the most frequent type of frauds committed against the elderly, she explains.

Nationwide, 71 percent of the elderly own their own homes. The majority of these homes were built before 1940. This combination of the number of elderly who own homes and the age of the dwellings is especially attractive to phony repairmen, notes the specialist.

Some of the common scams include itinerant repairmen who operate on a "hit-and-run" basis, cautions Granovsky. They may use scare tactics to persuade the elderly person that the chimney will collapse, the roof will leak or some other drastic problem needs immediate attention.

The elderly person winds up paying high costs for poor workmanship, and sometimes for no work at all. Often the con man will ask for money for paint or materials and then simply leave without doing any repairs.

The driveway resurfer promises a first class job at a "bargain price," says the specialist. The resurfer may claim to have some leftover asphalt from a construction job in the area which is too much trouble to haul back to the plant.

But you will usually get a driveway that is poorly laid or coated with material that will wash off with the next rain. Then when you try to locate the person to complain, you may discover that the name and address on the business card are phony.

the district convention in Pampa last weekend, and Hereford President Ed Line paid a special tribute to Shaw here Wednesday.

Local resident's son to teach at university

Dr. Rondel Davidson, a professor of history at Pan American University at Edinburg, will be teaching with Texas A&M University next year as one of A&M's senior visiting professors.

Head of Pan American's history department, Dr. Davidson is the son of Mrs. Don R. Davidson of 207 Fir and the late Rev. Don Davidson.

The position carries a reduced teaching load which will allow Dr. Davidson more time to do his own research and study. He'll be teaching an honors studies seminar and an experimental course being taught jointly by A&M's history and English department.

Dr. Davidson has taught at Pan American for 12 years and at the same time served in a variety of administrative and committee positions. In his absence, Pan American will have to find a new coordinator for an intensive, year-long institutional self-study that Davidson had been selected to direct by the University's President Dr. Miguel Nevarez.

Betzen graduates Sunday

Mark Edward Betzen graduated with honors from the University of Texas School of Law in Austin in ceremonies held at the Performing Arts Center Sunday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Betzen of 406 Douglas.

Betzen, a member of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, will be practicing corporate law at the Dallas office of Jones Day Reavis and Pogue. He is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School and received an accounting degree from Texas Tech in 1981.

Following graduation ceremonies, a reception was held with Betzen's parents attending both events.

The Newspaper BIBLE

GOD HAS SOMETHING SPECIAL FOR YOU

And now, brothers, I want to write about the special abilities the Holy Spirit gives to each of you, for I don't want any misunderstanding about them.

You will remember that before you became Christians you went around from one idol to another, not one of which could speak a single word.

But now you are meeting people who claim to speak messages from the Spirit of God. How can you know whether they are really inspired by God or whether they are fakes? Here is the test: no one speaking by the power of the Spirit of God can curse Jesus, and no one can say, "Jesus is Lord," and really mean it, unless the Holy Spirit is helping him.

Now God gives us many kinds of special abilities, but it is the same Holy Spirit who is the source of them all.

There are different kinds of service to God, but it is the same Lord we are serving.

There are many ways in which God works in our lives, but it is the same God who does the work in and through all of us who are His.

The Holy Spirit displays God's power through each of us as a means of helping the entire church.

To one person the Spirit gives the ability to give wise advice; someone else may be especially good at studying and teaching, and this is his gift from the same Spirit.

He gives special faith to another, and to someone else the power to heal the sick.

He gives power for doing miracles to some, and to others power to prophesy and preach. He gives someone else the power to know whether evil spirits are speaking through those who claim to be giving God's messages—or whether it is really the Spirit of God who is speaking. Still another person is able to speak in languages he never learned; and others, who do not know the language either, are given power to understand what he is saying.

It is the same and only Holy Spirit who gives all these gifts and powers, deciding which each one of us should have.

Local DAR chapter meets for luncheon

Los Ciboleros Chapter NSDAR held its closing luncheon Saturday at the Hereford Country Club. The Regent, Ruth Knox, opened the meeting and called on Sue James, chaplain, to lead the opening prayer. The members and guests then had lunch.

When the meeting reconvened, Mrs. Knox introduced members and guests at the speaker's table, including Mrs. Wayne D. Tiner, regent of the Texas Society; Mrs. E.S. Brainard, honorary state regent and state parliamentarian; Mrs. John Ramp, state corresponding secretary; Mrs. Donald Terrell, Division I chairman; Mrs. L.W. Norvell, state tellers committee chairman; Sue James, chaplain; Mrs. Joe Dempsey, Division I chairman of the state regent's project; Mrs. C. Doyle Drake, Division I chairman of the state regent's special project, Armed Forces at Reese Air Force Base; and Mrs. Jess Robinson, organizing regent of Los Ciboleros Chapter, Hereford, and Palo Duro Chapter, Tulsa.

Mary Lee Singer, vice-regent of the Palo Duro Chapter, Tulsa, introduced members of her chapter present: Lavon Stark, Dorothy Jennings, Penny Randall, Thalia Fulkern, Edna Foster and Alice Bean. Ozona Norris, Emma Lou Whitaker and Ona Ruth Neff of the Buffalo Grass Chapter of Floydada, were introduced.

