The SDN Column

A few days ago, this column incorrectly used the word "canine" in place of the word "feline" in some comment about mountain lions and other species of cats.

So far, the only one to call our hand on it is Hub Cole, 212 Thirty-fourth Street, who writes that he is "an old pro on cats and dogs. All of the lobo wolves and Great Danes, down to the tiny Chihuahua are canines," he reminds, (members of the canidae family).

"On the other hand, eats, all the way from old tabby to the mighty lion, including panther, puma, cougar, catamount, jaguar, bobcat, skunk or pole cat, civit, ringtail raccoon, tiger, leopard–just to name a few, are of the feline family, belonging to the family felidae."

However, Cole warns, "don't get felines mixed with the two-legged cats we meet so many of today."

Then, in a P. S., he noted: "On second thought, all pole cats are not felines."

The reported near-extinction of the mountain lion in Texas brought to mind a similar report from one of the agencies a few years ago concerning the timber wolf. It was stated that this wolf could not be found any closer than Nebraska. But, a short time before the report was issued, we saw one cross a road near Lake Of The Pines in East Texas, and residents in that area said it was, indeed, a timber wolf and that it was not at all unusual to see one there.

The rash of slayings of law enforcement officers the past few days may well cause Texas legislators to take a second look before they approve the proposed new penal code. The state may be in no mood to reduce penalties for some types of crimes, and it may be especially unpopular to put any more restrictions on peace officers in performance of their duties. The Dallas District Attorney, Henry Wade, says the proposed new penal code does this. If so, it should be thrown out.

The Texas Safety Association has a campaign going to get driver education put into the foundation school program in Texas. This would reduce the cost to pupils in many districts where those from less affluent families are finding it hard to pay the fees. The association said a survey of 34 school districts showed that students are required to pay fees as high as $50 to take driver education courses. This may account for the fact the only 56 per cent of the eligible students take the course, it was suggested.–WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 24, the 55th day of 1971. There are 310 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1920, the Nazi party was organized in Germany.

In 1761, James Otis of Massachusetts protested against the English system of search and seizure. He declared: "A man's house is his castle."

In 1868, the U. S. House of Representatives began impeachment proceedings against President Andrew Johnson. He later was acquitted in a trial in the Senate.

In 1863, Arizona was organized as a territory.

In 1903, the United States acquired a naval station in Guantanamo Bay in Cuba.

In 1945, American troops liberated Manila from Japanese occupation in the Pacific war.

In 1946, Juan Peron was elected president of Argentina.

Ten years ago— The United States suggested U. S. Cuban differences could not be resolved until the Castro government permitted freedom of political choice.

Five years ago— Armed forces in Ghana deposed President Kwame Nkrumah while he was out of the country, en route to visit Communist China.

One year ago— President Georges Pompidou of France began a state visit to Washington.

Nixon Backs Away From Wage-Price Freeze

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backing away from a wage-price freeze, President Nixon has shelved union wage standards on federal building projects in hopes of controlling inflation in the massive construction industry.

Top union and management leaders immediately attacked the President's move as an inadequate and ineffective way to moderate the upward spiral of wages and prices in the building industry.

By choosing this relatively mild step, Nixon left himself open to charges he isn't willing to go far enough to bring inflation under control.

Declaring an inflation emergency exists in construction, Nixon Tuesday suspended indefinitely the 1931 Davis-Bacon Act requiring payment of prevailing wages on federal building jobs.

The effect is to free contractors from paying workers union wages prescribed by the government on projects involving federal money. Only new government projects are affected by the decision.

"The mere suspension of the Davis-Bacon Act may have some long-range results but it will not help in any way to stop the demands for huge wage increases with 1,368 construction agreements set to expire this year," said William E. Dunn, executive director of the Associated General Contractors of America.

In Miami Beach, AFL-CIO President George Meany said Nixon's move will "have no real effect on halting inflation."

He called it "an open invitation to unscrupulous employers to exploit workers by competitive undermining of fair wages and labor standards."

For more than a week, the administration had let it be known it was seriously considering a freeze on wages, prices and profits in the construction industry, where pay settlements averaged more than 18 per cent last year and costs have soared.

But Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told reporters, "The President simply didn't want to try to enforce a wage-price freeze or government-imposed controls on a reluctant industry."

Nixon said in a statement the Davis-Bacon suspension was "the most appropriate of the actions which are available to me at this time."

He called on states and other government units with similar prevailing-wage laws to take similar action.

More Consumer Protection Pledged

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon promised expanded consumer protection activities in executive agencies today while proposing to Congress a delay in one of his key legislative proposals.

The President submitted to the new Congress proposed legislation similar to that which died in the last Congress.

The new package, however, sidestepped the last session's stalemate over creation of a consumer protection arm to represent consumers before federal agencies.

Nixon noted that a report by the advisory council on executive organization had recommended a separate consumer agency combining the duties now contained in several agencies. The President asked for a delay of action until the proposals can be studied.

The proposal placed the administration in opposition to Democrats and Republicans in Congress who have urged an independent additional government agency to represent consumers.

Nixon also resubmitted his approach to legislation that would permit consumers to band together in damage suits which normally would be thrown out separately as too small.

His approach of triggering such suits only by previous government action again placed him in opposition to the broader approach taken by members of Congress.

In the executive offices, the President proposed expanding the duties of his consumer assistant, Virginia H. Knauer, and the product safety activities in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The product safety proposals would broaden HEW's present authority to deal with hazardous household substances and toys. Nixon proposed giving HEW the power to fix minimum safety standards and to ban products not measuring up to the standards.

Nixon issued a new executive order for Mrs. Knauer's office, granting her broader powers than existed under the original executive order issued by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Mrs. Roberson Dies Today

Mrs. Mae Blanche (Brown) Roberson, 79, died at 1:10 a.m. today in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Thursday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel, with Roy Chamberlain officiating. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale.

Mrs. Roberson was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Lucille House of Snyder and Mrs. LaNell Davis of Lomita, Calif; a son Ralph Roberson; a brother, Buford Brown of Winnsboro; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Heart Fund Drive Begins

Final steps were taken this morning for the Scurry County Heart Association's annual drive for funds.

The local drive will be climaxed by the "Heart Sunday" appeal Feb. 28. Several organizations are assisting in the drive this year and they will be active in the house-to-house canvass on Heart Sunday.

Instructions were given to team captains at a breakfast session this morning of board members and other workers in the drive.

Mrs. Lanny Wadleigh, R. N., president of the local association, presided at the meeting this morning, and campaign materials were distributed by Mrs. Charles Jones, chairman for the drive.

Laos News Coverage Policy Eased

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — High-ranking sources said today the U.S. Command is about to loosen slightly restrictions that have made news coverage of the Vietnamese American operation in southern Laos the most incomplete of the war.

They said officers are "working out the details" for a press helicopter to cross the border and take correspondents to the front. The craft now flies only to comparatively inactive American camps in Vietnam near the frontier.

Apparently the seven-passenger helicopter will be the only U.S. craft for the 60 correspondents at the front. In other operations newsmen are allowed to fly in any aircraft when space is available. Since the operation began Feb. 8, the command has invoked a Defense Department edict against using military aircraft to carry civilians across international boundaries.

No policy change has been announced.

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam met Monday with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, and sources said one of their topics was the "bad press" the Laotian operation is getting. They were said to be concerned about dispatches reporting that the operation was stalled and in trouble.

The South Vietnamese have an open invitation for American correspondents to ride their helicopters into Laos, but due to their scarcity many newsmen have waited for days at government posts without catching a ride.

RABBI BARRED FROM JEWISH CONGRESS

Belgian Police Arrest Kahane

BRUSSELS (AP) — Rabbi Meir Kahane, head of the militant Jewish Defense League, was picked up today by Belgian police after he was barred from a congress of Jews from 37 countries discussing the plight of Soviet jewry.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the case was being studied to see what official action would be taken.

An uproar broke out on the floor of the congress when a delegate, Dr. Morris Brafman of Far Rockaway, N.Y. made his way to the platform seized the microphone and shouted:

"The Belgian police have just arrested Rabbi Kahane."

Dr. Brafman was allowed to talk to reporters in another room.

"We're already trying to do something to get Rabbi Kahane out," he said.

Brafman is head of the International League for the Repatriation of Russian Jews. He said he does not belong to Rabbi Kahane's organization, but thinks all viewpoints should be represented at the congress.

Rabbi Herschel Schacter of New York, one of the organizers of the congress, said Brafman belongs to a "dissident group" of delegates.

Kahane, head of the militant Jewish Defense League in the United States, arrived from New York this morning and went to the conference hall, coatless and wearing a black skullcap. He was allowed only as far as the lobby, to write a note asking to be let in. The nine-man presidium of the conference rejected his request unanimously.

A spokesman for the conference said earlier that the New York rabbi would not be admitted because his "tactics are repugnant to the members of the Jewish organizations present at the congress."

Kahane held a short impromptu news conference in the garden outside the hall and told newsmen:

"I want to attend as a delegate. I speak for hundreds of thousands of Jews who are upset by this discussion of general concepts. We don't have time for general concepts. We need concrete action."

Police sources said they were giving Kahane official warning against any violent demonstration or any attempt to speak at the congress.

My Lai Trial Is Delayed

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Three members of the jury, opposing attorneys and Lt. William L. Calley Jr. were called into the judge's chambers today and the My Lai trial was temporarily delayed.

It was not learned why the Judge Ried W. Kennedy had summoned the principal parties and jury members. But defense attorney George Latimer said, there had been an unusual development. He did not elaborate.

There was no comment from the prosecution.

The trial resumed after a one-hour delay, following a day in which Calley took the stand.

He talked about the men, women and children of My Lai as being all part of the enemy —the people he'd been ordered to destroy.

New Fighting On Trail Drive

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Two South Vietnamese bases inside Laos were under sharp attack late today in a new upsurge of fighting in the drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh trail field reports said.

Six more American helicopters were shot down or damaged in the action around the bases, but no details were available, the accounts said.

One of the bases was said to be north of Highway 9, the main incursion route and the other to the south. Both are 10 miles inside Laos. A South Vietnamese ranger base six miles inside Laos was overrun last week with heavy casualties.

Officials in Saigon said they had no information on the reports of the new fighting.

The field reports could not say how many of the helicopters were shot down and how many damaged. Three helicopters were shot down Tuesday.

Tuesday's losses raised to 29 the number of U.S. helicopters reported lost on both sides of the border in the 17-day-old drive into Laos. At least 40 Americans have been killed, 15 are missing and 26 wounded in the crashes.

The big U.S. base at Quang Tri in the northern zone came under rocket attack late tonight, Associated Press correspondent William Barton reported.

He said the shelling hit the outer edges of the base and lasted about half an hour, but there were no immediate reports of casualties or damage. Quang Tri is temporary headquarters for the U.S. 24th Corps, the parent unit directing American activities in support of the Laos drive.

