Yanks Favored As World Series Opens Wednesday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whether Mickey Mantle is in the lineup or not — and there's a strong possibility he will sit out the opening game — the New York Yankees still are the 11.3 favorites to defeat the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series which begins Wednesday.

Mantle, looking pale and weak following his release from the hospital, frankly admitted, "I don't think I'll be able to play if I don't feel any better than I did yesterday."

Nevertheless, the odds-makers installed the Yankees 9-5 favorites to win the opener, with pressure-tested Whitey Ford going for the American League champions against another left hander, Jim O'Toole of the Reds.

Ralph Houk, who won the pennant for the Yankees in his freshman year as a manager, said he still is hoping Mantle will be able to play.

"He's played so many times before when he should have been on the bench, so maybe he will be out there," Houk said.

"I'd sure like to have him in there."

Houk said he would wait until after the Yankees' workout today before making up his mind about Mantle.

"If he can't play, it will be (Roger) Maris in center with (Yogi) Berra in left and (John) Blanchard in right," he added.

Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Reds had a doubtful starter, too, catcher Darrell Johnson. Although Johnson worked behind the two rookie Cincinnati receivers, Jerry Zimmerman and John Edwards, most of the season. Hutchinson wanted him in the series because of his experience. Johnson, who has a strained side muscle, was a third-string catcher with the Yankees and Hutchinson wants to take advantage of his knowledge of the Yankee hitters.

Both Johnson and Mantle appeared for workouts in big Yankee Stadium Monday, but Maris, the new home run king, did not dress for the practice session.

"I'm still all in," said Maris, "but I'll be ready Wednesday."

Johnson worked out but did not take batting practice.

Mantle, five pounds underweight, walked around the running track. He limped slightly. He had been released from Lenox Hill Hospital only a couple of hours earlier. While there he underwent minor surgery for an abscess on the right hip. He also had been suffering from a cold.

Even without Mantle, the Yankees — on paper — have a big edge over the Reds in the power department. They have hit 240 homers, a major league club record, with Maris leading the way with that fantastic 61 followed by Mantle with 54. The Reds, on the other hand, hit only 158.

The Yankees also appear to have a big edge in fielding and in catching. Only in pitching — which usually is the most vital factor in a series — do the Reds match the Yankees.

It is that hitting and defensive superiority plus experience which apparently led the odds-makers to make the New York Yankees favorites. None of the 25 Cincinnati players ever has played in a series game.

The first and second games will be the best four out of seven series will be played in Yankee Stadium Wednesday and Thursday. Friday will be an open date for travel with the third, fourth and fifth (if necessary) games to be played in Crosley Field, Cincinnati. After the fifth game another day would

500 Democrats At Fort Worth Switch To GOP

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Some 500 conservative Democrats joined the Republican party Monday night and Jack Cox, unannounced GOP candidate for governor, said they would "sleep good for the first time in years" because of it.

It was the third group of Democrats to switch parties in Texas in recent months.

"This is a grass roots repudiation of the one-party system we have in Texas," said William A. Hovan, part owner of a cafeteria and chairman of the meeting.

Tad Smith of El Paso, Republican state chairman, shared the speaker's platform at the rally with Cox, who switched parties only three weeks ago.

"You will be able to sleep good and with an easy conscience now for the first time in years," Cox told the new Republicans.

"The Democrats have lost all sense of constitutional value. You have shown courage and determination in making this change. You are leaving the Democrats because your conscience tells you it is right."

"It is a decision between blind loyalty to the Democrats, regardless of platform and leadership, versus historical and fundamental principles of government on which Texas and the United States were originally founded."

Pampa And The Top O' Texas In Transition

It takes more money to stock one department in a versatile store in Pampa today than it did for the owner to put in all stock, fixtures and building when the owner started out.

The essence of the Top O' Texas in Transition is the evidence that they've grown with the times and are doing it. And that's one of the reasons for Pampa's tremendous prominence as a "place to go" for shopping. Full details and identities, pointing up enthralling stories of hardship, chuckles and good and bad luck will come out in the Daily News special edition featuring the Transition story.

We are still compiling information and invite your suggestions. You may know of some interesting examples of progressiveness and growth around here that we might miss.

Extra copies still are available, too, but you'd better hurry down to the Daily News with your mailing list.

Ford Workers Stage Walkout As Contract Agreement Fails

Strike Follows Recess In Pact Parley Session

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers Union today called 120,000 workers off their jobs in a nationwide strike against Ford Motor Co., second major strike in the auto industry in less than a month.

The union called the strike when its 9 a.m. CST deadline passed without a new national contract agreement with the nation's second largest carmaker.

But even before the strike deadline was reached, thousands of Ford workers had walked off their jobs despite union warnings not to "jump the gun" on the deadline.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther emerged from the bargaining room in a downtown hotel as the deadline passed and announced that a nationwide strike was under way.

"We regret the action very much," he said. "As you know, the union attempted to the last minute to reach a settlement."

"We regret very much that there wasn't time to work out a full agreement. We reached a final economic agreement at 6 a.m., but there was not enough time left to resolve some very complex and difficult contract matters."

The union chief pledged the UAW would do "everything possible" to bring about a quick end to the strike. He said both sides have agreed to resume negotiations Wednesday because the negotiators were exhausted from a session which lasted all through the night and into this morning.

"We feel that if we come back with clear minds, we might be able to make meaningful progress," Reuther said.

Until dawn today both sides had been expressing optimism that a settlement would be reached before the strike deadline.

Then, after a company caucus that lasted from 4 a.m. to 6 a.m., Reuther suddenly turned pessimistic and snapped angrily to reporters that "the company is paralyzed with indecision."

Ford Vice President Malcolm L. Denise said the strike was the first "in the 20 year history of our relationship with the UAW." He said the walkout was "entirely unnecessary. It is not over economic issues. The UAW has told us that these were resolved. Our economic offer exceeds the General Motors settlement."

Deer Hunter Pays For Slain Horses

WHEATLAND, Wyo. (UPI) — Deer hunter Lester Wayne of Sinking Springs, Pa., shot seven animals — all horses — on a ranch near here Sunday.

Rancher Eugene Alloway said Wayne reported the kills and made a cash settlement without explaining the incident.

Spy Case Against Former Diplomat Opened By Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Irvin C. (Doc) Scarbeck, a former diplomat whose love for a Polish blonde may have led to his ruin, goes on trial today accused of slipping U.S. secrets to Communist agents in Warsaw.

Selection of the jury was scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. with Federal Judge Leonard Walsh presiding.

Scarbeck, the 41-year-old former second secretary at the U.S. embassy in Warsaw, is charged with four counts of giving secret papers to Red spies.

Among the persons brought here from Poland to testify is Ursula Discher, the 22-year-old orphan with whom Scarbeck fell in love despite his wife and three children.

Scarbeck has pleaded not guilty to the charges. His attorney, Samuel C. Klein, says he gave the Communists only "cocktail party" information, and did that only to protect the girl from their death threats.

But the government claims Scarbeck gave the Communists such secret papers as document No. 344, an examination of U.S. policy toward Poland in the last four years, and an estimate of the effectiveness of the Polish armed services.

The girl is not mentioned in the indictments, but government sources differ with Klein on this matter, too.

They say Communist agents caught the graying, "jack-of-all-trades" diplomat with Ursula in a department and photographed them. Then, sources say, they told him to cooperate or they could expose him.

Klein said Scarbeck not only had a love affair with Ursula, but a "father-daughter" relationship, too.

Scarbeck faces up to 33 years in prison if convicted on all four counts.

BAPTIST MEET LEADERS — Dr. Douglas Carver, right, First Baptist Church pastor, host to the District 10 Baptist Convention and District Brotherhood meetings today, is shown with Rev. Hundreds Attend District Baptist Association Meet

Hundreds of Baptists from throughout the Panhandle area, representing five different district associations, convened in Pampa's First Baptist church this morning for the annual District 10 annual convention. Simultaneously, representatives of Baptist Brotherhoods from 117 churches in the area also gathered in the city for their annual brotherhood session.

The District 10 convention was opened by Rev. Dan B. Cameron, pastor of the First Baptist church of Borger, and president of the convention, Paul Biggs, First Baptist Church, Phillipsburg, directing the song program. The address of welcome was given by Dr. Douglas Carver, host pastor. Response was by Rev. E. C. Sidwell.

A change in the program announced early this morning, provided time for the convention delegates to hear Rev. Ed Seale of Dallas, associate secretary of the State Sunday School Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. Rev. Seale spoke during the time which had previously been assigned to Jack Parker, minister of education of the Pampa First Baptist church, and Bob Stroble, Sunday School superintendent of the First Baptist Church of Amarillo.

Seale spoke on the aims, objectives of the commission. (See BAPTIST, Page 4)

City Commission Told Tax Collections Hiked

Final report on Pampa's 1961 tax roll was presented to the City Commission by City Manager John Koonz today and shows the city's total real and personal property valuation at the Oct. 1 start of the new fiscal year was $42,739,660, an increase of $2,351,200 over the 1960 valuation figure.

Tax Collector Aubrey Jones reported that city taxes collected as of the fiscal year ending Sept. 30 totaled $634,515.94, an increase of $13,388.17 over the 1960 tax collection.

Jones' report shows that 94.33 per cent of the total 1960 tax levy now has been collected and that some $22,023.72 in delinquent taxes were collected during the fiscal year just ended.

The tax collector told the City Commission today he has been working with the city manager on a report of the tax department's operations and that the report should be ready soon.

This was in answer to Mayor E. C. Sidwell's question about last week's action of the commission in requesting a detailed report on tax, water and sewer department operations.

