Insurance for Mobile Homes

Austin-Senator A.R. "Babe" Schwartz Monday won a major victory for owners of mobile homes when the Texas Attorney General's office ruled that they will be able to purchase insurance under the Texas Catastrophe Property Insurance Act.

Early this year mobile homes owners in the Texas coastal areas were told they would not be able to obtain insurance for this hurricane season. Virtually all windstorm insurance on mobile homes expires on June 1.

Sometime ago, Senator Schwartz asked the State Board of Insurance to require the windstorm catastrophe pool to cover mobile homes and the Board replied they could not do so.

Schwartz, who passed the original law in 1971, then requested the Attorney General's opinion in his capacity as chairman of the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

Monday, Attorney General John Hill wrote Schwartz saying, "The State Board of Insurance may require members of the Texas Catastrophe Property Insurance Association to provide insurance for mobile homes in a catastrophic area providing a mobile home is properly classified as immovable property."

In the summary of the Attorney General's opinion it was stated, "The Board must adopt a definition of immovable property that would in certain instances permit the inclusion of mobile homes within such a definition."

It continued, "If the Board required the inclusion of mobile homes within the catastrophe pool it may further require that rates be established and classifications created in accordance with Article 21.49, Section 8 of the Texas Insurance Code."

Schwartz conferred Tuesday morning with State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie to get the rates set up as soon as possible.

"The Insurance Board, now that it has been authorized to do so by the Attorney General's opinion, should move quickly to set up these rates and put the program into operation immediately," he said.

Petition with 1,201 Signatures Wants Two-Year Contract for Chief Craigmile

The controversy swirling around Chief of Police Jim Craigmile took another turn Monday night at the City Council meeting.

Mayor Walter S. Falk, Jr., announced that he had a petition bearing the names of 1,201 local residents expressing support for Chief Craigmile and his staff and stating appreciation for their dedicated performance and asking that the Council offer Craigmile a two-year contract.

The petition stated: "Know all men by these present that we, the undersigned citizens, either residing or working in the City of Rockport, desire to express our appreciation and support for Chief of Police Jim Craigmile and his staff for their dedicated performance in the control of crime in the City of Rockport through their excellent cooperation with law enforcement agencies in this county and adjacent communities and by their involvement in community affairs.

"It is our desire to place before the City Council this endorsement together with a recommendation that this officer be placed under contract for a period of at least two years, subject only to removal for cause or official misconduct."

Following the reading of the petition, Mayor Falk said he doubted that Rockport could legally offer Craigmile or any other chief of police a contract for two years or any other period of time. He then asked City Attorney Dave Connery for his opinion.

Connery said he believed that a city the size of Rockport, operating under general law, could not offer a chief of police a contract but instead would be required to follow the practice of employing a police chief by oral agreement and with the approval of the City Council.

At this point, Alderman N.F. Jackson made a motion to table the petition.

Falk said, "I believe the people of Rockport deserve consideration in an important matter such as this."

Jackson said he would agree to set a date to consider the petition but then he moved to table the petition indefinitely.

Alderman Charlie Garrett seconded Jackson's motion.

Jackson and Garrett voted in favor of the motion, Alderman Dan Ward and Jerry Shaw voted against the motion. Falk broke the tie by voting against the motion.

Later, following many comments by the assembled spectators, the Council unanimously agreed to postpone any action on the petition until a special meeting is held Monday, June 7 in the District Courtroom at Aransas County Courthouse.

The controversy over Craigmile, Lt. Joe Hinojosa and Patrolman Ronnie Pina started several weeks ago when rumors started flying around Rockport about the Police Department, particularly Chief Craigmile.

There were reports that the mayor and some members of the Council had received letters that were derogatory regarding Craigmile in particular. Last Friday a public hearing was held in the Council chambers and by 5 p.m. more than 100 persons had crowded into the room and at least 50 others were outside, trying to listen to the proceedings.

The first thing that happened was a closed executive meeting attended by members of the Council, the police officers and an attorney representing Craigmile.

Following the closed executive meeting, Mayor Falk declared the open meeting in session again and thanked those present for the big turnout.

City Attorney Connery stated that only one of the statements submitted regarding Craigmile met the necessary requirements to be admissible in court, if that procedure occurred.

The Council voted unanimously to return all complaints to those persons who had submitted them to give such persons the opportunity to prepare their statements in affidavit form.

It was announced Monday night that six letters, or statements, are now in the possession of the city regarding Craigmile and/or other officers.

Police Magazine Writer Blasts Jackson and Webb

Deane E. Bostick, Port Aransas, free lance writer for leading detective magazines, appeared before the City Council Monday night and answered what he called the "ridiculous allegations and accusations" of Mike Webb and Alderman N.F. Jackson.

Bostick referred to their actions regarding an article he wrote for the June issue of True Police Magazine regarding the murder here of Lee E. Golibart almost a year ago.

The writer answered questions from the Council and local residents who occupied every seat in the Council chambers. This followed the reading of a letter from Bostick to Mayor Walter S. Falk, Jr.

The letter follows: "After a telephone conversation this A.M. with your Chief of Police, Jim Craigmile I decided to write you this letter and hope your city council is made aware of the contents."

I am a freelance journalist specializing in factual crime articles done on assignment for virtually all of the leading detective magazines in America and Canada.

Shaking It

At Harvard, where weird things happen of late, a cute thing in flimsy cover recently performed a belly dance before the mostly-male student class, and male teacher.

The idea? This was supposed to demonstrate that consumer sophistication has made such Madison Avenue promotions obsolete!

Well, if a pretty young thing shaking it is now obsolete, why were the professor and all those students watching so closely? And why were photographers on hand?

And why do men turn their heads to look at cute things passing by? And why do women show off good figures with revealing clothes? And, etc., etc.

CORRECTION

In the Pilot last week a zero was accidentally left off the figure representing a scholarship award announced for Genevieve Garcia in the "Senior Awards and Recognition" article. Miss Garcia was selected to receive a $150 scholarship award from Rockport Chapter of American G.I. Forum to help cover tuition, room, board or books. The Pilot regrets the error.

A.B. LeFevre Is Retiring

The LeFevre husband-wife team have contributed a total of 86 years to education. Arnold B. LeFevre, who is retiring as principal of J. Frank Dobie Elementary School at Richardson, Texas plans to join his wife, Margie, who retired from teaching four years ago.

LeFevre was principal of Aransas County High School from 1958 to 1964. He began his 43-year career in education as a teacher in common school districts where he taught four grades. During the following 40 years, he gained experience at all levels, teaching grades three through 12. He also served as administrator at all levels, as superintendent and coach. He coached football, boys and girls basketball, volleyball and track.

He came to Richardson as principal of Dove Elementary and has served as principal of Dobie Elementary eight years.

"I enjoyed each job as I did it. But I really do like elementary kids," LeFevre admitted.

As to the changes LeFevre witnessed, he remarked that teaching aids, such as audio-visual aids, have really changed the look of teaching. He also noted the teachers are much more capable to deal with learning problems of students.

The seminar was held Sunday, May 16, in Corpus Christi and was sponsored by the Texas Pharmaceutical Association. Talks About Petrochemicals

The advantages of using gas and oil in the petrochemical industry as compared with burning it for fuel were described in a slidefilm presentation by Al Rhode, manager of employee relations at the Dupont plant in Ingleside at a luncheon meeting of Rotary Club May 19 at Sandollar Restaurant.

In terms of value added, the petrochemical industry leads all other industries in creating wealth and creating jobs from oil and gas, according to the film. A $9 barrel of oil processed through the petrochemical industry increases to a $50 value, and from $100 to $200 per barrel by the time it has been converted into consumer goods. It was estimated that the petrochemical industry plus use of its products in the manufacture of consumer goods results in the creation of some 2,986,000 jobs nationwide.

