LYNCH STANDS STILL

Veteran Observer Declares People of Texas Interested In Election

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

AUSTIN, June 12.—In the first of this series of political reviewing the writer dealt with the probable size of the vote to be cast in the July primary. It was stated that with the absence of the religious issue of the campaigns of 1922 and 1924, where the excitement was intense and the greatest primary vote in the history of Texas were rolled up, that there would be a falling off of approximately 100,000 votes in July of this year. All this is merely speculating. It is the viewpoint of veteran politicians who say that in moments of tense excitemnt, caused by the injection of religious differences into the campaign of the hour, men participate in a primary election who when times are normal and the issues economic, never venture near the polling places.

Now it should be said that the total vote in July or in the run-off this year, if a run-off takes place, may reach the record vote of 750,000 registered two years ago. The writer has seen considerable of the state and felt the public pulse. He has been in touch with newspaper associates located at different points in the state in correspondence with men of political activity in all the larger counties or voting centers. All report and absence, in the main, of the religious craze of yesteryear. They say that the farmers are in the field. They recognize their first duty to be to their families and they are watching the growing crops. In many counties where the drouth was severe last year they are sticking close, watching and waiting and figuring on the net returns of the fruits of their labor.

In many of the counties where the drouth prevailed last year, there was

MEXICAN PAIR GIVEN DEATH

Slayers of Geologist Guilty, Sentenced to Die In Electric Chair

LAREDO, June 12.—(AP)—Herminio Garza Williams and Cruz Martinez were found guilty of a charge of murder in connection with the death of Sterling Hauntley, San Antonio oil geologist, with death in the electric chair fixed as punishment, by a jury in district court here tonight. The verdict was returned after an hour and thirty minutes deliberation.

Huntley was slain in Zapata county, when, it is alleged, he stopped his car on an unfrequented road to help Williams and Martinez repair a tire on the truck they were driving. Williams and Martinez then drove away in Huntley's car after hiding the body in the brush, it is charged. The geologist's car later was found wrecked in a gully.

DEMO AND GOP HEADS READY FOR SESSIONS

Three Candidates to be In City Next Week For Addresses

MA AT THE HEAD

Governor to Make Her First Appearance In Wichita Falls

A week brim full of political happenings and with every promise of being replete with all that is spectacular in this year's Texas election interest is Wichita Falls' lot this week. Six events of major importance are scheduled—two important meetings, and rallies at which two of the candidates and the accepted representative of the third are to be the chief speakers. Then, there will be a visit from the governor herself, who will be here incident to her campaign for re-election in north Texas and to the campaign her husband, former governor James E. Ferguson, is making in her behalf.

Of the two meetings scheduled, the firts is that of the state democratic executive committee to convene early Monday morning. Accredited representatives, either actual or by proxy, from Texas' 31 senatorial districts will be in Wichita Falls for the meeting. The sessions will probably be held at the Kemp hotel. Author Eldson of Hamilton, chairman of the committee will be in charge. Former governor James E. Ferguson will be in attendance at the meeting, presumably with a proxy that will allow him to take part in the sessions. He will be the only one of the candidates here. Attorney General Dan Moody is scheduled to arrive for his Monday night speech about 6:00 o'clock that evening.

Republicans to Meet

Of equal interest to republicans of the county will be the meeting with the chiefs of that party in the state Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, R. B. Creager of Brownsville, T. P. Lee of Houston, Leonard Withington of Dallas, and Eugene Nolte of Seguin will be present at a epublican get-together meeting at the Wichita club, this to be followed later in the evening by a banquet to which all north Texas republicans are invited.

Monday evening the first of the week's three addresses is scheduled, the attorney general, Dan Moody, appearing here in a big rally planned at Bellevue park. Mr. Moody will arrive in Wichita Falls Monday afternoon following three speeches at Bowie, Bellevue and Henrietta. He will take dinner at the Kemp hotel, resting an hour or so there before speaking at Bellevue park where seating space for more than 5,000 people has been arranged. J. A. Kemp, Wichita Falls, will introduce the attorney general. Mr. Kemp will be introduced by Charles I. Francis.

It is not known whether or not Former Governor Ferguson will be in Wichita Falls Monday night for the Moody rally. A speaking date has been arranged for him Monday afternoon at Vernon from which it is believed, he may not return until Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Ferguson will arrive in Wichita Falls Tuesday afternoon and will, it is announced, make a short speech Tuesday night. The Ferguson rally will be held at the American legion arena at corner of Eleventh and Ohio. C. C. McDonald will introduce Mr. Ferguson, whose speech, of course, is to be the major event of the evening. There had been no announcement late Saturday as to who is to introduce Mrs. Ferguson.

Quiet for a Time

Tuesday over, there will be a lapse of three days before the sixth and last event of the week, Lynch Davidson's rally. This plans announced Saturday afternoon by friends of the former lieutenant governor, is to take place at 8:30 o'clock Friday night at Bellevue park. Judge P. A. Martin will preside and make the introductory remarks for the speaker. Mr. Davidson will arrive in Wichita Falls Friday afternoon and will meet his friends at an informal reception at his room at the Kemp hotel from 4 to 6 o'clock.

With Mr. Davidson's address the three leading candidates for governor will all have been heard in Wichita Falls and the basis laid, as far as the pre-election rallies ever lay the basis, for the trend of voting when July 24 rolls around. In this respect at least the week will undoubtedly mark the high spot for Texas politics as far as this section of the state is concerned.

With the gubernatorial race taking most of the north Texas spot-light there has been a noticeable laxity in other campaign during the past week. In one or two, notably, that of Judge B. D. Sartin to succeed Gwynn Williams of Decatur as congressman from the 13th district, speakings here and there over the district have continued unabated. In most of the others, however, things have quited down, presumably to await until next week is over when county and district politics should bloom forth with all of their biennial fervor.

Texas Girlhood Represented By University Miss, Wearing Dress Loaned Her by Friend

AUSTIN, June 12.—(AP)—A girl who borrowed the dress she wore to Austin to appear before the selection committee, Miss Mary Johnson of San Antonio, has been named to represent Texas girlhood at the Philadelphia Sesqui-centennial celebration.

This announcement was made today by Judge A. S. Walker of Austin, chairman of the committee of 24 He was appointed by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

The alternate for Miss Johnson is Miss Nettie Lee Meeker of Temple. Balford Morrison of Hagerman, Grayson county, was selected to represent Texas boys, with John Perrin Minter of Austin, Texas university freshman, the alternate; while Mrs. Ella F. Little, supervisor of the primary grades in Temple public schools, will represent Texas teachers, with Miss Helen Weinberg of Houston, the alternate.

"The committee received applications from many attractive and talented young girls and it was difficult to decide among them; but finally the committee was unanimous in selecting Miss Johnson," Judge Walker said.

"In one sense of the word, the selection of Miss Johnson is extraordinary. The information before the committee showed that she had been reared in extreme poverty. Her father has been an invalid for many years and the family now lives on a small, rented farm in the outskirts of San Antonio.

"The young girl has helped cultivate the small family crop and in other ways has contributed to the meager support of her family.

"When she appeared before the committee, her face and arms were browned from sunburn. It it was developed that the dress she wore on the trip to Austin to appear before the committee had been lent to her by a friend.

"Notwithstanding the fact that there

Frontiersmen To Stage Old Style Parade

Nothing But Quadruped Motive Power to be Permitted In Procession

SAN ANTONIO, June 12.—(AP)—A genuine frontier parade featuring stage coaches, an ox-team, buckboards and mounted men on horseback, but with no automobile or anything with motive power other than that produced by four legs, will be the outstanding spectacle in the reunion of the Pioneer Freighters' association of Texas which will open its seventh annual meeti in San Antonio Monday, June 14. The reunion will close with an old-fashioned barbecue on Wednesday.

From 150 to 200 old frontiersmen, ranging in age from 60 to 100 years will be in attendance at the reunion according to William B. Krempkau, secretary-treasurer of the association.

Monday evening there will be a ball at which Sam Carter, 77-year-old fiddler, will play.

The parade, which will be staged Thursday afternoon, will be headed by a buckboard in which will ride the oldest frontiersman in Texas, Amasa Clark, 100, of Bandera.

Identify Mystery Man Found Dead As Ex-Governor's Son

TAYLOR, Texas, June 12.—(AP) The aged "mystery man," whose death occurred here several days ago was Walter McComas, son of former Lieut. Gov. McComas of West Virginia, who as judge signed the death warrant of John Brown. The identification which is apparently confirmed, was made through the efforts of Mrs. N. E. Riviere of Taylor.

Photographs in the possession of the "mystery man" who was found dead in his room at a hotel here, were sent to Charleston, where the man had said he was born. A Charleston newspaper reprinted one of them, and Sarah Molderly, elderly Charleston woman recognized the picture as being that of Judge Elisha W. McComas.

Mill Owner Raps Organization Plan

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 12. (AP)—The move initiated in New York this week to organize the cotton manufacturing business on a national scale and to help the industry to better times was characterized as a farce by Walter H. Langshaw, New Bedford manufacturer, in a letter sent today to Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Langshaw, who is president of the Dartmouth Manufacturing corporation, wrote Mr. Hoover that too many of the men in the national council of cotton manufacturers, which has launched the new program, are "novices, unsuccessful mill men, representatives of machinery makers or commission merchants."

Mexican Revolt Hinted by Huerta

SAN ANTONIO, June 12.—(AP)—Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico, in a statement today said he had information that a revolution against the Calles government "is coming soon." He reiterated that he would have no part in it, but that if the Mexican people called him to lead them he would comply.

De la Huerta's prediction of a revolution, based on "the disaster of the present administration," was contained in a statement issued to deny formally that he had said he would start a revolt soon. He was so quoted Thursday by a San Antonio newspaper.

Sailors on Foreign Vessels Must Be Inoculated in New York.

LONDON, June 12.—(AP)—The action of the New York port authorities in ordering extra medical examinations of crews of foreign vessels has resulted in an expression of indignation from the national sailors and firemen's union. The examinations, especially as they affected the crews of the Majestic and Berengaria have been largely featured in the London press.

The sailors union is circulating a petition urging the British government statement refers to the examinations to take up the matter. The union's as the "latest American medical stunt" and asserts that the foreign crews have been subjected to indignity.

18-Months-Old Baby Is Center of Row That Gun Closes

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., June 12.—M. J. Short, aged 28, is dead; Mrs. M. J. Short is at her home here suffering from minor pistol wounds and bruises; and her father, T. Stamps, is in the county jail in connection with a shooting affray staged on a busy downtown street late Saturday afternoon. Short died in the Tillman county hospital a few minutes after being removed there with two bullets in the chest.

The trouble came up over domestic affairs, it was learned, that started when Short and his wife from whom he was divorced, met on the street corner. A dispute over the custody of their 18-months-old baby started, bystanders said, and developed into a physical encounter between the two, Stamps, the father of Mrs. Short, appeared on the scene in a moment and the shooting followed shortly thereafter.

Short was alleged to have drawn the pistol used in the fight.

Big Ransom Paid For Texan's Life

MEXICO CITY, June 12.—(AP)—The American embassy has received official information that the Potrero Sugar company paid a ransom of 5,000 pesos on May 31 for the release of the American, J. W. Shanklin from the hands of the bandits who had kidnaped him.

Shanklin is an employe of this company, and his death was threatened unless the ransom was forthcoming. Up to now the embassy has been unable to ascertain whether the ransom had been paid although Shanklin had returned to his work.

The embassy exprass satisfaction at the measures take nby the Mexican authorities to apprehend the bandits, although unsuccessful as yet.

Hold Parents When Babes Starved And Sadly Mistreated

RANGER, June 12.—(AP)—A man and woman were jailed here Friday night after the discovery in a hovel near Cisco of two babies, each about three months old, near death of starvation. One child's arm had been broken apparently several days ago, and the bone, infected at the break, had begun to knit with the hand reversed.

The children have been placed in a local hospital where attendants say their recovery is uncertain. The couple held say they are parents of the children.

Persons who discovered the plight of the babies reported to the county attorney, W. J. Barnes that their faces were covered with pillows when they were found.

Nickel Plate To Re-Submit Merger

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—Evidence that plans are afoot to resubmit the proposed billion dollar Nickel Plate railroad merger was contained in a letter made public today, addressed to the entire Indiana delegation in congress by Commissioner Meyer of the interstate commerce commission who wrote the majority opinion in the case.

The commission's letter was in reply to one sent him by the Indiana senators and representatives which declared that unless immediate steps were taken to bring about an agreement the Chicago, Alton and Southern railroad, a 140-mile line in Indiana, would have to be abandoned.

DECLARES STATE SACRIFICED FOR POLITICAL GAINS

Wichita Falls Capitalist and Widely Known Civic Leader Asserts Texans Should Support Dan Moody

A vigorous denunciation of the Ferguson administration for its failure to take steps to validate Texas road bonds, and a stinging personal rebuke to James E. Ferguson for his "sacrifice of the state's good to further his political fortunes" was voiced here Saturday by J. A. Kemp in a lengthy reply to Governor Ferguson's latest refusal to call a special session of the legislature.

The statement was prepared by Mr. Kemp as chairman of the statewide committee called to devise means to validate Texas bonds. In it he traced in detail the steps his committee had taken in the interest of a validating act to meet the exigencies created by the supreme court's Archer county decision; he declarel that James E. Ferguson, acting for his wife, had consistently opposed and hindered a validating measure; and in the end he came out in an unqualified endorsement of Dan Moody who, he said, presents the surest way "to secure speedy relief from the disgraceful situation that is forced upon us by this discredited ex-governor."

Mr. Kemp's statement in full was as follows:

After some months of inaction following the decision of the United States supreme court in the Archer county case, a movement for validating legislation as a means of clarifying the bond situation was inaugurated. A general call was issued by Honorable Leonard Tillotson of Sealy, Texas, chairman of the legislative committee of the Texas highway association and Honorable H. C. Meacham, mayor of Fort Worth, in response to this call a large gathering of citizens assembled in the city of Fort Worth on April 16th. Those in attendance at this meeting were composed of leading men from all parts of Texas, in all walks of life—mayors of many cities, members of the legislative bodies, bankers and business men engaged in numerous lines of activity, all of whom were deeply interested in the general welfare of the state; realizing the deplorable condition prevailing, resulting from the supreme court decision in the Archer county road bond case, in which decision the court held invalid the law under which our district road bonds were issued. This decision not only discredited the road bonds, but all Texas bonds were adversely affected.

The apparent indifference of the state to the gravity of the situation was a common criticism throughout the country. Intense interest was manifested at this meeting. After much discussion engaged in by some of the ablest and most progressive citizens of our state, ringing resolutions were adopted, without a dissenting vote, urging convocation of our legislature in extraordinary session, for the enactment of legislation to validate our district road bonds, and, recommending the appointment of a committee of fifteen to exercise general supervision over all movements respecting the validation of the defined road district bonds. The following named gentlemen were selected to compose the committee:

Leonard Tillotson, Sealy, chairman.
Oscar F. Holcombe, Houston.
H. C. Meacham, Fort Worth.
Judge C. Y. Welch, Quanah.
R. M. Hubbard, New Boston.
J. B. Rector, Austin.
Homer D. Wade, Fort Worth.
R. J. Potts, Waco.
Judge Jesse Wright, Corpus Christi.
J. J. Collins, Dallas.
Col. C. C. Walsh, Dallas.
J. A. Kemp, Wichita Falls.
Judge August McCloskey, San Antonio.
Judge Oscar C. Dancy, Brownsville.
Gillis A. Johnson, Fort Worth.

Following this a resolution was adopted that a committee of five be selected, charged with the duty of preparing and presenting to the governor a memorial setting forth the great need for convening the legislature in special

REPUBLICANS HERE MONDAY

State Leaders to be In Town For Rally Of Importance

A meeting of the state's republican "big guns" in Wichita Falls Monday afternoon is announced by O. R. Hartt, chairman of the Wichita county republican committee. The visitors will include R. B. Creager of Brownsville, national committeeman; Eugene Nolte, chairman of the state republican executive committee; T. P. Lee of Houston, former national committeeman, and Leonard Withington of Dallas, secretary of the state executive committee.

All republicans in this part of the state are invited to attend a meeting with the party leaders to be held at the Wichita club rooms at three o'clock Monday afternoon. A banquet will follow at 6 in the evening, for which reservations can be made through Mr. Hartt, or the Wichita county secretary Wayland Sanford.

Talks on pre-election subjects are in the main on Monday's republican meeting schedules, with advice from the state leaders on methods of arousing interest in the coming primary, the first that the republican party has ever held in Texas.

Trucker Killed In Luling Field

BASTROP, Texas, June 12.—(AP) Leroy Baron of Bastrop was killed in an accident near here while hauling pipe to the Amarada Oil company. The trailer of a heavy loaded truck, driven by his brother, Otos Baron, passed over his body, breaking his neck.

Baron's accidental death occurred when a chain broke on the trailer of the car he and his brother were riding. He climbed out of the truck and started back toward the trailer, apparently falling in between the truck and trailer. His brother rushed him to town but he was dead when the reached here.

THORNTON ON BENCH MONDAY

Archer County Man To Succeed Wilson In 30th Court

E. G. Thornton of Archer City will assume the bench of the 30th district court Monday morning with the calling for trial of criminal cases set in that court for the coming week. Judge Thornton's duties date officially from midnight Saturday at which time the resignation of Judge H. R. Wilson became effective.

Mr. Thornton was appointed to the 30th district bench the latter part of the past week by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, following a tender of resignation by Judge Wilson to take effect Saturday. Inasmuch as Judge Wilson's resignation was received by the governor following the period in which other candidates may file petitions for a place on the ballot subject to the July primaries there was little question as to whom would receive the appointment, Mr. Thornton being the only candidate for the office.

WRITER SEES

a decided falling off in the payment of poll tax receipts. In many of the larger cities and towns there was a falling off. Everywhere the issue uppermost is Fergusonism and anti-Fergusonism, with the American Road Company the principal topic of conversation and the handling of the millions of road money a choice morsel of discussion. There is no doubt about this. This issue was made by the Fergusons when Attorney General Moody clashed with them over the way the contracts were let, the money of the people was handled and the scandals which grew out of their administration of highway matters. All the contenders are on the stump. All the issues which are vital to the people have been presented in the press or from the rostrum.

These issues can not be sidetracked or discounted or waved aside by volleys of words or barrages of mud, or scurrilous epithets. Stripped of verbiage, fair or rank or foul, the main issue is uppermost and no doubt it will continue to be uppermost until primary election day and perhaps until the second primary in August, if a second primary should be necessary. Now this issue is shall the Fergusons be continued in power, given the Democratic gubernatorial nomination for a fourth term or shall the standard be placed in the hands of another. This is the issue. It can not be obscured. Fergusons as governor, made their own record. On this thy must stand or fall. Mrs. Frguson pledged the people to retire after a single term if given the nomination. She changed her mind.

Announces Two Years Ago.

Lynch Davidson announced his candidacy two years ago when the ballots placed him third in the race. His issues are issues which have been uppermost or talked about, for many years with the exception of what he calls his billion dollar issue, which deals with the return of the Standard Oil ompany to Texas by authority of the 30th legislature and the Fergusons. Moody was drafted by the people as a candidate for governor on the record that he made as county attorney, district attorney and attorney general of Texas. That record is an open book, in fact, "all who run may read."

Now has Davidson gained or lost since 1924? Have the Fergusons gained or lost since 1924? It must be admitted that pardons and patronage have made a considerable number of votes for the Fergusons in the 18 months since their inauguration as governor of Texas. It must be likewise admitted that they have lost many votes since their inauguration as governor of Texas. It must be admitted that there are thousands of thousands of Democrats in Texas who if forced to a choice between the Fergusons and Lynch Davidson, but who are for Moody today would cast their ballots for Davidson without the blinking of an eye to rather than cast their ballots for a continuation of the Fergusons in power after the close of their term in January, 1927.

Now the writer is dealing with conditions, political and otherwise, in Texas at the beginning of June. He has found no evidence that Mr. Davidson, who is a successful business man and has had experience in official life, has gained any voting strength since July, 1924. There are thousands of Democrats who look upon Moody and Ferguson as the leaders of two opposing armies, the one fighting for the continuance of the Fergusons in power and the other determined to rid Texas at the ballot box, of the Ferguson rule and that which they most derisively term "Fergusonianism, a blight upon Texas and its people."

No Reflection on Lynch.

This is no reflection on the vote getting ability of Mr. Davidson. He did not make the landing at the beginning. Issues make leaders, and likewise issues make contenders for the great prizes of a political nature which are the gifts of a free people to those they wish to serve in positions of state. Issues made Moody a candidate for governor. Issues made the Fergusons the targets of the vast number of voters who do not believe in the political methods of the Fergusons, their ideals of governmental life or their conception of the duty that an official owes to the people who pay the taxes and make their servants.

There is a vast deal of political sniping on the part of some of the political leaders, in the press and on the rostrum, and some of the contenders for the major prize are sniping instead of facing the main question and discussing the paramount issue of the hour. No doubt the people who read and think made this discovery long before the writer gave it heed. There is a paramount issue.

All the thinking voters who call themselves Democrats recognize the issue. They smashed the klan political organiaztion in 1922, and unless the signs are misleading and the close observers in the political haunts of men are mistaken, the same body of voters who emerged victorious from the battl eof 1924 are going to do some heavy smashing in the primary contest in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and twenty-six.

This is the way men are reading the stars early in the month of June. In the third of the series of political reviewing, the writer will attempt to estimate the voting strength of the hree principal contenders for governor if the election were held at this time.

This special committee, charged with the duty of presenting a memorial to the governor, met in Austin on the twenty-third day of April. Clifford Jones, who had been named as chairman, having tendered his resignation on account of serious illness making it impossible for him to serve, I was honored by being selected in his place as chairman, and W. V. Crawford of Waco was appointed a member of the committee in Mr. Jones' stead. Our committee proceeded immediately to present a memorial to the governor, appealing to the executive in the strongest terms of which we were capable. After its presentation, we were informed by Jas. E. Ferguson, the spokesman for the governor (and, who as everyone knows, to all intents and purposes is the real governor of Texas) that before giving consideration to our request, the governor would impose two conditions, viz:—first, get assurance from a substantial majority of the members of the legislature, declaring their approval of a special session and willingness to attend same for the purpose of enacting validating measures; the second—that validating bills be prepared in advance, under the supervision and direction of able and expert bond attorneys of the country, that would adequately validate the road bonds criticised by the United States supreme court. The committee proceeded at once in an earnest and energetic effort to comply with both these requirements. On the day following our conference in the governor's office, we called by long distance telephone all the members of the state senate we could reach, requesting them to meet our committee in the city of Waco on the following Tuesday (being only two days notice); we found some senators away from home and many having engagements rendering it impossible to respond to our request on such short notice, but there were sixteen, or more than one-half of the membership of the house who were able to be present, as well as several members of the house, who volunteered to attend without being requested to do so, and, which action on their part the committee greatly appreciated. Those members of the legislature present were advised by our committee that our purpose in asking them to confer with us, was to obtain, from them suggestions as to the best method of procedure to employ, for securing an expression from members of both branches of the legislative body, in the most expeditious manner possible. After brief, but very serious discussion, a vote was called for by those members as to whether in their opinion a special session should be called. With the exception of one senator, who declined to vote either way, every member present voted in the affirmative by a rising vote. After some further discussion, it was decided that a committee, composed of three members of the senate and five members of the house, be selected to work in cooperation with our committee in obtaining expression from members of both houses, at the earliest possible date, and, that the senate committee be appointed by Lt. Governor Barry Miller and the house committee be appointed by the speaker of the house, Hon. Lee Satterwhite. Lt. Governor Miller appointed the following three senators:

Senator T. J. Holbrook, Galveston.
Senator R. A. Stuart, Fort Worth.
Senator L. E. Price, Texarkana.

Hon. J. W. Stevenson of Victoria.
Hon. W. F. Alexander of Prairie Hill.
Hon. Eugene Blount of Nacogdoches.
Hon. Claude Tier of Granger.
Hon. W. R. Hanman of Ranger.

Our committee proceeded, in cooperation with Judge W. P. Dumas of Dallas, who had given much study to this situation, being for a number of years the chief of bond division of the attorney general of our state, and who is recognized as one of the ablest students of municipal bond law in our state, to get in touch with leading and outstanding municipal bond attorneys in New York, Chicago and St. Louis and prepare the validation bills requested by the governor. In a very few days, we had succeeded in securing the voluntary aid of five of the recognized outstanding bond attorneys of America, two firms in New York, two in Chicago and one in St. Louis, who submitted to us, through Mr. Dumas, drafts of the proposed legislation that would meet with their approval. Following the meeting at Waco April 27th, I as chairman of the committee, mailed a special delivery letter to each and every member of both houses, urging them to communicate with me immediately, indicating their attitude with reference to a special session, as requested by the governor. Our committee was exceedingly gratified at the prompt and favorable response from an overwhelming majority of our law-making body. I also called our committee together for another conference with the governor for May 6th, at which time we submitted the drafts of the proposed legislation which had the general approval of the expert bond attorneys, who pass upon 90 per cent of the districts and municipal bond securities of Texas; and, also delivered to the governor telegrams from members of the legislature, which together with oral expressions we had received from many members of both houses with whom we conferred, gave assurance from an overwhelming majority of the membership of the legislature's favor to a special session for validating purposes. Jim Ferguson, however, speaking for the governor again, indicated that he was not satisfied with the form of opinion given by these attorneys, with whom we had counseled, inasmuch as there was some minor differences between one or two of them as to the exact verbage of the bills. There was not material difference, but Ferguson insisted that we should have these lawyers on the dotted lines of unqualifiedly endorsing the proposed legislation. Whereupon the committee immediately arranged for a conference in Chicago between these attorneys, and, as chairman of the committee, accompanied by Judge Dumas, I went to Chicago; after a day's conference these attorneys ironed out their minor differences and gave their written opinion as to the sufficiency of the proposed bills to take care of the situation. I returned immediately, going direct from Chicago to Austin, having wired a few members of our committee to meet me which they did on May 17th, and, presented these bills prepared in the manner demanded by the governor.

Prior to this time, our committee had been urging the governor to convent the legislature immediately, but we had decided in view of the thirty days notice that would have to be given before convening the legislature and the probable length of time required to pass the special district bills, that it would not be advisable to call the legislature together until after the primary election, which was so near at hand, but we again urged that the governor issue a proclamation immediately to convene the legislature at some date in September, after the rimary elections were over.

After two weeks delay, the governor signed a letter addressed to me as chairman, declining our request and assigning as the chief reason the heated political campaign which was now approaching; the letter clearly dodged the issue and was given to the press to deceive the public as to the real reason for not complying with our request. On June 5th, I replied to this letter and endeavored to point out the erroneous statements contained therein which were so obvious.

In a second letter mailed to me over the governor's signature and which I have just received, the governor is now made to say that there is a difference in opinion between reputable lawyers in Texas as to the sufficiency of the bills submitted by our committee and that she desires further time for investigation; also asserting "that it has taken months for the bond attorneys to submit the bill which they claim will meet the situation, and, complaining of the inclination on the part of our committee for hasty action, etc." Regarding the matter of hasty action referred to would say that it is exceedingly unfortunate for Texas that we have not a governor who had the high conception of the duty imposed upon the executive as did the governor of Mississippi, who, placed in a like unfortunate predicament as Texas by reason of the Archer county case, submitted validating legislation secured prompt action; the supreme to the legislature of that state and court decision having been rendered on January 3rd, the Mississippi legislature acting with only one adverse vote in the senate and two in the house, passed the validating bills and same were signed on February 13th, all of which required a little more than thirty days to remedy their situation. As a direct result of such declaration of purpose to protect the credit of the state it has unrestricted access through the bond markets on the same basis of credit as before the decision. The absolute absurdity of this argument when viewed from the facts as I have undertaken to set out in the foregoing statement, is so apparent as to need no further formal reply from our committee.

In behalf of our committee I feel justified in saying that we have endeavored to discharge the duties and responsibilities reposed in us in presenting this important matter to the governor. We have compiled with every request on suggestion advanced and justly entertain the feeling that further responsibility in this matter rests with the executive office.

Speaking for myself individually, I have definitely determined that further appeal to the Ferguson administration would be waste of time. Jim Ferguson has utterly disregarded the tremendous responsibility involved in the failure and refusal to do anything and everything within the power of the governor to relieve, at the earliest moment possible the chaotic condition now existing in Texas as a result of the United States supreme court decision in the Archer county case. Jim Ferguson (who is the real governor of Texas) and who manifests such gross indifference to the gravity of the situation now confronting our people, is costing the people of Texas many millions of dollars, besides casting a serious reflection upon the good name and honor of the citizenship of our state. The press of our state, with united voice, practically every chamber of commerce, the state highway association, the mayor's association, the state bankers' association in their recent convention, the labor unions in their last convention and numerous other civic bodies, together with many citizens of our state, have appealed to and plead with him for a convocation of the legislature to remedy this appalling condition. To all of which he gives a deaf ear.

It is, therefore, quite apparent to me that Ferguson's only concern is his political fortune. He puts that far and above the interests of the people of this great commonwealth, who have repeatedly honored him and whose trust he has betrayed, as no other man has ever done in the history of Texas. It is my firm conviction that the only way our citizens can secure speedy relief from the disgraceful situation that is forced upon us by this discredited ex-governor is for every loyal man and woman, who loves and cherishes the good name of Texas for all its traditions and historic past and who has the proper appreciation for the sacred heritage that is ours, to rally around that brave and courageous young statesman, Dan Moody. He has had the courage to oppose Fergusonism and has recognized that Fergusonism is the paramount issue and by exposing Ferguson's part in the handling of the affairs of this state, has insured for himself the most overwhelming majority in the July primary that has ever been accorded to any candidate for governor in the history of the state. In this accomplishment he will force from the political arena for all time to come, this man who is one of about three in the history of this republic, who has been guilty of such misconduct as to deserve removal, by impeachment, from the chief executive office.

It is my further conviction that every patriotic Texan should band all of his, or her, energy toward defeating the Fergusons in the July primary and I, for one pledge my best efforts to this cause.