Jones told the commission today's report, submitted by the city manager, was not connected with the report which had been requested by the commission.

The tax collector told the commissioners today's report — simply was a statement on valuations and tax collections at the end of the fiscal year and a comparison with the same figures one year ago.

In other business today the City Commission acted on a number of routine matters including approval of a rental contract with the Texas Railroad Commission for office space in City Hall, second reading of an ordinance removing certain stop signs throughout the city, approval of regularly scheduled salaries. District Cancer Society In Meet

District Three—North of the American Cancer Society, Texas Division, Inc. held its annual all-day meeting today in the Coronado Inn with approximately 100 Cancer Society representatives attending from the 25 counties in the district.

John DeShazo of Amarillo, district director, presided at the opening session. The Rev. Earl Cooper, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, offered the invocation followed by an address of welcome extended by E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

The morning session was conducted by routine business conducted by directors Mrs. J. Eddie Jones of Dalhart, J. E. Wheeler, M.D. of Borger and DeShazo.

A discussion of "Personality of the American Cancer Society" was given by Elmo J. Osborne and W. Shafer Jr. of the Texas Division. Followed by group sessions conducted by Osborne and Charles Wright of Canyon and Thomas Williams of Amarillo.

Dr. William W. Sullivan of Galveston, recipient of the Inez Carter Fellowship, was the luncheon speaker. Dr. Sullivan is a resident in orthopedic surgery at the University of Texas and is engaged in research made possible by the fellowship given by Mrs. Carter.

An election of directors was held on the business agenda for the afternoon session before adjournment at 3:30 p.m.

President Calls Military Parley

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy today called his top military advisers to the White House for two conferences that appeared certain to deal with the Berlin crisis.

The President planned to meet with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman T. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He set up a 4:15 p.m. session with McNamara, Lemnitzer and Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO commander.

Shift In State Headquarters Voted By GOP

DALLAS (UPI)—The Republican State Executive Committee yesterday voted 42-10 to move its state headquarters from Houston to Austin.

The committee met to plan the most spirited attack in GOP history against Texas Democrats, but the first session was dominated by argument over relocation of the state headquarters.

"Austin is the political nerve center of the state. This is where you find out what is going on. We have got to adopt a professional attitude or we are doomed to failure," Tower said.

The main argument raised by opponents of the move was that the move would be from a position of Republican strength (Houston) to a predominantly Democratic area (Austin).

Tower answered this argument by saying that the GOP national headquarters is located in Washington. He obviously meant that Washington is a Democratic stronghold at present.

H. J. Porter of Houston, former national committeeman, said he did not think it would either slow down or speed up GOP business to move the headquarters, but he urged the committee to consider the expense of the move.

Other speakers asked the committee to consider putting a branch headquarters in Austin to see how it would work out.

Former state Republican chairman Thad Hutchison of Houston devoted an entire speech to the headquarters move. Hutchison opposes it.

"I think the move from Houston to Austin is perilous and extremely unwise at this time, and I urge each of you, regardless of previous commitments or solicitation, to consider the facts as conscientious Republicans," Hutchison said.

He said that Austin, when the state legislature is not in session, is not the political center of the state.

Finally, he said, a move to Austin would take GOP headquarters away from the greatest voter concentration and largest party volunteer worker corp in the state to a "moderately populated area, reluctantly, but falsely geared to the reactions of the influential Democratic elected officials."

Tad Smith of El Paso, GOP state chairman, predicted that the Republicans will field candidates in 10 Texas congressional races in 1962 as well as in the races for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and many of the seats in the state legislature.

"We think the Democrats can be beaten," Smith said. "Our chances of winning are the greatest they have ever been."

Smith met Sunday with Tower, national committeeman, Albert Fay of Houston, state vice chairman Kathryn McDaniel of Borger and the candidates committee.

GOP Candidate Formally Files For U.S. Post

AUSTIN (UPI)—San Antonio Republican John Goode filed formally today for the special race for U. S. representative, saying his chances of defeating Democratic candidate Henry Gonzalez are "excellent."

Goode, 38, became the third candidate to file for the office vacated by Paul J. Kilday last week to take a job with the court of military appeals.

Gonzalez filed Sept. 26 and San Antonio meat and poultry inspector Dr. G. H. Allen, 79, filed Sept. 25.

State Sen. Hubert Hudson of Brownsville gave Goode a boost at an impromptu news conference by blasting statements Hudson attributed to Gonzalez. Hudson said some of Gonzalez' statements at a recent San Antonio debate between Goode and Gonzalez were "simply not true and mostly patently silly."

Hudson quoted Gonzalez as saying that in the Senate he had received official congratulations on his action.

"That's ridiculous," Hudson said. "I just want to get the record straight. I think Henry should stand for what he stands for and not make statements like that."

He said Gonzalez also erred in statements concerning appearances before the Labor and Management Relations Committee of the Senate.

Goode, a law graduate of the University of Texas, has been Bexar County chairman of the Republican party and was a Texas delegate to the Republican national conventions in 1952, 1956, and 1960. He is presently a member of the State Headquarters Committee of the party and chairman of its Election Code Reform Committee.

Grocery Stores Declared Ideal Book Sale Spots

NEW YORK (UPI)—Culture amid the cabbages, or at least learning close to the lettuce, is good business, Harold Drimmer believes.

About seven years ago Drimmer, grey-haired, dark-eyed and intense president of an old line book publishing firm, J. Little — Ives, took a look at the swarms of women doing their daily shopping in supermarkets and decided that where the consumer gathered was the place to do business.

Not, he decided, in the bookstore, because "most of our customers never have been in one. Some would be almost frightened to go into a book store—but in the supermarkets we had a chance at setting out the mass appeal books and getting repetitive sales."

At first, he said, big supermarket chains were reluctant to talk about the project. But now, they back the idea of marketing certain types of published material. "We've never been turned down by any of the chains we have approached," he said.

Drimmer said that not all types of books would "go" in the supermarket field.

"People seem thirsty for knowledge," said Drimmer, "and they are looking for standard books of reference, dictionaries, encyclopedias and the like, for the children."

Pennsylvanian Wins Round In 'Space' Contest

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Carroll D. Kearns, R-Pa., apparently has won a round in his battle with Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., over office space for GOP clerks of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Sunday was the deadline set by Powell committee chairman, for eviction of four Republican clerks from a two-room suite. Powell wanted to move them to a single office to make more room for Democratic clerks.

Kearns showed up Sunday to defend the office. He remained until after noon and then padlocked the door and posted a guard "as trustworthy as Napoleon's" before leaving to attend the Washington-New York professional football game.

But none of Powell's emissaries came to challenge Kearns or his guard. Powell is traveling in Europe.

Phi Beta Kappa Members Rank As JFK Aides

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The Washington, D. C., Phi Beta Kappa Assn., which has a vested interest in such statistics—has done some arithmetic and discovered that 38 key members of the Kennedy administration have PBK keys.

A spokesman said he believes Kennedy has appointed more members of the honorary scholastic society than any previous president. But he isn't sure because the chapter has never made a survey before.

Chapter President Edward Place said the list was compiled in connection with a new PBK directory.

The only woman named among the 38 is Dr. Janet Travell, President Kennedy's physician, but Place confesses, "I'm afraid we left out some women members who have high jobs in the administration."

The list is headed by three cabinet members: Secretary of State Rusk, Defense Secretary McNamara and Agriculture Secretary Freeman. Army Secretary Stahr also is a key holder.

In addition to Dr. Travell, the PBK White House contingent includes advisers McGeorge Bundy, Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and Theodore Sorensen.

The key men exercise considerable control of the nation's finances with such members as Budget Director Revenue Commissioner Mortimer Caplin, Securities and Exchange Commissioner William C. Sullivan, Development Loan Fund Director Frank M. Coffin, Treasury Undersecretary Robert Roosa and Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, Walter W. Heller.

The society also has representation on Capitol Hill where 25 members serve in Congress. Twelve (nine of them Democrats) are in the 100-man Senate and 13 (seven of them Republicans) in the 437-member House of Representatives.

Solons Provide Unusual Hobby For Columnist

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When members of the U.S. Congress vanished into the morning mists recently, they left a great void in my life, or at least in my tympanum.

Our lawmakers have been gone only a few hours as I write this, but already the silence is making my ears ring.

When one becomes accustomed to dunking one's self in the daily word bath at the Capitol, one feels rather lost without it.

Fortunately, I have a hobby on which I can while away the soundless days until the legislators return next January. It also will help keep alive my memories of the late lamented session.

I have mentioned this hobby before, but for the benefit of any newcomers in the audience I perhaps should explain what it is. I collect first lines of congressional speeches.

This may seem like a bootless pastime, and it is. But once you get started doing it, it becomes habit forming, like eating peanuts or chasing rainbows—and butterflies.

I don't, of course, collect the first lines of every speech or statement I run across. I only save those which for one reason or another discouraged me from reading the rest of the speech or statement.

After reading certain introductory phrases, I sort of become numb and find myself unable to continue. These are the ones I put in my collection.

As usual, I bagged a number of splendid specimens during the recent session of Congress and I plan to spend a lot of time cataloging and sorting them during the adjournment period.

Before they are doused with formaldehyde and put away in mothballs, perhaps you would like to see some of this year's gleanings:

"Mr. Speaker, just as surely as the editor told Virginia there was and always would be a Santa Claus, so, too, there will always be..."

"Mr. President, the history of progress — traditionally referred to as the progress of mankind — more and more is bearing the inimitable touch of womankind..."

"Mr. Speaker, true charity is prodigal son..."