Mary Williamson introduced her special guest, her sister-in-law Faye Williamson, of Oklahoma City; Laura Blackburn's special guest was six-weeks-old Daniel Chance Blackburn; and Patricia Robinson introduced our prospective member, Mrs. Clark Andrews.

The regent conducted the opening ritual; Beverly Jayroe led the National Anthem; Ms. Williamson, the Pledge of Allegiance to the United States flag; Ruth Newsom, the pledge to the Texas flag; Lois Gililand, the DAR Pledge to the flag; Jayne Brainard, the American's Creed and Leta Kaul led the group in singing "Texas Our Texas."

Charlotte Clark read the President General's Message and Edwina Thomas gave the National Defense report. Edna Riley read the welcome for new members to Mrs. Don Cherry and Ms. Knox presented her with the DAR Handbook And National Bylaws."

The chapter voted to participate in the Town 'N' Country Jubilee by selling tickets on two stained glass panels as a fund raising activity. The committee for this project will be Leesa Clark, chairman, Rachel Henslee, Dovie Cherry, Kathryn Ruga and Wanda Jones.

Ms. Robinson introduced the special guest, Mrs. Tiner. She spoke to the group about the Continental Congress and the work of the Texas Daughters this past year. The Texas Society has the largest membership of any state, 16,080. At Continental Congress the State Society took first place in the following categories: American heritage, membership, junior members, public relations, friends of the museum, junior American citizens, and museum decents. Texas tied for the Americanism and DAR Manual first place awards.

A fifth grade student from Liberty was honored as a national winner in the American History Month Essay contest.

Mrs. Tiner discussed changes to the society's "National Bylaws" and read the resolutions adopted by the National Society. She concluded with a brief outline of future plans for the Texas

Society and asked for questions or discussion from the group. She graciously thanked the chapter for the meeting and for asking her to be our guest. The meeting adjourned.

Extra care taken for preserving heirlooms

COLLEGE STATION — Some families enjoy preserving a bit of their past by keeping grandma's wedding dress or handmade table cloth. Others enjoy buying their history at auctions and antique stores.

Wherever you get your textile heirlooms, you'll have them longer if they're cared for properly.

"Many of these textiles can never be restored to their original condition," says clothing specialist Becky Saunders. However, further deterioration can be prevented with proper storage and handling, says

Saunders, a home economist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

A dark, cool, dry place provides the best storage conditions for heirloom textiles, she explains. They need to be protected against heat, light, temperature extremes, mold, water, dirt, smoke, insects and vermin.

When preparing textile items for storage, do not starch or iron them. Also remove jewelry or pins, since the metal will harm the fabric over time, cautions Saunders.

Stuff all three-dimensional items, such as hats, bustles or puff sleeves, to preserve their shape. Vacuuming or using canned aerosol air will help remove dust before you store the fabric.

Label and store like things together to reduce later handling, advises the specialist. Then store the textiles flat, with the heaviest items on the bottom.

Make sure the items have plenty of room. You might also want to cushion or pad folds and refold items occasionally, since fibers can break at fold lines, she says.

If space is a problem, roll heirloom textiles in tubes, with the best side out. Make sure the tube is large enough to accommodate the item without crushing it.

Saunders advises against storing textiles in tightly closed plastic containers, because they retain moisture.

Use wood or cardboard drawers and boxes or cardboard tubes instead. Line all containers with unbleached and pre-washed muslin or sheets.

To hang heirloom clothing temporarily, use padded and shaped hangers which will help retain the garment's shape. Don't use padded hangers in bright colors, however, as some of the color might rub off on your garment.

Also fasten all of the closures on the garment. Knitted and crocheted clothes should not be hung, says the specialist, since they will lose their shape in the process.

If you go to the trouble of preserving and carefully storing heirloom textiles, make sure you also record as much information as you have about each item, says Saunders.

Records of who made the item, the date it was made and where it was worn can help with resale, contests or family awareness and may even increase the value of the heirloom, she adds.

Today in History

Today is Thursday, May 24, the 145th day of 1984. There are 221 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On May 24, 1844, Samuel Morse transmitted the words, "What hath God wrought!" from Washington to Baltimore — the first public demonstration of the telegraph.

On this date: In 1830, the first passenger railroad service in the United States began between Baltimore and Elliott's Mills, Md.

Today's birthdays: Former U.S. Rep. Wilbur Mills is 75. Actress Lilli Palmer is 70. Comedian Thomas Chong is 46. Folk singer Bob Dylan is 43. Actor Gary Burghoff is 41.

Thought for today: "Censorship, like charity, should begin at home; but, unlike charity, it should end there." — Clare Boothe Luce, writer-politician.

Former resident to graduate

Scott DeBoer, son of George and Beverly DeBoer of Omaha, Neb., former Hereford residents, will graduate Sunday from Millard South High School in Omaha.

DeBoer, who spent most of his school years in Hereford, was the starting center on the Millard South basketball team which won the Class A Championship for the second consecutive year and was named to the all-tourney, all metro and all-state first teams.