Earlier, the U.S. Command said American air strikes have wiped out huge North Vietnamese war stockpiles on the Ho Chi Minh trail, including an estimated 800 tons of ammunition, more than 120 caches of weapons and supplies and 330 vehicles. It also reported four fuel pipelines cut.

More Phones Here Than In Cambodia

The World: 255,200,000; Pitcairn Island: 17.

That's not a lopsided football score, but rather a census of the world's telephones for 1969. Pitcairn Island achieved the dubious honor for having the fewest number of telephones on record.

"By contrast, Snyder recorded 8,774 telephones which is more than all the telephones in the country of Cambodia," said Bill Gilliland, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Whether a tiny South Pacific island or a midwestern American city, each telephone user played an important role in boosting telephone growth in the world.

These figures are based on 1969 statistics presented in the American Telephone and Telegraph booklet, "The World's Telephones." They are the most recent statistics available since it takes about a year to collect information from all countries in the world.

According to the booklet, the United States leads all countries with 114,798,000 telephones. Runners up are Japan and the United Kingdom, with 23,131,688 and 13,947,000 respectively.

"We Americans have set another record–that of being the chattiest nation in the world," said Gilliland. "Each man, woman and child in America carried on an average of 745 telephone conversations during the year which is more than the combined average of our counterparts in Mexico, Brazil, Chile, Greece and the United Kingdom," he said.

Gilliland pointed out that even though countries like Greece, Brazil, Hong Kong and Korea lag behind the U. S. in total telephones, their telephone growth rate is more than double the 7.3 per cent world average.

"It will be a long while before they equal telephone concentration in the U. S. which is one phone for every two people," he said.

To dramatize his point, Gilliland compared Texas with its 4,809,702 to Sweden which has 4,306,905 telephones.

"With the other four states of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas and Missouri served by Southwestern Bell, the total company phones at the end of 1969 surpassed the number in Canada. Southwestern Bell had 10,011,433 phones compared to Canada's 9,302,828," he said.

Gilliland offered one final note for the record. In the past 50 years the world's population has nearly doubled while telephone growth has increased twelvefold.

"If you think progress is shrinking the world, you're right, and if you'd like to go back to the good old days, try Volta, Africa–there are only three telephones for each 10,000 persons," he said.

By these standards, even Pitcairn Island looks progressive with one phone for every five people.

Robbery Suspects Arrested

ITALY, Tex. (AP) — State patrolman Clarence Andrews Jr. arrested two men within an hour after a lone robber took about $4,500 at gun point from the First State Bank of Italy Tuesday.

Approaching the window of teller Jo Bradley, the bandit pointed what Mrs. Bradley said looked like a starter's pistol for athletic games and ordered, "Give me all the money you've got."

Mrs. Bradley handed over the cash and the man fled without others in the bank knowing it was a holdup until he was gone.

Andrews, from Dallas, made the two arrests at Rocket, near here in Ellis County. He said they were in a car with the license number of a vehicle spotted near the bank.

The prisoners were identified on arraignment before a justice of the peace in Waxahachie as E. K. "Blackie" Mathis, 67, of Waxahachie and Bobby D. Maxwell, 37, of Dallas.

Police Unravel Slaying Case

By RICHARD BEENE
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Officers were still unraveling the case today of two runaways and a teen-age companion charged in a kidnap-slaying.

One official said Cindy Lee Horner, 12, of Kemah and her half-brother, Keith Hughes, 13, of Houston, acted older than their age and appeared unconcerned.

"They seem to have no awareness of the seriousness of their situation or the seriousness of the offense," chief juvenile probation officer Richard Moreno said.

"I feel like I'm talking with a 15 or 16-year old girl in conversations with her, Moreno said.

"We see this in all kinds of kids that roam the streets and shift for themselves. They get this way-they get self-sufficient, not very concerned with things."

At first glance the girl looks older than 12, with her round, wire-rimmed "granny glasses" and long hair, Moreno said. Judging from her conversation, he added, "she's a precocious little girl."

Others described Hughes as "precocious" also.

As for Hughes, Moreno said it was difficult to guess the small, shaggy-haired boy's age. Hughes' mother asked juvenile officers to give him a hair cut, Moreno said, and he may look more his age after that.

The girl and Hughes are charged with murder in the slaying of Mrs. Gaynell Newsom, 61, of San Antonio, found shot to death on a ranch near Fredericksburg last Friday.

Charged with them in the slaying is Patrick Teague, 19, of Houston.

The three were arrested near Ozona Friday night as they drove Mrs. Newsom's Cadillac.

Among their belongings officers found a book called "The Satanic Bible."

A homicide investigator, asked what role the book played in the case, replied that evidence gathered so far indicated Teague "has some kind of a 'hold' on these kids."

It was not clear how long the two may have known Teague.

Officials in Galveston County said a charge was filed against Teague and Hughes Feb. 10, apparently in the theft of a television and household furnishings from Jack Horner of Kemah, Hughes' stepfather.

Teague was to be tried Feb. 11 on a rape charge in Houston but records showed he jumped bond.

Juvenile officers said Hughes and the girl ran away from home about five months ago. They had been living with their divorced mother, Mrs. Normal Horner of Houston, but about nine months ago the girl went to stay with Jack Horner, her father, in Kemah, officials said.

Women Urge Bill Passage

AUSTIN (AP) — A man can shoot his wife's paramour and it's justifiable homicide but if the wife shoots her husband's lover it's murder, a Texas woman's rights advocate says.

She and 100 other women from across the state converged on a House committee Tuesday night to urge passage of a constitutional amendment on women's rights.

The legislature has tackled the question six times in the past. The Senate this year has passed the measure, as it has done before, but the stumbling block has always been in the House, and sometimes in the Constitutional Amendments Committee where it is now.

"This is an idea whose time has come;" said the resolution's sponsor, Rep. Rex Braun of Houston. "The legalistic arguments which have stymied this in the past don't amount to a hill of beans."

"It seems a travesty of justice that when Texas passed a civil rights act, women were excluded," said Hermine Tobolowski, the legislative chairman and past president of the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Mrs. Tobolowski said women were discriminated against under Texas law in salary schedules at state institutions and in the number of hours per week a woman may work, thus forcing her to moonlight.

"Texas is the laughing stock of the nation" because it "permits the husband to kill his wife's paramour and calls it justifiable homicide,"

It should be murder in both cases, she said.

The measure was sent routinely to a subcommittee, as were three other proposed constitutional amendments.

One amendment would remove the personal automobile from the personal property tax. Its sponsor, Rep. Joe Hubenak of Rosenberg, said the tax is inequitable because only a few cities and counties collect it.

The other two amendments related to homestead exemptions of a surviving spouse and denial of bond to a person charged with a felony committed while he was free under bond in a previous felony case. It also would deny bond in capital punishment cases.

Liquor Bill To Senate Floor

AUSTIN (AP)—Mixed drinks have been moved one step closer to thirsty Texans with the approval of a local option bill by the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

A move to send the bill to a subcommittee was defeated 6-5 Tuesday, and the measure was sent to the Senate floor for action.

Several package store owners spoke against the bill because it requires mixed-drink operators to buy from wholesalers.

"I'm out of business the minute your bill passes," said Hyman Bernstein of Austin. "And if you want to buy it, I'll sell it to you."

Bernstein estimated he would lose as much as 75 per cent of his business.

The Rev. Sam Morris, a Baptist minister who operates radio station KDRY in San Antonio—"The Voice of Temperance," said:

"I just want to say I am against this bill and I am against any bill that legalizes the sale of liquor or beer or anything else alcoholic in any fashion. I am against the sale by the bottle, by the barrel or by the drink," the minister said.

The bill is sponsored by Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso, who withstood an almost angry attack from Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg over the $5,000 price tag on a mixed drink permit.

Christie set off Bates by calling the bill a revenue-raising measure.

Bates said the constitutional amendment that voters approved last November said nothing about revenue.

"We voted on whether or not we were to have liquor by the drink, not whether or not we were going to raise revenue," Bates said.

Christie said most people who voted for it did so on the theory that, "They're doing it now already—why don't we tax them on it."

"Nine out of 10 Texans had that in mind when they voted for it," Christie said.

A mixed-drink permit would cost $5,000 and be renewable for a $500 fee each year under Christie's bill.

"The purpose of the high fee was to set it high enough to give the operator a rather large stake in seeing that every facet of the law is obeyed," Christie said.

Bates called it an immoderate fee so far as the counties he represents, Cameron and Hidalgo, are concerned. People in his area go across the border into Mexico and buy drinks for 60 cents each, much cheaper than the holder of a $5,000 permit could afford to charge, Bates said.

"I don't think there is a person in this room who has had a drink south of Sah Antonio that didn't go across the border to get it," Bates said, looking out across the standing-room-only audience for the liquor bill.

Sen. William Moore of Bryan, sitting next to Bates, greeted that remark with a low, "oh."

"You've been there, senator. Don't you 'oh' me," Bates said. The audience roared.

Snyderite Is New Border Patrol Agent

Weldon Smith, 31, of Snyder, was graduated recently from the United States Border Patrol Academy at Los Fresnos, and will perform duties as a Patrol Agent in the McAllen Border Patrol Sector.

Patrol Agent Smith was a member of the 98th Session of the Border Patrol Academy and was one of 99 new officers successfully completing the intensive academy course in Immigration and Nationality laws and regulations, Spanish language, duties and authority to act, court procedures, civil rights, physical training, and other studies involving the duties of patrol officers.

Patrol Agent Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith of 1201 Twenty-fourth Street. He is a graduate of Snyder High School and served with the United States Army from 1957 to 1960. His duty assignments included a tour in Germany.

Before his appointment to the Border Patrol, Smith was a Texas Highway Patrolman with the Texas Department of Public Safety in El Paso.

Smith was appointed from a register compiled in a nationwide competitive civil service examination offered periodically in local areas for prospective candidates for career service with the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

3 Killed In Ft. Worth Shootout

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH (AP) — The shooting ended. Three were dead. Three were wounded, including a cop. But a bunch of kids hung on. And a few cried.

"We came because of Cle. We knew him....He was all right with everybody."

They are Negroes. And long after the last police car, the last ambulance left, they stayed.

"Everybody liked him," they said, shivering in the Tuesday night cold. "He was my buddy," one said.

The shooting was not easily explained at once.

Louis McKinney, 27, police and witnesses said, strode from a south side residence, raised a shotgun and with one blast in the stomach knocked patrolman J.H. Barton, 33, off the porch.

Barton went there with patrolman W.N. Lambert in answer to a trouble call. Moments later police Sgt. B.H. Purselley arrived.

Purselley said he and Lambert opened fire when Barton was shot and both emptied their pistols, felling McKinney with gunshot wounds, Barton and McKinney were hospitalized and both were expected to survive.

Officers found two dead women, apparently strangled, and Cleveland "Cle" Williams, 18, shot to death inside the house. Cle's father was critically wounded.

