Q—I've not heard any mention of proposals made to the state comptroller's office from the 800 "Beat Waste" number. Were any of these suggestions used and how many calls did the state receive?

A—According to the comptroller's office, the Texas Performance Review received 2,600 suggestions from the public through the 1-800 number. A spokesman said that the suggestions were taken into account along with findings from a team of auditors to develop recommendations presently before the State Legislature. The office had no breakdown of where each recommendation came from.

In BriefDisabled rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government rule that will let employers turn away disabled job applicants who pose a safety threat to themselves is being criticized as "paternalistic thinking" that a landmark 1990 law was supposed to curb.

"It's not only an emotional slap in the face, it's a very basic denial of that which is our fair due," Marilyn Golden, policy analyst for Disability Rights Education and Defense Fund, said Monday.

The controversy centers on new regulations required by the Americans With Disabilities Act, passed by Congress last year and hailed as the "Emancipation Proclamation" for 43 million disabled Americans.

Swaggart trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jimmy Swaggart, a Baton Rouge television evangelist, once claimed Marvin Gorman, a rival evangelist, apparently had affairs with "15 or 16" women, a witness testified in Gorman's $90 million lawsuit against Swaggart.

The Rev. John Edward Trammell testified Monday in state Civil District Court as Gorman's slander lawsuit began its third week.

SOUVENIR FROM TENNIS MATCH — Due to a windy Sunday night at the McFarland Tennis Center in San Antonio, a Snyder couple has a cluster of balloons marked "San Antonio Racquets." Lila Guinn and her husband, Carl, found the balloons Monday, caught on a fence one mile south of Camp Springs. A phone call to San Antonio revealed that the balloons decorated the top of the grandstand at a tournament in which the San Antonio Racquets played against a team featuring Martina Navratilova. (SDN Staff Photo)

County to consider reversing policies at community centers

The consensus of people attending a meeting to discuss community center policies Monday was to revert back to former ways of running the centers, County Judge Bob Doolittle said.

The meeting, at Towle Park Barn, was attended by 35 to 40 people.

Under the current system, community center managers are currently paid $50 a month for booking activities and events. The managers, who are responsible for ensuring the facility is clean, keep the users' fees.

Under a proposal made Monday evening, managers would receive $200 a month and most user fees would be deleted.

Managers would be in charge of booking the facility, keeping the key, mowing, and making sure the facility is clean.

"Almost everyone in attendance felt this was the way to go, with one exception — that there be a charge for reunions," said Doolittle. "Of course, a decision would have to be made about what constitutes a reunion."

Doolittle said that commissioners are considering restructuring the community centers and Towle Park Barn to charge for reunions. "Usually, at a reunion you've got enough people to chip in $5 or so apiece. It's not much for them, and it's something that helps pay for the use of the center."

He said also to be considered is "taking Towle Park Barn and breaking it out of the mold" of the community centers and charging for it in a different way because of its size and location.

Doolittle said the county may also want to consider changing the by-law which states that someone must be a resident of the county to book one of the community centers.

He noted one case in which an Amarillo resident was interested in booking a community center for a reunion.

"They spent $200 (in another town). Now, that's not a lot of money; it wouldn't solve our financial woes, but it's something."

"I think we want to push our community centers, Towle Park Barn, the parks and the coliseum. We've got some nice things in Scurry County and we'd like to take advantage of them," he noted.

There are nine community centers in Scurry, including Towle Park Barn. The others are Union, Knapp, Dunn, Fluvanna, Ira, Hermleigh, Inadale and Northeast.

Monday's meeting was to hear input from county residents. Commissioners will be considering changes to the current community center policies in the coming weeks. Doolittle said, however, that any change would probably not go into effect until Jan. 1 of 1992.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Some investments provide for old age, but others hasten its arrival."

Every year, the Wall Street Journal does an in-depth report on compensation packages for heads of those giant corporations.

1990 was a "lean year," even for the big boys. One hard time story concerned the chairman of First Chicago Corp. He took a pay cut. Because of slumping profits from the bank-holding company, the chairman did without a bonus last year, thus trimming his take-home by 50 percent—to a mere $735,632.

But before you begin weeping for the bank CEO, there was also some good news. The company gave him 65,000 stock options as well as 25,000 restricted shares, all valued at $662,500.

The business daily reported that 1990 was still a good year for many big-company executives.

The top earner — including salary, bonus and long-term incentives, was head of UAL Corp. He made $18.3 million, with much of that due to a $14.8 million stock gain.

The Apple Computer chief was next with a 1990 income of $1.7 million. Of that amount, $14.5 million came from exercising stock options.

The tennis shoe man who heads Reebok made $14.8 million, all in cash. Next year however, the directors put a $2 million cap on his cash component, but he has the option for 2.5 million shares.

The head of Waste Management Inc. made $1.3 million while the CEO of Paramount Communications was next at $11.3 million. The top man at Walt Disney made $11.2 million while Warner-Lambert's top man was paid $8.5 million. Coca-Cola's president had an $8.3 million refreshing pause.

Heads of energy companies also do okay: Chevron, $1.2 million; Fina, $1.3 million; ARCO, $4.7 million; Exxon, $1.5 million; Mobil, $4.5 million; Phillips, $4.4 million; Texaco, $3.3 million; and UNOCAL, $2.1 million.

New prison beds okayed, but how many in question

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis said he expects a prison construction plan to wind up somewhere between the 11,300 new beds approved by the House and the 30,000 endorsed by the Senate.

"What that number will be, I have no idea," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

The House plan would cost $440 million; the Senate measure, $1.1 billion.

Each calls for financing new prisons through sales of state bonds, with a constitutional amendment that would require voter approval. Besides prison construction, bond proceeds would be authorized for youth correction and mental health facilities.

The Senate today rejected the House's version of the bill. The measures will go to a conference committee to work out the differences.

The House approved its proposed constitutional amendment Monday, following action last week by the Senate.

"I think where we may get tied up is in conference (committee), and I think it's very important that we get to conference as soon as we possibly can," Lewis said.

The House initially rejected a separate bill needed for the bond program and prison construction to go forward, if the constitutional amendment is approved by voters.

