Hoover's Cohorts Stampede Republican Conclave Jury Unable to Agree In Trial Of Mrs. Nina Stevens

Accused Woman Collapses While On Witness Stand

Enters Self Defense Plea In Testimony; Others Appear As Character Witnesses to Slay Woman.

VERDICT EXPECTED EARLY WEDNESDAY

Jury Locked Up For Night After Hours of Deliberation Fail to Net Agreement In Case.

The jury was deadlocked last night in the trial of Mrs. Nina Stevens, gray haired defendant, charged with the murder of her daughter-in-law, Thelma Collins, at the Stevens farm home southwest of the city last November.

The jury retired about 11 o'clock last night after being confined in the jury room for more than four hours following an end to deliberations on the case. The political speaking in the district courtroom and the absence of an officer held the jury in the locked room after the body had failed to reach a decision.

The case was given to the jury about 6 o'clock last evening. Testimony was completed about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a number of defense witnesses had testified in the character of the deceased.

Defendant Collapsed.
A high pitch of excitement was reached in the case yesterday when the aged defendant collapsed on the stand while attempting to tell her story of the killing. She was removed from the courtroom and placed under medical care, returning to the trial several hours later.

Mrs. Stevens pleaded self defense, "I took the stand and declared that Mrs. Collins came around the car just before the shooting, sitting back, murmuring 'I'll get you, I'll fix you.' Thelma Collins had gone to the home of Mrs. Stevens to get her two children, who had been placed in the custody of the defendant."

Added 'Treasure' Found by Hunters

Thousands of Shoppers Storm Downtown Stores, Searching for Coveted Prizes.

Additional "treasures" were found by the fortunate ones who canvassed the city yesterday with their newspapers, searching for the numbers that meant a free prize to them. Lured by the "hunt," as it were, a magnet, thousands of shoppers, recruited both from over the city and from the rural sections, stormed downtown stores yesterday.

Many expressions of pleased surprise at the quality and prices of merchandise displayed for the Bargain Event, being held in conjunction with the Treasury Hunt, were heard and those who did not share in the prizes seemed well enough pleased just with the regular Bargain prices.

Several hundred dollars worth of prizes are waiting to be shared in by people of Lubbock. Take your Avalanche and your Journal and compare the number which appears on its front page with numbers on merchandise displayed in stores over the city. Where the numbers correspond, the merchandise is yours.

Senator Pledges Ample Home For New Court Here

Tells Large Audience That Committee of Which He Is Member Will See That Building Is Adequate.

"As a member of the Senate committee on public grounds and buildings, I promise you that we will see that an ample and sufficient home for the new federal court is secured." Senator Earle B. Mayfield assured the 100 Lubbock citizens at a dinner given in his honor at the Lubbock Hotel last night. His short talk followed the dinner.

"The greatest pleasure coming to anyone in a public office is to have the opportunity of rendering a worthwhile service to his people," Senator Mayfield said, "and I was only doing my duty when supporting the court bill for Lubbock. I do not deserve any credit for what I did," he continued, "to your local committee and the citizens that sent them to Washington should go the credit, for they furnished the facts, which alone were responsible for the consideration of the project."

Mayor Harley D. Woods acted as toastmaster at the dinner and opened the short program with a speech.

State Utilities Bureau Work Told To Trade Probers

$16,000 to $18,000 Yearly Spent On Dissemination Of Favorable Publicity, W. O. Grant Declares.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—An information bureau maintained by Texas utilities companies spent $16,000 to $18,000 a year in disseminating favorable publicity among newspapers and information among schools, William O. Grant, director of the bureau testified today at the federal trade commissioner's inquiry into utility companies.

The bureau, the witness said, was maintained by the joint contributions of utility companies in the state. A continuous stream of articles was sent to Texas newspapers and to press associations, Grant testified. In addition to this, the utility companies inaugurated a speaking campaign by their executives.

No Educators Paid.
Grant said no Texas educators were paid by the bureau but admitted the utility companies had paid expenses of four college professors to an educational meeting at New Orleans last winter. Among

RECORD STOCK SALES Five Million Share Session On Wall Street

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Wall Street today recorded the first 5,000,000 share session in the history of the New York Stock Exchange.

The record of 5,192,000 shares was created in a market that was rocked to its foundations by a storm of selling orders which carried prices of active issues down $2 to nearly $30 a share in a reaction equalling in intensity the disastrous break of March 1928.

The previous record of 4,897,400 shares was established on May 15.

The Columbia, which left New York this morning, made the flight in a little more than 11 hours. The landing here was at 5:30 Eastern Standard time.

TREPASSEY, N. J., June 12 (AP)—Wilmer Stultz, pilot of the monoplane Friendship, announced tonight that a new attempt to take off for a trans-Atlantic flight would be made at 3:30 o'clock Eastern Standard time tomorrow morning if conditions were then favorable tonight's forecast was for fair weather.

Louis Gordon, mechanic of the expedition, said the plane, which was drenched with sea water during seven unsuccessful attempts to take off from the Harbor today, was ready for the new trial.

TREPASSEY, N. J., June 12 (AP)—The weight of the monoplane Friendship, loaded with fuel for a trans-Atlantic voyage, baffled several attempts made to get her off the water today and Miss Amelia Earhart, who hopes to be the first woman to complete the ocean hop, met with the latest of a series of disappointments. While Miss Earhart's rival, Miss Mabel Boll, was being hoisted by her way from New York to Harbor Grace in the monoplane Columbia.

EUROPE INTERESTED Convention Holds Unprecedented Grip On Europe

PARIS, June 12 (AP)—Never in the history of American politics has a similar convention attracted so much interest in France as that of the Republican party at Kansas City.

Andy Mellon Tricks Major Hoople Woe Descends Upon the Head of the Avalanche's Star Correspondent

BY MAJOR AMOS HOOPLE
Avalanche Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—Egad, folks, I am beside myself with wrath. Understand me, though, wrath is not a delegate or a politician. I mean I am in high temper. In my great anger I craved two cigars that were given to me by an Indiana delegate with double vision. It all came about this way:

Through my private wire, I learned that my old dear friend Andrew Mellon was due to arrive in town. Knowing Mellon as I do, I am privileged to call him Andy. Well, anyway, I hurriedly planned a great reception for Andy, rounding up three birds and all the neutral delegates. I proposed a march to the depot. I borrowed a traffic cop's horse while he was on foot untangling traffic, and calling out orders in my old army manner, I swung the delegates in march formation, signalled the bands to play, dashed to the lead of the parade, and commanded:

"ARE YOU IN FAVOR OF FARM RELIEF?"

"ABSOLUTELY! THE FARMER SHOULD BE GIVEN COOLER WEATHER IN AUGUST!"

As we passed street after street toward the depot, thousands of citizens joined in the parade, almost rivaling in appearance my triumphal march of '96 into Algiers.

Pulling up to the depot I called the bands into mass formation, and lined the delegates into an aisle of honor, and while waiting I made a short speech to the thousands of onlookers, bringing out those sterling words: "This is the dawn of a new era," and "I view with alarm the general habit of sedan automobile owners never using the trunk rack on the back of the vehicle, except for appearance." I was cheered to the echo for bringing up this national issue.

