McNamara Says US To Cancel Army Reserve To Balance US Guard

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced plans today to wipe out all Army Reserve units and merge some with the National Guard. He said this will bring the Reserve-Guard system "into balance with the contingency war plans."

He told a news conference this "means there will be no more units in the Reserve," although individuals who are not in units transferred to the Guard will still be available for callup.

He said he had instructed Secretary of the Army Stephen Ailes to prepare plans for realigning the Reserve and Guard forces "to improve significantly the early deployment capability and combat readiness of the United States Reserve forces."

He estimated this latest reorganization would result in savings of about $150 million per year.

"The realignment program," McNamara said, "will involve the transfer of the unit structure of the Army Reserve into the National Guard, and the elimination of all units for which there is no military requirement.

"The Army Reserve will consist of individuals rather than units and will provide individual trainees for summer camp and mobilization.

"Under the plan, the paid drill strength will be 550,000 well-equipped, well-trained officers and men."

This, McNamara said, would compare with the total of 700,000 now in the two reserve organizations — 400,000 in the Guard and 300,000 in the Reserve.

McNamara said that Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, will develop the detailed plans.

He gave this summary of the program:

1. The new force structure will consist exclusively of units "for which there is a military requirement, including combat and combat support units together with base mobilization base units such as training divisions and garrison detachments."

He said this will require a paid drill strength of about 550,000 men.

2. Five independent brigades will be added to the 11 now in the structure. These could be deployed either as full brigades or in association with other units.

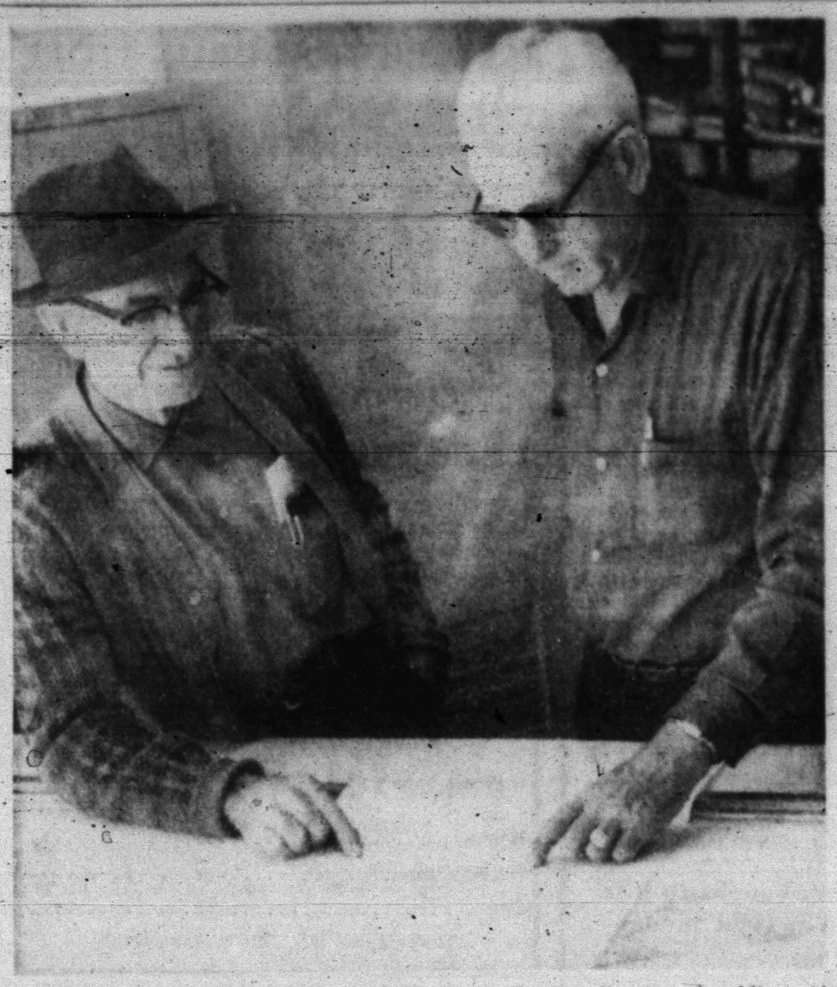

3. The entire force would be included in the structure for which the Army procures equipment. As a result, equipment for two additional divisions and five additional brigades would be needed.

4. The Reserve and guard units will merge under management of the National uard.

5. The U. S. Army Reserve would consist "entirely of individuals rather than units and would provide individual trainees for the units at summer camp or upon mobilization."

6. The individual trainee program would be increased to the extent that improved operational readiness justified the additional cost.

7. Other actions needed to increase the readiness of units will be reviewed in the study.

PLANNING HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT—Doug Fowler, director of public works for the city, and Joe Middleton, maintenance construction foreman for the Texas Highway Department, discuss the changes to be made at the Lubbock Highway-Clairemont Road-Thirteenth Street intersection. Relocation of street lights, traffic signals and utilities are all required when such projects are undertaken.

SERIOUS INJURIES including a broken back were sustained by Mrs. Annie Scrivner, 59, of Dermott at about 3:15 p.m. Friday, just north of Snyder on the Lubbock Highway when her auto crossed the highway and struck a pole on the east side of the road. Officers theorized that Mrs. Scrivner had "blacked out" since there was no evidence she had tried to avoid the pole. She was taken to Cogdell Hospital by Bell-Seale Ambulance Service.

Work Set At Traffic Bottleneck

As the result of a survey taken by the Texas Highway Department at the intersection of Thirteenth Street and Avenue S, a change will soon be made in the routing of traffic through that intersection.

The survey, which was requested by the City of Snyder, showed that the amount of traffic there warranted immediate action to separate the Clairemont Road traffic and the traffic on the Lubbock Highway.

Both roads are main arteries to entrances on the Highway 84 by-pass, and since completion of that by-pass, traffic on the Clairemont Road has shown a decided increase.

Since the need is immediate, the work will be done as a maintenance project rather than as new construction, which would call for a bid - letting, and considerable more time.

In order to make the three-way intersection safer, three raised concrete islands, one concrete median strip, and one island of raised asphalt stripes will be built.

Joe Middleton, maintenance construction foreman, said that not only will the traffic be better controlled, but a better and more attractive entrance to the city from the highway would result from the construction work.

Survey work has been completed, and actual construction work is expected to begin in a few weeks.

Students To Study Taxes

Snyder High School is among the 1700 schools in Texas that are training students in how to prepare their income tax returns this year. Principal Ben Brock says that 95 students will receive several hours income tax instruction early in February. In Texas, 235,000 students will get this training. The free material furnished by the Internal Revenue Service will be taught by teachers Wm. J. Hartsfield, J. C. Jackson and Wm. R. McMullan.

Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue in the Northern half of Texas feels that the schools and teachers are doing an outstanding job with the simple tax course.

He explained, "Taxpayer's pay 97 per cent of all federal taxes through voluntary compliance. Teaching Taxes teaches the student to pay all the taxes he owes. It also teaches him to keep records and take all the deductions he has coming to him. The course teaches students to pay the right amount — no more, no less. We started offering free materials to our nation's schools 12 years ago. Last year 88,000 teachers taught 3½ million students in approximately 25,000 schools throughout the nation. Students taking this course make only one fourth as many errors as their parents make on their tax returns."

CRMWD To Present Case For New Lake

The Colorado River Municipal Water District goes to bat Monday on its amended application to impound a 488,000 acre foot lake immediately northwest of Robert Lee in Coke County.

After six years of planning the district goes before the Texas Water Commission with its proposal to secure a water supply to meet the needs of an 11-county area in West Texas. The request, however, will find opposition from several quarters, notably the Lower Colorado River Authority, the huge water hegemony stretching from the Highland lakes country to the Gulf. What might have been a routine hearing a few years ago now will find such interest that the TWC had moved the hearing from the usual quarters to the much larger Room 117 in the Sam Houston Office Building.

Charles B. Perry, president of CRMWD, will be the lead - off witness in presentation of the application, followed by J. W. Buchanan, chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce water resources committee to file the WTCC's statement of water needs in West Texas. H. C. Avery, mayor of Midland, County Judge W. W. Thetford of Coke County, Mayor Robert D. Vaughn, Robert Lee, Mayor Royce Lee, Bronte, or Ulmer S. Bird, Robert Lee, and other mayors and city commissioners also are expected to file statements.

This will be followed by E. V. Spence, general manager of the CRMWD, S. W. Freese, member of the consulting engineering firm of Freese, Nichols and Endress; Leary Eeds and Bob Gooch, also members of the same firm. Ed Reed, Midland, will file statements about the district's findings and program on salt water pollution.

All members of the CRMWD board, along with other officials from the area and from member cities are due to be present.

Snyder City Officials attending will be Mayor J. Mark McLaughlin, Councilman M. L. Broman and Marshall Erwin, and City Manager L. A. Patterson.

Board members include Perry, J. L. Rhoades, P. C. Harbour and W. E. Bruce of Odessa; Robert W. Currie, H. W. Wright, Dr. Lee Rogers and John L. Taylor of Big Spring; Dr. John Blum, W. A. McGlaun, Rex Fields and Lyle Deffebach of Snyder. Elbert Hooper, Austin, and James Rosser, Snyder, will be attorneys for the district.

Mitchell County interests have filed resolutions of protest on the grounds that moving the lake from the site pegged in the original application would retard development of Mitchell County. County Judge Elmer Martin will lead several from Colorado City as well as the mayors of Westbrook and Lo-

NY Cubans Sifted For Guilty Exiles

NEW YORK (AP) — Police pushed a massive hunt among the city's many Cuban exile groups today in hopes of turning up the persons responsible for firing a bazooka shell at the United Nations Building.

The shot fell short of its mark and exploded harmlessly in the East River Friday.

The FBI assigned a sizable force to the case. The Central Intelligence Agency and the intelligence services of the Army, Navy and Air Force also reportedly were in on the hunt.

Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy assured Mayor Robert F. Wagner of an "intense police department investigation to seek out and apprehend the perpetrators." The mayor relayed the promise to Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador at the U.N.

The bazooka firing, which may have been the work of anti-Castroites, came as a Cuban minister was addressing delegates inside the U.N. Building.

An instant later, from a crowd of some 50 anti-Castro pickets in front of the U.N., a woman brandishing a hunting knife sprang toward the building, bent on assassinating the Cuban minister, Ernesto Guevara. She was subdued by police.

Guevara reacted coolly when he learned he had been her target. He said he forgave her, adding: "It is better to be killed by a woman with a knife than by a man with a gun."

Four hours after the bazooka shot, two men broke from the picket line and cut the rope on the Russan flagpole, sending the Soviet emblem falling to the ground. The two were arrested.

The bazooka was found on a Queens pier, a paper Cuban flag pasted on it. The shell was lobbed about 850 yards before it fell into the water about 100 yards from the Manhattan shore and the U.N. Building.

The blast sent up a 15-foot geyser witnessed by some U.N. observers in the building and by boatmen on the river.

The General Assembly session, which Guevara had been addressing at the time, went on undisturbed by the muffled roar outside.

