Former U.S. treasurer gets four-month term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Catalina Vasquez Villalpando, the U.S. treasurer in the Bush administration, was sentenced to four months in prison today for tax evasion, obstruction of justice and conspiring to hide income received from a former employer.

"I can find no basis to excuse your conduct," said U.S. District Judge Thomas Francis Hogan as he imposed the sentence on the woman whose signature appears on U.S. paper money printed between December 1989 and January 1993.

He said that the high office she held imposes even more of a burden to obey the laws.

After she completes her prison term, Villalpando, a native of San Marcos, Texas, will be placed on supervised release for three years, including four months of home detention overseen by a probation office.

Speaking in a tearful voice barely heard in the courtroom, Villalpando told Hogan "I'm embarrassed" to be there for sentencing. "I hope you will find it in your heart to take what I owe society in some sort of community service," she said.

The judge did order Villalpando to perform 200 hours of community service after her release.

Villalpando pleaded guilty in February, rather than stand trial.

She acknowledged obstructing an independent prosecutor's investigation of the Reagan-era influence-peddling scandal at the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Villalpando also admitted concealing income and benefits she received from her former employer while serving as U.S. treasurer.

She could have been sentenced to five years and prison and a $250,000 fine on each of the three counts.

Justice Department lawyer Jonathan P. Rusch said Ms. Villalpando lied repeatedly in all phases of the department's investigation. Only this year, he said, "did she finally admit wrongdoing."

Goal of $68,000...

United Way kicks off local campaign

Scurry County United Way has kicked off its 1995 campaign season with a theme of "Open Your Heart" and targeted Friday as "Blitz Day."

On Friday, United Way volunteers will be contacting businesses throught Snyder. The day will begin with a dutch treat breakfast at 8 a.m. at Spanish Inn. Anyone who would like to volunteer their time is encouraged to participate.

Scurry County United Way officers are hoping that "Blitz Day" will help get the message out so that funds can be raised more quickly, and avoid the complications of last year's drive, which netted just 53 percent of the total goal of $72,200.

The goal for 1995 is $68,000, with allocations of $21,000 going to Scurry County Boys & Girls Club; $10,000 to Snyder Child Day Care Center; $8,900 to Noah Project; $6,000 each to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts; $5,000 to Oil Patch Foster Parents; $2,600 to Snyder Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse; and $500 to Red Cross. In addition, the total includes $8,000 in local United Way expenses.

President for Scurry County United Way is Rod Waller. Other officers are Jeffery Martin, first vice president; Kim May, second vice president; and Ronnie Shields, treasurer. Connie Thompson is the drive coordinator.

United Way began its drive Monday with the annual kickoff luncheon at Martha Ann Woman's Club. Representatives of the agencies benefitted by United Way spoke about the needs and services of their agencies.

UNITED WAY AGENCIES — United Way agency representatives attending Monday's luncheon were, left to right, Vicki Mahoney, Snyder Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse; Mike Sanders, Oil Patch Foster Parents; Nancy Henderson of Abilene, West Texas Girl Scout Council; Shirley Fritz, Snyder Child Day Care; Dee Wilson, Noah Project; and Jack McGlaun, Scurry County Boys & Girls Club. Blood drive slated today

Area residents are reminded that Scurry County Advisory for United Blood Services and Cogdell Memorial Auxiliary are sponsoring a blood drive until 7 this evening at the National Guard Armory in Towle Park.

Each blood drive participant will receive coupons for a variety of free and reduced prices on merchandise from local fast food shops, restaurants and video stores.

Other prizes will be awarded by random drawing.

Burglary case closed by PD

Snyder police have identified five juveniles as suspects in last week's burglary of Scurry County Coliseum.

A 14-year-old, two 11-year-olds, a 10-year-old and an 8-year-old have been taken into custody for the burglary, in which some circus tickets and cash were stolen from the coliseum office.

All five suspects are boys. They have been released to their parents, and the case has been forwarded to the district attorney's office.

The case continues an "upsurge" of juvenile felony crimes committed over the past two months. However, local police do not believe juvenile crime is on the increase.

"You have peaks and valleys and for the past several months we've seen an upsurge. It doesn't indicate an overall increase in juvenile crime, I don't think," said Lt. Steve Warren.

Last month, 14 juveniles were taken into custody for felony crimes ranging from burglary and arson to aggravated assault.

College board clears way for golf cart path project

Western Texas College golf course will get a new look now, as the board of trustees on Monday in effect gave the final go-ahead for concreting the cart paths.

Trustees approved bids for concrete and labor, the last hurdles other than actually completing the work itself.

In other action during an hour-long meeting Monday, the board approved roof replacement bids, promotions in rank and a tobacco-free policy.

The board also heard fall enrollment reports, set a long-range planning meeting and discussed coliseum rates for basketball games and practices.

Enrollment reports indicate Western Texas College will serve 2,340 students this fall.

A plan to concrete the golf cart paths on the WTC course has been considered for almost a year, but had been put on hold until recently, due to high cost projections. However, the acquisition of a slip-form paver recently reduced overall costs enough to gain approval from trustees.

The entire project is expected to cost about $85,000. Funds for the project will be borrowed from the WTC Scholarship Foundation and repaid from golf course fees, which average about $12,000 annually, board members were told. The college previously paved a small portion of the cart paths and received favorable comment from those who regularly use the course.

On Monday, trustees approved a bid of $70,350 from Snyder Concrete Co. for concrete for the cart paths. Administrators also noted that a bid of $7,750 for two concrete finishers and two helpers was accepted from Concrete 'N Such. The board did not take formal action on that bid because it was less than $10,000.

Work on the paths is expected to begin in October.

Six faculty members were approved for promotion in rank Monday after having met the requirements. Promoted from assistant professor to associate professor were Michael Endy, Jan McCathern and Jack Price. Promoted from instructor to assistant professor were Juli Daughtry, Jon Palomaki and Ben Sum. The promotions do not affect salary.

Trustees accepted a bid of $22,889 from J.C. Roofing Co. to re-roof the apartments and the laundromat. The roofs were damaged by hail last spring and the college has received insurance claims in the amount of

White House: military action in Haiti is possible 'very soon'

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Pentagon readies two aircraft carriers for duty off Haiti, the White House said today military action could come "very soon." Republican indignation over the invasion preparations is escalating, with one senator demanding an end to "gunboat liberalism."

The strident GOP attacks were voiced despite warnings by Secretary of State Warren Christopher that domestic divisions will only encourage Army chief Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras and his allies to hang on to power.

And White House Chief of Staff Leon Panetta predicted today that despite widespread opposition to a U.S. invasion, "ultimately, the American people .... will always rally to their president."

Panetta, interviewed on ABC, said the time for Haiti's military leaders to leave "is now. And if they don't, then action is going to be taken against them very soon."