Also, he was chosen Prom Prince at the high school's junior-senior prom and is a member of the National Honor Society. During Academic Honors night at the school, he was given the Presidential Academic Fitness award, the Millard South award for scholarship-top ten percent of the graduating class.

By vote of the school's faculty and students, DeBoer was chosen "Outstanding 1983-84 All-Round Student," one of five in his class of 426 students.

DeBoer is interested in physics and engineering and has accepted a four-year scholarship to Hastings College.

Popular foods can have fewer calories, nutrition

COLLEGE STATION — Some of those favorite casual summer meals like hamburgers, pizza, tacos, quiche and chef's salad, can be high in nutrients and lower in calories with just a few variations.

Perhaps because children and teenagers like them so much, many people think these dishes are "junk food" or somehow inferior to other kinds of meals, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Mary K. Sweeten.

But in fact these dishes may contain foods from each of the four basic food groups: protein foods like meat, poultry, fish, eggs and legumes; fruits and vegetables; dairy products; and breads and cereals, she says.

According to Sweeten, you can enhance the nutritional value and cut the calories of these popular foods by doing the following:

-Add the nutrition of dairy products by making your hamburger a cheeseburger and serving tacos and quiche.

-Include vegetables in these dishes by adding fresh green lettuce and a tomato slice to your cheeseburger. Serve tacos with shredded lettuce and tomatoes. Add a generous amount of mushrooms, sliced green pepper or other vegetables to pizza, and add spinach or broccoli to quiche.

-Reduce calories from meat by starting with lean ground beef. Make sure you drain the fat from beef before preparing taco filling or using it on pizza.

-Add protein to a chef's salad by including, hard-cooked eggs, strips of cheese, lean ham, beef, chicken, or turkey, and croutons.

-Reduce calories from dairy products by choosing a low-fat process cheese for tacos and cheeseburgers, and mozzarella cheese made from skim milk for pizza. Use low-fat cheese and skim milk for quiche.

-Use high-calorie condiments sparingly. Eliminate rich salad dressings and use commercially prepared reduced-calorie dressing or make your own with butter-milk and herbs or lemon juice and tomato juice.

The nutrition of these meals can be increased even further if you'll accompany them with a glass of milk, say Sweeten. Again, to lower calories, you can select skim milk or buttermilk.

While the calories and nutrients will vary according to serving size and specific ingredients, these summer favorites can be good nutrition choices for the calories they provide, notes the nutritionist.

Basketball camp scheduled

Registration forms for the Hereford Summer Basketball Camp for youths from first through 12th grade may be obtained from the main offices at Stanton and La Plata junior highs, the high school or The Sports Stop, 411 N. Main.

Three sessions are slated for this year, according to HHS girls basketball coach Larry Sowers, who along with HHS boys basketball coach Bobby Decker, will be camp instructors.

The first session will take place June 25-29 for boys and girls who will be in the eighth grade and over for the 1984-85 school year.

The second session runs from July 9-18 for all youngsters in the fifth through seventh grade.

The third session is scheduled for July 16-21 for first through third graders.

The early registration deadline for all sessions is June 1. If registration forms are not available interested parties may write in a registration on a sheet of paper.

Name, address and sex of the participant, next year's grade level, and T-shirt size is needed information.

Cost of the camps is $40 for the first two sessions and $20 for the third session. A $20 deposit for the first two sessions and $10 for the third is asked to be mailed in with the registration.

Registrations and deposits may be mailed to Larry Sowers, Hereford High School, 200 Ave. F. All checks should be made out to Hereford Independent School District.

Any questions may be directed to Sowers, whose office hours at the high school (364-0617) are 1:00-2:00.

City track meeting planned

There will be an organizational meeting for a Hereford Track Club Monday at 8 p.m. in the Community Center.

The new club will be for boys and girls of all ages as well as adults who wish to compete in a number of divisions for track meets scheduled throughout the summer.

All parents who would be interested in helping get the club off the ground are encouraged to attend.

Track meets, workout schedules, election of club officers and passing out of raffle tickets are some of the planned activities for the meeting, according to track coach Suzanne Duvall.

HHS enters four in rodeo

There will be four members from the Hereford High School rodeo team attending the Tri-State Rodeo finals in Amarillo June 7-10.

Jana Johnson, named All-Around Cowgirl for the past two rodeos, will compete in four events; barrels, goat tying, pole bending and breakaway roping.

Members scheduled to take part in the boys division include: Chet Burrows, bull riding; Kevin Smith, bareback riding; and Shawn McConnell will compete in steer wrestling.

The event will take place in the Bill Cody Arena in the State Fairgrounds. Dozens of high schools from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma will be competing.

El Monterey wins tourney

Hereford's El Monterey softball team won its division in the Lubbock Softball Tournament which took place this past weekend.

The team won the championship by defeating a team from Midland twice, 12-7 and 6-5, in the final round.

El Monterey will be competing in a Littlefield tournament this weekend.

Big money in scratch tourney

Hereford's Bowling's Bowl will be holding a scratch tournament with a guaranteed first prize of $1,200 June 2-3.

The event is limited to the first 96 entries and the fee is $50 per bowler. It is open to both men and women, and one need not be a PBA member to compete.

The deadline to enter is midnight, June 1. The tourney will pay-off the first 10 finishers.

