Ships Start On Operation Early Sunday

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sunday, Feb. 6 (AP) — American and Nationalist Chinese fleets were putting to sea today to evacuate the Tachen Islands 15 miles off Red China's coast, following orders from President Eisenhower and Generalissimo Chiang Ka-shek.

Chiang issued orders to Gen. Liu Lien-yi, the Tachen garrison commander, to withdraw following receipt before dawn this morning of President Eisenhower's order from Washington for the U. S. 7th Fleet to assist in the operation.

Vice Adm. Alfred M. Pride, 7th Fleet commander, sailed on his flagship, the cruiser Helena, shortly after 9 a.m., today—7 p.m., Saturday, EST.

The news sent a throb of excitement through official and military quarters but the general public remained unaware because it came too late for Sunday newspapers.

The evacuation, which may take as much as 15 days, will remove 15,000 of Chiang's troops with their arms and equipment from the two Tachen Islands 200 miles north of here. They are only 15 miles off the coast of Communist China.

It also will take as many of the 15,000 civilians as want to go. Besides this it will remove handfuls of troops and civilians from some of Chiang's satellite holdings nearby, including the two Yushan islets 30 miles northeast of the Tachens, Pishan Island 32 miles southwest and possibly Nanchishan 80 miles south.

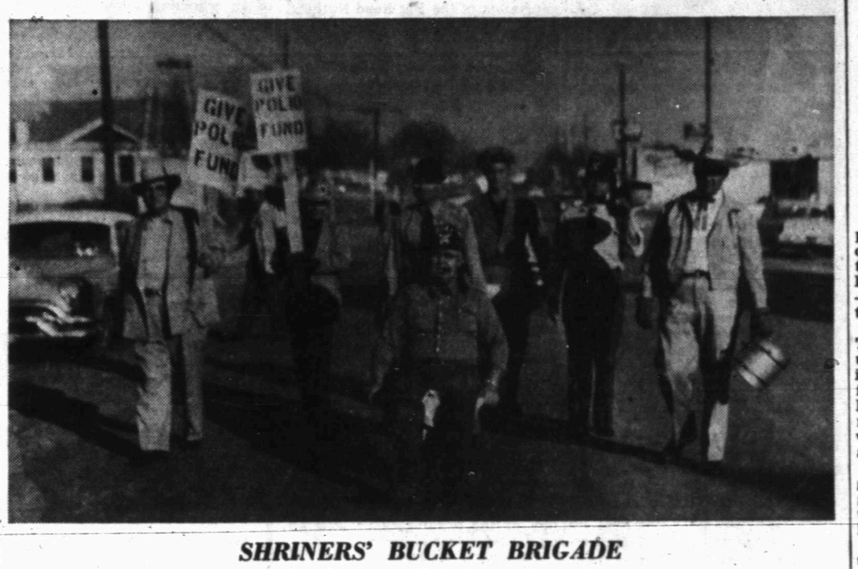

An official Chinese Nationalist source said he believed Gen. Liu has sealed orders which he is to open on receipt of Chiang's telegram from Taipeh.

American officers in the American Military Advisory and assistance group on the Tachens are believed to have instructions to help in executing the evacuation plans.

Reports already were out that part of the mighty fleet was under way to execute the delicate operation ordered by President Eisenhower in reports which reached this island capital of Chiang Kai-shek before dawn today.

Vice Adm. Alfred M. Pride's flagship, the cruiser Helena, was expected to sail this morning from Keelung, the port where she has been riding at anchor 30 miles north of here.

Grouped around the Helena in the narrow, fjordlike estuary were various lesser ships including transports which soon will be in exposed waters, loading Chinese soldiers and equipment in this most forthright American action against communism since the Korean War.

SHRINERS' BUCKET BRIGADE

Members of the Snyder Shrine went themselves one better yesterday in their annual street solicitation for the March of Dimes drive here. In addition to posting members on all corners of the square throughout the day to solicit donations from motorists, some of the Shriners formed a bucket brigade on the East Highway and marched to town stopping all cars to request money for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. One feature of the bucket brigade was a wheel barrow ride for Pat Moore with the delegation of Shriners, mostly peace officers, taking turns at the handles of the barrow. The Shrine collected $1,111.52 for the dimes drive. (Lee Watson photograph)

Warn Reds To Lay Off

By LEE GARRETT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The powerful U. S. 7th Fleet today got orders from President Eisenhower to help evacuate Chinese Nationalist troops from the Tachen Islands—and the Navy warned the Reds to keep hands off the operation.

Any Red Chinese attack on the Tachens while the withdrawal is under way "will be considered as interference with the mission of the fleet," a high Navy official said. He stressed the fleet would provoke no incidents with the Reds, but would not "accept any tactical disadvantages."

The order to the fleet to help get the Natonalists off the island group 200 miles north of Formosa was first announced by the State Department.

At the same time, this country told Nationalist leader Chiang Kai-shek it would help defend "related positions and territories" it deems necessary for the security of Formosa and the Pescadores. It refused to give a public pledge, as sought by Chiang, to defend the coastal islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

It was believed that, for the present, the United States probably would join to defend against any massive attack on them, in the belief that it would be aimed at Formosa, but officials fought shy of any public notice of intentions.

The State Department announcement said Chiang had asked and would get U. S. help in evacuating the Tachens, which the U. S. does not consider important to the defense of his Formosa bastion. The announcement did not say to what other areas the troops would be redeployed from the Tachens.

The evacuation order was sent to Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, for relay through channels to the 7th Fleet, which even in advance of that time was reported moving toward the Tachens.

A Pentagon spokesman said late today the actual operation probably would not get under way for another 24 hours. Most of the actual transport will be done by Chinese ships, with U. S. units providing protection.

He estimated it might require from 10 to 14 days to complete the removal of the Nationalists from the Tachens.

The U. S. fleet has been "at ready" for more than a week anticipating the order, which reportedly was held up by Chiang's insistence on a public U. S. guarantee that it would help defend Quemoy and the Matsus.

Those islands are just off the mainland opposite the Red Chinese ports of Amoy and Foochow—likely assembly points for any Red Chinese force aimed at Formosa and the Pescadores.

Initial congressional reaction toward the move was favorable.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn), a Senate Foreign Relations Committee member, said of the refusal to name Quemoy and the Matsus that "I am pleased to see our government is directing its own policy in the critical Formosa area."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), chairman of the committee's Far Eastern subcommittee, said, "This has been expected and we have expected to lend protection."

"This will be a testing period of the real purposes of the Chinese Communists," he added. "If they are as warlike as they have been talking they may jump on us. If they do, we certainly will defend ourselves."

Some persons felt that the chances of any Red Chinese attack was lessened by what might be considered a gift of the Tachens to them without a fight.

This country agreed to protect and assist both the redeployment of the troops and the evacuation of such civilians as want to leave the islands.

A high Navy official said at the Pentagon that the American forces protecting the withdrawal is built around a backbone of six carriers—the Wasp, Kearsarge, Essex, Yorktown, Midway and Princeton—with surface ships to give gunfire support if necessary and an air cover of U.S. Air Force fighter planes now based on Formosa.

"Our forces have instructions not to provoke incidents," this official said, "but they also have instructions not to accept any tactical disadvantages." He added that American fliers are not expected to get themselves "altruistically shot down."

The fleet apparently includes at least 70 combatant vessels and transports, together with a large number of landing craft.

Included are the carriers, plus escort carrier; 2 cruisers; 36 destroyers of various types; 5 submarines and 15 mine sweeping ships.

Obviously with an eye to the possibility of Red submarine interference the fleet contains a substantial number of anti-submarine planes and ships.

To maintain the air watch for enemy planes at least four of the destroyers are radar picket ships and one submarine is radar equipped.

The State Department expressed hope the U.S. moves would bring an end to Communist attacks and help restore peace and security to the area.

SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR

Scurry County can't take much pride in its poll tax roll this year.

We hear a lot of talk these days favoring "decentralized" government, with more authority being recommended at the "grass roots" level. Yet, when there are no federal and state offices at stake, many citizens don't even bother to qualify themselves as voters.

Members of a Parent-Teachers Association unit down at Abilene may be classified as optimistic, or else they have more faith than many of their neighbors. They're going to buy raincoats for the Safety Patrol boys at their school. We hope their efforts are not wasted.

The annual March of Dimes drive is getting started here, which has raised a question regarding fund-raising campaigns. All other major welfare and civic agencies had their budgets subscribed here through the United Fund which conducted its campaign in late November and early December. The fact that the March of Dimes was not included in that drive cannot be blamed on the United Fund or the local chapter of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

The March of Dimes throughout the country has refrained from entering combined drives for various reasons. In fact, we have not heard of any instance in this part of the country where March of Dimes is included in a United Fund or Community Chest.

Some other agencies also are reluctant to enter combined fund-raising efforts, and in some cities there are several which remain outside the fold. Snyder, incidentally, had more agencies cooperating in its initial United Fund campaign than most others do.

The objective of the United Fund, of course, is to get all drives completed simultaneously. Progress in this direction is being made throughout the country.

However, until such time that the objective is reached, other cities go on raising funds for the United Funds and Community Chests and still take care of the few who remain outside.

We think Snyder and Scurry County can do as well as the others, because we need the United Fund and we can't get along without the Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

If you get discouraged over the turmoil of modern living, just remember that 40 or 50 years from now somebody will be referring to this period as "the good old days."

Scurry County as a whole didn't get a big rain Thursday night, but a lot of water went through Snyder down the Deep Creek channel Friday. If the runoff in Deep Creek alone could have been utilized more farms would have planting moisture tucked in their soil.

Scouts Mark Anniversary

More than 400 scouts in Scurry County, along with about 175 leaders, will celebrate the 45th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America this week.

Today, Boy Scout Sunday, several scoutings units are attending church in uniform as units, while many other scouts are attending their own churches decked out in scouting attire.

Three churches in Snyder are dedicating a portion of their bulletins to the scouts today. They are Calvary Baptist Church, Trinity Methodist Church, and First Methodist Church. At least two are having special scouts sitting in a body in their auditoriums durat its early morning service with troop and pack 27, and Avenue D Baptist with troop 123, which is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and dens from the East Elementary School cub pack 36.

All troops have been urged to hold parent and son potluck dinners, along with a court of honor in celebration of scout week. A court of honor is a scouting ceremony for recognition of scout advancement.

Later in the month, the cub packs will hold their annual blue and gold banquets in celebration of the scouting birthday.

Some Snyder merchants have planned scouting displays in their windows for the week.

Democrat Takes Over Jenner's Panel Post

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The chairmanship of the Senate's Red-hunting Internal Security subcommittee passed today from Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) to Sen. Eastland (D-Miss).

Eastland, senior Democrat on the subcommittee, said he had been notified of his appointment by Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa), chairman of the parent Senate Judiciary Committee.

Bust Measurements In Hungary Deflated

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Hungary's estimate of the size of the average woman's bust has been deflated.

The Hungarian Embassy's information service in London gave out the news today that the average size in that Communist land is 36¼ inches and not 38.

Suggestions For C-C Projects Cover Wide Range Of Activity

Chamber of Commerce members and local residents appear to be well-pleased with the program of work carried on by the chamber last year.

In a suggestion program held recently by the chamber, those who offered suggestions gave mostly those which would amount to continuation of work the chamber is doing or has attempted to do. Suggestions submitted will be used as an aid to the program committee, headed by H. W. Cargile. After Cargile's committee completes its work, it will take the recommended program before the chamber board of directors at its next meeting.

Two suggestsions which seemed to be mentioned more than others were to continue work toward establishing a public library and to work toward flood control on Deep Creek. Both of those were included in the chamber program last year. The chamber, in fact, circulated petitions which resulted in a public opinion election concerning whether a county library should be built. Taxpayers turned the proposal down in a light vote. One of the persons writing a suggestion concerning the library added that the majority of people here want it but just don't want to vote.

The chamber last year had in its program a provision "to work with all agricultural agencies in flood control planning on Deep Creek watershed." Along that line, it is now planning a meeting here to discuss the problem. The meeting is to be held in the near future.

Many suggested that the chamber work toward establishment of a county fair association here.

Also suggested by several persons was beautification in the city, especially along Deep Creek. Other top suggestions included work with the city on street opening and street and alley paving, inauguration of a program to get a Texas Employment Commission office here, continue work toward securing a new post office building, work with other groups toward building a civic house or auditor-

Front Expected To Bring More Rain

By The Associated Press

Rains that brought new hope to drought-ridden West Texas and flooded streets in coastal cities dotted the state Saturday and the Weather Bureau said more moisture is on the way.

A Pacific front was reported rolling toward Texas and the weather bureau said the moisture-laden air mass likely would bring more rains to the state by Wednesday.

Showers fell Saturday on a wide area from San Angelo, Ozona, Del Rio, Laredo and Brownsville eastward through the Gulf coast area and deep into the northern part of East Texas. Skies were heavily clouded over all of Texas with the exception of the Panhandle and the El Paso area.

Orange streets were flooded Saturday as new rains brought the city's total for the 24-hour period to 3.45 inches and Houston was pelted by more rain following a deluge Friday night that measured up to six inches in some parts of the city.

The rains slacked off Saturday night except in the south and southeast, where the precipitation was expected to continue Sunday. A good rain was falling at Austin Saturday night.

Little or no rain was expected Sunday in west and north Central Texas. Slightly warmer weather was expected to move into the state from the Northwest Sunday.

A car carrying four youths home from a teen-agers dance at Marshall in East Texas skidded on a rain-slick street early Saturday, killing Donald Minter Smith, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Smith of Marshall.

Two traffic deaths were blamed on the wet weather at Houston. The victims were Sgt. Claude Conley and 6-month-old Sherry Lynn Haynes of Conroe, killed in separate highway crashes.

Rain still was falling late Saturday at Austin, Corpus Christi, College Station, San Antonio, Brownsville, Laredo, Houston, Del Rio, Cotulla and Lufkin. Earlier San Angelo, Ozona, Christoval, Dallas, Fort Worth, Junction and Beaumont also had rain.

The heaviest rain Friday night apparently fell at Hallettsville, between San Antonio and Houston, where seven inches fell. Power was interrupted there and terraced fields damaged.

At Houston, over 100 traffic accidents were reported by police during Friday night's downpour. Flooded underpasses were closed and all but four of the 35 telephone circuits between Houston and Baytown were knocked out.

The slow, soaking rains brought new life to rangelands, small grain crops and helped to restore depleted sub-soil moisture in a wide sector of West Texas that has suffered from drought.

Costa Rican Rebels Seized

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 5 (AP)—Airborne government troops today recaptured the jungle-enclosed town of Los Chiles in northern Costa Rica from a small rebel group which occupied it yesterday.

The government announced that its forces were in absolute control of both the town and the airport.

The first word of the action here did not say what happened to Col. Guillermo Nunez, high-ranking officer of the Costa Rican air force. He and his companions had been captured by the rebels at Los Chiles and his release demanded by the government in an ultimatum.

The rebels, who had seized a radio station at Los Chiles, had threatened to hang Nune if the government attempted to recapture the town of 600 close to the Nicaraguan border.

The government, in turn, had dropped leaflets over the town demanding that the rebels turn him loose or face reprisals upon their relatives from an infuriated populace.

The rebels captured Nunez, two other crew members and three passengers when he landed his Lacsa Airline plane, a DC3, at Los Chiles yesterday.

Census Bureau Plans Smoking Habit Check

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—You may be asked by the government next week whether you smoke and, if so, how much.

The U.S. Census Bureau disclosed today a check on smoking habits will reach 25,000 households in 230 areas of the country.

The survey was requested by the National Cancer Institute of the U.S. Public Health Service. A spokesman said the institute, which is making a study of lung cancer, also is checking 200,000 veterans' smoking habits.

"We feel," he said "that a great deal more data is needed on smoking habits. The census survey is to help us in gathering statistics."

Rifle Bullets Spray Conference Room In Egyptian Consulate

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—An empty conference room of the guarded Egyptian consulate was sprayed with bullets today by a rifleman who apparently fired from a rooftop across the street.

Members of the Egyptian delegation to the U. N. ordinarily use the top floor room, but no one was there at the time of the shooting.

Police have kept a round-the-clock guard at the building since Tuesday when the consulate received anonymous telephone calls threatening a bombing and other harm.

Shortly after the shots were fired today, police found 14 empty .22 caliber shell casings on roofs across the street from the consulate building, which is located at 79th St. and Park Ave.

Four .22 bullets were recovered from a wall in the conference room.

Police also picked up a man for questioning after his license plates were reported to match those of a car seen driving away from the scene.

WHAT IS A METHODIST?

Many Attracted By John Wesley's Work

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another of a series of informative articles on the role of religion in today's world, written for the Daily News by leading authorities of the various faiths and denominations.