The House gave its final approval to the bill today, 78-61. That measure also may wind up in a conference committee with the version approved by the (see PRISONS, page 8)

President considers easing U.N. embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush, pledging that the United States will not allow innocent women or children in Iraq to suffer, said today he was considering whether to ease the United Nations embargo.

"We have not resolved yet exactly what we're going to do at the United Nations," Bush told reporters at the outset of a Cabinet meeting.

But his comments seemed to indicate a softening of the hard-line U.S. restriction against any letup in the economic embargo against Saddam Hussein's country, even as it struggles to recoup from its devastating losses in the Gulf War.

The New York Times reported today that the State Department had drafted a plan to remove some sanctions to allow Baghdad to sell petroleum to buy food and medicine. It said the proposal was still being circulated inside the government and did not yet have Bush's approval.

Bush acknowledged that he planned to discuss the situation in Iraq and the sanctions with his Cabinet.

"My view is the U.N. mechanism is clear in terms of helping children and those who may be threatened with either famine or disease. The machinery is in place there," said Bush.

"It's very clear that Saddam Hussein has not complied with the U.N. resolutions, so we'll see what we can do. We're not trying to hurt any individuals there. Our argument is not with the women or children of Iraq. It's with the dictator."

He said Saddam has not made restitution to the people of Kuwait or returned the gold stolen from that country after the Iraqi invasion last Aug. 2, and he said Saddam has not made "total disclosure" on possible nuclear developments.

Bush also predicted that he would get enough votes today in the Senate to renew most-favored-nation status for China without restrictions. "Our position is so clear I would hope so," said Bush, who only needs a third of the Senate to sustain a veto.

Body parts found in apartment house

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A large number of human body parts were found early today in an apartment building where neighbors had complained for more than a month of a foul odor, police said.

Lt. David Vahl said officers went to the apartment on the city's North Side and arrested the 31-year-old man who lived there after getting a report from a citizen shortly before midnight.

A police officer at the scene, who declined to give his name, said authorities were investigating the possibility of up to 15 deaths.

Vahl said only that police were investigating the possibility of multiple homicides based on evidence found at the scene. He declined to specify how many he meant by multiple, or to say what the tipster had told authorities.

A number of boxes, barrels containing acid, a skull and a refrigerator were removed from the man's fly-infested second floor unit.

Alla Vickers, 31, who lives next door to the Oxford Apartments, said she and her husband had smelled a bad odor for some time. An alley separates the buildings.

"We've been smelling odors for weeks, but we thought it was a dead animal or something like that. We had no idea it was humans," Ms. Vickers said.

Anita Lusk, 21, who lives on the first floor of the building, said she heard a commotion in the building Monday night. She was told later by police that the suspect tried to kill a young man, who fled the apartment and called officers from a corner phone.

California's new snack law is proving to be confusing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — No wonder grocers and consumers find California's new snack tax law confusing: Matzo crackers are taxable, but not matzo bread.

Willie Nelson's fans dial wrong number for IRA tape

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — County singer Willie Nelson has a lot of fans who want to help him settle a debt with the Internal Revenue Service by buying his latest recording. The problem is, they've been calling the wrong number.

Hundreds of people dialed a toll-free "1-800" number broadcast on ABC's news-feature program, "PrimeTime Live," to order Nelson's so-called "IRS Tapes," being marketed to help him pay back taxes.

Unfortunately, the number rang through to a Salt Lake video-sales firm that has nothing to do with the promotion.

There were so many calls —

Muffins from a local bakery are not taxed, but packaged Hostess muffins are. And marshmallows are considered an essential food.

Cake icing, semisweet chocolate bits, candied lemon drops, cinnamon graham crackers and spicy fried pig skins are exempt. But most cookies, gingerbread cake, chocolate mints, gum, breath mints, jelly beans, spice drops, and licorice, among other items, are taxed.

There is one way way to avoid the confusion.

"I just slap on higher prices, and they pay it," said Valdi Biern, owner of the Paradise Petite snack shop.

Biern tacked a nickel onto candy bar and gum prices after the state sales tax was raised from 6 cents per dollar to 7.25 cents on July 15 — and was applied to certain foods for the first time. He figures he'll pay taxes based on total receipts, not individual sales.

Abal Cabral's morning fix of cinnamon rolls used to cost him 99 cents. Now he pays $1.07. "I had to break another dollar, and I have all this change that I don't need," said Cabral, a clerk for San Francisco Visiting Nurses Hospice.

The tax on snack food is expected to raise about $234 million a year.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there anything that can be done for diverticulitis other than taking medication?

DEAR READER: Yes, on occasion, surgery may be necessary to control bleeding from diverticulitis.

Diverticulitis refers to pockets of infection deep within little outpouchings that commonly arise in the intestinal lining. This infection causes severe abdominal pain, bowel paralysis and fever. The diagnosis is most easi-

Texas Rangers to investigate beating case

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Opponents of the Texas Rangers are criticizing the decision to invite the elite law enforcement unit to help investigate the apparent beating of a handcuffed prisoner by a Fort Worth policeman.

A videotape of the incident was recorded by a civilian witness, leading to charges against officer Edward Parnell III.

Parnell has been suspended with pay and arrested on suspicion of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. Fort Worth internal affairs officers questioned him last week.

Prosecutors have now asked for help from the Rangers.

Steve Chaney, an assistant to District Attorney Tim Curry, says prosecutors want the Rangers' expertise to help them investigate the July 3 incident.

"We have requested that the Texas Rangers, who we work with on frequent occasions, assist us," Chaney said. Prosecutors have great respect for the Rangers' skills and have even hired several former Rangers as investigators, Chaney said.

The choice was criticized by minority group members who believe the Texas Department of Public Safety unit is racist.

ly made by CT scanning (computed tomography, a type of X-ray test) that often reveals the abscess. As you pointed out, antibiotics will usually cure the condition.

However, in some cases, portions of the infected intestine may bleed — and bleed profusely. If this hemorrhage is not arrested by antibiotics, an operation to remove the abscess and the bleeding area is needed. In addition, repeated bouts of bleeding are another indication for surgery. Finally, the formation of a large abscess with or without perforation of the intestine may require surgery.

