Restraining order issued against trio

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

A Midland judge Monday issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting two Midland men from engaging in deceptive trade practices and ordered them not to interfere with a state attorney general's investigation of their business enterprises.

Midland oilman Ray K. Horton and Midlander Frank J. Fuell, along with M. L. Copenhaver, formerly of San Antonio, were named in the restraining order, as were five businesses controlled by the three men.

State District Judge Perry D. Pickett issued the 10-day restraining order shortly before noon Monday and set a hearing on a permanent order for 10:30 a.m. Aug. 17.

The businesses named in the suit are Texas International Mortgage Co., Growth Energy Inc. and International Machine and Supply, with Fuell president of all three businesses; Wallace Oil Co., of which Horton is president, and Atomic Enterprises Inc., controlled by Copenhaver.

In requesting the restraining order, the state attorney general's office alleged the defendants "participated jointly in (deceptive) trade practices. . . and enjoyed the fruits of these transactions."

The request said the defendants contracted to sell or lease some 60 steam cleaners for a total of more than $720,000 in contracts executed in 1974 and 1975 with Borg-Warner Leasing, Guardian Leasing Inc. and Western Lease-Banc Inc.

The attorney general said Horton and Fuell signed receipts saying they had received cleaners from Atomic Enterprises when "in truth and in fact, no complete and working steam cleaners were manufactured, shipped or received by said defendants."

The petition said the defendants split the purchase price, and the sales tax, for the cleaners.

Also included in the petition for the restraining order were allegations that Fuell accepted a $5,000 advance fee to arrange financing for two individuals but did not arrange the financing.

Under Pickett's order, the defendants are prohibited from destroying, concealing or removing from the state any funds, assets or records for the businesses.

Pickett gave the attorney general's office access to the records of the businesses.

When contacted by The Reporter-Telegram, neither Fuell nor Horton would comment on the restraining order.

A spokesman for the attorney general's office Monday said the investigation is not complete and that Billie Sol Estes, sent to prison in 1965 for a multi-million dollar swindling scheme, is involved in the investigation.

Contacted in Abilene, Estes had no comment on the allegations.

His attorney, Jack Bryant of Abilene, said this morning that Estes is employed by Permian Petroleum Co., a division of Growth Energy Inc., which is named in the restraining order.

Bryant said Estes does consulting work for the company. "They use his brains," Bryant said. He said Estes

Suit filed against Snody

Also Monday, Growth Energy Inc. was plaintiff in a suit filed in Midland district court against Doyle Snody, doing business as Snody Construction Co.

In the suit, Growth Energy Inc. is seeking $174,000, an amount the plaintiff alleged it lost when First National Bank foreclosed on a piece of property in Midland County.

Growth Energy alleged Snody received proceeds from a promissory note executed by Horton and Fuell and then did not complete improvements on the land as agreed, resulting in the foreclosure.

MCAA hires drug counselor, bookkeeper

By JIM STEINBERG

A drug counselor and a bookkeeper were hired by the Midland Community Action Agency (MCAA) during a board meeting Monday night.

Albert Jones, a retired U.S. Air Force alcohol and drug abuse counselor, was hired for a proposed "narcotics anonymous" center which is expected to be located somewhere on the city's east side as soon as free housing for the facility can be found.

The proposed facility will offer both one-to-one counseling and group treatment sessions. It will fill a treatment gap with those who feel there is a stigma attached to getting treatment at the Mental Health and Retardation Center, Jones said.

Chasley Bishop was hired as bookkeeper-administrative assistant of the agency. Bookkeeping irregularities have been a problem for the agency in the past as shown by an auditor's report of agency books during the last fiscal year which found $2,138 in unexplained expenditures.

Bishop has a degree in accounting from Metropolitan College in Denver.

On a motion from board chairman Charlie Welch, the board voted to have agency auditor Russell Horn of Austin fly into Midland and go over the operating procedures with Bishop and acting agency director Mrs. Alexandra Morris.

The board also voted to approve the application for grants that would enable the agency to seek federal funds for the "narcotics anonymous" center, and a weatherization program to help supply insulation materials to low-income persons. The materials

Suspect in clerk killing arrested in Colorado

By GEORGE H. JOHNSTON

A 19-year-old man wanted in connection with the slaying of a Midland liquor store clerk is being held in Denver, Colo., after he was arrested Monday night by FBI agents and Denver police.

Midland police Chief Wayne Gideon said today two Midland detectives are currently in Denver to bring Anthony Dewayne Scott, whose last address was listed as 206 W. Louisiana St., Burleigh, 45, of 500 N. Colorado St., during an apparent robbery attempt at B & B Liquor Store, 612 N. Big Spring St., Thursday night.

Anthony Dewayne Scott

According to Gideon, FBI agents and Denver police arrested Scott after they were informed by Midland detectives that he was in the Denver area. Scott was reportedly staying with relatives in Denver at the time of the arrest.

Gideon said Midland detectives determined Scott was in Denver after they questioned several people who knew Scott.

The two detectives sent to Denver were forced to drive because all flights at Midland Regional Air Terminal were booked, Gideon said. He said he did not know when they will return with Scott to Midland.

The Midland charges against Scott were filed Monday by Peace Justice Robert Pine and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Detectives Monday said they believed Scott had already fled Midland, but Gideon said District Attorney Vern Martin thought there was enough evidence to extradite the suspect.

Throughout the investigation, detectives have said they are reluctant to discuss the details for fear of "jeopardizing the case."

Scott is accused of the stabbing death of Mrs. Jackie Goodrum back to Midland to face charges of capital murder. The FBI has also charged Scott with unlawful flight across state lines to avoid prosecution.

However, Gideon said the FBI charge is only a formality to aid extradition of the suspect.

Speed limits lowered

Midland County commissioners Monday lowered speed limits on several county roads.

At the request of a group of residents of the area through which County Road 130 passes, the commissioners lowered the speed limit on that road from Midkiff to County Road 715 from 55 mph to 35 mph.

Before the vote, Commissioner Charlie Welch said it would be the first time a speed limit for a thoroughfare would be set at less than 40 mph.

Small children in the area was the reason the residents gave for the request.

Speed limits were dropped to 40 mph on County Road 120 from Rankin Highway to County Road 715 and on County Road 140 from Midkiff to County Road 715.

Speed limits were lowered on two school bus routes. The route going from County Road 72 east off of County Road 1140 to County Road 1138, south on County Road 1138 to County Road 74 and west on County Road 74 to County Road 1135 was lowered from 55 mph to 35 mph.

Beginning at U.S. Highway 80, north on County Road 1135 for approximately ½ mile to County Road 76, west on County Road 76 to County Road 37, south on County Road 37 to County Road 78 and east on County Road 78 to County Road 1135, the speed limit was lowered from 55 mph to 30 mph.

The limit was lowered from 55 mph to 40 mph on County Road 135 north from Highway 158 to County Road 120.

At the request of the Odessa Country Club, the speed limit was lowered to 30 mph on the Bankhead Highway from the Midland County line north for ½ mile.

County Judge Barbara Culver said violaters of the new speed limits will be subject to a fine of $1 to $50 for the first offense, $50 to $200 for the second offense and $200 to $500, plus a jail sentence, for third and subsequent offenses.

The commissioners deferred action on a request from residents of the Midkiff community for help from Midland County in expanding the Midkiff library.

Although some of the residents of Midkiff live in Midland County, the library itself is located in Upton County.

The commissioners agreed to consult the county attorney's office on the legality of such aid in another county and the county auditor to determine if the requested $10,000 can be fit into the budget.

The commissioners recessed Monday's meeting until next Monday, when they will formally set the tax rate, which is expected to remain at the current 95 cents per $100 of assessed value, based on 32 per cent of market value assessments.

Also at that meeting, the commissioners are scheduled to discuss the financial situation at the county law library and discuss a resolution for minimum road standards. They also are scheduled to open bids for a bulldozer ripper.

A public hearing on the 1978 budget was set for the Aug. 22 regular meeting of the commissioners.

Scrapbook provides glimpse of other era

ROUSTIN' ABOUT with Ed Todd

Just the other day, Helen Reid was "looking for something else" when she came upon an old scrapbook from another century.

It had been pasted up around 1890 and later by her husband John's grandmother or great-grandmother. She wasn't sure which.

"And it intrigued me so," she said of the book of magazine and newspaper clippings, illustrations and greeting cards.

The old pasted-up book was among the belongings of John Reid's mother, E. C. Reid, who died more than two years ago in Commerce.

Then, it was tucked away in a drawer of a secretary bookcase, which ended up at the Midland Reid's home.

Mrs. Reid figured that her husband's great-grandmother put the book together. The grandmother would have been too young, probably in her 20s, to have made the sage selections, Mrs. Reid said.

"I don't think she (the grandmother) would have the maturity and foresight to put those things together," she said.

The grandmother, Exile Eagleton, was a carpenter's wife. The great-grandmother, Mrs. George Eagleton, was a Presbyterian minister's wife. Both lived in the Northeast Texas town of Ladonia.

Following are scrapbook tidbits, arranged by broad subject matter:

HOPE: The very sound of the word hope "makes every bosom bound and burn. . . . Hope is man's birthright."

EQUAL RIGHTS: "Women may not get into the senate of the United States, but they have got into the

Lost nuclear material may have been stolen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional staff investigator says one intelligence agency "believes there was a diversion" of nuclear material from a power plant, although officials from two agencies remain publicly confident that none of the missing 8,000 pounds of weapons-grade material was stolen.

The officials testified Monday before a House Commerce subcommittee looking into the way the federal government safeguards nuclear materials at both government and private plants.

"We are really confident that no radioactive materials have ever been gotten out of those plants," said Robert W. Fri, acting administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration. But he added this was not "a 100 per cent certainty."

Fri and Lee V. Gossick, executive operations director of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said processing problems, biased measurements or bookkeeping errors may account for the inability to trace the missing weapons-grade plutonium and uranium.

But after the two officials testified, a subcommittee investigator said the congressmen earlier had received testimony indicating some of the nuclear material may have been stolen.

"We have information that an intelligence agency believes there was a diversion (of nuclear material)," said the subcommittee's chief investigator, Michael Ward. He did not elaborate nor identify the agency.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the subcommittee, said the questions about the missing nuclear material "tend to militate against my peace of mind."

"Really good accounting would say you would watch this process to see if you came out with what you put in," the chairman said.

Dingell convened the hearing after the government acknowledged last Thursday that nearly 3,400 pounds of plutonium and 4,800 pounds of enriched uranium can't be accounted for.

The missing materials are of the type used since World War II to produce atomic weapons.

Dayan remark sets tone

By BARRY SCHWEID

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, carrying word of possible Palestinian concessions, arrived in Israel today for what could be the climax of his current Middle East peace mission.

Vance faced close questioning by Prime Minister Menahem Begin and other Israeli leaders on whether the United States remains committed not to negotiate with Yasir Arafat's Palestinian Liberation Organization — PLO.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan welcomed Vance at planeside upon his arrival from Saudi Arabia and said, "Whenever you accept our views, we will be in full agreement with you."

Dayan was speaking in a light vein, but his comment foreshadowed difficulties in Vance's talks here.

At a news conference in Taif, Saudi Arabia, before flying here, Vance confirmed that he has had indirect contacts with the PLO through various Arab intermediaries.

"We have had no direct contact with the PLO," he said, adding: "We are informed by the various Arab parties as to the positions of the PLO and have been so informed as we proceeded through my visit." Vance has been in the Middle East for nine days.

The PLO has so far refused to accept United Nations resolutions laying the groundwork for a peaceful settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict, in part because these recognize Israel's right to exist and speak of the Palestinian quest for a homeland only as a "refugee problem." The PLO charter also calls for replacement of the Jewish state by a secular Palestine.

In a "memorandum of agreement" between the United States and Israel in 1975, former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger pledged that Washington "will not recognize or negotiate with the PLO as long as the PLO does not recognize Israel's right to exist and does not accept Security Council Resolutions 242 and 338."

Resolution 242 calls for Israeli withdrawal from occupied territories, resolution of the "refugee problem" and recognition of the right of every Mideast state to live in secure borders, and Resolution 338 sets up the Geneva peace conference.

Vance told reporters he had heard rumors that the PLO may be considering a change of position in regard to Resolution 242.

"But," he said, "I have seen nothing concrete yet."

If the PLO accepted the resolution, adopted after the 1967 war, the United States would not insist that the PLO charter also be revised, Vance said.

Felony grass charge likely

Charges of felony possession of marijuana were expected to be filed against a Midland man today after he was arrested by Midland police narcotics officers about 5:40 p.m. Monday.

The officers, acting on an informant's tip, arrested the man after he left a residence in the 500 block of west Holmsly Avenue, according to reports.

The man reportedly placed a briefcase in a car and headed west on Holmsly Avenue. The officers stopped the car, they said, near the intersection of Pecos Street and Holmsly Avenue.

The officers searched the car and the man's briefcase, and found five one-pound bags containing what officers said they believed to be marijuana.

public service at Washington so thoroughly that they have conquered 25 per cent of the government positions there in 25 years."

SERMONIZING: "Work rightly done gives the rhythmic, artistic product of a just life that perpetually opens out on immortality: such is the true history of the human soul."

GOOD WOMEN (a poem): "God bless good women! For they fill the world with noble cheer!"

CLEVELAND FOR PRESIDENT: An item in the Ladonia News of Sept. 23, 1892, listed Grover Cleveland for president and A. E. Stevenson for vice president.

JUST JOKING?: Here's a little bit, perhaps a "filler," clipped from a newspaper:

"A man aroused his wife from a sound sleep the other night, saying that he had seen a ghost in the shape of a donkey.

"'Oh! let me sleep,'" the irate dame rejoined, "'and don't be frightened at your own shadow.'"

HEAR! HEAR!: "All men are born equal, but no man ever was or ever could be born free. All are ideally equal because all have the same nature, and at birth all are equally helpless. Freedom is only to be attained by struggle. It is the culmination, not the beginning of life."

WOMAN POWER: An essay entitled "Woman and Her Power" said that the "power of sympathy (is) . . . one of woman's fairest and most goodly endowments."

TRIBUTE TO MOM: A poem, "Mother Knows," noted that the "sweetest gift" ever is a mother's love.

Over and over again, the scrapbook seemed to carry clippings that imparted esteem to women. For instance, there's an article of a mother's fortitude.

And just below sketches of a princess-like young lady and that of a grandmotherly type is the bold heading: "She Rocks the Cradle and She Rules the World."

The book, too, is replete with color prints taken from both magazines and catalogues.

A Christmas card "To My Brother" says kind and cozy things:

"My childhood chum
"My old side-kick
"The brother who still
"Is a regular brick."

Apparently, it's tidbits such as that which give appeal to the book.

Carter may fight over projects

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President Carter may fight again with Congress over 10 water projects he wanted killed, an administration official says.

"I wouldn't be surprised if you haven't heard the last of water projects, even for this year," said the official, a presidential aide who declined to be identified.

The aide left open the possibility that Carter might send Congress what is called a recision and deferral message, in which the President could list congressionally-approved spending he wants either to delay or delete from the budget.

The move would force Congress to vote again on any projects Carter included in the message.

The aide declined to elaborate on Carter's plans, other than to say preparations will have to be made if the President decides to go ahead with any further moves against the controversial projects.

The President, Mrs. Carter and daughter Amy spent their fifth day vacationing today in their south Georgia hometown. The visit, Carter's third since taking office, has been a mixture of work and play.

The Carters were expected to return to Washington on Wednesday.

After a morning visit with brother Billy at the family's peanut warehouse Monday, the President:

—Disclosed that the Palestinians have sent indirect word that they might adopt a United Nations resolution which recognizes Israel and its right to exist permanently and in peace with secure borders.

"If the Palestinians will recognize the applicability of the United Nations Resolution 242," Carter said, "then it will open up a new opportunity for us to start discussions with them and also open up an avenue that they might participate in the Geneva conference."

The board members voted to take a bank loan to pay back salaries until part of the $33,000 from a recently approved Community Services Administration (CSA) grant arrives.

Board members agreed to search for a new location for the agency, which has outgrown its space at Bunche school.

The needed space must be rent free, Mrs. Morris said.

In other action the board hired Sharon Rains as a part-time bus driver, and accepted the resignation of board member Jewel Cook. Earl Booker was chosen as Cook's replacement.

Currently the board members are Al Hernandez, Roy Harris, Booker, Joaquin Rubio, Emma Olguin, Alfredo Rey, Ramona Larkey, Welch, Jack Leonard, Dewey Williams, J. W. Cooper, Sister Eva Hernandez, Rusty Wall and Dr. William M. Hibbitts. Charlotte Windecker is secretary.

100-degree days likely

Warm nights and hot days can be expected as the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal forecasts highs for today and Wednesday of 100 degrees.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy afternoons with fair nights through Wednesday. The low tonight should be near 70 degrees. Winds are expected to be southerly at 15 to 25 mph today, becoming 5 to 10 mph tonight.

Monday's high was 100 degrees and the low was 73 degrees.

The record high for Monday is 104 degrees, set in 1952. The low for today is 62 degrees, set in 1976.

Scattered thunderstorms, including some described as very heavy, dumped heavy rainfall in portions of the Texas Panhandle during the night and forecasters said more thunderstorms were expected today along the coast and in Northwest Texas.

Dalhart had about 1.25 inches of rain and Amarillo recorded about .50 of an inch.

Thundershowers were also reported along the coast Monday afternoon, but dissipated during the early evening hours.

575 students preregister

Approximately 575 students have preregistered during the first four days of preregistration at Midland College for the fall semester.

Slightly more than two weeks remain to preregister, registrar Dee Windsor said Monday.

"The advantage to a person in preregistration is to receive an early time permit, which allocates a specific day and 15-minute time period in which to begin the official enrollment for fall classes," Windsor said.

Persons planning to take either daytime or evening credit courses at Midland College this fall should visit the Office of Student Services in the Administration Building.

Early counseling and preregistration during the coming week is available in the Administration Building between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday or in room 130 of the Science-Faculty Building between 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Preregistration will continue from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekdays including Fridays from Aug. 15 through Aug. 23.

Official registration is scheduled Aug. 24 and 25 in the Physical Education Building from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Fall classes start Aug. 29.

Midland, area counties involved in road work

Midland and area counties are participating in a 1978 road work program which is part of the special 1978 road improvement program approved by the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission.

In Midland these projects include 14.7 miles of seal coat on ramps and frontage roads on Interstate 20 from the Ector County line to .4 mile east of Texas 149.

Also included is seal coating of the main lanes on Texas 158 from Ector County line, southeast, to Spur 268, and on FM 1788 from U.S. 80 to the Upton County line, 19 miles.

Also, FM 1379 from FM 307, south to Texas 158, seal coating for 6.7 miles.

In Andrews County, seal coating of main lanes will be done on U.S. 385 from Avenue K in Andrews, northwest, to the Gaines county line for a length of 13.8 miles; FM 87 from New Mexico state line, east, to U.S. 385 for a length of 31.6 miles; FM 87 from Andrews, east, to Martin County line for a length of 18.5 miles, and FM 1218 from Winkler County line, north, to FM 781, for a length of 2.5 miles.

In Upton County, seal coating will be done from FM 1788 to Midland County line, south, 1.8 miles, and on FM 2401 from Texas 349 to Reagan County line for 16.9 miles.

City Jaycee participates in training

Larry Bell of the Midland Jaycees participated last week in the national officer training college of The United States Jaycees at Tulsa, Okla.

Bell is regional director for the Texas Jaycees. He is responsible for assisting the growth and development of 22 chapters of the organization.

The three-day college included courses in general management and service improvement techniques. More than 600 Jaycees from across the nation attended.

Bell is president of the HBF Corp.

By LEE BYRD

WASHINGTON (AP) — No crowds at the White House, no celebrations, no memorial services, not even a footnote on most calendars.

It is, perhaps, a date destined to live in limbo, neither cherished nor mourned. Three years ago today, President Richard M. Nixon resigned.

He quit the White House with a teary speech and an unemotional letter. He left during a tumult that had come to encompass all Americans, but Gerald R. Ford, Hugh Scott and Peter Rodino more than most.

Today, those three and the nation make no public observance of the date.

So, too, for the former president, who quit with this letter now displayed in the National Archives, in a room next to the Constitution: "I hereby resign the Office of President of the United States."

He flew to California, where he remains, saying little except in paid-for television interviews.

Scott, now retired, but then the Senate Republican leader, watched Gerald Ford sworn in on that day three years ago, then hurried out of the East Room, through the crowds that had stood vigil in all those final hours, and up to the Capitol.

At his own office, he pulled out his finest gold-sealed stationery and he, too, wrote a letter that day, one of even greater brevity. Unlike Nixon's letter to the secretary of state, Scott's addressee did not require a zip code:

The Honorable James Madison

"Sir:

"It worked.

"Sincerely,

"Hugh Scott

"United States Senator."

It was a therapeutic exercise, a sigh of relief shared by many, that the Constitution fathered by Madison and the system it ordained had functioned under the severest strain.

So Air Force One, the Boeing 707 bearing the tail number 27000, sits in her chocks at Warner-Robbins AFB, Ga., today, waiting to bring a president back to the White House rather than take one away forever as she did on this date in 1974.

On Aug. 8, 1977, the anniversary of the day Nixon announced his intention to resign, Jimmy Carter sat on the edge of a peanut field, pulled a penknife from his bluejeans and slit open several watermelons to share with bodyguards and reporters.

He talked not of history or constitutional crises but of the deer in that field, and the army worms, and his wife's great-great-great-grandfather.

The White House itself was quiet. There were normal public tours. The normal spiels by the guides. Nothing about "On this day ..."

Gerald R. Ford, who learned at midday on Aug. 8, 1974 that he would become the nation's first non-elected president, is at his retreat in Vail, Colo.

He worked on his book. He played a round of golf. And no, he wouldn't return a call about his thoughts concerning the anniversary or its meaning, according to his secretary.

Today, he was to leave Vail to go look at his new home — California, the state where Nixon lives.

Peter Wallace Rodino, Democrat of New Jersey, never felt quite comfortable riding the crest of a tidal wave. If Nixon had not resigned, he would have delivered the opening speech on Aug. 10, 1974 for a virtually certain impeachment of the President.

Then he would have been the prosecutor in the Senate.

Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, "is at home today, in the district, relaxing," said an aide, almost laughingly.

Rodino turned down consideration as Jimmy Carter's running mate. And on Aug. 10, 1974, he celebrated by getting to the office as late as 9:45 a.m.

The same was true today for the rest of the Congress, at home, relaxing.

In Washington and across the land, people gathered around their television sets three years ago, first on the night of Aug. 8 to hear Nixon announce his resignation, not for crimes but for the loss of "a strong enough political base," then on Aug. 9, for his farewell to the Cabinet and Ford's swearing-in.

The tension, particularly in the capital city, was so tight for all those hours that it could have been twinged like a bow string.

Finally, Ford said, "Our long national nightmare is over."

So Monday night, the crowds at the television sets yawned through an exhibition football game between the Washington Redskins and the Cleveland Browns and today, if you tuned in at three minutes past noon, the moment Gerald Ford completed his oath three years ago, you might have caught the opening of "Shoot for the Stars" or "Let's Grow a Garden."

Emergency legislative session called in strike

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Members of Parliament flown in by military aircraft gathered for an emergency session today to consider legislation imposing a settlement in Canada's crippling air traffic controllers strike.

The three-day-old walkout by 2,200 controllers demanding a 12.6 per cent pay increase has all but emptied Canadian skies of commercial flights, has forced the layoff of hundreds of airline workers, is delaying the mails and has ruined the travel plans of thousands of Canadians and visitors.

The strike has driven Air Canada to set up a skeletal route system just south of the border to connect major Canadian cities.

It also caused some major delays at overloaded U.S. airports handling rerouted or newly scheduled flights.

The Liberal government of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau appeared to have multipartisan support to rush the bill through Parliament later today.

Leaders of the major opposition party, the Progressive Conservatives, said they did not plan to block speedy passage of the legislation, and a source at the left-leaning New Democratic party, Canada's third strongest, said the NDP also would probably go along with immediate enactment.

The president of the striking Canadian Air Traffic Control Association (CATCA), Jim Livingston, said Monday the union would advise its members to obey any back-to-work legislation. He said it would take 12 to 24 hours to get services back to normal.

The bill would impose a settlement calling for an 8 per cent pay increase. The union, which has a legal right to strike, was demanding an additional 4.6 per cent for 60 per cent of its members — controllers whose jobs are being reclassified.

Current pay ranges from $8,200 a year for beginning controllers to $25,000 for the top grade.

Trudeau said Monday the Canadian government had a responsibility to negotiate an agreement within the guidelines and not to leave a decision on the issue to the federal anti-inflation board, as demanded by the union.

After the controllers walked off the job Sunday morning, Canadian airlines began busing their passengers to U.S. airports for flights overseas or to other Canadian points. Passengers bound for Canada were being picked up at U.S. points.

Governors say border economy needs help

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The governors of four states adjacent to Mexico say swift action is needed to improve economic conditions along the 1,800-mile border.

In laying groundwork for the new Southwest Border States Commission, they approved a coordinated plan that may receive as much as $5 million in federal funds annually.

A charter creating the commission was signed Monday by Govs. Dolph Briscoe of Texas, Jerry Apodaca of New Mexico, Raul Castro of Arizona and Edmund Brown Jr. of California.

Appalachia has received an estimated $3 billion in Title 5 and other federal funds through a similar commission over the past decade in that eastern region.

Brown, who was elected chairman to serve with a U.S. representative, urged development of solar geothermal energy and importing oil and natural gas from Mexico.

"There is no place as advantageous for solar development as the Southwest," Brown told the organizational meeting.

He approved a $750,000 allocation of state funds for research and development of the jojoba bean by the University of California at Riverside.

The jojoba bean is a small desert plant being developed as an oil substitute. That research is aimed at mass production and lower production costs which now prohibit widespread application of the bean, used for some lubricants and cosmetics.

Briscoe urged an assault on problems facing border schools and the economic losses of border businessmen because of devaluation of the peso.

But little was said of President Carter's proposed plan to stem the flow of illegal aliens.

The proposed sanctions against employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens could lead to discrimination and possibly harassment of Mexican nationals and Mexican Americans legally in the United States, Apodaca and Briscoe said.

Castro said the commission's work will "improve conditions on the Mexican side" and enhance economic development in U.S. border communities.

Concern was expressed by Brown, though, about the size of the $300,000 budget set aside to carry the commission through the rest of the federal fiscal year.

It includes $100,000 for technical assistance to develop grant projects and $200,000 for administration.

Chris Aldrete, whom President Carter named as federal cochairman, said much of the administrative costs involve starting expenses for offices in Tucson and Washington.

Aldrete said, "When we get moving, we'll be able to tap the Title 5 funds and other federal grants."

Despite Briscoe's support for El Paso, Tucson was selected as headquarters of the commission.

Time running out

Hostilities run deep in Rhodesia, but all Rhodesians, black and white, have one problem in common — lack of time.

Some observers, including officials in the State Department, believe that the situation in Rhodesia has deteriorated to the point where further negotiations cannot produce anything. Others think that it still is possible to avert another disastrous civil war in Africa.

In public and on the record both Britain and the United States insist that they plan to continue to negotiate as long as the antagonists are willing to talk. Considering the potential consequences of a Rhodesian explosion, in which the world's major powers have an interest, London and Washington should be given an A for intent.

However, their grades for actual effort should be something less, and that assessment has nothing to do with the hours of summit meetings on Rhodesia or the dedication of U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and British Foreign Secretary David Owen.

Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith is clever, deceptive, iron-willed and committed to the perpetuation of white minority rule. He also is a realist who can see the end of white aspirations in Rhodesia as well as the next man.

Rhodesia is fighting a murderous war in the countryside. Its economy is failing. Some 1,000 white Rhodesians are fleeing the country each month. Rhodesia is becoming increasingly isolated from the world and its white minority is torn by bitter differences of opinion.

In an effort to stop the erosion, Mr. Smith has called an election on Aug. 31, hoping that it will give him a mandate so that he can rewrite the constitution and give blacks a bigger role in government. But it must be apparent even to him that the election is a delaying technique — however it turns out. If he loses the show is over. If he wins, Mr. Smith will not be able to give more than token civil representation to blacks because of his political realities. Blacks would not accept the tokenism. Indeed, only two hundredths of one per cent of the 6.3 million blacks in Rhodesia will be permitted to vote on Aug. 31.

But Mr. Smith and his constituency are in a corner and, like an animal in a corner are fighting desperately against impossible odds.

The question is why the United States and Britain have let matters reach this point. As Mr. Owen has said, the resolution of Rhodesian problems will come from the people "who intend to live together in a nonracial, black-majority ruled Zimbabwe."

Yet Britain and the United States are assisting those African frontline states trying to impose a solution on Rhodesia with guns. And it is tragic that Britain, the power responsible for solution in Rhodesia, has not committed herself to assuring law and order in Rhodesia during the transition period to black majoriry rule. That alone may have prevented Mr. Smith from stalling.

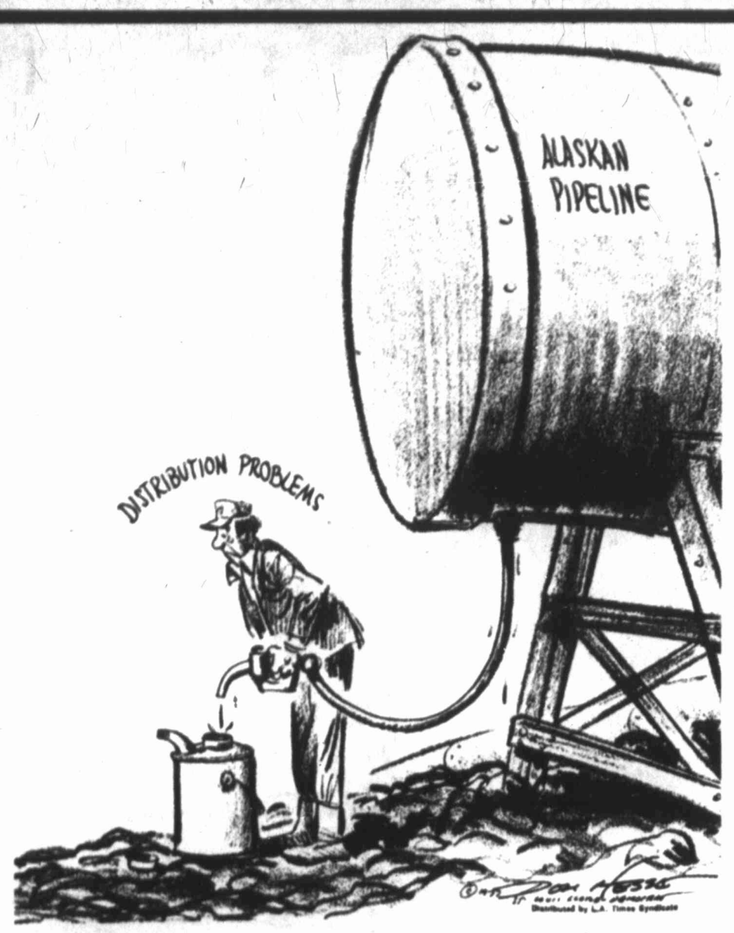

The key to success in the last effort at peace, if matters have come to that, may well be South Africa.