The film stated that 60 per cent of the nation's petrochemical production is in Texas, providing jobs for 60,000 men and women. Among the items produced by the industry are 80 per cent of the country's synthetic rubber, synthetic fabrics, fertilizers, insecticides, and drugs. Without the fertilizer produced by the petrochemical industry agricultural production would be cut 40 per cent, the film claimed.

It was claimed that use of Texas oil and gas for fuel and power was not economical, adding that lignite and coal were available as substitutes for these purposes. Oil and gas burned is lost forever while that used in the petrochemical industry continues to be useful in many consumer products.

After the film showing, Rhode responded to questions stating that the Ingleside Dupont plant expects to have a total work force of 635 to 650 by the end of this year. Of these, 200 will have been transferred from other plants and the rest hired from this area.

Tennis Group Elects Officers

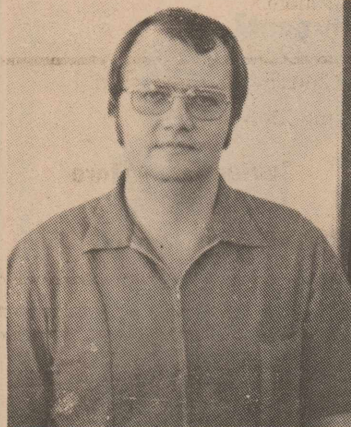

Joe Hugenberg was elected president, and Jim Allen vice president of Rockport Tennis Association at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the local group which was organized last fall to promote tennis in this area.

They succeed Dewey Lingo, first president of the association who was instrumental in forming the group, and Jim White who has been vice president since the association was organized. Both Lingo and White also have resigned from the Board, citing the belief that more of the younger tennis enthusiasts should be given additional responsibility.

Roy Hicks also has resigned from the board, citing the pressure of business responsibilities. Newly elected to the board were S. Reese Rozzell and Bert Conly.

The board voted to take over promotion and management of the Fourth Annual Summer Fun Mixed Doubles tournament which has from the first been designated a Fred Whittle memorial event at which a revolving trophy in memory of Colonel Whittle is awarded each year to the winner. This tournament was originated Continuing its concern for welfare of younger tennis players in this area, Rockport Tennis Association will encourage continuing activity for members of this year's successful Rockport-Fulton High School tennis team by helping players to participate in summer tournaments and match play in surrounding communities. The first will be a tournament in Victoria June 11, 12 and 13 to which transportation will be provided. Also, a banquet in honor of the team is planned for the near future. The public will be invited.

LYNCH SUES OVER DEATH OF SON

Warren Lynch, the alligator farm operator, has filed a $94,800 damage suit over the death of his son who died several days after a car accident on April 17.

Lynch, 46, is still in Aransas County Jail for possession of marijuana. He pleaded guilty to the charge May 6 and was given a four-year prison term.

Lynch acted through Michael Gian of Rockport to file the damage suit.

Named in the suit were Gary Sutcliffe of San Antonio and Kenneth Polston of Rockport. The suit alleges their car hit the one being driven by Brian Lynch as he was attempting to turn into the alligator farm located off Highway 35 between Rockport and Aransas Pass.

The suit was filed by attorney Michael W. Williams of Corpus Christi. Attorney Albert Pena represented Lynch in the marijuana case. Pena said that he heard unofficially that Lynch hired a new lawyer but hadn't been officially notified.

Lynch waived a jury trial in Judge John Miller's 36th District Court after pleading guilty to possession of more than four ounces of marijuana, but did not waive his right of appeal.

He was arrested in early February at his farm and has either been in Memorial Medical Center in Corpus Christi for psychological testing or in Aransas County Jail since.

The death of Brian Lynch set off a brief legal fight between Warren Lynch and his former wife on where burial would be. Lynch wanted the son buried in Summerville in Central Texas. The mother wanted the son buried in Wellington, Kan.

Lynch gave up the fight and the son was buried in Kansas.

The alligator, or reptile farm, is still open. The damage suit claimed that Brian Lynch had been working at the farm between 40 and 50 hours a week.

Lynch attracted national attention when he fled to a small island in an alligator pit to avoid arrest on a probation violation. He spent the night on the island before surrendering.

Winners and runners-up in eight different groups were awarded trophies. Winners were determined on the basis of points won during the tournament rather than matches won, one point being awarded for each match won. In two instances third place winners were named as a result of a tie-breaker being played to determine second place.

In the group composed of members of Tuesday and Thursday Intermediate Women's league and the After Work Intermediate league Phyllis Kline was first, Becky Bateman, second, and Marty Ramey, third. S. Reese Rozzell was first and Randy Ramey second in the After Work Intermediate league. In the After Work Beginner's league Dusty Smith finished first and Roy Rogero, Jr., second.

In the After School Intermediate league, Scott Meyer won first place and Renee Fair was second. Julie Hiller was third. Buddy Smith placed first and Leigh Falk second in the After School Beginners league. Mike Smith was first and Dennis Jenkins second in the Wednesday After School league.

Other players in the tournament included Sherry Hiller, Margaret Schultz, Catherine Picton, Patty McMillan, Claudia Bateman, Iris Jenkins, Eunice Hanser, Lu Dahman, Sally Richards, Diane Duzich, Judy Meyer, Muriel Branigan, Shawn Bateman, Murray McMillan, Delmar Hiller, Jerry Shaw, Lori Allen, Holly Garrison, Gay Harper, Andy McMillan, Lisa Smith, Lucinda Hammon, Jennifer Janeeck, Lane Hiller, Zack Schultz, Denise Jenkins and Phillip Schultz.

Concern Center Workshop Held

Twenty-four volunteers for the Concern Center attended a workshop and party at the Presbyterian Church on May 17. Mrs. Neva Sorenson, chairman of the volunteers, presided and was general chairman of the affair. Refreshments were served after the workshop and everyone got to meet others they did not know.

George Parker, chairman of the Concern Center for A.A.R.P., was introduced and his wife Bernice who has taken on the task of the Community Calendar.

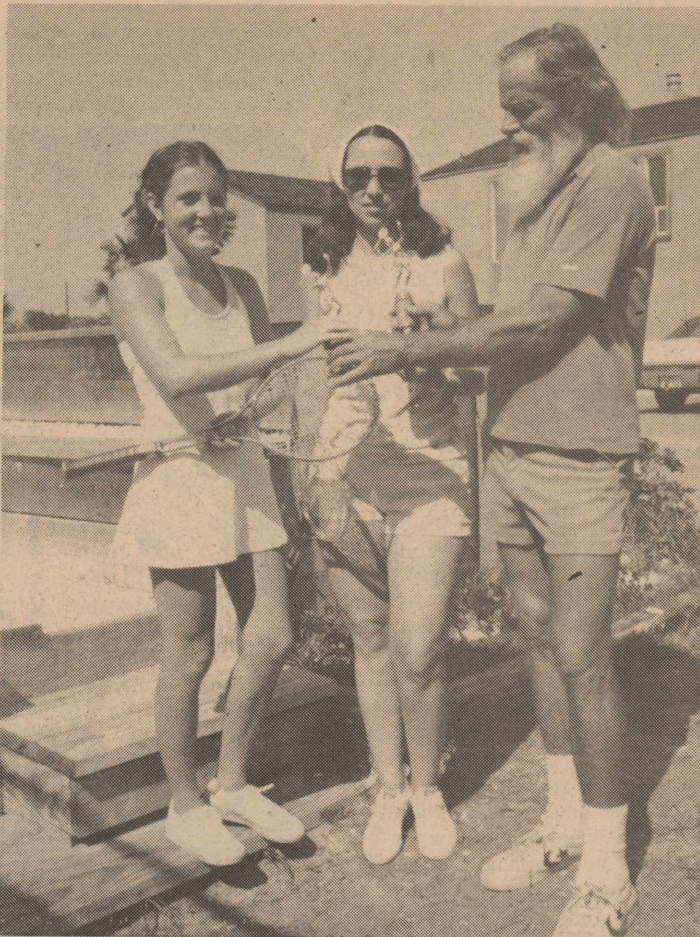

Mrs. Marguerite Burton, treasurer, and Emma Beard, secretary, were also introduced. John L. Leslie, president of A.A.R.P., was present and his wife Dorothy who is the reporter for A.A.R.P.