(Signed) J. A. KEMP.

Thousands Plan Vacation-Service in Training Camps

July and August will see between 30,000 and 40,000 of the country's most alert and patriotic young men in the Citizens' Military Training Camps. Here are two typical camp shots. In the insert are seen the boys on the rifle range and, below, out for a hike far from the hubbub of traffic.

Automobile Race Driver Is Killed

MILWAUKEE, June 12.—(AP)—Elmer Schmidt, an automobile race driver was killed when his car went through a fence at state fair park this afternoon. Schmit whose home was in Greenbay, Wis., was taking a final workout in his machine, tuning it up for a race meet to be held here tomorrow.

The car, going 60 miles an hour got out of control and ripped through 75 feet of fence at a turn in the track, crashing into a tree.

Miss Barnard To Wed In New York

Miss Ruth Barnard of this city and Dr. Walter P. Sherrill, Temple physician, will be married in New York City June 15, it was announced Saturday when the couple were granted a marriage license in the eastern city. The ceremony will be performed in the Church of the Ascension.

Miss Barnard, who is resident buyer in New York for the P. B. M. Company, is well known in Wichita Falls. She visited here for a short time several weeks ago.

Mrs Scott Fasts To Raise Money For Husband's Defense

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Catherine Scott, wife of Russell Scott, condemned murderer whose sanity has become a matter for the courts to decide for the third time in the fight to send him to the gallows, will go on an extended fast to try to raise money for his defense, Scott's lawyer announced tonight.

Mrs. Scott has announced she will enter a glass cage on the stage of a local theatre Monday and will stay there as long as she can without food. A physician and nurse will examine her frequently and the public will be charged to see her, the attorney said.

Scott, who was saved from the gallows for killing a drug clerk in a Chicago holdup when he was found insane, recently was found sane by state alienists and returned here to be hanged. He is to undergo another sanity hearing next week.

Cleveland Fights Chicago Waterway

CLEVELAND, June 12.—(AP)—Cleveland today was preparing a new attack on the play to withdraw sufficient water from the great lakes to make possible a ship waterway from Lake Michigan to the gulf of Mexico, by way of Chicago's drainage canal. The opposers charge that Chicago is camouflaging an attempt to steal water for sewage disposal by sponsoring a waterway.

The struggle will take place before the senate committee in Washington in Washington in a hearing on the rivers and harbors bill. The plan opposed by Ohioans is included in a provision of the rivers and harbors bill, which has passed the house. Congressman Theodore E. Burton is marshall of the forces opposing the plan.

SENATORS GET LITTLE FROM ADVANCE DOPE

Political Situation for Republicans Still Unpleasant.

BY ROBERT T. SMALL,
Special Correspondent to the Record News
Copyright 1926 by the Consolidated Press Association

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Senators who have their ears close to the ground trying to hear the padded feline footfalls of the political cat jumping one way or the other, have just about thrown up their hands in despair. Something closely resembling a panic has seized upon them. They cannot explain away each recurring primary election by saying the result was guided by "peculiar local issue."

But even the closest political friends of President Coolidge admit that the four senators who have been defeated thus far this year have all been faithful administration men. Senators who have come successfully through the ordeal by fire, men like Senators Watson and Robinson of Indiana, have let it be known on the other hand that they were openly opposed to the Coolidge administration in some of its chief policies and were independent of it in others.

With the latest administration defeat, the selection of Colonel Smith W. Brookhart, radical of the radicals, over Senator Albert B. Cummins in Iowa, democratic jubilations here at the capital have just about reached their height. They are shouting from the housetops that President Coolidge must see "the handwriting on the wall."

The democrats have been doing their best to "knock down" Mr. Coolidge. They seem to fear him as a "third term" candidate, despite their claims that the 'third term" issue would be as fatal to him as it has been to other ambitious aspirants. The democrats would rather have Coolidge out of the way. They recognize the remarkable hold the president has upon the people of the country but they are also depending upon the politicians in his party to throw him overboard before the Ides of 1928.

It is rather a peculiar circumstance that even some of Mr. Coolidge's bitterest critics in his own party admit he would be the strongest the republicans could nominate two years hence. Yet these critics do not want him to run. They appear to think that Mr. Coolidge himself might pull through another national election but that he would leave many dead and dying republican office seekers in his wake.

It would require an unmistakable 'mandate" from the people for the politicians to re-nominate Mr. Coolidge in 1928. They are arguing today that senatorial primary results this year are just the reverse of such a mandate. The president has not been able to 'put his men across" in the senatorial primaries and ,therefore it is held his long potent influence is on the wane.

Administration senators who have fallen by the wayside thus far in the state primaries are as follows:

William D. McKinley of Illinois.

George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania.

Albert B. Cummins of Iowa.

As already stated, many and various explanations are offered for this quartette of defeats, but the net results are the same.

Many politicians lugubriously predict, however, that the worst is yet to come. A number of senators who did not expect opposition at the later primaries are finding opposition mounting by leaps and bounds. Opponents have been encouraged by the so-called "Coolidge defeats" in other states to throw their hats defiantly into the ring against senators who had intended to make their strongest appeals on the ground that they "had been standing by the president." It has been discovered that this slogan is not wholly invulnerable and a lot of potshots are going to be taken at it between now and next November.

The white house "spokesman" remains silent in the face of the various primary results but the intimation comes from sources close to Mr. Coolidge that he has had no "personal" candidates in the field thus far and does not think the "so-called "administration defeats" should be charged to him. The president gave no personal backing to Messrs. McKinley, Stanfield, Pepper and Cummins. He kept hands off. He has remained true to his inherent political philosophy which has taken him so far. He has hoed his own row and has let the senators make their own fights.

There are several additional tests soon to come. One of these will be in Wisconsin, where Senator Lenroot soon is to face the La Follette faction of the Republican party. Heretofore Mr. Lenroot through his own personality and individual strength, has been able to beat the progressive machine. But knives have been sharpened for him a long while this time and the fight ahead of him is hard.

Mr. Coolidge has come closer to an out-and-out indorsement of Mr. Lenroot than any of the other men who have supported him in the upper branch of congress. He mentioned Mr. Lenroot by name in his address at the unveiling of the monument to John Ericcson in this city at the time of the visit of the crown prince of Sweden. He said Mr. Lenroot was the valuable type of citizen brought to this country from Scandinavia. Naturally the Lenroot adherents intend to make full use of this indirect indorsement.

Senator Wadsworth of New York is virtually defying the administration because of its "dryness" and has come out on one of those "wet as the Atlantic ocean" platforms, which may do him some good in his native state, even if there has been no great change of sentiment the country country over.

Many persons in Washington have been lulled to sleep by reports that the people of the country were paying no attention to politics.

The people may be quiet, but when they vote they certainly say something.

New Introductions

LONDON, June 21.—(AP)—An original hostess is Lady Wyndham, better known to the theater-going public as Mary Moore He teas and other functions in her home overlooking Regents park are noted for their extreme originality, and now she has hit upon an unusual plan by which all her guests may become acquainted with one another.

Not liking the old English custom of permitting guests to remain uninvtroduced at her dances, she has evolved the idea of having the men line up on one side of the drawing room and the women on the other. Then the women walked backward toward the men and then there is a collision the couple must announce their names and whirl away together in the mystic mazes of the dance.

Paper Wrecked by Plotters' Bomb Editor and Family Escape Death

Fearless denunciation of law breakers and his refusal to respect anonymous letters containing threats, cost Editor Charles E. Allison of the Belleville, Penn., Times, his printing office and nearly his life. Dynamiters, after the appearance of a scathing article demanding prosecution of those who violated the law, completely destroyed the press and type-setting machines. The publisher and his family, who were asleep in apartments above the office, were hurled from their beds by the force of the explosive but not seriously injured. The above illustration shows the wrecked shop and its proprietor, Mr. Allison.

CATHOLICS OF WORLD TO MEET

Eucharist Congress Will Be One of Age's Most Colorful Events.

By OLIVER SHERWOOD.
Special Correspondent of The Record News, Copyright, 1926, by the Consolidated Press Association.)

CHICAGO, June 12.—The vast pilgrimage of a million Catholics to the shrine of the holy eucharist — the most stupendous religious demonstration of this century—will converge here this coming week to give public testimony to the faith.

All the pageantry, symbolism and ritual of the Catholics church will combine to make this twenty-eighth international eucharistic congress which the pilgrims are coming from every corner of the world to attend, the most brilliant church event this continent has ever seen.

Fifteen cardinals, princes of the church, five hundred bishops and archbishops and over seven thousand priests are to participate in the formal program. Cardinal Bonnano, carrying the personal blessing of Pope Pius to the congress, is to be received with a demonstration never according to any personage.

What It Is.

Just what it is that attracts the million visitors to Chicago to add their number to the million and a half Catholics of this city in celebrating this congress is explained by the Catholic encyclopedia.

"The eucharist congress," this book explains, "is a gathering of ecclesiastics and laymen celebrating and glorifying the Holy Eucharist and seeking the best means to spread its knowledge and love throughout the world. The real presence of Jesus Christ in the Eucharest is one of the principal dogmas of the Catholic faith."

The purpose of the congress is entirely spiritual as a demonstration of Catholic love and devotion to Christ in the blessed Eucharist, which is described as the "central fact of Catholic worship and belief."

George Cardinal Mundelein, in a letter to his communicants, referred to the Eucharistic congress as "the greatest religious celebration ever held on this continent."

The cardinal has promised Pope Pius XI one million communions for Sunday, June 20. On that day every one of the 250 Catholic churches in the city are to have high mass at midnight and continue at intervals Sunday with low masses. The plan is for at least one million Chicago Catholics alone to attend communion.

"Who knows whether our unified gift of one million communions rising like a vast cloud of incense to the throne of God may not bring about a great change in the world events in years to come for I know what is in the sovereign pontiff's mind and how stupendous the grace is which he hopes to obtain by our gift of one million communions in one day," Cardinal Mundelein said in addressing the Catholics of this city.

At high noon on June 20 in the cathedral of the Holy Name the official installation and welcome of the papal legate is to take place. Later the sectional meeting of the congress will be arranged and on Monday the formal program will be underway. Most of the general events are to take place in the Chicago stadium, having a capacity of 150,000.

At Mundelein, a suburb of Chicago, where Chicago Catholics have built what they regard as the finest theological seminary in the world, the principal event of the eucharistic congress—the eucharistic procession is to be held.

Along the line of march led by the eucharistic king and followed by high dignitaries of the church, choirs will be stationed to catch up and pass on the hymns of liturgy.

TIES REPAIRED

PARIS, June 20.—A "tie clinic" is the latest testimony to the spirit of economy now ruling in Paris. "Send us your worn, torn or tired ties," the new hospital advertises, "and we will return them as good as new, for a moderate payment."

Remembers Faces

BERLIN, June 21.—(AP)—President Von Hindenburg has a good memory for faces. Also he knows how to treat old time friends of his army days, notwithstanding the fact that they may rank far below his level a a field marshal.

Receiving war veterans of 1866, 1870 and 1871 on the Hamburg city hall steps, President Von Hindenburg recognized an 83-year-old former comrade in arms, Corporal Reichow. The field marshal had not seen him previously ni thirty years.

The president stepped away from those nearest him, and grasped Reichow by both hands. "Why, we know each other well," the president said, as the aged corporal with tears in his eyes struggled to acknowledge the verbal greetings. Finally the corporal, who had seen the then lieutenant Von Hindenburg wounded during the storming of Koenigsgraet in 1866 recovered his composure.

Ice Saints Return

BERLIN, June 21.—"Ice Saints" have retained their grip on Germany, baffling scientists and commanding the respect of super-naturdl being from the peasants.

For lack of a scientific explanation, the "Ice Saints" are blamed for a killing frost which has occurred annually almost without exception on three middle May slays, after orchards have blossomed and trees are in full leaf.

Prayer meetings to thwart the devastations of the "saints" are conducted annually in scores of villages. In many sections of the country the day of prayer is fixed on the calendar as a legal holiday. But this year, as most other years, prayers went unanswered. The "Ice Saints" wrought damage estimated at several million marks to strawberries, tomatoes and cherries.

He Says Too Much

PARIS, June 21.—Gabriel Voisin, one of France's leading automotive and aeronautic engineers, stirred up trouble for himself in the French industrial world by declaring that the American automobiles would "sweep away in a few days like a tital wave the entire French automotive industry if the customs barrier suddenly disappeared, and if American construction could resist French roads and French rivers.

An automobile ought to be comfortable, silent and easy to drive, requirements which are filled by the American machines with their roomy, light and well-planned bodies. French automobiles are sacrificed to the aesthetic ideals of the custom coach builders, says M. Voisin. They may be nice to look at but are unpleasant to ride in.

New Rail Executive

HOUSTON, June 21.—(AP)—P. J. Neff, recently appointed general superintendent of the eastern district of the Missouri Pacific lines with headquarters in St. Louis, is well known in Texas railroad circles, according to Houston railroadmen. Immediately prior to the appointment, Mr. Neff was assistant executive vice-president of the International-Grat Northern, with headquarters at Houston.

Mr. Neff entered the railroad field in the engineering department of the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad in 1907, being successively rodman, assistant engineer and later chief engineer of that system in Texas. In 1919 and 1920, he built the Wichita Falls, Ranger and Fort Worth railroad, being at the same time general manager of that road as well as the Wichita Falls and Southern line.

HOUSEWIVES ORGANIZE

LONDON, June 20.—In the opinion of Mrs. C. S. Peel, it is absurd that the largest profession for women —housewifery—is entirely without a union. Therefore, the British housewives association, of which she is the chairman, has been formed with the purpose of urging co-operation among women for better domestic service and cleaner methods of handling food.

PONZI GONE; OFFICERS HUNT

Police Circulars Asking His Apprehension Issued In Boston.

BOSTON, June 12.—(AP)—Although rumors that he had left the country were scouted, preparation of police circulars with the picture and record of Charles Ponzi, one time financial wizard, was begun today by the Boston authorities.

Ponzi, twice defaulted in superior criminal court here is wanted to begin a seven to nine year sentence in state's prison as a "common and notorious thief." The sentence resulted from the collapse of his international postal coupon reply scheme in this state several years ago and was to have been reaffirmed following the failure of Ponzi's appeal to the supreme court.

The former financier left the state in an avowed attempt to recoup his lost fortunes in Florida real estate but his land venture at Jacksonville was halted by a state investigation and a jail sentence for violating a state statute.

Ponzi was free fro mMassachusetts on $10,000 bail, and suit for its recovery alreday has been filed.

BLAMES THE MEN

LONDON, June 21.—Women are just what male journalists make them, so Miss Ellen Wilkinson, labor member of the house of commons says.

"Women want to get on with their jobs unobstrusively," Miss Wilkinson declares. "But men insist in making sex distinction. It is not obtrusiveness, but the struggle for existence, that makes women insist that they should be considered, not as women but as human beings."

IOWA G. O. P. TO RESTORE PEACE

Olive Branch Offered Brookhart by Republican Organization.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 12.—(AP)—Iowa's state Republican organization meeting today for the first time since the primary in which Colonel Smith W. Brookhart was nominated for the United States senate over Senator A. B. Cummins, left the way clear for a reconciliation between the party machine and Brookhart. Their paths had parted some years ago and the breach reached its climax within the past two years when Brookhart renounced President Coolidge in 1924 and the central committee joined with Senator Dan F. Steck on the successful contest against Brookhart's election.

The state central committee today made plans for the state Republican convention to be held here July 21 and designated former Governor Nate E. Kendall as temporary chairman. Selection of Mr. Kendall in itself was interpreted as a move by the committee to restore peace in the party. He has been popular in all factions and is regarded by the Brookhart followers as not hostile to the colonel.

LONDON, June 21.—Prince Chichibu, younger son of the emperor of Japan, not alone is a good tennis player, an admirer of horse flesh and a good all-around sportsman, but also is an enthusiastic lover of music. He is to bee seen nearly every night at the opera in Convent Garden.

The prince, however, is not alone among his countrymen in his liking for music, for the members of the Japanese colony in London seem to be especially fond of Wagner.

DEAFNESS EPIDEMIC HITS THOUSANDS AFTER "FLU"

NEW YORK.—Thousands of persons in America are suffering from a form of deafness which specialists declare to be an aftereffect of influenza. In many cases the hearing has been permanently impaired. "This ailment is unusually prevalent now," said a prominent aural surgeon. "There is usually deafness of the effected ear and some fever. Frequently the inflammation subsides, but occasionally the consequences are very serious. If the inflammation spreads inwards instead of outwards it may cause vertigo, ringing in the ears, paralysis of part of the face, abcess in the brain, meningitis, and other consequences. It is a condition which has reached the stage of an epidemic."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, June 12.—(AP)—The cotton market was active today and price fluctuations were wide enough to constitute a very respectable spread between the highs and lows. The general trend of values was again downward but there were periods of resistance and fair rallies due to profit taking and covering by satisfied shorts. Nevertheless prices again made new low records for the season.

Following an early decline of 10 to 17 points due to covering by shorts and better Liverpool cables than due, the market again weakened on a renewal of liquidation of short selling and before the decline was checked prices had eased off 24 to 31 points from the highs and 7 to 21 points from yesterday's close. There was a rally of 8 to 9 points in the last hour on shorts covering and the close showed net losses for the day of three points on July and 11 to 14 points on new crop months.

At the start Liverpool came in better than due and first trades here showed gains of eight to 14 points. Prices continued to improve after the opening until July traded at 16.90, October at 16.14 and December at 16.10 or 10 to 17 points above the previous close. These proved to be the high points of the day.

As the weather continued favorable and crop reports were excellent, prices soon turned easy and the decline was not checked until October had dropped to 15.84 and December to 15.79, or 30 to 31 points below the early highs. The market then rallied about eight to nine points on shorts covering and closed steady.

NEW YORK FUTURES.

	High	Low	Close	Prev. Close
Jan.	16.31	16.10	16.17	16.25
March	16.44	16.20	16.31	16.37
July	17.74	17.47	17.49-50	17.65
Oct.	16.42	16.15	16.25	16.34
Dec.	16.41	16.16	16.24-25	16.34

Opening: January 16.31; March 16.42; July 17.70; October 16.38; December 16.37.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—A further decline of 15 to 25 points in the cotton market today was followed by moderate rallies on coverings by recent sellers. October contracts which had sold off to 16.16 on the early break, rallied to 16.36 and closed at 16.34 compared with 16.34 at the close yesterday. The general market closed barely steady at new declines of two to 16 points.

The opening wase steady at an advance of two to seven points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. Active months showed net gains of six to nine points after the call on covering combined with a little trade buying of July. This early demand was soon supplied, however, and the forenoon market weakened under a renewal of the recent selling movement which was encouraged by reports of continued good weather and correspondingly favorable crop progress in the south.

July broke from 17.74 to 17.47 and December from 16.41 to 16.16, net declines of 15 to 19 points and new low records for the season on all positions.

These prices appeared to bring in more active covering on realizing by recent sellers and rallies carried the market three or four points above yesterday's close figures but there was no change in the general character of the news and a good part of the improvement was lost in later trading. Closing prices were within seven or ten points of the lowest on new crop positions.

A private review of the crop situation said the acreage would not show a decrease of over two per cent and while the crop was about ten days late it might make up for lost time with another three or four weeks of good weather.

Private cables reported liquidation and short selling had been absorbed by trade calling and covering at the decline in the Liverpool market and that the Manchester cloth market was unsettled with business restricted.

The amount of cotton on ship board awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 67,000 against 58,000 last year.

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—The stock market which has been steadily gaathering momentum on the upgrade for several days, closed the week with a fresh burst of strength. Under the leadership of the so-called "Morgan stocks"—U. S. Steel and General Motors—buying asctivities broadened throughout the entire list, alathough interest centered chiefly in the heavy accumulation of the pivtal issues. Total sales in the two-hour session fell slightly below 800,000 shares.

Commission houses attributed the return of public certificate partly to the strength of the sponsorship for the market leaders. This incentive to constructive operations was augmented by additionala trade reports of reassuring nature, while technical conditions within the market were helped by forced short covering over the week-end as bear traders retreated before the persistent advance of industrial favorites.

The impressive strength of U. S. Steel which reached a new high price on the current recovery at 137, was the outstanding feature of the day's trading. The closing price of 136¾ represented a net gain of 2¾ points on the day and an advance of more than 10 points for the week. Considerable new buying was transacted to the issue when it crossed 136, the price at which it was offered to employes for subscription early in the year.

Closely following the rise in the steel was the advance in General Motors which atisined a new peak price for the year at 138¼ and closed more than 2 points net higher at 138¼. Heavy buying waas based on reports that the company's business had continued at a record breaking rate well into June. Other motor shares failed to keep pace with the upturn although Chrysler, Studebaker and Mack Trucks registered fractional gains.

The demand for other representative industrials waas stimulated by the unrestricted buoyancy of the leaders in this group. Dupont moved by in sympathy wth the rise in General Motors, scoring a gain of more than 8 points, while numerous advances of 1 to 3 points embraced Baldwin, American Can, Allied Chemical, the American Woolen issues, Electric Refrigeration, General Electric, U. S. Rubber, Fisk Rubber, Houston Oil, Panhandle Producing and Refining issues, Montgomery Ward, Shatatuck stores and Woolworth.

Railroad shares failed to equal yesterday's remarkable showing, although several issues pushed ahead to the highest levels of the current movement.

Another moderate advances in sterling, which carried the cable rate above par, featured trading in the foreign exchanges. French and Belgian francs ruled below the 3-cent level, but were easy, and Norwegian kroner forfeited yesterday's sharp gain.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—Fine weather for harvesting of wheat in the southwest led to general selling here today and to lower prices for all grain. Wheat values closed weak, at 1¼ to 2c net decline, corn ¼ to 1c down, oats ⅝ to 1⅛c off, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a setback of 30c.

Corn and oats declined with wheat.

Besides, attention was given to the large stock of corn on hand in Chicago and to prospects of an increase of the United States visible supply total on Monday.

Commission house selling, partly on foreign account, weakened the provision market.

FORT WORTH CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, June 12.—(AP)—Lower prices prevailed Saturday on new wheat for export as on old wheat. Pressure of the new wheat is not very heavy as yet but is being felt in the market.

PROBE DEATH.

NOGALES, Ariz., June 12.—(AP) While William P. Blocker, United States consul at Masatlan, Sinalos, Mexico, is investigating the death of Richard Dawson, young Oklahoman, at Los Mochis, Americans arrived here today from the district are firm in the belief that the American was murdered.

They generally disagree with the report of H. F. Jones, United States consular agent, made public yesterday i nwhich Jones said that Dawson had committed suicide in a fit of despondency.

$50,000 GIVEN GIRL IN ATTACK

Victim of Rich Young Man, Is Awarded Half of Damages Asked For

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., June 12.—(AP)—A broken jaw and numerous bruises which Louise King, student nurse, testified she suffered when attacked by Arthur C. Rich, wealthy son of a Battle Creek manufacturer, were the basis of a jury award of $50,000 to the young co-ed in circuit court here yesterday. Rich was convinced in March of criminally assaulting Miss King and is now serving a life sentence in state prison. He was not present during the trial.

It took the jury—four women and eight men—two hours to decide that Miss King was entitled to half the $100,000 she asked for, after two weeks of court sessions had traced a party similar to the trial of the assault case.

As a climax to an automobile ride on which Rich and Miss King were accompanied by another couple the night of May 25, 1925, the plaintiff declared young Rich took her to a golf course at the Battle Creek Country club and attacked her. Med Reasoner, close friend of Louise, who was with a boy friend of Rich in the automobile, testified that Miss King was brought to the college dormitory late that night in a dazed condition with her clothes torn and her jaw broken.

Wine, fired with whiskey, was consumed by members of the party, Miss King testified. Contentions of the defense that by smoking cigarettes and rolling her stockings she had invited attack which were injected into the assault trial, were not admitted in the damage action.

A 20-day stay of judgment to permit filing of a bill of exceptions was granted counsel for Rich, but the court took under advisement a motion to release the youth's father and grandfather of $20,000 capias bail.

Corn and Cattle To Be Eliminated In Farmer Relief

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP) Cattle and probably corn will be eliminated from the provisions of the McNary farm relief bill under an agreement reached late today by senate managers of the measure.

The conferes further agreed at the request of southern senators to defer operation of the equalization fee against cotton for two years and provide $75,000,000 for the relief of that crop.

Decision to strike out cattle came after Senator Kendrick, Democrat, Wyoming, had voiced a protest from cattle producers. The managers also expect to eliminate corn but final agreement was not reached today. They contend that the corn producers would virtually get the same results through a higher price for hogs, which would be retained.

KEROSENE FATAL.

CORSICANA, June 12.—(AP)—Joe Fred, 16 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Barton, died Friday night at Blooming Grove as the result of drinking kerosene.

Inside Completions and Davis Purchase Feature Weeks Oil News

FIELDS ACTIVE WITH INCREASE IN LOCATIONS

Producers Near Discovery Test Makes New Areas Appear Favorable

Inside completions with no new production of importance were the week's drilling activities for the Wichita Falls district. The purchase by the Texas company of $100,000 worth of production from the Davis-Hart interests in the west Olney district alone featured the sales. One new wildcat, that of Maer & Staniforth on the Prideaux land to the north of Markley which is estimated good for 10 barrels from the shallow 490-foot sand was the only pool opener.

MEADE LOOKS GOOD

In the New Shasta-Grebin pool on the Meade land events are taking a more interesting trend by the completion of three new producers to the west of the discovery test. Although the wells are not large, their approximate 75-barrel initial from the 1,300-foot sand makes the area take on a much more favorable light than characterized it following its discovery two months ago.

ORTH POOL IMPROVES

In the Barkley-Howell pool to the north of Orth two new producers were completed; namely those of Hamilton and Martin to the south of the discovery for an estimated 50 barrels, and Barkley's west offset for an estimated 125 barrels. The pool now has four producers and to all appearances is due to kick out west for some distance.

In the new Racnuig extension to the Gambrell, the Atlantic-Camp interests No. 4-B continues to maintain its high initial of over 400 barrels flowing natural and gives every indication of equaling the parent pool.

JACK COUNTY

In the north Antelope area Guthrie's rotary test in the 700-foot pay which is showing up as the best producer in the field, makes that area take on a very favorable aspect. The test Saturday was slopping over into the pits.

PANDEM'S THOMAS AREA

The Pandem company's new pool in the Thomas area to the west of Archer City flickered and nearly went out the middle of the week but rallied with the semi-completion for 60 barrels on the swab of the Marland Oil company's number one from the 1,100-foot sand. The test at first gave every indication of making a three-barrel pumper on the beam. To the east the Marland's No. 2 missed the pay entirely and is now drilling below 1,300 feet. Pandem's No. 2 is on the sand at 1,155 and is setting to test. To the east of this production approximately one mile the Consolidated Oil company's Jahlik test created a good deal of excitement by making promise of a new pool but fluked out, making a little dark oil and water.

AT MURPHY'S CORNER

In the Shappel pool at Murphy's corner, the Texhoma attempted to kick things over by the bringing in of a 400-barrel swabbing well in its No. 11 Hamilton from the 1,800-foot pay. To the west Perkins-Cullu mand Stumpoare testing the sand in their No. 1 Chilson semi-wildcat at 1,801-02 and the test is showing up nicely.

In recap the area showed but little of importance. News from the Panhandle still continues to overshadow local activities by the high initials and apparently unbounded areas of production. Many wildcat tests, however, give promise of a more active area in the week to come.

Not An American, Though Thinks So

SAN ANTONIO, June 12.—(AP) Although she has taught American laws in San Antonio schools more than five years and voted in United States elections, Miss Gladys Eleanor Morgan, Main avenue high school teacher, was not an American citizen until Saturday.

Born of English parents in their native land, Miss Morgan came to the United States when only a few months old and lived here ever since.

It never occurred to her that she was an English citizen until she applied for a passport to Europe recently.

Immediately she applied for citizenship papers which were granted by Federal Judge Duval West Saturday. "I have always been an American citizen in my own knowledge anyhow," she declared.

New Garber Well

TULSA, OKLA., June 12—The latest well being brought in in the Garber pool of Garfield county, is Sinclair Oil & Gas company's No. 33, on the famous Hartley lease, on which Oklahoma's largest producer was drilled with an initial production of over 26,000 barrels a day. The new well is in the southeast corner of the southwest of the northwest of 12-22-3w and topped the sand at 3,015 feet, and drilling in sand at 3,025 feet, where it is making 15,000,000 feet of gas, and making 20 barrels of oil per hour.

MRS. AYRES DIES.

LONG BEACH, Cal., June 12. (AP)—Mrs. Dudley Ayres, daughter of Thomas Wilkes, theatrical producer, died at the Seaside Hospital here yesterday following a Caesarian operation last Saturday. The child, a girl weighing seven and a half pounds, is reported doing well. The Ayres were married in May, 1925.

OKLAHOMA GETS 65 PRODUCERS IN PAST WEEK

169 Completions Are Turned In For Oklahoma And Kansas Over Week

There were 169 "official completions" the past week in Oklahoma and Kansas oil fields. Of the total 116 were in Oklahoma and 53 in Kansas. There were 65 oil wells in Oklahoma with an initial of 14,333 barrels and eight gas wells for 135,200,000 cubic feet, which was increased to 144,000,000 cubic feet by two of the oil wells also making 9,000,000 feet of gas.

Kansas oil fields had 37 oil wells with an initial of 4,829 barrels, and one gasser making 5,000,000 cubic feet.

Oklahoma had 43 failures to 15 from Kansas.

Unique Oil Concern

In the Texas Panhandle field a unique oil concern has been formed under the name of the Boob Oil company. Its chief functionary is Exasmus Tack, a friend of everyone around Amarillo.

The Boob Oil company has a 1,300 acre lease in some of the best spots of the Panhandle oil area, and it is to secure a charter on June 13, by special permit, and will have $13,000 capital, with a par value of 13 cents a share. The charter calls for 13 vice-presidents.

Organized as a joke, it promises to become a real venture. Frank F. Kistler, president of the Producers and Refiners corporation, has taken a block of the stock, and other real oil men are doing likewise.