Panetta said if the United States does invade, "the American people will unify behind the president ... and that certainly happened in Panama, it happened in Grenada, it happened with regards to the Persian Gulf. ..."

In hopes of avoiding mixed signals, administration officials persuaded Rep. Bill Richardson, D-N.M., not to proceed with an effort launched earlier this summer to try to negotiate Cedras' departure, congressional sources said.

Richardson was invited by Cedras to make a return trip to Port-au-Prince but bowed to administration wishes that he drop the initiative, the sources said, speaking Monday on condition of anonymity.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "As soon as they develop celery that tastes like chocolate mousse, it'll be a lot easier to diet."

Some guys have all the luck — even if it's bad luck.

Back in 1990, a man in Massachusetts won the Mass Millions prize. He was to get $9.9 million in 20 annual payments.

One would think the man would be on easy street. Instead, he is a guest of the federal prison system.

Last month, a federal bankruptcy court judge awarded the man's lottery winnings to the highest bidder. While the winning lottery ticket didn't create the man's problem, it was a classic case of proving that money can't fix everything.

The problem began several years before his windfall. He started by enticing investors into real estate deals by promising an unusally high rate of return.

The scheme involved paying old investors with money raised from new ones. He first started to have a hard time making payments, then his problem soon turned to not being able to make them at all. While his intent was not to defraud, a change in the economy meant that the last investor in was the first to lose.

A number of investors sued to recoup. When the wheeler-dealer won the big prize, more investors showed up for a piece of the action. Ultimately confronted by more than 1,000 mad investors, the man was forced into bankruptcy with the court saying he owed $7.8 million.

Despite all the people wanting their share of the pie, those in the driver's seat were the state and federal government who got an estimated $1.7 million in taxes.

Some people think big, while others think little, letting it add up to huge.

A university in Buffalo, N.Y. has launched a project called "green computing."

The university claims that switching off unused computers could cut its $300,000 energy bill in half.

Experts estimate that running a personal computer for 40 hours a week costs $50 annually.

Porter wins grid contest

Four players had five misses each in last week's SDN Football Contest. The tie-breaker procedure was used to determine the three prize winners.

Heath Porter of 308 36th Pl. won the first place $50, predicting the winner of the tie-breaker (Snyder), and the correct number of the total points (34).

Denise Hoyle of 112 Browning won the second place $25, and Alisha Garmer of 411 35th won the third place $15.

Honorable mention goes to Darrell Roberson, who also had five misses, but guessed too high on the total points.

Winners will be mailed their checks.

Another contest appears in this issue.

Three causes of fatal air crash are probed

CORAOPOLIS, Pa. (AP) — Federal investigators have identified three possible causes of the crash of USAir Flight 427: The right engine went into reverse, it came loose, or the air brakes were unevenly deployed.

Investigators believe something may have caused the plane's right wing to rise, which caused the plane to roll to the left and go out of control, National Transportation Safety Board member Carl Vogt said Monday.

"We want to examine everything that might have caused the right wing to rise," Vogt said.

The Boeing 737-300 dropped from 6,000 feet Thursday and nose-dived into a wooded ravine at 300 mph, killing all 132 people on board.

The NTSB and the Boeing Co. will create computer models to see if one of the three scenarios would cause a 737-300 to behave the way Flight 427 did, Vogt said.

Crews have hauled about half the wreckage — seven truckloads full — to a hangar and arranged the pieces in the shape of the plane. Investigators planned to start digging today to recover more pieces.

Investigators also were looking for the pilot of a corporate jet who may have been in a good position to see Flight 427 during its final moments, Vogt said.

In downtown Pittsburgh, hymns echoed softly off office buildings at lunchtime Monday as 2,000 people gathered in Market Square to mourn the crash victims.

"Maybe God will give me some answers to what happened," said Pam Kastelmeyer of Baldwin. Her neighbor's daughter died in the accident.

Some of the victims' loved ones were stoic through several prayers, then broke down and sobbed when a priest read the names of the dead. A wreath adorned with red carnations and tiny white flowers stood alone in front of a stage.

Searchers have been unable to find the right engine's rear mount, supporting the theory that the right engine may have come loose from its position beneath the wing. Vogt said the front mount was still attached to the engine, as were both mounts for the left engine.

A second scenario could be that the air brakes on the wings, which help control the plane's direction, may have deployed unevenly, Vogt said.

A third possibility is that the plane's right engine somehow went into reverse. The thrust reverser, which helps stop a plane once it has landed, was found deployed on the right engine. It's possible that the impact of the crash knocked it into the deployed position.

When activated, a thrust reverser closes across the rear of a plane's engine to deflect the exhaust and counteract the plane's forward motion. Passengers can hear this as a roar from the engines just after the plane touches down.

Each of the 737's engines had six actuators to control the thrust reverser. Three of the right engine's actuators were found in the deployed position, two weren't deployed, and one hasn't been found, officials said.

U.S. reaches all-time high in number of people jailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. imprisonment rate has gone up 22 percent since 1989 and is now at least five times greater than that of most other industrialized nations, according to an international study.

The rate of 519 prisoners for every 100,000 Americans was topped only by Russia's 558 per 100,000 among the 52 nations surveyed by The Sentencing Project, a group that promotes alternatives to incarceration.

The study found there are 1.3 million inmates in American prisons and jails, costing the nation $26.8 billion annually. It said the 583,000 black men in prison exceeds the 537,000 black men enrolled in higher education.

And it said the doubling of the inmate population since 1980 has had little impact on violent crime. "There is no reason to believe that continuing to build and fill more prisons will stop the crime and violence in our communities," said Marc Mauer, assistant director of the organization and author of the report.

Construction of new prisons is a cornerstone of the $30 billion crime bill President Clinton was signing today after a drawn-out battle in Congress over how to divide anti-crime funding between prevention and increased law enforcement.

After the United States and Russia, South Africa had the third-highest rate with 368 in prison for every 100,000 people. The report said black men in the United States are incarcerated at more than four times the rate of black males in South Africa — 3,822 per 100,000 vs. 851 per 100,000.

Mother vents anger by stabbing of infant son

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Enraged over an argument with her neighbor, Michelle Dawn Murphy returned to her apartment and vented her anger by stabbing her 3-month-old son to death, police say.

Ms. Murphy, 17, called police Monday morning and said she didn't know how Travis Eugene Wood was killed. But she confessed during six hours of questioning and was jailed on a murder complaint, police said. Charges were to be presented to prosecutors today.

Police say the boy was stabbed in the chest and throat and found in a pool of blood on the kitchen floor. Ms. Murphy told detectives she was angry after her argument with the neighbor.

