Charles McGlothlin Meets Tragic Death

Is Instantly Killed and Two Companions Have Narrow Escape From Like Fate

Never has the town received a more severe shock than that on Sunday morning when the news was spread that Charles McGlothlin had been instantly killed in an automobile wreck on the highway near Bomarton at about midnight Saturday night. Indeed, it was difficult to conceive that Charles was dead, for he had been about his duties until a late hour Saturday afternoon, and it was another of those occasions to remind us that in life we are always near death, and we know not when the summons may come.

In the fearful accident which cost the life of this beloved young man Pat Taliaferrio and Springer Allen, his two companions, were thrown from the car and badly shaken up, but their injuries have proven to be only of a minor nature and they have both been dismissed from the hospital at Seymour, where they were carried after the accident.

Reports regarding the accident are somewhat conflicting, but as best we can learn the boys were returning from Seymour at a late hour Saturday night, Charles and the other two, in Pat Taliaferrio's car, a Whippet roadster, and were driving at a rather high rate of speed along the pavement about three miles north of Bomarton when they attempted to pass a Ford tournig car. Just as they turned to the left side of the road to pass the car they discovered another car approaching from the south, and realizing they could not pass the car in front of them before the approaching car reached them it is believed that Taliaferrio, who was driving, applied the brakes and attempted to fall back behind the Ford car again, and in applying the brakes his car skidded into the car going in the same direction and turned their car over several times. All three of the boys were thrown clear the car, and it believed that in going over the full weight of the car must have fallen on the body of Charles, as the condition of his body indicated that he was very badly mashed and death was instantaneous.

The two injured boys were carried to the county hospital at Seymour for medical attention and the body of Charles was brought to Munday and turned over to Rid Campbell, undertaker, who prepared the body for burial.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with the pastor, the Rev. W. H. Albertson, officiating, assisted by the Rev. R. B. Freeman, pastor of the Methodist church, and despite the fact that news of the tragedy had not been spread over the country to any great extent the auditorium of the church building was entirely inadequate to care for the great throng that came to pay their last tribute of respect to this most excellent young man.

As the remains were brought into the church the casket was preceded by nine flower girls, as follows: Mary Hope Smith, Margaret Campbell, Mauryse Smith, Madge Smith, Ethel Isbell, Helen Frances Eiland, Fern Hogan, Blanche Newsom, all of Munday, and Jozell Pritchard of Bomarton, each carrying a beautiful floral offering. The pallbearers were Harvey Lee, Harry Williams, Jess Burnison, Ira Bowden, Homer Parker and Jack Mayes.

Following the service at the church the remains were conveyed to Bomarton, where interment was made in the Bomarton cemetery. The funeral cortege was about a mile in length and when the cemetery was reached there were several hundred people of the Bomarton community gathered to attend the last sad rites.

Charles McGlothlin was born at Bomarton September 19, 1910, where he resided until his father, E. W. McGlothlin, came to Munday in the early part of 1926. He graduated from the Munday High school in the class of 1926 and immediately went to work in the First National Bank as bookkeeper, which position he held at the time of his death. He was converted in a revival meeting at Bomarton some years ago and joined the Baptist church and had lived an exemplary life.

As so many of his friends have remarked since the tragedy, to know him was to love him. He was an apostle of sunshine and optimism. Always he wore a smile and had a cheerful greeting for his friends. He was a manly young man, clean in his thoughts and deeds, and ever faithful to every trust imposed in him.

Aside from the bereaved members of the household possibly none will miss him more than those who have

School Lunch Room To Be Reopened Under Direction Mrs. Matlock

Plans are being made for the reopening of the lunch room at the school buildings by the Parent-Teacher association, and this organization has secured the services of Mrs. C. M. Matlock to operate it under the direction of Mrs. J. E. Rhodes, teacher of home economics in the schools, who will supervise the menus with a view of giving the students a properly balanced menu.

The lunch room will be operated in such a way as to provide good, wholesome food for the students at a minimum of cost, and lunches will be provided at a cost ranging from 10 cents upward.

Three separate menus will be available at all times for the students, ranging in price from 10 cents to 25 cents, while special desserts and dishes may be had at a set price. The three menus that will be provided each day are as follows: Lunch No. 1—10c, includes cream, soup and simple sandwich. Lunch No. 2—15c, includes simple sandwich and a glass of sweet milk. Lunch No. 3—25c, consists of a plate lunch containing meat or substitute, one starchy vegetable and one leafy vegetable with drink. Simple dessert will be served for 5 cents as will fresh fruit.

It is the purpose of the Parent-Teacher association to operate the lunch room at a minimum profit and to provide the students with clean wholesome foods and they ask the cooperation of the patrons of the school in their efforts. A liberal patronage will enable the association to be of a greater worth to the patrons and to the studtnt body.

Pioneer Citizen of Knox County Is Here On a Visit

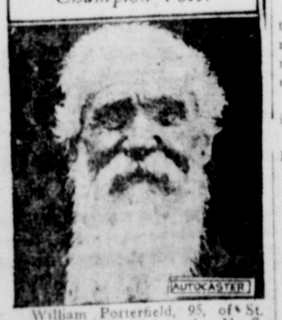

A. P. Isbell and wife of Shawnee, Oklahoma, together with their son, Geo. D. Isbell and wife of Seminole, Oklahoma, were here first of the week visiting in the home of George Isbell and other relatives, and were accompanied here by G. F. McClain of Benjamin, who is a pioneer citizen of Knox county.

The senior Mr. Isbell came to Knox county in 1885, and was one of the men who helped to build the Knox county courthouse at Benjamin. His brother, George Isbell's father, was the first sheriff of Knox county.

In talking of the changes that had taken place Mr. Isbell stated that there were not more than half a dozen homes on the entire Knox prairie when he came to the county, and while he has been away from the county only about twenty years he was unable to find many of the old-timers during his visit here. He is 63 years of age, but is still active and would pass for a man many years younger.

They departed on Tuesday morning for San Antonio and other points where they will visit before returning to their homes in Oklahoma.

Champion Voter

Tranquility of Colored Lodge Meeting Broken When Guns Are Pulled

The meeting of the M. B. A., a colored organization more fully described as the Mutual Burial association, held on Friday evening of last week at the East Beulah Baptist church was somewhat disturbed when Brother C. A. Dean, better known locally as "Blue," and Brother Louis Cole seemingly had a mutual disagreement and proceeded to smooth out their difference with their six-shooters. Brother Louis is said to have taken a couple of shots at Brother Dean, and in retaliation Brother Dean took a crack at Brother Louis. Both of Brother Louis' shots missed their mark, but the one shot fired by Brother Dean struck Brother Louis in the left arm, and as a result he is carrying his arm in a sling.

When it was all over Marshall Elliot took a hand and placed both of the Brothers under arrest and lodged complaints against them for disturbing the peace, while complaints have also been preferred against both of them in county court charging them with carrying concealed weapons.

When they were taken into custody by Mr. Elliott they were questioned concerning their faulty marksmanship. Louis stated that "Blue" went into one of the dark corners of the building and looked so much like the dark that he could not see him. "Blue" stated that he could have "kilt" Louis is he had wanted to, but he didn't want to, which was rather fortunate for Louis.

Nation-Wide Straw Poll Nears Close With Hoover In Lead

Those Who Have Not Yet Cast Their Ballots Still Have Chance To Do So

The Nationwide Presidential Poll is coming to a close. As announced at the beginning of the Poll, no ballots received after October 11th will be counted. This means that in order to vote in the Poll, if you have not yet done so, you must submit your ballot in time for us to forward it to the Autocaster News Service, New York, before October 11. We advise you to DO IT NOW. To date, and ever since that start of the poll that this newspaper is taking in conjunction with 2,000 other newspapers the country over, the voting has been so close that prediction as to the outcome of the presidential battle is well-nigh impossible.

Until recently, other big straw votes also showed but slight differences in the standing of the candidates. In the past two weeks, however, Hoover has been climbing steadily upward. The Nationwide Presidential Poll shows now that he leads Smith by 37,881, having 602,985 to Smith's 565,104. The Hearst Newspapers' Nationwide Poll shows 451,717 for Hoover and 377,434 for Smith. In the latter poll, Hoover has been making considerable gains recently. The Literary Digest differs from the other polls in that it gives Smith but one half of the votes it gives Hoover, but this poll is not yet complete in the sense that thus far it has covered but a few states and not the entire country. Many strong Democratic sections are still to be heard from.