I gather from your question that you are interested in non-drug therapy for diverticulitis that is mild or moderate. To my knowledge, there is none. Experts usually recommend a diet free of small seeds (strawberries, raspberries and the like) for patients with diverticulosis, uninfected outpouchings that cause no symptoms.

The rationale for this preventive treatment is that these indigestible seeds may enter diverticular sacs and cause blockage leading to infection; put simply, they may turn harmless diverticulosis into more serious diverticulitis. However, once infection has set in, antibiotics (and surgery, for the reasons I mentioned) may be necessary.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Diverticular Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss the causes of keloids. Is the tendency hereditary? Are keloids common to the black population, and are there any new surgical removal procedures that will prevent their return?

DEAR READER: Keloids are exaggerated scars. After an injury, the scar tissue enlarges, forming a shiny, smooth overgrowth, rather than a thin, lightly colored line. The cause of keloids is unknown; they are more common in blacks and tend to be inherited. Keloids, which do not affect health, can be removed by plastic surgery or laser treatment.

Piper Needs to Speak Up If She Expects to Be Paid

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a church organist and have played for many weddings. After being underpaid, paid with knickknacks from the local gift shop, or not being paid at all because the couple assumed the music "came with the church," I decided to be more direct about my fees.

Now when a couple ask me to play for their wedding, I tell them up front what the cost will be, and what it covers (my travel time, the wedding rehearsal, providing music prior to the ceremony, etc.). I even ask them to please pay me at the rehearsal — because it has been my experience that the best man, or the bride's father, or whoever had my check often forgot to give it to me in the excitement of the wedding day.

My "policy" as helped me avoid much confusion and hard feelings.

Pastors should be compensated for performing the service, and they need to speak up in this regard. I know it's often difficult to ask church members (or non-members) for money, but most folks are relieved not to have to guess at what might be an appropriate fee for weddings, funerals, etc.

As an aside, I was appalled when my own pastor told my fiancé and me prior to our wedding that he had been paid anywhere from $10 to $500, and we should set our own payment. He and I were close enough friends that I could say, "My dentist doesn't let me decide how much I should pay him — and you shouldn't either!" (He got the message.)

PAID IN FULL IN KNOXVILLE, TENN.

DEAR PAID IN FULL: Thanks for clearing up a great many doubts in the minds of many. Some pastors and church organists are somewhat timid about mentioning "fees," so I'm printing your very helpful letter.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to comment about the letter signed "Brokenhearted Mother," who didn't want Grandma, who lives 1,000 miles away, to know that her favorite grandson (age 19) was in jail.

Abby, your advice was the best ever. "Tell the truth, and tell it now," you said. "If you don't, it will be found out." I know. It happened to me.

My story is similar, only my parents live just around the corner. "Joey," our youngest (age 16) got mixed up with the wrong crowd and had to spend seven months in a detention center. I, too, made up excuses for his always being "away" when Grandma phoned. ("Joey is in the shower," or "Joey is in the dark-room developing.") I kept this up for four months. Finally my mother said, "I know where Joey is. He has been writing to us!" Needless to say, I felt like a fool.

When Joey came home, I helped him unpack, and I found a large collection of letters — several from some of our neighbors! This surprised me. Joey said he wrote to almost everybody he knew, hoping they'd write back because getting mail was the only thing he had to look forward to — besides getting out.

I've been reading your column for years, and this is the first time I've seen this problem mentioned. "Brokenhearted Mother" is not alone.

Hi, I'm Willard Weaver and I work for TU Electric. You may not know, but often there are power lines buried underground, as well as overhead... sometimes even in your own yard! I'm telling you this because every year a number of serious injuries or deaths are caused by people accidentally digging into buried power lines.

Electrical safety is a priority.

These types of accidents can easily be avoided. If people would just think before they dig. Know the location of underground electric lines before you dig. If you're not sure, call us at TU Electric.

"simple skill."

One of the keys to success at this game is knowing when to play aces and kings. This hand is a good example. After the annoying diamond lead, you are in the dummy for the first and last time. You could use the entry to play a club back toward your king, but if the ace is offside, there will be no second chance.

A better play is to win the first trick with dummy's diamond king and immediately cash the diamond ace, discarding the heart ace from hand. Next play off dummy's three heart winners, discarding low clubs from hand. Finally lead a trump. You should lose just two tricks to the black-suit aces. You will go down if the hearts break badly, or if West, having only three hearts, A-10-x in spades and no club ace, gets a trump promotion — both of which are less likely than that the club ace will be offside.

Be extravagant when it pays

Continuing our look at hands from Ron Klinger's "Guide to Better Card Play," we switch to declarer-play. If you wish to test yourself, conceal the East-West cards and plan the play in five spades. West leads the diamond jack.

Facing an opening bid, South found it difficult to restrain himself from pushing toward slam. However, he would have done better to jump to four clubs (Gerber) over two no-trump. Since three clubs would be natural and forcing, four clubs may be used to ask for aces. In this way, North-South could have stopped in four spades. But then, as the Bard wrote, South wouldn't have been able to show his

Summer vege recipes

AP Special Features
Celery trivia No. 1: A "stalk" of celery actually refers to one whole bunch of celery ribs. Celery trivia No. 2: Celery rivals onions and carrots as the most-often-kept pantry vegetable.

Why is celery so popular?
One reason stems from the fact that it's easy to clean and store. After purchasing celery, trim the base and any damaged leaves and ribs. Wash it thoroughly, then place the drained celery in a clean plastic bag and store it in the vegetable drawer of your refrigerator.

For maximum freshness, plan to use celery within one week. If you find that celery wilts during storage, you can revive it by placing the ribs in ice water in the refrigerator for a few hours. You can refrigerate cut-up celery in a tightly covered container without water for about 5 days.

How versatile is celery?
Instead of taking celery for granted, consider these flavorful uses:

— Simmer celery with canned chicken broth to add fresh flavor. If you like, puree the celery with the broth for smooth, thick texture.

— When fresh fennel is out of season, substitute an equal amount of celery plus a pinch of fennel seeds.

— To make a seasoning packet for soups, pot roasts, fish, or chicken, stuff a large celery rib with a mixture of fresh herbs such as bay leaf, parsley, rosemary and thyme. Top with another rib, hollow side down, and tie with a string.