Zollie Glass, past-president, told how proud he was of the Concern Center and thought it was one of the finest things that has happened to Rockport. It also has brought much attention in this area, and Leslie and a special group of four or five will be holding workshops in four or five surrounding towns on the use of volunteers and the community service they perform.

Mrs. Parker also reminded everyone who belongs to other groups or churches to give her the information on special events at least a week in advance as she has to work ahead to get it in the paper in the Community Calendar. Information can be phoned to the Concern Center or to her home. (729-2007).

The Concern Center operates every day Monday thru Friday from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M. at 206 N. Magnolia (Tel. 729-7722). They can always use the help of volunteer workers—especially to fill in for part-time if anyone

Kindergarten Graduation

The Presbyterian Kindergarten held their graduation May 21st.

They opened the program by singing "Good Morning To You" and giving the Pledge To The Flag with Michelle Stengel and Gene Garcia Jr. holding the flag, after which they sang "Fifty Stars On Our Flag".

They introduced themselves and spelled their names. They sang other songs and each one gave a nursery rhyme. They explained some of the work learned during the year.

The Pre-Kindergarten sang "My Little Playmate" and the Kindergarten acted out "Little Red Wagon Painted Blue".

The tables were decorated in red, white, and blue in keeping with the Bicentennial year. Napkins, hats, glasses, cookies made like the flag with "76" in the left corner, star cookies with a miniature flag in each followed the theme.

The children receiving their diplomas for Pre-Kindergarten were: Gene Garcia, Jr., Jason Mills, Nathan Arispe, Cynthia Haley, Rick Rinche, Chris Acklin, Darrell Munez, Mike Ahle, Angela Crickenburger, Dean Wix, Diane Elliott, George Rinche, Mark Blankinship, Brandon Solis, Melissa Parr and Vanessa Mejerado.

The Kindergarten children receiving diplomas were: Craig Kirkpatrick, Michelle Stengel, Patrick Flenniken, Robbie Hewes, Bryan Hatches, Kristina DeForest and Dawn Dyson who moved away a few weeks ago.

Robbie Hewes received a certificate and gift for perfect attendance. Craig Kirkpatrick received a gift for keeping his material the neatest for the year.

After the program refreshments were served to everyone. There were about 60 guests present.

The people deserve answers to the following questions from Sen. A.R. Schwartz:

Why did you wait until just before election time to get concerned about utility rates when they have been skyrocketing during the last three years of your term?

Why do you appear for hire in behalf of clients before state agencies when these agencies know you control, as a senator, the amount of money they get to run their offices? IS THIS NOT A CONFLICT OF INTEREST?

Why did you vote to keep Senate Secretary Charles Schnabel on the taxpayers' payroll at $37,500 per year even though he was under indictment on eight felony counts?

Why Were you among the seven high state officials and the only State Senator who borrowed heavily ($30,000) from the Sharpstown State Bank just prior to its closing by the Federal Government?

? IS IT TRUE that you owed W. L. Moody and Company, a Galveston bank, $250,000 when it went into receivership?

Why Were you allowed to overdraft approximately $150,000. If so

Lee Nuckles Is Honored

On May 15 a small luncheon was held at the Key Allegro Islander Club to honor graduating senior Lee Nuckles.

The hostess, Mrs. L.D. Nuckles, welcomed Lee's mother Mrs. R.L. Lawler, Pat Stevens, Nancy Gorham, Nancy Goodin, Barbara King, Dorethea Mitchell and Annette Boney.

The table decorations included a centerpiece of red, white and blue spring flowers. These are the class colors of the R-F graduating class. A chef's salad and a great deal of nostalgic chatter seemed to be the order of the day.

Helping Hands Cluster Meets

The Helping Hands Cluster met May 18 in the Fellowship hall with sixteen members present. Mrs. W.M. Muecke called the meeting to order. Mrs. Ila McCleskey gave the inspiring devotional based on the Beatitude, "Blessed Are the Merciful".

Reports were given from different areas of concern. Mrs. Edward Devoe and Mrs. Muecke reported that they had a very rewarding visit to the Nursing Home in Aransas Pass and that the members would soon be involved in a "doing" project of some of the needs of the "little people" at the home.

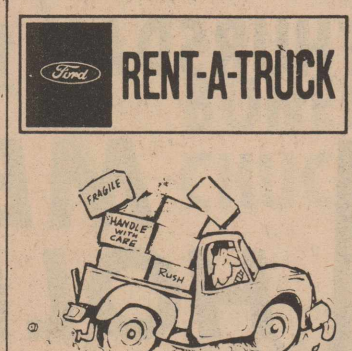

Interest is still high and deep concern for the needs and help that can be extended to the juvenile shelter. This is juvenile shelter volunteer month.

The garments for children sewn by the cluster are to be completed and packed on May 28. If you are interested in this project, contact Mrs. O.H. Brueggeman, chairman. The garments will be sent to Church World Service Clothing appeal. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wm. Riehl.

CPL is paying today's higher prices to produce electricity, although your base rate is still the same as in 1973.

While soaring fuel costs have raised your electric bill with fuel adjustment costs, on which Central Power and Light Company makes no profit, your base cost for electricity has remained at the 1973 rate.

CPL has been paying higher and higher costs, which we have been absorbing, on just about everything we use to produce electricity.

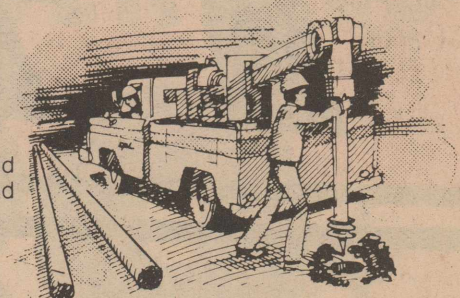

For instance the price on a 70' wood pole has gone up:

1972 $260
1975 $575

10" insulators are up:
1972 $3.65 each
1975 $6.55 each

High Voltage Wire:
1972 45 cents per pound
1975 73 cents per pound

Steel poles went from:
1972 $4,100
1975 $5,700

And contractor bids are up more than 25% since 1972.

And these are typical of nearly every product and service CPL must have to provide you with reliable electric power. Even though we've been working to cut costs, inflation is hurting CPL just as it has your home or business.

CPL is now facing the day of reckoning when it cannot continue absorbing such inflationary costs.

STOREFRONT '76 — A spruce up, clean up and decorate for the 4th of July project is a "best foot forward" effort of the merchants of Rockport and is sponsored by the Rockport Art Association and the Chamber of Commerce. The Design Committee has been working to arrive at an idea for those who have asked for suggestions, which will be attractive, permanent and economical. The accompanying sketch is the result of their efforts. The planter is of terra-cotta tile with outside dimensions of approximately 20" and a height of 24 inches. The base will be poured concrete with drainage. The Committee suggests that the containers be planted with red, white and blue petunias to conform to the July 4th Bi-Centennial theme of the Art Festival. Arrangements have been made for delivery of the planters to the location of your choice. The necessary dirt, fertilizer and plants will be furnished by Pearson's Garden Center after the containers are in place. The total price of the completed job will be $25.00 per planter to those businesses who have sent a request for entry in the Storefront '76 project.

Since judging will be done on June 30, it is requested that all entrants call the Rockport Art Association as quickly as possible and advise the number of planters which your business will need. A drive through downtown Rockport will reveal many attractive improvements already underway.

Saltwater Transplants Are Doing Well In Lakes

Austin-Saltwater redfish and flounder stocked in two Texas freshwater lakes not only are surviving, they are doing exceptionally well.

Anglers at Long Lake east of Austin have caught several flounder since they were stocked as fingerlings by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department February 1975.