In the Nationwide Poll, 107,478 who voted the Democratic ticket in the last presidential election declare for Hoover, while 67,744 who voted for the Republican ticket last presidential election are backing Smith. The Literary Digest Poll has been showing a considerable "switch" of former Republicans to Smith, double the number of Democrat-to-Republican "switches" that it reports.

The Nationwide Presidential Poll indicates more than anything else the great uncertainty of the outcome of the present campaign. While Hoover has been consistently in the lead, the voting has been very close indeed. The great number of "switches" was one of the most surprising features of this straw vote, and another surprising feature noted early in the balloting was the fact that the majority of the "switches" were taking place in the Southern states. Now the Literary Digest Poll displays the same phenomenon of a great number of "switches," the South as yet untouched, with shifts to Smith greatly in the lead.

The Nationwide Presidential Poll is confined to the smaller centers of America, and is non-partisan. It is an attempt to discover the political sentiments of Rural America.

The response to this poll has been very great.

Now the close is at hand, and in order to make the final result as representative as possible, each and every citizen who has not yet done so is particularly urged to clip the ballot today and mail or bring it to the office of this newspaper.

Mrs. Eliza Voyle, Pioneer Citizen of Texas, Passes On

Mrs. Eliza Voyle, pioneer citizen of Texas, passed away Saturday at the home of her son, J. M. Voyle, west of Munday, and the remains were shipped by the Campbell undertaking establishment to Weatherford for interment.

Mrs. Voyle was born in Georgia October 1, 1843, and came with her husband to Texas in 1873, settling in Parker county, which was the extreme outpost of civilization in the western portion of the state, and there she has made her home for the many years that have intervened. She has been here for some months visiting in the home of her son.

She is survived by two sons, a daughter and a step-daughter, J. M. Voyle of Munday; T. J. Voyle of Granfield, Oklahoma; Mrs. Lula Stratton of Garner, Texas, and Mrs. Josie Bates of Poolville, Texas.

Mrs. Voyle was one of the small band of survivors of the civil war who was in attendance at the Confederate reunion here last summer.

A more detailed account of the life of this good woman will be publised in our next issue.

TRI-COUNTY TEACHERS INSTITUTE TO BE HELD AT HASKELL OCT. 25.

A Tri-county Teachers Institute, comprised of the counties of Haskell, Knox and Stonewall, will be held in Haskell on October 25th. A most interesting program is being arranged for the gathering of teachers from the three counties, and a number of outstanding school people have already been secured for the institute, among them are Dr. Wiggins of Simmons University, Abilene; Dr. Wilcox of A. and M. College, and Miss Lipscomb of the College of Industrial Arts, Denton. Other speakers and educaters of note are to have a part in the program.

W. H. Chapman spent the weeek end visiting relatives at Winters, while Mrs. Chapman and the children visited in Abilene.

Knob Knockers Pay Visit to Towns On The Wichita Valley

Seymour, Bomarton, Goree, Munday and Haskell were all visited by Knob knockers on Wednesday night of last week, and it seems that they made a speciality of railway station safes, as they knocked the knobs on safes at Seymour, Bormarton, Goree and Haskell, while here they knocked the knob at the Farmers Elevator Company, but failed to break into the inner safe.

At Seymour a number of mail pouches were cut into and the contents taken, presumbably by the same gang, who, according to officers are believed to have started on the north end of the line and worked toward the south. It is believed that they visited Munday about 2:00 a. m. as night policeman Collins reported that a car occupied by three strangers drove into town at about that hour and remained here for only a few minutes, and their haste in getting away probably accounts for their failure to complete their job here.

A check up of losses along the line indicate that they were very poorly rewarded for their efforts, as it is believed, with the exception of the unknown amount secured from the mail bags at Seymour, that their operations netted them only about $90.00.

Sousa, the King of Bandmen, To Be In Abilene Oct. 18

Abilene, Oct. 11.—According to advance information from over West Texas, high school bands and other students and children from all over this section of the state will gather here on the afternoon of October 18th to hear the special children's program to be given by the world's most famous musical organization, Sousa's Band.

This special program, which is to be followed by the regular concert in the evening, will be given at the Simmons University auditorium under the direction of the Simmons Cowboy Band.

Definite announcement was made by the Cowboy Band management this week that the Eagle Band of Abilene High School will be led by the world famous Sousa in one march in a prelude to the Afternoon program.

The admission is being put down to fifty cents to give every school child a chance to hear the world's best and most noted band. Fully 2,000, which is the capacity of the Simmons auditorium, are expected, according to the local management. Several high school bands from this section are coming in a body, it is stated.

Fire Prevention Program Thursday

Munday Citizens Will Join In State-Wide Movement To Minimize Fire Losses

With a special program as the high point of the week, Munday is joining in the observance of Fire Prevention Week in compliance with a proclamation issued last week by Mayor C. L. Mayes.

Business houses have been notified to clean up around their premisis, with special stress on cleaning up and keeping clean the back alleys and other spots that offer an opportunity for fire to originate, and later in the week an inspection will be made of the entire city with a view of reducing fire hazards and improving the sanitary condition of the city.

The program which is to be given on Thursday evening at the community auditorium will be participated in by various organizations and industrials and will be interesting from beginning to end. Music for the occasion will be provided by the Munday Chamber of Commerce Band.

As outlined the program that will be rendered is as follows:

Music—Munday Chamber of Commerce Band.

Devotional—Rev. R. B. Freeman.

"The Value of Fire Prevention"—Mayor C. L. Mayes.

Chorus—High School Choral Club.

"Who Pays for Fires?"—"How and Why They Occur"—John Ed Jones.

Reading—"The Fire Brigade"—Vela Phillips.

Theme on Fire Prevention—High School Winner.

Piano Solo—Miss Thornton.

One-Act Drama, written and presented by Senior Class.

Explanation of Work of Boy Scouts in the Fire Hazard and Sanitary Survey—Mr. Kunkel.

Inspection of school posters on Fire Prevention.

County Supt. Asks $6,766.00 Aid For The Rural Schools

The County Superintendent has sent in application to the State Department of Education asking for aid to the amount of $6,766.00 for the rural schools of the county.

The following schools asked for aid: Cottonwood, Gillespie, Gilliland, League, Washburn, Dixon, Vera, Prairie View, Hood, Lone Star, Jungman, Union Grove and Hefner.

The new law with regard to aid proposes to give a school six months school out of State funds. The State regulates th e maximum salaries to be paid out of state and county funds also the number of teachers per scholastic.

Fearless Female Farmers Fly in Face of Fate

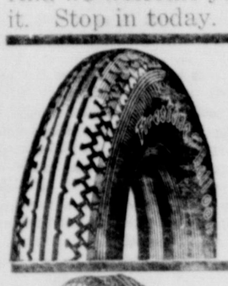

They care for hives and harvest honey for market without the least trepidation—often without protection for their faces and hands. Bee farming is one of the largest industries in the Western part of Washington. From one farm near Elma which has 360 hives nearly forty tons of honey are expected. Many of the farms employ girls only—as the female of the species seems to be braver than the male in handling bees.

AMENDMENTS AFFECTING EDUCATION TO BE VOTED ON IN NOVEMBER ELECTION

Editor's Note. The following article has been received from Mrs. Ethie Lee P'Pool with the request that it be published in order that our citizens might be informed on the Constitutional Amendments to be submitted to the voters November 6.

1. State Board of Education.

Proposed Amendment: "The Legislature shall provide by law for the State Board of Education, whose members shall be appointed or elected in such manner and by such authority and shall serve for such terms as the legislature shall prescribe not to exceed six years. The said board shall perform such duties as may be prescribed by law."

The State Board of Education at present is composed of the Governor, Comptroller and Secretary of State, with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction as the ex-officio of the board.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction in his efforts to secure needed progressive legislation cannot expect the same support from an ex-offcia board as he would receive from a real State Board of Education. With reference to the presentation of constructive legislation, the public schools should be placed an an equal footing with the higher institutions of learning, which are governed by five separate boards of regents.

The amendment does not attempt to prescribe the duties of the new State Board of Education and questions raised in the discussion of the advisability of amending the amendments as to these duties should not be ment. In event that the amendment carries, the next step should be to give serious thought to the enabling act to be passed by the legislature which will assign specific duties to the new State Board of Education.