The train was due in five seconds. Borrowing a bystander's watch I tolled off the ticks for a signal to the massed band to play "Hail, See MAJOR HOOPLE, page 6

Mayfield Bases Campaign Solely On Merits, Record

Says Texas Is Tired Of 'Muddling' and Would Like to Hear More About Candidates Qualifications

Presenting his own merits and records in office as his only qualification, Senator Earle B. Mayfield last night addressed a packed house at the district courtroom in the "interest of his campaign for reelection to the United States senate."

Senator Mayfield's speech was devoid of "muddling" against his opponents. He stated that Texas had been torn by bitter "personal" campaigning for the past 15 years, and that he "was willing to stand on his own records and not on the failures of his opponents."

"The two paramount economic questions in the campaign are transportation and education," he said.

DEMAND 'FARM' PLANK Onrush of Delegates Halts Platform Work

KANSAS CITY, June 12 (AP)—The resolutions committee of the Republican national convention was overwhelmed late today by an onrush of men and women bearing the familiar yellow agricultural badges and claiming to be representative of the farmers of the country.

After three or four hundred of the visitors had arrived bringing a halt to the public hearings of the committee, James J. Davis, secretary of labor, announced above the confusion that he was advised by the custodian of the Eagles hall that if any more persons undertook to crowd into the assembly hall, the floor supports would give way.

ALVAREZ CHARGED Is Held For Smuggling Silks Over Border

LAREDO, June 12 (AP)—General Jose Alvarez was formally charged with conspiracy to smuggle silks into Mexico from the United States today at Nuevo Laredo after a three day examination before Federal Judge Isaura Villareal.

The charge became necessary through expiration of the three day period for taking testimony allowed by the Mexican constitution. Bond probably will be allowed within the five days.

Nicaragua Wants More Marines To Watch Elections

Detachment Will Be Trained At Special School, For Handling Voters In The Country's Elections.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—A request for the dispatch of 600 additional marines to Nicaragua to assist in the supervision of that country's elections next October has been made of the navy department by General Frank R. McCoy, in charge of the balloting.

According to the plan learned today at the navy department, the marines are to be trained at a school organized two months ago at Leon, Nicaragua, in handling the voters during the elections. The request is for the additional 600 marines to be detached from all other duty to undergo the training which will include the learning of Spanish Nicaragua laws and customs.

DAWES BOOM STARTS 'Hell and Maria' May Be Nominated Again

KANSAS CITY, June 12 (AP)—Republican leaders were turning tonight to consideration of a vice-presidential candidate.

Vice-President Dawes was thrown prominently into the situation by Secretary Mellon who declared his renomination "logical" and there were many tonight who believed that the quiet mannered secretary of the treasury had named the Republican ticket for the campaign in his choice of Hoover and Dawes.

Senator Borah of Idaho also endorsed Mr. Dawes.

NOBILE MAROONED Will Be Week Before Ice Breakers Make Way

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 12.—Faced with the probability that at least a week must elapse before ice breakers can reach the survivors of the dirigible Italia, aviators in the north are preparing desperate attempts to get food and medicine to the suffering man.

Captain Hjalmar Riiser-Larsen and Lieutenant Ludvig Holm, Norwegian air men, are on the smaller Robby, trying to smash its way through ice floes off the north coast of the archipelago.

The men of General Umberto Nobile's Arctic expedition are awaiting them at Foy's island.

Early End to Convention Is Seen as Nomination of Secretary Looms On First Ballot.

MORE THAN MAJORITY IS ALREADY PLEDGED

Pennsylvania's Weighty Delegation, Massachusetts and Idaho Climb Aboard Hoover Bandwagon.

By J. L. WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—Herbert Hoover's last moving cohorts stamped the Republican national convention before its opening session today, and made of it virtually a gathering to ratify his nomination for president.

Unless there is a political earthquake which no seer will predict, the Secretary of Commerce will be declared the choice of his party Thursday on the first ballot. Then a vice-presidential selection will be made and the big show will be over. The Hoover hordes marched on convention hall exuberant with confidence, and even as many of them were seating themselves in the flag-decked auditorium the news was flashed among them—that Mellon had led 79 Pennsylvanians into their camp; that the Idaho delegation of eleven headed by Borah, had capitulated; that William Butler and his Bay states were ready to give up any hope that Coolidge would run, and that New Jersey had definitely placed her fortunes with the leader.

More Than Majority.
These votes were more than enough to give Hoover a majority. Even Jim Watson gave up the ghost and urged his allies to organize for a vote of "protest." Louden headquarters said they would carry on, but without much hope and the others of the coalition forces looked

Sponsor for Band Is Selected

Miss Margaret Green to accompany High School Group on Tour Through West

Miss Margaret Green is the girl selected from the Girls' Reserve organization, who will sponsor the Lubbock high band on its 2000 mile tour through the western states, beginning Saturday.

Miss Green, winner in a contest to determine the girl who will accompany the band as sponsor, was presented from the stage of the Palace Theatre last night. As she was formally introduced the band played, "Girl of My Dreams."

Farewell concert of the band will be played Saturday on the Tech campus, starting at 8 o'clock in the evening. The entire public is invited to this audition.

J. W. Crowley, director of the band, stated yesterday that a letter had been received from Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor University, inviting the band to play at a luncheon at the Baylor cafeteria on June 12.

The Loyal Sisters' Needle club is to meet this afternoon with Mrs. F. B. Malone, 1917 10th street, at 3 o'clock.

The Hi-Lo Bridge club will meet tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don L. Jones, at the Experiment station, where they will have a picnic.

June 17 is Father's Day. We have a friend in the little business, and he says: "I'm doing very well."

Body suit filed by her husband Giles Healy in the State Supreme Court of New York. Mrs. Healy says that her husband once "confessed" to her that he once lived on snakes and lizards and crocodiles and ants when in South America.

Well, of all the narrow intolerance! If Mr. Healy insisted on stopping at the butcher's and bringing home crocodiles or snakes or other noxious beasts for his spouse to fry or boil or bake for supper, that might be inconsideration, indeed, if the lady herself did not relish these esoteric viands.

But when it's merely a matter of objecting to a past taste which has absolutely no connection with her present married life, it's the acme of intolerance and makes one feel that the husband may have just grounds for asking for a divorce. Suppose he objected because once upon a time she wore red hair ribbons—and he hates red!

HAM AND EGG REALITY Probably while Frank Kubucka was going to the mines every day his wife sometimes grumbled about this same cooking—grumbled at early hours, grumbled at lunch baskets to pack, grumbled at dinners to cook with little money for everything tasty. But now all that grumbling must have seemed like a dream in her joyful eagerness to cook ham and eggs for Frank Kubucka for whom for 72 long hours she never expected to cook again! Release from the commonplace is almost invariably no release at all.

"NO MORE BABIES" Mrs. Edward Cromwell, 35, of Bridgeport, Conn., has appealed to police to help her with her problem of a husband who, on wages ranging from $18 to $35 a week, sees no special reason why the production of 13 children within less than 10 years of marriage nor his intention of accepting as many more "as the Lord sends," is at all out of order.

Mrs. Cromwell told authorities that all she wanted was a "little peace and quiet and rest from child-bearing." Doctors have told her there must be no more babies, Edward thinks "the Lord knows best."