T.L. Brown reeled in a four-pounder May 6 which is bigger than many flounder caught on the Gulf Coast.

Brown's flounder was 21 inches long.

Lake Creek Reservoir near Waco was stocked with fingerling redfish in September 1975 and on May 5 a 14-inch, one-pound red was caught by James Route. He was using a live worm as bait.

A smaller, 10-inch red was taken from Lake Creek May 3. The flounder stocked in Long Lake were seized by P&WD fisheries workers from flats off Port Aransas. However, the redfish were cultured artificially at the National Marine Fisheries lab in Port Aransas and reared and tempered to fresh water at the P&WD Palacios Marine Fisheries Station.

Work is underway at the NMFS lab by both federal and state biologists to develop similar techniques for flounder, techniques which are more economical and less time-consuming than seining fish from the wild.

Refrigerator Easy To Clean If Done Often

College Station—Food keeps longer and stays fresher in a clean refrigerator, Mrs. Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist says.

"Most manufacturers recommend a thorough cleaning every six months. But this may vary with each family, depending on the amount of food stored and number of spills which occur," she said.

She is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

To clean the refrigerator, turn the control dial to OFF, or unplug and remove food. Take out all shelves, racks and storage drawers.

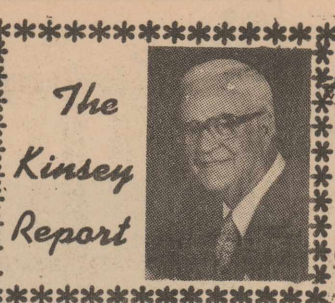

"Wash all removable metal and porcelain parts in soap and mild detergent-water solution; rinse with clear water.

"Wipe interior and door shelves with same solution, or with a solution of borax or baking soda and water; rinse and dry.

"Wipe door gasket with borax or baking soda solution only; strong detergents can cause deterioration. Rinse and dry thoroughly. Periodic cleaning not only makes gasket last longer—it also insures a tighter seal," she said.

She reminded consumers not to forget to sweep or vacuum under the refrigerator and around the coils.

"When frost in freezer compartment is one-quarter inch thick, it is time to defrost—because any heavier accumulation will affect cooling efficiency," she explained.

After covering two City Council meetings regarding "police personnel matters" within the past few days which certainly could be described as tumultuous, I feel the need for something that is soothing, such as the writing of philosophers and others.

I feel like reading things such as Joseph Addison's thoughts expressed in the following words:

"Three grand essentials to happiness in this life are something to do, something to love and something to hope for."

Or what about Ralph Waldo Emerson's words: "What I must do is all that concerns me, not what other people think."

And for me the best philosophy, expressed in the fewest words is the late Reinhold Niebuhr's oft-quoted:

"God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things that I can, and the wisdom to know the difference."

Library News

Live Oak Elementary students of the 2nd grade classes of Miss Ann Kleypas, Mrs. Jane Browning and Mrs. Jane Eller visited the library May 20th. Mrs. A.C. Hamon, librarian, gave pointers on taking care of books and explained the Summer Reading Program: "Movin' On...Then and Now."

Story Hour coincided with the student's visit and the librarian read "Fireflies in the Night," by Judy Hawes, "Who Said Sue, Said Who?" by Ellen Raskin and "Mushrooms in the Rain," by Mirra Ginsburg to some 65 children. The library staff welcomes visits from the schools and will be happy to conduct tours of the library.

The library gratefully acknowledges memorials and donations of books from the following: Mr. Oliver Stuttle, Mrs. Troy Garner and Mrs. Wm. Blanton and Woman's Club of Aransas County, Inc. The library will be closed Memorial Day, May 31st.

CHICAGO — A Maryland psychologist, Dr. Paul Cameron of St. Mary's College, reports that a study he conducted debunks the notion that women are more emotional than men. He said women usually express their emotions more openly than men.

Miss Susan Loghry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Loghry of Rockport, became the bride of Terrance Duffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Duffey of Richardson, Texas, at a 3 p.m. wedding mass at Sacred Heart Catholic Church on May 22 before 75 guests. Monsignor Harold Palmer officiated. Traditional wedding music was played by Cathy Rinche. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The altar was decorated with baskets of yellow and white carnations and pompons. White carnations and yellow bows decorated the pews.

The bride's gown was an elegantly simple Jerry Silverman design of shimmering white Qiana knit with a deep v-neckline, front gathers and semi-fitted sleeves. Her bouquet was a cascade of white carnations and roses.

Miss Karla Gatlin of Beaumont served as maid of honor. The Misses Peggy Duffey and Katy Duffey of Richardson, sisters of the groom, and Miss Marion Wagner of Corpus Christi, served as bridesmaids.

The dresses of the attendants were in mint green and similar to the bride's dress with deep v-neck and backline and cap sleeves. They wore mint green garden hats and carried single long-stemmed variegated white and yellow carnations with streamers.

Best man was Rick Buron of Richardson. Philip Loghry of Rockport, the bride's brother, and Dick Duffey of Richardson, the groom's brother, served as ushers. Michael Duffey and Dan Duffey of Richardson, brothers of the groom, Rusty Brice of Houston were groomsmen.

Other attendants were Velinda Loghry of Rockport, the bride's sister-in-law, and Karen Duffey of Richardson, the groom's sister.

A reception following the ceremony was given by the bride's parents at Sandollar Restaurant. The bride's table, covered with yellow net, held a tiered wedding cake decorated with white swans, yellow roses and babies' breath.

For going away the bride wore a floral print dress of knit. The couple went to Cozumel in the Caribbean for their wedding trip and will be living in Houston for the summer following their return May 29.

The bride's family have lived in Rockport the past three years. The bride and groom are students at the University of Texas in Austin where the bride will be a senior in marketing and the groom a senior in petroleum engineering.

Nursing Home News May 17-23

The Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center was a busy place last week. To start the week out very good was some good old "Blue Grass" music, played by John Blair on the fiddle, Fannie Brunson and our own Pat Baker on guitar, and Mrs. Altie Lee Albers on piano. Gee! there was a lot of hand clapping and feet stomping as the group played. They promised to play once a month for us from now on. It will be the third Monday at 3:00 if you would like to come out and join in.

Wednesday right after our daily exercise program, Bonnie and Jean were out to conduct our paint class. These ladies do a very fine job also.

Wednesday afternoon a group made up of Mrs. Annie Commander, Ethel Kell, Edith Adams, Delma Ruth Brimer, Annie Stacy, Dora Rodriguez and Ada Griffin came out for a game day program. They also will be coming out monthly and I have given them a name which is "The Life Savers".

Thursday morning the ladies along with their pastor, Bro. Alton Pruitt, of the Pentecostal Church of God of Aransas Pass, were out for the weekly program.

Thursday afternoon was once again time for the Aransas Pass

Ladies Auxiliary of the V.F.W. to have their monthly game day. These ladies sure could use some volunteers to help them, so if any of you have some time to donate to a worthy and also fun cause, please contact some of the ladies and come on out.

Thursday evening was Prayer and Bible Study with Dora Rodriguez and Penny Gonzalez.

Friday evening was a "big time" for our little Mrs. Emma Sowerbutts, who was complimented with a big party celebrating her 97th birthday by her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Baldwin and girls, and Mrs. Susana Sorenson, all of Rockport. They served cake and punch to all of our residents and staff.

Saturday morning Father James Hamilton was out to administer Holy Communion to our Catholic residents.

Then came Saturday night, the night we have our monthly country music dance. Mary Frances Fahrenthold, Linda Lanfair and Xandra Mathis furnished our music and the ladies of the Altar Society served the refreshments. We all enjoyed it very much. Our residents look forward to this night every month.

Sunday morning church services with Rev. Al Bankert was held.

Sunday afternoon the members and friends from the First Christian Church of Ingleside were over for their monthly "Sing In". This program will be scheduled next month at 3:30 p.m. so everyone will have more time for a nap.