The dead, besides Cle, were identified as McKinney's stepmother, Ethel Mae Williams, 59, and Lucine Newton, 25, McKinney's married sister. Cle's father, Cleveland Williams Sr., 62, was wounded seriously.

McKinney was Cle's half-brother.

Friends said Cle had just come from track practice at Poly High School. They said he was a track and football star, a 143-pounder who ran the 100-yard dash in 9.9 seconds.

Many of those who came were his track mates. They said he was a whiz, one of the state's top 10 in the 220-yard dash, a member of Poly's winning mile relay team.

"All I could do was turn my head," said one, who saw Cle lying dead. "He was all right with everybody."

Military Spyings Amplified

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accounts of massive military spying on civilians were amplified before Congress today and Rep. Abner Mikva, a reported target himself, denounced the officers responsible as "the true subversives of our society."

Former Army intelligence staffers Ralph Stein, John O'Brien and Christopher H. Pyle testified, in considerable length and detail, that the military drastically exceeded its claim of limiting domestic surveillance to possible insurrection situations.

Among dozens of other examples given Sen. Sam Ervin's constitutional rights subcommittee, the three men said agents infiltrated scores of peaceful antiwar gatherings, monitored the 1968 Republican and Democratic national conventions, and filed running reports on the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

O'Brien's remarks included the widely publicized charge that his former unit, the 113th Military Intelligence Group in Illinois, had spied upon a number of public officials, including Mikva.

Mikva, following O'Brien to the witness stand, declared his first reaction had been one of "shock and outrage."

"In time," added the Democrat in a prepared statement, "these feelings gave way to a deeper sadness over the unavoidable message this brought as to the kind of society we have become."

Mikva urged making it a crime for any military personnel to engage in any snooping on civilians. And he called for "the removal of those responsible" for such activity in the past, despite new Pentagon assurances that abuses will not be repeated.

"Those military officials who would arrogate to themselves the duty to watch peaceful civilians' political activities are the true subversives in our society," said Mikva.

"If allowed to continue, they will end up creating a climate of fear and suspicion in this country the likes of which would make Joseph McCarthy look like a civil libertarian."

Burglary Charge Is Filed Here

Donald R. Fisk, Jr. was charged in Justice of the Peace Court yesterday with burglary. He was remanded to county jail in lieu of $2,000 bond. He allegedly took two television sets from Jay Huckabee's UHF tower northeast of town.

French Display New Rockets

By RODNEY ANGOVE
Associated Press Writer

LANDES TEST STATION, France (AP) — With a flash of white, an eight-foot rocket popped out of a plastic tube mounted on a tank and curved gradually out to sea toward a scarcely visible target plane.

A hundred foreign military attaches, defense ministry officials and journalists watched from a windswept sand dune.

The French officials held their breath, because riding on that slender, 139-pound tube of fuel, electronic gear and explosives was one of France's hopes of enlarging the market for its rocket weapons.

The test Monday was the first in public of the Roland-SAM, an antiaircraft missile which SNIA, the French national aerospace company, developed in 50-50 cooperation with West Germany's Messerschmitt-Bolkow-Blohm.

Last year SNIA sold 322,690 rockets to 35 countries. While this accounted for less than 10 per cent of the total $920 million worth of aerospace exports last year, it still kept thousands employed.

Now France is bringing out a second generation of rockets ranging from the 24-pound Milan, with which a lone soldier should be able to knock off a tank a mile and a quarter away, to the tank-mounted Pluton, designed to wipe out an army camp 75 miles away with a nuclear warhead.

The new Exocet is fired from a patrol boat, and SNIA says it will sink cruisers 20 miles away—far over the horizon. The rocket zips along just over the waves, making it extremely difficult to counter.

The Roland was designed to protect tank columns from air attack. Its tank mount is equipped with radar to pick up approaching planes and identify them as friend or foe. Then, to reduce the cost, a gunner takes over and aims by sight. The company says the effective range is four miles.

The Roland hit the target, but the warhead didn't go off. A second shot exploded prematurely. The prospective buyers shrugged. The next demonstration was a perfect firing of a Milan through a paper target 800 yards away.

But a couple of flukes are negligible when you're shopping for a weapons systen, one foreigner said.

"First you define your particular needs," he explained. "Then you choose systems according to how they complement or supplement each other, and according to your money. We take a hard look at everything. We have computer run after computer run before deciding."

Low price and simplicity were designed into the Roland, said officials of SNIA and MBB. A firing station might cost $1.35 million to $1.44 million, depending on the type of tank, while the rockets would be about $12,600 each.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dalby, of Aspermont, announce the marriage of their daughter Jimmie Dell to Garry Don Parks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Parks. The couple were married Feb. 2 in Saragosa, Mexico.

De Los Santos Speaks At Sorority Meeting

Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma continued the study of a "Critical Analysis of Values" Monday evening in its meeting in the home of Mrs. Alta Nations, 2213 Fortieth St.

Mrs. Robert Clinton, Chairman of the Professional Affairs Committee, introduced the program "Whether Goest Thou...Now?" In her introductory remarks Mrs. Clinton said "It is important that key women educators have felt the necessity to take time to evaluate some of the problems that face our nation today, problems of racial prejudice, inequalities toward minority groups, youthful rebellion and lack of patriotism among young people as a few examples. This evaluation is a pre-requisite, because if we stop here we fail to fulfill the unique position that we have for leadership as teachers. When you know the answer to a problem you stop searching, but when you are not sure you keep trying to find the answers as did Alice in Wonderland when she asked the cat "Would you tell me please which way I walk from here?" To which the Cheshire Cat replied "That all depends on where you want to get to".

Zeta Lambdas were told by Mrs. Clinton that we must be willing to adopt a new philophy of which the key word is "change".

Mrs. Clinton introduced Gilbert De Los Santos, graduate intern from the University of Texas who is doing his doctoral work in Junior College Administration. Mr. De Los Santos will be with Western Texas College until June. He is a graduate of Southwest Texas Junior College. He holds a BBA Degree from Texas A&I University and a MBA in accounting and economics from the same school. He is on leave of absence from Southwest Junior College where he has been an instructor in the business department.

The Texas Western College received a grant from the Coordinating Board for planning money to add staff in a compensatory project, the objective of which is to identify and recruit culturally deprived students to college. The greatest challenge of this project is not to get students to enroll but to develop programs for them after they arrive which would ensure some success at the past high school level. Mr. De Los Santos is Texas Western College's selection to help with this project.

Mr. De Los Santos began by telling the group the best approach to helping minority groups is to learn of their culture by stepping into the shoes of others. To become aware of the needs, problems and plight of others one must assume the identity of one to whom he would relate. Face unknown surroundings, unfamiliar language, mannersims, forced economic changes with no security and place himself into a world for, which is in no way prepared.

When asked if the Title 1 and Headstart programs were a successful way of meeting the needs of the Mexican American, Mr. De Los Santos expressed the highest praise of Snyders programs. He further stated that the materials alone being used were not the most important factor, but the people involved, people who really care. He emphasized that while many Anglo American tend to have a stero-typed image of the Mexican American, the Anglo American by the same token become a stero-type to others.

Mr. De Los Santos concluded his remarks by saying "What ever way we choose to provide for the educationally disadvantaged one must remember this one thought - Give a man a fish and he is fed for a day; Teach him to fish and you feed him for life".

Altrurian Club Presents Americanism Program

The Altrurian Club met at Martha Ann Woman's Club Feb. 19 with Miss Evelyn Boone as hostess.

Mrs. Alvie Dolen conducted the business meeting. The Texas Heritage Committee gave a report on the tremendous cost to our state of clearing our highways of the trash which is strew by litterbugs.

Mrs. Lida Rhoades reported on her attendance at a recent workshop in Abilene for club women on vocational training as it is found in the school system. Other reports were from the public affairs and Home Life Committees.

The program of the day was on "Americanism." Mmes. W. P. King and R. A. Irving were directors. They prepared roll calls for each member recounting the glorious history of America.

Mrs. King began her talk with an essay by Clarence Newell Shoemaker Jr. entitled "I Am America". It was a recital of the elements of America that make her great and powerful; her heroes, her rivers and mountains, her historical shrines, her republican form of government and her citizenry. The conclusion was this wish, may I always possess this integrity, moral courage and strength to keep myself unshackled, to remain the strong hold of freedom and a beacon of hope to all the oppressed throughout the world.

Mrs. Irving continued the program with delightful thumb nail sketches of some of those who have contributed to America's greatness.

She began by saying that a president of the United States and the office he holds today far surpasses anything in the most optimistic dreams of our founding fathers. He is a world figure and his policies are of interest in every corner of the earth. George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, John Jay and Benjamin Franklin are pace setters in the early history and succeeding presidents have borne the gigantic tasks in the development of the nation.

Mrs. Irving concluded with a prayer of George Washington in which he evoked the guidance of God in the conduct of the government, and said "In the time of prosperity fill our hearts with thankfulness, and in the day of trouble, suffer not our trust in thee to fail."

Nineteen members were present and one guest Miss Enid Irving.

Straus Says Compulsory Arbitration Won't Work

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Compulsory arbitration is from time to time advocated as an alternative to strikes, but no less than the head of the American Arbitration Association believes such suggestions are unworkable.

"Anybody who tries to sell the notion is selling snakeoil," says Donald Straus, president of AAA, a nonprofit organization that seeks to develop voluntary arbitration as a peaceful, effective technique for settling disputes.

"Compulsory arbitration hasn't worked in other countries and I don't think it will here," Straus adds. There is, he feels, "no absolute safety to the public against strikes." But voluntary arbitration at least offers an alternative.

To be fully effective, he and others in AAA feel, arbitration must be voluntarily entered and its decisions freely accepted. Introduce compulsion and one side becomes a loser, which violates the spirit of the procedure.

The voluntary kind is getting renewed attention as a means of breaking deadlocks in negotiations. By prior agreement, parties would submit their differences to an impartial arbitrator if it became clear they could not agree.

The parties cannot be forced into arbitration, they must arrive at the decision themselves. Usually when each side feels it has more to lose than to gain by a strike, it becomes more amenable to the idea.

However, one side generally is more powerful and wishes to avoid arbitration. And the weaker side cannot submit differences to the arbitrator without the agreement of its adversary.

Seldom is a balance of power found, and so the arbitration industry is, as Straus puts it, "a fashion industry." It has had periods of popularity, such as following World War II, and has enjoyed some usage in certain industries.

Now, many people feel, the consequences of strikes are becoming so damaging to both sides, and to the public, that the atmosphere for arbitration may be improving.

Even George Meany, AFL-CIO president, concedes, "We are getting to the point where a strike doesn't make sense in many situations." Strikes, he said, sometimes don't settle a thing but voluntary arbitration, he suggested, might.

And so the AAA is studying the possibilities, aided by representatives of labor and management.