Authorities Crack Huge Dope Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal authorities say they have cracked an international dope dope smuggling ring that brought more than $25 million worth of cocaine into the United States in the past few months.

Officers arrested two women here Friday, said two men had been taken into custody in Chile, and identified four other suspects. A ninth person was arrested here last week with $5-million worth of cocaine—the first break in the case.

Union Goals Told By Representative

AUSTIN (AP)—A legal minimum wage of $2 per hour, a 35-hour work week and double time for overtime work are goals of organized labor during the next Congress, the chief representative of the national AFL-CIO said Friday.

He is former Rep. Andrew Biemiller of Wisconsin.

Saturday, Dec. 19, has been set as the last day for the receiving of referrals or applications for Goodfellow aid this year.

But the Goodfellows aren't waiting for that date to start getting ready. Every day they sort and prepare the donations of toys, food and clothing that have already come in to the headquarters at 1909 Twenty-fifth Street. Right now the Goodfellows say that the biggest shortage of clothing is in children's sizes, especially coats and shoes.

Cash donations to the Goodfellows are being received at both banks, or may be mailed to Box 661.

NO MORE POLITICS

Ultimatum Goes To Juan Peron

MADRID (AP) — Argentine ex-President Juan Peron's ill-fated move early this month to return home brought an ultimatum today from the Spanish government: give up politics or leave Spain within a month.

The government also expelled all of Peron's political collaborators for helping engineer the abortive try to return to South America.

The government decision was announced by Manuel Fraga, minister of information and tourism.

Peron was informed by letter, delivered to his hotel at Torremolinos in southern Spain.

It was understood that he was expected to answer promptly in writing. But his associates said "he will need some time to think it over caretully."

Newsmen were barred by police from approaching Peron.

Sources close to the former strongman expected he would abide by the ultimatum. Peron had been under pressure from his Argentine followers to return this year and some sources said Peron now could point out that he had tried and resume his comfortable life in exile.

Peron, 69, flew to Rio de Janeiro on Dec. 2. But Brazilian authorities, who said they were acting at the request of Argentina, ordered the airline to return Peron to Madrid.

Sources in Madrid said the Spanish government was embarrassed by the flight.

"We do not want to act as Peron's wardens any more," said Fraga.

Peron's reaction was not available. He was at a hotel at Torremolinos in southern Spain, where he has been under police guard since his return from Rio. He was granted residence in Spain in 1960 on the understanding that he would not publicly involve himself in politics.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable divorced woman, 48 years of age. At a drop-in type cocktail party I met a very personable looking gentleman. He said he was also unattached, and by his own jolly admission was "pushing 60."

We had a few laughs, danced a while and then he invited me to his apartment. I was taken back and refused. Was I being mid - Victorian? He didn't say what he had in mind. If he'd even said he wanted to show me his etchings or a collection of something, I might have reacted differently. When he left, he didn't ask for my telephone number. At my age prospects are not too plentiful. Now I am sorry I didn't go. I've never gone to a man's apartment and didn't wnat him to think I was "that type." Was I foolish?

SORRY NOW

DEAR SORRY: I doubt if the man had any etchings, a stamp collection, medals from World War II, or other things women are invited to men's apartments to see, but seldom do. A man who, by his own "jolly admission," is pushing 60 probably figures he doesn't have much time to waste. You used good judgment. If he's anything special, you'll see him again. If he was only on the prowl for instant romance — who needs him?

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I have gotten up every morning of my life for the past 50 years and started fires in the coal and wood stove while my husband stayed in bed and slept. I also took care of the children without any help from him. I even carried the wood and water myself. Don't you think it is time he got up and waited on me for a change? Or am I supposed to go on like this for the rest of my life, and keep my mouth shut, just to avoid a fight?

NO SPRING CHICKEN

DEAR NO: You may be no spring chicken, but neither is your husband a dumb cluck. After being waited on for 50 years he is thoroughly spoiled, and you spoiled him. So don't expect to teach that old dog any new tricks.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I spend half my life going back to restaurants where my wife and I have dined in order to retrieve things my wife has left behind. How can I break her of forgetting things like gloves, scarves, handkerchiefs, packages, etc., on dining room tables, chairs and floors?

MR. BEAGLE

DEAR MR. BEAGLE: Before leaving the restaurant with your wife, present her with a check list. Purse? Scarf? Handkerchief? Compact? Lipstick? Wrap? Earrings? Pill box? Gloves? Packages? Head? Husband?

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I have seen many letters in your column from women who have waited for a married man to divorce his wife for them, but most of them never do. Have you ever heard from a woman who has waited and finally got her man I would like to see a few because I am not sure whether I should keep on waiting.

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: I heard from two this morning. One said, "After my sweetheart divorced his wife and married me, he started to cheat on me just like he used to cheat on her. It was a 'habit' he couldn't break, and since I had helped him form it, I shouldn't complain." The other woman said that she waited 14 years for her man. And now she is playing nursemaid to a sick old "geezer" whose wife took him for all he was worth and threw him out.

I'll Also Wear Gray Hubert Says Suitably

WASHINGTON (AP) — In some circles when the boss wears a gray suit you wear a gray suit. And so it will be with Hubert H. Humphrey on his first day as vice president.

"He's going to wear what the President wears, of course," his office announced Friday, a day after word came from the White House that on inaugural day, Jan. 20, President Johnson will wear an Oxford gray business suit.

A few days ago Humphrey, anticipating the usual more formal morning dress attire, had gone to a tailor to get measured for such. No problem, the tailor, Sam Scogna, told a reporter. "I hadn't even started on the suit."

Udall Speaks In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall says Dallas, since the assassination of President Kennedy, "has gone a long way to winning back the respect of the country."

Here to address the Greater Dallas Democrats, he said Friday that the city could well have "talked about people in glass houses" in answering criticism after Kennedy was killed.

Dallas, however, "made an attempt to present a new face," he said. "Dallas has turned the corner."

The secretary said he will go to the Guadalupe Mountains area from Dallas. He predicted that unless something unforeseen occurs, the area will be approved as Texas' third national park area.

He is also to visit Pade Island, one of the other park areas, early next year.

raine in testifying to this effect. The Upper Colorado River Authority, which has representatives from Sterling, Tom Green, Coke and Runnels Counties, will file a resolution asking that water needs of Coke and Runnels Counties be met, and that surplus be available to the others. Two members of the UCRA board opposed the resolution and wanted to support the CRMWD.

The Colorado Waters Users Association, a group of those with riparian rights in Runnels County, and the Runnels County Irrigation Company also have filed statements asking their rights be protected. The CRMWD previously had given assurances that it would comply with the law in every respect.

Protests from interests lying below this point increase with frequency and intensity. The LCRA, under leadership of Sim Gideon, has marshalled a host of opposing resolutions from individuals to shopping centers, from tourist lodges to rice irrigators. Burnett, Marble Falls, Austin and Bay City are among the protesting municipalities, and the LCRA is expected to be the major protestant. Gideon has pictured the CRMWD and other potential dams as drying up the LCRA, and news stories in Austin papers have viewed the CRMWD proposal as a hazard to Austin's supply.

The CRMWD began work on securing a second lake on the Colorado River when it became apparent in 1958 that Lake J. B. Thomas would not be ample to meet the needs of the area. Its reserve now is committed. The Texas Board of Water Engineers, predecessors of the Texas Water Commission, studied an application filed in 1959 for a full year, and then granted a permit to the CRMWD for a lake in 1960. This, however, was conditioned on the demonstrated ability of the CRMWD to show it could control and abate a severe salt water pollution problem which otherwise would make a lake infeasible.

Contending that the principal source of pollution was oilfield brines, the CRMWD was successful in obtaining a no open disposal order from the Texas Railroad Commission. Then it entered into a contract with Sun Oil Company to take 1,000,000 gallons a day of highly saline water the district plans to trap from the normal low flow of the river, substantially reducing the chlorides. When test borings were sunk on the Mitchell site, engineers became concerned by strata of gypsum which in their opinion rendered it undesirable. The next practical site was just above Robert Lee, which tested out all right. Moreover, by asking to hold the additional 80,000 acre feet of high quality water the new location would provide, the chloride content of the new lake would be diluted to the point of being acceptable even in longest drought periods.

If granted a permit, the CRMWD is ready to start at once on the project. It has approximately a million and a half dollars available for prompt start so there would be no delay due to arranging finances for the $12,800,000 to $14,000,000 project. As has its previous programs, this one will be financed privately without state or federal aid.

Tshombe Ends Visit

ROME (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo concluded today a Rome visit marked by wild Communist demonstrations. He thanked Italian police for protecting him "at the risk of their lives."

Then he flew to Munich, saying he would go back home from there. An aide explained, however, that Tshombe would spend several days in Munich and visit Bonn before returning to Leopoldville.

He was reported hoping to obtain investments and financial help in Germany, as he had done in Italy. Before leaving Rome, he told newsmen his government would assure the security of foreign investments and respect concessions to foreign firms, such as mining grants.

Truck Hits Pole; Breaks Power Line

The Snyder police department investigated a mishap at 3:50 p.m. Friday on the old Colorado City Highway near East Thirty-seventh Street.

Involved was a 1960 Ford pickup driven by Sidney Webb of Snyder. Police reported that the truck struck a utility pole.

The driver received minor injuries, and was taken to Cogdell Hospital by Bolger Ambulance Service for examination. The truck received an estimated $350 damage.

A power line on the pole was broken and fell to the ground, starting a grass fire and interrupting electrical service to a limited area for a time. Sheriff's deputy Preston Wilson had extinguished the fire by use of a hand extinguisher before the fire department arrived.

Murphy, Salinger Swap Jobs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California Sen. Pierre Salinger and Senator-elect George Murphy are swapping jobs.

Salinger is resigning three days early to go into the movie business.

And old show business pro Murphy is heading for Washington early — to plop into Salinger's Senate seat while it's still warm.

Democrat Salinger lost to Republican Murphy in November after a bitter campaign. But on the altar of seniority, for the good of the golden state — the two Friday shrugged off old insults.

Salinger called a news conference to say he had finally decided among a host of job offers Jan. 1 he becomes vice president of National General Corp., a theater, movie-making and closed-circuit television firm.

And, said Salinger, he was resigning from the Senate Dec. 31, and Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown was appointing Murphy to fill the term — which would give Murphy seniority over other freshman senators taking office Jan. 3.

Murphy — who was saying last Nov. 2 "I am tired of Salinger's bad manners and his arrogance" — quickly commended Salinger for his "kind gesture."

PBPA Deplores Curbs, Imports

MIDLAND — The Permian Basin Petroleum Association will support IPAA positions on oil imports, and its executive committee has endorsed the CEDOT - TIPRO sponsored pooling bill.

The action was taken at a meeting of the executive committee here Dec. 8.

The executive committee also voted to withhold further action on FPC Examiner Wenner's initial decision on area gas pricing until the January meeting. It was the unanimous opinion of the committee members that all citizens should take a more militant attitude toward the growing tendency for control evidenced by both the FPC and the Interior Department.

"PBPA must deplore the continuing disinterest of Secretary of the Interior Udall and Assistant Secretary Kelly in the well being of the domestic petroleum industry as evidenced by the release of the latest import quotas," declared PBPA President J. W. Hunt.