By RALPH W. SOCKMAN
Pastor of Christ Church in New York City

The Methodist Church is "a unique blend of New Testament Christianity, the Protestant Reformation and the influence of John Wesley." Wesley himself was fond of saying: "A Methodist is one who has the love of God shed abroad in his heart by the Holy Ghost given unto him, one who loves the Lord his God with all his heart, with all his soul, with all his mind and with all his strength."

Methodism began in England as a movement within the existing Protestant Church, and not as a new sect.

How do Methodists regard the Bible?

They regard it as the "Holy Scriptures." Methodists look upon the Bible as a library of inspired books containing the progressive revelation of God. They recognize the various types of literature in the Bible — law, poetry, prophecy, allegory, gospels, epistles.

Realizing that the Scriptures have been translated from their original tongues, the Methodists make allowance for differences of interpretation. They believe in the "open Bible" and encourage the individual to read it for himself, leaving him free to make his own interpretation under the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

Methodists believe that "the Holy Scriptures contain all things necessary to salvation; so that whatsoever is not read therein, nor may be proved thereby, is not to be required of any man, that it should be believed as an article of faith, or be thought necessary to salvation." (From the Methodist Articles of Religion.)

How did the Methodist Church begin?

The Methodist Church was born in the Church of England through the work of John Wesley. Educated at Oxford and ordained to the Anglican priesthood, the young Wesley sought in vain for religious satisfaction by the strict observance of religious rules and the ordinances of the church. The turning point in his life came at a prayer meeting in London on May 24, 1738. There he learned what Saint Paul had discovered — that it is not by rules and our own efforts at self-perfection that man may enter upon life and peace, but only by faith in God's mercy.

When Wesley went forth to preach his new, heart-warming experience, the people who had been

Adenauer To Press Treaty Ratification

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, Germany, Feb. 5 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said tonight he will press unswervingly for ratification of the Paris treaties to free and rearm West Germany despite the fall of the French government of Pierre Mendes-France.

"This is the only path leading to the pacification of the world and to the reunification of Germany in peace and freedom," the Chancellor said in an address to the National Committee of his Christian Democratic party (CDU).

The new French government crisis, however, has given a shot in the arm to the campaign of German Socalists and labor unions to scuttle the Paris treaties which would make West Germany a full partner in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. On the other hand, leaders in Adenauer's government confess they are dismayed.

Adenauer said communism is "an aggressive power of the first order" which was "only waiting for the West to become soft."

"It is all the more important that we continue the present policy of uniting the Western world," he added.

The 79-year-old Chancellor had summoned the CDU committee to an all-day meeting to chart a vigorous nationwide campaign to combat the growing antirearmament drive by the Socialists. CDU Cabinet members and state leaders also attended.

A communique said the leaders had voted "unqualified confidence" in Adenauer's determined decision to go ahead.

Tomorrow he plans a nationwide radio address appealing for support of his pro-Western policy and trying to minimize the effect of the fall of Mendes-France.

Informants said Adenauer probably will explain the Paris crisis is an internal French matter that should not affect ratification and reiterate that he is determined to push the treaties through the Bonn Parliament by mid-March. He probably will say he believes that Mendes-France's successor finally will succeed in getting the treaties over the last French hurdle, approval by the Council of the republic.

The West German Bundestag (lower house) is scheduled to hold a semifinal vote on the pacts Feb. 25. But the defeat of Mendes-France could change this schedule. Powerful elements among Adenauer's three coalition government allies feel that West Germany will lose the last measure of negotiating power with the Soviet Union on reunification of West and East Germany if ratification is voted now.

Ambassador To Japan Had Doubts Early

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Three years to the day before Pearl Harbor, America's ambassador to Tokyo expressed doubt that "anything short of force" could block the Japanese warlords' course of conquest in Asia.

This came to light today in a letter dated Dec. 7, 1938, from Ambassador Joseph C. Grew in Tokyo to his British counterpart there, Sir Robert L. Craigie.

It was one of a series of letters between the two included in an inch-thick volume published by the State Department. It is called "Foreign Relations of the United States, 1938, Volume 4, The Far East."

The publication discloses, after 17 years of secrecy, correspondence bearing chiefly on the rampaging Japanese military operations against China. This was the time of the "undeclared war" and the pages bristle with American and British charges that the Japanese were violating Americans' and Britons' rights in China.

Diplomats casting about for some way of "moderating" the Japanese aggression considered using economic and even military sanctions.

But in one letter, Grew said economic sanctions might be difficult to obtain and military sanctions would be unwise unless backed up by a willingness to fight. In his Dec. 7 letter to Craigie, Grew wrote:

"As I do not believe that anything short of force can lead to substantial moderation of Japanese policy in China, I cannot conscientiously recommend to my government recourse to economic sanctions." Thereafter the United States continued depending upon diplomatic protests.

One possible course was suggested by then President Roosevelt to Secretary Cordell Hull.

In a Jan. 28, 1938, memo Roosevelt suggested Hull might begin to "lay the foundation for holding Japan accountable in dollars for the actions of her soldiers."

Then Roosevelt observed:

"There is a vast amount of Japanese-owned property in the United States and . . . we have excellent precedent in the Alien Property Custodian Act for holding this property in escrow. Enough said!"

Hull responded Feb. 3. He agreed the ground should be laid for an accounting. But he said the suggestion to seize Japanese property in the United States would apply "only for a situation where the United States is a belligerent."

Patrolman Has Exciting Time

LEANDER, Feb. 5 (AP)—It all started when a car left the road near Leander about 1 a.m. today, jumped a ditch and rolled onto the railroad tracks—with no wheels touching the ground.

From that point, things were happening for two hours. Highway Patrolman R.B. Christian's running account goes like this:

Mitchell Jones, 41, of Liberty Hill reported his car failed to negotiate a turn on U.S. 183 north of Leander, bounced through the ditch across the pastureland and onto the railroad track.

A patrol car and a wrecker were dispatched.

A semi-trailer truck, driven by Martin Weems, 31, of Houston came along. Weems stopped to help direct traffic and aid in the rescue of the car from the train tracks. His truck got stuck in the mud.

The wrecker, driven by Clifford Potts, 28, of Austin arrived.

A car driven by Jack Farris, 33, of Austin rounded the curve. Farris skidded into the front of the wrecker.

The wrecker bounded against the legs of Potts, who was hooking up a tow cable. He suffered injuries to a foot and leg.

By the time highway patrolmen had this all cleared up, a nearby farmer came to the scene with a tractor and pulled Jones' car off the tracks.

Man Shot To Death

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—Bruce Askew was shot to death today in the middle of a Sulphur Springs street.

Officers are questioning a 30-year-old woman. They said four shots were fired from a .22 caliber revolver.

PROJECTS

ium, publish a new brochure on Snyder and Scurry County, study establishment of more parks here, and many others.

Many of the chamber programs setup in previous years included long-range plans, taking more than one year to accomplish. Some are perpetual programs which could be included every year.

Suggested mainly for work of the aviation committee is work toward building of an additional runway at the county airport. That committee each year is charged with promotion of air travel and use of air services here. Many persons suggested that the agriculture committee continue the farm and ranch tours started last year. The committee works with all agriculture agencies in activities here.

The civic affairs committee was concerned last year not only with library work but with helping to begin work toward establishing the Scurry County United Fund, which is now in operation. Suggestions for street, beautification, and other such work is in that panel's department. For the education committee, suggestions are to continue such work as helping to make community facilities available for use as teachng aids, studying and working with schools on future education needs, and other such work.

Continued assistance to other groups in cleanup programs was suggested for the health and sanitation committee, as was work with other organizations to clean up and maintain the Snyder Cemetery. Another suggestion had to do with mosquito control here, especially along the creeks.

The highway and traffic committee's suggestions included continued work with government agencies on better roads and highways in this area, along with encouragement of additional farm-to-market roads and re-routing of highways in congested areas.

Main suggestions for the merchants activities committe included those connected with promotion of better business methods, work on conducting courses in sales training and other lines, trade tours, and other work toward making Snyder a trade center. Suggested by many for the industrial committee was continued work in industrial development, especially attempts to secure small industries here, and work toward establishing an industrial foundation to help obtain new industries.

Continued work for recreatonal failities here and recreational program was suggested for the recreation committee, including one suggestion to inaugurate an annual fishing derby for children at the pond in Towle Memorial Park. The tourist courtesy program started here last year was popular, and some suggested such be continued, as well as continued work in promotion of use of Highway 180 through Snyder.

Chapel Is Planned On Campus Of Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—Work will start this year on a quarter-million dollar non-denominational chapel on the Texas A&M campus.

Richard Vrooman, Asst. professor in the architecture department, was named architect for the chapel. His design was selected as the basic plan for the building.

The chapel will occupy a tree-lined area in front of the residence of the university president, Dr. David H. Morgan. It will include the chapel proper, seating 200 persons, library, reception and conference rooms, patio or garden and administration office.

Two Elderly Men Die When Home Burns

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP)—An 85-year-old man's valiant effort to rescue his 82-year-old invalid brother-in-law from their flaming home ended in death for both as Pennsylvania's cold weather fire plague broke out anew today.

Lewis Fritz died as he tried to save William Gusset, who was bedridden with a broken hip. Fritz went back into the house at Gouldsboro, near Scranton, after carrying his 80-year-old wife to safety. Mrs. Fritz was uninjured.

As officials began separate investigatons of yesterday's three major fires in the anthracite area of eastern Pennsylvania, flames flashed through a warehouse at Wilkes-Barre in which a brewery and two oil and grease supply companies stored their products. Some 100 firemen fought the raging flames in freezing weather. Officials said the water froze as it hit the building. Today's fire also were in the hard coal region.

The most disastrous of the fires broke out at Shenandoah early Friday morning. Forty-two families were evacuated there and an estimated 250 left homeless. Twelve business establishments were leveled in the worst fire in that coal mining town since 1883. An entire city block was razed and one-third of an adjoining square was badly damaged.

At Carbondale, 80 miles to the northeast, a similar fire ruined 29 places of business. One source said damages would run to more than three million dollars. Six persons were reported injured, none seriously. Forty families were routed. Some 300 persons may lose their jobs in the already economically hard-hit coal mining town as a result of the fire.

Six homes were made uninhabitable in a block at Shamokin where, on Thursday, 72 lost their homes to fire.

Big Bend Development Committee Is Formed

ALPINE, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—Final steps were taken today in the organization of the Big Bend National Park Development Committee, Inc.

The group will act in liaison with the National Park Service in dealing with park development, creation of Mexico's counterpart, and the dedication ceremony this year if President Eisenhower can participate.

These officers and executive committee members were elected: Paul Forcheimer, chairman; W.J. Newell, vice chairman; Dick Rogers, treasurer; and G. C. McDaniel secretary. All are from Alpine.

Additional executive committee members are: Si Phillips, Marfa; Tommy Wilson, Fort Stockton; and Tom Yarboro, Marathon. An enlarged directorate of more statewide scope will be announced later.

Fredericksburg Man Heads Fair Executives

DALLAS, Feb. 7 (AP)—William M. Petmecky of Fredericksburg was elected president of the Texas Assn. of Fairs and Expositions today as the organization's 28th annual convention closed.

Petmecky, manager of the Gillespie County Fair, succeeds E.O. Wedgeworth of Pampa.

Other officers named include: Othel Neely, Waco, vice president, and Bob Murdock, Tyler, secretary-treasurer.

Ben Ritterskamp, Nacogdoches; Allen Finnel, Edna, John Mayfield, Perryton and Joe Cooley, Abilene, were chosen as directors.

In 1898, R. A. Fessenden perfected the electrolytic detector, which led to the development of headphones.

Ex-Judge Of Martin County Pleads Guilty

SWEETWATER, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—Former Martin County Judge James McMorries was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary today after pleading guilty to felony theft.

Judge A. S. Mauzey sentenced McMorries to serve three years on each of two counts with the sentences to run concurrently.

McMorries pleaded guilty to the two indictments accusing him of taking Martin County and Grady Independent School District funds.

He is due to report at the state prison at Huntsville tonight accompanied by a former Glasscock County commissioner, John Priddy, who is one of McMorries' bondsmen. No officer will accompany them, Sheriff R. S. Lambert explained, because Priddy has agreed to deliver the prisoner.

The two charges are among 13 indictments returned against McMorries by a Martin County Grand jury.

One of the cases to which McMorries pleaded guilty charges him with theft of $337.50. McMorries previously had claimed that he drew the money from the county treasury to reimburse himself for personal money he spent for fence posts for the county. The second charged him with theft of $835.05 from the Grady County School District in Martin County.

Court records show that McMorries later returned the $337.50 to the county.

His attorney, David Scarborough of Abilene, also agreed to be responsible for McMorries and accompanied him to Huntsville.

Martin County's money troubles first came to light last June when it was found that the May payroll could not be met with existing funds.

Production Moves Near Record Level

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—The nation's industrial machine moved along at a faster clip this week with production in many lines at or near record levels.

Pacesetter was the auto industry which turned out 164,295 new passenger cars—only three-tenths of one per cent less than in the record week of June 24, 1950.

All-time records were set in consumption of electric power, which passed 10 billion kilowatt hours for the first time, and in manufacture of petroleum products.

Steel output, estimated at 85.4 per cent of capacity, was the highest since November 1953.

The construction industry continued to show amazing strength. Heavy engineering contract awards for the first five weeks of 1955 were running 64 per cent ahead of year-ago levels; the fir plywood industry, stockpiling for an anticipated building boom this spring, boasted its heaviest backlog of orders in 50 years. The Federal Home Loan Board predicted 1,200,000 new homes would be started this year—100,000 more than in 1954.

No one could say for sure, of course, how long the upturn would last.

The American Federation of Labor forecast a higher level of wages in 1955—but also a rise of about one million in unemployment.

The stock market showed some hesitancy but by week's end it had apparently resumed its upward climb. Meanwhile Sen. Fulbright's (D-Ark) investigating committee sent out questionnaires to brokers and others in an effort to find out if the market rise of the past few months held any dangers to the economy.

Apprehension over developments in the Far East continued to boost demand for some commodities and materials, but it was Mr. and Mrs. Average Consumer who still held the key to future trends in employment and production.

The Commerce Department noted that Americans had more income and more spending money last year than ever before, despite several months of recession and rising unemployment. Personal income in December was at an annual rate of 21 billion dollars—well above the boom peak of 1953. Wages were down about 2½ billion in 1954 but higher stock dividends, interest rates, and unemployment compensation checks took up the slack.

Shoppers continued to spend freely throughout January. Department store sales for the four weeks ended Jan. 29, were a good 10 per cent ahead of year-ago sales. Sears Roebuck & Co. said its January business, nearly 213 million, was the highest on record for that month and up almost 19 per cent from January last year.

Lubbock County Is Leader For Ginning

DALLAS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Lubbock County ginned more cotton last year than any other county in Texas, the Commerce Department said today.

Lubbock ginned 220,499 bales, about 27,000 less than in 1953.

Other big ginnings in West Texas included Hale County, 204,376 bales; Lamb, 178,130; and Floyd, 106,166.

Cameron and Hidalgo counties in South Texas had totals of 157,992 bales and 157,117. Nueces County ginned 106,028 bales. Texas topped the nation with 3,822,205 bales.

Aircraft Showing Set

DALLAS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Government officials and military men will be here next Friday for a showing of Bell Aircraft's radical new convertiplane that takes off like a helicopter and flies like a conventional airplane.

West Texans Doubt State Is Ready For Reorganization Bill

By ED HARTE
Daily News Austin Bureau

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 — Nobody knows in what form Rep. J. O. Gillham's county reorganization bill will emerge from committee hearings.

But if it were to be voted on this week, it would be overwhelmingly defeated — if a poll of 13 West Texas representatives gives an indication of how the House feels.

Of the 13, none of the veteran members said they could support the bill as it now reads, and only two freshmen indicated their minds still were fairly open on the proposal.

Gillham's drastic reorganization plan is based on the belief that present county structure is "antiquated, creaky, 19th Century" and ill-adapted to 20th Century needs.

With this premise there is little argument among legislators. But among the West Texans surveyed, few believed the people back home were ready for such a change or that the bill had any prospect for passing the Legislature this time.

Several mentioned privately, however, that they were glad county reorganization had come up now, so that the educational process that will have to precede its passage can begin.

Opinions expressed by various legislators are:

Truett Latimer, Abilene — The plan has no chance of passage this session. The people I represent are not ready for such a change now.

W. A. Stroman, San Angelo — I'm not favorably impressed with the changes Mr. Gillham suggests. We need justice courts and constables in West Texas counties. Gillham's bill would abolish both offices. It won't pass in its present form.

Robert Patterson, Snyder — It has no chance, although it has many meritorious features. I can't support it as it is.