"I needed to take it out on somebody, and I ended up hurting my son," Ms. Murphy said, according to a police affidavit.

Her 2-year-old daughter was unharmed and taken into protective custody.

Chairman pushes smoke-free prisons

HOUSTON (AP) — Felons who leave Texas prisons should leave behind all the addictions they brought in, including the craving to use tobacco, a top prison official says.

Carol Vance, chairman of the board of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, said Monday that he is pushing for a ban on the use of all tobacco products in the vast prison system.

Board members will consider the proposed policy later this week. If it is adopted, roughly 47,000 prison employees and 92,000 felons, who spend about $5.4 million a year on tobacco and related products in prison commissaries would not be allowed to use the products.

"I think this (smoking ban) protects everyone ... from having to smoke other people's smoke," Vance told the Houston Chronicle.

The proposed ban already has some prisoners grumbling and one considering a possible legal challenge that would be assisted by a top tobacco industry lawyer.

William Spaulding, who's serving 35 years on aggravated rape and aggravated sexual assault convictions in Victoria and Jackson counties, has threatened to use the legal muscle of the tobacco industry against the prison system if it totally bans tobacco use.

Prison lawyers say Spaulding wrote them that he would call in attorney J. Kendrick Wells III, a corporate lawyer for Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. of Louisville, Ky., to help fight any ban.

Challenging prison officials would not be a new task for Spaulding.

Earlier this year, Spaulding complained to U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice that prisoners had lost the use of softball fields when more prison dormitories were constructed.

Justice responded by ruling that the prison system had violated court orders in taking over the softball fields as construction sites, but he did not halt the prison expansion.

Tom Fitzgerald, a spokesman for Brown & Williamson, confirmed that Spaulding has written the company asking for information on court cases involving prisoners' smoking rights.

Fitzgerald said the company mailed him copies of a recent court opinion involving a West Virginia case, but nothing else.

"We support whatever his efforts are on behalf of smokers' rights," Fitzgerald said. But he doesn't know if that will mean legal assistance.

State lawyers say they would be ready for any legal challenge to a tobacco ban. They are already defending the prison system in about a half-dozen law suits from convicts who claim their rights are being violated because they are forced to inhale second-hand smoke.

Prison administrators have been studying various options on a smoking policy as well as the problems of enforcing it, Vance said. Policy options range from a total ban to designated smoking areas.

Dear Abby

Young Man's Moment of Anger Echoes Throughout the Years

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1994 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, you printed a letter from a young man who had been expecting a new car for his high school graduation gift. To his great disappointment, he received a Bible instead. Out of anger, he stormed out of the house and never spoke to his father again. After his father's funeral, the young man located the Bible his father had given him, only to find a key to a new car taped in the back.

That column was so moving that my husband, who manages a very busy restaurant, overheard many customers talking about it. Our pastor would like a copy of that column for a future sermon.

I would be most grateful if you would please send me that column.

VALERIE BOSSELMAN, OMAHA

DEAR VALERIE: That column is a long-time favorite of mine. However, as is often the case, a few details are somewhat different from the story your husband recalled. Here's the original:

DEAR ABBY: A young man from a wealthy family was about to graduate from high school. It was the custom in that affluent neighborhood for the parents to give the graduate an automobile. "Bill" and his father had spent months looking at cars, and the week before graduation, they found the perfect car.

On the eve of his graduation, his father handed him a gift-wrapped Bible. Bill was so angry that he threw the Bible down and stormed out of the house. He and his father never saw each other again. It was the news of his father's death that brought Bill home again.

As he sat one night going through his father's possessions that he was to inherit, he came across the Bible his father had given him. He brushed away the dust and opened it to find a cashier's check, dated the day of his graduation — in the exact amount of the car they had chosen together.

BECKAH FINK, TEXAS

DEAR BECKAH: I hope Bill read the Bible cover to cover, for it contained much that he needed to learn: "A foolish son is a grief to his father, and bitterness to her who bore him." (Proverbs 17:25)

DEAR ABBY: For years I have read your column; now I am finally writing with a question.

Every week a group of us "old bowlers" gets together for lunch, gossip, etc. About three times a year, someone asks me how old I am. (I look a lot younger than I actually am — and I have worked hard at it.) Frankly, that information is none of their business, and the question irritates me no end.

So far, I've kept my cool. Should I just wear a number on my back to avoid future questions? How do you handle that situation?

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: I smile and tell them the year of my birth, and let them figure it out.

Dodson House joins show

"Observations Along the Way" is the theme of the Snyder Garden Club's annual flower show to be held in conjunction with the Scurry County Fair and includes a new division.

The 29th Annual Scurry County Fair is set for Sept. 22-24 and the flower show will be held in room B of the coliseum, continuing in the Cornelius-Dodson House.

The public is invited to enter arrangements in the horticulture and/or design divisions. Entrants must conform to the guidelines found in the Fair Book available at the chamber of commerce office.

The upcoming show's new addition in the design category includes entries by members of the Historical Commission. They will display arrangements in the Cornelius-Dodson House, an early day prairie home built by Dr. J.C. Cornelius in 1884 and moved to its present site on the Scurry County Coliseum grounds.

The public is invited to the historic home during the fair. Visitors will be greeted at the front door brandishing a wreath of dried plant materials. In the parlor, furnished and decorated in the 1900 era, a registry table holding a stereopticon base with an arrangement of fresh plant materials. Another design will be placed on the grand piano.

In the 1884 bedroom, the wardrobe will show a nosegay of fresh plant material, accessorized with an antique handkerchief, gloves and an antique mesh handbag. Also in the 1900 furnished dining room, the tea table will be centered with a Victorian arrangement and the sideboard will display a fruit pyramid of fresh green plants.

The 1884 Scurry County "Prairie Kitchen" will feature a table setting of blue spatterware and centered with a dried arrangement. Herbs and home dried potpourri will complete the decor.

In the horticulture division, container grown plants are scheduled to be entered between 1 and 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 21 and design entries will be accepted Thursday 8-11 a.m.

The design division must be entered Thursday beginning at 8 a.m. All entries must be in the building by 10:50 a.m. For more information, call Geleska Baze at 573-4894 or Gertrude Lèague at 573-9823, show chairmen.

Judging will begin at 1 p.m. Thursday by six nationally accredited judges from Snyder Garden Club District XIII.