He recalled that an increase of imports by 75,000 barrels of oil daily followed the May meeting, and now an increase of over 28,000 BOD following the November meeting indicated that it would be best not to hold further meetings with Udall and Kelly.

"In our own and the nation's best interest, we are calling on Gov. Campbell of New Mexico, Gov. Connally of Texas, Sens. Anderson and Montoya of New Mexico, Sens. Yarborough and Tower of Texas, along with all Congressmen from both states to seek relief through executive order, or this failing, through direct Congressional action. Telegrams voicing PBPA's protests are going forward to both President Johnson and to Sec. Udall.

PBPA standing committee appointments were announced as follows: R. M. Leibrock, liaison; Wilbur Yeager, statistical and engineering; Hamilton E. McRae, legal; John Ben Shepperd, policy; J. Kirk Cansler, tax; W. T. Edwards, annual meeting. The membership chairman's post still is to be filled.

Bronze plaques were presented past presidents, W. R. Edwards, 1963, and R. M. Leibrock, 1964. Joseph I. O'Neill, 1962 president, was unable to be present and will receive his plaque at a later date.

Fugitives May Soon Lose Haven Of Brazil's Borders

By EDGAR MILLER

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A "not welcome" sign for American fugitives will be officially tacked up on Brazil's portals Thursday.

A long-delayed extradition treaty between the two countries goes into effect then, stripping Brazil of the last of its qualities as a paradise for well-heeled U. S. outlaws.

"Any more fugitives who come here will be nuts," says one U. S. official.

Under the treaty, Brazil is obliged to return any U. S. citizen accused or convicted of committing, trying to commit or participating in any of 32 crimes. These range from murder to piracy, robbery and bribery.

The United States is likewise obliged to return Brazilian citizens for these offenses.

Neither country need return one of its own citizens, a person under penalty of death or in danger of being put to death for his crime, or persons accused of political crimes. Brazil does not have the death penalty and insisted on that clause.

A combination of the lack of an extradition treaty, Brazil's warm climate, its easy-going people and frequently cooperative police has made Brazil a haven for wanted Americans.

One source estimates that in the peak years as many as seven or eight fugitives a year found their way to Brazil.

This average has dwindled as Brazil has slowly lost its status as an extradition-proof paradise. After a wave of unfavorable publicity over some big-time American fugitives who came here, Brazilian police decided to do something about the situation.

While they legally couldn't ship anybody home, the police found they were able to persuade many to accept a voluntarily one-way trip to New York instead of a possible jail sentence here.

Thus persuaded were two of the best-known fugitives.

One of them was Earl Belle, whose wonderworld of stock manipulations turned into a nightmare of fraud charges. Belle fled here in July 1958 and returned home a year ago after being implicated in a complicated bad-check ring. He pleaded guilty to banking and fraud charges at Pittsburgh and is serving a 2½-year term.

Lowell McAfee Birrell elected to return last April 23 after being here five years. He fled here after a $60-million stock manipulation empire crumbled.

When he first came to Brazil he was a free spender but he was broke when police convinced him life would be better in the United States. Four men indicted with him pleaded guilty in New York last May, and the government said they would testify against Birrell. No date has been set for the trial.

Others persuaded to return have included dope pushers, murderers, bank robbers and embezzlers. Most of these cases have gotten little publicity.

Many fugitives come here hastily without the proper preparation, money or legal documents. They run into language problems and can't get jobs. When the money runs out, many return on their own with no official intervention.

For others, the Brazilian authorities help a little by refusing to renew temporary visas.

This was the case for Edward M. Gilbert, who caught a Brazil-bound plane after converting to his own use nearly $2 million of the funds of E.L. Bruce Co. He pleaded guilty in New York but sentencing was deferred while he cooperates in a Securities and Exchange Commission inquiry.

A few fugitives remain in Brazil but police say they have all under surveillance and that they can be picked up momentarily if extradition proceedings are started.

One of those still here is Ben-Jack Cage, Dallas insurance man with a 10-year prison term awaiting him in Texas. Cage, convicted of embezzling $100,000 from his insurance company, fled here in 1958 while seeking an appeal.

Cage listed himself as a farmer and cattleman with a farm in Sao Paulo State and won citizenship in 1962 under a clause that permits agricultural workers to become citizens in three years.

The extradition treaty and Brazilian constitution prohibit the extradition of Brazilian citizens for any cause.

Cage's lawyer says he is involved with a group of "important American and Brazilian capitalists" to stimulate investment and foreign trade.

Extradition proceedings have been started by Texas authorities who contend Cage committed a crime prior to getting Brazilian citizenship.

All Favorites Fall In Three Playoff Tilts

Three games and three upsets in Arlington and Vidor takes on decided finalists in Class AA and San Marcos at Houston. one finalist in Class A in Texas' Palacios' semifinal victory schoolboy football Friday night. over Taylor in a battle of beating

All other teams in the eight with perfect records was the highlight of Friday night's action. Jerry Haynes led the Starks to victory with three touchdowns.

Three fumbles set up Palacios scores, one of them coming in the end zone where Trinidad Constancio fell on the ball when Rodney Marek dropped it.

Greg Garrett raced 5 yards for a touchdown to break open a tight Marlin-Denver City game and the Bulldogs got still another touchdown to hand Denver City a solid defeat. It marked the first time for Marlin to get into the finals—except one unauthorized time in 1926.

That was the year Marlin played Anson for the Class B championship — the only time there ever has been a title game in that division.

Interscholastic League rules said Class B schools played to bi-district championships but Kirk Curtis, coach of Anson, said it didn't prohibit their playing beyond that.

So Anson and Marlin met at Abilene and Anson won 3-0 to take the Class B championship.

The League changed the rule the next year to specify that Class B could not play beyond the bi-district.

Ingleside won a comparatively easy victory over Rosebud, scoring three touchdowns and stifling Rosebud both in the air and on the ground.

It is the second time for Ingleside to reach the finals. In 1962 it was beaten 39-6 by Rotan in the championship game.

Tuesday's games for the right with perfect records was the pioneering playoffs will be determined today as defending champion Garland of Class AAAA clashes with Amarillo Tascosa in the feature.

Marlin started the upset parade by knocking over undefeated, untied Denver City 22-7. Then Palacios surged up from the south to topple Taylor, also with a perfect record, 27-16 and thus determine the finalists of Class AA.

Marlin and Palacios battle next week for the state title.

Once - beaten Ingleside whammed undefeated, twice-tied Rosebud 14-0 to furnish one finalist in Class A. The other will come from today's game at Snyder between Big Lake and Archer City.

Tascosa and Garland clash in the Cotton Bowl today with 30,000—the third best crowd in schoolboy football history — watching the unbeaten, untied Amarillo team try to reverse a defeat suffered in last year's semifinals to the mighty Owls.

The other Class AAAA finalist will emerge from a game at Houston where Galena Park battles San Antonio Highlands. Undefeated, untied Galena Park was favored.

There also were prospects that some penalties would be exacted in recruiting cases. There are two of those, with one against Arkansas for exceeding the visitation limit.

A proposal to set athletic scholarships at two years with renewal rights was considered along with a renewal of the letter of intent agreement with the Big Eight Conference.

The Big Eight has a one-year limit on scholarships and wants the Southwest Conference to have one so that recruiting can be better equalized.

The conference may also take action in the NCAA-AAU dispute over control of amateur athletics in the nation. It favored the NCAA in a resolution passed two years ago.

Penn State Has Cage Powerhouse

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Nittany Lions of Penn State usually are associated with football powerhouses. Now they are beginning to be rec-oned with on a national scale in college basketball.

A year ago the John Egli-coached team lost six of its first 10 games, but closed the season with a rush by winning 12 of 13 games for an over-all 18-7. Penn State's best record in a decade.

The Nittany Lions opened this season with a one point defeat on the road to Maryland, 72-71. They bounced back at home with an 87-38 triumph over Syracuse to knock the Orange out of the Associated Press Top Ten.

They opened a rugged eight game road trip Friday night by defeating Kansas of the Big Eight 80-69 in the Sunflower doubleheader at Manhattan, Kan. Bob Weiss' shot from under the basket with 42 seconds left won the game and [illegible] Penn State cannot be underestimated.

The Lions play Kansas State at Lawrence, Kan., tonight. Next week they play at Gettysburg, at Temple and meet NYU in Baltimore before playing two games in the Motor City Classic at Detroit Dec. 28-29. Their eighth straight road game is at Duke Jan. 2.

Kansas State overcame Chicago Loyola 76-67 in the second game of the Sunflower twin bill while second-ranked Wichita whipped Brigham Young 83-78, seventh-ranked UCLA, the national champs, overwhelmed Arizona State 107-78, and Oklahoma City handed Wyoming its first defeat 88-80. Southern California opened a road trip by losing to North Carolina State at Greensboro, N.C. 67-58.

Kelly Pete's 28 points, 20 of them in the second half, sparked Wichita to its home court triumph over BYU. Pete threw in four baskets to break up a BYU rally after the Cougars had pulled to within 58-54.

UCLA, opening its home season, was led by Gail Goodrich's 23 points.

Celtics Up Division Lead To 5 Games

By The Associated Press

The champion Boston Celtics are beginning to pull away from the field in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association.

They whipped the Philadelphia 76ers 118-109 Friday night for their fourth straight victory and seventh in the last eight games. They now have won 22 against six defeats, two of which came earlier at the hands of the 76ers, and boast a five-game lead in the standings.

The Celtics took an early 13-point lead and then held off a 76er rally that cut the gap to four points at 106-102. Sam Jones, who scored 33 points, led a Boston spree at this point as the Celts pulled out of danger. Lucious Jackson was high for Philadelphia with 23 points.

The Detroit Pistons whipped the San Francisco Warriors 104-100 in the other NBA game scheduled Friday.

Player-Coach Dave DeBusschere pumped in five field goals in the last four minutes pacing the Piston victory.

Wilt Chamberlain, sidelined for two games with a broken nose, returned to the Warriors' line-up and scored 40 points for the losers.

In an offcourt development, it was disclosed that veteran Bob Pettit, star of the St. Louis Hawks, suffered a "questionable fracture" in his back when he fell during a game at Los Angeles Thursday. He will not be able to play tonight when the Hawks [illegible]

Two Eagles Highlight Meet Play

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) The gallery gasped when Dow Finsterwald, a standout on the men's professional golf tour for more than a decade, snapped a 60-yard wedge shot into the cup for an eagle.

Gloria Armstrong, a player of only modest accomplishment in feminine ranks, applauded politely. Then she lifted a nine-iron from her bag, took a crisp swing and holed out from 35 yards to match it.

The back-to-back eagles came on the 352-yard, 11th hole in Friday's second round of the $40,000 Scotch Mixed Foursome Tournament.

The event, sponsored by Haig & Haig, is the only one bringing men and women pros together in competition.

Finsterwald, trying to pull himself out of a slump, and Miss Armstrong shot six-under 66 Friday, the best round of the tournament to jump from a fifth place tie to a two-stroke lead.