Obie Bristow, Big Spring — If we were to vote today, I'd vote against it. It might save a little money. But it is worth some money to keep government close to the people. The people can keep elected county commissioners in line. When we remove our officials from the control of the voters, we have started a dangerous trend in government. There is no substitute for grass-roots government.

Moyne Kelley, Afton — I doubt that it will get out of committee. Maybe we'll come to need such readjustments, but I'm not prepared to say we are ready for it now.

A. J. Bishop, Winters — The bill hasn't a chance. My people don't want it. If it came up today, I wouldn't favor it.

W. G. Kirklan, Odessa — Gillhan's proposal has some good points, but it's too drastic for the people or the Legislature to accept. Nobody can foresee how it will come out of committee, but I hope the committee will give careful consideration to some of the good ideas the bill contains.

Joe Burkett, Kerrville — There's no cahnce for the Gillham proposal this session. It's ahead of the people's thinking and more pressing matters will occupy the Legislature's time.

Louis Anderson, Midland — I don't believe it has much chance in its present form. I'd rather not say how I'll vote on it as I haven't gone into it very carefully. While the idea is good, I don't think enough spade work was done beforehand.

Richard Slack, Pecos — Its prospects are slim and I do not plan to support it. However, Gillham has said he will take some amendments. For instance, he requires that all county judges be lawyers. In two counties of my district there are no lawyers.

George Thurmond, Del Rio — It doesn't have much chance. I could not support it as it is today.

Paul Brashear, Cisco — I think the bill is generally looked on with favor, but I'm really undecided about how I'll vote.

L. L. Armor, Sweetwater — I don't think it has much change. It's too drastic. We need the county manager form of government. But that's more a problem of densely populated counties, rather than sparsely populated.

Rep. Gillham, author of the bill, is a 55-year-old banker from Brownfield who has attracted unusual attention among the "courthouse crowds" of Texas. Earlier in the session he introduced his bill to abolish the office of county superintendent of schools, which is generally believed to have a fair chance of passing.

The ideas in his county reorganization amendment are his own, Gillham stated Thursday.

Door Is Open For Citizen Comment

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Legislature's door is wide open next week for citizens to say their say on almost any type of proposed new law.

For instance, should a candidate's kinfolk help count the votes on election night? If you want to speak up on that, a bill that says they shouldn't will be heard by the Senate Committee on Elections Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Should Texas try to hold down lawless tendencies of its youngsters by outlawing corruptive comic books? The House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee will hear a bill on that Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Should it be lawful to trail a wounded deer with dogs in Fort Bend and 49 other counties? House Game and Fish Committee Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Should your membership in a union on strike bar you from receiving jobless pay benefits? See the Senate State Affairs Committee Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Should the waiting period in divorce cases be increased from 30 to 90 days as a legal clog to the mounting divorce rate? Senate Civil Jurisprudence Committee Monday afternoon.

Those are typical of the dozens of bills up for hearing as the Legislature goes into its fifth week with little major business on its calendar. Most of the work just ahead is in committee.

The Senate has one controversial bill ready for debate. The House had one that might create a limited stir under argument when it joined the Senate in a long week-end recess Thursday.

The Senate measure is the first labor-regulatory bill of the session to win committee approval. It would prohibit organizational picketing by a union that does not represent a majority of the employees involved.

This bill is along the lines of labor laws suggested by Gov. Shivers to curb strikes such as those at Port Arthur. Foes said the bill was aimed at stopping union expansion.

Postponed until Monday in the House for further debate was a measure regulating naturopathic medicine. The bill is a vastly detailed measure saying just what naturopathic physicians may and may not do. They are a school of physicians who emphasize use of such natural curative agents as herbs.

House and Senate committees have mapped hearings on major measures, such as 11 statewide water control bills set for Monday night in the Senate's Water Committee.

Several insurance measures are scheduled. The Senate committee looking at the embroiled veteran's land program goes back to work Monday at 8 a.m. and the House committee Thursday at 2:30 p.m.

Officers Hunt Cancer Victim

HOUSTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Police were asked today to help hunt a woman who believes she is to die within a few days from cancer.

Anderson Hospital doctors said the woman, 25, disappeared without knowing that with immediate treatment there would be a good chance her cancer condition could be arrested.

The green-eyed, 115-pound woman disappeared Thursday after leaving jewelry and other personal possessions to repay Mrs. D. V. Bodin, with whom she had been staying.

Mrs. Bodin also reported finding this note:

"I would rather die than let my past come out. In the event of my death, I want the doctors at Anderson Clinic to get my body for experiments."

Attendants said the woman disappeared shortly after they asked her for the name of her former husband. Mrs. Bodin said the woman feared her former husband and was afraid the hospital would notify him of her whereabouts.

Nearly six months ago the woman had been told by San Diego, Calif., doctors that she had cancer and that she could expect to live only six months. The six months end Feb. 17.

Pilot Killed When Jet Trainer Crashes

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 5 (AP)—A 21-year-old Kelly Air Force Base pilot of a T33 jet trainer crashed to his death in an isolated field 12 miles west of San Antonio early today.

The Kelly information office identified the officer as 2nd Lt. Julian R. Sheets of Indianapolis, Ind.

Sheets was returning from Kirtland Air Force Base, near Albuquerque, N.M., after delivering a high priority classified cargo Friday.

St. Augustine, Fla., will celebrate its 400th birthday in only 10 years.

Grand Jury To Sift Bombing Accounts

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 5 (AP)—A dark-haired girl wrestler, a former convict and two come-on artists have told bizarre tales of death plots and extortion plans in the bomb slaying "by mistake" of a wealthy West Texas ranchwoman.

A grand jury will sift next week the stories swirling about the Jan. 19 murder of Mrs. Harry Weaver, a social leader and cattle raiser.

"I know I'm innocent of the damn thing," said Harry Washburn, a former son-in-law of Mrs. Weaver. He is jailed here on a charge of murder.

Washburn was named in statements of "Nature Girl," the wrestler whose real name is Mrs. Adela Heninger; John McKinnis and Ray Fife.

McKinnis and Fife told police they took money and guns from Washburn but never intended to go through with a bargain they said they made to "do a job" on Mrs. Weaver's husband, Harry, a prominent architect.

The former convict, Andrew Nelson, 45, told police of buying dynamite and watching the friend he bought it for make a test explosion of it by hooking wires to an auto generator.

In jail pending trial on a robbery charge, Nelson quoted this friend as saying after the slaying of Mrs. Weaver, "I killed the wrong person."

Nelson's information was attacked as "coming from a poor source" by Percy Foreman, who said yesterday he was pulling out as Washburn's lawyer.

"A man faced with a life term will seek to curry favor with the law—to trade some one else's liberty for his own," Foreman said of utterances by Nelson.

Mrs. Weaver died in front of the home of her mother, Mrs. Ralph Harris. A bomb exploded as she pressed the starter of her husband's car.

Almost every other development in the case came at Houston, 369 miles away.

Washburn, "Nature Girl," Nelson, McKinnis, Fife and Carl Heninger were all residents of Houston. Heninger was arrested and charged along with Washburn, but later was set free.

Dist. Atty. Aubrey Stokes has called the killing of Mrs. Weaver a "mistake" and said the intended victim was her husband.

Houston Police Chief Jack Heard said, after talking with Nelson, "We now know who set the bomb."

"Nature Girl" said in her statement Washburn offered her $10,000 to kill Weaver.

She said Washburn told her:

"Weaver is a hard touch. Mrs. Weaver is an easy touch. If I can get rid of Weaver, his wife would pay off to keep her family from harm."

The wrestler, who sometimes works as a Dallas barmaid, said Washburn planned to get an initial payment of $20,000 and eventually a total of $100,000.

His plan for her, she said, was to contact Weaver, interest herself in Weaver's gun collection, get into a target practice session with him at the Weaver ranch and then appear to accidentally shoot him to death.

She said she refused to have anything to do with the plan.

Washburn contended he was in Houston when Mrs. Weaver was killed.

Police have shown photographs of him all over town, apparently attempting to find someone who could place Washburn here the night before the slaying.

The case will be presented to the grand jury Wednesday or Thursday, Stokes said.

Readers Get Editor's Case

QUANAH, Feb. 5 (AP)—Editor J.A. Koch of the Quanah Tribune-Chief, tongue in cheek, took his case to the paper's readers recently after he backed his pickup truck into his wife's car.

Not only did he have to face his wife's anger, said Koch, but police tried to fine him for reckless driving.

"I am that average husband who gets pushed around by his wife and family in his home," Koch wrote, "but when the police came forward to fine me for my part in the accident, it is going too far and interfering with my rights as the nominal head of my house."

Koch said that although his wife can't testify against him in the accident, he can't collect any insurance on damages to the car.

None of his friends who saw the accident are willing to become embroiled, said Koch.

"To make matters worse," he lamented, "some of my friends look away as I pass. I can feel their wives peeping from behind draped windows at me as I drive down a street. If I meet a car on a wide street, the driver promptly takes to the curbing. I don't deserve all this. I actually took my wife from spinsterhood. I support her in a fashion; I am at least legally part owner of the car she did drive even though I am seldom allowed use of the vehicle. I do not beat her.

"I do not expect other wives to uphold me to their husbands as a perfect example, but I have my qualities and my rights, even though the citizens fail to recognize any of them."

WHAT IS A METHODIST?

unreached by the church flocked to hear him. Multitudes came asking Wesley to teach and direct them. He gathered these people into societies "in order to pray together, to receive the word of exhortation, and to watch over one another in love, that they might help each other to work out their own salvation."

He appointed leaders, assigned them to various fields of labor and supervised their work. The movement spread rapidly over England, then to Ireland and America. Wesley's intention was not to form a new sect but only to organize societies with the Church of England. The preachers were not ordained, and the members were supposed to receive the sacraments in the Anglican church. But the Bishop of London, to whose diocese Wesley belonged, would not ordain ministers to serve the Methodist societies. Nor would he consecrate their meeting places. If Wesley's work was to expand, he had to take the irregular steps of ordination and consecreation.

Furthermore, Wesley was confronted with the care of his followers in America, where the Anglican clergy had nearly all returned to England as Tories during the War of the Revolution. The 15,000 American Methodists at the close of the Revolutionary War clamored for clerical leadership. Wesley responded to their demand by asking the Bishop of London to ordain some ministers for America. Failing in his request, Wesley himself ordained two men to "preside over the flock in America."

Under their leadership, the Methodist Episcopal Church in America was organized at Baltimore on December 24, 1784.

Where did the name Methodist come from?

It arose from the methodical habits of the "Holy Club" which John and Charles Wesley founded at Oxford University. The members arranged a daily schedule of duties, setting hours for visiting the sick and those in prison, conducting schools among the poor and observing the religious offices of the church. They prayed aloud three times each day and stopped for silent prayer every hour.

These strict rules of conduct aroused the ridicule of the student body. "Methodists" was almost the mildest epithet hurled at the Holy Club. The name clung to the followers of Wesley because he continued to stress rules of conduct and religious observance.

What is the Methodist attitude toward the Trinity?

Methodists do not pretend to understand fully the meaning of the Trinity. Who does? Even Saint Augustine, after writing the classic exposition of the doctrine of the Trinity, confessed that it still remained a mystery.

If God could be fully explained, he would cease to be God. The doctrine of the Trinity is the expression of the three aspects in our experience of God. We conceive of God as the Creator, the First Cause of all things — as God the Father. We think of God revealed historically in the personality of Christ — as God the Son. We feel him as a prevading, continuing presence and power in our lives — as God the Holy Spirit.

The doctrine of the Trinity is also our formula for understanding the personality of God. God is Love, but whom did He love before He created man and the universe? Love must have an object. The object of God's love in the pre-Creation period was Christ the Son-co-eternal with the Father. And the divine activity linking God the Father with the object of his love, God the Son, was and eternally is, God the Holy Spirit.

How do Methodists regard the Virgin Birth?

The original Methodist Articles of Religion declare that Christ the Son "took man's nature in the womb of the blessed Virgin." The great majority of Methodists continue to hold this believe. Some would distinguish the biological aspects of the Virgin Birth from its theological implications. Some believe that the deity of Christ does not rest on the uniqueness of his physical birth but on the inexplicable quality and power of his life and work.

Hence, some Methodists do not feel it necessary to believe that Jesus Christ was born without a human father in order to assert that he is the Only Begotten Son of the Havenly Father. The Methodist Church does not disown this latter group as long as they believe in the Deity of Christ.

Do Methodists pray to saints?

No. They believe God is directly accessible to all His children. Since God is Love, no intermediary is needed to intercede for his children. Methodsts, like other Protestants, believe in the "individual priesthood of all believers."

Do Methodists believe in heaven and hell?

Methodists believe in divine judgment after death. Goodness will be rewarded and evil punished.

The concepts of heaven and hell vary widely, according to the education and religious background of the believers. Some have very concrete ideas of golden streets in heaven and fiery furnaces in hell. But the majority of Methodists are emancipated from the prescientific view of a physical heaven "up there" and a physical hell "down there."

They trust the promise of Christ: "I go to prepare a place for you." Heaven is the realm of mind and spirit where the redeemed keep company with God and His Risen Son, Jesus Christ. Hell is the state where such fellowship is absent.

Do Methodists believe in purgatory?

No. Methodists find no scriptural warrant for the Roman Catholic belief in purgatory. They do not presume to peer behind the veil of death or departmentalize the processes of divine judgment. Many Methodists believe that God's punishments are redemptive rather than punitive. They trust the justice and love of God to care for the departed.

What sacraments do Methodists recognize?

Methodists hold only two sacraments as ordained of God: baptism and the Lord's Supper. Baptism is not only a sign of profession but also of regeneration, or a new birth. The Supper of the Lord is the sacrament of our redemption by Christ's death and sign of the love which Christians ought to have among themselves.

Do Methodists baptize infants?

Yes. We believe "all men are heirs of life eternal and subjects of the saving grace of the Holy Spirit." Christ himself said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God."

While an infant is not aware of the meaning of the sacrament, the parents are —, and are thereby committed to the Christian nurture of the child. The church assumes responsibility for her baptized children and awaits the time when they will be mature enough to appreciate and assume for themselves the vows made at baptism.

Next Sunday — Do Methodists accept Roman Catholic baptism as valid? Do Methodist ministers hear confessions? What do Methodists mean by salvation? Do Methodists have to accept a creed? What is the Methodist position on birth control? What is the Methodist position on divorce?

Rodeo Champs To Be Named

FORT WORTH, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show Sunday night crowns its rodeo champions and rings down the curtain on what W.R. Watt, president, describes as "another very successful show."

The sale of champions gave a total of approximately $139,000 to livestock raisers competing in the 59th annual show.

Of This sum, the fat steer sale accounted for some $113,700, the auction of lambs brought about $10,000 and the fat barrow sale produced approximately $15,350, Watt related.

Today's agricultural events included the club boys' grass judging contest, won by Mabank FFA. The Mabank contestants, competing in a field of 29 teams, scored 1,169 points. The winning team's Milton Frosch was high point man in the contest.

Cleburne's FFA poultry judging team was winner in that event, scoring 1,560 points. The team's Jimmy Beasley was high scoring individual with 550 points out of a possible 600.

POLICE CLASH WITH FRENCH FARMERS

Police use tear gas to disperse farmers parading through Lille, France, in protest against the government's agricultural policies. The crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 farmers, most of them beet growers, sought to break police lines protecting the prefecture building of the Nord Department (county). Police used their clubs and sprayed the head of the parade with tear gas to force demonstrators back. Farmers hurled paving blocks and other missiles. Police said several persons, including four guards, were injured.

COMMUNIST OFFENSIVE

Chinese Communist troops climb a rocky cliff during the invasion of Yikiangshan last month, according to the caption supplied with this official Chinese Communist picture from Peiping which was made available in London. The fall of the Nationalist-held island off the Red China coast led to the alert which brought U.S. warships to the Tachen Islands area nearby.

Soil Conservation District's Progress Charted In Report

It is hard to measure the benefit of farmers and ranchers sharing their experiences in various operations of agriculture or in those persons sharing in the expense of buying equipment that most of them can use but few can buy for themselves.

The Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District, however, can at least measure the concrete accomplishments made in conservation in acres, miles, and number. That's what they've done now in their annual report to co-operators. The report was made by the SC district's board of supervisors, which is made up of Houston Kimbrell of the Ira community, chairman; Nolan von Roeder of Snyder, secretary-treasurer; Frank Kubala of the Hermleigh community, Raymond House, north of Snyder, and Alton Milligan, Borden County, all supervisors.