"Mr. Speaker, true charity is anonymous..."

"Mr. Speaker, once in a while those of us here in Congress receive an unusually interesting, provocative, and thoughtful expression of opinion from a constituent..."

"Mr. Speaker, if I were sitting as a judge in the imaginary supreme court of common sense..."

"Mr. Speaker, in all fairness, I believe that I should at this time clarify any situation..."

"Mr. Speaker, we Texans are justifiably proud of our wonderful..."

NATO Military Plans Unchanged

PARIS (UPI)—Efforts by the Atlantic alliance to increase conventional military power in Europe by 20 per cent and reach some long-standing defense goals are a year ahead of schedule because of the Berlin crisis, NATO authorities reported today.

Despite this heavy emphasis on building up non-nuclear forces there has not been a fundamental change in the basic strategy of NATO planners for preventing war.

One high authority said the Western position is that "atomic weapons will be used when, to the extent and in a manner, necessary to defend the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe."

That seemed to make it clear that NATO will not necessarily wait for Russia to use atomic weapons first if war breaks out and the military situation calls for such use.

The stimulus for a faster buildup of non-atomic forces to complement NATO's atom power came from the Kennedy Administration.

NATO's strength since 1954 has been basically orientated toward nuclear weapons.

America had to do a hard selling job but authorities report they are encouraged at the steps the European allies are taking to comply with the big U.S. buildup.

Vice President Lyndon Johnson praised their "determination" here Sunday. He said Europe is preparing "for any eventuality."

Johnson and other top-ranking Americans are not willing to detail these preparations. But informed sources say non-nuclear forces will be increased by 20 per cent, with the United States share of the increase to be 7 to 8 per cent.

Oil Industry Must Have Help, Association Told

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Texas' share of the world's crude oil has shrunk from a high of 29 per cent at the end of World War II to 12 per cent, Ben Ramsey, a member of the Texas Railroad Commission told members of the state oil and gas industry last week.

The state government must do everything it can now to get the industry back on its feet, Ramsey told a meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

He said a majority of the Texas legislature recognizes "that oil from other continents and other states has put the Texas oil producer on his knees."

"A return to normal operations will put men back on the drilling rigs and bring the investors back into the game," Ramsey said.

Ramsey praised the industry for its willingness to shoulder a large share of the state's financial load. He said, "many a financial crisis in our government has been met by new taxes levied on your business."

"And I can remember more than one occasion when you gentlemen came forward voluntarily to help pick up the tab for more beds in the state hospitals and more classrooms in our school system."

Insurance Firms Rapped By Solons

HOUSTON (UPI)—State Rep. Maco Stewart of Galveston told the Texas House General Investigating Committee last week insurance companies have offered settlement of claims in Texas City of only three and four cents on the dollar.

Stewart said he and a number of citizens had made surveys of the Texas City area and found that the average homeowner suffered $4,398 damage to his home from Hurricane Carla.

The insurance companies, he said, were offering to pay off only an average of $143 on settlement of claims.

Storm Victims Request 'Just' Insurance Pay

AUSTIN (UPI)—A Galveston County delegation yesterday urged Gov. Price Daniel to ask the State Board of Insurance Commissioners to prevail upon insurance companies for "just settlements" in the coastal areas damaged by Hurricane Carla.

The three-member board was present at the meeting, but Daniel took no immediate action.

Daniel was presented a petition by Mrs. Ralph Reeder of Texas City, head of a citizen's commission, that was signed by 1,542 persons who have insured damages.

Rep. Maco Stewart of Galveston said a survey of the settlements offered the petitioners was slightly more than 3 per cent of the actual loss.

He said the petitioners had sustained damages of more than $1 million and have been offered settlements of $32,000.

"There seems to be a blanket denial of liability," Stewart said. "The worst settlements have been offered by companies using the General Adjustment Bureau. Those companies using their own staff seem to be living up to their responsibility."

Stewart said some companies were withholding wind-damage settlements although the insured persons were in the buildings at the time of the damage and affirmed that the buildings were destroyed by wind and not water.

"If we don't get fair settlements," Stewart said, "there is going to be an economic depression along the Gulf Coast for a number of years to come."

Stewart said Daniel would meet again with the group later today. He said he intended to urge the governor again to call a special session of the legislature to provide state aid for Carla's victims.

Also at the meeting were Texas City Mayor Lee Robinson and City Commissioners Walter Holland and Charles Lerman.

Report To Bare Dip In Number Of Unemployed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment probably fell by about 30,000 in September while remaining slightly over the four million mark.

The Labor Department said it could announce last month's figures at a news conference this afternoon.

Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg gave an advance hint of the contents when he told a news conference Monday that he had indications the report would show more-than-seasonal improvement.

Manpower experts in the department said that unemployment normally declines by 8.5 per cent in September, and employment goes down by 800,000.

The return of students to fall classes accounts for most of the change since the teen-agers withdraw from the labor force to go back to school. They are not considered unemployed.

Train Hits Car, Five Are Killed

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — It was just a routine trip home from school for Stephen Pratt, 16.

Stephen wasn't alone Monday. With him were four other teenagers who also lived in the Acton area and attended Franklin Central High School. In the group was Stephen's sister, Nadine, 15.

It had been a daily trip since the start of the school year, covering the two or three miles between their homes and the school in Stephen's car. Sort of an early introduction to an adult commuting life.

Sometimes one of their number — Robert Altmeyer, 12 — would be missing, but not this time. There was no football practice. His sister, Laurel, 14, was also one of the commuters.

No one seemed to know the Altmeyers too well. The family had been living in the Acton area for only about a year or so. But the kids had a reputation as being "quiet and cheerful."

The fifth member of the group was Lenny Taylor, 14, who, like the Pratt children, had lived in the Acton area most of his life. They called him "Junior."

They all climbed in the auto for the short trip home. Minutes later all were dead. Their car was struck by a speeding New York Central Railroad train at a crossing a short distance from the school in southeastern Marion County.

Gasaway Rites Reset Tomorrow

Funeral services for Horace Pinkney Gasaway of Skellytown, rural mail carrier, have been postponed from today until 10:30 Wednesday morning and will be held in the Skellytown First Baptist Church with the Rev. Mervin Hall, pastor, officiating.

The funeral has been delayed until tomorrow in order to allow time for relatives, who live in Indiana, to arrive and attend the service.

Mr. Gasaway died from a heart attack Sunday afternoon in a local hospital shortly after being taken there.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

$500 Bond Set In Assault Case

Premier Declares Syria Plans No Big Power Tie

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Premier Mamun Al-Kuzbari said Monday night that Syria's new revolutionary government will follow a foreign policy of "non-alignment" with the big power blocs.

He spoke to the first foreign newsmen allowed to enter Syria since last Thursday's revolt against the rule of the United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

"We are not with the west or the east," Al-Kuzbari said. "We are with every country that extends the hand of friendship."

The premier said foreign envoys in Damascus have been asked to recognize the new government and that applications for membership have been sent to the United Nations and the Arab League.

He said Jordan, Turkey, Guatemala and Iran have recognized the regime and there are reports that Nationalist China has too, although no official word has been received from Taipei.

Listeners in Beirut reported that Cairo and Damascus radios had begun a battle of the airwaves, with Damascus urging Egyptians to revolt against Nasser and Cairo calling on Syrians to overthrow the new Damascus regime.

The new premier said former UAW Vice President Lt. Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj, arrested here Monday and charged with "subversion," will stand trial "like any other citizen" if a board of inquiry decides to press charges against him.

Al-Kuzbari said his regime is deporting Egyptians "for their own safety."

Trio Of Escapees Remain At Large

Three men, including a former Lefors resident, were still at large today following their escape from the Hall County jail in Memphis. The trio, Jimmy Earl Parks, 28, the ex-Lefors resident, Robert Kenneth Frost, 32 and Arthur Butau, 31, both of Minneapolis, Minn., broke jail Monday and stole a 1961 model automobile and four gasoline courtesy cards to make good their escape.

Parks had been in the Memphis jail since Sept. 25 on a safe-cracking charge in the town which netted $150. He is also wanted for questioning on armed robbery charges in Utah and Colorado.

Parks' alleged accomplice in the safe-cracking job chose to stay behind when the trio escaped. Nine other men also refused the chance to escape.

The two Minneapolis men were in jail on charges of burglarizing a service station in Turkey. They were to stand trial later in October.

'Villian' Slain In Self Defense

LEFORS (Sp) — A midnight prowler in the bus barn at Lefors High School was caught and shot by Floyd McMinn, bus mechanic, Tuesday night.

"It was either him or me," McMinn stated, in the open and shut case of self defense.

Though no last words were uttered over his grave, he managed to leave his calling card.

(In case you are a newcomer to this area, you will know the above mentioned villain is a skunk.)

Smashing Truck Enables Worker To Escape Reds

BERLIN (UPI) — A young East German construction worker rammer his car's truck through the Communists' wall in a hail of vapo bullets today and safely reached West Berlin.

The vehicle had been in use near a border-crossing point to build the Red wall higher. The driver slipped behind the wheel in the pre-dawn darkness, raced the motor and smashed through the concrete barrier.

An East German people's policeman (vopo) on border duty leveled his machine gun and shot out the radiator and windshield. The driver ducked below the dashboard and the truck's momentum carried it 150 feet into West Berlin.

Eleven other East Berliners jumped, swam or slid into West Berlin during the night, including another pair of vopos. Some were fired at but none was hit.

Texas Socialist Presented Ticket Out Of Country

HOUSTON (UPI)—Robert E. Nesmith, 48, handed a writer who claims to be a socialist a one-way ticket by boat to New Zealand worth $560 today just to get him out of this country.