Hawaiian potato

MASHED POTATOES WITH CARAMELIZED MAUI ONIONS

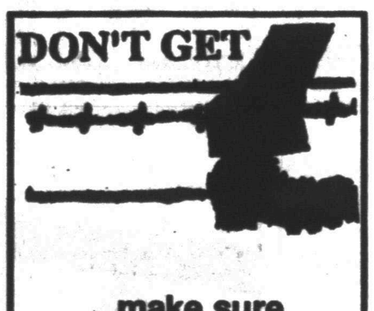

2 tablespoons olive oil
11/2 Maui onions or other sweet onions, julienned
1 clove garlic, minced
6 medium potatoes, peeled and quartered
11/4 cups milk
1/2 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter, cut into pieces
Salt and freshly ground white pepper, to taste

In a heavy, large skillet over low heat, heat the oil. Add the onions and garlic; cook until onions caramelize, stirring occasionally, about 1 hour. Drain off any oil from the skillet. (Can be prepared one day ahead. Cover and refrigerate.)

Cook the potatoes in a large pot of boiling salted water until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain off the water. Return the potatoes to the pot; mash. Mix the milk and butter into the potatoes; stir until the butter melts. Season with salt and white pepper. Mix in onions. Stir over medium-low heat until heated through. Transfer to a bowl and serve. Makes 6 servings.

The unbelievable does happen

Sometimes one cannot help being amazed at the things that happen on this planet. Printed around the edge of an "I Am 2" birthday-card badge was "Unsuitable for Children Under 3 Years of Age."

In today's deal, please peek at all 52 cards. Can you make three no-trump or six clubs on a heart lead? At first glance, both look impossible, but you can do it.

South didn't know how to bid his hand scientifically, so he took a shot at a small slam.

After winning the first trick with the heart ace, declarer plays a club to dummy's king, getting the bad news. Visualizing the end-position, declarer ruffs a heart in his hand, plays a spade to dummy's king and ruffs the heart queen in hand. Now comes the diamond ace, a spade to the ace and three more rounds of diamonds, South discarding spades from hand. Everyone is down to three cards. West has A-10-8 of clubs; dummy has the K-7 of clubs and the diamond nine; South holds the J-9-6 of clubs. When the diamond nine is ruffed with the club jack, West is held to one trump trick.

In three no-trump on a heart lead, declarer (North) cannot afford to play a club, because West wins with the ace and returns a heart. Instead, North unblocks the A-K of spades, carefully retaining South's two. A diamond to dummy's ace is followed by the spade queen and the spade two, North discarding clubs. East must win this trick and give North the lead in a red suit.

Do you believe you would have made those contracts at the table? I hope you answer "yes" and "no."

Not a whodunit, but a 'why' dunit

BOSTON (AP) — Nancy Kerrigan has no doubt whodunit. She just wonders why.

Kerrigan told The Boston Sunday Globe that she's sure skating rival Tonya Harding was involved in the clubbing attack that nearly cost her a trip to the Olympics.

"I would like to know how she could do it, but I don't think there's an answer," said Kerrigan, who won a silver medal. "How could anyone do violence to someone? I think she needs help in her head."

Four people, including Harding's ex-husband, were sentenced to prison for their part in the Jan. 6 attack. Harding pleaded guilty to conspiracy to hinder prosecution but was not given a prison sentence.

Philadephia clobbers Bears

Chicago is defenseless in 30-22 defeat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It was vintage Randall at the Vet, and the Philadelphia Eagles needed all of it.

Randall Cunningham picked apart Chicago's defense Monday night, passing for 311 yards and three touchdowns as Philadelphia opened a 30-point lead and held on to beat the Chicago Bears 30-22.

Cunningham threw for 250 yards in the opening half, with two touchdown passes to Calvin Williams and one to Maurice Johnson.

And he never cooled off. Cunningham finished 24-of-36 in his 11th career 300-yard passing effort and the first time he has done it in successive games; he had 344 yards in a loss to the New York Giants last week.

Cunningham wasn't the only star on a night when the Eagles did little wrong until the fourth quarter before a raucous crowd of 64,890 at Veterans Stadium. Williams had all six of his receptions in the first half for 85 yards, and Fred Barnett added eight catches for 102 yards.

The defense, meanwhile, shackled the Bears early, holding them to 70 yards and three first downs in the first 30 minutes. By the time the Bears got their offense in gear, they had to fight back from a 30-0 deficit in the fourth quarter.

Chicago scored on a 22-yard pass from Erik Kramer to Curtis Conway with 12:15 remaining, an 85-yarder to Conway with 5:53 to go — Conway also caught a 2-point conversion — and a 16-yarder to Marv Cook with 3:35 to go.

But then Cunningham connected on two passes on Philadelphia's final possession, enabling the Eagles to run out the clock.

The victory snapped Philadelphia's seven-game losing streak against Chicago, which lost for the first time this summer. The Bears were 4-0 in preseason and beat Tampa Bay in their opener. They've lost only five of 31 meetings with the Eagles.

But they were never really in this one, especially after losing their best cornerback, Donnell Woolford, early in the game with a concussion.

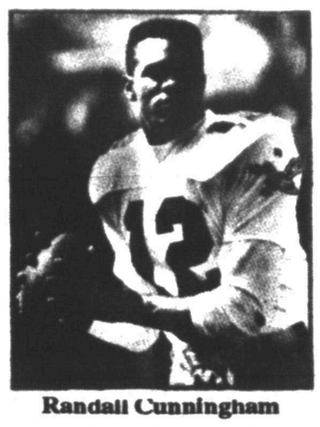

Williams made a reaching catch of a 9-yard pass on a fade pattern for Philadelphia's first score, concluding an 83-yard drive on which Cunningham was 6-for-8. Williams then beat Mark Carrier to the back left corner of the end zone for a 14-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter.

The Eagles' third touchdown was set up by Jeff Sydner's 47-yard gallop on a punt return. He was stopped at the Bears' 19, and Cunningham found Johnson at the 1 five plays later and he back-crawled into the end zone for a 21-0 lead.

Eddie Murray tacked on a 41-yard field goal with two seconds left in the second period.

The defense, vulnerable at New York, was impenetrable until the fourth quarter, when it nearly blew the game. For 45 minutes, the Eaglers didn't miss Reggie White, Clyde Simmons and Seth Joyner at all — they held Kramer to 6-for-15 passing for 54 yards in the first half — but they sure could have used them down the stretch.

Kramer was victimized by Eagles newcomers William Fuller, who had two sacks and plenty of pressures; Burt Grossman, who also had a sack; and Greg Jackson, whose interception and 31-yard return in the third quarter led to Murray's third field goal.

Randall Cunningham

from 33 yards. He also had a 29-yarder that made it 30-0.

Pardee contemplates moving Matthews

DALLAS (AP) — A jury has awarded Detroit Tigers first baseman Cecil Fielder $1.7 million in a civil suit he brought against a woman he hired to finish, decorate and landscape his home in 1990.

In a judgment rendered last week, the jury ordered Margee Moody to pay Fielder and his wife, Stacey Lynn Fielder, about $180,000 for overcharging and defrauding them in connection with work on their home in suburban Las Colinas, then added $1.5 million in punitive damages.