1 . Extension of Term of Public School Trustees.

Proposed Amendment: "The Legislature shall fix by law the terms of all offices of the public school system and of the State institutions of higher learning, inclusive, and the terms of members of the respective boards, not to exceed six years."

The present constitution limits the term of office of school trustees to two years. If the term of office could be extended as provided in the amendment, having an odd number of members of boards of trustees and continuing a majority of said members in office after each election would give stability and a degree of permanency to the policies of the board. In other words, efficiency of organization would be advanced by the election of a minority of boards of trustees at any one time.

In event this amendment carries, the following plan for carrying over a majority of the board at each election is suggested:

1. The board of trustees of a rural school district elected to a term of three years with one member elected each year.

2. The county board of trustees elected for a term of five years with one member elected each year.

3. The board of trustees of an independent school district elected for a term of three years with two members elected the first year, two the second and three the third.

This is the explanation of the proposed amendment by Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs.

"Where Quality Is Supreme"

Those who ask what are the logical consequences of Christianity will find their answer in the lesson text now under study. Religion is not something that is mechanical or that can be evaluated in terms of material things. To begin with, the basis is the Triune God and Jesus said of the Father, "God is a spirit: and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth," John 4:24. Using spiritual means, according to their possibilities, you reach the Christian ideal-ism portrayed in 1 Corinthians 12-13. Those who are so ready to assert that Christianity has failed should have it in mind that people have been negligent in following the materials and methods of Christianity. Now read both chapters with utmost care and see something of the possibilities in life.

Some effective spiritual gifts are possessed by only a few. All do not have special wisdom and knowledge, power of working miracles or of stating prophecy. Some even speak in strange languages and others can interpret though they have never studied these languages. Such "gifts" come by the favor of the one God. Regardless of what any one possesses he should not be boastful over another. Rather all are to consider themselves as part of the body of Christ and as such each has his own essential function to perform.

In contrast with such things, which are spectacular, there is a possession which can be common to all and the exhortation is "Desire earnestly the greater gifts." Then Paul sets forth in the great Love chapter, 1 Corinthians XIII, a perfection in spiritual gifts which all can enter into. This chapter should be committed to memory, even as multitudes have done.

Herein we are told that deeds in loving kindness count above all high sounding professions or spectacular achievements. Angel-spoken do not take the place of deeds of love. We must so act toward those we meet in the everyday life that we will be comfortable folks for others to live with. It is possible to talk in the language of God and refer to "prophcies," "mysteries" and "all knowledge" but what is called for in this needy world is to walk among men as Jesus did when on earth and speak rather in deeds of love. One may even make large gifts that such bounty may be seen of men, but what is pertinent in the Christian life is that the giver shall go on his own errands loving kindness and tender mercy.

There is a patience in love that "suffereth long and is kind," that "endureth all things." Love is not boastful and vaunting. It does not talk self up and the other fellow down. Love does not hunt for the little evil in another and then take delight in broadcasting the imperfection. Before telling anything that may be against another it is well to always ask at least two questions: Is it true and will any good be accomplished by the telling? Love hopes against hope that the rumor of stumbling may not be so.

Too often one thinks of the Christian life as negative, what one gives up or does not do. Such omissions are only the starting point for the positive and constructive. Now read again the Love Chapter and write the fifteen different positive qualities in love that are enumerated. Each one of these is to be wrought out in your life that there may be a symmetrical whole.

THE THINKER

Back of the beating hammer
By which the steel is wrought,
Back of the workshop's clamor
The seeker may find the Thought,
The Thought that is ever master
Of iron and steam and steel,
That rises above disaster
And tramples it under heel!
The drudge may fret and tinker
Or labor with dusty blows,
But back of him stands the Thinker,
The clear-eyed man who knows;
For into each plow and saber,
Each piece and part and whole,
Must go the Brains of Labor,
Which gives the work a Soul!
Back of the motors humming,
Back of the belts that sing,
Back of the hammers drumming,
Back of the cranes that swing,
There is the eye which scans them
Watching through stress and strain
There is the Mind which plans them—
Back of the brawn, the Brains!
Might of the roaring boiler,
Force of the engine's thrust,
Strength of the sweating toiler,
Greatly in those we trust.
But back of them stands the Schemer
The Thinker who drives things through;
Back of the job—the Dreamer
Who's making the dream come true!

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Simon Judd, amateur detective and William Dort, an undertaker, visit John Drane, an eccentric man of wealth, at the Drane place. Suddenly John Drane is murdered, and Dr. Blessington, after examining the body makes the astounding revelation to Amy Drane that her "uncle" is a woman and not a man.

All the servants in the household are sickly, and it is revealed that John Drane never discharged a servant for ill health. Dick Brennan, detective, arrives at the house and makes thorough investigations. Simon Judd tells him the story of the actual John Drane with whom he (Judd) was acquainted in Riverbank. Judd proposes to Brennan that he "go partners" with Brennan in the solution of the crime. Brennan accepts, then Judd declares that Amy is not John Drane's neice or any relations of Drane. Mrs. Vincent, housekeeper tells Brennan that Drane picked his servants from among the chronic patients at the hospital. Dr. Blessington is asked if he had ever noticed any special change in Drane.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Change?" the doctor queried.

"As if up to some time, he was the real John Drane and from then on was this woman playin' she was him?" explained Simon Judd.

"Why, since it is brought to my attention with this mystery in mind," Dr. Blessington said, "there was a time when I noticed a change in John Drane, a shocking change as I thought it. The time is pretty well fixed in my mind, too. As a matter of fact there have never been two very distinct changes in this John Drane. One was when he returned from California; I hardly knew him. The other—the most shocking one—was some five months later. As a physician, coming to the house frequently, I noticed it particularly. Just before he went to California this John Drane—man or woman—was decidedly run down in health; in bad shape, I thought, although I was not asked to advise him. Then he went to California and when he returned he was like, as we say, another man. He was brisker, more cheerful, and he had put on quite a little flesh for such a thin man. He walked better and stood better. At that time his hair was dark, but he probably used a dye. The man who went to California may not have been the woman who returned. On the other hand the change may have been wrought by rest and the warm climate."

"And the other time, five months later, said Brennan.

"A more striking change," the physician said. From the time Drane returned from California looking so well he began to run down again. I did make so bold as to speak to him about it and he said he knew he must do something; he said he thought he would go south, to Hot Springs, and take a long rest. A week later he went and he was gone three months. He came back with his hair absolutely gray, as it is now, his face emaciated, his body nothing but bones. It was a shocking change. Except for one thing I might be willing to swear that, in my opinion, the person who came back from Hot Springs was not the man who went there. That thing is a scar on this woman's abdomen—the scar of an appendicitis operation. My opinion now is that she probably went there for the operation—if that was indeed where she went—in order that her sex might not be discovered by any one who knew her."

"That's a possibility," Brennan admitted.

She could have changed into women's clothes at some stop-over en route," the doctor said, "changing back into male garments on her return. If that is the answer she must have had a bad time of the operation to wear down so tremendously. But it is possible that the man who left here that time was not the woman-man who returned here a little later."

Brennan said nothing for a full minute.

"I'm afraid I don't see much in that idea, doctor," he said finally. "There's too much of the impossible in it. The person who returned from Hot Springs—if that was where the person went—was certainly very much like the person who left here as John Drane, is it not so? Enough so that you were not particularly suspicious? Then how could a substitution have been made? Who was this woman who was so much like John Drane that she could come back here and take his place in the house and at his office and in Wall Street, going on with his speculations without creating comment? The thing is rather absurb. Such a woman must have planned taking John Drane's place for years; she must have learned all about his business to the minutest details, and all about his home affairs here. She must have planned to murder him or make away with him somehow. It is to improbable, doctor."

"You asked me, you know?" said Dr. Blessington a little offended.

"And your answer is perfectly good," said Brennan. "Now let me ask you another: did you ever notice anything to make you think this woman was insane? I mean the victim of a mania. What do you think of her idea of having sick servants and no others? What about her friendship with this undertaker?

Dr. B'essington turned these questions in his mind before he answered.