The district reported that it now has 1,261 co-operators in Scurry and Borden Counties with land covering 766,623 acres. That is a gain of 37 farms or ranches and 2,053 acres over last year. On this land, 650 of those co-operators now have basic conservation plans covering 281,970 acres and 11 have plans on maintenance over 2,730 acres. Plans applying conservation practices during 1954 numbered 784.

"There is more interest among farmers in conservation and management of the land than has ever been shown before," the board said in its report, adding that the board feels this is due mainly to two things: the drought and better assistance from Soil Conservation Service technicians. Technicians here are Jake Hodges, Guy Moore, and Wilson Bright.

"The drought has shown many people the advantages of conservation farming, and even though it has caused a temporary halt in the vegetative program, it has actually increased the mechanical program and, we believe, will eventually strengthen the vegetative program," the board said. "The Soil Conservation Service technical assistance has been excellent for the past year and is well recognized by the farmers and ranchers of the area."

The report said that irrigation interest is running high in the district, with about 40 wells drilled or being drilled. "It is too early to tell what changes this will effect in the district, but we feel that the next year will give enough information to give an idea as to the possibilities or irrigation within the district."

In its statement of finances, the board said bank balances show the district has $2,597.75 in state funds in the Snyder National Bank and $1,519.61 in local funds in the West Texas State Bank.

The district now owns some 35 pieces of equipment available for use of co-operators with an inventory of close to $20,000. Those include two whirlwind terracers, two-row planter, seeder, mower and trailer, two planters, grass and legume planter, three implement trailers, two grass drills, three grain drills, four hand-operated winches for trailers, load binders for trailers, row seeder, three soil movers, land leveller, range pitting machine, pan breaker, Moline UBE tractor, grass seeder, excavating scraper; scoop, blade, and disc plow; grain drill, and visual aid equipment, including a 35 millimeter movie projector.

The board cited several agencies or organizations giving assistance during the year. Those included the Chamber of Commerce, Snyder National Farm Loan Association, Snyder National and West Texas banks, Production Credit Association, wholesale gasoline distributors, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Daily News, KSNY, state soil conservation board, and Soil Conservation Service.

Several recommended needs and plans were announced by the board for this year. The board said it felt the two agricultural tours held here last year fulfilled a definite need and pledged its support to improving and enlarging the farm and range tours.

"There is a lack of acceptance to complete stubble mulch farming programs, and we plan to work in co-operation with the Snyder FFA Chapter to set up a stubble mulch demonstration plot," the board said. It also said the board will concentrate on putting material and information into all churches in the district this year in observance of Soil Stewardship Sunday.

"The interest in conservation has increased so much in the past year that we believe an additional technician is needed in the local work unit," the board said. There are 780,390 acres of range land in the district and only 76,000 acres have a range survey on them, the report added. The work unit conservationist has the responsibility of working with two Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committees and the SC district board of supervisors, and the board expressed its feeling that a range conservationist is needed to adequately take care of the work load.

The new soil and water loan now being made by the Farmers Home Administration can be a big factor in establishing a conservation program in the district, the board said, adding that it intended to give all publicity and information on the loan possible and encourage co-operators to use the assistance.

The Chamber of Commerce is taking the lead in planning a flood prevention program on Deep Creek, the board said. "We feel this is a worthwhile project and will assist in every way possible to get an overall plan on Deep Creek."

Vinson Backs Ike's Military Streamlining

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) today threw his powerful support behind President Eisenhower's new "long pull" goal of 2,850,000 men in the reduced armed forces.

The chairman of the Armed Services Committee interpreted the figures as a minimum one designed to stabilize the armed services to meet Communist threats that may last for years.

He said "floor" under military manpower and the defend-Formosa stand means the United States has drawn two lines against Communist aggression and "in neither must we retreat."

But Vinson, in an interview, wrote off any chance that the committee might go to bat for Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway in his public fight against making cuts of 173,000 men in the Army under the new manpower program.

Ridgway told the committee this week that the reductions would "endanger our security . . . to a degree." He has won some strong Democratic support for restoring some of the cuts.

Vinson said, however, that he would support the program. After hearing both public and secret testimony from all top military leaders, he said the committee which he heads will take no further action on this question.

The Army, Navy and Marine Corps all will be reduced under the program, but Air Force personnel will increase. Present military strength of over three millions will be reduced to 2,850,000 by mid-1956.

Vinson said he is convinced Congress will continue appropriating approximately 34 to 35 billion dollars a year to maintain forces of this size as long as necessary. He said the minimum estimate of the "long pull" was five years and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified the crisis might last 50 years.

The present manpower policy will eliminate the "terrible waste of manpower and funds" resulting from emergency-bred mobilization, followed by quick reductions, Vinson said.

The 2,850,000 goal, Vinson said, compares with 12,500,000 men under arms at the height of World War II; a total force of 1,460,000 on June 30, 1950, and a strength of 3,555,000 during the Korean War.

Within two years Afghanistan will have virtually eliminated malaria from the entire country.

Injuries Are Fatal

DALHART, Feb. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Herschel Wilson of Lynd, Minn., died today of injuries received in a car-truck crash 25 miles southwest of here a few hours earlier. Her husband, a son and four soldiers riding in the Wilson car, were hurt. The driver of the truck, Wayne Grone of Wichita, Kan., was uninjured.

FARM AND RANCH

Cotton ginners in Texas these days are operating better-designed and better-equipped gins to give producers the best possible grades.

Fifteen years ago, according to E. H. Bush, cotton gin specialist for the state extension service, 25 per cent of the state's cotton was docked by buyers because of rough preparation. The figure is now down to less than half of one per cent for the state's cotton.

There are 1,740 cotton gins in Texas which have an estimated total value of $147,445,000. A modern plant equipped to gin cotton under almost any conditions may represent an investment of close to $250,000.

Agriculturists these days can figure a practical use for almost anything, many times for those things that the average person would believe had no purpose in the world other than to get in people's way.

The College Station people are now saying that singed prickly-pear, supplemented with cottonseed cake, is a satisfactory maintenance ration for steers in poor condition. It is not, however, for those which have been on a high level of nutrition.

When placed on pears, steers weighing less than 640 pounds gained weight during a three-month test period. Those weighing 720 pounds or more lost weight on the ration. Both groups were supplemented with two pounds of cottonseed cake per head daily. Pricklypear, then, might be a valuable maintenance ration during drought periods when cattle have been low on feed.

The 640-pound animals made little gain on pasturage prior to pear feeding, indicating that pastures had provided little more than a sustaining ration. Pricklypear and cottonseed cake provided a ration as good or better than their previous pasture. Such was not so with the heavier animals, which appeared to get more value from the pasture.

Texas farmland prices fell two per cent in a four-month period ending in November, according to a real estate market report of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. This was one of 11 states with the slight drop.

Union Merger Plan Near Crucial Stage

By NORMAN WALKER

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 5 (AP)—AFL and CIO officials are about to enter a crucial stage in negotiations aimed at merging their union groups into a single powerful labor federation.

CIO President Walter Reuther is to lead a group of his union chiefs down to this winter resort where AFL President George Meany and top AFL officials have been holding strategy sessions.

Meany and Reuther, in the two years since becoming the major leaders of organized labor, have made steady progress toward their announced goal of combining their federations into a single 15-million-member union organization.

However, the unity talks have reached the stage at which all prior merger efforts floundered and the guessing is still 50-50 whether any merger will be accomplished.

Outwardly and apparently genuinely hopeful that they will go through with the amalgamation, three-man subcommittees representing the AFL and CIO will go into a huddle at the Roney Plaza Hotel here Tuesday to try to hammer out a written merger agreement. This will be subject to review by two 10-man committees at another meeting Wednesday. Any pact would have to be ratified later at the AFL and CIO conventions.

The union leaders say that by combining forces under a single banner they can build greater political power for organized labor, tougher economic strength against employers and more efficient drives to sell unionism to unorganied workers.

Standing in the way of achieving the merger are the jealousies and rivalries between various labor leaders and their unions for prestige and worker organizing rights.

However, Meany and Reuther say they plan to bring all AFL and CIO unions under the same tent on a status quo basis and let them fight out any differences once the merger takes place. It has been 20 years since the CIO was formed by a group of unions splintering away from the AFL.

Meany is expected to emerge as head of the combined setup with Reuther bowing out and sticking to his other job as president of the million-member auto workers union, possibly with added political responsibility as an aide [illegible].

For employers, a labor merger would likely mean tougher union bargaining and more concentrated union organizing efforts against nonunion plants. Once the merger is completed, Meany and Reuther plan to invite the big independent railroad union and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers to join up, too.

The AFL Executive Council, which has been holding midwinter sessions here all week and will convene again Monday, released a statement today warmly endorsing President Eisenhower's foreign policy and his handling of the Formosan problem.

The council warned "against any attempt, under cover of pursuing the armistice pattern set in Korea and Indochina," to extend American recognition to Communist China or to "smuggle the Russian-imposed terror regime into the United Nations."

Meany told reporters that while the AFL differs with Eisenhower on most domestic issues it generally firmly supports his foreign policy views.

Chickens Bring $119 A Pound At Stock Show

HOUSTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Chickens sold for $119 a pound today at the Houston Fat Stock Show.

Mrs. Doris Williams, wife of Bill Williams, restaurant chain owner, paid that price for the show's champion pen of fryers.

Mrs. Williams paid $2,025 for five White Rock fryers owned by Corky Blocker, 17-year-old Stanton, Tex., FFA boy.

She then paid $1,600 for the show's grand champion capon, a 12-pound bird owned by Carroll Osbur, 17, Valley Springs.

Both prices were a record for the 23-year-old Houston show.

The poultry auction concluded the market division of the 12-day show. Final figures had not been released, but a steer auction yesterday realized an estimated $190,000 for the exhibitors.

Stepouts Set In Coke Area

F. Kirk Johnson of Fort Worth has filed applications to drill an outpost and two stepouts to production in the Fuller Coke-Strawn field of Coke County.

All the locations are about 15 miles southwest of Silver. The wells are to be drilled to 7,000 feet, with operations beginning as quickly as permits are received. All the locations are on a 162.13-acre lease on the J. Willis Johnson tract in 72-2-H&TC.

The No. 3 Johnson, half a mile east of the field, is 467 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter. The No. 4 Johnson, a quarter of a mile east, is 467 feet from south and 68 feet from west lines of the northeast quarter. The No. 4 Johnson, also a quarter of a mile east, is 467 feet from north and 1,667 feet from east lines.

Jones County Wildcats Set

Two new wildcats have been staked for drilling in Jones County.

Deeper of the two will be drilled by A. T. Halbert, Stasney and Oxford Drilling Co. of Abilene as the No. 1 Jess A. Young. Contract depth is 3,500 feet. Location is 330 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of 3-360-Goliad County school land survey.

Clay Cooper, trustee, of Canyon No. 1 Morehead is to be drilled as a 1,700-foot wildcat one and a half miles northwest of Leuders. Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of 2-C&M (D. Norcop survey on some maps).

Extender Completed To Field In Dawson

Seaboard Oil and others have completed a one-location south extension to the Spraberry Deep-West Pennsylvanian field of Dawson County at the No. 2 Vaughn.

The well made a daily flowing potential of 217.76 barrels of 40.3-gravity oil with no water, flowing through a 16-64th-inch choke from perforations at 8,152-198 feet. Completion was natural.

The new producer is half a mile east of Midway in 39-34-t5n-T&P.

Gas Flows In Howard Test

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1 N. R. Reed and others, a one location west stepout to production in the southeast area of the Sara Mag-Canyon reef field of Howard County, flowed gas and recovered oil and salt water on a drillstem test between 7,879-897 feet.

Gas surfaced in eight minutes on the seven-hour tests, and flowed at the rate of 196,000 cubic feet per day. Fluid surfaced in 45 minutes and cleaned to pits for 15 minutes. The project then flowed 85 barrels of 39.1-gravity oil and 198 barrels of water in six hours. Gas-ol ratio was 1,918-1.

Operator then recovered 6,707 feet of salt water, cut two per cent oil. Flowing pressure was 2,575 pounds, with 30-minute shut-in pressure 3,075 feet. The project is bottomed at 7,987 feet and runing electric logs.

Location, 21 miles northeast of Big Spring, is in 7-25-H&TC.

Sunray Plans Test In Kent

Sunray Oil Corp. has announced plans to drill the No. 4 R. L. Spires as a 7,400-foot rotary wildcat 10 miles southwest of Clairemont in Kent County.

Location has been made 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of 28-4-H&GN. It is about one and three-quarter miles southeast of the one-well Spires field which produces from the Strawn at 6,757 feet. The discovery well, Sunray No. 1 R. Spires, was finaled in 1950 for a daily flowing potential of 400 barrels of oil. Top of the Mississippian there was at 7,260 feet, with top of the Ellenburger at 7,495 feet.

The new location is also a half mile northwest of Globe Oil & Refining No. 1 Spires, a wildcat plugged and abandoned in 1953 at total depth of 7,200 feet. Top of the Strawn there was at 6,835 feet, with top of the Wolfcamp at 4,034 feet.

Completion Rate Is Much Faster In '55

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP)—The search for Texas oil set a record for drilling of new wells last year, but completions are being made even faster in 1955.

Operators brought in 280 oil wells this week, raising the year's total to 1,526. That's 316 ahead of last year.

Gas well completions lagged. Twelve gas wells this week left the year's total of 96 compared to 138.

Fewer dry holes have been drilled. With 113 this week, the year total reached 615 compared with 713. Of the 280 new oil wells, seven resulted from wildcatting.

The February oil producing schedule went into effect, dropping the allowable flow to 3,215,169 barrels per day as of today, a decrease of 89,274 from a week ago.

Uranium To Be Topic Of Geological Society

ALBUQUERQUE — The New Mexico Geological Society will devote its annual field conference to uranium this year for the first time, Arnold Buzzalili, chairman, has announced. The society will visit the major mines of the Grants district during the conference, May 13-15, at Gallup. A corporation known as the Socorro Uranium Corp. has already shipped 21 tons of ore to the mills from claims on the eastern slope of Ladron Peak south of Belen in Socorro County.

Third Big Unitization Project Set In County

Warren Petroleum Corp. and 23 other firms have organized the third large oil field unitization project in Scurry County. Plans are for secondary recovery methods to begin this summer, which are expected to more than double the ultimate recovery oil from the field.

The new unit is to be the Sharon Ridge Canyon Unit. It will join the Lion-Diamond M Unit on the south.

Operators of the new unit will be the Warren Petroleum Corp., one of the 24 producers in the field who have all agreed to the unitization plan. More than 93 per cent of the royalty interests in the field have signed the unit agreement.

When the hearing was held before the Texas Railroad Commission Jan. 14, no objections were presented to unitization plan.

J. Roy Auers, who has been manager for Warren's North Texas Region which has headquarters in Abilene for the past three years, will be the manager of the unit.

The Sharon Ridge Canyon Unit will be one of the largest unitization projects in Texas, sharing size honors with the Lion-Damond M Unit, and the SACROC Unit, which is the largest in Texas.

J. ROY AUERS
. . . heads new unit

There will be 337 oil wells on almost 13,500 productive acres in the unit. It is estimated that $21,000,000 will be required for capital and operating expenses of the project.

The unit is unique in that it is one of the largest unitization projects ever attempted through the use of peripheral injection, which means that the water will be injected around the edges of the field through 31 injection wells. There are now 21 dry holes around the field's edges.

Both lateral injection, where water is injected into the producing strata at the production level, and below-level water injection will be used, Auers said. By this method an attempt will be made to raise the oil level to the wells.

Without secondary recovery methods estimates were that 95,000,000 barrels of oil would be recovered from the field. With the water injection pressure maintenance program it is estimated that 204,000,000 barrels of oil will ultimately be recovered from the field—showing an ultimate production increase of 109,000,000 barrels, or more than doubling the production of the field.

The former Sharon Ridge field was discovered in March 1949. Development eventually proved it to be an extension of the Diamond M field, and it was combined with the latter in November 1951.

The Sharon Ridge area wells had produced 29,352,860 barrels of oil, 29,007,400 million cubic feet of casing-head gas, and 3,682,200 barrels of water by last Nov. 1.

The field is substantially defined by the 21 dry holes around its edges. It is a solution gas-drive reservoir, with some water being produced around the edge of the field, but with no effective water drive at the present.

The water flood plan calls for 31 input wells within the unit area. Others would be operated across the unit line in the Diamond M field to isolate the project from the Lion-Diamond M Unit project, which is just beginning to gain momentum in that area. No gas injection is anticipated at the present, but it is possible that the operators will want to inject gas at some crestal points in the future, Auers said.

Initially, at least 30,000 barrels of water will be injected into the 6,800-foot Canyon lime daily. Completion of injection facilities to handle at least 30,000 barrels daily will be made by May 1. Actual injection of water into the formation is to begin within 60 days after May 1, the date the unit agreement will take effect.