No law seems to cover the case. While the best minds are seeking a way out for the nerve-ridden woman, they are holding Edward on a technical charge of "breach of the peace."

Only four of the 13 children are living and one of these is a hopeless cripple, born spineless from a mother too weak to form a perfect little body.

WHY BLAME EDWARD In view of these facts the finger of scorn is pointed at Edward, of course, but as long as church and state and the selfishness of individuals who choose to deny the masses what they know and apply for their own lives prevail why should Edward, leaderless and ignorant, be blamed?

HE ATE SNAKES Is it any crime or offense, any just cause for divorce, if a man likes to eat snakes or ants or small, tender crocodiles? Mrs. Virginia Smith Healy, a Callaghan oil heiress, made this unique complaint in her answer to the separation and child custody suit filed by her husband Giles Healy in the State Supreme Court of New York.

McMillan Named Camping Head Of Local Boy Scouts

Dates for Summer Event Announced As From July 30 to August 8; Large Attendance Expected.

W. O. McMillan of Lubbock has been selected to head the camping committee of the Boy Scouts of the South Plains. It was announced yesterday by R. J. Murray, president of the South Plains Area Council.

Mr. McMillan announced that the dates of the Summer Training camp would be July 30 to August 8, and it is expected that such a large attendance will warrant at least a ten day extra period. He is now working on plans for the camp and plans to spend several days at the camp site before the camp opens in completing plans for the opening.

In speaking of the camp, Mr. Murray said: "The camping program is the most important part of our Scout work. It is in the great outdoors that the boys come in contact with nature and learn those principles of life which are so essential to a happy nation. It is there that a boy builds himself physically, mentally, and morally. Because of the importance of this part of the Scout program the executive committee has given much consideration to the selection of a head for the camping committee."

"In Mr. McMillan we feel that we have secured the right man. He is an outdoor man, having had much experience in camping, hunting, and fishing. At the recent Scoutmaster training course he became interested in the scout camp near Post and has worked out plans for its development." Mr. Murray stated in conclusion.

Prohibition Row Looms as Serious Platform Subject

Committee Faces Bitter Conflict Over Form of Prohibition and Farm Relief Declarations.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. June 12.—Facing bitter controversies over the form declarations on farm relief and prohibition enforcement are to take, the resolutions committee went to work today on the platform which is to be presented to the republican national convention.

That the prohibition row is to assume sizable proportions in the committee was made manifestly evident today with the offering of wet plank from the conservative floor. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, sending up one and William S. Vare elect from Pennsylvania, introducing a second one.

It was made known that the prohibition enforcement plank in tentative administrative draft prepared by Chairman Reed Smoot of Utah in collaboration with a number of other party leaders definitely called for "rigid enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment."

This is in line with the demand by Senator Borah of Idaho, a member of the resolutions committee, but it will meet with the determined and united opposition of the wet and the convention, who not only do not want this amendment identified by name but favor a declaration for modification of the Volstead act if not repeal of the prohibition amendment.

Enjoy Hayride Experiment Farm Scene of Party

The Y. W. A. of the First Baptist church went on a hayride to the grounds of the Experiment station last Monday night.

Games were played and a picnic supper enjoyed. After discussion transportation, the hayride cleared the road, the ride across the fields—31 miles—killed and 75 persons' inside of 100.

It is a claim of the chairman of the plan that out of this hayride actually eliminated 1000. Obvious of immediate.

The Woman's Day. By Alene Sumner. Summer.

More than a hundred dead men had been brought up from the charnel house of the Mather, Pa. mine. Then they brought up Frank Kubucka—alive. He had lived down there with the dead about 72 hours. "Ham and eggs," were his first words spoken through parched and swollen lips.

THE TO-DO One can just imagine Mrs. Frank Kubucka dashing to the store for the ham and eggs, though no such luxurious eating had been thought of in the Kubucka's home for months. One can imagine the butcher and grocer giving her more than she asked for, even if the Kubucka bill hadn't been paid for months. One can imagine the to-do in the Kubucka kitchen as Mrs. Kubucka put the grease in the spider and told all the little Kubuckas, "your Pa's coming home," cuffing their ears as they got in the way, giving orders, cooking for her man who was dead—but was alive again.

Release from the commonplace is almost invariably no release at all.

"NO MORE BABIES" Mrs. Edward Cromwell, 35, of Bridgeport, Conn., has appealed to police to help her with her problem of a husband who, on wages ranging from $18 to $35 a week, sees no special reason why the production of 13 children within less than 10 years of marriage nor his intention of accepting as many more "as the Lord sends," is at all out of order.

Mrs. Cromwell told authorities that all she wanted was a "little peace and quiet and rest from child-bearing." Doctors have told her there must be no more babies, Edward thinks "the Lord knows best."

HE ATE SNAKES Is it any crime or offense, any just cause for divorce, if a man likes to eat snakes or ants or small, tender crocodiles? Mrs. Virginia Smith Healy, a Callaghan oil heiress, made this unique complaint in her answer to the separation and child custody suit filed by her husband Giles Healy in the State Supreme Court of New York.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON HORACE FORD Cincinnati Reds

SOMETHING MUST HAVE BIT ME!

HORACE FORD IS FINDING STARDOM IN THE Waning Days of His Career.

The ball players around the National League circuit—and they usually know—say that Horace Ford, shortstop for the Cincinnati Reds is the most improved player in the big leagues. Cincinnati fans go farther and offer him as the most valuable player of the current season. After tramping around through the major leagues for 19 years with the Braves, the Phils and the Robins, Ford finally hit his stride with the Cincinnati club. The former Tufts College boy and Hughey Criz have been forming the best second base combination in the league and they figure to make a new double play record this season. Ford's greatly improved play has corrected a weakness that has bothered the Reds for years and he may make a pennant winner out of the club.

Doubt On Hoover Early Nomination Is Now Dispelled

Coveted Appointment As Party Leader Comes In Reach of the Commerce Secretary.

(By Associated Press) KANSAS CITY, June 12.—The republican presidential nomination came visibly within reach of Herbert Hoover today as the movement in his behalf assumed band wagon proportions and his selection, probably on the first ballot, Thursday, became a certainty.

Doubt as to the outcome was dispelled when Mellon of Pennsylvania and Butler of Massachusetts, both leading "draft Coolidge" advocates, enlisted under the Hoover banner, announcing that they were convinced the president would not accept the nomination even if it were tendered him.

Take Mellon's Word. The Pennsylvania delegation, one of the keys to the situation, accepted Mellon's word and immediately went in a block into the Hoover ranks. This in itself, focus of the commerce secretary's control, was enough to clinch his nomination.

Quickly the 11 delegates from Idaho, originally instructed for Dore, came over to Hoover. All of them abandoning their plan to vote for Coolidge. Vermont's 11 unit-instructed votes swung over and other delegations were reported on the verge of breaking away from other candidates.

For the most part, rival presidential aspirants and their managers withheld public comment on the turn of today's events. Lewden of Illinois remained in his hotel suite, the candidate said his position was unchanged, but his chief lieutenant Clarence F. Buck, conceding Hoover's nomination, said the fight on behalf of the farmer would go on elsewhere. In conference with supporters or greeting friends were Watson of Indiana, Curtis of Kansas, Coff of West Virginia, all conceding privately that their combined cause had been given a death blow.