First round leaders Julius Boros and Betsy Rawls took a 71 and dropped back into a four-way tie for second.

Shantz To Quit After 16 Seasons

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Six-foot wonder and 218 games pitcher, left-handed pitcher, Bobby Shantz is closing out his major league baseball career right where he started, in Philadelphia.

Shantz, 38, announced his retirement Friday, explaining that he no longer felt he could do the job the way he liked to do it.

Throughout his 12 years in the American League and four in the National, Shantz won a total of 119 games and lost 98. Noted as one of the best fielding pitchers in the game, he had won the Golden Glove every year since 1957.

The 5-foot-5½ southpaw from Pottstown, Pa., broke into the majors with the Philadelphia Athletics of the American League in 1949 and stayed with the A's through their move to Kansas City in 1954. During that stretch, in 1952, he had posted a 24-7 season record to be named the league's Most Valuable Player.

In 1957 he was traded to the New York Yankees and pitched for them through 1960.

In December, 1960, during the American League expansion, Shantz was drafted by Washington, which trading him two days later to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The following year, the National League expansion sent him to Houston in another draft. Shantz was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals in 1962. Early last year he was sent to the Chicago Cubs. The Phillies purchased him from the Cubs last August 15.

For his final season, Shantz had a won-lost record of 2-5 and was 1-1 with the Phils.

Giant-Brown Tilt Sets Last Week Of NFL Play

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Browns were heavily favored to win their first Eastern Division title in six years today, while the crippled New York Giants sought the upset of the National Football League season to salve some of the woes of their worst year in more than a decade.

The Giants' manpower was down but spirits were high going into the final weekend of regular season.

"It's just like the old days when we were getting ready for Cleveland," said kicking specialist Don Chandler. "Everybody is wary and a little angry."

For the Giants, who trail the Cards with a 7-5-1 record, a victory could only help heal their damaged pride. For the Browns, Eastern leader at 8-3-1, it could mean their first conference title since 1957.

The game at Yankee Stadium was scheduled for national (CBS-TV) television with the New York area blacked out.

Should the Giants fashion the upset of the season, the title race would go on the line in the Sunday game at St. Louis between the second-place Cardinals and Philadelphia. St. Louis, which upset the Browns, 28-19 last week, has an 8-3-1 record. Should the Browns lose and the Cards beat Philadelphia, St. Louis would take the Eastern title.

The other final regular season games Sunday have Green Bay at Los Angeles, Minnesota at Chicago, San Francisco at Detroit, Washington at Baltimore and Pittsburgh at Dallas.

In the American Football League, which has still another week to go, the Sunday slate has Buffalo at Denver, Kansas City at San Diego and New York at Houston. Oakland and Boston are idle.

Giant coach Allie Sherman nominated old warrior Y. A. Tittle to start at quarterback against the Browns.

"I welcome the chance—I want to play," said the 38-year-old quarterback who will be starting his 179th NFL game, a record.

The Giants have eight men out with injuries, while the Browns are at top strength. They have the most feared ground game in the league, built around Jimmy Brown, who had 1,356 yards rushing and needs only one touchdown to match Don Hutson's career record of 105. The air attack has good passing by Frank Ryan and excellent receivers in Paul Warfield and Gary Collins.

The Browns won an earlier meeting this season 42-20, including 28 points in the final quarter.

The Cards won't know their chances until that one is over. They will play the Eagles minus the services of fullback Joe Childress, but substitute Bill Thornton ran for 128 yards when St. Louis beat the Eagles, 38-13 earlier this season.

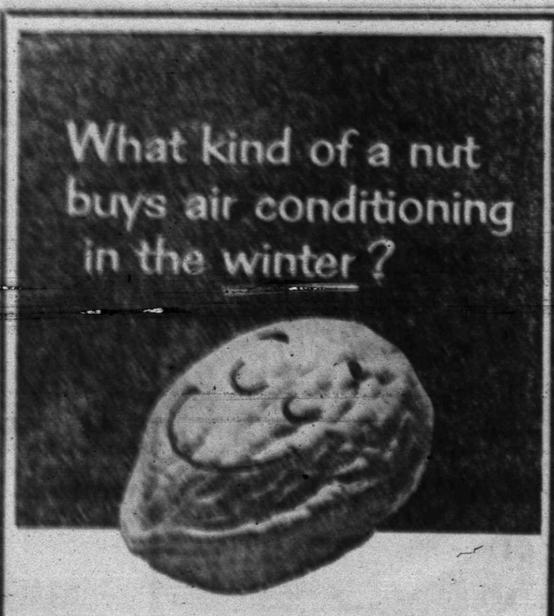

The only other important spot in contention is No. 2 in the West—Baltimore already has clinched the title—with Green Bay, 8-5, and Minnesota, 7-5-1, in contention.

Finals Set In Cowtown Tourney

FORT WORTH (AP) — Midwestern and Texas Wesleyan clash tonight for the Cowtown Collegiate Basketball Tournament championship.

Midwestern, with John Henry Young scoring 37 points, beat Tarleton State 85-58 Friday night to reach the finals. Texas Wesleyan got there with an 82-70 triumph over Sul Ross.

The Tigers were scheduled to meet Brownwood at 11:30 Saturday morning. The winner was to meet the Big Spring - Andrews victor at 7:30 for the championship, while the two losers were to vie for third place at 6 o'clock.

Five contests were unreeled Friday. In the last encounter Phillips set one of the hottest paces seen in Tiger Gym by trouncing Brownfield 109-84 to advance to the consolation finals which was scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Saturday. Her opponent was to be the winner of the Kermit - Breckenridge contest, which was set for 8:30 a. m. Saturday. The loser of the 8:30 affair was scheduled to play Brownfield at 3 p.m. for 7th place.

The Tigers jumped off to a 21-10 first quarter lead against the Buckeroos, and stretched it to 36-13 at halftime. The Bucks were held to only 3 points during the second frame. At one time the Tigers hit the nets for 13 points straight while Breckenridge failed to score.

The two teams battled on even terms during the second half, scoring 32 points each. Coach Underwood substituted freely, as evidenced by the fact that 10 Tigers hit the scoring column. Leslie Brown was high point man for Snyder with 17, followed by Jerry Vestal with 14 and Leslie Anderson who had 10. Gary Ditto and Joe Langford had 13 each to top the Buck scorers.

Yale In Defiance Of NCAA Ban

NEW YORK (AP) — Yale, announcing it would not be dictated to by any outside source, sent a token squad to an AAU track meet Friday night in defiance of an NCAA memorandum banning such activity.

Yale Athletic Director DeLaney Kiphuth said the Elis took the action "at the risk of whatever happens as a result.

"Yale does not intend to have its athletes used as weapons in this fight," he said, referring to the long-standing power struggle between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union over control of amateur athletics in this country.

The other seven members of the ancient Ivy League announced agreement in principle with Yale's action, the first defiance of an NCAA ban on collegiate athletes competing in meets not sanctioned by the U.S. Track and Field Federation.

The action came only a few hours after the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, representing 144 Eastern colleges and universities including the Ivies, had called for a coalition of the AAU and the NCAA-sponsored USTFF.

In Kansas City, NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers had no immediate comment.

His AAU counter-part, Col. Don Hull in New York said the ECAC proposal sounded rather unwieldy and difficult to administer. "Personally, I see no need for a coalition," he said.

And in Cleveland, USTFF President W. H. Crowley of Santa Clara said he was opposed to a coalition.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, the powerful Big Ten formally adopted a declaration of policy ruling any conference athlete ineligible if he participated in an event not sanctioned by one of the NCAA-sponsored federations, thus supporting the NCAA position.

The whole squabble started several years ago when the NCAA, representing the colleges, sought a larger voice in the selection and administration of its athletes who engage in international competition, such as the Olympics.

The AAU is recognized internationally as the administrative and sanctioning body for such competition and refused to relinquish its power.

Machen May Be Matched For Title

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Without throwing a punch, veteran Eddie Machen has moved into a possible title fight with Ernie Terrell for the World Boxing Association's vacant heavyweight championship.

Tony Maceroni of Providence, R. I., chairman of the WBA's rankings committee, said Friday the boxing body will recognize the winner of a Machen-Terrell fight as champion.

And there are promoters in Chicago, Houston, Miami and San Francisco willing to put it on, said big Julie Isaacson, the manager of Terrell. The towering Philadelphia fighter is No. 1 on the WBA's top 10 list.

The latest switch in the WBA's program to try and find a successor for Cassius Clay, the champion it stripped of recognition, was made because Cleveland Williams was shot in a scuffle with police in Houston recently.

This knocked Williams out of a January fight with Terrell for the WBA's championship.

Machen lost to Floyd Patterson in Sweden last July.

"We want the fight made in January. The winner is to fight the winner of the George Chuvalo-Floyd Patterson fight (scheduled for New York Jan. 29, or Feb. 1) or whoever the WBA designates," said Maceroni.

Patterson is ranked second by the WBA and Chuvalo third. The former heavyweight champion meets Charlie Powell of San Diego in a 10-rounder at San Juan, Puerto Rico, tonight.

Floyd Patterson On Comeback Trail

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the former world heavyweight champion who hopes to win the title for the third time, takes another step on the comeback trail here tonight. He meets Charlie Powell of San Diego, Calif. in a 10-rounder at Hiram Bithorn Stadium.

The bout is a benefit for the Carlos Ortiz Youth Foundation, Inc., which promotes a youth program in Puerto Rico, and is expected to attract a crowd of 8,000 at $20 tops. The gross gate is expected to be around $70,000, of which Patterson is guaranteed 35 per cent. Powell gets at least $3,000.

The bout is regarded as a tuneup for Patterson for his fight against Canada's George Chuvalo in New York next month.

Powell is expected to weigh 212 and Patterson 191 for the fight scheduled to start at 9 p.m. EST.

Lone Star Votes Scholarship Boost

DALLAS (AP) — A boost in athletic scholarships was voted by the Lone Star Conference meeting here Friday.

Faculty committee members set a limit of 60 for football, basketball and track with no limit on golf, tennis and baseball. The rule had been 55 scholarships for all sports, including golf, tennis and baseball.

Third base coach Tony Cucinelli of the Chicago White Sox broke in with Syracuse in the International League in 1926.

Texas Western Hires Bobby Dobbs

EL PASO (AP)—Bobby Dobbs, successful coach the past four years at Calgary in the Canadian professional league, is coming here to try to pick up the sagging football fortunes of Texas Western.

He was hired Friday as head coach at Texas Western, filling a position vacated by the resignation of Warren Harper after two losing seasons.

Dobbs was a player at Tulsa and West Point. He has coached at Carswell Air Force Base, Tulsa University and Calgary.

Bill Michaels will stay as an assistant coach and he will add four others, Dobbs said.

Bills Can Strengthen Position With Victory

By The Associated Press

The Buffalo Bills, whose American Football League season finale against the Boston Patriots next week will settle the Eastern Division race, hope to strengthen their hand for the Boston showdown in Sunday's stop-over at Denver.

Whether the Bills win, lose or draw against the Broncos, challengers in the Western Division, next Sunday's Buffalo-Boston return match will determine a challenger for AFL Western champion San Diego in the Dec. 26 title playoff. But a victory over the Broncos would give Buffalo, now 10-2, a slim edge.

