Car Wreck Kills 6

KANKAKEE, Ill. (AP)—All six members of a family returning from a birthday party died in a four-car pileup Friday night north of here, state police said.

The car occupied by Dennis Allen of Bradley, his wife and their four children was struck from the rear and burst into flames, jamming the doors and trapping the entire family inside, according to the police. They were returning from a party for Allen's brother in Peotone.

NTSU Investigation

AUSTIN (AP)—State auditors will examine records turned over to a House investigating committee in a probe of alleged funds mishandling at North Texas State University, says Speaker Bill Clayton.

"We'll really have to have a auditor look at it before we can go much farther," Clayton said of a House General Investigating Committee probe.

The committee is looking into allegations that checks made out to the university were altered and deposited into accounts of the NTSU Education Foundation Inc.

Easter In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP)—Pilgrims held a Candlelight ceremony at dawn Saturday at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre's marble mausoleum, revered by Catholics as the tomb of Jesus.

READY FOR EASTER—Tiffany Greene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack K. Greene Jr., 2208 27th St., stands on the steps as her mother puts the finishing touch on her preparations for attending Easter services. Idi Amin Out...

New Regime For Ugandans

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—Ugandans rejoiced with drums and dancing as the new government was sworn in, spelling an end to eight years of Idi Amin and his notorious death and torture factory.

Tribal mucisians brought out the drums and began a dance punctuated with high-pitched cries as thousands of their countrymen and women waved banana fronds, and hugged and kissed each other in jubilation.

The tumult erupted after the Cabinet and Uganda's new president, Yussufu Lule, took the oath of office, asking citizens to "help me erase the traces of eight years of Idi Amin."

Lule and his ministers stood in the hot sun on the steps of the Parliament Building, where Chief Justice Sam Wambuzi administered the oath in his scarlet robes and a white wig, a reminder of Ugan-

SCURRY COUNTY AID—Aid from Scurry County to the tornado victims of the Wichita Falls area came in the form of three truckloads of food, bedding, and clothing which were collected by the Layne-Kite American Legion Post of Snyder and the Ira Lions Club. The trucks and trailers left Saturday morning. Indications at that time were that there would be enough merchandise for another run to the Wichita Falls area Monday. In addition to the goods collected for the tornado victims, accounts have been opened up at both the Snyder National Bank and West Texas State Bank. Contributions will be taken until the end of the month, said American Legion officials. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

The SDN Column

Despite countless examples of past performances, Americans--and especially its politicians--continually underestimate their own ingenuity. Usually, it requires an emergency situation before our scientists and technologists surge into action, or so it seems, and there always are doubters.

Take the energy situation, for example. A lot of people apparently do not believe that it exists. Others are certain that it has us clutched in deadly tentacles from which there is no recourse.

We have been accused of being too optimistic on many occasions, but we don't doubt for a minute that a solution will be found. It may not be the solution that many people are looking for, but there will be one, and if enough people believe that one is needed and the government can keep its sticky fingers out of the way, perhaps it will arrive sooner than we think possible.

West Texas has at least three sources of energy in great abundance, although two of them have scarcely been tapped. Oil and gas from beneath the Earth's surface have been used for many years, but sunshine and wind, of which we have a huge surplus, still go to waste.

So, it was with some interest that we read the other day that a new windmill is being developed to convert windpower to either electrical or mechanical energy. We would feel better about it if a non-government overseer were at the helm, but it still looks promising.

The U.S. Department of Energy is building a prototype that reportedly will stand 125 feet high, consisting of a 60-foot steel tower and three huge blades. It may be equipped with a generator or a gear box, depending on whether electric or mechanical power is desired. Called the "Giromill," the apparatus is expected to generate 40 kilowatts of electric power, or 53 mechanical horsepower.

This would be enough to provide electricity for 16 homes and it could provide power for deep well irrigation. You can imagine how much that would reduce an irrigation farmer's gas bill, which in turn could reduce the cost of growing a crop, and hopefully lead to lower prices of products on the retailers' shelves.

Meanwhile, we are optimistic enough to believe that when it beomes economically feasible, our scientists and technicians will coax a lot more crude oil out of some existing oil fields, including the huge Canyon Reef field here in Scurry County. It's bound to happen.

For Storms, Other Perils...

Local Warning System Always Ready For Use

Reports following devastating storms in North Texas and Southern Oklahoma the past week indicated that Wichita Falls residents were "warned" of an approaching tornado about 50 minutes before it plowed through a thickly-populated residential and business area.

If a storm should approach Snyder, how much warning time would we have?

That is a question that has been asked many times since the Wichita Falls and Vernon storms. Briefly, the answer is: "As soon as the National Weather Service detects the storm, or it is reported by observation from peace officers or other spotters."

George Patterson, Snyder City Manager who also serves as Civil Defense Director, said that information concerning severe weather is received from the National Weather Service in Abilene via police teletype. Once it is received, there is a rather sophisticated local system for getting the word out to the people.

Immediately after a tornado sighting is confirmed, the warning is relayed to KSNY Radio and television channels on Snyder Community Antenna Television are pre-empted. The TV cable pre-emption is achieved by used of the "yellow phone" in local Civil Defense headquarters at the Snyder Police Station. When the yellow phone is removed from its cradle, all regular channels on the cable system go blank. This is followed by a beeping sound to get the viewers' attention, and then a voice communication relays the emergency message, or weather warning. All channels are affected on the cable, except the two on the premium service (Fanfare and Channel 17) and equipment required to connect these to the warning system is due to be available in 30 to 60 days.

Meanwhile, the large sirens formerly used as fire alarms will be sounding a continuous blast in the event a tornado is detected approaching Snyder. The siren blasts are an indication that people should turn on their radios or television sets.

It is recommended that people maintain a battery-operated radio in their homes for use in case electric power is interrupted by weather conditions. The oral communication facilities have backup capability in case the regular power service is lost.

The TV cable warning system got a test Friday afternoon, and the entire Civil Defense organization here is reviewed and updated periodically, especially during the storm season.

A seminar for Civil Defense personnel has been scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday in the council room at city hall. At that time, Dave Harmon of the

Monday First Day To Cast Absentee Vote

Absentee voting will begin Monday in the runoff election to fill Place 1 on the Snyder School board.

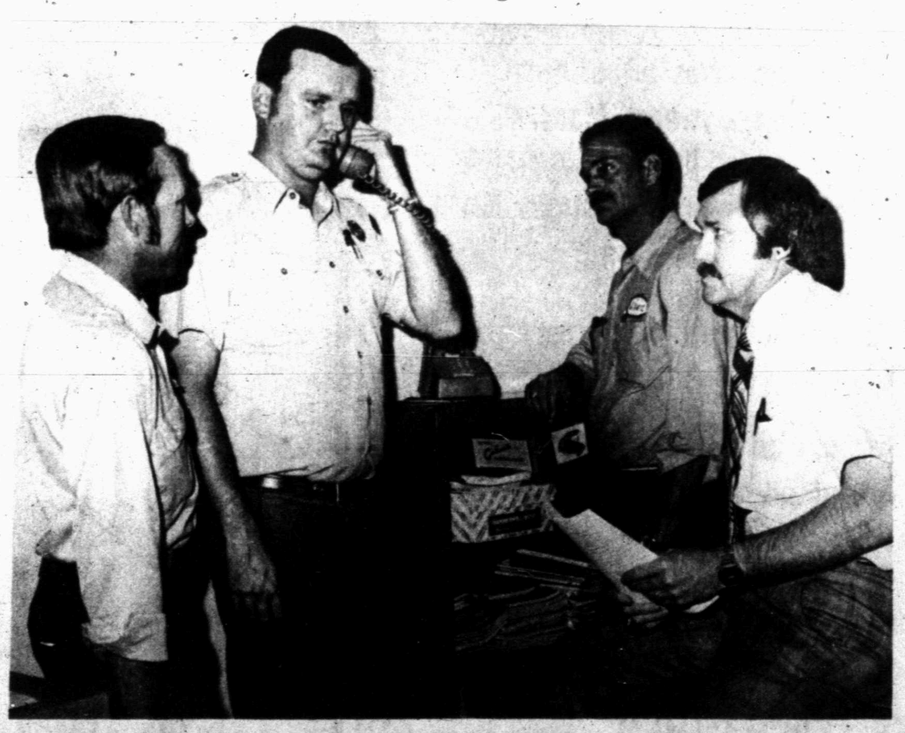

In the runoff are Vera McSpadden, incumbent, and Lillie Sullivan. The runoff election was set when no candidate received a majority of the vote in the April 7 election. Mrs. McSpadden received 369 votes and Mrs. Sullivan, a write-in candidate, received 300 votes.

Absentee voting will be in the school tax office and will continue through April 24. The election date is April 28.

Egg Hunt Planned By Optimists

The Snyder Optimist Club has invited area youngsters to participate in an Easter egg hunt this afternoon in Towle Park.

The hunt will begin at 2 p.m. at a site near the prairie dog town. There will be egg hunts for two groups--those three years old and under and those from four to seven years old.

Ask Us

Q--I had to go to the dog pound to reclaim my dog recently and was appalled at the ticks on my dog. Why don't they spray the pound for ticks, and why is the pound located at the city dump?

A--Since most of the dogs impounded are strays (only about 20 percent are reclaimed) many of them have ticks. The pound is sprayed for ticks periodically; in fact it was up for spraying the past week. City Manager George Patterson said the pound is maintained at the city landfill site because it is property owned by the city that is removed from residential and business areas and also there is supervision there. Efforts are made to maintain a humane pound---even an air conditioner was installed last year--so that dogs impounded will not suffer. Patterson said an outside runaround is under consideration in hopes that it will improve sanitary conditions.

Sixth Graders' Orientation Set

Snyder Public Schools have scheduled sixth grade-junior high orientation for the coming week.

The orientation is designed to prepare sixth graders for the next step on their educational ladder which will take them out of the elementary ranks and into junior high school.

Coordinating the orientation activities will be James Wesson, junior high counselor; Mrs. Bobbie Box and Mrs. Peggy Kennedy, elementary counselors.

Parents of the sixth grade students are invited to attend the orientation sessions. Wesson will visit the elementary schools to discuss the course of study in the first phase of orientation.

The sessions will be held in the various school auditoriums on the following schedule:

Monday, April 16, North Elementary at 9 a.m.; Northeast at 11 a.m.; Central at 1:15 p.m.

Tuesday, April 17, Stanfield at 9 a.m.; West at 11 a.m.; East at 1:30 p.m.

In the second phase of orientation, the elemen-

Execution Toll Rises In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Revolutionary firing squads executed five more of the shah's security men today, bringing the toll to 124 in the two months since the forces of Shiite Moslem leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini swept to power.

Government radio announced the latest trials and executions. It said the dead included Brig. Gen. Jahangir Esfandiori, the martial law administrator in western Iran, who was convicted in a 6½-hour trial of murder, torture and attacking mosques and banks. The others were a colonel, a lieutenant colonel, a major, and a police chief.

Khomeini's firing squads executed 10 men on Friday, including a general who had been in charge of political prisoners at Tehran's Qasr Prison and the chief of air force counter-intelligence.

Meanwhile, a Tehran newspaper today reported the kidnapping of two sons and a daughter-in-law of Ayatollah Mahmoud Taleghani, spiritual leader of Tehran's Shiite Moslem community.

The newspaper Ayandegan said the three were kidnapped near the ayatollah's home on Thursday and released Friday after lengthy negotiations. A revolutionary committee official confirmed the report in a telephone interview. Taleghani was unavailable for comment.

There was no immediate explanation for the kidnapping, but some sources speculated it stemmed from a private feud.

According to the newspaper, Taleghani's relatives were beaten by their captors during their overnight detention at army barracks.

It was not known if he kidnappers were captured.