Because of the major league baseball strike, Fielder was able to attend every day of the two-week trial in a Dallas County court. During part of the trial, Mrs. Fielder was competing in the Mrs. America pageant in Fort Worth. She was crowned runner-up.

The Fielders said they hired Ms. Moody in 1990 after the builder of their house recommended her. The builder had declared bankruptcy before finishing the residence. Ms. Moody was to arrange for a contractor to finish construction, decorate the interior and complete landscaping.

Ms. Moody, who owns a collectibles business that caters to baseball players, had worked on the Arlington residences of at least two Texas Rangers players, said Scott Levine, an attorney for the Fielders.

"At that time, Cecil had just made it in the big leagues," Levine said. The Fielders paid Ms. Moody more than $300,000, Levine said.

But the furniture Ms. Moody bought — purportedly from Beverly Hills dealers and other exclusive sources — turned out to be inexpensive and defective reproductions from Mexico, trial evidence showed.

"It wasn't even something you could use for a high school prop," Levine said.

Most of the plants, trees and shrubs planted in the couple's yard died, testimony showed.

Jurors began deliberating Thursday and reached a verdict Friday.

Fielder wins civil suit

HOUSTON (AP) — Bruce Matthews has always been the "Mr. Fixit" of the Houston Oilers offensive line and it may be time for his versatility to save the day again.

With Bruce Smith and the Buffalo Bills coming to the Astrodome on Sunday, Coach Jack Pardee is pondering moving his All-Pro center to left tackle, a crucial position made more critical by the Oilers quarterback situation.

"That's one thing we're probably going to consider," Pardee said. "We have to shore up the offensive line and keep the quarterback from getting hit so much."

Starter Cody Carlson is recovering from a second degree shoulder separation received in the season opener.

Bucky Richardson played well as his backup in Sunday's 20-17 loss to the Dallas Cowboys but his scrambling ability kept him from being roughed up too much by the severe Dallas rush.

"I'd rather play center but we all have to make sacrifices for the team," Matthews said. "There can be only so many guys in charge so you put your trust in the coaches and give your best effort."

Brad Hopkins, the Oilers' No.1 pick last season, started the first two games at left tackle for the Oilers with mixed results. Dallas defensive end Charles Haley spent too much time for comfort in the Oilers' backfield.

The Oilers considered the move before playing the Cowboys but stuck with Hopkins.

"Brad played pretty well and he fought hard but he made some mistakes," Pardee said. "We got beat up a little on the pass rush."

Matthews is the logical player to move. He's been doing it his entire career since the Oilers made him their No.1 pick in 1983.

Matthews has started all five positions on the offensive line and has been one of the team's most durable performers. He's started 103 consecutive games dating back to 1987, the longest current streak on the team.

He's a six-time Pro Bowl selection, making the team both at guard and center.

"I've been practicing at both tackles but I thought it was so I could play if one of the starters went down," Matthews said. "If the coaches say its the best thing for the team to move there on a permanent basis, I'm not going to complain."

Junior high teams split with Madison

In Thursday's Snyder Junior High School football games, the Tigers won two and lost two games as they hosted Abilene Madison.

The eighth grade "Gold" team lost to Madison in a defensive 8-6 struggle.

Running back Jacob Hodges scored the Tigers' only touchdown on his way to 25 yards rushing.

Standout players for Snyder were Juan Arismendez and Cheyenne Robinson who had 15 yards receiving each and quarterback Justin McNair who threw for 40 yards and no interceptions.

McNair's favorite receiver for the day was Adam Sosa with 25 yards receiving.

Defensive standouts for the Tigers were Sam Bedell and Cory Mandrell, who each had an interception.

The eighth grade "Black" team put SJHS in the win column with a 14-0 shutout of Madison.

The Tigers received an outstanding performance from running back Alexander Banks.

Banks rushed for 70 yards and a touchdown in the Tigers' win.

Also contributing to the win were David Herrera, who had 47 yards rushing, and Nathan Sorrells, who carried the ball for 20 yards and caught a two-point conversion from quarterback Andrew Parker.

Parker played well and completed three of six passes for one touchdown.

Receiver Micheal Childs was Parker's go-to-guy with 35 yards receiving and a touchdown. Nathan Sorrels caught two passes for 15 yards.

In seventh grade action, the "White" team fell to Madison 18-14.

Despite the loss, the Tigers received an outstanding effort from running back Roy Carreon. Carreon ran for 88 yards and two touchdowns thanks to the blocking of the offensive line.

The Snyder coaching staff praised the blocking of Angel Vasquez, Joe Bilano, John Martinez and Isidro Villisana.

Tiger quarterbacks Derek Crayton and Sonnie Cumbie combined for 60 yards passing on the afternoon.

Randy Green and Mark Rangel played well defensively for the Tigers. Green made a splendid play on a reverse, causing Madison to lose 20 yards on the play. Rangel led the Snyder defense with eight solo tackles in the game.

The seventh grade "Black" team clobbered Madison 20-0.

Offensively, the Tigers got their scoring from an 8-yard touchdown run by Bebos Martinez, a 10-yard bootleg by Paul Camp, a Justin Rosson 2-yard plunge and a two-point conversion by quarterback Josh Ward.

Camp and Ward shared time at the quarterback spot and combined for 88 yards passing.

Offensive lineman Brandon Bolding and Travis Wells were recognized by the Tiger coaching staff for their punishing blocks.

On the defensive side of the ball, Justin Parker was honored for the biggest hit of the afternoon. Paul Camp was also mentioned for his defensive play.

Hunter safety course scheduled Sept. 17-18

A course in hunter education has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 17 and 18, in Snyder.

Hours will be from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, according to Gene and Nancy Bowlin, volunteer instructors.

"According to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's mandatory requirements, every Texas hunter born on or after Sept. 2, 1971, must successfully complete a hunter education training course," said Gene Bowlin. "However, any individual may take the course on a voluntary basis and is encouraged to attend regardless of requirements."

The course is open to adults and youngsters and will include instructions in firearms and archery handling and safety, outdoor responsibility and ethics, laws and regulations, conservation, hunting traditions, wildlife identification, field care of game, wilderness aid and survival.

Students 12 years of age or older who successfully complete the course will be issued a hunter education certificate from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Those younger than 12 will receive a certificate of attendance, but must take the course again for proper certification.

Cost of the course is $5, which covers classroom materials and the certificate.

Class six is limited and those who pre-register will be given preference over walk-ins. For information about the location of the class and registration, call 573-2323.

SHS tennis team downs Brownwood and Pecos

Over the weekend, head coach Chad Redwine's tennis team delivered an old-fashioned whipping to Brownwood and Pecos.

Snyder whistled by Brownwood to the tune of 27-2 and rolled over Pecos 24-7.