South Africa could bring Rhodesia to its sensibilities almost overnight by choking off Rhodesia's access to the sea. And South Africa can force concessions from all of the frontline African states waging war on Rhodesia. To one degree or another all of them are dependent on Pretoria for jobs, economic aid and vital transportation links.

The time has come for the United States and Britain to lean on South Africa. Not only would that possibly avert needless bloodshed in Rhodesia, it might also convince South Africa that it would be folly for Pretoria to follow Rhodesia's dead-end path.

Clean bomb for sale at reasonable price

Art Buchwald

"Knock knock. How do you do, sir. Could I interest you in our latest enhanced neutron bomb?"

"What do I want with a neutron bomb?"

"This is the best thing to come along since the invention of synthetic potato chips. The neutron bomb is not really a bomb, but an artillery shell with a low-yield atomic capability."

"Thank you very much but I'v got all the atomic weapons I need."

"Please don't shut the door until you've heard me out. The neutron bomb is a clean weapon."

"What does that mean?"

"It means, sir, that it kills people but it doesn't destroy property. You can fire one of these into a city or town and walk in the next day and find almost every building intact. Since this has just been developed, you would be the only one to own a clean bomb on your block. You would be the envy of everyone in your neighborhood."

"I don't know. It sounds interesting but I've been spending so much money on weapons lately I'm not sure I could afford a clean bomb."

"Let me show you our catalog. Look at the size of the neutron bomb. You can put it in your station wagon, and fire it from any U-Haul. This is not a luxury item, but an absolute necessity. As a major power you can't do without it."

"That's what you told me about the B-1 bomber."

"Forget the B-1 bomber. Think of the environmental aspects of the neutron bomb. You don't have to worry about dirty fallout any more. You don't have to mess with a lot of rubble or deal with radiation for years. After you kill everyone you can walk into a town in 24 hours and it will be as clean as a whistle. Your troops can set up an officers' club and a USO in a matter of days."

"It does sound interesting, but isn't there some arms limitation about a clean bomb?"

"There is nothing in the SALT agreement about owning a neutron bomb. This is not a strategic weapon such as a missile. It is nothing more than an artillery shell that can be used by your ground forces in the same manner as a flame thrower or a tank."

"Does the other side have neutron bomb"

They do not. That's what makes it such an appealing weapon. We're the only ones manufacturing them and we have the patent on it. If you buy it we assure you that you will be ahead in the arms race."

"There is only one problem. If i have a clean bomb and the other side doesn't, what would prevent them from using a dirty bomb to get even with me?"

"That would be against the rules of nuclear warfare. After all if you're not destroying their property why should they get mad enough to use a dirty bomb?"

"You make it sound so simple. But there must be a catch in it somewhere. If I was the other side and I didn't have a clean bomb, I'd use everything I had, just to get even."

"But that would be all-out war. The beauty of the clean bomb is that the war could be limited to just armed combatants. You can pinpoint a neutron bomb to just hit the target area. Think of all the civilian lives you could save."

"How much is it?"

"It comes to only a few cents a day for every man, woman, and child in the United States. One small war and it will pay for itself."

"All right. I'll buy it. But if I use it, how can I be sure that the other side won't throw a dirty bomb at me?"

"We guarantee it. If you use a clean bomb and the other side retaliates with a dirty one, we'll give you your money back with no questions asked."

HEMISPHERE REPORT:

Idea of sea-level canal talked

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
Copley News Service

President Jimmy Carter seems to have changed his mind about Panama and the canal.

For months now, and even after Mr. Carter said a new sea-level canal might be in the U.S. interests, spokesmen for the administration have been insisting that the interoceanic waterway which the United States dug through Panama early this century is obsolete and of declining strategic and economic importance.

That appeared the rationale for the determined effort Mr. Carter has been making to work out a new canal treaty that would, in effect, give the canal to the isthmian republic.

However, now that Mr. Carter seems to favor a lockless canal, deep enough and wide enough to permit the passage of the U.S. Navy's biggest aircraft carriers and the mammoth oil tankers that may be used to move Alaskan oil to the East Coast, the whole Panama problem is put in a different perspective.

Up until the time that the President said that a new, sea-level canal "might be in the interests of our national security, militarily as well as economically," it had seemed that the United States was primarily concerned with getting out of Panama as gracefully as possible.

Ambassador Sol Linowitz, who has been involved in the treaty talks since Mr. Carter took over, seemed to have convinced the President that the United States had everything to gain, and nothing to lose, by leaving Panama.

Complete jurisdiction over the Canal Zone was to be given Panama, U.S. military bases there were to be closed, and the canal was to have been turned over to the Panamanians by the end of the century.

The United States would be out of Panama.

"This is an invaluable opportunity for us, an occasion to demonstrate how a great nation like the United States can celebrate just and equitative accords with a small country like Panama," Linowitz said in a recent speech in New York, almost a week after Mr. Carter spoke.

Conclusion of a new canal treaty and U.S. withdrawal from Panama would show that "the United States is still capable of realizing gestures of generosity, of magnanimity and of respect for the just aspirations of other countries," according to Linowitz.

Sounds great.

Except that, if Mr. Carter follows through on the sea-level canal idea, the likelihood is that the U.S. presence in Panama would be increased and that U.S. interests there would be so multiplied that the United States could not leave by the end of this century.

Negotiations with Panama on a new canal treaty have been long drawn out. They started in 1964 and went on in a desultory fashion for a decade.

But then, Feb. 7, 1974, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and his Panamanian counterpart, Juan Antonio Tack, signed a "statement of principles" that has guided the treaty talks since then.

Because, apparently, some of those eight principles have been forgotten, they bear repeating.

First was that the 1903 treaty, under which the canal was built, will be abrogated by the conclusion of an entirely new interoceanic canal treaty.

Second was the elimination of the concept of perpetuity and the agreement that the new treaty concerning the lock canal shall have a fixed termination date.

The third principle provided that U.S. jurisdiction over Panamanian territory shall terminate promptly in accord with terms of the new treaty.

The fourth said that once jurisdiction over the Canal Zone is returned to Panama, Panama shall grant the United States the right to use lands, waters and airspace necessary for operation, maintenance, protection and defense of the canal, and transit of ships.

The fifth principle provided that Panama shall have a just and equitable share of canal benefits.

Sixth, Panama shall participate in administration of the canal and assume total responsibility for its operation when the treaty terminates.

Seventh, Panama shall participate with the United States in protection and defense of the canal.

Finally, bearing in mind the possibility that the present canal could become inadequate for international maritime traffic, the United States and Panama shall agree bilaterally on provisions for new projects which will enlarge canal capacity.

Presumably, Mr. Carter had that eighth principal in mind when he started talking about a sea-level waterway.

Until the problem of moving Alaskan oil to the Atlantic Coast arose, most projections indicated that the canal would be adequate for its purposes until the end of the century.

However, the United States had been asking Panama for the right either to add a third lane of locks to the present canal or to build a new sea-level canal, at U.S. expense.

Mr. Carter's restatement of the U.S. interest in a possible new, sea-level canal appears to have come as a great shock to Panama.

Panamanian dictator, Gen. Omar Torrijos, and his more radical advisers have long been boasting that they would eliminate the last vestiges of the U.S. presence in the Canal Zone by the end of 1999.

Obviously, if Mr. Carter really insists on provision for a sea-level waterway, the duration of the new treaty would have to be extended beyond the end of the century.

Congress has the capacity to investigate itself

By Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y.
Guest columnist

WASHINGTON — It is plain to almost everyone that the investigation of allegations that members of Congress accepted money and other gratuities from Korean agents is not proceeding at an acceptable pace.

Earlier in the summer, I had begun to feel optimistic about the future of the investigation being conducted by the House Ethics Committee, more formally known as the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. Under the guidance of the committee's brilliant young counsel, Philip Lacovara, the House inquiry into possible misdeeds by congressmen seemed finally to be picking up speed.

Then, with shattering suddenness, a simmering dispute between Lacovara and Committee Chairman John Flynt (D-Ga.) erupted and Lacovara was unable to continue in the face of the chairman's carping criticism. A new counsel, former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworksi, has been hired and is trying to pick up the pieces, but Congress' willingness to investigate itself is being seriously questioned.

Part of the concern over the future of the investigation can be traced to the tarnished image of the House Ethics Committee. In the past, the committee has been accused of being less than thorough in its efforts to punish breaches of ethical standards by members of Congress. In fact, one of my first impressions this year as a freshman member of Congress was that many congressmen deliberately avoided serving on the Ethics Committee because they wanted no part of inquiries into the conduct of their colleagues.

Serving on the Ethics Committee is not pleasant duty. However, restoring public confidence in Congress should be the first priority of every congressman. A Congress that is neither respected nor trusted will be unable to obtain the needed co-operation from the American people for efforts to achieve lasting solutions to such problems as unemployment, inflation and energy.

I believe the Congress has the capacity to investigate itself. Whether it has the willingness is a challenge to our system of government and to the integrity of that government that I believe must be faced.

Clearly, we cannot permit foreign governments to buy undue influence in Washington. The independence of the U.S. government from foreign influence is required by the Constitution. Article I prohibits members of Congress from receiving anything of value from any foreign state.

This constitutional prohibition is reinforced by the rules of the House of Representatives which prohibit members from receiving anything of substantial value from persons or organizations with interests in matters before Congress. Foreign governments, of course, are interested in such matters as U.S. military and economic assistance.

Despite these clear prohibitions against undue foreign influence, the history of the House Ethics Committee's investigation into the allegations of influence purchasing by the Korean government is disappointing.

Committee meetings have been held infrequently. Sometimes as many as five weeks have passed without a meeting. The meetings which have been held have tended to avoid substantive issues such as admissions by some congressmen to receiving things from the Korean government or its agents and have instead concentrated on formal procedural matters.

The committee chairman has been abrupt and unparliamentary, refusing to permit members to debate motions on whether the committee will conduct closed sessions. Additionally, most of the committee members seem to give preference to their other committee assignments making quorums difficult and attendance spotty.

I believe what the committee should do is clear:

It should require at least weekly meetings; make a concentrated effort to obtain needed information from the CIA, the National Security Agency, the Justice Department and those segments of the White House tapes which appear to contain conversations related to the committee's search; establish rules of evidence for conducting public hearings and a code of penalties to assure that all members are punished equally for similar offenses rather than having popular powerful members receive preferential treatment; and it should begin disciplinary proceedings against those members who have freely admitted to taking things of value from individuals with substantial interest in matters before the Congress.

I also believe committee meetings should be held in public as often as possible and that the committee should treat promptly staff requests for subpoenas and immunities. The needless delay regarding subpoenas and immunities was one of the reasons for Mr. Lacovara's resignation as special counsel.

These steps should be taken as soon as possible because for the remainder of this year Congress will frequently be out of session, and when it returns in January there will surely be claims that hearings or disciplinary proceedings will unduly jeopardize members in an election year.

I do not know if there are those who intended for the committee to do nothing for seven months and then slide into an election year where even less progress is possible. I do know the result of the Ethics Committee's slow pace has had the effect of convincing the public and the press that a purposeful delay is in progress and that the majority of the members of the House and the Senate are unscrupulous and unethical.

The best thing the committee can do to answer these allegations is to proceed with a complete public investigation immediately. A very large number of decent, honest and hardworking members of Congress support action to pursue tche allegations and let the chips fall where they may.

Club women's first photos slated

As a service to Midland club women, The Reporter-Telegram is planning a special supplement noting the achievements of the Tall City's women's clubs.

Although there are more women's groups in the city than the ones which will be featured in the section, we will include the local clubs which fit the traditional scope of women's clubs — garden, auxiliary, social, study and service groups.

The section, to be called "Women With a Purpose," will not include teen clubs, bridge groups, women's clubs of individual churches or ad hoc fund-raising groups.

The Reporter-Telegram photo staff has set aside seven specific periods when the presidents of participating clubs may have their photographs made at the newspaper office at 201 E. Illinois.

Those times are: Wednesday, Aug. 10 between noon and 2 p.m.; Thursday, Aug. 11 between 3 and 5 p.m.; Wednesday, Aug. 17 between 3 and 5 p.m.; Thursday, Aug. 18 between noon and 2 p.m.; Saturday, Aug. 20 between 10 a.m. and noon; Wednesday, Aug. 24 between 2 and 4 p.m., and Thursday, Aug. 25 between 1 and 3 p.m.

Each club president should make an appointment to have her picture made during one of those times, by phoning the Women's News Department.

Appointments will be necessary to avoid long waiting time. Special arrangements have been made to make these particular photographs during the times listed above. It will not be possible for the photo staff to handle drop-ins at other times.

In addition, the president of each club will need to complete a form outlining her club's history, special projects and current officers.

The forms may be picked up at the time of the photographic appointment and returned later, or they may be picked up in advance in the Women's News Department anytime between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Forms must be completed and returned to the Women's News Department by 5 p.m. Sept. 5.

"Women With a Purpose" will be published as a tabloid supplement to The Reporter-Telegram's Sunday edition on Sept. 18.

Linda Whitworth marries David Reed of Plainview

Mrs. David R. Reed

DALLAS — Linda Whitworth, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Forrest K. Whitworth of Bryan, formerly of Midland, and David R. Reed, son of Dr. and Mrs. William L. Reed of Plainview, were married at 8 p.m. July 29 in Westminister Presbyterian Church of Dallas.

The bride is a graduate of Austin College, with graduate work at Texas A&M University. She was an honorary member of Delta Phi Nu, A Cappella Choir and Choral Union. She was awarded the college's award for outstanding achievement in French. She is completing study for her master's degree in French at Austin College.

The bridegroom was graduated from Austin College, where he was a member of Sigma Tau Epsilon fraternity, A Cappella Choir and Choral Union. He also was a member of Opera Workshop and appeared as the lead in various musical productions at Austin College. He has been selected for Officers Training School for the U.S. Air Force and will be stationed in San Antonio for training. He will be commissioned a second lieutenant in November.

DEAR ABBY

Farm no place for fun without work

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Since we moved to a farm, relatives and friends have come uninvited and unannounced. Some even come for the weekend, asking if they can leave their children with us for "a few weeks." (They say, "It will be a good learning experience for them.")

Abby, don't people realize that a farm is not a vacation resort? There's work to be done daily, even if we don't punch a clock or report to a foreman.

We like company, but we don't want them dropping in whenever they feel like it. Please print this, but don't tell where it came from.—NO GUTS

DEAR NO: People with no guts need to be protected from people with guts galore. I hope this letter helps, but don't count on it.

DEAR ABBY: My 17-year-old daughter recently brought home a swimsuit she purchased. She tried it on for me and it looks very skimpy. Most of her rear is exposed to public view.

She showed me how the top can be removed to go topless, and says she may wear it that way sometimes.

I told her that she might get arrested if she goes topless in public, but she says it is now legal for girls to go topless in Texas.

Is that true?—MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: My Texas legal experts inform me that females who go topless in public can be charged with indecent exposure and/or disorderly conduct.

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on the letter complaining because some perfectly able-bodied people use the parking area marked, "Reserved for the Handicapped."

I have high blood pressure, diabetes, chronic bronchitis and a bad heart, and I am not supposed to walk great distances, so I used to use the convenient parking areas set aside for the handicapped. I no longer do so, however, because of the dirty looks I got from people who saw me parking there.

Please tell your readers that not all handicapped people are on crutches and in wheelchairs. I may look healthy, but I am . . . HANDICAPPED, TOO

DEAR HANDICAPPED: Go ahead and use those convenient spaces and ignore the dirty looks. God knows, and YOU

Paula Mackey, Smith say double ring vows

Mrs. Robert Menard Smith

The First Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage at 7:30 p.m. Monday of Paula Jean Mackey and Robert Menard Smith. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Patrick E. Mackey of 3208 Seaboard St. and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Smith of Lubbock.

Dr. Daniel Vestal performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Larry Meilican was organist, and Jill Hollingshead was soloist.

Attending as matron of honor was Mrs. A. W. Downs Jr. of Missouri City, sister of the bride. Joseph Smith of South Bend, Ind., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Jason Bradley Downs of Missouri City nephew of the bride, was ring bearer, and Paul Mackey and Pat Mackey of Lubbock, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore her sister's formal gown of candlelight satin. The bodice was enhanced with re-embroidered Alencon lace and pearls, which extended down the front of the gown, and a scalloped neckline of Alencon lace. The long sleeves ended in petal points. The full chapel train was attached at the waistline in small pleats, and was accented with clusters of re-embroidered Alencon lace and pearls. Her veil of scalloped Alencon lace trimmed the waltz tip-length mantilla.

A reception was held in the church parlor.

After a trip to Houston, the couple will reside in Nacogdoches, where the bridegroom is a student at Stephen F. Austin College. He and the bride have attended Texas Tech University.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents in the Trellis Room of the Midland Hilton.

Ironing woman successful because of Bombeck

By ERMA BOMBECK

An ad in a midwest newspaper read, WANTED: Woman to do ironing for housewife 10 years behind in everything. Must have strong courage and sense of humor. Phone ———.

Now there's a woman I could live next door to in perfect harmony. I iron "By appointment only." I learned long ago that if I ironed and hung three dresses in my daughter's closet, she would change three times during dinner.

The other day my son wanted me to iron his jeans for a class play. "Which leg faces the audience?" I asked with my iron poised in mid-air.

"Boy," he said, "you're sure not like Mrs. Breck."

I hadn't thought about Mrs. Breck in years. She was an antiseptic old broad who used to live two houses down from me. She had an annoying habit of putting her ironing board up on Tuesdays and putting it away again at the end of the day. (What can you expect from a woman who ironed belt buckles?)

One afternoon I dropped in on her as she was pressing the tongues in her son's tennis shoes.

"You know what you are, Mrs. Breck?" I said. "A drudge."

"Oh, I enjoy ironing," she said.

"You keep talking like that and someone is going to put you in a home."

"What's so bad about ironing?" she grinned.

"No one does it," I snapped. "Did you ever see the women on soap operas iron? They're just normal, American housewives. But do you ever see them in front of an ironing board? No! They're out having abortions, committing murder, blackmailing their boss, undergoing surgery, having fun! If you weren't chained to this ironing board you, too, could be out doing all sorts of exciting things."

WOMEN'S NEWS

"Like what?" she chuckled, pressing the wrinkle out of a pair of sweat socks and folding them neatly.

"You could give Tupperware parties, learn to scuba dive, learn hotel management while sitting under a hair dryer, have an affair with the Avon lady's unemployed brother-in-law, sing along with Jack LaLanne, collect antique barbed wire, take a course in Hebrew Flower Arranging, start chain letters . . . I don't know, woman, use your imagination!"

I read the newspaper ad again. It intrigued me so that I dialed the number and waited.

"Hello, Mrs. Breck speaking . . ."

Son of a gun. It sure makes you feel good when you had a part in someone's success, doesn't it?

Gary Holley wed in area

Mrs. Gary Lynn Holly

BIG LAKE — Ricie Clark of Big Lake Friday became the bride of Gary Lynn Holley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Holley of Route 3, Midland, during a 2 p.m. single ring ceremony in Bethel Baptist Church here.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Clark of Big Lake.

When given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long dress of light blue and carried white flowers.

Tammy Clark of Big Lake served her sister as maid of honor, and Randall Roberson of Midland was best man.

A reception was held in the Clark home after the ceremony. After a wedding trip to San Angelo, the couple will live at 1109 Midkiff in Midland, where the bride is a student at Commercial College and her husband is employed in the parts department of Huckabay Chevrolet.

Bridal courtesies honor Karen Johnson, Scharbauer

Several prenuptial parties have been held for Karen Johnson and Douglas Scharbauer who plan to be married Aug. 20 in the First United Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Innerarity and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Bedford Jr. entertained with a wine cellar party in the Innerarity'a home.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hill from Fort Smith, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. Finley Holbrook entertained with a cocktail party poolside at the Holbrook's home.

A kitchen-linen diaplay shower at the Midland Country Club was given by Mrs. Harvey Conger, Mrs. Bob Davenport, Mrs. Holt Jowell, Mrs. William H. Jowell, Mrs. Ben Tamney and Mrs. William Monroe Kerr.

Mrs. John Casselman Jr. and her daughter, Betsy Casselman, had a barbecue supper at the Casselman Ranch.

A patio supper party was given at the Courtney Cowden home by Mr. and Mrs. Cowden and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cowden Jr.

A Mexican cocktail buffet party waa held on the law at the Racquet Club. Host couples were Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wiseman, Mr. and Mrs. George Moberly, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Strong Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Tom Metcalfe, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Tull Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Woodward of Houston, and Mrs. Dorothy Holt Kimsey.

Decorator offers some painting tips

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

More women are painting their own homes, outdoors and indoors, especially in the Midwest where there are so many frame houses.

It is one reason Sue Barna, 29, travels to some 1,600 home decorating centers from time to time in her job as a decorating consultant. She passes on trends and new ideas in painting and decorating.

More emphasis is now being put on choosing colors to save energy, getting the most out of materials in the interest of economy and learning how to prepare for a job, she said.

"For example, a paint job that is otherwise good can be a waste by lack of preparation of shingles and clapboards. I have done it myself. Once I used a wire brush and laboriously chipped away at peeled paint only to find in a short time that the same area had chipped and cracked again," says Ms. Barna, who is a do-it-yourselfer. She often teams with her husband on the big jobs.

Later she learned a lot about moisture and that it causes "about 80 per cent of exterior paint problems." Moisture works its way out of the house from the shower, steam iron and dishwasher, and then there is snow, rain, sleet and even dew that can build up on window sills and dormer areas to cause problems.

"Little metal wedges can be used to foil moisture but some women do not know about them. Inserted about every foor so under a shingle or a clapboard in a moisture area, the wedges will allow the moisture to escape rather than build up from behind," she explained. She's also into other moisture solutions—caulking, attic louvers and exhaust fans which can be problems.

Ms. Barna likes to talk about economy. Some people try to skimp on pain, and they buy less than they need, hoping to stretch it some way. No matter how good you are at figuring the quanity of paint, more, not less, should be bought so that the color will be uniform, Ms. Barna advises. Unopened paint can be returned.

If paints are selected on the basis of energy savings, keep in mind that it makes little difference whether light of dark colors are chosen. In four seasons, cool and hot, color and energy even off.

More important in choosing colors is to consider the adjacent houses and how you house will relate to them, she said. If in doubt, white goes with everything.

Lawyer says he'll argue Bell drove man insane

By RICK SCOTT

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The family of T. O. Gravitt, onetime chief of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Texas, will try to show the company drove Gravitt insane before his suicide, the family's lawyer has indicated in court.

Pat Maloney, who represents the Gravitt family and fired Bell executive James Ashley in a $29 million suit against the telephone giant, made the disclosure Monday while questioning prospective jurors in the case being tried here.

Maloney said he would call a psychiatrist to testify that Gravitt was insane when he took his own life by carbon monoxide poisoning in his Dallas home in October 1974 and that the telephone company was responsible for his mental condition.

State District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry sustained an objection by Southwestern Bell attorneys that the disclosure was improper to prospective jurors and Maloney said nothing else.

The huge damage suit, filed in November 1974, alleges that Gravitt was hounded to his death and Ashley wrongfully fired as a result of an internal investigation conducted in 1974 by Southwestern Bell.

Gravitt, in a suicide note, outlined numerous allegations of wrongdoing by Southwestern Bell and concluded, "Watergate is a gnat compared to the Bell system."

Southwestern Bell has denied all allegations of wrongdoing and, in a counterclaim and answer to the damage suit, has accused Gravitt and Ashley of defrauding the company by filing false travel and expense vouchers.

Lawyers for both sides questioned prospective jurors all day Monday, but no jurors were impaneled. The 12-member jury is expected to be seated sometime today before opening arguments begin.

Lawyers for the telephone company were especially concerned in questioning prospective jurors about whether their views had been affected by extensive news coverage given the suit here.

Maloney indicated he would call more than 40 witnesses for the plaintiffs, including several former and present telephone company officials, the psychiatrist and several news reporters.

In addition, dozens of depositions have been taken in the case and are expected to be presented to the jury.

Judge Curry has ordered lawyers in the case not to discuss the proceedings with anyone, especially reporters.

He told prospective jurors the trial probably would last at least three weeks and possibly longer.

Ashley, who made $50,000-a-year as a Southwestern Bell executive in San Antonio, was present in court Monday, as were Gravitt's two sons, Mike and Pat, and his widow, Mrs. Robert Dixon, who has remarried since Gravitt's death.

A state district court jury last December, in a separate case, ordered Southwestern Bell to pay Ashley $1 million in damages after finding the company invaded Ashley's privacy by wiretapping. The company is appealing the case.

Ashley, who was a close friend of Gravitt's, now owns a real estate firm in Blanco, Tex.

South ruffed, led a trump to dummy to ruff another spade, and led a second trump to dummy to lead the queen of diamonds.

West won and returned a spade. South ruffed and cashed the ace of hearts, followed by the top diamonds and a diamond ruff. He then returned a heart from dummy, and West was stuck in with the king of hearts.

The forced spade return allowed dummy to ruff while South discarded his last heart.

See if you can spot two crimes before you read on.

SHOULD DROP KING

West should drop the king of hearts on South's ace. East can later take two heart tricks to defeat the contract.

But South should never let West escape. The first trick indicated that West had bid topless spades and almost surely had both red kings for his strong bidding. South should therefore begin the diamonds by leading low from his hand.

If West ducks, South doesn't lose a diamond. If West takes the king, South can discard two hearts from dummy on diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade as dealer, and the next player passes. You hold: SAK96; HQJ53; D975; C75. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts, planning to show the spade support next. The heart response promises at least a five-card suit, but you don't mind deceiving your partner temporarily since you can insist on a spade contract.

Parents debate taking daughter off respirator

By MILLER BONNER

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — "I keep wondering why. . .why my Dahlia?," said the tearful mother of 17-year-old Dahlia Reyna, who is in the death grip of an extremely rare, fatal disease.

The members of the migrant farm family planned to decide today whether to take the attractive brunette, one of nine children, off the respirator that has kept her alive for six days.

Doctors in this Rio Grande Valley city say the girl has been stricken with amebic meninoencephalitis, a deadly disease that attacks the central nervous system.

"She's never been sick a day in her life," added Sara Reyna.

"While there is life, there is some hope, but we have been told by the doctors that there is no hope whatsoever," said Father Luis Brum, who huddled with the Reyna family Monday afternoon.

"Actually, we are not talking about a life-and-death situation. There are no electrical responses from the brain, therefore Dahlia has no symptoms of life except that her heart is kept beating by the respirator," he said.

A spokesman for the Communicable Disease Center's parasitic diseases division in Atlanta, Ga., said less than 100 cases of the disease have been reported in the last 15 years. Victims usually have recently been swimming.

Doctors theorize that amebae from the water enter the victims through the nose, eyes or ears. After experiencing headaches, loss of appetite and nausea, victims usually fall into a coma followed by respiratory failure and death. The disease usually preys on children and young adults, they said.

Mrs. Reyna said her daughter began experiencing headaches and nausea nearly two weeks ago after returning from a family outing at a nearby lake.

Dahlia suffered respiratory failure a week later and fell into a coma shortly afterward. Doctors performed a spinal tap that identified the disease.

Mrs. Reyna said her other children had also swam in the lake with Dahlia but have not been affected.

A spokesman for the Hidalgo County Health Deprartment said Monday that no amebae had been detected in water samples from the lake that were sent to Austin for chemical analysis.

"The decision will be made by all the family," Father Brum said Monday night. "Eventually, the doctors say, bacteria would enter the heart and weaken it to the point that the respirator would not help her."

Insurance board axes maternity benefits

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Chairman Joe Christie was outvoted Monday when the State Insurance Board removed maternity benefits from the coverage that all individual health policies must cover.

Two representatives of the Texas Women's Political Caucus looked on disappointedly as members Durwood Manford and Ned Price prevailed on a series of 2-1 votes.

Price generally has voted with Christie and against Manford on major issues before the board.

When the board standardized benefits for individual accident and health policies last year, it made maternity coverage automatic — whether wanted or not.

Standards apply this year to new policy forms but after Jan. 1, 1978, must be followed on all individual policies in effect in Texas.

Insurance companies asked for reconsideration of the maternity benefits standard in March and were backed up by then-commissioner Joe Hawkins.

A prime contention was that old persons and single men should not have to pay for a coverage they would never use. Insurance was not meant to pay for a condition that is both optional and preventable, they argued.

Board staff members recommended continuation of pregnancy benefits in the standard policy.

As it now stands, maternity benefits will be optional. If offered, they must equal 10 times the basic hospital room and board benefit, which is $30 per day.

Christie predicted the board action would make it "infinitely more difficult" to obtain a health insurance policy with maternity benefits.

He said he voted against making maternity benefits optional because "I felt like it was the only fair thing to do, to include pregnancy benefits, because there are many male-related benefits that are mandated."

He mentioned prostate operations and hair transplants.

"Many pregnancies, even in this day of widespread use of contraceptive measures, are unplanned pregnancies," he added.

Christie added that under the rules, a company could offer a limited benefits policy excluding maternity coverage — "all they had to do was tell the prospective purchaser the benefits are not included."

Earlier this year, Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, used the mandatory pregnancy benefits as an argument for his bill repealing the board's power to set minimum standards for health insurance benefits.

Senators passed the bill, but it died in the House.

Special counsel sought in Korea investigation

CHICAGO (AP) — Two weeks after saying that no senator had taken cash payments or gifts from South Korean lobbyists, Sen. Adlai Stevenson III says the Senate Ethics Committee now is looking for a special counsel to head its investigation into the growing scandal.

The Illinois Democrat, chairman of the Ethics Committee, told reporters at the American Bar Association convention here on Monday that his panel probably will appoint a special counsel "within the next week or two."

"We are determined to get to the bottom of this matter," Stevenson said.

Most speculation about illegal acts by members of the Congress thus far has centered on the House, and its Ethics Committee recently named former Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski as its special counsel.

Two days ago, the Senate panel received information from the Justice Department on Korean gift-giving.

Stevenson refused comment when asked whether the appointment of a special prosecutor meant the Senate committee had discovered information pointing to illegal acts by senators.

But he said he no longer could repeat his statement that no senator was involved in the scandal.

The Justice Department is the third body investigating alleged influence buying in Congress. U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, also here for the ABA convention, told a news conference he has given some information to both the House and Senate committees, and indirectly confirmed that it included the names of some members of Congress.

Asked if the information contained the names of any senator, Bell said, "There always has been some speculation about some senators, but I wouldn't want to say what's on the list."