— For a more flavorful and moist meatloaf or hamburger, mix ½ cup chopped celery into the ground meat.

— For your next roast, place the meat on a "rack" of celery ribs. The celery will flavor the drippings for au jus or gravy.

— Bake fish, whole or in fillets, on a bed of sliced celery to absorb the flavor and aroma.

— For a quick microwave side dish, cook 2 cups bias-sliced celery and ¼ cup chopped onion in a dab of butter on high (100 percent power) for about 6 minutes. Stir in ¼ cup sliced almonds. Cook on high for 1 minute more.

— For a quick snack or appetizer, fill ribs with dairy sour cream or yogurt and top with salsa and shredded cheese.

Give versatile summer zucchini (and its cousins) a Southwestern twist: Coat zucchini in a spicy cheese sauce, wrap it in tortillas, and bake. For the rest of your meal, serve grilled chicken and citrus-avocado salad.

Summer Squash Enchiladas
¾ cup chopped onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon cooking oil
3 cups chopped zucchini or yellow summer squash
½ of a 4-ounce can chopped green chili peppers
1 recipe Spicy Sauce (recipe below)

Eight 6- or 7-inch flour tortillas
1½ cups chopped tomatoes
In a skillet cook onion and garlic in hot oil for 2 minutes; add squash. Cover and cook for 3 to 5 minutes or until tender. Drain. Stir in chili peppers. Set aside.

Prepare Spicy Sauce. Stir one-third of the Spicy Sauce into the squash mixture. Fill each tortilla with 1-3rd cup of squash mixture; roll up. Arrange tortillas in a greased 12-by 7½-by 2-inch baking dish. Top with remaining Spicy Sauce. Cover and bake in a 400-degree F oven about 30 minutes or until heated through. Top with tomatoes during the last 5 minutes of baking. Makes 8 side-dish servings.

Spicy Sauce: In a medium saucepan, melt 2 tablespoons margarine or butter. Stir in 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1 to 2 teaspoons chili powder, ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Add 1 cup milk. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir for 1 minute more. Add 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese; stir until melted.

Snyder All-Stars battle Dixie for District title

ABILENE — Snyder Little League All-Stars will tangle with Abilene Dixie at 8 p.m. today at Dixie Field here for the District 5 baseball championship.

Snyder's trip to the District final, its third straight, comes after beating Colorado City, 9-6, a week ago for the Area II crown, and tripping Area IV champ Clyde, 6-3, Friday.

Pitcher Patrick Cumbie hurled a 2-hitter in the win against Clyde, fanning 13 and allowing six walks.

Snyder's offense pushed all six runs across in the first two innings and held on for the victory behind Cumbie.

Snyder carries one post-season loss into today's battle, a 4-3 loss to C-City, while Dixie comes into the game undefeated.

The local all-stars must beat the Abilene squad twice to claim the District 5 title.

A win by Snyder today would force a second game slated for 8 p.m. Thursday here.

Patrick Jordan, who has 15-0 and 6-5 wins against Colorado City under his belt, is the projected starter for Snyder.

Michael Anderson is expected to take the hill for Dixie.

To get to Dixie Field take the Winters Freeway and exit left at Buffalo Gap Road to South 32nd St. Turn left and the park will be two blocks down on the right side of the street.

Rangers edge Clemens, Sox

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — A pitcher coming down with the flu and a batter whose wife was feeling the first twinges of labor pain combined to prolong Boston's misery.

Roger Clemens pitched well enough to shake Boston out of a four-game losing streak, but the Red Sox could get only five hits off ailing Jose Guzman (5-4) and two Texas relievers in the Rangers 2-1 victory on Monday night.

"It's hard to believe we can't muster up a little better offense than we have the last few nights," Boston manager Joe Morgan said.

"I made some good pitches and moved the ball around," said Clemens, who lost despite throwing a seven-hitter with four walks and four strikeouts. "I had fun, that's the bottom line. We're not playing well right now, but you can't let it get to you."

In the only other American League game, Chicago beat Milwaukee 5-4.

Steve Lyons' second-inning home run, his third, was all Boston could manage against Guzman, the first Texas starter to produce a win in eight games.

Though he showed the symptoms of a flu bug that hit four teammates, Guzman went 7 2-3 innings, allowing five hits and four walks and striking out eight. Kenny Rogers retired Mike Greenwell with two runners on in the eighth, and Jeff Russell pitched a perfect ninth for his 20th save, extending Texas' winning streak to three.

"Guzzie pitched just great," Texas manager Bobby Valentine said. "His off-speed stuff was awesome. They were way out in front of it all night."

"I got sick after the second inning," Guzman said. "But it was a close game, and I wanted to stay in. I hope I get sick every five days."

The flu bug kept Rafael Palmeiro and Dean Palmer out of the lineup, benched Ruben Sierra after six innings and infected Jeff Huxton and Guzman, Valentine said.

Rangers third baseman Steve Buechele was healthy but had one ear clogged for a call from wife Nancy, who was on the verge of going to the hospital to deliver the couple's second child.

When the call didn't come, Buechele scored a run in the first inning on Julio Franco's single and broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth with his team-high 15th homer.

"I hung a curve," Clemens (11-7) said of the homer. "The ball snowconed in my hand."

"The only difference was that he hung a curve," Buechele agreed. "We've done well against him, but there's no doubt he's one of the best."

"If I'd gotten a call (from his wife), I'd have been gone," Buechele admitted.

Catcher Ivan Rodriguez helped out by picking Greenwell off first, one batter before Lyons' home run, and catching Luis Rivera stealing.

"Guzman threw a great game," Lyons said. "But we've got some powerful hitters, and we should be doing more to get the job done. We've not a very good ball club now."

Reception set for golf coach

Outgoing Western Texas College athletic director, golf coach and golf course manager Dave Foster will be honored with a reception today at 4:30 p.m. in the pro shop.

Foster has recently resigned his post at WTC to become golf coach at the University of North Texas in Denton.

The reception will be hosted by the Western Texas College Men's Golf Association.

A two-man scramble, slated by the WTC-MGA will follow at 6 p.m.

Cards hand Houston 9-1 loss

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jose DeLeon had been waiting a long time for a performance like this.

