McLean Is Top Ranking Pupil In High School

VALEDICTORIAN LEADS STUDENT BODY IN SCHOLARSHIP

Bill McLean, valedictorian of the Hereford High School graduating class, also ranked first in state points for his high school career. Valedictorian and salutatorian are chosen by vote of the class from the five high ranking students in grade and activity points.

Adeline Schumacher was the top ranking girl of the senior class. She and McLean received scholarships from almost all the major colleges in the state. Christine Fincher was third; Clyde Husey, fourth; Elizabeth Spradley, fifth. Miss Spradley was chosen salutatorian by the class. Rita Benner and Edgar Horton were next highest.

McLean also led the entire student body in grade and activity points with 208. The five per cent of the student body ranking highest in points will receive bronze medals. In order, they were McLean, Clyde Posey, George Conklin, Lorraine Maasie, Christine Fincher, Jean Morgan, Imogene Roberson, Elizabeth Spradley, Mary Turrentine, Adeline Schumacher, Howard Williamson, Viola Phillips, Virginia Eberle, Wayne Evans and Karl Wilson Shirley.

The second five per cent, who received honorable mention, were Mary Frances Holder, Ruth Smith, Helen Ann Snyder, Florene Hunt, Meiba Rea, J. T. Carroll, Marie Alva, Jayne McKee, Jack Nicka, Alva Vernon, LaNette Schelhaugen, Evelyn Plummer, Bill Roberson, L. B. Russell, Walter London and Alina Bell.

His highest ranking student McLean will have his name placed on the school's honor shield. Other names on the shield are Billy Ross Phillips, Wilma Jo Jones and Sallie Gilbreath, in that order.

COUNTY'S OMTC QUOTA FOR THIS YEAR IS TWO

Two Hereford youths may enroll in the Citizens' Military Training Corps, announced Judge C. W. Humble, OMTC chairman for the county. There is to be a month's encampment this summer which will amount to a vacation with all expenses paid.

Boys between the ages of 17 and 24 may enroll for the basic course. Camp routine consists of a half day in military training and the afternoon devoted to sports and athletics. No military obligations are incurred by enrollment in the OMTC.

Humble asks that any young men who may be interested get in touch with him at once as the camp will start in July. There are camps at Fort Logan, Colorado, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

WALLACE BEERY IN AID FROM COMING TO STAR

With the shrill scream of zooming airplanes as a blood-stirring background, Wallace Beery comes to the Star screen in the most startling aviation special of the year, "West Point of the Air," and will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and at the midnight preview Saturday night.

Just as "Hell Divers" was the great air epic of the United States Navy, so is the new picture a breath-taking revelation of Uncle Sam's strength in the Air Corps training centers of the Army.

Beery in his role as "Big Mike" gives a dramatic portrayal that surpasses even his performance in "The Champ." His pathetic love for a son whose concealment almost brings disgrace to the Air Corps builds into the foundation for one of the most smashing screen climaxes ever filmed.

Hilarious comedy highlights are added by Jimmy Gleason as Joe Hays, an aviation mechanic who is content to sit on the ground while others fly and read his book on astrology.

Mrs. Egbert Bradley has accepted a job as cashier and bookkeeper at the Texas Market and Grocery, resigning her position in the relief office.

E. E. Rogers Dies On Last Saturday; Rites Are Monday

E. E. Rogers, 76-year-old retired farmer, died last Saturday at his home in South Hereford. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Presbyterian church with Rev. W. M. Griffin, pastor, officiating.

Palbearers were N. E. Gass, Edgar Mosley, George Mosley, Alva Wilson, Britt Boyd and Earl Lance. Burial was made in West Park Cemetery.

The Rogers family had lived here 26 years, and Mr. Rogers farmed and raised stock until recent years. Surviving are the widow and six children, three boys and three girls.

The children are Mrs. Charles Roberson of Hereford; Mrs. Roy Loyd of Vega; and Mrs. L. E. Stead, Reading, Kansas. Arthur and Roy Rogers of Hereford and Elmer Rogers of Chicago.