SCHEDULING CLASSES—The Rev. Vernon Parnell, left, and M.W. Pilcher will direct two Defensive Driving courses scheduled at the Senior Citizens Center on May 7-8 and May 14-15. The courses are sponsored by the local American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers' Association.

Driving Classes At Senior Center

Chapter 2063 of the American Association of Retired Persons and the Snyder National Retired Teachers Association are co-sponsoring two Defensive Driving courses to be offered at the Senior Citizens Center.

The first course will have classes on May 7 and 8, with the second set of classes to meet on May 14 and 15. Classes will be from 9-11 a.m. and 1:30-3:30 each day. Persons enrolled for Defensive Driving must complete the eight hours of instruction to qualify for certificates which entitle them to discounts on several types of automobile insurance for a period of three years.

The instructor will be the Rev. Vernon Parnell, a National Safety Council certified instructor. He will be assisted by M.W. Pilcher.

Defensive Driving offers pointers in preventing accidents in spite of the incorrect actions of others and adverse driving conditions, Rev. Parnell said. Films and other visual aids will be used to demonstrate how older drivers can improve their driving skills. Each student will be supplied with a workbook and the Texas Drivers' Handbook provided by the sponsoring organizations.

Registration information can be obtained by calling Rev. Parnell at 573-2738.

Baffles Even Lawyers...

Blue Law Confusing

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP)—What? You forgot to buy the Easter baskets for the kids?

Oh no, you won't dash out and get them today.

That's against the Texas Blue Law.

But all is not lost. You can buy the candy eggs and a paper cup to put them in.

The Blue Law is a confusing, controversial issue that lists certain things you can't sell on the two consecutive days of Saturday and Sunday. If a retailer has these items available for purchase Saturday, then it's taboo on Sunday.

You can buy a screw driver on Sunday, but no screws; a can of beans, but no can opener; a six-pack of beer and a package of smokes, but no diapers nor crayons.

Officials of one of the state's major grocery chains Kroger admitted they didn't know their ash trays from eggplants about the law and asked for assistance from district attorneys in 31 counties.

They received replies from 10.

And the answers indicated the district attorneys really didn't know their writs from warrants about the Blue Law.

One district attorney wrote, "I can imagine that it is very difficult for store personnel to make a determination as to the specific items that may or may not be sold on consecutive Saturdays and Sunday, but I am not in a position to be able to interpret the Texas law.

Another replied, "the Texas Blue Law is indeed a difficult law to interpret and I am sure you are aware that various interpretations of that law are handed down by the courts on a daily basis."

And another, "Your legal counsel should render his opinion as to which items can be sold on both Saturdays and Sundays.

And another, "This office certainly appreciates the dilemma that you have in following the Blue Law. However, we are prohibited by law from issuing private opinions."

Then this one, "I certainly appreciate the problem you have in that many times our laws are vague as to one thing or another but at this time I am unable to help you."

Lawrence M.Turner, regional manager of public affairs for the grocery chain, also sent along a list of 27 items asking the district attorneys to mark "yes" or "no" if the merchandise could be sold.

Those answering could only agree on six items--can openers no, drinking cups yes, paper plates yes, motor oil yes, stainless flatware no, and barbecue grills no.

On the other 21 items it depends on where you live.

Half of those answering said it was all right to buy brooms and mops on Sunday, the other half said "nope."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Mixing business and pleasure could cause you some problems today. Either do one or the other, but don't attempt both at once.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be a good team player today. Strive to hold up your end. If your partner thinks he or she is carrying the full burden, that party will be aggravated.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Attend to your duties promptly today because; as time ticks on, your ambitions tend to wane. Unfinished tasks will cause you later headaches.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There is a strong possiblity you could get stuck with the tab today, if you don't spell things out in advance as to who is supposed to pay what.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Things which you do not personally inaugurate today are not likely to get your full support. Be cooperative, not a party pooper.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's important to have faith in your ideas today, because they may be challenged. You might not have the fortitude to stand up to others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Where your material affairs are concerned today, you're likely to experience some ups and downs. Losses could offset gains.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Challenging situations do not bring out the best in you today. Even though you're capable of overcoming obstacles, you may not put forth too much effort.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is a chance that you could place a little too much importance on getting approval today. Be honest and speak your mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In matters affecting you financially you'd be wise to keep outsiders out of your affairs today. Someone could foul things up.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Major goals are reachable today if you act. Associates may not be in harmony with your aims and could cause you to drag your feet.

Your Birthday

April 16, 1979

This coming year luck is going to play an active role in helping you get things started. This gives you a change in your attitude which will have a pleasant effect on your outlook toward life.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) What you leave unsaid today may serve you better than what you say. Keep your thoughts to yourself and let others have the floor. Find out more about yourself by sending for your new Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others will go out of their way to give you what they can today, either in service or in pay, just for the asking. Show your appreciation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Compromise is a very effective tool for you today. It will surprise you how much can be gained if you give up a little.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Deal in creative ideas today and watch how fortunate they can be for you, whether you are working in the home or at the office.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone is saying some nice things about you that will produce an extremely beneficial outcome. You may not hear what's said, but you'll feel the results.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Listen to what is being said or advised today and be willing to make changes. There's a strong possibility something very rewarding will come from it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A big hope can be realized today because you know how to take an idea and turn it into something others want and need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Things brighten for you today materially and, strangely enough, your good fortune might come from one you know socially.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're luckier today for all if you run the show. Get up front and tell those with whom you are dealing what you have in mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Though you may stay in the background today, you're very much in the middle of exciting happenings which will have beneficial effects on your high hopes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Group endeavors always bring you happiness, but today there's something special that will come out of activity involving a large organization.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You should experience success and joy today, both with your social contacts and your ambitions. All the pieces are coming together.

Two WTC Journalists Win Awards

EL PASO—Soyla Santos of Western Texas College received a second place award, and Troy Lilly of WTC received a third place award in Texas Intercollegiate Press Association contests.

Results of the judging were announced Saturday at the organization's spring convention hosted by the University of Texas at El Paso.

Soyla placed second in the contest for sports series in the newspaper Division II, while Lilly had a third place essay in the literary magazine Division II contest. College and university journalists from across the state attended the convention. The contests were judged by professionals from across the state.

In newspaper competition, the University of Texas won the Division I sweepstakes, while the Tarrant County Junior College South Campus won the Division II sweepstakes.

In the yearbook category, University of Texas at Arlington and Hardin-Simmons University were sweepstakes winners, while Lamar University and Amarillo College won general magazine sweepstakes and North Lake College of Irving won the literary magazine sweepstakes.

The first performance of Gounod's opera "Faust" was given in Paris in 1859.

Christmas Means Nothing Without Easter

Of all the world's major religions—from Taoism to Animism, Islamic to Confuscinistic, cults to Christianity—only one offers the forgiveness of sin through a resurrected Savior.

Many religions promise hope for the hereafter, and some have prophets or gods believed to be divine, but only one can point to a Redeemer who reappeared alive after having been dead and buried.

Only Christianity worships One who knew physical life, endured temptation without sin, suffered death for mankind, and arose the third day in fulfillment of the promises of prophesy.

It is this—the Resurrection—which distinguishes Jesus Christ as the true Messiah, the Savior of believers everywhere. Many religions can celebrate the birth of their leader, but only Christians can celebrate the resurrection. Many have a form of Christmas, but only Christianity has Easter.

The Savior had to both die and rise again to give us eternal life. Christmas without Easter will not suffice.

This Sunday, be sure and be a part of a great gathering of believers who will assemble at churches around the world to worship a resurrected Lord.

And include Sunday School in your Easter plans.

Activities Director Is Named For Sr. Center

Mrs. Jane Heath has joined the staff of the Scurry County Senior Citizens Center as activities director, Mrs. Gloria Shaw, Center director, has announced. A get-acquainted tea honoring Mrs. Heath has been planned from 3-5 p.m. Tuesday in the Center.

Mrs. Heath has lived in Snyder for about a year, coming here from Mobile, Ala. Her husband, Larry, is a warehouse and packaging supervisor for Northern Electric. They have one daughter, Missy, a second grader at West Elementary.

JANE HEATH

Although her employment will not be official until Monday, Mrs. Heath has been visiting the Senior Center to get acquainted with the "regulars" there and the activities.

"Each time I visit the center I get more eager to start my job," Mrs. Heath says enthusiastically. "The people are friendly and bubbling with ideas! The center itself is beautiful and we will use all the facilities as we plan more activities."

Mrs. Heath invites Senior Citizens to let her know about activities they would like at the Center. She hopes to begin a ceramics class soon, and will begin enrolling members of that class shortly.

One of Mrs. Heath's own hobbies is calligraphy, the art of producing elegant handwriting, and she also enjoys other arts and crafts. Her husband prefers outdoor activities, she says, especially fishing and hunting.

Mrs. Heath has been employed as a legal secretary in the past, and is current president of the Snyder Newcomers Club.

"We welcome Jane to the Senior Center staff and are looking forward to working with her," Mrs. Shaw said.

Others on the center staff are Mrs. Jean Smith, secretary, and Mrs. Doris Byars, who prepares the food for the noon meal each day. Volunteer workers perform many tasks which must be done to keep the center operating.

The Senior Center is sponsored by Western Texas College and was housed on the WTC campus until its new quarters were completed early this year. Since the center has moved to its new location, attendance has increased and the center is serving an average of 110 meals per day. All men and women 60 years of age or older are invited to visit the center and participate in the activities there.

Dear Abby

Adultery: Eight-Letter Word That Means Sordid

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Is adultery always wrong? I have a married friend I'll call Jim who has a girlfriend I'll call Joyce. When Jim and Joyce are together it is obvious that they are madly in love.

Jim was trapped into marriage by a girl who got herself pregnant so Jim would have to marry her.

A few years ago, when Jim fell in love with Joyce, he was all set to leave his wife and marry Joyce, but his wife deliberately got herself pregnant, and Jim was trapped again.

The only reason Jim is staying with his wife is because of his two children. Joyce understands the situation and accepts it, so she doesn't pressure Jim for a divorce.

Jim's wife knows nothing about Joyce, so she's not getting hurt by his affair.

So what's wrong with Jim grabbing whatever happiness he can? Isn't this affair better than breaking up a family?

A FRIEND OF BOTH

DEAR FRIEND: Even if Jim and Joyce were never caught in this adulterous affair it would still be wrong. When a man really loves a woman he wants her by his side publicly instead of sneaking around back alleys. Divorce is legal, respectable and dignified. Adultery is cheap, shoddy and deceitful.

And as for Jim's wife "deliberately getting herself pregnant" . . . that's not possible. She had to have Jim's deliberate cooperation.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 16-year-old girl who was grounded for three weeks. I couldn't even have my friends over. I was very, very angry, but my parents really did me a favor, and I'd like to tell other kids about it, and maybe it will help them.

The first week I was really mad. I wouldn't speak to my parents. The nicer they were to me, the nastier I was—slamming doors, turning the radio way up just to bug them, etc.

Then I had a talk with my favorite teacher. She advised me to use the time constructively, so I cleaned my room from top to bottom—rearranged all my clothes and sorted them out. I gave the stuff I'd outgrown to the Goodwill, sewed on buttons that had been off a long time, etc.

I got way ahead in my history, science and English. I also read two good books and caught up on letter writing I'd put off for a long time.

I was still mad at my parents when I was around them, but inside I felt a lot better about myself.

Hope you think it's worth passing along.

UNGROUNDED AT LAST

DEAR UNGROUNDED: You bet it's worth passing along. You didn't say why you were grounded, but I'll bet you'll never do it again.

DEAR ABBY: I cheated a little on my income tax and haven't been able to sleep very well lately. Any suggestions?

TOSSING AND TURNING

DEAR T and T: Yes. Send the IRS $500. And if you still can't sleep, send them the balance.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Bank To Expand Loans For Oil

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the world's energy crisis intensifying, the World Bank, a United Nations' financial agency, will expand its assistance for oil and natural-gas production in the developing countries.