"You understand that I am not an alienist," he said, choosing his words with some care. "I am only what is called a general practitioner. As one of the hospital staff I have sometimes recommended to Drane, at his request, chronic patients still able to do easy work, and it never occured to me that there was insanity in his desire to aid the unfortunates. To tell you the truth, Brennan, I thought it was fine of him to give these people jobs in his house. Even when they fell ill he saw that they had the best attention, medical and otherwise. When they died—"

"A good many die, did they?" asked Brennan, and Dr. Blessington colored.

"You will remember that they were mostly people doomed to die," he said stiffly. "They had, many of them—most of them—incurable diseases."

"But they did die," Brennan insisted. "What I mean is this, doctor: this woman known as John Drane had great wealth, if she wanted to help these incurables she could have sent them to sanitariums and she could never have missed the money. She seems to have liked to have the sickly, the dying, and the undertaker clustered about her. I'd call that morbid, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, I might call it morbid," Dr. Blessington admitted. "I wouldn't say it meant she was crazy."

"Well, I don't know that it makes such a difference whether she was crazy or not; she has been murdered just the same, sane or insane," Brennan said. "I'm just trying to get a clear picture of her in my mind. That's all now, doctor; I can get in touch with you if anything else turns up."

The doctor opened the door leading into the hall, but Simon Judd held him with a question.

"Say doc," he said "how long have you known this John Drane, anyway?"

Dr. Belessington pulled at his chin, trying to place an exact date.

"He came here, I believe, in 1893," he said. "It may have been '92 or '94. I met him first that same year when I called on him for a gift to our hospital. I knew that I hoped he might make use of my services if he needed a physician, but wasn't called in until two years later—say in 1895. I've been the family physician since then."

"And along back there in '93 and '95 he was just about the same feller he looks as he lies up there on the bed?" Simon Judd asked.

"Yes," said the doctor slowly. "Yes, increasing age and illness taken into consideration."

"You don't mean to say!" Simon Judd exclaimed. "Well, black my cats! And I dare say it was along about when he called you in that he began to gather these sickly hired helps around him, huh?"

"Yes, I think that is so," Dr. Blessington said. That is so."

"And when, doc," Simon Judd asked cheerfully, "was the time when he murdered the first of these sickly hired hands of his?"

Mother!

Watch Child's Tongue

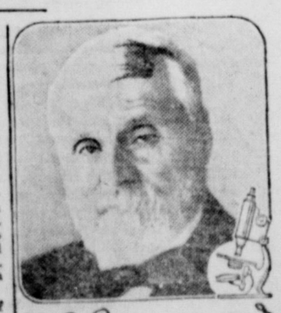

"California Fig Syrup" is Children's Harmless Laxative

When your child is constipated, bilious, has colic, feverish-breath, coated-tongue, or diarrhea, a teaspoonful of genuine "California Fig Syrup" sweetens the stomach and promptly cleans the bowels of poisons, gases, bile, souring food and waste. Never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs. Children love its delicious taste.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has full directions for babies and children of all ages, plainly printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the prescribed dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

Diagram showing water currents through radiator. Inset—Thermostat controlling water temperature.

IMPROVED COLD WEATHER PERFORMANCE Resulting from the

CROSS-FLOW RADIATOR

The cross-flow radiators in the cooling systems of the Pontiac Six and the Oakland All-American Six reduce to a minimum the evaporation of water and alcohol. An automatic thermostat prevents water circulation until the engine reaches correct operating temperature. As a consequence the engine warms up quickly and less choking is needed, reducing dilution of crankcase oil. Because of the protection the cross-flow radiator provides against losses of water and alcohol, the Pontiac Six and the All-American Six require less attention in winter than other cars. Also, through their thermostatic control, they reveal far better performance than other cars in their fields when the temperature is low . . . The cross-flow radiator is available only on the Pontiac Six and the All-American Six. Come in and see it. And learn while you're here of the many other advancements which only these two great General Motors Sixes provide.

Politics make strange bedfellows, 'tis said, and this statement is borne out by the present national campaign here in Texas. Morris Shepherd, who has fought the battles for the prohibition cause for many years, and who is the author of the constitutional amendment which outlawed the liquor business in the United States, is campaigning for the Democratic nominee. Oscar Branch Colquitt, who was twice elected Governor of Texas as the apostle of the "wets" is leading the "Hoover" Democrats. When the cause of prohibition in Texas really needed able leadership Colquitt was flaunting the banner of the liquor interests. Now that men of the type of Morris Shepherd have written into the constitution a law that will forever outlaw the liquor interests Mr. Colquitt is throwing one fit right after another for fear that the law might be nullified or repealed.

Anyway the pesent political situation is giving some rock-ribbed Republicans in Texas an opportunity to speak out in preaching. F'rinstance there's the Foard County News, whose editor has long been a follower of the G. O. P., but who ordinarily refrains from delving heavily into the political discussions, has come out openly and declared that the Democrats of Texas should bolt their party and vote for Mr. Hoover. But, we can't complain, for really we've advised our Republican friends for many years to desert their party, but have found practically none who would follow our advice. They even refused to desert their party when it became contaminated with the dirty dollars that accrued to it through the Teapot Dome scandal, and even to this good day we have encountered those who point the finger of scorn at Tammany and the thievery of Boss Tweed, whose death occurred in a New York jail four years before the present Democratic nominee was born, and about forty-nine years before constitutional prohibition became a "great economic experiment."

Thinking Out Loud!

In the mad scramble last week we made a grevious error of omission. We subjected ourself to the everlasting displeasure of our worthy contemporary, E. L. Covey, and his wife by unintentionally failing to mentiot an item of great importance in their home, and now we're trying to work our way back into the good graces of the Covey's It all came about through the arrival of a fine boy in the Covey home some days ago, and since this is the first boy to make his home with the Coveys, its naturally a very important event, and we not only extend our apologies to the fond parents but to the two little sisters as well. We just forgot, kiddies, as your own dad sometimes forgets items of interest, and it's one of the most annoying things we editors have to contend with. Anyway, congratulations are in order, and here's hoping the fond parents bring the lad up and train him in some line of endeavor that passes more remuneration for the efforts expended than does the editing of a country newspaper.

That the Moguls are a scrappy little band of warriors was demonstrated on last Friday afternoon when they met and conquered the big Throckmorton aggregation. Only once during the game did the Throckmorton team have a ghost of a chance to score, but they didn't. All along the boys have been excellent on the defensive, and now they are perfecting some plays that are going to cause some of the football fans in adjoining towns to sit up late at night figuring out alabies, which as usual, have no echoes. Coach Palmer is to be congratulated upon the work of this aggregation.

Nothing could be more detrimental to a football squad than for the coach to so far forget his station as to become "all het-up" over the referee's decision on a play. Good sportsmanship is commendable anywhere, but with a coach, it is one of the essentials. ..

Among the fans who came over on Friday afternoon to witness the Munday-Throckmorton game was the Rev. James M. McLean, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church here, and now pastor at Throckmorton.

Peter Loran, the Sage of Rhineland, was in Monday to cast his ballot in our straw vote election for president, and as usual, was getting a "kick" out of life. Mr. Loran is an optimist and sees the funny side of life while others are "viewing with alarm," and here's a clipping he handed us with the remark that he had gotten a good laugh out of it and had passed it to a number of his friends to laugh at. Under the heading, "Dr. Mayo Shines in High Society," the item follows: "Dr. Chas. Mayo, head of the famous Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., recently had an equally eminent surgeon from London visiting him. "Dr. Charles," as he is called by his friends, is a man of simple tastes and while he has a luxurious home he does not have a big retinue of servants. The London doctor was used to more aristocratic ways and he would put his shoes outside his bedroom door every night, expecting them to be polished by a valet. Dr. Charles did his best to rise to the occasion but finally one night he whispered to his son: "Charlie, I've been shinging that damned Englishman's shoes every night for a week, and now it's your turn."

Dr. Frank Crane Says—

The Empty North

One of the most striking passages of that ancient collection of literature known as the Bible, is "He hangeth the north over an empty place." It is found in the Book of Job.

The queer part of it is that astronomically the north is a somewhat empty place. In a measure you can see for yourself that there are not many stars in that direction.

All this is called to mind when we read of General Nobile's flight over the Pole a short time ago. He discovered again what had already been discovered, that when you get to the North Pole you find nothing there—just frozen emptiness.

Think of all these years that men have dreamed of getting to the North Pole, and striven for it, and died for it. What does it amount to, after all?