Claim More Than 500. A winner in virtually all delegate contests, Hoover went into the convention week with his managers claiming a few more than 500 votes in face of contradictions from opponents. On all sides, Mellon was regarded as a key man, who could furnish his cabinet colleague with the votes he needed to go over or might block his nomination by holding out.

Less than two hours before the convention this morning the delegates from the keystone state held a caucus.

Group to Draft Platform Named By Republicans. Four Hours of Public Hearings, Running Whole Scale of Issues, Brings Appointments.

(By Associated Press) KANSAS CITY, June 12.—After more than four hours of public hearings, which ran the whole scale of issues, but centered around prohibition and farm relief, the republican committee of the republican national convention late tonight named 15 of its members to draft a party platform.

This sub-committee immediately began its labors with the prospect of remaining in session until after dawn tomorrow, and perhaps almost up to the hour set for its report back to the entire committee—10 a. m., or half an hour before the second session of the national convention is to begin.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary Hoover was precipitated today unexpectedly into the summit of an actual political campaign with the sudden emergence of his probable nomination for the presidency. From the moment intent of the Pennsylvania delegation to support him was announced, the secretary's private offices in the commerce department were inundated. The telephone wires were jammed and a small host of newsmen assembled in the anteroom. Nevertheless, the pressure failed to break the self-imposed silence as to politics which has been followed by Mr. Hoover for weeks.

It was made clear that Mr. Hoover accepted the fact of his nomination as assured and that he had his intimates today three themselves into the mapping out of further plans and campaign arrangements. Notwithstanding, Mr. Hoover would give out no word as to his views on the platform, upon political topics. What he is to say on those subjects as outlined in the late dispatches today three themselves into the mapping out of further plans and campaign arrangements. Fight for Texas Delegates May Be Carried to Convention Members If Wurzbach Faction Is Ruled Against

(By Associated Press) KANSAS CITY, June 12.—The fight between two rival republican factions for the right to represent Texas at the national convention was carried late Tuesday before the credentials committee, with small prospects of a decision before Wednesday.

Congressman Harry Wurzbach of Seguin, represented by counsel for the anti-Hoover coalition, presented his appeal from a decision of the national executive committee seating the 98 delegates, including 22 district delegates, selected by the "regular" state convention controlled by National Committeeman R. B. Cragger of Brownsville.

Mr. Wurzbach said that all the delegates selected by the district conventions in Texas, known as the Wurzbach-Littleton delegates, are here to take their seats if they win them. His chief point is that it has been a practice of the republican party since 1880 to seat national delegates selected by districts instead of legislative conventions.

The Cragger faction, which already has organized and appointed members of the convention committees, including Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, an the credentials committee hearing the contest, contends that the state election law of 1905 gives the state convention the right and power to select district delegates.

The Texas contest is one of the most important before the credentials committee. The Cragger faction is committed almost irrevocably to Hoover, adding 26 votes to his strength.

If the committee goes against the Wurzbach faction, the fight probably will be taken to the convention floor.

Indications Are For Best Meeting West Texas C C

(By Associated Press) FORT WORTH, June 12.—With assurance that at least seventy-five cities and towns in West Texas will send organized delegations, indications, a week in advance of the tenth annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention are that the event will be by far the greatest gathering in the history of the organization. The first business session will be held on Monday, June 18, and continue until Wednesday evening, when the new president will be installed and the next meeting place selected.

Thousands of rooms have already been reserved for the visitors, while scores of delegations will come prepared to camp in various parks or tourists camps of the city.

Local municipalities, composed of more than 150 of Fort Worth's leading business men, have been devoting much time to the plans for the convention, and were tomorrow the opening date, according to Manager Homer D. Wade, the city would be ready for the guests.

At least 75 bands will furnish music for the delegates. Many points in West Texas have declared a holiday for Tuesday, June 18, Delegation Day, and will send hundreds of their people to the city to take part in the annual delegation parade. This is expected to be the largest and most colorful parade of the kind ever staged in Texas. Approximately 100 sponsors have been named by as many West-Texas towns and most of those will ride in beautifully decorated floats. In addition merchants in Fort Worth will enter decorated

At any rate, as the delegates wandered in slowly to fill their allotted places on the floor of the vast hall, there was no cheering for rival candidates, no unusual display of campaign badges of arm bands, but just a steady, growing hum of talk.

State Road Fund Now Has Balance Of 18 Millions

Money Taken In and Spent During May Practically Balanced, Says Report of Treasurer.

(By Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, June 12.—Money taken and money spent practically balanced each other in the state's general revenue and highway funds during May, leaving a cash balance of more than $18,000,000 in the two funds, State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher reported in a detailed statement on the 33 funds.

The total cash balance of all funds was $23,340,108.62, at the close of May business, Treasurer Hatcher reported.

The highway fund balance was $12,098,065.43, the largest May 31 balance in several years. During May $3,700,000 was taken into the fund and $2,350,000 spent.

In the general revenue fund, receipts were $2,400,000 and disbursements $2,500,000. The cash balance was $5,928,423.77.

Status of other important funds follows: available school receipts, $1,395,000, disbursements, $1,436,000, cash balance, $1,967,000; permanent school receipts $247,000; disbursements, $107,000; cash balance $1,501,000; state textbook receipts, $1,000,000; disbursements $466,000, cash balance $37,271.

portation and farm relief," the speaker said. He favors taking power over state traffic from the hands of the Interstate Commerce commission and giving it back to the state.

Farm Condition Deplorable.

The agricultural condition was pictured as deplorable by the speaker, with numerous banks closing up in agricultural districts, and armies of farm workers leaving the cities. He declared that he had supported every measure in the direction of farm relief and would continue to do so if reelected.

"The question of agricultural relief is not so much a question of increase of production," the senator said, "as it is of an improved marketing system. Millions have been spent for increase of production, but nothing for efficient marketing machinery. The government has helped other enterprises in the nation with the exception of farming."

Mayfield branded the attempts to keep him from a seat in the senate as "infamous and unholly" and declared that he lost almost two years because his opponents were trying to keep him from being seated.

The senator stated that he was author of the bill which gave the I. C. C. the right to make emergency rates for drought or flood stricken areas of the bill which gave the secretary of war to regulate the bridge toll rates over the Red river of the senate resolution which gave the secretary of agriculture the power to investigate the violent fluctuations in the price of wheat last year; of the bill which directed the agricultural head of the government to make rules and regulations concerning the moving of cattle into Texas from Mexico; and secured the abolition of an amendment of the agricultural appropriation bill which tended to increase the use of cotton.

Seek Uses of Cotton.

According to the speaker an investigation is now being conducted to determine and create new uses of low grade cotton which will increase the consumption of cotton 2,000,000 bales. Senator Mayfield rapped the secretary of agriculture for his prediction statement on cotton last year which, he claimed, decreased the price about $4 a bale.

The senator was introduced by J. C. Vickers, who said that the speaker was instrumental in securing the federal court for Lubbock and numerous railroads for this section.

Favors McNary Bill.