Summer Arrives In City Tuesday

Summer arrived in Hereford Tuesday of this week after three weeks of rainy weather and unseasonably low temperatures. But Old Sol beamed down with enough intensity to send the mercury up to summer heights Tuesday and yesterday.

Sunday afternoon's blow, which assumed the aspect of a tornado in some portions of the Panhandle, was just a heavy duster here. It did blow a portion of the Farmers Elevator into the highway on First Street and wreck a windmill for Tom Carroll about a mile west of town, however.

Monday was devoted almost entirely to a dust storm reminiscent of the days before the rains started.

POPULAR STORE OPENS SALE FRIDAY MORNING

The Popular Store is opening a sale Friday morning, observing its fifteenth anniversary of doing business in Hereford, announces Gaston Baer, proprietor.

Mrs. Baer, manager of the women's wear, states that everything in her department is marked down for the sale. Gaston says the men can get unusual bargains.

Bankers Return

Harry Fritz, J. A. Pitman and Dr. T. L. Morgan returned last Saturday from Galveston where they spent several days at the state bankers' convention. They reported heavy rains and difficult travel along the roads all the way from the coast city.

SEEK FEDERAL FUNDS FOR ROAD BUILDING IN TEXAS THIS YEAR

In a determined effort to obtain $100,000,000 for gap-closing on Texas highways before the Centennial and the opening of the Mexico City road, Harry Hines, new chairman of the State Highway Commission, will head a delegation of Texas leaders to Washington in mid-June, he has announced.

His hope is to impress the federal administration with the fact that the building of modern highways in Texas can provide more and better and quicker employment than weed cutting, ditching or many of the other former CWA activities. It can do this, he contends, with minimum waste or abuses, and the result will be useful, permanent, revenue-producing facilities.

Accompanying Chairman Hines to the capital will be the other commissioners, Gibb Gilchrist, the state highway engineer; Col. Ike Ashburn of the Texas Good Roads Association, and envoys from many other groups.

BALL GAME, RODEO AND BARBECUE AND DANCE ON PROGRAM

And old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration with a rodeo, barbecue, ball game, carnival, fireworks and dance is being planned by the American Legion Post, announces Charley Bennett, post commander.

Details are being worked out by committees appointed at last week's meeting. Glen Weir, Frank Gyles, Jimmy Robinson and Gaston Baer are planning the carnival. Truman Hines, Doyle Rose and Miles Robertson are to direct the rodeo.

Homer Fox and Onias Carroll have been appointed to cook up a baseball game that will make the fans happy. While all this is going on, there will be a free barbecue at the city park. Henry Floyd, Prentice Rosson and Bill Smith will take care of this end of the party.

Fireworks in the evening are in the hands of C. C. Rockwell, Cliff Acker, Frank Givan and J. C. Parker. Mace Whitman, Floyd Haeker and Leonard Foster will arrange the dance.

"We have not had a celebration at Hereford on the Fourth of July in recent years," Bennett said. "And we are wanting to put on a party that will entertain everybody."

The committees are hard at work and promise to put on a show that will not soon be forgotten. The barbecue and rodeo will be in the city park or thereabouts, while the ball game will be at the city league field. The dance may be staged on an outdoor platform at the park.

BALLADORS, BALLADETTE TO SING HERE ON JUNE 11

The Balladors and Balladettes choruses of Amarillo College, will sing in Hereford on the evening of June 11, under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's Club. These organizations are becoming widely known throughout the Southwest for their musical achievements.

The concert will be held at the high school auditorium at 8:15 in the evening. Small admission charges will be made.

Job Approved

County commissioners Monday inspected and approved the decorating and remodeling job recently done in the living quarters at the jail by Ollie Fox.

Plan Memorial Service

All Rebekahs and Odd Fellows are asked to meet at the hall at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon for a memorial service. They will go from there to the cemetery to decorate the graves of the war dead and those members of the lodges who have died.

Dewey Reed was in Amarillo Tuesday conferring with wheat officials.