Bell said the Carter administration is continuing to seek South Korea's help in convincing Tongsun Park, formerly a Washington-based businessman, to testify about his alleged role as the money man for the Korean government. Park is in London.

"My system is to get the witness (Park) to talk. I want him to talk and tell everything he knows," Bell said. "We are tilting at windmills without his cooperation."

Bell said the Justice Department investigation is aimed at returning indictments and prosecuting any members of Congress found guilty of receiving bribes.

He said he still believes that only a few indictments will be returned initially.

Polanski fate rests on exam

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Movie director Roman Polanski, who pleaded guilty to unlawful sexual intercourse with a 13-year-old girl, could face up to 50 years in prison or commitment to a state mental hospital and possible deportation from the United States.

Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband, who accepted Polanski's plea Monday, appointed two psychiatrists to examine the director and report Sept. 19 on whether he is a mentally disordered sex offender.

Powers gets Arlington burial with salute, military honors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francis Gary Powers, a civilian pilot whose CIA-instigated spy flight over the Soviet Union caused an international incident in 1960, has been laid to rest with military heroes at Arlington National Cemetery.

Some United States critics felt that Powers, who was killed in a California helicopter crash last week, should have committed suicide with a poison needle he carried while on the CIA mission 17 years ago.

Because the 47-year-old Powers was not a military veteran, special authorization was needed for his burial in the cascading hillside of the cemetery, reserved for military heroes and veterans.

Army Secretary Clifford Alexander said an exception to current rules was made because of Powers' service to his country.

At the start of a 15-minute ceremony, Power's casket was carried to the gravesite by eight Air Force pall bearers, including two women.

Air Force Chaplain David Sams, competing with the noise from airplanes passing overhead, said prayers and read the 23rd psalm, but made no mention of Powers' U2 spy flight.

Powers' widow, Claudia attended the service with their two children, son Gary and daughter Dee. His mother and five sisters also were among 100 persons present.

Following a seven-gun salute of three shots each and the sounding of taps, Powers was buried near the gravesites of two former astronauts, Roger Chaffee and Virgil Grissom, and Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, who while serving in Belgium during World War II answered a German demand for surrender with one word: "nuts."

Powers, working as a contract employe of the CIA, was flying a photographic reconnaissance mission over the Soviet Union when his U2 plane was shot down May 1, 1960.

U.S. defense strategists had believed the U2, flying as high as 60,000 feet, could elude Soviet air tracking systems.

At a May 16 summit conference in Paris, attended by then President Dwight Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Nikita Khruschev, outraged over the incident, delivered a scathing attack on the United States. His outburst led to the collapse of the conference, and Eisenhower called off a planned June visit to Russia.

Powers pleaded innocent to spy charges at a Soviet espionage trial in August, 1960, but was convicted and sentenced to 10 years in prison. Less than two years later, he was released by the Russians in exchange for a convicted Soviet spy, Rudolph Abel, who was serving a 30-year sentence in the United States.

Powers died in the helicopter crash while taking pictures of brush fires in California. He had been working as a pilot and reporter for Los Angeles television station KNBC.

Police connect bomb, terrorists

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say a bomb found in a crowded midtown office building was "definitely connected" to a small terrorist group demanding independence for Puerto Rico.

Authorities said they did not know yet if the dynamite bomb found at the AMAX Building Monday was planted last week along with two other bombs and overlooked in earlier searches.

Two bomb blasts in mid-Manhattan skyscrapers last Wednesday killed one man and injured seven others and sent terrified office workers fleeing into the streets. The AMAX Building was among those threatened last week by telephone callers who said they represented the terrorist group.

Police said the device found Monday was "definitely connected" to the FALN — the Fuerzas Armadas de Liberacion Nacional (Armed Forces of National Liberation) — a group believed responsible for 60 explosions in four cities over the past three years.

Five persons have died in those explosions, all in New York, including one man killed last week in the blast at the Mobil Oil Corp. building.

Police protest ends jobs

ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — City policemen who've lost their jobs because they've called in sick since Friday in a wage dispute with the city faced a deadline of noon today to request individual hearings or to turn in their uniforms and equipment.

Police cancelled plans to return to work at 10:30 p.m. Monday, after they learned that city officials would refuse to allow them to resume their duties.

Meeting in emergency session Sunday night, the city council decided that the 34 officers who have been been calling in sick are considered "self terminated."

RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS
GAS UTILITIES DIVISION

Re: Application of Lo-Vaca Gathering Company and Coastal States Gas Producing Company For a Review and Revision of Prices and Rates In Their Existing Agreements — Gas Utilities — Docket No. 500

STATEMENT OF INTENT BY LO-VACA GATHERING COMPANY AND COASTAL STATES GAS PRODUCING COMPANY TO CHANGE RATES

TO THE HONORABLE RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS:

Lo-Vaca Gathering Company ("Lo-Vaca") and Coastal States Gas Producing Company ("Coastal"), pursuant to the requirements of Section 43(a) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act (1446c, T.R.C.S), files this statement of intent to change rates, effective September 1, 1977, the rates they are charging all customers on the Lo-Vaca system for the purchase of natural gas to a uniform rate applicable to each customer on the system, which rate consists of 100% of Lo-Vaca's weighted average cost of gas plus 16.70 cents per Mcf. The cost of gas is to be adjusted each month in accordance with Lo-Vaca's billing procedure, which is Lo-Vaca Exhibit KLH #515, filed with the Railroad Commission of Texas ("Commission") in Gas Utilities Docket No. 500 on June 13, 1977.

The present rate charged by Lo-Vaca for the sale of natural gas to nearly all Texas customers is 100% of Lo-Vaca's weighted average cost of gas (determined in accordance with the billing procedure set forth in Lo-Vaca Exhibit WKA #17 in Gas Utilities Docket No. 500) plus 5 cents per Mcf.

The new rate is anticipated to increase Lo-Vaca's revenues by $60,196,106 in calendar year 1978. This is an increase of 5.61% over total revenues which would have been received if the present rate were continued in effect for that year.

Respectfully submitted,

Restraining order issued against trio

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

A Midland judge Monday issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting two Midland men from engaging in deceptive trade practices and ordered them not to interfere with a state attorney general's investigation of their business enterprises.

Midland oilman Ray K. Horton and Midlander Frank J. Fuell, along with M. L. Copenhaver, formerly of San Antonio, were named in the restraining order, as were five businesses controlled by the three men.

State District Judge Perry D. Pickett issued the 10-day restraining order shortly before noon Monday and set a hearing on a permanent order for 10:30 a.m. Aug. 17.

The businesses named in the suit are Texas International Mortgage Co., Growth Energy Inc. and International Machine and Supply, with Fuell president of all three businesses; Wallace Oil Co., of which Horton is president, and Atomic Enterprises Inc., controlled by Copenhaver.

In requesting the restraining order, the state attorney general's office alleged the defendants "participated jointly in (deceptive) trade practices. . . and enjoyed the fruits of these transactions."

The request said the defendants contracted to sell or lease some 60 steam cleaners for a total of more than $720,000 in contracts executed in 1974 and 1975 with Borg-Warner Leasing, Guardian Leasing Inc. and Western Lease-Banc Inc.

The attorney general said Horton and Fuell signed receipts saying they had received cleaners from Atomic Enterprises when "in truth and in fact, no complete and working steam cleaners were manufactured, shipped or received by said defendants."

The petition said the defendants split the purchase price, and the sales tax, for the cleaners.

Also included in the petition for the restraining order were allegations that Fuell accepted a $5,000 advance fee to arrange financing for two individuals but did not arrange the financing.

Under Pickett's order, the defendants are prohibited from destroying, concealing or removing from the state any funds, assets or records for the businesses.

Pickett gave the attorney general's office access to the records of the businesses.

When contacted by The Reporter-Telegram, neither Fuell nor Horton would comment on the restraining order.

A spokesman for the attorney general's office Monday said the investigation is not complete and that Billie Sol Estes, sent to prison in 1965 for a multi-million dollar swindling scheme, is involved in the investigation.

Contacted in Abilene, Estes had no comment on the allegations.

His attorney, Jack Bryant of Abilene, said this morning that Estes is employed by Permian Petroleum Co., a division of Growth Energy Inc., which is named in the restraining order.

Bryant said Estes does consulting work for the company. "They use his brains," Bryant said. He said Estes has worked for the company for between three and a half and five years.

Bryant said "there's always an ongoing Internal Revenue investigation" of Estes, but he does not know about any investigation by the attorney general's office.

MCAA hires drug counselor, bookkeeper

By JIM STEINBERG

A drug counselor and a bookkeeper were hired by the Midland Community Action Agency (MCAA) during a board meeting Monday night.

Albert Jones, a retired U.S. Air Force alcohol and drug abuse counselor, was hired for a proposed "narcotics center which is expected to be located somewhere anonymous" on the city's east side as soon as free housing for the facility can be found.

The proposed facility will offer both one-to-one counseling and group treatment sessions. It will fill a treatment gap with those who feel there is a stigma attached to getting treatment at the Mental Health and Retardation Center, Jones said.

Charley Bishop was hired as bookkeeper-administrative assistant of the agency. Bookkeeping irregularities have been a problem for the agency in the past as shown by an auditor's report of agency books during the last fiscal year which found $2,138 in unexplained expenditures.

Bishop has a degree in accounting from Metropolitan College in Denver.

On a motion from board chairman Charlie Welch, the board voted to have agency auditor Russell Horn of Austin fly into Midland and go over the operating procedures with Bishop and acting agency director Mrs. Alexandra Morris.

The board also voted to approve the application for grants that would enable the agency to seek federal funds for the "narcotics anonymous" center, and a weatherization program to help supply insulation materials to low-income persons. The materials will be used to help low-income people reduce their fuel bills.

The board members voted to take a bank loan to pay back salaries until part of the $33,000 from a recently approved Community Services Administration (CSA) grant arrives.

Board members agreed to search for a new location for the agency, which has outgrown its space at Bunche school.

The needed space must be rent free, Mrs. Morris said.

In other action the board hired Sharon Rains as a part-time bus driver, and accepted the resignation of board member Jewel Cook. Earl Booker was chosen as Cook's replacement.

Currently the board members are Al Hernandez, Roy Harris, Booker, Joaquin Rubio, Emma Olguin, Alfredo Rey, Ramona Larkey, Welch, Jack Leonard, Dewey Williams, J. W. Cooper, Sister Eva Hernandez, Rusty Wall and Dr. William M. Hibbitts. Charlotte Windecker is secretary.

Special counsel sought in Korea investigation

CHICAGO (AP) — Two weeks after saying that no senator had taken cash payments or gifts from South Korean lobbyists, Sen. Adlai Stevenson III says the Senate Ethics Committee now is looking for a special counsel to head its investigation into the growing scandal.

The Illinois Democrat, chairman of the Ethics Committee, told reporters at the American Bar Association convention here on Monday that his panel probably will appoint a special counsel "within the next week or two."

Bell said the Justice Department investigation is aimed at returning indictments and prosecuting any members of Congress found guilty of receiving bribes.

He said he still believes that only a few indictments will be returned initially.

Stevenson, who said he expects his committee to receive all information and evidence gathered by Justice Department investigators, said that his panel is interested in getting "a man of integrity, ability" to coordinate its inquiry.

He said the committee is seeking out a lawyer of national prominence and already had contacted several possible candidates for the job.

Speed limits lowered

Midland County commissioners Monday lowered speed limits on several county roads.

At the request of a group of residents of the area through which County Road 130 passes, the commissioners lowered the speed limit on that road from Midkiff to County Road 715 from 55 mph to 35 mph.

Before the vote, Commissioner Charlie Welch said it would be the first time a speed limit for a thoroughfare would be set at less than 40 mph.

Small children in the area was the reason the residents gave for the request.

Speed limits were dropped to 40 mph on County Road 120 from Rankin Highway to County Road 715 and on County Road 140 from Midkiff to County Road 715.

Speed limits were lowered on two school bus routes. The route going from County Road 72 east off of County Road 1140 to County Road 1138, south on County Road 1138 to County Road 74 and west on County Road 74 to County Road 1135 was lowered from 55 mph to 35 mph.

Beginning at U.S. Highway 80, north on County Road 1135 for approximately ½ mile to County Road 76, west on County Road 76 to County Road 37, south on County Road 37 to County Road 78 and east on County Road 78 to County Road 1135, the speed limit was lowered from 55 mph to 30 mph.

The limit was lowered from 55 mph to 40 mph on County Road 135 north from Highway 158 to County Road 120.

At the request of the Odessa Country Club, the speed limit was lowered to 30 mph on the Bankhead Highway from the Midland County line north for ½ mile.

County Judge Barbara Culver said violaters of the new speed limits will be subject to a fine of $1 to $50 for the first offense, $50 to $200 for the second offense and $200 to $500, plus a jail sentence, for third and subsequent offenses.

The commissioners deferred action on a request from residents of the Midkiff community for help from Midland County in expanding the Midkiff library.

Although some of the residents of Midkiff live in Midland County, the library itself is located in Upton County.

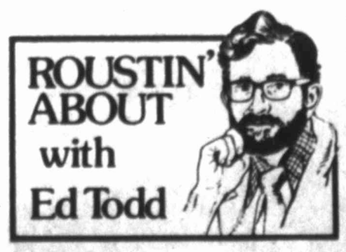

The commissioners agreed to consult the county attorney's office on the legality of such aid in another county and the county auditor to determine if the requested $10,000 can be fit into the budget.

The commissioners recessed Monday's meeting until next Monday, when they will formally set the tax rate, which is expected to remain at the current 95 cents per $100 of assessed value, based on 32 per cent of market value assessments.

Also at that meeting, the commissioners are scheduled to discuss the financial situation at the county law library and discuss a resolution for minimum road standards. They also are scheduled to open bids for a bulldozer ripper.

A public hearing on the 1978 budget was set for the Aug. 22 regular meeting of the commissioners.

Scrapbook provides glimpse of other era

Just the other day, Helen Reid was "looking for something else" when she came upon an old scrapbook from another century.

It had been pasted up around 1890 and later by her husband John's grandmother or great-grandmother. She wasn't sure which.

"And it intrigued me so," she said of the book of magazine and newspaper clippings, illustrations and greeting cards.

The old pasted-up book was among the belongings of John Reid's mother, E. C. Reid, who died more than two years ago in Commerce.

Then, it was tucked away in a drawer of a secretary bookcase, which ended up at the Midland Reid's home.

Mrs. Reid figured that her husband's great-grandmother put the book together. The grandmother would have been too young, probably in her 20s, to have made the sage selections, Mrs. Reid said.

"I don't think she (the grandmother) would have the maturity and foresight to put those things together," she said.

The grandmother, Exile Eagleton, was a carpenter's wife. The great-grandmother, Mrs. George Eagleton, was a Presbyterian minister's wife. Both lived in the Northeast Texas town of Ladonia.

Following are scrapbook tidbits, arranged by broad subject matter:

HOPE: The very sound of the word hope "makes every bosom bound and burn. . . . Hope is man's birthright."

EQUAL RIGHTS: "Women may not get into the senate of the United States, but they have got into the

Lost nuclear material may have been stolen

By JEFFREY MILLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional staff investigator says one intelligence agency "believes there was a diversion" of nuclear material from a power plant, although officials from two agencies remain publicly confident that none of the missing 8,000 pounds of weapons-grade material was stolen.

The officials testified Monday before a House Commerce subcommittee looking into the way the federal government safeguards nuclear materials at both government and private plants.

"We are really confident that no radioactive materials have ever been gotten out of those plants," said Robert W. Fri, acting administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration. But he added this was not "a 100 per cent certainty."

Fri and Lee V. Gossick, executive operations director of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said processing problems, biased measurements or bookkeeping errors may account for the inability to trace the missing weapons-grade plutonium and uranium.

But after the two officials testified, a subcommittee investigator said the congressmen earlier had received testimony indicating some of the nuclear material may have been stolen.

"We have information that an intelligence agency believes there was a diversion (of nuclear material)," said the subcommittee's chief investigator, Michael Ward. He did not elaborate nor identify the agency.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the subcommittee, said the questions about the missing nuclear material "tend to militate against my peace of mind."

"Really good accounting would say you would watch this process to see if you came out with what you put in," the chairman said.

Dingell convened the hearing after the government acknowledged last Thursday that nearly 3,400 pounds of plutonium and 4,800 pounds of enriched uranium can't be accounted

Comments cloud peace chances

TAIF, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus E. Vance, carrying word of possible Palestinian concessions, today heads for Israel and what could be the climax of his current Middle East peace mission.

A high-ranking Israeli politician clouded Vance's arrival by saying reports of Palestinian willingness to recognize Israel's right to exist would not change the Jewish state's stand against negotiating with the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO).

Moshe Arens, a senior official of the ruling Likud bloc, told the Israeli armed forces radio today that Israel's position is clear: "We are not ready to go to the Geneva peace conference with the participation of the PLO."

Israeli newspapers predicted tough talks between Vance and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, who reiterated Monday that Israel would not negotiate with an "organization of genocidists."

Begin's remarks came before President Carter and other U.S. officials disclosed the apparent new Palestinian overture and a possible shift in American policy to support PLO participation in peace talks.

The conservative Israeli daily newspaper Maariv warned in an editorial today that the United States, by recognizing the PLO, would lose its credibility in Israeli eyes.

Saudi Foreign Minister Saud al Faisal told Vance of an imminent change in the PLO position on Israel at their meeting Monday in Taif, the Saudi summer capital.

In Plains, Ga., President Carter told reporters Monday that the PLO "may adopt U.N. Resolution 242 which does recognize Israel's right to exist securely and in peace, with secure borders."

In turn, the United States would support the PLO's participation in Geneva Mideast peace talks and drop a demand that the guerrilla group change the provision of its covenant calling for Israel's destruction.

Felony grass charge likely

Charges of felony possession of marijuana are expected to be filed against a Midland man today after he was arrested by Midland police narcotics officers about 5:40 p.m. Monday.

The officers, acting on an informant's tip, arrested the man after he left a residence in the 500 block of west Holmsly Avenue, according to reports.

The man reportedly placed a briefcase in a car and headed west on Holmsly Avenue. The officers stopped the car, they said, near the intersection of Pecos Street and Holmsly Avenue.

The officers searched the car and the man's briefcase, and found five one-pound bags containing what officers said they believed to be marijuana.

public service at Washington so thoroughly that they have conquered 25 per cent of the government positions there in 25 years."

SERMONIZING: "Work rightly done gives the rhythmic, artistic product of a just life that perpetually opens out on immortality: such is the true history of the human soul."

GOOD WOMEN (a poem): "God bless good women! For they fill the world with noble cheer!"

CLEVELAND FOR PRESIDENT: An item in the Ladonia News of Sept. 23, 1892, listed Grover Cleveland for president and A. E. Stevenson for vice president.

JUST JOKING?: Here's a little bit, perhaps a "filler," clipped from a newspaper:

"A man aroused his wife from a sound sleep the other night, saying that he had seen a ghost in the shape of a donkey.

"'Oh! let me sleep,'" the irate dame rejoined, "'and don't be frightened at your own shadow.'"

HEAR! HEAR!: "All men are born equal, but no man ever was or ever could be born free. All are ideally equal because all have the same nature, and at birth all are equally helpless. Freedom is only to be attained by struggle. It is the culmination, not the beginning of life."

WOMAN POWER: An essay entitled "Woman and Her Power" said that the "power of sympathy (is) . . . one of woman's fairest and most goodly endowments."

TRIBUTE TO MOM: A poem, "Mother Knows," noted that the "sweetest gift" ever is a mother's love.

Over and over again, the scrapbook seemed to carry clippings that imparted esteem to women. For instance, there's an article of a mother's fortitude.

And just below sketches of a princess-like young lady and that of a grandmotherly type is the bold heading: "'She Rocks the Cradle and She Rules the World.'"

The book, too, is replete with color prints taken from both magazines and catalogues.

A Christmas card "To My Brother" says kind and cozy things:

"My childhood chum
"My old side-kick
"The brother who still
"Is a regular brick."

Apparently, it's tidbits such as that which give appeal to the book.

Carter may fight over projects

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President Carter may fight again with Congress over 10 water projects he wanted killed, an administration official says.

"I wouldn't be surprised if you haven't heard the last of water projects, even for this year," said the official, a presidential aide who declined to be identified.

The aide left open the possibility that Carter might send Congress what is called a recision and deferral message, in which the President could list congressionally-approved spending he wants either to delay or delete from the budget.

The move would force Congress to vote again on any projects Carter included in the message.

The aide declined to elaborate on Carter's plans, other than to say preparations will have to be made if the President decides to go ahead with any further moves against the controversial projects.

The President, Mrs. Carter and daughter Amy spent their fifth day vacationing today in their south Georgia hometown. The visit, Carter's third since taking office, has been a mixture of work and play.

The Carters were expected to return to Washington on Wednesday.

After a morning visit with brother Billy at the family's peanut warehouse Monday, the President:

—Disclosed that the Palestinians have sent indirect word that they might adopt a United Nations resolution which recognizes Israel and its right to exist permanently and in peace with secure borders.

"If the Palestinians will recognize the applicability of the United Nations Resolution 242," Carter said, "then it will open up a new opportunity for us to start discussions with them and also open up an avenue that they might participate in the Geneva conference."

—Signed a $10-billion public works bill that includes the 10 water projects he wanted deleted. Carter succeeded in getting another nine cut out of the measure and four others modified.

Carter called that "a precedent-setting first step in curbing spending on unnecessary, expensive and environmentally damaging construction projects."

—Signed a clean-air bill he called "sound and comprehensive," which gives Detroit a new delay in meeting tough new automobile exhaust standards. Automakers said the decision is necessary to begin building 1978-model cars.

The law puts off the tougher standards until 1980-model cars. Under present law, they would take effect on 1978 models, to begin rolling off production lines this month. The new law also gives dirty-air cities up to 10 years more to meet some standards.

—Rode with Billy in a four-wheel drive vehicle over dirt roads to one of the family's peanut fields, inspected the crop and said, "We think it might be saved" thanks to recent rain. But the corn crop, the President said, was lost.

With a tenant farmer, they inspected another peanut field on land in the First Lady's family since the early 19th century. At a shed of watermelons, Carter dropped to his knees, split half a dozen with a penknife and shared them with reporters.

—Proclaimed optimism about negotiations that might begin next week with the Canadian government to work out the route of a proposed U.S.-Canadian natural gas pipeline.

Walking out of the dusty peanut fields, Carter said he had talked to Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau earlier in the day about the line.

Midland, area counties involved in road work

Midland and area counties are participating in a 1978 road work program which is part of the special 1978 road improvement program approved by the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission.

In Midland these projects include 14.7 miles of seal coat on ramps and frontage roads on Interstate 20 from the Ector County line to .4 mile east of Texas 149.

Also included is seal coating of the main lanes on Texas 158 from Ector County line, southeast, to Spur 268, and on FM 1788 from U.S. 80 to the Upton County line, 19 miles.

Also, FM 1379 from FM 307, south to Texas 158, seal coating for 6.7 miles.

In Andrews County, seal coating of main lanes will be done on U.S. 385 from Avenue K in Andrews, northwest, to the Gaines county line for a length of 13.8 miles; FM 87 from New Mexico state line, east, to U.S. 385 for a length of 31.6 miles; FM 87 from Andrews, east, to Martin County line for a length of 18.5 miles, and FM 1218 from Winkler County line, north, to FM 781, for a length of 2.5 miles.

In Upton County, seal coating will be done from FM 1788 to Midland County line, south, 1.8 miles, and on FM 2401 from Texas 349 to Reagan County line for 16.9 miles.

In Martin County, seal coating on main lanes will be done on Texas 137 from Dawson County line, south, to .4 mile north of FM 87, for 15.5 miles; Texas 137 from FM 87, north, .4 mile, and on FM 87 from Andrews County line, east, to Texas 349 for 1.9 miles.

100-degree days likely

Warm nights and hot days can be expected as the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal forecasts highs for today and Wednesday of 100 degrees.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy afternoons with fair nights through Wednesday. The low tonight should be near 70 degrees. Winds are expected to be southerly at 15 to 25 mph today, becoming 5 to 10 mph tonight.

Monday's high was 100 degrees and the low was 73 degrees.

The record high for Monday is 104 degrees, set in 1952. The low for today is 62 degrees, set in 1976.

Scattered thunderstorms, including some described as very heavy, dumped heavy rainfall in portions of the Texas Panhandle during the night and forecasters said more thunderstorms were expected today along the coast and in Northwest Texas.

Dalhart had about 1.25 inches of rain and Amarillo recorded about .50 of an inch.

Thundershowers were also reported along the coast Monday afternoon, but dissipated during the early evening hours.

575 students preregister

Approximately 575 students have preregistered during the first four days of preregistration at Midland College for the fall semester.

Slightly more than two weeks remain to preregister, registrar Dee Windsor said Monday.

"The advantage to a person in preregistration is to receive an early time permit, which allocates a specific day and 15-minute time period in which to begin the official enrollment for fall classes," Windsor said.

Persons planning to take either daytime or evening credit courses at Midland College this fall should visit the Office of Student Services in the Administration Building.

Early counseling and preregistration during the coming week is available in the Administration Building between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday or in room 130 of the Science-Faculty Building between 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Preregistration will continue from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekdays including Fridays from Aug. 15 through Aug. 23.

Official registration is scheduled Aug. 24 and 25 in the Physical Education Building from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Fall classes start Aug. 29.

City Jaycee participates in training

Larry Bell of the Midland Jaycees participated last week in the national officer training college of The United States Jaycees at Tulsa, Okla.

Bell is regional director for the Texas Jaycees. He is responsible for assisting the growth and development of 22 chapters of the organization.

The three-day college included courses in general management and service improvement techniques. More than 600 Jaycees from across the nation attended.

Bell is president of the KBF Corp.

The missing materials are of the type used since World War II to produce atomic weapons. One official said it requires about 20 pounds of plutonium or 40 pounds of highly enriched uranium to construct an atomic bomb.

Fri said that in addition to the 8,000 pounds of missing nuclear material referred to in last week's report, another 16 tons is believed to be in pipes at two atomic bomb factories at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Portsmouth, Ohio.

Lawyer says he'll argue Bell drove man insane

By RICK SCOTT

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The family of T. O. Gravitt, onetime chief of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Texas, will try to show the company drove Gravitt insane before his suicide, the family's lawyer has indicated in court.

Pat Maloney, who represents the Gravitt family and fired Bell executive James Ashley in a $29 million suit against the telephone giant, made the disclosure Monday while questioning prospective jurors in the case being tried here.

Maloney said he would call a psychiatrist to testify that Gravitt was insane when he took his own life by carbon monoxide poisoning in his Dallas home in October 1974 and that the telephone company was responsible for his mental condition.

State District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry sustained an objection by Southwestern Bell attorneys that the disclosure was improper to prospective jurors and Maloney said nothing else.

The huge damage suit, filed in November 1974, alleges that Gravitt was hounded to his death and Ashley wrongfully fired as a result of an internal investigation conducted in 1974 by Southwestern Bell.

Gravitt, in a suicide note, outlined numerous allegations of wrongdoing by Southwestern Bell and concluded, "Watergate is a gnat compared to the Bell system."

Southwestern Bell has denied all allegations of wrongdoing and, in a counterclaim and answer to the damage suit, has accused Gravitt and Ashley of defrauding the company by filing false travel and expense vouchers.

Lawyers for both sides questioned prospective jurors all day Monday, but no jurors were impaneled. The 12-member jury is expected to be seated sometime today before opening arguments begin.

Lawyers for the telephone company were especially concerned in questioning prospective jurors about whether their views had been affected by extensive news coverage given the suit here.

Maloney indicated he would call more than 40 witnesses for the plaintiffs, including several former and present telephone company officials, the psychiatrist and several news reporters.

In addition, dozens of depositions have been taken in the case and are expected to be presented to the jury.

Judge Curry has ordered lawyers in the case not to discuss the proceedings with anyone, especially reporters.

He told prospective jurors the trial probably would last at least three weeks and possibly longer.

Ashley, who made $50,000-a-year as a Southwestern Bell executive in San Antonio, was present in court Monday, as were Gravitt's two sons, Mike and Pat, and his widow, Mrs. Robert Dixon, who has remarried since Gravitt's death.

A state district court jury last December, in a separate case, ordered Southwestern Bell to pay Ashley $1 million in damages after finding the company invaded Ashley's privacy by wiretapping. The company is appealing the case.

Ashley, who was a close friend of Gravitt's, now owns a real estate firm in Blanco, Tex.

South ruffed, led a trump to dummy to ruff another spade, and led a second trump to dummy to lead the queen of diamonds.

West won and returned a spade. South ruffed and cashed the ace of hearts, followed by the top diamonds and a diamond ruff. He then returned a heart from dummy, and West was stuck in with the king of hearts.

The forced spade return allowed dummy to ruff while South discarded his last heart.

See if you can spot two crimes before you read on.

SHOULD DROP KING

West should drop the king of hearts on South's ace. East can later take two heart tricks to defeat the contract.

But South should never let West escape. The first trick indicated that West had bid topless spades and almost surely had both red kings for his strong bidding. South should therefore begin the diamonds by leading low from his hand.

If West ducks, South doesn't lose a diamond. If West takes the king, South can discard two hearts from dummy on diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade as dealer, and the next player passes. You hold: SAK96; HQJ53; D975; C75. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts, planning to show the spade support next. The heart response promises at least a five-card suit, but you don't mind deceiving your partner temporarily since you can insist on a spade contract.

Parents debate taking daughter off respirator

By MILLER BONNER

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — "I keep wondering why. . .why my Dahlia?," said the tearful mother of 17-year-old Dahlia Reyna, who is in the death grip of an extremely rare, fatal disease.

The members of the migrant farm family planned to decide today whether to take the attractive brunette, one of nine children, off the respirator that has kept her alive for six days.

Doctors in this Rio Grande Valley city say the girl has been stricken with amebic meninoencephalitis, a deadly disease that attacks the central nervous system.

"She's never been sick a day in her life," added Sara Reyna.

"While there is life, there is some hope, but we have been told by the doctors that there is no hope whatsoever," said Father Luis Brum, who huddled with the Reyna family Monday afternoon.

"Actually, we are not talking about a life-and-death situation. There are no electrical responses from the brain, therefore Dahlia has no symptoms of life except that her heart is kept beating by the respirator," he said.

A spokesman for the Communicable Disease Center's parasitic diseases division in Atlanta, Ga., said less than 100 cases of the disease have been reported in the last 15 years. Victims usually have recently been swimming.

Doctors theorize that amebae from the water enter the victims through the nose, eyes or ears. After experiencing headaches, loss of appetite and nausea, victims usually fall into a coma followed by respiratory failure and death. The disease usually preys on children and young adults, they said.

Mrs. Reyna said her daughter began experiencing headaches and nausea nearly two weeks ago after returning from a family outing at a nearby lake.