BURBANK AGAIN PICKS UP DUE TO LAND SALES

Leases Auctioned on March Last Help Boost Production of Okla. Area

Osage county, thanks to the development on acreage sold March 17 and 18 at the last government auction, is becoming more active.

The Burbank field for the fiscal week averaged 45,671 barrels a day from 1,851 wells, a gain of 3,504 barrels in output and with four new wells in. Of this the Osage area proper did 37,544 barrels from 1,650 wells and the Kay county district made 8,687 barrels from 192 wells.

The Fairfax pool to the south of the Burbank is making 1,267 barrels a day from 11 wells, a gain of 135 barrels and one new well. In this pool the Phillips Petroleum company No. 3, in the northwest corner of the northeast of the northeast of 28-25-6e, had the Bartlesville sand at 2,688 feet, and pay from 2,706 to 2,716 feet for 139 barrels natural in an eleven hour period. Shot with 40 quarts from 2,695 to 2,716 feet it did 400 barrels the next 24 hours.

In the Seymour-Hominy area the Osage Oil company No. 1, in the center of the southeast of 6-24-8e, had the Wilcox sand at 2,832 to 2,833 feet and made 1,006 barrels the first 18 hours, and is now flowing steadily at the rate of 49 barrels an hour. It extends the area two miles.

Close to Hominy the Phillips Petroleum company No. 9, in the southeast corner of the northeast of the southeast of 12-23-8e, had the Bartlesville sand at 2,052 feet, and pay from 2,095 to 2,125 feet for a good show, and shot with 150 quarts at 2,080 to 2,132 feet it is a 50 barrel well.

Okla. Tax Record

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 12.—May established a new record for tax collections by the state of Oklahoma, says C. C. Childers, state auditor, with a total of $2,688,777.56. Since assuming office, Childers reports that his office has collected a total of $42,300,000, or na average of $41,000 a day. The May collections follow:

Gross production tax on oil and gas	$2,154,060.63

Arkansas New Wells

There were 24 new wells reported in the Smackover field of Arkansas for the past week, which had a combined initial output of 2,403 barrels, being an average of about 100 barrels per well. In addition to the new oil wells, there were also two gas well completed, three dry holes and 18 first reports.

OKLAHOMA HAS NEW LOCATIONS

109 First Reports Made In State Against 39 In Kansas

TULSA, Okla., June 12.—Only 109 "first reports" from Oklahoma oil areas were made during the fiscal week just ended.

Osage county, where an exceptionally large amount of new development is starting, led with 25. Okmulgee county was second with 13, and Creek county third with 10.

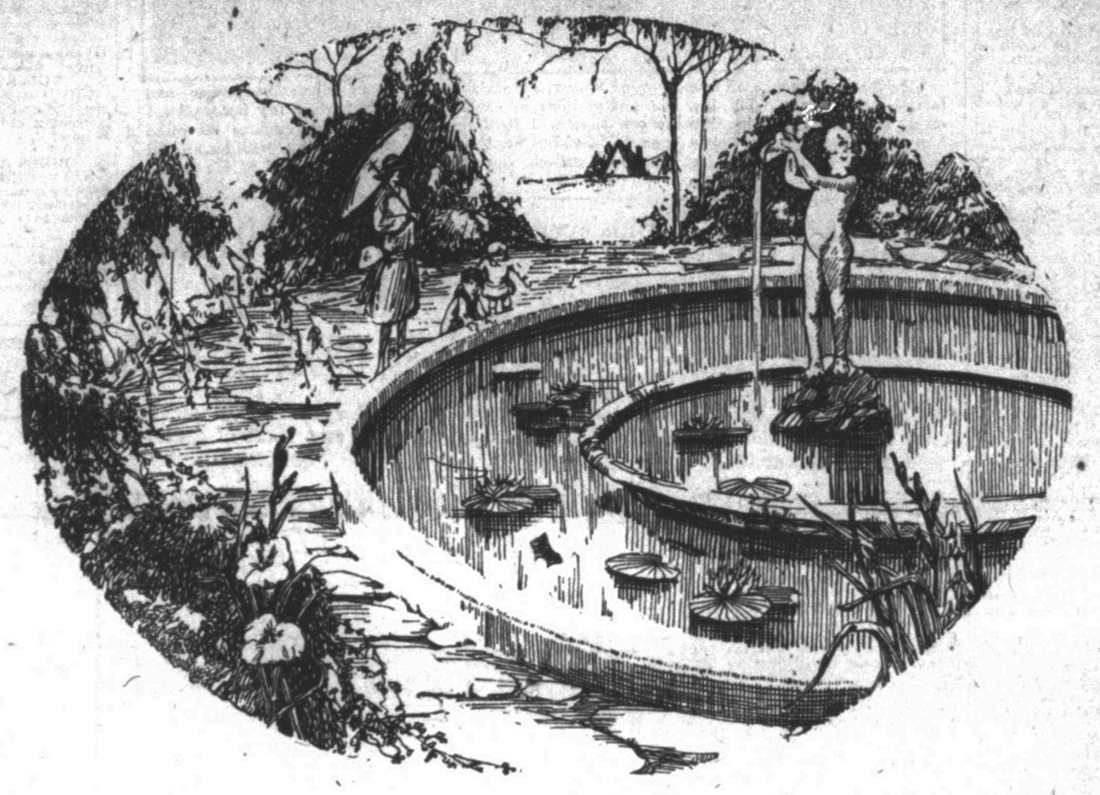

Carter county led southern Oklahoma areas with 8; Garfield nd Kay each had 7; Okfuskee 6, Lincoln and Seminole 5 each; Tulsa 4; Waggoner 3, Garvin, Payne and Sequoyah, 2 each: Hughes, Jefferson, Logan, Kingfisher, Muskogee, Pawnee, Pontotoc, and Pottawatomie, 1 each.

Lynn county took the lead with 13, with Greenwood, that has been in the lead for a long time, dropping into second place. Butler county was third with 6, Cowley had 4, Woodson 3, Barber and Coffey 1 each.

A PLACE OF ENDURING BEAUTY

IN THE improvement and beautification of Country Club Estates, the future has been the greatest consideration. Streets, sidewalks, parkways and lighting systems have been laid out, and trees, shrubbery and evergreens, planted with a prophetic eye.

Everything has been done that could possibly be done to make this fine residence section as immediately beautiful and inviting as possible, and the landscape artists have selected varieties of trees and plants with full knowledge of their growth and their relative values as years gone by.

As beautiful as Country Club Estates now is, with its unusually attractive proximity to two fine Country Clubs and hundreds of acres of heavily wooded park—and with thousands of trees and shrubs already bordering the paved, winding drives and boulevards, their ultimate beauty is only in the embryo and a few years from now Country Club Estates homes will nestle in a veritable paradise.

Those who consider the future value and desirability of their homes and who are planning for posterity are quick to realize why Country Club Estates is, in every way, the "finest residential subdivision in the South."

Lots in Country Club Estates are selling rapidly—We suggest that those contemplating building homes this year or even a few years hence should visit Country Club Estates now; make their selection, secure choice location and take advantage of the low prices which now prevail.

Mrs. Frank Guilty In Hubby's Death

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Alberding Frank, charged with attempting to murder her husband, was found guilty by a jury in the Jackson circuit court tonight and sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary.

Mrs. Frank went on trial the first of the week. The state charged she plotted with Carl B. Davis, a grocer friend, to kill her husband and attempted to show Mrs. Frank and Davis intended to marry after the killing.

Davis was charged jointly with Mrs. Frank and was sentenced to eight years in the state penitentiary after being found guilty by a jury two weeks ago.

Sartin to Speak

Judge B. D. Sartin will be the principal speaker at the memorial services of the Odd Fellow and Rebekah Branches of Wichita Falls, Electra and Iowa Park to be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the I. O. O. F. hall, according to announcement yesterday.

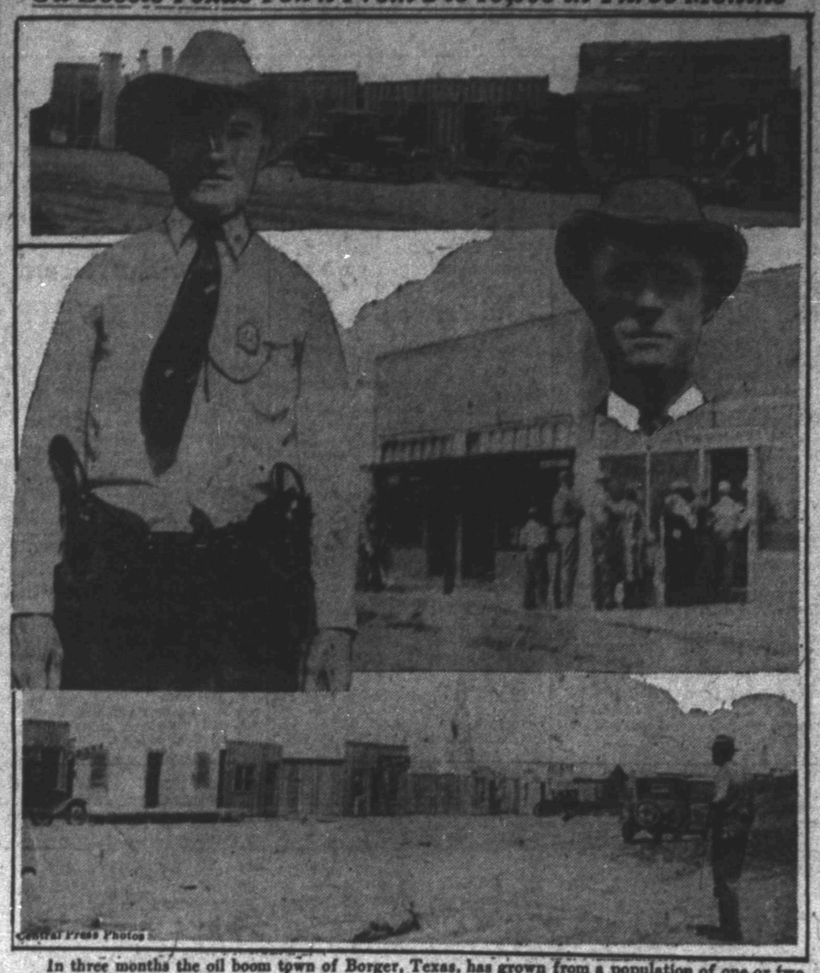

A memorial drill in which the Rebekahs of the three cities will take part will be a feature of the program. The Electra group will sing a group of songs, and George C. Taylor of this city will sing.

The public is invited to attend.

3 MARRIAGE LICENSES

There were three marriage licenses issued Saturday at the county clerk's office, these going to D. H. Denton and Frances Bradley of Burkburnett; Joe D. McClellan and Jewell Johnson of Chillicothe; Thomas A. Vaucleave Burkburnett, and Mildred Yoder, Mangum.

Oil Boosts Texas Town From 2 to 10,000 in Three Months

Central Press Photos

In three months the oil boom town of Borger, Texas, has grown from a population of one or two to some ten thousand. Oil does that sort of thing with a community. Here are a few Borger street scenes and the two rough and ready gentlemen who form just about all the government the place has. Red Waters is the ruling two gun sheriff of Borger. Above, at the left, is "Red," with his arsenal in full view. At the right is Jack Seay, first assistant deputy sheriff—the other half of the town's law and order force.

OKLAHOMA GAS SELLS TO N. Y. BANKING FIRM

Consideration of 6 Millions Cash And 12 Millions In 20-Year Debentures

OIL CITY, Pa., June 12.—(AP)—Sale of the Oklahoma Natural Gas company to Pope, Richardson & company, New York banking firm, effective July 1, was announced today by W. W. Splane, a director of the Oklahoma concern. The consideration was placed at $6,000,000 cash, $12,500,000 6 per cent first mortgage 20-year bonds of the Oklahoma Natural Gas company and the purchasers agreed in addition to pay off a floating indebtedness of $2,500,000.

Mr. Splane said agreement for the sale was reached by the directors Wednesday at a meeting in Pittsburgh. At the same time, he said a dividend of 50 cents a share was declared payable July 20 to stock of record June 30.

The Oklahoma Natural Gas company serves about 250,000 domestic consumers in Oklahoma City, Tulsa and other cities in Oklahoma. It operates a number of producing gas wells and obtains supplies also from other producing companies in that field.

Slashes Throat of Erring Husband

Central Press Photos

Alton Freeman and his girl wife, Nellie Freeman, were unhappily married. When he came home to her, one day not long ago, and told her that he loved another, she went to him in what seemed a gesture of affection. But with one arm about his neck, she wielded a razor with her free arm. Now she waits in the Charlotte, N. C., jail for the trial and the sentence which seems almost certain to be the electric chair.

Oklahoma Reports

TULSA, June 12.—(Special)—Barnsdall Oil company is completing No. 2 Randall, in the northwest of the northwest of 10-12-11, northeast of Okemah in Okfuskee county, topped the sand at 2,623 feet ,to 2,633 feet, where it flowed 422 barrels the first 15 hours, and Friday was flowing 36 barrels per hour, or 864 barrels daily; No. 1 Randall, brought in some weeks ago, is still making 350 barrels daily.

Barnsdall Oil company No. 1 Mary Carter, in the southeast corner of the northwest of 24-9-6, Seminole City pool of Seminole county, continues to be one of Oklahoma's banner producers, the gauge for the 24 hours ended Friday morning, being 1,750 barrels. This good well is producing from 17 feet of sand topped at 3,923 feet to 3,840 feet.

The Texas company new producer, proving a northwest extension of the Tonkawa field, No. 2 Siler, in the scuthwest corner of the northeast of 28-25-1w, being the furthest west well in the field., produced 1,600 barrels the first 24 hours. It is producing from six feet of pay topped at 4,280 feet.

It is reported that three new locations have been made to the above producer, being T. B. Slick in the north half of the northeast of 28-25-1w, Phillips Petroleum company in the northwest of 28-25-1w, and Wentz Oil corporation in the northwest corner of the southeast of 28-25-1w.

Tidal Oil company is swabbing 90 barrels daily from No. 3, in the northeast of the southeast of 20-24-9 one mile west of Winona and south of Pawhuska, in Osage county. The total depth of the well is 2,238 feet. This extends production one location to the southwest.

Ossie Oil company No. 1 Prater, in the southeast corner of the northwest of 22-20-8, northeast of Stillwater, in Payne county has cemented the 8 1-4 casing at 3,212 feet. The Bartlesville sand is expected at 3,800 feet, and the Wilcox at 4,300 feet, to which latter depth the test will go, unless paying production is found in the Bartlesville. There have been five different showings of gas encountered.

In southeastern Grady county, Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Foison, in the center of the northeast of the southwest of the southwest of 27-3n-5w topped the sand at 1,662 feet, and drilled in to 1,675 feet, and well pumped 32 barrels the first seven hours.

Gulf Production company is getting a well in No. 4-A Parsons, Eastland county, Texas, which well topped the sand at 1,227 feet, and has 1,000 feet of oil in the hole, also making 500,000 feet of gas. The casing is being run preparatory to drilling in.

Clark and Baldridge No. 1 Merton, in section 82, I. and G. N. survey, Gray county, Texas, was given a shot of 240 quarts in the sand from 3,089 to 3,165 feet, and swabbed and flowed 650 barrels the first 24 hours.

Ray Oil company No. 1 Tomby, Wm. B. Smith survey, Brown county, Texas, proved dry after second shot. Sand record not reported.

Phillips Petroleum company and Manhattan Oil company No. 1, in the northeast corner of the southwest of the norheast of 19-24-11, Wiggins pool of Greenwood county, Kansas, found sand at 1,814 to 1,838 feet, and had an initial production of 400 barrels. This well extends the pool to the northeast.

Of seven wells in Texas county, five are now fishing, but despite the unexpected delays, interest continues to be active and brisk in that county.

M. M. Valerius company No. 1, in the northwest corner of the southwest of 18-3n-12e, is drilling in red shale at 2,046 feet, and No. 2, in the southeast corner of 32-5-12, is drilling below 1,015 feet.

H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company No. 1 Zea, in the southwest corner of the southeast of 28-3n-13, is fishing for tools at 3,004 feet, and No. 1 Hovey, in the southeast corner of 21-4-14, is fishing for bit and socket at 3,032 feet.

Allison, Garber & Pulse at No. 1 Allison, in the southeast corner of 4-1n-12e, lost the bit at 1,000 feet and have a fishing job on.

Reiter-Foster Oil corporation are rebuilding the rig at the southeast corner of the southwest of 9-3n-15e, and their No. 1, in the northeast of 10-3-11 is drilling at about 1,200 feet.

Four tests are to be drilled in Cimarron county to the west, each on school lands, and the Ramsey brothers—W. E. and W. R.—announce their first location to be in the northwest of the northeast of 27-5n-5e. It will be drilled to 3,000 feet by the Stover Drilling company of Sapulpa.

In the most northwesterly of Oklahoma proper, the Hoffer Oil company of Fort Worth, Texas, in No. 1 Cooper, in the northwest corner of the southeast of 14-25n-22w, aHrper county, is below 3,500 feet.

PIPE LINE RUNS SHOW DECREASE IN DAILY CRUDE

Nocona District Hits New High Figure of 3,950 Barrels

Pipe line runs showed an average daily loss of 682 barrels for the district over the week ending June 12. Electra, Vernon and Archer counties registered an average loss of over 1350 barrels which in part was compensated by a gain in Young county of 200 barrels and Nocona 600 barrels.

The Montague county field is by all means the most important feature of the week's statistics, insofar as this field now is running very close to 4,000 barrels of crude a day. The field has been steadily on the increase for the past six months and bids fair to soon be among the district's leading lights. Runs for the area according to districts are as follows:

District	Last week	Pre. week
Electra	16,380	16,740
Burkburnett	12,300	12,285

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

P. BODIE AND H. MITZE HERE FOR TWO DAYS

Cats Beat Spudders to It, But We Aren't Very Much Mad

Jake's Cowtown litter has gone and done the Spudders some more of that dirty dirt.

They didn't give the official Texas league dethroners of the top-rungers a chance to pull the San Antonio Bears down, but shunted Mitze's men into second place themselves yesterday by virtue of a 10-4 win.

The Spudders knocked Dallas under and were waiting for the two-game series which starts this afternoon to topple the Bears. But those durn Cats beat us to it.

Mitze, the voluble Ping Bodie and the rest of the Bruin horde are on hand this p. m. at 3 o'clock for resumption of hostilities left off with the Spudders last month down at Santone when Honus copped both ends of a two-day stand.

Harlem Joe Keifer looks like Brainard's probable mound choice, that is, if Joe's sore toe doesn't stack up as too much of a drawback. Keifer, knocked a nail loose in the game with the Panthers here Tuesday and had to be taken from the affray.

Mitze won't use Bob Couchman or Tiny Owens today, so it looks like exceptionally soft pickings. And at the current rate the gang is walloping the apple, it wouldn't matter much if Bob or Tiny did take to the hurling eminence.

In case Joe can't work today, Fred has Fussell and Martin, the wrong-handers to fall back on. Williams probably will be seen at first base again.

Shovel Hodge, huge pitching addition registered the other day by his outright purchase from New Orleans, lumbered into the stockade yesterday and slug a few during pre-game batting practice. He wanted to get in the practice staged at Houston's expense later on in the afternoon but is being saved as a surprise package for somebody.

Crusader Cops Belmont Feature.

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—Crusader carried the silks of the Glen Riddle farm to a victory in the Belmont stakes, feature event at Belmont Park today. William Ziegler Jr.'s Espino was second and J. E. Widener's Haste third. The time for the mile and a half was 2:32 1-5. The race had a net value of $48,500.

Jess May Be Ready For National Amateur

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—The possibility that Jess Sweetser, holder of the British amateur golf championship, would be able to play in the national amateur championship matches in New Jersey in September was expressed today by Dr. B. M. Dear, the champion's attending physician.

"Everything is fine," Dr. Dear told the Associated Press after making an examination of Sweetser at the Lawrence hospital, Brownsville, where the champion was taken yesterday on his return from England.

"Everything is normal and there is no cause for worry. Sweetser will be able to play golf after a couple of months' rest."

DULUTH, Minn.—"I am dying for sleep," said a note written by Charles A. Peters, who committed suicide after long suffering from insomnia.

Spudders Smash Three Houston Throwers For 18-7 Victory In Third

Jenkins, Williams, Turgeon Sweep Series With Home Run Attack While Ross Holds Enemy

"We gotta win this game today. It counts as much as two!" solemnly spake the noble Fred Brainard at 3:55 by the hour and minute hands Saturday afternoon to his ambitious athletes.

Whereupon at 4:01, the gentle Spudders rambled onto the diamond and coyly clouted across sufficient runs to cop two games, enough to bag a pair any afternoon in June with exception of certain Sabbath p. m.'s when Bob Tarelton's Sports may be the guests.

They greeted Jake Jacobus, the dipsy-dew person, with studied and careful rudeness in the opening frame, pelted two of the Houston slow-baller's languid tosses out of the precinct. They shot him full of holes in the third and then demolished Ray Pipkin, the stocky right-hander, in the fourth with a deadly cannonade that brooked no defensive armor of slow or fast, wet or dry, sharp or roundhouse breaking slants, but sprayed the outer greensward with a typhoonic hail of lose bumps. Frank Barnes, the lengthy left-hander who went down before a stormy Spudder attack Thursday, came back for more, endeavored to plug the breach smashed through his starboard mates, but merely served as extra fodder for the ravenous war clubs of the home guard.

Eighteen loud and lusty lamps were combed from the three Houston deliveries, five of them zooming over the home-run barricades. Eighteen Spudders cantered across the platter, and Brainard's bouncing boys grabbed the third straight from the Buffs, 18 to 7.

'Tut, Pete and Carl.'

It was a very enjoyable occasion for Tut Jenkins, Pete Turgeon and Carl Williams, who in a delirium of delight poled the pill for a total of 26 bases. The veteran Carlos sent two thundering thumps whistling out of the park and biffed a trio of bingles. Tut duplicated Williams' round-trip connections and plunked a single. Wee Peter swished one smoking slam over the boards and tabbed up with a duet of one-basers. The great DeFate came in for a share of the slugging palm, lambasting a brace of full-bloom doubles.

On the whole, it was a great day for the hitters and a sordid affair for the pitching gentry. The boisterous Buffs tagged Bus Ross for 14 larrups, including non-stoppers by Homer Peel and Joe Burns.

Mathes' macemen stirred up a bit of dust in the first frame, jabbing Buster for a flutter of bingles that scored a couple. Froman and Kane got on. Powell produced the scoring punch. Then Turgeon and Jenkins toed in and clouted homers for the Spudder half of the round. The runways were unpopulated.

Fourth Big Inning

Came the third. Lamb and Turgeon pinked Jake for one-baser. Then Jenkins shocked the inhabitants by whipping his second homer. It was a riotous slam that cleared the left center paraphet with lots of blue sky between. Williams followed with a single, sounding the death knell for Dipsy-Dew. Pipkin got by the inning with no further damage but an explosive uprising in the fourth murdered all Ray's possible pitching dreams. Lapan produced a single and his battery mate doubled. Lamb sacrificed. Turge and Tut bingled, then Williams socked his initial four-bagger. Before Barnes could get warmed up and climb aboard the sacrificial altar, Brainard had singled, Metzler walked and DeFate had injected a two-cushioner. Eight runs were knocked into the Spud scoring slot.

DeFate's double number 2 and Lapan's single took a run away from Barnes in the sixth. A walk, an error and williams' second home run checked three in the seventh. Two more walks, another error and a wild pitch scored another before the inning was out.

Burns' homer found Vigare on in the fourth. Peel followed singles by Kane and Demagio in the fifth with a two-bagger and Powell's infield out made it two more Buff runs. Peel's circuit smash came in the ninth with the bases empty.

White-Sparks Bout Appears Mis-Matched

Speedy Makes First-Class Middleweights Look Pretty Bad

Tommy White, having polished off Young Leonard the past week in Baton Rouge, is expected to arrive in Wichita Falls today for the purpose of doing a few training jigs on location, as it were.

The midget Tommy tangles with Speedy Sparks, the Lawton middleweight, over the 12-round route Wednesday at the American Legion arena.

White, a legitimate welterweight, is confident he will tag it on hte rangy Sparks. Thomas may have the right outlay on the matter, but looking at the bout from an unbiased standpoint she stacks up more or less in the light of a mismatched affair.

Sparks has made it pretty tough on many of the nation's leading middleweights, big fellows that it's granted White wouldn't stand a 10-cent chance with. Speedy has caused several first class middles to look like monkeys, yet the welterweight White is confident of turning back the fast-moving southpaw.

It is possible White will make Sparks miss as flagrantly as he has caused every other fighter the Texas City athlete has scrapped in this section to do, but it does not appear very probable.

However the match has been called for on several occasions by fandom, so on the out-and-out if Sparks happens to prove overwhelmingly the superior there's no legitimate second guess coming from the ringsiders.

The bout may prove a very interesting one, the object being to see if the short-armed welter really can get away with anything on the heavier and longer-armed left-hander.

Wildcat Monte will be carded with Pug Humphries in a six-rounder, that is, if Monte doesn't box in San Antonio Tuesday, said Matchmaker D. M. Wofford. In the latter event, Buckshot Peoples is to be substituted. Monte originally was billed for the Alamo City scrap, but has received no railway expenses yet from Promoter Jack Shelton, and may not.

Curwood Quits Ike League Because Of Dilg Deposement

OWOSHO, Mich., June 12.—(AP) Aroused by what he described as the "dishonorable deposement" at the Chicago convention of Bill Dilg, James Oliver Curwood, the writer and one of the nation's leading conservationists, today resigned as a director of the Isaak Walton League of America and as a member of the editorial staff of its magazine, "Outdoor America."

The resignation was contained in a letter to Charles W. Folds, Chicago, president of the league, a copy of which Curwood made public today.

"I am taking this rather tardy action," the letter said, "because never in the history of American sportsmanship has a more prejudiced or unfair series of acts been perpetuated than those which resulted in the dishonorable deposement at the Chicago convention of Bill Dilg, the man who has meant more for conservation in this country and the world than any man who ever lived.

"In setting this course for myself I take off my hat to Bill Dilg and glory in the true American spirit and sportsmanship which made him resent as an insult—after having worked four years without a cent of salary—the nominating committee recommendation that he be given a pension of $6,000 a year for life.

"DEMPSEY'S GOOD CONDITION THE BUNK," SAYS TIN-EARED SPORT

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

Every now and then in New York I meet the Tin Eared Sport (I've known him twenty years or more, and he boasts that in all that time he never picked a loser.)

"I see you have figured the Dempsey-Wills-Tunney affair figured all wrong," remarked Tin Eared Sport cheerfully. "What makes you think Dempsey has a chance, huh? Just because he looks all right—is that it? You ought to know better."

"Well, he does look all right, and he's a fellow who never drinks any hard liquor, never smokes, gets up at daylight and runs on the road just for exercise, never puts on fat—"

"Forget that," chirped the Tin Eared Sport. "No matter what Dempsey doesn't do, remember that he doesn't fight either. No fighter that ever lived can stay out of the ring three years at a trip and then get it all back by galloping through a few exhibitions with a bunch of ex-sparring partners just lookin' for a chance to lie down and be good. Who has Dempsey fought these past three years? Farmer Lodge, huh? Sure, he's had a lot of terrific battles with that guy. Look up his record book. Farmer Lodge, K. O. one round, Farmer Lodge, K. O. three rounds, Farmer Lodge, no decision, Farmer Lodge, won four rounds, Farmer Lodge, K. O. one punch. Or maybe it was Martin Burke, or George Godfrey. The other half a dozen names all stand for a fat guy who took so many knockouts Jack retired him on a pension. Then he knocked out Soldier Stanton in a moving picture."

"Oh, it wasn't quite as bad as that," I said.

"All right," replied the Tin Eared Sport. "I won't argue with you. I'll admit Dempsey's in wonderful shape to ride a horse or enjoy a little run around the block before breakfast. But fightin's different.

"Now I'll tell you what I think of Dempsey. He knows his own condition better than anyone else does, and that's why he hasn't fought for so long. If he does fight again it'll be for the biggest purse he can clean up, win, lose or draw."

Tunney Better Man.

"Tunney would finish Jack in four rounds. Tunney would knock out Wills in eight rounds. Wills would knock out Dempsey in from six to eight rounds. Dempsey was at his best the day he fought Willard. He was practically unbeatable that day and he's never been in the same shape since. At that he was lucky to knock all the fight out of big Jess in the first round, because he shot everything he had trying to keep Jess down, and if the big fellow could have stalled two or three rounds more he could have pushed Dempsey over, and he might have won the fight. Dempsey is all nerves. He's dynamite for a round of two, and then he goes up in smoke. He laid off a long time before he fought Tommy Gibbons, and when he didn't get the punch over on Tommy in the first two or three rounds he eased up and went along through the fifteen. Sure, he didn't try very hard to knock Tommy out. He was afraid he'd blow up because he knew his own condition. Any good tough fighter with a punch would have got Dempsey that day.

"Yeah, and people said Dempsey made a mistake fighting Firpo the way he did. They say he should have been careful. I think he showed brains fighting Firpo right from the bell. He knew Firpo was tough and strong and could punch, and he knew if he didn't get Firpo in a hurry Firpo would get him. He took the gamble mixing with Luis in the first round. He hit harder and better than Firpo did, and his head cleared up better than Firpo's did in the minute rest after the first round. He went out to try it again, and that time he got the punch over. Firpo would have beaten if Firpo had known how to stall until he got his punch back. Instead of stalling the big fish went out and stood still while Jack socked him again. Jack can sock, all right. I'll hand him that.

"Dempsey says he can beat Wills because Wills is slow. Sure, Wills is slow. But he's strong and he can take a punch. Wills knows and Dempsey knows that the punch Jack packs now won't put Harry down. Wills is crafty. He's been stalling in all his fights, trying to fool Dempsey into thinking he's too old to fight. Wills is slow, and Dempsey would be slow after wrestling with Harry for a couple of rounds. Wills slow—Dempsey slow—then Wills strength would win. He'd tire Dempsey out in a few rounds, and when Dempsey got tired he'd lose that sock. Jack's only chance with Wills would be a wild first round—after that he'd blow.