DeLeon finally put everything together, pitching his first complete game in nearly two seasons in the St. Louis Cardinals' 9-1 victory over the Houston Astros on Monday night.

"I don't know why he doesn't win more," Astros manager Art Howe said. "He can pitch like that any time out."

Instead, DeLeon is 4-8 after his first complete game since Aug. 15, 1989. Instead, he won in July for the first time in two seasons. Instead, he won for the first time in six starts and the fifth time in 38 starts going back to last season.

Monday was an exception as DeLeon worked out of trouble and benefited from two big defensive plays on consecutive at-bats. Center fielder Ray Lankford threw out Rafael Ramirez trying to score on a fly ball to medium-deep center to end the fifth and right fielder Felix Jose made a leaping catch at the wall of a drive by Jeff Bagwell to lead off the sixth.

He also got a lot of runs to work with. Jose and Milt Thompson drove in three runs apiece as the Cardinals sent the Astros to their eighth loss in 10 games.

He gave up seven hits, struck out two and walked three.

The Cardinals won easily despite being held hitless for five innings by Ryan Bowen, making his major league debut.

Despite this, Bowen trailed 2-1 entering the fifth after balking home a run in the first and giving up a sacrifice fly to Jose in the fourth. Then the Cardinals erupted for seven runs on six hits in the sixth.

Pro football camps

Cowboys welcome new acquisition

AUSTIN (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys welcomed Tony Casillas to training camp Monday with the news that he will be stationed at left tackle where No. 1 draft pick Russell Maryland also plays.

"We'll put Tony at left tackle where he and Russ can compete," said defensive line coach Butch Davis. "It will be good for the team. We can put a fresh horn in there all the time. It might even prolong both of their careers."

Dallas gave the Atlanta Falcons two 1992 draft picks, including a second-rounder, for the former Oklahoma All-American who was a first-round pick five years ago.

Casillas flew into Austin Monday and took a physical but did not practice.

"Everything works out," Casillas said. "I was in a situation with the Falcons where I felt I got shafted and now I'm with an upcoming program."

"When I announced my retirement I didn't mean the NFL. I meant the Falcons. I achieved my goal. I got out of Atlanta."

The Cowboys gave Casillas a two-year extension on his contract through 1993.

Oilers complaining about workouts

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Houston Oilers want to be sure they don't leave any playoff energy in training camp.

The Oilers lost in the first round of the playoffs last season and some players went into the offseason feeling grueling workouts had left them fatigued for the playoffs.

"There are certain players who felt they were pretty tired at the end of the season and we want to make sure that doesn't happen again," quarterback Warren Moon said. "Camp is where it's going to be for us this year."

"We want to come out of camp fresh, not leave it all on the football field here in San Antonio."

Coach Jack Pardee said losing contributes to a tiring feeling.

"Everybody gets tired after so many games," Pardee said. "The teams that are winning and having a good time, they don't get nearly as tired as the teams that are struggling."

Wide receiver Drew Hill said there is a feeling among players that less will be better in preparing for the 1991 season.

"One thing is trying to keep the practices down and not leaving it out there on the field," Hill said. "This is Jack's second year and hopefully he'll take that into consideration. I think if we're fresher, we'll be ready at the end of the season."

Harbaugh ends contract holdout

Jim Harbaugh finally showed up for practice, a week late and $2.5 million richer. Ray Donaldson arrived four days late and $6,000 poorer, while Jarvis Williams came 10 days late and $15,000 lighter.

Then there's Frank Warren, a year late reporting to the New Orleans Saints. The defensive end was forced to sit out the 1990 season under suspension for drug abuse.

"We're not going to practice Sunday, but he'll come to the meeting and practice on Monday," coach Jim Mora said of Warren, who has been working out in New Orleans to prepare for his return.

Warren, a nine-year veteran, was suspended on April 30, 1990 after a third positive drug test. At the time of the suspension, the NFL said that Warren could apply for readmission to the league after one year. On July 12, the NFL allowed him to return, making him the fifth player to be reinstated.

Harbaugh had been holding out while waiting for a new contract. He got that Monday, when he put his signature to a pact calling for $1.15 million this year and $1.35 million next season. Harbaugh was paid $320,000 last season when he won 10 of his 14 starts before a shoulder injury that kept him out of the playoffs.

"The Bears were very fair to me and now it's my job to go out and play," Harbaugh said. "I'm happy to be back in camp."

Donaldson, the Indianapolis Colts' center, signed a four-year extension on Monday, and said his absence had nothing to do with his contract.

"It wasn't a holdout, I just had some personal things to take care of," Donaldson said.

Donaldson has been fined $1,500 per day since he failed to report to training camp with the other Colts veterans last Thursday.

L.A. police chief Gates says he'll leave next April

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nearly five months after the videotaped beating of a motorist, Police Chief Daryl F. Gates finally agreed to step down, but in his own time: next April.

"People of this city at long last can have this trauma behind them," said Mayor Tom Bradley. "We suffered. Our image has suffered on a nationwide basis and around the world. There has to be a sigh of relief by the people of this city."

The tough-talking Gates fought tears and his voice faltered as he told his officers in a videotaped message Monday of his plans to retire.

"That's it. April 1992," he said. "And maybe that'll stop all of the nonsense that's been going on. Maybe we can get back to work."

Gates, 64, has been under pressure to step down since the March 3 police beating of motorist Rodney King. The beating prompted a national uproar over police brutality. Four officers have been charged.

The 13-year chief had enjoyed the support of most of the City Council until earlier this month, when an independent commission formed after the beating found instances of racism and brutality in the 8,300-member department and suggested Gates retire.

In a letter to City Council President John Ferraro, Gates said he agreed with the commission's recommendation that a transition of power begin immediately.

He also agreed with the panel that he should remain in office until his successor is chosen, although he said that could delay his retirement past April.

Gates told reporters he was leaving "a little sooner than I had planned."

It was not clear how the next chief would be selected. The mayor said a nationwide search would begin immediately.

Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., who represents a largely black district of Los Angeles, said the chief should step down immediately.