Bank officials said some 60 countries could benefit in the early 1980's from an accelerated program of exploration and development for oil, natural gas and coal.

The program will give priority to countries that depend heavily on imported oil and have the greatest need for technical assistance.

Colonial Hill Sets Special Services

Dr. S. M. Lockridge, internationally-known Baptist minister of San Diego, Calif., will be the visiting evangelist for services in "Four Nights of Faith" at Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

John Burke of First Baptist Church in Brownfield will direct music for the series of meetings.

Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. each night, Monday through Thursday of this week.

DR. LOCKRIDGE

A native of Texas, Dr. Lockridge is a graduate of Bishop College and of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. He has been pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in San Diego for 27 years, and also has served as moderator of the Progressive Baptist District Association of Southern California, as president of the California Baptist State Convention and as vice president of the National Baptist Convention of America.

In constant demand as a speaker and revivalist, Dr. Lockridge has conducted a number of spiritual life conferences at military bases throughout the world. He has been a guest speaker at 28 colleges and universities and has participated in nine crusades with Dr. Billy Graham.

Dr. Lockridge participated in the International Congress on World Evangelism in Lausanne, Switzerland, in 1974. He was guest speaker at the Texas Evangelism Conference in Fort Worth in 1978 and has appeared on numerous radio and television programs such as Dr. Jerry Falwell's "Old Time Gospel Hour" in Lynchburg, Va., and Lester Roloff's radio program in Corpus Christi.

The public is invited to all services during Dr. Lockridge's visit at Colonial Hill, said the Rev. Miller F. Robinson, pastor.

Davis Trial Headed Back To Ft. Worth

HOUSTON (AP)—The murder-for hire trial of Cullen Davis is headed back to Fort Worth, the place of its birth, sent there by a frustrated state district judge in Houston tired of hassling with it.

Despite prosecution objections, District Judge Wallace "Pete" Moore returned the case Thursday to the Tarrant County presiding judge, who will have the jurisdiction to try it or move it somewhere else.

Moore had tried to grant the defense request to move the case out of Harris County due to the large amount of publicity received by the first three-month trial, which ended in January with the jury deadlocked at 8-4 for conviction.

Davis was being tried for hiring someone to kill the judge presiding over his divorce trial.

THE LIFE OF an aspiring actor can be so exhausting — as this cat knows after auditioning for the role of "Uncle Elizabeth" in the new musical version of "I Remember Mama." The human star of the show will be Liv Ullmann.

Emaciated Prisoners Tell Of Amins Regime

KAMPALA, Uganda AP - The story of Idi Amin's regime is told at the headquarters of his State Research Bureua, where invading soldiers found a handful of emaciated prisoners who had survived over a month by gnawing at the corpses around them.

The pink-stucco, three-story building stands adjacent to Amin's lodge on Nakasero Hill, an area of flowering trees, stately buildings and tranquil streets.

Today, more than three days after the Tanzanians occupied Kampala, a stench of decaying corpses and sewage permeated the building still.

When the Tanzanians reached the building Wednesday morning, a dozen rotting bodies were sprawled outside, badly mutilated. In a blood-caked drain gutter, the grotesquely swollen bodies of five men and a boy were still there today.

The gutter was the last place prisoners stood before they were shot. The next prisoner in line would remove the body in front and wait for his end. The blood poured neatly down the drain.

In one dungeon cell, the soldiers found 15 or 20 bodies. "We also found four or five people still alive in the basement," said John Opeto, a Ugandan platoon commander who came in with the Tanzanians.

"They could walk, but they couldn't talk. They just wandered off."

One was an old woman, and soldiers said the prisoners had survived by cannibalizing the corpses.

When the Tanzanians invaders drew near, people say agents began bringing out about 200 bodies a day, chained and wired together by the neck, presumably for disposal elsewhere.

Residents in the neighborhood also knew when the agents began burning records. The color and smell of the smoke changed, they said, from the smoke of burning flesh. The last of the bureau men left by noon Tuesday, the day before the Tanzanians arrived.

One door in the dungeon the Tanzanians were unable to break down. They were told it led to Amin's neighboring residence.

The Nakasero headquarters was only one of many such buildings and prisons across Uganda where agents of the State Research Bureau - 2,000-3,000 men who favored flowered shirts and mirrored sunglasses - detained, tortured and killed to keep Amin in power.

No one will ever know how many people disappeared. Estimates of those killed in the course of Amin's eight years in power range from 90,000 to 300,000, and stories are legion about tribal genocides, corpses fed to crocodiles, and families being slain for daring to enquire about the fate of missing relatives.

The State Research Bureau extended everywhere. Its agents came from all tribes and spied on every level, from the lowly district commissioner to ranking diplomats and ministers.

da's British colonial days.

"You have a legal government in office and Amin is now the rebel," Lule declared, as Tanzanian commandos scoured the north and east in search of the ousted president.

Lule, wearing a blue safari suit, called on Amin's forces to surrender and declared, "They have nothing to fight for."

The loudest tumult erupted when Lule asked the crowd to give three cheers for Tanzanian President Julius Hyerere, who sent his army in to depose Amin after Amin's forces invaded Tanzania in October.

"I emphasize that we will not be your masters but your servants. We shall need your support, cooperation and prayers," Lule said.

Lule also appealed to Ugandans to stop looting, but most buildings in the center of Kamapala, had broken windows, smashed by civilians seeking revenge for eight years of misery under Amin.

When Lule walked down Parliament's steps, women began dancing in ecstasy, and Col. Tito Okello, who led the Tanzanian and Ugandan exile force, was hoisted aloft by the crowd.

Lule's government has said Amin will be tried for murder and treason if caught and the state radio said he "deserves the gallows" for thousands of killings since ousting President Milton Obote in 1971.

Much of the killing was done at the headquarters of his "State Research Bureau," where the Tanzanians found a handful of emaciated prisoners who survived over a month by gnawing corpses around them.

tary counselors will work with students and parents in scheduling courses for next fall. Parents who wish to visit with the counselors and children during this activity should contact their children's school for an appointment prior to the scheduled time.

The individual meetings will be held as follows:

April 18, Northeast and North.

April 19, East and Central.

April 20, West and Stanfield.

In the third phase, the sixth grade students will be given a guided tour of the junior high school to become acquainted with the various activity and instructional programs in the building.

WTC Editor Wins TIPA Scholarship

EL PASO—Rocky Dean Alexander, editor of the Western Texas College student newspaper, Friday was awarded a $400 scholarship by the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association at the Spring Conference in El Paso.

Alexander is one of two students granted scholarships for the first time by the association. The senior college division recipient is Patricia Hammond, junior at Southwest Texas State University.

Alexander was editor of "Powwow" at San Angelo Lake View High School before entering Western Texas College. He helped organize the college's first press club and was elected president. He is a member of Phi Theta Kappa honorary fraternity, was on the 1978 spring dean's list, and was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges for 1978-79.

He has received awards for writing and advertising achievements from the Rocky Mountain Press Association, Texas Junior College Press Association, and TIPA.

The two new scholarships were named in honor of Frank W. Buckley, member of the Southwest Texas State University mass communications faculty and a long-time director of the TIPA central office at San Marcos. Dr. Buckley has had an extensive career as both a newspaperman and as an educator.

The convention, hosted by the University of Texas at El Paso, continued through Saturday noon when awards were announced.

No Uranium In Reactor Core

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)-Preliminary tests on samples taken from Three Mile Island's nuclear plant indicate little or no uranium melted in the reactor core, federal officials say.

Samples were drawn from the plant's primary cooling system and tested for uranium deposits, which would provide clues on how badly the core was damaged in the March 28 accident.

Warning System

National Weather Service station in Abilene will show a film and present other information concerning spring storms.

However, the local Civil Defense organization is actually concerned with three types of perils which might be faced by the community. It is trained to respond in case a truck or train transporting dangerous cargo should be wrecked in the area, and to issue warnings and handle emergency situations in case of a flood.

The flood warning system developed here following the great flood of Aug. 13, 1972, has been tested a time or two. It involves reports of possible flood-danger from the National Weather Service, followed up by actual rainfall reports from strategic locations in the county. The data thus acquired, when applied to known factors, such as runoff rates, soil absorption, etc., enables City Engineer Jim Dower to make a close estimate on the ultimate crest on Deep Creek in Snyder.

On a test during a rain last year, the calculation proved to be exceptionally accurate. Dower was able to predict several hours in advance almost precisely how high the water would rise on Deep Creek at the gauge adjacent to the police station.

Patterson reminded that words with significantly different meanings are used in relaying storm information. The word "watch" is used when atmospheric conditions are suitable for the formation of tornadoes. The word "warning" means that a tornado has actually been sighted.

As for precautions when a tornado occurs, the best place to go is a storm cellar, or a basement. If neither is available, you should get indoors and if possible get in a room near the center of the building or house, preferrably a place that doesn't have an outside exposure, such as a closet or bathroom. It may help also to open a few windows on the side of the house away from the approaching storm.

Sugar Sub Saves Pounds Says Study

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans would consume more than 1.2 trillion extra calories each year if they did not have a sugar substitute to fall back on, according to a study conducted by the Calorie Control Council.

This would mean an additional 27,400 calories or nearly eight pounds a year for each of the 44 million consumers of saccharin aged 13 and over, reported the council, an association of manufacturers and suppliers of dietary food and beverages.

Ector's The Pick In Contemplating Girls' Regionals

by Bill McClellan

ODESSA ECTOR is the choice, friends, to capture the girls' team title at this year's Regional track and field meet April 21 in Odessa.

Snyder? The Tigers will finish around eleventh. Disheartening maybe, but that's no slam against the local Felines. They're just too few in number to compete with the likes of Ector, Borger, Vernon, Canyon and others.

You're probably wondering by now how these thoughts were formulated, right? Well, contrary to those who prefer the shiny penny approach, ours was arrived by more scientific means; brand new dice, an eye patch and a pair of glasses. A Ouija board was utilized in tight spots.

While fielding teams for all three relays, Ector also enters the competition with nine individuals in six events. The Eagles are probably the most balanced track-field school to attend the meet.

Now, our special point system reads like this for the top teams: 1. Ector, 60; 2. Borger, 43; 3. Vernon, 41; 4. Canyon, 40½; 5. (tie) Wichita Falls Hirschi and Graham, 25; 7. San Angelo Lake View, 21; 8. Lubbock Estacado, 17¾; 9. (tie) Burkburnett and Monahans, 16; 11. Snyder, 12.

FRANKLY, FRIENDS, it won't come out just that way. While our figures agree that Ector will win the thing, we personally feel that Canyon is the logical second choice.

Canyon sends three relays and eight people in seven events, while Borger and Vernon sends two relays and less people in less events.

Now our statistics tell us that Borger will finish higher in its fewer events than Canyon. That's probably right, providing everything goes smoothly. But it almost always doesn't. And that, we feel, gives Canyon the edge. Mistakes will be more costly to Borger and Vernon.

But we'll follow Canyon with Borger, and put Vernon in fourth place. Graham and Hirschi are rated equal according to our figures, but in this case, Graham's individual event possibilities are greater.

At No. 7, we come to the darkhorse of the meet. That's not to say the Lake View Maidens may upset Ector. While possible, the chances are extremely doubtful.

HOWEVER, THE Maidens are a strong seventh, and could move up to fifth or higher with some better than average showings.

The real problem - and it is Snyder's biggest this season also - is the relay teams. While among the fastest in this area, Lake View is running far too slow to compete on the regional level.

Borger, for instance, NORMALLY runs 13-14 seconds faster in the 1600 meter relay, while teams like Ector and Canyon NORMALLY run 4-5 seconds quicker in the 800 meter relay.

The Maidens bring two relay teams and nine individuals in eight events. That's the largest number of individuals (tied with Ector) in the largest number of events. Despite that, Lake View will have to run and jump out of it's socks to get above seventh Saturday.