Rockets win flip, obtain Olajuwon

NEW YORK (AP) — The Houston Rockets will get their second helping of All-America centers in two years when 7-foot Akeem Olajuwon joins 7-4 Ralph Sampson in the lineup next season.

After winning only 43 games in two years, Rockets officials said Wednesday they had no plans to trade Olajuwon or the right to pick first in the June 19 National Basketball Association draft.

"Akeem will add the intimidation factor to our defense, which last year was atrocious," Coach Bill Fitch said after the Rockets won a coin flip with the Portland Trail Blazers to get the No. 1 pick. "When people say to me 'Why don't you get rid of Akeem,' it's like asking the Milwaukee Braves why they didn't get rid of (pitchers) Warren Spahn or Lew Burdette."

"We'll listen to anyone, but to get Olajuwon they will have to decimate themselves," said Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson.

Charlie Thomas, Houston's owner and chairman of the board, said he was looking forward to not qualifying for next year's coin toss, which will be contested by the last-place team in each conference.

"We've had such good luck with coin flips, maybe our luck will change on the court," Thomas said.

Despite the presence of Sampson, a three-time collegiate Player of the Year from Virginia, the Rockets finished 29-53 last season, an improvement from the 14-68 mark of 1982-83.

Fitch said that with Sampson and Olajuwon, who came from Nigeria to lead the University of Houston to the NCAA championship game the last two seasons, "there are a lot of different things we can do offensively. Defensively, Ralph will, as a general rule, step outside and play the other team's power forward. He has the quickness and agility to do that."

Last year, Thomas correctly called "heads" in a coin toss with the Indiana Pacers, and used the first pick to draft Sampson.

The Rockets returned to the coin flip sweepstakes Wednesday with the Trail Blazers, who three years ago acquired Indiana's first-round pick in 1984 in exchange for journeyman center Tom Owens. The Pacers again finished in the Eastern Conference cellar.

In a preliminary flip by NBA Commissioner David Stern, Portland owner Larry Weinberg won the right to make the decisive call. Weinberg called a second toss "tails," and it came up heads, making Thomas and the Rockets a winner again.

"I was going to call heads again," Thomas said, "so when Larry called tails I felt I was getting what I wanted."

Portland finished 48-34 in the Pacific Division, but the Blazers acknowledged that their weak spot was a lack of size and strength at center.

"Realistically, we have a good team, sixth best in the NBA, so we are happy to have a chance to add to that with the second-best player in the draft," Weinberg said.

Boston advances to NBA championship

BOSTON (AP) — They swept through the East, then conquered the Midwest. Now the empire builders of the National Basketball Association are casting their greedy eyes westward for the final battle.

"We've won half the nation," said Cedric Maxwell. "The Los Angeles-Boston matchup will be a Civil War series... It might cut the country in half."

It won't be any kind of series if the Lakers can't survive their current skirmish with the outmanned but determined Phoenix Suns.

About 3½ hours after the Celtics finished off the Milwaukee Bucks, 115-108, Wednesday night to win their Eastern Conference final, 4-1, the Lakers lost to the Suns, 126-121. That battle shifts to Phoenix Friday for the sixth game of the best-of-seven confrontation for the Western Conference crown.

If Phoenix wins, the Lakers would play host for the decisive seventh game Sunday. If Los Angeles wins, the Celtics would be home, where they have won their last 15 games and nine straight in the playoffs, on Sunday to open the series that could bring them their 15th NBA title.

Boston, which beat Washington and New York in its first two series, took a big stride closer to that unprecedented accomplishment with balanced scoring, dominant rebounding.

Suns upend Lakers

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Something funny happened to the Los Angeles Lakers on their way to Boston and Sunday's National Basketball Association championship series opener against the Celtics.

The Phoenix Suns, given up for dead in the Western Conference final, played a suburb game Wednesday night to ambush the Lakers 126-121 and trim Los Angeles' lead in the best-of-seven series to 3-2.

The Lakers still can keep the date Sunday in Boston, but they must win Friday night in Phoenix, where the Suns already have dealt them one defeat in the series. A seventh Suns-Lakers game, if necessary, would be back at the Forum on Sunday afternoon.

"There was no tomorrow for us," said the Suns' Walter Davis, who pumped in 27 points and had 10 assists in Wednesday's upset. "We had a job to do and we just went out and did it."

Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley did not seem particularly disheartened by the loss, saying, "I still feel very confident about this thing. Our team has been down this road before. I feel good about our ability to get the job done."

Tigers tie all-time road win record

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

The only record concerning Lance Parrish and his Detroit Tigers teammates is the won in the standings. The way the club is going, it's headed for the kind of records athletes only dream about . . . and pennants are made of.

The Tigers upped their season's mark to 34-5 Wednesday night with their 16th consecutive road victory, a 4-2 triumph over California in which Parrish broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run homer in the seventh inning. The win tied the 1912 Washington Senators' American League record and is one short of the major league standard, set by the 1917 New York Giants.

Detroit, which is unbeaten on the road and leads second-place Toronto by eight games, can equal that achievement with a win in Anaheim tonight.