In discussing the McNary farm relief bill, Senator Mayfield said: "It will not destroy private business. It will not compel farmers to join cooperatives or sell their crops to a government board. It will bring about orderly marketing, with the result that peak prices will not be so high nor depressed prices so low. It will produce a moderate level of prices that would cover cost of production plus a reasonable profit on the farmers' labor and investment."

Turning to a discussion of railroads, Senator Mayfield said: "The Rich-Cummins law destroyed that provision of our state constitution which gave any railroad corporation or association the right to construct and operate a railroad between any points within the state of Texas."

"I now have pending in the senate a measure which, if enacted into law, would restore to the states the rate-making powers they exercised before the enactment of the Rich-Cummins law and before the decision in the Shreveport rate case."

Stevens Trial

After her son, C. I. Collins, had divorced his wife, testimony said.

Testimony Altered.

Testimony was introduced by the defense on the trial of Mrs. Stevens by Thelma Collins, Mrs. Stevens' daughter, and her mother, Mrs. Stevens, who testified that she had seen Mrs. Stevens on the night of the shooting and that she had seen Mrs. Stevens on the night of the shooting.

The trial proceeded yesterday afternoon in a heated session. Most of the testimony was given by Mrs. Stevens, who testified that she had seen Mrs. Stevens on the night of the shooting and that she had seen Mrs. Stevens on the night of the shooting.

Major Hoople, Himself, In Person

Hail, the Throng Is All Here." Seconds passed, but no sign of Andy. Minutes mounted up into a half hour. Surely my old pal Andy would not disappoint me.

After 45 minutes of anxiety, one of my couriers staggered up, drat it, I mean ran up to me, with a message that Andy had ordered his private car to draw up past the depot in a limousine unnoticed by anyone. Mopping my brow, I held my hand high for silence to the crowd and informed them of the catastrophe.

Friends, I want to tell you truthfully that five miles of running, under a pressure is a terrible ordeal, even for an athlete. I am still catching my breath. I evaded the pursuing band and delegates by side-switching into the Santa Fe freight yards, and climbing into an empty swine car. Evidently, I am indeed provoked at Andy, and even if he is the Secretary of the Treasury I will proudly refuse any loan he offers to make me. Au revoir, by Jove.

upon the convention with smiles and faces.

Much of the spirit of contest and expectancy was taken away from the opening session by the final vote to Hoover. There was the usual mistle, the delegates to the Star Spangled Banner sang by Mrs. Schumann-Heink; the playing of countless flashlight photographs the rousing messengers; the hand-shaking; the back slapping; the laughter and everything that should be expected of a crowd of 15,000 persons at a national political convention.

But the dominating note of it all was dignity and restraint. It took only two firm raps of the gavel by Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio the keynote, to silence a respectful demonstration of about 35 seconds duration for President Coolidge.

With the Hoover organization in full control of the convention there was not a hitch in its functioning. After the usual preliminaries, William M. Butler, the chairman of the national committee, rapped for order at 11:30 a. m. Then with preliminaries out of the way, he called for Senator Fess, who was escorted to the speaker's rostrum by former Governor Hyde of Missouri, Lieutenant Governor Curtis Knight, daughter of Senator Curtis and a delegate from Rhode Island.

Senator Fess delivered an address filled with old-fashioned Republicanism.

As he continued over the past decade and aspirations of the Republican party, there were periods of applause at telling points, but none last for more than a few seconds. Never was there an attempt to start a demonstration or a march about the hall with state standards. Perhaps this will come later. The only candidate mentioned by Senator Fess was "The Secretary of Commerce" and the mention of this drew hearty but only brief applause.

accomplishments of his bureau last year Grant listed the circulation of 80,000 pamphlets dealing with electrical subjects to high schools and educators in Texas. The chief expenditure of the bureau Grant declared, was in furnishing material for publication in newspapers and newspapers, the bureau acting on the principle laid down in its manual that the newspaper will continue to be the unfailing agent of the bureau and its work.

Questioned by Robert Healy, chief counsel for the commission, Grant declared that payment of $40 a month to E. K. Mead, whom he identified as a Dallas, Texas, Times-Herald employee, had been made for help Mead gave him in preparing articles for publication.

Works with A. P.

Grant, who said he had been a relief editor in the Dallas office of the Associated Press, where he worked part time editing a wire report one night a week on the regular editor's night off, testified he did this in addition to his utilities duties.

"I have been employed by the Associated Press as a relief editor," he said "and am still on the payroll for work on Saturday nights at Dallas."

"In that capacity have you written for the Associated Press service news articles?" asked Healy.

"I have offered the Associated Press stories many of which they have used," Grant replied.

Healy introduced in the record without comment a letter in which Grant told Lynch Davidson, of Houston:

"I have left the A. P. to become director of the Texas Public Service Information Bureau. I am, however, still connected with the Associated Press as a special writer and whenever there is anything I can put out for you I shall be glad to do so."

THIS HAS HAPPENED
VIRGINIA BREWSTER, after losing both father and wealth, consents to make her home with CLARISSA DEAN and her father. Her fiancé, NATHANIEL DANN, objects to this for he mistrusts DEAN'S motives.

Meanwhile, DEAN plots to get NIEL away from VIRGINIA but fails, and later is forced to pay blackmail to a MRS. FARLEY, or face a scandal. CLARISSA becomes jealous of VIRGINIA, and the latter resolves to leave, but DEAN insists that she cannot endure poverty.

When she refuses, he threatens to reveal the fact that her father cheated him out of $100,000 in a bootlegging deal. Eecklessly, she promises to earn enough to repay him in one year—or marry him.

VIRGINIA, however, has been given a ring to live over until she can find a position. She goes to NIEL'S studio to tell him of her break with the DEAN'S, but her joy at seeing him is clouded because she dare not reveal her compact with DEAN, and also because of the familiarity with which he models CHIRL, treats NIEL.

She goes to an employment agency seeking work and is sent out to interview one of the "newly-rich" impossibles. She returns to the agency to report and is surprised to find a man following her. Discouraged, she goes to her hotel to see the help wanted ads and is angered to find orchids from DEAN awaiting her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVII
"Lest you forget," what the world has to offer," Virginia read on Frederick Deane's card. It seemed to her, as she stared at the bit of pasteboard, that she could see his leering smile behind the words mocking her fight with him, taunting her with her misfortune.

She was tempted to throw the fragile blooms across the room with the same fury that she took her card to bits but that her breath restrained her. Hastily she replaced them in the box and put on the lid.

"What a horrid thing to do," she considered, frightened a little that the agonizing gesture of flinging a symbol of what she had lost costumed her so greatly. To be disturbed was to admit her enemy's power, she knew.

The thought so occupied her that she overlooked the astonishing fact that Deane had her address. When it did at last occur to her she pushed over it in much annoyance until she solved the question. She assumed he had got it from someone at her former home.

"I should have left instructions not to give my address to anyone," she regretted, provoked with herself. "But who could have guessed that even Frederick Deane would be so contemptible as to mock me with things that I love."

Her afternoon was now thoroughly saturated with gloom. There was nothing she could do but wait for a call from Nathaniel. She sat huddled in a chair, her head on her arms, and her eyes feverishly dry, trying to hold her courage together by the will to do it.