Dempsey a Bunch of Nerves.

"Tunney would beat Dempsey in half the time Wills would take. Tunney is young and strong, and he hadn't thrown away any of his vitality. Tunney's a good clever boxer, Dempsey couldn't hit Tunney in the first round. Gene would make Dempsey miss a few times and then lean over and drive that left into Jack's stomach. You saw how he did it to Tommy Gibbons, and how he made Gibbons miss and flounder. It would be easier for him to make Dempsey miss. With Dempsey missing and Tunney landing rights on Jack's chin it would be short and sweet. Four rounds, no more.

"Dempsey isn't Jeffries. Big Jim didn't burn everything up with his nerves in the first two or three rounds. He didn't have any nerves. He could take punches for an hour and then speed up and win when the other guy had shot his bolt. He never knew what it was to feel tired. All sprinters are a bunch of nerves. They can run wild for a hundred yards, but there never was a sprinter yet who could go over a quarter of a mile. They burn up everything they've got, and then they're through. Paddock is a powder flash and Nurmi is like a tea kettle simmering on the stove for two or three hours just shooting off a little steam. Jeffries was Nurmi in the ring. Dempsey used to be Paddock. It's a question whether he's even got the flash now. Dempsey has had only one real fight since he beat Willard. Seven years with only one real fight. That was with Bill Brennan, and if he was fighting a Bill Brennan this year Jack would be a push-over."

"You must have indigestion," I said to the Tin Eared Sport. "You're becoming a regular pessimist."

"Pessimist nothin'," retorted the Tin Eared Sport, indignantly. "I figure that the worst is over. Dempsey has stalled along for years and we haven't had any action on the big title. If Wills beats Dempsey, Wills won't fight anybody but old Floyd Johnson or old Charlie Weinert for a couple of years, because he's getting too old to play around with the boys, and then he'll just naturally fade out of the picture. If Tunney beats Dempsey, Tunney'll go into the movies, and he'll fade out. Then in two or three years there'll be a new crop of youngsters fighting and it'll be like the old days over again. When the time comes I'm going to be right up there with my nose under the ropes, the way I was watching Al Palzer and Gunboat Smith and Sam Langford and Luther McCarthy and Jess Willard and Dempsey when he was coming. Yea Bo! Those were the happy days!"

Youthful Bell And Allison Win Texas Net Doubles Title

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 12.—(AP)—Berkeley Bell, Austin, and Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, 17 and 19, respectively, won the Texas state doubles title at Meadowmere here Saturday afternoon by a straight set victory over B. I. C. Norton, St. Louis, and Frost Carvel, San Antonio. The score was 6-4, 6-2, 6-3. Norton will oppose John Barr of Dallas in the singles Sunday afternoon. The original schedule provided for playing the singles first, but conditions compelled playing of the doubles match first.

The two youngsters were brilliant at times and after they overcame a 3-1 lead which the veterans had obtained in the opening set, the victors led all the way. Bell's service won every time, and Norton's delivery was pierced three times for games. Allison's work at the net was decisive.

Jonathan Bull Taken Over Bumps This Year

John Bull has been over the bumps this year. It started with Helen Wills and the English lady tennis champions. It has continued with Jess Sweetster grabbing that English amateur golf title that England had held safe for 20 years. Right on top of that the American team walked away with the Walker cup. There have been other events. But you have to hand it to Johnny Bull. He always puts up a fight and he is never licked until the count of 10 is over. He never alibies his defeat. And next year he'll be trying again, as hard as ever.

Home Plate Used As Wedding Alter

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 12.—(AP)—Using home plate as the altar, Frank Pack and Miss Ortha Daile, both of Knoxville today were married as a prelude to a doubleheader baseball game between local church teams, on one of which Pack plays shortstop.

Following the ceremony the groom took his place with his teammates while the bride watched the athletic prowess of her husband from the sidelines.

Navy's Birthplace Brings On Battle

SALEM, Mass., June 12.—(AP)—North shore historians have gone to war regarding the birthplace of the United States navy.

While the town of Marble Head prepared to celebrate next week the 150th anniversary of the founding of the navy, the city of Salem today made public a claim that the navy began here 100 years before Marble Head could boast a Man o'Wr.

As ten ancient cities once proved their right to Homer, the blind bard of Greece, so thetwo old settlements of the one-time Massachusetts bay colony today delved into history to clinch their contentions. Marble Head has affirmed that the schooner Hannah, chartered in 1775 to fight for the United Colonies was the nucleus of American sea power. Salem retorted today that to the man o'war ketch which sailed out of Salem in 1676, that honor really belongs.

RING LOST 8 YEARS FOUND

Mennonites Meet In Watertown, N. Y.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., June 12. (AP)—A modernist-fundamentalist controversy threatened the ordinarily peaceful annual conference of Mennonites as delegates were assembling today for their meeting at Kirchnerville.

Members of the sect, numbering nearly 1,000, are expected to attend the annual meeting which opens tomorrow and continues until all controversial matters have been settled.

The chief obstacle threatening this year's conference is a movement, fostered by many of the younger mennonites, in favor of discarding a feature of the religious belief which prohibits the wearing of buttons on clothing. The older Mennonites, the fundamental wing of the sect, are expected to offer spirited resistance against the proposed change which, they contend, would lead them away from simplicity in dress symbolized by the hook and eye.

The delegates arriving today came by train, their beliefs forbidding the use of automobiles. They came from all parts of the United States.

Oklahoma Grain Reaches Market

WICHITA, Kan., June 12.—(AP) Two carloads of new wheat, the first intended for sale on the open market arrived here late today. The wheat was shipped from Yewed, Okla., to a local commission firm and will be offered for sale Monday morning.

Wheat in both cars graded number one dark hard. One tested 61.7 pounds and the other 61.1 pounds with 12.4 percent moisture from samples in both cars.

The first car of new wheat to come this year consigned to the Southwest Wheat Growers' association and was not sold on the board.

Aviator Burned To Death In Accident

ANCOUVER, Wash., June 12.—(AP)—Lieut. Henry Good, reserve officer of Portland, Ore., was burned to death late this afternoon when a De Haviland plane he was flying burst into flames and crashed just after taking off from Pearson field here.

Julius C. Syford of Hanford, Wash., a reserve officer in the quartermaster corps, a passenger was seriously hurt when he jumped from the plane just when it struck the ground.

Lee Ends Campaign For Crop Varietes

HICO, Texas, June 12.—(AP)—R. Q. Lee of Cisco, president of the West Texas chamber of commerce, closed a campaign for diversified farming here Saturday. He has travelled 10,000 miles and delivered 200 addresses on his tour. He announced he will consider re-election to his present post at the expiration of his term during the approaching Amarillo convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce.

SANDE VICTOR AGAIN

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—J. E. Widener's Chance Shot with Earl Sande up, won the national stallion stakes at five furloughs at Belmont today. Pantella, the favorite, was second, with Dennes Moi third. The time was :58 3-5 seconds, a new track record. The race was worth $13,000 to the winner. Chance Shot was quoted at 15 to 1.

Suzanne Beats Mary K. Browne In Straght Sets

"Little Bulldog" Completely Outclassed by French Net Flash

PARIS, June 12.—(AP)—Mary K. Browne, American finalist in the women's singles of the hard court championship's, had her long deferred try today for Suzanne Lenglen's title, as many others have tried since 1919. Like all the others, except Mrs. Mallory, her efforts to wrest the championship from the French star were vain.

Miss Browne put up a different brand of Tennis than Suzanne has been forced to contend with for many a day but it could not stop the match-winning progress of the mistress of all tennis courts and Miss Browne managed to win only one game out of 13. The score stood 6-1, 6-0.

Miss Browne was able to take only the second game of the first set. The American made a gallant stand against her scintillating opponent and scored many beautiful placements by going to the net. Suzanne, however, was unbeatable. She used her famous and forth along the base line, seemtactics of running her opponent back ing to put the ball wherever she wanted it.

Rain fell during the entire first set. The court was slippery and the ball heavy. The point score of the first set:

Mlle. Lenglen .....4348444—6
Miss Browne .....2526012—1

The rain continued to fall until the fifth game of the second set, but despite the slippery condition of the court Suzanne Lenglen played almost faultlessly, seeming to gain in power as the match progressed.

Miss Browne tried valiantly, but her long experience in court tactics was of little avail against the French woman's brilliance and she was able only to score an occasional point, some of them on seemingly lucky placements.

"Was the ground too wet?" Miss Browne was asked after the match.

"No, the ground was too good," she replied.

The "little bull dog," as Miss Browne has been called, fought for every stroke of the match, but it was apparent from the start that she would be able to do no more than take a point now and then against the matchless play of Mlle. Lenglen.

Mlle. Lenglen .....4444410—6

HELEN'S BABE TAKES QUICKSTEP HANDICAP

LATONIA, Ky., June 12.—(AP)—The Quickstep handicap, one of the historic fixtures at Latonia, today fell to Helen's Babe, from the stable of Hal Price Headly, won by a length from Arcady and Prince of Wales.

The race was worth $6,440 to the winning owner. The three quarters was run in 1:14.

Ed Hughes' Column

Speaking of the numerous contests for suitable nicknames of athletic teams, recalls the fact that practically of the major league nicknames have come to the clubs for some good reason. The oldest of all is the Athletics. The people of Philadelphia have had a baseball club of that name for more than 60 years. Another old one is that of the Cincinnati Reds. The Queen City has had the Red Stockings since 1868 when the Reds made a tour of the country in which they were never defeated. Incidentally, they were the first team to wear knickerbocker trousers. It was because they wore red hose that they were first called the Cincinnati Reds. Pretty fair reason, hey?

The first white stockings came in 1871, when Chicago put forth a team intended to crush the Reds. It was the first pro team Chicago placed in the field, and quite naturally was called the White Stockings. After the Stockings—later known as the White Sox—came the St. Louis Browns. It is a rather dull, lifeless monicker, but St. Loo has stuck to it since its first professional team, which took the field in 1875.

Scribes Dub Cubs.

Chicago's famous "Cubs" was a nickname produced by the newspaper wits of the Windy City. At the time Frank Selee took the management of the Chicago National league team during the baseball war, he filled the places in its ranks, left vacant by American league raids, with youngsters. Most of them were of the average stature or smaller. Hence, the derivation of the name of "Cubs."

Cleveland's team has had, perhaps more nicknames than that of any other team. It was first called the Blues, because of the color of the suits worn on the road. The name, however, never found favor in Cleveland. The team was also called the Naps, in honor of former Manager Lajoie, whose first name was, and still is, Naps. When Deacon McGuire was manager the team was called the Mollie McGuires. In the olden days Cleveland had a team known as the Spiders and still another called the Forest Citys.

The New York Giants—the best nickname ever invented—were so called by P. Jay Donohue in the summer of 1885, when the team was making such a hard fight against Chicago for the title. Donohue explained it was their deeds, not their nature, which prompted his thought. Many fans are under the impression that it was the latter but such is not the case.

Start As Highlanders

The New York Americans were innamed the Highlanders when the Johnson organization entered this lety in 1903. The president of the club at that time was Joseph Gordon, and the grounds was on high land. In Scotland there is a regiment called the Gordon Highlanders. The combination of Gordon and high land suggested the name. Later, for some reason, the Yankees was applied to the team, and it has proven a most popular name.

The Pittsburgh team, commonly called the Pirates, came by the name in a most interesting and unusual manner. It was the result, in fact, of the kidnaping of Louis Bierbauer, a star second baseman, from the Athletics as far back as 1888. At that time there was a working agreement between the National league and the old American association by which no club was permitted to reserve more than 15 players at the close of the season. The Atletics, however, desired to keep 16 of their men. The only way open was to have one name off the list and take a chance on the player being picked up by another club. Accordingly the Athletics failed to name Bierbauer, hoping the omission would be overlooked.

A friend of the Pittsburgh club tipped off that outfit, and Horace Phillips, then manager of the club, went after Bierbauer. The whole procedure was regular enough, for Bierbauer was a free agent. When the player decided to accept the Pittsburgh offer, a Philly newspaper man referred to it as "an act of piracy on the baseball seas"—and the nickname "Pirates" has stuck ever since.

Jones Has Best Chance to Win British Title

BY RAY McCARTHY.

Special Correspondent of The Record News.
Copyright 1926 By The Consolidated Press Association.

NEW YORK, June 12.—While one of America's greatest amateurs, Jess Sweetser, winner of the British amateur title, was returning home today to a vociferous welcome, another American golfer, equally as great, and perhaps even more renowned—Bobby Jones—was quietly preparing on the other side of the Atlantic for his big test, the British open championship which starts June 24. If as is possible, the Georgia wizard should break through and win the title now held by Long Jim Barnes the welcome he would get on his return would make his ears tingle for weeks.

A list of the odds laid by the bookies who follow golf closely in great Britain quotes Jones' chances at 10 to 1, while Walter Hagen, Abe Mitchell and George Duncan are quoted at 10 to 1. These quotations show how must of a scramble this gentleman is expected to develop.

Although Hagen is listed as one of the favorites—and in view of his record in this event this is probably as it should be—nevertheless in the opinion of this writer the chances of Bobby Jones winning the British title this year are better than those of the American professional star.

At Best in Medal Play.

In the first place, medal play is Jones' forte. In the past six years, or since he began competing in the national open championship, Bobby has led all other contestants, including Hagen, in this event. The latter has been his only real rival. In these six championship tournaments Jones has led Hagen on every occasion except one, that in 121 at the Columba club in Washington.

For the six tournaments Jones aggregate stroke is 1,768 whereas Hagen has a total of 1,797. In order, Jones has averaged practically one stroke per round better than The Hage in six national championships or 28 rounds of competitive medal plays.

You can throw out the match that they play in Florida last winter, which Hagen won so decisively. This correspondent has always said the star professional can always beat the star amateur in match play, and Jones is better at medal play than he is at match competition.

KRICK WINS CLIPSETTA

LATONIA, Ky., June 12.—(AP)—Krick, from the S. F. J. Holland stable won the Clipsetta stakes at Latonia today in a hard stretch drive from Thirteen Sixty and Ethel Dear. The race was worth $7,540 to the winner. The five and one half furlongs was run in 1:09 2-5.

TEXAS GIRL

were a number of other girls who had attained distinction in their home communities, the committee felt Miss Johnson had claims which could not be overlooked. She was sponsored by the principal and one of the teachers of San Antonio Breckenridge high school."

"The selection of Miss Meeker as an alternate also was unanimous, the committee being much impressed with her pleasing personality and accomplishments," Judge Walker said.

Speaking of the boy representative, Judge Walker said: "This young man was reared in Grayson county, and for the past year has been employed at a meager salary as janitor in a Denison bank. This was to enable him to attend high school. His father is station agent, postmaster, and small farmer at Hagerman."

During the administration of Miss Annie Webb Blanton as state superintendent of public instruction, Mrs. Little held an important post in the state department of education. "She is a woman of large experience and acquaintance with the teachers of Texas and during her long career has come in contact with thousands of pupils," Judge Walker stated.

The chairman pointed out the committee was composed of many diverse elements and included public school teachers, representatives of Texas university and St. Edward's university, and of a large number of religious denominations.

After attending the 150th anniversary of American independence at Philadelphia, the Texas representatives, all along with those of the other states, will visit Washington, Valley Forge, and other points, all at the expense of the exposition.

STENROOS WINS MARATHON

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS ON KEMP BOULEVARD AND AVENUE "B."

The board of Aldermen of the city of Wichita have received an application for the construction of a business building at the intersection of Kemp boulevard and Avenue "B" to be used as a filling station and a grocery store. Before granting this permit a public hearing will be held in the basement of the City National bank building in the city of Wichita Falls at 7:30 p. m. June 21, 1926, at which time and place any protests will be given due consideration.

W. E. M'BROOM,
City Clerk.

"TO THE OWNERS OF PROPERTY ABUTTING ON AVE. N FROM GRANT STREET TO GARFIELD STREET AND TO ALL OTHERS INTERESTED.

Notice is hereby given of the intention of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, to proceed with the improvement of Ave. N from the Grant street pavement to the east curb line of Garfield street by raising, grading and filling same and installing concrete curbs and gutters and paving with reinforced concrete pavement and assessing a portion of the cost of making and constructing such improvements against all lots and parcels of property abutting on said portion of said street and all lots and land benefitted by means of the said improvements and such assessments when levied shall be a first and prior lien upon the lots and land assessed and a personal claim and charge against the owners thereof.

On the 28th day of June A. D. 1926, in the council chamber in the City National Bank building in the city of Wichita Falls at 7:30 p. m. o'clock all such owners and their agents will be fully heard by the board of Aldermen and any protests, objections or claims will be fully and fairly heard. The benefits and damages resulting from said improvements will be determined and the amounts to be assessed against each such lot or parcel of land and the owners thereof will be determined and an assessment thereof will be levied.

Plans and specifications for the improvements and form contract and report of engineer showing estimated cost thereof, are on file in the office of the city clerk and open to inspection.

The estimated cost of the said improvement is $8,947.38.

The estimated amount to be assessed against property owners is $8,274.40.

The estimated amount to be assessed for curb is $0.40 per lineal foot and curb; and

The estimated amount of the assessment against property owners and their property for pavement and excavation is $5.97623 per front foot.

All persons, firms, corporations or estates, their agents or attorneys, desiring to be heard in any matter or thing in any wise connected with said improvements, the assessment therefor, the benefits therefor, the damages resulting therefrom or the proceedings connected therewith shall be and appear before said board of aldermen at said time and place.

Done in accordance with the resolution of the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, on the 19th day of April, A. D. 1926.

(Signed) W. E. M'BROOM, city clerk.

Studebaker Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

1 All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.

If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months' rough usage on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.

2 All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in years.

3 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For to sell cars on this basis, every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.

4 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.

It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other accident in the meantime.

1925 Studebaker Standard Phaeton

1923 Studebaker Big Six Speedster

1925 Ford Coupe

Money As Groceries Or Clothes

Had it occurred to you that money is but the stock in trade of this institution? You go into a grocery store and buy groceries. You go into a clothing store and buy clothes. You come into this company's office and buy the USE of money. You pay cash for your groceries or clothes and they are delivered to you for your use and benefit. You pay INTEREST for our money and it is delivered to you also for your use and benefit. Interest is the market price for the use of money. Investors deliver their money to this institution. It furnishes you this money in returnd for interest. As a guarantee that you will pay back you give the company a lien on improved real estate worth double the amount that you borrow. Could any thing be more simple? This company has money, thousands and thousands of dollars of it, to lend for its investors, while you possibly want to finance the ownership of a home that you have wanted for a long time. Why delay? If you wanted a suit of clothes you would not wait three or four years to get it. There is no more reason for you to wait for a home either. This company has more than $2,000,000 loaned to help people own homes. It is willing and ready and able to help you. So, whose fault is it if you continue to house your family in a rented house? A family told us this week that they had rented the same house for seven years. They could have owned it outright through this company in only six months more time!

Well, that is that an dthis is this: If you want a home come to see us the very first thing this week and let us get you started to owning a home as we have more than 1,200 other good folks. We thank you and will expect you.

ROSEMONT BURIAL PARK

Perpetual Care Cemetery

A reserve fund set aside out of every sale of a lot is just as essential to perpetuate a cemetery as it is for a reserve fund to be set aside out of your premium to make good your life insurance policy.

It has been found by experience in old and settled communities that cemeteries operated by cities or individuals which do not have a reserve fund finally grows up in weeds, and in many places houses are built where the dead were formerly buried.

When you buy a lot buy in the place that gives you this protection. We will sell you a lot on easy terms to be paid for over a period of years.

Plan for Indian Rodeo July 3-5

CARTERVILLE PARK, Okla., June 12.—Indians from the Comanche and Kiowa tribes have been in conference here several days with Frank Rush, making preparations for the Indian horse races to be held at the Craterville Park annual rodeo and roundup July 3, 4 nd 5, according to Rush, manager.

Spectators will likely see some fast races in the half and quarter. Many fast mounts have already been entered.

The Comanches and Kiowas are noted for their horsemanship and these races will provide plenty of thrills, as the Indians ride their own racers in true Indian fashion. Often they ride without the use of either saddle or bride, handling their horses by pressure from their knees on the sides of the horse.

100 Reservations Made For West Texas C-C Convention Trip

PLAN TO MARK TIME FOR WEEK

Wichita Falls to Be One Of Big Features at The Meeting

With all the preliminary plans for the West Texas chamber of commerce meeting at Amarillo completed and enthused with pledges of support from many cities of the western section of the state for 1927 convention, Wichita Falls business men who are to attend the convention will be marking time this week, awaiting what promises to be one of the greatest trips ever taken by a delegation. No changes in the plans for the trip are expected and the special train will leave here Monday night, June 21, arriving in Amarillo early Tuesday morning and returning Thursday morning.

Big Parade

Shortly after the arrival of the special from Wichita Falls, the annual parade, a big feature with the West Texas chamber of commerce, will be staged. In this the Wichita Falls delegation is expected to attract unusual attention, because members of the party will be dressed in unique uniforms. These will consist of black satin trousers, white shirts, and black ties, with dark red sashes around their waists, representing the toreadors in the days of bull fights. This will be to introduce the burlesque bull fights which a number of the Wichita Falls party will present at intervals for the amusement and entertainment of the thousands expected to attend.

Still Make Reservations

Reservations for the trip may yet be made at the chamber of commerce offices. It is expected more than 125 will make the trip on the special train, while others are expected to go by automobile. Amarillo has laid plans to entertain 30,000 visitors. Wichita Falls is expected to send one of the largest delegations of any city in the jurisdiction.

Reservations for the train passed the 100 mark Saturday, according to statement issued by the chamber of commerce. The success of the train is practically assured. It is hoped that the Wichita Falls delegation will number more than 200. The price of the ticket, including lodging on Pullman, meals and registration is $40.

Those who have signed to make the trip are as follows:

Esthonian Visitor to America Amazed at Early Rising Ways of the Women.

LONDON, June —.—Madame O. Kallas, wife of the Esthonian minister in London, who has returned from a lecture tour in the United States, was much surprised at the early rising of Americans.

"When I was told that some of my lectures would be as early as 11 in the morning I was amazed," she says. "How could one grip one's audience at that early hour, I wondered. I always feel so terribly practical. All fantasy is lacking and only prosaic things occupy my mind. But I soon found that even American women of the smart set are early risers and do not mind early lectures.

MULES CHOP COTTON

MIDLAND, June —(AP)—Cotton in Midland county is chopped by mules, Frank Dale, said.

Three mules are worked to "godevils" and each mule tramps once over each row, stamping out the cotton to almost perfect stand for this section. Some farmers shoe their mules to give them a better set of hoes.

Few farmers use the traditional field hoe.

First Work Started As Nails Are Driven For Red River Free Bridge

Actual beginning of work on the free bridge across Red river north of Burkburnett was effected early Saturday morning when erection of a tool house at the site was started. The event, marking the climax to more than a year and a half of hard work on the part of Wichita county officials and citizens of Wichita Falls and Burkburnett, was without ceremony. Those present included B. D. Sartin, Wichita county judge; J. M. Isbell, county engineer; O. Ziggenbein, engineer for the Austin Bridge company, and one or two others. Charles Moore, president of the bridge company, who had expected to be present at the starting of the work was forced to leave late Friday for Dallas.

A formal ceremony to celebrate the actual breaking of ground and pouring of first concrete piling is scheduled for some time this coming week. Plans for this, however, had not been announced Saturday.

Actual start on the bridge succeeded the signing of a supplemental contract specifying weekly rather than monthly payments for work done by the bridge company.

Both Judge B. D. Sartin and the county commissioners expressed themselves as well pleased Saturday with the outcome of their effort. "We'll be celebrating its completion next," J. P. Jackson, commissioner from precinct 1, said.

In connection with the start of the bridge ,the following history of the bridge plan, its litigation and other details is given:

1. Dec. 18, 1924. Judge B. D. Sartin appeared before highwar commissioners of Texas and protested against toll bridges on Red river. Judge Sartin and federal engineer, A. R. Losh of bureau of public roads appointed to confers with Oklahoma highway commission with reference to eliminating toll bridges.

2. Feb. 6, 1925. Judge Sartin, O. R. Cowles of Burkburnett chamber of commerce, Fred Haskell of Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, and delegates from Cotton, Comanche, and Stephens counties appeared before Oklahoma highway commissioners. Proposition thought feasible and favorable but Oklahoma unwilling to pay half of cost of bridge.

3. Feb. 19, 1925. Cotton county asked to pay fourth of cost of bridge and is unable to raise funds. Wichita Falls and Burkburnett chamber of commerce offer assistance to Cotton county.

4. Feb. 25, 1925. Judge B. D. Sartin Herbert Harris, manager of Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, C. R. Cowles, of Burkburnett chamber of commerce and Senator J. D. Parnell confer again with Texas highway commission and secure promised funds for half cost of bridge, leaving half to Wichita county and fourth to Oklahoma highway commission.

5. March 2, 1925. Special road law for Wichita county prepared by Judge J. T. Montgomery introduced in the legislature by Representative Cecil Staley of Vernon and Senator Parnell of Wichita Falls.

6. March 20, 1925. Special road law passed by the legislature.

7. April 4, 1925. Oklahoma highway commissioners and the Wichita bureau of public roads signed project agreement for the construction of Burkburnett free bridge to cost approximately $400,000.00.

8. May 25, 1925. Senator Joseph Bailey notified the highway commissioners that he had been employed by the toll bridge interest to protest against the construction of free bridges.

9. July 29, 1925. Set down as date for hearing of toll bridge owner in Austin, Judge B. D. Sartin, Judge A. R. Brittain, Charley McDonald, Judge R. E. Huff and others appeared before highway commissioners in support of free bridges. Commissioner Joe Burkett indicated that he was in favor of building bridge. Commissioner Lansham unwilling to submit his views on the matter until Commissioner Biggett could be present.

10. August 11, 1925. Highway commission goes on record reoffering the allotment to aid Wichita county for the construction of Burkburnett free bridge.

11. Sept. 1, 1925. W. T. Willis et al. filed suit against the highway commission of Texas at Austin, asking for an injunction restraining the highway commission from giving aid to Wichita county for the construction of free bridge.

12. Oct. 8, 1925. Judge George Clahoun grants temporary injunction against highway commission for expending aid on free bridges.

13. Oct. 23, 1925. Wichita county awards contract for free bridge to A.B. Mackey of Denver, Colo., subject to the approval of the Oklahoma highway commission.

14. Jan. 18, 1925. Contract readvertised and relet on the recommendation of the Oklahoma highway commission at which time contract was awarded to Austin Bridge company of Dallas, Texas for the consideration of $330,000.

15. March 24, 1926. Contract signed and approved by Oklahoma and Wichita county, subject to the approval of the Texas highway commission.

16. March 4, 1926. Wichita Falls chamber of commerce underwrites deal to purchase interest of Staley-Willis and others in the Burkburnett toll bridge and secured the dismissal of the suit of W. T. Willis.

17. April 1, 1926. Work ordered given Austin Bridge company to proceed with the construction of free bridge.

18. April 5, 1926. Harris et al. Devol toll bridge owner, filed second injunction suit against highway commission allotment aid to free bridge.

19. April 20, 1926. Hearing on injunction suit in Austin, Texas, and permanent injunction granted against highway commission for expending aid on that part of free bridge outside of Texas.

20. May 4, 1926. M. M. Johnston, W. F. Weeks and Senator J. D. Parnell of Texas highway commissioners delegation of Wichita Falls confer with Governor of Texas and bridge contract renegotiated. Governor approves plan.

21. June 14, 1926. Commissioner court of Wichita county signed supplemental contract with Austin Bridge company to proceed at once with the construction of the free bridge.

22. June 12, 1926. County Engineer, J. M. Isbell and Engineer for Austin Bridge company start work on erection of tool house.

DAY NURSERY OPENS SOON

New Building Ready For Use Early In This Week

The Wichita Falls Day Nursery at 403-405 Lamar street which was recently completed through the co-operation of the Federated Missionary society, mother of the institution, and the Kiwanis club, is expected to occupied the early part of the week, probably Monday, Mrs. Rebecca Carrington, superintendent of the nursery, said yesterday. The new building has been furnished and made ready for the children, it is said. The new building takes the place of a frame building at 502 Lamar where 4 or 50 children whose mothers are employed during the day are cared for.

The building and site represents an expenditure of more than $30,000 contributed by citizens of Wichita Falls, it is said. It is a fireproof construction and supplies space for keeping 100 children, if necessary.

In 1919, the need of a day nursery became so great that a temporary establishment was begun by the Federated Missionary society, and from the small beginning the new plant has grown. It is a corporation with Mrs. J. A. Kemp as president.

Mrs. W. W. Cook is serving her second term as president of the society which has fostered the nursery all the way through. J. N. Sherill, secretary of the Kiwanis club, represented that organization in the building of the nursery.

Denver Receives Rotarian Hosts

DENVER, Colo., June 12.—(AP) Decked in holiday attire Denver tonight began playing host to vanguard of more than 10,000 Rotarians who will assemble here for the opening of the seventeenth annual convention of Rotary International tonight.

Rotarians and their wives were streaming into Denver tonight by train and motor. Advance registrations indicate that at least 12,000 Rotarians and their wives will be here by Monday night when their convention opens a pageant at the University of Denver athletic stadium.

Indians of many western tribes have pitched their tents in the civic center where they will remain for a week to add color and entertainment to the week's round of business and social activities.

Houston Building Permits Lead State

DALLAS, June 12.—(AP)—Houston, with building permits totaling $452,206 for the week, is well in advance of other Texas cities, as shown by reports Saturday. Dallas is second, with $197,000, and Fort Worth third with $191,490. Other cities were: Wichita Falls $133,526, San Antonio $98,630, Waco $21,930, Shreveport $94,035.

THOMAS HERE FOR SERVICES

Evangelist Ready to Open Two Weeks' Revival In City

Dr. Trigg Thomas, evangelist for the Southern Presbyterian church with headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., is in this city will begin a two weeks revival meeting this morning at the First Southern Presbyterian church, according to the minister, Dr. Gaines B. Hall. Dr. Thomas is now chaplain with the rank of captain in the United States army, O. R. C.