Contracts have been made with the Colorado River Municipal Water District to provide water from Lake J. B. Thomas, and CRMWD has agreed to build a pipeline to the unit's main water treatment plant and pump station, which will be located one-half mile south of Knapp.

The CRMWD line will be 18 inches in diameter. Approximately 29 miles of water distribution line will be necessary to furnish water to the injection wells.

The unitization project is more expensive than some other unitization projects in that the working pressure of water in the system will be 3,000 pounds per square inch requiring four 700 horsepower Worthington septaplex engines and pumps. Extra heavy distribution lines are also required to handle the high pressures, and the distribution lines will vary from 3½ to 10½ inches in outside diameter. The pipe will be of seamless steel, all coated and wrapped on the outside, and part of it cement lined.

Design for the facilities has been completed, and contracts are to be let for the constructions Feb. 16. Construction is to start immediately after contracts are let.

The water treatment plant will have a daily capacity of 75,000 barrels.

Reservoir pressure, originally 3,135 pounds per square inch at a minus 4,300 feet, averaged 1,688 pounds per square inch at the end of the last pressure survey in the field. That was a drop of 1,447 pounds per square inch.

The agreement signed by the producers and royalty owners provides for sharing unit production under a formula based 50 per cent on gross acrefeet of Canyon Reef formation above the water table and 50 per cent on the well. Other field rules provide for injection of water or gas through any well on the unit after obtaining permission from the Railroad Commission, and for transferring allowables of producers converted to water supply or water or gas injection service to other wells on the unit. All or any part of the allowable of a produeer which is shutin or restricted for more efficient operation also could be transferred.

Field rules also provide exemptions for any producer which is shutin and has had its allowable transferred from Commission orders providing for gas-oil ratio surveys or production tests.

The Sharon Ridge Canyon Unit territory is in southwest Scurry and southeast Borden Counties, largely in Scurry County.

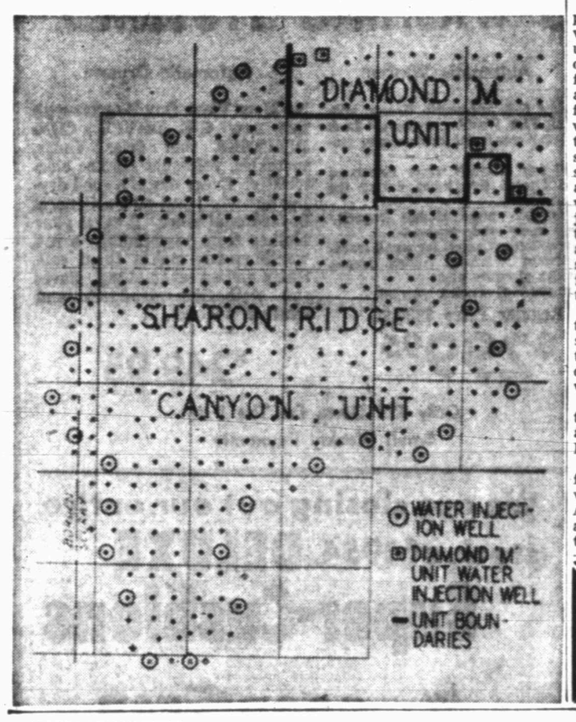

Present personnel of the unit office, located at 126 East Highway, in addition to Auers is D. A. Copeland, materials supervisor, and Mrs. Marzie Jennings, secretary. The office staff will be expanded as the unitization project progresses, Auers said. Both Auers and Copeland are moving here from Abilene.

Auer's previous experience in the oil industry includes three years as Warren's North Texas Regional manager at the Abilene office and 10 years as district manager for the Wichita Falls district of Hanlon-Buchanan, Inc., prior to that firm's purchased by Warren Petroleum Corp. in 1946. He managed the same district for Warren after the purchase until moving to Abilene.

Producers participating in the unit are: Amarada Petroleum Corp., Cascade Petroleum Co., Cities Production Corp., E. Julian Davis, Delfern Oil Co., Mary F. Hawkins, Jerry C. Hawkins Estate, Honolulu Oil Corp., Humble Oil & Refining Co., Lario Oil & Gas Co., Lion Oil Co., Lowery, et al, M. L. Mayfield, Pearson-Sibert Oil Co., Phillips Petroleum Co., Shell Oil Co., R. E. Smith, Stanolind Oil & Gas Co., Stroube Oil Co., Sunray Oil Corp., The Superior Oil Co., Tidewater Associated Oil Co., Warren Petroleum Corp., and Wheelock & Weinschel.

One of the other units, the Lion-Diamond M Unit, adjoins the new unit. The Lion-Diamond M unit covers 4,500 production acres and has more than 100 wells.

The largest unitization project in Texas, the Scurry Area Canyon Reef Operators Committee (SACROC), joins the Lion-Diamond M Unit. The SACROC Unit operates about 1,250 of the 1,278 oil wells in the Kelley-Snyder Field.

Estate Shared By Two Wives

RACINE, Wis., Feb. 5 (AP)—The two women who shared marriage with Edward Kellerman shared his estate, and still have a problem in shares to settle.

Kellerman, who died at Wind Lake last October without leaving a will, did leave two widows, it developed in County Court yesterday.

One was the former Sophia Smarez, who told the court she married Kellerman at Waukegan, Ill., in 1917, and never was divorced. The other was the former Laura Weckerly, who said she married him in 1951 at Dubuque, Iowa. Both offered documentary evidence.

Judge J. Allan Simpsen said the bulk of the estate—valued at between $3,000 to $4,000—must go to Sophia. That includes a Wind Lake lot adjoining Kellerman's last home, and site of the well that supplies the home with water.

The home itself, the court ruled, goes to Laura, who held it jointly with Kellerman.

Mental Health Study Slated

GALVESTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Experts will begin finding out shortly, they hope, what a community can do to help keep persons mentally healthy.

They will study the reverse, too: Is there anything in a person's surroundings which will cause mental illness.

For this project, the University of Texas' Medical Branch has brought in Dr. Gartly Jaco from the University of Texas sociology staff. Jaco will become a member of the department of neuropsychiatry at the Galveston Medical Branch.

A panel of experts from leading United States research centers will help on the 18-month project.

This introduction of social sciences into the medical school will be financed at first by a grant of $13,700 by the Russell Sage Foundation of New York.

The Hogg Foundation for Mental Hygiene, directed by the University of Texas and headed by Dr. Robert Sutherland, will finance travel expenses for consultants and members of the advisory committee.

Dr. Leonard Cottrell of the Russell Sage Foundation will come to Galveston for the first advisory committee meeting Feb. 22.

Jaco is research consultant of the board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools, and is chairman of the committee of mental health of the society for the Study of Social Problems.

Net Profits Decline

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Moore-McCormack Lines Inc. reported today estimated net profits for 1954 were $4,615,000, equal $2.40 a share. Reported net profits for 1953 were $5,078,000, equal $2.64 a share.

Marshall Youth Dies In Automobile Crash

In Price, too, it is one of the "Big Three"

THE 1955 BUICK SPECIAL delivers locally for less than some models of the 2-Door, 6-Passenger Sedan, Model 48 (Illustrated), so-called "low-price three." COME IN AND CHECK!

Most people still don't believe it. But it is true.

And when you look into the facts, you'll find these two solid truths:

Buick is one of the "Big Three" in sales volume—and hotter this year than ever before. And Buick is one of the "Big Three" when it comes to prices which make such popularity possible. The price tag we'll show you proves it.

So why not get what a Buick has to offer, if you are in the market for a new car?

You find that the dollars you pay for Buick buy you a lot more automobile—and the sheer satisfaction that comes with bossing a brawny traveler of this caliber.

You find it in the record-high V8 power that gives life to this spirited performer. You find it in the soft and level and cruiser-steady ride that comes of all-coil springing and torque-tube stability. You find it in the extra roominess, the extra frame strength, the extra tread width, the extra silencing—all part and parcel of every Buick.

We could tell you about the little things, too. Things usually charged for as "extras" in other cars, but yours as standard equipment at no extra cost in every Buick. Things like direction signals, oil-bath air cleaner, full-flow oil filter, automatic lighting in glove and trunk compartments—and so on.

But—you get the idea. This is a buy, this '55 Buick—a great buy—and a thriller from the instant you press its gas pedal. Come in this week and check things for yourself, won't you?

National League Has Bumper Rookie Crop

CINCINNATI, Feb. 5 (AP) — A bumper crop of rookies will give the National League a squad of 43 "All-Stars," even before the first ball is thrown in spring training.

Dave Grote, the director of the league's service bureau, pored over the club rosters and came up today with the information that clubs in the senior league are bringing up 143 rookies and 43 of them were on minor league all-star teams during the 1954 campaign.

Some of the "rookies" of course, have been in the majors before and failed to stick.

Last year 46 rookies hung on to jobs in the National League.

Those who won their "letter" included such fine players as Gene Conley and Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves, Ernie Banks and Gene Baker of the Chicago Cubs, Wally Moon and Brooks Lawrence of the St. Louis Cardinals, Art Fowler and Corky Valentine of the Cincinnati Redlegs, Sandy Amoros of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Jerry Lynch of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Cubs are bringing up the biggest crop of minor league all-stars with 11. The Dodgers are next with seven and the Braves and the Cardinals will have six each.

Seven of the Cub All-stars are pitchers. They include Bob Thorpe, who had a 28-4 record with Stockton of the California State League; John Andre, 21-9 with Shreveport of the Texas League and voted the league's most valuable pitcher; Sam Jones, 15-8 with Indianapolis of the American Assn. and Vincent Amor, 18-11 with Oklahoma City of the Texas League.

Brooklyn's all-star graduates are topped by pitcher Karl Spooner who was 21-9 with Fort Worth of the Texas League. Brought up to the Dodgers in late season, he pitched two consecutive shutouts.

Other Dodger all-stars include catcher Joe Pignatano, up from Elmira and who Tommy Holmes called "the fastest man in the Dodger organization," and outfielders Bert Hamric, who was leading the American Assn. with a .350 batting mark when he suffered a broken hand after playing 88 games with St. Paul.

Two of Cincinnati's all-stars will be pitchers—a commodity sorely needed by the Redlegs. They are Jim Pearce (17-7) with Chattanooga and Cliff Ross, 13-10 with Schenectady.

Milwaukee's half-dozen all-stars include pitcher Humberto Robinson who had a 23-8 record with Jacksonville of the Sally League and infielder George Crowe, who hit .334 with Toledo of the American Assn.

The New York Giants have a couple of hitting all-stars in Bob Lennon and Eric Rodin, up from Nashville of the Southern Assn. Lennon led the league in hitting with .345, in home runs with 64 and in runs batted in with 161. Rodin was second in batting with .336.

The Pittsburgh Pirates will have four all-stars. But they also will take a look at outfielder Earl Smith who hit .387 with Phoenix last year and set an all-time Arizona-Texas League record with 195 runs batted in.

Third baseman Ken Boyer, up from Houston of the Texas League is the key man in the Cardinals' roster of all-stars. He is the fellow who is supposed to fill the shoes of hard-hitting Ray Jablonski, who was traded during the off season to Cincinnati. Boyer hit .319 at Houston and drove in 116 runs. The Cards also have two league-leading hitters among their all-stars.

They are outfielder Harry Elliott who topped the Pacific Coast League with .350 while playing with San Diego and outfielder Bill Virdon, whose .333 with Rochester made him high man in the International League.

Study Set On Shakeup For ISL Conference

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP)—A study to determine if changes should be made in assigning high schools to conferences for football and basketball will begin here Monday.

Dean James Eddy, chairman of the Interscholastic League Executive Committee, said some schools are dissatisfied with their classification.

O. T. Freeman, principal of Wichita Falls Senior High School, was named chairman of the 10-member study group.

He said the goal is to make any changes effective with the 1956-57 school year.

Two other classification studies have been made in the last ten years. The present system went into effect in 1951.

Schools may be voted up to a higher classification by unanimous vote of all schools in the district.

Dan Devine Is Named Arizona State Coach

TEMPE, Ariz., Feb. 5 (AP)—Dan Devine, backfield coach at Michigan State, today was appointed head football coach of Arizona State College at Tempe.

Devine, 30, succeeds Clyde Smith, who became director of athletics after the past season.

The Sun Devils of the Border Conference finished second in loop play with a 3-1 record last season and a 5-5 overall mark.

Smith, former grid coach at the University of Indiana, has been head man at Tempe with a 15-131 record. The salary was not disclosed.

Wehmeier Signs Pact

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5 (AP) — Herman Wehmeier, right-handed pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies, has mailed back his signed 1955 contract, it was announced today.

Hobbs Teams Win Friday

Hobbs basketball teams swept two games from Divide Friday night.

The Hobbs girls team scored a 56-45 triumph to finish its regular district play with a 10-0 won-lost record. The team will now wait until the second place team is determined to enter a playoff.

Delphine South led the Hobbs girls with 23 points, while Craig scored 25 points to pace scoring for Divide.

The Hobbs boys won a 42-35 decision over the Divide boys, giving the Hobbs team a 5-5 record for season's district play. Doyle Hayes and Ralph Hardin scored 10 points each to lead in scoring for Hobbs. Daniel and Hyde score 11 each for Divide.

A doubleheader exhibition has been scheduled for Tuesday night in the Hobbs gymnasium, with proceeds to go to the senior class to help defray expenses for the annual summer trip.

A women's team from Hobbs, dressed in "gay nineties" costumes, will meet a team from Rotan, while a team composed of faculty men and members of the school board will tangle with an independent team in Hobbs.

Littler Has Rapid Start

CHICAGO, Feb. 5(AP)—Gene Littler, the rookie pro, has stroked to a good start in golf's 1955 money winning race with $6,009 collected after the first month of the PGA winter tour.

The lion's share of Littler's loot was the $5,000 first he captured in the Los Angeles Open.

Other leaders, according to official PGA statistics released today, included Ted Kroll with $4,180; Johnny Palmer with $3,750; Tommy Bolt with $3,095; and Shelly Mayfield with $2,551.

ABOVE THE BLEACHERS

Up to this weekend, the Vernon Lions had only three season wins in 15 games.

The Lions have a pretty fair team, too. They are classed as one of the teams most likely to upset District 3A-1 winners before the season ends.

Texas basketball players seem to be getting taller every year. Over at Big Spring, they boast of a freshman who stands 6-foot-4 and weighs 220 pounds. He is Jan Loudermilk, and from what we have heard of him so far, his name will probably become well known in high school basketball, maybe even football, during the next three years.

In just three games in the Odessa junior high tournament recently. Loudermilk got 79 points, averaging 26.3 points per game.

Coach Carl Coleman of Big Spring has announced that he will start spring football training April 25. Three weeks of workouts would make the period end about May 13. Although an official date has not yet been announced, Coach John Conley of Snyder is also considering late spring workouts to avoid conflict with baseball and track seasons.

Dick Todd, now football coach at Midwestern University, once beat himself in a football game.

Todd was attending school and out for spring football training in 1930 at Crowell. The sophomores and freshman were scrimmaging. Todd was only an eighth grader, but when two boys on the soph squad didn't show up that day, Todd was taken onto that team as a substitute.

By halftime, the sophomores were ahead 21-0, and Todd had made all the points. During the second half, the two missing sophomores showed up, so Todd was switched to the freshman team. The scored ended with the frosh winning 41-21, with Todd scoring all the freshmen's 41 points in the last half.

Tigers Drop Decisions To Bulldogs, Loboes

By DALE WALTON

LEVELLAND, Feb. 5—The Snyder Tiger Basketballers ran into a couple of buzz saws on their weekend road trip, and when the dust had cleared they found themselves on the short end of a 70-66 verdict in Levelland Saturday night following a 66-56 defeat in Plainview on Friday night.

Levelland broke away in the second quarter after the Tigers had battled on even terms throughout the first period. Then, with less than four minutes left in the game, the Snyder lads surged within two points of the Loboes, but the home town quintet managed to stave off the rally.

Alan Snead was high scorer in the ball game, getting 22 points to pace the Tiger attack. Mack Freeman tabbed 20 points to lead Levelland.

The Levelland B team also took a decision from the Snyder B, winning by 50-42. Tommie Prichard and Robert Dabbs scored 10 points each to lead the Snyder B aggregation. Jim Brown was Levelland's high scorer in that one with 18 points.

The two losses give the Tigers a 7-4 record in District 1-AAA competition.

In the Plainview game Friday night, Tigers were able to hit only 39.1 per cent of their field goal attempts, which might be considered a fair average, except that the Bulldogs hit 46.9 per cent.

Alan Snead, who was hitting his side shots with fair consistency, led the Tiger scoring with 14 points. Milton Ham had 13 points and Jerry Taylor, who played a whale of a defensive game, tallied 11.