It is simply a record to make, a sort of impossible line to toe, but all those fanciful dreams of Simms, Hole, and the like, about there being an undiscovered country up there, are pure fiction.

The only part of this globe that is habitable is the temperate zone, and in a measure the tropics.

General Nobile's discoveries, as well as those of others, reveal that the north is to be added to the oceans and the deserts and the mountain ranges as pure waste. A deal of the universe, as far as we can see, is waste in the sense of not being habitable by man. We cannot live in the seas, and life is difficult in the high mountain ranges.

Considering how vast is the universe, and how many of the stars are simply blazing balls of fire utterly uninhabitable by any form of life, and how gigantic are the distances between the stellar bodies, and even what a great portion of this planet is not habitable, one's philosophy of life unconsciously limits the importance of mankind, and adds a new meaning to the exclamation:

"When consider Thy heavens, the moon and the stars which Thou hast ordained, what is man that Thou art mindful of him, and the son of man that Thou visitest him?"

HOW TO BE FAMOUS. FASTER AIR MAIL. WARNINGS TO MIDDLE AGED. TRILLIONS COUNT.

There are many ways of making the world talk about you.

One philosopher jumped into the trater of Vesuvius.

A slave, that his name might be remembered, burned the Temple of Diana at Ephesus.

Disraeli wore waistcoats of scarlet and gold, and curled his hair in beautiful black ringlets in the House of Commons, and Miss Sophia Curtiss gave a dinner party for her favorite horse, named "Surprise."

The horse was late to the table; many well-known stage folk attended and ate while the horse ate. That happened twenty years ago, but now that Miss Curtiss dies, aged sixty-five, every newspaper will mention it.

Thank heaven, the President and Postmaster-General New, the Post Office at least encourages flying, in earnest.

In the Post Office, flying is treated as a separate important enterprise, not tacked on to post office trains and trucks as a "minor auxiliary."

Not satisfied with excellent air mail service, the Post Office plans to increase mail plane speed thirty-five miles an hour, making the trip between the Atlantic and the Pacific in twenty-four hours, cutting off one day.

That is progress.

A well-known merchant, fifty-five years old, played a "hard, fast" game of tennis, beating players half his age, went home, told his wife about it, and was dead a little later.

Tennis or any other violent game is dangerous to every man past forty.

Howard M. Anderson, typesetter, seventy years old, very strong, says, "Take a cold bath every morning. I get up at 5, can do cartwheels and handsprings."

Mr. Anderson might do double back somersaults and still it would be foolish for a man of seventy, or any age past thirty, to take a cold bath in the morning before exercising.

Your nervous system should not be shocked violently, but saved to give warnings and information. A cold bath in the morning in many cases is a short cut to the grave.

Professor Albert A. Michelson, of Chicago University, Nobel prize winner, and greatest living physicist, has concluded experiments at Pasadena, confirming his findings as to the speed of light. The speed, inconceivable to our minds, is 186,284 miles a second. Some ask, "Why bother about a few miles in a speed like that?" The matter is very important to science.

One of the so-called "outside universes" is one million light years away from our little earth, which revolves in a cosmic city called the Milky Way. One million light years is the distance that light can travel in one million years.

At that distance, a difference in speed of one mile to the second would mean a difference of thirty-one trillion five hundred and thirty-six billion miles, enough of a difference, even in astronomy

The longest fence in the world is one of wire netting in Australia 1,386 miles long.

THE NEW PAPER MONEY FOR NEXT YEAR

With the advent of 1929, the new size of paper currency, smaller in size than the present bank notes, will be issued by the United States Government. The new size is 6 1-4x 2 9-16 inches, and was brought about in the interest of efficiency and economy. But, it will have many other advantages. The new "bills" will have new pictures on their faces and backs; they are printed by the intaglio method from specially-engraved plates, chrommium-plated; they will be easier to handle than the present size of bank notes; and, they will be more difficult to counterfeit, or alter.

"Once the New Year arrives," said Alvin W. Hall, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, D. C., "tons of the new currency will move out of Washington by truck loads. When the banks request new currency, they will receive the new size, and the old notes will be taken out of circulation as fast as they come in."

The new size and design of paper money are the result of years of careful planning, investigation and designing. According to Mr. Hall it is the first "thought-out" money in the history of the Government. Heretofore, there has been no harmony, and many more varities were printed than were necessary.

For example, the old $10 note; Five designs were in circulation. One contained the portrait of A. J. Hendricks; one had the portrait of Michael Hillegas. (Neither men were well-known to the public). Another had the portrait of Andrew Jackson; still another had that of William McKinley; the fifth pictured a buffalo with a humped back.

In the new line of bills, all this has been changed. All notes of each denomination will be practically alike. On the $10 note, for example, in place of five different pictures, each note will have the likeness of Alexander Hamilton on one side, and a picture of the Treasurery Building on the other side.

The various issues of the notes will have only technical differences—denoting gold, silver, etc—that are of no special interest to the public in general. These differences will be indicated by certain printed matter on the faces of the bills, and a difference in the seal that is put on after the regular printing has been done.

The main idea back of the new designs is that the picture of a famous man shall represent each denomination.

There are eleven denominations of paper money now in circulation. In the new currency, the $1 note will have the portrait of George Washington as at present. On the back appears "ONE" in large letters, making the note raisers task difficult. Jefferson'sportrait is on the face of hte $2 note while an engravingof Monticello is on the back. The new $5 note has the portrait of Lincoln on the face and a picture of the Lincoln Memorial on the back. The $20 note has Andrew Jackson's portrait on the face, and an engraving of the White House on the back. The $50 note has Grant's portrait on the face, and a picture of the Capitol on the back. The $100 note will have the portrait of Benjamin Franklin on the face and likely, an engraving of Independence Hall on the back.

All the notes, up to the $100 bill, and except hte $1 note, will have pictures of buildings on their backs, making it hard to pass $1 bills for higher notes by changing numbers. Above $100, the notes have beautiful ronate designs on their backs. The $500 note bears the likeness of McKinley; the $1000 note has the portrait of Grover Cleveland; the $5000 note has the portrait of Madison; and the $10,000 note that of Salmon Chase.—The Printers Album.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES CO.

The time is near at hand when the people of the nation will express at the ballot box their approval or disapproval of its public servants and national policy.

When the public speaks it always is portentous, significant and consequential. Whether the verdict applies to national politics, a public utility, a private business or an individual. It is an incontrovertible force in which judgment the victor or the victim must abide.

The public demands, and is entitled to service—good service and constructive service—no other kind will develop confidence and trust or perpetuate loyalty and patronage.

This sort of service forms one of the basic principles upon which the West Texas Utilities Company is founded. It is with pride that we point to the thousands of satisfied customers who stand loyal and steadfast. We like to believe that it is a commentary to our unswerving efforts that our industry continues to grow and thrive in such gratifying proportions.

Dr. and Mrs. N. L. Davidson came in Monday from their home in the Rio Grande Valley, and will spend several days visiting friends and looking after business matters.

W. C. Bevers and family went to Wichita Falls early Sunday morning for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Thelma Albright, and after arriving in Wichita Falls they decided to go on to Dallas and visit their son, Lanham Bevers, and visit the Texas State Fair, which they did. They report many attractions at the fair that are worth while.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hobart and sons returned from Dallas Monday where they had been taking in the Fair and while there, also visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Davis.

Dr. Maudie Marie Burns, who was carried to a Wichita Falls hospital last week suffering from an attack of appendicitis, underwent an operation the latter part of the week and word from there is to the effect that she is getting along nicely, and will be home within a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warren and children, Joe Bray and Winnifred, Mrs. R. E. Alexander and Misses Mamie Maxwell and Christene Chapman motored to Wichita Falls on Monday evening to witness the operetta, "Naughty Marietta," and they are loud in their praise of the performance.

The little three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Neece, residing south of Munday, was quite painfully injured last Sunday morning when she pulled a lamp off a dresser, breaking it and inflicting a severe cut on the head. The child was brought into town for medical attention and several stitches were required to close the wound, and the child is doing nicely.

Chester Borden is somewhat inclined to be "chesty" this week, and it's all because he's the daddy of a fine boy, who made his arrival on the scene of action Tuesday in Wichita Falls, and we are pleased to report that the mother and son are doing nicely.