Since 1919, Dr. Thomas has been general evangelist for the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States army. He is considered one of the strongest preachers in the denomination, and it is said Wichita Falls is fortunate to have such a forceful speaker in the city.

Plans are Made

Work has been going on among the congregation of the First Southern Presbyterian church since it was known that the evangelist was coming and extensive preparations are completed. A large tent has been placed on the church lots near the Junior college and next to the tabernacle. Comfortable seats have been arranged, and the public is invited to attend the services.

Music will be under the direction of Mrs. C. N. Cameron, who has secured a number of excellent voices for the meeting and songs by the senior and junior choirs have been chosen.

Two Workmen Die In Mine Cave-In On Pacific Coast

REDDING, Cal., June 12.—(AP) Two men were killed, another was injured probably fatally, and three others suffered less serious injuries late today when a cave-in occurred in the Hornet copper mine, 1 miles north of here.

The tragedy occurred in a mine shaft of the mine approximately 3,000 feet from the shaft outlet. The survivors said that tons of earth suddenly descended upon them without warning, burying two of the men. The others, who were buried only partially, freed themselves and dug their way through the barrier of rock and earth which was between them and the mine entrance.

Up to a late hour, the two bodies still were in the debris.

Summer Weather Brings Busy Days For Social Circles

Peggy Piedmont

—The Big Exposition
—And Nearer Home

DEAR KITTY:

ROAMING begins right where school closes, and no matter how much we sing "Home Sweet Home, There's no Place Like Home," and no sooner does son and sister arrive from college than mother begins to ask dad, "where will we spend the summer?" My! but we are the restless Americans, sure enuf, Kitty, and this time of the year especially do we adopt for our use the song, "Where Do We Go From Here Boys; Where Do We Go From Here?", 'cause we surely all want to be going.

In all the years I have been keeping up with the school set and mixing with the college crowd, never have I known so many affairs, and such an elaborate scale, young folks so on the rush as this 1926 crowd have been, and turn where I will, from hamlet to cities, I am always hearing of the Wichita Falls boys and girls.

Our interest at present in centered with the return home of several local boys and girls who have completed their course and received degrees at various colleges and we are more than interested now in what they intend to do next.

One of the largest parties of the week given for the college crowd was on Thursday evening when Lillian Randle and Frances Mulligan entertained with 24 tables of bridge at the Randle home on Eleventh street, and on the same evening another crowd of the younger set enjoyed a dance at the Kemp hotel.

BUT speaking of the roamers, cars filled with Wichitans are now leaving daily for summer trips and yet the half has not yet been told, because more than are now leaving have told me that they were going somewhere to spend the summer but so far have not made their definite plans. And O! honeymooners. Never before have we had so many of them. Only last week we sent two couples on their way the same day, for on Thursday occurred the marriages of Miss Nelson Morgan and Marion Williams and also of Miss Audrey Spyker and Robert Trotter. Both couples are now on their honeymoon trips to Texas points. And while some are going, others are returning home and among the latter are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Chandler whose marriage is of recent date. The bride was formerly Miss Estelle Stanfield.

And not only are newlyweds traveling for every day sees the departure of others, and mostly overland. Among those who left Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Somerville, who went to Austin in their car. Mr. Somerville to remain about a week on Business while Mrs. Somerville will visit longer with her parents and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Martin and family have recently returned from a visit in Weatherford and have as guest Miss Mary Martin of Weatherford, and Monday, Mrs. Martin and Miss Bernice will go to Dallas for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Boyd and daughters, Misses Fay and Francis have recently returned from a trip to Chicago where they went in the interest of furnishing their palatial new home in Indian Heights which they expect to occupy early in July, and no end of Wichitans are planning a trip to Philadelphia to the Sesqui-Centennial this summer along with complete tours of the east.

THE last party to announce their intentions of visiting the centennial was Mr. and Mrs. Claude Woods and daughter Joline. Mrs. Carry Joline and Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Holbrook. They will probably go about the middle of July from their summer home in the Ozarks and tour the entire east. Misses Johnnie and Beatrice Morgan, who are chaperoning several school girls at a summer camp on Lake Schroom in the Adirondacks will take their party by the exposition. Mrs. I. R. Sheldon and children are leaving Monday for New York city and will probably attend the centennial before going on to Rhode Island where they will spend the summer with Mrs. Sheldon's parents.

Really the Sesqui-Centennial has followed me around for the past few months. People have talked to me about their trips to Europe and all especially emphasized the fact that they were coming back through Philadelphia. In fact, on several occasions I have been embarrassed at my absolute ignorance of the exact meaning of the whole affair. So the other day I found an interesting little book on the Sesqui-Centennial, and since pursuing it I can enjoy the expressed thrill of the others who have been more intelligent than I.

It is the most interesting thing on the American continent this season, and I might say in the world. Celebrating as it does the 150 years of American Independence. It is international in scope.

Philadelphia, assuming the duty by right as the place where the stirring events of 1776 were centered, when Americans gained their independence from England is inviting the people of the United States and the world to join in on this occasion.

* * *

THE exposition is a visualization of the spiritual, scientific, economic, artistic and industrial progress that has been made in America and the world since the time in 1876 when nations of the world joined in celebrating the centennial of our country's independence.

And the story of American freedom is being set forth in pageantry and parade as it has never been before.

All the nations of the world have contributed vast sums and have reserved thousands of feet of space in the exhibition palaces. And here is a slight idea of the size and cost of some of these buildings. The Palace of Education and Social Economy covers and area of 108,992 square feet and cost $348,000. The Palace of Fashion cost $1,500,000 and covers 600,000 square feet. A $3,000,000 concrete stadium seats 100,000 persons.

The immensity of other features of the world event are too numerous to mention.

But for those who are not fortunate enough to see this wonderful show, there are many places closer by where week-enders find enjoyment and entertain gay parties.

One group in many who are spending this week-end at Medicine park include Mr. and Mrs. John A. West, Mrs. J. T. Carter, Misses Josephine Fisk, Elizabeth Carter, Winnie Mae Giddings, Ruth Morrison and Messrs. Ben Williams, Robert McCulloch, Joe Baker and Winslow Beckham.

And while some are spending the summer in true vacation style, touring the country and having a good time, others are taking advantage of the long summer days to improve their talents. One of these is Hallie Adams Hill, popular and well known local vocalist, who will leave Saturday June 19 for Chicago where she will study voice under the noted Herbert Witherspoon, head of one of the largest conservatories of music in the United States.

Have you had enough news of graduates, brides and everything that I can write down as fit to print? Other kind or news goes in one ear with me and out the other, so little impression does it make, and when people say, "Haven't you heard that before?" I simply raise my brow and say, "If I did, I forgot it."

So that's that. Now will you be good. Kitty, and not ask society scandals from the pen of—

Chippewas Demand Return of Property

CLAIRE, Mich., June 12.—(AP) Property demands, if granted, would make every Chippewa Indian in Michigan as wealthy as Henry Ford, were being formulated today as 500 members of the Saginaw, Swan Creek and Black River bands of Chippewas met here in war council. The court of claims at Washington is to be the battle ground and yellowed treaties will be the weapons.

Once the owners of the northern half of the state, but today reduced to a few stump-covered acres, the Indians, led by Chief Elliot Collins of Claire, are arranging to ask for billions of dollars worth of property due them, they say, under the terms of treaties signed during the early days of Michigan history.

PERSHING SAILS

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—General John J. Pershing, chairman of the American Battle Monument commission, sailed on the liner Levithan today.

Girl Walks 300 Miles to School

JANELEW, W. Va., June 12.—Jennie Ellen Walters, who will graduate this year at the local high school, has walked 3600 miles to obtain a high school education in the last four years She lives four miles up the Western road from Janelew and has walked this distance every day yet and has missed but three days in four years.

Besides the distance walked, she has received rides for 2,150 miles, she estimates, making a total of 5,700 miles traveled. The worst drawback was the wear on rubber heels, Miss Walters says, but declares she would do it again if necessary to be "Jan Lew 26."

STUDENTS NEEDED.

ALTUS, June 12.—Ten additional names must be secured on the list of students who will attend the junior college work here next winter in order for the work to be added to the Altus public school. Names of the 15 students have been signed to the list who will attend in case the work is offered in Altus.

Payroll Is Saved, But Two Are Slain

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—A woman and man were killed and another woman was probably fatally wounded when four armed robbers made an unsuccessful attempt today to make off with the week's payroll in the offices of the Sunglo company, wholesale importers.

Josephine Defrort, 20, and Samuel Winterbottom, 50, were killed by the robbers' bullets ,and Elizabeth Schumacher was seriously injured.

About 25 persons were in the office when the robbers appeared with drawn revolvers and ordered that all hold up their hands. No one obeyed and the robbers opened fire and then fled.

REFUSE FEDERAL AID

Oklahoma River Declared Unnavigable By Army Engineers.

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—Army engineers in a report to congress today disapproved navigation improvement at the present time of the Boggy river in Oklahoma.

Concurring in the report, Major General Taylor, chief of engineers, said that on the "navigation score the project is evidently unworthy of federal assistance."

PREMIUM FOR WHEAT

OLNEY, June 12.—A premium of 45 cents a bushel was paid for the first wheat of the 1926 season. Elmer Henning, living six miles west of town brought in a load of wheat, the first of the season to Olney. He harvested 76 bushels from three acres. The wheat tested 62 1-2. A premium of 20 cents a bushel was paid by the chamber of commerce and another premium of 25 cents was given by the mill, making the total received $1.65 a bushel.

State Continues Hale Prosecution

PAWHUSKA, Okla., June 12.—(AP)—Custody of W. K. Hale and John Ramsey probably will not be relinquished by the state to the federal government until after they are tried here in September for the murder of W. E. Smith, it was said today by Jess Worten, state district judge.

Despite the fact that a mandate of the United States supreme court authorizing the trial of Hale and Ramsey on a federal indictment charging them with the murder of Henry Roan, an Osage Indian, was received at Guthrie today, Judge Worten said he would insist on the state's precedence in the case unless the government presented an "exceptionally good" reason why it should try the men first.

WHEAT CROP BETTER

QUANAH, June 12.—The wheat yield is better than estimated two weeks ago. It is now thought it will average 20 bushels to the acre, where 15 was the estimate two weeks ago. The fair weather is helping much to harvest the crop, and cutting is going on in almost every field in the county. A big acreage was planted this year as well as a big acreage put in feed stuffs. There has been more diversification this year in Hardeman county and the farmers are as a rule in better shape than for years.

WOMAN SCORES

LONDON, June 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Besant, president of the Theosophical society, won a signal victory today when the organization in convention at Queens Hall voted, 600 to 3, to accept the young Indian, Krishnamurti, whom Mrs. Besant has been heralding as a new "world teacher."

LANGE MURDER SUSPECTS HELD

Four Others Jailed for Alleged Theft of Ballot Boxes

CALDWELL, June 12.—(AP)—Two men charged with the murder of Otto Lange and four men charged with theft of ballot boxes, all lodged in jail, is the result of the work of Sheriff Clint B. Lewis of Burleson county, assisted by two state rangers, acting on grand jury indictments returned yesterday.

All is an outgrowth of the bitter klan fight that was waged in this county, and all the arrested men are supposed to have been former klansmen.

Kinch Shelburne and Charles Balke, both employed at the round house of the Santa Fe at Somerville are under arrest on the murder charge, J. M. Shelburne, Sam Gaines, Davis Lauderdale and Buck Tuttle are charged with robbery by firearms, the allegation being that they forcibly took possession of the ballot boxes used in the primary election of 1922 at Merle, a voting place near Somerville. The next morning the boxes were found in the court house at Somerville, but they were empty.

Kinch Shelburne is about 33 years old and married. Charles Balke, is 35 years old and single.

J. M. Shelburne is a brother of Kinch and is middle aged; Davis Lauderdale, former United States marine, single and member of a very prominent family; Sam Gaines is married and a father of five children; Buck Tuttle is employed at the power plant at Somerville.

Tuttle in Jail.

Tuttle is in jail here but Sheriff Lewis declines to tell where the other five men are confined. He said they were in separate cells and are being held incommunicado for the time being.

State Senator R. S. Bowers announced this morning that he will sue for a writ of habeas corpus and demand that the sheriff produce the men. Sheriff Lewis was in conference with attorneys this morning preparing to meet the proposed move. A whole company of state rangers dispatched to Somerville by T. W. Davidson, when he was acting governor, worked on the Otto Lange murder mystery. Several sheriffs and constables tried to solve the mystery and Sheriff Clint Lewis, since his election two years ago, has worked steadily at the mystery until he finally uncovered evidence on which the grand jury returned its indictments yesterday.

The murder of Lange created a state-wide sensation, but there was very little ever printed about the theft of the ballot boxes at Merle, coming as it did at election time, when interest was centered in the general results. A party of masked men, armed with shotguns, drove up to the voting place at Merle after the polling place was closed, took possession of the boxes and drove off with them. The empty boxes were found at the court house in Caldwell the next morning.

Slain by Maskers.

Otto Lange was slain by a party of masked men during the height of the klan bitterness in this section. He was at his farm home with his wife, mother and 11-year-old daughter, when four masked men came to the door and attempted to drag him out of his home and into a waiting car. The women members of his family came to his rescue, attempting to hold him back from his would-be kidnapers. Then one of the four assailants, said to be a short man, dressed in khaki, fired the shot that killed Lange, passing through his chest and through the finger of his little daughter who was trying to shield him. The masked men fled. An intensive investigation in which Lieutenant Governor T. W. Davidson, then acting governor, offered all state assistance, proved fruitless. It was learned that immediately preceding the killing of Lange, a score or more of automobiles had gathered in the dark baseball park, just half way between Somerville and Lange's home, and that soon after the shooting the gathering of cars dispersed. It was believed that one car left the crowd and returned to it and that the slayers may have ridden in that car.

No motive for the killing of Lange was ever advanced.

Brothers Killed, Father Dying As Gun Fight Result

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 12.—(AP)—Two brothers are dead and their father lies at the point of death as a result of a gun battle on the main street of Astoria, 20 miles northeast of Hartville, Mo., Friday afternoon.

The brothers, Howard and "Doc" Near were shot and instantly killed by William Fletcher, about 35, while the father was shot in the abdomen and is not expected to live.

The gun fight followed a fist fight between Fletcher and "Doc" Neal. Neal, it is said, started to "beat up" Fletcher, but was getting the worst of it when Howard Neal came to the rescue with a knife.

Fletcher ran to his home directly across the street and secured a shotgun. Meanwhile the Neal brothers and their father, who operated a store across the street from Fletcher's home, armed themselves with rifles and a gun battle raged for some minutes.

Woman Is Released On Poison Charges

PALESTINE, June 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Betty Burry, 43, who has been held in the Anderson county jail for three months charged with administering the poison to her crippled son-in-law, Houston Dewey, that caused his death on March 4, was released Friday, when the grand jury adjourned without indicting her on the charge.

Dewey died suddenly at the poverty-stricken hovel used as a home by the two families near Elkhart in this county. An investigation followed, resulting in the arrest of Mrs. Burris and the aged and impoverished parents of the victim. The parents were released several weeks ago, and the children of the dead man were adopted by a prosperous farmer and his wife living near Palestine.

The case stirrd up much sympathy and interest over the state.

KILLED BY HEAT.

OMAHA, June 12.—(AP)—One death attributed indirectly to the heat and two prostrations occurred here Friday when the temperature soared to 98, a new high record for the day in Omaha. Out state points reported even higher temperatures, Columbus sweltering under a 104 degree record.

SAFFRON SKIN FROM SOUR BILE

South Georgian Drives Out Enormous Quantity Sour Bile With Dodson's Liver Tone

After a long period of the worst form of weakness and the terrible feeling of sickness that comes from a system loaded with sour bile, Mr. Sam Puskett says: "When I kept getting those bilious attacks reckon I took enough calomel to kill a mule. Got worse all the time. Finally I turned saffron color all over. My wife happened to read about Dodson's Liver Tone in the Weekly Constitution, so we drove to town and got a bottle. It was like magic. It drove quarts of sour bile out of me as black as ink. From that day I have felt as if I had a new liver, and whenever I begin to feel weary and bilious, with no appetite, a dose of Dodson's Liver Tone puts me to rights."

This wonderful, quick-action, liver starter ought to be in every household, if for no other reason than to stop the use of dangerous calomel. Dodson's Liver Tone is pleasant to take, even for children, and never makes you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs but a few cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.—Adv.

Prince Alright, Says Al Smith

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—"He's all right, that fellow," was Governor Smith's characteriation of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolphus of Sweden after they had met at city hall.

Surrounded by his military staff the governor awaited the arrival of the crown prince in the governor's room. Down Broadway rushed the royal party in automobiles headed by a military guard. A bugle sounded "colors" as the crown prince stepped from his limousin.

Into th governor's room strode the crown prince. Governor Smith grinned. They clasped hands, military pomp was discounted.

"How are you?" the governor asked.

"I'm fine, I've had a splendid time here," said the crown prince. "This is a wonderful city."

"He could be elected president of Sweden if it were a republic," said the governor after the prince had gone. "He's all right, that fellow."

Aged Waco Woman Is Fatally Burned

WACO, June 12. — (AP)—Mrs. Mary E. Price, 78 years old, received what is believed to be fatal burns here early this morning. She had lighted the oil stove in her apartment and had thrown the match on the floor. It is thought that the match was not extinguished and that her dress became ignited.

Occupants of the house answered her screams, wrapping her in a quilt and throwing water on the burning garments. The flames burned and seared approximately three-fourths of her body. Attending physicians declare her condition to be serious.

Walton May Run For Senate Post

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 12.—(AP)—Possibility that J. C. Walton, deposed governor of Oklahoma, again would seek the democratic nomination for United States senator, loomed today when Vernon H. Smith of Tulsa, democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, announced he was attempting to persuade Walton to make the race.

While Walton did not give a definite answer, he announced he would issue a "scorching" statement Monday afternoon. Monday midnight is the last hour at which filings for state offices can be received at the state election board.

Coal Strike Must End, Britain Says

CHIPPENHAM, England, June 12. (AP)—Settlement of the British coal strike must be reached before long in order to stop the decline in the nation's purchasing power, Premier Baldwin today said in an address before 15,000 conservatives here.

The premier said that one of the tragedies of the present time was that Great Britain's purchasing power was being diminished daily because of the industrial crisis through which the nation has passed.

Mexican Swains Now Must Be Examined

DALLAS, June 12—(AP)—Bridegrooms in Mexico are "now" required to furnish a health certificate before the marriage ceremony. R. Cantu Lara, Mexican consul here, has been informed by his government.

Under the new sanitary code, just adopted, said Mr. Lara, all priests and others authorized to perform marriages, are subjected to heavy penalties if hey marry couples who fail to produce the necessary health certificate. Consuls are authorized to perform marriages of Mexicans residing on foreign soil.

CHILD'S BEST LAXATIVE—CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old people. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past 50, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Sex Appeal Is Left Out in The Corridor When the Wire Puller Gets After a Dignified Senator

Women Who Handle Political Questions at The Nation's Capitol Treat And Are Treated On Business Basis, Nothing Less

By MAJOR OLIVER P. NEWMAN

Sex appeal is out as a means of influencing public affairs in Washington. This ancient and supposedly popular method of controlling statesmen (and politicians) has no place in the twentieth century model of the "women wire-pullers"—those two score, diligent, feminine representatives of the organized women of the country who have become the most powerful lobby ever concentrated in the National capital. If sex influence ever operated in the corridors of congress and the halls of the executive departments (which the wire-pullers doubt) it has gone the way of the hoop skirt, the horse and carriage, white silk mits, tight lacing, smelling salts and other evidences of a far-away time.

Read the testimony of two of the most popular and successful women wire-pullers, who have been on the job constantly since the war and have built themselves into positions of respect and influence, both with their fellow lobbyists and with congress. They are Mrs. Edward P. Costigan and Miss Selma Borchardt, representing respectively the National Consumers' league and the American Federation of Teachers. Both women, incidentally, began their public careers as school teachers and first became interested in social legislation through their concern for the welfare of children.

Influence Absent

"There is not only a total absence of sex influence in our work in Washington," said Mrs. Costigan, "but there is never anything in the attitude of senators and representatives to indicate that they are thinking of us as women. They meet us and deal with us exactly as if we were men, presenting a case on its merits. What they are interested in is not the fact that we are women but what we stand for, what we represent, what we want and how we propose to get it."

One reason for this attitude on the part of members of congress is the seriousness with which the wire-pullers view their work and the thoroughness with which they go about it. They are the picked women of their various fields, who have demonstrated their capacity in their home states or by long apprenticeship in Washington. They are thoroughly human, warm-hearted and sympathetic towards life and their fellows but there is nothing frivilous about them. They are intensely devoted to the particular duty in hand. Every one of them has a keen sense of humor and among themselves they have many a good laugh over the daily incidents of their work. They don't "hang crepe" on their job but neither do they wander off into by-paths—flirtatious or otherwise. The member of congress never observes any evidences of feminine appeal and, as a consequence, the congressman himself never steps over the sex line.

"In my entire experience," said Mrs. Costigan, "I have never heard of a single case of sex consciousness between a member of congress and a woman legislative delegate."

A Long Travel

"It's a long, far cry from Mrs. Costigan's girlhood (as one of seven children of a poor country doctor) to recognized leadership among modern, thoroughly organized American women. She was born in a small town in Wisconsin and was reared under old-fashioned, rigid standards. The children, of necessity, did the housework, and the light, outdoor chores. To her fell her due quota of 'dishwashing,' sweeping, bed-making, dusting, cooking, putting up preserves, bringing in kindling, cleaning lamps (for it was in the pre-electricity days) and other such domestic duties. The Bible and good housekeeping were twin ideals which all in the family were trained to embrace. Standards of personal conduct were what would now be termed narrow but they bred in the young girl a respect for wholesome living that was later to find expression in her work for pure food, clean meat, decent conditions for working women, good health for children and other such causes, which, more than a quarter of a century later, brought into vital existence the National Consumers' league, in the activities of which Mrs. Costigan has been a leader for many years.

To her vigorous, uncompromising father this active Washington wire-puller of today (known to her associates as "Mable" Costigan) attributes much of her interest in social reform. Both in her home state of Colorado and in the nation she has been particularly interested in movements to abolish the evile of liquor—a sentiment directly inherited from her father.

"I am always happy to think," said Mrs. Costigan, "that my father was one of the first physicians to oppose the use of liquor. Even in his time (and he was in the civil war) he believed that there were medical remedies better than whiskey, which was then supposed to be good for everything."

Her interest in politics might also be traced to the same source, for in the sixties her father ran for the legislature of Wisconsin on a dry platform and was elected.

Fight From the Start

Most of Mrs. Costigan's girlhood, however, was spent in Wellington, Kan., whither the family moved with the westward migration. She was brought up amid violent controversy over the populist doctrines of "Sockless" Jerry Simpson and General James B. Weaver, quickly followed by the crusades of Carrie Nation. Kansas was a melting pot of social radicalism and the girl growing up there was profoundly moved by the political excitement and bitterness that raged about her. Moving on to Colorado, she turned to teaching as an outlet for her rapidly developing impulse to serve and as a relatively quick means of earning her own livelihood. And then she married Edward P. Costigan, the stormy petrel of so-called radicalism, who began fighting for clean elections in Colorado in the nineties. She helped him hitch his reform wagon to the Roosevelt star, organize the progressive party, run for governor twice as the Bull Moose candidate and, with the other evangelists of the Roosevelt movement, make their social betterment ideals a vital crusade in every state in the union. Her husband is now the minority member of the United States tariff commission (a Wilson-over-Wilson appointee) who fights as hard and as noisily for what he believes to be right as he did 25 years ago in Colorado when he first put on the armor of a reformer.

Mabel Costigan has been her husband's partner through all these stirring years. It was as his political mentor that she learned how to deal with legislators, so when the National Consumers' league found her living in Washington, available for duty, they grabbed her. She is the legislative delegate of the National Consumers' league and its representative on the air-tight, copper-rivited, noiseless, smooth-running National Women's Joint Congressional committee, speaking and working for 23 national women's organizations in the national capital and boosting such things as the child labor amendment, the proposed department of education, the "baby bill" (as the wire-pullers call the Shepherd-Towner maternity act), prohibition and other social reforms.

Miss Borchardt is one of the younger members of the wire-puller group but makes up in keen, effective activity what she may seem to lack in political experience. She is also one of that rare specie, a native of the city of Washington, having been born and reared in the District of Columbia. Like Mrs. Costigan, Miss Borchardt has found that members of congress deal with the Washington wire-pullers as if the wire-pullers were persons instead of women.

"When a woman legislative representative goes to call upon a senator or a representative," said Miss Borchardt, "she seems to leave her sex out in the corridor. She takes with her, however, a thorough knowledge of her subject, a thorough knowledge of parliamentary tactics and a thorough knowledge of conditions in the member's home state. He is quick to realize this and, as a consequence, he lets sex stay outside the door."

Miss Borchardt has found that members of congress not only give respectful consideration to matters presented by women wire-pullers but frequently seek the wire-pullers' help.

Help Wanted

"Upon more than one occasion," said Miss Borchardt, "we have been appealed to by a senator or a representative for advice on how to vote and for information as to particular bills. The average member of congress does not have time to make thorough study of everything upon which he must pass. They have learned from experience, however, that we are well posted on the subjects in which we are interested, and it is a common experience for us to have a member ask us to furnish him with data and arguments. Every one of us has had, at different times, the unique experience of sitting in the gallery and hearing a member on the floor deliver a speech, the data for which we supplied. It is also a common experience to have a member ask our opinion as to sentiment in his state. Most members honestly desire to carry out the wishes of their constituents but sometimes it is hard for the member to know what those wishes are. In such instances we are often a big help.

"I know of one case where a congressman said to a legislative agent, 'Look here, I'd like to vote for your bill but my people don't know anything about it and there is some prejudice against it in my district. Won't you folks do a little missionary work for me out there? If you can create some favorable public sentiment I'll be glad to support your measure.'

"Needless to say, that woman got busy. She ascertained what women's organizations were strong in that member's district and they co-operated in carrying on an educational campaign among his constituents. As a consequence, a year later, when the measure came up in the house, the congressman had home backing for his action in voting for it—and was duly thankful to the women."

After receiving her grammar and high school education in the public schools of Washington Miss Borchardt went to Syracuse university and Johns Hopkins and was ready to embark upon her career as school teacher a few years before America entered the world war—which, incidentally, furnishes a clew to her age. Being a native of Washington, she had to leave home to get a job, as do most young men and women born in the District of Columbia. She was fortunate, however, in finding an opening in a Maryland village only about 20 miles away. It was a typical country school and she taught all grades and subjects. This, however, did not satisfy her socially inclined instincts, so she organized a community center—one of the first in that part of the country.

"I coaxed the older generation into the school house by entertainments," explained Miss Borchardt, "and gradually got them interested in their community. And I was specially interested to discover that they came more readily when an admission was charged than when the entertainment was free. Then spring arrived and I interested them in the improvement of the school grounds, which rapidly spread to improvement of the village and ended with a fine community spirit and extensive community activities that still flourish."

A Broader Field

Soon this future Washington lobbyist was offered a broader field in an adjoining county, which employed her as supervisor and for a year or two she traveled about the highways and by-ways in a large farmming section by horse and buggy.

"I started out from the county seat early Monday morning," she said, "and wound up there again late Friday night. In the meantime I had begged a lodging at farm houses along the circuit."

The spirit aroused in that county by that bright-eyed, enthusiastic girl also flourishes today. Parnets, pupils, teachers and school authorities have profited by her zeal.

In her personal work as teacher and by observation as a supervisor Miss Borchardt got a close-up of the two big public school questions which have since been given nation-wide attention—salaries and teaching methods. When America went into the war, therefore, she was glad to seize the opportunity for labor in a bigger field—the city of Washington. She entered the national capital's public school system as a teacher of English and still gives full time to that duty. In the meantime, however, she has become one of the leading spirits in the American Federation of Teachers, the primary purpose of which is to get better teachers, better teaching and better schools for the children of America.

WORK TO START ON NEW BRIDGE

Burkburnett Structure On Red River Is Authorized

Actual work on the new free bridge across Red river north of Burkburnett will start this morning at 7:30, according to announcement Friday afternoon by Charles Moore, president of Austin Brothers Bridge company of Dallas, holder of the contract for the work. The bridge company's engineer, Mr. Zigenbein will be in Wichita Falls today and will leave with county Engineer J. M. Isbell for the bridge site early this morning to superintend unloading of material and the construction of the tool house. Grading and other work on the bridge will follow Monday morning, Mr. Moore said.

The announcement followed signing Friday of a supplemental contract specifying weekly payments for the work done, rather than monthly payments, the state highway commission authorand the receiving o fa work order from lxing the contractors to go ahead. There are still some minor legal entanglements to be worked out prior to the finish of the structre, payment not being guaranteed for a small portion of the bridge that lies outside Texas jurisdiction. This, however, is expected to be cleared up in the near future.

Starting of work on the bridge will mark the culminating of a long fight in the Texas legislature and Travis county courts.

Those present at Monday's commissioners' meeting were Judge B. D. Sarton, commissioners Knauth and Jackson, Fred Weeks, attorney who haas assisted the county in the matter, Chas. Moore, president of the bridge company, and J. M. Isbell, county engineer.

Weakness

"I WAS in bad health—had been run-down for three or four years," says Mrs. Grace Newton, of Hickory, N. C., whose picture appears above. "It just seemed like nothing would do me any good. At times I could not do my work, I was so weak and no-account.

"I tried one thing after another, but I did not get any better. I did not sleep well at night. Often I would wake up and it would be hours before I could go back to sleep. I was restless.

"One day I just happened to run onto a newspaper which told of a woman who suffered like I had, and who had been helped by Cardui, ... so I thought I would try it. I began to grow better. I was so pleased with my progress that I kept on taking Cardui.