The socialist, Charles Hugh Dillon, 56, Dallas, will have to give up his U. S. citizenship to get the ticket but said he is glad to do it because he despises the American way of life.

Mrs. Clara Dillon of Dallas, a cousin, said she did not blame him one bit for leaving the United States.

Nesmith, an engineer who once ran unsuccessfully for Congress on a Constitution party ticket, called it "good riddance." He said he has not met Dillon personally yet because he was afraid he might lose his temper and punch the writer in the nose.

"But I will be there to personally put him on that ship and bid him goodbye," Nesmith said.

"I'm glad to get him out of here. As far as I'm concerned it's good riddance. He might be the guy who casts the deciding vote that takes away all my rights under our present constitution."

Michigan Blast Kills 4 Persons

DETROIT (UPI)—Four persons were killed and nine injured today in an explosion and fire that hit a small plastics firm near downtown Detroit.

The victims were identified as Joanne Watson, about 20; Omega C. Travis, 44; and Olga Yelich, 30, all of Detroit, and Jerry Webster, about 23, Lincoln Park.

Woman Loses $23,000 As Man Grabs Purse

CHICAGO (UPI)—When Mrs. Barbara Mazur and her husband, Frank, fled from their home in Poland they were forced to leave everything behind.

Mrs. Mazur, 65, carried with her only a distrust of banks when she came to the U. S. in 1949.

The couple worked hard and saved their money. Eventually they were able to buy a building. They sold it and Mrs. Mazur added the approximately $12,000 to her hoard.

Two years ago she retired from her job with an electronics company and drew additional thousands from the company's profit sharing plan and her credit union account.

Mrs. Mazur had her money, all $23,900 of it, changed into big bills—a dozen $1,000 bills, four $500 bills and the rest smaller denominations. She stuffed it into plastic envelopes and slipped the envelopes into her brown leather purse, where it remained for three years.

Last Friday night as Mrs. Mazur was returning from a church service, a black-jacketed youth grabbed her, spun her around into an alley, seized the purse and fled in a waiting car. Mrs. Mazur went to the police and reported her loss, but at first she was afraid to tell the amount contained in the purse. She feared her husband would be angry. Finally she relented and revealed the extent of the loot.

Teaching Methods Put To Test At Columbia

NEW YORK (UPI)—The instructor flashed a new slide on the screen and told his biology class of 11 and 12-year-olds that the organism displayed was especially interesting because if a part of its body were cut off, it could grow it back again.

"They say someone, who is born with six fingers, if you cut it off, it grows back," piped up a girl in the back of the room.

The teacher, Seymour Trieger, expressed some skepticism and asked her: "Who is this 'they'?" "Does that kind of finger have any muscle power," another child wanted to know. Trieger said it was an interesting question, he didn't know.

"There was a man with 26 fingers, I heard!" boasted a boy in the front row.

Everybody laughed.

"Where did you get that?" Trieger asked. "This makes an important point, you know. Human beings are wonderful organisms, but they're also some of the biggest liars in the world. People tell stories for very funny reasons. Every time something unusual like this comes up, we should check it very carefully."

The fingers were not entirely a digression.

The youngsters were students in an experimental summer class designed to teach the big ideas of biology and the methods of biological inquiry, through investigation of micro-organisms.

On another day, Trieger had given the students envelopes of a neutral looking powder, "something a friend of mine scraped off a rock on Mars. See if you can find out what it is and whether it ever was alive." Three youngsters determined it was yeast, and one of them succeeded in making it grow.

"In elementary school we never did anything," said Ronnie Canada, recent graduate of Harlem's P. S. 157. "It's more enjoyable this way. The main reason is we're getting things ourselves instead of being told."

Ronnie and his 24 classmates were acting as summer session guinea pigs for the Horace Mann-Lincoln Institute of School Experimentation at Teachers College of Columbia University. In addition to the biology course, given three mornings a week, they spent two mornings in a similarly planned course in literature. They read a collection of ghost stories, Poe's tales and Hawthorne's "The House of the Seven Gables." And they volunteered, almost en masse, for almost a dozen other brief experiments in teaching and testing procedures.

All the youngsters were between sixth and seventh grades, 22 from New York City public schools. Their homes ranged from crowded tenements to middle-class comfort. In common, they had particular combinations of high intelligence and creativity.

But the course material itself was not necessarily designed for gifted children, said Prof. A. Harry Passow, director of the institute's Talented Youth Project.

"I think we can give it to an average class," Passow said. "I think we've been undersold on what kids are capable of."

"But we try it out on gifted children because we have a better chance of succeeding the first time. And if it fails with them, of course, you're out."

In addition, he said, highly intelligent children are usually more articulate and analytical than average — "they can tell you more about it."

Passow said similarly structured courses in high school physics are being used in a number of schools. Their graduates have fewer laws in their heads, he said, and thus "don't do as well on college boards, but the physicists tell us they make better physicists."

The aim of instruction in basic idea and methods in any field is to give students backgrounds from which they can go on whatever field they select. For the student who leaves science after high school, the instruction ideally would permit him to follow and understand scientific advances throughout his life.

The summer session youngsters' enjoyment apparently was independent of any plans to continue scientific study.

Ronnie said, "I kind of want to be a lawyer, or a teacher."

Peter Sivint was more positive: "My ambition is to be the first teen-ager on the moon. I have until 1970."

Rabbits are said to be one of the oldest living mammals on the North American continent.

Commercials On TV Receive No Reviews

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Quite a lot is being written these days about the seasonal premieres of the television programs, new and old, that are going on the air this fall.

Thus far, however, I have not seen any reviews of the commercials.

I don't know why the TV critics have neglected the commercials because in some cases they are better than the programs. My favorite commercial of the new viewing season comes from a gasoline company.

If I heard it right, it says that a full tank of this brand will take you twice as far as half a tank.

That's what we need more of—honesty in advertising. Contrast it, if you please, to a shaving cream commercial that recently drew a complaint from the Federal Trade Commission.

According to the FTC, an actor shaved with an "ordinary" cream to show why it was not as good as the sponsor's product. It turned out, however, that the "ordinary" lather was not a shaving cream at all.

The sponsor just mixed up some stuff that would give a foamy appearance and then dry out immediately after being applied to the actor's face.

This, I trust was an isolated instance. I have spent considerable time lately observing the commercials being seen this fall and by and large they struck me as artistic triumphs.

I can't, of course, mention them all individually, but they give an overall kaleidoscopic impression that goes something like this:

"I dreamed I burned the White House down in my manly-form undershirt."

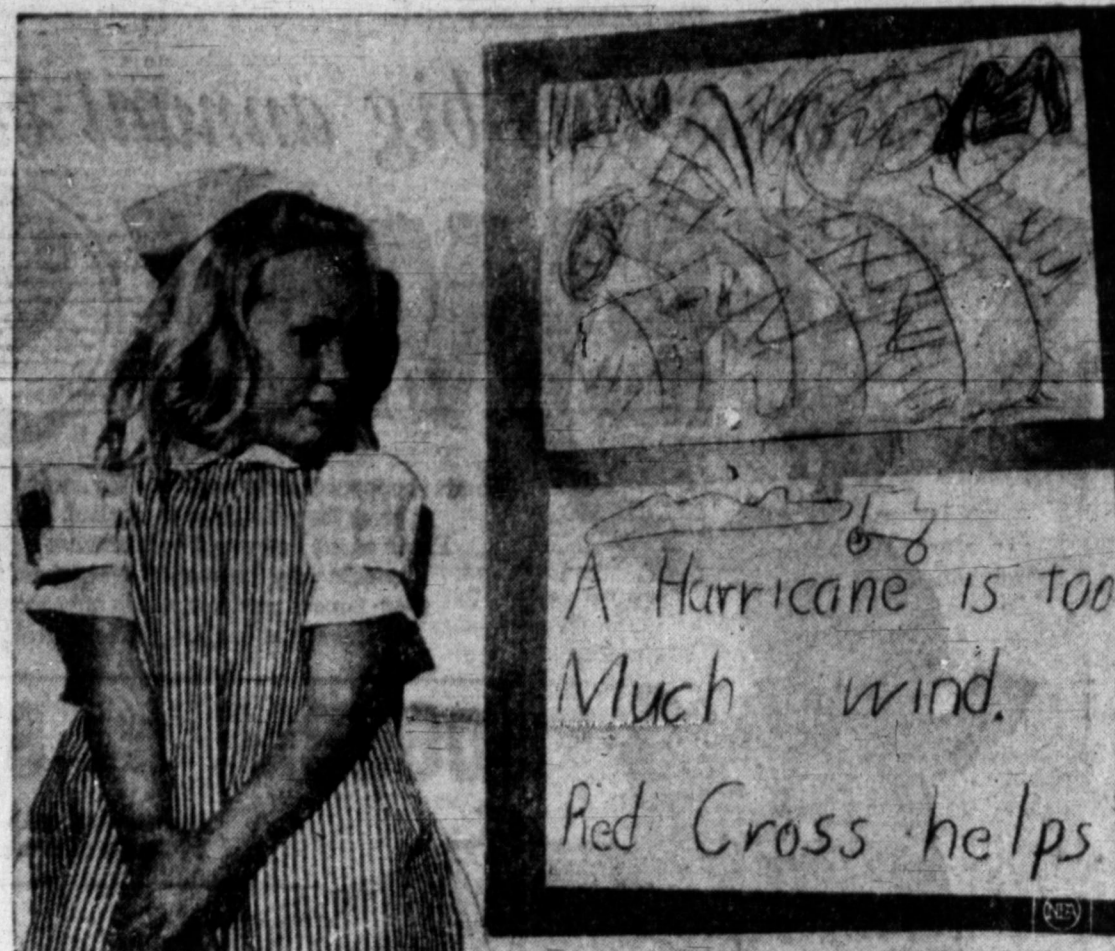

"If you've been dreaming more lately, but enjoying it less, then switch to the brand with the pure white opium filter. It has instant flaking action that lets you dream all night, even in the harshest detergents."