They then could clinch the Eastern title by tying Boston's 10-2-1 and idle this weekend. A Denver upset, however, would afford the Patriots the same edge — a victory or tie in the finale would send them into the championship game for the second year in a row.

Should the Buffalo-Denver and Buffalo-Boston games both wind up in deadlocks, so would the division race, with a repeat of last year's Patriots-Bills playoff deciding the Eastern crown — and pushing the East-West championship game back to next Jan. 3.

The Chargers, 8-3-1, who clinched their fourth Western title in five years a week ago, mark time at San Diego against the Kansas City Chiefs, 5-7, Sunday while the Houston Oilers 2-10, and New York Jets, 5-6-1, match winless streaks at Houston.

It will be Tobin Rote Day at San Diego, with the veteran quarterback playing his last home game. Rote, who led the Chargers to their first league championship last season but lost his starting job to John Hadl this year, will end a 15-year pro career after the title game.

Rote will alternate with Hadl against the Chiefs, whose Len Dawson is the league's leading passer. San Diego won the teams' first meeting 28-14.

Freshmen Mike Taliaferro and Pete Liske are expected to share the signal-calling for the Jets, who topped the Oilers 24-21 earlier in the season. Don Trull, the rookie from Baylor who has been understudying ageless George Blanda, will get the starting assignment for the Oilers.

Denver's upset plans will ride with Mickey Slaughter, another young quarterback who impressed coach Mac Speedie in the Broncos' 20-20 standoff with Oakland two weeks ago. The Broncs will have to stop Buffalo's Cookie Gilchrist, who has a 71-yard lead over Matt Snell of New York in the individual rushing derby.

The Bills, beaten by Oakland 16-13 last Sunday on the last play of the game, will start Jack Kemp at quarterback and relieve with Daryle Lamonica.

No Mail On December 26

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General John A. Gronouski has announced suspension of normal mail deliveries on Saturday, Dec. 26, so that Post Office personnel can have a three-day Christmas weekend at minimum expense to the government.

Employes who normally would have worked that day would be entitled to a compensatory day off the following week, on which substitute workers would have to be hired to replace them. That is where the saving — $3 million to $4 million — comes in, Gronouski said Friday.

The postmaster said most of the 590,000 postal employes will get a three-day holiday weekend, although post offices will have two-hour window service for business firms Dec. 26.

Harlow Still Dominating Hollywood After 30 Years

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jean Harlow, the blonde bombshell of the movies' golden era, is exploding all over Hollywood — and soon the world.

Four movies based on her life are in the works. The new spring fashion lines already are showing the "Harlow Look," featuring satiny, clinging fabrics with slinky full sleeves and low-cut bodices. Beauty shops are promoting Harlow platinum blonde hairdos.

All of which is most unusual for a star who has been dead nearly 30 years.

Joseph Levine's production of "Harlow" is scheduled to hit the screen first. It will star Carroll Baker, Hollywood's newest sex symbol, who bears a striking resemblance to Jean.

Peter Lawford will play Paul Bern, the husband who committed suicide 65 days after their marriage in what is still one of Hollywood's mysteries.

Irving Shulman, an English professor at California State College at Los Angeles, reopened the Harlow era with a best-selling biography of the star, based in great part on reminiscences of Jean's first agent, Arthur Landau.

To the younger generation, it might oversimplify things to say Jean was the Marilyn Monroe of her time. But the movie careers of Monroe and Harlow were strikingly similar. Each was the sex symbol of her generation and each suffered from the pressures of such status. Both were well-liked by people who worked with them. And each had the same costar in her last movie — Clark Gable.

Jean was 26 when she died and starred only seven years on the screen. She once said: "Sex is fine on the screen—but a nuisance off it."

Her first marriage at 16, an elopement from a swank girl's school, lasted technically three years but was ended long before that.

Her marriage to Bern — like Monroe's marriage to playwright Athur Miller — was an experience in education. Bern, an intellectual, introduced her to fine books and art.

But he committed suicide, leaving a note which has puzzled Hollywood to this day. It read: "Dearest dear. Unfortunately, this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out my abject humiliation. I love you. P.S. You understand that last night was only a comedy."

The following year she eloped to Yuma, Ariz., with Hal Rosson, a cameraman. She divorced him on March 11, 1934, with this comment: "He was cruel — and he read in bed."

Like Monroe, Jean was quick on the quips with Hollywood reporters. Yet, also like Monroe, she was basically shy.

Once a reporter asked Jean if she thought sex activity outside of marriage was increasing among women.

"It would be sort of difficult for it to increase among women alone — wouldn't it?" answered Jean.

Critics often panned her acting ability. She answered that with a statement that is quoted in Hollywood to this day: "If audiences like you, you don't have to be an actress."

Jean got in the movies on a dare from a friend. She did bits in comedies with Laurel and Hardy and other top comics of the silent era.

About the same time, Howard Hughes started filming "Hell's Angels," still one of the great aviation films of all time. The perfectionist millionaire spent three years making a silent movie — and then came the sound revolution.

Hughes scrapped the whole picture at a cost of a then-record $1 million. Ben Lyon and James Hall, the male stars, could talk but Greta Nissen, a sexy Norwegian, had too much accent for the talkies.

Landau was Jean's agent — and also Miss Nissen's. So Kansas City-born Jean got the part. It was not a big part, but the audience saw plenty of Harlow and the picture made her an international celebrity. By 1930, this once unknown was 17th on a list of the 100 best-known persons in the world.

And she was only 19.

In the depths of the Depression, she really exploded on the screen. She was the extrovert, fun-loving sex bomb who made her greatest hits opposite the screen's all-time star, Clark Gable.

She starred, too, with other Hollywood greats — the Barrymores, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor, Wallace Berry, Lee Tracy, Franchot Tone, James Stewart, William Powell and a dozen more.

She wore skintight dresses of white satin, white ostrich feathers and white mink, and drove a white Cadillac. On screen she always played a good-bad girl — the one with a heart of gold.

Her pictures exploited her appeal with such titles as "Platinum Blonde," "Bombshell," "Red Dust," "Suzy," "Hold Your Man" "Wife Versus Secretary," "The Man in Possession," and "Red-Headed Woman," in which she dyed her famed platinum tresses.

Jean's best picture — one in which she was pitted against some of the screen's biggest scene stealers, Wallace Beery and Marie Dressler to name two — was "Dinner at Eight." Her performance is one of the screen's classic comedy portrayals.

At her peak, Jean made $5,000 a week, at a time when taxes were low. But she left only $41,000.

Oldtimers say of all the stars — save Gable — she was the easiest to know. And she stopped acting after she left the soundstage. Studio workers loved her.

One laborer sums it up: "In 40 years, I have worked with every big name in Hollywood. Jean was the only one who ever remembered my name."

In 1934, while making "Reckless," she started going out with Powell. It was, according to friends, the great love of her life.

But Jean, never strong, soon was plagued with a series of illnesses — throat infections, kidney trouble, gall bladder infections and chronic colds.

Then came the illness that killed her. When uremic poisoning set in, Powell rode in the ambulance with Jean to Good Samartan Hospital.

"But it was too late then," recalls Powell. "She was too far gone. She died in my arms. It was the saddest day of my life."

The date was June 7, 1937. Jean Harlow was only 26.

WALTER MATTHAU, as an important American political scientist in "Fail Safe," Max E. Youngstein-Sidney Lumet production released by Columbia Pictures, finds lovely Nancy Berg waiting for him to take her home after a Washington society party. Also starring are Henry Fonda as the president, Dan O'Herlihy, Frank Overton, Edward Binns and Larry Hagman. "Fail Safe" is coming to the Palace Theater here Sunday, Dec. 20.

Mia Is Making It On Her Own

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Said Mia Farrow: "It's something I've heard all my life: 'Mia Farrow, daughter of Maureen O'Sullivan.' See how easily it trips off the tongue? I've never been able to escape it."

She spoke not in anger, but with the quiet impatience of an 18-year-old who is anxious to establish her own identity. She was intrigued that the noted English actor John Mills is now referred to by some writers as the father of Hayley Mills.

It is entirely possible that Maureen O'Sullivan may soon be identified as "the mother of Mia Farrow" despite the lustre of her own acting career. In the short space of a year, blonde, willowy Mia has become an actress of great promise and a personality who can cause an international flurry.

That happened when a gossip columnist reported that Mia and Frank Sinatra had discussed matrimony. Mia's phone rang for 24 hours with calls from New York, London, Paris — and her own mother.

"I have been meeting Mr. Sinatra," was Mia's anguished reply, "but only to discuss a film we might do together."

The incident helped substantiate what local reporters have been predicting: that Mia Farrow is destined to become an important figure in the Hollywood whirl.

She is the third of seven children born to the late film director John Farrow and Maureen O'Sullivan, who won early fame as Jane to Johnny Weismuller's Tarzan. Despite the large family, Mia developed her own individuality by drifting into a world of her own.

"I was the loner of the family," she recalled. "I was able to shut out the household noises by living with my own dreams."

Mia decided she wanted to act. She had no background for acting beyond what heredity may have provided, yet she applied among scores of others to replace a 27-year-old actress in an off-Broadway production of "The Importance of Being Earnest." Mia admits that it was absurd for her at 17 to try for a position with an all-English cast. She was selected.

Her performance attracted the interest of 20th Century-Fox, which tested and signed her. She was a hurried replacement for Mrs. Peter Sellers in "The Guns at Batasi," which was made in England. Then she returned to her home town to become one of the stars in the successful ABC television series, "Peyton Place."

Didn't Remember

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Conscientious Gregory Peck plays an amnesia victim in "Mirage," and he studied several books on the subject of amnesia in preparation for his role.

An interviewer asked him for the names of the books.

"I don't remember," Peck replied.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Make faces if you want to stay young looking. That is what a local journal advises as I lie in the hammock this afternoon.

In Mexico, noon is an elastic piece of time. Maybe half the day, depending on your precise location. Around our spread it is the longest portion of the day and naturally requires some recuperation in the hammock.

Therefore, I find time to edify myself and see which portion of the globe is suffering the most at the moment. And keep tab on what is the latest with youth.

I note that science has now reduced the whole business to making faces, thus destroying last year's set of theories.

And there is an official set of rules by which one should work in the face making operation. It says "Lubricate face and neck thoroughly." This would be prior to starting and although the story does not specify, I would suggest using a good brand of 10-20-30 motor oil.

Next step: "Say you have noticed that you are getting a sagging jaw line."

So I said to myself: "Hey, you're geting a sagging jaw line." And became so furious at this uncalled for criticism that I hit me in the sagging jaw line.

This is not what the newspaper recommends. It says place your closed fists under your chin and try to open your mouth while pushing and count. For suppleness and general tone: (High C maybe) rotate your head without moving your shoulders. It says so right in the article by this rubbery lady. I could not rotate my head even once. Got it approximately 43 degrees around the circle and it would not go farther, even pushing with both hands. Obviously, I will never be beautiful. I assume the beautiful lady who wrote these beautiful hints can rotate her head like an owl and is as supple as golden wheat in the wind. There I bypass the strenuous portion of being gorgeous and content myself with making faces. Lie there and think about some fellow I waited an hour to interview and discovered he left by the rear elevator.