Now I would like to thank the following people for various things which are: Annie Stacy and Ada Griffin for clothing and visiting our residents, Mary Walters for books she brought out, Polly Brown for a pot of beautiful red caladiums and for the nice wheelchair and portable commode she donated to our Home, and to Virgil and Lois Kinney for making some very pretty pictures to hang on the walls of our residents.

May I say thanks to all of you in this area who really "care for our people."

One of the dangers a person is liable to encounter when camping may be the very thing that makes it possible to enjoy living in the outdoors—the tent.

Most camping tents will burn with almost explosive speed. Once the flame, no matter how small, becomes established the whole tent can be a mass of flames in 15 or 20 seconds. This is especially true of modern light-weight tents that are water-proofed with paraffin. These are torches just waiting to be ignited unless they are specifically treated to be flame retardant.

Tents don't have to be dangerous. Commercial tents used to house revivals, circuses, etc. are required by law to be fire resistant. This flame resistance, however, is not a big selling point used by tent makers. It should be.

Members of the Canvas Products Association International have come up with certain standards that a tent must meet before it can be classed as "fire resistant." Camping tents which meet these standards are allowed to carry a tag saying, "Meets flame retardant standard CPAI-84." If you can't find this tag on a tent you're interested in, then it is not sufficiently fire resistant.

Probably the most dangerous tents of all are the cheap little "play tents" that children love to "camp" in out in the back yard. Some brands are worse than others, but virtually all of them will almost explode when ignited. They, at their very best, are extremely dangerous.

The Parks and Wildlife Department has published these rules for outdoor safety in and around tents.

1. If at all possible, buy only tents stating they meet CPAI-84 standards for flame retardancy. Stress that you as a customer want this protection.

2. Never light lanterns or heaters inside a tent.

3. Keep all sources of open flame (stoves, candles, etc.) out of the tent.

4. Build all fires down-wind from the campsite.

5. Never leave children in a tent without proper supervision.

6. Clear all tall, dried grass from around the tent area, if possible, to reduce this fire hazard.

I go a little further. We never carry anything into the tent that's burning. If we can't get outside to cook because of rain, we eat sandwiches. Any light we need in the tent is furnished by flashlights or a battery powered fluorescent lantern.

Don't let a tent fire put an unhappy ending to your vacation—or your life.

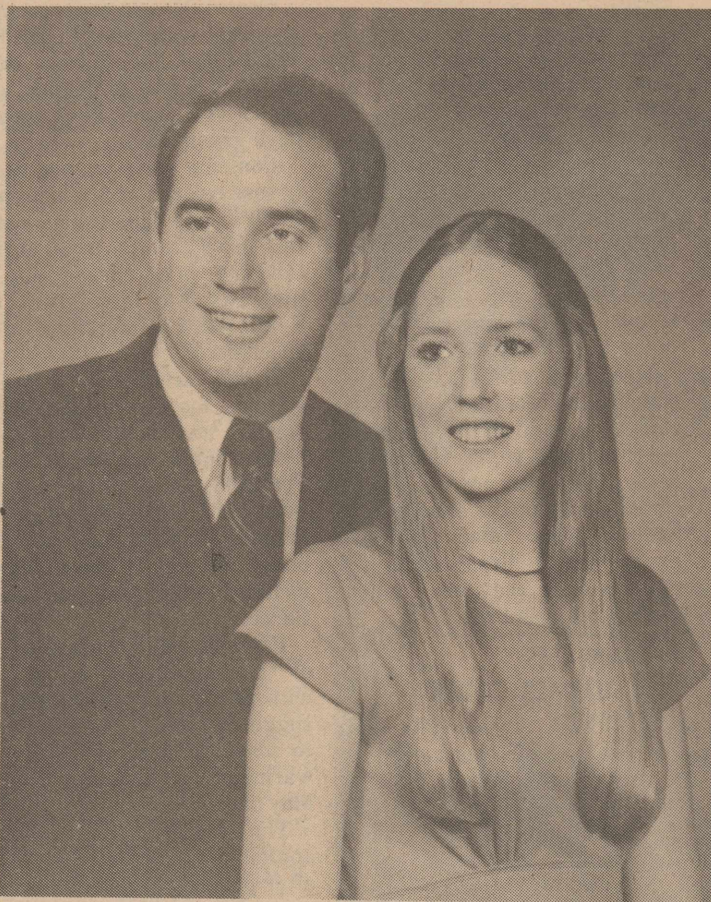

Pamela Gillis Gets Degree

Some 3,500 students, candidates for degrees or diplomas from the University of Houston for the fall 1975 and spring 1976 semesters, celebrated their graduation at commencement ceremonies May 15 in Hofheinz Pavilion on the UH Central Campus.

Candidates for degrees or diplomas included Pamela Ann Gillis, B.S. Business Education. Randall Meyer, president and chief executive of EXXON, U.S.A., delivered the commencement address.

Dr. Philip G. Hoffman, president of UH, presided, conferred degrees and diplomas, and presented teaching excellence awards.

Dr. Ronald F. Bunn, UH acting vice president and dean of faculties, presented candidates for degrees and recognized honor graduates.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Dan R. Shelton of Fulton Beach Road have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Susan Ann Shelton of Fort Worth, to Jon Douglas Hellberg of Houston, son of Mrs. Wallace A. Hellberg of Sheffield, Illinois.

The wedding will be at 2 p.m. July 10 in the Robert Carr Chapel at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth.

Shower Honors Susan Lassiter

Miss Susan Lassiter, bride-elect of Kenton Leonard, was honored with a kitchen and linen shower May 22 in the home of Mrs. Ray Cleveland.

Co-Hostess for the occasion was Miss Tereas Cleveland.

An arrangement of flowers complemented the cookies, finger sandwiches and punch which carried out the bride-elect's chosen colors.

Janet Holt assisted Miss Lassiter with her gifts.

Home & Garden Club Meets

The Board of Directors of the Rockport Home & Garden Club met May 24 in the Statesman's Club at the United Savings Building.

The president, Mrs. Lewis Caton, called the meeting to order.

The out-going officers turned records and materials over to the in-coming officers.

A financial committee was appointed to draw up a budget for 1976-77.

It was suggested all members read and know the Club's By-Laws.

Plans for the District VII Garden Club Convention held here in Rockport in November were discussed. The chairman, Mrs. Gene Garcia, absent, Mrs. B.F. Street, co-chairman said definite plans and committees will be ready at the June 10th Club meeting.

SeaFair booth plans were discussed.

The meeting adjourned with the announcement that the June, July and August Club meetings will be held in the Statesman Club in the United Savings Building.

Keep Mower Blades Sharp

College Station—One of the most important maintenance procedures on rotary lawn mowers is keeping the blade sharp, says Lambert Wilkes, professor of agricultural engineering at Texas A&M University.

"It is important from the standpoint of energy conservation," Wilkes points out. "If the blade is sharp enough to slice the grass rather than beat it off, the engine is under less load, and therefore uses less gasoline to perform an equal amount of work."

Wilkes notes that a sharp blade is less hazardous than a dull one since "most accidents occur due to the constant pushing and pulling when using a dull blade."

"Another reason for keeping a blade sharp is simply that a lawn will look better when the grass is sliced rather than beaten," Wilkes explains.

Mower blades are made of high carbon tempered steel. "These blades can be sharpened with grinders so long as care is taken to avoid getting the metal too hot when sharpening," the agricultural engineer explains. "If discoloration of the metal is noted, the temper is lost."