Dahlia suffered respiratory failure a week later and fell into a coma shortly afterward. Doctors performed a spinal tap that identified the disease.

Mrs. Reyna said her other children had also swam in the lake with Dahlia but have not been affected.

A spokesman for the Hidalgo County Health Deprartment said Monday that no amebae had been detected in water samples from the lake that were sent to Austin for chemical analysis.

"The decision will be made by all the family," Father Brum said Monday night. "Eventually, the doctors say, bacteria would enter the heart and weaken it to the point that the respirator would not help her."

Insurance board axes maternity benefits

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Chairman Joe Christie was outvoted Monday when the State Insurance Board removed maternity benefits from the coverage that all individual health policies must cover.

Two representatives of the Texas Women's Political Caucus looked on disappointedly as members Durwood Manford and Ned Price prevailed on a series of 2-1 votes.

Price generally has voted with Christie and against Manford on major issues before the board.

When the board standardized benefits for individual accident and health policies last year, it made maternity coverage automatic — whether wanted or not.

Standards apply this year to new policy forms but after Jan. 1, 1978, must be followed on all individual policies in effect in Texas.

Insurance companies asked for reconsideration of the maternity benefits standard in March and were backed up by then-commissioner Joe Hawkins.

A prime contention was that old persons and single men should not have to pay for a coverage they would never use. Insurance was not meant to pay for a condition that is both optional and preventable, they argued.

Board staff members recommended continuation of pregnancy benefits in the standard policy.

As it now stands, maternity benefits will be optional. If offered, they must equal 10 times the basic hospital room and board benefit, which is $30 per day.

Christie predicted the board action would make it "infinitely more difficult" to obtain a health insurance policy with maternity benefits.

He said he voted against making maternity benefits optional because "I felt like it was the only fair thing to do, to include pregnancy benefits, because there are many male-related benefits that are mandated."

He mentioned prostate operations and hair transplants.

"Many pregnancies, even in this day of widespread use of contraceptive measures, are unplanned pregnancies," he added.

Christie added that under the rules, a company could offer a limited benefits policy excluding maternity coverage — "all they had to do was tell the prospective purchaser the benefits are not included."

Earlier this year, Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, used the mandatory pregnancy benefits as an argument for his bill repealing the board's power to set minimum standards for health insurance benefits.

Senators passed the bill, but it died in the House.

Polanski fate rests on exam

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Movie director Roman Polanski, who pleaded guilty to unlawful sexual intercourse with a 13-year-old girl, could face up to 50 years in prison or commitment to a state mental hospital and possible deportation from the United States.

Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband, who accepted Polanski's plea Monday, appointed two psychiatrists to examine him.

Powers gets Arlington burial with salute, military honors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francis Gary Powers, a civilian pilot whose CIA-instigated spy flight over the Soviet Union caused an international incident in 1960, has been laid to rest with military heroes at Arlington National Cemetery.

Some United States critics felt that Powers, who was killed in a California helicopter crash last week, should have committed suicide with a poison needle he carried while on the CIA mission 17 years ago.

Because the 47-year-old Powers was not a military veteran, special authorization was needed for his burial in the cascading hillside of the cemetery, reserved for military heroes and veterans.

Army Secretary Clifford Alexander said an exception to current rules was made because of Powers' service to his country.

At the start of a 15-minute ceremony, Power's casket was carried to the gravesite by eight Air Force pall bearers, including two women.

Air Force Chaplain David Sams, competing with the noise from airplanes passing overhead, said prayers and read the 23rd psalm, but made no mention of Powers' U2 spy flight.

Powers' widow, Claudia attended the service with their two children, son Gary and daughter Dee. His mother and five sisters also were among 100 persons present.

Following a seven-gun salute of three shots each and the sounding of taps, Powers was buried near the gravesites of two former astronauts, Roger Chaffee and Virgil Grissom, and Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, who while serving in Belgium during World War II answered a German demand for surrender with one word: "nuts."

Powers, working as a contract employe of the CIA, was flying a photographic reconnaissance mission over the Soviet Union when his U2 plane was shot down May 1, 1960.

U.S. defense strategists had believed the U2, flying as high as 60,000 feet, could elude Soviet air tracking systems.

At a May 16 summit conference in Paris, attended by then President Dwight Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Nikita Khruschev, outraged over the incident, delivered a scathing attack on the United States. His outburst led to the collapse of the conference, and Eisenhower called off a planned June visit to Russia.

Powers pleaded innocent to spy charges at a Soviet espionage trial in August, 1960, but was convicted and sentenced to 10 years in prison. Less than two years later, he was released by the Russians in exchange for a convicted Soviet spy, Rudolph Abel, who was serving a 30-year sentence in the United States.

Powers died in the helicopter crash while taking pictures of brush fires in California. He had been working as a pilot and reporter for Los Angeles television station KNBC.

Police connect bomb, terrorists

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say a bomb found in a crowded midtown office building was "definitely connected" to a small terrorist group demanding independence for Puerto Rico.

Authorities said they did not know yet if the dynamite bomb found at the AMAX Building Monday was planted last week along with two other bombs and overlooked in earlier searches.

Two bomb blasts in mid-Manhattan skyscrapers last Wednesday killed one man and injured seven others and sent terrified office workers fleeing into the streets. The AMAX Building was among those threatened last week by telephone callers who said they represented the terrorist group.

Police said the device found Monday was "definitely connected" to the FALN — the Fuerzas Armadas de Liberacion Nacional (Armed Forces of National Liberation) — a group believed responsible for 60 explosions in four cities over the past three years.

Five persons have died in those explosions, all in New York, including one man killed last week in the blast at the Mobil Oil Corp. building.

Police protest ends jobs

ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — City policemen who've lost their jobs because they've called in sick since Friday in a wage dispute with the city faced a deadline of noon today to request individual hearings or to turn in their uniforms and equipment.

Police cancelled plans to return to work at 10:30 p.m. Monday, after they learned that city officials would refuse to allow them to resume their duties.

Meeting in emergency session Sunday night, the city council decided that the 34 officers who have been been calling in sick are considered "self terminated."

RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS
GAS UTILITIES DIVISION

Re: Application of Lo-Vaca Gathering Company and Coastal States Gas Producing Company For a Review and Revision of Prices and Rates In Their Existing Agreements — Gas Utilities — Docket No. 500

STATEMENT OF INTENT BY LO-VACA GATHERING COMPANY AND COASTAL STATES GAS PRODUCING COMPANY TO CHANGE RATES

TO THE HONORABLE RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS:

Lo-Vaca Gathering Company ("Lo-Vaca") and Coastal States Gas Producing Company ("Coastal"), pursuant to the requirements of Section 43(a) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act (1446c, T.R.C.S), files this statement of intent to change rates, effective September 1, 1977, the rates they are charging all customers on the Lo-Vaca system for the purchase of natural gas to a uniform rate applicable to each customer on the system, which rate consists of 100% of Lo-Vaca's weighted average cost of gas plus 16.70 cents per Mcf. The cost of gas is to be adjusted each month in accordance with Lo-Vaca's billing procedure, which is Lo-Vaca Exhibit KLH #515, filed with the Railroad Commission of Texas ("Commission") in Gas Utilities Docket No. 500 on June 13, 1977.

The present rate charged by Lo-Vaca for the sale of natural gas to nearly all Texas customers is 100% of Lo-Vaca's weighted average cost of gas (determined in accordance with the billing procedure set forth in Lo-Vaca Exhibit WKA #17 in Gas Utilities Docket No. 500) plus 5 cents per Mcf.

The new rate is anticipated to increase Lo-Vaca's revenues by $60,196,106 in calendar year 1978. This is an increase of 5.61% over total revenues which would have been received if the present rate were continued in effect for that year.

Respectfully submitted,
LO-VACA GATHERING COMPANY — COASTAL STATES GAS PRODUCING COMPANY

Cubs blow chance for share of first

BY TED BATTLES

Talk about living proof that a baseball game isn't over until that final out, Midland's 9-7 loss to San Antonio is offered as Exhibit A.

The Cubs took a 7-6 lead into the ninth inning and after a couple of dazzling fielding plays by third baseman Mike Umfleet and shortstop Steve Davis, had two out.

It was announced to the Cubs Stadium faithful over the P.A., that Amarillo was pounding El Paso, again, 12-4 in the eighth and all the Cubs needed was that last out to move into a virtual tie for first place in the Texas League West Division race.

A FEW minutes later when everybody regained consciousness after the carnage, San Antonio, not Midland, was in first place and the Cubs were a game and a half back.

Charles Meyers greeted the P. A. revelation with a double and then Ted Farr put the Dodgers ahead 8-7 with his second homer of the night, third in two nights and 15th of the year.

Maybe it was only poetic justice. The Cubs struck in the late innings of the first three games to pull out wins and while they led going into the waning stages of Monday's game, the Cubs runs were as much a result of sloppy San Antonio play afield as Midland hitting.

Lefthander Marty Kunkler, 5-6, picked up the win while Byron Wilkerson, 5-5, the Cubs third pitcher, was tagged for the loss.

"The announcement about El Paso had no effect on me or what I was trying to do," Farr said later.

"MIDLAND WAS the team we had to beat. We'll worry about El Paso when we play them."

A fifth year pro signed out of high school in Spokane, Wash., the 22-year-old Farr hit a three-run homer Sunday to give San Antonio a 6-3 lead only to have it topped by Steve Davis' grand slam in the home eighth.

This time the Cubs couldn't match his double-barreled barrage. Farr's two run homer to left in the eighth whittled Midland's lead to 7-6 and came off Larry Groover.

"It was a fast ball and I think it was hit well enough to go out of most any park. The one in the ninth was wind aided. I wasn't thinking homer. I was just trying to get it up in the air'" Farr said.

"WILKERSON HAS a funny delivery. It's almost as though he's quick-pitching you. That's what I was complaining to the umpire about on the first pitch'" Farr explained. "It was the kind of fastball I was looking for, but it was on me so fast, I wasn't ready."

A couple of pitches later, Farr was ready when Byron hung a curve.

Midland led 4-1 going into the sixth when first baseman Cleo Smith tagged starter Randy Martz for a two-run homer. San Antonio tied it in the seventh in chasing Martz, the Cubs' No. 1 draft choice from South Carolina, on a couple of infield hits, a walk and an error. Groover came in with the bases loaded to get the final out.

Midland struck against Mike Seberger for three runs in the seventh for a 7-4 lead as Kurt Siebert singled, Joe Hernandez singled and Karl Pagel walked to load the bases.

Umfleet's fly scored one run and two more raced home as Rick Oller dropped Aaron Randall's pop up to short left.

That brought Farr riding to the rescue.

"Mark Hance started the season as the regular catcher," said Farr who spent last year in the California, Eastern and Pacific Coast League and wound up with 10 homers. "Then Mark went into a slump and I got my chance. Now we split the job, usually depending on who's going good or whether we won or lost the day before. I play a lot in Midland, El Paso and Amarillo because of the wind and I'm a fly ball hitter."

CUB PRINTS — Andy Muhlstock, 8-4, will hurl for the Cubs in the finale of the five-game series while Dan Smith, 5-1, or Mike Martin , 6-5, probably will go for the Dodgers... The Cubs embark upon a 10-game road trip Wednesday....Midland is a game and a half out of first and a game out of second, quite an improvement over the start of the series when they were four back...

The Cubs return home August 20 for a final 10-game stand against Amarillo and El Paso...

'Mr. Cub' enters Hall of Fame

By BOB GREENE

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — "Words almost fail here," Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said as he introduced Ernie Banks to an overflowing throng that witnessed induction ceremonies for the six newest members of baseball's Hall of Fame.

"They called him 'Mr. Cub,'" Kuhn said.

No other introduction was necessary on Monday for the former Chicago Cubs infielder who blasted 512 home runs in his 19-year major league career.

"We got the setting—sunshine, fresh air, the team behind us. So let's play two," Banks said, eliciting a roar of approval from the crowd which included some 600 Cubs' fans who had come to this upstate New York village in the Adirondack Mountains.

They remembered a Babe Ruth home run in Yankee Stadium, a Jackie Robinson steal of home, a Sandy Koufax no-hitter. Now it was Ernie Banks entering the Hall of Fame.

"He had the movements of a great watch," Judy Johnson, a Hall of Famer himself, said about Banks. "You set it today and it keeps perfect time. "Banks was one of the best baseball competitors we've ever had. I have never heard any bad remarks about him. He was and is a gentleman."

The crowd in the tree-shaded park agreed. One fan held up a sign proclaiming "America Loves Ernie Banks."

Also receiving plaques at the dedication ceremonies were Al Lopez, Joe Sewell, Amos Rusie, Martin Dihigo and John Henry "Pop" Lloyd, swelling the Hall's membership to 163. Rusie, Dihigo and Lloyd were honored posthumously.

Lopez, who caught more major league games than anyone, was honored for his managerial skills. In the 16 years he managed the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, his teams won two American League pennants and finished second 10 times.

Dihigo is the first Cuban to be enshrined in the Hall. Accepting his plaque was his cousin, Jose Valdivielso, a former pitcher with the Washington Senators. Two men unfurled a Cuban flag when Valdivielso approached the podium.

John Amos Rusie accepted for his uncle and James Ursury of Atlantic City, N.J., where a baseball field is named for Lloyd, accepted for the former Negro League infielder.

In the 35th annual Hall of Fame exhibition game played at Doubleday Field, built on the site where the first baseball game was reportedly played, the Minnesota Twins used home runs by Terry Bulling, Lyman Bostock and Bob Gorinski and three innings of no-hit pitching by Gary Serum to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 8-5.

Before the game, broadcaster Mel Allen introduced members of the Hall of Fame who had returned to Cooperstown: Charley Gehringer, Bill Terry, Joe Cronin, Bob Feller, Luke Appling, Burleigh Grimes, Red Ruffing, Lloyd Waner, Roy Campanella, Stan Coveleski, Stan Musial, Rube Marquard, Buck Leonard, Monte Irvin, George Kelly, Cool Papa Bell, Jocko Conlan, Whitey Ford, Earle Averill, Billy Herman, Judy Johnson, Cal Hubbard, Fred Lindstrom and Robin Roberts.

Boy asks, Murcer answers

EDITORS: The boy mentioned in the following story, Scott Crull, is suffering from bone cancer, which was reported in the ABC-TV broadcast that is referred to in the story. His mother said Scott did not hear the comment on ABC and she would prefer that the nature of his illness not be publicized.

CALUMET CITY, Ill. (AP) — Scott Crull can't shout and holler over the little he has to be joyous about. But what Bobby Murcer did for him Monday night over national television was "the best thing of my life."

What Murcer did was fulfill a wish from the seriously ill boy earlier Monday—and then some. The Chicago Cubs right fielder had told him he would try to hit a home run and a double; he delivered two homers. The bombs came during a game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Murcer's— and Scott's—Cubs.

"It was obvious from his smile, Scott was pleased about it," said Mrs. Dwight Crull, mother of the 12-year-old, after the second of Murcer's solo blasts. "He can't holler and yell like the other kids because his lungs are affected.

"Bobby Murcer is sure putting on a show for him."

After the game, she added, "He just said, 'I guess that one's for me.' He was a little thrilled about that. It just meant everything to him. He's a little short of breath and he can't yell and holler."

In his first two times at bat against the Pirates, Murcer drove a pair of solo home runs over the right-field wall off Pirate pitcher Bruce Kison.

In the locker room before the game, Murcer had talked by telephone with the bedridden youth. The call came about after a friend of the youth's family contacted Buck Peden, the Cubs' publicity director. Murcer had never met the youth.

Scott's mother said her son, the youngest of four boys and a girl, has been ill for three years and has "been doctored" for the last month. He's "always been a Cub fan—I am too," Mrs. Crull said.

Dorsett: open and honest

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

IRVING — Tony Dorsett hasn't exactly been hard up for company the past four weeks. Since reporting to the Dallas Cowboy training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif., last month, the highly-acclaimed rookie has had members of the press at his side almost constantly.

Why, Sports Illustrated Magazine even sent a photographer out to the coast for two weeks to do nothing but follow Tony around and take his picture. I won't say he followed him around everywhere, but let me put it this way. He knew what Dorsett read when he went to the john.

It's Tony's own fault though. He blew his chance for privacy when he went and did a dumb thing like rushing for an NCAA-record 6,082 yards and scoring 58 touchdowns during a prolific collegiate career at Pittsburgh. He was the first runner in the NCAA ranks to have four 1,000 yard rushing years, and he was also the first player to string together three 1,500 yard seasons.

To make matters worse, Tony went and signed the first million dollar contract in Cowboy history earlier this year. So, it's easy to see why he is probably one of the most closely scrutinized athletes to enter the National Football League in quite some time.

OBVIOUSLY, THE rookie was expecting all of this attention when he came to camp, and he's handled himself like a professional with the press.

"He's twice as poised and articulate as a Yale graduate we used to have around here — Calvin Hill," explained Steve Perkins, a Dallas free-lance writer who has been with the Cowboys since the first day of training camp.

Frank Luksa, the respected football writer for the Dallas Times-Herald added: "It's hard to find substantive negatives on Dorsett. He's a man with very little pretense and he's an honest interview."

What it all comes down to is that Dorsett has been totally honest and straight-forward with the media, and that has earned him a great deal of respect thus far. "I was a communications major at Pittsburgh," Dorsett said, trying to explain the good rapore he's had with the press. "I've always wanted to go into broadcasting. So I enjoy going one-on-one with reporters and other media people. And I think I can handle any question now without sticking my foot in my mouth."

EVEN WHEN the questions get a little personal, which they often do, Dorsett doesn't flinch. Since turning professional, the story of Dorsett's young son has gained national publicity. But he doesn't mind, and talks proudly of Anthony Drew Dorsett, Jr., his five-year-old offspring who lives with his mother, Karen Casterlow, back in Weirton, W. Va.

"I pray sometimes that I can get him and take him with me," he said. "But I don't think that would be possible as long as the mother is living and is a fit mother. Which she is."

And he has no bitterness toward the mother. "I dated Karen for nine years. It was one of those childhood sweetheart romances, but it just didn't work out," he admitted.

There have been times obviously, when Dorsett hasn't quite felt like talking. Saturday night was probably one of them. He had been impressive in his professional debut at Texas Stadium, gaining 26 yards on seven carries, and catching a 15-yard pass against the San Diego Chargers. But late in the third quarter, he reinjured the left knee that's been bothering him for the past two weeks, and he was through for the night.

DESPITE A forced smile, the young man couldn't hide his personal frustration over the injury as he was quizzed by reporters in the dressing room. Ironically, it was only three weeks earlier that he boasted, "I am the most durable back in the history of college football. . .I've worked hard to make myself strong." A few days after that claim, he bruised the knee in practice, and it hasn't healed since.

But he talked warmly with the press Saturday night, and answered their questions politely. Tony proved he's no dummy either. He gave a great deal of credit to his offensive line for the brief success he had out on the artificial surface of Texas Stadium earlier, a la O.J. Simpson.

The injury is a tough break for a player who has displayed an intense desire thus far to prove he's as good as his college stats claim. Many critics have knocked his size — 5-foot-11 and 190 pounds — which is the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard of. What damn difference would another inch make? All it would mean is that Tony would get wet a little quicker when it rained.

DORSETT HAS worked hard thus far, trying to improve on two of the possible shortcomings in his game — blocking and receiving. It's not that Tony can't do either one, but it's just that he hasn't had much practice at them. Heisman Trophy winning running backs aren't asked to block much in college, and they never wasted time throwing passes to him at Pitt, when it was so much easier just to put the ball under his arm and point him toward the goal line.

"It's too early to be positive," said Cowboy offensive coordinator Dan Reeves recently. "But as a running back, he has the three things the good ones all have. First of all, he does things so easily. No matter what he has to do, he isn't exerting much effort. He also has the great acceleration that means so much in football. And he can make the full speed cut.

"Very few runners have ever had the skill and balance to change direction without loss of speed — O.J. Simpson, Gale Sayers, maybe one or two others — and even Sayers cut kind of jerky. Tony does it so smoothly."

On the field and off, Tony Dorsett is showing a lot of class in his first month as a Dallas Cowboy.

Tony to miss Seattle contest

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have decided not to take any chances with the $1.2 million legs of their top draft choice, rookie running back Tony Dorsett.

Cowboy Head Coach Tom Landry said Monday that Dorsett will be held out of contact work for the next week to 10 days so his bruised left knee will have time to heal.

Dorsett, the 1976 Heisman Trophy winner who came to Dallas via a deal with the Seattle Seahawks, will also miss Saturday's Dallas-Seattle pre-season game in Seattle, Landry added.

Dorsett aggravated a bruised left knee in Dallas' 34-14, preseason-opening victory over San Diego last Saturday. He had first injured the knee on July 21 in a rookie scrimmage with San Diego.

"We decided that the best way to get Tony back to 100 per cent was to make sure he didn't get the knee hit again for at least a week," said Landry.

"I feel certain that with the running and conditioning work he will be doing during that period, the problem should be completely cleared up," Landry added.

Dorsett, who has signed a long-term contract estimated at $1.2 million, carried seven times for 26 yards and caught a pass for 15 yards last Saturday in playing less than one quarter.

Second-year wide receiver Percy Howard was placed Monday on the "physically unable to perform" list.

San Antonio takes over TL top spot

By The Associated Press

Ivan Murrell rifled a pair of three-run homers and Bobby Mitchell drilled a grand slam shot as the Amarillo Gold Sox outslugged El Paso, 12-8, for the second straight day, knocking the Diablos out of first place in the Texas League West.

In other Texas League action, Jackson edged Tulsa 3-2, San Antonio got by Midland, 9-7 and Shreveport clubbed Arkansas 16-1.

On Sunday, Amarillo threw up a 20-hit attack, including another homer by Murrell, to outscore El Paso 13-12. The two losses to the last place Gold Sox dropped the slumping Diablos into second place behind San Antonio.

Amarillo held a 12-3 lead after six innings, but the Diablos rallied behind homers by Tommy Smith, Floyd Rayford and Carney Lansford. Mike Lentz, 3-5, was the winner and El Paso starter Jim Dorsey gave up nine runs and absorbed the loss.

Jim Kidder went hitless and was the only Shreveport player who didn't collect two hits as the Captains exploded for 21 hits over the Travelers. Doe Boyland and John Dean clubbed homers for the Captains.

Rick Honeycutt, 9-6, was the winner and Danny O'Brian, 5-8, bore the brunt of Shreveport's bats and took the loss.

Marshall Brandt lashed a run-scoring single in the bottom of the eighth inning that gave Jackson its margin over Tulsa. Jackson's Ron Berenguer, 7-7, went the distance, allowing only six Driller hits.

Mark Soroko, 4-3, was the loser. One of Tulsa's runs came on a solo home run by Rick Lisi.

In tonight's action, Arkansas entertains Shreveport, Tulsa travels to Jackson, Amarillo hosts El Paso and San Antonio travels to Midland.

Reds, press at odds?

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Bench, denying reports of trouble between the Cincinnati Reds and their press corps, calls it a case of clubhouse jousting being taken too seriously.

"Sure there was some yelling in the clubhouse, but that goes on all the time," Bench said Monday, reacting to an Associated Press story that said the world champions have been feuding with writers.

"No one takes it seriously," Bench told The Cincinnati Enquirer.

Annoyed over critical stories, Bench, backup catcher Bill Plummer and Dave Concepcion had words with reporters last week.

Bench and Plummer labeled one writer "a cheap shot artist" after reading a story pinned up on the clubhouse bullein board.

They were unhappy with recent stories written by Hal McCoy of the Dayton Daily News. McCoy contends the Reds' collapse this season is due to complacency, poor attitude and blatant disregard of curfews.

Oilers manhandled by Oakland, 40-0

OAKLAND (AP) — Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini didn't like it, but he was impressed with the way the world champion Oakland Raiders manhandled the Oilers.

"Whenever you are the Super Bowl champions you have to go out and play with some kind of arrogance or confidence, whatever you want to call it," Pastorini said, "they have it."

"We wanted to do that," responded Oakland Coach John Madden. "That's one of the things we feel is important — no matter what you do, you have to play like champions."

Pastorini spent most of his time watching from the sidelines Monday night as the Raiders humbled the Oilers 40-0 in the exhibition season opener for both teams.

"One thing I was afraid of last week in practice came true — we peaked too early," said Houston Coach Bum Phillips. "We should have played this game last Thursday. It would have been quite different. We lost our fire somewhere in the air between Houston and Oakland."

The Raiders dominated the entire game, picking up 393 yards in total offense and 26 first downs to 142 yards and eight first downs for the Oilers. The only time Houston looked at all impressive was when third-string quarterback Karl Douglas entered the game in the fourth period.

Winning trophies is becoming old hat for this talented Argentine, Guillermo Vilas. Monday night, he reeled off his fourth tournament title in as many tries, and extended his match streak to 29 (AP Laserphoto)

Vilas on tear; keeps winning

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Guillermo Vilas heads off to a new clay court tournament seeking to continue streaks of 29 straight match victories on clay and four consecutive tournament triumphs.

The latest notch came Monday when he whipped Roscoe Tanner 6-4, 6-2 in the finals of an $85,000 tennis open.

The $15,000 first prize pushed the 24-year-old Vilas' earnings this year close to $275,000.

"I'm not really, really fresh," said Vilas, who's been playing virtually nonstop for the past 30 days. "But I feel real good."

Vilas and Tanner were seeded first and second in the tournament.

With his big serve working well, Tanner powered to a 4-3 lead in the first set, scoring two aces in the seventh game.

Tanner kept Vilas deep and was able to smash the Argentine's weak returns of his booming serves. Tanner's cannon cooled, however, and he began missing on first service.

Vilas then began controlling the pace with a variety of backhand and forehand drives to the corners while alternating the speed of his shots. Vilas out-volleyed his 26-year-old opponent from Kaiwah Island, S.C., and swept three straight games to take the set.

Tanner warmed-up briefly and jumped to a 2-1 lead in the second set.

The opportunistic Vilas began controlling the pace again and took the last five games with superior volleys.

"He plays the kind of game that's difficult for me to play," Tanner said after the match. "You can't develop a rhythm because he puts a lot of topspin on the ball and it never comes straight at you."

Tanner, who lost in the finals here last year to Ilie Nastase, summed the match up by saying, "Vilas just had very accurate shots. He is difficult to come in on."

Vilas said he was surprised when Tanner, who was playing well in the first set, started making mistakes. "He didn't attack as much as I thought he would and I just kept the ball in play," the winner said.

Vilas said he will play this week in the Buckeye Open at Columbus, Ohio, but is looking forward to the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, which begins Aug. 31.

Is he looking to beat Bjorn Borg or Jimmy Connors to prove he's the best in the world? "No, I'm not pointing for anybody in particular. I'm just pointing to win Forest Hills," he said.

In the doubles final, Colin Dibley of Australia and Wojtek Fibak of Poland defeated Vilas and Ion Tiriac of Romania 6-1, 7-5.

Late boot helps 'Skins

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mark Moseley, who earlier missed a pair of field goals and an extra point try, booted a 29-yard field goal with 20 seconds remaining to give the Washington Redskins a 16-14 victory over the Cleveland Browns Monday night in the opening National Football League pre-season game for both teams.

The Browns nursed a 14-13 lead through most of the second half and appeared to have the game sealed up when rookie kicker Greg Coleman nailed the Redskins with a punt which went out of bounds at the Washington six yard line.

Quarterback Joe Theismann, who took over midway in the second period from starter Billy Kilmer, drove the Redskins quickly downfield with some pinpoint passing to wide receiver Danny Buggs.

Quarterbacks could make SWC difference

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The football coaches in the Southwest Conference agree that Houston, Texas Tech and Texas A&M should be picked at the top in the league race and they agree on the reasons:

Danny Davis, Rodney Allison, and David Walker.

"Most of the time when you don't know what's going to happen, you lean toward the team with a quarterback and that's not a bad way to lean," said Houston coach Bill Yeoman.

Houston and Tech tied for the championship last year 7-1. A&M was third at 6-2. Each of the three wound up 10-2 after the bowl games.

Davis quarterbacked Houston. Allison guided Tech and Walker was A&M's quarterback. Davis is a junior. Allison and Walker are seniors.

"In examining the teams on paper, the difference seems to be that all three have experienced winners at quarterback," said Fred Akers, Texas' new coach. "We don't have a proven winner at quarterback, but let me point out that neither did those three a year ago."

The coaches, interviewed recently prior to a luncheon in Little Rock, agreed that Texas, Arkansas and Baylor should be assigned the darkhorse role and that Southern Methodist University, Texas Christian University and Rice appeared to be at the bottom.

No one was counting on any of the middle three.

"Don't be surprised if the winner comes out of the middle," said SMU's Ron Meyer. "Who picked Baylor in 1974? Who picked Arkansas in 1975? Who picked Houston in 1976?"

"I think Arkansas and Texas are going to be back," Yeoman said. "They were stunned a little bit and their people are not going to stand for it. The intensity will be stronger."

Texas was 4-4 in league play last year and Arkansas was 3-4-1.

Yeoman also said he believed Texas had the best college football player in the country in running back Earl Campbell.

"I don't know how you can really pick somebody like Arkansas or Texas to finish fourth, fifth or sixth," said A&M coach Emory Bellard.

"Speaking on behalf of A&M, we'll be a factor," Bellard said. "We'll have an effect on the race. At the end of the season, Walker was playing as good as anybody."

"A healthy Earl Campbell could make a bit of a difference," said Baylor coach Grant Teaff. "(Ron) Calcagni has a chance to be a great quarterback to go along with those running backs at Arkansas, and the way (coach) Lou Holtz moves the ball, they could win it."

Teaff says five of Baylor's first six ball games are against bowl teams. "After that, we could either be a quivering mass or a pretty good football team," Teaff said.

"We've been picked fifth the last couple of years and being picked so high makes me nervous," said Tech coach Steve Sloan. "I don't know what effect it will have on the team, but we should be picked somewhere in the upper part.

"Texas A&M and Houston look tremendous out of the blocks," Sloan said. "I believe Houton and A&M will be in the top 15 in the country at the end of the year. And, I don't think it's too wise a decision to relegate Arkansas and Texas to fourth and fifth."

Golfers elected to Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — Carol Mann and Sandra Haynie have been elected to the Ladies Professional Golf Association's Hall of Fame, LPGA Commissioner Ray Volpe announced Monday.

Formal induction ceremonies for the two golfers, the eighth and ninth members of the LPGA Hall of Fame, will be held Aug. 22 in Pinehurst, N.C., new site of the World Golf Hall of Fame. The LPGA hall now is located at Augusta, Ga.

Miss Mann, a resident of Towson, Md., first joined the LPGA in 1961. She has won 38 tournaments in her career, including the U.S. Women's Open in 1965.

She also served two terms as president of the LPGA and shares the 54-hole women's record for low score with a 200 in the 1968 Lady Carling Open.

Miss Haynie, of Dallas, also joined the LPGA in 1961 and has won 39 tournaments, including the U.S. Open in 1974.