Teachers Will Attend School During Summer

MISS WESTBROOK, MISS M'COWN WILL NOT RETURN IN FALL

A number of the teachers in the public schools will attend various colleges during the summer. West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon and Texas Tech at Lubbock will be favored.

G. M. Hudson, high school principal, Miss Sayde Rigler, and Tommy McCollum will go to Tech. McCollum is to attend the coaching school in addition to teaching summer school here. Misses Edith Shields, Eloyse Pittman, Edna Daughtee and Mary Bradley will be in Canyon all summer, while Ella Alkum and Eunice Rutherford will attend one term there.

Miss Frances Fullingim has returned to her home in Decatur and plans to attend North Texas Teachers College at Denton. Carey Estes has gone to her home in Waxahachie and will go to school, although she had not decided where.

Two high school teachers, Misses Bess Westbrook and Julia McCown, will not return. Miss Westbrook is going into business with her brother in East Texas. Miss McCown has gone to her home at Quitman where she will be married soon.

Stacia Irene Crawford is at her home in Arkansas, near Fayetteville. Mabel Gene Campbell is in Louisiana and will likely attend school. Neville Wrenn is at her home in Memphis. Fern Carlisle and Lillian Chambers have gone to their homes in Dallas and Canyon.

Supt. C. H. Dillehay will likely divide his time between Hereford and Greeley, Colorado, where he plans to attend the state teachers college. B. H. Hopkins is to stay in Hereford most of the summer. Ralph Smith will be in Hereford and Hot Springs, New Mexico, where his family is summering. Misses Gwendolyn Spradley, Thelma McMinn, Katherine Kirby and Ruth Conkright will remain at their homes here.

Misses Tallie and Madeline Bell are going to the University of Colorado at Boulder. Belle Harris will be at her home in Bluffdale, Texas.

A board ruling requires non-degree teachers to attend college one term of six weeks in every three years, and those with degrees one term every five years. Several of those attending this summer are not required to do so.

Engineer Checks Wheat Measuring

Everett McBride, engineer from the district wheat office at Amarillo, is in Deaf Smith county this week checking measurements of wheat tracts. He will go over five per cent of the tracts in the county to check records for accuracy.

County Agent Dewey Reed urges all farmers to have stakes up and visible at the corners of the wheat fields. Tracts to be measured are chosen at random.

Good Crowds At Lectures

R. F. Montgomery, evangelist, reports good crowds attending his lectures nightly at the court house where he is holding a meeting in the district court room. David Miller has been leading brief song services. Tonight's lecture subject will be "Good and Evil Angels; Do People Become Angels at Death?" All services start at 8 o'clock in the evening, and there are services each evening except Saturday.

County Favors Wheat Control In Referendum

VOTE FOR AAA IN DEAF SMITH IS 87 TO 31 SATURDAY

By a vote of almost 30 to 1, Deaf Smith county farmers are in favor of a continued wheat reduction program by the Agricultural Administration. Voting in the nation-wide referendum was completed here last Saturday, with 877 favoring the AAA and 31 opposed.

Both the contract signers and non-signers voted in the election. Thirty contract signers voted against the program, while 790 voted for it; one non-signer opposed, and 87 voted favorably.

According to reports from the office of John R. Edmonds in Amarillo, the state's 76 wheat-producing counties voted overwhelmingly for the program. The ratio was approximately 22 to 1.

The wheat reduction program was started late in 1933 with farmers signing contracts to cooperate and receive cash benefits from processing taxes through the 1935 crop year. These contracts are to expire July 1.

Cash payments to farmers in this county where more than 800 have signed contracts, amounted to almost a quarter million dollars in 1933 and again in 1934. The 1935 payments will be approximately the same.

These benefits, paid on an allowed 441,000 acres, have proved life-savers to wheat farmers because the drought has lowered production to less than seed. This year's crop in the county will amount to less than half enough for seed in the fall, according to estimates.

Undulant Fever Spring Disease

This is the season when an increase in undulant fever cases may be expected, according to Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer. An undulant fever patient complains of warmth and has fever. There may also be chilly sensations or severe shaking chills and sweats. The patient loses weight and feels weak. If illness is of mild type, the patient finds it hard to remain in bed. He tries to keep on with his work but has no pep.