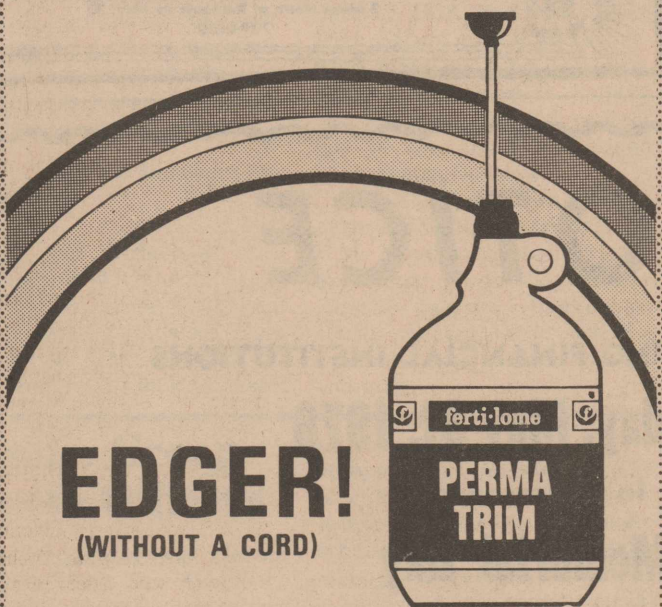

"A sharp blade will probably last a full mowing season if it is used on a lawn only," says Wilkes. "It will need sharpening more often if used for custom lawn mowing." Lawn mower blades should be sharpened at a 45-degree bevel.

BEWARE OF PROMISES

State law prohibits a County Commissioner from cleaning, cutting or hauling on private property. I have had many phone calls recently asking for these services to be done. A Commissioner who abides by the law cannot do these things. One of our South Texas Counties is presently in deep trouble because they ignored this law.

I again ask my friends and supporters to vote for me. To those who did not, I ask you to consider the actual facts -- not the promises. After reconsidering I hope you will vote for me.

PRECAUTIONS TO PREVENT RAPE

More mobility and independence have helped make women increasingly vulnerable to many crimes, including rape. The FBI says rape is the fastest growing violent crime in the nation. Conservatively estimated, 60,000 rapes occurred in 1975. This large increase in reported rapes is due partly to changing societal attitudes toward rape victims and improved treatment facilities. However, some estimates say about two-thirds of all rapes go unreported.

Women can cut down on these staggering figures by making themselves less vulnerable. Here are some precautions compiled by the Texas Medical Association that should help cut down on any type of assault.

Police advise people not to hinder themselves with books, packages or clothing that could prevent quick movement in an emergency. Clog shoes and long dresses may be stylish but not practical if someone must walk at night.

Rape crisis centers often advise women to go to a lighted home or business if they are followed.

If a threatening person has no weapon, some authorities advise fighting back. Hit, scratch, fight dirty; do anything to get free of and flee an attacker. Keys between the fingers, an umbrella, even a ballpoint pen can make an effective weapon to discourage an attacker. Some articles on rape prevention advise screaming, maintaining balance and being ready to run. Another point of view stresses keeping calm and reasoning with somebody in a threatening situation.

If the attacker has a weapon, much more caution is definitely advisable. Talk and try to keep the person calm. Offer money and, if possible, pretend you do not understand there has been a sexual threat.

Many persons are particularly vulnerable going to their vehicles. One rape crisis center advises using this routine: have all car doors locked, keep the keys between your fingers, get in the car quickly and lock all doors. When driving, keep windows up so a person cannot easily touch you when you are stopped. If someone follows you, go to an open business and either seek help inside or blow the horn to attract attention. Doing this can scare off a threatening person. Seeking help at a business also will keep someone from following you home.

Car trouble presents another potential problem. The safest procedure is to turn on the hazard lights, put up the hood and wait inside with doors locked. Wait for a policeman or an obviously safe person such as a man with his wife and children. A CB radio can be an invaluable aid for seeking assistance in this and many other situations.

Some precautions to take at home include putting only last names on a mailbox. Doing this and listing two last names on a mailbox will help keep potential intruders from knowing the number or sex of residents in a dwelling. Other safety measures include having deadbolt locks on doors, putting wooden poles in windows and sliding doors and having adequate outside lighting.

It also pays to be politely cautious with strangers and not let them in for any reason. But doing this will not cut out all danger. Some studies show about one-third of all rapes are committed by casual acquaintances.

A simple way to decrease this hazard is to avoid going to someone's residence on the first date if you are uneasy. Also, let the person know that someone, even a fictitious roommate, is expecting you home.

Of course it is impossible for people to cut themselves off from society to be completely safe but common sense and simple precautions will cut down on vulnerability.

Despite all precautions, rape sometimes occurs. Rape victims need medical attention, at least to have venereal disease tests. They also need someone to talk to about the experience. Studies show many women experience needless shame and guilt because they have fallen victim to a criminal.

PERIWINKLES FOR SUMMER COLOR

College Station—The hot summer sun may cause some flowers to wilt and die but not the periwinkle. It actually thrives in Texas' summer weather.

Periwinkles, or vinca rosea as they are sometimes called, can be an attractive addition to the summer landscape, says Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. They begin flowering when they are a few inches tall and continue to grow and bloom until the first heavy frost.

Periwinkles come in common or dwarf varieties and produce small phlox-like flowers ranging from white to deep rose in color. The plants have glossy, dark-green leaves.

Common varieties are usually rose colored and are from 18 to 30 inches tall. Dwarf varieties grow from 8 to 10 inches tall and may spread out as much as two feet, notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Dwarf varieties work well as edgings for flower and shrub borders and include Coquette, Little Pinkie and Bright Eyes. Spreading and trailing varieties that look especially good in hanging baskets and window boxes or as ground cover will include Polka Dot and Rose Carpet.

Plant periwinkles in full sun or partial shade in a soil with plenty of organic matter, suggests Janne. The best time to plant is after the soil has warmed up, usually around May 15.

The horticulturist advises applying a complete fertilizer after planting and then making an application once every four to six weeks throughout the growing season. If plant foliage turns yellow, iron chelates or iron sulfate may be added to the fertilizer.

er, look for a corrosion resistant tank, large filler opening, a pump equipped with replacement parts, and a long extension hose with flexible head.

Trombone sprayers are also hand operated, with the pressure resulting from the sliding action to force the chemical out. This type of sprayer is generally filtered with a suction hose which can be dropped into any size tank. It is best suited for large trees and shrubs.

Power driven spray equipment is expensive and generally is not required for the home garden. Costs will generally start around $250.00.

In using a sprayer, mix the pesticide in a small amount of water and then add it to the larger spray tank. This will prevent plugging of nozzles, a common problem.

Always wash out sprayers thoroughly after each use and treat them as a used pesticide container, cautions Pawlik.

SPRAY EQUIPMENT FOR HOME GARDENS

All types of sprayers at varying costs are available to the homeowner. These range from hose-on sprayers to large power driven equipment, points out D.P. Pawlik, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The hose-on sprayer is possibly the most widely used because it is inexpensive and simple to operate. This sprayer attaches on to the end of a hose and meters the pesticide into the water stream as a result of a siphoning effect. Each sprayer is calibrated for a set diluting rate, generally 3 to 15 gallons. When spraying foliage, the lower diluting rate is usually desired, notes Pawlik.

Compressed air sprayers operate on air pressure developed by a hand pump. They are considerably more expensive than hose-on sprayers. In buying a compressed air spray-

SHARK SEASON

The capture of a fourteen foot shark by U.S. fishermen in the Gulf of Mexico recently, and discovery of a human skeleton in its stomach, reminds us the swimming season is at hand, and of the sensational swell of interest and fear generated by films about sharks last summer.

Sharks are a reality and a danger and shark warnings and common sense should be heeded by all ocean swimmers this year. After saying that, however, it's a statistical fact that the danger from sharks is much less than the danger from riding in cars, crossing the street, etc. Only a handful of shark bites are recorded along America's coasts each summer.

There are many who feel the barracuda danger is far greater than the shark danger. Barracudas have long rows of spiked teeth and these smaller fish slash at victims underwater with no warning. They are difficult to detect being so small and many barracuda attacks are erroneously reported as shark bites.

The Portuguese Man 'o War is also a serious danger. However, these fleet-footed potential killers, with many tentacles extending down into the water, are more easily spotted than sharks or barracuda.