Estacado, Monahans and Burkburnett fall in the next three places, and no one will care how you pick 'em as it's together.

SNYDER'S NEXT and that's 11th place. The Tigers could do better, but like Lake View the relay teams - and Snyder qualified three - will have to do better than ever before.

The Felines' best threats look to be in the individual events (two). Sarah Fagin has run a 10.96 in the 80-yard hurdles, and that's second-best in regionals. According to district meet times (not necessarily an individual's best), seven of the eight 80-yard hurdle qualifiers ran within one second of each other. Lisa Manley of Graham led the pack with a 10.93, and Sara Bedford of Monahans was eighth with an 11.6.

Talk to Snyder's Pam Brown about narrow finishes. In her event, the 100-yard dash, all eight qualifiers turned in times of 11.2 to 11.7. That's close!

Finally, it should be noted that we figure Sweetwater in 14th place and Brownfield in 15th. Brownfield has five individuals in five events. Sweetwater has three in three, but one of those is Tina Lopez and in our mind, that's worth more weight.

Lopez currently leads the rest of the regional pack by five full seconds in the 800 meters. But that's a different story...

Bowie Announces New Rule

NEW YORK - Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced that a new rule govering rain-outs would be delayed for one year.

The rule called for suspension of rain-interrupted games under certain conditions. The remaining innings would then be played at a later date.

Golf Camp At WTC Set June 17-23

Western Texas College will host a golf camp for boys from 11-18 years of age June 17-23, Bob O'Day, WTC golf coach, has announced.

Instruction at the camp will feature personalized teaching, with emphasis on fundamental and advanced techniques. There will be individual and group instruction and campers will have the use of the 9-hole course on WTC campus and the driving range and putting green.

On the staff with O'Day will be Don Bryant, the professional at the Snyder Country Club and a Class A PGA; Bruce Hooper, the WTC campus and the driving range and putting green.

For the National Golf Foundation; Keith McCutchen, golf coach at San Angelo Central High School; Jerry Fairley, golf coach at Lubbock High School; Dub Warden, golf coach at Andrews High School and Bob Young, golf coach at Midland High School. Members of the WTC golf squad will serve as counselors.

Fee for the camp will be $180, which includes instruction, meals, lodging and recreational activities. The camp will be limited to the first 164 applicants. Reservations may be sent to O'Day at WTC, and a deposit of $80 must accompany each reservation. Persons wishing further information may call O'Day at AC 915-573-9291 or Don Bryant at AC 915 573-7101.

Softball Registration

Girls ages 8-19 may sign up for Snyder Girls Softball from 4 until 6:30 April 16-17 here.

Registration will be held at the Towle Park Barn, and first first-timers, a parent and birth certificate are required. Registration fee is $8.

Tryouts to determine team allotment will be announced at a later date.

Westerners Pull Within One Point

HOBBS, N.M.—Western Texas shot a one-over par 289 to finish second behind host Hobbs, N.M. at the fifth conference golf tournament here Friday.

The performance was good enough to put Coach Bob O'Day's Westerners one point away from first place with a single conference tournament left to be played.

"It was a good tournament for us," O'Day commented. "We needed to finish ahead of Odessa and Midland and we did. It will be a real dog-fight next Saturday."

The meet's outcome left New Mexico Military Institute in fifth with 8 and Frank Phillips is sixth with 7.

In the point system utilized (six points for first place, five for second, etc.), Western Texas College needs to finish ahead of NMJC and Odessa in the final tournament to grab at least a co-championship in the conference.

That meet, fortunately for WTC, will be held in Snyder at the college course on Saturday.

Tournament scores here Friday showed NMJC winning with a four-under par 284, followed by WTC's 289, Odessa College with a 292, Midland College with a 299, Frank Phillips with a 308 and NMMI with a 318.

Individual for WTC, Don Cofer carded a 71, Ken Lawrence was even-par with a 72, Britt Lindsey and Billy Sitton came up with 73's, and Mike Waller had a 75. Playipg as an individual, Scotty Barrett carded a 77.

Medalist for the tournament was NMJC player Mark Polites, who shot a 67.

Teams Will Try Again

BROWNFIELD—Throw it around one more time, boys, and we'll try it again.

Snyder High School and the Brownfield Cubs are slated for make-up action here Monday in an important District 3-3A baseball tilt. The pair met here Thursday, but dust, whisked around by 35-40 mile an hour winds, forced the game to be postponed after one inning.

The Snyder Tigers go into the contest with a loop-leading 3-0 record. Brownfield is 2-1. Lamesa, the only other competitor in 3-3A baseball, is 0-3.

Coach Albert Lewis' Cats could secure a tie for the first round of loop play with a victory over the Cubs Monday. The win would give them a 4-0 record with two games remaining, and leave Brownfield at 2-2 and no better than a possible 4-2 for the round.

Should that happen, Snyder could grab the title outright on Tuesday when it plays host to Lamesa at 4 p.m.

Sid Everton, 5-2 and with the lowest ERA in the conference, will mount the mound for Snyder on Monday. Roy Lee Tealer will open for the Cubs. Both got off one inning here last Thursday, but the make-up game will be held in its entirety.

Rose Wins One Round In Court

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Hamilton County Juvenile Court judge has dismissed a paternity claim against baseball star Pete Rose, but the case will be pursued in Florida, attorneys say.

Judge David E. Grossmann dismissed the suit in Cincinnati Friday at the request of Cincinnati attorney Ed Benson, who represented Terryl Rubio of Tampa, Fla.

Rubio, 25, alleged in lawsuits filed in Ohio and Florida that Rose is the father of her 1-year-old daughter, Morgan. The suits asked that Rose be ordered to pay hospital and other costs related to the child's birth and make support payments.

Five big golf tournaments were scheduled for the state of Ohio in 1979, including the U.S. Open and the U.S. Amateur.

BUCKLES ON DISPLAY—A total of 12 belt buckles will be awarded at the Western Texas College Rodeo April 26-28. The buckles go on display Monday at Bar-H-Bar Western Wear in the College Heights Shopping Center. The National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association Rodeo will be held at the rodeo grounds on West 30th Street. The buckles will be awarded in the following events: saddle bronc, bareback bronc, bull riding, calf roping, team roping (two buckles) and steer wrestling. In the women's events buckles will be awarded in barrel racing, goat tying and breakaway roping. The Best All Around cowboy and Cow Girl will also receive a buckle. (SDN Staff Photo)

But How Long Will It Last?...

Chances Favor Return For Special Session

AUSTIN (AP)—Legislators probably will return for a special session this summer, but the big question is how long it will last, says Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin.

Gov. Bill Clements would be waging an uphill battle to call legislators into special session over something they overwhelmingly oppose, he said.

"If the Legislature, by a large margin, favors any given approach on a measure, there's a good possibility that a sine die resolution will be signed before it (the special session) gets underway," Doggett said on remarks taped for Sunday's State Capitol Dateline radio program.

A sine die resolution signals final adjournment of the Legislature until it is called back into either a special or regular session.

Gov. Bill Clements has emphasized he would not hesitate to summon legislators back to work if they fail to pass an initiative and referendum proposal.

"I'll be ready to go," Doggett said. "There is a good chance we'll be back here discussing appropriations with Gov. Clements in the summer months."

The youngest senator also predicted more Senate filibusters against what he called "an endless supply of incredibly bad bills" by Sen. Bill Meier, D-Euless.

Doggett led delaying tactics against Meier's proposed change in the Consumer Protection Act and against a bill allowing auto dealers to charge car buyers $35 for paperwork.

A sure filibuster target is the proposed split presidential primary.

"Our little discussion on the Consumer Protection Act will be a dwarf compared to the extended debate we'll have on the presidential primary bill," Doggett said.

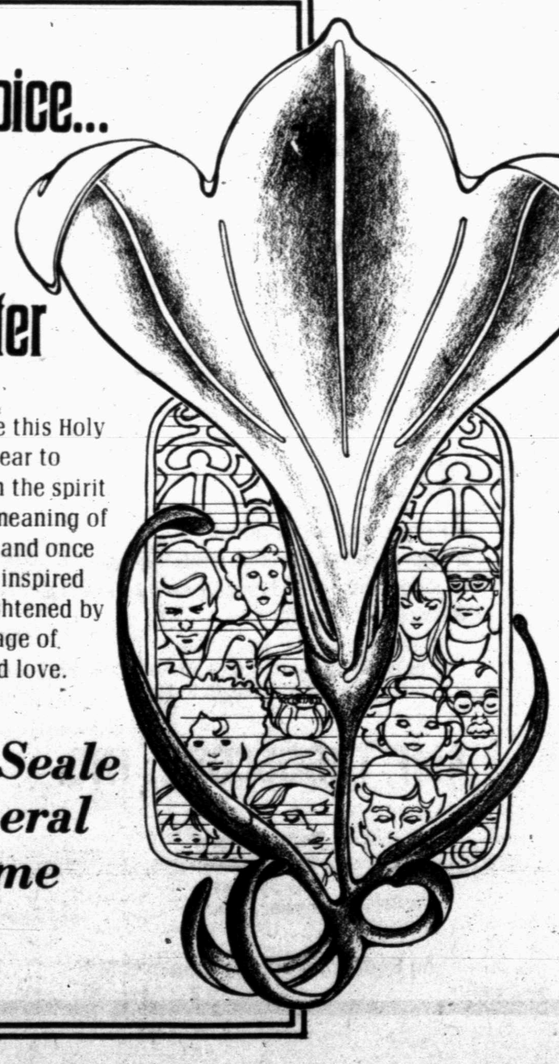

Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, is sponsoring a bill to hold a March presidential primary separate from May party primary elections. Doggett and other opponents claim the plan would favor former Texas Gov. John Connally in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

Conservative Democrats could vote for Connally and then vote for incumbent Democratic legislators several months later.

Thousands Flee Fury Of Volcano

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent (AP)—Thousands are fleeing the fury of Soufriere volcano which came to life without warning, belching rock, ahses and smoke into the Carribean sky.

Authorities on this British island in the Windward chain were evacuating about 17,000 persons from a 10-mile ring around the volcano at the sparsely-populated northern tip of the island. The 4,048-foot volcano began belching towering steam and sulphuric smoke shortly before dawn Friday.

There was no mention of casualties in radio reports from St. Vincent, but U.S. officials in Washington said they had been informed of two infants killed and other refugees suffering slight injuries.

Fleeing residents, clutching whatever possessions they could carry, clogged the main east coast highway, but there were reports the road had been blocked by boulders spewed from the mouth of the volcano. The evacuees were being lodged in schools and other public buildings.

This was a "definite eruption," said Premier Milton Cato. He said jets of steam were spouting 20,000 feet into the air and described the leeward approach to Soufriere as "ominous." Cato said steam also was seeping from the ground near Chateaubelair Island, on the northeast coast of St. Vincent.

Bangladesh Invests In Sanitation

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP)—More than $2 million is being invested this year by Bangladesh in environmental programs to provide vetter sanitation and prevent water pollution.

Experts and additional funding are being provided by the United Nations' Environment Program.

The officers and directors of the Keeneland race track in Kentucy serve without pay.

SCREENING PROGRAM READIED—There will be a screening program Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Humble Smith School for children aged 3-5 whose parents suspect may have learning disabilities. The special education program at Humble Smith is coordinated by Roger McCulley. Above, Reba Erwin, school nurse, administers an auditory test to a student at Northeast Elementary. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Goiter Control Urged By Groups

NEW YORK (AP)—Three international organizations - the World Food Council, the United Nations' Children's Fund and the World Health Organization - have urged 19 countries to join a program to control endemic goiter in the next decade.

The ailment is caused by a lack of iodine in the diet. Endemic goiter is widespread in the world, particularly in mountainous areas.

Cretinism or other forms of mental deficiency and neurological disorders are frequent in children born to mothers with the disease.