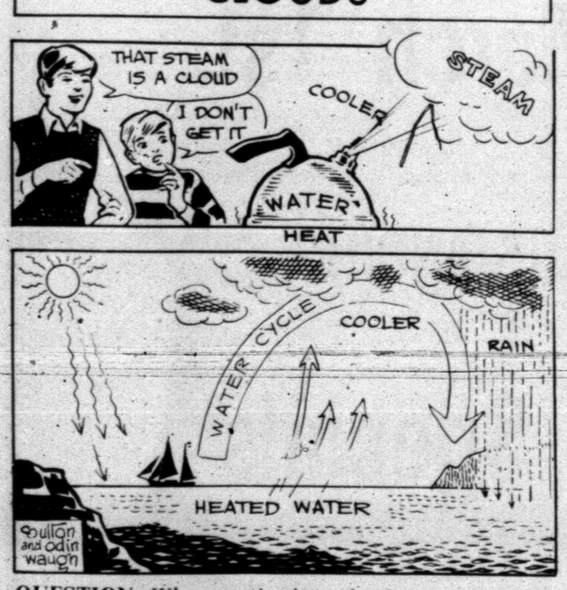

Straus already reports some progress but avoids overt enthusiasm.

Voluntary arbitration is being used with some success in dealing with teacher and government employe issues, but Straus says he knows of no instance where it is being used in private enterprise.

He believes that relatively few companies would be unwilling to arbitrate. But, with unions exerting power effectively, there might be more reluctance on their part.

Factors are at work that might change that situation. Unions are questioning the benefits of strikes. The administration is distressed. And the public may have swallowed all the frustration it can.

Junior Editors Quiz on CLOUDS

QUESTION: What are clouds made of?

ANSWER: We all know the situation shown at the top: but how many of us would connect a steaming tea kettle with great majestic clouds? A dictionary will tell you that a cloud is a mass of water vapor made visible — especially in the sky. Of course, there is no sky in the boy's family kitchen, but the principle is the same. Heat moves upward. Warmed by the stove (above) or the sun (below), some of the water in the kettle or sea is evaporated or turned into air which holds the water as invisible water vapor, and which is moved upward by the principle of rising heat. But the air can hold only a certain amount of water vapor. If this warm, wet air meets a cooler layer above it — the cooler air above the kettle or higher air above the water — the water vapor will condense or become visible in the form of minute drops of water or ice crystals. Outside, these very often float high in the air as clouds. Clouds are of many shapes and have a close relationship to what the weather is going to be.

Bess Loses Bid For Alimony

NEW YORK (AP) — City Consumer Affairs Commissioner Bess Myerson Grant has lost a bid for $3,500 monthly temporary alimony from her estranged husband, lawyer Arnold W. Grant.

Mrs. Grant, Miss America of 1945, is suing for a separation, and Grant is countersuing for a separation or a divorce. The grounds for the actions have not been revealed.

Pending court disposition of the Grants' marital dispute, state Supreme Court Justice Margaret M. J. Mangan denied Mrs. Grant's alimony petition Monday. Justice Mangan agreed with Grant's contention that Mrs. Grant, whose salary is $35,000 a year, does not need the money.

However, the Grants lost their bids to retrieve personal property from each other. In addition, Mrs. Grant's petition to have the file in the marital case sealed also was denied.

Cool House

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The thermometer read three degrees below zero when firemen answered the call at the home of Robert Stevens in Albuquerque.

It seems that Stevens' 3-year-old daughter, Sharon, had stood on a couch, reached up and turned on the air conditioner, her father said.

As a result, the band instructor said, a short developed in the air conditioner and smoke started pouring from its motor.

Inspection Fears All In Vain

By WILLIAM O. BRYANT
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — After several trips to service stations and considerable waiting, the new vehicle still was not in compliance with Georgia law. It had not been inspected for safety.

The service stations always were busy. Other cars were ahead of me for inspection. I always had to learn before my turn came.

I had purchased the pickup truck in Florida and driven it home, fearful all the way of being stopped for not having a Georgia inspection sticker.

"Be sure and get your truck inspected today," my wife said almost daily as we parted,

"Did you get inspected today?" she would ask when I returned.

She read aloud an item in the newspaper about a man who was heavily fined for having a wreck in an uninspected car,

Getting inspected became an obsession. But always the stations were busy. One day I waited an hour in a chilly rain before an appointment forced me to give up.

Daily I drove in fear, anxiously watching for police cars and expecting any moment to see a blue flashing light behind me. It seemed the poor guy who had the wreck was constantly on my mind.

I even dreamed once of car inspections and jails and fines and big, tough no-nonsense policemen.

I resolved to wait at the service station all day on my day off if necessary.

Luck at last was with me.

Only two cars were ahead. One of them was occupied by an Air Force sergeant. After what seemed an endless wait, he finally was told to pull his station wagon into the station garage.

An attendant began checking it. Brake lights okay. Headlights fine. Park brake in good shape. Front end okay. The sergeant watched. I watched.

The attendant began removing a wheel. A new state law requires the brakes of at least one wheel to be checked. The sergeant watched. I watched.

"Ding, ding," went a bell in the station. Customers out front. The station manager was doing paper work at desk. He couldn't be bothered.

The attendant doing the inspection quit and started pumping gas. There were a lot of customers.

Finally, the attendant returned and went back to inspecting.

At last, he turned to me and said, "You're next."

We walked out to the truck. He looked at the yellow Florida sticker on the windshield.

"How long is that good for?" he asked.

"It's brand new," I said.

"Well, you don't need an inspection," he said. "That sticker is good in Georgia, too."

"Ding, Ding," went the bell inside. He walked to pump gas. I cried all the way home.

Nixon Address Set Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will address the nation by radio Thursday on his foreign policy message that goes to Congress later that day.

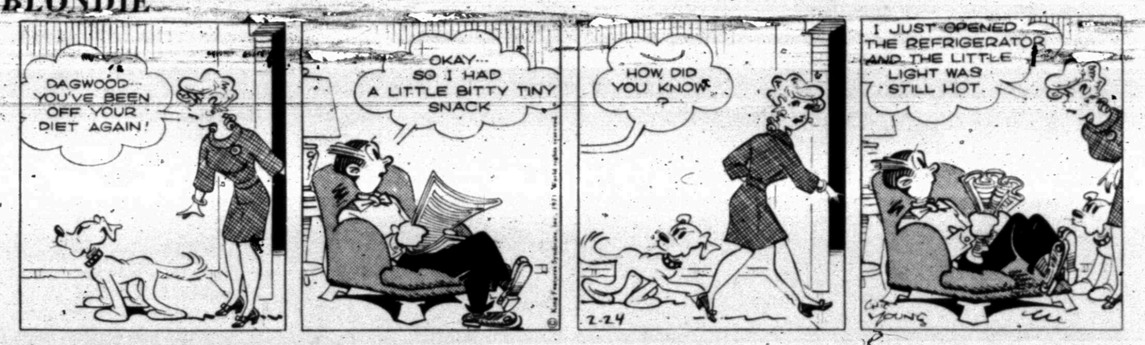

The White House announced Tuesday the President will appear on all four major radio networks and a number of independent radio stations at 11 a.m. EST.

The 30-minute speech will relate to foreign policy and the administration's thinking in regard to its diplomatic decisions —largely the review Nixon is providing in his "State of the World" report to Congress.

Mexican Heavy Wins Bout

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Mexican heavyweight champion Alfredo "Mongol" Ortiz steadily bombarded Jinmy Boyde of Dallas for 10 fast rounds Tuesday night and — although he never floored his rock-jawed opponent — won a wide and unanimous decision.

It was the first time Ortiz, a 207-pounder from Mexico City, had ever gone the distance and only the third time for Boyde, who weighed 200.

Ortiz, 22, has an 18-1 record with 17 knockouts to his credit and a loss by a technical knockout on a cut. Boyde is 14-2-1.

The big Mexican may have broken his right hand on Boyde's jaw in the first round, but it wasn't evident until his manager, Cuyo Hernandez, was pulling off his wrappings in the dressing room. X-rays will be taken.

He was a whirlwind throughout the fight as he waded in with both hands swinging—and landing. Boyde took as many as 20 punches for each one he threw, but he also landed some haymakers and gave definite proof that Ortiz' chin is not his weak spot.

In the preliminaries, both involving Mexican fighters, Gaby Estrada, 130, of Piedras Negras outlasted Carlos Rodriguez, 134½, of Monterrey to gain a 10-round decision.

Juan Cantu, 125, of Nuevo Laredo stopped Chamaco Cuenca, 120, of Piedras Negras. Cuenca, in losing his first fight in 10 starts, was on the floor twice.

Frogs Victorious At Baylor 94-84

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A jubilant Coach Johnny Swaim tagged it "the best game TCU has played all year" and it couldn't have come at a better time.

Texas Christian's riproaring Horned Frogs upended Baylor 94-84 in the Bears' own backyard Tuesday night to take a two-game lead in the Southwest Conference basketball race with three game to play.

That puts the Frogs in the position of being able to tie at least for the title Saturday night if they defeat Texas in Fort Worth.

The victory gave TCU a 9-2 league record and dropped Baylor back into the pack at 7-4, tied for second with Texas Tech and Southern Methodist.

Tech edged an improved Arkansas club 89-87, SMU bopped Rice 95-87 and Texas A&M nipped Texas 65-64 in other games Tuesday night.

TCU took the lead from the start and never trailed against the Bears, one of the top scoring teams in the nation.

Baylor Coach Bill Menefee said; "TCU certainly proved tonight that it has a tremendous basketball team. They did everything and did it well."

TCU's super transfers Eugene "Goo" Kennedy and Simpson "The Great" Degrate engineered the Frog victory with both shooting and rebounding. Kennedy had 25 points and 20 rebounds while Degrate scored 22 and snared 11 rebounds.

Jerry Hopkins led Baylor with 18 points as the Bears' high-scoring William Chatmon was held to nine. TCU shot 54 per cent from the field and won the rebounding battle 45-37.

Arkansas, which last weekend upset Texas, almost pulled off another shocker, running to within two points of the Raiders in the waning seconds.

Tech Coach Gerald Myers said, "After our loss to Texas A&M (Saturday), our players made up their minds and went out to play good, hard basketball. Overall, I thought we played a pretty good ball game against Arkansas—at least for 38 minutes. There is just no excuse for the way we played our last two minutes."

Tech held a seven-point lead with 38 seconds to go.

SMU captain Gene Phillips hit 25 points to project the Mustangs back into a tie for second place. A jumper by Phillips with 6:24 left in the game gave SMU the lead for good. Gary Reist paced Rice with 20 points.

Oakland Pitcher Takes "Greenies"

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chuck Dobson has thrown Bowie Kuhn a curve by making a pitch for the "Greenie."

While other pitchers loosened up their throwing arms at spring training camps Tuesday, the Oakland right-hander, questioned about baseball's upcoming drug seminars, admitted that he has taken pills called greenies and said, "I don't see anything wrong in it."

Dobson will attend one of the seminars, set for next month to begin a drug education and prevention program in baseball, as the A's player representative.