"These were two very good wins for us," Redwine said. "Pecos was a tough match and the kids pulled together and made it look easy."

Special recognition goes to the doubles teams of Jamie Sharp and Timmy Clark for a hard-fought win, as well as Kelly Farmer and Alicia Jones. On the singles side, outstanding players for the Tigers were Katie Thornton, Laura Gonzales and Matt Ornales.

Snyder's next opponent will be Abilene Cooper on Thursday, before they open district play on the Saturday against Sweetwater.

"Sweetwater will be our toughest competition in district," Redwine said. "The Cooper matchup will be a great warmup for us."

Experiment rattles Discovery

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Discovery's astronauts have been rattled — literally — by an experiment measuring the damaging effects of space shuttle exhaust.

Shuttle pilots have spent parts of the last three days firing their steering jets toward engine-exhaust monitors on the end of an 82-foot boom extending from the cargo bay. NASA wants to determine whether jet plumes could damage a space station as a shuttle approaches for docking.

The plumes are strong enough to shake the shuttle's 50-foot robot arm, a 32-foot extension carrying the monitors, and the spacecraft itself.

"It's a pretty good force," astronaut Mark Lee said Monday. "It's kind of scary to see those jets fire and see them hit the arm and make it move. We're definitely worried about the forces that it could input to a structure up in space."

NASA wants to know as much as possible about jet plume properties before shuttle Atlantis docks with Russia's Mir space station next May. The experiment also could affect how NASA designs a planned international space station.

The experiment ran into the same snag Monday that it had the previous two days: trouble collecting data from the exhaust monitors. Crew members overcame the problem by flipping a circuit breaker.

The experiment was wrapped up Monday after more than 70 jet firings. Further tests might be conducted next weekend if NASA adds an extra day to the scheduled nine-day mission.

Today the crew was to release a $14 million sun-gazing satellite named Spartan. The satellite has two telescopes that will focus on the sun's corona, or outer atmosphere, for two days before astronauts retrieve it for the trip home.

Midland to ballot on horse racing

MIDLAND (AP) — Midland voters will decide Nov. 8 whether to legalize pari-mutuel horse racing in their county.

A similar proposition failed in 1989.

County commissioners voted 5-0 Monday to put the issue on November's general ballot. The private venture would use no tax funding, horse breeder Lawrence Hahn told the court.

"We have a lot of ranchers and a lot of wealthy people who would like a track," Hahn said. "I imagine there are more registered horses in West Texas than there are registered voters."

Fifty-four percent of Midland County voters rejected pari-mutuel racing five years ago.

Consumer prices on upswing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose a moderate 0.3 percent in August as falling clothing prices helped to offset big increases in food and energy, the government said today.

It marked the third straight month that the Labor Department's closely watched Consumer Price Index has posted a 0.3 percent advance.

Through the first eight months of this year, consumer inflation has been rising at an annual rate of just 2.9 percent, little changed from last year's modest 2.7 percent gain.

Today's news was likely to calm somewhat inflation jitters on Wall Street following a worrisome report last Friday on wholesale prices that caused a steep sell-off in stock and bond markets.

The consumer price index is considered a broader gauge of inflation because it covers services, which are not included in the wholesale price report.

Still, wholesale price reports cannot be totally discounted because of commodity price pressures.

President Clinton signs $30 billion crime bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton signed into law a $30 billion crime bill today, declaring that it would help "roll back this awful tide of violence" in America.

At an elaborate White House ceremony attended by members of Congress and mayors of both political parties, along with police officials, Clinton said a sense of bipartisanship led to passage of the hotly disputed legislation.

"The American people have been waiting a long time for this day," he said.

"In the last 25 years, half a million Americans have been killed by other Americans," he said. "In the last 25 years, crime has been a hot political issue used too often to divide us."

Despite the toll of violence, Clinton said, "still some people in this town tried to keep this day from happening. But today, at last, the waiting ends. Today, the bickering stops, the era of excuses is over."

"From this day forward, let us put partisanship behind us and let us go forward, let us roll up our sleeves and roll back this awful tide of violence and reduce crime in our country," he said. "We have the tools, now let us get about the business of using them."

Sitting beside Hillary Rodham Clinton, and mentioned by both Clinton and Vice President Al Gore, were survivors of some crime victims: Stephen Sposato, whose wife was killed when a gunman invaded the San Francisco law firm where she was working; and Marc Klaas, whose daughter Polly was kidnapped and killed. Both lobbied strongly for the bill — Sposato focusing on the ban on assault-style firearms and Klaas on putting third-time felons in prison for life. A career criminal is awaiting trial in that case.

Clinton signed the bill with numerous pens and handed the first two to Sposato and Klaas.

By signing the bill, Clinton said, "We together are taking a big step toward bringing the laws of our land back in line with the values of our people."

"We will finally ban these assault weapons from the street that have no purpose other than to kill," Clinton declared.

But he told his audience that "even this great law ... cannot do the job alone. By its own words it is still a law. It must be implemented by you. And it must be supplemented by you."

Pointedly uninvited to the ceremony were critics of the bill,

Officers note arrest, criminal mischief case

Area law enforcement officers made an alcohol-related arrest, took juveniles into custody for criminal mischief and investigated traffic accidents and various complaints Monday and early this morning.

Snyder police arrested a 26-year-old man near the American Motor Inn at 1:09 a.m. today for misdemeanor driving while intoxicated.

At 8:18 p.m. Monday, police were dispatched to Travis Gym where four juveniles participated in breaking a window on a Big Spring school bus. The parked bus had been carrying members of a volleyball team, in town for a match at the gym. The juveniles, all boys age 13, were released to their parents. A report for Class B criminal mischief was filed.

Police transported a 32-year-old woman from Municipal Court to the county jail at 10:36 a.m. Monday to lay out files for public intoxication, no seatbelt and Class C assault.

At 12:05 p.m. Monday, a woman came to the police department to complain that a passenger in a Ford Mustang had pointed a gun out a window near 37th Street and Avenue V. Police located the vehicle and seized a pellet gun. The two boys were released to school officials. No charges were filed.

Police investigated a two-vehicle accident at 11:38 a.m. Monday in the 3900 block of College Avenue. Involved were a 1991 Mercury Cougar driven by Pamela Meador Irwin of 2314 Merrill and a 1984 Chrysler driven by Tricia Lynn Moreno of 3012 Ave. V. Irwin, 46, was transported by Snyder EMS to Cogdell Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released. A passenger in the Cougar, 15-year-old J.C. Guzman of 2314 Merrill, was brought in to the emergency room at 10:21 p.m. and was released following treatment.