But doctors say goiter can be prevented easily at low cost by adding iodine to table salt.

Pupil Screening Set In Schools

A special screening program will be held by the Snyder Public Schools to assist parents who are concerned that their child may be experiencing some amount of developmental delay in learning, visual, auditory, or motor perceptual area.

The screening activity will be held Wednesday, April 18, for young children between the ages of three and five who are not enrolled in or receiving special education services from the Snyder schools at this time.

Parents who feel their 3-5 year old child has delay in motor, language, social interaction, visual, auditory or other handicapping conditions which interferes with learning should bring their child to the Humble-Smith School, 3100 37th Street, on Wednesday, April 18, anytime between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. There is no charge for this service for children residing in the Snyder Independent School District.

Parents will have the results of the screening explained with recommendations for any further evaluations or educational programming which may be indicated. Inquiries concerning this screening program should be made to Special Education Department, Humble-Smith School, or by calling 573-9364.

In Berkeley...
Things Close To Normal After Proposition 13

By JOHN C. EAGAN
Associated Press Writer

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)-The libraries aren't open as much, the streets are getting dirtier, public buildings aren't being repaired and there aren't as many teachers. But things are still running close to normal in Berkeley seven months after Proposition 13.

"I think we still have a good educational program," says Dr. Laval S. Wilson, superintendent of the Berkeley Unified School District, which operates 22 schools for 11,000 students in kindergarten through grade 12.

"We've tightened it up. We've put aside some things that we thought were good for the kids. But we can't continue to run the same quality program in the future without more help."

Berkeley public schools slashed about $5.4 million from a $35-million budget on short notice after the tax-cut initiative was approved overwhelmingly by California voters last June. School taxes, the highest in the state, dropped from $4.95 per $100 of assessed property value to $1.48. Total property taxes, once 3 percent to 4 percent of the market value of a home, are now limited to 1 percent.

Summer school was cut back drastically. Leaky roofs go unrepaired and ancient heating boilers aren't being replaced. Broken plumbing and shattered windows take longer to get fixed.

The district laid off 49 teachers, and 64 other teaching vacancies weren't filled. Affirmative action took it on the chin: 38 of the laid-off teachers were minorities, because state law decrees that last hired be first-fired.

City government cut back the equivalent of 105 full-time jobs, about 10 percent of the 1,100 full-time equivalent positions. The city held off replacing aging vehicles. It reduced library hours, trimmed recreation and health spending.

But due mainly to about $3 million in federal CETA job-training grants, the city budget of $71.1 million is actually higher this year, by about $3.4 million.

The city lost about $9.5 million of the $14.5 million it would have received in property taxes without Proposition 13. It got about $3.3 million in state "bail-out" money and boosted various fees and charges - for building permits, parking, business licenses and garbage pickup - by about $3 million to help ease the squeeze.

IRA SWINGERS—Above students pose on a tire swing, one of 11 new pieces of playground equipment recently erected at Ira School. From left, beginning on the bottom row are RaiLynn Rundell, Jay Clark, Jason Spradlin, Bill Sherrard, Kim James, Tom Brown, Jay Baze, Stephen Denson, Chris Reyna, Don Crane, Randy James, Floyd Goswick, Cecilio Juarez, and Rosi Mary Lopez. Ira Builds New Playground Items

IRA—Through the combined efforts of the P.T.A. the administration and the community, Ira School now has 11 new pieces of playground equipment.

The project was spearheaded by Mrs. Billy Calley, PTA president. She says the idea came from magazine articles and similar projects at area schools.

After the plan was studied and okayed by the administration, an ever swelling troop of volunteers went to work. The equipment is made almost entirely of discarded material found around the community, old tires in particular. There are also barrels, pipe, telephone poles and even an old boat. Sweat and imagination were the main ingredients in assembly.

"It turned out to be a community project," said Mrs. Calley. "Everyone was so generous in donating materials and helping out with the labor."

Cost of the project to the school was about $280 which all went for paint, said Mrs. Calley. Bright colors prevail.

Because the students invent other than anticipated ways of using the equipment it defies easy description. A half buried row of tires is billed as leap frog tires, but since the students seem to delight more in racing between than hopping over them, the designation doesn't really fit.

All of the equipment is utilized in obstacle course type relay races. Like miniature marines, the kids divide up into teams and race through, over or under the equipment. About the only item not employed in different ways is the teacher bench.

A complete list of the equipment includes a tire walk, tire swing, tire trot, tractor tire tunnel, boat sandbox, leapfrog tires, 5 barrel-crawl-through, log walk, climbinb bars, teacher's bench, parellel balance beam and gang plank.

Firemen Called

A small bathroom fire was doused Friday in the Raymundo Vincente residence at the corner of 29th St. and Ave. G by city firefighters.

The fire was reported about 10:50 a.m. and resulted in only minor damage.

The last land engagement of the Civil War was fought at Palmito Ranch near Brownsville, and the Southern troops won! Confederates under the command of Col. John S. Ford, unaware of Lee's surrender at Appomattox a month earlier, routed and captured a federal force in a running encounter May 12, 13, 1865.

Ex-Snyderite Walks Away From Crash

SWEETWATER—Lyle Alexander of Austin, formerly of Snyder, walked away from the wreckage of his light plane near the Sweetwater airport Friday. Alexander was en route to Snyder to visit his mother, Mrs. A.C. Alexander, and his wife's mother, Mrs. S.L. Terry. His wife, Evelyn was already in Snyder.

The engine of the plane, a North American Navion, quit while Alexander was flying at 6,000 feet about seven miles south of Sweetwater. The plane sustained considerable damage in the crash landing that ensued. Alexander said it would be taken to Snyder for repairs. The only injury in the incident was to Glenn Pratt, Sweetwater fireman, who was driving a fire truck to the scene of the crash. The truck overturned, sending Pratt to the hospital for observation. He was not believed to be seriously hurt, but the fire truck had heavy damage.

Boner Dies

AUSTIN (AP)-C. Paul Boner, former president of the American Acoustical Society and founder and director of the University of Texas) Defense Research Laboratory, died Thursday. He was 79.

Boner was considered one of the world's experts on underwater sound defense and was recognized twice by the U.S. government during World War II for his work on anti-submarine weapons and special torpedoes and other naval ordinance.

During the war, Bonner was associate director of the Underwater Sound Laboratory at Harvard University.

Boner was director of the research laboratory from 1945 to 1965 and also was UT vice president for academic affairs from 1954 to 1957.

Team To Study Inflation Impact

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A national study of the impact of inflation on a major U.S. industry group will be performed by a research team from the University of Michigan.

The team will make a year-long study of the impact of inflation on the 32,000-firm whole-saling industry, whose gross sales total some $500 billion a year.

Headed by Professor Thomas G. Gies, chairman of finance at the U-M Graduate School of Business Administration. the research team will explore the effects of inflation on sales, internal costs, liquidity, capital positions and tax liability.

Vows Repeated In Ceremony

Carol Suzanne Cross became the bride of Mark Edward Ham at 6 o'clock Friday evening, April 6, in a candlelight ceremony at the First Baptist Church Chapel. Rev. Ben Warton officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cross, 3300 Cherry St. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ham, 2804-34th St.

The double ring vows were exchanged before a background of greenery and white tapers in brass candelabra.

Mrs. Bob Womack presented traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Jeanne McCormick, who sang "The Wedding Song," and Ronnie Mayfield, singing "If Ever I Would Leave You."

After the prayer, the bride and groom joined hands and sang to each other, "The Lord Bless And Keep You." Accompanying them was an acapella chorus composed of Miss McCormick, Miss Kathy Watts, Ronnie Mayfield and Freddie Quiros.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of pearl white pure silk organza and hand-loomed French peau d'ange lace over silk taffeta. The elongated bodice was molded of the lace over taffeta with a scalloped Queen Anne collar embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent paillettes. Bracelet length sleeves were finished with the natural scallops of the lace. The lace of the bodice extended in points on the front of the aisle-wide skirt and overlaped the skirt on either side for a paneled effect. The skirt swept to a circular court train. The tiered finger-tip veil of silk illusion was caught in a queen's crown of white silk flowers.

To complete her bridal ensemble she carried a bouquet of cascading white and peach sweetheart roses sprinkled with baby's breath, English ivy and white satin streamers atop a white satin and lace Bible.

Carrying out tradition for something old, the bride wore diamond earrings given to her by her paternal grandparents. Something new was a white Bible, a gift from the groom's maternal grandmother. For something borrowed, she wore the bridal gown belonging to the groom's mother. Something blue was a garter and pennies minted in the year of the couple's birth were worn in her shoes.

Miss Diana Pemberton attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Karen Hardin of Denver City and Miss Kim James. They wore floor-length dresses of powder blue organza and each carried a long stemmed peach rose.

Kayla and Connie Cross, sisters of the bride, were candlelighters for the ceremony. They wore floor length dresses of ivory crepe accented with peach and blue ribbons at the waist and baby's breath in their hair.

Scott Birdsall served as best man and groomsmen were Stephen Ham, brother of the groom, and Robby Moore. Rod Green Duncan, Okla., and Kerry Patterson served as ushers.

Ring bearers were Reese and Rance Miller of San Angelo, twin cousins of the groom.

The groom was attired in an ivory tuxedo. Groomsmen, ushers and ring bearers wore powder blue tuxedos.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cross wore a slate raw silk dress and a white corsage. Mrs. Ham wore a sea green quiana dress with a white corsage.

A reception was held in the garden room. The bride's table was laid with a floor-length eyelet cloth with crystal and silver appointments. A centerpiece of silk flowers in the bride's chosen colors, peach and blue, decorated the table which held a three-tiered wedding cake topped with satin wedding bells.

An ivory cloth covered the groom's table from which coffee and a German Chocolate cake, made by the bride's paternal grandmother, was served. The table was set with brass appointments which included a music box purchased in Switzerland by the groom.

Members of the house party were Beth Bowen, Carmen Trice, Kellye Crenshaw and Mrs. Phyllis Slough of Midland, aunt of the bride. Kathy Watts registered guests.

For a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the bride chose a gold velour dress with ivory accessories. Her outfit was complimented by pearls which belonged to her great-grandmother and a corsage of white daisies given to her by her father.

The couple will be at home at 1740 Lincoln Drive, Abilene.

The bride attended Snyder High School and was active in band, choir and stage band.

The groom is a 1978 graduate of Snyder High School and is presently attending Abilene Christian University, where he majoring in music education.

Out of town guests were from Fort Worth, Midland, Denver City, San Angelo and Duncan, Okla.

The groom's parents were hosts to a rehearsal dinner at The Shack for members of the wedding party.

First Baptist Chapel Site For Wedding Vows

Becki Laree Hall and Robert Byron Jackson were united in marriage Saturday, March 24, at 4 p.m. in the chapel of the First Baptist Church. David Robertson, minister of the First United Methodist Church officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. and Mrs. Larry Hall and Neil A. Jackson and the late Nina C. Jackson.

Large spiral wrought iron stands holding 18 white wicker baskets of pastel mums formed the background for the dais.

The bride presented in marriage by her father, was attired in a Victor Costa victorian garden gown of ecru voile and lace. The bodice featured tiny tucks extending to the waist, a ruffle stand up collar, with fill sleeves and ruffled cuffs that fastened at the wrist. The intermission length skirt was tucked at six inch intervals around the entire skirt and caught at the waist with a matching belt. Her ankle strap sandles were of matching ecru leather.

She carried a Bible she had received as a gift on her seventh birthday. It was covered with ecru bridal satin and lace. A candlelight orchid with baby's breath and ecru streamers were attached. She wore coral and candlelight baby's breath entwined in her hair.

For something old, she wore her paternal and maternal great-grandmothers wedding bands. Something borrowed was a strand of pearls belonging to her grandmother Mrs. C. Emory Hall.