"Carol and Sandra are not only exceptional ladies on and off the course, they represent everything champions should be," said Volpe.

O. J. gets clean bill of health

BUFFALO (AP) — Buffalo Bills fans can breathe easy again.

Fears that intermittently blurred vision would keep "The Juice" from playing football were eased Monday. The Bills announced the results of tests showing that O.J. Simpson has nearly perfect eyesight, despite an apparently minor problem in his left eye.

The problem "will not require treatment and will have no effect on Simpson's football future," the National Football League club announced after Simpson was tested at Johns Hopkins University's Wilmer Eye Clinic in Baltimore.

Dr. Walter Stark, an institute specialist who helped examine Simpson, said the problem in the left eye was minor and probably would heal itself.

"The same disorder appears in a lot of healthy, young people," he added, calling Simpson's present vision "only one line from perfect."

The Bills said their superstar returned to Buffalo late Monday and is expected to resume practice today at the team's Niagara University training camp.

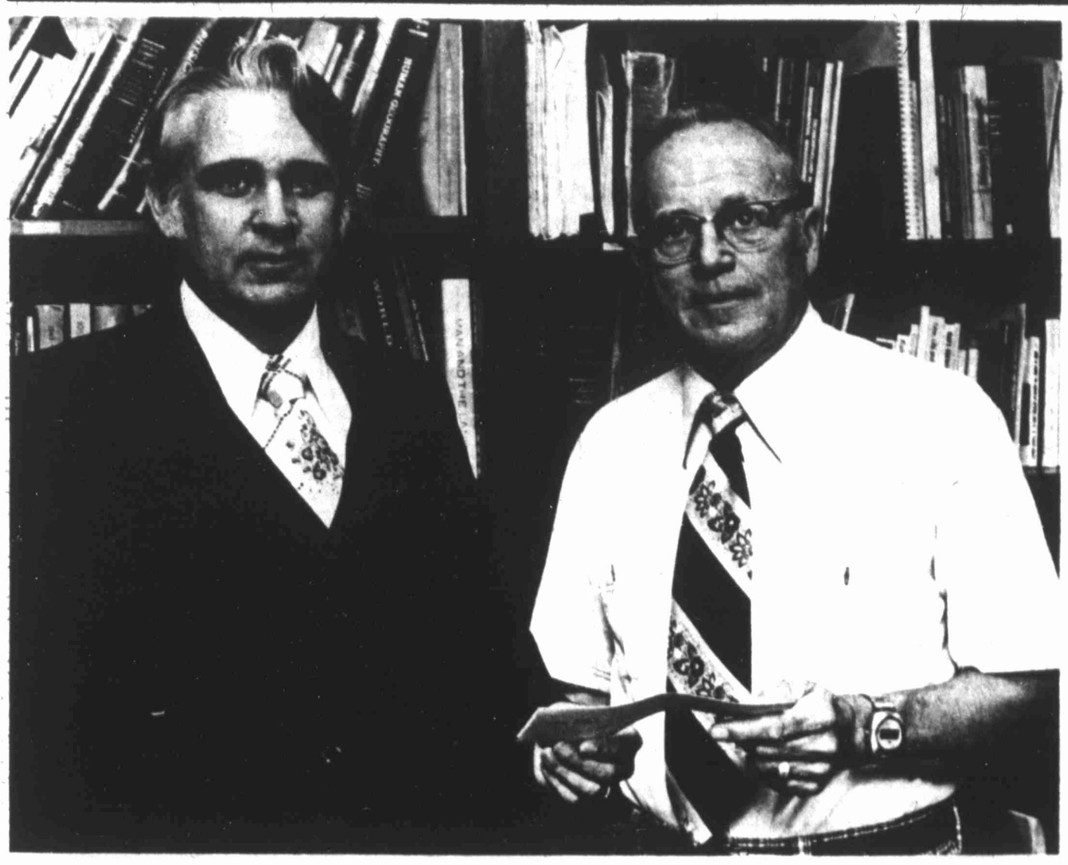

Before Monday, it had been suggested that Simpson's problem stemmed from the Bills-Jets game Oct. 31.

Schlesinger seeks to renew defeated issues

WASHINGTON — Senate Finance Committee members told Secretary of Energy James R. Schlesinger Monday to stop dreaming about a standby gasoline tax and get behind a crash program to subsidize development of other fuels.

Schlesinger went to the Senate Monday to ask that it reinstate in the energy legislation some of President Carter's energy program voted down by the House. He wanted the tax on purchase of gas guzzler cars strengthened to require more miles per gallon and exemptions from the industrial use tax on oil and natural gas reduced. He asked again for the standby gasoline tax that could go to 50 cents a gallon in 5-cent annual steps if the nation's motorists fail to meet specified goals.

In an effort to prevent energy taxes from having an adverse impact on the economy, Carter proposed to rebate the funds. Revenues from the standby gas tax, if it took effect, would be rebated to the entire population on a per capita basis.

"Even to infant babes?" asked Sen. Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.). To anyone claimed as an exemption, said Schlesinger. Sen. Spark Matsunaga (D-Hawaii) said the proposed gasoline tax rebate to drivers and non-drivers alike was a "welfare program ...a nightmare."

Chairman Russell B. Long (D-La.) said it made no sense to him to tax use of energy and then hand the money back. There would be no inducement to save, he said. He said he expects the standby gas tax will not be approved by the Senate.

Long indicated he would support efforts to tighten the gas guzzler tax, but kept saying as did other members, that more stress should be put on production of alternative fuels such as shale oil, geothermal and solar energy.

Long said there is enough energy in shale oil locked in rocks and geothermal heat deep in the earth to provide our energy needs for hundreds of years.

Schlesinger said these would be bountiful sources for the future but "the new technologies are not here yet." By the President's 1985 target date for saving 4.5 million barrels of oil per day, there will not be substantial commercial yields from these sources, he said.

Long urged government subsidizies to rapidly develop shale oil.

The oil industry is fighting for a plowback payment to them of part of the proposed oil equalization tax to encourage exploration for new oil. The administration strongly opposes this as a giveaway to oil producers.

"I'd like to see us increase tax advantages to get the job done," said Long. "Some people are scared to death someone's going to make a profit. We ought to hope someone does make a profit or we're going to stay in this mess forever."

The oil wellhead tax, scheduled to raise domestic prices to world levels in three annual stages as a conservation measure would also be rebated to the population under the administration's plan.

Long said he preferred that that tax be used to encourage production of oil and other fuels. He proposed that the tax take effect in two years rather than three, presumably to get the exploration aid money flowing sooner.

Schlesinger later told reporters he believes the Senate will rejeet decontrolling the price of natural gas as the House did. he said he opposed a plowback to oil producers but would consider proposed subsidies for alternative fuels on a case-by-case basis.

Oil, gas activity in Permian Basin includes discovery, wildcat projects

Runnels County gained a gas strike and two wildcat sites, while exploration is slated for Stonewall, Crockett and Sutton, and a reentry operation has been announced for Upton.

W. W. West of Midland completed No. 3 J. L. Hoffman as a Morris gas strike in Runnels, ⅝ mile northwest of an undesignated Morris sand gas strike, and in the P.W.C. (Serrat) oil pool. Pool designation of P.W.C. (Morris) has been suggested.

The well gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 2.692 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, on potential test taken natural, through perforations at 3,371-3,375 feet.

The project was scheduled in 1974 and 4½-inch casing was set at 3,732 feet. Top of the Morris was picked at 3,350 feet, under ground elevation of 1,757 feet.

Location is 712 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 161, ETRR survey.

WILDCATS SET

Enrich Oil Corp., Abilene, No. 1 C. D. Tekell is slated as a 5,100-foot prospector in Runnels, ½ mile north of a Gardner sand oil discovery.

It spots 467 feet from south and 3,200 feet from west lines of Samuel Hickman survey, abstract 588, 2½ miles southwest of Wilmeth.

Also, E. B. Fletcher of Dallas has scheduled No. 1-B Ronnie Poehls as a 4,950-foot venture, ½ mile southeast of production in the Deike (Fry) pool of Runnels.

Drillsite is 467 feet from north and 4,050 feet from east lines of C. D. Skidmore survey 13, 2½ miles south of Wingate.

STONEWALL TRY

G. F. Ray Jr., Dallas, No. 1 Minnie Berry has been slated as a 3,900-foot Tannehill prospector in Stonewall, six miles north and slightly east of Swenson.

It spots 330 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 256, block B, H&TC survey, 2¼ miles west of the Mullen Ranch multipay field.

CROCKETT TEST

John L. Cox of Midland accounted for a deep searcher to be drilled in Crockett, eight miles north of Iraan. It is No. 1 University.

Location is 1,650 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 8, block 13, ULS, ¾ mile north and slightly east of the Bouscaren (Strawn) field.

SUTTON PROJECT

HNG Oil Co. of Midland has announced location for No. 3-78 Brown, a scheduled 5,200-foot gas wildcat and ⅞-mile northeast outpost to Canyon production in the Sutton part of the Sawyer pool.

It spots 933 feet from north and 2,000 feet from east lines of section 78, block 14, TW&NG survey, 15 miles southeast of Sonora.

UPTON WORKOVER

The Upton reentry is planned by B. W. Wiseman Jr. of Midland. He intends to reenter and clean out to wildcat depth of 8,000 feet at No. 1 Long, a 9,091-foot failure, 2¾ miles southeast of the McCamey field.

Originally drilled by Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc., as No. 1 George Long, it was plugged and abandoned in June 1952.

Location is 565 feet from north and 712 feet from west lines of section 3, RT Co. survey, four miles east of McCamey.

LOVINGTON, N. M. — L. Dale Clark has joined Monument Energy Corp. as vice president of the company's solar energy subsidiary, New Mexico Solar Power, Inc., reports Winford Carlile, chairman of the board.

Seaway safe says skipper

CHERRY POINT, Wash. AP — The skipper of the first tanker to bring Prudhoe Bay crude oil south through Valdez Narrows says he doesn't consider the narrows to be a hazardous passage.

Capt. Emery McGowen, in an interview Friday aboard the 883-foot Arco Juneau, said in comparison with other places, Valdez Narrows "is real safe as far as handling a ship is concerned.

"Take the Houston Ship Channel, for instance. It is 400 feet wide; it's two-way traffic, with 40-feet depth. So, when you are traveling with a ship with 38 or 39 feet draft, you only have a couple of feet under the keel.

The narrows are 600 feet deep and 3,000 feet wide.

"To me, having been in the places I've been in the world, I think the narrows are real safe. I have no problems, I don't even consider there to be a hazard in navigating the narrows," said McGowen.

McGowen, who brought the Arco Juneau into the Atlantic Richfield Co. refinery dock here on Friday, also sought to allay the fears of those who believe the Alaska tanker trade will bring great harm to the rich fishery of Alaska's Prince William Sound.

"I can't speak for the industry, but I can speak for what Atlantic Richfield has done," said McGowen, a skipper for 41 of his 60 years, referring to the possibility of pollution.

"We do not pump anything over the side except clean water from our segregated ballast tanks, water that contains no oil or foreign materials.

"The bilge water and ballast water from the cargo tanks, water which contains oil, is discharged ashore in port, wherever we load. This has been Arco policy for years."

McGowen also said that the Coast Guard has established sea lanes for the Alaska tanker trade which avoid the heavily fished areas of Prince William Sound, and coastwise freighter routes.

"We have a southbound lane and a northbound lane from the Strait of Juan de Fuca to Middleton Island, and in Prince William Sound," he said.

"The lanes are 20 miles apart, so there'll be no possible interference among the tankers themselves, and the lanes at some places are 215 miles offshore.

"That alone means we will not interfere with the inshore fishing grounds, or the coastwise trade. What we have done is to try to avoid the fishing grounds.

"In Prince William Sound, the tanker lanes have several dog legs to avoid the main fishing areas. It means more distance to travel for the tankers, but what is distance as long as it's safe?"

McGowen said the Gulf of Alaska has some of the roughest water in the world from mid-October through mid-April, but he said he "thinks nothing of coming here myself.

"It's rough in winter, it's true, and the Coast Pilot's Log tells you that. But it doesn't bother me. I slow my ship down so we can ride the seas out when they're there, then when they calm down we can go on about it."

McGowen said that he has been on the gulf in storms with winds to 110 miles per hour and seas as high as 50 feet.

Devonian strike finals in Ward; Andrews gets well, Ector test set

Ward County gained a Devonian gas strike, and a pool extender; an oil producer was completed in an Andrews field, and a workover project has been scheduled for West Ector.

HNG Oil Co., Midland, No. 1-128 Lee, Ward County Devonian gas discovery, six miles east of Barstow, has been completed for a calculated, absolute open flow of 24 million cubic feet of dry gas per day.

Completion was through perforations at 17,820-17,828 feet, following 5,000 gallons of acid.

Drilled to 21,197 feet, it has been plugged back to 18,150 feet, in a 5-inch liner hung from 16,506-21,197 feet.

Top of the Devonian was picked at 17,518 feet, under ground elevation of 2,602 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from northwest and southwest lines of section 128, block 34, H&TC survey.

Gulf Oil Corp. has finaled its No. 1005 Hutchings Stock Association as a seventh Wolfcamp well and ⅜-mile southwest extension to that pay in the Wickett field of Ward County.

The 24-hour pumping potential was for nine barrels of 3S-gravity oil, plus 210 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio measering 2,000-1. It finaled through perforations at 8,102-8,252 feet, after acid treatment with 300 gallons on the pay zone.

Location is 660 feet from south and 3,125 feet fron east lines of section 100, block A, G&MMB&A survey, 2½ miles east of Wickett.

ANDREWS EXTENDER

Sun Oil Co. No. 9-11 University, former Devonian oiler, has been recompleted as a current third Wichita-Albany well in the Fullerton pool of Andrews, one mile southwest of Frankel City.

It finaled to pump 11 barrels of 28-gravity oil per day, no water, through perforations at 8,0508-8,080 feet. The pay section had been acidized with 3,000 gallons.

Location is 660 feet from north and 2,200 feet from east lines of section 29, block 13, ULS.

ECTOR REENTRY

Atlantic Richfield Co. has announced plans to reenter and plug back to 10,054 feet for recompletion attempt as a second current Strawn well in the Dora Roberts field, at No. 18-B-TG Roy Glass, Ector County Ellenburger oiler, 3½ miles southeast of Odessa.

It is 1⅝ mile northwest of the current lone Strawn well in the field, which is in Midland County.

Total depth of the project is 13,297 feet. It spots 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 32, block 41, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Discovery potentials

R. L. Foree, Dallas, No. 1 Gene Knabel has been finaled as a Strawn reef discovery in Fisher County, two miles west of Royston.

The 24-hour potential test gauged 96 barrels of 30-gravity oil, no water. Gas-oil ratio was 2,000-1, Completion was effected through perforations at 5,468-5,474 feet. Total depth is 5,600 feet, and 4½-inch casing was set on bottom. Top of the Strawn reef pay was picked at 5,250 feet, under ground elevation of 1,913 feet.

It is 2,921 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of S. Overby survey, Scrap File 1742, one mile east of Strawn sand oil production in the Sandy Hill pool.

Block 6 gets oil producer

Texaco Inc. No. 3-Z State of Texas has been completed as a fifth Devonian well and location east extension in the Block 6 field of Andrews County, 18 miles northeast of Andrews.

It finaled to pump 144 barrels of 42-gravity oil and 73 barrels of water per day, through perforations at 256-1, through perforations at 12,518-12,528 feet, which had been a total of 3,500 gallons.

Location is 2,080 feet from south and 2,360 feet from west lines of section 22, block 6, ULS.

Tom Green test finals

Florida Gas Exploration Co., operating from Midland, has announced completion of its No. 1 West Pate, a Caddo oil discovery, one location east of the discovery well in the depleted Eliza Baker, North (Caddo) gas field of Tom Green County.

The 24-hour flowing potential was for 75 barrels of 48-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio measuring 2,150-1. It finaled through perforations at 6,325-6,330 feet. Treatment was unreported. Drilled to 6,483 feet, it has 5½-inch casing set on bottom. Ground elevation is 2,236 feet.

Location is 570 feet from north and 2,080 feet from west lines of section 3, GC&SF survey, 12 miles north of San Angelo.

Purchase plan told

ODESSA — Petro-Lewis Corp. of Denver, Colo., has contracted to acquire all the outstanding capital stock of The Rodman Corp., Rodman Gas Co., and Rodman Oil Co., all of Odessa.

A letter of intent has been signed to acquire all the stock of Choate Gas Co. of Hennessey, Okla. The total to be paid for the stock of the four companies is $36.8 million.

Administration preparing to idle U.S. wheat farmland

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration is preparing a plan to combat the growing surplus of unsold U.S. wheat by idling millions of acres of productive farmland starting this fall.

Sources said an announcement of the first major land retirement program since 1973 could come soon, and in no case can be delayed much past the end of the month. About three quarters of the country's annual wheat crop is sowed in September and October, and wheat farmers from Texas to the Dakotas are now making final planting preparations.

Administration officials are aware of the humanitarian arguments against such a cutback in food output, given the persistence of world hunger. But they say the surplus is reaching such proportions that steps must be taken urgently to prevent the stockpiles from becoming unmanageable and more costly to taxpayers.

About 30 million metric tons of wheat harvested in 1976 — about half the U.S. crop — still have not been sold, and U.S. wheat farmers have just brought in another bumper crop of nearly 60 million additional tons.

This surplus, combined with good harvests and ample stocks abroad, have driven U.S. wheat prices in some locations down to $2 a bushel, the lowest level in five years. A four-year farm bill that will go to the President soon guarantees wheat farmers up to $3.10 a bushel, starting next year. Agricultural planners say that production cutbacks should help to revive the sluggish wheat markets, raise wheat prices, and reduce amount of money the government has to pay wheat farmers in 1978.

A number of countries, such as Argentina and Turkey, have been underselling the United States in world markets. Congressional sources said Monday that there is solid support for the administraiton's plan. They said the plan will signal to other countries the United States' refusal to hold a food reserve for the world in the form of unsold grain.

GS-5 worker charged with embezzlement

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — William C. Sibert, described by his coworkers and neighbors as a heavyset, "very likable" GS-5 who reviewed grant applications for the Department of Transportation, began showing up for work in new suits about two months ago.

Next, he began bragging about his new Lincoln Mark V Continental and the new Mercedes he had bought his wife. Then, he began inviting everyone in his office to go to lunch with him — his treat — at restaurants along the wharf in Southwest Washington.

That was too much for his superiors, who began an investigation into Sibert's sudden affluence. Unknown to them, the Secret Service and the FBI already had begun a similar probe based on tips from informants about Sibert's spending sprees.

Last Friday the 30-year-old Sibert, who lives in Clinton, Md., was arrested and charged with embezzlement of government funds when he arrived in Las Vegas with $59,000 in cash. He is currently being held in Nevada on $100,000 bond but has agreed to return to Washington voluntarily to face prosecution.

Federal agents are attempting to determine the exact amount of money Sibert allegedly stole from the government. The agents say they have accounted for $850,000, which Sibert is alleged to have spent over the last two months on a fleet of at least 12 luxury cars, a new house with a swimming pool and the purchase of a topless bar about one block from FBI headquarters here.

Investigators said they also had impounded a 30-foot houseboat Sibert had purchased recently, and had also learned of extensive recent real estate purchases by Sibert here and in the Western United States. "We're finding more property by the hour," one agent said.

Arrested with Sibert in Las Vegas Friday was Lois A. Benson, 30, of Capitol Heights, Md. She was released on personal recognizance and ordered to report to Washington to face charges.

Also arrested Friday was Sibert's wife, 23. Charges against Mrs. Sibert were dropped Monday, however.

Detailed affidavits filed in support of Sibert's arrest outlined a scheme in which he would divert to his own personal bank account Urban Mass Transit Administration money allegedly intended for the Atlanta subway system.

Another affidavit filed after the arrest and authorizing a search warrant for three rooms rented by Sibert at the Capitol Hilton Hotel at 16th and K Streets NW stated that Sibert admitted the embezzlement scheme to FBI agents after he was arrested in Las Vegas.

FBI investigating Las Vegas office after complaints

The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — Complaints about FBI agents accepting "freebies" and becoming cozy with organized crime figures spurred a recent internal probe of the bureau's Las Vegas field office, The Los Angeles Times has learned.

Although the FBI refused to discuss any details of the investigation Director Clarence M. Kelley confirmed such a probe had been conducted. He said the results of the inquiry are being reviewed for possible disciplinary action.

The investigation, launched in mid-June, was based on allegations that FBI field agents were accepting free meals, complimentary show tickets lodging and other gratuities from the owners and operators of various hotels and gambling casinos, according to one source.

"Hell, some of our agents are playing footsie with the same bastards we're trying to put in jail," said one agent who asked not to be identified.

Many of the complaints about the agents' activities came from the U.S. Attorney's office, various federal law enforcement agencies and other FBI field offices, a source told The Times.

"FBI field offices outside of Las Vegas were even refusing to share criminal intelligence information with the bureau office in Las Vegas because they were afraid of leaks," one federal source said.

"They didn't want sensitive information to get into the wrong hands.

A team of agents, headed by Robert J. McCarthy, special agent in charge of the organized crime and white collar crime division in the Los Angeles field office, spent almost a month investigating allegations against Las Vegas agents.

A number of FBI agents assigned to the Las Vegas office were subjected to lengthy interrogation and several sought legal advice from assistant U.S. attorneys assigned to the gambling center.

One of the principal complaints made to FBI headquarters in Washington, D.C., was that many of the field agents assigned to Las Vegas had been on the same job since the 1950s, "and over the years had developed friendships with some of the same people they were supposed to be watching."

Also troubling was the fact that a number of FBI agents had retired in Las Vegas and taken security positions or other jobs with various gambling casinos.

Acceptance of complimentary meals, shows and lodging wasn't limited to FBI agents assigned to Las Vegas, a source told The Times.

"Hell, this became a regular stopover for a lot of people, from agents to inspectors, because there was always somebody who could arrange a freebie or two," the same source explained.

Among the most serious allegations uncovered by The Times was that the close relationship between certain FBI agents and various organized crime figures may have compromised at least two important criminal investigations.

Kelley, however, speaking through a bureau spokesman, denied the allegation.

"An internal inquiry has been conducted into certain allegations concerning the Las Vegas office of the FBI," the director told The Times.

"The results of this inquiry revealed no criminality or serious misconduct on the part of bureau employes. However, there were several violations of FBI rules and procedures.

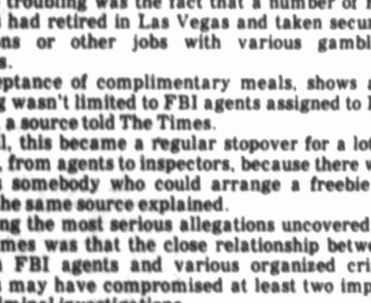

"The results of the inquiry are being reviewed for possible disciplinary action against those employes who violated such rules and procedures."

Kelley refused to elaborate on the nature of the violations or what disciplinary action is planned.

The Times has learned, however, that certain guidelines are being established by the FBI to cover assignment to the 45-agent Las Vegas office.

Retirements and resignations, frozen during the internal probe, have been thawed and a number of senior agents assigned to Las Vegas are expected to retire in the near future, according to one source.

Western fires drought upshot

Washington Post

SACRAMENTO — the uncontrolled fires blackening vast expanses of California countryside are the product of the great drought that has gripped the region, and now, officials fear, they may be setting the stage for future years of drought and fire.

Weary officials of the Inter-agency Command Center, coordinating firefighting efforts here, said Monday that the fires, which have destroyed 250,000 acres of forest and grassland in California since July 25, are damaging valuable watersheds that had been counted upon to help the state recover from the drought this winter.

Vegetation on the steep California hillsides preserves water and prevents eroision of the topsoil. With the vegetation gone, officials fear the hillsare likely to erode and fill near-empty reservoirs with silt instead of water.

"There is a great risk of siltation," said Richard Serino, a spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service. "With the ground cover gone, we're going to have a problem in water quality."

The only bright spot from the standpoint of erosion control is that the fires have arrived so early that the Forst Service anticipates that there will be time before the winter rains to reseed with grass and to build small diversion dams to prevent erosion.

Whether this is successful or not, Serino said, will depend on whether the rain falls gently, minimizing eroision, or arrives in a series of thunderstorms.

It was the lightning accompanying thundestorms that caused the two big fires continuing to blaze out of control in California.

The worst of these is the Marble Cone fire near Big Sur, which already has blackened more than 77,000 acres of Los Padres National Forest and the Vedanta Wilderness near Big Sur. The fire is only one-third contained and officials had no estimate on when it would be brought under control.

The other big California fire, Scarface in the northeastern corner of the state, was reported nearing control after destroying more than 80,000 acres. Smoke from this fire could be seen in Utah 500 miles away.

Smaller fires in Oregon, Arizona and Nevada were near containment today. But fires continue to burn in Alaska, across 1.5 million acres of range and tundra in an area the size of Delaware.

However, the Big Salt Fire, which once appeared to threaten the trans-Alaska oil pipeline north of the Yukon River, was described as "no longer a threat at all" by Kerry Cartier, a spokesman for the Burau of Land Management. Overall, Alaskan firefighters were aided by rain and cooler weather, Cartier said.

No such natural help was on the horizon in California.

Washington Post staff writer Cynthia Gorney, accompanying firefighting crews battling the Marble Cone fire, filed this report from Flores Camp high atop a ridge overlooking the Pacific Ocean:

"As you come down the California coast toward Big Sur there is a point south of Pebble Beach where the fog doesn't feel right. Suddenly, you realize it's a combination of fog and smoke and catch the acrid smell of the burning.

"The Big Sur fire is in a steep, inaccessible area and it is hard for firefighters to find the fire they're battling. I heard one of them say he hadn't seen the fire in three days.

"Marble Cone started as two separate lightning-caused fires which met on a ridge and produced a column of smoke 14,000 feet high. There are 3,550 people battling it, using 57 engines, 31 bulldozers, 14 helicopters, seven air tankers and 12 ground tankers. It's like a war."

In an effort to win that war, hundreds of firefighters were rushed to California to join a force of 10,000 already on the fire lines. The entire state is on "Manning Pattern C," the code words used by firefighting agencies to indicate that everyone is on duty. Firefighters from 48 to the 50 states are working in California.

Serino said that fire suppression costs in California already have topped $8 million and that damage losses will be many times that figure. He said the heavy loss of lumber also will put pressure for increased timber-cutting on other national forcests.

As the drought has already done, the fires are bringing home to the West the realization that man's natural world is an interdependent one where each supposed act of conservation has a consequence.

For instance, firefighting techniques have become so effective inrecent years that underbrush has accumulated in California forests, providing fuel for the recent series of blazes. The underbrush has been a particular problem in Los Padres National Forest, portions of which have not suffered any fire since 1896.

In Arizona, officials are worried about heavy runoff when storms do come because of the absence of any ground cover. Arizona's manmade defenses against fire are stretched thin, officials said, because 1,600 firefighters are on loan to California and the northwest states.

A series f lightning strikes, such as those that caused fires in Arizona and New Mexico earlier in the year, would force Arizona to borrow firefighters from elsewhere.

The shortage of firefighters was contributing to the size of the blazes. Myron Lee, managing the firefight in the Marble Cone blaze, was forced to adopt a strategy designed to protect the watersheds of Carmel and Monterey but, in Lee's words, "conceivably doubling the size of the fire."

Elsewhere in California, fires were steadily being brought under control Monday. Three of four big fires extending in a southwestern arc from Mt. Shasta to near the Nevada state line were described as near containment.

The exception was Eagle's Lake, near Susanville, which had burned 7,000 acres. In southern California, the Bonita fire continued to burn out of control near Sequoia National Park, after blackening 7,500 acres.

In Oregon, firefighters were making headway against the Lost Fire, near the California border, which had burned 7,760 acres. Crews battled smaller fires in Oregon, Washington and Utah.

Fire danger warnings were up throughout the West. "No smoking" and "no charcoal fires" signs will be posted Wednesday in three major Arizona national forests. The signs have been in effect for weeks in California and the northwest. One sign in northern California reads: "In Chicago a cow did it, in California people did it."

Actually, people have been responsible for few of the present crop of forest fires, in part because the danger is widely recognized and in part because carelesseness is dealt with severely.

All of the major fires now going in California were caused by lightning. When a man who was target shooting started a fire Sunday on the edge of the San Bernardino National Forest, he was immediately arrested on federal charges.

Panama Canal treaty talks close ground

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — U.S. and Panamanian negotiators closed ground on remaining unresolved issues in their first day of resumed talks on a new Panama Canal treaty, sources close to the negotiations said.

The negotiators were scheduled to meet again today in what both sides expect will be the final round of talks on a new treaty eventually turning control of the waterway over to Panama.

Both sides have said a "statement of conceptual agreements" may be initialed as early as Wednesday. It would set out the main principles of an agreement after 13 years of intermittent negotiations.

The Panamanians presented their version of a draft treaty to chief U.S. negotiators Sol Linowitz and Ellsworth Bunker when the talks were reconvened Monday. The proposal was made in response to a U.S. draft offered July 10.

"I think the U.S. reaction is positive so far," Panamanian negotiator Nicolas Barletta, minister for economic planning, said after the first day's talks.

The sources said the remaining major issues were technical problems included in the treaty "annex," a document of an estimated 240 pages that will be appended to the treaty, expected to be 60 pages long.

These issues include details of the transfer of lands and waters in the Canal Zone to Panama, and the methods for delivering a reportedly agreedupon U.S. economic aid package to Panama, they said.

The treaty will also be accompanied by a separate "neutrality accord" in which Panama will declare the 63-yearold waterway open to ships of all nations.

"Let's say we are working toward cleaning the draft of the treaties presented by both sides," said Panamanian negotiator Aristides Royo.

An official close to the Panamanian delegation said an economic agreement reached last weekend, reportedly breaking a negotiating stalemate, calls for the United States to increase the amount it pays for use of the canal and the zone to $50 million a year from $2.3 million. He said the package would also include hundreds of millions of dollars in lump-sum U.S. aid.

The existing treaty, signed in 1903, gives the United States perpetual control of the canal. Panamanian negotiators say the new pact provides for the gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops by the year 2000. Thereafter, the United States would reserve the right to intervene militarily if the canal is threatened by a third nation.

Weather spawns water

By The Associated Press

Unsettled weather brought bands of thunderstorms across the central and eastern parts of the nation today, prompting a flash flood watch in parts of Iowa and a funnel cloud north of Lincoln, Neb.

The storms were clustered across the Oklahoma Panhandle from northeast New Mexico into southwest Kansas. Other storms were reported from South Dakota southeast across Missouri to northwest Georgia.

Diminishing thunderstorm activity was reported along the East Coast from Long Island, New York to North Carolina. Scattered showers and thundershowers were located over New England, offshore along the Gulf of Mexico, in the northern Rockies and from central Arizona to northwest Texas.