The Bulldogs, paced by Hugh Bob Tilson's 29 points, held a commanding lead most of the way. However, the Tigers turned on the steam and pulled up within one point of Plainview early in the third period.

Jack Spikes, Snyder's leading scorer for the season, fouled out of the game midway of the third quarter.

In the B game, which Plainview won, 62-49, Robert Dabbs with 14 points, and Tommie Prichard with 11 points, were Snyder's top scorers.

Freddie Simmons had 24 points and Darrell Edge had 14 for the Plainview B team.

Rice Has 70 Grid Hopefuls

HOUSTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Rice opens spring football training Monday with more than 70 candidates due, among them being 16 lettermen.

Principal replacement problems will be at guard and halfback. Kenny Paul, All-Southwest Conference guard who played 478 of a possible 600 minutes last season, and Don Costa, who turned in 416 at the other guard position, are gone. Lew Harpold, Tommy Siragusa and R. E. Wortham, who played enough to letter, will be back.

All-America Dicky Moegle will be missed at left halfback. Morris Stone and Gordon Kellogg, who dominated play at the other halfback, also have finished.

Rickey Is Set To Step Down

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5 (AP)—General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates bows out next November after 52 years in baseball. He's retiring. Who'll succeed him?

"That's a question of Mr. John Galbreath (president) and Mr. Tom Johnson (vice president-secretary) to decide," said Rickey in an interview today. "But I'll be consulted."

Rickey, a shrewd observer of baseball talent, makes no bones about the fact he's high on three members of his staff, namely, Branch Rickey Jr., Harold G. Roettger and Joe L. Brown.

"They have a lot on the ball," said Rickey. "They know baseball inside and out. I've got three top baseball executives."

Take your pick. But the guess here is the "Twig" (Branch Jr.) has got the inside track, especially with Pop in the driver's seat and holding quite an investment in the club. But don't count out Roettger or Brown.

Bosox Sign Pitchers

BOSTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Receipt of the signed contracts of two pitchers — veteran Skinny Brown and rookie righthander Joe Trimble — was announced tonight by General Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox.

Allen Fearful Of New Cage Scandal

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 5 (AP)—Phog Allen charged today that widespread gambling again is threatening basketball, less than four years after the first expose.

The 69-year-old Kansas University coach—his real name is Dr. Forrest C. Allen—dug up some choice words in making the charge.

"The dagger of gambling once again is poised over the heart of collegiate basketball," he declared. "The threat is pandemic (universally spread). The gamblers are getting brave again and we are in danger of slipping back into the same stinking condition that prevailed before the pre-expose days."

Supporting his charge, Allen, dean of the nation's cage coaches and now in his 38th season at Kansas, said he had received long distance telephone calls before one game in which the caller sought information about the physical condition of his team and that "open gambling" prevailed at the Big Seven tournament in Kansas City last December.

"On the morning of our game with Colorado Jan. 10," Allen said, "our front office got a call from Philadelphia wanting to know whether Dallas Dobbs (star guard) would play. The secretary who took the call didn't even know Dobbs was hurt. She couldn't tell them anything so they hung up."

Allen said a short time later he got a call from Kansas City, from a man posing as Sam Molen, sports director of KMBC-TV, asking if Dobbs was going to play.

"I recognized that it wasn't Molen's voice. I told the party as much and he hung up," the Phogger said.

Phog, who called the turn on the basketball gambling scandals as early as 1944, said, regarding his charge of gambling at the Big Seven tournament at Kansas City last December:

". . . A group of characters who occupy the same box each year made open wagers upon games to the chagrin of one of our top university officials," he said. "This is nothing new. I have mentioned similar incidents before."

Allen said that while he was in Philadelphia last week a sportswriter for the Newark Evening News, Paul Horowitz, told him he had been at a luncheon "where Nat Holman declared that another gambling scandal in basketball was imminent."

"And I was told by a well-informed party who was at the Wichita-St. Louis game Jan. 22 at St. Louis that a few minutes before the game a 'big cigar' walked up to Mike Todorovich, one of the officials, and declared 'I've got $100 bet on St. Louis tonight.'"

Allen reiterated his well-aged contention that basketball needs a czar.

". . . The names of the 'Black' Wildcats from Kentucky who won the NCAA tournament in 1949 and the 'Black' Beavers of City College of New York, who won it in 1950, still are on the championship lists," he blazed. "They are there for every youth to see despite the fact some members of both teams confessed dumping and shaving points. The NCAA has yet not seen fit to remove the championship toga from these teams."

Tinsley Gets Axe At LSU

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 5—Louisiana State, in a shakeup of its athletic department, today fired Head Football Coach Gaynell (Gus) Tinsley and announced the retirement of Athletic Director T. P. Heard.

The vote on both actions by the LSU board of supervisors was unanimous.

Tinsley, who has two years remaining on a three-year contract, will be paid his full salary of $12,500 annually until Jan. 1, 1957.

Heard, in a letter to the board, asked that he be given a year's leave of absence at full pay starting July 1 and then, upon completion of the leave, be retired at one-third pay. Heard's salary was not available.

The board did not say whether it had selected successors either for Tinsley or Heard.

Weaver Confident Of Tech's Future

By JOE BENHAM

LUBBOCK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Dewitt Weaver, who threw a scare into Lubbock football fans when he talked of moving to Arkansas last month, glanced over the Texas Tech campus and explained what made him stay here.

He saw what South Plains folk call the finest athletic plant in the Southwest. Then he looked at the dormitories where his athletes live—West Texas boys, most of them, termed by Weaver "the finest athletes in the nation."

Finally, he nodded toward Lubbock and the prairies around it, the home of the people Weaver says will support his plans to make Tech a nationally-known sports power.

Weaver, a big man with iron grey hair and a quiet manner that makes him look more like a banker than a football coach, takes little of the credit for the Tech sports expansion for himself.

"West Texans," he said, "have been wonderful. I know that with their continued support we can finish the job we have started.

"It would be awfully hard to leave here now," he added.

A month ago, Lubbock folk were afraid it might not be hard for Weaver to leave the Border Conference school.

Joe Kelly, sports editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, said he had his headline already written: "Weaver Enters Southwest Conference; Texas Tech Still Out." Weaver then was the top candidate to replace Bowden Wyatt at the University of Arkansas.

Weaver doesn't like to talk about the past, which includes a standout career as a University of Tennessee lineman.

He'd rather talk of the future and his hope that Tech will eventually gain Southwest Conference membership.

"I believe we'll make it some day," Weaver said. "In the meantime, we're not waiting for them to invite us in. We're looking ahead with plans to make Texas Tech the outstanding school in the state, strong in all sports."

How well Weaver has done since February, 1951, is evidenced by Tech's record. The Raiders have taken three Border Conference titles in four seasons. In 1952, they won a Sun Bowl victory over College of the Pacific and in 1954 whipped Auburn in the Gator Bowl.

Last season they turned down the Sun Bowl bid after being passed up by the Gator Bowl.

Frank (Home Run) Baker led the American League in homers three times. In 1914 he hit eight to tie Sam Crawford for a fourth title.

Panel Disagrees On Effect Of Debate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Congressional overseers of the atomic energy program divided along political lines today as to the effects of a sharp split revealed during the past week among members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Democratic members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee generally contended the split was seriously intefering with the work of an organization which they consider as important to the country's security as the Defense Department.

Republicans said they had seen no evidence the differences in AEC had hampered its major tasks.

The public airing of the embroiled AEC situation came at a series of hearings designed to show progress being made on peacetime uses of the atom.

Focal point of the friction is the highly controversial Dixon-Yates power contract which President Eisenhower directed AEC to negotiate last year. But there were indications that other issues may be involved too.

On opposite sides of the dispute are Chairman Lewis L. Strauss, one-time investment banker who is serving his second term on the commission, the first through appointment by Former President Truman and the second by President Eisenhower, and Thomas E. Murray, mining engineer appointed by Truman.

In the middle appears to be Dr. Willard F. Libby, University of Chicago chemist, a comparatively new member.

The Dixon-Yates contract calls for construction of a 107-million-dollar plant by the private power group at West Memphis, Ark. It would supply electricity to the Tennesee Valley Authority to replace TVA current used by AEC.

Murray started off the week's sequence with a statement that AEC should drop the Dixon-Yates contract entirely.

This was what the Democratic majority of the joint committee had asked the agency to do, in a resolution overturning a previous Republican stand in support of the contract.

Murray referred openly to "discord" on AEC and said Dixon-Yates was largely to blame. He said there "is another issue" that he wanted to discuss with the committee in private.

Murray said Dixon-Yates had occupied so much of AEC's time and energies that it had diverted the commission from its real jobs—weapons and development of peace-time atomic energy.

Strauss, obviously taken by surprise, first chided his colleague for not revealing his statement to the other AEC members before reading it Monday, and then declared "it is unfortunate and inaccurate to give the American people the impression of any slowdown or discontinuity in our progress."

Knowland And Smith Views Are Different

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 —Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said today he is convinced Communist China has "slammed the door" on a United Nations invitation to discuss a Formosa cease-fire.

He expressed belief the Peiping move is part of a Soviet-backed effort to force a Big Four conference, at which the Reds would seek big concessions.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, indicated he has little hope that further truce efforts within the U.N. will be successful.

In this he disagreed with Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ). Smith said he believes that Red China's rejection of the U.N. invitation "helps our cause" to such an extent that world opinion eventually will force the Peiping government to come to the U.N.

Knowland, like Smith, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he believes the bristling answer by Red China's Premier Chou En-lai was "well thought out in advance with the Kremlin."

"I think it was for the purpose of forcing either a Geneva-type meeting or it represented the Communist China end of a pincer movement in which Russia has joined to force a Big Four meeting," he said.

"Of course, the Communists envision such a meeting as being similar to those at Yalta and Potsdam. I am sure the Chinese Communists on their part visualize a Geneva-type meeting at which a free world surrender could be expected."

The Geneva meeting to which Knowland referred was the one on Indochina last spring. It ended with an agreement dividing Viet Nam with the Reds.

Ex-President's Brother Dies

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., Feb. 5 (AP)—Theodore Jesse Hoover, 84-year-old brother of former President Herbert Hoover, died last night.

Hoover, a mining engineer, was manager or consulting engineer of mines in California, Mexico, Russia, Burma, Australia and Alaska from 1903 to 1919. He then became professor of mining and metallurgy at Stanford University and served in that capacity until 1925 when he became dean of the Stanford University School of Engineering. He retired from that post in 1936.

A native of West Branch, Iowa, Hoover was the author of a number of books on mining. He also was well known in California for his work in fish and game conservation.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Cornelius G. Willis of Sierra Madre, and Mrs. Charles McLean and Mrs. William Hauselt who lived with him on his Casa del Oro ranch north of Santa Cruz.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed but it was believed burial would be on the ranch.

CAPITOL NOTES

Lawmakers Set For Legislating

By ED HARTE
Daily News Austin Bureau

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 — "Subcommittee" is the word of the hour in the legislature.

Now going into their fifth week of the session, lawmakers are getting down to the drudgery of legislating — reading bulk bills line for line, editing, revising, hearing arguments by advocates and opponents.

West Texans are prominent on some subcommittees named during the last week. Abilene in particular drew some choice plums as far as water is concerned. In the House water subcommittee, Rep. Truett Latimer is one of five members, while Sen. David Ratliff is one of three senators on a subcommittee to study Senate water legislation. Both men will have before them conflicting versions of a general recodification of water laws. One is an omnibus bill sponsored by Soil Conservation Districts, the other a 9-part program submitted by the Texas Water Resources Committee. Rep. Obie Bristow of Big Spring is on another subcommittee studying the so-called Parish Amendment, an important piece of water legislation.

Also of interest in West Texas is the so-called "Hard Minerals" bill, now before subcommittees in the Senate and House.

On the Senate side, the subcommittee has not been named, but Sen. David Ratliff probably will be the chairman.

One of the three members of the House subcommittee is Rep. W. G. Kirklin of Odessa.

Not all subcommittees get glamorous assignments like water and mineral rights. Most of them, in fact, must deal with much more trivial matters.

Rep. Richard Slack is on a subcommittee checking a proposed constitutional amendment to change our bail bond laws.

An oldtimer before the Legislature, the bail bond change is sponsored this session by Rep. Douglas E. Bergman of Dallas.

It would allow judges to deny bond to persons already under a grand jury indictment for a felony offense who are indicted for a second felony offense.

Rep. George Thurmond, law student from Del Rio, is on a subcommittee of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee that is studying a proposal to require certificate of title for trading in outboard motors.

"Down on the Gulf there appears to be considerable traffic in stolen outboard motors," he said. "This bill is proposed as a means of curbing it."

* * *

Rep. L. L. Armor of Sweetwater will have to do some traveling in the line of subcommittee duty. He's on a subcommittee dealing with special state schools and orphanages. He'll have to visit the various state homes to check conditions at first hand.

Extensive reform of the organization of State Hospitals and Special Schools has been recommended by the Texas Research League, and considerable reform legislation in this line can be expected this session.

One West Texans says another West Texan is going great guns in his campaign to be elected Speaker of the House next session. LeRoy Sauls, of Kress, reports that Rep. Waggoner Carr of Lubbock has lined up substantially more pledges than his rival, Rep. Horace B. Houston of Dallas.

* * *

Rep. L. L. Armor has introduced a bill, No. 259, to provide a closed season on wild deer and turkey in Nolan County for a period of five years.

* * *

Rep. Obie Bristow of Big Spring has introduced House Bill 280, a local bill authorizing the appointment of an investigator for the 118th judicial district, Howard County.

The proposed law would authorize the district attorney of that district to appoint an investigator, to perform such duties as are assigned to him by the district attorney. Salary would be set between $3,600 and $4,200 a year, with expenses of not more than $1,200 a year.

He would also serve as adult probation officer for Howard County, for $300 a year additional.

Acreage Sold In New Mexico

RATON, N. M., Feb. 5 (AP)—The sale of 14,168 acres of Maxwell Land Grant Co. acreage to Lebus Brothers of Wichita Falls was announced today by Arthur Johnson, general manager of the land grant company.

The tract is in Colfax County south of Eagle Nest on the road to Black Lake. Lebus Brothers also own 9,000 acres adjoining Eagle Nest which they bought last spring.

The price was not disclosed. The purchasers have extensive oil and cattle interests in Texas in the Eagle Nest area. Their plans are said to call for using the 14,000 acres for summer pasture.

Maxwell Land Grant Co. still owns 120,000 acres, all for sale, Johnson said. The company holds mineral rights on 165,000 other acres.

The word "orange" started out as "nurungo" in Sanscrit and became "narungee" in Hindustan "naranj" in Arabian and "orange" in Provence.

VOL. 5, No. 241 | SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1955 | SECTION B

Four members of Cub Pack 27 are shown above preparing posters for National Boy Scout Week at the home of Mrs. Jim Babcock, assistant den mother for the pack. Mrs. John W. Best, den mother, is standing at left with Mrs. Babcock. The cubs from left are: Ronnie Detrich, Johnny Best, Tim Patrick, and Rollin Babcock. (Lee Watson photographs)

Members of newly organized Cub Scout Pack 107 at the Abraham Lincoln School are shown above studying some of the rules of scouting. Standing from left are: Cornelius Davis, Thomas Davis, Johnnie Ray Gaurcia, W. C. Stillwell, Lloyd Hood, Randolph Williams, Gene Autry Taylor, Joe Arthur Phillips, and Will Clay, Jr., seated. The pack is sponsored by the school. The Rev. C. Crayton is cub master, and Daniel Johnson, Autrie Thompson, and Frederick Sanford are on the advisory committee.

Anne Fogarty, queen of princess dresses, comes up with still another version of her beautifully cut, carefully fitted, figure enhancing models. This time, she does what looks like the plainest of plain bodices, except that it is darted and molded to give the lines and outlines for which she is famous. The high-cut armhole and tight sleeve is another new point, all a part of the new upper story simplicity, which makes such an ideal background for jewelled ropes. The skirt, typically full, has four gores set on the lowered bodice which curves into the waist with perfection. Miss Forgarty originally showed this one in a patterned tweed but it is equally great in faille or brocade for more formal occasions, in any dress-weight wool for general wear. This pattern is cut to designer measurements, not standard pattern measurements.

Fred W. "Swede" Cromwell, 40, Big Spring and Snyder oil man who was injured Friday when his car overturned just west of Colorado (City) on the Bankhead highway, died in a Colorado hospital Saturday noon.

Mr. Cromwell was enroute from Big Spring. . . to Snyder, where completion of the plugging the No. 1 Truss was to have been made this week. . . The Cromwell brothers were pioneers in the development of oil in West Texas. "Swede" was associated with his brothers in early oil field work in West Texas and was well-known throughout this area.