"By his remaining he can institute promotions, demotions

Next month Furlong can pick his home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A battle for custody of the young actor featured in "Terminator 2: Judgment Day" will soon be moot because Edward Furlong will be old enough to choose his guardian.

Furlong will be 14 on Aug. 2 and able under state law to decide if he wants to live with his mother or continue living with her sister and brother, lawyers for both sides said after a hearing Monday.

Furlong has lived with his aunt, Nancy Tafuya, 31, and uncle, Sean Furlong, 22, of Highland Park, for the past year.

His mother, Eleanor Torres, 32, of Pasadena, said she wants custody of the boy to protect his acting income from alleged mismanagement.

Marc Berry, the lawyer for Tafuya and Sean Furlong, said Torres' claims are baseless.

Edward earned about $30,000 from the movie.

and shape the department in his image," she said. She said Gates could make changes "that a new chief coming in will find hard to dismantle."

Ramona Ripston, president of the Southern California chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, said she was relieved Gates had finally set a date, but she hoped he would retire sooner if a new chief was hired quickly.

"The reign of the imperial police chief must come to an end," she said.

Gates, who earns $168,000 a year, has civil service protection that gives him virtual life tenure.

The City Council is considering changing the system to cap the chief's tenure at 10 years.

Currently, the city personnel department would test applicants for the chief's job and make recommendations to the five-member Police Commission, appointed by Bradley. The Police Commission would choose a chief.

Under a proposal expected to be taken up by the City Council within two weeks, the personnel department would give a larger number of candidates to the mayor, who would pick the chief.

Those changes require voter approval and probably won't go on the ballot until next June. City officials have said they will look for a legal way to hire a new chief with the understanding that tenure and selection issues are up in the air.

Senate.

Besides provisions directly related to the bonds, the House bill includes proposals to allow many nonviolent felonies to be punishable by community service rather than incarceration, and to make eligible for early parole certain inmates who are elderly, significantly ill, physically handicapped, mentally ill or mentally retarded.

Rep. Sam Russell, D-Mount Pleasant, won approval for an amendment to the bill specifying that the nonviolent felonies eligible for community service may be punished instead by time in county jail.

A number of counties already have sued the state because their jails are holding inmates awaiting transfer to state prison.

But Russell emphasized that community service, with an accompanying fine, would be an alternative to jail time. The counties would keep the fine proceeds, he said.

"I don't think we're sticking it to the counties at all," he said.

The punishment for the new class of felonies would be 1,000 to 5,000 hours of community service, a fine of up to $10,000 or both — or up to a year in jail and a fine of up to $3,000. Russell's proposal was approved today, 100-44.

Reps. Dalton Smith, R-Houston, and Paul Colbert, D-Houston, unsuccessfully pressed Monday for the larger, $1.1 billion plan. They said more prisons are needed to ensure inmates serve a longer portion of their sentences.

Current prison capacity, including lockups under construction, is 65,000.

Police work assault cases

Snyder police took three reports of assault and made one arrest Monday.

At 11:09 a.m., charges of aggravated assault were filed against a 22-year-old Snyder man in connection with a fight which took place late Saturday evening at the Latin American Center. The incident sent one man to Cogdell Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

No arrest had been made in reference to the assault as of this morning.

Class C assault charges were filed Monday against a woman in reference to an altercation which took place on July 18. On the date of the altercation, one woman filed assault charges against another woman. On Monday, the second woman came to the police department to file charges against the first.

Police also investigated a third case of assault Monday. Officers were contacted by a 14-year-old

Also attempted rape twice...

Smith committed one earlier rape, according to prosecutor

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The prosecutor in William Kennedy Smith's rape case wants to introduce evidence at the trial that Smith sexually assaulted a woman in Washington three years ago and tried to force himself on two others.

Maira Lasch, assistant Palm Beach County state attorney, made the allegations in court papers filed Monday. Smith goes on trial Aug. 5.

Smith, 30, is charged with raping a 29-year-old Jupiter, Fla., woman on March 30 at the Kennedy family's Palm Beach estate.

Palm Beach police said months ago that checks with agencies in Washington and other places where Smith has lived showed no record of earlier sexual assault allegations.

Lasch said Smith, a nephew of Sen. Edward Kennedy, raped a woman in Washington between May 1 and June 30 of 1988, and twice attempted rape — in Washington between April 1 and June 30 of 1988 and in New York City between June 1 and Aug. 30 of 1983.

In the court papers, Lasch said she would call the women to testify under state law allowing use of evidence of similar crimes. Circuit Judge Mary Lupo would decide whether to allow the testimony.

Neal Sonnett, a Miami defense attorney not involved in the Smith case, said Lupo could exclude the testimony as irrelevant or overly prejudicial against Smith.

It wasn't clear whether the women reported the alleged attacks at the time.

In April, The National Enquirer published an interview with a woman who claimed Smith had raped her in Washington.

Enquirer executive editor Dan Schwartz said Monday that Palm Beach police contacted the Enquirer after the story appeared and that the allegations in the court papers were the same as those made by the woman the supermarket tabloid interviewed.

Washington police on Monday said they could not confirm or deny the allegations. A spokesman for the U.S. Attorney's office for the District of Columbia, who would prosecute the crimes there, did not return a phone call.

Lasch is under a gag order barring her from commenting about the case and did not speak to reporters about the filing. Smith's attorneys, Roy Black and Mark Schnapp, also under the gag order, did not return telephone calls.

Paul Donovan, spokesman for Sen. Kennedy, said the Massachusetts Democrat "continues to believe that when this case is decided Willie will be found innocent."

Lasch's court papers described the alleged rape in Washington as involving "physical force and violence not likely to cause serious personal injury."

In the alleged attempts in Washington and New York, Smith grabbed the women, threw them down and restrained them but "failed in the perpetration or was intercepted or prevented," Lasch said.

The Jupiter woman claims Smith tackled her near a swimming pool and held her down.

Eric Seiff, the lawyer for the New York woman, wouldn't discuss the alleged attack and said his client would have no comment.

The Washington women could not be reached for comment. The only address given for them in the court document was Lasch's office.

Smith's whereabouts were not immediately known. He has not started his medical residency at the University of New Mexico's School of Medicine and apparently isn't in Albuquerque yet, school spokeswoman Gail Sutton said.