"There are 33 beans in every cup of new lager beer that comes from the land of sky-blue pleasant living. Take tea and see for yourself how great frozen orange juice used to taste. Aspirin tablets still do."

"Come all the way up to the new menthol deodorant. It has a wide-track filter that spreads like the 70-cent spread. Camouflages grey; air softens your underarms and makes them mild, mild, mild."

"Washday worries got you down? Then cut your throat with the only razor blade that medicates while it penetrates. Severs jugular veins instantly upon contact and leaves no unpleasant after-taste."

"When stress and strain cause headache pain, gargle twice daily with the motor oil that three out of four doctors recommend. It odor-proofs your carburetor for 24 hours and makes cabon deposits fade, fade, fade away."

INTRODUCING FOR 1962 THE NEW LEAN BREED OF DODGE

COMPACT
DODGE LANCER GT

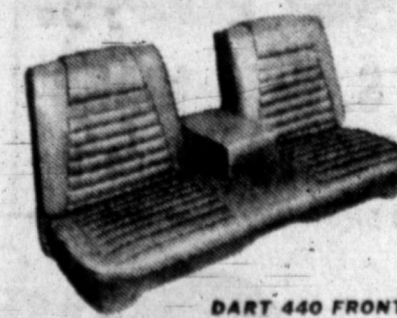

FULL-SIZE DODGE DART 440

The black automobile, above, is the 1962 Dodge Dart 440, first of the Action-Economy cars. A low price, full-size Dodge that will outrun, out-economize most any car around.

Compared to last year's model, a '62 Dart will accelerate seven percent quicker, and do it on five percent less gas. How come? Dead weight has been reduced to a minimum. Example: the automatic transmission case (with V8 engines) used to be made of cast iron; now it's aluminum and 60 pounds lighter.

The Dart 440 is very comfortable. All seats are chair-high. The front one has a fold-down center armrest.

DART 440 FRONT SEAT

The white car, above, is the Lancer GT, America's first Sports Compact. It has bucket seats, sill-to-sill carpeting, and all-vinyl upholstery.

Every 1962 Dodge, full-size or compact, is rustproofed. Every one has a new high-speed starter that puts less strain on the battery. And every one will go 32,000 miles between grease jobs.

As always, the name Dodge is your assurance of dependability.

'Limited War' Chief Declared A Hard Driver

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Lt. Gen. Paul De Witt Adams, first head of the new Army - Air Force limited war command, will shape that command in his own image.

And that image is hard-bitten, hard-driving and businesslike.

Adams' responsibilities are:

—To develop a new doctrine for the air-ground fighting of brush fire wars in places like the Congo, Viet Nam, Laos and Formosa and for the carrying out of preventive actions in places like Lebanon.

—To train paratroop, airborne, commando and regular infantry divisions plus tactical air support into smooth-working teams.

—To lead these men into battle if it becomes necessary.

With new troubles threatening in Viet Nam and Iran, some military observers believe Adams may have little time to get ready.

What kind of a man then is "P. D." Adams?

As regimental commander of a commando - type force during World War II, he taught his men bayonet drill by fighting barehanded against a fellow officer wielding a bayonet. His body is still marked by scars from these drills.

He commanded this regiment through much of World War II—in the Aleutians at Kiska, at Anzio and throughout Italy. The unit's specialties were airborne, arctic and mountain warfare. They were originally recruited for commando raids to destroy Germany's atomic bomb-heavy water research.

In the ticklish 1958 Lebanon occupation, Adams was commander of the combined U.S. Marine and Army land forces. He enforced peace without his troops wounding or killing one Lebanese.

Gen. Adams is admired and hated. Says a colonel:

"If there's a war I'd rather serve under him than any officer I know. He'd send me out to die without blinking an eye. But he'd have a sound reason."

WHICH IS NUMBER 30 MILLION?—A baby carriage factory in Poland wanted to award one of its products to the mother of the nation's 30 millionth citizen. Figuring precisely which child it was got so difficult that 12 mothers were awarded prizes.

Says a major:

"I hate the guy's guts, but he's the best man for the job."

Says a field grade officer:

"When Gen. Adams doesn't like the briefing he's getting, he thumbs his fist toward the door, says 'Take your charts and get out.' Just that. No more. No reasons. Nothing."

Says another officer:

"He's got a feel for what the enemy will do that you seldom find. You either have it or you don't and he has it. He knows just how far he can go without getting clobbered. He goes just that far."

A colonel adds:

"He expects every officer in his command to get into 'blues' and go to church on Sunday. Then he expects you to go back, change, and go down to work at your desk. Where else? Seven days a week."

Another officer says:

"I don't think any officer calls him by his first name. He's not that kind of a man."

There's no chit-chat from P. D. Adams at parties. The parties are formal and proper. When he plays golf, there's no chit-chat either. He's either silent and so is his partner, or they discuss business.

"Eagles have a life span of between 25 and 30 years."

Video's 'Bus Stop' Viewed As 'Detour'

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—The latest vehicle to wheel drama out of the ABC-TV garage took us on a bumpy shakedown ride Sunday night.

The anthology series "Bus Stop," rolling off the 20th Century Fox grease rack, made its debut with "Afternoon of a Cowboy," subtitled "Birth of a Man." The full-hour premiere dripped with standard examples of TV cinema's current kick — hairy-knuckled, sweaty story-telling techniques.

Directed by Stuart Rosenberg, the production continually called attention to its grown-up orientation by sprinkling "hells" and "damns" into scenes, putting a well-stacked gal, Anne Helm, into a long bra-and-panties scene, and giving guest star Seven Cochran suggestive speeches and a year's supply of "ers," "ahs" and long pauses between lines.

Camera work followed the fashion of going for close-ups, reaching under, over and around the players. The pace, too deliberate and self-conscious, managed to include a ridiculous fist fight that probably was designed to keep the faith with viewers who crave furious action on the part of strong silent heroes.

Here we had Cochran as a roving cowboy who, after a long AWOL, rode the bus home to Sunrise to see if he could help his oldest son, Dean Stockwell, beat a murder rap.

The story, adapted by Sally Benson, scattered its energies. There was Cochran the detective seeking to pin the girl's murder on a local banker's son. There was Cochran the repentant father seeking to assure his long-suffering wife that he was ready to make amends for his wanderings and her "empty bed blues." Bethel Leslie, as the wife, was too young and untroubled-looking to be credible. There was also the sociological note: Was a poor "nobody" being framed so that a rich "somebody" could go free? None of these meaty angles was explored with dedication and vigor. Any one of them, taken alone, could have sufficed for the story.

I'm all for scenes that are designed with loving care, but I don't think the loving care should intrude on the scene. That is, unless you're trying to hide the story's weak underpinnings. "Bus Stop" seemed like a detour of "Route 66" with its opening show.

The rather heady world of Ernest Hemingway underwent an "examination" Sunday night on NBC-TV's "Du Pont Show of the Week."

Written, directed and produced by Julian Claman for the NBC news department, the hour focused fondly, sympathetically and uncritically on the places and events, large and small, that shaped Hemingway's "courage is the major virtue" philosophy. In pursuit of this end, the program offered fascinating films of wars, bulls and other wild animals, game and people.

The mixture of words, read by Chet Huntley and Andrew Dugan, and photographs and films, was effective in achieving interest and variety. To be taken more seriously as a definitive summation of a major literary figure, the house would have had to examine the fuller meanings of the Hemingway code and its impact on society. And I doubt if "Show of the Week" is the spot for that kind of detail.

Dialing and filing: Ed Sullivan's formal return to the new CBS-TV season, Sunday night offered a perky interview with Brigitte Bardot and some fetching films of Hong Kong. But at times, some of Ed's films, seemed to be too personal and uninformative.

"Mister Ed" joined CBS-TV's Sunday lineup of family shows Sunday night after a career as a syndicated series. The set-up is the same. Low-pressure humor bumps against a high-pressure laugh track. It's hard to reverse the process.

Dear Abby...

Hunting Trip Suggested
For Another Girl-Friend

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a man of 36 and the woman I have been keeping company with is 30. I don't know why, but I have never completely trusted her. I have caught her in a few small lies, but she always manages to talk her way out of suspicious circumstances and make them sound perfectly innocent.

She took a vacation for two weeks, but didn't go any place. She said she just wanted to stay home and relax. I telephoned her one night and a man answered. Now she is trying to tell me it was her brother. She told me a while ago that her brother was going to be gone the entire month on a hunting trip. What do you think is going on?

NOBODY'S FOOL: I don't know whether you are right in your suspicions — a host to hallucinations or a fool yourself. But, either way, I suggest you go on a hunting trip of your own — for another girl.

DEAR ABBY: My parents won't let me date a certain boy because he is four years older than I am. My father is nine months YOUNGER than my mother. Do they expect me to go out with some punk younger than I am? I am almost 15 and this boy is 19. All the boys my age seem so stupid and immature. How can I convince my parents that he isn't too old for me?

OLD ENOUGH: Sorry, honey, but I am with your parents. Until you reach 15, you are 14. And a 14-year-old girl is a bit young for a 19-year-old man.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this at 3 o'clock in the morning, having been just awakened again by a blood-curdling cry. I thought at first it was a child, but my husband says it is a pair of neighbor's cats who just love to make love in our Chinese Elm tree.