Miss Mamie Maxwell of Kirkland is here this week visiting Mrs. R. E. Alexander. Miss Maxwell was formerly home demonstration agent of Knox county and has a large host of friends here who are always glad to see her.

D. L. Shelton of Runnels county was here over the week end visiting old friends. Mr. Shelton was formerly a resident of Munday and has a number of friends here who are always glad to welcome him to Munday.

Editor Chas. J. Neely of the Throckmorton Tribune was here Friday with the Throckmorton football squad. Mr. Neely is an enthusiastic football fan and usually found on the sideline pulling for his home team. He is an old schoolmate of Supt. J. E. Rhodes, and enjoyed a brief visit with him while here. Mr. Neely states that conditions are not very flattering in the Throckmorton country due to the prolonged drought, which cut grain crops very short and cotton is very poor as well, and he states that unless they have some rains soon the prospects are goins to be even more discouraging.

Society

Mesdames Lane and Edwards Entertain Diversity Club.

The first social of the Hallowe'en season was that of Tuesday evening when Mesdames John Lane and Victor Edwards were hostesses to the members of the Diversity Club and a few guests at the Lane home. The Hallowe'en spirit was emphasized in the score cards and service covers, also in the ice course served, which consisted of individual frozen pumpkins and angel cake, with favors of black cats, witches et cetera. "84" was enjoyed during the evening.

Club members present were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. E. Duval, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Mauldin, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Loveless, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Haney, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kennedy, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Farrington, Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Ammons, Mesdames J. D. Kethley, Henry Craig and Mr. H. F. Barnes. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Broach, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. McStay, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Holder, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Will Heard, Dr. and Mrs. N. L. Davidson and Misses Shelley and Kimmie Lee.

Study Club Opens Year With Interesting Program.

The Munday Study Club met in the first regular meeting of the year on Friday afternoon, October 5, at the home of Mrs. F. O. Campbell with a large number of members present.

The culb is studying modern drama, a course prepared by the University of Texas, this year. The course is deep and demands much study, and consequently is proving very enjoyable.

The club especially appreciated the musical numbers contributed by Mesdames Ingram, Duval and Kunkel and Miss Thornton.

The next regular meeting will be held with Mrs. R. D. Atkeison with another program on Hendrick Ibsen.

W. M. U. Is Organized at New Hope

Mesdames M. H. Reeves, R. L. Briggs, J. O. Bowden and A. C. Brock went to New Hope on Saturday afternoon of last week and assisted in the organization of a Woman's Missionary Union, and following the organization the following officers were elected: Mrs. H. H. Reed, president; Mrs. Elmer Dobbs, vice-president; Mrs. J. L. Dobbs, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Hood, young people's leader. Other places in the organization are to be filled later.

The good ladies of this community are looking forward to the accomplishment of much good through the united efforts made possible by the organization.

Senior B. Y. P. U.

The Senior B. Y. P. U. met Sunday evening at 8 o'clock with a large number present.

We had a wonderful program led by Gladys Williams. After the program we elected officers which are as follows:

Group Captain No. 1—Dessie Hammock; Group Captain No. 2—Marvin Warren; President, W. F. Henderson; Vice President, George D. Hammock; Secretary, Virginia S. Curry; Treasurer, Ammie E. Munday; Cor. Secretary, Pep G. Bouden; Bible Readers—Leader, Leonard S. May; Reporter, Lois W. Hammock.

We want all the young people to come and be with us in these meetings.

Birthday Surprise For Mrs. Sallie Johnson

At the home of her mother on Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Sallie Johnson was delightfully surprised with a birthday shower by a number of friends and relatives. Mrs. Johnson was ushered into a room filled with guests and was presented with a gift from each.

An enjoyable hour was spent in conversation after which Miss Vela Phillips rendered two very appropriate readings, following which Mrs. Johnson was presented with a lovely birthday cake on which bright colored candles were burning.

Delicious cream and cake was served to the following: Mesdames Mart Hardin, Edd Whittemore, W. E. McNeill, G. T. Hughes, Tom Martin, J. I. Martin, J. W. Caither, L. W. Hobert, W. D. Spain, S. T. Easley, B. P. Dodson, Frank Burnison, Roy Phillips, D. C. Fritz, A. E. Whittemore, Otis Phillips, Prince Whittemore, Mrs. Hardin and Mrs. T. I. Phillips and the honoree.

Members of Faculty Entertain School Board

On Monday evening, October 1, the faculty entertained the members of the school board and their wives with a "42" party at the Community auditorium.

After a number of games had been played and a pleasant evening had been spent, refreshments were served to members of the faculty and the following guests: Messrs. and Mesdames G. R. Eiland, D. C. Fritz, M. H. Reeves, J. D. Keithley, P. C. Phillips, H. P. Hill, and Mr. W. C. Bevers.

Chapel

On Wednesday of last week the students of Munday Public Schools assembled at the community auditorium for the first chapel program of the year. The Rev. Freeman gave a talk that was very interesting and should we follow his suggestions we would make real students.

Mr. Rhodes divided the seating capacity of the building into different sections, so as to get each class seated together.

Beat Knox City

The Pep squad entertained Friday night the Munday Moguls and the Throckmorton Greyhounds with a picnic at Breach's tank. That this was a very enjoyable affair was proved by the fact that the talking, playing of games and eating was interrupted only by the coming of the late hours of the night.

Beat Knox City

Asfor the Moguls, we say that we are backed by a real Pep-squad. Therefore, we are sure that the members of this squad will do their very best to help us win the game with Knox City Friday.

Beat Knox City

Last Thursday night the football and pep squads, with other members of the high school, assembled on the football field north of the tabernacle to officially dedicate it.

A big bon-fire was built on the north-east corner of the field and the program was inaugurated with a few yells from the Pep-squad. Captain P. Pruitt was called upon for a brief talk, to which he responded very brilliantly. Coach Palmer next favored the crowd with a few fitting remarks, in which he stated that had he "knowed" about his part on the program beforehand he would have prepared a real speech. Then came the "main show." Mr. Rhodes came into the light of the fire carrying a brick, which immediately aroused our curiosities. But he proceeded to give the history of the first football team that Munday produced. He next drew forth from his hip pocket one perfectly good bottle of soda pop which he broke over the brick, and by so doing he christened the field "Scruggs Field." We think this is a very appropriate name, inasmuch as it became endeared to our hearts several years ago when Mr. Guy Scruggs sponsored and coached Munday's original high school football team. Hereafter all home games will be played on Scruggs field.

Moguls Beat Throckmorton 6-0

The high school Moguls stepped out last Friday and won their second victory of the year at the expense of the fast Throckmorton Greyhounds. Due to the excessive heat and the dusty field the game was somewhat slower than usual. However, the Moguls continued to demonstrate to everybody's satisfaction that they are one of the scrappiest little football aggregations that Munday Hi has ever turned out. The backfield is well balanced and hard to stop while the line has developed into a wonderful defensive unit.

In Friday's game P. Pruitt's work at quarter was brilliant as usual, while Isbell and Stephens starred in the line.

Beat Knox City

Chan's Chatter"

Pep-squad, we Moguls and the Throckmorton Greyhounds surely do thank you for the picnic you gave us last Friday night, and, believe me, we surely had a good time.

Beat Knox City

Paul Pruitt, our quarter back and captain, was the hero of the day last Friday in the game. He caught a pass thrown by Greer and ran about 15 yards for the only touchdown.

Mogule' motto is "F-I-G-H-T" and Friday we are going to put every ounce of fight we have in us in the Knox City game.

Beat Knox City

The best name of all names was given to our football ground, "Scruggs Field." Most every one in high school has either had Mr. Scruggs as a teacher, or has known of him, and we all think a lot of him. As he was the first football coach of M. H. S. he deserves the credit of having the field named for him.

Beat Knox City

A Knox City boy told this column about how Knox City was advertising that they were going to beat us Friday. We immediately informed him that he was away behind the excitement, as Munday had made up it's mind one year ago to do nothing else but "Beat Knox City" this year.

Beat Knox City

From all the talk, we hear Knox City has a heavy line and a good back field, but that does not worry us, we have a good line and a smashing back field, and we are going to do our best to beat them Friday and then repeat the offense on home soil November 12th.

Seniors

Francis Atkeison was absent Thursday and Friday of last week for some unknown reason. We are glad to see her back again in her usual place.