Bitter loneliness, bitter despair, crept up and sought to take possession of her soul, but Virginia fought them off with the thought of her ultimate happiness if victory were hers.

"It must be! It must be! Oh dear God, help me!" But help seemed very far away, and the orchids on the bed were so near. Time dragged along in weary, heavy seconds and endless minutes until—was it really so?—Nathaniel telephoned.

He noticed at once when he came for her that Virginia's spirits were very low and he set himself to cheer her up, but there was no flash of spontaneity in her mind or heart. The day's events had dulled her robbed her of all semblance of gaiety.

She saw understanding and sympathy in Niel's eyes as he talked to her over a table in an East Side restaurant to which they had gone for the Russian music. Virginia tried to appear interested in the menu of foreign dishes but gave it up and let Nathaniel order for her.

"Virginia, dear, have you any plans?" Nathaniel asked quietly when the music crashed to silence. She reached out and laid a hand on his, a gesture of gratitude for his patience. "Not exactly," she said, shaking her head; "but you must tell me I can stand on my own feet. It's everyone's right to have that chance."

"But you didn't seem to think about that when . . . when . . ."

"I know . . . when father was alive," she finished, "for him, I just took everything for granted in those happy days. Niel, perhaps if it had occurred to me to want to make my own living I might have tried it, but I doubt it," she added honestly.

"I don't want to upset you with arguments, dear, but I can't see . . ."

why you should be so keen about it now."

"Because I'm forced to make a living or admit that someone else must do it for me," Virginia told him. "I never gave a thought to whether or not I was entitled to all the good things that dad's money bought for me, but it's all very different now. I want to make sure, Niel, darling that I won't be just a leech on you."

"Please don't say such silly things."

"It isn't silly, Neil, and you know it. If it were any other girl you'd see she was quite right because, you know, it was just the other night that you expressed yourself very clearly on the subject of freedom."

Nathaniel gazed at her hard for a moment. "You're cleverer than I thought," he admitted reluctantly. "I see now how you led me into that just so you could use it the next time I brought up this subject."

She nodded and smiled at him wistfully. "I want you to see it my way so you won't doubt me," she said softly.

"You might . . . You did when you said I didn't know enough about love."

"Virginia, forgive me. I know it isn't selfish love that's greatest, and I was. I am selfish, for I want you to throw all your own wishes into the discard for me. But I'm trying to see it as you do, and if I can't it's because I love you with every breath I draw."

"I'd rather have you feel that way than not to care so much," Virginia replied. "But if I don't love you so, violently, it's not because I don't love you as much as you do me, Niel. I think women can love in more ways than one at the same time," she added enigmatically.

Nathaniel thought she meant that love of her father's memory stood abreast with her love for him and he told himself he'd be a cad to object to that. Virginia really was thinking of a love that can survive everything for one thing alone—honor.

"I wouldn't want you to love me except in your own way," he told her earnestly; "and as long as that lasts I'll be happy."

"Then you will help me by just believing in me and waiting until until the right time comes for our marriage?"

"Don't make it too far off," he pleaded.

"Not a day after I've proved that I can earn my right to love," Virginia's answer was fraught with a different meaning for each of them, but Nathaniel did not know that.

"Well, I suppose I would congratulate you if you weren't the girl I want to marry," he admitted, half reluctantly. "After all, you're right. One has a right to justify his entrance as he sees it. If you don't think it's doing enough for the world just to make one man dieotically happy I can't stand in your way."

"Thank you, Niel. Now let's talk about you. When are you going to begin work on the murals?"

"Just as soon as I have those illustrations out of the way. Chirl got temperamental today and walked out."

Virginia started to ask why he didn't use another model, but checked herself abruptly. Honestly compelled her to admit to herself that it wasn't Niel's best interest that had prompted the question so much as a wish of her own that he replace Chirl. And she was determined not to let her ridiculous feeling toward Miss Mond color her remarks.

Perhaps Niel might discover how she felt, and even though he laughed at her, as Virginia knew he would, she'd be terribly humiliated. She felt humiliated enough as it was to have to acknowledge to herself that Chirl disturbed her, but she couldn't help how she felt. "I can help making an open fool of myself, though," she warned herself solemnly.

"I suppose you must finish with her," she said conversationally.

"Yes, I'd rather. Soon reach the stage where I won't need a model to finish the things."

They talked for a while of his work and then Nathaniel took Virgina unawares by the direct question regarding her circumstances.

"Have you all the money you need? He intentionally put it abruptly, hoping to surprise the truth."

"Why, I . . . of course, Niel."

"Virginia, you haven't!"

"Yes, really I have plenty for the present, and you know I have an uncle in England."

"But I thought your father wasn't on good terms with that branch of the family," Nathaniel said, troubled.

"That's true, but I'm sure he would help me."

What she did not add was, "If I ask him," she wouldn't have asked him for worlds. He and her father had quarreled bitterly when her uncle had expropriated himself damning the United States as unfit for a gentleman to live in. And at best, if she humbled herself to appeal to him, she could benefit only in easing her struggle for a livelihood.

It was unthinkable that she should tell him of Frederick Deane's charges against her father. Virginia could hear him sneering that no man could remain respectable in America. Oh, yes, he would believe her father guilty, and even if he were willing to part with $100,000 and Virginia doubted it, she could not think of subjecting her father's memory to his contempt.

She succeeded, however, in satisfying Nathaniel that she would not be in want, and he dropped his intention of trying to force money upon her.

Presently they left the restaurant and strolled outside to wait until a cruising taxicab should happen along. Just as Nathaniel signaled to one down the block Virginia chanced to glance across the street. A man was emerging from the shadows of a doorway, but as Virginia's face turned toward him he stepped quickly back, though not in time to prevent her from seeing him.

Fire Partially Destroys House

Loss In Fire At G. W. Duckworth Residence Is Estimated At Several Hundred Dollars.

Fire of undetermined origin yesterday afternoon partially destroyed the residence of G. W. Duckworth at the corner of Fifth street and Avenue C.

All of the household goods were destroyed by the fire but a part of the house was prevented from complete destruction by the rapid work of the fire department. The damage was estimated at several hundred dollars.

Children playing with matches and the explosion of an oil stove both were advanced as originating the fire, but the correct origin had not been determined last night.

The house was a two room structure. The loss was not covered by insurance.

Cupid Rests Shirks Duty In His Own Month

Dan Cupid was off duty yesterday.

The youth apparently felt that he was due a vacation following his intense activity during his month of prime, and shirked his duty for one day.

Not a single marriage license was granted yesterday from the offices of County Clerk Amos Howard. This was the first day during the entire month of June that no marriage license was issued. As many as seven were granted one day.

A total of twenty-eight have been issued since the first of this month.

TWO NEW AUTOS

Although yesterday's new car registration fell down below average to only two registrations the average of five new cars a day for the month of June was maintained.

New car licenses yesterday were issued to J. E. George and R. B. Smith.

SCRIPTURE: The trees of the Lord are full of sap; the cedars of Lebanon, which he hath planted. Thou sendest forth thy spirit, they are created; and thou renewest the face of the earth.—Psalm civ. 16 and 30.