THE TEXAS Rangers and Oakland A's go at it in a little ball yard brawl Monday night at Arlington Stadium. The Rangers, hot as a pistol, swept a pair from their West coast rivals, and trail Chicago by just two and a half games. Story on 3-B. (AP Laserphoto)

Cubs blow chance for share of first

BY TED BATTLES

Talk about living proof that a baseball game isn't over until that final out, Midland's 9-7 loss to San Antonio is offered as Exhibit A.

The Cubs took a 7-6 lead into the ninth inning and after a couple of dazzling fielding plays by third baseman Mike Umfleet and shortstop Steve Davis, had two out.

It was announced to the Cubs Stadium faithful over the P.A., that Amarillo was pounding El Paso, again, 12-4 in the eighth and all the Cubs needed was that last out to move into a virtual tie for first place in the Texas League West Division race.

A FEW minutes later when everybody regained consciousness after the carnage, San Antonio, not Midland, was in first place and the Cubs were a game and a half back.

Charles Meyers greeted the P. A. revelation with a double and then Ted Farr put the Dodgers ahead 8-7 with his second homer of the night, third in two nights and 15th of the year.

Maybe it was only poetic justice. The Cubs struck in the late innings of the first three games to pull out wins and while they led going into the waning stages of Monday's game, the Cubs runs were as much a result of sloppy San Antonio play afield as Midland hitting.

Lefthander Marty Kunkler, 5-6, picked up the win while Byron Wilkerson, 5-5, the Cubs third pitcher, was tagged for the loss.

"The announcement about El Paso had no effect on me or what I was trying to do," Farr said later.

"MIDLAND WAS the team we had to beat. We'll worry about El Paso when we play them."

A fifth year pro signed out of high school in Spokane, Wash., the 22-year-old Farr hit a three-run homer Sunday to give San Antonio a 6-3 lead only to have it topped by Steve Davis' grand slam in the home eighth.

This time the Cubs couldn't match his double-barreled barrage. Farr's two run homer to left in the eighth whittled Midland's lead to 7-6 and came off Larry Groover.

"It was a fast ball and I think it was hit well enough to go out of most any park. The one in the ninth was wind aided. I wasn't thinking homer. I was just trying to get it up in the air"' Farr said.

"WILKERSON HAS a funny delivery. It's almost as though he's quick-pitching you. That's what I was complaining to the umpire about on the first pitch"' Farr explained. "It was the kind of fastball I was looking for, but it was on me so fast, I wasn't ready."

A couple of pitches later, Farr was ready when Byron hung a curve.

Midland led 4-1 going into the sixth when first baseman Cleo Smith tagged starter Randy Martz for a two-run homer. San Antonio tied it in the seventh in chasing Martz, the Cubs' No. 1 draft choice from South Carolina, on a couple of infield hits, a walk and an error. Groover came in with the bases loaded to get the final out.

Midland struck against Mike Seberger for three runs in the seventh for a 7-4 lead as Kurt Siebert singled, Joe Hernandez singled and Karl Pagel walked to load the bases.

Umfleet's fly scored one run and two more raced home as Rick Oller dropped Aaron Randall's pop up to short left.

That brought Farr riding to the rescue.

"Mark Hance started the season as the regular catcher," said Farr who spent last year in the California, Eastern and Pacific Coast League and wound up with 10 homers. "Then Mark went into a slump and I got my chance. Now we split the job, usually depending on who's going good or whether we won or lost the day before. I play a lot in Midland, El Paso and Amarillo because of the wind and I'm a fly ball hitter."

CUB PRINTS — Andy Muhlstock, 8-4, will hurl for the Cubs in the finale of the five-game series while Dan Smith, 5-1, or Mike Martin , 6-5, probably will go for the Dodgers... The Cubs embark upon a 10-game road trip Wednesday....Midland is a game and a half out of first and a game out of second, quite an improvement over the start of the series when they were four back...

The Cubs return home August 20 for a final 10-game stand against Amarillo and El Paso...

'Mr. Cub' enters Hall of Fame

By BOB GREENE

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — "Words almost fail here," Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said as he introduced Ernie Banks to an overflowing throng that witnessed induction ceremonies for the six newest members of baseball's Hall of Fame.

"They called him 'Mr. Cub,'" Kuhn said.

No other introduction was necessary on Monday for the former Chicago Cubs infielder who blasted 512 home runs in his 19-year major league career.

"We got the setting—sunshine, fresh air, the team behind us. So let's play two," Banks said, eliciting a roar of approval from the crowd which included some 600 Cubs' fans who had come to this upstate New York village in the Adirondack Mountains.

They remembered a Babe Ruth home run in Yankee Stadium, a Jackie Robinson steal of home, a Sandy Koufax no-hitter. Now it was Ernie Banks entering the Hall of Fame.

"He had the movements of a great watch," Judy Johnson, a Hall of Famer himself, said about Banks. "You set it today and it keeps perfect time. "Banks was one of the best baseball competitors we've ever had. I have never heard any bad remarks about him. He was and is a gentleman."

The crowd in the tree-shaded park agreed. One fan held up a sign proclaiming "America Loves Ernie Banks."

Also receiving plaques at the dedication ceremonies were Al Lopez, Joe Sewell, Amos Rusie, Martin Dihigo and John Henry "Pop" Lloyd, swelling the Hall's membership to 163. Rusie, Dihigo and Lloyd were honored posthumously.

Lopez, who caught more major league games than anyone, was honored for his managerial skills. In the 16 years he managed the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, his teams won two American League pennants and finished second 10 times.

Dihigo is the first Cuban to be enshrined in the Hall. Accepting his plaque was his cousin, Jose Valdivielso, a former pitcher with the Washington Senators. Two men unfurled a Cuban flag when Valdivielso approached the podium.

John Amos Rusie accepted for his uncle and James Ursury of Atlantic City, N.J., where a baseball field is named for Lloyd, accepted for the former Negro League infielder.

In the 35th annual Hall of Fame exhibition game played at Doubleday Field, built on the site where the first baseball game was reportedly played, the Minnesota Twins used home runs by Terry Bulling, Lyman Bostock and Bob Gorinski and three innings of no-hit pitching by Gary Serum to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 8-5.

Before the game, broadcaster Mel Allen introduced members of the Hall of Fame who had returned to Cooperstown: Charley Gehringer, Bill Terry, Joe Cronin, Bob Feller, Luke Appling, Burleigh Grimes, Red Ruffing, Lloyd Waner, Roy Campanella, Stan Coveleski, Stan Musial, Rube Marquard, Buck Leonard, Monte Irvin, George Kelly, Cool Papa Bell, Jocko Conlan, Whitey Ford, Earle Averill, Billy Herman, Judy Johnson, Cal Hubbard, Fred Lindstrom and Robin Roberts.

Boy asks, Murcer answers

CALUMET CITY, Ill. (AP) — Scott Crull can't shout and holler over the little he has to be joyous about. But what Bobby Murcer did for him Monday night over national television was "the best thing of my life."

What Murcer did was fulfill a wish from the seriously ill boy earlier Monday—and then some. The Chicago Cubs right fielder had told him he would try to hit a home run and a double; he delivered two homers. The bombs came during a game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Murcer's— and Scott's—Cubs.

"It was obvious from his smile, Scott was pleased about it," said Mrs. Dwight Crull, mother of the 12-year-old, after the second of Murcer's solo blasts. "He can't holler and yell like the other kids because his lungs are affected.

"Bobby Murcer is sure putting on a show for him."

After the game, she added, "He just said, 'I guess that one's for me.' He was a little thrilled about that. It just meant everything to him. He's a little short of breath and he can't yell and holler."

In his first two times at bat against the Pirates, Murcer drove a pair of solo home runs over the right-field wall off Pirate pitcher Bruce Kison.

In the locker room before the game, Murcer had talked by telephone with the bedridden youth. The call came about after a friend of the youth's family contacted Buck Peden, the Cubs' publicity director. Murcer had never met the youth.

San Antonio takes over TL top spot

By The Associated Press

Ivan Murrell rifled a pair of three-run homers and Bobby Mitchell drilled a grand slam shot as the Amarillo Gold Sox outslugged El Paso, 12-8, for the second straight day, knocking the Diablos out of first place in the Texas League West.

In other Texas League action, Jackson edged Tulsa 3-2, San Antonio got by Midland, 9-7 and Shreveport clubbed Arkansas 16-1.

On Sunday, Amarillo threw up a 20-hit attack, including another homer by Murrell, to outscore El Paso 13-12. The two losses to the last place Gold Sox dropped the slumping Diablos into second place behind San Antonio.

Amarillo held a 12-3 lead after six innings, but the Diablos rallied behind homers by Tommy Smith, Floyd Rayford and Carney Lansford. Mike Lentz, 3-5, was the winner and El Paso starter Jim Dorsey gave up nine runs and absorbed the loss.

Jim Kidder went hitless and was the only Shreveport player who didn't collect two hits as the Captains exploded for 21 hits over the Travelers. Doe Boyland and John Dean clubbed homers for the Captains.

Rick Honeycutt, 9-6, was the winner and Danny O'Brian, 5-8, bore the brunt of Shreveport's bats and took the loss.

Marshall Brandt lashed a run-scoring single in the bottom of the eighth inning that gave Jackson its margin over Tulsa. Jackson's Ron Berenguer, 7-7, went the distance, allowing only six Driller hits.

Mark Soroko, 4-3, was the loser. One of Tulsa's runs came on a solo home run by Rick Lisi.

In tonight's action, Arkansas entertains Shreveport, Tulsa travels to Jackson, Amarillo hosts El Paso and San Antonio travels to Midland.

Reds, press at odds?

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Bench, denying reports of trouble between the Cincinnati Reds and their press corps, calls it a case of clubhouse jousting being taken too seriously.

"Sure there was some yelling in the clubhouse, but that goes on all the time," Bench said Monday, reacting to an Associated Press story that said the world champions have been feuding with writers.

"No one takes it seriously," Bench told The Cincinnati Enquirer.

Annoyed over critical stories, Bench, backup catcher Bill Plummer and Dave Concepcion had words with reporters last week.

Bench and Plummer labeled one writer "a cheap shot artist" after reading a story pinned up on the clubhouse bullein board.

They were unhappy with recent stories written by Hal McCoy of the Dayton Daily News. McCoy contends the Reds' collapse this season is due to complacency, poor attitude and blatant disregard of curfews.

Prothro lets QB Fouts go

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "The game of football had been going a long time before Dan Fouts ever played it," says Coach Tommy Prothro of the San Diego Chargers in dropping the player listed as his No.1 quarterback.

Fouts, and running back Mercury Morris were placed in a "reserved, did not report" status Monday by the National Football League team.

SPORTS CHATTER

Dorsett: open and honest

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

IRVING — Tony Dorsett hasn't exactly been hard up for company the past four weeks. Since reporting to the Dallas Cowboy training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif., last month, the highly-acclaimed rookie has had members of the press at his side almost constantly.

Why, Sports Illustrated Magazine even sent a photographer out to the coast for two weeks to do nothing but follow Tony around and take his picture. I won't say he followed him around everywhere, but let me put it this way. He knew what Dorsett read when he went to the john.

It's Tony's own fault though. He blew his chance for privacy when he went and did a dumb thing like rushing for an NCAA-record 6,082 yards and scoring 58 touchdowns during a prolific collegiate career at Pittsburgh. He was the first runner in the NCAA ranks to have four 1,000 yard rushing years, and he was also the first player to string together three 1,500 yard seasons.

To make matters worse, Tony went and signed the first million dollar contract in Cowboy history earlier this year. So, it's easy to see why he is probably one of the most closely scrutinized athletes to enter the National Football League in quite some time.

OBVIOUSLY, THE rookie was expecting all of this attention when he came to camp, and he's handled himself like a professional with the press.

"He's twice as poised and articulate as a Yale graduate we used to have around here — Calvin Hill," explained Steve Perkins, a Dallas free-lance writer who has been with the Cowboys since the first day of training camp.

Frank Luksa, the respected football writer for the Dallas Times-Herald added: "It's hard to find substantive negatives on Dorsett. He's a man with very little pretense and he's an honest interview."

What it all comes down to is that Dorsett has been totally honest and straight-forward with the media, and that has earned him a great deal of respect thus far. "I was a communications major at Pittsburgh," Dorsett said, trying to explain the good rapore he's had with the press. "I've always wanted to go into broadcasting. So I enjoy going one-on-one with reporters and other media people. And I think I can handle any question now without sticking my foot in my mouth."

EVEN WHEN the questions get a little personal, which they often do, Dorsett doesn't flinch. Since turning professional, the story of Dorsett's young son has gained national publicity. But he doesn't mind, and talks proudly of Anthony Drew Dorsett, Jr., his five-year-old offspring who lives with his mother, Karen Casterlow, back in Weirton, W. Va.

"I pray sometimes that I can get him and take him with me," he said. "But I don't think that would be possible as long as the mother is living and is a fit mother. Which she is."

And he has no bitterness toward the mother. "I dated Karen for nine years. It was one of those childhood sweetheart romances, but it just didn't work out," he admitted.

There have been times obviously, when Dorsett hasn't quite felt like talking. Saturday night was probably one of them. He had been impressive in his professional debut at Texas Stadium, gaining 26 yards on seven carries, and catching a 15-yard pass against the San Diego Chargers. But late in the third quarter, he reinjured the left knee that's been bothering him for the past two weeks, and he was through for the night.

DESPITE A forced smile, the young man couldn't hide his personal frustration over the injury as he was quizzed by reporters in the dressing room. Ironically, it was only three weeks earlier that he boasted, "I am the most durable back in the history of college football...I've worked hard to make myself strong." A few days after that claim, he bruised the knee in practice, and it hasn't healed since.

But he talked warmly with the press Saturday night, and answered their questions politely. Tony proved he's no dummy either. He gave a great deal of credit to his offensive line for the brief success he had out on the artificial surface of Texas Stadium earlier, a la O.J. Simpson.

The injury is a tough break for a player who has displayed an intense desire thus far to prove he's as good as his college stats claim. Many critics have knocked his size — 5-foot-11 and 190 pounds — which is the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard of. What damn difference would another inch make? All it would mean is that Tony would get wet a little quicker when it rained.

DORSETT HAS worked hard thus far, trying to improve on two of the possible shortcomings in his game — blocking and receiving. It's not that Tony can't do either one, but it's just that he hasn't had much practice at them. Heisman Trophy winning running backs aren't asked to block much in college, and they never wasted time throwing passes to him at Pitt, when it was so much easier just to put the ball under his arm and point him toward the goal line.

"It's too early to be positive," said Cowboy offensive coordinator Dan Reeves recently. "But as a running back, he has the three things the good ones all have. First of all, he does things so easily. No matter what he has to do, he isn't exerting much effort. He also has the great acceleration that means so much in football. And he can make the full speed cut.

"Very few runners have ever had the skill and balance to change direction without loss of speed — O.J. Simpson, Gale Sayers, maybe one or two others — and even Sayers cut kind of jerky. Tony does it so smoothly."

On the field and off, Tony Dorsett is showing a lot of class in his first month as a Dallas Cowboy.

Tony to miss Seattle contest

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have decided not to take any chances with the $1.2 million legs of their top draft choice, rookie running back Tony Dorsett.

Cowboy Head Coach Tom Landry said Monday that Dorsett will be held out of contact work for the next week to 10 days so his bruised left knee will have time to heal.

Dorsett, the 1976 Heisman Trophy winner who came to Dallas via a deal with the Seattle Seahawks, will also miss Saturday's Dallas-Seattle pre-season game in Seattle, Landry added.

Dorsett aggravated a bruised left knee in Dallas' 34-14, preseason-opening victory over San Diego last Saturday. He had first injured the knee on July 21 in a rookie scrimmage with San Diego.

"We decided that the best way to get Tony back to 100 per cent was to make sure he didn't get the knee hit again for at least a week," said Landry.

"I feel certain that with the running and conditioning work he will be doing during that period, the problem should be completely cleared up," Landry added.

Dorsett, who has signed a long-term contract estimated at $1.2 million, carried seven times for 26 yards and caught a pass for 15 yards last Saturday in playing less than one quarter.

Second-year wide receiver Percy Howard was placed Monday on the "physically unable to perform" list.

Oilers manhandled by Oakland, 40-0

OAKLAND (AP) — Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini didn't like it, but he was impressed with the way the world champion Oakland Raiders manhandled the Oilers.

"Whenever you are the Super Bowl champions you have to go out and play with some kind of arrogance or confidence, whatever you want to call it," Pastorini said, "they have it."

"We wanted to do that," responded Oakland Coach John Madden. "That's one of the things we feel is important — no matter what you do, you have to play like champions."

Pastorini spent most of his time watching from the sidelines Monday night as the Raiders humbled the Oilers 40-0 in the exhibition season opener for both teams.

"One thing I was afraid of last week in practice came true — we peaked too early," said Houston Coach Bum Phillips. "We should have played this game last Thursday. It would have been quite different. We lost our fire somewhere in the air between Houston and Oakland."

The Raiders dominated the entire game, picking up 393 yards in total offense and 26 first downs to 142 yards and eight first downs for the Oilers. The only time Houston looked at all impressive was when third-string quarterback Karl Douglas entered the game in the fourth period.

Winning trophies is becoming old hat for this talented Argentine, Guillermo Vilas. Monday night, he reeled off his fourth tournament title in as many tries, and extended his match streak to 29 (AP Laserphoto)

Vilas on tear; keeps winning

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Guillermo Vilas heads off to a new clay court tournament seeking to continue streaks of 29 straight match victories on clay and four consecutive tournament triumphs.

The latest notch came Monday when he whipped Roscoe Tanner 6-4, 6-2 in the finals of an $85,000 tennis open.

The $15,000 first prize pushed the 24-year-old Vilas' earnings this year close to $275,000.

"I'm not really, really fresh," said Vilas, who's been playing virtually nonstop for the past 30 days. "But I feel real good."

Vilas and Tanner were seeded first and second in the tournament.

With his big serve working well, Tanner powered to a 4-3 lead in the first set, scoring two aces in the seventh game.

Tanner kept Vilas deep and was able to smash the Argentine's weak returns of his booming serves. Tanner's cannon cooled, however, and he began missing on first service.

Vilas then began controlling the pace with a variety of backhand and forehand drives to the corners while alternating the speed of his shots. Vilas out-volleyed his 26-year-old opponent from Kaiwah Island, S.C., and swept three straight games to take the set.

Tanner warmed-up briefly and jumped to a 2-1 lead in the second set.

The opportunistic Vilas began controlling the pace again and took the last five games with superior volleys.

"He plays the kind of game that's difficult for me to play," Tanner said after the match. "You can't develop a rhythm because he puts a lot of topspin on the ball and it never comes straight at you."

Tanner, who lost in the finals here last year to Ilie Nastase, summed the match up by saying, "Vilas just had very accurate shots. He is difficult to come in on."

Vilas said he was surprised when Tanner, who was playing well in the first set, started making mistakes. "He didn't attack as much as I thought he would and I just kept the ball in play," the winner said.

Vilas said he will play this week in the Buckeye Open at Columbus, Ohio, but is looking forward to the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, which begins Aug. 31.

Is he looking to beat Bjorn Borg or Jimmy Connors to prove he's the best in the world? "No, I'm not pointing for anybody in particular. I'm just pointing to win Forest Hills," he said.

In the doubles final, Colin Dibley of Australia and Wojtek Fibak of Poland defeated Vilas and Ion Tiriac of Romania 6-1, 7-5.

Late boot helps 'Skins

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mark Moseley, who earlier missed a pair of field goals and an extra point try, booted a 29-yard field goal with 20 seconds remaining to give the Washington Redskins a 16-14 victory over the Cleveland Browns Monday night in the opening National Football League pre-season game for both teams.

The Browns nursed a 14-13 lead through most of the second half and appeared to have the game sealed up when rookie kicker Greg Coleman nailed the Redskins with a punt which went out of bounds at the Washington six yard line.

Quarterback Joe Theismann, who took over midway in the second period from starter Billy Kilmer, drove the Redskins quickly downfield with some pinpoint passing to wide receiver Danny Buggs.

National Bank wins

LAMESA — Midland National Bank, led by all-tourney players Don Thompson, Don Haney and Buzz Cupp, swept through five opponents to repeat as champion of the Lamesa Softball Tournament over the weekend.

MNB defeated Sutton's of Lamesa, 21-8; Snyder Athletic Club, 17-6; Wild Bunch, Lubbock, 24-20; Bad Co., of Lubbock, 20-19, and Bad Co. Lubbock, 37-19, in the championship game.

Quarterbacks could make SWC difference

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The football coaches in the Southwest Conference agree that Houston, Texas Tech and Texas A&M should be picked at the top in the league race and they agree on the reasons:

Danny Davis, Rodney Allison, and David Walker.

"Most of the time when you don't know what's going to happen, you lean toward the team with a quarterback and that's not a bad way to lean," said Houston coach Bill Yeoman.

Houston and Tech tied for the championship last year 7-1. A&M was third at 6-2. Each of the three wound up 10-2 after the bowl games.

Davis quarterbacked Houston. Allison guided Tech and Walker was A&M's quarterback. Davis is a junior. Allison and Walker are seniors.

"In examining the teams on paper, the difference seems to be that all three have experienced winners at quarterback," said Fred Akers, Texas' new coach. "We don't have a proven winner at quarterback, but let me point out that neither did those three a year ago."

The coaches, interviewed recently prior to a luncheon in Little Rock, agreed that Texas, Arkansas and Baylor should be assigned the darkhorse role and that Southern Methodist University, Texas Christian University and Rice appeared to be at the bottom.

No one was counting on any of the middle three.

"Don't be surprised if the winner comes out of the middle," said SMU's Ron Meyer. "Who picked Baylor in 1974? Who picked Arkansas in 1975? Who picked Houston in 1976?"

"I think Arkansas and Texas are going to be back," Yeoman said. "They were stunned a little bit and their people are not going to stand for it. The intensity will be stronger."

Texas was 4-4 in league play last year and Arkansas was 3-4-1.

Yeoman also said he believed Texas had the best college football player in the country in running back Earl Campbell.

"I don't know how you can really pick somebody like Arkansas or Texas to finish fourth, fifth or sixth," said A&M coach Emory Bellard.

"Speaking on behalf of A&M, we'll be a factor," Bellard said. "We'll have an effect on the race. At the end of the season, Walker was playing as good as anybody."

"A healthy Earl Campbell could make a bit of a difference," said Baylor coach Grant Teaff. "(Ron) Calcagni has a chance to be a great quarterback to go along with those running backs at Arkansas, and the way (coach) Lou Holtz moves the ball, they could win it."

Teaff says five of Baylor's first six ball games are against bowl teams. "After that, we could either be a quivering mass or a pretty good football team," Teaff said.

"We've been picked fifth the last couple of years and being picked so high makes me nervous," said Tech coach Steve Sloan. "I don't know what effect it will have on the team, but we should be picked somewhere in the upper part.

"Texas A&M and Houston look tremendous out of the blocks," Sloan said. "I believe Houton and A&M will be in the top 15 in the country at the end of the year. And, I don't think it's too wise a decision to relegate Arkansas and Texas to fourth and fifth."

Golfers elected to Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — Carol Mann and Sandra Haynie have been elected to the Ladies Professional Golf Association's Hall of Fame, LPGA Commissioner Ray Volpe announced Monday.

Formal induction ceremonies for the two golfers, the eighth and ninth members of the LPGA Hall of Fame, will be held Aug. 22 in Pinehurst, N.C., new site of the World Golf Hall of Fame. The LPGA hall now is located at Augusta, Ga.

Miss Mann, a resident of Towson, Md., first joined the LPGA in 1961. She has won 38 tournaments in her career, including the U.S. Women's Open in 1965.

She also served two terms as president of the LPGA and shares the 54-hole women's record for low score with a 200 in the 1968 Lady Carling Open.

Miss Haynie, of Dallas, also joined the LPGA in 1961 and has won 39 tournaments, including the U.S. Open in 1974.

"Carol and Sandra are not only exceptional ladies on and off the course, they represent everything champions should be," said Volpe.

O. J. gets clean bill of health

BUFFALO (AP) — Buffalo Bills fans can breathe easy again.

Fears that intermittently blurred vision would keep "The Juice" from playing football were eased Monday. The Bills announced the results of tests showing that O.J. Simpson has nearly perfect eyesight, despite an apparently minor problem in his left eye.

The problem "will not require treatment and will have no effect on Simpson's football future," the National Football League club announced after Simpson was tested at Johns Hopkins University's Wilmer Eye Clinic in Baltimore.

Dr. Walter Stark, an institute specialist who helped examine Simpson, said the problem in the left eye was minor and probably would heal itself.

"The same disorder appears in a lot of healthy, young people," he added, calling Simpson's present vision "only one line from perfect."

The Bills said their superstar returned to Buffalo late Monday and is expected to resume practice today at the team's Niagara University training camp.

Before Monday, it had been suggested that Simpson's problem stemmed from the Bills-Jets game Oct. 31.

There's pennant fever in Arlington

By The Associated Press

"It was just a perfect triple play ball," said Toby Harrah.

So the Rangers' third baseman grabbed Manny Sanguillen's grounder, stepped on third and fired to Bump Wills at second. Wills then flipped the ball to Mike Hargrove at first for the first triple play in Texas' six-year history as the Rangers swept two games from Oakland 5-2 and 3-0 Monday night.

The triple play came in the nightcap and helped Roger Moret post his second victory without a loss this season. Moret hurled hitless ball for 62-3 innings before Jim Tyrone singled to center.

"I was thinking triple play all the way because Sanguillen pulls the ball and I was even with the bag," said Harrah.

"I called it," added Texas Manager Billy Hunter. "I've seen four or five in my time and I just had a special feeling. When Sanguillen fell down at the plate, I knew we had him."

They got him by three strides.

Harrah had an otherwise harrowing night. He was involved in a fistfight with Oakland pitcher Jim Umbarger, a former Ranger, in the first game and was ejected.

Blyleven threw a five-hitter in the first contest. Dave May and Claudell Washington each homered for the Rangers' offense in the second game.

The sweep gave Texas 25 triumphs in its last 31 games and moved the Rangers to within 2½ games of first-place Chicago in the AL West.

Angels 6-7, Royals 4-2

The Angels' doubleheader sweep broke a five-game Kansas City victory streak and gave the Angels a six-game winning skein, their longest of the season. California also reached the .500 mark.

Nolan Ryan won his 16th game, tops in the majors, in the opener and Gil Flores collected three doubles to help the Angels sweep.

White Sox 5, Mariners 4

Chicago moved one-game ahead of idle Minnesota when Lamar Johnson smacked a one-out home run in the ninth inning to beat Seattle. It was Johnson's second homer of the game and gave rookie Randy Wiles his first major league triumph.

Seattle had rallied to tie the game in the top of the inning when Carlos Lopez tripled and Bob Stinson singled him home. Oscar Gamble's 21st home run of the season, a career-high, had put the White Sox in front 4-3 in the seventh.

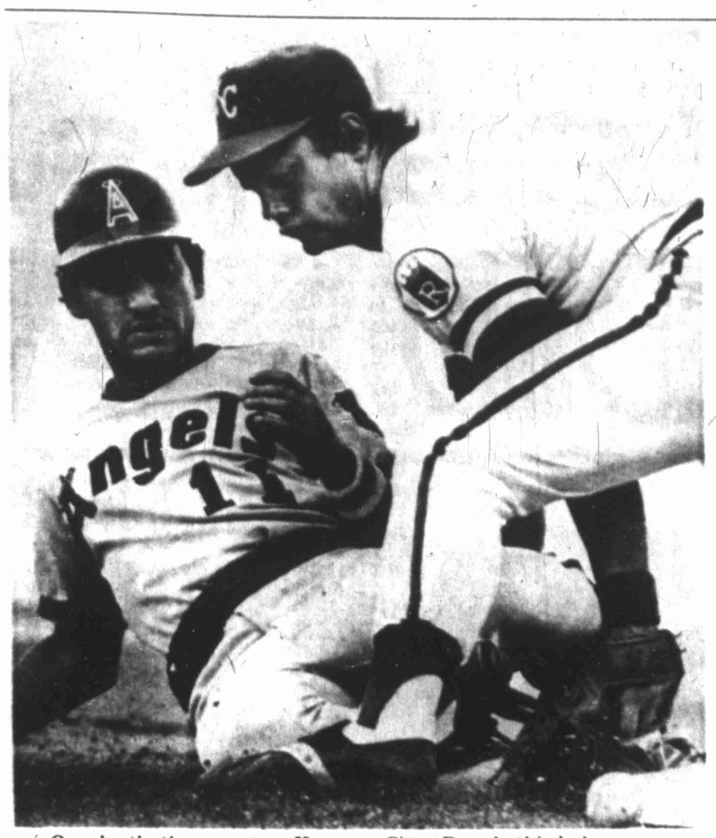

Orioles 6, Cleveland 3

Clutch relief pitching by Dennis Martinez helped the Orioles break a three-game losing streak while extending Cleveland's losing string to five.

Martinez, 10-6, twice left the bases loaded in pitching 41-3 innings of relief.

Tigers 6, Brewers 1

Jason Thompson's 19th home run, a long blast off the facing of the third deck in Tigers' Stadium, led the Detroit victory. The Tigers scored five times in the second inning, with a two-run single by Rusty Staub the key hit.

Ooooh that's smarts. Kansas City Royal third baseman grimaces as Mario Guerrero, left, of the California Angels slides safely into third while the ball bounds off to the side. (AP Laserphoto)

May beaten in opener

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Unheralded Mary Hamm upset defending champion and No. 1 seed Kathy May in the opening round Monday of the 67th U.S. Open Clay Court tennis tournamanent.

Miss Hamm, a 22-year-old from Mt. Pulaski, Ill., dumped the Beverly Hills, Calif., native in straight sets, 6-1 6-2.

In other first-round action at the Indianapolis Racquet Club, seventh-seeded Jaime Fillol of Chile rallied to defeat France's Jean Haillet 2-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Bucs topple Cubbies with comeback in 9th

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pirates certainly have given Jim Fregosi his money's worth, both as a player and a "fan."

"This team gives you a little heart flutter now and then," says Fregosi, "but it's exciting to watch them hit."

Fregosi's pleasure is doubled when he is directly involved in the Pirate electricity, like Monday night when he keyed a ninth-inning rally that provided Pittsburgh with a dramatic 7-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Pirates trailed 6-5 going in the bottom of the ninth, but Omar Moreno doubled to right-center to start their game-winning rally.

Chicago left fielder Larry Biittner stumbled momentarily and was unable to grab an ensuing bloop single by Rennie Stennett that sent Moreno to third, from where he scored the tying run on Fregosi's sacrifice fly to right.

Phil Garner, running for Stennett, who has been hobbled by a leg injury, raced all the way home when Ott hit reliever Dave Roberts' first pitch into the gap in right-center for the triple that gave the Pirates their 14th straight home victory.