"I had to pitch last year with the flu," Dobson said at the club's Mesa, Ariz., training base, "so I took a greenie and pitched a shutout.

"If he (Commissioner Kuhn) says we can't use them, well, I'd just want him to put on a uniform for 162 games in 180 days and see what he says then."

Kuhn has said there is no place in baseball for amphetamines, or pep pills, and barbiturates. Dobson said the greenies, which contain destroamphetamine sulfate and amobarbital, have been in use since he began playing pro ball six years ago.

He added, however, that no one on the Oakland club is dependent on the pills. "That's what you've got to watch," he said. "You can't let them be a crutch. You're in trouble if you say "I need them."

Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Pirates began looking for a replacement for shortstop Gene Alley, sidelined for a month Monday with a broken hand.

Jackie Hernandez, acquired in a trade with Kansas City, appeared the likely choice but Manager Danny Murtaugh said he might try second baseman Dave Cash and third baseman Richie Hebner, among others, at the shortstop position.

Fred Patek, the 5-foot-4 shortstop who went from Pittsburgh to Kansas City in the Hernandez deal, signed with the Royals. Other signees were first baseman Mike Epstein and relief pitcher Darold Knowles with Washington, outfielder Larry Hisle with Philadelphia and outfielder Buddy Bradford with Cleveland.

Pitcher Dave Boswell, a 20-game winner for Minnesota two years ago who slipped to 3-7 last season, checked into the Twins' camp six days late but 23 pounds under his 1970 playing weight. Boswell was given permission to report late because his wife gave birth last week.

The New York Yankees reported that reliever Lindy McDaniel would not be able to report until March 3 because of a gland operation on his neck.

Japan's Lotte Orions arrived at Casa Grande, Ariz., where they will train with the San Francisco Giants before embarking on a 25-game exhibition schedule against U.S. clubs.

Austin Wins Coin Flip

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Stephen F. Austin, which had been the favorite most of the season anyway, is the Lone Star Conference basketball representative in the NAIA playoffs by virtue of winning a coin flip Tuesday.

A flurry of season-ending upsets left Stephen F. Austin, Sam Houston and Howard Payne tied for the title with 14-4 records. The teams also were even in games played against each other, forcing the coin toss.

Stephen F. Austin begins NAIA Dist. IV play Saturday in the best of three series against the Big State Conference champion. The district winner advances to the national tournament in Kansas City, beginning March 8.

Astros Hold Full Drill

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — The Houston Astros hold their first full workout today.

Infielders and outfielders Tuesday joined pitchers and catchers who had been in the National League Club's spring week.

Only one regular was missing from the lineup-Joe Morgan, the little second baseman who was voted the team's most valuable player in 1970.

Morgan and Astros general manager Spec Richardson have not been able to agree on a contract.

"I talked to Morgan two days ago," Richardson said, "and I know what he wants. We just haven't been able to get together.

"I don't think we have any real serious problem. I know I am not looking for any problem. Joe and I have never had any problems before, and I doubt we'll have any now."

Although neither side is saying, it is believed that Morgan is seeking a raise to $58,000 to $62,000 from the reported $48,000 he made last season.

Brisker Is Pitt Star

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh's John Brisker has the hottest hand in the American Basketball Association and fortunately for the Condors, it has been sizzling at the right moment too.

Brisker turned in his second straight 42-point game Tuesday night and again scored the winning basket in the final seconds as Pittsburgh overcame Kentucky 133-130.

In other ABA games, Virginia defeated Memphis 106-97 and Utah belted Denver 133-103.

In the National Basketball Association, Los Angeles downed Baltimore 114-107, Philadelphia took Portland 119-113, San Diego ripped New York 126-109, and Milwaukee ripped San Francisco 118-107.

Brisker's late basket helped Pittsburgh stave off a frantic last-gasp effort by Kentucky spearheaded by a flurry of three-point baskets by Darrel Carrier.

After three three-pointers by Carrier had tied the game, Brisker's jumper with nine seconds left and a foul shot by Skeeter Swift clinched the game for Pittsburgh. Carrier tried for the tying three-pointer at the buzzer but missed.

Brisker, who also had 42 in his last start against Virginia, won that game with a last-second basket, too.

The Squires used 33 points from rookie Charley Scott to whip Memphis. Scott had his 17 in the first half as Virginia opened a lead that grew to as much as 11 points. Then Steve Jones led a Memphis comeback that shaved the lead to as little as one point before three straight jumpers by Scott moved Virginia comfortably in front again.

Utah had seven players in double figures led by Glen Combs, Ron Boone and George Stone, who had 20 points each, and the Stars routed Denver. Larry Cannon of Denver led all scorers with 28 points.

Privateers Rule College Roost

by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Privateers of Louisiana State-New Orleans are runaway leaders this week in The Associated Press College Division basketball poll but much of the Top Ten underwent a thorough shake-up.

The Privateers, winners of all 23 games this season, received 11 first-place votes and 300 points from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters across the country.

That left them well in front of a new runner-up—Fairmont, W.Va., unbeaten in 25 starts, which received two first-place votes and 222 points. Kentucky State, 20-2, held onto third place with 217 points.

Southwestern Louisiana, 17-3, last week's runner-up, fell to a tie for fourth with Tennessee State, 13-1, which received one of the remaining three first-place votes. The Louisiana team lost to Northeast Louisiana 100-98. Tennessee State stood sixth last week.

Ashland and Assumption, which drew the other two first-place votes, each moved up one spot to sixth and seventh, respectively. Louisiana Tech dropped from fifth to eighth while Eau Claire State and Moorhead State held onto the 9-10 spots.

The Second Ten was headed by Kentucky Wesleyan and features a three-way tie for 20th among Gardner-Webb, Iowa Wesleyan and Sam Houston State.

Behind Kentucky Wesleyan are Puget Sound, Roanoke, Howard Payne, Stephen F. Austin, Alabama State, North Carolina A&T, Oral Roberts, Northeast Louisiana and the three deadlocked teams.

Roanoke, Alabama State, Northeast Louisiana and Gardner-Webb are newcomers to the Second Ten. Indiana State and St. Mary's of Texas dropped out.

The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses, and total points on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-etc. basis:

1.	LSU-New Orl. (11)	300

King, Casals See Action

WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP) —Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals, the 1-2 seeded players respectively in the domestic field, both go into action on opening day today as the $12,500 National Women's Indoor Tennis Championships begin at the Winchester Indoor Lawn Tennis Center.

Mrs. King, the long-time ruler of U.S. women's tennis, meets Laurie Tenney in an evening encounter after Miss Casals plays the first match of the tournament against Valerie Ziegenfuss at 2 p.m.

Other opening day singles matches pair Judy Tegard Dalton against Esme Emanuel, Andrea Voikos against Kerry Melville and Mary Ann Curtis against Peaches Bartkowicz.

The five-day tournament which concludes Sunday is the seventh in the $100,000 Virginia Slims Invitational Circuit, the richest women's pro tour in tennis history.

Mrs. King is leading the field for the tour with more than $16,000 in earnings, but will be seeking to avenge a loss to Francoise Durr of France in her most recent outing in Florida last weekend.

Miss Durr, top-seeded in the foreign group for this tournament, gets her initial test on Thursday against Cecelia Martinez.

Shaw Accepts Colonial Date

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Tom Shaw, currently one of the hottest players on the PGA tour, today became the first pro to accept an invitation to play in the 26th Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

Tournament Chairman Byron L. Davis said Shaw was the first of five players to sign for the May 17-23 tournament.

Other pros to play here include Bob Stone, Herb Hooper, Jim Weichers, and Phil Rodgers.

Tourney Draws 28 Teams

HOUSTON (AP) — The 17th annual All-America Intercollegiate Golf Tournament will draw a record 28 teams from 15 states April 14-17, sponsors said Tuesday.

Bing Crosby and Houston's Homero Blancas, a 1970 winner of more than $100,000 on golf's pro tour, will be among four "friends of golf" to be inducted into the tournaments's All-American Hall of Fame.

Others to be inducted the night of April 13 are R. E. "Bob" Smith, Houston oilman, and Dan Shults, sports editor of the Houston Post.

Crosby is being honored as a "promoter of amateur and professional golf and of golf in general."

It was Smith in 1952 who dared the sponsors of the old Houston Golf Classic to double its prize money from $10,000 to $20,000, promising to make up any deficit.

Smith never lost a cent and the association now sponsors the $125,000 Houston Champions International.

Blancas was a member of two of the 12 NCAA championship teams at the University of Houston, sponsor of the tournament that started in 1955 with only eight teams.

Dave Williams, the UH golf coach, said new teams in the 1971 field include Alabama, San Diego State, Indiana and Oregon.

Milwaukee Grabs Tie In Midwest

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — It's try-out time for the Milwaukee Bucks again.

With a convincing 118-107 National Basketball Association victory over the San Francisco Warriors Tuesday night, the Bucks clinched a tie for the Midwest Division title.

In other NBA games, San Diego rushed past the New York Knicks 126-109, Philadelphia downed Portland 119-113 and Los Angeles overcame Baltimore 114-107.

In the American Basketball Association, Pittsburgh outlasted Kentucky 113-130, Virginia beat Memphis 106-97 and Utah topped Denver 133-103.

Now Bucks' Coach Larry Costello is taking a long look at his bench with one month left to go in the regular season. Although the NBA doesn't keep such records, it is believed to be the earliest division-clinching in the league history.

"We tried to give a lot of guys time and moved Greg Smith back to guard," Costello said after the game. "We want to take a look at our bench and give the regulars a rest."

Even with the "bench-warmers" in the game, Milwaukee had an easy time downing the Warriors for the sixth time this season.

Oscar Robertson paced the victory with 26 points, one more than Lew Alcindor, and established a club record for assists. The old mark, set in the 1968-69 season by Guy Rodgers, was 561.

Robertson, the NBA's career leader, now has 563.

San Francisco was led by sharp-shooting Nick Jones with 31, while Nate Thurmond added 24.

Neither Costello, a former player, nor Robertson felt the Bucks' edge would slip because of the early title-clinching.

A Milwaukee victory over the San Diego Rockets tonight would settle the issue completely.

But, mathematically, the Chicago Bulls, second in the Midwest Division, are still in the "race."

In order to tie for the division crown, Milwaukee, which now has a record of 57-11, would have to lose all of its final 14 game while Chicago, 42-25, would have to win its last 15 in a row.

Elvin Hayes and Calvin Murphy each scored 29 points as San Diego came back from a 51-36 deficit to win its seventh game in eight tries. Hayes also held Willis Reed to nine points.

Philadelphia climbed within three games of the Knicks in the Atlantic Division as Billy Cunningham brought the 76ers from behind in the final quarter. Cunningham finished with 35 points, but rookie Geoff Petrie of Portland took game honors with 43, equalling his career high.

Los Angeles went ahead to stay 68-67 and then put on an 8-2 spurt for a 103-94 spread. Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 29 points, while Wes Unseld had 28 and 23 rebounds for Baltimore.