"I guess there's some significance to the record but we haven't really had time to think about it," said Parrish, who followed Barbro Garbey's infield single with his sixth homer of the season and first since April 16. It came off reliever Frank Lacorte, 0-2, to give Detroit it's eighth consecutive overall triumph.

"We've won so many games, every time we turn around we have a chance to tie a record. Later in the season, when we take it all in, it might mean more than now. We're all in the heat of the game."

Manager Sparky Anderson is hoping this team will make him famous.

"The only chance I'll have to get to the Hall of Fame is with these guys," said Anderson. "But maybe tomorrow, we'll lose, you never know."

"They are doing everything right. You can't beat that," said California's Rod Carew.

Dan Petry, 7-1, needed two innings of relief from Willie Hernandez, who earned his seventh save.

Doug DeCinces had a two-run homer for California.

Elsewhere, it was Kansas City 1, Chicago 0; New York 3, Seattle 0; Toronto 4, Minnesota 1; Baltimore 9, Oakland 5; Cleveland 5, Boston 4 and Texas 6, Milwaukee 1.

Royals 1, White Sox 0. In a classic pitching duel, Kansas City's Bud Black got the support of an unearned run in the first inning and preserved the lead.

Kids Inc. Briefs

SEASON NEARLY HALF GONE!

Can you believe the baseball-softball season is nearing the halfway point?

The boys' leagues will have completed four weeks of play after this week, while the girls have about three weeks to go in the regular season.

Most leagues have an abbreviated schedule the next few days, allowing open dates for Memorial Day and graduation.

In addition, the Babe Ruth League will take a one-week hiatus all of next week; and the girls' program takes a break on June 10-17.

Local tournaments starting around mid-June are planned for most leagues, and All-Star competition will occupy a number of players during the month of July.

With the school year also nearing its end, and families beginning to plan vacations, Kids Incorporated offers this special plea to all coaches: please collect all monies and unsold product from the Candy & Soap Sale and turn them into Gayle Cotten so we can clear our account with the supplier and get the money in the bank!

Valenzuela screws up Phils, 1-0

By HERSCHEL NISSESON AP Sports Writer

Fernando's fadeaway was working to perfection and it sent Philadelphia's 10-game winning streak fading into oblivion.

Fernando Valenzuela's famed screwball, which hadn't puzzled many batters this season, was back in business Wednesday night.

The left-hander checked the Phillies on three singles, walked six and struck out a career high 15 in hurling the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 1-0 victory. For good measure, Valenzuela also drove in the only run with a fifth-inning grounder in outdueling Steve Carlton.

It was the most strikeouts by a Dodger pitcher since Sandy Koufax fanned 16 Phillies in 1966.

"It was a tough game to lose, but you have to give him credit. He was awesome," Phillies Manager Paul Owens said of Valenzuela.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs downed the Atlanta Braves 3-1, the San Diego Padres edged the Montreal Expos 2-1 on Kevin McReynolds' 11th-inning homer, the Houston Astros blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0, the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 7-2 and the San Francisco-New York game was rained out.

Valenzuela, 4-5, had lost his last three games but handuffed the Phillies with an outstanding screwball and a sneaky fastball.

Astros 4, Cardinals 0

Harry Spilman belted a three-run homer to cap a four-run first inning and Bob Knepper scattered nine hits and struck out seven in pitching his second shutout of the season. Loser Joaquin Andujar walked Terry Puhl to start the game.

YOU AUTO KNOW
Don Henslee

Q. I've heard horror stories about batteries exploding when attempting to jump start a car. Is there a safe method for using jumper cables?

A. Glad you asked. Yes there is, but extreme caution should be used in any event. First, always make sure the battery you are jumping is the same voltage as the charged battery from which you are jumping. Although the cars have to be close in order to connect the cables, do not allow them to touch. Check the electrolyte level in both batteries and fill if necessary. Leave the caps off, and cover the filler holes with a rag for the remainder of the process. Connect the positive (+) terminal first, making sure the red cable clamp is used on both cars. Connect ONE end of the remaining jumper cable to the negative(-) terminal of the booster battery, and the other end of this cable to the engine block of the car with the run down battery. Once the car is started, remove the negative clamp from the engine block first, then the remaining cables, and replace vent caps.

By EPA decision

Texas environmentalists elated

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP)

Texas environmentalists and public officials cheered a decision by the Environmental Protection Agency to deny offshore toxic waste incineration permits that would have allowed tons of waste to be dumped off the state coast.

"This is a great victory," said Connie Reisinger, spokeswoman for the Gulf Coast Coalition for Public Health, a group representing some of the most vocal opponents of offshore incineration.

"It shows we really do have a voice in government and that government will listen. But the issue of ocean incineration is far from closed."

In denying ocean incineration permits to Chemical Waste Management Inc. of Oakbrook, Ill., EPA assistant administrator Jack Ravan said the agency would be conducting additional research and considering other offshore sites for future waste disposal.

The EPA plan would have allowed the burning of 3.3 million tons of toxic wastes on two ships 195 miles off the Texas coast.

More than 6,000 people attended EPA hearings in Brownsville last November to express opposition to the plan, including commercial and sport fishermen, farmworkers, tourist industry groups, doctors, representatives from the states of Alabama and Texas and environmentalists.