Jody Stanfield of Lubbock, served her sister as matron of honor. She was escorted by Neil A. Jackson, father of the groom, who was best man. Her full length gown was an ecru voile and lace bodice with a coral, powder blue and ecru floral skirt. An ecru inset of lace and tucks, with a full ruffle around the hem line bonnet with a matching floral hatband. She also carried a Bible covered identical to the bride's and topped with a coral orchid and streamers.

Don Jackson of Dallas and David Jackson of Waco, brothers of the groom, ushered guests.

Van Hayes played piano and organ selections including "Nadia's Theme," by DeVorzon, "Sonato in C," by Scarlatti, "Nocturne and Polanaise in A Major," by Chopin, and "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," by J.S. Bach, while guests, grandmothers and mothers were being seated. He also provided the processional and recessional wedding march.

Virg Fiske of El Dorado, cousin of the bride, accompanying himself on the guitar sang "Follow Me," "If" and the "Wedding Song."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hall choose an aqua quiana gown with an aqua overlay of chiffon.

Mrs. Jackson wore a pale yellow knit ensemble featuring a short jacket. Both mothers wore orchid corsages that matched their gowns.

Wedding guests were registered by Miss Jennifer Jackson, sister of the groom.

A reception followed in the garden room of the church. Baskets of pastel spring flowers decorated the room.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Jerry Hardin and Ms. Georgeanne Wood of Austin, Mrs. David Cotton, Mrs. Tommy Johnson and Mrs. Wayne Davidson.

The bride's table, covered with an ecru knit with an overskirt of silk illusion, held the three tiered wedding cake of candlelight ivory with tiny pastel flowers. The appointments were in silver and crystal.

Pastel colored rice bags were distributed by Terra Stanfield, and Laurie and Jamie McFarland.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the Snyder Country Club, hosted by the grooms parents on Friday evening. Special guests were grandparents of the couple. They included Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Cochran, and Mrs. Emory Hall of Snyder and Mrs. Mac Jackson of Haskell, Okla. and Mrs. Neil Shaw of Brownwood.

Out of town guests were from Dallas, Austin, Waco, San Angelo, El Dorado, Brownwood, Lubbock, Breckenridge and Haskell, Okla.

Mrs. Jackson is a graduate of Snyder High School and the University of Texas at Austin, majoring in fashion design and merchandising. She was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha social sorority.

Jackson graduated magna cum laude from the University of Texas Law School. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi honor fraternities.

The couple will reside in Carrollton. The groom is employed with a Dallas Law firm.

West opens up with the ace and king of hearts. This gives South an excellent chance to ruff in dummy and complain about bad luck when neither trumps or clubs breaks evenly and the diamond finesse loses.

It also gives South an excellent chance to put on his thinking cap and insure his contract against anything but some very bad suit breaks.

South just discards a diamond from dummy on the second heart. Looks as if it violates all principles of play. South refuses to ruff a loser in dummy and discards a card that he might just as well keep.

On the other hand the play leaves poor West as dead as dead can be. Suppose West leads a third heart. South ruffs in his own hand, cashes two top trumps and goes after clubs. Eventually South will get to dummy with the queen of trumps and discard his queen and six of diamonds.

A diamond lead from West to South's ace-queen as well as a club or trump lead will be equally futile.

Chamber Of Commerce Manager Speaks To Insurance Women

The Insurance Women's Assn. of Snyder held their regular monthly meeting on April 9 at the Spanish Inn with 13 members and one guest present. President Charlotte Seay called the meeting to order by asking Pat Mayes, program chairman to introduce the speaker, Bill Warner. Warner, Chamber of Commerce manager, spoke on a new industry that has expressed interest in a local plant site and also gave a brief history of the plant and its operations. Pat Mayes gave a report on the installation-banquet held recently.

A change in by-laws in the eligibility to comply with the Federation By-laws was discussed and will be advised by the Federation vice-president as to this change. In the local organization's by-laws, a change to add a ways and means committee to the constitution was discussed and will be voted on at the next meeting.

New business discussed was a Boss Appreciation Banquet to be held later in the year. Also discussed was the upcoming convention to be held at Houston in October of this year. An approximate number should be taken by August in order to plan financially for those attending. It was decided to change to a night meeting and to continue with the second Monday of each month. Betty Sneed and Charlotte Seay will be the hostesses for the month of May.

Committee co-chairmen were appointed to serve until May 31, 1980. They are educational, Betty Sneed and Pat Mayes; program, Pat Mayes; membership, Kay Hickman and Sammie Scott; entertainment, Jan Buchanan and Billie Boren; ways and means, Gloria Hunter and Margie Glasscock.

Couple Says Vows

Viola Lee Pinkerton and Joe Scott Aycock exchanged marriage vows at 6 p.m. Monday, March 19. The double ring ceremony took place in the Christian Student Center, Western Texas College. Pat Abbananto, minister of 37th Street Church of Christ, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Pinkerton Sr. and Mrs. Verlyn Aycock and the late Albert Aycock, all of Snyder.

Given in marriage by her brother, Earnest Pinkerton, Jr., the bride wore a formal gown of white quiana knit. The A-line gown featured a round neck with front and back yokes and long puffed sleeves, with wide lace cuffs. A pleat fell from the waist into the long train which was trimmed in yellow bows. Pearl buttons accented the cuffs and the back of the dress. The dress was fashioned and designed by Anita Clinkinbeard, sister of the bride.

In keeping with tradition, for something old, the bride carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother. Something new was her dress, something borrowed was her veil, and she wore a blue garter for something blue with pennies minted in the years of the couple's births sewn in.

The bride carried a bouquet of yellow carnations with baby's breath and brown and white streamers. As the bride entered she presented her mother with a silk red rose and a kiss and her mother-in-law the same as she left.

Anita Clinkinbeard, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Beverly Wright was bridesmaid. They were both attired in long yellow quiana knit dresses with yellow lace around the neck, fashioned after the bride. They carried a single yellow carnation. Melanie White, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Dan Aycock, brother of the groom, served his brother as best man. Groomsman was Greg Godair, both of Odessa.

Ushers were Bobby Clinkinbeard, brother-in-law of the bride, and Ronnie White of Arlington, brother-in-law of the groom.

Shirley Pinkerton and Ronnie Pinkerton, sister and brother of the bride, lighted candles. Bill Pie sang "The Lord's Prayer." Teresa Pinkerton registered guests. Dana Moss niece of the bride, Angie Aycock and Renee Aycock, nieces of the groom, passed out rice bags.

Presiding at the bride's table were Nina Moss, Lois Haynes, sisters of the bride, and Rhonda Dacus. Diane Aycock, sister-in-law of the groom, and Barbara White, sister of the groom, presided over the groom's table.

After a week-long trip to Buchanan Dam, Austin and San Antonio, the couple will reside in Odessa where the groom is employed by Texa-Chem. Both graduated from Snyder High School and the groom attended Western Texas College.

Out-of-town guests were from Odessa, Arlington, Albany, Clyde, San Angelo, and Olden.

Formal Ceremony Weds Pair

Lecia Gwen Harber and Ronald Morris Mapel exchanged wedding vows at the First Baptist Church, March 31 at 7 p.m. Pat Abbananto, minister of the 37th Street Church of Christ, officiated the single ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Harber and Mr. and Mrs. Dexter R. Mapel Jr. of El Paso.

Vows were repeated before an altar decorated with bouquets of yellow and apricot roses on brass pedestals flanking the arch which was covered with greenery and roses. Candles burned on each side of the altar and at the back of the chapel. Aisles were marked with hurricane lamps and blue bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown designed and worn by the groom's mother, Mrs. Grace Miller Mapel, for her wedding. The gown of candlelight satin was designed in a long waisted princess style with a chapel length train. The heart shaped yoke and long tapered sleeves were of English net and silk illusion trimmed with rosepoint lace and tiny seed pearls. A ruffle of matching lace and tiny covered buttons accented the dress. A chapel length veil of silk illusion and imported rosepoint lace attached to a lace covered Juliet cap completed the bride's ensemble.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore for something old a cameo necklace borrowed from her sister that was worn by her grandmother. Something new was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. Her garter was blue.

The bride carried a cascade of yellow and apricot roses, blue baby's breath and frenched carnations tied with candlelight lace.

Gail Perry of Big Spring, matron of honor, was attired in a blue qiana designed with an empire waist complimented with a chiffon cape. She carried a colonial bouquet of apricot carnations and baby's breath.

Flower girls Jennifer and Debra Cowart of Plains were attired in matching blue and apricot embroidered cotton dresses designed empire waists and butterfly sleeves.

Bridesmaids Sharon Prince of Lubbock and Lemire Mapel of Tuscon, Ariz., sister of the groom, both wore apricot gowns identical to the matron of honor's and carried blue colonial bouquets.

Stacy Perry of Big Spring was ring bearer. He wore a black tuxedo with a blue ruffled shirt.

Best man was Dexter R. Mapel Jr., father of the groom and groomsmen were Dexter M. Mapel of El Paso and Jameson M. Mapel of Angleton, both brothers of the groom. Ushers were Bill Basom of Lubbock, John Lock of Farmington, N.M., Bob Simpson of Floydada and Heidt Melson of Amarillo.

Pianist Robin Smith provided wedding music and accompanied Donnie Burk as he sang "The Wedding Song" and "Devoted To You."

The church garden room was the site for the reception. Vicki Postin and Daphne Jeane, both of Lubbock, and Becky Jordan served the bride's cake. It was of candlelight color designed with a fountain flowing with blue water. It was decorated with apricot roses and topped with wedding bells and a nosegay of apricot and blue carnations.

Karleen Mapel, sister-in-law of the groom, and Janet Basom of Lubbock, served chocolate cake and coffee from the groom's table. A bouquet of yellow mums decorated the table.

Penny Roberson registered guests.

Following a two week wedding trip to Mazatlan and Guadalajara, Mex., the couple will live in San Angelo where the bridegroom is an attorney. The bride chose for the trip a blue silk shantung dress with a floral over dress accented with beige accessories and an apricot colored corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and Texas Tech University with a B.S. degree in education. The bridegroom is a graduate of Austin High School in El Paso and Texas Tech University with MBA, BBA and JD degrees.

Out of town guests for the wedding were from Jal and Farmington, N.M., Los Angeles, Calif., Tuscon, Ariz., Dallas, Houston, Clyde, Amarillo, Abilene, Plains, Lubbock, Floydada and Loraine.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's father at the Snyder Country Club.

Czar Ivan the Terrible died in 1584.

czar califano's bid

Rep. Mike Ezzell of Snyder was one of those who protested and sounded an alarm during discussions in Washington, D.C., recently concerning mandatory hospital cost containment.

Joseph Califano, Secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Dept., is pushing for the administration plan, which would hold any increases in hospital care costs to 9.8 percent in 1979. On the surface, it would not appear practical to oppose a program that aims at holding down costs to consumers. But Ezzell and other "Sun Belt" legislators spotted a joker in the deck. Texas and some other Southern states would be penalized under the administration plan.

Ezzell pointed out to President Carter and Califano that it now costs 30 percent more on the national average to hospitalize patients than it does in Texas. This is true because Texas has taken prior initiative in hospital cost containment, which means that under the administration proposal, our allowable increase in dollar rate per admission would actually be substantially less than that for other states who have done little or nothing on their own to deal with the situation.

Moreover, Ezzell pointed out that the population of Texas continues to increase at a rate of 2.1 percent per year, which is far above many northern and eastern states, some of which in fact are losing population.

Penalities for failure to meet the federal guidelines would trigger standby controls on total revenues per patient, effective Jan. 1, 1980. Hospitals in states where costs have skyrocketed far above those in Texas, by virtue of the much higher costs today, would be permitted to raise their costs by many more dollars than those in Texas.

Also, Ezzell says he detected a definite relationship to the hospital cost containment proposal and nationalized health service. In fact, at one point during the discussion, Sec. Califano, apparently caught off guard, noted that this program must be implemented before we get into socialized medicine.