Officers worked an accident at 2:10 p.m. in the 3600 block of College Avenue. Involved were a 1990 Chevrolet van driven by Donnie William Moore of HC 72 Ira and a 1992 Ford pickup driven by Cameron Andrew Price of P.O. Box 750. Moore, 32, refused treatment at the scene but was brought in to the emergency room by private vehicle at 3:50 p.m. and was released after being treated.

At 5:55 p.m., officers investigated an accident in the 3700 block of Avenue U. Involved were a 1981 Oldsmobile driven by Lyndia Shree Allen of 3710 Ave. U and a parked 1976 Chevrolet pickup owned by James Franklin Simmons of 212 25th St.

Peace officers also went out on calls involving stranded motorists, welfare concerns and possible prowlers.

DPS units investigated an accident at 9:42 p.m. along FM 1611. Sixteen-year-old Ryan Neves of 2110 42nd St. was taken to Cogdell emergency room where he was treated and released. Information on the accident was not available.

Bids approved by board

$21,642.76, which would leave a balance of $1,246.24.

The board also approved a tobacco-free policy which updates the previous no-smoking policy approved earlier this year. The new policy encompasses all tobacco products from buildings, offices, classrooms, laboratories and other facilities on campus, with the exception of certain floors in the dorm and apartments.

Board members heard enrollment reports, which had been released Monday morning by the registrar's office. They confirmed the 1,212 students enrolled in college credit and quarterly programs, a figure up from last fall's enrollment of 1,189.

Monday evening, the board also received a report on the college's continuing education division, which indicated 1,056 students enrolled in community service and adult vocational education classes. Those figures, combined with 72 enrolled in horticulture programs through the Texas Department of Criminal Justice prison units, shows that WTC will serve some 2,340 students this fall.

In one other discussion, the board received coliseum rates on basketball games and practice sessions from the commissioners court, as recommended by the Coliseum Advisory Board. The rates are on a three-year phase-in with $350 charged for a set-up fee, game fees ranging from $260 the first year to $340 the third year and practice fees ranging from $50 to $100.

The board expressed approval of the first-year total fee of $3,290, based on nine games and 12 practices. Trustees, however, indicated they do not want to enter a three-year contract, primarily because of the uncertainty of future coliseum operations — the commissioners court and chamber of commerce are currently negotiating to allow the chamber to run the facility.

In the only other action Monday, trustees approved bills payable, previous minutes and a small class report, and set Oct. 15 as the date for a long-range planning session.

Obituraries

Leon Mireles Jr.

1930-1994

Services are set for 11 a.m. Thursday in the St. John's Catholic Church in Hermleigh for Leon Mireles Jr., 63. Officiating will be Fr. Reynaldo Reyes. Burial will follow in Hillside Memorial Gardens.

Health reform debate turning to blame game

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — With any but the most limited of health care changes out of congressional reach this year, the next round of arguments will be about who gets the blame for inaction on President Clinton's marquee issue.

Republican leaders say the voters will thank them for preventing his version of reform. But the polls have shown majority backing for goals like universal insurance coverage, even as support for the specifics in Clinton's or comparable proposals has dropped.

Democratic advocates of health care reform say GOP obstructionists barred the route to major change, although they're still trying to get something done before Congress quits in about a month.

Sen. George Mitchell, the majority leader, said he thinks there's still time for a bill less sweeping than he'd wanted, a start that would represent progress toward more basic reform.

That's the incremental approach the White House and its Democratic allies had rejected until it became the only path open. In a campaign year, the wise politician takes what's available and claims it as a victory.

Or tries. That won't be easily done in Clinton's case, since he had told Congress eight months ago that he'd veto any bill short of universal health insurance coverage. He's backed away since, after conceding that his own bill was a goner.

Mitchell said the president told him to do the best he could. Clinton, he reported, said he'd wait to see what Congress could deliver before deciding whether to sign or veto.

There's no bill to veto, of course, and there probably won't be. But if there were, for Clinton to block it with his first veto would be the undoing of Democratic complaints that obstructionist Republicans are barring progress on health care reform.

"I think it's quite clear that a large number of them want to stall and prevent any action from occurring on just about anything," Mitchell said in a TV interview as Congress reconvened Monday. During the summer break legislative aides tried to write compromise terms that might make it through Congress in the waning weeks of the session.

Mitchell said legislators often get more done when time is running out. But that also is the point at which it is easiest for opponents to block a bill with delays, or even the threat of delays.

Republican leaders have been wary all along of being maneuvered into a naysaying corner on health care, so they're still offering alternatives to a standoff.

Sen. Bob Dole has suggested that Republican and Democratic leaders try to agree on health insurance changes they can all support, in order to produce a bill that might be passed as is, without amendments.

Mitchell said he didn't like the idea of giving a handful of leaders absolute power to control any measure in Congress. The congressional rank and file would like it even less.

In any event, Dole said the voters won't see the Republicans as a negative force on health care change because most people don't want anything passed in the short time left this year.

"I'm willing to work on an extremely limited health bill," said Rep. Newt Gingrich, the deputy House Republican leader. But he said it would have to be done as written so the final version wouldn't come from a House-Senate conference dominated by liberal Democrats. That means no changes considered, unlikely on a matter like health care.

But the offer avoids just saying no.

Another Republican leader said there'd be no liability anyhow. Rep. Dick Armey, head of the GOP conference, said voters won't be frustrated by end-of-session inaction on health care; they'll be relieved.

And there are polls indicating that a majority would prefer to wait until next year.

Gov. Richards, challenger Bush differ on "surplus"

AUSTIN (AP) — The state's $2.2 billion budget surplus is either a sign of good government or too much taxation. The difference is which gubernatorial candidate is talking.

Democratic Gov. Ann Richards says the surplus is proof of a surging economy and tough management of state government.

Republican challenger George W. Bush says the surplus shows only that taxpayers are shelling out too much.

The two, who meet in the Nov. 8 election, offered their differing views Monday in taped broadcasts offered to television stations statewide.

Legislative leaders announced the surplus late last week.

Richards noted that $100 million of the extra funds have been set aside for public schools and about $140 million shifted to the fast-growing state prison system.

The Democratic governor said the surplus is due to the booming economy, cost-cutting in the bureaucracy and a lottery that's bringing in higher profits than expected.

"Texas has got the most robust state economy in America," Richards said. "Every economic indicator is up dramatically since the start of this decade."

She said 580,000 new jobs have been created since she took office, estimating that economic growth accounted for $1.04 billion of the surplus.

Government efficiencies saved another $976 million, Richards said, while the lottery, with $1.6 billion total profit, accounted for $181 million of the surplus.

"Texas is one of only seven states in the country without a personal income tax, and this surplus insures once again that there is no need for an income tax in Texas," Richards said.

Responding, Bush said Richards was leaving out an important part of the story. Both state and local taxes have risen during her term, he said.