EPA officials said the hearing was the largest such meeting on an environmental issue in a decade.

Attorney General Jim Mattox, who said he had sued EPA in November for going ahead with hearings before making public their criteria for ocean incinerations, said he was happy with the EPA's decision.

"I told EPA they'd be way out of line if they issued PCB research permits, because they did not give us proper notice or the opportunity to comment on those. There is a violation of fundamental fairness when an agency changes theories in midstream."

J.J. Jacobsen, chairman of the pesticide committee of the Lone Star Chapter of the Sierra Club, gave credit "to the thousands of people who volunteered to work long hours over the past two years, to force a government agency to do its job according to the law."

U.S. Rep. Samuel Ortiz, (D-Corpus Christi), who represents the 27th congressional district along the lower Gulf Coast, called the decision "good news for South Texas."

He praised citizen groups for organizing effective testimony against the burn-tion would restore citizen's faith in the system.

"This is what people can do," he said. "It's very refreshing to see this happen."

Ortiz applauded Ravan for "keeping his word" that he would consider objections from citizen groups.

Gov. Mark White said Ravan's decision was "a victory for common sense."

The governor said he would "continue to monitor the EPA's" plans for offshore waste-burning.

"We must continue to insure that the health and safety of citizens and the environmental balance of the Gulf of Mexico will be protected," White said.

Frontera Audubon Society member Cindy Chapman said the EPA ruling "awards shore birds, wading birds and pelagic birds a better chance of survival."

"The gulf is an incredible feast of life and a critical habitat for many species of birds. We had major concerns that no studies had been done to assess the impact of the burns on wildlife—fish, whales, turtles and birds," she said.

Opponents of offshore incineration had complained that the EPA has no standards by which to measure the safety of ocean burns. They expressed concern over leaks of poisons during transport, contamination during storage at port and spills at sea.

Among the chemicals to be burned under the proposed permit were PCBs, polychlorinated biphenyls, once used as an electrical coolant until manufacture of the substance was banned in 1977.

Some Texas environmentalists reacted to the ruling with reservation, saying that Ravan had left the door open for further study of a technology that is dangerous and unnecessary.

"Burns on land can achieve a far greater efficiency than ocean burns," said Herman Rudenberg, spokesman for the Galveston County Toxic Waste Task Force and a member of the Sierra Club national coastal committee.

"There is so much waste to dispose of, but the technology for land incineration far exceeds that for ocean incineration. There's no reason to go to the ocean except to promote the notion of 'out of sight, out of mind,' which isn't acceptable to people anymore," Rudenberg said.

Still, he said, "it's super that people can make a difference."

The "S" in Harry S. Truman doesn't stand for anything. A family disagreement on whether his middle name should be Shippe or Solomon, after his two grandfathers, resulted in using only the middle initial.

TELEPHONE SALES

Most buyers want the basics

Telephone gadgetry has grown, yet most people prefer basic dial or Touch-Tone phones. So says AT&T, which dominates the phone-sale business. There's virtually no interest in decorator models, such as Pac-Man, cartoon-character or novelty phones.

Government grades help consumers shop, eat better

COLLEGE STATION -- Knowing the differences among government food grades can help you shop more economically for yourself and your family, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service food and nutrition specialist Dr. Dymple Cooksey.

Take beef, for example. Prime, the top USDA grade, is the ultimate in tenderness, juiciness and flavor. While Prime is best for roasting or broiling, it is likely to cost more than USDA choice which is the second grade, she says. The key difference between the two grades is that choice has slightly less "marbling," or fewer flecks of fat within the lean that makes the meat tender and juicy.

Some stores sell beef that would qualify for other USDA grades, such as Good, under a house brand name rather than under the USDA grade mark. This beef will likely cost less than Prime or Choice, and it may meet your needs well, particularly if you use slow, moist cooking to make it tender, notes the specialist.

In establishing grades for foods like meat, poultry, eggs, fruits, vegetables and dairy products, USDA considers the values that wholesale buyers and sellers place on the products, explains Cooksey. Generally, products with characteristics of the higher grades are more marketable and bring a better price.

Labeling of the grade on a product is not required by federal law, even if a food has been officially graded, she says. But a number of food manufacturers and distributors choose to put the official grade on their products, as do many retailers. USDA grades help establish quality levels of products, and this in turn, can help shoppers make choices. "Grade A products might be used in special meals or dishes when looks and textures are important," advises Cooksey.

"But lower grade products, which cost less and are still of good quality will do just as well in most dishes," she suggests.

Consumers should remember that all grades are equally wholesome and nutritious, says the specialist.

As you shop, you are most likely to see the USDA grade on beef, veal, lamb, broilers, turkeys, eggs and butter. You may also see it on some cheese, instant nonfat dry milk, preserves, frozen concentrated orange juice and canned and frozen fruits and vegetables.

Some fresh produce — mostly potatoes and apples — are also grade labeled. For fresh fruits and vegetables, the typical range of grades is U.S. Fancy, U.S. No. 1 and U.S. No. 2. The chief trading grade for most of these products is U.S. No. 1, while U.S. Fancy is a premium quality. These grades are generally based on a product's color, shape, maturity, and freedom from defects, such as cuts from harvesting equipment, notes Cooksey.