Grant Jackson, 5-3, got the victory in relief, while Cub starter Rick Reuschel, 15-4, took the loss.

Dodgers 4, Reds 0

Tommy John hurled a two-hitter and slugged his first National League home run as Los Angeles defeated Cincinnati. Reggie Smith also hit his 20th homer as the Dodgers widened their lead to 12½ games over the Reds in the NL West.

Cardinals 4, Mets 2

Ken Reitz' home run with two on in the ninth inning led St. Louis over New York. Jerry Koosman, 8-12, had limited St. Louis to five hits in eight innings before the Cards broke through in the ninth.

Expos 6, Padres 5

Warren Cromartie's RBI single in the eighth inning led Montreal over San Diego.

Storey leads Dallas to Mantle title

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Lynn Storey hurled a three-hit shutout Monday night to lead Dallas to the Mickey Mantle South Plains regional baseball title with a 5-0 victory over Lakewood, Colo.

Dallas picked up all five of its runs in the fourth inning, using two hits, two walks and four Lakewood errors. Tim Reynolds' run-scoring single and Tod Watson's sacrifice fly sparked the uprising.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

How to spot diabetes

Dear Dr. Solomon: My sister, who is 48, just went for her annual checkup and found out she now has diabetes. She had not been feeling too well, but nothing seemed to be really wrong—in fact, if she hadn't been due for a physical, she probably would never have thought of going to the doctor. What bothers me is this: I don't see how you can get a serious disease like diabetes without having some sort of symptoms. Is it possible? Could she have had some sort of symptoms and thought they were something else, do you think? Is there anything the rest of us in the family should be on the lookout for? We are all so puzzled about how she could have been walking around with it and not know. At that rate, the country must be full of people who have diabetes and aren't even vaguely aware of it.—Janice R.

Dear Janice: You are quite right. The American Diabetes Association estimates that two out of every five diabetics do not know they have the disease—either that, or they are ignoring it and not getting proper treatment.

Very often, there simply are no symptoms, especially among older age groups. That is one reason why physical checkups are valuable; diabetes can be spotted by very simple urine and blood tests and, if there is still any doubt, through a more detailed blood sugar tolerance test.

There are, however, certain signs that you can be on the lookout for. Here is the list of 12 that has been worked out by the ADA.

1. Frequent urination
2. Unusual thirst and drinking lots of fluids
3. Extreme hunger
4. Rapid weight loss
5. Getting tired easily, general weakness
6. Irritability and nausea
7. Drowsiness
8. Intense itching
9. Slow healing of cuts
10. Frequent infection of the skin, gums and urinary tract
11. Blurred or changed vision
12. Cramps or pain in the legs, feet or fingers

If one or more of these symptoms is at all persistent, you should see a doctor right away. There is no cure for diabetes, but it can be effectively controlled by means of diet, exercise and, if necessary, medication. The important thing is to diagnose it early and start treating it immediately. If not taken care of, diabetes can lead to serious complications, such as heart and blood vessel disease and impairment of vision or even blindness.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Maryland 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will asnwer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Phantom 'Record' to be published

By T.R. REID
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Watch for a phantom edition of the Congressional Record next month. Both houses will be closed for recess until Sept. 7, but they'll put out one edition of the daily record anyway. So many members tried to insert canned "speeches" in the Record last week that they didn't all fit; the spillover will be printed in the recess edition.

Frankly, the recess Record won't be so unusual. Even when Congress is in session, about 60 per cent of the speeches reported in the Record are never really given on the floor. The phantom edition will run about 50 pages. Printing cost: $15,000.

Both houses will have to make up for time lost through this month's recess. House and Senate leaders are still talking publicly about final adjournment the first week in October. Privately, they are telling members to plan to be here at least until Veteran's Day, Nov. 11.

Week before last was Howard Banker's best yet as Senate GOP leader. The Tennessee Republican confounded the Democratic leadership with his smooth management of the filibuster that killed the campaign financing bill. Then he came up with the compromise that ended the clean air stalemate.

The successful filibuster proved that Baker can still forge victories from the alliance of Republicans and Southern Democrats. That should strengthen his bargaining position with Democratic leaders from now on.

Short Memories Dept.: Back in February, when senators voted to raise their expense and travel allowances, they called the move a "reform." Now we won't have to use fat-cat contributions to pay our office expenses, they said piously. Last week, the Senate voted to permit continued use of private contributions for office costs. Sen. Adlai Stevenson (D-Ill.) tried to remind his colleagues about the February "reform." He got nowhere.

Businessmen battling to kill the Renegotiation Board have signed up an important new ally. Senate Majority Whip Alan Cranston (D-Calif.) has joined a group of Republicans working to phase out the little federal agency that attempts to take back excessive profits defense firms make on their government sales. Cranston's efforts should undermine the work of White House lobbyists, who are pushing to pass a bill that would strengthen the board.

With Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman John McClellan (D-Ark.) increasingly absent because of a heart ailment, two other committee members have inherited enormous power positions. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.), chairman in his own right of the Commerce Committee, has become de facto chair at Appropriations as well in McClellan's place. John Stennis (D-Miss.) has effectively taken over the Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, which was McClellan's personal fiefdom. Stennis is also chairman of the full Armed Services Committee: now he controls both authorizations and appropriations for the Pentagon.

Higher capital gains tax thought part of package

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the items expected to be included in President Carter's tax package is one that in some instances would double the tax on long-term capital gains, a measure that some say will set off an explosion of controversy.

Don't bet on it. The President's feelings on the matter have been known for a long time, but so far the feelings of those likely to be affected haven't been ignited. If there's a fuse on this one it must be wet.

Nevertheless, the very notion of making capital gains less attractive is bound to have an impact on homeowners, investors, industry, the economy. Potentially, it is as controversial as any tax matter in several years.

In an attempt to make the tax code fairer and simpler, those behind the idea say that long-term capital gains, such as you would make from the sale of a house or stocks, should be taxed as ordinary income instead of at one-half that rate.

That undoubtedly would simplify the tax forms, which are made complex and longer by the need to account separately for capital gains. But whether they would then be fairer is another matter.

First off, some say the tax already is a tax on an illusion. That is, with inflation running 6 or 7 per cent on the average for several years now, many so-called capital gains aren't real.

An individual who wishes to sell one $35,000 vacation home and buy another of the same price, for example, might find he couldn't afford to do so. Assuming the house now owned was bought five years ago for $25,000, inflation had added $10,000, the homeowner would find himself after taxes with far less than $35,000, unless he managed to avail himself of a little known section of the tax code.

From one point of view, therefore, it would seem that the capital gains tax should be adjusted for inflation in order to end the practice of assessing taxes on unreal, paper profits. Instead, the assessment would be raised.

Other critics argue that capital gains are a special form of income, in which a greater degree of risk is assumed than is taken on by those with an assured income. A capital gains investors, it is pointed out, has a greater chance of losing.

But, it might be countered, the capital gainer stands to make an occasional killing and, if not that, then a fairly substantial reward. It's the old risk-reward ratio; as risk rises, so does the size of the potential reward.

Another argument for continuing the capital gains tax is that the country needs it. That is, new investments must be encouraged if the economy is to expand and make jobs available for a growing population.

The question probably isn't so much whether capital gains are desirable or undesirable, but why some of the most powerful financial entities in the land haven't spoken out yet, for or against.

That in itself has the ingredients of still another debate.

Booklet tells what to save, what to discard

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

How long should you keep your old income tax returns?

When can you throw out canceled checks?

Where should you store copies of your insurance policies?

If you don't know the answers, you're not alone. Many Americans are confused about which personal records they need to hang on to and for how long. The federal Consumer Information Center reports that the booklet, "Keeping Records, What to Discard," is one of the agency's most popular.

The booklet is available, at no charge, from the center, Dept. 625E, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

Meanwhile, if you want to start clearing some of the clutter from household drawers, files and desks, here are a few tips:

—You do not need to keep all canceled checks. Copies of canceled checks are usually available at your bank. You should save checks you need for income tax purposes — to prove business expenditures, for example — and review the collection periodically to see which ones are outdated.

—Federal income tax returns should be kept for at least three years. That's the amount of time the Internal Revenue Service has to audit your return. There are some exceptions to the three-year limit, however. If you failed to report more than 25 per cent of your gross income, for example, the government has six years to collect the tax or start legal proceedings. There are no limits for prosecution if you filed a return that is proved fraudulent. Time limits for state income tax audits vary; check with local authorities.

—Keep receipts and sales slips for big-ticket items, particularly those covered by a warranty. You may need proof of purchase if you have a problem.

—Keep a household inventory in case of fire or burglary. List the item, the date purchased, the cost, the model number if possible, the brand name, the dealer's name and a general description. Snapshots of your rooms also can help identify possessions. Update the inventory with any major purchase.

Irreplaceable papers — marriage and birth certificates; divorce, adoption and citizenship papers, and and other documents that are recorded with the courts or the government — should be kept in a safe deposit box. One copy of your household inventory also should go in the safe deposit box. (Keep another copy at home and give a third copy to your insurance company.) Tax returns, education and employment records, bank books and Social Security cards do not need the protection of a safe deposit box; they can be replaced relatively easily.

—The original copy of a will is usually kept in the safe of the attorney who prepared it. You will get two copies. Put one in the safe deposit box and leave the other in a readily accessible place at home. It is a good idea to leave funeral and burial instructions in the same spot. Let someone — such as your lawyer — know where these items are kept, since there can be a legal delay in getting copies from your safe deposit box after your death.

Solon takes new job

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Max Sherman, D-Amarillo, has formally submitted his resignation, effective Sept. 2, to become president of West Texas State University in Canyon.

Gov. Briscoe recently signed legislation repealing a pay raise granted the president, passed at Sherman's request so he could meet a constitutional rule.

The rule says a legislator can't vote to raise the salary of a state job, then take that job.

Briscoe said in his transmittal letter to Secretary of State Mark White that he would call a special election to fill the Sherman vacancy after Sept. 2.

Entrepreneur on schedule toward $1-billion goal

NEW YORK (AP) — Curtis Carlson, whose original goal was to sell enough soap to make $100 a week, is now on schedule toward his current goal of $1 billion a year in sales.

When that goal is met he'll aim higher.

Goals accomplished beget goals to seek for Carlson, the Minneapolis entrepreneur who at age 63 personally owns hotels, restaurants, incentive companies, a construction concern, an advertising agency — and much, much more.

"One of my weaknesses is I can never see stopping," he said the other day in a telephone call from York, Maine, where he had anchored his 83-foot yacht after a cruise down the coast from Camden and Boothbay Harbor.

A setting such as this, although but for a few days, is not rare for Carlson but neither does it suggest his style. His work and pleasure mingle; his mind never stops dreaming of growth. It's his creative expression.

"I have always maintained that you will stay even with your competitor by working five days a week but you can get ahead of your competition by working six days."

'New questions' may extend Lance finance probe

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — An expanded investigation by the U.S. comptroller of the currency into Budget Director Bert Lance's banking transactions has turned up new questions that may extend the length of the probe, an official in the comptroller's office said Monday.

There was no explanation of what the new questions concern. But news of the broadened probe and the possibility of an extended investigation caused dismay both in the White House and in the Office of Management and Budget.

Among both White House and OMB officials there was growing concern that unless the comptroller's investigation vindicates Lance soon, the pressure of continuing publicity about his personal and business banking transactions may force his resignation.

Lance himself expressed disappointment that the probe had widened. Reached by telephone at his home in Sea Island, Ga., where he is vacationing, Lance said, "I'm surprised there are other areas they want to look at. I thought they were just looking at the Manufacturers Hanover loan. My only concern is that they complete the investigation as soon as possible."

He was referring to a $2.65 million personal loan he obtained from Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York in April 1975. At about the time of the loan, the National Bank of Georgia, which Lance then headed, opened a $250,000 non-interest-bearing "correspondent" account in Manufacturers Hanover.

The main question of concern to the comptroller, according to an official of that office, is whether the National Bank of Georgia received adequate services from Manufacturers Hanover in return for the correspondent account, or whether the account was a compensating transaction for Lance's personal loan. The latter could involve a violation of banking law.

Deputy Comptroller C. Westbrook Murphy said Monday the investigation is going far beyond that transaction, however. "We're pursuing every reasonable line of inquiry that occurs to us that seems related to banking," he said.

Murphy said the comptroller's office is giving the Lance matter the highest priority. In the past three weeks, he said, 30 examiners and six attorneys from the comptroller's office, as well as more than 20 personnel from other federal banking agencies, have worked on the case.

"We've accumulated thousands of pages of documents and are now questioning witnesses as to the information in the documents," Murphy said.

The comptroller's office has indicated that at the end of its probe, it will issue a lengthy report involving not only the Manufacturers Hanover matter but a similar personal loan and "correspondent" account arranged by Lance with a Chicago bank shortly before he took office as OMB director. The report also will deal with several other banking transactions involving Lance or his wife, LaBelle.

President Carter, meanwhile, has remained aloof from the investigation of Lance, his long-time friend and political adviser who is generally viewed as the second most powerful official in the administration. At the same time, it was learned, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, whose jurisdiction includes the comptroller's office, has kept the President apprised of major developments in the matter.

Both Carter and Lance say they have not discussed the comptroller's investigation with each other, although Lance has been reporting developments to White House counsel Robert Lipschultz. All three are Georgians and long-time friends.

If the Comptroller should turn over the Lance matter to the Justice Department for possible prosecution, the case would be in the hands of yet another Georgian and long-time friend of Carter and Lance — Atty. Gen. Griffin B. Bell.

Some of Lance's strongest supporters in the OMB and the White House now question how long he or Carter can withstand the publicity and pressure of what already has been an extreme embarrassment to the new Administration.

"Even if the comptroller's report clears Bert of any wrongdoing, I'm not sure he's out of the woods," said one official. "The press commentary continues to be bad, saying there are too many unanswered questions, too much bad judgment and too much financial risk-taking for a person in such a high office."

Another official said, "It doesn't look good for Bert that Carter has put some distance between himself and the investigation and that Bert is talking about it to Lipschutz, not Carter. I'm not sure Bert can survive."

ASEAN summit ends with minimal results

The Los Angeles Times

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia — The summit of Southeast Asia's five non-Communist nations ended Monday with promise for the region's economic future but far fewer tangible results than had been hoped.

Japan's Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda offered a $1 billion aid package to the five members of the Assn. of Southeast Asian Nations — Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia and the Philippines.

But despite his expressed desire for a "Heart-to-hearth" relationship with the vast area — overrun by Japanese troops in World War II, and now a major supplier of Japan's needed raw materials — Fukuda included a number of fine print provisions.

A communique disclosed that Japan would consider favorably requests for aid to five major regional projects, but only when their feasibility was confirmed.

Nor did Fukuda establish any firm timetable for allocation of the $1 billion, although that might be made more specific in the next 10 days as he visits the heads of government individually in their homelands.

The five nations had been pressing Japan for more concrete commitments, but it appeared that their own lack of regional cooperation was a major factor in the strings Japan tied around its generous package.

"Japan may create the consensus that ASEAN talks so much about but never seems to achieve," admitted a member of the Singapore delegation, which had been thwarted in every effort to win agreement on detailed economic matters.

And Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew noted Monday that "I think we did reach an ASEAN consensus," but he indicated that it was so vague as to offer little promise for the speedy development progress he advocates.

Begin reveals support

The Washington Post

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Menahem Begin proclaimed publicly Monday that Israel is providing training, supplies and artillery support to Christian militiamen in South Lebanon, saying it was this country's "duty" to prevent what he called an attempt at "genocide" by Palestinian forces in Lebanon.

Begin blasted France for failing to intervene on behalf of Christian villagers and soldiers who have been under siege in South Lebanon for months. He said that "Christian France, the patron of the Maronite Christians for ages, had sold them down the river" to curry favor with the Arab oil-producing countries who support the Palestinians.

It has been known for some time that the Israelis were providing ammunition and training to the Christian forces in Lebanon, as well as medical and economic assistance to Christian forces in Lebanon and Israel across the "good fence."

But this is apparently the first time an Israeli leader has acknowledged that Israeli troops are actually participating in the fighting or attempted to turn an opportunistic policy into a national moral commitment.

Begin toured the Lebanese border area Sunday. Monday morning he told a delegation of American and Canadian Israel bond drive leaders that the Christians in South Lebanon "without our help would long ago have been wiped out totally."

America turns toward mopeds

PARIS (AP) — Mopeds, the curious Gallic hybrid of a bicycle with a baby motor, born in the austerity of the Marshall Plan era, have given independence to youth and mobility to workers in Europe since World War II.

By day, their buzz is familiar in European cities. In darkness, the sound drills through the countryside as kids ride home from a dance in the next village or farmers head out to the fields at dawn.

Now, Americans are discovering the virtues of the vehicle that sips only a gallon of gas every 100 miles or so and is easy not only on the pocketbook, but on the environment, the leg muscles and the nerves during rush-hour traffic jams.

But, says Jean Chasanel, secretary-general of Motobecane, France's largest producer, "There's a lot more talk about mopeds than there are mopeds on the roads in the United States."

U.S. sales last year were only about 50,000, but Chasanel is optimistic. "We expect total industry sales of 100,000 units there this year, that's in the 31 states which have passed laws favorable to the moped."

The Department of Transportation is optimistic, too. It forecasts three million mopeds on U.S. roadways by 1980.

Some 30 manufacturers are vying for the U.S. market. The biggest are Motobecane, which pioneered the moped in 1949 and expects to supply one-fourth of those sold in America this year: Steyer Daimler Puch of Austria and Batavus of Holland. The lone U.S. manufacturer is Columbia in Westfield, Mass.

Basically, a moped is a strengthened bicycle powered by a motor about one-fifth the size of a cylinder of an old Volkswagen. It usually is chain driven.

A recent New York court decision says it's a moped if it goes no faster than 17 miles per hour, a motorcycle if it goes faster. Europe is more lenient, allowing 25-30 m.p.h.

France has the most mopeds in use, some six million, followed by Italy's three million and Holland's two million.

The popularity of the moped stems from its economy and the lack of restrictions on the rider. Of moped laws passed in 31 states thus far, half require no vehicle registration. Many don't require a driver's license, and none requires crash helmets or liability insurance.

But as accident rates increase in Europe, crash helmets are expected to become compulsory soon in France and Germany. And already in the States there is sentiment to make the laws more stringent and uniform.

Moped sales rose markedly in Europe in 1973-74, but Chasanel strongly opposes the idea that the oil crisis was responsible.

"We always say we believe the increase was because of interest in the basic qualities of the vehicle itself.

"We were shown to be right when deliveries dropped back in 1975-76 at the height of the economic crisis, and also because laws making crash helmets cohpulsory started coming in."

In the United-States, he says, it "is still too soon to say if mopeds have become fashionable. We need to see how sales develop. But President Carter's energy program might help."

An aide pointed out that relaxed laws for mopeds only began appearing in the last couple of years, after lobbying by the Motorized Bicycle Association, strongly supported by the French industry.

Across Europe, the youth market dominates moped sales — for transport as well as sport.

But in London, more and more white collar workers are seen weaving through dense rush hour traffic on mopeds.

In many European countries the legal speed limit for mopeds is 30 kilometers (about 20 miles) per hour. Mopeds are supposed to be built not to exceed tha speed, but its a hamfisted youngster who can't make minor adjustments to leave the speed limit behind.

In the Netherlands, where flat terrain lends itself to mopeds, the little bikes are second only to the car as the most popular form of motor transkport, and in Denmark, there were 459,400 mopeds at the end of 1975 for a population of a little over five million.

But Swedish authorities say the number of mopeds dropped from 750,000 in the early 1960s to around 400,000 now. They attribute it mainly to the fact that mopeds have developed from being bicycles with auxiliary motors into baby motorbikes, and thus become more expensive.

Mopeds are popular in the poorer areas of southern Spain, particularly with construction and farm workers.

In Switzerland, the energy crisis brought a brief switch from larger to smaller cars, but no significant change in sales of the long-popular moped. If people are turning from cars to mopeds, it usually is because of traffic and parking problems, the Swiss say.

The outstanding problem of the moped however, is the vulnerability of the rider in accidents. The figures are higher in France, with twice as many mopeds as any other country. Last year in France, 1,232 people were killed on mopeds, compared with 503 on larger motorbikes.

Scientists study marine landslides

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M engineering professors are using sophisticated space-age missile-tracking devices to study the movement of mud.

The goal of the A&M team is to learn about the elusive and destructive "underwater landslides" that have toppled offshore oil platforms in the Gulf of Mexico.

But the unusual winter of '77 has caused some problems for Drs. William Bryant and Wayne Dunlap, who are co-ordinating the project.

"We have collected quite a bit of data during the winter, but because of its mildness there were few storms to produce necessary large waves," Dr. Dunlap said.

Sensitive equipment has been anchored below the mud line in the Gulf waters. The meters measure the pressure on silt and clay and record any movement.

Dunlap said the data is transmitted by microwave to Lousiana and relayed to the A&M lab. Technology that would allow the prediction of underwater landslides could save money for oil companies looking for new sources of energy in the gulf, the professor said.

"The information on the bottom movement could eventually let us say to designers, 'For a certain kind of storm you'll have this much movement, so make your construction to withstand it.' We're not too far away from that point," Dr. Dunlap said.

A similar project is being considered for the Gulf of Alaska where slides also pose a threat to oil rigs.

The project, named Sea-Swab (Shallow Experiment to Assess Storm Waves Affecting Bottom), is co-sponsored by Sandia, Shell Oil Company, Louisiana State University, Lehigh University, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the U.S. Geological Survey and Texas A&M.

Capitol ideas can be bright

By EDMOND Le BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever the massive energy bill may do for the country's supplies of fuel and power, it has already raised the political voltage of a high-level golf rivalry.

The rivals are former President Gerald R. Ford and House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill. They have been close friends and dedicated political and golfing opponents since they served as floor leaders for their respective parties in the House.

As the House went into its final arguments on the bill, a reporter told O'Neill that Ford had said Congress would be working on the legislation until Christmas.

"Where did he say that? At the seventh hole in Vail?" rumbled O'Neill, whose bulldozing through the legislative thickets had brought the immensely ramified bill to the floor in astonishingly short time.

Then O'Neill disclosed he and Ford had agreed on a highly visible match Aug. 17 in Sun Valley, Idaho, as part of a benefit meet for multiple sclerosis research and treatment.

And the speaker said he will be bringing more than his clubs to the meeting with the former president.

"I'll hand him a copy of the House-passed bill," he said.

At least one concerned Texan thinks he knows whom to blame for what he doesn't like about the energy bill.

He wrote his congressman, "I urge you to use your vote and influence to defeat Ed Hock's Energy Committee proposal."

The bill was put together by the House Ad Hoc Committee on Energy.

If you've been tossing at night worrying about how congressmen traveling abroad get by on a $75 a day expense allowance, consider the advice Rep. William Frenzel, R-Minn., gave colleagues studying proposals to require increased disclosure of travel expenses.

First, said Frenzel, you avoid the name hotels and find one for $50 a day.

"That leaves $25 for meals and cab fare," he said. "In Europe you get breakfast — juice and a roll — with your room. For dinner you go to the ambassador's reception and eat canapes. So what you do is spend $25 on cab fare and skip lunch."

The Commission on Administrative Review also is looking into the operation of the House barber shops. One member, spotting a typographical error in a document, snickered, "What's a barber ship?"

"That's the guy I get," said Rep. Lloyd Meeds, D-Wash., "the Yankee clipper."

Defenders of the bicycle as a means of transportation got an amendment into the energy bill for a study by the Transportation Department of the energy efficiency of bicycles and of obstacles to their greater use.

Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., suggested the voters might regard this "in much the same manner as federal studies of Frisbees and the mating calls of toads."

But the proponents were dead serious.

Rep. George E. Brown, D-Calif., cited a study he said showed an automobile would have to get 100 miles to the gallon to be as efficient as a bicycle and that a switch to bicycles for only 6 per cent of short trips would save 827 million gallons of gasoline a year.

Canada oil workers using 'Bionic Bear'

BURNABY, Canada (AP) — What puts a scare into a polar bear? The roar from "Bionic Bear," a device that amplifies a bear's roar to keep marauding animals away from northwoods oil workers.

Don Wooldridge, a graduate biology student at Simon Fraser University, came up with the idea for Imperial Oil, which was looking for ways to protect its workers from bears.

"The idea was that the intruding bear might think it's the world's largest bear just over the hill," Wooldridge said.

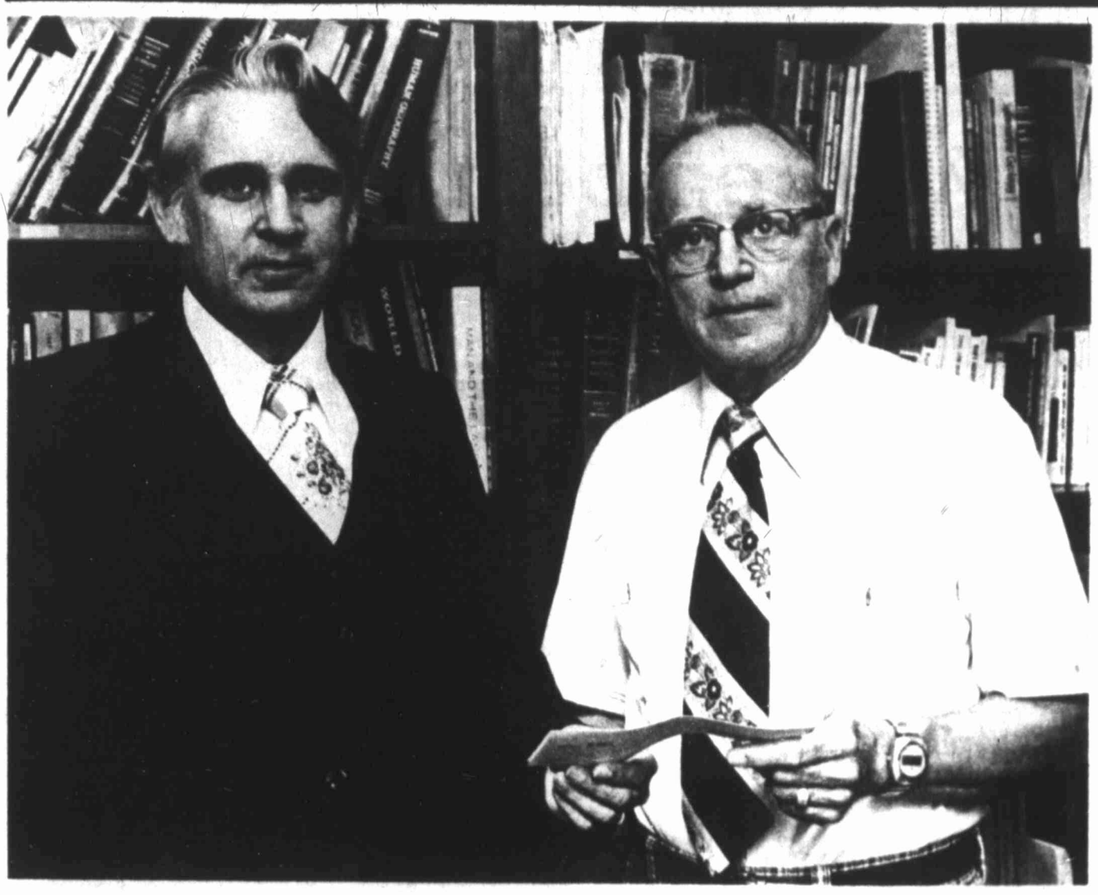

Wooldridge says he analyzed the roars electronically and synthesized a sound similar to a roar — but twice as long as that of a real bear.

He experimented by taping the grunts and roars of captive bears fighting over a piece of meat near Port Angeles, Wash. When he played the amplified sound back, it sent one kodiak bear up the walls of the cage.

That was good enough for Imperial, which has installed the recordings, amplifiers and speakers at various oil drilling sites.

"One of Imperial Oil's concerns was the morale problem it causes immediately after," Wooldridge said of attacks by bear in recent years. "People start saying: Hey, wait a minute. I'm not sure I want to work here."

Wooldridge says bears in the wild are not naturally vicious and aggressive, but problems occur with young ones whose food catches are often stolen by larger males.

PENNZOIL COMPANY representative H. W. Hollingshead Jr. of Midland, left, Western Division Exploration manager, presents a check for $1,000 to Baylor geology professor Dr. J. W. Dixon. Pennzoil provided the money to be used one-half for unrestricted grants and one-half for scholarships in the Baylor Geology Department.

Schlesinger seeks to renew defeated issues

WASHINGTON — Senate Finance Committee members told Secretary of Energy James R. Schlesinger Monday to stop dreaming about a standby gasoline tax and get behind a crash program to subsidize development of other fuels.

Schlesinger went to the Senate Monday to ask that it reinstate in the energy legislation some of President Carter's energy program voted down by the House. He wanted the tax on purchase of gas guzzler cars strengthened to require more miles per gallon and exemptions from the industrial use tax on oil and natural gas reduced. He asked again for the standby gasoline tax that could go to 50 cents a gallon in 5-cent annual steps if the nation's motorists fail to meet specified goals.

In an effort to prevent energy taxes from having an adverse impact on the economy, Carter proposed to rebate the funds. Revenues from the standby gas tax, if it took effect, would be rebated to the entire population on a per capita basis.

"Even to infant babes?" asked Sen. Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.). To anyone claimed as an exemption, said Schlesinger. Sen. Spark Matsunaga (D-Hawaii) said the proposed gasoline tax rebate to drivers and non-drivers alike was a "welfare program ...a nightmare."

Chairman Russell B. Long (D-La.) said it made no sense to him to tax use of energy and then hand the money back. There would be no inducement to save, he said. He said he expects the standby gas tax will not be approved by the Senate.

Long indicated he would support efforts to tighten the gas guzzler tax, but kept saying as did other members, that more stress should be put on production of alternative fuels such as shale oil, geothermal and solar energy.

Oil, gas activity in Permian Basin includes discovery, wildcat projects

Runnels County gained a gas strike and two wildcat sites, while exploration is slated for Stonewall, Crockett and Sutton, and a reentry operation has been announced for Upton.

W. W. West of Midland completed No. 3 J. L. Hoffman as a Morris gas strike in Runnels, ⅜ mile northwest of an undesignated Morris sand gas strike, and in the P.W.C. (Serrat) oil pool. Pool designation of P.W.C. (Morris) has been suggested.

The well gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 2.692 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, on potential test taken natural, through perforations at 3,371-3,375 feet.

The project was scheduled in 1974 and 4½-inch casing was set at 3,732 feet. Top of the Morris was picked at 3,350 feet, under ground elevation of 1,757 feet.

Location is 712 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 161, ETRR survey.

WILDCATS SET

Enrich Oil Corp., Abilene, No. 1 C. D. Tekell is slated as a 5,100-foot prospector in Runnels, ½ mile north of a Gardner sand oil discovery.