My husband has a hunting gun and, if he goes out there and brings back a sack full of game, it won't be rabbits.

We have lived in this home a long time, but the neighbors with the cats are new in the neighborhood. We have never met them. Please give us a solution before I lose my mind.

"Doors To Leadership," Open For New Women's Missionary Union Officers

Mrs. Bob Strohle of the Amarillo First Baptist Church installed new officers for the Women's Missionary Union of First Baptist Church on Wednesday morning.

"Doors" were used as the installation theme; the different kinds of doors "we are confronted with and what lies behind them for us." She brought out that there are four kinds of doors that officers may enter. "The doors of leadership, fellowship, regularity, organization, and faithful service to help build a better WMU."

New officers installed were: Mrs. Owen Johnson, president; E. E. Shelhamer, secretary; Charles Miller, secretary; Earl Barnett, treasurer; Lewis Tarpley, program; Earl Dodson, mission study; John Gikas, prayer; Mike Porter, community missions; A. L. Prigmore, stewardship; Tommy Burns, publicity; Lida Ramsay, publications; L. V. Hopp, enlistment; H. B. Taylor, social; Douglas Carver, pianist; Bob Allen, choirster; Margie Crouse, registrar.

Also, W. B. Franking, GA director; George Henderson, D. S. Miller, J. C. Sheppard, Jerry

DEAR TREMBLING: Call on the cat owners and state your complaint in a friendly way. And tell them, if you are disturbed again, you will call the law.

DEAR ABBY: Is a fifth cousin far enough away for romance?

JUST WONDERING: DEAR JUST: Genetically speaking, yes.

Beaux ties are the latest thing for the high-school set. This hair (center) to signify that she's going steady. Or, she con-teen-ager (left) wears two bow ties in her hair to announce that she's dating two boys. Here, she wears his bow in her ear with a tie clasp. There are many other styles.

New 'Gimmick' Perks
Up Teenage HairdosALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's a new gimmick in the teen-ager set this year. Gone are the dog tags and lookalike shirts that steadies used last year — their badge of "togetherness." In fact, they're considered so square, they're cubed.

The latest fad sweeping the high school set is "beaux ties." The teen-ager who is all tied up with a beau proves it by wearing his tie in her hair. And he ties the first knot.

If a girl has two beaux, she solves the problem by wearing two bowties, until the winner removes one of them.

Pinning, of course, is still the big thing. The beaux tie is merely the step that stakes out the claim.

The fad is bound to cause confusion among hair stylists and tie salesman alike. For boys will now select ties "to go with a pink sweater." And girls who had sound reasons for the way they wore their hair will choose hairdos to go with beaux neckties.

Actually, the look can be quite charming, depending less on the tie than on the manner in which it's worn.

Four-in-hand ties are favorites, for they convert easily into headbands. The long ends hang freely over the shoulder or fasten to a sweater with a tie pin.

Bow ties can be wrapped around the head and tied perkily in front. And clip-on ties can be worn anywhere — on top of full bangs, over the ear, or even at the back of the head.

Here are some tips from the Lift Reference Service to help you make sure your hair will be a pretty setting for your beaux ties.

A balanced and nutritious diet is essential for glowing, healthy hair. Healthy hair begins at the roots, which are nourished by the blood stream.

Hair can either frizzle or go limp in dampness. Use a good hair spray — one that contains lanolin and will not dry your hair. Spray more around the nape of the neck and the hairline, then spread your fingers and cup your hands over your hairdo until the spray dries.

Work with the climate, not against it. If you live in a humid area, give yourself a wave at least every six months. The new, straight looking hairdos can't be maintained unless your hair has plenty of body. And that body can be put there with a permanent wave. If you use the pushbutton type home kit, follow directions for loose, casual waving.

If your hair is thin, wear it short and in a modified bouffant style. And, for you, a permanent is essential. Brush your hair daily to improve the texture. It will benefit rather than harm your setting. Be fuzzy, too, about the cleanliness of your brushes and combs. Clean them whenever you shampoo, and shampoo often.

And while you're at it, you might angle for a guy who has good taste in ties!

Pampa Getting Prepared For Monterey Plainsmen

Ricky Stewart Holds Spotlight In Rebel Game

A determined Pampa Harvester grid team hit the practice field Monday to prepare for Friday night's encounter with the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen at Harvester Park.

The Harvesters, obviously enthused by their improved performance against Tascosa's big Rebels, came out of the Saturday night skirmish without any serious injuries.

Pampa definitely played its best game since the opening tilt with Bel Aire. The Ysleta club is still unbeaten with the 7-0 decision over the Harvesters being their narrowest margin of victory.

Coach Weldon Trice's eleven trailed the Rebels 33-6 at halftime, but the Pampans held their own in the second half with an inspired performance. The Harvesters limited Tascosa to just one touchdown in the last 24 minutes while threatening the Rebs goal line once.

Whether it was the Tascosa second or third team as certain Amarillo sports scribes declare — we aren't inclined to agree with this — the Harvesters looked like a different ball club in the second half.

Sophomore quarterback Ricky Stewart took to the air lanes 24 times against the Rebels and connected for seven completions. He should have had a better record

AIR BORNE — Ricky Stewart, the Harvesters' sophomore quarterback, went to the air 24 times Saturday night against the Tascosa Rebels in a vain attempt to catch the Rebs. Stewart completed seven aerials and had several dropped by receivers.

Iowa Leads In UPI Poll, Texas Fifth

NEW YORK (UPI) — Iowa which finished second to Minnesota in the final 1960 United Press International ratings, moved up to the No. 1 spot as the nation's top college football team today in the first weekly ratings for the 1961 season.

The Hawkeyes, who whipped California, 28-7, Saturday in their opening game of the season under new head coach Jerry Burns, were the No. 1 pick of 10 of the 35 coaches, five each from the seven geographical sections of the country, who comprise the UPI rating board.

Iowa, which lost only one game a year ago, received a total of 290 points, collecting enough second and third place votes to shade Mississippi by 27 points for the top spot. Ole Miss, third in the final 1960 ratings, also received 10 first-place votes to finish the first week with 263 points, which are awarded on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 for votes from first through 10th.

Mississippi, which was unbeaten but tied once in 1960 and went on to beat Rice in the Sugar Bowl game, already has scored two victories this season — over Arkansas and Kentucky — and appears to be the strongest team in the South, although it may be pressed for regional honors by Georgia Tech.

The Ramblin' Wreck, on the basis of victories over Southern California and Rice, was the No. 1 pick of six coaches. That support enabled Georgia Tech to get the No. 3 spot this week with 225 points. There was a close battle for fourth place between Michigan State, which received four first-place votes, and Texas. The Spartans edged the Longhorns by two points, 172-170.

The rest of the top 10 was made up of Missouri, Alabama, Michigan, Syracuse and Baylor. Texas received two first-place votes and Missouri, the Orange Bowl champion, Alabama and Notre Dame, which beat Oklahoma, in last Saturday's nationally televised game, got one each. Notre Dame, however, was ranked 12th behind Ohio State.

Other teams in the second 10 were Texas Christian, Auburn, Colorado, Miami (Fla.), Purdue, Duke, Wyoming and Utah State in that order from 13th through 20th.

The 1961 season (first place votes and won-loss records in parentheses):

Jaipur Triumphs At Belmont Park

By United Press International

George D. Widener figured he couldn't go wrong in entering both of his 2-year-olds — Jaipur and Endymion — in the $50,000 Cowdin Stakes at Belmont Park Monday.

Most of the 22,218 fans thought so too—for they sent the Widener entry off as the even money favorite, and Jaipur, a homebred son of Nasrullah, responded with a half-length victory in turning back 11 rivals.

Endymion, hampered by a bad position, rallied in the stretch but finished fifth.

Eddie Arcaro guided Jaipur over the seven furlongs in 1:22 3-5 for a $410, $260 and $210 payoff. Obey finished second and Sir Gaylord ran third.

The triumph was the fourth in six starts for Jaipur, who finished second in his other two starts. Included among the dark bay colt's victories are the Flash and the Hopeful.

AA Elevens Face Rough Foes Friday

By United Press International

A half dozen of the state's 29 undefeated — untied Class AA — schoolboy football teams are engaged in games against each other this week, but even more interest is being generated in outside games involving Brady and Anson.

Brady's Bulldogs, pre-season favorite in some circles as successor to Denver City as AA champ, tackles a real tartar in Class AAA Belton, an old rival with the best scoring average of all teams in the state. Belton has scored 171 points in four games for a 42.7 average, while Brady has averaged 31.2 points in five games.

Anson, boasting the top defensive record among AA clubs with only six points yielded in four victories, also jumps on a buzz-saw in Class A defending champion Albany, which has averaged nearly 34 points a game in four starts.

The trio of perfect record games has La Grange at Giddings, Needville at Sweeny and Yoakum at Ganado with La Grange, Sweeny and Ganado in the favorite's roles.

Jacksboro's Tigers, the top scoring AA outfit with a 42.2-point average, is one of several undefeated-untied teams meeting dangerous once-beaten rivals.

Jacksboro plays Electra, Childress faces Hamlin, Haskell meets Seagraves, Plano takes on Lancaster, Hillsboro meets Gatesville and Sinton engages Bishop in games of such nature.

Most of the other unbeaten teams appear safe. They include Dalhart, Tulia, Floydada, Morton, Quanah, Hamilton, Dublin, Mansfield, Paul Hewitt, Mineola, Hearne, Little Cypress, Luling, Pleasanton, Hebronville and Pecos.