"I feel like a different person today, my health is so much better. I am not the same sickly person I was last year. My nerves are stronger. I can stand a great deal more. I rest well and my appetite is fine, so I praise Cardui to all my friends. It is the very thing for weakness."

Thousands of others agree with Mrs. Newton that, in cases of weakness, Cardui is "the very thing."

WHAT SHALL WE EAT?

UNLESS the scientific dieticians and prophalactic medal experts get together in some agreement upon some firm of diet that is not inimical to health it will not be long until human beings are expected to subsist as chameleons are supposed to do, upon the circumambient atmosphere. For there is little or nothing now left in the way of edibles that has not been put under the ban of interdiction by some one or the other schools of dietics.

Meat long ago was outlawed by some of the students of diet as causing the majority of the diseases that keep the grave diggers and undertakers busy. Then vegetables came under the prescription of another time of dietetic thought on the grounds that they do not supply the necessary fuel for running the human machine. Only recently it was announced that disease were fungus growths corresponding exactly to the same sort of growths in different vegetables. So that if we are to accept all these theories both meats and vegetables must be cast out.

An now comes Dr. Stavros Demoglo of Greece, in a strong condemnation of cow's milk food. He declares that after two years of experiments he has become convinced that the use of cow's milk by humans develops in the users the grains and mentality of cows. From this line of reasoning it can be argued that the use of eggs will reduce the users to the physical and mental status of hens. And upon that same basis humans will become like unto, if not a part of the kind of food that they eat.

Along the line of reasoning that humans partake of the nature of their food maybe the anti- Volsteaders will get an argument for the restoration of alcohol as a beverage. They may plead that since alcohol is used to preserve the dead organs of beings it should be used also to preserve those organs while they are alive. This seems to be just about as sensible as the theories being spun by some of the supposed experts in dietetics.

THE GRAVITATION OF BOTTLES

NEW YORK CITY will attempt to prove through the use of bottles that it is not polluting the beach resorts jotting the neighboring coast. During the months of July and August, 10,000 sealed bottles will be carried 20 miles out to see, where the barges empty the garbage from the metropolis, and set adrift. If the tide washes them back to shore and they are picked up in any considerable number along the beaches it will be proof that the beach resorts are right in their contention that the great city is polluting their beaches. If the bottles do not return it will be taken as evidence to the fact that they were washed to sea and that the beaches are either self-polluted or else suffer pollution from the refuse cast off by vessels closer to shore than the 20 miles.

Whatever is left of the rum fleet at the 12-mile limit stands between the point and where the bottles will be cast adrift and the shore. If these 10,000 empty glass containers follow the gravitation of many times 10,000 others that have been brought somewhat closer to shore by the rum vessels their natural course will be towards the metropolis. So many filled bottles have taken the shoreward route that a much larger extent of territory than the surrounding beaches has been polluted. The empty bottle may prove that New York is not polluting the surrounding beach towns with her refuse, but they will prove nothing concerning the pollution of the filled ones.

Nor does it need any demonstration of tidal action to prove the course of the bottles containing their own pollution that are hauled to within 12 miles of the shore and then turned loose. Many of these bottles, we hear, are washed as far inland as the Great Lakes and even the Rocky Mountains. In this way, then, New York is polluting not only the surrounding beach towns but also a considerable part of the country.

WHERE ARE THE IOWA DEMOCRATS

WHERE are the Iowa democrats? They refused to stand up and be counted in respectable numbers at least, on primary election day. They had four candidates on the ticket for senator, and the man who ran third in the republican primary received more votes than all four democrats in their primary. Truth of the matter is, democratic farmers voted the Brookhart ticket and railway employes and union men generally who are classified as democrats but listed under the Brookhart flag. Party lines have been smashed in Iowa.

MACNIDER AND THE NATIVE YELLOW

COLONEL HANFORD MACNIDER of Iowa is assistant secretary of war. He was a gallant soldier in the world war. He was a member of the second division of the American Army of Occupation and saw bloody service in many hard-fought battles. He was the orator of the day at the unveiling of the monument to the heroes of the second division who died in France. Colonel MacNider struck from the shoulder. He is not afraid of the Red who is of foreign birth He is afraid of the Native Yellow. This is what he said:

"The so-called Reds are in reality not so dangerous. They are usually foreigners who do not as yet understand or appreciate America. They can be cured by education, experience, information. The real danger is not in the foreign red but in the native Yellow. These native Yellows are the defeatists of our national life. What they need more than anything else is a good course in American history, properly administered, the kind of history that was written at Belleau, at Vaux, at Soissons, St. Mihiel, Mont Blanc and the Argonne."

An eloquent orator is this Colonel Hanford MacNider, the man who led the revolt of the regular republicans against Colonel Brookhart in Iowa. Recalling his experiences to his fellow veterans in his address at the unveiling of the monument, he said:

"Here in this new Belleau Wood stand with us a great shadow legion, the men of the second who did not come back, four thousand American boys. Whenever we of the second gather together, unseen, unheard, they gather with us. All through life they will march beside you. Your citizenship must count double. They died that you and your children might enjoy American citizenship. We who have seen American citizenship exemplified under every adversity, know what its worth can be. We shall be unworthy of our trust if we do not teach that conception of citizenship to our sons, and if we do not insist that which we shall leave them shall be kept inviolate."

There is an army of native Yellows. They are the defeatists. There are a few foreign Reds. Now it is almost impossible to silence a native Yellow. It is not impossible to educate along correct lines the foreign Red. If he refuses to be educated, he can be deported. A native Yellow cannot be deported and he refuses to be educated along correct lines.

GEOGRAPHY BECOMES INTERESTING

BRADLEY OF TEXAS

THESE former Texans are in evidence everywhere. Edward R. Bradley is a former Texan. He was a dweller under the Lone Star flag 30 years ago. His Bubbling Over won the Kentucky derby at Churchill Downs. This won for Col. Bradley $50,000 in cash and a gold trophy. His Baggenbaggage won second place at Churchill Downs. Just the other day the Latonia derby was a classic event. It was worth $24,000 to the owner of the first horse.

Col. Bradley was there with Baggenbaggage, and Baggenbaggage won. There is no telling how many dollars rolled into the pocket of the colonel at Churchill Downs when his horses ran first and second. The colonel knows when to plunge. He is said to have plunged at Churchill Downs. He is said to have plunged at the Latonia track. These former Texans know horses. They know when to bet.

They know politics. Now and then they get behind the winner. Bradley isn't a politician. He is a convential democrat and in the old days he voted the ticket without a murmur and without a scratch. He is a Hoosier born and his sire was a democrat.

Many are republicans because their sires were republicans. Many are democrats for the same reason. They never ask the reason why. They were born that way and let it go at that.

Lastly, Amarillo is a Texas city and there are many Texas cities fast travelers today that were little hamlets a few years ago.

The Honeymoon Trail

Sweet Potaoes, How Mrs. Ultz Can Play Bridge! By Ring Lardner

To the editor:

I don't want to get into an argument with no auction bridge authority as they have already got all they can tend to quarreling amongst themselfs, but it seems to me like they ain't none of them but what is way behind the times in regards to the possibilities of the game or even scratched the surface of same as far as the real inside strategical points is concerned.

This little settlement of Great Neck where I live is a kind of a hot bed of the theatrical profession and while the population contains some female actors, the most of them is males and the result is that many an evening the house wifes of the town is bereft of their husbands who are acting in N. Y. or the provinces and to make life bearable they get in touch with one another over the telephone and organize bridge tourneys which lasts 4 and 5 hours per setting. Now when you play 24 to 30 hrs. of bridge per wk. you acquire a mastery of the game which the professional teachers ain't got time to acquire because they are too busy abusing each other and it is no wonder that Great Neck has developed at least one bridge expert of the feminine gender whose tactics make Work, Whitehead, Shepard and R. F. ("Peaches") Foster look like kids just learning the rudiments of Squat Tag.

Mrs. Down Downs the Bait.

The lady who I have reference is none other than Mrs. Jennie Ults, wife of Walter Ults, the child actor now playing the role of the traffic policeman in "Boils." Mr. Ults' weekly salary is said to run into double figures but just the same the $.75 to $1.00 that Mrs. Ults cleans up every week at the card tabs gives the Ults kiddies advantages not enjoyed by the children of the Ed Wynns or the Bobby Norths or families like that where the man earns all the money and the madam does absolutely nothing.

Last Thursday night I experienced the keen enjoyment of setting behind Jennie (Mrs. Ults) and observing her play and will state that I learned more about bridge in that one evening than in years of competition with such self styled experts (?) as Frank Crownin-shield, Bud Fisher or Stu ("Peaches") Johnston. Jennie's partner on this occasion as the wife of Harpers Ferry, the child actor now impersonating an umbrella in "Rain." Her opponents were the wifes of Hosea Cough, who became famous overnight and part of the next day as the Barber in "Barber Frietchie," and Nell Down, the child actor who plays the title role in Shakespeare's "Henry Ford." Mrs. Downs, Mrs. Cough and Mrs. Ferry are all high class card sharpers, but hardly on the level with Jennie Ults.

It was Jennie's first deal and the hand she picked up contained seven diamonds with the four top honors, the ace of clubs, the ace, king, queen of spades and no hearts. There were only 12 cards in the hand, but she is the kind that likes to play against odds. A little to my surprise her opening bid was one heart and she replied to my whispered query as to the reasons for this by whispering back that such a bid was more than likely to drive one of her opponents into a diamond declaration. Sure enough, Mrs. Downs took the bait like a duck after an aspirin tablet and made a bid of three diamonds. Mrs. Ferry nearly ruined the whole scheme by going three hearts, but luckily Mrs. Cough said five diamonds, thinking because she didn't have any in her own hand that her partner probably had them all. This bid was passed all around three times, but the fourth time, Jennie doubled, Mrs. Downs redoubled and the play began.

It's a Cinch for Walter.

Mrs. Ferry opened with her high heart, the ace, and Jennie overtook it with a trump in order to have control of the situation. Jennie took all the rest of the tricks and scored, 1126 above the line. She told me afterwards that she got the idea for that play from a play she had seen her husband make in a poker game. He had been having terrible luck all evening, but on this particular deal he picked up three kings and a pair of sixes. The pot was opened and raised twice before it was his turn and he threw away his hand to make the others believe his luck had not changed.

Jennie's adroitness was never shown to better advantage than on the next deal. In these games Jennie does the dealing as she can do it much quicker. Her hand consisted of ace, king and twelve of spades, four small diamonds, the trey of clubs and as usual, no hearts. She passed and Mrs. Down bid five hearts, wanting to be taken out even in a minor. Mrs. Ferry passedand Mrs. Cough went five no trumps. Even if she only made three of her five, it meant game, so without an instant's hesitation Jennie laid down her hand showing that she had only eight cards and it was a misdeal.

Another deal I recollect came late in the evening. Jennie had a hand containing no hearts (she never did hold a heart through the whole evening's play), eleven clubs with the five honors, and the ace of spades and ace of diamonds. She bid a no trump and Mrs. Down went to five hearts. Mrs. Ferry passed as she had not picked up her hand and did not want to bid blind. Mrs. Cough also passed and Jennie went to seven no trumps in the hope that Mrs. Down would, under the strain, lead something other than a heart. Mrs. Down kept herself under control and led the king of hearts, but luckily Mrs. Ferry had the ace. Jennie played it, from Dummy, taking the first trick. Now she faced a problem because the dummy hand was entirely without clubs. How to get the lead into her own hand was the question. Jennie studied the situation for a brief moment, then led the four of diamonds from dummy, took it in her own hand with the ace and the rest was clear sailing.

Riding home, Mrs. Cough remarked, "Sweet potatoes, how that tremendous woman can play that game," and I thought to myself no wonder Walter Ults can act with no worries about his home life and Jennie adding substantially to his income every wk. though how much more she would add if they were not only playing for a twelfth of a cent a point.

Science Computes Age of Old Earth

PASADENA, June 12.—The earth is 500,000,000 years old, and life on land began 300,000,000 years later according to the deductions made by Dr. John P. Buwalda, head of the department of geology of the California Institute of Technology.

"If any form of life existed earlier than 200,000,000 years ago it must have been in the sea," explained the geologist in a lecture here.

Building of Roads Rushed by Russia

Besides upward of 25,000 miles of state roads and a much greater amount of country roads and streets, state and federal highway authorities are pushing forward work on 14,000 miles of federal-aid highways started last season and stopped during the winter.

Paris and Madrid Row Over Skirts

MADRID, June 12.—Who wear the shortest skirts, Spanish or French women?

Paris girls took the lead for a while, but just now numerous Madrileans have them beaten by half an inch, they claim, and proudly parade on the Castellana with skirts above their knees. Some even wear skirts the edge of which is made of transparent silk.

Police Machine Gun Shoots Up Station

WHITMAN, June 12.—A machine gun went into action prematurely while being examined by Chief of Police Phinney.

It shot up the police station and slightly wounded two boys, Leo Cormier, 16 and Joseph Manaker, 14, in the legs.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

"I've a wretched headache. I—I shouldn't have tried to play."

"Well, that's the third rubber. You folks had enough?" Warren turned to the other table. "Then let's knock off and have a little nourishment."

"We had that same trouble when they tore up our street," complained Mrs. Drake. "They shut the water off too. There!" as the lights flooded back.

The card tables shoved together, Helen brought in the dainty roll sandwiches. Pimento and walnut. Then the punch. Warren's special brew.

The refreshments a welcome respite. The capricious lights and Mrs. Nelson's erratic plays not conducive to an enjoyable game.

"Oh, you lovely thing!" Mrs. Drake was flirting with Pussy Purr-Mew. "Against the rules to feed her?"

"I'm afraid she won't eat that," as she proffered morsel was sniffingly disdained.

"Look at her green eyes! Just the shade of my emerald. George gave me a gorgeous one for my birthday. Not set yet. George, do let me show it."

"That's a mighty fine stone," appraised Warren.

"It ought to be—from the Burnham Estate sale. It's worth over three thousand—but George got it for twenty-four hundred," eager to flaunt its value.

"Oh, no, it's perfect!" purred Mrs. Drake. "And that shade's so rare."

Passing it around now. Admiring it under the glass.

But the next moment, the spasmodic lights were on.

"How exasperating!" dismayed Helen, as once more they were plunged into inky blackness. "Dear, light that candle again."

"Guess we knocked it off when we lit the candle."

The tables pushed back, with candle and matches they examined the rug.

"Now no use getting worried," her husband reassured them. "We'll find it soon as we get the lights. Good, here they are!"

"We'll find it NOW!" announced Warren grimly, pushing back the chairs.

"We might all search each other," laughed Mrs. Stevens.

"That's no joke," grunted Warren. "If it doesn't turn up in a few minutes—that's exactly what we're goin' to do!"

"Nonsense," Mr. Drake still scrutinizing the rug. "I wouldn't allow it."

In their home! An impossible situation.

"Hello, that cat! There's your culprit. They can see in the dark. Bet she saw it fall and rolled it somewhere."

"No, you can't pin it on her," Warren kicked aside a footstool. "I thought of that first thing. But she was asleep in that chair."

Twenty minutes of futile searching. The tension becoming unbearable.

"Now, I'll handle this," brusked Warren. "Nobody leaves till the darn thing's found. Right here's where we all get frisked! You can start on me."

"No, that's unthinkable. I'd rather lose the stone."

"You're dead right, Curtis," approved Mr. Nelson. "We won't find it, of course—just rolled off somewhere. But that's the thing to do 'fore we leave."

"Oh, I could scream!" quavered Helen, as again blackness enveloped them.

"Oh, I'm glad—I'm so glad!" Mrs. Drake snatched it up. "I was just sick—but I didn't want to show it. Now everything's all right."

"Not by a long shot! I don't like this at all," objected Mr. Nelson. "That wasn't there before. Now we're all under suspicion worse than ever."

"That's all right, Nelson, I wouldn't press that," advised Warren. "Must've rolled out of somebody's clothes. I vote we drop it."

"Yes, of course," hastily agreed Mr. Drake. "That's what I said all along—just caught in somebody's clothes."

In a flash Helen knew! At his suggestion that they all be searched, Mrs. Nelson had grown chalk white. Yet she had no dared think.

"All this excitement, Mrs. Nelson, and your headache—I'm afraid it's been too much for you. Come into my room—a little aromatic spirits—"

Without a word, she followed Helen.

"The—the others—," a pillow-smothered whisper. "Do they know?"

"Your husband doesn't—I'm sure of that."

"I—I'd kill myself if he did!"

"Then don't give way now. Here's some powder. Quick—they'll be coming in here. No, don't tell me why—you haven't time.

"Bridge debts! Five hundred dollars. I'm frantic—I don't dare tell him. Got after he paid the last time—I promised never to play for money again!"

"I was going to return it—Oh, you must believe that! I just pawn it until I could get the money—then send it back to Mrs. Drake."

"Yes, yes, I know," checking her hysterical confessions. "Now, your lips—they're so white. No, not too much. There! Now your hat. Pull it lower—over your eyes. And don't talk! Don't try to make excuses. I'll say you were faint—your headache and the excitement."

A semblance of self-control just in time. Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Drake coming in for their wraps.

Their strained and over-stimulated conversation showed they did know but were trying to prove they didn't.

Everyone trying to seem casual—too casual. Valiantly trying. But their obvious efforts to relieve the tension only intensified it.

Helen kept her forced smile. The muscles ached from their fixidity.

When the door closed after the last parting felicities, she wanted to shriek.

"Great guns, what a night!" exploded Warren.

"But he doesn't know—at least we spared him!"

"Yes, everybody was darn decent. Drake's a prince."

"When did you first suspect?" Helen dropped limply into the library couch.

"When I threw the stall about frisking them. She turned white as a sheet. I was afraid he'd get wise."

"Oh, how awful if they'd searched her! And yet you insisted—"

"Huh, just a bluff," as he assaulted the remaining sandwiches. "To scare her into coughin' it up when the lights went out again."

"Went out again? What if they hadn't? How could you count on that?"

"Didn't I put 'em out! Didn't you see me sidle over to that switch?"

"Oh, you dear!" ecstatically hugging him. "You're wonderful!"

"Huh, not much brain work in that. And her stunt has whiskers. Must've been readin' some cheap detective yarns to think she could pull that off. What's her trouble? Playing the market?"

"No, bridge debts—five hundred dollars. She broke down in my room. Oh, it was dreadful," covering her face. "I'll never forget it!"

"You got her out just in time. I was afraid she was going to pieces 'fore 'em all. Good work Kitten. Poor old Nelson, we saved him a jolt—a puble one, anyway. Want a sandwich?"

"If she'd only tell him—but she's afraid to! No, no, I couldn't eat a thing. She promised him never to play for money again. Dear, she's a regular bridge fiend. Belongs to half a dozen clubs—plays every afternoon."

"Huh, deserves all she gets. If it hadn't been for Nelson, I'd have shown her up. These wife parasites who lay down on their jobs—spend all their time playin' cards—Good old Nelson, tied to a skirt like that, emerald to square her debts!"

Then, as he reached for the plate.

"Well, Kitten, I'm glad you're a bum player! Your game's so rotten they wouldn't have you in a club. But you're right there when it comes to makin' chocolate cake," bolting a generous slice. "That's what she ought to be doin'. Holdin' down her job in the kitchen—instead of squanderin' his hard-earned roll with a bunch of female bridge sharks!"

Next week: "Feline Follies."

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE GEMINI

Today's planetary aspects are not very favorable, although not definitely adverse. They indicate an atmosphere of a rather depressed nature, involving loss of self-confidence and a tinge of pessimism. The customary observances and recreations of a Sunday should be successful in dissipating these influences. In addition, however, it will be necessary to give as much mental co-operation as is possible. Late in the afternoon, the aspects become much brighter, and denote that more than ordinary gratification will be derived from family and social amenities. There will be sensed a feeling of contentment and the doubtful attitude that was in evidence during the earlier part of the day will have disappeared.

Children born today will enjoy normal, if not exuberant, health during the period of infancy, and will cause no worries on account of illness until late in their 'teens. They are then destined to show signs of weakness, possibly induced by too quick a growth, which will demand watchfulness and diligent care. Their dispositions will be tractable, and they will be obedient. They will possess cheerful and optimistic characters and, not only in youth but later on in life, will show indifference to surroundings and rise superior to discouragements.

If today is your birthday, you possess an engaging personality, but do not capitalize this remarkable asset at its full power. You are, although quite ambitious, rather different and non-aggressive. You wait for opportunity to present itself to you. Ability is exceptional, and resourcefulness is another of your characteristics, although you rarely have the chance to utilize this gift in any undertaking of importance. You are at times, deeply stirred by your emotions and have a very keen sense of justice. While you are capable of a great love, you are also inclined to hate with a vehemence that eventually becomes an obsession. This, of course, when it does happen, very materially affects the orderly process of material advancement.

OLNEY

PARTY FEATURE OF WEEK.

One of the prettiest and most elaborate affairs of the week was the bridge and "2" party given at the Country club on Wednesday afternoon by Mesdames M. D. Wolverton and H. C. McKinley.

Larkspur, gladiolae, and nasturtiums, were used in profusion in the reception room, forming a pink and yellow color motif, which was further emphasized in the arrangement of the card tables, pink cloths covering the bridge tables and yellow covering the "42" tables. The hostesses greeted the guests and invited them to the punch bowl which was placed on an exquisite linen table cover, strewn with summer flowers, where Mrs. Skeen Staley and Miss Mary Catherine Cooper presided.

At the conclusion of the games the hostesses, assisted by Mesdames Rhea Anderson and J. P. Alexander, served a lovely refreshment plate embodying the pink and yellow colors in the ice, a frozen yellow basket filled with pink flowers, served with individually iced angel food cake.

Those invited to play bridge were: Mesdames J. P. Alexander, S. O. Callahan Jr., J. C. Hunt, H. C. Harris, Bert Bloodworth, Skeen Staley of Wichita Falls; John Tancred, Russell M. Millington of Grenada, Miss.; Clark Davis, A. A. Cooper, W. C. Harrell, Harry Hollister, Will O'Connell, Tanner, W. L. Scott, Frances Scott Thrash, Lavalle Arwood, Lucy Ransome, Harlan Deets, Fern Robertson, Lawrente Haney, Sam Casey, Henry Craig, J. C. Lovelace, George Roach, Chas. Wolverton Jr., Geo. B. Hamilton, and Mary Catherine Cooper and Catherine Manton.

The guest list for the "42" games included: Mesdames Rhea Anderson and two guests, W. N. Lunn, E. W. Hunt, DeWitt McClatchey, Wright McClatchey, Willis Ellis, Bruce Schulkey, Rhea Anderson, M. P. McCracken, Roy Roach, Morris Hanonis, Dave McMillan, Ray Perkins, Roy Graham, George Rice, O. H. McAlister, William Thomas, R. A. Drum, J. L. ELECTRA SEEKS C-C DELEGATES

Special Car Set Aside to Accommodate Envoys To Amarillo

ELECTRA, June 12.—The committee of the local chamber on arrangements for attendance at the West Texas chamber of commerce convention at Amarillo on June 21, 22 and 23, is now securing reservations for space in the Pullman which it is planned to secure on the Wichita Falls special train. Dining car service will be provided on this train at a cost of $5.25 per day for the two days that the delegation will be in Amarillo. The special train of Pullman cars will be placed on the siding at Amarillo and used for sleeping quarters during the convention. It is the plan of the committee to sell 15 reservations for delegates and reserve half of the space in the Pullman for the Electra band. The Electra delegation will support the Wichita Falls bid for the 1927 convention and extends a general invitation to the people of West Texas to visit Electra next year. Members of the local committee are: Ed Moreland, chairman; J. H. Harris, H. Y. Newsum, W. R. Skinner, C. W. Coffey.

Those desiring space in the Electra car are requested to notify Mr. Moreland, chairman of the committee, or the manager of the Electra Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture at once.

HONOR FOR WAR HORSES.

LONDON—A statue of a horse in memory of the horses killed in the war is to be placed in St. Jude's church.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.—Adv.

Italian Royalty Tour Kingdom

Lemons Bleach the Skin White

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

When does She want your salesman to call?

FROM an advertiser's viewpoint a newspaper provides just so much selling contact with families.

He hires it to make calls. To all intents it is a salesman on his payroll.

Like any other salesman it faces the necessity of making an opportune approach, securing a favorable reception.

There are thousands of women in every market who prefer to have that salesman—the newspaper—call in the morning.

Their reasons do not matter a great deal. The thing that counts is that they signify this choice by subscribing to a morning newspaper.

The morning paper brings early and complete news to women. They bring to it undivided attention and uninterrupted reading time.

Can you afford to neglect the prospects who prefer to receive store news early in the day?

Millions cannot be reached at any other time.

THERE is no social activity to prevent women from reading morning newspapers carefully and passing them along to neighbors.

Therefore the LONG LIFE of morning newspapers in the home has a distinct bearing on morning newspaper values.

A morning newspaper covers at least ten hours of buying time in the home each day. A morning newspaper of 100,000 circulation delivers daily at least ONE MILLION covered hours.

Let this index help to guide you in your investment in newspaper space—the number of "covered hours" delivered.

The Dunning system of music will be installed in the high school, pupils will be graded in music as in other studies, there will be several teachers for the piano, each week will be divided into five periods of 45 minutes for each pupil, by this means many pupils will receive this training.

An entirely new subject will be offered. "Vocational Guidance," this course will present the different subjects, or vocations in detail, and in this way helping the student to decide what subject he will take for a life work. This class is open to all, but the seniors will be given preferance.

A new cafeteria is being installed in the basement of the high school building. This will be no operated that all teachers and pupils can have hot lunches, without walking to town for them.

New side walks are under construction on the campus, and will connect the different buildings. The 1926 annual is out and is a splendid work of art. It is dedicated to Miss Gertrude Willis.

Sheriff in Jail For Punishment

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—The red brick jail of Dupage county at Wheaton, Ill., where Red Grange's father used to swing a bundle of keys, opened its doors today to its most distinguished prisoner—Sheriff Peter Hoffman of Cook county.

Hoffman, active for cars in Cook count politicsy, technically surrendered by telephone today and was told he might go to jail unaccompanied if he desired.

He was convicted with his warden, Wesley Westbrook, of permitting too many liberties to two beer runners serving federal terms in the Cook county jail.

Hoffman was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $2,500, while Westbrook was sentenced to four months in jail, but no fine.

Thought Drowned Woman Comes Back

MIAMI BEACH, June 12.—(AP)—Miss Eva Bohman, 27, of New York City, believed to have been drowned off shore here late yesterday in attempting to save an unidentified man from drowning, returned here shortly after noon today after being rescued in the Gulf stream.

On her return today she said that she was carried out to sea after failing to reach the man and soon developed cramps which prevented her from swimming back to shore. Darkness found her floating in the Gulf stream beyond sight of land, she said, and for five hours she swam and floated in the current before being rescued by a fishing craft which proceeded with her to Fort Lauderdale, Fla. She appeared little the worse for her experience.

PITTSBURGH, June 12.—(AP)—Alex Laughlin, Jr., 30, son-in-law of W. L. Mellon, new republican state chairman of Pennsylvania, died in a hospital here today following the extraction of a tooth. He went to the hospital earlier in the day to have the tooth taken out and died without regaining consciousness after an anaesthetic was administered.

Officers Elected By Electra Lions

ELECTRA, June 12.—At the usual weekly luncheon of the Lions Club at noon Thursday the business taken up was the election of officers for the ensuing year. The first part of the executive meeting was taken up with some entertaining campaign speeches for the candidates. These were given in the form of burlesque, for there were two candidates' names presented for each of the officers by the nominating committee at the last meeting.

The officers for the year: F. M. Baker, president; William Calvert, first vice president; Ben W. Tipton, second vice president; H. A. Decker, third vice president; Rollo Davidson, secretary; W. A. Asbill, treasurer; E. V. Cole, Lions tamer; George D. Esell, Lions tail twiser, and the two directors, R. B. Magee and S. B. Marchant.

Miss Letrice Wofford entertained with two vocal solos, "Are You Sorry," and "By the Light of the tSars," with Miss Bonnie Jennings playing the accompaniment. Miss Wofford is musician of the Lions Club, and became well known with the famous Cowpasture band, but who has spent the past five months pursuing her music studies in Baylor-Belton College. She also gave several piano selections.

Gas Dispatchers Must Be Weather Prophets

Carefully compiled statistics show that domestic consumers using gas for cooking and water heating burn this fuel only about 16% of the time—averaging less than four hours a day.

Since everyone performs the domestic operations at about the same time each day, this results in a widely varying "load," as it is technically called. In fact, the variation in domestic use of gas is frequently so marked that at one hour the consumption will be ten times what it is two hours later.

As the gas used comes from a considerable distance in many cases, the provisions of the necessary quantity at the right time is quite a problem. Wells must be turned on and off in advance of the demand or its lessening and the transportation of the gas taken care of properly.

This is accomplished through a dispatcher's office, much as trains are dispatched over a railroad line. Advance information of weather probabilities and a careful check of local conditions enable the dispatcher in charge to meet demands as they arise and to check the flow when this demand ebbs. But changes in weather and demand are often very sudden and the dispatcher must be a real weather profit.

A telephone system connects all parts of the huge plant we operate, and the dispatcher is in touch with every part of it all the time.

Roaming The Air

KDKA maintains 45 outside points where programs are picked up for the entertainment of its listeners. These pickups are in concert halls, clubs, hotels, schools and churches and are a source of constant difficulty to the station's manager who must keep each circuit ready for service at all times. The staff must go over each circuit before it is used in order to maintain proper transmission.

Under a new broadcasting schedule recently placed in effect at KYW the "Frolics" that have become so popular with afternoon audiences, will be eliminted. No afternoon broadcasting will be done except for one 15-minute period of world crier news from 5 to 5:15 o'clock.

A music memory contest similar to the one conducted last year will be held late in August, WEAF announces.

There are now 25,000,000 radio listeners served by the 575 broadcasting stations of the United States. Improvements in the technical end of broadcasting together with improvements in the programs will mean better reception this summer than ever before, it was prophesied at the manufacturers) convention in Atlantic City.

It was brought out at the manufacturers' convention that there are 26,000,000 homes in the country, only about 6,000,000 being equipped with radio receivers, while 16,000,000 have automobiles.