While only a few packers grade canned, frozen and dried products, many processing plants use USDA's grading service for quality control purposes, adds the specialist.

Evaluating long distance services confusing

COLLEGE STATION -- Selecting a long-distance telephone service may not be the biggest consumer decision you have to make this year, but it could be the most confusing.

More than 17 long-distance companies provide service in Texas and that number is growing, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist Nancy Granovsky. Some Texas communities are served by several long-distance companies and others by their regular telephone carrier only.

"Even where long-distance services are available, not everyone needs to subscribe, says Granovsky, who specializes in family financial management. If your present long-distance bills don't exceed $50-$10 each month, you probably will not benefit by a special service, she explains.

When and where you make most of your long-distance calls are key indicators of whether you need a service, says the specialist. If you make many calls during business hours, or between 5 and 11 p.m., the service can save you money. If you often call home from out of town or receive collect calls, rates from the alternate companies will also be cheaper, she adds.

But many variables will affect how much you actually pay. Granovsky suggests using the following questions to compare costs and features of long-distance services:

-What is the range of costs for calls of 100-3000 miles in cents per minute? What are the rates for day, evening and night calls? Make sure you get these figures in cents per minute so you can make comparisons between services.

-What are the basic fees? If there is a monthly subscription fee? What is the monthly minimum charge regardless of the number of calls made? Is there an initial set-up charge?

-What billing unit is used? In general, the smaller the unit the better. For example, a company that bills in 6 second increments might charge 4 cents for a call that lasted one second into a new minute, but a company that bills in 60 second increments might charge 42-50 cents for that extra second.

-Many calls be made to any interstate phone in the United States? To any phone in Texas?

-What about "special" calls? May collect calls be made? Can operator-assisted calls be made? Are there extra charges for calls made away from home?

-Are there any differences in rates (except those differences resulting from calls made at different times of the day) for calls made from home, calls made away from home, collect calls, calls made out of state and calls made in state?

-Are there any times during the day when calls are not permitted for the service option you are considering?

-How will billing and billing errors be handled? Some companies will bill directly to a major credit card and others will send a separate bill. With some services, a very short call may go unbilled while an unanswered call may be billed to you if the phone rings for a long time.

First sign of true spring is when the fall fashions begin to appear in the stores.

Angle of handles helps with chores

COLLEGE STATION -- Technology has brought American consumers microwave ovens, food processors and any number of labor-saving appliances. But one very simple change in the angle of handles on household equipment may do even more to change how we do our chores.

The idea of placing handles at a 19-degree angle -- or "Bennett's Bend" -- as it has been patented by its inventor, makes things easier to hold and use, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist Bonnie Piernot.

The main effect of a 19-degree angle handle is that it eliminates "ulnar" deviation," or the bend in your wrist that occurs as you pick up or use a tool, she explains. "The bend" allows you to keep your wrist straight.

To get an idea of this angle, says Piernot, make your hand into a fist, as though you were gripping a pot handle. Push a pencil into the space between the fingers and palm. With your fist palm-side down on a flat surface, the pencil will slope upward about 19 degrees from horizontal.

One cooking utensil manufacturer has already conducted consumer research on the new design, says Piernot. The research indicated that 91 percent of the women participating in the study recognized the benefits of the new handle angle.

Persons with lifting problems, including those with arthritis, the handicapped or the elderly, may find angled handles especially useful, she says.

Products currently available with a 19-degree angle handle include kitchen cutlery, pots and pans. Hammers, pens and even softball bats with the bent handle are under development. Virtually all basic household equipment, including vacuum cleaners, mops and brooms may be affected by this development in the future, Piernot says.

Although the angled handle seems a little strange after years of using straight handles, it should provide better grip, control and balance for many household equipment items, notes the home economist.

Score with celery treat

DEAR READERS -- Looking for a tasty snack? A new trick with coconut? Skin protection during home permanents? Well, have we got a Pointer for you! -- POLLY

DEAR POLLY -- For a delicious, nutritious treat, stuff celery stalks with peanut butter. -- MRS. N.L.M.

DEAR POLLY -- I had a fresh coconut that I couldn't get to for a while, so I tucked it into the freezer. Much later, I asked "Daddy" to crack it. To our surprise, all the coconut meat fell out in two pieces. Nice and easy. -- HELEN

DEAR POLLY -- When getting a home permanent, apply petroleum jelly to your face. This will keep the strong permanent solution from burning your skin if it should get on your face. -- MARY ALICE

DEAR POLLY -- To make a cream pie easy to slice, add one envelope of plain gelatin dissolved in 1/4 cup cold milk to the cream filling mixture after cooking it. -- LINDA

DEAR POLLY -- Rub brown paste shoe polish on the surface with a soft cloth, then wipe off the excess for a nice finish on unfinished picture frames.

I fill a small jar with a snap-on lid with cotton balls, then pour my astringent over them. I have an astringent-soaked cotton ball ready whenever I need it. Saves mess and time!