Compulation Gadget Says Reds May Sweep Series

NEW YORK (NEA) — In this neutral moment before they plug in the sports experts and wind up the players, World Series computations made at the Biorhythm Institute indicate:

— Cincinnati could take New York in the first four games.

— A longer series gives the Yankees an increasing advantage.

— But nobody at the Institute would be surprised if neither team won.

Biorhythm is a theory explaining why we have our ups and downs. Life is a straight line from birth to death. Biorhythm researchers say, with three predictable cycles — sensitivity, intelligence and physical endurance — coursing like roller coasters up and down across the line.

— When all the cycles are above the line, we're at our best. Below, we're revitalizing ourselves. But when a cycle crosses the line — watch out. You're in critical condition: not up, not down, not in control.

— And as the cycles run on different frequencies (23 days for physical, 28 sensitivity, 33 intellectual), you're seldom all up, all down or non-critical. Suicides, for example, usually die on intellectual — critical days while deaths from illness occur most often on physical — critical days.

"War records show most feats of valor were performed on high sensitivity days," a Biorhythm Institute officer says. "And baseball records seem to work on the same rule."

— Strangely, however, hardly anybody on either team is Biorhythmically high during the first four days of the series.

The Yankees should be advised not to start Coates, Terry, Ford or Maris as they are quite low both physically and sensitively — and certainly not Mantle who is as low as he can be, or Howard who has one critical after the other on October 5, 6 and 7.

— Unfortunately, Yankee manager Ralph Houk ought to stay in bed for the first four games, too, as his intelligence dips sharply throughout the entire series time, and his sensitivity hits a critical at the mid-point.

The Reds are in somewhat better shape at the beginning. Mauney is high, Cardenas is high. Chacon is fantastically high and so is Gernert.

Manager Fred Hutchinson, curiously, is low in sensitivity and low in intelligence so he'll prob-

Tascosa Rebels To Meet Borger In Top Contest

A clash between defending champion and undefeated Borger and pre-season favorite Tascosa is the headline attraction in the district 3-AAAA race and the Panhandle area Friday night.

These two powerhouses meet at Borger and the outcome of the battle could well decide who will sit in the throne room come November play-off time.

Coach Gene Mayfield's Borger Bulldogs cleared one major hurdle last Friday with a 21-14 triumph over previously unbeaten Palo Duro. The victory was the fourth in a row for the Bulldogs and was the first touchdowns they have allowed this season.

Tascosa's Rebels warmed up for the season's biggest encounter with a 41-6 smashing of winless Pampa. Coach Pat Patterson's crew has lost only to the state's second ranked AAAA club — Permian in four outings.

Eddie Whiddon, Tascosa's clever quarterback, and fullback Tim Elkins will pit their talents against the Borger cousins, halfbacks J. P. and L. T. Tillman and fullback Davis Hill in what could amount to a rip-roaring offensive battle.

The rest of the district gets into action with the Pampa Harvesters hosting Monterey, Palo Duro and Lubbock tangling in another feature tilt and Amarillo entertaining hapless Plainview.

Lefors faces the last of a rugged non-conference card and the Pirates really have a toughie — Stinnett. The Rattlers, sixth ranked class A club in Texas, journeys to Lefors for the struggle. The contest will offer a comparison between Stinnett and White Deer. The Bucos tilt White Deer 6-6.

There are nine undefeated teams and one club with only a tie against its record in the five local districts covered by the News. Other than Borger, the other spotless record clubs are Lubbock, Gruver, Stratford, Quanah, Childress, Follett, Miami and Booker. White Deer is unbeaten, but has been tied.

Jack Spikes Takes Over Rushing Lead

DALLAS (UPI) — Jack Spikes, Dallas Texan fullback, rode a 146-yard performance against Houston last Sunday into the American Football League's rushing leadership.

The big former Texas Christian product holds only a narrow three-yard edge, 326 yards to 323, over San Diego scatback Paul Lowe, but he's manufactured his total in three games while it has taken Lowe four games. Spikes has averaged 10.5 yards for each of 3 carries.

Last year's rushing leader, Abner Haynes of Dallas, finally got in a full game after a season with injuries, and pulled into the 10th position with 142 yards, 44 of it coming against Houston.

Al Dorow of the New York Titans continued his domination of the pass statistics by compiling 53 of a possible 68 points in the league's six categories which determine a passer's efficiency rating. Ed Sogin of Boston ranked No. 2 with 50 points.

Lionel Taylor, whose 92 receptions last year made the Denver

Money Everywhere

Don't tell us that a new round of inflation hasn't been planned or won't be executed in the event of war. Leslie Gould, financial editor of the New York Journal American, has revealed in a recent column certain steps that were taken during the Truman administration to see to it that tons of newly printed green backs could be slipped into the economic stream in the event the bombing began.

Stacks and stacks of currency—billions of dollars—have been found neatly piled in all sorts of unlikely places all around the country by the new Kennedy treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith.

Mrs. Smith, as a sort of money housekeeper, got to browsing around, poking into little used closets and what not through the Federal Reserve system. She uncovered mountains of neatly tied dollars, most in small denominations, and all bearing the signatures of John W. Snyder and Georgia Neese Clark, Secretary of the Treasury and Treasurer under the Harry Truman regime.

There have been three secretaries to the Treasury since Snyder resigned and went to work in private life. These three were George M. Humphrey, who served from January, 1953, to June, 1957, when learned better and got into private life; Robert B. Anderson, June, 1957 to January, 1961, when he was retired with the change in administration; and C. Douglas Dillon, the incumbent.

Humphrey and Anderson apparently didn't bother to find out just how much currency was stashed away in these unlikely spots.

The reason for the discovery was occasioned when Mrs. Smith decided to make an inventory of outstanding currency, just in case.

The reason for the enormous printing job, it is believed, occurred when Secretary Clark was ordered to duplicate the outstanding currency back during the Truman administration. At that time there was some $29.5 billion in circulation and this is about the amount found on hand by Mrs. Smith.

Before We Catch On

Persons having political power are always impatient of every delay. It seems they feel they are justified in haste because if they were patient it is entirely likely things would work out well without a display of their power.

On Americanism

We are reproducing here, a statement on Americanism made by the American Legion. The statement was made January 3, 1939 and is worthy of being repeated now, at least in part:

"In order to determine what activities and propaganda are un-American, we must first define Americanism. No scientific definition will be attempted, but we will undertake to set forth in simple and understandable language what some of the chief principles of Americanism are. In the first place, Americanism is the recognition of the truth that the inherent and fundamental rights of man are derived from God, and not from governments, societies, dictators, kings, or majorities. This basic principle of Americanism is expressed in the Declaration of Independence, where our immortal forefathers said that all men are created equal and that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, chief among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. From this declaration and the well established interpretations that have been put upon it from the beginning of the republic down to the present moment, it is clear that Americanism recognizes the existence of a God and the all-important fact that the fundamental rights of man are derived from God and not from any other source.

"Among these inalienable rights which are the gifts of man from his Creator are: (1) Freedom of worship; (2) freedom of speech; (3) freedom of press; (4) freedom

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Q — My daughter is in nurses' training. When she went in, she had a tuberculin skin test and it was reported negative. Now, a year later, it was repeated and it's positive and she's being given pills to take. Does this mean she has T.B.? If she has, why are they letting her continue her course? If she hasn't why are they giving her treatment?

A — I don't blame you for being confused, dear mother. But what is being done is in the best interests of your daughter as well as the community. Let me try to explain.

The fact that the skin test changed from negative to positive indicates that your daughter has now developed a successful defense mechanism against the tubercle bacillus. To do this, she must have met the organism and conquered it.

She must be free from any symptoms or signs of active infection if the school physician and authorities permit her to continue her studies and her work.

It is now the policy of most experts to supplement the defenses of those who convert from a negative to a positive reaction by giving mouth doses of a safe and inexpensive drug (isoniazid) that is a powerful enemy of tubercle bacilli.

Rest secure in the belief that your daughter is in competent hands and that it is consistent with good practice to have her take the drug and continue her studies and her work all at the same time.

Q — Does pressure — cooking harm foods given to growing children?

A — On the contrary. Pressure — cooking is the least damaging to food values. For example, it results in the highest retention of Vitamin C despite the fact that Vitamin C is the most easily damaged of the vitamins.

Q — Does cigarette smoking by a pregnant woman have any bad effect on the infant?

A — While an occasional cigarette has no demonstrable effect on a pregnancy, regular use of a pack a day or more results in lesser weight of the newborn, as compared with babies of non-smokers, and a higher incidence of prematurity.

For example, studies made at the Baltimore City Hospital showed an increase in the rate of prematurity from 11.3 per cent in non-smokers to 22.9 per cent in a pack — a — day smokers.

Certainly this doubling of the rate cannot lightly be dismissed by any impartial observer or by any woman who hopes to give her infant the best possible start in the difficult world in which it is to live.

will crumble to the earth. Therefore, the man who advocates class hatred is plainly un-American even if he professes racial and religious tolerance. The converse of this proposition is equally true. It is as un-American to hate one's neighbor who has more of this world's material goods as it is to hate him because he was born into another race or worshiped God according to a different faith.

While we agree with virtually every point made by the Legion in this statement, we are going to have to take sharp issue with one of the conclusions. The Legion statement goes on to say: "The American government was established to guarantee the enjoyment of these fundamental rights." It therefore follows that in America the government is the servant of the people.

Actually, it does not so follow. It may be that the American government was SUPPOSED to be the servant of the people. But there was built into the Constitution a number of policies which, thru the years, have permitted our "servant" of government to emerge as the master and the tyrant over every human being under its sway.