Symptoms often continue for a number of weeks before recovery occurs. Fortunately undulant fever has a low death rate. Body temperature may reach a higher mark each day than before, and then gradually return to normal over a period of several days. Fever may be absent for some days and come back again to act the same way as before, registering higher each day and then gradually going lower. The patient's temperature chart as kept by the nurse in home or hospital may resemble smooth waves or undulations. The appearance of the temperature curve in typical cases has given this disease the name undulant fever. The term Malta fever has been in common use in recent years but the name undulant fever is more accurate.

Undulant fever is one of the infectious disease known to be transmitted from animals to human beings. In cows and hogs, the germ causes a disease of great economic importance known as contagious abortion. When this germ invades the human body, the resulting disease is undulant fever. Prevention is dependent upon (1) eradication of the disease in farm animals, (2) careful pasteurization of dairy products and (3) avoidance, insofar as possible, of direct contact with infected animals.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Garrett and daughter left Tuesday for Oklahoma, where Mr. Garrett has taken a position with the C. H. Anthony Dry Goods Co. Garrett was manager of the Penney Store from the time of its opening here early in 1934 until early last month.

MIDGETS WIN, LOSE BALL GAMES DURING PAST WEEK

(BY HOMER FOX)

Last Thursday afternoon the Midgets whammed the Firemen 12 to 9 in a crazy ball game played in sub-zero weather, and ended in semi-darkness that gave the umpire a real alibi—he really could not see 'em. The Firemen were in the lead to the sixth when the Midgets started the big gun—everybody hit, everybody ran and everybody scored and when the smoke cleared away the kids had eight runs in that frame. The Firemen made two more in the seventh, but it was already too dark and the spark killers couldn't see Baker's fast ones.

The Odd Fellows turned their big guns on the Midgets Tuesday afternoon and beat the kids out 8 to 7 in a close game that went two extra frames. The pitchers had considerable trouble getting the ball by those old, hard, smashing goat herders, and when they hit 'em, boy they kill 'em, and the kids had a lot of trouble on the bases. They got so tangled up in one inning you couldn't tell whether they were playing ball or a piano. Had two men on, the Odds got a double play, so you figure that one out.

The Lions and Firemen will play this afternoon. Next Tuesday the Firemen and OCC will tangle, with the Lions playing the Odd Fellows Thursday.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Section 1, of Article XVII, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Section 1. How the Constitution is to be Amended. The Legislature, at any biennial session, by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each House, to be entered by yeas and nays on the Journals, may propose Amendments to the Constitution, to be voted upon by the qualified electors for members of the Legislature, which proposed Amendments shall be duly published once a week for four (4) weeks, commencing at least three (3) months before an election, the time of which shall be specified by the Legislature, in one weekly newspaper of each county, in which such a newspaper may be published; and it shall be the duty of the several returning officers of said election, to open a poll for, and make returns to the Secretary of State of the number of legal votes cast at said election for and against said Amendments; and if more than one be proposed, then the number of votes cast for and against each of them; and if it shall appear from said returns, that a majority of the votes cast, have been cast in favor of any Amendment, the said Amendment so receiving a majority of the votes cast, shall become a part of this Constitution, and proclamation thereof shall be made by the Governor; provided, however, that in cases of extraordinary emergency affecting the State as a whole, Amendments to the Constitution may be proposed in the manner hereinabove set out upon the submission of the proposed Amendment by the Governor at any Special Session."

Sec 2. The foregoing Amendment shall be submitted to the electors of this State who are qualified to vote on proposed Constitutional Amendments at an election to be held on the 24th day of August A. D. 1935, at which election each ballot shall have printed thereon for those favoring the Amendment the words:

"AGAINST the Amendment to Section 1, Article XVII, of the Constitution of Texas, providing that Amendments to the Constitution may be proposed at Special Sessions of the Legislature under certain conditions." Each voter shall strike out with pen or pencil the clause which does not indicate his desire regarding the above proposed Amendment.