When I make drop cookies or drop candy, I put them into cupcake papers that I've cut down to about half the original height. The cookies or candy are easier to handle this way and the paper cups keep them from spreading too much. -- GERT

DEAR POLLY -- Do you steam puddings in aluminum pans? Cut small pieces of lemon and add to the steaming water, or add a generous squirt of lemon juice. This will prevent the aluminum from turning black during the cooking process. -- PATRICIA

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

He's not a 'crybaby'

DEAR DR. LAMB -- I'm 23 years old and diagnosed as an insulin-dependent diabetic. Control and maintenance of my diabetes has become a major concern for me and I've given up alcohol and cigarettes.

My wife, who was helpful and understanding at first, now acts as if we should forget about it. When I ask for her opinions she thinks I'm crying for sympathy. When I had an insulin reaction she said, "You're acting like a sissy."

How can I make her see I want her to help and understand me and not feel sorry for me? I love my wife and don't want her to think I'm a crybaby.

DEAR READER -- It could be your wife wants to deny your illness. This often happens with loved ones. They don't want the ones they love to be ill so they simply deny the facts.

In any case, it's important to your health that she face reality and understand your needs. Your diet management will be far more difficult if she isn't interested in your problem. A diabetic who takes insulin must have a fairly consistent diet and exercise pattern. Otherwise regulating the diabetes with the right amount and schedule of insulin is difficult to impossible.

I'm sending you the Health Letter 18-10, Hyperglycemia. The Diabetic Problem, which you should ask your wife to read. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Discuss the problem with your doctor. Perhaps your doctor can help involve your wife in learning about your diet requirements and your other problems. If you can't make any headway with that approach, you both may need to seek professional counseling to resolve the psychological problems. A continued pattern of uninterest and critical comments could indicate a problem in your marriage.

DEAR DR. LAMB -- The drug Elavil has been in the news for the past few years. Would you discuss the pros and cons of this mood-changing drug? Two of my friends are taking it, but in different doses. What is the usual dose?

DEAR READER -- Elavil is one of a group of medicines commonly used to treat depression. That's why it and others are sometimes spoken of as mood elevators. It's similar to other medicines used for this purpose, called the tricyclic antidepressants.

It's a very good medicine when used properly. It's not something one takes just to feel happy. In many cases of depression the reason for loss of energy and joy of living is related to chemical changes in the brain. These medicines help to correct that balance.

Elavil, like other medicines in this group, can cause sedation, dryness of the mouth, blurred vision, constipation and low blood pressure on standing. Caution should be used in taking these drugs if a person has any form of glaucoma.

But the medicine has been used in thousands of patients with generally good results. The dosage varies according to the patient's need. Usually the dose is small to start with, then gradually increased to the desired level. In most cases it's unwise to stop the drug suddenly; it's better to gradually decrease the dosage.

Orientation classes at WTSU scheduled

Five orientation sessions in June and July will provide information for students who will begin West Texas State University in the fall semester as freshmen and for their parents.

Hosted by the WTSU Office of Student Affairs, summer orientation sessions have been scheduled for Friday, June 15, June 22, June 29 and July 6, and Monday, July 30.

Students are invited to an orientation session after they have submitted transcripts and admission forms and been accepted at WTSU. Each student who expresses interest in a session at least one month before the session date will receive a newsletter, "Buffalo Tales," from the student affairs office, said Jim Hall, assistant to the dean of student affairs.

Students and parents will share a number of activities after they register on the selected date from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. at the Virgil Henson Physical Activities Center. General sessions will be separate for students and parents from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and they will meet together again at 10 a.m. to receive information concerning life in the residence halls and about commuting students.

The morning will continue with a choice of sessions concerning financial aid, Student Special Services, fraternities and sororities, Returning Student Program, placement, handicapped students and the ROTC program.

Following lunch at the East Dining Hall, students and parents will attend a pre-registration presentation with information about the Registrar's Office, business office and University Bookstore.

While the students are receiving academic advisement and pre-registration for fall semester courses, parents will be hosted at a "parent adjustment hour" and "student support hour."

"They'll talk about changes the students are going through," said Hall. "The student needs support—in their classes, the tougher academics and the changes the family is experiencing. This is also new for parents. They need to help the student adjust before they get here."

A reception for orientation participants will conclude each day with parents and students meeting faculty and staff members and other students.

WTSU students will assist with the orientation sessions and sponsor an organizations fair at each reception to allow prospective students to become acquainted with campus organizations.

"We want to make orientation more student-oriented. We're using the students to help because it's helpful to get information from someone who's gone through it," explained Hall.

Students who participate in one of the five sessions will register for fall semester courses and avoid attending the registration day in August.

Additional information concerning summer orientation may be obtained by calling the office of the dean of student affairs. Dr. Bob Kinney is dean of student affairs at WTSU.

CANCER ANSWER LINE

American Cancer Society

M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

QUESTION: Do women get bladder cancer?

ANSWERline: Bladder cancer is more prevalent among men by almost three to one. It occurs mostly in persons above 50 years of age. Men who work in industries using dyes and other chemicals are at higher risk.

QUESTION: Do young men get prostate cancer?

ANSWERline: Prostate cancer generally occurs in men over 50, although younger men have been known to get it. Prostate cancer also occurs more frequently in married men than among single men.