Rule number one is to swim where others are also in the water, where lifeguards are on duty if possible and with both eyes open—to reduce danger to the minimum.

The Scientists Tell Me...

Fish Farming in the South Can Increase Our Meat Supply

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Freshwater fish, produced on "fish farms," are expected to become a major U.S. meat product in the next few years.

Present annual production of less than 100 million pounds of fish could be increased tenfold if current research efforts are successful in solving industry problems.

The climate and topography of the Southern Region of the United States is ideally suited to aquacultural production

(fish farming in ponds.)

This intensive type of fish production has two main advantages: it permits control of fish quality and produces a dependable, predictable supply of fish.

Fish are ideal food for the diet-conscious consumer because they are low in fat and carbohydrates and have generous amounts of vitamins, minerals and proteins.

They're also extremely efficient converters of feed into food. With a conversion ratio of 1 pound of flesh for each 1.5 pounds of food received (1:1.5), catfish are much more efficient meat producers than cattle (1:9) or poultry (1:2.5).

But aquaculture is an infant industry, and many problems remain to be solved. One of the problems, for example, is that the intensive, efficient culture of fish requires maintaining them under abnormally crowded conditions. Like all other animals, fish are subject to a variety of diseases, and under crowded conditions diseases of little significance in nature can be devastating to the fish farmer.

In response to the need to develop answers to such problems and provide diagnostic assistance to the developing aquaculture industry, the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University through the auspices of the National Sea Grant Program and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station—developed a research program on diseases of marine and freshwater aquatic animals.

The most significant disease problems of both marine and freshwater species are those related to bacterial infections, according to Dr. Don Lewis of the Department of Veterinary Microbiology.

The Aquaculture Center of TAES offers an ideal research area for Lewis' interest in bacteriology.

"It should be emphasized," Lewis says, "that those agents that cause disease problems in fish do not ordinarily pose health problems to man or other warm-blooded animals."

"In the past year, much of our research effort on freshwater fish has been directed toward catfish diseases caused by a bacterium known as Aeromonas hydrophila."

The disease it causes, known as bacterial hemorrhagic septicemia, affects all ages of fish and most species of warm water fish (including pet fish).

In many cases the disease development is triggered by warm temperatures, transport or handling of fish, spawning, etc. In other cases the disease is due to the introduction of a highly virulent strain of the bacterium.

"We have been working on research aimed at developing vaccines that would control fish diseases. We found that when killed bacteria were injected into the fish, they, like other animals developed antibodies, proving that vaccinating fish is feasible."

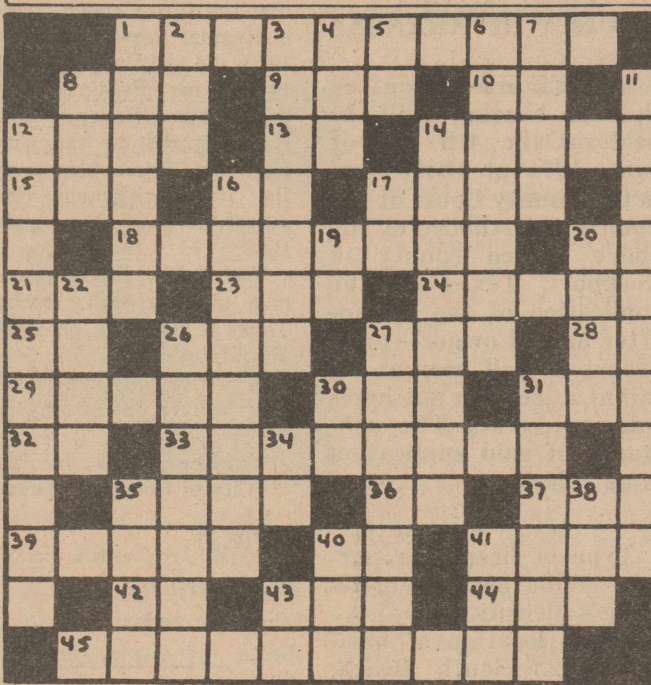

"However, it's not practical to vaccinate fish by injection, so we've been looking for alternatives. One possibility, the oral route, used food containing killed bacteria. Preliminary data suggest that this is one possible way to immunize fish."

"Other means are being considered such as bathing fish in solutions containing the immunizing agent. A vaccine for bacteria hemorrhagic septicemia of fish may be possible in the not so distant future. Similar principles are applicable to other bacterial and virus diseases of fish."

"In marine fish, a similar group of bacteria known as vibrios affect marine fish and shrimp. Our research on marine species is similar to that of freshwater fish. We are analyzing the bacteria, attempting to refine detection methods and determine the response to bacteria."

"But the concept of mariculture is even more recent than freshwater fish culture, so much of our research is concerned with identifying causes of disease problems.

"Information generated from such research activities has been useful in developing two courses on fish diseases, a course on aquatic microbiology, and a course on marine mammal medicine. Currently, the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University is one of only two or three veterinary colleges in the United States where research and training is being conducted in the area of aquatic animal medicine," concluded Lewis.

Such research on aquaculture and mariculture can radically increase fish production, so it becomes an increasingly important source of food in the future.

Consumer Food News

College Station -- Dairy specials now are more numerous in Texas grocery stores--but forecasters say meat prices will rise, including poultry and beef.

Lower prices at dairy counters appear on milk, yogurt, cheese loaves and slices, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, reports.

She advised consumers to buy extra chicken over the next few weeks to avoid higher prices that will result from a heavy demand for chicken during the "cook-out" season.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Ups and downs" describes the wholesale beef market, but predictions say retail beef prices will go up, and now is the time to take advantage of good values on chuck cuts and rib steaks, the specialist added.

Other attractive beef prices are on ground beef, rib roasts and liver, she said.

Processed fruits and vegetables are showing special price tags on several items--including canned peaches, frozen orange and grapefruit juice, and canned tomatoes. Other values include canned and frozen green beans, peas and sweet corn.

Fresh vegetable counters show economical prices on carrots, cabbage, cucumbers, peppers and soft-shell squash.

"Consumers can expect lower prices on head lettuce in the next week or so--and larger supplies of snap beans, corn and onions now coming to market should mean lower prices on those items," Mrs. Clyatt said.

The fresh-fruit supply is probably at its lowest level of the year. Grapefruit supplies are diminishing and prices climbing.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: For meat value, consider cost per serving--rather than cost per pound.

For example, chuck roast selling at 89 cents per pound is 44 cents per serving, since it yields only two servings per pound.

GERANIUMS FOR A BRIGHTER SUMMER

College Station--Geraniums are an excellent choice to brighten summer landscapes, contents a landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Geraniums are easy to grow and will tolerate a wide range of conditions," says Everett Janne. "All that you need is a good soil mix and a well lighted area. Geraniums can be planted in a garden or grown in tubs, pots or hanging container."

Janne notes that there are two disease-free varieties available from most garden centers and nurseries--Carefree and Sprinter. They produce flowers with colors ranging from deep red to white.

"Locate geraniums where they will receive plenty of light," points out the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"However, some mid-afternoon shade is helpful.

"When preparing the soil, add a complete fertilizer at the rate of one or two pounds per 100 square feet.

"Space geraniums about 15 inches apart so that they will have plenty of room to grow and won't need pinching. They'll also flower earlier."

With proper care, geraniums will thrive and brighten up any landscape or outdoor area, believes Janne.

EXPENSIVE VISITOR

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.--Phil Garrison, manager, reports a guest at the Ramada Inn here ran through four plate glass doors to get out. He explained that a large buck deer charged through the entrance glass doors, took a dip in the pool and made his exit on the other side of the building.

ACCENT ON HEALTH

Choking on food causes more accidental deaths in the United States each year than are caused by airplane crashes or firearms. In fact, according to the Texas Department of Health Resources, choking is the sixth most common cause of accidental death.