Sec 3. The Governor is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election, and to have the above proposed Amendment published in the manner and for the time required by the Constitution and laws of this state.

Sec 4. The sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00), or as much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay for the expenses of said publication and election.

All over the country branch lines of railroads are being abandoned because they have come to be unprofitable, due to truck competition. In each case the counties affected have appealed to the ruling commission to force the railroad to continue to operate, even at a continuous loss. The inconsistent feature of the demand usually is that practically all of those asking that the railroads be refused permission to discontinue operation do all of their shipping by truck.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE BONUS

Even the severest critic of the President must admit that he has lost none of the courage which characterized the early days of the New Deal. His personal message to Congress when he vetoed the bonus bill last week lacked none of the old-time fire and willingness to face the facts.

And those who most desire payment of the bonus must admit that he answered every argument in logical terms. While members of the House and Senate, it appears, are even now counting votes in the next election, Mr. Roosevelt seems to be the only one who is doing his duty, regardless of how many votes it costs him.

Without rancor or emotion the President stated his reasons for disapproving the Patman Bill. "To argue for this bill as a relief measure," he said, "is to indulge in the fallacy that the welfare of the country can be generally served by extending relief on some basis other than actual deserving need."

He expressed distrust of the bill as an inflationary measure, pointing out the danger of the printing of money. "Wealth is not created," he said, "nor is it more equitably distributed by this method. A government, like an individual, must ultimately meet legitimate obligations out of the production of wealth by labor of human beings applied to the resources of nature. Every country that has attempted the form of meeting its obligations which is here provided has suffered disastrous consequences."

Every appropriation, he pointed out, "has been predicated not on the mere spending of money to hasten recovery, but on the sounder principle of preventing the loss of homes and farms, of saving industry from bankruptcy, of safe-guarding bank deposits, and most important of all—of giving relief and jobs through public works to individuals and families faced with starvation."

And every veteran is forced to agree with his observation that "these greater and broader concerns of the American people have a prior claim for our consideration at this time. They have the right of way."

Through it all the President seems to be one of the very few in Washington who has looked at the thing sanely and without at least one eye on the ballot box.

A LONG TIME AGO IN HEREFORD

(From The Hereford Brand, June 3, 1904.)

Some one had cut the ropes on a tent in which the Seventh Day Adventists were holding a revival. Quoth the editor: "Some unprincipled person or persons, under cover of darkness . . . to show the low and despicable principle which holds sway in some men and controls their actions, cut the ropes which held the tent . . ."

Ranchmen were complaining that gates were being left open.

The city scholastic census showed 280 children of school age in the district.

Thirteen young men and women were in the 1914 graduating class of Hereford High school. They were Gladys Ivey, Bessie Snyder, Jonnie Estes, Anna Garrison, Mary Bourn, Louise Oberthier, Jennie Carter, Madelaine Barnett, Sloan Baker, Benjamin Funk, Calvin Lucas, Hal Fullerton, Edward Price. Superintendent Ben Short (now of Amarillo) was master of ceremonies at the exercises.

By Their Words

AND OURS

And now they're raising a hullabaloo about "where the farmers got the money to go to Washington." If we had had any money at the time the dun committee came around, we might be able to tell you.—A Cracker Crumb, Farwell Tribune.

You used to hear something like this: "The farmer goes ragged when he produces too much cotton. He goes hungry because he produces too much meat." In a sense that was true. When the president heard about that condition, he said: "Well, we will plow up every third row and throw the bogs in the river." And they did. Now look where we landed! If they had killed every third speculator and thrown the profiteers in the river, we would have been a darn sight better off.—Donley County Leader.

All the rains that have been held back during the past year seem to have come down during May. Rivers and streams bulged, some jumping their banks and some wearing away highways and the bridges and railroad tracks. The answer to many a prayer came at a price, but one toward which farmers are more than willing to chip in. One of the remarkable details was reported from Vernon. The water flooding the highway across from the country club lifted a 75-foot piece of pavement and floated it over an embankment, letting it down so gently that not even a crack was made in it.—Childress Index.