Wedding crashers turned away

CHEEKTOWAGA, N.Y. (AP) — Hundreds of spectators and a couple of photographers tried to crash the wedding of "Growing Pains" co-stars Kirk Cameron and Chelsea Noble.

One photographer dressed as a priest in hopes of eluding guards during the Saturday wedding at a church in this Buffalo suburb. Another tried to hide in the church's confessional. Security guards kept the uninvited guests at bay.

Cameron, 20, and Noble, 26, met on the set of the sitcom.

The bride, wearing a white dress with a pearl-embroidered bodice and floor-length veil, smiled at fans and flashed her diamond ring.

Cameron gave reporters the thumbs-up sign when asked how the ceremony went.

NEW YORK (AP) — Woody Allen entered Michael's Pub through the side entrance for his weekly clarinet performance after union musicians set up a picket line.

The maker of such films as "Manhattan" and "Annie Hall" for years has rarely missed a Monday night performance at Michael's.

The white grub is the larval form of an insect commonly known as the June beetle. This grub feeds on grass roots and can severely damage home lawns and some agricultural crops, including corn and grain sorghum.

Severely damaged grass turns yellow and can be lifted easily by hand or rolled off the ground. Crop or lawn damage occurs mostly during the summer and fall and control is most effective from late July to mid-August.

Lawns suspected of having grubs should be examined by taking several small plug samples or cores about 3-4 inches in diameter and 4 inches deep. Take the plugs from all parts of the lawn. Tear the plugs apart and thoroughly examine them for grubs. Treatment usually is justified when more than four grubs per square foot are found. To treat for grubs, use diazinon or Dursban. A decline in the number of grubs should be observed in about 30 days following treatment. If the grubs are definitely restricted to one area of the lawn, treat the infested area only.

Proper application is important. The key is getting the product to the grubs in the root zone at the proper time. Granular formulations may be applied accurately and quickly with a lawn fertilizer spreader. Immediately follow granular applications with a thorough watering to move the product down to the root zone where the grubs are located. Keep children, pets and other animals off the yard until the lawn is completely dry.

ASCS Report

By Joe Hefner
County Executive Director

COTTON REFERENDUM

As a result of the 1990 Farm Bill, FACTA, the Cotton Research and Promotion Act was amended to eliminate the producer refund provisions and provide for assessments on imports of upland cotton and cotton-containing products. To make these provisions effective, the amendment must be approved by cotton producers and importers.

To be eligible to vote in this referendum, you must have been engaged and shared in the production of cotton in 1990. Spouses are also eligible to vote. Corporations, estates and trusts are eligible to one vote. Individuals members of a partnership will each receive a ballot; however, the partnership itself will not be eligible.

Ballots were mailed July 8 from this office to eligible cotton producers. It is possible that some eligible producers did not receive a ballot. If you feel you are an eligible voter in this referendum, but did not receive a ballot and would like to cast one, please contact the office. Voters may cast their ballots by delivering them to the local ASCS Office by July 26. Ballots returned by mail must be postmarked no later than that date. Remember to sign the label on your voted ballot.

Scurry County ASC Committee will canvass the ballots on Wednesday, July 31, beginning at 8 a.m. in the Scurry County ASCS Office. This meeting will be open to any interested persons.

The information given herein is for educational purposes only. Education programs conducted by the ASCS and SCS serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

SCS Notes

By Michael Squires, Range Conservationist

What is deferred grazing? What does it mean to the rancher who grazes several hundred head of cattle or to the producer who grazes only a few head? How can it benefit you? Let's take a look at some of the advantages.

Deferred grazing means to postpone grazing or to rest grazing land for a specified period of time — to remove all livestock from a pasture while allowing the pasture to recover and replenish the amount, and kind, of grasses. This resting promotes natural revegetation by increasing the vigor of the forage stand and permitting desirable plants to produce seed. It is also a necessary means to afford newly seeded areas the time for seedling establishment. Also, you are helping to build up a feed reserve for fall and winter grazing or emergency use and to reduce soil erosion. Deferred grazing is applicable on all rangeland.

In terms of benefits received by the rancher, deferred grazing means extra grass will be available for use by livestock during the critical grazing period. Consider it as a savings account — money available for use when other finances have been depleted. Reduced supplemental feeding, whether it be 10 percent or 90 percent, means more profit at sale time.

Deferment is particularly important in certain situations: during and following drought periods, as we have been through in this area over the past two years; on deteriorated rangelands where the plants are in a low vigor condition; following any type of brush management practice; and following a heavy concentrated use of plants requiring seasonal grazing.

The length of time that a pasture should be deferred is directly related to the type of forage, the growth habits and stage of growth of the plants, and the seasonal climatic conditions. The minimum amount of time needed is 90 consecutive days during the growing season. However, the deferment of one pasture should not result in the abuse and overuse of the rest of the operating unit.

Typical deferment times should be planned to commence with the beginning of a major growth period, and the rest should continue until the plant species being targeted has matured a seed crop.

The warm growing season in this area is typically from April 1 until about Nov. 15. If the rangeland is in poor condition, you might need to defer the pasture an entire growing season for the first year, and then 90 consecutive days during the growing season each subsequent year until a fair condition is reached. At that point, deferment may be lengthened to perhaps 90 days during the growing season every three years. This is where being a good manager is important. You need to know the condition of your rangelands, almost on a daily basis, so that you can spot upward or downward trends and make the necessary adjustments to stocking rates to correct overgrazing or harvest more production from the pasture. Deferred grazing can benefit us in other ways also.

Water quality is an incentive in deferred grazing. In areas with bare ground or a low percent ground cover, deferred grazing can reduce sediment runoff by increasing ground cover and thereby help to improve water quality in our ponds, streams and lakes.

The increased infiltration rates will increase soil moisture which will increase plant growth and transpiration. If the infiltration rates are increased, aquifers may be recharged and spring flows restarted or improved.

Whatever the schedule, deferred grazing is a very important and needed tool of the livestock producer. Deferment should be planned and practiced regularly, in order to maintain your rangelands in the best condition possible. Consider deferred grazing as a preventative maintenance program. If you do not plan to prevent problems, you can't avoid them.