Health officials say that at least 3,900 Americans die each year because food gets stuck in their throats. The actual number may be considerably higher, however, since the cause of death may be incorrectly identified. It has just been in recent years that health authorities discovered that many so-called heart attack victims actually were victims of choking. Incorrect identification of choking victims is especially tragic since the proper treatment must be given immediately.

There are three things you need to know about choking: what causes it, how to recognize it, and what to do about it. In spite of the high death toll in the past, choking can be easily prevented, and treatment for choking victims can be administered by almost anyone—including the victim, if he just knows what to do.

Choking occurs when a piece of food lodges in the windpipe, blocking off a small valve at the base of the throat. The valve controls the flow of air to and from the lungs; ordinarily, the valve opens only when a person inhales or exhales, and it closes when food is being swallowed. If a piece of food lodges against the valve, the victim can't breathe.

Obviously, the best way to prevent choking is to chew all food so thoroughly that no large pieces of solid matter are swallowed. As might be expected, the most frequent victims of choking are children; elderly people, especially those with poor-fitting dentures; and people who are drinking, laughing, or talking while they are eating.

It is particularly important not to confuse a choking victim with a heart attack victim. In both cases, the victim may gasp with apparent pain and double over; also, many heart attack victims do experience difficulty in breathing. The most important difference is that the choking victim can't breathe at all, and therefore cannot speak. Heart attack victims ordinarily remain conscious and can speak, although with some difficulty. Choking victims can't speak and often lose consciousness in as little as two or three minutes. Death is almost certain to follow in as little as four minutes unless prompt, appropriate treatment is given.

There is one technique for treating victims of choking that has been shown to be almost fool-proof. It's called the "Heimlich Maneuver," after its inventor, Dr. Henry J. Heimlich of Cincinnati. Dr. Heimlich found that there is ordinarily a reserve of air in the lungs that can be used to expel the dislodged food particle from the throat.

Using the Heimlich Maneuver is relatively simple: If the victim is standing or sitting, stand behind the victim and put your arms around his or her waist, a couple of inches above the belt line. Grasp your hands, just below the victim's rib cage. Squeeze sharply with an upward motion. This compresses the victim's diaphragm, forcing air out of the lungs. The maneuver can be repeated, if necessary, until the piece of food pops out of the victim's mouth. Recovery is almost immediate, although medical attention is recommended in case there are complications.

If the victim has fallen to the floor, or if for some other reason the standard maneuver can't be performed, anything that provides a sharp blow just below the diaphragm, will force residual air from the lungs. It's important to understand that a great deal of force is not necessary, and could result in unnecessary internal damage.

Does this technique work? According to health authorities, the Heimlich Maneuver has saved hundreds of choking victims from almost certain death, and has never resulted in serious injury. The technique has been endorsed by the American Medical Association and is being taught to emergency medical personnel, and in first aid courses, all over the country.

The Texas Department of Health Resources also endorses the Heimlich Maneuver as a life-saving technique, and encourages you to learn and to practice this technique. You never know when it could mean the difference between life and death for someone in your family.

The Chamber of Commerce civic affairs committee discussed progress on a number of local projects.

Chairman Seth Steele reported that the curb and gutter project on Highway 35 business route was making excellent progress under the direction of Mayor Chester Johnson and the City Council. Steele said property owners along the route had shown that they were almost 100 per cent in favor of the work even though most of the cost will be borne by them.

He also reported that the brick barbecue pit across the street from the Woman's Club building, a project of the Rockport Lions Club, was scheduled to be completed by the end of May.

The matter of the bridge from the mainland to Frandolig Island was discussed and a committee of L.O. Hill, Dr. "Blue" Schmidt, Jack McCready and Dudley Bracht was appointed to look into the matter and see if some action could be taken.

Hill was asked to make a house-to-house canvass to determine public feeling on a water and sewer system for Fulton.

"Hello?" "Hi Marge, this is Suzie." "Suzie, Suzie, Suzie! What a pleasant surprise!" "How are ya?" "I'm doing just fine. How are things with you?" "Oh, things are terrific around here since you left." "I'll bet. You know I miss you guys." "How do you like your new house?" "Oh, Suzie, it's terrific!" "Did you get what you wanted?" "That and more." "Well?" "Well what?" "Tell me about your stupid new house." "Suzie, it's fabulous!" "Did you get the big back yard you wanted?" "Three acres with a pond?" "Do you have a garden?" "We have a greenhouse!" "Do you have a nice kitchen?" "A huge kitchen with all new appliances!" "Do you have some aspirin?" "Aspirin?" "Yeah, you're making me sick." "You should complain. You're not exactly living in a dump." "How does Fred like his new job?" "Suzie, he's a new man." "He likes it?" "He loves it. Absolutely loves it." "That's good." "How is Jack?" "Fine. He's going through a do-it-yourself phase right now." "Oh, good." "Everytime I ask him to do something, he yells 'Do it yourself!' "Oh, not good." "When are you coming to visit us?" "When are you going to invite us?" "You know you have a standing invitation." "Yeah, but we'd rather sit." "I'm serious. When are you coming?" "Name a date." "How about in a few weeks... say the week of the 29th?" "Wait a minute, let me get my calendar... the 29th?" "That's a Saturday." "Yeah. Sounds good." "Okay, it's a deal. We'll be expecting you." "What do you want us to bring?" "Just your sense of humor." "No." "No?" "Just joking." "Funny." "You missed a great party at the Smiths' last night." "They had a party? They never have parties." "They've been waiting for you to move away." "What happened?" "Well, for starters, Jackie's dog ate the main course before any of the guests arrived." "You're kidding." "No. Then the air conditioning went on the blink." "No wonder they never had any parties. What did everyone do?" "We starved and perspired a lot." "Sounds awful." "Speaking of starving, how's the old diet?" "I'll tell you if you tell me." "125." "Oh, Susan! You've been cheating!" "No I haven't." "Well how can you lose weight if you've been eating?" "How about you?" "I'm not telling." "Come on." "One fxxvie five." "What?" "One fxxvie five." "Marge, you're mumbling." "One fxxvie five." "One forty five?" "Less." "One thirty five?" "See, that's not so bad." "That's terrible." "I know." "What's your excuse?" "A perfectly understandable insecurity resulting from having to adapt to new surroundings." "New surroundings. The only new surroundings you're gonna have to adapt to is the lard surrounding your midsection." "Hey, look. Go easy kid. I don't have you to nag me any more." "Well, it hasn't been easy for me either." "You wouldn't believe the food prices here." "Oh?" "Low." "Low?" "Low." "No wonder you're eating so much." "I'm not kidding..." "Neither am I?" "...I'm saving about 15 dollars a week over what I used to pay." "You're kidding!" "I'm not kidding." "Sounds like you got a raise, too." "Right. 15 dollars to blow on anything I like... toilet paper, floor wax and soap." "Don't forget laundry detergent." "Right." "Hey, you took something of mine when you left." "Your yellow sweater?" "Did you take my sweater?" "Sorry, I wasn't going to tell you." "That's okay. You keep my sweater and I'll keep your skirt." "Skirt?" "You know, the one with all the animals on it?" "Oh, yeah. I'd forgotten about that." "Is it a deal?" "We'll trade when you come to visit." "Sour puss. I'm sorry I even brought the subject up." "What were you going to say?" "I was going to say that you took my Suzie Fu Yung recipe." "Did I?" "Yes." "I'll give you that too when you come." "Good." "See? Just think of all the nice things awaiting you when you come." "I can't wait. Hey, I have something for you." "What?" "A riddle." "Shoot." "What has four holder-uppers, four puller-downers, a pair of lookers, and a swishy-wishy?" "I don't know, what?" "I'll tell you when we come to visit." "Oh, no you don't!" "Bye." "Come on, tell me!" "Bye." "Suzie!"

A 6-minute call to New York dialed the One-Plus way (5 p.m. to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday) costs just $1.51 plus tax.