Nor are these developments which are as obvious to any taxpayer as Form 1040, a result of "by-passing" the Constitution. Rather, they have occurred "under" the Constitution and as a direct result of constitutional policies invoked in 1789 and still with us. We must counsel a re-reading of the Constitution and a recognition of the fact that the Constitution does NOT follow the ideals expressed in the Declaration of Independence. These two documents are in conflict, and much of the dissension in America today stems from this conflict.

Indeed, it is true that today men must choose whether they will support the ideals of the Declaration or the power policies of the Constitution. They are not the same.

Allen - Scott Report: 'Major Breakthrough' in Nuclear Anti - Missile Missiles Indicated in Soviet Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON — The military significance of the Soviet nuclear tests grows with each new explosion.

This ominous development is clearly indicated in the preliminary U.S. evaluation of the Soviet high — altitude atomic blasts.

These findings give Russia the nuclear capability of being able to shoot down U.S. launched satellites when they pass over certain areas of the Soviet Union.

Prepared by a team of top U.S. nuclear — missile experts for the Atomic Energy Commission, the unpublished report says that the tests show that the Soviets have both the atomic warheads and the missiles to do the job.

It credits the Kremlin with "a major breakthrough in the fitting of a nuclear warhead to an anti-missile missile." If the Soviets fully exploit this new weapon development, the report warns, "the atomic balance — of — power could pass from the U.S. to Russia."

At present, the number of these nuclear — tipped, anti — missile missiles ready for firing by the Soviets are believed to be very limited. These satellite-killers, known as the SR — 6, are operational only in the immediate vicinity of the two principal Russian missile testing areas.

However, the report forecasts that the Soviets are expected, within a year, to install these SR-6 "Star — of — David" type missile complexes that make up the heart of the Soviet air defense system. These complexes, designed to protect Russia's major cities and ICBM sites, were spotted and photographed by the Central Intelligence Agency's U-2 spy planes before their flights were stopped in May 1960.

THE EVIDENCE — In their high — altitude testing, the Soviets with deadly accuracy knocked down targets of satellite — size at heights of 200,000 feet by exploding nuclear warheads near the flying objects.

The same warheads, launched atop the SR — 6, could just as easily be exploded at heights up to 300 miles, according to the intelligence evaluation.

With that capability, the Soviets can track and shoot down any U.S. launched satellite, including the Air Force's Samos reconnaissance satellite, if and when these vehicles pass within a hundred miles of a satellite — killer launch site.

Some top U.S. rocket experts believe that the Soviets will test their skill with the new weapon in the near future. For instance, Dr. Walter R. Dornberger, who was in charge of German rocket development at the Peenemunde base during World War II, is warning: "In the very near future, the Russians will create an incident by shooting down or intercepting a U.S. launched satellite."

He contends that there is a real danger that the Soviets, within a few years, will be able to wipe out U.S. space systems and "achieve their final goal of dictating the conditions of survival to the free world without firing a single shot on earth."

Dr. Dornberger, who was brought to this country by the Army, is now a naturalized American citizen and is working on some of this nation's top missile projects.

To counter the Soviet threat the Atomic Energy Commission and the Department of Defense are now making a joint study on whether it will be necessary for the U.S. to conduct nuclear tests in the atmosphere to push our anti-

Articles for this column are preferred to be 300 words or less in length. However, longer articles may be printed. All letters must be signed.

Editor: Although I'm not much of a journalist, I did feel that as a matter of self defense, I should write some explanation concerning a letter that appeared in your Pampa News recently. I am referring to the letter that was somewhat critical of me and others for having had a part in the visit of the Russian agricultural workers to Gray County.

When I received the long distance call asking my cooperation in having them in our county for one day, my reaction was about the same as the letter writer I refer to above. It was not until after a rather lengthy conversation had ensued that I agreed to the matter. No faster than I think, I needed 30 days to think this one over rather than 3 minutes. When I finally said "yes" and hung up, I wasn't sure at the time that I had given the right answer. I will say, however, there was no coercion on the part of the official at A & M regarding my accepting them in the county. I stand behind my own decision.

When I hung up a thousand thoughts ran through my mind. Had I made the right decision? Why should we show the dirty rascals a better way of doing anything? Who idea was it? Why was I asked to volunteer? I had another thought that would stun anyone who has three hungry kids and a wife to feed. What would be the reaction of the people in my county? At this point I started to pick up the phone and call the whole thing off. It was on Friday that I received the call, and they were to be here on Monday. No use to make a hasty decision. I could think the thing over and still have time to call and cancel the step in Gray County.

Then I began to think in a more rational manner. Did we really have any great secrets about our abundant agricultural production? The results of the great research work done by our Agricultural Experiment Stations has always been available to the world. The key to our abundant agricultural production that has made us the best clothed and fed nation of the world is the capitalistic system. Then did we really have anything to conceal from them? Rather, we had a form of government to display that has Communism beat more ways than a farmer can whip a mule.

It was then I decided to show the Russians how much better our way of life is than theirs. I was quite selective in picking the farms to be visited. I wanted the Russians to meet a fellow who had pulled himself up from his own boot straps. I took them to the Johnny Johnson farm for this reason. Here was a guy that started from scratch since World War 2 and had been most successful through his own initiative. Johnson explained how he and his wife had worked long hours under the incentive system to attain the goals they had reached.

Although we missed Marvin Webster, I personally explained how he too had been successful under our incentive system. Seriously, isn't this the only way we will ever have a chance to show them there is something better than Communism? Surely many doubts ran through their minds about Communism after visiting these farms.

Why should we run up the iron curtain when our only secret to them is the incentive system under which we operate? How are they to know by reading the censored press in their country the true facts about our form of government?

It is no surprise that so many of their diplomats defect to the West when they learn the truth of our real success story. Why conceal it from them?

It was just last year that some of our most prominent and respected citizens of this area visited Russia. If we of this nation are to enjoy this privilege aren't we obligated to return the same courtesy to them? Or should we run up the iron curtain? If we are to permit visitors from any nation to tour our country we must furnish them protection while here. No advance publicity was given the Russian visit for this reason. We expect this same courtesy when our people visit Russia.

Yes, I am very familiar with the end product of a totalitarian form of government. I had the unforgettable experience of seeing first hand the victims of the Buchenwald Concentration Camp. I wish I hadn't. I'm sure we have many Buchenwalds in Russia today. Therefore, my bitterness toward them and emotions are much more intense than that of the average citizen.

Yet is this a time to react on emotions rather than that of rational thinking?

I, too, am opposed to any policy of "peace at any price". I feel today just as I did in Winterburg, Czechoslovakia on May 9, 1945. At that time we should have continued in an easterly direction and wiped out another system more vicious than that of the Nazis. But we didn't.

Some Germans Found Fatalists About Problems

By PHIL NEWSOM

BERLIN—Among the West German people one finds an occasional curious and disturbing reaction to today's world crisis.

It is a reaction of lassitude amounting almost to disinterest, or a fatalism which is just as bad, not only toward world problems but toward the problem as it affects their own country as well.

This is not to say that such an attitude represents majority German viewpoint or even a large percentage. But on a trip ranging from Bonn in the Rhineland, through the busy port and industrial city of Hamburg and finally to Berlin it occurs frequently enough to be worthy of note.

The German who takes the fatalistic attitude does so on two counts.

First, if there is a war, he will be the first to be hit.

Second, if there is a compromise it will be at his expense and the whole of Germany will be opened up to Russian conquest.

In any event, there is nothing he can do about either.

The lassitude also comes in two counts.

In the younger people it finds its expression in doubts about Germany's future despite its present great prosperity.

"Perhaps," said one young man in Bonn, "We made too much money too fast. I think we have lost our spiritual values."

These were values which he found hard to define but the mere expression was a symbol of his disquiet.

The feeling also comes from the fact that, after losing two world wars, the German no longer feels master of his own destiny.

The decision about his defense will be made not by him but by a combination of the NATO powers. Therefore, he might as well sit back and wait.

Along with this is a certain amount of continuous soul-searching.

Said a prominent Socialist politician:

"The German people know that after Hitler they must cleanse their shield."

A housewife in Hamburg put it more simply in a question:

"What do the Americans think of us Germans? No much, I guess."

In any event, whether through lassitude among the people or as result of government preoccupation over recent months with the national election campaign, there is, outside of Berlin, no such sense of urgency as might be expected by one fresh from the United States.

Federal Courts Urged To Catch Up On Dockets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief Justice Earl Warren called on an expanded federal judiciary to "relieve the congestion in our courts."

Warren issued the statement in answer to reporters' questions as the Supreme Court convened in a brief ceremony to open the 1961-62 term.

The nine justices, meeting for the first time since June 19, faced a docket of about 1,650 cases, the heaviest in court history for this time of year.

Warren said he was sure the entire judiciary was pleased at the congressional response to the plea of the judicial conference for more judges.

At the session ending last week Congress authorized 73 new federal judgeships. President Kennedy nominated 54, of whom 37 were approved by the Senate.

"They have given us all that we asked for and, therefore, all that we believe are necessary to handle the business of the courts," Warren said.

"We do have backlogs, very large ones, in most of the metropolitan areas of the country. We are extremely hopeful that with the addition of these new judges our courts will be able to make substantial progress in relieving the congestion."

Tank Wipes Out Man's Business

FORMBY, England (UPI) — Shipyard foreman Richard Wright complained today the British army put him out of business.

He said he beached his boat Sunday and it was accidentally run over and crushed by a Centurion tank.