Our Senior class seems to decrease instead of increase, as we hoped it would. Ishmall Walling has withdrawn and has gone to Commerce to business college. This is a loss to both theSeniors and the football squad, for Ishmall was a good athlete and student.

Leona Ford was absent from school the later part of last week. It is a pleasure to see her smiling (?) countenance once more.

Many Seniors witnessed another wreck (not "Pluto")Sunday afternoon. Ask Frank Greer and Joe Aycock for information. If you want any lessons in screaming, they will be glad to recommend several Soph. and Senior girls.

The Seniors have come to the conclusion that the only reason Fire Prevention Week is observed is to make "us poor school children" write themes and make posters. It really should be abolished.

One of our Senior boys, Frank Greer, had the honor (as well as a free pass to all the games) of naming the football field. It was very appropriately dedicated Scruggs Field.

The curtain has just rolled up on the first of the Senior's social program, the first act being a chicken barbecue in honor of the High School faculty. We'll tell you more about this next week.

His Day's Work Was Done

To be a strong man
Was the aim of Chan,
And just to keep in practice
He hired himself to a man.
One day, with a piano on his back,
Up the stairs he began to run.
He stepped a step that wasn't there
And his day's work was done.

Oh John R. built a football,
'Twas big as it could be.
He blew it up with gas
Instead of air, you see.
He sat upon that football
It went off like a gun.
They found his feet way down the street,
And his day's work was done.

When Earl was only one and six
He took himself to sea.
Aboard the ship the captain said:
"Will you look what I have with me?"
The storm came up, the sea came in,
And Earl, his mother's son,
Bored holes about to let it run out
And his day's work was done.

A friend of mine, o'le Chester, you know,
Had a job in a menagerie.
His job was to feed the animals,
'Twas simple as could be.
He walked into the lion's cage
And offered him a bun.
The lion smiled and then got wild,
And His day's work was done.

Vivian and her uke, as you all know, are inseparable and music is so much on the poor child's brain that she filledout a school questionaire thusly:

1. Where were you born?
"In a Little Dream House."
2. When?
"At Sundown."
3. How old are you?
"What Does It Matter?"
Do you like Geometry?
"That's My Weakness Now."
5. What do you ask of life?
"I Scream For Ice Cream."
6. How do you spend your time in the study hall?
"Sittin' In the Corner."
7. What is your ambition?
"I Wanta' Love and Be Loved."
8. What is your intelligence standing?
"Coo-Koo Doodle, I'm off My Noodle."
9. What do you do for recreation?
"Get Out and Get Under the Moon."
10. When will you graduate?
"In the Sweet By and By."

If you know some one
Who never goes to dances,
Never smokes
Nor drinks
Nor swears
Nor takes notes
Nor pulls new wisecracks,
Nor goes to classes
Nor breaks any rules at all,
It isn't a football man in training--
It's our sponsor—L. M. Palmer.

Sophomores

Last Wednesday was Mr. Rhodes' birthday and how he was remembered. He certainly appreciates the nice gifts the boys gave him.

Mary Alice Lowrance has been absent from school for some unknown reason. Hurry back, Mary Alice.

The Sophomores will have to hand it to Mr.Rhodes for that swell speech he made Thursday night when naming and dedicating the football field. Mr. Palmer used good expression and from what we hear, Miss Boyd will have more pupils before long. Oh, yes, Paul, you know your words when it comes to speaking. We are proud of Scruggs field and we hope Mr. Scruggs will find it out in time to say: "Thank you, Munday Hi. I appreciate the honor you give me."

The Sophomores give their utmost sympathy to Lillian. God in His mysterious way takes the youth of our land to bloom in Heaven.

Watch the Pep Squad next week at Knox City and see what happens. They have something up their sleeve and if the elbow dosen't wear out they'll keep it there.

Grace Hutchens is back from a long period of absence. Don't do that again, Grace.

Freshmen

We are glad to see Anna Dora Hambrick back in school again this morning.

Marguerite Stodghill was absent last Thursday and Friday morning on account of sickness.

Guyette Martin and Marie Spelce are absent this morning. We sincerely hope they will not have to stay out of school long.

Ruth Rice was absent Friday on account of illness.

Maxine Burnison spent the day in Wichita Falls last Thursday. Friday morning she journeyed home for a few minutes to get her excuse for being absent.

Ethel Isbell spent Saturday in Haskell.

This week is fire prevention week, so we are looking for many fire drills and more extra work of making posters and writing themes.

We hope the name we submitted

"Very Latest"

Gladys Glad—one of the Florenz Ziegfeld's Most Beautiful, in "Hoopla"—shows us how to wear our new fall hats with the backward tilt that is Fashion's latest millinery whim. And we are immensely pleased with this little close fitting model that molds itself so perfectly to her charming head.

With the hat and a shortjacket suit of brown and beige checked velveteen is worn, and the underblouse of beige has the new high collar and side frill developed in a very soft, becoming way. The hat is a silky felt, of course, in the dark rose-brown shade that is so popular. We unhesitatingly recommend it as a splendid type for wear with the jacket suits of fall.

Broader Brims Also Appear

Among the late arrivals are also soft felts with slightly lower crowns and brims that, while they retain their short backs and fronts, broaden perceptibly at the sides.

Dance Caps in Gold and Silver

For dining, dancing or the theatre the very latest conceit is the snug little cap of metallic crochet woven to fit the head as tightly as a skull cap. Usually the braid pattern is swirled in great rosettes at each ear, while the balance of the cap is knitted in a straight mesh weave.

Now—The Hip-Line Fur Coat

It has been many seasons since we have enjoyed the chic of the short fur jacket—but today it is a Parisian theme of great importance. One hip-line model of mink, with a soft, rolling collar, is shown with a frock of pale brown crepe; another of gray goatskin, with Tuxedo front, is worn over a rough purple wool crepe in two tones.

Shoes in Color

Deep rich shades of blue, green, red, and unusual shades of brown are seen among the newest shoes for fall, for Fashion decrees it's smart for shoes to match the costume.

"I GUESS I'll have to ask you Kitchen Clubbers to come back and make my kitchen ugly," laughed Mrs. Adams, whose kitchen had been the subject for discussion several weeks before. "You've made it so attractive that not only my daughter but half a dozen other girls want to do their entertaining there."

Mrs. Adams was one of the thousands of mothers who find themselves having to compete with the movies, drug stores and the streets for their children's interest. She had met the situation fairly and frankly, realizing that she couldn't force her children to enjoy staying at home, even if she made them stay there. If home was to compete with outside interests, it must be more attractive. That was that!

When Mrs. Adams was a girl and Mr. Adams was coming to see her, an evening sitting on the sofa with him was thrill enough. But her girl scorned that kind of evening. She had to be doing something. And Mrs. Adams admitted to herself with a faint, reminiscent blush, that probably her daughter's idea of entertainment was the more wholesome of the two.

Mrs. Adams got her solution to the problem one rainy evening when she poked her head in the living-room door and announced that she would make raisin-nut fudge if she could find someone to seed raisins and shell nuts. Boredom vanished. Aprons went on. One couple made a great to-do over the raisins. The other couple shelled the nuts in not more than twice the time Mrs. Adams would have used. The candy was good, and the party ended at a late hour in the kitchen.

At the next meeting of the Club Mrs. Adams asked for a kitchen color scheme that would look sophisticated and wouldn't show dirt too much! Nancy's notebook shows what she got.

LEAVES FROM NANCY'S KITCHEN CLUB NOTEBOOK

Mrs. Adams asked us for a "swanky" color scheme and, believe me, she got it! We decided on a floor of midnight blue and white tiled linoleum; washable oil cloth walls, dark blue on a cream background, up to shoulder height; above that, deep cream washable paint walls. Table, cabinet, cupboards, refrigerator, white, stenciled in dark blue. Oil range, white porcelain enamel. Window seat covered with dark blue, white and orange cretonne. Cushions covered in solid orange. White curtains stenciled in orange. Midnight blue and orange braided rugs on the floor. Mrs. Adams got four rubberized cloth aprons in blue, white and orange for her daughter's friends to use.

Midnight Dishes—Deviled Sardines

Cover any amount of sardines desired with canned tomato soup. Cook for five or ten minutes. Serve on toast.