Wheat farming is a delightful occupation, whether you are renting your land to the government or waiting for a bumper crop to ripen. Or so it seems on paper. . . . Funny world. Two weeks ago eastern newspaper readers were convinced the Southwest would become a desert. Lately they've been led to believe it will be an inland lake.—Hinkle's Twinkles, in Pampa News.

A relief client was quite irate when he learned that the "spuds" which were being given away as a government commodity were potatoes and not cigarettes.

RATS, LICE AND HISTORY

Plenty of statues have been erected in honor of dead generals but none in honor of a rat or louse. Max Zinsser, bacteriologist, thinks this is all wrong. "Soldiers have rarely won wars. They more often mop up after the barrage of epidemics. Typhus—with its brothers and sisters, plague, cholera, typhoid and dysentery—has decided more campaigns than Caesar, Hannibal, Napoleon and all the other generals of history."

Two examples are the typhus which helped destroy Napoleon's regiments after Moscow, and the tremendous losses in British, French and Russian ranks during the Crimean war. And that epidemics are not yet a matter of medical history may be seen in the cholera, typhus, malaria and dysentery epidemics, along with tuberculosis and syphilis, which ravaged Russia after the war.

Lice thrive on both rats and human beings and it is through them that typhus, particularly, is spread. The Black Death or bubonic plague is but one of many diseases spread by rats. And if you think there aren't many rats any more in our urban sanitary civilization, you are very much mistaken. It is estimated that there is at least one rat for every person in the United States, perhaps two. Each rat destroys at least two dollars worth of property every year.

Dr. Zinsser says that there are still a goodly number among us who are lousy in the strict sense of the word. People as a whole are more sanitary (bath tubs did not come into the United States until 1840) and people wear fewer clothes—which is a distinct hardship on the louse. But where slums and poverty exist, epidemics may always flare up. Typhus for example, flourished along the Eastern Front during the World War. Soldiers picking "cooties" off their clothes, did not realize what death dealing powers these vermin might sometimes contain.

Our Tall Contributor says one reason why he does not have all of his teeth pulled is that he does not want his nose and chin to come any closer.

SNAKES PROTECT APPLES OF OKLAHOMA FARMER

Weatherford, Okla.—Small boys never flich apples from the orchard of Jacob Kroeker near here. Kroeker, who settled here before the turn of the century, likes snakes and set aside the grove as a snake's paradise 35 years ago, adding to his collection whenever he found a roaming reptile.

Sheltered, the snakes have grown unbelievably. A neighbor reported a bullsnake as big around as his leg, basking in the grove.

"They are harmless," Kroeker says, but nevertheless everyone stays away from the grove except Kroeker.

CONSCIENCE BOTHERS THIS AUTO THIEF

S. H. Kaplan of Chicago recently had a surplus automobile, because a thief had a conscience and returned Kaplan's car stolen a month earlier. In the interim, according to the Associated Press, Kaplan had bought another automobile. The stolen machine was returned in good mechanical condition, but with 1,000 additional miles on the speedometer. Kaplan found it parked before his house.

People with nothing else to do but to seek entertainment lead dreary lives.

36,000 Persons Killed In Auto Wrecks In 1934

The worst automobile accident casualty toll ever experienced in the United States was recorded last year when 36,000 persons were killed and nearly a million injured as a result of 882,000 personal injury collisions on the streets and highways.

Although practically two-thirds of the accidents involved driving errors, pedestrians paid the highest price in the loss of life as shown by the death of nearly 16,000, or 44 per cent of the total fatalities.

Detailed statistics giving the circumstances of the accidents as tabulated by the Travelers Insurance Company in its annual analysis show that the country's adverse experience was not due solely to an increase in the use of motor vehicles. Deaths gained 16 per cent, as against an increase of between five and six per cent in registrations and six per cent in gasoline consumption. In this connection the analysis points out that in 1931, the previous high record in deaths, registrations were three per cent greater and gasoline consumption nearly one per cent more than in 1934, while fatalities in 1931 were almost 8 per cent less than last year.