Ezzell said he came away from the conference with the distinct feeling that the hospital cost containment program is simply a power grab on the part of Califano. The HEW Secretary would have the power to define classes of goods and services to be included in expenses of hospitals on the average percentage increase. He also would be directed to establish, on a yearly basis, a national volume percentage limit for each state retroactively. He would control wage pass-throughs via the power of definition. He would have the power to determine which hospitals will be exempted from mandatory controls.

In other words, it would make Joseph Califano our czar of health service. Deliver us.

the pain of budgeting

Budget time always presents problems for the various agencies that depend on tax funds for their operations and a new awareness on the part of the general public has focused additional attention on the process.

Snyder and Scurry County residents are feeling the effects, largely in the area of school budgets. Not only are taxes in general commanding more attention, but oil values that have paid most of the way here for 30 years are on the decline, which forces the agencies to look for compensating sources while, at the same time, trying to reduce financial requirements for their operations.

It was human nature at its norm that led to an era of complacency during the years of plenty. The same factor is now at work in sounding the alarm, as many suddenly realize that the tax funds from the oil fields are not so plentiful as they were yesterday.

School officials, especially the board of trustees, have been aware of the impending change for several years. Tax experts representing major oil companies have cautioned for the past three or four years that the peak is past and the decline is here in fact. It is not a pleasant task, but it is obvious that some action must be taken to strike a balance between a quality education program and the school district's financial resources.

It is no-secret that Snyder schools have for years maintained some programs not available in many other districts. Some, of course, are now mandated by state and federal governments and carried out here on a scale greater than in some other districts. But, it is a fact that no program in Snyder Schools came into being without wide spread public support at its inception.

Generally, regular school board meetings here are rather well-attended. It is a rare board meeting when fewer than 18 to 20 persons, excluding school officials and news media representatives, are present, and the doors are always open. So, any implication that the current situation has been suddenly thrust upon the public is off target.

The board and administration are certain to face resistance when any program is appraised with a view toward curtailment or abandonment. Board president Max von Roeder summed it up rather succinctly last Tuesday night when he noted that nearly all people are for economizing so long as it doesn't affect them personally or a program in which their children are particularly interested.

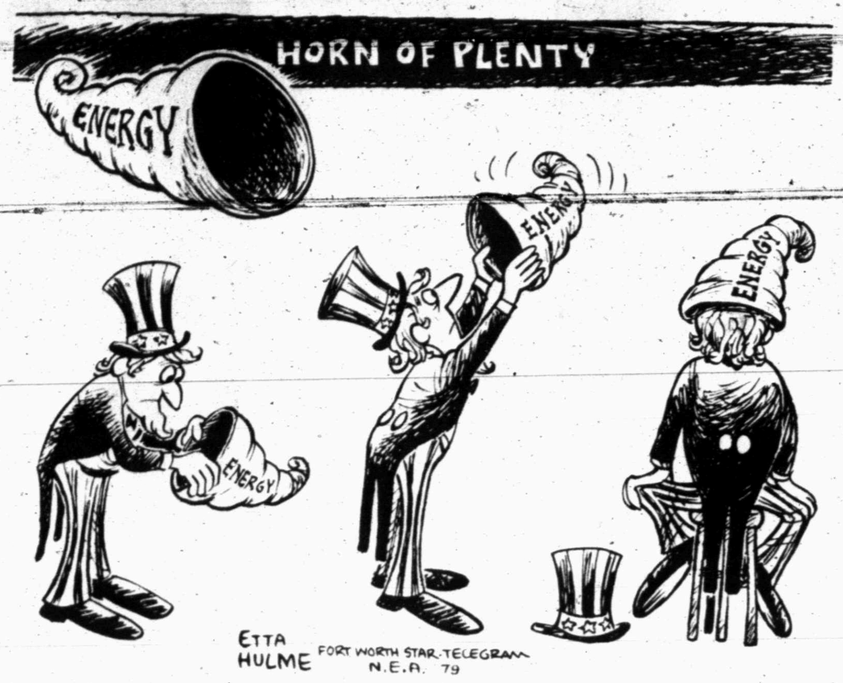

But the time has come when a move must be made, and it is rather clear now that it will require some "give and take" on the part of various interests. In the coming weeks as the school budget is prepared for 1979-80, we are going to learn a lot about Snyder's maturity as a community as it deals with a problem that has not existed here for three decades.

the dog wood legend

So far as I know this story is not fact, but it may be the oldest legend of the Christian era.

I have sought to backtrack this story to its source. It's no use.

Don't look for it in the Bible: it is not there.

Of all those who have retold it, none ever signed his name to it. When you re-tell it, please do not credit me.

Generations have kept this story alive only because it seemed deserving of living. That does not make it "immortal," but interesting.

It is the legend of the Dogwood Tree.

Visiting the Holy Land this week I discovered the legend is told here much the same as I first heard it half a world away.

And that is strange. There are so many possibilities for expanding and elaborating on--for exaggerating--this yarn, I was quite surprised to hear it repeated simply and unadorned.

By some it is repeated as fact.

By others it is told to babies at bedtime, more as American mothers tell fairy tales.

Yet, Disney gave dignity to those--even credulity.

And so generations of repetition have lent credibility to the legend of the Dogwood Tree.

It is said that at the time of the Crucifixion of Christ the Dogwood was a very large tree, big as an oak.

The Dogwood was so even-textured, firm and strong that it was chosen as the timber for the Cross.

Thus to be used for such a cruel purpose greatly distressed the tree. Jesus sensed this.

He, who noted even the sparrow's fall--whose last compassion was for a repentant thief--similarly forgave the repentant Dogwood Tree for its unfortunate fate.

As he was nailed upon it, he sensed the painful remorse of the tree.

In the gentle pity for all the sorrow and suffering of every living thing, he said to the tree: "Because of your share of My suffering, never again shall the Dogwood tree grow large enough and strong enough to be put to such a purpose as this."

He said, "Henceforth, the Dogwood shall be slender and bent and twisted, that it might forever remain unmolested by the tools of cruel men.

"And the blossoms shall be in the form of a cross..

"Two long petals and two short...

"And in the center of each petal there will be nail prints...

"Brown with rust and stained with red.

"And in the center of the flower will be a crown--of thorns.

"And all who pass and see the Dogwood tree...

"Will remember me."

"And so it came to pass.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Card games can be expensive, but so can any game where you hold hands."

Snyder merchants are still getting positive comments about the recent Fashion Fair and style show. We're appreciative of the attendance of the more than 1,300 persons, and we are especially appreciative to the Snyder merchants who made it all possible.

Like any "first," we learned some things on which any future show can be improved.

At least one item was not shown during the show and, fellows, it is a must if you are to be in style this Easter morning.

It reminds us somewhat of the gifts offered at Christmas by Nieman-Marcus for the man who already has everything.

This particular item has impressed us for several months--and we just knew that Ed Thrift would include it in the fashion show--but he forgot.

Still, one is available, and for only $38.50 the buyer can have his personal walking stick.

It's more than a walking stick. It's solid polished hardware with a solid brass knob and tip. The hardwood shaft is a polite companion that is easy to care for.

In addition to the walking stick, the owner gets a free guide on care of the new companion and also some tips on etiquette published in 1782. Here are some social no-no's:

Don't hold the Walking Stick under your arm.

--Never use the Walking Stick to write in the dirt.

--Don't lean on your Walking Stick while standing.

--Never, never drag your Walking Stick.

As fashion show moderator Margaret Drum stated at the end of the show--Snyder does indeed have everything.

Who is Herbert Schmertz and why is he saying all those critical things about critics of the oil industry?

Taking these two very timely questions in order, Herbert Schmertz is a director of public affairs for Mobil oil and in the world of corporate public relations something of a legend in his time. Where most of that world conceives of its mission to be the diligent polishing of campany images and the encouragement of frequent and favorable media mention of products, he has a better idea—or at least a livelier one.

He deals in issues rather than soft soap. He is responsible for those blunt almost bellicose statements of position on energy and related matters that are difficult for any citizen with any exposure at all to newspapers, magazines and the airwaves to miss. And when the occasion calls for it, he takes direct and public issue with company and industry critics.

The term for the Schmertz style of public relations is hard-hitting. And considering the current public rep of the oil industry—right down there with the big utilities, with which it is so closely associated, as an object of mistrust—there is no shortage of occasions for hitting.

Predictably, Schmertz was one of the first spokesmen to be heard from in the oil industry's agitated response to President Carter's revised energy policy, specifically the package plan for the decontrol of domestic oil prices. The industry is most pained by the proposed windfall profits tax, which it regards as unnecessary, and the criticism of those profits, which it regards as unwarranted. It sees itself being set up as a target for public resentment of any inflationary consequences of decontrol.

Granted the president may have overdone the adjectives - "enormous", "excessive", "undeserved" - but he did not create suspicion of the industry's purposes and practices. If numerous polls are to be believed, there is widespread skepticism as to the reality of the energy crisis, a carryover from the 1973 shortage which, as the public perceived it, eased as soon as prices went up.

The consequences of the coming decontrol are not calculated to alter that perception. Energy Secretary James Schlesinger has told Congress that even granting enactment of a windfall tax, oil companies stand to realize a $17 billion jump in revenues before it could take effect. At least half of that - industry sources say 60 percent - would be sopped up by the government under current tax and royalty provisions. But the $7 or $8 billion remaining is not what causes corporate treasurers to send apologetic statements to stockholders, and it is likely to look enormous indeed to motorists as the price at the tanks climbs toward a dollar a gallon.

Under the circumstances, it would seem oil could do better for itself and the public than to wallow in umbrage at the raps, bad or justified, it is currently receiving. The industry has long argued for decontrol as the best way to restore competition to the market and to encourage production. It is getting what it wants, even on taxes. The outlook from Capitol Hill at this point is that Congress will not go for the windfall levy.

Now would seem to be the time for neither a defensive nor an antagonistic posture, but a constructive one. The oil industry should be taking the initiative with proposals for the most effective utilization of its increasing revenues in order to stabilize the nation's existing energy sources and to pursue research into and development of acceptable alternatives. Preferably in cooperation with government.

The consumer needs to be shown that what is good for oil is also, eventually, going to be good for him.

That's the sort of hard-hitting response that could really do something for the oil industry's image.

Workshop On Handicapped Child Set

Parents, foster parents and others who work with young children will learn how to identify the handicapped or "high risk" child from birth through two at a workshop scheduled Saturday at Western Texas College.

Directing the workshop will be Dianne Garner and Denise Pillans from Lubbock, both associated with the Lubbock Independent School District's developmental education program.

The workshop will be held in Academic Science Building C from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Cost will be $5 per person, and participants are asked to bring a sack lunch because of the program schedule.

Foster parents and licensed child care facilities personnel will fulfill six of the 12 hours of training required by the Department of Human Resources by attending the workshop.

Persons planning to attend are asked to pre-register by contacting Judy Barkowsky at WTC.

History Week Tour Planned

Visits to four historic buildings will be included on a tour scheduled for April 23 as a part of History Appreciation Week here.

The special observance is being planned by the Scurry County Historical Commission, and will run from April 22-27.

Buildings which may be seen on the special tour are the old Scurry County jail at 2707 College Avenue, a dugout on the Sonny Harrell ranch, and the residences owned by Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Bartels and by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Sellars. The Bartels home is at 2306 32nd Street and the Sellars house is at 2311 30th Street.

Tickets for the tour are $1 each and may be purchased in the Scurry County Museum, at Snyder Drug or downtown at Glover's or Hugh Boren & Son Ins. Agency. Hours for the tour will be 4-7 p.m.

Other activities scheduled during History Appreciation Week are a tea in the Scurry County Museum on April 22, a display of photographs in the courthouse from April 23-27, a brown bag lunch in the museum on April 23, a field trip for Scouts on April 25 and tours of some historical markers for high school students on April 24. The sixth grade choir program "Six Flags Over Texas" on April 24 is also a highlight of the week.