TRICKY SEASONS

We have already had some very changeable weather. We have had windy weather and we have had still days, and we have had dry weather and wet weather, and hot weather and cold weather, and the amazing visitation of chilly weather the last few days set the masses to renewing their vows of love for the good old summer time.

It is enigmatical but true that the majority like the present season best. Possession even of great things grows commonplace; hence, instead of revelling in seasonal joys at hand, we either look backward or forward longingly.

Thus does discontentment attend us. Before us stretches an era of many delights—a season of floral beauty, blue skies, brunnish sunshine, appealing recreation superb nights; and we will make a grave mistake by not accepting these beauties and privileges offered us gratuitously, and let them prove the joy that they are fitted to mean.

Cross-country travel, one of the preferable sports of summer, is being indulged in freely as the out-of-door spirit proves an impetus to this entertainment. Already the highways are the scenes of caravans of tourists, who speed away happily, charmed with new scenes and fresh joys and respite from duty and monotony. Trips to the mountain, the seashore, to remote cities of great size, to historical centers; to old and new haunts are filling life with interest for the vacationist who recognizes summer as the ideal playday. Picnicking is claiming many devotees and there is talk of summer camps and of visits to old home towns and to fathers and mothers.

WANT ITS REPEAL

For some time the anti-prohibition forces have been working on what they called a proposal to modify the prohibition laws and what is now defined as a new policy is being announced by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. It is that, henceforth that organization will work for the repeal of the amendment, and not, as it has been claimed for it in the past, for modification of the prohibition law of the United States.

Perhaps it may be that by continuous and persistent attempts to effect a virtual nullification of the prohibition law by its open violation, connived at by means of bribery and perjury, there has been implanted, in some of the larger cities, the belief that the law cannot be measurably enforced. But the fact remains that no such futile theory prevails among the rank and file of the American voters.

idly enforced each year, and that except in those localities where its violation is condoned by prosecutors and peace officers the traffic which it forbids has been virtually stamped out.

It must be that those who are responsible for the outspoken pronouncement of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment have misread or misinterpreted the signs of the times. They seem to imagine that what they have been pleased to refer to as their "campaign of education" has resulted in convincing a considerable majority of the voters of the country that the time has come to again legalize the sale of liquor.

But as to their privilege to present the issue there is no doubt. If they propose to repeal the law by the same processes employed in its adoption by Congress and the states, they are at liberty to proceed unhindered. Yet this cannot conceivably be their hope or intention. They do not, of course, believe that the American people will abandon an undertaking which has been entered upon so auspiciously and the success of which has been assured from the day the Eighteenth Amendment was written into the Constitution.

NEARING THE SHOW-DOWN

The republican primaries and conventions are over, and the national committee will settle the several contests. From now on until after the Kansas City convention chief interest will center in the action of the republicans, with their convention now only a short time off. Kansas City already is bustling with the acclamations identified with the interests of the respective candidates.

Hoover will have a long lead over Lowden, his closest follower, on the first ballot. There are two factors that, working together, might delay the nomination and conceivably could defeat Hoover. They are the irreconcilable advocates of the McNary-Haugen farm plan and those who believe or pretend to believe Coolidge still may be drafted. Seemingly no one knows now, except the president himself, what may come of the draft movement, but there are strong intimations that he will say the final word, when necessary, that will remove him from consideration by the convention.

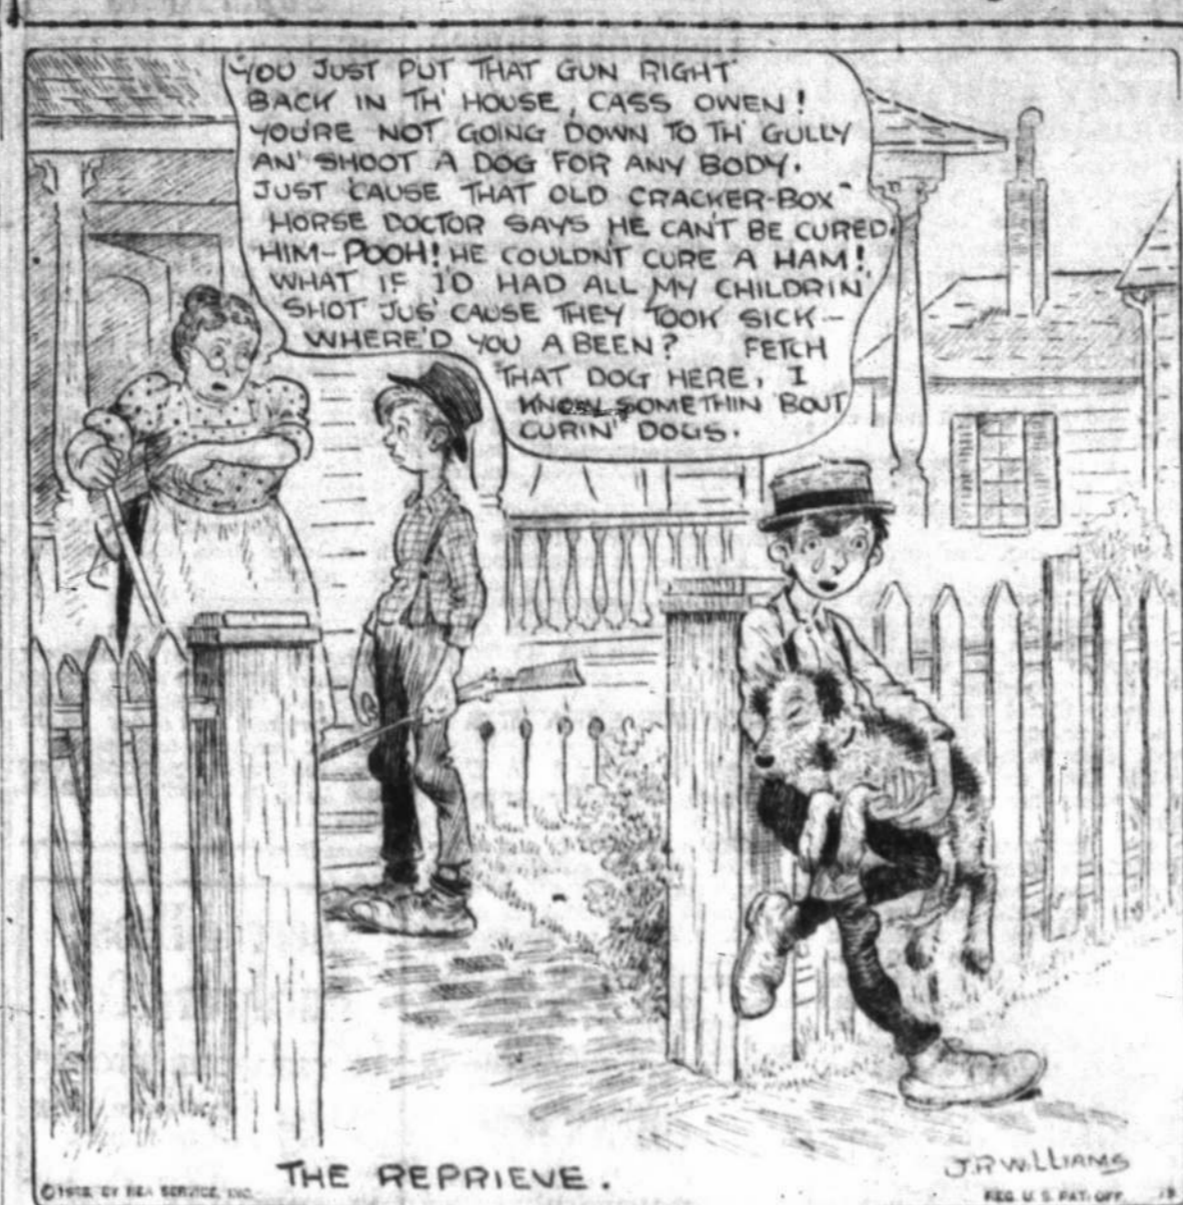

Charles D. Hilles, vice-chairman of the national committee, has held out for Coolidge, principally, it is thought, because of state politics. The Hoover interests are led by Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, and Hilles and Mills are factional rivals.