WHT declares that of the 35,000 hours it was on the air in the year ending April 24, 99.758 per cent of its scheduled time was occupied by actual transmission. Twice the aerial was brought down by storms, and on another occasion lightning struck the incoming power line making transmission impossible.

During this month KFUO is broadcasting foreign language church stations every Sunday afternoon. The programs are in German and are about a half-hour in length, consisting of a religious address and singing of hymns.

The Broadcasting Company of America is the new name of the operators of WEAF. The change was made because of the problems that arise in operating the station which the American Telephone and Telegraph company found differ considerably from ordinary telephone problems. The other station owned by the company is WCAP of Washington.

Rep. Sol Bloom of New York in recent hearings on pending radio legislation declares that radio stations should be required to publish the names of their owners in a similar manner to that required of newspapers.

Station WOK recently conducted a high and low power transmission test, giving broadcasts on 2,000 and 5,000 watts during alternate hours. First reports indicate that reception was practically as good throughout the country generally on low power as it was on high power, however, the engineer in charge admits that later reports may force him to change his verdict.

Radio movies are only a matter of speed, David Sarnoff, noted radio inventor, told an audience of electrical men recently. He declares that the only difference between the transmission of "still" pictures and movies is in speed, and he is confident that radio engineers will solve the problem shortly.

A nationally known movie producing company is sponsoring a transcontinental broadcasting tour. A truck containing a complete transmitter left Hollywood May 4 and will endeavor to reach all parts of the globe where radio is broadcast. Its portable transmitter, 6XBR, will operate in connection with nearby broadcasters, which will rebroadcast "pickup" programs.

A girl performer in one of the Chicago cabarets from which WOK broadcasts caused the station to "go dead" the other night. This girl, hurrying to prepare for her part, thrust the connection of her electric curling iron into the amplifier plug, effectively stopping transmission.

A troop of Boy Scouts will take the air at WAHG June 14 to tell the world about the pleasures of outdoor life in the summer. One of the features will be the recitation of Franklin K. Lane's "Tribute to the Flag" in commemoration of Flag day.

A radio message that originated in the Hawaiian Islands and destined for China traveled 45,000 miles and was delivered a short time later at the destination. It traveled through nine amateur stations after going a distance of nearly twice around the globe.

A full schedule of summer broadcasting will be maintained at WLW it is announced, there being no reduction in broadcasts because of the coming of the warm season. The station managers plan to introduce much new talent to the radio audience as well as to continue the regular features, including the late news flashes, baseball games and weather reports.

Junk Pianos For Scarcity of Tuners

CHICAGO, June 12.—More than $1,000,000,000 worth of pianos in American homes are drifting along to the junk pile because of neglect, according to Charles A. Deutschman, president of the National association of piano tuners, in an address here. "All the piano tuners in America working day and night every day in the year could not take care of half the pianos in this country," said Mr. Deutschman. "An untuned piano deteriorates and warps or splits internally. The reason is that its 250 strings of highly tempered steel exert a pull of eighteen tons.

ED WYNN'S QUESTION BOX

By ED WYNN

"THE PERFECT FOOL"

He Knows All—He Sees All

Dear Mr. Wynn:

Bob Burr.

Answer: Sure I do. As long as the handle of the razor doesn't break the beard is bound to come off.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I bought a horse from a man who told me the horse could beat anything in his class. The first race I put him in, he lost. Can you account for that?

Yours truly
I. M. MORVICH.

Answer: He was out of his class.

Yours truly,
I. Feal Orful.

Answer: : It just goes to show that you must never take the word of a total stranger.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I saw a sign on the back of a Ford car and it was painted with two words "True Love." Why do you think he called his "Ford" "True Love?"

Truly yours,
B. Kause.

Answer: That is very simple. He calls his car "True Love" B. Kause true love never runs smooth.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I notice a great number of very young boys selling newspapers on the streets. One lad I saw could not have been more than 10 years of age and he was carrying about 50 newspapers. Wouldn't you think they would make the poor little fellow tired?

Sincerely
HUGH MANNY TAIRIAN.

Answer: Not necessarily. He probably doesn't read them.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

A friend of mine who has just returned from a motor trip of 3000 miles told me he enjoyed touring on the roads built by Americans. I asked him what he meant "roads built by Americans," and he said: "Why, Roosevelt boulevard and Lincoln highway." Then he told me the worst roads he had to travel over were built by a Frenchman. I did not want to appear ignorant so did not ask him who he meant. Will you please tell me the name of the Frenchman who built the bad roads he refers to?

Your truly,
DAG. NEETOW.

Answer: He is referring to "Detour."

"The worst roads were built by a Frenchman."

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I hear a great deal of talk about "Mermaids." I don't believe there are such things, do you? If so, maybe you are smart enough to tell me where they sleep?

Sincerely,
C. BEART.

Answer: My dear child, "Mermaids" when they are little babies sleep in "the cradle of the deep," and when they grow up "in the bed of the ocean."

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I have just written a song. The lyrics are very sad. They are about a young man telling how he made love to a young girl and her promise to marry him, then on the day before the wedding she tells him she will not marry him because she found out he didn't have any money. Will you please give me a suitable title for my song?

Yours truly,
ART. ISTICT.

Answer: The best title for your song (according to the above description) would be "She Looked Me Up in Bradstreet's Now I'm Dunn."

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a woman 40 years of age and weigh 207 pounds. I asked an artist what he would take to paint my picture and he said a bucket of mud and a broom. What do you know about that?

Yours truly,
G. EYEMAD.

THE WORST ROADS WERE BUILT BY A FRENCHMAN.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

What is your opinion of married life, don't you think it is the happiest life?

Sincerely,
May Denn.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

Yesterday, a tramp came to my back door and asked for something to eat. I gave him a meal on his promise to cut my lawn. He ate the meal but he ran away and never kept his promise to cut the lawn.

SHE FOUND OUT HE DIDN'T HAVE ANY MONEY.

Autoists Hang Over Creek in Machine

YORK, Pa., June 12—A touring car hung suspended from a cable at the Gonga bridge, near Strinestown, as evidence of an automobile accident in which Mr. and Mrs. Russell Workmen, of Harrisburg, nearly met death when the machine struck the bridge and the left rear wheel caught in protecting cables.

The machine remained hanging over the side of the structure with the occupants twenty feet above the stream. Nearby residents were aroused by the screams of the woman. A rope ladder was procured and the occupants were brought to safety after an hour of terror.

Boy Makes Profit In Fattening Hogs

RANDOLPH, Neb., June 12.—After a year's experience in hog raising, Hans Nielson, local farm boy, has decided what his life work is going to be.

Borrowing $60, Hans purchased a brood sow and joined a pig club. At the close of the year, Hans had received $261 from hogs sold and had on hand the sow and five 250 pound hogs valued at $240, making his annual return $501 from the $60 investment.

During Hot Summer Days Especially

You'll Find Gas Your Most Convenient Fuel

When the thermometer on the back porch climbs up above 90, you'll appreciate more than ever the convenience and cleanliness of gas.

You can cook just as soon as you light the burners, and the fire can be put out with the turn of the wrist as soon as you are through. You'll heat the food and not the kitchen; you'll keep your health and your temper.

And if there's one time that dirt is disagreeable, it's when it is hot. But with gas, you'll have no sooty smoke, no dust or ashes, nothing but clean, convenient heat.

If you aren't cooking with gas this summer, you're missing one way to make hot days more pleasant. Cook with gas—it is more convenient, more economical.

DAN EXPLAINS FUND RECOVERY

HALLETTSOILLE, Texas, June 12.—(AP)—The money recovered by him from the American Road company figured largely in Attorney General Dan Moody's speech here today.

"Ferguson wants to know how I got back half a million dollars from Kansas City," he said. "But the people of Texas want to know why the money was taken to Kansas City in the first place."

Referring to the assertions of James E. Ferguson that the American Road company verdict had caused the state a financial loss, Moody said, "shortly after the rendering of the judgment which saved the state $900,000, Jim Ferguson asserted that the roads treated by the American Road company would have to be resurfaced."

"How did he know? It was in the winter time, when asphalt could be put on roads successfully. The state maintenance engineer, a man ought to know something about the best methods of highway maintenance advised the commission in writing that if any sort of surfacing was to be undertaken an asphalt treatment could not be applied, a sit would wear out in a short time.

Roads Inspected

"The state highway engineer, the man whom the law says shall be the chief advisor of the highway commission and the actual head of the highway department inspected the roads. He reported to the commission that in his judgment a re-treatment was absolutely unnecessary, and upon some of the highways would be positively harmful.

"That report that Ferguson and his highway commission tried to keep a secret from the people of Texas. When one of the assistants in the attorney general's office went to the highway department and asked to se ethe report he was refused permission.

"But Jim Ferguson is a man of many trades. He has been a banker, he says he has been a farmer. Lately he has been a lawyer and a newspaper man. In this instance he set himself up as an engineer, knowing more about highway treatment than the experts his own commission had selected as its advosors. He was determined that no more engineers should stand in the way of spending a few hundred thousand dollars belonging to the people of Texas and unfortunately the law affords the people of Texas no relief in the courts. Their only relief is the bollot box."

West Point Cadets Awarded Diplomas And Given Leaves

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 12.—(AP)—One hundred and fifty-two cadets were graduated from the United States military academy today. They will be commissioned second lieutenants.

Colonel Hanford MacNider, assistant secretary of war, delivered the principal address and distributed the diplomas. Major General John L. Hines, chief of staff of the army, also spoke.

General John J. Pershing, Brigadier General March B. Stewart, superintendent of the academy, and Major General Hugh L. Scott, former chief of staff, were among the high ranking army officers present.

Cadet William G. Baker, Jr., 22, of Clinton, Tenn., was the honor man of the class. Baker entered the academy July 1, 1922, and has led his class every year.

Everything Depends On The Caddy —By J. J. Montague

It Took Us the Full Five Minutes to Find the Ball.

Perhaps he was a Boy Scout, and had decided to do eighteen good deeds in one day, and be natural the rest of the week. Perhaps he had been trained to be helpful at home. Anyway he was helpful. He helped Bill take eighteen dollars away from me, and never got any thanks or appreciation for it, which is the way with benefactions in this hard and ungrateful world.

I picked him out myself from a row of supplicating urchins who had gathered around the first tee. He was neatly dressed in a small golfing suit, and he wore a most engaging smile. With a caddie like that I was sure I could win. Bill, who is careless about caddies, took the first boy who came to hand, a villainous looking little ruffian with a sudden and rebellious demeanor. He scowled when he took Bill's clubs, and was striking a match to light a cigarette when I teed up to drive off.

I got a fairl good drive for me, and was quite pleased when my caddy said:

"That was a nice drive sir. Two more like that and you'll be on the green."

"Don't worry about that," said the caddy, "You just lifted your head a little."

The result of this mental suggestion was that I lifted my head on the next three strokes. But the caddy smiled indulgently every time I missed.

"You'll get in your stride in a few minutes sir," he said. "All you need to do is to keep your temper."

It was then that I began to fear that perhaps encouragement wasn't what I needed. Bill's caddy was trotting after him, still wearing his sinister scowl, and Bill was on the green in three. As his ball rolled up to the cup my caddy said brightly:

"Excuse me sir, I must hold the pin for your opponent. He played very nicely, but I am sure you can do just as well if you will only keep your head down."

I got off a better drive on the second, and the caddy was enthusiastic in his congratulations.

"Really sir," he said, "that is a nice drive as I have seen on this fairway. You are sure to get a two on this hole."

The ball lay not more than fifteen feet from the green, and I was sure that the caddy was right. With considerable satisfaction I observed that Bill had topped his shot, and couldn't possibly get on under two or three more.

The caddy handed me my niblick with the admonition:

"Now keep your head down, and remember to follow through gently and you may get a two. That would be wonderful, wouldn't it?

The result was inevitable. The idea of that ball rolling into the cup for a two was so fascinating that I was gazing straight at the pin when I shot, and my club merely removed a small divot from the fairway without touching the pill at all. Bill had caught up to me on his second shot. I heard his caddy saying:

But my little lad was still bright and hopeful. "Try to get your three now," he said. "That will tie, any way."

I tried to get my three, and the ball, which I rapped nervously, sailed over the green and landed in a deep bunker beyond. Bill collected a four and won the hole.

I must have looked sour as I walked on to the next tee, but the caddy was not in the last cast down.

"Some players get discouraged when they lose two holes in succession," he said, "but I am sure you won't. This game is full of little accidents, isn't it sir? But they don't matter, do they sir?"

I was not so certain that they didn't matter. Bill and I play about even. Starting him with two up, which was what I had done, is dangerous. And he is one of those birds who will tell the whole club about it if he beats me, and remember every bad shot I made.

The next hole was a long one, and a good shot is important. My caddy asked me politely for my ball as Bill was driving:

"I'll wash it for you sir," and then it will be easier to see if you should hook into that deep rough over there to the left."

Up to that minute I had never known there was any deep rough over to the left, by some miracle having never got into it. But now I looked and saw that it was very deep, and that it would take me at least three or four strokes to get out of it if I ever got in. Naturally I drove directly into it, and it took us the full five minutes to find the ball. Bill helped in the search, with a sort of tolerant grin for which any jury of golfers would have convicted him of inhuman conduct and sent him to the penitentiary for twenty years.

But the caddy was undismayed. "It was a good thing I washed that ball, wasn't it?" he said. "We never would have found it if it still had all that sand on it."

It took me the usual four to get out of the long grass. Meanwhile Bill was on the green.

He was on five subsequent greens ahead of me, in spite of the consoling and cheering words of the little optimist who trudged by my side. Never once did his spirits droop, or did he lose his settled conviction that by and by I would brace up and begin to win.

"Some caddies get annoyed when the men play badly," he told me as he offered me a niblick when I had asked for a mashie. "But I never do. I always say that there is no reason to be downcast, and that even the very worst players sometimes win close games. Don't you want the niblick sir? I'm afraid you'll go over the green if you take the mashie."

"Shut up," I said, and clouted the ball as I would have liked to clout my little sunshine, I drove a hundred and fifty yards into the road and narrowly missed a passing automobile.

Of course I was sorry for what I had said, for the little fellow looked so hurt. I even made some lame attempts to apologize.

"Don't mention it, sir," he said "I can easily understand how you feel. I would feel that way myself if I had lost nine holes in succession. But perhaps if you will keep your self control you can still save something out of the wreck."

The tenth is a water hole, which ought to be easy enough if you keep your eye on the ball and don't get scared. I was hoping that my luck would turn here, for I have often made a two, and I knew Bill, who is one of those calculating players, wouldn't try for anything better than a three.

As I was teeing up my caddy said:

"Of course if you were to go into the pond here you would lose the match, so you must be sure to remember to drive carefully. I'll watch the ball for you, and if it should fall into the water I will wade out and get it for you. I have old shoes on."

You can imagine what happened. The caddy started merrily out after the ball, but I stopped him. "I'll pick up," I said, and did.

He started to say something consoling.

"And you," I continued, "will shut up, and keep shut up for the rest of this game. I've heard enough out of you."

It may be that it was my cruelty to him and the injured way that he took it which made me lose the rest of the holes. It may be that it was the after effects of his helpfulness. I'm inclined to think it was the latter. Anyway I lost every hole, and Bill has quite a lot to say when I come to the locker room nowadays. I have thought some of catching the caddy alone and cuffing him, but that wouldn't help my game, and moreover I feel abased every time he looks at me reproachfully when he is caddying for somebody else. I have been hoping he would caddy for Bill sometime, so I could get back that eighteen dollars. But Bill is wise. I found out afterward that he had fixed it with the caddy master to have the boy in line when I wanted a caddy. He knew I liked bright and cheerful children.

DALLAS COPPER 'RESCUES' HALL

Fells Prisoner Attempting To Explode Bottle Of Nitro

DALLAS, June 12.—(AP)—An Oliver Twist Bill Sykes robbery partnership apparently was nipped in the early stages here today and the Dallas city hall was in danger of being wrecked as a result.

A 15-year-old boy and a man whom Dallas police recognized as an old time yegg, were arrested as they came into the city in an automobile. In the car were found two bottles of nitro-glycerine, fuses and caps, two pistols, and automobile tubes.

At city hall, the older of the prisoners attempted to knock a bottle of nitro-glycerine from a policeman's hands, and what would have been a terrific explosion was prevented when a policeman felled the prisoner with his fist.

According to the boy's story he met the man in an Arkansas town where he was working in a box factory supporting his mother. The man, he said, enticed him away on a robbing and safe blowing expedition, offering him more than he could earn in the box factory.

Planned Night Raids.

The plans was to make Dallas their headquarters and to make expeditions at night into the small towns about this city, the boy driving the automobile, acting as lookout, and doing some of the robbing.

One of their first jobs was last night, when they are alleged to have robbed a store at Wills Point taking a quantity of merchandise with which they were detected as they were about to leave the store but escaped Wills Point officers.

According to the boy the loot from the robbing expedition was to be disposed of in Dallas, where his companion already had made arrangements to sell.

As police were questioning the man, police Sergeant D. C. Garrison walked in with a bottle of nitro-glycerine. The prisoner jumped from his chair and attempted to strike the bottle from Garrison's hand. Grover C. Garrison, another policeman, felled the prisoner with a blow to his jaw. The boy and man are in jail.

FORTUNE LOST 87 YEARS IS DIVIDED BY 3 HEIRS

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. — A long search in the Chancery archives has brought to light records which will permit the partition of a $150,000 estate that had been awaiting claimants since 1839. There are only three living heirs to the estate. They are J. G. Cottam, Dr. Joseph 9. Cottam and Mrs. R. C. Bonner, the offspring of Thomas Cottam, who died in America two years ago. None knew of the estate in Chancery until Dr. Cottam got a clew to it among his father's papers.

LEEDS UNITED, OFF FOR TRIP

Tin Plate Heir And Princess Meet In Chicago, Leave On Honeymoon

CHICAGO, June 12. (AP)Tanned by a South Seas holiday, William B. Leeds, heir to the $40,000,000 tin plate fortune of his late father, started here today with his wife, the Princess Xenia of Russia, a second honeymoon.

They met last night, Leeds coming from the Pacific coast and his wife from their Oyster Bay, N. Y., home as the result of a telephone call said to have cost $100. Chicago was selected for the reunion, they said, because they wanted to meet quickly and secretly.

They laughed at stories of any rift in their marital lute, declaring "we're utterly in love." Nor did they even mind their discovery in a hotel suite after they had thought their elaborate plans for secrecy successful. The young heir evaded recognition for some hours after his arrival by dodging through back doors of hotels and station corridors, but after he had been joined by his wife the two "surrendered" to newspaper men and photographers.

The princess in a black suit with a white gardenia in her button hole, a green hat and a colorful bracelet, authoried the information that she is Russian and not Greek. She is the second daughter, she pointed out, of Grand Duke Mikailovitch of Russia and Princess Marie Georgievna of Greece. The latter was a sister of the late King Constantine, last of the Romanoffs.

Wichita Falls Theatres Offering Best of Screen Films

Flashing Drama Opens Sunday On Olympic Screen

Ernst Lubitsch Picture To Feature May McCoy And Good Cast

Admirers of Ernst Lubitsch have now another reason to say there is nothing this master director of the screen cannot do. This is because "Lady Windermere's Fan," his latest production for Warner Bros. which opens at the Olympic theatre Sunday is a perfect photoplay in spite of the skeptics who wagged mournful heads at the thought of Oscar Wilde's brilliant wit and famous epigrams transferred to the screen.

"Lady Windermere's Fan," written thirty years ago, is a thoroughly modern story of a beautiful woman's determined and successful effort to gain an entry into the society that has scorned her. Her charm wins her friends when she forces her way into the birthday party of Lady Windermere, and her sacrifice for her daughter results in ultimate happiness for the woman who risked everything she desired most, for love of her daughter.

Irene Rich is the revelation of what a finished actress can really rise to under perfect direction. Lubitsch has helped transform her into a goregously beautiful and sophisticated woman of the world, and her characterization of Mrs. Erlynne is so full of repressed fire, and subtle mischief, that it is almost impossible to recall that she has been known as the most deserted wife" on the screen. Miss Rich's performance is on a part with Lubitsch's direction.

In spite of May McAvoy's determined little chin and strong personality, her delicate beauty still labels her as sweet. That the word has been misused so often, is no fault of hers, for it belongs to this actress alone. Miss McAvoy as Lady Windermere is delightful in the role of the proud wife whose impluaive flight is saved from disaster by the sacrifice of that indiscreet Mrs. Erlynne.

Edward Martindel makes a gay and susceptible Lord Angustus, and the three haughty duchesses of Helen Dunbar, Carrie Daumery and Billie Bennett are consistently entertaining.

Julien Josephson's adaptation of the play to the screen is deftly done, and the photography of Charles Van Tnger adds materially to the beauty of the production. In every way, "Lady Windermere's Fan," is a perfect photoplay lifted out of the ordinary run of screen works by the truly brilliant acting and direction.

"Red Coats" Tell In Person About Mountain Police

Who has not heard of Canada's noted police force, the wonderful "Red Coats?" Rex Beach, James Oliver Curwood, Service and a host of other noted writers have extolled the virtues of these noted mantrackers. It's a positive fact that the percentage of people who ever escape when once they get on their trail is only one out of each 567. They are known the world over as the police who "always get their man." The North West Mounted company are making a tour of this country in person at the Palace theatre Wednesday and Thursday, matinee and night.

They are creating a big sensation in the United States, people of all walks of life proclaiming it to be one of the most interesting performances ever seen in this country. You will be told in detail just how the "Mounties" work. Why it is they always get their man and the wonderful system they use. You will also see Arctic vaudeville acts different from anything eevr seen here and something both exceedingly funny and interesting. A fourteen thousand mile travelogue around the world with the Mounted Police, showing their famous captures, and some of the terrible experiences they have to go through, will be shown, and Captain Barnes, noted authority on narcotics, will expose the workings of the drug ring in this vicinity. The Mounted Police work over an hour in addition to the regular picture program and the prices have been put where every one can afford to see this really wonderful performance, 35c for adults and 10c for children. Better get in early if you want a good seat.

Stellar Cast In Feature Picture

"The Wilderness Woman," featuring Aileen Pringle, Lowell Sherman and Chester Conklin at the Strand starting Monday is Robert T. Kane's latest production for First National release. It is an adaptation of Arthur Stringer's celebrated serial-novel which ran recently in the Saturday Evening Post.

The story is about an Alaskan miner and his daughter who strike it rich and come to New York to spend some of their gains. Miss Pringle, who plays the part of the daughter, garbs herself in make-order house styles of the year 1903.

In addition to knowing nothing of the conventions of the Big City, Miss Pringle is woefully ignorant of the sort of pets that are permitted to roam the streets. She brings with her from the frozen fields of Alaska her grizzly bear cub Skeemo.

GIVE RIGHT OF WAY.

A right-of-way over the city's 40-acre dumping ground to the Lone Star Gas company for its new Panhandle gas line was the sole item of roles in this production, which factures business transacted by the city council Friday morning in a called session. Commissioners Hunt, Quiesser, Jones nd Mayor R. E. Shepherd were present.

AGREED JUDGMENT.

Anagreed judgment of $900 was returned by Judge P. A. Martin of the 30th district court Friday afternoon in the suit of D. H. Gregory et al vs. the Wichita Valley railroad, suing for damages as a result of a crossing accident in the fall of 1925. There were two minor children involved nd an automobile wrecked in the crash.

Excellent Picture Opens At Theatre Here On Monday

One of the most striking and very human arguments against the divorce evil ever seen on the screen here is that presented by "Just a Woman," the M. C. Levee First National offering which opens Monday at the Palace theatre.

While the picture is by no means a preachment for or against divorce, and, obviously, was designed purely as entertainment, it submits much food for thought for those in the throes of domestic tangles.

The story is an adaptation from Eugene Walter's stage success and is based upon life among the workers and their families in a big Pennsylvania steel mill.

Miss Windsor and Tearle, in the roles of the Holtons, can be credited with some excellent work—in fact, as good work as they have ever put forth on the screen. Marmont also shows himself to good account, as does Miss Dorothy Revere in the role of the actress.

Vaccination Bars Tubercle Bacilli

LONDON, June 12.—As a result of a series of experiments conducted at the famous Lister institute, it is hoped that in the near future young children may be rendered immune from tuberculosis by the use of vaccine.

The experiments, it is announced, show conclusively that it is possible to give active immunity to animals against a virulent dose of tubercle bacilli.

Rabbits and guinea pigs were given protective doses of vaccine which has been prepared from human cultures, states Dr. Nathan Raw in the British medical journal. After two protective doses the animals were given some virulent bovine bacille.

Mexican Locale Used for Scenes In 'Shipwrecked'

Historic old Mazatlan, Mexico, makes its bow as a location for a motion picture for the first time in Metropolitan's latest production, "Shipwrecked," which will be the feature at the Mission theatre.

Mazatlan at one time was well on the road to becoming one of the chief seaports on the west coast of Mexico, but it suffered a severe set back when it was visited by a severe plague many years ago. Since that time a portion of the city has remained as it was originally built, while other portions resemble a modern metropolis.

The sequences following the wreck scenes in "Shipwrecked" were filmed in and around Mazatlan, the traders' post, and subsequent discovery of the girl by the villain, her fight for recognition in the eyes of the world after she had killed a man, as she believed, to protect herself.

Seena Owen is featured in "Shipwrecked," with Joseph Schildkraut, Matthew Bets, Clarence Burton, Erwin Connelly, Laska Winter and Lionel Belmore, also have important roles in this production, which features the most realistic storm at sea ever caught by the camera—scenes actually photographed in one of the worst storms that have devastated the Pacific Coast in many years.

MARMON BUILT ON CHASSIS OF GREAT POWER

This Important Feature Of Car Not Overlooked In Machine

"After all the chassis is the automobile," says Barney Roos, chief engineer of the Marmon Car company. "No matter how splendid the appearance of the car, its body or other superficial details, no automobile was yet better than its chassis. Unless the rest of the chassis is of exceptional quality, the automobile may barely escape mediocrity. This is the final secret of quality motor car design and construction.

"Performance, comfort, safety itself, depend more on the hidden chassis details than on all the glittering and obvious beauty and attractiveness that external inspection of a car will reveal. If he would correctly estimate genuine quality, or lack of it, of any car the motorist must go over the chassis with a microscope. He must inspect and study the fundamental design of the chassis. He must study every unit of the chassis and compare it with the standard or conventional practice of other motor builders.

Find Them Here

"If he desires exceptional quality and performance, comfort and safety he can be absolutely certain that he will find them in no car that has not an exceptionally designed and constructed chassis. He will discover that in the making of the chassis prodigious sums of money can be spent justifiably by the most conscientious maker. He will also find that at least some makers can and do save prodigiously on chassis construction in spite of a lavish use of paint and other external attractions to carry out the quality idea.

"Take the matter of the frame, the backbone of the chassis. Conventional practice calls for channel construction with wood running boards mounted on brackets. This is fairly strong and inexpensive. We of the Marmon believe the best motor car frame to be one that was invented some years ago. It is a patented idea on which royalties must be paid. It is also very expensive to manufacture. It costs very, very much more than the conventional type. But it has life-saving safety factors and many other superb qualities that make it unsurpassed for the production of quality cars. Wide steel running boards form integral parts of this frame. For 10 years Marmon has used this patented shock resisting frame because it clearly is superior to any other type yet invented. This frame also calls for a very expensive type of compound cross member, double transverse, rear springs. They do not only yield an unsurpassed comfort but they are vital factors that give to Marmon its absence of dangerous side-away and skidding.

"Those are but indications of many exclusive features of the Marmon chassis that are not only unique but exceedingly expensive. Marmon believes these are absolutely essential lieves these are absolutely essential if the maker is intent on maximum quality in construction and consequent performance, durability, comfort and safety.

Prehistoric America Is Discovered Anew as Parlor Busses Open Indian Detour to Tourists

An entirely new thrill for transcontinental travelers is being provided this summer by motor busses. The most interesting and picturesque scenes of the old Southwest, far off the beaten path and beyond the horizons of train windows, are accessible now with a three-day break in the long train ride for a bus tour of 240 miles over the new Indian Detour.

This route, through the ancient Indian pueblos, Spanish villages and prehistoric cliff dwellings in the New Mexico Rockies from Las Vegas to Albuquerque, has just been opened by the Santa Fe Railroad and Fred Harvey interests. All arrangements for hotel rooms, meals and baggage are made for the tourists while they explore points of interest in oldest America in a fleet of 17 White de luxe busses of the enclosed parlor car type, each seating 11 passengers in comfortable swivel chairs. The busses, known as "Harveycars" and operated by the Santa Fe Transportation Company, are in charge of young women couriers specially trained by the Archaeological Society of America.

Westbound passengers on the California Limited and the Navajo may leave the trains at Las Vegas, N. M., to board the busses and entrain again three days later at Albuquerque. Passengers on the same trains eastbound transfer to the busses at Albuquerque and take a similar trip over the route to Las Vegas. The tours will be made every day the year 'round.

MARMON CLOSES BIGGEST MONTH IN ITS HISTORY

May Sales Records Go Up to Record Figure

May was a month of records for the Marmon Motor Car company, according to information just released by H. H. Brooks, director of sales. In fact the results during the month just closed represent a high water mark in the sales activities of the company since the advent of the new Marmon 74 18 months ago.

Not only was May the greatest month in the entire history of the company in point of retail sales, but the month closed with the greatest single day's business in the history of the business with approximately 135 bona fide retail sales.

May 1925 which represented an increase of 52 per cent over May 1924 was regarded until now as a high point in the sales activities of the company, but last month's sales even topped the previous high mark by 20 per cent and also represented an increase of more than 30 per cent over April of this year.

This record was particularly reassuring, according to officials of the company, on account of the more conservative tone of business and adverse weather conditions, compared with the conditions a year ago. They point to it as conclusive evidence of the rapidly growing acceptance of an Indianapolis made product on a solid foundation in every part of the country.