Too much speed for time and place is cited as the dominant factor in the greater seriousness of automobile accidents last year. As an example of the extreme hazard produced by driving too fast, the rate of death per accident because of exceeding the speed limit was 40 per cent worse last year than the average of all accidents involving driving errors. Available records for the year show that 3.10 per cent of the drivers in accidents were declared to have been under the influence of intoxicants, as against 2.43 per cent in 1933, an increase of one-third. The available records also show that 4.47 per cent of the pedestrians in accidents were declared to have been under the influence of intoxicants as against 2.99 per cent in 1933, an increase of 49.5 per cent.

Five out of every eight pedestrians killed, according to the statistics, were involved in accidents while crossing streets in the middle of the block, crossing intersections against signals or diagonally, darting out into streets from behind parked cars, or while walking along rural highways. The rate of death per pedestrian accident was 45 per cent more crossing in the middle of the block than at intersections. The rate of death crossing against signals was 74 per cent worse than crossing with signals.

Nearly 1,500 children under the age of four years were killed and 39,000 were injured in automobile accidents during the year, while 3,800 between the ages of five and fourteen met death and 143,000 were injured.

Despite figures indicating that nine out of ten cars involved in accidents were apparently in good condition, three out of every four cars examined in inspections were found to be in poor or bad mechanical condition. According to the inspections, 29 per cent of the cars required brake replacements or adjustments, tires were in only fair or poor condition on 56 per cent, and lamps required replacement or adjustments in 63 per cent of the cars.

Although 38 per cent of the 882,000 personal injury automobile accidents occurred at street intersections, by far the largest number of deaths resulted from accidents that happened on highways.

The rate of death per accident on highways was more than 100 per cent greater than the average for all accidents combined, the seriousness of such accidents being attributed to the rate of speed that usually prevails. As a further indication that speed is a hazardous factor, it is pointed out that the rate of death per accident between intersections was 52 per cent worse than at intersections.

Accidents on Saturday and Sundays resulted in four out of every ten deaths. The record was the worst on Sundays, however, as the rate of death per accident on that day throughout the year was 18 per cent in excess of the average. On Saturdays the rate of death was only three per cent more than the average.

A most serious aspect of the automobile accident problem that has been in evidence a number of years and which continued to be had last year was the great number of fatal accidents during periods of dusk and darkness. During the year there was not a single one of the twelve normal hours of darkness in which the rate of death per accident was less than during daytime hours. From 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. the normal daytime hours, there were 459,510 automobile accidents in which 15,050 persons were killed, but from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m., the normal hours of darkness, there were 422,490 accidents in which 20,950 persons were killed.

The rate of death per accident was 51.4 per cent more during hours of darkness than during hours of daylight. On the basis of the night time volume of traffic, which is only a fifth of all traffic, the rate of death during darkness was several hundred per cent greater than in daylight.

During the four rush hours of the evening, from 5 to 9 o'clock, deaths exceeded the record of the four rush hours of 6 to 10 in the mornings, by 289 per cent. The hour just before midnight was the most dangerous, as the rate of death per accident for that hour was the highest, 85 per cent greater than the average for all hours combined. The hour between 10 and 11 a. m. was the death per accident was the lowest, almost 33 per cent under the least hazardous, as the rate of average.

Excluding such factors as exposure to traffic hazards and the miles driven, the fatal accident experience of men drivers for the year was 34 per cent greater than for women.

With the exception of drivers past 65 years of age, where the fatal accident experience involves the greater probability of an accident proving serious, the accident record of drivers under 18 years of age was the worst of any age classification. Under that age the fatal accident record was 65 per cent greater than the average, and between 18 and 24 years it was 27 per cent greater. Between 25 and 46 years, the ratio of such drivers in fatal accidents was 11 per cent better than the average.

As an indication that drivers can by careful operation prevent many accidents, the fatal accident record in rainy weather and when snow was falling was better last year than the average for all accidents combined. In clear weather, however, the ratio of fatal accidents to total accidents under such conditions was worse than the average. On wet, snowy and icy road surfaces the fatal accident experience was better than on dry road surfaces, thus supporting the contention that many drivers are put off their guard by apparently safe conditions.