Midnight Dishes—Sandwich Loaf

Take a loaf of day-old bread. Slice off all crusts, making as square a loaf as possible. Slice lengthwise of loaf, full length of loaf, from bottom to top, leaving the bread in layers. Spread on bottom layer a filling of stuffed olives chopped and mixed with mayonnaise. Put on second layer. Spread with cream cheese-and-nut mixture. Put on other layers, alternating the fillings. When loaf is complete, "ice" with cream cheese and garnish with slices of olive. To serve, slice as you would ordinary loaf of bread. This makes a delicious and most decorative dish for luncheons and midnight parties.

Cocoa

Mrs. Adams says her family refused to drink cocoa until she found this recipe for it, which makes a richer drink:

3 tablespoons cocoa
3 tablespoons sugar
3 cups milk
½ cup water
Pinch of salt
Pinch of soda

Boil together all ingredients except milk. Then add milk and bring to boiling point, but do not boil. Serve at once.

Asparagus and Egg Salad

A nice way to combine canned white asparagus and hard-boiled eggs in salad is to mold them in alternate layers in lemon gelatin. Strips of pimento may be added if desired. Mold in square loaf pan, slice and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

BIG MEN LITTLE TOWNS

SIR HENRY THORNTON

As a small boy in a small town he nourished an ambition to become a church bishop. Then he was known simply as "Hank" Thornton, a young lad with long legs. Now he is Sir Henry Worth Thornton, K. B. E., President and Chairman of the Canadian National Railways with headquarters in Montreal, Canada. Since the day he left the small town he has travelled to various countries, served in many capacities. He has been, in turn, champion line plunger draftsman on the Pennsylvania Railthe season of 1892 when they beat the "Tiger" team of Princeton, a draftsman on the Pennsylvania Railroad, a superintendent on the Long Island Railroad.

"Hank" Thornton was born in Logansport Indiana, on November 6, 1871. As Sir Henry Thornton he heads the largest railroad in the world under one management. It covers Canada with a network of 22,681 miles of line, operates a string of hotels across the continent and has, as a subsidiary, a line of steamships plying to Europe the West Indies, Australasia and the Orient.

Sir Henry Thornton stands six feet four in his stocking feet and weighs around 220 pounds. He has a ruddy complexion, clear grey eyes and a long decisive stride. He makes a decidedly distinguished appearance. Yet he is one of the most approachable men of position in Canada today.

With more than 100,000 employees obeying his orders Sir Thornton believes that they will do better work for a man than for an impersonal organization, and that the road to congenial working conditions is made smoother and more endurable by the ballast of human kindness.

"Good morning," he said to a track worker in the yards of the Great Eastern Railroad of England at the commencement of his attempt to set it again upon a business-like footing.

"Good morning, Sir" responded the worker, lifting up his head from his shovel.

"You know, we're not used to that over here," suggested the English official by the side of Thornton.

"Well, 'its what I've been used to in the United States. Over there I have noticed that an observance of the common human courtesies carried with it any ill effects," responded the man who had started as a boy in a small town in the central United States with an ambition to become a church bishop and who had been called across the seas to rehabilitate one of the greatest of England's railroads.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Have you an interesting picture in the kitchen—hung where it catches your eye many times during the day?

In this sensible age, you know, no one denies the appropriateness—if not the psychological necessity—of a glimpse of sunny, winding road over country hills when one is confined at kitchen tasks. Or perhaps the picture might be of some fragrant, old-fashioned garden, or of a child at play.

Cheerful scenes in the kitchen are often invaluable, both for decorative purposes and as a counter-irritant.

Cookies for the School Lunch

Heat 1-2 cup of molasses to boiling point, add 1-2 cup butter, then slowly add 1 cup prepared cake flour, 2-3 cup sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon ginger sifted together. Drop half-teaspoons of batter three inches apart on an inverted pan. Bake in a slow oven until medium brown.

"To Set" Colors

A teaspoon of Epsom salts added to a bucketful of water will set colors most effectively. Soak the fabric in the solution, then wash in the usual way.

A Refrigeration Hint

When the ice melts, the refrigerator is cooled; so do not cover the ice with paper, if you want the best results.

participated in golf, for he was an ardent golfer. One of the charter members of the Munday Golf Club, he always took a keen interest in the game, and when we heard the sad news on Sunday morning the familiar lines of a little poem ran through our mind as we thought of our departed friend, which runs as follows:

"When at last that great Scorer comes,
To score against your name,
It matters not whether you've won or lost,
But how you've played the game."

The quotation may not be perfect here, but as we thought of Charles we thought of him on the golf links, where we have played many games with him, and we believe that everyone who knew him will say with us that he played the game of life just as he played golf—with his whole heart—and on the square.

In addition to his father and stepmother Charles is survived by four brothers and two sisters, as follows: Carl McGlothlin, Benjamin; Glenn McGlothlin of Knox City, Lillian, E. W. Jr., Billie and Wanda, all of Munday.

Among the relatives and friends who came from a distance to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. John McGlothlin of Rhome, Texas; Mrs. J. S. Boyle of Fort Worth; Mrs. Leola Dowdy and son, Ross Wain, of Wichita Falls; Chas. Harris and family of Seymour, Miss Ieola Williams and Mrs. Allen of Altus, Oklahoma, and R. E. Williams and family of Lamesa.

To the heart-broken parents, brothers and sisters, we join with other friends in extending our most sincere sympathy.

As we have stated before, Charles was a great lover of golf, and he has been affectionately known to his friends as "Chock." Not only had he become recognized locally as a promising young golfer, but he had attended a number of tournaments in West Texas, and had gained the friendship and admiration of a number of the followers of the game. Among the friends who learned of the tragedy with a heavy heart was Bob Scott of Colorado City, who, upon being notified by Bob Alexander, wrote the following letter and tribute:

Colorado City, Texas, Oct. 8, 1928.

Mr. Bob Alexander,
Munday, Texas.
My Dear Bob:

Many thanks for the telegram telling me of "Chock's" sad accident. I am still so hurt over it that I can't quite realize that the clean, fun-loving little gentleman that I came to like so well will be with us no more, and I don't think I shall ever attend a golf tournament again without a touch of sadness that he is not with us to make the game a little finer and cleaner.

I wired his father this morning, Bob, and would have done so sooner but the office was closed all day Sunday and I was told that it could not be delivered in Munday on Sunday, even if I went over to Sweetwater to send it, so I let it go until this morning, as I did not get your wire until Sunday noon.

I have been put to it lately to make cotton pay for my living, Bob, and so I did not get to stop over in Munday and then go on to the Wichita tournament, but I wish to God that I had now, for I would have seen "Chock" once more at least, but I did not know, nor could I make it.

I am glad to be able, in spite of all the tough things I have been through, to believe that, after all, when things are done for us, we will meet "Chock" later, and he will be glad to see us and we to see him. That he will still love us as we do him, and he will be still the fine, clean sportsman that he was when we knew him, and nothing will be wrong when he do meet up. I will drink deep to "Chock" and to our next meeting, and to his memory as a gentleman, friend and sportsman.

Good luck, Bob, I will write you a personal letter some other time.

Yours,
BOB SCOTT.

CARD OF THANKS.

We take this method of expressing our heartfelt thanks to the many friends and neighbors who so nobly assited us during the illness and following the death of our mother, and we wish to assure each of you that we shall ever remember you in the kindest way.

Clean Child's Bowels

'California Fig Syrup" is Dependable Laxative for Sick Children

Children Love Its Pleasant Taste

If your little one is out-of-sorts, won't play, seems sick, languid, not natural—suspect the bowels. A teaspoonful of delicious "California Fig Syrup" given anytime sweetens the stomach and soon moves the sour fermentations, gases, poisons and indigestible matter right out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle, harmless laxative. It never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs. Say "California" to your druggist and avoid counterfeits. Insist upon genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages plainly printed on bottle.

Announcing

We are pleased to announce that we have secured the local disrtibution for the ROYAL Portable Typewriter, something new and different in typewriters.

The Royal Portable Typewriter is in every respect a STANDARD typewriter. All of its operating features correspond with those of the accepted office typewriters. It has four-bank keyboard—with forty-two keys printing 84 letters and characters.

The Royal Portable has many exclusive additional features of convenience which will appeal to the student, and we shall be glad to demonstrate this wonderful machine to you.

And best of all, it is reasonably priced, and may be had on partial payment plan if desired.

Come in and let us show you this wonderful little machine which possesses all the merit of the big standard machine.