Actors Show True Talent When They Are Not Talking

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Want to know how good an actor really is?

"Wait until he stops talking," says Menasha Skulnik, a veteran of 700 stage roles who currently is winning acclaim as Noah in the new Clifford Odets hit "The Flowering Peach."

"You can recognize a good actor when other people are doing the talking," he says. "When I'm watching a show I look at a man when he's got nothing to say."

After 40 years on stage, mostly in parts he describes as "low comedy," Skulnik calls his Noah role "my Hamlet".

He's something of an oddity in a profession traditionally distinguished by the strutting ego. A short, gnarled, pixie sort of man, Skulnik has a reputation for innate modesty.

"First, I have always looked for the play," Skulnik says. "My part is always secondary."

Skulnik asked for "The Flowering Peach" after hearing just the first scene. But when Odets asked him to play the role of Noah "on the grand scale," Skulnik balked.

"I tried to explain at rehearsal that I couldn't play Noah heroic, but just as a little guy, not Bravura."

"After the opening Odets kissed him," says Skulnik's wife Anna. And that, as far as the Skulniks are concerned, is all that there was to rumors that some columnnists printed of a feud between author and star.

Mrs. Skulnik plays a highly vital role in the on-stage existence of "M'seu Menash'." She is major domo of his dressing room, helps with makeup, rehearses him in lines, steers visitors.

"I am his severest critic, I insist on it," she blandly announces. A prominent actress in the Yiddish theater, Mrs. Skulnik feels sure her ministrations are balanced with benefits.

"If he has problems, I know about them. Then they are no longer his problems. They are mine."

Showgoing De Luxe; Remember how they used to give away dishes at the movies? A Broadway showman is going that crowd getter one better now.

Alexander Cohen, a stage producer, has launched an enterprise called Theatrical Tours as a new way of getting fans to stage shows. It is such a long time between every producer has to have some sideline to stay alive. This is mine."

A few days ago, Cohen loaded 225 fans in buses and took them to New Haven, Conn., for opening night of the national company of "The Pajama Game."

To get the crowd Cohen ran one newspaper ad—and had to turn away more than 7,000 applicants who also wanted to go along. For a $14.50 tariff, each customer got a seat at the show, a steak dinner, the bus trip and gifts galore—pajamas, records, books, orchids or cigars (depending on he or she) and champagne.

Next summer Cohen plans to operate daily theater trips out of New York, Boston, Chicago and perhaps other urban centers to top summer theaters within 50 miles of each.

No wonder this slip looks and feels so expensive! It's beautifully shaped in a nylon tricot that's soft as magnolia petals. The lavish fluting that molds the bosom and makes a deep ruffle at the hem looks like expensive permanent pleating. The wide lace bands are unusually lovely. The price is marvelously low.

Here's the pretty cake, all pale-pink, daisy-decked icing on the outside; all deep-dark chocolate chiffon richness on the inside. Here are the candles, in varying shades of pink, graded in size and gathered into a mound of flickering light. It's as pretty as a picture and light as a cloud — a chocolate cloud that's faintly permeated with the subtle flavor of almonds. And the texture, for all its lightness, pays a velvety tribute to the heap of good things that go into the cake's making.

CHOCOLATE CHIFFON BIRTHDAY CAKE

2 eggs, separated
1½ cups sugar
1¾ cups sifted cake flour
teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup salad oil
1 cup buttermilk
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
½ teaspoon almond extract

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour two 8-inch layer cake pans at least 1½ inches deep. Beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually beat in a half-cup of the sugar. Continue beating until very stiff and glossy. Sift remaning one cup of sugar, flour, baking soda and salt into another bowl. Add oil and half-cup buttermilk. Beat one minute at medium speed on mixer or 150 vigorous strokes by hand. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl constantly. Add remaining half-cup buttermilk, egg yolks, melted chocolate and flavoring. Beat one minute more, as above. Fold meringue thoroughly into batter, across bottom, up and over, turning bowl often. Pour into prepared pans. Bake 30 to 35 minutes. Cool on cake racks. Split each layer into two layers. Spread pink-tinted, almond-flavored seven minute frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Garnish sides with "daisies" of salted almonds and semi-sweet chocolate pieces. Cluster candles in varied shades of pink on top.

'LET ME CALL YOU SWEETHEART' . . . that's the tune her new Valentine compact plays when she opens it.

Give Glamor On Valentine's Day

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

Valentine's Day is another good excuse for a lady to accept a gift from her beau. And woe unto the swain who forgets to remember the date or who doesn't come across with a remembrance for his lady fair.

She will not be fussy about the choice of gift, providing it spells romance. It is not the day for practical tokens like steam irons and washing machines. Housewives as well as working girls have respect for Dan Cupid, so keep those darts pointing in the right direction.

Put your heart into the gift even if it is a box of candy. And if the gift is flowers — make it American beauties, the big red kind. The bright red flowers of the kalenchoe plant will appeal also to a lady love.

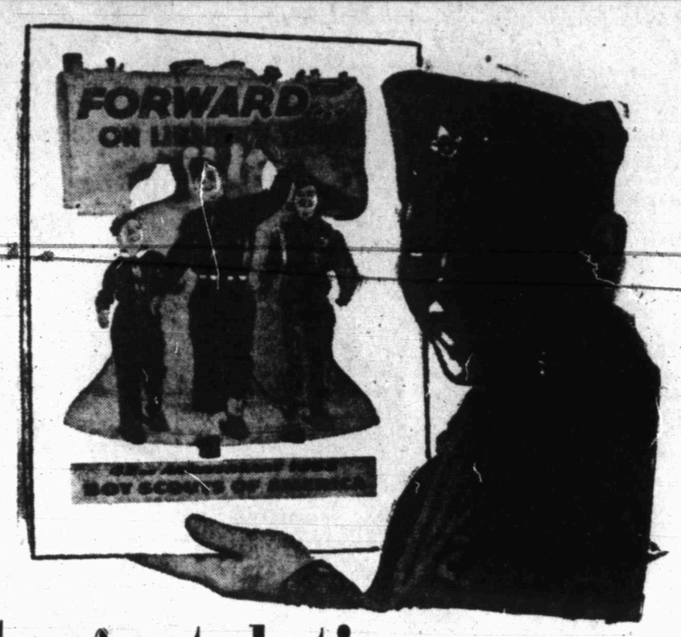

Glamor gifts are easy to find and spell romance in any language. Tokens that seem to say "I love you and took the trouble to prove it" (with this thoughtful gift) are always sure-fire. Take fragrances for instance. They'll please any girl from 9 to 90, except that rare exception — a girl who is allergic to scents.

If he doesn't know her favorite fragrance, he can find an aroma that pleases him. After all, she wears it for that reason, and if he tells her he likes it, what more should she ask? Another good idea might be to find one with a romantic name.

Heart-shaped compacts are available. And one with a music box that plays "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," should really send her into ecstacies.

Bath accessories should thrill her, too. Heart-shaped soaps are inexpensive. Bath-oil, cologne and dusting powder are all little gifts that are right for the occasion.

All in all, she'll be easy to please on Valentine's Day, providing he puts his heart into that gift. Women are incurably romantic. The tinlest remembrance will make them radiate with happiness.

Scouters Hope For 17 Additional Units

Forty-four institutions in Scurry, Mitchell, and Borden Counties are now being contacted by members of the Lone Buffalo Boy Scout District's organization and expension committee as prospective unit sponsors.

As a result of this survey, the district hopes to organize at least 17 new units of Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, and Explorer Scouts, according to Dan Warren, chairman of the committee.

This is a part of a program established in the district recently to reach a goal of 1,000 boys in scouting in the three-county district. At the close of 1954, the district had 695 boys in 33 units. The program calls for a total of 50 units in the district.

A breakdown of the 1,000-boy program includes plans for a total of about 26 Boy Scout units, eight senior units, and 16 cub units. There are now 19 Boy Scout troops, three senior units, and 11 cub packs.

A troop, pack, or unit sponsor's duty is to furnish leadership and a meeting place for the unit. Leadership includes a scoutmaster, assistant, and a three to five-man troop committee. The meeting place should be one available on a schedule basis for the units. Ordinarily, troops and explorer units meet weekly, while packs meet monthly but have weekly den meetings. Den meetings, however, are not held in the pack meeting places but in homes of den mothers.

These organizations being contacted will be invited to send representatives to a dinner to be held at the East Elementary School cafeteria on the night of Feb. 25.

This dinner, known as the "together" dinner, is one of several similar meetings being held in districts throughout the Buffalo Trail Council, which has a goal of 100 new units. Nolan von Roeder is "together" chairman for this district. At the dinner, district officials will explain to prospective sponsors the aims and responsibilities of the scouting program and how to organize scout troops. The council "together" chairman, Delbert Downing of Midland, will be on hand at the dinner as main speaker.

In Scurry County alone, there are now 19 scout units.

Federal Aid For Schools Faces Debate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Federal aid for public school construction seems to have a better chance to at least reach the debate stage in this session of Congress than ever before.

But already charges that "extremists" are out to wreck federal aid by working antisegregation language into any bill offered, make it clear it will have to survive a heavy crossfire.

From the other flank come allegations of a "snide attempt to equate those who believe in this kind of provision with the extremists."

Senate hearings, concluded this week, echoed with predictions that efforts will be made to include in school aid legislation a condition that no federal funds be used to help build schools where Negro children are not allowed to go to school with white children.

The Senate Labor Committee was considering proposals to provide up to 500 million dollars a year for two years to take the edge off the nation's government-estimated shortage of 370,000 public school classrooms.

None of the nearly 20 bills already introduced on both sides of the capital includes a no-segregation requirement. It is not known whether President Eisenhower's plan, probably to be disclosed next week, will carry out such condition.

Those who back the idea of a nonsegregation clause contend it is needed to make sure all states act in accordance with the ruling of the Supreme Court that public school segregation is unconstitutional.

The court ruled to this effect last May 17 but has not yet issued an order setting out how segregation shall be ended.

Opponents of a nonsegregation provision predict that Southern senators would filibuster it to death and that thus no children white or Negro—would benefit.

The dispute came out in bits and pieces in the hearings, but a review of the transcript shows that much was said on the subject before Chairman Lister Hill (D-Ala) gaveled the final session to adjournment.

In the end, Senators Ives (R-NY) and Bender (R-Ohio) were on record as in favor of an antisegregation provision, and Bender had said he did not think it would kill school aid.

Sen. Purtell (R-Conn) had said on the record he thought school aid legislation should be for the benefit of "all children, not just white children."

Sen. McNarmara (D-Mich) was on record as opposed to an antisegregation requirement.

Mrs. Popejoy died Friday morning at her home following an illness of several months. Burial was in Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bolger Funeral Home.

Survivors include the husband; a daughter, Mrs. H. C. Brooks of Plainview; two sons, Fred Popejoy of Hart, Tex., and Bill Popejoy of Snyder; four sisters, Mrs. J. T. Weatherred of Midland, Mrs. B. F. Young and Mrs. Clarence Bowman of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Thelman Rozzell of Dallas; three brothers, Ruben Young of Fort Worth, H. V. Young of Itasca, and J. J. Young of Terrell, and seven grandchildren. Another son was killed in World War II.

Mrs. Popejoy was born July 19, 1882, in Alabama. She moved to Texas with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Young, in 1888. The family settled at Itasca in Hill County. Mr. and Mrs. Popejoy were married in the home of her parents on Sept. 3, 1903. They observed their golden wedding anniversary with an open house here in 1953.

Mr. and Mrs. Popejoy moved to Snyder in 1928, and have lived here since that time. Mrs. Popejoy, a member of the First Methodist Church, was a member of the Victory Bible Class and the WSCS there. She had been a member of the Good Neighbors Club for 23 years.

"Forward ★★★ on Liberty's Team"

America is indebted to those religious bodies, school organizations, veterans' associations, fraternal groups and service clubs which sponsor Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops and Explorer Units. More than 80,000 such groups are sponsored by these institutions that are the backbone of American community life.

Growing each year in number since 1910, these "parent institutions" render great service to America by opening their doors to boys and furnishing the leadership essential to keep the program growing. There are now more than 700,000 volunteer leaders in Scouting, and they are nearly all related to our churches and synagogues, our veterans and fraternal groups, and our schools and service clubs.

As an evidence of our appreciation, we take this means of publicly thanking these "parent institutions" of Scouting groups, and the unselfish men and women in them for all they are doing for their country through Scouting.

Science Student In Local School Cited

Clare Smith, 18-year-old Snyder High School student was given honorable mention this week in a science talent search conducted by Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Miss Smith, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Smith, Jr., 2308 Thirty-second Street, was one of the top 300 students in the country recommended to colleges and universities for scholarships. They were chosen from a field of 2,545 competitors in all the 48 states.

Forty students in the U.S. were chosen last week to compete in Washington, D.C., for $11,000 in Westinghouse science scholarships. The 260 receiving honorable mention represented 34 states and the District of Columbia. Selection of winners was based on scholastic records and teachers' reports, their science projects and grades in a science aptitude examination. Miss Smith's teacher is Glenn Richardson.

Westinghouse said immediate consideration for scholarships in state or regional science talent searches will be given 92 of the winners. They are from areas where such scholarship competitions are being conducted concurrently with the national search. Texas is one of the states conducting a local search, Westinghouse said.

Only seven Texas students were given mention. Other than Miss Smith, there were those from Austin, Canyon, Dallas, Houston, Pampa, and Ysleta.

When Richardson entered Miss Smith in the competition, he sent in a project research paper she had completed on "Diffusion and Concentration of Phosphorous 32 in the Body of a Goldfish," along with an added report on preparation of radioautographs. She used radioautographs in her research.

Some of the scientific jargon used, even that which goes around among high school science students, is just doubletak to the average layman. Principally, though, here's what Miss Smith did: she added radioactive phosphorous to water in a goldfish bowl and left the fish there several days to "soak it up." Periodic roentgen counts were made. The fish was then washed, and a count was made with the laboratory counter.

After anesthetizing the fish to kill it, she opened the fish and made a count on internal organs to find concentration of phosphorous. The skeleton was then stripped of flesh, the bones dried, and a count was made on the bones. The greatest concentration was in the bones, she said.

Miss Smith then made a radioautograph. To do this, she constructed a "sandwitch" by placing the bones between sheets of photographic film in a darkroom and clamping that arrangement with boards. No light was allowed to reach the film, which was left in the darkroom several days. She then processed the film in the darkroom, just as a photographer would process regular film, and got a radioautograph, or a picture of the bones made from gamma rays.

This is a basic experiment and is somewhat similar to methods used in finding cancers in various parts of the body through use of a "tracer" fluid and an X-ray.

Miss Smith and several other science students are now beginning a new project which involves checking plants in various parts of the county to determine what areas indicate good deposits of radioactive materials, such as uranium. Tree limbs and other plants will be burned to charcoal before checked by the science lab tickers. She said the students will later be calling on county residents to aid them in the project.

Clare Smith, one of seven Texas high school students who have been recommended by Westinghouse Electric Corp. for college science scholarships, works with a laboratory geiger counter. She and other students here are now beginning a project to check possibilities of uranium in Scurry County. (Lee Watson photograph)

This is not a regular photograph, rather it is a radioautograph of phosphorous concentrated in bones of a goldfish. It was made by a local science student, Clare Smith, who won national recognition for her science projects in a Westinghouse talent search.

Some large grain elevators have machinery that lifts, tilts and empties a box car load of wheat (60 tons) in seven minutes.

To Our Boy Scouts

When Lord Robert Baden-Powell, the Englishman, conceived the idea of the Boy Scouts and, later, our own American, Dan Beard, furthered and promoted the idea here, neither, we suspect, ever dreamed what world-wide fountains of Youth he was putting in action! Today the Boy Scouts are the flower of young manhood in every quarter of the globe. Their deeds are legion. Their clean, manly characters shine forth from their scrubbed faces and the trim uniforms they wear. How very proud we fathers and mothers of Boy Scouts should be! Their merit badges are a symbol of sincerity, eagerness to serve and pride in their organization. God bless them all. They'll be leaders tomorrow.

Inter-Clan Clashes Punctuate Bootlegging On High Plains

By BOB FENLEY
Written for The Associated Press

LUBBOCK, Feb. 5 (AP)—A lusty thirst which all the pumping windmills on the South Plains can't seem to quench has brought to amazing proportions the business of that furtive character with the bulge in his pocket—the bootlegger.

In 24 counties where the handle hooks onto the pan in Texas, it is against the law to sell any beverage containing alcohol, even a can of beer.

The West Texas wars between rum and righteousness have been waged a long time, but, as was inevitable, the law of supply and demand has come out on top.