And make a horrifying face that would throw Frankenstein into a faint.

At this moment the lady next door pops her head over the wall where she is plucking at the ivy and almost falls off the ladder. She shouts to her husband. Dear, this Abney guy is making faces at me again. He just made a horrid one at me for no reason at all."

A slamming door and racing feet. When the husband gets his face over the wall I am at the other extreme of the exercise. A cheerful smile that would please anyone.

$1701

What's the catch? Thank you.

Plunk $1701 into Frank Winnebolter's hand and he'll plunk you into the seat of a new 1965 Volkswagen Deluxe Sedan. (Give him $30 more, and you'll be plunked into a Volkswagen with matching leatherette upholstery.)

Of course, you'll have to buy license plates and pay local tax. But that is it.

Sound a little too simple? Perhaps. But then the Volkswagen is a simple little car.

Hong Kong Notes 'Lost Generation'

HONG KONG (AP) — A new breed of Chinese — a sort of "lost generation" — is evolving in this colony on China's coast.

The breed's chief characteristic is uncertainty.

Its philosophy of life seems to be: Eat, drink and be merry, for you never know what tomorrow may bring.

For the young people of Hong Kong, along with the youth of many parts of Asia, are beginning to worry about their future.

Subconsciously they are beginning to feel more strongly than ever the presence of a power that could play a big part in deciding their future, Communist China.

Peking's efforts on the ideological, scientific and guerrilla fronts have been partly responsible for this awareness.

And this awareness is nowhere more apparent than in this tiny refugee-packed colony that perches uneasily on the doorstep of the Red giant.

Most of this British colony legally goes back to Peking in 33 years, when a 99-year lease expires.

To Hong Kong's youth, the prospect of being enveloped by Peking is not appealing. After all they point out, most of their parents left China to escape from communism.

For the majority there is no escape. The educated one per cent with money and contacts will probably get to the United States, England or Canada.

The nine per cent that makes up a sort of middle class has a chance of going to Formosa or other countries.

But for the majority this colony is the end of the line. This 90 per cent face a wall of hopelessness.

There has been a breakup of the traditionally close knit Chinese family. In the past, a son or daughter would never dare even to consider disobeying his honorable parents.

Now many parents complain that their children run wild and join juvenile gangs.

A few young people see a spark of hope.

One said: "We don't feel happy about living with the specter of Peking hanging over our heads.

"But anything can happen in the future, especially among Communists.

"After all who would have thought that old Nikita would one day lose out?"

Girls See Parents Shot

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Two daughters saw Vernon Henry, 31, of Mesquite, Tex., kill their mother and shoot himself Friday.

Detective J. E. Stanley said Henry broke into the house, shot his estranged wife Mary Jane, also 31, in the head with a .22 caliber pistol and turned the gun on himself.

He was taken to a hospital in critical condition.

The couple's daughters are Marjorie, 12, and Sherry, 8. They told police that Mrs. Henry refused to admit their father and he kicked down a back door while she tried to telephone police.

Marjorie jumped on his back in an effort to keep Henry from firing his pistol.

TRAVEL TALK

By Hulin Fowler

EDITOR'S NOTE: For answers to your travel questions, write to Mr. Fowler in care of this newspaper.

Phoenix, Arizona, is a man-made desert paradise where you can ski on mountain slopes in the morning, bask by the side of a sunny pool in the afternoon and dine in exotic Mexico at night.

The city of almost one-half million people lies in the famed Valley of the Sun, an arid valley which not too many years ago would hardly support the lizards and jackrabbits, that sought shade among the cactus from a sun that heats the area to a blistering 100 degrees or more in the summer.

Then, about 60 years ago, irrigation came to the Valley and turned the desert into an oasis, a mecca for Hollywood movie stars and a retirement place for Midwesterners who had lived too long in the cold.

Phoenix has an almost perfect climate, albeit a little hot in the summer. Even the impartial U.S. Weather Bureau has called it the driest, sunniest, clearest resort area in the nation. Right now the temperature is a pleasant 75 degrees during the day, dropping to perhaps 40 degrees on an exceptionally cold night.

You can expect to see a wild beauty in Arizona that is different from any place on earth. On entering the state from the New Mexico border you are at once in the desert, where colorful ocatilla, cotulla and other exotic plants dot what appears to be a powdery, arid land. Yet, even the land itself is a paradox, for it will grow practically anything under the sun, a fact learned early in their retirement years by the hundreds of couples who come to live in the Valley each year.

As you near the modern city of Phoenix, you'll begin to see the famed Saguaro cactus, towering two stories or more high and dotting the landscape as far as the eye can see. Mountains begin to come into view and you'll see the famous Superstition Mountains, location of the Lost Dutchman Mine, where perhaps a dozen men have entered never to be seen again.

Phoenix, which just 28 years ago was a dusty little hamlet covering less than 10 square miles, today is a stretch of 200 square miles of modern architecture, tree - shaded drives and a charm unique in the United States.

It is typical resort, however, in that it has some of the most modern and picturesque hotels and motels to be found anywhere. Night life is gay, colorful and relatively inexpensive. Most of the luxurious tourist motels are built around a swimming pool where, among tropical vegetation, the visitor can gaze out into the mysterious desert or up into such mountains as Camelback. The visitor can relax in an informal atmosphere in Phoenix and it is a dressy affair indeed that requires anything more formal than sport shirt and slacks.

Side trips are plentiful, interesting and close to Phoenix. The state, last of the 48 to enter the Union, is replete with points of historical interest such as old forts, Indian reservations and famous Civil War camp grounds. Scottsdale, less than 30 minutes east of the city, is a town where all buildings are built in the Western manner in a successful effort to preserve the history of the Old West. Shopping is excellent in Scottsdale, which specializes in leather goods, Indian handicrafts and "Arizona fashions" such as squaw dresses, cowboy shirts, frontier pants and Indian princess jackets.

Arizonans have a typical Western friendliness and make tourists welcome without the gouging that sometimes takes place in other resort areas. And, because of the popularity of the area as a place to live or retire, most tourists soon meet people from their own state or even their own hometown.

And, as every resident of Phoenix will happily affirm, if you can't live there you at least owe yourself a visit.

But be careful. Many a "visitor" has become a permanent resident after enjoying the relaxed, easy living of the Valley of the Sun.

Farmers Tax Guide Now Available

The 1965 edition of the Farmers Tax Guide is now available through the County Extension office says Billy Roach, County Agricultural Agent. These guides include explanations on almost every phase of tax that farmers encounter. Examples showing computations and how various options are handled are also explained.

Of particular interest to farmers are the changes that are available for the 1964 tax year. Some of these include (1) Income Averaging, (2) Carryover of Charitable Contributions, (3) Capital Loss Carryover, (4) Investment Credit Recapture, (5) Minimum Standard Deductions, and (6) Medical and Dental Expenses Allowable for Tax - payers over 65 years.

A knowledge of these changes and how they affect each applicable farmer is a must. The tax liability of each producer is completely dependent on how he or his "employed tax filer" utilizes these regulations.

The 1965 Farmers Tax Guide is available free of charge and can be secured through the county extension office.

Mountain Climb Set By 11 Japanese

TOKYO (AP) — Eleven Japanese plan to scale the 13,113-foot Sinkao Shan in Formosa early next year, a spokesman reported today.

The party, led by Noboru Endo, 34, an official of Tokyo's Self Defense Forces Hospital, will sail for Taipei Dec. 27.

SOME OF THE DECORATIONS visitors will see during the Stanfield P-TA's Open House Monday night is this "Angel Chorus" scene in Ruby Anderson's room. Students who were admiring the decoration are Richard Huddleston, Jessica McMullan, Kelly Amos, Vicky Johnson and Mark Patchell. The windows of the rooms have been decorated so that a stained glass effect will greet the visitors before they enter. The Open House will feature a Christmas musical program given by the fourth, fifth and sixth grade students. Wesley Hopp is musical director.

Many of today's Christmas carols are very old. "The First Nowell" originally was a medieval shepherd song. Another carol, "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," goes back to the 16th Century and "Joy to the World" was published in 1719.

FRENCH PUFFS are tasty delicacies made from a recipe handed down through the years and is used for family gatherings and parties as part of the celebration of Christmas in France.

Try These Festive Fixin's With A Foreign Flair

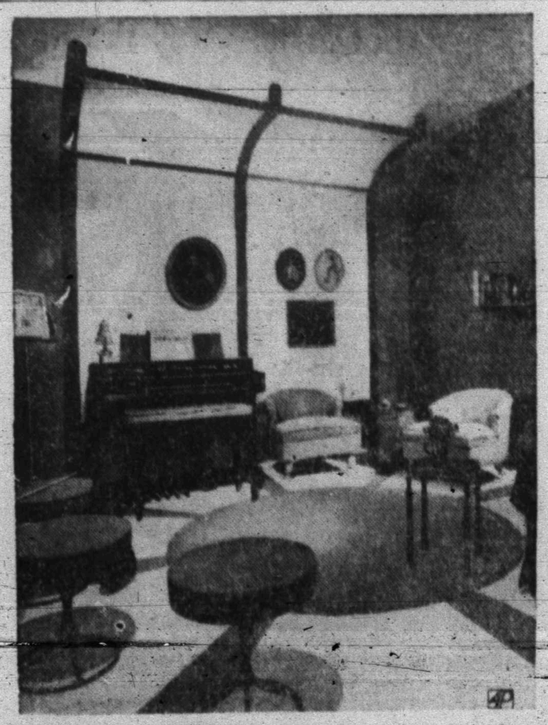

The French Joyeux Noel, like our own Merry Christmas is a wish for a happy holiday, a holiday filled with traditions built over the years. Many French customs originated in the Orient and were introduced into France by the Romans. And the Fir tree was first presented as the tree of Christmas in Strasbourg in 1605. It was decorated with artificially colored roses, apples and sugar.

A holiday breakfast in France might include muffins similar to these French Breakfast Puffs which are enjoyed in America. The fragrant, delicate, spicy puffs are sure to whet the morning appetite. Tender, little muffins are baked, then rolled in butter, sugar and cinnamon and served warm. They are delightfully easy to make with all purpose biscuit mix.

FRENCH BREAKFAST PUFFS

2 cups all purpose biscuit mix
¼ cup sugar
2 tbsp. soft butter or shortening
¾ cup milk
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1 egg
1-3 cup butter, melted
½ cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Grease 12 medium - sized muffin cups. Mix all purpose biscuit mix, ¼ cup sugar, nutmeg, 2 tbsp. butter, milk and egg; beat vigorously with spoon ½ min. Fill muffin cups 2-3 full. Bake 15 min. Immediately roll in the melted butter, then in mixture of ½ cup sugar and cinnamon. Serve hot. Makes 12 medium muffins.

FAMILY HARMONY—Music room, designed by Ruth Strauss, has translucent panel that glows over the spinet organ. Sunburst of wood tone and white flagstone tile was designed by Congoleum.