An examination of the automobile accident experience during the year on the basis of direction of travel brings out the importance of drivers' keeping speed under control. Only when the direction of travel was straight ahead was the rate of death per accident greater than the average for all accidents combined. When cars slowing down or stopping, where the element of speed was the least hazardous, the rate of death per accident was the lowest, 60 per cent under the average.

Unbelievable But True

DO YOU KNOW that today—in this highly enlightened world—there are millions of people who never heard of tooth-paste; millions who never saw a fountain pen and wouldn't know what it was for if they saw it; who never tasted ginger ale or owned a flashlight; millions of women who never heard of a permanent; boys and girls who wouldn't know a tennis racket from a basketball!

Unbelievable, but true! And why? Just because in the remote places where these people live there are no newspapers and folks seldom, if ever, see a magazine.

Contrast this with your standards of living—an electric clock on your mantel, an electric refrigerator in your kitchen, a vacuum cleaner, colorful draperies, modish clothing of fine fabrics, foods carefully prepared for you by great manufacturers, shoes and hats in the latest style—and then say a great big "THANK YOU" for advertising.

Without advertising you would be living in a past generation. Listening, open-mouthed, to the stories of some wayfarer with tales of radios, telephones, furniture, cosmetics, silk underthings he has seen in his travels.

Read the advertisements. Always there is something new, always something of interest, always something to save you money, time or trouble.

TWO IRISH WOMEN WIN LIFE

Dublin.—The death sentences of Rose Edwards, 20 years old, and Elizabeth Edwards, 28, convicted in the strange case of "a murder without a body," were commuted today to life imprisonment. The sisters were charged with slaying Elizabeth Edwards' infant. Despite their defense that the authorities had failed to produce the corpus delicti, they were convicted and sentenced to death. The Court of Appeals upheld the verdict and the execution had been set for May 31.

FHA CREDIT EXTENDED TO HOME APPLIANCES

Extension of the credit approval of the Federal Housing Administration to cover loans on household electric refrigerators is expected to prove to be an unusually powerful method to bring advantages of modern food preservation to thousands of additional American homes, according to Urin Streu of the Streu Hardware Co., local Kelvinator dealer.

Pointing out that home owners can now obtain government credit for the purchase of an electric refrigerator with the only consideration being that the refrigerator must be permanently connected with the wiring of the home, Mr. Streu said this single move will do even more than its share in the federal better housing program.

"Apartment owners and home builders have long since learned that electric refrigeration is now demanded by purchasers and tenants and an electric refrigerator is accepted as a standard piece of equipment in any modern property. Home owners can do hardly any other thing to bring their residences up to date than install a good electric refrigerator.

Besides contributing to the value of property, sale or rental basis, electric refrigeration is a safeguard of health, a real economy to the housewife, and takes it places as a constant convenience.

He declared one reason Kelvinator this year is establishing sales records with the marketing of its Twenty-first anniversary line of household models is the fact that people have come to realize the present day unprecedented easy purchase terms have placed this advantage within reach of thousands of people more than ever before. Additional assistance of FHA ruling makes it possible for almost everyone to buy.

Mrs. C. C. Ferguson returned home after a six weeks visit with her daughter, Mrs. Sam H. Reed, Jr., at Lufkin.

HAIR ON MULE TRAPS KENTUCKY MOONSHINERS

An old gray mule gave the tip-off which led to the arrest of a Kentucky still operator recently. The Treasury says it happened this way:

Federal agents observed from the mountain top a still in the foothills of the blue grass mountains. But, intuitively, or otherwise, the moonshiners "lit out" just before the rain, one of them astride a gray mule.

This mule had been shedding. Investigators took samples of the hair, and then traced the mule to a near-by farm. Microscopic examinations showed the hair to belong to one and the same mule. Its owner was arrested.

The school master wrote on the back of a boy's monthly report: "A good worker, but talks too much." The father signed the report and then wrote under the remark of the schoolmaster: "You should meet his mother."