It spots 467 feet from south and 3,200 feet from west lines of Samuel Hickman survey, abstract 588, 2½ miles southwest of Wilmeth.

Also, E. B. Fletcher of Dallas has scheduled No. 1-B Ronnie Poehls as a 4,950-foot venture, ½ mile southeast of production in the Deike (Fry) pool of Runnels.

Drillsite is 467 feet from north and 4,050 feet from east lines of C. D. Skidmore survey 13, 2½ miles south of Wingate.

STONEWALL TRY

G. F. Ray Jr., Dallas, No. 1 Minnie Berry has been slated as a 3,900-foot Tannehill prospector in Stonewall, six miles north and slightly east of Swenson.

It spots 330 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 256, block B, H&TC survey, 2¼ miles west of the Mullen Ranch multipay field.

CROCKETT TEST

John L. Cox of Midland accounted for a deep searcher to be drilled in Crockett, eight miles north of Iraan. It is No. 1 University.

Location is 1,650 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 8, block 13, ULS, ¾ mile north and slightly east of the Bouscaren (Strawn) field.

SUTTON PROJECT

HNG Oil Co. of Midland has announced location for No. 3-78 Brown, a scheduled 5,200-foot gas wildcat and ⅞-mile northeast outpost to Canyon production in the Sutton part of the Sawyer pool.

It spots 933 feet from north and 2,000 feet from east lines of section 78, block 14, TW&NG survey, 15 miles southeast of Sonora.

UPTON WORKOVER

The Upton reentry is planned by B. W. Wiseman Jr. of Midland. He intends to reenter and clean out to wildcat depth of 8,000 feet at No. 1 Long, a 9,091-foot failure, 2¾ miles southeast of the McCamey field.

Originally drilled by Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc., as No. 1 George Long, it was plugged and abandoned in June 1952.

Location is 565 feet from north and 712 feet from west lines of section 3, RT Co. survey, four miles east of McCamey.

LOVINGTON, N. M. — L. Dale Clark has joined Monument Energy Corp. as vice president of the company's solar energy subsidiary, New Mexico Solar Power, Inc., reports Winford Carlile, chairman of the board.

Seaway safe says skipper

CHERRY POINT, Wash. AP — The skipper of the first tanker to bring Prudhoe Bay crude oil south through Valdez Narrows says he doesn't consider the narrows to be a hazardous passage.

Capt. Emery McGowen, in an interview Friday aboard the 883-foot Arco Juneau, said in comparison with other places, Valdez Narrows "is real safe as far as handling a ship is concerned.

"Take the Houston Ship Channel, for instance. It is 400 feet wide; it's two-way traffic, with 40-feet depth. So, when you are traveling with a ship with 38 or 39 feet draft, you only have a couple of feet under the keel.

The narrows are 600 feet deep and 3,000 feet wide.

"To me, having been in the places I've been in the world, I think the narrows are real safe. I have no problems, I don't even consider there to be a hazard in navigating the narrows," said McGowen.

McGowen, who brought the Arco Juneau into the Atlantic Richfield Co. refinery dock here on Friday, also sought to allay the fears of those who believe the Alaska tanker trade will bring great harm to the rich fishery of Alaska's Prince William Sound.

"I can't speak for the industry, but I can speak for what Atlantic Richfield has done," said McGowen, a skipper for 41 of his 60 years, referring to the possibility of pollution.

"We do not pump anything over the side except clean water from our segregated ballast tanks, water that contains no oil or foreign materials.

Areas draw probe sites

Exploration has been planned for Yoakum and King counties.

Petroleum Exploration & Development Funds, Inc., Midland, will drill No. 1 Field, 12,300-foot wildcat in Yoakum, nine miles north of Bronco.

Location, 1¼ mile northwest of the depleted Indian Camp (Bend and Devonian) oil pool, is 1,650 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 45, block D, John H. Gibson survey.

KING EXPLORER

Gunn-Lewis, Wichita Falls, staked location for a 4,500-foot wildcat in King County, six miles north of Guthrie. It is No. 1 S. B. Burnett Estate.

Drillsite is 467 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 4, L. Dryfoos survey, four miles southwest of the Four Sixes (Strawn) oil field, but separated by failures.

Lea County venture set

Estoril Producing Co., Midland, plans to drill a 12,900-foot exploratory test in Lea County, N.M., four miles north of Tatum. It is No. 1 Southland-State.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 4-12s-36e, 2½ miles southwest of the depleted Cindy (Wolfcamp) oil field.

Stepout set in Stonewall

Martin Oil Co. of Aspermont plans to drill a 1,500-foot west stepout to the three-well Celia (Canyon) pool of Stonewall County. It is No. 3 R. L. Berryman.

Location is 2,133 feet from southeast and 467 feet from southwest lines of L. N. Hodges survey, five miles south and slightly east of Aspermont. It has a projected bottom depth of 4,700 feet.

Exploratory projects scheduled in Loving, Culberson counties

Exploratory projects have been announced for Loving and Culberson County areas, while a strike offset site has been staked in Ward, and attempt will be made to extend a field pay in Crane.

HNG Oil Co., Midland, accounted for a deep Loving wildcat to be drilled on the west side of the Tunstill, East (Delaware) field. It is No. 1-18 Amoco-State, planned as an 18,000-foot project.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 18, block 55, T-2, T&P survey, eight miles east of Orla and 16 miles northwest of the Moore-Hooper (Fusselman and Ellenburger) gas field.

CULBERSON TEST

I. W. Lovelady, Midland, plans No. 2 Brooks, a 1,300-foot wildcat in East Culberson, 32 miles northwest of Toyah.

It is a north twin to the firm's No. 1 Brooks, a scheduled 2,200-foot wildcat.

Location is 330 feet from north and 1,890 feet from east lines of section 18, block 54, PSL survey.

No. 1 Brooks was bottomed at 1,438 feet, waiting on a mast. Operator earlier had been underreaming at 1,293 feet, preparint to lower 7-inch casing at the project.

WARD OFFSET

HNG Oil Co. of Midland has scheduled No. 1-137 Miller as a 22,000-foot wildcat and ¾-mile northwest offset to the Devonian discovery, and the same distance northeast offset to the Ellenburger pay opener in the Phantom field of South Ward.

Drillsite for the test is 1,780 feet from southeast and 1,980 feet from southwest lines of section 137, block 34, H&TC survey, five miles east of Barstow. Operator plans to test the Devonian at around 17,800 feet, and the Ellenburger at 20,800 feet.

The Phantom (Ellenburger) opener was HNG No. 1-138 Robertson, which finaled in December 1976 for 24.3 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 20,823-20,864 feet. Devonian production was opened in the field this week with completion of HNG No. 1-128 Lee, to flow on potential test, 24 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 17,820-17,828 feet.

CRANE REENTRY

Gulf Oil Corp. plans to reenter and test at around 8,100 feet at No. 741 W. N. Waddell, in attempt to extend current Pennsylvanian production 2¾ miles north in the University-Waddell field of Crane County.

A former Devonian well, completed in 1960 at around 9,325 feet, that zone is to be plugged off.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 15, block B-25, PSL survey, 13 miles northwest of Crane townsite. The field currently has four producing wells.

Fields in West Texas gain extension wells

Two West Texas fields gained extensions and a stepout is slated in another.

The Angus multipay field of Crockett gained a third Strawn gas well and ½-mile west extension with completion of American Quasar Petroleum Co. No. 1-2 J. L. Henderson Jr.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 2.150 million cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-condensate ratio of 916,597-1. Condensate gravity is 54.5 degrees.

The well finaled through perforations at 8,710-8,890 feet, following treatment on the pay section with 5,000 gallons of acid, plus 14,000 gallons and 6,000 pounds of sand fracture.

Location is 1,440 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 2, block H, GC&SF survey, 14 miles southeast of Ozona.

A current second Wolfcamp oil well has been completed in the Pegasus field of Midland County by Atlantic Richfield Co.

No. 10 June Tippett, a former Pennsylvanian well, finaled for three barrels of 51.4-gravity oil and five barrels of water daily, with gas-oil ratio of 16,667-1.

Completion was through perforated interval at 10,143-10,0154 feet. Acid treatment was 9,000 gallons.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 7, block 40, T-4-S, T&P survey, 15 miles south of Warfield.

Also, ARCO staked site for No. 6-A Houston Arrott, a ⅜-mile southeast and northeast offset to production in the Schleicher part of the H-J (lower Strawn) oil pool.

It has a projected depth of 5,800 feet, and spots 1,955 feet from north and 1,748 feet from west lines of section 78, block M, GH&SA survey, 12 miles northeast of Eldorado. The field currently has three wells on production.

DRILLING REPORT

ANDREWS — MGF Oil No. 1 Bedford; drilling 911 feet in redbeds and anhydrite.

CHAVES — Blair & Metcalfe No. 1 Hudson-Federal; td 3,870 feet; pumped six barrels of oil and 19 barrels of water in 24 hours, through perforations at 3,734-3,785 feet.

Texas O&G No. 1-A O'Brien; drilling 6,390 feet in lime and shale.

CROCKETT — Gulf No. 1 Hoover; td 10,126 feet, fishing.

Clayton Williams No. 1-33-4 University; td 1,480 feet, fishing.

CULBERSON — Lovelady No. 1 Brooks; td 1,438 feet, shut in for repairs.

DAWSON — Lovelady No. 1 Rollow; drilling 3,875 feet in anhydrite.

Gulf No. 2 Speck; td 12,190 feet; swabbed four barrels of water in four hours, through perforations at 9,835-9,839 feet.

ECTOR — Petroleum Technical Services No. 1 Johnson; being drilled "tight."

EDDY — Bennett & Ryan No. 1 Penasco; td 8,973 feet, waiting on a completion unit.

Mesa No. 1-B Potter-Federal; td 9,300 feet, preparing to fracture.

Mesa No. 1-J Strong-Federal; td 10,265 feet; preparing to take a drillstem test from 10,155-10,265 feet.

Gulf No. 2-FT Eddy; drilling 6,530 feet in lime.

Gulf No. 1-GF Eddy; rigging up rotary.

Gulf No. 1-WI Shugart; td 12,000 feet, logging.

Exxon No. 1-CU New Mexico-State; drilling 8,985 feet.

Exxon No. 2 Laguna Grande; td 10,770 feet, nippling down blowout preventer. Operator set 7⅝-inch casing at 10,763 feet.

Southland Royalty No. 1 Featherstone; drilling 10,005 feet in lime.

Monsanto No. 1 Mayer; drilling 8,740 feet.

Monsanto No. 1 Lake Wood; preparing to spud.

GAINES — Fasken No. 1-214 ARCO-Fee; drilling 5,520 feet in dolomite.

Texas Pacific No. 1 Taylor; td 12,877 feet; circulating to run logs. A 145-minute drillstem test from 12,570-12,877 feet, recovered 11,947 feet of mud and formation water, plus 2,100 cubic centimeters of water from the sampler.

Cities Service No. 1-A Peters; td 12,580 feet, plugged and abandoned.

Texas Crude & Florida Gas No. 3-9 Norman; drilling 6,806 feet in lime.

GLASSCOCK — Texaco No. 1-F Glasscock; drilling 1,975 feet in sand and shale.

BTA No. 2 Cox; td 8,288 feet, drilling out cement after spotting a plug at 5,403 feet.

HOCKLEY — MGF No. 1 Davis; td 4,684 feet in lime, preparing to cut a core. Operator set 8⅝-inch casing at 515 feet.

Union of California No. 1 Woodruff; td 5,940 feet; pumped 10 barrels of oil and two barrels of water in 12 hours, through perforations at 5,904-5,918 feet.

Gulf No. 2 Haymes; td 7,900 feet; swabbed six barrels of oil and two barrels of water in six hours, through perforations at 4,859-4,962 feet, which have been acidized with 6,000 gallons.

HOWARD — North America No. 1 Alexander; drilling 3,094 feet in anhydrite and gypsum.

IRION — Texas O&G No. 1 Sheen; drilling 7,480 feet in lime. A 1½-hour drillstem test from 7,380-7,410 feet, recovered 200 feet of drilling mud, plus 2,400 cubic centimeters of drilling mud from the sampler.

KENT — Skees No. 1 Dave; td 4,196 feet, plugged and abandoned. A one-hour drillstem test from 4,142-4,196 feet, recovered 70 feet of drilling mud, no shows.

LEA — Gulf No. 1-RL Lea; drilling 15,128 feet in lime, shale.

Mewbourne No. 1-G State; drilling 10,885 feet in lime and shale.

Texas Pacific No. 1 Reed-Federal; td 5,100 feet, preparing to run logs.

Moncrief No. 1-8 State; drilling 14,014 feet in lime.

Mesa No. 1 Houston; td 11,519 feet. Shut in. It swabbed a small amount of gas and oil through Wolfcamp perforations at 10,509-10,560 feet, which had been acidized with 3,000 gallons.

Tipperary No. 1-28 State; drilling 12,543 feet in lime, shale.

V-F No. 1 Landreth; drilling 6,030 feet in lime.

LOVING — Exxon No. 2-1 Lineberry; drilling 10,960 feet.

MENARD — Tahoe No. 1 Wilhelm Wolf; still a location.

PECOS — BTA No. 1 Riggs; drilling 21,487 feet, shale, in a side track hole.

Flag-Redfern No. 1-X Moore-Gilmore; td 4,016 feet; waiting on cement; set 8⅝-inch casing at td.

Getty No. 1-24 Mendel; td 10,200 feet; waiting on cement; set 7⅝-inch casing at td.

Getty No. 1-38 Montgomery; drilling 8,770 feet.

GMW No. 1 Raymal-Eagle; drilling 15,740 feet in shale.

Phillips No. 1-H Mitchell; td 11,890 feet; still shut in.

Phillips No. 2-E Mitchell; td 12,250 feet; shut in waiting on orders.

Monsanto No. 6-C Bernice; td 10,960 feet; taking a drillstem test from 10,660-10,690 feet.

Monsanto No. 5-D Bernice; drilling 10,352 feet.

Monsanto No. 1 Atkinson-Bunger; drilling 15,599 feet.

Exxon No. 1 Crawford; drilling 10,962 feet.

REAGAN — MWJ No. 1-16 University; drilling 7,206 feet.

REEVES — BTA No. 2 Orla; drilling 12,183 feet in lime and shale.

Exxon No. 1 McIntire; drilling 7,745 feet; took a drillstem test from 7,200-7,271 feet, tool was open for 85 minutes, with a recovery of 6,287 feet of water, no oil or gas.

Texaco No. 1-BA Reeves; drilling 8,272 feet in lime and shale.

ROOSEVELT — Saxon No. 1 Holly; drilling 7,170 feet in shale.

SCHLEICHER — NRM No. 1 Enos; drilling 2,460 feet in shale.

Gulf No. 1-SX State; drilling 6,765 feet in shale.

Gulf No. 1-UF State; td 8,005 feet; flowed one barrel of oil and four barrels of water in an unreported time, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations at 7,842-7,862 feet.

SCURRY — Lario No. 1 Longbotham; drilling 2,154 feet in lime and shale.

STERLING — Texaco No. 2-G Sterling Fee; drilling 3,740 feet in lime.

STONEWALL — Rendova No. 1 Brazos; drilling 5,551 feet.

Desana No. 2-147 Flat Top; td 3,527 feet; taking potential test.

Desana No. 1-132 Flat Top; td 3,400 feet; installing tank battery.

TERRELL — Gulf No. 1-C Ruth White; td 680 feet; changing rig.

Napeco No. 1 Rashap; shut in; preparing to take four-point test.

UPTON — North American No. 1 ARCO; td 10,390 feet; preparing to log; took a drillstem test from 10,330-10,390 feet, tool was open four hours and 15 minutes; recovery was 250 feet of drilling fluid and sample chamber recovery was 2,380 cubic centimeters of drilling fluid.

VAL VERDE — Resources Investment; drilling 10,300 feet in lime and shale.

WARD — Gulf No. 2 Edwards; td 9,330 feet; pb 7,490 feet; shut in waiting on orders; preparing to squeeze Tubb perforations.

Exxon No. 3 Seale; td 6,732 feet; pb 6,098 feet; preparing to fracture treat perforations at 6,260-6,274 feet.

Monsanto No. 1 Rodgers; td 12,071 feet; picking up drill pipe.

Monsanto No. 1 Monroe; td 17,565 feet; has been dropped from report until pipeline connection is completed.

Union Texas No. 1-58 Sealy; drilling 10,460 feet in lime and shale.

Administration preparing to idle U.S. wheat farmland

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration is preparing a plan to combat the growing surplus of unsold U.S. wheat by idling millions of acres of productive farmland starting this fall.

Sources said an announcement of the first major land retirement program since 1973 could come soon, and in no case can be delayed much past the end of the month. About three quarters of the country's annual wheat crop is sowed in September and October, and wheat farmers from Texas to the Dakotas are now making final planting preparations.

Administration officials are aware of the humanitarian arguments against such a cutback in food output, given the persistence of world hunger. But they say the surplus is reaching such proportions that steps must be taken urgently to prevent the stockpiles from becoming unmanageable and more costly to taxpayers.

About 30 million metric tons of wheat harvested in 1976 — about half the U.S. crop — still have not been sold, and U.S. wheat farmers have just brought in another bumper crop of nearly 60 million additional tons.

This surplus, combined with good harvests and ample stocks abroad, have driven U.S. wheat prices in some locations down to $2 a bushel, the lowest level in five years. A four-year farm bill that will go to the President soon guarantees wheat farmers up to $3.10 a bushel, starting next year. Agricultural planners say that production cutbacks should help to revive the sluggish wheat markets, raise wheat prices, and reduce amount of money the government has to pay wheat farmers in 1978.

A number of countries, such as Argentina and Turkey, have been underselling the United States in world markets. Congressional sources said Monday that there is solid support for the administraiton's plan. They said the plan will signal to other countries the United States' refusal to hold a food reserve for the world in the form of unsold grain.

GS-5 worker charged with embezzlement

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — William C. Sibert, described by his coworkers and neighbors as a heavyset, "very likable" GS-5 who reviewed grant applications for the Department of Transportation, began showing up for work in new suits about two months ago.

Next, he began bragging about his new Lincoln Mark V Continental and the new Mercedes he had bought his wife. Then, he began inviting everyone in his office to go to lunch with him — his treat — at restaurants along the wharf in Southwest Washington.

That was too much for his superiors, who began an investigation into Sibert's sudden affluence. Unknown to them, the Secret Service and the FBI already had begun a similar probe based on tips from informants about Sibert's spending sprees.

Last Friday the 30-year-old Sibert, who lives in Clinton, Md., was arrested and charged with embezzlement of government funds when he arrived in Las Vegas with $50,000 in cash. He is currently being held in Nevada on $100,000 bond but has agreed to return to Washington voluntarily to face prosecution.

Federal agents are attempting to determine the exact amount of money Sibert allegedly stole from the government. The agents say they have accounted for $850,000, which Sibert is alleged to have spent over the last two months on a fleet of at least 12 luxury cars, a new house with a swimming pool and the purchase of a topless bar about one block from FBI headquarters here.

Investigators said they also had impounded a 30-foot houseboat Sibert had purchased recently, and had also learned of extensive recent real estate purchases by Sibert here and in the Western United States. "We're finding more property by the hour," one agent said.

Arrested with Sibert in Las Vegas Friday was Lois A. Benson, 30, of Capitol Heights, Md. She was released on personal recognizance and ordered to report to Washington to face charges.

Also arrested Friday was Sibert's wife, 23. Charges against Mrs. Sibert were dropped Monday, however.

Detailed affidavits filed in support of Sibert's arrest outlined a scheme in which he would divert to his own personal bank account Urban Mass Transit Administration money allegedly intended for the Atlanta subway system.

Another affidavit filed after the arrest and authorizing a search warrant for three rooms rented by Sibert at the Capitol Hilton Hotel at 16th and K Streets NW stated that Sibert admitted the embezzlement scheme to FBI agents after he was arrested in Las Vegas.

FBI investigating Las Vegas office after complaints

The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — Complaints about FBI agents accepting "freebies" and becoming cozy with organized crime figures spurred a recent internal probe of the bureau's Las Vegas field office. The Los Angeles Times has learned.

Although the FBI refused to discuss any details of the investigation Director Clarence M. Kelley confirmed such a probe had been conducted. He said the results of the inquiry are being reviewed for possible disciplinary action.

The investigation, launched in mid-June, was based on allegations that FBI field agents were accepting free meals, complimentary show tickets lodging and other gratuities from the owners and operators of various hotels and gambling casinos, according to one source.

"Hell, some of our agents are playing footsie with the same bastards we're trying to put in jail," said one agent who asked not to be identified.

Many of the complaints about the agents' activities came from the U.S. Attorney's office, various federal law enforcement agencies and other FBI field offices, a source told The Times.

"FBI field offices outside of Las Vegas were even refusing to share criminal intelligence information with the bureau office in Las Vegas because they were afraid of leaks," one federal source said.

"They didn't want sensitive information to get into the wrong hands.

A team of agents, headed by Robert J. McCarthy, special agent in charge of the organized crime and white collar crime division in the Los Angeles field office, spent almost a month investigating allegations against Las Vegas agents.

A number of FBI agents assigned to the Las Vegas office were subjected to lengthy interrogation and several sought legal advice from assistant U.S. attorneys assigned to the gambling center.

One of the principal complaints made to FBI headquarters in Washington, D.C., was that many of the field agents assigned to Las Vegas had been on the same job since the 1950s, "and over the years had developed friendships with some of the same people they were supposed to be watching."

Also troubling was the fact that a number of FBI agents had retired in Las Vegas and taken security positions or other jobs with various gambling casinos.

Acceptance of complimentary meals, shows and lodging wasn't limited to FBI agents assigned to Las Vegas, a source told The Times.

"Hell, this became a regular stopover for a lot of people, from agents to inspectors, because there was always somebody who could arrange a freebie or two," the same source explained.

Among the most serious allegations uncovered by The Times was that the close relationship between certain FBI agents and various organized crime figures may have compromised at least two important criminal investigations.

Kelley, however, speaking through a bureau spokesman, denied the allegation.

"An internal inquiry has been conducted into certain allegations concerning the Las Vegas office of the FBI," the director told The Times.

"The results of this inquiry revealed no criminality or serious misconduct on the part of bureau employes. However, there were several violations of FBI rules and procedures.

"The results of the inquiry are being reviewed for possible disciplinary action against those employes who violated such rules and procedures."

Kelley refused to elaborate on the nature of the violations or what disciplinary action is planned.

The Times has learned, however, that certain guidelines are being established by the FBI to cover assignment to the 45-agent Las Vegas office.

Retirements and resignations, frozen during the internal probe, have been thawed and a number of senior agents assigned to Las Vegas are expected to retire in the near future, according to one source.

Western fires drought upshot

Washington Post

SACRAMENTO — the uncontrolled fires blackening vast expanses of California countryside are the product of the great drought that has gripped the region, and now, officials fear, they may be setting the stage for future years of drought and fire.

Weary officials of the Inter-agency Command Center, coordinating firefighting efforts here, said Monday that the fires, which have destroyed 250,000 acres of forest and grassland in California since July 25, are damaging valuable watersheds that had been counted upon to help the state recover from the drought this winter.

Vegetation on the steep California hillsides preserves water and prevents eroision of the topsoil. With the vegetation gone, officials fear the hillsare likely to erode and fill near-empty reservoirs with silt instead of water.

"There is a great risk of siltation," said Richard Serino, a spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service. "With the ground cover gone, we're going to have a problem in water quality."

The only bright spot from the standpoint of erosion control is that the fires have arrived so early that the Forst Service anticipates that there will be time before the winter rains to reseed with grass and to build small diversion dams to prevent erosion.

Whether this is successful or not, Serino said, will depend on whether the rain falls gently, minimizing eroision, or arrives in a series of thunderstorms.

It was the lightning accompanying thundestorms that caused the two big fires continuing to blaze out of control in California.

The worst of these is the Marble Cone fire near Big Sur, which already has blackened more than 77,000 acres of Los Padres National Forest and the Vedanta Wilderness near Big Sur. The fire is only one-third contained and officials had no estimate on when it would be brought under control.

The other big California fire, Scarface in the northeastern corner of the state, was reported nearing control after destroying more than 80,000 acres. Smoke from this fire could be seen in Utah 500 miles away.

Smaller fires in Oregon, Arizona and Nevada were near containment today. But fires continue to burn in Alaska, across 1.5 million acres of range and tundra in an area the size of Delaware.

However, the Big Salt Fire, which once appeared to threaten the trans-Alaska oil pipeline north of the Yukon River, was described as "no longer a threat at all" by Kerry Cartier, a spokesman for the Burau of Land Management. Overall, Alaskan firefighters were aided by rain and cooler weather, Cartier said.

No such natural help was on the horizon in California.

Washington Post staff writer Cynthia Gorney, accompanying firefighting crews battling the Marble Cone fire, filed this report from Flores Camp high atop a ridge overlooking the Pacific Ocean:

"As you come down the California coast toward Big Sur there is a point south of Pebble Beach where the fog doesn't feel right. Suddenly, you realize it's a combination of fog and smoke and catch the acrid smell of the burning.

"The Big Sur fire is in a steep, inaccessible area and it is hard for firefighters to find the fire they're battling. I heard one of them say he hadn't seen the fire in three days.

"Marble Cone started as two separate lightning-caused fires which met on a ridge and produced a column of smoke 14,000 feet high. There are 3,550 people battling it, using 57 engines, 31 bulldozers, 14 helicopters, seven air tankers and 12 ground tankers. It's like a war."

In an effort to win that war, hundreds of firefighters were rushed to California to join a force of 10,000 already on the fire lines. The entire state is on "Manning Pattern C," the code words used by firefighting agencies to indicate that everyone is on duty. Firefighters from 48 to the 50 states are working in California.

Serino said that fire suppression costs in California already have topped $8 million and that damage losses will be many times that figure. He said the heavy loss of lumber also will put pressure for increased timber-cutting on other national forcests.

As the drought has already done, the fires are bringing home to the West the realization that man's natural world is an interdependent one where each supposed act of conservation has a consequence.

For instance, firefighting techniques have become so effective inrecent years that underbrush has accumulated in California forests, providing fuel for the recent series of blazes. The underbrush has been a particular problem in Los Padres National Forest, portions of which have not suffered any fire since 1896.

In Arizona, officials are worried about heavy runoff when storms do come because of the absence of any ground cover. Arizona's manmade defenses against fire are stretched thin, officials said, because 1,600 firefighters are on loan to California and the northwest states.

A series f lightning strikes, such as those that caused fires in Arizona and New Mexico earlier in the year, would force Arizona to borrow firefighters from elsewhere.

The shortage of firefighters was contributing to the size of the blazes. Myron Lee, managing the firefight in the Marble Cone blaze, was forced to adopt a strategy designed to protect the watersheds of Carmel and Monterey but, in Lee's words, "conceivably doubling the size of the fire."

Elsewhere in California, fires were steadily being brought under control Monday. Three of four big fires extending in a southwestern arc from Mt. Shasta to near the Nevada state line were described as near containment.

The exception was Eagle's Lake, near Susanville, which had burned 7,000 acres. In southern California, the Bonita fire continued to burn out of control near Sequoia National Park, after blackening 7,500 acres.

In Oregon, firefighters were making headway against the Lost Fire, near the California border, which had burned 7,760 acres. Crews battled smaller fires in Oregon, Washington and Utah.

Fire danger warnings were up throughout the West. "No smoking" and "no charcoal fires" signs will be posted Wednesday in three major Arizona national forests. The signs have been in effect for weeks in California and the northwest. One sign in northern California reads: "In Chicago a cow did it, in California people did it."

Actually, people have been responsible for few of the present crop of forest fires, in part because the danger is widely recognized and in part because carelessness is dealt with severely.

All of the major fires now going in California were caused by lightning. When a man who was target shooting started a fire Sunday on the edge of the San Bernardino National Forest, he was immediately arrested on federal charges.

Panama Canal treaty talks close ground

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — U.S. and Panamanian negotiators closed ground on remaining unresolved issues in their first day of resumed talks on a new Panama Canal treaty, sources close to the negotiations said.

The negotiators were scheduled to meet again today in what both sides expect will be the final round of talks on a new treaty eventually turning control of the waterway over to Panama.

Both sides have said a "statement of conceptual agreements" may be initialed as early as Wednesday. It would set out the main principles of an agreement after 13 years of intermittent negotiations.

The Panamanians presented their version of a draft treaty to chief U.S. negotiators Sol Linowitz and Ellsworth Bunker when the talks were reconvened Monday. The proposal was made in response to a U.S. draft offered July 10.

"I think the U.S. reaction is positive so far," Panamanian negotiator Nicolas Barletta, minister for economic planning, said after the first day's talks.

The sources said the remaining major issues were technical problems included in the treaty "annex," a document of an estimated 240 pages that will be appended to the treaty, expected to be 60 pages long.

These issues include details of the transfer of lands and waters in the Canal Zone to Panama, and the methods for delivering a reportedly agreedupon U.S. economic aid package to Panama, they said.

The treaty will also be accompanied by a separate "neutrality accord" in which Panama will declare the 63-yearold waterway open to ships of all nations.

"Let's say we are working toward cleaning the draft of the treaties presented by both sides," said Panamanian negotiator Aristides Royo.

An official close to the Panamanian delegation said an economic agreement reached last weekend, reportedly breaking a negotiating stalemate, calls for the United States to increase the amount it pays for use of the canal and the zone to $50 million a year from $2.3 million. He said the package would also include hundreds of millions of dollars in lump-sum U.S. aid.

The existing treaty, signed in 1903, gives the United States perpetual control of the canal. Panamanian negotiators say the new pact provides for the gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops by the year 2000. Thereafter, the United States would reserve the right to intervene militarily if the canal is threatened by a third nation.

Weather spawns water

By The Associated Press

Unsettled weather brought bands of thunderstorms across the central and eastern parts of the nation today, prompting a flash flood watch in parts of Iowa and a funnel cloud north of Lincoln, Neb.

The storms were clustered across the Oklahoma Panhandle from northeast New Mexico into southwest Kansas. Other storms were reported from South Dakota southeast across Missouri to northwest Georgia.

Diminishing thunderstorm activity was reported along the East Coast from Long Island, New York to North Carolina. Scattered showers and thundershowers were located over New England, offshore along the Gulf of Mexico, in the northern Rockies and from central Arizona to northwest Texas.

3 And is there a need? 200 million Americans need and want to lose weight or quit smoking. With your Medi-Health business you can offer the world's first fully guaranteed programs to serve this giant market.

This is not a franchise or dealership. It is a business you own outright. Medi-Health centers are currently being operated by private businessmen as well as medical doctors.

You need no special experience.

Purchase includes everything you need—complete hardware and technology package, advertising and personal training at your location. Financing, depreciation and investment tax credits available. Get the facts.