Sheriff Links Prisoner With Dope Peddling

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Sheriff Clarence Jones, stung by criticism, Tuesday night connected a wounded prisoner with dope peddling and with two men charged with killing three deputy sheriffs.

Jones said an unnamed defendant in the case told in a signed statement how the prisoner, Thomas Rodriguez, delivered narcotics to Rene Adolpho Guzman and Leonardo Ramos Lopez in exchange for "two of the slain officers' guns and $50."

Guzman and Lopez are charged with murder in the execution-style slayings of the three deputies in the Trinity River bottoms here Feb. 15.

Rodriguez and his wife were wounded during a shootout with police last Friday morning shortly before Guzman and Lopez were captured in a neighboring apartment on the city's east side.

Police raided the Rodriguez apartment in search of Guzman and Lopez. Officers said Rodriguez shot at them twice and they returned the fire, wounding Rodriguez and his wife.

Guzman and Lopez were captured soon afterward.

Rodriguez has been charged with assault with intent to kill a police officer. Jones said no additional charge had been lodged against Rodriguez.

A flood of criticism followed the raid on Rodriguez' apartment. Questions arose as to whether authorities announced themselves before breaking into the apartment.

The president of a Mexican-American group charged police and sheriff's deputies with harassment of the Mexican-American community.

Jones said he was making his statement because "I feel law enforcement officers have been taking a beating" through reports that police mistakenly raided the Rodriguez apartment.

The sheriff said, "Prior to Monday, Feb. 15, an active narcotics investigation had been under way in the East Dallas area. Information was gained from this continued investigation that led to sources where the slain officers' guns could be obtained. The entire investigation was then concentrated in this area."

Jones said it was then pointed out to officers "by a confidential and reliable informant of Mexican-American descent that the wanted people were in this apartment house. He (the informant) said he had seen them there. He said if you hit that place right there you will find them."

UT Gets Grants

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Federal grants totaling more than $86,000 have been awarded for research projects at the University of Texas medical school at San Antonio.

The National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke has granted $41,177 for research by Dr. William Stavinoha, associate professor in the department of pharmacology.

The decrease in the use of insecticides such as DDT has put new emphasis on the use of compounds called organophosphorus insecticides. Dr. Stavinoha's research is seeking to determine the long-term biochemical effects of these compounds.

A $35,705 grant was awarded by the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases for research by Dr. Edward Rennels, chairman of the school's anatomy department.

Dr. Rennels is researching the cellular processes by which pituitary hormones are made and released into the bloodstream. These hormones are essential for the regulation of the reproductive organs in both sexes of all vertebrate animals, including man.

Rayburn Coin Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A half million Sam Rayburn commemorative coins in 50-cents denominations would be minted under terms of a bill introduced in the House Tuesday by all members of the body from Texas.

Rayburn died in 1961 after serving as Speaker of the House longer than any man before him. He represented Texas' 4th Congressional District for about 40 years.

The legislation would authorize the Secretary of the Treasury, John B. Connally, to issue the coins to the Sam Rayburn Foundation with proceeds from their sale helping support the library named for Rayburn in his hometown of Bonham.

The foundation would reimburse the Treasury for the cost of the coins.

Zanucks Have Son

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The wife of Richard Zanuck, ousted president of 20th Century-Fox, has given birth to her first child, an 8 pound 2 ounce boy named Harrison Richard.

Zanuck, son of the film studio's chairman, Darryl F. Zanuck, has two daughters by a previous marriage. His wife is actress Linda Harrison.

Speak English

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) — More than half of the policemen in West Germany's most populous state of North Rhine-Westphalia have some knowledge of English, a study showed. Of the 31,000 policemen in the state, 4,120 said they speak French and 350 had some knowledge of Russian.

Oilmen Disagree On Forced Pooling Bill

Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Oilmen disagree over whether a proposed forced pooling bill was designed to shore up Texas' position as the leading oil-producing state in the country or as a power grab by major oil companies.

The 15-member Senate Oil and Gas Committee gets the first chance to make a decision, following a three-hour hearing on the proposal Tuesday.

The measure was sent to a subcommittee at the request of the sponsor, Sen. J. P. Word of, Meridian, who said it "should not be considered hastily."

A House committee is scheduled to hear a similar proposal Thursday night.

Although Texas oil fields have produced 32.4 billion barrels of oil and now supply over one-fourth of the nation's petroleum raw material, oil reserves have been declining since the early 1950s, said James Russell of Abilene, chairman of the Statewide Unitization Committee.

But he said Texas still has 97 billion barrels of oil underground which offer "a tremendous challenge for all additional recovery projects."

Russell said the unitization, or pooling, bill also would reduce pollution, encourage exploration and add new oil and gas tax dollars to the state treasury.

About 20 independent oilmen — some representing others as as well — disagreed. One described the bill as "one step removed for monopoly." Another said it "presents the most ideal opportunity for graft and corruption this state has ever seen."

Compulsory unitization "simply means that a small-interest owner cannot prevent unitization or extract unreasonable payment for his cooperation in a reservoir-control project that would benefit all the owners," Russell said.

The bill provides for compulsory unitization if 75 per cent of the working interest and 75 per cent of the royalty interest agree, and the railroad commission approves the plan.

Former State Sen. Jack Strong of Longivew, speaking for Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, said, "Both sides are right. Now, some small producers and landowners are hijackers... demanding three times what it's worth... That's wrong. But this bill goes to the other extreme. It puts the shaft to the landowner."

Russell said that once Texas reaches its capacity to produce oil and starts to decline, it will have to make up oil and gas tax revenue which now totals about $300 million a year, or 15 per cent of the state's total revenue.

"Along with this loss of income," he said, "Texas' political power can also be expected to diminish. Much political prestige has been associated with being the nation's leading oil producing state."

He said forced pooling would make oil production more efficient, perhaps by as much as 500,000 barrels a day. This would add $30 million a year to help run state government.

Arch Rowan of Fort Worth, who said he had been an independent operator for 50 years, said the bill "would affect property rights and human rights—it would put a lot of people out of work. It is one step removed from Monopoly."

ETSU Play Is Selected

COMMERCE, Tex. (AP) — East Texas State University's production of the William Saroyan play "Time of Your Life" has been selected to represent the Southwest at the American College Theater Festival in Washington March 23-April 6.

The play will be given in three performances at the Ford Theater March 23 and 24 as the first production during the two-week festival.

ETSU is one of ten regional winners to be represented.

Winter Eases Grip On Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter relaxed its grip on the snowly Texas Panhandle and chilled northern areas of the state a bit further today, and it was downright warm in extreme South Texas.

Highway patrolmen reported all major routes had been reopened in the Panhandle-Plains sector and city traffic was returning to normal in most areas despite snowfall up to two feet deep and drifts as high as 2 feet. Most roadways were iced and dangerously slick.

At Perryton in the northeast edge of the Panhandle, however, streets still were able to handle only one-way traffic—the rest was waiting to be dug out. The city measured 20 inches of snow.

Early morning temperatures again were bitter in places, going as low as 15 degrees at Perryton and to freezing or below as far south as Wichita Falls and Lubbock. At the same hour it was a springlike 70 degrees in Brownsville on the southermost tip of the state.

Winds switched back to the south and spread moist air and clouds over much of South, Central and East Texas, and intermittent light drizzle fell over the extreme south in early morning. Skies were clear to partly cloudy in other sections.

More moisture was on the way.

Forecasts promised light rain tonight or Thursday in South Central and Southeast Texas, and chances were seen for occasional drizzle over parts of the state's northern half. Further warming was predicted, but another night of temperatures down to the 20s was expected in the upper Panhandle.

Readings climbed Tuesday afternoon to 70 degrees at McAllen and Victoria, and 71 at Brownsville in the extreme south while the mercury reached only 40 at Perryton and 4 at Amarillo in the snow belt.

Aside from the 15 degrees at Perryton, other chilly spots this morning included Dalhart 26, Amarillo 27, Plainview 29, Childress 30, Wichita Falls 31 and Lubbock 32.

Free Digestion Bill Approved

AUSTIN (AP) — A "free digestion bill" that would allow teachers to eat lunch without having to supervise children was approved Tuesday by the Senate Education Committee.

An opponent of the bill said it would eliminate an important learning opportunity.

The bill now goes to the senate floor for action.

Sen. Barbara Jordan of Houston, sponsor of the measure, said her "duty free lunch period bill" has been called by some the "free digestion bill."

The bill still would have to be funded in the appropriations bill, with the state paying $13 million of the cost.

L.P. Sturgeon of the Texas State Teachers Association supported the bill, saying even if no appropriation is made at this session of the legislature, it is important to put the state behind the program, he said.

Houston schools would get $1.2 million and Dallas schools $800,000 if the appropriation is approved.

Richard Hooker of the Texas Association of School Boards opposed the bill. He said school boards are having difficulty funding the local share of teacher pay raise programs approved by the last legislature.

Also approved and sent to the Senate floor were bills that would:

—Exempt firemen from tuition at six junior colleges (in San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Galveston and Laredo) that offer courses in fire prevention and fire fighting.

—Make it a misdemeanor to disrupt university classes, punishable by a fine up to $200 and a jail term up to six months.

Philip Visits Pitcairn Island

GLENDALE, Calif. (P) — Britain's Prince Philip has paid a visit to remote Pitcairn Island, peopled mainly by descendants of the seamen who staged the mutiny on the Bounty.

Tom Christian, the island's radio officer, said by radio Tuesday the prince arrived in the royal yacht Brittania Sunday and had most of the 93 islanders aboard for a buffet dinner. He later visited ashore.

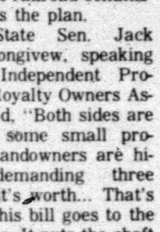

The 10 mutineers arrived there 181 years ago.

Home Job Or Sales Gimmick?

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I would like your opinion of the attached ad and literature. Also, what does the Better Business Bureau say about it? — V.S.C., Tucson, Ariz.

V.S.C.'s enclosure was promotional literature for a New York State company claiming to be a research organization, paying its field correspondents for their opinion on merchandise and/or literature sent to them. Field correspondents are required to pay a $10 enrollment fee. The company's ad reads...

"SPARE TIME OPPORTUNITY. MONEY. Panelists at home wanted by New York Researcher. Leading research firm seeking people to furnish honest opinions by mail from home, pays cash for all opinions rendered. Clients' products supplied at no cost. For information, write —."

THE LITERATURE sent by this company to recruit field correspondents deserves honorable mention in the Huckster Hall-of-Fame. A classic of pitchmanship, it's written in pure sucker-ese, and laced with such words and phrases as "honesty"..."not another sales gimmick"..."we have a paramount obligation to the discipline of our profession"..."our obligation to protect our field correspondents from misrepresentation and exploitation"..."research for the people, by the people, of the products people use and consume" (Shades of Abe Lincoln!).

THE COUNCIL OF BETTER BUSINESS BUREAUS (CBBB) does not regard this company's promotion and advertising as in the public interest. For good reason. Here's the analysis, as revealed by CBBB investigation...