On the South Plains, the lure of the thirsty dollar makes pawns of men.

The newest look in the game is violent, but it's really an old profile. Brutal inter-clan clashes in bootlegging ranks have been punctuated late at night with the crackle of gunfire.

In Lubbock recently a man and woman were bound, gagged and locked in the closet of their home while hijackers drove away their liquor-loaded car.

A Negro hired to guard a collection of liquor near Lubbock was virtually whipped to a pulp with a chain wielded by robbers.

One can almost hear the plink of a 1920 ukelele and smell the tang of bathtub gin as stories are told of rifle slugs fired through cars, of flashing red lights and of iron spikes booby trapping highways for the liquor runner as competitors vie with each other for a larger slice of illicit business.

What's the picture?

Today in Lubbock you can buy a fifth of cheap bourbon for $6 to $7. The Latins drink beer at $1 a quart. The Negroes like wine at $1 a pint.

In "bone-dry" Lubbock, police records show that over half of arrests, excluding traffic, have to do with liquor.

Bootleg liquor is too costly for some. An aged man recently told police he had been mixing canned heat with strawberry soda pop.

The "long neckers" clan has grown. They buy the long necked bottles of bay rum for a half buck or so for the high alcohol content.

But the better-to-do can buy anything from blended bourbon to ancient Scotch.

Various clubs and organizations have and do sell liquor.

No less than 11 South Plains clubs applied for federal liquor dealer's permits from 1950 to 1952.

But if you're not a club member and have a thirst you pick a telephone number. Some of the easiest-to-remember numbers in Lubbock are owned by bootleggers.

If you are "in the know and sent by Joe" the bootlegger has your name listed.

Liquor moves into the South Plains in amazing quantities, but not without effort and trouble.

Picture a lonely South Plains road in early morning hours as the lights of a fast-moving car cut through the blackness.

Ahead of the car, shadowy figures move across the road and place instruments with spikes in the way. The figures retreat to watch the car whose driver sees the trap too late. Flat tires slap at the pavement and the dark figures dart toward the lurching vehicle.

"Okay, bail out! . . . Get 'em up."

As the driver is marched down the highway, long brown packages from his car are transferred to another auto. Then the auto roars away, leaving the driver alone to contemplate his monstrous bad luck—a loss that may mount into thousands.

This is bootleg hijacking.

An iron curtain of secrecy is maintained by the victims. How can they complain?

I talked with a bootlegger who had been robbed but hadn't told officers.

"I had gone to Big Spring for a load and it was between Lamesa and Tahoka they hit me.

"They shot six times through my car and were flashing a red light at me," he recalled.

The bootlegger said he thought he was being stopped by a law officer but soon learned this wasn't the case.

"They robbed me of $190 cash and 40 cases of beer," he ruefully remembered.

Another bootlegger said the hijacker's shots were answered with a shotgun blast which sent them fleeing across a cotton patch. A woman in another case was greeted with hijacker bullets at her feet.

This has caused a rumble among the bootleg kingpins.

Some officers are inclined to lean back and say, "If the bootleggers knock each other off, we're for it."

The "wet" Texas towns nearest Lubbock are Amarillo, 120 miles to the north, and Big Spring, 100 miles to the south. Points in New Mexico are closer but a high liquor tax narrows the profit too much.

The bootleg routes are long.

From "wet country" to the South Plains, the bootlegger, dodging highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and police, takes his liquor to a "cache" point. From there another car takes it to the retailer.

Recently, the most vigorous campaign against liquor has been carred out by Leon Bowman, supervisor of the Lubbock Liquor Control District, which has led, or been close to the top in the state in liquor law violation fines assessed in recent months.

The bootleg business rolls along. It's hard to stop, but most officers agree strict enforcement by themselves and by juries probably can do the most toward solving the problem.

The stiffer the fine or jail sentence, the higher the stake in the business of the thirsty dollar.

When the stakes get too high, even the hardest-nosed gambler won't ante.

Postman Is Firefighter

ROSEBUD, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—To that postmen's slogan about rain, snow, etc., not stopping them, at least for long, on their appointed rounds, the Postoffice Department now can add fire.

Recently rural carrier Howard Linn, while driving his route, found the S. J. Burns farm home on fire. No one was at home.

He was familiar with the farm home and knew he couldn't put out the fire alone. So Linn sped to Rosebud, found Elmer Sanders, they drove the Rosebud booster fire truck to the farm and put out the fire.

The Burns family didn't learn of the fire until they returned home hours later.

'Ugly' Weather Helps Church Attendance

HOUSTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Rev. Marcus Chunn, minister of Bering Memorial Methodist church, says a fellow minister prays for rain and quotes him:

"Let us not hope for pretty weather on Sunday. On fine Sundays, my flock goes out of town to visit relatives and the like. On ugly days, they stay home and go to church."

Jack Benny's Cousin?

LOLITA, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—A woman was answering the usual questions as she purchased a poll tax here. The clerk asked her age.

"Thirty-nine," she said without pause.

"How long have you lived in Texas?"

"Forty-four years."

Kite Flying Rules Cited

Safety rules for boys and girls who fly kites were outlined Saturday by J. E. Blakey, manager for Texas Electric Service Company, in anticipation of the opening of the 1955 kite flying season.

As explained by Blakey, the five safety rules in order of their importance are: First, fly your kite out in the open where it won't get caught in wires or trees. Second, use only string made of cotton, silk, linen, nylon or rayon. Third, use only wood in your kite frames. Fourth, fly kites only in good weather. You don't want to get them rain soaked. And fifth, if your kite should get caught in electric wires, call Texas Electric Service Company. They will send someone to get it down for you.

"Local youngsters who fly kites have been very careful in the past about where and when they flew their kites," Blakey stated. "We had a perfect record last year with not one boy or girl being injured and only a few kites demolished. This year, I fully expect that even the number of kites lost will be reduced because it seems that every year, our boys and girls listen more carefully to our warnings and cooperate better in making kite flying safe."

At the turn of the century only four per cent of the nation's 18-21-year-olds attended college.

Lt. Halil Gunduz of the Turkish Air Force will be the 2000th flying training student to be graduated from Webb Air Force Base when graduation ceremonies are held Monday. Standing before a row of the Lockheed T-33 jet trainers in which he has been instructed at Webb, Lt. Gunduz says being "Mr. 2000" gives him a chance to represent the hundreds of Mutual Defense Assistance Pact students of allied nations who have been trained here during the past two and one half years since reactivation of the base. (USAF photograph)

No. 2,000 To Graduate At Webb AFB

Webb Air Force Base Commander Colonel C. M. Young has extended a cordial invitation to the citizens of Snyder to attend open house at the flying training base at Big Spring Monday, when Webb will graduate its 2000th jet pilot.

Activities begin Monday at 1 p. m. when the gates of Webb AFB will be opened to the public. A 2000-man Wing Review on the flight line is scheduled for 2 p.m. and bleachers will be set up for spectators.

During the Wing Review, the famed USAF precision formation jet flying team, the "Thunderbirds" from Luke AFB, Arizona, will perform tactical maneuvers in their red, white, and blue F-84 fighters.

Following the flight line activities will be commencement exercises for the graduating class and Webb's 2000th graduate in the Base Academic Auditorium, at 3:15. Maj. Gen. Orvile A. Anderson, retired, will address the student body. The graduating class of 43 men includes four US, nine Turkish, and one Italian officers, and 28 US and one Belgian aviation cadets.

Webb's 2000th graduate, Lt. Halil Gunduz, is a Turkish student being trained in the United States with American students under provisions of the Mutual Defense Assistance Pact.

Highlight of the fine-line activities Monday will be the Thunderbirds' demonstration of precision flying which will begin when they enter the show area at a minimum altitude at 500 miles per hour in a tight string formation; one behind the other. Pulling up into a loop they will change formation into a diamond while upside down. The show will progress through slow rolls, barrel rolls, loops, 4G turns, clover leaf turns and into the finale of a "Bomb Burst."

During this spine tingling maneuver spectators will see four jets climb straight up, slit toward the four cardinal points of a compass, roll, then come starting down individually to converge head-on simultaneously from four directions at 540 miles per hour

Since their beginning in June, 1953, the Thunderbirds have thrilled more than six million people in the United States during 127 performances. Another three million witnessed their precision flying in South America early last year.

Air Travel Figures Dip At Port Here

Forty-three persons were boarded on planes and 47 deplaned during January by Pioneer Air Lines here, according to Jim Babcock, Pioneer station manager.

The total boarded last January numbered 50, while the 15-month average since Pioneer started here is 65. Last January 46 persons arrived here by plane. The average for the 15-month period is 55.6. The on-and-off total of 90 last month is far below the 15-month average of 121.4 or the 1954 average of 115.5.

During January, 135 pouches of air mail weighing 402 pounds were boarded, plus 24 pouches of first class mail weighing 1,069 pounds. Last year, the airmail boarded weighed 586 pounds in 272 pouches. Taken off planes last month were 80 pouches of airmail weighing 200 pounds and no first class mail. Last year, Pioneer took off 146 pouches and three parcels weighing 296 pounds here.

Only two pieces of air express parcels were boarded here last month with a total weight of 10 pounds, but last January there was no air express boarded. Taken off last month were 17 express parcels weighing 282 pounds, compared to nine parcels for 128 pounds the previous January.

Five pieces of air freight weighing 154 pounds were boarded last month, while the figure for the previous January was 11 pieces for 88 pounds. Taken off last month were 29 pieces weighing 1,412 pounds. In January, 1954, Pioneer took off 11 pieces of freight for 338 pounds.

The recorder, a flute-like instrument, is now being played by approximately 250,000 people.

County Court Fines Higher Than For '54

Fines and court costs paid in justice and county courts during January amounted to slightly more than half the total paid in these courts during December but were higher than during January of last year.

The total paid in both courts last month was $1,820, which was an increase of $146.25 over the total for January, 1954, but was a decrease of $1,514.50 from the total of $3,334.50 paid in December.

Justice court fines and costs in 59 cases totaled $973.50 last month, an increase of $106.75 over the total for a year earlier. The recent total lacked $1,243.50 matching the total paid in this court during December, which was $2,217.

County court collections in 15 criminal cases during January amounted to $846.50, an increase of $39.50 over the total for a year earlier. Last month's total in this court lacked $271 being as high as the December total.

The assessments in county court last month were $510 in fines and $378.50 in court costs, a total of $888.50, but jail credit at $3 a day in lieu of payment amounted to $42, leaving actual payments at a total of $846.50.

In justice court, fines accounted for $422.50 of last month's total, and the remaining $551 was the total of court costs. Cases in which defendants serve jail time in lieu of payment are not included in the tally, these usually being minor.

Text All Greek To Six-Year-Old Child

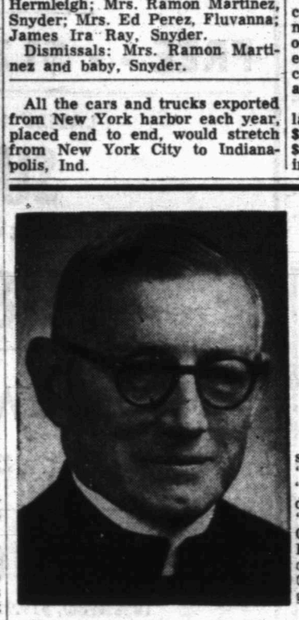

HOUSTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — The child's mother couldn't go to church recently.

"What was the pastor's text?" she asked her daughter, 6.

"I think it was, 'Don't be scared, you will get your quilts'," said the girl.

The mother was puzzled, asked the pastor. The text was:

Lab Workers Try To Induce Skin Cancer

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Laborary workers in various parts of the country are trying to produce skin cancer on themselves with tobacco tars. The idea is to help settle the controversy over whether smoking can cause lung cancer, a government health statistician said today.

Dr. Harold Dorn of the National Institutes of Health told of the experiments but added that chances of getting any significant results—one way or the other—are extremely remote for this reason.

Even if the tobacco tars are capable of producing human skin cancer—and there never has been evidence of this other than findings in animals—the amounts used in the experiments would probably take years to yield any such result. The natural lifetimes of the experimenters might run out before the results could be determined.

Therefore, he said, he "wouldn't expect very much to come out" of the tests.

Dorn said that of all cancers, skin cancer is the easiest to cure and therefore the studies are within humane bounds.

But he declared that even if such cancers were produced in volunteers, it would not be proof that tobacco tars could cause lung cancer, although it would be "suggestive evidence."

Dorn said that the location and sponsorship of the tests can not be disclosed at this time.

He declared he only mentioned them to illustrate his belief that final judgment concerning the possible effect of smoking tobacco on health must be based upon all possible observations in humans. Studies of animals "can not be decisive," though they are of value, he said.

Most of the evidence "'for an association between the use of tobacco and cancer of the lung" has been based on the retrospective type of study, declared Dr. Dorn, adding:

"The evidence is very suggestive, but I feel sure that most people would like something in addition. From the results of these retrospective studies to date, one is not able to measure well the magnitude of the danger, if, in fact, there is one."

Some Think The Rose Is Un-American

By JAMES B. SIBBISON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Is the rose un-American? Some people seem to think so.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) and Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio) have been getting some letters suggesting this.

The ladies last month asked Congress to pass a law making the rose the national flower.

But though the large bulk of the mailed reaction has been favorable, some dissenters say the rose is a poor choice, because:

(1) It is the British national flower, and (2) it comes from the Orient.

To a man in Greenbush, Miss., the proposal by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Bolton is "fraught with danger."

"For heaven's sake," he wrote, "let us choose an indigenous flower."

He suggested the goldenrod. In another letter, a woman in New Castle, Pa. insisted the goldenrod already is the national flower.

"How about the geranium?" inquired a woman in San Francisco. "Or perhaps the clematis? Both represent the American home, are familiar to all, and loved by rich and poor alike."

This same woman also objected that the American Beauty rose already is the emblem of the District of Columbia.

The wild rose, she said, is the state flower of New York, North Dakota and Iowa.

One of the strongest complaints came from a Massachusetts woman. She called the rose "the worst possible choice."

She wrote: "The rose is a tender hybrid that must be constantly pampered if it is to make satisfactory growth. That characteristic is not typical of our nation.

"I would suggest the laurel. It is native to every state in the Union. There is a star shape to the blossoms, and two of our national colors are found in its blossoms—red and white."

Even so, most of the votes from the country are favoring the rose.

One man in Mount Vernon, N.Y., sent Sen. Smith an unpublished song called "A Rose is a Song to Me." A woman in Fordyce, Ark., sent in a verse to the flower.

It's too early to tell whether a law will be passed.

There have been previous bills on national flowers—two on the American laurel, three on the dogwood, and one on the rose. All have died in committee.

Collections Of Taxes By City Top Estimate

During January a total of $53,627.94 in city taxes was collected to bring the total collections of the current tax collection period to $160,220.73, or slightly more than the budget estimate of $159,600.

Of last month's collections, $52,369.39 was current taxes, $1,088.55 was delinquent taxes, and $170 was penalty and interest on delinquent taxes.

Collections by months since current taxes became payable last Oct. 1, have been: October $50,227.16, November $25,140.27, De-$53,627.08.

When the budget for the current fiscal year was adopted, the estimate of total taxes available for budget purposes was set at $159,600, which was 90 per cent of the total assessment.

So far collection of current taxes has been short of the figure of $156,600 which the budget estimated would be collected. Actually there has been $156,235.52 collected in current taxes. But the collection of delinquent taxes and penalty and interest has exceeded the budgeted estimates. The estimated figure was $3,000, but actual collection of delinquent taxes, penalty and interest has totaled $3,575.09.

City taxes are deposited to two different accounts, with 69.48 per cent going into the general fund of the city, and 30.52 per cent going into the interest and sinking fund to pay on bonded indebtedness. By those percentages so far the general fund has received $111,404.18, and the interest and sinking fund has received $48,816.55.

WTCC Plans Water Parley

ABILENE, Feb. 5 — How legislative proposals of the Texas Water Resources Committee might affect West Texas will be discussed here February 11 by the Water Resources Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Frank Kelley of Colorado City, chairman of the WTCC committee, has called the meeting for 1:45 p.m. in the Windsor Hotel. Two subcommittees will meet during the morning to examine details of the major proposals.

Senator Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo, who heads the State committee, is expected to return from Tennessee in time to address the meeting here. Hardeman is to address a joint session of the Tennessee General Assembly on February 10.

Joe Carter, legal examiner of the State Board of Water Engineers, and Ed Felder, administrator of the State committee, will come from Austin to attend the meeting.

Proposals now before the Legislature which will be reviewed by the WTCC's committee include creation of a six-man water commission to replace the present three-man Board of Water Engineers, a constitutional amendment to provide for state financial assistance in construction of certain water conservation structures, and six other acts.