"We feel that the present showing is vastly more significant," says Mr. Brooks, "than the great influx of business which immediately followed the announcement of the Marmon 74. The present increasing class of buyers have had an opportunity of discussing the car with owners who have driven present model Marmon cars many thousands of miles.

"Current orders," says Mr. Brooks, "do not represent a 'spotty' business but have come from distributors and dealers all over the country

Dodge Reclaims Fortune In Waste Material As Part Of Year's Business

To be able to rescue thousands of tons of iron, steel, lumber, paper and other material, which commonly is referred to as waste or scrap, and reclaim it financially, is one of the problems of all industrial plants today. Such reclamaion work is a factor in keeping down costs of the finished product.

In a large corporation such as Dodge Brothers, Inc., this rescue of waste material is no longer a problem.

Under a highly efficient system every piece of discarded metal, lumber and paper, that cannot be utilized in some manner in the corporation's plant again is collected and segregated in bins and ultimately finds its way back to its point of origin to be used again in the manufacture of new material.

In the salvage of lumber alone the process used by Dodge Brothers, Inc., is one of the marvels of industrial life today, millions of board feet of lumber being reclaimed annually, making a saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

According to reports of the corporation there was sold from the plant in 1925 waste material totaling $1,300,000. Scrap iron, steel and non-ferrous metals form the bulk of such sales.

An amount nearly equal to this was saved in reclaiming various kinds of material for further use in the plant. Prices of this so-called waste material ranged from $6.00 a ton for low grade iron scrap to $1,000 a ton for metal having a tin content.

So highly systemized is the salvage department of Dodge Brothers, Inc., that the greater portion of its scrap iron, steel and paper may move direct from the plant to the mills for consumption without further sorting.

Borings coming mainly from the cylinder department are carefully swept up from beneath each machine after each shift of workmen, placed in small steel cars and taken to bins for future delivery, or hoisted direct into railroad freight cars for immediate shipment to furnaces.

Great quantities of turnings and drillings, resulting from machining of forgings and making screw machine parts, are transferred direct to huge crushers where they are ground into fine parts and then dumped into freight cars for movement to the consuming mills. Under this method of crushing, freight cars are loaded to 40 to 50 ton. Under the old method no such tonnage could be obtained and thus a huge saving in freight charges is made. Dodge Brothers use four of these crushers on turnings.

In handling the non-ferrous scrap, such as brass, copper and Babbitt metal, extreme care is used by sweepers in collecting it from the pans under the machines. This scrap is segregated in steel drums and held until such time as the market conditions warrant its sale at a fair price. It is in the salvaging of lumber and boxes, particularly, that Dodge Brothers, Inc., have surpassed other plants. In the reclamation of boxes alone a saving which totals several hundreds of thousands of dollars annually is made. All boxes arriving at the plant from supplies are turned over to a crew of men, who, with the aid of a portable grinder, erase all stenciling and other markings. These boxes then are utilized again in the shipment of service parts and other materials to dealers. An average of 4,000 boxes are reclaimed monthly.

GIRL IN TRANCE 8 MONTHS BAFFLES ALL PHYSICIANS

NOTTINGHAM, Eng.—Except for an occasional flicker of the eyelids, Doris Hinton, daughter of a milkman living at Chilwell, has for eight months shown no outward sign of life. She lies apparently unconscious in her father's house, and to an ordinary observer there is little to show that she is not dead. Her case has baffled many doctors at the Nottingham General hospital. The girl is not suffering from any discoverable disease; she has had no shock, and her parents have not the least idea what sent her into the rance, which began on October 2. She and her young brother were listening to a wireless program when Doris fell back on to a couch.

FORDS TO FIND SERVICE POINTS IN EVERY TOWN

Summer Touring This Year To be Made More Enjoyable

The thousands who go touring in Ford cars this year, will find their journed made much more pleasurable throgh the extension of the Ford service organization. While the Ford car ownersa lways has enjoyed a big advantage in this respect, there never has been a time when service facilities were so extensive.

"One thing the tourists should do before starting on his trip," says a Ford Motor company statement, "is to take his car to his authorized Ford dealer and have it thoroughly inspected. Any small adjustments that may be necessary can be made and where need be new parts supplied so that the tourist will start his journey with a car fully fit for the trip.

"There may be nothing at all wrong. At that, it would be a satisfaction to the Ford owner to know before leaving on his travels that his carbas been carefully examined by competent mechanics and found to be in first class condition.

"Once on the road, the Ford owner has at his service an authorized dealer in almost any town or village."

Under its policy of direct supervision over the dealer service, the company during the last year has affected a number of improvements in this division of the business. As a result, authorized Ford dealers everywhere are much better equipped, both withme chanics and machinery, for serving car owners. This assures the tourist prompt and efficient attention any place along the road.

WIFE SILENT 4 YEARS THEN DESERTS HUSBAND

CARDIFF.—From May, 1917, to June, 1921, Mrs. James Laing lived in the house of her husand, but never spoke to him, according to the evidence given by Laing in his divorce suit. Then, without saying a word to him, she packed her possessions and departed. Since that time all the couple's 11 children had tried to induce the mother to return but she had refused to see or speak to her husband. He was given a decree.

NO MYSTERY TO NO-NOX GAS

Gulf Official Explans Scientific Basis of New Fuel

There is no mystery about Gulf No-Nox Motor Fuel, says a Gulf Refining company official. It contains no dope or foreign matter—no mysterious concoctions go to make up the wonderful efficiency of "No-Nox"—In fact it is just good clean gasoline carefully refined by our own special process from selected crude oil, under the supervision of skilled chemists in a refinery that is the last word in modern equipment surrounded by every appliance necessary to the production of a perfect product.

The orange color is given "No-Nox" by a harmless coloring matter for identification purposes and in no way adds to its efficiency—neither does it in any way decrease efficiency or damage any part of the motor—hence motorists may rest assured that when we say that "No-Nox" is Non-Poison-

Now as to the wonderful results obtained from "No-Nox," a word about high compression engines might not be out of the way.—The theory of high compression in automobile engines is that the higher the compression the less fuel consumed; consequently efficiency and a smoother running engine is obtained.

Harry Hartz Takes A Long Lead For National Racing Championship

Strong Demand Is Made for Chrysler Cars in Country

Strong demand the country over for Chrysler cars has followed two significant Chrysler announcements made recently. One is of reductions from $50 to $200 in prices of the famous Chrysler "70" which has been followed by a flood of additional orders for the car from all parts of the country. The output of Chrysler "70" models have to be still further increased to take care of the demand.

The reduction in price of the Chrysler "70" has been accomplished without change in the car, other than in its lower price, according to J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of Chrysler sales. "The 31 per cent increase in sales for the car to date this year, even over the record demand of one year ago, permits us to offer these substantially increased values to the public—values which we believe are unprecelented in all automobile history," say Mr. Fields.

"The car is exactly the same as before. There is absolutely no change in its performance, quality, comfort, style, equipment, design, materials or workmanship in body or chassis, which have won for it universal preference and admiration among more than 100,000 owners."

German Railways Cut Food Prices

BERLIN, June 12.—The government, which has been for some time carrying on a pre-reduction campaign, is setting an example in the German railway restaurants.

The Madgeburg division has decreed that in the waiting rooms of the first and second class a warm meal, consisting of soup, meat, potatoes and vegetables, and dessert must be served for not more than 48 cents, including tips. In the third-class waiting rooms a warm meal of meat, potatoes and vegetables must be served for 24 cents, also including tips.

Ancient Barrows Found in Cornwall

LONDON, June 12.—Two prehistoric monuments of considerable interest have been found on the Bodmin Moore near the village of Davidstow, Cornwall. The first is a group of mounted barrows, which appear at first sight to form a long barrow. Actually there are three round barrows in a line, much leveled by the ravages of time, the whole group being surrounded by a well defined moat filled with water. The far more important of the two monuments, however, is a genuine long barrow, 170 feet long and 60 feet wide. The burial chamber is at the east end, and here are the remains of a fine cromlech. The capstone is huge—18x7 feet—and it rests on the slate rock, the stone of the county.

Bre'r Fox Gives Grave Digger Race

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., June 12. Francis Girard, employed in Hillside cemetery, had a hair-raising experience recently as he entered a vault to get a piece of canvass to be used in his work as grave digger. He entered in the dark, reached for the canvass and, as he was about to grasp the material there was a slight cry and scratching. Girard hesitated for a fraction of a second and ran for the door. He knew that he was being followed. He beat his companion to the outlet of the tomb and stopped only when a safe distance away. Upon turning around Girard saw in the distance a red fox, apparently as frightened as the cemetery iborer.

Bishop Covers 16,000 Miles Each Year

WINNIPEG, Man., June 12.—A tour of his diocese, reaching from the Arctic Circle to the United States boundary, is being made by Bishop A. D. Dewdney of Keewatin, who is on his periodic trip. Bishop Dewdney travels approximately 16,000 miles a year, working chiefly among Indians and Eskimos.

Each year Bishop Dewdney visits a section of his diocese, which averages 300 miles in width. Every two years he goes to the more remote parts, each trip taking about three months.

The High Cost Of Excess Weight

Excess weight in motor trucks is expensive. It increases the purchase price and it costs as much to carry as an equal weight of pay load. Its cost is even greater, because it must be carried all the time.

Graham Brothers trucks have a larger proportion of pay load to chassis weight than is usually available in their respective capacities. Careful buyers are giving this due recognition, as their marked preference for Graham Brothers trucks indicates.

Built by the largest exclusive truck makers in the world—powered by Dodge Brothers dependable engine—these trucks are capable of an exceptional amount of profitable work over a long period of life.

BUICK SALES STILL GROWING

Demand for Cars Is Greater Than Ever In History

The Buick Motor Company is in the midst of the most active selling season it has ever enjoyed, according to the announcement of the sales department.

In the ten months since the current series was introduced last August, 205,182 Buicks have been delivered to owners. In the first ten months after their introduction, 114,776 1925 models were sold, setting a record. The 1926 record, however, is higher by 90,406 cars, or 41.7 per cent.

205,182 In 10 Months.

The sale of 205,182 Buicks of the latest model in ten months exceeds by many thousand the sale of any previous model in an active twelve-month period, according to the announcement.

The demand for Buicks continues at the high level reached in April, when 31,632 cars were delivered to owners. In May, 29,966 deliveries were made.

Deliveries for the five months since the first of the year total 110,020 cars. This excels the record for the same period in 1925, when 78,612 cars were delivered up to the first of June. The gain in 1926 over 1925 is 321,414 cars, or about 40 per cent.

E. T. Strong, general sales manager, states that every shipment and delivery record of his company has been broken time after time since the 1926 models were placed on the market last August. Deliveries for the last few months have been running ahead of production from seven to ten thousand cars.

Oldsmobile Wins In Novel Obstacle Race

Mrs. F. E. Griff winning obstacle race with her Oldsmobile De Luxe Coach. The race was held in Seattle, Wash., to promote safe driving.

Safe driving has been defined as having absolute control of a car under any circumstance or condition. But it has been difficult to determine who the safe drivers are, as usually, it has required an accident to prove that a car was not fully under control or the driver not fully ready to meet emergencies.

At the insistance of a number of women who had rebelled against the innuendoes concerning their skillful and safe driving ability, a spectacular test recently was held in Seattle, Wash., which easily could be incorporated in "brake tests" held by many cities during safety drives. The test is one that tries both the skill of the driver and the ability of the automobile's braking, quick pick-up and easy steering qualities.

The test was an obstacle race against time over a long city block in which boxes, barrels, packing cases and other impediments had been placed so as to leave a winding trail with barely room for an automobile to pass through. The course required ability on the part of the contestants to judge distances carefully, a keen eye and steady hand on the part of the drivers, and automobiles that could make quick spurts of speed, brake quickly and turn of the edge of a dime.

The race was divided into three classes: one for cars under 110-inch wheelbase; one for cars with a wheelbase from 110 to 125; and for cars of 125-inch wheelbase and over.

The second class, composed of cars with the medium and popular length wheelbase, was won by Mrs. F. E. Griff in an Oldsmobile DeLuxe coach, with bumpers, trunk and extra tire. Her performance was spectacular to a high degree, the Oldsmobile speeding in and out past the obstructions, speeding up on a short and comparatively straight-a-way and coming in an instant to a near stop to negotiate a sharp turn. Mrs. Griff has been driving for 14 years, and gave much credit for her performance to the ease of control of her car. Her time was 1 minute and 36 seconds.

At the conclusion of the race, two men endeavored to break the records made by Mrs. Griff in her Oldsmobile, but both came to grief in pitting speed against car control.

Pierce Arrow Executive Is Named for 22nd Term As N. A. C. C. Head

Colonel Charles Clifton, chairman of the board of the Pierce Arrow Motor Car company of Buffalo, N. Y., was re-elected to his twenty-second term as president of the National Automobile chamber of commerce at the annual meeting of that body held in New York City yesterday.

The first formal organization of automobile manufacturers was instituted in 1904 with Colonel Clifton as president. He has been elected leader of the industry without interruption ever since that time.

That the automobile trade is in excellent condition and that credits are on a sound basis were the key points of Colonel Clifton's annual message to the industry. He pointed out that even though credit is easy, the industry is proceeding conservatitvely in the matter of time payments, the majority of concerns insisting upon the one-third down payment and not more than twelve monthly payments.

A. J. Brosseau was named by the directors as chairman of a committee to appear before the interstate commerce commission in its study of motor truck and motor bus transportation.

Directors re-elected were Charles Clifton, Fred J. Haynes., Harry M. Jewett, Alfred H. Swayne and Windsor T. White.

Other officers returned to office were Roy D. Chapin, vice president; Alvan Macauley and Windsor T. White, second vice presidents; A. J. Brosseau, secretary; H. H. Rice, treasurer and Alfred Reeves, general manager.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CARS

A complete catalog of all Sedans of all makes in the luxury class would reveal more features of control and a greater serving of comfort for women drivers, in this Great Six Sedan, than could be found in any other.

97% of women owners say

—in driving the Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan they enjoy a sense of security they do not experience in any other car

Complete and easy mastery over tremendous actual power, with all the sense of satisfaction that state of mind affords—this is the feeling of women-drivers who own and operate the Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan . . .

The smooth and silent flexibility of the modernly-engineered Knight sleeve-valve motor, the only motor-car engine in the world that actually improves with use—the definite assurance that it is always ready, without attention or bothersome adjustments, to deliver its full measure of performance—take away all the usual consciousness of a mechanical power-plant under the hood . . .

Its wide range of speed, its unfailing high-gear power on hills, its amazingly quick acceleration eliminate the usual impulse to change gears with every change in traffic conditions or road demand . . .

The easy operation of the highly developed 4-wheel brakes brings a feeling of comfortable security in crowded streets or on the highways . . .

Unusual features—control of the lights from the steering wheel, the ditch light for road safety when the dimmers are on—horn-button at the finger-tips without removing the hand from the wheel, the new fuemer control to facilitate starting—these are of particular importance to women . . .

And when to its extraordinary engine-efficiency, excelled by no other motor-car engine in the world, are added the most modern chassis construction and such exquisite beauty and luxury as are present in the Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan—here you have motor-car excellence of the highest order—you have a driving and riding comfort such as you will find only in the world's finest and costliest cars.

The super-efficient Knight sleeve-valve engine is patented. But two makers of privately-owned passenger cars are entitled to build it. Willys-Knight is one of the two.

RUBBER MARKET KEEPS DEALERS IN HOT WATER

Wide Fluctuations all Over World Send Prices Awry

"If a rubber manufacturer wants to keep up with the market, he should stay up day and night," declared Wm. O'Neil, president of the General Tire & Rubber company, in a recent address to a national association of bankers. "Rubber is the only commodity I know of in which the market works on three shifts a day. First, we have the London market to deal with. That opens at 5 o'clock a. m., New York time. Next comes the New York market, closing at 5 o'clock New York time. Then, at 7 at night, the Singapore market opens. —and that is the wildcat market of them all, at Singapore, the place where rubber comes from. So, when New York suddenly becomes excited and sends rubber prices up Singapore catches the news before 7 that night, and Singapore merrily makes muddle worse. The dealers there seem to go way, way up in the air. One reason for Singapore's activity is that very little rubber is in storage there, at the source, at any time.

Could Keep It Here

"Here, we could keep crude rubber for years in good condition, if we used proper methods of protection against light and heat. But they can't keep rubber out there at the source, close to the equator, and they simply have to get rid of it promptly. So when they get excited, at the source of supply, prices go away up and the rubber market is just as sleepless when prices go down. There are three shifts to work it down.

"Next to rubber, the commodity of which we buy the most is cotton; but, though cotton prices vary considerably they never can equal rubber in that respect,—and we buyers could have a chance to sleep if cotton were our only concern. The cotton market opens in London at 5 in the morning, New York time, and close, in New York about the time New Yorkers usually quit business. Then the market is really closed for that day. It may run an hour or so longer in Chicago or farther west, but about 12 hours contsitute a cotton market day. So, if a rumor of a change in cotton arises during the day, people have a chance to get quited down that night, to consult each other and their banks, and usually we are able to prevent radical and sudden changes in cotton.

Willys '70' Is Making Steady Sales Increases

Half-year figures on production of the Willys-Knight "seventy" released recently by officials of the company at Toledo indicate that that new model has steadily enjoyed a substantial increase since its introduction at the New York automobile show last January. It is also brought out that production on the "seventy" at the factory has been stepped up in an effort to cope with the unusual demand.

The month the car was introduced there were more than 1,000 orders received. At that time production was merely getting under way. In March, records show that 2,020 "seventies" were shipped while in April that figure swelled to 5,153. May shipments increased to 5,296 and June 1 more than 6,050 orders were received at the factory. This shows that sales of this new model have increased more than six times in the six months it has been on the market.

Factory officials declare that every effort is being turned toward production increase of the "seventy" in order that prompt delivery might be made.

Unusual Balance Allows Overland Speed and Power

The unusual balanced units of the Oxerland Six Standard sedan are responsible for its roadability while traveling at high rates of speed, according to announcements recently made by engineers of the Willys-Overland company at Toledo.

Designers of this car have so evenly balanced every important unit and the car itself is so low hung that there is very little "top motion" and "side sway" when the sedan is being driven at speeds which usually hamper cars of other designs in rough driving.

The low center of gravity and the direct drive from the motor to the rear axle are important factors in attaining the maximum speed with great handling ease.

In a recent test the Overland Six Standard was operated around a hair pin turn at 55 miles per hour with a side sway of only two inches as indicated by the tracks in loose sand especially scattered over the pavement to make the test. Another car with body of higher clearance was then driven at 45 miles per hour around the same turn with wheel displacement of more than 13 inches, proving the tendency to "top motion."

The lining up of the Overland motor with the rear axle also affords quicker and more efficient response in acceleration.

Scientists Sail on New Far-North Expedition

Another expedition into the far north gets under way this month—the American Museum of Natural History's scientific cruise. No attempt will be made to reach the pole, as the aim of the expedition is simply to study animal and plant life in the arctic. Photos show Captain Robert Bartlett, Carl Durad and the converted Newfoundland fishing schooner, "Morrisey" in which the voyage will be made. Captain Bartlett was a member of Peary's 1909 Pole expedition and is, today, the only living white man who has come within 100 miles of the North Pole on foot. Carl Durad plans to use his famous lariat on muskox and walrus.

Rickenbacker Is Women's Favorite

DETROIT, Mich., June 12.—The Rickenbacker car seems to have a special appeal to the women drivers of America, of which there are millions," declared B. F. Everitt, president and general manager of the Rickenbacker Motor company, Detroit, Mich.

When you stop to consider all of the facts this is a perfectly natural outcome. To begin with, the Rickenbacker is exceedingly easy to handle. No other car in my opinion steers so smoothly. No effort at all is required to handle the wheel. This of course is due to special steering mechanism worked out by our own engineers and is one of the outstanding features that has made Rickenbacker one of the great sellers of the season.

"Easy steering nowadays is paramount in everyone's mind, for with our present crowded traffic conditions and with the parking problem becoming more complex every day, a woman likes to feel that she can have a car which requires no muscular effort to control and handle.

"Then too, the interior of the Rickenbacker was laid and designed by a very well-known artist. This means color effects and trimmings are not only of the very finest material but are matched in a most pleasing way. Upholstering material hardware and general inside finish all blend into perfect harmony.

"Not only is the interior of a Rickenbacker good to look at but it is restful and made to stand the wear of children that might be continually climbing in and out.

"The famou Rickenbacker six motor, which is especially designed and built entirely in our own shops, is one of the sweetest running power plants ever placed in a chassis. Pickup is instantaneous and noiseless. It goes when you want it to go—and it goes like lightning when you want speed.

"One can run the Rickenbacker motor week in and week out indefinitely and under the most trying circumstances, and not once will it be necessary to give it any mechanical attention. It is as fool-proof as a modern motor can be.

FARMER'S FIRST VISIT TO CHICAGO HIS LAST

CHICAGO.—"You can put it down in black and white that I am never coming to this town again," was the farewell of Joseph Swinger, an Indiana farmer when he was put on a train and started for home after a stormy 10 hours here—his first visit to a large city. A few hours after he arrived a pickpocket stole his watch. A few minutes later he thought he saw the man who got his watch and accused him. He was soundly thrashed and left lying in the gutter by the indignant pedestrian he had accused. Undiscouraged, he accused another and caused such a row that he was arrested for disorderly conduct. Arraigned in court, he told his story and was discharged, but asked that a policeman escort him to his train. This was done.

NASH RECORD MADE IN MAY

Month Just Ending Has Enviable Figure on Sales Books

May hung up another record for Nash production and sales! The month just ended showed a gain of 44.3 per cent over the sales record of May, 1925, and was the twenty-first consecutive month, with one exception, that Nash production and sales exceeded the figure established in the same month of the previous year.

"In connection with the Nash sales and production record for may," said E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of the Nash Mootrs Company, "it is interesting to note that although 1925 was the biggest year in Nash history, we have built and shipped more cars in the frst five months of this year—from January 1 to May 31—than were built and shipped the first eight and one-half months of last year—January 1 to September 15. This is 14,419 more cars than were produced by Nash Motors in the entire year 1924.

"The Nash dealer contract year begins September 1, and in nine months from that date to May 31, Nash Motors has built and shipped the dealer organization 101,402 cars."

Chevrolet Used To Handle Novel 'Tram' Efficiently

Described by veteran circus men as "the most novel advance car ever sent out by a traveling show," a replica of a railroad locomotive on a one-ton Chevrolet truck chassis, hauling a minature railroad coach on a tour of 12 states with the Morris and Castle circus.

The passenger coach also serves as a ticket and band wagon and is a feature of the parades in every town where the circus exhibits.

Traversing country roads and city streets, th estrange looking "trackless train has been the center of it has appeared.

Plans supplied by the Kansas City Southern railroad enabled Brownlee Wells Motors, Inc., Chevrolet dealers in Shreveport, La., headquarters of the circus, to ouild the locomotive over the chevrolet truck chassis. It is an exact duplicate of one of the big road's "Moguls" and is strikingly realistic. The locomotive was christened "Shreveport" by the request of the Shreveport chamber of commerce.

The advance man of the show, press representative, contract man and a band of 16 men find accomodations in the passenger coach during their travels. Ample room, assuring riding comfort on the long tour, has been provided. After leading the parade preceding exhibitions, the train is set up as the official ticket office at the circus grounds.

Harley-Davidson Puts a Stop To Speed and Thrills

Although the motorcycle industry has practically been built on racing and stunt riding, there is one motorcycle manufacturere who has announced a policy absolutely free from activy participation in any race meet in the future. Speaking of this unusual discussion, Walter Davidson, president of the Harley-Davidson Motor company, Milwaukee, said "while it is true that the motorcycle industry has largely depended for publicity in the past, on racing and the thrills of freak performances, I want to say the motorcycle would be far more popular now, if we had never indulged in this type of promotional work. The public has been given an entirely incorrect impression of motorcycling and it will cost us thousands of dollars to overcome the prejudice we have built up through speed events and dangerous stunt riding. That the motorcycle has a practical use is proven by the fact that this mode of travel is far more popular and in more general use in foreign countries than automobiling. Registrations show there are more motorcycles in use in some countries of Europe than automobiles. Because we want to interest the masses in this form of power travel, we are absolutely refusing to lend factory aid to any race meet, or stunt event. Of course this is quite a drastic change in policy and many of our loyal riders and sales representatives do not quite understand our attitude but time will prove to them we are correct. We have been besieged by dealers and riders alike to enter the Fourth of July races to be held at Altoona, Pa., especially in view of the brilliant Harley-Davidson victories on that track last year. Our answer has been "no" to all who have approached us. Of course there probably will be Harley-Davidson machines in the race at Altoona July Fourth, but they will be entered and piloted by private owners without any aid from our factory.

HIS DAUGHTER - By FANNIE HURST

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

Copyright, 1926, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

WHEN the daughter and only surviving relative of the Old Man died, she would have welcomed the end except for the heart break of leaving him.

Life had been none too kind to this family. The daughter died at forty-eight, a victim of overwork, exposure, and the kind of debility which results from all of the deprivations that go with poverty.

But at least she had managed, for the last ten years of her life, to keep body and soul of herself and her father together. He was feeble long before his time. A decent, quiet gentleman, who had always held white-collared positions as clerk, book-agent, and, in the later years, as a sort of glorified office boy in the outer room of a wholesale jewelry firm.

Then his strength began to go so that his feebleness was apparent and, for the ten years before the death of his daughter, the Old Man had led the docile life of one destined to end his days in a sunshiny corner in the house.

The daughter saw to that. Their little flat had a rocker in the window. She worked all day in a wholesale millinery establishment, but there was time before she left to see to his breakfast and the Old Man was still hardy enough to do the marketing of a morning. On her way home evenings she marketed a little on the side, usually for his favorite green or a cream puff for his sweet tooth.

They made out very well, these two. The daughter, a lone starveling of a spinster with a high love of duty and a passionate starveling's love for the gentle old man she called Father.

That was why she left off living so reluctantly. For three weeks after the heavy fore wheels of a motor truck had passed across her body as she was returning one evening from her day's work, this daughter of a drab destiny battled against the tide that was sweeping her away from the gentle old man who needed her. She did not want to die. She did not dare to die. But that is the prattle of humans and must go down before the irrefutable fact of death.

On the last night of the third week she died. With her lips set bitterly against surrender and her hand in her father's, as if up to the last she would give him every ounce of her protection.

It was a bitter death, filled with passionate prayers for the protection and the safety of this gentle old man she must leave behind. The kind of protection he needed. The sheltered, sunny life of a gentleman. She died praying for that.

The kind of protection he needed. Poor old soul, within a month after her death, life was like a turbulent storm-at-sea about him. Buffeting him. Knocking him flat. Giving him ironic breathing space to pick himself up again and then once more knocking him flat.

Within two months the white-collar old gentleman was without any collar at all, but mercifully the sandwich board which he carried helped conceal the omission.

Every morning at nine he reported at the furrier's and donned the double brace of board by sliding his old neck into it like a horse into harness.

SIMON KATZ

will repair your furs

CHEAP.

Thus read the fore and the aft of the white-haired old man who straggled his way along the city blocks from nine o'clock until five.

Without the collar, his neck where it was full of the wattles of old flesh was as lean as a picked old turkey gobbler's. His shoes began to go, too, and the edges of his trousers to fray.

Surely a daughter's prayers had never seemed more in vain. At night when the old man undressed in a ward of fifteen-cent cots, he thought of this daughter and the years of her immaculate care of him and cried with feeble little retching noises that disturbed the other lodgers and made them abusive.

The furrier named Simon Katz was kind enough, and sometimes on bitterly cold days gave him a bowl of soup off the top of the stove in the rear of the store. But with a shop twelve feet wide and a stock of furs that filled only half a shelf, Katz had seven little mouths to feed and little enough to spare.

The winter came in like the lash of a whip. It cut the old man as he walked huddled between the protection of the sandwich boards so that his face and hands bled.

It was a terrible, stark, lone-wolf of a winter. Sometimes, when he passed the theatre a few blocks from the fur shop, a matinee was ready to begin, or was letting out.

It made him sob beneath the vise of the sandwich boards. Sob for weakness and heart sickness for the daughter who had once kept life warm and even a little gay for him. The sobs shook the boards and made the name of Katz dance.

It must have been that some of the heart-ache and the pain and the tears of the daughter of the old man were caught up in the wind of one of these bitter afternoons, or why, of all people, should one of the frivolous, gay ones of life, hurrying out of the stage entrance of the theatre where she played leading role, have found time to pause, as she stepped into her motor, at the spectacle of the old gentleman, meandering between his boards? She had probably seen him half a dozen times before as she rushed to and fro.

It must have been that the wind of some of the sighs of the old gentleman's daughter blew against her fresh young face as she stepped out from her matinee to her motor this winter-swept afternoon.

The spectacle of him pushing forward with his bent old knees cut her like a knife. Gave her pause.

At first, the impulse was to give him her purse with a roll of new bills in it. It was something, however, one did not do to an old gentleman like that, with a white handkerchief folded across his neck where there should have been collar and the frayed edges of his trousers honed down with a pen knife.

One drew him back into the stage door instead, and offered him a position. An entirely fictitious position manufactured on the spot into reality.

The popular actress needed an overseer for her house in the country. Just some one to sleep and eat and browse on the place during the winter and tinker in the garden during summer. He looked the part. Would he?

That was how, for the remaining eight years of his life, the old gentleman lived in the sunny little lodge of an actress's country estate called Welcome. He had three rooms, and the second chambermaid from the big house kept him in order and brought his meals, piping hot, in a covered basket three times a day.

The actress was very strict about that. Every week or so when she came to bring him flowers and sweets and magazines, she inquired sternly if he had carried out his schedule of duties.

In summer, the old gentleman pottered in the garden and the actress had a picket fence built around the Lodge so that within those confines was his own private territory, and not even the actress would trespass without knocking first, quite elaborately, against the paling.

Within this sun-drenched little enclosure, the old gentleman did his gardening. Sometimes he sent the actress a basket full of his beans or lettuce. It was a labor of pride the like of which he had never known.

Sometimes, for hours at a time, the old gentleman sat in his garden and thought of his daughter and prayed that she knew of his peace on earth.