(1) The promoter company's literature says payment for opinions ranges from $1 to as much as $100, or more. The company's president told CBBB investigators that $1 is "the present average," and that field correspondents receive as many as 12 items per year, and "probably more, depending on the promptness of their response." However, it seems more likely that since there's a 4-6 week turn-around (sending out product to return of opinion), 8-10 products — and $8-10 as the normal yearly annual pay for correspondents — would be the case.

(2) Payment is offered in coupons with a declared purchase value of $2 each when used to order merchandise from catalogs sent by the company. The coupons may also be redeemed at a cash value of $1 each — but you have to send at least 5 coupons at a time to get the cash.

(3) The company told the CBBB that 90 percent of the products sent for opinions are manufactured or distributed by companies affiliated with, or controlled by, this "research" company. The company's literature now mentions "Many of our clients are affiliated" following a brush with the N.Y. Attorney General's Office. (In admitting this client connection, the firm's copywriter showed persuasive genius, turning a negative into a positive by stating that the client affiliation "guarantees the company continued business" — thereby assuring field correspondents of continued assignments.)

(4) Numerous complaints have emphasized the failure of the promoter firm to send any or sufficient items for evaluation, delay in payment, and small fees awarded. Some said they couldn't get a refund of the enrollment fee, which is "absolutely" guaranteed by the company.

(5) Conventional research/opinion organizations don't try to sell merchandise or charge fees for enrollment as a field correspondent. In effect, this firm's field correspondents have become customers of a merchandising operation while being recruited as paid opinion givers. Furthermore, they are largely paid for their opinions in an amount (an estimated $8-10/year) frequently less than the $10 enrollment fee required.

ALTHOUGH THIS FIRM has expressed a willingness to adjust any and all complaints, in light of all the circumstances, CBBB refuses to seek voluntary adjustment of individual complaints concerning this operation - as it customarily does when an occasional inadvertent misunderstanding occurs. If you've got a complaint about this company, you can report it to the Postal Inspection Service, Post Office, Washington, D.C., or to the Federal Trade Commission in Washington.

Tornado Toll Upped

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Civil defense workers have raised to 90 the number of known dead in the Mississippi Delta area hit by tornadoes Sunday night.

"We've got the living to worry about now," said one civil defense official.

Acting as a personal emissary of President Nixon, Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin toured the area Tuesday and promised immediate federal aid to the estimated 2,300 persons left homeless when up to 100 tornadoes skipped across the delta in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Mobile relief squads of officials representing half a dozen agencies were expected to begin touring the seven counties to inform victims of assistance available.

Winnie Judd To Be Freed

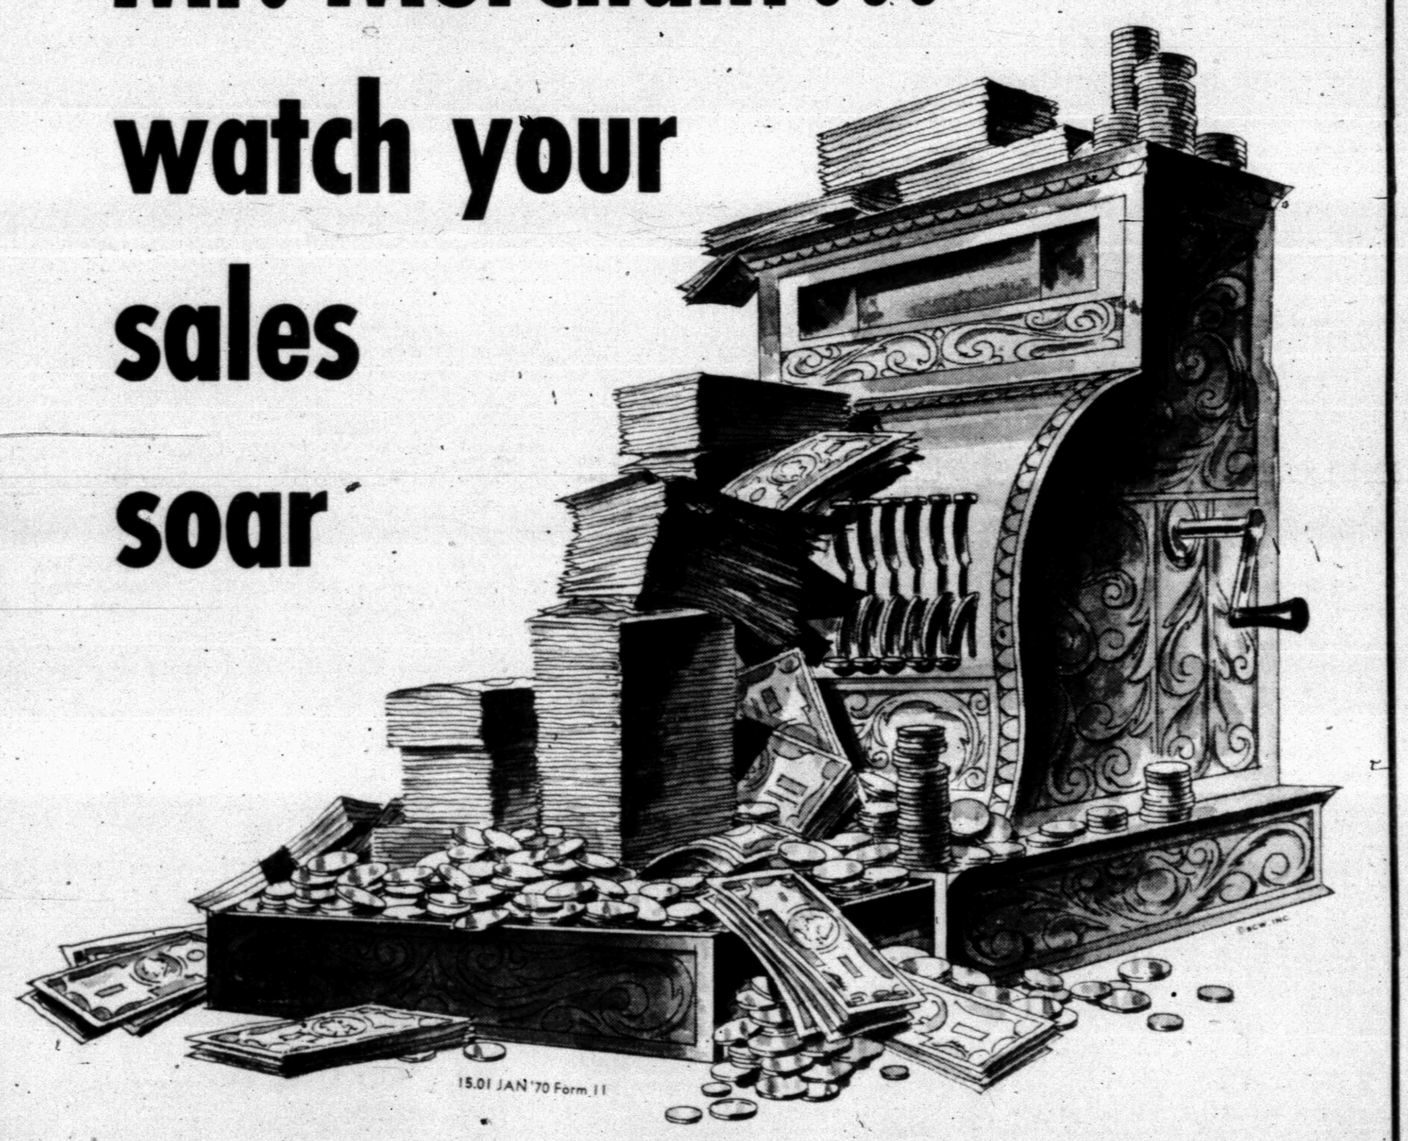

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Winnie Ruth Judd, who narrowly escaped execution for a trunk murder committed in 1931, will be freed from prison if Gov. Jack Williams accepts a recommendation by the state Board of Pardons and Paroles.

By a 2-1 vote, the board recommended Tuesday that her life sentence be commuted to the time already served.

Mrs. Judd, now 65, was found insane and sent to a state hospital only three days before her scheduled execution. She had been sentenced for the murder of one of two women whose bodies were found in a trunk at a Los Angeles railroad station.

She escaped seven times and managed to stay at large seven years after fleeing in 1962. Found in California, she was declared legally sane and placed in prison.

This mother needs nutrition lessons

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: There is a young woman living next door to us who is in the process of divorcing her husband. She has two beautiful sons, ages 3 and 7.

These children have not been fed properly, Abby. Once when I returned from the marketing and was putting away the groceries, the older boy asked if he and his brother could please share a carrot. I gave them each a carrot which they devoured like they were starving to death. Since then I give them a good nutritious meal with milk and fresh fruits and vegetables every day.

I know for a fact that they have gone without lunches before I started to feed them. Their dinners consist of hamburgers from the corner drive-in. Their mother has a good job and could feed them properly, but she doesn't.

My husband and I don't mind feeding the boys but we won't always be living next to them, and the next neighbors may not want to be bothered.

Should I talk to the mother about the boys' nutrition? She is one of those hard, tough women who runs with a motorcycle crowd and may not appreciate my interest.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Talk to her anyway. Don't be critical of her, and don't give her any cause to feel guilty and defensive, and she'll not be resentful. You have nothing to lose and you could help those boys a lot by educating their delinquent mother.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife who gives her husband a birthday card with a note enclosed saying, "I owe you a present"?

HURT IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR HURT: It's better than being forgotten.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my sister. Brenda is 12 and I am 14. Our job is doing supper dishes every night. We have a system. I clear off the table and wash, and Brenda wipes and sweeps up. And we both put away. Doesn't that sound fair to you? Well, Brenda always gripes that her job is harder than my job, and she picks a fight, then my mother hears us fighting in the kitchen so she comes in and chases us both out and ends up doing everything herself. Brenda goes out and watches television and I don't even want to be in the same room with her so I go to my bedroom. How can I teach Brenda a lesson?

JILL

DEAR JILL: Since the argument is always over whose job is harder—and you think they're equal, offer to switch jobs with Brenda. And if she still complains, tell her to keep her voice down. Kids have been using this dodge to get out of helping their mothers for years because they know mother would rather do it herself than referee a fight.

DEAR ABBY: Is it ever possible to forgive and forget?

TRYING HARD

DEAR TRYING: Yes. But don't dwell on what it is you're "forgiving,"—or you'll never forget.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Fluvanna Girl Wins Oratorical Contest

Gwen Stansell of Fluvanna and Norvelle Kennedy of Rotan were named winners of the Government In Action Youth Tour oratorical contest sponsored by Midwest Electric Cooperative Inc. The two will received an expense-paid trip to Washington, D. C., next June with the Texas Electric Cooperatives Youth Tour to our Nations Capital.

Runner-ups were Wilma Stirl of Hermleigh and Kenneth Shira of Hamlin.