All species of grass need management

By KENT MILLS

No doubt some of you have noticed that some grasses quit growing and began curing earlier than others after our abundant rains in May and June. I have been surprised at how early this has taken place for Buffalograss. There are several reasons that Buffalograss is the first to show signs of moisture stress.

The first reason is that Buffalograss is in the group of grasses called "short-grasses." This refers to the height which the plant reaches in comparison to other grasses. The other groups are "mid-grasses" and "tall-grasses." The depth of a plant's roots is directly related to its height. The shorter grasses, with roots that only go down to the 1-2 foot range, run out of moisture earlier than deeper-rooted plants. Therefore, Buffalograss, and those in the short-grass category, will slow down their growth sooner after a rain.

The other reason Buffalograss stops growing sooner can be attributed to management. Every rancher has noticed that most cattle have a preference for Buffalograss, especially in winter where there is no green, winter vegetation. It is our best summer forage for holding its nutrients and digestibility in the winter. This preference by the cattle then leads to the fact that, under continuous grazing, Buffalograss is overused each year. This causes the plant to use some of its reserve food supply, stored in the roots, to get more growth prior to frost each year. As a result, Buffalograss is in a weaker state in the spring when all other plants are competing for moisture and nutrients.

Also, the amount of rain is not nearly as important as the amount that gets into the ground. When a raindrop makes direct impact with the soil surface, it compacts and seals the soil. The only preventative for this compaction is to have enough leaf cover to intercept the raindrop, absorb the impact, and then allow the moisture to gently fall to the ground and infiltrate into the soil. As I mentioned earlier, Buffalograss is subject to overuse each year and has less cover than other plants not so severely grazed. This means that less of the moisture can actually get into the ground and be utilized by Buffalograss.

This scenario is plainly evident this year and should be of concern to ranchers. When a plant, such as Buffalograss, is weakened each year, a few plants die out. This loss is barely noticeable each year, but over a period of time, less nutritious and digestible species of grass will take the place of the lost Buffalograss. This results in an overall lowering of the quality of the cattle's diet.

I know that ranchers cannot manage their grazing for just one species of grass. However, care must be taken that in 25 or more years, his descendants can make a living from the same piece of ground. Heavy, continuous grazing takes its toll on rangeland, especially our better forages. We should all try to manage so we leave our little piece of earth better than we found it.

Best of Texas Show slated

Several local 4-H and FFA members will be exhibiting their steer and lamb projects at the Best of Texas Steer and Lamb Prospect Show, scheduled July 26-28 at Scurry County Coliseum.

The show is open to all 4-H and FFA members in Texas. About 250 steers and 400 lambs from across the state will be exhibited during the three-day event. The lamb show will be Saturday, July 27, at 10 a.m. and the steer show will be Sunday, July 28, beginning at 8 a.m.

Jake Fite of Burkburnett will serve as steer judge. Allen Turner of Ballinger will serve as lamb judge.

HOME FOOD STORAGE SHELF - FREEZER - REFRIGERATOR

Household foods are generally stored on shelves, in the refrigerator and in the freezer. Proper food storage is important to help:

- control the cost of food by avoiding waste
- retain nutrients
- preserve flavor, color and texture of food
- prevent illness caused by harmful bacteria

Common bacteria that develop in improperly stored foods can cause illness are Salmonella, Staphylococcus, Clostridium Perfringens and Clostridium Botulinum.

SHELF STORAGE

Store foods in the coolest cabinets or pantry and away from appliances which produce heat. Many staples and canned foods have a relatively long shelf life, but buy only what you expect to use within the time recommended for each product. Put dates on the food packages that are not date coded and use the oldest first. Geographic area affects storage time. Warm and humid climates, shorten the shelf life of foods. Buy packaged food in fresh-looking packages. Dusty cans or torn labels may indicate old stock. Also check for pull dates. Carefully check dent cans for leakage and rust before buying. Do not purchase badly dented and bulging cans.

REFRIGERATOR STORAGE

Store food in the home refrigerator from 34 degrees F to 40 degrees F. Foods spoil rapidly above 40 degrees F. The temperature in frostless and self-defrosting refrigerators is fairly uniform throughout the cabinet, including the storage area in the door. In refrigerators that must be defrosted manually, the coldest area outside the freezing is the chill tray just below it. The area at the bottom of the cabinet is the warmest. The door and hydrator storage areas are usually several degrees higher than the rest of the refrigerator. When air circulates in the refrigerator, the cooler air moves downward and forces the warmer air near the bottom to rise, this air motion dries out any uncovered or unwrapped food.

In most refrigerators, with the control set for normal operation, the temperature in the general storage area is below 40 degrees F. You can check the temperature in a refrigerator by placing a refrigerator thermometer at different locations in the cabinet. If the temperature is above 40 degrees, regulate the control to lower the temperature.

Frequent opening of the refrigerator door, especially on warm, humid days, or an accumulation of thick frost on the freezing unit, raises the temperature of the refrigerator. Use food stored in the refrigerator quickly—don't depend on maximum storage time. Clean the refrigerator regularly to cut down on food odors. Remove spoiled foods immediately to prevent decay from spreading to other foods.

FREEZER STORAGE

The best temperature for frozen foods storage is at 0 degrees F. the temperature should not reach higher than 5 degrees F. Check the temperature with a thermometer, or use this rule of thumb; if the freezer can't keep ice cream brick-solid, the temperature is above the recommended level. The freezing compartments of some home refrigerators are not designed to give a temperature of 0 degrees F, the temperature needed for prolonged storage of frozen foods. Hold frozen foods in these compartments only a few days. In refrigerator freezers where temperature can be maintained at 0 degrees F in the freezer cabinet, food may be kept for the same storage periods as in a freezer. Date food packages with an "expiration date" according to maximum storage time recommended if they are not date coded. Longer storage is not dangerous, but flavors and textures deteriorate. When shopping, pick up frozen foods just before going to the checkout counter. Purchase only the foods that are frozen solid. Place them in the home freezer as soon as possible. Cook or thaw according to label instructions. Place foods to be frozen in the coldest part of the freezer. Freeze no more than three pounds per cubic foot of freezer space within 24 hours. Keep the freezer full for best results. Also keep a written inventory of freezer contents.