The democratic primaries in West Virginia last week were so close that the exact result may be determined only by the official count, but it is certain that Smith will have about three-fourths of the delegates, while Senator Reed is expected to get the votes of the others.

The republican preference vote Hoover was beaten, 106,000 to 120,000, with nearly all the precincts in, by the favorite son, Senator Goff. As in Indiana, the secretary of commerce took the long chance of winning against a state candidate and while he was in the minority in both states, his vote was impressive, considering the kind of opposition he went against.

The backers of Lowden still are making efforts to bring a sort of "Coxey's army" of farmers to Kansas City to demonstrate farm hostility to Hoover and Coolidge. No one knows how far this may go, but from different sources it is indicated that the real farmers are not much excited and are somewhat dubious about becoming crusaders for any particular candidate or against the president.

OUT OUR WAY--

SO THINK WE

We think that the farm relief bill has been a great nuisance to the farmers, for so many of them have been thinking that they would get a free liberal handout from the government that they have not tried to farm much. If they knew that they would have to get down to regular work and earn what they got to handle the crop, a system of marketing that will control the market instead of a system of reporting that controls the price will reverse things and make it easy on the farmer.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that the Ku Klux Klan have decided to not wear caps and robes anymore. We think from the looks of some of the faces since the robes have been taken off and the caps too, that they look a lot better with them, and it would be much better if they rescind the order, and go ahead and cover up.

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and Hygiene, The Health Magazine. Human tuberculosis of the lungs is almost always due to direct transmission of the germs of tuberculosis from one person to another. In addition to the type of tubercular germ that infects man there is a form especially associated with the disease in cattle. When this form reaches mankind through milk it may set up infections which are serious particularly in children. For instance, tuberculosis of the intestine seems to be due usually to the bovine type of infection. Some recent figures indicate that 32.4 per cent of infections in children under five years of age were due to the bovine form; 28.9 per cent of infections in children between five and sixteen years of age are of this type, but only 2.9 per cent of tubercular infections in people more than sixteen years of age are credited to the bovine form. It is therefore of the greatest importance to eliminate for human consumption, particularly from the food of infants, milk coming from cows with tuberculosis. The first step in this direction is to eliminate from herd cows that are infected with the disease and to prevent the spread of the disease from one cow to another. The next step is to control the milk in such a way that germs in the milk will not be able to attack the human beings who consume it. Pasteurization will bring about such a result and it has been established that there is always a definite decrease in the amount of tubercular germs due to the bovine type of organism whenever pasteurization is introduced. It is a safeguard to the milk supply of any community. Pasteurization of milk will destroy the germs, at the same time however, it interferes to some extent with the vitamin content. Hence a diet of pasteurized milk must be supplemented by the addition of cod liver oil and of orange juice.

PRESS COMMENT

A LOT OF WORK WASTED. President Coolidge again has displayed good judgment by nullifying some of the work done by Congress. He failed to show the courage, in permitting Muscle Shoals bill to expire on his desk, that he displayed in his vigorous veto message returned with the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill; but he effectively invalidated a measure that was unwise and impractical despite the fact that Congress had worked on it for months and years. The Muscle Shoals bill provided, in brief, for government operation of the Muscle Shoals properties, and government operation of industries has been disastrous in every attempt that has been made. It would be just as practical for the government to undertake the development of the much contested Teapot Dome oil properties, and the operation of oil refineries and similar industries, as

TOO BUSY. One year ago today I sat at my desk with the month's bills and accounts when a bright-faced, star-eyed lad of 12 rushed in and impetuously announced: "Say, Dad, this is your birthday; you are 55 years old, and I am going to give you 55 kisses, one for each year." He began to make good his word when I exclaimed: "O, Andrew, don't do it now, I am too busy."

The Lynn County News says that the Tobacco Chamber of Commerce is building a lot of good will among the rural communities. Members of that organization are paying the various communities regular visits, and becoming better acquainted with the needs of the rural sections of the county in that way. The chamber of commerce, that functions as it should is not a city institution. It is for the development of every section of the country within its territory, regardless of whether it is a farm, a dairy or a poultry farm.

The Lynn County News says that the laying of the gas line through Tahoka has been completed and the city will soon be finished so that Tahoka will soon be all gassed up, and ready to go. It is taken as a matter of course that the city will be ready to go. It has taken time and patience for this South Plains section to come to this point of development, but we are all enjoying the conveniences just the same. This country has advanced from the home of the Indian and the buffalo, through the stages of the cattle ranch and now it is in the hands of the dairy farmer and the poultry farmer, and the hog raiser, and with the modern conveniences at our hand such as the gas and the telephone, the railroad and the radio, we can live and enjoy the delightful climate and breathe the pure air, and drink the cold water that comes from the snow-capped Rockies, and why should we not think that the South Plains is the best place on earth?

It is reported that Herbert is not Hooverizing much on his campaign expenses. He has spent more than all of the other Republican candidates. Possibly the reason is he has gotten further along in the race.

Public Opinion

Wishing never gets an individual or a community anywhere. There's the type of man who does things in his own business. He hits the ball constantly on the alert, is using his noodle all the time and when he sees a situation is right he strikes immediately. The people who were trying to get that type of man is, "He's a go-getter."

Go-getters sometimes feel that they do not have time to become go-getters for their communities. In their individual business they can see the immediate advantages of stepping out quickly and at length. They overlook the fact that their community efforts in the long run will effect not only for themselves, but for their fellow citizens, results that will be just as valuable as the results their activity brings about in individual business.

There's many a potential go-getter in this and other communities who has never gone and never gotten because he feels that he is not the right man to do a certain thing. When he feels that a given thing should be done and is not being done it is high time for him to start TRYING to do it. He may not do everything that he attempts, but he may do most of the things he attempts and it is none the worse off if he fails a few times. All can't be a thousand, but that ought not to keep us from the ball. A poor batter occasionally makes an accidental connection and knocks a home run with the bases full.

We need more go-getters and we haven't the right to expect the other fellow to do all the going and all the getting.—Plainview Herald.

The go-getter for himself is not usually appreciated by the community, for when he goes out to get the things that will make himself more prosperous, he will be called an old "lightwad" and a skinner and all that sort of stuff. If he works nine-tenths of his time for the community, and accomplishes a great deal to the neglect of his own business he is called a fool, and a bonehead by those who look on and have seen his business