Miss Stansell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stansell. She is a senior at Fluvanna High School. She is one of three girls in Fluvanna High School. She has served as class president, class secretary, played basketball, and was in the one act play cast. Miss Stansell is a member of the Fluvanna Baptist Church.

Norvelle Kennedy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Kennedy and is a junior at Rotan High School. He was a two-way all district football honoree for the Co-Champion Rotan Yellowhammers and honorable mention all area. Norvelle also participates in basketball, track and was on the third place debate team at State contests last year. He is vice president of the Student Council and a member of the First Baptist Church.

Wilma Stirl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stirl of Hermleigh. She is a sophomore at Hermleigh High School, Kenneth Shira is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shira and is a sophomore at Hamlin High School.

The Washington trip winners were among seven high school students from the area served by Midwest Electric Cooperative who delivered speeches on the subject "A Youth Looks At Our Environment".

Other finalists were Neil Leach of Roby, Tommy Vineyard of Hermleigh and Reggie Baker of Fluvanna.

Gwen and Norvelle will join approximately 100 other young people from across Texas on the seventh annual Government-In-Action Youth Tour. All expense of the trip for the twosome will be paid by Midwest Electric.

Judges for the final contest were Homer Taylor, Assistant to the Manager of the Sweetwater Facility of the Texas State Technical Institute; Tommy Morris, Agency Manager for American Founders Insurance Company in Abilene; and James Wilks, Attorney for the Law Firm of Nunn, Griggs, Beall, and Wilks in Sweetwater.

"Set-Aside" More Liberal

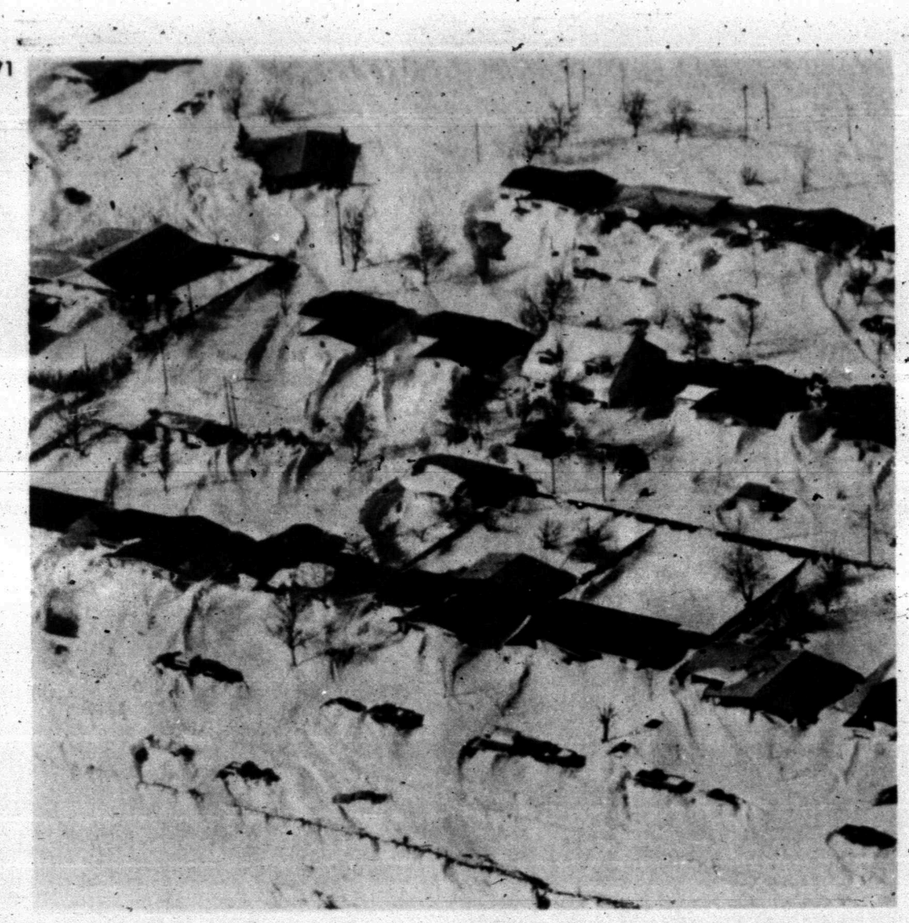

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials expect a larger participation in 1971 feed grains program under the new "set-aside" feature than in 1970 or 1969 when stricter controls were in force.

Carroll G. Brunthaver, associate administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, says 72 per cent of the nation's corn and sorghum base acreage is expected to be signed up in the new program this spring.

Brunthaver commented Tuesday during the opening session of the annual National Agricultural Outlook Conference.

Last year farmers signed up 65 per cent of their corn-sorghum acreage, and in 1969 agreed to 67 per cent. Under the set-aside feature, a farmer can agree to take from production crop land equal to 20 per cent of his feed grains base acreage and then plant as much as he wants on his remaining land.

The same principle is involved for wheat and cotton. All told, Brunthave said, farmers may agree to idle 35.1 million acres under 1971 programs for feed grains, wheat and cotton, compared with 56.9 million taken from production under the old law last year.

Governors Urged To Sell Revenue Sharing

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told the nation's governors he is looking for action, not a political issue, with his proposal that Washington send $5 billion in federal revenue back to financially pressed state and local governments.

He went in person and sent Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and two top lieutenants Tuesday to urge the governors to help sell revenue sharing and Cabinet reorganization measures in Congress.

In a private appearance before the midwinter governor's conference, Nixon was quoted as saying his proposals represent "the right program at the right time."

Nixon was said to have emphasized that he wanted the program, not a political talking point. Twenty-nine of the governors are Democrats, 21 are Republicans.

And some of them remained skeptical. Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan, a Democrat, said Nixon will blame a Democratic Congress if revenue sharing is rejected; if it is approved, the Republican administration will claim credit.

Gilligan said he prefers federal takeover of rapidly increasing welfare costs. Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, another Democrat and the conference chairman, said "everybody would be in much better shape" with the federal government financing welfare,

Agnew sought to head off the idea of supplanting the administration plan with federal payment of welfare bills. Such a move, he said, will erode "the unified, massive effort it is going to take to get this through Congress."

Actually, the governors conference has endorsed both plans for new federal aid. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said the governors will make a mistake if they foresake the administration program to press for more welfare aid.

"It's utterly unrealistic to expect that the Congress is going to vote to give a few states the vast majority of the money," the Republican governor said.

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally urged the governors to support Nixon's Cabinet overhaul program; John D. Ehrlichman, chairman of the domestic council, argued the revenue sharing case.

Obscenity Law Is Reinstated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas' obscenity law was reinstated Tuesday by the Supreme Court.

An immediate effect of the 8-1 decision was to enable Dallas authorities to prosecute the operator of an underground newspaper called "Dallas Notes."

The Supreme Court said a three-judge federal court in Dallas should not have held the state law unconstitutional in 1969 because there was no evidence of "irreparable injury" to the publisher of the paper, Brent Stein.

There was vigorous dissent from Justice William O. Douglas, who said Dallas police staged a "search-and'destroy" raid on Stein. He added that the Texas statute clearly was unconstitutional.

Using a search warrant that authorized them to seize "obscene articles and materials," the policemen took two tons of the "Dallas Notes," a photograph enlarger, two portable typewriters, two electric typewriters a camera and $5.34 cash.

Returning two weeks later with a second warrant that authorized a search for marijuana which they did not find, the policemen seized cameras, a three-drawer desk, a drafting table, two telephones, a poster of Mao Tse Tung, credit cards, five cardboard boxes containing documents, a brown sweater and other items.

"Thus," said Douglas, "the newspaper Dallas Notes, a bimonthly, was effectively put out of business."

The majority's brief unsigned opinion "stressed the rule that federal intervention affecting state criminal prosecutions, either by injunction or by declaratory judgement is proper only where irreparable injury is threatened."

The three-judge district court which struck down the state's law and prohibited Stein's prosecution "made no findings of any irreparable injury," the majority opinion said.

New Bill Pools Risk Areas

AUSTIN (AP) — Homeowners in such areas as the hurricane belt along the coast and tornado alley in the Panhandle may get relief for their insurance woes.

The Senate passed, 29-0, a bill Tuesday allowing insurance companies to spread the risk of covering homes in such areas and the House Insurance Committee took it up that night.

Residents in the coastal areas have complained for months that it is almost impossible to get insurance, especially since Hurricane Celia.

The State Insurance Board and insurance companies have agreed that some plan should be established to protect businessmen and homeowners.

The Senate bill, sponsored by Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston, was similar to one introduced by Rep. Neil Caldwell of Alvin which the committee was to hear. It authorizes the insurance board to issue a "reasonable plan" to distribute high risk policies among all companies doing business in the state.

Schwartz told the House Committee the companies would "pool" the coverage instead of assigning the high risk policies on a rotation basis, as is now done with drivers who cannot obtain liability insurance.

"The rates wouldn't be prohibitive under this pool, I shouldn't think," Schwartz said.

Schwartz said the bill has the support of the insurance board, savings and loan institutions and the Independent Insurance Agents Association.

Panel Questions Curb Put On Pesticides

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret report by a White House advisory committee suggests President Nixon's former science aide and two federal departments acted hastily in restricting use of a herbicide linked to birth defects in animals.

Disclosure of the critical report coincides with Environmental Protection Agency proceedings to broaden curbs on the weed-killer, 2,4,5-T. The chemical already is banned for most home use and on food crops and for defoliation in South Vietnam.

Relying on tests done for the National Cancer Institute, the departments of agriculture and health, education and welfare have branded 2,4,5-T a health hazard because it caused birth defects in rats and mice.

The two departments subsequently curbed the herbicide under prompting by President Nixon's former science adviser, Dr. Lee A. DuBridge. The only uses now permitted are for weed and brush control on ranges, pastures, forests, rights-of-way and other nonagricultural land.

The secret report of the 10-scientist White House panel, obtained by The Associated Press, questions existing curbs on 2,4,5-T and the government's reliance on the NCI birth-defects studies.

"To restrict or ban usage of chemicals on the basis of demonstration of teratogenicity (birth defects) at dose levels which far exceed actual or expected (human) exposures is unreasonable and could well deny usage of chemicals whose benefits far outweigh risks," the report said.

"A decision to restrict the use of 2,4,5-T should not be based on the isolated finding of toxicity but on the expected exposure following recommended use in relation to dose-response effects," it continued.

The scientists said that in the few cases in which 2,4,5-T residues have been found in food, the levels were "well below those which would result in significant toxicity for man.

The study group headed by Dr. Colin M. MacLeod of the New York University Medical Centre was appointed, ironically, by DuBridge—the first government official to urge curbs on 2,4,5-T.

A spokesman for the White House Office of Science and Technology said the report submitted some months ago has not been released because some sections still are undergoing minor revision. It has been made available to the Agriculture Department and EPA for comment, he said.

The report, by contrast, urged "prompt and expeditious release of information" on pesticides.