Adult Classes Meet Tuesday

Adult Basic Education classes will meet at 7 o'clock Tuesday night in the Learning Resource Center at Western Texas College.

Adults who have not completed high school are invited to enroll in these classes, which are offered without cost. Students may enroll at any class meeting and may work for personal improvement or prepare for GED tests. Classes meet each Tuesday and Thursday evening.

Persons wishing information about the Adult Basic Education program may contact Bettie McQueen at 573-8511, extension 313.

WTC Journalists Win Awards At Convention

Several Western Texas College journalism students won awards in live and canned contests at the 55th annual Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Association convention in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Rocky Alexander, editor of The Western Texan, WTC's student newspaper, won first place in headline writing in live Journalist-of-the-Year competition. He also entered news, editorial and feature writing in the junior-community college division.

In live broadcast contests, Monette Sentell and Louise Johnson placed second and third, respectively, in commercial copywriting. Darlene Neatherlin received honorable mention in radio newswriting.

Sentell and Johnson were presented special plaques by the Jay Powell Meeks family of Houston, parents of a Southwest Texas State University student who was killed in an auto accident last year. All three students competed against every two-year and four-year school entering from the 12-state organization.

The Western Texan placed second in its newspaper division in general excellence and in typography, layout and design.

In individual newspaper contests, Alexander placed second in sports feature and sports column, and third in newswriting, editorial writing and page makeup.

Other winners were Rudy England, first, sports feature; Lois Gleason, third, critical review, and Neatherlin and Diane Arnold (tie), third, feature writing.

In yearbook competition, Boldon took second place in both sports photo and black-and-white photo, while Dwight Williams and Lonnie Nichols received first for copy.

Two more awards were presented, a second place to Veronica Melgar for commercial, PSA or promo, and a third to Glenna Garrett for fiction article. Both students were in competition against all colleges and universities in the RMCPA.

Adams State College (Colo.) and the Air Force Academy co-hosted the convention, held at the Four Seasons Motor Hotel in Colorado Springs. John Lindsay, Washington correspondent for Newsweek magazine, was featured speaker at the awards banquet.

States represented by colleges and universities were Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Utah and Nevada.

Attending from WTC were Alexander, Sentell, Johnson, Neatherlin, Bell, Melgar, Sheila Sandbothe and Sheila Cummins. Dr. Mike McBride, associate professor of jounalism, accompanied the group.

Amend Return On Form 1040X

If you need to change something on your Federal income tax return after you've filed, you can make the correction on Form 1040X, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS said that generally the Form 1040X may be used to amend your tax return any time during the three years following the due date (including extension) of the original return. The form is available from IRS Offices.

Scurry County Taxpayers Association

Q. What is the Scurry County Taxpayers Association?
A. It is a group of taxpayers concerned with ever increasing taxes and seeking information on how our tax dollar is spent.
Q. Why is a Taxpayers Association Needed?
A. We need more communication between the people who foot the bill and the people who spend the money. We expect to pay taxes and want a good school and a well run county government, but if we have to pull in our belts to pay higher taxes then the institutions we finance should be willing to economize.
Q. Who can join the Scurry County Taxpayers Association?
A. Any concerned taxpayer who wants to be better informed.
Q. What does the Scurry County Taxpayers Association hope to accomplish?
A. We hope to establish communication between our local governments and the taxpayers through informative meetings and providing facts and figures through the news media.

WINTER DAMAGED TREES, SHRUBS NEED HOMEOWNERS' CARE:

Severe winter weather has caused greater than normal injury to evergreen plants and fruit trees on the Texas High Plains. Homeowners need to take steps now to save these damaged plants.

Injury to perennials occurred during subzero weather around Christmas and New Year. Fruit and flowering trees were damaged during recent cold snaps while they were trying to flower.

If the damage was severe to some types of plants in certain locations in your landscaping, it is reasonable to assume that such damage will recur under similar weather conditions.

This might be a good time to replace these types in your landscaping with other plants or varities that are more hardy and less susceptible to winter damage.

The most seriously damaged plants are Euonymus hedges. Many of these plantings have been killed to the ground.

In protected areas, some Euonymus plants just have dead leaves and should be putting out new growth now. But unprotected plants may have been killed back to the crown and should be pruned back to live wood.

If they have good root systems, they'll make rapid regrowth after pruning.

Another type of damage is seen on privets, magnolia and similar broadleaf evergreens. On these, the leaves have been killed at the edges and tips. The plants look brown but have some green growth.

The brown leaves will drop off soon and will be replaced by new growth. Most of these plants are not suffering any real harm.

Winter injury, especially mechanical injury from winter wind, has caused a lot of leaf spotting on wax-leaf ligustrum. These plants will put out new growth. Unless the plants are misshapen, they won't need pruning.

Similar potting is found on holly. This is mostly mechanical injury caused by spines of older leaves puncturing tender new leaves due to wind action.

Ground covers, especially vinca, were frozen back this winter, leaving nearly all their leaves dead. The best treatment is to clean the beds and cut the plants back to stubble to force new growth.

Some fruit trees in our area have lost their fruit buds to winter damage. Many of the flowering shrubs suffered similar damage.

The thing homeowners must remember with these trees is that they should not be heavily fertilized. Heavy fertilization and watering will cause the trees to grow too fast since they have no fruit load. They will then be more sensitive to cold damage next winter.

Established junipers and Arizona cyprus have had very little winter problem. But plants put in the ground last spring may have suffered more damage than normal, especially if fertilized and watered heavily right up to first frost.

On all plants, if the roots and lower parts are healthy, there will be regrowth. Homeowners should prune damaged plants carefully and water and fertilize them as needed. It is always in order to cut dead growth out of a plant.

Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates batted .439 against Cincinnati pitching in 1978.

Six Students Qualify For Regional Contest

By CURTIS W. TATE

HERMLEIGH — Six Hermleigh High School students won awards in the district 7-B UIL Literary meet held in Westbrook on April 2 and 4.

Students who placed within the first three places won gold, silver, and bronze medals and qualified to compete in the regional contest in Levelland on April 20.

Curtis W. Tate, a senior, qualified for regional competition by winning gold medals in persuasive speaking, ready writing, and editorial writing.

Wesley Kruger, a senior, won a gold medal in headline writing, a silver medal in ready writing, and a sixth place ribbon in science.

Steve West, a senior, won third place in editorial writing and fourth place in feature writing.

Lois Hess, a junior, won silver medals in feature writing and newswriting.

Patti Melton, a senior, won fourth place in spelling and plain writing.

Lori Fuqua, a sophomore, placed sixth in typewriting and fourth in ready writing.

The girls golf team, consisting of JoAnn Henry, a senior; Lois Hess, a junior; Ricki Gannaway, a junior; and Von Dale Henry, a freshman, placed second in district and will enter regional competition on April 18 and 19.

WIN AWARDS-Six Hermleigh High School students won awards in the district UIL literary meet on April 2 and 4. From left are Steve West, Lois Hess, Wesley Kruger, Curtis W. Tate, Lori Fuqua, and Patti Melton.

Lawton Twister Damage Around $13 Million

LAWTON, Okla. - (AP)-A twister that slapped Lawton Tuesday night caused an estimated $13 million in damage to insured structures, American Insurance Association adjusters estimate.

The tornado destroyed 140 dwellings, did major damage to 100 other structures and caused minor damage to 430 more, said Richard Balnicky, Red Cross director of damage assessments.

"There were 732 families displaced in Oklahoma," Balnicky said. Three persons were killed in Lawton by the twister that whipped through Vernon, Texas, then moved across the Red River into Oklahoma.

ID Pictures Planned For Sr. Citizens

Pictures for Senior Citizen identification cards will be made at the Senior Citizens Center from 9:30-11:30 a.m. and from 1-4:30 p.m. on Friday, Mrs. Gloria Shaw, director of the Center, has announced.

The identification cards give important information about the bearer and Senior Citizens who have cards are eligible for discounts offered by several Snyder merchants. There is no cost for the cards.

Persons who would like to receive a card are asked to go to the Center and fill out an information sheet before Friday. This information is typed on the card, and the addition of the picture completes the card so it can be given to the person immediately.

The Senior Center has issued about 760 identification cards since the program began, Mrs. Shaw said.

Ruined Food Discarded

WICHITA FALLS (AP) —"Hundreds of thousands of pounds" of possibly contaminated food were reluctantly hauled to the city dump after a mammouth killer tornado chewed up one of Wichita Falls' busiest retail areas earlier this week.

"There were 50 to 100 food facilities in there, maybe more," sighed Tom Edmonson, chief sanitarian of the city's health department, as dozens of huge grocery trucks rolled to the sanitary land fill.

"There will be quite a few truck loads of meat destroyed."

Some of the food had tiny shards of glass embedded in it after the funnel exploded the huge front windows of the supermarkets. Some was contaminated by polluted water. Frozen food thawed and refrigerated meat spoiled after power was knocked out.

Some canned goods were ruined because the high pressure of the tornado destroyed their vacuum seals, Edmonson explained. Bottles of soft drinks have been found with the lids intact but with tiny particles of dirt, glass, and debris inexplicably inside.

Much of the food health officials merely suspected of being contaminated also had to be buried at the dump. Edmonson said he didn't know how much food was ruined, "but I'm sure it will be hundreds of thousands of pounds."

"It's quite common for us to go in on a little fire at one grocery store and get 30,000 pounds of food," he said. "We've lost quite a few big supermarkets."

Krueger Takes Mexican Post

AUSTIN (AP)-Former U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger has confirmed that he has been appointed by President Carter as special coordinator for Mexican affairs, meaning he will oversee multi-agency negotiations between the two countries.

The president and the State Department agreed on Krueger after Carter decided to leave Patrick Lucey as ambassador to Mexico.

Low blood pressure

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it normal for an entire family to have very low blood pressure? Mine has always been low. I have no health problems and I have lots of energy. I was very surprised to learn that my 17 year old and 19 year old both have low blood pressure.

DEAR READER — One of the statements of an early professor has always stuck with me. It was his advice about what to do when you see a patient who has low blood pressure. He said, "Tell your patient to go home; get down on his knees and thank God he's got it." What he meant was that healthy people with low blood pressure tend to live lots longer and continue to be healthier than individuals who have higher blood pressure.

We've seen this in a variety of population studies. The Navajo Indians are less likely to have fatty-cholesterol deposits in their arteries even when they eat high-fat diets because they have an inherited characteristic of low blood pressure. In general, if you're healthy and feel good and are without health problems, the lower your blood pressure is, the better your health will continue to be.

Let me give you a little illustration that happens in your own body. We hear about heart attacks and strokes and similar problems of the circulation all the time. These are caused by fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries. That part of the arterial system in your body is the high pressure circulation. Commonly the pressure is around 120 over 75. That's perfectly normal. Of course, it can be higher. This entire arterial system is susceptible to fatty-cholesterol deposits and that's what causes all the problems.

In the same person you will find little, if any, fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries that go from the heart to the lungs. Now keep in mind that since both artery systems are in the same body, they both are subjected to the same inherited characteristics, dietary habits, living patterns and whatever.

The chief difference between these two major artery systems in the body is that the arteries to the lungs are under very low pressure. The arteries to the lungs normally have a pressure considerably less than 40. It's that low pressure that protects the arteries to the lungs. That's an object lesson about the importance of low pressure in preventing circulatory problems.

To give you a better idea on the factors that control blood pressure, I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

It also means that it's important that all of us maintain a normal or low normal blood pressure. You can achieve that by preventing obesity, maintaining physical activity and avoiding an excess use of salt in your diet. Even with these measures, there will still be people who have pressure that's relatively high. In these instances where the pressure is persistently elevated to an abnormal level, medicines can be used to lower the pressure.