Families Need Room For Making Music

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The music room is staging a comeback with a bang, clang and a root-a-toot, and this year Mr. Claus will deliver a bumper crop of musical instruments.

In many homes the music room is replacing one family room where everything was supposed to indicate relaxation. When four children are studying different musical instruments, who can relax, asks a parent.

A music room spotted months ago at an interior design show was singled out then for the good taste of decorator Ruth Strauss. But the thought occurred — how many people can afford a music room, even one that occasionally serves another purpose.

That thought was dissolved into the orchestra pit with recent observation that people seem to be gravitating to some personal music accomplishment with tremendous enthusiasm. Attendance at musicals and concerts are up everywhere, and these have stimulated interest for many adults who abandoned musical study in their youth.

For example, you don't realize how many people have organs in their homes until you ask for volunteers to supply one for Christmas carols. Portable organs can give music satisfaction easily to beginners because the mechanism has been simplified so that a student can begin to produce wonderful tonal effects right away.

Schools encourage musical interest, and young people beg to take lessons, in marked contrast to children of other generations who considered a trip to the music teacher a punishment.

At a recent school music assembly, the zither, drums, guitars and piano were played by small fry who accompanied their classes in ballads and hymns.

The music room suggested by Miss Strauss is 12 by 12, furnished stools, chairs and sofa. She solved the problem of light with a translucent panel of cream - color Unex, a plastic, lighted from above and behind to cast its glow over a spinet organ. Cheerful notes are portraits of the family in oval and square frames mounted on the plastic panel. Backgrounds are dark in contrast to the light behind. One showed mother with a harp, another had daughter in a ballet costume.

The floor was a sunburst design of wood tone set in a background of white flagstone vinyl tile, with round peacock blue rug in the center of the floor.

The window was handsomely dressed in mustard, woodhue and peacock blue print of easy quilted upholstery on sofa. Small upholstered gold stools with metal bases and mustard-hued chairs on casters offered easy movability for playing or listening.

There were bookshelves on one wall for sheet music, albums, a closet for instruments. A sofa that makes into a bed is a good addition for emergencies.

West Elementary Christmas Program Set For Monday

The event will include music of the various grade levels from the newly adopted music books. All students will be participating, which will include 540 voices.

Mammoth Shrimp Cocktail

3 pounds shrimp
2 teaspoons salt
2 cloves garlic
3 bay leaves
½ lemon, sliced
Salad greens
Chilli sauce, catchup, mayonnaise and horseradish

Rinse shrimp in cold water and drain. Cover shrimp, in a kettle, with cold water and add the salt, garlic (peeled and halved), bay leaves and lemon. Bring just to a boil; cover and simmer until cooked through — about 5 minutes. Shell and devein. Arrange on salad greens and serve with a cocktail sauce made from the chili sauce, catsup, mayonnaise and horseradish using proportions that suit your taste.

A Christmas Tradition

Since the early days in England when carollers sang through the dimly lit trees, exhorting their listeners to "deck the halls with boughs of holly," the shiny green leaves and scarlet berries have been traditionally part of the Christmas season.

While holly is most often seen in wreaths, it is exquisite when used in conjunction with fresh flowers. The sheen of the leaves blends particularly well with carnations.

While almost any color of carnation may be selected — or a combination of colors — a singularly happy choice is the hybrid red-and-white speckled variety. The touches of red seem to cry "Merry Christmas" with all the gaiety of the early carollers!

A particularly attractive arrangement might combine slender candles with the holly and the carnations. Placed in a low bowl, the arrangement would be ideal as the focal point on a mantelpiece.

Swags of pine and boxwood, sparkled with artificial snow, would be an additional touch of green if festooned along the fireplace breast. Neighborhood florists have plentiful supplies of greenery that can be purchased by-the-yard at reasonable prices. There is no need to go to the trouble of making the rope at home.

Florists also will arrange the carnations, holly and candles for you if you like, either in a bowl brought from home or in one they have on hand. During the holiday season when everyone is so rushed, it is well advised to obtain outside help; and your florist is available to help you.

Magazine Alcove

The best - ordered homes can become cluttered with magazines and newspapers unless there's a place especially designed for them. A rack or alcove built into the wall of your living room is a good soution to this problem. If the area is surfaced with ceramic tile it will add real beauty to convenience.

MR. AND MRS. COURTNEY G. MELLARD
(Photo by Craft Studio)

Double Ring Rites Held In Avenue D Baptist Church

Miss Helen Fay Williamson became the bride of Mr. Courtney Graham Mellard of Marfa in double ring ceremonies read in the Avenue D Baptist Church at 7 p.m. on November 18.

Bobby Phillips, pastor, officiated. The altar held burning tapers in wrought iron candalabra flanked by large palms of greenery.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Damon P. Williamson of 3212 Forty - second Street, Snyder, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gelispie Mellard of Marfa.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Glen R. Williamson, the bride wore a gown of rose-point lace and tulle over satin. The fitted lace bodice featured scallops, portrait neckline and long sleeves that ended in points over the hands. The scalloped overskirt of lace was over triple skirts of pleated tulle. Her fingertip veil of silk tulle was edged in satin and fell from a crown of rhinestones.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white gladoli florets and white feathered mums.

Miss Vicki Vice of Fort Worth was maid of honor, Mrs. Richard Williams of Lubbock, sister of the groom was matron of honor, and Miss Janice Lou Fowler was bridesmaid. They wore matching gowns of rose colored cotton satin featuring bouffant skirts and long sleeves. Their headdresses were bands of matching material, crossed in back and fastened with rosettes of the fabric. They carried Colonial bouquets of white gladoli florets.

Bobby Tomlinson of Lordsburg, N. M., was best man. Groomsmen were Robert Pruett of Marfa, and Richard Williams of Lubbock, brother - in - law of the groom.

Mr. Ralph J. Wesson presided at the organ with traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Teda Frank of Marfa, who sang "I Take Thee My Dear."

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The table was laid with net over taffeta, sprinkled with rosettes and streamers of satin. The centerpiece was of pink and white carnations in a fan shaped arrangement.

Miss Sue Wiman and Mrs. John Greene presided at the three - tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and the punch bowl. Miss Martha Williamson, cousin of the bride registered guests.

Others in the house party were Mmes. Floyd Hollis, Jack Berry, E. J. Hardin, John Greene, Virgil Streety, A. G. McDowell, D. D. Shelburne, J. A. Wiman, A. E. Vice, G. M. Truesdell, W. P. Lewallen and Loyd West.

For traveling to Juarez, Mexico, the bride chose a rose and beige knit suit with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of white feathered mums.

They will make their home on the John R. Scott Ranch, near Mertzon where the groom is employed.

Mrs. Mellard is a graduate of Marfa High School and attended Draughon's Business College in Abilene. Mr. Mellard is a graduate of Marfa High School and attended Texas Tech, Lubbock.

Out - of - town guests included Mrs. J. R. Williamson, grandmother of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kingsfield of Kotan; Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mellard, grandparents of the groom, Mr and Mrs. Kenneth Mellard, Miss Teda Frank, and Mr. Robert Pruett of Marfa; Mrs. Mark Williamson, Jim and Martha, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Williamson and Danny, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Herndon and Lisa, of Lubbock; Mrs. Fehrlin E. Tutt of Houston; Lt. and Mrs. David Graham, Webb Air Base, Big Spring; and Bobby Tomlinson of Lordsburg, N. M.

A rehearsal dinner was held on November 13 at Sallie's Cafeteria.

Flowers And Greens

A prized religious figure comes into its beautiful own during the yuletide season — especially when it is the focal point in a carefully arranged grouping of pines and fresh flowers.

Here are some suggestions of floral combinations to enhance all manner of figures. The flowers selected should complement the figure, not overpower it.

For example, a carved wooden Madonna and Child make an appealing center to an arrangement of feathery pine, Hawaiian wood roses, and dainty white Star of Bethlehem. The brown tones in the wood roses pick up the browns in the figure and the green of the pine serves to complement the whole.

For a pottery or china figurine, try roses, perhaps mixed with holly leaves, of an appropriate color. The softness of the rose petals makes them an interesting contrast to the gloss of the figure.

A tall Madonna of Lalique glass should be banked with more delicate flowers. Feathery white mums would be an interesting choice for this. Here, again, pine boughs would add interest. The plumy variety of pine should be selected to carry out the light, airy quality of the arrangement.

Arrangements of this type are at home on the hall table or in the living room or library. The use of religious figures does not look well on a side board. This is purely a matter of taste, however. The dining table may be enhanced by a Christmas wreath, an arrangement of holly and carnations, or possibly a flowering plant.

The holiday season is a time for flowers — and a time to use one's most precious possessions.

THE HOSTESS costume takes the long, lithe and lively line to comfort and smartness in this tunic sweater and slack costume. Raglan-sleeved tunic is topped with bateau neckline that takes to bright, showy necklaces. It can be worn free, or cinched in with a self tie belt.

A small tree made of glossy green boxwood, and trimmed with golden Garnette roses and a string or two of glistening baubles, is an ideal choice for a buffet table. It also will brighten a shut - in's room at Christmas time.

To make your Christmas gift packages, different, attach to them a fresh flower or two, sprigs of mistletoe or holly, or clusters of greens or pine cones.

The Barrel Held A Rotten Apple

AN INFINITY OF MIRRORS
By Richard Condon.

Condon's novel tears right into the heart of evil, to demonstrate with chilling impact how corruption turns the innocent corrupt.

It begins in Paris, in 1932, with an idyllic romance between Paule Bernheim, daughter of France's greatest actor (a Jew), and Wilhelm von Rohde — whom she calls Veelee — latest in a long line of professional German militarists.

At midpoint in the tale, six years later, Hitler has risen to hysterical power, because the military class of which Veelee is a member cannot bring itself to destroy him. Paule deserts the blindly militaristic Veelee, and flees from the violent anti-Semitism of Berlin, taking their son Paul-Alain back to Paris with her.

The final scenes are in Occupied Paris of 1944, when little Paul-Alain is caught in the bestial Jew-raids of the Nazis, and the shattered Veelee and Paule, rejoined and seeking vegeance too late, are turned into mere murderers. These two people, once naive, are at the end stooping to the level of the Nazis themselves.

There are great contrasts in the 12 years of the narrative, from the devil-may-care, cosmopolitan grace of Paule's actor-father to the revolting aberrations of SS Colonel Dravot, whose job is to contribute bodies to the ovens of Auschwitz.

Condon is a narrator whose story has all the graphic urgency of war headlines, but at the same time he slashes out in cool prose a whole gallery of vital characterizations.

It is a strong, mind-shaking book, too powerful to be missed.

Gardener's Corner

TROPICAL plants generally aren't looked upon as versatile but the decorative Bromelaid is a very adaptable house plant.

The Bromelaids are a large family, with a color range from brilliant pink and vivid tangerine to soft blue and ivory white and in showy combinations as well.

This pineapple-family plant is growing in popularity especially where the decorator strives for simplicity. Where color accent is desired, it is available through a well - chosen group with a long - blooming period.