"The newfound state surplus is a result of increased taxes. Ann Richards signed the first-ever income tax on business and has raised our taxes nearly $3 billion. Property taxes in Texas are up by 44 percent," he said.

Bush said that since Richards took office, Texas has one of the fastest-growing state payrolls and that government spending rose 46 percent.

"Our government has added 31,000 new employees — that is one new employee for every hour while she has been governor. Texas state government has more employees than the state of New York," Bush said.

Bush renews call for DNA testing

DALLAS (AP) — An aide to Gov. Ann Richards has criticized a suggestion by GOP challenger George W. Bush that the state put together a central computer library on the genetic characteristics of known sex offenders.

In an appearance Monday with Dallas County Sheriff Jim Bowles and victim rights' advocates Gloria Munoz Gibney and Pam Lychner, Bush said that if he is elected, he will implement a central DNA data bank on sex offenders.

Bush said such a resource would make it easier to catch, convict and imprison sex offenders.

But Cindy Rugeley, a spokeswoman for the governor, said DNA fingerprinting would make little difference in the ongoing battle against crime.

Richards has endorsed DNA fingerprinting if the technology is reliable. But her campaign says it's not the answer to sex offenses.

"The answer is that the sex offenders be kept in prison until they are too old or infirm to do anything, and Ann Richards has already done that," said Rugeley.

Under legislation proposed by state Rep. Brian McCall, R-Plano, state prison officials would take blood samples from convicted sex offenders upon their release from prison.

The state Department of Public Safety then would be authorized to process the blood samples and log them into a database.

The program would cost $1.4 million to start and $700,000 a year to maintain, McCall has said. The needed funds could come from federal grants provided in the recent crime bill, he has said.

Critics of DNA testing question whether a registry would be cost effective and whether it would infringe on a person's privacy.

Bush said a DNA catalog would not necessarily deter a sex offender. However, it would improve the probability of catching and imprisoning him, and mandatory sentencing would keep him there, he said.

Bush also repeated his promise to work to disqualify sex offenders for early release from prison.

"Sex offenders are known repeat offenders and non-rehabilitatable," Bush said.

Ms. Rugeley said the early releases of sex offenders that Bush is complaining about resulted from sentences handed down before Richards took office, she said.

In other campaigns:

— Republican land commissioner candidate Martha Greytok renewed her accusation that Democratic incumbent Garry Mauro, with his commitment to the Coastal Management Plan, would undermine private-property rights in Texas.

"Texas property owners should be fully aware that the incumbent land commissioner (Mauro) is leading the charge on their Fifth Amendment (private-property) rights," she said.

She called the 409-page plan "the 'Trojan Horse' in the property rights battle."

Mauro countered that Ms. Greytok's attacks "make no sense." He said his plan would streamline existing land-use regulation, not expand it. He said it would preserve state power over that land from federal regulations.

— Republican David Hartman alleged that "inappropriate investment practices" by State Treasurer Martha Whitehead "have lost millions and jeopardized billions of dollars of public investments."

Critics say...

Mexico violating NAFTA's spirit

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mexican shoppers and U.S. store owners at the border are angry over the Mexican government's new, tougher enforcement of a $50 limit on groceries and other goods brought south by shoppers.

They say it violates the spirit of the new North American Free Trade Agreement, and they're puzzled by the timing of the new enforcement.

But Mexico says enforcement is being toughened simply because the technology to enforce it was finally installed at various border crossings.

However, some border businessmen suspect political motives. They speculate that Mexico's president wants to appease supporters who own stores in Mexican border states, and wants to wean Mexican consumers from U.S.-made goods that are either unavailable or priced higher at home.

"It's harassment," complains Tony Tirado, a former mayor of the California border town of Calexico, across from the Baja state capital of Mexicali.

Says Lionel Flores, manager of a Shermo electronics store in south San Diego, less than a mile from the border: "We've lost about 70 percent of our business. We're going to change locations."

The $50 limit per shopping trip has been law in Mexico for decades. But Mexican customs officials began enforcing it only in late 1992.

And Mexican shoppers say the enforcement and penalties have become tougher in recent months. Mexican residents can get U.S. border-crossing cards to go shopping in the United States.

"I used to buy a little dress for $30 or $40 in addition to the groceries," said Maria Flores, a Tijuana resident who buys two bags of groceries every week in the U.S. "But I'm afraid to now."

In late August, a U.S. assistant commerce secretary, Charles S. Meissner, met with angry retailers in Brownsville and McAllen, Texas, and then lodged a formal complaint with the Mexican government.

He asked Mexico to bring the limit more in line with the $400 maximum on what U.S. tourists can bring in from foreign countries.

Last week, Mexican president-elect Ernesto Zedillo promised to review the $50 limit, calling it a "source of irritation" for residents of both countries.

Medication may be linked to dizziness

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have been taking Dilantin many, many years due to seizures. Now I'm told my cerebellum is degenerating due to the medication, causing me clumsiness and dizziness. I'm now on Tegretol. Your comments, please, on the condition and cure.

DEAR READER: Dilantin, an anticonvulsant, has been reported to cause poor coordination, slurred speech, muscle twitching, confusion, dizziness, nervousness, and headache; fortunately, these reactions are unusual. The average person can safely take the drug.

These symptoms can also accompany a seizure disorder, such as epilepsy. Therefore, if you improve on the new medicine, which is also an anticonvulsant, you can conclude that Dilantin was the culprit. If you don't, it wasn't.

Your neurologist can monitor your condition. Follow his advice.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Epilepsy: The Falling Sickness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please name the condition in which digestion stops in the intestine. What are the symptoms, treatment and prognosis?

DEAR READER: There is no disorder marked by such a consequence. However, sometimes digestion is delayed or incomplete. Called "malabsorption syndrome," this affliction is the result of many different diseases, ranging from chronic inflammation of the pancreas (a digestive gland) to tropical sprue (an intestinal inflammation). Also, malabsorption may follow extensive surgery on the bowel.

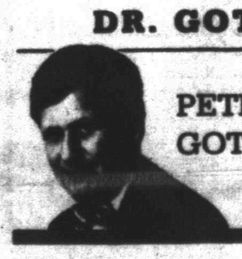

Symptoms reflect malnutrition and include vitamin deficiencies (anemia, nerve damage), bone pain, bleeding tendencies, weight loss, fatigue, weakness, and ankle swelling.

The diagnosis is made by stool analysis for nutrients (especially fats), X-rays and blood tests. Intestinal biopsy may be necessary.

Treatment depends on the underlying disorder. Regardless of cause, patients must be given highly nutritious diets containing abundant vitamin and mineral supplements. The prognosis is guarded because, although treatable, the malabsorption may not be curable in many cases.