The Bromelaid flowers once a year but the bloom lasts from two to seven months, depending on the species. The flower rises from the center of the whorls. The Vriesia carinata often is called painted feather because it resembles one; the Billbergia leptopoda is called Permanent Wave, because the leaves curl under the end.

The leaves are evergreen and so diverse as to color and pattern as to offer a top surface of green and a undercoating of maroon. Others turn red when they are ready to bloom, and there are patterns of cross bands, marbling and blotchings.

Horticulturists at Cypress Gardens in Florida say the Bromelaid, which grow under diverse conditions in the wilderness, make good house plants because they are able to adapt to fluctuating temperatures and humidity of the modern home.

They will grow with no great difficulty in many mediums, such as river gravel, perlite, course granite grit, tree fern fibre, peat, leafmold or mixtures of these.

The pot should be large enough to hold the plant upright.

In the photo above, a Neoregelia carolinate tricolor is growing in a natural driftwood container. It is attractive in a hanging basket also.

The plant feeds through the leaves and does not require much water applied to the roots. The upright, overlapping leaves form a cup which is a natural container for water for a plant that thrives in humid conditions.

When the plant is grown indoors, insufficient sunlight and lack of air circulation will cause the water in the leaf cup to become stagnant and it is advisable to empty this water, wash the cup and refill periodically.

THE DISCOTHEQUE dance craze has brought the little black "disco" dress first-place honors in the dating wardrobe. It's all grace in action and the center of attraction on the dance floor when the fabric is luscious, luminous velvet. Party formals are designed in this danceable young trio, all sleeveless and easy-skirted. Left, a row of tiny satin buttons parade down the front of this V-neck shift, honored by a rose at the base of the neckline. Center, a bateau-necked dress, scooped in back, glides down to a low-gathered flounce skirt, and is ornamented with a rose. Right, daisy-embroidered white bodice tops a slender skirt of black velvet.

The Brownie Girl Scout Troop No. 239 met Tuesday at the Scout hut for their final meeting before the holidays.

For the past three months the girls have been studying the theme "Being Discoverers." They have been on a hike to collect unusual rocks, a picnic to llect unusual rocks, a visit to the park, a visit to McBeth egg farm, and baked cookies to be placed in cookie cans the girls had decorated themselves for their families for Christmas.

For the last meeting the girls held their Christmas party. A Christmas tree was the centerpiece for the table where Christmas cookies and red punch were served. The girls sang Christmas carols and exchanged gifts.

Those present were: Suzanne Peek, Shanna Wellborn, Deborah Pruitt, Virginia Burk and Shelby McDaniel, third graders; Shari Taylor, Sandra Cumbie, Carla Hicks, Cindy Murphree, Kellye Crenshaw, Donna Cornett, Lucille Dysart, Debbie Banks, Lyndia Allen and Darla Darby, second graders; Beverly Murphree, a guest; and the leader, Mrs. Franklin Pruitt. Kathy Rousch, another member of the troop was unable to attend.

These Brownies will meet again on January 5. "Being Friendmakers" will be the theme of study at that time.

For an eye - catching coffee table arrangement for the holiday season, decorate a miniature wooden cart with tiny orange roses and small Christmas balls, using small leaf greens as filler. Then insert two pixies, one in the front and the other in the rear of the cart, where the arrangement should be tallest.

Flowering Plants For Gifts

Flowering plants make ideal Christmas gifts. Their color and beauty remain bright long after the last Christmas tree decoration has been tucked away.

The giving of flowering plants is growing more and more popular. A wide variety of holiday season plants is available at neighborhood florist shops.

Of all the beautiful flowering plants available during the yuletide season, probably the one that carols "Merry Christmas!" the clearest is the poinsettia. While its crimson blossoms are most closely allied with the holidays, poinsettias also are available in a delicate shade of off-ivory. A hybrid plant has been produced too, that has a dainty pink bloom.

Poinsettias should be kept in a warm room, away from drafts. They will keep their blooms longer if they are given plenty of light and sufficient water at room temperature.

Jerusalem Cherry, a merry little tree, does not have blossoms. However, its tiny round fruits, are as bright as Christmas baubles. Another plant of the same sort is the Christmas Pepper. Its fruit, when ripe, is a bright, bright red; and the contrast of wholly and partially ripe peppers is especially appropriate to the yuletide season.

Both of these plants prefer a cool evening temperature of approximately 55 degrees F, though they will tolerate temperatures as high as 65 degrees F with no ill effect. Keep them in a sunny window because they love light.

Cyclamens, always popular, are handsome even when not in bloom. The flowers are breathtakingly beautiful, looking like a cloud of butterflies, hovering over the plant. Cyclamens, available in a wide range of colors, should be kept moist by immersing the pot in water. The crown of the plant should be kept dry to discourage rot. The Society of American Florists points out that the cyclamen should be treated to cool evenings. The same temperatures as those suitable for the Jerusalem Cherry are right for it.

Azaleas with their vivid ruffly blooms are a doubly popular choice. Handsome indoors, they may be planted outside at the first whiff of spring where their bright color will bring back memories of Christmas long after the happy day has past.

The Kalanchoe is a lesser known but sturdily colorful plant. Sometimes incorrectly called "the Christmas cactus," its brilliant clusters of infinitesimal orange - red flowers and its succulent jade - like leaves make it particularly suited for the holiday festivities.

ABOUT TIME FOR AN ANSWER!

Huge Industrial Community Sprouts On Trinity River

By TOM JOHNSON

DALLAS (AP)—An economic oasis has sprouted up in the Trinity River bottoms between Dallas and Fort Worth where eight years ago cattle grazed.

The cattle's place has been taken by 129 companies that moved to the Great Southwest Industrial District (GSID). Developers call it the largest planned industrial community in the United States.

Strict regulations prohibit the ugly and encourage the graceful, from broad, landscaped avenues to tasteful, clean-lined architecture.

Angus Wynne Jr., Great Southwest president, says there is now no question of the district's being accepted.

"We've turned the corner," he said.

The district, only 10 per cent occupied as 1964 ends, lies in 6,500 acres of land exactly midway between Dallas and Fort Worth.

It is bisected by the Dallas-Fort Worth turnpike and has chartered its own railroad to hook up with the Rock Island to the north and the Texas & Pacific to the south. Greater Southwest Airport is seven minutes away, Love Field in Dallas 25.

The district is bounded for several miles by the Trinity River, a stream that may be deepened and widened to the Gulf of Mexico in order to handle heavy barge river traffic.

Companies in the district had 9,000 employes and an $80 million payroll in July 1964.

Names on the GSID occupancy list include Anaconda, Armour, Container Corp., Pepsi-Cola, General Foods, Humble Oil, Ling-Temco-Vought, National Cash Register, Phillips Petroleum, Texaco, U.S. Steel, Westinghouse and Xerox.

Some sites in the district are sold but most are leased. Wynne said that approach was taken so the district would not become self-liquidated.

Also, the parent Great Southwest Corp., is a publicly owned corporation set up on a permanent basis to oversee the district's orderly development and to provide long-term planning.

Regulations specify that there be no on-street parking and that ample parking space be provided for employes. Architects must design buildings in the district so that only 40 per cent of a site is actually occupied by structures. Of the remaining 60 per cent, a minimum of 10 per cent must be fully landscaped.

"We've bent over backwards to make sure that the atmosphere out here is in the best taste as far as it's practicable to achieve it," Wynne said.

Wynne said land in the district ranged in price from $14,000 per acre to $84,000 per acre in 1968. That year ended with 1,270,000 square feet of building space leased, compared with 628,000 square feet sold.

Six Flags Over Texas, the successful amusement park adjacent to the district, was set up to provide Great Southwest with a cash flow. When it closed for the season in November, a record total of 1,622,000 people had paid this year to get in.

Great Southwest has also built a first class hotel, the Inn of the Six Flags, as well as an 18-hole golf course that cost $500,000 to landscape, exclusive of land values.

A major sports stadium also is on the drawing boards. It will go up near the district.

A Junior Editors Quiz About TRANSISTOR

QUESTION: What is a transistor and how does it work?

ANSWER: To understand transistors, think of electrons as very small electrical particles connected with a larger atom. Some electrons can flow, or move from one atom to another. When this happens, there is an electric current; lights and electric appliances such as radios can be put to work. The flow of electrons can be controlled in various ways. To do this, larger radios have a number of vacuum tubes from which air has been removed so the atoms of the air will not disturb the electron flow. It is then easier to control them, such as using magnets to turn or deflect the stream of electrons, or to make them go faster, which will result in amplifying the electric signal so sound can be produced.

A transistor is another way of doing these same various jobs, but it is very much smaller, which is why the tiny radio in the picture is possible. Transistors use much less power than vacuum tubes and create little heat. Inside a transistor are layers of materials such as germanium and silicon, called semiconductors. Certain impurities are deliberately added, which has the effect of changing the electric current passing through in just the way which is needed.

FOR YOU TO DO: Have you a scrap book on the space age? If not, start one and paste in everything you can find on such things as transistors, satellites, computers and space capsules.

(Addy Detelle of Baltimore, Md., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash, for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper. Next week the weekly grand prize of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia.) 12-12

Texan Is Mr. USA To Germans

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP)—George McGhee, the Texan who has been ambassador to Germany since early 1963, is a diplomat and administrator of 15 years of high level experience.

He is also a geologist who made a fortune in oil, a veteran of air-sea rescue missions, an inventor, an amateur grammarian, a Rhodes scholar and a devoted tennis player.

A lifelong Democrat, McGhee lost his job as ambassador to Turkey when President Eisenhower took office, but he is proud that the Republican administration later appointed him to two important consultative posts.

President Kennedy brought him back to the State Department as chairman of the Policy Planning Council, a key job. He rose to be undersecretary for political affairs, the No. 3 post, before taking the ambassadorial post in Germany in April 1963.

He is close to both Secretary of State Dean Rusk and President Johnson.

The Texans have been friends since the early days of World War II when Johnson was a congressman and McGhee worked in the War Production board.

McGhee has carefully kept out of the feuds of Texas politics.

"An ambassador's ability to do an effective job is hampered if he becomes involved in partisan political controversies," he explains.

McGhee is Mr. United States in Germany. These days when heads of government talk regularly to one another by telephone, and foreign ministers fly off to see other foreign ministers every couple of weeks, this "representative function" looms even larger than before in the lives of ambassadors.

McGhee concerns himself with the safety of the huge American investment in West Germany, with sales of American goods—particularly military items — that balance off the great dollar expenditure of American troops in Germany, and he keeps up relations with politicians of the opposition Socialist party as well as with Chancellor Erhard and his government.

McGhee was born 52 years ago in Waco. His father, George McGhee, 89, is an active real estate man in Dallas.

The ambassador studied at SMU and the University of Oklahoma, and then went on as a Rhodes scholar to Oxford, where he took a ph.d. in geology.

During college years in the United States he worked as a geologist and geophysicist, became a consulting geologist.

In 1938 he married Miss Cecilia Jeanne de Golyer, daughter of a leading American geologist.

McGhee invented a method of determining the dip in geological formations and got a patent on it. He discovered and developed his own oil fields, the most important of which is West Tepetate in Louisiana.
